Castro, Troops Wildly Cheered In Slow March

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro and thousands of his hard-fighting soldiers continued their slow westward march of triumph today, savoring the adulation being heaped on them as they approached Havana.

Tens of thousands in cities, towns and villages turned out to cheer wildly as Castro and his motorized columns made their way from the Oriente province center of their rebellion which overthrew the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista last week.

The progress was slow: Camaguey, 300 miles from Havana, Sunday night; tonight, Santa Clara, scene of the decisive defeat which forced Batista to flee, 140 miles further along the march; Tuesday, Matanzas, 50 miles from the capital.

Castro and his men were expected in the capital Wednesday afternoon for one of the greatest welcomes in Cuban history.

In a prelude, Manuel Urrutia, named provisional president by Castro, was flying from Santiago de Cuba this morning to take the central government reins in Havana. A big welcome was arranged for him, with government offices closed so employees could participate.

The people of Havana awaited Castro with full stomachs for the first time since the collapse of the Batista government and the dictator's pre-dawn flight to Ciudad Trujillo.

The rebel chief, now commander in chief of Cuba's armed forces, ordered an end to the paralyzing general strike which had closed the nation's stores, business and industries and tied up transport and communications.

He had said he would call off the strike when he was convinced Havana was safely in the hands of his men. There were still some scattered Batista holdouts, but reports from his commanders in Havana assured Castro the situation was fully under control and nothing could upset his hard won victory.

There were immediate signs of a return to normalcy in the tense excited city.

Newspapers began appearing again. Stores flung open their doors to a landlocked business selling foodstuffs to hungry Havana. Taxis and buses resumed operation.

Industrial workers began preparing to return to their jobs.

Castro's bearded soldiers patrolled the streets with rifles, pistols, and machineguns, guarded government buildings and banks and roamed the lobbies and corridors of hotels, on the alert for violence.

The security situation was enhanced by the rebel high command's order to the thousands of jubilant young militiamen, many of them self-appointed, to turn in their guns. Most of them apparently obeyed. Only a few were seen armed on the street.

The hunt continued for remnants of the Batista government. Jails were filling with ex-government officials and persons branded by the rebels as "enemies of the Cuban people."

Speedy executions already had been meted out to at least five Batista henchmen. They were Capt. Jose Garcia Menocal, a police inspector in the western province of Pinar del Rio; Brig. Gen. Joaquin Casilla, Batista's commander in Las Villas province, and three of his top staff officers.

Among those under arrest was Dr. Joaquin Martinez Saez, president of the National Bank of Cuba.

The frantic exodus of thousands of American tourists ceased off. Scores who had been planning to leave decided to stay. More than 1,000 had returned to the states by special ships and planes.

All commercial airlines were given permission to resume flights between the United States and Cuba early today.

Among the saddest men in town were the kingpins of the American gambling syndicates who ran the lavish casinos in the big luxury hotels in alliance with the Batista government.

Those not taking ships or planes out of town were finding it hard to come up with a reason for staying. Half or more of the thirteen casinos were a shambles, wrecked by rampaging rebels and sympathizers after Batista's flight. The others were closed and likely will stay that way. The rebels long have sworn to destroy the industry that poured millions of dollars into the pockets of the American operators — and into those of Batista and his associates.

More Cold Due Tonight For County

Biting north winds which moved into Pitt County late yesterday had local people clutching at their overcoats this morning.

The cold winds brought a big drop in temperature as compared with the fairly warm weather of Saturday and most of Sunday.

The Greenville Utilities weather station reported the thermometer took a big drop from the high of 59 degrees Sunday to a low of 29 last night. As the sun rose this morning there was no effect on the temperature and the mercury continued to plunge to the 23-degree mark at 8 a.m.

Saturday the high was 56 degrees and low for the night was 40 degrees. Sunday morning the thermometer stood at 40 degrees, according to the Utilities Commission.

The Tar River, swollen by heavy rains of last week, stood at the 15.65 foot level. The river posed no problem to residents of low lands, however. It is expected to begin falling today.

Tonight is expected to be just as cold as Sunday night for Pitt County with the U. S. Weather Bureau predicting temperatures in the Coastal Plain of 8 to 15 degrees.

Governor Plans Two Visits Into Eastern N. C.

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Hodges planned to remain at his Capitol desk for the first three days of his first full week of 1959. He will make two official visits into eastern North Carolina Thursday.

He and Col. Henry Rowland of Wilmington, district engineer of the Army engineers, will tour recently completed stream clearance projects in Wayne County Thursday morning.

Later Thursday morning he will participate in groundbreaking ceremonies of the North Carolina Natural Gas Corp.'s new pipeline project into eastern North Carolina. The ceremony will be somewhere along the company's right-of-way between Kinston and Goldsboro.

The governor will hold his weekly news conference at 4 p.m. Thursday.

He closes the week speaking to a Research Triangle luncheon Friday afternoon in Raleigh.

New Companion For Princess

LONDON (AP) — There's a new entry in the Princess Margaret hand-holding stakes today — Lord Plunket, handsome, aristocratic, 35 and a bachelor.

The word is that the eligible bachelor, an official escort to the royal family, is squiring bachelor girl Margaret above and beyond the call of duty.

Lord Plunket is the deputy master of the royal household. Margaret and the rest of the royal family call him Patrick.

That much came out during his drive from New York to Washington and an unscheduled two-hour walk around Washington streets.

The days ahead also have no fixed schedule. Mikoyan says he will be happy to talk about anything Dulles wants, including Berlin.

Dulles says "The initiative is his." Mikoyan says he would be pleased to talk to President Eisenhower if the President has time. The White House says it is up to Mikoyan to ask.

One thing stood out clear. The critical Berlin situation — provoked two months ago by Soviet Premier Khrushchev — is the biggest cold war issue at present, and

Russian Cosmic Rocket Races On To Solar Orbit, Radio Is Silenced

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's cosmic rocket continued its headlong dash toward a solar orbit today in man's greatest conquest of space.

Its radio signals ceased as the 1½-ton device — now called Mefista (dream) — went past an estimated 370,000 miles in its plunge away from the earth. It had then been in flight 62 hours.

Resources for feeding the radio equipment had become exhausted, the Soviet news agency Tass said. "The program of observations and scientific investigations of the rocket has been completed," an announcement said.

This predicted the rocket will finally enter an orbit around the sun Wednesday or Thursday. Mefista is due to take 15 months to go around the sun, traveling elliptically.

The Russians calculate this orbit would have a maximum diameter of 214½ million miles. The rocket would get no nearer the sun than 91½ million miles. The sun averages 93 million miles from earth.

The name Mefista was applied to the rocket today by Pravda, the Communist party newspaper. When it was announced last Saturday that the rocket was headed toward the moon, it was called Lunik, a combination of Luna (moon) and Sputnik.

Scientists here figured that it was traveling at a maximum speed of 1.52 miles a second when it passed the moon Sunday at a distance of 4,700 miles.

Results of radio transmissions between the rocket and ground stations will be published as soon as they are analyzed, Tass said.

The 62 hours of radio communication enabled observations to be made of the rocket's movements, and on the work of the scientific instruments aboard.

The actual number of days that will be required for the solar orbit will be 447, scientists said. This is 82 more than it takes the earth to go around the sun.

Dr. G. M. Clemence, scientific director of the U. S. Naval Observatory in Washington, said that some time in March or February the earth will pass between the rocket and the sun.

The earth has an elliptical orbit around the sun, the same as the rocket will have, but it is tighter. It takes the earth only 12 months to make the full swing.

The nearest point of the earth's orbit to the sun is about 91½ million miles, the farthest 94½ million miles. The earth is now traveling away from the sun, having reached its closest point Jan. 1.

When the Soviet rocket starts away from the sun, it will swing away faster than the earth, and then the earth will pass between the rocket and the sun.

The earth and the rocket will be several hundred thousand miles apart and they will not be that close again for another two or three centuries.

As the rocket moved further into space, the gravitational pull of the moon and the earth was lessening and the pull of the sun's gravity was increasing.

Soviet newspapers Sunday were filled with comments on the performance and predictions of new space ventures. But there were no further details on the rocket itself, its launching site or power.

On a Moscow radio broadcast Prof. Boris Kukarkin, deputy chairman of the Soviet Astronomical Council, mentioned the possibility of a space ship soaring outside the entire solar system.

The area he was talking about would encompass distances so vast they are outside the range of human conjecture.

It would lie beyond the immeasurable galaxy known as the Milky Way.

Kukarkin said that higher speeds than those needed by Russia's space rocket to escape earthly gravity are probably attainable in the near future.

"Similar space ships will be capable of traveling beyond the boundaries of our solar system," he declared. It is possible to go still further and think about even further tasks.

"We can not only leave our solar system, but even our galactic system," he added.

In Nuremberg, Germany, Prof. Hermann Oberth, who recently resigned from a post as adviser to the U. S. Army's missile program, said the Soviets possibly wanted to hit the moon with their rocket but "slyly covered up" an error in calculation when they established that it would bypass the moon and continue its travel in space.

He said he did not think the Russians were more than two or three months ahead of the United States in rocketry.

(But in London, Prof. H. S. W. Massey, who directed British rocket research for the International Geophysical year, said he thought the Russians intended all along to overshoot the moon and put the missile in orbit around the sun.)

This view was backed up by Kukarkin, who wrote in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda that the rocket easily could have hit the moon but "this task was not intended for it."

Financial Transactions Dominated Morning Session Of Commissioners

Financial transactions formed the core of action this morning by Pitt County Commissioners, meeting today in a regular monthly session.

The board approved two separate actions transferring money from the Emergency Fund to other accounts, and then approved a $250 donation to the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association.

The board also approved renewal of $350,000 in certificates of deposit with Greenville banks.

Transfers of Emergency Fund money were to the Elections Fund and to the County Buildings Fund. The Elections Fund, hit hard during the past year by regular and special elections, got an additional $3,000 after being reported as overdrawn in the amount of $2,797.64, with expenses of $7,402.84 against an appropriation of $4,605.

The County Buildings Fund got an extra $1800 to defray costs for a new boiler for the Court House heating system. The present boiler, which was reported as being in "bad shape" by Buildings and Grounds Superintendent W. G. Leggett, will continue to be used, if possible, until warm weather.

Leggett told the board he did not believe use of the boiler constituted any immediate danger, although an investigation by board members has shown it needs to be replaced.

Appropriation of $250 from the General Fund to the Pitt County

Tuberculosis Association has been an annual affair for several years. The board warned, however, that the practice will be investigated during the coming year to determine if it is to be continued in years to come.

Decision to renew the certificates of deposit, in Greenville banks, came after Auditor H. Reunald Gray reported the county's financial condition is such that the money will not be needed during the next 90 days, which the renewed certificates will cover.

Present certificates come due tomorrow.

In other business transactions this morning, the board officially canvassed results of a December 6 school district election, accepted reports from several county departments, and authorized the sheriff to send to Kentucky for a defendant named in a non-support warrant.

The school district election officially certified was held in Stokes School District and the board found that district voters approved $2-34, a special 35 cents levy for improvement of schools in the district. The board's action officially authorizes the special tax levy.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson was authorized to send to Kentucky for William Jarper Hunter after authorization for the action was requested by Superintendent Junius S. Grimes of the Pitt County Welfare Department. Hunter, charged with non-support, was said to be employed by a tobacco company in Kentucky.

Included in the reports given to the board by county departments was one from Administrator C. D. Ward of Pitt Memorial Hospital who said that bids for an addition to the hospital will probably be called for in June. Funds for the 70-bed addition were approved by county voters in a special election in September.

Legal Whiskey Sales Increased

Legal sales of whiskey in Pitt County during December showed a $32,150.50 increase over sales for the same month in 1957, ABC Board Chairman J. W. Joyner said today.

In a report to the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, Joyner said the county's nine liquor stores had total sales of $166,706.45 during the past month. Sales during December, 1957, were $134,575.95.

The December sales also helped to push sales totals for the first six months of a fiscal year to more than $96,000 over sales for the first six months of the 1957-1958 fiscal year. Joyner said sales totaled July 1 and December 31 between $789,607.65, as opposed to 1957 sales for the same period of $693,397.80.

Despite the increased sales, Joyner said the county's nine liquor stores have not increased because of an additional overhead in operating the nine stores.

In a report of ABC law enforcement activities for December, Joyner said ABC officers made 14 arrests and were notified of the same number of convictions. The convictions resulted in jail sentences of 13 months and fines of $873.25.

Joyner also said that 129 gallons and one pint of non-tax-paid whiskey were seized, 555 gallons of mash were destroyed and three stills captured. He added that ABC officers travelled 2,899 miles on two official cars in carrying out their duties during the month.

