Tornado Strikes Deadly Blow In St. Louis

Firemen search through ruins for the dead and injured in the devastating tornado that struck near the heart of St. Louis before dawn Tuesday. Rescue officials estimated the number of dead may go as high as 30. About 265 were injured. Numerous persons were trapped in homes and apartments which crumpled under the storm's fury. The tornado swept through a section about a mile west of the downtown area. (AP Wirephoto)

Tornado Toll Hits 21 For St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The death toll from the tornado that hit this sleeping city with explosive force early Tuesday stood at 21 today. Officials said there is reason to hope it will go no higher. Seven injured remained in hospitals. The extent of the havoc wrought by the twister in the teeming central portion of the city brought surprise that the loss of life was no greater. "The reports on missing persons is a bit cloudy but we can't find out for sure that anybody's missing," said Brig. Gen. Francis P. Hardaway (Ret.) Civil Defense director. "There are many conflicting reports." Firemen resumed digging into wreckage of a three-story house where eight died at the corner of Whittier and Delmar. The last of the 21 dead was identified as Mrs. Zulu Brown, 42. Her husband, Fred, just barely got out of the collapsing structure with their son.

School Board Advises Striking Greene Pupils Return To Classes

SNOW HILL—Greene County's Board of Education told representatives of Greene County Negro students today that the best way to get adequate facilities would be to go back to school "and show officials and the voters that you are willing to cooperate." Under the law, a county can issue two-thirds of the amount of bonds retired during the previous year, but Greene County has no bonds outstanding. The school board plans another meeting tomorrow to study the prospects for reopening the six schools.

To Push Salary Battle

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's teachers and state workers, disappointed in Gov. Hodges' budget recommendations, will take their fight for higher pay to the General Assembly's appropriations committees. Officials of the North Carolina Education Assn. and the State Employees Assn. declared today salaries must be increased if competent help is to be attracted and retained in the public schools and offices. They said they would restate their requests for higher pay before House and Senate Appropriations Committee hearings. Both groups generally are asking for 10 per cent increases. Mrs. Ethyl Edwards, executive secretary of the teachers' group, said, "We do not believe we will be able to keep the teachers we have and continue to attract teachers unless they are all given some increase in salary."

The board told the delegation it could not issue any bonds unless approved in a referendum, and said the strike may have jeopardized chances of getting a bond issue approved. The board said it could make no promises, but added that it was glad to hear from the student body. This morning's meeting was held in the office of Superintendent B. L. Davis, with Board of Education Chairman Maynard Hicks of Snow Hill presiding. An estimated 60 persons were in attendance. According to available information, the group at the meeting included members of the Greene County Training School Student Council, Principal L. H. Smith of the school, members of the Board of Education and other county officials. Newsmen present were unable to get into the room, not because of orders from the board but because of crowded conditions. A surprise strike of Negro students yesterday closed all five of the Negro schools in Greene County. Student representatives told the Board of Education at the meeting they couldn't make any statement regarding when they would return to school until they could discuss it with other students. George Grant, one of the students at the meeting, said, "Maybe we can get back within the next few days."

Conventions Worth Price, Say Officials

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Staff Writer. Conventions for public officials—much discussed in North Carolina during the past month—are worth every cent they cost, and then some, in the eyes of members of Pitt County's official family. To most of them, annual meetings of their state organizations and associations are events of high value with low price tags. The ratio of cost to value is usually so low, they say, little has ever been said about their participation. However, convention-going financed by public funds has become a major topic of discussion in North Carolina. It was shoved into focus of public attention by first announcements of a planned convention cruise to Bermuda for members of the North Carolina Association of ABC Boards. Plans for the convention cruise are dead, dropped a week ago by the convention committee in the face of mounting adverse opinion. The committee didn't say so, but one reason for the adverse opinion was the announced cost of the cruise. Some estimates of cost for attending the ABC meeting ranged as high as $175 per person. So far as Pitt County is concerned, that price would be considerably above usual convention costs, even for the ABC meetings which generally carry a higher price tag than any other type of convention attended by Pitt County officials. Last summer, for instance, the county paid $240.42 for two ABC officials to attend a four-day meeting, an average of $120.21 each. By contrast, seven other county officers attended a four day meeting of county commissioners, auditors and tax supervisors for the average of $49.42 each and a total of $345.95. That situation is not unusual, however. Although the county assumes responsibility for travel, hotel and eating bills for official delegates only, delegates to the ABC conventions usually travel farther. And their convention are usually held at recognized resort areas at the height of the summer resort season. Last year, the state ABC convention was held at Myrtle Beach, S. C. The year before, it was in Asheville and in 1956 the delegates met at Virginia Beach, Va. All were summer meetings. County commissioners, auditors and tax supervisors met last summer at Carolina Beach. The year before they were in Winston-Salem. Neither of those sites ranks as resort areas with either of the last three ABC convention sites. Regardless of where the meetings are held, both County Auditor H. Reginald Gray and ABC Supervisor Clinton Elks insist the county get a bargain for its investment. "The county benefits far more from collective discussions at the meetings than it would get from non-attendance," they say. "They offer a sounding board for county governmental structure throughout the state and form a basis for collective protection of county rights." "So far Pitt County's representatives to the meetings are concerned, they are strictly business affairs. We go to exchange ideas, learn what we can from the various discussions and speakers, and we try to put into practice the things we feel will best benefit Pitt County's particular situations." The claim by Gray and Elks of a business-like attitude by county delegates is backed up by their record of offices in the state associations. Gray is presently first vice-president of the state association of County Accountants and is scheduled to move into the presidency at the 1959 convention. ABC Board Chairman J. W. Joyner is a past president of the state Association of ABC Boards and is still a member of that group's Executive Committee. County Commissioner J. Vance Perkins is president of the state Association of County Commissioners and has previously held offices as first vice-president, second vice-president and district director. Chief ABC Law Enforcement Officer Jim Ward is president of the state Association of ABC Law Enforcement Officers. He moved up to the top job by holding several lesser state offices. Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson is past president of the state Sheriffs' Association. Assistant Clerk of Superior Court H. L. Lewis, Jr., is an officer in a statewide association of assistant clerks of court. None of those officers, with the exception of that held by Perkins, has meant any additional expense to the county, according to Gray. The exception made by Perkins was created in August when he was picked to represent North Carolina at the convention of the National Association of County Officials. The convention was held in Portland, Oregon, and since the state association paid only his train fare and advanced $50 for expenses, Pitt County picked up the remainder of the check. That amounted to $186.39, according to records in the auditor's office. Payment of Perkins' expenses to the national convention is a "standard procedure" in North Carolina, Gray says. The county which has (continued on page 12)

N. C. Apparently NAA CP Target

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, having stormed Virginia's "massive resistance" to Supreme Court school integration edicts, apparently has chosen North Carolina's token compliance as its next target. Parents of 14 Negro children, backed by the NAACP, filed federal suits Tuesday seeking a permanent end of segregation in Mecklenburg County (Charlotte) and Greensboro city schools. Kelly Alexander of Charlotte, NAACP state president, said similar suits will be filed affecting Guilford County (Greensboro) and Durham city schools. Thurgood Marshall of New York, general counsel of the NAACP, and Conrad O. Pearson of Durham, general counsel for the state NAACP, appear as lawyers for the plaintiffs in both suits. Alexander said this indicated the NAACP has shifted its school litigation southward from its announced first target, Virginia. He replied: "It could be assumed that that might be the program. I wouldn't want to state that." North Carolina has had token integration—a total of 11 Negroes—in white schools of Charlotte, Greensboro and Winston-Salem for two years. The limited desegregation was voluntary, under provisions of the state's Pupil Assignment Act which sets up criteria, not racial, for local boards to follow in assigning children to schools. There have been several suits attacking the assignment act, one from Durham now on appeal to the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, but in each case the courts have held that the plaintiffs did not exhaust the administrative remedies provided in the law. The appeals court has ruled the law "not unconstitutional on its face," a decision the Supreme Court refused to review. Alexander said the Mecklenburg and Greensboro suits differed from previous court tests in that "these cases have exhausted administrative remedies." The eight Negro children involved in the Mecklenburg suit have applied for two consecutive years for reassignment to white schools, and have been denied. The six children in the Greensboro suit were denied transfers to white schools last year. The NAACP brought the cases in behalf of the 14 children and "all others similarly situated." Alexander admits that this constitutes a "class action." The late Chief Judge John J. Parker of the U. S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled several years ago that the courts could not entertain "class action" suits and the ruling has been a guiding principle in racial litigation. Alexander said the NAACP included the class action provision "in the hope that the court will consider it." He continued, "It shouldn't be necessary to have to fight each individual case through the courts." Alexander said the suits amount to a trial balloon to "let us know where we stand."

Girl Testifies Children Chained Over Christmas

LILLINGTON, N. C. (AP)—A 12-year-old girl testified here today that she and her younger brother and sister spent Christmas in chains. The children's father, Russell Allen, a Harrett County Negro farmer, was sentenced to six years in prison by County Recorder's Court Judge Robert B. Morgan. Allen was charged with willful neglect and assault. The children, Mary Lee, 12; Geraldine, 10, and Jerry, 8, were found in chains at the home last week. The father said he chained the children to keep them from running loose. Mrs. Irene Geddie, who lives in the same small house with her 10 children, was sentenced to two years for aiding and abetting in the mistreatment of the youngsters. The Allen children are in the custody of the Welfare Department.

Urge Continuing Of Negotiations

GENEVA (AP)—The Executive Committee of the World Council of Churches today urged the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union to persevere in negotiations to ban nuclear weapon tests. The World Council represents 171 denominations of Protestant and Orthodox churches with a total estimated membership of 180 million people in all parts of the world. The three-power talks here are stalemated.

Brandt Assured U.S. Will Stay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin said today President Eisenhower assured him "no Communist threat whatsoever" will force the United States out of that city. The Social Democratic mayor issued a brief statement after spending nearly half an hour with Eisenhower. "The President was glad to have my report on the situation in Berlin. He seemed pleased to hear that my fellow citizens are not in the least frightened by the renewed Communist threats against their city and that they are absolutely certain that the Western Allies will stand by them. The President gave me the firm assurance that the United States shall defend the people of free Berlin against any effort to destroy their freedom," the statement said. "He added that no Communist threat whatsoever shall deter the United States from the discharge of its responsibilities to the people of Berlin and that the United States shall not be pushed out of free Berlin."

