Discuss Tobacco's Future

A Better Quality Tobacco Required Asserts Edwards

"The flue-cured tobacco farmer is going to have to produce a better quality leaf, with richer aroma and flavor, and do better job of grading and preparation for market."

This observation was made last night by Alonza C. Edwards, Executive Vice-President of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation. Edwards was speaking to members of the Pitt County Farm Bureau here.

He pointed out that the United States ranks a "poor third" on the world market in selling preparation. "Southern Rhodesia and Canada do a much superior job, of preparation," he said.

"At this time our tobacco program is in jeopardy. We must presente a united front in order to maintain our present status."

The speaker explained that tobacco growers in Pennsylvania recently voted to grow tobacco without control and are now selling their crops for slightly over 20 cents a pound. "Can they or we produce tobacco at this price?" he asked.

"Our job as farm people is to protect and improve the largest industry in this state—farming," Edwards emphasized.

"The Farm Bureau is a tool to help preform this great job. It's an organization of 1.6 million members who can pool their resources and thinking to secure for the farm people their rightful share of the national income."

He compared the Farm Bureau with a vast railroad terminal, with trains loading to Washington for national legislation and to Raleigh for state legislation. "These trains cannot move unless you as farm people volunteer to operate them as engineers, conductors, etc," the Farm Bureau executive declared.

Edwards recently returned from a European tour where he was sent to inspect the tobacco situation on the world market. While abroad one of his primary objectives was to find ways that the United States might increase its tobacco exports and at the same time maintain its present status in international trade.

George D. Cox, President of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, presided over last night's meeting. "The biggest problem facing American agriculture today is to keep the programs that organized agriculture has developed through the years," he commented.

Did It Again

Greenville's tobacco market paid out a million dollars for the second consecutive day yesterday and in doing so a $57.18 per hundred pound average.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee reported that 1,934,092 pounds of tobacco were sold for $1,105,902.43 on yesterday's sales.

"Tobacco is continuing to sell at the same high level that it has for the last four or five days," he declared. "That is true of all grades but particularly true of medium and top tobacco.'

Whedbee said the practical top is still $76 with some of the best grades going for $77 company purchases.

It was a full sale Friday and a near full sale is expected Monday.

Bond Vote Is Due Here Next Week

Less than 20 per cent of Pitt County's eligible voters will decide a $750,000 hospital bond issue next week.

County Board of Elections Chairman D.S. Spain, Jr., said today that reports from all of the county's 25 precincts show that 4,163 persons are registered for the election. The report was made completed today with addition of figures compiled in Swift Creek Township.

Swift Creek reported 61 persons qualified for the special referendum which will be held next Saturday. Overall, the county has an estimated 21,000 eligible voters, but to be qualified for next Saturday's election they had to place their names on special registration books which closed last Saturday.

More than half the registrants reported to Spain are in Greenville's eight precincts, and two of the city's voting areas have more than half of that number. The seventh Greenville precinct which includes all of Greenville East of Charles Street and South of Fifth Street, has 683 names on its books. The eighth Greenville precinct—which is bounded on the West by Jarvis Street, on the South by Fifth Street, on the East by Greene Mill Run and on the North by Tar River — has 568 names registered.

Outside Greenville, the precinct with the most registrants is Grifton, where 301 voters are qualified. Winterville registered 229 and Bethel has 191 registered.

Other precinct registrations include Arthur, 35; Ayden, 147; Belvoir, 100; Carolina, 85; Chicod Number 1, 50; Chicod Number 2, 54; Chicod Number 3, 36; Falkland, 102; Farmville, 188; Fountain, 90; Greenville Number 1, 56; Greenville Number 2, 158; Greenville Number 3, 291; Greenville Number 4, 222; Greenville Number 5, 126; Greenville Number 6, 205; Grifton, 301; Grimesland Number 1, 65; Grimesland Number 2, 55; Pactolus, 65; and Winterville, 229.

At stake in the voting will be a $750,000 bond issue to provide local funds for additional construction and improvements at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Castro Columns Again On March

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban rebels say two of their armed columns spreading out from Fidel Castro's southeast Cuban stronghold now have penetrated into Las Villas Province in central Cuba.

Four other columns are continuing their advance, a rebel broadcast last night claimed.

Production Cost Still Up; Farm Receipts Sagged

RALEIGH (AP)—Farm production costs stayed high in 1957 while cash receipts fell, leaving Tar Heel farmers some 160 million dollars short on net farm income.

The state's total net farm income for last year was estimated at $466,700,000, the lowest in nearly a decade and 25.6 per cent under 1956, the North Carolina Crop Reporting Service said yesterday.

Average net income per farm; was placed at $1,685, down from the $2,231 figure for 1956. It was almost one-third under the record high average for 1951, and the smallest on record for the nine years of 1949-1957.

Cash receipts from farm marketings for the year were pushed down by smaller acreage and lower production of tobacco, the leading cash crop. Cash receipts amounted to $875,800,000, under the year before by 12.7 per cent and the lowest since 1950.

Despite cuts in acreage, production costs were the second highest of any year for the 1949-57 period. They totaled $590,900,000, down only $400,000 from the previous record in 1956.

The farmer only realized a lower percentage of net income from his gross cash receipts. The Crop Reporting Service said the $466,700,000 net farm income represented only 42.8 per cent of total gross income estimated at $1,090,500,000.

In each of the other eight years of the comparison period, net income represented more than one-half of the gross figure.

Total realized gross income includes with cash receipts such items as government payments, gross rental value of farm dwellings and value of products for home consumption.

Tough Khrushchev Warning On Formosa Slated For Rejection

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is expected to reject promptly and firmly Premier Khrushchev's tough warning that the United States abandon Formosa or face "expulsion" by Communist China.

In a new letter to Eisenhower yesterday, the Soviet Premier spurned a presidential bid to use his influence with the Chinese Communists to end the present Far Eastern crisis.

Khrushchev said Formosa belongs to Red China. If the United States does not abandon Nationalist China and pull out American forces, he said, "no other way will be left to people's (Red) China except expulsion of armed forces hostile to it from its own territory."

The Khrushchev letter, handed to Richard Davis, ranking U. S. diplomat now in Moscow, replied to a letter from Eisenhower Sept. 12.

In that letter Eisenhower told Khrushchev that if he was really interested in working for peace he would use his influence to get the Chinese Reds to stop aggressive acts in the Formosa area.

The Reds have been bombarding the Nationalist-held offshore island of Quemoy since Aug. 23. They also have been threatening broader military action aimed at eventual capture of Formosa, the Nationalist stronghold about 100 miles from the China mainland.

The 13-page Khrushchev letter was translated at the U. S. Embassy in Moscow before being transmitted here. A summary was broadcast by radio Moscow even before the State Department had time to notify Eisenhower, vacationing at Newport, R. I., that a new message was on the way.

At Newport, there was no immediate comment from Eisenhower on the Khrushchev note.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said today at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters that the President had received a short summary of the 13-page note.

"It now is in the process of interpretation and study," Hagerty said.

There was a possibility of some official reaction—short of an immediate formal reply—later in the day.

Pending study of the full text today, the State Department withheld comment.

Secretary of State Dulles, returning here from the United Nations General Assembly meeting in New York, had nothing to say on the letter last night.

But officials noted privately that the United States has long been committed to the defense of Formosa against Communist attack and is supporting the Chinese Nationalists to some degree in their present efforts to stand firm on Quemoy. The United States has no intention of abandoning Formosa under threat from Moscow, these officials said.

Western diplomats in the Soviet capital said they did not consider Khrushchev's letter an ultimatum, but rather a strongly worded reply to match the tone of Eisenhower's note of Sept. 12. In that note, Eisenhower put full blame for the current crisis on the Chinese Reds.

In addition to the Formosa letter, Davis also received a note from the Soviet Foreign Office advising that Russia would turn over to U. S. authorities the bodies of six Americans found in the wreckage of a U. S. Air Force C130 transport that crashed on Russian soil near the Turkish border on Sept. 2.

State Department officials said the new note gave no information on the fate of 11 other airmen who were aboard the plane. The note denied that the aircraft was intercepted by Soviet planes.

Officials said the United States undoubtedly would send a new note requesting information on the 11 men unaccounted for and renewing a demand for return of the plane.

In general, the Khrushchev letter on the Formosa situation was characterized here as covering familiar Soviet policy in support of Red China.

It was considered notable mainly for its tough tone and the specific warning that if the United States did not withdraw its forces from the Formosa area it risked "expulsion" by Red China.

The main immediate effect seemed to be to harden the deadlock between the United States and the Communist bloc over the Formosa issue.

"We stand fully by the side of the Chinese people's government and the Chinese people," Khrushchev said. "We have always supported their policy and shall continue to do so in the future."

He said neither Red China nor the Soviet Union would be intimidated by what he called "nuclear blackmail." And he said Red China would never accept "the severance of its very own territory" nor the concentration of U. S. armed forces in the Formosa area.

"Interference in the internal affairs of China must be brought to an end once and for all," Khrushchev said.

Dulles arrived here from New York in early evening and immediately went into conference at the airport with other State Department officials. Presumably they discussed talks under way at Warsaw between ambassadors of this country and Communist China.

The secretary said he would not comment on those talks to reporters because the United States had agreed with Red China to keep them secret.

Hold Boy For Savage Assault

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—A 9-year-old girl was found lying in the street last night, burned, beaten, teeth knocked out and her hair cut.

Police said a 14-year-old boy today confessed beating the girl with a rock but denied burning her. His name was not announce since he is a juvenile.

The girl, Theresa McHugh, was in serious condition at Martland Medical Center. A physician there said she either had been set afire or held over a roaring blaze.

She returned from school yesterday, finished her homework and went out to play in a park. A passerby found her on a nearby street last night.

Theresa was rushed to the hospital suffering burns of the back, chest, arms and head. She also had a deep gash over the left eye and bruises on her face. Several teeth had been knocked out and most of the others loosened.

Police said the 14-year-old boy a resident of the same apartment development, broke down after three hours of questioning, admitted hitting her with a rock, but sobbed repeatedly: "I don't know why, I don't know why."

He told police he met the girl outside the apartment building, accompanied her into the park, watched her light a cigarette and then attacked her, leaving her on the ground.

One of the girl's shoes was found beside a pool of blood in the park. A piece of burnt clothing, believed to be her blouse, was 100 feet further on.

The boy was among 10 juveniles rounded up in the area after a superintendent told police the apartments had been the scene of several fights and vandalism recently.

The medical center said there was no evidence of a sexual attack.

Theresa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis McHugh Jr., who have lived for three years in the Ivy Hill Apartments, a large middle-income development. Her father is an auditor for the New Jersey Blue Cross Plan.

"All the kids liked her," Mrs. McHugh said. "I can't imagine who would do anything like this."

An attractive brown - haired youngster, Theresa came home from school, finished her homework and then went out to play in Ivy Hill Park.

An unidentified woman alighting from a bus found the girl lying in a street near the park.

Pinkerton Det. Louis Sferlazzo, watchman at the apartments, asked Theresa: "Who did it?"

"Boys," she said.

"How?"

"With a rock."

Farmville Market Has $58.50 Day

FARMVILLE—Prices continued steady yesterday despite a sharp drop in quality of offerings on the Farmville Tobacco Market.

The market averaged $58.50, with payment of $461,696.24 for 789,204 pounds of tobacco, according to Sales Supervisor Charles S. Edwards. The sale marked completion of the market's best week since it opened August 21.

Yesterday's sale moved totals for the market to 12,062,726 pounds for $6,646,862.60 and an average of $55.10.

Greensboro Jail Escapee Caught

GREENSBORO (AP)—The FBI said that Michael Macejka, 43, an accused bank robber who escaped from the Greensboro jail last night, was captured at Alexandria, Va., today.

Ray Moore, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI district, said he has been informed that Macejka, arrested at 9 a.m., had admitted his identity.

Moore said Macejka was taken from Southern Railway passenger train No. 48 by officers. He offered no resistance.

Macejka had two broken ribs and a cut right hand. The injuries were suffered during his frenzied flight from the Greensboro jail that challenged the best in crime fiction.

Macejka, of Passaic, N.J., broke out of the jail last night after he slashed the jailer's brother, and fled via an elevator to the street.

He commandeered an automobile carrying four teen-agers, and forced them to drive him to Salisbury, about 45 miles to south of Greensboro, where he released them unharmed.

The car was found abandoned a short distance away, but Macejka apparently had disappeared.

A man was picked up after he was seen jumping from train 48, near Greensboro, but officers said he was not their man.

Macejka and a companion were being held here for trial in the $48,000 robbery of a Greensboro bank in August.

Other prisoners who helped engineer Macejka's escape did not get out of jail. Officers at Guilford County jail said Jailer Charles DiMaria was returning a prisoner, James J. Spencer, to a fourth floor cell after medical treatment when Spencer grabbed him from behind. Five or six of the more than 10 prisoners rushed out of the unlocked cellblock and grappled with the jailer.

DiMaria yelled for help to his brother Sam and wife, who were visiting him at the jail. But Spencer and Macejka rushed to head off the other DiMarias. Macejka slashed the jailer's brother several times with a picket knife and Mrs. DiMaria hurled a heavy ash tray at Macejka's head. The prisoners jerked the wires from the office radio and Macejka called for a jail trusty, who operates the elevator, telling him a deputy had been hurt.

The elevator boy refused to operate the elevator, but at that moment another jail employe reached the floor in another elevator. Macejka rushed in and at knife point forced the employe to start down. A jail physician, Dr. W. C. Mahaffey, fired at him with a pistol but apparently missed.

Macejka got off at the second floor, ran down the steps and to nearby Piedmont Memorial Hospital, where he climed a fire escape and entered a fourth floor window. A nurse, Mrs. Claude Crumpler, said, "He looked like a raving maniac. He was as white as cotton." She told him to follow her to the emergency room, but when she turned on the light there he fled again.

About a block away he took command of an automobile occupied by John Moore, 17; Pete Banner, 17; Sarah Murphy, 15; and Becky Rountree, 15, and forced them to take him to Salisbury. There he let them out and took the car, only to abandon it shortly afterward.

Macejka and Henry Zienowicz of Elizabeth, N.J., were arrested in Greensboro Aug. 29, one day after the Friendly Shopping Center branch of the Guilford National Bank was robbed of more than $48,000. They had been awaiting trial on bank robbery charges.

Disclosure Only Rallies Friends

CHARLOTTE (AP)— Adlai Stevenson, poet Carl Sandburg and novelist Fannie Hurst were among the many who rallied to author Harry Golden of Charlotte who disclosed yesterday he had served a jail sentence.

Sandburg, from his Flat Rock, N.C., home said "The story only ties me closer to him. Harry is an ex-convict and I'm an ex-jailbird."

Sandburg wrote the introduction to Golden's book, "Only in America," a collection of his essays which is high on many best seller lists.

The famous Lincoln biographer said he had not heard previously that Golden served five years after pleading guilty to a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Sandburg said he once spent 10 days in an Alleghany County, Pa., jail "for riding a railroad train without a ticket."

At Chicago, Stevenson said: "The story of Harry Golden reminds me of the story of O. Henry who spent three years in prison. I suspect that this experience ceepened Harry Golden's understanding, lengthened his vision and enlarged his heart. His subsequent life and work are best evidence of this."

