JUVENILE DELINQUENCY? THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH. The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily. Who said there is no such thing as juvenile delinquency? Look at the record! Millions of boys and girls under twenty-one in trouble with the police—dope traffic among teen-agers—organized crime by minors. But this is not always juvenile delinquency. This is often the tragedy of ADULT DELINQUENCY. It is frequently the result of neglect, indifference, and lack of Christian training in our homes. It is the failure of parents that has led to the wreckage of many of these young lives. Bring your child to Sunday School and Church. Give him the spiritual care that he wants and needs. Remember, Mother and Dad, we cannot always say, "juvenile delinquency." Be sure it is not your failure which may cause your child to ruin his life. Copyright 1959, Knicker Adv. East Carolina Art Society Meets

Three leaders from Art Centers in Rocky Mount and Winston-Salem spoke to members of the East Carolina Art Society Thursday night in the new cafeteria on the East Carolina College campus.

They were Bill Thorpe, Bill Rawls of Rocky Mount and Carl Mark, director of the Arts Council of Winston-Salem.

After the dinner, Dr. Wellington B. Gray, head of the ECC Art Department, acted as moderator during a discussion by the speakers.

Thorpe said many people of Greenville had played a major role in inspiring Rocky Mount to combine and co-ordinate existing cultural activities into a program spreading to include many people.

Extension courses taught by the ECC faculty members were responsible for interest in several subjects such as painting and talent, he concluded.

Adding to Thorpe's remarks, Rawls told how interest was aroused in Rocky Mount, how the money was raised, and of the many activities that are now being carried on.

Winston-Salem Arts Council is one of the country's most outstanding in the new and challenging field of Community Arts co-ordination, stated Mark, the director.

Three paintings were on exhibit in the dining area. Miss Rachel Howell, a senior in the Art Department, was the artist.

Dr. J. D. Messick, society president, presided during the winter meeting.

President Messick announced that the Art Society had received approval from the United States Internal Revenue Service as a tax exempt corporation which will entitle donors to properly deduct gifts and donations to the Society from their individual income tax returns.

In view of this determination, Dr. Messick appointed Dr. Robert Lee Humber, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, and W. H. Watson as a committee of three to accept gifts for the Society.

Also this committee will be responsible for the determination of what donations will be acceptable for a museum which may be sponsored by the Society.

Mrs. Moore called attention to the Art Society members' exhibit now being shown in the Sheppard Memorial Library. She also stated that soon the space being occupied by the center would be needed by the library. She requested a larger and more convenient place.

Nutritious Dishes At A Very Low Cost

RALEIGH — "Don't 'short change' your family nutritionally when their favorite foods are out of season or too expensive to buy," says Mrs. Rachel H. Ferguson, nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Here are some suggestions to help your menu planning for nutritious dishes at low cost:

Nuts, cooked soybeans and other dried beans may be mashed or ground and used in making sandwiches. Dried beans or peas may also be used once or twice a week to take the place of meat.

Strained cooked tomatoes may be used instead of orange juice for baby.

Summer squash and turnips may be served raw in a tossed salad. Collards are an excellent source of vitamin A, vitamin C and iron. Dried milk may be substituted in making soups, creamed dishes, and desserts.

Pumpkin may be prepared and served as a vegetable, in the same ways you use sweet potatoes.

Eggs, fish and poultry are similar in food value to other lean meats and usually less expensive.

So, plan your meals to satisfy your family and your pocketbook, advises Mrs. Ferguson.

'Green Thumb' Used As Program Topic

Mrs. Robert Messner entertained the Delphin Book Club Tuesday at her home on Elm Street.

After a brief business meeting, a dessert course of strawberry shortcake and coffee was served to the members and four guests: Mrs. Clarence Tugwell, Mrs. Max Joyner, Mrs. C. C. Hilton and Mrs. John Carrington.

Mrs. Carrington was guest speaker for the meeting. Her topic was "Green Thumb". She described gardening as a therapy and form of relaxation and pointed out how it can create a closeness with God.

The speaker defined the three types of flowers; annuals, which are plants started from seed—and live only one season; Biennials, which are planted one year, bloom the next and then die; and perennials, flowers that grow from year to year.

Mrs. Carrington gave the club many useful garden hints such as suggesting that flowers be cut in the early morning and immediately placed in water to prevent wilting. She recommended the use of hybrid seed because they are a mixture of the best pollen from strong plants. Her formula for a successful flower bed was mixing a good fertilizer with soil and peat moss and using a mulch of pine straw.

The program was concluded with the reading of "A Gardner's Prayer".

Mrs. Messner's living room was decorated with a spring bouquet of quince and daffodils arranged by Mrs. Carrington. Among the other decorations was a unique red valentine tree.

Proctors Fete Club Members

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Proctor Jr. were hosts to a Valentine party for the Pickwick Book Club members and their husbands Friday evening, February 13, at the home of Mrs. Proctor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Sr. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Jr.

The home was decorated throughout with gladioli and carnations carrying out the Valentine theme. Paper hearts, cut by the hostess, were given each club member. A matching heart had to be found among the husbands to determine their partner for dinner. Valentine place cards for the husbands were pictures of their wives in various poses taken by the hostess sometime before the party. Corsages of red carnations marked the ladies' places.

The guests were served buffet style a two course dinner after which the party members listened to records and played TV games.

Pork Is Week's Best Buy

RALEIGH—Increased supplies of pork continue to arrive at the market to insure more favorable retail prices on this item, report Mrs. Ruby P. Uzzie and John W. Hagen, consumer marketing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Cummings Talks To Book Club On Alaska

"Alaska, the 49th State" was the topic used by J. B. Cummings when he spoke to the Clio Book Club Tuesday afternoon. Miss Jane Hadley acted as hostess.

Cummings began by telling the group how the United States obtained Alaska in 1867 from Russia. According to the speaker, it had been a sound business deal because of the amount of wealth in the United States had received from the Ice Box, which it was called when it was first purchased.

