Eisenhower Tells Russians U.S. Staying In Far East

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Eisenhower today appealed to the Soviet Union to prevail on Red China to renounce use of force in the Formosa Strait area and turn to peaceful negotiations.

In a new message to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, Eisenhower criticized the Kremlin leader for what he called a "one-sided denunciation" of United States policy in the Far East.

At the same time, Eisenhower made it clear that the U.S. has no intention of pulling its forces out of the Far East, as Khrushchev demanded early this week.

Referring to Khrushchev's 4,000-word letter to him, Eisenhower said:

"I regret to say I do not see in your letter any effort to find that common language which could indeed facilitate the removal of the danger existing in the current situation in the Taiwan (Formosa) area.

"On the contrary, the description of this situation contained in your letter seems designed to serve the ambitions of international Communism rather than to present the facts. I also note that you have addressed no letter to the Chinese Communist leaders urging moderation upon them.

"If your letter to me is not merely a vehicle for one-sided denunciation of United States action, but is indeed intended to reflect a desire to find a common language for peace, I suggest you urge these leaders to discontinue their military operations and to turn to a policy of peaceful settlement of the Taiwan dispute."

That was an indirect call for Red China to get started quickly on proposed Warsaw negotiations with the U. S. looking toward a peaceful settlement.

Arrest Suspect In Store Break-In

AYDEN—A 20-year-old Negro was arrested by Ayden officers and sheriff's deputies this morning in connection with a break-in at the Self Service Center at Sixth and Lee Streets here.

Ayden Police Chief H. V. Chandler identified the man as Johnnie Blount, 20, of Ayden. Arrest was made by Chief Chandler, Deputy Sheriff Ralph Tyson and City-County Identification Officer Walter Thomas.

Chief Chandler said the store was entered through a window that was broken by the intruder. It was not determined immediately what was missing from the store operated by Louise Moseley.

"If indeed," Eisenhower said, "for the sake of settling the issues that tend to disturb the peace in the Formosa area, the Chinese Communist leaders can be persuaded to place their trust in negotiations and a readiness to practice conciliation, then I assure you that the United States will, on its part, strive in that spirit honestly to the same end."

While the Eisenhower note was conciliatory in tone in that respect the President was firm in making it clear that the United States is ready to fight in the Far East if the Communists push too far. That also was the central theme of the President's television-radio address Thursday night.

In his message to Khrushchev, Eisenhower said the issue in the Far East simply is "whether the Chinese Communists will seek to achieve their ambitions through the application of force, as they did in Korea, or whether they will accept the vital requisite of world peace and order in a nuclear age."

"The American spokesman said the ships remained at the beach for 23 minutes before the heavy force forced them to withdraw and during that time some cargo was unloaded. He did not say how much, but it could have been only a small portion."

On Thursday a Nationalist convoy was at the beach for 45 minutes and unloaded only a small part of its cargo before being driven off by gunfire.

However, the spokesman said, "we are not unhappy" about the progress made by the Nationalists in learning to handle amphibious supply operations under fire. "We will try all kinds of different techniques," he said.

Peiping radio reported Communist China has begun organizing "the entire people" into an enormous militia. The broadcast said millions have already joined the militia with the watchword: "Strike back at any time the enemy dares to attack."

He will represent the Peiping government in talks with U. S. Ambassador Jacob Beam on the Formosa crisis.

Smiling as he met newsmen yesterday, Wang repeated Chinese Communist Chief Mao Tse-tung's statement: "If both sides show good will the talks may achieve satisfactory results."

Butler: "The Republicans are simply trying to match Averell Harriman (in the race for governor) with a millionaire, Nelson Rockefeller. There is nothing in the fact that some Democrats have considerable money. They still support government for all the people. They don't represent special interests like the Republicans."

Alcorn: "Well, at least we're not subject to the will of the labor bosses. No labor man like Walter Reuther (president of the United Auto Workers Union) can come into our convention and tell the delegates what they can do or cannot do."

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) said the court had "reaffirmed its determination to 'rule or ruin' the southern public schools."

ambassadorial talks.

"The United States hopes," the President said, "that an understanding can be achieved through the renewed talks which will assure that there will be no resort to the use of force in the endeavor to bring about a solution of the issues there."

The President told Khrushchev he agrees with the Soviet Premier that the situation in the Formosa area is a dangerous one. But he added he disagrees that the United States is the cause of that danger.

The President said the situation in that area "was created directly by Chinese Communist action" in such military operations as the heavy bombardment of Quemoy which started Aug. 23.

Eisenhower also noted that Peiping Radio has repeatedly announced that the purpose of those military operations is to conquer Formosa as well as offshore Quemoy and Matsu.

"They are there to help resist aggression—not to commit aggression," Eisenhower said. "No upside-down presentation such as contained in your letter can change this fact."

Demo Split Coming, Is His Opinion

GOV. ORVAL E. FAUBUS THREW HIS RESERVE POWER INTO THE MOMENTOUS CONFLICT YESTERDAY WHEN HE ORDERED ALL LITTLE ROCK HIGH SCHOOLS CLOSED AS OF MONDAY, THE DAY SCHEDULED FOR THE FALL TERM TO OPEN.

He acted because Central High School faced mixing of white and Negro students in classes for the second straight year. He stated he sought to prevent violence that would result if integration occurred.

The governor moved only hours after the U. S. Supreme Court said in effect that Central High, scene of racial riots and guarded by troops last year, must continue integration no matter how violent the opposition.

Faubus' apparent objective is to close the four Little Rock high schools—including all-Negro Horace Mann High—then open Central High and possibly others as private schools with the state paying tuition.

He appears to believe the state thus can avoid forced integration because the Supreme Court has not issued integration orders involving private schools.

The Legislature two weeks ago gave him power to close schools faced with forcible racial mixing in classes. An 1875 law makes the use of public school facilities by private groups legal.

Minutes after he signed the school closing bill, Faubus accepted a summons in a weird state court suit filed by an outspoken segregationist attorney for a woman who is a segregationist but does not want the schools closed. The suit questions the constitutionality of the school closing bill.

The timing of the suit led newsmen to believe that it involved more than met the eye. But they were unable to determine its exact meaning.

The Justice Department apparently was prepared to throw its weight behind the Supreme Court decision.

Malcolm R. Wilkey, an assistant attorney general assigned to the Little Rock problem, said the department has considered the possibility of Faubus' school closing order in its legal planning.

But neither he nor other Justice Department officials would say what the agency planned to do. Nor would they outline what legal steps they consider possible to meet Faubus' challenge.

Meanwhile, Henry V. Rath resigned from the school board. He said he quit because he felt he no longer could effectively serve education. He said the Supreme Court's ruling yesterday "acted in complete disregard to the social customs of the South...the court indicated an unwillingness to consider local officials."

That this city is tense and fearful is plain to see.

Public officials who in the past have shown no hesitancy in expressing their views suddenly began snipping "no comment" to questions.

The corridor of the U. S. district attorney's office was barred by a newly installed gate.

Arkansas' only federal judge, John Miller, announced he will return to Little Rock Monday. He has been holding court in other parts of the state and was to have been in Harrison, Ark., on that date.

About 150 federal deputy marshals from throughout the nation, some newly recruited for Little Rock action, held lengthy and mysterious conferences and briefings in the Federal Building. Many wore western hats, traditional marshals' headgear.

Talks with persons in stores, on the street, in cafes and elsewhere revealed fears that worse trouble than last year can be expected if Central High is integrated.

The Supreme Court's ruling that integration must proceed immediately at Central High, no matter how violent the opposition, appeared to be the expected decision in official circles here.

Government officials in Washington clung to the hope that there is strong sentiment among white people in Little Rock for public school integration of their children even if it means sitting in classes with Negroes.

The Supreme Court, before it ruled, heard predictions from U. S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley and Little Rock School Board spokesmen that unless integration were delayed, "bedlam, chaos and turmoil" and destruction of this city's school system would result.

After the ruling, Thurgood Marshall, attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said the ruling cleared the air and "neither the school board nor the governor nor anyone else can even pretend not to know what the law is."

The court did not explain its reasoning in the case, saying that would be announced later.

President Eisenhower, learning of the court's decision, said anarchy would result from defiance of the ruling.

In a statement from his Newport, R.I., vacation headquarters, Eisenhower said, "I appeal to the sense of civic responsibility that animates the vast majority of our citizenry to avoid defiance of the court's orders in this matter."

Faubus, who normally is willing to answer press conference questions, would not do so yesterday after signing the school closing bill and 13 others designed to implement it and to cripple the NAACP.

Faubus set Oct. 7 as the date for a vote by Little Rock citizens on whether they desire to keep the schools closed or to integrate them. This action is required in the school closing bill he signed.

ers and to overrule some of their recent decisions.

McClellan already has announced he will press anew for passage of a bill to prevent the court from constraining federal laws as superseding state laws on the same subject unless Congress expressly says they do, or unless there is an irreconcilable conflict between them.

City Tense As States Rights' Fight Begins

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—This city sat tense and fearful today while the greatest states' rights struggle since the Civil War swirled through it.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus threw his reserve power into the momentous conflict yesterday when he ordered all Little Rock high schools closed as of Monday, the day scheduled for the fall term to open.

He acted because Central High School faced mixing of white and Negro students in classes for the second straight year. He stated he sought to prevent violence that would result if integration occurred.

Court's Integration Ruling Sure To Echo In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Supreme Court's new school integration ruling can be expected to have repercussions in Congress when it reconvenes in January.

Reaction of southern senators to the court's decision yesterday that Negro students must be readmitted without delay to Little Rock's Central High School pointed clearly to:

1. Hardened resistance to any new civil rights legislation and to moves aimed at curbing filibusters.

2. Renewed efforts to pass legislation to restrict the powers of the Supreme Court.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) said the court had "reaffirmed its determination to 'rule or ruin' the southern public schools."

