ECC Trustees Hear Reports In Local Meeting; Largely Routine

Bids To Be Received In February For New Dorm; Enrollment Rise Cited

The East Carolina College Board of Trustees at a meeting devoted largely to routine business, heard here Tuesday afternoon reports on enrollment on the campus and in extension classes...

Accompanied by President John D. Messick of the college, Trustees visited early in the afternoon a new wing to the college dining hall...

Registrar Robert L. Holt reported to Trustees an enrollment of 3559 students taking work on the campus. This total shows an increase, he said, of 287 over that for the winter of 1958.

Director of Public Relations Ralph Brimley, in a report on extension work, told Trustees that, to date during the 1958-1959 term, 76 classes offered by the college in 22 centers in the state show an enrollment of 1498 students.

Vice President Leo W. Jenkins stated that the closed-circuit television program of instruction at the college, begun last fall and still, he explained, in the experimental stage, is being evaluated.

Trustees approved the request of seven local sororities on the campus to seek affiliation with national organizations.

Atlas Satellite Due Fall Today

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Atlas, the American satellite which broadcast President Eisenhower's Christmas message of peace to the world, was expected to plunge to its fiery death today in the vicinity of the Hawaiian Islands.

Scientists said the falling satellite presented little danger to anyone because it would disintegrate when still 80 miles aloft.

Atlas, the 4 1/2 ton rocket, was America's biggest artificial moon. It completed just under 500 trips around the earth since it was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Dec. 18.

GROW SESAME

MANQUIM, Okla. (AP) — Kay Waddad sowed sesame seed off a loaf of bread and scattered them in his yard. Now he has a good sesame stand.

Middle West Reels Under President Says U. S. Will Not Be Pushed By Kremlin

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Winter's worst storm moved rapidly through the Ohio Valley today, pushed by a subzero surge of arctic air.

Temperatures tumbled in the snow-packed Great Plains. Readings as low as 15 to 25 below zero are predicted for tonight in eastern Nebraska and South Dakota.

The extreme cold is expected to extend as far south as Texas and Arkansas.

Snowfall began to diminish this morning in most of the Midwest and was expected to end as far east as Kansas City by early afternoon.

Strong winds continued, causing considerable drifting. Snow depths ranged up to 11 inches at Milan in northern Missouri, and many roads were either blocked or reduced to one-way traffic.

Along the eastern edge of the cold wave, sleet and freezing rain gripped the Mississippi Valley. St. Louis, Mo., was almost paralyzed by a hardening ice layer that snapped power lines and made streets and highways dangerous.

The Weather Bureau said the storm center was in the lower Ohio Valley and moving northward into the Great Lakes region.

Twelve deaths have been attributed to the storm. All of the victims were killed in traffic accidents on ice or snow covered roads. Three were killed in New Mexico, Montana, Pennsylvania and Iowa each reported two deaths, and Oklahoma, Kansas and Illinois had one each.

In a special summary the Weather Bureau said snow, cold and high winds kicked up blizzard conditions in Nebraska, Iowa and the hillands of central Kansas.

Immediately ahead of the snow, there was a narrow band of freezing rain. In the South, thunder-showers accompanied spring temperatures.

There was even a tornado Tuesday night in Mississippi. The funnel touched the ground near Vicksburg, but apparently did no damage.

The heaviest snowfall this morning was in eastern Kansas and northern Missouri. Kansas City lay in the center of the area.

At midnight, with four inches on the ground, the snow began again, and the Weather Bureau said it would reach eight inches.

Parts of New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Iowa still were getting snow. The northern three-quarters of Illinois had six or more inches on the ground—with more expected.

Southern Michigan, still digging out of a heavy snow Tuesday, braced itself for more of the same, perhaps as much as six inches.

The Weather Bureau forecast continued heavy snow today from northeastern Kansas through Iowa and into the Great Lakes region.

Generally snow depths ranged from 5 to 8 inches, with a high of 12 inches at Douglas, Wyo. Temperatures in the southern part of the snow area were in the teens, but reached 5 to 10 below zero from the upper Mississippi Valley westward through the northern plains.

Freezing rain and drizzle, mixed with occasional sleet, fell from eastern Oklahoma northeastward through central Missouri and Illinois, along the border of southern Michigan and into central New York state.

Snow was reported as far east as Pennsylvania and southern New England.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today that the United States simply won't be pushed around in working for world peace.

Eisenhower told a news conference that was the purport of his message to Anastas I. Mikoyan, the Soviet deputy premier, as he left for home after his U.S. visit.

On a domestic political matter, Eisenhower said he would favor repeal of the present constitutional ban on a third term for presidents.

Eisenhower has said repeatedly that he would not be interested primarily because of his age—in a third term there was no indication in what he said today that he has changed his mind about that.

The subject came up when a newsman recalled that Eisenhower once said he thought it "not wholly wise" for the third term ban to have been written into the Constitution.

In reply, the President said he still thinks it was not a particularly wise decision. He added that if the American people want to make any man their president, then it should be up to them and he sees no objection to more than two terms.

Then he went on to say he would rather see the constitutional amendment repealed than kept.

This was Eisenhower's first regular news conference since Dec. 10 and only the second since Nov. 5, although he did answer reporters' questions at a National Press Club luncheon a week ago.

The visit by Mikoyan was much on the minds of the newsmen, and brought early questions.

Eisenhower said the Kremlin leader offered no new proposals for relief of world tensions at their meeting in the White House last Saturday.

Referring then to the farewell message he sent Mikoyan Tuesday, Eisenhower said the deputy premier must be sure that America wants peace.

This country is willing to negotiate and negotiate, Eisenhower went on, but the Soviets must understand that the United States simply won't be pushed around.

The news conference touched on these other main topics:

CIVIL RIGHTS — As for the bill of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson

(D-Tex) to create a federal conciliation service to handle civil rights disputes, Eisenhower said he can't see that such a government unit would be fruitful. But he added he is keeping an open mind on the matter.

Eisenhower called again for extension of the life of the Civil Rights Commission, now scheduled to go out of business in September. Johnson's bill provides for such an extension.

INTEGRATION — The federal government is working on and studying the question of what to do about children of U.S. military personnel who are being barred from public schools at Norfolk, Va., and some other places because of controversy over court-ordered mixing of the races in the classrooms.

Eisenhower was asked whether he has any plans to assure those children a public school education. The questioner said Virginia's massive resistance laws have been declared invalid by the courts, but that Gov. J. Lindsay Almond has nevertheless promised to continue the fight for segregation.

Eisenhower said the situation is a very difficult one. He said that of 15,000 children involved in the controversy at Norfolk, for example, about 5,500 are the children of military personnel.

Of those, about 500 are being educated on military reservations.

As for the rest, the situation is not so clear, Eisenhower added. Their parents pay education taxes just as all other citizens do, and the federal government is making aid grants in areas where there are government installations.

Three federal departments, Navy, Defense and the Health-Education-Welfare, are working very hard trying to find a solution, the President said.

Eisenhower said he had not at all meant to imply the federal government might shut off aid grants to areas with government installations.

As for Almond's call for continued resistance to integration, Eisenhower said it comes down to this: It appears that the laws are clear, and if that is true it seems to add up to whether a citizen, be he an official or anyone else, is ready to obey the laws of his state and nation.

U.S. base at 8:04 p.m. shepherded in through swirling snow by a Canadian air force rescue plane and a Pan American airliner.

Crash trucks and other emergency equipment were on the field, but Schulzberg brought the big ship in smoothly after a ground-controlled approach.

After the landing, Mikoyan calmly took a short stroll around part of the NATO base from which radar planes patrol the Atlantic against any threat of Soviet attack on North America.

Cmdr. F. M. Lloyd, public information officer for the Atlantic Command in Norfolk, said the unexpected arrival of the Soviet party had touched off no extra security precautions. He explained that everything on the base that is denied to unauthorized persons is out of sight and that Mikoyan, like any other visitor, would not be permitted to see such installations.

As the arrival and departure of patrols from the base, Lloyd added that "it might be a damn good idea for him to see me when business and are on the alert 24 hours a day."

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — D. E. Jones' 86 bars of gold were just plain bull—not bullion—the U.S. Secret Service said today.

Jones, 38-year-old father of eight children, told Secret Service officers Tuesday "there wasn't any gold." He had just taken a lie detector test.

Forrest V. Sorrels, agent in charge of the Dallas office of Secret Service, said Jones made the admission. Earlier, the Corsican, Tex., filling station attendant said he found the multimillion-dollar cache in eastern Texas while picking berries.

But the idea of the tale started last summer, he said, while the boys were sitting around the filling station talking about buried gold.

Jones' curiosity was aroused so he went to a banker to find out what to do if he found the gold. The banker sent him to a lawyer. With seven cents in his pocket, Jones went to an attorney and signed a contract.

People started bothering Jones for a cut in his "discovery," he said, so Jones moved to Corsicana and the filling station job.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is closing out its Vanguard satellite program after four more launches in favor of "bigger and newer things."

Just what is planned wasn't specified by Homer J. Stewart, director of program planning and evaluations for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

He told a meeting of the National Rocket Club Tuesday that beyond the four upcoming launches there is "no intention of continuing the Vanguard program as such."

Stewart gave that answer when asked why President Eisenhower's new budget allocates no funds for the Vanguard project.

Of seven Vanguard attempts since December 1957, only one has succeeded. The Army has put three satellites into orbit.

The Vanguard program was transferred from the Navy to the new space agency last year. Stewart said Vanguard funds transferred to NASA are expected to finish out the program.

