Pennsylvania Flood Loss Runs Into Many Millions Of Dollars

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—A flood that caused millions of dollars damage in Pennsylvania rolled down the Ohio River Valley today with diminishing force.

In areas west and south of Pittsburgh the crest swept past at lower than predicted levels and with relatively slight damage.

East Liverpool, Ohio, reported the worst was eight feet above the city's theoretical flood stage but damage was only minor.

Many huge freight-carrying barges, ripped from their moorings, streamed down the river on the ice-choked tide.

Some banged into bridge pillars with shuddering impact. One snapped a guy wire of the suspension bridge at Wheeling, W.Va.

Spectators said the sound was like the twanging of a giant guitar.

Worst Pennsylvania floods spots this morning were far up on the Ohio headwaters, at Meadville, Pa. and at Sharon, Pa.

A two-mile long ice jam choked French Creek, backing record high waters into Meadville.

Fire officials aiding in the rescue work said 1,500 were homeless. Roads to the south were blocked.

Residents of Sharon, 45 miles northwest of Pittsburgh, found the heart of their city under water for the second successive morning.

The Shenango River which overflowed Wednesday night stood three feet deep in parts of a 10-block area of the business district.

Some 800 persons were housed in emergency shelter or with friends.

Downstream at New Castle, Pa., the Shenango was receding a half inch an hour after cresting at midnight.

Far to the east in Pennsylvania, rescue workers sought to stem the flow of the swollen Susquehanna River into a mine at Pittston.

Three men drowned when the river punched through into the underground mine chambers Thursday.

'Miss Greenville' Pageant April 9

The Miss Greenville Beauty Pageant will be held April 9 in Wright Auditorium, it was decided by Jaycees at last night's meeting.

Clarence Tugwell will serve as chairman of the project.

"In view of the wonderful success last year, we plan to have the most elaborate local pageant ever," Tugwell said.

He noted that the pageant will be held in 2,500-seat Wright Auditorium to accommodate the anticipated audience.

Plans are to install a run-way leading from the auditorium stage into the audience similar to the set-up used for the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City.

A professional master of ceremonies and a band are expected to be on hand for this year's pageant.

A feature of the pageant will be the appearance of Betty Lane Evans, who was named Miss Greenville last year, went on to become Miss North Carolina and finally came in among the top five at Atlantic City.

Tugwell said there are expected to be 10 entrants in the pageant this year. They will be sponsored by local civic clubs and college organizations.

The contestants will make three appearances for judging in the pageant. There will be evening dress and swim suit appearances and each girl will present their talent routine.

Ohio Braces For Flood Disaster

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Down along the banks of Ohio's rain-choked rivers whole communities waited today, bracing themselves for the terrible flood crests that have already brought death and destruction and untold misery to tens of thousands upstream.

At least 13 persons have died so far from the floods, and maybe more. No one can estimate the property damage. The destruction has been vast as the rivers, some small, some wide and deep, all turbulent, spilled over and boiled through the towns and cities in their paths.

Firm's Building Damaged By Fire

Fire in the upstairs portion of the Home and Auto Supply Co. on Fifth St. caused considerable damage last night.

However, the flames were beaten down by firemen using booster lines before they got out of control.

Passersby spotted smoke coming from the building located at the intersection of Fifth and Washington Sts. around 7 p.m.

They notified firemen who brought trucks to the scene, only a block from the main fire station.

The fire fighters broke the hump from a door to gain entrance to the stairway leading to the upstairs area. Four booster lines from two high pressure trucks were pulled up the stairs to the fire area.

The flames were located in a closet near the center of the building. Fire had begun breaking out of the closet, however, and the wooden ceiling was badly scorched in much of the upstairs area.

Firemen broke out window panes on the second floor to allow the smoke to escape. The upstairs was used for storage of appliances belonging to Home and Auto Supply.

Some water used in extinguishing the blaze seeped through to the first floor, but firemen covered merchandise downstairs with canvas to hold water damage to a minimum. The downstairs store area was also filled with smoke from the blaze.

Owner of the store is A. J. Garis. The building is said to be owned by F. L. Blount.

Stoically Heard Guilty Verdict; Kills Himself

RICH SQUARE, N.C. (AP)—N. L. Turner, for 20 years superintendent of schools in Northampton County, faced a jury stoically as it pronounced him guilty of embezzling school money.

Turner had proclaimed he was innocent of converting to his own use checks made out to school personnel and suppliers. He had asked Northampton County citizens to withhold judgment until he could show his innocence in court.

Ralph Branch, one of his attorneys, had asserted the charges were politically inspired.

The one charge on which he was convicted involved a $180 check made out by the board of education to a well digging firm in La Crosse, Va.

Although Turner's note said the jury was out only 10 minutes, newsmen timed it at about 20.

When court reconvened, Judge Walter J. Bone told the clerk to let the minutes show:

"Upon the reconvening of court it is made to appear to the court by statement of defendant's counsel that the defendant is dead, and therefore, the action abates."

First Federal Savings and Loan Association shareholders were told Wednesday night their institution had its "best year ever from the standpoint of growth in total assets, savings and mortgage loans."

A report of the organization's growth during 1958 was given by Executive Vice President and Secretary Clarence B. Tugwell at the 22nd annual shareholders' meeting.

"We increased our assets to $7,629,038.31," Tugwell reported. That was a 12 percent increase over the preceding year.

"The past year was especially gratifying because of the increase in the number of savers and the volume of savings," he said. "Our savings, increased by $981,000

At least 13 persons have died so far from the floods, and maybe more. No one can estimate the property damage.

The destruction has been vast as the rivers, some small, some wide and deep, all turbulent, spilled over and boiled through the towns and cities in their paths.

As they tumble downstream, the rivers are threatening still other communities — McConnellsville on the Muskingum River, for example, and Chillicothe on the Scioto.

Down along the southern rim of the state the mighty Ohio River is adding another threat. The Weather Bureau forecasts a crest of 57 or 58 feet—5 to 6 above flood-stage — by Monday. Generally, though, it takes 8 or 9 feet more to do any real damage.

Columbus and Cleveland, among the major cities, were drenched and puddled-stained but otherwise out of flood danger. Cincinnati was never seriously threatened.

Zanesville, Warren, and Fremont were the hardest hit Thursday. Zanesville, at the confluence of the Muskingum and Licking Rivers, had 2,000 evacuees.

At Warren, the Mahoning River burst into the southern part of town and left 600 homeless.

At Fremont, 1,000 fled as the Sandusky River overflowed its banks.

More of the same is expected downstream today. At Chillicothe, for example, south of Columbus, civilian volunteers and national guardsmen have sandbagged the quickly rising Scioto. The river stood at 28 feet Thursday night and was lapping at the sandbags.

The east side is already partially evacuated. Another half-foot rise in the river could mean a disastrous flood.

AT FREEZING LEVEL

The highest temperature in the Greenville area yesterday was 71 degrees. Lowest last night was 32 — freezing, and at 8 a.m. today the thermometer at the Utilities Plant registered 32 degrees.

Light winds during the 24-hour period and Tar River here is at about the 5-foot level.

Pennsylvania Flood Loss Runs Into Many Millions Of Dollars

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—A flood that caused millions of dollars damage in Pennsylvania rolled down the Ohio River Valley today with diminishing force.

Ice was moving out from the upper reaches of the Susquehanna and flood threats appeared to be diminishing.

The flood crest of the Allegheny and Ohio had rolled past Pittsburgh without causing serious difficulty.

High water was reported at Rochester and Midland, Pa.; East Liverpool and Steubenville, Ohio; and Weirton and Wheeling, W. Va.

Wheeling Island and Wheeling Downs race track were partly under water. Most residents had moved to high ground well in advance.

No casualties have been reported.

The most serious danger came from heavy river barges which broke their moorings and swept down river. At least 48 broke loose at Alliquippa and were carried as far as Steubenville.

Many banged into bridge piers and sank. Others ran aground and some hung up on the numerous locks and dams. There were no reports of serious bridge damage.

Although the influx of cold weather appeared, lessening the flood danger in some of the five states, thousands remained homeless. The cold also added to the suffering. Downstate communities still were threatened by further damage and evacuations.

Thousands of workers were idled in Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York as steel mills, coal mines, and other industries shut down because of floods.

Roads were inundated, curtailing travel. Hundreds of schools remained closed.

A state of emergency was declared in many sections of western Pennsylvania and some Ohio cities.

A dozen coal miners were either trapped or drowned when overflows from the swollen Susquehanna River poured into an anthracite mine near Pittston, in northern Pennsylvania.

Thirty-three other miners escaped the rushing waters.

Bake Sale Plans Set

Plans for a bake sale sponsored by the St. Raphael's Student Civics Club for January 27 and 29 were announced Wednesday night at the monthly meeting of the school's Home-School Association. Proceeds from the sale will go toward expenses of the students' Williamsburg tour later in the spring.

Sister Mary Barbara, school principal, addressed the group briefly in a word of thanks for the Association's Christmas gift to the Sisters, a set of devotional books. Co-chairmen Mrs. Aaron Baxter and Mr. Henry Flake reported that the group's needy family Christmas project was highly successful.

After a brief address by Father John Hyland concerning the aims and methods of the Catholic Home-School Association, a short social hour was held. Refreshments were served by the fifth grade room mothers, Mrs. Jimmy Edwards and Mrs. Jesse Moore.

Preceding the evening's meeting, the teachers held personal conferences in their rooms with the parents.

Mrs. Bowen Honors Chatham Book Club

Mrs. C. A. Bowen was hostess to the Chatham Book Club at her home on Library Street Tuesday afternoon. Upon the arrival of the members and invited guests, Mrs. Robert Holt and Mrs. Billy Holt, a salad plate was served.

Mrs. Luther Bowling, president, welcomed the members and guests and then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Percy Upchurch, program chairman. Mrs. Upchurch presented to the club the speaker of the afternoon, one of the members,

Mrs. Rufus Stark, who gave a most interesting and informative talk on North Carolina writers of prose. A short biographical sketch was given of James Davis, the first public printer in North Carolina; Robert Strange who wrote the first N. C. novel with a North Carolina background; John Lawson, first historian to give a detailed account of the Indians and he helped in the incorporation of Bath; Richard Creasy, Janet Schaw, Mary Ann Mason, and many others.