Miss Hurst sent Golden a wire saying, "I couldn't care less."

Golden, editor of the Carolina Israelite here, said he disclosed his record because many newspapers and magazines were receiving anonymous letters about his past.

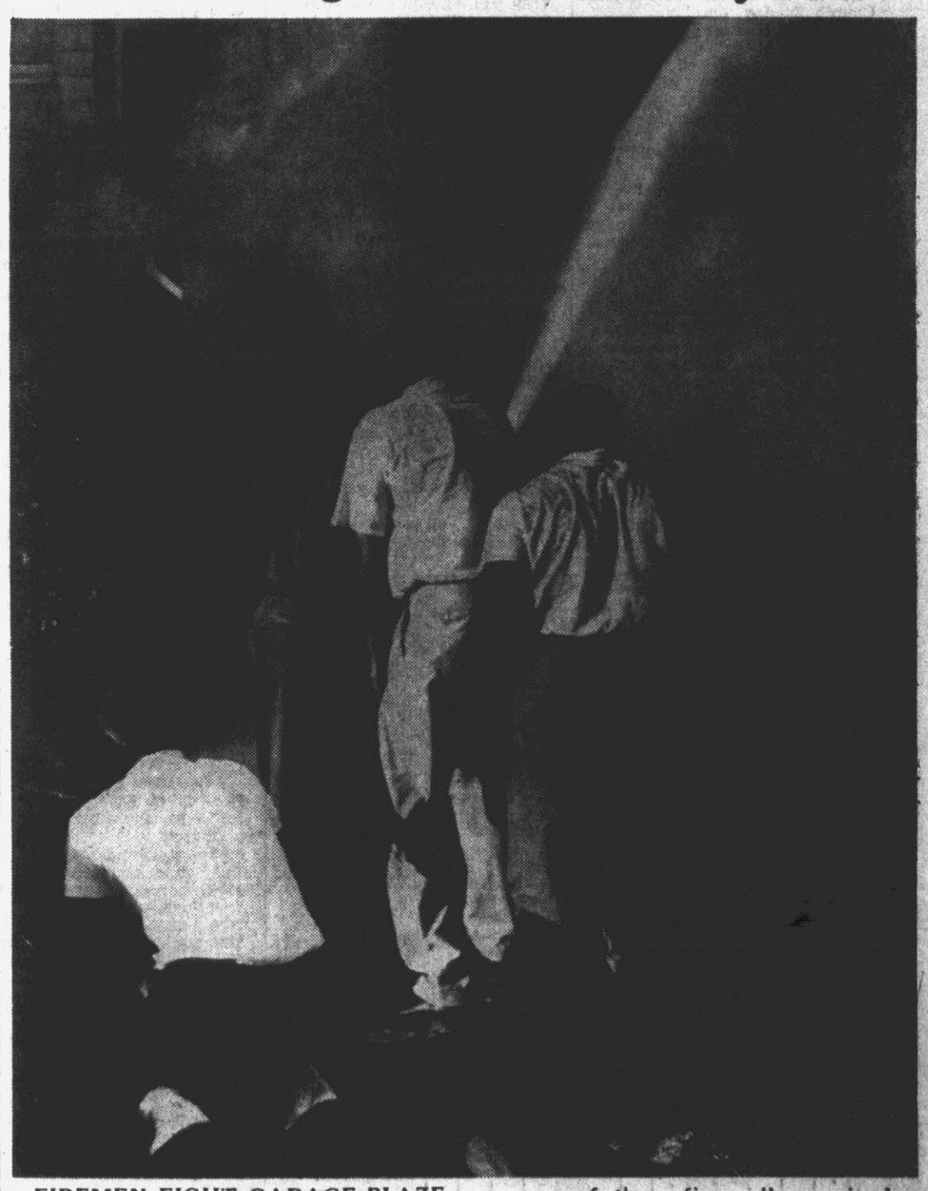

Golden said many of the telegrams and calls he was receiving were messages confirming dates of a coast to coast speaking tour he will start Monday at Great Neck, N.Y.

MEXICO, Mo. (AP) — Henry Brooks was granted a divorce from Anna Lee Brooks yesterday on the ground of desertion.

Brooks said his wife left him for another man in 1917.

Double Garage Burned Out By Blaze

FIREMEN FIGHT GARAGE BLAZE . . . one of three fire calls received yesterday.

Fire burned out a double garage on E. Rock Springs Rd. yesterday afternoon and for a time threatened the nearby dwelling.

The house, located at 1049 E. Rock Springs Rd. is owned and occupied by Will Moore.

Firemen used booster lines, one-and-a-half-inch and two-and-a-half-inch hose line from three trucks to extinguish the fiercely burning fire.

The garage was separated from the two-story brick home by a covered breeze way. Firemen said the flames had begun to work their way along the breezeway roof toward the house when they arrived.

Fire fighters were able to hold the blaze to the garage although some smoke made its way into the dwelling.

There wefe no autos in the garage but various items stored within were damaged by fire and water.

The call to the fire came about 5:30.

It was one of three calls for local firemen yesterday.

A duplex apartment at 600 Pamlico Ave. was badly damaged when a kitchen oil stove caught fire. That happened shortly after noon.

Last night around 6:40 firemen were called to a house owned by Julia Taft at 620 Ford St. where a gas stove caught fire. The blaze was extinguished with a hand extinguisher.

School-Closing Tensions Grow In Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A television station scheduled an educational broadcast today for students enrolled at Little Rock's closed-down high schools. But some white pupils were calling for regular classes, even on an integrated basis.

Tension was high over the school closing, ordered by Gov Orval E. Faubus to prevent the attendance of seven Negroes at Central High School.

More than 200 students have transferred out of Central, Hall High and Tech High. Only Horace Mann High School for Negroes has had no withdrawals.

At all-white Hall, 130 students — more than one-sixth of the 731-member student body—had pulled out as of yesterday. Central had 80 transfers this week and Tech had one.

Sixty-five Hall High students met at a church yesterday and adopted a resolution pleading for the immediate reopening of their school as a public school.

The resolution said they feared education would suffer if Hall remained closed and urged that classes resume "even if, upon reopening, qualified Negro students of the Hall High district may be assigned to classes in our school."

Leaders of the group said copies of the resolution would be mailed to Faubus and to federal officials.

David Johnson, a Student Council leader who helped arrange the meeting, said he thought the resolution conveyed the feeling of most Hall High students.

"Nobody has asked the students how they feel so we're telling them," he said.

Chris Barrier, another Student Council member, said he was sure most of the students who attended the meeting did not favor integration, "but we have been advised that this is the only way the school can be opened legally."

Faubus commented on the students' resolution last night while en route to Lexington, Ky., to attend a four-day meeting of the Southern Governors Conference.

At Danville, Ky., the governor said "65 out of 4,000 students doesn't seem like very many to me."

Enrollment in the four high schools totaled 3,698 before the transfers started, school records showed.

Faubus wouldn't comment on reports that the Little Rock school board feared to reopen the schools as private and segregated institutions. Nor would he talk about a report that he was considering letting Horace Mann High open as an integrated school to relieve pressure on students anxious to get back to their studies.

The governor has asked the school board to voluntarily hand over all four schools to a private corporation formed this week but the board has not answered his request.

A source close to the school board said last night board members felt they might be risking charges of contempt of federal court if they handed over the schools to private operators.

The U.S. Supreme Court has directed resumption of integration here.

Dr. Dale Alford, the only board member who could be reached, had no comment on the report beyond saying there had been no board meeting to discuss contempt charges.

Television station KATV will show miscellaneous educational films today. Starting Monday, KTHV and KARK-TV, will broadcast daily class lectures for sophomore, juniors and seniors.

Walking From Texas To Peru

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Edwin J. Cashman is walking from Laredo, Tex., to Lima, Peru.

Cashman, 23, hails from New Richmond, Wis., where his father is a manufacturer. He spent two years in the University of Rochester, N.Y., then early this year decided he wanted to continue his studies in the University of San Marcos at Lima.

He decided the best way to get there was afoot—to learn more about the various countries and have "time to think."

"I take shortcuts, to save time and see more of the country," he said. "Sometimes it's dangerous, but I've managed all right so far."

He can make about 25 miles a day with his light gear, and hopes to arrive in Lima next spring or summer.

"I sleep on farms and ranches, on floors of adobe huts, and eat native dishes," he said. "I'm growing a big beard, so people will think I'm crazy. They're more sympathetic that way."

He said he had lost 20 pounds—down to a trim 158 on his near six-foot frame—during the first 650 miles of his hike.

He's on his way to Guatemala now.

Eighth St. Christian Announcements

The Eighth Street Christian Church extends a most cordial welcome to the Rev. Ray Alexander, pastor of First Christian Church, Washington, N.C. as the guest minister at the morning service Sunday. Dr. Haney will be in the Washington church at the same time. This is a state-wide project of pulpit exchange among the Christian Churches in North Carolina with the purpose of unifying the fellowship of our churches and also of lifting up the total program of the church on a state-wide basis.

On Sunday, September 28, the Sunday School of the Eighth Street Church will observe Promotion Day when all the classes will step up one grade and those classes passing from one department to another will be presented certificates of promotion. Louis W. Gaylord, Jr. is serving as superintendent of the church school.

On Sunday, October 5, the church school will observe its annual Rally Day. On this Sunday the teacher will have a new class and it is hoped that every class will have 100 per cent attendance. The first Sunday in October is the beginning of the new church school year.

At the morning service Sunday the choir will sing, "O Thou, From Whom All Blessings Come" by Tchaikowsky. The Sunday School convenes at 9:45. Youth organizations meet from 5:00 to 7:30.

First Presbyterian Announcements

"Great God and Little Men" is the topic of the sermon to be delivered by the Rev. Richard R. Gammon at the eleven o'clock service in the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning.

Sunday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock all officers of the church, past and present, are requested to meet in the Church Parlor with representatives of Albemarle Presbytery in connection with the "Every Church Canvass".

All new Pioneer and Senior High Fellowship members will receive a special welcome Sunday night at 6:00 o'clock when they meet together for a snack supper. Following the supper, vespers in separate groups will be held. The Pioneers will hold election of officers.

Sunday at the 11:00 worship service, Mrs. Thomas Little and Mrs. J. T. Worthington will be in charge of the nursery.

There is a nursery provided for each revival service.

Funeral Costs Are Also Rising

DENVER (AP)—The high cost of living isn't the only expense that's gone up.

State Welfare Director Guy R. Justis said the state is considering raising the maximum allowed for state pensioner funerals.

State law fixes a $200 allowance. Justis said the state funeral directors and embalmers association has asked for an increase. It said cemeteries now charge minimum prices of from $75 to $200 for opening and closing a grave. The cost when the state began subsidizing pensioner funerals in 1936 was between $15 and $25.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Philippians	1	3-6
Monday	Philippians	2	1-5
Tuesday	I John	1	5-7
Wednesday	Ephesians	5	25-28
Thursday	Ephesians	5	29-33
Friday	I Corinthians	7	10-17
Saturday	Romans	12	4-5

It was autumn, and as we looked out at the beauty of the valley Bruce asked me to marry him. Though I loved him, I was afraid to say yes.

I've always been a church-going person. Bruce wasn't. I knew that before I could marry him I would have to show him how much the Church meant to me. I asked him if he would start attending Sunday service with me.

He did; and in the beginning I knew that he was coming only to please me. Then, as time went on, I could see that the Church was beginning to have a new meaning for him. And finally the day came when he turned to me and said, "I had no idea what I had been missing."

That was the turning point. Bruce and I have been married five years, now—and you'll still find both of us in church each Sunday.

Miss Wike Weds In Ceremony

In an afternoon ceremony yesterday Miss Nancy Elizabeth Wike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Perry Wike of New Bern, became the bride of John Cleveland Andrews Jr., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrews. The wedding vows were spoken in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church with the Rev. William M. Howard Jr. officiating.

Arrangements of white gladiola and mums backed by two seven-branch candelabra, flanked the altar.

A program of nuptial music was presented by the Senior Choir of the church and Mrs. Paul Toll, organist. "Oh Perfect Love" and "May the Grace of Christ Our Saviour" were among the selections rendered. "Trumpet Tune" by Purcell was used for the processional of the bridal party and the traditional processional and recessional were used.

bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a waltz length dress of Chantilly lace. The dress featured a scooped neckline and was fashioned with short sleeves edged in lace mediations and a bouffant skirt. Her headdress was a tiara, belonging to her sister, with a fingertip veil of imported illusion attached. She carried an orchid upon her personal prayer book.

Miss Margaret Andrews, of Raleigh, sister of the bridegroom, assisted the bride as her maid of honor. She wore a dark green chiffon, full skirted short formal with a matching chiffon headpiece. She carried a small bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Margaret Arthur and Miss Carolyn Clapp, both of Greenville and roommates of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore chiffon dresses of light green, styled as the maid of honor, and carried identical bouquets.

Stephen Franklin Eure of Greensboro acted as best man.

Ushers were John Andrews Edwards of Raleigh, cousin of the bridegroom, Don Williams of Tryon, and Hilliard Kinlaw of Ayden and Chadbourn.

Mrs. Wike, mother of the bride, chose a toast lace dress over taffeta and a purple orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Susie Edwards of Snow Hill, wore a moss green crepe dress with an orchid corsage.

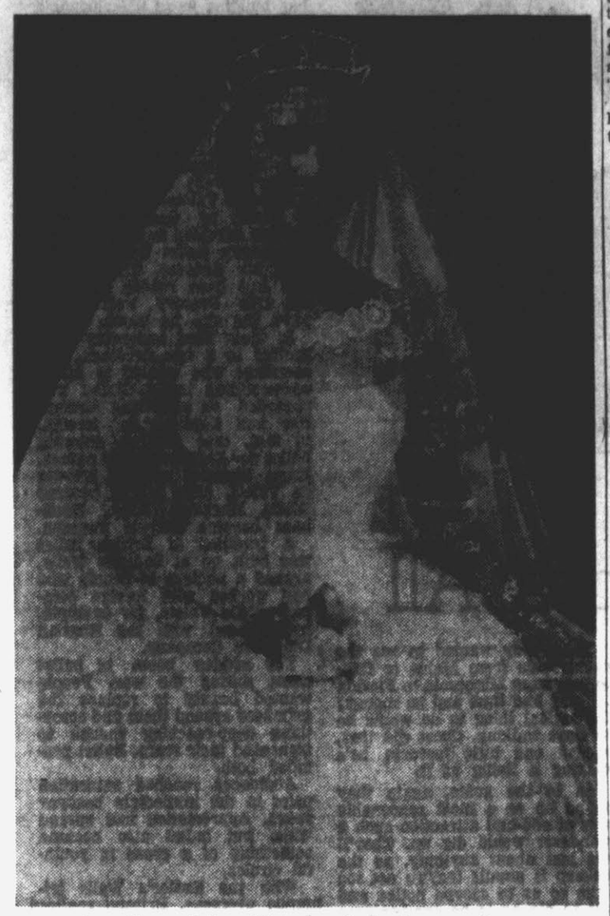

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church parlor.

