Vengeful Uncle Of Human Torch Disappears As Victim Quizzed

Two Unknown Gunmen Said Torturers; 'Union Business' Believed Involved

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — New mystery piled up today in the human-torch burning of an ex-convict business agent for the Teamsters Union...

Herman Kierdorf, 63, was missing and sought on a warrant charging him with possessing a silencer for a pistol...

County Prosecutor Frederick Ziem said a briefcase Herman Kierdorf left at a neighbor's home contained a German pistol with a home-made silencer...

Two telephones and another weapon also were found in a sack left at the neighbor's by Herman, Ziem said...

Police said Herman was last seen as he left St. Joseph Mercy Hospital yesterday afternoon.

Alerts were sent to neighboring police departments.

Frank at first would only whisper through his burned lips that he was "John Doe of Washington, D.C."

Both nephew and uncle have been reluctant witnesses before the Senate Rackets Committee in its probe of the Teamsters Union.

Doctors said it was amazing Frank Kierdorf still was alive. He had been burned over 85 per cent of his body...

A son, Frank Jr., 30, who identified his father, said tearfully: "When you play rough, you get hurt sometimes."

Frank Kierdorf was business agent for Teamsters Local 332 at Flint. His uncle was business agent for the Teamsters' Joint Council 32 in Detroit...

Two Pitt Escapees Are Recaptured In Night

Two prisoners who escaped from the Pitt County Prison Camp yesterday morning were captured late last night.

The escapees have been identified as Lusion Winfred Station, 19, of 1314 North Brevard Street, Charlotte...

Station was sentenced from Mecklenburg County in 1956. He is serving a 7-10 year term for armed robbery and a concurrent five-year term for auto larceny.

Last year Phelps, assigned to the Gates County Prison Camp, attempted to escape from a road camp in Chowan County...

Branch Out In Training Program

RESCUE SQUAD TRAINS—Members of the Greenville Rescue Squad have started a five fighting training course as part of their overall training program...

Parking Meters Will Take A Holiday On Dollar Day

Every parking meter in the city will be given a vacation all day Thursday.

Why? It's Greenville's semi-annual Dollar Day sales promotion. Not only will the absent-minded shopper not have to worry about being absent-minded...

Parking space for over 1,000 cars will be available for thousands of shoppers who are expected from towns and communities throughout Pitt and surrounding counties...

The traditional sales event has been sponsored by the merchants of Greenville for over 30 years.

According to E. E. Featherston, Chairman of the Merchants Association's Trade Promotion Committee...

Stores will observe regular hours Thursday, opening at 9 a.m. and closing at 5:30 p.m.

Employees and employers of local businesses have been requested to leave their vehicles at home or make arrangement so that downtown parking areas will be left open for the shoppers.

Merchants Association official stated this morning, "We are expecting a large crowd and want to do everything possible for their convenience."

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The FBI settled down to methodical police work today in its search for a pot-bellied gunman who robbed a branch bank of $7,407 here yesterday.

The heavy-set, round-faced gunman apparently slipped through roadblocks, thrown up within 30 minutes of the mid-morning stick-up of the Sedgfield branch of the Wachovia Bank & Trust Co.

Mort Childs, special agent in charge of the Charlotte office of the FBI, said his agents were busy following up leads furnished by citizens eager to help.

But President Camille Chamoun indicated his determination to keep the troops here until his term ends Sept. 23.

It was Shehab's first pronouncement since he was elected by nearly all factions of Parliament last Thursday. He indicated he intends to follow a policy of neutrality toward the big powers...

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Shehab's statement has not had any effect on American plans. American troops will leave when asked to do so by the duly constituted government, he said.

A Marine spokesman, declining to comment on a report that some Marine units would be withdrawn soon, said the movements won't be discussed until they are a fact.

Chamoun, the pro-Western President who asked Washington to send the troops three weeks ago, said, "I won't ask the Marines to leave."

Leaders of the three-month-old rebellion against Chamoun said they would demand that he step aside early for Shehab.

Chamoun also said he would represent Lebanon at any summit conference to which Middle Eastern leaders are invited.

Half Holidays End In 2 Weeks

In two weeks Wednesday afternoon "holidays" will be a thing of the past and something for the employees and employers of local business firms to look forward to next Spring.

Greenville stores will close tomorrow afternoon and on the afternoon of August 13, according to J. D. McGlothin, Jr., President of the Merchants Association.

As has been the policy in years past stores will remain open all day Wednesday, August 20, prior to the tobacco market opening on the following day.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Prison Bureau said today more U.S. adults were in prison at the end of last year than ever before in history.

But although the figure set a record, the percentage of total population did not.

A report put the total adult population of state and federal prisons then at 195,414, a rise of 3.1 per cent from the previous year-end figure.

This added up to 116 prisoners for each 100,000 persons in the civilian population, a slight increase over figures for 1955 and 1956.

But the report noted it was considerably smaller than the proportion of 126 per 100,000 reflected at the close of 1939, 1940 and 1941.

The report, submitted to Atty. Gen. Rogers by Prison Director James V. Bennett, said the state institutions reported 2,210 escapes in 1957.

North Carolina, which operates an extensive road camp program, led the list with 466, of which 409 were returned.

Farmville Firm To Begin Leaf Processing Work

FARMVILLE—Tobacco processing will begin in A. C. Monk and Company's stemming plant here tomorrow, a company spokesman said this morning.

The work will be the first with tobacco from the Georgia-Florida Belt. The spokesman said the company intends to use a single 12-hour shift in its Number 2 plant tomorrow, but expectations are for a second shift to begin operating after about a week and for the main plant to begin operations next week.

The company has had representatives in Georgia and Florida markets, and will have representatives on the Border Belt which opens sales today.

STINGING DEFEAT GLOUCESTER, Va. (AP) — Workmen replacing the roof on Ware Episcopal Church here met a stinging defeat in their first effort. Bees under the roof stung 12 of the 13 workmen.

Firemen routed the bees with foamite but work had to be continued with caution with the insects airborne.

He came out on the dead run with a paper bag in his right hand," Shields said.

"His car motor must have been running because it scratched off as soon as he hit the seat."

Officers said the bandit was between 50 and 55, about 6 feet tall and weighed around 200 pounds.

Lower Quality Leaf Finds Good Border Belt Demand

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Tobacco growers of the South Carolina and Border North Carolina Belt found demand was good for lower quality leaf but fairly weak on better grades today as the belt's 19 markets held their first auctions of the season.

The Federal and State Market News Service reported that price averages for the first hour of sales on several representative markets ranged from $56 to $57 per 100 pounds.

It estimated that during the first hour between 18 and 20 per cent of the leaf went to the Fluorinated Cooperative Stabilization Corp. under government price support loans.

Only a negligible number of growers rejected the prices offered for their leaf.

The condition of the leaf offered was reported as good and quality varied on the different markets.

In general, the service said the crop appeared to be lighter bodied than last year's.

The Crop Reporting Service said the extreme price range was from $14 per 100 pounds for sub-standard nondescript to $72 for fair cutters, fine lemon lugs and fine lemon primings.

However, the bulk of sales was between $45 and $67 and the practical top price was $69.

The offerings consisted mainly of low to fine primings, fair and good lugs, low cutters and nondescript.

Volume of sales was heavy on some markets while on others warehouses were not filled.

The News Service reported the following approximate price ranges on several predominant grades:

Fair lemon cutters $70 to $72, low lemon cutters $68 to $70, good lemon lugs $67 to $70, fair lemon lugs $64 to $67, fine lemon primings $66 to $68, fair lemon primings $60 to $64, low orange primings $40 to $55, best thin nondescript $22 to $38.

The belt is the second of the five flue-cured marketing areas to begin sales. Already operating are markets on the Georgia-Florida Belt. Other markets in North Carolina and Virginia will begin sales in the next several weeks.

The South Carolina-Border Belt opening came a week later than last year, mainly due to spring weather which delayed transplanting two to three weeks.

Recent rains and hot weather have hastened harvest in some sections of the belt.

Sales for the 1957 season on the belt totaled 22,405,664 pounds. The price average was a record high $68.71 per 100 pounds.

South Carolina markets opening today were: Conway, Darlington, Dillon, Hemingway, Kingstree, Lake City, Lamar, Loris, Mullins, Pamplico and Timmonsville. In North Carolina: Chadbourn, Clarkton, Fair Bluff, Fairmont, Fayetteville, Lumberton, Tabor City, and Whiteville.

Johnson said he would be greatly pleased if the satellite approached to within 30,000 or 30,000 miles of the moon. The moon on the average is some 238,000 miles from the earth.

He said when the satellite nears the moon tiny rockets will be fired in the reverse direction by radio command from the earth to slow it sufficiently for it to be attracted by the moon's gravitational field.

Johnson said that within six minutes after the launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla., "we should know whether all the stages were fired successfully."

"Within 90 minutes we will know whether everything is on course. But then we will have to wait 2 1/2 days for the rocket to reach the moon — if it goes that far."

He explained that several lunar satellites have been built at the Naval Test Center, Inyokern, Calif., of various shapes and designs — "and we'll take one off the shelf."

The launching rocket will consist of a Thor intermediate range ballistic missile, and the second and third stages of the Vanguard satellite rocket. The third stage, however, is of a hitherto untried solid propellant design, more powerful than the third stages of the Vanguard rockets fired to date.

The satellite, housed in the nose of the final stage, will contain a television-type scanning device with a gyroscope to keep it aimed constantly at the moon.

Sack Blouse To Attend School

AP Newsfeatures
GIRLS OF ALL AGES will go back to school this fall in chemise blouses—one version of the new sack silhouette which has aroused no controversy.

The smart, comfortable over-blouses are logical successors to the middie school uniforms of a generation ago. Modern versions, however, have many talents lacking in those of the 1920s. They come in many new fabrics and finishes which make it possible to keep them fresh and clean with no ironing. Many are spot and wrinkle resistant, so that spilled sodas can be wiped off and wrinkles snake out.

Wise mothers have found that the most practical school wardrobe has a basis of blouses and skirts—all of drip-dry or wash-and-wear fabrics, of course—in gay colors that can be mixed or matched. These schoolday separates are widely available in stores throughout the country, at prices within the schoolgirl budget.

South Seas Can Inspire Home Sewing

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
 One reason it pays to be able to sew your own clothes is that often you can stitch up a copy of some gay new fashion you see in the movies or at the theater. Right now there seems to be much attention to South Seas movies which offer some colorful ideas in summer fashions easy to make at home. Take, for instance, the outfit called "Pahu Lava" worn by an enchanting young Tahitian beauty named Ramine in a current South Seas Cinerama production.

Freely translated, the Pahu is a strapless chemise worn with the traditional Pareu, or sarong. Ramine says it's easy to make such an outfit, and local sewing center experts tell how it's done.

You'll need about three yards of the brightest cotton print you can find, preferably in a 36-inch width. Cut a piece about 38 inches long, leaving a piece about 70 inches long. The shorter piece will be used for the Pahu, or chemise. (The 38-inch measurement is about average—larger figures require more.) The longer piece is for the Pareu, or sarong. To make the Pahu, fold the shorter piece in half crosswise, so that raw edges meet. This piece will be wrapped around the body, with selvages at bust and hemline. Make casing in the top for elastic. Stitch edges together to a point eight inches down from the top, leaving rest of the slit open. Hem raw edges. Thread elastic through top casing and gather to fit under the arms. This Pahu will be as long as the width of the fabric. The woman of average height will find that a 36-inch measurement will reach from the chest to the knees. Tall women may need a wider fabric. To make the Pareu, or sarong, simply hem the raw edge of the longer piece of fabric. It may then be wrapped around the waist and worn as a skirt, worn around the shoulders as a cape or draped into a long floating panel to conceal the side slit of the Pahu. The outfit is perfect for beach wear, over a bathing suit, or for backyard entertaining at home.

Co-Hostesses Entertain Circle

BETHEL—Monday afternoon, Mrs. W. P. Thigpen and Mrs. W. A. House were co-hostesses to Circle I of the Methodist Church in the Thigpen home. In the absence of Mrs. F. L. Blount Jr., chairman, Mrs. J. L. Gurganus Sr. presided and conducted a short business session. W. P. Thigpen, the spiritual life leader, read the 23rd Psalm and gave a selection from "Walks of Jesus" by B. Lewis. This was concluded by a prayer. A topic taken from the study book, "Concerns of a Continent," was discussed by the program chairman, Mrs. Robert T. Davis.

Busy Beavers Club Has July Meeting

FOUNTAIN—The Busy Beavers Club held their July meeting at the home of Mrs. Alton Moore. The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Charles Phillips. All of the members joined in repeating the American and the 4-H Club pledges. Ivey Smith gave the devotion and song leader Bennett Dilda led the group in a song.

Dior Designer Lowers Hemline

PARIS (AP)—Dior designer Yves Saint-Laurent today lowered the hemline by several inches—to about 15 inches from the floor.

It has little or nothing in common with the high-waisted, short-skirted Empire line seen everywhere else this season.

It looks as if young Saint-Laurent, having tasted success with his first collection last spring, wants to show who is master of the mode. If he succeeds in pulling skirts down, there can be no further question. Applause, which started early in the showing, broke out time and again and swelled to an uproar at the end of the show.

Saint-Laurent's silhouette is of perfectly rounded, medium fullness caught in with unpressed folds or pleats by a belt a couple of inches below the bustline.

The Lush Economic Season Begins

Wheels of Greenville's big tobacco processing industry have begun to turn again after the usual off-season months of idleness.

