

U.S. Officials Brace For Early Showdown Over Isles Off China

Major Highway Projects Given Tentative Okay

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Highway Commission has tentatively approved 23 major highway construction projects which were given a must listing by Highway Director W. F. Babcock. Babcock said yesterday cost estimates of the projects will be prepared and presented to the commission at its meeting in Waynesville Sept. 29-30. The proposed projects, Babcock said, are programmed for construction in 1959 and 1960. The Highway Commission studied the must projects and a long list of other proposed jobs at a meeting with Highway Division engineers Thursday. A decision on other projects in the mountains in the Asheville and Waynesville area will be put off until the Waynesville meeting when some of the proposed jobs can be inspected by commission members. The projects given a must rating include an access road to a new Navy base at Harvey's Point, extensive improvements to Winston Boulevard at Charlotte; access roads to the new Asheville Airport at a cost of more than a million dollars; construction of the initial portions of a north-south expressway at Winston-Salem; street improvements at Wilmington based upon traffic studies now being made; improvement of U.S. 17 in the Elizabeth City area; a by-pass on U.S. 17 at Vanceboro, and a bridge over the Newport River between Morehead City and Beaufort. Babcock said others in the must rating include: widening and improvement of U.S. 70 in Havelock to the Craven-Carteret County line; improvement of N.C. 33 from Cox's Crossing to the east city limits of Aurora; relocation of U.S. 74-76 from Leland to the junction with U.S. 17; construction of a new road between Weldon and Roanoke Rapids to tie in with an interstate highway; revision of U.S. 64 just east of Raleigh to tie in with the Raleigh beltline; construction of a new route for U.S. 220 from Greensboro to Asheboro. Improvement of U.S. 220 in Randolph County; improvement of U.S. 74 between Hamlet and Rockingham; improvement of U.S. 64 between Ramseur and Asheboro, including possible widening of the Asheboro by-pass; a new bridge over the Seaboard Air Line Railroad tracks on N.C. 77 south of Hamlet; acquisition of right-of-way for eventual dual-laning of U.S. 74 east of Monroe — a distance of 5 to 10 miles; reconstruction of U.S. 19 in and around Cherokee and Bryson City, and providing climbing lanes on U.S. 176 near Saluda. Babcock also gave a must rating to the reservation of funds for right-of-way acquisition and development of bellines and other improvements in and around Goldsboro. Improvement of the Boulevard between Ft. Bragg and Fayetteville will be eventually, Babcock stated. He added a list of study will have to be made to determine whether to improve the present boulevard or build a new one. Another ultimate must, he said, is the improvement of U.S. 74 in and around Kings Mountain. A by-pass of North Wilkesboro and Wilkesboro is in the planning stage for future consideration.

Quiz Winner Says Told The Answers

NEW YORK (AP) — Controversy flared anew today over Herbert Stempel's charge that answers were given to him beforehand while he was a quiz contestant on the NBC television show "21." The New York Post reported that three friends of Stempel said he had told them what the questions and answers would be, also that when they tuned in, the program proceeded as Stempel had predicted. Daniel Enright, co-producer of "21" yesterday turned up a statement signed by Stempel 18 months ago, after Stempel had been on the show, saying everything was strictly on the level. Stempel was quoted in the New York Journal American as saying "I signed the reputation of my own charges 18 months ago on a promise that I would get a $250-a-week job on 'Tic-Tac-Dough.' I never got the job." Enright has denied repeatedly there was any "fixing of '21.'" He turned Stempel's signed statement over to Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan. Enright quoted Stempel as saying in his written statement, "Any questions or answers which I gave were entirely my own and no aid or assistance were rendered to me by Mr. Enright." Dan Enright, the producer, nor any of his staff. Stempel was quoted in newspapers this week as saying he was coached on answers before he went on the air and then was told to miss a question that enabled Charles van Doren to eliminate him. A statement issued yesterday by Enright said that "other evidence is still being studied by the district attorney's office." The New York Daily Mirror today quoted Stempel as saying: "Enright told me if I would sign the letter he would get me a job on the TV program 'Tic-Tac-Dough' at $250 a week." A spokesman for "Twenty-one" said Stempel never was promised a job. He said Stempel was used on two shows — after he lost out on "Twenty-one" to warm up audiences but that he "froze the audience more than he warmed them." The district attorney's office investigation of TV shows stemmed from a complaint by a former contestant of the now defunct "Dotto" quiz program.

New Patrolmen For Labor Day

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Just as the dangerous Labor Day weekend was beginning, 25 new patrolmen graduated yesterday from the State Highway Patrol's 12-week basic recruit school and joined the force. Col. James R. Smith, commandant, welcomed the new patrolmen in remarks at the ceremonies. MONDAY LEGAL HOLIDAY Monday—Labor Day—will be observed as a legal holiday by federal, state, county, and city offices and the banks and some business places.

Pupils Of Three City Schools To Be Enrolled In TV Course

Students in three Greenville schools will be enrolled in a televised General Science course during the 1958-1959 school year, Superintendent J. H. Rose announced today. The televised instruction will be beamed into classrooms at Junius H. Rose High School, C. M. Eppes High School, and Greenville Junior High School. The program will originate in studios of the University of North Carolina's educational television station WUNC and will be telecast locally over regular facilities of WNCN. Three sections of students in Rose High School, two sections of Junius H. Rose students and one section of C. M. Eppes students will receive the instruction from 9:30 until 10 o'clock each morning of

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials braced today for a possible Red China invasion of the Chinese Nationalist offshore islands over the Labor Day weekend. Such a move would bring a showdown on whether the United States intends to defend the islands and become involved in combat with Red Chinese forces. The State Department, under the command of Undersecretary of State Christian R. Herter, kept its Far East experts working at their desks or on call at home during the three-day holiday. Top officials were away as a new tenseness continued to build up in the Far East in the wake of Red China's heavy shelling of Chinese Nationalist offshore islands. President Eisenhower was vacationing at Newport, R.I. Secretary of State Dulles was on a sailing holiday at Lake Ontario and

Bank Robbers Wouldn't Suspect Cause Of Downfall

GREENSBORO (AP) — The two short-spoken New Jersey men who rented a room last week in the house where Mrs. W. J. Whichard lives probably never had any idea that one son of the feeble, 75-year-old woman is serving time for a $29,000 bank robbery. Just as likely, they never dreamed that Mrs. Whichard's inquisitive and persistent nature would lead to their own arrests on charges of robbing a Greensboro bank of $48,000 this week. "You can't pull much over on me," says Mrs. Whichard in a voice just above a whisper, which is as loud as the grey-haired, crippled woman can talk. Her former roomers, who spent only about a week in the rooming house, are in the Guilford County jail today in default of $75,000 bond each. They were arrested yesterday and charged with the Thursday morning robbery of the Friendly Center Branch of the Bank of Greensboro. The two gave their names as Henry Ziencow, 42, of Elizabeth N.J., and Michael Macejka, 43, of Passaic, N.J. The FBI said much of the $48,275.11 loot was recovered from their room, the rest from an auto-

Von Braun Says Satellite Failed Due To Collision

AMSTERDAM (AP) — A high altitude collision between parts of its rocket units ruined the launching of Explorer V, Dr. Werner von Braun reported to world astronauts today. The first stage booster rocket had separated after burnout when gases and liquids remaining in it expanded in the vacuum of space and gave it a little extra thrust, Von Braun said. This sped it up so it hit the instrument part of the rocket, knocking the final stages off in the wrong direction from an orbit. All three remaining stages of the rocket had fired perfectly. Von Braun, the German-born director of U.S. Army rocketry, said special precautions were being taken to avoid recurrences of "this most unlucky incident." Explorer V was sent aloft from Cape Canaveral, Fla., last Sunday morning. The military usually does not announce the technical reasons for failures and has disclosed nothing on this one up to now. But it sent word to Van Braun, who has been in Amsterdam all week. He presented a 90-minute detailed and technical report on all phases of Explorer satellites at the closing day of the 9th annual assembly of the International Astronautic Federation.

No Surplus For Special Projects

RALEIGH (AP) — For the first time in many years, there will be no highway surplus funds for the governor to use for special road projects. A report by State Budget Officer D. S. Coltrane yesterday said the state highway fund ended the fiscal year with a balance of $137 million dollars, all of it earmarked for specific purposes. A surplus of $1,997,263 in unallocated funds was left on hand at the close of the previous fiscal year. Coltrane reported that highway fund tax collections for the fiscal year which ended last June 30 fell 3 1/2 million dollars under estimates made by the 1957 Legislature. Lagging motor vehicle registrations and gasoline tax collections were responsible. Although the estimate was wide of the mark, actual collections for the highway fund were down only $32,187 from the previous year. The total collections were $121,913,470. Added to the state highway revenues were federal funds of $153,350,628 allocated to North Carolina. This was $103,358,628 more than for the 1956-57 fiscal year. Motor vehicle registrations fell about $600,000 short of the preceding year's total. Gasoline tax collections increased by a little more than half a million dollars, far less than had been expected. For the past fiscal year, administrative costs in the highway department showed an increase of about $300,000. Coltrane said this was due partially to reorganization of the department and partially to a change in accounting procedure. Out of the 137 million year-end balance, Coltrane said 109 million was federal funds held in reserve. Another 4 1/2 million was reserved as state funds to match federal allocations.

Bond Covered Holdup Losses

The $7,793, stolen from a teller's window branch of the Bank of Ahoskie yesterday afternoon, was fully covered by a bankers' blanket bond. This report came today from Guaranty Bank President J. Herbert Waldrop who is also President of the Ahoskie bank. According to Waldrop, had the hold-up been staged earlier in the day, the robber might have gotten in excess of $15,000 in counter cash. Additional cash was on hand but had been previously been locked up in a money chest.

special session of Congress. Morse, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said America faces new danger from "the Dulles foreign policy of brinkmanship." The United States is pledged by treaty to defend Formosa. Whether it defends the offshore islands is left to Eisenhower's discretion. The Formosa Resolution, passed by Congress in 1955, empowers the President to defend the islands if, in his judgment, an attack on them is aimed ultimately at conquest of Formosa. The Red Chinese have voiced repeatedly this week their intention to conquer all the islands. And Eisenhower and Dulles have stressed there is an interlocking among all the Nationalist-held islands. Thus, the stage was set for Eisenhower to make a finding that Quemoy and Matsu must be defended by the United States.

Runaway Car Put Tragic Finale To Backyard Party

MOBERLY, Mo. (AP)—A runaway car broke up a backyard birthday party and killed a 4-year-old girl yesterday. The victim was Mary Diane Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Davidson. Witnesses said the car went out of control as it turned a corner. It leaped a curb, hit a tree, then roared backward, hit a parked car and plowed into the Davidson's backyard. The child, on her tricycle, was struck just before the car smashed into another tree and stopped. Mary Diane and five neighbor children were celebrating the birthday of her brother, Joey, 6. The driver of the car was Mrs. Lulu Chamier, 75, widow of Arthur B. Chamier, prominent Moberly lawyer, and mother of Richard J. Chamier, former state senator. Mrs. Chamier suffered a nose fracture, bruises and shock. She was hospitalized.