Mrs. Harris Hostess To Club

BETHEL—Mrs. Z. P. Harris was hostess to the Home Demonstration Book Club Tuesday afternoon with nine members and one visitor, Terry Lynn Rogerson, present.

The following reported the number of books read and gave a short resume on each. Since the last meeting number of books read: Mrs. W. J. Taylor, two; Mrs. M. T. Whitehurst, one; Mrs. H. L. Tetterton, two; Mrs. J. A. Edmondson, four; Mrs. R. B. Edmondson, four; Mrs. J. P. Harris, three; Mrs. F. C. James, one; Mrs. A. J. Crane, one; Mrs. Z. P. Harris, two. After books were exchanged the meeting adjourned to meet again in February with Mrs. A. J. Crane.

After the minutes of the last meeting were read and a short business session conducted, Mrs. M. T. Whitehurst conducted a devotional, taken from the Ten Commandments. Her topic was "Thou Shalt Not Covet." She suggested that everyone should make honest efforts to do their best with things honestly gotten and then be content with same. "Because to be covetous always implies getting out of bounds for that which belongs to another," she stated.

At the social hour the hostess served potato chips, toasted pecans, tidbits, crumey pigskins, cucumber pickles, cookies and spiced tea.

Bridge Clubs

BETHEL—Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Mizelle entertained their bridge club in their home on Main Street. Three tables were set up and all places were filled by nine members and three invited guests, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. James and Mrs. Robert Davis.

Whitehurst, Mrs. William Andrews, Mrs. Clara Roberson, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Carson were served a hostess plate with hot coffee, several selections of humorous jokes and stories were given by Rose.

At the conclusion of the game, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Taylor were awarded high score prizes.

The host and hostess served lemon pie and coffee.

Mrs. Carson Hostess

Mrs. Alton Carson was hostess to her bridge club in the home of Mrs. Ralph Carson on Thursday night.

Those present for the game were Mesdames Ralph Carson, William Andrews, James Crandell, Elizabeth Benton, F. F. Pollard, Walter Gray, B. F. Manning Jr., and the hostess.

After the second progression, a salad plate with hot coffee was served.

During the game, club high score was made by Mrs. B. F. Manning Jr. and Mrs. Ralph Carson won floating prize.

Guests Feted

Lester Rose, a humorist, from Raleigh and Mrs. Mack Rose of Wilson were honor guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carson in their home at a bridge and setback party Saturday night.

Dried arrangements and greenery were used to decorate.

Mrs. Clara Roberson won high score in bridge and Mr. Rose won setback high.

After the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Latham, Mr. and Mrs. James Crandell, Mrs. Frank

Three Religions Discussed At WSCS Meeting

BETHEL—The Woman's Society of Christian Service had its monthly meeting Monday afternoon in the Bethel Methodist Church with Mrs. W. P. Thigpen, president, in charge.

After the meeting was called to order, the vice president, Mrs. Bill Johnson, was asked to introduce the speaker, Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst, who gave an informative talk on "Mohammedanism," the name commonly given in Christian countries to the creed established by Mohammed. His followers call their creed Islam.

The theoretical part of this religion embraces: belief in God as sole Creator and Lord of the Universe; belief in angels created of light; belief in the Holy Scriptures; belief in God's prophets; belief in a general resurrection and final judgment, and belief in God's absolute foreknowledge and predestination of all events.

She spoke briefly on Hinduism, the native religions and social system of India based on the idea of function and caste observances. Of Buddhism, the religion of Central Asia based upon the doctrine of Gautama Buddha, she stated that their belief is that the human soul is an emanation of the Deity and after death will be subject to the miseries of life unless by the attainment of wisdom through prayer it secures its reabsorption into the Deity.

Following Mrs. Whitehurst's talk, Mrs. D. C. Speir displayed two placards giving the new year resolutions of W.S.C.S. members.

Mrs. D. T. House Jr. brought to the group some of the goals to be obtained during the next few months.

Luncheon Given Club Members

BETHEL—Wednesday Mrs. Frances Rowlette was hostess at a luncheon in her home on James Street with eight of the Round Dose Book Club and two invited guests, Mrs. J. J. White of Greenville; Mrs. Frank Winesette present.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Rowlette and directed to the dining room where an appointed table covered with a cut work cloth centered with pink carnations in a silver bowl barbequed chicken, cucumber salad, garden pea onions, potatoes with parsley, asparagus casserole, a variety of pickles, coconut snow balls and hot coffee were served buffet style.

The guests were seated at auxiliary tables centered with gladioli in epergnes.

After the luncheon, the guest speaker, W. C. Latham was introduced by Mrs. Curtis Martin, the program chairman. Latham gave a talk characterized by humor concerning his trip to California.

After Mrs. Rowlette presided at a short business session.

Financier, Statesman Topic Of Afternoon Club Program

On Tuesday evening the Aries Club met with Mrs. E. O. Parkinson, Jr., at her home on East Tenth Street.

Mrs. Parkinson gave the short subject for the evening, an article entitled "Housewife's Lament" by Dorothy Pope.

Mrs. Dallas Clark prepared a book review for the program. This was a review of Margaret Colt's "Mr. Baruch, The Man, The Myth, The Eighty Years." She dealt primarily with the personal revelations of the book.

Baruch, financier and statesman, was born in Camden, S. C. in 1870. His family moved to New York City when he was eleven years old in order that the Baruch children would have opportunities for education. He took a job at three dollars a week after he was graduated from City College. In a few years he was a member of the Stock Exchange and could count his wealth in millions in a comparatively short time.

He said publicly in 1953 that he had so little left that people would be surprised. Herbert Hoover once said that he's known Baruch to give a million dollars to the Red Cross without making it public. His gifts varied from $1,000 toward the purchase of the Lee mansion in Virginia to contributions in the hundreds of thousands for army relief and to alleviate the sufferings of war victims in Europe. Of the need of his "own people" the south, he has always been keenly aware. The Annie Griffen Baruch Memorial Scholarship Fund is used for talented students in eleven southern colleges, state and denominational, without regard for color or creed. Among other philanthropies are $5500 for the Charleston Orphanage; a dome for the Shriner Hospital in Greenville; $8,000 for Erskine College; donations totaling some $187,000 to Clemson College, to which in earlier years he had given $25,000 for their poultry department; and $10,000 for work at Sand Hills. He gave depression aid to hardpressed Oglethorpe University in Georgia, and literally saved the life of the institution. Proceeds from the surplus timber on his southern properties are reserved for the South Carolina colleges, and he once said if oil were ever struck on his land, the money must go to the colleges in South Carolina. In 1944 he made an outright grant of $1,100,000 to Columbia, and other universities for research in physical therapy, and in his will stated that practically everything would go toward the development of various schools of physical therapy.

He has been an unpaid adviser to several Presidents of the U.S. but has refused such positions as Secretary of Treasury. He would not become chairman of the National Democratic Committee when his party sorely needed his abilities to rebuild it. He has never submitted himself to the test of an election for public office. It has not been a conviction of inadequacy that has led Baruch from assuming this responsibility, but the unwillingness to risk unfavorable public opinion should he fail.

One might summarize Bernard Baruch as a man whose influence is great, but how much greater he would have been, how much more glorious—had he dared risk failure.

After the business meeting and exchanging of books, Mrs. Parkinson served refreshments consisting of coffee, chocolate eclairs and nuts to the members.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

We would like to remind you—with our usual modesty, of course—that this month marks the Fifth Anniversary of Books and Stuff. We first ran on these pages way back in January, 1954, and here we still are, perky as ever. . . . Since then the REFLECTOR has moved to new quarters, our Editor has had two new additions to his family and your Columnist has had two new additions to his—so it's been quite a five years. . . . Looking back nostalgically to our first efforts, we see that Jessamine West's "Cress Delahanty" had just become a Book-of-the-Month, Sam Shellbark's "Lord Vanity" was heading the best-sellers, "The Robe" had appeared on the list for the 170th week, and Catherine Marshall's "A Man Called Peter" was doing fine. Times, to coin a phrase, certainly have changed—especially when you consider that the two fastest selling novels these days are concerned with far different topics than those that seemed to interest people back five years ago. . . .

Experience
Since we brought up those two best sellers, we'll name them—even though everybody probably knows what they are. "Dr. Zhivago" is on top, Boris Pasternak's controversial story about life before and after the Communist revolution in Russia. Next in line is Vladimir Nabokov's "Invitation to a Beheading," about a displaced Frenchman who likes little girls. . . . Just for the kicks, we are now reading both of them—after all, book editors should be in the know—and we're liking them both, in different ways, of course. When we feel like having our noble instincts roused or being inspired to live the better life and think the higher thoughts, we pick up "Dr. Zhivago." When we feel sort of snide toward the world and want to find some more reasons, we run to "Invitation." So far "Dr. Zhivago" is winning out—a narrow margin, though, we must admit. . . .

Anniversary
January 19 marked the 150th anniversary of the birth of Edgar Allan Poe, still ranked as one of America's great writers and particularly interesting to southerners because his tragic life was closely linked to the city of Richmond, where he was brought up by his adopted parents. This week's Times Book Review carries an informative appreciation of him by Joseph Wood Crutch. Frances Winwar, inveterate biographer of literary figures, also has just completed a new biography of Poe, called "The Haunted Palace." . . .

Local Scene
Heading the billing for Greenville in the coming weeks will be the Little Theatre production of "Caine Mutiny Martial," the stage version of Herman Wouk's famous novel of a Navy captain in a funk. The play takes place in . . .

Why Not Campaign For Hodges?

Will North Carolina's Governor Hodges be in the number-two spot in the national Democratic ticket come 1960?

At least one of North Carolina's editors has come forth with the assertion not only that Gov. Hodges is needed by the Democrats in 1960, but that citizens of the state should begin a campaign to see that he wins the vice presidential nomination.