For Greenville, like other communities in Eastern North Carolina which have tobacco processing plants, the season when the factories start back to work is one of great importance. Within the next few weeks as the tobacco factories move up to full production, employment will rise above the 1,000 mark in these plants. Thousands upon thousands of dollars in weekly payrolls will be funneled into the local economy. Many families of seasonal factory workers will find their weekly income doubled or more than doubled because the factories are in operation and men and women are able to obtain jobs.

With tobacco harvesting at its peak and tobacco factories gearing up their operations, Pitt begins the rush toward the brief period during the year when there is "full employment". That doesn't mean that everyone who wants a job will have one. It does mean, however, that considerably more than a thousand people in the county who have been catching as catch can for jobs in recent months will have steady employment for a while. Unemployment claims which have reached into four figures in past months will drop almost to nothing.

It is the lush economic season for which the community lives from one year to the next.

The tobacco processing industry has been a part of Greenville for many years. Like other things, it is sometimes taken for granted by the cynics who say, "Well, the factories are working, but it doesn't mean much."

What a mistaken idea! It means every thing to many people in this community who would not have steady employment during any season of the year if it were not for the processing plants. It means many thousands of dollars of spendable income pumped into the local economy week after week for several months during the year.

Sure, it would be wonderful if the tobacco factories could operate year-round with their large force of workers and their huge weekly payrolls. But tobacco processing isn't that kind of business, and it is through no fault of the companies which operate the processing plants.

The day may come when the operating season for these factories will be longer than it is now. Some development might present itself which will enable the plants to continue employing at least some of their factory hands on a more or less year-round basis in some sort of processing or manufacturing.

But until that day does come, we should be thankful that Greenville has an industry—seasonal though it is—that affords the community more than a thousand jobs for several months during the year.

The Language Barrier Remains Before Us

Less than a year ago with the launching of Sputnik I the American public suddenly was shocked with the realization that this nation was not producing a sufficient number of capable young scientists.

Youngsters in high school were not getting proper background in the basic sciences to equip them for accelerated scientific study in college. Courses in advanced math, chemistry and physics in high schools across the country had far too few students enrolled.

In a matter of months most everybody from the President on down took part in a gigantic campaign to interest youngsters in careers in science, research, development. The number of basic and advanced science courses in high schools have increased. The number of students enrolled in these courses has likewise shot upward from what it was a year ago.

The very thought that Russia might develop a greater scientific brain trust than the United States literally scared us into sudden action. And it should have.

But when we look at our educational system, we should be aware of another facet of education being emphasized elsewhere and almost totally neglected in public schools in the United States. Foreign languages.

Throughout Europe for years a great deal more emphasis has been placed on languages than has been the case in the United States. Russia in the past few years has given increased importance to languages in its school programs. Here in the United States, while many youngsters get a year or so of one language or another, very few people ever really learn a foreign language.

We just take for granted that as long as we know English we can get along anywhere in the world. So far we have done all right.

But times are changing. Person-to-person relationships between citizens of different nations are becoming increasingly important. Exchanges of tourists, students, athletes, cultural groups, businessmen have become more common. If the current trend is an indication, such exchanges will play an increasingly important part in international understanding and relations.

The nation whose people can speak the language of other peoples as well as their own will have an important advantage in making their nation understood in foreign lands.

To the emphasis on being placed on science, we need also to place more emphasis on foreign languages in our schools.

Any Agreement Seems Unlikely

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — It seems almost incredible that President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev could ever agree on anything at a summit meeting — after what they've said to each other and the way the two men—in their letter exchanges these past two weeks—have gone about preparing for a meeting at the summit.

If diplomacy is supposed to be the kid-glove approach to delicate or desperate problems, this wasn't it. This was bare-knuckled. They've traded accusations, denunciations and defenses against each other's charges. It's been like watching two men call each other every name in the book at the very moment they were discussing the problem of going off somewhere for a quiet talk.

Khrushchev started it—and set the tone—with his July 19 letter to Eisenhower, suggesting a summit meeting. Altogether, he's written three letters. Eisenhower has written him three. This is how the exchange went:

Khrushchev's first letter — He accused the United States of aggression in Lebanon; said American military leaders were indulging in intimidation; and implied the American commander of the 6th Fleet was a criminal or a maniac.

He tried a little intimidation of his own by reminding Eisenhower the Soviet Union has a fleet, an air force and an intercontinental missile; practically called Eisenhower's stated reason for going into Lebanon a phony; and said this country and Britain, besides bringing the world close to war, were wrecking the United Nations.

Eisenhower to Khrushchev — He denounced Khrushchev for "the manner in which you have chosen to express yourself"; defended the American action in Lebanon; accused the Soviet Union of indirect aggression; blamed it for blocking peaceful solutions of Middle East problems in the U.N. and for torpedoing previous talks on a summit meeting. Khrushchev to Eisenhower — He denied the Soviet Union was guilty of indirect aggression and again blamed the United States and Britain for direct aggression. Eisenhower to Khrushchev — He accused the Soviets of trying to undermine the U.N. by wanting the summit meeting held outside that organization. Khrushchev to Eisenhower — He accused the United States of trying to stall on a summit meeting and of backing down on an agreement to meet. Again he threw in the charge of American aggression, suggested this country and Britain might be preparing for "new acts of violence, flatly said Eisenhower was trying to widen the conflict in the Middle East, and ridiculed the ability of this country to protect the heads of other governments if they did come to a summit meeting in New York.

And just for extra he threw in the complaint that Robert Murphy, State Department trouble-shooter in the Middle East, was mixed up in "shady" business.

Eisenhower to Khrushchev — Again the President stung Khrushchev for the tone of his letters; accused him once more of trying to by-pass the U.N.; suggested he was trying to ignore the wishes and dignity of small nations; cracked at him for enslaving the satellites in Europe; and took a dig at him for proposing the meeting be held in Moscow.

Not there, of all places, Eisenhower said, after the way Soviet mobs stoned the American embassy.

Khrushchev, meanwhile, spent four days in Peiping and issued a joint statement with the Chinese Communists.

No change, this time the Chinese joined the Soviet's in accusing this country of aggression in Lebanon, stepping up preparations for a new war, and opposing both peace and a summit meeting.

Author Speaks Piece

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — What is the main problem of a creative writer in this country?

"It's so easy to get distracted. Too many things going on. Too many phones ringing. You have to find a place where you can dig in and be alone."

"It's the pace of American life itself," said Bud' Schulberg.

Budd, a strongly built, gregarious fellow with a face like a friendly grizzly bear, has a place of retreat. It's a small beach shack at Sarasota, Fla.

But he has had no time for privacy since he and his brother, Stuart, teamed up as movie producers, following the family tradition established by their noted father, B.F. Schulberg, a Hollywood picture pioneer.

Their first venture is the untold story of the renegade plume hunters in Florida's watery frontier wilderness. They plan next year to make a film on the capture of the Remagen Bridge across the Rhine in World War II.

"But I want to keep on writing," said Budd, who is currently working on a Broadway production of one of his earlier novels, "The Disenchanted."

Budd is a writer who never has known real hunger himself, although he has written often about people who are hungry for something—whether it be for food, power or love.

He sold a couple of short stories for $50 each while still a student at Dartmouth. After graduation he clicked with the slick paper magazines, worked on a dozen film scripts, then hit big with his first novel, "What Makes Sammy Run."

The film version of a later novel, "On the Waterfront," won an Academy Award.

Schulberg, a man with a vast appetite for living, likes to work hard and play hard. His prodigious researches have made him acquainted with enough rouges and rascals, caught and uncaught, to overflow Sing Sing. He goes for the off-beat character, whether the guy's a prisoner, prince or prelate.

"Sometimes I don't know whether the research I do is really work," he said, "or a form of procrastination—to delay the actual writing."

"But I'm pretty fast once I start writing. I write my first draft in pencil on one of those long yellow legal pads. In fact I'm blocked without one—can't write until I do find one."

Budd makes corrections in his second draft, which he turns out on the typewriter. Then makes interlinear changes in it before having his third and final draft typed.

He turns out about 5,000 words a week when things are going well, but it's hard to keep up that average, he says.

"Balzac wrote from midnight to dawn," he remarked, "but I've come to like more usual hours. If I don't have something going by midmorning, I feel frustrated."

Budd feels the biggest price any writer has to pay is failure because of refusal to compromise his material.

"But you have to be ready to fail rather than compromise," he said, "although the temptation to compromise is stronger than ever."

"But the most successful writers have become successful by trying to please themselves rather than the public. The public responds in the long run to the writer who stays true to himself."

Here is his advice to a beginning writer:

"Love or hate something. Learn as much as you can and crystallize your own attitudes—so you won't imitate anybody else. Then take the thing you know the best and feel strongest about, and write it in your own way. If you don't feel strongly about anything, you probably won't be able to write well about it."

Decentralization Of Industries

By ELMER ROESSNER

Decentralization of the furniture industry will get a significant forward push later this year when the Simmons Co. jumps into the living-room furniture field. In diversifying its production, the 88-year-old mattress company will depart from its policy of operating one central plant. It is planning 10 plants in widely scattered sections of the country.

The constantly rising costs of transportation since the war have been exerting great pressure for dispersal of industry. The pressure on furniture manufacturers has been considerable.

Furniture is heavy and bulky. It is highly susceptible to damage in transit. Consequently, the rise in railroad and truck transportation has been hitting manufacturers hard.

NEAR-BY SOURCES FAVORED

Under these conditions, retailers have been able to obtain furniture from local and nearby factories at considerable savings over shipments from distant plants.

This has already helped bring about considerable dispersal. Before the war, the furniture manufacturing industry in California was of little importance. But rising freight rates that tend to keep eastern competition out — plus considerable skill and daring in design — have made furniture manufacture in California large and profitable.

The freight differential has similarly fostered the expansion of old furniture establishments and the building of new plants in the Southwest, the Northwest and other sections of the country.

TORSION FURNITURE

When Grant G. Simmons, Jr., president of the company, makes formal announcement of the firm's diversification-plus-dispersal plan next month, he will detail its plans for new products.

True Stories, And Free

Writers of fiction, they tell me, rely heavily on observations and personal experience in putting together a story or novel. So, free-for-nothing, here's a couple of unrelated true-life incidents that might help fill a page or chapter for some unknown author struggling to s-t-r-e-t-c-h out his wordage:

The usual wedding preparations had gone on for weeks with great care being taken the rites would be memorably beautiful and unmarred by the unexpected. Came the day, and the church was crowded; altar decorations enhanced and appropriate music floated in the air above a hushed gathering of relatives and friends.

A three-year-old attending his very first wedding sat patiently amid the many grown-up strangers; drinking in the sights and sounds with silent appreciation. Then sounded the Wedding March and the procession got under way.

The small boy craned his neck to see, and as the bride moved up the aisle a flash of recognition shown on his face. That was his neighbor . . . all dressed in white and carrying flowers. Not being one to waste time on formalities he suddenly stood up; "Hey Joyce!" he called in a high, clear voice.

And startled parents hastily cut off whatever else he might have said, too late to avert the muffled chuckles and glances.

Later, the bride confessed she almost broke out laughing at that crucial moment.

And who ever heard of a bride laughing on her way to speak her vows?

The small playground area was swarming with the activities of a half-dozen youngsters. One, a husky eight-year-old stood on a cross-brace of a slide and orated in dramatic tones "I am going to jump to the ground from up here and this is a long ways up."

"Without a parachute, too," observed one of several parents keeping an eye on the proceedings.

"Yes! Without a parachute," he added in a thoughtful manner . . . and stood poised there as though thinking over the prospects.

He didn't speak with an appreciable accent, but there was something about his voice suggestive of the merest hint of foreign background. His mother was among those on the sidelines, and her voice, too, carried a liquid inflection that was neither of the North nor South.

East nor West; perhaps France? Italy? even Germanic?

It was, in short, of a melodious and fluid quality that sound as of another background, another land.

The boy leaped (all of four feet) to the ground, landing on all fours.

"Oh, how I LOVE this land!" he proclaimed in theatrical tones.

"I love this good land. It's so good to me," shouted the young voice.

And one couldn't help wondering whether this dramatic spiel had not been seeded in bygone years by the intense young mother, the one of the haunting voice, who smilingly looked on.

Was his choice of words prompted by something more than this bit of play? It left me wondering.

Other Editors Saying --- Support For Sen. Jordan

(Henderson Dispatch) Unanimity of support for Senator Jordan in the State Democratic Executive Committee meeting last week might be interpreted from several angles. The committee almost fell over itself in its decision to nominate the senator for the two years remaining of the term of the late Senator Scott, Jordan, as is well known, is now serving by appointment of Governor Hodges until the November election brings out an official endorsement by voters.

Failure of opposition to develop in the committee indicates organizational control, together with the consciousness on the part of Scott admirers of the futility of attempting to upset plans of party leaders. One might otherwise read into the results some sort of confirmation of Jordan's announced intention of seeking the nomination for a full six-year term two years hence.

The Scott element contented itself with taking advantage of the opportunity of utilizing the two years as an interim in which taking advantage of the opportunity of utilizing the two years as an interim in which they hope to build sufficient strength to present a formidable candidate representing their own political ideologies.

Terry Sanford, of Fayetteville, who was Scott's campaign manager in the Senate race in 1954, is generally regarded as a surefire contender for the gubernatorial nomination in 1960. But a candidate must be found to oppose Jordan, even as Sanford will be the man for the organization to beat for governor.

