EAST GREENE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL . . . One Of Two New Schools For Greene County Negro Children

Greene School Strikers Want New Gym, They Say Promise Not Kept

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Staff Writer

SNOW HILL — Resentment toward "a slowdown" in the past two years of Greene County's long-range development program for its Negro school apparently triggered this week's strike of bus drivers and other students at the county's only Negro high school.

The strikers, who have supposedly ended their boycott of the school and who have said they will return to class Monday, want a gymnasium, which, they claim, has been promised to them in previous years.

They also say they want a cafeteria, a lunchroom, additional classroom space and an auditorium, but every public statement, and most private expressions, of their desires put the gym first.

The Negro high school does not have a gym. It has, however, never had one, as such, although there are outdoor facilities available for basketball on the school's Snow Hill campus.

Negro parents and students who attended a mass meeting Thursday night insisted at that time they "have been promised" a gym off and on for 30 years. The only available substantiating evidence to those claims is a statement by Superintendent B. L. Davis that plans for a combination gymnasium-auditorium were included in proposed expansions at the Negro high school in 1952.

Davis says the gym-auditorium was dropped from the plans when bids on the project exceeded available funds.

"Since state funds were used for the work and the state was insisting then as now, that we build classrooms first, we built classrooms," he says.

That, apparently, has been the county's basic course of action in all its Negro school development program since 1950. That date is singled out by school officials because it is when the State Department of Public Instruction completed a survey of the county's school facilities and made recommendations for improvements.

At the time the survey was made, Greene County had 18 frame elementary schools for its Negro students, in addition to the high school. Four of the elementary schools were one-teacher units, four were two-teacher units, five were three-teacher units and five were four-teacher units.

This year, the county system of Negro schools includes three of the old frame elementary schools — one two-teacher unit, one three-teacher unit and one four-teacher unit — and two modern consolidated elementary schools, plus the high school.

The long range development plan recommended by the State Department of Public Instruction is still considered by the school board, to be in effect and the basis for school planning. The plan includes a provision for consolidating the remaining frame structures into an elementary unit similar to those already constructed.

Consolidated elementary schools operated by the county are East Greene School, between Hookerton and Maury, and North Greene School, near Walstonburg. The proposed new consolidated elementary school is expected to be located near Jason, in the southern portion of the county, where one of the remaining frame schools is now located.

All of the improvements in the Negro schools, at least since 1948 when a two-classroom addition was made at the high school, have involved an expenditure of a total of $622,172.76. Of that amount, $519,726.38 came from state appropriations and $102,446.38 came from county appropriations.

The two new elementary schools have taken the biggest slices from the capital outlay funds. The North Greene School, completed in 1956, cost $198,767.98 while the East Greene School, completed in 1957, cost $215,019.73.

Addition of two classrooms at the Negro high school in 1948 cost $13,855.59 and the new wing at the school, in 1952, cost $194,529.46. In the white schools, a total of $543,447.73 has been spent since 1947. Of that amount, $208,599.54 came from the state and $334,848.19 came from county funds.

Expenditures for buildings in the white schools during the past 11 years include: Snow Hill, District 1: agriculture shop (addition, 1948), $17,003.77; elementary school building (1952), $182,669.55; and cafeteria (1956), $59,580.26.

Walstonburg, District 2: agriculture shop (1948), $27,647.55; and cafeteria (1953), $48,883.75.

Maury, District 3: agriculture shop (1948), $27,895.35; cafeteria (1953), $48,883.75; gymnasium (1954), $38,000; and sewage disposal unit (1956), $10,000.

Hookerton, District 4: teacherage (1947), $10,000; agriculture shop (renovation, 1948), $6,000; cafeteria (1953), $48,883.75; and gymnasium (1954), $38,000.

In both the Negro and white systems, total capital outlay has been $1,165,620.49 since 1947, with approximately 53.4 per cent of the total amount going into construction.

instruction and building in the Negro units. None of the Negro construction money has gone, however, for non-classroom purposes, other than cafeteria, auditorium and similar facilities in the new Negro elementary school.

All of the county's white high schools now have gymnasiums, ranging in age from 18 years to four years, and cafeterias, ranging in age from five years to two years.

A study made by Superintendent Davis after the 1955-1956 school year does not include a cafeteria at the training school as being among school property listed for insurance. The school does have one, however, although it is a converted classroom which seats about 36 students.

Auditorium facilities at Greene County Training School are in the older part of the school, constructed in 1925. It is a large room with permanent seats for 252 people. The training school auditorium, which serves a total school population of 1,136 students, is also used as a classroom for about 100 students enrolled in a television course conducted by the University of North Carolina. The TV set is mounted in a movable cabinet on the auditorium's stage.

Complaints by some students that the auditorium is used by three classes at a time are denied by Davis. He said Thursday that one class uses the auditorium regularly, but that another classroom in the building is vacated when the TV class meets, enabling students who meet in the auditorium to continue their studies without interruption from the TV class.

County officials admit that recreational facilities at the Negro schools are not equal to those at white schools, but they say that educational facilities at the Negro high school are better than similar white facilities, at least so far as curriculum choices are concerned.

Superintendent Davis said Wednesday that the training school has a total of 37 units or subjects from which students may choose to complete the 16 units required for graduation. Total units offered at the white schools, the superintendent added, included Maury, 32; Hookerton, 27; Walstonburg, 27.

Dulles Has Cancer; Leave Is Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles has cancer and will continue on leave from his post while undergoing radiation therapy.

President Eisenhower, after visiting Dulles at Walter Reed Hospital said he had "expressed the thoughts and prayers of all of us that the results of his operation and the further course of treatment will be successful."

"In order to allow time for this purpose the secretary continues on leave of absence."

The announcement came shortly after Eisenhower had spent 37 minutes at Dulles' bedside.

A medical report issued after ward said that when Dulles was operated on for hernia Friday morning a small "nodule" was removed from the area of the hernia. The nodule was found to be an "adenocarcinoma," a small cancer. The medical announcement also said that the fluid removed at the time the hernia was repaired was found under the microscope to contain "free cancer cells."

"No further surgery is contemplated," the announcement said.

"In the immediate future radiation therapy will be used."

The announcements by Eisenhower and Dulles' doctors left completely unclear whether Dulles will ever be able to return to his State Department desk. Presumably this depends on the extent of the cancer and on Dulles' response to treatment.

Meanwhile, it appeared that foreign policy direction would be in the hands of Under Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. He is due back today from a South Carolina vacation.

Eisenhower had agreed early in the week to Dulles' request for a leave of absence to undergo the hernia operation. At the same time, the President approved Dulles' designation of Herter—or in his absence, Under Secretary C. Douglas Dillon—as acting secretary.

Dulles' illness made uncertain prospects for a Western foreign ministers meeting in Paris to prepare for possible negotiations with Russia on Germany.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said Dulles' doctors expect the secretary will have to remain in the hospital for several weeks.

Should Dulles' condition resist treatment and make it necessary for him to remain inactive, Eisenhower might be forced to decide whether to replace him or continue him as secretary.

Dulles' cancer was described as adenocarcinoma, the same kind of malignant growth he was operated on for Nov. 3, 1956. A cancerous portion of his lower intestines was removed at that time.

The cancer described as adenocarcinoma was the same kind of cancer Dulles was operated on for when a cancerous portion of his lower intestine was removed on Nov. 3, 1956.

Eisenhower's statement was issued by White House Press Assistant Anne Wheaton, State Department press officer. Lincoln White gave out the medical report.

The President disclosed that during his visit he and Dulles had talked over the secretary's condition with the doctors.

"While I was with him his doctors discussed with us their findings of the existence of malignancy not fully determined as to extent but certain to require further treatment," Eisenhower said.

The President said he and Dulles "had a good talk and he is resting well."

"His immediate response to the hernia operation, as the doctors indicated to me, has been very satisfactory," Eisenhower said.

The medical report said Dulles had "spent a very comfortable night and is in good spirits." It added:

"His blood pressure is 125 over 70. His temperature has been normal since the operation, his pulse is 70."

Since Dulles was operated on in 1956 medical reports—some as recently as last November—had showed no recurrence of the disease.

There had been some concern expressed Friday that Dulles might have cancer when the full medical report on his condition was delayed for 24 hours.

A reporter asked White what Dulles' chances of recovery are. "That's something I can't answer," White replied.

He said it was not possible to make a doctor available to newsmen for questioning about this. White said he had given out "as full and complete a report as we can give you at this time."

He said radiation treatment of Dulles will start next week.

White was asked if Dulles could consult with any officials of the department over the weekend, if he wanted to. White said he doubted if Dulles would consult with any of them "for the next few days."

White described Dulles as being in very high spirits.

Earlier, Mrs. Wheaton said Eisenhower was alone with Dulles during most of his visit.

White said Dulles was told about 9 a.m. (EST) today that he had cancer again. He said the family and the President were notified about the same time.

Castro Vaulted To Premiership

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro vaulted to Cuba's premiership Friday night with wide powers to speed up the social revolution born of the rebels' victory in arms.

The 32-year-old military commander assumes the administration of a country still restless after two years of civil war and confronted with serious economic and diplomatic problems.

His first task is to curb threatening strikes—especially in the vital sugar industry—and find jobs for the half-million unemployed in a work force of 2,294,000.

Another issue facing Castro is the fate of Cubans who took asylum in various foreign embassies in Havana after dictator Fulgencio Batista fled in the dawn of New Year's Day.

Cuba's revolutionary regime has branded these Batista supporters as ordinary criminals. The refusal in approving safe-conduct passage for them out of the country has led to disputes with several Latin American governments giving them refuge, including Argentina, Mexico and Chile.

Castro had the assurances of retiring Premier Jose Miro Cardona, 56, that he would have "the opportunity to select his collaborators freely."

In moving up to the political front, Castro took a step that many felt was leading toward the presidency.

Pressure had been mounting for Castro to take over the provisional government when the surprise cabinet shakeup was announced Friday night.

The Havana newspaper Prensa Libre this week had urged the rebel military leader to assume the presidency—held by his hand-picked choice, Manuel Urrutia.

Cuba's provisional constitution was changed four days ago lowering the minimum age for presidents from 35 to 30, making Castro eligible for the job. But Castro said he wasn't sure he wanted to be president.

While Urrutia remains chief of state the power in the government now appeared resting largely in Castro's hands.

Informed speculation is that Castro's assumption of the premiership is a big step toward the presidency—possibly running as a candidate in the first elections promised within 18 to 24 months.

One of Castro's first appointments will be his own successor as commander-in-chief of Cuba's armed forces. There was general speculation that the job would go to his brother Raul, 27, the present deputy commander.

Castro underscored the importance he is placing on the army as the strong right arm of the revolutionary regime by delaying his formal assumption of the premiership until Monday. He said he wanted time to name the new commander.

The major shift the revolutionary government—only six weeks after Batista was chased into exile—came about peacefully.

Miro Cardona, in handing his resignation to Urrutia, said he felt the premiership belonged to the leader of the revolution.

Urrutia agreed and immediately named Castro, who has been guiding the revolutionary regime from the sidelines.

Interior Minister Luis Orlando Rodriguez said Castro told the cabinet that for the time being he planned to retain the present ministers but any who "do not keep pace with the revolution" will be dropped.

There have been reports of friction between the cabinet and the revolutionary army, but sources close to Castro discounted rumors of a rift after his appointment as premier.

Friends of Castro said that post-revolution problems have been coming to the military chief all along and, in effect, he has been exercising the prime minister's job outside the cabinet.

Agrarian reform is one of the keystones of Castro's program. Agriculture Minister Huberto Sori Marin said Cuba plans to bring about land reform without hurting sugar-producing properties.

The 800 million dollar state U.S. investors have in Cuba includes huge plantations producing 40 per cent of the sugar.

Another knotty problem—that of the gambling casinos—may be solved before Castro even takes office. The old cabinet is meeting today to act on a proposal to permit gambling under government control.

Flames Sweep Old Apartment; 11 Dead, One Missing

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Fire cut through an old apartment building "like an acetylene torch" early today, leaving 11 dead and one missing. Eight other persons were injured.

Among the victims were six members of the same family, including an expectant mother. She jumped from a window of the second floor, then died after giving birth to a still-born son.

The fire, called the worst in Ashland's history, broke out at 1:50 a.m. and quickly cut off the only exit, a staircase at the front of the reconverted theater.

"Almost right away people began jumping out of the windows," said taxi driver Anthony Blackwell, who discovered the blaze.

Blackwell said he saw seven occupants standing at windows in the rear of the building on Greenup Ave. But "they disappeared when a section of the ceiling apparently fell."

"That fire cut just like an acetylene torch," he said.

Delmar Fannin, one of the 20 occupants of the stone-front structure, said he was awakened "when the fire flapped the rug at my door like wind."

"I heard a woman scream but was unable to tell where it was coming from. Then I smelled smoke."

Fannin's wife and sister jumped to safety and he and a brother-in-law were brought out by firemen.

Coroner Russell Compton said the missing person was 14-year-old Jack Kirk, believed to have spent the night with his father. The father was among the victims.

Compton listed the other dead as: Jack McKenzie, 30; his wife Polly, 27; her still-born child; and their son, Jackie, 4; Dickie Joe, 2; Johnny William, 1; James Powell, about 22; Mrs. Grace Balton, 50; Frank Artist, about 50; and Clyde May, about 60.

Fire Chief Burriss Hensley, a veteran of 46 years with the department, said, "I've never seen a blaze as destructive as this one."

