Tobacco Prices Continue Climb Above Last Year

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Prices on the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco markets continue to climb above comparable figures for last year indicating that the harvest really is "golden" this season.

The second day's sales amounted to 3,854,236 pounds at the 28 markets in the belt at an average of $37.09 per hundred pounds. That is $4.50 more than the average for the same day in 1957.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that yesterday's sales brought in $4,585,879. For the two days thus far this year there have been 18,024,530 pounds sold at an average of $36.72 per hundred and a total of $10,223,564.

The poundage, average price and income all are well ahead of 1957's figures of 12,975,842, $32.42 and $6,802,127 for the first two days.

In the 23 markets in Georgia the sales are nearly five million pounds ahead of the same period last year and the total money is nearly three million dollars more. Florida's five markets show only slight increases although the average at $37.15 for the season is well ahead of last year's $33.79 average per hundred pounds.

Demos Picking House Nominee

BYSON CITY, N. C. (AP)—The big day has arrived for congressional hopefuls in the 12th district. The district Democratic Executive Committee met today here to choose a nominee to succeed Rep. George A. Shuford of Asheville.

Shuford, the primary winner, withdrew earlier this week because of his health.

A score of names have popped up in speculation over the committee's choice.

Some observers believed Asheville City Manager J. Weldon Weir had the inside track. He could count on the backing of the Buncombe County Democratic organization.

But each of the strong Democratic district's 10 counties had two votes on the committee. Eleven votes were necessary to name a nominee.

Also mentioned prominently were Monroe M. Redden Jr., Hendersonville attorney and son of a former district congressman, and former state Sen. Dave M. Hall of Sylva, a member of the State Board of Water Commissioners.

The runner-up to Shuford in primary balloting, Waynesville industrialist Heinz Rollman, still had expressing confidence yesterday he would get the committee's nod. He maintained the 18,500 votes he drew in the primary could not be ignored.

Rollman also reiterated that if the committee by-passed him, he will wage a strong write-in campaign in the November general election.

In a television appearance over an Asheville station last night, Rollman, using a small replica of a voting machine, demonstrated how a candidate's name could be written in on a ballot.

At Raleigh, Atty. Gen. Malcolm Seawell said Rollman telephoned him several days ago to ask if today's meeting was legal. Seawell said he replied that it was.

Increases In Steel Prices Start Talk Of Rises In Other Areas

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Increases in prices by four steel firms has started talk of price hikes for products made of steel and may result in a congressional inquiry into steel prices.

Following action taken by the Arco Steel Corp. Tuesday, steel price increases of about $4.50 a ton were announced yesterday by the Republic Steel Corp., Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and the National Steel Corp.

In Washington, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), chairman of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, responded by saying he is thinking about proposing an inquiry into the price increases and the possibility of a rollback to old prices.

He told the Senate "it is time for the President to speak out firmly and use the great power of

Record Peacetime Bill For Defense To House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A record peacetime money bill to give the nation's defense forces a stronger space age punch moved back to the House today with unanimous Senate endorsement.

Winding up an overtime session, the Senate voted 71-0 last night to give the Pentagon $40,042,181,000 for the armed forces during the fiscal year that began July 1.

The House earlier voted about 38 1/2 billions. Unless it unexpectedly approves the more than 1 1/2 billion added by the Senate, the bill will go to a joint conference committee. That group's compromise version will, in turn, require approval of both houses.

Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.), floor manager for the bill, said expressing confidence yesterday he would get the committee's nod. He maintained the 18,500 votes he drew in the primary could not be ignored.

Rollman also reiterated that if the committee by-passed him, he will wage a strong write-in campaign in the November general election.

In a television appearance over an Asheville station last night, Rollman, using a small replica of a voting machine, demonstrated how a candidate's name could be written in on a ballot.

Defense Works Included In Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Following is the list of Carolinas projects included in the mammoth military construction bill approved by the Senate yesterday:

South Carolina projects, totaling $18,905,000: Navy—Charleston Shipyard, 10 million for drydock; Marine Corps Auxiliary Air Station, Beaufort, $4,352,000 for operational and training facilities and real estate; Paris Island Marine Depot, $462,000 for facilities.

Air Force — Donaldson AFB, Greenville, $78,000 for maintenance facilities; Myrtle Beach AFB, $1,650,000 for operational, training, maintenance and community facilities and troop housing; Shaw AFB Sumter, $1,339,000 for operational, training and maintenance facilities.

North Carolina projects, totaling $17,881,000: Army—Ft. Bragg, $762,000 for operational, training and maintenance facilities.

Navy—Harvey Point seaplane facility, $11,215,000 for operational, training, maintenance, medical and administrative facilities, troop housing and ground improvements; Cherry Point Marine Air Station, $1,067,000 for facilities, training and supply facilities; New River Marine Air facility, $1,003,000 for operational and training facilities.

Air Force — Seymour Johnson AFB, Goldsboro, $4,858,000 for operational, training and supply facilities, troop housing and utilities.

Previously the House and Senate appropriations committees had added funds to block such cutbacks, including a provision assuring the National Guard of 400,000 members.

Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC), a reserve Army general, won approval of similar language aimed at holding the Army at 900,000 and the Marines at 200,000 plus authority for the reserves to increase to 360,000.

The House earlier voted about 38 1/2 billions. Unless it unexpectedly approves the more than 1 1/2 billion added by the Senate, the bill will go to a joint conference committee. That group's compromise version will, in turn, require approval of both houses.

Some typical comments on steel prices were: "I am sure that the steel industry will be able to meet the demand for steel products in the future." "The steel industry is a very important part of our economy and we must ensure that it remains competitive in the global market."

Favor UN Force

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted overwhelmingly today in favor of creating a permanent United Nations police force large enough to keep the peace in the Middle East or elsewhere.

A 66-14 roll call vote tabled a motion by Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) to reconsider earlier voice approval of a U.N. police force resolution.

The resolution now goes to the House.

Election Seen As Step To Withdrawing Troops

WASHINGTON (AP)—Orderly election of a new president in Lebanon today constituted a first step toward getting U.S. troops out of that country. But officials said several other conditions must be met before troop withdrawals could start.

The impression here is that the whole process would be speeded up if President Camille Chamoun, whose term runs until Sept. 23, would promptly resign and make way for his newly chosen successor, Gen. Fuad Shehab.

Officials estimated that if all goes well—troops might begin to leave Lebanon in a matter of weeks, though for the moment no one would fix a target date.

There is still considerable apprehension here that all may not go well. The basic problems of the Middle East remain. The U.S. troop landings in Lebanon and the British landings in Jordan have succeeded only in preventing widespread collapse of pro-Western governments under the pressure of pro-Nasser forces.

But Shehab's election by Parliament gave evidence that the country's conflicting political factions have been able to a large extent to compose their differences.

Chamoun has been the controversial figure at the heart of the 83-day-old civil strife in Lebanon. He had wanted another term at the cost of changing his country's constitution. His enemies not only opposed a new term but demanded his immediate resignation.

The United States has taken the position that it favors an orderly solution of the problem. Officials here would be happy to get U.S. troops out quickly now and let Shehab begin to restore order and unity.

Lebanese Elect Shehab; Chamoun To Finish Term

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Gen. Fuad Shehab was elected president today by a resounding vote of rebel and government deputies in Parliament who see in him a hope for peace in Lebanon.

As Beirut celebrated with a wild flurry of gunfire, Saeb Salam, rebel leader in the capital, voiced a sobering note. He told The Associated Press "We will continue to fight on until our demands are met."

Two major demands are the withdrawal of U.S. troops and the immediate resignation of pro-Western President Camille Chamoun.

Chamoun issued a prompt reply to one of these demands, telling newsmen he intends to stay in office until his term expires Sept. 23. He made the statement after talking with Shehab.

Shehab was elected with the strong backing of the opposition National Front, of which Salam is a member, and over the bitter protests of Premier Sami Solh.

A compromise aimed to end the long rebellion against pro-Western President Camille Chamoun, the 66-year-old army commander in chief was elected on Parliament's second ballot.

Shehab got a whopping 48 votes to 7 for his only rival, Raymond Edde. One ballot was blank. Rebel leaders applauded Shehab's election. Solh boycotted the meeting in Parliament. Solh denounced the election as unconstitutional and declared it was held in an atmosphere of terror and pressure.

Macmillan Calling For Special Meet

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan announced today he is calling for a special meeting of the United Nations Security Council to take place Aug. 12 and that he personally will attend it.

Macmillan told the House of Commons he has advised Soviet Premier Khrushchev New York, Geneva or any other place generally agreeable will do as the site for the special conference on the Middle East crisis.

He read a text of a message which he has delivered to Khrushchev today. "I hope you will be there too," it said.

"I am now instructing the United Kingdom permanent representative to propose to the president of the Security Council a special meeting to take place under Article 28 (of the U.N. charter) on Aug. 12.

"Meanwhile, the permanent representatives should discuss arrangements for the special meeting and decide where it will take place."

"I have been led to suppose that the President of the United States would not be willing to go either to Geneva or New York," Macmillan said.

Macmillan then added in his note to Khrushchev that agreement on these arrangements for the meeting would find him attending the conference on Aug. 12.

Macmillan told Khrushchev the conference he had in mind certainly would allow "less formal meetings of heads of government" to be arranged, in addition to 12 sessions of the whole 11-nation Council.

This offer indicated he was meeting Khrushchev's expressed desire for informal, face-to-face meetings of the government chiefs of the big powers along the sidelines of the Security Council conference.

"The procedure would thus be flexible and should promote the chances of making progress," he said.

Macmillan dismissed, almost contemptuously, charges Khrushchev made in his letter last Monday that the British and the Americans were trying to maneuver out of the projected conference.

Washington (AP)—The House Commerce Committee discussed possible contempt of Congress action against Bernard Goldfine for about an hour today but recessed without taking action.

Indications were the committee would vote late today on the question of citing the Boston textile real estate man for his refusal to answer some two dozen questions put to him by an investigating subcommittee.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) told newsmen when the committee recessed that little disagreement was expressed. He added that members want to be informed, there are a lot of questions, and as you know it is a long (hearing) record."

However, Rep. Peter F. Mack (D-Ill) said it looked to him as if though "there are some delaying tactics being used on the left (Republican) side."

A subcommittee has recommended such a citation against the Boston industrialist.

Goldfine, in testimony before a Commerce investigations subcommittee, refused to answer questions about financial transactions with companies he controlled. He said that was outside the subcommittee's jurisdiction.

Also today, the House Armed Services Investigations subcommittee met to decide whether to have open hearings on the rebate of $41,000 wartime contract lateness penalties to a New Hampshire textile firm. Presidential assistant Sherman Adams' inquiries about the case have been criticized, but the White House said they were routine.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryan Mewborn and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson Ottaway Sr. of Wilmington.

The Rev. Herbert C. Gravelly Jr., rector, performed the ceremony. The couple spoke their vows before the altar, which held two arrangements of white gladioli and mums and burning white tapers in three-branched candelabra. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Eleanor Gover, organist and cousin of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of antique satin and hand-embroidered Chantilly lace. The included basque bodice was designed with kabina necklines accented by floral motifs re-embroidered in seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Long sleeves tapered to points over the hands. The bouffant net covered skirt featured insets of scalloped lace designed in horizontal front and vertical back panels that extended into a chapel train. Her three tiered fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a Swedish crown of seed pearls and iridescent sequins on matching lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white spray calla lilies, orchids with feathered English ivy. Her only jewelry were cultured pearl earrings, gift of the bridegroom.

Reception
Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at St. John's Community Club House. The receiving line stood before a background of potted palms with tall standards holding white mums and gladioli. Directing guests to the two refreshment tables were Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bisette, where punch was poured by Mrs. Thomas Gover and Mrs. Glendel Tucker. Alternating was Mrs. Brunell Minnes of Salemburg, aunt of the bride. Members of St. John's Home Demonstration Club, assisted by

Later in the afternoon, birthday cake and ice cream were served, at which time Oliver was joined by cousins from Portsmouth, Va., and Bethel: little Miss Vicky Carraway and Master Ricky Parker.

The Greenville Jay-C-Ettes held their annual party for the children attending the Crippled Children's Camp at Washington yesterday afternoon. Forty-seven children were served refreshments by the Greenville club and were given party favors, after which a swimming session was held. The children attending the Camp are selected from Orthopedic Clinics in the eastern part of the state, with most of them being sponsored by various civic groups such as the Jay-C-Ettes. The Jay-C-Ettes send a child to camp each summer as a part of their work with the Pitt County Crippled Children's Clinic.

Pilot Club Hears Report

A report of the convention of Pilot Clubs International was the highlight of the Greenville Pilot Club meeting held at the home of Mrs. W. W. Howell, president of the local club. Of special interest was the report given at the convention on the progress of the Greenville club, the youngest in the nation. Upon arrival, the members were directed to the backyard where three tables, covered with blue cloths, were set with trays of picnic food and iced drinks. Individual trays were set for the 10 members present and a guest, Mrs. Mahlon Coles. Following supper, Mrs. Howell presided at a short business meeting, at which time her report to the convention was read. As the meeting adjourned, members were invited to meet at the home of Dr. Virginia Herrin for the dinner meeting in August.

Sauce Adds Flavor To Broccoli

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
For a vegetable that goes well with baked ham or roast lamb, choose broccoli with a mustard-flavored Hollandaise sauce. Don't shy away from making this French sauce! You have only to be sure that it is cooked over hot (never boiling) water to have it come out satin smooth. Our own method for preparing the sauce is to use the small bowl in our set of opaque heat-resistant glass mixing bowls set in an iron skillet of very hot water and a small French whisk. The rounded surface of the bowl makes necessary the constant beating that is necessary and the heavy skillet (set over low heat) keeps the water very hot without boiling. Do cook the broccoli so it is a pretty, bright green and is tender but still slightly crisp. Here is our way of achieving this desirable end.

of broccoli weighing from 1 to 1 1/2 pounds; for more broccoli you'll need a larger skillet. Pare the outer fibrous covering from the broccoli stalks with a swivel-blade vegetable peeler, but don't remove the leaves. Divide any heavy stalks lengthwise so they and the flowerets are of uniform size. Wash in cold water, using a sink spray (if available) on the flowerets. Arrange broccoli in a deep 10-inch skillet that has a dome cover, with stalks on bottom and flowerets on top. Add a cup of boiling water and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Cover and keep water boiling until stalks are just tender when pierced with a fork—about 7 minutes; lift cover a few times during cooking to help keep broccoli bright green. Drain and serve with Mustard Hollandaise Sauce.

Writing--Quiet Hobby

MRS. W. W. HOWELL . . . finds time to relax at the piano. (Photo by Martha Pierce)

By MARTHA PIERCE
Reflector Woman's Writer
"Whatever woman touches should be ennobled by that touch." This code of ethics of the Greenville Pilot Club presents a challenge to its president, Mrs. W. W. Howell, as she guides her club in promoting international peace and cultural relations and rendering service in the civic, business, and social life of the community.