At the time of Senator Scott's death last spring, there was violent verbal resentment of Governor Hodges' appointment of Jordan to serve until the election next November. Practically nothing was heard of that during the session of the committee last week. An ominous silence setted upon the meeting so far as the minority attitude was concerned.

The record Senator Jordan makes in Washington in the next two years will have much to do with whether or what type of opposition he may have if he does become a candidate for the full term. It could be that his service will be so acceptable to the party generally that there will be no serious challenge. Instead, the element which would constitute the opposition may concentrate upon Sanford for governor, preferring to press their theory of government piecemeal rather than making a bid for a full slate for these major offices.

Jordan would be acceptable to the rank and file of the party. At this distance the new senator apparently is acclimating himself to the new role of public service, with the prospect of becoming a valued representative of the State in the upper house of Congress.

BELT VS. SUSPENDERS (The Macon News)

The August Times of London has seen fit to observe a trend away from the use of suspenders (braces in Britain) to hold up man's trousers. Suspenders have always been pretty standard items with our British brethren. To the Times, their decline is sad and seems to reflect an "unjust prejudice." To us over here, the funny thing about this trend is that Britons aren't switching to belts. They never have cared much for belts.

What they're doing, if the Times is reliable on this point, is going for snug-fitting trousers that the retailers say require no support at all. In other words, they're skipping the belt stage altogether. Speaking for a nation wedded to the belt, we see danger in this. With the Times, we fear that the British may lose something by it.

The next Simmons, also Zaimon G., was said to have gotten America off solid mattresses and onto inner springs. The third, Grant G. Simmons Sr., helped get America into twin and hide-away beds. Now Grant, Jr. will try to get them to sit more comfortably.

2 DECISIONS, 1 ORDINANCE BEAR ON BUSINESS

Some legal notes of significance to business.

Copying 10 advertisements from a newspaper was not an infringement because the ads were not copyrightable. Federal Judge Richard M. Duncan ruled in Kansas City, Mo. However, he awarded a newspaper publisher $4,000 because a news article and cartoon had been reprinted by another publisher.

Casper, Wyo., has outlawed the giving of trade stamps. Stamp companies will attack the legality of the action.

A man injured in horse play at work is entitled to compensation, the Michigan Supreme Court has ruled.

Behind Scenes Look At Doings

By LYNN NISBET

WAIT AWHILE — Billy Joe Patton, North Carolina's famed golfer, was among the guests of Governor and Mrs. Hodges at the kick-off luncheon for "See North Carolina Month." He also is a warm personal friend of the Governor. In politics he is a staunch Republican and a strong supporter of Congressman Jonas. The Governor knew for well how to take Billy Joe's invitation to "Wait him at Morganton—after November 4." "Some of your friends up there," he said, "would be just as happy if you stayed out of that district until after the election." Previously Governor Hodges had told newsmen he expected to give all the help possible to David Clark, Democratic nominee in the district.

PEACH WEEK — This is "Peach Week" in North Carolina by official designation of Governor Hodges. Georgia Belles and Elbertas are ripe in the sandhills, and these are the most popular varieties for fresh eating. Georgia and South Carolina growers claim their peaches will hold up better for long shipments and are more desirable for canning. The sunshine reflecting from the white sand gives the North Carolina Sandhills peaches a more delicate texture and a brighter color, enhancing their desirability for fresh peach use.

There is some question about the ancestral derivation of the peach. It is believed to have originated in central Asia, and there are many people who insist that the fruit which tempted Adam in the Garden of Eden was not an apple, but a luscious ancestor of the Sandhills peach.

TRAVEL — Voit Gilmore, President of the Travel Council, did a little bit of quick figuring and came up with the conclusion that the dozen or so people who came to Raleigh to kick off the See North Carolina program had themselves traveled an aggregate of more than 2,600 miles to attend the luncheon. He said that was setting a good example to other North Carolinians on in-state travel.

FORUM — Goldboro Rotary Club is planning a forum of state government for sometime in October, with nominees for the General Assembly in Wayne and neighboring counties as guests of honor. State Treasurer Edwin Gill has accepted an invitation to speak. Purpose of the affair is to get the legislators and their constituents acquainted with each other as well as to discuss some of the issues that will face the next General Assembly.

The Kinston Chamber of Commerce has sponsored similar gatherings embracing a somewhat broader area before each legislature for a number of years. During the time that E.C. (Deacon) Greene of Asheville was a recognized leader in the Democratic party, he sponsored a big get-together and rally of legislators and others from 15 or 20 mountain counties for a barbecue at Asheville's recreation park.

No effort is made at any of these events to line up votes or get commitments on policy. Mostly they are good fellowship social gatherings. They do serve, however, to inform prospective legislators on some of the matters they must pass upon later and often prove that there is closer community of interest among neighboring counties than had been suspected.

around at such a rate that they have to come back home to get rested. Or they go to summer hotels and because the food is expensive, they try to get their money's worth and eat until they are surfeited and at least half sick. Some spend the vacation period with a cocktail glass in their hand — and that's bad, of course. Still others keep right on working at tasks which leave them exhausted.

If you are going on vacation, then vacate. Empty your mind of everything that afflicts it. The hotel keepers will empty your pocket books, but get even with them by having a vacation worth all it costs.

Accepts New Staff Position

MRS. JANE A. SMITH... new face at the Sheppard Memorial Library. (Photo by Peggy Smith)

Mrs. Jane A. Smith, a native of Mount Olive, has accepted the new position as assistant librarian in charge of circulation on the Sheppard Memorial Library staff, announced Miss Elizabeth Copeland, librarian, today.

While attending East Carolina College, she worked at the local library during the past three summers. Mrs. Smith received a B. S. degree in English and Library Science upon graduating in June.

Her original interest in library work began when she started working parttime during college. When she entered college, her majors were English and History. After she dealt with people, this new interest came alive and she changed her major.

"Miss Copeland helped me a lot in deciding to change to this type of work because she showed me how interesting it could be," Mrs. Smith commented.

"Working with the public and being able to meet their demands," she said, is the most rewarding part of her job.

Florence, S. C. (AP)—With indications of a record break in size, the tobacco markets of the eastern belt opened this morning. Low prices in comparison with last year appeared to be the rule on all the markets.

Fairmont, N. C.—Fairmont and Lumberton will not average over 12 cents—other markets no better. Opening prices today average about 20 to 25 per cent lower than last season. Quality good. Practically everything offered for sale first curings.

Woman-Haters In America?

By DOROTHY ROE

Husbands, sons and lovers lead harrowing lives, in the opinion of many male critics. After reading a file of current periodicals, one might conclude that America is developing a race of woman-haters.

The U. S. female is accused consecutively of making sissies out of her sons, of dominating her husband, of driving her menfolk to early graves, of demanding minks, automobiles and diamonds in return for her affection, of idling away her days in beauty shops and at bridge clubs, of being spoiled, selfish and generally unbearable.

Comes now John Fischer, editor in-chief of Harper's magazine, who finds a new bone to pick, in an article entitled "The Non-sexual Behavior of the Human Female." He says all the Kinsey reports on sexual behavior are a waste of time, because most adults know all about such things anyway. It's the other traits of females which deserve study, in his opinion.

All women are deciduous, says Fischer. That is, they shed gloves, lipsticks, handbags and handkerchiefs like a tree sheds leaves, and men must spend a large part of their lives picking up after them.

This observation is no doubt well taken. Women often do have the habit of leaving a trail of small objects in their wake. But what about men?

Any wife will testify that much of her day is spent gathering up her husband's socks from under the bed or on top of the television set, removing his soiled shirts from the closet floor and putting them in the laundry hamper, collecting assorted trousers and shorts from the corners of closet doors and hanging them where they belong, collecting the cuff links, lighters, matches, empty cigarette packages, soiled handkerchiefs and tie pins he sheds about the house as he makes his way from the front door to the bedroom to change clothes when he gets home from work.

Yet women keep on marrying these untidy males, and men keep on courting these deciduous women.

And the reason must be that they love each other, despite surveys, statistics and editorial heckling.

FOOD OUTDOORS

Here's an idea for that old lamp shade that is packed away. Strip off the old material, and recover the frame with white or unbleached muslin. Then use the shade to cover and protect platters of food when eating outdoors. Tacking the muslin to the frame is a quick and easy job—long basting stitches or overcasting will suffice at the bottom. Then, finish the top with a casing for a drawstring—so it can be removed for washing after use.

ON THE HOUSE

By JOHN O.B. WALLACE

SIMPLE STEPS for replacing a broken window are shown in these sketches. They include (1) removal of old putty, (2) measuring the opening for glass, (3) applying putty, (4) installing the new pane, and (5) final shaping of the putty.

A minor tribulation in the life of the home handyman is the occasional necessity to replace a broken window pane. Don't fret. With proper procedure and a little know-how, the job can be a simple one.

Here's a step by step plan recommended by experts:

First, wear heavy gloves to protect your hands when removing fragments of the broken pane. If some of the fragments are stubborn, tap them out with a hammer.

Use a small chisel or a heavy screwdriver to remove the old putty. If the putty is hard and tough, place the chisel at an angle and tap it with a small hammer but take care not to gouge the sash.

Pull out the glazier's points with a pair of pliers. In metal sash, remove the clips or unscrew the metal beading or strips. Once the old putty is removed, paint the wooden sash with linseed oil or a light paint. The new putty then will adhere better and will not dry out and crumble.

Use a rule or a steel tape, not a cloth tape, when measuring the dimensions of the opening for the new glass. Measure the width and the height in several places to compensate for any irregularities.

Have the new pane cut about one eighth of an inch smaller than the vertical and horizontal measurements of the opening to make the installation easier. For small, multi-paned sash, single strength window glass is usually adequate but for metal sash and larger panes buy double strength glass.

Apply a cushion of putty to the bottom, top and sides of the frame before placing the piece of glass in position. This helps to insure a weather-tight seal when the glass is set.

Press the new pane gently but firmly into the cushion of putty. Hold the glass in place and press or drive the glazier's points into the wood with the side of a screwdriver or chisel.

Do the long sides first. In the case of metal sash, attach the clips, beading or glazing strips with a screwdriver. Two clips to a side usually are enough for small panes but larger panes should have three or four to a side. Be sure the glass is held firmly in the frame by the points and that it forms a weather-tight seal with the cushion of putty.

Knead the putty to a smooth consistency and roll strips of it between the palms of your hands to the thickness of a lead pencil. Lay the strips end to end around the sides of the sash, completing one side at a time.

Use a putty knife to press the putty firmly into position, then smooth it out, sloping the putty to the outer edge of the frame. Cut off any excess putty with each stroke, and press extra putty into any small holes or depressions.

Make sure that the putty does not extend further on the glass than the edge of the inside frame.

A light application of water with a soft paint brush will remove all putty smudges from the glass. Or if you prefer, allow the putty to dry and remove the smudges from the glass with turpentine.

Allow the putty to set thoroughly, then paint it the same color as the sash.

Van Cliburn Conquered In Hollywood Bowl, Too

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Van Cliburn has come and conquered Hollywood, just as he did the Soviet Union.

Last week the youthful Texas pianist played an unprecedented two successive performances at the Hollywood Bowl. The concerts drew a total of 38,000 customers, and Van was paid $10,000 for each performance.

The critics were swayed too. They raved for Cliburn's rendition of Tchaikovsky's concerto, which he played in winning the Soviet contest. But they were unrestrained in the enthusiasm for his Rachmaninoff D Minor Concerto the second night.

Commented Albert Goldberg of the Los Angeles Times: "... A magnificent performance of what is probably the most difficult of all concertos."

Before departing for a New York concert at Lewisohn Stadium, Van paused to reflect on his meteoric career. Does he feel the danger of becoming a flash personality?

"Very definitely," he replied.

"There are flash personalities in any line of endeavor, and I've got to see that it doesn't happen to me.

"For that reason, I have tried to cancel everything for the next two months. I've got to get off the treadmill that I've been on, exciting though it has been, and devote some thought to my future.

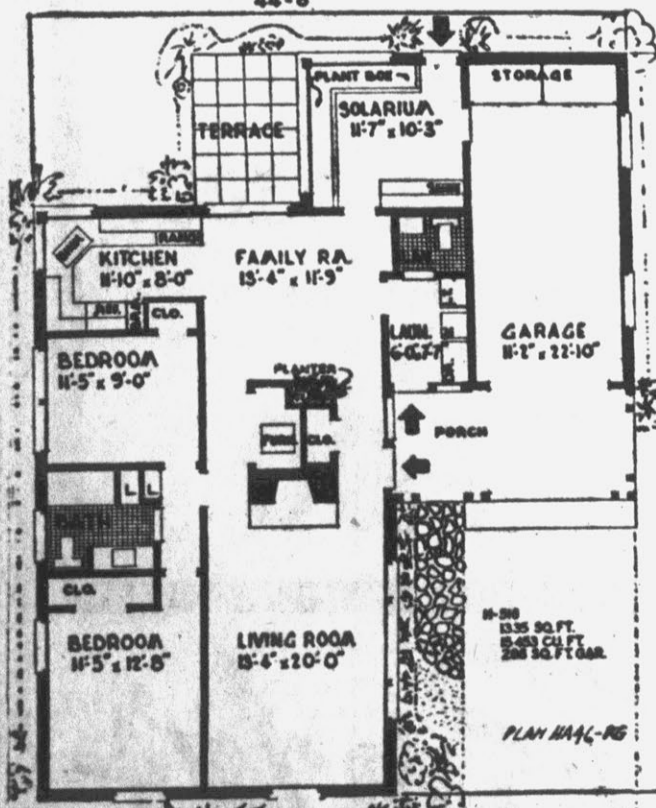

"You can't keep driving all the time. As somebody said, you need some time to twiddle your thumbs and gather your forces. I plan to devote at least seven days to nothing but twiddling my thumbs."

