

Kleberg Tells of Page Kick-Back, Denies Firing

By BERT WISSMAN

Representative Kleberg (D.), of Texas, yesterday said that his office had accepted as a "kick-back" part of the $129-a-month salary of a 13-year-old Capitol page, but denied that he had been instrumental in discharging the boy.

The statement was made by the wealthy Texas ranch owner in answer to an affidavit by the youth's mother, Mrs. Ray Jackson, 300 block New Jersey Ave. SE., in which she charged that her son, Robert Jackson, had been fired three days after she had protested to Kleberg over the kick-back.

For Impossible Duties

"I now find," Kleberg said "that deductions were made in the salary (of Robert Jackson) that went to defray office expenditures for duties which he could not perform. This arrangement operated from the time of his employment on February 4, 1944."

The Texan emphasized that he had not fired the boy, and said that his office had "given instructions to no one to remove him from the pay roll."

"The boy was placed on the pay roll under my patronage by my late secretary, Bill Elliott, who died of a heart attack some weeks ago," Elliott, he added, "had my implicit faith and confidence and was in complete charge of the running of my office."

Didn't Know "Arrangement"

"I do not know what arrangements, if any, Bill Elliott made with this boy when he was placed on the pay roll."

He said he had been informed yesterday by Ralph Roberts, House doorkeeper, that the youth had been fired for failure to report for duty.

However, the statement was in contrast to what Roberts later told newspapermen. The youth, the doorkeeper said last night, is still on the pay roll but is due to be discharged for failure to report for work. He said that the Jackson boy had drawn his full pay for May on June 1.

As for Kleberg's statement that salary deductions were made for duties the boy could not perform, Roberts said, "A page's only official duties are his duties as a page, but if a Congressman wants to offer a boy a job with the understanding that he also is to work in his office, I have nothing to do with it."

No Severance Asked

He confirmed Kleberg's statement that the Congressman's office never has requested a severance for the youth, who is still attending the Capitol Pages' School.

Kleberg kept reporters waiting for more than two hours while he prepared his statement. After issuing it he refused to make any further comment. He was visibly irritated.

Meanwhile a pall of silence settled over the Capitol and attaches would not talk for the record, although some admitted it has been "common practice for years" for some patronage employees to aid their patrons. Some did extra office work while others sacrificed part of their salaries, it was said.

Hotel Operator Fined $500

George Basiliko, operator of the Logan Hotel at Logan Circle NW., yesterday was fined $500 in Municipal Court, after pleading guilty to charges of operating a disorderly house.

Basiliko was arrested after a raid on the hotel by 70 policemen September 1, 1942. There ensued a lengthy legal battle, with Charles E. Ford, Basiliko's attorney, charging the arrest made under a faulty warrant.

The case, dismissed by Judge Nathan D. Margold, was appealed by the Government, and the Municipal Court of Appeals decided in January 1944 that the warrants were sound.

Three Indicted In Payroll Fraud

DETROIT, June 5.—An indictment charging conspiracy to violate and direct violations of the War Frauds Act was returned today by the Federal grand jury of Detroit against three persons, two of them former officials of the Ford Motor Company.

Operations of the trio cost the Government between $25,000 and $50,000 in time-slip and payroll padding and "coercion" in the awarding of sub-contracts.

The indictment named Clifford C. Chrysler, 48, Dearborn, former official of the Ford Motor Company; Andrew Kalman, 25, and his brother, Joseph C. Kalman, 34, former assistant to Chrysler at Ford.

Cincinnati Man First in Honors At Annapolis

Special to the Times-Herald

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 5.—Richard Henry Engelmann, of Cincinnati, O., will be first "honor" man of the class of 914 midshipmen to be graduated from the Naval Academy at commencement ceremonies Wednesday. It was announced today by Rear-Admiral John R. Beardall, Academy Superintendent. Second honors will be taken by Paul Clapp, of Missoula, Mont., and third by William Henry Emetz, Philadelphia. The complete merit roll of the class is in course of preparation.

Engelmann, 21, was appointed to the Academy by Senator Taft, of Ohio, and prior to coming to Annapolis he attended University of Cincinnati, and prior to that Mount Healthy School of that city. He has been an outstanding student since his entrance to the Academy three years ago, and was the recipient of six prizes for academic achievements at the first of two regimental dress parades this afternoon, featuring pre-commencement exercises. He is a member of the Midshipmen's Choir, Mathematics and Model clubs, and copy editor of the Trident Magazine.

Wrestler in Second Place

Clapp, 20, took an active part in company wrestling, basket ball, and steeplechase, in which he won class numerals, and is a member of the Newman and Spanish clubs.

Emetz, 21, was a student at University of Pennsylvania, where he received training in the Officers Reserve Corps before coming to Annapolis. He was captain of the Navy tennis team which finished the late season with 13 victories and no defeats. He also is a member of the French, Boat, and Radio clubs.

Attend Garden Party

Announcement of the outstanding scholastic honors, presentation of some half hundred academic athletic prizes and a garden party in honor of the graduates, given by the Superintendent and Mrs. Beardall in the grounds about their residence in the Naval Reservation, were the highlights of today's activities.

The prizes won by Midshipman Engelmann, "honor" man, were: For standing at the head of his class—Veterans of Foreign Wars Prize ($100 bond), and Gardner L. Caskey Memorial Award (gold watch).

Class of 1871 sword, for excellence in practical and theoretic ordnance and gunnery. National Society, U. S. Daughters of 1812, prize (life membership in U. S. Naval Institute), for highest merit in electrical engineering. National Society, Daughters of Founders and Patriots, prize ($50 War Bond).

Walsh Prize, Too

Senator David I. Walsh prize ($75 in bonds), for highest standing for course in military law. George C. Boyle Jr., San Diego, Calif., was a triple prize winner. He was one of nine to receive a letter of commendation from Superintendent Beardall, for contributing most by officer-like qualities and positive character to the development of naval spirit and loyalty within the regiment. Regular Veterans Association prize ($50 War Bond), for designation as regimental commander in final selection of regimental officers; and a pair of marine binoculars for personal excellence in varsity athletics (he was captain of the track team and starred on the football team).

Another triple winner was Joseph M. Camp, Nokomis, Ala., who was awarded a commendatory letter, General Society of the Revolution cup for proficiency in practical ordnance and gunnery, and the Fleet Reserve Association prize ($50 War Bond) for highest standing in conduct and aptitude.

Verdict Binds Young Officer To Bride Who Can't Be Wife

By JAMES DESMOND

NEW YORK, June 5 (N. Y. News).—Sickness and misfortune are common to mankind and must be borne with courage and resignation.—Court of Appeals decision.

That was the only guide Supreme Court Justice Bernard L. Shientag had. His problem was to determine:

1. Whether a young naval officer bound to a cripple by a never-consummated civil marriage should be freed to wed another.

2. Or whether the bride won by her civil vows the right to her husband's undying care—even though she might never be a wife to him.

Never Consummated

The circumstances were extraordinary. The bridegroom's suit for annulment set forth that when the couple went through the civil ceremony in 1940, neither considered the vows binding. Both 24, then, they took the civil vows merely to bind their plighted troth.

The vows were never consummated. Two months later the bride, making arrangements for a religious ceremony, was crippled

D.F.C. Awarded To Lieut. Brown

Adding to his reputation as one of the foremost fighter pilots in the European theater, Lieut. Henry W. Brown, 21, son of Mrs. Addison W. Grant, 5000 block Twenty-fifth St., north, Arlington, now is credited with breaking up a German plane attack on an Allied air-drome.

For his bravery and daring in forcing the Germans to break off the fight, Lieutenant Brown, who has bagged a total of 16 Nazi planes, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the second highest award he can be given, according to word received here last night.

The McKinley High School graduate already holds the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf clusters and the Distinguished Service Medal. Ironically enough, Lieutenant Brown was refused permission to take part in high school athletics because of an arm injury which failed to heal properly.

Virginia Farm Crisis Increases

Maryland and Virginia farmers have increased their acreage 3 1/2 per cent over 1943, but must harvest crops with fewer hands than ever before, U. S. Agriculture Extension Service spokesmen pointed out yesterday in pleading for additional registration of volunteer harvesters from Washington.

"The big job has to be done by the people of Washington," District Supervisor of Emergency Farm Labor John W. Jones said. "The clerks, the typists, the secretaries, the teachers, the businessmen—all who will volunteer their help for the work that is to be done on the Maryland and Virginia farms."

From June through October, he said, crops of pears, peaches, apples, tomatoes, corn, hay, meat, tobacco and many other products must be cared for and harvested.

"Thousands are needed—boys over 14, girls over 15, men and women—to spend a few days, a week, or a month, in this essential work," Jones asserted.

Volunteers are urged to apply at once at the U. S. Employment Service office at Fifth and K Streets Northwest, or telephone Jones at DL 7000, extensions 377 or 378.

Now It's Share Car or Else

The Office of Price Administration last night ordered "B" and "C" motorists who have not formed car pools to organize a ride-sharing agreement within 30 days after expiration of their present ration or face loss of their gas ration books. An OPA order revealed that holders of "B" and "C" occupational rations have a one-month period in which to form a car-riding agreement after which local boards may move to take away their extra gasoline rations.

Nazis Put Down Pro-Red Revolt In Bulgaria

By SAM BREWER
ISTANBUL, Turkey, June 5 (C.T.P.S.).—The Germans have put down an attempted revolt led by certain pro-Russian generals in Bulgaria and now control Bulgaria more tightly than ever, but they know that they are sitting on a volcano.

Nine officers, including two generals, escaped to join the Russians, others managed to join Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz, and the rest implicated were arrested, but it is evident that the Germans no longer dare trust the Bulgarian Army.

Cabinet More Pro-Nazi
The cabinet, which finally was announced late Thursday night in Sofia after 12 days of fumbling, is much more pro-Nazi than its predecessor, but it does not represent the feeling of the country. That is proved by the fact that the country was virtually without a government for 12 days, while the Germans tried to find men who would consent to serve.

