DEDICATION

The Pitt County Tyson - May Genealogy Committee lovingly dedicates this document to a person who made the publication of our great Heritage possible. Throughout her life she maintained a scroll of the Tyson - May families which she left along with the substance to publish this book. She was a charter member of the Benjamin May Chapter of the D.A.R., the organizer of the Farmville garden club and bird club, outstanding member and leader of numerous other civic organizations, and was a supporter and leader for the men who served our country. We take this occasion to express to one of our own the appreciation we feel for her great contributions to the cultural development of our community, for her love of natural beauty, her interest in civic activities and her promotion of worthwhile objectives. Miss Tabitha DeVisconti, we salute you and the many great things you did as well as the preservation of our great Heritage.

FOREWORD

There is a certain challenge in compiling a genealogical history of two such important families as the Tysons and the Mays. Knowing local history and their importance in the development of Pitt County and surrounding areas, the story of these families has long needed to be unraveled. The influence of these families has been deeply felt over the centuries in eastern North Carolina and still continues today.

This book, more of a reference guide than a narrative, combines tradition and factual information from existing available sources. The arrangement of the book is simple, all family members are progressively indented, and I hope easily understood. Because of the immensity of this undertaking, I know this work is not complete or final. Errors, misspellings and omissions will be found. But I believe anyone trying to tie into these families will be able to do so with little degree of difficulty.

Also, when working with such a mass of dates it becomes a battle of numbers. Bible records don't match death certificates, birth certificates don't match gravestone records, etc., etc. So, some people may disagree with certain dates, but I used what dates I could find, irregardless of error in the original source.

For the reason of space and expense, I have not used footnotes, though some attempt has been made to substantiate a number of facts within the flow of the work. Through it all I am well pleased by the amount of information gathered together in one volume and the many new family connections found.

As you look over this book, I hope you will be proud of your heritage, appreciate those who made it possible and grateful to those who have preserved it.

Compiler and genealogist

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

As we start to express our gratitude there are so many who come to our minds.

We truly are grateful to have been able to be a part in study, research and preparation of our families genealogy. Each member of our committee: Edna Earle Baker, Rose Tyson Gardner, Laurie Foster Renard, Van Lewis, and Robert A. Tyson, has contributed and has been a vital part in the task placed before us at the Tyson May Reunion of 1984.

There have been many hours spent doing research of Family Bibles, cemeteries, visits, and interviews with those who had so much to share. A lot of travel has been required of the committee, numerous long distance telephone calls, at one's own expense, absence from family on weekends. True, this committee has been most faithful in attendance at our meetings. So much leg work was required and Robert was always out trying to do all he could possible do. There were days and nights Laurie, Edna Earle, and Rose had to read, read and read again the manuscripts prepared from research and Miss Tabitha's scrolls. A lot of paper has been used preparing these manuscripts. We have 5 and 6 drafts of the manuscripts, (600 pages plus in each draft) to be sure all was in order. Van so kindly contributed his office equipment and all paper supplies.

We have met an average of one Sunday a month for the past two years and more. Some months we met every Sunday, as we were nearing completion. There is one couple to whom we are most grateful. Lottie and Albert Lewis opened their home to us for all of these meetings, making us always feel most welcome and comfortable. Thank you, Lottie and Albert.

The committee has had the dedication and expertise of Roger Kammerer, as our genealogist. Roger has given so much of himself and truly shared in our drive and interest to see this book become a reality. Thank you, Roger, for staying with us to the end.

We have one who has worked hours on weekends, taking her away from her family, as she typed the manuscript on a word processor for us. Thank you so much, Carol Cope, for helping us in this way. Thank you too, Carol, for all those telephone calls made for us.

We acknowledge with love and gratitude the support of so many of our families. Many of you responded to our request for up-to-date information on families, and your response with pictures was marvelous. You have enabled us to prepare a more complete book in every way.

Our immediate family's support is most appreciated. Your patience and encouragement and all you have done to enable us to better serve on this committee has meant so much. You, above all, have been most helpful; yes, and tolerant of us when we had to be away from home and so occupied with our larger family history.

We acknowledge Miss Tabitha DeVisconti and know without her love and efforts over the past many years so much of the material for our book would not be available. Her generous trust to help us in study, preparation and publication of this book was most needed and is greatly appreciated. We are indeed glad to see this book become a living memorial to Miss Tabitha DeVisconti.

There are many who have helped each one of us; our genealogist wishes to express his personal gratitude to the following:

In compiling a genealogy it is impossible for it to be complete and without error, and to those who discover errors in names and dates, we extend our apology. We have tried to validate and document all the information presented. However, some conflicting information was found in official documents, and family members at times could not agree among themselves on names and dates. In some instances, the given names and even surnames show up in two or three different spellings. This was true at the time. We trust the reader will consider the overwhelming task of researching, compiling and undertaking the writing of a family history. We beg your indulgence for any shortcomings. It, too, is our hope that descendants will be encouraged to pick up where the lines are incomplete and bring them forward.

CHAPTER I

THE NAME TYSON

The name Tyson is one of those hereditary surnames with more than one meaning and origin. Records indicate that the name comes from Northumberland, England and the English border counties near Scotland. Many of the family can be found buried in the church cemetery at Natland. Where the name is found in Scotland, its history can be traced back to English origins.

Further research indicates the Tyson family is of Norman-French origin and came to England at the time of the Norman Conquest, settling in Kent and Sussex Counties. The word "tison" is an old French word meaning "firebrand". In early French records the name is spelled "Tissent" and in some early English records is spelled "Tissient".

A second source for the Tyson (Tison) surname indicates that it is a patronymic name. In this case the name means "son of Ty". Ty is a pet form of Matthias (gift of Jehovah) while "son" is a common patronymic suffix which is found as part of many English surnames of this type.

THE TYSON FAMILY

The first references which have been found to any individual member of the family is relative to one Gilbert Tison of Nottinghamshire, who was listed in the Doomsday Book in 1086. In 1092 Guillaume (William) Tyson is named in the Doomsday Book as being a counsellor and advisor to King William I, known as William the Conqueror. The Doomsday Book listed all the property owners in William's newly conquered territory.

In 1130 there is an Adam Tisun entered in the Pipe Rolls of Yorkshire. According to the 8th Volume of the Westminster Records in 1346, during the reign of Edward III, one Philip Tyson was appointed by the King to aid in the formulating of important laws in regard to the estates and property in general held by the crown. Philip Tyson held many castles and estates in his own name.

Thus it was that the Tysons though French in origin had become distinctly English during these two centuries. When in the 16th century and early part of the 17th century we find religious oppression prevalent in England, it is not strange to learn from the records in the 6th Volume of James I that George and Sybil Tyson are among those banished for religious differences. These two along with other members of their family went to Holland where they could worship in freedom. Dutch influences soon had their effects upon them and they became known as Tiessens, the Dutch equivalent of their English name.

After the discovery of America and the consequential influx of immigrants into the new world, the Tyson name appears in the early records of Pennsylvania and Virginia.

A Reyneir Tyson came over from Holland about 1683 and his brother Cornelius Tyson followed him later, both settling at Germantown, Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia. It had long been believed the Tyson family of eastern N.C. had descended from the Pennsylvania branch, which has now been proved incorrect. The real problem facing the family is finding out who was the first immigrant ancestor of our N.C. branch of the Tysons.

To understand the records one must realize there are variations to the spelling of the name, such as Tison, Tyce, Tice and Tiesson.

A William Tyson was transported into Maryland in 1668 as a servant, and a Thomas Tyson was transported in 1674.

One of the earliest Tysons in Virginia is found in Hotten's Imigration Lists 1600-1700, published in England in 1880. One William Tyce, age 20, was aboard the ship Constant Clement, Campin, master outward bound for Virginia October 24, 1633.

In Cavaliers and Pioneers, by Nugent are found two early Tysons in Isle of Wight, Virginia being George Tyson November 20, 1642 and Edward Tyson June 6, 1657.

JOHN TYSON AND HIS WIFE SUSANNIKA

John Tyson (first known ancestor of our line) is found in Northampton County, Va., as early as 1664. He is found in the tithables list (head tax lists) as early as 1664 as "Jan Mathiason", in 1675 as "John Mathiason", in 1676 as "John Mattison" and in 1677 as "John Tyson".

On March 27, 1679 "John Tyson and Susannika his wife and Matthias Tyson their son" bought 100 acres of land in Northampton County, Va., from William Andrews.

John Tyson appears to have died in Northampton County, Va., during the first half of 1683, his Will being dated March 1, 1681, and probated August 28, 1683. In the Will he refers to his wife "Susanna Tice" and his "three children Mathias Tice and Anne Tice and Katherine Tice". John himself is referred to in his own Will as "John Mattice" and "John Mattison" and even signed his name as "Jan Mattison". One must understand when reading the variations of the name "Tyson" that it underwent anglicization. It is the belief of this writer that John Tyson's real name was "John Mathias Tyson" because of the resemblance of the use of the name "Matt Tyson" for Mathias Tyson in a few documents and the names "Mattice" and "Mattison".

On July 28, 1691, Robert Tompson (Thompson), tailor of Accomack County, Va., and "Susannika his wife, late the wife of John Tyson and executrix of his Last Will and Testament... and Mathias Tyson son of the said dec'd. John Tyson, late of the said County of Northampton and now of the County of Accomack... planter" sold to Charles Parker, gunsmith of Northampton County, Va., 100 acres for 3,000 pounds of tobacco in casks, the former land of John Tyson. At the bottom of the deed Mary Tyson, wife of Mathias, signed over all her dower rights to the above land to Charles Parker. From the deeds it is known that Susannika Thompson remarried third by 1702 to Robert Hamilton of Northampton County, Va.

Whatever became of Susannika and her daughters Anne and Katherine is unknown at this writing.

MATHIAS TYSON

Mathias Tyson is believed to have been born in Northampton County, Va. between 1665-1670. From the aforementioned deeds it appears that Mathias Tyson had married by 1691 to Mary _____? and supposing he was at least 21 years of age at the time of his marriage it would put his birth date between the above two dates.

On February 20, 1693/94 Mathias Tyson bought 300 acres of land in Accomack County, Va., for 7,000 pounds of tobacco from Catherine Bowman, widow of Edmund Bowman, late of Accomac dec'd. and Daniel Esham and Gertrude his wife of Accomac, executors of Edmund Bowman.

In 1694 Mathias Tyson listed one tithe in Balley's Precinct, Accomack County, Va., and did the same again in 1695.

Mathias Tyson was still in Accomack County, Va., as late as November 20, 1702, when he signed a power of attorney to Tully Robinson. On February 2, 1702/03, Robinson sold for Mathias Tyson the 300 acres he bought from the executors of Edmund Bowman in 1693 for 4,000 pounds of tobacco to Robert Hamilton (his stepfather).

Mathias appears to have left Virginia and his name appears later, mistakenly, in the 1704 Bally Precinct Quit Rent Roll (land tax list) as still being the non-resident owner of the 300 acres mentioned above. The list under the heading "The following lands of which Quit Rents may possibly be recovered, though the owner lives out of the County", gives his location with the word "Southerd", meaning "gone south".

The area where Mathias Tyson settled in North Carolina, and where his sons grew up is in modern day Hyde County. He lived along Slades Creek, on the Matchepungo (Pungo) River, in what was known as Bath County.

The earliest known record of Mathias Tyson in North Carolina is the mention of land "patented by my father Mathew Tison in the year 1708" in the 1739/40 sale of land by Edmond Tyson. This date must be incorrect since Mathias Tyson did apply for a land patent from the "Duke of Beaufort, Palantine", but did not receive it until after his death in 1710.

Mathias Tyson died in Bath County, N.C., in the area now known as Hyde County between the date of his Will, April 5, 1710, and the date of his land patent (mentioning him as deceased) May 31, 1710. In his Will Mathias "Tisson" refers to his wife "Mary Tisson" and his grandson "Arone Tisson" and lists his children in the following order: (1) "Jhon Tisson", (2) "Edward Tisson", (3) "Corneilyous Tison", (4) "Edmond", (5) "Thomas Tisson", (6) "Susanna Tison", (7) "Jhonas Tisson", (8) "Samuell Tison", and (9) "Mathyas Tisson". From the available evidence it appears that the children were named from the oldest to the youngest.

Mary Tyson, the widow of Mathias, was named in the Will as the sole executor of his estate and inherited the land on which he lived. In 1715 "Mary Tyce" paid a tithe in Hyde Precinct of 6 pounds, 9 shillings, and 6 pence. She paid no tithe in 1716, and from the records evidently remarried to George Hill of Beaufort County. Mary Hill is mentioned in the Will of George Hill, dated March 30, 1723 and is listed as of Beaufort Precinct on February 7, 1737/38, when she sold 70 acres on Slades Creek (where she formerly dwelt) to her son Edmond Tyson.

THE CHILDREN OF MATHIAS TYSON

Due to a number of reasons, it is with regret, this work cannot trace all known descendants of Mathias Tyson. It is with our hope that the following small sketches about each of the children of Mathias Tyson will help those trying to connect their Tyson lines and foster continued research on the Tyson Family.