Ahoskie Bank Held Up By Lone, Calm Bandit

AHOSKIE, N.C. (AP) — FBI, State and local officers pushed a search today for a calm, pistol-waving bandit who robbed the Main Street branch of the Bank of Ahoskie yesterday of $7,793. It was the second bank holdup in North Carolina in two days and the third this week. The bandit, dressed in gray work clothes and a chauffeur's cap, entered the bank about 2:20 p.m. and pointed his revolver at C. E. Robertson, bank manager. He ordered Robertson, the only employe on duty in the bank, to "Give me the money." "I asked him, 'Are you serious?'" Robertson said. "He said, 'Yes, I am,' and I gave him the money." The robber, about 35, stuffed the money into a paper sack, told Robertson to lie down on the floor for five minutes and hurriedly

Betty Lane Is Ready To Go

STOOD UP? NOT THIS YOUNG LADY... Miss North Carolina is only preparing to leave for Atlantic City.

Miss N.C. Going To Beauty Test Sunday

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor Less than six months ago, a happy teen-age girl was looking forward to the biggest event in her life — graduation from J. H. Rose High School. Tomorrow afternoon a beautiful young lady, poised and gracious, will leave her country home on Hooker Road to participate in the greatest show of beauty and brains of them all — the Miss America Beauty Pageant in Atlantic City. Any connection between the two? Of course, the happy teen-ager and the beautiful young lady are one and the same. In the intervening six months Betty Lane Evans' name has been added a household word in North Carolina and particularly in Pitt County. For, as occasionally happens with beautiful talented young ladies, fame has come with breathtaking suddenness for Betty Lane. Or so it seems. Perhaps actually Betty Lane's rise to the coveted title of Miss North Carolina began back in the early 1940s. It was then that a cute three-year-old girl who idolized an older brother became interested in big brother's piano playing. The older brother, Ray, was taking piano lessons from a private teacher. He came home to the big farm house, where the Evans' family lived at that time to practice. Betty Lane would listen to Ray's playing and then pick out the pieces herself with her brother's help. "When we went to his classes I went with him and played his pieces," she recalls. "So his teacher asked me to play in his music recital." So began the musical interests which carried Betty Lane through the Miss Greenville pageant and on to win Miss North Carolina in Charlotte last July. As time to attend school approached Betty Lane was entered in West Greenville School in Greenville. From there she went to Greenville High School and then to Rose High when that new school was opened at the beginning of her senior year. It was a happy life Betty Lane led through her school years. There were her many hobbies, piano organ, singing, swimming and water skiing, dancing, collecting stuffed animals and horse back riding. There were also her many high school activities, glee club, mixed chorus, National Forensic League, majorette, Future Nurses' Club, Student Cooperative Association, Future Homemakers, Homecoming Queen, 1955. Of course there was the thrill of being named best looking when senior superlatives were chosen. Last March the end of the school year was approaching. Plans were being made for the junior-senior dance and all the other activities leading to graduation. She stayed home from school with a strep throat one day and later in the day her boyfriend, Lawrence Perkins, came to see her. "Lawrence said I would be one of the girls talked to by the Kiwanis Club the next week about entering the Miss Greenville pageant." Sure enough, the next week Betty Lane was visited by two Kiwanians who interviewed her as a possible entry for that club in the local pageant. They liked what they saw and the next week Betty Lane was invited to attend a Kiwanis Club meeting. She was then told she would represent the club in the Jaycee-sponsored pageant. The rest is history. Betty Lane thrilled the audience with her rendition of "Make Believe" and left the judges bug-eyed with her even, long gown and swim suit appearance. Then in July, Betty Lane set off

Islam Bids To Close Doors On Christian Missions In Africa

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Religion Writer

Christianity is facing a stern test in Africa.

It is so stern, in fact, that Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the National Council of Churches, has warned that opportunities for Christian missionary work in Africa may soon come to an end.

The problem is basically the same as that which confronts the Western world politically — an aroused spirit of nationalism and a color-consciousness line that is being drawn from the opposite direction.

Why has African nationalism chosen Christianity as one of its antagonists?

Ben J. Marais, professor of Christian history at the University of Pretoria, South Africa, writing in the fortnightly Christianity Today, explains it this way: "For generations we Western Christians have become accustomed to the fact that the nominally Christian nations of Europe or the West were the masters of the world.

"Our was the religion of the conquering West, of Western man, the rulers of the world."

During the past 400 years, the power exercised by the whites over colored peoples has left "a terrible legacy of racial tensions," adds Chandran Devanense, a professor at Madras Christian College in India.

The hatred built up by colored peoples, he says, "often makes them blind . . . to the real nature and purpose of the church as a fellowship which seeks to transcend all barriers of race and color."

The surge of nationalism also has sharpened the rivalry between Christianity and Islam, the Christian missionary's oldest organized adversary on the Dark Continent.

The Rev. John McGee, a Southern Baptist missionary stationed in Nigeria, reported recently that the Arab world is raising $5 million dollars for a campaign to make all Africa Moslem.

Islam, as it appears in Africa, is a difficult thing for Christian professional clergy. It has no centralized organization. It makes no organized effort to found schools, hospitals, missions.

Why, then, is Islam such a formidable opponent?

"Every Moslem is a practicing Moslem," says Dr. Erich W. Bethmann of Middle East House, New York. "He prays five times a day no matter where he is. He is a living witness to his faith. And he has no color complex."

Slight Decrease In Traffic Deaths

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's traffic deaths for the first eight months this year totaled 19,380, a decrease of 7 per cent for the comparable period in 1935. The toll was 20,750 in the first eight months last year.

The National Safety Council said the July toll of 3,140 was 3 per cent lower than last year and the decline was the 11th in the last 11 months and the 19th in the last 20 months.

The council estimated that 650,000 persons have been disabled by traffic accidents this year compared with 700,000 for the same period in 1935.

Classics, New Fashions Pass High School Test

BEST-LIKED school classic is the tweed coat. Here, it's a British warmer, authentically copied in camel colored wool. PLAIDS are popular as the telephone, important as homework in teen-ager's life. Her choice, brown-toned plaid skirt, worn with seamless stockings.

MAKING A GOOD IMPRESSION is important at school as in careers. This young lady faces teacher and fellow pupils with more poise and confidence because she's neatly, attractively dressed in her two-piece chemise. By Connie Sage in Springsmaid cotton.

By VIRGINIA SHAW, Associate Fashion Editor, Parents' Magazine. Fashion-minded high school students will begin the new school year in a blaze of color. Brown in tones of russet or gold, reds ranging from the orange cast to the blue cast, blues from the strong turquoise to the purplish family, and greens varied from yellowish to bluish, all encompass the fall foliage colors in an exciting copy of nature. These many colors are most often combined in the print cottons, florals, mosaic motifs or Persian inspired prints. Hot mixtures that flash with fashion excitement are often seen in oversized wool block plaids interpreted in skirts, jumpers, and coats. Certainly the big excitement everywhere is the chemise. Some girls have tried it, some won't dare and others haven't made up their minds. Here's a word of encouragement to the latter two groups. The chemise is once again fashion news for fall. It has been reendorsed by Paris and has really met with success wherever it has been given a chance. It is a becoming silhouette that can inspire compliments.

Contrary to popular belief, the chemise is not a sack dress. It does not hang in a loose baggy way; it has form. When you go out to try on the chemise, you may have to try on many more styles than you ordinarily do. But eventually you will hit the right one for you. When you see it on, correctly fitting the body, you will realize how attractive this style can be. The straight line is the fashion line this fall. In sportswear, jumpers in huge blankets plaids show off the bright patterns when cut simply and straight. Skirts range from straight to the semi-full "trapeze" style. Pleated skirts mix well with the long line blouse. Sweaters often have pockets, are longer in length. Their bulky knits aid them in falling straight and loose. News in the yarn field is mohair which gives the sweater a lumpy hairy but soft hand. Accessories are great fun in sportswear and you can mix the maddest colors to achieve the perfect combination. Try knit hose in brilliant colors to match your sweater or coordinate with a plaid. This is the season for courage. Don't be afraid to try the new in color, "chemiserie", and fun accessorizing.

BANNER CHOICE for the fall semester is a modified barrel coat, in tweed with velvet collar. And Ariza's "Bright Eyes" adds to the sparkling outlook.

30 Years Ago Today

August 30, 1928

East Carolina Teachers College is now completing its building program. It will have ready for use at the beginning of the fall term two new dormitories, which have been rebuilt, a new Model School, a new kitchen, a new dining room and rest and recreation hall, a new power plant and a laundry. With these new buildings and equipment the college will be able to accommodate 300 more students, but with these additional facilities the college has been compelled to turn away for the year several hundred more students than it accepted. At the last meeting of the Association of Southern Colleges and Secondary Schools, the college was admitted to full standing as an "A" class college.

Sound Off-Street Parking Policy

Some January 1, all of Greenville's municipal parking lots will be operated under the same uniform policy.

The adoption by the Council of a uniform policy to govern all the city's parking lots is a move which should give the city a more satisfactory operation of its off-street parking facilities. It is one which will eliminate discrepancies toward individuals who use the various off-street parking facilities provided by the city.

At the present time the city is operating paved parking lots and unpaved parking lots. On some of its off-street parking lots the city charges citizens for their parking time, while on others parking is free on a first-come-first-served basis. Some of the parking lots are now leased by the city on a flat rental basis while others are leased on a percentage basis with the owners.

According to action taken Thursday night by the Council, all of the city's off-street parking lots will be paved and metered after January 1. Moreover, all of them will be leased by the city under a uniform contract whereby the city and the property owner will get a uniform percentage of the receipts from the parking lot. The leases run for 10 years with an option to renew.

These changes mean that in the future the city will not be furnishing free parking on off-street facilities for some of its citizens while it is charging others for using off-street facilities.

In the past few years off-street parking has become of great importance to Greenville's business district with its narrow streets. As the flow of traffic increases in future years, off-street parking will become increasingly important to the city's business section.

Question Now How To Get It

BONDS — The next General Assembly can issue without a vote of the people around $9 million worth of bonds. Any amount above that will have to be approved by popular vote, because of constitutional provision that the Legislature cannot issue more than two-thirds of the amount of debt retired the previous biennium.

The committee which has been studying the need for a new legislative and office building recommends two or three buildings connected by corridors at an original estimated cost of $7 million. It is further recommended that the Legislature authorize bonds for this purpose.

Meantime, State institutions and agencies have filed requests with the Advisory Budget Commission for nearly $100 million capital improvements. That kind of money will not be available from bonds or cash reserves or current tax levies.

Tentative suggestion has been made that the General Assembly submit to vote of the people a bond issue in the amount of $150 million or more, $50 million of which would be earmarked for grants in aid to counties for public schools.

WE CAN BE SURE
Is there any limit to God's forgiveness?

No; provided, of course, that our repentance is without limit and our petition for His mercies completely sincere. Jesus declared that there is only one unforgivable sin, namely, the sin against the Holy Spirit; and this is unforgivable only because those who commit it have come to the place where they call good evil and evil good. Under such conditions there can be no repentance, and without repentance there is no forgiveness.

But if we repent, truly repent, we can be sure that there is no sin in our lives which God will not forgive. Millions of people torture themselves every year continually declaring that they have sinned beyond the possibility of God's forgiveness. No one ever sins to that extent. It is impossible to do so. So long as we repent, God is eager to forgive. Though our sins be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow. Though iniquity pile up to the height of the mountains, God's love and mercy take hold of that mountain and cast it into the sea.

We would save ourselves so much pain and anxiety if we would only accept God's sincere assurance that He is willing to forgive every sin and all the sins for which we truly repent. All we can do is to repent, but when we have done that, we can be absolutely sure that God will forgive.

What'd A-Test Suspension Accomplish?

