Board Members Approve Mental Health Wing Work

COUNTY OFFICIALS AT NEW MENTAL HEALTH WING . . . During Inspection Tour Conducted This Morning

Abducted Baby Found Alive, Safe

NEW YORK (AP) — Month-old John Tavaraz, the second baby kidnaped here this month, was recovered alive and well early today in the apartment of a Puerto Rican couple.

Police said Ascension Ortiz, 25, admitted taking the child from his home because she had a miscarriage 10 days ago. She and her husband, Angel, a plastic dyer, have three children ranging from 6 to 9.

"It was because I lost my own baby," Mrs. Ortiz told police. "I had to make it up to my husband." At first she denied stealing the Tavaraz baby, and claimed the one in the three-room basement apartment was her own.

Doraliza Tavaraz was taken to the Ortiz apartment and, weeping with joy, identified her baby from a mark on his neck.

The 31-year-old Mrs. Tavaraz also identified Mrs. Ortiz as the "Glady's Garcia" with whom the child had been left while Mrs. Tavaraz went apartment hunting.

The baby was gone when Mrs. Tavaraz returned home. The two women had struck up an acquaintance at a hospital the day before Mrs. Tavaraz took her baby there for treatment of a persistent cold.

Police credited solution of the case to a tip received on a special telephone line for public calls about the case and the aid of the Spanish language newspaper El Diario.

The same type of tip on another special phone line had led to the finding earlier in the month of Lisa Rose Chionchio. The baby was located nine days after being stolen from a Brooklyn hospital nursery 2 1/2 hours after birth.

Chief of detectives James B. Leggett said a check of footprints positively identified the Tavaraz infant. Leggett gave this account of the solution to the case:

"Last Saturday we received a lead in the evening which we developed over Sunday and Monday. At 10:45 last night, facts were developed which justified us taking into custody Angelo Ortiz and Ascension Ortiz, his wife, in their apartment.

Two detectives and an FBI agent went to the apartment and found Mrs. Ortiz. Mrs. Ortiz hysterically denied that she had stolen the baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Ortiz and the infant were taken to a police station where Mrs. Tavaraz made the identification both of her baby and the woman who duped her.

Cut-Priced

RALEIGH (AP)—In an effort to move more than 218 million pounds of 1955 crop tobacco, the Flue-cured Stabilization Corp. has cut prices below the break-even point.

Officials confirmed Monday that the reduced prices mean that money will be lost on the 1955 leaf taken under the government price support program. It will be the first such loss in the co-op's 13 years.

In the past, profits from sales of leaf taken under price supports have provided dividends for growers once all Stabilization's stocks from a crop year were sold.

Carl T. Hicks, Stabilization president, said the 1955 crop "was not up to standard." The co-op has sold less than 30 percent of the tobacco taken during the 1955 season in the 3 1/2 years it has been on hand, he pointed out.

Hicks said much of the 1955 leaf was "pale and sick" or had other undesirable characteristics. The reduced prices, released to the tobacco trade recently, ranged from $8 to $12 per 100 pounds, depending upon grade.

Board Members Inspect Project

Tentative approval of a mental health wing at the Pitt County Health Department was granted this morning by members of the Pitt County Board of Health and Board of County Commissioners.

The approval, subject to completion of minor construction details, was given after members of the two boards had inspected the $40,000 project. The wing will house the county's Mental Health Service, now located in a former residence on Washington Street.

R. L. Martin of Bethel, who is chairman for both boards, headed the inspection party this morning. He was accompanied by Snodde Edwards, Vance Bunting and D. H. Conley of the Board of Health; Woodrow Wooten of the Board of County Commissioners; architects George Shoe and Cameron Dudley; general contractor W. G. Dunn; Dr. Georgia V. Mills, Health Director; Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni, director of the Mental Health Service; Paul Curtis, Psychiatric Social Worker; County Auditor H. Reginald Gray; and Health Department personnel.

Decision-Making For Farmers, Too

RALEIGH (AP) — Farm Bureau delegates were warned today that unless farmers take more responsibility in developing farm policy, agriculture will be managed by non-farm groups.

A. C. Edwards, executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, declared "We must get more farmers involved in the decisions-making process."

Edwards, in his annual report, said "Many farmers lean on government too much for their economic good, for the good of the industry. Too many farmers regard our price support programs and quota controls as a price fixing gimmick designed to insure a specific level of income to the individual."

Farmers need to examine their attitudes, Edwards pointed out, to see if they are thinking in terms demanded by a new-day in farming. He asked, "How many horse and wagon farmers are there in North Carolina trying to make a decent family living in a 'space age agriculture'?"

Farming, he admonished, has undergone drastic changes in the past 10 years "and the changes—good or bad—have serious implications for us."

Dr. D. W. Colvard, dean of the North Carolina State College School of Agriculture, said there were three exciting developments in North Carolina's agriculture picture last year. First, he said, farmers recovered the 150 million dollars in farm income which they lost in 1957. Other exciting things, he said, were the development of the atomic peanut and the establishment of a big Gerber baby food plant at Asheville.

A plan for poundage controls on tobacco production will be offered to voting delegates attending the 23rd annual Farm Bureau convention. The Farm Bureau Tobacco Conference Monday drafted a program which would ask Congress for legislation to put poundage curbs, in addition to acreage quotas, into effect on the 1960 crop.

An address by Dr. David S. Weaver, director of the North Carolina Extension Service, and the presentation of a number of awards will highlight the program this evening.

The Resolutions committee must act on the tobacco proposal before they are brought to the convention floor. The committee will make its report Wednesday morning.

Although the Farm Bureau has supported acreage-poundage leaf controls in the past, it had not previously gone into details for such a program.

Production curbs now are limited to acreage quotas, administered by the secretary of agriculture. New legislation by Congress would be necessary to change the program.

The Farm Bureau conference suggested that poundage limits for farmers be based on the years 1954, 1957 and 1958, with a top limit of 2,000 pounds per acre. It asked that a grower referendum be set to allow poundage controls on the 1960 crop.

The conference recommended that price supports on flue-cured leaf should be computed "at the lesser of 90 per cent of the old or modernized parity." In no event, it added, should the rate be less than the 1958 support level.

Other recommendations of the conference included safeguards in the release of tobacco varieties, tobacco chemicals and insecticides; and opposition to taxing of manufactured tobacco products at state, county and municipal levels.

The conference pledged support for legislation to expand the program of Tobacco Associates Inc., a group which promotes leaf markets.

Wants Training Of Businessmen

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The need for trained businessmen is becoming steadily greater than the supply, says J. Spencer Love, head of the mammoth Burlington Industries textile empire.

Love pleaded Monday night for better education for future businessmen. He was honored at a gathering of Piedmont business leaders.

William C. Friday, president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, also attended. Love spoke for the cause of the Business Foundation of North Carolina, a group of businessmen which contributes to an endowment for the School of Business at the University in Chapel Hill.

"The men holding the jobs 40 years ago that you're in now couldn't hold them today," Love said. "I believe that in 20 or 25 years you'll have to be a college man, or his equivalent, just to be a good supervisor."

He also urged concern for the welfare of public school teachers. He noted that teachers and businessmen have equal economic status in Russia, and declared: "We don't want our teachers being dissatisfied with our way of life in this country. Let's help them."

Five Answered Induction Call

Five local men reported to Raleigh yesterday for induction into the armed services, the Selective Service System announced today. The men were Bobby Edward Williams, Frank Bullock, Patrick Simon Bowen, Fred Douglas Worthington, and Benjamin Warren Simmons.

Two men failed to report for the call and were declared delinquent. They were James Edward Little and Earl James Moore. Officials of the local board stated that unless word was received immediately from the two, a full report would be made to federal authorities.

Khrushchev Says ICBM Production Is Under Way

MOSCOW (EP)—The Soviet Union has started serial production of intercontinental ballistic missiles, Premier Nikita Khrushchev declared today.

"If the Soviet Union can launch a rocket hundreds of thousands of kilometers into outer space, it can launch powerful rockets with pinpoint accuracy to any part of the globe," he said.

He did not elaborate on what he meant by serial production.

Opening the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist party in the Great Hall of the Kremlin, the party chief and premier said the Communist countries now "stand at the head of all progress."

In a review of Soviet achievements in science, including jet aviation and rocketry, Khrushchev declared:

"The Soviet Union has started the serial production of intercontinental ballistic missiles."

More than 1,500 delegates from throughout the Soviet Union and Communist parties in 70 other countries applauded vigorously.

(U.S. Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy said on Jan. 22 that the Defense Department does not believe the Soviet Union has an ICBM capable of operating against the United States. He also discounted reports the Soviet Union would have 300 of the intercontinental missiles by 1960.

(After McElroy's statement, U.S. Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) said that the United States had successfully est-ified ICBMs but was not going into full production of them because the Eisenhower administration would not spend the necessary funds.)

On the international front, Khrushchev termed nuclear disarmament the "task of tasks" and said the Soviet Union would continue to work for a summit conference.

"It is essential to learn to solve contentions problems by peaceful talks," he said. "It is time to understand that threats are a hopeless business when they refer to the Soviet Union."

He offered no new solution for the Berlin crisis, a major source of East-West friction. He said neither East nor West Germany can be eliminated "without touching off a world war."

German unification can be achieved, he said, only through negotiations between the two Germans. A peace treaty would "insure West Berlin's conversion into a free city," he added. The West has rejected the Soviet free city proposal and wants free elections to unify Germany.

Khrushchev blamed the United States for tension in the Far East. He declared a zone of peace—an atom-free zone—must be created in the Far East and the entire Pacific Ocean area.

He had said Monday night at a diplomatic reception that "We want a thaw—to thaw out the cold war." He added that Dep. Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan's trip to the United States may have helped.

Khrushchev said a key task in the Soviet Union's new seven-year economic plan is to bring an end to the cold war and a lessening of international tension. But he also called on his people once more to:

1. Catch up with and surpass the leading capitalist countries in per capita output.

2. "Ensure the Soviet Union's triumph in the peaceful economic competition with the capitalist countries."

3. "Strengthen further the economic and defense might" of the Soviet Union.

Although he said expansion of heavy industry would still have priority, Khrushchev promised the Soviet people a substantial rise in the standard of living as a result of the increase in his country's economic potentialities, further technical progress in all economic spheres, and a "continuous growth of the productivity of Socialist labor."

The Soviet people, he said, have reached "such summits" that they now have the chance to enter a "new, important period of development, the period of extensive building of Communist society."

Two buildings now under construction at East Carolina College and scheduled for completion in the near future have been named in honor of Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville and the late Edwin E. Rawl of Greenville, President John D. Messick of the college has announced.

A new dormitory for men located on the Southeast Campus will be called Paul E. Jones Hall. A classroom building on the East Campus will be named the Edwin E. Rawl Building.

A committee of the East Carolina Board of Trustees headed by J. Herbert Waldrop of Greenville recommended that the buildings be named for Mr. Rawl and Dr. Jones in recognition of their services to the college. The recommendation was unanimously accepted by Board members.

Dr. Jones, a native of Bethel, N.C., and a graduate of the Medical College of Virginia, is a dentist and farmer. For five terms he was Senator for Pitt County in the North Carolina General Assembly. He has acted as president of the North Carolina Dental Society and of the American Association of Dental Examiners and has filled other important posts connected with his profession.

His career has been marked by an interest in education on local, county, and state levels.

"Dr. Jones's services to East Carolina College have been outstanding," Dr. Messick stated.

Mr. Rawl at the time of his death in July, 1958, was executive vice president of the Carolina Sales Corporation, one of the most extensive appliance operations in the Southeast. As a member of the Board of Trustees at East Carolina College from 1953 to 1955 he held the positions of vice chairman, member of the executive and the scholarship foundation committee, and chairman of the budget-building committee.

In 1953 he headed the fund-raising campaign which enabled the college to build a stadium. He was founder and first president of the Pirates Club. Mr. Rawl was a native of Batesburg, S.C., and a graduate of the Citadel in Charleston.

In a memorial to Mr. Rawl, the East Carolina Board of Trustees described him as "a dynamic person in many activities of the college."

The Edwin E. Rawl Building will upon its completion early in the summer of 1959 be occupied by the departments of business, art, psychology, and education. Being constructed at a cost of $750,000, it is a three-story T-shaped building with an area of 65,000 square feet.

Paul E. Jones Hall, scheduled for completion early in March, will house 520 men students. It is being constructed through a loan of $1,425,000 from the Housing and Home Federal Agency. An H-shaped structure, the building will include a cafeteria.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another U.S. moonshot try is in the works for the latter part of February.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Army are reported hopeful of blasting off an Army Juno rocket from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and sending its payload past the moon into orbit around the sun some time during a six- or seven-day period beginning around Feb. 26. But it was learned that final decision will not be made until about a week ahead.

Neither NASA nor the Army would officially confirm the plan. Main objective of the venture will be to learn more about the extent and intensity of the belt of dangerous radiation which begins several hundred miles above the earth.