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) called the court's decision ill-considered and improper and asked, "Is the Supreme Court saying that it, implemented by federal bayonets, is the supreme power of the land?"

Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC) expressed hope that "the next Congress will take steps to awaken a sense of responsibility in the justices of the Supreme Court."

Group Assures Kosher Food Is Available On A National Scale

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

In these times of prepackaged foods it's comforting for the Jewish housewife to know there is an organization like the Kashruth Division of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations in America.

The Kashruth Division — better known as the Kosher Certification Service — is the outfit that sees to the ritual purity of mass-produced foods sold on a national scale.

Since its inception in 1925 the Kashruth Division has progressed to the point where its discreet seal of approval, the letter U inside the letter O, appears on some 900 grocery products put out by more than 150 firms.

"We try to make life easier for the Jewish housewife," says Division Director A. H. Eisenman. "It's our purpose to enable to Jewish housewife to go into a supermarket to get food and be sure it's kosher."

Literally, kosher means "fit" or "proper" or in conformity with Jewish dietary laws. Kashruth is the condition of being kosher. It's important to all Orthodox, most Conservative and some Reformed Jews.

Some foods can never be kosher. Carnivorous animals, for instance, any insect or reptile, shellfish and acaly fish, or the 24 birds forbidden by name in the Torah.

Others — animals with split hooves that chew their cud, accepted domestic fowl, fish with fins and easily removable scales, — are made kosher in their preparation under rabbinical supervision.

There was a time when the local rabbi or communal kashruth council was able to pass on all food. Now, with food prepared some times 3,000 miles from the eventual consumer, that's obviously impossible.

The Orthodox Union's Kashruth Division fills the gap.

A company seeking the O-U seal of approval for foods first fills out an application form listing ingredients and methods of preparation. Then it submits to an inspection by a local rabbi.

The report then goes to the Kashruth Commission of the Rabbinical Council of America, an affiliate of the Orthodox Union that passes on Rabbinic regulations of the Kashruth program.

If the report satisfies the commission and the company accepts the requirements laid down by the council, the two parties sign an agreement and the company has a right to apply the O-U symbol to its kosher products.

The actual production is supervised by a rabbi who may be stationed permanently in the food-making plant — at no cost to the company — or may drop back on occasion to check on things.

THE GREATEST TEACHER

OUR NEW TEACHER'S NAME IS MISS THO

That girl at the blackboard is Ellen Blake. She is a sixth grade student at Fairview Heights School, and she has just written my name. I'm the new teacher—Mary Thomas.

Being a teacher is a big job. Each Sunday I say a special prayer for guidance in my work. But I am well aware that the task of training these children for good citizenship is one I can't possibly accomplish alone.

This is a wonderful age, but it is often terrifying. There are so many diversions, so many activities and so much knowledge that seem apart from the Church. And yet God created everything, and God's love is universal. Today's children need help that only the Greatest Teacher of all can give them. They need the teachings of the Church, and a firm basis of Faith.

I'm gratified when I see so many of my students at church with their parents. The Church needs all; all need the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Wesley Foundation Council Holds Planning Retreat

FALL PLANS SET . . . Under the direction of Miss Mamie Chandler, the council has prepared the Methodist program for East Carolina College students. (Photo by Peggy Smith)

Last week during Freshmen Orientation the Wesley Foundation Council met for the first time in the new, modern youth center on East Fifth Street.

The council held a planning retreat under the guidance of Deaconess Mamie Chandler. Specific plans for the fall quarter were made.

During last Sunday morning the council served doughnuts, coffee and cocoa to the freshmen before they were taken to the Methodist churches in Greenville.

Miss Barbara Wilson gave an informal presentation of the Wesley Foundation program during the Sunday school period.

Informal vespers were held Sunday night for the East Carolina students under the direction of Miss Beth Chason of White Oak, vespers chairman. Sandwiches and tea were served to the group attending.

Rev. James H. Warren, Professor of Religious Drama at Scarritt College in Nashville, Tenn., was guest speaker.

"The center will be used to carry on the program of the Methodist Church for the East Carolina College students," said Miss Chandler.

Council members were elected last spring and will be commissioned by the Rev. W. M. Howard Jr. and Rev. Malloy Owen III at the vespers services tomorrow night.

The officers are Miss Elaine Page of Burlington, president; Miss Barbara Davenport of Creswell, vice-president; Miss Jane Carroll of Hookerton, secretary; Earle Duncan of Clarendon, treasurer.

Miss Howard Marries

RALEIGH — Edenton Street Methodist Church was the scene when Miss Nancy Lee Howard became the bride of Louis Thomas Lassiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer A. Lassiter, 1735 Nottingham Road, Raleigh, recently.

Dr. Howard P. Powell officiated, assisted by Rev. Charles McAdams. Music was presented by Miss Jane Woodard, soloist, and Dr. Frederick Smith, organist.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack O. Howard, formerly of Greenville, and now residing at 809 Lake Boone Trail, Raleigh, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of chantilly lace and Italian silk with scalloped lace neckline, long sleeves pointed over the wrists and a fitted bodice. The bouffant skirt had a large bow in the back and extended in a sweep train of lace. Her two-tiered veil of imported illusion was attached to a lace cloche embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a white bride's Bible topped with a white rose corsage and showered with nylon and net ribbons and feathered carnations.

Miss Marguerite Howard, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of mint green embroidered nylon with a cowl neckline and basque bodice. Her taffeta sash ended with a bow in the back over a bouffant skirt. She wore a matching bandeau with circular veil and carried a hogarth curve styled bouquet of pink asters with pink ribbons and tulle.

The bridesmaids were Miss Lois Haigh, Miss Fabian Broadway, Miss Edna Holoman and Miss Martha Derr. They wore floor length gowns of pink nylon fashioned after that of the honor attendant and carried bouquets of purple asters and ribbons.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Howard wore a street length dress of turquoise lace with square neckline, empire bodice and sweep skirt. She wore a picture hat of fuchsia feathers and matching corsage of roses.

Mrs. Lassiter wore a street length dress of mauve lace with sweetheart neckline and sheath skirt with matching hat and accessories. She wore a corsage of roses.

Robert Lassiter was best man for his brother. Ushers were Julian R. Vainright, William T. Emory, Capt. E. L. McLeod and R. E. Wiggins, all of Raleigh.

30 Years Ago Today

September 13, 1928

Greenville has another new enterprise. This time it is the Northside Lumber Company, located on the Greenville-Bethel road. W. J. Smith is president; W. H. Woodard is vice-president; N. O. VanNortwick, manager and treasurer, and W. Jasper Smith, secretary. The enterprise deals exclusively in rough and dressed pine lumber and all kinds of building materials.

This is felt that day all over the county and Greenville merchants are exerting every effort to get the public to dress up their heads before Sunday.

Dinner Marks Anniversary

A dinner party honoring Mr. and Mrs. R. F. McLawhon was given Tuesday night by their children at the home of Mrs. Francis Dorey. The social occasion marked the golden anniversary of their parents.

Green and yellow decorations were used throughout the house. A lace cloth covered the appointed table where the traditional white wedding cake was placed.

Relatives and friends were greeted by the children and directed to individual tables where a buffet dinner was served.

During the informal period of the evening the honored couple reminisced over the memories of their wedding ceremony in 1908 which was performed by the late Rev. E. T. Phillips.

The McLawhon children attending the event were Bernice McLawhon, Lloyd McLawhon and Gentry McLawhon of Bethel, and Ernest McLawhon and Mrs. Dorey of Greenville. Mrs. Earl Polz of Harrisburg, Pa., another member of the family, was unable to attend.

Glee Club Plans Operetta

By CATHERINE MOORE
Teenage Writer

Producing an operetta highlights the 1958-1959 plans of the Junius H. Rose High School general glee club. This spring, director A. H. Laube plans to focus his operetta spotlight on either "The Chimes of Normandy" or "Operetta Springtime."

Although this venture is a "first" for the local teenage music enthusiasts, their director is not in strange territory. A professional musician, he has performed in New York City's Daily Gilmore Theatre and in the Cleveland Light Opera Company.

As a result of his increasing interest and enthusiasm for music during his few months as director last year, Laube greeted 125 general glee club applicants at the initial practice Thursday. This response is probably the largest Greenville ever had.

Expecting a 250-strong membership, Laube plans two practices a week to prepare the chorus for its greatly-enlarged schedule.

With variety as the keynote for the year, the general chorus will render Matthew's "Story of Christmas" in December and Steiner's "Crucifixion" for an Easter concert. A repertoire of religious music will constantly be ready to be performed for local club programs when requested.

These Junius H. Rose High representatives plan to appear before Eastern North Carolina television viewers with their music. Tentative plans call for several shows this year.

In addition to the large general glee club, two girls' choruses and a boys' glee club will perform during the year.

Student leaders for the 60-voice boys' group are Ronnie Finch, president; Ronny Dail, vice president; Ed Paden, secretary; and Jasper Jones, accompanist.

Assisting in organizing one girls' chorus are Patsy Jones, president; Betty Jean Hoell, vice president; and Ruth Clark, secretary and accompanist.

Executives of the remaining girls' chorus are Lib Sutton, president; Faye Hardee, vice president; Janet Cox, secretary; and Millie Overton, accompanist.

Finch declares, "Mr. Laube has improved the glee clubs and widened their activities so that the members enjoy chorus more than ever. The variety in the music should cause more public interest in the concerts."

Mrs. Little Visits Club

FALKLAND—A demonstration on "Making Use of What You Have" was given at the September meeting of the Home Demonstration Club by Mrs. Lillie Little Monday afternoon.

The showing of slides brought out when old pieces of furniture, picture frames and sewing machines can be made into unique pieces with very little expense.

President Mrs. David L. Morrill presided over the meeting which was opened with the group singing "A Song of Peace," followed by repeating the Club Collect.