Stewart declined to discuss schedules for the four additional Vanguard firings. However, a launching is expected by mid-February at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Evans Celebrate 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Amos James Evans celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at their home on Hooker Road on Sunday afternoon.
 An arrangement, with wedding bells, satin bows and silver rings, symbolic of their wedding anniversary, adorned the front entrance. As the guests arrived they were greeted by Mrs. Helen Sermons and Burton Evans and presented to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Ada Evans, mother of Mr. Evans, and the couple's children, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Evans and Misses Betty Lane and Joan Dell Evans. Mrs. Billy Sermons directed the guests to the refreshment table, on which was used a white lace cloth, where Mrs. Carl Crawford and Mrs. Linwood Hunning poured punch from a silver bowl. Mrs. Murray Sullivan, of Ahoskie, and Mrs. Herman Evans served bridal cakes. Guests served themselves nuts and mints.

 A three-tiered white wedding cake, decorated with white roses and silver leaves, topped by a symbol of the occasion, centered the refreshment table. Clusters of white grapes surrounded the base of the cake and a single white orchid completed the arrangement. Three-branched silver candelabra with white candles flanked the wedding cake.

 Guests were registered in the den by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Forbes and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Evans. On the register table a lighted candle and a white Bible opened to the second chapter of Genesis, which speaks of the institution of marriage, added to the sincerity of the occasion.
 Mrs. Jarvis Tripp Sr. and Mrs.

Harold Daniel presided in the gift room.
 Floral arrangements carrying out the color scheme of white, green and silver were used throughout the house. Others assisting throughout the house were Misses Nannie Sue Crawford, Clara Payne Crawford, Ann Evans, Linda Hunning, Katharine Winchester, Joanne Parks, Mrs. Hugh Cox, of Kinston, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carawan, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Winchester.

New Instructor

Dr. Bruce Carter, an instructor in the Art Department at East Carolina College, will conduct the Paint 'n Putter Classes during the school year at Elm Street Park Recreation Building.

Tonight he will begin his instruction.

The resignation of Mrs. Donna Tabar has been accepted by the Recreation Department. She was instructor for the department for five years.

Mrs. Cunningham Is Mother To 32 Girls

As superintendent of Miller Home for Girls in Lynchburg, Va., Mrs. Clarence Cunningham, the former Grace Vincent of Winterville, keeps abreast of the newest developments in her field so that she can be the best possible "mother" for the 32 girls from 17 in her care. Every year she goes to Chapel Hill to attend the University of North Carolina Workshop for executives and others in administrative positions in children's institutions, and last year she was appointed for a two year term to the planning commission for the workshops.
 Mrs. Cunningham is a member of civic clubs, circles and at least three parent-teacher associations. It has confounded many a grade school parent to see Mrs. Cunningham rise to be counted among the parents for class after class, sometimes indicating two children in a room.

In the spring of '56 when Mrs. Edith Adkinson, former superintendent at the home, resigned, Mrs. Cunningham applied for the position, and was accepted.
 With her deep desire to be the best substitute parent to the girls, she keeps up with what is new in her field. Every year she goes to Chapel Hill to attend the University of North Carolina Workshop for executives and others in administrative positions in children's institutions, and last year she was appointed for a two year term to the planning commission for the workshops.
 Mrs. Cunningham is a member of civic clubs, circles and at least three parent-teacher associations. It has confounded many a grade school parent to see Mrs. Cunningham rise to be counted among the parents for class after class, sometimes indicating two children in a room.

Marriage interrupted her training, but she began to complete her nursing course in September, 1952 and received her coveted cap and certificate in November 1955.

Mrs. Roseveare Installed As President Of Church Women

Mrs. W. E. Roseveare was installed as president of the Women of the Church at a meeting held Monday night, January 19, at the First Presbyterian Church.

Spiritual Growth; Mrs. N. O. Warren, World Missions; Mrs. Leonard Crawford, Church Extension; Mrs. Tige Gardner, Stewardship; Mrs. H. H. Bryant, Christian Education; General Fund Agencies; Mrs. W. T. Kyzer, and Annuities and Relief; Mrs. T. M. Watson, Circle chairmen and special committee chairmen were also installed.

Officers installed with her were: Mrs. C. W. Harvey Jr., first vice president; Miss Elizabeth Deal, second vice-president; Mrs. Mary Lil Parker, recording secretary; Mrs. Douglas Dalley, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. I. B. Koonce, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. L. Gammon, treasurer, and Mrs. J. A. Watson, historian.

The Rev. Richard R. Gammon, pastor, conducted the installation. Dr. John O. Reynolds, chairman of the Campus Christian Life Committee for this church, told of the work being done at the Presbyterian Student Center at East Carolina College, and how the Women of the Church could be an important factor in the relationship of the 400 Presbyterian students and the church.

Following Dr. Reynolds' talk, the program and business of the general meeting of the Women of the Church was conducted.

Mrs. Crisp Club Hostess

The Athenaeum Book Club met with Mrs. S. M. Crisp at her home on East Fifth Street Tuesday afternoon.

30 Years Ago Today

January 21, 1929

In the living room was an arrangement of off-white carnations and greenery. On the piano in the music room, Mrs. Crisp used an arrangement of mixed colors of hydrangeas, apple blossoms and azaleas. The centerpiece on the dining room table consisted of grapes and greenery.

Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, Mrs. W. I. Wooten and Mrs. B. S. Warren were among those who went to Wilson last night to see the "Singing Fool."

After a two course luncheon, the members gathered in the music room where a business meeting was held.
 The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Crisp who announced that for her program she would like each one to give a two minute talk on the most exciting experience in her life.

Mrs. Luther Herring was hostess to the Round Table Club Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Bryce Brown of Schenectady, N. Y. was a guest of the club. A social hour followed the program, during which the hostess served refreshments.

After an hour of personal experiences, the books were distributed and the meeting dismissed.
 The guests were Mrs. Sidney Dunn, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, Mrs. J. Hampton Thomas, all of Greenville, and Mrs. John Green of Spartanburg, S. C.

Plays Given At PTA Meet

FOUNTAIN—The Fountain P. T. A. met Thursday night with a large attendance. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Eloise Bushman.

Mrs. Emily Mercer's third grade presented a play, "Why Do I Have To Go To School?" and Mrs. Mattie Gaynor's fourth grade presented a play, "Happy New Year."

During the business session Mrs. Bushman announced that the full payment of the teacher's salary had been paid. The Corn Drive, Ivey Reason, chairman, was declared a "success."

The next project for the P.T.A. is a Talent Show to be held in February.

To assist Jim Jefferson and Wiley Yelverton in making plans for this project, the following committee was appointed:

Mrs. Carter Smith, chairman, Mrs. Alton Moore, Mrs. Clarence Everette, Mrs. W. W. Jefferson, Mrs. Geneva Phillips, Mrs. Ben Gardner, Mrs. Robert Mercer and Mrs. Carey Gaynor.

The following Legislative Committee was appointed:

Mrs. Paul Burnette, chairman, Mrs. Leslie Jefferson, Mrs. Dot Newton, Mrs. E. B. Beasley Jr. and Mrs. Carter Smith.

She Makes Road To Reading Fun

Mrs. Pauline Taylor Griffin, second grade teacher at Crossroads School in Norfolk, Va., has come up with a new wrinkle for the teaching of reading and apparently has a ready-made market for her brain child.

A former resident of Greenville, she has been spending her spare time working on a method of teaching children how to read. After three years, her dream has come true. The way she has taught remedial reading has been accepted, the recordings have been made and booklets published.

Mrs. Griffin believes in the "oldtime" way of teaching children to read, that of ABC's and phonetics. Her system consists of recordings of carefully enunciated basic words and a manual containing the words. With this combination of audio-visual aids, the pupils soon learn to recognize words by sight and sound.

Not Always True

"Every teacher knows that many students are promoted every year who cannot read," she said. "The usual explanation is that these children are 'dull' or 'underprivileged,' but this easy explanation is not always the true one. Since many of these children are of average or superior mentality, it is obvious that the reason they are unable to read is that they were just taught wrong."

She says that after 14 years' experience with children in the elementary grades, she is convinced that the acquisition of reading facility does not occur satisfactorily through the employment of only the word recognition system of teaching reading.

At the second and third grade levels, the child who has merely stumbled and faltered in pre-primer and first grade, becomes completely confused and lost, when his introduction to basic reading has consisted of word recognition alone, she said.

Persistent

"You might call me a bootlegger," Mrs. Griffin laughed, "because I sort of sneaked my method into my classroom. In 1946 when I began teaching the first grade at Crossroads, I started out by teaching the children their ABC's and was constantly reminded by the other primary teachers that I was not supposed to teach the alphabet and phonics."

"They said that method had been discarded years ago. I was afraid I would have to resign because I knew I could never be a successful teacher unless I could teach phonetics. But my principal was a very understanding man and told me to teach any method I wished so long as I taught the pupils how to read!"

When a child is taught phonetic word analysis, they have the ability not only to master words independently, but to comprehend with a high degree of accuracy what they read. Therefore they become efficient readers, according to Mrs. Griffin. Continuing, she adds that when they learn to spell and sound out their words, they also have much better enunciation.

Mrs. Griffin says the purpose of the recording is to show the teacher (or parent) how the word should be pronounced. The manual explains that the word should first be spelled and pronounced in phonetics, and then pronounced in a normal manner of speech. The teacher should have the children print the words and pronounce in unison with her. Drill should continue for 5 or 10 minutes (never longer) at the time.

Besides the cost, Mrs. Griffin has spent many hours of her time compiling the word lists, getting the copyright and making the recordings.

Asked why she was willing to invest so much of her time and money on this project, Mrs. Griffin replied, "Because I am convinced that it is the better way of teaching children to read. There is no joy quite like that of seeing the look of happiness on a child's face when he realizes suddenly that he can figure out what words are—that he can really read."

"I have never had a child to fail in my class and I am proud of my students because at the end of the term, they can all read and read with understanding."