In previous studies with Explorer satellites and Pioneer space probes, the radiation appears to exist in two doughnut-like belts around the earth.

Beginning around Feb. 26, the moon in its monthly swing around the earth will be at its closest point for a period of about six days.

In general, the experiment will be much the same as the last one launched by the Army in December when Pioneer III soared to a height of some 68,000 miles.

The new Army probe will be tiny compared with Russia's highly successful Lunik satellite, but it reportedly will be a giant as far as scientific worth is concerned.

If all goes well, the 13-pound orb will sail past the moon after a 34-hour trip.

The Russians hurled their big space probe into an orbit around the sun Jan. 2 after four U. S. efforts failed.

The best U.S. effort was the Air Force's Pioneer I which traveled 71,300 miles on an Oct. 11 attempt to swing into orbit around the moon.

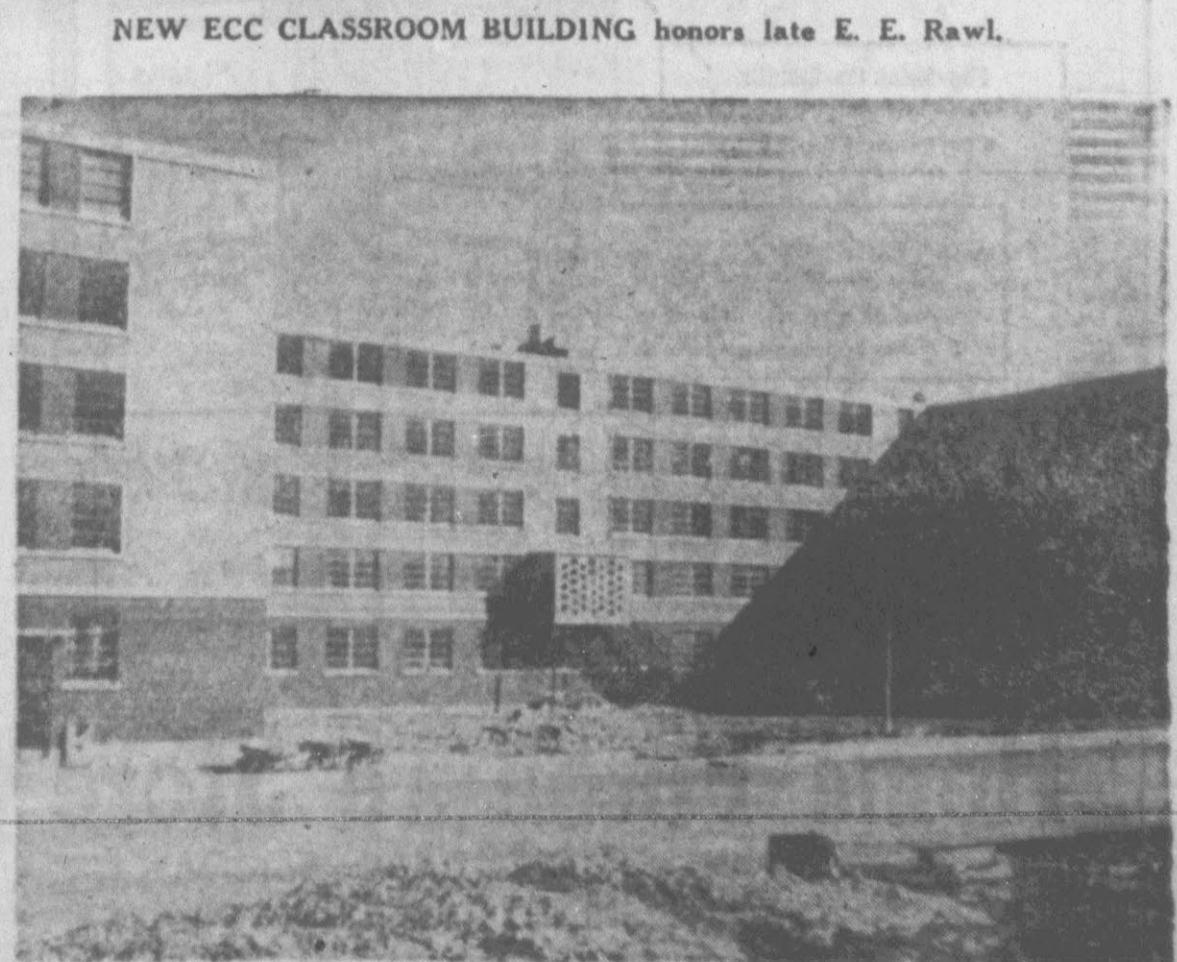

CHERRY POINT, N.C. (AP)—Two Marine Corps pilots stationed here may have been the first to fly non-stop across the continent in single-engine jet aircraft.

The Marine Air Station reported Monday the feat was turned by Maj. John P. Flynn of Gregory, S.D., and Capt. Clifford D. Warfield of Huron, S.D.

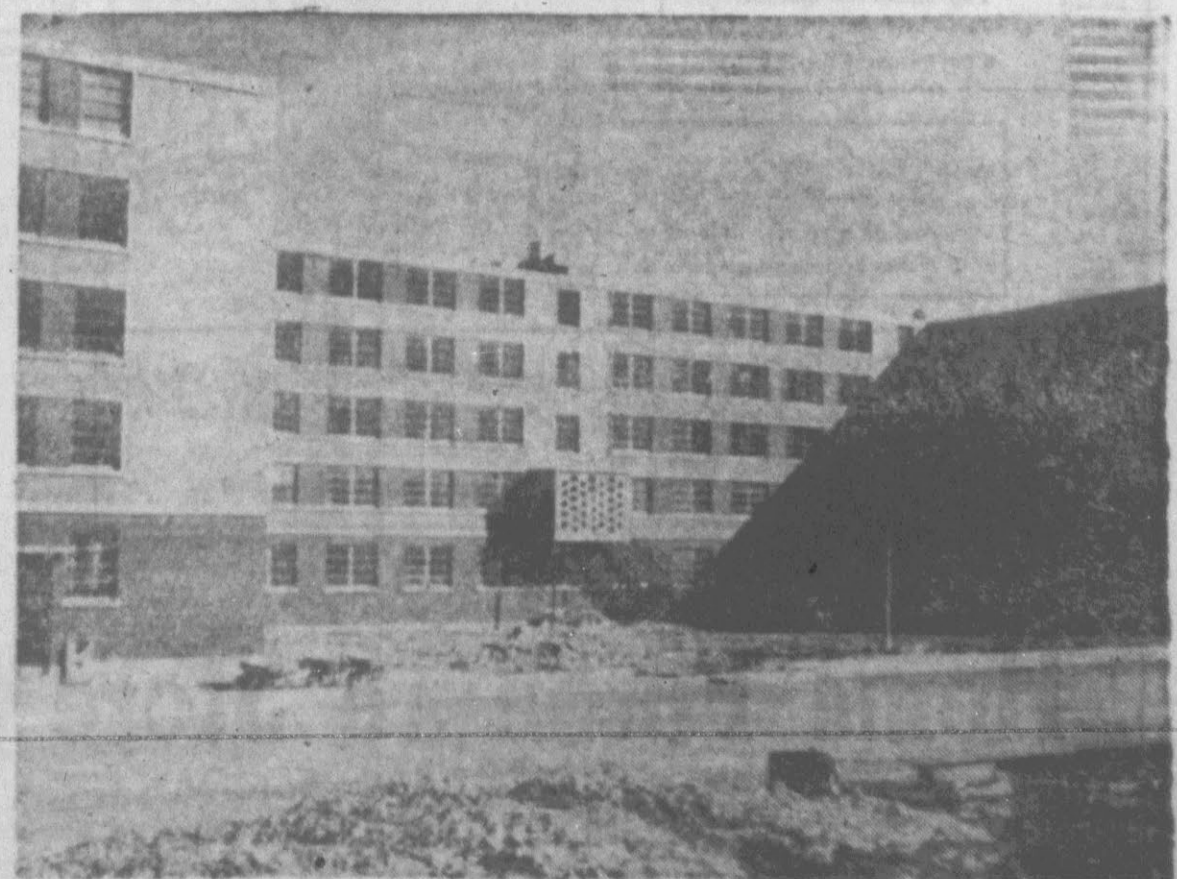

Although multi-engine jets have flown coast-to-coast without refueling, the public information office said a check of records indicated this was the first time for a single-engine jet.

Maj. Flynn and Capt. Warfield flew the 2,082 air miles in 4 hours and 25 minutes last Saturday. They were returning from a routine flight to El Toro Marine Air Station in California.

County ABC Chairman Opposes Convention Cruise

J. W. Joyner of Farmville, chairman of Pitt County's ABC Board, has joined opponents of a Bermuda convention cruise for members of the State Association of County ABC Boards.

Plans for the cruise, scheduled to be held in April aboard the Swedish liner Stockholm, have kicked up a storm of protest across the state. State ABC Chairman William S. Hunt of Raleigh has already said he won't be on board when the convention ship pulls away from State Ports Authority docks in Wilmington.

Joyner, a past president of the state association and still a member of the group's Executive Committee, said late yesterday he won't sanction "a trip of this kind of our taxpayers' money." Furthermore, he added, any member of the three-man Pitt County board who participates in the cruise "will pay his own expenses, less that the ordinary cost (to the county board) would be."

In past years, the county ABC board has paid "some convention expenses" for board members. Supervisor Clinton Elks said this morning the amount paid out "varies" from year to year, depending on the convention site. Joyner's statement late yesterday included the comment he "did not know" whether he would attend this year's convention. "We (members of the board) have had no discussion, but we will discuss it at our regular monthly meeting, which will be held Monday. I also plan to discuss the matter with members of the Board of County Commissioners, who will also meet Monday," Joyner said.

The chairman said that he and Supervisor Elks "had discussed" the convention plans previously and "agreed we would not go at the expense of county ABC funds." He added, "We don't anticipate going at the expense of the county."

Joyner also expressed some misgivings about the convention cruise plans which have been defended by Convention Committee Chairman Guy Ward of Winston-Salem. "I wasn't too hot for the trip," Joyner said, "and I never attended a meeting of the Executive Committee at which it was discussed. I wouldn't have sanctioned it if it had been discussed, because I feel that it should not be done."

The hostess invited the group to the dining room where a covered dish supper was served buffet style from a table covered with cutwork linen. The centerpiece was an epergne containing white carnations and lighted tapers.

The menu consisted of ham, deviled eggs, asparagus casserole, candied yams, sweet pickle peaches, stuffed celery, hot biscuits, coffee and homemade banana cake.

Card tables were arranged in the living room, the den and the dining room. The 18 members and their two special guests, Miss Gwendolyn Dixon and Mrs. Wheeler of Williamston, were seated in groups of four.

During the club program Miss Dixon, Director of Religious Education at the Baptist Church in Williamston, was the speaker. She gave a very informative program on our new state. For several years she was a teacher at the Air Base in Anchorage and has traveled extensively in Alaska. During the lecture she showed films of the places she visited.

She Likes Cooking

Has Many Talents

Being the president of the Elmhurst Garden Club and working with her well-known violet-raising hobby keeps Mrs. Howard Wilson of Overlook Drive quite busy; but she still finds time to whip up unusual desserts and dinners for her family.

"When cooking pastries, I always follow a recipe; but in everyday things I just add various ingredients according to my family's taste," stated Mrs. Wilson.

"To be a good cook, one must have the correct equipment to work with in the kitchen," she noted.

For parties and social gatherings Mrs. Wilson says that Spritz cookies and cheese straws are her favorites for homemade refreshments.

The recipes for the cookies and straws are as follows:

Spritz Cookies

(For 3 dozen cookies)

2 cups sifted cake flour

1-4 teaspoon salt

1 1/2 sticks butter or margarine

1/2 cup sugar

1 egg yolk

1/2 teaspoon almond extract

Sift flour, measure, add salt and extract. Cream shortening until fluffy, add sugar to shortening gradually and beat. Add the egg yolk and extract. Blend well.

Combine the flour into the creamed mixture. Make into a smooth dough, chill in refrigerator until firm. Put into cookie press, using any desired discs. Bake 8 to 10 minutes in 375 degree oven on ungreased baking sheet.

Cheese Straws (Yields 50)

1/2 lb. butter or margarine

1/2 lb. sharp cheese

dash of cayenne pepper

2 cups cake flour

1/2 teaspoon salt

2 teaspoons vanilla powdered sugar

Cream butter, grate cheese and cream these two together until smooth, sift flour, salt and pepper together, add to creamed mixture, along with vanilla flavoring.

Put into cookie press, using star discs to form cheese straws. Use ungreased cookie sheet, bake 8 to 10 minutes in 375 degree oven, cut while hot and roll into sifted powdered sugar.

Monthly Meal

At least once a month, according to this versatile housewife, the Wilson family has stuffed pork chops, with baked potatoes, string beans, and tossed salad for their dinner.

Stuffed Pork Chops

"When food shopping at the meat counter, ask for the center cut of a pork chop and have the butcher cut the meat in a double chop about 1" thick and put a pocket slit in it," she suggested.