Because of the long days during a short time of year, vegetables grow faster and larger, because of that reason. Minerals, too, are in abundance. Oil is being discovered in Alaska and it is believed that more will be found than any other state in the union.

Mrs. W. J. Stell, president, presided during the meeting of the book club. Visitors were welcomed. They included Mrs. Claude Goodman and Mr. and Mrs. Cummings of Greenville, and Mrs. R. B. Starling of Wilson.

A nominating committee for the new officers of the coming year was appointed by the president. Mrs. Luther Moore was named chairman and other members were Mrs. James M. Moye and Mrs. R. G. Lang.

The hostess invited the members and guests following the afternoon program into the dining room where an appointed table of white gladioli, centered with American flags, carried out the patriotic ideas for the month of February.

A salad course with coffee and dessert was served. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Morgan Farnough, Mrs. Jake Hadley, Mrs. Helen White Haves, Mrs. James M. Moye and Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell.

Pickwick Club

Tuesday, the Pickwick Book Club met at the home of Mrs. E. W. Monroe.

Mrs. Monroe introduced Dr. Frank L. Hoskins of East Carolina College who gave a talk on modern poetry. Dr. Hoskins displayed many books dealing with modern poetry and read several poems to the members. A short discussion period followed.

Buffet Menu

The menu for this Sunday, Feb. 22, will be baked ham with raisin sauce, beef and vegetable stew, hot dogs with all the trimmings, cold cuts, candied yams, turnip greens, lima beans, tossed salad, English muffins, pickles, relish, olives, cookies, milk, coffee and ice cream.

To Provide For An Orderly Growth

Legislation which would give municipalities zoning authority within a reasonable distance outside their city limits is a must if communities are to experience an orderly growth.

The Reflector favors the passage of state-wide legislation that would give municipalities zoning authority approximately one mile beyond their city limits. From a realistic standpoint, however, the passage of such an act on a state-wide basis is somewhat doubtful, even though many such local acts already are in effect in the state.

Greenville's City Council is wise in preparing local legislation to afford the city such authority in case the proposed state-wide measure does not receive the green light during the current legislative session.

The city's Planning and Zoning Commission did not propose the local legislation hastily. They gave the matter careful study before recommending it to the City Council.

If Greenville's zoning authority is extended one mile beyond the corporate limits of the city, it should work no hardship on any property owner. At the same time, it will afford the city some assurance that its future growth can be carried out in an orderly manner. It will prevent a future jumble of residential, commercial and industrial areas within the city all overlapping and interlocking to the disadvantage of individual property owners and the city as a whole.

The matters of long range city planning and orderly growth are becoming increasingly important for Greenville as well as most other municipalities. The legislature should pass a general law which will give cities reasonable zoning powers one mile beyond their corporate limits. And if such state-wide legislation is not passed, it will certainly be in the best interest of Greenville and the area around it to have a local law which will give the city such zoning authority outside its corporate limits.

Our Latin American Policy Needs Pushing

In addition to being a pleasure trip, we hope President Eisenhower's visit to Mexico is an indication the United States is going to start paying more official attention to its hemispheric neighbors to the South.

During the past decade the foreign policy of the United States has been centered around affairs in Europe, Asia and other far-away areas to the detriment of our relationships with friendly nations nearer us. The policy is understandable to some degree because of the tremendous importance of events which have taken place in these other areas.

In the overall scheme of international policy, however, the United States has made the mistake of taking its close neighbors for granted.

The nations of Central and South America, while they are not major powers in international affairs, do constitute a large bloc of the nations of the free world. They are an important part of the free world bulwark against Communism.

From the standpoint of the United States, they are important links in the system of hemispheric defense.

While the United States has lavished millions and millions of dollars upon nations of Europe and Asia in an effort to boost their economies, we have largely overlooked the needs of our American neighbors. By comparison we have not spent nearly the time or money to cement our friendships in South and Central America that we have elsewhere.

This point was brought home sharply to Americans when Vice President Nixon made his Southern tour. It has likewise been vividly pointed out in our relationships with individual nations south of our border.

The State Department should put a great deal more emphasis on U. S. foreign policy as it pertains to our Latin American neighbors. It should take a more positive approach to building firm hemispheric relations rather than continuing to take the friendship of our Latin American neighbors for granted.

We trust Mr. Eisenhower's Mexican vacation is an indication of more positive steps to be taken in cementing relationships between the United States and our neighbors.

They Have Great Responsibility

By LYNN NISBET
POLICY — The money committees, appropriations and finance, and the judiciary committees generally are conceded to have large responsibility in passing on major legislation. There are times when other committees assume importance by reason of peculiar conditions. This year the committees on Constitutional Amendments and State Government fall in that category.

Always the groups dealing with local problems have more bills to consider. The bills are just as important to the affected communities as any statewide legislation. The load has been divided between Local Government and Counties - Cities - Towns committees. Effort is being made to consolidate from functions and eliminate some detail and duplication with respect to purely local bills.

The House Local Government Committee, chaired by Rep. Ed Kemp of Guilford, voted to invite Alex McMahon, executive secretary of the N.C. association of County Commissioners, and John Morrissey, general counsel for the N.C. League of Municipalities, to discuss some of these problems. The motion carried invitation for the Counties-Cities-Towns committee to meet jointly with Local Government for the presentations.

There was a bit of facetious play when the invitations were being discussed. Point was made that budget and revenue officials "brief" the money committees, and they speak with some authority as representatives of the State. The county and municipal associations lack State-backed authority, but as one committee member suggested in a low voice, "maybe they know more about the real needs and practical ways to meet them."

TRIGGER — A Senate committee gave unanimous approval to a bill authorizing county and municipal governing bodies to meet at other than regular places, and even outside the corporate limits, in event of emergencies due to threat of enemy attack. Several members suggested there ought to be more definite provision for the "trigger" that would occasion necessity for moving the meeting place—perhaps a proclamation by the President or the Governor. The committee agreed to leave it up to the local board to determine when the emergency was sufficient to justify moving the meeting place.

