Dear Blanche:

As I have mentioned in previous letters, I have a son in Richmond, Va. who is Vice President and Dean of the Faculty of the Commonwealth University of Virginia. I am planning to visit this son about April 10th.

The family of my elder son, Col. Richard Coppedge, are living a Southern Pines while he is in Vietnam. I also have a nephew in Raleigh.

Anyone 87 years old, which I am, knows that he does not have much longer to live. I have put money in a local bank to cover the expenses of my burial. I have made this subject to my daughter's draft.

I'm writing to my son in Richmond about my visit, I said "There is one dear little lady whom I would like to see before I die. She lives in Enfield, N.C." My son is a very busy man but he wrote that he would be glad to drive me to Enfield, which I suppose is about three hours from Richmond. We can go and get back to Richmond the same day. If this suits you, please let me know. I shall be here until April 8th, after which for a few days ^{my address} will be
