Batista Quits Fight, Flees Cuba

Declares He Wants To End Bloodshed

By LARRY ALLEN
HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — President Fulgencio Batista of Cuba gave up his long fight against Fidel Castro's rebels today and fled to the Dominican Republic with his military high command and top aides.

Before leaving, Batista turned over power to a military junta. The junta at once named Carlos Piedra, senior member of the Supreme Court, as provisional president. The junta then dissolved itself.

Batista said he was giving up the presidency "to save the country from further bloodshed." But presidential plane about 3:30 a.m.

The group included all members of Batista's family except two sons, who went to New York this week.

Other military men, civilians and women and children were leaving Cuba. One plane brought 53 to Jacksonville, Fla. Included among this group were 16 army officers, including two generals.

Another plane landed at New Orleans. There were 35 persons aboard, some in uniform. There also were women in this group.

There was no immediate reaction from the rebel radio to Batista's dramatic move.

There were fears in Havana that fighting would spread to this capital once Batista's flight became generally known.

It is estimated that rebel leader Fidel Castro has 5,000 partisans in Havana, many of them well armed.

There was fear they might start a hunt for many persons connected with the Batista government that they long have marked for death.

The short-lived military junta was headed by Gen. Eulogio Cantillo. Cantillo said he would take personal control of the armed forces.

The group which flew off with Batista includes Esteban Ventura, a national police lieutenant colonel who was one of the most hated men in Cuba because of his torture of rebel sympathizers; and top leaders of the armed forces who had been marked for death by the rebels.

At the U.S. Embassy, Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith was in constant touch with Washington. Smith said from what the embassy knew, Batista left Cuba of his own free will.

Men who had been in key posts around Batista began resigning.

The man Batista had picked to succeed him Feb. 24, Andres Rivero Aguero, flew with Batista to the Dominican Republic. That nation is run by Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, one of the few remaining dictators in Latin America.

It was in the midst of a toast at Camp Colombia to the peace and prosperity of Cuba that Batista announced that he was giving up power and fleeing the country he had dominated for a quarter of a century.

World Forgets Troubles In Its Welcoming 1959

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
As midnight rolled around the earth, most of this old world forgot its troubles momentarily to give a hearty welcome to 1959.

Some scaled mountains, lit bonfires, honked auto horns, tossed crockery from the windows of their homes and tried to shimmy up greased lampposts — all expressing in their exuberance hopes for a healthy and happy new year and a year of peace.

Places of worship were not forgotten around the world as people welcomed 1959 with prayer.

Both sides of the Iron Curtain joined in the merriment. It was party time in Moscow, Russia, as well as in Moscow, Kan.

In a New Year's message, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said, "It is my conviction that the prospects for preserving peace in 1959 are good."

President Eisenhower observed the evening quietly with relatives and friends at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

In Japan, old and young, rich and poor, led by the imperial family, welcomed 1959—the year of the wild boar—with traditional worship at Shinto shrines and Buddhist temples throughout the nation.

An unexpected snowfall threw a mantle of white over Tokyo.

Parisians greeted the new year by leaning on their auto horns as they drove down the brightly lit Champs Elysees. They exercised an annual privilege—horn blowing is illegal any other time.

Booming chimes of Big Ben welcomed in 1959 in London and sent thousands of revelers into wild rages.

Auld Lang Syne celebrations around the boarded up statue of Eros in downtown Piccadilly Circus.

Greased lamp standards defied determined efforts to scale them. Rings of policemen around Eros stood firm against repeated attempts to brush the bobbies aside.

In Rome, Italians set off fireworks — which is illegal — and threw pots, pans and dishes on their windows—a custom even older and equally illicit.

In Warsaw, rock 'n' roll vied with cha-cha as Poles celebrated.

In Brazil, office workers dumped shredded waste paper into jammed streets.

In Cherryville, N. C., musket fire crackled as a custom reached its 150th year. Bangor, Maine, celebrated with a huge bonfire of discarded Christmas trees.

In Colorado Springs, Colo., fireworks were shot off the top of Pike's Peak by the AdAmAn Club, which adds one new member each year.

In New York City's Times Square, an estimated 300,000 persons cheered the new year with a blare of horns and a squeal of noise makers.

First Day Of 1959 Arrived On Tip-Toes In Greenville

The first day of 1959 almost sneaked into Greenville today. It was that quiet in most of the city.

There were, of course, some audible evidence of 1958's departure at midnight—ringing of bells, tooting of horns and shouts of "Happy New Year" in residential areas—but rousing noisy public celebrations of other years (when fireworks were legal) were noticeably absent.

Several impromptu efforts to liven up the passage of the old year were responded to quickly by Greenville police and firemen. The police department announced the arrest of two young boys for shooting firecrackers during the night and the fire department answered two false alarms.

The false alarms, one from the intersection of West Fourth and Pitt Streets at 11:46 p.m. and the other from the intersection of Person and Greene Streets at 3:20 a.m., got brief notices on the city's first alarm horn. The horn is usually disconnected for a few minutes before and after midnight on New Year's Eve, but the calls came before and after the disconnecting was in effect.

Many private parties were held in homes throughout the county. In addition to group parties at the Greenville Golf and Country Club and the Greenville Moose Lodge, large crowds were reported at the group parties which were for members and guests.

In addition to the party-goers, many Greenville citizens observed arrival of the New Year in special church services. Covenant services originated more than 200 years ago by John Wesley were celebrated in Greenville's Methodist churches and other faiths held similar services.

Catholics and Episcopalians, who observe the Feast of the Circumcision on January 1, held special services today. Masses were said in Catholic churches early today and will be repeated this afternoon, while Episcopalians observed Holy Communion in a special service this morning.

The quietness which generally greeted the New Year carried over into the late morning hours of today. Most business houses and offices in Greenville were closed for the day, although a few stores and restaurants were open and a few others used the holiday to begin annual inventories.

City, county, state and federal offices throughout the county were closed today, but most will reopen tomorrow morning.

Weather for the arrival of the New Year was generally good, although slightly cold. Greenville Utilities Commission's weather station on Tar River reported a midnight reading of 37 degrees, low for the night, after a high yesterday of 47. The 8 a.m. temperature today was 39 with skies cloudy and rain promised.

The river stood at 12.2 feet this morning and was reported rising as a result of heavy weekend rains in the upper reaches of the river's basin.

DI Is Acquitted By Court Martial

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — A burly sergeant, who admits it's tough to get along on a Marine's pay, was free today of charges of soliciting and accepting money from recruits and of slugging two of them with a mess cup.

A general Court-Martial board of seven Marine officers returned a New Year's Eve verdict of innocent for Ralph Grant, 26-year-old drill instructor from Racine, Wis. It gave the Korean War veteran something to celebrate.

Charges against Grant and two others stemmed from the complaints of a few parents of the all-Ohio Steel Valley Recruit Platoon.

The verdict was reached after only an hour and 10 minutes deliberation.

The career marine received the verdict while standing smartly at attention with little show of emotion. Afterwards, he said, "I think the Marine Corps has been justified. I don't see how the verdict could have been anything else."

Fellow drill instructors boisterously acclaimed the results. A number of them have been sentenced to various Prison terms and fines on charges of assaulting recruits since the famed "Death March" case in which six recruits drowned on a disciplinary march into Ribbon Creek.

The DI who led them, Matthew McKeon, was given a down-grading in rank, a fine and a short prison term.

Grant faced 9½ years in prison if convicted on all four counts brought against him.

Still to face general court-martial in the case are two other drill instructors of the Steel Valley Platoon—Sgt. Willard Poss of Augusta, Ga., and Ronald Heller of Milwaukee, Wis.

Poss is charged with accepting money from recruits and assaulting one of them. Heller is charged only with assault.

Defense Atty. Carl Sanders of Augusta, a member of the Georgia state Senate, said he will ask that the other two military trials not be held next week because his time will be taken up with legislative matters.

Two Devastating Brush Fires Near Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two devastating brush fires raged in the hills ringing Los Angeles today, forcing thousands to flee and sending scores of homes up in flames.

One fire laid waste to a 9-mile stretch of Topanga Canyon, destroying 80 homes in a terrifying surge to the sea. The other raged through the Hollywood hills to the outskirts of the rich residential community of Beverly Hills.

Homes threatened by the Hollywood hills blaze include those of such movie stars as Elizabeth Taylor, Merle Oberon, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Jack Warner, Harold Lloyd, Cameron Mitchell, Corinne Calvet, Barry Sullivan, William Lundigan and Chico Marx.

Both fires are believed to have been touched off by a firebug.

The leaping flames, flying embers and blinding smoke provided a nightmarish background to New Year's Eve celebrations in homes close to the fire front. Christmas lights still gleamed from expensive homes from which the occupants had fled.

City and county fire officials rushed nearly 2,000 men to the blazing areas, about 12 miles apart. The size of the battle was summed up by a smoke-grimed fire captain surveying the Topanga Canyon scene. "We can't stop it. Too much wind, too low humidity, too much fire."

The Topanga Canyon blaze was the first to break out, flaring up Wednesday morning in the home-studded canyon running from the San Fernando Valley to the ocean, about 20 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Urged on by strong, dry winds from the desert the flames raced at incredible speed. Resident barely had time to throw a few belongings in their cars and join the confused, jumbled stream of evacuees.

An estimated 4,000 people were evacuated from the canyon.

An evacuation center set up at Topanga Canyon Elementary School was quickly jammed.

At its first rush to the ocean the fire turned west and moved toward another thickly populated canyon. Just a few miles further on lie the charred acres and blackened hills from the fire that roared through the Malibu Hills broke out a few hours after it.

Topanga Canyon blaze and moved swiftly toward Beverly Glen and Benedict Canyons, both filled with lavish residences of motion picture people. A $70,000 home was lost to the flames.

A hundred families living in homes stretched along the bottom of San Ysidro Canyon on the north edge of the city were ordered to be prepared to evacuate at a moment's notice as the fire edged within a half-mile.

Firemen concentrated on saving homes, rather than trying to stop the fire in its drive through the dry brush.

Order A Larger Missile-Firing Sub For Navy Advise Planting Of Old Varieties

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new and bigger missile-firing submarine is being planned by the Navy.

Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. announced Wednesday orders had been given to build the first of four projected new submarines fitted to fire the 1,500-mile Polaris missile. Five smaller Polaris submarines are now under construction.

Each of the four big submarines is expected to cost about 15 million dollars.

The new submarines will have a completely new hull design, the Navy said. It gave no specific details, but they are expected to be about 20 feet longer than the five 360-foot missile subs now under construction.

RALEIGH (AP) — A recommendation for farmers to plant old-line blue-cured tobacco varieties in 1959 was made Wednesday by the board of governors of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn.

The board suggested that growers unable to use old-line varieties because of diseased land refrain from planting all of their crop in one variety.

F. S. Royster of Henderson, the association's managing director, said the action was designed to encourage production of a quality crop in 1959.

The board frowned on use of chemicals for sucker control, and "urgently recommended" that growers abandon the practice.

Cuba Standing On Agonizing 'Brink'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
HAVANA (AP)—Cuba has arrived at one of the most agonizing hours in her 50 years as an independent republic.

The flight of President Fulgencio Batista could signal a wave of bloodshed for this prosperous country of 6½ million people. But there is a ray of hope.

There are thousands of hotheads in Havana thirsting for revenge.

There are others, including armed Communists, who could deliberately touch off the riots to damage both sides and reap benefits from chaos.