Miss Eunice McGee Is Guest Speaker

On Tuesday afternoon the Round Table Book Club met with Mrs. D. S. Spain at her home on East Fifth Street. Special guests were Mrs. J. H. Coward of Ayden, Mrs. J. P. Thompson of Elizabeth City, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, Mrs. H. R. Phillips, Mrs. H. H. Settle, and Miss Eunice McGee.

After the president concluded the brief business session, Mrs. R. R. Taylor introduced the guest speaker, Miss Eunice McGee. In her unique way Miss McGee presented through poetry the metamorphosis of man. "The title," she said, "may be stated, 'The Seven Ages of Man in Poetry.'"

Her prologue was interspersed with bits of her personal and sage philosophy. Among the poems read were "Prayer for a Little Boy," "My Nose," "Lost," "My Aunts," "Great Gift," "Confession," "Man Versus Woman," and "Bakery Shop," the latter being one of the speaker's own compositions. These poems and jingles ran the gamut of human emotions, from humor to pathos. In conclusion, Miss McGee remarked, "I believe in the young people of this generation."

Mrs. Daniel Taylor, presenting the word study, discussed a scientific term too recently coined to be printed in the addenda of our dictionary and another word with historic and political connotation.

After the books were exchanged, the hostess invited the guests into the dining room, where Mrs. D. L. Moore poured coffee and Mrs. Daniel Taylor served a salad and sweet course.

Legal Minimum Wage Is Needed

Battle lines are rapidly forming in North Carolina for what promises to be another full scale legislative engagement over a minimum wage for the state.

North Carolina, which has no legal minimum wage, has had the matter before its legislature on several occasions. Each time the measure has been killed. In the last session it was tabled in committee and never reached the floor where proponents of the measure considered they had a good chance of getting it passed.

In fairness to the state, its businesses and its people, North Carolina should have a reasonable minimum wage.

Furthermore the 75-cents per hour minimum wage proposed by the administration two years ago is reasonable, and if it is again proposed for consideration of the coming session of the General Assembly, it should be written into law.

It is estimated that a minimum wage would boost the income of some 90,000 workers in North Carolina who do not now receive as much as 75 cents per hour for their work. It is a fact that such a minimum wage would put several millions of dollars a year more in circulation in the state.

While operators of some retail stores, laundries and other businesses have militantly opposed a state minimum wage as disastrous to their businesses, we doubt that such a step by North Carolina would prove a handicap to many businesses. To the contrary, in the total scope, such a measure would considerably strengthen the economy of our state which now ranks 45th among the 49 states in per capita income. It would also mean that pay increases which resulted from the minimum would be going to the lowest paid citizens of the state—those who need the additional money most.

There can be little doubt that the additional money would quickly be put back into circulation. Neither can there be any doubt that the retailers, who would be most immediately affected by the wage increase, would also be the group of businessmen who would likewise feel its impact through greater business volume.

North Carolina should have a legal minimum wage. The 75-cent figure often mentioned for the state is certainly a reasonable approach to the matter of a minimum wage at the present time. Though there is sure to be adamant opposition to the proposal, North Carolina as a whole will be better off if the state does have a minimum wage law.

Nuclear Work Offers More Than A-Bombs

Many peaceful uses of atomic energy are being explored and developed, but the most imaginative development so far in our mind is the recent use of an "atomic knife" for brain surgery in Sweden.

The delicate brain operation, according to Swedish experts, was performed with a proton ray, without the use of scalpel or other conventional surgical instruments. A portion of the brain tissue was destroyed and the patient was able to leave the hospital two days following the operation.

Such use of atomic energy in medicine, and particularly in surgery, opens broad new fields for the peaceful use of this new-found energy for the benefit of mankind. We must continue to develop the potential of atomic energy for war and destruction for our own protection. But if at the same time greater emphasis can be given to the development of peaceful uses of this energy, man may yet make atomic energy his servant rather than letting it become its master.

If a crash program for peaceful uses of atomic energy could be mounted by the United States similar to development programs we have designed for weapons, we might quickly find ourselves in a position to make a greater contribution to welfare of the peoples of all nations.

If we fail to push sufficient haste our development of peaceful uses of this energy, we are likely to find ourselves surprised by the advancement of others as was the case with the Soviet Sputniks.

Mikoyan Leaves Two Questions

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Anastas I. Mikoyan, home-bound today, left a trail of questions behind him. They can be boiled down to two: why did he come? what was the result of his visit?

A modern form of self-torture is to try to read the Kremlin's mind. Many interpretations have been put on the Soviet deputy premier's visit here. But the reason for his trip may be this simple: He just wanted to look around and, as a byproduct, create a little good will for the Soviet Union.

So far as is known he didn't budge an inch on anything and neither did the Eisenhower administration. It's traditional, in thinking of relations between nations, to regard everything one of them does as a profound, stiff, stuffy and highly meaningful move or counter-move in high diplomacy.

dodged, ducked, proposed, and reversed themselves as it suited them.

Why these tactics? One explanation could be that they look on us with contempt, think we're slow and pompous, figure they can jab and poke and dance around us, like kids in a cartoon calling a rich, fat man names and knocking his high silk hat off.

By his visit the Soviet might gain a little good will, although that could well be a secondary consideration so long as he got a look around, met some people, and did some talking intended to be beneficial to the Soviet Union.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SEASONS IN WORLD AND IN LIFE
There is a natural decline and decay of all living things. The verdure of spring becomes the teeming harvest of midsummer. Then come the rich colors of autumn to dress the growing world for burial. The leaves drop off the trees.

Yet there is nothing about this that should give us either the least concern or the least regret. It is part of a cycle within the great cycle of God's love. We have nothing to do with the creation of this order of things. On the other hand, we alone are responsible for what takes place in our lives between birth and death. Adverse circumstances? Heredity? Ill fortune? Do these not count? Oh yes, but what counts more is our energy, our unwavering purpose, our determination to reach a goal.

Hard For A Drinker To Give Up

By ALVIN TAYLOR

You Run Into Everything

Took a walk up the hill leading to the college campus off Fifth St. the other day.

As I neared the top this big white work horse galloped into view.

No, I wasn't in on the big party, it was a real, live horse. A couple of kids were riding it. Oh yes, a little dog was racing along behind.

The big horse galloped down the hill to Fifth St. and disappeared in the direction of Five Points. Just goes to show what you can see on a walk these days.

Deputy Duke Andrews went out to investigate a shooting the other night. Upon entering the rural dwelling, he found the critically injured man lying on the floor, a gun shot wound in the stomach.

There was one other man in the room, lying on the sofa.

"Hey, wake up," Andrews said shaking the man. "I'm here to investigate the shooting."

"What shooting?" asked the man on the sofa sleepily. "There ain't been no shooting here."

"Yes there has," Andrews replied. "There he is on the floor." The man gaped in surprise. He explained to the deputy he had been asleep during the entire shooting. The shot gun blast had simply failed to awaken him.

Roofs on the new rescue building which is under construction as an addition to the main fire station.

As is always true the building looks considerably bigger now that it is closed in than when the foundations were dug.

Workmen now have to pour the concrete floor for the structure and install the sliding front door, along with completing wiring, heating and plumbing.

When the structure is completed, the rescue ambulance, rescue equipment-truck, squad boat and other equipment is to be moved in.

Know who makes the most money among manufacturing workers in North Carolina?

The 7,900 folks in the pulp, paper and paperboard mills. That is revealed in a report issued by the N. C. Department of Labor. The weekly earnings for that group of workers average $106.75.

Next in line are the workers in paper and allied products who earn $93.95. Next come the 17,700 in cigarette manufacturing who average $86.09 per week, then the primary metals workers who earn $85.36.

There are plenty of low paying industries which bring the average down, however, the Department of Labor reports that the average for all manufacturing in the state at mid-December was $58.76.

Other Editors Saying... Social Tax Just Beginning

(Henderson Dispatch)

Those who have kept an eagle eye on their pay check since the first of the year have noted a deeper dig by Social Security that deprives them of more of their take-home pay. But this is scarcely more than a sizable beginning of what is in store.

At present, about half the aged are reaping Social Security benefits, with nine of ten employed persons paying the taxes to make this possible, says the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. But in the next fifteen to twenty years, nine of ten aged will be drawing benefits, with the proportion of employed social taxpayers remaining constant.

One reason for this ceaseless drain is the flock of additional benefits Congress has voted in every election year since 1950. Whereas the Social Security Act of 1937 provided only for retired persons, the system now takes care of dependent or surviving children and spouse; the age at which women can share has been lowered, and payments for permanent and total disability have been added.

And you can bet your last dime that the starry-eyed liberals in the present Congress will add still more before the session ends. The welfare state is picking up momentum at a fast pace. Federal paternalism is growing by leaps and bounds. It is already ready almost to the point of providing security from the cradle to the grave.

Money to carry on these projects must come from some source, and there is only one such source, namely, the pockets of the people. The earning group is carrying on its shoulders those below the employment age and those who have hurried to become idle soon after eligibility begins. It is largely a matter of how or whether the earning group can produce enough income to support such a program.

The Federal government can do no more than citizens are able and willing to provide for. At the present rate of the mushrooming toll upon the productive public the saturation point might not be too far in the future.

Social Security originally was intended only to cushion old age and its hazards. But the politicians found it to be a tremendous pulling power at the voting booth and are not missing a lick in applying it to the fullest. It was never designed to set up millions of people in idleness while others struggled to support them. But the system is like nearly all other Federal handout projects, in that it is in grave danger of getting out of hand. That process has already begun. Only the willingness and ability of the country to support it will determine how far it can or will extend. Vote hungry politicians will push it to the limit. Of that much there can be a certainty.