The Russians have been pressing the Bulgars, through diplomatic and propaganda channels, to desert the Germans before it is too late, and obviously, with the state of public feeling as shown by the cabinet crisis, if the Russians progress from diplomatic pressure to armed attack, they will find little opposition from the Bulgarians.

Plot Nipped in the Bud
The Russians have sent the wives and children of their diplomats in Sofia to Turkey and they say that some of the male members of the legation staff are following. That is the latest step in Russian pressure to convince the Bulgars that they mean business and will take drastic action unless the Bulgarians cease to give aid to Germany.

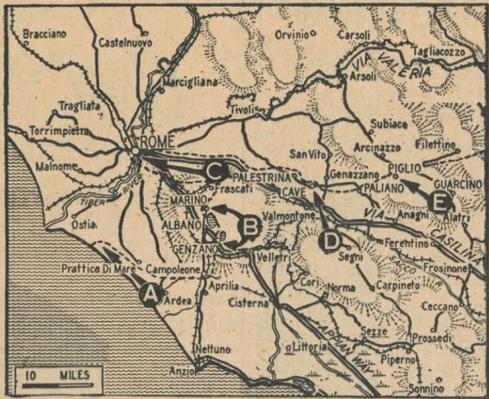

What is believed, but cannot be checked, is that all this ferment came about through an effort on the part of the Bulgarian army to stage a coup d'etat and force its surrender to the Russians. The effort by the Bulgarian military junta to save their country from being dragged down with the Nazis was nipped in the bud by the Nazis.

A.E.A.F. Planner Here Gets Invasion Post

LONDON, June 5 (U.P.).—The Air Ministry announced tonight the appointment of Air Comm. Stephen Charles Strafford to the post of chief of the operations and plans headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Air Force, and his elevation to the rank of air vice marshal. Strafford, 45, has been with the air staff planning section of A.E.A.F. headquarters since last November and previously was attached to the Air Ministry's staff and to the R.A.F. delegation in Washington.

UNRRA Fund Called Aid for Quick Peace

Acting Secretary of State Stettinius said yesterday that "military operations for the liberation of Europe may be unnecessarily prolonged" if Congress fails to provide the $800,000,000 requested for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration. Congress was asked for $450,000,000 in cash and for authorization to transfer $350,000,000 worth of lend-lease supplies and services to UNRRA if approved by military authorities, and if needed. The House on Saturday struck out the provision authorizing the lend-lease transfer.

Allies Pursue Retreating Nazis
While British troops on Allied left flank (A) swept to within six miles of the Tiber River, other Allied forces captured the Alban Hill towns of Genzano and Marino (B). Other Fifth Army units swept through Rome (C) in pursuit of retreating Germans. To the southeast, Cave and Palestrina (D), and Guarcino, Paliano and Piglio (E) were captured.

Jittery Nazis Inspect 'Wall'

LONDON, June 5 (U.P.).—The jittery German commanders on the "invasion front"—Field Marshal Gen. Karl Gerd von Rundstedt and Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel—each have just finished new inspection tours of the Channel coast, the German D.N.B. Agency disclosed today, and new repressive measures are being imposed by the nervous Nazis on inhabitants of the occupied countries.

The D.N.B. accounts followed the usual propaganda line that the commanders found the defenses impregnable, but the frequency of these inspections indicates that the German high command knows better.

The radio spokesman for Allied supreme headquarters, in the sixth of his broadcasts to inhabitants of the occupied countries giving operational instructions to prepare for the invasion, told his listeners to make a habit of listening at all hours. It would not always be possible, he said, to give advance notice of important instructions.

The British radio quoted an order of the day issued by the German command in Belgium and northern France setting up the death penalty for anyone leaving his work and not returning to it because of Allied air attacks.

Chinese Retake 3 Border Towns

CHUNGKING, June 5 (U.P.).—Counterattacking Chinese troops have recaptured several towns in the Hupeh-Hunan border area west of Lake Tungting, but on the eastern flank of the central China battle front the Japanese have driven to within less than 20 miles of their key objective of Changsha, it was announced tonight.

After hurling back repeated Japanese attempts to thrust westward across the Sungtze River, a tributary of the Yangtze, the Chinese passed to the counteroffensive on Saturday, recapturing Ansiang at the northwestern corner of Tungting Lake, 87 miles above Changsha. More than half of the enemy garrison was wiped out, and the Chinese continued to advance yesterday.

Other counterattacking units ousted the invaders from the important southern Hupeh town of Kungang in a drive northward along the Changteh-Shasi highway, and tonight were reported approaching Owchikow, Japanese stronghold on the south shore of the Yangtze.

To the south of Ansiang, the Chinese recaptured Yatze kang, in the outskirts of Hanshow, which is 20 miles southeast of Changteh.

U. S. Fliers Sink Jap Destroyer, Down 12 Planes

By JACK TURCOTT
SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, June 5 (Tuesday) (N. Y. News).—The tide of victory in Dutch New Guinea surged strongly in favor of the Allies on Sunday when General MacArthur's airmen sank one and probably sank another enemy destroyer and shot down 12 Japanese planes.

Meanwhile American troops pushed in three converging columns to a point north of Mokmer Village within two miles of Mokmer air field on Blak Island in spite of heavy enemy resistance.

The destroyers were hit in separate attacks Sunday morning. B-24 Liberators partolling Morotai Strait at the northern tip of Halmahera Island, 450 miles southwest of the Philippines, picked up a small Jap convoy.

Dive Through Fire
Divin' through an intense curtain of antiaircraft fire, they planted their bombs, sending one destroyed to the bottom immediately, and sinking, in addition, two merchant ships. A Jap bombing plane which approached too close was shot down.

The second destroyer, also escorting a small convoy, was encountered 50 miles to the northwest of Halmahera by a single Navy Catalina. The Catalina landed two direct hits on the vessel, causing terrific explosions, and stopping the ship dead in the water. She was settling as the Yank plane flew away.

Tanker Is Sunk
A couple of hours later low-diving A-20 Bostons attacked Jap shipping at Manokwari, sinking an enemy tanker and setting emense fires.

On Blak, the ground fighting turned in favor of the Americans. One column, advancing northward from Ride, outflanked Jap snipers, and reached the point north of Mokmer, where the other two columns, one following a ridge and the other a coastal roadway, advanced slowly.

Air battles occurred in the Blak fighting zone, where 42 Jap planes attempted to smash up our beachhead supplies.

'Forgive Me,' Begs British Girl Who Started 'Invasion' Rumor

Tearfully Tells U. S. She's 'Awfully Sorry'
LONDON, June 5.—Joan Ellis, 22-year-old teletype operator whose "practice flash" was blamed by the Associated Press for circulation Saturday of a false announcement that Allied invasion of France had begun, tonight asked America to "forgive me."

JOAN ELLIS "Awfully Sorry"

The slim, sad-faced English girl, on the verge of tears, was interviewed on the worn brownstone steps of a little middle-class late eighteenth century house in the Camden town district of North London.

"Please tell the American people how sorry I am for that false alarm," she said.

"Ask them please to forgive me. I didn't mean to do it."

"I was just practicing for invasion day," Miss Ellis said. "I knew they would want me to be quick with the message then."

"I thought if I typed it out on a machine beforehand I would not be so nervous about doing it when the real message came."

"I typed what I thought the message would read like."

"At the time I was operating a tele-printer machine. You punch out tape which has to be run through another machine before it goes through to New York. I had intended to tear the test message off the tape."

"The last thing I would have wanted to do was to upset the American people," Miss Ellis continued.

If Going To ATLANTIC CITY
TRAINS FORMERLY OPERATING FROM PHILADELPHIA STATIONS WILL NOW RUN FROM CAMDEN, N. J. VIA MARKET ST. WHARF (PHILADELPHIA)
Saturdays, Sundays, Holidays
June 17 through Sept. 16

Ordinarily, passengers from the South and West merely step from one train to another in Philadelphia for Atlantic City and other South Jersey Seashore Resorts.
Now, however, because of the war, there is only a limited number of coaches for use between Philadelphia and South Jersey shore points. Therefore, to utilize available equipment to the fullest possible extent, it becomes necessary to concentrate train service on the shorter route from Camden, N. J. (via Market St. Wharf, Philadelphia) to Atlantic City and the other seashore points on Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays from June 17 through Sept. 16, 1944. In this way cars and locomotives will perform a THIRD MORE SERVICE, because the run is nearly a half-hour quicker.
From Monday to Friday (holidays excepted), the customary service to seashore points from Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, will be operated. Time tables will be re-issued, effective June 17.
HOW TO REACH MARKET STREET WHARF (Camden Terminal)
Out-of-town visitors to Atlantic City and other Southern New Jersey shore resorts will find adequate transfer service from Broad Street Station or Pennsylvania Station (30th St.), Philadelphia, to the ferries at the foot of Market Street for Camden Terminal, either by trolley cars, subway-elevated trains or taxi at prevailing rates. Ticket sellers and information clerks can give you details.

AMG Faces Test In Ruling Unique City of Rome

By SEYMOUR KORMAN

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ROME, Italy, June 5 (C.T.P.S.). The Allied Military Government (A.M.G.) faced its biggest test as we took over Rome today.

In addition to preventing the operation of the black market, which has been a scandal in Naples, and in addition to all the other details in taking over a city long held by the enemy, the AMG, beginning today, must deal with such things unique to Rome as relations with the Vatican, questions of extraterritoriality and positions of diplomats accredited to Italy by countries at war with the Allies.

Berlin Will Be Easier

Certainly no other European capital to which AMG ultimately comes—even Berlin—will there be so many involvements. Whether AMG has profited from its mistakes of the past remains to be seen in its workings here.

Now, a few hours after we reached the city, a liaison group from AMG including American and British chaplains, was assigned to confer with Papal authorities and Harold Tittman, respectively American and British ministers resident at the Vatican. The Vatican is being recognized as a neutral city and is being protected as such and is being afforded whatever consideration it seeks. Guards will not be placed there unless a Papal request is made for them.

