New Officers Of Industrial Commission

BLOXAM, STOKES, HOUSE AND WHITE . . . Officers of Pitt County Industrial Development Commission

Bloxam To Head Industrial Board

Leonard P. Bloxam of Greenville was elected chairman of Pitt County's new Industrial Development Commission at the group's organizational meeting last night.

Elected to serve with Bloxam as officers of the 17-member commission are Corey Stokes of Ayden, vice-chairman; D. R. House Jr. of Pactolus, secretary; and Vernon White of Winterville, treasurer.

Bloxam also warned that regularity of commission meetings "will be the basis of success" and unanimous approval was given to a plan to make the third Wednesday night of each month as the regular meeting date.

All members of the group, appointed by the Board of County Commissioners to represent townships, were present at the organizational meeting.

Louisiana Beauty New 'Miss U. S.'

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Miss Louisiana, a slender blonde with that special sparkle, is the new Miss United States in 1958's Miss Universe contest.

Eurlyne Howell, 18, has the quality the beauty pageant's top judge described this way: "You fall in love with her as soon as you see her."

From the start of the pageant the crowd has been in love with Eurlyne. Last night she convinced the judges.

She has a dazzling smile, blue eyes and long, honey blonde hair. She speaks with a soft Dixie drawl and fits her self-description: "A Southern lady."

Eurlyne is 5 feet 6, weighs 119 pounds and measures 36-23 1/2-35 1/2. These charms helped her last night in winning over a field of four other blondes, three of them also representing Southern states.

The runners-up, in order, were Miss Florida, Marcia Valbus, 20, Miami Beach; Miss Alabama, Judith Lucille Carlson, 18, Birmingham; Miss Illinois, June Pickney, 22, Chicago; and Miss Georgia, Diane Gail Austin, 18, Atlanta. All were beautiful. What made

Talking Union

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A high official of Iraq's revolutionary regime said today his government is preparing negotiations for a union with President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

Iraqi Dep. Premier Abel Salam Aref told a Cairo newspaper U.A.R. — Iraqi committees are being formed to discuss military, political, economic and educational matters with the aim of uniting similar institutions in all these fields.

Aref and Nasser signed a mutual defense treaty in Damascus July 19 but there were reports then that the Iraqi rebels had no intention of uniting with U.A.R.

Aref told the weekly newspaper Sabah Alkhair he is looking forward to the day when all Arab countries will join.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) said today that strong support is building up within the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for early recognition of the new government in Iraq.

That, he said, is the principal reason behind the committee's decision to question Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, at a closed meeting this week, possibly today.

Placed Third

Greenville's Teen-er League squad won third place in State Teen-er League Tournament play this morning by blasting Lincoln, 9-3.

Lenoir and Whiteville, winners in yesterday's semi-final round, play at 3:30 this afternoon for the championship and the right to represent North Carolina in Southern Regional Tournament playoffs. The championship game will be played at Guy Smith Stadium, site of this morning's consolation game.

Alan McArthur and Jimmy Jenkins led an eight-hit Greenville attack which backed up the three-hit pitching of Larry Roberts. McArthur had three singles in four trips to the plate and Jenkins had two singles in four trips.

Four Injured In Collision Here

Four members of a Tennessee family were injured last night when their car was smashed by a pick-up truck which police charge ran through a red light.

Mrs. Betty B. Porter, 40, of 5509 Rosemont Drive, Chattanooga, Tennessee, was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital, police said, for observation and treatment of head and back injuries. Mrs. Porter's husband, William H. Porter, was bruised and complained of soreness in his left shoulder; a five-year-old son, William Terry Porter, received scratches on his leg; and a three-year-old son, Jerry Allen Porter, complained of stomach pains.

Although police said this morning their investigation is incomplete, they reported that the Porter's car was struck by a truck operated by Casper Frederick Holloway, 51, of Grimesland, at the intersection of Tenth and Co-tanche streets. Police said Holloway's truck, headed East on Tenth Street, failed to stop for a red light and he was cited for an appearance in Municipal Recorder's Court to face the charge.

Police estimated damage to the Porter car at $1,500 and to the truck at $200.

In another collision investigated yesterday, police charged Luke Best, 37-year-old Negro of 1407-A Colonial Avenue, with failure to stop for a red light at the intersection of Greene and Third streets.

Best's car collided with a station wagon operated by Ernest T. Buck, 1209 North Pitt Street, Greenville. Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at $550.

'Repairman' Had Grabbed $6835

CHICAGO (AP) — The FBI said the man looked like one of the repairmen, but when bank guards nabbed him on his way out they found $6,835 he had calmly and furtively scooped from a till.

Eisenhower And Dulles Demand 'Ground Rules' For Big Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower began writing a new message to Premier Khrushchev today insisting that the ground rules be spelled out clearly in advance of a United Nations summit conference.

U.S. officials said it seems certain that the meeting will be held. But here, and in other Western capitals, the view was that the opening day suggested by Khrushchev, next Monday, is much too soon.

Diplomats estimated it would take two or three weeks of negotiations to determine exactly what countries should be included and what procedures should govern discussions.

Nothing quite like the proposed historic conference has ever been held at the U.N. Security Council in New York. Important precedents will be set.

Recognition of this was reflected in a stand by Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California that the free nations should not accept any Khrushchev conditions which weaken the U.N. Knowland told a news conference he considered a fundamental issue to be whether the Soviet government, or any other country, can in effect unilaterally change the procedures of the U.N. by fiat of its own.

Among conditions Khrushchev attached to a summit meeting were that Prime Minister Nehru of India and Arab leaders be invited.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles conferred by telephone early this morning on a reply to the Soviet Premier. The White House said they talked before a National Security Council meeting.

Summit questions presumably were discussed at the council meeting. After it was over, Dulles stayed on for a private talk with the President.

Eisenhower and Dulles, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty reported, were concerned with working out a reply to Khrushchev.

Hagerty held open the possibility that the message might be dispatched to Moscow today but said that was not certain by any means.

The proposed gathering of the heads of the 11 governments represented on the Security Council would bring Eisenhower and Khrushchev face to face for the first time since the Geneva summit conference in July 1955. It would also give Khrushchev, communism's ebullient No. 1 salesman, his first opportunity to visit the United States — a trip he has long wanted to make.

One of the things that top U.S. officials dislike about the whole project is that it would also give him an unparalleled forum for airing his charges of aggression in the Middle East against this country and Britain and peddling Soviet peace propaganda.

The principal difficulties still in the way of arranging the proposed meetings, as defined by officials here, are these:

1. Khrushchev's acceptance mentioned specifically the attendance also of Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Macmillan, French Premier de Gaulle and Prime Minister Nehru of India.

But Paris dispatches said it was unlikely that De Gaulle would attend. While favoring a summit meeting in principle, he has publicly announced his opposition to such a meeting at the U.N. at this time on the ground that it would be a propaganda battle royal. The question raised by his attitude is this: If De Gaulle flatly refuses, as French diplomats predict he will, will Khrushchev come anyway?

2. Khrushchev said that invitations to participate must go to

Prime Minister Nehru and the governments of the Arab countries. But neither India nor most of the Arab states are members of the Security Council. They could participate as nonvoting guests if the Council invites them as interested parties, but this would change the nature of the meeting that the Western powers envisioned — that is, an extraordinary session of Security Council members.

3. In his letter to Eisenhower Khrushchev renewed his charge that the Western powers have committed aggression in the Middle East. Eisenhower previously had rejected the accusation, and it seemed clear he is determined not to go into the conference in the role of a defendant.

4. Khrushchev said that invitations to participate must go to

Final Approval Of City's Budget Runs Into Deadlock

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

Four city councilmen deadlocked today on the final approval of the city's 1958-59 operating budget.

Thus with the July 24 legal deadline for approval fast approaching, the municipal government still finds itself without a budget.

Another meeting was set for this afternoon at 4:30 at which an effort will be made to resolve the deadlock. Mayor E. Eugene West, who was called out of town this morning, is expected to be present for that meeting. His vote is expected to break the deadlock and bring about the final budget approval.

The city is presently operating on an interim appropriation which was approved by the councilmen at a June 30 meeting to provide funds for meeting operating expenses until an official budget could be adopted.

Such a procedure is normally followed when a new budget is not finally approved by the end of the fiscal year. The new fiscal year began July 1.

This morning's special session had been expected to be a strictly routine meeting since councilmen had thrashed out a tentative budget last month. It, too, had been approved at the June 30 meeting.

Then, as provided by law, the tentative budget was advertised in the newspaper for 30 days and copies were on file at City Hall for public inspection.

Today marked the end of the 20-day period and ordinarily the tentative budget would have been made the final budget by the councilmen.

However, old differences came to light once again at today's meeting and Councilmen W. L. Whedbee and J. A. Collins Sr. voiced "no" votes when Mayor Pro-Tem Wesley Harvey called for a vote on the budget.

Harvey and Councilman Lester Turnage voiced their approval of the final budget. Harvey was presiding over the meeting in place of Mayor West who was called out of town suddenly on a business matter this morning.

Whedbee and Collins were continuing hold-the-tax-line tactics which had been characteristic of them in the tentative budget talks.

West, Harvey and Turnage had generally favored a tax increase to take care of expanded municipal operating costs and some capital improvements.

In the June 30 session the councilmen approved a six-cents tax increase to meet the proposed $766,687 1958-59 budget.

However, the approval came on a split vote with West, Harvey and Turnage voting for it and Collins and Whedbee against.

Following that all of the councilmen voted for the tentative budget.

This morning preceding the vote on the budget approval Whedbee said he didn't "want to be obstinate but I just can't vote for a tax increase under present conditions."

Collins said he felt the same way and "we ought to vote our convictions."

Thus it became apparent that another special meeting would be necessary with all councilmen present to break the deadlock.

The city fathers agreed to set another meeting.

The $766,687 tentative budget which was approved by the councilmen was a record breaker. It exceeded the previous high budget by $50,000.

However, most of the increase went to meet the cost of expected rises in municipal operating expenses brought on by the city's growth.

Only a small proportion was set aside for capital improvements.

Councilmen made one other change this morning which raised the over-all budget figure for the coming year but actually made no difference in either the city's expenses or revenue for the coming year.

They added $153,639.88 to the city's debt service as the amount which the Utilities Commission will pay on its bonded indebtedness during the fiscal year.

The funds will still be paid by the Utilities Commission and will have no effect on municipal government payments. However, City Manager Leonard Bloxam pointed out that Utilities Commission debt is also the city's debt since the commission is owned by the city.

Thus the funds should legally be shown in the city budget. He was backed up in the thinking by City Attorney R. B. Lee.

Councilmen approved the change. Thus the final budget for the year if it is approved as it now stands will be $869,726.45.

Reorganization Of Defense Set-Up Passed By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House swiftly passed and sent to the Senate today a compromise defense reorganization bill containing most of the provisions requested by President Eisenhower.

Prompt Senate passage was expected to send the measure to the President.

The House acted by voice vote and without opposition after terse debate. Only about 50 members were on hand.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the Armed Services Committee told the House that Senate and House conferees who had worked out the compromise bill were in unanimous agreement.

Rep. Leslie Arends (R-Ill.), senior minority member of the committee, said the bill is "in complete accord with the wishes of those who sponsored the legislation originally."

The bill, approved yesterday by Senate-House conferees, embodies much but not all Eisenhower sought in the way of authority to reorganize the Pentagon.

In a statement issued shortly after the conferees approved the bill, Eisenhower said: "Except in relatively minor respects, the bill adequately meets every recommendation I submitted to the Congress on this subject. It is my conviction that the armed services committees of both houses have done a praiseworthy job . . . and that the result for America will be a more efficient and more economical national defense."

Essentially the bill accomplishes what Eisenhower advocated to clarify the command of the President, through the secretary of defense, over Army-Navy-Air Force-Marine task forces in the field.

But Congress, traditionally insisting on preserving the identity of the separate services, did not give the defense secretary all the peacetime power Eisenhower advocated to tighten organizational control over the services.

Moreover, Congress wrote in some provisions which it described as safeguards but which Eisenhower has criticized as possibly obstructive.

The measure does reduce the powers of the service secretaries and the individual military chiefs.

The bill provides a clear-cut command system for the kind of forces most often used in modern wars — teams composed of selected elements of one, two or more services. Once a service committed units to such a force it could not withdraw them without approval of the secretary of defense. A task force commander would report to the top, without going through individual service secretaries.

On the other hand, Congress declined to give the defense secretary authority to transfer or abolish the military roles of the services. It fears that the Marine's Navy's air arm or the National Guard might be abolished or drastically changed, provisions were written into the bill to require congressional approval of any major change.

Eisenhower also had complained of a provision written in by the House that would permit a service head to appeal to Congress if he objected to a change in military functions. The wording finally worked out requires changes in roles to be submitted automatically to Congress, where either chamber could veto them.

The final compromise permits a service chief or secretary to go to Congress direct with any defense recommendation that seems necessary to him. Eisenhower had said this section invited legalized insubordination.

Robes Call For Air Conditioning

WINTON, N.C. (AP) — Judge William Bundy, clad in a flowing black robe, mounted the bench in Superior Court. The atmosphere was stifling.

"Turn on the air conditioning," were the judge's first words.

Court attendants looked sheepishly at one another. A lawyer explained that there was no air conditioning.

The judge scolded in his seat and spoke. He spoke of lack of comfort in the stuffy courtroom. He said a cooling unit ought to be installed. The operation of the court, he added, is the most important function in the county. It should operate in comfort. And the cost of a cooling unit, continued the perspiring jurist, would be negligible to the individual taxpayer.

He urged the new grand jury to recommend to the county commissioners that apparatus be installed so that air conditioning could be turned on.

Miss North Carolina Is Guest Of Marines

CHERRY POINT — Miss North Carolina, Betty Lane Evans of Greenville, toured the world's largest Marine Corps Air Station here this week with Miss Morehead City, Bonnie Fish.

The two were escorted to the Commanding General, Marine Corps Air Bases, Eastern Area.