Final plans were completed for the barbecue and Harvest Sale to be held September 12 at the community building.

The Fair Committee met Monday night to complete plans for the booth exhibit.

A book review on Crimson Roses given by Mrs. Ruel Tyler was heard by the group.

Mrs. Morrill, Mrs. Alice Mayo, Miss Anna Little and Mrs. Tyler planned to attend the County Council Tuesday.

AAUW Plans First Meeting

The American Association of University Women will hold its opening meeting of the school year Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Mamie E. Jenkins Faculty-Alumni House at the college.

Members are asked to note the changed hour. Arrangements will be conducted by Mrs. C. A. Bowen and a committee.

A. H. LAUBE . . . is the director of the Glee Clubs at Rose High School.

Patient Circle Meets In Church

Tuesday night the Patient Circle of The King's Daughters and Sons met in the Ladies' Parlor of the Eighth Street Christian Church.

Mrs. Bowen welcomed all the members after a summer of adjournment. She told of much work being done during the summer in making preparations for the State convention of the North Carolina Branch of The King's Daughters and Sons to be held in Greenville October 16-18. She also stated that the Patient Circle of The King's Daughters had made application to the United Fund to become one of the participating organizations.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. L. L. Rives, reasurer, gave her report.

The Circle voted to send $5.00 to the Indian Department for the work done among the North American Indians.

Bert Quinley reported $35 was raised for the Building Fund through the sale of bottles.

The treasurer of the Building Fund reported memorials were given for E. E. Rawl Sr., Mrs. W. B. Young, J. H. Thomas, and George F. Hadley.

Mrs. Rives also reported that over 2,000 coat hangers were sold to raise money for the Building Fund.

The program for the evening consisted of making plans for the coming State Convention. All business sessions will be held in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. It was announced, on Oct. 16, following the afternoon business session, Patient Circle II will have a tea honoring all delegates and visitors for the convention.

That night a Memorial Service will be held in the church conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. M. Howard Jr.

On the second day of the convention there will be a luncheon sponsored by the Indian Department, Young Women and Young Men's Department and The Round the World Department.

The convention guest will be Frank Chou of Formosa. He is a student sponsored by the International Order of The King's Daughters and Sons at the University of Georgia.

--And Where Do We Go From Here?

Where do we go from here on the problem of school integration?

Will there be more violence, a stiffening of resistance to the forced-integration orders of the Supreme Court?

Will there be more school closings?

Will there be no tolerance of very real local problems by the ivory-towered high tribunal which has assumed for itself the authority to write the laws as well as interpret them?

No one knows for the moment the answer to those questions which are of utmost importance to the nation, and particularly to Southern states. One can only make guesses based on what already has taken place.

Arkansas and Virginia already have ordered the first closings of schools in the face of forced integration. It is fairly certain that attempts at forced integration will meet with just as much resentment now as was the case a year ago.

In the face of such situations, the Supreme Court has refused to grant a 30-month stay for integration of Little Rock Central High School which was rocked with violence last year and kept under surveillance by federal troops. We must also assume that the Supreme Court in its ruling yesterday intended that no delays or stays be granted in any other situation where integration is involved.

This complete and utter disregard by the court for the welfare of the schools and the students they are supposed to educate is far from reasonable, much less responsible.

The high court has now repudiated its previous assertion that interpretation of its "all deliberate speed" order should be left to federal judges, most closely associated with the local situation. Federal Judge Lemley ordered the 30-month stay for integration of Central High. First the Eighth District Court and now the Supreme Court itself has overruled the federal judge.

In short, the Supreme Court has taken it upon itself to implement its own ruling. The hands of lower court judges are now tied.

The Supreme Court, while it has taken into consideration many extenuating factors other than the constitution in making its decisions since 1954, has yet to take into consideration the welfare of public school education and the welfare of the children of this nation who must be educated.

Vital Year Ahead For Pitt's United Fund

After several months of organizational and budget work, Pitt County's new United Fund has completed its agency organization for this year and now moves toward its important fund-raising duties.

Included in the first annual campaign of the Pitt County United Fund will be eight county-wide agencies, one of which is the Pitt County Community Service Committee that represents local service organizations in the county's 15 townships.

This latter organization's inclusion in the United Fund should eliminate several purely local fund-raising efforts in each community, and together with the other agencies should reduce by 10 or 12 the number of campaigns conducted in Pitt this fall.

Now that Pitt County's United Fund is organized and its agencies approved by the Admissions and Budget Committee, the next step is to make the first year of the new organization a successful one.

On this year hinges the future success of the Pitt County United Fund. If the campaign this year is successful, the United Fund will include additional agencies next year. It will further eliminate the duplication of one fund-raising effort after another throughout the year.

The citizens in every community in Pitt will help determine the success of this new United Fund by their reaction to an appeal for contributions this year. A relatively few people from the various townships have shouldered the burden of getting the United Fund organized and ready for operations. When the campaign begins within a few weeks, more support from a great many more people throughout the county will be necessary.

Pitt County has needed a United Fund for many years. Now it is organized. It is up to the citizens of the county to see that the new organization is a success.

Strong Hint Of Armed Reaction

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has offered no solution to the trouble around Formosa except to suggest negotiation with the Red Chinese and to warn them not to push their luck.

Neither idea is new. His broadcast seemed to have a double purpose: to explain to the public why this country might get involved in fighting and to emphasize to the Communists we'd fight if necessary.

One thing he did do: he hinted more strongly than ever before the United States would use armed force against the Red Chinese if they actually attempted to capture the Quemoy and Matsu islands. So far they've only been bombarding the islands from the mainland.

Only a week ago Secretary of State Dulles, with Eisenhower's approval, released a 900-word statement saying the President had not yet decided what we'd do if the Reds tried to take Quemoy and Matsu.

Those islands, close to the mainland, are held by the Nationalist troops of Chiang Kai-shek, an American ally, whose main forces are on Formosa, 100 miles from the coast.

But what Eisenhower left unanswered was this: what we'd try to negotiate with the Communists if we sat down to talk with them. He said this country would not appease the Reds by letting them capture Quemoy and Matsu.

But if in negotiation it was agreed the Reds could have the islands — if they'd just stop shooting — that in itself would be an act of appeasement. It would be yielding to their threat to use force if they didn't get the islands.

But Eisenhower seemed to rule that out unless Chiang Kai-shek agrees. He said: "Naturally, the United States will adhere to the position it first took in 1955.

that we will not in these talks with the Red Chinese be a party to any arrangement which would prejudice the rights of our ally, the Republic of China."

That follows the same line laid down by Dulles earlier this week when, asked if the United States would negotiate the future of the islands, provided the Reds stopped using force, he said: "The United States is not in a position to negotiate the future of property which it does not own and which belongs to another and friendly government (Chiang's Nationalist government on Formosa.)"

Since Chiang depends on the United States for his existence, it shouldn't be difficult for the United States, if it wanted to, to pressure him into yielding the off-shore islands.

But if letting the Red Chinese have those islands — provided they stop shooting — is ruled out, what can this country possibly negotiate with the Communists? Perhaps nothing at all.

It's possible, if such negotiations broke down, that the Nationalist troops of Chiang Kai-shek, an American ally, whose main forces are on Formosa, 100 miles from the coast.

But what Eisenhower left unanswered was this: what we'd try to negotiate with the Communists if we sat down to talk with them. He said this country would not appease the Reds by letting them capture Quemoy and Matsu.

Such a trusteeship would, of course, mean the end of Chiang's regime. He'd have to go to some friendly asylum elsewhere. But this is all pretty iffy. Both Chiang and the Red Chinese might reject any such proposal.

But if the solution doesn't lie somewhere in these ideas, then any solution at all seems remote and the world can just hope the present shooting stops short of war.

Strength For Today

WHO'S TO BLAME?

I don't go to church any more," a woman told a friend. "I don't like the minister's sermons. The Women's Union is poorly run. And besides, the church is always asking for money."

There is never any shortage of self-appointed church critics. But the really constructive critics are few. Many people are willing to complain: few are willing to act.

If you are dissatisfied with your church, the first question to ask yourself is, How many of the things that displease me am I partially responsible for? Perhaps the music is poor. Have you ever volunteered for the choir?

Or have you tried hard to interest your musical friends in joining the organizations? Have you attended and worked faithfully enough to become a leader with influence to reform them?

Perhaps you feel that you are asked for too much money. No doubt the church needs more and more generous givers. Have you set a good example to encourage others to give more, by giving all you can? Have you tried hard to win new members who will give their share?

It is easy to criticize. But how about criticizing the right person — the man whose fault it is because he hasn't done all he could to make things better? How about criticizing yourself?

Foreign And Domestic

Trips And Odd Sounds

You haven't lived until you've been on a rode trip with a Greenville high school football or basketball team in the old school bus.

I've been handling sports for the Reflector for almost five years now, and have been making trips to Wilson, Rocky Mount, Kingston, Elizabeth City, Roanoke Rapids, Jacksonville, Washington and all around during that time. I've lived.

You see, it was a time-honored tradition or something among athletes at Greenville High School (and now at the new Rose High) to make all kinds of weird noises during the bus trips, coming and going. Since I've never been on road trips with any other teams, with the exception of Little League and Midget teams, I don't know how the other high school teams act on bus trips. Perhaps it's a pretty honored thing among all schools. But I doubt it.

At least, I would venture to say that the thing has been perfected by Greenville athletes to a degree that far exceeds any other town's teams.

I can remember back a couple of years ago on basketball trips. I would pack my camera and slides and bulbs and scribble pad and get on the bus, and me and 17 or 18 other tall boys would sit as comfortably as we could in those bus seats (I've always had a suspicion that school buses were invented for midgets).