Though he was proud of his Bowl fee, Van said he wasn't overly interested in money.

"That's not what I'm after," he said. "There are so many things more important than money. Money is actually the easiest thing to achieve. You've got to plan for the future. You can't put juice back in a squeezed lemon."

The pianist declared his affection for California on his first visit here, but added that his future dates preclude returning for a year and a half. Next year he expects to spend up to three months touring the Soviet Union, including Siberia, and two months on a tour that may take him to Portugal, Yugoslavia, Poland, Bulgaria and Romania.

Nasser Is Hero-Of-The-Moment For Many Arabs; No Substitute In West

SECOND IN SERIES

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Scholarly young Arab intellectuals speak in clear, clipped British accents of the coming rout of the Western foreigner.

Well-heeled young sheiks in immaculate white robes and kaffiyahs mutter sullen protests against the feudalism which is the source of their wealth.

Palestine refugees cling to their tin-roofed shacks and dream of revenge.

And all look speculatively toward Cairo. For the present, at any rate, Gamal Abdel Nasser is their hero.

This is not because he is Gamal Abdel Nasser. It is because they are in search of a hero. Nasser will do until a better one comes along.

Nasserism is something which grew out of international events, inexorably pushing the Arabs East. The United Arab Republic's President still has enormous potential for good or mischief. But developments this year have cooled the ardor of some of his followers.

It is for the West now to recognize that Nasser is only a symbol to most nationalists. His appeal is to a small but powerful intellectual class which blames the West for its woes. It sees Nasser as a symbol of reviving Arab power which one day will crush imperialism and colonialism. It blames these for its sense of inferiority and backwardness in a modern world.

The peasants of Egypt, the lonely Bedouin nomads of the Arab deserts, the heavily burdened laborers of Iraq know little of politics. If they respond to Nasser, it is because Arab intellectuals have persuaded them to do so with the poetically cadenced violence of emotional propaganda.

The masses will not make the Arabs' future. The intellectuals will.

Nasser was a spur to revolution in Iraq. But this did not necessarily mean Iraqis in the future would follow him blindly. They won't, if they have something more promising to follow.

Some told me they were not so sure as they were two years ago that all Nasser stands for is right. The swiftness with which Egypt swallowed Syria shook their faith in their hero. This was not the sort of Arab unity they had envisioned.

Nasser is a god to revenge among Palestine refugees. But even these will not follow Nasser blindly. They follow him so long as he represents their hopes for revenge.

The sleek young sheiks admire Nasser for the moment. Their admiration stems from fury at the spectacle of their own countries still mired in centuries-old feudal backwardness in the midst of oil riches.

I talked with representatives of all these groups—in Iraq, in Saudi Arabia, in fabulously wealthy Kuwait, in Egypt. Everywhere it was Nasser the symbol rather than Nasser the man—the solitary beacon in what to the young intellectual was a sea of darkness.

In the sun-scorched British protectorate of Kuwait, these young men live in a luxury unheard of in other Arab areas. They are assured of jobs, housing, education for their children, everything Kuwait's oil-made cornucopia can pour out to them. Yet they are unhappy. More than anything, they told me, they want Arab national self-respect. If Nasser represented that, they would follow him.

In baffling Saudi Arabia, Western-educated and rich young Bedouins are affected by Egyptian propaganda and have persuaded themselves some of their oil riches might better be used for Arabism than for perpetuating the royal house and its innumerable princes.

In Egypt, the little middle class concentrated in the cities is unhappy. Egypt's economy is in woe.

Many in the middle class, which makes and breaks regimes in Arab countries, feel disillusion.

The impression one gets, after an extensive fact-finding tour in an area where facts are scarce, is that Nasser need not be the only answer. However illogical they may appear to Westerners, the yearnings of these young men have important bearing on the West's future in the Middle East. Thus far the West has offered nothing to take the place of Nasser and a movement which meshed national aspirations with extremist Nasserism.

Tomorrow: Nasser's Own Headaches.

Knew Them All, That's Enough

DALLAS (AP) — A little girl, about 2, approached singer Johnny Ray as he sunned beside a swimming pool. She wanted his autograph.

While he was writing, she asked importantly: "Do you know Elma Johnson?"

Ray confessed later it sounded like someone he should recall, and he relayed the query to several fellow members here in the cast of "Guys and Dolls."

"No," he admitted finally. "Who is she?"

"That's our maid," piped the youngster. "She knows all the Hollywood stars."

Probe Reported Extortion Try

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP) — Johnston County officers and SBI agents continued an investigation today in what was described as an attempt to extort $100,000 from Mrs. Percy Flowers.

Johnston County Sheriff B. A. Henry said Mrs. Flowers, wife of an alleged bootleg whisky baron now serving a term in federal prison for contempt of court, told officers that a young man came to her home Sunday night. The youth handed her a note which said that if she would give the bearer $100,000 her daughter, Delma, would not be harmed, Mrs. Flowers related.

The youth later fled, she added, after Jimmie Flowers, her brother-in-law, suggested that they go visit the sheriff.

'SURVIVAL STOCKPILE

ODCM Has Vast Supplies In 'Bank' If U. S. Is Hit

One of the nation's largest "bank accounts" against the possibility of enemy attack is the Office of Defense and Civilian Mobilization's stockpile of strategic materials.

Stored away in 43 ODCM warehouses across the United States are about $225,000,000 worth of medical and engineering supplies—enough to aid millions of Americans after an attack.

MEDICAL STOCKPILES include 1,923 civil defense emergency hospital units and back-up supplies estimated sufficient for the emergency medical care of 4 1/2 million persons for three weeks.

pumps, generators, purifiers, storage tanks, pipe and similar items. To assure that this survival "hardware" will be located where it would be most needed after an attack, ODCM has chosen warehouse sites convenient to but outside the nation's 92 critical targets.

Among these storage sites are three "general reserve" warehouses with stockpiles designed to supply any section of the country. Most unusual of these reserve storage areas is the vast underground warehouse in a converted limestone mine near Neosho, Mo.

IN THIS HUGE privately-owned cave, shared by ODCM with the stockpiles of industrial concerns, is 14 acres of space served by special automatic sprinkling and ventilating equipment.

TYPICAL UNIT of civil defense stockpiled engineering equipment showing the pumps, generators, water purifiers, and some of the miles of flexible-coupled pipe which could be used after an attack to provide a stricken community with pure water. Some of this "hardware," grouped in "Ten-Mile Units" to service ten miles of pipe each, already has been used in natural disasters to pump out flooded areas, and to bring in and purify water for towns with dry reservoirs. (ODCM Photo)

DISASTERS, natural or man-made, call for immediate stocks of medical supplies and other equipment for furnishing safe drinking water, electricity or other essentials in order to save lives and aid the victims. Civil defense stockpiles of liters and other supplies are located in 43 fully-manned U. S. warehouses for use in times of national emergency or major natural disaster on presidential approval when other supply sources are exhausted. (American Red Cross Photo)

Northampton's School Records Are Examined

JACKSON, N.C. (AP)—Solicitor Ernest R. Tyler and SBI agents today examined records in the office of Northampton County Schools Superintendent N. L. Turner.

The solicitor told Judge J. Paul Frizzelle yesterday that inspection of certain bills and papers in the superintendent's office was necessary before bills of indictment can be drawn in the alleged embezzlement of Northampton County school funds.

Julian Aillsbrook of Roanoke Rapids, attorney for Turner, said the documents would be available in the office but would not be surrendered for removal.

Tyler has stated that Turner, 59, a veteran school official, would be named in a number of bills of indictment to be presented to the Northampton County grand jury.

The bills had been expected to go to the grand jury at the current term of court, but Tyler indicated yesterday there might be a delay until a court term in November. In any event, trial of the cases is not expected until a later term of court.

Balked in efforts to obtain the records from Turner, the solicitor yesterday asked Judge Frizzelle for a court order directing the superintendent to turn over the documents. As recently as last Friday, Tyler said, SBI agents had been denied access to the records.

While the matter was under discussion, Aillsbrook agreed to allow the solicitor and SBI agents to go over the papers in the superintendent's office.

The amount of money involved has not been disclosed, although Tyler has said it appeared to be "many thousands of dollars." Turner, who lives at Rich Square, had denied any wrongdoing and predicted he would prove his innocence in court.

Dedication Has Milky Flavor

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP)—Hardin County Judge H. H. Tabb pleaded for temperance in the use of alcohol as he delivered the dedication speech for the opening of the county's new jail.

Drunkness, he said, is the reason many jails are filled. Then the judge smashed a bottle on the wall dedicating the building. It contained milk.

BY FLIP OF COIN HARRISBURG (AP)—When two judges are elected to a state court at the same time they must flip a coin to decide who will be the boss. Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride has decided. Actually, his ruling gave legal status to a longstanding practice of determining the senior or presiding judge.

DEEP WITHIN a mountain in southwestern Missouri, freight cars await unloading of civil defense equipment to be stockpiled there for use in case of enemy attack. The siding, extending 600 feet into the mountain, can accommodate 16 railroad cars simultaneously. The Office of Defense and Civilian Mobilization facility, part of a limestone mine, contains a vast array of medical supplies and "hardware" to be used in recovery operations in the event of an attack on the United States. RESOLUTIONS OF THE GREENVILLE ROTARY CLUB UPON THE OCCASION OF THE DEATH OF J. HAMPTON THOMAS

In view of the recent death of J. Hampton Thomas, a member of the Greenville Rotary Club, the following resolutions are proposed:

Whereas, he was a Rotarian in Raleigh prior to coming to Greenville to live, and was a member of the Greenville Club until his recent demise;

Whereas, he was regular and faithful in his attendance, creating an enviable record in this respect, a trait highly valued by Rotary;

Whereas, his innate friendliness contributed to the enrichment of the club's fellowship and endeared him to a host of friends in and out of Rotary;

Whereas, his geniality was never marred by poor taste in thought or behavior;

Whereas, the universal use of his nickname, "Tommy," by all who knew him, whether casually or as a Rotarian, did not at any point compromise his dignity and poise;

Therefore, be it resolved, that in view of the passing of our fellow member, we have sustained the loss of a fine gentleman and great friend whose presence and talents will be greatly missed by all those left to carry on in the fine tradition set by "Tommy."

Therefore, be it further resolved, that in view of the great loss to the Greenville Rotary Club, these resolutions of respect and regret be spread on the permanent records of this Club, a copy be printed in the DAILY REFLECTOR, and a copy sent to his widow.

LOST HER TEMPER

RIGBY, Idaho (AP)—Mrs. Jacque Cole, 18, says she had an argument with her husband while in the family car. She told Sheriff Howard Shaffer her temper got the best of her and she dove out the window, leaving Cole at the wheel. The car was moving at about 50 miles an hour, Shaffer said. Mrs. Cole was treated for cuts and bruises and then released.

Brainy Bird's Luxury Nest Wins A Mate

By BILL SINNOTT
BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP) — "Whose a bird-brain?" There's this sparrow, you see, and that's the question he seems to ask as he gazes down on the world of people from his home in a copper light fixture.

The glass of the fixture, hanging on the side of a Bluefield office building, was smashed some time ago.

Not long afterward the little fellow moved in and set up bachelor quarters.

His doubts about whether to stay single or not were ended when he lost his heart to a cute female sparrow who fluttered by one day.

The feeling was nuptial, especially after he showed her around his apartment.

She moved in and together they feathered their nest between the top of the fixture and the light bulb.

During the day, their apartment is heated by solar radiation induced by the copper roof. When the sun goes down, the light goes on and provides warmth all night. The light also furnishes electric incubation for Mama Sparrow's eggs, allowing her plenty of time for worm breaks while her old-fashioned girl friends must egg-sit.

A light rainfall fills the bottom of the fixture with plenty of drinking water while the penthouse apartment remains cozy and dry. When there's a heavy rain, the bottom serves as a sunken bathtub for the love birds to splash about in.

A sliver of broken glass across the base of the fixture makes a fine sun porch.

Solar radiation, electric lighting, running water, electric incubation, sunken bathtub and sun porch.

"Bird-brain! How many people-brains have it so good?" asks Papa Sparrow.

A BRAINY BIRD—This chipper sparrow feathered his nest in the luxury of this copper light fixture and promptly won a mate.

More Politicians Needed: Waynick

ATLANTA (AP) — What the country needs is more and better politicians, including men from the business world, says a North Carolina Democratic leader.

Capus Waynick, North Carolina adjutant general, told an Emory University seminar last night that "The safety of our nation and our way of life depends, in a great part" upon more active political participation by more citizens.

"We can have rule by the majority in this country but we do not have," Waynick declared, who take the trouble to vote, and the indifference of many of our businessmen combine to leave politics often in the hands of a limited number of manipulators.

"This is dangerous," he asserted. The former U.S. ambassador under President Truman said businessmen and other citizens are awakening to the fact that failure to participate "has left them politically impotent."

The realization has brought a change in attitude, Waynick declared. "There exists a definite effort among big businessmen to reduce political illiteracy and to prompt their greater personal participation in the political life of the country," he explained.