He said one of the occupants apparently made an attempt to put out the fire with an extinguisher, but it was moving too quickly. Those people just didn't have a chance.

Most of the residents lived on the second floor of the building, the old Columbia Theater, built in 1891. It also housed a restaurant and a sign painting shop.

Hensley, unable to give a cause for the fire, said he found a fire escape assembled in the yard at the rear.

"It was to be installed next week,"

Call For Donors To Bloodmobile

FARMVILLE — Requests were made today for donors to help meet a Red Cross Bloodmobile quota set for Farmville.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Methodist Church here Tuesday from noon to 6 p.m. and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A quota of 250 pints, which will cover the town's contribution for the year, has been set.

Project co-chairmen Tommy Willis and Frank K. Allen said this morning that less than 200 persons have pledged blood thus far. They pointed out that the visit next week will be part of an experiment, wherein the Bloodmobile will visit Farmville only once a year instead of several times, as in the past.

The co-chairmen said persons interested in signing pledges could do so at Tyson's Jewelers or Wheelers Drug Store, in Farmville, or by calling Allen at 3143 in Farmville. Fountain residents who are interested in signing pledges can do so by contacting Mrs. R. E. Gardner at SH 9-4331 in Fountain.

Flooded Out A Second Time In Three Weeks

By MARGARET DENNIS
Findlay Republican-Courier

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—"Yeah, this is the second time in three weeks that the old Blanchard River has flooded us out," commented Richard Kirchner as he sat on the bare, water-soaked floor of his home here.

The six-room house stands about a city block from the river. "But," he added, "I can't get too mad about it. There are people worse off than we are."

Mr. and Mrs. Kirchner and their three children, like more than 200 families in this northwest Ohio city, were evacuated from their home for the second time in less than a month.

They had stayed with Mrs. Kirchner's parents for a week following the flood last Jan. 21. They returned there last Tuesday. They are not sure when they'll be back in their own home.

"It's a little tough for me," admitted Kirchner, 34. "Because I'm not supposed to lift anything or do any heavy work. I had lung surgery and I've been out of work for two years. I've never begged for anything in my life and I'm not about to do it now."

"We've been living on the allotment from aid to dependent children. The Red Cross is helping us now. They came out after this second flood and said they hadn't closed the books on us from the last time. They asked us to make out a list of things we needed. We don't want to ask for too much, but we sure haven't much left to start up with again."

He looked around his house. A sodden davenport, its cushions piled high. Two refrigerators stood in the kitchen. One has been damaged beyond repair. The other, brought to them by Red Cross after they moved back into their home the first time, was up on blocks, but its motor was missing.

"The motor got wet but I think it'll be all right after it's dried out," Kirchner said. "With a one-year-old daughter, we have to have a refrigerator. Dianne drinks lots of milk."

"Everything happens to us in January," said Mrs. Kirchner. "We were married in January. Dianne was born in January. Those are the nice things."

"But Dick (her husband) got sick in January 1955 and couldn't work for eight months. Then six years later, in January 1957, he had a recurrence. That's when he had lung surgery and hasn't been able to work since."

Kirchner got back to his work of attempting to repair a fan which was in a tired condition from two hitches of helping dry out the family's possessions. As he worked he started whistling. The song was an off-key version of "Down by the Old Mill Stream."

Sandbags Barely Hold Back River

WEST TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—A sandbag dike at West Terre Haute and ice jams near Delphi stood in teetering uncertainty today in rain and unusual weather along the flooded Wabash River.

It was anybody's guess whether the dike, breached once and quickly patched early today, would keep rising Wabash backwaters out of West Terre Haute, whence 150 families had fled.

Light rain helped raise the Wabash to 24.6 feet by daybreak instead of the expected 24.3.

The Weather Bureau said the rains should end before nightfall, but there might be some heavy thundershowers before then. More rains were forecast for Monday.

The rain and warm temperatures in the 40s and 50s left the outlook on upstream ice jams so uncertain that dynamiting was postponed, at least for today.

Maj. Gen. John W. McConnell, state adjutant general, said there definitely will be no dynamiting in an eight-mile jam north of Delphi before early next week.

McConnell said the combination of rain and warmth had raised the threat of a mass movement of the long ice jam, if dynamiting was started. Big blocks of ice, some as big as an automobile, could threaten Lafayette.

The adjutant general said serious damage was being given to earlier blasting of a smaller ice jam, a mile and a half long, south of Delphi, to get it out of the way of the bigger jam upstream. However, he added, any start on this job wouldn't come before Sunday.

No substantial amount of floodwater poured into West Terre Haute before the hole in the dike was patched.

The dike was on Sugar Creek, a swollen tributary of the Wabash. Officials, at first thinking it was useless to try to patch the dike, released sandbagging crews to scan the area and see if all families had been evacuated.

The crews later were recalled.

Court Orders Saving Of Old Voter Records

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Even if the legislature gives voter registration officials the right to throw away old records, Macon County authorities are under court order to save theirs.

The order was signed Friday by U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. at the request of the Justice Department which wants the records for its suit against Macon County registrars.

Fearful that a pending legislative measure might enable registration authorities to dispose of the records, the Justice Department asked Johnson for an order to preserve them.

The judge set a hearing on the motion for Feb. 23, and instructed county officials to save the files until then. The hearing will determine whether they must be preserved beyond that date.

SBI Chief Praises Sponsors Of Crime Prevention Week

Walter Anderson, Head of the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation, last night told the Greenville Exchange Club that "Exchange club efforts in sponsorship of Crime Prevention Week are having a good effect."

Anderson briefly traced the history of the Institute of Government, of Chapel Hill, and spoke of its founder, Dr. Albert Coates, who is still Director of the Institute. Anderson pointed out that the Institute is active in training all classes of government personnel—law enforcement, judicial, and administrative—at all levels. He said that the Institute handles training of state, city, county, and township officials. He said that the Institute training is available to any interest officials and that many have gained by it.

"The annual cost of crime in the United States," Anderson told the group, "is twenty two billions of dollars." He said further that half of all major crimes are committed by juveniles under the age of 18.

Anderson's figures showed that over 11,000 prisoners are being kept in state prisons and another 11,000 in local prisons.

"The crime rate in this state," he said, "is not a thing to be proud of, but the efforts of all organizations and individuals to decrease this rate are beginning to bear fruit."

Exchangeite Frank Wooten, Member of the House of Representatives, introduced Anderson and was in charge of the meeting. Guests at the meeting included representatives of the police department, the state highway patrol, and the county sheriff's office.

WALTER ANDERSON . . . commended Exchange Clubs for crime prevention

Red Oak Christian Announcements

Miss North Carolina, Miss Betty Lane Evans, will be organist for Sunday's Service on the theme of "Brotherhood." She will also sing "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee" as a Communion Meditation.

The Rev. Howard James will preach on "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" The Sanctuary choir will sing "Tell Me The Stories of Jesus" by Chas. H. Flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Manning, Jr.

Sanctuary choir rehearsal will be held Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Cannon.

Boy Scout Troop 398 will meet in the Scout room at Red Oak Christian Church at 7:30 p.m. Scoutmaster Dick Bailey urges all members to be present on time. An impressive Boy Scout ceremony was held last Sunday as Scout Day saw the presentation of the charter for 1959 and the saying of the Scout oath, promise, motto and slogan by the troop.

February 22 will be week of compassion Sunday, our church will send an offering to Church World Service to help those in need around the world.

March 4 will be a Day of Prayer for our Spring Revival to be held March 15-20 by Dr. C.J. Bradner. On March 14-15 the Hookerton District Youth Fellowship Youth meet will be held at Eighth Street Christian Church.

General Meeting, W.S.C.S. The General Meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will be held Monday, Feb. 16, at 3:00 p.m. in the Chapel. Mr. Robert Lee Humber will be the inspirational speaker using the topic "A Decade of Human Concern—United Nations."

Ladies are urged to bring all coupons for the Methodist Children's Home to the General Meeting.

Preceding the General Meeting

Christian Church Announcements

The Christian Churches of the United States and Canada will observe this week, February 15-22, as Week of Compassion. That means that all our people are asked to consider the world's needy peoples and out of sympathetic compassion give of our prayers and our means to help them. It is staggering thought that there are more refugees in the world at the present time than there were at the close of the last war. Christian people of our churches must make this a matter of great concern. The worshippers at the Eighth Street Christian Church on Sunday morning are urged to make a generous offering for this worthy work.

The Eighth Street Christian Church will be the host to a District Youth Meeting, March 13-14 at which time some 150 to 200 young people will be giving consideration to the missionary program of the church.

On Sunday, February 22, Dr. Haney will bring his closing message to the congregation using the theme, "The Presenting Christ." This will also conclude a series of Sunday morning messages on the fundamentals of the Christian faith.

Mrs. William S. Corbett, Jr., president of the Christian Women's Fellowship, is inviting every household in the church to bring a picnic dinner on Sunday, February 22. The whole family is invited to be present and it is to be a day of rich fellowship. Dr. Haney will conclude his pastorate on that day. At the service Sunday morning the choir will sing "Sweet Hour of Prayer" by Bradbury with Ralph Sullivan taking the solo part. The pastor has announced to preach on "Immortality," Sunday School begins at 9:45. The youth organizations meet Sunday afternoon at 5:00 and 6:00.

Believing Is Essence Of World Day Of Prayer Services Here

By PEGGY SMITH
Reflector Woman's Editor

"Lord, I Believe . . ." was the theme used throughout the World Day of Prayer services held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church yesterday.

Dr. George A. Douglas, professor of Sociology and director of the Danforth Foundation at East Carolina College, was the guest speaker. He gave several interpretations of believing.

"It was the philosopher Pascal who suggested that there are three paths to believing: inspiration, reason, and custom." Each believer of the creative powers of God must ask himself: "Do I believe in the beneficence and grace of God because someone told me that is what I should believe, because it is the common belief in my circle? or do I believe it because of revelation which has been purified by intellectual inquiry? Can a child of God be satisfied with custom or authority for such a personal attribute?" He explained, "Man who has not only tasted the fruit of the tree of knowledge, but has been endowed by his Maker with the necessary equipment to discriminate wisely must never accept beliefs arbitrarily decreed by custom or authority. 'Mentally-endowed man would show blasphemous disrespect for the provisions of his Lord were he to secrete under a basket this divine attribute. Let our beliefs then arise from the impulse of the divine-human rather than from the sub-human."

Dr. Douglas suggested two spheres which the estate of contemporary man requires of lofty inspiration and critical reason. The first had to do with the ultimate question of our relation to the cosmos: "What do we believe about the future? The second gives meaning to the cosmos: What do we believe about ourselves? Each question is fraught with custom-dictated and authority-ordained beliefs. Each, however, is subject to purification by reason and inspiration."

Concluding he said, "Today 1959 as in any other year, we not only need the will to believe, but this will must be balanced by an intellectual curiosity and be purified by inspiration."

"In the words of Browning, 'Trust God, See All, Nor be afraid.'"

Mrs. Keith Holmes, president of the Greenville Council of Church Women, presided and served as a leader with the Rev. Terry Agner, minister of the United Lutheran Mission. Mrs. S. B. Underwood Jr. and Mrs. F. D. Duncan headed the World Relations Committee.

World Day of Prayer's purpose is to unite all Christians in a bond of prayer, to give individuals an opportunity to share in a fellowship of prayer with others around the world, and to witness to their belief that prayer has the power to bring the hearts of men into conformity with God's will.

Mrs. Johnsen Honors Chapter

The Delta Gamma Chapter of E. S. A. met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Elliott Johnson.

President Rubelle Crawford conferred the initiatory degree on Mrs. Clyde McCune and welcomed as new members Mrs. Ed Harris, Miss Bernice Cahoon and Miss Jo Ann Johnson.

Committee reports included a report on visiting the local school for mentally retarded children and presenting them with a box of toys, plans for raising money to help further with this project and the E. S. A. Home project.

Mrs. James Brady was honored with a stork shower during the social hour.

A Valentine party for members and guests in honor of new members will be held February 19 at the home of Mrs. Johnny Caslick.

BEETS WITH ORANGE SAUCE

Ingredients: 1 can (1 pound) sliced beets, 1/2 cup strained orange juice, 1 tablespoon honey, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 1 teaspoon cold water, 1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons grated orange rind.

Method: Drain liquid from beets and refrigerate for some other use. Heat orange juice, honey and butter in a 1 1/2-quart saucepan. Mix cornstarch and cold water until smooth and add; cook and stir constantly until slightly thickened and clear. Add sliced beets; gently reheat in sauce, turning over the beets a few times. Stir in grated orange rind. Makes 4 servings.

Moose Women Hold Meeting

Chapter 1308 Women of the Moose met last night with senior Regent Earline Coghill, presiding.

The Ritual Committee was in charge of the Chapter Night Program.

Billy Laughinghouse spoke to the chapter about rugs and rug making.

Door prize was won by Mrs. Catherine Smith.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to all my friends and relatives for their expression of love and their devoted prayers, visits, cards and flowers during my illness in Pitt Memorial Hospital. I shall always be grateful for the wonderful doctors and nurses who rendered their untiring service to me. May God bless each of you.

Tots Attend Valentine Party

By CATHERINE MOORE
Teenage Writer

Twenty-three home economics students in Mrs. Rachel P. Welborn's fourth period class gave a Valentine's party yesterday for eight young children. This child development class has been studying the pre-school age child.

