Texas Waitress Reopens File In 1923 Murder

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Houston waitress has reopened the file on a 35-year-old slaying.

Mrs. Bernice Busbee told police yesterday that her convict brother, Benjamin Franklin Ray, 57, told her he killed Army Sgt. Thomas Turner here in 1923.

Mrs. Busbee volunteered the information to Harris County authorities, and signed a statement accusing her brother of murder. She explained that her conscience had bothered her.

Ray, who has a Texas police record dating back to 1925, is serving a 7-to-1 year sentence at the North Carolina State Prison for robbing a motorist and stealing his victim's car.

Hugh Irby and Harold Carpenter of the sheriff's department planned to fly to Raleigh to question him.

On Sept. 29, 1923, two hunters found the decomposed body of a white man submerged in Green's Bayou on the Beaumont Highway near here. The Army identified it as that of Sgt. Turner, stationed at Ft. Sam Houston.

Houston police marked the case unsolved and military authorities shipped the body to Turner's mother, Mrs. Emma Marsh, Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. Busbee said that shortly before the body was found her brother and Turner were to have visited her in Beaumont. She said Ray arrived without Turner and later told her he had killed him.

She said police questioned her brother but later turned him loose. Mrs. Busbee said Ray and Turner were old Army buddies. Houston police records show Ray first got in trouble in 1925 when he was given a 10-year sentence for armed robbery. In 1931, he attempted to escape prison while serving a 5-year sentence for robbery by assault. During the escape attempt a guard was killed and Ray was sentenced to life.

He escaped in 1937 and was recaptured in 1941. Ray was paroled in 1946 but arrested in 1949 as a parole violator.

Records at Central Prison in Raleigh, N.C., show that Ray was released on parole to Michigan on April 12, 1957. Last March 20, he was convicted in Wake County of robbing by force. He was accused of robbing William David Coker on March 14 of about $10 and sentenced to 7-10 years.

Then, on March 27, a state warrant or detainer was received from Texas authorities charging Ray with violating his parole conditions.

Ray caused much alarm around City Hall in Raleigh when he walked away from the police station following a preliminary hearing in City Court on the robbery charge.

North Carolina Prisons Director William F. Bailey said Central Prison Warden K. B. Bailey received a telephone call last night from Texas authorities notifying him that officers would arrive in Raleigh by plane today to question Ray.

Temperature Hits 100 Mark Monday

Old Sol spread his influence to the tune of 100 degrees Fahrenheit yesterday afternoon with a sweltering populace yearning for rain. In the meantime, crops are ripening in this area more satisfactorily than in many years, farmers report.

The lowest temperature recorded last night was 77 degrees. At 8 a. m. today the Utilities Plant thermometer registered 82 degrees and steadily rising. The sky was partly overcast in the Greenville area today with some indication of rain.

Tar River at Greenville was at the five-foot level and muddy. No rain fell here during the last 24 hours.

Investigators Request Goldfine Be Charged

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators today recommended contempt of Congress proceedings against Bernard Goldfine, gift-giving friend of presidential assistant Sherman Adams.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) said the investigating subcommittee's recommendation would be submitted soon as possible to its parent, the House Commerce Committee.

If endorsed by the full committee, the contempt citation would go to the House. And, if approved by the House, it would go to the U.S. district attorney for handling as a criminal case.

It will have to be done quickly to get action at this session of Congress, Harris told newsmen after a 40-minute closed session of the subcommittee.

The contempt accusation is based on Goldfine's refusal to answer some two dozen questions concerning his financial dealings with Boston real estate companies of which he is majority owner.

Goldfine refused to answer the questions on the ground that they were not pertinent to the subcommittee's investigation, which is aimed at the operations of government regulatory agencies.

Senators Urge Ike To Hold Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three senators urged the Eisenhower administration today to stick to its demand that any overall Middle East settlement be attempted only through the United Nations.

The three, all members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, are Senators Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) and Homer Capehart (R-Ind.).

They expressed the opinion in separate interviews it would be a mistake to agree to the five-power conference outside the U.N., as suggested by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

However, Mansfield, a U.N. delegate nominee, said the United States should go part of the way by agreeing to a Security Council meeting in Geneva.

Khrushchev, noting that French Premier Charles de Gaulle has urged a meeting in Europe away from the publicity glare of the U.N., said he was ready to meet in Moscow, Geneva, Vienna, Paris or any other place.

Mansfield said the U.N. Security Council could meet in Geneva, "in the cool and detached atmosphere that De Gaulle desires and that I think is needed."

"This would be away from the glare of publicity in New York and it would not involve the security problems that might be encountered on any visit of Khrushchev here."

But Mansfield said he is against agreeing to Khrushchev's proposal for a conference of the United States, Britain, France, The Soviet Union and India outside of U.N. auspices.

Humphrey, a former U.N. delegate, said Khrushchev had "laid himself wide open" by proposing a conference of this nature.

"We ought to get busy telling the smaller nations that what Khrushchev wants to do is to have five big nations sit down and carve up the world," he said. "We should stick to our demand that the Security Council set the rules for any summit meeting, with the smaller nations participating in that action."

Humphrey said he believes the meeting ought to be held in New York but would raise no objections if a decision were made to transfer it to Paris or Geneva.

Capehart said the matter of a Middle East settlement "belongs in the Security Council and if the Russians are unwilling to go there we should tell them there will be no meeting outside."

Bethel Principal Inherits Estate

BETHEL—Walter C. Latham, principal and coach of the Bethel schools system, has inherited an estimated $370,000 from the estate of a long-time friend.

The sizable inheritance came from the late Harry A. Biggs of Williamston.

This morning Latham stated, "I am grateful, and consider Mr. Biggs the best friend I ever had and ever expect to have."

He further stated, "I hope that I will be wise enough to use the money as he (Biggs) wanted me to, and to help others."

Biggs died Sunday morning, July 20, and was buried the following morning. His will was probated a day later and at that time it was learned that the deceased had left his entire estate to Latham with the exception of a few personal household items.

The holograph will was dated July 30, 1957. It had been kept in a safety deposit box in a Williamston bank and was read by Clerk of Superior Court L. Bruce Wynne.

In the will Biggs stipulated that his niece, Frances W. Herriott of Virginia Beach, receive an antique bed and a silver service. He directed that several family portraits be donated to a Williamston church.

Biggs' personal property listings, consisting largely of bonds and securities, were valued at $360,000 and the real holdings were estimated to be worth $10,000. The estimates are tentative.

Latham has no family connections with Biggs. The two met and became close friends while Latham was playing semi-professional baseball in the Williamston area in 1932. In his will Biggs stated he was leaving the bulk of his estate to "... my friend of long standing, Walter Latham of Bethel, N. C., in appreciation of the many kindnesses he has shown me since the year 1933."

Biggs' closest relative and only legal heir was his niece, Mrs. Herriott. According to Williamston sources, plans are underway to contest the will.

British informants said Prime Minister Macmillan still thinks the Security Council's permanent delegates should get to work on the time, place, composition and other arrangements for a special summit-level session.

The Foreign Office said it would immediately press on with an exchange of views with allies on the summit question.

The first move in this direction was an effort toward reconciliation of positions with France. Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd asked the French charge d'affaires, Baron G. de Juniac, to come see him.

Faubus' campaign assistants have predicted that the 48-year-old governor will receive 79 per cent of the vote — more than enough to make him Arkansas' second third-term governor in history.

Heavy Exchanges Of Gunfire Mark Lebanese Truce

By WILTON WYNN

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—An attempt to assassinate Premier Sami Solh missed by a split second today. This and heavy exchanges of gunfire in Beirut emphasized that Lebanon's 81-day crisis is still on despite some expressed hopes for early peace.

The incidents coincided with 15 new demands by the opposition National Front just as it seemed possible a compromise might be reached on election of a new president, which some thought might lead to an easing of this nation's problems.

The opposition and supporters of the pro-Western government were reported practically agreed on the army commander, Gen. Fuad Shihab, as a compromise. But the National Front turned thumbs down on any candidate unless he would agree to remand immediate resignation of President Camille Chamoun, whose term does not expire until Sept. 23.

The U.S. Embassy announced that American troops would be withdrawn only if Lebanon's internal security is re-established and the United Nations provides adequate guarantees of Lebanon's independence.

Eight persons were killed and a 5-year-old girl hurt, but Solh was not touched in the assassination attempt. A car parked along the road was blown up as he was driving into Beirut. Detonator wires from the car ran up a hillside to a spot from which two men were seen to run.

A prime minister is a Moslem by custom in this half-Christian, half-Moslem nation and a president a Christian. Reasons for the attack on Solh were not immediately clear since most rebel animosity in the nearly three months of rebellion has been against President Chamoun.

Had they delayed the detonation a split second longer, Solh would have been blown to bits.

The dead included a policeman on a motorcycle, three gendarmes, and four persons in a car just ahead of Solh.

The heavy firing in Beirut occurred around the main government building, in Capital Square near the postoffice, and in the Zerif quarter near The Associated Press office. Security forces fired ahead of the main government building, in Capital Square near the postoffice, and in the Zerif quarter near The Associated Press office.

The attempted assassination occurred nine miles outside Beirut. The Prime Minister passes there daily en route to his Beirut office from his suburban home. The road runs along a sheer drop down to the Beirut River in the valley below.

An American-style car, thought to be a taxicab, had been parked there three days, with a rock under a wheel.

As the Solh procession approached, a policeman stepped forward and asked the green car to pull to the side of the road and permit the Solh car to proceed. At that moment the explosion occurred, knocking the motorcycle and the green car far down the slope.

The U.S. military commitments in the tense area but did little to extend them. Iran is the only one of the four active pact members with which the United States had no direct military alliance and it is the Eisenhower Doctrine area that Washington had promised to aid against Soviet aggression.

Dulles flew home last night after signing a declaration of military support with the prime ministers of the four nations.

The U.S. action was welcomed in Britain and by the Asian pact delegates in London but drew the expected criticism from Moscow radio. "Dulles never tires of fishing in muddy waters, especially in those he himself has muddied," a Soviet broadcast said.

The Soviets accused Dulles of spending time in London when he should have been working on a summit conference.

Iraq's place at the pact table was empty although the new republican government in Baghdad has not withdrawn from the alliance concluded by the late King Faisal II's government.

One of the topics of discussion is whether any change is now needed in the pact's form because of the Iraqi situation. Delegates also considered taking a new name to replace the Iraqi capital of Baghdad, where the pact was signed and had its headquarters.