If that happens, there is a grave possibility of U.S. military intervention in Cuba. There are thousands of U.S. citizens in Cuba and American investments in this country are close to one billion dollars.

American intervention in a Latin American revolution would be welcomed by the entire Communist world as a propaganda victory with loud repercussions throughout the Western Hemisphere.

However, only Wednesday in Washington the State Department reiterated that the United States has no intention of sending troops to Cuba.

The new and apparently weak government in Havana headed by a provisional president, Carlos Piedra, clamped down on news of the dramatic New Year's Day events. But censorship could not stop the news from spreading rapidly throughout this capital.

In the first hours Havana remained astonishingly calm — perhaps too calm. The U.S. Embassy watched anxiously for any portent of events to come, and was in constant touch with Washington.

There was just a glimmer of hope. Fidel Castro's rebel movement apparently will reject the new regime. But there was a possibility the departure of Batista could open the way for some sort of approach between the two sides to mediate the costly civil war.

No approach was possible while Batista remained in Cuba. There simply was not room enough in this country for both Castro and Batista. One had to go.

Castro now is in a position where he can, if he will, hold out for all or nothing. If he does, that will be costly for this country.

There are thousands in Havana alone whose lives would be endangered and those elements of the army who felt themselves imperiled would put up a bitter last-ditch fight.

But the rebel leader also is in a position now to prove to the outside world that he can be a statesman and a patriot. At the moment he seems to be the strongest and most popular man in the country.

Castro probably can win out in most of his demands without carrying the civil war into this capital and risking heavy bloodshed. Perhaps he feels he cannot do business with the men Batista left behind to conduct the new government.

Everything depends upon the next two or three days. If a way can be found out of the impasse, there is a possibility that Castro is strong and confident enough to take it. If he does, Cuba can be saved.

Otherwise Cuba, the Cubans, and, indeed, the United States — all will be losers. The only possible winner from sustained chaos here will be world communism.

Teamster Union Monitors Are Reported Against Police Drive

NEW YORK (AP)—The court-appointed monitors of the Teamsters Union are reported opposed to President James R. Hoffa's efforts to organize this city's police force.

The drive also drew heated opposition Wednesday from Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

"I want to make it clear to the people of New York that we will not countenance any attempts at unionization by the Teamsters or any one else," the mayor said.

The New York Times, quoting authoritative sources, said two of the monitors agreed that the attempted unionization is "shocking." They are Martin F. O'Donoghue of Washington and Geoffrey P. Schmidt of New York.

The third monitor, L. N. D. Wells of Detroit, who sits on the panel as the Teamsters' own representative, was reported as indicating privately he considered the attempted unionization a "piece of unmitigated gall."

Hoffa has announced a nationwide campaign to bring all policemen, firemen and other state, county and municipal workers into the union.

Henry Feinstein, a New York City employe, is leading the organization drive.

Wagner told newsmen he intends to see if disciplinary action is in order for Feinstein. He said Feinstein's efforts to organize the city's 24,000-man police force were "a disgrace" and "disastrious."

Feinstein is supervisor of transportation at $8,500 a year in the office of the Manhattan Borough president.

Khrushchev Hates See 1958 End

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev told Kremlin guests at a New Year's party early today that "I hate to see 1958 end" because it had been such a good year.

During the old year Khrushchev took over as Soviet premier, launched a plan to make Russian living standards the world's highest, watched a U. S. recession, sat by while the West struggled with crises in the Middle East and the Formosa Strait, and demanded that the West get out of West Berlin—among other things.

Khrushchev did not mention these things to his 700 guests.

In an obvious effort not to ruffle anyone's feathers, he didn't even bring up Berlin. He had received U. S., British and French rejections of his Berlin proposals Wednesday.

Diplomats attending the ball said the atmosphere this year was more pleasant and relaxed than last year's party. Khrushchev proposed many toasts, but avoided offending Western diplomats joining in.

There was no individual toast to President Eisenhower as there had been last year.

"Khrushchev joked about the coming trip to the United States of Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan. He told U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Mrs. Thompson that Mikoyan had had to promise to return to the Soviet Union.

"And if he doesn't come back he has to promise he won't work against us there," the premier said. In a tribute to Mikoyan's trading ability the premier said jovially, "We can't let Mikoyan stay in the United States because he would soon be the richest man there."

The Kremlin party began at 11 Wednesday night and continued far into the morning.

Faith Is Needed By Tuberculars

By VERNON MORTON City Editor The Wilson Daily Times Written For The Associated Press

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — It takes more than miracle drugs or the surgeon's skilled hands to cure tuberculosis. It takes faith, too—given often and in generous proportions.

"A complete inner tranquility" is the way the Rev. Roger Westmoreland, chaplain at the Eastern North Carolina Sanatorium, describes it. Often, the sanctuary one finds in belief spans the narrow chasm between life and death, or makes the difference in speedy recovery or years of confinement to a hospital bed.

Here, in the state's largest hospital of its kind, people come from 33 counties to restore themselves physically and, frequently, to "find themselves" in spiritual and emotional resurrection.

"We get all kinds of people," Westmoreland says, "from Skid Row to the wealthy elite." More than 800 are admitted to the sanatorium for treatment each year. It is a virtual "melting pot" of humanity.

Although tuberculosis strikes rich and poor alike, most victims come from the low socio-economic level. They are people, the chaplain finds, who have unresolved personal problems heaped upon the fear and despair wrought by disease.

"One of the biggest problems the tubercular patient faces," Westmoreland says, "is the fact he has a disease as serious as TB; that he is a menace to society. Then there is the adjustment to the problem of being away from home."

This is where the battle for life begins—in framing the patient's attitudes, in rekindling the small spark of hope he has lost in the depth of half-surrender.

Even the sanatorium lends itself to this ever-renewing process.

From almost every window one can look out across acres of nature's own tranquility—the beauty of spring's flowering plant life or the untroubled softness of winter's first snow.

But the task of dispensing the incentive to live is not the chaplain's alone. Four occupational therapists, a librarian and two school teachers share in supplementing the healing medical treatment administered by six staff physicians. In all, the sanatorium employs 340 persons.

"We work as a team," Westmoreland stresses. "Our motto is: 'We treat the whole man.'" It is a guiding principle in which the hospital's doctors place unwavering credence. For biological medicine is only part of the total cure.

While the average length of hospitalization is nine months, some patients stay only a few weeks, others as long as several years. A few never leave.

At 62, Lloyd E. Traylor of Norlina has spent more than a fourth of his lifetime in a tubercular hospital, the last 14 years in Eastern North Carolina Sanatorium.

What keeps him alive? "I still live in hope from one year to the next that I'll get out. I keep hoping that someone, somewhere will come up with a drug that will cure me."

For Traylor, faith is the only thing left. But it is enough. The void of time created by hospitalization also alters many lives. A young patient who had abandoned his education became interested in the hospital laboratory. Westmoreland encouraged him to resume his studies. Today, he is working toward an M.D. degree at the University of North Carolina.

A housewife who had always wanted to write fiction penned her first short story at the sanatorium. It was purchased by a national magazine. Since then she has done several stories which have been adapted for television.

Does extended hospitalization create new problems for the tubercular patient?

"No," concludes Westmoreland, adding that it brings about culmination of stresses and conflicts that already exist, usually with a satisfactory solution.

The ratio of alcoholism is high among tubercular patients; some have domestic difficulties; others have financial worries. Regardless of the problem it must be resolved before adequate response to medical treatment can be expected.

The chaplain draws a definite line between normal emotional stresses and mental disease. Patients with psychosis are sent to the North Carolina Sanatorium at McCain, where there are facilities for psychiatric treatment.

Aside from curing tuberculosis, Westmoreland puts great stock in sanatorium life.

"If everyone could spend a year here," he ventures, "he would leave a better person than when he came in. I've seen too many people do it."

A RECORD FAMILY

KINGFISHER, Okla. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Norwood have what may be a record family: 19 children, 50 grandchildren and 50 great grandchildren. And they know all their names and addresses, too.

Six In Building Killed By Blaze

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Six persons, including a family of four, died early today in a fire that swept a three-story building in the city's northside. Five others escaped.

The flames trapped two families of four in a third-floor apartment. Only a man and a small girl escaped.

A family of three in a second-floor apartment fled down a stairway. A grocery store was on the ground floor.

The dead were Mrs. Joyce McDonald, about 21, and her son, Steven, 5 months, occupants of the third-floor apartment; and their visitors, Ralph Benedict, about 25, of Rochester; his wife, Mary 21; and their two children, Rosemary, 2, and Annette, 5 months.

Mrs. McDonald's husband, James, 23, carried his daughter to safety. He was hospitalized for smoke inhalation. The girl was taken to her grandparents' home.

Fire Lt. Joseph Naloré said the fire was believed to have started on the third floor. The cause was not determined immediately.

Forecast Dip In The Farm Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm product prices started the new year about one per cent above levels of a year ago, but officials are forecasting a dip before the year is over.

In its final price report of 1958, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday prices declined 2 per cent in December, the third consecutive month of setback.

But for 1958 as a whole, the prices averaged about 5 per cent above those of 1957. Likewise, these prices averaged 84 per cent of parity for the year compared with 82 in 1957. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

Secretary Benson said in a statement that "the per capita income of farm people from all sources in 1958 may be the highest on record." But he said higher output may force some declines in 1959.

Other officials predicted that increasing surpluses and prospects for continued big production will pull prices down possibly 5 per cent this year from the 1958 average. The sharpest decline may come, they said, in livestock prices which ended the year 10 per cent higher than at the end of 1957.

Primarily responsible for the December setback was a decline in prices for cotton, citrus fruit, tomatoes, hogs, eggs, and milk. Corn and tobacco made appreciable increases.

Oldest Active Physician Dies

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Dr. John B. Cummins, who at 100 was the nation's oldest practicing physician, died here Wednesday night.

Dr. Cummins kept regular office hours and made house calls day or night until Sunday when he fractured a hip and ribs in a fall. Death was attributed to the fall and old age.

A native of Tennessee, Dr. Cummins worked his way through college and did not start practicing medicine until he was 35. He held degrees from Brant College, Spencer, Tenn., and Bowling Green Normal in Kentucky. He later received medical degrees from the University of Nashville, now Vanderbilt University and the University of the South (Sevance).

He began his practice in 1897 in Indian Territory, now Oklahoma. He had practiced in Fort Worth for 55 years.

He was a member of the Tarrant County Medical Society. The state group named him "general practitioner of the year" in 1950.

Repay Conductor For Kindnesses

GREAT BEND, Kan. (AP) — About 15 youngsters who live along the Missouri Pacific in Great Bend figured out a way to return the good deeds of Ed Krug, a freight train conductor from Holington, Kan.

Almost daily, the youngsters gather to watch the freight train go by. Krug tosses candy and bubble gum to them.

With the help of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Oliver, the children fastened a box of candy to a hula hoop and handed the hoop to Krug as he rolled by on his caboose.

Do-It-Yourself Is Fine, But Can Rule Your Life

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures

HOW CAN you be a do-it-yourself type and maintain a good disposition?

That's the question from the wife of an amateur handyman.

"My husband and I were very happy, writes a Croton, N. Y., housewife, "until he started to build a new kitchen. Now after months that seem a lifetime he is a ghost of his former self, tense and nervous, irritable with the children, unable to eat or sleep. He spends every waking moment in the kitchen except when he is working out of the home. He doesn't take a minute out for relaxation.

