WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders predicted today that the reciprocal trade extension bill will emerge from conference with the House in a form satisfactory to President Eisenhower.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), who will head the Senate conferees, told a reporter, "I am sure we will work out a bill that will be fully acceptable to the President."

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said the conferees might come up with the full five-year extension asked by the President. If not, he said they surely will agree on four.

Slump In Sales Of Durable Consumer Goods 'Arrested'

By FRANK CORMIER WASHINGTON (AP)—The Commerce Department says the recession slump in sales of autos, appliances and other consumer durables seems to have been substantially arrested.

This appraisal came on the heels of a report by President Eisenhower's economic advisers that the national economy tilted upward in the April-June period for the first time in nearly a year.

GREENSBORO (AP) — How's business? Better in North Carolina than in the rest of the country, says Presley Melton, manager of the Department of Commerce's office here.

Non-farm employment in North Carolina has dropped at only half the rate it has fallen in the country as a whole, Melton said yesterday.

Whiteville's 4-3 win over Gastonia was the tournament's first upset, knocking out the Gastonia team which had won state championships in 1956 and 1957. Lenoir edged past Elizabeth City, 7-5.

This morning's winning teams play again this afternoon, Lenoir meeting Greenville at 3:30 on the East Carolina College diamond and Elizabeth City meeting Lincoln at the same time at Guy Smith Stadium.

Winners of this afternoon's games will meet at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow at Guy Smith Stadium for the state championship. Losers will play at the stadium at 9:30 a.m. for the consolation title.

Tiny Rise For Living Cost Index

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today reported living costs rose in June by less than one-tenth of one per cent to another record. The tiny increase held a promise of a decline later.

The decline may come in the summer or early fall. The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said its index rose to 123.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This means it costs about 24 cents more to buy what could be purchased for a dollar a decade ago.

The June living cost level was 2.9 per cent higher than the same month last year. It was the 20th month the official index has risen to new records in the past 22 months. There has been no decline since August, 1956.

Ewan Clague, labor statistics commissioner, said the June hike was only fractional, about as small as you can get and still have an increase in the index.

Clague said all signs pointed to a modest living cost decline in the next few months, particularly as food items become more plentiful. He said he could not guess whether this would be only temporary or would represent any lasting price decline.

Food prices normally decline in the summertime, when local vegetable crops come in and temporarily cheaper grocery costs for housewives. But other costs have been mounting steadily, despite the recession.

Venezuelan Mob Forces Official To Resign Post

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A demonstration by some 100,000 Venezuelans forced the resignation today of Defense Minister Jesus Maria Castro Leon after he sought to assert political power for the army.

Gen. Castro Leon had served an ultimatum on Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal, president of Venezuela's five-man ruling junta, in what looked like the first step in a plan to oust the government.

Venezuelans regarded the plan as a showdown between the people and the military, which traditionally has ruled this oil-rich nation. Students, professional people and workers assembled in front of the government palace until after midnight in support of the junta which overthrew the military dictatorship of Marcos Jimenez exactly six months ago.

After he resigned, Castro Leon told the tense armed forces in a nationwide broadcast he quit because of "constant worry for the unity of the country."

Larrazabal followed Castro Leon on the radio hookup with a call for the nation to avoid violence and move with the junta toward elected government.

Larrazabal said Castro Leon's resignation was "proof of his patriotism and responsibility as a Venezuelan." The air force chief, Gen. Jose Lopez Henriquez, was named to succeed him as defense minister.

Castro Leon had delivered an ultimatum to Larrazabal demanding press censorship, postponement of the general elections the junta has promised to hold, dissolution of political parties and outlawing of the Communist and leftist Democratic Action parties.

On Monday Castro Leon indirectly accused Democratic Action, the nation's largest political group, of plotting. That same day the party's leader, former President Romulo Betancourt, disappeared and yesterday a dozen armed, uniformed men raided his Caracas home. Betancourt's whereabouts still are unknown.

The two countries long have been feuding, especially since Sudan gained independence Jan. 1, 1956, ending joint British-Egyptian rule. Now they are involved in a new row over damming the waters of the Nile, whose upper reaches are controlled by the Sudanese.

Construction of the 350-person capacity football bleachers are part of a long-range plan to develop the school's athletic facilities. The bleachers will be of concrete construction with six rows of seats. They will be located on the East side of the football field.

Initial Moscow Reaction On UN Meeting: Chilly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moscow objected sharply today to Western suggestions for a U.N. summit meeting to discuss the Middle East crisis, but stopped short of saying Premier Khrushchev would not accept.

The suggestions were made in varying forms yesterday in the Western powers' individual replies to Khrushchev's own suggestion for a five-power summit meeting outside the United Nations.

The initial Moscow reaction came in a commentary by the government newspaper Izvestia, which said that "everyone knows the U.S.A. can rely on a mechanical majority in the Security Council."

The separate notes they sent Khrushchev last night showed that President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain and French Premier Charles de Gaulle themselves were badly divided on the issue of a meeting.

Eisenhower is reluctant to become involved in any kind of session with Khrushchev at this time. His letter strongly indicated, by several toughly worded paragraphs, that he considers the Soviet Communist leader to be behind much of the turmoil and trouble in the Middle East.

But under pressure from Macmillan, Eisenhower told Khrushchev that if a Security Council meeting involving presidents and premiers and foreign ministers "were generally desired, the United States would join in following that orderly procedure."

Administration officials said there was no doubt that if other government chiefs all agreed that they wanted a summit session in the Security Council, the President personally would attend.

Macmillan, under heavy pressure from the opposition British Labor party to go to a summit conference, was much stronger in his commitment. He told Khrushchev, "I would certainly be ready to attend such a meeting if you would also go and I take it from the terms of your (July 19) message that you would."

It was in that message that Khrushchev suggested an emergency summit meeting at Geneva or elsewhere of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and India.

De Gaulle followed a quite different line. He emphasized that he accepts the principle of a summit conference but he said the United Nations lacks the calm atmosphere France desires for a conference. He asked that it be set at another time and place while the Security Council with its normal membership continues to seek a solution for the Middle East crisis.

The plan, which will utilize all mobile shortwave communications facilities in the county, will be checked in the near future, according to county CD Director J. H. Rose. The test will be under conditions simulating a complete knock-out of local power facilities.

Rose also announced that the county's Civil Defense warning system will be checked each Saturday at noon, beginning this Saturday. The test will be one long blast.

Khrushchev Decision As To UN Meeting Is Awaited

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The next step in the Middle East crisis depends on whether Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev accepts the challenge to a summit meeting in the U.N. Security Council.

Khrushchev today presumably was making up his mind whether to insist on his own plan for a five-power summit meeting apart from the U.N., or agree to the suggestions of President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan for the high-level meeting here.

Moscow dispatches said many diplomats there believed the Soviet leader would accept the Eisenhower-Macmillan suggestion though he might not like the setup.

But an article in Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, which apparently was written before Khrushchev's decision, said he would not accept the challenge to a summit meeting in the U.N. Security Council.

The official Soviet news agency Tass distributed a report of the Izvestia article saying that "the United States rulers are seeking a suitable way to avoid," Khrushchev's proposal.

"Dealing with the report on the plans to call a top-level meeting of the Security Council, the article inquires what simpletons do the American politicians think they are dealing with?" Tass said.

"It is common knowledge that the United States wields a mechanical majority in the Security Council. Does the United States really think that someone will agree to discuss cardinal international problems with Chiang Kai-shek (of Nationalist China) who holds a place in the Security Council thanks to his American patrons?"

The article said the West was taking an "irresponsible gamble, disregarding the fact that delay in the settlement of the armed conflict in the Middle East may bring about a terrible catastrophe."

Western observers in Moscow said Khrushchev and his aides probably would do some deep soul searching before making a decision. They believed Khrushchev might find it difficult to reject the U.N. summit idea in view of his original offer to go anywhere for a meeting.

The Soviet leader's fondness for setting precedents might also affect his decision, it was said in Moscow.

The Security Council adjourned indefinitely last night after a second Soviet veto in four days blocked resolutions aimed at setting up conditions for American troop withdrawal from Lebanon.

The adjournment was taken to await the outcome of negotiations for a summit meeting, and the implementation of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's plan to reinforce the U.N. observer corps in Lebanon.

Hammarskjold indicated he would ask U.N. members for more men to build up the observer group so they might make it possible for the United States to withdraw its 10,000 troops from Lebanon.

"I shall use all opportunities offered to the secretary general... to help," and develop the group "so as to give it all the significance it can have," he told the Council. "You will forgive me for not being able to spell out, at this moment, what it may mean beyond that."

The 85th Soviet veto defeated a Japanese resolution calling on the U.N. to make possible the withdrawal of United States forces from Lebanon" by arranging to protect that country's territorial integrity and political independence.

This protection was the purpose Washington announced for landing Marines in Lebanon July 15, the day after the Iraqi monarchy was overthrown by supporters of President Nasser. Nasser opposes the pro-Western Lebanese government.

The Japanese resolution was interpreted as calling for strengthening of the 135-man observer group which the Council assigned June 11 to insure against intervention in the Lebanese revolt by Nasser's United Arab Republic. All the Council members except the Soviet Union voted for it, and Hammarskjold then said he would enlarge the group anyway.

U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge told reporters he thought that Hammarskjold's announcement very helpful. He added that the secretary general's action could bring about conditions under which the United States, after consulting Hammarskjold and Lebanon, would withdraw its troops.

Sir Pierson Dixon of Britain also said Hammarskjold's plan should help.

Khrushchev told reporters at a reception in Moscow last night that the United States and Britain must show wisdom and understanding of the times and pull their troops out of Lebanon and Jordan. "Otherwise they will be crushed by the force of Arab nationalism," he said.

Plan Pitt Radio Network At CD Meeting Here

Plans for an "umbrella system" of radio communications for Pitt County were set up last night at a meeting of county civil defense personnel.

The plan, which will utilize all mobile shortwave communications facilities in the county, will be checked in the near future, according to county CD Director J. H. Rose. The test will be under conditions simulating a complete knock-out of local power facilities.

Budgetary Group At Tryon Palace

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — The touring Advisory Budget Commission today got a look at restored Tryon Palace.

Gov. Hodges accompanied commission members on the visit to the historic structure, once the seat of government for colonial North Carolina.

The budget group arrived here after a stop at the State Training School for Negro Girls at Kingston. After the Tryon Palace visit, Gov. Hodges was to fly back to Raleigh.

During the afternoon, the Budget Commission journeyed to Morehead City for visits to ports facilities and commercial fisheries offices there.

The commission is nearing the end of its tour of state institutions, made every two years to gather requests for permanent improvements. Information collected will be studied in preparing a budget to recommend to the next Legislature.

Wilson, Goldsboro and Kingston were stops on the tour yesterday. At Caswell Training School in Kingston, the commission heard requests for slightly more than $600,000 in capital improvements. The major project was a multi-purpose training and educational building to cost $300,000.

Caswell also put in a bid for a $275,000 sewage disposal plant, which school officials said is needed to meet standards set by the State Street Sanitation Committee.