The declaration signed by Dulles and the four active members said they "reaffirmed their determination to strengthen their united defense posture in the area."

It added: "Similarly, the United States, in the interests of world peace and pursuant to an existing congressional authorization, agrees to cooperate with the nations making this declaration for their security and defense and will promptly enter into agreements designed to give effect to this cooperation."

Such agreements under the Eisenhower Doctrine would eliminate the need to push a formal American adherence to the pact through the U.S. Senate.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower conferred with Secretary of State Dulles today about getting off a speedy note to Soviet Premier Khrushchev on bitterly disputed plans for a Middle East summit conference.

The new Eisenhower letter may suggest a date in the next few days for a U.N. Security Council meeting to work out arrangements and a date for a summit session.

Officials said Eisenhower was certain to insist the meeting be held entirely within the regular procedures of the Council.

Dulles went to the White House shortly before noon, and about four hours after he returned from the meeting of the Baghdad Pact powers at London.

He told reporters at the airport that he had read only fragments of Khrushchev's latest letter to Eisenhower and he would not comment until he had seen the full text and conferred with the President.

The Soviet leader's message was an angry denunciation of the President's determination to keep the proposed summit meeting in Geneva, U.N. Security Council channels.

Khrushchev accused Eisenhower of deliberately confusing negotiations for a summit session in order to delay its start. He also accused the President by implication of having sent Dulles to the London Baghdad Pact meeting to plot fresh acts of aggression in the Middle East.

Khrushchev said he would prefer a summit session in Geneva outside the U.N.

Officials said Eisenhower and Dulles are still thinking as they were late last week in terms of a summit session at New York around Aug. 11 or 12.

Some authorities felt Eisenhower should counter Khrushchev's blast by announcing he will show up for a high-level Security Council meeting, whether or not the Soviet leader shows up.

They recalled that the Soviet Union threatened to boycott the current Geneva technical talks on disarmament, but changed its mind when American officials went to the meeting despite last-minute Soviet objections.

The White House foreshadowed Eisenhower's attitude when it announced that there was no change in the President's proposal for keeping the meeting within the U.N. despite Khrushchev's newest blast.

Renewed backing for that stand came from three members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Senators Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) and Homer Capehart (R-Ind.).

But Mansfield suggested that a Security Council meeting could be held in Geneva in a move to a separate part of Khrushchev's suggestion.

The initial White House reaction came from reading news accounts reporting the text of Khrushchev's letter as broadcast by Radio Moscow. The full text of Khrushchev's message still had not been received by the State Department last night.

Moscow's move in swiftly publicizing Khrushchev's words was viewed as added proof that he was mainly interested in maximum propaganda advantage rather than anticipating any American acceptance of his idea.

One of Khrushchev's accusations was that he was bringing a sharp retort from Eisenhower which was his comment that Eisenhower was not working for a settlement of the military conflict in the interests of preserving peace" but seeking to expand Middle East conflicts "with the threat of world catastrophe."

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—The first of the 1958 cigarette tobacco crop sold in the Georgia-Florida Belt today at average prices estimated as much as $10 a hundred pounds above the full day figure for the 1957 opening.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated the general average at several representative markets for the first hour at from $58 to $60 a hundred.

That would be fully $5 to $7 above the last year's beltwide opening average of $52.35 for a full day.

Increases for the year reported from individual markets included $10 at Statesboro, $5 at Tifton, $4 at Waycross and about $3 at Moultrie. All these figures were based on earliest sales with no guarantee that they would not be considerably altered before the day was over.

Privately reported prices ran as much as $35 a hundred above government loan rates for one grade of primings. The USDA said growers seemed so well pleased with prices that only an estimated 1 or 2 per cent of sales went into the government loan program.

Individual market reports indicated the percentage might be even lower. No tobacco was seen to go into the loan in the first sales at Tifton and only one basket at Statesboro.

The tobacco, apparently running a little above average in quality at most markets, was in good handling condition. There appeared to be plenty of it in the warehouse; enough, most believed, to insure full sales through the week.

According to the USDA, the bulk of sales were at prices from $54 to $65. The extremes ranged from $10 for tobacco too low in quality for a grade to $69 paid by a warehouse for a basket of fine lemon leaf.

Companies paid as high as $68 for some better baskets on the floors.

Earlier marketing consisted principally of fair and good primings and lugs and low leaf.

Good lemon leaf brought $66 to $68, fair lemon leaf $55 to $67, low lemon leaf $58 to $63, good lemon lugs $65 to $66, fair lemon lugs $57 to $64, low orange primings $57 to $60, good lemon primings $57 to $63, fair lemon primings $53 to $61, low lemon primings $50 to $60, low orange primings $44 to $55 and best thin bodied non-processed $30 to $45.

The auctions are expected to be a 75 million dollar shot in the arm for the area's economy.

The optimistic outlook for higher prices springs from a boost of $3.80 a hundred pounds in the average government price support level. The average for untied leaf this year is $49.60 a hundred compared with $45.80 last year.

Although the soil bank has trimmed acreage rather sharply, increased yield per acre should more than make up the difference. The latest government estimates are for a belt-wide increase of 2 1/2 per cent over last year—and 3 1/4 per cent in Georgia.

Quality as well as volume are expected to equal if not exceed last season. Those factors, together with higher prices, led observers to speculate that last year's gross cash receipts of 67 million dollars will be topped by about 8 million.

This year's opening comes 11 days later than in 1957 and that eased somewhat the farmer's problem of getting his leaf into one of the 120 warehouses for first day auctions.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 12th Congressional District's Democratic Executive Committee has drafted its rules of procedure for choosing a successor to Rep. George A. Shuford as its congressional nominee for the district.

The committee meets in Bryson City Thursday to make its selection.

The procedural rules were drawn up at a committee meeting here yesterday. They provide for a majority vote to elect the nominee and for a preliminary open meeting.

Any registered Democrat in the district will be permitted to appear before the committee to express his choice of a candidate.

Shuford, currently serving his third term in Congress, announced his withdrawal as Democratic nominee Sunday because of poor health. He had won renomination over four other candidates in the May 31 primary.

At least 10 men have been mentioned as possible candidates to succeed Shuford.

Heinz Rollman of Waynesville, who ran second behind Shuford in the primary, said in a statement that he is available.

Asheville's City Manager J. Weidner Weir, who has sought elective office in a long political career has been prominently mentioned in speculation concerning a Shuford successor. Weir, a football and basketball star at Wake Forest College in the 1920s, began as a Democratic Party precinct worker as a youngster, climbed through the ranks of city employes and became the director of public works before becoming city manager. He declined comment on the situation.

Others mentioned as possible nominees included former State Sen. Frank Parker of Asheville, Monroe Redden Jr. of Hendersonville, son of a former representative; State Sen. James G. Sike-leather and former State Sen. John Shuford and State Rep. I. C. Crawford, all of Asheville; Dave M. Hall of Sylva and William Medford of Waynesville.

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators today recommended contempt of Congress proceedings against Bernard Goldfine, gift-giving friend of presidential assistant Sherman Adams.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) said the investigating subcommittee's recommendation would be submitted soon as possible to its parent, the House Commerce Committee.

If endorsed by the full committee, the contempt citation would go to the House. And, if approved by the House, it would go to the U.S. district attorney for handling as a criminal case.

It will have to be done quickly to get action at this session of Congress, Harris told newsmen after a 40-minute closed session of the subcommittee.

The contempt accusation is based on Goldfine's refusal to answer some two dozen questions concerning his financial dealings with Boston real estate companies of which he is majority owner.

Goldfine refused to answer the questions on the ground that they were not pertinent to the subcommittee's investigation, which is aimed at the operations of government regulatory agencies.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A decision by the British Broadcasting Corp. to let television announcers wear business suits instead of dinner jackets on night programs was denounced by a British style expert today as "bad manners and a retrograde step."

John Taylor, editor of Tailor and Cutter commented: "If a man is being looked at by millions he should be sartorially correct. The BBC... should continue to set an example by doing the right thing visually."

"We are moving with the times," said a BBC spokesman. "This is part of our new informal approach."

Said announcer Michael Aspel: "There used to be a communal dinner jacket which we announcers passed around."

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A fairly heavy early vote was reported today as Arkansas decided whether to nominate Gov. Orval Faubus to a third term.

The first returns came from the Mount Olive community near Melbourne in north Arkansas. Fourteen persons voted for Faubus. His opponents received no votes.

Faubus, hoping that his stand in the integration crisis would reap a landslide victory, faced two opponents in the Democratic preferential primary.

Some 300,000 of the half a million eligible voters were expected to cast ballots including possibly 50,000 of the 60,000 eligible Negroes.

Payment of a poll tax is a prerequisite for voting in Arkansas. The deadline for paying the tax was last Oct. 1, a few weeks after Faubus ordered state soldiers to block integration at Central High School here.

In strongly Democratic Arkansas, nomination is equivalent to election.

Should Faubus not win a majority today, he will face the runner-up in a runoff second primary Aug. 12.

The two candidates opposing the controversial incumbent, Chris Finkbeiner, 37-year

30 Years Ago Today

July 29, 1928

It was wise Council that former Judge F. M. Wooten gave to members of the Rotary Club last night when he urged that the citizens of Greenville turn a deaf ear to those parties who from time to time make tempting offers for the purchase of our municipal electric power plant. Greenville water and light plants are among the greatest assets of the city and to consider disposing of the electric plant and place our people at the mercy of the power interests would be no less than a calamity. In addition to paying the interest on and retiring its own bonds and making its own improvements, the Greenville electric light plant is taking care of the water system, the sewer system making all necessary extensions and then is paying a neat sum into the city treasury to go into the general fund. Judge Wooten is right in urging the citizens to sit steady when apparently flattering offers for our electric plant are made. We have a good thing in our electric plant, we do not need power companies.

 Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. House, and directed to the table which was covered with a white linen cloth, centered with a basket of cut flowers.

 The children played on slides and swings, and pictures were made during the evening by the club photographer for the current year scrapbook.

 After the serving souvenirs that were attached to the white streamers were taken by the wedding party from the three tied cake plate. The bride and groom elect cut the first piece of cake; Mrs. Donald Tallman assisted by Mrs. David Wood then served the cake.

PTA Conference Continues Today

RALEIGH (AP) — A two-day legislative conference of the State Congress of Parents and Teachers continued today with symposiums discussing needed laws and legislative programs.

Dr. Charles F. Carroll, superintendent of public instruction, greeted the 100 PTA members attending the meeting this morning and a symposium entitled "Our Schools," followed.

