Castro's Bearded Guerrilla Army Moves Into Havana

HAVANA (AP)—Advance spearheads of Fidel Castro's revolutionary army entered Havana today. Truckloads of bearded guerrilla fighters rolled into the city over the main central highway from the eastern provinces of Matanzas and Las Villas and sped along the Malecon Sea Boulevard toward the former military headquarters of deposed President Batista at Camp.

Ernesto Guevara, and Camillo Cienfuegos, two of the rebel chief's hard-fighting field commanders. A final showdown obviously is near. Castro announced today he would not accept what he called a coup d'etat arranged by Batista. Thus he rejects the provisional government which purports to be headed by Supreme Court Justice Carlos Piedra.

Fulgencio Batista fled Thursday. To install Urrutia in the capital, Castro ordered a mass public demonstration in Havana's Central Park at 4 p.m. today. The country will remain in a state of paralysis from a general strike ordered by Castro until Urrutia takes over in Havana.

Castro's supporters controlled all communications and every radio broadcast referred to Urrutia as "provisional president of Cuba." Former President Carlos Prío Socarras, an exile in Miami since Batista ousted him by military coup in 1952, arrived meanwhile in Havana. Prío has supported Castro's revolt from exile. He and all other revolutionary organizations recently agreed to accept Urrutia as provisional president.

There was no indication that any of the 12,000 Americans in Havana had been harmed. The State Department said in Washington it had no plans for evacuating U.S. citizens. With the Havana International Airport closed and cruise ships avoiding the city, however, the U. S. Embassy announced a ship was on the way from Key West to take home stranded tourists.

There were reports that some army units might resist Castro's advance to Havana from Santiago. Prospects for resistance seemed to be dimming hourly, however. There was no indication of continued fighting anywhere in Cuba between Batista's 37,000 troops and the rebels.

Sugar and sugar products make up 75 per cent of national exports and the cane grinding season is at hand. To head the armed forces, Castro appointed Col. Ramon Barquin, who had just been released from a Batista prison with 700 other political prisoners. Barquin broadcast an appeal from the military headquarters at nearby Camp Columbia for the people of Havana and the nation to remain peacefully in their homes.

Ike Suggests Russia Apply Peace 'Desire' To Berlin

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower has told Russian leaders their professed desire for peace should be applied to their handling of the Berlin crisis. He made a pointed reply in an exchange of New Year's greetings with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Kliment E. Voroshilov.

He referred to the Russians' announced intention to make Berlin a free city — which would mean Western withdrawal from a key city that, in this country's view, would then inevitably come under Communist rule.

He also credited Castro with superior armament, though Batista's forces had tanks and warplanes the rebels lacked. He said the rebels received a continuous flow of weapons while government troops could not be supplied.

Batista Says Army Too Small

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Fulgencio Batista figures his army fought a lost cause in Cuba partly because it had an insufficient edge in manpower over Fidel Castro's rebels. The dictator who fled into exile here Thursday told newsmen it has been calculated that an army would need 100 men for each guerrilla it fought.

Traffic Fatalities During New Year's Holiday Soar

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Traffic deaths during the four-day Christmas holiday week apparently was not having much effect on drivers this weekend. Traffic deaths last year, estimated at 37,000 by the council, averaged about 101 a day. But the slaughter on the highways since the start of the New Year holiday count at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday topped the daily traffic toll in 1958. The count continues until midnight Sunday.

More than 400 hours after the start of the 102-hour holiday period, the death rate from highway accidents was slightly more than four an hour. If the pace continues throughout the period, the record of 409 deaths set in the four-day New Year's week end of 1956-57 would be topped.

Strike Ends, Eastern Air Lines Flies Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Eastern engineers and machinists walked out Nov. 24 grounding the line's 183 planes. Agreement was reached later with the mechanics, but they respected picket lines maintained by the engineers. The engineers refused to accede to a company request to take jet pilot training. In place of requiring pilot training for the engineers, Eastern announced it will have three pilots on each of its jets. These will be in addition to their regular.

Pork Buys Can Be Found

RALEIGH — The big news for food shoppers this week is pork buys. According to Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzle and John W. Hagen, consumer marketing specialists for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, pork is expected to be one of the most economical meat buys during 1959. Other budget stretchers are canned tuna and salmon packs.

Fryers and turkey continue to be excellent poultry buys this week. To get the most for your egg money, buy eggs by grade and size for intended use.

Choice buys at the vegetable counter this week include sweet and Irish potatoes, turnips, dry onions, celery and lettuce. Consumers should also consider dried, frozen and canned vegetables for winter use, suggest Hagen and Mrs. Uzzle.

Despite heavy holiday demand, the supply of fruits continues to be sufficient. Citrus fruits highlight the fruit counter in quality and volume. Winter pears and coconuts will add a spark to your meals.

For economical foods, as well as those high in nutritional value, check your dairy counter for milk, cheese and other dairy products.

"5 WAYS TO A PERFECT FIT" AT 5 POINTS

'Haste Makes Waste'

RALEIGH — "Haste makes waste," is certainly a fitting saying when referring to kitchen activities. Hurried homemakers in the kitchen are headed down the road to careless, costly accidents.

Falls, according to the National Safety Council, are one of the major kitchen hazards for adults. You can protect yourself and others by quickly cleaning up slippery substances—spilled water, grease, or foods immediately. A safe step stool will eliminate the danger in climbing on chairs, boxes and other make shifts to reach high shelves.

Cuts can be avoided easily if safe practices in the care, use, and storage of knives are observed.

Storing sharp knives separately will protect both user and the knives. Wash them individually and never leave them in the dish water. Put them away immediately after washing. Remember, sharp knives are actually safer than dull knives when they are properly used.

Burns are still another cause of serious injury. Keep potholders conveniently near the range and use them when needed. Tongs are both handy and safe for handling hot foods. Warn your children of the dangers of the hot stove and explain to them why they must not touch hot things.

Take time to be careful, it saves time, pain and money eventually.

Co-Hostesses Fete Members

BETHEL—Last week when Mrs. R. L. Martin and Mrs. Ed Biggs entertained Circle No. 2 of the Baptist Church in the home of Mrs. Martin on Nelson Street, 17 members and one invited guest were present.

As the guests entered, each placed a gift under the Christmas tree for little Rosa Lee Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Williams, who was injured in an accident last August.

Following a short business session the speaker for the occasion, R. L. Martin, was introduced. His topic was "Christ and Missions." He emphasized the Little Moon Christmas Offering. He told of Miss Moon's faithful work in China and how she refused a furlough after 11 years of service because workers were so needed there.

According to Miss Moon's suggestion in the Mission Journal, a Christmas offering is taken each year during the Yuletide season.

This is used to help support Missions. This year the goal is $6,800,000. This will be distributed to help support churches and their mission institutions. Mr. Martin closed his talk with a dismissal prayer.

At the social hour, Mrs. W. E. Andrews, chairman of the circle, was presented a beautiful poinsettia by the class after which all were directed to the dining room where from an artistically arranged table Mrs. W. E. Andrews served hot apple cider as an ancient expression of good wishes to the guests. A variety of Christmas dainties was served buffet style. During this hour a recording of last year's Christmas Cantata given jointly by the Bethel churches was played.

Castro Would Nationalize U. S. Properties In Cuba

By GORGE KAUFMAN
 HAVANA (AP) — Rebel leader Fidel Castro's last announced platform calls for the nationalization of American utilities and sugar estates in Cuba.

The bearded guerrilla chieftain published his program in 1955, while in exile in Mexico. It called for:

1. Nationalization of U.S. financed and operated utilities in Cuba and division of American-owned sugar estates among Cuban peasants.