This is one of a number of anticipated bills sponsored by the Civil Defense organizations to assure "continuity of government" in event of war or major disaster. All hands agree that some legislation along this line is needed. Questions asked indicated concern over relative importance of "continuity" and "stability" in government. Sen. Henry Shelton of Edgecombe quipped that under the pending bill just getting scared would be sufficient reason for a city or county board to move its meeting place. This General Assembly is more acutely conscious than any of its predecessors of the need for providing continuity in event of war. The Government Reorganization Commission devoted considerable attention to the succession in office, and it is understood the Civil Defense people will supplement those recommendations. At the same time, many legislators are reluctant to amend the laws so that long established traditions and securities might be destroyed in a period of temporary hysteria. Discussions have been featured with humorous and facetious comments. But the legislators are conscious of the seriousness of the problem.

TREND — Increasing popularity of small cars is causing concern in ranks of revenue collectors and roadbuilders. While the effect on gasoline tax revenue is up to now very slight, officials admit there is some relationship. Highway engineers have not yet conceded any reason to change their ideas to meet the small car trend, but laymen are beginning to wonder if all these 360-foot superhighways and 500-acre clover-leaf arrangements will be needed ten or fifteen years from now.

There is growing opinion that highway engineers are designing roads to handle present day traffic, rather than planning for future developments. For 20 years the trend has been toward bigger vehicles. Roads and bridges built for the 1920-30 automobiles are inadequate for the 1950 decade type of cars. So the big folks are building big facilities. Now the trend has started back to small, easily maneuverable vehicles, with probability of magnetic and radar equipment to prevent overruns and collisions, and with gadgets to enable parking in narrow space without backing and turning over half a block.

These small facie cars will use less fuel, and maybe of a different type, so the gasoline revenue may continue to decline. By the same token they will require less expensive road construction. That is the basis for objection to bond issues for highway building.

What Is Force To The Soviet?

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's just a simple question in philosophy right now — What is force? But in a few months it may be the heart of a crisis over West Berlin.

This is a brief version of the problem: Not only is East Germany Communist-run, under the thumb of the Soviet Union, but as is the Eastern zone of Berlin which is the capital of the East German government. The Soviets have troops there. Berlin is 100 miles inside East Germany.