Symposium speakers were Nile Hunt, coordinator of teacher education of the State Department of Public Instruction; State Sen. O. Arthur Kirkman, chairman of the Committee for the Study of Public School Finance; William H. Wagner, associate executive secretary of the State School Boards Assn.; and Mrs. H. S. Godwin, second vice president of the PTA Congress.

The workshop-type get-together was to end this afternoon after a symposium called "Let's Be Specific" during which various legislative procedures of groups interested in education, health and welfare laws were to be aired.

Gov. Luther B. Barahardt addressed the PTA members last night before a symposium entitled "Legislation Needed for Children and Youth."

Barnhardt said, "Good schools are the result, not the cause, of good communities." He cautioned the group against "the mistake of assuming that we can disassociate the school problem from community problems as a whole."

"The two are the same and inseparable," he declared.

Earlier Secretary of State Thad Eure said the Tar Heel General Assembly is the most powerful law making body in the land because it is the only one not subjected to gubernatorial veto.

Eure's talk was chiefly concerned with explaining to the members how bills are drafted and introduced in the Legislature. He was one of three speakers at a panel discussion called "There ought to be a law." Other speakers were Ray S. Wilkinson of Rocky Mount, state PTA legislative chairman, and A. C. Dawson, Southern Pines school superintendent.

The evening symposium featured talks by Dr. Ellen Winston, commission of public welfare, Dr. J. W. R. Norton, state health director, and T. E. B. Hunter, chairman of juvenile protection of the state PTA Congress.

The purpose of the legislative conference was to teach PTA members the details of establishing a legislative program and to foster thinking along the lines of establishing such a program.

Sid Complains About Imitator

LONDON (AP) — Sid Caesar complained last night there's no room in Britain for two Sid Caesars.

The American television comic charged British comedian Dickie Henderson was not only using his material but also was imitating his personality.

Caesar, doing a 13-show series for the British Broadcasting Corp., said he had complained to the rival Associated Rediffusion Network, which features Henderson in a weekly program.

"I have seen my lawyers about it," said Caesar. "The movements and expressions in the Henderson show are identical to mine. It doesn't seem ethical to me to copy another man's personality."

Between shows at the Prince of Wales Theater, Henderson admitted he had studied Caesar's work "but that was because I wanted to keep as far as possible from his interpretation."

"We're absolutely different types of comics," Henderson asserted. "He pulls faces for which I have the greatest admiration. I'm funny, but I'm no good at pulling faces."

Missourian Didn't Figure Revenue Agents' Interest

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — All Kenneth Welch wanted to do was find a commercial use for the hedge apple. But that was before he reckoned with the revenuers.

No one had ever found any use for the hedge apple. Welch, a 40-year-old stonecutter, thought he would try boiling the fruit.

His experiments led him to believe that from a ton of hedge apples he could get 67 pounds of vegetable oil, 24 pounds of an antioxidant compound for use as a food preservative, 309 pounds of high protein dried pulp good for cattle feed, and 29 gallons of ethyl alcohol.

Ah, alcohol. That's where the rub came. A good citizen, Welch figured that since alcohol was one of the products, he had better tell the federal alcohol tax people what he was about.

"The alcohol wasn't what I was after," he relates, "but they couldn't understand what I was doing. I believe they thought I was some kind of bootlegger."

"They confiscated all the alcohol, dumped out all my experiments and told me I couldn't do any more experimenting under any circumstances. They took all my equipment, too, including my wife's pressure cooker."

Then the government sent a bill for $111.53 — taxes on the alcohol

he had produced.

That was about two years ago, and Welch says he's still sparring with the alcohol tax people.

"One assistant U.S. attorney said I'd caused him more trouble than any man he'd ever dealt with," Welch says, not without a note of pride.

Welch's friends carried his story to Rep. Charles Brown (D-Mo.), whose protests drew, among other things a suggestion that Welch's difficulty stemmed from failure to qualify in a lawful manner as a distiller. The official suggested that Welch post a bond.

Other results:

1. Welch got a letter from the regional tax office in Omaha advising the bond should be at least $3,000 or $10.50 per proof gallon for any alcohol produced in a 15-day period.
2. The government sent a report that his alcohol tested 157.9 and 126.8 proof.
3. Mrs. Welch got back her pressure cooker.

Welch allows that if he had it to do all over again, "Darned if I wouldn't keep my mouth shut about it until I had it done."

War Is Declared Against Army

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The town of Guilderland has declared war on the Army. The brass won't loan the town a spare bridge.

The battleground is a spot on Normanskill Creek, where a bridge crumpled June 8 when a heavy civilian truck rumbled across.

Town officials asked the Army for a Bailey bridge as a temporary replacement. It keeps several at a big supply depot in the town.

Sorry, the Army replied, we can supply one only in the event of a major disaster.

Last night the Town Board voted unanimously to barricade a road leading from the bridge to a National Guard firing range.

Guardsmen have been fording the creek to reach the range. With the road barred, they would be forced to climb the barricades or trespass on private property.

Target practice is Sunday. Town officials say the next move is up to the Army.

More Political Fireworks To Come

Retirement of Congressman George A. Shuford of North Carolina's 12th district is sure to set off more political fireworks in the western part of North Carolina.

While there is only an outside chance that the 12th district might elect a Republican Congressman come November, that matter in itself should be of concern to Democratic party leaders of North Carolina.

Rep. Shuford's announcement Sunday that he will retire at the end of his present term in January was the latest in a series of events that have kept the political pot boiling in the western part of the state since the May 31 Democratic primary.

Six days prior to the primary Rep. Shuford suffered what apparently was a stroke. Though it was announced just prior to the primary that he was in the hospital, the seriousness of his condition did not become known until after the election. It led to charges that voters of the district were not told the full story about Rep. Shuford's illness.

In the May primary Rep. Shuford received 52.95 per cent of the votes, rolling up a lead of almost 8,000 votes over his nearest opponent, wealthy shoe manufacturer Heinz Rollman in a field of five candidates.

It will now be up to the 12th district Democratic

Executive Committee to name a candidate to replace Shuford on the party ticket for the November election. While it would seem logical that one of the candidates who sought the post in the primary might be named to succeed Shuford, early reports from the west indicate the candidates who opposed Shuford for the nomination might have to take a back seat to others under consideration for the post.

In what was on the whole a drab election year in North Carolina, the unusual developments in the 12th district have added sparkle to the state's politics in recent months. It now appears that further developments in that district will touch off more political fireworks before the voters speak the final word in the November general election.

Wyoming Succeeded; It Can Happen Here!

Taxes can come down! Popular opinion to the contrary notwithstanding, Wyoming has proved the point by reducing its property taxes by a little more than one-third.

How could a state do such a thing in this period of higher costs of everything including government? According to Gov. Milward L. Simpson who announced the reduction, Wyoming's phenomenal business and industrial growth in the past four years has made possible the tax reduction.

Wyoming has seen its gas-production valuation increase by 66 per cent, its oil production 49 per cent and so on. It has seen private companies invest millions of dollars in business and industry in the state, and the facilities created by these investments are subject to taxation by the state.

Thus the state has more property to tax in terms of industries and businesses, in terms of homes and belongings of people who have better jobs because of the expanding economy. It made possible a lower tax rate on property.

From the experience of Wyoming, North Carolina's counties might take a lesson. As the productive wealth of an area increases, its taxable value increases, and thus lower tax rates can produce sufficient revenue for government operations.

Maybe we're too optimistic, but we fully expect to see the day in Pitt and other counties in Eastern North Carolina when the increase in taxable property because of economic growth will more than offset the need for higher taxes to provide for more costly local government operations.

It has happened it Wyoming. It can happen here.

Lot Of Travel By Budget Group

By LYNN NISBET

ROUND-UP — The advisory budget commission wound up its 1958 tour of inspection at Fayetteville State Teachers College about 6:30 Friday afternoon. The members of the party still had from 75 to 100 miles to ride before setting home. From the time they started the tour at Raleigh on June 30 the budgeteers had covered well over 2,000 miles. Exact mileage varied from each individual, because some had to drive more than 100 miles to get to Raleigh for start of the tour. The itinerary had been planned to eliminate backtracking as much as possible. There was no way to avoid backtracking between Asheville and Cullowhee, between Wilson and Elizabeth City, and the dog-leg triangle of Pembroke, Samard and Fayetteville.

The men had to keep accurate record of miles traveled whether in State-owned or private cars, but no count was made of the distances walked up and down stairs, through long corridors in colleges and hospitals, across campuses and farms. Kemp Doughton, Nelson Woodson and Joe Eagles, all of whom had made the tour before, skipped a few visits and sat out some of the walking trips. Carl Venters, who also made the tour in 1956, but this is chairman of the commission and candidate for Speaker of the House, and the two new members, William Copeland and William Womble, didn't miss anything.

Your reporter, who was making the tour for the seventh consecutive time, didn't miss a visit but did sit out some of the walking. Besides slightly more than 2,100 miles with the budget group, your reporter had "on his own" or with other parties some 1,700 miles over North Carolina highways since June 26, for a total of nearly 4,000 miles.

ARDOUOUS — Members of the budget group took some side trips at their own expense, but for most part the official work day ran from a wake-up call at 6:30 a.m. in order to get breakfast and keep the first appointment at 8:30 to conclusion of the final hearing after 8:00 p.m. During the 14 work days (not counting the Sunday driving necessary to get to Concord and Elizabeth City for 8:30 meetings Monday) the budget commission visited 48 institutions supported in whole or in part by State tax money. More than half of these institutions are in the area of education, most of the rest in hospitals, with only three or four classed as direct physical economic assets.

EDUCATIONAL — The educational institutions included the University at Chapel Hill, with a separate budget for the division of health affairs, State College at Raleigh and Woman's College at Greensboro; East Carolina College at Greenville, Western Carolina College at Cullowhee and Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone — all white degree-granting colleges, Pembroke State College, a four-year institution, originally set up for Indians, now has more than half white student body.

North Carolina College at Durham and A & T at Greensboro are co-ed colleges offering post graduate courses for Negroes. Elizabeth City State Teachers College, Fayetteville State Teachers College and Winston-Salem Teachers College, originally for teacher training, now offer degrees in other major subjects as well as terminal courses in less than four years for Negro students.

Asheville-Biltmore College all white; Charlotte (Carver) College and Wilmington (Williston) Community College with separate Negro units under the same administration operate in the two-year college field with terminal courses in trades and crafts and special subjects.