By BILLY ARNOLD

Introduced To The Army

Well, I can start telling war stories now. I had my first contact with the army this week when me and a carload of other boys were carted off to Raleigh for pre-induction exams.

We were piled into a bus at 7:00 in the morning and sent on our way to the capital. There were 36 of us and practically everybody was still asleep. The most lively of the whole bunch were six or seven colored boys who laughed and talked about wine, women, and wine all the way up there and all the way back.

When we arrived in Raleigh, they herded us into a large room and this bored-looking fellow named Sgt. Thrift spoke to us. Of course, he didn't tell us anything. He said, "Most of you have been here before so I won't go through the usual talk."

After that, we were handed a handful of form papers and told to follow this man in a white suit. We went into a room and took a test. Then another bored man in a white suit told us to get ready for the physical exam.

We went through several rooms in various states of nakedness and unknuckled, pushed along by the sing-song chants of the medics, who looked at the walls sleepily while they ran us through.

There was one medic with thick glasses who must have been doing the same kind of work for most of his life because he had perfected a primitive chant which he grunted at each of the boys as they went through the X-Ray room. He seemed to be playing a dull sort of game with himself, singing his words in rhythm as he flipped the switch on and off.

He ran his words together so that nobody could tell what he was saying (which I found out was typical). "Alright hands on your hips breathe in chest against the glass don't breathe don't move hold it now breathe move on next alright."

In another room they lined us all up and drew a tube of blood out of our arms. They didn't explain what it was for, of course, but there was this corporal with big ears and I think he was a vampire.

After that was all over, they sent us into this big room and told us to make ourselves comfortable. We did that for two hours. Then, the bored-looking Sgt. Thrift came back in with our papers and told everybody who was eligible and who wasn't.

On the way back home, the 1A's either slept or sat staring dully out the windows, while the 4F's laughed and joked and made fun at the 1A's.

One colored boy sitting behind me kept saying, "I don't know what them F's be but I got four of them."

Somebody up in the front of the bus sang the Star Spangled Banner all the way home.

Other Editors Saying --- Quiz Show Scrutiny

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

For those persons who spend part of their time watching television's quiz shows, and derive a certain amount of enjoyment from these programs, there may be a measure of disenchantment involved as a result of investigations of various quiz programs on television.

It all started with the popular daytime quiz show, "Dotto." This program was abruptly taken off the air about a week ago. No explanation was given at the time for this action. A spokesman in the office of the New York County District Attorney announced yesterday that 10 persons have been questioned so far in connection with "Dotto."

Executive Asst. Dist. Attorney Davis S. Worgan has revealed that at least four shows are under scrutiny for possible irregularities. Worgan said that complaints several shows now under survey.

It has been reported that one contestant kept a notebook with the answers to the questions to be asked on the quiz show. An affidavit to this effect was sent to the Federal Communications Commission. Subsequently "Dotto" was taken off the networks by the sponsors.

Television's multimillion-dollar quiz show empire has been built up over the past several years and has captured an amazing percentage of the TV audience. These audiences enjoy the programs for the simple reason that there is a certain element of chance involved for the contestants—or should be. In all of us there is a certain amount of gambler. Because of this, we associate ourselves with the contestants and pull for them to win. "But, if the element of chance has been removed and there is some possibility that a bit of "fixing" is going on, then a show automatically loses much of its appeal. The word "fixing" is usually associated with the fight racket, in which one opponent has arranged to lose to his adversary. It can also be applied to horse racing and other sports.

For instance, several years ago the nation was shocked by the college basketball scandals in which players were alleged to have arranged with gamblers to "fix" the margin of victory or defeat in certain games.

If there is any "fixing" going on in any of the quiz shows, it should be ferreted out and those involved punished accordingly. One might wonder why such a show would be "fixed." One reason would be to retain audience interest. A contestant, who is able to remain on a show week after week and defeat all comers would naturally build up a great audience following. They would look forward each week to the program to see if he could continue his good fortune. This might be helped along a bit by some "fixing," that is, supply him with a few answers ahead of time.

It has not been proved that is the case on any of the programs. Let us hope nothing comes of this investigation. But if it is true, swift action should be taken to see that such a thing does not happen again. Television could give itself a black eye, the result of which could mean loss of prestige and loss of audience interest that has been painstakingly built up over the years.

Daisy Passed Us By, Nobody Minds At All

North Carolinians—particularly those in the East—can breathe a little easier now. Daisy has danced by on her merry way out to sea and North Carolina's coastal area is none the worse for the experience.

All we have to do now is sweat out September and October and hope that Ella, Fifi, Gerda, Helene, Ilsa, Janice, Katy and the others don't develop, or if they do they stay well at sea like their older sisters of the season.

Since its experiences with Hazel, Connie and Diane, North Carolina's Eastern area develops a mild case of jitters every time a big storm brews far to the South. And well it might. Not only did these hurricanes take a heavy toll of property in the coastal area, but they also severely damaged crops far inland. This year with the bumper crops which Eastern North Carolina has, a hurricane any time during the next two months could cost farmers millions of dollars in losses to crops still in the fields.

We can only hope that subsequent hurricanes of this season follow the pattern of earlier storms and stay 'way from our door.

Do-It-Yourself Case For The TV Audience

The TV networks find themselves in the midst of a do-it-yourself whodunnit set off by a disgruntled contestant on one of its big-money quiz shows.

It's an uncomfortable position for the television networks that have fed the viewing public countless thousands of hours of whodunnits and quiz shows over the past few years.

There were a few raised eyebrows when "Dotto" was suddenly snatched off the air after a standby contestant on the show asserted a big winner was being given answers to the questions. Since then the controversy has mushroomed rapidly with additional charges of show-rigging being made by contestants and vigorous denials by networks and producers.

Unless we miss our guess, this is one whodunnit the viewing public will not have conveniently solved for them by the networks. In all probability the current controversy will gradually die off—though it will not be forgotten—and the audience will be left to decide the answer for itself.

Did they or didn't they? After all, it's the time the audience cleared up something for itself. Mat Dillon, Paladin and Alfred Hitchcock have been solving the mysteries for us long enough.

The Arguments On Little Rock

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Little Rock school board wants the Supreme Court to delay integration at Central High 2½ years because of the trouble integration has caused there. But the board hasn't taken the obvious steps itself to end the trouble.

That's the Eisenhower administration's argument, as expressed through the Justice Department's Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin. He told the court Thursday the trouble-makers in Little Rock are limited in number but did not seek a federal court injunction in Little Rock to stop any outsiders from interfering with the school's orderly integration. Violation of such an injunction could mean jail.

The board could have but did not seek a federal court injunction in Little Rock to stop any outsiders from interfering with the school's orderly integration. Violation of such an injunction could mean jail.

The board could have but did not seek a federal court injunction in Little Rock to stop any outsiders from interfering with the school's orderly integration. Violation of such an injunction could mean jail.

Rankin joined Thurgood Marshall, lawyer for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, in asking the court to refuse the 2½ year delay and order integration resumed immediately. Integration in Central High started last year.

The two men argued that to delay integration because of the troublemakers would be like an invitation to any group, which disliked a court order anywhere, to block it by violence. The most the board's lawyer, Richard C. Butler — could say was that continued integration at Central High would mean more trouble, the return of federal troops and interference with Little Rock's education program.

This didn't seem to impress Chief Justice Warren, who asked Butler: Can we afford to defer a program of this kind merely because there are elements in a community that will commit violence to prevent it from going into effect? It seems like a good guess the court will turn down the board. Rankin further told the court that before the school board sought a delay there was no evidence it had asked the help of any state or city officials to cope with the disturbances of which it complained.

In its special session yesterday, the court heard arguments from all sides but postponed a decision. Here is a brief explanation of the legal situation which by now is getting complicated:

Before Central High's opening last year, the board had prepared a plan for integration. The school superintendent thought it could be carried out peacefully. This satisfied Federal Dist. Judge Ronald Davies, who ordered integration to begin last September.

But then came the mob violence which kept the Negro children out of Central High. President Eisenhower sent in federal troops to see that Davies' order was carried out by holding the mob in check and getting the children to school.

The troops remained throughout the school year and the Negroes went to classes. But tension increased. There were unpleasant incidents inside the school between the white and Negro students.

In June the board went to another federal judge — this time Harry J. Lemley — and asked him to set aside Davies' order and postpone integration. Lemley agreed and ordered integration delayed 2½ years.

Then the NAACP moved in. It asked the next higher court, the U. S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, to overrule Lemley and order integration continued when Central High opened this September. The Circuit Court did. The next step was up to the board.

There was one more court, the Supreme Court, to which it could appeal. This required time. To give the board the needed time the Circuit Court held up on its own order to continue integration by granting what's called a stay.

Tougher Labor Attitude Ahead

By ELMER ROESSNER

Business can expect a tougher attitude by labor for the rest of this year. The firmness shown by Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, in dealing with the major motor companies is symptomatic.

The cause of this toughness is a feeling that labor made too many concessions during the recent slump. Many unionists believe employers misled them into demands were modified too much; they say: "We wuz robbed."

The situation has been sharpened by the delayed disclosure of the United Auto Workers-Kelvinator contract, which provided for a two-year wage freeze. The contract was signed June 6 but kept secret until last week.

If publicized on the signing, it would have caused no surprise. The appliance business was at a low in June. A few unions at that time were actually accepting cuts in wages; the Kelvinator deal didn't look bad. Besides, it appeared to prevent serious layoffs.

TIMES CHANGE RAPIDLY

But as of now, the appliance business is looking up. The contract looks soft and, worse, it is infuriating to the negotiators in the auto contracts. And this anger, and the toughness it causes, is spreading.

Here are some more forecasts in the field of business: Gasoline cuts. The drop in prices after the end of the touring season may be larger than normal. Several refineries have over-production problems; some are seeking relief by cutting back production; others will attempt to sell surpluses by cutting prices more than seasonally.

Trouble in Latin America. The situation will get worse before it gets better. Sags in oil demand, coffee prices and copper demand are intensifying economic problems that can breed political unrest. Help is on the way; more

American governmental aid and private investment in oil and industry will benefit, but before they become effective there is danger of real trouble.

THOSE NEW CARS

1959 autos; fancy! Word from Detroit indicates the new model cars will have more aluminum than ever, both inside and on the trim; and that fins will be longer and more flaring.

Lead and copper cutbacks. Failure of Congress to pass out benefits for the nonferrous metals industry may lead to more cuts in production. Some lead operations have been cut, and similar steps are being considered in other lead and copper producing firms.

More low-tax prizes. Prizes payable over a term of years are increasingly popular in advertising contests and television shows. Contestants have figured out that drawn-out prizes are worth much more, so deferred prizes are attracting the best ground shakers.

Fresh Ocean Water

By RENNIE TAYLOR

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — American researchers are getting ready to take a long step toward the large-scale production of fresh water from the oceans.

Purification methods tried out at the pilot plant level in the past five years are beginning to show some indication of what such water will cost.

Still larger installations, giving much more definite information, are now in the offing. Just before adjourning, Congress approved a bill authorizing construction of five experimental desalting plants in various parts of the country.

Dozens of processes already are available for saline water conversion on a small scale — anywhere from a pint to 25,000 a day. But the costs involved and the useful lifetimes of these plants so far have not been determined accurately enough to warrant the risking of millions of dollars on big-scale duplication.

The U. S. Interior Department's Office of Saline Water says best of these processes probably could produce fresh water on a large scale at $2 to $3 a thousand.

This doesn't look expensive but alongside present costs for naturally fresh water it is astronomical.