State Hospital at Goldsboro presented requests for $2,600,000. Eight major items were listed for the Negro mental hospital, which includes a training school for feeble-minded children and a first offenders camp.

The major item was $1,800,000 for a hospital and administration building.

At the Eastern North Carolina Tuberculosis Sanatorium in Wilsonton, the budget group was told no permanent improvements are needed during the coming two fiscal years.

Older Women Getting Younger

By DOROTHY ROE AP Women's Editor

Older women are getting younger all the time, says Dr. Winifred G. Helmes, who works on the womanpower program for the U.S. Department of Labor.

When I speak of older women, I mean those who want to go back to work after their children are big enough to look out for themselves," she says.

Now that girls are getting married so much younger, many after raising their families, may be ready to go back to work at the age of 35. When you look at some of our most glamorous movie stars, you will agree that 35 is not old, or even middle aged. But a woman who has been out of the business world for 15 years faces the same problems in returning, at any age."

Dr. Helmes was in New York to act as moderator in a panel discussion on womanpower at the recent convention of Zonta International, attended by some 2,000 women executives from all over the world.

The greatest demand for women workers," continued Dr. Helmes is in nursing, teaching and secretarial work. Any woman who is trained in any of these fields can practically write her own ticket. She can have full or part-time work. She can fit the job into her personal schedule."

Dr. Helmes is deeply interested in the program of getting mature women back into paying jobs.

There's still another field that offers both the greatest need and the greatest opportunity for the woman of mature years, whose children are grown and whose life has been spent at homemaking and raising children," she said. Such a woman could start a whole new life as housekeeper for a family — and there are many desperately in need of just such a substitute mother."

Hot Cross Muffins For Cooks

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
NOTE TO NEW COOKS: Making a batch of Hot Cross Muffins is a simple procedure that will give you the satisfaction of baking with yeast. For these muffins we resurrected the idea of adding a package of yeast to some prepared biscuit mix—a basic quick recipe popular some years ago because no kneading is required. The addition of a little sugar, dried currants and glazed fruit (if it's on hand), plus the traditional frosting produces a bread that's light in texture and brown and crusty on the outside.

HOT CROSS MUFFINS
Ingredients: 3-4 cup plus 2 table-spoons warm (105 degrees) water, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 package active dry yeast, 2 1/2 cups prepared biscuit mix, 1-3 cup dried currants (rinsed in hot water and drained), 2 tablespoons finely diced glazed fruit (if desired), 1/2 cup sifted confectioners sugar, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla, 1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons cold water.

Method: Put the warm water in a medium-sized mixing bowl; add sugar and yeast; stir until every grain of yeast is dissolved. Add biscuit mix, currants and (if used) glazed fruit. Beat with a spoon until well mixed. Spoon into buttered muffin cups, filling them about two-thirds full. Let stand in a warm place, free from draft, about 1 hour. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven about 25 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Mix until smooth the confectioners sugar, vanilla and enough cold water to make a rather thick consistency. With a small spoon mark a cross on each muffin with the frosting. (Experienced cooks may wish to use decorating frosting in a decorating tube to mark crosses.) Makes 12 medium-sized muffins.

Note: You may use this method for letting the dough rise in a "warm place, free from draft." Place the dough-filled muffin cups on a middle or top rack in the unlighted oven; on the rack below place a roasting pan filled with boiling water. In about 20 minutes or so, when the water will be cool, empty the pan; refill it with boiling water and replace it in the oven. Take both pans out of the oven when you have to turn it on to preheat it for baking. Cover the dough in the muffin cups with a tea towel and place it near the range (out of a draft) so it will keep warm until the oven is the correct temperature.

Summer Fun Free For All

By VIVIAN BROWN
Associated Press Beauty Editor
Summer parties can be less formal and less expensive than winter shindigs. A lawn party is fun and expenses can be kept to a minimum, even if the folks let you have a couple of members of a band for dancing. It gives the crowd a chance to get all dressed up in their dance clothes.

A beach party is lots of fun too, and the whole crowd can supply cooking talent, even if you foot the bill for the goodies. A fun game is Luta De Galho, the chicken fight, a Brazilian teenage game, ideal for the beach. Two players may pit themselves against each other, or a group may be divided into teams. Handkerchiefs are placed in the belts of boys and girls. Arms are kept folded tightly across the breast. They hop about on their right foot, without touching left foot to the ground. The left arm may be used to wrest handkerchief from the belt of their opponent, who tries to ward off the blow with the right elbow without unbending the arm. Any player whose right arm unbends or who touches his left foot to the ground is disqualified.

Red hot potato chips may be added to the usual beach fare of toasted hot dogs, hamburgers, corn or what have you. Take a 7 oz. bag of potato chips, 3 tablespoons of butter, 2 cloves of garlic minced fine, or crushed, 1 tablespoon of paprika, 1-4 teaspoon cayenne pepper. Melt butter with seasonings and pour it into the bag of potato chips. Shake the whole thing gently without breaking the chips, but thoroughly enough to coat them all with butter. A more painstaking way is to coat them with the pastry brush lightly, and return them to the bag for their trip beachward.

These same hot chips make good fare for an impromptu porch party. Serve them with small bowls of extra trimmings such as anchovy fillets, small Norwegian sardines, chopped scallions or very thin slices of pepperoni, the hard hot little Italian sausage that you get at meat counters or delicatessen stores. You can jazz up potato chips in the oven too by sprinkling cheese over them or spoonfuls of pizza sauce.

A good food idea for a lawn party may be a Chinese menu. It may be prepared in advance, and heated up at the last minute, saving the hostess time. The rice may be cooked up in a couple of minutes.

A good game, even for a dress-up party, may be a chopstick race. Each guest places a small bowl of rice on a napkin, and at a signal starts eating. The one who empties his bowl without spilling the rice, or spills less than anyone else wins a prize. A Chinese carving, a picture or a pair of chopsticks make good prizes.

Real Borge 'Floor Show' Occurs Nightly At Home

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Do you act like an animal trainer around your child's play pen? If so, lay down that whip, you're just a big coward, in the opinion of comedian Victor Borge, father of five.

"Why spank a small child, who doesn't know the difference between right and wrong?" he asks. "He'll do the same naughty trick again, because he doesn't understand why he shouldn't."

Borge's formula for father-child happiness includes playing with the children. He doesn't charm them with his violin or a magic flute. He gets down to their level—right on the floor, rolling around with his two youngest, Veebee, 3 1/2, and Rikki, 2, in what he describes as the "Real Borge Floor Show."

"You see," he explains, panting and touselled, while the children still have him pinned to the floorboards, "I'll take less out of you than spanking them anyway, always harder on the parent." (His method of appeasement looks hard on a good back. Borge has a bad one.)

Parents are always telling children to "go away and leave me alone," especially after they give them a present like a book or a game, hoping they'll "get lost," he continues. "That's the very time you should sit down happily and engage in the new fun, at least for a little while. After that they'll be content on their own, probably."

Save your spanking strength until your youngsters grow up, he advises. Then they'll respect it, even though it may seem "an undignified way to get your point across."

Borge, his lovely wife Sanna, and three of their five children live in Southbury, Conn., on 500-acre Vibo Farm, where he raises his famous Rock Cornish game hens. The family, including the older children, Sanna, Janet, and Ronald, spend summers at a castle in Denmark owned by Borge. But there are times in between when Borge is on the road with his one-man show. Of these trips, he says:

"I always regret them when the time comes, especially when I look back and see all the little noses pressed against the window pane, watching me go. It is heart-breaking."

Children are to love, he says, and parents should remember it. "But who knows if he is a good father?" Borge shrugs. "You can't tell really until the children are grown. Then, for all we know, perhaps it was mother who really influenced them for the better. It usually is."

New Packaging Methods Can Be Hazardous

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Modern packaging is all very well, but it has its hazards.

Consider, for instance, the number of products that now come in spray cans, all of similar size and shape. This is the sort of thing that can happen, if a girl doesn't watch her step:

I was doing a quick makeup job in the office the other evening before going out to dinner. I reached in my desk drawer for the can of hair spray, and sprayed. Before my horrified eyes I saw my normally black hair turn bright gold. I looked at the can. It was metallic gold paint, recommended for radiators.

I rushed to the art department for help. A sympathetic art director applied a solvent to my rapidly stiffening golden locks.

Since we acted quickly, most of the gold came out, without damage to the hair. But as he dabbed at my hair with a piece of cotton our art director said: "Funny thing. Almost the same thing happened to my wife this morning. Only she got hold of a can of pine oil disinfectant instead of the hair spray."

SKILLET CHICKEN

Ingredients: 1 broiler-fryer (2 to 2 1/2 pounds ready-to-cook weight), 2 tablespoons olive oil, 1 tablespoon butter, 3 medium-sized onions (cut thin and separated into rings), 2 teaspoons all-purpose seasoning salt, 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt, 1-3 cup chicken stock.

Method: Have chicken cut into 12 pieces. Make stock from the bony backs, wing tips, neck and giblets using 3-4 cup water, a few peppercorns and allspice, a bay leaf, a few slices of carrot and onion. Reserve breast for another meal; brown remaining chicken pieces in hot olive oil and butter in 10-inch skillet. Sprinkle with onion rings, seasoned salt and garlic salt. Add 1-3 cup strained stock; cover tightly and cook until tender—20 to 30 minutes. Makes 2 large servings.

FAMILY FLOOR SHOW—Victor Borge believes in reaching children on their own level, and sometimes winds up even lower than that. Affection, he says, has better results than spankings.

When Aiding Weaker Countries—

Tourism, Foreign Relations Linked

In this period of crisis in which international friendships are of utmost importance to every nation, it should be evident to the United States that it has failed to capitalize as it should on an important asset in international relations.

The United States has more citizens traveling outside its own boundaries than any other nation in the world. American tourists by the hundreds of thousands are traveling abroad every year to every section of the globe and into almost every country of the world.

This endless stream of unofficial representatives of the American people and the American government is making an important impression upon the people of other countries. The big question is whether the impression is favorable or unfavorable to the United States?

Are these American tourists making the contribution they might toward gaining foreign friendship for the United States, or are they alienating U. S. friendship with the peoples of other nations?

The average American tourist probably has only a vague understanding of the manners and customs which prevail in the countries he visits. As a result he naturally assumes the customs and standards which are acceptable at home are likewise those which prevail abroad. In many instances this assumption can lead only to resentment on the part of people of other nations toward American tourists.

Then too, Americans are innately proud of the system of free enterprise and economic wealth in which they live. They are boastful about the vigorous economy of the United States and the things that such an economy produces. Such boasting—which is accepted as a part of American character—often alienates the friendships foreigners have for American tourists.

What an important asset it would be to the United States if its tourists knew more about the peoples and countries they would visit abroad. What an important contribution American tourists could make to better understanding of the United States and friendship toward the United States if they had a more sympathetic understanding of problems faced by the average citizen of foreign countries.