Neglected List Legal Holiday

CHICAGO (AP)—Parking meters bear signs which say motorists do not have to deposit money on legal holidays. Abraham Lincoln's birthday is a legal holiday. But the city's law department says this applies only to the legal holidays created by City Council for "parking purposes." The Council, in revising the traffic code last Dec. 22, neglected to list Lincoln's birthday as a legal parking holiday. Police were told to ticket cars which park at meters without depositing coins.

Senate Chairmen List Completed

Sen. Stator P. Williams of Stanley was named to head the committee on elections and elections laws with Sen. S. Burr Fritch of Brunswick heading insurance. Heading the important judiciary committees were Sen. Lunsford Crew of Halifax as chairman of Judiciary I and Sen. William Medford of Haywood chairman of Judiciary II. The proposed new Department of Water Resources would take over all state activities dealing with water problems which are now scattered out among several state agencies. The State Stream Sanitation Committee, which handles stream pollution problems, would be placed in the new department but it would be kept as it is now organized until 1965. The new department would be administered by a water resources board consisting of seven persons named by the Governor. At least one of the board members would represent interest of agriculture, at least one wildlife interests and recreation activities, at least one interests of the electric power industry, at least one of the interests of industry and at least one of the interests of municipalities. Other senate committee chairmen included: Agriculture, Sen. D. J. Rose, Wayne; Banking, Sam M. Bason, Caswell; Conservation and Development, C. V. Henkel, Iredell; Constitution, Claude Currie, Durham; Counties, Cities and Towns, Sen. Cicero P. Yow, New Hanover; Courts and Judicial Districts, J. (Continued on Page 12)

Coming Of Natural Gas To Greenville Unlikely To Bring Major Rate Reduction

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor. The coming of natural gas to Greenville probably won't bring a major reduction in the city's gas rates. Superintendent Leonard Bloxam told the Utilities Commission last night. The actual charge for natural gas has not yet been furnished the city by North Carolina Natural Gas Co. which is constructing the pipeline that will bring the gas supply here. But Bloxam pointed to the Blackburn report, on Greenville utilities operations compiled last year by L. A. Blackburn, consulting engineer of Richmond. In the report Blackburn showed that Richmond's natural gas rates are only a little cheaper than Greenville's present gas rates. Blackburn showed that a customer using 5000 cubic feet per month under Greenville's schedule paid a $10 charge while in Richmond he would pay $9.40 for the same amount. Bloxam emphasized that Greenville's present gas rate is low for the type gas being distributed. The Utilities gas system has traditionally been a small profit operation. Blackburn pointed out that on the basis of the 1957 audit report, the Utilities was making only a 4.8 per cent return on the depreciated value of the system. The discussion of gas rates was touched off when Commissioner John Clark asked how much cheaper the city would be able to purchase gas when the natural gas connection is made. "Everybody thinks of natural gas as being half as cheap as the other," Commission member Charles O'H. Horne said. "It's not," Bloxam replied. However, the superintendent pointed out that N. C. Natural Gas's rates have not yet been approved by the State Utilities Commission which controls gas rates. Presently Greenville's gas is shipped to the Utilities plant by railroad tank car and the propane gas is distributed through the city's pipe lines and also to bottled customers. Tentative plans are to purchase a base load from the natural gas line and handle peak loads with the present plant. In reply to a question as to how far along the city is with plans for purchasing natural gas, Bloxam replied, "We've told the company we are interested, period." "I think we ought to go into it very cautiously," Horne said. The superintendent told the commissioners that the metering point where local lines would tap into the natural gas line had been established just beyond the hospital on N. C. 43. He said a lateral line would be constructed by N. C. Natural Gas from the main line to that point. The gas company's line will run south of Greenville, Bloxam said it will come here from Farmville and pass in the vicinity of the television station. The line will cross the Tar River in the Port Terminal area. Now that the metering point has been established, Bloxam said Utilities engineers can "go ahead with concrete figuring." "At the next meeting we will be able to give you figures on the cost of the work," he said. The natural gas will probably be used into the city's existing 20 miles of gas lines at several points. Bloxam told the commissioners that he had recently received a letter from the gas company in which they said they hoped to be able to serve Greenville by October, 1959. Earlier the company had predicted the service would be available by this spring. Laying of the natural gas lines has already begun. The municipally-owned Utilities Commission has operated the gas service locally through the years and under present plans, it would continue to do so. The natural gas company would merely be selling gas to the city on a wholesale basis. Along the highway have also been moved to make way for the four-lane highway now under construction. Bloxam said the Country Club is now getting adequate water pressure and "they seem to be very happy with the water situation." The Country Club line was reamed out after there were complaints of low water pressure. Thirty poles have been replaced in St. John's area in conjunction with the telephone company which jointly uses the poles. Water and sewer lines have been installed in the final addition to Coghill and utilities lines have been completed in the Lincoln Park subdivision.

More Than 100 Years In Education

By PEGGY SMITH
Reflector Woman's Editor

More than 100 years of service to education has been rendered by three sisters who live at 409 Holly Street in Greenville. They are Mrs. D. M. Clark, who is a supervisor of student teachers at East Carolina College, Miss Mary C. Brogdon, retired dean of women of South-west Texas State Teachers College in San Marcos, Tex., and Miss Nettie E. Brogdon, former co-ordinator of Curriculum and Materials Bureau in Jacksonville, Fla., who is also retired.

Each of the three is a graduate of George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn., where their forebears settled after earlier residence in North Carolina.

In middle Tennessee is where Miss Mary Brogdon began exerting her influence on education. She taught many students who could not afford tuition when the state only paid for a few months of school training during a year.

Miss Mary Brogdon, who retired in 1949, has held positions as an elementary teacher, principal, college teacher and served 28 years as a college dean of women.

The other two sisters think of their older sister as being "a pioneer educator in Middle Tennessee."

In 1931 the students of South-west Texas State Teachers College dedicated their annual to Miss Brogdon, using the following dedicatory inscription which Miss Brogdon cherishes among her souvenirs:

"Because she toils to make our lives fuller of the more pleasant and profitable things of life; and because of her sincere interest in the general welfare of each student in the College, we dedicate this volume of the Pedagog. . . ."

One of her early duties as an educator which she will always remember was the settling of the thorny question of how young girls should be dressed for swimming. The faculty was split on whether or not the stockings the girls wore with their bathing suits should be long enough to be pinned to the bottom of the swim suits.

Miss Brogdon probably shocked some of her contemporaries by suggesting a radical solution to the problem. She advocated the wearing of no stockings at all, and finally persuaded other faculty members to accept her stand.

Among her many contributions to education, Miss Mary Brogdon founded the Kappa Kappa Iota, an honorary educational sorority, during the fall of 1921. She has recently been invited to attend as an honored guest at the national convention to be held in Dallas, Tex.

September 30, 1958 was the last day of Miss Nettie Brogdon's career as an educator which began about 34 years ago. She retired as a co-ordinator of the curriculum and materials bureau, a service department of Duval County school system in Florida.

Her job was concerned with the school system's 85 librarians, maintaining a professional library for teachers and purchasing audio-visual materials and library books.

Prior to entering that job years ago, Miss Nettie Brogdon was a supervisor of elementary education for 10 years and for four years was a teacher in Jacksonville, Fla. She had spent 15 years in various educational supervisory capacities in North Carolina previously.

During her varied career she remembers as one of her finest experiences a nine-month tour of Europe—five of them spent in Germany during Hitler's regime—making a survey of rural schools. She also traveled widely in Alaska (150 miles above the Arctic Circle to an Eskimo Village), Mexico, Central American and Caribbean area. She has been in every state in the union except Oklahoma—"but I flew over that," she said.

"Although I studied at Columbia University in New York City and William and Mary College in Williamsburg, Va., one of my finest and most interesting educational experiences was studying and receiving a Master's Degree from East Carolina," stated Mrs. D. M. Clark, still connected with the college, she is a supervisor of student teachers at Wahl-Coates School, the laboratory school of the college.

Taking time out from her duties as supervisor to the Pitt County Schools in 1929, she married Dr. M. Clark, who was district solicitor prior to his death.

Mrs. Clark has two children. Her son, D. M. Clark Jr., is a lawyer and clerk for U. S. Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black and her daughter is Mrs. Paul N. Montague of Winston-Salem. Mrs. Clark has been made a grandmother two times thus far.

The sisters' ideas of the future in education were combined by Miss Nettie Brogdon, who stated, "In the future we may expect to have better trained teachers. Not only will we improve in the content, but in the technique."

MRS. D. M. CLARK . . . talks to her children and friends a great deal by telephone during her spare time.

MISS NETTIE E. BROGDON . . . plans visits to points of interest on her future Scandinavian trip.

Unemployment Cloud Still Hovers

Most economic experts agree that the country is well on its way out of the period of recession which, harassed business and industry during last 1957 and most of 1958.

These experts are predicting better business, more jobs, greater production, higher pay and a generally hopped-up economic situation throughout the nation during the next few years at least.

While these predictions and reports have been rather numerous in recent months, there have also been some rather alarming reports about unemployment.

The latest of these reports from Washington economists indicate that unemployment may now be near or above the five million mark, considerably more than was the case a year ago when they said the country was just beginning to come out of the recession period.

Though most signs have pointed to a business upturn in recent months, these five million or so people who are unemployed are not only isolated in a recession, their personal status may have reached that of a real and devastating depression. To some extent the jobless count is attributed to worse-than-usual winter weather that has brought most outside work to a standstill. Even so, it is evident that businesses and industries are not rehiring people as rapidly during the business upturn as they laid them off when the downturn really got going.

For these unemployed people now, the situation may be considerably worse than it was months ago when they were laid off. Their savings—if they had any—probably have been exhausted during the extended period of unemployment, and even their unemployment benefits in many cases probably have ceased. On top of that they see business increasing, and their fellow workers who retained their jobs making overtime and taking home bigger pay checks.

Although the nation's economy cannot be made to hire more people than it can productively support, the plight of many unemployed quite obviously has become acute. As the business upturn continues according to the economists' predictions, every effort should be made to get these unemployed people back into gainful employment as rapidly as possible.

They must not become a forgotten element in the nation's population.

Disappointed Should Warren Keep Silent

If Sen. Lindsay Warren proves to be the quietest man in the 1959 General Assembly, there will be a good many disappointed people in Beaufort County as well as in other counties in North Carolina.

In an article carried by a good many North Carolina newspapers last week, Sen. Warren was quoted as saying he was going to be the quietest man in the General Assembly.