Miss North Carolina received an honorary jet pilots certificate from Lt. Col. J.D. Mass, Commanding Officer of Marine Attack Squadron-332 and was given a close look at the A4D Skyhawk jet fighter, the newest addition to the vast airpower of the Marine Corps Air Station here.

Mark Jones. Both certificates were signed by Maj. Gen. A.F. Binney, Commanding General, 2d Marine Aircraft Wing.

The two North Carolina beauties were served noon meal in the general mess hall with the men and later were escorted to the aviation training aids section of the base for simulated rides in jets planes via the Link trainer.

Both girls flew the simulated jets without mishaps and were treated to a flight in a twin engine trainer. Both ladies were welcomed aboard the station by General Dyer prior to touring the 17 square mile base, the home of the Second Marine Aircraft Wing.

"Photography tops the list of my hobbies," said Mrs. Roy Hardee, president of the Jay-C-Ette Club, when asked what she did in her spare time.

Her interest in photography stems from her husband's home darkroom where he taught her the fundamentals of processing film and printing pictures.

She likes to cook and to entertain on a small scale. "Cook-outs are my specialty and I let my husband share the cooking honors," she noted.

Being a career girl, as well as a housewife, makes for a busy schedule and, therefore, "I like the modern trend toward informality in entertaining and choose to serve dishes that are tasty, but quickly and easily prepared."

Besides enjoying photography and entertaining, she is an avid reader and plays bridge whenever she has a moment to spare.

Jay-C-Ette Club
The Jay-C-Ettes have a very worthwhile organization and are very enthusiastic about its permanent project, the Pitt County Clinic for crippled children and adults," says this petite young lady.

Two volunteers visit the clinic once each month and serve milk and cookies to the patients.

The club sends a crippled child to summer camp each year and this year is sending two. It also assists in the county-wide Lily Tag Sale each Spring.

Aiding the local Jaycees and to promote social and civic consciousness among the membership is the purpose of this organization.

An annual fund raising project of the club is the candy sale held in the fall.

Mrs. Hardee's duties as president of this active group are to preside at membership and Board of Directors' meetings and as chief executive officer of the organization, to supervise the club's affairs and activities.

"Any young lady of good character and is the wife of a member or honorary member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce is eligible for active membership," Mrs. Hardee stated.

Hero Sandwich Ideal At Party

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
A MAMMOTH-SIZE sandwich has been getting around under a lot of aliases. Call it a hero, jawbreaker, grinder, submarine, wedgie, poor boy, hoagy, dagwood, zep, gondola, torpedo, gismo or BIG SANDWICH. It all depends on where you live. But one thing is certain, this sandwich is made from an individual loaf of French or Italian bread—white or whole wheat—or a long loaf of the same, cut into shorter lengths. For an easy-give party, all you have to do is provide plenty of fillings and let everyone make his own sandwich. You can use individual loaves of Italian or French bread, or the long loaves cut into shorter lengths (for delicate eaters) or the individual brown-and-serve loaves of French bread available in many grocery markets.

You can also serve another type of mammoth sandwich, one we call a hero-boy, made of scrambled eggs and green peppers. Ever since we met up with this combination, sold over the counter to take out, at a fascinating foreign food shop in New York's East 23's, we've been addicted to it. We're not saying the following version is exactly like the original, but it's mighty good eating.

OUR HERO BOY
Ingredients: 2½ tablespoons olive oil, 1 medium-sized onion (cut into thin strips), 1 large green pepper (cut into thin strips), 4 eggs, 1 tablespoon water, 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, two 6-inch lengths of French or Italian bread.

Method: Cook gently the olive oil, onion, green pepper in 8-inch skillet, covered, until tender—about 20 minutes. Beat eggs, water, cheese, salt and butter together lightly. Add to pepper mixture and cook as you would scrambled eggs. Serve at once between hot (lightly buttered if desired) lengths of crusty bread. Makes 2 servings.

BE A HERO—This Hero-Boy sandwich with an Italian-style filling of green peppers and scrambled eggs will win you accolades as a party dish.

FALL-FASHION—A slim-line fall coat breaks into deep slounce under low self band. Ruffles start at sides leaving front straight. Flaps low on hips suggest pockets.

To Attend Convention

Approximately 39 of Jehovah's Witnesses from the Greenville congregation will attend an international convention in New York City July 27 through August 3.

Larry Moxingo, an assistant minister, will be in charge of the local group during the convention. The few witnesses not attending the Christian assembly and other interested persons in the area are invited to attend meetings held in the congregation at Greenville. Kingdom Hall is located on the Falkland Highway.

delegates attending the international gathering will benefit from the rich spiritual provisions, and from Christian association with Witnesses from foreign lands.

Most of those from the Greenville congregation will be staying in private homes in New York City and nearby areas. All hotel accommodations will be filled, according to the Watchtower rooming committee, and the majority of attendees will be placed in homes following a gigantic house-to-house effort to find available accommodations.

As guests arrived they found their places at the card tables and were served a chicken salad plate with iced tea.

Players for the evening were Mesdames H. P. Quinerly, Alton Chapman, J. S. Chapman, Dewey Wall, Richard Nelson, Louise J. McCotter, Robert Mewborn, W. I. Bissette, L. L. Mewborn, Brunelle Prings and Miss Louise Mewborn. Prizes for the highest scores went to Mesdames Wall, Quinerly and Mihges.

Miss Davis Gives Houseguest Party
GRIFTON—Miss Ann Lynn Davis entertained on Wednesday afternoon at her home on Glenwood Drive to honor her houseguest, Miss Jaynell Goodnight of Concord.

Informal entertainment with dancing took place with 20 young guests attending.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and held a bowl of zinnias in shades of yellow and gold.

Cheese dainties, nuts and cookies were served with iced drinks.

PITT COUNTYANS SET THE PACE ON CAPITOL HILL—When the House of Representatives recently installed the Payroll Savings Plan for purchasing U. S. Another Mouse Shot Into Space Aboard Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Ships and planes searched Atlantic waters off the African coast today for a small white mouse that could tell man a lot about the perils of travel in outer space.

The mouse, named Wickie, was blasted aloft yesterday. She rode in an air-conditioned chamber inside the nose cone of a Thor-Able rocket.

The rocket, said the Air Force, performed satisfactorily. The mouse, which had climbed 600 miles above the earth, then angled over into a horizontal flight and reached 6,000 miles to the vicinity of Ascension Island near the African continent.

If the rocket's nose cone was found after its plunge from space, it could solve many secrets. Military men wanted to know if the cone could withstand the great friction heat encountered in its dive back into the earth's atmosphere. If so, it could be depended upon to shield a hydrogen bomb in intercontinental flight in case of war.

Space scientists who hope someday to send men to the moon and beyond were especially interested in how the mouse, fared in the 12,000 m.p.h. journey to space and back.

If Wickie survived, it would be the first known time that a living animal had gone into space and returned alive.

This was the third test of a Thor-Able rocket, a two-stage vehicle.

The first failed April 23. On July 9, the second Thor-Able became the first U.S. ballistic missile to travel the 6,000-mile intercontinental range. Attempts to recover its nose cone and a mouse rider were unsuccessful.

ECC Grad Playing In Norfolk Pageant

VIRGINIA BEACH — An East Carolina graduate, now living in Norfolk, plays a leading role in the production of "The Confederacy."

Hugh Bergeron, who is a North Carolinian by birth, is appearing currently as Judah Benjamin in the production.

His portrayal of the shrewd secretary of state under President Jefferson Davis marks Bergeron's second appearance in a Paul Green outdoor drama. Previously he served with "The Common Glory" in Williamsburg.

A former teacher and director of drama at Norview High School, Bergeron is now senior class sponsor and conducts classes in English, speech and world literature.

For the past ten years he has been a familiar figure on the Tidewater theatrical scene, having acted with the Norfolk Little Theatre and played the judge in

'Captured' Him; But Not Wanted

CHICAGO (AP)—There's really nothing exciting about a man on a fire escape; but when it happens at the Criminal Courts Building and the man is wearing a prison type jacket, well...

The bells rang, the whistles blew and the cops came running. The police got their man, too, innocently waiting at a bus stop. Only I haven't done anything wrong, protested Clint Tave, 41.

What was he doing on the fire escape? It happened this way: Tave had just won dismissal of a burglary charge. Understandably anxious to be off, he walked swiftly to the fourth-floor elevator.

He rang, and rang. No elevator. So he climbed out on the fire escape, walked down two flights and popped into the second-floor law library of the state's attorney.

Where's the stairs? he asked. A clerk pointed the way and off he went. A second later the clerk had second thoughts and notified police. Spotted at the bus stop, Tave was hauled back to court. A bailiff quickly confirmed his story and said the jacket just happened to look like a prison jacket. Off went Tave again. He waited for the elevator this time.

Wyatt Earp Is Denying Charges

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Hugh O'Brian has denied charges that he made amorous advances toward a model who visited his home last April to discuss a television role.

The model, Zella Melba Bennett, 23, is suing O'Brian for $65,177 damages, asserting she was injured in a fall while resisting him.

O'Brian, TV's Wyatt Earp, filed the denial yesterday in Superior Court. He asked for an early trial.

Public Hearing May Be Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Armed Services subcommittee may abandon plans for a public hearing into Sherman Adams' connection with an Army contract settlement.

Chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) said the group, already running behind schedule on its preliminary closed-door sessions, won't consider open hearings until its record is complete.

He said the subcommittee might decide to make public the transcripts of testimony taken behind closed doors rather than recall witnesses for open questioning. Hebert said the probe would continue into next week.

The subcommittee is trying to determine whether Adams exerted any improper pressure in behalf of Rayline Worsted Inc., of Manchester, N. H. The firm last year received a $41,284 rebate on a 16-year-old penalty payment for late delivery of fabrics.

Adams, top aide to President Eisenhower, has said he did nothing more than pass along routine queries on the case. Former officials of Rayline, now defunct, also deny that any pressure was brought.

Rayline was fined $49,784 in 1941 for late delivery of cloth to the Army. The appeals board found in its review that wartime conditions were largely responsible for the lateness.

Two Boys Drown In Catawba River

MOUNT HOLY, N.C. (AP)—A white boy and a Negro boy drowned in the Catawba River near here yesterday after they suddenly dropped into deep water.

The victims were Edward Michael Smith, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Smith, and Doc Ernest Junior Patterson, 14, Negro, son of Mrs. Alice Patterson. Both families are of Rt. 1, Stanley.

Both bodies were recovered in 8 to 12 feet of water.

Upturn In N.C.

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina continued to show an upturn in employment during June.

The State Department of Labor reported yesterday that non-agricultural employment in the state increased 1,900 during the month. This was two-tenths of 1 per cent above the May level.

The increase was attributed largely to job gains in several manufacturing industries. Seasonal increase in canning and beverage manufacturing sent employment up 1,500.

Figures showed that non-farm employment in mid-June totaled 1,063,500. This was fractionally higher than the May figure, but was 1.7 per cent below the 1,082,000 total of June last year.

Factory employment during June totaled 433,300, a gain of 2,100 over May. Average hourly earnings of factory workers held firm at $1.45, showing no change from the May figure. Production time averaged 38.1 hours per week, compared with 37.3 hours in May.

Not Much Loot For Thief In Morning Robbery

City police are continuing their investigation of an early morning robbery which netted the thief little more than $6 and some cigarettes.

The money and cigarettes were taken from an Esso Service Station on the corner of Tenth and Evans streets. Police said the thief broke a glass pane in the wash pit door and gained entrance to the station where he broke open a cigarette machine and cleaned out the cash register.

Between $5 and $6 were estimated to have been taken from the cigarette machines, in addition to several packs of cigarettes. Money taken from the cash register consisted of 10 or 12 pennies left in the machine when the station was closed last night.

Industrial Development Pays Off

Is North Carolina's costly industrial development program paying sufficient dividends to warrant the time, money and effort being put forth by the state and local communities?

One has only to look at the record of achievement during the past four years for a satisfactory answer.

During that brief period new industries and expansion programs have added $202,154,500 annually to the industrial payroll of the state. A total of 617 new plants and 709 plant expansion programs throughout the state have represented a capital outlay of $619,364,500 by individual corporations and concerns during the past four years. They have provided 70,000 new industrial jobs for the people of North Carolina.

Do these items represent satisfactory dividends for the effort put forth to develop North Carolina in the corresponding period?

Indeed they do. Particularly is that true when individual communities throughout the state take a critical look at their development efforts. Some communities have provided themselves with excellent development programs that have produced home-grown industries and have attracted plants from other areas. Many communities, however, are just beginning to think seriously about economic development efforts of their own. Some are just beginning the first steps toward reaching their potential.

It should be clear to the communities in these latter groups that it is not too late to begin a development program. In spite of the adverse economic pressures throughout the nation during the past 12 months, North Carolina realized its most successful year in developing itself industrially. Total new plants, investments, jobs and payrolls in industry were greater in North Carolina last year than in any previous year.

We can attribute the experience to only one thing. North Carolina's development program is beginning to pay big dividends. The North Carolina Story is reaching more and more people who like what they hear and like the favorable industrial climate that has been treated in this state.

This is no time for the state or individual communities to lessen their efforts toward greater economic development. It is a time for greater emphasis on creating new jobs, new payrolls and new investments in individual communities throughout the state.

This Generation Won't Be Forgotten In Hurry

It's a disturbing situation when citizens of the nation from top officials down to the smallest taxpayer in the smallest town accept as a matter of course the fact that the federal budget went into the red again last year.

It wasn't always that way. There was a time—admittedly a good many years ago—when the emphasis was on cash and carry, where the government was concerned. The principle of spending money the government didn't have and looking to someone else to provide it later just wasn't the way business was handled.

It applied to government, it applied to businesses, and it applied to the head of the house who was responsible for the family.

This matter of deficit spending by Uncle Sam has gone to long it is accepted as a regular part of government operations. When the government ends a fiscal year with a surplus instead of a deficit, it is the exception rather than the rule.