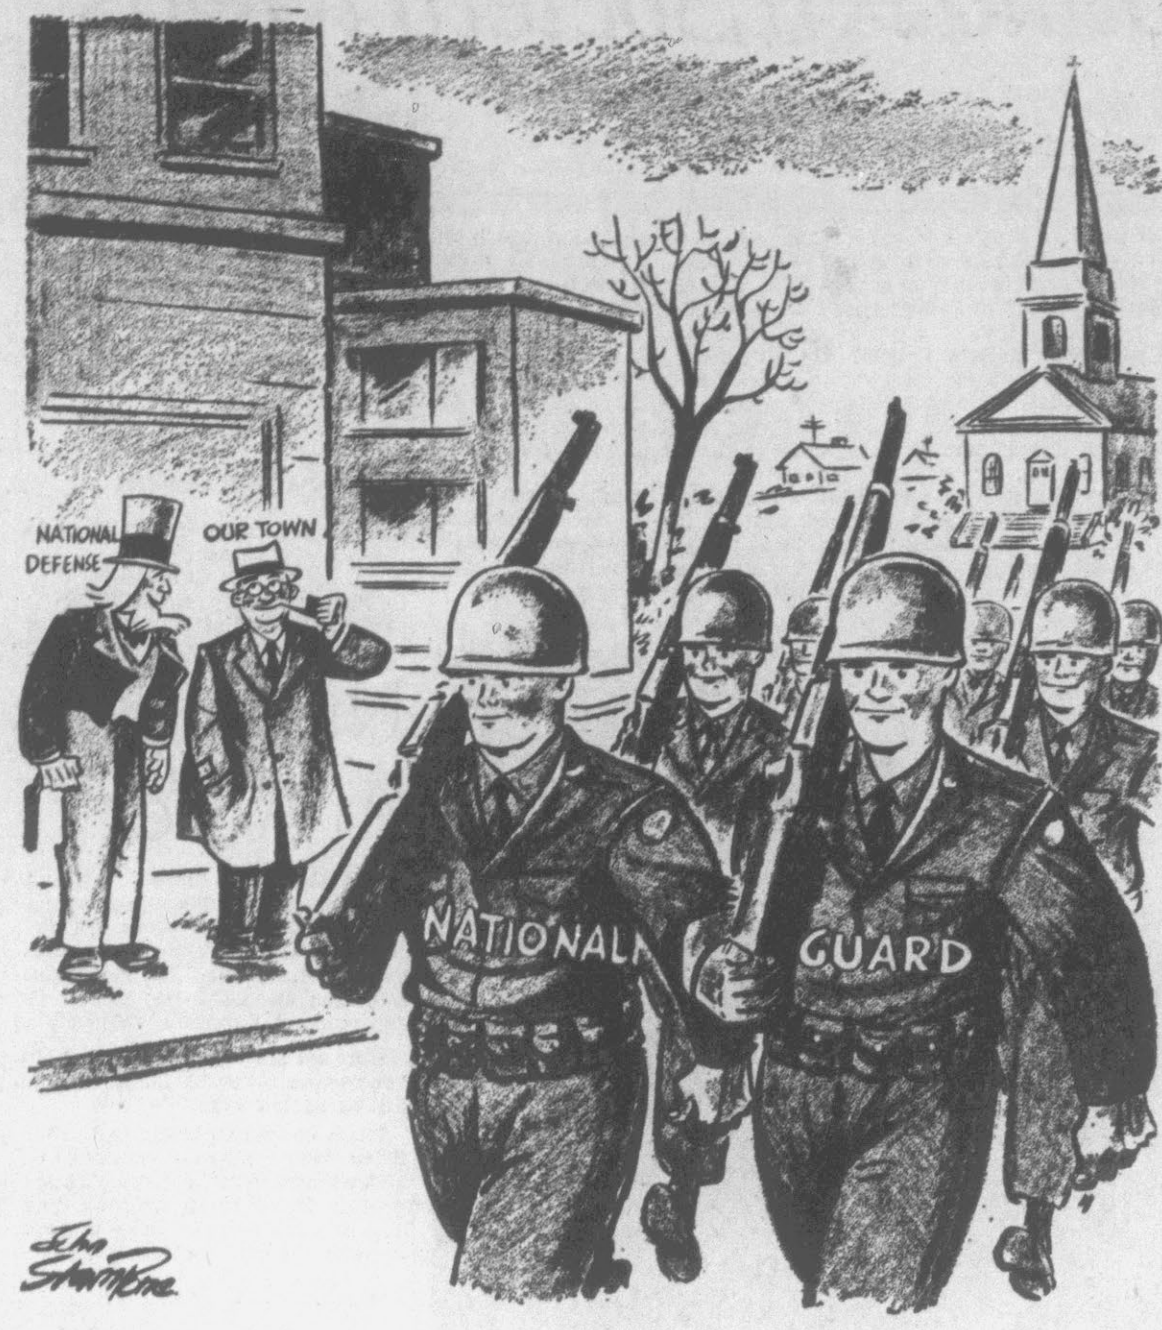

But the 2,200,000 civilians in West Berlin consider themselves citizens of West Germany whose capital is in Bonn. West Berlin is a Western showpiece. Its high prosperity is a glaring contrast to the drabness of East Berlin.

Since World War II days, through agreements with the Soviet Union, the Western Allies have had troops in West Berlin. They are supplied from West Germany — by plane, rail and road — through or over 100 miles of East Germany.

But since last November the Soviet Union has made a number of demands and proposals which compel the West to face or avert a crisis. The Soviets in effect set a deadline around May 27. They call for making West Berlin a free city; they want Western military forces withdrawn; they want a settlement of unifying the two Germans; they talk of making a separate peace settlement with East Germany.

And they talk of turning over to the East German government full control of what can enter East Germany. To put it another way, the East German Communists would be free to refuse to let the Allies send military supplies to West Berlin. What would happen if they did that? A lot of things could happen. The Allies can hardly abandon the West Berliners whose "free zone" would become a small island completely surrounded in the sea of Communist East Germany.

The Allies at this point apparently don't know what to expect. They decided to try talking before the May 27 deadline. They proposed that the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain

Appreciate The Gesture

Sometime last year, when the Town of Farmville was deciding how to label its 1959 municipal auto license tags, the suggestion was made that some tribute should be paid to the town's industrial growth.

The idea struck a responsive note, and, as a result, the tags are sporting the slogan, "Home of Formica Flakeboard". The reference, of course, is to American Cyanamid Corporation's Formica Division Flakeboard plant in Farmville.

A couple of weeks ago, Formica Sales Manager Bill Drees was in Farmville for a meeting at the plant. While he was in town, he was presented with one of the tags for use on his Ohio-based automobile.

Instead of placing the tag on his car, Drees framed it and put it in his office. He explained the action in a letter to Farmville Mayor Charles S. Edwards.

Drees wrote, "While in Farmville two weeks ago, I was presented with Formica Flakeboard license plate No. 102. Rather than spoil it by placing it on my car, I have put it on the wall of my office where it attracts a great deal of attention and interest.

"This is one of the finest gestures that I have ever known of, and I certainly wish to thank you and all the people involved for doing this wonderful thing for us. We are continually pleased with the cooperation we have received from you and all of the people in the area, and we are delighted that we did locate our plant in Farmville."

The idea for the license tag and the reaction it has gotten from Formica officials are regarded by Edwards as positive proof that "the little things DO count". It has helped build a positive and friendly relationship between the town and its industrial firms.

Incidentally, this is not the first time Farmville's attention to "little things" has prompted replies from the Formica people.

Incidentally, this is not the first time Farmville's attention to "little things" has prompted replies from the Formica people. Back in November, when the Flakeboard plant was dedicated, Formica President D.J. O'Connor, Jr., and American Cyanamid President Dr. W. G. Malcolm both praised "the scrupulous attention to detail" by Farmville residents in helping the plant get located and started.

Both also told Governor Luther H. Hodges that such efforts had been potent factors in the decision to locate the Flakeboard plant in Farmville. They also suggested, gently, that Farmville's way of doing things in industrial development could be a model for the entire state.

The idea of labeling municipal auto tags, such as Farmville has done, is apparently gaining strength throughout the state.

Greenville, of course, proclaims itself as the home of East Carolina College, and Washington tells the town that it is "The Original Washington". But, of them all, I like most the slogan Mount Olive used to use, and may still use for all I know.

Mount Olive called itself, "The Pickle Capital Of The World." That slogan has always conjured fanciful flights of imagination for me, wondering just what kind of pickle they were bragging about.

Other Editors Saying... No Pros -- No Antis

(Washington Daily News)
When it comes to proposed legislation before the North Carolina General Assembly, there can be only one cardinal consideration: whether the proposal is wise and of the state as a whole.

As the legislature moves through the opening formalities of its new session, there is an increasing amount of talk about the pro-Hodges and the anti-Hodges forces within the House and Senate.

Within the House there is still considerable talk about the Hewlett forces and the Venters forces as a result of the long and bitter struggle for Speakership which Rep. Hewlett won in the Democratic caucus.

The prospect of the legislature being split into factions on the basis of personalities is alarming to The Daily News and to many other Tar Heels. And rightly it should be alarming.

North Carolina's General Assembly members are elected from throughout the state to represent them in Raleigh and to act on legislation for the good of the state as a whole. If the current session of the legislature degenerates into a body of factions which see in proposals only the person who sponsors a measure, it will accomplish little of lasting value for the people of North Carolina.

No piece of legislation which is considered during this session should be considered on the basis of whether it is an administration proposal or an anti-administration proposal. Neither should the fact that it comes from Hewlett forces or Venters forces have any bearing on the final action by the General Assembly.

Each proposal which comes before the legislature should be considered individually on the basis of its merits and demerits. It should be considered by each individual legislator on the basis of what benefits it will bring to the people of North Carolina as a whole.