Even though that may be the role Sen. Warren has planned for himself, a good many people will be disappointed if Lindsay Warren does not speak out in Raleigh. Particularly will they be disappointed if he doesn't speak out on the state's financial matters.

After all, there are few state legislatures which have the services of a man like Lindsay Warren. Not only did he serve with distinction as a member of the United States House of Representatives from 1924 until 1940, but he also served for 14 years as Comptroller General of the United States.

With such a background of experience to draw from, Sen. Warren is in a position to offer wise counsel to his colleagues in the General Assembly. And we are confident he will offer suggestions when the time comes.

Whether his suggestions will be followed is another matter. It has been some 35 years since Lindsay Warren sat in the North Carolina General Assembly, and this session he probably will find that a good many things have changed in the state legislature since that time.

Time Isn't Ripe For An Eisenhower Visit

President Eisenhower's flat refusal—for the moment—to visit the Soviet Union is justified both by the manner in which the unofficial invitation was extended, and the derogatory remarks which Soviet Premier Khrushchev used before mentioning the possibility of a visit from President Eisenhower.

At this particular time there appears to be little hope of accomplishment by a Presidential visit to the Soviet Union. About all we could expect would be that such a visit would furnish the hungry Soviet propaganda machine with more ammunition to use in the cold war.

While Premier Khrushchev's invitation to President Eisenhower was neither official, nor the remarks leading up to it complimentary, we may expect that the Soviets will try to make propaganda material from the President's refusal to accept the back-handed invitation.

We trust the time will come when a visit by the President of the United States would make a genuine contribution to easing world tension and reaching a better international understanding between East and West. Such a time, however, is not now at hand.

Hectic History In Dulles' Era

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has had problems which pursued him like a devil. He inherited a crisis when he took office in 1953 and has had to face one crisis after another ever since.

In trying to solve them he became the most traveled secretary of state in history. He seemed to feel that handling foreign affairs required not only his personal attention but his on-the-spot attention.

This zeal for first-hand dealings didn't save him from the criticism. On the contrary he's been criticized for being away from home base too much, for not relying more on the collective brains of his advisers. His has been called a one-man show.

But his efforts may have won him out. He says he expects to be back soon from the hernia operation he is preparing to undergo. That remains to be seen. Illness has been piling up on him: an intestinal cancer operation in 1956, an inflamed colon in December a severe virus attack in January, and now this.

When he became secretary six years ago he inherited the war in Korea and the war in Indochina. Truce came to Korea in time before the shooting stopped in Indochina half of Viet Nam was lost to communism.

The Red Chinese pushed him into repeated crises with their shelling of the Nationalist Chinese islands off the Red China coast. There was the crisis in Egypt when President Nasser seized the Suez Canal.

Some of Dulles' critics suggested he himself precipitated the Suez crisis with the curt way in which he refused Nasser American money to build the Aswan Dam.

But, as if Red crises were not enough, this country's French and British allies and its friend, Israel, shook the world with their invasion of Egypt. Last year when the Iraq government fell, American troops were sent to Lebanon.

And always, there was the

Picking Up Bits, Pieces

Bits and pieces: Did you ever wait for any length of time, with three small children, for a photographer?

My Fair Gwen and I did yesterday. I'm not sure of her feelings on the subject, but I'm strongly tempted to declare that any pictures in the future will be taken by either her or me.

It is a heart-rendering thing to prepare your first-born for the experience, nurse him carefully through the waiting period to keep him from ripping off his Sunday clothes — and then discover (too late) that his face was dirty the whole time.

It is upsetting to those of us to have to crawl along Evans Street in low gear while a saddle horse plops along in front of your car.

The situation makes you glance nervously out of the corners of your eyes to see if hitching rails are still on the sidewalks.

Waiting for a horse isn't quite as bad, however, as waiting for some of Greenville double-parkers to finish their business and move their vehicles.

That situation ceased to be amusing a long ago, especially on the stretch of East Fifth Street between Cotanche and the old swimming pool site. Someone turning off Cotanche onto to Fifth can get his head knocked off if he's not especially careful.

Although delegates to a district meeting of the North Carolina School Boards Association endorsed an incentive fund for public schools Tuesday night, the idea might run into more snags than the endorsement suggests.

Some persons who were present at the meeting in Ayden expressed some private misgivings about the plan. They wonder what public acceptance of tax increases the plan would require in most Eastern North Carolina counties.

Now that the convention committee of the state Association of ABC Boards has backed away from its idea of a convention cruise to Bermuda, a lot of folks are wondering where the 1959 convention will be held.

At least one man in Pitt County is looking for it to be held at either Nags Head or Morehead City. He admits, however, that the folks in Western North Carolina are holding out for Asheville.

The westerners say it's time for the convention to be held up their way.

To keep this collection of odds and ends from being completely negative, I hereby declare a holiday for a Greenville lady who did me a great favor seven years ago this week.

The holiday can be on a date suitable to her. I owe her at least that much for what she did.

She knows how to get in touch with me to collect on my end of the bargain.

Other Editors Saying... Concerns The Free World Opinions In Brief

(Henderson Dispatch) What happens in the Berlin crisis is the direct concern of the free world. Therefore, all should reach a common understanding and act in unison. Otherwise, Moscow will seek to make capital of the division, and could achieve some success in the effort.

Unless there is accord both in policy and performance, Russia cannot be resisted in her demands that the Allies get out of the old German capital and that it be turned over to Communist East Germany. That would be a sad day for those who reside in the West German section of Berlin. They have made remarkable progress toward a normal way of life, so much so indeed that the contrast in the East German section of the Communists, who wish to be rid of this outstanding example of what life is like where people live in a democracy and have a voice in operation of their government. Nothing even remotely resembling that status exists where the Reds are in control. Everything, in the final analysis, is dictated from the Kremlin.

The Russians have talked loudly about their own readiness to withdraw from Berlin, and have said that such a retirement is already under way. But there is a catch in that, as always. Soviet troops are being pulled back only a short distance from the environs of the city, and could at any time within a few hours notice be rushed back to support any demand of the ruling hierarchy in Russia. Yet that is what Khrushchev's dictatorial group boasts of as a withdrawal.

The West is in Berlin under an agreement reached even before the Nazis surrendered in the last war. Now that it suits the strategy of the Kremlin to act differently, it is cracking the whip and demanding that all Allied governments do as it says. That's the way the Communists do business. And that's at least one reason why no one can get along with them.

Secretary Dulles' suggestion in Bonn that there should be a common ground in facing the Russian threat is sound. Unless there is agreement to that end, the Berlin crisis will most likely be resolved in a manner sought by the Kremlin and to its own advantage—and the disadvantage of every one else.

For the Western democracies to desert the free section of Berlin and leave it to the fate of Communism would be little short of treachery. Equally as true, it would be another big victory in the encroachment of the Reds into another sector occupied by free men.

The most abused word in political use today is 'liberal'. Originally, it identified men who brought new and refreshing thinking to the art of government. These men dared to challenge the idea that those to whom birth or votes had given authority were necessarily all-wise and therefore deserved to be all-powerful. They fought to win for the individual the privilege of proving his own capacity to meet the buffetings of life.

"Now the word 'liberal' has been perverted to cover those of a completely opposite philosophy. Today we are asked to believe that the 'liberal' government is that which most persistently undertakes to meet the people's needs. What the people need is a matter that the new 'liberals' have felt free to decide among themselves. The right of individual achievement is not included."—Nation's Business.

"Don't kick at your taxes if you vote for 'free' handouts and tax-spending politicians; they take dollars from your earnings to give you pennies for your votes."—Industrial News Review.

I told this story to a Christian young woman who with her husband practices tithing. She told me the following: Some time ago two of their friends encountered pressing financial difficulties. This young woman and her husband decided that they would take $10 out of their tithe money and send it to their friends. When they did this, they themselves had quite a few bills unpaid, including insurance on their car and tuition for courses which the husband was taking. It certainly seemed the height of folly with bills staring them in the face to keep on giving a tenth of their income to the Lord.

This was what happened: Within a week all the money they needed for the settlement of their bills came in and from most unexpected sources. Even they with their great faith in God were overwhelmed by this manifestation of His providence. The statement of the young wife was, "You can never outgive God."

What this young couple did certainly does not make sense financially, but it does make sense theologically. The hard-headed cannot understand such matters, but people of faith can. This is of God, and therefore, mysterious and exalted.

It's Legal To Buy And Own Gold

By ELMER ROESSNER YOU CAN BUY COINS

Dr. Franz Pick, celebrated authority on international exchange, says quite a few Americans, fearful of runaway inflation or devaluation of the dollar, are investing in gold.

"Since paper money is constantly losing its purchasing power, the gold buyer is protecting himself against serious loss," he said. "If the United States devalues the dollar, the buyer may double his investment."

He predicts the Toronto exchange will settle down to a volume of one or two million dollars a week.

As to coins, Dr. Pick points out that the Federal government has ruled that all coins minted before 1933 are of rare or numismatic value, and hence may be owned as collectors' items. They may also be freely owned as jewelry. Since the U. S. stopped minting gold in 1932, this ruling applies to all gold coins.

However, Dr. Pick warned that there is usually such a high premium on coins offered for sale that they do not constitute a sound investment.

PERCENT MARKUP "For example, one of the most popular coins in trade is the British sovereign," he explained. "It contains 7.322 grams of gold with a face value of $8.24. It sells at wholesale here at $9.85 and is sold at retail from $12 to $15.

The United States double eagle has a face value of $33.66 and sells at wholesale for $42 and at retail at $56." It will take a radical devaluation to make these coins a profitable investment.

Neither gold dust nor gold ornaments and jewelry are good investments for their gold content, he said.

The buyer never knows the fineness of gold dust," he pointed out. "Most gold jewelry is 14 carats, or only 583 thousandths fine. Eighteen carat gold is 750 carats fine. Gold jewelry brings only $30.02 per fine ounce in Europe or the United States."

He conceded, however, that gold jewelry may have additional values as heirlooms, antiques or art, but in those cases the investor is investing in those qualities, not gold.

Dr. Pick has just published a 30-page study on "Gold — How and Where to Buy It and Hold It," which he prices at "25 paper dollars." It's not for the general public, but for monetary experts, he says.

CANADA SEIZES AMERICAN TOY ROCKETS While you can send American money into Canada to buy gold, you cannot send toy rockets or missiles into the Dominion.

The U. S. Department of Commerce is warning exporters that such missiles, either as toys or educational aids, are prohibited by the Canadian law against the importation of explosives. Several U. S. shipments have been seized. Importation was forbidden five or six years ago after a series of accidents.