Maybe it's just old fashioned to worry about deficit spending on the part of the federal government. Maybe it's foolish to concern ourselves with the almost 300 billion dollar debt that now hangs over the United States for the future generations to pay off.

But sooner or later someone of some generation is going to have to worry about it.

Why shouldn't it be this generation which has been largely responsible for the debt as it stands today?

How many more billions will we pile on the debt next year and the next?

How big can we blow this mystical soap bubble of deficit spending before it pops in our face?

Summit Parley Confusion Rife

BY JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON (AP) — For sheer confusion, the present mixup on a summit meeting is in a class by itself. One thing is sure: Nikita Khrushchev split the Western Allies' thinking on what to do.

He proposed a five-power summit meeting on the Middle East, practically anywhere. The British said: Fine, let's hold it in the United Nations Security Council. The French said: Oh, not there.

And this country said Premier Khrushchev could come to the Security Council if he wished but then indicated so obliquely it showed President Eisenhower had small taste for the idea — we'd take part in a summit meeting in the Council.

Nowhere in his answer did Eisenhower say he himself would take part. But if Khrushchev showed up, along with British Prime Minister Macmillan, Eisenhower could hardly fail to do the same.

One way to digest all this is to take it step by step. Ever since last December Khrushchev had been making Soviet propaganda by calling for a summit meeting on world problems in general. But on June 16, by breaking off negotiations with Western ambassadors in Moscow, the Soviets all but wrecked any hope for a summit conference in 1958.

Then on July 14 came the Iraqi revolution and the call for American troops by President Chamoun of Lebanon and for British troops by King Hussein of Jordan. Their reasons were the same: fear their governments would be overthrown. American and British troops were sent in.

Khrushchev expressed fear of war, called the American and British action interference in the Middle East, and proposed a summit meeting to discuss the Middle East. He wasn't talking of world problems in general now.

The kind of summit meeting in colleges today they actually encounter students once in a while who test as geniuses but who can scarcely read the newspaper.

Modern education needs some drastic overhauling. Its exponents started out to do something that needed to be done, but many of them have ended up as the corrupters of the younger generation.

Perhaps we have to go back and forth, from one extreme to another, but as we go we must learn.

And there is no place where we need to learn more than in the field of education. If our educators tell us we in turn shall fail the nation and the world. Worse than that, we shall fail ourselves; worst of all we shall fail God.

By EARL L. DOUGLASS Is there anything the matter with American education? Yes. There always has been something the matter with education and there always will be, so long as it is administered by fallible adults and received by fallible and immature youngsters. Thirty years ago, education was incredibly impractical. Students were encouraged to stuff their heads with facts which by no possible chance could ever be made to contribute to their welfare and happiness. Today, educators think all too little about facts. We have remedial reading because children in the grades are not learning to read. Some youngsters, because they have not learned the alphabet, cannot look up words in the dictionary with any rapidity or take positions as filing clerks.

Moral In The Story

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) — It's a wise woman who avoids positive declarations and an all-or-nothing attitude.

The other day I overheard my young daughter, in a fit of pique, tell a small neighbor, "All right then, I won't be your friend — and I'll never play with you again."

Well, I had to laugh. It always makes me chuckle when I see a member of the feminine sex get up so high on a horse she doesn't know how to get down.

It reminds me of the sad fate of Mrs. Barnes.

The story begins about 40 years ago. Mrs. Barnes and her husband had eight children.

Barnes was a cheerful soul, just this side of shiftlessness. His wife, who came from what she claimed was a better family, was proud and ambitious. She was always after her husband to get a better job and make more money so they could live in a finer neighborhood. Mornings and nights she scolded him.

One night Barnes, who had stopped for a couple of beers on the way home, suddenly interrupted her in the middle of a long complaint:

"You got a mouth like a buzz saw. Don't you ever give it a rest?"

Startled, Mrs. Barnes glared at him. Her lips firmed in a thin line.

"Unless you apologize for that unkind remark, Mr. Barnes," she said sternly, "I'll never speak to you the rest of my life."

"Well, I ain't about to apologize, Mrs. Barnes," he replied.

Mrs. Barnes was a strong-minded woman, and her word was her bond. Day after day went by — and she spoke to her husband not at all. And he didn't speak to her.

At the start of this strange duel of silence Barnes felt uneasy and repentant. Several times he was on the verge of apologizing. Then one night it dawned on him how much more peaceful and restful his life had become. All at once he realized what a good thing he had — and from then on he was determined never to lose it.

He became more and more independent.

When meantime came, Mrs. Barnes would say to one of the children, "Joe, tell your paw supper's on the table, and gettin' cold."

After Joe had relayed the message to Barnes, who was only 15 feet away, he could answer, "Thank you, Joe. Tell your ma I'll come to the table when I'm turned good and ready — which will be in about five minutes."

Barnes, knowing he was safe from rebuttal, took to baiting his wife. Whenever he found a derogatory story about women in the newspaper, he would read it aloud, then say to one of the children: "In time there were 11 instead of 8."

"Jim, no woman in this world is worth the powder to blow her out of."

And Mrs. Barnes, hearing, would stab a needle viciously into her sewing. But pride held her helpless.

After 10 years Barnes caught pneumonia one winter's day. On his deathbed, surrounded by his 11 weeping offspring with his wife hovering in the background, Barnes reared up and said loud and clear:

"These are your pa's last words, young'uns. Tell your ma the last 10 years have been the happiest of my life, and I sure am grateful to her."

Then he fell back on the bed and died smiling.

Mrs. Barnes had the undertaker lay him out in the house. According to neighborhood gossip, she talked to him for three days and nights without stopping. But Barnes never heard a word and still had the smile on his face when they buried him.

Moral: It's terribly unsatisfying to try to punish someone and then find out you've actually done him a favor.

Moscow Mobs, Spontaneous, Unrehearsed

By BILLY ARNOLD

Research Was Revealing

They say all the world loves a fat man.

But that's not true. I've been doing a little research on the subject and you'd probably be surprised how many fat men are not loved.

There's Alfred Pridgen Forks, who weighs 954 pounds and is a freshman at the University of North Carolina. He stands only four feet tall and is a member of the Iota Pieta Fraternity there. He claims someone set fire to his bed one night last fall.

There is Leona Grumfus, of Galveston, Texas, who is a grandmother of three children and who weighs 700 pounds. She writes that every time she goes out of her house she is bitten by a ferocious Spitz dog that belongs to her neighbor. She says she has pleaded with her neighbor to get rid of the dog or to tie it up, but the neighbor only laughs.

There is 678-pound Joseph Silverburg of Sharnburg, Virginia, a used-bicycle salesman. Mr. Silverburg tells us that some thugs broke into his establishment last July and wrote MR. SILVERBURG IS FAT all over the walls in purple ink. Since that time his business has fallen off considerably. He claims that people never noticed it before, but that he was unable to scrub the ink off and that all his customers now notice his ponderousness and refuse to deal with him.

There is the late Pundit Kafkiput of India who tipped the scales at 590 pounds in his sandal-feet and who was ambassador to Turkey in 1944. His diary reveals that at a 1944 when he took over his position, he was greatly insulted by the government of Turkey. It seems that Kafkiput rode into Istanbul on an elephant in honor of his homeland and was given a royal parade by Turkish officials. Everybody turned out to greet the new ambassador. When he got down

Approximately 18 per cent, 51,000 of this group of aging persons has been found to be in need and is receiving old age assistance under this program which is supervised by the State Board of Public Welfare. The average age of the persons receiving this financial aid is 76. The average monthly payment is slightly more than $35.

Hospitalization is also available through the public welfare program to these needy old or persons who are receiving old age assistance. In addition to the money grants and hospitalization available to these persons who are too old to work, county departments of public welfare provide casework service which makes the money grants more effective. Illustrations of these nonfinancial services to older persons are: counseling with an older person who is disturbed because of the inattention of his family, visits by the caseworker to licensed boarding homes for the aging to help the operators better to meet the varied needs of older persons in the home, and other types of assistance which seek to build up the morale of older people who have little in the way of resources either in money or friends.

The many nonfinancial services for older persons through the county welfare department far outnumber the money grants given, Dr. Winston said. Newest of these is homemaker service being set up on a demonstration basis in Chatham and Harnett counties through a grant by the Doris Duke Foundation to the State Board of Public Welfare.

Nonfinancial services are available to persons irrespective of the economic bracket in which they may be. Most used of the services by persons in the higher economic brackets is planning for an aged relative in one of the more than 352 carefully supervised homes for the aged which are licensed by the State Board. Other nonfinancial services available to older people are: medical and health care service, family adjustment service, adult parole supervision, referrals to vocational rehabilitation, adult problem service, services to operators of boarding homes for adults, services to recipients of old age and survivors' insurance, county home service, placement of state hospital patients in suitable boarding homes and others.

Others that made more than the 74 per cent gain were cattle, not $16.97 but $27.50 per 100 pounds; copper, not 19.23 cents a pound but 24.82 cents; cotton, not 22.60 cents a pound, but 31.20 cents; hogs, not $14.22 but $22.50 per 100 pounds; petroleum, not $2.30 a barrel but $4.15; rubber, not 19 cents a pound but 26 cents; tin, not 51.33 cents a pound but 84.50 cents, and zinc, not 7.22 cents a pound but 10 cents.

At first glance, it looks as if the economists were wrong. But when prices are considered in light of changing demands, such as for plastics instead of hides and synthetics instead of silk; in the rise in requirements for petroleum products; Federal support for farm prices; the sharp increase in industrial wages, and various other factors, it's clear that the economists were not so far off after all.

In fact, their basic idea proved out fairly well.

By ELMER ROESSNER When the United States changed the price of gold from $20 to $35 a fine troy ounce, many economists said the prices of commodities would change in the same proportion. Since the government increased the price of gold by some 74 per cent, eventually all commodities would increase approximately the same per cent. All commodities, they said, have a basic relation to gold. Over the long term, they held, this relationship would assert itself. At the time, gold had been withdrawn as a medium of domestic exchange—and it has not been returned to this day. The fact that we were operating on fiat money made no difference, these economists declared. If we did not have a selling price for gold, at least we had a buying price, and other prices would adjust to that. CHANGES SINCE THEN The price of gold was changed on January 31, 1934, by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, under powers granted by Congress. Less than a year earlier the President, similarly empowered, froze all gold holdings and made paper money irredeemable in the yellow metal. Not all economists agreed that commodity prices would go up. Some said that since currency was not redeemable, prices would change very little as long as President Roosevelt and his successors maintained tight controls. Others said that since the currency had only an imaginary anchor in gold, prices would go up endlessly, perhaps to the point where they would double every week. For many years little happened. Prices fluctuated as they always do, perhaps a little more up than down. And then— THE UPWARD MARCH The Guaranty Trust Company of New York maintains a record of the wholesale prices of key commodities going back to 1912. By comparing the record of prices before the change in gold, say in midsummer, 1932, and the prices today, we can see the long-term trend in prices. Of 15 key commodities, no one is exactly 74 per cent higher than it was 26 years ago today. Eleven have gone up more than that figure; four have gone up less. The largest gain has been in iron and steel. If basic pig iron had gone up exactly 74 per cent, it would be $31.32 a gross ton. It is $66. Lead is close to the prediction; instead of an expected 9 cents a pound it is 11 cents. Wheat has gone up more, corn less. No. 1 northern spring wheat at Minneapolis would have been $1.56 a bushel; actually it was $2.43 on a comparable date. Corn, No. 2, Chicago, might have been $1.53 but it was only $1.37. "THREE MORE 'BARGAINS'" The three other commodities that rose less than expected are hides, which might have been 23 1/2 cents a pound but which are only 11 cents; silk, which might have been $5.14 a pound

Uniform Design For N. C. Seal

By LYNN NISBET

DISCREPANCIES — A marble plaque on the wall of the main building at the State School for the Deaf at Morganton and an inlaid replica of the Great Seal of the State of North Carolina on the floor do not agree. The plaque was on the original building erected in 1891 and it designates the institution as the "North Carolina School for the Deaf and Dumb." The inlaid floor seal, placed there when the building was remodeled during the PWA program in 1938 designates it the "North Carolina School for the Deaf." By the time it had been discovered that that people could be taught to talk, and that in the other common meaning of the word they were often less "dumb" than their hearing friends. The change in name is understandable, but nobody was found who could explain why the inlaid seal, placed there in 1938, did not comply with the law. Description of the Great Seal, required by the constitution of 1868 and set out by the General Assembly that year and amended several times—latest in 1893—provides that the standing woman shall hold in her right hand a scroll upon which is inscribed the word "Constitution." The seal at Morganton has instead the date May 20, 1775. The seated woman is the symbol of the date, motto and the two women, the background scenery varies widely. There is developing a good deal of sentiment for the next Legislature to describe in more detail the background as well as the main features, so as to establish a uniform design for the Great Seal of the State of North Carolina, and perhaps at the same time to fix appropriate colors.

WISERACKS — Here are a few wise-cracks picked up from the wise men who have been making the budget visits to the several State institutions: W.D. Carmichael Jr., vice president of the University, said he thought the grace said before a lunch-time meal by Brice Dixon of Gastonia was a most appropriate tribute to the budget commission. Dixon had referred to the "giver of all good gifts." Carmichael hoped the budgeteers would recognize the point he was making.

Whether or not the budget folks appreciated that, the people in Jackson county did. The budget group drove through the hardest rain encountered during the whole tour so far on their way to Cullowee—the first good rain that George Blanton Sr. has been a bank officer for more than 50 years, most of the time president of the bank. Now and then the three friends get together and wage friendly argument about who will outlive the others. The preacher says he covets the opportunity to preach the funerals of his friends and pay due tribute to their virtues. The doctor says he wants to sign death certificates for both the preacher and the banker. And the banker insists he's got to outlive them, because somebody will have to lend their families money to bury them.