Opinions In Brief

"With the exception of one railroad in the Dominion of Canada, the United States is the only spot left on earth where railroads are privately owned and operated. The French roads, German roads, Swiss roads, etc., are owned and operated by the governments of those countries who can and are pouring tax monies into the up-building, strengthening and modernization of their railroads. Here in the United States our railroads are built and operated by private capital, pay billions of dollars in taxes and we are suffering manifestly from over-regulation and competition which is financed in part by our own tax money." — J. H. Wright, vice president of Association of American Railroads.

"You've all heard about George A. Custer, but one of history's forgotten men is his brother, Tom, who earned the Congressional Medal of Honor in the Civil War, something the dashing George did not. But then, Tom was the quiet one." — Daily Oklahoman.

"During the recent campaign, the matter of labor endorsement for candidates was pretty much a hush matter. Now that the campaign is over and labor has again come out on top, there seems to be no hesitancy on the part of labor bosses to make frequent use of the term 'labor-endorsed candidates.' Could be that use of such a term during the campaign might have had an embarrassing, if not a negative, effect." — Dawson, Minn. Sentinel.

"Many a homeowner has found, after calamity struck, that he hadn't adequately protected his investment at all—and that his insurance was nowhere near sufficient to make up for the loss. The reason is simple. The cost of home construction—and of other kinds of structures—has just about doubled since 1945." — Scottsville, Ky. Citizen-Times.

"The demise of the B-36 demonstrates once again the inordinate wastefulness inherent in the evolution of warfare." — New Orleans State and Item.

A summary of the judiciary's estimate of public intelligence is contained in the United States Trademark Association's review of 1958. It contains a digest of judgments in trademark suits.

For example, the courts forbids Standard Oil of Ohio to use its SOHIO mark in territory served by Standard Oil of Indiana because the public might think it stood for the Indiana company.

Here are other marks judges found confusing: "Simon" and "Silkenize," both used for auto products.

"Dickie's" for children's suits and "Dickey Davis" for boy's tailored clothes.

"Perfectform" for slippers and "Perfect Form" for brassieres.

PATENT OFFICE HAS OPINIONS, TOO
Some conflicts did not reach the courts, because the Patent Office held they were confusing, such as:

"Thermopane" and "Thermoglaz," both for insulating glazing units.

"Beautyshield" for waterproof coatings and "Beautyco" for ready-mixed paints and varnishes.

"Sea Garden" for frozen shrimp and "Ocean Garden" for frozen shrimp and canned shellfish.

"Superman" for bread and "Superman" for a comic strip, the owner of which has licensed the mark for cereals.

"Dermatone" for a liquid hand cleaner and the same word for a chemical used in skin treatment.

an apparatus for grading eggs.

"Icy-Ade" and "Kool Aid," both for soft drink flavorings.

"Neovital" and "Meovite," both for vitamin preparations.

"Shave-King" and "Shavemaster," both for electric razors.

"Vim" and "VM," both for skim milk.

"Dorwido" for doors, windows and jalousies, and "Windor" for casement window operators and other accessories.

"Royal Purple" and "Royal Plumage," both for hosiery.

"Klart" and "Camart," both for cameras and accessories.

"A & P" for groceries and "A & F Trucking Corp." for trucking.

"Giant Food" and "Giant Open Air Market," both in connection with large grocery operations.

The Patent Office approved these:

"Pink Lady" for wines and for fruit juices.

THE PHANTOM

Temporary Madness From Secret New Nerve Gases

By ROGER GREENE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Testifying behind locked doors on Capitol Hill, the general told a little joke. The story was about a man who went to visit a friend in the hospital and found him all bandaged up, with a broken arm and one leg in a plaster cast. "Patient: 'What in the world happened?'" Visitor: "You remember the party Saturday night? Well, you got up on top of the dresser and said you could fly to the other side of the room. You jumped off and didn't make it."

"Why didn't you stop me?" "Stop you? I was betting you could do it!" The lawmakers gathered around the table at a House committee hearing didn't laugh — a few of them shivered — as Maj. Gen. William M. Creasy, then chief of the U.S. Army Chemical Corps, related the joke.

For Creasy used the story to illustrate how secret new types of nerve gas — or "nerve discombobulators," as he called them — might be used to subdue the enemy in a conflict involving germ or chemical warfare.

"The point is," said Creasy, "that it (the gas) will do these things to you. You will be acting very irrationally and the other people who have also been subjected to it will not know it, either. Everybody will be on the bandwagon."

Creasy's heavily censored testimony, when published, did not elaborate on the weird effects of certain nerve gases beyond saying they would "upset your behavior pattern."

But in citing "gases that affect the minds of men... (and) break down a people's will to fight," the general seemed to be hinting at a new type of warfare — without guns, bombs or bayonets — in which victory would be achieved without killing or maiming on either side.

Asked if such gases have been developed yet, the secrecy-minded Pentagon replied:

"The Chemical Corps is conducting research in this area to determine the feasibility of such compounds as casualty-producing agents. There are various chemicals known to affect the behavior of animals and humans."

(In Pentagon jargon, "casualty-producing" means knocking out enemy forces without necessarily killing them.)

Subsequently, the Defense Department issued a television film showing (1) a cat pouncing on a frightened mouse and (2) the same cat, sprayed with a secret gas, backing away in terror from a mouse.

While the Pentagon shies away from almost all discussion of germ warfare, further enlightenment about these "psycho-chemical" weapons has come from Dr. E. L. Kropp of the Battelle Memorial Institute, Columbus, Ohio, which engages in numerous defense research projects.

In a report Dr. Kropp described laboratory experiments by a scientist named Hoffman involving a chemical which produces temporary madness. The chemical is known as LSD-25 or lysergic acid. Kropp said LSD-25 "destroys the individual's will to think and communicate... the head seems to be severed from the body, and there is a feeling of floating in space."

TV Quiz Show Probe By-Passes Defunct '21'

NEW YORK (AP) — A grand jury investigating alleged rigging of some television quiz shows will not hear testimony from the producers of the defunct "21" program.

Jack Barry and Dan Enright, producers, and Robert Noah, an associate, refused Tuesday to waive immunity from possible prosecution when called before the jury.

They were excused, and no further appearances were scheduled.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph Stone said the men had been called to testify because they said originally they wanted to cooperate in the probe.

Barry and Enright have consistently denied there was any rigging on "21" or any of their other shows.

Awoke To Find Car In His Bed

NORTH BERGEN, N. J. (AP)—Walter Siner found a car in his bed at a motel here. It was his car, and it arrived unexpectedly.

Police said Mrs. Siner had gone out to the car to get something while her husband bedded down in their room. He had left the motor running.

Mrs. Siner reached into the car and accidentally hit the gear shift lever. The car started moving.

She tumbled for the brake but hit the accelerator. The car crashed through the wall, right into the bed where Siner was lying.

He was treated for a hand injury and she for shock.

And he added: "To give you a little insight as to how active this material is, it has been estimated that less than a pound would cause all the inhabitants in New York City to take on a Schizoid reaction" — i.e., an emotional disturbance marked by such things as delusions and hallucinations.

Describing the effects from a self-dosage of .25 milligram of LSD-25 — less than one-thousandth of a gram — Hoffman wrote: "I had great difficulty in speaking coherently, my field of vision swayed before me... objects appeared distorted like images in a curved mirror... the faces of those around me appeared as grotesque colored masks... I shouted half incoherently or babbled incoherent words..."

Six hours later the siege of temporary madness began to taper off.

Because of Pentagon secrecy, there is no certainty whether such a weapon exists in America's chemical warfare arsenal. But the military implications of Dr. Hoffman's six-hour ordeal are sharply etched:

In six hours, with the opposition temporarily and harmlessly reduced to so many babbling idiots, enemy invaders could march in without firing a shot.

Mikoyan Thinks He Sees No War For Near Future

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—"I do not foresee any new war in the near future," said Anastas I. Mikoyan as he headed home to the Soviet Union.

"This should not comfort us too much," the Soviet first deputy premier added. "For the question is what direction we are moving in—the direction of peace or the direction of accumulation of the forces of war? This will decide the fate of humanity."

Mikoyan was interviewed on a train en route from Washington to New York, where he boarded a plane Tuesday.

Of his 17-day visit to the United States he said, "I came with no plans for negotiations I planned exactly what has taken place."

He said he has more optimism for peace than when he came to this country.

"This does not mean that I no longer have any suspicions or that I have changed my views," he said. "But I have found grounds for bigger optimism than I came with. How events will develop in the future I don't know. Events develop according to their own laws."

Mikoyan said he was returning home convinced that Americans by and large "want to understand and want us to understand them. This is already good. From a political standpoint my trip to the United States has been useful."

Among Mikoyan's activities were conferences with President Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Mikoyan did not negotiate any agreement or settlement, of any outstanding issue between the Soviet Union and the United States.

Mikoyan said he had done exactly what he had planned to do during his stay — exchange opinions and views with Americans. He said he was satisfied.

Mikoyan received before his departure a telegram from Secretary Dulles. On behalf of President Eisenhower, Dulles said he hoped the visit had been of value and that Mikoyan would give the Soviet people "an expression of the sincere desire of the people of the United States for friendship with them."

Dulles also expressed hope that Mikoyan would report to Premier Nikita Khrushchev that Americans desire peace and that they believe "irrespective of their political party in the right of people to determine their own form of government."

Hordes Of Cubans Are Going Home From Exile

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cubans are streaming home from exile in numbers that have consular officials talking of records.

All that acting consul Oscar Ramirez, 35, can think of today is a bath and bed.

"We are doing business as never before," the Miami man said. "Fees for processing outbound Cubans are running to $2,000 a day. In the days before Batista fell, daily receipts from the same source were $100 to $200."

In addition to expediting the return of Cubans, Ramirez Tuesday was helping about 40 newsmen who planned to take advantage of the revolutionary government offer to fly from Miami today for an eyewitness view of the Presidential Palace Square at Havana this afternoon.