Sunday Peace Is Gone

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) — Curbsome comments of a Pavement Plato:

America seems to have lost one of its safety valves — the old-fashioned Sunday afternoon nap.

It is hard to say just when civilization went astray in our country. Some say it happened right after the first World War when the Russians embraced communism and the Americans adopted prohibition.

Some date it from the time when U.S. women were given the ballot and also started smoking cigarettes in public. Still others claim civilization died with the five-cent glass of beer.

But a good case could be made for the contention that civilized living began to decline when the average man gave up his Sunday afternoon nap and took up Sunday driving. Life has been one mad whirl ever since.

The old-fashioned Sunday afternoon nap in most homes was a ceremony as full of ritual as a lodge meeting.

It started with a massive Sunday dinner, a loving work of art that took mother all morning to prepare. This was served promptly at two o'clock.

After a meal that would fell three of today's modest trenchermen, the head of the house would push back his chair, yawn and say, "Well, guess it's time for the nap."

He would go into his bedroom, and when he took off his shoes you could hear his sigh of relief all through the house. In taking off his shoes farther symbolically also shed the woes, griefs and annoyances of his whole work week.

He'd then stretch out on the bed, cover his face with the Sunday newspaper — and in five seconds be sound asleep.

"If any of you children dare wake him up, I'll —" said mother, leaving her threat unfinished as she waved a warning finger. Then she would retire to a comfortable chair in the living room, and doze herself over the pile of undarned socks in her lap.

Three hours after he hit the pillow, father let out a series of cacophonous grunts, wheezes and groans, like an old steam engine on a hard uphill grade. Then he woke up.

Where is the family peace of those vanished Sundays? Today people work so hard on Sunday trying to find joy somewhere outside the home they are still worn out on Monday morning.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS STEWARDSHIP

Yesterday this column dealt with a situation in which a man and woman confronted by loss of position and apparent financial ruin decided they would go on just as they had planned to do and found that under the providence of God everything came out exactly as they hoped it would.

I told this story to a Christian young woman who with her husband practices tithing. She told me the following: Some time ago two of their friends encountered pressing financial difficulties. This young woman and her husband decided that they would take $10 out of their tithe money and send it to their friends. GOP Generally Approving New Aide To The President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are crediting presidential assistant Wilton B. Persons with bringing about a new White House awareness of political matters in appointments.

Persons, who succeeded Sherman Adams as President Eisenhower's right hand man, apparently is pleasing congressional Republicans with his cooperative-ness.

Unlike Adams, who sometimes preferred a Democrat to a Republican, Persons is reported to feel that the road to harmony within the party is through paying attention to the recommendations of party senators and House members when there is a job to fill.

Congressional Republicans have pressed this same view upon GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn, with reports of varying success. There have been some complaints, but most of them think Alcorn's record of consulting with them is improving.

For his own part, Alcorn apparently is finding it a great deal easier under the Persons regime than under Adams to convey his appointment recommendations to Eisenhower.

Unlike Adams, Persons has assigned specific responsibilities within his office and has assigned David Kendall as his deputy to pay personal attention to patronage matters.

Eisenhower told his news conference Tuesday that no one, including Alcorn, can veto any selection he may make for an appointment. But his statement that "political considerations come in" was interpreted as indicating more awareness of this factor than some Republicans thought he had shown in the past.

In this connection, it seemed seemed unlikely that Eisenhower would override Alcorn's opposition to appoint Henry Labouisse, Connecticut Democrat, as head of the International Cooperation Administration.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, quoting published reports that Alcorn had intervened to prevent the nomination of Labouisse, told the Senate Monday that "is going too far." He called on Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to resist political pressure in making diplomatic appointments.

C. Douglas Dillon, acting secretary of state, was reported to be backing Labouisse to succeed ICA chief James H. Smith Jr., who is retiring. But Republican congressional leaders registered their support of Alcorn's opposition to the appointment.

Alcorn's candidate for the job was known to be Leonard Saccio, Connecticut Republican who has been serving for the last year as deputy director of the ICA.

Confident Dulles Will Resume Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — "That's cockeyed."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty gave that reply Tuesday night when asked about reports President Eisenhower is concerned over the possibility that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles may not be able to resume his duties.

The reports came from Republican congressional sources after Dulles entered Walter Reed Hospital for a hernia operation and treatment of a recurring intestinal inflammation.

Hagerty also scoffed at other reports that Eisenhower is giving serious consideration to a possible successor to Dulles.

Along the same line, an influential GOP official came away from the White House with a report he was convinced that every member of the President's official family expects Dulles to recover rather swiftly.

At Walter Reed, Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the surgeon who will operate on Dulles, said the hernia operation will be a simple one. He predicted the 70-year-old Cabinet member will be on his feet a short time later.

Despite official denials, however, speculation was reported running through administration circles as to a possible successor if Dulles is unable to return.

The most frequently mentioned name was said to be that of John J. McCloy, New York banker and former U.S. high commissioner to Germany.

Also among those being considered are Under Secretary of State Christian Herter, who will fill in for Dulles, and Under Secretary C. Douglas Dillon.

TEACHER FLUNKS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The seventh grade pupil who wrote "backward" as "backword" and "subscription" as "subscrption" on a spelling test might be excused for the errors. But not the teacher who gave the paper a perfect mark.

Ready To Write Own Farm Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats indicated clearly today they are prepared to disregard most of President Eisenhower's agricultural recommendations and write their own farm program.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson urged lower price supports and fewer controls over production Tuesday as he appeared before the House Agriculture Committee.

"It's the same thing the secretary has been saying for six years," Chairman Harold Cooley (D-NC) told newsmen afterwards. "The administration has provided no leadership. It's up to us to act."

Cooley said the first thing he would do is direct a special subcommittee to try to work out a program for wheat, the commodity now presenting the biggest problems facing Congress and the government.

Benson underscored the problem of mounting wheat surpluses. Although he proposed no specific legislation, he backed President Eisenhower's farm message proposal for either fewer controls and lower price supports, or else "drastic regimentation" of wheat farmers to cut production in exchange for high supports.

The 1958 wheat crop is estimated at 1½ billion bushels—the biggest in history. It is expected to build up government-held stocks of surplus wheat to 1½ billion bushels by July 1, 1960. That would mean tying up 3½ billion dollars of government money, exclusive of warehouse costs.

Voting Machines Going To Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citizens of Moscow will get a chance to vote this summer on American-made voting machines.

Four of the machines will be included as exhibits in the American national exhibition at Moscow's Sokolniki Park.

Soviet citizens visiting the fair will be invited to use the machines to vote on what they like best among the exhibits.

Eight guides and a technician, all fluent in Russian, will explain the working of the machines and their use.

HAZARDOUS DUTY

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP) — After a lesson from her father, Dorothy Porter, 10, was enthusiastic about ice skating and eager for more instruction—as soon as she could find another teacher. Her father, Fred Porter, 60, broke both legs when he hit a patch of soft ice during their first outing.

Reverse Side Is Also By Gauguin

CHICAGO (AP) — The thrift of French painter Paul Gauguin apparently produced a double work of art—a panel of sketches on the back of a major Gauguin pastel drawing.

The newly-discovered pencil sketches, revealed yesterday for the first time, are dated 1892 Tahiti and show a woman's hand, a woman holding her head in her hands and a tattooed hand and wrist.

On the other side is a pastel titled "Standing Tahitian Nude (Eve)". Like many artists, Gauguin used one side of the paper as a sketch pad before drawing his major work. It saved paper.

The drawing previously was valued at between $50,000 and $60,000. Harold Joachim, curator of prints and drawings at the Chicago Art Institute, said the newly found sketches increase by a third the value of the work.

The 21 by 36 drawing is owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Cowles, president of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune. It is one of 200 paintings, drawings, prints and sculptures by Gauguin on display at the art institute until March 29.

Gauguin is known as a pioneer in the post-impressionist school and is most noted for his sensuous paintings of the South Sea Islands.

The pencil sketches were discovered when the Cowles' sent the drawing to Harold Tribolet of the Lakeside Press, Chicago, to replace a cardboard backing.

Joachim called the nude one of Gauguin's major drawings. The sketches, he added, were the first of anything found on the back of a Gauguin work.

In Minneapolis, Cowles said he purchased the nude in 1953 upon recommendation of Richard S. Davis, director of the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. He said the painting already has been willed to the Des Moines Art Center, effective

Lincoln's Birthday Is Being Observed Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Observances honoring Abraham Lincoln today were the order of the day on virtually every level of American civic life.

President Eisenhower planned to attend a memorial banquet tonight in Washington. The President has proclaimed this year as Lincoln Sesqui-centennial Year.

Other celebrations marking the 150th anniversary Thursday of the birth of the Civil War President were planned throughout the week from coast to coast.

The NBC television network has prepared a film presentation of photographs and drawings of Lincoln during the Civil War years for 8:30 p.m. EST tonight.

"The Enduring Lincoln" is the theme of a two-day speaking program which opens today at the University of Illinois.

Congress gets into the act Thursday when a joint session will be held. Carl Sandburg, famed Lincoln biographer, will give an address and actor Fredric March will read the Gettysburg Address.

The sesquicentennial events began early this year and are scheduled to continue into the summer.

Hodgenville, Ky., Lincoln's birthplace, was to be the scene Thursday of the first sale of the new one-cent Lincoln postage stamp.

Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky will place a wreath on the door of the cabin where Lincoln was born Feb. 12, 1809. George Moore, executive assistant to Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield, will speak.

An international audience of some 20 ambassadors will attend a program Thursday night featuring a speech by Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin in Springfield, Ill.

Indiana, where Lincoln was reared, held a re-enactment of one of his speeches Tuesday in the lobby of the Claypool Hotel in Indianapolis. Lincoln's address on Feb. 11, 1861, was at the Bates House, where he stopped while on the way to Washington for his inauguration.

Meanwhile, a letter from Lincoln and his copy of the report of the commissioner of agriculture in 1863 were presented to the Wisconsin Historical Society.

Ervin Criticizes Supreme Court In N.Y. Address

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) said today that in recent years the Supreme Court has usurped the power to amend the constitution while professing to interpret it.

In doing so, he said, the court has encroached on the legislative powers of Congress and struck down state laws in areas clearly committed to the states by the constitution.

"This action," said Ervin in an address prepared for a meeting of the trust division of the American Bankers Assn., "has been accompanied by overruling, repudiating, or ignoring many contrary precedents of earlier years."