Children who attended included Sue Trevathan, David Wilfong, Kathy Whitchard, Ricky Joyner, Debby Webb, Robin Sue Gregory, Emily Jean Allen, and David Evans. They are either relatives of the hostesses or children for whom they baby sit.

Class members made all preparations for the party and entertained the children during the hour, practicing the things which they had learned in class.

During the party the children pulled favors from a red and white heart. They ate cookies and drank pink lemonade which the teenagers had prepared for them.

Students Observe Week
In observance of Crime Prevention Week, the Exchange Club of Greenville sponsored a program for Rose High students yesterday on "Social Situations that Face Young People."

Mrs. Marie S. Wallace moderated the program. East Carolina College students Gayle Clapp and Betty Lane Evans, Greenville; Mary Lynn Aiken, Fuquay; Ann Hall, Salemburg; Cedric M. Johnson, Goldsboro; and Jerry Warren, Leaksville, formed the panel.

Panel members answered questions submitted by the Rose High students.

Charles Cobb represented the Exchange Club.

Repair small dents in furniture by placing blotter paper over the damaged spot and apply steam and heat. This will cause the wood to swell and fill the dent.

Book Club Has Guest Speaker

The Aries Book Club met at the home of Mrs. M. L. Starkey recently with the hostess presenting the first portion of the program. Rev. Bennie Pledger was the guest speaker.

In the early absence of the president, Mrs. Robert Moye called the meeting to order and welcomed the guests, Mrs. Earl Alder and the Rev. and Mrs. Bennie Pledger, Baptist minister of Ayden.

Reports were given by the various committees, and the president announced that she would appoint the nominating committee at the next meeting.

Mrs. Starkey gave the "short subject" portion of the program, giving a report on the vast housing project at Seymour-Johnson Air Base in Goldsboro. Fifteen hundred homes have been completed there for 7500 military personnel. These consist of individual houses and duplexes, each complete in every way for luxurious living. Each unit is completely heated and air conditioned, with every conceivable convenience. The total cost of the project was $22,000,000.

Mrs. Astor Richardson introduced the Rev. Mr. Pledger, the guest speaker for the evening. He chose the three Biblical women who represent "ideal womanhood" as his topic. They were Debra, Esther and Ruth.

Debra was chosen as a leader by her people because of the absence of a strong male leader. Her strength was in a strong love and closeness to God, as was Moses and David. She served as a judge, counselor and military dictator for her people.

Then there was Esther, who in her simple, hopeful way, won the love of King Ahasuerus. Esther was of good stock, coming from the house of Mordecai. Pledger stated, Esther's simple hope and self-sacrificing type of personality kept her people, the Jews, from being persecuted further. She was able to influence the king to rid the kingdom of the enemies of her people.

Finally, Ruth was depicted as the simple, beautiful woman who was so full of love for everyone that she was asked to be the wife of Boaz, one of the richest men in the land. Ruth was a young widow who chose to live with her mother-in-law, Naomi. She and Naomi were poverty-stricken, and were found to glean the grain fields of Boaz for food. Boaz said that this woman, who was so devoted to her mother-in-law, was the essence of pure love. He fell in love with her, and they were wed. Ruth's was the story of "from rags to riches."

According to the Rev. Pledger, these three women were womanhood at its finest—the strength in God of Debra, the hopefulness of Esther and the love of Ruth.

30 Years Ago Today

February 14, 1929

A signal honor has come to Miss Helen Forbes White, charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam T. White of this city, in the form of an invitation to represent the North Carolina Society of the Children of the American Revolution at the official celebration commemorating the 177th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. The annual official celebration of Washington's birthday is given under the auspices of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia and the honor of presenting the floral tribute goes to only one state at each celebration. In view of the fact that it is only once in many years that North Carolina has opportunity to take part in the celebration in this role friends of Miss White here consider it a great honor that she has been chosen on this occasion.

District Deputy Talks To Shrine

The monthly meeting of Greenville White Shrine No. 7 was held Wednesday evening at the Masonic Temple on Fifth Street with a good attendance present.

In a setting of Valentine arrangements, District Deputy Mildred Kennedy was presented and welcomed. In her response she gave highlights of the ritualistic work, and brought greetings from the Supreme Worthy High Priestess of Detroit, Mich. She also thanked all the officers and members of Greenville Shrine for their loyal support and many acts of kindness received during her term of office.

A gift of silver was presented her from the members of Greenville Shrine by Sojourner Frances Forrest, Noble Prophetess.

Worthy High Priestess Bertha Forrest presided over the business session and plans were made for eight members to attend the Supreme Shrine Session in Minneapolis, Minn. May 5-7.

Sojourner Rous Thomas, Supreme Noble Prophetess, of Durham, will be installed as Supreme Worthy High Priestess for 1959 and 1960.

It was announced that the North Carolina State Shrine Club will meet on Feb. 22 in Gastonia and members were urged to attend.

Sojourner Herman Nobles, chairman of Material Objective Committee, reported on the case of the young man from Snow Hill who recently lost his leg in an automobile accident and needs help with his hospital and doctors' bills. The members voted to help him.

Following the meeting a Valentine party was held in the dining room, where cranberry punch, red and white decorated party cakes, heart-shaped sandwiches, and nuts were served from the decorated table featuring a centerpiece of red satin hearts, silver cupid, red and white carnations and red candles in silver candelabra.

Circle Fetes Young Auxiliary

BETHEL—Members of Circle No. 2 of the Baptist Church entertained the Young Women's Auxiliary at a banquet in the Fellowship Hall of the Baptist Church Monday night with 15 mothers and daughters present.

The Valentine motif was used in the decorations.

The group was seated at a long table where they were served a three course dinner, family style. Miss Shirley Whitehurst, president, gave the welcome and Mrs. Fred Mozingo responded.

The program chairman, Miss Betty Cooper, introduced the speaker for the occasion, which was the beginning of focus week.

The speaker, Mrs. James Briley, chose as her topic "Mothers." She told of many blessings that daughters derive from mothers.

To Speak

DR. ROBERT HUMBER . . . will speak at the General Meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service Monday afternoon in the chapel of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. His topic will concern the United Nations.

PITT—Starts Thursday!

Sal Mineo stars in a new kind of role, that of an Indian brave, in the Walt Disney Technicolor production, "TONKA."

Harsh Penalties Seemingly Favored

If North Carolina is to make the severity of the punishment in keeping with the seriousness of the crime, the legislature should pass the proposal now before it to stiffen penalties both for actually destroying or damaging schools and churches, and for making hoax bomb calls.

Since last November when the wave of hoax bomb calls began to North Carolina schools, countless student-hours have been lost from classes because of evacuation of schools. In some cases the same school has been disturbed day after day, resulting in students being dismissed from classes.

And the fact that some persons responsible for such calls have been apprehended and punished has not put a stop to the calls. They continue week after week, though in lesser numbers than was the case several months ago.

North Carolinians have made it amply clear in the past that they will not tolerate violence or destruction in connection with their schools and churches. The public has also voiced its condemnation of pranksters and agitators who disrupt schools through hoax bomb calls.

The legislature should follow the pattern established by the citizenry by writing into law stiffer penalties for such crimes.

The bill now before the legislature would make the destruction of a school or church, or the attempted destruction of a school or church by bombing or fire punishable with prison sentences ranging from 10 to 50 years. The same bill provides that persons guilty of making hoax bomb threats may be punished by up to 10 years in prison, and by fines up to $500.

Some Signs Of Rough Weather

By LYNN NISBET

ROUGH WEATHER — Signs on the horizon are that some of the administration budget items and reorganization plans are in for rough weather. There is belief in some quarters that Governor Hodges may not have any more "trouble" than he experienced in 1957, although there are more open expressions of objection.

One veteran legislator who insists that he is neither pro nor anti sees a chance that it might be easier for the administration forces to combat opposition in the open than if it were unexpressed.

Questions asked at the briefing sessions on appropriations and revenue bills clearly indicated lack of full acceptance of budget recommendations in both areas. Strangely enough, expressions so far have been in favor of higher taxes to provide needed services, rather than objection to appropriations because they were too high and would require more taxes.

The agency, department and institutional budgets admittedly are more realistic than usual. The budget-makers have kept closer contact with spending officials, with result that there was less "padding" of requests. At the same time, many of the agencies will continue to fight for more adequate funds in some special cases. This attitude was summed up pretty well by Col. Ed Kirk, assistant director of C&D and secretary to the State Ports Authority.

We are fairly well satisfied with the C&D appropriation," he said, "although we will ask for adjustments in some items." Asked about the ports item he said he could not believe the Authority would remain silent in view of the drastic cuts in requested allocations.

TRAVEL — Prior to the 1957 session of the General Assembly members got no allowance for travel or living expenses while attending to their legislative duties. Pursuant to constitutional amendment ratified by popular vote in 1956, they were allotted the same per diem expenses as other State employees, and the same travel allowance for one round trip for the entire session.

A bill has been offered in the House by several far western members authorizing payment for one round trip every two weeks during any regular or special session.

This matter of weekly or bi-weekly trips home ties in with the long established practice of holding only perfunctory sessions on Saturday, and no committee meetings on Friday and Monday. Members get per diem pay of $15 a day for 120 days and $8 subsistence allowance as long as the session lasts, both including Saturdays and Sundays.

The weekend trips home, occasioning the short Friday and Monday meetings, are justified by the argument that it is important for legislators to confer with their constituents, particularly with local officials about pending legislation. For mountain members living as much as 350 miles from Raleigh the travel expense is a big item.

Just how much of it the State should contribute is questioned by many taxpayers who point out that legislators mostly want to go home for their own private business and professional interests. It is the same old problem of differences between the folks who incur expenses and the folks who must pay the bill, whether in public service or private enterprise.

JORDAN — U. S. Sen. Everett Jordan visited his Raleigh office the other day on his way to his home at Saxapahaw and while here talked with some of his constituents. Senate business was light on account of the Lincoln holiday and he took the time to look after a few business matters of his own.

He told the story of a boyhood friend named Felix who served in World War I AEF. Veterans of that war will remember there was a lot of ground based hand to hand fighting. On one occasion Felix and his company were ordered out of the trenches to meet an enemy charge. He saw a great big German diving at him with drawn bayonet, and later reported this reaction: "I came over her to fight for liberty, but right now I'm fighting for Felix." The Senator said there are times when every Felix has to do a little fighting for himself.

Senator Jordan said that as the 86th Congress gets into stride Lyndon Johnson of Texas, majority leader, is growing in stature as a statesman. He reports that Johnson and Sen. Everett Dirksen, minority leader, understand each other's attitude and problems and get along well together.

He is still too new to speak authoritatively on most subjects, but he is very optimistic about prospects for "reasonable" Federal legislation on civil rights and other matters affecting the South and the rather vague but often publicized "Southern viewpoint."

Asked for comment on the North Carolina Legislature, the Senator said he had enough problems in his own bailiwick.

While these penalties may sound harsh, it should be realized that such crimes against the people of any state or community within the state are sufficiently serious to justify such punishment.

Harsh penalties for such crimes will certainly make individuals think twice before making a fake bomb call to a school or setting off a charge which will damage or destroy a church or school.

One Trouble Is, The Power To Overproduce

Look at it this way:

The whole country is geared to a capability of overproduction.

Right now it's especially evident in agriculture... and it is expensive when one looks at the burden of meeting surplus problems.

It is evident in industry... and it's expensive when one looks at the ability to produce at full capacity for a few months then coast for the remainder of the year. Employment figures dwindle during that seasonal layoff time, and unemployment costs get out of hand.

Noteworthy, in following this line of thought, is that even today when business and industry are moving into a new wave of prosperity, that it can be done without rehiring many laid off workers or the hiring of more workers. It's a matter of productive capability far above the needs of Americans.

It's a fantastic suggestion, but in the light of what we've seen in the last ten years, if agriculture and industry were opened up to 100 per cent capacity of production, America could probably feed, clothe and provide necessities and luxuries for its own people and all of Europe.

And as that capacity picked up momentum, the power to produce even more would likely be thrown into the economic complex... requiring an even greater and greater consumer market.

In a way, this tremendous production potential is a handicap. It is showing itself in that light today. Americans are actually taxing themselves... and heavily... as a direct result of being able to over-produce.

This topsy-turvy condition could lead to a point where manufacturers are paid not to manufacture, fishermen paid not to fish, power companies paid not to create electricity and petroleum firms paid not to produce oil.

Why not? It has already happened in agriculture. One trouble might be that America just does not know its own strength. The country is geared to another day, another time. Certainly not to the present.

Big 1959 Issues Coming To Fore

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—As 1959 unfolds, the big issues between Democrats and Republicans seem to be spending the quality of American defense, and foreign policy.

And at this point the water in which all three issues are swimming is a little murky, or rolled, as fishermen say.

The anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth is one of the best times of the year for seeing what kind of ammunition the Republicans think they have for firing at the Democrats.

This year one Republican speaker after another hit at spending policy, another hit at spending for action to avoid inflation by spending no more than President Eisenhower asked in his budget message last January.

Economy was the constant theme of the speeches. In hitting the speakers were following the lead of Eisenhower who has been banging away at the "big spenders" in the Democratic-run Congress.

The Republican attempt to picture the Democrats as spenders already had gotten under the Democratic skin, with Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas setting the pace in firing back.

Johnson, leader of the Senate Democrats, has cracked back with phrases like these: "To set up the present administration as the guardian of the balanced budget is in the same class as hiring a coyote for a watchdog over sheep."