2. Confiscation of all properties acquired through "corrupt government."
3. Distribution of 30 per cent of all industrial and utility enterprises to Cuban workers.
4. A public housing and rural electrification program.
5. Liberation of Cuba "from the egotistical interests of half a dozen businessmen."

6. A speed up of industrialization and increased social security.

Castro never doubted he would win the victory over strongman Fulgencio Batista.

Now 32, the husky, 6-foot 2-inch leader is a professional rebel who has been in revolt most of his life. He has been involved in revolutionary movements in the Dominican Republic, where Batista took refuge, and in Colombia.

In 1947 he joined an expedition to the Dominican Republic aimed at overthrowing the dictatorship of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo. It was a failure and Castro escaped by sea.

In 1948 Castro appeared in Colombia before the ninth International Conference of American States protesting what he termed the non-Latin influence in Latin America. He joined with a group of Colombian rebels and was captured. He gained his freedom, reportedly largely through the influence of the U.S. delegate to the conference, Gen. George C. Marshall.

On July 26, 1953, he led a bloody but unsuccessful attack on an army barracks in Santiago de Cuba, capital of Oriente province at the eastern end of Cuba.

For this attack he was sentenced to 15 years in prison. Freed when Congress granted a political amnesty to political prisoners, Castro later fled to Mexico. There he began plotting the campaign which resulted in Batista's flight to the Dominican Republic New Year's Day.

He returned to Cuba in December 1956 in a leaky Mexican yacht with 81 armed followers, landing on the coast of Oriente.

In the first few days after his arrival Batista announced that most of his force had been killed or captured, but Castro escaped to a hideout in the mountains of Oriente and began his guerrilla war.

He struck when and where he could, disrupting communications, burning fields of sugar cane, ambushing small army units, kidnapping, sabotaging transportation and carrying on a propaganda war.

Despite defeat after defeat, Castro kept up the fight. Many times the government announced extermination of the rebels was imminent.

But the size of his ragged army continued to grow. Arms and equipment reached him from sympathizers in the United States and other countries.

Operating in the rugged country around his mountain headquarters, he successfully eluded government troops sent after him. Castro's movement continued to gain momentum in spite of repeated losses and the opposition of government dominated labor unions.

The kidnapping of world champion race driver Juan Fangio from a hotel in downtown Havana convinced many Cubans that Batista could not deal with Castro's hit and run tactics. Fangio was released the next day and praised the rebels for their treatment of him.

Batista called Castro a Communist and a criminal. Communists around the world hailed Castro and Cuban Reds supported the rebel cause. But the rebel chief denied he was a Communist. He pointed out that most of his followers were members of the Roman Catholic Church, which strongly opposes communism.

Castro, son of a wealthy sugar planter, describes himself as a moderate. Friends say he is a man with driving political ambitions whose rebel movement is basically middle class.

Born at Colonia Bran on Aug. 14, 1926, Castro went to a Catholic boarding school and later high school at Belen. He attended law school at Havana University and was a politically active student leader.

Following graduation from the university, he set himself up in private law practice and married Mirtha Diaz Balart, sister of a government official. They have one son.

Castro does not drink but smokes 8 to 10 cigars a day. He gets by with 2 to 3 hours' sleep a night, according to associates. His diet is simple, mostly dried beef, rice, beans and bananas. He reads a great deal of poetry.

His father, who disapproved of Castro's revolutionary activities, cut off his son's allowance when he was in school. He died in 1956, leaving a half million dollars. Fidel received $80,000.

An older brother, Ramon, takes care of the family plantation with his mother. A younger brother, Raul, is one of the rebel chief's aides. The family also includes two sisters, a step-sister and a stepbrother.

Argentina Should Rate Among Richest, But Wealth Wasted

By BRIAN BELL
 BUENOS AIRES (AP) — This should be one of the richest small nations in the world. Yet today Argentina is almost bankrupt.

Its internal government deficit for 1958 was around 50 billion pesos — 835 million dollars. The government has flooded the country with unbacked printing press pesos to pay salaries. The cost of living has gone up 1,500 per cent in 15 years — 35 per cent in eight months.

The tragedy is that this need not have happened. Argentina is not a one-product nation. There is enough oil in the ground to make Argentina a big producer. There are coal fields, iron ore, enough of almost all the basic mineral needed — but undeveloped.

"Twenty years ago this country was a paradise," you hear often. What happened? How did the country, instead of realizing its tremendous potential, slip toward financial ruin?

Much, but not all, of Argentina's troubles can be traced to ex-Dictator Juan Peron.

Perhaps the worst thing Peron did was to foster the idea that a person does not have to work hard, or do a good job, to earn his bread and butter.

There are many hard working Argentines but the mass of people, spoon-fed by Peron policies which won him the workers' allegiance, are reluctant to give a day's work for a day's pay.

Labor laws still on the books make it almost impossible to fire a completely incompetent man. Peron instigated the still popular measure of decreasing nationwide wage increases. This forced private firms to raise salaries regardless of workers' abilities.

The dictator provided that striking workers would be paid for all the days they missed while on strike.

Government employes and their dependents make up a third of the population. This bureaucracy stifles the economy.

Peron tried to swing Argentina from its previous money-making agricultural economy to an industrial economy. Diversification was not a bad idea but it was a case of too much too soon. Farm workers by the thousand were lured from plains to factories. Big ranches which produced thousands of cattle were broken up into smaller holdings for peasants. The divided lands could not be run as efficiently.

Peron encouraged the nationalistic spirit which causes Latin nations to attempt mammoth tasks without needed technical aid from outside. Argentina's state-owned oil monopoly in 50 years has been unable to develop proven reserves.

Peron nationalized utilities and kept rates low. Now deficits pile up yearly and the service is terrible.

Peron was overthrown in 1955 but the country has taken few constructive steps toward recovery.

This week some hope came. The nation arranged for 329 million in credit, mainly from the United States. President Arturo Frondizi freed the peso to find its own level. He ordered a two-year regime of austerity, with gasoline tripled in price, train fares increased and prices in general due to rise. He said state-run utilities must pay their way. He has signed agreements with foreign firms to develop oil.

The foreign loans are only a temporary measure. The government will have to provide stern leadership and the people hard work if Argentina is to recover.

Nearly 1,000 Negroes In Richmond Demonstration

RICHMOND (AP)—Nearly 1,000 rain-pelted Negro marchers, singing hymns and stressing passive resistance to massive resistance, called yesterday for a "change of heart and a change of policy by the state of Virginia" on the racial integration question.

The orderly demonstration labeled by its leader a "pilgrimage of prayer for public schools," began with a prayer meeting attended by an estimated 1,500 persons — about two dozen of them white — at the Mosque Auditorium.

More than half the gathering then walked 17 blocks through a drizzling rain to the steps of the State Capitol, where they shouted their approval of a resolution calling for a change of policy by the state.

One of the pilgrimage leaders, the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker of Peabody, said a purpose of the demonstration was to show Negroes are as much concerned over the shutdown of white public schools as they are over the continued segregation of Negroes.

Virginia's massive resistance program calls for the closing of any white school in which Negro children are enrolled. Nine schools attended by 13,000 pupils in Norfolk, Charlottesville and Warren County were shut down in September after federal courts ordered them desegregated.

There wasn't a dissenting voice in the rainy gloom as marchers chorused their approval of the resolution, which also urged the creation of a biracial commission that would seek a solution to the school crisis and establish a program and a timetable for school desegregation.

Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. had been invited to be present to receive the marchers. He replied he would not be in his office on the holiday. In his absence — neither he nor his aides could be reached to where he was — demonstrators leaders said they would mail him the text of the resolution.