Ervin said the course pursued by the court in recent years has led him to wonder whether its members should not erase the equal justice under law inscription over the entrance to the court building and substitute the words: "Not justices under law, but justice according to the personal notions of the temporary occupants of this building."

Ervin, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee and a former North Carolina Supreme Court justice, called the court's school integration decisions constitutionally indefensible. He also cited numerous other cases in which he said the court had overstepped its powers.

He said his views about the court's action in recent years would be the same "even if the school desegregation decisions had never been made."

Mardi Gras Season In New Orleans Is Closed

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—With another Mardi Gras part of history, New Orleans put away its carnival atmosphere until next year.

Today was one of solemnity as many in the city began observing the 40-day Lenten season.

The Mardi Gras season, which began officially 12 nights after Christmas and reached its climax Tuesday with an all-day celebration, ended officially at midnight.

Rex, King of Carnival, set off the festivities when he boarded his mobile throne and led his parade through the heart of the city.

From then on, anything went. Costumed participants jammed the main business section, roaming up and down streets cleared of traffic for the occasion.

Comus, the oldest of the Krewe, Tuesday night put on the final procession of the parade season, which began Feb. 1.

Many of the parade floats and onlookers were caught in intermittent showers. But even occasional heavy rains failed to drive many home.

The maskers ranged in age from a few months on. Almost every type costume imaginable could be seen and some were little more than imagination.

Dr. Otto John Is Barred From Visiting Britain

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Otto John, ex-chief of West German security who went to jail for treason with the Communists, has been barred from Britain as an undesirable alien.

John was detained at Dover Tuesday when he arrived from Belgium aboard a channel ferry. He was to be sent back today on the ferry's return trip.

Friends in Bonn said John wanted to begin a new life as a lawyer in England.

John slipped into East Germany in 1954 and worked for the Communists. He returned to the West the following year claiming he had been kidnapped, but in 1956 the West German Supreme Court sentenced him to four years imprisonment. He was pardoned last July.

Greece Planning Hotel Expansion

ATHENS (AP)—Greece plans to expand its hotel facilities by 10,000 tourists a year as the goal.

A five-year development program is being drawn up by the government, which says it will spend more than 35 million dollars to improve facilities for foreign visitors.

Projects include development of the coast around Athens as a Greek Riviera; motels, holiday camps and filling stations to dot the countryside; secondary roads giving access to remote places of interest and training of an army of guides.

The government hopes the income from tourists—now 40 million dollars a year—will at least double.

Parole Reward Was Forfeited

PITTSBURGH (AP) — While serving a 10-year prison term for bank robbery several years ago, Ralph E. Richardson volunteered for a risky medical experiment.

He and two other inmates of the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., were given injections of hepatitis virus which produces inflammation of the liver.

Two of the volunteers died. Richardson survived, but he was in a coma for weeks, developing both pneumonia and gangrene. His weight dropped from 210 to 145 pounds.

His story was told in a national magazine article. He was rewarded with a parole in 1957 after serving half of his sentence for a 1952 bank robbery at Brookville, Pa.

Last month Richardson was arrested for passing allegedly worthless checks for $85 near his home in Butler, Pa.

Judge Clyde S. Shumaker, impressed with Richardson's participation in the prison medical experiment, ordered him only to make restitution and pay court costs.

But the charge was a parole violation. Richardson was ordered back to Lewisburg to complete his term.

"I figure I have 1,906 days more to serve now," said Richardson philosophically.

Pupils Will Be In Factory Work

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungarian high school students are to be required to work in factories one day a week.

The new study-work program, going into effect this month, will take in students 14 to 18 years old.

But the charge was a parole violation. Richardson was ordered back to Lewisburg to complete his term.

The Sport Scope

The North State Conference heads into its final two weeks of play before tournament time and the top team is still uncertain in what has been one of the most unpredictable and closest races in years.

High Point and Western Carolina head into the stretch with the inside track but one will drop by the wayside this Wednesday night when they meet at WCC. Both have dropped two decisions.

Lenoir Rhyne, defending champion who went through the loop undefeated last season, is in third place with three defeats. East Carolina and Appalachian follow in that order.

High Point, Lenoir Rhyne, and Western Carolina started the season strong and opened the second half of the campaign undefeated. But the picture has changed and all have dropped decisions while East Carolina, number four, is currently the hottest team in the loop. Appalachian, number five, is close behind the Pirates and showed their strength last week by knocking off Lenoir Rhyne.

The Panthers of High Point lost two lettermen due to scholastic reasons and have been hard-pressed recently. Danny Sewell, junior center, is probably the best big man in the conference but has had to carry most of the scoring load by himself.

Lenoir Rhyne came back strong to upset once-beaten Western Carolina last week after a couple of losses, but then played shoddy ball in losing to Appalachian 69-60, Saturday night.

The Catamounts still pace the loop with a 10-2 mark but recent defeats by East Carolina and Lenoir Rhyne has given WCC fan reason to worry.

East Carolina stumbled along in the lower division most of the early part of the season but several factors brought about a revamped team which is the hottest club in the loop now.

The Pirates have downed Lenoir Rhyne, Western Carolina, and Appalachian during the past month and has a four game winning streak going into tomorrow night's game with Catawba. ECC still has four tilts, including Catawba, remaining and it is possible that the Bucs could finish as high as second.

Coach Howard Porter attributes the recent spurt of his club to several factors: "I would say that the ability of Plaster (Joe) to come around, the return to form by Nichols (Nick), and the play of Curry (Jessel), has been the big reason for our recent play."

The Pirates have also made a slight change in their offensive pattern. "We still run the same offense against a man-for-man defense, but have varied our offense against a zone — but basically, it is the same," says Porter.

Since the change of style, East Carolina has won seven out of their last eight starts and may be favored in their last four. Victories during the final two weeks would push ECC's mark to 12-4 and no less than a tie for third place.

East Carolina could easily place three men on the All-Conference team which is chosen following the season. Ten are usually selected and the experts may look favorably on the Buc's late season showing. Charlie Adams, senior guard, has come into his own this season and leads the club in scoring. The jump-shot artist is one of the conference's leading scorers with a 16.1 average.

Nichols was one of the conference's stars and was All-Tournament in 1957. The Leaksville native was out last season after a slow start. He is the teams leading rebounder along with Plaster.

Jessel Curry is the third Pirate starter given a good chance for laurels. The Portsmouth native was All-Conference and All-NAIA last winter and although his scoring average has dipped, he has been a more consistent ball player. Curry has played much better and his accuracy from the floor has been better.

Pitt Basketball Tourney Slated To Begin Saturday

ACC Games Like 'Russian Roulette' Says McGuire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — When Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams clash, it's like playing Russian roulette, says North Carolina Coach Frank McGuire. "We play 14 conference games," McGuire notes, "and knock our brains out doing it." To back up his claim, McGuire could have pointed to Raleigh's Reynolds Coliseum Tuesday night when Duke went all out in an attempt to upset the conference's second ranked squad, North Carolina State.

State began moving in the last period and held a 35-45 lead with 10 minutes left. The Blue Devils twice cut the margin to three points, the last time at 63-60 with just over five minutes remaining. Then Pucello began hitting the basket from all over the floor to push the Wolfpack safely ahead. The 5-9 senior picked up 27 points in all. Duke's top performers were sopho Howard Hurt, with 23 points, and Carroll Youngkin, who got 22. The win gave State an 11-1 ACC mark. The Blue Devils, third in conference standings, are now 5-6. Maryland went out of the conference Tuesday night and dropped a 66-65 overtime contest to George Washington. The Terps, after dominating first half play, lost a seven point lead midway of the final period. Al Bunge, giving his best performance of the season, dropped in 26 points for Maryland. McGuire made his comments on the conference in Chicago, where his nationally second-ranked Tar Heels play Loyola Saturday. He said the only thing wrong with conference games is that they don't count. "We have a conference tournament to decide who goes to the NCAA," he added. "It's like playing Russian Roulette." No ACC clubs see action to-night. At Salisbury — East Carolina will be seeking to extend its four-game winning streak to-night when the Pirates meet the Catawba Indians here. The Pirates, 8-4 in the loop, have been the hottest team in the conference during the past three weeks and will rate 16-point favorites. Coach Howard Porter is expected to go with the same five that has carried him to seven victories in their last eight games. The lineup will pit Charlie Adams and Ike Riddick at the guards, Nick Nichols and Jessel Curry at forwards, and Joe Plaster at center. East Carolina will be back home this Saturday when they host Elon College in another conference engagement.

GRIFTON — The Pitt County Tournament is slated to begin this Saturday night and will continue through the following Saturday, Feb. 21. Ed Bright, chairman, made the announcement early this week. The tournament will once again be held in Greenville and most of the games will be played in East Carolina College's Memorial Gymnasium. East Carolina has games slated for this Saturday night and also Wednesday night but the Pitt affair will swing over to Greenville's new Rose High Gymnasium on those nights. Saturday night will pit eighth and ninth-place clubs in the girls and boys divisions against each other. The second-ranking girls will also be featured in the opening action as they meet the seventh-place lassies. Three games are also slated for Monday night and then the field narrows down to two tilts per evening for the remainder of the week, with the championships to be decided Saturday, Feb. 21. The standings have not been released as of this date and will not be until regular season play winds up this Friday night. The standings, along with the pairings, will be released Saturday morning. The girls of Stokes-Pacloius and the boys of Chioch are tabbed as tournament favorites but the county has been well-balanced this winter and no less than five clubs are given better than average chances of capturing the crowns.

Aging Champ Faces Young, Strong Foe

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Explosive Joe Brown dares young Johnny Bussio of New York to knock off his world's lightweight crown tonight. Johnny says he's just the guy to do it, too. Houston's third title fight in nine months. There may be 10,000 out to see if aging Joe still has the durability to ward off youth's charge. Brown, 33, a campaigner for 13 years, meets a fellow who's been in the game less than half that long. The slim little guy from Baton Rouge, La., battles Bussio over the 15-round route starting at 10 p.m. EST with all the country except Houston able to see it on ABC television. There was $40,000 in the till at the close of business Tuesday night and Texas Boxing Enterprises, promoters of the bout, think at least $20,000 should come in today. If so total receipts will be about $100,000 since television is paying $40,000. That means Brown will take $40,000 and Bussio $20,000. Bussio is confident he can wreck the Brown dynasty because he beat the champion in an over-weight fight in Miami in November. That one was only 10 rounds and Brown says if it had gone 15 he would have won. Bussio counters that the longer it went the more decisively he would have won since he is stronger and younger. Johnny is only 24. Brown's manager, Lou Viscusi, isn't sure Bussio won't be weakened by having to take off weight for this fight since he thinks Bussio is a "large lightweight" anyway. "The guy's dimensions look like a welter," said Viscusi. Brown will be making his sixth title defense since beating Wallace (Bud) Smith for the bauble in 1956. He has won four of those by knockouts.