Beside her club activities, Mrs. Howell says that her quiet hobby is writing. She is collecting material for a book that she hopes to find time to write in the future. "My husband and son are my active hobbies," she mentions. Jerry, her son, will be a sophomore at Duke University next fall. Mr. Howell is a professor at East Carolina College. Mrs. Howell also enjoys preparing attractive dishes for her family and guests, and playing tennis. "I get strictly personal enjoyment out of playing the piano," she notes.

A native of Georgia, Mrs. Howell received her bachelor's degree from Lagrange College and the University of Georgia. She did graduate work at the University of North Carolina, and Eastern Washington College, Washington State and received her Master's Degree in English-Business Education.

For 11 years she was head of the Secretarial Science Department at Elon College. Membership in the Pilot Club is by invitation only and it is restricted to two members from each profession. Club members must be executive type business and professional women. Merchandising, education, law insurance, florist, medical and the tobacco industry are all fields from which the Pilot Club draws its membership. At the present time it has 15 members. The permanent project of the Pilot Club is supporting mental health.

"We want to help develop a community consciousness of the need for supporting our mental health program in Greenville," Mrs. Howell comments.

Pilot members help with the TB campaign, Polio and Heart drives. Strong loyalty which promotes attendance is required of members.

Government Definitions Are Different

When it comes to government measures and government terminology, the word "temporary" seems to have a meaning altogether different from that given in the dictionary.

According to Mr. Webster the word "temporary" means "lasting or intend to be used for a short time only."

When it comes to government terminology, however a "temporary" measure can mean one that will exist anywhere from a few years to a few decades. Usually it means a measure which is called "temporary" only until the lapse of time or official act makes it permanent.

Many of those "temporary" taxes which were levied upon the American people at the outset of World War II are still with us. It appears unlikely that the permanent status they have assumed will be changed.

The "temporary" sales tax which North Carolina added to its tax structure as an emergency measure during the Depression is still with us, and the only consideration given the law is whether to broaden it or increase the sales tax rate.

All of this brings us to the point that President Eisenhower has asked Congress for another increase in the "temporary" ceiling on the national debt. He has also asked Congress to increase the regular statutory ceiling on the national debt by another $10 billion.

The regular statutory debt limit is now $275 billion. However, there is a "temporary" provision (effective until next June) which permits a ceiling of $280 billion. President Eisenhower is asking Congress to increase the permanent debt ceiling five billions above what the temporary ceiling is now, and further to permit a "temporary" ceiling of three billions more.

Over a long period of years the pattern has been that what is "temporary" in government quickly becomes permanent; and when it does become permanent there are other "temporary" measures piled higher in order that they too will become permanent.

That is what has happened to the ceiling on the national debt in the past. It also appears to be the pattern now being set for this next hike in the national debt.

If we increase the permanent ceiling from the present $275 billion to the proposed $285 billion, long will it be before the requested "temporary" ceiling of $288 billion also become permanent?

Is congressional willingness to go along with an Administration request the only basis for determining how high the limit on the national debt should go?

It is high time the federal government and the American people gave greater consideration to ending deficit spending and reducing the national debt.

We have too long indulged ourselves in building one paper house on top of another by so-called "temporary" increases in the debt of the nation.

More Men Going To College Now

By LYNN NISBET

MORE MEN — Reports given to the Budget Commission on its recent tour by nearly every educational college indicated that the trend is continuing for more men than women to enroll in colleges. The State has only one all-woman institution (Woman's College of the University at Greensboro) and enrollment there has been fairly static for several years. Other institutions, both white and colored, which accept both men and women students have shown substantial increases in enrollment with male students maintaining relative excess percentage.

This trend has disturbed the Board of Higher Education and other agencies concerned with manning public school classrooms with efficient teachers. Hidden Ramsey, Chairman of the Board, has repeatedly bemoaned the fact that while majority of high school valedictorians are girls, the number of high school graduates going on to college is predominantly male. And men generally are less likely to go into classroom teaching.

This picture is getting a little brighter. There is evidence of change, rather than accomplished fact, toward a higher percentage of men college graduates going into public school teaching, a good many of them in elementary schools. This trend seemed especially noticeable at Appalachian and East Carolina. It's nothing to get excited about, for most men graduates who go into the public school system still prefer high school assignments with athletic coaching or other non-classroom activities.

The point is that when so few men have gone into teaching, an increase of half a dozen represents a high percentage gain.

Gratification at this trend among white college graduates is offset by the situation with respect to Negro graduates, who find the teacher quota already over-filled, and relatively few comparable positions open in other areas of service.

CONFEDERATE WOMEN — The Civil War was over more than 93 years ago, and there are only two survivors of the "thin gray line" still living — one in Virginia and one in Texas. The last Confederate veteran in North Carolina died in 1950. But Mrs. Maude Norris, who has charge of pensions in the State Auditor's office, has 151 widows of Confederate soldiers on her rolls and there are four in the Confederate Women's Home at Fayetteville. The Soldiers' Home at Raleigh was closed in 1938, when its population dwindled to one. The property remained vacant until last year when the million-dollar motor vehicles building was erected on the New Bern Avenue site.

Besides the four widows at Fayetteville, there are 33 daughters of Confederate soldiers. The home does not accept any person under 70 and the ages range to the mid-90's. The ladies are housed in an old building, for which $35,000 was appropriated by the last Legislature for repairs. The management is faced now with the problem of caring for the "guests" while the renovation is underway.

The State appropriates $64,000 a year for operation of the home. The staff consists of Mrs. A.F. Hughes, Superintendent, and 12 others—including two or three practical nurses. Very little cash comes in except from the State, but the UDC pays the salaries of relief attendants and other organizations contribute furnishings and entertainment facilities.

State pensions and Federal old age benefit payments stop when women enter the home, but if any of them are drawing regular social security that continues and goes into the operation fund. Also, if any real estate is owned outright by the guests a very significant item—title is transferred to the home. It is hoped that State laws can be changed so as to make residents of the home eligible for Federal pensions under the new Congressional act.

ELITE — The student body at the State Vocational Textile School at Belmont claims distinction shared only by two or three of the big universities in North Carolina. A graduate of Harvard University enrolled for the courses during the past session. He was employed in a top executive position by one of the textile mills in Gaston County, and wanted to learn more about the practical operation of mill machinery. His grades were a little above average, according to Supt. Folk, but not enough above that of the Tarheel men and boys to brag about.

JONESES — Governor Hodges wants North Carolina to keep up with—or a little bit ahead of—the Joneses in other states in all government activities. But he wants it done in the distinctive North Carolina way. When Clyde Dillion, Chairman of the Board of Correction and Training, and other connected with administration of the correctional schools cited standards of the Federal Children's Bureau as a reasonable goal, the Governor quipped: "If North Carolina followed practices of the Federal Government in all areas, the State would go completely broke in two years—instead of the 20 or 30 or however many years some think it will take at the rate we are going."

Reference was to requests for single-room dormitories at a cost of $3,750 per occupant—compared with a Budget Bureau limit of $2,500 per occupant at the University, and for $50,000 swimming pools at Dobbs Farm and Morrison Training School.

Remember, Letters Cost Four Cents Tomorrow

If you have a letter to mail, you'd better take care of the chore before midnight.

After 12 o'clock tonight postal rates will be higher and the letter which for years has been costing three cents to mail will cost four cents. The same penny increase also applies to post cards which will require three cents rather than two after tonight.

There is nothing sudden about the increase. Congress authorized it months ago and the public has had plenty of notice that the increase will be effective on August 1. In spite of that, it is a good guess that many people will be receiving letters with one-cent postage due until folks get used to the idea of a four-cent stamp rather than a three-cent stamp. We imagine the post offices large and small throughout the country are going to find their work load increased at least for the next few weeks in making sure the correct amount of postage is placed on each piece.

Those who use the mails can give postal employees a helping hand by remembering the increase and putting the right amount of postage on each card, letter or package that is mailed after midnight tonight.

Like A Balloon With Air Gone

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington is a little like a balloon with the air out of it — including some hot air — when Congress quits. And it's thinking of doing that by the middle of August.

After that the news coming out of Washington will be pretty much limited to doings of the Eisenhower administration—including its problems in foreign affairs.

Judging by the way things are going overseas, and are likely to go for months to come, there should be quite a lot of Washington news through the rest of the year.

Congress also will continue to make news indirectly anyway since all the House seats and more than one third of the Senate Seats are up for grabs in the November elections.

Most of the members going home in August will be fighting for re-election.

They'll be speaking often about the record of a Congress that has faced and handled major problems of defense and recession. And since Congress has been under Democratic control, the Democrats will try to make the most of it with the voters. There seems no chance to their losing control in the elections.

In a way these past months have put Congress under pressures never inflicted before in peacetime, at least with such a peculiar kind of urgency.

Between the time Congress quit last summer and its return in January, the Soviets shot up two Sputniks. So Congress returned in a state of shock, confronted with the realization the Soviets were ahead in missiles.

The result: Congress passed a bill creating an outer space agency. And under the pressure of events in the Middle East, Congress gave President Eisenhower pretty much the kind of defense reorganization bill he wanted.

Eisenhower also is expected to get pretty much the kind of reciprocal trade bill he wanted. He wanted it extended five years. The House agreed, the Senate said three years. They'll probably agree on four, the longest extension in the trade act's 24-year history. World events were an influence here too.

And, while it was at it, Congress threw in statehood for Alaska, boosted postal rates, increased the public debt limit, put through raises for federal employees and the military, and extended emergency jobless pay.

Eisenhower is still battling to get as much money as he can for foreign aid. He has asked $3,942,000,000. Congress put a ceiling of $3,675,000,000 on it.

Then the House, when it came time to vote the actual money, cut almost 600 million dollars from that amount, or close to 900 millions less than Eisenhower asked.

He wanted 500 millions of that restored. Now it's up to the Senate to have it's say. Since it will probably come up with a figure different from the House, the Senate and House will finally have to work out a compromise.

Again here world events, especially in the Middle East, gave the President an extra and urgent talking point to pressure Congress into listening to him.

One thing seems sure: Congress seems certain not to pass a general labor bill. The Senate did, but the House is likely to ignore it.

Look At TV Horses

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — A friend of mine had a strange experience the other night.

"I watched television for two hours," he said, "and didn't see a single horse."

This may mark a historic moment in the video industry. For come the falling of leaves this autumn, such an experience may be next to impossible.

The hoofbeats of the horse opera will echo in the nation's living rooms as never before.

Two years ago there were only 11 western series on the major networks, last year 16. But the season upcoming will have nearly two dozen — that is, if Hollywood doesn't run out of horses and blank cartridges.

Does the sight of a galloping nag give you a kind of queasy seasick feeling? Well, there's only one way out. You turn off your TV set and turn on your radio. Then you won't have to watch a Western program — you'll just have to listen to it.

Whether Westerns are really as popular with the people as producers and sponsors seem to think is open to argument. But there is no question they have had a tremendous impact on our current culture.

More money is spent in filming Westerns each year than was required to buy all of Alaska in 1867.

Many a small girl now not only wants a toy gun as well as a doll. She also insists that her doll have a gun too.

Many of us now feel more familiar with the streets of such old Western towns of Tombstone and Dodge City than we are with the streets of our own city. Many of us feel we know Wyatt Earp and Billy the Kid better than we do our next door neighbor.

The cult of the cowboy and the gunman, like the cult of boss-worship in America, sometimes seems to have gone beyond the boundaries of pure entertainment and to have approached the proportions of a national neurosis.

One veteran program chief gives this as the reason behind the epidemic of Westerns:

TV is an escape medium. The best kind of escape is one in which you are shocked and threatened — but not in a way that really could happen to you.

"That's why Westerns succeed. You enjoy the tense feeling of watching someone walk down a street in Dodge City in 1870 to face a gunman. But one reason you enjoy it is that, basically, you know you won't have to do it yourself.

"Modern plays about the loneliness and despair every man must face in living may be great art, but they are too real. Spectators don't like them because they scare you out of your house and into the nearest bar."

This estimate of the situation is probably true. Watching Westerns is for many of us — like the ostrich's failed custom of sticking its head in the sand — a way to keep from thinking about our own lives and problems. Problems we can understand, such as the need for meeting a mortgage payment; problems we can't understand, such as what to do in the Middle East.

Back of it all may be the wild hope that someday, somehow, the Marshal Dillion or Wyatt Earp will get Nikita Khrushchev in their gunights and end all our worries.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch — seen any interesting new horses lately?

Public Forum

To the Editor:—Fie upon you and your editorial of Monday, July 28, 1958, titled "Why Fight the Sanitary Battle Twice?" You are very welcome to your "frank opinion that the matter of reapportionment should be delayed until the 1961 session of the General Assembly . . ." because it is based upon a nine year old figure.

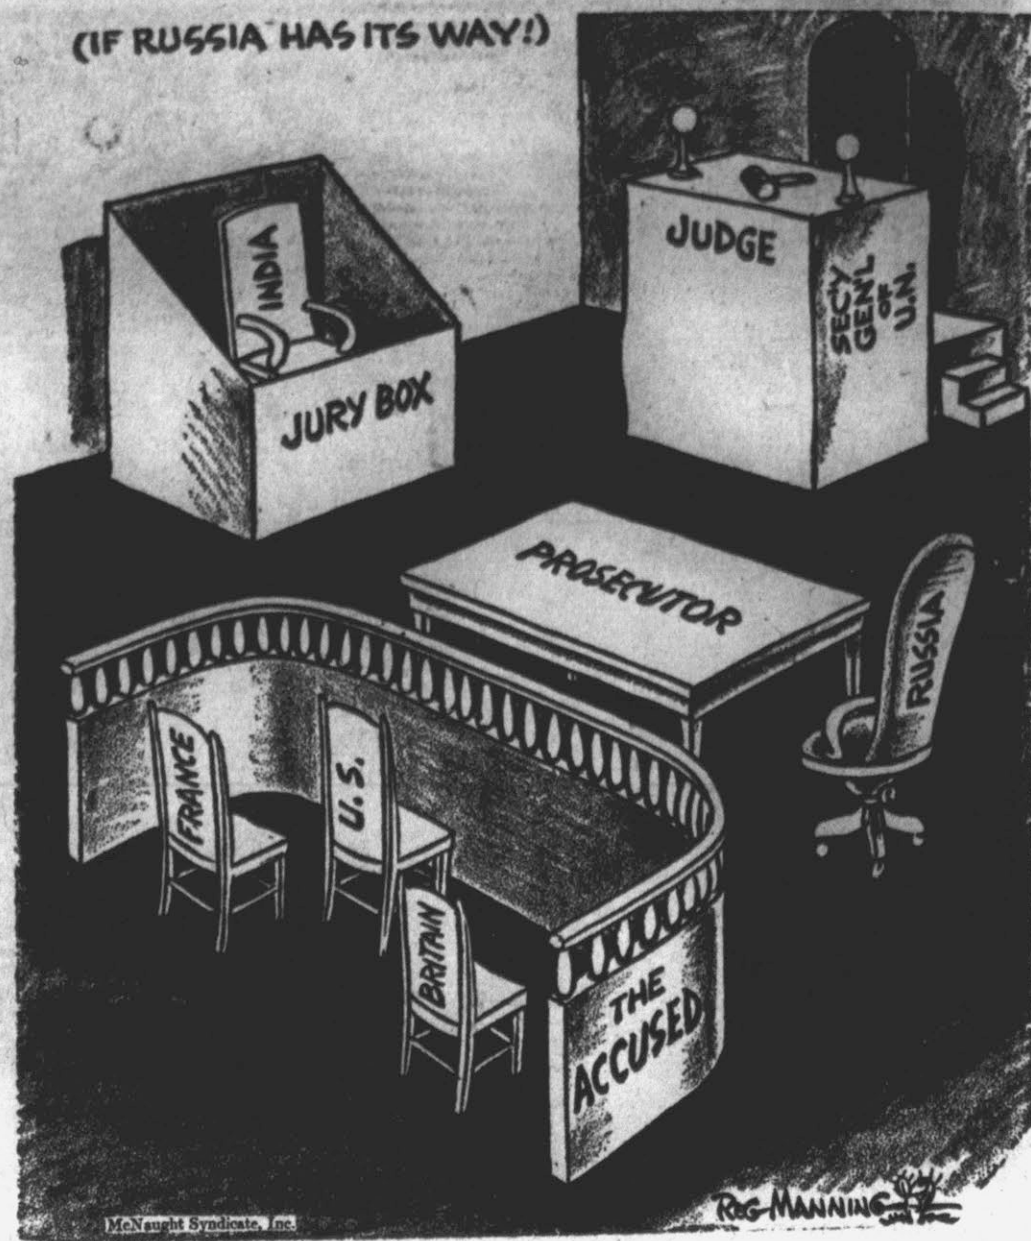

This sounds reasonable enough, but can there be a double standard to law? No one likes to lose the prestige and representation involved here, but the course of rationalization you advocate can be extremely dangerous. Are we to law ourselves that only those laws we like should apply, while those laws which are detrimental should wait for perhaps better times, or in this case, a better census report?