Some irrigation districts supply water for only a few cents an acre foot, but the range is up to $7 or more. An acre foot is about 325,000 gallons.

The OSW in its current report says the use of fresh water from the sea probably will begin when the cost gets down to $1 a thousand gallons and that municipalities will start using it when the cost settles to 50 to 60 cents a thousand. No one can say exactly when either of these prices will be reached.

Out of some 20 different ways of purifying sea water, there are about five really promising ones, said the OSW. They are (1) evaporation by artificial heat, (2) evaporation by solar heat, (3) various kinds of filtering, (4) freezing, and (5) chemical or electrical purification.

Water is always evaporating when not confined. It can turn to steam without coming to boiling heat. The steam on your bathroom windows after a hot shower is evidence of this. When steam from salt water settles on a cool surface it condenses into fresh water droplets.

Evaporator systems take advantage of this process. Some of them utilize waste heat from steam plants or other industrial installations to heat the sea water a little causing a speedup of natural evaporation.

To utilize the sun's heat, some plants are in the form of large, shallow troughs covered with tent-like blankets of clear plastic. The transparent plastic lets some of the sun's heat through to the water, speeding evaporation. The under side of the plastic collects the steam. Air on the outside of the tent gives just enough cooling to condense the steam into droplets which run down the inside of the tent into gutters and are drained off for use.

Another process speeds evaporation by whirling the sea water in a drum that looks like a big spinning top. This spreads the water into a very thin layer on the inside of the drum and increases the evaporation rate enormously. But it also can cause the salt water to form a scale on the inside surface and destroy its efficiency. So the researchers are looking for a way to lick the scale problem.

Some experimenters are making membranes which will filter the salt particles out and let the water molecules through. Others are working on ways to lure the salt particles out of the water by electrical means. Still others are freezing salt water into slush, causing a separation of the water and its salts.

Loss Of Whitey Ford Is Worrying Casey Stengel

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
"I'm worried," says Casey Stengel, and that's not quite as preposterous as it sounds.
He reportedly has another two-year contract, waiting for him as manager of the New York Yankees at $80,000 a year. And he has a still breezy 10½-game lead en route to his ninth American League pennant.
But, at the moment, he doesn't have Whitey Ford.
The Yankees' stubby southpaw ace (14-7) is on the shelf with a sore arm. Ford is no loss in what's left of the AL season, but he could be a real blow in the world series. Unable to throw a curve without pain since a hurried warm-up

August 10, Whitey gave his arm a test last night at Washington and it flunked. He faced only two men, got them out, then quit and the Senators made off with a 3-0 victory behind the six-hit pitching of Pete Ramos.
Chicago's second place White Sox picked up a game as Dick Donovan blanked Detroit 3-0 on four hits. Third place Boston whipped Baltimore 5-2. Kansas City landed a virtual tie with Cleveland for sixth by beating the Indians 8-7.
In the National League, second place Pittsburgh shaved Milwaukee's lead to 6½ games by beating the Braves 3-2. Los Angeles defeated San Francisco 4-1. St. Louis beat the Chicago Cubs 7-5 and Cincinnati rapped Philadelphia 5-3.

Ford, winless in two decisions and unable to complete any of four starts since his bullpen blunder, figures his arm trouble is "the same thing I usually get in spring training. I think if I get a rest for about a week, it will be all right."
With Ford forced to quit, Stengel brought Murray Dickson on in relief. The little veteran, making his debut as a Yankee after last week's purchase from Kansas City, gave up only four hits in his 1-3 innings.
Ramos checked the champs on to his own over the last seven innings for his third shutout in a 12-13 record.

Pirates Blowing Foam Off Milwaukee's Beer

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bob Friend finally has won 18. Dick Stuart is no flop. And the Pittsburgh Pirates? Man, they're blowing the foam off the beer in Milwaukee.
The barreling Bucs got off running in their week-long showdown with the Braves by winning 3-2 at Milwaukee last night, trimming the champs' National League lead to 6½ games again.
The second place Pirates trail the Braves by six games in the lost column—and they have six left to play with 'em, single games today and tomorrow at Milwaukee and four in Pittsburgh next weekend.
Friend, the workhorse of the Buc staff, needed some relief help—and got plenty of it from Don Gross—at the end, but he had enough to out-duel southpaw Warren Spahn and move out all alone as the NL's top winner.
The Pirate right-hander now is 18-13. Spahn, firing for his ninth season of 20 or more victories, is 17-10.
Los Angeles knocked off third place San Francisco 4-1 and retained fourth place over the St. Louis Cardinals, who defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-5. Cincinnati rapped Philadelphia 5-3.
In the American League, Pete Ramos blanked the New York Yankees on six hits for a 3-0 Washington victory. The Chicago White Sox trimmed the Yankees' lead to 10½ games by belting Detroit 3-0 on Dick Donovan's four hits. Boston beat Baltimore 5-2 and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 8-7.
Friend, now 4-1 against the Braves and 2-1 in duels with Spahn, had a two-run lead and a six-hitter going into the ninth. Then Eddie Mathews belted his 28th home run and Hank Aaron, who was 4-for-4, singled, Gross, a lefty, came on, got left-handed batter Wes Covington on a double play, and then got left-handed batter Frank Torre on a ground ball that bagged it.
The Dodgers handed the Giants their eighth defeat in 10 games behind the five-hit pitching of Don Drysdale and home runs by Carl Furillo and Don Zimmer. Drysdale (10-11) had a three-hit shutout until Leon Wagner homered with two out in the eighth. Lefty Paul Giel (4-4) lost it.
Wally Moon drove in three runs for the Cards with a home run and a two-run triple while Larry Jackson won his 12th with his sixth straight complete game. Dick Drott (6-11) was the loser.
Bob Purkey, the right-hander the Pirates traded to Cincinnati for Gross last December, won his 15th, tops on the Redleg staff, with an eight-hitter. The Reds also had a walk and an infield out for four runs in the fifth. Loser Don Cardwell (2-3) had given up just one hit 'til then.

It Doesn't Pay To Box When Mad

NEW YORK (AP) — It doesn't pay to get mad in pro boxing.
Don Jordan found that out last night. The 23-year-old Californian outpointed French Algerian La-houari Godih at Madison Square Garden in a television 10-rounder.
Don, however, could have won by a shutout or by a knockout, but he let his temper get the better of him.
"I got sore by his grabbing and tried to take him out with one punch," said the tall, lean light-weight and welterweight contender. "I know now it was a mistake. I had him going by mixing up my punches."
Jordan, making his eastern and network television debut, piled up a huge margin in the first five rounds. His own stabbing left jabs more than matched Godih's lefts and his rights shook the 29-year-old invader in almost every round.
Godih, tall and lean like his rival, took advantage of Jordan's one-track style in the second half to make the fight closer than it should have been. Jordan has far more class.
The officials had Jordan the winner by the following votes: Referee Artie Mercante, 7-1 and 2 even; Judge Artie Aidala 7-3 and Judge Artie Schwarz, 6-4. The AP card had Jordan ahead 6-4.
Jordan now has won four straight for a 39-11-2 record.
He is ranked fourth among light-weight contenders by the NBA and seventh welterweight contender by Ring Magazine.
He weighed 139¼ to Godih's 136½.

A Look At Athletics

By DR. N. M. JORGENSEN

Membership in the Southern Conference

The question frequently arises regarding the aspirations and intentions of East Carolina College toward gaining entrance into the Southern Conference.
The record indicates that ECC made formal application for membership in 1954. At that time the Conference officials took no action toward the bid, other than to indicate that due to the many problems confronting them as a result of the split in the old Southern Conference, no new members would be added. Renewed efforts have been made on several occasions since this initial application without any concrete developments.
There are undoubtedly several definite advantages to be gained from such a move. Scheduling problems would be greatly eased. A richer and expanded program would be possible. The prestige of being affiliated in a higher conference would certainly be a factor.
Admittance to the Southern Conference would, however, also create tremendous new obligations and responsibilities. Enlarged and additional athletic facilities would be required. An increased personnel, publicity and public relations people would be needed. More financial support to cover additional scholarships, especially in football, would be a must.
These greatly increased needs would call for the united support—morally and financially—of all the people in Eastern Carolina.
In the meantime, we are striving to fulfill our obligations as best we can in the North State Conference of which we are now a member.

Putting Pressure On Sugar Ray To Defend His Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California will put pressure on the National Boxing Assn. to make Sugar Ray Robinson either defend his world middleweight crown or give it up.
The plan is to get a top contender through an elimination tournament, then give a "fight or quit" ultimatum to Robinson.
Harry W. Falk Jr., a vice president of the NBA and a member of the state athletic commission, said he'd make the proposal at the NBA's Sept. 7 meeting in Las Vegas, Nev.
"It's a crime to permit a man to defend once a year against a man of his choice," Falk said yesterday. "Some of these other boys should be given a chance."

Shelby's John Kouri Lost The Big One

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — John Kouri, a rangy, righthanded pitcher, won 27 games this year in high school and American Legion Junior baseball. He lost one, probably the one that meant the most of all to him and his teammates.
Kouri was outpitched last night as Memphis, behind the five-hit hurling of Joel Porter, shut out Shelby 4-0 and won the Region 4 American Legion Junior tournament here.
Memphis will represent Region 4 in the Section B tournament starting Monday at Ponchatoula, La., and in the first round will play Greenwood, S.C., which won the Region 5 tournament last night at Greenwood.
On almost any other night, Kouri's pitching would have been adequate. He allowed three earned runs, struck out eight and walked four, but allowed Memphis to bunch its hits.
Righthander Porter, however, was the master. He struck out seven and walked six and seldom was threatened. Three of the hits he surrendered were by Junior Greene, whose eighth inning double almost cleared the fence but bounced back into part of the paid crowd of 4,800 for a ground rules double.
Shelby's other threat came in the fifth, when Tom Wright singled and stole second. He headed for home when Wallace Fortenberry singled to center, but Fortenberry tried to stretch it and was cut down before Wright reached the plate. Bob Martin made the killing peg to shortstop Phil Gagliano.
Porter walked the first Shelby batter in the ninth and the next man was safe on an error, but John Hammett relieved and retired the side in order.
Memphis scored two runs in the sixth when Martin and Sparky Knight singled and Porter was safe on an error that loaded the bases. Lynn Ross singled to drive in Martin and Knight.
Tim McCarver singled in the seventh, advanced on a sacrifice and outfield fly, and then got caught in a rundown off third base. He scored when Shelby catcher Ronnie O'Shields threw the ball away. Successful doubles in the ninth by Gagliano and McCarver produced the final Memphis run.

Pitchers Were Stingy But Danville Lost

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Danville pitchers gave up only five hits last night in two games, but the Carolina League leaders lost one game.
Dick Tindall hurled a two-hitter for Danville in the nightcap for a 6-2 win after Wilson had won the seven-inning opener 4-3. Verle Tiefenthaler yielded only three hits in the five innings he worked in the opener, but was credited with the loss.
Tindall held Wilson hitless in the second game until the sixth when Al Barth homered with one aboard.
Second place Greensboro continued to lose ground to Danville, dropping a 2-1 decision to Winston-Salem. Red Irby enabled the Winston-Salem to score the winning run in the ninth. Winston-Salem's lefty Al Sanders bested lefty Rudy Serrett in a tight duel. Sanders gave up four hits and Serrett six.
High Point-Thomasville clubbed three Raleigh pitchers for 16 hits to gain a 9-5 win and a split in their two-game series. The Hi-Toms jumped to a three-run lead in the first inning, added three more in the second and three in the fourth.
Burlington banged out 13 hits in a 9-5 victory over Durham. Trailing by three runs, Burlington evened it with three in the third, went ahead with three in the sixth, got one in the seventh and two in the eighth.
Games tonight: Wilson at Burlington, Danville at Winston-Salem, Hi-Tom at Durham, and Greensboro at Raleigh.