Extraterritoriality of Vatican properties in Rome proper and of friendly nationals' embassies also are being observed.

The "mayor" of Rome today is Brig. Gen. Edgar Erskine Hume, of Frankfort, Ky., who is head of AMG in this area. His chief of staff is Lieut. Col. John D. Ames, publisher of the Chicago Journal of Commerce. Hume and his staff of officers and enlisted men handle the civil administration under Maj. Gen. Harry H. Johnson, of Eagle Lake, Texas, who is the Rome area commander and responsible to Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark, Work of restoring Rome to normalcy is an AMG undertaking.

Food for the People

Quantities of food, mostly flour, dehydrated soups, sugar, milk, are being brought in on Army trucks for distribution. The Germans did not leave much food behind.

Hume said it was not possible yet to estimate the present population of Rome but the figure could reach 2,000,000, this including refugees.

Providing sufficient food, of course, is the best way to smash the black market. The other method, which will be used, will be price fixing of necessities such as food and clothing, but there will be no control on luxuries.

Also Rome will be out of bounds for Allied military personnel except those given passes for specific errands, and if there is no great influx of soldiers' money, prices may be kept down.

Measures are being taken at once to prevent the spread of disease and at this moment there is no threat of an epidemic of any sort.

AMG is bringing in many carabinieri from Southern Italy and 300 finance guards for duty at the mints and banks. Some of the Rome metropolitan police remain and will be put to work after their credentials are checked.

More than 100 firemen with their apparatus from Southern Italy are coming in with AMG.

Stolen Property Regained

The Fascists had confiscated or sequestered much Allied property and this now is being taken back and returned to the rightful owners as soon as possible.

Priceless paintings, sculptures and other glories of Rome, which the Germans did not carry away, are being carefully guarded. The premises where these are situated have been placed out of bounds to all, but later will open to conducted parties. Looting or defacing will be heavily punished.

Engineers are inspecting reservoirs and electric power plants to determine what repairs are necessary. Rome is dependent for much of its electric power from the south and these lines were placed in working order along the way as our forces moved up the peninsula.

Allied military currency will be used as needed and the same exchange rate as below Rome—100 lire to the dollar—will prevail. Rome banks will be reopened as soon as possible and so will the

Grateful Romans Share Dinner With Americans

Red Fliers Raid Chisinau Rails

LONDON, June 5 (U.P.).—Red Army forces turned back strong German infantry and tank attacks northwest and north of Iasi, Romania, today for the seventh successive day, while Russian warplanes joined the battle by bombing the nearby Bessarabia rail junction of Chisinau (Kishinev) last night.

Moscow announced that in Sunday's fighting in the Iasi area the Russians destroyed 41 German tanks and shot down 33 planes.

Moscow announced that there were no changes on other sectors of the eastern front and that on all fronts Sunday a total of 39 German planes were shot down.

The bulletin announced that Soviet airplanes had staged a mass attack on Chisinau, 55 miles east of Iasi, on Sunday. They set a dozen fires and explosions among military trains in the station and war material post offices.

AMG is setting up courts to try Italian civilians who may be accused of crimes against Allied troops or property, but soldiers will not be tried before these tribunals.

Hume asserted his organization would not be involved in politics. Rome at present, he said, is being regarded as a city, not the capital of Italy, Sorrento being recognized as the capital.

Stilwell's Men Ring Kamaing, Take More of Myitkyina

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, June 5 (U.P.).—Chinese and American troops in northern Burma have scored new gains in the battle for Myitkyina and closed a ring of encirclement around the Japanese base of Kamaing.

Meanwhile, on the Manipur front in India British Imperial forces drove the enemy from three hills and a strategic village near Kohima, official reports said today.

Punching their way through powerful prepared positions, Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's American and Chinese jungle fighters advanced 200 yards from the southeast of Myitkyina and gained 100 yards in the western outskirts, the Southeast Asia Command announced, while "severe fighting" continued in the southern part of the city. United Press War Correspondent Frank Hewlett reported from Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters that Allied casualties were "not light." Five miles southeast of Myitkyina, air-borne Chindits who had cut the last enemy escape route by establishing a road block east of the Irrawaddy were pressing their attacks on the village of Waingmaw.

Stilwell's main forces had pushed down the Mogaung Valley road to within nine miles north of Kamaing, but other Chinese troops had outflanked the Japanese defenders and established a block near Pakren Bum, only six miles north of Kamaing. Late front dispatches reported the Allied capture of Tumbongka, nine airplane miles southeast of Kamaing.

The fighting in the northern sector of the Manipur front, meanwhile, reached a new phase yesterday when the Japanese were forced to withdraw from Naga village, one mile north of Kohima, after receiving "a terrific thrashing" by Punjabis and Gurkhas.

Loss of Rome Proves 'Painful' To Mussolini

By ROBERT DOWSON

LONDON, June 5 (U.P.).—Axis propaganda admitted today that the loss of Rome was a serious blow, but tried to salvage something from the defeat by claiming that the city was evacuated to spare its cultural treasures.

Benito Mussolini, from his "Italian Socialist Republic" in northern Italy, said the loss of Rome was "painful" and that he did not intend to "belittle the scope of this event." A German broadcast said "a certain loss of prestige is not denied" and a Nazi-controlled news service dispatch to Stockholm said the fall of Rome opened new strategic possibilities for the Allies.

Japs Praise Germans

A Japanese government spokesman, following the Nazi propaganda line, said the German decision to spare Rome met with the greatest sympathy in Japan and that "the decency of the German attitude is like a fresh breath in a sticky atmosphere."

The German D.N.B. news agency said Mussolini issued a proclamation to his "brothers in Southern Italy" calling upon them to wage guerrilla warfare against the Allies and to "make life for the invaders increasing hard and insecure."

"The Anglo-American invaders, to whom the mean betrayal of the monarchy in Sicily and Salerno opened the gates of the motherland, have entered Rome," Il Duce's proclamation said.

'Painful' Situation

"This news will cause you the gravest anxiety, just as it is painful to everyone of us," he continued, adding that he did not intend to minimize the significance of the Allied victory nor to emphasize the length of the delaying stand made by the Germans below Rome.

Mussolini insisted, however, that the Germans could have defended Rome successfully, but refused to do so out of consideration for the cultural and religious monuments of the city and to spare its inhabitants from further suffering.

dirty with their buildings smashed and their people living a squalid existence in ragged clothes.

The balcony of Palazzo Venezia from which Benito Mussolini started the world on the road to war nine years ago was empty. An Italian flag fluttered forlornly above it.

In the square below, where Italians once gathered to cheer "Duce! Duce!" American trucks and tanks and foot-soldiers moved in unending streams.

Two G.I.'s climbed up to the marble balcony and made a speech mimicking the jutting chin of the fallen dictator Benito Mussolini.

This was completed a cycle in history.

A Great Joke on Duce

The G. I.'s were standing on the same spot where, on October 2, 1935, Mussolini declared war on Ethiopia, saying

KAY SHEEN, attractive young singer, says, "The men who wear Adam Hats stand head and shoulders above the crowd."

Smart Adam Straws and Panamas styled for cool comfort are priced up to $7.50.

"I shall do everything in my power to prevent a colonial struggle from taking on the aspect and weight of a European war."

On June 10, 1940, declaring war on France and Britain, he said: "We will conquer in a new order."

On December 11, 1941, declaring war on the United States, he said: "I say to you that it is a privilege to fight" with the Japanese.

A cheering crowd of Italian men, women, and children stood below the American soldiers on the world-famed balcony today. They didn't understand a word. But they laughed and cheered and waved flags.

It was a great joke on Il Duce.

DON'T GET A LOAN until you do this

BEFORE you get a loan, try to solve your money problem without borrowing. See if you can't squeeze through by trimming your expenses or by making the things you now have last you longer. If you do get a loan, the wise plan is to borrow no more than you really need—and to pay your loan back as rapidly as possible to reduce the cost.

Household Finance makes salary, car and furniture loans to men and women for constructive purposes. You may borrow $50 to $300 quickly, privately and without endorsers. The wide choice of payment plans gives you an opportunity to repay on a monthly schedule that fits your own earnings and situation. Notice that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs.

Borrow for less

Payments shown repay loans in full and include charges at Household's rate of 2% per month on the unpaid balance. The Maryland Small Loan Law authorizes a maximum charge of 3% per month. If a loan will help you to better yourself, phone or visit Household Finance.

Text of Roosevelt's Radio Address on Capture of Rome

'Victory Still Some Distance Ahead,' President Warns, as He Hails Triumph

The text of President Roosevelt's broadcast to the nation last night on the occupation of Rome follows:

Yesterday, June fourth, 1944, Rome fell to American and Allied troops. The first of the Axis capitals is now in our hands. One up and two to go! It is perhaps significant that the first of these capitals to fall should have the longest history of all of them. The story of Rome goes back to the time of the foundations of our civilization. We can still see there monuments of the time when Rome and the Romans controlled the whole of the then known world. That, too, is significant, for the United Nations are determined that in the future no one city and no one race will be able to control the whole of the world.

Rome Also Provides Christian Symbols

In addition to the monuments of the older times, we also see in Rome the great symbol of Christianity, which has reached into almost every part of the world. There are other shrines and other churches in many places, but the churches and shrines of Rome are visible symbols of the faith and determination of the early saints and martyrs that Christianity should live and become universal. And tonight it will be a source of deep satisfaction that the freedom of the Pope and of Vatican City is assured by the armies of the United Nations.

It is also significant that Rome has been liberated by the armed forces of many nations. The American and British armies—who bore the chief burdens of battle—found at their sides our own North American neighbors, the gallant Canadians, the fighting New Zealanders from the far South Pacific, the courageous French Moroccans, the South Africans, the Poles and the East Indians—all of them fought with us on the bloody approaches to the city of Rome.

The Italians, too forswearing a partnership in the Axis which they never desired, have sent their troops to join us in our battles against the German trespassers on their soil.