Gather stale bread crumbs, chopped onions, celery and peppers. Mash these ingredients with margarine. Salt chops on the inside and place mixture in chop, close with toothpicks.

Wash long Irish potatoes in their jackets and put in a heavy iron skillet or glass baking dish. Cover the container with tinfoil after placing the chops and potatoes within. Bake at 350 deg. about one hour or until done.

How To Save Money On Food

RALEIGH—"No food is economical if the family doesn't eat it," says Miss S. Virginia Wilson.

Miss Wilson, nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, emphasizes that the homemaker must store and prepare food carefully to cut losses by waste.

The menu consisted of ham, deviled eggs, asparagus casserole, candied yams, sweet pickle peaches, stuffed celery, hot biscuits, coffee and homemade banana cake.

Mrs. Saieed Club Hostess

On Tuesday afternoon the Chlora Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Mitchell Saieed.

After the greetings, Mrs. Saieed served sandwiches and cakes and spice tea to the guests.

Chief S. G. Gibbs gave the program on the state police work and the city department. He brought out the present use of the lie detector test and uses of laboratory work in criminal cases. In informative question and answer session followed Chief Gibbs talk.

Mrs. Joyner, President, then presided over the business meeting, new amendments were voted on and passed. The treasurer brought the club up to date on its funds. Books were then distributed and the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. Frank Brown was an afternoon guest.

Joint Hostesses Fete Auxiliary

The American Legion Auxiliary met on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Alfred Kennedy, with Mesdames W. C. Eagles, John Saieed Sr., John Whitchard and C. A. Langley as co-hostesses, and Mrs. W. C. Eagles, president, presiding. There were 27 present, including Mrs. Ford McGowan and Mrs. Margaret W. Mellon as visitors. Mrs. Lucy C. Gray, a Gold Star member, was recognized as a new member.

Mrs. James R. Worsley introduced the speaker of the evening, Chief S. G. Gibbs of the Greenville Police Department.

Using as his subject "Civil Defense and National Security," Chief Gibbs told about the organized program for survival in case of emergency caused by explosion of an atom or hydrogen bomb in or near this area, saying that Greenville would be considered a receiving rather than an evacuation area most likely in case of such emergency; because of the Civil Defense organized program our chances for survival may be greater than our everyday thinking; that we in this area should be trained and prepared to take care of large numbers of evacuees.

The meeting was formally opened by the president after the afternoon talk.

Mrs. Emma Barnhill reported on the gift baskets of food delivered to a needy family for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Mrs. James Worsley and Mrs. Alfred Kennedy reported on the Unit Officers Conference held at Raleigh January 16-18 which they attended.

At the conference it was stressed that Legion Auxiliary Units should do more about the Education and Scholarship Fund for helping veterans' children in their education for chosen careers; the Greenville Unit was given the "1959 Blast-Off Citation" award for membership quota by October 20, 1958.

The hostesses served refreshments during the social hour.

Patient Circles Celebrate Founding

On January 13, the 73rd birthday of the founding of the International Order of The King's Daughters and Sons, the Patient Circle of Greenville met at the home of Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell and had as their special guests members of Patient Circle No. 2.

The president, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, opened the meeting with the prayer of the Order and asked for a moment of silent prayer remembering the Circle's late member, Mrs. W. R. Jones.

Naomi Gibbs gave the devotional, which had for its theme, faith.

A short business session was dispatched with, chairmen of standing committees making reports. It was voted to make a donation to the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association.

Of special interest to everyone of The King's Daughters present was the report of George Shoe, who was presented to the group by Miss Martha Le Cowell. Shoe brought a tentative plan for the home The King's Daughters are planning to build for the aged of Pitt County.

Following the suggestions and regulations of the State Welfare Department in the building of such licensed homes, Shoe had drawn a plan with an administrative unit, dining and living room space, two porches and bedroom space to accommodate 20 people. He answered questions of different members of the group and then asked them to study the plan and

Carolyn Tripp, a former State Chautauqua Scholarship student and member of the visiting Circle, gave the program. She told the story of Margaret Bottomo, the founder of the sisterhood in New York January 13, 1886. She dwelled upon Mrs. Bottomo's magnetic personality and her ability to draw nine other wealthy, influential women together to form the first Circle of The King's Daughters, whose watchword is "In His Name" and whose motto is "Look up and not down; Look out and not in; And lend a hand."

Barbara Conway reviewed the activities of The King's Daughters throughout the world and told in detail of the accomplishments of the young women in her group.

Upon adjournment the group was invited into the dining room. From one end of an appropriately appointed table, Mrs. C. A. Bowen served the birthday cake; from the opposite end Mrs. Jack Reynolds poured punch. Guests helped themselves to salted nuts and mints.

The assisting hostesses for the Founder's Day birthday party were Mesdames W. S. Galloway, M. R. Long, L. O. Gross, H. C. Sugg, W. J. Hardee, C. M. Jones and C. A. Bowen.

One Should Call It Quite Obvious

A survey showing toll bridges would not be financially sound across the Alligator River linking Tyrrell and Dare Counties and another across the Cape Fear at Wilmington didn't surprise many people in Eastern North Carolina.

Most people had come to the same conclusion before the State Highway Commission paid a consulting engineering firm of New York 40-odd thousand dollars for the survey.

Results of the survey should point up two things vividly to the State Highway Commission.

1. Tar Heels aren't sold on the idea of state-owned toll bridges . . . or for that matter toll bridges regardless of who owns them.

2. It is possible over a period of years to squander a considerable amount of the state's money for outside surveys which only confirm what natives of the state already know about a given situation.

With these things in mind, the Highway Commission should concentrate on means of affording the bridges and other structures needed throughout the state without spending more time and money worrying about tolls as a possible manner of financing the cost. North Carolinians know highways and their necessary structures cost a great deal of money, but they have shown in the past they are willing to pay the cost to have a good highway system.

The bridges across the Cape Fear and across the Alligator which the Commission has temporarily shelved should not remain on the shelf indefinitely. The structures are needed in Eastern North Carolina, and they should be provided as soon as possible.

As for the surveys by outside firms, the Highway Commission and other state agencies should bear in mind that North Carolina should be capable of making a good many surveys such as those which have been farmed to out-of-state concerns in recent years. By using its own facilities for making such surveys, the state not only would get better results, but would likewise have greater continuity from one survey to another on a particular matter. At the same time it would have just as good, if not better, information on which to base its long range development plans.

In a few rare instances, it may be worth $40,000 or so to North Carolina for an outsider to tell the state what its people already knows. In the case of these two bridge surveys, the new information received hardly justifies the cost to the taxpayers of North Carolina.

Consolation For The Colicky Baby Victims

Dr. Herman F. Meyer of Northwestern University Medical School has a theory which should be interesting, if not downright comforting, to red-eyed parents of small children.

The good doctor, a pediatrician, says, in effect, that it's good for the infant of the home to have colic. It could mean greatness in the young'un's adult years.

A connection between infantile colic and adult aggressiveness is a nebulous thing for most parents of colicky children. To them, colic is an immediate, ear-splitting, torture-by-association, sympathy-provoking, here-and-now reality.

Dr. Meyer says, however, that leg-drawing, arm-waving, milk-spitting and multi-debeled-screaming are simply manifestations of the infant's "resentment against the restrictions imposed on his immaturity". Moreover, he claims, "the very symptoms which disturb him in babyhood will be virtues in adult life".

The doctor explains it this way: "In elementary school, the once colicky baby is aggressive, a leader, non-sensitive"; in high school, he "runs everything"; as an adult, the type "rushes from one success to another". What was once a little, firstclass brat becomes "happy and well adjusted", the kind of person who enjoys life to the hilt, has social and financial stability, and who rarely finds it necessary to seek the comfort of a psychiatrist's couch.

Dr. Meyer's theory isn't exactly new. There has been, for some time, a feeling among some pediatricians that colic isn't caused by an infant's allergy to cow's milk, but by family instability. Colic, the idea says, is a way to escape frustrations, leading, of course, to earlier head-lifting, sitting up and walking than the sluggish, "nice baby" types realize.

The whole idea is interesting. We'll have to try to remember it next time one of the little ones we know gives a blood-curdling cry, spews his milk on four walls and a ceiling, and refuses to be comforted.

We might even quit calling the pediatrician for words of advice on handling the situation, and warn business friends that competition is on the way.

Dissatisfaction In GOP Ranks

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican National Committee, still aching from the Democrats' shattering victory last November, met last week in Des Moines to figure out how to win in 1960. It was a soul-searching get-together.

Before it was over dissatisfaction with the leadership President Eisenhower has given the party came to the surface and drew loud applause. Eisenhower advised the committee to work hard and was told to do more himself. But the committee also warmly applauded a resolution approving the "wise and able leadership" of Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon. The members discussed where the party stood, what it stood for, where it was going and why.

The result: a plan for getting more people to ask more people to vote Republican was approved, but the committee never got around to stating why it thought people should vote for the party. It authorized the naming of a committee to draw up long range goals.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona had his own idea. He is chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee and a longtime critic of Eisenhower administration policies. He thought it all right to approve a plan for ringing doorbells. But he said: "The most important ingredient is missing. Where does the party stand? What are its principles?" He said more than a million Republicans failed to vote last year because they didn't know what the party principles, if any, were.

He did suggest a party quit copying the New Deal.

The Household Of God

(Through the remainder of this week, this space will be utilized by members of the United Christian Youth Movement.)

By LOIS TUNNELL

What is a household? A household is a group of people who live under the same roof and who work together for one purpose. What then is God's household? Does the church constitute a part of it? Yes, it does. But perhaps it is necessary to explain what the word church means. Church is not just a local parish, or a building. The church is the Body of which Jesus Christ is the Head and all baptized people are the members. Therefore, the church does not pertain to any single denomination.

Dr. Weatherhead brings out the following idea in his book, "This Is The Victory". The church has been stretching its hands outward and touching all in communions of Christians whatever their denominational label, in all lands, on all shores, under all skies. It can be seen stretching its hands forward to hand on the torch to those who come after, until perhaps, they cover the earth. It can be seen stretching its hands backward, its hands touching those of the generations before us, and so back and back until the last man slips his hand into the hand of Christ.

But most importantly, the hands of these tiny with those who have gone into the unseen, but with angels and archangels and all the company of heaven who worship God with unveiled faces in Eternal Beauty, for the church is eternal.

Perhaps, now that I know the church constitutes a part of the household of God, and is made up of humans of all denominations, I can ask myself: Am I, a Christian of God's church, God's household also? Yes, I am. God builds a foundation for all of us using Christ as the corner stone, and it is up to us to build the rest of our lives around him. God makes, or starts out making, His home in each one of us. It's up to us to treat

Him in such a manner that He will stay. "So then you are no longer strangers and sojourners, but you are fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God, built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus himself being the chief cornerstone, in whom the whole structure is joined together and grows into a holy temple in the Lord; in whom you also are built into it for a dwelling place of God in the Spirit" (Ephesians 2:19-22).

"O Christ dwelling within me, give me knowledge, knowledge of thyself in relation to my living, day by day. Give me thy Spirit of eternal life to live now, on earth, in the elements, in the world. Feed my mind with thy living bread; quench my thirst for thee with living water from the well of life." Amen.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Doctors, like their patients, often put off being doctored too. A survey showed one out of four physicians with hypertension waited two years before seeking treatment, and 14 per cent with peptic ulcer postponed treatment for five years or more.

Did you know a mink coat made of female skins is supposed to be preferable to one made of male skins? It is reportedly finer-haired and lighter in weight.

Beau Brummell, famous 19th century British dandy, is sometimes credited with being the first man in modern history to take a daily bath. But, alas for cleanliness — later in life he became dirty and slovenly, and died a squalid pauper.

Taking a bath, incidentally, is still something of a problem in some parts of the United States. Three million American homes still lack running water.

As men get scarcer, the girls are giving them less and less chance to get away. The average engagement period 30 years ago was a year or more. Now it's from five to seven months.

Do you like to lie on the rug while watching television? Well, cut it out: you may get sick. Some statisticians has figured out a 9-by-12-foot rug collects three pounds of dirt in a year and nests 11,914,000,000 germs.

Remember when nearly every city man dreamed of retiring to the country and making an independent living off five acres? It's more of a nightmare today. The cost of farm land has risen 50 per cent since 1950 — and in some areas it has tripled in the last 15 years.

Variations Pose Some Suspicion

By LYNN NISBET

LIABILITY — The wide variance in amounts paid for damage and injury resulting from automobile accidents has led to suggestion that perhaps a uniform schedule should be established for insurance liability. It is common knowledge that settlements vary widely in different areas, especially in cases where the amount depends upon a jury verdict. An experienced lawyer said the other day that a case that is "worth" $5,000 in a rural mountain county would easily be "worth" $25,000 or more in any of the large Piedmont counties.

Since the law requires every automobile owner to have an insurance policy as a requisite for obtaining a license plate for his car, by reverse implication some company is required to provide the insurance coverage. That is somewhat analogous to the situation with respect to persons covered under the workmen's compensation act, where employers are required to carry insurance to protect their workers in case of injury on the job.