Seeded Players Dominate Play At Greensboro

GREENSBORO (AP) — Quarterfinals were scheduled today in men's singles play of the North Carolina Closed Senior tennis championships, and seeded players continued to dominate the field.
Top-seeded Allen Morris of Charlotte had some trouble before downing Richard Sapp of Winston-Salem yesterday, 6-3, 6-4. He was to play a second round match before the quarterfinals, facing Gil Stacy of Charlotte.
In other matches today, Jack Warmath of Greensboro was the winner of the Morris match in the quarterfinals; Malcolm Clark of Southern Pines was matched against fourth-seeded Allen Strand of Greensboro; second-seeded Sam Daniel of Leaksville faced Dr. Fred West of Raleigh; and Ed Hudgins of Greensboro played No. 3 seed Jim Winstead of Roxboro.
Daniel, the defending champion, defeated James Spence of Greensboro yesterday, 6-2, 6-2. Winstead also won 6-2, 6-2, over Frank Draper of Greensboro; Strand defeated Dave Pearsall of Charlotte 6-0, 6-2.
Quarterfinals and semifinals in veterans' singles also were scheduled today. In one semifinal match Dr. Fred West of Raleigh was to face Gil Stacy of Charlotte. The other matched Bill Carrigan of Greensboro against the winner of a quarterfinal match between Henry Clark of Chapel Hill and C. R. Council of Raleigh.
The men's doubles began first round play yesterday.

Wants To See The Guy Who Can Lick Him

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Modesty dictates that Mal Anderson avoid any predictions of winning the national tennis championship.
"But," said the tall Australian Davis Cup ace today, "I want to see the guy who's going to lick me."
The handful of spectators who showed up for the opening of the 10-day tournament in the West Side Tennis Club were shocked when Anderson dropped the first set of his first round match to Bob Perry of Los Angeles.
Was this the upset of the year coming was Anderson really that bad?
"Not at all," shrugged Mal, who won the tournament last year although he wasn't even seeded. This time he is No. 1. "I just haven't been practicing much lately. In fact, I hadn't been on the courts in a couple of days."
"You'd be surprised how rusty you can get in that time. It took me a set to get going." Once he did get going, as he put it, Perry didn't have a chance. The final score was 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.
There were a few minor upsets in the opening day's play. Billy Knight of England ousted Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., one of the better young players in the United States 6-3, 6-3, 6-8, 4-6, 7-5. And in the women's division Janne Arth of St. Paul dropped fifth seeded Janet Hopps of Seattle, 1-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Winston-Salem Golfer Leads In BCC Open

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Jim Ferree, a bespectacled Southerner from Winston-Salem, N.C., carried a four-stroke lead into the third round of the $42,000 British Columbia Centennial Open golf tournament today.
Ferree zoomed into the lead yesterday when he tamed the 6,505-yard point Grey Course for a blistering, 11-under-par 61 and a half-way total of 130 for the first 36 holes.
The 27-year-old North Carolinian carded nine birdies and one eagle on his fabulous round, taking an eagle three on the 460-yard 18th hole with a 35-foot putt.
Knotted at 134 were two veterans of the tournament trail, Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and burly Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y. Souchak and Finsterwald both came in with 69s yesterday.
Bill Casper of Apple Valley, Calif., and Ken Venturi of San Francisco were three more strokes back at 137. Casper brought in a 71 yesterday and Venturi a 70.
The field plays 18 more holes today, takes Sunday off and then finishes the 72-hole grind with the final 18 on Monday.

ECC Football Leaders Will Be Back In 1958

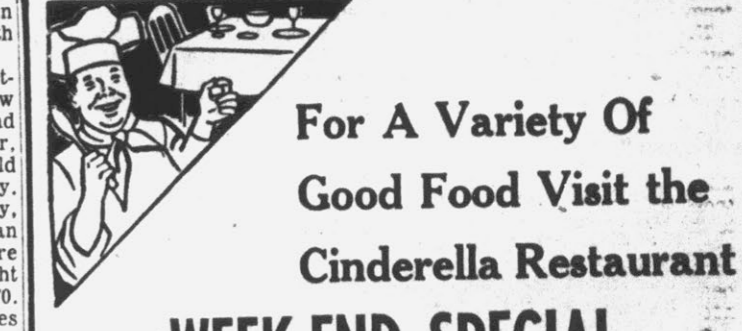

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor
A glance at last year's East Carolina College football records reveals that every single one of the school's individual leaders, as far as statistics are concerned, will be back in action in 1958 as regulars.
The leaders in rushing, passing, pass receiving, scoring, punting, and total offense are back for more football and only one of them is a senior.
James Speight, All-Conference All-State, All-NAIA District half-back last year for the Pirates, owns three of those individual titles. As a 165-pound offensive threat, Speight nipped the rushing honors, scoring honors, and total offense laurels. Speight will be a junior this season and will have still another year to go. He is regarded one of the most dangerous running backs in the Southeast and is the North State Conference's most-likely choice for an All-America position this fall.
In 1957, Speight capped the rushing honors by reeling off a total of 479 yards in 81 carries for an average of 5.9 yards every time he touched the ball.
He snared the scoring honors by racking up a total of four touchdowns and a total of 24 points. That means the former high school All-State performer scored 1-3 of his club's points.
In the total offense department, Speight picked up the 479 yards rushing, 97 more passing, for a total of 576 yards. He had a game average of a phenomenal 64 yards, Spruce Pine '40, Walnut 12

The whole East Carolina team averaged only 208.1 yards per game, indicating that Speight gained over half the club's yardage in each game.
And the 21-year-old Greenville youth did this on a team which won only one game all season.

Other Leaders
Ralph Zehring, a junior slated for first-string quarterback duty with the Bucs this season, nabbed passing honors in 1957 with 38 completions and a total of 592 yards, and two touchdowns. Zehring will be one of the club's co-captains this fall and is expected to handle the team from the key slot.
End Howard Beale, another junior at 185 pounds, snared 11 passes for a total of 167 yards and two touchdowns to top the pass receiving honors.
Joe Holmes, the only one of the group who will be graduating after this season, was the team's top punter during the 1957 season. Holmes kicked 13 times for an average of 40.5.

Tatum Says All But Two Will Be Stronger

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's football coach, Jim Tatum, figures that every team in the Atlantic Coast Conference will be improved this season except Duke and North Carolina State.
Tatum was one of three Big Four representatives on hand for the Raleigh Kiwanis Club's football preview luncheon yesterday. Others were Coach Earle Edwards of State and Wake Forest publicity director Marvin Francis, substiting for Coach Paul Amen.
Duke's heavy losses by graduation in the line will make a difference in Duke's success, Tatum indicated. He told the club Duke Coach Bill Murray "said last year's squad was the best he ever had. I know losing the games he did was a disappointment to him. But those huge linemen will be hard to replace."
Edwards said that despite the heavy losses at State, "We still have some good football players." Francis expressed the opinion that Wake Forest will have an improved team this season.
Tatum said, "I believe Clemson is as good as everybody says they are. I never saw a team with as many fine backs. They have six backs that would be stars at most colleges."

Ike 'Gratified' Russia Willing Talk Atom Test Ban

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—President Eisenhower today expressed gratification that Russia has agreed to join the United States and Britain in talks on banning nuclear weapons tests.

The President's reaction to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's Moscow announcement was reported to newsmen at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters by his press secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Hagerty replied sure when asked whether the United States would be willing to hold the talks in Geneva as proposed by Khrushchev.

Russia accepted the U. S.-British suggestion the talks start Oct. 31.

"The President is gratified that the Soviet government has agreed to start negotiations with us and the British," Hagerty said at a news conference.

"He hopes that as a result of the negotiations starting Oct. 31 a workable agreement can be reached between the three countries."

Hagerty talked with reporters as Eisenhower, starting his first full day of vacation in this resort area, made ready for a round of golf at the Newport Country Club. The President was looking forward to a Labor Day weekend free of work.

Hagerty also disclosed that shortly after arrival from Washington late yesterday the President informally discussed the tense Far East situation with Vice Adm. Stuart Ingersoll, one of his hosts at the U. S. Naval Base here.

Ingersoll, who now heads the Navy War College, was chief of the U. S. Defense Command in the Formosa area in 1955-57. He also is a former commander of the U. S. 7th Fleet, which still is patrolling Formosa Strait in the current crisis as the Chinese Communists threaten an invasion of the Nationalist-held offshore islands.

Eisenhower and Ingersoll reviewed the admiral's experiences in that area and also talked over the present picture for 45 minutes.

Hagerty provided no detail regarding the talks. But he said the fact Mayor Henry Wilkinson of Newport also was present underscored the informal nature of the discussion at Eisenhower's vacation residence at Ft. Adams on Narragansett Bay.

As for Russia's acceptance of the Western proposal to talks on banning nuclear weapons tests, Hagerty said in reply to a question that he does not look for the President to go to Geneva for at least the first round of the conference.

Hagerty said the U. S. delegation probably would be made up largely of technical experts at the start.

Asked whether a summit conference might develop later with Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Khrushchev present, Hagerty replied he could not say at this time. He called the question too previous.

Khrushchev's agreement to join in the talks was coupled with some indications the Soviet Union might break its own current ban on tests—announced last March.

In proposing the talks last week, Eisenhower stipulated the United States is ready to suspend tests for one year starting Oct. 31, provided Russia maintains its ban.

The President expressed hope a 12-month halt would lead to a permanent ban as part of a general agreement.

Hagerty declined comment on the Khrushchev indications Russia might lift its ban at least temporarily pending any permanent halt.

The United States announced yesterday that this country will conduct 10 more nuclear tests at the Nevada Proving Grounds before Oct. 31.

Eisenhower arrived yesterday after a hurricane-delayed flight from Washington.

Farmers Urged To Cut Stalks

Farmers were urged to cut tobacco stalks and plow out the roots by Assistant County Agent S.J. Weeks.

"By exposing the roots to the sun you can greatly reduce the population of the three types of nematodes that can damage your tobacco crop," Weeks told farmers.

"Recent tests indicated that the practice of exposing the roots to the sun may reduce the nematode population as much as 90 percent," he stated. "However, this practice alone does not reduce the nematode population low enough to give adequate control. It helps make crop rotation and soil fumigation more effective."

"The most effective way of exposing roots to the sun is to turn out the roots with a turning plow. Then drag over them with a section harrow or weeder three or four days later to free more of the roots from the soil."

"Crop rotation is also an important practice that can help control nematodes. There are several cropping systems that can be worked in a rotation that have proven to be very effective. Now is the time to plan and start the rotation that will best fit into your overall farming operation."

Weeks said a bulletin "Cropping System for Nematode Control and Tobacco Production" is available at the Farm Agent's office.

Dr. Messick Is Kiwanis Speaker

By TOMMY SNOWDEN

Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina College, was the guest dinner speaker at the weekly Greenville Kiwanis Club meeting last night.

He traced the growth of the college over the past 11 years and told of the capital improvements for the biennium 1959-1961.