Ramirez was manager of Miami's bi-lingual Flagler Theater and a wheel horse of the revolutionary underground.

Now he has a job waiting for him in Cuba when a permanent appointee relieves him in the consular job he took over without ceremony from Edouardo Hernandez.

He said he plans to work in the Tourist Information Bureau in Havana, his home.

Another Cuban who hurried happily home was Dr. Antonio Buch, a medical man who doubled during the revolutionary effort as coordinator of rebel information in the Miami area.

Friends who answered the telephone at Buch's lodgings said he had gone to Cuba to take a public health assignment.

Dr. Miro Cardona left Miami to serve in a Cabinet post. Another former Miami exile is now Cuba's foreign minister, Roberto Agramonte.

One Cubanita who contributed her talents as well as her energies to the rebel cause is planning to stay in Miami because she is now a United States citizen.

She is pretty Miss Caridad Garcia Canamaque, 25, known on Miami Beach as a night club singer. She is a native of Delicia, Oriente Province.

The anti-Batista movement knows her better as composer of the stirring "Revolutionary Directory Hymn" and as a friend to rebels stranded in South Florida.

Miss Garcia said it was unfortunate that non-Cubans should get an idea the rebels are dealing out death too fast to trigger men of the Batista regime.

"These men are known murderers and torturers," she said.

"For years their crimes have been recorded by our people against the day when we could bring them to justice."

Will Need Licenses When Shad, Herring Begin Move

By CHESTER WALSH

Although the season for taking shad and herring from inland waters opened January 1, no great catches have been reported by fishermen along Tar River and other streams in this area, Wildlife Productor J. O. Teel stated today. "Severe cold weather held back the fish from their spawning grounds upstream, but several days of mild weather will favor better catches," he pointed out. The wildlife protector reminded men obtain at the same time a copy of the N.C. 1959 Fishing Rules. Quoting the official rules about shad and herring fishing, Teel said, "all varieties of shad and herring shall be classified as fresh water fishes when found in inland waters, and fishing for the same shall be under jurisdiction of the Wildlife Resources Commission.

Fishing for shad and herring shall be permitted with gill nets and dip nets, except that it shall be unlawful to use nets of any kind in waters designated and posted as "spawning areas", and in which fishing is restricted to hook and line only. All such nets shall be licensed as provided in Section E of this regulation."

"Striped Bass (Rockfish) taken incidental to shad and herring fishing may be retained by only one person up to one day's creel limit, and Striped Bass (Rockfish) so taken may not be sold or processed for sale", the 1959 Fishing Rules provide.

Fishing license fees: State resident combination hunting and fishing license, $6.10; special resident fishing license, $4.10; one-day resident fishing license 60¢; non-resident one-day fishing permit, $1.10; non-resident five-day fishing permit, $2.60; non-resident state fishing license, $1.10; special resident trout fishing license, $1.10, special non-resident trout license, $2.10.

G.A. Speedy To Conduct Meet

Gerald A. Speedy, of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, will conduct the annual Council Recognition Meeting at East Carolina College tonight at 7:00 p.m. for Scouts of this district.

Speedy will act as Director of tonight's program. He is former Director of Cub Scouting on a national scale.

GERALD A. SPEEDY

Silver Beaver and Compas Awards will be presented to a number of Scouts tonight for outstanding service to boys. The President's Award will be presented to the District Chairman of the district which has made the best record during 1958 as determined by a process known as The Ten Tests of Successful Scouting.

Council officers and members of the Executive Board for 1959 will be installed.

Joe Eagles, local Council President, has announced that tickets for the meeting are available in all communities and that anyone interested is invited to attend.

An attendance award will also be made to the district whose Scouters have traveled the greatest distance to the meeting.

Eagles has said that a Program Committee has planned other events for the evening which have not been listed.

Complained She Wed For Money

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Marriage of banking heir Charles Crocker III to Lorette Katherine Howison of Bronxville, N. Y., was annulled Tuesday. He charged in his non-contested complaint she married him for his money.

Crocker and his bride of seven months, each 19, were married in New York. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Crocker, socialites of Pebble Beach, Calif. and Palm Beach, Fla., and a great-grandson and namesake of the California banking pioneer.

Alcorn Asks Republicans For Full-Time 1960 Effort

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn called on Republicans today for full time efforts to elect a president and win back Congress in 1960.

Alcorn said in a report prepared for the party's Executive Committee that the National Committee plans to draw on every population group for "an all-out drive to recruit a vast army of Republicans who will march to victory in 1960."

"I am convinced," Alcorn said, "that we can no longer afford the luxury of part-time dabbling in politics. This applies to us as individuals and as a party."

The national chairman spoke out as the subcommittee to pick a site for the presidential nominating convention next year appeared to be narrowing its selection to three cities. These included Chicago, Philadelphia and San Francisco.

Because San Francisco representatives made a determined pitch at a closed meeting of the subcommittee Tuesday, members seemed inclined to include that city in their calculations. Previously they had appeared to be leaning toward Chicago and Philadelphia.

Alcorn himself said that San Francisco had made a "persuasive proposal" in offering $350,000 in cash and extras which the San Franciscans said added up to an additional $205,000.

Los Angeles also had made the Republicans a lucrative offer but chances of that city being selected about vanished after the Democrats picked it for their convention.

An independent check of back dates shows that since the birth of the Republican party in 1856 the two major parties have met in national convention in the same city only five times. They named party nominees in Chicago in 1884, 1932, 1944 and 1952, and in Philadelphia in 1948.

Neither party has ever set up its national ticket in Los Angeles. Alcorn said the Republicans must put on a new look which will make them appealing to all kinds of voters.

"We must and we can win the support of the farmer, the working man, the member of a nationalist group, the doctor and the lawyer, the businessman, the veteran and the housewife and a great array of others upon whom the future of the nation directly depends," he said.

"We must bring youth into our organization in active and significant roles," he remarked.

In a pointed reference to the National Committee meeting which begins here Thursday, Alcorn said the Republicans intend to do everything possible to regain the majority position they once held in the Midwest. This position has been threatened by the Democrats in recent elections.

Alcorn was reported prepared to tell the National Committee that the party now is financially broke. The National Finance Committee is expected to outline a money-raising drive.

BEFORE AND AFTER: Before remodeling, the bathroom looked old, without comfort or convenience. The old-style tub was difficult to get into, difficult to clean under and around. Little storage room was available.

WHEN REMODELED—the same bathroom takes on an entirely new look. A new vanity, countertop lavatory, bathtub-shower combination, new tile, etc.—all stress comfort, convenience and ease-of-up-keep.

To make a small bathroom seem larger, color can help. Replace white fixtures with new color fixtures that blend with the rest of the room. Pastel colors will make the room look larger and brighter. An over-sized wall mirror above the lavatory seems to double the room size while providing extra convenience for grooming.

East Carolina swings back into action this Saturday night when the Pirates journey to Portsmouth, Virginia, for a game with Bynum Motors, an independent basketball outfit.

Coach Howard Porter and his club returned to Greenville yesterday afternoon following their week-end road trip which resulted in a split with a couple of the North State Conference leaders.

The Bucs knocked off Lenoir Rhyne Saturday night by an 87-75 score but were unable to handle Western Carolina as the Catamounts romped to a 75-53 victory.

With the exception of Saturday's game at Portsmouth, the Pirates have a chance to rest up before starting down the final stretch of the North State race. ECC, 4-3 in conference play, has seven loop tilts remaining with five of them slated for Memorial Gym.

East Carolina has shown strength at times this season and could make it mighty rough on Western Carolina, Appalachian and High Point when they hit the Pirate's Den, according to some N. S. Scribes.

The next conference tilt for the Bucs is slated for Jan 30 with the pace-setting Catamounts, in Greenville.

Bynum Motors will rate solid underdogs when it takes the floor against East Carolina Saturday night but reports from Portsmouth state that the independent club, made up of former prep and college stars, is no push-over and is fired-up to give the North Carolina college a run for it's money.

Homecoming For Several Pirates

The game will be homecoming for forwards Jessel Curry and Don Smith, both Portsmouth boys. Lanky 6-8 center Joe Plaster is just down the road at Fieldale, Va. and may also provide a drawing card.

Curry was a big star at Portsmouth and is well remembered from his prep days. He was outstanding in basketball, track and football at Portsmouth and is considered one of the top stars produced by that city.

Last season was Curry's first year at East Carolina and he immediately took over the driver's seat and led the club to a 14-5 record and copped All-Conference and All-NAIA honors in doing so.

Curry as a sophomore made his name entirely on the hardwood floor and his name still rings in the ears of most ardent sports fans in the Eastern Virginia area. The lanky 6-5 Smith broke into the starting lineup last season and has been a big man on the boards along with getting his share of the points.

Nichols, Adams in Stride

Along with Plaster, the senior pivot man, Nick Nichols and Charlie Adams will round out Saturday's starting lineup. Nichols, captain of the club, returned to his scoring form this past weekend with 32 points in two outings. The Leaksville native hit a slump following the Christmas holidays and as a result his average dipped to only 10 points per game which is low for the easy-going Nichols.

Adams bagged 72 points in three games before being halted at Cullowhee Monday night. The Cary native was well defended at Western Carolina but continues to lead the club in scoring with a 16.0 average.

ECC will carry a 6-6 over-all record to Portsmouth with three victories in their last four games.

Post-Test Slump Dangers Await Ranking Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kentucky, North Carolina and Kansas State, beware! The record shows that top-ranked college basketball teams times slump when facing their first stiff tests following the mid-year examinations.

A year ago at the midwinter hiatus, West Virginia had a 13-0 record and was the nation's No. 1 team. The Mountaineers won their first game following the break. But their unbeaten skein went by the boards in the next one in a 72-68 upset loss to Duke.