Station Wagon Struck By Train

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—A station wagon carrying seven people pulled onto a railroad crossing near here Thursday night and was struck by a Southern Railway train. Four people in the car were killed and three badly injured.

The Highway Patrol identified the dead as Mrs. Helen Ellenburg, 35; Cathy McIntyre, 5, and Gerald W. McIntyre, 3, all of Rt. 1, Woodleaf; and Mrs. Seydell Nichols, 45, of Spencer.

In critical condition at Rowan Memorial Hospital here early today were Mrs. Reba McIntyre, about 40, whom the Highway Patrol identified as driver of the car; Mrs. Bill McIntyre, 40, and Ann McIntyre, 2, all of Rt. 1, Woodleaf.

The hospital said they suffered multiple injuries.

The patrol said all the people were related, but neither officers nor the hospital could determine relationship at once.

Patrolman W. A. Anthony said Mrs. Reba McIntyre drove the car onto the crossing from a rural paved road three miles south of here. The officer said it was some time after the accident that investigators found the body of the 3-year-old boy along the tracks.

Engineer of the train was Burrell Jones.

Boonville Boys Always Waiting

GREENSBORO (AP)—They're not lawmen and they don't carry shootin' irons. But they're rugged types used to the great outdoors of the big city. . . and they've camped on the trail of the low-down license plate for years and years.

They're the boys from Boonville, up in the foothills of the Blue Ridge, in Yadkin County. Their names are Leonard Matthews, Robert Davis and Charlie F. Rank hutchens. They set up camp at 2 a.m. Thursday in the rain outside the King Cotton Hotel here.

Earl today the lowdown license plates — bearing numbers like A1, A2, and such like — were to go on sale. The state puts them on sale at a different city each year. But the Boonville boys are always there waiting.

This year they had sleeping bags, rain slickers, fur-lined coats, heavy boots and a tarpaulin. They also had Harold Murphy of Boonville, who fetched them sandwiches and coffee. The Boonville boys held 20 or more auto registration cards and $200 or so for tags.

Strangers' thing yet, they don't get the tags for themselves. Only Hutchens gets one, because he's traffic chief of the Fall Creek volunteer fire department. He gets the license. The other tags are for members of the department. Matthews and Davis not included.

Hand Caught In Cash Register

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Bartender Gene Bruce started to fix the cash register and got into a fix instead.

The cash drawer stuck. Bruce put his hand inside a door on the side of the register to open the drawer.

Some of the cogs grabbed his hand and held on — for three hours.

County police tried a cutting torch. When that got too hot for Bruce, they used a crowbar.

Bruce is all right, but the register is in bad shape.

Boy's Coattails Kept Him Alive

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Little boys, their shoes scuffed and their coats flying, often dismay their mothers.

But Mrs. Frank Zober of Deer Park, N.Y., is thankful her six-year-old son's coat tails were flapping Thursday.

The boy, Paul, plunged through a hole in a deep, frozen pond while strolling with a playmate. His coat caught the edge of the ice and held him for 10 minutes in icy water up to his chest.

The other child dashed to a parents were visiting. The father sprinted to the pond and pulled his chilled son to safety.

Help On Way To Japanese Crew

HONOLULU (AP) — The Navy Search and Rescue Center reported early today help is on the way for the storm-tossed crewmen of the sunken Japanese fishing vessel Sei-toku Maru 135 miles northwest of Midway.

A Navy spokesman said three ships were heading to the rescue of the 24-man crew which boarded life rafts dropped by a Navy plane from Midway.

Lost $15,000 A Week In Strike

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Charlotte, a key terminal in the Eastern Air Lines system, lost about $15,000 a week during the 36-day-old airlines strike.

This figure was reported Thursday by city officials who breathed a sigh of relief on word that the costly strike apparently had been settled.

"They can't get the planes back in the air too soon to suit us," said Mayor James S. Smith. "I just wish the strike could have ended before the holidays. But this is a good way to start the new year."

The $15,000 a week loss was calculated by John C. Ervin, chairman of the Charlotte Airport Authority which operates municipal airport where some 50 EAL flights arrive and depart every 24 hours.

The figure includes landing fees, commissions from concessions parking meters at the airport terminal, and other operations from which the city receives revenues.

Despite the apparent settlement, however, a Southern Railroad official said business will continue good for some time. C. L. Toney, general passenger agent for Southern here, said reservations already were in hand for five extra Pullman cars going out of here Saturday. He said the strike had caused Southern's business to increase 25 per cent.

Charge Slander By Police Chief

HOPE MILLS, N.C. (AP)—Police Chief James Osborne has been charged with slander by Mrs. Alice Benton, whose husband Bennie opposed the chief in a dispute with Mayor Ralph Dever here last summer.

Mrs. Benton charged in the warrant that "on or about June 1, 1958, Osborne attempted in a malicious and wanton manner to destroy the reputation of an innocent woman by the spoken word."

Dever and Osborne, whose differences brought on a fist fight between the two, later reconciled. Sheriff Will Clark said Osborne was released under his recognizance.

A Dictator Lost, But Who Won?

Who has won the long and bloody civil war in Cuba?

That question may not be answered for weeks or even months yet. However, the flight of President Fulgencio Batista who has ruled Cuba for a quarter century, is fairly conclusive evidence that Batista and his forces have lost their control.

Whether Batista's flight to Dominican Republic will open the road for some sort of compromise between the rebels of Fidel Castro and the new military junta which picked the new president of Cuba remains a matter of conjecture.

It will take several days at least for the confused situation brought about by Batista's sudden departure to clarify itself and the remaining opposing forces to effect the courses they will follow under the altered circumstances.

For the sake of Cuba and its people, it is to be hoped the two-year-old civil war will come to an end now that Batista, primary object of the Castro-led revolt, has fled the country. Even so, it will take Cuba a great deal of time to overcome the losses brought about by the rebellion.

In addition to the loss of life in actual fighting and the destruction of property, Cuba is at best in for

Oldtimers Will Hold Most Jobs

By LYNN NISBET

REPEATERS — There will be a new Speaker in the House of Representatives during the 1959 session of the General Assembly, but indications are that most of the other positions will be filled by oldtimers.

Lieut. Gov. Luther Barnhardt will be presiding over the Senate for the third time in a row, having occupied the chair in the 1955 session as elected president when Lieut. Gov. Luther Hodges moved into the Governor's office. Judge Ray Byrley of Sanford will be back as principal clerk of the Senate for his umpteenth time. William Byrd of Lillington is expected to serve as reading clerk again and Herman Scott of Chatham as sergeant at arms.

Either Addison Hewlett or Carl Venters will preside over the House, which has remaining uncertain possibly until night of the caucus. M. G. B. (Miss Annie) Cooze will be on the job as principal clerk of the House for the ninth consecutive session, and Billy Arthur is expected to return as reading clerk. Joe Warren of Caswell will serve as sergeant at arms again. Joe was in Raleigh this week attending a farmers' meeting and said he is strong for both candidates for Speaker, since both had told him they would like for him to come back as chief law enforcement and protocol officer.

There will be a number of replacements in the clerical staffs, although many familiar faces will be around. Veteran legislators like to have experienced clerks, and when conflict arises between the ideas of distributing patronage and retaining experience the choice usually is in favor of the oldtimers.