"We have grown to dislike the kitchen," she continues. "I have been helping my husband by doing the plastering, sanding and painting, while he does the carpentry, plumbing, electricity and planning. But sometimes I feel that if I could wake up and see my old kitchen, I would be very happy.

"The cabinets aren't quite finished, so I keep pots and food on the porch. The food freezes out there, and when I made pancakes recently no one could pour the syrup. We all burst into tears. It was the final blow."

This harried housewife learned by experience the hazards of over ambitious do-it-yourself.

The big idea to keep in mind when remodeling a home is Don't Kill Yourself. Other ideas that might be helpful include these:

1. Take time out from the project occasionally, so you don't feel you are pinned to it.

2. As long as it is going to take three months, don't worry that it may take four. If you can enjoy life while you do it, the other month won't matter.

3. When doing over your house do not get up earlier or go to bed later than usual. That is how amateur handymen get fed up with a job.

4. Figure out the cost of everything before you begin the project. Don't start getting nervous when the bills pour in, and you haven't even begun the big tasks.

5. If you can avoid it, do not enter the room that is being remodeled. If the kitchen is being done over, move a small stove or refrigerator into another room, and try to keep things going without stumbling over rubble.

6. It's a good idea not to invite kibitzers in to get your teeth on edge. People who carry suggestion boxes in their wallets always manage to put a crimp in other people's plans.

7. When doing any home project try to treat it as a hobby, relaxing when you've had your fill, rather than going on doggedly to see the end of it.

Federal Poultry Program Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new federal inspection program for poultry products goes into effect today.

Under it all such products moving in interstate commerce must bear the inspection mark of Agriculture Department inspectors. The purpose is to make sure that such products are wholesome.

Officials said the new program, authorized by Congress, should protect consumers against unsanitary and diseased products. They said it should build stronger consumer markets for poultry and thereby aid producers.

Some consumer groups are trying now to get all the states to enact similar laws which would require inspection of poultry processed and marketed within the state.

Jail Terms For 3 Bomb Hoaxers

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Three teenaged boys have been given jail terms for school bomb hoax calls, two of them here and the other at Greensboro.

Two 16-year-old boys—Donald L. Stinson and James A. Clubb—were given 30-day jail sentences in municipal court here yesterday for their parts in a false report Dec. 10 that a bomb was planted in Williams High School. They were found guilty of disturbing a school.

Clubb appealed his conviction to the March 2 term of Alamance Superior Court and was freed under $500 bond. He pleaded innocent, but Stinson pleaded guilty and did not appeal the sentence.

At Greensboro, a 14-year-old boy was sentenced to 10 days in the county detention home for juveniles for phoning a bomb hoax call to the Aycock School Dec. 10. Judge Gordon Gentry of Domestic Relations Court ordered the sentence to begin today, but lawyers for the youth appealed to the superior court.

Gentry had ordered that on days when the boy is to be in school, he was to be brought to court at 8 a.m. and returned to the court at 4 p.m. to be taken back to the detention home.

A 14-year-old Negro girl awaits trial at Greensboro. Police said she admitted making a bomb hoax calls to other schools there.

Hoffa's Gesture May Spell Doom

It does not seem likely that the people of New York or Americans anywhere will tolerate the attempt by Teamster Boss Jommy Hoffa to take over the police and fire departments of New York City and the rest of the nation.

If the men whose responsibility it is to protect the public, prevent crime and catch criminals become subject to the orders of the bosses of corruption ridden unions, protection of society and law enforcement as we have known them are sure to become extinct.

The Teamsters Union under Hoffa's leadership is being pressed by law enforcement agencies and by the courts. Congressional investigations have established almost without question a connection between the union leadership and underworld activities in the country. Because of action of its leaders, the Teamsters Union was expelled from the CIO and court-appointed monitors have been charged with the responsibility to see that the union cleans out its racketeering and underworld elements. The situation in the Teamsters was found to be so bad that the courts also instructed the monitors to supervise the activities of the union.

Now Hoffa has made the bold assertion he intends to bring sufficient pressure on the police and fire departments of the nation's largest city to bring the members of these departments into his union.

We frankly do not believe the American people will tolerate such action from Hoffa or from any other individual.

As public servants, policemen, firemen and other government employes have a duty to all the citizens. To be sure they are entitled to fair treatment and fair wages by their employers, the people. But in return for these things, the people expect firemen, policemen and other government employes to lend their full allegiance to the public welfare.

Hoffa's very approach to the attempted organization of the New York police and fire departments dooms the effort to failure. If the Teamsters are willing to disrupt vital public services in their own interest to organize firemen and policemen, would not these same union bosses go to any lengths to protect their own selfish interests once they had the law enforcement agencies under their control?

Hoffa up to now has been fairly successful in eluding punishment in his running battle with the law and the courts. But this time, in this bold attempt to gain control of the New York police and perhaps police departments throughout the nation, he has bitten off more than he can chew.

It should not be surprising if this one act on the part of Hoffa and other Teamster bosses does not bring about the downfall of the hierarchy which has gained a stranglehold on the gigantic Teamsters Union.

Four-Lane Highway A Welcome Addition

Transformation of highway 11 into a four-lane thoroughfare from West End Circle in Greenville to the intersection of highway 264 will alleviate a traffic situation that has needed attention for considerable time.

In conjunction with the new bypass crossing Greenville from north to south and the four-lane Memorial Drive, the new highway will provide a major improvement for the movement of through-traffic across the western part of the city.

Though the project was delayed several months by revisions requested by property owners along the proposed route, there is little room to doubt now that the project will now be completed by the end of 1959. A federal-aid project under the anti-recession program, the project must be completed by December 1, 1959 in order for the state to receive federal funds provided for the project. Certainly the state will see the project is completed in time for it to receive the federal funds.

During the construction period, the make-shift arrangements along the stretch of highway will cause some inconvenience to motorists who use the route daily. This inconvenience will be minor, however, in comparison to the major improvement which will be a reality when construction is completed.

A Year Of Big Left-Overs

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The little guy, any little guy going home on New Year's Eve, looked back on 1958 and could hardly see it. It wasn't much of a year, a kind of ho-hum year, a real second-rater, as years go.

Nothing was settled. It was a kind of in-between year, full of things left over to be settled later. It was like a boy carrying a bunch of packages from 1957 to 1959.

He had mixed feelings about it, and about himself too: both glad and uneasy.

When the recession hit, it was like being missed by lightning. Millions of guys lost their jobs but he kept his. He knew a recession is like lightning. It would hit again some time. Next time it might not miss him.

There was something to be uneasy about. Not too uneasy, but a little unsure, like all the times on the way to work when he wondered if he had put out that last cigarette before he left the house.

There was one thing didn't make him happy: it was the feeling that in the whole year he should have done more with his life. Maybe he could have done better if he were smarter, or thought harder. Baloney.

He had this same feeling of time being wasted at the end of every year. No reason to this was the way he was; he had no illusions; he had realized long ago he'd never set the world afire. So why feel disappointed?

He knew he felt smaller in 1958 than in any year of his life, and the world looked bigger. He felt less and less a part of things, more and more left out. It was easy to tell when that started with him.

It was in the fall of 1957 when the word "liberty" sent their little Sputniks up. It was like being thrown bodily into a new world and he was unprepared for it. He had spent his whole life earthbound, looking down, not up.

The Sputniks were like a can-opener: they lifted the lid on a whole new world over his head and men were talking of sailing out into it, to the moon and even to the planets beyond.

All of a sudden scientists were the princes of the new order, the guides to the future, the magicians of time and space. He wished his kids would fit into the new world coming, better than he knew he'd ever be able to.

He told himself: "You sound a little phony, moaning about all you don't know about space and rockets and things like that. How much do you know about that? What's going on around you down here?"

It was a good question. He knew he wouldn't get high marks on that one either. There were too many things happening in too many places for him to know more than just little pieces.

Politics, for instance. He knew American politics pretty well. He could spot a big mouth in an empty head as fast as the next guy. What about economics? He was glad there was no one around to pin him down on economics.

But then even the economists themselves never seemed to agree. So he felt he could sound off on prices and wages without sounding too bad.

But he really bogged down when he began thinking of what went on between the United States, and the Soviet Union, and Red China, and other countries. Then he didn't know what to think.

Was anybody — say the United States or the Soviet Union — setting ahead of anybody? He knew all the talking, all the dicker-ing, was just preparation for something. He didn't know. Maybe he'd never know in his lifetime.

He was living better than he had ever lived. He liked to think it would always be like that: better every year. Not so much for himself. For his kids. He didn't know. He couldn't be sure.

All he knew when he reached his house New Year's Eve and went inside, it wasn't so much like closing a door on a year as it was like closing a door on just another day.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

NEW LAND

"Ye have not passed this way before" (Joshua 3:4).

New Year's Day. We have never before stood on this ground. Our faces have never before been turned this way. A new experience lies before us.

We can go anywhere we care to. There are a few traffic rules on the Highway of Life, and those who break them either get drowned upon socially and morally, or, in extreme cases, find themselves occupying a cell. But for the most part we are free to go wherever we will. We have liberty, and it is suggestive that the word "liberty" comes originally from a Sanskrit word which means "to grow." We have liberty, and the purpose of liberty is to give us an opportunity to grow.

So we should grow this year.

Not, of course, as those teenagers grow, but in an equally significant way. The truly great people are those who never cease to grow. If they live to be eighty, the truly great continue to grow.

There is a thrill in entering a domain into which we have never before. Ahead lies adventure. "Oh, you say, 'I'm too old for adventure.' Or, 'How can one have any adventure in his life or here where it's a matter of keeping the nose to the grindstone, or the hands in dish-water, or going to the office or store as I have for many years?'"

Adventure springs not from circumstances but from our attitude toward circumstances. And stretching out three hundred and sixty-five days ahead of us is a new era of opportunity.

Carrier Is Branching Out

Billy Walker, The Daily Reflector's carrier boy in the Fountain area for nearly five years, is branching out in his newspaper work.

Ordinarily, properly delivering a daily route is enough for most carriers, but Billy, in addition, is in the process of developing a personal interest in another phase of newspapering. He's a writer and editor.

The high school senior is chief of staff for Farmville High School's "News 'n' Views", the student newspaper. In the latest edition of the publication, he had at least four articles, ranging from a young reporter's view of coverage of a major news event to a humorous editorial page column.

The work he is doing on the Farmville student paper is building a reputation for good, solid reporting for Billy, but so far as a reputation in the profession is concerned, he could have guaranteed himself an outstanding one on the merits of his delivery work alone.

His boss, Reflector Circulation Manager J. E. Keziah, says, "He's a good carrier and proved it by winning one of the special awards at the carriers' recent Christmas party. He has increased the size of his route by about 50 per cent since he took it over in March, 1954, and he ranks now as the second oldest, in length of service, among The Reflector's 56 carriers."

Billy's reputation as a carrier is built largely on faithful service in every kind of weather to his customers, but he gives part of the credit to his mother. She picks up his papers daily in Farmville, where they are sent by bus, and Mrs. Walker has delivered the route on occasions when Billy had other commitments.

The stories written by the young carrier for the high school paper indicate, according to teachers and other observers, a certain measure of genuine promise. As editor of the paper, he has shown, they say, an ability to organize the work of the staff, covering every phase of the school's activities. As a writer, his stories offer proof of his ability to look with a keen and perceptive eye on the basic issues in a news situation and then present the findings in a good, readable style.