This year's Republican speakers hit on other themes — like protecting civil rights — but economy was the main one.

The Democrats already have been assailing the Eisenhower administration by questioning the quality of the defense program sponsored by the President. They ask: Is defense being jeopardized by Eisenhower economy?

This is indeed a murky field since the experts are wrangling among themselves and the public is hardly in a position to know who's right.

Democrats have been critical of the administration's conduct of foreign affairs but when these differences are examined they are not really basic differences but rather differences in details. Again the public — which can't know what the insiders know — can only guess as to who is right.

Nevertheless, spending, defense and foreign policy disputes will probably dominate Democratic and Republican statements for the rest of the year.

In an evolving society like this the political issues seldom seem to change suddenly or be abandoned. Rather they change little by little until, as the years go by, one finally isn't heard of anymore and something else takes its place.

Yet a check back on the issues Republicans raised at Lincoln Day dinners in past years shows that at least one thing which was an issue in 1950 is still being hammered on.

It was spending. In 1950 President Truman and his Democratic administration had the job of running the country now held by Eisenhower and his administration and what he called the "reckless spending" and "socialistic programs of the New Deal."

That was also the year when Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin began his crusade against Communists in government. It was a theme which served the Republicans well for a while but in four years, or after McCarthy was brushed aside by his fellow senators, it faded away and no one this year was talking about it.

"We urge our daily friends to give up some of their toys and to give more attention to the 'hard' news. We constantly back at censorship of news in less-free lands. Censoring it ourselves, just to make papers easier to read, is at once an alarming judgment on our educational system and a denying of the hard facts we must know if we are going to survive this mad century." — Chilton (Wis.) Times-Journal.

"TVA now has an installed capacity of 10,222,210 kilowatts. Of that amount 3,727,460 kilowatts is hydroelectric; the rest is in steam plants. One may well ask, whatever became of the agency created 25 years ago to undertake the integrated development of a river?" — Detroit News.

"The President has taken the position that fiscal sanity requires restraint in spending, a schedule of 'spending priorities' for an orchestra. The musicians must begin together and end together. The public doesn't give a darn what goes on in between." — Sir Thomas Beecham.

Sassy Valentines

By DON SCHLIENZ

Publicity Agent's Stunt?

According to the news columns, Florida's chief librarian has relegated some more old book friends to the trash heap.

Tom Swift, The Bobsey Twins and even The Wizard of Oz have been given the brush-off. Horatio Alger is similarly condemned.

With libraries instructed to take these and other old favorites out of circulation, who else but Gov. LeRoy Collins would voice some small defense for Uncle Wiggily. I doubt even his plea for clemency will be heard. Librarians are made of stern stuff.

To tell the truth, the whole caper sounds like a publicity agent's gimmick. For, during my library-haunting career, I have never seen The Bobsey Twins or Tom Swift books in a library.

One reason could have been that additions were made to the series at least twice a year, and what library could keep up to date... could find room... for such prolific writing?

Actually, you acquired these condemned books on Christmas or birthdays; or maybe you borrowed from the neighbors' kids. The most avid readers readily understood their taste did not mirror library-book standards.

The Horatio Alger books were a little before my time, though I did manage to beg and borrow a couple of dog-eared and coverless Alger stories to sate an eleven-year-old curiosity. Even then I regarded them as collector's items rather than a standard for contemporary boys' books.

Contemporary books did I say? The bookstores were full of them... The Rover Boys, Dick Hamilton and Pee-Wee Harris series, to name a few. And I'd be among the first to say they had no place in libraries; but as mentioned before, there's no reason to make a big case out of it by going to a governor.

There were, and still are, worse things for boys to read than the Tom Swift or Horatio Alger books.

In them, readers of impressionable years learn the word Honor is something more than an excuse for drawing a gun; that "pluck" and "grit" (words that seem archaic, today) win out in the end; that honesty pays; that respect and courtesy are not empty words. In brief all the old virtues were vividly exemplified and painlessly taught.

I've been out of touch with reading tastes of succeeding eras of small boys. Comic books, for awhile, seemed to be a big thing; but the hue and cry raised over them seems to have faded away... Whether due to acceptance or a fall in popularity is uncertain to me.

A few years from now, reading tastes of two very young people very close to me will become important again. And if they aren't all wrapped up in reading Constitutional law or the latest missile manuals, they could do worse than meeting some friends I knew nearly 30 years ago.

Other Editors Saying... Has Opinion Changed?

(Goldshoro News-Argus)

There are straws in the wind which indicate that possibly the attitude of members of the General Assembly toward a cigarette tax has changed.

Four years ago when the subject was broached as a new source for state revenues, the legislators gave it short shrift.

Many of you will recall what happened in Wayne County. The News-Argus, purely as a matter of information, stated a straw vote on the topic. It published coupons in the paper and invited readers to vote their ideas. The Durham Sun and the Greensboro Record, at the invitation of the News-Argus, joined in the poll.

In Wayne there had never been anything like it. Straw votes by the thousands poured in. Leaders opposed to the idea, including some members of the General Assembly, organized canvassers who visited churches and Sunday Schools on the Sabbath and collected votes by the hundred.

In Wayne the vote was stupendously against any cigarette tax. In Durham and in Greensboro the number of votes cast was only a fraction of those cast in Wayne.

Tobacco farmers in Wayne felt as if they were opposing a direct tax on their raw tobacco.

The leaders who campaigned strenuously to get this opinion reflected in the poll, so strenuously that the personal and uninfluenced vote was impossible, argued that it would be psychologically bad for the greatest tobacco growing, cigarette-making state to impose a tax on the manufactured product.

Now the cigarette tax is being mentioned, along with other possibilities, as a source for millions for schools and for other state purposes. The opposition of four years ago apparently has calmed down to an extent at least. Some of those who so violently objected that that time, feeling that they were protecting themselves and their people, are taking a close second look.

They have been traveling in the more than 40 states which have a cigarette tax. They have noted that consumption of cigarettes in these states is in no way reduced from that of the two or three states which have no such tax. And they are thinking of the many millions which could be added to the state's revenue.

This change, let it be said, is noted in the county of Wayne, which produced such determined opposition to the idea four years ago.

There are between four and five million alcoholics in the United States today. Alcoholism is the medical and scientific name for a moral and social evil known as drunkenness.

An organization which does research in the field of human behavior recently issued the statement that alcohol is not a particularly important problem in the United States let their drinking get out of control. In other words, between six and seven per cent of all drinkers fall into habits which render them practically useless to society and problems to their family. In addition there are always about as many problem drinkers as there are alcoholics. A problem drinker is a drinker who is fast becoming an alcoholic. It is a dreadful truth to confront that one out of every ten persons who starts to drink will become either an alcoholic or a problem drinker.

Think of this huge social, economic and moral loss sustained only because certain people want to satisfy a certain physical craving or conform to social patterns. Four or five million alcoholics out of seven million million drinkers may not appear a matter of overwhelming importance to men who sit at desks and work on statistical charts, but if your son or daughter, your husband or wife, your brother or sister, your father or mother is one of those four million ruined persons, then the tune changes.

A statistic becomes a personal sorrow. A digit becomes a lost soul.

Strength For Today

Needs Air In A Book

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK (AP) — "Air, that's what I require in a book," said Isak Kinesen, sitting in the exclusive East Side club where she stayed during her first visit to this country.

"I begin my short stories with the stage, or setting," this distinguished Danish writer continued. "Of the four elements, it is air that matters most. For me, the element in which people move comes before the people."

Isak Kinesen is a pen name. Her father was Wilhelm Dinesen, a writer himself, officer in the Franco-Prussian war and, curiously, a one-time visitor to our West where he was for several years a trapper with the Pawnee Indians.

Her real name is Baroness Christene Karen Blixen-Pinckette. But more people take off their hats now, and always will, to the abiding aristocrat Dinesen than to Blixen.

Author of five books, she has had three Book-of-the-Month Club choices: "Out of Africa," "Seven Gothic Tales" and "Winter's Tales." Two new books have appeared within a year, "Last Tales" and "Ancestress of Destiny." There's a note of finality about one title, but the baroness said:

"No, I shall never stop writing. I have just had to spend a couple of years in a hospital, and all the time there I kept thinking of new things I wanted to write."

She was invited here under the auspices of the Ford Foundation Fund for the Advancement of Education and the Institute of Contemporary Arts, and she made some educational films in Washington. After fulfilling all her duties she settled down for a few extra weeks of pure enjoyment, with the intention of seeing New York and its museums and other cultural activities.

"I'm going to accept all invitations," she said excitedly. One of them was to be guest of honor at a dinner of the American Academy and National Institute.

An incredibly weightless voice of a woman, with an almost breathless, disembodied voice, she has turned in her 70s into a sort of presence as airy and fantastic as the stories which have made her famous.

"Though I didn't know I was famous," she remarked, "until I came to the United States."

It is here, rather than in Denmark, that she has scored her chief success.

Married in 1914 to a cousin, from whom her title comes, she lived in Africa until the early 1930s helping run a coffee plantation.

"There was air in Kenya," she remembered. Born at sea level, living now only 100 yards from the shore, she occupied an African plantation 6,000 feet up.

"I loved the atmosphere. I never felt so well. And there were certain books, I found, that read particularly well at that altitude. Racine, for instance, did very well."

She never went to school, but was brought up by governesses. She read Shakespeare, Dante, Homer, Racine, Turgenev. She studied painting in Paris and was in her 40s before she achieved much success in story writing. Though it has been rumored that she wrote one novel under a second pseudonym, she said:

"I can't write a novel. I'm a story teller. I write what is passed on by word of mouth."

Her stories have plot, but also they have the "air" of which she spoke, the air for which she admired so much Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" with "its splendid feel for the mighty river."

The people in her stories are not just real, they are not fact bigger than real. There is a particularly ghostly quality to the scenes and action, a touch of Arabian nights, of the unearthly and supernatural. Was there some connection between her birth and upbringing in an agricultural country with respected traditions, and the aloof, non-involved, cool handling of the classical or aristocratic handling of her stories? She wasn't sure.

"Democratic literature," she said, "is realistic literature. I am not a realistic writer. And my own well-springs seem to lie far back, in the Denmark I knew before I went to Africa in 1914. I do not belong as a writer to any particular generation in Denmark."

Opinions In Brief Steel Strike Fear Is A Factor

By ELMER ROESSNER

The fact that it is feared so much makes a steel strike almost certain this summer. There's a widespread belief that union demands will be so high that management will take a strike rather than meet them.

Consequently, for the last two months, steel users have been buying and stockpiling huge amounts of essential metal. Steel companies' backlogs of orders are high and rising. U.S. Steel alone had unfilled orders for 4,373,000 tons on December 31. Last, and the total has been piling up every business hour since then.

Steel companies are lightning reserve furnaces and activating other units as fast as competent crews can be assembled to operate them. They are also rushing repairs on equipment damaged by recent floods and storms in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

BOTH SIDES READY

Contract negotiations are scheduled to start in May. The present contracts expire June 30.

By June the auto companies and other big steel users will have accumulated stockpiles large enough to carry them through a lengthy strike.

This, then, will be the companies' situation: They will face a sharp fall-off in demand because, strike or not, their big customers will have adequate supplies. While a strike will cost heavily, the loss at that time will be far less than a strike — right now, for instance. Furthermore, companies will have amassed considerable profits from the current rush of orders.

This will be the union's situation: Members will face reductions in the work week or layoffs because of the downturn in buying. Workers' and unions' funds are being built up rapidly because of the extra work, much at overtime rates.

BILLION A YEAR BOOST

The United Steelworkers have not yet made demands public. However, there is a strong rank-and-file sentiment for a hefty increase. Last year's increase, under a contract negotiated in 1958, was 18 cents an hour, half of which was an automatic cost-of-living adjustment.

Despite the recession, steelworkers saw other unions get larger increases. The steel companies fear that union demands will attempt to make up for what members would like to have got a year ago. Demands for pay raises and additional fringes may total $1 billion a year.

The steel companies have one important reason for resisting much higher wages. Present wages have forced steel prices so high that they are losing in foreign markets. Exports declined last year by 2,400,000 tons, largely because of competition from low-wage countries.

A further rise might lose many other markets — a situation that could be worsened by rising competition from Iron Curtain nations. If steelworkers win a substantial rise and steel prices go up correspondingly, a general increase in the price level may be expected because, as the industry itself reminds everybody, "Nothing is made without steel."

A rise in the cost of living would trigger demands for substantial increases by most other unions.

And since the Steelworkers contract will probably again have a cost-of-living clause, this will give the steelworkers themselves another wage increase.

HOW TO GET PUBLICITY FOR YOUR CITY OR STATE

Westinghouse is trying to buy publicity with publicity. It's current advertising theme is "GO WESTINGHOUSE," and stores are being urged to take on a Westinghouse air and participate in tie-in contests. In addition, Westinghouse is offering Western cities and states free publicity in its advertising program if they will make contest winners honorary marshals or deputy sheriffs.

Phants Win On Long Shot With Two Seconds To Go

Dramatic 46-44

Triumph

WASHINGTON—Billy Cox sank a long shot last night with two seconds remaining to give Greenville a 46-44 victory over Washington last night and keep the Phantoms in a first place tie for the Northeastern title.

Cox's dramatic shot came after Larry Windley of Washington knotted the score at 44-all with a jump shot. With eight seconds remaining, Greenville called for time out to map their strategy.