TRAVELER — Governor Hodges traveled enough miles during 1958 to take him three times around the world over North America and Europe, nearly two-thirds of the distance by air. "General" Harold Mingos, who has been the official driver for the four latest chief executives — Cherry, Scott, Umstead and Hodges — has kept a log of all their travels. Governor Hodges gave reporters the 1958 record, showing total mileage traveled at 66,987 — not counting walking. Breakdown shows 16,763 miles by automobile, 3,300 miles by ship and 3,450 miles by train. The other 40,374 miles were in the air — 15,215 by Air National Guard plane, 13,414 by commercial aircraft, 11,420 by private plane, and 325 by helicopter.

The 1958 mileage was 50 per cent more than that 44,929 miles traveled in 1957, his first year in office. Chances are the 1959 mileage will fall considerably below last year, because the first half of the year will find the Governor sticking close to his office keeping tabs on the Legislature.

Whether the Advisory Budget an indefinite period of unrest among its people and instability in its government. The tourist business upon which it depends heavily for revenue will not jump back to its pre-war proportions overnight. The sugar industry which has been at least partially disrupted by the fighting will not suddenly resume its normal operations.

While the United States has assumed a hands-off role during the fighting between Castro's forces and Batista's army, it and other members of the Pan American organization of nations should offer mediation services in an effort to end the fighting in Cuba and help that country get back on its feet.

Although Cuba is a small nation in the Western Hemisphere, its strategic location makes the welfare of its people of primary concern to this and other Pan American countries.

The Big Celebration Has Already Sounded

Alaska officially becomes the 49th state in the Union Saturday, but official recognition of the first new state in 46 years will come as an anti-climax to Congressional approval of Alaska's admittance to the Union several months ago.

Officially speaking, the nation gets a new state and a new flag on Saturday when President Eisenhower signs the proclamation making Alaska the 49th state. The new flag, which probably will contain 13 stripes and seven rows of seven stars, becomes official on July 4.

The official part of the new state notwithstanding, it is unlikely that celebrations throughout Alaska at noon Saturday will come close to comparing with the spontaneous street dancing, whistle-blowing and general rejoicing that swept through the nation's northernmost province when Congress passed the bill paving the way for Alaska to become a state. Neither will the people of other states experience the thrill they received when it became certain that the first state since 1912 would be admitted to the Union.

More than anything else, the official ceremonies in Washington Saturday will mark the beginning of a new relationship between Alaska and the rest of the nation . . . the relationship that will come with "official" status of a state for the sprawling Alaskan territory.

Rayburn Leads 'Anti-Liberals'

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A series of huddles centering around House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) was expected today to stamp out a budding revolt against the power of the House Rules Committee.

The revolt is led by a sizable group of self-styled liberals. The Rules Committee now is dominated by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The liberals seek to limit the committee's power to bottle up legislation. They would do this either by a change in House rules or by the addition of a liberal Democrat to the committee, now composed of eight Democrats and four Republicans.

Rayburn returned late Thursday from his Texas ranch, where he has been vacationing since Congress adjourned last summer.

He wouldn't comment on the rules proposals, but there were clear signs he would oppose them. He apparently was quietly sizing up the situation and lining up his forces for a showdown at the Democratic caucus next Tuesday morning.

Leaders of the liberal group reported privately that Rayburn already has wooed away much of the support they had counted on. Telephone calls even before Rayburn left Texas, they said, convinced them that the speaker was dead set against changing the rules. Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) has told newsmen he has an agreement with Rayburn which would leave the Rules Committee lineup unchanged. There are two Republican vacancies, and they are slated to go to Reps. Edgar Chenoweth (R-Colo.) and Carroll Reece (R-Tenn.) if they want them.

If the liberals lose in Tuesday's Democratic caucus, they probably will try again Wednesday when the House convenes formally and adopts rules for the new session.

They are pessimistic about their chances, especially since they concede they have been unable to obtain strong Republican support.

There appeared little likelihood, too, that efforts of some liberals to deny a seat to Dale Alford of Arkansas would succeed. Alford, a professed Democrat, was elected to the house as an independent from the Little Rock district. A leading segregationist, he defeated incumbent Brooks Hays, a Democrat who has followed a moderate approach to integration.

Hays has not contested Alford's election, but a special House committee has recommended that Alford not be seated until there has been a full probe of his write-in campaign. The House will determine next Wednesday whether to allow Alford to take his seat.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

IT'S UP TO US

Opportunity! How I wish I had some real opportunity to succeed in life.

What do you consider opportunity, friend? Would you say that money is an opportunity? Strange as it may seem, there is probably more real misery among the rich and more annual suicides than among any other class. Do you prize education highly? You should. Yet some of the world's greatest leaders have succeeded without much education. How would you rate social standing and heredity? Well, if social standing is something into which we are born, then it is not of value. It simply means that our roots are down in the ground and sometimes people who are proud of their social standing have more roots than fruits. Heredity? Certainly it is a great thing to be well born. But if we are not, we can do nothing to change that fact biologically, but we can do a very great deal to change it actually. Out of the most humble circumstances have arisen some of the world's greatest leaders.

Let us get this well in mind — opportunity is something within us, something under the control of our mind and will. For the most part, we create our own opportunities.

Success or failure is up to us. The blind, deaf, and mute Helen Keller becomes one of the great figures of her time. And many a person born with a golden spoon in his mouth dies without ever having done much about it.

Opportunities do not make us — we make them.

In An Unbalanced Society

By BILLY ARNOLD

An Authority Has Spoken

I was sitting in one of the town's three eateries open for business on main Street on New Year's Day. Outside, a light rain was falling. Now and then a car would pass outside but the streets were virtually empty.

There were only two or three people in the place and one of them was talking loudly. The television account of one of the day's bowl games could be heard in the back but nobody was paying much attention to it.

The man who was doing the talking was short, dressed in a brown shirt and brown-and-black tie and a tweed sports coat. He had steel-grey hair clipped short. He seemed to be talking to no one in particular. Some fellow who was eating in a booth several feet away kept nodding but he didn't look real interested. A waitress who had little else to do leaned against the counter and listened.

The fellow said, "People who have cars—half the people—who have cars today haven't got a bit of sense."

"What's your mean?" asked the waitress.

"People buy these damn big cars. Everybody wants a big car. And they don't need them. That's why the country is broke right now."

He waited for somebody to agree with him. Nobody did. "Most people don't need a big car. They don't go anywhere. Eight or nine thousand miles a year is all. What they need is one of them small cars."

"Unh huh," said the man in the booth.

"I know a man who bought a Chrysler three years ago. He bought it when his wife was alive. She's dead now. I know he's got at least $4200 in it. At least that much."

"My boy's the same way. He had an old car. I gave him an 88 Olds when he got married. First tractor, and many others will each have a part to play and a profit to make."

Already these experts are looking ahead and calling the 10-year era belonging to the decade as the "Soaring Sixties."

There is no end to the manner in which larger families will affect the overall economy of America. We could look at entertainment, at the food bill, at the clothing costs, and regardless of how we figure the costs, we must realize that the larger the family the more money it will take to keep up the standard of living.

More and more educational space requiring more facilities will be required from the kindergarten through the college period. There will be more young people to educate than ever before.

Disruptions could play havoc with the trend. War and ruin could change the picture radically in the years ahead. New trends could be established which in time will change the picture.

But as of now the experts tell us that the larger family trend has definitely been established in America and that we can expect an expansion in business.

Of course, that expansion will be a gradual thing. It just doesn't happen overnight. It will be so gradual that many people will not realize that it is happening.

The "Soaring Sixties" will be upon us before we know it.

Other Editors Saying --- A New Trend

(Washington Daily News) Today we are told that in America there are 175,000,000 people. We are also told that by late in the nineteen sixties, America will have a population of 208,000,000 people.