George Corn, young enough to be the grandson of any of the trio, says he wants to live a long time—but he can't quite conceive of Shelby without the benign influence of Banker Blanton, Doctor Lattimore and Preacher Stults.

Since the government increased the price of gold by some 74 per cent, eventually all commodities would increase approximately the same per cent. All commodities, they said, have a basic relation to gold. Over the long term, they held, this relationship would assert itself. At the time, gold had been withdrawn as a medium of domestic exchange—and it has not been returned to this day. The fact that we were operating on fiat money made no difference, these economists declared. If we did not have a selling price for gold, at least we had a buying price, and other prices would adjust to that. CHANGES SINCE THEN The price of gold was changed on January 31, 1934, by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, under powers granted by Congress. Less than a year earlier the President, similarly empowered, froze all gold holdings and made paper money irredeemable in the yellow metal. Not all economists agreed that commodity prices would go up. Some said that since currency was not redeemable, prices would change very little as long as President Roosevelt and his successors maintained tight controls. Others said that since the currency had only an imaginary anchor in gold, prices would go up endlessly, perhaps to the point where they would double every week. For many years little happened. Prices fluctuated as they always do, perhaps a little more up than down. And then— THE UPWARD MARCH The Guaranty Trust Company of New York maintains a record of the wholesale prices of key commodities going back to 1912. By comparing the record of prices before the change in gold, say in midsummer, 1932, and the prices today, we can see the long-term trend in prices. Of 15 key commodities, no one is exactly 74 per cent higher than it was 26 years ago today. Eleven have gone up more than that figure; four have gone up less. The largest gain has been in iron and steel. If basic pig iron had gone up exactly 74 per cent, it would be $31.32 a gross ton. It is $66. Lead is close to the prediction; instead of an expected 9 cents a pound it is 11 cents. Wheat has gone up more, corn less. No. 1 northern spring wheat at Minneapolis would have been $1.56 a bushel; actually it was $2.43 on a comparable date. Corn, No. 2, Chicago, might have been $1.53 but it was only $1.37. "THREE MORE 'BARGAINS'" The three other commodities that rose less than expected are hides, which might have been 23 1/2 cents a pound but which are only 11 cents; silk, which might have been $5.14 a pound

Social Security Benefits Boost Moving Rapidly

WASHINGTON (AP)—An across the board increase in Social Security benefits moved rapidly toward election year action in Congress today.

The House Ways and Means Committee reached all but final agreement on a flat 7 per cent boost in old age and disability payments, with a minimum $3 increase for all persons now receiving retirement checks.

For those workers not yet at retirement age, it would mean deduction of up to $25.50 more a year from their take-home pay because of a one-quarter per cent hike in the Social Security tax and enlargement of their taxable wage base from $4,200 to $4,800.

The committee reached informal agreement on the benefit hike and an accompanying tax increase after rejecting a proposal for a flat 10 per cent raise in benefits.

Some members, however, were hopeful the Senate would change House figures to bring the increase near the 10 per cent level.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark) said he hoped to have a completed bill ready by Monday for presentation to the House, where passage was regarded as certain.

The benefit increase probably would take effect next year along with the accompanying hike in the tax rate.

The committee plan also calls for a speedup in the schedule of periodic tax increases now provided under present law. It would move up from 1975 to 1969 the date when the maximum tax on workers and employers alike fall due, and raise the final tax rate from 4 to 4 1/2 per cent.

One-Way Ticket For The Blind

MACAO (AP)—During the past few months more than 130 blind have crossed the Red China border into this Portuguese colony on visas that don't permit their return to China.

They say the Reds made it virtually impossible for them to practice their traditional trades of masseurs, fortune tellers and street singers. Begging is strictly forbidden. The Reds made no effort to find them other employment.

Up until a few months ago they couldn't get exit visas. Suddenly, in April, they were given one-way visas and advised to leave.

Life in overpopulated Macao isn't any picnic either, but "at least we can beg in peace," the refugees said.

Largest Soil Conservation Watershed Project Slated

By PENN GRAY Staff Writer, The Robesonian (Written for The Associated Press LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Preliminary approval has just been granted the largest Soil Conservation Service watershed protection and flood control project in North Carolina.

Priority for the job has not been assigned, but soon SCS specialists will move into the half million-acre Lumber River watershed to map control tributaries and the opening of major channels in the drainage system.

The system includes Drowning Creek in Montgomery County and Lumber River to the South Carolina line as they pass through Moore, Hoke and Scotland counties.

Actually, the project includes three separate watersheds, one flowing into another. It had to be that way because the enabling Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act of the 83rd Congress limits project size to 250,000 acres.

The Lumber River drainage system covers much more than that, originating in the foothills and flowing down to the coastal plains to join the Pee Dee in the northern edge of South Carolina.

Watershed protection under the act is no novelty since the first in the state dates back to January 1955, but the others are of a much more confined character and do not involve the variety of problems and benefit forseen in the Lumber River job.

And although 22 other projects have been approved for planning, construction has actually been authorized on only two, one of 115,300 acres in the counties of Davidson, Forsyth, Guilford and Randolph, and another of 75,000 acres in Yadkin County.

Benefit forseen in the Lumber River job, in no other are so many counties involved and in no other case do more than one such project inter-connect, except for a couple of which cross state lines.

Benefits envisioned for Drowning Creek and Lumber River are varied: control of erosion and lowland flooding along the upper reaches; the conservation of irrigation water for the entire length of the project; swamp drainage in the flatlands; protection of residential areas about Lumberton from flood, and the protection of a potentially valuable industrial development area from the same threat.

City water supply protection would be another advantage, as one aim of such a project is to stabilize water flow in main channels to prevent a feast or famine of water supply.

If the rate of progress of similar projects approved earlier is a criterion, work will not begin in the immediate future, but the scope of the plan and the variety of advantages are expected to push it along.

There are three conservation districts involved, but they have already joined organizational forces and have secured approval of city and county governments to go ahead with preliminary planning. After surveys and engineering recommendations are available plans for maintenance of structures must be made; original construction will be federally financed and only original cost to local governments will be possible costs of easements for right-of-way.

Major planning will be concerned with the control of flow of tributaries, from Candor to south of Lumberton. Principal structures will be earth dams. Channel clearance will be a big job. Channels have been blocked by sediment from erosion as well as by trees and brush.

Biggest of the three inter-related drainage projects is at the extreme north end of the watershed, beginning at Candor in Montgomery County and covering 225,000 acres in that county, and in Moore, Hoke and Scotland. Second of the sub areas begins at Maxton and embraces five major tributary watersheds in Robeson County and a small area in Hoke for a total of $152,350 acres.

Third of the areas starts in Hoke west of Raeford and includes six major tributaries fed by dozens of lesser streams.

When construction is completed local government will be faced with maintenance costs, but another federal agency, Farm Home Administration, is authorized to make loans for much of this and the organization of some sort of drainage district plan is forseen.

Between 1948 and 1955 the output per man increased by two-fifths on British farms.

Big Afternoon Until Caught

KANSAS CITY (AP)—It was an exciting afternoon for the two boys aged 8 and 9.

Then Patrolman Ben Way arrested them and asked if they knew what had happened to the piggy bank containing $60 missing from the nearby apartment of Mrs. Josephine Winslow.

The boys admitted taking the money and told of buying hamburgers, malted milks, flashlights and knives and a chihuahua.

"I've always wanted a chihuahua," one said. He cost $45. The dog will go back to the pet shop.

Ready To Try 92 South Africans

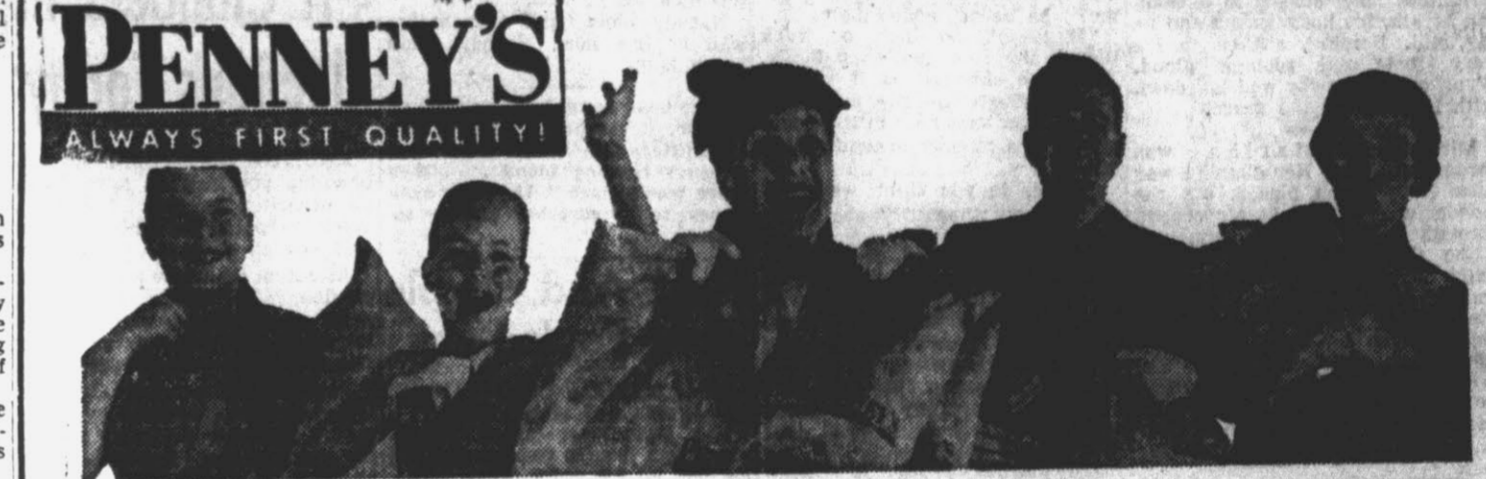

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—The South African government will bring to trial next week 92 persons who, it charges, have been trying to convert South Africa into a Communist state.

The defendants claim they were only seeking an end to the government's policy of apartheid—white supremacy and strict segregation.

The 92, including African and Indian political leaders, will go on trial here Aug. 1 before a special court of three judges. The charge, high treason, could bring hanging.

A defense fund, which has gathered money from many parts of the world, will provide lunches and nine attorneys for the defendants.

On a nationwide basis, the most dangerous time for hail storms is a June afternoon between 2 and 9 p.m.

Ernie Ford Comfortable In His TV Show Format

By GARBER DAVIDSON HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tennessee Ernie Ford was asked if he planned any changes in his television show this fall. He didn't say yes or no or maybe. He said: "No use digging bait when you get a boatload of fish."

That's a Fordism. Ernie's no simple yes or no man. When the occasion calls for it he comes out with a country-style metaphor to fit. And usually it fits very nicely.

Asked for a few typical Ford phrases he came up with a hefty list, some of Tennessee origin and others coined by Ernie. Here they are, mostly self-explanatory:

"I'm tired as a two-pound hen that's laid a three-pound egg." "Thicker than fleas on a wet dog." "Colder than a beaver's belly."

"I handed you a bucket. You may as well milk."

"Nervous as a long-tailed cat in a roomful of rocking chairs." "I feel like I been rode hard and put away wet."

"She's built like a sackful of doorknobs." "Redder than a rander's feet in a huckleberry patch."

"Tossed me from the buggy before I was finished riding." "It's as useful as a milking stool under a bull." "It caused as much talk as a new rooster in the hen house."

though he does appear at state and county fairs. His other entertainment activity is making records.

Ole Ernie is a strong believer in the relaxed, comfortable school of television.

"Bringing a show into the home is altogether different from the theater or a night club," he commented. "I keep remembering that I am being watched in the living room, where people are relaxed—where Pop is in his shirt-sleeves, and where there is no baby-sitter and they can change the channel at any moment."

Maybe the hillbilly singer has got himself a pretty good formula. At any rate, while his network (NBC) was retrenching and still hadn't re-sold many of its shows for the fall season, Ford was already signed up tight by his old sponsor and already making commercials for fall.

Ernie Ford is doing very well in television and television is his mainstay. Unlike many other entertainers, he does not make movies or go out on night club dates, al-

CHAPTER 32

Torn as he was between bitter regret and the instinctive need to cover his own guilt, Wynn Thomas had not fully decided what he was going to do until he saw Martha Kilgore go plunging through the deadly circle of fire.

A dozen yards away Tony Miller deliberately raised his rifle. Stark terror chilled Wynn's blood as he realized that Wynn was trying to get a bead on the running girl.

In that split second of horror Wynn made his decision. With a wild yell he ran for Tony Miller, dived headlong at the little man's legs. His tackle fell short of its purpose of knocking Tony down, but it did knock the rifle off aim as Tony pressed the trigger.

Before Tony could gather his wits to resist, Wynn scrambled up, wrestled the rifle from his grasp and threw it to the ground. He threw it not around one of Tony's legs, lunged his full weight hard against him and they both went down in a tumbling, clawing, fist-pounding struggle.

Wynn was aware of no pain, only of his insane urge to punish and kill. For his size Tony Miller was tough, but his clawing defense was no match for the bigger man's range, and now he knew it. Suddenly he quit struggling.

Wynn's fist smashed into his face. Tony's bleeding lips drew back from the big teeth that were his chief resemblance to Billy the Kid, this time not in a gunman's cold grin but in something like the whimpering pout of a hurt child.

"Wynn—" He covered his face with both hands. "Don't!"

Deliberately then, Wynn drew the gun from inside his belt and shot him. Tony sucked in a gasping breath, his body jerked and he lay still. Panting, shaken to his very roots and sobbing aloud, Wynn crawled away and lay down with his head in the grass.

Miraculously, Martha was through the fire. Her clothing was afire in a dozen places, but the wonderfully cool night air seeped through to her burning skin.

She threw herself down on a patch of short grass and rolled frantically, then sat up and beat the rest of the fire out of her clothing with her hands. She yanked off her new boots. They had protected her well while she was actually in the fire, but they were scorched and blistered and now their heat was getting through to her feet.