Henry Belk, veteran editor of the Goldsboro News-Argus, commented editorially this week:

"North Carolina can offer Hodges well and above the favorite son category. He has won for himself in the national Democratic circles a place of responsibility and respect with service in Europe even before he tried politics on his own at home. His broad acquaintance with party leaders throughout the nation would be valuable for the ticket. His acquaintances are found as often in the ranks of influence in the East and Middle West as in the South.

"As a campaigner Hodges would be a great help to the ticket. We have only to think of his success with public relations in the 'sell North Carolina' tours to New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia to recognize this. He is equally at home on radio, television or in the press conference. He is an excellent speaker and definitely of the modern version that relies on logic and not platitudes.

Progress Based On Committees

By LYNN NISBET

COMMITTEES — Most of the work of the General Assembly is performed by committees, appointed by the presiding officers. The number of standing committees is fixed by rules of each branch adopted at beginning of the session. The trend in recent years has been toward fewer committees with less duplication of membership. The Senate used to have more than 50 committees, reduced last session to 29. The House had as many 75, reduced to 44.

Some of the committees have very little work, others are busy all the time. It is not unusual for formal sessions of the House and Senate to run less than 30 minutes, while committees are in session from 8:30 to 5:30 with frequent night meetings.

Committees are appointed by the presiding officers, usually after consultation with each other and with the Governor. Traditionally the money committees—appropriation and finance—have been rated most important. Rules require that any bill appropriating public money or levying any tax, directly or indirectly, must be considered by these committees. This year it might develop that the committees on constitutional amendments and courts would assume more importance.

The 29 standing committees in the Senate under 1957 rules were: Agriculture; Appropriations; Banking; Conservation & Development; Counties, Cities & Towns; Courts & Judicial Districts; Education; Election Laws & Senatorial Districts; Finance; Insurance; Interstate & Federal Relations; Journal, Engraving, Enrolling & Printing; Judiciary I; Judiciary II; Manufacturing, Labor & Commerce; Mental Institutions; Penal Institutions; Propositions & Grievances; Public Health; Public Utilities; Public Welfare; Retirement — Employment Security; Rules; Salaries & Fees; State Government; University Trustees; Veterans and Military Affairs; Wildlife.

The 44 House committees are: Agriculture; Appropriations; Banks & Banking; Commercial Fisheries & Oyster Industry; Commission & Institutions for the Blind; Congressional Districts; Constitutional Amendments; Corporations; Counties, Cities & Towns; Courts & Judicial Districts; Drainage; Education; Elections & Election Laws; Employment Security; Enrolled Bills; Expenditures of the House; Federal & Interstate Cooperation; Finance; Health; Higher Education; Institutions for the Deaf; Insurance; Journal; Judiciary I; Judiciary II; Justices of the Peace; Local Government; Manufacturers & Labor; Mental Institutions; Propositions & Grievances; Public Buildings & Grounds; Public Utilities; Public Welfare; Roads & Highway Safety; Rules; Salaries & Fees.

Senatorial Districts; State Government; Teachers' & State Employees' Retirement; Veterans' Legislation, and Wildlife Resources.

Long-standing custom has been to name every member on either the appropriations or finance committees, and to put every lawyer on one of the "J" committees. The designation J-I and J-II means nothing except to divide the work. Custom also has been that the money committees meet every afternoon, other committees generally in the morning or at night. There is growing sentiment that legislative process could be speeded up and made more efficient with much fewer committees, less duplication in membership and conflict in meetings.

The money and judiciary committees and those on agriculture, education, health, roads, welfare and local government are generally assigned full-time clerks. Clerk assignment to other committees depends upon volume of work and varies from year to year. Chances are the forthcoming session will require full time clerks for the committees on courts, constitutional amendments and government organization.

PUBLIC HEARINGS — A goodly part of committee time is taken up with public hearings. Only members or former members and officers of the General Assembly, State officials and those especially invited may appear on the floor of the Senate or House during regular sessions. Committee meetings are commonly open to public attendance and participation and requests by interested citizens to be heard on pending legislation are seldom denied. It is inherent in North Carolina concept of popular government that no citizen will be taxed without opportunity to present his side of the case. Similar courtesy is extended to any person interested in the passage or defeat of laws affecting local government, wildlife and water resources, health or general welfare.

One reason for the multiplicity of committees with limited jurisdiction is the necessity for frequent coincidental public hearings. It is not unusual for a dozen such sessions to be in progress in different rooms at the same hour.

INFLUENCE — Committee action is not final but is tremendously influential, especially on the negative side. No bill can be enacted into law without a majority vote of the membership in both branches. But it a committee brings in an unfavorable report it is difficult to get the bill on the calendar for full membership action. Once a bill has been "killed" in committee matter cannot be considered again during that session of the Legislature.

"The Democrats need Hodges. North Carolina should organize a campaign in his behalf."

Gov. Hodges has been mentioned often in recent months as a possible Democratic choice for the vice presidency in 1960. It is becoming apparent that the words and actions of Democratic Chairman Butler may make it difficult for the party to hold all the South in 1960. The choice of a Southerner for the vice presidency would almost surely prevent any sort of walk-out or read-out of Southern delegations from the party.

At the same time Hodges' business-like administration during his period of governor of North Carolina has earned for him respect and admiration in all parts of the nation. As much as liberal and conservative wings of the party—and his record doubtlessly would appeal to many Independent voters and Republicans as well.

Those points cannot be overlooked in a national political campaign.

The editorial suggestion of the Goldsboro-Argus that North Carolina organize a campaign to secure the nomination of Gov. Hodges as vice president on the Democratic ticket should be taken up throughout the state. And though the national convention is more than a year away, it is not too early to begin such a campaign.

So The Lambs Played Host To Hungry Wolf

Anastas Mikoyan had his reasons for touring the United States; no doubt about that. But what in the world were American industrialists and big businessmen doing?

Wining and dining . . . listening and applauding . . . talking trade possibilities with the deputy premier of Soviet Russia.

Alice In Wonderland involves some fanciful scenes but the Mikoyan visit had its moments of the ridiculous, too.

There's room for simple courtesies in our country, even for a sworn enemy. But we've seen financiers, manufacturers and the "aristocrats" of capitalism fete a man who would cannibalize them in one sweep if he had the opportunity.

Lofty talk of opening up trade between Russia and the United States is deflated by remembering they have nothing to trade us in exchange for all the things they need from American producers and processors. Even their credit is bad. They owe Americans billions of dollars and won't discuss the matter.

Mikoyan looked and sounded pretty good in his public press meetings . . . but that should have been no surprise. He must have looked and sounded good to Communist leaders for a long time, too; he was never touched by the series of purges beginning since origin of the Communist regime. Yet, some Americans watched, listened . . . and nodded approvingly "he's right," or "he's a reasonable sort of a guy."

That was the impression he wanted to make.

Mikoyan helps decide the fate of every slave nation in the Soviet sphere . . . and where ever he went in this country there were some who knew, first-hand, what that meant and were willing and anxious to demonstrate against him.

Themes Resting On Thin Ground

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's two main themes this week — keep down spending and avoid inflation — are both based on the thin foundation of hope. It's thin, indeed.

The budget he sent Congress Monday — ironically, it's the biggest of all peacetime budgets but still not big enough to please everyone — called for spending 77 billion dollars in the next fiscal year.

Along with it Eisenhower dangled before the country the prospect that if spending can be kept down to 77 billion an expected rise in revenue may balance the budget.

This is a nice thought, even though it calls for razor-thin figuring. But it's strictly a hope, for two things can go wrong and knock the arithmetic through the roof:

1. The revenue may not turn out to be as high as he hopes. That would throw the budget out of balance and mean red ink even if Congress keeps spending down to 77 billion.

2. Congress may decide his spending figure is much too modest to meet national needs, up the spending, and throw everything out of balance, even if revenue turns out to be 77 billion.

Then in his Economic Report to Congress Tuesday Eisenhower, holding out the vision of a surging and prosperous year, said that inflation could spoil the rosy outlook.

So he called for self-discipline and restraint by business in raising prices, and labor in demanding higher wages.

But he was less specific Wednesday at his news conference.

If the desired results cannot be achieved under our arrangements for determining wages and prices, the alternatives are either inflation, which would damage our economy and work hardship on millions of Americans, or controls, which are alien to our traditional way of life . . .

That was Tuesday in his Economic Report. At his Wednesday news conference he was asked what controls he had in mind.

"No, I don't have controls in mind . . . because I despise them," he replied. "And I believe it is not truly a free economy if we are going to have federally imposed controls, and I want to try every single thing that is possible."

"But I do say if you get mounting inflation and we will not discuss it. Something will have to be done."

He didn't say what that something might be.

But even as he talked, the AFL-CIO was getting ready to reject his call for holding the wage line. The big labor organization is expected to say soon that workers don't earn enough now in relation to the rest of the economy.

Across the country labor unions were reaching out for good-sized wage boosts in aircraft, chemicals, rubber, steel, aluminum, electrical manufacturing, maritime and railroad industries.

Labor agreements covering around three million workers run out this year. With business improving, as Eisenhower noted, unions are apt to set their sights higher. If wages go up, it's a pretty safe guess prices will, too.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

YET TO COME

Every group of truly creative thinkers in the world are thinking in terms of some long-range plan. The able college president is not just thinking of the next dormitory; he is thinking of a campus plan and a curriculum plan which extends several generations ahead. Little pint-sized politicians think only in terms of the next election; statesmen think in terms of the next generation of public affairs and offices. Some few scientists are satisfied to squint through microscopes or drone-along before blackboards to the exhaustion of a room full of students. But the great scientists are thinking of tomorrow's discoveries, those of the coming years, those which will turn waste places of the earth into gardens of loveliness, invalids into robust persons, the vehicles of today into the inconceivable and almost super-human vehicles of tomorrow.

Don't waste time on short thoughts. What is life worth if it means only reluctant drudgery during the day, TV or the movies at night, a $5.00 a week raise at New Year, and a chance to quit right at birthday sixty-five and stretch out the legs and naps?