AARON TYSON, GRANDSON OF MATHIAS TYSON

Aaron Tyson was mentioned in Mathias Tyson's Will in 1710 as his grandson. Mathias left him "one two year old heffer with all her increase", but the Will does not state who was Aaron's father.

On November 30, 1734/35 Aaron Tyson made a petition to the State for land which gives an interesting history of Aaron's father. It reads "... the petition of Aaron Tyson, Planter showing that his father in the year 1710 warranted, surveyed and returned into the Secretary's Office 150 acres of land in Hyde lying on the east side of Matchepungo River which is well improved and cultivated, but that soon after the survey was made, his father in defense of the Country was killed by indians and no patent was then taken out for the same he being an orphan, but has by his guardian paid quit rents for the same, whenever they demanded, and he being now of full age, prays a patent may be granted..."

Nothing has been found giving proof of the name of Aaron Tyson's father, though many have made speculation. Some authorities give his name as Moses Tyson, but proof is lacking. The Pitt County branch of the family have leaned towards a son name Aaron Tyson. This Aaron Tyson was supposedly killed in September 1711 during the Tuscarora uprising, near what is now Snow Hill, Greene County, N.C., and the family has caused a monument to be erected to that effect. According to family tradition, one King John Hancock, who was directing the Indians in that battle had twice saved Aaron Tyson's life by pushing him aside, but Aaron persisted one too many times in placing himself as a tempting target, and when King Hancock was not looking Aaron lost his life. The story is at best a thrilling one, however there has been nothing found to substantiate the claim.

The strongest proof that the above two men are not Aaron Tyson's father is that neither are mentioned in Mathias Tyson's Will and since the Tuscarora uprising occurred in 1711, Mathias Tyson probably would have made mention of his son in his Will. There are two sons of Mathias Tyson, Jonas and John, who cannot be accounted for. Other researchers have leaned towards John Tyson, son of Mathias, as the father of Aaron, but new evidence lends that Jonas Tyson might well be considered for that honor.

In N.C. Administration Bonds found in the Secretary of State Papers at the State Archives is the following notation: "John Tyce, died 1716- John Leath, Admr." This would mean John Tyson died in 1716 with John Leath as administrator of his estate. John Tyson's name cannot be found in any of the extract tax lists for Hyde County from 1715 to 1717. There appears a "Hannah Tyce" paying a tax of 4 pounds, 6 shillings, and 5 pence in the 1716 Hyde County tax list. She may well be widow of John Tyson, and she disappears from the records by either having remarried or dying.

Aaron Tyson (grandson of Mathias Tyson) is believed to have been born in early 1710 and was at least 24 years old when he made his petition in November 1734/35 since the law required a son to wait three years after becoming of the age 21 years before he can receive his inheritance.

It is known that Aaron Tyson married a daughter of John Leath, Sr. He was executor and a witness to the Will of John Leath, Sr. in June Court 1751 and named as executor of the Will of John Leath, Hyde County, March Court 1752.

In the 1743 list of tithables of Hyde County "Aaron Tison" gave 2. On December 4, 1744 Aaron was appointed one of the justices of the peace of Hyde County, an office he held most of his life. On April 7, 1749, Aaron Tyson was appointed Sheriff of Hyde County. In January 1767, Aaron was paid 8 shillings by the Hyde County Court for bringing in "3 wild cat calves".

In the list of taxables in the upper District of Currituck, Hyde County in 1774, Aaron Tyson listed 3 whites and no negro male slaves.

Aaron Tyson died in Hyde County in 1781, his Will was dated July 9, 1781, and probated in Hyde County Court August term 1781. He lists his sons Thomas Tyson and John Tyson; two daughters, Mourning and Mary Cox; a grandson, Christopher Cleaves; and two granddaughters, Mourning Cleaves and Catherine Cleaves. John Allen, his son-in-law, was named as executor of his estate. There was a Catherine Tyson who married in Hyde County, NC, January 14, 1762 to John Cleaves.

A John Tyson (believed to be the son of Aaron) is mentioned in the Hyde County Will of William Richard Silvester in 1778 as having married William's granddaughter Sarah Cleaves, daughter of James and Ann (Silvester) Cleaves.

John Tyson is found in the census of Hyde County dated February 1786 as having in his household 1 white male 21-60, 2 white males under 21-over 60, 2 white females, 1 black 12-50, and 2 blacks under 12-over 50.

John Tyson received a land grant on November 26, 1789, for 600 acres in Hyde County on the east side of Pungo River and on the northside of Broad Creek along Aaron Tyson's line. John Tyson appears to have died about 1800/01, when the August 1801 term of Hyde County Court ordered his land consisting of 1156 acres divided among his heirs. They were "John Tyson (II), William Tyson, Patsey Tyson, Elizabeth Tyson, Thomas Tyson, Mary Tyson, Sarah Tyson, Aaron Tyson, and Nancy Tyson".

On September 2, 1804, John Tyson (II) and brother Aaron Tyson, heirs of Sarah Tyson dec'd. (who died intestate), had her 287 acres in Hyde County divided in equal shares as heirs of Sarah Tyson. Mary Tyson, sister of John Tyson (II) sold 60 acres to her brother Aaron Tyson on March 19, 1807. On December 17, 1816, Thomas Tyson, brother of John Tyson (II) sold his entire inheritance of 130 acres to Ira Hollowell.

The John Tyson (II) above must have died before November 1813, because Ann Tyson his widow received her widow's dower at that time.

JOHN TYSON

John Tyson was named in his father Mathias Tyson's Will in 1710 and was to receive only "four shillings". This would seem to indicate he had been given property already. [For more information on John Tyson see the article on Aaron Tyson, grandson of Mathias Tyson.]

JONAS TYSON

Jonas Tyson was named in his father Mathias Tyson's Will in 1710 and was to receive "one two year old heffer and one yearling heffer with all her increase". Nothing more is known about Jonas Tyson. Research leads one to believe that he may be the son of Mathias Tyson that was killed by the Indians and was father to Aaron Tyson, but this is still speculation.

EDWARD TYSON

Edward Tyson was named in his father Mathias Tyson's Will in 1710 and was to receive "one yearling with all her increase". Sometime between 1708-1711 Edward Tyson with his brothers "freeholders in Wickham Precinct, Bath County" and others petitioned that a court be established in that Precinct, which became Hyde Precinct as early as 1711.

Edward Tyson is found listed in the 1715 Hyde County tax list as paying 15 shillings for one tithable and 150 acres of land.

On August 8, 1719, Edward Tyson of Matchepungo River, Hyde Precinct, Bath County, "shoemaker" sold 150 acres on the west side of Slades Creek to Edmond Tyson of the same place, being land patented by Edward Tyson in 1714. At the bottom of the deed Ann Tyson, wife of Edward Tyson, surrendered up her dower rights to Edmond Tyson.

On May 28, 1733, Edward Tyson of Hyde Precinct bought 200 acres on Slades Creek, Hyde County, on the mouth of Tysons Creek from his brother Samuel Tyson of Beaufort Precinct, Bath County. In November 1736, Edward Tyson bought another tract of 100 acres on Slades Creek from his brother Samuel Tyson, of Beaufort Precinct, "being part of a tract of land the said Samuel Tyson formerly dwelt".

On October 20, 1743, Edward Tyson of Hyde County gave his wife Ann Tyson 100 acres, cows, calves, half his hogs, 2/3 of his sheep, and 2/3 of his household effects and a mare with a "T" brand. On September 1, 1746, Edward and Ann Tyson of Hyde County gave their son, Daniel Tyson, 100 acres in Hyde County on the east side of Matchepungo River, on the head of Fishing Creek. In addition they gave him 16 head of cattle, 5 head of sheep, furniture, pewter dishes, plates, basins, an iron pot, a frying pan, a chest, and a handmill. On the same day Edward Tyson also deeded property to his sons, Mathias Tyson and Joshua Tyson, and daughter, Hannah. To his sons went half of his cattle divided equally. Mathias received an iron pot (that he already had) and his cooper and carpenter tools. Joshua received an iron pot and his shoemaker tools. Edward Tyson gave to his daughter Hannah a feather bed and furniture, iron pots, a chest, a handmill, and pewter dishes. Hannah Tyson is believed to have been married to Uriah Collins, because their names were associated on a number of deeds among Edward Tyson's family. Uriah Collins' Will was proved in March term 1752 of Hyde County Court.

In June 1747, Ann Tyson and Daniel Tyson (her son) appeared before the Hyde County Court to record their stock marks.

The last known transaction made by Edward Tyson was on March 28, 1751, when he sold 50 acres on the north side of Slades Creek, along Mathias Tyson's line, to William Sylvester.

From all the above information, it is known Edward Tyson married Ann _____? before August 8, 1719. They had the following known children: Daniel Tyson, Mathias Tyson, Joshua Tyson, and Hannah Tyson (who md. Uriah Collins?).

Daniel Tyson (son of Edward) is mentioned in the 1774 Hyde County list of tithables in the "upper District of Currituck" as having one white tithable and 3 negro male slaves. Daniel Tyson is also found in the Hyde County Census dated February 1786 as having in his household 5 white males under 21-over 60, 4 white females, 5 blacks under 12-over 50, and 5 blacks 12-50.

The Will of Daniel Tyson, dated October 16, 1785 and probated May 1786, names his wife Rebecca and the following children: Richard, Zachariah, John, Hosea, Mary, Elizabeth, and Levey Tyson. His son Zachariah Tyson was named as executor of his estate.

Rebecca Tyson (widow of Daniel) received a land grant of 600 acres on the west side of Pungo River and the north side of Broad Creek on November 26, 1789. Rebecca is found listed in the 1790 census of Hyde County as having in her household 2 males under 16, 3 males over 16, 4 females, and 16 slaves. Rebecca Tyson presented to the Hyde County Court an inventory of the estate of Daniel Tyson, dec'd., March 24, 1799, and in May 1800, Rebecca Tyson's property was divided among her children, she having since died. Children of Daniel and Rebecca Tyson are as follows:

[A] Richard Tyson - On May 12, 1795, Richard Tyson of Hyde County sold 40 acres in Hyde County to John McWilliams for 100 milled dollars (being a part of a patent granted to Daniel Tyson May 16, 1787). On January 15, 1798, Richard Tyson of Hyde County sold a negro man to Rebecca Tyson for 80 pounds. On August 29, 1803, Richard Tyson of Hyde County sold a negro woman to Hannah Tyson. CORNELIUS TYSON

Cornelius Tyson was named in his father Mathias Tyson's Will in 1710 and was to receive "one cow with all her increase". Family tradition seems to have omitted where Cornelius Tyson settled; however he was patenting land in both Craven and Beaufort Counties during the same years his brothers were acquiring land. These patents turn out to lie in present day Pitt County, on the Little Contentnea Creek and the area near the Greene County line.

Sometime between 1708-1711, Cornelius Tyson with his brothers "freeholders in Wickham Precinct, Bath County" and others petitioned for a court to be set up in that Precinct, which became Hyde Precinct. In the 1715 Hyde County tax list Cornelius "Tyce" listed only one tithable, paying 15 shillings tax. In the 1716 tax list he paid 19 shillings tax, and in the 1717 tax list he paid 15 shillings.

On November 19, 1730, Cornelius Tyson received a patent for 150 acres in Beaufort County. On November 27, 1730, Cornelius Tyson, "cooper" of Beaufort Precinct, Bath County, was deeded land in Beaufort and Hyde Precincts. In 1739, he was granted other tracts in Craven and Beaufort Counties. On February 25, 1745, Cornelius Tyson bought 300 acres south of Tar River from John Hurley of Beaufort County, and on March 15, 1749, he sold the same tract to Arthur Williams. On December 4, 1744, Cornelius Tyson was appointed one of the justice of the peace in Beaufort County.

It is known that Cornelius Tyson married a Miss Mills, the daughter of John Mills of Beaufort County. In the Will of John Mills dated January 2, 1739/40, John Mills named his grandsons: Cornelius Tyson (received a gun) and Moses Tyson (received land). Cornelius Tyson (named as John Mills' son-in-law) was made executor of his estate.

SAMUEL TYSON

Samuel Tyson was named in his father Mathias Tyson's Will in 1710 and was to receive "one tract of land lying on the north side of a creek called Slades Creek and one cow yearling with all her increase."

On November 3, 1732/33, Samuel Tyson of Beaufort Precinct sold to Edward Tyson (his brother) of Hyde Precinct 200 acres in Hyde Precinct. Also in 1733, Samuel Tyson sold 48 acres on Greens Creek to John Davis of Hyde Precinct, "being part of the tract that Samuel Tyson did live on in Hyde Precinct". It appears from the records that Samuel Tyson sold his inheritance in Hyde County and settled in Beaufort County (now Pitt County). Family tradition claims that Samuel Tyson was the first of Mathias Tyson's sons to move to what is now Pitt County. Samuel Tyson's first acquisition was supposedly on "Sams Branch" near Falkland, Pitt County, an offshoot of Tyson's Creek, also named for him. Evidence of this can be found in the Will of William Stafford in New Hanover County in 1765 in which he leaves his son Samuel Stafford land in Pitt County on "Samuel Tyson's Creek".