The new Mrs. Andrews attended Pfeiffer College in Misenheimer, and graduated from Greensboro College. She received her M. A. degree from Scarritt College in Nashville, Tenn. For the past two and half years she has been the Director of Christian Education at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Mr. Andrews spent four years in the United States Navy and was a June graduate of East Carolina College. He plans to enter Duke Divinity School in February.

The bride chose for the wedding trip a dark brown cupioni and cotton suit, with a blouson jacket, ending in a contour sash tying in front. A hat of smoked velour and an orchid corsage completed her "going away" outfit.

The couple will reside in Durham following a short wedding trip.

30 Years Ago Today

September 20, 1928

Officers and members of the faculties of city schools and East Carolina Teachers College were entertained by members of the Greenville Kiwanis Club last night. The outstanding feature of the program was an old-fashioned spelling bee, conducted by Miss Ernestine Forbes, principal of West Greenville School. The spellers consisted of Misses Isabel Stover, Lotta Veazey, Eva Keeter, Dr. W. B. Massey, J. H. Summrell and Marvin Blount. The pupils were required to spell by rules used when grandmother was a girl, pronouncing each syllable with proper attention to division. Dr. Massey was so overcome with emotion when he was given the word "chrysanthemum" that he came mighty near causing suspension of activities. After five minutes spent in consideration of the beauty and grandeur and glory of the word the student began spelling. To the surprise of the assemblage and the consternation of the teacher he actually spelled it correctly.

Miss Harris Is Shower Honoree

Mrs. William Harris was entertained Thursday night at a Stork Shower at the home of Mrs. David Roberson.

For the occasion the honoree wore a black and white pin checked smock with a matching black skirt. A corsage with a plastic rattler, a pacifier, a pink carnation, and a stork imbedded in pink ribbon completed her ensemble.

During the evening she opened a shower of gifts. Various games were played and prize winners were Mrs. Norman Harris, Mrs. Edward Thornburg, Mrs. Durwood Allen Mrs. Reba Watson, Mrs. Bill Sullivan, and Mrs. L. M. Bullock.

MASONIC NOTICE

AUXILIARY TO MEET

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold its first meeting of the new year on Thursday evening, September 25, 1958, at 8:00 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Richard Briley, 1701 East Fourth Street.

Miss N. C. To Be Guest

Miss Bety Lane Evans will be an honored guest at the first dinner meeting of the Greenville Woman's Club Thursday evening. This social event will begin at 7:00 o'clock.

Mrs. J. C. GALLOWAY, JR. . . . president of the Woman's Club will head the first meeting Thursday.

Miss North Carolina will speak on the highlights of her experience since receiving the state title following the dinner.

Every member of the club is invited to attend and their husbands or guests. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Claude Gaskins, 3025, or Mrs. J. C. Galloway, Jr., 3958.

This first session will be presided by the new president for the coming club year, Mrs. Galloway.

She will preside at all meetings and lead various committees during the year.

The Greenville club is among the 350 active clubs in the Tar Heel state with a membership of 18,000.

RIGGS

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jackson Riggs, 105 Fenner College St., Ayden, a son, Christopher Scott, on September 19 at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Daughter Of N. C. Representative Marries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Miss Betty Shuford, daughter of Rep George A. Shuford (D-NC) and Mrs. Shuford, will be married here late today to James Ethelbert Briggs Jr., formerly of Raleigh, N.C.

Rep. Shuford will give his daughter in marriage at a ceremony at Christ Episcopal Church in historic Georgetown. Dr. John R. Anschutz, rector of the church, is the officiating minister.

The stately blonde bride will wear a priscilla model white satin wedding gown with front panel of alencon lace and a chapel train. It has a scoop neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her heirloom veil and rose point coronet from which the Brussels lace veil falls belong to her aunt, Mrs. Francis Field of Asheville, N.C.

Her only attendant is Mrs. Marcus Spruggs of Raleigh, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Spruggs will wear a gown of aqua lace and chiffon with matching headband and will carry pink roses.

The bride's mother will be in dior blue crepe with satin panel and matching feather hat and will wear a pink orchid. The bridegroom's mother will be in mauve chiffon and wear a purple orchid.

The bridegroom's father, of Raleigh, N.C., is his best man.

Ushers are Richard Jenrette, of New York City; Charles Barham, of Raleigh, and the bride's brother, Sydney of New York City, and Fuller, who is in medical school at the University of North Carolina.

The bride's parents will have a small reception for the family and out-of-town guests at the Washington Club immediately after the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of Salem academy, Winston-Salem, N.C. and of Randolph Macon College, Lynchburg, Va. She is a secretary with the National Assn. of Manufacturers here.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Duke and Harvard universities. He is with the State Department.

Among those from North Carolina for the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Field, Arthur Field, Mrs. John S. Hursey, Mrs. Robert Redwood, all of Asheville; Mr. and Mrs. Vance Field, of Winston-Salem; Marcus Spruggs, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Smith, Marvin Koontz, Calvin Koontz, Mrs. Charles Barham, Betsy Parrish, Mary Grady Burnette, all of Raleigh.

For her wedding trip the bride will change to a gray suit with black accessories. The young couple will be at home here until about Jan. 1, 1959 when the bridegroom is expecting an assignment overseas.

Majorettes On The March

A MAJORETTE SPECTACULAR . . . was performed last night at College Stadium when Miss Lib Rogers, in foreground, lead the group in fire and twirling exhibitions. (Photo by Billy Arnold)

Majorette-drill team specstaular! This best describes the local high school's part of the half-time show during the Greenville-Kinston football game last night.

CATHERINE

During the opening march, the crowd viewed the initial performance of the 30 white clad Rosettes, the Rose High School Band's drill team. This group, organized and trained by Chief Majorette Lib Rogers, drilled during the summer in preparation for its opening show.

After strudtting down-field to a tune played by the band, the majorette squad performed trio and duet twirling routines. As a finale of this feature, Lib proved her skill in a solo performance.

Finishing their demonstration with a "crowd pleaser," the high school twirlers lighted fire batons for a show of their ability in this area of majoretting.

Admirers enjoyed an unrehearsed ending when Jane Blue and Frances Cozart couldn't extinguish their blazing batons.

SENIORS CHOOSE OFFICERS

Friday morning at its first class meeting of this year, the Senior Class elected Louis Arthur president Arthur president. Other officers are Billy Brown, vice president; Gene Davenport, secretary; and Joe Moye, treasurer.

Chief adviser for the class is Mrs. Elizabeth L. Mims. Other advisers are Miss Estell Mims, J. D. Nicholson, and Mack McRorie.

The class voted to sell stationery to earn money to purchase a senior gift to the school.

CHEERERS SELL MINTS

Senior High cheerleaders are selling mints for the second week. Their brand, Southern Old Fashioned Butter mints, sell for one dollar a can.

COUNCIL TO SELL BOOK COVERS

After selling the book covers which they had ordered, the Student Co-operative Association has ordered 500 additional covers identical to the first. The council took orders for these, but ordered extra so that other students could purchase them also.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT SPONSORS CLUB

Jane Reynolds, Joe Upchurch, and Lawrence Behr are forming a constitution for the newly-organized science club. J. D. Nicholson, science teacher, acts as faculty adviser.

Furthering the interest in and appreciation of science among the students of the high school is the purpose of the club.

It plans to sponsor a high school science fair later in the year. Members of the various divisions, chemistry, physics, and biology, will build projects throughout the year.

STAFF ELECTS EDITOR

Staff members of Tau, Rose High's annual, elected it's editorial staff Friday afternoon at it's first meeting. Newly elected co-editors are Joanne Eagles and Betsy Whedbee. Betty Derick is business manager and Bryce Cummings, assistant business manager.

Realistic, Reasonable UF Figure

The goal of $120,381 for the first fund-raising campaign of the Pitt County United Fund may at a casual glance seem high.

When one considers the many organizations included in the Pitt County United Fund, plus the fact that for the first time Pitt has a county-wide organization to represent these agencies, it is apparent the budget quota is most reasonable.

This single United Fund campaign will replace six county-wide campaigns normally conducted by various organizations. It includes another 10 state and national agencies that normally solicit funds from Pitt County citizens. In addition to these, the budget includes a specified amount to replace numerous individual community campaigns that are conducted each year on a purely local basis in communities throughout the county.

The amount budgeted to take care of these purely community campaigns represents approximately one-third of the total United Fund goal for Pitt County.

For almost 10 years Pitt County has moved toward a United Fund which would operate on a county-wide basis. In the past few months that organization has become a reality. Applications from agencies have been considered, a budget adopted and plans have been made for conducting the campaign.

The rest is now up to the people of the county.

The support given the Pitt County United Fund this year—both in dollars and active work by individual citizens—will determine the succes or failure of the organization.

The $120,381 goal set for the United Fund campaign is a realistic and reasonable figure. It compares favorably with the amounts raised through individual campaigns by the many agencies in past years. It offers a convenient method whereby citizens can, in one gift, give to many worthwhile organizations in one campaign. It eliminates the necessity of many campaigns, and it reduces sharply the duplication of effort that has been necessary in the past with each agency conducting its own campaign.

This Pitt County United Fund belongs to every community and every citizen of Pitt County. When the fund-raising campaign begins in the next few weeks, the organization should receive generous support from every citizen and every community within the county.

Hodges Again In Center Stage

By LYNN NISBET

LULL — Not very much has been heard in recent weeks about the races for Speaker of the House and President protem of the Senate. There is obvious reason. All of the Democratic nominees have been contacted, and nearly all of them have promised to support one of the candidates. If lists maintained by the aspirants are correct some members have promised both.

Avowed candidates for Speaker are Addison Hewlett of New Hanover and Carl Venters of Onslow. Each claims enough guaranteed votes to win. For President protem the candidates are C.V. Henkel Jr. of Iredell and Robert F. Morgan of Cleveland. Each of them also claims a majority of the Senators committee. Possibility of other entrants is remote. It looks like the races will go "to the wire" and close votes in the caucuses the night before the General Assembly convenes are indicated.

A flurry of activity is expected following the November election. The matter problem will be batted around among prospective legislators on occasion of the district rallies scheduled for next month. If the briefing meetings which Governor Hodges has suggested are held the legislative races will be much in the forefront—if not in the publicity.

There is much less enthusiasm among legislators for the briefing sessions than seemed apparent when the idea was first broached. One reason for lessening enthusiasm on that score is also a reason for slowed activity in the presiding officers' contests. Some of the oldtimers, although openly expressing preference for one of the candidates, hope to avoid the kind of scrapping that will arouse enmities which might carry on into the legislative session.

UNPLEASANT — The 1955 Legislature, particularly the Senate, was split wide open on the tobacco tax. To raise the $52 million in new revenue to operate the State government on estimates of the Advisory Budget Commission, Governor Hodges recommended in his budget message that extra taxes be levied on cigarettes, bottled drinks and other items. There was immediate protest from tobacco growers as well as from manufacturers and dealers. When it developed that the need for new tax money would not be so great, finally dropping to about $20 million, the budget makers did not offer further suggestions as to tax source. That was a matter for the General Assembly to determine.

Result was that bitterness of the legislative fights on issues overlapped into personal relations. The shadow of the tobacco tax fell across nearly all important legislation and many of the social activities of the members.

Members of the 1955 Assembly who came back in 1957 brought some of these animosities and resentments with them. The main fights in 1957 were over reorganization of State government. Taxation was, as always, a big item. But the 1955 revenue act, without a cigarette tax, produced enough money to accumulate a surplus which eased the tax problem of 1957. That fact tended to aggravate rather than alleviate unpleasant relations among members.

Advance appraisal of carry-over effect of these conditions on the 1959 Legislature is extremely difficult, because the recorded votes in committees and on the floor of the General Assembly did not reflect the personal resentments of some members about the methods used in presenting the issues. These resentments are still smoldering and are having influence on the current races for presiding officers.

Tax money will be a big issue in the next General Assembly, although it may be less important than reorganization policies. It becomes increasingly evident that a major factor in 1959 will be the personal influence of Governor Luther Hodges, because reorganization and revenue proposals will represent ideas of the Governor to greater degree than ever before. He is the first chief executive in history to join the budget commission in its inspection tour of State institutions, and he has spent far more time than any of his predecessors with the commission at its hearings on agency, departmental and institutional operating budgets. It is common knowledge, though not so much on the public record, that he has kept in close touch with all the reorganization study commissions—including constitutional revision and public school financing. Reports and recommendations of these commissions will more nearly reflect the thinking of the Governor than has ever been the case before.

That situation is historically important. Usually the Governor has less influence in the second Legislature of his term than in the first. That 1959 General Assembly will be the third during the tenure of Governor Hodges, only time since the constitution of 1868 was adopted that one chief executive served through three regular sessions. In face of the fact he knows he is on the way out as Governor, he has said he will recommend and vigorously champion a legislative program he thinks is for the best interest of North Carolina.

Since the President protem of the Senate is traditionally chairman of the rules committee, and the Speaker of the House has authority to appoint all committees and name their chairmen, thus exercising tremendous influence on legislative action, it is difficult to accept at face value Governor Hodges' declaration of complete neutrality in the contests for these positions.

No Chance For Reds To Misunderstand Us

Announcement a policy of hot pursuit of Red Chinese plans by American jets in the Formosa area makes the position of the United States in the Far East more hazardous in one respect, but probably in another respect further limits the possibility of a shooting war between the United States and Red China.

During the Korean War American planes were forbidden by orders from pursuing Comunist attackers beyond the Ya luRiver; a Red Chinese plane could attack across the border into North Korea and then flee to the safety of their own territory. It was a policy which affected the outcome of the Korean War, and probably cost the lives of many American and South Korean soldiers.

Now, if American planes are attacked by Red Chinese fighters in the Formosa Area, they have the authority to pursue their attackers over Red China territory. This eliminates the "safety zone" granted the Chinese during the Korean War.

So far there have been no attacks on American planes or ships in the Formosa area by the Chinese Communists. This new order from the Pentagon should lessen the possibility of such attacks. If, however, attacks come now, the United States may find itself more quickly involved in a fight with Red China than otherwise would be the case. It would mean that American planes, in all probability, would carry their pursuit over Chinese territory and repercussions could be expected. .

In spite of such possibilities, it is much better that Red China knows its planes will be pursued if they attack us. The order should further confirm that the United States means what it already has bluntly said about the situation in the Far East.

No Solution In Sight For Asia

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles is like a man gingerly shoving a piece of steak towards a tiger, only to have the tiger roar at him: "I said a big piece of steak."

He could have guessed it was not big enough for the Communist appetite when he proposed Thursday—in a mild speech at the United Nations—a cease-fire as a preliminary for bringing peace to the Formosa area.

The Red Chinese and Soviets both jumped him. The Peiping radio blasted the idea: "There is no question of a cease-fire since China and the United States are not at war."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko let go at him with this: Only a complete U.S. military withdrawal from the entire Formosa area, including Formosa, would bring peace to the Far East.

This was bad enough. But it wasn't all. To still another idea put in circulation by American officials, but unofficially and perhaps as a trial balloon, a representative of America's ally, Chiang Kai-shek, said: "Nuts."

This was the idea that maybe, if the Red Chinese agreed to a cease — fire, some arrangement could be worked out to demilitarize Quemoy. That couldn't sit well with Chiang and probably wouldn't with the Red Chinese either.