This philosophy can be fraught with danger. Each law should be judged on the merit of how it affects us?

Stories Which Miss Out

WIRE STORIES THAT SOME-TIMES MISS THE PAPER—

Charlotte—A cigarette vending machine here sold a man a package of king-sized filters this week. Due to a factory slipup, the package contained 20 long filters, no tobacco.

Charlotte — The mercury was hitting the mid-80's last night when the radio in the Charlotte Police Department switchedbeard room crackled.

"Attention Charlotte P. D. check for ice on the streets at Fourth and Graham."

Heat-weary duty officers looked at each other, then at the switchboard. But, after all, the message was from the State Highway Patrol.

A patrol car was dispatched and sure enough there were sheets of ice on the streets. It seems that pipes running under the road from the Atlantic Ice and Fuel co. had frozen up.

Officers had to direct traffic around the area for 15 minutes until the ice could be cleared away.

Curious why major league baseball attendances have generally fallen off?

- Here what the public thinks—
- 1. "cheap" home-runs.
- 2. overcrowded highways.
- 3. poor parking facilities.
- 4. too much television of home games.
- 5. dilapidated ball parks.
- 6. "a general falling off in the quality of play except by the New York Yankees."

Not too long ago the Greenville Police Department received an anonymous call from a man who informed officers on duty that someone was trying to drown his youngster.

Officers were immediately dispatched to this scene.

Sure enough, there they found a young boy, wet "to the gills" and crying to "beat the bang." Upon inquiring, they found that the father had taken the youngster out into the yard and had wet him down with the garden hose purposely.

The father informed officers that his son was afraid of water and he was trying to break him while he was still young. He was told to cover the child with a blanket and give up the idea. He did and the officers drove away with a smile on their face.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

NATURE OF TIME

Until well into the sixteenth century the people of Europe used the Julian calendar which was quite inaccurate, so much so that it picked up an extra day once every 128 years. Now we have the Gregorian calendar which is self-correcting because of leap years.

But all this is mere measurement of time. When we ask what time is, we find ourselves in another realm with our heads swimming. Einstein called time a fourth dimension. Maybe so.

The philosopher Kant called time a category of the mind. What does the Bible mean when it speaks of eternal life? We find it impossible to conceive of anything which has no beginning and no end.

But although we cannot understand the nature of time, we can understand its significance. A certain amount of time is given to us to use. Some babies die in the first six months, and some men and women live to be over a hundred. There was one old Englishman in the reign of Charles II who was said to have lived 156 years. Again, maybe. But whether it be 156 years or 156 minutes, all time has its significance. It is our time. It is our chance. When it is past, it will never come back. It has an eternal aspect.

The Bible deals with the eternal aspect of time. But with earthly aspects of life you and I must deal. Eternity is in God's hands. The present is both in God's hands and in ours. We are fellow workers—cooperators—with God.

Taking A Look At Russian Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

Now that Russia is urging more trade with the United States and is trying to expand commerce with Latin America and other Western nations, it may be good to take a look at Russian business methods.

In 1953, two Israeli companies signed contracts to buy fuel oil from Sojuz Neftexport, the Soviet state-owned oil company. The contracts were extended through 1958.

In November, 1956, after Israel attacked Egypt, the Soviet company notified the Israeli companies that the export license for the remainder of the year was cancelled. Licenses for 1957 and 1958 were refused.

Because Israel depended on Russia for almost a third of its oil, and because the Israeli companies had made extensive arrangements to supply oil, their loss was large.

One of the companies dared to sue Sojuz Neftexport in Russian courts. In a test case, it asked for $2,000,000, involving 131,000 tons of oil, about a tenth of the total.

The Soviet company contended that it had been compelled to break its contract by government order.

The Israeli company said this was impossible, since under Soviet law the company was, in fact, part of the government. A government can compel other organizations, but it cannot compel itself.

FAIR, TO A POINT

The London Economist reported: "The Israelis found that while their case was given a fair trial on the face of it, much was left to be desired in terms of Western legal practice. . . . Soviet lawyers gave full assistance and even voiced the Israeli case fearlessly in court. The introduction of expert opinion from distinguished Western advocates was admitted.

"But when the Israelis demanded the calling of Soviet witnesses on questions of fact, the request was refused. On this much depended.

"The case was thought at one stage to offer the Russians an opportunity to encourage trade relations with the free world by demonstrating the fairness and legality of their tribunal. . . . But it seems that its reputation hitherto has been based on minor points, such as the quality of goods and responsibility for delays in shipping, and not on questions of legal principle."

"WARNING IS PLAIN"

The Economist noted that Russians insist that contracts be made and signed in Moscow, that acceptances be received in Moscow and that payments must be made within the Soviet Union. Only when the Russians want something bad enough is the rule broken. But when the Japanese tried to establish a similar system, the Russians replied that it was "discrimination and wholly unacceptable."

Russia has demanded that all contracts provide that any arbitration must be in Moscow, only the tough Swedes have resisted this provision.

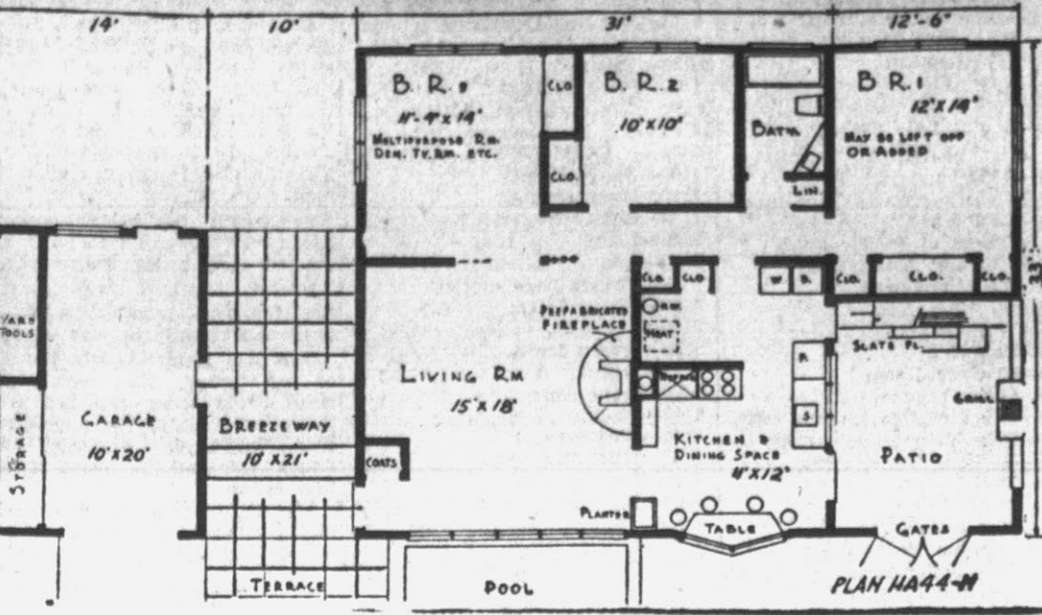

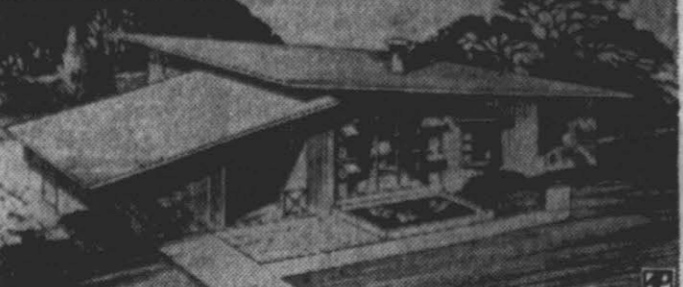

"As the Economist concluded: 'The warning is plain enough.' FIRING CHINA IS NOT COOKING. INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE SAYS

Here is the Internal Revenue Service's summary of its ruling 58-343:

"Electric hot plates that are specially designed for use as chafin firing and enameling kilns and that do not function for cooking purposes are not taxable as cooking appliances of the household type."

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

Agree On New Methods For Nuclear Detection

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH GENEVA (AP) — Scientists of the Western and Communist worlds have agreed on seven different methods for detecting nuclear weapons tests and now face the task of combining them into one foolproof system. This final phase of the month-old secret conference may bring into the forbidden area of politics. The Western experts have been ordered not to discuss the political problems of negotiating a ban on weapon tests.

But spokesmen for both sides expressed satisfaction with their progress in agreeing on the seven detection methods. The techniques involve different types of sensitive recording apparatus to detect these tell-tale signs of nuclear blasts: (1) sound waves, (2) earth tremors, (3) magnetic fields, (4) radioactive fallout, (5) gamma rays and neutrons, (6) radio waves and (7) light waves. The experts agreed the last three could be detected by such instruments as radio-telescopes and photo-electric cells reporting from satellites in space to ground stations. The ground stations in turn would be equipped with seismographs, fallout collectors and the like to provide other checks. Location of the ground stations raises the major political question the scientists may have to face. An effective detection system would be impossible without stations inside Communist China, which is not represented at the conference.

Italian Premier Wants Umbrella In Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Amintore Fanfani of Italy is understood to favor raising a "triple umbrella" of political-economic measures over the Middle East to end turmoil now threatening international peace. The Italian leader is reported to have advocated such an approach in confidential talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles. Fanfani arranged to leave by plane today, ending his two-day visit. Authorities said the bouncy, 5-foot-2 Premier has stressed the need of a joint program of political and economic moves to safeguard the Middle East against new explosions, including Soviet-backed subversive plotting. He laid down no package proposal, but talked in general terms of a long-range program calling for:

Atchison Struck Again By Surging Floodwaters

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP) — Swift, damaging floodwaters surged last night through Atchison, where another flash flood caused 12 million dollars damage only three weeks ago. A belt of thunderstorms brought up to 5 inches of rain to a wide area of northeast Kansas and northwest Missouri. The deluge produced flash floods in several cities.

Hardest hit were Atchison, a city of 13,000 population, 60 highway miles northwest of Kansas City, and the Greater Kansas City area. Off-duty policemen were recalled this morning in Merriam, Kan., a suburb of Kansas City, to help evacuate low-lying areas threatened by Turkey Creek. Water blocked streets throughout the metropolitan area.

No injuries were reported in the storm area, but police rescued dozens of stranded motorists in Atchison and Kansas City. The Blue River started pouring over its banks in a residential area east of Kansas City shortly after midnight. Water from a rapidly rising lake southwest of the city weakened a dam which protects Overland Park and Prairie Village, Kan. An automobile carrying Walter J. Coffey, 46, and his two sons, John W., 15, and Jimmy, 12, was swept into Brush Creek in the

Card Worth $1.50 A Month Represents Food, Claims

By WILTON WYNN BEIRUT (AP) — A little card worth $1.50 a month stands between the Palestine Arab refugee and despair these days. Once the barometer of Middle Eastern politics, the refugee feels left out of things in these days of feuds between pro-Nasser and anti-Nasser factions in the Arab world. The United Nations talks more about Lebanon and Iraq than about Palestine. But so long as the refugee hangs on to his U.N. ration card, he has hope. Economically, the card means he can eat. The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine (UNRWA) distributes rations to more than 830,000 refugees in Gaza, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon. These are the people, or children of people, who fled their homes in Palestine 10 years ago and have lived off U.N. rations ever since. The monthly ration gives the refugee something like six pounds of flour, a pound and a half of beans, an equal amount of sugar and rice and a little more than a pound of fat or oil. On local markets, the value of these rations runs to little more than $1.50.

To the refugee, the ration card also represents a political claim. Issued by the U.N., it implicitly recognizes that he has a claim to something back in Palestine. To an outsider, it is almost impossible to believe that these refugees still are convinced they will go back to homes inside what now is Israel. Israel has celebrated its 10th anniversary, but the Arab refugees have not begun to accept Israel as permanent. They insist the Arabs one day will conquer Israel and restore the refugees.

Plan Reception For John Kasper

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Segregationist supporters of John Kasper are preparing a warm reception for the white supremacy leader when he gets out of a federal reformatory here tomorrow.

A Florida friend of Kasper said he had been informed representatives of segregation organizations from several states were coming to Tallahassee to urge him to continue his work in the racial field. The report came from Bill Hendrix of Dunedin, a former Ku Klux Klan officer who now lists himself as the national commander of the Knights of the White Camellia.

Another report said that some of Kasper's followers from South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia planned to form a motorcade to greet him upon his release. Kasper is being released after serving eight months of a year sentence for contempt of federal court in the race disorder at Clinton, Tenn. He may not be free long, however. He was sentenced last summer to another six months in prison on a second contempt conviction in the Clinton case, but appealed. A $1,000 bond was posted for him last week in this case by Lee Foster, a building contractor of Knoxville, Tenn. Kasper will be free on this bond pending appeal to the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati. A ruling is expected in October. He also is scheduled to appear at Nashville, Tenn., in September for trial on state charges of inciting to riot as a result of school integration disorders there last fall.