Participation must include an active role in party affairs, he emphasized, and not "merely writing a check" for a campaign contribution.

"Those who keep their eye on the precinct meeting are those who ultimately determine who you shall vote for for president," he advised.

Taxes levied by the federal government make it virtually a partner in business, Waynick pointed out. "You are unwise from a bread and butter standpoint if you are sitting in the seat of the scorer of politics rather than taking a full part in this business of determining who shall govern, and, by proper means, how they shall govern," Waynick said.

All His Spending Wasn't Enough

DENVER (AP) — Elvires Martinez, 21, paid $3,800 for a hard-top automobile, then decided it wasn't low enough to the ground. He spent $600 more at a garage to take four inches off the top and lower the body six inches.

The first time Martinez drove his reconstructed car, a policeman stopped him and ordered the car hauled to the police pound. Not enough windshield space, the policeman ruled.

Wants No Favors From Defendant

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Pleased at his treatment on a minor traffic charge, motorist O. Elmer Diebold told Traffic Judge Tom Bergin:

"I'd like to give you a nice dish of strawberries from my garden, or some sweet corn when it's ripe."

"Heavens no," declared his honor, "the grand jury might get after me."

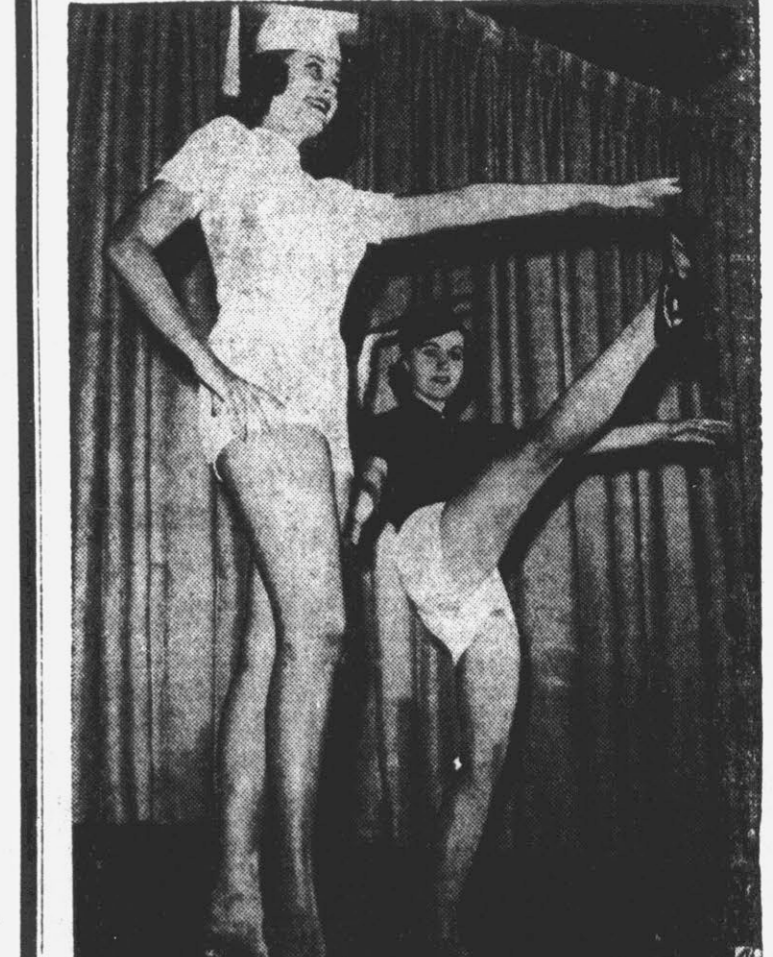

Well-Aged Wood In Wisconsin

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Anyone looking for well-aged wood can find it just off Nicolet Road near here.

Recent excavations uncovered remnants of a spruce forest beneath several tons of clay soil. The forest was covered when the last glacier pushed across Wisconsin. That was 11,400 years ago.

FAMILIAR SIGN

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Officer M. W. Hagler thought there was something familiar about the sign the three men were carrying up a midtown street. He called county police, who picked up the trio and the battered sign. It read "No Parking" and it came from the county police parking lot.

Fast-Pitch Softball Tourney Going Into Second Day

Large Crowd Witnesses Opening-Night Ballgames

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor
Almost 500 fans turned out for the opening night action of the Northeastern District Fast-Pitch Softball Tournament at Guy Smith Stadium last night to witness four ball games.

In the first round of action for the double-elimination tourney saw Carolina Dairies whip New Bern's International Paper Company 8-0; the Roanoke Romanos (topple Greenville Parts and Metals by a 4-0 score; the Graniters edge Maola of New Bern 8-7; and Rocky Mount's Pepsi-Cola club trample the Maola Greenspots 15-7 before being halted by fog.

The grandstand at the stadium was filled to capacity at various intervals throughout the evening. The play started at 8:45 and stopped at 12:45.

After last night's results, the pairings for tonight's action will be as follows:
6:45 - Coffman's vs. Carolina Dairies
8:00 and 9:15 - losers vs losers of first night's play

For The Fans
Last night was strictly for the fans. Those who turned out to see softball saw just about everything that can be seen on a softball field from a no-hit ball game to homers, to double plays, to post-ponement by fog.

In the first ball game, Carolina Dairies used the strong hurling arm of Bill McHallich to stymie the International Paper Company 8-0. McHallich turned in a no-hitter, striking out 13 of the 18 batters who faced him and walking only one man. Besides wrapping up the game from the mound, McHallich also blasted a homerun in the fifth inning to insure his victory.

Six men on the Dairies club racked up hits. Hall, Warren, Moyer, and McHallich had one each. Tripp punched out two.

Scoring came in the third, fourth, and fifth innings for the Dairies team. The game was stopped in the fifth after McHallich's homer due to a ruling which states if a team has an eight-run lead by the fifth inning, the game must be automatically awarded to that team.

The losing hurler was White. The defending champion Roanoke Romanos galloped over Greenville Parts and Metals in the second game, 4-0. Romano hurler Chippard gave up only one hit in picking up the victory. He fanned 12 batters and walked none. Odum hurled for the losers and limited the Romanos to only four hits. He fanned five and walked six. The Romanos picked up runs in the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth innings, getting one run each stanza, to outlast the Parts and Metals club.

Outland got the only hit of the night for the losers, a double in the fourth inning. Myrick, of the Romanos, got two hits, including a homerun in the third inning. Dick Jones, and Simms got the others for the winners.

A Tight One
The third game of the evening was perhaps the tightest one of the series. The Greenville Graniters edged New Bern's Maola team by a score of 8-7. Greenville punched out 12 hits, while the losers got 11. Both sides blasted homers. The game went nine innings.

In the fourth inning, the first Greenville scoring was accounted for. The Greenville club notched three runs on a batch of errors, walks, and hits. New Bern got one run in the third, and two more in the fourth and the game was tied.

In the fifth, Greenville went scoreless, while the Maola club punched out two more runs on a homer by Manning. That made it 5-3. In the sixth, Maola added another, making it 6-3.

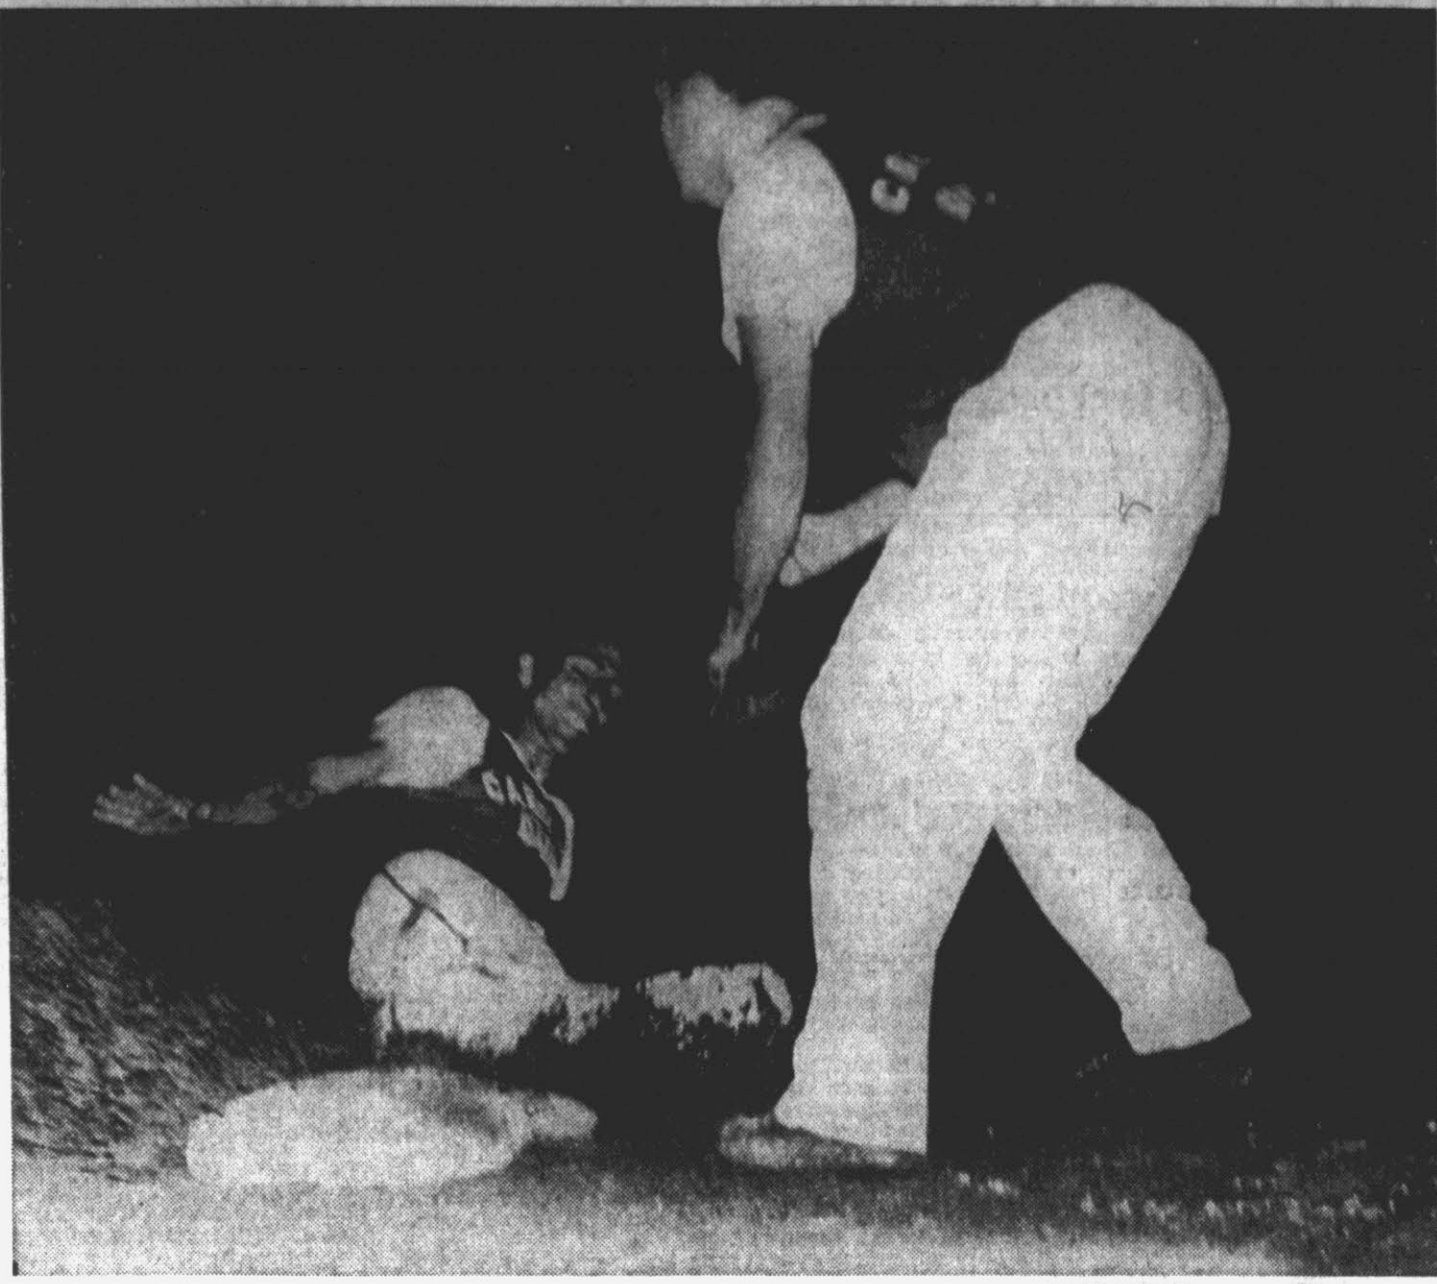

The Riddick smashed a homer with two on base in the bottom of that inning, making it 6-5, and the Graniters picked up still another on an error by the Maola Shortstop, tying the game again. Neither club scored in the seventh. The Maola team added a run in the eighth, but Riddick came back with another long home run in the bottom of that frame to tie it again, 7-7.

In the ninth, Greenville took the game on a double by Jerry Phillips, an error, and a fielder's choice. Riddick and Tommy Lupton got three hits each to pace the winners.

Fogged Out
The final game of the night, between the Pepsi-Cola club of Rocky Mount and the New Bern Maola Greenspots, was fogged out after the fourth inning.