Operating below college level are the Gaston Technical Institute at Gastonia, the Vocational Textile School at Belmont, the school for white deaf at Morganton, for white blind and deaf Negroes at Raleigh. In the educational category also comes the conditioning center for the blind at Butler.

HOSPITALS — The State system of mental hospitals includes major units at Raleigh (Dix Hill), Butler and Morganton for whites, and Goldsboro for Negroes. The same board operates training schools for mental defectives at Butler and Baswell (white and Goldsboro colored).

The TB sanatoria system has hospitals at Chapel Hill, McCain, Black Mountain and Wilson. The State fully maintains the cerebral palsy hospital at Gastonia, the orthopedic hospital at Gastonia, contributes substantially to the Asheville orthopedic hospital, and underwrites about half the operating cost of the Cancer Institute at Lumberton. (All these are open to all races.)

CORRECTIONAL — There are five units in the State system of correctional training schools for juvenile delinquents — for white boys at Concord and Rocky Mount, for white girls at Samar-cand, for Negro boys at Hoffman and for Negro girls at Kinston. The State fully maintains the Confederate Women's Home at Fayetteville, and makes grants in aid to a number of orphanages which were not visited by the budget group. The Tyron Palace restoration at New Bern and Old Salem at Winston-Salem were visited. So were the commercial fisheries at Morehead City and the State ports at Morehead City and Wilmington — only potential money makers in the whole series of projects visited.

Requests for capital investment in permanent improvements at these and other places not visited aggregate in excess of $107 million.

Friend Of New Talent

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Unlike many professional comedians, Henry Youngman doesn't discourage newcomers from trying to find a career in the yuk industry.

"People say 'Cut out the comedy,'" he remarked. "But don't believe them. There's a million dollars in it if you can make enough people laugh."

"In what other business can you make a million dollars—and carry your inventory in your head?"

Youngman, celebrating his 25th year as a one-man gag factory, has long been known in the trade as one willing to help the talented young beginner find his way around.

What does it take to get started as a comedian today?

"It was tougher in the old days," he said. "The main thing you had to have was a willingness to starve while you hung around comedians who worked—and learned how they did it."

"Now nobody wants to starve anymore, not even beginners. 'The thing you need most today is wealthy parents, or a do-it-yourself comedy kit consisting of $50,000 in the bank."

"You start out by telling jokes until you become the life of any party you attend. Then someone will tell you, 'You're a riot. You ought to be on the stage.'"

"After that you go to a dictation school and learn to talk with your mouth full of marbles. Each day you drop one marble. When you've lost all your marbles, you'll be a comic."

"Then you take your $50,000 out of the bank and spend it buying fresh jokes, costumes, building a number of routines, and finding an agent. By the time you've spent the $50,000 you should be working — or else you'll never laugh again."

Henry has an unfair advantage over most comedians. He was born in Brooklyn. But he insists he became a comic in self-defense.

"I was a fiddler in a dance band, and a lousy one," he admitted. "The couples used to make comments on my playing as they danced by, and I started to wisecrack back. Things just went on from there. I used my bow less and less — and my mouth more."

Henry is what is known as a standup comedian. They have a tough job in show business — to go out cold on a stage, without props or plot, and make an audience of strangers laugh, whether they want to or not. This is an art which even Jackie Gleason, one of the most astute situation comedians of his day, has never quite mastered.

There are very few bombastic or buff comedians around now—such as Milton Berle, Red Skelton and Bob Hope," said Henry.

"It's a new age of comedy—the age of charm. The tip-toe comedians have taken over. They have crew cuts and the little-boy appeal."

"They are lightweight charmers and they get light laughs. They don't have to be hilariously funny—just charming and pleasant. The audience loves them, so anything they say is funny."

Youngman isn't bitter about the change. Just philosophical. He feels there will always be room for a few rapid-fire old — timers such as himself.

Henry has noted one other major change in recent years. "Men used to be the biggest hecklers in night clubs," he said. "Now it's the women."

"I suppose it's a reaction against being held back for so many years. But when a group of them go into a night club they want to be heard — they want everyone to know they are there, and spending a few bucks."

Here are a few remarks Henry uses to silence obstreperous women who try to get into the act:

"Some women bring happiness wherever they go. But you bring happiness whenever you go."

"If Moses had seen you, there'd have been another commandment."

"But you have to be careful in squealing women," said Henry. "You try to kid them, not murder them."

"They might have a big escort along."

Letter From A Vacationer

Have you ever noticed the vacation types who make one wonder if today's homo sapiens is really so sapiens?

Take the character, for instance, who has embarked on his annual reprieve from account-ants' labor, — and then about a day after his vacation's start he drops into the office to see if he's been missed.

"Whew, it's cool in here," he remarks; and waxes great beads of perspiration from his brow. "It's a scorcher outside," is his unnecessary reminder. . . and the vacationing hot shot spends the rest of the afternoon enjoying the office he was so desperate to escape.

Then there's the one you run into on the street. "What a vacation!" he exclaims.

"Been painting, putting up shelves, polishing the lawn ball in shape, polishing the car, put up a new clothes line and the wife wants me to build a new sandbox for the kids. Going to the beach this weekend. . . I think," and off he races to vacation some more.

Nor should we overlook the sun tan fiend who returns looking like a South Sea islander; nor those who only burn and return with skin so tender they move with accompanying twinges and muffled groans. Everybody has seen them.

The vacationer who can hold an audience is the one who loves to just get behind the wheel and travel. No special destination, he just goes. If he can unrel five thousand miles of highway he's unhappy because he couldn't squeeze in another two thousand. But the tales of where he's been and what he saw, and how his car stood up . . . those things are good conversation pieces for months to come.

Rarest of all is the co-worker who simply disappears, and on returning has absolutely no thing to say. He just slips back into his niche wearing a small halo of questionmarks.

Then, there's the bird with a destination and a tight schedule . . . hitting the high road through the heat of searing summer with silent qualms about whether his vintage model horseless carriage can repeat a familiar route just one more time without mishap.

His small children weary early of their close quarters and the monotony of a long trip. They fret. They clamor over backs of the seat. They become smeared with perspiration and grime — their own grandmother and grandfather would disown them — even the parents are tempted.

After 200 miles, the ordeal is . . . hey, that's us! It all happened over the weekend, on the way up into western Virginia. I'm not even supposed to be working. Been long gone.

Left Friday . . . goodbyes were tempered with warnings I had to fill a column space on Tuesday. Just did.

Other Editors Saying --- Douglas Report Recalled

(Rocky Mount Evening Telegram)

The Sherman Adams case, in which our President's top assistant is charged with accepting lavish gifts in return for his White House influence, brings back into sharp focus the Douglas Committee report of 1951. The report, called Ethical Standards in Government, warned of such situations as the Adams case and urged Congress to tackle the problems of ethics in government.

This report attacked the weaknesses in our government system, not individuals in the government. It discussed the tendencies for temptation, and outlined moves Congress should make to improve the ethics-in-government situation. Congress acted on none of the suggestions. Now, in view of the Adams case, perhaps it is time to go back and pay a little more attention to the Douglas report.

The committee's investigation was far reaching. The committee saw the root of the problem in the double standards that exist in the free American society. These standards are veneration of leaders who are symbols of integrity, but at the same time an odd admiration for those who can pull a slick deal and get away with it. The committee said, "There is a tolerance in American life for unscrupulous methods which bring immediate rewards, even though those methods, if they should become universal, would destroy the very society in which they are tolerated."

Although the committee found the basic integrity in federal government to be relatively high, it pointed out that depending on adherence to the broad moral code was not enough. The report suggested setting up a commission on ethics in government in order that definite lines of right and wrong might be drawn when it comes to the giving and accepting of gifts by government officials.

A part of the committee report stated that "Expensive gifts, lavish or frequent entertainment, paying hotel or travel costs, valuable services, inside advice as to investments, discounts and allowances are improper. "On this," the report continued, "there is substantial agreement in the governmental community, and anyone who thinks them proper must have already lost his incentive. The difficulty comes in drawing the line between the innocent or the proper and that which is designing, or improper. At the moment a doubt arises as to propriety, the line should be drawn. Innocence is perhaps lost when one is conscious that it exists."

The committee's report included suggestions that were intended to rule out the possibilities of such situations as the Adams case. One section stated, "Appearance as well as reality must be considered. Even though a public official is not influenced by favors in his attitude toward the donor's official business, if it might seem to an observer that the recipient would be influenced, the gift becomes improper." And this, indeed, strikes home in the Adams case.

In its report the committee expressed concern over the problem as a whole, and not as it might affect individuals. This was brought out when the report stated, "It is not to the public interest that the integrity of public officials should be suspected. The effect of the example on other employees and on other members of the public is also to be considered. Will one man's gift lead others to do so who may be more easily influenced? Will it lead other businessmen to believe that they must give presents to public officials, and so create a larger problem where a smaller one exists today?"

That small problem of 1951 has since mushroomed, once during a Democratic administration and now during a Republican administration. It would seem that the dangers the committee feared have become quite active. Now would be a good time for Congress to take the moves concerning government ethics that it failed to consider back in 1951. Such action could erase some of the possibility of such ugly incidents as the Adams case in the future.

Ike And Nicky Could Stay Home

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev could just as well stay home — for all the good they'll do — if they turn their summit meeting into a gab session on who-struck-John?

That's what they've been doing so far in their exchange of letters. Look out if there is only over the head, each blaming the other side for stirring up the Middle East.

Khrushchev has written vaguely about "recommendations" and "solutions" at the summit meeting. Eisenhower, even more vaguely on what the meeting should do, so far hasn't even said he'd be there himself — though others say he will if there is a meeting.

Both men have an opportunity to come up with solid, creative proposals for assuring Middle East peace and stability. There's no indication either will go to the meeting with such proposals ready.

Even if they do, it won't be easy to get agreement. For example: If all the Arab states were linked together peacefully tomorrow, how could they then be kept from trying to destroy the Jewish state of Israel?

Most likely no solutions will come directly from the summit conference: Perhaps because of time and details involved, the most that can be expected in some general agreement on working for a solution.

Then the matter could be turned over to the big powers' foreign ministers to be hammered out. And then the chances for accomplishing exactly nothing look bright indeed.

That's what happened after the summit meeting three years ago. The generalized and high-sounding pronouncements of West and East at Geneva in 1955 evaporated when the foreign ministers later got together to work them out.

The Eisenhower-Khrushchev letters on this expected meeting have been highly self-conscious performances, with the whole world watching.