It seems to us the colleges and universities of this country could make a genuine contribution toward the end of building American friendship abroad by offering adult education courses specifically designed for prospective tourists. It is our guess the prospective tourist would jump at the chance to participate in such courses, for obviously they would make for a much more enjoyable trip abroad. At the same time information received from such courses would enable the average American tourist to leave a better impression upon the people of foreign nations with whom he came in contact.

People-to-people contact between citizens of various nations is becoming increasingly important in the prolonged cold war between East and West. By the sheer weight of numbers of its tourists who travel abroad, the United States should have a distinct advantage in this particular field. By failing to utilize this army of unofficial ambassadors, the United States is missing a good bet to improve its international relations.

A New Political Star Going Up?

By LYNN NISBET

NEW STAR — Astute observers of the political scene think perhaps a new star is rising above the horizon. Robert Scott, youngest son of the late Governor and Senator Kerr Scott, is making like a fellow with political ambitions backed by some inherited political acumen.

When the late Senator requested in his will that Robert continue operation of the large farm at Haw River, he might have had in mind continuation of other activities. Lately Robert has been making speeches at rural gatherings and reports are that he talks very much like his daddy with perhaps a bit more polish. He made a bit at a Roberson county cooperatives meeting the other night—and stayed around for some time afterward to discuss economic and political issues with the farmers.

There has been some wangling for leadership of the so-called Scott faction since the Senator's death, and a good deal of speculation as to who would emerge as the generally accepted leader—or whether the rather loosely formed "organization" would disintegrate. Terry Sanford of Fayetteville, who managed the Scott senatorial campaign in 1954, has been identified as a candidate for Governor for more than a year. He has large following, but is not entirely acceptable to all the branch head boys who made up the bulk of the Scott support. To date no other candidate from that group has gained any headway.

Also the Scott segment is looking for a candidate for the United States Senate for the full term beginning in 1961. Dr. Henry Jordan, who earlier had been talked for both Governor and Senator is thought to be out of the picture now, by reason of the appointment of his brother, Everett Jordan, to the Senate by Governor Hodges.

CANDIDATES — Despite Senator Jordan's declaration that he expects to seek re-election in 1960, a great many people believe he will retire and that Governor Hodges will be a candidate. Lately there has been revival of talk that Alton Lennon of Wilmington is looking for another crack at the Senate seat. He was appointed to the Senate upon the death of Willis Smith, was defeated in the primary by Kerr Scott in 1954, then came back to win the 7th district seat in the House of Representatives in 1956 and again in 1958. Indications are that if he gets into the Senate race he will have large support from the faction which fought him so bitterly four years ago.

The situation is that the so-called conservative element is fixed for senatorial candidates—either Jordan or Hodges; but has no definite prospect for the governorship. The liberal segment has an avowed candidate for Governor in Terry Sanford, but no assured entry for the Senate. DEVELOPMENTS — Men experienced in the field of practical politics generally seem to think that forecasts are unsafe and unwise until the next General assembly has set its course—perhaps until after its adjournment next summer. Legislative developments, particularly in taxation, will depend to considerable extent upon world economy—and that will be largely influenced by events in the eastern Mediterranean area and their residuary effects on world peace.

The Legislature may be more directly affected by in-state politics. Indications are that the contest for speakership in the House and president pro tem in the Senate will both go to a showdown vote — the first time that has happened in many years—unless some fast manipulation changes the picture within the next six months.

LEGISLATURE — Avowed candidates for the speakership are Addison Hewlett of New Hanover and Carl Venters of Onslow. Contenders for the Senate presidency are C. V. Henkel of Iredell and Robert F. Morgan of Cleveland. None of the four has ever been identified with the Scott faction. Hewlett and Venters both loyally supported the administration program in 1955 and 1957. Despite declaration of absolute neutrality by Governor Hodges, impression is general that he prefers Venters for Speaker. Representatives-designate are pretty well divided without regard to administration loyalty, but most of the non-legislative State officials seem inclined toward Venters—and they can have influence on members, especially first terms.

The lines are somewhat more clearly drawn in the Senate race. Both Morgan and Henkel gave all-out support to the administration program in 1955, but there was almost an open break between the Governor and Henkel in 1957. It is known that administration officials were active in opposing Henkel's renomination in the recent primary.

Both Hewlett and Venters claim enough of what they regard as positive commitments to assure election. Obviously, both cannot be right. Latest reports are that Henkel and Morgan each has 18 or 20 commitments of the necessary 26, and both are working on the uncommitted senators.

Importance of the speakership lies in the fact that presiding officer will appoint all House committees. The Senate president pro tem has little real power, but traditionally he is chairman of the rules committee and ex-officio voting member of every other committee in the Senate. Furthermore, he is second in line of succession in event of vacancies in the office of Governor for any reason.

A Few Months Ago It Was Cold, Cold, Cold

Just for the sake of contrast turn your mind back a few months.

Think back to the days of January and February... the days when cold rains were pounding Pitt County. The days when the temperature didn't climb above freezing and the nights saw the mercury sag below 20 degrees.

Think back to the coldest winter Pitt has witnessed in many a year. They were the months when the oil bills ran high, the kids couldn't get outdoors and play, and even Mama was reluctant to face the cutting winds for her weekly jaunt to the super market.

Remember those days? Were you one of the many people in Pitt who during those frigid days solemnly vowed: "No matter how hot it gets next Summer I won't complain!" Well... Have you?

Easy To Get In, Hard To Get Out

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost from the moment President Eisenhower sent American troops into Lebanon his action has raised questions which may seem unpleasing to think about, but which nevertheless must be faced.

For example: Now that we're in Lebanon, when do we get out and how?

The President's action — widely supported in this country but far from widely supported around the world — was taken at the request of Lebanese President Chamoun, who said he feared violent, subversive overthrow of his government.

But even in Lebanon there was far from general approval of Chamoun's request or Eisenhower's action.

The quick landing of Marines July 15 may have prevented the violent overthrow Chamoun said he feared. But it also antagonized the rest of the Arab world and provided the Soviet Union with anti-American propaganda. And the United States may wind up in a truly embarrassing position before this is over.

In the first place, the 66-member Lebanese Parliament is scheduled to elect a successor to President Chamoun Thursday. Chamoun's term does not officially expire until Sept. 23.

If the election is held, Chamoun probably will serve out his term. So long as he is in office, there will be an excuse for the presence of American troops in Lebanon.

But if his successor is chosen in legal and orderly fashion Thursday and asks the United States to withdraw, this country will find itself in an almost untenable position, and would have little choice but to withdraw once Chamoun stepped down.

In the second place: if the question of American troops in Lebanon goes before the United Nations General Assembly, many of the African, Asian and Arab nations may in effect repudiate the American intervention.

But on top of all these problems is this crowning one: True, the United States forces in Lebanon — where Chamoun is pro-Western — may have prevented the hopes of Egyptian President Nasser to bring Lebanon under his wing.

But the tide of Arab nationalism in the Middle East is at crest now. And what happens when the American troops are withdrawn? There is a good chance Lebanon will join the Nasser camp and all this action will have been for naught in the long run except for this possible effect:

That it did show that the United States, when pushed hard enough, would act in defiance of Moscow or any revolutionary force to back its friends.

The questions applying to the United States position in the Middle East now apply equally to the British, whose troops have gone into Jordan at the request of King Hussein to save his government from violent overthrow. The British can hardly hope to stay there indefinitely. Hussein has now openly broken with Nasser. But what happens to Hussein when the British withdraw — next week, next month, next year?

No Use Unless Polite

By KENNETH ISHII

TOKYO (AP)—Walk into any big Japanese department store and you'll hear the same refrain—in Japanese, of course—with almost monotonous repetition:

"Thank you for so frequently honoring our store with your presence."

The translation may be somewhat literal, but it is symptomatic of a politeness campaign that makes the Western rule of the customer always being right elementary by comparison.

At one of Japan's best-known stores — Mitsukoshi — customer service extends beyond working hours.

The management has informed its staff: "If, while riding public transportation, you see a person carrying a wrapped package bearing the marking of the store, give that person your seat, or offer to carry the package that person is carrying."

And if an employee is clumsy enough to have his or her foot stepped on by an unheeding customer, it is the employee who must apologize for being so careless.

Other rules provide that: An employee must never walk between a customer and the goods that customer may be looking at.

An employee must never overtake a customer walking through the store. The employee must take another route.

Another major store tells new salesmen and sales girls that a customer never window shops. He is making a preliminary inspection.

In Japan it is entirely permissible, and expected, for customers to roam through stores and examine merchandise for as long as they please — and leave without making a single purchase.

And even the most frustrating customer gets the same refrain: "Thank you for so frequently honoring our store with your presence."

It comes from the elevator operator, the escalator attendant and precedes all announcements on the store's public address system.

Stores take the politeness drive in earnest for they know it affects sales. One personnel manager reportedly told a group of recruits: "We'll have to first make ladies and gentlemen out of you before you are of any use."

Starting salaries for high school graduates is around $22 a month, for college grads about $30.

Good Timing For Item

North Carolina's Advisory Budget Commission couldn't have timed its visit to East Carolina College any better for the college to get sympathy with at least one of its requests.

The commission rolled onto the campus Monday afternoon, in the midst of the fierce heat of the day. Each of the members was quick to remove his coat, have lunch and begin hearing the college's requests for funds to carry out permanent improvements.

Included in the requests listed by Dr. John D. Messick, president of ECC, was one for $72,000 to finance air-conditioning for Joyner Library. Dr. Messick, with perspiration running through his limp shirt, held forth on the subject for a while.

He allowed as how air-conditioning for the library would attract more summer school students who are now reluctant to try to study in Greenville's summer humidity. He also said the air-conditioning would result in better work because of more comfortable surroundings.

Members of the commission, with the sweat patches showing on their own shirts, nodded their agreement that it might be a good idea.

One member, who had a pencil in one hand and a sweat-soaked handkerchief in the other, leaned toward a colleague and mumbled: "Why the hell can't we find enough money to let 'em air-condition this room at least."

"It was this hot in here two years ago." While a single large fan droned in the background and stirred the air only slightly above their heads, commission members sat strangely quiet while ECC vice-president F. D. Duncan recited figures showing East Carolina's phenomenal growth.

Duncan told the group that in the years since the 1940-1941 school year, East Carolina's enrollment has increased 144 per cent. During the same period, he said, the rate of growth for all state-supported schools, including East Carolina, has been 65 per cent.

The vice-president and business manager also pointed out that East Carolina's enrollment has more than doubled since 1950, last big year of the World War II G. I. Bill era. That means, he said, that ECC has picked up an additional 2,000 students in the past eight years.

In response to a question, Duncan and other college officials estimated that 75 per cent of ECC's students are from counties

East of Raleigh. The number from the Piedmont and Mountain sections is increasing, and one commission member laughed that ECC's influence has invaded Cullowhee, stronghold of Western Carolina College.

The commission member said that one of the state's exceptionally bright young children who was enrolled in a special class at West Carolina this summer was questioned about the merits of spending some state money for more of the special classes.

According to the story, the little girl replied, "I think it's a good idea, but it seems to me that if you're going to spend that much money, you ought to spend it at East Carolina."