Billy's story on coverage of the opening of Farmville's multi-million dollar Flak board plant is perhaps the best illustration of his BILLY WALKER view of newspapering. The story is a comforting balance between a rosy-eyed view of a reporter's job and the realization that it is hard work.

Among his comments were these:

"We sat . . . at the luncheon . . . feeling very governor-conscious and frequently glancing around to see if we had missed anything. We had just witnessed a moving example of modern automation at the new plant and were eagerly awaiting the Governor's comments.

"Being present at such a gathering of newsmen has a permanent affect on one: A reporter in action is really something . . ."

"And soon the speeches were over, and the newspapermen were on their way home; equipped with photographs and notes; full of creative thoughts and ideas, way to make their story different, unique, and, yet, thoroughly original . . ."

"A tough assignment? Yep, a pretty tough assignment."

Quote . . .

"When Senators sought to amend a resolution lauding Chairman Butler's position, they failed again. The vote was 84 to 18. It is high time that we of the South quit kidding ourselves. What's more, our political leaders should stop kidding us."—Jackson (Miss.) State Times.

Other Editors Saying --- Profit In Aromatic Leaf

(The Asheville Citizen)

Western North Carolina farmers who are alert to new opportunities may well consider the profit possibilities in growing aromatic (or Turkish) tobacco.

The United States imports more than 80,000,000 pounds annually. We do not produce 1,000,000 pounds annually. Obviously the market is great for domestic production.

Aromatic tobacco is a relatively new source of income for farmers. It dates from the experiments conducted between 1939 and 1946 by Duke University scientists. They proved it could be grown in the Southwestern part of the United States.

Experiment stations and extension services in North and South Carolina and Virginia showed that through seed selection and other methods desirable qualities of the leaf could be enhanced and "sleeper" portions diminished. Because of this, three pounds of domestic aromatic tobacco were found to possess the sought after qualities of four pounds of imported aromatic tobacco brought in principally from the Balkans.

Aromatic tobacco is described as the "golden-haired queen" which lends flavor to cigarettes. It is blended with commonly grown domestic tobacco. Because of the flavor, there is a heavy demand for it. Yet there is a great under-production in the United States and no allotments.

A farmer in the Southeast can produce 1,000 pounds of better aromatic tobacco in less time and with less effort than that required to produce 250 pounds a few years ago. That is due to many improvements including harvesting methods. The yields are gratifying, averaging more than 1,000 pounds per acre.

Thirty-six growers this fall sold at Rutherfordton a total of 6,285 pounds at an average price of $1.10 per pound. All told, there were 53 growers in Western North Carolina this year. The Farmers Federation, which is encouraging the growing of the tobacco, hopes there will be 100 next year. A number of farmers have expressed interest.

The high-quality aromatic tobacco is grown most successfully or relatively poor or intermediate soils.

The tobacco leaves are small. The biggest part of the labor—through light—is in harvesting. It provides opportunity for the entire family to work together in increasing its income.

Growing of aromatic tobacco is taking hold slowly but steadily in the mountains. With demand great, prices good and improvements made in harvesting, it is believed that it offers a fine opportunity to farmers with land suited to growing it. The extension services have the know-how which they are most willing to pass along for the asking.

First Real Test Of FTC Rules

By ELMER ROESSNER

This week will see the first real test of the effectiveness of the Federal Trade Commission's new rules against fictitious pricing.

Christmas sales always leave heavy stocks of remainders. The newspaper strike in New York City increased these inventories. Lack of advertising cut Christmas volume painfully. Many stores, in addition to clearance sales of their own, will transship surplus goods to branches or other stores elsewhere.

Retailers will be under severe temptation to use comparative pricing to the limit to move the leftovers. Some will succumb to the urge to exaggerate, in violation of the FTC guide.

These rules prohibit exaggerated claims of savings, and the misrepresentation of price reductions. For example, it is not permitted to advertise an article at "half the regular price," unless the price is half of what has been customarily charged for the article. A one-time sale, or a sale long ago is not a "regular" price.

EVERYBODY CAUTIOUS SO FAR

So far, the guide has been followed closely as a rule. Many retailers suspect the FTC is just waiting for a few good cases for a crackdown to make an example of a few flagrant violators as a warning to merchants everywhere that it will enforce its rules.

Of course, it is proper to advertise any item at "half price," at "60 per cent off," "formerly higher" and "was higher," if those are true statements. And in the present situation, many goods will be advertised this week and next honestly with those claims.

The fact will increase temptation for dishonest retailers to join the parade.

Actually, the FTC and the Better Business Bureau, which are co-operating to bring about acceptance of the principles, may be doing all merchants a favor.

CLEANSING COMPETITION

Certainly they are doing honest merchants a service by putting legal brakes on dishonest competitors. But benefits may be even broader.

"Half price," "regularly sold for" and the other cliches of retail advertising have become boring and incredible to many shoppers. "Factory price" and "wholesale price" claims are generally suspect. No retailer can consistently sell at factory or wholesale prices and stay in business — not even if he makes a small profit on the paper and string.

With the FTC looking over the shoulder of advertising writers, perhaps there can be some new freshness and new credibility to price advertising. Instead of writing, "$4.95, formerly $9.95," a copy writer might be tempted to say, "$4.95 — sold at $9.95 on December 22."

NEW IDEAS, TESTED IN MERCHANDISING

An Idaho appliance store offered farmers a $10.07 allowance on old horse blankets toward new electric blankets. It pulled . . . Dozens of record stores are giving a ticket with each record sold and holding a drawing one a week. The winner gets a free record . . . An Iowa department store racked up its biggest day's sales in history with a "gay Nineties" sale, with all employees in period costumes . . . A Wisconsin store held a "Tithing Day" event, during which 10 per cent of all sales receipts were given to charities of the buyers' choices.

Helped Music Career

By W. G. ROGERS
NEW YORK, (AP) — A Bronx cabdriver has just had the heart-warming satisfaction of seeing his son win one of this country's major music prizes.

And when Hungarian-born Melchior Schwartz sat in Town Hall for young Joseph's successful New York debut last month, he was entitled to reflect — though he's too modest to — that he had a hand in helping his boy at three critical points in his career.

Melchior didn't do it alone; Joseph, who is 25, has for nearly 20 years followed a heavy schedule of practicing. He does it willingly enough now, but his father recalled:

"He'd want to go out and play baseball, at the start, and sometimes I had to go out in the streets and look for him."
"And stand behind me at the piano, too," the son added with a grin. He has curly black hair and an equally personable air whether on the platform or sitting across the table from you.

It began with a radio program, or maybe ever farther back on the darkening early-evening streets of an eastern Hungarian village. Asked whether there had been musicians in the family, the father said:

"My wife used to play the piano a little. But no musicians, not in the way you mean. But instead, there was music. Music mattered. When the young peasants of my village went out to court their girls, they sang folk-songs as they walked through the streets to meet their dates. I sang them, too."

Did young Joseph court his wife — who has a master's degree in music education and has taught at Columbia — by walking through Manhattan streets and singing on the way? He did not.

"I had a terrible voice," he said.

So the native interest in music already existed when, safely settled in the Bronx, Melchior Schwartz heard a 5-year-old radio hour to show she had perfect pitch. Why not his son, too? Joseph had it, and from then on he practiced, like it or not.

"By the way, the prize winner said, 'I had about committed myself to piano playing for good. We moved to Los Angeles where for six years, from my 11th to 17th, I worked with one teacher. At 13 I made my actual debut with the Huntington Park Symphony Orchestra out there and at 14 I won the Junior Division of the Hollywood Bowl auditions."

Now the father stepped into the picture again. He was working as a mechanic in a wartime factory in California, but his son needed Juilliard training and he moved the family back to New York. Joseph lived at home and had a Juilliard scholarship. The father got a cabbie's job, five days a week, from 4 in the afternoon to 2 or 3 in the morning, and when his son won the coveted Walter W. Naumburg Foundation honor and was scheduled for a Town Hall recital, the father pasted one of the advertising leaflets up in his cab.

"My daughters said it was silly," he recalled. "But every now and then a passenger would notice that my name was Schwartz and the pianist's was, too, and they'd ask me if he was my son. Sure, I said, and gave them one of the advertising bills with his picture. It seems a columnist noticed it one day, though he didn't tell me who he was."

Alfred E. Rossin, Joseph's manager, of the National Music League, explained: "You know how careful managers are about sending out notices. Well there was more interest in this than we could account for. In fact we had the biggest crowd at a Naumburg concert in some years. So we discovered Leonard Lyons used a paragraph about him in the New York Post, and we know that gave him many extra listeners."

Once determined to be a musician, Schwartz had a hard time of it financially despite his father's help. Several summers he was music counsellor in a camp. Once he tried peddling ice cream on a three-wheeled bicycle, but he could take that only two days. Once he tried running messages, but only for one day.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDREW C. LANG

There's something about a new year that encourages the belief that things are going to be different. And so we decide to help matters along by pledging to make certain changes in our way of life.

There's not a home handyman anywhere who does everything the way he knows it should be done. There probably never will be. But working around the house can be a lot easier — and safer — if certain fundamentals are observed. With that idea in mind, here are some suggested resolutions for the home handyman for the year 1959:

1. I will take my time on whatever I am doing, knowing that nearly all the mistakes I have made in the past in the workshop were the result of unnecessary haste.
2. I will clean a paint brush each time it is used, because I have heard that 90 per cent of the brushes used by amateurs are discarded, through neglect, long before they are worn out.
3. I will not overload existing electrical circuits with heavy-duty power machines, but will have an electrician add an extra line to take care of the added drain on the power.
4. I will keep an airtight metal container in the workshop and will put all paint and oil rags in the container if they can not be disposed of immediately.
5. I will use the recommended blade guards on table saws and similar power tools and will not engage in a running conversation with anyone while using any of the machines.
6. I will walk any and all openings inside and outside the house while they are still small and before they can cause serious damage.
7. In hanging wallpaper, putting up ceiling materials and laying floor tiles, I will not assume the walls and window frames are straight, but will check them to be certain the completed job is not out of line.
8. I will never use lacquer or any other volatile material where there is not sufficient ventilation and will, in fact, endeavor to do all such work outdoors.
9. I will get into the habit of making periodic inspections of gutters, downspouts and all other drainage facilities.
10. I will realize that the manufacturer of a particular product has made extensive tests to determine how it best can be used — and I will therefore follow his recommendations.

First job in show business that Flo Ziegfeld, of "Follies" fame, found was as a kid sharpshooter with Buffalo Bill's Wild West show.

New York Lawyer To Try Free Two N. C. Reform School Boys

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York lawyer says he will launch a move to free two North Carolina Negro boys sent to reform school for kissing a 7-year-old white girl.

The lawyer, Conrad Lynn, said he would act for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and would appeal to the North Carolina Superior Court to have the boys freed.

Lynn told a press conference here yesterday he felt that the boys were wrongly imprisoned. "There is no question they did no. have a fair trial. There were so many constitutional violations, the trial will never stand up," he said. "Eventually we will get these children out."

In North Carolina, however, an aide to Gov. Luther Hodges said the boys could be freed from the Morrison Training School anytime their parents "are willing and able to give them proper care."

Hodges said shortly after the incident in November that the mothers of the boys work, that the two boys had been in trouble several times before, and that there was no place else to keep them out of trouble.

At the time of their juvenile court hearing Nov. 4, Juvenile Judge J. Hampton Price reported the boys were held in jail because the county has no juvenile detention center, and because of the "feeling in the last (kissing) case."