Kansas, No. 2 a year ago, had won 12 games and lost two. But the Jayhawks dropped a 79-75 verdict to Kansas State and were beaten twice more to finish with a season mark of 18-5.

Kansas State, which was ranked third, the same position they hold in the latest Associated Press ratings, was 12-1. State suffered four setbacks in the second half of the campaign and wound up with 22-5.

The current top three teams are idle until next week. Kentucky and Kansas State swing back into action Monday and North Carolina on Friday. Kentucky faces Georgia Tech, Kansas State meets Iowa State and North Carolina plays Clemson.

The only major game on tonight's schedule pits unbeaten Auburn (11-0) against Georgia.

Auburn is the No. 5 team. In last night's games, VMI won its first Southern Conference game in seven starts by edging Virginia Tech 81-78.

Bowling Green handed Kent State its first Mid-American Conference loss 68-59 and Murray, Ky. whipped East Tennessee 73-62 in the Ohio Valley Conference.

VMI made good on 30 of 50 field goal attempts. The Keydets jumped into a big first half lead and cut off Tech's last gasp in the final moments.

The winners had a one point lead with six seconds remaining until Chuck Cotton, who made good on 17 of 19 free throws came through with a pair from the foul line for the final margin.

Kent State's defeat enabled idle Miami, Ohio to take over sole possession of the conference lead.

Bowling Green broke fast after the intermission to snap a 23-all deadlock and pull away by 13 action Monday and North Carolina on Friday.

Two West Point Vets In Line For Blaik's Job

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—

Dale Hall and John Green were two of Army's finest football players. But they played in the reign of Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis, Army's most famous football players and their talents were overshadowed by Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside.

Today Hall and Green, who have become fine football coaches, figure heavily in speculation on who is to follow Earl Blaik, Army's most famous coach, whose resignation is effective Feb. 15.

Both Hall, a former halfback, and Green, an All-America guard, have a big item in their factor-tradition.

Not since World War I has anyone but a West Point graduate coached football at the academy.

Hall, who has been Army's head scout and defensive backfield coach, lettered in football, basketball and tennis. He was graduated in 1945 and coached an Army team in Germany to the European football championship before serving as an assistant coach at Purdue, New Hampshire and Florida.

He returned to West Point in 1956. Green captained the 1945 unbeaten team. He was graduated in 1946, a year before the "Gold dust Twins," Blanchard and Davis, and joined Blaik's staff immediately.

In 1954, he went to Tulane and is Andy Pilney's top assistant.

The Army Athletic Board is believed to favor Hall.

But the academy superintendent, Lt. Gen. Gar Davidson, will make the final decision. He reportedly favors Green.

But Davidson would say only, "as of today, the field is still wide open."

That's the way it was when Hall and Green carried out the blocking assignments in front of Blanchard and Davis.

Olmedo Leaves Doubles Playoff

ADELAIDE (AP)—Alex Olmedo, the Peruvian U.S. Davis Cup star, withdrew today from the doubles of the Australian National Tennis Championships because of his strained stomach muscle.

Earlier tournament officials had granted Olmedo and his partner, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, a 24-hour postponement of the semi-final doubles match today against Australia's Bob Mark and Rod Laver.

Olmedo is scheduled to play Sweden's Ulf Schmidt in Thursday's singles quarter-finals while MacKay meets Aussie Roy Emerson. However, there appeared little chance that Olmedo would play in the singles, either.

Olmedo was taking heat and massage treatments but his abdomen muscle still was painful. He will not take local anesthetic to kill the pain.

Earl Buchhold of St. Louis reached the semifinals of the junior competition by whipping Alan Shapter, Australia, 6-1, 6-3. Luis Arilla, Spain, also advanced to junior semifinals by beating Geoff Pares, Australia, 6-2, 7-5. Bob Howe and Don Candy upset the top-seeded Australian team of Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson 11-9, 6-3, 7-5 to gain the doubles final against Mark and Laver.

Willy Mays Sign For $80,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—

Star center fielder Willie Mays, who heard both cheers and boos in his first season in San Francisco with the Giants, draws an estimated $80,000 as his 1959 salary.

President Horace Stoneham announced Tuesday night that the fleet player had agreed to terms.

The amount wasn't announced but Willie was believed to have received a $5,000 boost from his runner-up bid for the National League batting championship and its Most Valuable Player award.

Despite a mid-season batting slump that started some of the fans booing, Mays hit .347 for the season, his highest in six with the Giants and second only to Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn with .350.

In voting for the MVP award, Willie placed second to Chicago's Ernie Banks.

Mays, 27, is No. 3 in the major league salary bracket, which is topped by Ted Williams' $125,000 with the Boston Red Sox and Stan Musial's $100,000 with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mickey Mantle received $75,000 from the New York Yankees last season and reportedly is asking $85,000 for 1959.

Stoneham reached agreement in a telephone call with Willie in New York. It was a far cry from last year's spectacular news conference at Seale's Stadium when Willie's 1958 contract was announced.

Last season Mays collected 208 hits, his greatest production, drove in 96 runs and scored 121, more than any other player in the loop. He also led in stolen bases with 32, and slugged 29 homers.

Over six seasons with the club, Mays has hit for a .317 average with 1,111 hits, 216 of them home runs. A stellar fielder, he'll have the advantage this year of not having to contend with a wire fence in front of the Seale's Stadium scoreboard. It's being torn down.

List Of Likely Foes For Patterson Down To Swede

NEW YORK (AP)—The long and sometimes baffling list of likely candidates to meet Floyd Patterson in his next defense of the world heavyweight championship had narrowed today to one today — Ingemar Johansson, a Swede who was disqualified from the finals of the 1952 Olympics for "refusing to fight."

Promoter Bill Rosenzohn said the fight was 90 per cent in the bag and he plans to stage it in Los Angeles, Colorado Springs or New York.

Neither the promoter nor the fighters are the important cogs in the negotiations. They all are merely spear carriers for tempestuous Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager.

"Unless something unforeseen happens, I cannot see any obstacles in the way of a title match," Cus said.

Coming from D'Amato, that is like the weather bureau predicting fair and warm for the next year.

There have been suspicions all along that Johansson—if he could get out of his return bout contract with Eddie Machen, whom he knocked out in the first round last year—would be Patterson's next opponent.

But D'Amato, a suspicious one, found all sorts of obstacles. As late as last Sunday, he refused to talk to Eddie Ahlquist, a Swedish boxing promoter, who lists himself as Johansson's agent.

Rosenzohn, however, persuaded D'Amato to talk to Ahlquist, at least until Johansson shows up.

"The picture brightens pretty much now that Cus and Ahlquist have talked," said Rosenzohn, who promoted Patterson's last defense of his title against Roy Harris.

Patterson, as usual, let D'Amato do all the talking, but in his home in Goteberg, Johansson said: "Of course I am glad for the chance to meet Patterson and I am ready to meet him any time."

Ahlquist probably will summon Johansson, the European champion, here this week to complete plans. Rosenzohn said he could not disclose the financial arrangements, but it was expected that Patterson would get a 40 per cent cut and Johansson 20 per cent. He said the television rights would go on the open market, but that he leaned toward home tv.

Johansson has won all 21 of his professional bouts. His biggest victory was over Machen, a highly regarded American heavyweight, whom he starched last Sept. 14.

Patterson has defended his crown three times since he knocked out Archie Moore in the final of an elimination tournament to decide a successor to Rocky Marciano.

CHAPTER 7.

Outside the hot-dog stand, Ben Floyd said to Murray Kirk: "I wish I could jabber Spanish like you." There was the light of professional interest in his eye. "The counterman was saying something about the numbers game, wasn't he? The bolita. What was that about?"

"Nothing," Murray said. "He told me he stays away from the racket. I don't think he's lying about it, either."

"Well, what did you find out?"

Ralph Harlingen emanated. "I wasn't trying to find out anything from him," Murray said impatiently. "Look, I want to get together with Wykoff. There are questions about Miller's operations, his pay-offs, things like that which Wykoff could clear up in no time. And the only way we'll ever get together is for him to come to me. That's what I want our friend in there to do — shake the grapevine a little and stir up some interest. Then we'll see."

"I don't know," Harlingen said. "Wykoff's been co-operating with the D.A.'s office since they nabbed him. Why would he take any interest in Lundeen's troubles?"

"Because a man like Wykoff wants to know what cards every body is holding. Meanwhile," Murray said to Floyd, "let's get back to the arrest. What did you and Lundeen do after you ate? Keep moving downtown the same way?"

Floyd rubbed a hand slowly over his face, his brow furrowed with concentration. "Well, no," he said at last. "Not exactly."

"What do you mean?" Harlingen asked. "Was Lundeen out of your sight for any length of time?"

"Well," Floyd said, "there's a couple of hotels across the way, and I went over to check them."

"How long was it before you got together again?" Murray asked. "Twenty minutes?"

"It could be. That's about what it was, I guess."

Harlingen looked aghast. "You mean that just before Lundeen arrested Schrade he was off some place where you weren't even in touch with him?"

"I knew where to get in touch with him if I had to," Floyd said. "Where?" Harlingen demanded. "Why don't you ask Arnie about it?" Floyd pleaded. "Why do I have to go talking about it?"

"Because," said Harlingen, his voice heavy with sardonic emphasis, "you'll have to go talking about it."

No Nagging Backache Means a Good Night's Sleep

Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upset or day to day stress and strain. And folks who eat and drink unwisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritation... with that restless, uncomfortable feeling.

If you are miserable and worn out because of these discomforts, Doan's Pills often help by their pain relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys—tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

So if nagging backache makes you feel dragged-out, miserable, with restless, sleepless nights, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Ask for new, large, economy size and save money. Get Doan's Pills today!