Other Editors Saying... Some Solution Needed

(Washington Daily News)

It looks now as if school officials sooner or later must step in and help work out some system regarding School Annuals.

Merchants are called upon each year to finance these Annuals through advertising. And the matter is now almost out of hand. Each school class is trying to outdo the previous year's class, and as a result, the merchants are being called upon to help finance an ever increasing proposition.

Already some schools are sending students out to solicit the Annual ads. Last year approximately 20 schools, sought ads in Washington. Most of the schools have now placed a five dollar minimum ad, and that means that those merchants who really want to help out all these schools could be called upon for $100 each year.

Some of the Annuals are really getting fancy. We've seen cushioned covers, which are very expensive. The art work in some of them is amazing. We can well understand why boys and girls want these Annuals. They mean a lot to them over the years. But if we get too impractical in planning for them, then we'll be in a position of cutting off the hand that feeds us.

School invitations, we understand, were bought out of Beaufort county by all our schools last year. We are told that they could have been bought here at home for a much cheaper price than was paid outside. If it is true that not one school bought these invitations here at home last year, then it does seem that something is wrong.

Where possible and practical, all purchases should be made here at home, particularly with the merchants who make these Annuals possible. If schools are going to call upon the local merchants in Beaufort county to support the Annuals, then the schools should see to it that invitations and any other items which can be bought locally are purchased here.

The Chamber of Commerce is now looking into the matter with the view in mind of trying to work out some practical solution whereby the schools can be helped without the individual merchant being hit too hard. We hope something can be worked out satisfactorily.

School officials all over the area should sit down and discuss the matter. It is far more serious than most people realize. It is our opinion that the Annuals could be just as good with more simplicity practiced. It is also our opinion that most of our merchants want to help all these schools as much as is practically possible.

It is only natural for school youngsters to want the Annuals. We need to realize that fact and to appreciate it. In reality, it might be an individual matter with each merchant to do as he pleases in regard to placing ads in the books.

Cooperation should be extended all the way — both from the merchants to the schools and from the schools to the merchants.

Latin American Orders Needed

By ELMER ROESSNER

Dr. Milton Eisenhower may be winning friends for the United States in Latin America but what we really need is more orders for goods.

From two sources come warnings that we are in danger of losing a large part of our trade south of the border.

The Chase Manhattan Bank, in its quarterly review, "Latin American Business Highlights," points out that while Communist nations have only a small part of the Latin-American trade, their sales have been increasing steadily since 1952.

"Vision" reports that Western European nations are advancing their efforts to get a bigger share of Latin-American business.

POLITICAL DANGERS — The New York bank says that from Curtin countries this year may export $160,000,000 worth of goods to Latin America, an increase of 30 per cent over 1957. At the same time they may buy $100,000,000 worth of Latin American products, an increase of 20 per cent.

Three factors are bringing this about, the bank points out. They are:

1. The weakness of Western commodity markets — notably for coffee, tin, copper — is compelling the Latin-American republics to seek other buyers.

2. Latin America produces some raw materials that are in short supply on the other side of that curtain.

3. The Communist nations are using trade to gain positions for political penetration.

The Red bloc sales are still small compared to those of the U. S. The Soviets exported $191,000,000 worth of goods in 1956, contrasted with $3,799,000,000 from the U. S. But there is both significance and danger in the fact that Soviet bloc sales have been rising at an average of about 40 per cent a year.

FAIRS, PLANES, MACHINERY — Vision magazine, in a roundup of current activity, notes that an all-British trade exhibit will open in Caracas, Venezuela, in October. Emphasis will be on heavy industry equipment, machine tools and quality textiles.

Rolls-Royce, it adds, is waging a campaign in Latin America to sell plane engines. By 1960 it hopes to have 150 jet and turbo prop engines in service, plus repair and test bases.

A French company is financing the development of a huge coal field in southern Argentina; a German company is installing a steel works and a rolling mill in that country. An Italian company is pushing a light fighter plane at about half the cost of competitive planes.

The visit of Vice President Nixon painfully dramatized the fact that we had lost touch with a great people to the South. Visits by government big-shots can help remedy the situation, but it will never be cured until American business creates large areas of friendly and mutual self-interest. We have to be good customers and we have to be good suppliers.

TELEVISION'S OWN DATA TURNED AGAINST IT — Using figures compiled by a television network, the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association has advanced the claim that newspaper advertising is cheaper than night-time spot television advertising.

Using figures compiled by CBS-TV and "Sponsor" magazine, the Bureau calculated the cost of 1,000 "delivered" advertising spots for newspapers at $2.79 and the cost of "delivered" spot commercial impressions at $3.91.

A 'Man Of Peace' Calls For Murder

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
NABLUS, Jordan (AP)—Gamal Abdel Nasser proclaimed himself a man of peace yesterday—and virtually called for the assassination of King Hussein of Jordan. It is the first time Nasser personally has suggested assassination for the Jordanian King, although his "Voice of the Arabs" propaganda radio station has done so often.

The President of the United Arab Republic, in his annual Egyptian Independence Day speech, called expressly on the people of Jerusalem, Nablus and Ramallah the main Palestinian towns in Jordan — to heed his words.

Nasser pointedly referred to the late King Abdullah, Hussein's grandfather, and to the year 1951 in which Abdullah was assassinated by Arab Palestinians. He accused Hussein of following in his grandfather's footsteps by calling on Britain for aid.

Nasser's suggestion, however indirect, could not possibly be lost on his hearers—Hussein is in line for his grandfather's fate.

"We call for peace and we make every effort to strengthen this peace," said Nasser. But there was no hint of compromise in his assertion that "the British armed aggression against Jordan will be defeated — the American armed aggression against Lebanon will be defeated."

Should Nasser call now for discussions on the Lebanese and other Middle East problems, the West might be justified in considering he is seeking only breathing space in which to prepare for his next assault.

The signal may be some time in coming.

Nasser's speech indicated he is interested first in getting the Americans out of Lebanon, then pushing that country into his so-called "liberated Arab" bloc. The tone of his speech gave the impression he does not want to bite off too much at one time. He still must digest the situation in Iraq, and still must deal with the situation he created in Lebanon which brought American intervention. It begins to look as if it will be a long time before the Americans and British can withdraw troops from the Middle East. The withdrawal might be a signal for a new Nasser assault.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Federal Reserve Plays Big Role In Securities

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Re-entry of the Federal Reserve Board into the long-term U. S. bond market throws the spotlight today on a small but influential group that deals in government securities.

It is one of the biggest financial markets in the world. Deals, often involving millions of dollars, are usually made over the phone.

Deals can be made on small margins, allowing speculators in now and then. And the market operations, while not under the direct control of the Federal Reserve, are easily and almost constantly influenced by the Central Bank, normally the market's biggest buyer and seller. From now on the influence will be more marked.

Your Savings Bonds aren't involved. You can redeem them at the U. S. Treasury but you can't sell them to any other person and they can't be traded or influenced in any way by the government securities dealers.

But there are some 167 billion dollars in U. S. securities today that are marketable.

The Federal Reserve since 1952 has been buying or selling only the short-term securities—such as the 91-day U. S. Treasury bills—and its operations are aimed at supplying the commercial banks with enough funds to handle what the Fed considers the legitimate needs of business but not enough to encourage what it calls speculators.

Now the Central Bank is buying long-term bonds again. The announced aim: to keep the market orderly (which it hasn't been of late). The side effect: to bolster the prices of U. S. bonds, which have tumbled in recent weeks at a time when both the recession and the Middle East crisis need firm markets.

There are 17 dealers in government securities. Five of these are banks — the Guaranty Trust, Chemical Corn Exchange and Bankers Trust of New York; the First National and Continental Illinois National in Chicago.

The banks usually operate in the short or medium term bond market. Other dealers operate in both long and short term securities.

The Central Bank stopped trading in long-term bonds in 1952 on an agreement with the Treasury that it would no longer support the price of these bonds as it had been doing during and after the war in line with the administration's easy money, low interest policy in those years.

But with the Treasury returning frequently these days to the money market as the federal deficit starts to rise, the Central Bank is agreeing to keep the market in line.

The market has other customers besides the Federal Reserve. Commercial banks buy and sell government securities. Corporations buy and sell. Insurance companies buy and sell. Even individuals do, although their total operations are comparatively small.

Banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions buy when they have a surplus of funds and want to put it at work earning interest. They sell when they need cash to lend to business at higher interest rates than government securities pay.

Corporations often find their cash flow has given them a surplus. And no matter how temporary this may prove to be, they put the money to work at once. Government securities are a favorite investment at such a time. They sell when their cash is low or when they need cash for ex-

Threats, Then Bombs Used By Terrorists; Little Man Pays

By RELMAN MORIN

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — At 7:50 last night a terrorist bomb blasted a little baker's shop on Midjidi street in Beirut—and 10 years hard work for the young man who owns it.

Standing in the midst of shattered glass and rubble today, Elias Antouri seemed close to tears. "I don't know who did it or why," he said.

In this weird rebellion in Lebanon, Elias Antouri is the typical tragedy—the little guy who's getting it in the neck.

Insurgents, in an effort to show their power, have been trying to paralyze the country. By threats and bribery and bombs they have attempted to close every business establishment in Lebanon, from the biggest down to the tiny place of Elias Antouri.

As one Lebanese puts it, "They first thought the people would close the shops through conviction. When only a few did they started using terror."

Elias Antouri, unlike many others, said he never received threats.

"Everybody here knows me," he said. "I have nothing to do with politics."

He's 26. He started learning to make pastry when 16. Four years ago he used all his savings to open his shop.

He says he's going to try to reopen. "I'm not afraid. It's just a question of whether I can raise the money somehow."

Not far away is a grocery store owned by Mrs. Anne Sarafian. "Shortly after the trouble started three men came into the store and one asked me why I remained open," she said.

"I said I am an Arab and believe in what the Arabs are trying to do. But I said I would not close and told them to get out of the store."

Then the threats began. There were two telephone calls warning Mrs. Sarafian to close.

Not long ago a small bomb exploded up the street midway between her store and Antouri's bakery.

Mrs. Sarafian telephoned a man she knows is a member of the insurgents and asked why she was being threatened.

"I don't know," he said. "You are not on the list."

"So that shows they have a list of people like me they're going to try to force to close up," she said.

Shortly after, a man who had been selling her vegetables shut off his supplies. She found other sources.

Mrs. Sarafian is small and peppy. She's a widow with three kids. "I'm not going to close," she says quietly. "It's a matter of principle."

Blind Center Marks Decade Of Service

CHICAGO (AP)—The Veterans Administration blind center at Hines, Ill., has just celebrated a decade of teaching men to do things they've done all their lives.

That sounds like a modest project, but it's one complicated by fear.

According to one of 470 World War II and Korean War veterans who have taken the unique 16-week course, the greatest fear is that sudden blindness has changed everything. Being free of this fear, he said, "is more protection for a blind man than a tank is for a soldier."