In short, each bill which falls into the hopper of the House or Senate should be allowed to stand on its own feet regardless of its origin or the personalities of individual legislators who are supporting or fighting the bill. Only by considering each piece of legislation on its individual merits can the members of the legislature fulfill their obligation to the people back home who picked them to go to Raleigh.

Opinions In Brief

"Taxes should not be increased. On the contrary serious consideration should be given to a start on a program of cutting down the income tax. A thorough housecleaning in the excise taxes getting rid of World War II emergency and so-called 'luxury' taxes is long overdue. To make these things possible, spending should be sharply reduced. It can be done. All that's needed is determination to do it." — Indianapolis Star.

"The free world has many other problems than holding the sea. Success there alone can not assure liberty. Without the sea, the great democracies of the west and freedom itself will die. Ancient truths are long truths and these words of another age of desperate world struggle still ring true today: 'He would be secure at home must be supreme at sea.'" — Adm. Ernest M. Eller, USN.

A Pen Unveils Truth

NEW YORK (AP) — "Your signature often shows what you want people to think of you," says handwriting expert Helen Yun, "but your handwriting reveals what you really are."

Miss Yun, a Korean-born psychology major from Vanderbilt University, has been making her living with a life-long interest—graphology — after finding teaching jobs scarce for an Oriental in America and life humiliating in Korea for an American-educated woman.

"You will often find that a businessman, who makes small capital letters in the body of his writing will make big ones with flourishes when he writes his signature," said Miss Yun. "He's a shy, insecure man putting on a bold front."

Slant Tells Character
Miss Yun insists that much can be read of one's character from the slant of one's writing; that breaks in the middle of words show strong intuition.

Although it is impossible to tell definitely either the sex or age of a writer, says Miss Yun, it is often possible to determine the state of health and mental attitude of a writer.

The small Korean woman — her father was a baron and her grandfather Minister of War and the Treasury before the Japanese took over in 1905 — was sent to a girl's school in Kentucky for her primary education by her Christian father. Conditions in Korea were so turbulent she stayed on to attend college where she made Phi Beta Kappa. After that she returned to Korea, briefly.

Unhappy in Korea
"I tried to go back," she said, "but I found women considered so inferior, and their clothes so drab that it made me ashamed to be a woman. I decided to return to America and be a part of the white man's world."

When she came back, however, it was the mid-depression and the only job she could find was that as an entertainer in a New York night spot — reading hand writing. She has been doing it ever since — currently in one of the lounges of the Manager Vanderbilt hotel in New York.

"Graphology," she says seriously, "dates far back into European history — French priests were among those who studied it in the 17th Century. But now it is recognized as probably the best and most precise and accurate short cut to knowing something about a person. It is even being used by psychologists, medical clinics and some detective bureaus."

Miss Yun became interested as a boarding school girl when she ran across a book on the subject. For years it was hobby — "I was always trying to analyze people by looking at unopened envelopes that came to friends and getting them to check my deductions." Now it is her business.

"I'm an entertainer," she says, "and I love it. It's a nice way to get to know lots of people."

STRANGE HOW IT HAPPENS
A group of very privileged men who have been carefully trained to the point of great competence meet each year to give serious attention to certain problems of education. But the book publishers, wanting to curry favor with these men, hold drinking parties at which vast quantities of free liquor is so available that by nine o'clock each night, the majority of these highly trained and unusual men are just plain drunk.
The same obtains in business circles. Unless many people are out to tell malicious lies about their business colleagues, many conventions of business men end up coarse and vomiting brawls.

Clean Up Your Medicine Chest

By ELMER ROESSNER
One of the most dramatic campaigns of the year will sell very little of the sponsor's products, but it may save 35 lives and prevent thousands of dangerous illnesses.
It is the "clean up your medicine chest" campaign financed by Bauer & Black, manufacturer of hospital dressings and first-aid supplies.
It is being carried on nationally through drugstores and other sellers of proprietary drugs, and through mass media. Retailers are passing out a leaflet urging the destruction of overage and unlabeled drugs, and compliance with eight safety rules. They are also using displays and offering, at half price, an aluminum door shelf on which dangerous drugs can be kept above the reach of children.
HOW TO BE SAFE
The eight safety rules are:
1. Keep all poisonous substances and dangerous drugs in a safe storage place and not in the medicine chest.
2. Twice a year discard old medicines and unused prescription drugs.
3. Date all drug supplies on purchase and protect labels with transparent tape.
4. Follow prescription directions exactly.
5. Always throw away bottles if labels are missing and you are uncertain of contents.
6. Paste names and phone numbers of doctor and druggist in your medicine cabinet.
7. Prevent everyone from taking another's prescription.
8. Always use prescriptions in a well lighted room to assure correct use.
Statistics indicate that about 35 persons, many of them children, die each year, from accidental poisonings in bathrooms, by using state prescriptions, taking someone else's prescription, or by taking the wrong drug.
In addition, there are uncountable cases of serious illness from the same causes, and the prolonging of other illnesses by taking stale, ineffective medicines. Many people are unaware of the fact that many drugs lose their potency with age.

In New York City alone there were 8,000 poisonings in 1958. Half the victims were children. They were given wrong medicines or overdoses by elders, or they took unguarded, dangerous potions.
Bauer & Black is one of the few companies that could sponsor such a campaign through drug outlets. If a big drug manufacturer put it on, there would be suspicion that it was interested in replacement sales of its own products. But Bauer & Black bandages and hospital supplies do not deteriorate nor are they ever dangerous.
The company may pick up a few sales when families take stock of their medicine chests, but its major gain will be in good will among druggists and consumers.
In the long run, this may be better than immediate sales — a point worth thought by other companies in planning promotions.
10 PERCENT DROP IN AUTO TOURS FORESEEN BY TRAVEL MEN
The percentage of travel by auto in the United States may drop from 85 to 70 per cent in the next five years, says the National Association of Travel Organizations.
It gives these reasons: Higher taxes on fuel and everything connected with autos; more toll charges; high costs of storing or parking cars at destinations; greater stress and strain in driving; safety considerations, "since highway travel via private automobile is by far the most hazardous form of transportation," and time-saving by public carriers, with rental cars available at destination.