The State Industrial Commission, which administers the workmen's compensation act, has established a fairly uniform schedule of hospital, medical and surgical fees that tends to prevent exorbitant charges and thus makes possible a reasonably uniform scale of total payments. Appeals from commission awards to the courts are frequent, and often successful. However, the general uniformity from county to county is maintained. It is highly improbable that similar injury would be "valued at" $500 in one county and $5,000 in another — which often happens in the unregulated jury awards for motor accidents.

COST — One other field in which insurance is required by law is unemployment. That is a joint Federal-State operation administered by the Employment Security Commission. Payments into the fund by employers vary according to experience record of the employing firm and amounts paid to the unemployed are determined by the regulatory agency under the statutes. All insurance premium rates must be approved by the Commissioner of Insurance. Usually the premium rate is designed to make sure enough premium money has been paid in to enable the carrier to pay claims, operating expenses and reasonable profit. In cases where payment of claims is supervised by government, as in workmen's compensation and unemployment, rate-fixing is not too difficult. With respect to life insurance there isn't much problem, because the rates are based on actuarial mortality statistics.

In the broad areas of general accident, health and property damage insurance, including fire and storm, where the buying of insurance is entirely optional and claim payments are not supervised, frequent controversies arise as to what constitutes reasonable premium rate.

The law requiring every automobile owner to purchase insurance, but providing no government supervision over the payment of claims, puts the public liability insurance phase, for both property damage and personal injury, in sort of no man's land, with legal mandate on one side, no control on the other. Inevitable result, accentuated by higher mechanical repair charges and large verdicts for injury, is increased premium cost.

WIDE OPEN — Whether a home owner insures his house against fire or storm, or a citizen buys accident or health or life insurance, is entirely up to him. Any person or corporation employing as many as four people must pay the employment security tax, and any person or firm employing as many as five must comply with workmen compensation statutes. In these cases both the rate of premium paid and the claims allowed are subject to government control.

Any person who owns and automobile must buy insurance or post a bond in order to obtain a license plate for his car, but there is no control over the amount he or his insurance company might have to pay as result of any accident. Of course there is a maximum limit of insurance company liability, but a judgment in excess of that amount would lie against the motorist. The point here is that it is unemployment and workmen compensation insurance requirement for coverage is matched with regulation of benefit payments. In automobile public liability insurance there is mandate on one end, wide open space on the other. Unless and until some limit can be established on the other end, there seems small hope for anything except increased premium rates on required liability insurance.

Strength For Today Inflation Deflates Sales Mark

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
ALARMING SITUATION

The divorce situation in the United States is becoming appalling. The rate of divorce in the United States is three times as great today as it was in the year 1900. There are one-fourth as many divorces in our country every year as there are marriages.

As we view this situation historically, we may well be alarmed. As every past civilization has begun to decay and disintegrate, its divorce rate has increased. Recently our attention was called to a class of sixteen girls who had been graduated from a secondary school within the past decade. Eleven of the girls are now divorced. This is extreme, but the extreme examples throughout the country are astounding.

Viewed socially and morally, the effect of divorce upon children is disconcerting to behold. Problem children who become problem adults are in a majority of cases children of broken homes. Juvenile delinquency is almost always associated with a broken home.

Jesus Christ during His ministry spoke with great frankness about the matter of divorce. He lived in an age and amongst a people for whom divorce was commonplace. Some of the great rabbis of His day were very liberal regarding divorce.

But Jesus was stern and explicit. Read the following New Testament passages and see what conclusions you arrive at with reference to divorce under the Christian system: Matthew 5:31-32; Matthew 19:9; Mark 10:11-12; Luke 16:18; I Corinthians 7:10-15.

By ELMER ROESSNER
Total retail sales in December were $21.1 billion, bringing the total for the year to $200.3 billion, the Department of Commerce reports.

This makes good predictions in this column that sales would exceed $20 billion in a single month for the first time in December and that total sales for the year would set a new high. They were $200 billion in 1957.

These figures indicate the American standard of living rose in 1958.

Americans actually enjoyed less goods and services in 1958 than they did in 1957.

Prices rose more than that. Price data for the entire year 1958 have not yet been compiled. However, most economists estimate the increase around 2 to 3 per cent.

The consumer price index rose from 121.6 in November, 1957, to 123.9 in November, 1958, or slightly under 2 per cent.

If prices went up 2 per cent in 1958, consumers would have had to pay $204 billion to get the same amount of goods and services they got for $200 billion in 1957. They spent less than the $204 billion figure, ergo, they got less than a year earlier.

OTHER FIGURES MISLEAD
Last week the Department of Commerce announced that total personal income last year was $353.4 billion, which, on the surface, looked like the highest year in history.

But when the inflationary rise in prices is considered, Americans actually made less than a year earlier.

In 1957, total personal income was $347.9 billion. With prices 2 per cent higher in 1958, we would have had to earn $354.0 billion to stay in the same place.

On the surface, the Commerce figures look as if we were getting richer. Actually, we grew poorer by half a billion dollars or more.

There are other distortions. The Northern Trust Co. of Chicago said in its January letter: "As 1958 ended aggregate economic activity, as measured by the gross national product (GNP) was rising to a new record high in dollar terms. Preliminary estimates place the GNP for the fourth quarter at a seasonally of 1 per cent.

adjusted annual rate slightly above $450 billion, exceeding the previous peak rate of $446 billion in the third quarter of 1957.

"After allowing for a 2 to 3 per cent rise in prices, however, the aggregate physical volume of output of goods and services was still somewhat below the 1957 peak.

"For the year (1958) the GNP will approximate $437 billion, a decline of less than 1 per from $440 billion in 1957. After allowance for price changes, the real GNP in 1958 was about 2.2 per cent less than in 1957."

So that's what inflation does for you. It makes you look as if you are making more money, spending more and turning out almost the same amount of goods when, in truth, you are sliding backwards.

Judge's Acquittal Raises Role Of Future Candidate

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The acquittal of former Judge George Wallace on a contempt charge leaves Wallace in the role of a potential candidate for governor boasting he defied civil rights investigators and got by with it.

Wallace insisted he disobeyed a federal court order, despite the court's finding that he had complied with it and actually helped the U. S. Civil Rights Commission get access to voter registration records.

The former state judge declared he had successfully defied the authority of the federal government and the civil rights agency. "They were defied and backed down," he said.

"This only shows," said Wallace, "that if you resist them (federal agents) and back them to the wall, they will hunt any way to back away."

Wallace's term expired last week. He was under court order from U. S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. to make the records available to commission agents. Instead he turned them over to grand juries hastily summoned in Barbour and Bullock Counties.

Johnson ruled Monday that because the grand juries made the records available for examination Wallace carried out the effect of his order and only pretended to defy the court.

The federal jurist said Wallace from all appearances retained control of the registration records after giving them to the grand jurors. And it was Wallace himself who actually notified agents the records would be made available, he noted.

Accordingly, Johnson dismissed the contempt charge against the Clayton, Ala., lawyer, who was runner-up in the Democratic primaries for governor last year. He is regarded as a likely candidate for that office in 1962 or for the U. S. Senate next year.

Wallace, 39, said he interpreted his acquittal as a vindication of what he called his militant stand against the Civil Rights Commission and its inquiry into Negro voting complaints. "It has been apparent they were hunting a way out," he asserted.

Johnson, without accusing his former college classmate of political motives, said, however, that "this court refuses to allow its authority and dignity to be bent or swayed by such political generated whirlwinds."

Both Wounded In Gun Accidents

ENID, Okla. (AP) — Clarence Haight, 20, and his brother, Henry, 19, are in hospital beds side by side, each with a rifle wound in his right knee.

Clarence got his wound last Thursday when a 22 caliber rifle accidentally discharged while he was hunting. Henry visited him Monday and jokingly asked: "Have you got a bed for me?" "Right over there," Clarence replied.

Several hours later Henry was brought to the hospital. His 22 caliber rifle discharged accidentally while hunting.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of 26 cases in Municipal Recorder's Court Friday. Fourteen of them involved violations of motor vehicle and traffic laws, the others ranged from larceny from parked automobiles to assault with a deadly weapon and assaulting a female.

Junie Jackson, Negro, 112 Bonner's Lane, was found guilty of driving while drunk. The court gave him a suspended 90-day sentence on condition that he pay a fine of $100 and costs and not operate a motor vehicle for a year. Chewing Habits Release Tension

DALLAS (AP) — A dental specialist defends such traits as biting fingernails, chain smoking, chewing pencils and the like. They don't hurt your teeth, he says, but they do relieve tensions and are better than going home and helling at the wife and kids.

Dr. Maury Massler of the University of Illinois said in an interview Monday chewing habits are valuable mechanisms for releasing tensions.

He said thumb-sucking in a baby is a sign of contentment—a young child sucks his thumb as a substitute for a nipple. Most children stop this at the age of 3 or 4, he added.

On reaching the age of frustration, Dr. Massler said, many children switch from thumb-sucking to nail-biting.

The children's dentist said thumb-sucking may cause protruding teeth if continued beyond age 6, but nail-biting does not hurt the teeth.

"Almost every adult has a chewing habit of some sort," Dr. Massler said. "It was found in World War II that the best pilots were not the calm ones but those who bit their nails or chewed their lips."

Chain-smoking or nibbling on pencils all day is much preferable, he said, to going home bursting with frustration and bellowing at your wife and children.

Dr. Massler did say chewing gum isn't such a hot idea. It contains sugar and that's bad for your teeth, he said.

Slezak To Sing In Strauss Role

NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Slezak, actor and musical comedy star, will sing on the Metropolitan Opera stage where his father won fame a half century ago.

Slezak, 57, has been signed to appear as a guest artist in the comic role of Zeupan in the Johann Strauss operetta, "The Gypsy Baron."

The operetta, in a new English version by Maurice Valency, will be staged at the Met next fall for the first time since the 1905-06 season.

That was a few years before Slezak's late father, Leo, became a leading tenor at the opera house. From 1909 to 1913, Leo Slezak earned a substantial reputation for his performances of Otello and roles in the Wagnerian repertoire.

His mustachioed son, who has sung in musicals by Sigmund Romberg, Jerome Kern, and Rodgers and Hart, describes his voice as "loud but unpleasant." He is starring on Broadway in "The Gazebo," a mystery comedy.

Slezak can claim the music of Strauss as a kind of birthright. He was born in Vienna in 1902. Before coming to this country in 1930, he was trained as a pianist and accompanied his father on concert tours.

Held Blameless In Alfalfa's Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Alfie charged me with a jackknife. I was forced to shoot."

So testified Moses S. Stiltz, 38, Monday, and a coroner's jury held him blameless in the slaying of one-time "Our Gang" comedy star Carl (Alfalfa) Switzer.

Jack Plott, 37, testified he and Switzer, 32, had been drinking when they got in a fight with Stiltz last Wednesday night. Switzer claimed Stiltz owed him $50. Stiltz denied it.

In clearing Stiltz, the jury ruled Switzer's death was justifiable homicide and that Stiltz acted in self defense.

Plott had not been accused of any responsibility in the shooting. He appeared at the inquest solely as a witness.

The Sport Scope

by Johnny Hudson

The fourth annual East Carolina High School Swim Meet was deemed a success this past Saturday although the field of teams was fewer this season than any other previous year.

Although Myers Park took the fourth meet with a one-sided score, the event was an interesting one and a packed crowd was on hand most of Saturday afternoon.

Coach Ray Martinez, East Carolina swim tutor, was pleased with the meet and felt that it had provided a good opportunity for competition and also gave the swimmers a look at East Carolina. "The meet was filled with some real good swimmers", stated Martinez.

More Teams Needed

Plans are already underway for the fifth such event but the big problem facing the East Carolina Aquatics Club is the lack of teams to compete in the event.

Raleigh, Chapel Hill, Myers Park, and Greensboro are the only schools in the state which host the water sport. Wilmington, High Point, Durham, and Greenville have competed in earlier meets but lack of interest or the inability to find a swim coach has forced the schools to drop the indoor sport.

Swimming is considered by health authorities as the most beneficial and popular sport in America and the interest has increased in most parts of the country. In North Carolina, the sport seems to be losing prestige.

Coach Martinez has been trying to get some Virginia prep schools to compete in the meet and chances were good that several would this year until the integration issue hit the Virginia area.

Maybe next year, the Virginia schools will be able to enter the event. If so, the meet could become much stronger and gain much more publicity.

Depth Is Big Factor

One point was proved in Saturday's meet and that was that depth was the big factor. Myers Park won only five of the eleven events but their depth carried them to an easy victory. They were almost 61 points better than second place Raleigh.

The Mustangs won more points in every event with the exception of the breaststroke than their opponents. Greensboro and Chapel Hill provided the individual stars but their point total didn't even come close to that of Myers Park.