New Year's Toll Neared Estimate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Traffic 376, Fires 60, Miscellaneous 113, Total 549

The count of traffic deaths during the New Year's holiday neared its end today with indications that the four-day toll would be smaller than expected.

Delayed reports of fatal traffic accidents that occurred up to midnight Sunday were expected to add a few deaths to the tabulation.

Several times during the long holiday the rate of deaths had increased to a pace that indicated a new record for a four-day New Year's holiday was in the making. The record is 409, set during the 1956-57 holiday.

The National Safety Council had estimated a toll of 390 lives for the 102-hour weekend which began at 6 p.m. (local time) Wednesday and continued to midnight Sunday.

Tragic as it was, the toll this New Year was something to be thankful for, the council said.

Urban Funds For Seventeen N. C. Communities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Urban Renewal Commission has announced a $53,760 grant to help 17 North Carolina communities finance preparation of development plans.

The North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development received the grant. State and local funds will be added to it in equal amount.

Principal planning work will include studies of population, economic basis, central business districts and parking, neighborhood analysis, zoning, etc. Completion of the project is expected in 18 months.

The communities are Conover, Clinton, Elizabeth City, Goldsboro, Henderson, Hickory, Jacksonville, Kinston, Lexington, Mocksville, Mooresville, Newton, Raeford, Salisbury, Spencer, Thomasville and Wilson.

"We are thankful that the toll stayed below our pre-holiday estimate," a council spokesman said.

The Council noted the swift pace of deaths on the highways Sunday as the homeward rush of motorists reached the peak of travel. The upturn was similar to the toll on New Year's Day after a relatively safe start.

Weather was a big factor in the count. Many accidents were attributed to the snow and ice-slicked highways. But the hazardous driving conditions also resulted in keeping many Sunday drivers at home. The bitter cold weather throughout many areas also was responsible for the lighter traffic.

The New Year traffic toll was far under the slaughter on the highways during the four-day Christmas holiday period. The Christmas accident deaths included 694 in traffic, 93 in fires and 97 in miscellaneous type mishaps, an over-all total of 794.

The Associated Press, for comparative purposes, made a survey of accident deaths during a nonholiday period of four days, from 6 p. m. Wednesday Dec. 10 to midnight Sunday Dec. 14. It showed 841 deaths in traffic, 106 in fires and 105 in miscellaneous type accidents, an over-all total of 1,052.

Child Reported Victim Of Rape

A seven-year-old Negro girl was reported to have been raped while visiting in a neighbor's home during the weekend.

Police Chief S. G. Gibbs said a suspect was being given a lie detector tests in connection with the case this morning.

The chief said investigation showed the girl spent the night at the neighbor's home Saturday night. When she returned home Sunday morning, her parents learned of the alleged assault.

The parents took the child to a physician for examination and then reported the matter to police. Chief Gibbs said he understood the physician's examination showed the child had been molested.

No charges had been formally filed this morning.

State Sees Drop In Temperatures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A frigid wave of Arctic air held North Carolina in an icy grip today with little chance of warming expected until Wednesday. Temperatures fell below zero in some mountain areas last night.

The cold air preceded a high pressure system moving toward the east and centered today over the Mississippi Valley.

While the cold wave spread from the mountains across the state, residents along the coastal areas received small craft warnings for northwesterly winds of 30 to 35 miles per hour. The warnings flew from Cape Hatteras to Palm Beach, Fla.

A few light snow flurries were reported in the mountains last night but the snow did not stick on the ground.

The temperature fell to 10 degrees below zero on Mt. Mitchell and the thermometer still showed minus 10 there at 9 a.m. today.

Billion-Pound Thrust Guessed

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A German missile expert today estimated that the Soviet cosmic rocket must have had a thrust of about one billion pounds. He added this was something the Americans will only achieve in about a year.

The expert, Heinz Gartmann, member of the German Society for Space Research, said in an article in the Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung he also estimates the initial weight of the Soviet rocket was at least 250 tons, possibly as much as 400 tons.

Today, however, some of the same determined picketers arranged to march with placards outside the State Department, where Mikoyan had his appointment with Dulles. Both Mikoyan and State Department officials indicated the Berlin situation would figure in the talks.

For Mikoyan so far the trip has been "America revisited." He came here in 1936, when he was so impressed with ice cream and the automat that he introduced both ideas to Russia. This time he got excited about cellophane-wrapped doughnuts, motels, parking meters and rental automobiles.

At New York's airport, he studiously ignored a group of Hungarian refugees, some of whom yelled "murderer" and "Communist dog" at him. But a larger contingent waited in vain at the Soviet U. N. mission headquarters on Park Ave., which he bypassed.

Also unwarned was the correspondent for Tass, the Soviet news agency. He was warning himself in his office at the embassy when Mikoyan began to fight the cold wind in the streets.

Soon the Tass man rushed after the other newsmen rushing after Mikoyan. And soon Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov and Mikoyan's 29-year-old son, Sergo, were rushing after everyone. It took ten blocks for them to catch up.

The wind, so fierce that it shattered a street lamp near him, did not daunt Mikoyan, who clutched his fedora at a rakish angle and fought past three miles of sights. Traffic lights also did not daunt Mikoyan, who refused to stop for any.

His son, watching a motorist stretch on his brakes to avoid causing a painful international incident, made a remark that may set the keynote for Mikoyan's visit.

"He's always in a hurry," said Sergo of his father. "There is too little time."

Ferry Carrying Stranded Home

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The City of Havana ferry arrived at Key West today with 265 passengers who had been stranded in revolt-torn Cuba.

It was the second trip for the ocean-going ferry since President Fulgencio Batista fled the country. It brought 508 passengers from Cuba to port here Saturday.

Among those arriving today was Felipe de Vojillo, who is connected with the French Embassy in Washington. De Vojillo and his wife were in Cuba on a visit when a general strike started by order of the new rebel regime of Fidel Castro.

Many of the passengers ate their first food in three days after boarding the ship.

Several said they were able to get a small cup of coffee in Havana by standing in line for up to two hours.

They said the coffee was served through a hole in the door of a restaurant. The management refused to open the door for fear of looters.

The ship was scheduled to return to Havana today and resume its pre-revolution timetable of three trips a week. Officials said the ship would take any passengers wishing to make the trip.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average 5 to 9 degrees below normal through Friday. Moderating trend Wednesday and Thursday, colder Friday or Saturday. Rain or snow Thursday or Friday may total ½ inch melted precipitation.

Not Even Russians Are Told His Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Not even the Russians know what Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan will do next.

That became clear Sunday when the short, bouncy Armenian with the black moustache and collapsed nose began his two-week visit to the United States.

After a motorcade brought Mikoyan to the Soviet embassy, newsmen and photographers figured their work was done. Surely he would decide to rest after his long journey from Copenhagen.

Security police agreed. "The only action around here is the chauffeurs cleaning the cars with feather 'busters,'" one officer reported in mid-afternoon.

Suddenly Mikoyan, muffled and overcoated, with an old, beat-up fedora on his head, strode from the embassy to start a two-hour walk through Washington.

Newsman and photographers rushed after him, surprised at the lack of advance notice. But they couldn't complain about unfair treatment to the Western press.

Russian Deputy Premier Mikoyan Arranges Talks With Secretary Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Old Bolshevik Anastas I. Mikoyan, insisting he is just on vacation, set up a no-holds-barred talk about the cold war with Secretary of State Dulles today.

The 63-year-old Soviet first deputy premier flew into New York City Sunday and drove directly to Washington.

At New York's airport, he studiously ignored a group of Hungarian refugees, some of whom yelled "murderer" and "Communist dog" at him. But a larger contingent waited in vain at the Soviet U. N. mission headquarters on Park Ave., which he bypassed.

Today, however, some of the same determined picketers arranged to march with placards outside the State Department, where Mikoyan had his appointment with Dulles. Both Mikoyan and State Department officials indicated the Berlin situation would figure in the talks.

hence the most likely topic of any talks Mikoyan holds here. The question in the official American mind was: How far is Mikoyan authorized to go — if at all — in backing down from Khrushchev's seeming ultimatum, rejected by the West, that the allies pull their troops out of West Berlin by next

What's Your Growing - Up Quotient?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

"There seems to be a defeatist attitude overwhelming our teenagers," writes a mother. "If they do not make some sort of major conquest by the time they are in high school, they feel cheated and determined to do something that will shock their elders into realizing they are around. Why is this so, I keep asking myself."

Every generation seems to have a major share of young people who become bored with routine, and who feel they haven't lived unless they taste of adventure. So in the flapper era we had powder, paint, cigarette smoking, bobbed hair. Today it is hot-rod cars, steady dating, all-night prom parties and the duck-tail hairdo, and today's mother gets the same "they're all doing it" explanation.

Extroverts trigger off these fads and fancies usually, and other young people follow along sheep-like, happy for the diversion. It's part of growing up, the restlessness. Then one day, maybe, they become young individualists. Any modern mom can tell whether offspring is on the road to maturity, just by observing whether they are inching up in growth. Here are some test questions for teen-agers:

- Growing Up
1. Can you lend a helping hand in school work, without worrying that the person you aid will become competition?
 2. Would you comfort an enemy in time of stress?
 3. Do you get fun out of giving, or do you resent the fact that there are such budget-breakers as birthdays, Christmas, etc.?
 4. Could you give up a date evening to help a sick friend?
 5. Can you compliment a person who is better-equipped than you to merit the praise, or do you resent their good luck?
 6. Is it easy for you to admit your wrong, or do you stew over how you can wiggle out of a mistake?
 7. Do you feel you absolutely need make up on your face or you just can't be seen in broad daylight, even though you are pretty?
 8. Could you part with your last dime if someone needed it?
 9. Are you a prima donna, the type who resents mother making a constructive suggestion or a date coming a few minutes late, even though he may have a legitimate excuse?

- Maturity Test
10. Can you tolerate people not of your generation, older people and children?
 11. Do you spend a great deal of time dreaming, rather than engaging in physical exercise or a hobby?
 12. Can you understand the other fellow's viewpoint or are you always trying to convert people to your way of thinking?
 13. When the crowd is organizing a project, do you hold out for something you prefer, even though you are in the minority, or do you go along in the best interests of the group?
 14. Are you a cry baby? If you resort to tears every time something goes slightly awry, you've still got to learn to take it.
 15. Can you make decisions? If you postpone making up your mind about things, it's probably because you do not trust your own judgment.

With Farm Women

By ROBERTA GARNER
(Items this week from Mecklenburg-Henderson, Columbus, Nash, Guilford and Currituck Counties.)
A Secret of 1,500 Women!
Is it possible for 1,500 women to keep a secret? No? Well the Mecklenburg County Home Demonstration Club women did!

To pay tribute to their home economics agent, Miss Helen John Wright, for her 20 years service in their county, these women carefully planned and executed a love-tea in her honor.

Mrs. R. B. Hovis and Mrs. M. R. Godley were in charge of the preparations, but every club member helped make this a memorable event for Miss Wright.

New Kitchen
"Maybe it is silly to feel this way, but I hated to see the old wing which had been standing over 100 years torn away. But now I am excited about all the conveniences I will have," exclaimed Mrs. L. H. McKay of Henderson County. A large section of her home was removed before the remodeling could begin.

According to Home Economics Agent Kathleen Hodges, a new compact kitchen is under construction. In addition, the large living room will be divided to include a dining room and abundant storage will be built in the old hall.

Picture Frames
Women of Columbus County are busy refinishing picture frames. Mrs. Clyde Norris of Sandy Plains recently remodeled her home. After much searching for the "right" pictures, she was still unable to find just what she wanted. With the knowledge of refinishing picture frames, she plans to get some prints, then refinish her old frames.

Miss E. line Gibson, home agent, also reports that Mrs. Vance Thompson is very busy refinishing some frames that had been given her by a neighbor.

The youth in the county are enjoying the work as much as the club women. John Porter, son of a North Tatum Home Demonstration Club woman, is quite proud of the collage he has produced. Sarah Powell, Antioch, cleaned an old oval frame and used it for a Biblical picture in her room.

Raise A Square Meal
Negro Home Economics Agent Margaret Wade reports outstanding progress in Nash County as a result of the "Raise a Square Meal Around Home" Program.

Mrs. Viola McCann of Easonburg community, showed how she and her family of seven were able to save over $2,000 by carefully following the suggestions of the program.

The annual community award for county vegetable production and conservation was presented to the Evans community. During 1958, more than 800 families participated in the county program.