Truman, Hoover To Get Pensions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Herbert Hoover, and President Eisenhower in 1961, are almost certain to be eligible for pensions of $25,000 annually. They might even get free office space, free postage on up to 4,000 letters monthly, and a government-paid office staff. The presidential pensions — and $10,000 yearly payments to widows of former presidents — were all but assured yesterday when the House passed a Senate-approved bill. It agreed on the pensions but balked on the free office space, free office staff and free mail privileges voted by the Senate. The action sent the bill to a Senate-House conference and the probability of a compromise cutting down on the office help and the free mail and restricting the free office space. The House passed the pension bill by a 165-45 standing vote. There is a museum exhibiting automobiles—ancient and modern—in Kantstadt on the outskirts of Stuttgart, Germany.

TEANECK, N.J. (AP) — Merrill Pollakoff and his friends devised a tiny homemade rocket that would make little cars whiz around the room. Merrill, 11, whose father is chief chemist for a local firm, was playing at the home of Michael Taksey, 14, with Michael and two others. As usual, they had filled a two-

Merrill was hurled seven feet. He was dead on arrival at a hospital. The Stirring New Civil War Novel THE LAND IS BRIGHT BY JIM KJELGAARD

WHAT HAS HAPPENED... Ling Stewart reacted characteristically when he detected a fur buyer cheating him...

Ling, a Virginia backwoodsman all his life, has no fears when in the wilds along Hobbs Creek...

CHAPTER 3... The only spectator in the saleroom chamber was a thin, shallow man who hung with breathless interest on the trial in progress...

Ann saw them, looked away and glanced at Ling. He had seen, too, for the fires leaped in his eyes, but he said nothing...

After watching a case through, Ling whooped, "I like that Judge!" and Ann sensed that his tension had given way to admiration...

"Be quiet or I'll have you ejected from court..." "Good!" Ling chuckled...

"If you'd told me his name, I'd of been quiet long ago..." "Ling said amiably..."

"That's me!" Ling said happily. He rose, and Ann gasped with disbelief at the transformation he had undergone...

"Who is this third man?" "Henry Dexter, my clerk and witness, your Honor..."

"Is that true, Mr. Bodine?" Judge Campbell asked. Bodine smiled tolerantly...

He took from his pocket an assen stick and held it up. The judge leaned forward and appeared to be interested...

"See them eleven little notches, Judge, an' them twenty-six big 'uns?" The little ones mean eleven fox pelts and the big 'uns twenty-six deer skins...

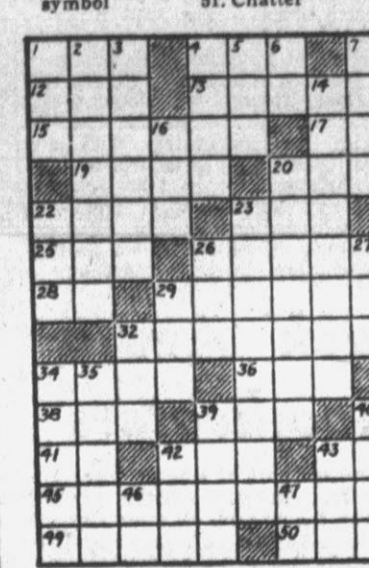

"Do you object to testifying under oath, Mr. Bodine?" "Why — no..."

"Why should you hesitate, Mr. Bodine?" Campbell frowned. "Mr. Bodine, if you refuse to take the oath and testify, I can conclude only that the bale of furs and skins conformed to Mr. Stewart's count rather than yours..."

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—A jet plane's sonic boom apparently was responsible for injuries to a 3-year-old girl yesterday...

AF Pilot Picked To Be First In Space Is Poised Engineer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The man now designated to be America's first venturer into space is a poised New Yorker who takes the assignment in easy stride. Sometime within the next two years, if everything goes according to schedule, Air Force Capt. Robert M. White will be piloting the X15 higher than man has ever flown. The Air Force predicts the research plane now under construction will have an altitude potential of 100 miles. It wasn't until last weekend, when his good friend Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe was killed in a jet crash, that White knew he would be replacing Kincheloe as the No. 1 man in the highly secret X15 program. Prior to that, he had been Kincheloe's "backup pilot."

"When World War II began, I was 17 and I decided I wanted to fly." Tanned and trim, White has a handsome combination of blue eyes and brown hair that makes him look younger than his 34 years. His natural poise is backed up by experience — 4,200 hours as a pilot, including 52 combat missions in World War II and Korea. It was during the Korean War that White made application for the flight test center at Edwards Air Force Base, his station the past four years. What about making hazardous, space-age flights on a captain's pay? "I guess it's just our orientation. It's sometimes taken lightly, but those of us in the service feel we have a responsibility to the American people. We like our work. It's a matter of contentment."

White said he works 9 to 10 hours a day — six days a week sometimes — and spends much of his spare time reading technical manuals. Does his family object to this schedule? "I'm blessed with a very patient wife." White married the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., 10 years ago in his native New York City. They have two youngsters. White, interviewed after a session with the press, said he would like to see the X15 program succeed. "I'd feel fine about it if it had come about in any other way. As an individual Kinch could not be replaced. He was an entity in himself."

CAPT. ROBERT WHITE

cret conference here on the X15 program, said the space aircraft will be carried aloft under the wing of a B52 bomber piloted by Capt. Charles Bock of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Somewhere in the lower stratosphere over Utah, Capt. Bock will release the X15 and White will fire the rocket plane's powerful engine. It's anticipated he may hit 4,000 m.p.h. in his missile-like climb.

Polio Foundation Sues Ousted Catawba Group

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The National Foundation, formerly known as the National Polio Foundation, has filed federal suit here seeking $42,000 in "uncommitted funds" from the ousted Catawba County chapter. The suit named five Catawba County financial institutions where the funds are on deposit and several of the county's leading citizens as defendants. The action seeks to enjoin the institutions from letting the chapter's officials spend the money. The suit, citing the national organization's provision that all funds in local treasuries are held in trust, contends that the organization has been trying to obtain the money since September, 1957. The suit alleges that $2,000 has been spent by the chapter since the National Foundation told the financial institution that the funds were frozen. Financial institutions named and funds with each: First National Bank of Catawba County, Hickory, $2,600; First Savings and Loan Co., Hickory, $10,000; Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan Co., Hickory, $10,000; Citizens Savings and Loan Co., Newton, $10,000; First Federal Savings and Loan Co., Conover, $10,000.

Individuals named, all of whom are, or were, trustees or directors in the Catawba chapter: Dr. A. Gaither Hahn, chairman of the chapter; Tom L. Cilley of First National Bank, chapter treasurer; L. C. Gifford, publisher of the Hickory Daily Record; Mrs. Mabel Rowe, Hickory; T. W. Saunders, Conover; J. W. Warwick, Hickory; and Mrs. J. T. Walton Jr., Hickory. The suit describes the group as "individuals representative of all persons claiming any right, title, or interest in, or authority over the property of the plaintiff (the National Foundation) by reason of membership in the former Catawba County chapter of the plaintiff."

British To Lose Legend When Chief Justice Quits

LONDON (AP)—With the retirement this year of Lord Chief Justice Goddard, Britain will lose a legend—an English judge who reads Dickens, thinks criminals ought to be flogged, and enjoys telling spicy jokes. At 81, spry, wiry Lord Goddard still comes busting into a courtroom adjusting his long white judge's wig. "Your appeal is of an imprudent nature," he will chastise one lawyer. Or he will ask scathingly: "Am I correct in thinking you are going to make what I might call the usual defense?" He has a painstaking sympathetic concern for the rights of the little man. As lord chief justice he presides over the entire administration of the common law courts, but he personally hears cases that may seem trivial. Britain's lord chief justice hears ordinary civil and criminal cases along with the other judges of the Queen's bench. Though Goddard is endlessly patient when he senses an injustice, he does not believe in light sentences once guilt has been proved. "I have never understood," he said once, "how the criminal law could be a deterrent unless it were also punitive. I believe we have thought too much of the criminal and not enough of the victim."

Hence his much criticized advocacy of flogging for certain types of criminals, and his belief in capital punishment of convicted murderers. A widower, he lives alone and seldom goes out except to visit his grandchildren. It's a treat when he does go to a party. His repertoire of all-male jokes is the envy of professional Londoners. Goddard was appointed lord chief justice by the Labor government in 1946.

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP)—It was the little things that annoyed Leo S. Bach. As a left hander, he found it difficult, for instance, to use a can opener easily; to write a check; to fire a gun; to go fishing or even to tell time with his wrist-watch. Finally fed up, he applied some right thinking to the lefty's problem and formed the Left-Handed People's Guild, Southpaws throughout the country responded enthusiastically. Fellow sufferers flooded him with compliments (all right-handed).

The guild, with 300 supporters now and more hoped for, is dedicated to gathering information and ideas of value to left-handed people. It also is attempting to apply organizational pressure on manufacturers of common, everyday tools, claiming they have ignored the left-handed. Bach hopes many will modify their products to accommodate lefties. The idea of the organization came to Bach at a dinner party one evening when his wife had difficulty seating him conveniently at the crowded table without disrupting the other guests. There wasn't much to be done about crowded dinner tables, but the incident set Bach to thinking about the other disadvantages of being left-handed which could be remedied. There were so many he decided to organize a protest. Besides concern with physical discomforts such as being hit in the face with sawdust every time he operates his power saw, Bach also plans to try to lift the sinister implications of the word "left" in the English language, as in "left-handed compliment," "left-wing party," etc. He has his work cut out for him here, since the Latin root of the word sinister means "left hand." (Other language inheritances: The word "gauche" meaning awkward or clumsy is lifted from the French "gauche" meaning left. Dexterity, on the other hand, comes from the Latin "dexter" meaning right.) Bach and other members of the newly formed guild are busy editing information already received from sympathizers and fellow south paws. The information will be published in a few weeks, with mailings to manufacturers as well as guild members.

Bloody Nose Gets Murder Trial Off To Slow Start

KOONITZE, Tex. (AP)—A defense lawyer's concern for his partner's bleeding nose got the Bryant Williams Bowles' murder trial off to a slow start yesterday. Bowles, who founded the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, is charged with the shotgun slaying of his brother-in-law, James Earl Harvey. Defense Atty. Joe Goodwin asked for a postponement until cooler weather because his colleague, Wyatt Baldwin, suffers from nose bleeds. He said Baldwin recently spent a total of 15 days in a hospital after an attack. Judge H. A. Coe sympathized with Baldwin's condition but dismissed the motion for continuance and ordered jury selection started.

Diploma Is Given Monetary Value

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—The Springfield Education Assn. has translated the value of a high school diploma into dollars and cents. High school graduation completes a 13-year program that cost the taxpayers about $5,000 per student, the teachers' professional organization said. The high school graduate has estimated lifetime earnings of $189,000, compared with that of $70,000 for a person of limited schooling, the SEA said, adding: "The high school graduate will earn and spend 25 times the $5,000 invested in his education."

Struggle Of Man Against Snakes

TOKYO (AP)—Life on the small southern Japanese island of Amami Oshima is a struggle of man against snakes. Despite a concerted four-year campaign by the government, 200,000 islanders live in fear of the habu, a viper growing up to five feet long. Islanders have developed a "habu neurosis" for fear they will be stung at night, says the weekly Yomiuri magazine. It's not surprising to see Amami people carrying umbrellas, even on clear nights, as a shield against snakes. Seven of 392 persons bitten in 18 months have died. Prompt medical attention and a new American drug, ethylene diamine tetra acetic acid, are credited with lowering the death rate. Japan has shipped 1,000 skunk-like mongooses to Amami Oshima. It raised the bounty for a live habu from 41 to 85 cents. Some people make a business of habu hunting, using 10-foot bamboo poles with a wire sling for lassoing. The snake meat is sold in powder form as a rejuvenating drug. The venom is used in not yet perfected immunization serums.

Washington (AP)—In one of the unifying paradoxes of politics, Gov. Orval Faubus' runaway victory in Arkansas has boosted the presidential stock of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.). Southern Congress members who fear a national party split over racial issues are talking more and more of Johnson as the kind of moderate in that field who might keep the party united. Faubus' spectacular renomination for a third term has identified the Arkansas government with the kind of back-row segregationist sentiment that portends deep trouble for the Democratic party. Many of the professional Dixie politicians fear that Faubus will attract those who still believe in a third party ticket. This group would like to go to the 1960 Democratic convention loaded for bear. It wouldn't disturb them in the least if they split the convention and drove the national party into the arms of an all-out integrationist presidential nominee. That is just what the majority of Southern Democratic holders of national office don't want to happen. For that reason they have stepped up their talk of Johnson as the kind of a moderate they believe has a good chance for the nomination. Johnson, the Senate majority leader, is not conceding he has any presidential ambitions. But a Democratic senator close to him

Game With Pills Kills Little Girl

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Four children found some pretty pink pills yesterday and played a deadly game of doctor and patient. Verna Ruth Fuller, 2, died quickly. Doctors said her sister Betty, 3, and two playmates, Buddy James McGarrity, 2½, and Lind McGarrity, 5, also may die. They found the pills in a quonset hut housing project at Alameda Naval Air Station. They prescribed for each other. Then they were stricken with dreadful cramps. Their mothers rushed them to a dispensary. Technicians are trying to discover what the pills were.

Stopped To Look, Urges Whippings For Bad Husbands

SPRINGVILLE, Ariz. (AP)—Highway Patrolman William Gregory, alerted to look for a stolen car, stopped a motorist and searched the motorist's auto. The man stepped into Gregory's car—and drove off. The speedy patrol car was more than a match for the one left behind. Gregory's car was found abandoned 35 miles away. A search is under way for the motorist. TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A county judge urges the use of a whipping post for wife beaters, juvenile delinquents and nonsupport of offenders. "A public whipping at the door of the courthouse would have the greatest deterrent effect on these offenders," Judge L.A. Grayson says. The judge said wives should be given a chance to use the whip on husbands convicted of nonsupport and wife beating.

Waives Hearing

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP)—"Guilty, and I'll waive a hearing," the defendant told Peace Justice G. W. Punny about a drunkenness charge. "What do you mean you'll waive a hearing?" the judge asked. "I'll plead guilty, but I don't want to hear any more about it," the defendant answered. Punny obliged—and fined him $20.

ALASKA: THE 49th STATE

Alaska's 586,000 square miles will make it largest state in Union.

Alaska, now set to become the 49th and largest state in the Union, is still a frontier land.