Allied Skill Forced Germans Into Flight

The prospect of the liberation of Rome meant enough to Hitler and his generals to induce them to fight desperately at great cost of men and materials and with great sacrifice to their crumbling eastern line and to their western front. No thanks are due to them if Rome was spared the devastation which the Germans wreaked on Naples and other Italian cities. The Allied generals maneuvered so skillfully that the Nazis could only have stayed long enough to damage Rome at the risk of losing their armies.

But Rome is of course more than a military objective.

Ever since before the days of the Caesars, Rome has stood as a symbol of authority. Rome was the Republic. Rome was the Empire. Rome was and is, in a sense, the Catholic Church, and Rome was the capital of a united Italy. Unfortunately, a quarter of a century ago, Rome became the seat of fascism—and still later one of the three capitals of the Axis.

For a quarter century the Italian people were enslaved and degraded by the rule of Mussolini from Rome. They will mark its liberation with deep emotion. In the north of Italy, the people are still dominated and threatened by the Nazi overlords and their Fascist puppets. Somehow, in the back of my head, I still remember a name—Mussolini.

Our victory comes at an excellent time, while our Allied forces are poised for another strike at Western Europe—and while armies of other Nazi soldiers nervously await our assault. And our gallant Russian allies continue to make their power felt more and more.

Main Objectives Already Achieved

From a strictly military standpoint, we had long ago accomplished certain of the main objectives of our Italian campaign—the control of the major islands, the control of the sea lanes of the Mediterranean to shorten our combat and supply lines, and the capture of the airports of Foggia from which we have struck telling blows on the Continent, the whole of the Continent, all the way to the Russian front.

It would be unwise to inflate in our own minds the military importance of the capture of Rome. We shall have to push through a long period of greater effort and fiercer fighting before we get into Germany itself. The Germans have retreated thousands of miles, all the way from the gates of Cairo, through Libya and Tunisia and Sicily and southern Italy. They have suffered heavy losses, but not great enough yet to cause collapse.

Germany has not yet been driven to surrender. Germany has not yet been driven to the point where she will be unable to recommence world conquest a generation hence.

Therefore, the victory still lies some distance ahead. That distance will be covered in due time—have no fear of that. But it will be tough and it will be costly, as I have told you many, many times.

Italian Economics Steadily Grow Worse

In Italy the people had lived so long under the corrupt rule of Mussolini that, in spite of the tinsel at the top—you have seen pictures of them—their economic condition had grown steadily worse. Our troops have found starvation, malnutrition, disease, a deteriorating education and lowered public health—all by-products of the Fascist misrule.

The task of the Allies in occupation has been stupendous. We have had to start at the very bottom, assisting local governments to reform on democratic lines. We have had to give them bread to replace that which was stolen out of their mouths by the Germans. We have had to make it possible for the Italians to raise and use their own local crops. We have to help them cleanse their schools of Fascist trappings.

I think the American people as a whole approve the salvage of these human beings, who are only now learning to walk in a new atmosphere of freedom.

Some of us may let our thoughts run to the financial cost of it. Essentially it is what we can call a form of relief. At the same time we hope that this relief will be an investment for the future—an investment that will pay dividends by eliminating fascism and ending any Italian desires to start another war of aggression in the future, and that means they are additional supports for world peace.

Italians Are Capable Of Self-Government

The Italian people are capable of self-government. We do not lose sight of their virtues as a peace-loving nation.

We remember the many centuries in which the Italians were leaders in the arts and sciences, enriching the lives of all mankind.

We remember the great sons of the Italian people—Galileo and Marconi, Michelangelo and Dante—and, incidentally, that fearless discoverer who typifies the courage of Italy—Christopher Columbus.

Italy cannot grow in stature by seeking to build up a great militaristic empire. Italians have been overcrowded within their own territories, but they do not need to try to conquer the lands of other peoples in order to find the breath of life. Other peoples may not want to be conquered.

In the past, Italians have come by the millions to the United States. They have been welcomed, they have prospered, they have become good citizens, community and governmental leaders. They are not Italian-Americans. They are Americans—Americans of Italian descent.

Italians Have Helped Make Other Worlds

Italians have gone in great numbers to the other Americas—Brazil and the Argentine, for example—hundreds and hundreds of thousands of them—and to many other nations in every continent of the world, giving of their industry and their talents, and achieving success and the comfort of good living and good citizenship.

Italy should go on as a great mother nation, contributing to the culture and progress and good will of all mankind—and developing her special talents in the arts, crafts, and sciences, and preserving her historic and cultural heritage for the benefit of all peoples.

We want and expect the help of the future Italy toward lasting peace. All the other nations opposed to fascism and nazism ought to help to give Italy a chance.

The Germans, after years of domination in Rome, left the people in the Eternal City on the verge of starvation. We and the British will do, and are doing, everything we can to bring them relief. Anticipating the fall of Rome, we made preparations to ship food supplies to the city, but, of course, it should be borne in mind that the needs are so great and the transportation requirements of our armies so heavy that improvement must be gradual. We have already begun to save the lives of the men, women and children of Rome.

This, I think, is an example of the efficiency of your machinery of war. The magnificent ability and energy of the American people in growing the crops, building the merchant ships, making and collecting the cargoes, getting the supplies over thousands of miles of water and thinking ahead to meet emergencies—all this spells, I think, an amazing efficiency on the part of our armed forces, all the various agencies working with them, and American industry and labor as a whole.

Battling Average Is Very High

No great effort like this can be a hundred per cent perfect, but the battling average is very, very high.

And so, I extend the congratulations and thanks tonight to the American people to General Alexander, who has been in command of the whole Italian operation; to General Clark and General Leese of the Fifth and the Eighth armies; to General Wilson, the Supreme Allied Commander of the Mediterranean theater, and General Devers, his American deputy; to Lieutenant General Eaker, to Admirals Cunningham and Hewitt, and to all their brave officers and men.

May God bless them and watch over them and over all of our gallant fighting men.

Girl Indicted In Slaying of Maryland Youth

A love slaying and the purchase of a stolen set of teeth were charged in 39 indictments returned by a District Grand Jury today.

The Grand Jury ignored 10 other indictments which were sought.

Named in a second-degree murder indictment was 18-year-old Phyllis Marie Junghans, who shot and killed Lewis R. Hindle, 21, of T.B., Md., in her apartment in the 1600 block K St. NE.

The girl, previously divorced from a sailor she married when she was 16, had been going with Hindle four months when she shot him, police said. The girl is represented by Charles E. Ford.

Purchase of the illegally obtained lower plate was charged to Joseph F. Briggs, Negro, 20, of Aberdeen, N. C. The teeth were stolen by a juvenile from Ida N. Washington, 1000 1/2 block P St. NW, police asserted.

Sidney and Samuel Kalker, operators of Witt and Co., Inc., were charged with violating the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act by offering, on December 17, 1943, for interstate transportation 29.04 pounds of "filthy, putrid and decomposed beef."

The meat was accepted by the Schultz Refrigerated Service, Inc., of Philadelphia, for shipment to Sol Greisler and Sons there, the indictment stated. The Schultz firm was indicted for violating the pure food laws on two counts and its operators face a maximum penalty of three years' imprisonment and $11,000 in fines.

Robert Waverly Hicks, 39, former District employe and self-styled "criminologist" who aided in investigations of the murder of Corinna Loring in 1935 and the Lindbergh kidnaping, was indicted on a charge of stealing Federal records from Civil Service Commission files.

Hicks was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on the strength of a report by a District policeman, who said he found the amateur detective emerging from a house in the 1500 block Vermont Ave. NW, with the missing records.

Bratcher's New Attorney May Question Court Power

Leslie C. Garnett, former U. S. Attorney for the District, was added to counsel defending Orchestra Leader Everett "Washie" Bratcher on charges of draft evasion in Alexandria yesterday and promptly announced he might question the jurisdiction of the Federal Court sitting in Virginia.

Garnett's attachment to Bratcher's defense was disclosed as the grand jury returned indictments before Federal District Court for Eastern Virginia against the musician and 17 others for alleged violation of the Selective Service Act.

After receiving the indictments, Judge Robert N. Pollard gave attorneys for both sides in the Bratcher case until June 19 to file motions.

Garnett, who will assist Attorney T. Edward O'Connell in defending Bratcher, indicated the challenge of the court's territorial jurisdiction might be based on the fact that Fort Myer's southern post is on "made ground not originally within boundaries of Virginia."

It was at this post of the military reservation that Bratcher was examined for military service several months ago, turned down, and subsequently accused of taking benzedrine in an effort to evade induction.

His attorneys at the time vigorously but unsuccessfully fought removal of the case from Washington to Alexandria, contending that the entire case against the swing-band leader was based on "hearsay evidence."

Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, of District Court here, however, denied Bratcher's plea for a writ of habeas corpus, and he subsequently was released under $1,000 bond by U. S. Commissioner Stanley King in Alexandria.

Kimmel-Short Row Flares in Both Houses

by Senator Ferguson (R.), of Michigan, for "exactly the opposite purpose of covering up anything."

Hatch added that both Kimmel and Short had signed agreements to waive immunity from court-martial under the statute, but the extension now proposed would apply to all persons, civil and military.

Cites Clark's Visit

"All evidence in the Pearl Harbor affair will be cold by the time those responsible can be tried," Clark insisted. "The claim that the trials might interfere with the war effort is plain hokum. High Army and Navy officials are coming to Washington from all theaters all the time without interfering with the war," Clark said, citing the recent visit of Gen. Mark Clark from Italy.

Senator Taft questioned the advisability of Congress passing any measure pertaining to investigations of extensions of the statute of limitations in connection with the Pearl Harbor catastrophe.

"I see no reason to pass anything at all or assuming the responsibility of relieving the executive branch of the Government of its responsibility which it has so signally failed to meet in the matter of Pearl Harbor," Taft said.

Senator Ferguson (R.), of Michigan, author of the resolution, urged its passage.

"If Congress takes no action at all it is almost a certainty that no action will be taken elsewhere," Ferguson declared.