Permanent improvement appropriations at the school since 1947 have been in excess of $11,000,000. Among the buildings and improvements since 1947 are additions to the laundry and power plant, health and physical education building, annex to Ragsdale Hall, Erwin Hall, Garrett Hall for women, Umstead and Slay halls for men, library, auditorium-theatre, cafeteria and gymnasium for the laboratory school, athletic fields and $35,000 stadium, purchased 40 acres of land, a college radio station and closed circuit television.

Projects now underway, as cited by Dr. Messick, include doubling the size of the present administration building, annex to music building, house 512 men, a new dormitory to house 520 men, elementary school building, a gymnasium, additional outdoor athletic facilities, and various other additions and improvements to existing facilities and buildings. The two new dormitories to be constructed during this period will cost in excess of $2,000,000.

Dr. Messick stated that during 1945-1946 the "on campus" enrollment was 1,056, with 393 students attending summer school. There were no extension students. During the 1957-1958 term the "on campus" enrollment was 3,947. 2,263 students attended summer school this summer, and there were 1,436 people enrolled in the college's extension program.

Dr. Messick was introduced by Kiwanian J. Ed Waldrop, chairman of the Kiwanis Education and Fellowship Committee.

Guests of the club were Vance Perkins of Greenville and Prof. Earl Beach, newly assigned to the music department of East Carolina College. The birthday of Hunter B. Keck was honored. John Messick took the attendance prize. The invocation was given by Charles Wilkerson, Vice-president. John A. Collins Jr. presided in the absence of President J. D. McGlohon, who was out of the city.

'Pulled The Job' A Bit Too Soon

WINTERVILLE—The thieves or thief who stole the safe from the local high school Thursday night "pulled the job" one night too soon—from a monetary standpoint.

Had the break-in and robbery occurred last night, between three and four thousand dollars would have been in the safe instead of the $416 that was stolen. Principal Paul Clark commented this morning. Yesterday was registration day at the local school.

Authorities are continuing their investigation. SBI Agent Clyde Fentress of Washington has been called in to assist. Thus far the stolen safe has not been recovered nor have any suspects been arrested.

Police Chief J. E. Buck stated this morning that a car was used to "cart" the safe away. Time of the robbery has not been established but officers feel the incident occurred early Friday morning.

Joseph T. Everett Funeral On Sunday

Joseph T. Everett, 82, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Moore, near Belvoir, at four o'clock Saturday morning. He had been in failing health for the past six years and critically ill for seven weeks.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Sunday afternoon at 2:30 by the Rev. D. W. Alexander, Free Will Baptist minister of Bethel. Burial will be in the Bullock family cemetery near Belvoir.

Mr. Everett spent most of his life in Pitt County and had lived in the Belvoir community for the past 40 years. He had retired from farming in 1949. His wife, Mrs. Jennie Louise Everett, died in 1953.

Surviving are six sons, Horace Everett of Tarboro, Louis and Roy Everett of Greenville, Leslie T. Everett of Bethel, Obie Everett of Falkland and Arthur Everett of Old Sparta; six daughters, Mrs. Mamie E. Peaden and Mrs. Ray Nichols of Greenville, Mrs. Thomas Hathaway and Mrs. J. L. Moore of Belvoir, Mrs. J. A. Bobbitt of Tarboro, and Mrs. Royston Jones of Baltimore, Md.; 44 grandchildren; 28 great grandchildren; a half brother, John Everett of Durham; and a half sister, Mrs. Ella Shambley of Durham.

Price Average Continues Sag

PARMVILLE—Prices continued to drop yesterday as the Farmville Tobacco Market moved into its three-day Labor Day weekend.

Sales Supervisor Charles S. Edwards said the market yesterday averaged $52.77 per 100 pounds for 639,354 pounds of tobacco. Total sales during the day were $347,937.86. The figures dropped the market's average for the season to $55.54.

Edwards said the market expects a full sale Tuesday.

FIREMAN NOTIFIED HIS OWN CAR WAS ABLAZE

Off-duty fireman Tony Brannon was working under his car at a service station on Dickinson Ave. early this morning.

A passing motorist stopped to inform him that the front seat of his car was on fire.

Brannon called his colleagues from the West End Sub-station. The blaze was extinguished.

Little Rock Pondering School Opening Date

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Little Rock school board today pondered a question important to the South and the nation: When will Central High School open for the fall term?

School Supt. Virgil Blossom announced the board will decide Monday.

Wrapped up in this point is the question of whether Central High opens as a segregated institution with federal court blessing.

If it opens Sept. 8—the date previously set by the board— it will be under no court orders to integrate.

If the board sets the fall term's start at Sept. 15, the U. S. Supreme Court may have by that time ordered Central High to continue desegregation for a second straight year.

Figuring in the board's decision, Blossom said, is the Supreme Court's erroneous assumption school will not open until Sept. 15. For this reason, Chief Justice Earl Warren Thursday called for a second hearing Sept. 11 on whether Central High should integrate immediately or follow lower court rulings giving Little Rock a breather.

The school board itself asked the courts to permit the delay. Demonstrators rioted and federal troops were called in last fall when nine Negro children entered previously all-white Central.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus withheld his signature from a bill passed by this week's extraordinary session of the legislature which calls for a Sept. 15 opening.

Thus, if the board stands pat and Faubus does not sign the bill, the Supreme Court will be confronted with a segregated Central High before it can act.

The historic special session of the Arkansas legislature recessed yesterday after handing the governor all the powers he asked to fight federal court integration rulings.

Keystone bill is one permitting the governor to close any public school about to be integrated by federal force or court orders. A law permitting a private corporation to lease school buildings and continue the school as a private venture has been on the books since 1875.

Dr. Trevathan Speaks To Club

Last night at the weekly supper meeting of the Greenville Exchange Club Dr. Earl Trevathan spoke on the importance of increasing the size and facilities of Pitt Memorial Hospital and the need for qualified voters to register during the coming next three Saturdays and to vote for the required bond issue.

He told of the crowded conditions and lack of facilities in our local hospital, brought about in the main by the great increase in demand for hospital services since 1951. For instance, he explained, the average census of the hospital in 1951 was 67 persons—today the average is 108. He spoke of the many needed new improvements and what they would mean to the people of the county and explained the bond issue which would be necessary to get them. At the end of his talk the Exchange Club passed a motion unanimously endorsing the plan and also voted to spend its own money in advertising to encourage the people to register and vote for the issue.

Dr. Badger Clark was a guest of the club. President Fred Forbes presided.

First Graders Will Have An 'Orientation Day' Too

Children who will be entering first grade classes in Greenville City Schools this year will have a day all to themselves next week. Although the city's nine schools are scheduled to begin the 1958-1959 term until Wednesday morning, Superintendent J.H. Rose said today first graders will report to their classes Tuesday morning for an hour-long introduction to their teachers and schools. The orientation period is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m.

Rose said that during the hour, the first graders will be shown their buildings, toilets, cafeteria, school grounds and other points by teachers who will direct their instruction during the year. The superintendent added that all of the city's first grade teachers have volunteered their time for the orientation period.

"We believe the orientation period will be valuable for the students," Rose said. "It will give each of them an opportunity to become acquainted with the schools without the noise and excitement of opening day when many older children are also present."

Parents of the first graders have been notified by mail of the proposal and requested to have their children at the schools they will attend.

Heavy Offering Of Leaf Sold On Greenville Mart

Heavy offerings of heavy, common and medium quality types and leaf were sold on the Greenville Tobacco Market yesterday.

Prices for lugs, primings and the better leaf remained firm. The increased volume of low-grade types was reflected in the day's average. The local market sold 1,489,558 pounds of tobacco for $767,188.25 and an average of $51.50.

To date the Greenville market has sold 7,423,436 pounds for $1,081,529.80. The season's average is $54.98, after seven days of operation.

According to Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee cutters and top smoking tobacco continues to sell as high as $73, company purchases.

College Maintenance.... Big Operation

EAST CAROLINA'S J. N. CAPRELL . . .
Superintendent Of Buildings And Grounds

The task of maintaining an investment roughly valued at ten million dollars and which sprawls across 133 acres is a staggering proposition.

It is a never-ending job which can range from replacing a broken window pane to redecorating an entire building, including between the points every demand which can come from an active community of nearly 5,000 people.

The job is also an undertaking which, many times, is accepted, almost casually and without many second thoughts, by the people who benefit from it most.

Such a job is that of East Carolina College's Department of Buildings and Grounds. Headed by J. N. Caprell, who has a life time of association with construction and maintenance problems, the department's major responsibility is protecting North Carolina's investment in the college's physical facilities.

Included in those physical facilities are between four and five miles of streets and parking areas and 32 buildings spotted on the main campus, plus a boiler room in the power plant-laundry and toilet facilities in the stadium. Coming up now to be added to the list are additions to the Administration Building and Music Hall, plus a new classroom building on the main campus and a new 512-man dormitory on the South Campus.

To help do the job of upkeep and maintenance, Caprell and his 48-member staff have three flat-bed trucks, three pick-up trucks, one small tractor mower, two large reel-type mowers, three large whirlwind-type mowers, and two small mowers which are used as edgers and for trim work on the campus grounds. In addition to that, the department has a complete line of small tools and equipment, plus repair and replacement materials to handle any job within departmental personnel. Talents demanded of departmental personnel are varied. This week, for instance, maintenance department personnel were scattered about the campus doing such things as painting one of the faculty houses, replacing seats in the football stadium, replastering walls of a toilet in Wahl-Coates School, removing dead trees, painting the interior of the Music Hall, completing the rebuilding of two toilets in Jarvis Hall, cutting grass and removing a broken flagpole in front of Austin Building.

There is no statutory limit on what maintenance personnel can do in their job situations, although there is a practical limit. Larger jobs, or operations which require certain skilled techniques, have to go to outside people. Otherwise, it's done by college personnel.

The plan represents a savings in both time and money, plus the advantage of always having people available to be on top of any given situation. The department costs about $185,000 in the current budget, but that money is looked upon as a good investment.

The college's official family takes an understandable pride in the appearance of the buildings and grounds, a pride that extends to such agencies as the state's Advisory Budget Commission, which visited the campus last month, and other state officials.

To help do the job of upkeep and maintenance, Caprell and his 48-member staff have three flat-bed trucks, three pick-up trucks, one small tractor mower, two large reel-type mowers, three large whirlwind-type mowers, and two small mowers which are used as edgers and for trim work on the campus grounds. In addition to that, the department has a complete line of small tools and equipment, plus repair and replacement materials to handle any job within practical range of the talents of however, the Buildings

Department represents a solid business connection with Greenville. Most of the department's materials — such as nails, plaster, cement, small tools and lumber — are purchased locally. It also provides full-time employment for three carpenters, a painter, 15 yardmen, 20 janitors and seven maids, in addition to Caprell, Stock Supervisor J. C. Rogerson and Supervisor of Janitors and Maids S. L. McCarty.

Working hand-in-glove with the Buildings and Grounds Department is the college's Utilities Department, headed by H. P. Markham, which does all maintenance and small installation work for the campus system of electrical, plumbing and heating facilities. The two departments collaborate their efforts in relocating wiring, plumbing lines, radiators and other installations on the campus.

None of the work, by comparative standards, is what could be called a "major project" in construction terms. It is, rather, more a succession of small jobs which follow each other in endless succession.

It is work that can't stop if the college is to continue its function of service to North Carolina and its citizens. Contrary to popular opinion, some of the busiest times are the periods between academic terms when most members of the faculty and student body scatter to wide-spread points.