We'd leave Greenville with Coach Farley doing the driving. Just about the time we'd hit the city limits, it would begin. First, there would be those strange gurgling sound from one corner of the back of the bus. Along the line, moving toward the front like a snake in the dark, the sounds would pick up. Other adolescent voices would be heard adding to the chant, chirping, gurgling, wheezing, humming.

Mr. Farley, a well-respected man and coach among the athletes, would snap on the lights quickly at intervals in an attempt to catch the culprits. The moment the lights would go on, the noise would stop. Everybody would either be asleep or just sitting quietly. Out of respect for Mr. Farley, the bus would remain quiet for a while. Then, before long, the traditional urge would pass like a ghost over the bus again. Pretty soon it would sound like a bus load of circus animals or some strange ship from outer space.

Among the various noises, I have been able to pick out the imitated sounds of a motor boat engine, the old stuttering bus engine, some tropical birds, gorillas, chickens, hogs, frogs, dripping water, exaggerated whooping coughs, supersonic sound waves, and some other rather obscene sounds which I can't attempt to explain here.

The reason I believe that this strange activity is a traditional thing, is because it has always gone on as long as I can remember anything about Greenville High School. Another reason, is the fact that it continues to go on regardless of what is in the bus or regardless of how violently the coaches and authorities try to stop it.

I know several former football coaches at GHS — no longer with the school — used to threaten to throw the culprits off the bus in the middle of the highway if they were caught. It never did any good.

Let me say this: It is not due to any lack of respect for the coaches or authorities. I honestly believe, it is either just some strange quirk among local high schoolers, a deep-rooted traditional thing, or else it is part of the make-up of growing young boys. Perhaps it's a means of self-expression, which has psychological overtones. At any rate, it hasn't helped them win a whole lot of games.

Other Editors Saying Powell Bill Inadequacies

(Greensboro Daily News)

A change in the Powell Bill to help the state's fast-growing and more densely populated towns and cities is definitely indicated in an Institute of Government study requested by the Municipal Study Commission.

The Powell Bill, passed in 1951, gives cities proceeds from one half cent of the state gasoline tax.

But with an allocation formula based on mileage of streets, the Powell Bill plan does not give too much help to cities where the problem is widening streets through congested areas.

Paradoxically, the bill helps small towns most. In North Carolina street mileage in relation to population increases as the size of the city decreases. Charlotte, for example, has 2.6 miles of city streets for every 1,000 persons while towns under 1,000 have 7.36 miles of streets for the same number of persons.

A larger percentage of a small town's streets are state highways, and consequently maintained by the state. Some 44 per cent of all streets in towns under 1,000 are maintained by the state, according to the institute's report, but in Charlotte only 14 per cent of the streets is state-maintained.

There is a difference, too, in the burden borne by faster growing cities. It was found by the institute that Powell Bill aid was about all some of the less rapidly developing municipalities needed for street expansion. Their burgeoning sister towns were forced to borrow or levy special assessments.

Passed to help North Carolina's cities and towns, after a big spurt of farm-to-market road building, the Powell Bill is revealed to have weaknesses. Larger towns and cities are objects of discrimination. The Powell Bill is inadequate to help with street problems in congested centers.

The Institute of Government has prepared the data upon which legislators can take action next year.

To The Editor:—

I have been most gratified by the many letters and editorials you have published in support of the bond drive for expansion of the Pitt County Memorial Hospital. The importance of this drive cannot be overemphasized. There is one angle, however, which has not been mentioned and is the reason for this letter to you and to the people of Pitt County.

Today our most pressing health problem is mental health. In recognition of this fact the people of Pitt County under the direction of our late health officer, Dr. Walter Humbert, established the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic which is now a flourishing medical service. The plans for the new hospital include the setting aside of some rooms specifically designated for mental patients. At the present time our mentally ill are placed in the county or city jail while awaiting transfer to one of the state or private mental hospitals. This is because we at present have no facilities to care for the

Likes Sculpt Horses

By ANN V. MASTERS
BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — One of America's foremost sculptors, Anna Hyatt Huntington, has just completed another major work at the age of 82. Her statue of Cuban liberator Jose Marti will be erected in New York's Central Park.

In an interview at her studio, situated on her thousand-acre estate at Redding, Conn., Mrs. Huntington stood beside the 19-foot statue, sheathed in plaster and ready for casting, and said: "Jose Marti was a Cuban hero who lived in exile here for a while and was shot from ambush on his return, about 1895. As he was killed on horseback, I could do him."

Mrs. Huntington is known for her horse statues, and insists that practically every work include a horse. She smiled as she recalled:

"Somebody wanted me to do a statue of Columbus. I asked, 'Can I put him on horseback?' That ended that."

The work of this noted sculptor is on display in some 200 museums in the United States alone. France made her a member of the Legion of Honor for a statue of Joan of Arc at Blois, and King Alfonso of Spain decorated her for her El Cid, in Seville.

Mrs. Huntington worked on the Marti project for three years. The Cuban government contributed $100,000 toward the statue, which defrays the cost of the pedestal alone. The rest of the cost was underwritten by the sculptor's husband, Collis P. Huntington, Spanish scholar, patron of the arts and founder of the Hispanic Museum in New York.

The sculptor dismisses her outstanding achievements lightly.

"Good heavens," she exclaimed, "I've been working for 60 years. I ought to have accomplished something."

She rises at 5 a.m. as she has done all of her life. By 6 she is feeding the birds who flock to her and has let her enormous deer-hounds out. At one time she bred these "young ponies" and the kennel buildings housed about 40. She now has eight.

She has no intention of stopping her work and despite operations for cataracts on her eyes, works on step ladders, scaffolding and at the dizzying height of her studio.

"I'm fond of my work," said Mrs. Huntington. "I'd rather work than play. It's no virtue on my part. Society as such never interested me."

"The trouble is I never seem to be able to stop. Ideas keep coming up. Some you throw away and some you live with."

Is there a central theme to her work? "Horses," she said, with a smile.

It began when she was 2-years-old. She was born in Cambridge, Mass., where her father, Alpheus Hyatt, was a paleontologist at Harvard university and director of the Boston Museum of Natural History.

"If there was a horse in the neighborhood, I was there," she declared, adding, "Once you love a horse you always love them."

mentally ill who in a disturbed state might be dangerous to themselves or others.

The expansion of our hospital facilities to include temporary care of the mentally ill is something we must do in consideration of their welfare. Certainly incarceration in jail is not calculated to help in the recovery of a mentally sick person.

Some Expectations In Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are some business expectations, indicated by analyses of developing trends:

Costlier lumber. The snap-back in housing construction is increasing demand. At the same time, supplies are reduced because of labor troubles, wet weather, car shortages and cut-backs in production.

Less expensive food oils. Prices of soy, cottonseed and other edible oils have sagged recently and the dips are likely to become deeper. Production is high, raised in part by output of cottonseed oil, a by-product of the enormous cotton crop. Foreign oil crops are good, reducing demand for exports, and low-fat diets are increasingly popular at home.

MARCH OF THE TOTEMS

Comes the Alaskan motif. Interest in the forty-ninth state will be projected increasingly into home furnishings and, later, apparel fashions. Some stores have already put on Alaskan exhibits; some American designers are now on their way to Alaska; an Alaskan-motif living room is on display at the Home Furnishings Show in New York.

Higher education. Many colleges increased tuition fees this fall and more will increase next year. The U. S. Office of Education figures costs of college education will double in the next ten years. Note: If you are planning to finance a child's education with savings or insurance, better step up the rate of savings or increase insurance.

Upsurge in instalments. For six months total instalment credit outstanding has been declining, but a big upturn is at hand. Consumers have regained confidence — although they lost little during the recession — and new model cars and the coming of Christmas will generate powerful upward pushes.

MORE FOR AUTOS

Higher car prices. Most manufacturers have been silent on prices of 1959 models, but they will be higher. The size of the increases will be partly determined by current union negotiations, but even if wage increases are minimal, prices will jump anyhow, because of the steel hike and other costs. Note: Most makers, however, will have economy models selling below this year's standard models.

Cheaper Swiss Swiss. Switzerland had reduced the price of Emmentaler and Gruyere cheese for export to the U.S. by 5.3 cents a pound. This will find some reflection in retail prices.

More floor pillows. Interest in floor pillows for sitting is increasing. It began years ago with television but the fad is being adopted by young-marrieds and collegiates, and is being helped along by a revival of Oriental themes in home decor.

More truck sales. The good year ahead for truck manufacturers. The increase in piggy-back trailers, and the expansion of the nation's highways will help; in addition, sales records in previous years indicate a larger than normal number of trucks will need replacement in the next twelve months.

AT WHICH WE WITHDREW OUR ENDORSEMENT

The Old Promoter was worthy today. "I sent a parcel to San Francisco and the post office clerk scolded me because I hadn't added 'California,'" he said.

"I don't see why it is necessary to name states after our big, one-of-a-kind cities. Even the newest post office employees ought to know that the only New York is in New York State, that the only Los Angeles is in California, the only large Philadelphia is in Pennsylvania, the only Chicago is in Illinois. Small cross-road towns and cities of the same name are the ones that should require the state address."

"I agree," this department said.

"Yes, and that the only Baltimore is in Maryland, and the only Milwaukee is in Minnesota."

JACKSONVILLE — Rose High School opened its 1958 grid season here last night in a Northeastern Conference tilt with the Jacksonville Cardinals before some 2,000 fans. Jacksonville snared a 19-6 victory.

The ball game was one filled with aerials, long runs, and bruising play.

Jacksonville, which last week defeated AAA Goldsboro 14-6 at the Card Stadium, started off the night with three quick touchdowns in the first quarter of play and spent the rest of the night in an up-and-down battle with the Phantoms.

Greenville got its only score of the night in the fourth quarter when defensive halfback Erskine Duff intercepted a pass on his own 20 yard line and galloped 80 yards for the touchdown. Duff's interception stopped a Cardinal drive deep into Phantom territory. The 145-pound halfback wasn't touched on his long run down the sidelines, although he was chased the full distance.