Khrushchev, handed a free chance to wrap himself in the role of peacemaker, called for a summit meeting and blamed the West for Mideast troubles. It was a wonderful propaganda chance. And he took it.

He put Eisenhower on the defensive. Much of the President's answering letter was taken up with explaining the American position and trying to dump the basic blame on the Soviet Union for what happened among the Arabs.

Once the two men get together the world is going to look for something more substantial than propaganda. So both will be under pressure to produce solutions instead of denunciations. This may not deter them.

But if one side balks at what looks like reasonable proposals from the other, everyone will be in a position to see who's stalling. Look out if there is only general, but no detailed, agreement.

With the summit meeting ended and the job of working out details later handed over to the foreign ministers, everything, as in the past, can be quietly strangled.

Opinions In Brief

"Other blessings may be taken away, but if we have acquired a good friend by goodness, we have a blessing which improves in value when others fail." — William Ellery Channing.

"Being the editor of a newspaper in the South these days is like living in the permanent eye of a hurricane." — Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution.

"I have always said that when a man pays five cents for a newspaper he gets a proprietary interest in it and if he doesn't like what it's doing, he's got a right to quit taking it and he's got a right to cut off his support." — Harry Ashmore, Executive Editor of the Arkansas Gazette.

Strength For Today

A policeman in a New Jersey village was attracted to a lagoon by the screams of people standing on the shore. A child was foundering in the water. The policeman dived in and brought the child to safety. Imagine his amazement and emotion when he discovered it was his own little daughter.

So many of life's events have consequences we never anticipate. We go along doing certain things for a certain reason and behold, we find that we have done something vastly more significant than the things to which we were led by the dictates of duty. Some of the great discoveries made in laboratories today are things the scientist never started out to secure. It was because the English physician, Dr. Fleming, had by mistake placed a bowl containing some liquid on a laboratory shelf that a mold developed on this liquid and led the physician to the discovery of penicillin. If we go about doing our duty, we may sometimes find that something vastly more than duty has been accomplished. We strive to make the community and the world better because it is our duty to do so, and behold, these new and better conditions rise up to bless our descendants.

The way of duty sometimes seems drab and uninteresting, but at the end of duty lies blessedness. That word "blessed" is a wonderful word, and the fruit it bears is often both unexpected and inspiring.

Future Checks Will Look Different

By ELMER ROESSNER
Some day next year the blank checks you get from your bank may have several groups of squarish digits across the bottom.

The 1's will look heavily ballasted on the bottom; the 2's will look like square, reversed S's; the 3's, 4's, 5's will be composed of straight lines and right angles; the 7's will look like cubist question marks; the 8's will look bottom-heavy; the 9's will be of straight lines and the 0's will be almost square.

The ink will be black or dark brown because it will be loaded with iron oxide, which can be magnetized.

AUTOMATION IS AIM
These figures can be read, with very little practice, by the human eye. And they can be read much faster by automatic electronic sorting machines. That's why they are so curiously shaped; that's why they are printed with iron oxide ink. The ink makes it possible to activate the machines; the odd shapes make it possible for the machines to distinguish between numbers. The magnetic numbers are being demonstrated by the A. B. Dick Co., which, working with the American Bankers Association and practically every manufacturer of bank and office machinery, is developing a system for automatic handling of checks.

The digits are now being tested in many laboratories; testing will continue until fall. They may be revised a bit then, but most engineers working on the system think they will prove satisfactory as is.

When the system is in operation, companies and individuals will write checks as they do now. When a check is presented to a bank for payment, some mere of these magnetic numbers will be added.

When checks get to a clearing house, they will be fed into a machine that will sort them by banks of issue many times faster than humans could. When they are returned to the banks of issue, they will be put through another electronic machine that will sort them by accounts. And if the bank wishes, it can get still other machines that, reading the last-added numbers, will post the checks in the proper accounts.

CHECKS OF FUTURE
Eventually, check-writing machines will be devised to write the amounts in this ink, and add the payees' code numbers. When this is perfected, it will be possible to drop a check in a slot in a bank and have the amount credited to the payee's account without the check ever being touched by a teller.

And if magnetic coding can eliminate the danger of forgery, it may be even possible to put a check into a slot, push a button and have the exact cash drop into your hand.

And while that is sometime in the future, the magnetically coded check for sorting purposes is almost here. The Dick Company has developed a high-speed, electronically controlled machine with which even fairly small banks can code checks magnetically and, at the same time, print customers' names and addresses on them. However, C. Mathews Dick, Jr., vice president, says his company is not getting into the production of sorting machines, leaving that to others in the electronics field.

NEW SERVICE SPEEDS
AD MATS TO NEWSPAPERS
Many manufacturers supply dealers with matrices from which they can have advertising illustrations made. Often the manufacturers share the costs of such advertisements with retailers.

However, dealers often mislay ad mats, as they are called, or get around to them after the manufacturer's offer has expired. Now a service is sending these mats direct to newspaper, at the manufacturers' expense. This will prevent loss of mats, save retailers trouble, and enable newspaper representatives to make prompt arrangements for using the mats in advertisements. The service is called Famous Brand Mat Service, 1401 N. Main St., Pleasantville, N.J.

'Tales Of The Universe' Coming To TV This Fall

By RALPH DIGHTON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A wise man once pleased his king so greatly that the monarch told him, "As a reward you may have anything you desire, up to half my kingdom."

"Sire," said the wise man, "my desires are very simple. I would be more than content if you would reward me in grains of wheat, in this manner:

"Lay one grain on the first square of a chess board. On the next square, two grains. On the third square, four grains. And so on for each of the 64 squares on the board."

The king thought this was a small request, until he tried to pay off. There wasn't that much wheat in his kingdom, or even in the world.

This is one of the Tales of the Universe that research scientist Dr. Heinz Haber is bringing to television this fall.

How many grains of wheat did the wise man actually request? "The figure is astronomical," said Dr. Haber, "and for all practical purposes, meaningless. You can get a pretty fair idea of it, though, if you say that all the wheat harvested in the world since Christ was born wouldn't be enough."

Dr. Haber, science consultant for Walt Disney Studios and television station KNXT, has worked up 52 half-hour programs, each answering such apparently simple questions as "Why is the sky blue?" and "Why do stars have such funny names?"

The show, which will start about Oct. 1, is aimed at adults, not youngsters probably will enjoy it, too. It will be telecast locally on KNXT the first few weeks. If it clicks, Dr. Haber says, there are plans to put the program on the CBS network.

Tall, handsome and friendly, Dr. Haber could become a new

17 Army Nurses Open Hospital

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Seventeen harried Army nurses began setting up an evacuation hospital near the Beirut International Airport today — and at least one man in Germany is wondering what happened to his date.

Capt. Eleanor Kozlowski of Columbus, Neb., was just going off duty to meet her date when word came to move out. She didn't have time to tell him she was going.

The nurses arrived from Germany Saturday. Some had as much as three hours notice to pack. But some had as little as 30 minutes.

Lt. Margaret L. Jaskosko, Salem, Ore., said she was on night duty when ordered to report. She was told, "Abandon everything personal and leave your car with friends."

All the nurses arrived in dungarees. Most brought nothing but toilet articles and uniforms. But Lt. Sharon Johnstone, Bangor, Maine, brought along a couple of cotton dresses.

The hospital is being set up in an olive grove. Plans call for a 200-bed outfit until a rest hospital unit can be assembled. It will contain 400 beds.

Talks In Brazil Have Done Little To Narrow Gap

By JULIUS GOLDEN

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The current conference of the Interparliamentary Union, dedicated to aiding peace by a frank exchange of views among the world's lawmakers, has done little to narrow the breach between the Communist and non-Communist worlds.

This was the opinion of delegates and observers at the conference, now in its sixth day. The more than 300 legislators do not speak officially for their 49 nations.

"There is the usual division between East and West," said Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.). "I haven't seen very much evidence of a meeting of minds."

"The Russians are being very intransigent and, although the Poles for example are more mild than usual, the Communist nations are mauling the same lines."

"The best service this conference could do from our point of view is to bring the noncommitted countries closer to our side."

Rep. Katharine St. George (R-N.Y.), present at the interview with Keating, agreed with him.

The wide divergence of views appeared in yesterday's debate on resolutions calling for disarmament agreements and creation of an international police force.

Keating and Rep. W. R. Pogue (D-Tex.) explained the U.S. position favoring an international police force and unlimited inspections to cover any agreement to halt nuclear weapons production or tests.

Soviet delegates charged an international police force could serve as an imperialist weapon to interfere with the internal affairs of small nations.

September Hearing For Western Union

RALEIGH (AP) — A State Utilities Commission hearing has been set for Sept. 24 to consider a petition by the Western Union Telegraph Co. for rate increases amounting to $61,068 annually in North Carolina.

The petition was filed yesterday and the commission immediately suspended the rate hikes pending the hearing. The proposals would affect both case rates and press rates.

Full-rate telegrams would be increased by 10 cents, night letters, by 10 cents, and day letters by 15 cents. The firm did not include requests for increases for additional words.

The base rate increases were scheduled to go into effect Aug. 1 and the press rate hikes on Aug. 15.

The firm's North Carolina revenues would be increased from $630,212 to $711,268 under the plan.

Under the plan, full-rate telegrams would be hiked to $1.03 for the first 15 words or less if the distance is within 125 miles; to $1.15 for distances of 126-225 miles; to $1.25 for distances of 226 to 425 miles; and $1.40 for distances of 426 to 750 miles.

The night letter rate would be increased from 80 cents to 90 cents for 50 words or less and the day letter rate from $1.35 to $1.50 for 50 words or less.

Press rates would be increased by four cents for day rates and two cents for night rates. The day press rate would be 38 cents for 15 words or less and 1.2 cent for each additional word where the full-rate telegram rate is $1.05, 48 cents where the full-rate telegram is $1.15, with each additional word costing 2.36 cents; and 68 cents where the full-rate telegram is $1.40, with each additional word costing 2.72 cents.

Night press rates would be 19 cents for 15 words or less and sixths of a cent for each additional word where the full-rate telegram is $1.15; 29 cents where the full-rate telegram costs $1.25, with each additional word costing 1.18 cents; 34 cents where the full-rate telegram is $1.40, with each additional word costing 1.36 cents. Sports rate increases for newspapers are proposed as follows: $2.30 to $3.10 for Class N Service; $1.20 to $1.55 for class P; and 65 cents to 80 cents for class R. Class S (1-10 games) would go from $2.50 to $3.10 per message; class J (11-20 games) from $3.75 to $4.70; and class U (21-30 games) from $4.50 to $5.60 per message. For over 200 games, class N service would go up by 35 cents; class P by 20 cents; and class R by 10 cents.