"That's when we get to do some of our most important work," one member of the department says. "It's easier with most of the folks out of the way. Just because they're off the campus doesn't mean we can stop, even if we want to."

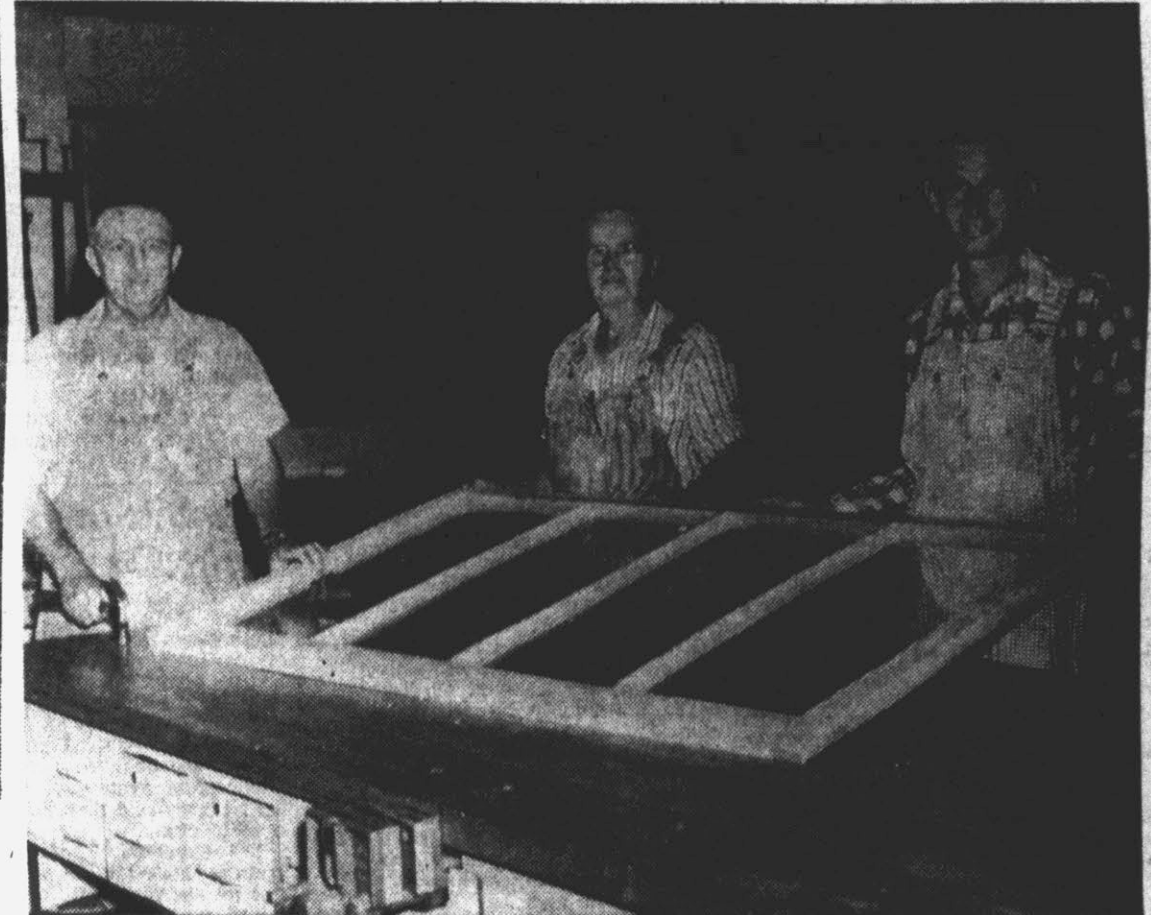

So, the departmental personnel don't stop. Somebody, it seems, works all the time to permit the basic educational aim of the college to keep going.

Students And Oil Workers Join In Prolonged Riot

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Students and oil workers with separate complaints united in five hours of rioting yesterday before police quelled them with gun fire.

A bank employe was killed accidentally when a bullet fired at a mob smashed through a bank window. Hospital authorities said 33 persons were hospitalized with wounds, many from gun fire. Scores of others were known to have been injured by stones, clubs and tear gas grenades.

Most of the rioters were students ostensibly protesting poor bus service, and workers of Pemex, the government oil monopoly, who are involved in a union squabble that has no connection with the student complaints.

More trouble was feared at a student demonstration today that may attract sympathizing railway hands, telegraphers, teachers and oil workers. Student leaders predicted 100,000 persons would show up in a downtown plaza for the demonstration.

The leftist-led railway union, which has cheered all the dissident groups, raised the threat of another strike on the nationalized railways, paralyzed twice in recent months by wildcat walkouts. The Communist party, blamed by many as prime instigator of the riots, endorsed action by both the students and oil workers.

One bright spot for harassed authorities was an announcement by city bus drivers that they were postponing their strike slated for tomorrow until after President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines' state of the union address Monday.

The drivers voted to strike in retaliation for student action that caused the government to cancel a half-cent fare boost, costing them a promised salary raise.

The first fight broke out yesterday in front of Pemex headquarters when workers tried to break into the building and accused police of cruelty in tear gassing dissident workers in rioting Thursday. Two factions of oil workers have been fighting for control of their union.

Police and firemen broke up the Pemex crowd, which reportedly included students, railway workers, telegraphers and teachers. The demonstrators regathered, however, and students captured a bus and set it afire. Demonstrators hurled bricks against police tear gas. There was hand-to-hand fighting, with police using clubs.

Police arrested several persons for the bus burning. Then a youth of about 14 shouted: "We must rescue a companion held by the judicial police. Let's go and rescue him. Stones, sticks, clubs, bottles. Forward, companions!"

A mob of about 1,000 advanced on the federal district attorney's office. With tear gas and clubs unable to stop them, police fired about 100 shots into the crowd and laid down a heavy tear gas barrage. One of the shots hit the bank clerk.

Several other demonstrations swirled into clashes later as more troops were rushed into the center of the city. A meeting of about 2,000 workers turned into a riot and a police car was attacked. But by evening the situation had quieted.

Many tourists were reported leaving and a travel agency official said he feared cancellations by incoming tourists would begin soon.

Only six members of the NAACP-sponsored Youth Council showed up for the John A. Brown Co.'s luncheonette yesterday, but the young Negroes said they would continue their effort.

Some 150 appeared Thursday. White persons held all the seats and didn't release them until other white diners arrived.

Near Ardmore, Okla., 19 Negroes enrolled at the previously all-white Springer Community School. Springer Supt. Elbert Patton said "Everything went as smooth as silk."

SPokane, Wash. (AP)—T. Sgt. Charles Cade left his son, DeWayne, 2½, and daughter, Dorene, 18 months, in the family car while he reenlisted at Fairchild Air Force Base here yesterday. The boy released the emergency brake and pressed the starter button.

The engine didn't start, but many starter hops later the car had crossed a 300-yard parade ground and banged into a pole. The lad tried to get additional mileage by keeping his finger on the starter, but all the car did was bounce.

The only damage reported was to the backside of the young driver when his airman father removed him from the controls.

Virginia Board May Step Into School Cases

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia's Pupil Placement Board, which by state law has all authority to assign pupils to public schools, had indicated it may inject itself into the Norfolk and Charlottesville integration cases.

The board was in session here yesterday when school officials in Norfolk told Federal Dist. Judge Walter E. Hoffman they were ready to assign 17 Negro pupils to white schools. At the conclusion of its meeting, the placement board issued a statement saying:

"The Pupil Placement Board cannot voluntarily recognize as valid any assignment of any pupil to any school in Virginia not made by it, in accordance with Virginia law. It is prepared to act promptly in every case in which it has been properly supplied the necessary information to justify its actions under the pupil placement law of Virginia.

In other Virginia school segregation developments:

1. Attorneys for 26 Negro Children seeking admission to white Warren County schools asked Fed. Dist. Judge John Paul for an injunction to restrain the school board from denying them admission because of race. At the same time, the state pupil placement board rejected the transfer requests of all Negro pupils seeking to enter Warren County's white schools and of six Negro pupils in Richmond.

2. The Arlington County school board officially requested police protection "in and around Arlington schools" during the term opening next Thursday. Arlington is under federal court orders to admit five Negroes to white schools.

3. Twelve Negroes who sought admission to white Alexandria schools were turned down by the school principals.

4. A Norfolk school official said plans call for the use of television to help students keep up with their lessons should schools be closed by integration.

More action in both the Norfolk and Charlottesville cases is expected next week. Both cities are under federal court orders to desegregate their schools. At the same time, they are caught by state law, which closes integrated schools, and hampered by state injunctions which enjoin them from assigning any pupils — white or Negro — to public schools.

Charlottesville has not yet taken any action on the applications of some 30 Negroes seeking admission to white schools. Judge Paul has asked to see the results of the tests and interviews the Negroes submitted to, and the Charlottesville city attorney has said he expects to arrange a meeting next week to present the information.

Paul indicated earlier that should he feel the Negroes were discriminated against, he would step in and assign them himself.

Didn't Know Of Airliner's Peril

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sixty-three homebound vacationers were landed safely at International Airport last night, hardly aware their pilot had worried for hours whether his fuel would last against strong headwinds.

There were 69 aboard, six of them crew members. Pilot Jack Pedesky of a non-scheduled Great Lakes Airlines DC4 said he had only 80 gallons of gasoline left of the 3,200 with which he began the 2,300 mile flight from Honolulu. Planes carry several hundred gallons more than normally required to protect against such an emergency.

Pedesky said bad weather slowed the flight and caused him to descend from 9,000 to 5,000 feet. He radioed an alert to the Coast Guard and Air Force but didn't tell his passengers. However, some noted that a Coast Guard plane and an Air Force plane joined them as escorts 200 miles off California and were tense until the landing.

"But the crew didn't tell us to fasten our seat belts, so we didn't worry," said Mrs. Joyce Aquino of Los Angeles.

Several other demonstrations swirled into clashes later as more troops were rushed into the center of the city. A meeting of about 2,000 workers turned into a riot and a police car was attacked. But by evening the situation had quieted.

Service Sitdown In Eighth Day

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A Negro youth group's "sitdown" for food service in a downtown luncheonette continued into its eighth day in a stalemate today.

Only six members of the NAACP-sponsored Youth Council showed up for the John A. Brown Co.'s luncheonette yesterday, but the young Negroes said they would continue their effort.

Some 150 appeared Thursday. White persons held all the seats and didn't release them until other white diners arrived.

PITT — TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY!

Highway Greeting Sign For State Given Okay

RALEIGH (AP)—A slogan playing up North Carolina as a good place to live and play has been approved in principle for welcome signs on the state's major highway entrances.

The approval was made yesterday by the State Highway Commission, which is expected to take final action on the signs at its Wayneville meeting Sept. 29-30.

The welcome signs would bear the slogan: "Welcome to North Carolina, Variety Vacationland, a good place to live, work and play."

The signs, 34 by 10 feet, would cost about $1,000 each.

By its action, the commission has abandoned plans approved several months ago for a more elaborate state welcome sign. These signs, costing about $5,000 each, would have been of brick and used the slogan: "In North Carolina everything is on the move."

In other actions, the commission warned school authorities of the danger of routing school buses over the high speed interstate highway system now under construction. It urged the State Board of Education and the 1959 Legislature to possible forbid school bus stops on these super-highways.