The ball was passed in to Cox who took one dribble and let loose. The ball swished the nets and it was all over as Coach Bo Farley and his red-hot club had survived the first of their final three games which will decide the conference champion.

The Phantoms remained in a tie with Kingston with their 10-2 mark. The Red Devils, who make a visit to Greenville next Tuesday night, had to struggle for a 67-57 victory over Jacksonville last night. Roanoke Rapids kept its championship hopes alive last night by slipping into third place with 56-49 win over Elizabeth City. The Yellow Jackets, 9-3 in the loop, also get a taste of Coach Bo Farley's outfit in next week's final play.

The Washington-Greenville battle last night was close all the way, as expected. The Greens took a 12-9 lead at the end of the first period but the Pam Pack battled back in the second period to trail by one point, 24-23, at halftime.

The Pam Pack continued their scoring spree early in the third period as they connected for nine field goals and 18 points while Greenville was getting only 12. With Washington ahead 41-36, Greenville fans began seeing their championship dreams sail out the window but Coach Farley rallied his club and in the final period they were "unbeatable."

The Pam Pack used control tactics most of the final period but the freeze backfired as Washington scored only one free throw and one field goal for a total of three points in the final quarter. Greenville tied it at 42-all with 2:45 left in the game and then Joe Moye collected two points at the charity line with 1:21 showing on the clock.

Windley hit the only field goal of the quarter for the Pack to tie the score at 44-all but then Cox, who made 8 of 17 shots from the floor, made his two pointer to give the G-men their revenge. Greenville hit on 12-28 foul shots and 17-48 from the floor for 35.3 percentage. Washington, on the strength of their third period streak, hit 18-34 from the floor for 53 per cent. The Pack made 8-11 from the free throw line.

Weaver Probing Fight At Game

GREENSBORO (AP) — Jim Weaver, Atlantic Coast Conference commissioner, says he will talk with game officials and authorities from both North Carolina and Wake Forest in his investigation of the free-for-all fight that came near the end of the two schools' basketball game Thursday night.

Until then, he said Friday, "I couldn't possibly do or say anything."

Players from both teams, students and many of the 8,220 spectators were involved in the fight in Winston-Salem. North Carolina won the game 75-66. The last 30 seconds of the game were played by substitutes after officials sent both starting teams to the dressing rooms as a precaution against more fighting.

North Carolina Coach Frank McGuire, in Chicago Friday night for tonight's game with Loyola, didn't want to talk about the fight. He did deny saying after the game that his squad had "blown up."

The Rev. Horace (Bones) McKinney, Wake Forest coach, commented sadly on the fight: "I've been in basketball 27 years as a player and a coach. I've loved almost every moment of it. But this is the one thing that can run me out."

Over 30,000 In Bowling Tourney

ST. LOUIS (AP) — More than 30,000 bowlers from as far as Saudi Arabia trek to St. Louis in the next 72 days for a crack at the $385,977 prize money in the 56th American Bowling Congress Championships.

Local teams are favored to take a major share of the loot. Rolling was to start at noon today.

The Palstaffs, who won the open team event in Syracuse, N.Y., last spring, have strengthened their lineup.

Probably even more hungry for the 1959 ABC team title, however, are the Budweisers, the defending champions' crostowa rivals.

Six Key Phants Are Winding Up Basketball Play

By CATHERINE MOORE

When the Phantoms take the floor Tuesday night, against Kingston, six boys will wear their school's green and white uniforms for the last time on their home court. Joe Moye, Howard Garner, Steve Noble, Billy Cox, James Earl Ward, and Bryce Cummings will graduate in June.

Several of these boys have played as high scorers in more than one game and have contributed many points toward the Green and White's ten conference wins, which tie it with Tuesday night's foes for first place in the league standings. In last night's win against Washington, the first five scored all of the team's 46 points.

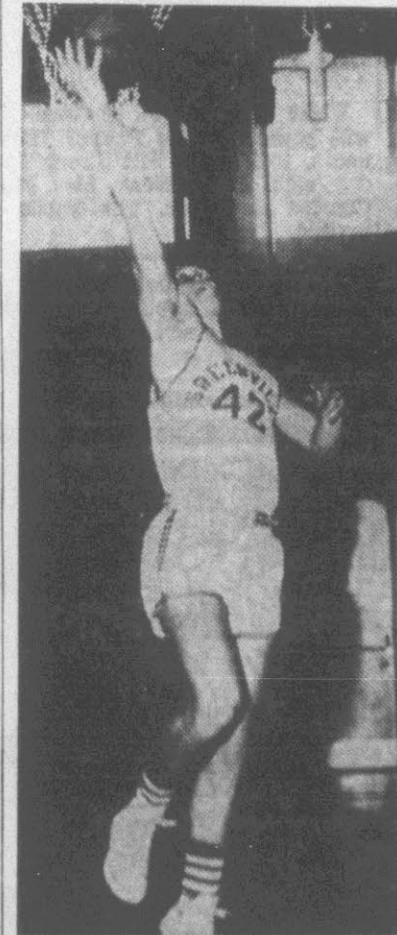

Steve and Billy have played three years each of Varsity basketball; Joe, Howard, and James Earl, two years each; and Bryce is playing for the first time this year.

Three Games Tonight For Pitt Conference Tourney

The Pitt County Conference basketball tournament will get under way tonight at Rose High Gymnasium with three games scheduled for the evening, the first starting at 6:30.

Regular season play was completed last night with all favored teams winning. The tournament opens tonight with Stokes-Pactolus rated as favorites in the girls division and Chicod number one in the boys bracket.

Farmville, Winterville, and Bethel finished in a tie for second place in the boys division and a drawing was necessary for this morning's meeting. The outcome saw Bethel seeded second, Winterville third, and Farmville fourth.

Tonight's opening games will involve the eighth and ninth place clubs in each division but at 9:30, the Winterville girls, second seeded, will tangle with seventh place Ayden.

The tournament will move over to Memorial Gymnasium at East Carolina College Monday and Tuesday as all the teams swing into action.

The tournament will once again be held at Rose High Wednesday but will then finish up play at East Carolina on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights.

Listed below are the pairings for the first four nights.

SATURDAY
Girls—Chicod (2-11) vs. Bethel

(1-15), 6:30. Winterville (12-4) vs. Ayden (2-9), 9:30.

Boys — Grimesland (2-11) vs. Griffon (2-13), 8:00.

MONDAY
Girls—Stokes (13-0) vs. winner of Chicod-Bethel game, 6:30. Boys — Chicod (12-1) vs. winner of Grimesland-Griffon game, 8:00.

TUESDAY
Girls — Belvoir-Falkland (11-5) vs. Griffon (9-6), 7:30. Boys—Bethel (12-4) vs. Stokes (3-10), 9:00.

WEDNESDAY
Girls — Grimesland (9-4) vs. Farmville (4-8), 7:30. Boys—Winterville (12-4) vs. Belvoir-Falkland (4-12), 9:00.

Here Tonight

East Carolina College, riding the crest of a five-game winning streak, takes on Elton here tonight in a North State Conference contest at Memorial Gymnasium.

The Blues, who have won eight of their last nine ball games, will be ranked solid favorites to whip the invaders from Elton. Odds-makers favor the home-standing Pirates by as much as 14 points.

Elton, a lower-division club, however, has given indication of a rise in strength in the past week. The Christians knocked off a highly-favored Appalachian club 45-41 to set up the stage for another upset win here tonight.

ECC is currently ranked fourth in the loop and is making by far the strongest surge of any club this season. During its win spree of the past few weeks, East Carolina has knocked off some of the conference's top clubs.

Game time is set for 8:00 p.m. A large crowd is anticipated.

Coastal Boys' League Meeting

A meeting concerning the 1959 Coastal Boys Baseball League will be held at the South Greenville Recreation Center this Sunday afternoon at 3:00. All interested in the project are invited to attend.

The Coastal Boys League is the Negro equivalent of Little League Baseball in Greenville.

Holds New Pole Vault Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Bragg, the new world indoor pole vault record holder, goes in the New York Athletic Club games in Madison Square Garden tonight with only one world left to conquer.

The 6-3, 197-pound Army private wants to become the first man in history to pole vault 16 feet, one of the last of the "impossibilities" of the last decade.

They've run the four-minute mile, jumped seven feet and surpassed just about all the other standards that 10 years ago were regarded as almost beyond human effort.

Whether he'll do it at the New York AC meet remains to be seen. The chances are he won't. He isn't quite ready. But anyone foolish enough to say he never will vault 16 feet would be climbing out on a long, thin limb.

Bragg went up 15-9½ in the Philadelphia Inquirer Games Friday night breaking Cornelius Warmerdam's world indoor record of 15-8½.

Actually, it was the second highest vault of all time. Bob Gutowski, the Olympic champion, cleared 15-9½ in 1957, but it was not recognized by the International Amateur Athletic Federation because his pole fell under the bar. However, it was recognized by the American AAU and hence stands as an all-time American record. Gutowski also holds the world outdoor mark (IAAF version) of 15-8½.

In Fresno, Calif., Watermerdam called it "a wonderful achievement."

Ron Delany, who won his 28th straight mile in 4:05.8 by grinding down Ladio Tabori of Hungary in the final lap, goes in the New York A.C. meet.

His main opposition probably will come from Mike Rawson of England, who ran a fine race in winning the Inquirer 1,000 in 2:13.7.

FIGHT RESULTS
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (Madison Square Garden) — Frankie Ryff, 137½, New York, outpointed Cisco Andrade, 135, Compton, Calif., 10.

GUAM — Tejero Boy, 130½, Manila, knocked out Frankie Stein, 134½, Guam, 4.
BRESCIA, Italy—Sante Amonti, 177, Italy, stopped Lou Perry, 168½, New York, 3.
MELBOURNE — David Oved, 134, Israel, stopped Max Carlos, 135½, Australia, 11.

TD Club Meet

There will be an organizational meeting of the East Carolina College Touchdown Club Monday at 12:00 at Respass Brothers Restaurant.

The club, made up of local businessmen, has recently been started, and complete information on the club is still unavailable. The club's main purpose is to raise money to provide football scholarships to East Carolina College.

Three Upsets In Thursday's Play

Three upsets marked Thursday night play in the Greenville Basketball Association session at the local Junior High School.

The last-place Home Builders defeated Stokes, 50-47, and Greenville Parts and Metal upset a favored first-ranked Ayden Tractor and Implement quintet, Ayden was beaten, 65-59.

In the third ball game of the evening, Eastern Pines battled down Carolina Dairy, 61-40.

Several ball players turned in high-scoring performances during the night, with Ayden's Kittrell taking overall honors with 25 points, Carson and Saunders posted 18 points each for Greenville Parts and Metal. Ray Hardee had 23 for Eastern Pines and Smith Worthington collected 21 for Carolina Dairy. Larry Powell had 19 for Home Builders and Jack Warren notched 12 for Stokes.

Standings in the loop, as released this morning by the Commissioner of the Association, are as follows:
Ayden Tractor & Implement 9 3
Carolina Dairy . . . 8 4
Eastern Pines . . . 8 4
Stokes . . . 5 7
Greenville Parts and Metal 3 9
Home Builders . . . 3 9

MARRYING MAN

MIAMI, Okla. (AP)—Since taking office in 1954 Justice of the Peace J. J. Swetman has married 10,500 couples. In 1958 he handled 3,600 weddings.

Jack McCann set a new record in the breaststroke last night and Tommy Tucker placed second in the same event to clinch East Carolina's fourth straight win over V.M.I. here last night.

The Pirate mermen led all the way last night to defeat defending Southern Conference champion, V.M.I., 45-41, before a packed crowd in Memorial Pool.

McCann, the stocky performer who is regarded by some as the most improved swimmer on the team, broke a pool record and also beat the old NAIA mark last night by swimming the 200 yard breaststroke in 2:30.5. McCann also aided in the opening relay which was won by East Carolina.

East Carolina captured six first places but Martinez was unable to use his freshmen stars which kept ECC from strengthening their lead with second and third places. Freshmen are not allowed to compete in the Southern Conference, and Martinez went along with the ruling by not using his freshmen.

The Pirates have now won four straight and all have been against big-name competition — U. of Emory, U. of Miami, U. of Georgia, and V.M.I.

Coach Arnold of V.M.I. had high praise for the ECC club, "I thought they did a fine job. I thought that McCann (Jack) and Smith (Jake) were the boys who really hurt us."

Coach Ray Martinez was also high on his club and felt that it

Second Chance For Lightweight

NEW YORK (AP) — Frankie Ryff has a new lease on life after his impressive victory over Cisco Andrade.

This is the second chance for the 26-year-old lightweight boxer from the Bronx. He is determined to make the most of it.

Discouraged by his tendency to cut around the eyes and upset by managerial troubles, he quit the ring to drive a cab last summer. Steered into a connection with Barney Ross, the former light and welter champion, Ryff has found new hope.

"Barney taught me to throw my left hook with more power," said Ryff Friday night in his dressing room at Madison Square Garden. His room was crowded with handshakers and well wishers after his clear cut unanimous decision over Andrade, the 7-5 favorite. "Barney also told me I was taking too many steps back. He showed me how to put pressure on an opponent."

Andrade kept driving ahead most of the night while Ryff, 137½, danced away, side stepped and then leaped in with quick jabs, hooks and even right-hand leads. When he made Andrade back up, the 135-pounder from Compton, Calif., was in trouble.

Judge Artie Adala saw it a lopsided 8-2. Referee Ruby Goldstein scored it 6-4 and Judge Bill Foster 5-4. All votes for Ryff. So did The Associated Press 7-3.