Is this living? Think of life in terms of bigness — in terms of creative enterprises which go up and up until they vanish from sight amid dazzling sunshine. Don't let a little bit of anything satisfy you. Live with big thoughts, big hopes, big plans. The best is yet to come.

Secret Service Guards The President

The Family Is Growing

The Daily Reflector's official family has been expanded again.

The expansion is a sort of left-handed one, since Anne Singleton isn't exactly a member of the staff now. But, we'll claim her new baby as a fledgling staffer, anyway.

Paul Lester Singleton, Jr., all six pounds, ten-and-a-half ounces of him, made his way into the world Monday afternoon. He's presently residing at the Talahassee Memorial Hospital in Talahassee, Florida.

His mother, former Women's Editor of The Reflector, has forwarded this unbiased account of him: "He looks so much like Paul, except that he is very blond with just tuff for hair."

Poppa Paul is a Lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force, stationed in Bainbridge, Georgia. He is an ROTC graduate of East Carolina College, and the cause of Anne resigning her job here last summer.

The Singletons have been in Georgia since Paul returned to active duty, but will move in the next month or so to Texas where Paul will enter an Air Force navigation school. He's a Regular Air Force officer, looking forward to at least 30 years as a flier.

All of this business about Paul's Air Force commitments and Anne's wifely obligation to follow her husband where Uncle Sam sends him might make it difficult for us to get a firm hold on Little Paul, but we'll try. After all, it's pretty hard for a little squirt like that to defy tradition.

Now — if we can get a few other folks in the office in the act, The Daily Reflector can be assured of a full staff for all kinds of years to come.

Changing the subject, any one who loves to curl up by the fire with a good Russian-language book will, no doubt, be tickled to death to learn that the University of Michigan Press will publish "the original, authentic Russian text of 'Doctor Zhivago', as written by Boris Pasternak."

"Doctor Zhivago" is, of course, the book which won this year's Nobel Prize for Literature for Pasternak (which he wasn't allowed to accept), and is probably one of the most discussed publications in the world at the present time.

The book hasn't been published in Russia and the University of Michigan's Press heralds the forthcoming publication "in the language in which it was written" as " . . . an important service to world literature."

The 576-page volume will be released February 2 at a price of $6.50 per copy. The price isn't bad at all — if you understand Russian. I don't.

Other Editors Saying... Opinions In Brief

Needed: Aroused Judges

(Greensboro Daily News) Judge J. Will Pless of Marion started Buncombe County Superior Court last week when he ordered all defendants having cases on appeal—some 200 of them—to be present in court this week.

The judge was angry—and rightly so—about the cluttered condition of Buncombe County's docket. He blamed much of the trouble on unwarranted filing of appeals from lower courts.

Many defendants tried in the lower courts will take appeals when they are not justified in taking them in the hope, not altogether unfounded, that their cases may later become lost or non-prossed.

Congestion breeds congestion. We cannot continue to accumulate cases based on appeals not justified. If so, we could hold court here every day for year or two and still not clear up this docket.

Judge Pless was rightly concerned about the "drastic condition" of Buncombe's docket. The same conditions exist elsewhere in North Carolina—and only the determination of able and intelligent judges can do something about it under our present system of courts.

North Carolina surely wants to continue the independence of its judiciary, but too much independence breeds chaos. Under present conditions judges may exercise as much judgment and initiative in clearing up jammed dockets as they desire.

If they leave the job to somebody else—a new judge is always coming along under rotation—nobody, save a few members of the bar, will be the wiser. A Superior Court judge is pretty much his own boss. Nobody publicizes the volume of work he is doing—or not doing.

Or he may, as Judge Pless has done, throw the fear of the Lord into procrastinating lawyers and defendants hoping to evade justice by exhausting an overloaded court's patience.

Yet many people in North Carolina—most of them lawyers—still insist North Carolina should pay no attention to the need for court reform. They look on the N. C. Bar Association's three-year study of the courts as something superfluous, a lot of high-falutin' figuring done by "outside experts."

Still, the cries of outrage about court conditions in certain parts of the state will continue to be heard wherever conscientious judges have the courage and the energy to speak out.

Judge Pless was not crying in the wilderness.

"The increase in the number of bankruptcies may not mean that business, in general, has gone to pot. It does mean that some people have stuck their necks out too far. The creditors lose all chance of collecting and the debtors suffer the humiliation of being declared insolvent. The debtor also yields any assets he may have, beyond a few personal possessions, and has to start over from scratch. Surprisingly, many debtors who are discharged as bankrupts, can begin at once to accumulate new debts. They cannot go bankrupt again for six years but they can be mighty slow pay."—Chenango Union, Norwich, N.Y.

"The latest role in which Elvis Presley has been cast by East German Communists is his best for our money. He is a draftee in Germany. They call him the West's Pied Piper of Hamelin, luring their youth away from their ideology. Good for Elvis. We knew the boy had some good in him."—Laurel (Miss.) Leader-Call.

"Certainly it is a matter for sober reflection that our court of last resort has so patiently veered off the main highway of valid judicially as to be drawing such vituperative reproof from responsible members of the legal

Success Has Its Price

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Curbsome comments of a Pavement Plato:

The one thing the rest of the world feels surest of about the average American is this: That material success is his god.

And the rest of the world couldn't be wronger.

Great material success is admired rather than worshipped by the average American — just as he admires achievements in any form, whether it be in the art of home run knocking or hula hooping. He even has a sneaking admiration for a successful bank robber — so long as the fellow doesn't spill blood.

But material success isn't the major goal of the average American. It is only one of his major daydreams. But he doesn't want it bad enough to make his dream come true.

Take yourself, as an average American. Why aren't you a success?

You probably can't, with honesty, put the blame on fate, your boss or your wife. You can't even blame it on the fact you were born dumb and never outgrew it. The chances are you aren't a big success simply because it isn't worthwhile to you. There simply are other things more important to you.

In my work as a reporter I have interviewed perhaps 2,000 "successful" people over the last quarter century. Asked the reason for their success, about 99 out of 100 gave the same answer: "Hard work. The successful person would credit it to 'getting the breaks,' or admit, off the cuff, he inherited success or married into it.

Many successful people I have met have lacked the charm, personality and even the talent I have found among other men so spectacularly unsuccessful they couldn't buy their way into the city dump. They aren't nearly as much fun to be with.

One difference between the successful man and the average man is obvious. The average man has credit. The successful man has credit plus something else — it is called money.

But there are other differences. The big one lies in how they use their energy. The successful man concentrates his energy and directs it to a single aim — the winning of success. Everything else is secondary. The average man isn't that single-minded.

Does the successful man himself regret the price he had to pay to get where he is? Often he does — in a very wistful human way. But there is a limit to his regret.

The average man sometimes likes to boast he wouldn't trade places with the most successful man he ever knew. The successful man returns the compliment. He isn't interested in changing places either.

No matter how stern the cost of success, the last thing a successful man ever met, was willing to give up was — success.

"Apparently the world is completely unaware of the debt it owes to lazy men. They are the ones who have devoted lifelong study to ascertain easier ways to do the world's work. In their zeal to remove the sweat from those who have to earn their keep the hard way they have learned to do a great many things with infinitely less labor than was necessary at one time." — Daily Oklahoman.

"What the Kremlin wants is this city. Nikita Khrushchev's threats to Berlin are most emphatically not primarily intended to force the West to recognize the East German government, or to promote German confederation, or to produce another summit conference. They are primarily intended to secure the surrender of free Berlin." — Joseph Alsop.

"Looking ahead for the next five years we must recognize that never has it been so important or imperative that the youth of our nation be trained to high idealism, acquired through unselfish service, by self-reliance and co-operative effort." — Dr. A. A. Schuck, Chief Scout Executive.

Democracy's Inflation Cocktail

By ELMER ROESSNER

Inflation is good.

It is the cocktail of democracy. Yeah, I know! For years your boy has been denouncing inflation. He has called it the hole in the dike of business, the leukemia of the economy.

Now your columnist, with a switch typical of his added thinking, espouses inflation. Like lanolin, filtertips and hexochlorophene, inflation is good for you. Here are some of the benefits:

1. It rewards the smart. The wise ones who put their money in growth real estate and growth stocks gain more than the saps who store the cash in banks, government bonds or insurance.

2. Inflation penalizes the rich and helps the poor as far as it diminishes the real indebtedness of those who owe money and diminishes the equities of those who lend it.

3. Inflation is an incentive for simple people to work harder. The only way they can keep up with rising food prices is by swinging the ax faster or hitting the sng harder.

4. It gets lazy wives off the sofa. Since inflation constantly increases the cost of living, more wives have to go to work to get more income to support their families. Government statistics show that the number of working females has risen directly with inflation.

5. It encourages private enterprise. Workers often get weary of the wage-price rat race, in which they must strike—once every year or so to get enough to keep even. They go into business for themselves, adding to the number of free enterprises in the country and eventually to Dun & Bradstreet statistics.

6. Inflation penalizes those who imitate the ants. It reduces the buying power of hoarded money and rewards the grasshoppers who, living for the day, spend their income.

7. It keeps oldsters out of mischief. Because their savings are attenuated and Social Security benefits rise slower than prices, old people must keep to patently veered off the main highway of valid judicially as to be drawing such vituperative reproof from responsible members of the legal fingerails, bright teeth and the Boy Scout oath.

ANSWER TO THIS QUESTION WOULD SEEM TO BE "YES"

Says the Reporter of Direct Mail Advertising:

"Can't some of you publishers and mail order promoters invent some better attention devices than phony coded 'exclusive rights' imprints on envelopes, discount stamps inside, credit okay, untruthful personal account codes? These things may have been effective years ago when originated. But now with more and more copycats using them, the public is unimpressed and irritated, especially when two or more pieces are received by the same individual with the obviously phony code numbers. We'll probably be told off by some of our friends for interfering with a profitable technique. But wouldn't we all be better off eventually by being straightforwardly honest?"