Russell Williams, institute director who was blinded by an exploding shell in World War II, is proudest of the center's work with a lawyer, two preachers and a chicken farmer.

All feared that blindness had ended not only their careers but almost everything else that had been wonderfully routine in their lives.

Williams recalled, "We first introduced them, as we do all our patients, to the long white cane."

"Then we made them mobile again, both inside and outdoors. We taught them how to eat and make their own beds."

They learned to negotiate the hospital corridors and grounds, nearby streets, and eventually Chicago's busy Loop.

Finally, they returned to their law, ministry and chicken farming. Williams measures the center's success by small yardsticks—a blind veteran's ability to change a flat tire and carry a pail of ashes from the basement to the alley.

When someone with no vocational training comes to the center, there are instructors and facilities for starting him toward the use of shop tools so that he can lead an independent life.

Williams lives the objectives of independence which he teaches, having recently returned from two weeks of camping out with his family in the Rocky Mountains.

Tolling Bell For Statehood Bill

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A 3,000-pound bell that rang for hours yesterday, signaling the approaching end of Congress without statehood for Hawaii, is back on the beam today.

Its tones are being beamed on the hour over radio station KDAY, which has a sister station, KOIN, in Honolulu.

Police interfered yesterday after complaints from residents who said the pealing was giving them headaches. So today the tolling will be confined to the radio station's broadcasts instead of ringing through the neighborhood.

The big bell was a gift to Hawaii from France and is en route to Washington. Jackson McBride, a Honolulu dairyman, hopes to ring it to urge the Congress to give Hawaii equal status with recently admitted Alaska.

A 'Barefoot Boy' Was Suspicious

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (AP) — What does it remind you of when you see a barefoot boy scuffling through the dust on a hot July afternoon, faithful dog at his heels?

It reminded Blackfoot police of six burglaries.

They arrested the 10-year-old boy and said he admitted taking about $17 in nickels and dimes from three service stations and three cleaning shops.

Asst. Chief S. S. Kunz said officers found footprints of a dog and a barefoot boy around broken windows at each place.

When they spotted the boy, there wasn't anything to make them suspicious, except that he was barefoot and had a dog.

To Stand Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge has ruled that Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-NY) must stand trial for alleged income tax evasion.

Judge William B. Herlands ruled yesterday that the indictment charging Powell is valid. The Negro congressman had sought to have the indictment thrown out. He claimed the grand jury voted it as the result of alleged improper actions by former Asst. U. S. Atty. Thomas A. Bolan and a magazine editor.

Bolan presented much of the original evidence to the grand jury. He resigned during a 14-month period in which the jury did not act on the case.

Powell asserted that Bolan supplied the editor, William F. Buckley Jr. of the National Review, with inflammatory information on which the magazine based articles on the case. Copies of the articles were mailed to jurors. Subsequently, the jury voted the indictment.

Powell is charged with preparing a false 1951 income tax return for his wife, pianist Hazel Scott, a Negro, and with evading approximately $3,000 in a joint return for 1952. No charge was made against the wife.

Couple Started Own School For Their Children

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Many parents talk about getting a better education for their children. Robert Ryan and his wife Jessica did something about it.

They went to the extreme of starting their own school. The project has been a rousing success, attracting interest from educators in many parts of the country.

It all started about eight years ago when the youngest of their three children was ready to begin kindergarten. Mrs. Ryan scouted the public school situation in their North Hollywood neighborhood.

She reported to her husband that the situation wasn't good. The schools were packed with the wartime baby crop, and classes were on half-day sessions.

"What'll we do about it?" the actor asked. "Let's start our own school," his wife said.

They held a meeting with other parents in the nursery school their son was attending. Only two families expressed interest. The number was swelled to 12 when the word got around. So the Ryans and friends cut through governmental red tape and opened the Oakwood School in an abandoned building.

The staff: two teachers for the first and second grades plus kindergarten. Gradually, the staff and grades were increased and a new building was erected on property purchased by the school.

big hunk of his earnings in films. He was about ready to abandon the whole thing when he heard of the availability of Marie Spottswood, a top-notch New York City grade school administrator. She said she would come out if she had complete freedom to run the school. She got it.

modern classrooms and a new playing field. "It is not a celebrity school—I'm about the only actor connected with it. Nor is it a school for problem children. Unfortunately, that is what a lot of private schools attract. Parents don't start worrying about their children's education until Johnny can't read or starts beating up the teacher."

Local Company Reveals New Expansion Action

Brown Laboratories, Inc. has purchased two other firms which prepare patent medicines and the operations are to be moved to Greenville.

W. H. Watson, general counsel, for the local firm, announced today that Brown Laboratories has purchased O. and F. Products of Burlington and Ready Products of Elkin.

O. and F. manufactures cough syrups, antiseptics and sun tan lotions. Ready Products makes seltzer powders and tablets and cold capsules. Ready Products were made by the firm of M. G. Goodman Co., Inc.

Watson said the manufacture of the new products will be moved to the Greenville plant which is located on Evans St. at the Norfolk and Southern Railroad.

He said the company would begin selling the new products while continuing to sell HC headache powders and tablets and Topps breath sweetener which have been made by the company for many years.

All the equipment will be moved here and the O and F and Ready plants will be closed down, Watson said.

The two firms were purchased after Brown Laboratories board of directors passed resolutions calling for their purchase by acquisition of the stock. Watson said the board also approved making available to the public approximately 2,600 shares of common stock in Brown Laboratories.

Oklahoma Picks Demo Entries

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—By a record vote, Oklahoma Democrats yesterday picked a 32-year-old county prosecutor and a 31-year-old bachelor schoolteacher as nominees for governor and lieutenant governor.

This virtually assured J. Howard Edmondson election as governor and George Nigh as lieutenant governor.

Oklahoma has never elected anyone but a Democrat for its top state offices in the November general elections.

Edmondson, whose own supporters called his first primary election lead a "political miracle," beat millionaire home builder W. P. Bill Atkinson 362,877 to 159,171 in unofficial returns. In the first primary three weeks ago, he led by just 742 votes.

Nigh, who came within a few thousand votes of being eliminated in the first primary along with 10 other candidates, defeated Lt. Gov. Cowboy Pink Williams 390,002 to 191,200. Williams led by 95,464 votes in the first primary.

The 522,048 votes cast yesterday was the biggest second primary total in history. The runoff was necessary because in some state offices, no candidate polled a clear majority July 1.

Edmondson, for four years county attorney at Tulsa, campaigned on a reform platform. He also pledged to call a special election on repeal of the state's prohibition laws.

A brother of Rep. Ed Edmondson, he was considered a political unknown two months ago. But his youthful vigor, dynamic television personality and blitz-type campaigning of shopping centers brought him overwhelming support.

Nigh, a state representative for eight years, was even less known statewide than Edmondson. The youthful McAlester teacher campaigned to return what he called "dignity" to the role of lieutenant governor.

Two Suffocated In Clothes Closet

DALLAS (AP)—Two children suffocated in a clothes closet yesterday. Two others, who were also trapped when the door handle fell off, were rescued unconscious.

The four Negro children, arms and legs entwined, were found by the mother, Mrs. Cardie McDade, when she returned home from work.

Debra Joyce Moore, 3, and Tommy Allen Carr, 4, Mrs. McDade's children by previous marriages, were dead. Carolyn Moore, 2, and Cloyce Moore, 6, were unconscious. Cloyce had a temperature of 108 and was packed in ice at a hospital.

Snake Joined Wedding Party

SHELBY, N. C. (AP)—When the minister asked if anyone objected to the marriage of Mary Price and Clyde Willis, the maid of honor let out a shriek.

"Snake!" she yelled and scrambled into the choir loft.

She didn't mean the groom... but a real live reptile who had slithered into the church. It was just rehearsal. The wedding went off next day with no snakes and no objections.

Sawyer Takes Over Phillies Again Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ten years ago, less one day, Eddie Sawyer was hired to manage the Philadelphia Phillies. Tonight he takes over again as the Phils' field boss in one of those quirks explained thus by his predecessor: "That's baseball."

General Manager Roy Hamey announced yesterday that Mayo Smith, the man he personally brought up from the minors in 1955 to manage the Phils, was and Eddie Sawyer, who led the Phils to the National League pennant in 1950, was replacing him.

Sawyer has been out of the game since he was fired midway in the 1952 season for failing to win. How come, Hamey was asked, the Phils hired him? "He had a good record and he knows the National League," replied Hamey.

Sawyer declined to make a thorough appraisal of his club until he's seen more of it. He explained he'd seen very few games this year because he'd been so busy in his job as an executive with a golf ball manufacturing firm.

Smith said he felt no bitterness. "It was sudden, but that's baseball," he said. "I was paid off for the rest of the season when his contract was to have expired. Sawyer was hired through the end of the 1959 season."

Under Smith the Phils finished fourth once, fifth twice and were in sixth place when Hamey made the decision he said he had been considering for a month.

Under Sawyer, the Phils finished third in 1949, first in 1950, fifth in 1951 and fourth in 1952.

Sawyer was almost as surprised at the turn of events as was Smith. He got a call from Hamey Monday afternoon, met him that night and took the job.

"Glad to be back," said Sawyer. "I hope to get another job in baseball," said Smith.

Local VFW To Sponsor Dance For Visitors

Participants in the State Teen-er League baseball tournament here will be guests at a dance tonight at 8 until 10 o'clock in the Moose Lodge auditorium.

The dance will be sponsored by the Greenville VFW Post, and will include a floor show by local dance students. Special guests will include State VFW Commander Wesley Cullipher of North City and Second District Party President Mrs. Mimi King of Kingston.

Hardrock Is Last But Still Racing

HEBER, Utah (AP)—The lead horses topped 8,000-foot Daniel's Summit just after midnight to try to gain in a grueling, 157-mile endurance test between man and beast.

The men are pitted against the mounted horses in a race from Salt Lake City via major highways to Roosevelt, in Eastern Utah. The summit, highest point of the route, is 70 miles from the starting line, from which the racers set out shortly before 10 a. m. (MST) yesterday. It's 19 miles east of Heber—all but 4 miles of it a steady uphill grade.

First to the summit was 24-year-old Stewart Paulick of Tooele, Utah, riding a spirited horse he describes as seven-year-old thoroughbred. Five miles behind him was the race's mystery rider—a horseman wearing a hood over his head.

The first runner, Edo Romagnoli, was a strong third, only seven miles behind Paulick. The 5-year-old New York policeman dropped in Heber to rest for half an hour and to have a rubdown and started out again 11 miles behind Paulick. He had gained 4 miles back by midnight.

Further back, some 17 miles behind pace-setter Paulick came the race's other two official horsemen, Keith Bastian, 21, Roosevelt, and Willie Jacobson, 61, Vernal, Jordan, Utah. They were riding together.

Well back—still some five miles west of Heber, was the race's only other remaining runner, sport-gaited Paul (Hardrock) Empton, a 53-year-old Burlington, N.C., mailman.

The race's third runner, one-time baseball umpire from Tucson, Ariz., pulled out of the test about 27 miles from the start, and he.