Samuel Tyson left his Will in Bath County, dated May 1, 1736 and probated September 16, 1736, in which he names his wife, Margera, and two children, Mager and Sarah Tyson. He requested that money be raised from his estate to patent 400 acres of land, "Whereon I now live", for my son Mager Tison and specified that Mager was to have 100 acres on Little Contentnea Creek. The daughter, Sarah Tison received cattle from the estate. Both children, Sarah and Mager Tison, "to be put in school and brought up to learning".

[A] Mager Tyson - In 1752 George Sugg bought 200 acres of land on Tysons Creek, Beaufort County (now Pitt County) for Major Tyson from Thomas Tyson. It is known Mager (Major) Tyson married Lucy Sugg, daughter of George and Judith Sugg. Major Tyson is listed in the 1755 Beaufort County tax list as having one male taxable and no negro male slaves. On July 7, 1758, Samuel Tyson sold his land on Tysons Creek to William Edwards. Samuel Tyson is not listed in the 1762 Pitt County tax list, so he must have died between 1758-1762. Lucy (Sugg) Tyson remarried before 1762 to Abraham Tyson. Children of Major and Lucy Tyson are as follows:

(1) Joel Tyson (died 1796) married Fanny _____? On March 12, 1782, Joel Tyson acquired from John Tyson 108 acres on the north side of Meadow Branch part of a large tract. There must have been some misunderstanding about the lines of the tract. On January 1, 1782 Joel Tyson went to the tract where Thomas Tyson (son of Mason Tyson) lived and drove him off the property with clubs and staves claiming it was his property. Thomas Tyson's mother, Rachel, brought suit against Joel Tyson for this land which John Tyson had originally patented for his brother Mason Tyson's orphan son Thomas Tyson. The supposed arrangement with Rachel Tyson was that John Tyson could cultivate the land for 7 years paying a sort of rent; at the end of 7 years, when the orphan, Thomas Tyson, came of age, John was to get half of the patent of 385 acres. Joel Tyson brought a counter suit for rights to the property per the deed from John Tyson and the litigation dragged on for many years and was not settled until 1806. On September 15, 1806, the heirs of Joel Tyson sold to Thomas Tyson a plantation of 116 acres in Pitt County, which was ordered by the District Court in New Bern. It was believed that Joel Tyson died in the year 1796 because his widow is mentioned in the deeds as receiving her widow's dower of 60 acres in that year.

(2) Lemuel Tyson - It was believed that Lemuel Tyson died in the year 1801 because it was mentioned that commissioners were appointed to divide his estate among his heirs.

[B] Sarah Tyson - married William Joyner, son of Israel and Elizabeth (Brown) Joyner.

MATHIAS TYSON

Mathias Tyson was named in his father Mathias Tyson's Will in 1710 and was to receive "two cow yearlings with all their increase". On December 5, 1737, Mathias Tyson bought 70 acres in Hyde County at the mouth of Tysons Creek from Edward Tyson (his brother) of Hyde County. On February 6, 1738, Mathias Tyson sells the same 70 acres back to Edward Tyson of Hyde County. On March 13, 1745, Mathias Tyson was granted 100 acres in Hyde County, and on the same date was granted 100 acres in Beaufort County. In the 1755 Beaufort County tax list Mathias Tyson is listed with one taxable and no male negro slaves. On August 31, 1756, Mathias Tyson, planter of Beaufort County, sold 100 acres on the east side of Matchepungo River at the head of Green Creek to Daniel Tyson. On November 26, 1763 Mathias Tyson, planter of Hyde County, sold 100 acres on the head of Tysons Creek. [Nothing more is known.]

CHAPTER II

MOSES TYSON, JR.

Moses Tyson, Jr. was born June 12, 1728 in what is now Beaufort County, NC. He was the son of Edmond Tyson and grandson of Mathias Tyson.

Moses Tyson, Jr. is found listed in the 1762 Pitt County tax list as having one taxable white pole. In the Pitt County Census, taken by order of the Continental and Provincial Congresses August 25, 1775, Moses Tyson appears to have been the one in Capt. Henry Ellis Company, whose household included 2 white males 16-50, 2 white males under 16, 1 white woman, 5 white female children and 1 black male slave. Moses Tyson is also listed in 1775 as a member of the Pitt County Committee of Safety, along with his son Noah Tyson.

On April 6, 1785 Moses Tyson was named as co-executor of the estate of Jehu Lowe dec'd., Naomi Lowe, the widow was named as executrix. Naomi Lowe soon after married Moses Tyson and since it is known that Moses' children were born before this marriage, then Moses had a previous wife whose name is unknown.

On August 14, 1797 Moses Tyson, "Planter of Pitt County" gave his son Noah Tyson, "Planter of Pitt County" 12 acres on the south side of the Tar River "being part of the land I now live on." The land was on the north side of Hardees Run and the east side of Reedy Branch, running with the various courses of Reedy Branch to the main swamp. This acreage on Reedy Branch was part of 240 acres which Moses Tyson bought from Richard Barrow March 8, 1755, who received the land as a grant January 31, 1755 from Francis Corbin Esq., agent for the Earl of Granville. The stream known as Hardees Run in the 1700's appears to be the stream that runs northward through Greenville and runs beside the Tyson/Forbes Cemetery on the grounds of the Greenville Country Club.

Moses Tyson, Jr. died May 15, 1803 without making a Will. On November 9, 1803 his heirs "all being of full age to act for themselves" authorized Noah Tyson (their brother) to administer the estate and make sales of the property so that each heir may receive an equal division of the estate. The authorization was signed by each of the children of Moses Tyson viz: Tamar Tyson (md. Jonathan Mears); Enoch Tyson; Rachel Tyson (md. Zachariah A. Allen); Naomi Tyson (md. James Mears); Esther Tyson (md._____ Nelson); Mary Tyson (md. William Beddard); Timma Tyson (md. Joshua Patrick); and Moses Tyson.

Tamar Tyson was married about 1798 to Jonathan Mears and lived in Bladen County, NC. Naomi Tyson also married about 1798 to James Mears and lived in Bladen County. On May 3, 1819, Naomi Mears sold 100 acres in Bladen County to her son, Bethel Mears. Bethel Mears later married Margaret Ann _____ and had the following known children: Obeda Lini Mears, Bethel Mark Mears and Daniel Pelt Mears.

NOAH TYSON

Noah Tyson was born on September 12, 1757 in what would become Pitt County. He was the son of Moses Tyson, the grandson of Edmond Tyson and great grandson of Mathias Tyson.

In 1775, at the age of 18, Noah Tyson like many of his other relatives joined the Pitt County Committee of Safety during the time of the American Revolution. The Pitt County Committee of Safety, like others across the State, raised militia, provided for arms and the relief of the poor. They tried people for offenses, routed out tories and appointed patrolers to regulate the slaves. They also took an interest in and controlled the educational and religious aspects of the county.

Noah Tyson appears to have had a strong religious upbringing and was to become a noted local Baptist minister. In 1796, he was minister to the Great Swamp Church in Pitt County which was received into membership in the Kehukee Baptist Association. In Hassell's history of the Church of God, he mentions that the Great Swamp Church, 4 miles north of Greenville, was a branch of the Flat Swamp Church, which was dismissed in 1795 and took the name Great Swamp. Rev. Noah Tyson, a member of the church at Red Banks, was called to minister. He was described as "a man under bodily affliction and yet he did not neglect his families."

The Bible used by Rev. Noah Tyson was once in the household of his great grandson, Dr. B.T. Cox, in which could be found a record of the funeral sermons Rev. Tyson preached in nine years. In the year 1792 he preached 189 funerals; in 1793, 84; in 1794, 67; in 1795, 72; in 1796, 54; in 1797, 64; in 1798, 46; in 1799, 156; and in 1800, 25. The aggregate is 757 which seems to be a very high number, but it is probably due to the lack of preachers in the area than the frequency of deaths.

Noah Tyson was also a large landowner and operated a water saw and gristmill on Hardees Run. Robert Forbes who married one of Noah's daughters eventually bought the mill from the heirs of Noah Tyson and it stood until 1927 when it was known as Forbes Mill Pond. The mill was situated on the Greenville Country Club, near the old Tyson/Forbes Cemetery.

Rev. Noah Tyson died on January 13, 1805. It is known from the deeds he left a Will (whereabouts unknown) which named John Mooring and Jesse Randolph as executors of his estate.

Noah Tyson was married first on January 17, 1778 to Elizabeth Moore (born Sept. 7, 1760) the daughter of William Moore. Their children were Shem Tyson (b. Nov. 21, 1778); Ham Tyson (b. July 23, 1780); Japeth Tyson (b. April 22, 1782); Noah Tyson, Jr. (b. Dec. 1, 1784); Silas Tyson (b. Aug. 19, 1786-d. Nov. 4, 1788). His wife Elizabeth died on Oct. 20, 1788. The religious background of Noah Tyson is apparent in the naming of his first three children, as the Bible says "the sons of Noah, that went forth of the ark, were Shem, and Ham, and Japeth."

On February 22, 1790 Noah Tyson was married second to Nise "Nicy" Moore (b. May 16, 1768) the sister of his first wife. Their children were Silas Tyson (b. Nov. 14, 1790); Moses Tyson (b. Feb. 22, 1792); Ichabod Tyson (b. Nov. 21, 1793); Mary Tyson (b. Nov. 11, 1794); Gracey Tyson (b. May 10, 1796); and Jesse Tyson (b. Nov. 6, 1799). Noah Tyson had at least one other child, James Tyson (who died about 1805/6), but it is not definite by which wife.

[(A)] SHEM TYSON was born in Pitt County Nov. 21, 1778 the son of Noah and Elizabeth (Moore) Tyson.

On July 26, 1804, Noah Tyson gave his son Shem Tyson land on the north side of the Tar River, which Noah purchased from James English. On Nov. 7, 1805, Shem received 10 acres on the north side of Deep Branch as part of his share of his father's estate. In Feb. 1806, Shem Tyson and his brothers Japeth and Noah Tyson, Jr. sold 140 acres on the south side of the Tar River to Benjamin Sutton, containing the plantation and mill whereon their dead father Noah Tyson had lived. The land was given to James Tyson their brother who died and his share was divided equally among all the brothers and sisters. The land around the mill appears to have been exempt from above deed since Shem and his other brothers bought several rights of their sister-in-law, Elizabeth Tyson's inheritance. On Feb. 11, 1807, Shem purchased from Elizabeth Tyson, widow of his dead brother James Tyson, her 11/16th ownership share in Noah Tyson's water saw and gristmill. In 1809 Shem purchased his brother Noah Tyson, Jr.'s share of the gristmill.

On Nov. 20, 1811 Shem Tyson sold Robert Forbes 250 acres on both sides of Hardees Run for $350.00, the land including the water gristmill and excepted one acre for the graveyard and a road to it.

By 1815, Shem Tyson was guardian of Jesse Tyson, Robert Forbes, Silas Tyson and Moses Tyson, in which capacity he sold 75 acres on Hardees Run to David Sutton on Dec. 23, 1815.

Shem Tyson died Oct. 23, 1825. It is known from the deeds he left a Will (whereabouts unknown) naming Silas Tyson and Macon Moye as executors. On Dec. 27, 1825 the above executors sold to William Nobles 108 3/4 acres for $840.00. The land was on Hardees Run, bounded by Robert Forbes and John Anderson.

Shem Tyson was married first to Lucretia Adams. He married second about 1821 to Susanah Moye, daughter of William and Susanah Moye of Pitt County.

Shem and Lucretia (Adams) Tyson had the following known children: Archibald, John Adams, Noah, and Elizabeth Tyson.

(1) ARCHIBALD TYSON (Shem, Noah, Moses) was born in Pitt County Sept. 5, 1805 and died at Lowndesboro, Alabama June 23, 1874. On Aug. 5, 1825 Archibald Tyson bought 80 acres on the north side of Hardees Run, Pitt County from John Speirs and his wife Elizabeth Speirs, the widow of James Tyson. In Aug. 1828, Archibald turned around and sold back the same land to John Speirs. Sometime after this date Archibald Tyson and his brother, John Adams Tyson, moved from Pitt County to Lowndes County, Alabama. According to family tradition they journeyed for 5 weeks with 12 negroes and 10 mules to get to Alabama. On June 8, 1843 Archibald was married by Rev. William Rice near Prairie Hill, Lowndes County, Alabama to Sarah Jane Warren (b. Jan. 29, 1823-d. Aug. 29, 1889) the daughter of Laban and Parthia (Jones) Warren, of Fort Dale, Alabama. Between 1850-1858, Archibald and his wife built the lovely antebellum home which still stands known as "The Pillars". Archibald Tyson was remembered as a successful farmer of practical means and he would not allow his overseers to whip his slaves. When the Civil War ended he had on hand 500 slaves, who were set free by the result of the war. He luckily had 500 bales of cotton which brought anywhere from 75¢ to $1.00 per pound and $10,000 in gold he had saved. Archibald and Sarah Jane Tyson had the following 10 known children: Archibald, Winton, Laban, Claudius, Sarah, California Ann, Shem, Mary, Jones, and John Tyson.

MOSES TYSON

Moses Tyson was born in Pitt County abt. 1755 and died Oct. 4, 1823, aged 68 years. He was the son of Moses Tyson, Sr., grandson of Cornelius Tyson and great grandson of Mathias Tyson.