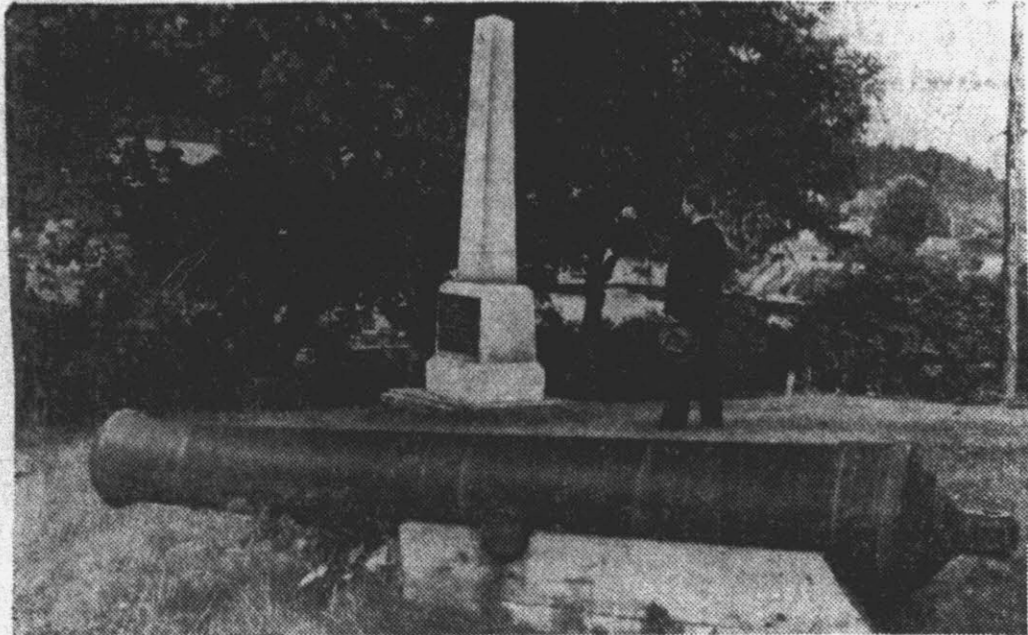

Its resources are fabulously rich. It has gold, oil, silver, copper, lead, zinc and platinum, and has millions of acres of timberland. Furs and fur skins are high among its exports. Its lakes and streams abound with bass and cod. The coastal waters teem with herring and salmon.

There is plenty of elbow room for those who want to go there and add to its estimated 215,000 population. With virgin soil available, more and more settlers, among them many war veterans, are going there to claim choice sites and a new way of life.

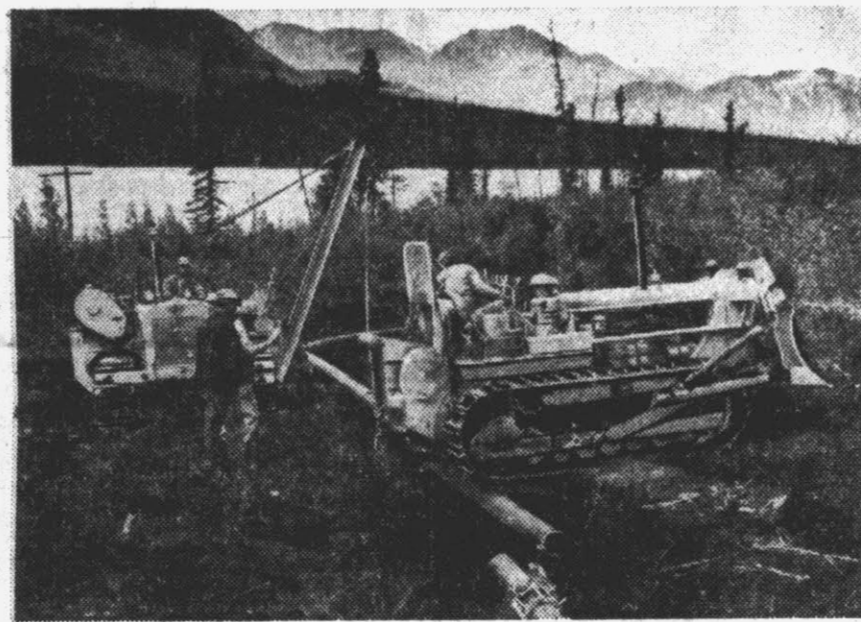

And with the Army strengthening its Arctic bases, the land once termed "Seward's Folly," when the United States bought it from Russia for $7,200,000 in 1867, is now a focal point, strategically, of the entire Western Hemisphere.

Boy Loses Leg

Douglas Lawton, 8, lies in hospital at Sarasota, Fla., with his left leg amputated because it was chewed severely by a five-foot shark. With the shark grimly holding on, the boy was dragged from the water at Longboat Key beach by his father and brother who then had to beat the shark to make it release its hold. Oil Profit Split Is More Cautious

EDMONTON, Alta (AP) — Alberta's provincial government is going to be a lot more careful in distributing this year's share-the-wealth oil dividends. Last year too many people got too big a share. The 11-million-dollar oil royalty pie was split up into $20 cash payments in 1957. All you had to do was sign a residence statement, say you were over 21 and the bank clerk or treasury agent would hand over the money. More than half a million people collected. But drifters, confidence men, drunks and people who just couldn't resist the temptation promptly saw the loophole and began making the rounds of treasury offices and banks. They gave false names and addresses at each stop—and some of them got more than 100 "citizens' bonuses." After the confusion cleared, 323 people had been convicted for false declarations and false pretenses. By February of this year the provincial jail had 528 prisoners, about 225 more than normal. But Premier E. C. Manning's Social Credit government stood by its original declaration that the citizens of Alberta should "share personally in the prosperity result-

Pro-Segregation Group Plans Fight Church Stand

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A pro-segregation group in the Diocese of North Carolina is planning a drive against the Episcopal Church's stand on the race issue. An Episcopal layman from Charlotte, Philip N. Alexander, said the organization, calling itself "Concerned Churchmen," will: "Organize and finance a program to advance the beliefs and principles of Concerned Churchmen, and . . . resist the organized and church-financed drive of integrationists within the church to promote physical mixing of the races." Alexander, treasurer of the group, declined yesterday to name any other members except the chairman. He identified him as James Webb Cheshire of Hillsboro. "We have been working at it (the organization) since late in April," Alexander said. "Within the next year you'll see a strong organization in the Episcopal Church." Alexander added that "people interested in the movement would number better than 300 at the present time." He said meetings had been held here, in Greensboro and Raleigh. While the leadership of the group is composed of laymen, clergymen support its objectives.

Letters, Talks Point Out Views

RALEIGH (AP) — A letter to your legislator, or preferably a heart-to-heart talk, is the best way to get across your views on legislation. This direct approach was one of the techniques offered yesterday to some 100 delegates at a legislative conference sponsored by the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers. Claude Farrell, director of lay relations for the North Carolina Education Assn., outlined these four steps in support of legislative proposals: Be familiar with your legislative goals, what they would accomplish and how much they would cost; use mass communication media to publicize the proposals; organize speakers in support of the goals; and have close cooperation with allied agencies and organizations. "Once developed, this public opinion must be allowed to spread itself to political leaders. This can be done through face-to-face and written communication," he declared. The two-day workshop was designed to prepare the way for PTA units to work for their program during the coming Legislature.

Lost Colony Actor Right Man For Role

By JOHN PALMER . . . full time dramatics teacher and the Goldmasquers — the school's drama organization — is regarded as the outstanding dramatic group for youth in the South. It ranks unofficially as third in the nation, says Worrell, who was president in 1956, his senior year. Primarily because of Britton's encouragement and skillful instruction — Worrell praises his instructor vigorously — the former Goldmasquer accumulated, among others, awards hailing him as best actor, best make-up for individual show, and for providing outstanding assistance to directors while he was at Goldsboro High. He also received Radio Station WGBR's award to the outstanding member of the high school's drama department one year, and was among those who got The Black Masquer, a citation that goes to the top ten ranking members of the class each year. He has also shared some awards, including one for the best show of the year. But although his success has been notable so far, and unlike a number of his fellow cast members in "The Lost Colony," Worrell does not intend to pursue a career in the theatre. "I've toyed with the idea, of course, but right now I'm planning on teaching as a vocation," Worrell told this reporter. His plans are to enter East Carolina College this fall and to major in history and minor in English — or perhaps vice versa. Worrell has already had a taste of teaching, having served as a substitute on several occasions in radio classes at Goldsboro High. The youthful actor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Emmett Worrell, who live at 703 S. Slocumb Street, Goldsboro.

Placid Contest Is Coming Up

FLINT (AP)—The world's most placid contest will be held here over the weekend. Pipe smokers from all other the United States — probably 75 to 100 of them — will stoke up with a special contest blend and puff away for the 10th world championship Saturday. The rules are simple. Light up and have at it. If it goes out after the first minute, you're out. The last man puffing is the winner. Last year's champion, Harold R. Soden of Lake Placid, N. Y., kept going for 70 minutes 15 seconds. That's far from the best. "Nobody ever will beat Max's record," says Paul T. Spaniola of Flint, chairman of the International Assn. of Pipe Smokers Clubs convention and a former world champion himself. The late Max Igree of Flint puffed for 125 minutes 7 seconds when he won the championship in 1954. "Max gained 30 or 35 minutes on everybody else because he'd almost let it go out and then at the last second he would revive it," said Spaniola.

Volunteer Tests Duplicate Three-Stage Rocket Ride

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Test pilot Al Blackburn sits strapped in the tiny cockpit, a jaunty smile on his tanned face.

He is one of the first fliers to volunteer for a test that duplicates the same pressures he'd feel in a three-stage rocket accelerating to 18,000 m.p.h.

His cockpit is in a laboratory at the University of Southern California Medical School, in a centrifuge—a machine whose 24-foot-long arm spins the pilot fast enough to match the pressures of rocket flight.

The experiment, conducted yesterday, is to test human reaction—both mental and physical—to rocket flight pressures.

Blackburn still smiles as the machine spins slowly in a circle, then picks up speed.

The grin is strained, however, as the pressure mounts to 3 G's, which means his normal 165-pound weight is, in effect, nearly 500 pounds. The smile vanishes at 5 G's.

A camera mounted on the whirling cockpit monitors Blackburn's reactions. As the pressure increases, his shoulders are squashed backward, his lips purse and his prematurely white hair stands straight up. He has great difficulty activating testing controls.

At 8 G's—when he weighs the equivalent of 1,320 pounds—his mouth opens in a silent gasp as he struggles to breathe. He can't breathe at all in the last seconds of the 350-second flight.

Then it's over. The theoretical space ship is in orbit.

How does it feel? "It's like an iron band squeezed around your chest," the 35-year-old North American Aviation pilot said. "You take quick breaths, then finally you can't breathe at all."

The tests are part of an Air Force project to come up with answers on what effect the pressures of space flight will have on humans.

Is Blackburn ready? "He could go into orbit tomorrow," the centrifuge staff says.

Distance Flier Plugs Along Toward Record

TOKYO (AP)—Distance flier Marion (Pat) Boling plugs along at a steady 125 miles an hour today en route from Manila to Seattle in an attempt to set a new nonstop record for single-engine planes.

Flying conditions were reported excellent along the entire route. Boling, a 43-year-old airline pilot from Palo Alto, Calif., hopes to make the 6,622-mile flight in 45 hours, arriving tomorrow morning. From Seattle he may continue on without landing to Wichita, Kan., if conditions permit.

His target is the single-engine nonstop record of 4,927 miles set by the late Capt. William Odom in 1939, flying an earlier Bonanza from Honolulu to Teterboro, N.J.

Boling's small plane was loaded for the takeoff with a maximum 401 gallons of gasoline, instruments, survival gear, dried fruits, canned fruit juice, cookies, 14 gallons of water and a pocket-size Bible given him by his wife Joyce.

Mrs. Boling was waiting at Boise, Idaho, to fly to meet her husband wherever he lands. The couple have three children, a boy 9 and daughters 4 and 2.

Boling said the Beech Aircraft Co., which is paying his expenses, will give him $1,000 if he reaches Seattle and "an extra $10 a mile for every mile I fly past Seattle."

"I've already promised the money to my church," said the flier, son of a Baptist minister.

"Why am I going? Well, you get an idea, and you find somebody to back you, and you're off. It's as simple as that."

Former Producer Guilty Of Evasion

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Hollywood film producer Robert C. Sherwood has been found guilty of income tax evasion.

The federal government said he filed a return on $700 income in 1951 but bought a house and auto worth a total of $23,000.

Sherwood, who was convicted yesterday, maintained the money for the house and car were savings he put aside after producing a film starring Ingrid Bergman in 1947-48.

Maximum penalty for the offense is five years in prison and $10,000 fine. He will be sentenced Aug. 2.

Continue Name As U. S. Center

LEBANON, Kan. (AP)—Lebanon (Kansas, that is) is going to continue to promote itself as the geographical center of the United States when and if Alaska is admitted to the Union.

Mayor Raymond Schwette pointed out that a monument marking the geographical center was erected a mile north and a mile west of Lebanon 17 years ago.

"The city has invested a great deal of money in promoting the spot," said Schwette, and doesn't intend to write off its investment.

President Theodore Roosevelt, although a ground fighting soldier in his own career, insisted on a stronger Navy for the U.S. "It is not possible," he said, "to improve a navy after war breaks out."

Drug Executive Found Shot Dead In Automobile

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Forrest Teel, 54, executive vice president of the huge Eli Lilly & Co., drug firm, was found shot to death early today in his parked Cadillac along a street in northeast Indianapolis.

The drug executive's car had rammed a utility pole and come to a stop, and police said his foot apparently stuck on the accelerator when he was shot in the neck and left side.

Witnesses said they saw another Cadillac carrying two men parked beside Teel's auto moments before.

A cab driver told police he came upon the two cars earlier, and the driver of the second Cadillac told him to call police and report a shooting. The cabbie did not believe the story and didn't report it to his company by radio until several minutes later.

Deputy Coroner Myron K. Dill said Teel's billfold contained two $100 bills and $10 in smaller currency, leading police to believe robbery was not the motive for the slaying.

Teel formerly was president of the Eli Lilly International Corp. until he was made executive vice president in charge of marketing operations in 1954. He also was a member of the board of directors.

Little League Tournament Beginning Here Tomorrow

Two Games Slated At Elm St. Park

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

The North Carolina State Little League baseball tournament will get underway here tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 when Hickory and Cool Springs (Forest City) clash. Charlotte's Nevin-Derita will tangle with Tarboro at 5:00 in the second game of the day.

All four clubs participating in the tournament are district champions already, and are regarded the best teams in the state.

On Saturday afternoon at 3:00, the winners of Friday's two contests will clash to determine the North Carolina 1958 champions.

All three ball games will be played at Elm Street Park's Little League Field. Parking space and seating for a large number of fans is expected to accommodate a large turnout. Fans from all over the state are expected to come to Greenville for the tournament.

Regionals Next

The North Carolina champion will journey to Lebanon, Tennessee, next week to participate in the Southern Regional Tournament. The Southern Regional play will include four state champions in a single-elimination bout. Winner at Lebanon will then be set to take part in one of the four national semi-final tournaments, at Louisville, Kentucky. The Louisville match is one of four placed at various points around the nation. The tournament will include four Regional champions and will decide what four teams from all points in the country will go to Williamsport, Pennsylvania, for the National playoffs. Winner there, will, of course, be the 1958 United States Little League champion.