He said one of the girls testified she was forced to kiss one of the boys, assisted by the other defendant, in order to get out of a culvert where the Negroes had found the three white girls, "ages 6 to 7."

He said no one asked him to appoint a lawyer to defend the boys. North Carolina law requires such action only upon request of the defendant, and in capital cases, where the appointment of a lawyer is mandatory.

Lynn charged that the boys were held in jail six days without any charges. He said this was a violation of their constitutional rights. He also said it was a violation of their constitutional rights when Price held separate hearings for the girl and her parents and for the boys and their parents.

"They (the boys) were never allowed to confront their accuser and answer the charge," he said, and added that James Junior Thompson, 10, one of the boys, admitted kissing the girl during a kissing game "with other white girls and boys."

The girl's parents said Thompson forced the girl to kiss him, but Lynn said the Thompson boy denied this.

Lynn said the NAACP had decided the case came within the category of constitutional violations and civil rights cases it defends.

He said the NAACP will help move the Thompson family out of the area, along with the family of the other boy, and find them new homes.

"It's wonderful to win the Naumburg," he said. "Now I'd like to get to Europe and have a try at a prize there, maybe the Warsaw competition in 1960. European prizes are one way to break through the sound barrier. But I am getting an increasing number of engagements outside New York; in Illinois, Michigan, Pennsylvania. My manager says local concert bureaus across the country pay more and more attention to winners of American prizes."

Does his wife help? She certainly does, but she does it by staying at home. They had their first child only two weeks after the Town Hall debut and for a while there was a question which would come first, the recital or the birth.

"She's a very good critic," he said. "She really knows what I'm not doing well."

"None of my children get rich," said the father, "but they do all right, all of them. There's Joseph at the piano, and my other son is an accountant. My two daughters are married."

How Civil Defense Serves You

WARNING VOICE from the sky would supplement CONELRAD emergency radio, sirens and other devices to spread civil defense warning of impending attack or post-attack fallout to threatened communities. This exercise was conducted over Cape Elizabeth, Me. (Photo by Clarence McKay, Augusta, Me.)

Preparedness for Peace Stressed In First Annual CD Observance

Remember Pearl Harbor? Most adult Americans do. And they still remember the cold chill that ran down their spines as radios blared forth the news of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. America was plunged into war. Seventeen years after that infamous December 7, Americans have just been reminded by the first annual Civil Defense Day how the chances for peace can be improved through the preparedness of every family and the enemy's knowledge that we are prepared.

IN HAWAII, now well aware of the need for vigilance and preparedness, the Territorial Civil Defense Agency today is ready to help minimize the effects of any future attack with trained manpower. In a tunnel under famed Diamond Head, tons of emergency supplies and a smoothly-functioning control center would provide a nucleus for all civil defense operations in an attack. But civil defense, in these Pacific Isles as elsewhere, is only as good as its public support. Preparations for a nuclear attack, or even natural disaster, must be made in advance; afterwards, it is too late.

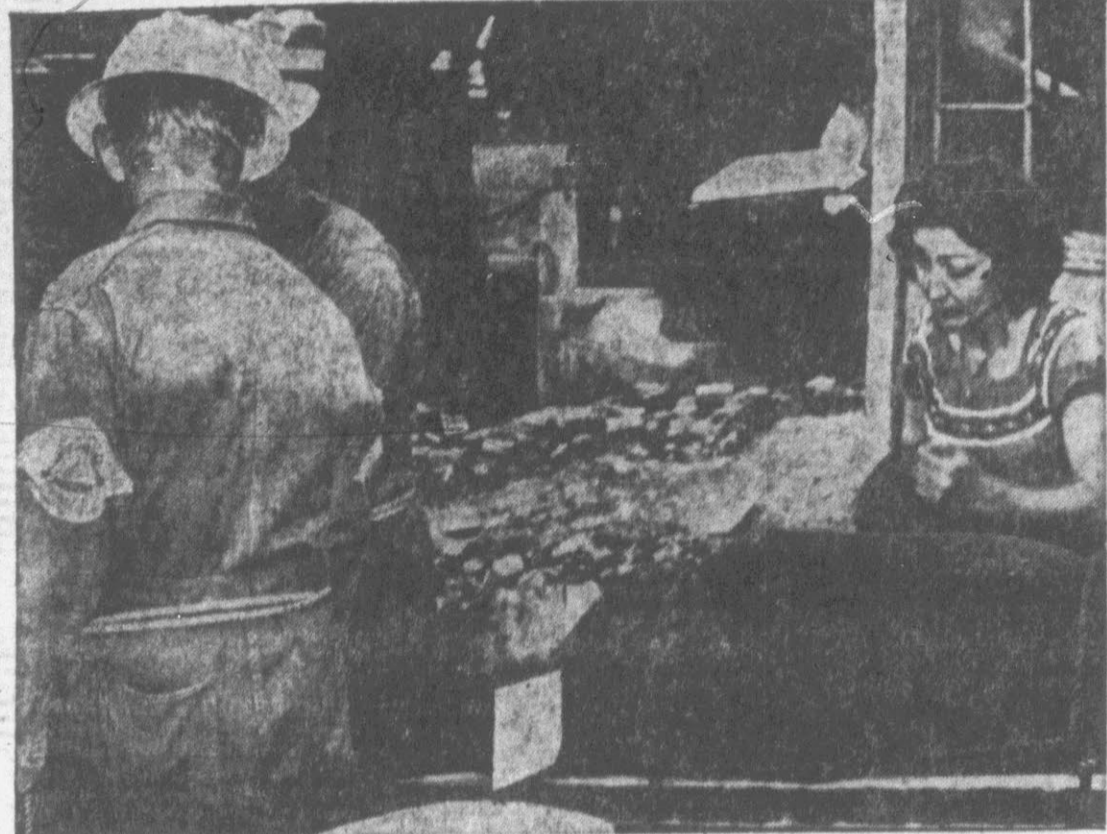

The people of Cameron, La., whose failure to heed warnings cost 517 lives to Hurricane Audrey, know this only too well. And in the 18 productive months since "Audrey," they have learned the value of an organized effort, such as civil defense, in rebuilding. The Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization has authorized $2,204,995 toward the rebuilding of Cameron Parish (county).

MOST AMERICANS have never been touched directly by major disaster. But they can learn from others' experience, participate in civil defense training, prepare their homes and families for any eventuality, and help provide the money for necessary equipment, supplies and operations.

It is not enough to remember Pearl Harbor unless you do something about it!

AIR ATTACK, tidal waves or other disasters will not catch Hawaii without warning again. Honolulu policeman presses air raid siren switch in monthly test, a part of the island's civil defense preparedness program. The switch to the right triggers Honolulu's tidal wave warning signal. (Hawaiian Civil Defense Photo)

REALISTIC MEDICAL exercises by local civil defense units such as this one at Los Angeles build up a preparedness to meet nuclear attack or natural disaster. Only through such training as this can the nation be ready to care for the millions of casualties that might result from nuclear attack. (Photo by Jack F. Fuller, Los Angeles)

DANGLING ROPE and fragment of an overturned car at left are all that remain to mark a tragedy in which a family of three drowned when this giant oak tree to which they were clinging east of Cameron, La., fell into the flood churned up by Hurricane Audrey. Like some other families, they failed to heed Weather Bureau warnings to flee the low-lying coastal swamps ahead of gigantic storm-driven waves. The ultra-modern Cameron Elementary School, built on pilings against any future floods, was aided by a $171,550 disaster grant authorized by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization. It is typical of civil defense's role of reconstructing public facilities after disaster. (OCDM Photos)

CIVIL DEFENSE volunteers pitch in to help fight an apartment house fire in Minneapolis while regular professional firemen were tied up with a massive downtown blaze. Civil defense reserves are often called on to help out during natural disasters—a vital service which also helps them to prepare for action in case of nuclear attack or other national emergency. (Minneapolis Star and Tribune Photo)

CONTROL CENTER for civil defense in northeastern Illinois near Wheaton, Ill., is an outstanding example of new facilities being constructed to provide city and State governments with headquarters for emergency operations in case of nuclear attack. This underground control center is built to withstand a nuclear blast equivalent to 20 million tons of TNT only three miles away. Heart of the center is the radio communications room, partly shown here. (OCDM Photo)

Missiles Fuel Blast Kills Two

INDIAN HEAD, Md. (AP)—An explosion in a missile propellant plant killed two men Wednesday night just a half hour before the new year started.

Two other workmen suffered third degree burns and other injuries and were rushed to a Washington hospital. The four workmen were the only ones in the building.

The explosion and a subsequent fire virtually destroyed one building of the Naval Propellant Plant, which made gunpowder during World War II and has since been partially converted to work on solid fuels for military missiles.

The sprawling government-owned installation is located on an isolated Potomac River promontory, 30 miles south of Washington. Some of its work is secret and access to the installation is restricted.

A Potomac River Command spokesman said the building involved in the explosion houses the glazing and screening process of double base casting powder. He described that as the basic grain powder used in making solid propellants for large military rockets.

Capt. Griswold T. Atkins, commander of the installation, said the powder was being coated with graphite. He described the process as "a standard operation. We've been doing it for years."

The Navy declined to give the names of the dead pending notification of relatives.

The two injured workmen were identified as Robert B. Bowman and Isaac Johnson, both of Indian Head.

NLRB And Counsel Argue Over Policies, Personnel

WASHINGTON (AP)—An internal row over policies and handling of personnel is reported to have broken out between the five-man National Labor Relations Board and the board's general counsel, Jerome D. Fenton.

The principals declined either to confirm or to deny the reports, but other sources said a feud has reached such proportions that board members have detailed their complaints to the White House.

They reportedly have said in effect that they cannot further get along with Fenton.

There have been reports in recent weeks that Fenton may resign and take a position in the Defense Department where he was security director in 1955-57.

Fenton formerly was associated with the Detroit law firm of Secretary of the Army Wilber Brucker and for more than a decade was assistant vice president for personnel for Pan American World Airways.

Board members declined to comment on the reported feud. Chairman Boyd Leedom, asked if there were such a rift and whether complaints had been lodged at the White House, told a reporter "I really haven't anything to say on this subject."

Fenton has been spending the holidays at Westport, Conn. His office contacted him there about the reports and reported back he had nothing to say either. Fenton and all five NLRB members are appointees of President Eisenhower.

At least two sources, however, said there is no question that bad feelings exist between board members and Fenton, and that the board has taken up the situation with the White House.

It was reported that during Chairman Leedom's absence in Europe last summer the administrative branch of the NLRB was transferred from the board to the general counsel's office.

Aides of Fenton said this was done by the board members, but other sources said it was done by the Budget Bureau. At any rate, it was said Leedom didn't like it.

There is also talk that Fenton recommended to NLRB members the establishment of a new NLRB regional office at Houston, Tex., but this has never gone through.

Also, board members were said to feel Fenton has generally been overstepping his authority.

Under the Taft-Hartley law the general counsel prosecutes cases and the board tries them in much the same capacity as a court. The counsel has full authority over choosing cases to prosecute. He also has the function of defending board decisions that may be appealed to the courts.

This set-up has caused serious tensions before. The late Robert Denham, first NLRB general counsel after the Taft-Hartley law went into effect in 1947, had a running battle with board members.

Paul Herzog, then board chairman, and Denham had a feud over which one should have an office shower stall. The problem was solved by installing two; so each could have one. President Truman eventually fired Denham.