Calls for Immediate Probe

The resolution instructs the Secretaries of War and Navy to institute "forthwith" investigations into factors contributing to the Pearl Harbor tragedy and to bring charges and proceed with action against such persons as the evidence justifies at their discretion.

"Until the day before the resolution was considered by the Senate Judiciary subcommittee," Ferguson said, "the War Department had taken no steps to compile evidence although two and a half years had passed since the catastrophe."

Senator Hatch said that the Army, Navy and Attorney General had held that congressional limitation to extend the statute of limitations was unnecessary as both Kimmel and Short had waived immunity.

"There has been no attempt by anyone to hush up the investigations or delay the trials," Hatch said. "We have gone into the matter thoroughly in committee and it was generally agreed that it would be a grave mistake to have a public hearing at this time."

Senator Clark asked Hatch if he thought the Japanese did not already know all there was to know about the attack on Pearl Harbor. "The only people in the dark on that are the American people," Clark said.

Too Late, Says Chandler

Senator Chandler (D.), of Kentucky, entered the debate with the assertion that if the waivers signed by Kimmel and Short were not sufficient to insure future trials, "it is too late for Congress to do anything."

He explained the statute of limitations ran for two years after the Pearl Harbor attack and although Congress had voted to extend it on December 7, 1943, the President had not signed the measure until December 20.

"The President appointed a special commission (headed by Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Owen J. Roberts) to investigate and it may be the Army and Navy construed this action as taking the matter out of their hands."

"We were not ready at Pearl Harbor. I'd hate to see the American people find two scapegoats to take the blame. I do not believe Admiral Kimmel has done anything wrong," said the Kentuckian. "He has been in the Navy for 40 years and has risen to the highest rank. He must now stand on the sidelines and must bear the burden of suspicion until this matter is cleared up."

Sees Army-Navy Battle

"So far there are no charges made against Admiral Kimmel or General Short. It may be that the Army's investigation will show the Navy to blame and the Navy investigation show the Army to blame. We would then have the Army and Navy fighting each other instead of fighting to win the war," Chandler added.

Senator Ferguson said that no persons other than Kimmel and Short had been required to sign waivers of immunity under the statute of limitations.

"This is not an ordinary situation," he reminded. "These two officers have their lips sealed by Army and Navy regulations, and are not able to disclose the truth."

"When the Roberts Commission made its investigation and reported on Pearl Harbor... it did not have the facts disclosed by the publication of the State Department's white paper (concerning U. S.-Japanese diplomatic relations up to December 7, 1941)."

"Whether higher-ups were responsible should be determined," Ferguson said. "We should determine who is guilty, if anyone." Ferguson suggested that the Senate could review the evidence uncovered by the Army and Navy investigations "at executive session, if necessary. We could see that all departments of Government give their full co-operation in getting all of the evidence. The evidence should be perpetuated."

Senator Johnson (D.), of Colorado, reminded the Senate it had the power to conduct its own investigation. Senator Walsh (D.), of Massachusetts, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, questioned the soundness of asking the Secretaries of War and Navy to "investigate themselves."

Representative Maas (R.), of Minnesota, a member of the Naval Affairs Committee, told the House the committee had been denied the original testimony before the Roberts Commission investigating the disaster.

Representative Celler (D.), of New York, said the record of Pearl Harbor was contained in the Roberts report but he was reminded by Short that "there are two Roberts reports: One for public consumption, and another for the archives which you and I have never seen."

Representative Knutson (R.), of Minnesota, advocated a speedy and public trial for "I think this should be brought into the open to determine whether he (President Roosevelt as commander in chief) has the capacity to carry this war on as it should be."

BALDNESS NO WORRY To Him-Now!

MANY men, like this man, while they have a good head of hair never think about baldness. Although they may have dandruff, an itching scalp and lose too much hair daily they make no effort to relieve these conditions. In several months from now they may have lost much of their hair... that they WONT get back... and hair they might have saved.

NOW would be the logical time for them to come to JOHNSON. NOW it would cost but little, and require but few treatments, to check their dandruff, relieve the itching and charge for examination, nor does he advise treatment unless he believes it will help YOU.

Two simple steps to amazing New Strength... better looks!

- 1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach
- 2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

You may overcome the discomforts or embarrassment of

- Sour Stomach Jerky Nerves
- Loss of Appetite Underweight
- Digestive Complaints Weakness
- Poor Complexion

Getting value out of the food you eat is your No. 1 health problem whether you eat 500 or 2,000 pounds yearly.

To do this, scientists say, you must have an adequate supply of natural stomach digestive juices and rich, red-blood must be present.

Improper diet, overwork, undue worries, colds, the flu or other illness often impairs the stomach's digestive functions and reduces the red-blood strength. A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped. Undigested food, causes gas... bloating... fails to supply the necessary body energy... tissue repair... often resulting in nervousness and loss of energy.

So with ample stomach digestive juices PLUS RICH, RED-BLOOD you should enjoy that sense of well-being which denotes physical fitness... mental alertness!

If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need as it is especially designed (1) to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat... to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

Build Sturdy Health and Help America Win

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 cc. sizes. $3.50.

Just an 'Ammo,' But He's Tops With Regiment

By HOWARD WHITMAN

WITH AN INFANTRY REGIMENT, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, June 5 (N. Y. News). There's a favorite guy in every regiment. He's the guy who always has a wisecrack and is good medicine for the rest of the fellows when they get down in the dumps.

So I'd like you to know Louis D'Alessandro. He's a private first class, a little guy with a protruding lower jaw, hair that's cut so short it looks like the map of a carpet and dark brown eyes that could melt a frozen sergeant.

He's an 'Ammo' Carrier

D'Alessandro is an ammunition or "ammo" carrier for a 30 calibre machinegun. One of those unglamorous jobs of which the Army's full. The way he explains his part in the United States war machine is as follows:

"All right, so they get a gun in position. So you can't shoot without ammunition. The ammunition's in the jeep and the gun's there. There are two guys. One of them is me.

"So I, being as I am, the second ammo carrier, I get ammunition from the jeep and pass it to the first ammo carrier. Then the first ammo carrier passes it to the gunner. So the gun goes boom-boom! Now you can see why Hitler got scared the minute they drafted me."

D'Alessandro entered the Army April 18, 1941. His home is at City Island, in New York city's upper reaches, and he used to work as a shipyard helper at the Robert Jacob, Inc. shipyard there. He has a brother, Joe, at an airbase in Columbus, Ohio, serving as a butcher, and a brother, Carmine, who is an Air Corps carpenter somewhere in England. Their mother, Mary, is keeping the home going until they get back.

Gets Into Trouble

Like any other soldier, D'Alessandro gets into trouble now and then. Last New Year eve he went to a nearby town on a pass but made too many resolutions and got on a wrong train after celebrating. He was heading for London instead of back to camp, and an MP corrected his error.

And only yesterday our topic told D'Alessandro he couldn't have a pass to go to town because he slipped up on shaving. The rule is that you must shave once in 24 hours and D'Alessandro, figuring that the only strangers who see us here in the woods are doves and cuckoos, grew a little stubble yesterday.

"You know what time it is in New York?" D'Alessandro said as we sat around in the field eating chow at noon. "It's 6 a.m. So you know what I'd be doing if I was back there?"

"I'd be sleeping. In fact I'd set the alarm clock for every half hour from 6 o'clock on just so I would have the pleasure of turning it off and going back to sleep.

He'd Break Dishes

"I'd finally roll out about 10 o'clock. Then I'd stick my head out of the window, just to be sure I wasn't dreaming, and then I'd go right back to bed and have Mom bring me some breakfast. She'd do it, too—she'd be that happy to see me.

"In fact I'd ask her to cook me some powdered eggs just so I could have the pleasure of refusing to eat them and asking for three sunny-side-up instead.

"When I finished eating breakfast I'd ask mom's permission to break the dishes one by one. I would explain to her, that as of today, I've washed my own dishes, meaning messkit, forks and knives, 2,168 times."

By this time D'Alessandro had finished lunch, which featured powdered eggs, and went over to the hot water vats and washed his dishes for the 2,169th time.

New York Policeman To Receive Degree

Antipicketing Law Assailed

The La Follette Senate Civil Liberties Committee filed a report in the Senate yesterday declaring antipicketing ordinances in California deprive labor of constitutional rights.

Investigation, the report said, showed 4 counties and 19 municipalities enacted antipicketing ordinances as a result of a concentrated drive, especially between 1934 and 1937.

"That these ordinances were conceived for the express purpose of hampering the legitimate activities of trade unions, particularly in the agricultural areas, is implicit in the discriminatory manner in which they were applied," said the report.

Capt. Ellery Stone Named Rear Admiral

President Roosevelt yesterday nominated Capt. Ellery Wheeler Stone, former executive vice president of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. of New York, to be a rear admiral. It was explained that the promotion, on a temporary basis was made to give Stone a flag rank for assignment as deputy to the president of the Allied control commission in Italy. He is regarded as an outstanding communications expert.

Obituaries

Catherine Oliveri

Funeral services for Catherine Elizabeth Oliveri, 35, wife of Paul Oliveri, entertainer and pianist, will be conducted at the Chambers Southeast funeral home at 2:30 p.m. today. Mrs. Oliveri died Saturday in University Hospital, Baltimore.

A native of Virginia, Mrs. Oliveri, who has lived in the District for the past 16 years, was the daughter of the late Santa Anna and Sarah Jane Clems.

She is survived, besides her husband, by three sisters, Mrs. Rose Pencil, Mrs. Bessie Ritenour and Miss Laura Alger, and two brothers, Jesse and Albert Alger. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Mrs. Nellie Cheney

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie M. Cheney, 39, who died Sunday at her home, will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m., at the Takoma Park funeral home. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mrs. Cheney, who lived in the 700 block Devonshire Rd., Takoma Park, had been employed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing prior to her illness.

She was born in Mount Vernon, Mo., and educated in that city and in Springfield, Mo. Prior to her marriage to Nelson Cheney, an employe of the Veterans Administration, she taught school in Missouri. She and her husband came to Takoma Park about eight years ago.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Cheney is survived by a daughter, Doris, and a son, Robert.