Social experts point to the fact that several years ago it became an established trend in America for a family to have two children. These same experts today say the trend has definitely changed and instead of two children per family, most parents today want three children. That will mean a 20 per cent increase in population.

And with such a 20 per cent increase in population, if we accept the fact that there is going to be this 20 per cent increase, the picture means more than merely more people.

In the matter of merchandising, it will mean the sale of more children's clothing, more toys, more medicines, more haircuts, and more of many items. It will also mean that whereas many families in recent years have been building two bedroom or three bedroom homes, an extra bedroom will be added. That will mean larger homes at a greater cost.

And when we go into the matter of home building, we must consider the business man in several fields. The lumber man, the heat man, the plumber, the glass man, the furniture dealer, the contractor, and many others will each have a part to play and a profit to make.

He paused a minute. Nobody said anything.

"He had got a 98 Olds. I said, 'You aint got any more business with a 98 than I got with an airplane.' He don't need a big car. He drives it around town and maybe takes three trips a year. That's all. He hadn't got any more sense than the rest of them."

The fellow in the booth said, "There's a lot of those little cars around. Man told me the country's full of 'em up around Pennsylvania."

"That's what they need," said the man at the counter.

He paused. Nobody said anything. He stood up.

The rain fell noiselessly outside. Somebody passed by outside, huddled in an overcoat. The television chattered away in the back and nobody listened or watched. The waitress walked off and wiped his mouth.

The fellow at the counter said, "Well, happy new year. How much I owe you? Lessee. . . fifteen, twenty-five, and a nickel. . . coffee. . . forty-five—forty-seven cents."

He paid the waitress at the cash register. She didn't say anything.

"Well, happy new year," he said and left.

"We never understand the simile 'as dreary as a rainy day.' Nothing in all this mortal life is to us more lovely than a rainy day, especially if we can spend it at home." —Lumpkin (Ga.) Journal.

The highest court in the country held they violated an agreement forbidding either side to take 'militant measures' for five days after a breakdown of negotiations when they took a strike vote one day after. The damages may run to $6 millions, a per capita fine of $3.4 each for the 1,760,000 members." —Norwalk (Conn.) Hour.

Next 'Clown Prince'

By FRANK ECK

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Max Patkin (baseball age 36) is making the big leagues at 33. It's not exactly what Maxie wanted but it's the next best thing.

Maxie is touring some of the National Basketball Assn. cities. He always wanted to make the big leagues in baseball. So during intermissions he goes out on the basketball court and gives various impressions — like how he holds a runner on first base or how he puts himself in the shoes of a pitcher facing the world champion Yankees.

Patkin is so funny that he has been dubbed "the new clown prince of baseball." Al Schacht, 66, doesn't like it because Al isn't old enough to be called old. Actually Patkin defies description because once he goes into his act it's hard to tell whether he's just arriving or just leaving. Sometimes he looks like a two-headed person. He moves that fast when he mimics.

Connie Mack once called him "the funniest man I have ever seen." Old Connie saw quite a few, too, including Rube Waddell and Jimmie Dykes. Incidentally, it was Dykes who discovered Patkin on the Philly sandlots. Dykes was managing the Chicago White Sox and the parent club signed him to a contract in the Wisconsin State League.

"I was a skinny kid, 150 pounds," says Max. "Not good looking, but not too ugly, either. I thought I was doing all right. I won 10 games and struck out 185. But I set a league record with 35 wild pitches. I kept the batters loose."

Bill Beech, as president of the 1947 Cleveland Indians, signed Maxie to a coaching contract in 1947. He was so funny that he drew crowds for a losing team. When the Indians began winning — they finished fourth that year — Beech turned serious and fired Patkin.

In 1953, Patkin visited Army posts in Germany. He was so funny he was asked to return. "Some years back when I barnstormed for 21 days," says ex-Yankee pitcher Eddie Lopat, "Patkin went along for laughs. I was always serious about my pitching but after 21 nights with Patkin I laughed just as much the 21st night as I did that first night."

Patkin visited 75 minor league ball parks as an added attraction in 1958. He'll be back, he says, at most of them in 1959.

That's why he's using the basketball courts this winter. The courts are his "winter quarters," where he can work out the kinks in the new wrinkles he plans to use next summer.

"MAN on first. Gotta watch him," says Max Patkin.

"We never understand the simile 'as dreary as a rainy day.' Nothing in all this mortal life is to us more lovely than a rainy day, especially if we can spend it at home." —Lumpkin (Ga.) Journal.

Scribblings.. Take Your Chances.

By ELMER ROESSNER
Cleaning out his desk for the year end, your correspondent came across some scribbled notes. Here they are, along with what he may have been thinking about at the time.

The tick. Seeking a last-minute gift, a woman we know asked a salesman at Tiffany's to help her select a tie. "Certainly not!" he said. "I do not approve of them and I wouldn't be caught dead wearing one!" So she went to Georg Jensen's farther down Fifth Avenue for assistance.

Uninvited guest. On our way to a cocktail party, one couple tries to find some drunken stranger and take him along, introducing him as a marquis or count. The consequences are truly unpredictable. Of course, they play even the straightest-acted civic leaders, pushing scruples to one side, are considering governmental lotteries as means of raising revenues.

If they ever get going, they will be sucker games for the simple. For a state lottery to prosper, it must keep about 40 per cent of the play for revenue and costs. Of the 60 per cent the suckers get back in prizes, Federal, state and city governments will levy income and other taxes, leaving the winner with about 30 per cent of the take. A player can do better than that in a fixed crap game.

However, there is another factor that charms politicians. Government lotteries would require large numbers of employees, making more political jobs. The party which can institute a lottery at any level of government can stay in power. At that level, forever.

Gloves. Frank E. Clove writes from San Pedro that since disposable plastic gloves are now so cheap, all butchers should wear them while pawing over meat.

Arrest. So should behind-scenes supermarket employees who now leave fingerprints on packaged cheese.

Hash. Something has happened to canned corned beef hash. Some cans now have so much fat that the contents shrink in half before serving. Some now can't be browned because they stick to pans. And a new brand has such a lean mixture that in honesty it should be called potato hash, corned beef flavored.

Resolution. I firmly resolve that, starting immediately I will use "1959" in all my dating and will not wait until February before I realize it is no longer 1958.

AMERICAN EXPORTS HIGHER IN BRITISH MARKETS
One of the reasons American exports are declining is shown by a short item from the Foreign Agricultural Service.

Landed and duty-paid United States peaches—choice halves—are selling at $5.48 per dozen No. 2's cans in the United Kingdom. Identical canned fruit from Australia and South Africa are selling at $4.13 to $4.20 a dozen.

ON GAMBLING
Chance. America may be on the verge of a great take-a-chance spree, and this is not written about the Stock Market.
Costs of state and local governments are rising so fast that even the straightest-acted civic leaders, pushing scruples to one side, are considering governmental lotteries as means of raising revenues.
If they ever get going, they will be sucker games for the

Jesus Calls Forth Faith

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 9:2-29; Matthew 17:14-18.

Talking with Him Peter, James and John, Jesus climbed to the top of a high mountain. There His companions saw Christ transfigured. Talking with Him they also beheld Moses and the prophet Elijah.—Mark 9:2-4.

When they came down they found a multitude had gathered. A man brought his son who was possessed of an evil spirit which made him fall to the ground and foam at the mouth.—Mark 9:17-18.

As the boy lay upon the ground, Christ said to the father, "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth." The father cried, "Lord, I believe. Help Thou mine unbelief."—Mark 9:23-24.

Jesus then drove the evil spirit out. The child lay as one dead, and many said he was dead. Jesus, however, took him by the hand, and lifted him up; and he arose.—Mark 9:26-27. MEMORY VERSE—Mark 9:23.