There has been word that a new situation is being planned by the Williamsport head office this year. It seems that there may be an International Championship Tournament which will pit Little League champions from Europe, the Pacific, Canada, Mexico, and other points around the world—to determine a World's champ.

Rosiers
Listed below are the rosters of the four clubs who will take part in the state tournament here tomorrow:

chell Malone, Larry Price, Dennis Nunn, Oscar Fischer, Douglas Smith, Buddy Skinner, William Smith, Larry Snider, James Jones, Roger Mumpower, Jimmy Jones, Curtis Klutz, Kenny Knox.

Cool Springs — Bobby Bailey, Jimmy Bradley, Donald Coffey, Russell Collins, Charles Haynes, James Hutchins, David Wade Mathey, Joe Phillips, Gerald Robbins, Bobo Scruggs, Bruce Steffey, Ronald Whitener, Charles Willis, Roddy Ledford.

Senators End Study Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators exploring the business aspects of professional sports wind up their hearings today with testimony from Maurice Podoloff, president of the National Basketball Assn. Reps. Oren Harris (D-Ark) and Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) also may appear before the Senate Antimonopoly Subcommittee to report a House-passed sports bill but their schedules were uncertain. Podoloff was expected to tell the Senators pro basketball would welcome the flat exemptions from ordinary business laws proposed in the House measure for professional team sports.

The subcommittee already has received that word from spokesmen for baseball, football and hockey, along with opposition to the sweeping nature of the exemptions from several players, college coaches, and Congressional and outside sources.

Clarence A. Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, spoke on behalf of the bill yesterday. President Walter J. Michael and attorneys for the U.S. Trotting Assn., asked that harness racing also be cut in on the exemptions.

Greenville Players In ECC T. T. Finals

Finals of the East Carolina Summer Session Table Tennis Tournament, held July 28-30 at the E.C. College Union, featured two Greenville players.

Norman Kilpatrick defeated Barney Strutton for the Men's Singles title, 21-16, 21-15, 18-21, 21-15. Kilpatrick's steady backhand drives and forehand smash shots overpowered Strutton's defense, except in the third game where Strutton's defense proved too tight. Strutton, who has won five previous ECC table tennis championships, won the closest match of the tourney from Ted Lassiter of Scotland Neck, in the semi-finals, 18-21, 21-18, 19-21, 21-14, 22-20.

Strutton's well placed forehand drives overcame a 6-11 deficit, to finally win the vital fifth game of the match.

Western Title Series Starting Sixth Ballgame

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — The western title series of the state American Legion Junior baseball tournament moves into its sixth game here tonight. Kannapolis stayed in the running in the best-of-seven series with Shelby last night by taking the second victory 6-5.

Cumberland County took the eastern title with four straight wins over Siler City. The state championship series will be played next week.

Spahn Finally Beats Dodgers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn, after beating the Dodgers last night for the first time in almost seven years, minimized the conquest, saying, "Heck, everybody else has beaten them." But that was only his first comment in the clubhouse post-mortem following his 4-3 victory that lifted the Milwaukee Braves once more into first place in the National League, one percentage point in front of the San Francisco Giants. He added: "I'm out to prove just one thing. This is the only club that has an edge over me. They're 24-14 against me, and it's the only black mark on my record. I want to get even before I quit."

The University of New Mexico baseball team won the Skyline Conference eastern division crown in 1958 with an 8-4 record.

Spahn, after beating the Dodgers last night for the first time in almost seven years, minimized the conquest, saying, "Heck, everybody else has beaten them."

But that was only his first comment in the clubhouse post-mortem following his 4-3 victory that lifted the Milwaukee Braves once more into first place in the National League, one percentage point in front of the San Francisco Giants. He added:

"I'm out to prove just one thing. This is the only club that has an edge over me. They're 24-14 against me, and it's the only black mark on my record. I want to get even before I quit."

"Last year I won the Cy Young Award (for baseball's top pitcher) but even then I wasn't completely satisfied. The only thing I wanted more than ever was to pitch against the Dodgers. That's been a big sore spot with me. If you're considered a good pitcher, you're supposed to be able to pitch against everybody."

It was the first victory for Spahn over the Dodgers since Sept. 25, 1951, when he beat them 6-3 in Boston, when the Braves played there and the Dodgers were the bums from Brooklyn. He started against them the last time in June two years ago, but stayed only 1 1/3 innings. He faced them in relief last season but no decision was involved.

This time Spahn stopped them on six hits, but fell behind in the sixth inning when a pair of errors helped Los Angeles pile up its three runs, two of them unearned.

Shunted Players Figured In Wins

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
There it is again. Shunted players coming back to haunt you. It happened on three occasions yesterday.

In Kansas City, pitcher Bob Grim, shipped there by New York in a trade last June, gained his first victory for the Athletics. It was against the Yankees. Grim hurled a shutout to boot. He held his former teammates to three hits in a 2-0 game, shortened to 4 1/2 innings by rain.

In Detroit, right-hander George Susce, sold by Boston to the Tigers earlier this season, hurled a 2-1 victory against the Red Sox. Susce gave up seven hits and held Ted Williams hitless.

In Cleveland, triples by ex-Baltimoreans Larry Doby and Billy Hunter figured in the Indians' two scoring innings as the Tribe defeated the Orioles 6-3. Pinch hitter Doby's three-bagger drove in the first of Cleveland's four runs in the sixth, erasing a 3-0 Baltimore lead. Hurter drove in a run with his seventh-inning triple and he scored on a squeeze bunt.

Chicago climbed into a third-place tie with Baltimore, outlasting Washington 11-9 in a slugfest. Milwaukee regained first place in the National League—by one percentage point—defeating Los Angeles 4-3 as Cincinnati was slapping down the San Francisco Giants 5-1. Pittsburgh downed Chicago 7-1 in a game cut to 7 1/2 innings by rain. Philadelphia thrashed St. Louis 5-1.

Chico Carrasquel's first-inning home run and fourth-inning doubles by Roger Maris and Hal Smith produced the runs which spelled Yankee Don Larsen's fifth defeat against seven victories.

Al Kaline tripled and scored on an infield out as Detroit snapped a 1-1 tie in the eighth. Ike Delock was the loser.

The Indians had tagged Arnold Portocarrero for only one hit before they erupted for their winning four-run margin in the sixth.

Ray Narleski received credit for his 11th triumph. He has lost eight.

The White Sox tallied eight times in the third—their biggest uprising of the year—but had to halt a Washington comeback to win. The Senators had the tying runs on base when Eddie Yost, who had a grand-slam homer in the fourth, fled out to end the game. Gerry Staley, who relieved starter Jim Wilson in the fourth, won his fourth.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING: Eddie Mathews, Braves — His 21st home, in the eighth inning, broke a 3-5 tie and gave Milwaukee a 4-3 victory over Los Angeles.

PITCHING: Bob Grim, Athletics — The righthander gained his first Kansas City victory, pitching a 2-0 three-hitter against his former New York Yankee teammates in a game halted after 4 1/2 innings by rain.

Spahn's Victory Hoists Braves Back Into First

Spahn Finally Gets One After Seven Seasons

By JOE REICHLER
Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's brilliant southpaw, can look his critics right in the eye today. He has proved he can beat the Dodgers. After seven years of frustration, the 37-year-old left-hander hurled Milwaukee to a 4-3 victory last night over Los Angeles that put the Braves back into first place. It was his first triumph against the Dodgers since Sept. 25, 1951. They've beaten him eight times since then. He started against them June 8, 1956, and failed to last two innings. He didn't start against them again — until last night. This time he went the distance, permitting only six hits and one earned run.

Cincinnati, behind Bob Purkey, dumped the Giants into second place with a 5-1 victory. Pittsburgh climbed to the .500 mark with a 7-1 triumph over Chicago in a game limited to 7 1/2 innings by rain. Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 5-1. Kansas City made it two in a row over New York in the American League, defeating the Yankees 3-0 in a game out to 4 1/2 innings by rain. Chicago climbed into a third-place tie with Baltimore, defeating Washington 11-9 as Cleveland was drubbing the Orioles 6-3. Detroit nipped Boston 5-1.

Pete Mantle and Eddie Mathews drove in all Milwaukee runs against near-sandy Koufax. Mantle drove in the first three runs with a home run and a sacrifice fly. Mathews' circuit smash, his last, came in the eighth and capped a 3-3 tie. Putschy allowed the Giants only five hits and drove in two runs in gaining his 10th victory. Wall Droop and Pete Whisenand homered off loser Johnny Antonelli. Back Putschy's three-run homer helped rookie Red Whit gain his fourth triumph in six decisions for Pittsburgh. Taylor Phillips dropped his fifth for the Cubs. Willie Jones' 10th homer helped the Phillies make it two in a row over the Cards. Jack Sanford outpitched Billy Muffett for his seventh success but he needed help from Dick Farrell in the seventh.

Bristol Clashes With Greensboro In Finals Tonight

GREENSBORO (AP) — Once-beaten Bristol, Tenn., clashes with Greensboro here tonight in the finals of the North Carolina-Tennessee District Pony League baseball tournament. The winner will enter the eighth state regional playoffs in Rome, Ga., beginning Monday. Bristol advanced last night by defeating Wilmington, 13-9. If Bristol wins tonight, a show-down second game will be played immediately afterwards. Greensboro whipped Bristol 10-4 Tuesday to gain a winners bracket berth.

This Skier Seems To Be In Trouble

Water skier Jack Hill seems to be in big trouble on Lake Murray in Oklahoma. He had just gone over the 12-foot obstacle, but now he has lost his balance and is plunging into the water with his skis flying wildly about him. (AP Wirephoto)

Pros Attacking Par In Chicago Golf Open Today

CHICAGO (AP)—Big time golf pros today attacked par in the $50,000 Chicago Open. The 6,350-yard Glenageles Daily Fee course with its modest 35-35-70 standard provides a perfect target for the par-wrecking crews. Rolling, closely-cropped, unwatered fairways mean the meet will be decided on the greens, which, for the most part, tilt like nothing seen before by the touring brigade. "Did you ever putt and have the ball roll back at you?" asked Sam Snead. "It can happen here." The course record of 63 appears doomed. The pros are guessing that anywhere from 261 to 270 will take the top prize of $9,000 when the 72-hole windup comes Sunday. Some of the favorites in a field of 161 include Tommy Bolt, Art Wall Jr., Snead, Dow Finsterwald, Arnold Palmer, Jack Burke, Bob Rosburg, Doug Ford, Julius Boros, Peter Thomson and Jay Hebert. The starting field will be trimmed to the low 90 shooters after Friday's second round and further cut to 60 and ties after Saturday's third round.

Greensboro Cops 10-4 Win Over Hi-Toms

Greensboro steamrollered High Point-Thomasville 10-4 last night to pull within one percentage point of the Carolina League lead. Home runs by Dave Davis and Bill Carr started the Yankees on the way to the win, which re-veneged a loss to the first place Hi-Toms the night before.

In other games, Burlington defeated Danville 7-2, Raleigh edged Winston-Salem 4-3 and Wilson blanked Durham 2-0.

The Hi-Toms rang up their four runs in the seventh, three on a home run by Don Jacquin. Greensboro garnered 10 hits off three Hi-Toms pitchers. Burlington maintained a jinx over Danville, winning its sixth consecutive game from the Leafs. Julio Guerrero, in his mound debut for the Indians, scattered eight hits, fanned seven and walked two.

Joe Theis blasted a home run in the eighth inning to break a 3-3 tie and give Raleigh its triumph over Winston-Salem. It ended a four-game losing streak for the Caps. Reliever Ron Fincher quelled a Durham rally in the ninth inning to save the decision for Wilson. The Tobs had posted their scores in the fourth and fifth innings. Games tonight: Raleigh at Danville, Durham at Greensboro, Burlington at Hi-Toms, and Winston-Salem at Wilson.

... And Some Reputations Die Faster

By JIM KLOBUCHAR
ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—When young America plays golf for keeps strange things happen and reputations, built hastily, die even faster.

There was heartache, a dash of comedy, 34 putts by one player over a 15-hole stretch, and the upset of a prime favorite in yesterday's opening round of the USGA's junior tournament at University of Minnesota course. Today the surviving 64 youths, 17 and under, move into two more elimination rounds which will reduce the field to 16 by sundown.

One of the not-so-happy was Sonny Methvin of Little Rock, Ark. a semifinalist in 1957, and for that reason a strongly rated contender this year. Jack Lotz of San Lorenzo, Calif., beat him 2 up.

Rick Casabella of Louisville, Ky., also a semifinalist last year, solved some early troubles and defeated Bobby Morse of Peabody, Mass., 4 and 3.

The puttingest golfer of the first day was Jolly Dick Funk of Decatur, Ill., who putted four greens on the front nine, ran up 21 putts over that stretch and took 13 more before Steve Cary of Lewiston, N.Y., closed him out 5 and 3 on the 15th.

There was plenty of first class golf, however. Gordon Baker of Florence, S. C., and Ken Folkes of Concord, N.C., were 3-under-par when their matches ended. Curt Siegel of Buffalo, N.Y., hit a couple of tee shots close to 300 yards. Baker ousted Clifford Davis of Burlingame, Calif., 5 and 3 while Folkes bested William Sechrest of Kansas City, Mo., 5 and 4.

The three other Carolinians in the tourney also survived the first round with the following results: Billy Womack, Florence, defeated Thomas Schuchart, Omaha, 7 and 6; George G. Smith Jr., New Bern, defeated Charles Kohr, Decatur, Ill., 5 and 3; and John Orr, also of Florence, bested Richard Griffith of Montclair, N.J., 4 and 3.

These changes were outlined today by Coach George Eastment and as the American team went through its final practice session. World record holder Dumas was the biggest disappointment in Moscow, where he cleared only 6 feet 7 1/2 inches and finished third behind the two Russians.

"Dumas now is training very hard," the coach said. "He will get back into form quickly." Eastment said Oerter was called home but didn't give the reason. But O'Brien is a highly competent discus man and American chances shouldn't suffer.

Segrest finished last in the 200 at Moscow and another sprinter will be given a chance. Eastment said no decision has been made as to his replacement but Eddie Southern, a 400-meter man from Dallas, Tex., is a good guess.

Furman Names Football Coach

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Robert B. (Bob) Gongola, 25-year-old freshman backfield coach at the University of Illinois, Thursday was named to the football staff at Furman University.

Gongola, a former Illinois quarterback, replaces Bill Crutchfield who resigned to join the Wake Forest staff.

Furman Athletic Director Lyles Alley said Gongola will work principally with quarterbacks and fullbacks on offense, and with deep backs on defense.

He rounds out a staff headed by one of his former coaches at Illinois, Bob King. King was a member of the Illinois staff when Gongola played on the Illini team that whipped Stanford 40-7 in the 1952 Rose Bowl. After graduating in 1955, Gongola coached at Weaver High in Chicago and at Lewis College, Lockport, Ill., then spent two years in the Navy. He joined the Illinois staff for the 1957 season.