William M. Corse

Funeral services for William M. Corse, 66, consulting metallurgist, who died Saturday at his farmhouse, Windy Hill, Westmoreland,

N. H., will be held today at 10:30 a.m. in Universalist Church, South Village, Westmoreland, with burial in Woodland Cemetery at Everett, Mass., at 2:30 p.m. Corse, nationally known in his field, kept an office in the District for 20 years, and also served as secretary to the Advisory Committee on Non-Ferrous Alloys of the National Bureau of Standards.

He was chiefly noted for developments in aluminum bronze foundry technics, and for scientific advances in brass and bronze making processes.

Corse, a native of Malden, Mass., was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Cosmos Club of Washington and the Chemists Club of New York, among other organizations.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Richard R. Burr, of Waterbury, Conn., and two grandchildren.

Mrs. M. M. Grimmell

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the James P. Ryan funeral home for Mrs. Margaret M. Grimmell, 65, who died Sunday at her home, 131 B St. SE., after a brief illness.

Mrs. Grimmell, a native of Georgetown, was a graduate of Georgetown Visitation Convent and had operated a beauty shop for the past 23 years.

She is survived by her husband, Norman E. Grimmell, and a sister, Mrs. Sallie Grant, both of Washington.

Burial will be in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Rev. John Callahan

NEW YORK, June 5 (I.N.S.). The Rev. John Callahan, the "Bishop of the Bowery" to thousands of down-and-outers, is dead.

A 79-year-old Protestant Episcopal chaplain of the Tombs prison for more than 40 years, Brother John, as he also sometimes was known, died at his home in Los Angeles after a short illness.

Born in Jersey City, Brother John started life as a bootblack, fell into bad company and served time in the Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet before becoming a bartender.

In 1890, he dropped into a Minneapolis mission and was deeply moved. He began his study for the ministry, and became head of the Hadley Mission on New York's Bowery in 1908. He began his service as Tombs prison chaplain in 1920.

Mrs. Corrine Tehaan

Funeral services for Mrs. Corrine Tehaan, 63, wife of Oscar Tehaan, will be held at 1:30 p.m. today in St. George's Church, 1009 Eighth St. NW. Mrs. Tehaan died Sunday at her home in the 3200 block O St. NW.

Mrs. Tehaan, who was born in Tripoli, Syria, came to this country in 1890. Besides her husband, who is the brother of George Tehaan, proprietor of a tavern near Georgetown University, she is survived by four children, Michael, Edward, Frederick and Evelyn Tehaan. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Dr. George Scott

Word has been received here of the death Sunday night in Los Angeles of Dr. George Winfield Scott, 68, educator and author, who suffered a heart attack at his home there.

Dr. Scott, law librarian of Congress and of the United States Supreme Court from 1903 to 1907, was the author of numerous articles on legal and historical subjects. He formerly was professor of international law and diplomacy at the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia and George Washington universities. He also had been research assistant of the Carnegie Institution.

In 1904 Dr. Scott went to Europe for the Library of Congress to report on law and documentary literature to be acquired and, from 1905 to 1908 he served on President Theodore Roosevelt's Commission on Efficiency in Departmental Methods.

Dr. Scott is survived by his widow, Clara Hotopp Scott, whom he married in 1910; a son, Lieut. Comdr. George Winfield Scott Jr., now at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and a daughter, Clara, who is Mrs. Frank Huddle, of Alexandria.

A message from Mars

Massively she swung seaward, like a liner clearing a windy roadstead. Trail-ing a plume of spray in the twilight, she went "up on the step" and was off into space—a new star in the sky.

Thus, casually and without fanfare, begins another great story in the history of aviation. For the Martin Mars is the largest air cargo transport in the world, and her recent maiden flight from San Francisco to Hawaii marks one more step toward the coming age of super-transport.

Harnessed to giant 3-blade Curtiss Electric propellers powered by four 2,200 horsepower Wright Cyclone engines, the Mars has already established many new records of performance. On a test run from Maryland to Brazil, for instance, this mammoth flying liner took off at a gross weight of 148,560 pounds—nearly 75 tons—and flew 4,375 miles non-stop to Natal. On one leg of the return journey, 35,000 pounds of cargo were carried—the largest payload ever transported by air.

Operating today in the South Pacific as a member of the Naval Air Transport Service, performance such as this is an everyday occurrence for the Mars—a triumph of years that have been packed with the most closely coordinated research in air-frame, propeller and engine design.

Today, the men and women who build the propellers for this great plane share with the builders of the Mars their pride in her performance. As part of the best trained team of workers in the world—the 5,000,000 who fly, service and build America's air power, they share, too, the hope which that power holds.

For an enlightened public sponsoring sound policies can make of aviation's skills the most important legacy of this war... can make of our airpower a force for good, for lasting peace and a closer understanding between the nations of the world.

Look to the Sky, America!

With a wingspread of 200 feet, the Martin Mars would span two-thirds the length of a football field. The flying boat's hull, 117 feet from bow to stern, includes two full-length flight decks, with space for cargo, a crew of 15, and more than a score of passengers.

The Mars has the bulk of a 15-room house, yet flies and even climbs with two of her 16 1/2-foot Curtiss Electric propellers at a standstill. Also, the Curtiss Automatic Propeller Speed Synchronizer enables the pilot by a single control to hold all the propellers and power plants in perfect step.

On water surfaces the maneuverability of the giant Mars is greatly simplified by the operation of reverse thrust. This means that by reversing the angle of the propeller blades, the braking action obtained can be utilized to turn the huge cargo liner literally "in her tracks," as illustrated in the diagram above.

Vice Admiral Towers Makes Record Flight
 Vice Adm. John H. Towers, deputy commander in chief of the U. S. Pacific fleet, has arrived in Washington, the Navy announced yesterday. It said the plane which brought him from Pearl Harbor is believed to have set a record for transport flights between the two points by covering the 4,945 miles in 25 hours of actual flying time.

General Clark Leads Parade of Jeeps By Rome's Majestic Colosseum

'A GREAT DAY FOR THE FIFTH ARMY!' (AND FOR ROME!) Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark, commander of the Fifth Army, rolls by the majestic ruins of Rome's famed Colosseum in a jeep with Maj. Gen. Alfred M. Gunther, his chief of staff, in the rear seat. [The historic amphitheater, built in 80 A.D. by Vespasian and Titus, stands southeast of the Forum in the Italian capital.] Other jeeps and mechanized troops follow as the procession heads for the Campidoglio (city hall). Here, on the steps, General Clark held a victory council, hailing the fall of Rome, first capital of Fascism, as "a great day for the Fifth Army."

MUSSOLINI SQUARE—BUT YANKS DO THE TALKING! Rome's civilians swarm around a sound truck in Mussolini Square, while in the background an Allied tank is hemmed in by excited crowds. An American private soldier—reportedly from Brooklyn—mounted Mussolini's famous balcony of the Palazzo Venezia and told the appreciative people exactly what he thought of the Fascists. They thought he was terrific, even if they didn't understand him!

Petrillo Speech To Musicians Blasts AFL Head

CHICAGO, June 5 (C.T.P.S.). James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL) opened the union's forty-eighth convention today with an attack upon William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. Among other charges, Petrillo said that Green has done nothing to clean up "racketeers and crooks" from labor leadership. Petrillo accused Green of failing to repudiate the spread of strikes in war industries, of lacking courage to step into jurisdictional rows and of being largely responsible for the War Labor Board, which was decidedly unpopular with the head man of the Musicians' Union.

Charges Crooks In Ranks

"The charges of racketeers and crooks in labor ranks must be true because you don't hear anybody refute them," Petrillo told the 720 delegates. "Let's start right now and clean up the racketeering as it should be done. If you do away with the crooked employers, then they will not be able to deal with the crooked labor leaders."

"I demand, Mr. Green, that you use all the power and money of the American Federation of Labor to see that the employers are also convicted when they connive with the labor leaders of the AFL."

Green wasn't present, but was addressed through the medium of the official record of the convention. Petrillo did not specify whom he referred to when he talked about employers not being punished for dealing with union officials who betray their memberships.

Radio Called Valueless

Recent strikes by musicians in radio stations in Chicago and St. Paul led to Petrillo's grievance against Green. The stations rejected Petrillo's demand that union members replace the employees who change records on "canned music" programs. Green, notified of the situation by the stations, repudiated the strikes as violations of labor's no-strike pledge. Petrillo called the stations insignificant and said neither was of any value to the war effort.

"Did Bill Green repudiate any strike of machinists on the West Coast when they tied up munitions and supplies necessary for our soldiers?" Petrillo asked. "Did he repudiate any of the AFL strikes which are spreading throughout the country?"

"Now we have a labor leader raising the flag and waving it in our faces and declaring that we will lose the war because of a strike against two little radio stations, but not doing anything about big strikes in war plants."

Is there a shortage of children's shoes?

America's largest manufacturer of children's shoes answers this vital wartime question

Yes, there is very definitely a shortage! This is particularly true of dependable brands of medium and better quality children's shoes.

Parents today are demanding better quality. Rationing has brought about a keen appreciation of the difference between shoes that are good, and those that merely look good.

Why is there a shortage of children's shoes?

The nation's military demands and the needs of our allies caused a decrease in the supply of leather available for civilian use and thus fewer leather shoes are being made for men and women, as well as for children. However, there is a sufficient quantity of good, serviceable shoe material available to meet essential civilian requirements.

While fewer pairs of children's shoes have been made since the war started, the demand has actually been greater and the shortage is felt more acutely for the following reasons:

1. Children wear out their shoes more quickly than do adults. And because children also outgrow their shoes, they seldom have extra pairs in reserve.
2. The rubber shortage has severely limited the number of tennis shoes available to boys and girls... this has added to the demand for leather shoes.
3. A sharp increase in the birth rate each year for the past three years has also put a heavier demand on leather required for additional babies' shoes.

Has the Government taken steps to make possible an increase in children's shoe production?