Jesus Reveals His Authority

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Busscher

Scripture—Matthew 21:1-27.

As Jesus and His disciples came near the village of Bethphage, He sent two of the disciples into the village, telling them to bring Him an ass and colt that they would find, telling anyone who asked that He had need of them.—Matthew 21:1-3.

When the animals were brought, the disciples put their clothes on them, and set Christ on the ass. A great multitude spread their garments in His path, crying, "Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord."—Matthew 21:6-9.

Christ cast out money changers and merchants from the temple in Jerusalem, saying it was God's house of prayer, and they had made it a den of thieves. He healed the sick and lame who came there.—Matthew 21:12-14.

Seeing Christ's miracles, the temple authorities asked Him by what authority He did those things. He asked them a question which they refused to answer, and He refused to tell His authority.—Matthew 21:23-27. MEMORY VERSE—Matthew 7:29.

Jesus Reveals His Authority

CHRIST'S ACTS, JUDGMENTS AND WORDS MAKE HIS ENEMIES DEMAND THE SOURCE OF HIS POWER AND INFLUENCE

Scripture—Matthew 21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. THIS LESSON might be introduced to the younger children, suggests Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, by talking to the children of the authorities they know—the parents in their homes and their teachers. The teacher has authority in accepting or rejecting excuses for absence, in the child's department during class hours, in study habits during school hours, etc. After the child leaves the school grounds, the teacher has no authority over the pupil. The older classes, Dr. Wilbur M. Smith suggests, might have the lesson introduced in a similar manner except that their question "should involve those areas in which the government may or may not exercise authority." When an ordinary motorist is driving along a road, another has no right to stop the first and ask to see his driver's license. A police officer, however, does have that authority. This introduction could lead to interesting discussions of authority in the students' lives. Jesus and His disciples were on their way to Jerusalem on the others cut down branches from the trees, and strawed them in the way. And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, . . . Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest. "And when He was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this? And the multitudes said, This is Jesus the prophet of Nazareth of Galilee."—Matthew 21:7-11. This was doubtless the same multitude that cried "crucify Him" the following week. So Christ rode in triumph into Jerusalem, where He went to the temple and cast out the merchants and overthrew the tables of the money changers. He said to them, "It is written, My house shall be called the house of prayer; and ye have made it a den of thieves."—Matthew 21:12. "The vast throng of foreign pilgrims, and the necessity laid on them of changing their foreign coinage with its heathen symbols for the half-shekel of the sanctuary, would make the trade of these men at this time a very thriving one: their percentage threshold of Holy Week, although Christ knew that He would be put to death there.

was one-twelfth of each shekel," R. C. H. Lenski writes, as quoted by Dr. Wilbur M. Smith.

On their way they came to a village of Bethphage (a place that is not mentioned in any other place in the Bible, Dr. Wilbur M. Smith tells us). Jesus sent two of His apostles to the village, telling them that they would find "an ass tied, and a colt with her loose them and bring them unto Me. And if any man say ought unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them, and straightway he will send them."—Matthew 21:1-3.

When Christ was in the temple, the chief priests and elders of the people came to Him, asking, "By what authority doest Thou these things? and who gave Thee this authority?" Jesus countered with a question for them: "The baptism of John, whence was it if from heaven, or of men?" They reasoned among themselves, saying, "If we shall say, From heaven; He will say unto us, Why did ye not believe him? But if we shall say, Of men; we fear the people; for all hold John as a prophet.

"All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, Tell ye the daughter of Zion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass."—Matthew 21:4-5. It was done as Jesus commanded: the two brought the ass and colt "and put on them their clothes, and they set Him thereon. "And they answered Jesus, and said, we cannot tell. And He said unto them, neither tell I you by what authority I do these things."—Matthew 21:23-27. Whose authority but that of God, His Father, could give Christ the power to perform His miracles of healing and give us His message, which is as potent today as it was two thousand years ago?

The Sport Scope

by Johnny Hudson

Coach Jack Boone and his 1958 football gridders will close out their first week of practice this afternoon and things may not look quite as rosy as some scribes are predicting.

On paper the Bucs look much stronger in 1959 than their 6-4 record of the past season. Only five men were lost by graduation but four were halfbacks. Another problem has set in during the early part of this year. Some six other key players have been lost for the winter drills.

Fullback James Speight and quarterback Ralph Zehring are doing their "student teaching" this quarter along with end Howard Beale. All were regulars last season and will miss all but a week of winter drills.

Charlie Cook, regular tackle, is also missing from the ranks as the Wilmington native has left school. Coach Jack Boone was uncertain as to whether Cook would return or not but stated that it was doubtful right now.

Work On Fundamentals

The opening week of drills was spent on working with fundamentals. Boone also pointed out that next week will call for the same although things may get a little rougher.

The initial week also saw a great deal of experimenting and even more is expected before the Varsity-Alumni game wraps things up on March 8th.

The ECC coaching staff feels that the backfield may present the biggest problem. All-Conference Bobby Perry has graduated along with Lee Atkinson, the other starter.

Charlie Bishop and Tommy Nash, a couple of second team halfbacks, are also gone to make the seatback slots look a little dim right now.

James Speight made All-Conference as a halfback in 1957 and may be shifted back to his old position. But the Greenville native will miss winter drills which doesn't help Boone's planning at all.

Glenn Bass showed promise as a sophomore last season but was hurt up and did not gain too much experience. Tommy Matthews, a freshman, came through for the Pirates in the final games of the season but like Bass, experience is lacking.

Boone hopes to be able to count on Mac Thacker, a transfer halfback. Thacker sat out last season after coming from Mars Hill but has looked impressive in opening winter drills.

Changes May Be Made

Boone indicated that there might be many changes made before next September rolls around. "Our depth isn't too strong but we hope to utilize each boy as much as possible" states the likable head tutor.

The next six weeks are expected to be some "trying" ones for the players and coaches. A host of non-scholarship boys are on hand and Boone hopes to get a good look at each man although his biggest job is to get a team ready to go for next year.

Athletes Aren't Given Grades

There use to be a saying that as long as a boy played ball the teachers would pass him in studies. This was not only true in colleges but also in high schools.

A small county school proved that this theory doesn't still work everywhere. Belvoir-Falkland, a school with some 160 students, lost five players due to scholastic reasons this past week.

Standards have increased at Belvoir-Falkland and basketball may suffer this year but it's a safe bet that come next winter things may work out a little different.

Coach Bill Moye, a former All-Conference star at East Carolina, was the victim of the scholastic problems. A couple of Moye's top scorers were lost and everyone thought that his club was wrecked for the remainder of the season.

Moye looked for help on the junior varsity squad and then Tuesday night his team played superb ball to defeat Grimsland 49-35. It was a moral victory for the team.

Tournament time is getting near and the Belvoir-Falkland club may not win the championship but they will have the respect of their county foes for the standards that they have set.

Many other teams in Pitt county may honor the same standards but the case is not true throughout the state. Too many boys are given passing marks just to enable them to play ball. This is not fair to the boy involved, his teammates, his classmates and also to his coach.

Boone And Portermen At Portsmouth For Weekend

East Carolina will be well represented in the fair city of Portsmouth this weekend. Not only is basketball a highlight in the coastal scene but football is still drawing plenty of attention.

Coach Jack Boone, a former gridiron star in Portsmouth, will be on hand for a football banquet Saturday night which will feature Bill Stern as guest speaker. Coach Howard Porter and his hardwood forces will be just down the street as they run up against Bynum Motors, a strong independent outfit.

ECC will carry a 6-6 mark to the sports-minded city and will be slight favorites although plenty of trouble is expected. Both teams boast plenty of scoring power and each has a "big man."

Jessel Curry, sharp-shooting forward, is expected to be the big drawing card. Curry was a "big name" in Portsmouth as a football, basketball, and track star. He is hailed as one of the best athletes to come out of Portsmouth's Wilson High School.

Don Smith is another East Carolina player who hails from Portsmouth. Smith has been sick all week and went home earlier this weekend. Not only is basketball a highlight in the coastal scene but football is still drawing plenty of attention.

Nick Nichols, Charlie Adams, Joe Plaster, and Ike Riddick are expected to join Curry in the starting line-up. The Bucs will be idle after tomorrow night until next Friday when they seek revenge against Western Carolina here.

No Classes

East Carolina College officials have announced that the swimming classes originally scheduled to begin this Saturday at the ECC pool will not be held due to the High School Invitational Swim Meet which will take place there. Classes will resume the following Saturday, on January 31.

Georgia Tech will have 24 seniors on its 1959 football team.

Approximately 82 Swimmers Due For High School Meet

Approximately eighty-two swimmers are expected to arrive on the East Carolina campus today as the Fourth Annual High School Swim Meet gets underway tomorrow morning at 10:00 in Memorial Pool.

The Raleigh Caps, winners of the last two meets held at ECC, have been tabbed as favorites once again. The Whirlies from up Greensboro were named as number one challengers and Myers Park of Charlotte are regarded as "darkhorses."

Chapel Hill, the fourth school in the event, isn't counted out of the running by any means but from past records, the AA school rates a little below her larger brothers.

Coach Ray Matinez stated that these were the only four schools in North Carolina that had swimming teams and that several schools from the Virginia area were invited but due to the school problem, none were able to compete.

The meet, sponsored by the East Carolina Aquatics club, gets underway Saturday morning and finals are expected to begin around 2:30 in the afternoon. Medals will be given to the individual winners following each event in the afternoon round.

There is no charge for the meet and the public is invited.

Johansson Plans Sign Title Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Sweden's Ingemar Johansson was due here from Sweden Friday to wrap up negotiations for a title fight with World Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson.

The handsome, undefeated European titleholder was confident on two counts—he will get the contract and then the crown in the June fight.

"I'm sure I will win otherwise I would never sign my name on the paper," he said. "If you don't believe in yourself, you cannot be a boxer."

He commented on boarding a U.S.-bound plane at Göteborg. Promoter Bill Rosenzohn shared Johansson's optimism that the fight will be made — for New York, Los Angeles or Colorado Springs—despite some puzzling statements by Patterson's manager, Gus D'Amato.