Changes Made In Track Team

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Three changes have been made in the American men's track and field team which meets Poland tomorrow and Saturday after a triumph over the Soviets at Moscow. Discus thrower Al Oerter of New Hyde Park, N.Y., second at Moscow, is returning to the United States, and Parry O'Brien, world champion shot putter, will double in his specialty and the discus. James Segrest, Abilene, Tex., is being replaced in the 200 meters. Charlie Dumas, Los Angeles, has returned to orthodox practice and is expected to once again assume his position as the world's best high jumper. These changes were outlined today by Coach George Eastment and as the American team went through its final practice session. World record holder Dumas was the biggest disappointment in Moscow, where he cleared only 6 feet 7 1/2 inches and finished third behind the two Russians. "Dumas now is training very hard," the coach said. "He will get back into form quickly." Eastment said Oerter was called home but didn't give the reason. Eastment said no decision has been made as to his replacement but Eddie Southern, a 400-meter man from Dallas, Tex., is a good guess.

11-Year-Old's Life Depends Upon Kidney Transplant From Mother

By DICK SINNOTT
BOSTON (AP)—Nils-Olov Wisell is different from most boys 11-years-old. He's small—4½ feet. He's light—50 pounds. And his life hinges on a human kidney the size of your fist.

The youngster was born with only one kidney. He lost it last April when he tumbled from a merry-go-round near his home in Motala, Sweden. Doctors hope to save his life in a history-making operation by transplanting a kidney from his mother.

Thus far, kidney transplants have been successful only between identical twins. All transplants between non-identical twins have been unsuccessful.

Since he was admitted to Peter Bent Brigham Hospital on July 1, 50 doctors and surgeons have been working on Nils.

More than a thousand persons—from hospitals' laboratories to laundries—are attempting to save his life. Seven hospitals have pooled their resources to help him. More than 500 persons have volunteered to donate blood.

Swedish-speaking nurses care for Nils around-the-clock. His hospital expenses are met by the Hartford Foundation.

Cards and gifts pour into the hospital daily for the tousled, tawny-haired youngster, who asks his nurses morning and night

"When can I go home?" Nils' parents spend hours outside their only child's room while doctors and nurses hover over him. When he is alone they sit beside him, masked and gowned. They tell the freckle-faced lad to "be brave."

Oscar Wisell, a butcher, and his wife, Margareta, cannot speak English. The Rev. Harry Johnson of the Salvation Army's Scandinavian branch, acts as their translator.

Nils was under observation for a week, then irradiated (given deep X-ray therapy) to destroy his own bone marrow in preparation for the transplant. Irradiation was necessary because his own white cells would attack and reject the transplanted foreign organ.

Treatment on an artificial kidney followed. Then he received two bone marrow transplants from his mother. More artificial kidneys are given when needed.

He has been given infusions of blood platelets to prevent hemorrhaging. Platelets are one of the blood substances that produce clotting. They had to be destroyed in Nils when he was irradiated.

It takes eight blood donors with rare B-negative type to provide enough whole blood from which platelets can be extracted for injection in Nils every other day.

When Nils suffered a serious setback he was given an infusion of liver cells flown from Sweden. The cells, taken from an unborn baby that had died, will, it is hoped, help supplement the boy's bone marrow.

No date for the transplant has been set.

Before Nils came here he wanted to be an airline pilot. Now, after watching television, he wants to be a cowboy.

At least half the members of Nova Scotia's—and Canada's—first assembly were former New Englanders.

To Resume Work At Two Plants

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors Corp. planned today to resume production at two plants in Detroit shut down yesterday by a wildcat strike. The strike idled 4,600 workers.

Leaders of the United Auto Workers ordered a return to work. The union has banned work stoppages during no contract operations.

General Motors said 52 employees at Fisher Body's Fleetwood plant walked off their jobs yesterday in a dispute over seniority, resulting in 1,600 workers at the plant and 3,000 at the Cadillac assembly plant being sent home.

The union filed unfair labor practice charges against Chrysler with the National Labor Relations Board.

The union accused the company of discriminating against union stewards and shop committeemen during no-contract operations. The company said the charges are not true.

Absentee Ballot For 100-Year-Old

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—Miss Ella M. Green cast an absentee ballot yesterday in next Tuesday's Michigan primary election although she isn't going to be out of town.

Miss Green planned to ride to her voting place Tuesday but when the deal fell through she caught a ride to the City Hall.

City officials said an excuse about a ride would not apply to all voters, but they let Miss Green cast an absentee ballot because she is 100 years old.

Firemen Elect Assn. Officers

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—J. P. Keeter of Raleigh is the new president of the North Carolina Firemen's Assn.

He was elected here yesterday at the association's annual convention to succeed I. Miller Harren of Plymouth.

The organization presented its second annual "Fireman of the Year" Award to Charles L. Burkett of Salisbury.

A program feature was the crowning of Betty Mural Cox, 17, of Tabor City as State Fire Queen. Runner-up in the beauty competition was Tetha Locklear of Pembroke.

Other new officers: Charles L. Miller of Concord and E. J. Glover of Lumberton, vice presidents; Ed. A. Johnson of Kannapolis, treasurer; and Albert H. Brinson of New Bern, statistician.

The firemen will hold their 1959 convention in Durham.

Ike's Brother Completes Tour

GUATEMALA (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower winds up his Central American fact-finding tour today with the feeling his face-to-face talks have helped clear the air.

"The frank talks we have had during this tour," he told Guatemalan leaders, "have cleared up false concepts about national policies, attitudes, programs and capacities."

Eisenhower and the three U.S. economic experts in his party fly back to Washington tomorrow for a report to President Eisenhower.

Eisenhower was told here that Guatemala had the same economic problems as other Central American countries—falling prices for the country's major export (coffee) and shortage of capital for industrial development.

He was told that Guatemala was asking for long-term loans to finance industrial and other development programs, not for money grants.

Eisenhower's official welcome here was courteous. Students, Communists and other critics of U.S. policy stayed home from the official reception and there were no demonstrations.

Detroit Plumber Refuses Jury Pay

DETROIT (AP)—Recorder's Court officials say Lloyd R. Johnson, 31, is the first man they can remember who refuses to be paid for jury duty.

Johnson, who is in the plumbing and heating business, is on jury duty for 20 days. Normal pay is $8 a day, but he doesn't want it. He says: "Accepting pay which I don't need for jury duty would be like getting paid for voting."

Paid For Bridge With Painting

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa. (AP)—When the late Grant Wood was struggling to get a start as an artist, he went to the office of Dr. B.H. McKeedy, a dentist.

He explained he needed some dental work but had no cash available. He offered in payment a painting of a bridge he had made in Paris. The dentist said he guessed that would do.

"Okay," said Wood. "It's a deal, a bridge for a bridge." Dr. McKeedy later became model for the farmer in Grant's painting, American Gothic.

Profit Plight Makes Sad Reading

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The profit plight of the oil companies makes sad reading today. But it seemingly is being shrugged off by the stock market bulls.

They seem more impressed by the world tension and the fast-growing U.S. federal debt. They figure that these two things combined spell inflation — and inflation could revive oil company earnings, and others, so the thinking goes. Bears take a more sober view of falling profits as a threat to future dividend payments.

Oil company reports on their first six months operation almost without exception show sharp drops in earnings from the previous year. Of 24 reporting so far only three—and these among the smaller ones—can show a year-to-year gain. The other 21, including many of the largest, show sad shrinkage.

Combined, the 24 cleared $835,458,000 in the first six months of 1958, compared with $1,293,765,000 in the first six months of 1957. The decline is 35.4 per cent. The sharpness of the drop may surprise some people, the more so because the oil industry for years has been among the leaders in year to year gains in production, sales and earnings. What went wrong?

Among the reasons for the drop this year commonly given is that domestic demand is only slightly over last year, in comparison with gains of 5 and 6 per cent in previous years. For one thing the fuel section of the oil industry has been losing ground to the fast-growing natural gas industry. For another, the industrial recession cut back demand.

The domestic oil companies, expecting higher demand, found themselves with high inventories and have struggled all year to cut them back through reduced production. The huge stocks also have made for price weakness in some products.

And right through it all the costs of doing business have been going up — wages, transportation, materials.

The squeeze on profits, therefore, is a natural. But there are signs that the worst may be over. First, remember that year-to-year comparison is loaded this time. It was in the first few months of 1957 that the Suez Canal crisis let the domestic oil companies make record profits. So today we are comparing recession earnings with last year's abnormally big ones.

For another thing, many oil companies now report that inventories at last seem to be getting into line. And this has led to the curbing of some product prices. The rising cost factor is yet to be licked, but some report making progress.

The world situation looks a bit better today than a few weeks back. Fears that Middle East strife would cut off the flow of oil for American companies operating there have proved groundless so far.

These could flare again. But American companies have other oil sources they could turn to in supplying Europe if Middle East oil is again curtailed as it was during the blocking of the Suez Canal. But probably the best reasons to feel the worst is over are the growing signs that the recession has stopped and recovery is on the way.

A business recovery — and the inflation which the mounting federal debt foretells — can perk up demand and product prices. And in time that puts new life in profits.

Secret Service Vet Dies At 107

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Harry Jackson, who once said "If there's anything I can think of that would shorten a man's life, I've done it," died yesterday. He was 107.

A 59-year veteran of the U. S. Secret Service, he settled in Oklahoma after helping police the 1939 land run which led to the opening of Oklahoma.

He died a week after he suffered a stroke and fell.

Jackson was born Nov. 27, 1850, in Tarrant County, Tex.

Reminiscing about the '39 land run, he said, "Oklahoma wasn't rough like Texas. I don't think over 14 people got killed in the run."

He said he had no idea why he lived so long but on another occasion declared it was because he had always stayed interested in things.

"When you lose interest, you lose everything."

Will Buy Washer To Satisfy Girl

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Here's a note for Bette Ann Summerford: Come home, your mother will buy a dishwasher.

Mrs. Sally Summerford, Bette Ann's mother, asked help locating her missing 12-year-old daughter yesterday. She said the girl left home Friday in an argument over washing dishes.

If Bette Ann returns, her mother said, she can have a new dishwasher.

California May Gain Seven Seats

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau said today California may gain seven seats in Congress after the 1960 census.

The bureau said nine states are likely to get bigger delegations and 14 probably will lose seats as a result of the reapportionment which will be made after the 1960 head count. In most cases that will involve redrawing district lines. Sometimes, however, an extra congressman is elected at large.

All the changes will be in the House of Representatives which has a permanent legal membership of 435. Each state by law has two senators, regardless of population.

The projection indicated California's House delegation will increase to 37 members from the present 30.

Other states which are expected to make major gains are Florida, Michigan and Texas.

Major losers probably will be New York and Pennsylvania. The bureau said they are likely to lose three seats in Congress.

Arkansas and Massachusetts would each lose two seats under the new projection.

The census figures indicated a gain of three seats for Florida and two each for Michigan and Texas. They showed probable gains of single seats for Arizona, Indiana, Maryland, Ohio and Oregon.

In addition, Alaska will have one House member when it formally becomes a state. This was taken into account in the projection. However, the census statisticians made no allowance for the possibility that Hawaii also may become a state by the time House seats are reapportioned.

The bureau said losses of one seat are in prospect for each of the following states on the basis of present calculation: Alabama, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, North Carolina and West Virginia.

The Census Bureau now estimates the total population in 1960 will be about 180 million. It was 151,132,000 in 1950.

The bureau said its projection is based in part on conjecture and it is not unlikely that several of the congressional delegations may prove to differ by one number from those estimated.

Troubles Added To Other Worry

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Les Thaden went to work at his auto sales lot and found he had a leaky roof over his office. Water dripped on his desk, making a soggy mess of contracts and other papers.

He tried to start the air conditioner. It wouldn't work.

He walked to the door to stare at the rain—and noticed a car had been stolen off the lot during the night.

He tried to call the sheriff's office. The phone wouldn't work.

A few minutes later, he learned a car he rented the night before was in trouble.

He found the car on its side in the storm-swollen Santa Cruz River.

He summoned a wrecker. He was giving instructions on how to recover the car from the river when another auto zoomed by on the wet highway, splashing him from head to toe.

Dripping wet, he retreated to his leaky office.

Better Driver Because Of Loss

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Twenty-seven years ago, taxi driver Howard Vaughan lost his right arm by amputation after a cut became infected.

As soon as he left the hospital, he returned to taxi driving. Now, more than a million miles later, the 49-year-old Vaughan can boast a no-accident record.

He thinks the loss of his arm actually made him a better driver because he realizes that if he had an accident "I'd have two strikes against me so I am always thinking of what could happen and I'm ready to stop, swerve or do what's necessary."

Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus Is Mountain Boy Who Made Good

By SY RAMSEY
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Months ago Gov. Orval Faubus sat down at his desk and carefully circled July 29 on the calendar as the "day of destiny."
Last night the mountain boy

GOVERNOR FAUBUS OF ARKANSAS . . . Surrounded By Happy Campaign Workers who made good in his home state exulted as destiny arrived in the form of a smashing election victory that meant an almost unprecedented third term.

But he shed no light on his political future. The Senate in 1969

A fourth or even fifth term as governor; leadership of a third party in 1967?

The guessing has begun in earnest now. Faubus' enemies fear he will gain dictatorial power within Arkansas and continue to defy the federal government on integration. His admirers hope he will be the standard bearer of a resurgent states rights movement.

Destiny is a word with nearly magic overtones for the 46-year-old Faubus. It began when he was born, the first of seven children, on a hill farm in the Ozarks.

"He was a premature baby, the tiniest thing," recalls J. Sam Faubus, the governor's father. "No body hardly though he would live but he just grew off like a young chicken."

His early education was at a country school house, now called Greenwood, and at the nearby Huntsville Vocational School.

Later Faubus worked his way through Western fruit orchards as a itinerant picker, riding from job to job in railroad box cars and sleeping in hobo jungles.

He returned home, held a few minor political jobs, became an officer in World War II and then fell in with the postwar political victory march of former Gov. Sid McMath, now his bitter political enemy.

Faubus has described himself as a "child of fortune." He believes in a little human help for fate.

It was no accident or impulse in 1954 that sent him scurrying to file for governor against incumbent Francis Cherry only a few minutes before the deadline. Zangler, Faubus announced he would not run. Then he caught Cherry forces off guard by filing—and to everyone's surprise he eventually won.

Nor was it accident or impulse that prompted Faubus to summon the National Guard to keep nine Negro students out of Central High School here last fall. For whatever reason Faubus acted, his move was planned although its explosive effect was unforeseen.

Voters this summer saw the familiar face of their governor in every corner of the state—always well groomed with an ever-present smile. Faubus, tall and heavily built, was a golden-tongued orator on television and down-to-earth anecdote swapper in the hills and lowlands of rural Arkansas.