Meat Plant Tour
Thirty-three Guilford County Home Demonstration Club consumer marketing leaders toured a local meat plant. It was a splendid opportunity to see the different grades of meat, and to become more familiar with the methods of curing ham.

These women each carried the report of the tour to their individual club meetings, according to Miss Thompson, home economics agent.

Well-Dressed Tables
"A well-dressed table is like a well-dressed woman," Currituck County Home Demonstration women were told. It depends on an attractive "wardrobe" of tableware that goes well together.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sanderlin, home economics agent, demonstrated how table settings can accommodate the occasion. Information included selection of glass, china and silver for a well-planned combination.

Guests were greeted at the door by the hosts and presented to the guests of honor. The living room mantel featured an arrangement of pink and white carnations and burning pink tapers entwined with fern and pink net.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob T. Smith of Greenville presided at the register and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hudson of Greenville invited the guests into the dining room.
An arrangement of pink and white carnations and pink tapers with net and fern decorated the refreshment table which was covered with an imported linen cut-work table cloth.

Miss Lottie Ellis poured punch while Mrs. J. A. Worthington and Mrs. Lloyd Allen of Greenville assisted in serving pink and white bridal cakes, salted nuts, mints and cheese wafers. Others assisting during the appointed hours were Mrs. T. Ray Oglesby and Mrs. L. H. Ellis.

Big Advance In Year Of Recession

North Carolina's record year for industrial development should prove to the people of the state that when they set their cap in a determined effort to accomplish a goal can be reached.

During the year which just closed more than one-quarter of a billion dollars was invested in new and expanded industrial plants in North Carolina. This investment will add another 27,757 industrial jobs in North Carolina and produce an annual payroll estimated at higher than 72 million dollars.

This greatest year in industrial development in North Carolina came during a period when the nation as a whole was going through a period of recession. It came during a time when many large and small firms throughout the country were shelving expansion plans because of slightly depressed economic conditions and an uncertain outlook for the future.

The fact that North Carolina reached a new high point in its industrial development during a period when these adverse factors were present in the national economic picture is evidence that this state and its communities were doing a better job of selling to prospects the advantages of locating plants here. It is also evidence of a greater interest in industrial development on the part of the people as a whole in North Carolina.

To a great extent, say state officials, North Carolina's success in attracting new industries during the past year is due to development programs carried out by individual counties and communities throughout the state.

Also significant in the overall picture is the fact that North Carolina realized a greater degree of industrial diversification during 1958 with metal working industries making a greater total investment in this state than any other category.

The success which North Carolina realized in 1958 should spur citizens of the state to further intensify their development programs in this year of 1959. The economic picture for the nation as a whole is brighter than last year, and experts say that many industries which postponed expansion programs in 1958 will go ahead with these programs during 1959.

Now that North Carolina has gained the desire and the know-how to sell industry on the state's many advantages, there is no reason why 1959 should not be another record year for the investment in new and expanded industries in the state.

Tough Campaign To Save Lives In Traffic

Tough campaigns by Connecticut and New Jersey to eliminate speeding on their highways will bear careful watching by other states interested in reducing the horrible highway traffic tolls.

Connecticut has had in use a drastic new weapon against speeders on its highways, and this year it ranks first among the states in highway safety for the number of miles traveled. New Jersey, which ranks third in traffic safety for miles traveled began using the new weapon on January 1.

The weapon?

Mandatory license revocation for persons caught going more than 60 miles an hour in New Jersey where speed limits range from 25 to 50 miles per hour on streets and highways.

In New Jersey the punishment for speeding will be automatic revocation of driver's licenses for 30 for the first offense, 60 days for a second offense and an indefinite suspension of licenses for the third offense. What's more, the state will consider no exceptions or extenuating circumstances when it comes to meting out the penalties.

Although state officials in New Jersey estimate that 50,000 drivers will lose their licenses during this first year under the new law, they are also convinced the new system will appreciably reduce the number of deaths on their highways.

Speed is one of the major factors in the highway death toll of the nation. And New Jersey with its new law is attracting the problem at its source . . . the heavy-footed driver. If this drastic new weapon against works as well in New Jersey as it has in Connecticut, it will certainly merit serious consideration by other states interested in reducing their highway accident tolls.

New Sister In Seward's Folly

By WILLIAM J. TOBIN
JUNEAU, Alaska. (AP) — It was called Seward's Folly in 1867. Its now known as the 49th state.

Its your new sister among the states — the biggest of them all. The place is Alaska. This scenic city is the capital of the first state admitted to the union since New Mexico and Arizona entered in 1912.

It sits at the foot of Mt. Roberts and Mt. Meneau, two peaks just under 4,000 feet that are snow covered eight months a year.

Jeanau, near the top of the southeastern Alaska panhandle and Dover, Del. now share honors of being the nations two smallest state capitals. Each has about 7,000.

Alaska 586,400 square miles — spanning four time zones and extending within sight of Soviet Siberia, is one of its most distinctive features. It inspires a good many of the jokes that have circulated lately.

Its pointed out here that if Alaska were divided in half, Texas would be the third largest state. This 49th state is more than 2 1/2 times as big as Texas, up to now the largest of the union.

To many, Alaska is a land of bearded sourdoughs, swinging saw-logs and panting sled dogs mushing through zero cold. It has been a land that bred myth and legend since its discovery by Russian explorers in 1741.

Secretary of State William Henry Seward engineered its purchase from czarist Russia 91 years ago. The United States paid Russia $7,200,000 for all of Alaska.

Critics called it folly. Alaska was regarded as an ice-locked hunk of land at the top of the world. It was too remote to reach, too cold to live in, too wild to civilize. But Alaskans 210,000 residents and the pioneers before them have proved those estimates wrong.

This new state occupies a key position in global air systems. Regular airline flights span the North Pole, refuel at Anchorage, and carry passengers and mail from Europe to the Orient.

Militarily, Alaska has become Americas guardian of the north. There is under construction a missile detection center south of Fairbanks. It will cost more than three times the purchase price of Alaska.

From Alaska has some billions of dollars worth of gold, salmon and timber. Now oil companies are investing millions into what apparently will become a major petroleum industry.

Alaskans cities are as modern as those of any state. Its schools and hospitals are excellent. By way of the major airlines, Alaskans are less than a day away from Washington.

Alaska climate generally is not as severe as most people think. At Fairbanks, most northern metropolises, it reaches 50 degrees below zero in winter — but the air is crisp and windless. In summer, Fairbanks basks in 90-degree sunshine.

It was 17 years after the purchase before Congress organized the territorial government. It was 1906 before Alaska was permitted a non-voting delegate in Congress. It was 1913 before its first territorial legislature was convened.

Statehood bills for Alaska have been drifting around in Congress since 1916. The one that finally cleared Congress was signed by President Eisenhower last July.

The new Alaskan state government has begun functioning under direction of a 44-year-old Democrat, Gov. William A. Egan.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
DISCIPLINE DOES IT

Everyone who writes a newspaper feature of any kind receives letters from his readers. I appreciate greatly the letters I receive. Generally they are couched in terms of appreciation and spiritual agreement. Sometimes the opposite. But always they are helpful.

Let me give you a metered message which I received recently from a reader:

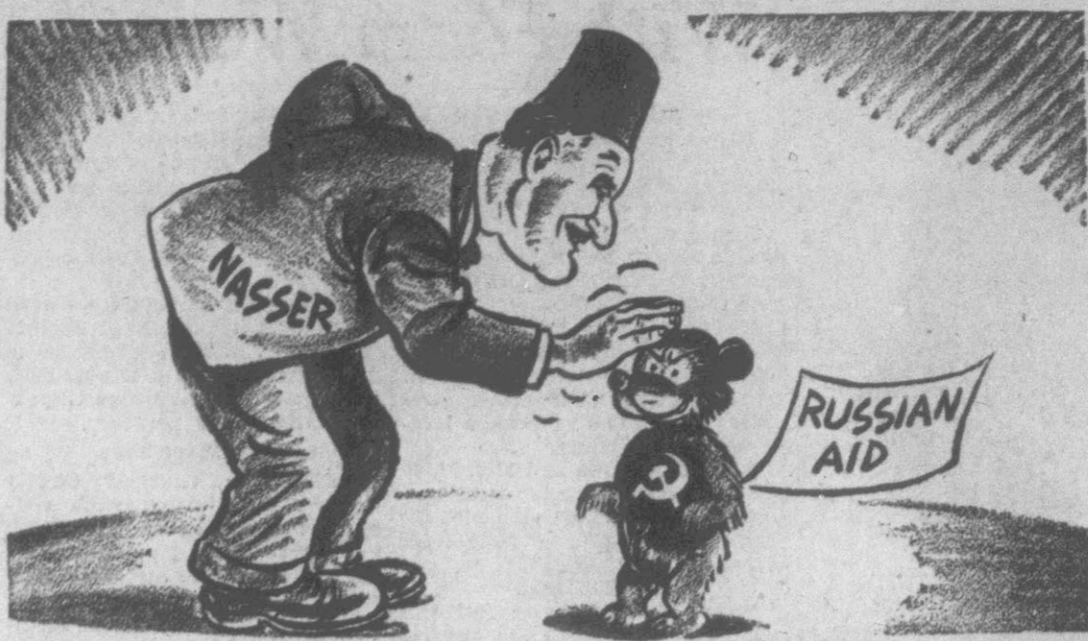

"Those who step by step learn to live his way—
Every day—
And on the holy Sabbath pay A loyal homage to the giver of all good things:
Let us pray and sing,
And truly strive to spread the word of life."
This is sound doctrine well stated in a form of words suitable to the dignity of the matter discussed.

We are spiritual beings and the development of our spiritual life indeed has to go on step by step. It involves worship among other things — prayer, striving, study, reflection, and witnessing to the word of life. Anyone who believes that he can lie back on his couch, as it were, and allow God's blessings to come down upon him like gentle rain from heaven is due for a shocking surprise. Religion does not proceed in that fashion. Jesus spoke about walking the narrow pathway and striving to enter through a narrow gate.

The way of the transgressor is hard, but the way of the Christian is not easy. Discipline does it.

That Cute Little Cub—

—IS GROWING UP!

By HAL BOYLE

Learn U. S. By Working

NEW YORK (AP) — Two pretty and adventurous British secretaries, after a 15-month work-travel tour of America, have come up with these conclusions:

"American bosses are more lenient than British bosses."

"In England you get longer lunch periods, but in America you have longer coffee breaks."

"Here a boy on a date asks a girl what she would like to do. In England he has a plan and tells her what they will do. But American boys, on the whole, are more enterprising."

The girls, Hilary Birley and Cecily Thompson, both 22, landed in this country in September, 1957, with $280 each and a determination to see the United States. They drew up their tour with the help of Manpower, Inc., an organization specializing in providing industrial firms with skilled employees on a part-time or emergency basis.

In their journey across America and back the two girls held some 40 jobs and earned about $2,200 each.

"We held about every type of job you can imagine," said Hilary. "We waited on tables in Aspen, Colo. We mixed drinks at a convention in San Francisco. We made surveys in Minneapolis, we worked as secretaries in several cities."

"People everywhere were friendly and willing to give us jobs," said Cecily. "We could have earned a lot more, but we took a number of vacations so we could get to see more."

The girls bought a second-hand car in San Francisco for $160 — "we named it Celeste" — and drove it 9,000 miles. They then reluctantly sold it to a Minneapolis junk dealer for $30 rather than invest $50 more to repair it.

The high-spirited girls said the biggest blow to their pride came in Aspen when they overheard a chef grumble: "I wish those girls would learn to speak English."

"But we ran into a number of misconceptions about Britain," said Cecily. "Many people here still seem to have the idea that the British working class is oppressed, that food is rationed in our country, that the British have no sense of humor, and that everyone in England drinks tea. Neither of us happens to like tea."

What thing about America upset them most?
"I suppose," said Hilary, "it was the time we went on a date out West and one of the boys ordered a hamburger and topped it with a slice of pineapple and a maraschino cherry."

And the hardest thing about America to adjust to?
"Girls going to work in the morning still wearing bobby pins in their hair," said Cecily.

"No, men wearing T-shirts in public," said Hilary.

What did they miss most from their homeland?
"The taste of good sharp cheese," said Cecily. "Here all your cheese seems to be processed."

"We both missed the year-round greenness of England," added Hilary.

What quality do they think the British have that Americans lack?
"An ability to amuse themselves," said Hilary, after a thoughtful pause. "The British are more self-sufficient in the use of leisure. The American is likely to be at some ends if he doesn't find something outside himself to entertain him."

And Cecily added: "The British young people have more respect for their government, their police, and their elders."