"With Johansson coming on the scene, now we can get busy and expedite the whole thing. I'm hopeful we can get contracts signed early next week," said Rosenzohn.

The New Yorker was the promoter of the Patterson-Roy Harris title fight in Los Angeles last Aug. 12.

It was learned from a good source that the fight is all set. This was told disclosed after D'Amato had said he still was negotiating with other contenders.

D'Amato blasted the International Boxing Club again and accused it of trying to prevent a Patterson-Johansson fight.

Asked point-blank whether there would be a Patterson-Johansson fight, D'Amato replied: "The situation is the same as it was before. I see no obstacles in the way of a title fight between Patterson and Johansson."

Gil Picks Trade Over Pay Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gil McDougald says he would rather be traded away from the New York Yankees than take a pay cut.

"If I accept a cut," the infielder said, "I admit a weakness, and I have to think I don't have any or I'll give the game up."

McDougald said the Yankees' first contract offer for 1959 called for a cut of more than $4,000 from the reported $30,000 he received last season.

Jesse Lemar Gonder, 22, left-handed hitting catcher on the Cincinnati roster, played for Seattle, Monterrey and San Antonio in 1958. He hit a total of 19 homers in 106 games.

Bringing Roy Campanella back into the baseball picture is more than a sentimental gesture on the part of the Los Angeles Dodgers. In addition to earning the applause of the nation's baseball fans, the move is certain to benefit Campanella and the Dodgers.

Roy's new job will help speed his recovery from the effects of the near tragic automobile accident a year ago which ended his brilliant playing career. He will do a job for the Dodgers because he is the type of person who is determined to do a day's work for a day's pay.

Campanella will do a job for the Dodgers—that you may bank on. His vast knowledge of catching technique can serve to polish his successors on the catching staff. His knowledge of the league's hitters, their strength and weaknesses, are other things he can pass along. And the catchers will listen to his advice because of the tremendous respect which all ball players hold for him.

Just having Campy around is going to give the club a great inspirational lift.

Battling Kinston In Benefit Tilt Tonight

PHANTOMITES—Greenville's Junior High School basketballers will engage in a benefit contest with Kinston here tonight at Rose Gymnasium at 7:30. The Phantomites, coached by Algie Faircloth, will take a 1-1 record into the contest. A small admission will be charged in order to raise funds for the school's P.T.A., which will in turn purchase equipment for school use.

McKay Defeats Temper Blow-Up And Aussie Star

ADELAIDE (AP) — Barry McKay overcame a couple of temperamental outbursts today and belted his way into the semifinals of the Australian National Tennis Championships.

The big American from Dayton, Ohio, overcame second seeded Australian, Roy Emerson, 4-6, 10-8, 6-3, 8-6 and thus assured a United States player in the final.

McKay is paired against Alex Olmedo, the Peruvian hero of the U. S. Davis Cup victory, in one of Saturday's semifinals. In the other, top-seeded Neale Fraser meets fellow Australian Bob Mark.

McKay dropped the first set, but pulled out the second when Emerson doublefaulted. Thereafter he seemed to have things all his own way until he blew up.

The explosion came in the fourth set. McKay was ahead 2-1 in sets and 4-0 in games.

The situation changed suddenly as Emerson cleared off five straight points. McKay squared 11: at 5-5, but Emerson again 1 forced ahead at 6-5.

With visions of losing, McKay became edgy and lost his temper. He flung his racket against the ground after missing one point and slammed the ball hard over the backstop and almost into the stands after collecting himself in time. He squared matters at 6-6, broke Emerson in the 13th game, then held service again for the match.

Olmedo, whose celebrated stomach muscle has been acting up all week, continued to take temper tantrums today and announced firmly: "I will play."

Forfeit Threat In Cage Tourney

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Another victory by host Chile and official threats of forfeiture to bulky Russia and Bulgaria left the World Amateur Basketball Championships in a scramble today.

Chile raced to its second straight victory in the final seven-team round robin competition Thursday night, 83-71, over Puerto Rico after Brazil had won its opening game, 94-76, over Nationalist China.

Russia and Bulgaria having refused to play Nationalist China because "they do not represent a nation," now faces forfeiture of all victories by the International Basketball Federation.

The United States, a hand-picked Air Force team, meets Puerto Rico and Bulgaria faces Brazil in Friday's doubleheader.

Racing Champion Knew It Deadly

LONDON (AP) — World Auto Racing Champion Mike Hawthorn was killed in the kind of car crash he said should never happen to a good driver.

The hard-locked wheels of his dark green Jaguar skidded along a quiet, seemingly harmless English road. The car hurtled into a tree. The car was wrecked. Hawthorn was killed outright.

A few weeks ago at the pinnacle of his fame, the handsome 29-year-old Hawthorn declared confidently that a skid was the "absolutely final brand of a careless driver."

"But it happens and you must learn what to do," conceded Hawthorn. Thursday, it happened on a carefree drive through the countryside.

Blaik Lifts Secrecy On His Signals To 'Lonesome End'

NEW YORK (AP) — Col. Earl (Red) Blaik, most prolific and successful in Army's line of football coaches, at last has made public the secret of the "lonesome end."

Blaik broke a four month silence on the method devised to give end Bill Carpenter — who never went near an offensive huddle — the offensive play when he was honored by the Touchdown Club Thursday night.

"You noticed that Caldwell (quarterback Joe Caldwell) would stand facing the huddle sometimes with his left foot forward a bit," Blaik said.

"Well, that meant a run, if the right foot was forward, there was going to be a pass. If his feet were together there would also be a run."

"Now Carpenter had to take various cuts with each play and he would return the foot signal with a signal of his own to tell Caldwell which way he would go. The cut would be the same for a running or a pass play. His signal would be some motion, such as touching his helmet, tugging at his pants, or the like."

"Now wasn't that simple?" he asked as everyone looked at each other wondering whether it was as simple as Blaik described.

But Blaik steadfastly held to another cherished secret, that of his successor at West Point when his resignation becomes effective Feb. 15. Blaik announced his retirement as Army football coach last week after 17 years at the point.

Blaik received the Touchdown Club award for his 25 years as a head coach, eight of which were spent at Dartmouth before he took over at Army in 1941.

As Of Now, Brennan Is Not Planning To Coach

GREENVILLE, S.C. — (AP) — some money from football. The support given the sport makes it possible for many young men to get an education, he said.

Brennan received a standing ovation when he was announced by South Carolina Athletic Director Rex Enright, and seemed moved by it.

Frank Howard, whose Clemson team lost 7-0 to Louisiana State, the national football champions, in the Sugar Bowl, was given the conference Coach of the Year award.

South Carolina halfback Alex Hawkins received the ACC Player of the Year award. His teammate, fullback John Saunders, was given the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as top blocker in the conference last season.

Brennan, who lost his job as Notre Dame football coach despite a winning record, says he's not planning to continue coaching right now.

Erennan spoke Thursday night at the Greenville Touchdown Club's annual Atlantic Coast Conference awards night banquet. It was his first public speech since the dismissal a few weeks ago.

He spoke mostly about football teamwork, rules changes and so forth. On his personal situation, he said only that he has "several opportunities" both in and out of football but that he is treating them in strict confidence.

Brennan said before the banquet he isn't bitter over the firing. "It was his prerogative. I don't agree with the decision and I feel that I'm a good football coach."

He told newsmen "There was no alumni pressure and I got more letters of support than ever last fall. Certainly it wasn't the players; they publicly backed me 100 per cent. I thought my record was good with the schedule we played, for we met the best."

He told about the Touchdown Club guests he likes the new football rules. On commercialization, he declared he thinks it is all right for a school to make

Jordan Punches Way To Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Since he lifted the welterweight title from Virgil Akins of St. Louis, Los Angeles' Don Jordan has acquired a champion's confidence and pepped up his punching.

It took Jordan only three rounds Thursday night to dispose of Alvaro Gutierrez of Mexico in a scheduled 10-round non-title fight. They came in at 148 pounds each, one over the welter limit.

In the third, Jordan pumped a right hand with lightning speed to the Mexican Battler's jaw. Gutierrez hit the deck, got up at five, and staggered into a neutral corner. Jordan swarmed all over him, pumping lefts and rights to head and body.

With his man helpless and about to sink to the canvas again, manager Lupe Sanchez climbed into the ring and asked Referee Mushy Callahan to stop the fight, which Callahan did. It was scored as a knockout after 1:32 of the third.

Gutierrez is a durable, hard-hitting welterweight who entered the ring with four straight victories. He carried the fight to the champion in the first, got over one hard right, and boxed Jordan on even terms in the second.

Jordan apparently saw that Gutierrez intended to crowd him, and he went out for the third intent on ending it. He has been regarded as a good boxer and a fair hitter, but his punch has now sharpened, and he exudes confidence.

The fight at Olympic Auditorium drew 8,100 fans who paid $20.153. Jordan was guaranteed $12,500. Gutierrez $7,500.

Jordan is to meet Akins in St. Louis March 6, but his manager says that since Akins pocketed $40,000 when he lost the title he wants Jordan to get that much for defending the title.

Williams Signs Contract Today

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams, in remarkable condition for his 40 years, today signed to sign his 1959 Boston Red Sox baseball contract today.

Williams figured to retain his status as the highest-paid athlete in the game.

After signing a paper reportedly worth $125,000 or more to him a year ago, Ted got off to a slow start. The ankle sprain he suffered the preceding fall pained him. But treatment and warmer weather eased the ache and he beat out teammate Pete Runnels for league batting laurels on the final day.

He came on at the head of the stretch to beat favored Bardstown by five lengths and the time for the one mile and an eighth race was 1:49 1-5, fastest over a fast track at Jamaica this season. Calumet Farm's Bardstown went to the post with bandages on all four legs.

Kramer Planning 'Grand Prix' Tour

LONDON (AP) — Jack Kramer professional tennis promoter, today announced plans for a European grand prix aiming at giving his tennis circus a competitive spirit.