The Cornelius Tyson mentioned above (b. ca. 1695-d. 1745) married before 1739 to a daughter of John Mills, Sr. of Beaufort County, NC. Moses Tyson, Sr., the subject's father, lived in Pitt County on land he received by grant near Little Contentnea Creek and Pinelog Branch, near modern day Farmville. In the Pitt County census taken by order of the Continental and Provincial Congresses Aug. 25, 1775, Moses Tyson, Sr. is listed with 10 persons in his household, 4 white males 16-50, 3 white males under 16, 2 white women and one white female child.

Moses Tyson, the subject, was married to Elizabeth Joyner (b. abt. 1762-d. Sept. 15, 1820) believed to be the daughter of John and Anna (Albertson) Joyner. After Moses Tyson died in 1823, Seth Tyson, his son, and John May, his son-in-law, were named as administrators of his estate.

Moses and Elizabeth (Joyner) Tyson had the following 8 known children: Sherrod, Seth, Martha, Elizabeth, Anna, Moses, Orpah, and Sally Tyson.

After Sherrod Tyson's death in 1842, his brother-in-laws, John May and Alfred Moye, were named as administrators of his estate. The administrators announced the sale of the estate Sherrod Tyson in local newspapers. The sale, held on June 3, 1842, at Sherrod Tyson's residence, advertised 3 turpentine stills with their fixtures, 80 barrels of spirits of turpentine, 300 barrels of rosin, about 12 barrels of brandy (part of which was peach) and a quantity of pork in barrels.

Sherrod Tyson married on March 1, 1809 to Elizabeth Williams Harper (b. Feb. 21, 1791-d. Aug. 28, 1847) daughter of Blaney and Elizabeth Harper. He learned early not to be wasteful and to avoid debt. From his earliest concept of good business, he held to the habit of paying cash for everything. He bought his first farm at age twenty-two. Clarence steadily continued to buy more land. He established his own power utility and manufactured oil-burning tobacco curers. He built his own cotton gin. He was a banker. He owned more than 12,000 acres in Pitt and Greene counties and was counted many times a millionaire. Clarence lived in Maury where some people affectionately labeled him the "Squire of Maury". From his general store, he presided over the lives of nearly a thousand people who lived on his lands and produced the tobacco that made him the largest single

He, also, regretted his lack of formal education and gave financially to education, in particular to Atlantic Christian College in Wilson, NC.

[(G)] ORPAH TYSON (Moses, Moses Sr., Cornelius, Mathias)(b. Sept. 24, 1802-d. Feb. 26, 1845) md. in 1818 to Alfred Moye (b. Jan. 19, 1793-d. Feb. 26, 1863) son of Joel and Sarah (Darden) Moye. Alfred Moye was a pioneer layman of the North Carolina Disciples in the old Oak Grove Church in Greene County, NC. He lived at what is now Lang's Crossroads, six miles east of Farmville, NC. He was one of the trustees instructed to incorporate Contentnea Academy in 1831. In 1839, Alfred ventured into the manufacturing of silk, and had a small log house in his yard to house the silk worms. Alfred was a representative from Pitt County in the House of Commons in 1828-29; and in 1850 was elected president of the Raleigh and Greenville Plank Road and served for ten of its eleven years, which was the duration of its operation as a toll road. (The plank road was the old stage coach road which was laid by way of Farmville and Wilson. The plank road was a great enterprise and greatly influenced the progress of these sections.) He was a justice of the peace, public administrator, public surveyor, chairman of county superintendents, and examiner of teachers. In 1831 he was elected a member of the Senate which position he occupied for 13 consecutive years, until 1844 when he voluntarily declined a re-election and retired to private life. He was a pioneer Disciple of the Church of Christ in Pitt County giving land left to him and Abraham Darden Moye, for the first church of that denomination in his community. This was Old Corinth Church. It is remembered that Alfred was an admirer and supporter of J.M. Morehead when he ran for governor of NC. Governor Morehead on one occasion came to Pitt Co. to buy hogs for his cotton factory in Alamance Co., NC, coming to see Alfred Moye and spend the night with him. The governor brought money along for the hogs, and Alfred Moye's grandson, Abram James Moye, remembered the governor counting out his money in his father's dining room. Abram said he went into the room and the governor had the bed, which was always in the large dining room, covered all over with Confederate money. Alfred was very hospitable and all travelers were welcomed, in so much that his neighbors imposed on him by sending people to him for lodging. He erected a gin house and ginned cotton for his neighbors who were not able to build gin houses, and erect screws for baling the cotton. He was also a rabid unionist and was never a believer in the Confederate states. He was one of the stockholders and a director of the Pitt Co. Female Institute at Marlboro, Pitt Co., which was ended by the Civil War. One afternoon in early 1863, Alfred walked over to see how the carpenters were progressing on the new Corinth Church, to which he contributed a large sum of money. That same day, about midnight, Alfred was stricken with paralysis, which kept him bedridden for the remainder of his life.

JOAB TYSON

Joab Tyson (b. ca. 1757-d. ca. 1825) was the son of Moses Tyson, Sr., grandson of Cornelius Tyson and great grandson of Mathias Tyson. Very little is known about Joab Tyson. He was married ca. 1790 to Anna Joyner, sister of his brother Moses Tyson's wife, Elizabeth Joyner.

Joab Tyson and his wife Anna moved South with their minor children in 1821 and settled in Twiggs County, Georgia, where he went to work in turpentine. By tradition all the family died there from typhoid fever, except their son John Joyner Tyson, aged about 12 years old. In a Pitt County deed dated April 13, 1825 are found the names of the other children of Joab and Annie Tyson, being Oliver Tyson, Polly Tyson, and Epsey (Hepsy) Tyson Ross. What really became of them is unknown.

According to information handed down in the Hemby Family of Pitt County, William Hemby who married Joab Tyson's eldest daughter, Nancy Tyson, went on horseback to Georgia and brought John Joyner Tyson back to North Carolina on a gray horse, where he grew up in William Hemby's household.

CHAPTER V

THE NAME MAY

The name May is found to be prominent, in its various forms, in the early records of Scotland, England and France. In Scotland the Mays or O'Mays were septs of the Clan Donald (North and South). In its English origins the name May was probably given to a child born in that month. May, in the Saxon means daisy, a flower. In Gaelic Mai or Maith means good, pleasant, or fruitful. In Welsh, Mad from Mai, means earth, the producer. In the French the name May is LeMay, meaning a descendant of May, a hypocoristic of Matthew from Maheu, Mayhew (gift of Yahveh).

THE MAY FAMILY

The first American colonist bearing a variant of the May name was William Mease, or May, who settled in Jamestown, Virginia in 1611. In 1621, one John May was one of twenty persons transported into Virginia by Sir George Yeardley.

In November 1642, a John May was transported into Yorke River County by Stephen Gill. Also in 1642 a John May was imported by Thomas Ray into Accomack County, Virginia. These John Mays could very well be the same person since there are more emigrations for a John May in the records, each time into the same general area in and around Accomack County, Virginia.

Other Mays listed are a James May, who was imported in 1657 and settled on the Petomack (Potomac) River. In 1662 a John May is found living on Muddy Creek and Mesango Creek.

In the 1704 Quit Rent Rolls of King and Queen County, Virginia, is found two John Mays and Thomas May.

In the vestry book of Bristol Parish, Virginia, is found a John May and several members of his children. This John's wife was named Mary and the children named in the vestry book were Mary (b. October 11, 1724), James (b. October 1, 1726), William (b. June 11, 1726), Agnis (b. July 19, 1728), Dorothy (b. July 19, 1728), Elizabeth (b. October 2, 1730), and William (b. December 28, 1732).

The next May found in the records is a John May, who about 1740 filled the office of Clerk of Bristol Parish, Virginia. This John May, known as John May, Jr., is presumed to be a son of the above John and Mary May, though evidence has not been found.

John May, Jr., whose ancestors according to some sources were from Lincolnshire and Mayfield, England, was married ca. 1735 to Agnes Smith. According to the vestry book of Bristol Parish, Virginia, John and Agnes had John (b. 1737), Betsy (b. November 1739), Richard (b. February 20, 1743), Stephen (b. November 15, 1745), David (b. May 15, 1747), Agnes (b. Sept. 6, 1749), William (b. October 1752), and George (b. February 6, 1756-d. May 22, 1822).

This John May (Jr.) has long been believed to be the ancestor of the Pitt County branch of the May family, but again there is no proof to support that belief. The two known sons, John and Benjamin, of the John May connected with Pitt County are not listed in the vestry records as children of John May (Jr.) and so one can presume that there is even another John May, whose children do not appear in the vestry records.

With the lineage uncertain, I continue with the John May who entered into Beaufort County, North Carolina, and proved his rights April 10, 1745 for four persons, including himself, three sons (John Jr., James and Benjamin) and two negroes.

In 1756 John May received a land grant in Beaufort County, North Carolina, from the Earl of Granville. In the 1762 Pitt County tax list John May, Benjamin May, and James May are found living together, having three negroes.

John May's Will was proved in Pitt County Court in February 1764 naming his widow, Mary May, executrix and his son, Benjamin May, as executor of his estate. Mary May, the widow of John May, was formerly Mary Stafford (b. ca. 1717) daughter of William Stafford. After the death of John May, Mary moved with her brothers and her daughters to Beaufort County, South Carolina, where she married second by 1771 to a Mr. Mullett. Mary died in 1823 at the age of 106 years and is buried in the Bostick Graveyard, near Garnett Station, Hampton County, South Carolina.

BENJAMIN MAY

Benjamin May, the son of John and Mary (Stafford) May, is believed to have been born in Virginia March 17, 1737. Tradition says he was born in Scotland, but that claim has never been proven.

Benjamin May is first found listed in the 1762 Pitt County tax list as living with his father John May and brother, James May. In the 1764 Pitt County tax list Benjamin is found living in the household of Mary May, his widowed mother.

From this point on Benjamin May appears to have lead a most useful life. He became a very active and influential figure in the social, political and military affairs of Pitt County.

Benjamin May settled on Black Swamp, Pitt County, on the southside of Contentnea Creek near the present town of Farmville. He was listed as a "Saddler to the County and Province" as early as 1767 and he began purchasing large amounts of land as early as 1766. Between the years 1779 to 1783, Benjamin May received land grants totaling 1200 acres from the State of North Carolina.

In 1773 Benjamin May was named as captain of the local regiment of Pitt County Militia. On July 30, 1779, he was appointed 1st. Major of the Pitt Regiment of Militia by Governor Richard Caswell. It is said that Benjamin May commanded the local militia at the Battle of Guilford Courthouse on February 15, 1781.

On October 4, 1774, Benjamin May was elected a member of the Pitt County Committee of Safety and was on the committee to build the courthouse and jail at Martinsborough, now Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina.

On July 17, 1775, the Pitt County Safety Committee chose Benjamin May as one of the captains of the 15th Company of Pitt Patrollers.

Benjamin May was a delegate from Pitt County to the NC Provincial Congress at Halifax, North Carolina, April 12, 1776, when they passed the Halifax Declaration of Independence. He was appointed there with James Gorham (for Pitt County) to "receive, procure, and purchase firearms for the use of the troops". When the Provincial Congress met again on November 12, 1776, Benjamin May was chosen one of the five delegates from Pitt County.

Benjamin May served as a justice of the peace and resigned in 1784 after many years of service. He was named as one of the trustees of Pitt Academy, Martinsborough, Pitt County in 1786 and was a member of the NC House of Commons from 1804 until his death on August 8, 1808.

Benjamin May appears to have been married several times. He married first on November 25, 1765 to Mary Tyson (b. April 16, 1748-d. 1800) daughter of Cornelius and Mary (Sherrod) Tyson. They had the following 12 known children: Tyson, Benjamin (Jr.), Fanny, John, Patsy, Sally, Elizabeth, Delitha, Mary, Clara, James and William May.

Between 1800 and 1808 Benjamin May married Mrs. Anna Stanton Peterson, widow of Kinchen Peterson and sister of James Stanton (Benjamin May's daughter Sallie's husband). Anna is named in Benjamin May's Will as his "beloved wife", but the Will is dated 1805, and she must have died soon after. There was a marriage contract between Major Benjamin May, Sr. and Sallie Ewell, dated December 20, 1807, stipulating that each was to hold their property free from the complications of marriage. According to tradition, the lady was so mistrustful of the high-sounding document that she refused to go on with the wedding, and the Major died a widower.

May 1, 1847), Senator of Greene Co., NC. They resided in NC until 1836 when they moved to Aberdeen, Lowndes Co., Miss. After the death of Louisa's mother, Penelope May, in 1845, John May, the administrator of her estate divided up the slaves to her next of kin. In the spring of 1847, Jesse Speight petitioned the Pitt Co. court and received a slave, per right of his wife, and returned to Mississippi to make arrangements to bring the slave there, when he suddenly died May 1, 1847. In 1849 Louisa Speight professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. In Sept. 1849, Louisa Speight married Gen. Wyatt Moye (b. NC April 30, 1793-d. St. Mary's Parish, La. Oct. 21, 1852) formerly of Greene Co., NC. Louisa May (Speight) Moye died in Aberdeen, Miss. Oct. 5, 1856. Louisa is remembered as having light hair and blue eyes. She was described in her obituary as "a modest, dignified, elegant and very cultured Christian lady".