Demilitarizing Quemoy would almost certainly require withdrawal of Chiang's troops back to the Formosa stronghold and thus mean the end of all his talk, and Nationalist hopes, of retaking the China mainland someday.

He'd hardly agree to this himself. He'd have to be pressured into it by the United States. But would the Red Chinese settle for the mere demilitarization of Quemoy which they claim as their own? Probably not.

Newsmen tackled Chiang's new ambassador to the United States, George Yeh. They asked about the demilitarization idea, and first got this answer: The Eisenhower administration "has not told us officially" about such a proposal.

But when asked what he himself thought of it, Yeh replied in un-Chinese language: "Demilitarization, I think is nuts."

All of which illustrates how the United States let Chiang get it into a box and slam the lid. Now it wants out. Explaining how it got in is easier than how it is to get out.

The United States is pledged to defend Chiang's forces on Formosa but not the Quemoy and Matsu islands near the mainland. Dulles has said the islands by themselves are not worth going to war for.

But Chiang moved so many of his troops to Quemoy from Formosa that, if they were overwhelmed by the Red Chinese, not only would he suffer disaster but the American problem of holding Formosa would be complicated too.

Yet the United States didn't oppose his moving the troops to Quemoy. Now the United States is in the position of having to defend them.

President Eisenhower gave this as a reason for fighting for Quemoy: The Communists should not be allowed to shoot their way into what they want. This, however, has not been a consistent American principle. For example: The United States let the Communists take half of Viet Nam—but not Korea—and it stood by helplessly when the Soviets crushed the Hungarian revolt.

So, unless there is war, the jockeying, maneuvering, gum-beating and shooting will probably continue for quite awhile without any real answers at all.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLAS

HOW MUCH DOES IT MEAN?

We read in the book of Acts (17:6) that the early Christians were referred to as people who had turned the world upside down.

Christianity, when it has really been worthy of the name, has been doing just that through the centuries. Jesus was a man who turned things upside down. Read the Beatitudes, and there you will find a series of truths set forth which are almost directly contrary to the truths taught by the world and accepted by most of the world's population. The word "power" is used frequently in the New Testament. And this word "power" comes from the Greek word "dunamis" from which we get the English words "dynamo," "dynamic," and "dynamite." There is something terribly potent in Christianity, once it gets to work on individual souls and on the life of the world.

If there is one thing you and I need to ask ourselves about our religion, it is this: "Is it turning life upside down for us?" If it is the real thing, it is. If it is not doing just this, then it is not valid Christianity.

For Christianity makes sinful men righteous, mean men generous, belligerent men peaceful. It cleanses the filthy, fills the mind with generous thoughts, leads people to love life in a deep and satisfying measure.

The question for every Christian to ask himself is, "Does religion do something for me and to me? Is it turning me and my world upside down?"

On The Face Of It!

By DON SCHLIENZ

A Showman, That's All

Lately I find an inner revulsion to calling "Chess" McCartney the Goat Man".

Presumably the title suits his own purposes, for he uses it. . . even capitalizes on it. But as titles go, that one doesn't do the man credit.

"Chess", otherwise known as Charley, or Charles, is a 57-year-old onetime Iowa farmer who has itchy feet. He's no ordinary hobo, but a brisk-mannered sort of man who knows what he wants, where he's going, and just how to go about accomplishing his aims.

He's an eager-beaver when it comes to free publicity involving himself, his goats or his wanderings. And why not? That publicity (good or bad) is part and parcel of how he makes a living; it brings out curios'ty seekers to buy his post cards or anything else he has to offer.

McCartney was in the newsroom Thursday to talk with a reporter, and his personality was in contrast with what one would expect on reading the gibes, or hearing them, about "the goat man".

Sure, he had a beard . . . but nothing remarkable about that; and his overalls were of good stout material suited to the open road. Other than that, he was simply an ex-Iowa farmer going through town and making a few business arrangements in the process. He wanted people to know where he would be over the weekend, that's all.

If anybody wanted to see the countryside from Maine to California, from Minnesota to Florida . . .and had time and no money; the logical thing to do would be to start walking. Chess did that, adding one little feature: he's making a living at it.

As to the goats, again they shape up as a most reasonable sort of odd-ball attraction such a wanderer would dig up. They'll eat just about anything, so the upkeep is small; they're not too little so as to escape notice and not so big as to be cumbersome on the road. When you get down to it, goats are pretty reasonable animals to take along if you are setting yourself up as being "different" and something to see.

Old Chess isn't above hamming it up for the sake of a little attention. Somewhere along the line he decided he might as well be candidate for the presidency; and a little bit of preaching on the side never did hurt anybody . . . it goes well with a flowing beard. Then there's a certain amount of the "old philosopher" act he throws in for good measure.

Summing it up, he's a fair showman. Took what assets he had and is making the most of them.

So when I hear snickers and derision and disparaging remarks about MCartney's assumed role, I get the feeling Chess just might be a little bit smarter than some in his audience.

He's happy, healthy, sees the country from a close-up vantage point; anybody could do a lot worse.

Other Editors Saying On How To Relax

(The Shreveport Times)

These days everybody wants to know how to attain a relaxed condition. There is too much tension; too many trips to psychiatrists; too big a market for tranquility pills. Recently an article in a medical publication suggested seven ways to relax. J. A. Kugelmass tested them, found them successful and summed up his opinions in Nationwide Insurance Magazine. Here are some high spots of his report:

"Nothing is more exhausting than clutter, because the brain gathers in everyting and sends out impulses of defeat. First, a psychological weariness sets in, then a physical weariness. The less furniture there is in a room, the less exhaustion — whether you're cleaning it or just looking at it. Colors can drag you down. Purple, brown, orange and certain shades of blue are tiring. White is frightful indoors if it is in great expanses such as walls. The most restful shades are medium green and yellow. Glare is devastating.

"People tire themselves by sitting in uncomfortable chairs or in uncomfortable positions. The best way to relax is to lie down and put your feet up. (Editor's note: That's also the best way to lose your job). — Exercise will revive energy. — Breaks (he doesn't specify coffee breaks) should be taken in solitude if possible. Solitude is refreshing. — Everybody should look forward to some recreation event, either for the evening ahead or for the next day or two."

As readers have doubtless surmised, this editorial was written by a relaxed person. The walls of the Times news room are done in medium green and there's a medium yellow ceiling. There is no glare and all clutter is kept at arm's length. The chair is comfortable, and so on. The result is what might be called a relaxed editorial, one in which most of the place is filled by quotes from someone else—in this case from a person proclaiming to be an expert in relaxation.

SCHOOL DAZE

(Charlotte Observer)

As Johnny departs for his first year at college, many parents are discovering what a lot of parents already knew: There've been, Ma'am, some changes made. The present-day Pop who once left for the state university with one good suit, 75 bucks, and the blessing of Mom and Dad, must now dig deep for an Ivy League wardrobe, a new set of golf clubs, and multiple fees and charges that add to incredible sums.

No real help for it: Johnny must go first class. And if Dear Old Father is addled with debt in the process, Pop has his memories as ample compensation. He better be thankful, too. If things continue as things began, he may need to put 'em in hock by the end of the first semester.

Sadler Wells Dying

By NORMAN MOSS

LONDON (AP)—"Royal Ballet Company," the posters say. And underneath, in brackets, are the words "Sadler's Wells Ballet."

The brackets that now enclose that famous name are like a shroud in which it will one day be buried. For the name "Sadler's Wells," which is synonymous with British ballet, is disappearfrom the ballet world.

Administratively speaking, it vanished in January, 1957. The two Sadler's Wells ballet companies merged into one, the Royal Ballet Company, with headquarters at London's Royal Opera House, Covent Garden.

The Sadler's Wells Theater, a fine building in an unfashionable part of North London, was turned over entirely to opera.

Today Sadler's Wells looks at its ballet companies—now under patronship of the Queen—proudly and perhaps wistfully, like a better part of town and acquired a new social milieu.

British ballet grew up at the Sadler's Wells Theater. Dame Ninette de Valois—she was made a dame by Queen Elizabeth for her services to British dancing—began ballet there in 1931 with six dancers. The theater had just been rebuilt over the old 17th Century well which gave the site its name.

In those days audiences were limited to a few devotees, and socialites who wanted to affect cosmopolitan tastes. Ballet was regarded as something foreign, like bull fighting. So foreign, in fact, that Britons entering ballet de-Anglicized their names. Edris Stannus became Ninette de Valois, Alice Marks became Alicia Markova, Peggy Hookham became Margot Fonteyn.

A tradition of British ballet was built up at Sadler's Wells, around a nucleus of people who had worked with foreign companies. De Valois, for example, had danced with the Russian Diaghilev Company.

The sudden boom in ballet came during the war. People wanted beauty to replace the grimness around them and something deep-reaching enough to transcend their fears. Ballet provided both.

Audiences reached saturation point in the immediate postwar years. Appreciation had spread wide, but ballet also became something of a craze in youthful circles.

With the Sadler's Wells triumphs overseas, Britons realized they had a new national institution in which to take pride. The craze died, but ballet still fills an average of nearly 90 per cent of the seats and it still has a young audience.

Expensive to produce, ballet finally proved too costly for Sadler's Wells company moved to Covent Garden, home of Britain's grandest grand opera, but kept its name. Early last year, rising costs forced Sadler's Wells to give up its second company.

At Covent Garden the Royal Ballet Company still has a Sadler's Wells flavor. The doting and indomitable mother of British ballet, Dame Ninette, is directress.

Both opera and ballet at Covent Garden are administered by a board of directors appointed by the government. They are also government subsidized.

But this is not enough to free them of financial troubles. Not long ago the Arts Council published a real-life melodrama entitled "Art in the Red." The plot is summarized in the title.

Opinions In Brief

"A Hoover Commission task force discovered three years ago that the U.S. government is among other things, the largest electric power producer in the country, the largest insurer, the largest lender and the largest borrower, the largest landlord and the largest tenant, the largest holder of grazing land, the largest holder of timberland, the largest owner of grain, the largest warehouse operator, the largest shipowner and the largest truck-fleet operator. These conditions still prevail today three years after the Hoover Commission recommended that the government get itself out of business." — The Standard, Butte, Montana.

"Next to chimpanzees and Los Angeles Dodgers, the suburbanite seems to be the funniest creature in America today."—Charlotte News.

"Paying one's way is an old and honored American custom—one in which we have long taken fully justified pride. It simply means that we pay for what we get, whether it be a suit of clothes, a car, a meal in a restaurant or anything else." — Industrial News Review.

"A hot spell sure is a good time to just sit around and deplore things. Unless you've done some deploring lately, you probably have no idea how many things you can find to view with alarm."—The Times, Thomasville, Ala.

More Look-Aheads In Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are more look-aheads in business, based on measurements of shadows cast before:

More Japanese imports. The Nipponese government will become a bit firmer in insisting that the United States lower some of the bars against Japanese manufactures. The Japanese know that as long as there is tension in the Formosa Strait, the United States will be especially consiliatory to allies who might flip allegiances.

Higher gas taxes. Touring will cost more next year. Budget Director Maurice H. Stans has warned that the Highway Trust Fund is running into the red and Congress must increase gas taxes or use general funds to make up the difference—and precedents indicate Congress will favor an increased gas tax. Meanwhile, many states are pressed for funds to meet their shares of highway cost and may increase state gas levies.

FURRY HOMES

More fur in decor. What started as a fun bit in home decoration is becoming a big fad: the use of real and fake furs. Walls covered with fake leopard and sofas upholstered in imitation tiger skins have been attracting attention at the Home Furnishings Show in New York. The idea is being picked up fast; already there are hassocks and record storage cabinets covered in fur, more furry furniture, imitation fur rugs, and fur-covered pillows. There will be more befur long.

Cheaper fowl. Despite some efforts to cut back, the poultry crop is unwieldly large. Cheaper chicken and eggs are in prospect.

Costlier whiskey. Congress, in extending the time distilled spirits may remain in bond, has taken a lot of pressure off the whiskey industry. No longer must it sell aged stocks at costs of storage and taxes. Private brands of six-to-eight-year-old whiskey at the price of blends will become scarcer and scarcer.

BARGAINS IN MOVING AIR

Fan bargains. Mild summer in the East has left dealers with huge stocks of unsold fans. Many are desperate and will sell below cost.

New menthol smoke. A new mentholated cigarette is quietly being tested in a few key markets. If it catches on, it may become a contender in the national field. Name: Mayfair.

No nonferrous storms. Prices of nonferrous metals will continue to fluctuate but there will be no great turbulence in the near future. Production of most metals has been cut back closer to demand and the threat of war tends to stiffen prices close to present levels.

Government aid for oil. The oversupply of edible oils, notably cottonseed and soybean, is becoming more critical as harvests proceed. Storage space for soybeans is growing scarce. Government experts are working on plans to assist growers.

THE MIND THEY SAVE MAY BE OLD PROMOTER'S

"Since you asked my opinion," the Old Promoter said, "I think the automobile safety people ought to hire a good psychologist."

We haven't asked his opinion in years, but we said, "Tell why."

"I think yammering is one of the great causes of auto accidents," he said. "Tune in the radio and somebody yammers at you to drive safe. Open a newspaper, and somebody is yammering about making coffee one for the road. You drive along the road and signs yammer at you. The first time I saw a sign saying, 'The life you save may be your own,' I thought it was fresh, sparkling and convincing. Now, having heard that message 4,000,000 times, I hope if I ever run over anybody it will be the man who coined it. So, I say, the safety people ought to hire a psychologist to tell them at what point they are turning autoists into unstrung maniacs."

Phants Trample Kinston 25-7; ECC Playing Tonight

Greenville Piles Up Yardage In Big Win

Like a precisioned machine, Rose High School's football team ground out 339 yards and rolled over Kinston 25-7 at the ECC Stadium last night before a crowd of almost 3,000.

It was the worst defeat a Greenville club had administered to the Red Devils since 1953 when the Phants had the one-two punch of Bobby Perry and James Speight.

Coach Bud Phillips' Phantoms ground out 313 yards on the ground and picked up 26 more in the air. The constant hammering on the Red Devil line was paced by the running of fullback Robin Wilfong and halfbacks Alan McArthur, Charles Roberts, and John Boyd.

Greenville lost yardage on only one play during the game, amounting to eight yards.

Kinston fumbled five times under the bruising defensive tackling of the Phantoms and Greenville recovered three of them. Two of those recovered fumbles set up touchdowns for the locals.

Freshman halfback Alan McArthur tallied two touchdowns, running one over from the eight and passing 27 yards to end Steve Noble for the other. Wilfong and Boyd scored the other two touchdowns on runs of 16 and 19 respectively.

Greenville kicked off to open the game and Kinston picked up a quick first down. A stout Phantom forward wall held and forced the Red Devils to punt. The Greenies then started a drive from their own 34 yard line. With Wilfong and Roberts doing most of the damage on line smashes, the Greenville club bulled down to the Kinston 19. Halfback John Boyd took a handoff through the right side of the line and worked his way to the end zone for the first score of the night. An attempted pass did not click on the conversion. It was 6-0.

Kinston took the resulting kickoff and drove right back up the field 83 yards for the only Red Devil tally of the night. On the fifth play of the second quarter, fullback Nicky Cranz carried across from the one yard line. The extra point was booted good. Kinston led 7-6.