Then she jumped up and ran for the cabin. The front door was open, and the light from the fire lit it almost like daylight.

Slade Considine was lying on the floor just inside the door. She saw how still he was and how his right side was soaked with blood, and thought for a moment he was dead. Then, kneeling beside him, she felt the strong, steady beat of his heart. For an instant her eyes were blurred with tears and a little choked sob rose in her throat.

There was water in a bucket on a bench by the door. She dipped a towel in it and bathed the bruise on his head that was still slowly oozing blood.

She glanced out of the door. The flames were shooting higher now as they kindled on fallen dead aspen, and the fire was creeping steadily toward the cabin with deadly sureness.

She lifted the cowboy's head and shook him by the shoulders. "Slade!" she begged. "Slade, wake up!"

Slade groaned as if her frightened voice had finally reached through to his consciousness. She shook him again. His eyelids fluttered open and he looked up at her blankly.

For a moment the blankness stayed in his face, then he shook his head as if trying to clear the fog out of it. He tried to sit up, fell back with a groan, and for one frightened instant Martha thought he had fainted again.

Then she realized the full horror of his situation. They hadn't hit him for dead and built the fire to cover their tracks. They had deliberately left a live man, tied, helpless, to face the most horrible of deaths.

She cut the ropes on his wrists, then rubbed his hands for a moment, knowing they must be numb from stopped circulation.

Slade sat up, and the movement brought his face for the first time into the full glare of the fire through the door. His eyes swept the creeping semicircle of flame, then he looked down at the girl at his side. Now he saw the black burned patches on her clothes, the great livid welt along one white cheek and neck.

"You came through that — for me?" he asked wonderingly. "It wasn't so high or thick then," she said matter-of-factly. Then she shivered as if with a chill although the fire was close enough now that here in the doorway it was already uncomfortably hot.

"Slade, do you think we could get through it again?" she asked doubtfully.

He shook his head, reached for the girl's hand and held it tight. "I'm afraid not," he said slowly. "Is there another way out up the creek? There's no fire that way." She knew even as she asked the question that that hope was useless, for Tony Miller would never have left Slade even that slim chance of escape.

The cowboy shook his head again. "I never heard of it. The canyon boxes the whole valley in. Rock walls — at least seventy feet high and straight up — except for the gap. Escabrosa Creek comes from one big spring up a little ways back of the house."

Martha took a long breath. "Well, we might see what we can do climbing. I'd rather fall off a cliff than roast."

Slade didn't answer for a long moment, and she knew he was debating whether to destroy this hope, too, or not. Finally he said slowly: "It isn't a question of falling or not, Martha. It's a question of being able to climb anywhere to fall from. When I said straight up, I meant straight up. If we had daylight and enough time we might find some spot where we could try."

Already the smoke was strong and acrid in their nostrils and lungs, even here in the cabin. "We'll try the creek," Slade was saying. "There used to be a good-sized pool where some old beaver dams backed the water up pretty deep under the lip of the cliffs. Maybe if there isn't too much timber around there to catch fire blankly. Already he was heading out the door. He picked up a double-bitted axe from the woodpile behind the cabin as she followed. But when they reached the pool where the creek skirted the cliff, even in the smudgy fire glow, Slade could see that not only thick alder and willow clumps grew to the very edge of the pool, but that old dry beaver cuttings and driftwood hemmed it in as well. Once the fire got into this, even in the pool they would certainly suffocate if they did not burn.

Slade reached out an arm and pulled the girl tight against him. "Martha! I'm so sorry you came back up here!"

She raised her head and found a steady smile for him. "I'm not! We'll think of something to do yet. Beulah has gone for help! They'll get to us, won't they?"

"Yes, probably they will." He tried to put plenty of confidence in his voice, determined not to blast this hope for her too.

Nobody could fight through that wall of fire now. Nobody could reach them.

The body came hurtling through the air. It crashed through the top of a fifteen-foot aspen. There was a heavy rustling sound . . . then there was silence. The story continues to a surprise climax tomorrow.

Neat And Simple Trap Fouled Up

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—It was a neat and simple trap. The undercover agent bought marijuana from a peddler and put his foot on his car's brake pedal. The blinking light was to have been the signal for lawmen to pop out of bushes and make the arrest.

Everything went according to plan yesterday except: The tail light was burned out. Police finally gave chase but were forced to give up. A tire blew out.

However, a suspect, Willie L. Harper, 32, was nabbed later leaving a tavern. He was charged with sale and possession of marijuana.

4-H Clubbers In Elections Today

RALEIGH (AP)—Youthful campaigners got in final licks today as delegates to state 4-H Club Week prepared to choose their 1958 council officers.

Attention turned to politics from fashion, following the annual 4-H dress revue staged last night in Reynolds Coliseum on the North Carolina State College campus.

Brenda Dellinger of Rt. 1, Stanley, won the dressmaking prize with a sky blue wool suit matching her blue eyes. She won a trip to the national 4-H Club Congress in Chicago this fall.

Health will be in the spotlight tonight, with the annual health pageant and crowning of a 4-H king and queen of health.

Primary balloting this afternoon narrowed the field of candidates for posts on the state 4-H Club Council. In races where a run-off is necessary, final voting will be held tomorrow.

The week-long program, including special interest classes and finals in demonstration contests, will end tomorrow night with a traditional candlelight ceremony.

Contest winners picked yesterday included Eddie Davis of Mecklenburg, who placed first in the public speaking for boys. Glenn Seymour of Franklin County took second place.

Miss Dellinger, a Lincoln County club member, had placed in the top five in last year's dress revue. The outfit which won her the top place this year included a silk print blouse and hat, complementing a light-weight wool suit.

Maryorene Byrd of Rt. 2, Elkin, placed second, and Patricia Lou Alsop of Nashville was third, followed by Jane Owens of Moore County and Carolyn Martin of Jackson County.

French Army Pushing For Moslem Turn-Out

By ANDREW BOROWIEC ALGIERS (AP) — The French army in Algeria is trying to insure Moslem participation in the French constitutional referendum which could give a key to Algeria's future. The vote is tentatively set for Oct. 5, but the electoral lists have to be completed tomorrow to allow time for legal challenges, issuing of voting cards and other administrative chores. The vote is expected to be simply "yes" or "no." Yes for sweeping changes in the French political system and Algeria's probable integration into France, no for the continuation of the Fourth Republic.

But in rebellion-torn Algeria the question is whether the Moslem population will vote at all. By not showing up at the polls, the Moslems would indicate they want no part in shaping France's destiny but favor independence, the rebellion's aim. As put by the French supreme commander in Algeria, Gen. Raoul Salan, the army's task is "to win the battle of the referendum."

A team of psychological warfare experts, headed by Col. Charles Lacheroy, began an extensive propaganda campaign aimed at persuading the Moslems to vote. Lacheroy said the army "will do everything in its power to assure that the people have access to voting places and security while they vote." Under French electoral law, each citizen is automatically inscribed on the list in his home county when he reaches 21. But in Algeria few Moslems have voted before. In the so-called pacified areas, the task of compiling the lists has been assigned to special administrative officers. On the day of the voting, the army will offer transportation to the polling places. The army will have to provide armed convoys, reinforced guards and patrols to prevent any rebel attempts at disrupting the voting. French authorities are silent on the number of Moslem voters, but of the 8½ million Moslems about four million should be qualified.

Giving Up Cars For Sons' Sake

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Parents of two Tampa boys are giving up their family cars for 90 days rather than let their sons go to jail. Peace Justice W. Marion Hendrix, convicted Richard M. Steele, 18, and Bruce C. Everett, 17, of willful and wanton reckless driving. He postponed sentencing them for 90 days on condition the boys surrender their drivers' licenses and their parents turn in the license plates to the cars used in a race. The mother of each boy ruled the car would be grounded.

Ghost Plays For Summer Weather

TOKYO (AP)—The hot weather has begun in Tokyo and the famed Kabuki theaters have started their special kind of air conditioning—ghost plays. These plays are performed only during July and August. One critic explains: "Ghost plays give the audience cold shivers. They make one feel as if icy fingers were crawling up and down one's spine. In other words, the audience is given a thrill that makes them feel cool."

Disturb Sleep But Not Peace

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Crowing roosters may disturb your sleep in St. Joseph, but they don't disturb the peace. So ruled Police Judge Ace Porter in directing acquittal for barber Mark Whittaker. Eleven of Whittaker's neighbors filed a complaint charging him with disturbing the peace on the ground that his rooster began crowing each morning about 3 o'clock and kept them from sleeping.

Collision Killed Five In Family

GAINESVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Five members of an east Texas family were killed last night when their car and a trailer-truck collided head on nine miles east of here. The victims were identified as Ara Lona Day, 60-year-old Kirbyville mechanic, his wife, two daughters, about 8 and 14, and an 18-month-old son. The driver of the truck, Jim Forrest Robinson, 24, of Berger, was uninjured.

First Of Giant Jets Produced

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—The first B52G jet bomber, which may be able to fly halfway around the world without refueling, rolled off the production line at Boeing Airplane Co. yesterday. Boeing says the new plane is in the 650 m.p.h. class, can go higher than 50,000 feet and has better range than its 6,000 mile plus predecessor. Aviation writers who saw the plane estimated its range at 19,000 miles.

New Shake Up In Ranks Of ABC Board Started

RALEIGH (AP)—A new shake-up in the ranks of North Carolina Alcoholic Beverage Control personnel headed today for a show-down. State ABC Chairman William S. Hunt Jr. was scheduled to act this afternoon on resignations from three veteran employees in his department. Hunt confirmed yesterday that the three had handed in their resignations at his request. He said he delayed a final decision because the three asked an opportunity to present "additional information which they feel has a bearing on the matter in question."

Air Force Lifts Veil On Atlas

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (AP)—New facts have been disclosed about the Air Force's powerful Atlas missile. The missile's propulsion system, a cluster of liquid-propellant rocket engines, the Air Force said yesterday. It consists of a twin-chambered booster engine which sends the Atlas to the edge of space, a sustainer engine which keeps it on course at high altitudes and two small stabilizing engines to control roll. The thrust power of the system, designed and developed by Rocketdyne, a division of North American Aviation, Inc., was not disclosed.

Rumored Choice For Shah's Wife

LONDON (AP)—Raven-haired Lily Myhra Falah has been summoned back to Tehran from an exclusive English finishing school, leaving behind a buzz of speculation that she will be the Shah of Iran's next queen.

Friends of the beautiful 18-year-old Iranian girl say she will fly to Paris next week to choose a trousseau for her wedding to the handsome 38-year-old monarch. The friends say the wedding may be sometime in October. For weeks, Lily's secret has been kept at the Paddock Wood Finishing School, which lies among rolling heathland and is surrounded by lawns and flowers. There are 48 girls—mostly foreign—at the school. "Only a few of us knew about Lily and we did not think it good for the other girls to tell them," said the matron last night. "Two weeks ago a chauffeur-driven car arrived here from the Iranian Embassy and Lily left to catch a plane to Tehran." Lily is tall, olive-skinned and the daughter of Reza Falah, wealthy boss of Iran's nationalized oil industry. He reportedly was called to the Shah four months ago and told Lily was among those being considered to become the Shah's wife, succeeding ex-Suraya in March because she had not borne him an heir to the throne. The jurist who drafted the Ordinance of Secession in the Civil War was a Mississippian named Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus Lamar. Later he was an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Searchers Led By Dog's Tracks

ATMORE, Ala. (AP)—A dog's tracks led searchers to where a 75-year-old retired physician, missing three days, was lying in a cornfield about two miles from his home. Dr. Nicholas Thomas Stallworth has suffered several strokes and is unable to speak or write, could not tell what had happened. He was in fair condition. A sister said the physician apparently sustained himself by eating raw corn. He failed to return from a Sunday walk with his cocker spaniel. The dog was found by a passer-by as it came out of the cornfield yesterday. The dog's tracks were followed to where Stallworth lay.

Actions Of New Iraq Govm't Indicate No Red Taint

Editor's Note — Talbot Patrick, editor-publisher of the Rock Hill (S.C.) Evening Herald, arrived in Baghdad two days before the July 14 revolution overthrew the monarchy. Here is his report on the politics of the new revolutionary government, written for The Associated Press.

By TALBOT PATRICK
(Written for The AP)
BAGHDAD (AP) — Iraq's new revolutionary government, by actions even more convincingly than by words, has shown that it is not pro-Communist.

The first day of the revolt, Iraqi newspapermen told me repeatedly later. Communist leaders proposed to the army officers leading the rebellion that a National Guard or militia be formed to help in possible defense of the new government. The proposal, I was told, was turned down flat. During the first two days of the revolution, Communist and anti-Western slogans were red-painted on many walls and houses. Signs were put on the front of British-owned stores and firms: "Don't buy from foreigners."

By the third day, the army officers who led the revolution were bringing into the government, as Cabinet ministers and in other important positions, mature men of known ability and recognized position. Most of them had records of opposition to the former regime.

Then the army issued an order that anybody caught painting up Communist slogans would be court-martialed. Under army directions, the red paint of the Communist slogans was blanketed out with green paint.

blanketed out from the reports and editorials they read all pet words and phrases of the Communist line, according to Iraqi newspaper acquaintances.

Although there now is the censorship of newspapers, local newspapermen look forward to a time when the new government feels more safely established. They hope then for more freedom than under the royal regime.

Until the revolution, every newspaper appeared only under license issued by the police. Cancellation of a license or suspension for a specified period because of something displeasing to the authorities was only too common in past years.

Since the revolution, one newspaper favorable to the former government has been suspended by governor's order. Using its equipment, a new paper under different ownership and named "The Republic" now appears.

One newspaperman told me that he was in effect putting his head in a noose — if the revolution should fail — by writing for the issue then in preparation that the revolt meant the coming of freedom for the people of Iraq.

What was said to me repeatedly in different ways was pointed up by the comment of one man who drove me by the burned-out British Embassy: "That's where this country was ruled from for 38 years."