Phantoms Suffer Upset At Hands Of Roanoke Rapids

Visitors Hold Off Second Half Rally

The Greenville Phantoms lost their bid for the Northeastern AA crown last night as Roanoke Rapids, a giant-killer all season, held off a second half rally to register a 45-41 win on Greenville's home court.

Greenville, the hottest club in the loop during the past month, had defeated the pace-setters, Kinston and Washington, during the last seven days to move out front in the race with a 11-2 mark. With their victory over Kinston Tuesday night, the Phantoms were almost assured of the crown as only the Yellow Jackets, a club already beaten once by Greenville, remained on the schedule. But the stage was set for another upset by the Jackets and they were not to be denied their hard-earned victory.

The visitor took advantage of a poor first half, showing by Greenville to move out front by a comfortable margin and a lead that was lost only once in the roughly played tilt.

The Phantoms, having one of their worse nights on the floor, could muster only four points in the opening eight minutes and by halftime were behind 18-11. Joe Moyer got the Greenville attack rolling in the third period as the Phantoms showed the form which had carried them to their recent win streak.

Moyer and crew cut the lead in the opening minutes of the second half and forged ahead 29-27 at the end of the third period. The Jackets came back to re-capture the lead and then held on for the rest of the way.

Greenville hit a cold streak in the final five minutes and couldn't find the range. The rangy cagers of Coach Bo Farley, accustomed to scoring in the sixties and seventies, had one of their poorest nights of the season from the floor.

The loss dropped the Greenies into a tie with Kinston for the crown. Kinston copped a 66-58 win over Tarboro last night behind the scoring punch of Henderson and Watkins. The two tallied 58 points.

Last night was the final game of the season for both teams and for the second time since 1956, Greenville and Kinston finished the season as co-champions. The two teams will be top-seeded as the Northeastern AA Tournament gets underway next Wednesday night in Memorial Gymnasium at East Carolina College.

The Greenville junior varsity kept the locale from complete gloom last night as they captured a 58-55 win over Roanoke Rapids. Roanoke Rapids 45 Greenville 41

Warns Of 'Trouble' In Walker Cup Play

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The United States may be "in serious danger of losing" when it opposes the British in the May 15-16 Walker Cup amateur golf matches at Muirfield, Scotland.

The author of that grim forecast is the usually carefree, wise-cracking Billy Joe Patton, a member of the U.S. team.

Patton, Morganton, N.C., lumber dealer, told the Charlotte News in an interview today that judging from the manner in which the British team pressed the American forces two years ago, the U.S. team may be in trouble this time.

Said Patton, "Our team will have to play close to the limit of its ability to win. The British have not named their team but you can pretty well guess who will make it and I can tell you from what I have seen in the past that it will be a strong team."

Two San Antonio Golfers Among Tourney Leaders

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Two golfers fighting the home town jinx and another who has yet to win a nickel in tournament competition led the $20,000 Texas Open into its third round today.

Joe Jimenez, San Antonio, who moved to Manhattan, Kan., was on top with 136 for 36 holes.

Wesley Ellis Jr., also a San Antonio native, and unknown Sammy Reynolds of Springfield, Mo., were tied for second, a stroke back.

There were few name players around as the final 36 holes started with a field of the low professionals and ties and eight amateurs.

Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y., was in a good contending position, however. He clubbed out a 5-under-par 66 for a 138 total and a tie with Bill Johnston of Provo, Utah, for third place.

Four strokes out of the lead at 140 was Fred Hawkins of El Paso. At 141 were Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N.Y.; Doug Ford of Paradise, Fla.; and Al Baiding of Markham, Canada.

Winterville Boys, Grimesland Girls Survive Play

LINDA HADDOCK, of Grimesland, was a much-sought-after young lady at this particular point in the County tourney last night. She kept the ball, though.

The Winterville boys and Grimesland girls survived last night's tournament play at Memorial Gymnasium to advance into the Pitt County finals tonight. Both clubs took a shaky one point victory.

Winterville rallied in the final half to overcome Bethel, 47-46, and Grimesland held off a second half rally by Ayden to post a 45-44 win.

J. C. Little hit a basket with four seconds remaining to send Winterville into the finals after a see-saw battle.

Bethel, winner of 13 county championships and seeded second, got off to a fast start and with Jack Whichard and Jimmy Hardy pacing a strong offensive attack, built up a 10-6 lead at the end of the first period and led 25-19 at halftime. A couple of quick baskets by Moye Waters, Winterville's high-scoring center, kept the rangy cagers of Coach Moye in the game at intermission.

Bethel cooled off in the third period and could tally only seven points. Meanwhile, Tommy Braxton speeded his club's attack and Winterville surged out front 35-32. Braxton hit 10 points in the 16-point third quarter production.

Waters took over the scoring load for the victors in the final stanza as they built up a five-point margin. Jimmy Hardy once again found the range for Bethel with less than five minutes remaining.

Hardy hit a couple of quick buckets and John Smith hit a foul shot to whittle the lead and then go out front with less than a minute remaining.

Winterville, having trouble with the Bethel full-court press, got the ball down court and in to Little who switched the nets to send his club into tonight's finals.

The Ayden girls, the big surprise club in the tournament, almost took the role of giant-killers again as they battled a highly-favored Grimesland club down to the final seconds.

The seventh ranked club knocked off second-seeded Winterville on opening night and took a commanding lead in the first quarter of last night's battle.

Carol Lu Braxton tossed in 15 quick points to send the underdogs into a 17-8 lead at the end of the first period. The roof caved in for Coach Thomas Craft's club in the second period as they had trouble getting the ball and could register only three points, all by Dawn Rouse.

While Ayden was being held in check, Grimesland moved back into the game with a 19 point second period and at halftime were leading 27-20.