It when you're in the witness chair. Where was he for that twenty minutes?"

"Ah!" said Floyd. "Any time we were around Forty-eighth Street he used to take off for one of those flea-bag boarding houses down the block here to see the dame who runs it. Helene something-or-other. She's nuts about Arnie. That's all there was to it that day. Just another call on Helene."

"That's all!" Harlingen said in outrage. "When Miller might have an interest in that woman? When he might be hitting at Lundeen out of plain jealousy? Why would you and Lundeen even try to keep anything as important as this hushed up?"

Floyd said doggedly: "Because of Arnie's girl, that's why! I know she's straight-laced. How do you think she'd feel if she found out about Arnie's seeing a married woman on the sly?"

It wasn't hard to understand Harlingen's train of thought. Lundeen had been caught holding out on him; Lundeen could not be completely trusted any more. Yet Lundeen had apparently acted out of chivalry; he was willing to martyr himself to keep Ruth Vincent's respect. That was something Harlingen could appreciate and condone. But, to go a logical step further, what kind of man could claim Ruth Vincent and still play around behind her back?

Murray said abruptly: "There's no use standing here like this. The smart thing to do is talk to this Helene. If she has anything to do with Miller it might come out that way."

He turned to Floyd, who stood sullenly hunched into his coat, his hands thrust deep into his pockets, a sorry Judas wondering how he had come to this plight. "Where do I find this dame?"

"It's that first brownstone down the block there, right after the warehouse."

The neon sign in the window of the house flickered wildly: OOMS FOR ENT. It said, A man answered the doorbell, a gnome-like little man with a few strands of white hair combed across his head, a waken pallor, and a pair of enormous, fanlike ears. He squinted suspiciously at Murray.

"You looking for a room?" he asked. His voice was as thin and quavering as a note badly played on the E-string of a violin.

"No, I'm looking for the owner. Is she in?"

The man wheezed and coughed. From his expression the sounds were probably intended to be a laugh.

"You mean Helene, she's been lying about it. She's my wife, but I'm the owner. I'm the only owner around here. Every stick and stone here, it's in my name."

"That's fine," Murray said, "but she's the one I want. Is she in?"

"She's in." The man thumbed Murray inside, and carefully closed the door behind him. Then he led the way along a dark corridor which reeked of cabbage and disinfectant to a kitchen at its far end. The kitchen was obviously the center of household life here. At the table in the middle of the room a woman was undergoing some process of beautification. She sat forward holding dripping-wet red hair over a bowl of murky liquid.

"Now what?" she said, and peered through the tangle of hair at Murray. Then she slung the hair back to her shoulders and smiled up at him, a surprisingly young girl with wise, cat-green eyes and a childishly pretty face. "Hey," she said, "you're cute."

The old man seemed indifferent to this. "See that?" he said to Murray, hefting the weight of hair. "Costs eight bucks to do in one of them beauty parlors. Costs me one buck if I do it for her right here. Takes a fool woman not to know how much seven bucks is worth in your pocket."

The girl looked coyly at Murray. "I'm really a natural redhead, but sometimes it needs touching up, and he does it real good. But never mind him. You got any business here?"

"I've got business," Murray said. "I'm handling a law case for somebody named Arnold Lundeen. You know him?"

"Know him! Are you kidding?" "No."

"Mister, Arnie's my boy friend. As soon as daddy here kicks off he and I are getting married. You mean, you're handling his case, and you don't know that?"

The flame of the match he was holding suddenly stung Murray's fingers. He dropped the match, and then with great care ground it out under his heel.

"No," he said, "I don't. But you can see why he didn't want to talk about it. I guess he'd do anything to keep you from getting involved in this mess."

The girl's eyes shone. "That's Arnie, all right. Isn't he the sweetest man thing you ever met up with? I even told him I'd stand right up in court for him, but he said that was O-U-T, out."

"You mean," Murray said, "you'd be a witness for him in court?"

"Sure I would. What's on your mind?" the girl said.

"Do you know this Ira Miller, this bookie guy's supposed to have paid off Lundeen?"

"No, I don't. I wouldn't waste my time on his kind. Look, next time you talk to Arnie, mister — hey, what's your name, anyhow?" Murray handed her his card.

"I'm working with his lawyer."

"Oh, Well, anyhow, Murray, when you see Arnie you tell him to keep on writing me."

"And have him jump on me for bothering you with his lawyer?"

"Oh, Well, anyhow, Murray, when you see Arnie you tell him to keep on writing me."

"And have him jump on me for bothering you with this?"

The girl thought that over happily. "He would, too, the doll. He can be real worrisome sometimes."

"You see? Best thing right now is to keep it to ourselves. Don't tell him anything about it. When we need you in court I'll get in touch with you."

Funeral Profits Dwindling, Too

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The Order of the Golden Rules funeral directors national convention was told Monday by Nelson Hooper of Boston, Mass., that the national average of $682 for a funeral must be increased if the business is to remain on sound terms.

He told the delegates from United States and Canada: "Ten years ago funeral directors realized a 16 per cent profit on a $600-$700 family unit sale, but today that profit has been cut to 12 per cent or less."

The cost of conducting a funeral in 1947 was about $274 compared to more than $450 now, he added.

Rhode Island, the nation's smallest state, has the shortest motto. It's "Hope."

Sandburg Says—

EAST ORANGE, N. J. (AP)—Upsala College conferred an honorary doctor of letters degree on Carl Sandburg 10 years ago. The poet finally put in an appearance at the school Tuesday night to receive the degree.

Sandburg told an audience of 2,500 that he and college President Evald B. Lawson just hadn't been able to get together on an arranged date before.

The 80-year-old Sandburg, who makes his home in the Mountains of North Carolina, played a few folk songs on his guitar and had his usual wide range of comments.

On Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas: "Before the Civil War, official documents used to read, 'the United States are.' The war was fought to say 'the United States is.' Faubus don't know the United States 'is' but he's gonna know."

On the "beat generation": "They're neither a generation nor are they beat. They're eatin' regular."

On modern poetry: "It's a variety of cliques, cliques and movements."

Adobe, a natural clay, has been used for building in New Mexico since prehistoric times.

RECEIVES HARD JAR

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Doris Nichols swears this is how she got a black eye: She stepped out of a car carrying a purse, briefcase and jar of hand cream. She spied a friend and waved. The jar of hand cream flew out of her hand and hit her in the right eye.

Eleven Bail Out As Plane Burns

OLATHE, Kan. (AP)—A flaming engine on a Navy patrol bomber forced 11 men to bail out in a snowstorm Tuesday. All landed safely.

The plane crashed and burned in a pasture near Ottawa, Kan. The two-engine Neptune, based at Glenview (Ill.) Naval Air Station, was on a training mission to San Diego, Calif., when the left engine caught fire 50 miles northeast of Kansas City.

The Olathe Naval Air Station, southwest of Kansas City, started to guide the plane to a landing by radar, but the fire was too hot.

A veteran of three previous emergency jumps, Lt. Cmdr. E. J. Funk of San Lorenzo, Calif., was the pilot.

"I shut off the engine and feathered the prop," Funk said. "The fire seemed to go out."

"We dropped from 12,000 to 8,000 feet as we dropped a ched Olathe. Then the fire started again. I unfeathered the prop to try to blow out the flames. It didn't work."

"When the blaze kept getting hotter, I gave orders to bail out."

The other 10 men dived into the snowstorm from a rear hatch. Funk was cut off by the explosions amidship so he went out through the nose wheel hatch.

The 11 men were strung out over 10 miles when they landed. The men were quickly gathered up by farmers and Olathe NAS ambulances. Only Miller and Puttkammer suffered minor injuries.

GOOD EATING

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The turkey stolen from Chesterfield Heights School here must have been good. The thieves returned a few nights later for a second helping.

$2.50 PT. $3.90 4-5 QT.

THE OLD SUNNY BROOK COMPANY, LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY

THE MOST IMPORTANT $200 IN THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD!

It buys a Buick ESABRE instead...

Look into this personally, before you buy a new car. For just about $200 more than the price of the best models of the three leading low-priced cars... you can own a Buick LeSabre instead. Compare the manufacturers' suggested retail prices posted right on the cars in the showrooms, and you'll see this for yourself.

NOT "STRIPPED", BUT EQUIPPED AS YOU WANT IT

Sometimes you run into price comparisons where the higher-priced car has no extra equipment, and the other has lots of it. This is not what we mean here. We mean only $200 more for a car fitted out the way you want it.

FURTHERMORE, YOU'LL OWN A BUICK

You'll have a fine car, with a fine-car ride, a true fine-car feel. You get a quieter, more substantial car. This year's Buicks have been judged the "outstanding" cars in their field in a recent poll of car owners.

PLUS NEW ECONOMY, HIGH TRADE-IN VALUE

The engineers planned to build noticeably better gas mileage into the '59 Buicks. Reports now in from owners, and careful competitive tests, too, prove they did a very successful job.

Alongside all this, put the good trade-in value which the Buick name and Buick's successful new styling assure... and you can see why we say this $200 difference in price is the most important $200 in the automobile world today.

See your Quality Buick Dealer soon. Let him prove it in detail.

Nurse Will Test 'Drunkometer'

GARWOOD, N. J. (AP)—Mrs. Alice Conway is going to toss down a pint of sherry at the bar of justice. Then, if she flunks a drunkometer test, Magistrate James T. Leonard says he will find her guilty of drunken driving.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged cautiously toward new record high ground in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

The advance was spotty. Gains of fractions to about a point among pivotal issues outnumbered losers but not by very much.

Aircrafts, zinc, steels, tobaccos, chemicals and some rubbers carried the burden of the rise. Rails and most motors declined.

Champion Paper added close to 3 points to its 3 1/2 jump of Tuesday.