The Golden Text

Christ and St. Peter.

"All things are possible to him that believeth."—Mark 9:23.

Jesus Calls Forth Faith

TO THE BELIEVER CHRIST SAYS ALL THINGS ARE POSSIBLE

Scripture—Mark 9:2-29; Matthew 17:14-18.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL FAITH is the subject of today's lesson. Today, in a world shaken by fear and uncertainty of both present and future, we need faith in God and in our fellow men and women of every country, in their truth and fidelity, to keep us from worrying too much. Faith, the dictionary tells us, is belief, trust and loyalty.

In our lesson we learn of Christ's faith and what He said about it. It should help all of us, from the primary grades of the class to the older ones, to realize that Jesus had a loving concern for all who were sick or in need. The teachers can illustrate this in events taking place every day by Jesus' followers who are helping to meet the needs of the handicapped—nurses, doctors, institutions, special classes, etc. I have quoted these lines from The Uniform Series of Lessons, which suggests that "Children may be helped to develop a sympathetic understanding of the handicapped but they had failed: The boy, he said, had been so tortured since he was a child.

The youth was lying prostrate on the ground, unconscious, and many thought he was dead. Jesus said to the father, "If thou canst believe, all things are possible."—Mark 9:23. "The father of the child cried out, and said with tears, 'Lord, I believe; help Thou my unbelief!'"—Mark 9:24.

"Christ cast out the evil spirit from the youth, 'took him by the hand and lifted him up; and he arose.'"—Mark 9:25-27.

"Surely the father's unbelief must have been weakened or entirely overcome by this miracle. Later, when Jesus and His disciples were gathered in a house, the disciples asked Him why they had not been able to subdue the evil spirit. He answered them: 'This kind can come forth by nothing, but by prayer and fasting.'"—Mark 9:28-29.

Christ had given the disciples the power to heal, but in this case,

MEMORY VERSE

"All things are possible to him that believeth."—Mark 9:23.

and to seek ways of giving practical help."

Briefly we mention Christ's transfiguration on the top of a high mountain to which He had taken Peter, James and John. "And His raiment became shining, exceeding white as snow. . . . And there appeared unto them Elias with Moses. . . . talking with Jesus. . . . And there was a cloud that overshadowed them; and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, 'This is My beloved Son: hear Him.'"—Mark 9:2-7.

When they came down from the mountain, they found a great multitude about them whom the scribes were questioning. Then a man from the crowd said: "Master, I have brought Thee my son, which hath a dumb spirit; and whosoever he taketh him, he teareth him: and he foameth, and gnasheth with his teeth, and pineth away."—Mark 9:14-18.

The man also said that he had begged the disciples to cure him. Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate they may not have had the faith in themselves and Him to accomplish the healing.

St. Matthew, in chapter 17:14-18, tells the same story, when Jesus said to the disciples that they could not cast out the evil spirit "because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, if ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, 'Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove, and nothing shall be impossible unto you.'"—Matthew 17:19-20.

We do not have Christ's power of healing, but many seeming miracles are taking place today in healing. Also, men and women who have criminal tendencies are turning into virtuous citizens with the help of those who have His faith and work through agencies to help those who are handicapped physically or mentally. Let us, too, cultivate faith, overcome our doubts and fears, and work actively to follow in Christ's steps.

Brush Fire Now Under Control

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Firemen held the top hand over the 10,000-acre Topanga Canyon brush fire today.

They said the blaze, which destroyed 80 homes and cabins and forced 4,000 residents to flee, was 60 per cent controlled. They expect to have it under complete control by tonight.

The fire broke out near Woodland Hills, 2 miles northwest of Los Angeles, Wednesday morning and raced nine miles through the canyon to the sea.

A second big New Year's Eve brush fire in the Hollywood hills near Beverly Hills was brought under control Thursday after burning 650 acres and threatening homes of many movie stars. Two homes were burned.

Fire department officials blamed both fires on arsonists.

WORD TO THE WISE

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A merchant warned Mrs. Stanley Fisher to move out from under his store awning, fearing a heavy covering of snow might make it fall. Mrs. Fisher moved under the awning next door—which promptly collapsed and engulfed her in snow.

Tourists reportedly spend more than 225 million dollars a year in Arizona.

Louisiana State the national football champion probably will get a strong argument over the honor from second place Iowa today in the wake of the Sugar and Rose Bowl games.

Both teams were heavily favored—LSU by 15 points over Clemson in the Sugar Bowl and Iowa by 18 over California, in the Rose Bowl. Only Iowa proved the oddsmakers correct.

The Hawkeyes scored in every period to overwhelm California, but the Pacific Coast Conference king, 38-12. LSU had to call on Coach Paul Dietzel to call the play that defeated Clemson 7-0.

Oklahoma did as expected and defeated dogged Syracuse 21-6 in the Orange Bowl. Air Force pulled a mild upset in playing Southwest Conference champion Texas Christian to a 0-0 tie in a battle of fumbles and mistakes in the Colton Bowl. Prairie View A&M walloped Langston 34-8 in the Prairie View Bowl.

Iowa was runnerup to the Bayou Bengals in the final Associated Press poll that settled the national championship. But the Big Ten champs were not expected to have as easy a time as they did against an outwitted, outmaneuvered Cal team.

On the other hand, LSU, with its White, Go and Chinese Bandits three-learn varsity specialists, was expected to have some trouble from a hefty Clemson line, but by sheer weight of numbers, were supposed to have things their way in the end.

The Clemson line didn't weaken. A broken right hand by LSU quarterback Warren Rabb on the third play of the game put him out for the second half. These two factors weighed heavily in forcing Dietzel to revamp his offensive plans—and hope.

The wisp of hope came in the third period when Clemson center Paul Snyder got a firmer grip on some turf than on the ball on a snap-back to punter Bill Mathis.

The ball sailed wildly and bounced off the knee of blocker Doug Cline. It was recovered by LSU tackle Duane Leonard on the Clemson 11.

Two plays gained only one yard and on third down All America halfback Billy Cannon, the games most valuable player, started wide, spotted end Mickey Mangham and hit him with a pass for the score. Cannon kicked the extra point.

Dietzel admitted afterward that he called the scoring play "because Clemson was putting so much pressure on our quarterback when they went back to pass that I figured a halfback run-pass option would take more time." Rabb whose injury was not disclosed until halftime explained that his passing was handicapped and he was forced to abandon his wide-open offense for a ground game. He hit only two of seven passes.

Iowa never had a worry in the Rose Bowl, although they fumbled at the start. Led by Bob (Jet) Jeter, the Hawkeyes, winning their second Rose Bowl, rolled up 516 yards overall, 25 more than former recordholder Michigan in 1948 against Southern Cal.

Jeter ran 81 yards for one score, breaking Northwestern's Frank Aschenbrenner's record of 71 against Cal in 1949. He also gained 194 yards overall, 43 more than Bobby Grayson of Stanford against Columbia in 1934, the previous record.

Iowa scored the second time it had the ball, and managed at least one TD per quarter against a Cal line outweighed an average of 18 pounds per man.

Said Cal Coach Pete Elliott: We knew it was coming, but it's hard to block a freight train.

Jack Hart scored both Cal TDs, one on a yard plunge, the other on a 17-yard pass from quarterback Joe Kapp.

Oklahoma used its blinding speed to build up a 14-0 first period lead, added another score in the third and then got pushed around for the rest of the game by a Syracuse line that didn't melt in the 78 degree heat.