Yes... the Government has recently effected ways and means to increase the allocation and production of leather for children's shoes. This will make more leather available and enough shoes should be produced to cover necessary replacement for children. However, to provide substantial increases in the leather supply will take time.

ments for children. However, to provide substantial increases in the leather supply will take time.

What are shoe manufacturers doing to produce more children's shoes?

In some instances production is being diverted from men's and women's shoes into children's shoes. Some manufacturers who in the past have made only adult shoes are now devoting part of their facilities to the production of shoes for children.

What is the International Shoe Company doing about this children's shoe problem?

As America's largest manufacturer of children's shoes, we are now producing a great many more pairs than we did a year ago. We expect to maintain this higher rate of production and, if possible, increase it.

But... in our endeavor to make more children's shoes we will not disregard quality... we are determined not to use present conditions as an excuse for lowering the moral standards of our product... standards that we have maintained for more than forty years.

We shall continue to make shoes that are worthy of your complete trust... that are constructed, inside and out, to give your children real protection during the vital years while their feet are developing.

You'll know these trustworthy shoes by the familiar brands and trade-marks reproduced below.

Rome Falls---and Stands

Capture of Rome by the Allies after a nine-month campaign is a step on the road to Allied victory, and something to cheer about.

A thing to cheer just as loudly about is that Rome, though it fell to the Allies, remained 95 per cent intact as the great modern city and repository of religious and historical monuments that it is. If it had been laid in ruins, the tragedy would have been irreparable, Rome being unique as the fountainhead of our Western civilization and culture.

Rome has been conquered before, of course, and many times, and the damage on some of these occasions has been considerable. The sack of Rome by Alaric's Visigoths in 410 was a bad one; that of Charles V's Germans in 1527 was another. The Romans themselves in the Middle Ages did a slow but effective job of sacking one of their own chief buildings, the great Colosseum, begun by the Emperor Vespasian in A.D. The medieval Romans quarried building stones from the Colosseum, making away altogether with an estimated two-thirds of the structure's original stone fabric.

But these episodes would have been minor as compared with the destruction which could have been dealt Rome by the blockbusters which are among the ornaments of our present-day high civilization. The city would have been reduced to rubble if the Allies and the Germans had proved unable to agree to treat it as an open city.

This feat was accomplished, however, and we can breathe easier and feel somewhat better about the war as a result.

Shuttle Raids to Russia

The Western Allies at last have completed arrangements with Russia whereby British and American planes can take off from England or Italy for raids on Axis Europe, drop their bombs at assigned points, and then fly on into Russia to land on airfields reported to be somewhere in the Ukraine.

It is an excellent development, and one which should make the aerial drive against Fortress Europe still more effective and less costly. Planes making these shuttle raids don't have to return to British or Italian bases.

The Germans can't send up fighter planes and flak all along the return route after a raid, because there is no return route. Our planes just proceed to Russia, come down, and are serviced and loaded for the next shuttle bombing run back to England or Italy. Our choice of targets is considerably broadened.

The Russians seem to be pleased about the whole thing, and to be impressed by the efficiency, teamwork and overflowing vitality of the American flying men who have thus far come down on Russian airfields.

There is much jubilation in Washington and London, and the German propaganda is trying to play down the new Allied device as nothing to get excited about.

It is something to congratulate ourselves on, nevertheless—the only oddity in the matter being that it wasn't started long ago, as it should have been.

Moscow vs. Chungking

The Moscow magazine called War and the Working Class in its current issue prints an article on China's Chungking government (Chiang Kai-shek) which has some interesting implications.

Chungking, says War and the Working Class, is fighting Japan only halfheartedly, offers flabby alibis whenever its armies take a defeat, is getting all possible help from the United States and Great Britain, and wastes a lot of energy containing the big Chinese Communist armies of Gen. Hu Tsu-nan in Northwest China.

These Chinese Communist soldiers, says the Moscow magazine, are really nice fellows and good fighters, and would be a great help to Chiang if he would only play ball with them.

The incident looks like another indication that Russia intends to engage all or part of China after this war, and make these territories part of a Russian Communist empire.

The logical complaint from the Western Allies would be that Russia could do a lot better by the common cause if it would let us have some air bases in Siberia, from which to bomb Japan, instead of in effect helping Japan by letting the Chinese Communists remain as a standing threat to Chiang Kai-shek. We don't hear either Washington or London registering such a complaint, though.

All of which is another aspect of the bizarre, complex, macabre war in which we are engaged. It is probably not the last of these paradoxes that we shall run into before the war is over.

How to Keep Well

HAVE YOU SAVED A LIFE WITH A BLOOD DONATION?

In the event of serious hemorrhage with substantial loss of blood, there is no remedy quite so efficient as a transfusion.

We assume, of course, that oozing has been stopped so that the newly injected fluid cannot escape from the vessels.

Under combat conditions particularly, speed and the necessity for immediate aid is so great that reinforcements will need to be employed at once. There isn't enough time to set up the transfusion procedure. Blood plasma, then, becomes our most valuable aid.

Although there is very little difference between the net effect of plasma and serum, we know that the former can be kept in a liquid state for approximately two years without serious alteration of the material. But the product should not be exposed to heat. Any level above 100 degrees F. will bring deterioration. The same is true if the thermometer drops too low. At any rate, the substance is always filtered before it actually enters a vein.

Dried plasma offers many advantages. Typing is unnecessary and there are no storage or time limitations. The emergency package is composed of the proper quantity of sterile water to which a bit of citric acid has been added. Although it is easy of solution, one precaution should be observed—namely, that the solvent (water) should not be warm. In fact, if the temperature is 100 or above, precipitation is likely to occur within a very few minutes.

As a rule, the remedy can be made ready for injection quickly. It thus becomes an ideal antidote in shock due to burns or in the early treatment of lacerations. How much should be used? Enough to fill the vessels. In other words, circulation may be restored to normal. We should recall that plasma contains everything in the vital liquid except the corpuscles.

Another important derivative is serum albumin. Although there are special cases in which this preparation is extremely beneficial, certain dangers attend its employment. If administered in concentrated form, it may increase hemorrhage or withdraw fluid from the cells.

Neither serum albumin nor plasma can replace whole blood, other than in burns. Even in the latter, more corpuscles will be demanded eventually. Fortunately, thanks to the generous donations to the Red Cross on the part of many of our citizens, we have a continuing supply of plasma, which can be shipped anywhere and everywhere. When we see pictures of our wounded servicemen, it is thrilling to realize that a small amount of our own blood may have been the means of saving lives.

In World War II our Army and Navy physicians have been highly successful in neutralizing the evil effects of wounds and accidents of various types. These helpful procedures include not only transfusions, the sulfa drugs, penicillin, etc., but the speedy transfer of patients to hospitals where every facility is at hand. In addition, specialists in every phase of surgery are on the job.

 The malady can be relieved or held in abeyance for many, many years. Careful management will be required.

 Possibly. This disorder has a tendency to flare up during the change of life.

 You have the right side of the question. The view is better; one sees more of what is going on in the world. The figure can take on additional weight without appearing "dumpy." You can be willowy without becoming huge. Think of the commanding presence and personality which stature insures.

CAPITOL STUFF

By John O'Donnell

BEHIND the closed doors of the House Appropriations Committee (executive session and reporters barred) the worthy Office of War Information, in the process of asking for more public dough, has extolled the efforts of the Writers' War Board.

This is a peculiar literary growth which has managed to suck some cash out of the Treasury in the way of office rent, transportation, etc. And at the same time beat its breast in public, howl its personal patriotism to the heavens and from the safety of Manhattan, Long Island, or Connecticut bravely shout for the extirpation of the Teutonic race.

Dr. Elmer Davis, chief of OWI, and some of his assistants explained to the gentlemen of the House who control the public purse why the Writers' War Board was really helping to win the war.

IT SEEMS that the board, headed up by detective story writer Rex Stout, backed up by such well-known names as columnists Franklin P. Adams, Samuel Grafton, Clifton Fadiman, William Shirer, Paul Gallico, etc., keep in touch with "nearly 5,000 writers."

The OWI keeps an office in New York to tip off the War Board writers, said Dr. Davis, on smart ideas for stories, poems, slants, twists—"what might be pressing war needs"—and they in turn pass it on to the different writers, "who include people who might write for newspapers, who write books, who write for magazines, and in a number of other fields."

Said the worthy Dr. Davis, by way of explaining the efforts of OWI to encourage wartime belles lettres via tax-supported liaison with the panting heroes of the Writer's Board:

"They (the writers) get information as to the needs of departments of the Government . . . Occasionally they get paid by magazines for the contributions they produce . . . We pay for the clerical help in our liaison office."

LATER came the testimony that OWI paid for office space out of its appropriation and later submitted a statement which indicated that $17,100 had been dished out for "personal services," $3,000 for communications, $3,926 for rents and utilities, $4,000 for "special services," etc., etc., etc.

With this set-up of 5,000 "writers," recognized and backed up by OWI through the tax-supported "liaison" bureau of OWI, it is of more than passing interest to note what advice the zealous practitioners of literature are getting from the appointees of the Roosevelt Administration.

We have been reading the latest copy of the "Writers' War Board report," which contains a lot of helpful hints of how to slant your short stories, poems, skits, scenarios, detective yarns, news stories, Sunday features, radio scripts, etc., along the mental channels of the Broadway band of belles lettres.

WE QUOTE—This is from the June 1 report:
 "GERMAN IMPORT—From first to last, race hatred has been a standard weapon, an export item of Germany. The Germans, and their native American Fascist admirers, are stirring up any and every kind of race hatred in the United States, for the deliberate purpose of fostering a political and intellectual climate in which a confused and disgusted American people might countenance a soft peace for Germany.

"But this is the point . . . We cannot, as writers, limit the blame for race hatred to enemy influences. It is not so simple. Race hatred is rooted in the native soil and the cheap labor racket of America. It is commonly excused, and even lauded with active consciences are dragged into insensibility by the perpetuation of the myth that this is a white, Anglo-Saxon, Protestant country and that Negroes, Mexicans, Jews, Catholics and 'Hunkies' are, and of a right should be, considered inferior.