"That'll be my last run. At 62, I think I'm just a bit too old," he said he had cramps in his legs. The race began as a more-or-less

Brown Says He Will Cool Lane Like The Others

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Tough-talking Joe Brown meets the last of the persistent challengers for his world's lightweight championship tonight with the prediction that he'll dispose of this one—Kenny Lane of Michigan—about like he has all the others.

Brown will be defending his title for the fifth time in 23 months. He disposed of the previous four challengers—Wallice (Bud) Smith, Orlando Zuleta, Joey Lopes and Ralph Dupas—by knockouts.

It will be Brown's second big pay day in less than three months. The little Negro from Baton Rouge La., pulled down $40,000 for whipping Dupas here May 7. He should get about the same out of tonight's fight.

Texas Boxing Enterprises, the promoters, said almost $50,000 already was in the till and it should approach $60,000 by fight time, 9 p. m. (EST). There will be $45,000 from radio and television.

Out of about $100,000 from all sources, Brown will draw 40 per cent. Lane, who says this will be his biggest pay day, will get 20 per cent. A lot of harsh words have passed between the two camps, with Brown tired mostly by aspersions Lane has cast on his age. The Muskegon, Mich., farm boy with the skin-close cropped hair, has said he'll wear Brown out over the 15-round route because Joe's too old to stand the pace of a 26-year-old. Brown is 32.

The fight culminates a two-year campaign by Lane for a chance at the title. "He gave me the run-around because he didn't want to fight anybody who had a chance with him," said Lane grimly. "Now we've forced him into it."

"I think I have a better chance than Brown, and I can cite the record to indicate it. While he has fought almost twice as much as I have, he has lost three times as many fights."

For the record Brown has fought 96 times, won 70, lost 15, had 9 draws and 2 no-decision bouts. Lane has gone forth 57 times, won 52 and lost 5.

But Brown will go to the post as a 12-5 favorite, mostly because he is such a terrific puncher—something for which Lane isn't noted.

less serious test of the stamina of man versus horse. But it quickly took on the aspects of a three-city, two-day circus with the masked rider, a kid on a long-distance bike, traffic jams and carloads of pop-eyed tourists.

The hooded horseman turned up at the starting line and set out with the pack without a word. Nobody asked him to join. In fact, some hinted politely he was free to withdraw. To all entreaties he maintained an aloof silence; the aimless spectacles perched over his mask glinting over his eyes.

The kid on the bike, identified as teen-ager Val Sharp of Midvale, joined the procession just south of Salt Lake City and tagged along almost 65 miles before popping out at Heber.

The tourists piled up behind the riders and runners as they headed east from Orem, abandoning four-lane for two-lane pavement. For all of it, they were patient—if somewhat bewildered. Hardly a horn honked, and sheriff's deputies snapherding the caravan waved them by at every wide spot in the road.

Romagnoli, best hope of the man-over-horse partisans, appeared to be sloping along well. He said he expected to overtake Paulick not far beyond the summit.

Samson, though far behind, also appeared to be holding up well. His short, jerky shuffle had not slackened from the pace he set on leaving the starting line.

The horses, though, didn't appear to be bearing the burden as satisfactorily. Even Paulick's mount which he has been training for the test some months, had slowed down quite a bit from its earlier brisk pace.

Roosevelt Police Chief Rowe McDonald said some 2,000 turned out at the halfway junction just south of Heber to cheer the racers. McDonald estimated the race would end at Roosevelt about 4 p. m. today.

Race May Be Dull But They Are Trying To Liven It Up

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer That American League "race" may be dull, but you can't say they're not trying to liven things up as the New York Yankees romp along with a 12-game lead. Take last night.

1. Cleveland's Vic Power missed most of the first game in a two-night double-header with Washington. He thought only a single game was scheduled. Washington took the opener 4-2 in 12 innings, but the Indians, with Power lining a two-run double, won the nightcap 5-3.

2. The Yankees clipped Detroit, 13-3 as Bob Turley won his 15th, but the Yankees made it a bit out of the ordinary by getting 23 hits, high for the season in AL.

3. Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox, running 1-2 in team fielding, booted the ball around for five unearned runs in a 4-2 Chicago victory.

4. Kansas City got only four hits, but beat Boston 4-3 on Hec Lopez' two-run, two-out homer in the ninth.

Only one game was played in the National League. Milwaukee defeated St. Louis 2-1.

Turley, who has lost but three, had a four-hitter and a 13-1 lead going into the ninth. Then the Tigers counted two on Gus Zernial's fifth homer and doubles by Frank Bolling and Tito Francona.

The Yankees built a 5-0 lead in four innings with the help of two-run homers from Norm Siebern and Gil McDougald. Paul Foytack lost it for a 7-9 record.

The White Sox jumped past the Tigers into fourth place as Billy Pierce, 10 games behind last year's 20-victory pace, won his 10th. He had a shutout for 8 2-3 innings, then needed Turk Lown's relief help when he walked two runs home after an error by shortstop Luis Aparicio. Jack Harshman (7-8) lost it, supplying the error that led to a three-run fourth.

Bob Cerv had an RBI single as the A's scored two in the first. But Tom Brewer (4-9) then blanked 'em on two hits until he gave up a two-out walk and Lopez' ninth homer. Tom Gorman (3-4) won it in relief of Murry Dickson, who gave up the Red Sox' runs on homers by Pete Runnels and Jackie Jensen.

Home runs by Norm Zaichin and Ken Aspromonte won the opener for the Senators and Dick Hyde (8-2), Cal McLish (8-6) went all the way for the Tribe. Indian manager Joe Gordon rushed Washington starter Camilo Pascual after he had spit Gary Geiger's helmet with a pitch but was restrained before reaching the mound. Geiger wasn't injured seriously.

Hal Woodeshick and Earl Averill, who beat the Nats in Washington last week, did it again in the nightcap. Woodeshick gave up nine hits but gained a 2-0 record when Averill broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run single in the third. Rocky Colavito homered in both games for the Tribe. Loser John Romonosky (1-2) got his first major league homer in the nightcap.

High Point-Thomasville pounded Wilson 14-2 last night to slip back into the Carolina League lead. The Hi-Toms moved half a game ahead of Greensboro, 7-5 loser to Danville. The loss snapped a 10-game winning streak for Greensboro.

In other games, Durham swept a doubleheader from third place Winston-Salem, 9-6 and 3-2. Raleigh won 5-4 in the first game of a twin bill with Burlington. The second game stood at 6-6 when the midnight curfew fell in the 15th inning.

An eighth-inning spree brought in 11 runs for the Hi-Toms, with Don Jacquin contributing a three-run homer. Chris Short chalked up his 11th win against eight losses.

Power also won for Danville. Home runs in the seventh inning, a solo by Robbin Coffman and a three-run homer by Joe Sparks, put Danville in command.

A couple of home runs, each good for three tallies, helped Durham to its first win over Winston-Salem. A single in the final frame of the second game brought in the winning Durham score.

Games tonight: Greensboro at Winston-Salem, Burlington at Durham, Danville at Wilson, and Hi-Toms at Raleigh.

Rep. John W. Byrnes (R-Wis.), a Green Bay resident, said the Senate should follow the lead of the House and pass a bill to free professional team sports of many antitrust law restrictions.

Burnes planned to take that position when he testifies before the Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee this afternoon.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), also listed as witnesses Rep. William E. Miller (R-NY) and two former football luminaries—Sammy Baugh and Arthur (Dutch) Bergman.

Coach Jim Tatum of North Carolina has been asked to testify but sent his apologies.

Baugh broke National Football League passing records as quarterback for the Washington Redskins. He now coaches at Hardin Simmons in Texas.

Bergman, ex-Notre Dame player, coached Catholic University of Washington in the first Orange Bowl game and in 1945 directed the Redskins to the NFL's Eastern Division title.

The subcommittee is obtaining the views of various sports leaders on a House bill to permit pro baseball, football, basketball and hockey to continue with legislative sanction their player reserves, trades and territorial rights. The measure also would permit the sports to regulate TV-radio broadcasts of their games.

Organized baseball alone now holds an antitrust law exemption.

Says Laws Will Be Dangerous To Game

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the Green Bay Packers' heartiest rooters declared today a Supreme Court decision holding pro football subject to ordinary business laws places the sport in jeopardy.

Hi-Toms Bump Wilson 14-2 For CL Lead

TUESDAY'S FIGHTS CARACAS, Venezuela — Ramon Calatayud, 111, Caracas, out-pointed Jimmy Abcuta, 112, Los Angeles, 10.

By BILLY ARNOLD Reflector Sports Editor The 1958 VFW State Teen-er League Tournament opened here today, featuring the six top teams in North Carolina and four ball games at East Carolina College Field and Guy Smith Stadium.

At 9:30 this morning, defending State Champion Gastonia faced Whiteville at Guy Smith Stadium and Elizabeth City and Lenoir squared off at ECC Field.

At 3:30 this afternoon, Greenville was slated to battle the winner of the Elizabeth City-Lenoir tilt at Guy Smith, and Lincolnton was scheduled to battle the winner of the Gastonia-Whiteville fracas.

Tomorrow, the wind-up day of tournament play, the winners of today's 3:30 ball game will clash for the State Title at Guy Smith Stadium. The losers of the 3:30 game will work out a consolation tilt at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

The championship game will be held at 3:30 tomorrow. Most of the six district representative teams arrived in Greenville early last night and were housed at East Carolina. Some were late and were not expected until early this morning. VFW officials, the local Auxiliary, ECC officials, and other interested local parties are helping to take care of the facilities and entertainment for the visiting ball clubs.

Following today's ball games, the youngsters will be treated to a supper at the local Moose Lodge 885 and a dance is planned for 8:00 either at the Moose Lodge or the Greenville Armory.

Many of the state VFW officials are in Greenville for the tournament, including State Commander Wesley Cullipher and others. The State network of the VFW is working closely with Tournament Director Gordon Goodman, of the local Recreation Department, to make the two-day affair a success.

This is the third consecutive season that the State title has been decided here in Greenville. In the two previous years, Gastonia has walked away with the title, and last year swiped it from the very same teams which are appearing here again this season.

Coach Russ Bergman's Gastonia club went from Greenville to Hershey, Pennsylvania in 1956 and became runner-up to the National champions. Last year, they advanced to the regionals but still came up short of a national title.

In the finals of the 1957 State Teen-er Tournament, Gastonia whipped Greenville's All-Stars 1-0 to cop the title. Greenville met Gastonia twice and bowed to them twice in that tourney, both times by only one run.

This year, Gastonia still commands the favorite's position on the strength of their earlier performances and this season's record in their own league in the western part of the state. However, Greenville, which has been growing stronger each year since Teen-er ball was introduced here in 1956, is sharing the favorite's limelight.

The Greenville club this year is being coached by Charlie Bland and Billy Dunn, who guided the 1957 Greenville Little Leaguers to a state title and carried their club to the Rome, Georgia, Regionals. Their present Teen-er League All-Star club is also bolstered with many of their former Little League stars, along with a host of veteran players.

