Ever precious Blanch and Dear Ralph: May 12th, 1970

I shall not live long enough to tell you what a great pleasure your visit of Sunday was to us all. An event of that kind is something to remember always.

And today a lovely lot of red roses, tastefully arranged with ferns and tied with wide red ribbon, came to brighten my room and lift my spirits. You are both so kind and thoughtful and really too generous.

I am sorry that I cannot report improvement in my condition, but I grow weaker every day. I shall soon be unable to get out of bed and plan to go to another hospital.

Ralph, I sent your History of Littleton College to the Presbyterian Historical Foundation. It is much too valuable to entrust to private hands for keeping. Do not waste sympathy. I look forward to being with the Lord and loved ones in that Better Land.

Affectionately
Llewellyn