At Salisbury

At Salisbury — East Carolina will be seeking to extend its four-game winning streak to-night when the Pirates meet the Catawba Indians here. The Pirates, 8-4 in the loop, have been the hottest team in the conference during the past three weeks and will rate 16-point favorites. Two Upsets For Basketball Loop

Monday night ball games in the Greenville Basketball League resulted in victories for Eastern Pines, Home Builders, and Stokes. Two of the contests ended in upsets, with the Home Builders knocking off the no. 1 ranked Ayden quintet, 37-36, and Stokes downing second-ranked Carolina Dairies, 51-48. Eastern Pines, third-ranked, almost became a third upset casualty in downing Greenville Pines and Metals 64-51. High scorers in the Eastern Pines-P&M ball game were Ray Hardee and Corsair, with 19 points each. Ayden's Kittrell had 16 and Home Builders' Daniels had 12 in the second tilt. Whitehurst scored 17 for Stokes and Wingate had 14 for the Dairies.

Unbeaten In Six Warm-Up Games
OSLO (AP) — The U. S. national ice hockey team, unbeaten in six warmup games for the March 5-13 world championships in Prague, Czechoslovakia, departed for Sweden today under orders to "shoot more." "Our boys do not shoot enough," said Coach March Ryman, a Minnesota business manager. "We are shaping up fine. But we still have our problems." The Americans trounced Norway 7-0 Tuesday night in a fast game. Eleven exhibition matches remain before the title competition.

Phants Turn On Their Power, Top Elizabeth City

By BILLY ARNOLD
ELIZABETH CITY — The Rose High School Phantoms turned on the power here last night to outlast a rugged Elizabeth City quintet, 59-50, in racking up their ninth Northeastern Conference victory of the season.
 The victory shoved Greenville into a two-way tie for leadership in the loop with Kinston. Kinston downed Washington last night by an almost identical score, 59-51.
 Previous to last night, the three clubs — Greenville, Washington, Kinston — were engaged in a three-way battle for top honors, all with 8-2 records.

Coch Bo Farley's cagers were paced by a double-edged attack last night from a pair of seniors, Steve Noble and Joe Mays both chalking up 18 points each in smothering the game from the home-standing Yellow Jackets. One other Phantom, Billy Cox, hit in the double figures. He scored 12.

Tight Finish
 Pat McDowell, a slender athlete who has EC's biggest asset in basketball, baseball, and football for the past few seasons, almost knocked the Phantoms out of the race last night.
 McDowell contributed 19 points to his club's 50 to take high scoring honors for the night. The All-Conference forward came through well in the closing minutes of the contest to give the G-Men a scare. In keeping with their latest efforts, the Phants began the ballgame with three rapid-scoring quarters—piling 17, 14, and 19 points in each of the three periods. But, in the final segment of play, the Phant attack hit a lurch and dribbled to only nine points, cutting their stride considerably.

 Halftime score was tied at 31-31. In the third period, Coach Farley's group, paced by Noble's under-the-basket shooting, soared ahead, 50-38.

Troubles?
 Thus, the Greenville club will return home with a victory, a 9-4 record—and also, one of the most troublesome tasks ahead of any team in the league. With only three more ballgames to play in regular season, the Rose High outfit has to battle Washington (there) on Friday, Kinston at home on the following Tuesday, and Roanoke

Falkland Cagers Defeat Belvoir

BELVOIR—The Falkland eighth graders overcame an early Belvoir lead last night to defeat the Eagles squad (made up of seventh and eighth grade girls), 26-24.

Trailing 12-5 at one time, Mary Pollard led the comeback and scored nine points for the night. Marie Butts tallied nine also and Beverly Gaynor and Sue Pierce closed out the scoring with four and two points, respectively.

Carolyn Hathaway of Belvoir was the game's top scorer with 11 points. Donna Standell chipped in with eight and Harriett Turner had five.
 Faye Pollard and Judy Zurfice played outstanding defense for the losers while Anne Proctor and Brenda Hawkins were top defenders for the winners.

Rapids in Greenville on the following Friday.
 Though Farley's club has hoisted its prestige during the past few weeks with some high-scoring ballgames and some impressive victories, they must face perhaps the three toughest teams in the loop in rapid succession.

Greenville's Jayvees captured another victory in the preliminary contest here last night, walloping the Elizabeth City Baby Jackets, 75-31.

Yankees To Have New Scoreboard

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees will install a $300,000 scoreboard at Yankee Stadium in time for the 1959 season opener. The board will be 113 feet wide and 45 feet high, all controlled electronically and convertible to football.

There will be a changeable message area of seven lines with eight letters to the line at the bottom of a 75-foot center tower. Information can be flashed from the press box to the fans at a moment's notice.

The naming of Joe Cronin as president of the American League rounds out one of the most amazing Horatio Alger careers in the history of baseball. Signed as a skinny 17-year-old youngster playing semi-pro ball around San Francisco, Cronin failed to impress the Pirates and was released to Kansas City. He showed little promise of the great things in store for him when he first joined the Washington club. Under the careful tutoring of Bucky Harris, Cronin developed into a great shortstop and won the league's Most Valuable Player award in 1930. In 1933, his freshman year as manager of the Senators, he led the team to a pennant. After the 1934 season, he was sold to the Boston Red Sox for $250,000. As playing manager of the Red Sox he started at Shortstop, and as a bench manager won a pennant in 1946. He took over as general manager shortly thereafter, and since has represented Owner Tom Yawkey in many of the league meetings.

Cronin's election to the Hall of Fame was the highest honor baseball had bestowed upon him until he was asked to preside over the American League. He is the first American League president to bring with him the long experience of a brilliant playing career. The late John K. Tener, president of the National League from 1913 to 1916, had been a pitcher for the Orioles, Cubs and Pirates.

A popular, respected figure in major league circles, the 52-year-old Cronin is well equipped to administer the needs of the league with a special understanding of the players' problems, as well. He has the background and proven ability to do a good job for baseball. A fitting climax which brought him fame and fortune.

British May Try Yachting Trials

LONDON (AP)—British yachtsmen may adopt an "if you can't lick 'em, join 'em" attitude in new plans aimed at winning the America's Cup from the United States. Four of the wealthier diehards are considering building four 12-meter yachts. The four would compete against each other for the right to challenge the Americans in 1961.

The plan is the same procedure the United States used in its 16th defense of the cup last year. Columbia eventually was chosen and defeated Britain's untried Scythre four straight races in the best-of-seven series.

Two North State Games Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Two North State Conference games, East Carolina at Catawba and High Point at Western Carolina, make up North Carolina's small college basketball schedule tonight.

Lenor Rhyne boosted his season record to 15-4 Tuesday night, rolling over Wofford of South Carolina's Little Four, 78-64. Tom Sellari picked up 18 points for Lenor Rhyne. Teammate Ken Norman had 17.
 Another North State team, Appalachian, grabbed an early lead and stayed in front for a 78-66 win over Emory and Henry. Rich Howe scored 23 of the winner's points.

Seven-Footer Yields To Appeals By Team

SPOKANE (AP)—Jean Claude (7-foot-3) Lefebvre yielded to last minute "we need you" pleas from teammates Tuesday and agreed to stay at Gonzaga University after three first stringers were kicked off the squad.

Lefebvre, tallest collegian in American basketball, withdrew from Gonzaga Monday, packed his bags, said his farewells and made reservations on a plane for his native France.

He said he was homesick, emotionally upset and had a feeling the first team rejected him because he got so much publicity and didn't score as much as people thought he should.
 Four hours before plane time, things started popping as quick as the Gonzaga fast-break ever did—the offense that reduced Lefebvre from a record-breaking 50-point performance last year to the role of a lumbering reserve who averaged less than 10 a game as a substitute this year.

First, three regulars and a top reserve were called on the carpet, accused of breaking training and dropped from the team.
 Then the remnants, including Frank Burgess, Gonzaga's leading scorer, marched to Lefebvre, urged him to stay and said they needed him.

To the dramatic department, it may have seemed like cornball melodrama. But to the Gonzaga athletic office, it was hectic reality and it left Coach Hank Anderson exhausted.
 "What am I say," he sighed. "Jean knocked on my door and said he would stay for the good of the team if I thought he could help now that we've lost the other four boys. My wife was ready to take him to the airport. But he can certainly help and I told him so. He has re-enrolled and will start for us Sunday against Seattle University."
 Denny Vermillion and Bob Turner, the co-captains, Norb Trauba and Gene Volz were dropped for the rest of the season for breaking training.

The quick turn of events caused a sensation on the campus and brought a stream of visitors to Lefebvre's room for the first time in weeks.

He rooms alone, has been regarded as a loner and a sensitive perfectionist who didn't rebound as well as others on the team when things didn't go well.

"Lefebvre really hustled in practice last night after rejoining the team," Anderson said. "To appreciate how much spirit and devotion he has to the team and the school, you have to know how much he wanted to go home."

BEFORE AND AFTER! Before remodeling, the bathroom looked old, without comfort or convenience. The old-style tub was difficult to get into, difficult to clean under and around. Little storage room was available.

WHEN REMODELED—the same bathroom takes on an entirely new look. A new vanity, countertop lavatory, bathtub-shower combination, new tile, etc.—all stress comfort, convenience and ease-of-up-keep.

To make a small bathroom seem larger, color can help. Replace white fixtures with new color fixtures that blend with the rest of the room. Pastel colors will make the room look larger and brighter. An over-sized wall mirror above the lavatory seems to double the room size while providing extra convenience for grooming.

Evidence Suggests Mobsters Tried Foist Singers On Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor-Management Committee, continuing its probe of the juke box industry today, is looking into evidence that gangsters sometimes try to force certain singers on the public.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said he expects, before he is through, to produce evidence hoodlums have muscled in on juke box record distributing firms with the idea of pushing these singers.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) has predicted the inquiry will show a sinister combine of top underworld figures and corrupt labor union officials has tried to put the juke box, pinball, and vending machine business in cities from New York to Denver under its iron rule.