Randy Bass took the next kickoff for Greenville and the locals had possession inside their own 40. After four plays, they had bulled down to the Kinston 41 but had to give up possession on downs. On the second play from Kinston scrimmage, halfback Tommy Hamilton fumbled and Greenville's Billy Brown pounced on the ball.

From the 45, Wilfong picked up four yards. Then, McArthur took the ball on a double-reverse and scampered 30 yards to the Kinston 11. On third down, quarterback Erky Duff's pass was intercepted by Cranz, the middle linebacker.

Kinston fumbled again on the second play and Phantom end Steve Noble recovered on the four. An offside penalty moved the Phants back to the nine. McArthur then took a pitchout around right end and romped into the end zone for another touchdown. Charlie Roberts booted the extra point. It was 13-7.

Greenville took the kick off in the second half and proceeded to march down to the Kinston five yard line, with Robin Wilfong battering out most of the yardage. Kinston held for four downs and took possession on the Red Devil 12. Unable to gain due to the tackling of Louis Dail, Billy Brown, and ends Cox and Noble, the Devils kicked out to their own 45.

Again, the Phants began a march. Wilfong and Boyd ripped off yardage left and right on successive plays and Wilfong went over on the third play of the fourth quarter from the 16 yard line.

Kinston took the kickoff again and moved to the Greenville 13 but Red Devil runners repeatedly were knocked down by the mob-tackling Phants. On the fourth down, the Devils had been pushed back to the 24. Greenville took over on downs and marched up the field for 77 yards and another score. McArthur heaved a 27-yard pass to end Noble for the touchdown. It was 25-7.

Phantom reserve Aubrey Harrison recovered another Kinston on the 50 yard line shortly afterwards and the Phants were on another march when the game ended.

Offensively, the Phantoms were led in the backfield by sophomore quarterback Erky Duff. He directed the attack. Fulback Robin Wilfong gained 112 yards individually to take top running honors. McArthur was next with 77 and Boyd had 61. Charles Roberts, a regular halfback, dislocated a shoulder in the first quarter and didn't play after that, but he gained 23 yards in limited action.

Defensively, the entire Phant line was strong. Billy Brown and Louis Dail kept the middle bogged up and the sharp rushing of defensive ends Cox and Noble kept Kinston runners in a hole all night. Impressive was the gang tackling of the Phantom club.

Next week, the locals journey to Washington for another Northeastern Conference ball game.

TOUCHDOWN GALLOP——Greenville's Alan McArthur, Freshman Halfback, gallops for eight yards and a Phantom touchdown in last night's 25-7 romp over Kinston at ECC Stadium. McArthur, subbing for regular halfback Charles Roberts, ran one TD and passed 26 yards for a second. At right, Wilbur Owens (61) tosses a block. (Reflector sports photo by Billy Arnold)

Ortiz, Busso Set For Third

NEW YORK (AP)—Carlos Ortiz and Johnny Busso seem to be having their own personal World Series of the ring. All even at one victory each, plans already are being made for meeting No. 3. Who can be sure it won't be best-four-of-seven?

Ortiz got even with Busso, the only man who has beaten him, when he won a unanimous decision last night in a good 10-round match at Madison Square Garden. The Puerto Rican-born lightweight was unbeaten in 27 pro starts until Busso whipped him June 27 on a split decision.

"I do better when I think," commented Ortiz in his dressing room. "This time I paced myself better, concentrating on boxing. The first fight was a real brawl."

Ortiz and Busso went to the same school in the same neighborhood in lower Manhattan a few years back. Now Ortiz lives in the Bronx and Busso in the Astoria section of New York.

Last night's scrap called for 140 pounds. Busso, 140, was slower than Ortiz, 137, although the loser did most of the chasing.

"If I didn't lead there would have been no fight," said Busso. "I thought I won 7-3. I guess one of us has gotta get flattened to decide this."

The two judges, Leo Birnbaum and Joe Agnello, scored it 6-4 and Referee Al Berl had it 5-4-1, all for Ortiz. The AP card was 6-4 for Ortiz.

The lightweight ratings probably will be shuffled by the result. Before the fight, Busso was No. 3 with the National Boxing Association and No. 5 in Ring. Ortiz was No. 5 with the NBA and No. 7 in Ring.

Benvenue Beats Farmville, 8-0

FARMVILLE — Farmville's homecoming was a dismal one last night.

The Red Devils dropped an 8-0 decision to non-conference Benvenue before a sell-out crowd.

In the second quarter of play, with Benvenue in possession, a penalty put the visitors back on their own 40 with 25 yards to go for a first down. Donny Matthews received a pass from the Benvenue quarterback on the Farmville 45 and galloped the rest of the way for a touchdown.

Johnny Thorne blocked the extra point boot.

In the third frame, Farmville's Ben Monk attempted to punt and the ball was blocked, on the five yard line. Benvenue pounced on the Farmville recoverer for a safety and two more points.

Twice after that, Benvenue scored touchdowns that were acllled back on penalties.

Farmville's deepest penetration was on a drive to the ½ yard line of Benvenue. The Red Devils couldn't push across a score.

The Farmville record is now 1-2. In Conference, they are 1-0.

NEW BERN—New Bern's J. T. Barber Schoil pounded out a 30-0 victory here last night over Eppes' High School Bulldogs.

It was the first loss of the season for the Greenville team and evens their mark at 1-1. For New Bern, it was their third straight victory in three games.

The New Bern club still remains unbeaten, untied, and unscored upon. In three ball games, they have racked up a total of 127 points while allowing their opponents not a single score.

New Bern relied upon its vaunted air attack last night to do most of the damage to Eppes. The home club piled up 140 yards in the air and 313 more on the ground for a walloping total of 463 yards.

The hosts scored their first TD in the opening quarter. They took the opening kickoff and returned it to the midstripe. Four plays later they had a touchdown. A 20-yard pass was the scoring vehicle. They failed to convert.

In the third quarter, New Bern picked up two more scores. The first was set up on a 40-yard pass play. The second came after the hosts had driven 40 yards to the Eppes 15 and were stopped. Eppes took over and punted out to the 47. New Bern started over again from there and marched to the touchdown.

Late in the final quarter, J. T. Barber put together a 59-yard drive for the last score and conversion. It ended 30-0.

Next week, Eppes journeys to Wilmington for another Eastern AAA Conferenec game.

Whitey Ford Back But Ditmar Isn't

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southpaw ace Whitey Ford has bounced back, but Art Ditmar—one of the second-line men who formed the third stage of the pennant rocket—suddenly has flamed out as the New York Yankees line up their pitching for the World Series.

Ford, making his second appearance after a two-week layoff because of arm trouble, threw shutout ball for seven innings last night, but when he was taken out as a precautionary measure, Ditmar came on and Baltimore made off with a 5-4 victory.

Ditmar (9-8) got safely through the eighth inning, but the ninth was a five-run mess capped by ex-Yankee Gene Woodling's pinch two-run single off Ryne Duren.

Ditmar, who had helped take up the slack when injuries hit the Yankee staff in midseason, hasn't won in a month. He's lost four in that span, giving up 18 earned runs and 31 hits in 22 innings over eight games.

Elsewhere in the AL, Kansas City spilled the Chicago White Sox 7-6 and Cleveland defeated Detroit 2-1. Boston had only four hits, but beat Washington 2-0. Pete Runnels had two of the hits, pushing his leading bat average to .321. Teammate Ted Williams was hitless and skidded into a tie for second with Harvey Kuenn of Detroit at .316.

In the National League, Cincinnati rapped first place Milwaukee 7-1 and persistent Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 4-2 as Bob Friend won his 22nd, tops in the majors. San Francisco whipped St. Louis 8-1. Los Angeles defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-1.

A two-out error by fine fielding Nellie Fox gave the A's the tie-breaking run in the ninth. Dick Tomanek (7-7) won it and Turk Lown (3-3) lost it, both in relief.

The Indians had but four hits off Paul Foytack (13-13), counting the clincher in the eighth on a walk, sacrifice and Lary Doby's two-strike single. Cal McLish (16-7) won it.

Camilo Pascual (8-11) allowed only four hits, but gave the Red Sox a third inning run with his own interference error in a run-down between third and home. Tom Brewer (12-11) gave up five hits for his first shutout since May 22, 1957, and Boston's first since Memorial Day.

Catawba Trims Davidson, 22-17

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Catawba's Indians lost an early lead, then came back in the second half to throttle Davidson's attack and win out over the Southern Conference team last night 22-17.

Davidson was strongly favored in the opening game for both teams and late in the fist half held what looked like a commanding 17-6 lead. But the lighter Catawba team, although heavily penalized, kept plugging in the second half until it had the deciding score.

Catawba put on a 64-yard drive early in the first quarter with halfback Sam Morrow scoring. Davidson came back with a 69-yard push, Charlie Benson passing 4 yards to Craig Wall for the score. The Wildcats scored another TD in the second quarter on Paul Barbee's 8-yard run. Freshman Bruce Usher kicked both extra points and shortly before the half added a field goal from the 3.

Seconds before the half ended Catawba climaxed a 60-yard drive as Ronnie Ball passed 6 yards to Ted Bates for a touchdown. Bates took a pass from Larry Gildersleeve for the extra two points. Davidson led at halftime 17-14.

Catawba put on a 62-yard drive late in the third period, Worthington pushing over from the 1 for the score. Gildersleeve ran it over for the extra two points and Catawba held on for the victoy.

Bucs Seek Second Victory Of Year

East Carolina plays host to Presbyterian College here tonight at the ECC Stadium, seeking their second victory of the 1958 season and their third win in a span of two seasons.

Game time is set at 8:00 and a capacity crowd is expected to attend.

ECC's only victory last season was over PC in the final game of the year.

The Pirates, who opened with a 12-0 win over Emory and Henry last weekend, struck late in the final game last year to defeat Presbyterian, 6-0, and salvage East Carolina's only victory of the season.

"We should be in pretty good shape," Coach Jack Boone said Friday, "although we've made some changes in the starting lineup and some boys won't play as much as usual. Two boys are definitely out of the game."

Fullback James Speight, last year's leading gainer, and halfback Lee Atkinson, both starters last week, are out with ankle injuries.

Glenn Bass, sophomore nonletterman halfback from Wilson who was a standout in the opener on both offense and defense although not a starter, will move up to replace Atkinson.

Vernon Davis, 210-pound freshman from Clayton, will start in Speight's place.

Bass, starting tackle Henry Kwiatkowski and reserves Howard Beale, end and Lynn Barnett, center, also were hurt in the Emory and Henry game but will see limited action.

The ECC starters are ends David Thomas and Bill Cain; tackles Charles Cooke and Kwiatkowski; guards Ed Emory and Wayne Davis; center Charles Gordon; quarterback Ralph Zehring; halfbacks Tommy Nash and Bass; and fullback Davis.

Presbyterian will be opening its season.

Bucs Still In A Fighting Mood

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Any game may be their last, but those Pittsburgh Pirates ain't pushin' up any daisies yet.

Not with Bob Friend, now the majors' top winner, pitching a five-hitter that beat Philadelphia 4-2 for his 22nd victory last night while Milwaukee's first place Braves were knocked off 7-1 at Cincinnati.

The Braves, 13-4 over the Redlegs for the season, still have a magic number of two for their second straight National League pennant. That means any combination of Milwaukee victories or Pirate defeats puts the flag in the bag.

But with six games left for both, the Pirates are a persistent second, five games back. The Bucs play the last place Phillies in all six.

The Braves have five left with the Redlegs. They play Philadelphia at Milwaukee Tuesday.

In the other NL games last night, San Francisco whipped St. Louis 8-1 with Willie Mays moving within .002 of the batting lead. Los Angeles defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-1 in their bout for sixth place.

In the American League, Baltimore beat the New York Yankees 5-4; Kansas City defeated the Chicago White Sox 7-6, Cleveland rapped Detroit 2-1 and Boston beat Washington 2-0. Pete Runnels retained the AL batting lead (.321) but Boston teammate Ted Williams skidded into a second place tie with Detroit's Harvey Kuenn at .316.

If the Pirates pull off a pennant, it will be a miracle of their own making. They've won six in a row, counting the completion of a suspended game; 11 of their last 12 and 13 of 15—including three of four with the Braves. At worse, they'll tie for second place.

Friend, the Bucs' biggest winner since Burleigh Grimes nailed 25 in 1928, took it off Don Cardwell (2-6-, who has lost six in a row.

Don Newcombe (7-13', once more with a 5-2 record over the last month, chilled the Braves with an eight-hitter that beat Carl Willey (9-6'.

Mays was 3-for-5 and gained two points for a .338 average while the Giants slammed 15 hits at St. Louis. That tied Willie with injury-idled Stan Musial of the Cards for second behind Richie Ashburn (.340-, who was 0-for-3 for the Phils. Stu Miller (6-8) beat the Cards with a five-hitter.

Dodger rookie right-hander Ralph Mauriello won his first with relief help. The Cubs tied a NL record with seven pinch-hitters. Only one, Bobby Thomson, reached base.

Fights Last Night

NEW YORK—Carlos Ortiz, 137, New York, outpointed Johnny Busso, 140, New York, 10.

NEW YORK — Charlie Powell, 213, San Francisco, outpointed Bob Biehler, 187, Rochester, N.Y., 10.

MANILA — Walt Ingram, 119, Weirton, W.Va., and Danny Kid, 118½, Manila, technical draw, 2:08 of 2nd. (Kid suffered eye cut).

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—Billy Hester, 163½, San Diego, outpointed Cal Brad, 172½, Los Angeles, 12.

Rams Defeat Ayden, 19-6

ROBERSONVILLE — Robersonville copped its second straight Coastal Conference victory last night, whipping Ayden 19-6.

Elmer Clark ran 25 yards for the first Ram score in the opening quarter. After that, play was back and forth until the game broke wide open in the fourth frame.

In that quarter, other Ram scores came on a 25-yard run by Tommy Ward and a 20-yard run by Brayon Anderson.

Ayden's Clarence Mills scored from the one, late in the last quarter.

Ayden's Kenneth Harris and Rayvon Byrd were standouts for the losers, Eddie Perry and Burton Jenkins sparked the Ram defense.

Report Fight In Charlotte School

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A 15-year-old white student allegedly stirred up a scuffle yesterday with Gus Roberts, 17, only Central High School Negro student, by calling him "Nigger," slamming a door in his face and hitting him with his fist.

Roberts, in his second year at Central, said he answered "No" when the boy asked him if he wanted to fight, but that the youth then slammed the library door in his face and struck him.

Principal Ed Sanders said Gus fell during the struggle and hit his head on the corner of a swinging door. The Negro boy received a knot over the right eye and a bruised left eye, and the unidentified white student reportedly sustained bruises.

Sanders said the incident was being investigated and that he expected to decide Monday on any punishment. He added that a boy had come to his office and confessed that he had pushed Roberts before the scuffle.

The incident is the only one reported involving a physical clash between Negro and white in Charlotte's second year of limited school integration.

BSU Director Resumes Work

Gloria Blanton, director of the Baptist Student Union at East Carolina College, has resumed her duties on the campus here after a year's leave of absence. She studied during the past twelve months at the Graduate School of Religion at Duke University, where she did work toward a doctorate.

Miss Blanton has been director of the Baptist organization at East Carolina for the past ten years. She manages the Baptist Student Center on East Eighth Street, where a program of religious and social activities is carried on during the school year.