(10) BENJAMIN MAY, III (Benjamin Jr., Benjamin)(b. Pitt Co. Jan. 13, 1813-d. Feb. 24, 1860) md. Sept. 13, 1838 to Mary Ann Eliza Williams (b. Feb. 15, 1821-d. Dec. 28, 1887) dau. of Robert and Finette (Dupree) Williams. Benjamin May, III inherited 460 acres of land near what is now Farmville, Pitt Co., NC, from the division of his father's estate. He is recorded in 1840 as the head of a six member household and as owning 27 slaves. In the 1850 Pitt Co. Agricultural Census, Benjamin May, III is listed as owning 600 improved acres and 1224 unimproved acres valued at $6,729.00. He also owned $400.00 worth of tools and 2 horses, 5 mules, 14 milk cows, 4 working oxen, 30 other cattle, 47 sheep and 125 hogs, all valued at $935.00. During the year 1849-50, he harvested 60 bushels of rye, 1625 bushels of Indian corn, 325 bushels of peas and beans, 200 bushels of Irish potatoes and 500 bushels of sweet potatoes. In addition, his farm produced 75 pds. of wool and 100 pds. of butter. Benjamin May, III died in 1860 from a freak accident. He was engaged with others in bursting logs with gunpowder. When one of the matches failed to burn in the gunpowder, Mr. May went to it supposing it had gone out and began to relight it when the gunpower ignited suddenly, and the shock killed him in the course of an hour. According to family tradition Mary Ann Eliza May, Benjamin's widow, was nearly killed during the Civil War. It seems Yankee soldiers or carpetbaggers, it is not certain which, tried to steal some horses from the May property. Mary Ann, while standing in a side entrance of her house, called to her farm help to shoot at the marauders, who shot back at her. A bullet, as the story goes, hit the chimney near the doorway and the hole can still be seen today in the chimney.

According to a newspaper article in Jan. 1840, describing the farm of Benjamin Streeter, it said he ran 10 plows, working 30 negro hands, 10 of them being men and the balance of them women, boys, and girls. The previous year he had raised 1200 barrels of corn, 32 bales of cotton, and 22,790 pds. of pork. He also raised a considerable amount of small grain and turpentine. By Jan. 1840, Streeter had sold from his last crop, after reserving enough for the support of his family, 500 barrels of corn and 31 bales of cotton. In Jan. 1840, he also sold to Sherrod Tyson, of Tyson's Store, Pitt Co., 66 fat hogs, weighing an average of 223 1/2 pds. each. According to the article, because of low prices in 1840, his sales would only amount to $3000.00.

Susan Virginia (Streeter) Atkinson

The Streeter Place, Greene County, N.C.

A] Susan Virginia Streeter (d. Dec. 4, 1895) md. in Greene Co., NC July 27, 1843 to Peyton Ashley Atkinson (b. Bensborough, Pitt Co. Oct. 18, 1802-d. Feb. 22, 1863 of dypsepsia) son of Ben Ashley and Rebecca (Tunstall) Atkinson. After Peyton finished college he married Susan Streeter, said to be the wealthiest woman in 10 counties and very popular with the men. Ben Ashley Atkinson, Peyton's father, died in Pitt Co. Oct. 1, 1839, and Peyton became master of the 1500 acre plantation called Bensboro, the old Atkinson homeplace, located near Belvoir, Pitt Co. Peyton later went off in the Civil War where his health failed. He died at Shocco Springs resort, where he was sent to recuperate from typhoid fever. Susan is remembered to have passed between Bensboro and the Streeter Place in Greene Co., NC every two weeks. A negro man would drive her in her carriage pulled by what was thought to be by the locals, the finest pair of carriage horses in the world. Cousin Susan, as the Moye family called her, loved dearly to talk when excited. She was an enthusiastic secessionist and one day she stopped at Alfred Moye's house to talk to him about the war. Alfred Moye was a Unionist, but he patiently listened to her ramblings. When Susan finally ran down, all Alfred said to her was "War is a terrible thing." When Susan's husband died she became a Unionist and she began telling everyone how much she detested war.

Benjamin had extensive farming operations and was elected to the State Legislature, being the first democrat sent from Pitt County after the Civil War. On the evening of May 1, 1874 Benjamin and a negro were crossing the Tar River near his plantation, 3 or 4 miles below Penny Hill, Pitt Co., when the canoe they were in was upset. The river was swollen by recent rains, and they held on to the boat until they floated against a tree in the river, upon which they climbed and abandoned the canoe. The night being cold, the negro man suggested he would swim to shore and get help, but drowned while trying. Benjamin was compelled to spend the night in the tree, suffering intensely from the cold, until he was rescued the next morning.

He also had $120.00 worth of farm tools, 36 pds. of wool, 50 pds. of butter, $125.00 worth of homemade products, and slaughtered $330.00 worth of farm animals. Crossroads (formerly Moye's Crossroads). It is remembered that W.G. Lang kept his upper lip shaved, and it had several scars on it. He also used 2-prong forks upon his table, and when one prong broke off half way, Mr. Lang would break the other off and file both down to have a fork that could scarcely be broken. The W.G. Lang farm was a part of the land grant to Joel Moye from the King of England. It was passed down to Joel's son Alfred, then to his daughter Ann Priscilla Moye who married W.G. Lang. It then was passed to their son William, who passed it on to his son James Lang. The house that stood there was built by W.G. Lang before the Civil War. It was torn down in the 1980's. W.G. Lang kept out of the Civil War by turning shoe maker for his neighbors. He made the old toll house of the Plank Road his shoe factory. Mr. Lang's consuming ambition was to make money, and he worked very hard along side his negroes, contrary to the general custom of the landowners. In 1869, William, in addition to his farming interests, engaged in the mercantile business in Marlboro, NC. In 1872, he purchased several acres of land just a mile north of Marlboro and, moving his family from the old Lang home, he continued his business activities in what is now the town of Farmville, NC. His was the second business in Farmville, NC. William Lang served as the commissioner for more than ten years. He filled many positions on the governing board and served on the executive committee appointed to establish the tobacco market. He served as postmaster of Farmville from 1879 until 1884, the postoffice being in his store. He was a supporter of the Christian Church, a member of the congregation at Corinth until in 1903 he moved his membership to the Farmville congregation. (Briley) Turnage. Henry Thomas received a good common school education and began life as a farmer, a few years later adding merchandising. Taking great interest in all affairs of his country he never sought office, but was content to serve his people in humble capacities, and among such was that of school committeeman. He was a whig and strong Union man, but when the inevitable came, he readily volunteered, May 15, 1862, as a private in Company D, Forty-fourth Regiment. After a short stay at Camp Mangum, Raleigh, NC, his regiment went to Tarboro, NC, and while doing duty in that section was at Tranters Creek, when Colonel George B. Singletary was killed. The regiment soon went to Virginia and did duty about Richmond and vicinity, being in many of the hart-fought and bloody battles of the war. On the death of Gen. Stonewall Jackson, Co. D, Forty-fourth Regiment was the Guard of Honor while his body lay in state in the Capitol at Richmond. In a skirmish on Squirrel Level Road, near Petersburg, Va., Oct. 8th, 1864, he was mortally wounded, dying Oct. 24, 1864. Though that was his first wound, he had many narrow escapes, shots through his clothes and once a ball pierced a Testament in his upper left vest pocket and lodged against his flesh. Enlisting as a private he soon became lieutenant and later often commanded the company. While in the army he came within a few votes of the Whig nomination for sheriff of his county, by his friends at home. He was a Mason and a member of the Christian Church.

Lang for 10 years at Farmville, NC. Hiram moved to California in late Feb. 1887 where he stayed only 2 weeks because he didn't like it, and he returned to Greenville, NC. In 1888, Hiram was a member of the firm of Reuss and Harriss, near Greenville, NC. After moving to Greenville, NC, he entered the insurance business. He was a Mason and a charter member of the Eighth St. Church of Christ, Greenville, NC.

[(J)] CLARA MAY (Benjamin, John)(b. Pitt Co., NC March 3, 1782-d. Sept. 23, 1834) md. John Joyner (b. Oct. 7, 1779-d. March 20, 1853) son of John and Elizabeth Joyner. Clara was buried in the family cemetery a few yards away from their house. John Joyner md. second in Pitt Co. May 14, 1835 to Mrs. Harriett (Williams) May (b. Nov. 12, 1786-d. Dec. 22, 1868) widow of James May, brother of Clara (May) Joyner and the daughter of Dr. Robert Williams. John Joyner came to Pitt Co. and settled at Marlboro. His home is still standing, now the property of William Alexander Allen, Jr. The house is one-and-a-halt story with a steep roof and small paned windows. The inside wainscoting, wide floor boards and enclosed steep stairways follow the traditions of the time. Some of the floor boards are eleven inches wide and the wainscote panel measures eighteen inches. Pegs were used in the mortices, and handmade nails were used in the structure. John was elected to the House of Commons from Pitt Co. in 1812. He served in the Senate from 1824 through 1828. He attended the Constitutional Convention in 1835 with Dr. Robert Williams, his future father-in-law. One interesting fact of that convention was the vote of John Joyner and Robert Williams on whether Catholics could hold office. Robert Williams, an Episcopalian, voted for religious freedom; John Joyner, a Baptist then, voted for a restrictive policy. John and Clara had the following 10 known children: Henry, Benjamin, Henry, John, Martha, Elizabeth, Noah, James, John P., and George Joyner.

He md. second on Jan. 10, 1912 to Elizabeth Dwight Andrews (b. 1875-d. Asheville, NC Sept. 28, 1965). Ed had several close encounters with death. Before he was of school age, he fell into a boiling pot of dye and was terribly burned, suffering for three years in a "helpless condition". Six years later he slipped while walking a plank across a well and nearly drowned. During school one time he was trying to out do the other boys in a swinging contest. His hands slipped and he was knocked unconscious in his fall. While the boys were trying to decide who would tell his parents, Ed regained consciousness. At age 17, he joined Co. D, 13 Battalion, NC Light Artillery in Oct. 1864. On Jan. 15, the third day of the second Federal attack on Fort Fisher, Ed was shot, taking a minnie ball along the side of his skull. He was taken prisoner and sent to Point Lookout. He was freed on his 18th birthday and surprised his family four days later. They thought he must have died in the war. Ed returned to his education going to the Davis School in Louisburg, NC, Horner School in Oxford, NC, and Trinity College in Hartford, Conn. His eyes were weak from his wound, and he left school to clerk and teach. He started a school in "Hickory Tavern", became an Episcopal priest in 1873, as did three of his brothers, and served churches in both North and South Carolina. In South Carolina in 1892, Ed was in charge of the missionary work for all the Negroes. He published an Episcopal gave up law and turned to newspapering. He edited the Greenville Express and, also, operated a large plantation, the property of his wife. He was a writer for the Associated Press and served as correspondent for many papers from New York to Atlanta. He worked on the New York Times, The Atlanta Constitution, Raleigh News and Observer, and the Greensboro Daily News and Record. Andrew was interested in politics and influential in education. He reported legislative proceedings from Raleigh for 19 consecutive sessions. With J.Y. Joyner and Charles D. McIver, he helped to get the appropriation through the legislature for the establishment of the State Normal and Industrial College, now UNC at Greensboro. Later in life, he became a statistician for the State Fire Insurance Dept. and moved to Raleigh, NC. Andrew retired in 1933, and he and Alice moved to Rocky Mount, NC, where their three daughters lived. Andrew owned a pedigreed mare he named "Sally Joyner". She was noted for her speed and ugliness. On April 30, 1889, a one eyed negro man accidently drove her into an uncovered well, 30 ft. deep, on the Joyner plantation. She suffered horribly and died a few hours later and the well was filled up over her.

He later pursued a medical education at the Univ. of Va. but then the Civil War broke out. He then enlisted for war as a private in the 4th NC Battalion, where he was soon promoted to captain of the Seventh Confederate Calvary Company. He was noted for kindness to his men and bravery on the field. At the Battle of Petersburg his company alone remained on the field. He stood at their head cheering them on. Gen. Lee observing the bravery of this company rode up and asked what company it was, being told it was "Capt. Barrett's from North Carolina", Lee raised his hat and shouted "God Bless the North Carolina boys." At Blounts Creek, NC Gen. Pettigrew complimented Capt. Barrett for bravery, and ordered him to withdraw his almost starved men and take them out of danger as they had done their "field duty". At Croatan, NC he captured a company of Federal soldiers. His men were the first to dismount and stack arms in the fort. Barrett was later taken prisoner and carried to Fort Delaware where he remained for 8 months. After his release he returned to his farm in Pitt Co. Barrett took an active part in the politics of Pitt Co. and was a leader in his community. He twice represented Pitt Co. in the state legislature. After 1886 he retired from active public life, spending his last years with his family. A few years before his death he joined the Disciples Church at Farmville, NC.