At the time the game was stopped, Pepsi-Cola had a 15-7 lead and the clock read 12:45. The Pepsi runs were gained mainly by walks, errors and only hit hits. Moss was the winning hurler.

Coach Paul Bryant's football teams have won 91 games, lost 39 and tied 8 in the last 13 seasons.

SLIDING IN—Tom Boyd, Carolina Dairies softball player bites the dust on a slide into third base in last night's Fast-Pitch Tournament action. Boyd's club notched an 8-0 no-hit victory over International Paper of New Bern. (Reflector Sports Photo)

Venturi Keeps Rolling Along

By JERRY LISKA
CHICAGO (AP)—San Francisco's Ken Venturi, a professional of 20 months, carries his top swag of $9,000 from the Chicago Open into title defenses the next two weeks in the Milwaukee and St. Paul Opens.

Venturi, the leader all the way, squeaked to a one-stroke triumph yesterday in the $50,000 Chicago Open which replaced the currentlv defunct Tam O'Shanter golf show in this precinct. Venturi now has earned more than $60,000 as a pro.

Venturi shot an 8-under-par 272 route performance at Genealog Country Club which beat out veterans Julius Boros and Jack Burke for top money. Venturi closed with a two-over-par 72 after firing rounds of 65-67-68.

Boros' chance to spill Venturi fizzled when he missed an 18-foot putt by inches on the 72nd green where Venturi took a cautious boy-five to win by a stroke over Burke and the earlier finishing Boros.

The veteran Boros slammed the best closing round, a 65, to tie with Burke at 273 for a $3,900 take each from second and third money.

Two strokes off the pace at 274, three players were deadlocked—Bob Rosburg, J. C. Goosie and South African Gary Player, each collected $2,333.

The tourney's comeback kid, Bill Casper Jr., was next at 275, good for $1,900. Eighth place and $1,700 were captured by Marv Furgol at 276, while Ted Kroil was next with 277 for $1,600.

After that the field was closely bunched. U.S. Open champion Tommy Bolt gained a four-place tie for 18th place at 279. Tied for 30th with six others was the year's leading money winner, Arnold Palmer, at 283, good for $256.

Venturi's earnings hoisted him from fifth to third in money winners for the year with $30,870. Palmer has $37,156 and Billy Casper is second with $30,870.

MONDAY'S FIGHTS

PRESQUE ISLE, Maine — Willie Pep, 128, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Pancho Carmona, 130, Puerto Rico, 10.

MANILA—Dommy Ursua, 116½, Manila, stopped Toshiro Tanaka, 112 3-4, Tokyo, 9.

NEW ORLEANS — Freddie Little, 158½, Bogalusa, La., knocked out Joey Gleason, 168, New Orleans 4.

All-Star Cagers Clash Tonight At Greensboro

GREENSBORO (AP)—Lanky high school stars from western counties will seek to even the series at five-all in the 10th annual North Carolina All-Star East-West basketball game here tonight.

The East grabbed a 5-4 edge in the competition last year with a 63-59 win.

West Coach Sam Moir of Mount Airy will start with a squad averaging 6-3 tonight.

At the pivot will be Gene Compton of Mebane, 6-6 center who dumped in nearly 30 points a game during the past season. Moir has picked 6-5 John Eggleston of Morehead High in Leaksville-Spray-Draper and 6-4 Arthur Whisnant of Hilderbran for the forwards.

Rounding out the starting lineup are High Point's Jimmy Adams and Yogi Potet of Hendersonville at guard. East Coach Bo Farley of Greenville will have the tallest man on both squads at center, 6-8 John Key of Durham. A pair of top shooters from Wilmington, Ronnie White and Jackie Bullard, are expected to start at guard.

More height and shooting ability will be provided at forward by 6-5 Jimmy Whitfield and 6-3 Billy Hubbard of Raleigh.

The game is a feature of the North Carolina Coaches Assn's annual coaching clinic, which continued its basketball phase with Kentucky's Adolph Rupp doing the lecturing.

Rupp told the coaches yesterday his biggest problem in building championship teams "is to eliminate the individualist. If you don't curb individuality, you'll get beat."

"Our team this past season (which won the national championship) is a good example," Rupp said. "I'll bet that 10 years from now there will be rabid Kentucky fans who won't be able to name a player on the starting five."

Lenny Matthews Likes To Fight Most Of All

NEW YORK (AP)—Undeclared Lenny Matthews likes jazz, golf and other sports but most of all he loves to fight.

Oddly enough it was a suspension that prevented him from fighting that made him an outstanding lightweight prospect. So says Manager Tony Graziano.

Graziano explained the suspension after the 19-year old Philadelphia knocked out seasoned Steve Ward of Hartford, Conn., in 1:23 of the ninth round of a television 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

The victory boosted the clouting youngster's record to 13-0 including 12 knockouts. Only veteran Henry "Pappy" Gault went the distance with Lenny. Pappy dropped an eight-round decision.

Matthews, making his debut as a main eventer and as a TV headliner, handed the 24-year old Ward a thorough shelling. He finally felled him and knocked him out in the ninth with a jolting left-right combination to the jaw.

"The kid loves to fight better than anything else," said Graziano. "He falsified his birth certificate when he was under age so he could box in the amateurs."

Pennsylvania Commissioner (Alfred) Klein found out about it and suspended him from boxing for a year and a half—from 17 to 18½. "The time wasn't wasted" added Graziano. "It turned out to be an advantage since he got sound schooling in the gym. It made him a better fighter. He also felt frustrated and couldn't wait until he was eligible. That came last Nov. 7 and he began to mow everyone down."

Giants Still Threatening Braves; Pirates Moving In

Pirates Cooled Off Braves By 4-3 Yesterday

Maybe the Milwaukee Braves can't start counting their World Series money after all. The Giants are still hanging around and a new challenger has appeared in the Pittsburgh Pirates.

After polishing off San Francisco in a four-game weekend series, the way appeared clear for the Braves to take the short road home to another pennant in the National League. It doesn't look so easy now.

The Pirates, who had won 10 of their last 12 previous games, not counting two a series and a game, rode into County Stadium Monday night and proceeded to cool off the Braves 4-3.

Roberto Clemente's ninth-inning homer with the score tied hung a first defeat on Juan Pizarro. The Braves' six-game winning streak was broken and their lead over the Giants was cut to four games.

San Francisco whipped Chicago 6-4 in an afternoon game. The Pirates, fresh from a series sweep over St. Louis, all by shutouts, are only six games behind the Braves and are challenging the Giants.

Willie Mays finally hit a home run, his first since July 2, and added two other hits to push his batting average to .339, a second place tie with Stan Musial of St. Louis, four points behind the Phil's Richie Ashburn.

Musial snapped out of his slump with two doubles as St. Louis blanked for 33 innings, nosed out Los Angeles 3-2 on some brilliant pitching by Larry Jackson. The Cardinal righthander struck out 12, the last five in a row, and the last 17 Dodgers in succession.

Gene Greene's home run in the sixth broke a 2-2 tie and ended the Cards' seven-game losing streak. As a result of the victory, St. Louis moved up a slot to seventh, dumping the Dodgers into the cellar.

In exhibition games, Cincinnati lost the second half of their home-and-home set with Cleveland 2-1 in 13 innings. Philadelphia lost 5-4 to the Washington Senators in the Hall of Fame game at Cooperstown, N.Y.

In the only American League game, the New York Yankees came from behind to hand Baltimore its eighth straight setback 9-4. Mickey Mantle hit his 29th homer and Bill Skowron his 11th as every starting Yank hit safely. Ryne Duren allowed no hits in the last three innings after replacing Don Larsen.

Yanks Rapidly Approach 1941 Flag-Winning Mark

New Deal Cleaners In Slow-Pitch Tourney

ROCKY MOUNT — New Deal Cleaners, last year's slow-pitch softball champions of the Eastern District Tournament played here, will again enter the annual event with the first game slated to take place tonight.

East Carolina athletes compose the local team which will encounter Huck's Contractors of Roanoke Rapids tonight at 10 p.m. in a seven-inning contest. If the locals should win tonight they will go into the winners bracket and will not play until Thursday night. If they should lose they of course enter the losers bracket and will have to play again tomorrow night.

Twenty-one teams are entered in the tournament and it is a combination single and double elimination affair. There were so many teams entered that drawings were held for single elimination for ten of the twenty-one teams. Luckily for the New Deal outfit they came out with a double elimination seeding.

The winner of this tournament will advance to the regionals at Reidsville during the latter part of August. The tournament at Rocky Mount will run from the present until next Tuesday night when the final games are to be played.

Intramural Players
New Deal is composed entirely of East Carolina intramural players. John Alford, head coach of Bunn High School of Bunn, N. C., will be the playing manager of the fifteen man squad. Composing the rest of the squad are Bill Brooks, Bill Hooper, Burney Stevens, Bud Williams, Clint LeGette, Bill Boyd, Bob Owens, George Turner, John Yancey, Sonny Walker, Ken Bur-

MONDAY'S STARS
BATTING:
Roberto Clemente, Pirates — Hit home run in ninth with score tied for 4-3 victory over league-leading Milwaukee.
PITCHING:

gers, Joel Long, Kelly Byrum, and Bill Dean.

Since the team is made up entirely of college players who will have other educational commitments after the current summer session at East Carolina, if the team is fortunate enough to again win the tournament at Rocky Mount as it did last year, it will decline the invitation to Reidsville.

As of Tuesday morning, the Yanks had 50 games to play. Second-place Boston, 15 games behind, had 52 to go. If the Red Sox win them all, the Yanks could clinch it by taking 36 games.

In fact, a 25-25 split by the Yanks would make it necessary for the Red Sox to take 42 of 52 just to get a tie.

The Orioles were off to a fast start before they sunk to their eighth straight defeat. Arnold Portocarrero, one of Manager Paul Richard's retreat jobs, was pitching hitless ball for four innings. Then the Yanks started to move.

Each New York starter made at least one hit and six men knocked in runs. Bill Skowron's 11th homer with Elston Howard on base in the fifth opened the Yanks scoring and Mantle's blast ended it. A four-run apurt in the sixth broke a 3-3 tie.

Although Don Larsen had a comfortable lead, he gave way to Ryne Duren in the seventh after he hit a man and walked his fourth.

Duren didn't allow a hit in the last three innings.

In the National League, the upstart Pittsburgh Pirates continued to make it rough for the rest of the league. They knocked off Milwaukee, 4-3 reducing the Braves' lead to 4 games over San Francisco. The Giants whipped Chicago 6-4 in an afternoon game to snap a six-game losing streak.

St. Louis, shut out in an entire series at Pittsburgh, finally scored their first run in 34 innings and went on to top Los Angeles 3-2. Larry Jackson struck out 12, the last five in a row, and retired the final 17 Dodger batters in succession. As a result, Los Angeles dropped back into the cellar behind St. Louis.

Washington went up to Cooperstown, N. Y., and beat the Phillies 5-4 in the annual exhibition game for the Hall of Fame Cup. Cleveland nosed out Cincinnati 2-1 in 13 innings to square their two-game exhibition set.

Four Syracuse University athletes played in the National Football League in 1957. They were Jim Brown with Cleveland, Jim Riddon with San Francisco, Jim Ringo with Green Bay and Carl Karilivacs with Detroit.

Jaycee Tennis Tournament Is Set For Today

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—The 5th annual Jaycee national tennis tournament was set for today with 185 youngsters competing in two age divisions.

For the junior division, top prizes are two berths on the Junior Davis Cup squad. Ranked one and two in the division are Jim Shaffer of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Paul Palmer of Phoenix, Ariz., last year's runnerup in the boys' division.

David Sandlin of El Cajon, Calif., and Clark Graebner of Lakewood, Ohio, were top seeded in the boys' division.

Plans for an expanded tourney next year were revealed yesterday by Bob Cox of Chapel Hill, president of the National Junior Chamber of Commerce. He announced that a soft drink company will become a sponsor.

D. Mitchell Cox, vice president of the company, made the announcement jointly with the national Jaycee president.

Under the expansion, the field of finalists would be raised to 218 in future years. Efforts would be made to attract more than 60,000 boys in the local and state elimination matches, compared to some 45,000 to 50,000 who participated this year.

The tournament will continue through Saturday. Matches will be played on the varsity courts of the University of North Carolina.

Miffed At Draw, Archie Asks For Rematch

RENO (AP) — Archie Moore, scoffing at his draw with Howard King, promptly challenged the Reno fighter today to defend his Nevada heavyweight title in a 15-round rematch.

The aging light heavyweight champion drew a full house of 4,000 at Moana ball park last night when he and King fought to a 10-round draw in a dull non-title fight.

The champ, from San Diego, a stout 190 pounds, never came close to landing the punch he needed to top the world's record of 126 knockouts.

Moore stalked King through all 10 rounds while his 193-pound opponent responded with flicking left jabs and an occasional flurry.

Moore has won 172 fights, lost 24 and drawn in six. King's record is 33-15-7.

Wake Forest Cagers Opening Season Dec. 2

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Wake Forest's basketball team, with four regulars returning, opens its 1958 season at Davidson College Dec. 2.

The schedule, announced yesterday by Athletic Director Bill Gibson, covers 20 games and appearances in the Atlantic Coast Conference and Dixie Classic tournaments.