Jet Unit Plans Flight To Italy

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP)—The 13th Super Sonic Fighters of the 356th Tactical Fighter Squadron will make a non-stop transfer flight Jan. 13 from Myrtle Beach, S.C. Air Force base to the Aviano Air Base, Italy.

Tactical Air Command (TAC) Headquarters today said the squadron will be assigned on temporary duty in Italy for about four months.

A spokesman said the move is part of a program to rotate units to overseas bases for orientation and training and is designed to test the flexibility and mobility of operations.

Tankers of the TAC air refueling squadrons will refuel the 18 North American F100 Super Sabres over Bermuda and the Azores. The non-stop flight will be led by Lt. Col. Frank N. Emory, squadron commander.

Support aircraft, carrying personnel and equipment, will leave Myrtle Beach a few days before the flight of F100s. Personnel from two other Myrtle Beach squadrons, the 354th Armament and Electronics Squadron and the 354th Consolidated Aircraft Maintenance Squadron, will provide support for the 356th while at Aviano.

The 356th is part of the 354th Tactical Fighter Wing, commanded by Col. Francis S. Gabreski. A squadron of F100s from the wing participated in the composite air strike force sent to Adana, Turkey, during the Middle East crisis last July.

Japanese Actress Finds Life Full Of Paradoxes

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Nobu McCarthy is a fetching Japanese actress with an Irish name.

Nobu is Jerry Lewis' love interest in "Geisha Boy," a part she almost didn't get because she looked too Japanese on her first audition.

She showed up wearing a Japanese kimono, the costume that she wears in the picture. Lewis and director Frank Tashlin turned her down.

"I can see why," says Nobu, "because I never wore kimonos much until I came to America. We only wore them on New Year's in Tokyo. They are much more popular here."

Two weeks later, Nobu showed up at Lewis' office in sleek American clothes. He and Tashlin took one look and signed her.

She is married to David McCarthy, an American GI whom she met when she was one of Tokyo's top fashion models.

Nobu is full of paradoxes. Although reared in Japan, she was born in Ottawa, Canada, and her parents and four brothers now live in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Another paradox:

Recently, Ward Bond, the wagonmaster of NBC-TV's "Wagon Train," tossed a Japanese party in honor of Sessue Hayakawa's debut on the show. Nobu was invited, with other Japanese actresses, to lend atmosphere.

A CBS official spotted her. He told her to call on him the next day. She did and got herself signed for a new private eye TV series.

"I don't know how a CBS man got into an NBC party," says Nobu, "but my husband says, 'Don't ask questions. Just show up for the audition.'"

She's only been here two years but has become thoroughly Americanized. She thinks women get a better break here than in Japan—although the status of women has improved greatly since the war.

"In Japan," says Nobu, "the woman must always walk behind the man. The first thing I noticed here, especially in the department stores, was the man walking behind the woman."

Hospital Fire Is Checked In Time

BALTIMORE (AP)—A two-alarm fire swept through a storage building at a state mental hospital early today but was checked before it could spread to patients' quarters.

Hospital officials said there were no injuries and that patients were in no danger.

A spokesman for Spring Grove State Hospital said 35 patients had been moved out of the building only three weeks ago because the structure was considered a fire-trap.

The hospital fire was the second major blaze in West Baltimore early today. The second fire destroyed the Thorn Ford Sales Inc. auto agency and an undetermined number of new cars. There were no injuries, firemen said.

State Wins Classic; Cincinnati Edged By Tar Heels

By PHIL CORNER
RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State, repelling a furious invasion from the hinterlands, defeated Cincinnati and Michigan State in the last two days to win the 10th annual Dixie Basketball Classic.

The big holiday show, which ended with the Wolfpack's 70-61 victory over undefeated MSU Wednesday night, featured four of the Associated Press' top 10 cage teams.

Veteran Coach Everett Case of the victorious Wolfpack called it the "greatest tournament triumph" of his career.

Case directed the fifth-ranked N.C. State team to an over-time victory over Louisville in the first round Monday and then watched them upset second-ranked Cincinnati Tuesday, 69-60.

His team, which has won eight of nine contests, met a high jumping, aggressive MSU team which had won six in a row and was rated seventh in this week's AP poll.

Defending tourney champion North Carolina, rated No. 4, handed Cincinnati its second straight Classic defeat in a third-place consolation game, 90-88.

Duke beat Louisville 57-54 for fifth place and Wake Forest out-gunned Yale 85-76 for seventh spot.

N.C. State played a ball control game in defeating Cincinnati, but loosened up somewhat in the finals. The Wolfpack, led by the tournament's most outstanding player John Richter, and George Stepan-ovich, grabbed 43 rebounds, tying the Spartans in that department. MSU Coach Fordy Anderson said it was the first time his team had ever been equalled under the boards. "We weren't getting the follow-up offensive rebounds we're accustomed to," he explained.

With Richter and Stepanovich neutralizing the Spartans under the boards, a tight N.C. State zone defense hampered MSU's shooting ability.

All-America candidate Johnny Green, pressed under the boards constantly by Dan Enlehardt, was able to post only four points. Little Lou Pucillo, the Wolfpack's dandy floor general, accounted for 22 points, most of them on outside one-handers. Richter added 16.

The host team, playing before a wildly cheering capacity crowd of 12,400 at Reynolds Coliseum, held the lead throughout the last three-fourths of the contest, hitting on 45.3 per cent of its field goal attempts.

The Wolfpack, defeated earlier by Salz with 15 and Doug Moe this season by powerhouse Kansas State, capped its seventh of 10 Dixie classics. Never in the history of the holiday event has a team outside the state of North Carolina been champion.

Richter, 6-8 senior from Philadelphia, was voted the Classic's best performer. He came out ahead of Cincinnati All America Oscar Robertson, mainly on the strength of his fine efforts under the basket, both in shooting and rebounding.

Robertson scored 29 points as the Bearcats went down to defeat at the hands of Coach Frank McGuire's North Carolina Tar Heels. It was the third straight 29-point game for the 6-5 All-American.

It wasn't enough, however, to stop a well-balanced Tar Heel five which flashed from behind in the last five minutes.

Five men finished in double figures for North Carolina. Lee Shaffer was the big gun with 26 points. He was backed up by Dick Kepley with 21, sophomore York Larese with 17, Har-

Sophomore-laden Duke withstood a Louisville comeback on the strength of Howard Hurt's three free throws in the final second. Hurt's tosses broke a 54-54 tie. He finished high man with 24 points.

Don Goldstein led Louisville for the third straight day, scoring 23 points.

Wake Forest salvaged seventh place behind the 18 points of Dave Budd. Budd paved the way to a Wake Forest surge which put the Deacons ahead by 15 points midway through the second half.

Rose High Cagers Playing Pam Pack Friday Evening

Rose High School opens its 1959 basketball play in the Northeastern Conference tomorrow night at Rose Gymnasium against the Washington High School Pam-Pack.

The visiting Pam-Pack are rated a solid 13-point favorite over Greenville on the strength of a pair of ballgames with Goldsboro and pre-season polls. Washington has been picked the no. 1 club in the loop for the 1959 year.

The Phantoms have played three ballgames with non-conference AAA teams and have managed to win one of them, an upset over Wilson. All three of the ballgames have been played without full strength on the Phantoms' part.

Tomorrow night, however, Coach Boley Farley will have his club at almost full strength. "We should be better off than at any time so far," Farley said.

Back with the club will be several regulars who missed earlier play due to injuries. They are Howard Garner, James Ward, and Billy Cox. Steve Nobles, who has been out for a long time with old football injuries and glandular fever, is still unable to play, although it is rumored that he has been working out with the team.

Expected to start for the Phantoms tomorrow night will be Ward, Cox, Garner, Merrill Bynum and Joe Moye. The team is regarded the tallest in the loop this year. Farley's club averages well over the six-foot mark—with all five starters at least six feet or taller. In fact, the smallest man on Farley's regular starting unit is Cox, who is an even six feet tall.

Farley's club has been working out heavily during the holidays, drilling with an alumni team composed of boys who played for the Phant last season, as well as several others who are now playing college ball elsewhere.

Washington's club, picked by the loop as the No. 1 team this year, is not as tall as Greenville's, but the Pam-Pack are regarded the deadliest shooting group in the conference. Several veterans make up Coach Bill Sweel's starting unit. Gone, of course, are the two All-Conference boys who guided the Pack last year, Ward Mar-slender and Jim Silverthorn.

Sweel, however, reportedly has filled the gap left by those two with a pair of boys who may be even better, team-wise.

Game time for the varsity encounter is set for 8:00. A jaycee contest will start the night's action at 6:30.

Two-Day Respite For ACC Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tournament weary Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams get a brief two day respite from the hardwoods before resuming regular season play Saturday.

Seven of the ACC's eight teams wound up holiday tournament action Tuesday and Wednesday. North Carolina State, fifth ranked nationally, was the only conference team to capture a tournament championship, winning the rugged Dixie Classic in Raleigh last night with a 70-61 victory over Michigan State, ranked No. 7 by The Associated Press.

North Carolina, handing second-ranked Cincinnati its second loss in as many days in the Dixie Classic, 69-60, finished third in the Raleigh Classic.

The other two members of North Carolina's Big Four Wake Forest and Duke, fared well Wednesday in the Raleigh event. Duke beat Louisville 57-54 for fifth place and Wake Forest rolled over Yale 85-76 for seventh place in the Dixie event.

Clemson and South Carolina, who took part in the fourth annual Carrousel Classic at Charlotte, found competition extremely rough. In a battle for seventh place, Clemson downed its state rival, South Carolina, 54-59. The two teams, incidentally, meet again Monday night at Clemson in a regular conference battle.

Maryland, playing in the Sugar Bowl tournament at New Orleans, won consolation honors with a 54-50 victory of Loyola of the South Tuesday night. The only ACC team not participating in a holiday tournament was Virginia.

Action Saturday finds North Carolina meeting Notre Dame at Charlotte in an afternoon television feature. The Tar Heels beat Notre Dame in the Blue Grass Festival at Louisville, Ky., 81-77 on Dec. 19.

The only conference game Saturday has Clemson meeting Wake Forest in Winston-Salem.

Dietzel Accepts Gridiron Trophy

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Louisiana State Coach Paul Dietzel said he couldn't express "how much this means to me" when he accepted The Associated Press trophy, symbolic of the national football championship.

Dietzel, whose Bayou Bengals met Clemson in the Sugar Bowl today accepted the trophy Wednesday night from Ted Smits, general sports editor of The Associated Press. The award was made at the annual press party given by the Sugar Bowl at Antoine's French Quarter restaurant.

The presentation was one of the evening's highlights. Smits, introduced by Sugar Bowl President Claude (Monk) Simons as "Mr. A.P.," told the 34-year-old Dietzel he didn't want to put him on the spot with an award before the battle with Clemson.

"This is one of the most marvelous things that has ever happened to me, and I can't tell you how much it means to me. It is a great honor and I only hope we continue to live up to this trophy."

Seek Taxes From 'Big Eight' Loop

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The U. S. Revenue Service is trying to collect $5,580 in taxes from the Big Eight Conference on money paid to referees, umpires and other officials who work its athletic contests.

The conference Wednesday asked U. S. District Court here to issue an order of abatement against E. O. Bookwalter, district director of the revenue service.

Bookwalter served notice on the conference Dec. 12 that it owed the $5,580 in withholding taxes and social security deductions for 1953 through 1957.

The conference argued that game officials are paid by the schools involved, not the conference.