Proclamation

Whereas, World Day of Prayer will be observed this year in many places throughout the world where humble peoples, living against a background of universal tension and uncertainty, will bow their heads and lift up their hearts to Almighty God in prayer, and

Whereas, The Church Women of the Southland will join on this occasion with church women in communities throughout the nation and the world to form an articulate and inspiring chain of human prayer, and

Whereas, The troubled peoples in less fortunate nations than ours, and, indeed, even in our own beloved country, need Divine Guidance as never before, especially as this is stimulated through prayerful communion, No, therefore, I, C. W. Harvey Jr., Mayor Pro Tem of the City of Greenville North Carolina, do hereby proclaim February 13, 1959 as World Day of Prayer and I urge our citizens to observe this day by attending February 13, 1959 wherever possible, World Day of Prayer services, or pausing for a minute of prayer at high noon to ask God to give us, in all our humility, the wisdom and courage to meet and successfully solve the profound problems of our times.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Greenville to be affixed at City Hall, this 10th day of February, 1959. C. W. Harvey, Mayor Pro Tem H. H. Duncan, City Clerk

Greenville Service League, will be held at Lauteres Brothers Jewelers on Evans Street.

No Outlays Yet For Nike-Zeus

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Department of Defense spokesman says the budget asks no money for production of the Nike-Zeus missile because it is not far enough advanced.

The Nike-Zeus has been designed as a major defense against enemy intercontinental ballistic missiles.

W. J. McNeil, assistant secretary of defense, estimated the status of the Nike-Zeus Tuesday while replying to criticism by two Army generals.

They said their recommendations included 30 million dollars for production this fiscal year and 700 million dollars next fiscal year. The budget does not include any money for production.

Lanier Offers 3 Roads For Tobacco Growers

RALEIGH (AP)—A tobacco industry official says three roads are open to tobacco growers if they expect to maintain sales to foreign markets.

J. Con Lanier of Greenville, N.C., executive secretary and general counsel of Leaf Tobacco Exporters Assn., toll a group of bankers Tuesday at the fifth annual Farm Credit Conference to tobacco growers have these roads open:

"They can switch to a poundage-acreage control program, which would almost overnight ease some of our problems."

"Produce much more high quality leaf, which would require an expanded educational program."

"Or have Congress and the U.S. Department of Agriculture blacklist certain undesirable varieties." Lanier warned that "foreign buyers expect flavor and aroma in the tobacco produced here. If they don't get it they will change their blends and buy elsewhere."

Joe Williams, head of the tobacco division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said he would be willing to denounce Secretary of Agriculture Benson for the next 30 days if he thought it would help tobacco growers out of their current problems.

Williams said it does no good to waste time blaming others. He added, "I know of nothing that the USDA has failed to do to make your tobacco program work."

A. C. Edwards, executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, declared, "Many tobacco growers are convinced that an acreage-poundage quota approach would put the emphasis back on quality" in flue-cured tobacco.

This is in no way a "stripped" car you're looking at. Come in and study the manufacturer's suggested retail price of a Buick LeSABRE like this, equipped with Twin Turbine automatic transmission, radio, heater, white sidewall tires, and anything else you want in your next car. Then do the same to the top models of the leading low-priced three, and you'll find the statement above stands up.

What a difference for only $200!

Now think how much more you'd enjoy a Buick. A comfortable, substantially built automobile. A car with the finest ride in all Buick history. A car with Buick's exclusive fin-cooled brakes, and the smoothest type of transmission money can buy. A wonderfully quiet and greatly respected car!

Owners report QUALITY outstanding

Your money in a Buick today puts you in on the ground floor of what promises to be a long new time of leadership for Buick cars. "My sixth Buick and the best I ever owned!" "Best-operating car I've driven in thirty years!" "Much the best Buick yet!" Reports like these mean extra pleasure in your Buick ownership . . . and they mean hard dollar value when the time comes to trade. It all adds up to the best proof in 50 years that: "WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK PEOPLE WILL BUILD THEM!"

New in gas economy, too!

In planning the '59 Buick, the new Wildcat engines, transmissions, and axles were all engineered to work together for greater gas mileage. Across the country owners tell us they are getting 15 to 20 miles per gallon in the '59 Buicks. And in a recent thorough test of Buick LeSabre against another car of comparable size and a good reputation for economy . . . the Buick won in every case under all kinds of driving conditions.

CHAPTER 25

Leo McKenna — and Leo would have been the first to admit that he knew as much about burglar alarm systems as anyone in New York City — said that it could not be done. He leaned over the desk, his head close to Bruno Manfredi's, and studied the crude sketch Murray Kirk had made of the device in Wykoff's window. It was obvious at a glance that Leo did not like what he saw.

"Right off," he said, "I can tell you one thing. What you're showing me here is the standard photoelectric system which we don't even feature any more. It's the same in my business as in everything else today. You improve, or you go under. You give them more and better for the money, or some bum like Hoch or Garfield moves in with a system that's got fins on it or chromium or something, and steals a customer right out from under your nose. That's why when we now get a customer who wants one hundred per cent security, and money is no object, we push our new ultrasonic system. Let me tell you, gentlemen, that is the system. Floor-to-ceiling protection, no dead spots—"

"Will you quit selling so hard, Leo. We don't want to buy a system. We only want to know if we can beat this one here."

"I was getting to that," Leo said. "My professional opinion is that you can't. Not unless you have an inside man working with you. That's only my professional opinion, of course, but you know how I rate in this business."

Murray shifted in his chair. "But a photoelectric system can leave dead spots in the corners of the window where the beams don't reach," he said. "Isn't there any way of getting past them and disconnecting the alarm from inside?"

Leo looked hurt. "I gave you my professional opinion, didn't I? What more do you want? Look—"

He drew a pencil from his pocket and outlined the rectangle of a window — you've got the eye of the beam midway up the window frame. From there the beam fans out wide across the whole grass. At the most you've got a couple of little dead spots at the top and the bottom, and you don't even know how big they are. May be big enough for a finger; may be big enough for a hand. So right there you don't even know how much room you're operating in.

"But let's say you can get a hand through. You cut out the glass, and get your hand inside, and then what? I'll guarantee you won't short-circuit that system by monkeying with the eye. All you'll do is set off every alarm in the house. You see what I mean? This isn't like one of those jerk systems where the alarm goes off only if you try to raise a window, so you can clip a wire when you get the molding off. This is the real thing. You put a finger into that beam, and it'll sound like the war starting. Naturally, that's only my professional opinion, but if twenty years in this business don't mean anything—"

"Sure it means something," Murray said. "How do they power this system? From the main fuse box?"

"That's right, but it has its own lead, so you can't cut it off by short-circuiting something else in the house. Gentlemen, when the underwriters certify a system as Grade 'A' they take all this into account and a little more besides. Of course, my company stands behind the ultrasonic as the one and only system for the man who wants the best, but I have to admit that the photoelectric is entitled to a genuine respect. I don't say this grudgingly. I've been in this business twenty years, and I always—"

When he was gone Bruno said: "That's only his professional opinion, of course. But my professional opinion is that he knows what he's talking about. How do you feel about it now?"

"I don't know," Murray said. "I'm thinking it over." "Thinking it over! Thinking what over? You've got a house wired up like Fort Knox, you've got three, four hoods hanging around looking for trouble, you've got a housebreaking rap waiting if something goes wrong? What kind of thing is that to think over?"

"Wykoff's got something I want," Murray said. "What do you expect me to do, tell him to mail it to me?"

"Why not? That makes just as much sense as trying to get in there and take it for yourself."

"No, because I can take it for myself. I have a good idea how to do it, if I can count on you to help."

"Thanks," Bruno said. "It isn't every day I get such a wonderful chance to get beat up and put in jail. But I wouldn't want to take advantage of you, Murray. Do somebody else the favor."

"There's two hundred dollars' worth of favor here," Murray said. "Does that change your mind?"

"No."

"All right. How much would?"

"One million dollars," Bruno said. "All in small, dirty bills. Or make it clean bills, if you want, and I'll dirty them myself."

"How much?"

Bruno said seriously: "Look, a joke is a joke, but don't push it too far. Right away it stops being funny."

"Do you think I'm joking?"

"No, and that's what worries me. Let me put it to you straight, Murray. In all the time Frank Conroy was here he never got himself into any deal like this, and that's why he died rich and happy. If you want to go the same way, don't get any ideas in your head that can blow up this whole place along with you. You remember what Frank used to say? He used to say 'this agency was a business. It's got to be run like a business. But it's even a bigger business than when he was around, and maybe you're not the only one who'd got an interest in it. Maybe I've got an interest in it, too. Maybe I want to protect my interest.'"

"What are you talking about?" Murray said. "What's all this about an interest? Do you mean your job?"

"No, I don't mean my job. Didn't Jack Collins get in touch with you? He was supposed to call you from L.A. this week."

"Well, he didn't. And if you're so anxious to put things to me straight, you can start with this. What's Jack Collins got to do with you and me right now?"

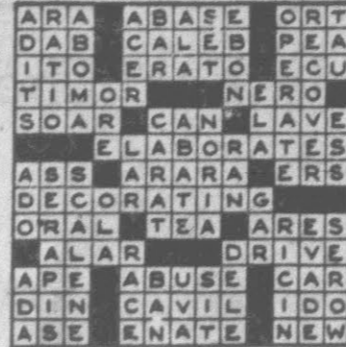

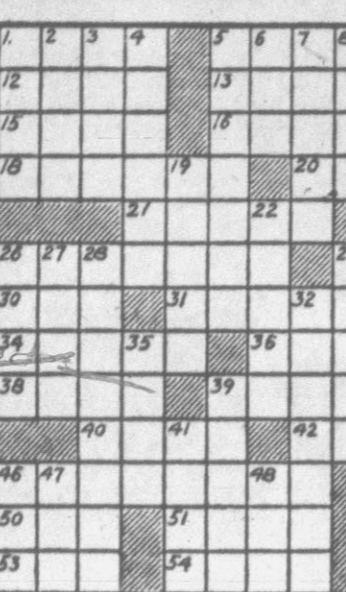

"That's for him to say when he calls."

"All right," Bruno said. "It's about him buying in here. You know you can't run this place alone any more. Don't you think everybody knows that? It's built up so big now, you don't know what's going on half the time. But if you take in somebody like Jack as a partner, why, you've got one of the best men in the country with you, and you can live it up a little for yourself. He's got the cash, he's got the know-how, so put you two guys together, and you could have the biggest thing around outside of the F.B.I."

"You think so?" Murray said. "And what's your interest in this proposition? Or are you just a friend of the groom?"