Fullback Prentice Gault raced 42 yards on the second play of the game for the first 100-yard score. Brewster Hobby combined with end Russ Coyle for a 79-yard pass play for the second TD—a new Orange Bowl record for distance, and Hobby took a punt 40 yards for the third score.

Mike Weber's 15-yard plunge in the final quarter got Syracuse, which won the battle of statistics, its TD.

There were 13 fumbles by Texas Christian and Air Force, each team losing three. TCU pushed deep into Air Force territory twice in the final minutes, but fumbles lost both opportunities. Air Force had two similar chances in the first half, and one in the second but couldn't cash in.

The Air Force's George Pupich missed three field goal tries and TCU's Jack Spikes two. Spikes was the game's leading back with 108 yards on 17 carries.

Frairie View scored four second half touchdowns to overcome an 8-6 halftime deficit. Halfback Archie Seals and fullback Jimmy Tolstolen paced the winners, the national Negro collegiate champs.

The four major games were on national television and a total live audience of 331,082 sat in on 1959's first taste of college football. The largest turnout was 98,297 at the Rose, followed by the 82,900 at the Sugar, 75,504 at the Cotton and 75,281 at the Orange.

Pam Pack Squad Here Tonight

The Washington High School Pam-Pack invade Rose High Gymnasium tonight to open the 1959 Northeastern Conference basketball schedule with the graduated Phantoms at 8:00.

A jayvee ball game will open the night's action at 6:30. Washington, which has split a pair of ball games with AAA Goldsboro, is ranked the No. 1 team in the conference this season by virtue of a pre-season poll conducted among the coaches.

Greenville, which placed high in the loop last year but lost most of its starting unit, is ranked a few steps behind the Pack.

Tonight, the oddsmakers have placed Washington a solid 13-points over the hosts.

Washington, which played so far erratic ball last season, lost some of its top players via graduation, including All-Conference Ward Marslander and Jimmy Silvertone, the two sparkplugs of the club. However, Coach Bill Sweel has reportedly come up with ample replacement for his lost ball players, and has added something which may be even more important: balance. The Pack this year are regarded one of the loop's most scoring clubs, which is proficient in all of the areas of play, rebounding, ball handling, speed, height, shooting.

Though Coach Boley Farley lost most of his first-string unit of last season via graduation, his club is not nearly so bad off as it may seem. The Phantoms played platoon basketball last year and Farley alternated his players—not by individuals—but by teams.

Gone are standouts Mack Roebuck, Don Wilkerson, Dick Eynan, Bobby Edwards, Bob Bilbro, and Walker Lee Allen. They were six of the best boys in the loop in 1957-58. A hunk of talent such as that, taken from a ball club would ordinarily leave practically nothing. But Farley has his second platoon back, practically intact.

His second platoon includes James Earl Ward (6-6), Steve Noble (6-4), Howard Garner (6-2), Joe Moyer (6-2) and Billy Cox (6-0). This season, the above-named platoon or draft is made up entirely of veterans, all of whom played regularly last season in alternation with the graduated platoon.

In addition to the above-named boys, Farley also has Merrill Bynum (6-2), Jan Vincent (6-2), Alan McArthur (5-11), and Charles Taft (5-11), all of whom have played ball early this season against AAA opponents and who may serve to back up the first unit. Bynum is a vet, the other three are pull-ups from the Phant jayvee club of last year.

Greenville, though not ranked first in the loop this year, is heads and shoulders above the rest of the teams in the league; at least so far as height is concerned. The Phantoms are the tallest club in the loop.

Farley stated yesterday that his team is in pretty good shape for tonight's ball game, despite a rash of injuries which kept four of the five starters on the bench during the first three ball games of the Phantoms played against AAA opponents.

Farley also said that Noble, the regular center, may not play tonight. Noble has missed most of the early-season play due to football injuries and glandular fever.

South Given Edge In Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—A proven scoring combination helped establish the South as a touchdown favorite in Saturday's Senior Bowl football game.

In giving Coach Paul Brown's squad the edge, the oddsmakers remembered last weekend's North-South Shrine Bowl game at Miami when Buddy Humphrey of Baylor threw three scoring passes to Mississippi State's Billy Stacy. Humphrey also tossed two other touchdowns aeriels in the South's 49-20 victory in that game. He was the nation's top collegiate passer this season with 1,316 yards on 112 completions in 195 attempts.

Humphrey and Stacy will be in Brown's offensive backfield Saturday and it'll be a big surprise if they don't try to make plenty of yardage through the air.

The other South backs are Georgia's 200-pound fullback plunger, Theron Sapp, and another husky runner, 195-pound Don Brown of Houston.

Joe Kuharich's North squad is not lacking in passers or runners either. He plans to start Boston College's Don Allard at quarterback. Allard, first round draft choice of the Washington Redskins, threw for seven touchdowns during the season. He passed for 691 yards.

To spell him is the No. 1 quarterback of 1957, Lee Grosscup of Utah. Grosscup, first draft choice of the New York Giants, led the nation in passing yardage a year ago with 1,398.

Other backs in the North offensive backfield will be Joe Morrison, Cincinnati; Alan Miller, a Boston College teammate of Allard and Norm Odyniec, Notre Dame.

About 38,000 are expected for the game, which will be nationally televised by NBC with a black-out within a 100-mile radius of Mobile. Kickoff is at 2 p.m. (CST).

Brand New Face In Welter Ranks

NEW YORK (AP)—Fight fans start the New Year with a look at something brand new in Denny Moyer, a 19-year-old welterweight from Portland, Ore. who has won all of his 18 pro fights.

Young Moyer, of French-Irish parentage, appears before a network (NBC) television camera for the first time tonight when he boxes sadfaced Gaspard Ortega of Mexicali, Mexico in Madison Square Garden. The 10-round match also will be carried on NBC radio, starting at 10 p.m. (EST).

It may be that Moyer, a former AAU champ, will open and close in one. On the other hand, it may be the first of many appearances in the big arenas.

Boxing certainly needs new faces badly. It can't afford to wait. However, the expert opinion that has made Ortega an 8 to 5 favorite thinks the youngster is being rushed when he is pitted against an experienced opponent who has had 62 pro fights.

Moyer has a brother, Phil, who is campaigning as a middleweight. Their father, Harry, also was a pro fighter and an uncle, Tommy, the promoter in Portland where the boys have had most of their fights.

Under New York rules a 19-year-old isn't permitted to box 10 rounds unless special permission is granted. The special permission was forthcoming for Denny, who has fought six 10-rounders in other arenas. The better-known boxers he has beaten while compiling his 18-0 record (four knockouts) have been Al Andrews, Johnny Saxton and Tony Dupas. He outpointed all three.

Ortega is well known to boxing fans, either live or TV version. He lost to Isaac Logari last year in the tournament set up to determine a successor for Carmen Basilio. Virgil Akins eventually won the tournament. When they were trying to decide on a challenger for Akins, they matched Ortega with Don Jordan. The first time they met, Jordan's victory was considered an upset. When Jordan repeated the decision in 12 rounds, he got the title shot and dethroned Akins.

Ortega, 23, still hopes to scramble to a championship match. He has little to gain and everything to lose in this one but is in the mood to take chances. Ortega has been inactive since Oct. 22, the date of his second fight with Jordan. He has been fighting since 1953 and owns a 47-13-2 record with 20 knockouts. He never has been stopped.

Two judges and a referee will score the bout by rounds, using a supplementary point system.

Retired Racer In 'Standby' Role

LONDON (AP)—World auto race champion Mike Hawthorn, who announced his retirement last month, has agreed to be a "stand-in" driver for Donald Campbell in his projected land speed record bid.