But both girls agreed they'd had a wonderful time and would like to come again. They also think it would be a fine idea if more American working girls would go to Britain and Europe and learn about living conditions there on a similar job-travel program.

"The best way to learn a country is to work in it," said Hilary.

Other Editors Saying -- Teamsters Out Of Line

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

No person in his right mind can say that organized labor in this country has not contributed greatly to the welfare and well-being of the working man. The union has done more, possibly, than any other single force in the history of the U.S. to increase the economic level of the public. Without its aid there likely would be no limit on the work week, no floor-under wages and few other benefits labor has fought long and hard to gain for its members.

The fight is not over. There are still plenty of areas in American industry that could benefit by the support of labor. And labor today is making this fight. It hopes to include large fringes of industry not now covered by labor benefits. This means more, economically, for the working man. However, labor has a habit of not knowing when it has had enough of a good thing.

Now, the Teamsters Union, headed by James Hoffa, has stepped into a province we do not believe is basically labor's field. That is, the effort to organize the police department of New York City. Henry Feinstein, Teamsters official, boasted that his union "is going to give the police commissioner a taste of the economic force and pressure of the police firemen or any other public service set up for the public safety, health and welfare. It gives labor too much of a hold on key forces in our government. The labor bosses had just as well seek to organize the Marine Corps or the Strategic Air Command. We cannot see one lot of difference.

But this police business is another matter. We do not believe organized labor has any legal business interfering with duties of the police, firemen or any other public service set up for the public safety, health and welfare. It gives labor too much of a hold on key forces in our government. The labor bosses had just as well seek to organize the Marine Corps or the Strategic Air Command. We cannot see one lot of difference.

Total Output To Rise

By RALPH ROBEY

We have now reviewed the general extent of the recovery to date and have briefly discussed some of the fundamental worries. On the basis of this it is possible to make actual forecasts for the coming year.

Gross national product, which is the total monetary value of all goods and services produced in the nation and which currently is at a new high, will continue to advance. This is assured through rise of government expenditures, not only federal but state and local as well, and by continuation of the recovery. The total should advance each quarter. Estimates for the last three months of the year range between $470 and $480 billion, as compared with about $450 billion at present.

Industrial production which, according to the index of the Federal Reserve Board, was 141 in November (1947=100), will continue to increase and before long will be at a new high level. The recovery will be uneven, as it has up to this point, but durable manufacturers should show a good growth. This is important because this segment was hardest hit by the recession.

Total personal income is now at an all-time high and will continue to rise throughout the year. A major factor will be the upward trend of wages. With such personal income, retail trade will show a reasonably adjusted rise month after month, and at the end of the year will be appreciably above 1958.

Net farm income is officially estimated to be down. The reason is that we have come to the end of a farm cycle and although crop may be excellent, farm prices will be lower and the goods and services bought by farmers will cost a little more. The estimated drop in net farm income is between 5 and 10 percent.

Because of declining farm and food prices, the cost of living will remain relatively stable for the next few months, and the wholesale price index likewise will show little variation. Thereafter both indexes probably will start to creep upward again. The increase will not be sharp, but it will rekindle interest in, and fear of, inflation.

The construction industry will rise above $50 billion for the first time. Private housing starts will increase from the 1958 figure of about 1,150,000 to around 1,175,000. They may even go higher if Congress again takes action to make financing easier.

Business inventories will rise moderately in 1959. In other words the liquidation, for all practical purposes, has been completed.

Business investment in plant and equipment also will rise slightly in 1959. Actually the turn may have taken place in the fourth quarter of 1958. That cannot be known until actual figures have been collected. The increase will be in other than manufacturing, mining, and railroads. None of those three divisions is as yet fully utilizing the results of past investments.

Unemployment will decline gradually over the year, but it will be late in 1959 before we again have full employment.

Interest rates will not go down. If there is any change it will be a slight upward trend.

The foreign situation will remain tense. It is safe to assume that there will not be an all-out war, but our foreign policy will continue to be dominated by the wishes and actions of Russia and China. Foreign trade, both imports and exports, will be above 1958.

Finally, business profits will continue to improve. They will not come close to previous peaks, but growth will be of material aid to government revenues, with the result that a start can be made on reducing the magnitude of the federal deficit.

To summarize: 1959 will be materially better than 1958. It will not be a boom year, but recovery will continue in most parts of the economic system at a reasonable and encouraging rate. The year will end with many serious problems unsolved, some of which may be worse than they are today. But, granting the new Congress does nothing too drastic, it will be a year of progress. This is a time, on the basis of all the evidence, for what has been termed restrained optimism.

Calendar Favorable To Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

The calendar will be good for business this year.

Only three holidays will split business weeks. The traditional vacation season will be six days longer than in 1958. The traditional Christmas shopping season will have one more day than last year.

However, Easter will be early, on March 29. Early Easters tend to reduce retail sales of fashion goods — so much so that many merchandise authorities urge retailers to talk more about "spring fashions" and less about "Easter fashions." However, that idea won't get very far as long as the girls insist on parading Easter Sun's.

SCHEDULE OF HOLIDAYS
Here's a rundown on the fall of the holidays:
Lincoln's Birthday, February 12, a Thursday. This day is increasingly become a retail fiesta day, and although it splits the week in some places, it boosts retail sales in others.

Washington's Birthday, February 22, a Sunday; will be observed on Monday.

Memorial Day, May 30, a Saturday.

Independence Day, July 4, a Saturday. However, if recent trends continue, July 3 will be a full or half holiday in many places to maintain the tradition of the long July 4 weekend.

Labor Day, the first Monday in September, will be on September 7, the latest possible date.

Columbus Day, October 12, a Monday.

Veterans' Day, November 11, a Wednesday. This will split the week where it is observed with retail and plant shutdowns.

Thanksgiving Day, a Thursday, will be on November 26.

Christmas, December 25, will fall on a Friday. So will New Year's Day, 1960.

When widely observed holidays fall in midweek, they tend to sharply reduce both retail sales and industrial production.

LONG SUMMER

The July 4 Labor Day span this year will be 66 days or 67 when vacations start July 3.

This will tend to sweeten travel and resort businesses, although it will correspondingly shorten the fall retail period. There were only 60 days in this vacation season last year.

There will be 24 shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas, one more than last year, two more than in 1957, but three less than in 1956.

Lent begins on February 11, eight days earlier than last year, making Easter on March 29.

Passover begins at sunset, April 22. Rosh Hashana begins at sunset, October 2, ushering in the Jewish year of 5720. Wom Kippur begins at sunset, October 11. Hanukkah begins at sunset, December 25.

Since Friday has become the great American payday, merchants have become interested in those months with five Fridays. This year they are January, May, July and October.

DACUS FLIES, TOO.
LIKE MARTINI OLIVES
There's bad news for martini drinkers tonight.

The exportable pickled olive crop is small and prices probably will rise. Production was about the same as last year, but hot weather and an infestation of the dacus fly made much of the crop unsuitable for export.

IRS REVIEWS THAT
FLAMING-SWORD GIMMICK
A swallow does not make a summer, nor does a waiter's bow make a cabaret.

The Internal Revenue Service was asked whether a restaurant must collect the Federal cabaret tax because a waiter puts on a show. He is specially costumed and when he serves flaming shish kabab he bows ceremoniously several times. And on occasion he sings a birthday or anniversary song to a patron.

Not a cabaret, says the IRS in a 400-word ruling (Rev. Rul. 58-611).

ALMOND CORN NIBBLES
Ingredients: 1 package (6 ounces) shelled almonds, 1 1/2 teaspoons olive oil, 1 teaspoon salt, 6 cups bite-size shredded corn cereal squares, 1/2 pound (1/2 cup) butter or margarine, 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder, 1/4 teaspoon onion powder, 1/2 cup grated Romano cheese, paprika.

Method: Do not blanch almonds; place in one layer in shallow baking pan. Dribble nuts with oil, sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon of the salt; mix well. Bake in slow (325 degrees), oven, stirring once, for 15 to 20 minutes or until a nut broken in two looks pale tan inside; cool in pan. Melt 1/4 cup of butter in a 10-inch skillet over low heat; stir in 1/2 teaspoon of the remaining salt, 1/4 teaspoon onion powder; add 3 cups of the garlic powder and 1/4 teaspoon cereal. Toast, stirring often, until lightly browned — 5 to 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Sprinkle hot cereal at once with 1/4 cup of the cheese and a little paprika; mix well. Turn out on paper toweling to cool and crisp. To clean skillet, add remaining 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder and 1/4 teaspoon onion powder; toast the same way and sprinkle with remaining 1/4 cup cheese and paprika. Mix all of the cereal with the almonds. If not served at once, store in tightly covered container at room temperature. Makes 24 servings.

Reception Honors Mr. Mrs. Doughtie

RECEPTION MARKS ANNIVERSARY . . . Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lewis Doughtie celebrated their 50th anniversary recently at the Fellowship Hall in the Johnson Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Hints

STORE THE HOSE

Do not forget to protect your garden hose during the winter months. If it is placed in a bushel basket it can be covered and easily moved from place to place.

EASY DOES IT

Some time or other during the coming months you are likely to want to shell pop corn. Rub an ear of it up and down on a wash board placed over a dish pan to shell it easily. It is wise to wear a glove when doing this so as to not bruise your knuckles.

Salary For Her Son

Harry, her eight-year-old son, told Mrs. Clay Ferebee that he needed a weekly "salary." Mrs. Ferebee, of Camden County, was horrified when he told her the amount that would meet his needs.

Her visit to a meeting of the Camden Home Demonstration Club when they discussed "children and money" helped her to see what other parents thought; and did about the same problem. Mrs. Mamie Sawyer, home economics agent, guided the women in their understanding of the difficulties involved.

Mrs. Ferebee and her son then worked out an allowance to their mutual satisfaction. It was surprising to note that the lump sum each week did not exceed the amount he had been getting each day.

No more "doing" of the funds; and Harry benefits from the experience of managing his allowance.

BETHEL—The Fellowship Hall of the Johnson Memorial Presbyterian Church was the scene of an informal reception recently honoring Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lewis Doughtie on their fiftieth wedding anniversary given by their children.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Carl Doughtie and Mrs. J. M. Doughtie alternately, who introduced them to the receiving line composed of the honored couple, Mr. and Mrs. Doughtie, their children, Mrs. Ruth Keel of Whitakers, J. M. Doughtie of Bethel, Mrs. Irma Rawls of Robertsonville, Earl Doughtie of Tarboro, Mrs. Dolly Millender of Bethel, Dodson Doughtie of Murfreesboro, Mrs. Maude Elliott of Norfolk, Va. and Earl Doughtie of Bethel.

The guests were then directed to the appointed table which was covered with a white, handmade lace cloth laid over gold and centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums interspersed with gold foliage, fern and a fiftieth anniversary golden numeral. This was flanked by candelabras holding six lighted candles. Cake from a three tiered wedding cake on one end of the table was served by Mrs. J. M.

Birth and Death

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Thomas Clark of Bethel announce the birth and death of a baby boy on January 3 at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

A good furniture finish is hard, smooth and evenly applied. It should be egg-shell smooth and show the grain of the wood clearly, even when the wood has been stained.

30 Years Ago Today

January 5, 1929

Mrs. H. C. Sugg and son Marvin left this morning for Richmond where she will visit her brother. Mr. Sugg will go to New York to attend the automobile show.

Mrs. J. S. Willard and little daughter Frances have returned from a visit in Plymouth.

Mrs. R. L. Carr and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell left today for Elizabeth City to attend the dedication of the Woman's Club building.

Mrs. J. H. Frolich of High Point is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gaskins.

Friends will be glad to know that Francis Bowen is able to be out after an illness of several days.

It takes 24 to 30 ounces of cherries to make a plump nine-inch pie.

More Reupholstering

Furniture reupholstering continues to keep Home Demonstration Club women busy. Mrs. Clyde Leatherman, a member of the Vale Home Demonstration Club in Lincoln County, recently completed a sofa and a child's platform rocker.

According to Miss Ainslee Alexander, home economics agent, Mrs. Leatherman used padding to form a smooth surface without the use of cushions. A tweed fabric was used to upholster the sofa at a cost of $15. With the aid of her sister, the homemaker completed work on the sofa in less than two days.

A figure cotton upholstery fabric with gold thread was used on the child's rocker. This was a remnant purchased for 75 cents. Now these pieces of furniture are used with pride in the den of the Leatherman home.

Pie filling mixes save only about four minutes in preparation time, but they cost about 75 per cent more than the individual ingredients.

Cooks' Resolutions Come True

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Good cooks who resolve to improve their repertoires in the New Year may find help in this crop of recently published cook books. Just one suggestion: choose the recipe collections that suit your particular interests and talents.