Bang, Bang, Bang Jacksonville received the opening kickoff of the night and marched from its own 34 yard line to pay dirt in less than three minutes. A pass from tailback Dan Edison to an end carried from the Phantom 33 to the two yard line and blocking back Phil Simpkins blasted over for the score. The extra point attempt was not good.

Again in the first quarter, after Greenville received the kickoff and had its offense stalled by the Cards, the Phants were forced to give the ball to Jacksonville. Larry Holmes punted on fourth down to Jacksonville sophomore wingback Donnie Rhyne on his own 25, with good blocking, carried the full distance to the Green goal, standing up, for another touchdown.

A pass play failed to net an extra point for the Cards. Jacksonville got its third score of the evening on the resulting kickoff. Alan McArthur fumbled the kick on his own 20 and Jacksonville recovered. In two plays, the Cards bulldozed down to the six yard line. John Boyd broke through to toss Edison for a seven-yard loss on the third play. Then, Edison passed to Victor Garrison for the touchdown in the end zone. Another pass tallied the extra point and the score was 19-0. It was still the first quarter.

The Phants used only eight offensive plays during the period.

Tight Action In the second quarter, Greenville came back defensively to halt any further scoring threats by the Cards before the half ended. Steve Noble recovered a Jacksonville fumble on the Card 20 yard line after Holmes had put the home club in trouble with a long punt.

John Boyd and Charles Roberts bulled their way to the four-yard line and set up a first-and-10 for the Phantoms. But the Card front wall held and Jacksonville took possession of the ball.

From there, they moved to the Greenville 40 yard line before giving up possession. The Phants banged at the Card line for four plays and were forced to punt again. Holmes lifted a high one to Jacksonville's 33 but the half ended before further action could be played.

In the second half, Greenville took the kickoff and Randy Bass was stopped on the Green 37. From there, a pass from Charles Ross to Billy Cox picked up a first down and Boyd rumbled to the Jacksonville 34. Roberts carried to the 25. Then, the Phants fumbled. Jacksonville recovered and began a drive that carried them to the 47. They were forced to punt at that point. Greenville took possession but was forced to punt shortly afterwards.

Final Quarter

On the first play of the final quarter, Green quarterback Erky Duff had a pass intercepted on the Card 15. It was carried back to the 50 yard line before the Cardinal runner was stopped. A penalty and long gains by Edison and Smithwick carried the ball to Greenville's 30.

At that point, Duff intercepted an Edison pass and jogged for the 80-yard-touchdown-run. Roberts' attempted kick was not good for the extra point.

Jacksonville came back for one more threat moments later. With Edison and Simpkins leading the way, the Cards pushed to the Greenville eight yard line. They failed to get a first down there and Greenville took over.

Farmville Is Beaten 7-0

NASHVILLE — Defending Coastal Conference Champion Farmville took a 7-0 licking last night from non-conference Nashville, in a game that was decided in the last moments of play.

The Red Devils battled back and forth with their opponents throughout the first three quarters, without score. The biggest Farmville threat was a drive to the Nashville 35, sparked by halfback Ralph Cash in the second quarter.

In the final moments of play, Nashville started a drive from its own 35 yard line and carried to the Farmville three. Quarterback Joe Viek bulled over for the score. The conversion was good, making it 7-0 just before the tilt was ended.

Outstanding for the Devils were Cash, Hedgepeth, Killebrew, Thorne and Weisner. In their opener, Farmville downed Cententree 39-6.

Emory And Henry At ECC Tonite

Large Turnout Expected At ECC Stadium

Emory and Henry invades ECC Stadium tonight for East Carolina College's opening football game of the 1958 season.

A large turnout is expected to witness the game, which begins at 8:00.

Coach Jack Boone, who will field an experienced team with depth this fall, has shown optimism concerning tonight's tilt.

"We feel that if we can get off on the right foot tonight we'll have a good season," Boone has been quoted as saying. "And I think we'll get off on the right foot."

The Bucs have been working out since September 1 and Boone has been working with Emory and Henry offensive plays close at hand. His defensive team has been primed against the opponent's attack and his offensive team is expected to be both faster and more versatile than in 1957.

1957 was a bad season for ECC. The Bucs won one ball game out of nine. About the only bright spot in last year's play was the outstanding individual work of halfback James Speight, who earned All-Conference, All-State, and All-NAIA honors.

Speight will return for another shot at the records and honors this season — as a fullback. The shift was made according to Coach Boone, to allow the 170-pound Greenville product more running room. "He'll be able to run wide to the left or right now, or straight ahead," Boone says.

In the backfield with Speight will be co-captain Ralph Zehring at quarterback. Zehring, a two-year veteran, can pass or run and is expected to mix his attack against the Emory and Henry club. Behind Zehring will be halfbacks Tommy Nash and Lee Atkinson, a pair of veterans who are able breakaway runners.

In the line, Boone plans to use Bill Cain and Howard Beale at ends, Ed Emory and Charles Cooke at tackles, Wayne Davis and Charles Gordon at guards and co-captain Lynn Barnett at center.

With more depth this season than any time in the past four years, Boone will probably use plenty of substitutes tonight.

Tonight's tilt is the first of four home games in a row, scheduled for ECC stadium. Next week, Presbyterian will come to Greenville. Following that, Guilford and Catawba will be here.

South Carolina Will Rise Or Fall With Quarterback

By DEL BOOTH

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina's 1958 football trail will rise or fall with the quarterback.

And right now it looks like a high trail ahead with senior Bobby Bunch in the driver's seat.

Bunch showed during the first half of last season he has just the knack of making Giese's rigid, control type game move along with the unspectacular certainty the coach wants.

Bunch was knocked out for the season by a shoulder separation a few days before the mid-season Clemson game. South Carolina won only two games after that, against visible weaker teams.

With Bunch cured and ready to take over the helm, this most experienced squad in Giese's tenure here should grind down the opposition offensively.

At end South Carolina seems weakest, although deep in experienced reserves. Weems Baskin, son of one of the assistant coaches, and Eddie Beall, son of a South Carolina star of 30 years ago, seem most likely to succeed at the task of rugged defensive end play.

Pass defense, not all that could be desired a year ago, should be improved with Bunch in the backfield.

The best pair of halfbacks in the school's history, Alex Hawkins and King Dixon, now seniors, will provide a good pass net—as well as a top threat on offense with the running pass.

A junior, John Saunders of Churchland, Va., gets the call at fullback. An eye-catcher as a ball carrier, he is an alert, vigorous linebacker on defense.

Pairing at linebacking with Saunders will be the alternating centers, seniors Lawton Rogers of Conway and Dwight Keith of Atlanta, a pair of quick-footed 200 pounders.

Tackles are well taken care of by 225-pounders John Kompara of Canton, Ohio, and Don Rogers of South Orange, N.J.

A big loss to the team by graduation was guard Nelson Weston. Seniors Corky Gaines of Fayetteville, N.C., at 215 pounds, and 195-pound Jimmy Merck of Liberty are the likely starters, along with Jack Ashford of Hopewell, Va.

Lettermen quarterbacks Stan Spears, W. L. Strickland, and Steve Satterfield are ready to relieve Bunch, but there are no lettermen to take over for Dixon and Hawkins.

Most likely choices of halfback work in reserve roles are Johnny Dorsett and Joe Gomes.

Guard reserves are mostly sophomores, with the exception of experienced Charlie Hoskins of Sumter.

Tackle bench strength looks good, with junior lettermen Jerry Kirk Phares and Ed Pitts available.

Three lettermen reserve ends also are available — Jimmy Duncan and Buddy Walter of Charlotte, and Buddy Mayfield of Atlanta.

Except for Saunders at fullback, Giese probably will start an all-senior team. But with free substitution partially restored — the new rule allows a player to enter the game eight times — reserves will get a lot of playing time.

The schedule: Sept. 20 Duke (N.), 27 at Army, Oct. 4 at Georgia, 11 at North Carolina, 23 Clemson.

Nov. 1 at Maryland, 8 at Furman, 15 Virginia, 22 N.C. State, 29 Wake Forest.

Burdette Hurls 6-0 Brave Win Over Cardinals

Those New York Yankees don't have to get any closer than 90 miles for Lew Burdette to throw a shutout and Hank Aaron to break loose with a bat.

The Yankees were just down the road again, reducing their American League magic number to six, when Burdette (17-10) blanked the Cards on three singles, didn't walk a man, struck out five and retired the first 12 he faced. Aaron drove in four runs, scored another while rapping his 29th homer, a triple and a double.

Aaron's 3-for-4 job last night pushed his third place average to .336 in the NL batting battle that saw Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn take the lead at .339 over Stan Musial of the Cardinals. Stan the Man, out indefinitely with a bum leg, is batting .338.

The victory gave Milwaukee a 7½-game lead again over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who were beaten 7-3 by Los Angeles. San Francisco swept a two-night doubleheader at Philadelphia, 5-2 and 19-2. The Chicago Cubs defeated Cincinnati 7-5.

In the AL, the Yankees beat the second place White Sox 5-0 as Bob Turley won his 21st with a four-hitter. Cleveland beat Boston 5-4. Detroit belted Baltimore 3-1 and Kansas City defeated Washington 4-3.

The Cards' only hits were lead-off singles in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings by Ken Boyer, Bobby Gene Smith and Irv Noren as Burdette gained his third shutout. Bob Mabe (2-6) lost it.

Duke Snider drove in four runs with four hits, one his 14th homer, for the Dodgers. Rookie Ron Fairly hit his first major league homer for Los Angeles while Roger Craig, long troubled by a sore arm, gained his first complete game in eight starts since June 7, 1957. He gave seven hits in his first decision of the season and first work since returning from St. Paul, where he was 5-17. Ron Kline (12-15) lost his fourth in a row for the Pirates, who had won four straight.