A colleague of Campbell's said Thursday night: "They have talked it over and Hawthorn has agreed to be a stand-in, as Stirling Moss also did a few months ago."

The record bid, scheduled in about 18 months on the United Flats, will be to top 400 m. p. h. in a turbo-prop car named "bluebird."

Swallowed, But Nylons Rescued

LONDON (AP)—Sandy, a 3-month-old mongrel pup, swallowed a pair of nylon stockings and he got a stomach ache.

A veterinarian operated Wednesday and fished out the stockings without a tear.

Said Sandy's owner, Mrs. Irene Poynter: "The stockings have been washed and I shall wear them again."

Hank Iba is in his 25th year as the basketball coach at Oklahoma State University and marks his Silver Anniversary by sending the Cowboys into their first season of play as a member of the Big Eight Conference. Over this stretch of years, Coach Iba's charges won or shared in 14 Missouri Valley Conference championships. Last year they did not compete. With only one regular returning from last year's squad, Arlen Clark, the Cowboys are not expected to make an auspicious bow in the rugged Big Eight. The Cowboys are very short on experience, but they still have Coach Iba. And Iba has long been recognized as one of the finest tutors of basketball in the control of the tempo of the game. Opposing teams can't score while the Cowboys retain possession of the ball. Coach Iba has won many an important contest by playing 'close to the vest' and shooting only when the chances of scoring are almost perfect. Seldom does an OSU player take a poor shot and risk losing the ball.

Coach Iba's anniversary year also marks the first for his son as varsity player. He is Henry (Moe) Iba, a sophomore with a very promising future. Moe could develop into a real "take charge" play-maker with necessary experience. A solid 6-foot-1, 180-pounder, Moe is a clever dribbler and ballhandler. He has an exceptional talent for finding a man open under the basket. Moe shoots accurately, too, his best shot being a one-dancer from outside. He could add his name to the long list of All-America players his father has developed at Oklahoma State University.

A dedicated exponent of 'control' basketball, Coach Iba's teams are equally adept at defense and offense. His charges are precisely taught every phase of the round-ball game. Defense is stressed because ball-possession means con-rol of the tempo of the game. Opposing teams can't score while the Cowboys retain possession of the ball. Moe could develop into a real "take charge" play-maker with necessary experience. A solid 6-foot-1, 180-pounder, Moe is a clever dribbler and ballhandler. He has an exceptional talent for finding a man open under the basket. Moe shoots accurately, too, his best shot being a one-dancer from outside. He could add his name to the long list of All-America players his father has developed at Oklahoma State University.

A dedicated exponent of 'control' basketball, Coach Iba's teams are equally adept at defense and offense. His charges are precisely taught every phase of the round-ball game. Defense is stressed because ball-possession means con-

Stage Is Set For Basketball Wars

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

College basketball powers set their sights today on conference warfare following the greatest outburst of Christmas week tournament activity in the history of the game.

The hectic week of tournament jousting involved most of the leading top ten teams and rang up merry tunes on the cash registers. It also served to pint up again the talent riches of the Atlantic Coast Conference, especially of North Carolina State, Dixie Classic champions, and North Carolina.

Most of the major tournament and non-tourney holiday action ended Wednesday to permit the short-pants set to celebrate the New Year in civvies.

But there was some firing on the courts Thursday, including a couple of tournaments in the East.

Bowdoin, beaten in its first eight starts, surprised Rutgers, 67-66, in the first round of the Downeast Classic, at Bangor, Maine. Bob Gorra's basket in the last two seconds put Bowdoin against Colby in the semifinals tonight. Colby beat Tufts, 64-55. The other semifinal matches St. Michael's, Vt. and Wesleyan.

Williams and Massachusetts moved into tonight's semifinals of the Springfield, Mass. College Invitational tournament. Williams avenged its only defeat of the season by trouncing Harvard, 83-67, and Massachusetts downed winless American International, 50-51. Springfield and Amherst, first round winners Wednesday, play in the other semifinal.

In non-tourney intersectional contests, Butler came from behind a nine point deficit in the first half to nose out Navy, 59-58 at Indianapolis, and Ohio State raced away from crippled Brigham Young in the last ten minutes, for a 100-81 victory at Columbus, O. despite sophomore Bob Skousen's 39 point spree for the losing Cougars.

N. C. State's victory in its own Dixie Classic—which had four of the nation's top ten teams in the field—was most impressive.

Italian Net Star Staying Amateur

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Italian tennis player Orlando Sirola is remaining an amateur—at least for the time being.

Promoter Jack Kramer said today he had spoken with Sirola, but the time was not appropriate to present a professional contract to the big Italian.

'Stinkenbrunn' Town Is No More

STINKENBRUNN, Austria (AP)—This is the last time the name Stinkenbrunn, which means stinking well, correctly appears in a newspaper dateline.

It's now just Brunn.

Stinkenbrunn dates back to the 13th century. A local well's waters had a bad odor and a sour taste from nearby lignite deposits. Now the coal is gone and the water's pure.

Senseless Prank Killed 2 People

SAN CARLOS, Ariz. (AP) — A senseless New Year's Day prank backfired into tragedy when a dynamite explosion killed two persons, hospitalized eight others and splintered a one-room house.

THE PHANTOM

CHAPTER 27
The sun had set when they drove the ponies down to the Platte about a mile above the Rocky Mountain Fur Co. camp.

Mordecai spun toward the scot-terment of men. He heard the voy-ager Letourneau let out a high-pitched yell. "Behind! Behind!"

howled from across the river, waving a scalp. Now, apart from all the camp, they were having a victory dance, pumping their knees high, chanting, "Hey-ya! Hey-ya! Hey-ya-a-a!"

Someone at the card game saw them. After a quick buzz of talk there was silence. One of the players who stood up to look was still holding the pack of cards. "That's Lajoie," Big Nose muttered, "him in the cut-up shirt."

Mordecai saw Rhoda, stock still, staring at him as if he'd just scaped a half-dozen innocents. He turned away from her angrily. What did she think the fur trade was, a picnic on a slow Massachusetts river!

But one of the Snakes in the scalp dance was staggering from drunkenness. Therein lay the whole scene from her view beyond the cast of firelight. It was like looking from some safe point in civilization upon the advance of white man into the realm of heathens.

Big Nose said, "That's one of the no-good—!" Mike Nesmith's hands were on the canvas that had been spread over the packs. He was not directly facing Mordecai, so that Mordecai's view was from the side.

They were building pack saddles around big fires to replace the ones left behind on dead animals. Rhoda stood alone near the river. The violence had stunned her, or so she thought at first. Now she was wondering if it had been the quickness of it all that had astonished her, and she was wrestling with the thought that it had been unavoidable.

"I ain't fretting over 'em," Mordecai claims, but don't believe it. He's sore about Rhoda's playing up to Lajoie and then Beauregard. Continue "Rendezvous" here tomorrow.

Watching Nesmith, Mordecai saw the man spread his hands like a Frenchman. "Ain't no use to get heated up," Nesmith said. "I don't even know you." He put his left hand palm up on the packs. The other fell naturally at his side, as if he were shrugging off the whole thing. That attitude was still with him when he flipped a short rifle up from beside his leg.

Apparently First Born Of New Year

YADKINVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Returns from an outlying precinct late Thursday apparently gave the New Year's Baby Derby to a Rt. 1, Jonesville couple.
A son was born at one second after midnight Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. James E. Parker at Lulu Conrad Hoots Memorial Hospital here.
At nearby Winston-Salem, Paul Lewis Miller III was born when the new year was 30 seconds old. He apparently was first runner-up.
The Parkers have three other children. This was the first one for the Millers.