"WRITERS play a considerable part in furthering the 'old stock' swindle in picking out only Anglo-Saxon names for their attractive characters and marrying them in Protestant churches and giving them only inferiority-emphasizing relationships to menial Negroes, ignorant working class Catholics, shyster or comic Jews, slovenly if picturesque Mexicans, and so on.
 "In short, the time seems to have arrived for writers to stop shaking their heads about other people's race bigotry and examine their own very considerable contribution to it through the constant influence of magazine, book, screen, and radio plus the snobbish inferences of advertising copy."

THE BANKS O' DOON

By ROBERT BURNS

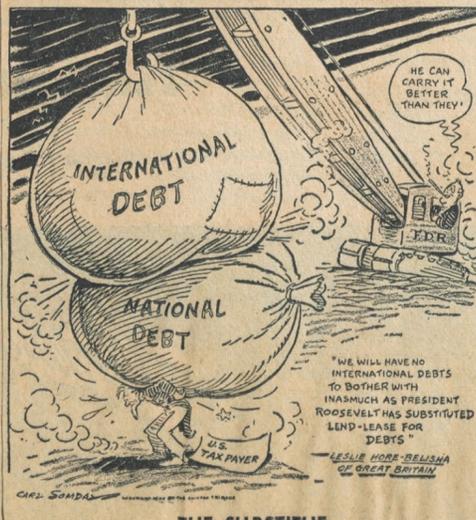

Ye flowery banks o' bonie Doon,
 How can ye blume sae fair?
 How can ye chant, ye little birds,
 And I sae fu' o' care?

Thou'll break my heart, thou bonie bird,
 That sings upon the bough;
 Thou minds me o' the happy days,
 When my fause luv was true.

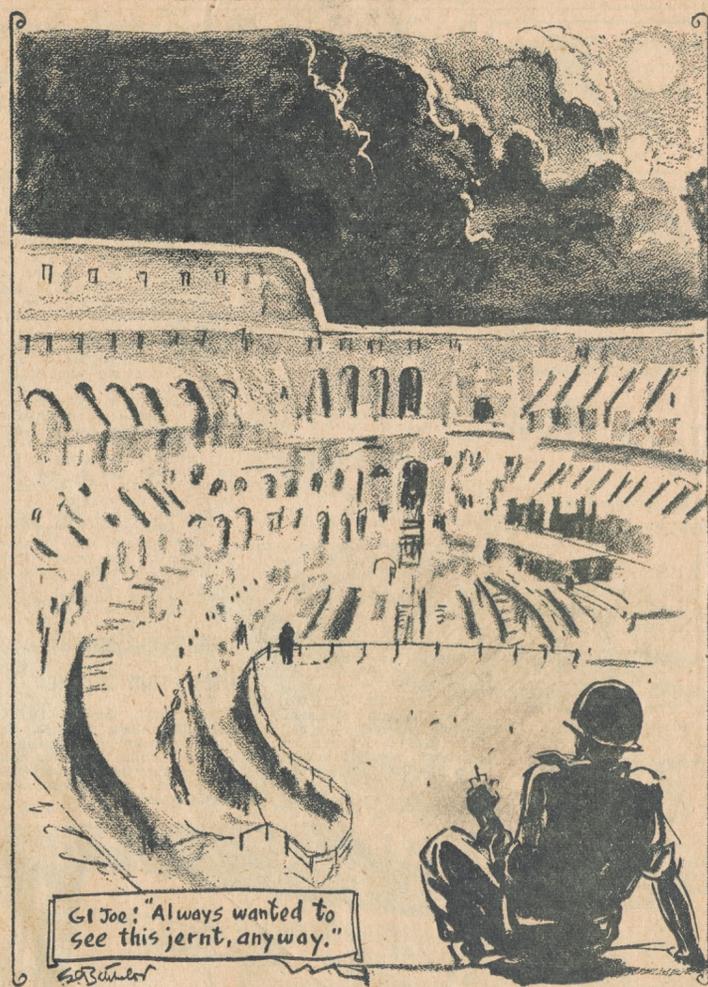

Thou'll break my heart, thou bonie bird,
 That sings beside thy mate;
 For sae I sat, and sae I sang,
 And wist na o' my fate.

Aft hae I rovd' by bonie Doon
 To see the woodbine twine,
 And lika bird sang o' its love,
 And sae did I o' mine.

W! lightsome heart I pu'd a rose,
 Frae aff its thorny tree;
 And my fause luvr staw my rose
 But left the thorn w! me.

DEAR WASHINGTON Voice of The People

By Helen Essary

THE last time I saw Rome the moon was fat and yellow over the Colosseum. The moon was also disinterested, and cast a pale glance at our little trio of tourists. Poor old dear, she had seen so much from her pagan B. C. days on in that Colosseum. Caesars and yelling multitudes, thumbs turned down, and lions and Christian martyrs, cringing slaves, marble grandeur.

And now what did this particular part of her orbit reflect? Some ruined arches, toppling columns, overgrown bushes and weeds high as hibiscus bushes, three chilly American tourists in tan-steamers coats, and a tribe of cats, wild and wailing and half starved, with never a Christian to gnaw on.

It occurred to me that the cats might take to gnawing on tourists. Especially American tourists. It was the custom of the country (Italy) and all other countries to gnaw on American tourists. It still is the custom of all countries to gnaw on American tourists. Only now we call the habit "lend-lease."

Anyhow, my tourist friends of 10 years ago and I were afraid of the thought they might be the ghosts of the poor creatures slaughtered to make those old-time Roman holidays. So we hurried back to the brighter city, got us a cab as soon as we could hall one, and trotted home to the Hotel De Russie, where we were staying.

That business of getting a cab in Rome or anywhere else in Italy always wrung my heart and tied my nerves into Girl Scout knots. I could never decide which kind of a cab I should hail—one drawn by a thin, disillusioned, knock-kneed old horse. Or one drawn by a plump, hopeful, young horse.

THIS was the complication. Obviously the thin horse needed food. But how could I know that its driver, when I gave him a fare and triple tip would not spend the lush American money on red wine, a loaf of bread and another "thou" beside him under the olive trees?

Yet a fat horse-drawn cab didn't seem to need fare so desperately. What choice could a purse loose American tourist make?

THE Colosseum was mournful that night. It was the past. But the Hotel De Russie which was the present and had nice hopes of a future was not mournful. We had supper out in the garden. There may have been rats underfoot as is the custom after dark even in bleak civilized Washington gardens.

But we tried not to mind certain scurrings under the trees. We ate big dark cherries served on pomegranate leaves from pale green glass plates and a delicious casserole of something that may have been a Colosseum cat done with claret sauce. The light from our Florentine candles flickered on the marble statues of Venus and Mars silhouetted against cypresses.

There was the music of guitars and the gay little sound of water trickling in a Cupid fountain.

THERE was always music in Rome. Wherever you were. In the mornings the delivery boys would whistle arias from the operas. At night home-going youths would sing in the solemn streets—maybe "The Toreador"—in hopes of conquering some "Carmen" of the moment.

Of course we went to the opera. Our hotel got us a box. They said nothing but a box was left for this gala evening for the Great Mussolini would be a special guest.

Was it not the name day of Il Duce? Ah yes, it was indeed so. The American ladies were most fortunate to be able to be there for such a celebration. This was why it would be necessary to charge so high a tariff—more than had at first been estimated. Ah, grazie madonna.

THE opera was "Faust." But naturally the hero of the splendid occasion was Il Duce. He was magnificent in glory. Theatrical in manner. He smelled a red rose during nine scenes and four intermissions. Somewhat in the manner of Ferdinand, the genteel bull who also loved to sniff flowers—now that I look back. The two other American ladies and I introduced ourselves to the Great Man during an intermission.

Such behavior was brash, of course. But I noticed that when we acted and talked "American," the Senor smiled in his pre-Hitler way.

Naturally we did the art galleries—the last time I saw Rome. We saw and heard so much about Michelangelo—about the paintings, the statuary, cathedrals, fountains and such done by this architect, painter-genius that I began to think the old fellow had been a factory instead of a man.

Please give name and address with you letter. We will withhold both on request.

Attention: Disgusted

In response to your letter, I just wish to state that all of the servicemen are not "wolves." You'll find a few of us who still like to meet girls like you described.

And besides, a uniform doesn't make a "wolf." It just makes them more obvious.

A SAILOR.

Names for War

Sherman had a name for it. Roosevelt first wanted to call it the war of survival—survival for who? Recently he wants to call it a tyrants' war. Which tyrants?

Why not call it The War To Breed New Wars?

TAFT DEMOCRAT.

Not Bad at All

Since our good British friends and allies are said to be overwhelmingly in favor of another term, why don't they invite our Chief Executive to their own fair land and elect him President of England? Being accustomed to having their heads of government hold office for life, such an arrangement would seem quite the proper and correct thing to them—at least for a while.

Meanwhile, the U.S.A. could return to its traditional ways of one or two terms, but no more, for its Chief Executive. The above plan thus would satisfy the populations of all three countries, instead of afflicting our homeland further and pleasing only foreigners.

SANCTUS DRYROTT.

well draped. Beautiful plumbloomed Vatican guards, who must have been saved over from the Middle Ages, stood at arched doorways. Monks in long robes, their waists wound with cords and clanking with crosses, swished by. We clasped the rosaries, which we had bought to be blessed, in damp, nervous fingers and awaited our turn for the presentation.

HIS HOLINESS was gentle and friendly. He had been a mountain climber in his young priestly days in North Italy. But he was subdued now. And seemed small in his heavy garments.

We knelt to kiss the ring that is the symbol of the church and said a vague little prayer. This man gave dignity to the befuddled human being's struggle to reach godliness. We felt grateful and almost good while in so benign a presence.

I can't imagine the Holy City noisy with tanks and bombers and bloody with hate and fear. Peace and romance lived there, the Last Time I saw Rome.