Jim Davenport had seven hits, two of them homers, and drove in four runs for the Giants in the pair Johnny Antonelli (15-12) had a two-hitter and a 16-0 lead in the nightcap before Harry Anderson hit his 22nd home run in the Phils' seventh. The Giants started their scoring spree, highest in the majors this year, with eight in the first inning. Ray Semproch (13-10) was the loser.

Eppe Tops Oxford 14-0 In 1958 Season's Opener

Eppe High School's Bulldogs won their first opening game victory in three seasons last night, whipping Mary Potter of Oxford 14-0, at Guy Smith Stadium.

The game was an Eastern AAA Conference tilt, and the victory places Eppe in an early leading position in the loop.

Coach Percy Daniels' Eppe offensive attack was paced by 135-pound fullback Woodrow Wilson, end Calvin Gatlin and quarterbacks Virgil Lynch and Joe Tyson. Wilson rang up a total of 200 yards individually, gaining most through the middle and on off-tackle slants. Lynch and Tyson directed the attack from the quarter-back position. Gatlin caught passes from both quarterbacks for the two touchdowns.

Defensive Play Coach James Sanders' defensive line did damage to Oxford's attack. The visitors weren't able to penetrate into Eppe territory during the first half and never made it past the 80 yard line all night. The defensive backfield con-coated by Coach Daniels also staved off an attempted aerial by the Oxford club. Oxford didn't complete a single pass.

Outstanding in the line for Eppe were Dalton Davis, James Teel, Linwood Hardison, David Newsome, and Garland Allen. Backfield play was sparked by Wilson, Lynch, Tyson, Fred Watson, and Willie Adams.

Wilson took the opening kickoff of the night and carried from his own 10 to the 50. The Bulldogs were forced to punt shortly afterwards and kept the Oxford club deep in its own territory throughout the first half. The half ended 0-0.

Scoring In the second half, Oxford took the kickoff but was unable to move the ball. Wilson scampered for 40 yards to the Oxford 10 to set up the first score, when Eppe got the ball. However, Eppe fumbled and Oxford recovered. Guard James Teel blocked a Mary Potter quick kick at that point and Eppe recovered on the 15. Wilson blasted up the middle for five yards. Lynch passed to Gatlin for the score. Another pass with the same combination added the extra point.

The final scoring play was set up when linebacker Garland Allen intercepted an Oxford pass on the Oxford 20 and carried to the 10. Tyson passed to Gatlin for the touchdown. The extra point was good, making it 14-0.

Next week Eppe will journey to New Bern for another conference game.

Stengel Pleased By Bullpen Play

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Turley is the winningest pitcher the New York Yankees have had in seven years. But if Casey Stengel finally is smiling again, it's because of what went on in the bullpen while his big right-hander was winning No. 21 last night.

No Yankee had won 21 since Vic Raschi and Ed Lopat in 1951 until Turley blanked the White Sox 5-0 with a four-hitter at Chicago. He didn't have any real trouble, but when an infield hit and a walk loaded the bases with two out in the seventh inning, Stengel waved to the bullpen.

The man who went to work was Whitey Ford, the stubby southpaw ace whose ailing arm has been one of Stengel's big worries. With the World Series (the Yanks can clinch a tie for the American League pennant by winning today) little more than two weeks away, Ford hadn't been himself for a month.

Ford has been on the shelf two weeks, but after last night's bullpen workout Stengel decided he could be a starter in Sunday's doubleheader at Kansas City. With their magic number down to three, the Yankees could clinch the flag against the A's.

Elsewhere in the AL last night, Cleveland defeated Boston 5-4, Detroit beat Baltimore 3-1 and Kansas City defeated Washington 4-3.

In the National League, Milwaukee's magic number dropped to six as the Braves beat St. Louis 6-0 on Lew Burdette's three-hitter. Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 7-3. San Francisco took two at Philadelphia, 5-2 and 19-2, and the Chicago Cubs defeated Cincinnati 7-5.

Rocky Colavito's 35th home run was his second grand slam of the season, breaking a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning for the Indians. Sammy White's fifth home run broke up Gary Bell's no-hit bid in the seventh and the Cleveland rookie needed relief help for his 10th victory. Ted Bowsfield (3-1) was the loser.

Boston's Pete Runnels and Ted Williams each had 1-for-4, keeping their 320 tie in the AL batting race. Kansas City's Bob Cerv, third, also was 1-for-4, dropping a point to .318.

Cerv's lone hit was his 34th home run for the A's, who took sixth place and won their sixth in a row on Hec Lopez's 16th homer in the fifth against Pete Ramos (14-14).

Stengel was pleased by the bullpen play, which kept the Yankees in the lead throughout the game.

Debbie Reynolds Orders Start On Divorce Suit

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The marriage of Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher, once thought to be one of Hollywood's happiest, is on its way to the divorce courts.

Debbie told her lawyer to get her a divorce yesterday after Eddie blasted her hopes for a reconciliation.

"A breakup was inevitable," said Eddie. "The marriage would have come to an end even if I had never known Elizabeth Taylor. I alone accept full responsibility for its failure."

Debbie seemed surprised and hurt to learn that Fisher wasn't happy with her. In a statement filled with heart-broken candor she said:

"It seems unbelievable to say that you can live happily with a man and not know he doesn't love you. But that—as God is my witness—is the truth."

Attorneys will meet next week to discuss the divorce.

Will Elizabeth Taylor's name play a part in it?

"Any attempt to relieve Miss Taylor from any responsibility falls on completely deaf ears," said Debbie's attorney, Frank B.

Tobacco Price Averages Rising

Yesterday for the third consecutive day the Greenville tobacco market's average showed a sharp increase.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee reports the market sold $308,691.084 pounds of tobacco for $308,361.39. The average was $33.12, 99 cents a hundred pounds higher than Thursday's average.

Thus far for the first 16 days of sales, Greenville is approximately five million pounds ahead of last year's figures. This year the market's total sales exceed 21 million pounds of tobacco as compared to 16 million for the corresponding period in 1957. Official figures for this market will be released in Monday's Reflector.

Medium and better grades of tips and leaf made an excellent showing on the warehouse floor yesterday. Whedbee said prices for these offerings were the highest paid this year. Lugs and primings, in smaller quantities, continued to sell strong.

Quiz Youth Who Hinted Implication In Murders

NEW YORK (AP)—Police today were checking out the story of an 18-year-old youth who hinted to relatives in Virginia that he was implicated in the Staten Island murders of Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Nimer.

William Fletcher Jr., Negro, was brought here by plane last night from Farmville, Va., where an aunt told police he made remarks that might link him with the knife-slayings of the Nimers.

Sept. 2 in their home. There was no charge against Fletcher. He agreed to return voluntarily.

The slain couple's oldest child, Melvin Nimer Jr., 8, is undergoing psychiatric examination at Bellevue Hospital. The boy has said he killed his mother and father.

Originally he told police they were killed while rushing to his aid as a white-masked intruder choked him.

Police said Fletcher admitted being on Staten Island the night Dr. Nimer and his wife, Loujean, both 31, were killed. The youth was quoted as saying he rode around the island the night of the slayings with friends but that he left the island early in the evening and returned to Manhattan.

Fletcher went to Farmville three days ago. His aunt, Mrs. James L. Hamilton, said he told her he had been in New York because of the publicity given the Nimer case.

Records show that a William Fletcher of this city was admitted to the Middletown, N.Y., state hospital as a mental patient in October, 1955. He was discharged in July, 1956.

At La Guardia airport here, Fletcher denied he had ever confessed killing the Nimers. He then was whisked off by detectives to Staten Island.

Police have not been at all satisfied with the admission by young Melvin that he killed his parents with a kitchen knife.

One puzzling aspect of the case was cleared up somewhat yesterday when Staten Island Dist. Atty. John M. Braisted told newsmen that the night clothes of the parents were bloodstained extensively and that their bed had many bloodstains. He added that there were no knife slashes in the bed clothing. The boy has said he stabbed his parents as they slept.

Calvary Baptist Announcements

Sunday, Sept. 14th, marks the first anniversary of the Calvary Baptist Church and we are looking forward to having 100 in Sunday school.

The Calvary Baptist Church was organized Sept. 14, 1957 with 12 charter members. Since this time, in the short period of one year, the Lord has blessed us beyond words. We are now running around 75 in Sunday school and the church has recently put the pastor, Rev. Jack W. Finch, on full time. We also have a good missionary program and we give ten per cent of the total income of the church to missions. We have souls saved in many of our services. The Lord has certainly been good toward us and we ask you to pray that the next year will be more profitable than the past.

"THANK GOD for His many wonderful blessings."

Remember to be in Sunday school tomorrow morning. We have set our goal at 100 and by your co-operation we can more than meet this goal. We give you a cordial invitation to be with us this Lord's day at the Calvary Baptist Church. Sunday school commences at 10 o'clock and the church is located at 1504 N. Greene Street.

Many Steps Between Arrival Of A Book And First Loan

When does the life of a library book begin?

Before a book reaches the hands of a borrower, it goes through many stages.

Books are not sent automatically to libraries. Actually, much preparation goes into each order made by the librarian. She not only uses many aids in choosing materials which are recommended, but also fills requests made by patrons. After a book order has been completed, it is sent to a book jobber or dealer, who handles books from all publishers.

Upon arrival, a shipment of books at the Sheppard Memorial Library is put through various stages of development.

It must first be checked in by the original book order and invoice. Following receipt and checking in, specific information, such as its source, price, and date of purchase, is placed on a certain page in each book.

Then they are marked with identifying numbers and stamped as the property of Sheppard Memorial.

Next the books are ready for classification by the librarian according to the Dewey Decimal Classification system, which is used almost without exception in all libraries.

After classifying, they are turned over to the typist who types a set of catalog cards for each book.