Murder Charged To Death Driver

GREENSBORO (AP) — Joe F. Hodgin, 21, of Ramseur, driver of a speeding car which allegedly ran a police car off the road here and collided with an oncoming vehicle, has been charged with second degree murder in the death of a child who was a passenger in the oncoming car.

Police said Glenda Howell, 3, daughter of Robert Lee Howell, died four days after the Saturday night accident. Cause of death was meningitis, officers said, resulting from fractures of the skull and rupture of the sinuses.

Judge William M. Poteat yesterday allowed a motion of Hodgin's attorney to dismiss a first degree murder charge. Charges of reckless driving and illegal possession of whiskey were nol prossed.

Assistance Sought For 3 Burned Out Families

Salvation Army personnel today appealed for goods and materials to assist three burned-out families.

Two of the three families, which were reported this week to the Salvation Army, need beds, bedding and clothing. The other, which was burned out yesterday, lost everything, according to a Salvation Army spokesman.

The families were listed as the John Barrett family of Farmville, the Christobel Parker family of Stokes and the Mary Barrett family of Greenville.

The Farmville Barretts include four children, a girl 6, a girl 5, a boy 2½ and a girl 16 months. The Parker family includes three children, a girl 16, a boy 18 and a boy 21, and five grandchildren, ranging in ages from ten to three.

The Greenville Barretts, who were burned out yesterday, include four girls 12, 5, 2, and nine months.

Persons who have items which might be of benefit to the burned-out families can have them picked up by Salvation Army personnel by calling 2324, Salvation Army headquarters. Items may also be left at the Salvatfon Army office on Dickinson Avenue.

Lost A Tooth In Auto Accident

An occupant of the car that struck a telephone pole at the intersection of 14th and elm streets last night suffered a minor mouth injury.

Ben Joyner, 15, lost a oooth. He was riding in the automobile operated by William Earl Brinkley, 16, of 1702 East Third Street.

Brinkley was quoted as saying the lights from an approaching car blinded him and that he made a turn too charply, striking the pole. He was not charged.

Damage to the front of the car was estimated at $175. Police reported no damage to the pole.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON

The truth that man made in the spiritual image and likeness of God has dominion over sin, sickness, . . .and limitation will be brough out at Christian Science services Sunday.

John's account of the walking on the sea by Christ Jesus (John 6:16-21) is included in the Scriptual selections to be read in the Lesson-Sermon entitled 'Matter."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy declares: "In proportion as matter loses to human sence all entity as man, in that proportion does man become is master. He enters into a diviner sense of the facts, and comprehends the theology of Jesus as demonstrated in healing the sick, raising the dead, and walking over the wave" (369:5-10).

The Golden Text is from Leviticus: "Turn ye not unto idols, nor make to yourselves molten gods: I am the Lord your God" (19:4).

Delay Exploding Device In Shaft

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) —Firing of an atomic device in a 500-foot vertical shaft, scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The Atomic Energy Commission, announcing the postponement last night, said the device may be set off Sunday.

The explosion is a safety experiment involving the storage and handling of atomic weapons. Similar safety tests have accompanied all full-scale weapons tests but this will be the first open to observation by newsmen.

The next full-scale test, a balloon shot like yesterday's, is scheduled for next Thursday.

Heart Sank At Son's Admission

GREENSBORO (AP)—The father of an accused bank robber, chief witness at a preliminary hearing here, told yesterday of his son's showing him two boxes full of money and said, "My heart nearly sank out through my feet."

Richard Sympol Townes Sr., the witness, said he didn't believe his son, Richard Sympol Townes Jr., at first when he said he'd robbed a branch of the State Bank of Laurinburg Sept. 25.

"He was always carrying on, saying something foolish like that," the elder Townes testified. But soon he came to believe him, and by three days after the robbery, "I was nearly out of my mind." The father went to Raleigh police Aug. 28 and the 30-year-old son was arrested the same day.

The father said he had told Townes it would be the honorable thing to return the $7,608 he allegedly took at pistol point. The son contends he is innocent. U.S. Commissioner L. Herbin Jr. found probable cause yesterday and the younger Townes was returned to Guilford County jail in default of $25,000 bond.

Police said they recovered $7,239 of the loot.

Townes Sr. said Raleigh Police Capt. Robert E. Goodwin told him police were about to close in on the son anyway and that by coming in the father may have saved himself and his son's wife "from going along with him."

Asking $151,520 In Wreck Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Terry Moore and her mother are suing for $151,520 damages over injuries suffered in an auto accident last Dec. 16.

Their complaint, filed in Superior Court yesterday, was directed against Mrs. Joseph Cedar of North Hollywood, identified as driver of a car which struck one driven by Miss Moore.

The actress and her mother, Mrs. Louella Koford, said they sustained neck and back injuries.

Bullet Cut Wire, Kills One Man

JALAPA, Mexico (AP) — Feliciano Dominguez shouted "Viva Mexico" on independence day and fired his pistol into the air.

The bullet cut a high tension line. It fell, killing one man and injuring 15 others.

The mayor of Villa Ursulo Galvan reported yesterday that the accident occurred during independence celebrations last Monday in his village 50 miles from this capital of Veracruz State.

Named To Board

Gilbert Peel, Jr. of Carlotte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Peel of Greenville, has been appointed to the Board of Trustees of the State School for the Blind and Deaf in Raleigh.

The appointment was made by Gov. Hodges.

Peel is a graduate of East Carolina College and taught for two years at the School for the Blind and Deaf before entering the insura.ce business in Raleigh. Peel was appointed to the board to fill the unexpired term of A. R. Taylor of Lillington.

Calvary Baptist Announcements

We at the Calvary Baptist Church must say as David in the Psalm "Bless the Lord, O my soul." Last Sunday was a success in many ways and how we praise the Lord for the victory. We had a goal of 100 and the Lord gave us 106 in Sunday School. Sunday Night we experienced the greatest service we have ever had in the Calvary Baptist Church. We had the largest Sunday Night attendance and when the invitation was given three souls came for salvation and one for rededication.

We will be looking for you this coming Lord's day at the Calvary Baptist Bible School which convenes at 10 o'clock. The worship service begins at 11 o'clock and the pastor, Rev. Jack W. Finch, will be bring the Message.

Sunday Night service begins at 7:30 p.m. and you are cordially invited to attend the Lord's house with us this coming Sunday Night and share with us in the blessings of God.

Our prayer meeting is at 7:30 on Thursday nights and visitation on Friday Nights at 7 o'clock. Again we say if you have anyone you would like for us to visit please contact the pastor or one of the members. Our church is located at 1504 N. Greene St. and we extend a warm welcome to you to visit and worship with us.

PITT MEMORIAL HOSPITAL . . . what does the future hold?

Already Outgrown

WARD . . . "Greenville could well become medical center of Eastern North Carolina."

DR. POTT . . . "we're only trying to keep up with the progress parade."

PATIENTS BEING TREATED IN HOSPITAL'S HALLS . . . scenes such as this have become the rule rather than the exception.

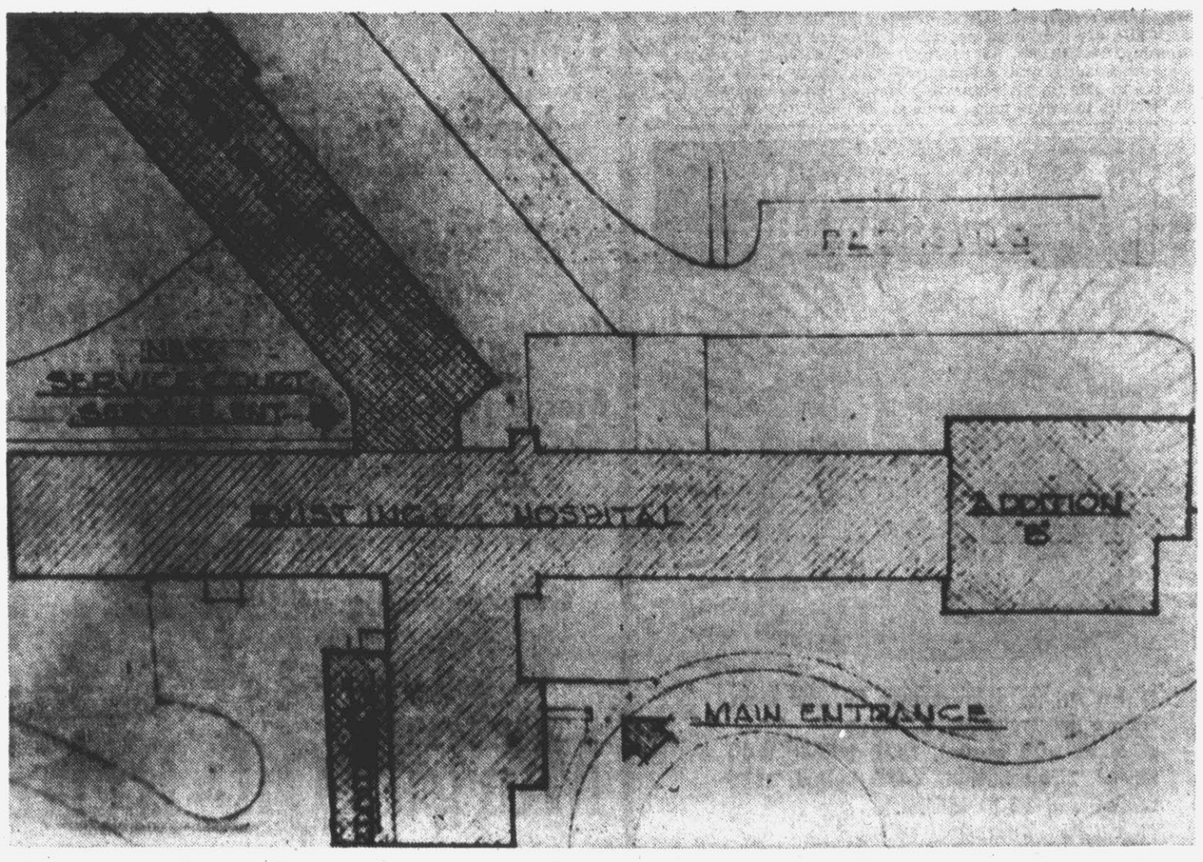

DIAGRAM OF EXISTING HOSPITAL AND PROPOSED ADDITIONS . . . entire expansion project would cost Pitt County's citizens approximately $500,000.

By EVERETTE PARKER
Reflector Staff Writer

A little baby was crying in his crib out in the hall. On another floor an elderly man could be seen tossing and turning in his bed out in the hall. Nearby a patient groaned.

All because there was no room in "the inn". The inn is Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Scenes such as this have become the rule rather than the exception. The inn needs to be expanded.

Crowded conditions have necessitated placing patients in the halls or overcrowding wards with extra beds. The demand for private rooms has also reached the stage that day after day patients are turned away due to lack of beds—necessitating a waiting list and a delay in admission of elective cases ranging from two or three days to a week, sometimes longer.

"The need for expansion is no more than one would expect," Dr. Walter H. Pott, Chief of Staff, observed recently. "The medical profession only wants to keep up with the progress parade."

During the hospital's first month of operation 64 patients were cared for each day on an average. For the corresponding period this year, February, an average of 112 patients were treated daily——more than twice as many.

For the first seven months this year the hospital has averaged 104.4 patients each day as compared to an average of 64 patients daily in 1951. Here are figures, first for 1951 and then for this year, comparing the patient load for each month respectively: March, 59-117.7; April 58-97.3; May 55-101.1; June, 45-96.3, and July, 66-98.2.

Actually Pitt Memorial Hospital has a capacity of 130 patients, that is if every bed on every floor is filled. As Hospital Administrator C. D. Ward explains it, a capacity situation of this nature very rarely if ever exists.

As a result of this need the North Carolina Medical Care Commission, which handles allocations under the provisions of the Hill-Burton Act, was contacted. A team from the Commission made an inspection of conditions at the hospital about six months ago. Shortly afterwards the hospital's application for allocation of Hill-Burton funds was approved.

At first Pitt officials were notified that the government would provide 50 percent of the proposed expansion's cost, figured to be in the neighborhood of $1,500,000. This meant Pitt County's citizens would have to pay $750,000.

The matter was brought before the County Commissioners who approved a bond election. Later the Medical Care Commission advised the Trustees of the hospital that the Federal grant had been increased to two-thirds of the cost, or from $750,000 to $1,000,000.

However, before the notification was received the machinery had already been set in motion for the bond election. Since making changes would necessitate costly delays, the County Commissioners agreed to stage the election as originally planned, for a $750,000 bond issue.

In no way does this mean bonds in the amount of $750,000 will be issued. The county's share of expenditures will be the difference between $1,000,000 and the cost of the project which is estimated at a little over $1,500,000. By agreement, the Board of Trustees and the County Commissioners are bound to issue bonds only for the amount above the Federal grant of $1,000,000, or approximately $500,000.

What is the money to be spent for?

Addition A, the new Y-shaped extension to the rear of the existing hospital, will cost approximately $667,392, according to estimates furnished by Durham Architect George Watts Carr. Addition B, Carr estimates, will cost $95,612 and Addition C, $57,200. (Diagram elsewhere on this page.)

Remodeling will cost in the neighborhood of $224,400. Expansion of the hospital's kitchen is expected to cost $22,000. Furnishings, contingency and architect's fees amount to $202,654.

Air-conditioning in the present building is figured to cost $140,000. The installation of a new nurses' call system in the present building will cost $30,000 and laundry, $60,000. For these improvements on the existing hospital, contingency and fees are $20,700.

Altogether Carr figures the expansion program to cost $1,519,958.

The Y-shaped extension, Addition A, is to be four stories high, with a basement, and will provide an addition of between 70-75 beds. Addition B will be a one-story structure, to be utilized for out-patient work. The final addition will also be a one-story structure and is to be located at the north end of the hospital, enabling the administrative section to be expanded.

Other additions and improvements, to be provided for, are: piped-in oxygen and suction in the new and present building; an elevator; larger kitchen and dining facilities; a boiler and conversion of all boilers to oil burners; larger standby electrical equipment; additional operating rooms; a Recovery room, Dental Room and Retiring Room; Physical Therapy and Psychiatric Rooms; enlarging the Coffee Shop; an incinerator; and additional parking facilities around the present hospital and new additions.

The first floor of the Y-shaped addition will be an extension of the present hospital's colored wing. On the second floor a surgical wing is to be located. The third floor will become an obstetrical wing with the third floor of the present hospital to be converted to female surgery and medicine. It has been proposed that the fourth floor be used for Pediatrics and the hospital's present fourth floor be converted to medicine.

Addition B will enable a considerable amount of inter-expansion. Two new Emergency rooms, an Observation room, a staff lounge and library and three X-Ray Rooms including Therapy are to be added.

At the present time the hospital only has one Emergency Room, one X-Ray Room and a small room for Therapy. These rooms are to be moved and expanded. As a result of the move the Pharmacy will be enlarged, the Records Room will be moved from the Administrative Wing to larger quarters on the old first floor. The Laboratory is expected to be enlarged to take in the present doctor's lounge. Each diet kitchen will be doubled in size under the proposed expansion plan.

Plans call for air-conditioning in every room throughout the hospital.