APPENDIX

THANKSGIVING DAY BIG DAY WITH TYSON'S CHURCH

About 200 descendants of early Tyson settlers gathered in Pitt at Tyson's Church. It was appropriate that this spot should be chosen for the first gathering, this was in the midst of the Tyson settlement. More than 200 years ago much land was taken up by Cornelius Tyson and his holdings were several thousand acres. There the Tysons multiplied and making other settlements increased their holdings by thousands of acres. And sometime in those days a church was built on Tyson land and became known as Tyson Church. Records of the Kehukee Association show that there was a church near Contentnea Creek, admitted to the Association in 1793. Whether that was this church is not known, but when the church was built and organized dates beyond present remembrance and traditions of the Tysons. It is known that it was there long antedating the fifties and then known as a "free church", that is all denominations held services there. But there were bad church feelings and disputes and about 1854 the Disciples built Antioch Church (now in Farmville) and left Tyson's. Other denominations continued to occupy it a number of years. About 1870 deeds having been given for an acre of land, a little west and on the opposite side of the road, to the Methodists they built a church and left old Tyson's which since has become to be considered only as a Primitive Baptist Church. The present church was built in 1871.

Then here was an ideal spot for the gathering of the Tysons and their kith and kin. And it was a great day. With a bright autumn sun shedding its gentle warmth, the yellow falling leaves, and the old church built of native pine, unpainted, but showing few signs of decay, surrounded by forests, with these scores of Tyson blood about it, made a scene interesting and impressive. It was a reminder of days past with such large crowds attending the festivities here. But there was the striking change. The autos, unknown in those past times, was everywhere evident, with just enough of the horse and buggy to emphasize the contrast. And the old well of the old "oaken bucket" was a memory, for the modern pump gave drink to the thirsty. But it was the old Tyson's, the Tyson's as of yore with new generations risen up to call it "blessed" for its blessed memories and history. Many came many miles and from many counties.

G.T. Tyson, leader of the movement for the Tyson Reunions was master of ceremonies, Rev. W.M. Monees, of Wilson, a Primitive Baptist Minister, led with prayer following with a very appropriate short address. G.T. Tyson then made a talk on Tysons. He gave much information relative to the Tyson settlement and progress. Being an enthusiastic Tyson, he has studied their careers with great interest and just pride. Yet he is unable to trace an unbroken line or record from the first Cornelius. But it is tradition and undisputed that Cornelius was the original ancestor of the Tyson's about Tyson's Church and that Mr. Tyson is a direct descendant.

The name Moses has been a popular one and has been a stumbling block to the Tyson genealogy. The Tysons have been humble citizens, ever ready to answer any and every call to duty, serving in peace and war, where duty demanded. But they have never been so ambitious as to make sacrifices for ambition's sake. Therefore their descendants point with pride unmangled with boasting to the long and unsullied record of great and good citizenship. That citizenship that has been content to do its duty, caring not for the honors and ambitions which lured to other fields. He gave many illustrations of types of good citizenship which have ever been characteristic of the Tysons.

Then J.D. Cox gave his genealogy through his grandmother and also gave illustrations of the Tyson characteristics. He showed the Tysons as patriotic, good citizens, as shown by their works, as builders, makers and sustainers of that which best goes to make a country and that country great.

Then Henry T. King held up the Tyson record as worthy study and emulation. After a bountiful and splendid dinner-a Tyson dinner-was enjoyed. All departed with memories of a great day, a happy gathering and an interesting session, looking forward to this annual Thanksgiving reunion.

A SKETCH OF THE HOME LIFE OF DR. NOAH JOYNER AND WIFE, EMILY ADELAIDE WILLIAMS JOYNER

by Rev. Francis Joyner

Doctor Noah Joyner was born at Marlboro, Pitt County, North Carolina of John and Clara (at that time pronounced Clary and so written on her tombstone), daughter of Major Benjamin May on April 3, 1816. He was reared on the farm and educated in part in such schools as the neighborhood of that day provided and tutors hired to prepare him for college. He was the first man sent to college from that neighborhood and for that his father was expelled from the Old Baptist Church. Father did not know whether it was their aversion to education or to the Missionary Baptist College at Wake Forest where he went. The good old man continued his independent course and sent his other three sons, James, John, and George to the same college.

Father then went to the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia where he graduated in 1838 and began the practice of medicine in his home community.

In the early part of 1841, May 21, he married Emily Adelaide Williams, daughter of the late Dr. Robert Williams of near Falkland, Pitt County, N.C., a surgeon in the army of the Revolution. They soon moved to Leaksville in Rockingham County.

In 1850 they returned to Pitt County and settled in Greenville, but the urge for the tilling of the soil was too great, so they went back to the country on a farm my mother inherited from her father. Having learned to raise tobacco in Rockingham County, he cultivated in 1850 the first crop of that hateful weed ever raised in Pitt County, and no other crop, so far as I know, was raised there until 1888 or 9.

He had a large box of cigars made from that crop and sealed up to be opened at the first marriage of his children which occurred in January 1865, and then sealed up for the next and so on, until it reached me in 1879 and that was the last. I write the above to show that Father was a pioneer.

His father dying March 28, 1853, he inherited a large portion of the Marlboro estate, which being better for farming than that of my mothers, he took steps at once to build and prepare for farming on a large scale; his ambition seemed to be a large cotton farmer.

There was little cleared on it; most was in virgin pine forest and swamp. Part had been in cultivation and had grown up in pines and other growths. He set to work to clear that up and open a long branch running over a mile on one side of the farm and cut a 6 foot canal the whole length and prepared the branch for cultivation, which made fine corn.

In cutting the canal he found marl from four to seven feet under the soil and began at once to mine it out which was a wonderful help to the productiveness of the newly cleared land. That made him the first man in that section, and perhaps in the state to use marl for agricultural purposes. As long as he farmed he used it with field peas to enrich the soil and also in compost for general crops.

He had too, a long body of swamp that lay on the South side of the plantation, so his brother James, having inherited the upper portion of the estate on which was a large mill pond which covered land he thought would pay better in cultivation; the two together cut another canal over a mile long and eight wide that served to drain all of Uncle James' land, but was never worth anything to Father as the war of the sixties cut off his land clearing enterprise. However, he managed to get three hundred and fifty acres in cultivation and in 1861 made corn, wheat, hay, etc., for the family and farm use, but not enough, as for the first time in his experience he had to buy several barrels of port, over which my mother said she had to cry. It was a new thing in that day for a farmer to buy anything to eat or seed to plant but Father's necessity had outgrown the capacity of his own slaves so that he had to hire quite a number from the estates belonging to orphan children, hence the call for more meat.

The war came on in 1861 and he bent every effort for the support of the army and government, investing every spare dollar in government bonds and giving much of his time to public work. He was opposed to cessession and voted against it, but when war started his two eldest sons enlisted among the first, and he did all he could to sustain the cause.

The only sweetening we had was honey and sorghum so he made lots of that. To expedite the making of that he made a large evaporator of sheet iron bottom with white oak sides and ends, the first ever seen in our section. He made a number of them and took them to Morehead City to evaporate sea water and make salt. He made quite a good quantity, but before he could finish the Federal troops took New Bern and he lost his salt works, but managed to get through with several loads of the whitest, cleanest salt I had ever seen, which was a Godsend to the community and to the portion of the army nearby.

Though he raised 125 bales of cotton in 1861, he made little in the next four years and had only eight bales when the war closed in 1865. He had lots of food of every kind for man and beast that he used in helping the returned soldiers start anew.

Father was gifted with remarkable mechanical talent and could make anything he wanted of wood, iron or steel and was good as a brick mason. The nicest bedsteads in his home he made of maple and oak. He made shoes and taught me to make them and to do all kinds of work needed on the farm.

He was quite an architect and when the courthouse in Greenville was burned, he was employed to plan and superintend its building. The stairway was of such an unusual type that when the old building was torn down a few years ago and replaced by a more modern one, the stairway from the old was preserved and placed in the new.

I suppose too he was the first man who ever made a sheet iron stove and that was the child of necessity, as during the time when every foundry was used for war purposes, no new cast iron stoves were to be had and the one in the office occupied by Mr. Morrill was burned out. Father then took the tip and the bottom of the old stove, bent a piece of sheet to fit, using the old stove door and draft and fastened it all together with four small iron rods, running from top to bottom.

He was a most industrious man, never knew how to be idle. He was a good conversationalist and wrote well, but very timid in a public meeting, and the most modest man about his own accomplishments I ever knew. I never knew him to speak of any accomplishment he had, but he seemed to regard them as gifts from God to be used in an humble manner. While he had many inventive and mechanical attainments and had great success as a farmer and physician, the greatest gift was a meek and quiet spirit and a sincere consecration of body, heart and soul to the service the Master.

It is not only my opinion of his perfect consecration to the Lord; though I can say I lived with him for twenty-four years, never being away from him more than three weeks at any one time, I can truthfully say that in all those years I saw less to criticize in him than I could see in any other man in one month. Yet the testimony of two dying men fully sustain my opinion. I sat by one in his last hours and between gasps heard him tell me that at that hour he owed his hope of heaven to my father and his family, for there was the first place he ever saw religion lived every day and that he witnessed for nine months daily while he as a fifteen year old boy lived in our home and went to school with my older brothers and sisters. The Rev. Nathaniel Harding, Rector of St. Peters, Washington, N.C. said to me once, "Frank, your father was the best man I ever saw." I replied, "I thought your father-in-law was rated the best to be found." He said, "Dr. Joyner was a better man than Dr. Hughes." Again he told me he was called to the death bed of his cousin, William Patrick, who asked him if he had ever spent a night at Dr. Joyner's, and he said, "Yes." Then his cousin said, "I don't see how any man could ever spend the night there and not want to be a better man."

A few incidents will illustrate his forbearance and self control. Brother Richard was present at a meeting of the trustees of the Marlboro Academy when one of the members used insulting language and applied ugly epithets to Father. When his brother James rose to resent it Father said, "No, Brother, my church teaches me to pray for my enemies, persecutors and slanderers and I propose to live as I pray."

A short time after that I went with him to another meeting of the same board. I was present though perhaps not over six years old, and after the meeting, when we were in the buggy starting for home, another man hailed him and poured out some threatening abuse. The mare was very restless, and Father let her go and left him. His only remarks was, "Poor fellow, poor fellow." Years afterward when the same man got into trouble through high temper, Father said of him, "He is not really a bad man, but can't control his temper." I never knew him to condemn or criticize any person. The nearest to it he ever came was to warn me of dealing with a certain man. I failed to heed the warning and got bit twice.

Another instance of his self control occurred one morning while reading a chapter in the Bible at family prayers. The overseers were ever jealous of the privileges superannuated and the servants about the lot who perhaps feeling they were amenable only to "marster", they were a bit pert toward the overseers. This scene is ever bright in my memory. "Black Daddy" Nathan had little to do but wait on Aunt Dolly, the cook, and tend to the hogs, in which he took great pride, raising some hundred or more every year. The overseer we then had was especially annoying to "Daddy" and he was always raising some complaint against him, so on this particular morning, without knocking, hat on, with rifle in hand and pistol in outside breast pocket, he thrust himself though the door and exclaimed, "Doctor, come out here! I caught Nathan stealing corn." Without change of voice or expression, Father calmly said, "Very well, Mr. Baker, sit down until we are through prayers and I will attend to you." He sat down and that was the first time I ever remember seeing anyone sit during prayers. Upon investigation after breakfast no evidence of theft was found so "Daddy" was vindicated greatly to the relief of us all. That was never mentioned nor did I ever hear Father or Mother refer to any unpleasant incident.

"Daddy" told me that Mr. Baker sent for him in his last illness and asked for his forgiveness; which he gladly gave. He was the last overseer and Father placed Carrol, a very trusty man, at the head of the other slaves and matters went on smoothly until Carrol, with four other of the best men, took such a yearning for freedom that they fled to New Bern, where a strong force of the Federal enemy held forth.

Soon after, the war ended, and the soldiers came home to desolation and poverty. Those who came were but a remanent of the brave band who left, for there was hardly a home from which one, and sometimes two, had given their lives for the southern cause. Having planted a full crop for home and Army use, Father had much on hand he could not use, so he was able to supply food for several families. Most of those he lent to returned it in the fall. Many had no team and father lent them some extra ones he had on hand to make their crop; one of which died, one was stolen, and to our amusement another was brought home at 11 o'clock for dinner the morning the crop was finished.

During the war, many refugees from sections occupied by the Federals came to our neighborhood and it fell to Father's lot to furnish shelter and food for some. Many expressed deep gratitude. I especially remember a very fine young lady who came up from Washington and later became the wife of Dr. Richard H. Lewis of Raleigh. In after years, whenever I met her she was sure to mention her days of exile and express gratitude for kindness received, and her high regard for Father's christian character.

The life in his home was orderly, both in daily routine of service and religious duties. Father believed that to learn to work was a christian duty and so taught all the children and required certain duties of all. His word was law, but authority was exercised with discretion and gentleness. Reading of the Bible and prayers were the beginning of each day. Anyone absent from his place at the table when the blessing was asked meant he must wait until all were through before he could eat; and no one was expected to leave the house at night until evening prayer was said.