Catalog cards contain certain information about a book, such as its title, author, publisher, date of publication, and various subject headings. These cards are filed alphabetically in the card catalog.

Patrons can find any book in the library collection by using these catalog cards, which are filed three ways—by author, title, and subject.

Following the typing and filing of the cards, the book pockets and cards are placed in the backs of the books. They are then ready to be painted on the spine with black paint in preparation for the white lettering used to show the classification number. In order to preserve these markings, they are sprayed with a coat of shellac.

The final step in this process is done by the librarian who double checks each book before it is placed on the shelves for the public.

For the reader's convenience, new books are kept on a separate shelf until they are six months old—then they are shelved in the proper stacks.

The ordering and preparation of books is part of a daily routine at the Sheppard Memorial Library, for new books are being added continuously to keep the collection well-balanced and up-to-date.

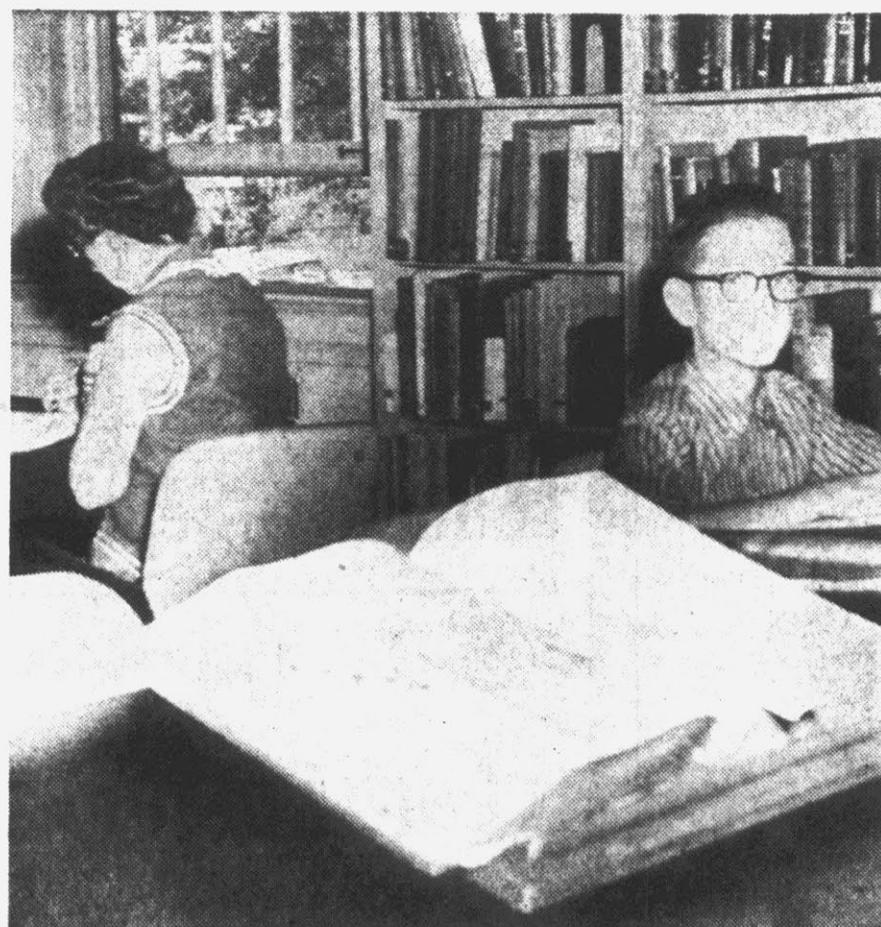

MAJOR OPERATION . . . is the pasting and painting of the book backs with the letters being drawn by Mrs. Mann.

AFTER COMPLETION . . . of the development a book is ready to be placed on the shelf of new books by Mrs. Jane Smith, assistant librarian in charge of circulation.

CIRCULATION DESK . . . is presided over by Mrs. Leila Forbes who works with all-age patrons.

A CENTER OF KNOWLEDGE . . . is the Sheppard Memorial Library.

BECOMES JUST ANOTHER BOOK . . . after six months. (Reflector Photos by Peggy Smith)

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG
Culture is cracking through all over this month, but before we tell you about some of it we want to remind you for the last time that today is the only day left to register for voting in favor of the bond issue to enlarge the Pitt County Memorial Hospital. Your Uncle Sam will pay two-thirds if you pay one-third, so what can you possibly lose? Don't forget—register now and vote two weeks later for the best buy the County has had a chance to get for a long, long time. . . .

New Horizon

We received our pre-publication issue of Horizon, the new magazine of the Arts, and fell in love with it immediately. It will be on sale this Monday, the 15th, and it is truly a beautiful example of the bookmaker's art. It combines everything that anybody who is interested in art, literature, and humanity can possibly want in a periodical. This issue, for example, contains articles and pictures of the highest quality, done in a format that is a pleasure simply to hold and look at. . . . There's an account of "The Golden Age of the Dutch Republic," by C. V. Wedgwood, embellished with full-page, color cuts of paintings by the great Dutch masters that are worth the price of the magazine—$3.95—without anything else. For literature lovers, there's an article called "The Cult of Unthink," by Robert Brustein, that provides a better account of just what the "Beat Generation" of current writers is all about than anything we've seen so far. . . . In addition, there are numerous articles about nature, drink, beauty, love, religion, music and what-all. Everything is first-class—the writing, the pictures, the make-up. In short, get, or better yet, subscribe to Horizon as soon as you can. We've seldom come across anything we have been able to recommend so whole-heartedly.

The motion for endorsement was made by Leonard Bloxam and was seconded by Dr. John D. Mesick. It was passed without a dissenting vote. Bloxam's motion read as follows: "In view of the needs of the hospital, the directors and members of the Greenville Kiwanis Club go on record as supporting the need and urge each Kiwanian to register and vote his conviction."

Important Birthday
Later this month T. S. Eliot, dean of living poets, sometime American but now England's leading man of letters, will be 70 years old. This week's Saturday Review contains a fine account of his recent and future activities. On the day itself, September 26, his newest play, "The Elder Statesman," will open in Edinburgh and a commemorative volume of essays will be published in America. It will be called "T. S. Eliot: A Symposium for His Seventieth Birthday," and is edited by Neville Braye. Quoting Eliot himself in an interview with Henry Howes, here's what he has to say about marriage (he married his secretary recently): "Before my marriage I was getting older. Now I feel younger at seventy than I did at sixty." The reason? "Love reciprocated is always rejuvenating." So when in doubt, young man—or old man—get hitched. . . . Incidentally, the whole edition of the Saturday Review that contains the T. S. Eliot piece is well worth seeing—much space is given to the state of American education now, during these beginning weeks of another school year, and there are articles by some of the outstanding figures in educational circles. . . .

Today's Review
Your editor—our boss—David J. Whichard himself, reviews a recent book by another North Carolina editor. Currently the book ranks Number Three among the national best sellers, incidentally.

ONLY IN AMERICA. By Harry Golden. The World Publishing Co., New York, 1958.

Harry Golden is an individualist, a nonconformist.

To some he is an enlightened writer who dares to speak out against the injustices of which even a majority of the people can sometimes be guilty. To others he is a radical, a leftist, a damn-yankee who has taken it upon himself to tell the South how to mend its ways.

Whatever other opinions may be held of Harry Golden, most people who have read his work also view him as an entertaining author, a keen satirist, a man who has catapulted to the pinnacle of personal journalism in a generation which has seen personal journalism all but vanish from the American scene.

With all this, Golden is a humorist. "Only In America" is a collection of editorials from The Carolina Israelite, a newspaper published in Charlotte by Golden, consisting entirely of editorials written by Golden, with just enough little ads thrown in to pay the bills. It all began 15 years ago when Golden moved to Charlotte to put to use, as he says, "the results of almost 45 years of uninterrupted reading."

Subject matter of the editorials ranges from stories of Jewish customs on the Lower East Side of New York where Golden grew up, to Tammany politics, school integration, instructions on how to buy cigars, reasons for winking at homey girls, and Cato's cure for hangovers.

"Only In America" offers something for every taste, every reader. Most readers of Golden's book will find themselves burning with indignation at what is written on one page, nodding with approval at what is said on another, and chuckling with Golden on yet another page.

A book that's worth the price and the time it takes to read it. Dave Whichard

Kiwanians Back Hospital Bonds

By TOMMY SNOWDEN
The Greenville Kiwanis Club and its Board of Directors last night endorsed the Pitt County Hospital Expansion Bond issue, and urged all the members to register and vote their conviction on Saturday, September 27.

The motion for endorsement was made by Leonard Bloxam and was seconded by Dr. John D. Mesick. It was passed without a dissenting vote. Bloxam's motion read as follows: "In view of the needs of the hospital, the directors and members of the Greenville Kiwanis Club go on record as supporting the need and urge each Kiwanian to register and vote his conviction."

Hunter Keck, chairman of the Boys and Girls Committee, gave a report on the coming annual "Kids Day" September 27 at Pope Air Force Base, Fayetteville. Keck and John Barnhill told of activities planned for this Kiwanis sponsored event.

The meeting was highlighted by an informal and humorous talk by Herbert Ackon of Danville, Ky. Ackon is assigned to the Greenville tobacco market and is well known as an after dinner speaker. He was presented to the club by Jack Edwards.

Rev. Irby Jackson won last night's attendance prize. The birthday of Grover Everette was honored. Guest of the club was R. Virgil Rothbough of Charleston, W. Va., superintendent of West Virginia schools.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Tom Davis. President J. D. McGlohon, Jr., presided.

All Alarmed By Strange Gadget

LAFAYETTE, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Rosemary Scott heard a tick-tick-ticking and saw a strange orange metal box in her garage.

She telephoned the sheriff's office. Deputies and bomb experts from the fire department and the Navy all rushed to her home.

For three hours they sweated it out, trying to discover how to disarm the thing.