The professionals will collect points for each success in an 80-day tour. Then the five top players will compete in a separate tournament to decide money placings.

The prize money will run to at least $56,000. The competition will start in Germany July 10 and move to Britain, France, Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Turkey, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, Spain and Portugal.

Demo Leaders Act To Counter Housing Appeals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders called 14 witnesses Friday to counter the Eisenhower administration's appeals for enactment of its own housing program.

The witnesses included spokesmen for the National Housing Conference, the AFL-CIO, Americans for Democratic Action, American Institute of Architects, and others who have called for bigger programs than President Eisenhower has asked.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), presiding over Senate hearings on the highly disputed program, predicted that a one-package housing bill far broader and more costly than Eisenhower wants will be passed by Congress before the end of February.

The Democrats, with commanding majorities in both Senate and House, are driving for a swift passage of a comprehensive housing program in a single bill. It would contain money and authority the President describes as urgently needed to keep some housing activities alive, plus many other items he believes should be cut or otherwise amended drastically.

Eisenhower has demanded a hold-down on federal spending to achieve a balanced budget. Norman P. Mason, federal housing administrator, and other administration spokesmen appealed Thursday for action now on emergency needs, with less urgent matters to be considered later.

They called for quick action on a bill to provide 100 million dollars of new money for urban renewal grants, 200 million dollars for college housing loans, and an increase of 6 billion dollars in FHA mortgage insurance authority.

Mason and the others all advocated a separate bill to handle long-range urban renewal and other problems, which presumably would simplify the President's task in deciding whether to sign or veto such a measure.

Sparkman told reporters he sees no likelihood that the Senate Banking Committee conducting the hearings would adopt the two-bill approach. He said he feels an omnibus bill would be ready for Senate consideration by Feb. 2.

"I see no reason why it couldn't go to the White House in the month of February," he added.

Charles E. Slusser, public housing administrator, sharply criticized many features of housing bills drafted by Sparkman and Sen. Joseph P. Clark (D-Pa.) as rivals to the administration program. He said they are full of loopholes, and would be subject to fraud and other abuses.

Clark replied that "in my judgment the Public Housing Administration Agency has gone almost mad" in determination to have its way.

Clark said he would not be surprised if the administration program were subject to fraud and other abuses.

Forecasts Rough Year For Labor Relations

WASHINGTON (AP)—A stormy year in labor relations is forecast for 1959 by the country's top labor trouble shooter, Joseph F. Finnegan.

Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, gave out that appraisal even before the AFL-CIO announced a renewed drive to boost worker wages this year.

The big labor union federation, claiming 14 million members, said it emphatically disagrees with President Eisenhower's wage hold-down plea and other economic views.

It contended that overly high prices are responsible for inflation and that the influence of wages on prices has been infinitesimal. New wage boosts, the AFL-CIO said, will help buoy the economy through increased purchasing power rather than do harm.

Four Convicted On Assault Count

RUTHERFORDTON, N.C. (AP)—Two Negro and two white men, charged with raping a white mother of six, were convicted Thursday night of assault on a female.

They were given two years in prison. Convicted were Lawrence Guffy, 45, at whose home the assault took place; Clemson Goode, 36; Troy McGinnis, 46, and William Dillard, 17. Goode and Dillard are Negroes.

The jury, which included one Negro man, deliberated about 2 1/2 hours. Judge George B. Patton passed sentence, the maximum allowed under the conviction.

"Mrs. Ruth Fincannon, 36, testified she was assaulted by the four men at Guffy's home the night of Oct. 9. She said it took place after several hours of 'guitar - picking and drinking white whiskey'."

The judge had given the jury five choices of verdict: assault on a female, assault on a female with intent to commit rape, rape with a recommendation of mercy, rape with no mercy recommended, or innocent.

Bridges Priced At Many Millions

RALEIGH (AP)—An outlay of 2 1/4 to 32 million dollars would be required to make reality of two bridge projects long dreamed of in eastern North Carolina.

The State Highway Commission received the figures Thursday from a firm which made surveys for proposed bridges over the Alligator River, linking Tyrrell and Dare counties, and over the Cape Fear at Wilmington.

The surveys ruled out the use of tolls as a feasible means of financing the multi-million dollar bridges.

Chairman J. M. Broughton Jr. said the commission would keep the bridge projects in mind. No action was taken on the surveys.

Fred Sawyer, representing the consulting engineering firm of Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Hall and MacDonald, said the surveys placed the cost of the Alligator River bridge at $7,350,000. It would be a three-mile structure, spanning the intercoastal waterway.

Both a high-level bridge and a tunnel crossing was considered for the Cape Fear site at Wilmington. Cost of the bridge was estimated at $16,150,000, and the estimate on the tunnel was $24,650,000.

Dulles Calls On Allies To Provide Ideas On Germany

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has urged U.S. allies, particularly West Germany, to produce some basic new ideas on German reunification for possible proposal to the Soviet Union.

Reporting this Friday, informants said that Dulles and his advisers are particularly interested in the possibility that a plan might be devised for a German confederation. They are looking for some plan which would offer a constructive, fresh approach to reunifying Germany and on which the Soviet government might be willing to negotiate.

In the U.S. view any confederation plan would have to provide at least for a central government with control over such matters as foreign policy. Moscow proposed confederation in a Jan. 10 note but indicated it would be little more than a facade for continuing West Germany and Communist East Germany as completely independent states.

The German problem is being attacked on three fronts in the biggest review since 1953 of where the West stands on this whole crucial matter:

1. The most immediate problem is to prepare a reply to the Soviet Jan. 10 note, which calls for a 28-nation peace conference in March to write a German peace treaty. A peace treaty draft, which the Western governments branded as unacceptable, was offered at the same time. There is a possibility that the West may suggest a different set of peace treaty principles. But the probability is that the Western powers will call for a Big Four meeting of foreign ministers or deputy foreign ministers by early May to discuss the whole German problem.

2. Related to the problem of a reply is the more fundamental question of how the Western powers can seize the initiative with constructive proposals if they get into formal talks with the Soviet government on German issues. The United States, Britain, France and the German Federal Republic are forming a working group of State Department and embassy officials which will begin active work on the possibilities early next month.

3. Behind the policy review is the danger of a new Berlin crisis developing in May. This will result if Premier Nikita Khrushchev goes through with his plan to turn over to East Germany Soviet occupation authority in East Berlin and over the communications lines between West Germany and West Berlin.

If the lines are interrupted, the question will arise immediately how the Western powers intend to supply their troops and, if necessary, feed the 2,200,000 people living in West Berlin.

High officials said Friday that there has been no agreement yet among the allies on this critical problem. They are still considering an airlift, the device that broke the 1948-49 blockade. They are still considering the use of force if necessary to try to keep highways and rail lines open.

Elephants Snarl Street Traffic

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Nineteen elephants came to town Thursday and snarled traffic something awful.

When the Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus pulled into Miami, it was still 10 miles from Miami Beach where the show opens today.

There is no railroad to Miami Beach, so the elephants had to walk.

The shortest route across Biscayne Bay is via Venetian Causeway, but nobody could figure out the toll for an elephant. So the elephants went over the McArthur Causeway, which is longer but free.

The drawbridge, between Miami and Miami Beach, went up to let two boats through.

Traffic was backed up for blocks and police did their best to keep the elephants in the right lane.

You Can't Buy MORE POWER FOR THE MONEY

Years of heavy demand for the Allis-Chalmers WD-45 Tractor have made it possible to maintain production at a volume big enough to keep its price well below that of comparable power. Nowhere else are you able to buy so much farming power at the price of a 4-plow WD-45.

TRACTION BOOSTER system adds weight automatically as needed to the rear wheels for extra pulling power. SNAP-COUPLER hitch and Power-Shift wheels reduce job changeover time. Two-clutch power with live PTO does harvest jobs faster and easier. And all these features are standard equipment.

CHAPTER 9 Murray Kirk interrupted Bruno Manfredi's run-down on Ira Miller: "So far all that's missing is the gray-haired mother and the faithful old dog. When do they come in?"

In the summer, it's one of the biggest things up there. The kids are supposed to be writers and bellhops and such, but they're getting their dough to play ball, and everybody knows it. Bindlow's trouble was that he couldn't buy himself a winner. The customers wanted to bet on the home team, but every time they did it they lost their shirts. So Bindlow dug himself up a guy who could take care of everything for him. The labor trouble, the basketball trouble, everything in one nice package. A real little miracle worker. Who do you think?

Mack Sennett Opines Scripts Are The Trouble

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I don't want to talk about birthdays," Mack Sennett said grumpily. He grudgingly said he was observing his 74th. The record books say he's 75, but there's still enough ham left in his rugged frame to fudge a year.

Even though he was passing the three-quarter century mark, he shunned celebration. He'd much rather talk about the thing he knows best, comedy. Mack was sitting in the lobby of the Garden Court Apartments, the proud old building on Hollywood Boulevard where he has watched the filmland scene pass by for many years. He seemed a little slowed down from the kidney stone operation that kept him away from his beloved golf game for a year. But the fedora was still tilted jauntily, and the deep laugh came easily as he remembered the old days when Charlie Chaplin and W. C. Fields worked for him.