He referred, of course, to British influence in Iraq. After the Arabs had been promised freedom from helping the British in World War I against the Turks, who had ruled them for 400 years, British mandates were set up for Iraq (Mesopotamia) and Palestine, and French mandates for Lebanon and Syria.

Before the mandate over Iraq ended in 1932, the British helped install as rulers of Iraq members of the Hashemite princely family from Hejaz (Arabia). The Hashemite rulers and the cabinets and government departments which ran the country for them naturally were considered sensitive to British thinking and wishes.

Iraqis who were interested and sympathetic observers of the new revolutionary government said the new regime definitely does not intend that Iraq become a part of the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria. They feel their country can go ahead faster if it uses all its oil revenue for improvements within the country rather than if it shares the money.

Nevertheless there is a strong conviction that eventually there will be a single Arab nation. But not one dominated by Egypt, as the U.A.R. is.

"Egypt is not Arab," said one Iraqi, referring to the fact that Egypt is not part of the Arabian peninsula. "Nasser, himself, is an Arab and he knows the truth of what we say, even though at this time he talks so much about Egypt being an Arab nation."

"If this revolution should fail," said another Iraqi, "there will be another and another and another. We have had upsets in the past, fights against the British. If this fails, we'll keep on until we win freedom."

"And, in the same way, eventually there will be one Arab nation. The Western nations would be wise to recognize this, we don't want to be forced to the East, but if the West is against us, we will be forced to the East."

Child Drowns, Distraught Wife Slays Her Husband

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — A distraught Negro mother shot and killed her husband near here early today climaxing a sustained argument over the drowning of their son hours earlier.

Mrs. Beaula Goode, 38, was lodged in jail here without privilege of bond charged with murder in the shooting of her husband, Giles, also 38.

Meanwhile, her son, Maurice, 15, who drowned as she lay sleeping yesterday morning, was to be buried this afternoon.

As the argument over their son's death grew more heated, police quoted Mrs. Goode as saying her husband threatened her: "There'll be more than one body in the house," she quoted him.

Officers said Goode was seated in bed, still arguing, when Mrs. Goode seized a single barrel .16 gauge shotgun and fired at him.

Officers said Mrs. Goode gave this version: She had been up late Tuesday night and lay down Wednesday morning for a nap. Maurice said he was going with some other children to a creek near their home in the Shady Rest community near Robinson Lake.

She told him not to go. About noon, her brother, Oliver Brooks, 16, rushed home and said that Maurice had drowned in the lake.

She notified her husband who worked in Gastonia and when he returned home, he began an argument that continued during the day and into the night.

"There'll be more than one body when they bring Maurice home," he told her.

She said he was seated in bed, still arguing, when she picked up the gun and fired.

The shooting climaxed a day of tragedy in Gaston County. Two other boys also drowned in another accident.

GAMBLING GOES ON
CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Recession or no recession, folks gamble. State tax commission reports show Nevada gambling casinos won $24 million dollars in the first six months of this year—almost 5 million more than in the same pre-recession period last year. The state's tax share amounted to 2 1/2 million.

Budget Body Visits Port In Wilmington

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The Advisory Budget Commission covered the waterfront today with a visit to state port facilities here.

The touring budget-makers also gave attention to education on a trip to Wilmington College. Later in the day, they were to go to Pembroke College in Robeson County.

At each stop, commission members and state budget officials heard requests for capital improvements the institutions and agencies hope to secure from the next General Assembly. They will use the information in preparing budget recommendations for the Legislature.

Requests for $654,000 in improvements at the Morehead City Port were placed before the commission yesterday. The projects listed by State Ports Director D. Leon Williams included a storage warehouse estimated to cost half a million dollars.

Other stops yesterday were at the Commercial Fisheries Division in Morehead City, Tryon Palace in New Bern, and the State Training School for Negro Girls at Kinross.

Fisheries Commissioner Gehrman Holland presented no requests for capital improvements, but he told the budget group his division hopes to get $7,192 for additional personnel.

Ports Director Williams said new warehouse storage space will be needed if the Morehead City port is to expand its tobacco shipping.

"It is being proven at both North Carolina ports that ample warehouse space for storing tobacco at ship-side is the secret for the increase in overseas shipment," he declared.

The items, listed in importance, were: Seven new fork lifts, $42,000; wharf improvements, $12,000; repairs to transit shed, $10,000; prefab garage for serving vehicles and equipment, $16,400; gutters for new metal transit shed, $2,200; new office building, $32,000; new storage warehouse, $500,000; construction of railway to proposed warehouse, $35,000; and stevedore offices, $5,200.

His Savings All Over Sidewalk

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mrs. Peter J. Maida turned the 1957 directory over to the telephone company employe when he came to the house with this year's directory.

A few minutes later bills in denominations of $10, $20, $50 and $100 were fluttering along the sidewalk. A little boy ran up to his father with $120. A woman gave a policeman $195.

This much at least was accounted for when her husband, a master sergeant, came home and told his wife he kept his $890 savings in the book.

DETROIT (AP)—Three-year-old Nettie Angevine wanted to send a gift to her grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Angevine, who is recovering from an operation.

The only thing Nettie has that is all hers is her kitten Blackie. She dropped the little animal into a wide-mouthed mailbox without benefit of stamp or address.

A neighbor child saw Nettie and told the girl's father. He called postal authorities, who opened the box and found Blackie asleep on a pile of letters.

Whiteville, Lenoir Battling For N.C. Teen-er League Championship

By BILLY ARNOLD

Whiteville and Lenoir clashed this afternoon at 3:30 at Guy Smith Stadium for the North Carolina VFW State Teen-er League baseball crown.

The two clubs earned berths in the championship bracket with a hectic Wednesday output, in which both clubs claimed two victories over other clubs in the six-team tournament.

Whiteville defeated defending champion Gastonia and Lenoir; Lenoir topped Elizabeth City and Greenville. A consolation contest between Greenville and Lenoir was played this morning at 9:30, the results of which will be posted on the front page of this paper in bulletin form. As the sports page goes to press, the game is yet unplayed.

Up The Ladder

The North Carolina Teen-er League champions—either Whiteville or Lenoir—will play host to Greenville, Tennessee, on August 1 to determine the Area Champions. The two champs will battle in just one game and the winner of that contest will journey next to Hershey, Pennsylvania, to take part in the National playoffs.

In 1956, the North Carolina champion, Gastonia, advanced to the National finals before being eliminated. Gastonia also copped the state championship again in 1957 and was the favored club in this year's State Teen-er Tourney.

Whiteville's 4-3 victory over the favored Gastonia club yesterday morning in the tournament's opening ball game at Guy Smith Stadium set the trend for the whole tourney. It was a staggering upset, so far as the predictions were concerned. The Whiteville hurler held Gastonia to a single hit while his club pounded out three and eventually took charge of the situation.

And Another One

The hustling Lenoir outfit then posted the second major upset of the tournament in knocking off Greenville in a hectic 8-6 tilt. Greenville was given top billing along with Gastonia for the tourney. The locals earned their berth in the State fracas by whipping their District foe 7-1 and 15-0 and were predicted to be in the running for the title.

Lenoir took charge of the game, posting two runs in the second inning and then making it six to one in the third on a grand-slam homerun by centerfielder Steve Sunlin.

Greenville came back in the sixth inning to score five runs and tie the game, but a final-inning surge by the Lenoir team finished it 8-6 and put Greenville on ice.

Ken Joyner and Malcolm Griffith were the Greenville pitchers. It was Griffith's loss. Hurling for the winners were Jim Cooke and Jackie Keller. It was Keller's victory.

One-Sided Tilt

Whiteville polished off Lenoir easily at ECC in yesterday afternoon's other game. Jim Kersey and Clarence Inman hurled six-hit ball while their teammates blasted two Lenoir pitchers for eight hits and 11 runs. They had leads of 7-1, 9-1, and finally 11-6 during the game.

Lincolnton came apart at the seams in the early innings to allow Whiteville two runs in the first inning, five more in the second and two more in the fourth. Then, in the sixth frame, Lincolnton rallied for five runs in a bunch and made the score 9-5. Whiteville came back for two more in the bottom of the sixth to end it, 11-6.

Kersey was the winner. Lincolnton used Jake Withers and relieved him with Bob Beal in the seventh. It was Beal's loss.

Leading the way for Whiteville at the plate was leftfielder Leon Fonville, who had four hits in five trips to the plate.

Greenville Little Leaguers Play At Havelock Today

HAVELOCK — Greenville's Tar Heel and North State Little League All-Star teams begin play in the District playoffs here today — in leg each other.

The clubs drew lots last week to determine the set-up for the tournament, and Greenville will face Greenville at 4:00 this afternoon at the Havelock park.

The other pairings feature Fort Pagg against Havelock at 10:00 this morning. Tarboro against Beaufort at 2:00 this afternoon. That will complete the first round action today.

New spread also gives two extra sticks in every pound

There's a brand new spread at your grocer's today. A whipped spread—brand new Honey Gold Margarine.

It's flavor-whipped to spread evenly on bread. Even icy-cold, Honey Gold won't crumble your tender hot breads!

It's flavor-whipped to give you an instant burst of fresh, sweet flavor never before possible in a spread.

You get more sticks. Not just 4, but 6 full-size sticks—2 extra sticks in every pound.

Look for flavor-whipped Honey Gold in the big blue-and-yellow package in your grocer's refrigerated case.

Fort Bragg-Havelock tilt will face low that the Tar Heels would be favored over the North Staters due to this fact, but no such predictions have been made. There was a general shake-up in the Greenville leagues last year, with most of the performing players in both circuits passing on due to age. The 1958 All-Star clubs are full of new faces, untried and as yet, unpredictable.

No starting lineups have been announced by either Tar Heel Coaches Neely James, Jerry Phillips and Tom Money, or by North State Coaches Clint Joyner, R. B. Starling, and Randy Bass.

The rosters are as follows: North State Leaguers — Dan Johnston, Alec Blalock, Claude Christopher, John Flanagan, Alton Clapp, Bit Johnston, Mike Morton, Clint Joyner Jr., Robbie Powell, Reid Kennedy, Jim Gilliam, Victor Henderson, Linwood Manning, Douglas Alan Nichols.

Tar Heel Leaguers — Tommy Smith, Frank Moye, Jim Maloney, Mike Cavendish, Connie McGowan, Wayne Evans, Frank Harper, Billy Cannon, Dale Gidley, Ken Smith, Larry Taylor, Wade Sumerlin, Jimmy Medin, Howard Hadley.

Thus, going into the opening rounds of play today, Greenville is assured of a position in the semi-finals, one way or the other. In 1957, it was the Greenville Tar Heel League which copped the

Hi-Toms Still Have Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. That half-game edge High Point-Thomasville has over Greensboro, in the tight race for the Carolina League lead, held up last night.

The Hi-Toms won over Raleigh 4-2. Veteran Jack Taylor pitched his 13th victory of the season against seven defeats.

Greensboro went 11 innings to edge Winston-Salem 6-5.

In Durham, the Bulls beat Burlington 5-4 in 12 innings.

Danville outslugged Wilson 14-11. Six circuit-blogs featured the contest.

Taylor, 35-year-old Hi-Toms' righthander, missed a sautout in the ninth when pinch-hitter Walt Brady's double brought in the only two runs for Raleigh. Jack Davis and Bill Ford smashed home runs to lead the Hi-Toms.

Winston-Salem slipped behind 5-1, but battled back to tie the score in late innings. Greensboro took the decision on a single by Tom Keen, which scored Buddy Klidiffer from second in the 11th.

Durham won its fourth straight by outslugging Burlington. An unearned run in the 12th frame won the game.

Danville rallied for five runs in the ninth to emerge with its win.

Games tonight: Greensboro at Winston-Salem, Burlington at Durham, Danville at Wilson, and Hi-Toms at Raleigh.

Linville Ladies Golf Tourney In Semifinals

LINVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Medalist Beville Nabers meets Betty Long and defending champion Miss W. B. Cooke meets Clara Mosack in the semifinals of the Linville Ladies Invitational golf tournament today.

Miss Nabers, 19, of St. Petersburg, Fla., took an easy 5 and 4 victory yesterday over Ms. Frank Blackford of Birmingham, Ala., while the youthful Miss Long of Raleigh shaded veteran Minnie Deschamps of Sumter, S.C., 1 up on the 21st hole.

Mrs. Cooke and Miss Mosack, members of the same Charlotte club and familiar tournament foes, earned 2 and 1 victories in their matches against two other Charlotteans. Mrs. Cooke ousted Mrs. Bobbie Sisk while Miss Mosack eliminated Mrs. Hugh Dick.

Shelby Playing In Legion Series

ALBEMARLE, N.C. (AP) — It's Shelby at Kannapolis for the first game tomorrow night of a best-of-seven series for the American Legion Junior Baseball western championship.

Kannapolis won a coin flip here last night to play host for the opening tilt. The teams play alternate nights in Kannapolis and Shelby.

The site of the opening of the Massey Hill-Siler City series will be determined tonight. The best-of-seven series is to start Friday for the eastern title.

Western and eastern tilts battle for the state championship starting Aug. 4 at the western champion's home grounds.

Brown Retains Title By Decision Over Kenny Lane

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
 HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Boxing's thinnest man, miniature dark destroyer Joe Brown, is going to get a good rest, a reward for being one of the busiest champions in the same today.

Little Joe beat Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., the last persistent challenger for his world's lightweight title, last night before the largest crowd in Texas boxing history — 10,994.

Lou Viscusi, Brown's manager, observed: "He is the only champion to defend his title three times in eight months. He deserves a rest. I have no plans for him at this time. I am now concentrating on the Floyd Patterson-Roy Harris fight."

Viscusi also manages Harris. Brown won a unanimous but close decision over Lane, the rugged farm boy from Michigan, who had some bright moments in his efforts to become the first left-hander to win the world's lightweight championship.