Do you relish the idea of serving classic new—and old—world recipes when you entertain? Then "The June Platt Cook Book" (Knopf, $5.00) is a must. Mrs. Platt "loves to cook, eat and give parties," and she has brought together all her best recipes "plus a collection of new delights." Educated here and abroad, June Platt's full time occupation is designing home decoration; her hobby is creating and adapting marvellous recipes. She suggests using only the best ingredients, and her extraordinarily good taste and generous step-by-step directions make this investment worthwhile. Here is deliciously sophisticated food—from hearty cheddar-cheese soup to Gatesu Malakoff, the ultimate in fancy desserts.

Evelyn R. Patterson, who wrote "Gourmet Kitchen" (Abelard-Schuman, $3.50), teaches an advanced cooking course at the Adult School in Princeton, New Jersey. The recipes in this book are those that make up the main course of a meal, as well as the dessert; through these the author hopes to help "the new or the experienced homemaker to develop some basic techniques and to add to her repertoire a select collection of exciting recipes."

Young couples, interested in everyday and company food that other families serve, should have a delightful time with Jane Benet's "The San Francisco Cook Book" (Fearon, $3.50). Its regional flavor gives it real tang. Attractively illustrated, clearly printed on sturdy paper, and a handy size, we suspect that men will enjoy this book as much as will women.

A happy combination produced "Encore—A Cookbook of the Favorite Dishes of the World's Most Famous Musicians" (Random House, $3.95); it was compiled by the Women's Association of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra and edited and tested by the Minnesota Home Economics Association. Photographs of the contributing artists plus brief biographical notes make an interesting addition to a fascinating collection of recipes—many of them hard to find in as practical a form.

"Josie McCarthy's Favorite TV Recipes" (Prentice-Hall, $3.50) is a carefully chosen batch—from soups to desserts—by an accomplished cook. Demonstrated by the author on her daily TV program, copies of these recipes have been requested many times. A running commentary, TV-program style, includes hints that should help cooks successfully duplicate the dishes.

Devotees of Marion W. Flexner's cook books will be interested in her "Cooking the Smart Way" (Barrows, $3.95). Her dozens of menus are a helpful feature. Many of these were brought back by the author during her travels around the world; some come from Kentucky and other southern kitchens.

Winter Suggestions

RALEIGH — Winter hints for Tar Heels who concentrate on the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service's live-better-at-home campaign: "Raising a Square Meal Around the Home":

1. Slaughter hogs for family meat supply only when the weatherman indicates the night temperatures will be in the low thirties; slaughter in late evening and allow to hang overnight and chill; do not get hogs over-excited before killing; be sure to get a good stick and good bleed on these hogs for better keeping qualities.
2. Prepare for winter weather conditions. Winterize chickens by closing up the poultry house and providing water warmers for poultry during extremely cold weather.
3. Plan next year's garden. A planned garden is like a planned house. Make a written plan, showing what, when, and how to plant.
4. Get plantbeds in shape. Repair old ones or build new ones. It is easy to make a plastic covered hot bed or cold frame at home. Home grown plants are best, because they are of the desired variety, disease free, fresher and more vigorous.
5. Order fruit trees now. Plant some new fruits this year. Most gardens are short on fruits. Try blueberries, figs, grapes, dewberries, etc. These are easy to grow and don't require special care.
6. Consume lots of milk and dairy products . . . your best food buy. At 26 cents per quart milk is the same price on a per ounce basis as soft drinks that sell for 5 cents in a six-ounce bottle. In addition, milk contains more quick refreshing energy.
7. Compare prices of fresh and processed vegetables during the winter months when fresh vegetables are normally shorter in supply and higher in price.

Beautifully printed and well designed, it is the culmination of six years' research on the author's part. It was published by a New York specialist in art books, Harry N. The court suspended sentence on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that he is not to operate a motor vehicle for 14 days. The fireworks were confiscated and destroyed.

position in North State cage play that is once held, said earlier this year this club may be "much trouble for anybody."

In listing his club's weak points, he commented that his Apps may be bothered with "timidity in backboard play, mental lapses on defense plus a lack of depth."

Those same weaknesses were touched on by ECC Coach Howard Porter earlier this year as his club's biggest barrier. Thus far, however, Porter has proved to be a better judge of his club than Light has been of his.

ECC's lack of good rebounding, despite adequate height in Nick Nichols, Joe Plaster, and Don Smith, has kept the Pirates on the defensive throughout much of the early season play.

Another problem which has bothered the Bucs thus far has been a general shooting slump. Nichols, Plaster, and guards Ike Riddick, and Charlie Adams, who generally are considered good eyes, have failed to measure up in early ball-games.

Very likely, the Giants were influenced by the opinions of Bill Posedel, who joined the San Francisco club after serving as a coach for the Phillies last season.

Sanford pitched good ball last season," said Posedel, "but ran into a lot of poor luck. He was real good in spots. In his final outing against the Pirates, Sanford fanned 10 batters. He's a willing worker, and has a strong arm.

Sanford made a determined bid to stick and finally made the grade. And he made it big. The Phillies didn't exactly give up on Jack following his disappointing 1958 season but the need for a capable catcher was so pressing that they traded him off to the Giants.

The San Francisco Giants must have been confident that Jack Sanford can bounce back to his 1957 form when he was voted Rookie of the Year after he posted a 19-8 record and paced the league with 188 strikeouts.

College Coaches Hope For Major League Meeting

CINCINNATI (AP) — College baseball coaches today expressed optimism that a summit meeting may be held sometime in the future with representatives of the major leagues.

LeRoy Timm, coach at Iowa State College and president of the American Assn. of Baseball Coaches, stressed that the organization feels its relationship with professional baseball has improved and that such a meeting is not a necessity.

"We are not seeking a hassle with the pros," Timm said, "but we do, as always, object to indiscriminate signing of college players."

"If a boy is an excellent prospect and deserves a chance to play pro baseball, we are glad to see him get that opportunity, but we are never happy when pro scouts sign a boy and merely succeed in disrupting his education."

But Timm said he believes the whole subject of college-pro relationship in baseball has gotten out of perspective. He said a summit meeting between the college group and a major league delegation made up of Commissioner Ford Frick and the owners would help clear up the situation.

The coaches took no formal action along these lines, but day-long committee meetings were held Sunday as the AABC opened its 14th annual convention, one of several preliminary and allied meetings to be held here this week in conjunction with the 53rd annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

The majority of 2,200 delegates were on hand today as the NCAA and the American Football Coaches Assn. began to lay the groundwork for other meetings later in the week.

The executive committee of the baseball coaches decided Sunday to bring several items before the NCAA Council later in the week.

to the NCAA football rules committee which meets next week in Los Angeles.

Otherwise, all was quiet on the convention front. The rumor mill that hires and fires football coaches faster than a 3-formation quick-opener was unusually calm, although several top jobs, including those at Maryland and Baylor, are expected to be discussed, and possibly filled, before the week is over.

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Two of the finest passers in the land were on the field. But two hard running fullbacks took the laurels in Saturday's 10th annual senior Bowl game, won by the South 21-12.

Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns had Baylor's Buddy Humphrey at the South controls in the nationally televised game. Lee Grosscup of Utah was the starter at quarterback for North Coach Joe Kuharich of Notre Dame.

Humphrey was the nation's leading passer this season. Grosscup was No. 1 a year ago.

But it was Theron Sapp of Georgia and Norm Odyne of Notre Dame who won honors. They both scored two TDs and tied in the poll of sports writers for most valuable player.

Brown found his grizzly game working as well than Humphrey tried only 11 passes, completing four for 97 yards and a touchdown. Grosscup connected on 14 of 26 passes for 168 yards.

The biggest yardage was amassed by the workhorse fullbacks. The 5-11, 180-pound Odyne ran up 192 yards on 23 carries for a 7.7 average. Sapp, a 5-11, 200-pounder, got 158 on 23 cracks for 6.9 yards per carry.

To Jacksonville

Rose High School, with a 9-1 Northeastern Conference record at this early stage of the basketball season, journeys to Jacksonville tomorrow night to battle the Cardinals in another hoop game.

Coach Bo Farley's club will be trying to even up its league mark and will still be trying to get its first win of the year in conference. The Phantoms dropped a 53-43 decision to Washington Friday night here.

Expected starters will be Steve Noble, Joe Moyer, Howard Garner, James Ward and Billy Cox. Others who will probably see regular duty are Alan McArthur, Merrill Bynum, Charles Taft, and Erky Duff.

A jayvee ball game will open the night's action at 6:30. The varsity game will begin at 8:00.

Art Wall Pacing LA Open Field LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tournament-tested Art Wall Jr., who almost stayed home, led the way into the final round today of the $35,000 Los Angeles Open golf classic.

The personable Wall, a slender, youngish 35, went into the final 18 holes in quest of the $5,300 top money with rounds of 71-68-68 and a total score of 207, six blows under par for the distance.

He was one stroke ahead of 25-year-old Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla.

The one-time Duke University star, who plays out of Pocono Manor, Pa., disclosed how he almost decided against coming out for this one. On Dec. 29 one of his four children, Gregory, 7, fell into a frozen pond.

It could have been tragic but the lad was rescued in time. That, plus the strain of moving into his new home during the holidays and his busy golfing year, were the factors against coming west.

Stellar Talent In Erratic Olmedo

By WILL GRIMSLEY Associated Press Sports Writer BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — The scene was the Milton Tennis Club Stadium where 18,500 excited fans were watching the Davis Cup challenge round between Australia and the United States.

Alex Olmedo, the lend-lease Peruvian playing for America, had wrested the first set from Australia's favored Mal Anderson. He had played brilliant, determined tennis. Now strange things were happening.

Suddenly the 22-year-old Olmedo no longer was the killer. He gazed blankly into the crowd. He looked at the broadcasting booth and smiled at Jack Kramer. He was loose and casual and his shots began straying into the net and past the lines.

"Oh no! Not again," groaned Myron McNamara of Los Angeles, a member of Kramer's pro tennis organization, as Anderson won the set.

Perry T. Jones, the 70-year-old American captain, was seen talking earnestly to Olmedo as he towelled between sets. Olmedo returned to the court to blast out a victory 8-6, 2-6, 9-7, 8-6.

The next day he teamed with Ham Richardson to win the doubles and the following day he trounced the world's top amateur, Ashley Cooper, 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6 and sent the cup back to America. It was a phenomenal one-man job.

Later Olmedo asked what happened to him in that second set against Anderson.

people—and not a peso in it? Why is it not better I should be at home relaxing and taking it easy?"

Then Olmedo was asked the reason for his sudden change of attitude that made him a winner and the most exciting tennis figure in years.

"Mr. Jones talked to me," he said. "Then I realized I am playing in the Davis Cup. It is a big thing. I am playing not for just one country but for two—the United States and Peru. I decide to concentrate and try to win."

Although possessed of great tennis talent, Olmedo had a spotty record and never scored an important tournament triumph before cup play. His temperament seemed unsuited to success.

"We feared he lacked the killer instinct," said Kramer. "He would get a man down and then, instead of stepping on his face, he would let him get away."

McNamara had this comment: "Laziness may be the better word. He never seemed over-ambitious. Often he played tennis, as against Anderson in the second set, while wishing he were somewhere else—perhaps relaxing on a beach with no worries in the world."

All tennis men recognize Olmedo's assets. He has the graceful movement of Pancho Gonzales on the court. He moves like a panther. He never takes quick, jerky shots but seems to glide into his shots.

North Staters Face 12 Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS North State Conference basketball teams, four of whom are unbeaten in conference play, square off this week for the big push aimed at the 1958-59 championship.

Eight of the week's 12 scheduled games are league contests. Lenoir Rhyne, 3-0 in the conference, plays two other teams who share the lead—Western Carolina (2-0) and Appalachian (1-0).

The Appalachian Mountaineers have a chance to fatten their record on two other teams, East Carolina (2-2) and Guilford (0-5). And WCTC also plays Atlantic Christian (1-2) during the week.

High Point, with a 4-0 mark, plays its only conference game with Catawba (0-4).

Elon, 3-2 for the season, plays its first conference game against ECC.

Fighter Patrolman To Stake Future Friday

By MURRAY ROSE Associated Press Sports Writer Eddie Dixon, a fighting cop from Newark, N. J., stakes his future on a ten round fight Friday night with class, undefeated Gene (Ace) Armstrong of Elizabeth, N. J., at New York's Madison Square Garden.

The outcome probably will determine whether Dixon, a 24-year-old Army veteran, will try for the jackpot in the ring or give it up for his $4,600-a-year patrolman's job in Newark.