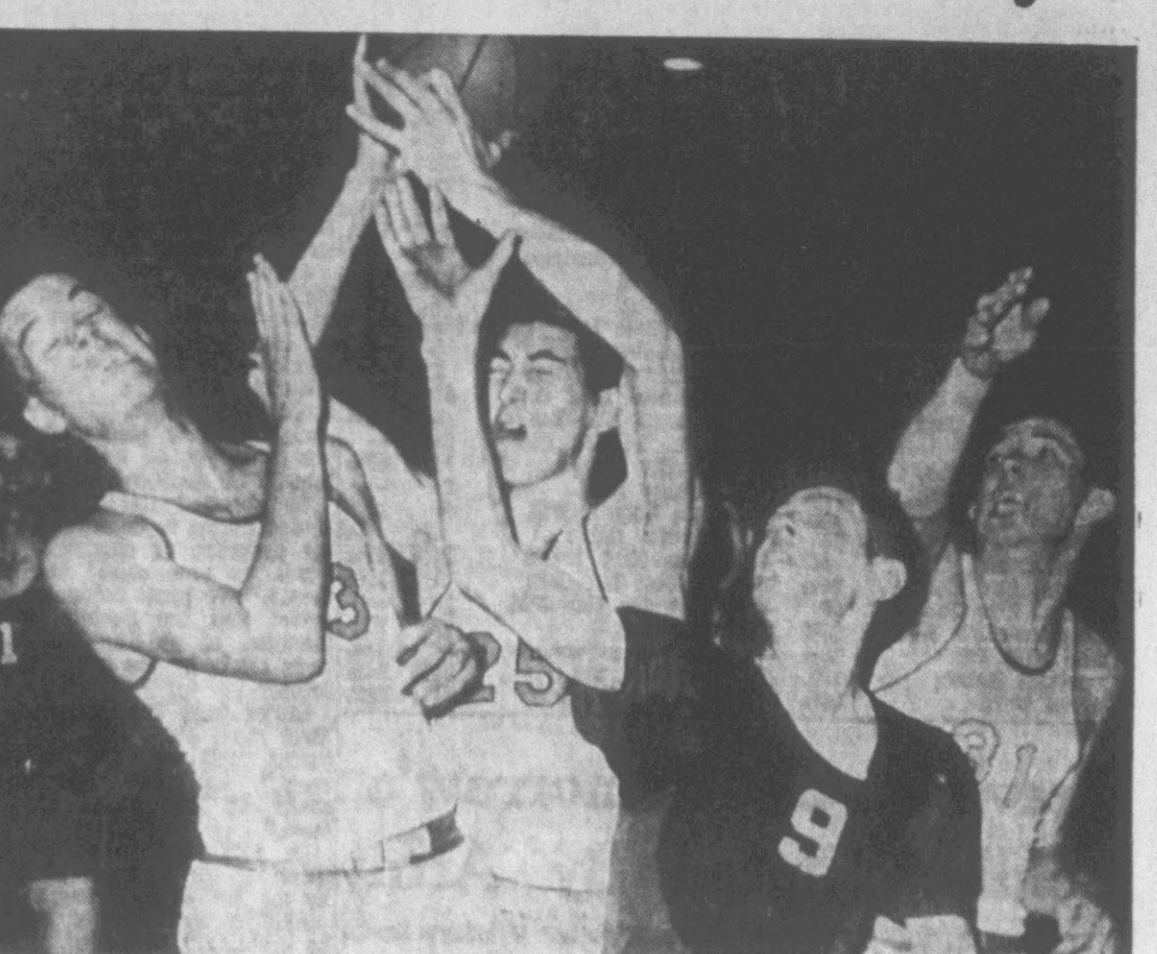

Trailing by seven, Ayden was far from through as they battled back to outscore their rivals in the second half but their rally fell short by a single point.

Braxton once again led her club as they cut the lead to 37-34 at the end of the third period. The final period saw Grimesland play a stalling game which eventually paid off.

The fired-up Ayden club was able to come within one point during the final minutes and had several opportunities to move out front but muffed them. Despite the defeat, Ayden proved to be the "Cinderella" team in the tournament with their inspired play.

As the clubs move into the final night, only one pre-tournament favorite will be on hand. Stokes-Pactolus, undefeated in conference competition, will be back to defend the girls title as they take on Grimesland at 7:30.

Winterville and Farmville, third and fourth, respectively, will decide who wears the new crown in tonight's tournament.

OOOOOPS—Three Winterville boys and Bethel's Jack Whichard battle for a loose ball. The boys, left to right, are Mack Worthington, Moye Waters, Whichard, and J. C. Little. (Photos by Tommy Oglesby)

Stokes, last year's winners, will bank on the scoring of Lillie Turner and Billy Angle as they seek to defend their title. The champs eased past Chocod, 75-55, in their first round but had trouble with Grifton before gaining a 64-61 victory.

High-scoring Mable Singleton was held to only three points last night but Phyllis Nichols and Sybil Howell were able to pick up the slack for Grimesland. The third place club was able to cop a 55-47 win over Farmville in their first round.

The boys battle shapes up to be another dilly as both teams have advanced to the finals by the upset route. Farmville opened with a 62-51 victory over defending champion, Ayden, and then knocked off regular season champion, Chocod, 43-42.

Winterville took an expected 58-46 win over Belvoir-Palkland but then rallied last night to edge past always-dangerous Bethel.

Both clubs will boast plenty of height tonight and also a strong scoring attack. Moye Waters and Tommy Braxton have carried the scoring brunt for Winterville while Farmville has been getting a good scoring punch from Gene Gray, J. S. Flake and Walter Jones.

Fullmer Has His Hands Full In Decision Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Gene Fullmer, a majority decision winner over Willie Greaves, wants the New York State Athletic Commission to vacate Sugar Ray Robinson's world middleweight title.

Marv Jensen, Fullmer's manager, has written a letter to the commission asking that a match between Gene and Carmen Basilio or any other middleweight receive sanction as a championship bout.

"We want to fight Basilio for the title in New York," said Jensen last night after Fullmer had won his Madison Square Garden match with Greaves, a Illinois young Canadian. "Basilio is No. 1. Gene is No. 2 and he has licked Spider Webb, the best of the rest."