In fact, Lane protested that he had won. He declared he had been robbed and Jack Kearns, Lane's manager, had the same opinion. Lane claimed he thought he had such a lead that he coasted the last round. But it was the last round that Brown won the widest margin — and that apparently was what clinched the fight to Brown.

Yankees Are Making Detroit Pay For It

By ED WILKS
 Maybe the toughest run of bad luck the Detroit Tigers have had this season was taking seven in a row from the New York Yankees, for now the American League leaders have come bombing back in reprisal.

In two nights Casey Stengel's machine has cracked the Tigers for 41 hits and 29 runs.

Last night the Yankees belted Frank Lary for four runs, then celebrated with a pair of six-run innings against three other lumps for a 16-4 victory.

New York again has a 15-game bulge over second-place Boston, beaten 3-1 at Kansas City, Baltimore retained third by defeating the Chicago White Sox 6-4, Cleveland whipped Washington 5-3.

In the National League, Milwaukee jumped back into the lead with a 6-0 decision over St. Louis on Joey Jay's two-hitter. San Francisco slid to second, a game behind, with 3-2 and 2-0 defeats at Philadelphia. Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-5 in 10 innings and Pittsburgh plunked Los Angeles back into the cellar, sweeping a two-night pair 11-3 and 6-3.

The Yankees, who ripped Detroit 13-3 Tuesday night with 23 hits, rapped 18 hits last night, including home runs by Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra and Norm Siebern.

Art Ditmar had the Tigers blanked on three hits until the ninth, when he needed relief.

Lary, now 9-8, gave up seven hits and four runs in his six innings as the Yanks made it four in a row over the Tigers.

The A's beat Red Sox rookie bill Monbouquette in his first major league decision with an earned run in the first and a pair in the third on three singles and Bob Cerv's sacrifice fly. Ralph Terry blanked the Sox on five hits until Pete Runnels singled and Ted Williams doubled him home in the eighth.

The Orioles, within 2 1/2 games of second, had only four hits for eight innings, then beat Early Wynn (9-10) with four runs in the ninth at Chicago. Joe Ginsberg, who earlier counted two runs with his first homer, singled home the first run of the rally. Jack Harshman's pinch single tied it and Bob Boyd's two-run double won it for reliever George Zuverink (2-1).

Joey Jay Blanks St. Louis, 6-0

By ED WILKS
 Pal Joey has won another big one for Milwaukee, this time with a two-hitter that hoisted the Braves back into the National League lead.

Young Joey Jay blanked St. Louis 6-0 on a pair of singles last night as the champs moved a full game ahead of San Francisco.

The Giants, after winning six in a row, slipped to second with 3-2 and 2-0 defeats at Philadelphia. The first was a completion of a June 22 suspended game and marked Eddie Sawyer's return as manager of the Phils, who moved from sixth to within .001 of fourth-place St. Louis.

Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-5 in 10 innings and Pittsburgh plunked Los Angeles back into the cellar with an 11-3 and 6-3 two-night sweep.

In the American League, first-place New York walloped Detroit 16-4. Kansas City beat second-place Boston 3-1. Baltimore defeated the Chicago White Sox 6-4 and Cleveland clipped Washington 5-3.

Jay, 22, has won five in a row for a 6-3 record.

Jay faced only 29 batters last night. He walked none, struck out seven. The only Cards who hit were Gene Freese, in the fifth, and Don Blasingame, in the ninth.

The Braves tagged loser Larry Jackson (6-8) for two in the first and four in the second on Wednesday.

Art Ditmar had the Tigers blanked on three hits until the ninth, when he needed relief.

Lary, now 9-8, gave up seven hits and four runs in his six innings as the Yanks made it four in a row over the Tigers.

US, Russia Getting Along Just Fine

By STERLING SLAPPEY
 Associated Press Sports Writer

MOSCOW (AP)—American and Russian officials have been getting along so well that it was decided today neither team would lose—and both would win—the big track and field meet next Sunday and Monday here.

It's all in the scoring system. The Americans are going to score the men and women separately because they think it really is two separate meets. The American men are heavily favored and should have no trouble piling up a solid margin.

But the Russian women, likewise, appear to be far out front. By combining the two scores, the Russians probably will show a higher point total.

Relations are so amicable, in fact, that there will be no jury of appeal, a standard fixture in international competition. Instead, Pinsky Sober, chief of the AAU's track and field committee and a world authority on track and field rules, and Pavel Stepanuk of Russia will act as associate referees.

"Everything has been working fine," said Sober. "It couldn't be better. The only request anyone has made so far was by us. We asked that the 800-meter men's race be pushed forward to give Tom Courtney more time to rest before running the relay. The Russians said 'sure.'"

Uncle Sam Also Happy Profits Are Healthier

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — No one could be more pleased than Uncle Sam that some corporations here and there are reporting their profits are a bit healthier now than earlier in the year.

And if more companies call back laid-off workers and resume with-aiding part of their pay-checks for tax purposes, he won't complain one bit.

The profit squeeze on American business is showing up quite clearly at the Treasury. Tax collections aren't what they should be.

The Middle East upheaval with all its uncertainty isn't helping a bit as far as any hopes of cutting back on government expenditures go. Whether it will help government collections by giving some industries more sales, either government or civilian, and more profits is yet to be seen.

Declining profits to tax and slimmer withholding tax collections have left the Treasury today with a much bigger deficit than first expected. The prospects are for even bigger deficits ahead.

Uncle Sam's financial embarrassment has been duly noted in both the stock and bond markets. Stock traders reason that growing Treasury deficits must lead to more inflation and this in large measure has offset their awareness that shrinking profit margins have trimmed some dividend rates eliminated others and threatened still more.

Bond traders reason that repeated trips of the Treasury to the money market to float new issues will increase the over-all supply and weaken interest rates. Further inflation also is likely to make stocks look like better investment than bonds.

That is one of the reasons that first the U.S. Treasury stepped in to the government bond market to support its recent issues and later the Federal Reserve Board let it be known that it stands ready to do the same thing when necessary.

In January, before the recession picked up speed, the Treasury hoped to collect 7 1/2 billion dollars. It missed its guess by more than three billion. It expected to spend 7 1/2 billion and actually trimmed that a little, but not enough and ended in the red by more than 2 1/2 billion.

But defense spending is rising now and the deficit for the current fiscal year may be 10 to 12 billion dollars.

There is little hope that increasing business profits and personal incomes will be able to make much of a dent in that.

On the business side, the hoped-for pickup in activity after Labor Day will run into one of business' biggest problems—the steadily rising pressure of operating costs.

Unless companies can lick that, the squeeze on profits will continue. And the resulting sorrow will be shared about equally by the stockholders and the U.S. Treasury.

Longshore Boss, Teamsters Plan Common Policy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—West Coast longshore leader Harry Bridges yesterday accepted an invitation to meet with leaders of the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. to plan common policy on new techniques in the shipping industry.

Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, said the Aug. 14 conference in Washington would help avoid "jurisdictional disputes and ruinous inter-port competition."

The AFL-CIO ousted the ILWU in 1950 for alleged Communist domination; the I.L.A. and East Coast dock workers organization, in 1933 on charges of racketeering; and the Teamsters last December on corruption charges.

Venezuelan Unrest Is Still Felt

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Rumors of army anger in the provinces continued to reach Caracas today after Venezuela's ruling junta backed by capital crowds defeated a military plot to seize power.

Students, professional people and workers who supported the junta in a showdown early yesterday remained alert overnight to possible repercussions after a general strike backing the government was called off.

The army garrison in Maracay, 50 miles west of Caracas, was rumored to be in rebellion. But informed sources said there were no troop movements there. The garrison is commanded by Col. Marchelli Padron, who was implicated in the unsuccessful plot.

A military spokesman in the industrial city of Valencia, 80 miles west of Caracas, also denied reports of army movements there.

Interior Minister Numa Quevedo said all state and territorial governments were supporting the junta. He announced that an undisclosed number of civilians had been arrested as enemies of the government but gave no details.

The junta which took over when dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez was overthrown Jan. 23 will continue its efforts to "return the country to constitutionality," Quevedo said. The scheduled national elections will be held Nov. 30, the minister added.

The plot became public Tuesday when its leader, Defense Minister Jesus Maria Castro Leon, served an ultimatum on the junta which included a demand that elections be delayed. Under pressure of some 100,000 demonstrators in Caracas and navy guns trained on the capital, Castro Leon backed down and resigned.

He will leave shortly for Washington to become Venezuela's delegate to the Inter-American Defense Board, the junta announced. Foreign assignment is a traditional Latin-American way of getting rid of plotters whose supporters are strong enough to cause trouble if they are punished.

Gen. Jose Lopez Henriquez, commander of the air force, was named defense minister.

Singer Is Named Delegate To UN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has appointed Negro contralto Marian Anderson and six others as new members of the United States delegation to the United Nations.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee members said the nominations would get overwhelming confirmation.

Besides Miss Anderson, the president named Senators Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) and Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) to represent Congress in the General Assembly session opening Sept. 16.

Other new members are Herman Phleger, Redwood City, Calif. attorney; George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks; Watson W. Wise, Tyler, Tex., businessman; and Irving Salomon, Chicago, board chairman of Royal Metal Manufacturing Co.

They will serve with the three holdover members reappointed at the same time: Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the U. N.; James J. Wadsworth, his deputy; and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, who serves on the U. N. Human Rights Commission.

At her home in Danbury, Conn., Miss Anderson said she was thrilled.

Two More Die In Clothes Closet

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Two more children died yesterday from being trapped in a stifling clothes closet, bringing the total deaths to four.

The children were trapped when the handle fell off the door of the closet in which they were playing.

When the mother, Mrs. Cardie McDade, a Negro, returned home Tuesday she found the four children trapped in the closet. Debra Joyce Moore, 3, and Tommy Allen Carr, 4, children by former marriages, were dead.

Carolyn Moore, 2, and Cloyce Moore, 6, were unconscious. They died yesterday in a Dallas hospital.

Used The Moon For Radio Relay

FT. HUACHUCA, Ariz. (AP)—An Army-civilian team believes it may have been the first to bounce ultra-high frequency radio-teletype waves off the moon and back to earth.

Technicians from the signal corps and the Collins Radio Co. of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, announced they had recently sent a radio-teletype message from the fort to Encino, N.M., using the moon as a passive relay.

The first radio contact with the moon was made in 1946 by the Signal Corps at Belmar, N.J.

SON TO CHAUFFEUR
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh, Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, concluded an interview by announcing that his chauffeur during his campaign would be his 19-year-old son, Gerald.

For First Time, 4 Women Named To House Of Lords

LONDON (AP)—For the first time in British history, four women were named today to the House of Lords.

They will hold special life peerages along with 10 men named by Queen Elizabeth II to put new life into the ancient, all-male chamber.

Like all Britons nominated to the aristocratic upper house of Parliament, the ladies have distinguished themselves in public life. Four of the new male peers were members of the present House of Commons.

The new peeresses, who will take their seats in November are: Barbara Frances Wootton, 61-year-old economist, author and former professor. One of Britain's leading intellectuals, she is a Labor party supporter.

Dame Katharine Elliot, 55, three time British delegate to the U. N. Assembly, active Conservative party worker, and chairman for the Advisory Committee on Child Care for Scotland.

Baroness Ravensdale, 62, chairman of the National Assn. of Girls' Clubs and a leader in the campaign to put women in the House of Lords.

The Dowager Marchioness of Reading, chairman of the Women's Voluntary Services for Civil Defense, which she founded in 1938.

The wives of the male peers will take the title of lady, and their children can use the prefix "The Honorable." But husbands of the peeresses will get no title.

The new lifetime peers are Sir Ian Fraser, Conservative member of Parliament who was blinded in World War I; Sir Robert Boothby, Conservative member of Parliament and former parliamentary private secretary to Sir Winston Churchill; Daniel West and Victor Collins, Labor members of Parliament; Sir Charles Gledes, prominent trade unionist; Victor Noel-Paton, prominent layman in the Church of Scotland, which is not officially represented in the Lords as the Church of England is; Edward Shackleton, former Labor M. P. and son of the antarctic explorer, Sir Ernest Shackleton; Dr. Stephen Taylor, former Labor M. P.; Sir John Stopford, former vice-chancellor of Manchester University; and Sir Edward Twining, former governor of Tanganyika.

Previously all seats in the House of Lords except those held by judicial and Church of England dignitaries have been passed on at death to the eldest male heir.

The new law authorizing peerages only for the life of the holder is designed for persons of achievement who object to hereditary titles in principle or don't want to endanger the political careers of sons who would have to enter to the upper house when papa died.

Learns Russian To Make Speech

PASADENA, Calif (AP) — In three weeks Dr. Henry L. Richter of California Institute of Technology has learned enough Russian to deliver a 30-minute speech in that language.

And he's going to deliver his speech in Moscow. Dr. Richter, supervisor of Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, was assigned to present a paper about Explorer satellites at an International Geophysical Year meeting in Moscow next month.

He read Russian-American dictionaries, listened to Russian language records and used a tape recorder to perfect his accent.

Yesterday a Russian-speaking employe at JPL listened to Dr. Richter's rehearsal and pronounced him ready.

Naval Hero Is Seriously Ailing

HONOLULU (AP)—Navy Capt. John Bulkeley, a Medal of Honor winner whose torpedo boat exploits were described in the book "They Were Expendable," is gravely ill at sea.

The Navy said Bulkeley, 47, was stricken Tuesday with two internal hemorrhages and was transferred from his ship, the fleet oiler Tolovana, to the military transport Gen. Hugh Gaffey. He was to be put ashore at Midway Island.

A mosquito has an average life of 1 to 7 months.

KID OBY RECOVERING

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jazz trombonist Edward (Kid) Oby, stricken recently with a blood ailment after surgery, was reported well on his way to recovery today.