He can't have dual careers, according to Newark Police Director Joseph F. Weldon. When he heard of the Dixon-Armstrong television match, Weldon told Dixon he would have to pull out of the fight if he wanted to remain a cop.

Dixon first decided to withdraw from his long-sought Garden main event then said he intended to fulfill the contract and go through with the fight. Weldon said he had no comment on Dixon's latest decision.

The Newark battler has a toughie on his hands in Armstrong, who has a 15-0 record and is ranked ninth. In his last outing, Aug. 8, the 27-year-old armorer landed Rory Calhoun a thorough drubbing.

Dixon has a 14-4-2 record, including three straight wins in SPINDALE, N.C. (AP)—A field goal and free throw in the closing seconds by Tom Muse, who made only five points all night, gave Appalachian a 77-76 victory over Wofford Saturday night and the championship of the inaugural Spindale Holiday basketball tournament.

Two of the victories were scored in semifinals at the Garden.

The Dixon dilemma took the headline play away from a couple of high-ranking middleweights Gene Fullmer and Holly Mims, who also are listed for action this week.

Fullmer, the former middleweight champion and currently second-ranking contender, meets Milo Savage in a return fight at San Antonio, Tex. This is slated for Friday night, too. Fullmer, of West Jordan, Utah, beat Savage of Salt Lake City, in Salt Lake City last March. Gene is after his eighth straight victory since he lost the crown back to Sugar Ray Robinson.

Mims, of Washington, D. C., takes on belting Bobby Boyd of Chicago, for the third time. They meet at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night in the television feature.

Boyd won the first time two years ago. They drew in the return last Jan. 22. Mims' record is 45-16-6. Boyd's record is 51-10-3.

Appalachian Is 77-76 Winner In Cage Tourney

SPINDALE, N.C. (AP)—A field goal and free throw in the closing seconds by Tom Muse, who made only five points all night, gave Appalachian a 77-76 victory over Wofford Saturday night and the championship of the inaugural Spindale Holiday basketball tournament.

The deciding game of the two-day event was tied nine times, several of the instances in the final minutes.

Pfeiffer downed Guilford 76-59 for the consolation title.

Six Grid Stars Get S.C. Grants

COLUMBIA (AP)—The University of South Carolina got six top prep football stars over the weekend in a big grant-in-aid package.

Two South Carolina high school players and four from North Carolina will enroll at South Carolina next September. Their signing was announced by Coach Warren Giese.

Accepting the grant-in-aid scholarships were guard Woody Barfield of Hartsville, fullback Carl Huggins of Mullins, back Jimmy King of Charlotte's Harding High, guard Jack Marshall and end Bill Chipman, both of Reynolds State wound up its holiday vacation trip defeating RPI 10-3 to win the eighth annual Rensselaer Polytechnic Invitation Tournament Saturday night.

Spartans Sweep Hockey Tour

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—The cry in the East today could very well be: "Michigan State stay home."

Eastern hockey teams suffered six losses at the hands of the Spartans in a nine-day period.

Michigan State wound up its holiday vacation trip defeating RPI 10-3 to win the eighth annual Rensselaer Polytechnic Invitation Tournament Saturday night.

Airline Furloughs 20,000 Employees

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 20,000 of American Airline's 22,000 employees were furloughed today as efforts continued to settle a 17-day strike by pilots.

Progress was reported in narrowing issues between the airline and striking members of the Air Line Pilots Assn., when a mediation session broke up early today. Another meeting was scheduled for 10:30 a.m.

American had announced in advance that the furlough order taking the employees off the payroll would become effective at midnight Sunday night if the strike was not settled. Employees kept on the payroll are in supervisory, maintenance and protective classifications.

Leverett Edwards, chairman of the National Mediation Board, said he would try to keep the negotiations going until a settlement is reached. The sessions are being held in his office here.

American is the nation's largest domestic airline from the standpoint of passenger miles flown. It normally carries an average of 22,000 passengers daily, serving 77 cities in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

About 1,500 of the airline's pilots walked out in a demand for more pay and fewer hours of flying time on the new jet airlines the carrier plans to put into service soon.

As negotiations continued in the American dispute, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said the recent rash of airline strikes requires a new look at the Railway Labor Act, which governs labor troubles in both the railroad and airline industries.

He said he intends to call a meeting of labor and management representatives from the airline and railroad industries to ask their views on whether the act needs changes. It was indicated he plans to hold the meeting in a week or two.

The Railway Labor Act provides for a system of conferences, mediation and arbitration and for White House fact-finding boards to recommend settlement terms in disputes.

Distress Call Is Branded A Hoax

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A distress call supposedly from a ship in trouble off the Pacific Coast was labeled a hoax Sunday.

The Coast Guard, which sent two planes over the ocean near San Luis Obispo, learned after investigation the call letters used while sending "SOS . . . please help" were for an inoperative amateur station.

"Someone's idea of a joke," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Circling Earth Will Pass Soviet Rocket In Orbit

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — By the familiar race track maneuver of cutting through on the inside lane, the earth will overtake and pass the Russian cosmic rocket as both orbit around the sun.

That's because the rocket, according to Russian reports and estimates, will swing in a wider orbit around the sun than does the earth. The rocket got off to a head start because of the force of its launching, but if it goes into the expected orbit, the earth will pass it in the next couple of months.

There's no chance of a collision of the celestial racers — because they'll be several hundred thousand miles apart when the earth moves ahead.

And it will be at least two centuries before they get that close together again.

At some time, many centuries hence, there's a chance the rocket may zoom again into the earth's atmosphere and be consumed like a fiery cinder — but the chance is only about one in a million.

These estimates on the future history of the rocket came today when a reporter asked Dr. G. N. Clemence, scientific director of the U. S. Naval Observatory, to analyze preliminary calculations of the Russians regarding the expected orbit of their "Lunik" around the sun.

The Russian scientists figure it will take the rocket 15 months to make a swing around the sun. It will be moving in an elliptical orbit whose nearest point to the sun is 91 1/2 million miles from it, and the farthest point, 123 1/2 million miles, the Russians estimate.

The earth also has an oval-shaped orbit around the sun, but it's a tighter one. The nearest point, called the perihelion, is about 91 1/2 million miles from the sun, the farthest, 94 1/2 million miles.

Because of its tighter pathway, it takes the earth only 12 months to swing around the sun, compared with the expected 15 months for the rocket.

Right now, thanks to the launching help it got from earthbound rocketeers, the rocket has a head start on the earth — more than two days and some hundreds of thousands of miles, in fact.

Meanwhile, the earth is already swinging away from the sun, having reached its annual perihelion on Jan. 1.

The rocket is still approaching the sun, and won't reach its closest point until Jan. 14. But when it does start swinging away from the sun, it will swing out faster than the earth does.

It's roughly as though two racing cars had rounded the far turn at a race track and were heading towards the grandstand. Right now, the car representing the rocket has the inside track in the lead. But as it swings out, the "earth" car will be moving closer to the inside rail and begin to creep up.

Sometime in February or March, Dr. Clemence estimates, the earth will overtake and pass the rocket.

President Given Warning Demos Ready To Raise Defense Spending

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower had notice today Democrats are ready to increase his figures if they feel defense spending has been cut too sharply in budget-balancing efforts.

In advance of a bipartisan White House briefing on defense and foreign policies, Democrats, who control the new Congress by top heavy margins, already were challenging the adequacy of the President's 77-billion-dollar budget.

Invited to the White House briefing were 26 Senate and House members, including leaders of both parties there and senior members of the Armed Services, Appropriations, and Foreign Affairs committees.

Democrats have renewed their calls for more U.S. action in the space field in the wake of the Soviet Union's successful cosmic rocket shot. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said the Soviet accomplishment had emphasized the task of Congress in meeting what he called "some of the greatest challenges in our history."

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, already has attacked Eisenhower's contention the budget can be balanced at 77 billion dollars. Mansfield said revenue for the new fiscal year beginning July 1 won't exceed 75 1/2 billion dollars, even if spending is held down.

Eisenhower said the new budget will provide some additional money for defense purposes over the $40,800,000,000 of the current year, but gave no figure.

Rep. George Mason (D-Tex.) chairman of the House Subcommittee on Defense Appropriations, said Sunday he thinks Eisenhower will suggest about 42 billion dollars and added:

"I don't think that will be too much. It could be too little. The emphasis should be on advanced weapons projects. I want to be sure that no advanced weapons projects are sacrificed for purely monetary reasons."

But all military spending plans will get "the most thorough sifting," he said, in an effort to improve defense programs and make cuts where possible.

Although Republican leaders have indicated they expect to support the President's efforts to head off inflation by limiting government spending, there was some uneasiness on the GOP side about the defense totals.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, candidate of a GOP liberal group for party floor leader, said Congress has its own responsibility to determine the amounts needed for defense. He said Eisenhower's word is not necessarily final on this score.

The GOP insurgents were not included among the members invited to today's sessions. None of them holds any party leadership post or sufficient seniority on the three committees to rate such an invitation.

Eisenhower's plans in the foreign aid field seemed likely to get special study from the Democrats. Sen. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) who has proposed a broad inquiry into international policies, was among those asked to meet with the President.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, of which Fulbright is a member, scheduled a meeting for later in the day to outline a formal study of these policies.

A proposal by Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, that the United States adopt a tougher policy toward Latin American dictators seemed likely to get some support from Sen. Johnson.

In addition to calling for "bold, new imaginative programs" in the international field, Johnson has urged the administration to adopt "a consistent policy for Latin America which will help our neighbors to help themselves."

Milton Eisenhower, in a formal weekend report to the President, proposed establishment of a council on inter-American affairs, with the secretary of state as chairman, to "upgrade U.S. activities affecting Latin America."

Found Frozen To Death In Shack

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Robert Tilton, 79, a bearded dog lover, was found apparently frozen to death in his unheated shack Sunday.

Nine dogs, mostly hounds, were in the shack with Tilton's body.

Peace Justice Clifford Roberts ordered an autopsy. He said the body "was frozen stiff and Tilton apparently had been dead for several hours." Temperatures had dropped to below zero.

Tilton was a familiar figure on Amarillo streets, accompanied by his beloved dogs.

Military Buying In S. Korea Up

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—American military purchases in South Korea are expected to total 30 million dollars during the one-year period ending June 30, 1959, the U. S. Army announced today.

Its procurement agency said this was an increase of nearly seven million dollars over the same period in the previous year.

Purchasing Power Of Working People Is Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Mitchell said today the purchasing power of working people generally has been greatly strengthened in recent months.

Considerable improvement has been noted in both unemployment and inflation, Mitchell said in a new year statement.

He said the business recovery in the last half of 1958 "has been especially gratifying because simultaneously the cost of living has halted its rise." A slight increase was reported in November, the month in which the weekly earnings of the average factory worker reached an all-time high of $88.50.

Mitchell said the nation's 22 million women workers make up one-third of the total working population.

Looking to the new year, Mitchell predicted jobs will remain scarce early in 1959 but that non-farm employment will climb to the highest point in history before the end of the year.

"But we must not ignore the fact that we still have too much unemployment," Mitchell said. "The situation is improving steadily, even though joblessness will rise in January and February as a result of seasonal factors."

He said the outlook for the near future is for continued overall stability in prices and rising incomes, so that further increases in consumer purchasing power and demand are very likely.

A government-sponsored survey on the 1959 industrial outlook was released Sunday by the Commerce Department.

The survey pointed to a steady but not spectacular rise in business activity based on a predicted 30 per cent increase in auto production, expected record activity in the construction field and a prospective continuation of the strong recovery in steel output.

Jerry Lewis Ordered Cut Activities In Half

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jerry Lewis, a seven million dollar corporation with a perforated ulcer and heart trouble, has been ordered to cut his activities by half.

"I'll try," says Jerry, "but you know me. I do three songs everytime the light goes on when I open the refrigerator."

Family and friends have long urged him to cut down. He's in his Paramount office at 7 a. m., often stays late at night.

"I don't call it work when I'm doing something I love. Hard work, if you like what you're doing, never hurt anyone. I don't work as hard as a ditch digger, who only works eight hours a day."

Jerry's last attack was serious enough for Dr. Paul Dudley White, the President's heart specialist, to be consulted.

It cost a lot of money for Dr. White to make a report on my electrocardiogram," says Jerry, "but it was worth it. I learned that the most dangerous thing in life is aggravation, especially aggravation over trivial things."

"Five minutes aggravation a day can do more damage than a fifth of bourbon twice a day. The aggravation can kill you at 45. The bourbon can give you cirrhosis of the liver, perhaps but you can live to 80."