Class M sports service for newspapers would cost $15, plus any installation or service charges.

Western Union also proposes to increase the cost of sending money orders by 5 cents for orders up to $200 and scale three rates upward gradually to an increase of 35 cents for money orders of $2,000.

Indictments Are Returned Against D. C. Car Dealers

By PAUL DUKE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-two car dealers in the Washington area faced charges today of conspiring to jack up the price of new cars in violation of antitrust laws.

Indictments returned yesterday by a federal grand jury also accused the dealers of collusion in setting artificially high prices for parts and repairs.

The indictments were the first returned in a Justice Department probe of car pricing practices. Other grand juries are investigating the car markets in New York, San Francisco, Cleveland and Detroit.

Indicted here were the area's 17 franchised Ford dealers, the 14 Chevrolet dealers and the 11 Oldsmobile dealers. In addition, the Ford Motor Co. and the Greater Washington Chevrolet Dealers Assn., cooperative were charged with joining the conspiracy to fix prices to the detriment of open competition.

The basic charge was that each of the three groups of dealers conspired to set minimum prices "substantially in excess" of those recommended by manufacturers.

The charges were denied by several of the dealers and by the Ford Motor Co.

The dealers said the only agreement ever entered into was one setting up a suggested asking price for cars. The asking price, they said, was never the selling price because of varying trade-in allowances and discounts.

In Detroit, William T. Gossett, vice president and general counsel of Ford, denied that the car manufacturer had entered into agreements with its dealers to set the price of parts and accessories.

Gossett said the charges apparently stemmed from a program undertaken by Washington Ford dealers in 1954 whereby identification cards were issued to bona fide wholesale parts customers.

"The program involved no agreement as to the prices at which sales were made to any customer," said Gossett.

Conviction under the indictments could bring a penalty of $50,000 on each of seven counts. No prison sentences are possible because the charges were limited to corporations.

"The purpose of these indictments is to restore price competition by condemning and removing arbitrarily imposed restraints designed to maintain prices at artificially high levels," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor Hansen.

Ford and Oldsmobile dealers were charged also with agreeing for a time on minimum gross profit margins per car, and Chevrolet dealers were accused of conspiring through the cooperative to fix repair rates.

Hot Combo Plays At Warm Wedding

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Miss Betty Brown became the bride of Jerry A. Lokay in the outdoor Garden Theater of a City Park in 102-degree temperatures. A hot combo, literally, played the Wedding March and a circuit judge performed the ceremony to the accompaniment of whirling lawn sprinklers and the shouts of children playing nearby.

Most foreigners here seem convinced the army and the new government did not anticipate anti-Western violence during the uprising. The army's fault lay in letting the mobs get out of control.

Since July 14 the army has taken special precautions to protect foreigners.

A platoon of soldiers guards the Hotel Baghdad, an air-conditioned building of some 200 rooms. Several groups of about 100 demonstrators have marched up the driveway to protest the U. S. British troop landings in the Middle East or to welcome some visiting Arab dignitary. Each time the soldiers jumped to the alert, unslinging their carbines and trained a machine gun on their fellow Iraqis. There was no violence.

The Iraq Petroleum Co., an internationally owned combine which pumps Iraq's main source of income out of the ground, has operated normally throughout the political turmoil.

Mantle's Hits Lead Yankees To 14-7 Win

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Apparently the rest cure was all Mickey Mantle needed to emerge from his prolonged batting slump.
Handcapped by a sore right shoulder practically from the start of the campaign, the New York Yankee slugger had stubbornly shrugged off repeated suggestions that he take a brief rest. His batting average dipped as low as .270. It took another injury — a bruised left forearm — to finally sideline the switch-hitting star just before the team's current Western swing. Since returning to action in the second game of this trip, in Detroit, Mantle has cracked 15 hits in 27 times at bat for .556. That seven-game surge boosted his mark to .294.
Mantle walloped two home runs and a single last night as the Yankees outslugged Kansas City 14-7. Gil McDougald of New York snapped a fourth-place tie with the Athletics' Bob Cerv also slammed a pair of homers.
The victory, coupled with Detroit's 5-4 triumph over Boston, widened the Yankees' first-place margin over the Red Sox to 15 games. The Chicago White Sox snapped a fourth-place tie with Kansas City, shading Washington 6-5.

Pettit Must Show Or Blow This Year

By HAL PARIS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Time may be running out for George William Pettit, one of the most publicized bonus players ever to sign a major league baseball contract.
The brawny native of Los Angeles, who once had a promising future as a pitcher, now is struggling to make the big time as a first baseman-outfielder.
And even Pettit will tell you his chances are slim.
Early in 1950, Pettit, armed with a fabulous high school pitching record and a reputation as a strikeout artist, signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates for a whopping $100,000 bonus. He was 18 then, and the first in a long line of players to break into baseball with a six-figure contract in his pocket.
Now, at 26, Pettit is in his ninth season in the minors and still looking for that first full year as a major leaguer.
And if that good season doesn't come in 1959, he may be through with baseball.
"I love to play ball but think too much of my family to waste more time in the minors," says Pettit who supports a wife and four children.
"The majors is the only place to play. A player should get out of the game if he can't make the big time," Pettit says.
The 6-2, 205-pound athlete is confident he'll make the big jump.
"I wouldn't be playing now if I didn't think I could make it. Just one good year could do it."
Pettit, a southpaw, had two brief stints with the Pirates, one in 1951 and the other in 1953, when he won one and lost two.
"I hurt my elbow in the third game of the season with New Orleans in 1950 and my pitching never was the same," Pettit admits.
Since coming into baseball he has played with New Orleans, Indianapolis, Charleston, Hollywood,

Carolina Loop Leaders Clash In Game Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
High Point, Thomasville and Greensboro, currently grappling for a firm grip on the Carolina League's top rung, come face to face at Thomasville tonight for the first of a two-game home and home series.
The Hi-Toms, who have played two less games than their adversaries, enjoy a two percentage point lead.
Greensboro topped Burlington 6-2 last night and the Hi-Toms slugged Winston-Salem 17-11. Raleigh continued its descent into the second division, suffering a 3-6 defeat to Wilson. Durham and Danville split a twin bill, Durham winning the first 6-3, and Danville copping the second 7-1.
The Hi-Toms made the hot, humid night at Winston-Salem quite dismal for the 1,660 home team fans as they rolled across 11 tallies in the first inning. They added three more in the second.
Fifteen batters went to the plate in the wild first. Eleven scored and nine hit safely. The big blow was a grand slam homer by Jack Davis.
Greensboro scored five runs in the second inning and coasted to the triumph behind the six-hit chugging of Duke Addis who notched his 10th win of the season against three losses.
John Malangone paced the winners' attack with three sharp singles, and Frank Whener belted a solo homer in the big second.
In addition to the Greensboro-High Point-Thomasville match tonight, Danville plays at Burlington, Wilson at Durham and Winston-Salem at Raleigh.

Cobra Recaptured After Night Hunt

WACO, Tex. (AP)—The bad boy of the Central Texas Zoo, a 5-foot Egyptian cobra named Clarence, tamely submitted to capture last night after 13 1/2 hours of freedom.
The gray and yellow snake, whose bite can be fatal in 26 seconds, escaped yesterday, apparently through a crack in his cage. Zoo employees moved all animals from the building, bored holes in the floor and used a fogging machine but couldn't find the elusive fugitive.
As they took up the floor plank by plank they spotted the cobra in a corner under the building. They slipped wire loops around his head and body and returned him to his cage.
Wilkinson, president of the American College Football Coaches Assn., said a collegian's only leverage in bargaining with NFL clubs is the possibility he may play Canadian football.
All three insisted that equalization through the draft is a fallacy, that pro scouts can never be sure they've picked the right players to shore up weaknesses and that there's little to choose among hundreds of graduating collegians.
Daugherty said he opposed "any kind of draft that deprives a

U. S. Supremacy In Athletics Fast Being Called By Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviets are claiming in sure and speedy, on American leadership in sports. And even a controversial ruling and a debatable scoring system can't make it appear otherwise.
In the first United States vs. Soviet Union track and field meet, which ended last night, the Soviets outscored the Americans 172 points to 170; their women athletes defeated the American women 43 1/2 and, most important of all, the American men could only defeat the Soviet men 126 to 109.

As the U. S. team packed to go on to meets in Warsaw, Budapest and Athens, the American women could look back with considerable pride on their performances here. So could some of the men. Unquestionably, the greatest feat of the two-day meet was Rafer Johnson's world record score of 5,302 points in the decathlon, wiping out his own accepted record and the unofficial 5,013 points made by his Soviet rival, Vasily Kuznetsov.
The only things that rankled a bit were the Soviet system of jumping together the scores of men's and women's competition and the disqualification of Gordon McKenzie in the 10,000 meters. There was no real bitterness; just some discontent among U.S. coaches and officials.
McKenzie's disqualification in a controversial ruling cost the U.S. team a point. He tried to quit the 10,000-meter race and was sent back by Coach George Eastman. Soviet officials without hearing the American side ruled he was disqualified for leaving the track. The American men won every running event up to 5,000 meters. Bill Dellinger finished second to the Soviet Union's Hubert Pyranikivi in the 5,000 by a matter of inches in a great performance and Phil Coleman finished second in the steeplechase.
American men scored one-two sweeps in 7 of 19 individual events and also won both relays. Of the 22 men's events, the U.S. won 14. But they had expected to score 8 to 10 points better.

Rooms Needed

Little League officials announced today that rooms will be needed to house the Little League ballplayers who visit Greenville August 1st and 2nd for the State Tournament.
A spokesman said that "the four teams will be in Greenville probably only one night, Friday night. Since it will be on the weekend, the motels and hotels will probably be pretty full with stopping salesmen and visitors who will come to see the tournament."
Anyone who is interested in renting a room for a night to one or more Little Leaguers for Friday night should call the local Recreation Department as soon as possible.
The clubs participating in the tournament will be Tarboro, Cool Springs, Hickory, and a representative from Charlotte.