Jimmy Jamerson, the distant freestyler of Chapel Hill, won first place in two events by a large margin but because of the large number of entries by Myers Park, the Mustangs gained more points from both events than Chapel Hill.

Scoring of the points was as follows: seven points for 1st place, five for 2nd place, four for 3rd, three for 4th, two for fifth, and one for 6th place.

State Cancels Meet

Willis Casey, swim tutor of N. C. State College, was on hand for Saturday's meet and in doing so also postponed State's meet with East Carolina which was slated for yesterday.

Coach Martinez stated that he hoped the meet would be re-scheduled later this winter.

The Pirate swimmers have had their troubles finding a schedule during the past years and have been forced to go out-of-state for most of their meets. Thus far, ECC has lost two meets this season, both of them to Carolina, undefeated for the past three years. Their last meet with the Tar Heels resulted in a 44-42 defeat.

Remaining on the Pirate slate are such powers as the U. of Georgia, U. of Emory, Florida State, U. of Florida, and the U. of Miami.

A rugged road awaits the ECC mermen.

Kentucky Clings To Top Ranking

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Kentucky for the second straight week, fought off a strong challenge by North Carolina to gain top ranking among the nation's college basketball teams in the weekly Associated Press poll.

The once-beaten Wildcats, needing only one more victory to make it an even 600 for Coach Adolph Rupp, drew even more support today despite the fact that they, as well as the Tar Heels, were idle last week.

Of the 114 sports writers and broadcasters participating in the poll, Kentucky drew 41 first place votes to 27 for North Carolina. Last week the Wildcats topped the Tar Heels in first place votes 38 to 33. The balloting was based on games through last Saturday.

It was closer in the point total. Kentucky (14-1) had 1,155 points to 1,097 for North Carolina (10-1). Kansas State was a distant third despite 16 first place nominations. The Wildcats (13-1) attracted 786 points and didn't budge out of last week's position.

Because of the comparatively little action due to the mid-year examinations, there was very little change among the top ten.

Kentucky and Bradley will be the busiest of the top ten clubs this week. Each has three games scheduled. St. John's faces the toughest assignment, having to play strong St. Louis and Loyola on foreign courts.

The top ten teams, with first place votes in parentheses (points on 10-9-8 basis):

1. Kentucky (41) 1,155
2. North Carolina (27) 1,097
3. Kansas State (16) 786
4. Auburn (6) 625
5. Cincinnati (5) 622
6. North Carolina State (12-2) 613
7. St. John's (1) 356
8. Michigan State (1) 355
9. Bradley (11-2) 235
10. West Virginia (2) 172

The second ten: Mississippi State (7) 153; Marquette (4) 96; Seattle (1) 74; Oklahoma City 60; St. Louis (2) 53; St. Bonaventure (1) 26; Louisville 24; Illinois 17; California 16.

Lenoir Rhyne entertains Elon tonight in the only game involving North State Conference basketball teams.

Non-conference Belmont Abbey kept up its win streak Monday night by rolling over Ft. Gordon, Ga., 81-69. John Von Bargen hit 21 points and grabbed 19 rebounds for the winners.

Pfeiffer, meanwhile, took an 87-78 overtime victory over Newberry of South Carolina's Little Four. Richard Biddy led the attack with 23 points.

Pettit, Baylor Threaten Two Mikán Records

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis' Bob Pettit and rookie Elgin Baylor of Minneapolis are threatening to eclipse two of George Mikán's National Basketball Assn. records.

Pettit today had lengthened his league scoring lead to 118 points over runner-up Paul Arizin of Philadelphia.

The Hawks' ace has accumulated 1,277 points for a 29.0 a game average, well ahead of the 28.4 standard established by Mikán in the 1950-51 season.

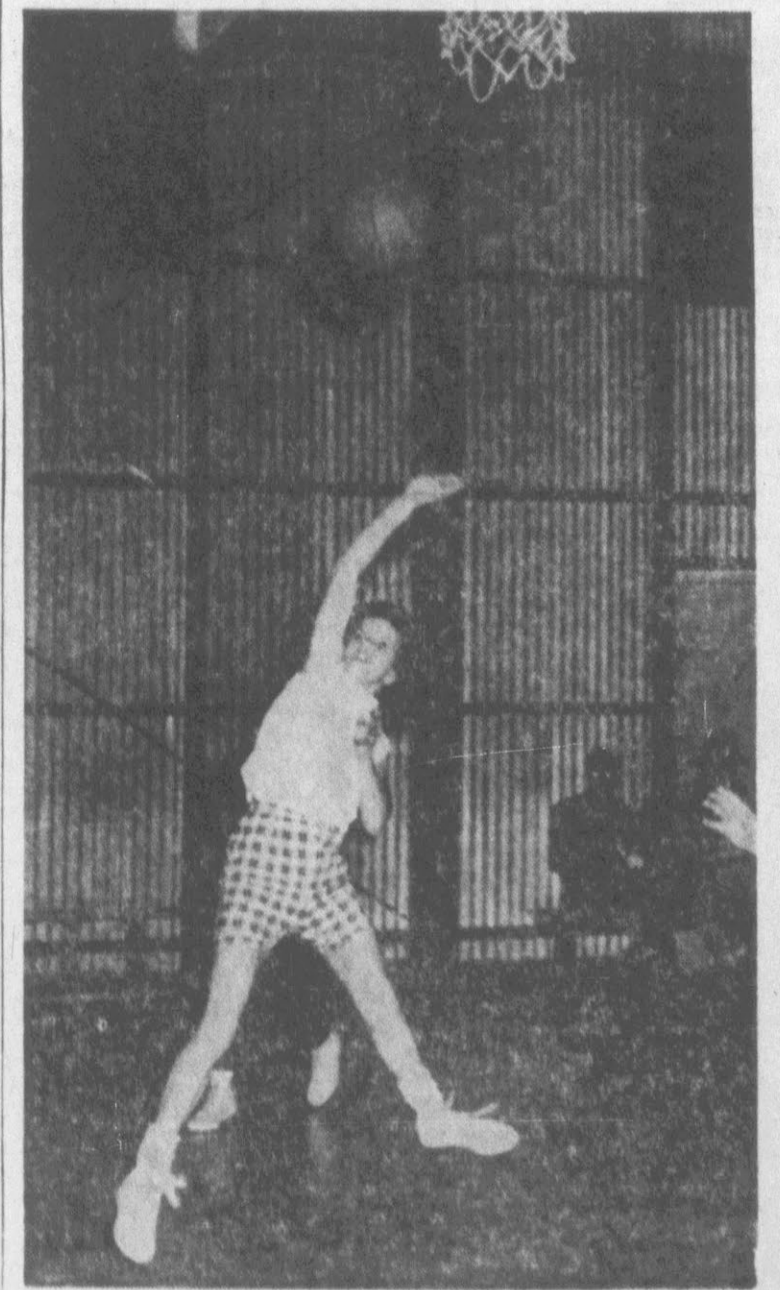

Fourth in the scoring duel, Baylor has scored 1,046 points, a 23.8 average. He will have to score at a 25.1 pace the rest of the season to exceed the 1,698 points Mikán tallied in his first year in the NBA.

Arizin, with 1,159 points and a 25.8 average, is well ahead of third-place Jack Twyman of Cincinnati. Twyman has 1,120 points and a 23.8 average.

Arizin was the only one of the top four to see action Monday night scoring 29 points as the Warriors defeated the Detroit Pistons, 102-98.

Navy quarterback Joe Tranchesi was star athlete at Clairton, Pa. High. He also performed for Bulls Prep.

Underdogs

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The United States held the underdog role in the World Amateur Basketball Championships today following its unimpressive victory over weak Nationalist China and Russia's one-sided triumph over Bulgaria.

The United States had to put on a strong second-half rally to defeat Formosa 85-69 Monday night while the Soviets easily rode over their Bulgarian satellites 78-58.

The winners boosted their records in the round-robin competition to 3-0. They met Wednesday night, but the Russians are not scheduled tonight, but the Russians here figure the American Air Force team has its work cut out for it. The Russians, although they are less experienced, have shown more speed and effective outside shooting.

Each of these potential All-Americans was principally involved in the final outcome of his team's game Monday night. Some produced winning efforts while others were not as fortunate. Robertson who led the fifth-ranked Bearcats to a 73-52 victory over Drake in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

Boozier hit for 21 points in Kansas State's 78-55 romp over Iowa State in a Big Eight contest. Cox supplied the impetus with a 23-point performance in Kentucky's 94-70 lacing of Georgia Tech.

West Virginia took the lead for the first time with 4:10 to go on West's fielder as the Mountaineers won their 43rd straight Southern Conference game, 77-67 over George Washington.

Johnson tallied 28 points and led a rebounding parade as Minnesota downed Illinois 81-70 in a Big Ten game. Crosthwaite teamed with Charley Osborne for 51 points as Western Kentucky avenged a December defeat by LaSalle with a 96-74 victory.

Conversely, Coleman was held to 16 points — 14 under his season average — as Miami, Fla. beat Kentucky Wesleyan, 69-64. Former Big Ten scoring leader Clarence Wordlaw could manage only 11 points for Iowa as the Hawks lost to Ohio State 96-72 in the only other Big Ten action.

In other major action, Don Smith scored 26 points for ninth-ranked Bradley in the Braves 77-63 victory over the University of Detroit and Ted Luckenbill and Gary Phillips combined to score 54 points in Houston's 88-58 win over North Texas State. Both were Missouri Valley Conference games.

Robertson helped Cincy to a 17-point first half lead with 16 points and scored 27 overall. He hauled down 17 rebounds and held Drake ace Bob Teeler to seven points in the first half. Teeler led Drake scorers with 17 points.

K-State, ranked third in this week's Associated Press poll, turned on a torrid second half to up their record to 14-1. The Wildcats had a slim 30-29 halftime lead but Boozier got help from Dave Douglas who scored 18 points for the runaway.

George Washington had a hefty 42-30 halftime lead over the 10th ranked West Virginians and upped this to 46-32 early in the second half before West and some Mountaineer bench strength led the comeback.

The top-ranked Wildcats, who have a 15-1 record, wouldn't let history repeat itself. Tech had high hopes for a repeat of last February's 71-52 upset victory but Kentucky held a 55-43 halftime lead and went on for its fifth Southeastern Conference victory in six starts.

Bob Lemon Will Get His Chance
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Bob Lemon's once-mighty arm will get another try with the Cleveland Indians.

"I've got my mind set on pitching for Cleveland again," he told a reporter Monday, "and I've been invited to spring training at Tucson."

Lemon, now 38, will begin this week with a series of elbow exercises to strengthen the arm that failed him during the 1957 season. He finished last year with San Diego in the Pacific Coast League after working only 25 ineffective innings with Cleveland early in the season.

Rose High Favored Over Visiting New Bern Quint

Rose High School will be solid seven-point favorites tonight when New Bern invades the Rose Gymnasium for a Northeastern Conference tilt with the Phantoms.

The slight edge is attributed to Greenville due to its place in the Northeastern rankings at this time. Washington and Kinston are tied for first place with identical 6-1 records, while Greenville ranks third with its 4-2 mark.

New Bern is fourth with a 3-3 record. Following in order are Roanoke Rapids, 3-3, Jacksonville, 1-4, Elizabeth City, 2-4, and Tarboro, 0-5.

Besides Greenville's edge in the won-loss department, the Phantoms are also holding a slight edge in height and experience. New Bern's quintet will be paced by Cliffe Rowe and Terry Massey, a pair of returnees from last year's club. The rest of the team will be filled out with newcomers to the outfit.

Greenville on the other hand, will have Steve Noble, Joe Moye, Billy Cox, Howard Garner, all veterans, in starting posts, with only one newcomer, Erky Duff, filling in the other starting slot. Garner, Moye, and Noble are three of the league's tallest players, and Moye is regarded as one of the loop's most dangerous scorers. Cox and Duff are predominantly floor-men.

Coach Bo Farley commented yesterday that his team "appears to be in good shape, perhaps the best shape they've been in all year." A Phantom victory would be important in the league standings, giving them a 5-2 record, just a jump behind the leaders—who might also lose tonight. A Greenville victory and a loss by either Kinston or Washington would tighten the league race considerably.

A jayvee ballgame will get under way tonight at 6:30 and the varsity encounter will begin at 8:00.

Still Has Faith In S. C. Cagers
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
South Carolina basketball Coach Walt Hambrick learns tonight whether the layoff for mid-term exams helped his disappointing Gamecocks.

South Carolina, currently stuck in seventh place in Atlantic Coast Conference standings with an overall 3-10 mark, entertains Furman. The game team ran over South Carolina two weeks ago.

Hambrick still has a lot of faith in his club despite the number of defeats. "We were in all of those ball games except two right up to the last," he maintains, "and we didn't collapse at any time."

"The losses," he added, "were due to mistakes and missed shots. And our inconsistency was due to the ball clubs we were playing against rather than ourselves."

This doesn't mean Hambrick is jumping with optimism over the outlook for the rest of the season. He pointed out that the Gamecocks face a tough schedule that includes only three more home games. The squad meets sixth-ranked North Carolina State in the first half of a doubleheader at Charlotte's Coliseum Friday.