Then husband James Scott, a freight agent, arrived from work yesterday. "Hey, he shouted, 'what're you doing with my register?'"

Enlightened, Scott explained, "It's an impact register to measure the shocks on freight cars."

Everyone went home.

BEES REMAIN

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Mrs. Charles O. Brady built the first fire of the season in the fireplace yesterday. The heat melted honey from a beehive in the chimney. It dripped down and a swarm of angry bees followed. Firemen plugged the chimney to keep the bees out of the house but no one quite knew how to get them out of the chimney.

Baseball has become as popular in South Africa as British cricket and soccer.

High school teachers are Al Harrison, 9-A homeroom; Mrs. Betty F. Warren, 10-B homeroom; Mrs. Sarah Perkins, 10-A homeroom; Mrs. Elsie Lewis, twelfth grade; and Marion Nobles, agriculture.

Three newcomers have been added to the faculty this year. Mrs. Marion Nobles, Mrs. Linda McLawhorn Stancill and Mrs. Rosa Hunning.

Mrs. Nobles, a native of Snow Hill, received her degree from East Carolina College and worked for two years as a secretary in the State Department of Public Instruction in Raleigh. She will teach the eighth grade.

Mrs. Stancill is also a graduate of East Carolina and will teach English and serve as homeroom teacher for 9-B. Mrs. Hunning, who will teach Math and eleventh grade subjects, formerly taught in New Bern, Hyde County and Contentnea. She is a graduate of East Carolina and lives in Greenville.

During the summer, maintenance crews from the Pitt County Schools did considerable work on improvements in the Stokes-Pactolus building.

A teacher's lounge and girl's toilet has been installed on the second floor. The library has been equipped with new tables and chairs, and most of the building has a fresh coat of paint.

Home Economics students are especially fortunate. They started their year of study with a new refrigerator, a new sewing machine, a new stove and other utensils.

Wednesday was election day for students in five classes and voting resulted in election of the following groups of officers:

Eighth grade: president, Billy Roebuck; vice-president, Donnie Whitehurst; secretary, Rosslyn Fleming; and treasurer, Jennie K. Forbes.

Ninth grade: president, Dale Coward; vice-president, Nathan Scott; secretary, Jean Paramore; and treasurer, Edna Paramore.

Tenth grade: president, Clayton Warren; vice-president, Gerald Crisp; secretary, Linda Hudson; and treasurer, Cleve Moore.

Eleventh grade: president, Janice Crandell; vice-president, Rosalie Tripp; secretary, Angela James; and treasurer, Donald Hardison.

Twelfth grade: president, Billie Angle; vice-president, Nancy Stocks; secretary, Brenda Heath; and treasurer, Linda Johnson.

The Junior Class is sponsoring a Teen-Age Club each Friday night in the school gym. A large crowd attended the first of the meetings and saw Jennie Forbes and Bandy Parker win a bop contest.

Mrs. Johnson died last night in Breckenridge Hospital here after a long illness. She was 77.

Following the 2:30 p.m. funeral services, burial will be held in the family cemetery at Stonehill, Tex.

Germany To Get Elvis Presley

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — Rock n' roll singer Elvis Presley got his overseas orders yesterday to go to Germany as an Army truck driver.

The young soldier was one of slightly more than 1,300 trainees here to receive orders for duty in Germany as 3rd Armored Division replacements.

They will board four trains here about Sept. 19 and proceed directly to New York for embarkation about Sept. 22, the Ft. Hood public information office said.

Outbluffed An Armed Robber, Aided In Capture

DETROIT (AP)—A branch bank manager outbluffed an armed holdup man and calmly directed his capture yesterday.

Four customers and 20 employees were in the Manufacturers National Bank in suburban Northville when a man identified by police later as Richard A. Valpey, 35, Fort Myers, Fla., walked in with a note in his hand.

Valpey shoved the note at Leo Kalota, 30, bank manager. It demanded $12,000 in $100 bills and said Valpey had a bottle of nitroglycerine and a loaded gun in a briefcase.

After reading the note twice, Kalota turned to his secretary and said distinctly, "Please ring the police."

"When I said that, the man made a motion toward his briefcase and I made one toward my desk drawer," Kalota said. "Then we just sort of looked at each other and the police came running in."

Valpey was held on a charge of attempted robbery.

Historical Novel of the Old West

ELIZABETH, BY NAME

BY WILL COOK

© 1958, Will Cook. Reprinted by arrangement with Dodd, Mead and Co. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 5

On the ninth day two men rode in from the south leading four heavily laden pack horses. Elizabeth was at the creek getting water and they splashed halfway across before she saw them. They started her and she dropped the wooden bucket.

One of them said, "Ma'am, if I'd been a Kiowa, you'd be dead now." He was a slightly built man, roughly dressed and heavily armed. His face was moon-shaped and a long mustache fell darkly beyond the ends of his lips. A month had passed since his last shave, and five times that of his last bath. He took off his hat and held it in his hands, the gesture curiously familiar. "What's come on you is but Masterson. This is my partner, Pat Garrett." He waved his arm toward the vast southland. "Been buffalo hunting."

Then he waited for her to speak. Garrett, she saw, was extremely tall, possibly six foot three in his bare heels. He had a slender, hollow-cheeked face that no amount of feeding would fatten. On each side of his hips rested a long barreled revolver, suspended by crossed ammunition belts. And he carried two enormous rifles with handguards of ammunition dangling from the saddle horn.

"We're - new here," Elizabeth said.

"We can see that," Garrett said. His voice a soft rumble.

Paul Rettig came from the soddy, saw Elizabeth with the two men, reached for his Spencer rifle. Masterson, his expression unchanging, said, "He ain't going to shoot anybody, is he?"

"It's all right!" Elizabeth yelled, yet Rettig continued to hold the rifle.

"Maybe he wants a closer look," Garrett suggested.

Elizabeth knew the unpredictable nature of her brother and feared that he would make a serious mistake. But he stood still and Masterson carried the bucket of water into the soddy. The children were playing farther down the creek and when they saw the horsemen, they came on, whooping and running.

Pat Garrett asked, "Those your youngsters, ma'am?"

"No, they're my brother's children. Paul, this is Pat Garrett." And when Masterson came out, she introduced him. "They're buffalo hunters."

"I got eyes," Rettig said. He still held the Spencer rifle.

Masterson glanced at it and said,

"I mean you no harm, mister." "I'm used to carrying it," Rettig said, his attention never leaving the two men.

After a glance at his partner, Masterson unbuckled the crossed shell belts that supported his .44s and a skinning knife. He draped these across the saddlehorn and tied the horse to one of the piled wagon wheels. His rifles were left on the saddle. Then Garrett disarmed himself.

Paul Rettig decided to set his rifle down. "Don't mean to be unfriendly," he said, "but I don't cotton to strangers."

"I'd keep those kids closer to the house was I you," Garrett said.

"I don't guess anything'll bother the kids," Rettig said.

"Maybe," Garrett said, "but if they were bothered, you'd be too late to do anything about it." His arm swung to the south. "There's Kiowas out there. If anything ever set 'em off -" He left the rest trail into nothing.

"What Pat's saying," Masterson said, "is that Indians are hard to make out sometimes. If someone had a run in with 'em a long way south of here, it could start 'em on a tear and they'd kill any white person they come across. It don't matter much to an Indian whether they get the guilty one or not."

Paul Rettig's expression mirrored his disinterest.

"You think we're lyin' to you?" Garrett asked.

"No," Elizabeth said. "We believe you. We don't have much but you're welcome to share what we have. Step inside."

"That's kind of you," Masterson said.

Inside Masterson looked at the mud fireplace, already cracking before a fire had been built in it. "You ought to have cured that as you built it," he said to Paul Rettig.

"Cured it?" Rettig asked.

"When you build a fire place of mud and sticks, you have to put a small fire in it as you layer the mud on. Cures it so that it don't crack open." He tilted his head back and looked at the mud and willing ceiling; blue sky was visible through the lattice-like holes. "Better get a better roof on this place. The rains will be starting around here in another few weeks."

"There ain't no wood," Rettig said as though eager to place the blame.

"The nearest wood's at Adobe Walls," Masterson said. "Fifty miles each way. Too bad you didn't build the place a little narrower. You would have used buffalo hides to cover it."

"Where'd I get the hides?" Rettig asked.

Masterson looked at him, puzzled, then stepped outside. Rettig followed him. "Say now, I asked you a question. Where'd I get buffalo hides?"

Masterson's eyes remained bland somewhat amused. "You lived in this country long, Mr. Rettig?"

"Some time now," Rettig said.

"About two weeks," Elizabeth said.

He glared at her. "Dang it all, do you have to pick apart everything I say? This fellow only wanted a generalization. That's all."

"I didn't mean to stir up anything," Masterson said. "You mind if we camp the night in your yard?"

"Help yourself," Rettig said. "Give me something to talk to besides women." He took off his hat and scratched his head. "Tell me something. If you wanted to get rid of his blamed grass, how'd you go about doing it?"

"What do you want to get rid of it for?" Garrett asked.

"To plow it, that's what for," Rettig stared at the man, as though he could not understand his stupidity.

"Mr. Rettig," Garrett said, "I wouldn't plow it at all if I was you. I don't think the Kiowas would like it." He paused to bite off a chew of tobacco.

"Besides," Masterson said, "you're sitting right smack in the middle of a buffalo crossin'."

"I can't do it," Rettig said.

The moon-faced man glanced at his partner. "Kind of thought that was the case when you asked where you'd get buffalo hides. You ever see buffalo on the move?"

"I can't rightly recollect that I have," Rettig admitted. Then a pride that he could never quite subdue prompted him to add, "Likely though I have some knowledge of it."

The two hunters again glanced at each other, as though accustomed to dealing with fools who couldn't stand to have anyone think less of them than they were.