U.S. Swimming Hope Sets Mark

HOBBART, Tasmania (AP)—Sylvia Ruuska, one of America's answers to Australian domination of swimming, today turned in the fastest time ever registered in the 220-yard individual medley.

One of two teen-age U.S. girls invited to compete in the Australian national championships, the 16-year-old Miss Ruuska from Berkeley, Calif., churned the distance in 2:40.3. Miss Ruuska beat one of Australia's magnificent youngsters, Dawn Fraser, on the way to her record clocking.

America's other entry, Chris Von Salza, a junior at Los Gatos High School in Saratoga, Calif., pushed Australia's Lisa Konrads to near-record time in the 440-yard freestyle.

Miss Von Salza finished 12 yards behind the Aussie star as Miss Konrads swam the distance in 4:50.2. The world record is 4:46.6. The blonde 15-year-old U.S. competitor was timed in 4:58.8.

His older brother, 16-year-old John, won the 220-yard freestyle in 2:03.3. His time was 1.1 second over the world standard he set last Saturday.

Winterville And Farmville Split

WINTERVILLE — Winterville's eighth graders gained an even split last night with the Farmville clubs. The local boys won 35-21 while Farmville girls gained a 36-22 victory.

Ronnie Worthington had 13 points for the winning boys while Melvin Gay had six points for the losers. Jeanie Mumford hit 23 points to pace the Farmville girls and Susan Dixon and Louise Speight had nine each for Winterville.

East Carolina's next meet is scheduled for Tuesday afternoon with the Duke Swim Club, a team consisting of varsity, freshmen, and graduates swimmers. The meet is scheduled for Memorial Pool at 3:30.

Summary:

440 yd. medley relay—Won by East Carolina (Sawyer, McCann, Carroll, Smith), 4:06.7. 220 yd. freestyle—Ederle (VMI), McDonald (VMI), Connelly (ECC), 2:20.2. 50 yd. freestyle — Meads (ECC), Lee (VMI), Tucker (ECC), 24.2. Diving—Midyette (ECC), Dyer (ECC), Brickford (VMI), 100 yd. freestyle — Smith (ECC), Haines (VMI), Meads (ECC) $8.6. 200 yd. backstroke — Sawyer (ECC), Old (VMI), Lee (VMI) 2:20.2. 440 freestyle — Ederle (VMI), Carroll (ECC), McDonald (VMI) 5:05.3. 200 yd. breaststroke—McCann (ECC), Tucker (ECC), Keeg (VMI) 2:33.5. 400 yd. freestyle relay — Won by VMI (Pamphre, McDonald, Ederle, Haines) 5:01.2.

Mangrum Drops Out . . . Unmissed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Lloyd Mangrum says he plans to quit the professional tour and a Texas Open official said Friday he won't be missed.

Mangrum, a professional from Apple Valley, Calif., said he planned to drop off the tour because courses are cluttered with players and amateurs "chop up the greens" and should be barred.

M. P. (Monk) Wilson, long-time official of the Texas Open, said "Mangrum is on the downgrade and isn't doing very well these days anyway. We won't miss him in the Texas Open."

Replying to Mangrum's comments made at Tucson, Ariz., Wilson said the pro "wasn't very smart with his statement that amateurs should be banned from the tournaments on the tour."

"It's not very smart for Mangrum to make such a statement in view of the golf manufacturers he represents," said Wilson. "The amateurs buy those products he endorses. They also do the advance ticket sales on these tournaments that makes it possible for fellows like Mangrum to play for money."

"There are only 10 amateurs that play in the Texas Open each year. I don't think they do much damage to the course. Even if they did they deserve the opportunity of getting to play."

New York Seen Title Bout Site

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Promoter Bill Rosenzohn predicts New York will get the Floyd Patterson-Ingramer heavy-weight championship fight and that it will gross more than $750,000 at the gate.

But he's going to look into a Minneapolis $500,000 guarantee and there's an outside chance of staging the June show in Los Angeles.

Rosenzohn gave 60,000-seat Kzar Stadium and some other San Francisco arenas an unenthusiastic look Friday, then chatted with sports reporters.

Greene School . . .

30; and Snow Hill, 34. The question of available subjects was not brought up by Negro representatives at meetings with the board this week, however, according to statements released by both sides after executive sessions. The Negroes did ask, however, for money to rent a gym for the remainder of the basketball season. Chairman Maynard Hicks was quoted as saying that matter would not be discussed until the schools reopened. However, some Negroes at Thursday's mass meeting said they were told "not to worry" about a gym for this year's basketball team at the training school. School officials and board members who met with the Negro representatives this week admitted the expressed grievances could be justified.

Chairman Hicks told one reporter, "None of us has ever lost sight of the fact that we are asking for. However, it takes time and money, and we don't have the money now."

He also said, "Greene County is dependent entirely on taxes on farm land. We don't have a single industry and that makes it rough when you try to figure out where the money's coming from."

"In the past few years, I know, we have been spending about 65 per cent of our total county budget for schools. We intend to continue doing all we can in that respect."

Hicks, as board chairman, has been that group's spokesman throughout the strike period, but only because of an unforeseen circumstance.

He was elected last year to take office as a board member in April, but the former board member he was to replace, Robert Hart, of Snow Hill, resigned last July.

A former highway commissioner, Hicks was picked by the county's Democratic Executive Committee to fill the unexpired portion of Hart's term. He was elected chairman, to replace Hart, by other members of the board after taking office.

Funeral Sunday For Mrs. Joe D. Rawls

Mrs. Lizzie Mobley Rawls, 73, widow of Joe Dawson Rawls, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Andrew Haislip, near Robersonville, early Friday morning following several years' illness.

Funeral services will be held at Robersonville Pentecostal Holiness Church Sunday at 3 p.m. by pastor Rev. Marvin Whitefield. Burial will be in Robersonville Cemetery.

Mrs. Rawls was born and spent her life in Martin county. She was a member of the Robersonville Pentecostal Holiness Church.

Surviving are four daughters: Mrs. Henry Heaster of Rocky Mount, Mrs. Lester Scott, Robersonville; Mrs. Jodie Haislip and Mrs. Andrew Haislip, of Robersonville; three sons: Ernest R. Rawls of Pinetops, Kate L. Rawls of Williamston, and Alec Rawls of Robersonville; a granddaughter reared by her, Mrs. Jack Bennett of Richmond, Va.; 20 other grandchildren; a number of great grandchildren; and three sisters: Mrs. Lide Wynne Kellford, Mrs. Bertha Taylor, near Robersonville, and Mrs. Jenny Rawls of South Norfolk, Va.

Covered-Dish Supper
The Adult Sunday School Department of Immanuel Baptist Church will have a covered-dish supper and fellowship hour Monday night at 6:30 in the church dining room. Also all prospects for the Adult I Department are cordially invited to attend as guests. A nursery will be provided for small children.

Playing In Piano Recital Tuesday

Frances Earle Johnson of Roanoke Rapids will be presented by the East Carolina College department of music in a recital of works for the piano Tuesday, Feb. 17, at 8 p.m. in the Austin auditorium.

A senior, Miss Johnson is slated for graduation at East Carolina this year. She will be the first woman student to earn the degree of bachelor of music at the college. She studies piano with George E. Perry of the faculty.

Miss Johnson's program Sunday will be made up of compositions by Handel, Mozart, Debussy, Granados, and Chopin. Opening the recital with Handel's "Suite in D Minor," she will perform the Mozart "Sonata in F major," Debussy's "Ballade," and "The Maiden and the Nightingale" by Granados. Concluding number will be "Variations Brillantes" by Chopin.

Miss Johnson has participated in a number of activities sponsored by the college department of music. She plays violin in the East Carolina College Orchestra and holds the position of secretary of the organization. She is treasurer of the college chapter of Sigma Iota, music fraternity, and president of the campus branch of the Music Teachers National Association.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Johnson, 638 Henry St., Roanoke Rapids.

Industrial Arts Clinic Held Here

Approximately 40 public-school administrative officers met at East Carolina College Friday, Feb. 13, to discuss various problems of industrial arts in small high schools of the eastern part of the state. The clinic was sponsored by the college department of industrial arts, of which Dr. Kenneth L. Bing is director.

Program events of the day included a luncheon address by Dr. Ralph Brimley, director of public relations at East Carolina; a panel discussion, with five school principals and superintendents as chief participants; and a demonstration of materials and equipment used in training industrial arts teachers.

Ten topics considered by the panel focused attention on such problems as the importance of industrial arts in the school curriculum, physical requirements and cost of a general shop, sources of help and advice available to administrators in planning an industrial arts program, and the supply of competent teachers of the subject.

Speakers were Dr. Thomas J. Hagwood of East Carolina, moderator; John H. Bender Jr., district principal, Jacksonville; Superintendent S. C. Chappell of Wilcox city schools; B. L. Davis of Greene County schools; and R. F. Lowery of Washington County schools; and A. Woodrow Taylor, principal of the Ashoket High School.

Iraq Says Peace And Quiet Reign

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Iraqi Embassy here declared today that peace and quiet are reigning throughout Iraq, despite foreign reports of internal strife. The embassy denied reports about an alleged plot to assassinate Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem.

Some reports of Iraqi violence have emanated from Syria and Egypt who are engaged in a propaganda feud with Iraq.

Family Night

Wednesday evening at 6:30 the members of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church are invited to a time of family fun in the Fellowship Hall. A covered-dish supper will open the fellowship for the evening; hot rolls and drinks will be served by the ladies of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

After supper there will be a period of recreation led by Gayle Clapp. The Junior Choir, under the direction of Dr. Hjortsvang, will then set us in the mood for the Lenten-Easter season film, "Gates of Glory."

Wreck Victim At Chapel Hill

GRIFTON — Clarence Earl Hart, injured in a near head-on collision on N.C. 118 in Craven County Feb. 1, has been transferred to Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill, Patrolman R. E. Tayloe said today.

Pit. Tayloe said Hart who lives near Ayden, has been in critical condition since the wreck. He has been in Lenoir Memorial Hospital.

A pick-up truck operated by Hart was involved in a wreck with a vehicle operated by Linda Gaskins Jackson, 16, of Grifton on Feb. 1, according to the patrolman. Janis Manning, 19, of Grifton who was riding with Miss Jackson also received multiple injuries in the wreck.

Several charges were lodged against Hart by investigating patrolmen following the accident.

Cat Celebrates 18th Birthday

DENVER (AP) — Boots, a Siamese cat, celebrated today his 18th birthday.

His owner, Mrs. Billie Shannon, said by human standards that would be the equivalent of living 126 years.

For his birthday Boots will receive extra helpings of corn on the cob, his favorite delicacy.

Oregon Today Begins Observing Centennial

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Oregon began celebrating its 100th birthday anniversary today.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon came to lend a helping hand, and promptly branded Oregon the nation's valentine state.

Activities today—just 100 years after President James Buchanan signed the statehood bill—centered on Nixon.

He speaks first today at Astoria, an old port town near the mouth of the Columbia River, where a centennial stamp will be issued. Then he will speak at the capital, Salem, and come back to Portland for another talk tonight.

Nixon got a jubilant welcome on his arrival here Friday night. As he strode bareheaded from the plane into a driving rain, he was greeted by Gov. and Mrs. Mark Hatfield.

As Nixon arrived downtown, a Democrat, State Sen. Richard Groener, walked up, shook his hand and said: "Remember, Mr. Vice President, this is a nonpolitical visit."

"Sure, not a word," Nixon replied.

Inside the hotel, 150 college students shouted a greeting and Nixon said: "This is wonderful—a party like this in the valentine state."

The state is spending nearly 3 million dollars to finance the long celebration. Thousands of men have sprouted beards for the occasion.

But there was not always enthusiasm in Oregon for statehood.

In three straight elections, in 1854, 1855 and 1856, the people of the territory voted to stay out of the union.

One of the big issues was taxes. The Oregonian, following the Whig point of view, said statehood would cost an additional $68,000 a year in taxes. And for what purpose, the paper asked? Just so more Democrats could hold office, it said.

But the Democrats won out, partially on the platform that representatives in Congress could collect 4 1/2 million dollars owed the state for fighting Indians.

There was some grumbling over that later. The state got only $424,000. The Oregonian later said of statehood: "The people have made no demonstration toward a rejoicing or jubilee."

But the real battle for statehood may have been won by one man — John Shively — at Astoria back in 1844.

Shively wanted to settle in Astoria to fight the encroachments of the Hudson's Bay Co. and England's claims to the Northwest.

Shively even stayed on after the Hudson's Bay Co., he said, hired Indians to shoot him. The Indians missed.

But British man-of-war later came into the river and Shively got out of town and paddled up the Columbia in a canoe.

He headed for Washington, D.C., where he got President James Polk to appoint him the territory's first postmaster.

Armed with his flag and his title, Shively returned to Astoria and set up the post office. The British later relinquished their claim.

Extend Deadline On Reservations

Deadline for making reservations to attend the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner has been extended from Monday until Thursday, Chairman James W. Butler said today.

Butler urged members to make their reservations prior to the new deadline. He said tickets can be obtained by phoning, writing or visiting the Chamber of Commerce office in the Rivers Building.

The annual meeting will be held Feb. 24 beginning at 7 p.m. in the new south cafeteria at ECC. Speaker will be William Thomas Rice, president of Atlantic Coast Line Railroad.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

God's great healing and saving power will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday. Scriptural selections will include the following from Matthew (14: 14): "And Jesus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick."

Subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Soul," a word which, though capitalized, is used in Christian Science as one of the synonyms for God. From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (2:10-11-12):

"Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine Mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation."

The golden Text is from Psalms (62:1): "Truly my soul waiteth upon God; from him cometh my salvation."

AN AUTO DOWN IN THERE SOMEWHERE—Winter's heaviest snowstorm in southwestern Minnesota dumped a 15-inch snow cover on the town of Fairmont. For one thing, it made it difficult for automobile owners to identify their vehicles parked in the street. Mary Ann Lang checks to see if this one is her's. Valentines Start In One's Prime COLLABORATION . . . On the playgrounds the guys get together to discuss who's sending valentines to who, to make a blood-pact not to sign "Love" to any of them. Actually, the girls in the background aren't interested. They're just waiting for the boys to move so they can get their bicycles out of the rack.

WHY DO I always have to get valentines from girls? I was hoping this one would be from Elbert Smart, 'cept he don't know how to write yet.

OH H H H H H H H H H H, THAS REAL SWEET, Alvin . . . no, I won't tell nobody who gave it to me . . . no, honest . . . not even my mother or my daddy or any body . . . Okay, I promise I'll take it home and burn it.

I HATE VALENTINES . . . stupid girls with their frilly, lacy valentines. Meh, Meh; I sent one of those Stinker valentines to the teacher.

AND SO—LISTEN—you know how fat Elmo is. Well, he came waddling up to me at recess with this in his hand and I tried to run away from him but he caught me and pushed it in my hand. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. LOOK—he spelled VALENTINE with three E's . . .

HEY, MAMA, how do you spell Cat? I'm gonna send a valentine to Mrs. Motherwell's cat down the street. She got run over by a car and—NUH? —yeah, Mrs. Motherwell. And the cat is left home all alone. I'm gonna send a valentine to her. Yes M'm, the cat.

Finance Promises To Keep Billing As General Assembly's Big Problem

RALEIGH — (AP) — Finance reared its controversial head in the General Assembly this week and promised to live up to its billing as the No. 1 issue of the 1959 session.

The money battle centered on bills introduced in House and Senate Monday night. They came immediately after Gov. Hodges delivered his biennial budget message to a joint session.

There were no hearings before the Senate and House Finance and Appropriations committees during the week, but there was plenty of comment on all sides of the spending and revenue issues.

Teachers and state employee groups assailed the lack of provisions for substantial pay increases, and a few legislators voiced disapproval of the governor's proposal to institute the withholding system for collecting state income taxes.

Other Assembly action included:

1. Introduction of a Senate bill aimed at stopping school bomb hoaxes. The measure would make it a felony to damage or destroy or to threaten to damage or destroy schools and churches.

2. Introduction of a Senate bill which would require insurance companies to offer fire and extended coverage to hurricane-belt coastal counties.

3. Naming of Senate committees with J. William Copeland of Hertford heading the Appropriations group and O. Arthur Kirkman of Guilford Finance chairman.

Completes Law School To Pay Boar's Debts

NEW YORK (AP)—Chester A. Smith has completed law school at the age of 74 — not to gain prestige but to pay back $43,000 he does not legally owe.

Smith, of Peekskill, N.Y., has been official court reporter for many years. At one time he was a member of the board of trustees of a girls' school which closed without paying all its creditors.

Smith took an accelerated course at New York University Law School. He wants to be a lawyer so he can step up his earnings and pay back the $43,000.

He said the girls' school, which he would not name, legally had done all it could before shutting down. But creditors were out of pocket for food and other things.

"Morally," Smith said Thursday, "I felt that the money should be paid. I decided that since no one else would pay the debt, I would try to do it."

4. Introduction in both houses of bills which would appoint a commission to begin planning a new legislative building to cost 4½ million dollars.

5. Introduction of bills which would reorganize administration of lands and water resources and study possible reorganization of the State Highway Commission.

Most of the legislators' extra-curricular discussion was centered on Hodges' withholding proposal. It came in for a lengthy airing during the second of two money classes held for the benefit of the Senate and House Finance and Appropriations committees.

The first was held by Budget Director D. S. Coltrane, who explained the appropriations bill to the groups. Revenue Commissioner James S. Currie held the second session to explain the financing aspects of the budget proposals.

An outspoken proponent of withholding, Currie devoted much of a two-hour discussion to selling as well as explaining the proposal.

Should the plan go into effect Jan. 1, 1960, as proposed in the revenue bill, it would result in a 27½ million dollar windfall to be used in meeting a $1,214,000,000 budget.

It was made apparent from legislative comment during the week that the withholding and windfall method would be opposed by some lawmakers in both houses. What was not apparent, however, was the strength of the opposition.

North Carolina Education Assn. and State Employees Assn. officials said they were disappointed in the governor's recommended appropriations for teacher and state worker salaries. Both groups have been pushing for general 10 per cent pay hikes. The governor's budget called only for an

Submit Plan To Sell Out System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has sent Congress the administration's long-promised proposal to sell the sprawling Alaska communications system to private enterprise.

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy said it would be impossible without an appraisal to put an accurate price tag on the 50-year-old, federally owned system. But he said its estimated cost to the government less depreciation was fixed last July 1 as approximately 158 million dollars.

McElroy's proposal would authorize sale of any or all parts of the system not necessary for military purposes, plus facilities owned by the Air Force and the Federal Aviation Agency.

extra week of pay during the school term and higher pay for starting teachers. It mentioned no general salary increases for state workers.

The two groups, as well as other disappointed agencies, said they would carry their fight to Appropriations Committee hearings to be held later in the session.

The House passed a resolution to meet April 2 at New Bern at the opening and dedication of restored Tryon Palace. The Senate okayed a measure to meet March 4 in Charlotte.

East Carolina Honor Students Announced

Three lists of students at East Carolina who have received official recognition from the College because of their excellent records in academic work during the fall quarter of the present school year have been announced. Included on the lists are the names of 626 students, of whom 210 are men and 416 are women.

Fifty-eight students who made the grade of 1 on each subject taken, the highest mark given at the college, received top honors for scholastic achievement in an "All 1's" List. The Dean's List and the Honor Roll include the names of students whose work was considered worthy of special mention and commendation.

The Dean's List, issued by Vice President and Dean of Instruction Leo W. Jenkins of the college, is composed of undergraduates who made at least two and one-half quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below three. These students did superior academic work.

The Honor Roll, prepared in the office of Registrar Robert L. Holt, is composed of undergraduates who made at least two quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below three. The work completed by these students was well above average.

Broke Into Jail, They Keep Him

KLAGENFURT, Austria (AP)—Surprised guards found Josef Drabota, 21, recently released after serving time, squirming in pain on the ground inside the jail walls Thursday.

He explained that he had climbed back in to deliver a friend farewell gift of cigarettes to friends inside, who get no tobacco ration.

He fell from the 20-foot wall and broke bones in both feet. Now he's serving a brief new term for breaking into jail.

In other assembly activity, bills which would abolish state agencies dealing with turnpikes, interstate cooperation and state planning were introduced.

The House passed a resolution to meet April 2 at New Bern at the opening and dedication of restored Tryon Palace. The Senate okayed a measure to meet March 4 in Charlotte.

Music Program For Kiwanians

A brass ensemble from the Greenville High School Band, under direction of James E. Rodgers, presented a program of three selections at the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night.

The bandsmen were: Steve Humbert, Billy Goodwin, George Patrick, Larry Barnes, Marvin Buck, Jackson Williams and Hilton Benton. Humbert, son of a former Kiwanian, led the sing of "God Bless America."

President Collins appointed the "Miss Greenville" Committee for 1959, with Julian White as chairman, and Ken Betty, Bill Corbett and John Zeh.

Hunter B. Keck welcomed into Kiwanis membership Dr. Ralph Brimley, director of the East Carolina College Foundation and public relations.

Secretary Tommy Snowden announced that reservations are being made now for the annual meeting of the Kiwanis Seventh Division which will be held at the Farmville Country Club March 5 and 6 p.m. Lt. Gov. Charles Edwards of Farmville will preside. Several Kiwanis notables are expected to attend.

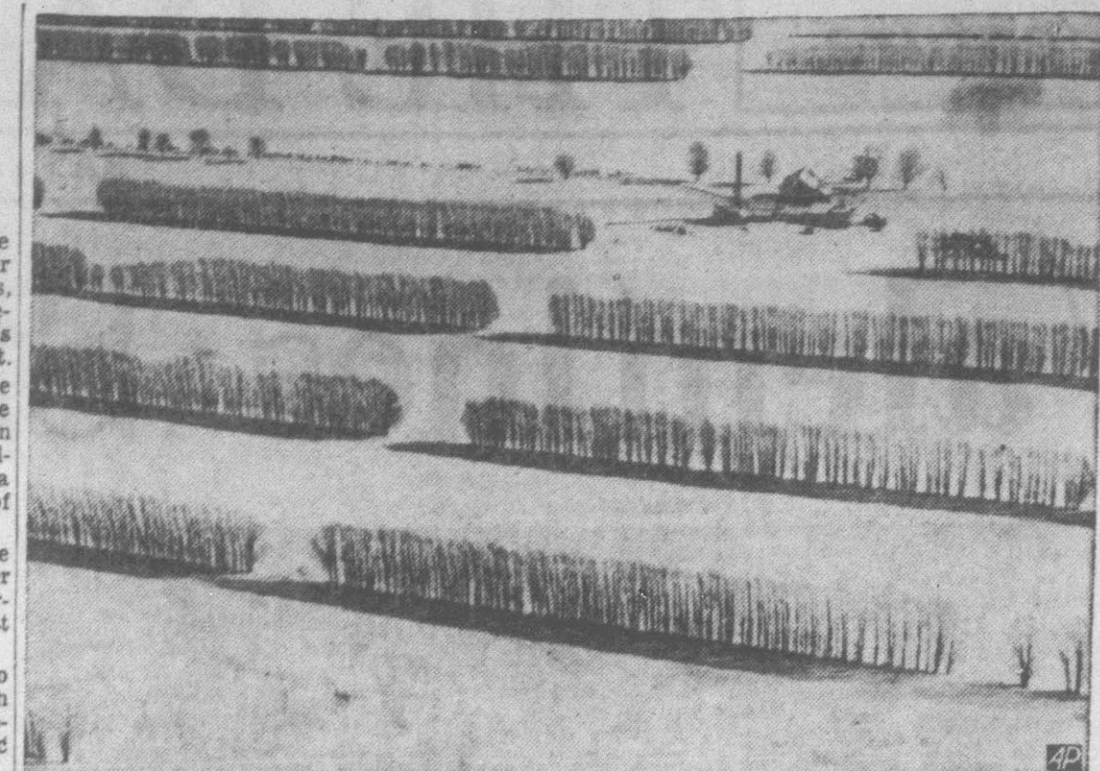

In addition to Rodgers and the bandsmen, guests of the club were: Dr. Badger Clark, Roxboro Kiwanian Hank Simmons, Ricky Kwanian Hank Simmons, Ricky Cox, Scott Forbis, manager of the new Leder Bros. Store here, and Loring Franklin, Kiwanian Jarvis Alligood won the attendance prize.

Alfred C. Fletcher Funeral In City

Alfred C. (Buster) Fletcher, Jr., 36, was drowned in the Gulf of Mexico last Tuesday near San Benito, Texas. The body will be brought to Greenville for funeral service and burial.

Mr. Fletcher, son of the late Alfred C. and Nina Williams Fletcher, was born and reared in North Carolina near Bruce. He had lived near Winterville several years. After attending school at Belvoir, Falkland, Edwards Military Institute at Salem, and Campbell College, he served in the United States Army during World War II. He was a member of Falkland Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are a son, Alfred C. Fletcher III of Elm City; a sister, Mrs. James DeVane of Lumberton; four aunts; Mrs. T. I. Moore of Greenville, Mrs. L. M. Landin, Wilson, Mrs. L. E. Baker, Fountain, and Mrs. Marie Gardner of Kinston; and an uncle, E. C. Williams of Greenville.

Collisions In Fog Kill 2, Injure 5

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Two persons were killed and five hurt in two separate wrecks on Statesville Avenue here last night. Both accidents were rear-end collisions in fog.

Michael Carden, 5, of Rt. 10, Charlotte, lost his life in a multi-vehicle wreck touched off when a tractor-trailer truck struck the rear of one car, knocking it into the path of another, the truck then striking the rear of another vehicle and crashing into a parked car. The accident occurred about 7 p.m.

Three hours later on another stretch of the same avenue, a car driven by Willie Robinson Jr., 26, of Charlotte, ran under the rear of a tractor-trailer truck and killed Robinson.

Glen Martin Daves, 29, truck driver of Charlotte was charged with manslaughter and reckless driving in the first accident.

The five persons were hurt, but not seriously, in the first wreck. They were Clarence Jones, 24, of Charlotte; George Jackson Jr., 26, of Charlotte; and William Daniel Kerns of Huntersville.

In the second accident, truck driver Donald Kent, 23, of Pickersville, Ontario, Canada, told officers he had stopped his truck at a street intersection and heard a WASHINGTON (AP)—The ousted staff chief of the House subcommittee which touched off last year's Adams-Goldfine inquiry contends the group is sitting on further evidence of wrongdoing.

The accusation was promptly denied. The charge comes from Bernard Schwartz, who was fired a year ago as chief counsel of the special subcommittee created to investigate federal regulatory agencies.