North Carolina, tops in the ACC and No. 2 in the country, plays Clemson in the nightcap.

The next night, South Carolina is paired with the Tar Heels and State with Clemson.

In the only other ACC action this week, Duke entertains Pittsburgh in a regionally televised game Saturday afternoon.

Randy Sandy In Charlotte Bout
CHARLOTTE (AP) — Randy Sandy, a tested campaigner who has appeared in many nationally televised bouts, meets collegian Walter Irby of Columbia, S.C., tonight in a 10-round welterweight match.

Their Park Center scrap heads a March of Dimes benefit card. Irby, a Benedict College senior, turned pro in 1953 and has won 23 of 30 fights. He hopes to use Sandy as a stepping stone to bigger things.

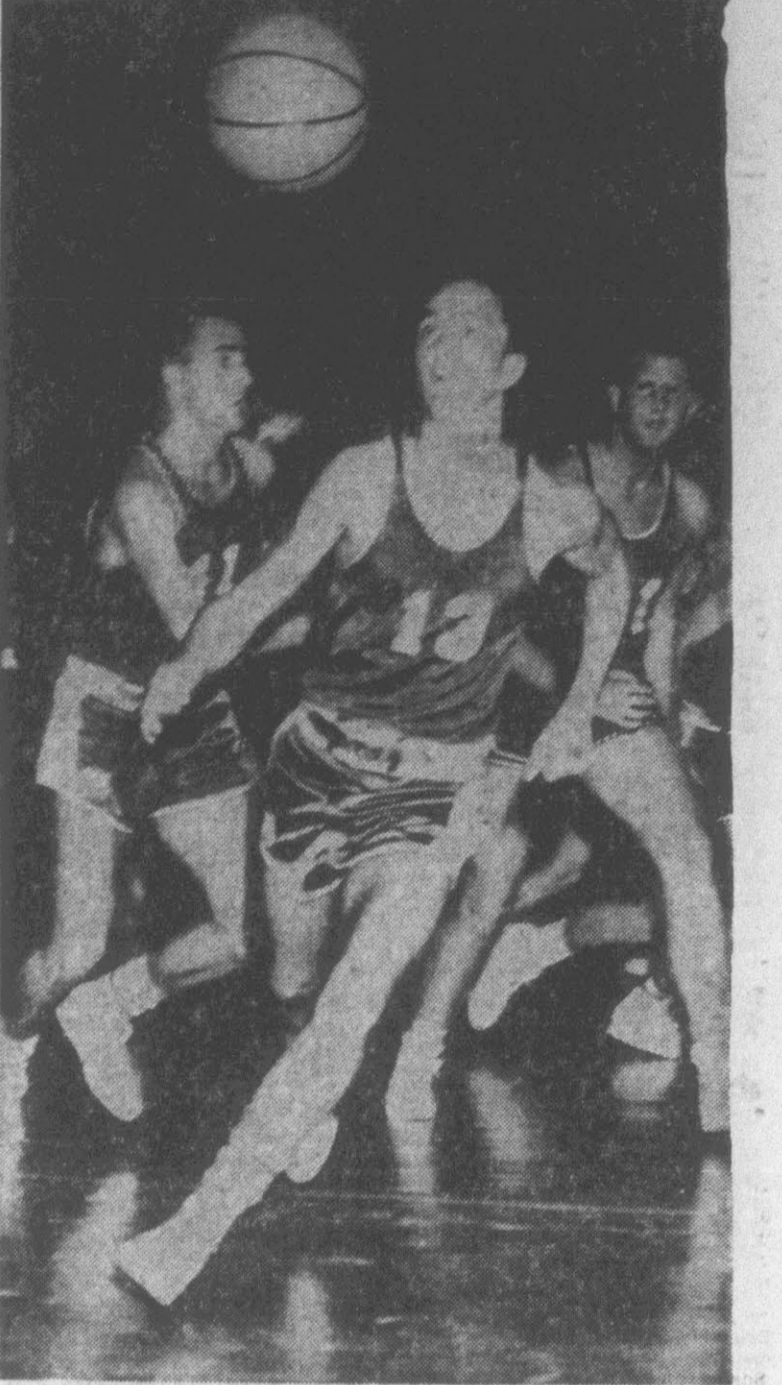

Another 10-rounder features heavyweight Waban Thomas of Charlotte and Charlie Jones of New York.

Thomas also has a date at Camp Lejeune on Wednesday of next week against veteran Charlie Norkus.

Former heavyweight challenger Pete Rademacher will referee both bouts.

Jacksonville's Gator Bowl seats 42,000 fans.

Detroit Signs Ferrell For General Manager

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, who lost catcher Rick Ferrell 30 years ago because they tried to keep him hidden in the minor leagues, brought him back Monday as their general manager.

Ferrell, 53, replaces John J. McHale, at least on a temporary basis. McHale, 37, quit the Tigers Sunday to become vice president and general manager of the Milwaukee Braves.

Ferrell, who holds the all-time American League record for catching 1,806 games, played four seasons in Detroit's minor league system in the late 1920s. The late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, then commissioner of baseball, declared Ferrell a free agent because the Tigers did not place his name on the draft list.

Ferrell then sold himself to the old St. Louis Browns for a $25,000 bonus and a $12,500 contract, and started a big league career that no catcher has since matched. He caught over 100 games for 11 seasons, caught in the first All-Star game in 1934 and in four other mid-season classics.

Ferrell played for St. Louis, Boston and Washington in the American League, and while with the Red Sox joined with his brother-in-law, John Podres, to form one of the game's finest battery teams. Rick has a lifetime batting average of .281.

The Tigers fired Ferrell once he came here in 1950 as a coach under Manager Red Rolfe and was let out after the 1953 season when Fred Hutchinson was manager.

Since then Ferrell has been a scout, and last season was named director of minor league player personnel. In that capacity, he worked closely with McHale.

The Tigers announced Ferrell will have full authority as general manager "until such time as we name a general manager."

"I'm going to try to keep the job," Ferrell pledged.

Podres, Repulski Sign Contracts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pitcher Johnny Podres and outfielder Rip Repulski have signed their 1959 contracts, the Los Angeles Dodgers announced today.

Salaries were not disclosed. The signings brought to 17 the number of Dodgers under contract.

Baltimore Counting On Big Bonus Boy

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Dave Nicholson, the highly publicized St. Louis bonus boy who has yet to justify the $100,000-plus bonanza he struck a year ago, will show his stuff in the Baltimore Orioles' new training camp at Miami next month.

The big 19-year-old outfielder probably will command most of the attention from reporters and photographers, but a couple of other youngsters—outfielder Willie Tasby and pitcher Jerry Walker—will be the ones to watch for possible regular Oriole berths in 1959.

Tasby has speed and power. In seven minor league seasons, he hit 134 home runs and twice led his league in stolen bases. With Louisville last year, he batted .322 and led the American Assn. with his 291 total bases.

Walker, signed out of Ada, Okla., led the Sally League with 18 victories against only four defeats.

Nicholson received a taste of minor league life last year, moving from league to league, including Dublin, Ga., of the class D Georgia-Florida League, where he batted .227 in 27 games, clubbing 15 home runs and driving in 60 runs in 113 games.

Angelo Dagres and Leo Burke, two others who will vie for outfield berths, enjoyed fine seasons with Knoxville last year. Dagres batted .311. Burke collected 61 extra base hits, including 17 home runs.

Manager Paul Richards also will inspect five freshmen infielders. Roy Barker, who hit .253 at Vancouver, and Wayne Causey, .243 at Louisville, are the only ones with triple A experience.

The pitching squad contains only three new pitchers, besides Walker. George Bamberger was purchased from Vancouver where he led the Pacific Coast League with a 2.45 earned run average. He won 15, lost 11.

John Fisher had a 14-11 record with Wilson. Ron Moeller was 3-1 at Vancouver.

Catcher Charlie White, formerly with the Milwaukee Braves, rounds out the freshmen crew. He caught 119 games at Vancouver and ended up with a .291 batting average.

Providence, R. I. — Tommy Garrow, 134, Claremont, N. H., outpouted Tommy Tibbs, 133 1/2, Boston, 10.

Chicago — Bobby Rogers, 132 1/2, Chicago, outpouted Don Ward, 135, Gary, Ind., 8.

Caracas — Sonny Leon, 128, Venezuela, outpouted Willie Pep, 130 1/2, Hartford, Conn., 10.

Milwaukee — Don Fleeman, 178 1/2, Midlothian, Tex., outpouted Willy Besmanoff, 200, Milwaukee, 10.

Provo, Utah — Lamar Clark, 185, Cedar City, Utah, knocked out Ferron Barr, 194, Idaho Falls, Idaho, 2.

Foundation Inspired By A $1,500 Country Club Gift

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A gift of an ice machine to chill country club martinis inspired a community foundation that finances advanced study for public school teachers.

er's tour to Valencia, Spain.

Private gift support for faculty research work and advanced study is widespread in colleges and universities. The Columbus foundation apparently is a pioneer in doing this job for elementary and high school teachers.

"The effect on teacher morale has been notable," declared Clarence E. Robbins, school superintendent. "And we now find we have an important advantage in recruiting good new teachers."

Robbins said 60 per cent of the Columbus school system teachers hold master's degrees. No more than 10 per cent of the teachers in an average school system will have master's degrees.

The foundation, has budgeted $12,000 for summer study projects this year.

About $10,000 was spent last summer on such "faculty enrichment" as mathematics study at New York University; gifted children workshop study at Stanford University; counseling study at Denver University; Shakespeare institute study at Yale University; advanced science and mathematics study at the University of Virginia and study at the Bread Loaf Writing Workshop in Vermont.

Said Superintendent Robbins: "We've been able to do something for the people who have felt they must work at jobs on the outside—to maintain a standard of living they wanted for their families."

"People like this are usually the best people in teaching."

Up to now the Columbus foundation has been amply financed with a low pressure solicitation among industries, business firms and professional people. A city of 22,000, Columbus has three major local industries supporting the foundation.

The foundation board passes on study project ideas proposed by teachers. Strictly junket propositions don't get by, said Dr. Wissman.

Batista Denies Atrocity Blame

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fulgencio Batista says he never sanctioned atrocities in Cuba and believes any which took place were the work of the rebel leader Fidel Castro.

The ousted Cuban dictator was interviewed at his refuge in Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, by Managing Editor George Beebe of the Miami Herald.

In a copyright article, Beebe quoted Batista as saying Castro had weakened Cuba's economy by driving out tourists, destroying highways and burning sugar cane fields.

Batista said he believes the atrocities of which his forces are accused were "the work of Castro and not my men. If they did take place, it was without my sanction."

Batista said he has no plans to seek a return to power.

For Little Tyke, Her Bestest Day

LA PORTE, Ind. (AP)—A golden-haired little girl with a patched up heart will celebrate the "bestest" day of her life next Tuesday at the White House.

That's the day Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower will crown six-year-old Debbie Quinn as America's Valentine Girl for 1959.

The American Heart Assn. chose Debbie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Quinn of La Porte, as a symbol of hope for the 1959 heart fund campaign.

Debbie was born with four heart defects. She had a quarter-size hole between the ventricles of her heart; her pulmonary artery was too narrow; her great artery was displaced, and the right side of her heart was enlarged.

But Dr. C. Walton Lillehei of the University of Minnesota Heart Hospital repaired Debbie's heart in a 7½ hour operation that would have been impossible 10 years ago. The heart lung pump, which did the work of her heart and lungs during surgery, is a post World War II development.

Just before the operation, Debbie's brother Bobby, a year older than his sister, told Mrs. Quinn: "Mommie, I bet when God made Debbie he didn't happen to have a good heart around, so he said to her, 'take this one, Debbie, and when you are five years old I'll tell some doctor how to fix it for you so it will be as good as new.'"

Today Debbie romps and plays baseball with her brother, attends school regularly and is starting to show an interest in art—all the things that any little girl with a heart "as good as new" could do.

NO SALE! HONOLULU (AP)—Dr. Yoshio Maeda reported to police that some unidentified youngsters placed six "For Sale" signs on his front lawn. His house, Dr. Maeda said, is not for sale.

TELEVISION STORYLINE By Billy Arnold

"Auntie Mame," playing at the Pitt Theatre, was one of the best movies the local flick has shown all year. Which isn't surprising news, considering the honors it pulled down as a Broadway play before the movie was made.

Probably the movie was an improvement over the Broadway version in many ways — except that it limited the wildness somewhat — and even that wasn't limited much.

To begin with, it was an adult movie, which is something Hollywood has been slow to produce. The censors either turned their backs or closed their eyes on several occasions and that helped make the cinema version the hit it was.

I won't attempt to review the movie — why should I try to follow the hundreds of reviews of the thing since it has been on Broadway and in cinema form for some time now? But I will say that, for Greenville, it was some of the year's best entertainment.