College Coaches Blast Professional Football And Player Draft Laws

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Bud Wilkinson, Duffy Daugherty, and Bowden Wyatt have told Congress they don't like pro football's player draft.
The three bowl-winning college coaches expressed the same low opinion of legislation designed to relieve professional team sports of many antitrust law restrictions.
Oklahoma's Wilkinson, Michigan State's Daugherty and Tennessee's Wyatt testified yesterday before the Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee.
They hit the draft line harder than any witnesses since hearings began last summer.
"Very unfair," each said of the system by which National Football League teams acquire exclusive bargaining rights with designated college players.
They disagreed with NFL Commissioner Bert Bell, who contended that the league would collapse without a draft to equalize the strength of all 12 pro teams. They questioned whether one club could tie up all the good players.
Wilkinson, draft aside, declared he would recommend pro football only to men of superior skill. "A Sammy Baugh, a Sid Luckman or a Doak Walker." It might also help those with a definite goal, such as a career in law or medicine, to pay for advanced education, he said.
"Beyond that," he testified, "anyone who plays is making a bad mistake."
Wilkinson, president of the American College Football Coaches Assn., said a collegian's only leverage in bargaining with NFL clubs is the possibility he may play Canadian football.
All three insisted that equalization through the draft is a fallacy, that pro scouts can never be sure they've picked the right players to shore up weaknesses and that there's little to choose among hundreds of graduating collegians.
Daugherty said he opposed "any kind of draft that deprives a

Cumberland Can Wrap Up Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cumberland County can wrap up the eastern title in state American Legion Junior baseball competition with a win over Siler City tonight.
Shelby, meanwhile, will seek to increase its 2-1 edge in the western championship series with Kannapolis at Shelby.
Paced by the pitching of Doug Maxwell and Junior Edge, Cumberland whipped Siler City 6-2 for a 3-0 lead in the best of seven series. The fourth game is at Siler City.
Maxwell went six innings for Cumberland. He was relieved in the seventh by Edge.
Shelby's Bill Kouri won 13th straight game as his mates battered Kannapolis with 15 hits. Kouri struck out seven and never was in real trouble although Kannapolis scored four runs in the early innings.
Tom Wright collected four hits for the winners while Ronnie Vaughn and Ronnie O'Shea slammed homers.

Jaycee Tourney At UNC Courts

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The National Jaycee tennis tournament finals will be played on the University of North Carolina's courts here next Tuesday through Saturday.
Among the 170 youngsters representing every state in the union will be North Carolina's Charlie Shaffer Jr. of Chapel Hill. The 170 participants will be survivors of regional playoffs in which some 45,000 boys competed.
Competition in the tourney's two divisions — boys under 15 years and boys up to 18 years — will begin daily at 8 a.m. on the UNC varsity courts.
The two winners will be placed on the Junior Davis Cup squad.

Giant Hurlers Have Had A Bum Rap From Critics

Maloney Awarded Certificate

More and more it is becoming evident that the San Francisco Giant pitchers have been getting a bum rap.
For weeks critics have been claiming the Giants would be far out in front in the National League if only they had some respectable pitching. But, in fact, the hitters have been the guilty ones, not the pitchers.
Last night's impressive route-going performance by southpaw Mike McCormick and right-hander Ruben Gomez in the Giants' 3-2 and 2-1 sweep of a twilight-night double-header in Philadelphia furnished additional proof that the San Francisco hurling has been underrated.
In their last seven games (not including the resumption of last month's suspended game), Giant pitchers have permitted 20 runs, half of them in one game. During that same period, the hitters have produced only 10 runs.
It is to the pitchers' credit that with such feeble hitting support they were able to win three and the one of those seven games. Yesterday's double triumph boosted the circuit's Cinderella team to within one percentage point of the front-running Milwaukee Braves.
All other National League teams were idle. In the American, the New York Yankees stretched their commanding lead over runner-up Boston to 15 games with a 14-7 triumph over Kansas City after Detroit had taken an afternoon 5-4 decision from the Red Sox. The Chicago White Sox nipped Washington 6-5.
McCormick, still more than a year away from voting age, hurled a nine-inning, outlasting rookie Roman Semproch and Dick Farrell in the opener for his eighth victory.
Gomez permitted only four hits in the nightcap.
With the exception of the 10-0 loss to Pittsburgh last July 25, no Giant pitcher permitted more than three runs in any of the team's last seven games. Failure to win more than three of them can be traced to the hitters' inability to score more than three runs in any of those contests. Twice the team was shut out and twice it was held to one tally.
Rookies Felipe Alou and Orlando Cepeda provided the key hits in the Giant's twin victories. Alou followed a fifth-inning double by McCormick with a home run to provide the key blow in the first game, although it took an error by relief pitcher Farrell to provide the Giants with the winning run in the ninth.
Cepeda figured in both second-game runs. He singled and scored on Valmy Thomas' single in the second inning, and drove in Willie Kirkland with another single in the sixth.

Life For Utility Man Is A Rough One Until That One Good Season Arrives

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—There are no batting championships, home run titles or other laurels awaiting the utility man in baseball. At best, he's seeking a regular job and the only way to get it is to have "that one good season."
"That's what you need," says Herbie Plews, Washington's No. 1 utility man, "that one good season."
Before that one good season comes, if ever, the utility man is a fidgety, farsome person. The fact that he is dispensable never leaves his mind.
One day he may play third base, another at second or sometimes even at shortstop. There are times he may not get into the field at all for a week or more. Sometimes he gets a shot at pinch hitting and on better days he's called upon to start a game.
"That's your big chance," says Plews, "when you start a game, you get in and keep hitting, you might win a job. But you have to keep hitting. One or two bad days and you're back on the bench."
There are no complaints on Plews' part. "It's a lot better than being in the minors. When you're in the majors, you've reached a certain goal. You keep plugging, hoping that you can win a regular job. You know you can win it but you also know you have to have that one big year."
In 1950 he started with Kansas City in the American Assn. But after a couple of days he was shipped to Quincy of the Three-I League. In 13 games he slugged out 13 hits and had a .295 average when he was hit by a pitched ball and seriously injured. Plews dropped out of baseball after that and went into military service.
Di Biase won the 10-round scrap on a unanimous decision over Jimmy Archer, a fellow New Yorker, but it wasn't easy. Archer streaming blood from cuts around both eyes, kept applying pressure to Tony all night long. It was a real tight finish.
Both Judges, Tony Castellano and Jack Gordon, scored it 5-4-1 for Di Biase. Referee Harry Ebbets made it unanimous 6-4. The A.P. card had the aggressive Di Biase on top 5-4-1.
The doctor visited Jimmy's corner four times between rounds to examine Archer's right eye cut. The left eye cut wasn't as deep. After the fight, Archer said a deeper opened the cut. Tony claimed it was a solid left hook.
Di Biase, 22, weighed 151, Archer, 149 pounds.

Di Biase Trains With N. Guard

The Stirring New Civil War Novel THE LAND IS BRIGHT BY JIM KJELGAARD

CHAPTER I
Ling Stewart went into the pre-dawn blackness to harness the horse while his wife, Ann, remained at the breakfast table. The steadily burning candle softly illumined part of the long table and cast a little circle of light on either side, but the far corners of the room remained in shadow. As she sat there, Ann read in those dim shadows a portent of things to be.

Ferry Boat Service To End Tonight In San Francisco

By RUD SPRINGER
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Ferry boat service—once as much a part of San Francisco as fog, cable cars and the smell of roasting coffee—ends tonight when the San Leandro delivers its last train passengers.
The Southern Pacific Railroad's boat is the last of what was once the largest fleet of ferries in the world, a company flotilla that numbered 43, SP's fleet and others in San Francisco Bay were doomed by three big bridges.
On hand when the aging San Leandro arrives at the ornate Ferry Building from the Oakland train mole will be a small army of nostalgic bay buffs, many of them former commuters who have long since chased off boats that ran from many points across the bay. They have been watching the ferry lines disappear for almost 20 years and this is the absolute end.
SP, which hung on the longest, finally convinced the Interstate Commerce Commission and the California Public Utilities Com-

Panther In Bed Is Just Too Much

PARIS (AP)—Having a pet panther jump in bed with her at 7 a.m. daily was just too much for the wife of France's big game hunting Chevalier d'Orgeux.
She is getting a legal separation from Chevalier and the panther although remaining friendly with both. The trouble is, she says, that her husband liked the panther better than the wife.
The panther in question, Zouma, is a playful beast accustomed to creating a stir. She got loose a year ago on a street housing Harry's New York Bar where Americans often seek solace in the glass—and spread near panic. Whisky sales were poor for several days thereafter.
"I have been patient for months," Chevalier's wife told newsmen. "I like Zouma, but you understand that in the mornings I like to sleep. The panther is an early riser. She wakes us at 7 o'clock, climbs up on the bed and jumps around on the furniture."
To make matters worse, Chevalier and the panther then romp around the bed together.
"Life became impossible," said the wife. "I prefer to go."
They were married in 1952 largely because they shared a passion for horses and hunting. Zouma entered their life in April 1957 when they captured her during a trip to Africa.

Capt. Crane Gets Air Force Rank

Capt. Jean M. Crane, since February, 1956, member of the AF ROTC staff at East Carolina College, has been given a captain's commission in the regular Air Force. His commission, effective July 23, 1958, has been received and his oath administered by Col. Edward J. Maloney, officer in charge of the AFROTC detachment at East Carolina College.
Capt. Crane entered the Air Corps in September, 1942, as an Aviation Cadet, and received his wings and commission as second lieutenant on June 30, 1943. He was promoted to first lieutenant in December, 1944, and then to a captain in February, 1946.
His assignments in the Air Force have included tours of duty in the United States, India, Germany and at East Carolina College. He reports to a new assignment at Barksdale Air Force Base, Shreveport, La., around August 15.

AFROTC Officers At Summer Camp

Capt. George E. Patterson and Capt. Robert W. Vining, members of the Department of Air Science at East Carolina College and on the staff of the AFROTC detachment at the college, have been assigned staff duty at Turner Air Force Base, Albany, Georgia. The two officers will be at Turner until August 30, aiding in the summer training program of the U.S. Air Force.
Tech. Sergeant Linwood Manning, also a member of the ECC Air Force detachment, was on training assignment at Moody Air Force Base, Valdosta, Ga., and returned to Greenville this week up on completion of his tour of duty.

Flustered Woman Gets Back Purse Containing $2,300

WASHINGTON (AP)—Taxi driver Melvin James let a woman passenger off at a downtown bank and drove off.
Some six blocks away he saw a large purse on the back seat, and hurried back to the bank. The woman wasn't there.
He looked into the purse. It contained $2,300 in cash.
James searched the nearby area and found the woman, standing bewildered in the middle of the sidewalk.
"She said the $2,300 belonged to her recreational club's funds," said James. "The loss had hit her hard. She didn't even know what kind of a cab she had been in."
Any reward?
"No. She was so flustered I guess she forgot."