Lane In Line To Fight Joe Brown

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Kenny Lane today was next in line behind Johnny Bussio for a shot at lightweight champion Joe Brown's title.

The Muskegon, Mich., southpaw, rallying strongly in the last two rounds, took a majority decision over Carlos Ortiz of New York Wednesday night in a 10-round bout at the Miami Beach auditorium.

Lane weighed 137 and Ortiz 137½. There were no knockdowns. With Bussio slated to fight Brown for the title in Houston in February, promoter Chris Dundee said he hoped to get Lane a title fight with the winner here in April.

Lane suffered a cut over his left eye in the sixth round, but it failed to bother him. Four stitches were taken.

LSU Pace Setters Practise For Sugar Bowl

Sport Slants by Pap

For years, Pee Wee Reese has been fighting off bright young prospects who came to the Dodgers spring training camp, labelled as his successor at the shortstop post. One by one, they had their chances only to drift back to the minors or to be traded off to some other club as Reese continued to sparkle in the spot he took over a way back in 1940 and sent Manager Leo Durocher to the bench. Next spring, Pee Wee will not be in the running for the sportstop job. He'll be around, but only to coach and polish the eager youngsters battling for the post he covered so brilliantly for so long.

At 39, Reese has decided to accept a coaching job with the Dodgers. He was given his choice of continuing as a player, coaching or a job as manager in the Dodgers' minor league chain. He decided that he was ready to try his hand at coaching for a spell. The role of manager holds no appeal for Reese. Five years ago, he was offered the opportunity of managing the Dodgers but turned it down. That's when the Dodgers brought in Walt Alston. Dropping off the active player list to accept the coaching job is likely to cost Reese a cut of about $20,000 in salary, but Pee Wee has a couple of going business connections that augment his baseball income so he'll be able to get along without becoming a hard-ship case.

Reese is one who appears to be blessed with eternal youth. He doesn't look 39 anymore than he looked to be 20 when he first joined the Dodgers. More like a fun-faced teenager. But the records show that he has played 16 seasons of major league ball, plus three years he spent in the Navy. The records also show that he has a life-time batting average of .370, but they fail to reveal how often Pee Wee came up with the big play when it was needed.

Notre Dame Has 3 Senior Bowl Stars

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Three Notre Dame players apparently have won starting posts on the North's offensive team for Saturday's Senior Bowl football classic.

Yankee Coach Joe Kuharich, who has just accepted the head coachship at the South Bend, Ind., school, has been working Notre Dame and Bok's Weetoka, tackle Frank Geremia and fullback Norm Odyniec with the No. 1 lineup in practice this week.

Also on the starting team on offense are two from Ohio State, two from Boston College and one each from Michigan and Indiana. One of the Ohio State starters will be center Dan James, biggest man on the field at 258 pounds.

Penn. State contributes two to the North defensive lineup as the only school with more than one starter on defense.

Don Allard, Boston College's fine quarterback, apparently has been tabbed for North starting duties, with Lee Grosscup of Utah, leading passer in the nation a year ago, backing him up. Also in the starting backfield are Joe Morrison of Cincinnati and Alan Miller of Boston College.

Today's Match Could Clear Up Silky's Quality

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Is Silky Sullivan a really good race horse or a vastly overrated thoroughbred with a belated stretch run?

That question may get a partial answer today as Silky makes his 1959 debut at Santa Anita in a 6½ furlong sprint. Thousands of dollars of California money went down the drain on Silky last May at Churchill Downs when he ran out in the Kentucky Derby.

Up until then Silky Sullivan was about the most sensational colt in the nation. He had won several good races after trailing by more than 20 lengths in the backstretch. He had won the Santa Anita Derby by overtaking a promising California 3-year-old, Old Pueblo.

Silky didn't do much after the Kentucky Derby, but his trainer, Reggie Cornell, never has given up on him. Cornell scratched him from the inaugural day card last Friday, saying the colt wasn't quite up to the race. He promised that when Silky starts he'll be ready to roll.

This is the day and Silky has six competitors. One of them is stablemate, Noredski. The others are the entry of Predestinado and Gold Cover; Caronot, Whaitoldyou and El Cajon.

Stranahan finished the 72-hole grind with a 275, nine holes under par, which is about par over the years for scoring at this course.

Stranahan is back, and with him are all the name players of tournament golf with only a few exceptions. That would include Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, who haven't played here in years. Among those present are National Open champion Tommy Bolt, a past winner in this tournament; Arnold Palmer, the Masters champion, and the top three money winners of 1958—Palmer, Bill Casper Jr. and Ken Venturi.

Pre-tournament top choices include the two California stars, Venturi and Casper.

St. Francis Survives Ram Rally For Carrousel Win

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The St. Francis Frankies from Loretto, Pa., carried home the championship of the Carrousel Classic basketball tournament today, but almost slipped from their grasp last night in the face of a fierce Fordham rally.

St. Francis survived the Ram rally to gain a 74-71 finals victory, its seventh in a row, but was on the verge of being knocked from the ranks of the unbeaten.

Fordham, down 57-37 with about 16 minutes left, outscored the rangy Pennsylvania club 20-10 in the next 11 minutes to trail 67-65 with less than five minutes left.

Fordham never could get any closer as huge Wilbur Troesch, a 6-8 junior, and jumping Jack Joe Aston combined to score seven clutch points and shut the door on the challenging New Yorkers.

Troesch scored 26 points and led in rebounds with 15. Aston bagged 19 points and picked off 14 rebounds as St. Francis won the board battle 49-34. The starting team for Coach Skip Hughes averaged better than 6-4 and it made the most of this important edge.

Ed Degroat scored 23 points to carry the big load for Fordham.

Troesch won the most valuable trophy in a vote of newsmen. Joining him on the all tournament team were Fordham's John Hardy, Bucky McDonald of George Washington, Ellis Harley of Bucknell and Pitt's All-American Don Hennon. Hennon scored 31 points as Pitt lost the fifth place battle to Bucknell 95-76.

Clemson won seventh place from North Carolina 55-49 and GW downed Davidson for third 74-49.

Bucky McDonald, on the bench the last eight minutes, still led GW with 20 points in its romp over Davidson. The Colonials hit 32 of 61 shots and nine men had a hand in the scoring. It was 19-6 after 10 minutes and 37-22 at the half as Davidson fell behind quickly. John Guie led the losing Wildcats with 18 points as Capt. Minton made only one against a 16.9 average. A nose injury cost him about 10 minutes of action.

Bucknell hit at a hot 53 per cent in smothering Pittsburgh for fifth place. The Bison total of 95 was high for the tournament.

A string of 10 straight points late in the first half boosted Bucknell into a 43-32 lead and the Bison was on top 57-36 at the half.

Hennon was the only Panther to hit in double figures, dropping 11 of 29 shots and nine straight fouls for his 31 total. The 5-8½ Panther ace led all rebounders with 11.

Hal Danzig's 24 points, 19 by Tommy Thompson and 14 by Ellis Harley, were major Bucknell efforts.

South Carolina's losing streak grew to seven games as Clemson won the seventh place battle between Atlantic Coast Conference clubs. They'll play again Monday night in a league game at Clemson.

The teams were tied at the half, 31-all, after South Carolina had led earlier by seven. The Gamecocks managed only two points in the last four minutes as they caged only 24 per cent of their basket tries against Clemson's 36.

Walt Gibbons scored all his five points for Clemson in the closing minutes to help Doug Hoffman in wrapping it up. Gibbons had loomed as the goat when his accidental tip-in of a rebound gave South Carolina a basket to tie the score at 45-all with six minutes left.

Don Carver, only Tiger to hit in the first 12 minutes, and Hoffman led Clemson with 15 points. Walt Hudson was high for South Carolina with 12.

Mal Anderson Signed Up For Pro Net Career

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Mal Anderson of Australia signed a professional tennis contract Wednesday night guaranteeing him $11,500 a year for the next two years.

Promoter Jack Kramer and Anderson made the announcement simultaneously after the Davis Cup dinner honoring the United States players who defeated Australia 3-2 in the challenge round.

Kramer said he expects to sign Ashley Cooper, the other member of the Australian Davis Cup tandem, Saturday to a 3-year contract calling for a minimum of $100,000.

"Cooper was very disappointed at losing to Alex Almedo in the singles," Kramer said. "He came to us and said he expected we were no longer interested because of his showing."

"We told him positively we were still interested. But it made a great impression on us that this boy would have this attitude."

There were rumors Wednesday night that Cooper might withdraw from his plans to turn pro in order to make a bid to re-capture the Davis Cup for Australia. But this was found not to be the case.

Cooper defeated Barry MacKay in his opening singles match, but lost to Olmedo in the match that gave the United States the trophy. Anderson also fell before Olmedo on the opening day, but turned back MacKay after the United States had clinched the cup.

Cooper is to be married Friday to Helen Wood, a former Miss Australia. Kramer is remaining in Brisbane for the wedding and contract talks.

Anderson joins the professional troupe on the basis of 15 per cent of the gate in all matches in which he competes.

Cooper, top amateur in the world on his record of winning the Australian, Wimbledon and United States titles, is to get 20 per cent.

"Pancho Gonzales, the champ, and Cooper, the new top amateur, are the only ones now getting 20 per cent," Kramer said. "All of the others, including Lew Hoad, Ken Rosewall, Tony Trabert and Pancho Segura, like Anderson get 15."

Anderson, 23, the Queensland ace who won the U.S. championship in 1957 and barely lost in the finals last year to Cooper, will make his pro debut in Cairns Friday against Australian Ken McGregor.

Newspapers Had No Shortage

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. newspaper publishers had no problem getting enough newsprint in 1958. There was such a bulge of supply over demand the North American newsprint producers paused in their big expansion programs.

The U.S. and Canadian mills were able to serve their customers without drawing on around 15 per cent of capacity.

Consumption should rise in 1959, along with the expected improvement in the nation's economy. But producers are sure they can handle even a sudden surge in demand.

The American Newspaper Publishers Assn. reported consumption for much of this year ran about 4 per cent under 1957.

During the past two years, North American newsprint manufacturers carried out a 350-million dollar expansion, which boosted productive capacity by 20 per cent.

Despite the growth of newsprint manufacturing in the U.S., the domestic industry still is less than one-third the size of Canada's.

Newsprint is selling on a contract basis in New York at a delivered price of $194 a ton. The last general boost of $4 a ton came in March 1957.

As the year neared its end, Sir Eric Bowater, head of Bowater Paper Corp., was asked about the future of newsprint prices. He said:

"Somebody has got to absorb the ever increasing costs of production and distribution, a tendency that never seems to stop. It's not true to say I'm contemplating it, but a rise in prices is needed."

Loses Appendix, Gained Freedom

SVENDBORG, Denmark (AP)—A Polish sailor got himself rushed to the hospital so he could stay in the West. His ship sailed without him Tuesday night, but the sailor paid for his freedom with an appendix he didn't need to lose.

The 22-year-old seaman complained to the captain of the Polish ship that his stomach ached. He was allowed ashore to see a doctor.

Crying loudly, he went to the office of a shipping company which called an ambulance. At the hospital, the doctors rushed him to the operating table and removed his appendix without a diagnosis.

Conscious again after the operation, the sailor admitted he had feigned illness to get away from his ship.

Swiftly Control Fire On Freighter Barges

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Fire-fighting tugs swiftly controlled roaring flames on a Japanese freighter and two barges, touched off Wednesday night when the freighter Asia Maru collided with a string of oil barges in the Mississippi River.