Harry James For Air Force Band

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Harry James Jr., 17, who toots a trumpet, like his dad, joined the Air Force Tuesday so he can find more time for music.

James is the son of the trumpet-playing bandleader, Harry James.

The young was a freshman music major at North Texas State College, Denton, Tex.

"There wasn't enough time for my playing at Denton," he said. "I'm hoping the Air Force will let me keep at it all the time," James said.

The Air Force said he probably will be assigned to a band as a trumpeter as soon as he finishes basic at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex.

Cinderella-Like, Found By A Shoe

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Cinderella-like, the loss of a shoe led to the arrest of Robert Hernandez, 26, Tuesday.

Police Sgt. Frank Robertson found a shoe at the scene of an attempted burglary. On return to headquarters Robertson found Hernandez had been picked up for questioning. He was wearing only one shoe.

The shoe Robertson found fit Hernandez. He was booked for investigation.

For people who don't want a look-alike car but do want a low price tag made to be the most distinctive car on the road—yet it's priced with Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth. And Edsel gives you many "eye-opening" extras that the low-priced field either forgets or charges extra for.

Look at this "Eye-Opening" Economy!

- Extra Economy when you buy—you get more for your money—more size, room, comfort.
- Extra Economy when you drive—you choose from four engines, including two V8's that give you spirited performance on regular gas, and a thrifty Six as well.

Look at these "Eye-Opening" Extras!

- Extras built into every Edsel—self-adjusting brakes, Diamond-Lustre finish that never needs waxing, wall-to-wall carpeting, electric clock, aluminumized mufflers that last twice as long as ordinary ones, foam-rubber seat cushioning, and many others.

If you want to hear real enthusiasm—talk to a 1959 Edsel owner

Not Ungrateful, Just Oversight

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—John B. Leonard figured he had seen the limit of ingratitude when his 1958 city tax notice listed a $4.30 billing for an ancient four-room house.

Red-faced city officials hurriedly sent a letter advising Leonard the tax had been dropped.

They suddenly remembered that last year Leonard had let city and county firemen burn the house in a training exercise.

Samuel Morse was a portrait painter before he developed the Morse telegraph code.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to rally in lively trading early this afternoon.

Blue chip issues performed especially well.

Eastman Kodak held more than 2 points of an early 3-point advance.

American Telephone rose around 2. Gains of a point or better were made by Allied Chemical, U.S. Gypsum, Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin.

Zenith jumped more than 3 and Polaroid 2 or more. Speculative interest brought a spurt of about 5 to Parmelee and close to 2 for Checker Motors.

Northrop advanced more than a point. North American Aviation was fractionally higher. Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line dropped 2 points.

Lukens showed a net loss of more than a point. General Tire also backed away and was fractionally lower. Bath Iron Works was about 2 to the good.

U.S. government bonds were narrowly mixed.

ATTENDED GEORGIA MEET

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Conway, 309 Hillcrest Drive, Greenville, attended the recent nationwide educational conference sponsored by monument dealers of 40 states and the University of Georgia.

'Chased Out Of Town', Says Union Organizer

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A bandaged labor union organizer charged last night that he was roughed up and chased out of Franklin, N.C., yesterday.

At Franklin, the sheriff said he had talked to witnesses who said the union representative was not attacked.

The allegations were made by Robert Dixon Beame of Greensboro, N.C., a representative of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, AFL-CIO. He said he had come to Franklin in an attempt to unionize a hosiery mill.

Beame, 53, said he was accosted in his motel room yesterday morning by four men, who beat and kicked him, forcibly dressed him and ordered him to follow them out of town. He said that later, while about 50 threatening persons followed in their cars, he was escorted to the Georgia-North Carolina line by a sheriff's officer.

Adolph Benet of Chattanooga, AFHW first vice president, called the alleged incident an outrage.

He said the FBI had been notified.

Beame was brought to Chattanooga by Benet and another union official. After treatment by a physician, the union organizer was hospitalized. His condition was listed as fair last night. Attendants said he suffered cuts and bruises.

Sheriff Harry Thomas of Macon County, N.C., told the Chattanooga Times by telephone that he had heard that several persons met with Beame at the motel because the "workers just didn't want a union." But the officer denied Beame's charge that officials at Franklin refused to let him call either the mayor or the state patrol.

"He wanted to be put in jail," the sheriff said. "We couldn't do that, he hadn't done anything."

Thomas said he knew nothing of a fight and that Beame had accepted an offer of a police escort out of town.

Conventions . . .

the president of the state Association of County Commissioners has always paid the difference in actual national convention costs and what is allowed by the state association, he says.

Previously, North Carolina's 100 counties paid a fee to belong to the state association. Now, the association has set up a membership fee based on the number of residents of a particular county.

Pitt County's membership fee, under the change, rose this year from $75 to $318.95, payment of which was authorized by the Board of County Commissioners at their February 2 meeting and reported in The Daily Reflector on the same day.

That increase, according to Gray, is part of a general increase in costs of county government during the past few years. It will have little effect, however, on the county's budget, he adds, except for the possibility of increased benefits which might come through a more active state association.

In the past, appropriations for convention expenses have been only a small part of the total budget for county operations. Commissioners, for instance, have a $400 "travel" item in their budget to take care of expenses of conventions and related meetings.

Other departments of county government have similar budget allocations.

The ABC Board usually places its convention costs under "General and Administrative Expenses," according to audits of the board's records. ABC Law Enforcement convention expenses are charged to "County Wide Law Enforcement Expenses."

In both cases, convention expenses usually run a little above $200. In fiscal year 1957-1958, law enforcement convention expenses were set at $201.50 in the annual audit. For the same year, ABC Board convention expenses were lumped into a general "expense of officials" category, totaling $656.94 and which included not only convention expenses but other payments to ABC Board members.

Other county departmental expenditures for convention expenditures during the past year, according to records of warrants (checks) authorized by the Board of County Commissioners include $44.50 for Lewis to attend a convention of assistant clerks of courts; $43.80 for Sheriff Tyson to attend the Sheriff's association meeting; and $26.93 for Tax Supervisor Moye to attend a special tax information meeting conducted by the Institution of Government in Chapel Hill.

In each of the cases, according to Gray, there were no limits on expenditures other than the policy of the county assuming responsibility for nothing more than travel, hotel and eating costs of official representatives of the county.

"There is, however," he added, "the limit of what has been set up in the budget for the fiscal year. We do not go beyond that amount except under unusual circumstances which require special appropriations.

"Those cases are few and far between."

Day Of Prayer Service Planned

World Day of Prayer services will be held Friday morning at 11 a. m. at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. For 15 minutes prior to the services the church bells of Greenville will ring and the college chimes will play hymns.

The Merchants Association of Greenville has approved the request of the United Church Women of the Greenville Council of Churches to follow their usual custom of closing from 11:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon for the World Day of Prayer services.

Dr. George Douglas, Professor of Sociology at East Carolina College, will be the speaker for the occasion. Also participating in the services will be the Rev. Terry Agner, minister of the Lutheran Church, Rev. W. M. Howard, minister of Jarvis Memorial Church, and Mrs. Keith Holmes, president of the United Church Women of the Greenville Council of Churches.

Vehicles Collide At Intersection

A pickup truck and an automobile collided at Third and Cottage streets about 1 o'clock yesterday. No charges were made.

The truck, operated by James B. Oakley, 27, 105 Jarvis St., had estimated damage of $400. The automobile, operated by Mrs. Mary M. Kilpatrick, 27, registered nurse of R-1 Winterville, had $250 estimated damage. She was considerably shaken up. The truck driver was not hurt.

Embezzlement Charged Clerk In Local Office

Mildred Adams, former clerk with the Pitt County Federal Crop Insurance office, has been indicted on six counts of embezzlement by a Federal Grand Jury in Raleigh.

The indictment was made yesterday.

Julian T. Gaskill, United States attorney for the Eastern District of North Carolina, said the charges resulted from an investigation made by agents of the Department of Agriculture.

The indictment alleges that Miss Adams "wrongfully converted to her own use the money of another on six different dates." The money being in her possession because of her employment in the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation office.

The indictment was made yesterday.

Julian T. Gaskill, United States attorney for the Eastern District of North Carolina, said the charges resulted from an investigation made by agents of the Department of Agriculture.

The indictment alleges that Miss Adams "wrongfully converted to her own use the money of another on six different dates." The money being in her possession because of her employment in the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation office.

The dates and the amounts of money alleged to have been wrongfully converted are: March, 1958, $78.21; December, 1957, $105.93; April, 1958, $52.77; December, 1957, $106.19; October, 1957, $58.96; December, 1957, $48.54.

The indictments were made under Title 15, Sec. 654 of the United States Code.

Gaskill said Miss Adams will receive a preliminary hearing before a United States Commissioner on the allegations at which time bond will be set.

He said the next regular term of Federal Court for Washington, N.C., has been set for April 20. However, no judge has yet been assigned for the term and there is no assurance that the term of court will be held.

Miss Adams began her duties with the Pitt County Federal Crop Insurance Corp. office in January, 1955. She ceased her work with the corporation in April of 1958.

Coltrane Begins Explain Budget To N.C. Legislature

RALEIGH (AP)—Another step in the tedious process of enacting a state budget begins today when a budget officer, D. S. Coltrane, explains Gov. Hodges' proposals to the General Assembly.

The Appropriations and Finance committees of the Senate and House—which include all 170 legislators—were to hear Coltrane discuss the appropriations aspects of the proposed budget.

The group will meet again Thursday for a briefing on the revenue phases by Revenue Commissioner James S. Currie.

Next in line for the budgeters will be Finance and Appropriations Committee hearings. Interested state agencies will appear before the House and Senate groups and explain their financial cases. The hearings are expected to extend well into the spring. No date has been set for their beginning.

Gov. Hodges proposed a record budget of $69 million dollars in state funds to be aided by the "windfall" effects of a withholding plan for collecting income taxes. The windfall would boost the revenue picture by 27 1/2 million during the biennium.

Legislators greeted the proposal with mixed reaction after the governor's budget message Monday night.

At Tuesday's brief Assembly session, House Speaker Addison Hewlett completed his committee assignments, naming Rep. Thomas H. Woodard of Wilson to the chairmanship of the Joint Library Committee.

Six bills embodying recommendations by the Commission of Reorganization of State Government were introduced in the House. They would:

1. Give the governor authority to determine when certain state officials are physically or mentally incapable of performing their duties and to appoint acting officials to replace them.