As I remember the lives of our parents, they realized that they were one, and I recall not a single instance of discord. Neither one objected to what the other said or did, and each one required that the wishes or orders of the other should be carried out. Thus it was but natural that my father's home should be considered a model one. And why not, when my cousin J.Y. Joyner could say at a conference of our clergy in Raleigh, where brother Edmund and I were present, there was no reason why there should not be four sons in the ministry with such a mother as we had. He told me later she was the most consecrated woman he ever saw, to which I agreed.

My uncle's wife, who was raised in sight of and was often in our home, said to me, "I don't see how any of your mother's children could do anything wrong." I replied, "Why not, we are all human." She said, "I know how you were raised." Even the slaves took notice of our training, for in October 1903 at a family reunion in Farmville where all the preachers were assembled for a week, two of the ex-slaves, one of Father's; and one of Uncle James' urged me to send one of our preachers there to preach to their people. One said, "You know we old folks are fixed, but I want my children and grandchildren taught like you were for I know how you all were brought up."

Mother was a firm believer in the "One Catholic and Apostolic Church," and the Bible and Prayer Book were her daily companions, and she read the lessons and psalter daily as set out in the lectionary. The prettiest mental picture I have of my mother is seeing her each day with the Bible and Prayer Book in her hand going to her private room for reading and prayer. Her habit was to go three times a day to that little room for prayer and meditation, and more often when the occasion required.

Two of those extra occasions come prominently to mind; one when I was about ten years old, I disobeyed her three times in succession, and being a loyal disciple of Solomon, she did not "spare the rod." The fourth time she took me in that little room and had me kneel down with her and she poured out the bitterness of her soul to God over her bad, disobedient child, begging for help to lead me right. I left that room humble and obedient. Another time was when she saw in the paper, "E.N. Joyner fractured cranium and prisoner," she dropped the paper beside her chair and hastened to her private sanctuary to commune with the Father in Heaven. Brother Ed told me when he was about to board a boat to make his escape he heard a voice saying, "You can't do that." He heeded the voice and thereby saved his life. He added that later he learned that at that very hour Mother was in her room praying for him.

Mother was a firm believer in the power of prayer. I never heard her telling any of us she wanted us to be ministers but the day brother Richard was ordained, Bishop Atkinson congratulated her in having a son in the ministry, she replied, "I am not satisfied yet, Bishop; I have six and I want them all there." He said, "Ah, madam, these boys will be bright jewels in your crown someday." Her ambition for six was fulfilled by sons-in-law entering the ministry.

The slaves looked on her as a "mother superior" rather than a mistress. She cared for them, not only physically, but was deeply concerned for their spiritual welfare, and every Sunday afternoon she had Sunday School. The infants were baptized and the marriage and burial services were used as in the Prayer Book. One of Father's slaves said, "Marse Eddie learnt me how to read and Miss Emily gave me a Prayer Book, and I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for it."

[The following article on the family of Joab Tyson and other family members was written by Grigg Thomas Tyson sometime in the 1890's.]

"YEA OLDEN TIMES FOR THE CONSTITUTION --

A way back 1818 or 19 my Grandsir Joab Tyson migrated to Twiggs County Ga., from what is now known as Beaver Dam Township in Pitt County, NC, (known to old people as Bryan Baker place). A Dauther (sic) of his hand married a worthless man Ross, and settled in Ga. A few prior to 1818 and wrote her father that while her husband failed to support her and family it was the best country under the sun. The old man began to book (sic) around to sell his farm and stock and to get waggins (sic) to convey his large family and household effects to the sunny forest of Ga., where he with the help of his children and slaves began to fell (sic) the wild forest.

Cotton was at this time beginding (sic) to some what boom. Whitney cotton gin invented 25 twenty five years before had set aside the old hand picking to sepperate (sic) the fiber from the seed. The price of cotton now fully instifyed (sic) its production. Soon all attention was turned to cotton and crowned her king. Hundred of family from the old North State flocked to the Eldorad. Among them was a great grand sire of mine Abraham Joyner a Primitive Baptist Minister and a revolution soldier who settled near Macon, Ga. Booms are all short lifed the price of cotton soon declined went so low in North Carolina in the forties that people nearly seased (sic) to plant it. It boomed again in the fifties and it became permanantly (sic) introduced throughout the Southern States. Disaster was sure to over take early settlers in a dog years the large of Joab Tyson was reduced to two or three. The children one by one passed over the river till nine from eleven was gone then the hardy old couple broke down with despair were laid to rest in the forest of their new homes.

The writer father John Tyson was the youngest of the children was at the age of twelve left an orphan in almost destitute circumstances. He returned to N.C. to live with a sister that had married in North Carolina at which place he remained untill (sic) he reached the age of twenty one. Thence returned to Ga. to get amt. due him from his father estate which was about $200.

While yong (sic) Tyson was an orphan in the good old State of Georgia. The Legisslature (sic) passed an act giving to each orphan a piece of the public lands 160 acres (if memory is correct) and under that most benevolent act a home stead was preserved for John J. Tyson. His being discourage at the death of his family, offered for sale this homestead that Ga. had so kinly (sic) given him. A sale was confirmed and he returned to North Carolina the land of his birth and purchised (sic) with the proceeds the old Family homestead near Farmville Pitt Co. NC the old home the writer loved so well. I will all ways have a kinly (sic) to Ga. for the home she gave my orphan father.

Joab Tyson had a son Oliver that survived him and was captain of the Malitia (sic) in Twiggs Co., Ga. in the twenties and fought againts (sic) the Creek indians his sword is still preserved and is the property (sic) of the writer. Many times while the writer was a lad has set and hear father relate his early days in Ga. would sit as still as a mouce (sic) when he was telling we children about the Indians he spoke of their rude costume their towns and their Wigwams. And that they would visit the homes of the whites to sell wild flowers and wild Indigo. He used to pay that when the Indians went on the war path all whitemen shouldered their guns and went to their country aid without notice from an officer.

There was no iron horse to take us over the mountains and puff along at 50 miles an hour no telegraph to send a messege (sic) to friends behind. The whold (sic) distance had to be performed on wagons carts or horse back and plod along the old Conty (sic) roads through mud dust and over rocks hills or mountains. Father used to speak of a place called Travler Rest where imigrants from NC would rest for a few days.

THE CONTENTNEA CREEK COUNTRY

The portion of Pitt county known as the Contentnea section was settled in the early part of the 18th century by people from tidewater Virginia. Among that colony of pioneers were the Mays, Bynums, Joyners, Tysons, Langs and Jeffersons. They located along the banks of Contentnea creek on both sides for many miles. They bought land from the Lord English proprietors in large tracts at one-half penny per acre. They found the country heavily timbered with the very finest kinds of virgin forest, hickory, pine, maple, ash, sycamore, gum, poplar and different kinds of oak. The streams were alive with many varieties of food fish, water fowls and small fur bearing animals. The forest was stocked with large and small wild animals and game from which they obtained their meat.

They cultivated enough land to raise Indian corn, beans and garden truck. Their wants were but few and were easily supplied. They lived a life of ease and plenty such as it was. They had their pastime and pleasures and amusements suited to their tastes and conditions with the same degree of enjoyment as their decendents do today.

As their population increased there was a demand for more progressive farming and manufacturing. They needed mechanics, such as black smiths, wheel rights, harness and saddle makers, carpenters, furniture makers to supply the increasing demand of the new settlers in the little colony of Virginians. Consequently more land had to be cultivated on which to raise corn for food and cotton for clothing.

From that date to the present time the same progressive spirit has existed among the descendents of the first settlers of the Contentnea country. They married, multiplied and populated this section with a strong, hardy, industrious and patriotic class of people. When the American revolution first fired the patriotic hearts of these people, they laid aside every tie of home and banded themselves together to fight for liberty. The "old men, the young men and the boys of Contentnea" were ready and willing to respond to any call in behalf of American independence.

Benjamin May, one of the most prominent of the colony was selected as chairman of the committee of safety. They had confidence in his loyalty to liberty and to his people and were willing to follow wherever he might direct or lead. He was honored with the colonial military rank of major, which followed him through a long honored and useful life.

A certain writer of the last century said that to write of the early history of Pitt county and not mention the names of Major Ben May of Contentnea, and Dr. Robert Williams, of Falkland, the article would be incomplete and would not reflect much credit to the author. This end of old Pitt can always produce the man or men for any emergency either as pioneers of the unexplored forest or soldiers on the battlefield, the orator on the rostrum, the minister of diplomacy or the farmer to till the soil.

This is strictly an agricultural section of country and is considered by all strangers who visit here to be one of the most beautiful farming sections in Eastern North Carolina. The farmers of Little Contentnea creek have long since been and are at present regarded as among the most progressive of any class of farmers in the adjoining counties. They reach out and grasp new ideas, as to the best methods of cultivating and improving their live stock by importing the best breeds. They raise almost everything they consume on their farms in the way of food for man and beast. They have always kept up the very private schools to educate their children. Four years of devastating war at its close left most of them without anything but land. They had to start anew. But they have been equal to the emergency, and have overcome what looked like an impossibility. Prosperity has been their reward for hard labor to many who returned to their homes broken in health, and ruined in purse, with nothing to start life with again but brave hearts and willing hands.

Among these brave Confederates, who returned from the cruel war, after serving his country with distinction, to his once happy and prosperous home was Dr. J.N. Bynum. He did not halt and wait for something to turn up. He went forth to turn something up, that he might feed his devoted wife and children. He went to work on his farm with his usual energy and continued to press forward until his energy was rewarded with affluence. He lives on his beautiful and well cultivated farm, "Level Lawn". He has fine live stock of registered breeds, his fowl yard is stocked with many varities of the finest fowls. In his orchards and vineyards are to be found many kinds of the most delicious plums, pears, peaches, apples and grapes. In addition to looking after all of the minute details of his farm he enjoys a large and lucrative practice. Dr. Bynum is the oldest practicing physician in Pitt county. The people of this section (Contentnea) have always been noted for their true and liberal hospitality, strangers always find a welcome within their doors.

TYSON NEIGHBORHOOD

In a flying trip through the "cotton belt" of Pitt county, we had occasion to stop a part of a day in the Tyson neighborhood, which is said to be in the centre of said belt. It would seem invidious to speak of the kindness, hospitality, or "push" or, indeed any other good quality of anyone of this most excellent and praiseworthy people, for all are of the same soil and appear to be on the road to peace, happiness and prosperity, and from the large clearings, good tillage, neat building, busy plows, rattling carts and hailering sons of Africa a passer would almost imagine himself in the midst of the famous Marlborough District, of South Carolina, which it so much resembles, or in one of the most prosperous cotton growing localities of the far South in ante-bellum days.

If we had the time and space a description of every farm from those of Mr. E.S. Parker and Squire Anderson (which are beautiful) for many miles beyond would be interesting, but we can only speak now of those we noticed particularly on the highway as we strode along through this neighborhood proper. Messrs R.A. Willoughby, Jas. C. Cobb, Jas. G. Sheppard, R.A. Tyson, Joab Tyson, H.A. Kittrell, Col. Sam'l V. Joyner and others whose names we failed to learn, live here. But these gentlemen are prominent and well known in all our neighboring towns, have large, beautiful and well cultivated farms, running from five to twenty plows each. We learn that every farmer here (they ignore the epithet of planter) has some acres, more or less, that will make a bale of cotton to the acre. Judging from the rapid studies in the way of breaking, composing, etc., all will be ready for early planting. This neighborhood, we had heard before, was composed entirely of "good livers," and it really occurs to us to be strictly true. One thing is sure--all work. Wealth, intelligence and industry are the predominant elements of this vicinity.

There are two beautiful churches here and the third, we learn, going up. Have been informed that good schools have been kept up almost continuously for the last 28 years, though just now there is a smaller number of children than has been at any time in the above named period.

Esquires Norman, Joyner and Anderson so well known for their probity and judicial knowledge, are all residents of this neighborhood, but we are told that most of their State cases come from with out their district. The colored population is remarkably well behaved, sober and industrious.

Mine host, a gentleman, intelligent and reliable, who knows whereof he speaks, informed me of one of the most prosperous firms in the county as being in his midst, of which he seemed to talk with pride. He said it was an ornament and blessing to the neighborhood. As a matter of local interest we give a synopsis of what he said without interviewing the parties concerned, hoping at the same time this most worthy example may not be without emulation in these days of distrust and financial oppression. The firm alluded to is J.C. Cobb & Son, eight miles from Greenville, on the Stantonsburg road. The senior of this firm is a man noted for his industry, frugality and caution, and above all, for his uncompromising integrity. About sixteen years ago he erected a little store on his farm in which he placed a small investment of the hard earnings of himself and boys, interesting therewith his sons, one at a time, each in his turn as he would become old enough to entertain practical ideas of business life and finish the little of scholastic advantages that he was able to apportion to him. Thus it was, with the old man's judgement and the young man's close application to business, that the younger would develop a fitness or qualification for business, after which he would receive a portion of the profits accrued, with which he would start in life for himself. This course has been steadily pursued until the last one of five sons has left the paternal roof, the sixth having died. Of these is Mr. Jas. H. Cobb, who is conducting a live mercantile business and farm at Ballard's X Roads, another, Mr. Lawrence A. Cobb, a prominent merchant at Bell's Ferry, with two others in Georgia and one at Norfolk--all live, energetic young men. Mr. Robt. J. remains with the old gentleman as junior partner of that large and reliable concern, J.C. Cobb & Son.