Second-Base Slide Results In Injury

Yelling in pain, Mel Roach, Milwaukee Braves rookie second baseman, rolls on ground at second base in fifth inning of second game after collision with sliding Daryl Spencer (back-ground). Courtney Aims At 800-Meter Record

BUDAPEST (AP)—Tom Courtney, Olympic champion and holder of the world record for 800 yards, had his sights on a new 800-meter international standard tonight as he led America's athletes into a track extravaganza against the best of Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

"I'm going for the world 800-meter record tonight," said the former Fordham ace from Livingston, N.J., who plans to retire after returning home. "I want that record. This race should give me a much better chance than the ones coming up in Athens because of the track and strong competition."

Roger Moens of Belgium holds the world mark of 1:45.7. Courtney's world mark for the slightly longer 800 yards is 1:46.8.

Assistant coach Payton Jordan said the Americans were tired after competing in the Soviet Union and Poland with the U.S. men winning both times and the women losing the two meets.

"But we're going to put on a show for Budapest," he added. To spread the talent, build American good will and give everybody a look, American officials have decided to take the almost unprecedented move of breaking up the world's best 1,600-meter relay team.

"We'll put Glenn Davis on one relay team and Eddie Southern on the other and they may race against each other as well as the Hungarian teams, or we will enter the relay teams in different races," American group chief Dan Ferris said.

Morganton And Gastonia Play Contest Tonight

MORGANTON, N. C. (AP) — Morganton, victor over defending champion Burlington, takes on Gastonia in the second round of the North Carolina Recreation Society Midget baseball tournament here today.

Burlington was eliminated last night by the no-hit pitching of 12-year-old Ronnie Daves. The Morganton hurler yielded only three walks while striking out 10.

Other winners were Lincolnton, 13-1 over Valdese; Sawapahaw, 9-6 over Thomasville; Greensboro, 9-8 over Mooresville; and Gastonia, 9-4 over Concord.

Hails Success Of City Recreation Programs

The Greenville Recreation Department's summer program was extremely successful this year according to Recreation Director Gordon Goodman.

Goodman this morning expressed his appreciation to the parents for their cooperation in the activities that were scheduled at playgrounds throughout the city. "Such cooperation," he said, "not only helps us carry out a better program, but points to an increased interest in recreation."

During August some year-around programs will be carried on, with the regular fall schedule beginning early in September. This schedule will be announced as the programs begin.

Applications for Play School, a program for pre-school aged children, will be taken from Monday, August 11, through Saturday, August 23. Play School meets on Tuesday and Friday mornings with 24 children attending each session. Goodman directed that parents wishing further information should call the Recreation Department.

Included in the fall program will be sub-teen dancing, adult arts and crafts and athletics.

Highlighting this weeks recreation program is the Northeastern Softball Tournament at Guy Smith Stadium, beginning each evening at 6:45. Entered in the double-elimination event are teams from Rocky Mount, New Bern, Roanoke Rapids and Greenville.

Tomorrow morning from 9-12 noon, a Junior sewing class will be held at Elm Street Park. On Thursday from 9-12 an adult sewing class is scheduled also at Elm Street Park.

The Junior High Teen-age Club meets at the Elm Street Recreation Center Friday night from 8-10:30. On Saturday night the Senior High Teen-age Club meets at Elm Street from 8-11.

All day this week the South Greenville Recreation will be open each day from 9-12 noon and 3-6 p.m. In addition the Negro recreation program includes a Teenage Club meet and a checker, card and carrom tournament Friday night from 8-10.

Hula Sways At Union Rate

CARRY UNION LABEL—Hula dancers at Waikiki still perform the traditional Hawaiian hula, but dancers are now organized as part of the American Guild of Variety Artists.

HONOLULU (AP)—The price of a hula is higher. Unionization has hit the hula industry and the grass-skirted dancers are now organized in the American Guild of Variety Artists. There was a time when hula dancers were paid $5 a performance on such occasions as greeting incoming ships, Hawaiian feasts known as luaus, camera shows and private parties. The price is double that now. Dancers who perform solo numbers—such as the youngest Guild member in Hawaii, 9-year-old Debbie Caelano—now get $20 a performance. Previously, says her mother, "if Debbie made $5 a show, we thought it was excellent." Twelve major hotels and night clubs at Waikiki beach which regularly employ hula dancers have Guild contracts and can hire only Guild members. Feature dancers get $125 a week at such places as the Royal Hawaiian Hotel or the Hawaiian Village Hotel. Some of the lesser-known spots pay $100 a week. These salaries run about one-fourth higher than B.U. (Before Union).

Survives Shots From Assassins

PANAMA (AP)—Ruben Miro, who never made good on his promise to tell all he knew about the assassination of President Jose Antonio Remon, survived a burst of gunfire from an unidentified automobile last night. The dapper, 43-year-old lawyer sustained flesh wounds in his left chest and right arm, and a third bullet lodged in his right buttock. He drove himself to a hospital and his condition was described as not serious after removal of the bullet.

The attack occurred in front of his brother Ricardo's home as the lawyer was leaving after a visit. Ruben told his brother he noticed a car parked behind his on the dark street. As he got behind the wheel of his automobile, the other car came abreast of him and a burst—apparently from a machine gun—rang out. There were seven bullet holes in the car. Miro and six other defendants were acquitted last December of complicity in the 1955 machine gun slaying of President Remon. Both before and during the trial he promised to tell all he knew about the murder but never made any revelations.

Chinese storekeepers have complete control over the native economic life of Madagascar, the French owned island off the east coast of Africa. Cloves are the principal crop of Madagascar and the Chinese storekeepers barter food products and other necessities for the clove harvest. French exporters are forced to buy from the Chinese.

Purple People Eater Is A Riddle Set To Music

By PAUL BUIAR
NEW YORK (AP)—"Riddle," said songwriter friend Don Robertson to songwriter Sheb Wooley. "What has one eye, one horn, flies and eats people?"

"Don't know," said Wooley. "Answer," said Robertson. "A one-eyed, one-horned, flying people eater."

It happened in Los Angeles just before Christmas. As Gordon Gray, national field coordinator for MGM records, told the story during a recent visit to New York, the riddle was current at that moment among Los Angeles teenagers.

Wooley liked it, said he would use it as the basis for a tune. Next day he wrote the song. He added "purple" for color and to heighten the impression of an outer-space character and he called it "Purple People Eater."

At a recording session in January, Wooley went through a basket full of tunes but they were all turned down by Jesse Kaye, MGM West Coast artist and repertoire man, and MGM President Arnold Maxin.

In desperation, Wooley pulled out PPE. It was recorded, said Gray, because there was nothing better available.

The arrangement was Wooley's idea. The people eater's voice, done by Wooley, was recorded at half speed and later cut into the final product. The record was held for release until April 28 because a novelty record put out by another company was still popular.

No one at MGM was overly confident. Gray optimistically bet

Has Something To Crow About

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—John Schnellbacher has something to crow about—crows. He's raising five of them in his house.

John, 31, a former New Paltz, N.Y., farm boy, found the birds after mama bird had deserted them. He's been feeding them on milk, bread, hard boiled eggs and chopped meat.

The motto E Pluribus Unum used on United States documents was the idea of Thomas Jefferson.

Public kindergartens in England, Ontario, teach in both English and French.

$5 that PPE would sell 100,000 discs.

The record's rapid rise and sale was nothing short of fantastic. Within three weeks it was on all national best seller lists and at last count, sales were nearing the two million mark. It already has been recorded in 10 languages.

Based on its swelling popularity abroad, world sales are expected to ultimately reach 5 1/2 to 6 million. PPE has been a bonanza for Wooley. In addition to his shares as composer and performer, he also receives the publisher's share.

He had the foresight to publish PPE through Cordia 1 Music, a firm he organized about six years ago.

Through his three-way cut he should clear more than $200,000. There are fringe benefits, too. PPE dolls, novelty pins and various articles of clothing are making their way to market.

Songwriter friend Don Robertson, the man who started it all, is also sharing the windfall. On the flip side of PPE is "I Can't Believe You're Mine," written by Robertson and published by his firm.

No Advertising Signs To Be Left On Parkway

NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C. (AP)—The Blue Ridge Parkway will be clear of all signs except those designating locations and distances of towns along the scenic route.

An agreement on the sign controversy was reached here yesterday at a meeting of the North Carolina National Park, Parkway and Forests Development Commission with the National Park Service and the State Highway Commission.

Excluded from the parkway itself will be signs indicating outdoor dramas, mountains and natural scenic areas. They will be placed on roads and ramps leading from the parkway.

Sam F. Weems of Roanoke, Va., parkway superintendent, said that signs connected with private enterprises would not be permissible on the parkway under federal regulations.

Report Weaknesses In States Invite Aid Bills

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee says weaknesses of the states themselves have been a major cause of the federal government's stepping into bigger aid programs over the years.

The Intergovernmental Relations subcommittee draws this conclusion from a three-year, nationwide study of grants-in-aid to the states.

Under the program, the federal government allocates funds for a wide range of projects provided the states put up money of their own too.

The subcommittee's findings are contained in a report adopted unanimously in closed session. It will be presented tomorrow for approval by the parent Government Operations Committee.

The report, not yet issued publicly, said federal grants for programs ranging from aid to state soldiers' homes to highway building and pollution control have climbed from 124 million dollars in 1925 to more than five billion for fiscal 1958.

Boards Attempt Resolve Rift In Durham Meeting

DURHAM (AP)—Representatives of the State Board of Higher Education and the University of North Carolina Board of Trustees met here last night in a move to work out differences between the two boards.

The meeting brought together subcommittees representing each of the boards. Tom Pearsall of Rocky Mount headed the trustees group while L. F. McLendon of Greensboro headed the Higher Education subcommittee.

The peace move followed a suggestion made by Gov. Hodges several weeks ago after members of the UNC trustees had complained bitterly that the Board of Higher Education was interfering in the internal affairs of the university.

A trustees' committee recommended that the Higher Education Board be stripped of some of its powers.

Two 1960 Prospects Seen Having Easy Primary Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two possibilities for the 1960 Democratic presidential race are expected to clear their local political hurdles in good style today as four states hold primary elections.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri are strong favorites to gainrenomination in primaries in their states. Williams, the onetime boy wonder of Michigan politics, is seeking an unprecedented sixth term.

Other primaries are being held in West Virginia and Kansas. In all, voters in the four states will name candidates for 4 Senate seats, 41 House spots and 2 governorships.

Williams, who has done little campaigning, is opposed by Willam L. Johnson, a radio station operator at Ironwood. Another term at the statehouse would put Williams in a good position to bid for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960 if he chooses.

Symington, former secretary of the Air Force, has nominal opposition from former Republican Lamar W. Dye of Kansas City and Lawrence L. Hastings of Aurora, a retired Veterans Administration employe. Symington, a darkhorse at the 1956 Democratic convention, is again being mentioned as a possible nominee in 1960.

Missouri Republicans will pick their candidate to oppose Symington from a group of four. Eleven House seats are up for nomination in the state.

Republican Sen. Charles E. Potter has no opposition in his primary race in Michigan. Williams' running mate, Lt. Gov. Philip Hart, is opposed by Homer Martin, a former United Auto Workers president, in the Democratic senatorial primary. Eighteen House seats are up for nomination. The fight for two senatorial berths highlights West Virginia's elections. The GOP incumbents, Chapman Revercomb and John D. Hohlitzell, have no opposition.

But four Democrats have been locked in a tight struggle to win their party's nomination to run against Hohlitzell, who has been filling in for part of the term of the late Democratic Sen. Matthew Neely. The term has two more years.

Rep. Robert C. Byrd heads a list of three Democratic candidates for the right to oppose Revercomb for the six-year term. West Virginia also has to make nominations for six House seats.

In Kansas, Democratic Gov. George Docking is opposed for renomination, but five Republicans are seeking the GOP nod to fill in for part of the term of the late Democratic Sen. Fred Hall, who was denied renomination in 1956, and Clyde Reed Jr., Parsons publisher who has strong organization backing. Kansans will nominate for six House positions.

Still Destroyed Near Winterville

Pitt County ABC officers destroyed a 100-gallon steam distillery near Winterville Saturday afternoon.

The still was located about two miles west of Winterville off the Reinson Road. According to Chief ABC officer J. M. Ward the plant had apparently not been run for some time. No arrests were made.

Officers destroyed a 60-gallon drum boiler, a 50-gallon cooler with radiator condenser in addition to the distillery. Three gallons of non-tax paid whiskey were also found at the scene.

Ward said the liquor appeared to have a greenish tint. "Looks to me as if whoever ran that whiskey didn't know what he was doing," he officer noted. "Either that or there was something wrong with the still."

Pitt County Deputy Sheriff Rick Jackson assisted the ABC officers.

Saturday night two local Negro women were arrested when authorities found non-tax paid whiskey in their possession. Both were released under a $200 bond to appear in City Recorder's Court on August 11.

Arrested were Thelma Williams, 33, of 209 West 15th Street and Louise Fleming, 29, of 1204 Battle Street.

Three gallons of illicit liquor were reportedly found in the Williams woman's house in a bedroom closet. She was charged with possession of non-tax paid whiskey for the purpose of sale. One pint of bootleg was uncovered in the second woman's home by ABC officers who cited her for illegal possession.

Welfare Funds Are In Center Of Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major House fight over an employe pension-welfare fund bill centered today around efforts to exempt those plans financed by management.

The fight moves to the House floor tomorrow with consideration of a bill to require public reporting on all such plans—both those run by labor unions and those run by management.

Legislation along somewhat similar lines already has been passed by the Senate. It grew out of hearings by the Senate Rackets Committee, which developed testimony regarding gross misuse of some employe funds.