As the market dipped on average, key stocks showed losses running from fractions to more than a point. The rails and the utilities held their ground fairly well.

After some initial wobbling of prices the trend headed downward. Quite a few pivotal issues treaded about unchanged and there was a fair assortment of gainers.

Trading was heavy at the start. There was a succession of sized opening blocks. The ticker tape fell behind the pace of floor transactions for a total of seven minutes.

Some first half earnings reports were sharply below the 1957 figures, notably among oils and Kennecott Copper which fell about 2 points.

Oils, steels, nonferrous metals, rubbers and chemicals were generally lower.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Socony — Mobil, whose earnings were down a succession of sized fractions, Royal Dutch fell about a point, Gulf Oil eased, Sinclair was firm.

U.S. Steel dropped a fraction and General Motors eased. These leading companies report late today on second quarter results.

Celanese, whose second quarter results reversed a first quarter decline, advanced a fraction.

North American Aviation, now prime contractor for the X-15 plane which is intended to go 100 miles high, rose a fair fraction.

Lorillard picked up another point and General Dynamics more than that. Caterpillar fell well over a point.

The African leader, Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, said the investment capital is needed for a 300-million-dollar development program. The investments will be repaid, he said.

He spoke at an official city luncheon in his honor.

Last night the New York Coca Exchange gave Nkrumah a dinner in his honor. At it, the Negro Prime Minister discussed the economic problems of his 16-month-old country and its key crop, cocoa.

He said Ghana, which normally produces almost 30 per cent of the world's cocoa supply, will continue to give the crop absolute priority.

Rotarians Hear Forestry Expert

"Today we are in the change-over period from the exploitation of our timber to the production of timber," Dr. J. V. Hoffman of the North Carolina Forestry Service told Greenville Rotarians last night.

Dr. Hoffman traced briefly the development of forestry and the U. S. Forestry Service from its beginning in 1881 to the present day. Since its beginning, he said, the Forestry Service has fought a running battle to preserve the timber resources of the nation.

In 1957, the speaker said, the nation will need 40 per cent more good products than are now in use. "Wood substitutes will not mean that we will need less timber," Dr. Hoffman declared, "because 95 per cent of the present wood substitutes are made of wood."

The Southeastern United States has as good a timber potential as any section of the nation, Dr. Hoffman told his audience. "I don't know of anything better we can do with our land not in crop production than to grow trees. Forestry will stand on its own feet if given a chance to do so."

The speaker added that the Southeast needs to improve considerably the marketing of its timber.

Farm Agent Says Farmers Should Have Soil Tested

Farmers who have not had their soil tested should do so now.

That was the word from County Farm Agent S. C. Winchester.

"This very important step in a farm program can mean quite a few dollars in increased farm profits," Winchester declared. "All farmers who plan to seed crops now or in the spring would do the wise thing if they checked the fertility levels of their soils to see if they contain adequate amounts of plant nutrients for good crop growth. A soil test is also the only way to determine the lime needs of crop land. Lime may be particularly needed for fall-seeded crops. Lack of lime can bring about seeding failures or poor stands."

"Soil testing is not a lot of hocus pocus. It is accomplished by the most up-to-date scientific equipment for making chemical determinations. This equipment is operated by trained chemists.

"North Carolina farmers are very fortunate in having one of the finest soil testing laboratories in the country. Soil testing is a service free of charge and those farmers who have not taken advantage of this service should do so and obtain up-to-date information on the lime and fertilizer needs of their crops."

The farm agent said between now and Jan. 1 is a good time to collect soil samples and have them tested.

The North Carolina Department of Agriculture's Soil Testing Division can give the farmers prompt service during this period, he continued. It normally takes seven to ten days for a sample to be analyzed once it reaches the laboratory.

"Early soil testing to determine the needs of next year's crop, is good business. It gives the farmer time to buy the kind of fertilizer grades he needs for the crops he plants to grow, Winchester said.

Soil sample boxes and information sheets are available at the Farm Agent's office and other agricultural offices. Winchester urged farmers to stop by these offices and find out how soil samples are to be collected from the field and mailed to Raleigh.

South Carolina Governor Orders Probate Judge Out

COLUMBIA AP—W. E. Redfean has been ousted as Chesterfield County probate judge, an office he has held for 11 years.

A removal order handed down yesterday by Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr. accused the 48-year-old magistrate with being guilty of "gross misconduct and persistent neglect of duty."

He had been charged with public drunkenness and running a quickie marriage mill.

Redfean may appeal the governor's decision but said last night he has not decided on any course of action as yet.

Timmerman took the case under advisement last Wednesday after the conclusion of the second of a two-part hearing on the charges.

The hearing opened May 6 but was recessed so that Redfean might return to Chesterfield to campaign for re-election. He did so successfully, beating Mrs. Margie Pusser in a run-off primary, June 24, by 4,300 votes to 3,719.

In a strongly worded order, the governor said Redfean drank to such an extent "as to physically and mentally incapacitate him from properly carrying on the duties of his office."

He further charged that the veteran magistrate was absent from his office "to such an unreasonable extent as to show an utter disregard for the duties and responsibilities of the office."

Redfean's handling of marriage licenses particularly drew Timmerman's criticism.

The state's chief executive contended that Redfean had issued licenses at the time for which they were applied, overlooking the 24-hour waiting period prescribed by state law.

Timmerman also accused Redfean with breaking the law by failing to file three copies of marriage licenses, with failing to require proof of age in the cases of couples under 25, and with issuing licenses to couples under 18 without written consent from their parents or guardian.

Barrymore's Son Opposes Opening

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor John Drew Barrymore is opposing a legal move to reopen his father's estate.

After John Barrymore's 1942 death, his estate was finally closed, later as insolvent. But Gordon Levy, the estate's executor, is now petitioning for court appointment as administrator to reopen it.

Young John said that he was willing to drop his opposition to Levy's petition if Levy, an attorney, discloses his reasons for filing it. But Levy would not discuss the case.

The young actor's attorney said that the estate may be entitled to some reversion from old Barrymore films now being shown on television.

Need 32 Stitches To Close Wound

Thirty-three stitches were required to close wounds inflicted on a tobacco worker Sunday afternoon.

The victim was identified by Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson as Mack Cleveland Moore, 25-year-old Negro of Scotland Neck, Rt. 1.

Moore has been working in tobacco near Bell's Fork.

The sheriff said Andrew Facon, 24-year-old Negro of Greenville Rt. 2, has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the cutting.

His trial was set for Aug. 5 term of county court and he was released under $200 bond.

The sheriff said the cutting took place at the Tom Bryant Store near Bell's Fork. Moore received cuts on the arm and he was stabbed in the shoulder several times. He was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Deputy Ralph Tyson investigated.

Firemen Called To Trouble Spot

Firemen were called to an old trouble spot by box alarm yesterday afternoon.

The call came from Greene Alley, a small lane leading off Bridge St. just south of the bridge. A vacant dwelling owned by Mrs. J. B. Smith had caught fire.

The flames burned into the weatherboard at the rear of the dwelling and sent smoke inside. However, there was no major damage.

Firemen found some burned paper on the ground at the site of the fire. They called in detectives for investigation.

Some weeks ago, firemen had answered a series of calls in the alley. One of the fires caused major damage to a dwelling.

Early this morning a tobacco barn burned on the Grover D. Manning farm about a mile from Galloway's Crossroads. Firemen who answered the call to the blaze said the barn and about 500 sticks of tobacco were destroyed.

The call came at 4:40 a.m.

There was a false alarm at Howell and Garland Sts. yesterday afternoon. That call came at 3:41 p.m.

Officers Destroy 60-Gallon Still

ABC officers yesterday located a 60-gallon drum type distillery near the Sticks Road and arrested its alleged operator.

Chief ABC Officer J. M. Ward said Henry Miles Little, 37-year-old Negro of Washington Rt. 3, has been charged with possession of distilling equipment designed for the purpose of manufacturing non-tax-paid whiskey.

He was released under $300 bond for trial in county court Aug. 5.

Ward described the still as a crude outfit. He said there were 50 gallons of mash at the scene and a 50-gallon cooler barrel with copper condenser. The unit used a large stand for a doubler.

The still was a new unit and yesterday's run was its first. Whiskey had not begun to run when the officers arrived on the scene.

Ward said the raid was made around 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The officers eased in on the still site and captured Little at the scene. He made no effort to run, according to the chief ABC officer.

Making the raid in addition to Ward were ABC officers H. B. Lilly, Walter Taylor and James Ross.

Three Airmen Killed In Crash Of B-52

LIMESTONE, Maine (AP) — A B52 jet bomber crashed today three miles south of Loring Air Force Base killing eight men. The crash was on a routine training mission.

The Air Force rushed rescue equipment and search parties to the scene—about three miles from the sprawling Strategic Air Command base near the Canadian border.

Residents of the area said the plane barely missed the farm home of Carl Ireland. Wreckage was scattered over a 20-acre area, they said.

The plane normally carries a crew of six, but on training flight there are eight aboard.

Some of the wreckage caught fire and was burning when Air Force fire fighters arrived.

The B52 bombers are equipped to carry nuclear weapons. One of them crashed in January last year just across the Canadian border, and 10 miles from the scene of today's crash.

Air Force security officials immediately moved into the area and kept civilians away from the wreckage.

Kent Ward, a news editor of the Limestone Leader, who resides near the scene of the crash, said he heard the plane's roaring take-off followed by a muffled explosion and: "Then, there was no more plane."

A rural merchant who, with his family went to church and visiting Sunday returned home to find $350 store receipts missing.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said the money was missing from the home of W. T. Kirkman of Robersonville Rt. 1.

Kirkman told deputies he had placed the money in a metal box upon closing his store Saturday night. He took the box home and put it under a dresser in his bedroom.

Kirkman and his family left home and returned several times Sunday. The sheriff said the money could have been taken any one of the times the Kirkmans were away.

Sunday morning the family went to church which is located across the road from the house and Sunday afternoon they visited relatives.

The loss was discovered Sunday night by members of the family.

Sheriff Tyson said the front door of the house was unlocked while the family was gone and the metal box containing the money was not locked.

Some money and papers were left in the box by the thief.

While the loss was discovered Sunday evening it was not reported to the Sheriff's Department until yesterday.