A. M. Byers in a delayed opening spurred 4 1/2 then clipped a point from the rise in slow dealings later.

American Telephone stemmed a resumption of profit taking which sent it down a point at the start, erased this loss and showed a net gain of about a point.

North American Aviation was up about a point and Douglas Aircraft more than that.

Ford held steady. American Motors dropped more than a point.

Du Pont added more than 2 1/2 over a point and Royal Duth around a point.

U.S. government bonds edged higher.

Thirty-Six Pupils Named To Farmville Honors Lists

FARMVILLE — Thirty-six Farmville High School students have been named to the school's first term honors list, Principal Sam D. Bundy announced today.

The group includes 14 Honor Roll students and 22 Principal's List students. They ranked at the top of their classes for the first half of the school year.

In addition to the first term honors list, Principal Bundy announced Honor Roll and Principal's List students for the third-six-weeks marking period of the 1958-1959 school year. The marking period honor students include eight who were named to the Honor Roll and 33 who made the Principal's List.

Honor Roll students for the term include (twelfth grade) Gary Bergeron and Richard Dunn; (tenth grade) Nasif Cannon Jr., Johnny Mewborn, J. Y. Monk III, Billy Walker, Gina Allen, Noel Leng, Sandra Smith and Sarah Smith; and (ninth grade) Ben Monk, Jean Allen, Sally Donat and Margie Nichols.

Principal's List students for the first term include (twelfth grade) Gilmer Ange, Nancy Moore, Jackie Nolen and Barbara Rose; (eleventh grade) Earl Tyson, Rod Williams, Jr., Ann Palmer Hodges and Caroline Lewis; (tenth grade) Westley Ange, Eddie Thomas, Monty Pickett, Eva Mae Lewis, Jane Hobgood and Donnie Carraway; and (ninth grade) Rex Hoda, John Owens, Kay Bell, Melinda Dixon, Ann Everette, Billie Sue Forbes, Helen Russell and Fay Smith.

Third marking period Honor Roll students named by Principal Bundy include (twelfth grade) Gary Bergeron and Richard Dunn; (tenth grade) Noel Lang, Pickett, Sandra Smith, Sarah

Interest Grows In Revival Series
Growing congregations and interest mark the mid-winter revival series at Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church now in progress with services each evening at 7:30 o'clock. Pastor Henry Melvin stated today.

Last night was Men's Night in the revival and the evangelist, Rev. Jack Paramore, spoke from the subject "A Good Man That Was Lost; A Bad Man That Was Saved." Using the parable of the Pharisee and the Publican, the evangelist pointed out that although the "good" man was good from the standards of men; unlike the "bad" man of the parable, he lacked that main requisite, the willingness to pray the sinner's prayer: "Lord, be merciful to me a sinner."

Tonight's services are being sponsored by the Official Family of the Church, with Thursday night designated as "Visitors' Night." The revival series will continue through Sunday night. The public is invited.

Hunt Says American Education Will Prove Superior To Soviet Schooling

Describing education in the Soviet Union to an audience at East Carolina College last night, Dr. Herold C. Hunt, Eliot Professor of Education at Harvard University, pointed out that though great progress has been made there in the forty years since the Revolution "Our system is going to prove superior in the long run."

"If we can develop the full potentialities of our mentally gifted students," the Harvard educator said, "there is little doubt that American education will prove to be better."

Dr. Hunt based his remarks on thirty days' observation of Russian schools. In the spring of 1958 he was a member of an official delegation from this country who under a cultural exchange agreement studied Soviet education at first hand.

Among chief characteristics of the Russian system, he said, are the total commitment of the Soviet government and of the people to education, the powerful motivation of the Russians to attain a position of supremacy in all types of endeavor, and the regimentation that marks the type of training given in Soviet schools.

Soviet commitments to education, Dr. Hunt explained, is indicated by the fact that before the Revolution 80 per cent of the 200 million people were illiterate and now the literacy rate has been reversed.

Fifteen per cent of the Soviet economy, he continued, is channeled into education. In the United States, he said, the figure is three per cent.

Free education in the Soviet Union, he stated, is available to people from two and a half months to forty-five years of age. Compulsory education starts at age seven and continues for ten years in the cities and seven years in rural areas. Among those who qualify for higher education, eighty per cent receive a substantial stipend, more than enough for board, room, and books, he said.

"Nowhere," Dr. Hunt stated, "have I seen a people so highly motivated as in the Soviet Union."

Economic competition between the United States and Soviet Union receives great emphasis there, he said. Posters reading "Take and Overtake America" indicate the Soviet ambition. The aim of exceeding us in world production and world trade provides a powerful motivation for exceeding us in education, he stated.

Soviet education, he continued, differs markedly from our system in the emphasis upon regimentation there. The objective is to develop a person who will conform in a planned state and a planned economy, he explained. Instruction, he said, is extremely formal, and no premium is placed on originality or resourcefulness. In addition, he said, Marxist concepts dominate the curriculum.

No controversial questions are discussed in the Soviet classroom, he said. "Nobody among students seemed interested in introducing such questions," he added.

School buildings in the Soviet Union, Dr. Hunt said, are far less good both architecturally and structurally than those in this country. Equipment, he continued, is generally adequate and is particularly good in science. He said that he observed little use of films in the schools and that educational television is non-existent.

"To discount Russia," Dr. Hunt said in conclusion, "would be to do Russia and this country a disservice." Education in the views of people there provides a way of realizing the ambition for supremacy, he stated, and they believe they have "the will to push forward and the energy to achieve their aims."

Dr. Clinton Prewett, head of the psychology department at the college, presided at the meeting last night. President John D. Messick of East Carolina introduced Dr. Hunt to the audience.

Members of the Pitt County Executive Club will hear a report on situations in Europe, the Middle East and North Africa at their meeting Saturday at 7 p.m. in East Carolina College's North Dining Hall.

Robert Kazmeyer, author, lecturer, traveler and observer of world conditions for the past 12 years, will be speaker at the club's meeting, announced today by President Robert D. Rouse, Jr., of Farmville. His report Saturday will be based on personal observations made during the past summer when he was abroad.

A native of Rush, N. Y., Kazmeyer is a former Methodist minister who has devoted his time to writing and speaking since 1938. As a business analyst and lecturer, Kazmeyer has grown in popularity in the United States and Europe during the past 12 years. While in this area, he will be a guest of Edmund Harding of Washington, who will also attend Saturday's meeting.

Sixty-four miles east of Sun Valley, Idaho, is an extinct volcano region occupying about 75 square miles. The last volcanic outbreak occurred about 400 years ago.

Both parties of a two-car accident were charged this morning when a 1953 auto and a 1954 auto collided at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Greene Street.

Ralph Wendell Dixon, a 22-year-old Negro, of Rt. 2, Box 561, Grifton, driver of the 1953 vehicle, was charged with operating his auto to the left of the center line of the street. Francis Marshall Andrews, 19, of Rt. 2, box 168 Greenville, was charged with improper brakes.

Both cars were damaged approximately $500.

Police yesterday received two isolated complaints involving rocks or bricks being thrown at passing autos. One of the incidents occurred on Fifth Street and the other on Pitt Street.

Willie R. Williams, of 100 West 1st Street, told police that someone tossed a rock through his rear windshield at 7:40 p.m. on Pitt Street. Damage to the auto was estimated at $60.

M. P. Milne, of Rt. 3, Box 5, Greenville told police that a rock or brick was tossed at his car at 11:25 p.m. on West Fifth Street yesterday. The brick struck the auto near the top of a front window, just above Mrs. Milne's head. The culprits in both cases could not be found.

Eastern Division Band Clinic Program Arranged Feb. 6, 7

The 1959 All-State Band Clinic, Eastern Division, meeting at East Carolina College Friday and Saturday, Feb. 6-7, will bring to the campus as music director Nilo W. Hovey, educational director of H. and A. Selmer, Inc., Elkhart, Indiana, and as special lecturer-demonstrator Phil Grant, vice president of the Fred Gretsch Drum Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

More than 100 selected student musicians representing 27 high schools in Eastern North Carolina will attend the clinic; receive instruction from experienced teachers and band directors from the college faculty and public schools of the state; and, as members of the Clinic Band, appear in a public concert Saturday night, Feb. 7, in the Wright Auditorium. Herbert L. Carter, director of bands at East Carolina College, is in charge of arrangements for the two-day event.

Mr. Hovey has had more than 30 years of experience in directing high school and college bands. Formerly chairman of the Music Education Department and director of the Concert Band at Butler University, Indianapolis, Indiana, he has for a number of years been in demand in this country and Canada as lecturer, clinician, adjudicator, and guest conductor. More than 50 published works edited or written by him include "The Administration of School Instrumental Music" and "The Selmer Band Manual."

At the Clinic Mr. Hovey will organize the Clinic Band, rehearse with members, and act as conductor at Saturday's concert. Mr. Grant, who has been percussionist with the Goldman Band in New York, will conduct a series of lecture-demonstrations on the percussion instruments for band directors attending the clinic.

As a special event of the Clinic, the East Carolina Concert Band, with Mr. Carter as conductor, will present a public concert Friday, Feb. 6, at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis Auditorium.

Drivers Charged In Auto Collision

Two quick fire alarms brought trucks out this morning, first to a burning truck, then to a S. Pitt St. dwelling.

The first call came from a box at Center and Dickinson Ave. where the gasoline tank on a truck had caught fire. The flames had been extinguished when firemen arrived.

The vehicle is owned by Rossor and Richards Pipe Co. and was operated by Charles Sutton. That call came at 6:30 a.m. At 6:55 a second alarm was sounded bringing firemen to 1211 A S. Pitt St. The fire fighters reported there was no fire, however. The occupants of the dwelling were said to have smelled smoke.

Owner of the house was listed as Joe Taft. The occupant was Gladie Dupree.