The commission approved four projects to be built under an emergency construction program authorized by Congress last spring if sufficient funds are available. These include a new bridge over the Tar River on Hammond Street in Rocky Mount; resurfacing of N.C. 87 in Alamance County from Graham to the John Holt store, and resurfacing of U.S. 70 from the Rowan County line south 9.4 miles.

Highway Chairman J. Melville Broughton appointed a committee of three commissioners to study changes in the highway law to be proposed to the next Legislature. They are James W. Mason of Laurinburg, Ralph Howland of Elkin and Lee White of Concord.

Highway Director W. F. Babcock said the law, which requires municipalities to pay 20 per cent of the cost of acquiring right-of-way for highway jobs inside city limits, should be studied for possible legislative revision.

Some people feel the municipalities should not necessarily bear any of the cost of certain types of highway projects. Babcock said, and on other projects they should bear more than 20 per cent of the right-of-way cost.

Automobiles are one of the safest places possible during an electrical storm, says the National Geographic Society.

ROOKIES—LEARN TO USE THE 2-WAY PROPERLY. SPEAK DISTINCTLY. BE SLOW AND CALM. YOUR DISPATCHER MUST CLEAR MANY MESSAGES.

I SAW THE PLANE THAT BROUGHT YOU, AND I SAW THEM KICK YOU OUT—JUST LIKE THEY DID ME.

YOU?

MY QUARTERS ARE AT THE OTHER END OF THE CANYON. I COULDN'T HURRY TO FIND YOU—GOT TO CONSERVE MY STRENGTH, Y'KNOW.

I CAN HARDLY BELIEVE IT! HOW LONG HAVE YOU BEEN HERE?

SINCE THE TWENTY-EIGHTH OF MARCH.

HERE—HAVE SOME.

I'VE BEEN RATIONING IT TO MYSELF, BUT YOU NEED FOOD.

WHAT IS THIS?

THAT IS DRIED GOAT MEAT.

HOW DID YOU GET IT? I HAVEN'T BEEN ABLE TO GET ANYTHING.

I MADE A SLINGSHOT FROM MY PARACHUTE LINES AND DID A BIT OF PRACTICING.

BUT THERE'S NO GAME IN THIS HOLE!

UNFORTUNATELY THAT'S TRUE, BUT ABOVE ARE WILD GOATS. ONE OF THEM STUCK HIS HEAD OVER THE CANYON RIM JUST ONCE TOO OFTEN. I GOT HIM.

THERE, THERE! THAT'S ENOUGH FOR NOW—YOU'LL FEEL BETTER SOON, OLD CHAP.

IT TASTED LIKE A CHRISTMAS DINNER.

WHO ARE YOU?

I'M JOHN WHITEHALL, SUPERINTENDENT OF FRAUD INVESTIGATION FOR SCOTLAND YARD.

CHAPTER 23

Ling Stewart selected a bay, one with only a small white star on its forehead. Marked in this way, it would be an obscure target. Leading along the picket line and helped out the foe ropes of the other horses.

"Ready?" he asked softly.

"Ready," Wait Sackett whispered.

"Get," Tracey Hamlin said.

Ling vaulted to the back of his startled mount and kicked him in the ribs. He whirled behind the freed horses and yelled, "Eee-tee!"

One of the Union soldiers sitting beside the fire jumped up and fired his rifle. The bullet sang past Ling's ear but missed by at least six inches, a comfortable margin. Sleeping men scrambled up and someone shouted in vain. Ling dropped far enough behind the running horses to see how Wait and Tracey were faring, and when he saw them burrying but not frantic, he kicked his horse into a gallop.

Six rifles cracked. Five more fired at sporadic intervals, but the surprised soldiers were aiming at shadows.

Descending a low ridge that effectively screened the fire, Ling drew to a walk. No longer driven, the horses fell to a trot and then a walk. Ling swerved his mount to where Wait and Tracey had already joined forces.

"Horse thief!" he scoffed. "You two have really sunk lowdown! I mistrust a rattlesnake won't talk to you when we get back to Hobbs Creek!"

"Sure!" Wait agreed. "An' who helped us steal hosses?"

"Hall!"

The ringing challenge came out of the darkness, and Ling reined his horse to a slower walk as his hand dipped again to the hilt of his knife. Tracey and Wait swung away, so that a volley would not cut all three of them down. Ling strained his eyes into the gloom.

Presently he saw their challenge, a shadow in the darkness, and when the thin slice of moon shone briefly through an opening in the clouds, moonlight glinted on bayonets. There were a considerable number of men, almost certainly Union soldiers, and they were directly across the line of march that the horses must take.

Ling put a quaver in his voice. "If you be Rebs, leave us come in and give up."

"We ain't Rebs."

"Neither be we. We're bringin' and General Martin says we should bring these on to Cunnel Eustace. He wants 'em real bad."

"Why'n't ya say so in the first place?" the man snapped.

"Would if we'd knowed who ya was."

"Ya know now! Eustace is 'bout a quarter mile ahead an' a quarter east. Watch out ya don't blunder into the Reb lines."

"We'll be careful."

Making no attempt to hide, the three drove their pillaged horses past. Ling grinned to himself. It was very sociable of the Yankee, Ling reflected, to tell them exactly where Eustace might be found.

One half hour before dawn, they were back in their own camp.

Captain Colin Campbell stormed out of his hut. "Where have you three been?"

Ling reddened, looking at the ground, and shuffled his feet.

Pentagon Won't Back Up 'Monitor' Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Has the United States developed electronic gauges which can use the moon to monitor what's going on all over the world?

Rep. James G. Fulton (R-Pa.) made that claim yesterday in Holland.

But the Pentagon, hours later, would only say:

"Published reports attributed to a congressman do not coincide with any available information concerning current Department of Defense projects."

But this appeared to conflict with remarks made last April to a special House space committee by Rear Adm. John T. Hayward, the Navy's research chief.

Hayward then replied affirmatively when Fulton asked whether this country has "within our power soon to monitor the whole world... the capability through electronic means to use the moon as a reconnaissance satellite."

The admiral said then that both possibilities resulted from breakthroughs in electronic development achieved at naval research laboratories.

Fulton spoke of the new development at the International Astronautical Federation meeting at the Hague.

"The U.S. is putting the characteristics of the moon to work in an orbiting satellite in a program of practical use for communications between one point and another point on earth. This is done by electronic means," he said in his formal speech.

Fulton hinted that the system could detect instantaneously the launching of intercontinental missiles or nuclear explosions. The system, working something like radar, involves bouncing waves off the moon, Fulton said.

Adm. Hayward could not be reached for comment on Fulton's remarks.

'Snark' Fired On 6,000-Mile Trip

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Snark guided missile blazed skyward early today on a 6,000 mile flight across the Atlantic.

The Snark, the nation's only operational intercontinental weapon, streaked over the ocean with a flash of orange flame.

In seconds the red-coated missile disappeared over the horizon.

The Air Force announced only that a Snark was launched. The results of the test usually are secret.

The Snark will soon become an operational missile across the nation. The first Snark launching site is scheduled to be set up at Presque Isle, Maine.

It was the second Snark launching during the week. Last Wednesday another of the Northrup-developed missiles blasted aloft.

However, Wednesday's flight was short-lived, it was learned, because the Snark ran into the buffeting winds of hurricane Daisy and plunged into the sea at the halfway mark of its test flight.

More than 60 Snarks have been launched since the test series began.

Last month, the first military launching of the missile was conducted by the 655th Strategic Missile Squadron.

The Snark travels at a snail's pace as far as missiles go—about 600 miles per hour—but it averages amazing accuracy over intercontinental range.

AEC Announces 10 Atomic Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission plant 10 low powered atomic blasts in Nevada during the next two months.

These, including some underground shots as well as others fired from balloons or towers, will be set off before the proposed one-year suspension of nuclear weapons tests beginning Oct. 31.

The AEC said yesterday these explosions will complete the 1953 testing program, which has been in progress at the Eniwetok and Johnston Island proving grounds in the Pacific.

President Eisenhower said last week this country would suspend all nuclear tests for a year if Russia agreed to continue her self-imposed ban and would join in an international network to prevent sneak tests.

The AEC said that more than half of the new tests will be of less than one kiloton, equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT. The highest will be in the 20 kiloton range.

The underground tests will be contained in tunnels now being constructed.

The commission also said yesterday that arrangements have been made for continued exchange of atomic weapons information with the United Kingdom.

Separate Auto Engine For The Accessories Is Coming

By DAVID J. WILKIE AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP)—A small separate engine to power all accessories independently of the main power plant may be available on conventional automobiles in the next few years.

Such a unit already has been tested by auto makers. Auto engineers say that is virtually no limit to what may be obtained from the smaller unit. In some instances those tested are driving a generator developing 110 volts of alternating current.

An eventual switch to alternating current generators in car ignition systems long has been predicted by automotive engineers. For most uses it will be necessary to convert the power output to direct current. However, the engineers explain, the production of alternating current is more dependable and can be done with a small overall package.

They say also that availability of 110-volt alternating current in millions of automobiles would be of incalculable value in cases of local or national emergencies.

The small engines so far tested do not depend in any way upon the car's main power plant. They have separate fuel tanks and operate at a constant level unaffected by the varying speeds of the car engine.

Car engineers do not promise the units for 1959. But some could come in 1960, probably as extra cost options. The probable cost has not been indicated.

The units should prove as great an engineering advance as automatic transmissions, power steering and power brakes. Some industry experts say the separate engines probably would be more quickly accepted by motorists than were fuel injection and air suspension systems.

Adoption of the accessories engine probably would switch all presently hydraulically operated devices to electric operation. That presents no major problem. Automotive engineers have demonstrated that gear shifting and fuel injection can be handled electrically.

They also have shown that doors can be opened and closed, luggage compartments locked and unlocked with the push of a button and numerous other devices can be similarly actuated.

The industry's engineers have been working on a separate power supply for accessories for many years. With the growing accumulation of powered accessories tests began with separate hydraulic power sources. Right now electronics have supplanted hydraulic power in the experimental work.

Certainly future automobiles will make increasing use of electric power. A look at the operating mechanism of the experimental cars is somewhat bewildering. It resembles the inside of a huge calculating machine.

The major objective of the accessories engine has been to reduce the power drain on the main power plant. The drain has reached sizable proportions with the increasing number of accessories developed in recent years.

Big Restaurant Loss In Dish Washing, Breakage

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—If you take your wife out to dinner you can get out of helping with the dishes—unless you forget your billfold.

But the dish washing and dish breaking problem is still there. It's one of today's big headaches for those in the restaurant and hotel business.

They report replacing as much as 85 per cent of their cups and 47 per cent of their saucers annually. The toll of the butler-fingered varies widely among eating places. Some say they replace less than 15 per cent of all their tableware stocks annually and a few report replacing up to 150 per cent.

This can eat into profits.

Those who cater to the public's hunger have tried many ways of cutting this cost. Some of the larger ones report that dishwasher machines have cut their breakage costs by a fourth to a half. A few say they can see little difference in this respect between the mechanical and the human washer.

Pupil Enrollment Keeps Dwindling

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Applications for transfer have continued to roll in from white parents who object to the assignment of three Negro pupils to Easton elementary school here.

Parents of 22 white pupils applied yesterday to the city schools office, making a total of 186 pupils asking reassignment from Easton. This is about 30 per cent of the anticipated enrollment of 60, for the term beginning next Thursday.

On Wednesday the city school board reassigned 434 pupils from Easton to three other schools—Wauhtown, Forest Park and Knob Hill. Dr. A. Craig Phillips, city superintendent, was authorized to act on other requests if forms are in order.