Greenville secured its berth in the state tourney on a stunning show of strength by walloping Washington 7-1 and 15-0 in the district series.

Only Remaining Son Killed; Sen. McClellan Goes Home

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Grief-stricken Sen. John McClellan came home to Arkansas today to await the burial of his youngest son, victim of a plane crash that also killed three other men.

McClellan made another sorrowful journey from Washington nine years ago. He came then for the reburial of a soldier son who died overseas and his second son died of auto wreck injuries on the day of the funeral.

James Howard McClellan, 30, who was killed in the crash near Little Rock yesterday, was the 22-year-old senator's third and only remaining son.

The Arkansas Democrat received the news of the fatal crash just after he had been in the Senate chamber voting on an amendment to the Reciprocal Trade Act bill.

His administrative assistant, Ralph Matthews, who in 1943 and 1949 told McClellan of the deaths of his other sons, also informed him of James McClellan's death.

Sen. and Mrs. McClellan left Washington by air last night and arrived at Memphis shortly before midnight. Friends met them there to drive them to Little Rock.

The younger McClellan, a Little Rock attorney, was at the controls of a twin-engine plane owned by a Little Rock flying service. A pilot since his Air Force service in the Korean War, he was taking a test for a twin-engine pilot's license.

Killed with McClellan were instructors Wallace Denman Hill, 57, and Jesse Ralph Williams, 32, both of Little Rock, and Harold K. Gilbert, 33, Stuttgart, Ark., who planned to take his pilot's examination after McClellan.

A Civil Air Patrol official said apparently McClellan was flying on one engine and that something must have gone wrong with the other one.

James McClellan was the son of the senator and his deceased second wife.

The senator, thrice married, has two daughters, Mrs. Harry E. McDermott Jr., wife of one of James McClellan's law partners, and Miss Doris McClellan, Washington.

The younger McClellan's survivors include his widow, two sons and a daughter.

Big TV Sponsors Slow To Buy Top Viewing Time

By CYNTHIA LOWRY Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Unless something exceptional occurs during the next month or so, the two rarest sights on television will be the live dramatic show and the sponsored show.

At this moment, approximately one third of what is considered prime viewing time (from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m.) remains unsold by the three major networks, according to a checkup by Variety, show business trade paper. This is about 75 million dollars worth of airtime and almost as many millions again in production costs.

And if sponsors don't pick up the bills, the networks are certainly going to do some economizing — with results visible on the nation's home screens.

Network officials, of course, are not eager to spread word of the current problems. But an answer to the question of where the sponsors and their bankrolls have gone is offered by one important advertising agency executive whose job it is to watch television trends and currents.

"One of the big reasons for sponsor resistance to television," he says "is that most clients and their agencies continue to look for another Gunsmoke, another I Love Lucy, another $64,000 Question."

The problem, continues the agency man, is that today programing generally has reached a point in quality where there are a lot of shows around, and all of them good.

"The whole thing has led to a leveling off. Clients are just not going to find any one outstanding show because almost all shows have reached a reasonably good level."

And of course, there is—or was—the recession.

"In the past, the way to build the medium was to cater to the advertising giants," he says. "And the advertising giants run like rabbits at the first sign of trouble. Television should have made more provisions for the small advertisers. The agencies right now are looking for ways to have more than two sponsors for a half hour show."

What will this mean to you and to me? Probably fewer expensive talent shows, more movies, more inexpensive panel and audience participation shows — and more shows for coming attractions instead of the regular commercials.

Model Declares Pursued, Injured

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A model has filed a $65,000 damage suit against actor Hugh O'Brian, television's Wyatt Earp, asserting she fell and hurt herself trying to evade his morose attentions.

O'Brian denied the charges.

Miss Zelia Melba Bennett, 23, said in her Superior Court suit that she visited O'Brian last April so he could teach her the "art of reading" to help her land a part in a TV play.

But, Miss Bennett alleged, O'Brian made improper advances and chased her around the house for about 10 minutes before she fell down several flights of stairs.

O'Brian's attorney said: "Her charges are false as they are absurd."

Her First Taste Of Real Cooking

PANA, Ill. (AP)—For the first time in her young life, 5-year-old Karen Lee Gordon is getting her fill of home cooking.

Mashed potatoes, noodles, eggs, fruits, even a little meat — whatever Mom puts on the table the pert, blonde child polishes off. Then she rubs her expanding belly, coos blissfully and proudly reports, "I'm full."

It's something new for the Gordon household. Gone is the hated tube through which the little girl had to be fed since she was 3 days old.

Because Karen was born without an esophagus, doctors had to insert the tube through a hole in her abdomen. Eating was a tasteless ordeal.

An operation two years ago permitted the child to take semi-liquid baby foods, even a little ice cream. But she still couldn't eat solids and received most of her food by tube.

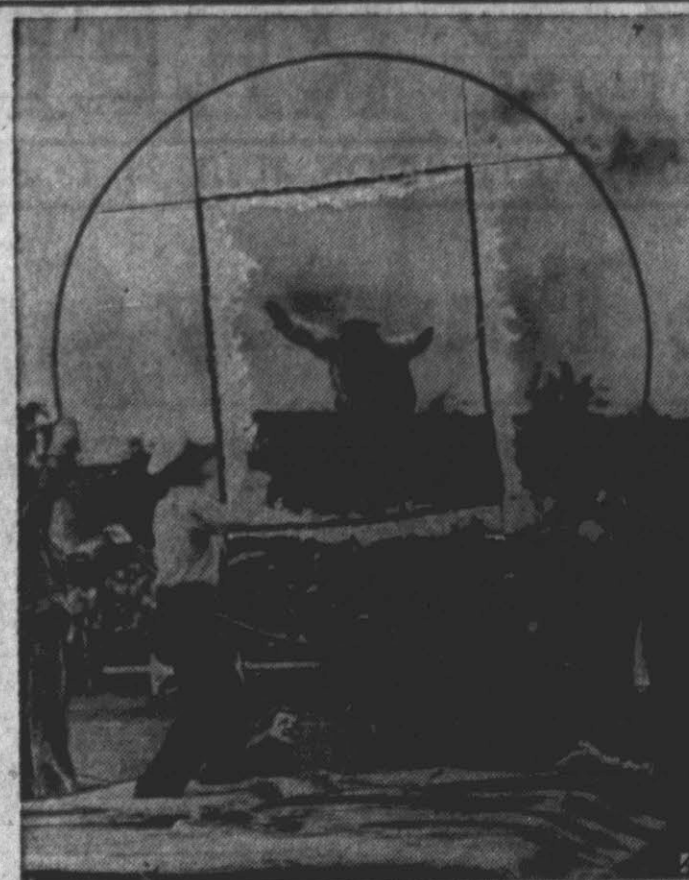

Last Thursday, Karen turned 5. She celebrated the birthday with cake and ice cream in her room at St. Mary's Hospital, Decatur, Ill. She ate all she wanted and that's when they knew positively that the last of seven operations had worked.

Doctors had succeeded in substituting for the esophagus a portion of the child's lower intestine.

Karen went home last Friday, to a marvelous new world of foods.

"She has an awful big appetite," Mrs. Gordon said today. "She'll eat anything I put in front of her."

"She keeps telling me so many things she wants to try. So I'll make them, and then she sits down and eats real good and when she's through she says, 'I'm full.'"

Will Wear Gown, At Own Funeral

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Nine-year-old Palma LaGrotteria talked off about how she was going to be a flower girl in the September wedding of a family friend.

And she was all excited about her gown for the wedding, a replica of the bride-to-be's white gown, overlaid with pink tulle.

Why, she even helped her mother pick it out.

Palma will wear the gown, but not at the wedding. She'll be buried in it Friday.

She died yesterday of leukemia, a form of cancer affecting the blood.

Sen. Knowland Expects Close Liaison On Middle East Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) said today he expects President Eisenhower to maintain close personal liaison with legislative leaders if Congress goes home while the Middle East crisis remains unresolved.

Knowland said telephone communications between the President and the leaders of both parties offer a better means of keeping legislators informed than if some committee were left behind in Washington to maintain liaison.

He sees no reason why the Middle East situation should delay the adjournment of Congress, but he would make no prediction on a quitting date.

Represents 300 Claimants To Island In Bay

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A woman who says she represents 300 descendants of early California financier Mark Hopkins said last night the group plans to file a claim for Yerba Buena Island in the middle of San Francisco Bay.

Although he declined public comment on the matter, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas was reported to have told friends he would find such an arrangement satisfactory.

Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate's assistant GOP leader, said Eisenhower was told the House could clean up its work Aug. 9. Knowland said if all goes well the Senate could make a similar deadline.

Minor Reign Of Terror By Pair

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP)—The pair of youthful offenders brought a minor reign of terror on Bluefield's East End. Juvenile Officer Charles Hudson said they:

1. Set fire to a garage, a lumber pile close to a house and a pile of cardboard in another garage.

Eisenhower thus far has asked for no special legislation bearing on the Middle East situation.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, predicted early Senate action — possibly today — on a resolution urging permanent establishment of a United Nations police force to keep the peace in the strife-torn Middle East.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala) is sponsor of the resolution, which was approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. A similar resolution is pending in the House.

Sparkman said the intent is to strengthen the hand of Secretary of State Dulles in asking the U.N. General Assembly to establish such a force.

Jumped On Car Going 50 MPH

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) —

A motorist on the Massachusetts Turnpike reported a monkey leaped on the hood of his car while the car was traveling at 50 miles an hour.

State police admittedly were skeptical. A short while later, however, another motorist reported seeing a monkey sunning himself on a guardpost and then doing a couple of back flips on the hood of a passing car.

Where the monkey came from was a mystery.

More Tourist Travel To Alaska Seen One Result

CHARLOTTE — Passage of legislation granting statehood to Alaska will stimulate more tourist travel to our 49th state, according to Coleman W. Roberts, President of the Carolinian Motor Club.

With the Pacific Northwest as the gateway to Alaska, Mr. Roberts said that existing facilities for automobile, plane and ship travel to the new state probably will be expanded as tourist demands develop. He added that affiliated AAA clubs in the northwestern states and in Canada offer excellent facilities for Alaskan-bound motorists.

"With proper preparation and with knowledge of certain austerities to be encountered," Mr. Roberts said, "the trip to this northern outpost of the U. S. can be a rewarding and never-to-be-forgotten experience. In Alaska, one finds the contrasts and benefits of wilderness and civilization, often in a setting of incredible beauty."

Slashing across forests, mountains and waterways, the Alaskan Highway was rushed to completion during the Japanese occupation of the Aleutian Islands. Since April 1, 1946, when the Canadian portion of the road was turned over to Canada, the highway has been regraded and widened. It was opened to unrestricted travel in 1947.

The motor trip to Alaska, reports the AAA, covers approximately 2,350 miles between the United States border and Fairbanks.

banks, and under normal road conditions requires a minimum of eight days from Great Falls, Montana or Seattle, Washington, to Fairbanks. The highway cuts mainly through unsettled areas formerly inaccessible except by dog sled, by plane or by river routes in summer. Most of the country between the infrequent small settlements in wilderness, the settlements themselves often consisting only of a roadhouse or trading post. Many of them also offer gasoline and minor repair facilities.