One word about Peggy Cass, who played the Secretary Agnes Gooch, and who stole the show, in my opinion. According to releases, Miss Cass was actually a secretary before she hit the big time in "Auntie Mame." Since then, she's been on television numbers of times and is, of course, a permanent member of the crew on "Keep Talking," an NBC show.

Rosalind Russell, who played Auntie Mame in the movie and did the character 508 times on Broadway, has commented that Auntie Mame's popularity is due to her philosophy of life.

Says Miss Russell, "She is without fear, an extrovert, a doer. She does not complain or explain. She is malleable but not soft. She loves people but detests snobs and bigots. Her unquenchable optimism makes her an example of the power of positive thinking."

Suddenly you realize how true and deep is the meaning of "Mame's own life: 'Life is a banquet and most of the poor suckers in this world are starving to death.'"

True, true.

As long as we're talking about movies, we might as well mention the one scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, here. It is "Tunnel of Love", with Richard Widmark, Doris Day, and Gia Scala. This one is supposed to be pretty adult, too.

Releases from the cinema label the film as a "story about sex in the suburbs."

It also features in a minor way (depending upon how you look at it) Miss Vikki Dugan, the girl who raised such a ruckus last year with her v-neckline in the rear. She's supposed to bear the low-cut gown in history. It's not in the movie, though, I hear.

Wind Ensemble Pleases Audience Last Evening

By GEORGE E. PERRY

It was an evening for the connoisseur, when the Oberlin Wind Ensemble played their concert last evening in McGinnis Auditorium. And it was an appreciative audience of connoisseurs which heard them, moderate in numbers but enormous with applause. Well-deserved, too, was this applause, for in the past eleven years a group comparable to this has not been heard in Greenville. In the first place, it is a collegiate group (or more properly, a conservatory one), yet they performed with the technical and musical precision which one usually associates with only the strictly professional. Secondly, it is a unique group in that it is somewhat like a band, but not really one. I shall not go into the intricate differences, but let it suffice that it is a matter of instrumentation in which each player is more on his own than in the assemblage of the standard band. It is rather like an enlarged wind section (plus percussion) from a symphony orchestra.

Why did this group have which made it so outstanding? In the first place, precision. There wasn't anything but the ultimate in attacks and releases, and the only work for this is precision. The finesse they exhibited was most significant; it was present in everything they played. So was an uncanny balance, so unusual that even a solo reed could be heard above the total instrumentation. Finally, there was a meticulousness to detail, indeed to every aspect of the music they played, which made for an evening close to perfection.

Kenneth Moore, the group's impeccable conductor, led the ensemble entirely without score, which certainly spoke definitively regarding his ability, his musicianship, and his musical knowledge. With his head free from being buried in the score, he was able to pay minute attention to the music at hand, and the group performing it.

Unquestionably the finest playing of the evening was heard in the Handel-Water Music, especially in the opening bars of the first movement, when the four superb horns had the melody. In these four there exists a choice of which the Ensemble should really be proud. More than once they exhibited their superior tenets. Sharing equal honors on the program were the Riegger "Passacaglia and Fugue", and the Perichetti "Divertimento for Band", which, outside of the four encores, were the only two numbers played by the entire group. Both of these were impeccable in every detail.

Interesting was the Oetzer for Wind Instruments by Stravinsky, with its clever and contemporary writing. As a matter of fact, the Ensemble seemed to excel, along with the Handel, in the performance of the currently written numbers.

Only one number seemed to come off with less than the usual precision, and that was the Mozart Serenade No. 10 in B flat Major. Here the chief blemish was in the intonation, which, with the exception of this number, was outstanding throughout the concert.

As I said at the outset of this article, the applause was tremendous, and the encores, which were the result, were three well-known marches, plus an interesting original composition by George West, a trombonist with professional experience in well-known dance bands. All in all, it was an evening of rare listening, unusual music unusually well performed.

U. S. Shipowners Seek Retaliatory Measures

NEW YORK (AP)—American ship owners are building up steam behind a campaign to forbid shipping United States foreign aid cargoes in any vessels which trade with Red China. The argument is that U.S. shipping policy actually aids the Communist Chinese economy.

The campaign appears to have emerged as a measure of retaliation against British and Norwegian efforts aimed at forcing American owned shipping to abandon Liberian and Panamanian flags of convenience. Many American owned ships are registered under those two flags to take advantage of tax benefits and lower operating costs.

The twin quarrels tie in with demands of seamen's unions for abolition of flags of convenience.

All this is building up into a major policy problem for Congress. Questions of national defense are involved.

The U.S. government pays subsidies amounting to 130 million dollars annually to 15 subsidized lines under American registry. In good times much of this subsidy can be returned to the government. The subsidy, plus a legal guarantee of at least 50 per cent of foreign aid cargoes, are measures designed to keep American flag shipping in competition with foreign Merchant Marine fleets.

Foreign ships are under no such prohibition. In practice, about half U.S. foreign aid cargoes are carried by foreign flag ships, mostly British and Norwegian. Foreign lines make significant profits from this arrangement. These profits are used to operate ships in the China trade. Even the ship which carries a U.S. foreign aid cargo to the beneficiary nation can be and often is chartered thereafter to Red China.

The United States has no control over this. In the past year, American experts estimate, more than 100 British and Norwegian ships were chartered to Red China, which otherwise would have great difficulty in obtaining shipping.

What Red China does with the shipping is a bit of a mystery. She has no significant deep sea trade. But obviously ships so chartered are put to use. Obviously, say the shipping men, the United States thus helps support fleets upon which any trade Red China has must depend.

The quarrel over flags of convenience, meanwhile, involves the future of direct American control over a sizable merchant fleet, important to U.S. defense. Britain and Norway have been attempting, unsuccessfully thus far, to have international law interpreted so that registry under flags like the Panamanian and Liberian would be outlawed for lack of a "genuine link."

Almost half the tonnage under Panamanian and Liberian flags is American owned. Concerned by these growing navies under flags of nations not genuinely maritime, British and Norwegians have been agitating to force American-owned ships to abandon such registry or place their ships under so-called traditional flags such as the British and Norwegian.

President Eisenhower's budget message has aroused uneasiness over the future of the U.S. subsidy program. About a third of the merchant fleet under the U.S. flag gets direct subsidy to keep it in competition. Another third profits from the 50-50 split on foreign aid cargoes. The remainder is in a protected area in which there is no foreign competition.

THE 8TH CIRCLE A MASTER MYSTERY BY STANLEY ELLIN

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Arnold Lundeen, a plainclothes police officer in the New York police Department, has been charged by the District Attorney with accepting a $1,000 bribe to arrest Eddie Schrade, a "stand-in" for Ira Miller, a bookmaker, instead of Murray and perjury for denying the bribe before a grand jury.

The more deeply Murray falls in love with Ruth, the more eager he becomes to prove that Lundeen is really guilty, that Harlingen is a sentimental fool and that Ruth is mistaken in her choice of a future husband.

Murray and Harlingen have rounded up Benny Floyd, a policeman who was patrolling the beat with Lundeen at the time of the Schrade arrest, and have learned from him that Lundeen made regular visits covertly to a married woman, Helene.

An associate of Murray's, Bruno Manfredi, has brought in reports on the conspiratorial background of Ira Miller, so Bruno is assigned to check Eddie Schrade's story. Eddie has fled his Brooklyn address, but Bruno and Murray locate his hideout.

CHAPTER 12 Apparently Eddie Schrade was a man who liked the smell of salt water. His new address was across the borough in Columbia Heights, not far from Brooklyn Bridge.

His name wasn't over any of the bells in the hall, but the name plate to apartment 3B was missing. Murray walked up two flights of stairs to 3B and knocked on the door.

"Who is it?" a voice said from inside. "What do you want?" "D.A.'s office, Eddie," Murray said with his head close to the door. "LoScalzo sent me over. I have to talk to you."

The door suddenly opened to let him in, and then closed quickly behind him as he stood there blinking. The shade had been drawn down full length over the single window of the room, and the glare from a naked electric bulb hanging at eye level was blinding. It took a few seconds to focus on Schrade.

"What is it now?" he said querulously. "Don't I get any peace at all?" "Maybe not," said Murray. "Fact is, I don't work for LoScalzo, Eddie. I'm handling some business for a fellow named Lundeen."

Schrade shrank back against the wall in quaking terror. "You get out of here! You got no right to be here!" "Eddie, Eddie," Murray chided him. "You're not looking at this the right way. What's to stop me from having somebody talk you day and night? Would it make you feel better to know that every step you took there was a man talking you? Of course it wouldn't. How do I know that? Because I wouldn't like it myself. That's why I thought that the way to handle this was to sit down like intelligent people and talk it over. Am I wrong in that? Does that make me a heel?"

Schrade considered this. "You mean," he said, "that we talk it over, and then you and this Lundeen stay out of my hair? Why should I believe that?"

"You can take my word." "Your word, your word! Even Miller don't like to talk now, he knows what the cops might do to him. What makes me different from him?"

"Because Lundeen'll do what I tell him to do. And if you're wondering about me, ask anyone about the Conny-Kirk agency. We don't do business by double-crossing."

"Yeah? How did you get in here except by double-crossing?" "Eddie, don't tell me you're the kind of guy who thinks every little joke is a double-cross."

"I don't like jokers," Schrade mumbled. He slowly edged away from the wall and held out a hand. "Give me a cigarette. Give me the pack, so I don't have to go out later."

Murray tossed him the pack and Schrade lit a cigarette. He drew in deeply. "How did I get into this?" he said. He waved the cigarette at Murray. "Go on, ask me how I got into it."

"All right. How?" "That's a good question. For doing favors, that's how I got into it."

"Like being a stand-in for Miller?" "Naturally. 'Do me a favor, Eddie,' he says. 'They got me down for the count, and I need a stand-in. You got to do it, Eddie,' he says. 'Ho! If I knew what was coming—'"

"When did this happen?" "When do you think? The day with that cop, Lundeen. But what difference does that make?"

"What happened then?" "You mean, what didn't happen? He says to me, 'It's the cops, Eddie. Somebody from plainclothes grabbed me near the Garden and shook me down for everything I had on me. A thousand dollars, but it's more than that. He wants a stand-in so he can make an arrest, and I don't have time to fix it up with anybody else. You'll have to take the arrest for me, Eddie.'"

"Ira," I said, "there's a lot of favors I'd do you, but this is too much. I don't know a thing about horse betting. I wouldn't even know what to say."

"A baby could do it," he said. "Look, Eddie, you'll just stand downstairs with the elips and stuff in your pocket until he comes along, and I'll be near the corner to tip him off if it's you. That's all you do, you stand there. Then when he makes the arrest you put up a little fuss so it'll look legitimate, you go to court and pay the fine, and that's the whole thing. You're a first-timer, Eddie, you got nothing to worry about. I'll cover the fine, and give you fifty for yourself in the bargain."

"I can't do it, Ira," I said to him. "I'm a nervous wreck as it is. Something like this could kill me."

"You're a nervous?" he said. "Eddie, this'll be my sixty rap. It means—"

"Hold it!" Murray cut in. "Did Miller really say that this would be his sixty rap? That they might throw the book at him now?" "Sure. And then he said, 'Eddie, if that happens, my wife will go crazy. You know what she's like. And there's something else, Eddie. If anything happens to me I'll have to close up Songster. Then look at the spot you'll be in.'"

"So there it was. His wife, the business, everything was suddenly on my shoulders. Did I know that later on they'd get the goods on George Wykoff, so that the D.A. would look up first-time arrests to find the stand-ins? I didn't even know what time it was, that's how dumb I was."

"I took the arrest, it worked like Miller said it would. Then they caught up with Wykoff, and the house fell in on me. They got me in front of the grand jury and started to sweat me."

"It turned out that being a stand-in wasn't so bad; they didn't even bother about that. But if you tell lies to the grand jury they got you on perjury. Does that cop, that Lundeen, think I should cover up for him on account of the fifty bucks Miller gave me? You can tell him for me that he made a lot more money being crooked than I got for doing a favor."

Schrade drew on his cigarette now with the serenity of a man who has cleared his conscience. "Well," he said, "that's how it happened. And now that I told you, I want you to play square with me. I want you to keep that Lundeen away from me like you said."

He held up a warning finger. "I'm taking your word on that."

Murray said, "Did he ever approach you or threaten you up to now?"

"So what if he didn't? He could still get ideas before the trial."

"All right," Murray said, standing up. "You won't have to worry about him any more."

"Wait a minute," Schrade said. "You know, when you first walked in maybe I got the wrong idea about you. But seeing you're a nice fellow, I got a little proposition to make."

Murray waited expectantly. "It's like this," Schrade explained. "With somebody else running Songster and all, I got myself a job now playing piano with a little combination. Just violin, piano, and sax, but very good. It ain't union, but who cares? What the union don't know won't ever hurt us."

"Anyhow, if you got any kind of a wedding or an affair where you want music, just get in touch with me. As a favor, I'll give you a big break in the price."

"I thought you decided not to do any more favors for people," Murray said.

Schrade smiled. "Not people," he said. "Just bookies."