Jerry apparently took the aggravation lesson to heart but the jury's still out on whether he will cut down his strenuous work schedule.

Jerry estimated that his illness personally cost him $200,000, including a $100,000 Miami cafe engagement. The comic's personal weekly payroll for his staff is $8,000. It went on although the boss was home sick for six weeks.

It also cost producer Hal Wallis, who was making "Don't Give up the Ship" when Jerry collapsed. The 1½ million dollar picture was shut down for six weeks, but much of the loss is covered by insurance.

Most Of Nation Enveloped By Cold; Icy Blast Sweeping South, Eastward

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most of the nation was enveloped in the season's coldest weather today.

A massive blast of icy air, which was spawned in the arctic region and moved into the northern Rockies with the new year, continued its slow but steady sweep south and eastward across the country.

By early morning the frigid air, powered by brisk northerly winds, reached the Atlantic and Gulf Coast areas. Winds from 20 to 35 m. p. h. whipped the cold air from the lower Great Lakes region southward to the Virginias and eastward to New England.

Bitter cold clung to wide areas in the midcontinent and sections of the Rockies.

The cold and snow was blamed for at least 15 deaths. At least three persons were found frozen to death. Others died from over-exertion while shoveling snow and in traffic accidents on ice-slicked highways.

Farmers in Florida as far south as Ocala, in the northcentral region, got their smudgepots ready when they heard the cold wave forecast. Southeast Florida basked in summer-like climes, with another day of 70-degree weather in sight.

Most of the Deep South braced for below freezing weather.

Schools closed in some Texas communities.

Industry was hit in Texas and Colorado. Natural gas consumption was curtailed at several cities in Texas, including Dallas and Fort Worth, because of heavier than normal domestic demands for the fuel.

Temperatures dropped to 25 degrees below zero Sunday in the Texas Panhandle.

Oklahoma had its coldest weather in 12 years over the weekend and not much relief was reported today. One of the lowest readings was -19 at Guyton and Oklahoma City's -4 was the coldest since Jan. 4, 1947.

Temperatures moderated in the Rocky Mountain states after the coldest weather in 25 years. It was below zero in Denver for 41 consecutive hours.

The coldest spots Sunday were Big Piney, in remote western Wyoming, and Hibbins, in the northern Minnesota iron range district. The mercury plunged to -43 in both communities.

The subzero pattern held the line throughout the Midwest and to readings of the season were reported in many cities.

Skies were generally clear in most of the cold belt but snow covered the ground across most of the Midwest and Rockies.

Six inches of fresh snow fell at Boonville, N. Y., near Lake Ontario, in 24 hours earlier from the eastern Gulf Coast northward through the upper Ohio Valley to the lower Great Lakes, mid-Atlantic states and New England.

Parakeet Called, Found Too Late

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — Firefighters heard what they thought was a human voice on the second floor of a burning dwelling Sunday.

Several of them put on gas masks and went to the apartment of Edward Anderson, 80. They got there too late. "Twenty," Anderson's parakeet, suffocated after apparently trying to attract attention.

Anderson and seven other persons got out safely.

Polltaker Finds Confused Public

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Do people really know what they're talking about when polltakers quiz them?

To find out, Los Angeles Mirror-News columnist Paul Coates called 150 people by telephone and asked this question:

"Do you think the Mann Act deters or helps the cause of labor, and if you feel it deters, would you vote for its repeal?"

Coates found that 38 per cent of those polled want to repeal the Mann Act, which since 1910 has made it illegal to transport a woman across state lines for immoral purposes.

The columnist said only 12 per cent realized the question was rigged.

Would-Be Bandit Swept Off Feet

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A would-be holdup man was swept off his feet here.

The bandit entered a liquor store and pointed a gun at manager Sal Waldman.

Waldman, 67, grabbed a broom and started pushing the man out of the store. Janitor Clinton Calbert came from a back room and helped.

Waldman and Calbert wrestled the gunman, identified by police as Charles Ray Booth, 31, to the sidewalk, hit him with his own gun, and held him until police arrived.

Big Catch

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AP) — Two Spanish fishing vessels had a surprising catch Sunday—a submarine they found abandoned in the Atlantic 70 miles off San Sebastian.

The coastal radio received a message today from the fishing vessels Maria Jesus and Maria del Coro saying they were towing their 600-ton trophy to Pasajes port, five miles north of this city.

The message said there was nobody aboard the submarine and that its nationality was not immediately known.

Hoover Off On Fishing Trip

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover headed today for a month's vacation and his annual fishing trip in the Florida Keys.

The 84-year-old former President arrived here from New York Sunday aboard a National Air Lines jet plane and said he found the trip "a true revolution in air travel."

Hoover said in an interview that the United States will continue to have periodic recessions or slumps about every seven years.

He said the nation's economy is in for two or three more good years — maybe more.

STILL RUNNING

KITCHENER, Ont. (AP)—When a 1917 model auto trundled along the street here recently three men watched it with pride—the original owner, the man who sold it, and the man who just purchased it.

OLD SKELETON

BRYANSTON, England (AP)—A skeleton found on the site of a new school in this Dorset village will be sent to the British Museum in London. It has been identified as that of a Roman or early Briton.

CHAPTER 29

"What happened to Joe Has-sell?" Rhoda Marsh asked Mor-decai Price.

"Shandy rubbed him out, I'm thinking," said Mordecai. "Emil Frederick never seen him. Letour-neau says Parson Bill rode his horse back to camp, claiming he found it loose. Could be them O-lagas got him, but that's a long chance."

"You think it was Jim Shandy, though?"

"Up."

"So you'll kill him?"

"Up."

Rhoda kept studying him.

"What else is there to do?" Mor-decai asked.

"You don't have to carry all the weas of the Rocky Mountain Fur Company, Mordecai, Shandy has disgraced himself. Everybody will know it, and he'll be shunned and hated as a traitor. I don't see why you must kill him."

"Mainly because I'll do him good," Mordecai said.

"There was an excuse for what you had to do back there on the Platte. I don't know how it could have been settled otherwise," Rhoda said, "but you don't have to kill Shandy."

"On account his brother is a preacher, you mean?"

"Perhaps I thought of that, yes, but mostly I'm trying to determine whether you're a savage at heart or by necessity," Mordecai said.

"Some of both," Mordecai said. "Not kill Jim Shandy? What kind of thinking was that? If he didn't do it, somebody else sure would when they heard the story. Of course, that wasn't looking square at the thing Rhoda was talking about."

"Take it when you wiped out a bunch of troublesome Indians; sometimes you let one or two go so's they could scout back to the main band and tell what hard do-ings it was to tangle with trappers. Or you take an Injun that showed himself a big coward fight-ing other Injuns; like as not they'd whack him some with their bows and let him live, so's he could remember all the rest of his life what a coward they fitted what Rhoda was after, though. What she wanted was for Mor-decai not to kill Shandy as a matter of principle, like being merciful. There was a point there, Mor-decai allowed, but it didn't shine much. Get all tangled up with being merciful, and a man might end up crying over the beavers that lost toes and feet in traps, instead of cussin' them for cheat-ing you out of prime plevs.

"Up, killing would do Jim Shandy good, and Mordecai wasn't changing his ways because a woman snapped her fingers; but dang it all, she still had him try-ing to think over the good and bad of the thing! The next thing, if he wasn't careful, he'd be setting on a hill waiting for himself a vision that would straighten ev-erything out."

"You've seen an Injun or two since we started," Mordecai said. "Do you figure a little preach-ing and singing is going to fix 'em up with a spanking-new religion?"

"I am not the judge of that," Rhoda answered quickly.

"You'd better start being one. Ten days or so you'll be meeting this missionary of yours."

"That soon?"

"Up. Then if you hurry you can make it to the mission just in time for the rain."

"You make it sound very un-pleasant. You act like you don't want me to fulfill my promise."

"I don't." It came out of Mor-decai without any conscious prompting from his brain.

"They looked at each other steady-ly, until Rhoda's gaze faltered. "How far to the next camp?" she asked.

"Quite a way," Mordecai turned back to confer with Big Nose Yezzer about something. When he got to the clerk he couldn't remem-ber what the problem was.

"They camped on the Sweetwa-ter that night. It had been a long day against a gritty wind. In spite of Big Nose's constant urging, the train had made no more than twenty miles. Mordecai doubted that they would do as well to-morrow."

He watched two packers unload-ing a mule. It stood with its feet wide-braced, trembling. When the packers dragged the pack saddle off and stripped the apahamore, the flattened hair of its back was steaming. There were many more like that one, horses and mules that had done their share on the first long stretches of the Platte trail, and twice their share during the five kluge days from below Laramee Fork to Red Buttes.

Shaky came from near the river where packers were killing four animals that had reached camp on-ly because their packs had been re-distributed on other beasts at noon-ing that day. Hard doin's and tough meat.

The Snakes came in with the choice parts of a buffalo cow. They said that Sun-in-the-Face, as they called Emil Frederick, was now only a short ride away.

Big Nose mullied over an idea. "We can leave the worst of the pack horses here and make a run for it with just the Injun ponies." Then he shook his head. "Even so, Frederick could beat us, and it wouldn't do much good to get to rendezvous with just part of the packs."

"Any way you laid your sights, the Rocky Mountain Fur Co. was done, beat by Shandy's treachery. Unless Jim Bridger showed up quick with plenty of horses, there was no hope left."

The Hudson's Bay Co. might be at rendezvous already. If they were, then there was some sat-isfaction in knowing that Amer-ican wasn't going to make a kill-ing thing of it was, though, Amer-ican could stand the loss. They could take their unsold goods on to Cass, their own post. Rocky Mountain had no place to go, and without any great fortune back-ing them they'd be ruined.

"Well go on," Mordecai said.

"Hell yes!" Big Nose said an-grily. "What else is there?"

Wolves howled all night. A great herd of buffalo rumbled by some-where to the west during the dark hours. At breakfast Mordecai saw a packer, cutting mule meat to roast on a stick, point with his bloody knife at a wolf watching from a hill. In Injun thinking that was about as bad as you could do, point at a wolf with a knife. It was a heap worse than the white man's superstition about busting a looking glass.

Well, things couldn't be much worse anyway.

It turned out they were.

The crippled Rocky Mountain pack train was moving sullenly two miles from their last camp when Beaver Tails, scouting ahead, signaled excitedly that he had sighted a large body of enemies.

"Blackfeet, that's what we need about now," Big Nose growled.

Mordecai went on ahead, con-scious of how his pony was fail-ing more every day. He joined Beaver Tails to look over the en-emy.

Mordecai wasn't surprised when he saw the American Fur Co. pack train a mile ahead. With each puff of dust from the hoofs of the big mules, the lead was increasing.

"Go in night," Beaver Tails said. Mordecai got off his tired pony. He watched the rival train march-ing strongly toward the distant Mountain of the Wind.

In desperation and in anger Big Nose and Mordecai kept the train going. If Frederick traveled even part of the night from now on, he would, Mordecai figured, be two days up on them at rendezvous. Two days would do it; there would, it'd be anything left but grubby fur that nobody wanted.

"They heard it coming from the west, a distant humming sound, and then a roaring that made the still air around them vi-brate. . . . Tomorrow, the story moves to a climax."

Cuba; Rebels Are Friendly

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

HAVANA (AP) — The United States has been fairly lucky so far with the Cuban revolution.

The big neighbor to the north is still popular with the Cubans. But some of that popularity, as well as prestige elsewhere in Latin America, likely will be lost if Washington drags its feet about recognizing the new provisional government of Cuba.

By banning the shipment of arms to Fulgencio Batista's government during the revolution, the United States seriously hurt the dictator's cause. In Cuba it was considered the United States actually had sided with Fidel Castro's rebels, particularly since smuggled arms continued to stream steadily to the rebels from U. S. sources.

That built up goodwill for the U. S. government. But Washington likely would surrender some of that goodwill if it lets the Soviet Union and other Communist countries grab the distinction of being

Trying Trio For Officer's Death

ORANGEBURG, S. C. (AP) — Three ex-convicts accused of slaying a highway patrolman last fall go on trial in State Circuit Court here today.

Patrolman Harry Boyd Ray, 31, was shot down while writing out a ticket against one of three men in a car he had stopped for speeding near Summerton.

Ray was not aware that the Santee Motel in that area had been robbed of $1,681 shortly before.

Ray is charged with murder and robbery were Levon Tilson, 23, and Otis Britt, 25, both of Savannah, Ga., and Douglas Westbury, 27, of Dorchester County.

A "tangle" of technicalities pre-ceeded the calling of the men to trial. To be argued are motions for changes of venue, and for separation of the defendants for trial.