"Although there recently has been much highway building and construction of motels and other travel facilities," says the AAA, "motorists using the Alaskan highway must expect dusty travel over long miles of gravel highway and comparatively primitive accommodations."

According to AAA, the best time for auto travel to Alaska is from June through September. During this period temperatures range from 65 to 75 degrees, with warm days and cool evenings.

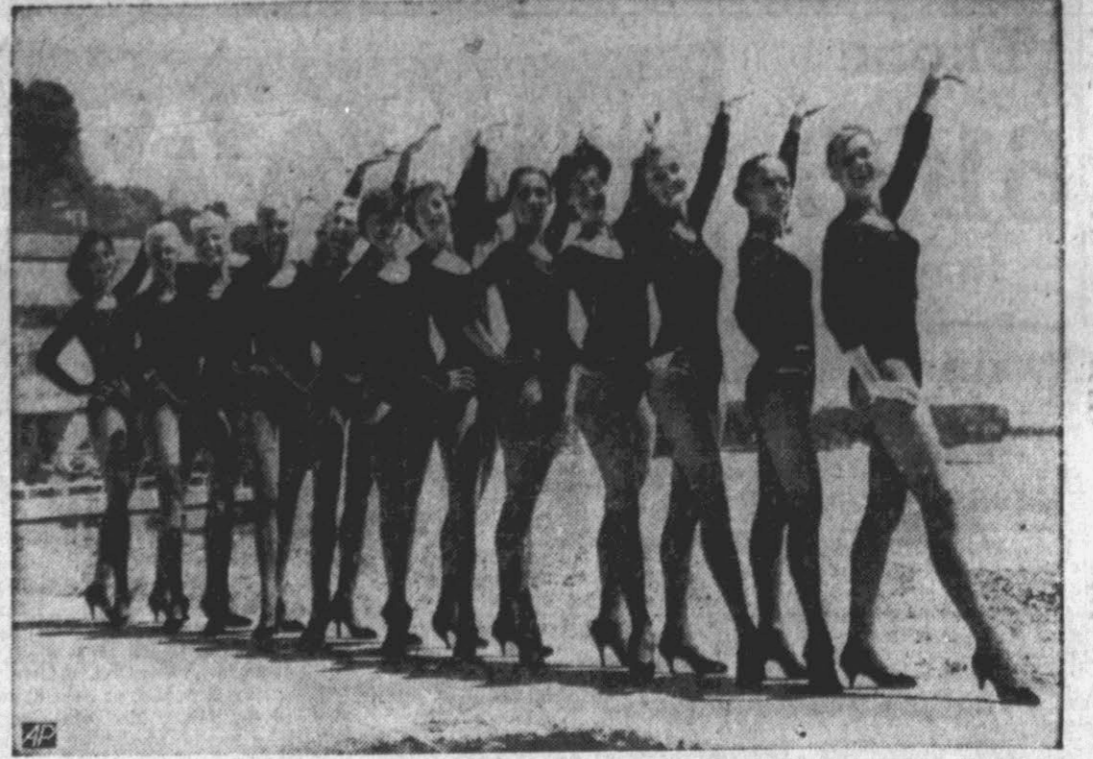

Aware of its awesome beauty which beckons the American traveler and adventurer, the AAA for more than a decade has published a tour book for its members, covering Alaska and the Alaskan (or Alcan) Highway.

There are several good approach roads to the zero milestone of the Alaskan Highway in Dawson Creek, British Columbia. From that point on, the motorist faces over 1,200 miles of gravel highway with some steep grades and sharp turns in the mountain country, especially in Canada's Yukon Territory. Not far from the Alaskan border, the motorist encounters dustfree pavement, as a large percentage of Alaska's 3,800 miles of main road have been paved. An exception is the new road leading into McKinley National Park. This was scheduled to open for summer travel this year, but construction work is not complete on a central portion of the highway and current travelers are cautioned that heavy grading operations will be under way during most of the summer.

Much of the transportation within Alaska is by airplane and water. Regular bus service is maintained on the main auto routes, and bus tours are available during the summer season.

For those who do not wish to drive the highway, the AAA points out that several steamship lines operate between Vancouver and Alaskan ports. The cruise season extends from late May or early June until early September. Canadian Pacific Railways and Canadian National Railways Steamship Services both transport a limited number of automobiles for passengers between Vancouver, Ketchikan, Juneau and Skagway. Also, for those who wish to drive within Alaska but not to it, the Alaska Steamship Company or Alaska Freight Lines between Seattle and Seward or Anchorage are equipped to handle the shipment of cars. These lines do not carry passengers, but advance planning will have a car awaiting the visitor on arrival at either one of these Alaskan ports.

The AAA also reports that air service is well established between Seattle and Ketchikan, Juneau, Anchorage, Fairbanks and Nome, with connections to nearly every community in the state. Air travelers may also come from Canadian points or fly direct from Minneapolis, Minnesota, to Anchorage.

Oyster Industry Report Put Off Until October

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — The State Board of Conservation and Development has put off until October action on criticism of Tar Heel oyster programs.

The Commercial Fisheries Advisory Board was instructed yesterday to study recommendations of the North Carolina Fisheries Assn. concerning the oyster industry.

The advisory group was asked to report when the C&D Board holds its fall meeting in Asheville Oct. 26-28.

In its report, the fisheries association blasted what it called improper enforcement of regulations covering the oyster industry.

Development of the Tar Heel coast and an industry-jointing trip to Philadelphia received the attention of the C&D Board before it ended its two-day summer meeting here.

The board expressed interest in a long-range coastal program presented by the All-Seashore Highway Assn. and the Southeastern North Carolina Beach Assn. It would include stabilization of the Outer Banks and Coastal shore lines, and setting up an independent State Waterways Commission with authority over inland and coastal waterways.

The Philadelphia visit, similar to Chicago and New York trips, was set for October. Gov. Hodges, C&D Director William P. Saunders and his aides, plus other Tar Heel business leaders will make the trip.

The C&D Board asked State Geologist J. L. Stuckey to contact the U. S. Geological Survey in Washington and Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-NC) to urge a survey to determine whether mining in the Deep River coal fields is financially practicable. Cooley's district includes Lee and Chatham counties, where the coal fields are located.

Action was deferred on a request from the North Carolina State College School of Engineering for a research program on an inventory of the state's minerals. The board said such a program is not justified at this time.

Ordain Minister In Robersonville

ROBERSONVILLE — Carlton Roberson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roberson, was ordained in the Baptist ministry Sunday evening in the First Baptist Church of Robersonville.

The ordination committee of the South Roanoke Association, which examined Mr. Roberson July 13, recommended his ordination.

The Reverend John A. Moore, missionary of the Association, acted as moderator for the services. The charge to the candidate was given by the Rev. J. C. Brooks of the Hamilton Baptist Church and L. B. Stubbs, chairman of the board of deacons of the Pinetown Baptist church presented the Bible.

The Rev. Ralph E. Ferguson gave the ordination sermon, after which Harvey L. Roberson, uncle of the candidate, rendered the dedicatory prayer.

Carlton Roberson graduated from Robersonville High School, attended Campbell College and Chowan College. He plans to continue his study for the ministry at Atlantic Christian College in the fall.

For several months he served as supply pastor for the Hamilton Baptist Church and recently accepted a call to the Pinetown church where he has been preaching since February.

Haliwar Appeal For Funds Due To Be Heard

HALIFAX, N. C. (AP) — Next stop in the Haliwar Indians' bid for Pearsall Plan tuition money comes tomorrow at a meeting of the Halifax Board of Education.

School Supt. W. Henry Overman said yesterday the board will consider requests by the Haliwars for assignment to an Indian school. About 121 children are involved.

The Warren County Board of Education recently refused to accept a similar request by parents of about 120 Haliwar Indian children in Warren County.

The board said it did not have any Indian schools and held that the petition was worded too vaguely.

The children attended a private school supported by the Haliwars last year. In previous years they went to Negro schools.

The Pearsall Plan provides grants for parents who object to sending their children to racially mixed schools.

Peeper Suspect Slated For Trial

Bloodhounds failed to pick up the trail of a peeping tom reported last night to city police, but officers laid a suspect after using more routine methods.

Ed Langley, 21-year-old Greenville Negro, was arrested at his 1606 South Railroad Street home about four hours after the complaint was received by police. Langley was freed under $300 bond this morning, pending trial Friday in Municipal Recorder's Court.

Police said the hounds lost the trail of the suspected peeping tom shortly after leaving the 1400 block of Broad Street where the peeper was spotted about 12:55 a.m. Langley was picked up about 4:30 a.m. today.

Yesterday Saw A High Of 96

Yesterday's high temperature was 96 degrees, the Greenville Utilities weather station reports.

The high came at 4 p.m.

Low for the day came at 4 a.m. when the thermometer stood at 78 degrees.

This morning at 4 o'clock the temperature was 77 and at 8 a.m. it was 81 degrees.

The river level today was four feet.

Antique Cars On Annual Journey

CONCORD, N. C. (AP) — Fifty-four years and still going strong. A 1904 Peugeot charged out of here today, leading a procession of antique cars on the annual four-day, cross country tour of the North Carolina Horseless Carriage Club.

H. D. Minges of Rocky Mount was at the wheel of the Peugeot. Next in line was a 1906 Cadillac driven by Doug H. Smith of Winston-Salem.

About 150 enthusiasts in 66 antique vehicles started off on the trip that will include Charlotte, Spartanburg and Greenville, S.C., and end at Hendersonville Saturday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices milled irregularly in heavy trading early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point were the rule for most key stocks. A few selected issues moved 2 or 3 points to the plus or minus side.

Severe losses by a few pivots tipped popular market averages to the downside but the list as a whole was a fairly even pattern of gains and losses.

Brokers said the market once again was absorbing profit taking following yesterday's extension of its advance to six straight sessions. Prices remained at an 11-month high.

Considerable switching was reported and substantial investment buying along with the taking of profits by short-term traders.

Industrials were down overall but rails spurred ahead on a very safe, paring some gains. Chemicals were mixed after yesterday's strong rise, showing some wide spreads between gains and losses. Rubbers and base metals were mostly lower.

A succession of big opening blocks was traded.

American Smelting was off 4 1/2 at the opening on last night's news of its halved dividend and trimmed a fraction from the loss in later trades.

Allegheny Corp.'s decision to wipe out all dividend arrears on its preferred continued to spur the common, which is now eligible for dividends. All the preferred issues resumed their rise, the prior preferred rising about 3.

American Cyanamid jumped more than 4 points while Union Carbide dropped about 2. Allied Chemical and Hooker Chemical added about a point each while Du Pont lost around a point.

Addressograph was delayed in opening for two hours and 20 minutes following last night's news of its proposed 3-for-1 stock split. It finally opened at 220, up 13 1/2 points from yesterday's close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 20 cents to $180.30 with the industrials down $1.00, the rails up 80 cents and the utilities unchanged.