A major and minor operating room and a Dental Room will be added by moving the present Central Supply Room to the new wing. These three rooms will adjoin the present surgical sector.

With these and other additions Pitt Memorial Hospital would become the largest and most well-equipped hospital east of Raleigh. At this time Wayne County's Memorial Hospital is the largest in the eastern sector of the state.

"It is generally accepted among members of the medical profession that the expansion program, along with our present facilities could well make Greenville the medical center of Eastern North Carolina," Ward declared during a recent conversation.

In the past seven years, he pointed out, approximately 20 new physicians have set up their practice in Pitt County. Seven or more of these are specialists who were attracted by the presents of Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Pott noted that the growth of the local hospital can largely be attributed to the influx of new doctors, new ideas, new types of surgical and medical procedures, local support and an improved economy.

Almost eight years ago, January 18, 1951, the local hospital was dedicated. Since that time many changes have been made to improve both facilities and service. Despite this fact, Pitt County is outgrowing its hospital.

Morocco, Tunisia Back New Rebel Algerian Govm't In War On France

PARIS (AP) — The former French colonies of Morocco and Tunisia put Premier de Gaulle's government into a diplomatic quandry today by backing the new Algerian rebel government in its war against France.

The two newly independent nations flanking France's big North African territory defied the French warning that any country recognizing the Exile Republic of Algeria would be committing an unfriendly act.

If De Gaulle follows up the warning by breaking diplomatic relations with Tunisia and Morocco, he will eliminate them as possible intermediaries in any future peace talks to end the 4-year-old Algerian fight for independence.

France has refused up to now to negotiate with rebel leaders, although President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia has always hopes to bring the two sides together for a peaceful settlement. Bourguiba reportedly opposed the establishment of a rebel government because it would lessen the chance of talks, but he had to go along with recognition to avoid dangerous criticism.

A break with France also could force Tunisia and Morocco to seek support and financial aid elsewhere — possibly President Nasser's United Arab Republic or even the Soviet bloc. France still has some troops in Tunisia and Morocco and contributes to their economies.

Nasser was the first to recognize the Algerian government after it was proclaimed yesterday in Cairo. The new Republic of Iraq, the kingdom of Libya and Yemen followed within hours.

Tunisia and Morocco already have teamed up with the Algerian rebels in laying the grondwork to unite the western part of North Africa—called the Maghreb—with a permanent secretariat and consultative assembly.

With establishment of a formal government for Algeria, the three nations might now put their Maghreb idea to work.

There have been hints that before recognizing the new government, Morocco and Tunisia were assured by its leaders that Nasser's extremist pan-Arab policies would not dominate their projected North African federation.

A suggestion to this effect was supplied yesterday by the Algerian communications minister, Abdel Hafid Boussouf. He announced in the Moroccan capital of Rabat that the seat of the new government would not remain fixed in Cairo but would be in Algeria and other countries.

U.S. officials in Washington expressed disappointment with the rebel decision as a setback to Algerian moderates who want to compromise with France. They said the United States had no intention of recognizing the new government but expected the Communist nations to back the rebels as a means of keeping North Africa aflame.

Communist China hailed the proclamation as a "telling blow to De Gaulle's colonialist policy of annexing Algeria." Peiping radio, however, did not mention recognition of the new government.

A measure of the jumph situation in France came yesterday from the naval base at Toulon, where Adm. Pierre Barjot reported Algerian frogmen had boldly tried to sabotage France's only battleship, the Jean Bart, plus a destroyer and a submarine.

Two hours later his office backed down somewhat and announced that authorities had been unable to confirm that Algerians had been involved or that an attempt to blow up the ships had actually been made.

However, the admiral then issued emergency decrees closing the Mediterranean port to all unauthorized traffic.

Noted Lecturers Will Be Appearing At ECC

Seven guest lecturers, each an authority in his field, will appear under the sponsorship of the East Carolina College Danforth Foundation Project during 1958-1959, Dr. George A. Douglas, Danforth Foundation Project Director, has announced.

The lectures, planned to provide assistance to the college student in his environment, will be developed around the theme of "Creativity and Productivity in an Age of Tensions and Stereotypes."

Dr. Douglas says attendance will be by invitation to advanced students, faculty members, and the public. Because of seating limitations in the Joyner Memorial Library, the invitation list will be restricted.

Speakers announced by Dr. Douglas include:

Dr. John Gillin, anthropologist, of the University of North Carolina faculty, whose research over the world has included a study of the personalities of various cultures;

Dr. Thomas F. Pettigrew, sociologist and psychologist, Harvard University;

Dr. Gerald W. Johnson, editor, essayist, biographer, historian, and formerly on the editorial staff of the Sunpapers of Baltimore, Md.

Dr. Herold C. Hunt, former superintendent of schools in Kansas City and Chicago, Assistant Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and currently Eliot Professor of Education, Harvard University;

Dr. T.Z. Koo, Chinese representative in the International YMCA and professor and lecturer in several colleges and universities;

Dr. Melville J. Herskovita, Department of Anthropology, Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois;

Dr. Peter Viereck, historian and philosopher, Department of History, Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass.

Dates and topics of the addresses announced by Dr. Douglas are:

October 7-8, Dr. Gillin, "Personalities of World Culture"; Oct 21-22, Dr. Pettigrew, "A Psychologist Looks at Prejudices"; Nov. 11-12, Dr. Johnson, "The Background of American Values"; Jan. 19-20-21, Dr. Hunt, "Problems of Contemporary Education'; Feb. 16-17-18, Dr. Viereck, lecture subjects not announced; March 9-13, Dr. Koo, "Implications of World Matters," to be presented simultaneously with the annual World Affairs Institute at East Carolina College and the observance of the YMCA Centennial; April 15-15, "Dr. Herskovitz, "African Cultures."

Recess Hearing On Rail Tragedy

NEW YORK (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has recessed indefinitely its hearing here into the wreck last Monday of a Jesey Central commuter train that plunged through an open drawbridge into Newark Bay.

The bodies of 45 persons have been recovered. Three others are reported missing.

ICC Commissioner Kenneth H. Tuggle recessed the hearing yesterday after completion of testimony by George C. Wilms, an executive of the railroad.

Tuggle said he would return to Washington to study the testimony and await official autopsy reports on the engineer and fireman of the ill-fated train. He added he expected to announce his findings in the case within the next two months.

The findings also will depend on the study of the tape from a speed-recording device on the diesel locomotive. The tape will be examined Monday at the Jersey Central's offices in Jersey City.

Wilms, who is assistant superintendent of the line's rolling car and motor equipment division, testified yesterday that the train's brakes apparently were applied about 25 feet before it plunged off the drawbridge.

The hearing essentially sought to determine why neither the engineer, Lloyd Wilburn, nor the fireman, Peter Andrews, stopped the train in time to prevent the disaster. The train went through three warning lights and ploughed over a derailing device before the lead locomotive, a deadhead engine, and three passenger coaches of the five-coach train landed in the water.

Truman Coming, No Keys To City

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Mayor Harold Frankel, who presents golden keys of the city to visiting dignitaries, has found the cupboard bare.

He has no more keys and former President Harry S. Truman is visiting Huntington today for a Democratic campaign speech.

Frankel sent an emergency order to the manufacturer, but he doubts the new supply of keys will arrive in time for Truman's visit.

Truman Chides, Ridicules GOP Administration

BALTIMORE (AP) — Harry S. Truman criticized, chided and ridiculed the Republican administration last night on subjects ranging from the Formosa crisis to the removal of his picture from the White House wall.

A bit weary after several days of vigorous stumping on behalf of Democratic candidates in the Nov. 4 elections, the 73-year-old former president attracted 2,010 to a party fund raising dinner at nearby Pikesville.

The Republicans "tried to discount and discredit everything" he had done while in office, Truman told the $100-a-plate audience, biggest ever to attend a Maryland political dinner.

But this backfired, he said, citing the present Far East program as an example.

"They ordered the 7th Fleet out of the Formosa Strait," he said. "They were going to unleash Chiang Kai-shek and let him go take the China mainland. But then they had to move the fleet right back in again."

Truman said the Republicans had criticized his administration for budget deficits but now face a probable deficit of more than 12 billion dollars themselves. At the same time, he added, their fiscal policies have increased both unemployment and inflation, a situation he never heard of before.

"Budgetary geniuses," he scoffed. "Beat that one if you can."

His reference to the White House picture came after he told of a group of Baltimore fourth-graders who had asked the President by letter "why the Army and Navy couldn't get together on the satellite program."

Truman said presidential assistant Sherman Adams acknowledged the letter with a note ignoring their question and sent them a picture of President Eisenhower for their classroom.

"A picture of the President is nice to have," said Truman. "I have one of him in my library, even if they did take mine off the wall in the White House."

After the frequently applauded speech, Truman returned by motorcade to Washington, where he planned to rest before making a similar campaign appearance today in Charleston and Huntington, W. Va.

Russians Deny Any Knowledge

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government has denied any knowledge of what happened to 11 crewmen missing from a U.S. Air Force plane that crashed in Soviet Armenia.

A Soviet note made public here today said a U.S. statement that Russian fighters intercepted the plane was "provocatory in nature." The Kremlin accused Washington of trying to justify an "intentional violation" of the Soviet border.

The unarmed C130 Hercules transport plane crashed Sept. 2 after disappearing on a flight inside Turkey adjacent to Armenia. The Soviet government said earlier six bodies were found in the wreckage but gave no indication of what happened to the other 11 men aboard.

The note was handed to U. S. Charge d'Affaires Richard H. Davis yesterday by Deputy Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov.

The State Department in Washington said the note contained a promise to return the six bodies but failed to give any information about the missing 11.

The U. S. government charged last Saturday that Soviet fighter planes were seen intercepting the plane in the area of the Turkish border and subsequently an explosion was heard and smoke rose from the other side of the hills in Soviet territory.

In promising to transfer the remains of the six crewmen to U.S. authorities, the note gave no indication where or when. It ignored U. S. requests to allow Embassy officials to inspect the wreckage.

Attend Coastal Optometric Meet

Dr. Sam White and Dr. Kenneth Quiggins attended the Coastal Optometric meeting held in New Bern Wednesday evening.

A paper was read and demonstration given by Dr. Morty Katzen of Jacksonville on the merits of the Dynascope. A relatively new Visual Training Instrument used to aid the individual in overcoming macula suppression, a visual defect many have but not aware of.

It's His Story, Stuck With It

OMAHA (AP)—This is Leo P. Beasley's story and he's stuck with it.

Beasley, 64, is a paperhanger. When he made a sudden stop in his car yesterday the lid came off a five gallon can of quick-dry paste.

"Paste flew all over the front of the car and down my neck," he recalled. "When I pulled into my garage the paste had dried.

"I was stuck to the front seat."

A neighbor boy ran for help. "The little shaver thought I was sick. The kid's mother showed up just as I was taking my pants off," said Beasley.

Pigeon Stopped Railroad Clock

NEW YORK (AP) — A pigeon wandered into Grand Central Terminal yesterday, perched on the minute hand of the big clock above the bulletin board and knocked it out of commission.

When the bird landed it was 5:15 p.m. The hand sagged under its weight and the pigeon started to thrash about his his feet, seeking a firmer toehold. That did the trick; the clock stopped.

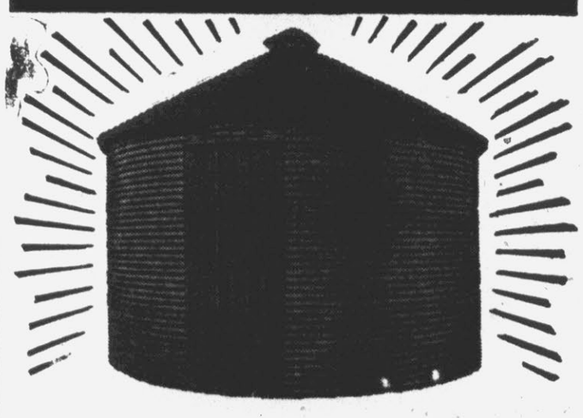

Pat Carroll, 58, train announcer, had to announce the correct time at intervals until mechanics fixed the clock.

Commented Carroll: "As if the railroads don't have enough trouble."

TRIPLETS BORN TO MOTHER:—Mrs. Linda Sue Voss, 16, a high school senior, and her 19-year-old husband David of Redlands, Calif. are the proud parents of identical triplet sons born Wednesday. The babies, as yet not named, weighed a total of 12 pounds at birth and are kept in incubators. David says he will have to give up his plans to return to college this year because "it looks like we're going to be pretty busy." (AP Wirephoto)

Joins Unit Of Air Reservists

Captain Floyd M. Read, Jr., an instructor in the science department at East Carolina College, has joined the Greenville unit of the Air Force Reserve, one of five flights of the 9947th Air Reserve Squadron with headquarters in Rocky Mount.

Read is beginning his second year as a member of the ECC faculty. He holds a master's degree from the University of Florida and did graduate work at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., during the past summer.

Law Enforcers Confer Monday

The third in a series of quarterly conferences, conducted under the auspices of the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles and the Governor's Traffic Safety Council, will be held here at Troop A headquarters Monday afternoon.

The program will primarily consist of a discussion of the state's traffic laws and driver's license laws. Effectiveness of the enforcement of these laws on a municipal level as well as on a statewide level will also be discussed.

Members of law enforcement agencies and interested civilians throughout Troop A's 27-county area have been invited to attend the Conference. It begins at 2 o'clock.

Art Center Becomes Part UNC Campus

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—A handsome art center, established by the will of a wealthy lawyer, today formally became a part of the University of North Carolina campus.

State officials and leaders from the art world joined the university in the dedication of the William Hayes Ackland Art Center.

Dr. S. Lane Faison Jr., a native of North Carolina and head of the art department at Williams College in Massachusetts, gave the principal address on "The "The Role of The College Museum in America."

Dr. Joseph C. Sloan, who will come from Bryn Mawr College to serve as director of the art center, introduced Dr. Faison. Dr. Sloan will take over Feb. 1 as head of the university's art department and director of the art center.

William D. Carmichael Jr., vice president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, accepted the building from Edson B. Olds of Washington, a close friend of the man whose bequest made the center possible.

Ackland, reared and educated in Tennessee, became a successful Washington attorney before his death in 1940 at the age of 84.

Originally, Ackland named Duke University in his will as the recipient of his estate with the University of North Carolina and Rollins College in Florida as second choices. Later, he changed this making Duke the sole beneficiary.

Six years of litigation began when Duke rejected the bequest. At the end, the courts awarded the estate to the university here.

A memorial room of the center contains a marble sarcophagus in which Ackland is buried.

Membes of the family of the late Gov. O. Max Gardner, who represented the university without compensation in the litigation over the estate, were guests at the dedication.

In addition to galleries, the building includes classroom and office space for the university art department.

Smog Bonus For Messenger Boys

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some messenger boys now get a smog bonus.

Twenty tearful messengers told their boss yesterday that unless they got a bonus they wouldn't ride their bikes.

Herman Levy, operator of the Action Messenger Service, took one look outside, wiped his eyes and agreed to pay the boys time and a half on smoggy days.

Los Angeles had been having its worst smog attack of the year.