Westbury is represented by court-appointed attorneys.

Ray, the father of two children, was shot to death with his own pistol and another weapon.

Britt and Tilson were represented by James H. Rahal of Savan-nah.

Appointed to defend Westbury were Henry R. Sims II and former State Rep. C. Walker Lime-house, both of Orangeburg.

Solicitor Julian S. Wolfe is op-posing all efforts to change the site of the trial or otherwise delay the case. He also is opposing the effort to split the trial.

The court had first to clear so-er 100 indictments presented to the grand jury before the case could be called up.

Fate Of Tragic Town In Balance

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (AP)—The fate of this town of tragedy is in the balance.

The Canadian and Nova Scotia governments are trying to find an answer. Springhill's 7,000 residents are impatient to learn what's to become of them.

Mayor Ralph Gilroy in two years has guided the citizens through two mine tragedies — total dead-ly 114 — and a 1½ million dollar fire in the town's business district. Confident that Springhill will re-cover, he says:

"The governments are doing everything in their power. By spring we'll have an industry. We will recover and maybe be a bet-ter Springhill for it."

About 800 coal miners, unem-ployed since the Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. shut down the last of its mines here, want work. Scores, perhaps hundreds, would rather leave than exist on relief.

Some, like Doug Jewkes, are planning now to start new lives.

Jewkes, 37, was trapped nearly nine days in October when a tremor through No. 2 mine killed 75 men. A soft drink firm has offered him a warehouse job in Toron-to.

For others, like 58-year-old Al-an Skidmore, the future is bleak. Industries prefer younger men.

Little real hardship is expected until spring when unemployment benefits begin running out.

The disaster relief pension will likely be about that given widows of 39 men killed in a 1956 mine explosion — $29 a month plus $10 for the youngest child and $5 for each additional child under 18.

'Customer' Ends Up In Jail Cell

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — A 35-year-old man staggered into police headquarters Friday and slapped a dollar bill down on the counter.

"Gimme a pack of cigarettes," he told Sgt. Byron Richardson.

Richardson locked the "custom-er" in the city jail on a charge of drunkenness.

Horse, Airplane In Odd Accident

MALIBU, Calif. (AP)—Sheriff's officers here logged something new in the way of Sunday travel hazards: A collision involving a horse and an airplane.

Robert Goodyear, 49, gilded in for a landing in an open field af-ter his light plane ran out of gas Sunday. A horse galloped into the craft's path and they collided.

The horse was killed. Good-year's plane was wrecked, and the pilot and his wife, Mary, 46, suf-fered cuts and bruises.

Graham Expects Biggest Crusade

MONTREAT, N. C. (AP)—Billy Graham says that his crusade be-ginning next month in Australia, for which the out of every four churches reportedly are planning, may be "the greatest. . . it has ever been our privilege to con-duct."

The evangelist leaves his home here Tuesday for a month of en-gagements — TV appearances, speeches, meetings—before flying to Australia.

His schedule there includes an-cess Feb. 4 to the ministers of Syd-ney, a five-week crusade in Melbourne, beginning Feb. 8; cru-sades in Sydney and Brisbane, and an evangelistic tour of New Zealand and Australian cities such as Canberra, Perth and Adelaide.

"The most extensive and intensive preparations have been made for these crusades of any we have ever conducted in the world," Graham asserted. He said there are 5,000 trained counsellors in Melbourne and 6,000 in Sydney "to counsel with those who respond to the invitation to give themselves to Christ."

Graham's weekly radio pro-grams will be beamed to Amer-ica from Melbourne during the crusades.

His immediate itinerary calls for a flight to Washington for a meeting of the board of directors of Christianity Today magazine, then to New York for an appear-ance on the Jack Parr television show tonight. Wednesday morn-ing he again will be on televi-sion, and hold a press conference.

Heart Tests For Airline Pilots

WASHINGTON (AP) — All air-line pilots 35 and older have been ordered to take tests aimed at de-tecting heart disease.

The Civil Aeronautics Board says its order calling for electro-cardiographic examinations, in ad-dition to current medical tests, will become effective July 1.

The board said there have been several instances in recent years where pilots died in the cockpit in flight or just before takeoff as the result of heart attacks.

Best-Dressed List Is Given New Look

NEW YORK (AP)—The annual list of best-dressed women had a new look of its own today. It was a completely new list. The perennial winners of the past were given permanent honors in a new fashion hall of fame, thus giving a newer generation of the elegantly dressed women of the world a chance to get on the list each year.

Among those elevated to places vacated by the former title holders were a former New York model and a New York socialite. They tied for first place this year in balloting by 2,500 fashion experts throughout the world. Results were announced Sunday by the New York Dress Institute.

The co-winners were Countess Rodolfo Crespi of Rome—the former Constella O'Connor, one of the noted O'Connor twins of New York cover girl fame—and Mrs. Winston Guest of New York and Palm Beach. Mrs. Guest long has been known for her elegant restraint in dress.

Others chosen for the 1959 best-dressed group were:

Mrs. Henry Ford II of Grosse Pointe, Mich., Princess Margaret Rose of Britain, Countess Quintana of Madrid, Mme. Arturo Lopez-Willshaw of Paris, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr. of New York, Mrs. Rex Harrison of London (film star Kay Kendall), Mrs. Thomas Bancroft Jr. of New York, Mrs. Norman K. Winston of New York and Paris, Mrs. Mel Ferrer (film star Audrey Hepburn, now living in Europe), Mrs. Stanley Rumbough Jr. (Dina Merrill), socialite actress of New York, Mrs. David K. Bruce, wife of the U.S. ambassador to West Germany, and Mrs. Bruno Pasiglia of Mexico (actress Merle Oberon).

More than two-thirds of the group are well below middle age, most are American and nearly all are active in careers, sports or other interests.

The fashion institute said it was decided to retire the previous list of winners to the permanent hall of fame because "their faultless taste in dress, without ostentation or extravagance, places them above annual comparison."

Those accorded this new distinction were:

The Duchess of Windsor, Mrs. William Paley of New York, Countess Edward von Bismarck of Paris and Capri (the former Mrs. Harrison Williams), Queen Elizabeth II of Britain, Mme. Jacques Balsan of Palm Beach and New York (the former Consuelo Vanderbilt), actress Mary Martin, film star and diplomat Irene Dunne and actress Claudette Colbert.

Two Tots Drink Furniture Polish

GREENSBORO (AP)—Two Greensboro tots drank furniture polish at their homes during the weekend.

One remained in critical condition today at Moses Cone Hospital.

Roland D. Pardue, 14 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Pardue, was critical. He contracted double pneumonia after the accident Friday.

Michael Vaughn, 20 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Joe Vaughn, was reported improved and in satisfactory condition since the incident Saturday. The two children were in the same hospital room.

Authorities said Mrs. Pardue related that she was polishing furniture and, turning around to pick up the bottle, saw Ronald had taken several swallows from it.

The Vaughn child crawled into the kitchen while his parents were eating supper and unscrewed the top from the polish bottle. When his parents discovered him he was choking from the swallows he had taken.

Arson Probe In Series Of Fires

DUNN, N.C. (AP)—State Insurance Department investigators continued today to check the possibility of arson in a mysterious series of fires which struck Johnson Cotton Co. plants last week.

The firm's Fayetteville warehouse burned Thursday and its furniture store at Smithfield and farm implement shop at Dunn were hit by fire Saturday.

W. G. O'Neal, chief investigator for the State Insurance Department who conferred at Raleigh Monday with two investigators who have been investigating the fires, said the probe will be continued. Asked if his agents had found any suspicious circumstances, O'Neal said, "Nothing in concrete at this time except that they have had three fires."

The company's executive vice president, Nathan Johnson Sr. of Dunn, said he received an anonymous telephone call Sunday from a man who said, "Your Lousburg store will be next."

Guards were posted at all Johnson's 19 establishments in North Carolina and South Carolina, and police in Lousburg assisted company employees in watching the Lousburg building, a general merchandise store, Sunday night.

Company President Nathan Johnson Jr. also of Dunn, said $500 rewards have been offered for the capture and conviction of the arsonist who caused the blazes.

He said the extent of the damages has not been determined, but the Fayetteville and Smithfield buildings were hit much harder than the Dunn store.

Fire officials had estimated that between $50,000 and $100,000 in damages were inflicted in Fayetteville and $50,000 in Smithfield. Only minor damage resulted from the Dunn blaze which was stifled shortly after it began.

Complete Work On Water Line

Work on the water line leading to the Country Club has been completed, Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam said today.

The line was opened at intervals and a device especially designed for the job run through to clean the water main.

Water pressure to the Country Club and to a house tapped on the line is now normal, Bloxam said.

NAACP Protests Union Practices

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has complained to the AFL-CIO that racial discrimination is still practiced in unions.

In a memorandum addressed to Boris Shiskin, director of the AFL-CIO Civil Rights Department, the NAACP charged that many unions still exclude Negroes or confine them to segregated locals.

Some unions negotiate contracts limiting Negroes to menial jobs or depriving them of seniority and promotion rights, the association said.

Alabama Officials Try Convince Federal Judge

MO. (AP)—Alabama officials, who defied the U. S. Civil Rights Commission, today attempt to convince a federal judge they acted legally.

After the hearing in U. S. District Court, the judge will rule on the officials' contention they lawfully withheld from the federal agency evidence on Negro voting.

The ruling of U. S. Dist. Judge Frank Johnson Jr. can be appealed, however, and the clash of federal vs. state authority eventually may reach the Supreme Court.

Arguing immunity to civil rights investigators are Circuit Judge George Wallace of Clayton and five present or former voter registration officials.

Wallace refused to appear at U. S. Civil Rights Commission hearing here Dec. 8. The registrars balked at testifying under oath about the Negro voting complaints. Designated judicial officers under state law, they claim the federal agency has no right to question them about their official duties.

Failure to convince Judge Johnson they are immune from the commission's probe would put them under federal subpoenas once again—at the risk of jail terms for contempt—to produce the requested evidence on Negro voting.

Johnson already has ordered the rebellious officials to obey the commission subpoenas. He postponed execution of his command pending today's hearing.

An appeal to higher courts would set aside Johnson's decision in the issue. But an ultimate ruling against the Alabama officials, plus continued resistance on their part, could send them to jail. Wallace, an unsuccessful candidate for governor last spring, entered the controversy after he impounded voter registration files in Barbour and Bullock counties, then ignored a subpoena ordering him to bring the records to the commission hearing.

Chooses Jail In Keeping Secret

NEW YORK (AP)—Newspaper columnist Marie Torre surrendered today to begin serving a 10-day jail sentence rather than disclose a news source.

Miss Torre, 34 and mother of two young children writes a syndicated television and radio column for the New York Herald Tribune. She appeared before U.S. Dist. Judge Sylvester J. Ryan and was remanded to custody of a marshal 10:05 a.m.

"I have great hope that this action will lead to legislation which will protect a newsman's sources," she told reporters as she arrived at the courthouse.

Ryan had found Miss Torre in contempt for refusing to disclose the source of a story she wrote in 1957 concerning movie star Judy Garland.

Ryan has said that the columnist again may be adjudged in contempt even after completing her sentence—if she persists in refusing to identify the Columbia Broadcasting System executive she quoted anonymously in reference to Miss Garland in a column that appeared in the Herald Tribune Jan. 10, 1957.

In it, Miss Torre quoted an executive of CBS in criticism of Miss Garland.

The entertainer filed a $1,393,333 libel suit against CBS. Neither Miss Torre nor the Herald Tribune was named as a defendant.

Ryan adjudged Miss Torre in contempt last November. The Herald Tribune appealed the case to the U.S. Court of Appeals, which upheld the conviction. The case then went to the U.S. Supreme Court, but that tribunal declined to review it.

Official 'No' By West Germany

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany today rejected the Soviet Union's proposal to turn West Berlin into a demilitarized free city and called on Moscow to restore the city to its place as capital of a united Germany.

In a note delivered in Moscow, the West German government stressed the four-power responsibility for German reunification and backed up the previous rejection of the Soviet proposal by the Western Big Three.

Berlin's future can be discussed only within the framework of the whole German question, which is indissolubly bound up with the problems of security and disarmament, the note said.

The note said pointedly that the Soviet proposal would place isolated Berlin at the mercy of the Communist East German regime. Recalling the Communist attempt to blockade the city in 1948, the note said the "presence of Western troops in the city was welcomed by the inhabitants."

It is not the West German drive to the East, as the Soviet Union claims, that is responsible for the situation but on the contrary the Soviet thrust to West, the Adenauer government said.