Explosions rocked the area south of downtown New Orleans about 8:50 p.m.

Two men were injured, both on the Asia Maru. One was identified only as Singahara. No identification was available immediately on the second injured man.

Both were taken to the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital here for treatment. The extent of their injuries was not known immediately.

The Asia Maru, a Liberty ship, owned by First Shipping Co. Limited of Japan, was headed downstream from Baton Rouge, loaded with 10,600 tons of soybeans. It was bound for Yokohama, Japan.

The ship collided with three oil barges pushed by the tug E. B. Ingram. The Coast Guard said two of the barges caught fire, the third drifted harmlessly until taken in tow.

Harbor patrol reported the entire forward section of the Asia Maru was ablaze.

The tugs reached the two burning oil barges and the Harbor Patrol said the fire quickly was brought under control.

"The firefighting tug Deluge is alongside the 'Asia Maru' now," the Harbor Patrol spokesman said. "She should have it under control within an hour. The other tugs will help when they put out the other fire."

The Harbor Patrol spokesman said the doctor of the Asia Maru, first thought to be missing, was discovered injured on the deck of the oil barge that didn't catch fire when it was towed into port.

"I don't know his name," he said, "and they said he was in undetermined condition. They think he jumped when the ship collided with the barges."

PAST REMOVED—Statue of Gen. Charles Gordon is covered in Khartoum prior to its dismantling as the Sudanese remove symbols of past British colonial rule.

Russia And West Edging Toward A Face-Saving Talk

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia and the Western Big Three appeared today to be edging cautiously toward a face-saving way out of the new Berlin crisis.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev touched off the tension with a Nov. 10 speech demanding an end to four-power occupation of Berlin. He hinted that Russia would no longer guarantee Western access to the city which is located deep within Communist East Germany.

Then in a formal note on Thanksgiving Day, he proposed that West Berlin be made a free city and told the United States, Britain and France to pull out their troops. He gave them six months to talk it over.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko compounded the tension on Christmas Day. He declared any attempt to keep the Western troops in isolated Berlin by force would threaten a "big war" imperiling even the American continent.

Today, in a New Year's Day greeting to the American people, Khrushchev seemed to be easing off.

He said: "There is no disputed or unsettled issue that could not be solved by peaceful means providing, naturally, all the parties concerned genuinely desire to do so. On our part, we can say that we do have such desire."

His statement, made to the Mutual Broadcasting System, was interpreted as a possible olive branch offering.

It came on the heels of polite but firm U.S., British-French notes to the Kremlin Wednesday rejecting his Berlin proposal. It was almost as if the propaganda-wise Khrushchev already was trying to start a graceful retreat.

Khrushchev's right hand man and trouble shooter, Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, is expected in Washington next week. U.S. officials look forward to Mikoyan's visit to see if it might lead to further easing of the tension, possibly even to agreement on high level Big Four conferences.

Up to last night, the Russian people had no inkling of Mikoyan's impending visit. Apparently, the Kremlin was anxious to keep the Russian people from knowing that Mikoyan had applied for a visa.

There was some speculation here that the Soviet government might try to make it appear Mikoyan was invited, so as to avoid any appearance of weakness on the part of the Kremlin.

President Eisenhower issued a blanket invitation to Soviet leaders early last year to come see for themselves what America was like.

The similar U.S.-British-French notes, delivered to the Kremlin Wednesday:

1. Declared the Western Big Three were in Germany by right of victory in World War II; if Russia demanded full control of Berlin, which the Soviets captured, the West could demand back the one-third of East Germany which it captured and then turned over to Russia under earlier agreements for occupation rights in West Berlin.

2. Repeated a Sept. 20 offer to hold a Big Four conference on the whole German question—including Berlin's future, German reunification and over-all European security. An early Soviet response was requested.

3. "Assumed" Khrushchev did not mean to issue a six-month ultimatum because that would be like negotiating with a gun at the West's head and the Big Three flatly refused to submit to that.

Radiation Burns Kill Technician

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — Cecil W. Kelley, a 38-year-old laboratory technician died today of radiation burns suffered in an atomic mishap.

Kelley had received a fatal dose of radiation while handling plutonium Tuesday.

Spokesmen for the Los Alamos laboratory said the accident occurred during what was normally considered a safe operation.

There were no witnesses. Kelley, before he died, told fellow technicians of seeing a "blue flash" as he started a stir operation in a 225-gallon tank. There was no explosion.

Kelley was a graduate of Idaho schools, and served in the Army in World War II in Far Eastern campaigns.

Survivors include his widow, Doris, and two children, Linda, 8, and Kevin, 1. Others are his father, Clifford Kelley, Santa Fe, N.M.; his mother, Anna Gaylor, San Juan, Calif.; two brothers, D. Shannon Kelley of Hanover, Ind., and Donald W. Kelley, Santa Fe; and a sister, Patricia Reid, Auburn, Calif.

Kelley was performing one step in the recovery of plutonium from a waste solution.

Radiation specialists said there was no treatment for the amount of radiation Kelley received — about 1,000 roentgens of radioactivity. Even smaller doses have killed in the past.

Kelley's fatal accident was the first serious radiation mishap at Los Alamos since May 21, 1946, when another employee was fatally injured. The laboratory employs about 3,300 people, a spokesman said.

The 1946 accident involved a young scientist named Louis Slotin who died in nine days. Harry Daghlian, 29, died in September 1945, 24 days after getting an overdose of radiation.

Industrialist Is Getting A Gift

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton is getting a present from Nikita Khrushchev — three big white horses and a shiny new carriage.

The gift was aboard the freighter Mormac Rio which docked here Wednesday. Customs officials valued the horses at about $8,000 and the carriage at about $100.

Eaton, recently returned from a trip to the Soviet. While there he met the Soviet leader. Eaton is held in high regard by the Soviet Union despite his capitalist pedigree.

"Here progress of technology and automation will without doubt make it possible to send an interplanetary rocket around the moon in 1959," the broadcast said. By using the word "possible," Moscow avoided saying flatly that the Russians would try.

The U. S. Air Force has made three unsuccessful attempts to send rockets around the moon. The U. S. Army failed four weeks ago to hit the moon. A second Army attempt is expected within the next few months.

Ever since the Russians sent up their first Sputnik 15 months ago, the West has been expecting a Red attempt to shoot the moon. Completely unconfirmed reports have circulated that the Soviet Union has tried and failed at least once.

The broadcast noted that Soviet scientists are concentrating on the problem of nuclear reactors.

It declared: "The prospects of conquering these sources of concentrated power are closely linked with the problem of penetrating into cosmic space. Soviet scientists have lost voice.

Atlas Satellite Has Lost Voice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like many a New Year's celebrator hoarse from shouting, the Atlas satellite may have lost its voice.

The Army said it appears that communications tests with the satellite have ended. The announcement followed a 24-hour period during which the talking satellite gave no response.

Officials said the batteries may have been exhausted by the extent of communications since the Dec. 18 launching.

Local Tobacco Company Begins Processing Of Burley Tobacco

PROCESSING BURLEY TOBACCO at Person-Garrett Tobacco Company involves approximately 350 workers and intricate machinery, as shown above in two photos. A company official told reporters that the operation will continue from 10 to 12 weeks with a payroll of $25,000 to $30,000 per week.

Person-Garrett Tobacco Company this week began the processing of burley tobacco in its sprawling plant on West 10th Street.

An official of the company stated today that the processing began Monday and will continue probably until around March 20. "We expect it to be a 10-to-12 week operation," he said.

At the present time, 350 people are employed by the company to handle the processing and three shifts are working around the clock on the operation. The payroll for the work is expected to be from $25,000 to $30,000 per week, the official said.

Person-Garrett Company handled burley tobacco about this same time last year, the official remarked, for the first time in many years. "We worked with it some a long time ago, though," he said.

The processing includes steaming hogheads of the tobacco, taking them apart for stemming, sorting, and cutting, and finally steaming again. After this process is performed — by the combine work of many laborers and intricate, rambling machinery — the tobacco is again packed in large hogheads and shipped to cigarette factories, where the tobacco will be further processed.

Batista's Son Lands In Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Rubin Batista, son of the resigned Cuban president, led a plane load of 54 Cuban army officers and civilians who landed here today seeking political asylum.

"One must bow before reality," the 25-year-old son of Cuba's fleeing strong man said.

Young Batista was accompanied here by his wife; two sisters, Elisa, 17, and Mirta; and his daughter.

He said they may go to their home in Daytona Beach.

"He was asked what he thought of the resignation of his father and the revolution.

"I think what happened was a long strife between Cubans in which many died on both sides," he said. "The majority of the time only the dead of the revolutionaries has been pointed out, forgetting that our soldiers were just as much Cubans and human beings."

"I am sorry to leave Cuba but one must bow before reality."

Russia Predicts Big Science Year In '59

LONDON (AP) — The Russians will be able to send a rocket around the moon and fly a nuclear-powered civilian plane during 1959, Moscow radio said today.

A French-language broadcast entitled "Soviet Science in 1959" said the new year "will see still greater development in the field of interplanetary rockets and Sputniks."

"Here progress of technology and automation will without doubt make it possible to send an interplanetary rocket around the moon in 1959," the broadcast said. By using the word "possible," Moscow avoided saying flatly that the Russians would try.

The letter was postmarked at San Francisco. An official said the $600 will go into the government's "conscience fund."

Much Of Nation Wrapped In Cold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new year slid in with a treacherous mixture of snow and freezing rain over a wide section of the eastern half of the nation. Subzero cold stung parts of New England, a Canadian cold wave bore down towards Montana and the Dakotas and frost threatened young tomato plants in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

But hundreds frolicked in the Pacific surf during record breaking December warmth in San Francisco.

A storm spreading eastward from the Great Plains eastward from Kansas and Missouri into central and northeastern Pennsylvania.

East central Kansas had from four to eight inches of snow in the ground. Parts of Iowa had up to five inches. The snow belt stretched across northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin into lower Michigan.

Freezing rain made driving torturous. Some freezing drizzle also fell in Idaho. Snow flurries swirled through the Colorado Rockies.

Widespread rain drenched the region from the Ohio Valley to the Gulf Coast. Nearly every weather bureau station from the Mississippi River eastward to Georgia and Florida reported measurable amounts of rain.

Under clear skies, the mercury slid to -7 degrees at Burlington, Vt. Lebanon, N.H. had a -2 reading.

San Francisco continued to enjoy the warmest December temperatures in the century records have been kept there. Police said the beach near Land's End Wednesday was crowded like a midsummer day. The mercury reached 66 degrees.

Cuban Refugees In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A Cuban plane carrying 54 refugees, including two children of exiled President Fulencio Batista, landed at Moisant International Airport today.

C. W. Johnson, district director of immigration and naturalization, said all the refugees were government officials and their families who fled strife-torn Cuba after Batista exiled himself to the Dominican Republic.

The group was taken immediately to the immigration office to be put through customs.

On a table in a room adjoining the office where the Cubans were being questioned were 50 to 75 weapons, turned over to immigration officials by the refugees.

Officials said the weapons would be returned as soon as the refugees completed customs formalities.

The Cuban commercial airliner carried a crew of two in addition to the 54 refugees.

At least four of the group were military officers.

Newsman were prevented from interviewing the political refugees at the airport.

Several appeared willing to talk to newsmen at the immigration office but others in the group prevented them from doing so.

One young man among the refugees said: "I'm very sorry but I am not allowed to say anything."