Labor unions have endorsed the principle of the legislation, provided it applies to management as well as labor-operated funds. Business groups have opposed inclusion of the funds they finance, contending these have not been involved in any charges of misuse.

Many of the management fund are handled by commercial insurance companies, some of which have joined in the fight against the bill.

The House bill would require administrators of the plans to make available annual financial reports upon request of any participant. Copies of the reports would be filed with the secretary of labor.

An amendment proposed by Rep. Albert H. Bosch (R-NY) would eliminate the employer-run plans, known as "level-of-benefit" plans, from the disclosure report requirement.

Bosch has said there was apprehension that some of the information which would be disclosed in the reports, would be used by labor unions against the companies involved at the bargaining table.

Seeks Return To Prison So He Can Get Surgery

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ohio convict Bernie Ray Saville wants to go to federal prison so he can have an operation. There's going to be some delay — perhaps 40 years.

Saville admitted stealing a car July 9 in Akron, Ohio. He surrendered here July 15 and told officers he had been paroled while serving a 2-to-40-year term for forgery in Ohio.

Saville told U.S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connally he took the car in order to land in a federal prison and obtain surgery, explaining: "The (Ohio) state prison won't do it."

Said Judge Connally: "I don't look with favor on a man who deliberately commits a felony, I sentence you to 18 months in prison, the sentence to be suspended until you finish your term in Ohio."

CHAPTER 7

Colin Campbell hadn't expected to live through the time while Jeannie Dare was gone to Baltimore for her final year at school, so impatient was he for her return. Now she had been home for three months. Her nearness was enchanting, but his helplessness in her presence was gone; and question lingered where none had ever been.

Had she changed? He didn't think so. She was as beautiful as ever, as charming—when she had her own way completely. He had been so busy, he thought ruefully, straightening out other people's problems, that he had neglected self-knowledge. He had been as blindly infatuated as any school-boy. She was young; life still had much to teach her. Marriage would give depth and understanding to their relationship. And yet—

"And do you agree that when war comes, cotton will be a major factor?" Tom Dare concluded a lengthy discussion on the Southern economy.

Colin started from his reverie of Jeannie to look at her father. "I'm sorry, I'm afraid I didn't hear your question."

Tom grinned fleetingly. "It isn't important. Oh, here's Jeannie!"

She entered the room, radiant in a simple white gown. As both men rose, Tom said, "I've worked in the store. You young people remain here if you wish."

When he had gone, Jeannie turned expectantly to Colin. In an instant, she was in his arms and he was lost, his lips on hers. He was in love, he told himself as Jeannie gently drew away, and nothing else mattered.

"Colin," she said, "Colin darling, let's stop quarreling. I know I've been silly, and you haven't been very nice either. Let's stop both of us."

Colin smiled into her eyes and then bent to kiss her cheek. "I have something here," he said, drawing the little pasteboard box out of his pocket, "which I intended to convey the same message."

Jeannie opened the box as eagerly as a child. "Oh, what a beauty! And how sweet of you!" She threw her arms around his neck to bestow a childish kiss of gratitude. But there was nothing childish or playful in Colin's response. Closer and closer he held her against himself, driven by a sudden agonizing longing. Neither could tell how long they had been locked in silent transport when Jeannie came to her senses and struggled free.

Breathless and disheveled, she faced him from a safe distance. "I would like you to kiss me like that every day, every hour of every day. But not until we are married."

"If we were—" Just now, at this moment, it seemed the answer to everything. "Jeannie, we've waited long enough."

Her eyes sparkled as they met his. "Do you really mean it?"

"I really mean it. It's just that—"

"Just what, darling?"

He was about to explain his differences with his father, the tension at Quail Wings, but he was afraid to break the spell. He heard himself say instead, "Macklyn and Betsey are coming home to stay. There won't be room for all of us at Quail Wings. I must find a house for you and me."

"Then do!" she exclaimed. "Any old house anywhere! It doesn't matter just so both of us are in it!"

When Colin left and stepped into the outside darkness, he carried with him the longing that had possessed him earlier. But as he made his way home on Robin it slowly ebbed away into the black night. The wave of ecstasy on which he had floated seemed of another age and time, with another person.

He saw in imagination, as he had seen so many times in reality, a pouting and petulant Jeannie who was displeased with him. And the words, "Any old house anywhere! It doesn't matter just so both of us are in it!" seemed completely incompatible with that vision.

As he walked briskly up the lonesome little valley Robin's shod hooves left clear-cut tracks in two inches of new snow, and the cold wind that knifed down the valley honed his always high spirits to a razor edge. He wanted to run, and because Colin held him in he danced skittishly from side to side.

Few trees grew in the valley, but the upper slopes on both sides were heavily forested, largely with hardwoods that had shed their leaves and stood gaunt and bare in the wind.

Toward the valley's head, the vivid foliage of a single great pine contrasted almost shocking with the late autumn bleakness all about.

Colin halted to make sure that his rifle, the 58 Worthington carbine that had been custom-made for him by Justin Worthington himself, rode properly in its saddle scabbard. The three lean hounds that followed him halted with Colin and fixed steady eyes on their master. They wanted to hunt and knew they had come to the mountains to hunt, but as yet they had been given no permission to seek game.

Colin slackened the reins and went on, keeping to the trace of which Ling Steward had told him. Follow it, Ling had said, and he couldn't miss Hobbs Creek. Then he need only ask the first person he saw where the Stewarts lived and Ling—Colin grinned as he remembered—would show him the Jo-darndest best hunting he had ever seen. With his court calendar empty for the next five days and Jeannie on a shopping trip to Richmond, Colin was on his way to enjoy some of that hunting.

He had some hard thinking to do, too, he told himself. But he couldn't do it yet; he couldn't force his decisions. They would come of themselves, as natural and obvious as the sunrise.

Now, as they neared the head of the valley, it dwindled to a mere shallow ditch on the mountain's slope. Then they left it entirely and broke out on the summit, a broad plateau that, except for occasional dips and rises, was as level as the fields at Quail Wings.

It was heavily forested, the massive tree trunks giving mute evidence that the woodsman's axe was all but unknown in this place. The only trees felled were those that would have blocked the trace.

Deer tracks were everywhere, and in places deer had so beaten and trampled the snow that it was though a herd of cattle had passed. Crossing and criss-crossing were the plainly marked trails of bears, wolves, bobcats, foxes, turkeys, wild pigs that were doubtless feral offspring of tame animals, and small game so numerous that there were few stretched of snow in which some wild animal had left the story of its passing.

Colin's interest heightened. He had avoided hunting in this section because, according to rumor in Denbury, the settlers were a hostile lot and had, in any case, already killed most of the wild game. But nowhere had Colin seen more evidence of wild creatures.

He was so intent on tracks in the snow that they entered the clearing before he was aware of it. Colin raised his head and his eyes widened in surprise at the sight before him.

All It Takes Is Right Connection

GEORGETOWN, Ky. (AP)—David Gregory and his young brother, Charles, picked more strawberries than their mother wanted. They tried to sell the extra berries without success.

David then started calling friends by telephone. No sales. Then Charles took the phone. "I'll sell them," he said. Charles dialed the operator. "Wania buy some strawberries?" he asked. The operator turned him over to the chief operator. Charles repeated his question. "Sure," the chief operator said, "I'll take six boxes."

The two boys sold six boxes of berries to the chief operator and seven more to other telephone employees.

American Backs Spanish Project

AVILES, Spain (AP)—American capital and know-how and Spanish craftsmanship are producing a model housing development, the largest in Spain.

New York builder Norman K. Winston is putting up the 35-million-dollar capital and providing the know-how. Domingo Lopez, a Spanish contractor, is doing the actual building with Spanish labor.

According to present plans there will be 5,500 dwelling units completed for Aviles steelworkers and their families. The apartment houses will be surrounded by gardens with swimming pools, sports areas and soccer fields.

Work began in January on two six-story buildings which are scheduled for occupancy later this year. Work began in midsummer on two 17-story buildings.

Winston, president of N.K. Winston Co., New York, inspected progress during a visit to Spain. The Aviles builders have limited themselves to Spanish-style architecture, using brick and cement. The apartments will have two, three and four bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bathroom. About 1,000 will also have dining rooms. Rents are to range from 150 to 300 pesetas ($3 to $6) a month.

The Spanish government is to repay Winston's investment over a period of 10 years.

Going To Sue Her 'Drowned' Spouse

EL MONTE, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. La Rue Smith says she's going to divorce the husband she once thought had drowned.

Radio engineer Ben Smith, 30, disappeared July 23 on a fishing trip. His rented skiff was found adrift at sea.

Later, sheriff's deputies learned that Smith wasn't dead. They traced him to nearby Bell, where he was living under the name "George Johnson."

Officers declined to file charges against him. Not so Mrs. Smith. Living with Smith in Bell was the Smith family baby sitter, Arlene Salter, 21, officers reported.

Smith said he and Arlene would be married.

The Smiths have three children.

LEBANON, Ore. (AP)—Rev. Plus Bauer, pastor of St. Edwards Catholic Church in Lebanon, Ore., travelled more than 6,000 miles to celebrate his 25th anniversary as a priest in the church where he said his first mass in Hailfinger, Germany.

After visiting relatives in Germany, he expects to visit in Rome and the Holy Land and attend the World's Fair in Brussels before arriving home in September.

St. Augustine, Fla., is the oldest permanent white settlement in the United States. It was founded in 1565.

NEW YORK (AP) — News of tighter margin rules knocked the stock market down today in its eighth biggest advance in seven months. Leading stocks were off fractions to a point or so in early afternoon. Aluminum, steel and chemicals were among the weaker spots. Losses ran through all major divisions.

Late yesterday the Federal Reserve Board raised margin requirements on stock purchases to 70 per cent from 50 per cent. This action, effective today, means that buyers must put up 70 per cent of the purchase price and can borrow to finance only 30 per cent of the total cost.

Down a point or so were Magna Copper, Reynolds Metals, Jones & Laughlin, Lukens, U.S. Rubber, Eastern Air Lines and Allied Chemical. At the start Magna and Reynolds were off around 2. Fractional losers included U.S. Steel, Republic, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, General Dynamics, Raytheon, American Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, General Electric and Johns Manville.

Ford, Penn-Texas, American Smelting and Eastman Kodak were small gainers. Aluminum, which opened on a big block of 7,500 shares off 1 1/2, was down a fraction at midday. There were several other 5,000 plus blocks in the opening parade.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1 1/2 at

Federal Scholarships And Education Aid Bill Moves To Floor Of Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 1 1/2-billion-dollar education bill to establish federal college scholarships and provide other school aid moved toward the Senate floor today.

Approved by a 10-2 vote of the Senate Labor Committee yesterday, it was ready for action today by the Senate Democratic Policy Committee. That group decides the order in which legislation is to be considered.

Chairman Lister Hill (D-Ala.) of the Labor Committee predicted the Senate would pass the bill later in the week.

Meanwhile, House sponsors of similar legislation agreed to some compromises in a meeting with Republican congressmen and administration officials to win needed votes in that body for the measure.

Rep. Carl Elliott (D-Ia.), author of the House Bill, said he would offer a floor amendment to cut the number of college scholarships from 23,000 to 10,000 and base them solely on need. He said this would bring the measure in line with President Eisenhower's wishes.

The House bill was approved by the House Labor Committee July 2 but still is awaiting Rules Committee clearance.

The twin developments gave strong indication that an education bill will be sent to the President as one of the final major legislative acts of the 85th Congress.

A new call for such action came today from Arthur S. Flemming, new secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, which would handle the program.

He said the House bill, with changes suggested by Eisenhower, "offers an effective vehicle for those who want to substitute action for talk."

Contending that inaction will do irreparable damage, he added in a statement: "Some allege that this program is too much. Others allege it is too little. I feel that all who are interested in strengthening our education system should support it so that we will not, in the future, be accused of being too late."

Sen. Gordon Allott (R-Colo.), a Labor Committee member, said there would be a floor fight over some provisions of the Senate Bill. But he, too, forecast that a bill would be passed.

The Senate version of the legislation contains more scholarships and more funds than Eisenhower asked. It also is larger than the House bill, which totaled $1,070,000,000 as it was approved in committee. Both measures call for four-year programs with a three-year tapering-off period.

Both bills carry 175 million dollars in college scholarship funds. This would provide about 23,000 four-year scholarships in each of the four years.

Both also include 260 million dollars in college student loan funds.

Both measures also contain large grant authorizations designed to improve the nation's teaching of science, mathematics and foreign languages.

State Colleges Increasing Their Operating Budgets

RALEIGH (AP) — With expected enrollment increases the big factor, state-supported colleges will seek to boost their operating budgets by nearly 3 1/2 million dollars for the coming biennium.

The State Board of Higher Education yesterday accepted the report of its Finance Committee approving continuation budget requests totaling slightly over $3 million for the institutions.

The Advisory Budget Commission will consider the requests in preparing a budget to recommend to the 1959 Legislature.

In addition to the continuation budgets, the higher education board must prepare "B" budgets for the colleges spelling out costs for proposed new programs. The board said it expected to complete these by Aug. 11.

By fiscal years, the combined continuation budgets include: $26,221,268 for 1959-60, and $26,913,886 for 1960-61. For the first fiscal year, it would be an increase of $1,356,202 over 1957-58; for the second enrollment increases the big factor, state-supported colleges will seek to boost their operating budgets by nearly 3 1/2 million dollars for the coming biennium.