He based much of his campaign on the contention that outsiders were attempting to interfere in Arkansas politics by swinging the election against him.

Faubus has paid little attention to his two opponents, meat packer Chris Finkbeiner and State Judge Lee Ward.

He has defended an administration record he said was free from any breath of scandal and had made model progress.

He has indicated that if things are the same at Central High next September—in other words, if Negro students return—he might call out soldiers again "to preserve peace and order."

Scientist Seeks Measurements

By FRED GOLDEN
WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Albert M. Dexter is out to make 10 million.

His work isn't high finance—but rather the exacting science of measurement. He's trying to divide the inch into 100 million parts, and for very good reason.

"We have now reached the point," says Dexter, an engineer for Pratt & Whitney Co., "where measurements of the greatest accuracy are needed in the manufacture of control and guidance instruments for rockets, missiles and supersonic aircraft."

The science of measurement has come a long way from the day in the 12th Century when King Henry I decreed that the distance from the tip of his nose to the end of his thumb was a yard.

As the tool company's director of metrology (that means the science of measurement), it's Dexter's job to come up with instruments and techniques that will make measurements down to a 30,000th of the thickness of the paper this is printed on.

If Dexter and other researchers fail, the United States' space program may never advance beyond the rickety "model T" era.

Considerable progress has been made in breaking down the inch into 10 million parts, Dexter reports. But the day has not yet come when the man at the machine can accurately say he has achieved such close tolerances with the instruments the engineers have given him.

"In Russia," Dexter says, "similar efforts are being made. And you can be sure whoever comes up with the answer will have better missiles."

At Pratt & Whitney's plant here, Dexter's research activities are confined largely to a heavily protected chamber crammed with ultra sensitive instruments. The temperature is controlled at 68 degrees fahrenheit. Variations of one degree are likely to set back a day's research.

In the center of the room is a vastly complicated and expensive instrument called a comparator, capable by means of light reflection of making readings of unbelievable accuracy. But the work takes time. Five to six hours are not unusual for making average readings—if you can call measurements of up to 1-10 millionth of an inch average.

But for Dexter, who lives with his wife and two young sons in Avon, such patience has its rewards.

"Someday soon we'll come up with the answers," he insists. "And we'll be several steps higher in space."

Cotton Industry Likes Ag Bill

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A top official of the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute says the cotton provisions of the Senate's omnibus agriculture bill would "restore confidence to all segments of the cotton industry."

In announcing support of the provisions here yesterday, ACMI Vice President Robert C. Jackson said they also would "increase consumption of cotton both at home and abroad."

Under the measure, passed by the Senate last week and now before the House, one price for U.S. cotton would prevail in this country and abroad. U.S. cotton now is sold at lower prices overseas.

Other provisions of the bill endorsed by the textile manufacturers' organization would:

Permit a farmer to increase cotton acreage up to 40 per cent above his allotment and take a cut in price support of 15 parity points, instead of planting limited acreage and receiving high supports for the crop.

Place support prices, in the third year after passage of the bill, at 90 per cent of the previous three-year market prices, with a floor of 90 per cent of parity, or 30 cents per pound—whichever is higher. The present floor level of parity supports is 75 per cent of parity.

END advance PMs July 31.

Actor Alan Ladd Looked Natural

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Alan Ladd looked quite natural—he was a mess.

His clothes were ripped, his face scratched and stained with makeup blood. He had engaged in yet another film fight, this time for his latest movie, "Man in the Net."

Unfortunately, statistics are not available. But if the publicists were on their toes, they'd come up with some figures. For instance, they could hazard that Ladd has thrown 10,000 punches for the screen, has bested 150 opponents with no significant defects and has expended 100 pints of Max Factor's No. 5 blood.

Far be it from me to tell them how to run their business.

At any rate, I sat down for a chat with Ladd on film fisticuffs. Did he ever make a movie without a fight?

"Only one that I can think of," he replied. "That was 'And How Tomorrow' with Loretta Young. I played a doctor in that one."

The rest of it has been biff! bam! pow! in all the pictures. The movie patrons expect it of him, I guess, just as they expect Fred Astaire to hoof and June Allyson to cry.

His toughest opponent? "That was Ben Johnson in 'Shane,'" Alan replied. "He knew what he was doing. We worked three weeks on that fight in the barroom."

The danger in film fights is in taking on greenhorns who don't know how to fake their punches.

Some of the New York actors come out here with notions of reality and want to throw real punches. Or else they get carried away by the Stanislavsky method of acting. Then the opponent can get hurt.

"That's why I have my own stunt man on every picture—Paul Baxley," Ladd declared. "We generally do the fights together, and he puts on a black wig or a red wig or whatever is needed to double for the other actor. Paul and I could fight all day without landing a blow on each other."

There are tricks, you see, of arranging the camera angle so you don't see the space between the fist and chin. So when the roundhouse swing is made, the victim throws his head back, and a cracking sound effect is heard and it looks as if a savage blow has been struck.

It's not all harmless child's play, however. Ladd bears the scars of many a battle that went awry. In "Saskatchewan," a misdirected blow broke four of his ribs. He fell on the ground during an "Iron Mistress" battle and drove a nail into his back. Many times he has banged up his hands.

Issue Is Settled In Judge's Court

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Mrs. Josephine Jefferson tried to settle her argument in court, but the judge overruled her.

The 28-year-old woman appeared in police court to answer charges of breach of peace and resisting an officer. The complainant, Sam Williams, was there, too.

The judge had just sentenced Mrs. Jefferson to 30 days in jail for resisting the officer, and found her innocent of the breach of peace charge.

But then she walloped Williams on the jaw.

Overdue Volume Held By President

ATLANTA (AP)—When the Southern Bell Telephone Co. recently cleaned out its library, one of the books discarded was a 225-page tome entitled "The American Technical Society Telephony."

showed it had been taken out just once, 27 years ago by a young college trainee named Ben S. Gilmer.

Gilmer now is president of Southern Bell.

Palm Springs, Calif., which was a sun baked Indian camp 50 years ago, is now a swanky resort with a winter population of 50,000.

Auto Workers Ready To Strike
CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Auto workers for General Motors, Ford and Chrysler are prepared to strike if suitable contract agreements cannot be reached, a union official declared yesterday.

A meeting in Detroit on Aug. 9 will set a strike deadline, Executive Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey of the International United Auto Workers Union reported.

"We are hopeful we can reach a settlement without a strike," said Mazey, "but we will not hesitate to strike if that appears to be the only route which will bring economic justice to our members."

Mazey spoke to some 90 delegates to a regional UAW conference in the University of North Carolina campus. The five-day session, attended by personnel of UAW locals from six Southeastern states, will close tomorrow.

Mazey also spoke sharply of the national administration's handling of unemployment. "Both the President and the administration in their policy toward the recession have failed to recognize the seriousness of unemployment," he asserted.

Government estimates place the number of jobless workers at 5,400,000, said Mazey. He added that part-time or marginal workers would bring the figure to between 6 and 7 million.

"The Eisenhower administration has developed a callous attitude toward people—it looks at them as statistics rather than as the human beings that they are," the union leader declared.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market nudged ahead in active trading early this afternoon with steels briskly traded but irregular. Once again the average was moving into new high ground for 1958 but the advance was cautious and uneven.

Key stocks showed gains of fractions to about a point. Losses were in the same range. As more steel companies announced price boosts interest continued to be centered on this section of the market. Profits were taken on yesterday's strong rise in several instances, however. Rails continue to make new highs for the year following congressional clearance of the rail and legislation. Some aircrafts, nonferrous metals, oils and building materials made gains. Motors, mail orders and rubbers were mixed.

Youngstown Sheet was off more than 2 points for a while then halved its loss. Bethlehem, which reports on the second quarter after the market close, opened on a big 7,000-share block but traded about unchanged.

U.S. Steel was steady. Granite City Steel gained a fraction. Small losses were taken by Armco and Republic Steel. National eased.

Studebaker - Packard continued active and slightly on the plus side. Chrysler eased a small loss. General Motors was firm. Goodrich fell more than a point. Gains of about a point were made by U. S. Gypsum and Kaiser Aluminum.

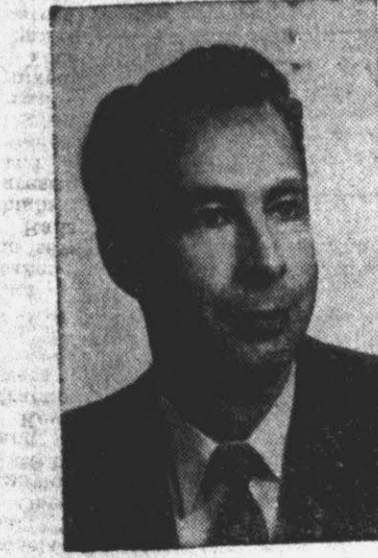

Among small gainers were United Aircraft, Kennecott, Baltimore & Ohio, Santa Fe, Johns-Manville, Du Pont and Westinghouse Electric.

The Associated Press average of 50 stocks rose 40 cents to $183.30 at noon. The industrials were up 50 cents, the rails up 50 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

Students To Find Campus Changed

BRICK WORK GOES UP ON 512-MAN DORMITORY . . . expected to be completed in spring of 1959.

East Carolina College students will find their steadily changing campus even more different when they return to school in September.

Five new structures are under way on the approximately 140 acre campus. In addition, all the school's drives have been resurfaced with asphalt since the students left in the spring.

Curb and gutter have been installed on a new drive along with a walkway and the road is being prepared for paving.

Biggest of the projects now underway is the 512-man dormitory which has been under construction on the newest portion of the campus across Tenth St. since the late winter.

Workers are now bricking up the sides of the big dorm, which is nearly twice the size of any existing dorm at the college.

The new road on which curb and gutter have recently been installed, leads to this new dormitory area.

On the main campus, brick walls have been run up for the addition to the music building and workers are placing the steel supports for the roof. The addition is on the Fifth St. side of the building and it is of the same type brick as the old structure.

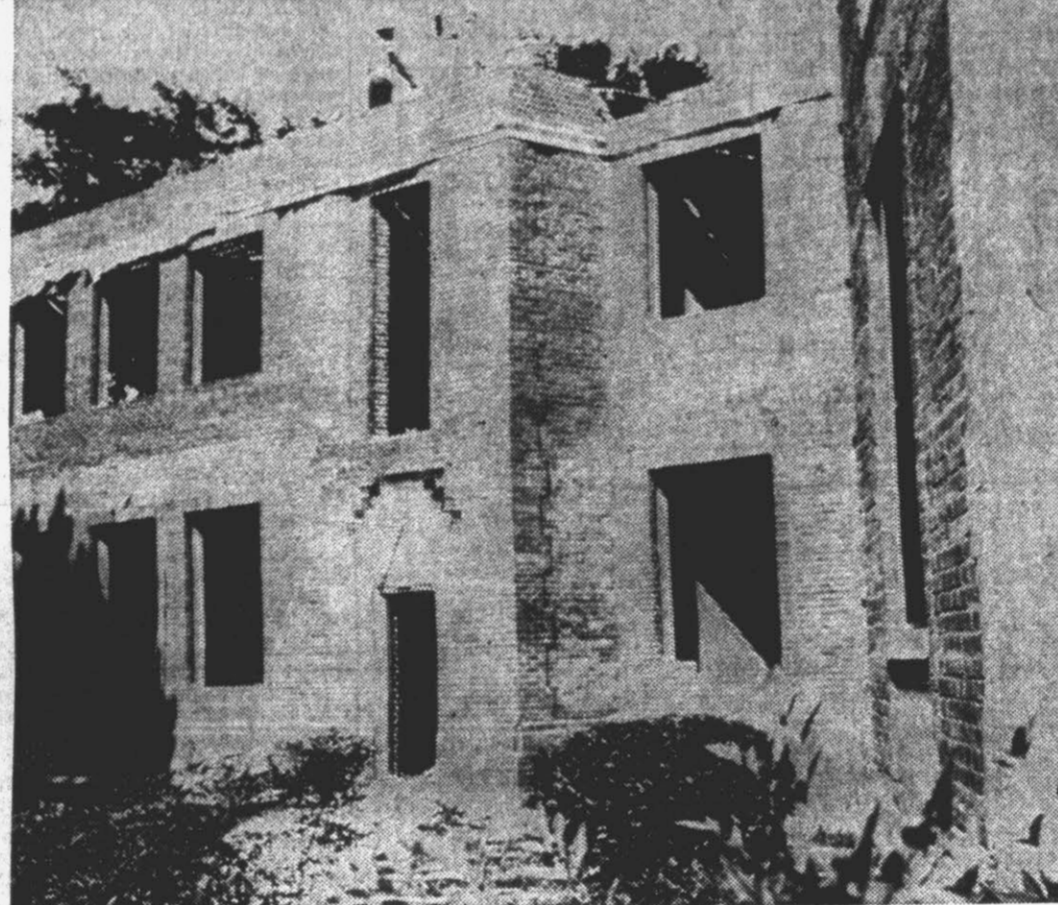

The addition is the second to be made to the music building since the old library was taken over to music purposes. The first addition was a band practice room on the south side.

Across the road, staff members in the administration will be completed on the addition to their building.

The administrative staff has long since outgrown the older structure. Brick walls are now being run up for the structure. The addition will approximately double the size of the structure.

On the back campus an addition is being constructed to the campus dining hall. A new cafeteria unit is under construction on the south side of the dining hall building.

Three cafeterias are now operating in the structure and this will make a fourth. All are served from the same kitchen.

MUSIC BUILDING GETS ADDITION . . . one of five projects underway on college campus.

Announce Easing Of Trade Embargo

LONDON (AP)—A government spokesman announced today an agreement has been reached for a substantial relaxation of embargoed goods in trade with Communist nations.

The Earl of Gosford, undersecretary for foreign affairs, told the House of Lords the agreement was reached in Paris this month by a consultative group of the Organization of European Economic Cooperation.

Gosford said the OEEC group had reported to their governments and technical details are still being discussed.

He said the new embargo list would be published Aug. 15 and would be effective from that date.

At present there are about 400 items on the embargo list applying both to Communist China and the countries of the Soviet bloc.

Adhering to this embargo are all Atlantic Alliance members, minus Iceland. Japan also subscribes to the list.

The United States, which bans all trade with Red China, has been under pressure from such trading nations as France and Britain to relax the embargo.

Informed diplomats said the Red nations will be free to buy nearly 100 items of manufactured goods and raw materials previously banned as war potential. They range from small oil tankers and fishery vessels to electronic equipment and plants for producing chemicals.

Other officers re-elected were J. D. Parker, vice-chairman, and E. D. Credie, secretary-treasurer. Both Parker and Credie are from Greenville.

Unit members were informed by Otis M. Banks that maintenance and construction workers have been classified for pay purposes and according to duties. Heretofore these workers have not been classified.

According to Banks, who is State Executive Secretary for the NCSH & PEA, plans have been underway for some time to make the classification changes. He pointed out that there are still inequalities in the system and further study will be made in connection with the matter in the near future.