Sentence Of Death Given In Castro's Showcase Trial

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — The defendant in Havana's first showcase war crimes trial was convicted just before dawn today and sentenced to death. A three-man tribunal of Fidel Castro's revolutionary officers found Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, 51, a career army officer, guilty on five counts of murder, homicide, robbery, looting and damage. The verdict was returned after a trial of almost eight hours and more than four hours of deliberation by the three judges. A crowd of 17,000 shouting, jeering Cubans who had jammed Havana's Sports Palace for the start of the trial had gone home hours before. Only about 300 newsmen and armed, bearded guards from Castro's forces heard the verdict as it was read out in the sports arena. Sosa Blanco's counsel, Capt. Aristides Dacosta, had said he would appeal a conviction to a five-man Superior Court provided under the new legal code put in effect after dictator Fulgencio Batista's overthrow Jan. 1. The higher court has not yet been named. Dacosta had challenged the legality of trials under that code, contending that all crimes charged to Sosa Blanco were allegedly committed before Jan. 14 and that the death penalty did not exist then. The Cuban Constitution of 1940 barred capital punishment. It was modified by decree Jan. 15 to permit executions for war crimes. Dacosta's argument also applies to the estimated 1,500 Batista partisans arrested since the dictator's overthrow, and to the 250 or more persons already executed by Castro's firing squads. Sosa Blanco's trial was the first of three Castro had announced for with them plus some words noting the Middle East resolution approved by Congress March 9, 1957. This resolution gave President Eisenhower authority to use armed force, as well as economic aid, to assist Middle East countries whose independence was threatened by outside attack or subversion. The department apparently feels that any stronger pledge might require a formal treaty. In the negotiations, however, Iranian and Pakistani government leaders have criticized the proposed wording of the agreements as far too weak. Both have requested unequivocal American commitments to come to their aid in the event of attack from any quarter, Communist or non-Communist. Turkey has made no such objections, mainly because as a member of the 15-nation North Atlantic Pact it believes it has sufficient defense guarantees from the United States.

Guest Speaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has run into difficulties with Pakistan and Iran in negotiating special defense agreements aimed at bolstering them against outside attack. Both Iran and Pakistan are reported insisting on stronger defense assurances than the United States is ready to extend at this time. A third country, Turkey, is underlaid to be satisfied, however, with the draft of an agreement proposed in talks in Ankara. Diplomatic authorities who disclosed the backstage argument Friday said there seems little chance the agreements will be signed, as had been hoped, at a Baghdad Pact meeting beginning Monday in Karachi, Pakistan. The United States is negotiating the agreements within the Baghdad Pact framework in keeping with a pledge Secretary of State Dulles made in London July 28. That followed the internal revolt in Iraq, one of the original members of the pact. Dulles said then that the United States would "promptly enter into agreements with nations in the alliance to give them added security in defense guarantees." He proposed doing this under authority already granted by Congress without the need for formal treaties. Such a course would avoid possibly dangerous delays while the U. S. Senate considered and approved new treaties. The agreements proposed by the State Department would be a restatement of existing mutual security agreements already signed.

Pakistan, Iran Ask Strong Assurances

Guest speaker at the opening service of Youth Week Sunday morning at Red Oak Christian Church will be Tommy Ogleby. Theme of the morning message will be "Dare We Live In The Household of God?" The speaker will also give highlights of the recent State Youth Convention of Christian Churches in Asheville. Tommy Ogleby, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Ray Ogleby of Winterville, is an active member of the Winterville Christian Church and its Christian Youth Fellowship. He is currently serving as Associate President of the Hookerton District CYP. A Youth Banquet is also being planned for the Red Oak CYP and guests on Saturday, January 31, at 7:00 p.m. Youth Week is sponsored nationally by the United Christian Youth Movement and is participated in by 30 denominations across America.

No Date Set On Assault Charged ECC Footballer

No date has been set for a hearing on an assault charge brought against an East Carolina College football player as a result of an alleged fracas Saturday night. According to Justice of the Peace Luther Moore, the charge against Melvin Riff of Fairmont was to have been heard Tuesday, but was postponed because of the condition of Bobby Harrington of Greenville, who, Moore said, had the warrant taken out. Moore said the incident reportedly took place at the Bel-Air Club on the Hooker Road. Head Football Coach Jack Boone of East Carolina College would not comment this morning on reports that Riff had been dropped from the college's football team, other than to say that Riff "is not in school now." Riff was a freshman fullback on the 1958 East Carolina football team and is generally regarded as a promising football player.

Minute Dip For Cost Of Living

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs dipped two-tenths of one per cent in December—their first decline since August. Lower prices for food, automobiles and clothing, overbalanced increases in rents, other housing items, medical care and other consumer costs. The Bureau of Labor Statistics price index declined to 12.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average, the base. In reporting this today, the bureau noted the index stood 1.7 per cent higher than December, 1957. The December index was exactly the same as that of last September and last June. Some 700,000 workers whose pay rates are geared to quarterly and semiannual adjustments of the index consequently will receive no change in pay. Mississippi U. Dorm Is Burned

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) — Fire believed caused by defective wiring raced through the main men's dormitory at Mississippi State University early today, leaving nothing but a mass of rubble of the 78-year-old brick and wood structure. About 1,000 students lived in the four-section building. Officials said they believed all escaped. The flames broke out about 2:45 a.m. and many of the students were still up studying for final examinations. One student suffered burns on the hands. Malcolm Gray, supervisor of student housing, said it would cost three million dollars to replace the dormitory. The fire broke out in room 371 of the four-story building. Flames were shooting out the window when the first alarm was sounded. The flames spread so fast, a witness said, that the volunteer Starkville firemen were unable to do much when they reached the scene minutes after they were called. The building, part of which was started in 1878, was a mass of flames by the time firemen from neighboring West Point and Columbus arrived. The firemen were able to keep the fire from reaching a cafeteria nearby. The task of checking students was difficult. Several hundred students had finished final examinations and had gone home for the semester holiday.

Phones Installed For Rural Area Of Pitt County

Telephone service has become a reality for the residents of the Belvoir and Old Creek Road section of Pitt County. Frank Harrington, local manager for Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, said that 43 new telephones were installed at an estimated cost of $19,000.00. This cost, however, Harrington pointed out, does not include the cost of central office equipment and reinforcement along existing facilities which are necessary for the proper functioning of the new lines. Manager Harrington said that the Company is continuing its program to take the convenience of the telephone to farm area after farm area.

Ailing Governor Said Improving

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Gradual improvement was reported early today in the condition of Gov. William Egan of Alaska. Egan, 44, remained on the critical list, however, and doctors said it still would be a few days before his full recovery is assured. The Democratic governor underwent emergency surgery Tuesday for a paralysis of the abdomen and a bowel blockage after removal of a gall bladder operation in Juneau, Alaska, Jan. 6. The closest living relatives of dinosaurs are birds and crocodiles. Dinosaurs ruled the earth about 130 million years ago.

Greenville Man Injured In Wreck

AYDEN—A Greenville man, Donnie Ralph Smith, 38, was treated for a compound fracture of the right leg and cuts about the face after his 1950 auto was demolished on N. C. 11 near here Thursday. Smith told investigating officer D. L. Minshew of the Highway Patrol that his car was forced off the road by an oncoming auto. Smith's car turned over in Swift Creek and was estimated a total loss by the patrolman. No charges were placed. Recently, the following Pitt county 4-H'ers were declared 1958 State Champions in 4-H Club project work achievements: (1) William Smith, Jr. of the Bethel Senior 4-H Club was declared State Champion in poultry from a total of 55,000 boys and girls participating in the State. Smith stated "that by using sound feeding and management practices purchasing quality chicks and record-keeping were the key factors in his success—along with expense. In 1957, he was selected as State Swine Champion. (2) Stettinus Hemby, Grimesland Junior 4-H Club, was declared Grand Champion in the County Pured Swine Chain and won Grand Champion with his Registered Hampshire Gilt at the Pitt County Fair in competition with White and Colored exhibitors. In addition to winning Cash awards, he won a trophy. Hemby was declared State Swine Champion in 1958. (3) William Council, Bethel Senior 4-H Club, was declared State Dairy Champion. He started his project in 1953, by purchasing a Pured Open Heifer for $35, at a purebred sale in Greensboro. For the past four years at our County Dairy Shows and Pitt County Fair, he won Grand Champion, Best Fitted and First place Showmanship. (4) Dorothy Mobley, Bethel Senior 4-H Club, was declared State Champion in Achievements in Frozen Foods. In 1957, she was declared State 4-H Project Champion. (5) Charles Becton, Ayden Senior 4-H Club, was declared State Champion with a Cotton Team Demonstration and was also selected as State Champion in Leadership in 1958. He also won recognition state-wide in 1957 with a Team Demonstration. These 4-H'ers are eligible to participate in the State 4-H Recognition Program among a total of 47 4-H members from 20 Counties, who will be participating. They are the State winners in Project Work. To be declared a State winner is quite an accomplishment because it is from a total of 55,000 4-H boys and girls in 50 counties that they have emerged as tops. The State 4-H Recognition Program will be held in Greensboro, at A. & T. College Saturday, January 31. It will be a banquet setting. A total of 185 persons are expected to attend this program, including Club members, parents of club members, leaders, county agents and special guests. The banquet is being sponsored by the Esso Standard Oil Company and the 4-H Club Foundation of North Carolina, Incorporated. The purpose of the State Recognition Day is to give recognition for prominence in 4-H project work and accomplishments made in related activities. The program is designed to stimulate and inspire Club members to do a better job in their respective activities and to further give opportunity for character and personality development. It is also to give opportunity for development of leadership and citizenship responsibilities.

Ayden Golf And Country Club Plans Move Ahead Colored News

AYDEN—A major step toward completion of the organization of the Ayden Golf and Country Club was taken Thursday evening when a board of directors for the new club was named and initial committees were appointed. A group representing the 112 members presently subscribed elected Hugh Allen, Wes Gooding, Brantley Jolly, Bill Shelton, Mac Edwards, Harvey Gwyn, Jamie Lang, Frank Peterson, Bill Stroud, Foss Johnson and Clay Stroud as their initial directors. Since it was felt that there are persons who have been overlooked in the original drive, it was voted to give additional time for receiving members at the original fee. Until the close of business on Jan. 30, new members will be accepted upon subscribing for a $100 share of stock. After that date new members will be charged an additional $50 entrance fee. The board of directors in a meeting following the stockholders meeting elected Johnson as president, Clay Stroud as vice president, Peterson as secretary and Bill Stroud as treasurer. Committees were appointed to write bylaws and secure the club's charter, to further investigate the site under consideration and to receive estimates on needed labor. The first organizational meeting for the new club was held a week ago when 36 members were signed up. Since that time additional members have signed to increase the number to 112. Plans are being made to build a nine-hole golf course. Eventually it is hoped that a small club house can be constructed and in years to come it would be expanded.