Public Notices

NOTICE TO CREDITORS The undersigned having this day qualified as Executor and Executrix of the Estate of Mary E. Quinerly, deceased, late of Pitt County, this is to notify all persons having claims against the estate of said deceased to exhibit and file the same with Jack Quinerly, Executor, 206 West Second Street, Ayden, N. C., or Sarah Elizabeth Webb, Executrix, 202

North Carolina, to be held on September 27, 1958, on the question of the issuance of $750,000 Hospital Bonds of said County to finance part of the cost of the construction of an addition to the Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

The estimated cost of such hospital addition is $1,500,000. At the time of the adoption of the proceedings authorizing the issuance of said $750,000 Hospital Bonds and calling said special election, the Board of Commissioners had been advised by the North Carolina Medical Care Commission that federal funds would be contributed under the Hill-Burton Act in the amount of approximately Seven Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($750,000) to pay approximately fifty per cent of the total estimated cost of said hospital addition.

The Board of Commissioners of said hospital addition.

By order of the Board of Commissioners, Pitt County, North Carolina. BLAIR C. WHEELER, Clerk of said Board of County Commissioners W. W. Speight, Co. Atty. July 10-17-24 Aug. 11

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices nudged ahead irregularly in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Gains of key stocks ran generally from fractions to a point. There was an assortment of losses in the range of a few special situations made wider moves to the plus or minus side.

After seven straight three-million-share days which included six successive advances the market ran into something of a breathing spell. Opening prices were mixed and shortly thereafter trading became very sluggish. An improvement in prices was accompanied by a pickup in activity.

Gains prevailed among a number of steels, rails, oils, chemicals and selected issues. Chrysler, which reports on earnings and dividends today, was a firm spot among motors. Aircrafts and copiers were mostly lower. Utilities were ahead on average.

Inland Steel, which reported improved second quarter earnings, rose 3/4 to 99 1/2. The stock of 12,000 shares and held its gain. Youngstown Sheet also was ahead about 2 points. Republic and Crucible rose fractionally while Bethlehem dropped a fraction.

American Cyanamid, which rose 1/2 yesterday, was the most active stock opening 1/4 to 49 on a delayed opening of 10,000 shares and later showed a loss of more than 2 points.

Strong spots included Bush Terminal, ahead about 2, and Union Carbide, more than a point. Goodrich Burroughs dropped 1/4 at 33 on a block of 20,000 shares then erased the loss and held firm.

Gains of about a point were scored by Caterpillar, Air Reduction, Baltimore and Ohio and International Paper.

Go Oil, Chrysler, Goodyear, Commonwealth Edison, International Nickel, Du Pont, American Can, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Paramount were fractional gainers.

Radio Corp. fell 1/4 to 35 on a block of 7,800 shares. Losses of around a point were taken by Kennecott, Anaconda, Boeing and United Aircraft. Minor losses were taken by Lorillard, Douglas Aircraft, Johns-Manville and Montgomery Ward.

Western Union advanced about a point in active trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $180.50 with the industrials unchanged and the rails and utilities up 20 cents each.

Cost Of Living Increased 105 Per Cent In 20 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs have gone up 105 per cent in the 20 years since 1933, years that have included World War II and the Korean War.

That means that on the average, you must pay $2.05 today for something you could have bought for a dollar back in 1933, when Hitler was poised for his blitz of Europe.

The government released its latest living cost index yesterday. It showed a fractional rise from May to June, less than one-tenth of 1 per cent. But it was a new living cost record, the 20th set in the past 22 months.

Government experts provided figures on request showing the story of those 20 years, two decades, broken down into five-year stanzas.

Their data show that from 1938 to 1943 consumer costs rose 23 per cent; from 1943 to 1948, 39 per cent; from 1948 to 1953, 11 per cent; and from 1953 to 1958, with President Eisenhower in the White House, 8 per cent.

But while the over-all living cost level soared 105 per cent in those 20 years, some individual family budget items didn't go up that much and some advanced much more.

For example, where the cost of gas and electricity rose only a little over 11 per cent, coal and fuel oil jumped 129 per cent.

In the 1938-58 span the cost of a pair of baby shoes rose 171 per cent, a new car 125 per cent, rent 60 per cent and food—the main drain on the family budget—a whopping 151 per cent.

Hospital costs eclipsed almost everything else, rising nearly 300 per cent. Doctor fees increased 84 per cent, men's haircuts 206 per cent, gasoline 69 per cent, household appliances 33 per cent, newspapers 124 per cent and movie-

Symington Calls For More Debt In Defense Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) called today for another increase in the national debt limit to cover bigger defense spending.

Symington, in a speech prepared for floor delivery, said that if this is not done, there will be "a repetition of last year's cash crisis in the Pentagon."

Meanwhile, it was learned that Secretary of the Treasury Anderson already has sounded out key members of the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance committees on a further boost in the debt ceiling.

It was understood also that Sen. Harry Byrd (D-Va), Finance Committee chairman, has agreed some increase probably will be needed, but has urged Anderson to hold the limit to 285 billion dollars.

The secretary has indicated, however, that his request may be for a bill bringing above the temporary ceiling of 280 billion approved by Congress in February.

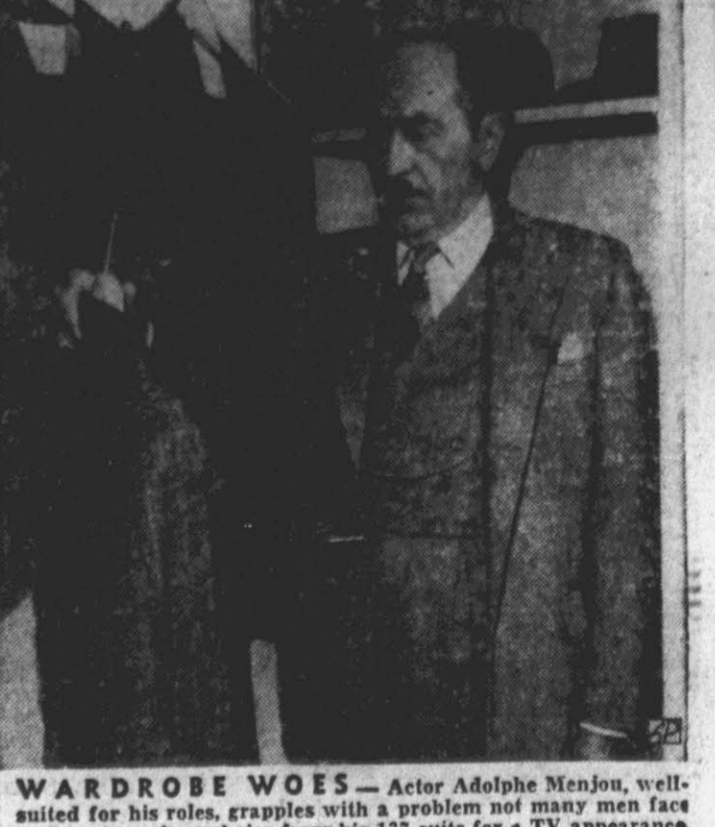

Under the bill passed in February, the permanent debt limit reverts to 275 billion July 1, 1959.

Symington said that the administration's decision not to ask for an increase in the 275 billion ceiling last year caused a disastrous stretchout of defense spending last fall.

This not only lessened the nation's military strength but also helped bring on an economic recession, he said.

Symington recommended that the administration act now to seek any further boost in the debt limit, but said he feared it may not do so.

"It may again wait until the Congress adjourns," he said, "and then again try by referring to the debt ceiling to blame the Congress for administration failure to carry out the defense programs."

Senators Favor Broad Report Clash Of Reds, Nasserites

BEIRUT (AP) — Returning travelers say the Communists have come into open conflict with President Nasser's forces in Aleppo, northern Syria.

The informants, who are completely reliable, said the Reds organized "volunteer bands" of 50 each to shout "Down with Nasser" in public places. When they began shouting near the officers' club, more than 200 were arrested.

The informants said that on July 5 the left-wing Transport Union went on strike. The Nasser government rushed troops in to operate the public transport and broke the strike.

Since the Syrian-Egyptian union in February, Aleppo has had an economic slump and the Communists are trying to blame it on Nasser. A bad crop this year caused a general drop in buying power. Aleppo's light and semiconductor industries have cut production to a third of capacity, throwing many people out of work.

The Iraqi rebellion reportedly has given new hope to the pro-Nasser faction, however. Aleppo industries traditionally sell much to Iraq but were cut off from that market while the anti-Nasser regime was in power in Baghdad. Aleppo businessmen feel certain the pro-Nasser government in Iraq means the return of their markets.

Ever since Syria joined Egypt, Nasser has been trying to curb the Communists in Syria. Among his first acts was the outlawing of the Syrian Communist party. Next he purged the army of leftists.

They'll Be Ready If Meeting Held

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U. N. officials say they'll be ready when and if a summit meeting of the Security Council comes off.

But security officials of the international organization, New York City and the U. S. government faced an enormous job of preparations to protect Nikita Khrushchev and other visiting government chiefs.

The presence in New York City of Khrushchev, Gamal Abdel Nasser and others would present political problems so unique that any methods used in the past for visiting dignitaries would not apply, a police official said.

One unofficial estimate was that 4,000 to 5,000 security men might be needed to safeguard the visitors in a city which contains many refugees still nursing bitter hatreds, militant supporters of Israel and the like. The visit of Queen Elizabeth II last autumn set the current record for security police, nearly 2,000.

The security arrangements will involve the U. N.'s own security staff headed by Frank M. Bogley; New York police and their bureau of special services which keeps close watch on extremist and refugee groups; the State Department security force; the FBI; possibly the Defense Department and the security forces of the visitors themselves.

William L. Uanna, chief of physical security for the State Department, probably would act as coordinator of security arrangements.

Preliminary plans were made yesterday by New York City police officials and State Department officers at a meeting held even before Khrushchev agreed to attend a council meeting.

Hodges Puts Emphasis On Change In 'Basic Crops'

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Hodges took a $5 bill from his pocket today and offered it to the 4-H Club member that could come closest to guessing the number of broilers North Carolina will produce this year.

Hodges told the group he would like to be able to relieve his life, beginning now. He said, "I am just as enthusiastic now—as at the age of 60—as I have been in my entire life. You are the reason for everything that is being done to insure a prosperous future. And there is every reason to believe that this future will materialize—that the fabulous potential that is North Carolina's and the South's will be fully realized in your lifetime."

Six speakers took part today in the state-wide 4-H Girls public speaking contest. The winner will be announced tonight. They were Evelyn Wilkins, Duplin County; Lucille Mays, Iredell; Verna Hall, Randolph; Barbara Millsaps, Graham; Nancy Crocker, Vance and Faye Morris, Washington.

Funeral Friday For Mrs. J. E. Harris

MAURY — Mrs. Rosa Manning Harris, 74, widow of J. Edward Harris, died Wednesday afternoon at 6:50 o'clock at her home in Maury following five years of illness.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel in Greenville by Rev. F. J. Julian, Jehovah's Witness minister of Kinston. Burial will be in the Smith family cemetery near Frog Level.

Mrs. Harris was born and reared in the Frog Level community near Greenville and was the daughter of the late John H. and Niece Allen Manning. She was a member of the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses of Maury, and had lived in Greene County for 21 years. Her husband died in 1939.

She is survived by four sons, Chester Harris of Greenville, Marvin Harris of the home, Fred Harris of Ayden, and J. E. Harris of Washington; seven daughters, Mrs. George Crawford of Snow Hill, Mrs. Herman Hedgepeth and Mrs. F. G. Allen of Maury, Mrs. William Harris of Washington, Mrs. Cecil Clayborne of Farmville, Mrs. Milton Radford of Snow Hill, and Mrs. Lester Horton of Kinston; 34 grandchildren; 17 great-grandchildren; two brothers, Willie Manning of New Bern, and Ernest Manning of Arthur; and two sisters, Mrs. Roy Worthington of Cove City, and Mrs. Lester Harrell of Snow Hill.

Last Rites Friday For John E. Martin

BETHEL — John E. Martin, 68, died at his home in Bethel Wednesday at 6 p.m. after several years of declining health.

Funeral services will be held from the home Friday at 3 p.m. conducted by the Rev. C. W. Barbee, pastor of the Bethel Methodist Church, assisted by the Rev. W. M. Howard Jr. of Greenville.

Mr. Martin was born in Martin County, the son of the late John and Mollie Andrews Martin, and spent his entire life in and near Bethel engaging in farming and carpentry.

He was married in 1912 to Amanda Mathews who survives with three sons, D. Curtis of Winterville, David of Hampton, Va. S. and Floyd of Norfolk, Va.; three daughters, Mrs. Sterling Woodard of Washington, N.C., Mrs. Melburn Hardison of Williamston and Mrs. J. B. Meeks of Greenville; one foster daughter, Mrs. Dolly Olson of the home, 16 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; two brothers, J. C. Martin of Robersonville, and Joe Martin of Grimlesand; two sisters, Mrs. Willie Briley of Bethel and Mrs. Bill Fleming of Robersonville.

A most exclusive club is The San Francisco Fellowship Club. Its limited membership is composed of ex-mental patients who assist others in encouragement and job advice.

Rites Friday For Mrs. Pete Miller

SNOW HILL — Mrs. Barbara Frizzelle Miller, 44, wife of Pete Miller and daughter of Judge and Mrs. J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill, died Wednesday night in Wilson's Woodard-Ferring Hospital following an illness of two years.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Snow Hill Methodist Church, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. James H. Miller Jr. Interment will follow in the Snow Hill Cemetery.

The body will lie in state at the church for an hour prior to services and the family requests that donations be made to the American Cancer Society in lieu of flowers.

Mrs. Miller was a native of Greene County and a life-long member of the Snow Hill Methodist Church. She was active in church and community affairs until her health forced her to limit her activities.

Surviving, in addition to her husband and parents, are three sons, Pete Jr., Paul and Jesse W., all of the home; four sisters, Mrs. Ed Callahan of Kinston, Mrs. Jack Edmundson of Maury, and Mrs. Nina Louise Edwards and Miss Mary Frizzelle, both of Snow Hill; and one brother, Paul Frizzelle Jr. of Snow Hill.