It is of Mr. Robt. J. Cobb now that we have to speak. It is said that he was always a very ready and willing helper on the farm, and perhaps on that account he enjoyed less scholastic privileges than some of the brothers, and in consequence of that same faithful, ready willingness in the store, with his development of business qualification, the old gentleman has long since thrown the whole responsibility in caring for and conducting the entire business upon him, that he is in reality the head of the firm. His quickness of perception, fine judgement, with close untiring devotion to business and extraordinary energy with great honesty, have wrought for him a success that accords to him a preeminence among country merchants. While he is extremely modest, he is very accessible and highly congenial, having the happy blending of business and social qualities that render him quite a favorite in his own large neighborhood sphere. It is said by those well qualified to decide that his business though large is perfectly healthful and its basis entirely solid. This firm has no creditors and its debtors are quite hopeful, and notwithstanding the three past years have been very hard with merchants as well as farmers, there has never been a period when this firm has been so strong as now. Their investments in real estate for the past two years have been enormous.

The whole secret of this firm's success has been fair, generous dealing and indomitable energy. What a record in this young self-made man. What an example for hundreds of others who are sitting with folded arms complaining of hard times and no one to help them.

It is energy and honesty that have made Robert J. Cobb. Try it boys. The same formula will make men again.

HISTORY OF TYSON'S
PRIMITIVE BAPTIST CHURCH AND ANTIOCH CHURCH

Tyson's Primitive Baptist Church is located a few miles east of Farmville, NC, near the town of Bell Arthur, Pitt County. According to tradition the church was built in 1796 by Sherrod Tyson. This information was said to have been written in the old church book, which has disappeared. This is incorrect since according to Sherrod Tyson's Bible record, he was born in 1785 and that would make him only 11 years old at the time the church was supposedly built.

Records of the Kehukee Baptist Association show that there was a church near Contentnea Creek, admitted to the Association in 1793. Whether that was Tyson's Church is not known, no deeds have been found to help identify the builder or correct building date.

From the records of Meadow Primitive Baptist Church in Greene County, NC, is found that about the year 1824, Elder Samuel Moore was dismissed with several brethren and sisters to constitute a church at Tyson's Meeting House in Pitt County. This congregation apparently didn't last because Tyson's Church was a "free church" before the 1850's and all denominations held services there. In November 1850, John P. Dunn of Lenoir County, NC, an outstanding evangelist of the Disciples of Christ, held a revival at Tyson's Meeting House, which resulted in 123 baptisms. The new Disciple congregation at Tyson's Meeting House was represented at the state meeting of Disciples in October, 1851, in Greene County, NC, by Josiah Barrett, Sherrod Tyson and S. Hines, Jr. Her delegates to the 1852 meeting were G.W. Barrett, T. King and A. Bynum.

In 1854, at the Disciples' state meeting, James W. May, Sherrod Belcher and W. Stancill represented the temperance group and reported a membership of 95, there having been one death during the year. This accounts for the 96 members which had broken off from Tyson's Church in 1853, but at the state meeting in 1854, it was not considered a new church, but was enrolled under the new name Antioch.

Tyson's Church appears to have again been used by different denominations for a number of years after the Civil War. Tyson's Church was occupied by the Methodist until about 1870, when a deed was given them for an acre of land across the road from the church. The Methodists built their own church on the land and occupied it until it was moved to Bell Arthur sometime later.

In 1871, Richard Lawrence Tyson, son of Sherrod Tyson, is said to have remodeled Tyson's Church into its present appearance; although others have said that is when the present church was built. If this is true, then the church building is not as old as many believe.

In the 1890's, Tyson's Church was again used by the Primitive Baptists, being on their local circuit of travel. The dwindling membership of Tyson's Church is found in the 1985 publication "Contentnea Primitive Baptist Association", which gives Tyson's Church as having 6 members. Since that time 3 members have died, including Joab Tyson, the last church clerk.

Tyson's Church still contains most of its original furnishings. In the 1970's, Conner Eagles obtained a number of pews from Tyson's Church and put them on display in a log church at his homestead and museum at the Pitt County fairgrounds in Greenville, NC.

HENRY T. KING'S PITT COUNTY MUSEUM

The following history concerns the historical collection of Pitt County memorabilia amassed by Henry T. King, publisher of the Greenville, NC, newspaper, King's Weekly, from 1895 to 1907.

Sometime after King began King's Weekly, he started collecting and accepting local relics and artifacts to display in his newspaper office. As early as May 1897, King advertised for confederate money valuing $500.00 and $1,000.00 to add to his display and was given a $1,000.00 confederate state bond in July from his aunt, Mrs. A.V. Newton.

In July 1897, I.L. Corey of Washington, NC, gave King a small, ordinary vest pocket comb, which he had carried throughout the Civil War and kept through his imprisonment at Point Lookout. In August, 1897, E.P. Fleming, a confederate veteran, presented King with a yankee hatchet he found sticking in the wilderness May 6, 1864.

In October 1897, Mrs. A.A. Joyner, a relative of King's, presented him with two interesting relics. One was a wooden table castor, once owned by Col. Samuel Vines, nearly 100 years old. The other relic was a spoon mould, nearly 150 years old, once the property of Isaac Cobb. The mould was of brass or copper, and every spoon moulded would be stamped I.C.

In December 1898, King wrote an article inventorying all the rare and valuable relics in his collection. They included the above plus the following: a revolutionary sword, a small leather covered trunk used during the Revolution and an original Eli Whitney hand cotton gin, all belonging to Major Benjamin May, local revolutionary war hero; a Revolutionary War and Civil War canteen; several swords of different ages, the oldest being of the French and Indian War of 1765; a common pewter plate about 200 years old; a slave whip made of rawhide; confederate swords, old books and Civil War documents; a Methodist hymn book date 1720; a belt taken from a yankee picket; a pipe made on the battlefield the day after the second battle of Manassas and many small and rare articles too numerous to mention.

King continued to collect items until the King's Weekly discontinued in the fall of 1907. In January 1908, King sold his newspaper equipment to J.R. Tyndall, president of the Industrial Christian College, at Orphan Heights, Greene County, NC, who intended to run a newspaper in connection with the school. Research has turned up nothing to what happened to King's collection of artifacts except it is believed many things were given back to their original owners.

In January 1901, Benjamin May IV of Kinston, NC, claimed back Major Benjamin May's sword and cotton gin. The sword has remained in the Benjamin May IV line being shown at a number of the Tyson-May Reunions, and the cotton gin has wound up at Archives and History in Raleigh, NC.

A HISTORY OF THE GREENVILLE AND RALEIGH PLANK ROAD

With the increased commerce and agricultural interests in North Carolina in the 1840's, interstate transportation became an increasing problem. The train was a relatively new and expensive mode of transportation and farmers and businessmen wanted a cheaper way to get their goods to market. The use of plank roads, which northern states had proved successful, began to be introduced in North Carolina as the answer to its transportation difficulties.

The Greenville and Raleigh Plank Road was a profitable venture, though shortlived. It followed roughly the same route as highway 264, the slanted Dickinson Avenue to 5 points, down Evans Street, the river being its terminus.

It was in the spring of 1850, that the Washington, NC, newspaper brought the issue of plank roads to the attention of the citizens of Beaufort and Pitt counties. On May 4, 1850, a meeting was held at Washington to endorse the idea of a plank road to Raleigh from some point on the Tar River and would support Pitt County if it decided to build one. On May 12, a meeting was held in Greenville, also endorsing the idea of a plank road from Greenville to Raleigh. They agreed that the plank road would increase the property value in Pitt County and they would give hearty aid to the project. At the end of the meeting they appointed a committee (Marshall Dickinson, R.F.J.H. Williams, Churchill Perkins, Willie Brown, E.C. Yellowley, Henry Stancill and Peter Hines) to obtain information concerning the construction of a plank road.

The businessmen in Washington, NC, pushed and got the Plank Road Incorporated by act of assembly on December 23, 1850. On January 1, 1851, they began to open books of subscription to the Greenville and Raleigh Plank Road Company, remaining open for 30 days at Washington, Wilson, Eagle Rock, Raleigh and Greenville. At Greenville it was under the direction of Goold Hoyt, Charles Green, Dr. Edward H. Goelet, William Bernard Sr. and Henry Bell. Individual share cost $25.00 and $2.00 had to be paid on each share upon subscribing. By February 5, 1851, the conditions of the charter were completed and a date was set for the first stockholders meeting.

The first meeting was held in Greenville on February 20, 1851, with Benjamin F. Hanks of Washington as chairman and John A. Selby of Greenville as secretary. F.B. Satterwaite of Pitt County reported that 30 shares were subscribed in Raleigh, 64 shares in Wilson, 1016 shares in Washington and 1329 in Greenville. This was about two-thirds of the whole amount required to build the entire road; Greenville alone taking $33,000.00 in stock. The first officers of the Company were Alfred Moye, president and Charles Green, treasurer, with Goold Hoyt as clerk. The directors were Joseph Potts, B.F. Havens, R.L. Myers of Beaufort County; Thomas Hanrahan, William Bernard Sr., F.B. Satterwaite of Pitt County; John W. Farmer of Edgecombe County and Thomas D. Hogg of Wake County.

At a meeting at Goold Hoyt's Hotel in Greenville after the stockholders meeting the directors chose Mason Loomis to be the head engineer and sent Benjamin F. Hanks to go to Baltimore to purchase the portable sawmills to saw the plank.

On April 5, 1851, Mason Loomis, the engineer, arrived in Greenville and began surveying. In a few days, grading for the road was started. The Company advertised to the local citizens that they were giving $12.50 per month for the use of the Negro men. By May, the Company had an office in Greenville and the 10 miles from Greenville to Tyers Bridge was progressing rapidly; the steam sawmills were due any day.

On August 20, 1851, the Company advertised for sealed proposals for grading and constructing the Plank Road from Tyers Bridge to Wilson (27 miles); also for bridging the Little Contentney, White Oak and Tolsnot Creeks. By mid September 1851, two miles of the road were completed and 10 miles from Greenville to Tyers Bridge were reported in operation, cutting at a rate of 9000 feet per day and another sawmill was going up. The plank cost the Company $450.00 per mile, delivered, and it was their intention to keep both mills running night and day.

The Company at this point contracted the road from Tyers Bridge to Wilson except three sections, with the Company furnishing only the plank; the road to be completed to Wilson by April 1, 1852. At a meeting of the directors of the Plank Road in October 1851, they decided to open new books of subscription to increase the Capitol Stock and by December they began to come down hard on delinquent stockholders, advertising that their stock would be sold if not paid by a certain date.

The second annual stockholders meeting was held in February 1852. The president, Alfred Moye, declined reelection and R.L. Myers was appointed for the ensuing year with William D. Moye as treasurer and John A. Selby as secretary. The new directors were Joseph Potts, B.F. Hanks, B.F. Havens of Washington; William Bernard, Alfred Moye, S.F. Johnson, B.G. Albritton, Dr. S.B. Evans of Pitt County and Dr. Watson of Wilson. They expected the 6 miles to Greenville to be placed under toll by March 10 and with the three steam sawmills in operations, expected the road to be finished to the railroad in Wilson by the end of the year.

By March 1, 1852, about 12 1/2 miles of Plank Road was completed and the road progressed until its completion to Wilson in March 1853. In February 1853, at the 3rd annual stockholders meeting, Alfred Moye was again elected president with John A. Selby as secretary and treasurer. The new directors were B.F. Hanks, Joseph Potts, B.F. Havens, William Bernard, E.H. Goelet, James S. Clark, B.T. May, Benjamin Bynum and W.B. Myers. In late March 1853, the Company offered for sale its three portable circular steam sawmills.

There were two villages that grew up on the Plank Road in Pitt County, Marlboro and Walshville. Walshville, now called Ballards Crossroads, was the home of John T. Walsh, who published the newspaper "Christian Friend" in Wilson.

The Plank Road seems to disappear from the records until May 1857, when the newspaper reported that the Greenville and Wilson Plank Road was rapidly decaying and doubted it would be kept up. In October 1857, J.J.B. Pender, mail contractor on the route between Greenville and Wilson, complained of high tolls and left the road, purchasing more horses to enable himself to run the stages over the County road.

On February 18, 1859, at the stockholders meeting in Greenville, the superintendent of the Plank Road reported it was in wretched condition, almost impassible and too expensive to maintain. The Company had $2,000.00 in a reserve fund and decided to sell the road at public auction and divide the assets among the stockholders. If they couldn't sell it legally, they would abandon it.

The road eventually disappeared only remembered in memory. In December 1889, the Plank Road in Greenville was named as Dickinson Avenue. In March 1908, when the city was having drain sewers put down on Evans Street preparatory to having the street paved with brick, workmen found a section of the Plank Road two feet down. The section they found was like a solid floor, the timers were thick and well preserved. It was so hard getting through these timbers that it was decided to put the drain sewer on the side of the street and not the center and recently a section of the Plank Road has been found in the vicinity of the nursery on 264 Bypass to Farmville.