Mary Costa Surprised By Disney Production

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Is that me?" Mary Costa asked as she watched the movie screen. There was reason for her astonishment. She was witnessing for the first time the work that she began six years ago. Mary is the voice of "Sleeping Beauty," Walt Disney's new 6-million-dollar all-cartoon feature. Her association with the Disney studio actually began nine years ago. "I had just come out to Hollywood from Knoxville and I had always wanted to work for Disney," she recalled. "So I went out to the studio for an audition. I had a southern accent you could cut with a knife, and I can understand why they weren't interested."

They drew the pictures," said blonde, vivacious Mary. "I worked off and on for three years, but never for more than a week at a time. I'd do one scene and then come back a year later and do it differently." Meanwhile, Mary met and married writer-director Frank Tashline, started a promising acting career, gave it up to play a car salesgirl on television. She also continued her voice training. Last summer, she made a sensational opera debut in England and toured the U.S. and Canada with a concert version of Leonard Bernstein's "Candide." She'll be singing this summer in Vancouver's International Music Festival and at Hollywood Bowl. "I'm delighted," she said. "When I quit television I was afraid I wouldn't be accepted as anything but the girl who sells automobiles. But I found that hasn't held me back at all."

Her recordings were played for Walt—"I didn't even meet him until I had finished the picture." He admired the magical quality of her soprano and she was signed. But she didn't know what she was getting into. "I didn't even know that they made the voice recordings before."

His Cats Have Varied TV Taste PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Selecting television programs is a kitchen problem at the home of Harry Mowrey. Mowrey said he has nine cats. Three of them like TV. One he said, watches only Westerns and Phil Silvers. A second watches only "You Asked For It." The third, said Mowrey, "plays right along with football, basketball and hockey stars—and doesn't even know there are other television performers."

Goat Enjoys TV Western Shows

WHITEHOUSE, N.J. (AP) — Midgie, a goat, doesn't show much interest in other goats. She likes television. Specifically, she likes Westerns. For five months, Midgie has been a house pet of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mederos of Readington Rd. She was taken in because she was the smallest of several kids born in Mederos' goat farm. The goat watches television from a spot near an arm chair in the Mederos kitchen. Drama, situation comedies and rock 'n' roll programs during the afternoon apparently get Midgie's goat. But no kidding, she really likes the horseplay of those Westerns.

Rally To Oppose Gas Tax Boost

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The governors of 28 states have agreed to join Gov. Price Daniel in opposing an increase in the federal gasoline tax.

The majority of the governors of our sister states feel as strongly as I do against President Eisenhower's proposal for further federal invasion of this tax which should be reserved for the states," Daniel said Sunday.

He wired all state governors Jan. 12, asking them to join in opposing the tax hike and diversion of federal highway use taxes into non-highway channels.

Daniel said that of 33 replies, 28 were favorable and others wanted more time to study the matter. None favored the federal tax increase.

Hodges Says N. C. No Longer Industrial Baby

DURHAM (AP)—Gov. Hodges wants it known that North Carolina is no longer an industrial infant.

The welcome growing pains of industrialization is evident in all parts of the state, he said Monday night.

"Our established industries—tobacco, textiles and furniture—are enjoying a normal, healthy growth while our newer industries—metal working, electronics and chemicals—show that we are keeping pace with the fast-moving world in which we live."

Hodges reported in an address to the State Board of Conservation and Development that 253 million dollars was poured into the state for new or expanded industry in 1958.

Such progress, he said, is "a step closer to the era of prosperity that will mean a better life for all our citizens."

He commended the work of the North Carolina Business Development Corp., in stimulating new business.

And he declared that "the possibilities inherent in the Research Triangle program are limitless, not only for the Durham-Raleigh-Chapel Hill area, but for the entire state."

The board, holding its annual winter meeting here, earlier heard its industrial administrator report that North Carolina is well ahead of the rest of the nation in industrial growth.

Walter W. Harper said the state showed a 32.5 per cent in 1958 over 1957 industrial expansion, while the country as a whole suffered a 17.4 per cent decline.

Representatives of budding coastal industry, sports fishing, asked help from the board's advertising committee.

Pitt Man On Board Of American Landrace Ass'n

A Pitt County man has been elected to the board of directors of the American Landrace Association, it was learned today.

Jarvis H. Allen of Greenville was named to the organization's board of directors at the 8th annual membership meeting held in Columbus, Ohio earlier this month.

Allen and Barret Surrrell of Ayden attended the meeting from Pitt County.

Total registrations of 38,188 for the past year were reported, a 62 percent increase over the previous year. Membership in the Landrace Association grew even faster with a 97 percent increase during the year. The total membership now stands at 4,398.

Balks At Life In His Mansion

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—You'd think the governor would have a pretty comfortable residence.

But not the governor of Missouri.

In the governor's mansion there are many rooms—and all are hard to heat. On a recent 30-degree day, only two of the 20 rooms could be heated enough to be comfortable. These were a second-floor bathroom, which has a supplementary electric heater, and the kitchen, which has two electric stoves.

The trouble is, the place is a firetrap. All the fireplaces have been plugged up and the furnace has been removed as a safety measure. Steam for heating is piped from a state office building about a block away. This heat rapidly seeps out through rolled door and window frames. During a recent cold wave, Gov. James T. Blair stuffed folded newspapers in the windows and doors.

The three-story mansion, of stately French-Italian design, is 86 years old. The plaster sags on some of its 22-foot ceilings. Paper peels off the walls almost as fast as it is put on.

Why does the governor put up with it? He didn't until four months ago. When he was inaugurated in 1957 he balked at moving in, describing the place as "cold, drafty and rat-infested." He and Mrs. Blair finally made the move because custom said they should.

Monday the governor told the Appropriations Committee of the State House of Representatives:

"You gentlemen have to make up your minds sometime whether you want to make only an historic shrine out of the mansion or whether you want to make it a livable place for your governors."

He said architects estimate it would cost $750,000 to put the mansion into livable shape. A new mansion, on a more modest but more practical scale, could be built for about $200,000.

Discusses Curbing Education Board

RALEIGH (AP)—Curbs on the power of the State Board of Higher Education were discussed here today.

Presidents of state-supported colleges and chairmen of their boards of trustees, summoned by Gov. Hodges, looked over proposed revisions in the law governing the board's operation.

The proposals were worked out by subcommittees from the Board of Higher Education and the boards of trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina. They drafted the recommendations as a means of resolving a dispute concerning authority of the Board of Higher Education.

Gov. Hodges said he would base legislation which he will recommend to the 1959 General Assembly on the results of today's meeting.

Desired Homes Are Out Of Reach

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The average American home buyer wants a 3-bedroom house, but he can't afford to pay for it, says a Seattle lumber company executive.

Robert V. Blackstock told the Southwestern Lumberman's Assn. convention the lumber industry and home builders should combine forces to build better houses for less money.

Blackstock said it can be done through such technological advances as off-site construction, pre-assembled window units and applied siding to save labor costs.

Willing To Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today Soviet leaders are trying to delude the world into believing they want to end the cold war while actually seeking advantage to win it.

Nevertheless, he told a news conference, the United States feels this spring is about the right time for a high level East-West conference on Germany and European security since it is sometimes possible to reach peace—promoting agreements with the Soviets through tough bargaining.

Dulles said the United States would be delighted to get an effective reunification of Germany by any means fair to all sides. But he ruled out Russia's proposal for a confederation of West Germany and Communist East Germany because, he said, that is designed to secure the permanent partition of the German nation.

Joint Session To Hear Connerat

The City Council, Redevelopment Commission and Planning-Zoning Commission will meet jointly Thursday night to hear R. V. Connerat, representative of the Urban Redevelopment Commission of the FHA discuss the Urban Redevelopment program.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said the joint meeting will be open to the public. It will begin at 8 o'clock in the Council room of City Hall. Connerat had originally been scheduled to speak to the three municipal government bodies earlier this month but through a schedule mix-up he was unable to attend.

Bloxam said a meeting of the Planning-Zoning Commission will be held prior to the joint meeting to consider a request for a zoning change. That meeting is set to begin at 7:30.

At the joint meeting Connerat will discuss the workings of an urban redevelopment program such as is under consideration for this city.

Another Batista Officer To Die

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The defendant in Havana's second show-case trial was convicted before dawn today and sentenced to death before a firing squad.

Three of Fidel Castro's officers deliberated for 39 minutes and found former Batista army Capt. Pedro Morejon guilty of assassination, homicide, and robbery.

Morejon heard his fate after a trial of more than 10 hours, staged in marked contrast to last week's opening spectacle in Havana's brasserie, 17,000-seat Sports Palace.

A high spot in the scene was army headquarters outside Havana. The courtroom held only 200 persons. There were no floodlights, television cameras, or radio microphones. The crowd filling the room occasionally applauded when the prosecution scored a point, but there was none of the Roman circus atmosphere which accompanied the conviction last week of the first Havana defendant, ex-Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco.

A high spot in the trial was the sudden appearance of Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, head of the revolutionary forces in the Havana area. Cienfuegos—one of Castro's closest associates—dramatically proclaimed that if Morejon were not executed, "I will shoot myself."

He described the defendant as "the most bestial killer in the world."

Morejon raised his hands, joining them together as if in prayer, as his sentence was announced. Otherwise he showed no emotion before his guards led him out. Like Sosa Blanco, he was expected to appeal the sentence to the Superior Military Tribunal.

Court Orders Restitution Payment In Traffic Death

A suspended prison sentence and payment of $11,000 restitution was ordered yesterday for a Robersonville man who was involved in a September 13 automobile collision which took the life of W. R. (Bill) Pollard of Greenville.

William T. Brown was ordered placed on probation for five years, in lieu of a three-to-five year prison sentence, and directed to "get together" with insurance representatives on the order for payment of restitution to Pollard's widow, Mrs. Thelma D. Pollard. The sentence was handed down by Judge Henry L. Stevens, Jr., after Brown had submitted a plea of guilty to involuntary manslaughter.

Judge Stevens also handed down a sentence of 8-to-12 years for Elizabeth Roberson, Negro resident of Route 3, Greenville, who was charged with the December 3 shotgun slaying of her husband. The woman, who had been charged with first-degree murder, a capital offense, entered a plea of guilty to second-degree murder.

The accident which resulted in Pollard's death occurred at the intersection of N. C. 11 and the Belvoir highway late at night. Shortly after the accident, Brown was quoted by a highway patrolman, W. K. Chapman, as saying he was not familiar with the highway and did not see a stop sign.

Brown's car reportedly ran through the stop sign and smashed into Pollard's pick-up truck. Force of the impact overturned the truck and both Pollard and his wife were pinned inside. Pollard was pronounced dead upon arrival at Pitt Memorial Hospital where his injuries were diagnosed as a crushed skull, a broken arm and numerous lacerations and abrasions on his body.

Mrs. Pollard sustained lacerations on her head, arms and legs. Brown received treatment at the hospital for minor lacerations of the head, chest and arms, and was released after spending the night in the hospital.

Other judgments handed down by Judge Stevens in yesterday's session of court included:

Donald Phillips, 2604 Dunn St., Greenville, worthless check (14 counts), seven sentences of 30 days in jail, to be served consecutively.

William Earl Phillips, Negro, no address listed, no operator's license (third offense), six months.

Zeno Smith, 412 Ford Street, Greenville, larceny and forgery, two years.

Guy Jackson, 211 East Fifth St., Greenville, assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, plea of nono contendere to assault with a deadly weapon, six months suspended for 12 months upon payment of costs and good behavior for one year.

James Davis, Negro, Washington Court, Greenville, non-support, 12

'For' Defense Budget, But Not Happy, Either

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy and the Marines say they don't oppose President Eisenhower's defense budget. However, both attach an important "but..."

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, told Congress Monday he is supporting the defense budget. But he also made it clear he is not satisfied with the speed at which ships, planes and weapons are being replaced.

Gen. Randolph M. Pate, Marine commandant, also made no protest about the budget. But he said that Pentagon orders to cut the corps to 175,000 men will mean the loss of six combat landing teams and six air squadrons. The new budget provides for only 175,000 Marines.

Burke and Pate, along with Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr., testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday about their military branches.

Secretary of the Air Force James H. Douglas and Gen. Thomas D. White, chief of staff, were called to tell the committee today about the status and plans of the Air Force.

The Navy officials said they are satisfied the Soviet Union's submarines can't match the performance of our "boat for boat," but they expressed concern about the great and growing number of subs the Soviet could put into action.

Gates, who also supported the budget, said the Navy will be able to hit harder than ever with missile-firing nuclear Polaris submarines and carrier-based jet attack planes.

Burke said the Navy will have 113 active subs by next July 1 but the Soviet Union will have about four times as many.

Burke emphasized the Navy needs for more missiles, jet aircraft, carriers and fighting ships in general.

While Pate made no protest about the manpower cut, he noted the Marines started the year with 187,500 officers and men, now have about 165,000 and "will continue to decline as we implement the directive to reduce to a strength of 175,000 by June 30 of this year."