Private Presley Is On His Way

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — Pvt. Elvis Presley, the rock 'n' roll kid, rolled east toward New York today, aboard one of four special trains moving 1,360 trainees toward embarkation for Germany.

Presley and the other soldiers will sail next week to report as replacements for 3rd Armored Division troops on European duty.

The trains are scheduled to reach Brooklyn Army Terminal Monday just eight hours before the troops board ship.

Deadliest Jet Of Them All For Formosan Pilots

By JAMES CARY

STARFIGHTER BASE, Northern Formosa (AP) — The needle-nosed killer tore down the runway and shock waves of sound thundered across the base.

The newly arrived F104A Starfighter, billed as the deadliest jet fighter in the world, was on its way—a part of the mushrooming American buildup to help Nationalist China meet the threat of communism in Formosa Strait.

The stubby, 55-foot plane was officially unveiled here this week.

The Starfighter set a new world altitude record of 91,249 feet. It has a range in excess of 1,000 miles, operates easily above 50,000 feet, has only a 22-foot wingspan. It has the most powerful jet engine ever built and looks more like a missile than a plane.

It squats low on the ground, a bullet-like weapon with a long nose filled with special air recording devices.

Nestling under the thrust-forward cockpit is a special 20mm. cannon whose rate of fire is still secret.

The wings are knife sharp to slice the air with minimum resistance. Rubber covers protect them on the ground.

Underneath nestle lethal Sidewinder air-to-air missiles, capable of seeking out an enemy plane and knocking it out of the skies.

The pilot wears spurs that fit into sockets inside the cockpit. They are to keep his feet in place if he has to eject in flight—downward in this plane.

Capt. Walter Irwin of Novato, Calif., rates it as a real pilot's airplane, "not dangerous, extremely simple to handle." He set a speed record of 1,404 m.p.h. a Starfighter last May.

He and his fellow pilots are shaking down their unit to get it into full combat-ready condition. Their planes were flown from California in four parts and assembled here.

Bull Elk Rounds Up All The Cows

JOHANNESBURG, Mich. (AP) —An eight-point bull elk rounded up all the cows in a pasture near here and refused to allow anyone near them.

Two conservation officers, two collie dogs and all the children in the neighborhood tried to chase the elk back into the woods and free the cows for milking, but failed. They gave up at dark.

By nightfall, the problem solved itself. The cows wandered back to the barn and the elk returned to the woods.

Light Beam Kills Migrating Birds

ta34 eesszyyu v JL20

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Thousands of crazy, mixed-up birds migrating South got lured into a vertical shaft of light at Newark Airport early today.

Floundering around the beam, many of them slammed into airport buildings and dropped dead.

"The ground is covered with them," one airport worker said. "They look like finches."

The light is a ceilometer, a steady beam pointed skyward to measure the cloud ceiling.

The birds caused no disruption in airport service.

Resurfacing Job Is Completed

CHAPTER 11

In the evening Elizabeth Rettig left the infirmary and walked around Camp Supply, listening to the talk, observing the movers, the farmers. Recalling Finley Burkhauser's talk about opportunity, she saw that for every man who succeeded, there were ten who failed somewhere along the line.

In the back of her mind there lurked the practical balance that governed her thinking; making up her mind to go back to Mustang Creek had been the whole decision, but it was not as simple as all that. She would have to have a team and a wagon, and supplies to last her out the winter, and tools with which to build; all these things would cost money, and she had less than a hundred dollars. Filling out her needs with what she had would not be easy, so she moved from wagon to wagon, listening to the talk, and finally she found what she searched for, a failure, a man eager to quit. Not just any man, but one possessing the things she needed, the things she wanted.

His name was Van Moor, a Dutchman from Ohio. He owned a wagon and an ox. His other wagon had been smashed in an accident, leaving him with a baby in arms and a great sense of defeat.

He was a little man, almost too small to be a man. Past his prime, Van Moor sat alone on the dropped wagon tongue, wondering what he would do next. The baby lay in a wicker basket and Elizabeth stopped to admire it.

"Are you going on?" Elizabeth said.

The man shrugged, then said, "I suppose so."

"How much would it cost to go back?" Elizabeth asked.

The man shrugged. "More than I have." He fell silent for a moment, then added, "Fifty dollars, I think."

"I don't want to go back," Elizabeth said. "You do. I don't have enough money to go on, and you don't have enough to go back. But I have enough to get you and the baby back, if you'll sell me the wagon and animal."

"Sell? This is all I have." Van Moore stood erect and peered at her. "Where is your man?"

"Dead," Elizabeth said flatly, not bothering to explain anything. "I bargain for myself. Where would you want to go?"

"Albany," he said, staring at her again. "What kind of a woman are you, to want a man's goods for so cheap a price?"

"It doesn't matter," Elizabeth said. "Take it or leave it." She watched him teeter and felt sorry for him, but pushed this quickly aside. In a way she knew that she was helping this man, for now Van Moor could always say that he had failed because an unscrupulous woman had taken advantage of his grief.

"Take it," the man said. "Take my work, my blood."

Elizabeth counted out sixty dollars and handed it over. "I'll take possession immediately," she said.

"Take it!" Van Moor roared. He snatched up the wicker basket and a few blankets and walked away. One of the other movers who owned the wagon next to Van Moor's came over. He was a leathery-faced man, cheeks full of tobacco, hands tucked into the bib of his overalls.

Tom Rettig was sitting on the top bar of the remount corral, watching three men break horses. Elizabeth said, "I've got a job for you."

He swung down, and followed at her heels, scuffing dust with his toes. The tobacco-chewing man was still hanging around when Elizabeth stopped at Van Moor's wagon.

To Tom, she said, "I bought this. Now I want to know exactly what's in it."

"That's no job for a boy," the man said, coming up. He rolled up his sleeves.

"I can do it," Tom said flatly, his manner resentful.

"Now don't be argufyin' with your elders," the man said and tried to shove him out of the way.

"Let the boy alone and mind your own business!" Elizabeth snapped.

The man looked at her, his eyes round. "Well now, I was only being friendly. I'm a widower myself and I know you don't have a man so I thought—"

"You thought wrong," Elizabeth snapped, "You want me to call my man,"

"Hugh?" The man's manner turned cautious. "Well I'll be damned! You tricked that Dutchman into selling. By God, that's clever, I do say." He turned then and walked back to his own wagon and watched her from there.

Tom Rettig said, "What man you talkin' about, Aunt—"

"Shhhh! What he don't know won't hurt him. Now let's see what's inside.

Taking inventory lasted well into the night, and when Elizabeth saw that they were nowhere near finished, she slept in the wagon, sending Tom back to Mobeetie Jake's place.

That night she heard the tobacco-chewing man nosing around and spoke through the darkness to him. "The Dutchman left a shotgun; you want to find out if it shoots?"

She almost laughed when he hurried away.

By noon the next day she knew to the last item what she had bought and considered the bargain well made. Leaving Tom with the wagon, she walked to headquarters and was admitted to the commanding officer's office. Major Collins was an elderly man, weary of civilians and their attending problems.

"I'd like permission to leave the post," Elizabeth said.

"Miss Rettig," said Collins, "I'm afraid there will be a slight delay. At least until Mr. Masterson and Mr. Garrett return. I want to hear their story."

He dismissed her by turning back to his paperwork. Elizabeth left the headquarters building and walked across the parade ground to Mobeetie Jake's place.

A Kiowa girl answered the door. Elizabeth Rettig had never seen her before, but she recognized her from Tom's talk; he had been fascinated by both Mobeetie Jake and his wife.

The girl was tall, willow-slim, and no more than twenty. She wore a sack dress, a hand-me-down Mobeetie Jake had picked up for her, ill fitting and of cheap material.

"Who be that?" Jake yelled. He was squatting on the dirt floor, showing Tom Rettig how to sharpen a knife. He looked around, saw Elizabeth standing there, then scrambled to his feet, hands brushing at his filthy buckskins. He was fifty some, bearded, and agile as a cat. Jake Lansing had long ago put aside his Christian name for an Indian name, and along with that, many of his Christian habits. "Welcome to m'lodge," he said. "This be White Bird. Senson-da-cat in her language. She don't talk much, but she understands every word that's said. The two fillies is sleepin' now. You want I should wake 'em?"

"No," Elizabeth said, "and it was mighty nice of you to care for them."

"Warn't no trouble." Mobeetie Jake said. "My squaw didn't mind."

Elizabeth looked at White Bird while Jake talked, and she found the girl watching her with her melted chocolate eyes and expressionless face. Reaching out, Elizabeth touched her arm, pressing slightly with her fingers. For an instant, White Bird stood there, then she pulled away and went to the fire, kneeling down, her hands busy with the stirring and pot tending.

"She ain't used to friendliness," Jake said. "I'd leave her alone, was I you. Injuns is like dogs, they got to come to you, and if they don't, you beat 'em until they do."

(To Be Continued)

He Gets Children And Support

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Donald L. Howse, 33, has been granted an uncontested divorce, custody of his three children and $30 weekly support from Dorothy Howse, 28. She works at the same aircraft plant as Howse.

He testified that he "was all shook up" when he discovered his wife out with other men.

Said Supreior Judge Roger Pfaff: "In these modern days if the wife wants to give up the children, and both parents are working, it is only fair that the wife contribute to the support."

Experienced In Interior Design

Interiors for New York City's largest furniture showroom were once designed by the new manager and interior designer at Brown's Furniture Company.

Jack Thomas, a native of Maysville, Ky., was employed by Vanleigh Showrooms of New York after his graduation from the New York School of Interior Design. Vanleigh Showrooms is the largest furniture display area in the metropolitan area.

While in New York, where he spent a total of three-and-a-half years, Thomas also did free-lance work from his own interior design studio in Carnegie Hall. After leaving New York, he was an associate of Ruth Miller Interiors in Winston-Salem where he designed the rare book room for the Wake Forest College library and also did extensive home interior designing.

In addition to his study at the New York School of Interior Design, where he completed all courses of study in two years, Thomas attended the University of Kentucky for a year. He is also a veteran of four years active duty with the U.S. Air Force.

Thomas is not married.

Find 9 Gallons Illicit Whiskey

Mary Bradley, 37-year-old Negro woman of 1218 Davenport Street, was charged with illegal possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose for sale when ABC officers found nine gallons of bootleg on her premises yesterday afternoon.

The liquor was buried in the local woman's yard near some shrubbery, Chief ABC officer J. M. Ward reports.

The arrest was made by Officers Ward, H. B. Lilley and W. M. Taylor. Following her arrest, the woman was released under a $200 bond pending trial in City Court Monday.

Probe Theft Of Tires, Wheels

City detectives are probing the theft of four tires and wheels from vehicles owned by Jenkins Motor Company.

The theft was reported by Badger Johnson earlier in the week. Johnson informed officers that spare tires and wheels were missing from two trucks and two automobiles.

According to detectives the theft occurred sometime between September 1 and 17. During this interval, the vehicles were parking in several display lots in town and around the local auto dealership's building, located at the corner of Fourth and Cotanche streets.

Value of the stolen property has been placed at $200.

There were 68,866 new active TB cases reported in the United States in 1956.

Dealers To Hold Meet Tuesday

The monthly meeting of the Greenville Furniture Dealers will be held Tuesday night at the Elks Club.

Chairman Jesse R. Laughinghouse announced today the dinner-meeting will begin at 7 o'clock. Included on the agenda is a report on the Furniture School, held here September 8-11.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

This weekend marks the dedication of the brand new William Hayes Ackland Art Center at U. N.C. in Chapel Hill. We congratulate the University on the acquisition of this million-dollar addition to its cultural offerings, and recommend that any of you who are in the vicinity take a look at the exhibition now on display there of works by artists from American colleges and universities. Mr. Ackland originally left the money to Duke, but U.N.C. got it when Duke refused to abide by some of the terms of his will, which included burial in the art center. For a million dollars we could do a lot of burying. . . . Speaking of art centers, there's been some talk of one here in Greenville. And why not, say we? Rocky Mount did it—without a million from anybody. If they can, why can't we? . . .

Cultural Explosion

We got some significant figures from the publishers of "Horizon," the new magazine of The Arts, which just came out last Monday in a blaze of excellent editing. They prove that America has been on a real culture jag during the past twenty years or so, despite what people say about how rough and unrefined we are. . . . Concerning books, we note that Americans spent 152 million dollars on them back in 1933—and in 1956 spent 592 millions, which certainly is quite an increase any way you look at it . . . Ten years ago 54 million juvenile books were sold, last year 270 million—in increase of 400% for small-fry readers, showing that our hunger for culture knows no age boundaries. . . . And the total number of books sold in this country in 1947 was roughly 333 million, excluding text books and encyclopedias. In 1954 this figure soared to 587,000,000 representing a 75% jump. Maybe Americans don't like to read, but they sure seem to buy a lot of books. If they don't read them, what do they do with them?

Health for Adolescents

Teen-agers certainly have their troubles these days — especially those down in Little Rock who don't even have a high-school to roll in—but at least they can stay healthy. A counterpart to Dr. Spock's "Baby and Child Care"—we've just bought our third copy, incidentally—will be issued from the Ronald Press next month, called "Family Guide to Teenage Health," by Edward T. Wilkes, M.D. Leveled specifically at the adolescent age groups, it discusses such matters as skin troubles, personal hygiene, exercise, sexual maturation, and many of the other physical and emotional problems connected with growing up. Also, it's not technical, but written for everybody. So if you're having troubles and are a teenager, maybe Dr. Wilkes' book is a place where you can find some help. . .

Local Scene

It looks as though we are about to embark on a sensational theatrical season hereabouts—something we can always use. At October's end we will have James Barrie's classic, "The Admirable Crichton," from the E.C.C. Playhouse. . . . The Greenville Little Theatre will be putting on a show probably sometime in November. Paul Hickfang's Opera Theatre has just been reactivated and will be staging a lush musical extravaganza or two. . . And at the local cinema a film version of one of World War II's great novels, "The Naked and the Dead," will be playing this weekend. Who says Greenville doesn't have everything? . . .

Today's Review

Mrs. Tom Broaddrick—a newcomer to these columns—contributes her comments on a recent novel by a Norwegian writer who also is mayor of her home town and the mother of four—or maybe it's five—children. The novel is about women—and children. . . .

LINDEMAN'S DAUGHTERS, By Synnove Christenson. New York: Doubleday & Co., 1958.

Synnove Christensen has written a captivating and breathtaking novel about 18th Century Norwegian aristrocracy and peasantry.

Anne Pernille Lindeman is a proud and poverty-fearing young girl who at fifteen is suddenly forced by a series of dreadful events to take over the rearing of her two younger sisters and the care of her demented father.

Hr marriage to an old sea captain for security and position and the events that follow this union make excellent reading.

Then the inevitable love affair with a Swedish adventurer changes Anne Pernilles outlook and for a time her life is quite happy.

The conclusion holds many surprises and keeps the readers undivided interest to the last paragraph.

Elections Set By Scout Group

Officers for the coming year will be elected at Monday night's meeting of the Pitt District Scout Committee.

To be elected are a District Chairman, three District Vice-Chairmen, a District Scout Commissioner and Committee members at large. A nominating committee, comprised of Chairman Wyatt Brown, W. T. Moore and P. K. Ewell, will make a report to be followed by the election.

The meeting is scheduled to be held in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, beginning at 8 o'clock.