Schwartz makes his charge in a newly-published book, "The Professor and the Commissions."

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), the subcommittee chairman and a chief target in Schwartz' wide-ranging charges, took prompt issue with Schwartz' charged Harris told a reporter:

"That's as ridiculous as the other charges he has been making in his book which is filled with distortions, half-truths and completely false statements. Further than that it isn't worth comment."

"I think the record of this committee speaks pretty well," Harris added. He said he would announce soon what his plans will be for continuing the inquiry.

In his book, Schwartz said the subcommittee had failed to develop fully 16 TV cases on which Schwartz said he had left evidence in subcommittee files.

The New York University law professor 35, said the subcommittee glossed over material he had dug up on "the almost complete lack of effective federal communications commission regulation of telephones and telegrams."

Virtually all of the cases Schwartz named have been mentioned before, with the principals generally denying improper action.

In the year since his firing, Schwartz said, the congressmen "have not gone substantially beyond the cases on which I did the investigative ground work."

"Sustained pressure can force a continuation of the investigation so that further improprieties in the commissions will come out into the light of day," he said.

The Alpha Zeta Chapter of Wesley Players of the Methodist Student Association will present their annual Lenten program "The Voice of Lent" over WGTN at 4:30 every Wednesday afternoon until Easter. The first of the series will be on Wednesday, February 18, with Walter Johnson as Narrator and Mrs. Paul A. Toll, organist, who will play the organ at Jarvis Memorial Church. Johnson is a student at East Carolina College and an active member of AZ Chapter, Wesley Players.

CHAPTER 28

As they drove through the tunnel into Manhattan, Bruno Manfredi said, "Where to?" and Murray Kirk said, "Make it your place. Wykoff might check the office and the hotel in a little while, and I don't want to be around when he does. Meanwhile, we can look over these papers and see what they're all about."

"If that's what you want," said Bruno.

Lucky Manfredi was seated at the kitchen table drinking coffee when they walked in. In a pair of worn slippers, her house dress down at the hem, her hair in pin curls, and with a newspaper propped before her against the sugar bowl she looked like an exaggerated picture of weary domesticity. She raised her eyebrows at the sight of her husband's companion.

"Well, what do you know?" she said caustically. "Look at the great man himself. I'm surprised he even came in here when one of my ugly girl friends might jump out of the closet and grab him." She pointed an accusing finger at Murray. "You got a nerve, you ought to be ashamed."

"Me?" said Murray. "What did I do?"

"You know. He knows, too," Bruno turned the finger on Lucy. "Didn't you tell me—"

Bruno sighed. "I told you. Now let him alone, because he's already got a girl friend. And what's it your business, anyhow? Just fix up some coffee for us, and stop worrying about who's getting married to who. Or would you rather have a shot of hard stuff?" he asked Murray.

"A shot," Murray said.

He had one, and then another, while Lucy regarded him with unabashed interest, her elbow planted on the table, chin cupped in her hand. "Who's the girl friend?" she asked. "The crazy one from Texas you had here that time?"

"Maybe. Ah, you're still talking like that, Murray; you're still old Mr. Careful. Say, you know what I think? I think you're turning in to one of those guys who's so scared of marrying the wrong girl they never get married at all. You wait and see if that doesn't happen."

"All right, if that's what you want, I'll wait and see."

"Look," said Bruno. "I told you to let him alone. Now will you clear up this table so we can get some work done? And then go inside and watch television."

Lucy deposited dishes in the sink with a clatter, then plopped herself down into her chair and picked up the newspaper, defying them. Bruno said helplessly to Murray, "If you want me to fix up a table inside—"

"No," Murray said. "It's all right the way it is."

"Thank you," said Lucy from behind the newspaper. Murray laid the binder on the table. The sheets of paper it enclosed were tissue thin, but even when pressed tight together they bulged as large as a good-sized volume. Bruno drew up a chair alongside Murray's, and they studied the first pages together.

"It's from this year," Bruno said. "But that's all I can make of it. What do you make of it?"

The pages were divided into a series of columns, each column a solid row of figures. Murray ran his fingers along the horizontally ruled line at the top of a page and said, "Some of it is easy. We'll skip this first one—11B1—because that's probably a code for the exact date. But then we've got $220 under gr, which must be the gross receipts for that day, and $140 under nt, which would be the net amount left after bets were paid off, and then Immediate Cash Expenses, which, I'd say, is incidental expenses they deducted from the net. And next we have 13E277, which is a code for something else. What we want to work out first are these dates. Then when we hit May third and see a thousand bucks marked down there we know we've got Lundeen pegged right. He probably took a lot of graft, but the only payment that means anything to this indictment is the one on May third."

"Wait a second," Bruno said. He peered closely at the page. "I thought so. Somebody's got a real sense of humor in that outfit. You know what Immediate Cash Expenses stands for?"

"Sure. It's outlay. Whatever it cost that day to run the operation."

"And how. You look at those initials there, friend, and you're looking at I-C-E for ice. The old payola. The graft. And right next to it, Murray, these are the child numbers. They marked down the number of every cop who collected from them. That's what this 13E277 is. Now why should they want to go to all that trouble? What difference does it make, as long as the pay-off was made?"

"A lot of difference. Every cop whose number is down here must have been a bagman, a captain's man, and his job was to collect and pass it along to the man over him. But what happens when some big shot says to Wykoff, 'You missed a payment last week. How about that?' Then all Wykoff has to do is check his records here and say, 'We paid one hundred bucks or whatever it was to a cop with this shield number.' And they catch the double-crosser right at the source."

"Do you mean that Lundeen—?"

"That's what I mean. Lundeen collected from Miller, all right, but he tried to keep it all himself instead of passing it on to the higher-ups. He was a marked man after that, the word must have gone out to get him as soon as anybody had a chance. And when Loscalzo grabbed Miller, that was Miller's chance."

Bruno said with awe: "What a beautiful setup. What a beautiful, beautiful setup."

"Look, Bruno," Murray said, "this date thing doesn't make sense. Here it starts with 11B1 and figuring 11 for the month and 1 for the day you've got November first. But the series runs up to 11B38, so that's out, because no month has thirty-eight days. Right?"

"Yeah, but suppose that B is the day, and—no, that don't make sense, either. Anyhow, what've they got all these B's for? The whole page is full of them. The whole book," Bruno flipped through some pages and then stopped short. "Wait a minute. Here's an M. Maybe there's some others, too."

He went through the pages more slowly. "Sure there is. Here's S, and here's Q, and here's X."

Murray checked them off on his fingers. "B, M, Q, S, and X. Five of them. The five boroughs—Brooklyn, Manhattan, Queens, Staten Island, and X for the Bronx. Now get some pencils and paper. They might help us."

They didn't. At the end of an hour of experimentation, with dates substituted for numbers and then applied to a section of the book at random, the problem looked hopeless. "I think the best thing to do," said Bruno, "is get this Lundeen's shield number, and then go through the whole book and hope it turns up somewhere."

"No, I think I've got it now," said Murray. "We've got to put down Lundeen in code and see if he's here. That's where we're in Manhattan—let's try 53M— he collected a thousand dollars draft, and his shield number—I think it was 32C something-or-other."

Bruno was following this with a pencil. "Let's try postal districts now," said Murray. "Miller's district was number 19—so we look through the records for 53M19."

Bruno thumbed through the pages of the binder, squinting at them closely. Then he stopped and looked around at Murray. "Friend," he said, "meet Mr. Miller and Patrolman Lundeen."

53M19, the line read: $7870 at $480 $1000—32C720.

Who can be sure of a woman's reactions in any circumstances? Whether Ruth Vincent will love Murray or hate him for uncovering this evidence of Lundeen's guilt is an intriguing question. Continue the story here tomorrow.

Records-Keeping Grows Into Really Big Problem

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Whether it's in a tiny efficiency apartment or a giant corporation's home office skyscraper the making and storing of records is a steadily growing problem.

More than nine million clerical employees, or about one out of every seven workers in the land, are tackling the job today.

The National Records Management Council says that 50 years ago there was one clerical worker for every 20 employees—but that was before individuals and corporations carried on their fiscal affairs in a fishbowl.

Much of the mounting volume of records has to be retained—to meet government requirements, and corporate needs. How long various kinds of records must be kept on taking up storage space is the problem faced by families and companies alike.

A number of trade associations and accounting groups have issued schedules.

The Controllorship Foundation, the research arm of the Controllor Institute of America, has a new guide to saving records against a possible look-see command from Uncle Sam. It covers data for income and excise taxes, social security, payrolls and the like.

Holders of overstuffed safe deposit boxes may take comfort in the fact that banks themselves have storage problems. Banking groups, such as the Pennsylvania Bankers Assn., and the New York State Bankers Assn., have published guides for their members on retention of various documents.

Permanent records are kept, though often on microfilm, of paid-off mortgage accounts, and of charged-off consumer credit loans.

The American Society of Corporate Secretaries has a retention schedule covering accumulation of canceled stock certificates and bonds, board meeting minutes, securities and exchange commission reports, stock transfer journals, stockholder lists and proxies.

The press has a guide put out by the Institute of Newspaper Controllors and Finance Officers. Retention periods range from one year for pressroom reports and stockroom requisitions to 25 years for bad debt and product purchase records. Permanent retention is advised for general ledgers, payroll sheets, pension records, equipment accounts and stock books.

A business group, the Advisory Council on Federal Reports, is working with the U. S. Bureau of the Budget in urging government agencies to specify with each new regulation requiring records just how long the data must be retained. It recommends a six-year maximum. The council has got the number of regulations without time specifications reduced from 462 to 221.

The Controllorship Foundation's new guide for corporations lists 29 statutory limitations on federal taxation records. It notes there is no time limit in the case of a false return or one made with the intent to evade tax.

There's a three-year limit on claims for credit or refund, and a seven-year one with respect to bad debts and worthless securities.

Employers must hold payroll records for withholding tax purposes until four years after the date on which the tax becomes due, or the date it is paid, whichever is the later. Records on the federal unemployment tax and on excise taxes must be kept four years.

Uncle Sam has his own storage problems. He usually destroys original tax returns after six years—but mostly after microfilming, just in case.

The country of Iraq had the ancient name of Mesopotamia, the Greek word for "Land Between the Rivers."

Church of God Announcements

At the 9:45 a.m. Sunday school hour, the Junior Choir will render a program of music.

At the 11 o'clock worship hour, Junior Church for the juniors will assemble in one of the classrooms. Mrs. Bertha Nelson is director of this group. The pastor will speak on the theme "Are We Under The Law?"

At 7:30 p.m. Monday the L. W. W. B. will meet with Mrs. Helen Jarvis, 403 Line Ave. Following devotions, a short business session will be held, after which the hostesses will serve refreshments. It will be an open service and everyone is invited to attend.

Prayer service will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. This will also be dedication night. Special singing will be noted.

Friday night at 7:30 the young people, under the direction of Miss Hazel Baker, will present a play.

Hooker Memorial Announcements

Last week the Youth Choir elected its officers to serve for the next year. They are: Richard Briley, president; Nancy Walters, Vice-president; Dean Brickhouse, Secretary; Sharon Baker, Librarian. We are looking forward to great things from this group and to hearing from them in the near future.

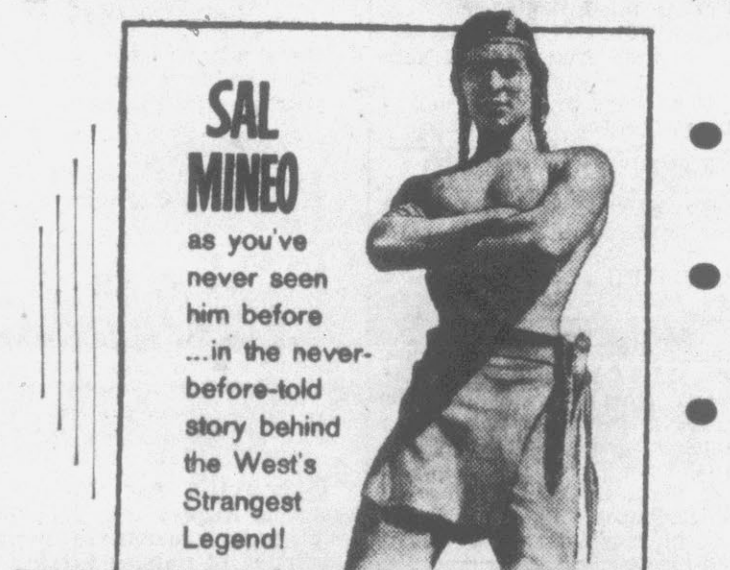

This past week our minister has been attending the annual Ministers Institute for the Christian Churches, in Wilson. It was a wonderful full session as Rev. Wells from Dallas, Texas, who has been preaching for 62 years delivered three lectures and Rev. Ellis Cowling, Town and Country minister of the year delivered three.

Our calendar for this week shows Wednesday—8:00 Choir Practice, Mr. Elbert Bennett's Thursday—7:00 Youth Choir. This Sunday will begin our Eastern Sermons. Morning worship begins at 11:00 preceded by Church School at 9:45. Youth groups will meet at 5:00 p.m.

Three Ships Are Trapped By Ice

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—Three ships, including the U.S. icebreaker Glacier, were reported in trouble today with pack ice in the antarctic.

The Glacier and the Belgian supply ship Polarhav were having difficulty trying to escape from ice off the Belgian base below South Africa.