Robinson hasn't fought since he regained the crown from Basilio March 25, 1958 at Chicago. The normal six-month period of grace expired long ago. Robinson has been talking of fighting Archie Moore for the light heavy championship before he defends his 160-pound title.

Fullmer had his hands full with Greaves, a rough and ready youngster from Edmonton, Alberta. The ex-champ was able to bull his man and scored heavily with right hand punches to the body. However, Greaves caught Fullmer time and again with his left hook and kept him at long range whenever he used his jab.

One official, Judge Nick Gamboli thought it was even 5-5 in rounds and 5-5 in points. Judge Jack Gordon scored it 6-4 and Referee Harry Kessler 5-4-1, both for Fullmer. The AP card was Fullmer 6-4.

Trailing by seven, Ayden was far from through as they battled back to outscore their rivals in the second half but their rally fell short by a single point.

Braxton once again led her club as they cut the lead to 37-34 at the end of the third period. The final period saw Grimesland play a stalling game which eventually paid off.

MacKay Believes Future Is Bright

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Barry MacKay, who has seen his tennis go from riches to rags in the space of a year, is convinced his lean days are near an end and better times are ahead.

"It's true I haven't had a very good year but I agree this is just a temporary slump," the Davis Cupper from Dayton, Ohio, said today.

"I don't think I nearly have reached my tennis potential," he exclaimed the "golden boy" of American tennis after his spectacular showing in the Davis Cup Challenge Round at Melbourne in 1957. MacKay, has achieved only one important victory since.

He beat Alex Olmedo for the Pennsylvania grass courts title at Merion last summer in a marathon in which the Peruvian had several match points. Since then he has been getting lumps from all sides.

He lost both his Davis Cup singles matches in Australia and failed to produce a single important triumph in any of the Australian tournaments.

For the second straight evening he had to come from behind Friday night to win his match in the National Indoor championships at the 7th Regiment Armory. After a shaky start, he collected himself to beat Birger Folke, little known Swede 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.

This put the big, hard-hitting Ohio youth in the quarterfinals against Egypt's Jaroslav Drobný, top-seeded foreigner, and he must improve to stay around. Drobný easily beat Tony Vincent of New York 6-3, 6-1.

In other quarter-final matches, top-seeded Dick Savitt of New York plays Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., Olmedo meets Hugh Stewart of Pasadena, Calif., and junior Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, opposes Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Entomologist E.L. Chambers surveyed damage done by European corn borers and found that blackbirds did more damage than the borers.

In some fields the birds and borers combined to do damage. Chambers said the blackbirds often clustered in such large groups they broke off the cornstalks weakened by the borers.

Tight Race Grows Tighter In Home Stretch Of ACC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A girdle-tight race is developing as the Atlantic Coast Conference enters the home stretch of its regular season basketball race. But not for first place. The ruggedest competition is now for fourth place, and five teams are mixed up in it.

Only 1 1/2 games separate the last-place team, South Carolina (2-8) from the two clubs now tied for fourth place—Wake Forest and Maryland (4-7). The standings could be juggled radically by tonight's games, and again next week before the regular season ends.

However, not every team in the last five has a chance to win fourth place—and No. 4 seeding in the conference championship.

The loss, however, did not knock fast-rising Virginia out of sixth place. The Cavaliers, long the cellar team, are among the strong bidders for fourth place, and they have three more games to make it with. They're 3-8 in the ACC, 7-13 overall.

Clemson (3-9) was at South Carolina (2-8) in an afternoon, regionally televised game today. Tonight, North Carolina (11-0), No. 1 in the conference and the nation, is at Maryland; Virginia is at Wake Forest; and N.C. State, 12-2 in the ACC and 18-3 overall, is host to Villanova.

Gonzales scored a 6-2, 6-3 triumph over Cooper. Hoad mastered Anderson 6-2, 6-5.

Records To Fall In Garden Tonite

NEW YORK (AP)—The National AAU indoor track and field championships are on tap in Madison Square Garden tonight and a whole slew of world records could be surpassed by the star-studded international field.

The most likely standard to fall would have been considered impossible a year ago. That's the high jump and 17-year-old John Thomas of Boston University will be out to erase his own 2-week-old mark of 7 feet.

He predicts he will soar 7-1/4, a height which would shatter all high jump records, both indoors and outdoors. Russia's Yuri (Elevator Shoe) Stepanov holds the outdoor record of 7-1.

There also is a good chance the mile standard will be surpassed. Ron Delany, Ireland's Olympic 1,500-meter champion, goes after his 29th straight indoor mile victory and it could be that he'll have to lower his own 4:03.4 mark to

He has a rough, tough field against him. Istvan Rozsavolgyi of Hungary, who spent most of last season chasing Delany, says he'll ignore the Irishman this time and concentrate on hitting the tape in 4:03. He will be aided and abetted by the likes of Laszlo Tabori, a Hungarian refugee, Phil Coleman of Chicago, Jim Grelle of Oregon and Pete Close of St. John's University.

Then there is the pole vault in which Don Bragg has been going up and up and up and up and up. His current indoor record is 15-9/16, and he has come close to 16 feet a couple of times.

Play For Junior College Crown

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Fredericks of Portsmouth, Va., and Wilmington Junior College meet here tonight at 9 p.m. for the championship of the North Carolina Virginia Junior College basketball tournament.

Louisburg and Campbell meet in the consolation game at 7 p.m. Fredericks dumped Campbell 54-48 Friday night in overtime. Jim Wiles had 23 points to lead Campbell. Joe Jeffers' 20 was tops for the winners.

Wilmington toppled Louisburg 91-78, headed by Jerry Fritz' 19 points. Eddie Mizell had 23 for Louisburg.

Admiral Avers We'd Whip'em

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — If Russia ever launched an attack on the United States, says Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, "we'd clobber the hell out of them."

Russia would be very fortunate to get close enough to this country to fire missiles at major American cities, the chief of naval operations said here Friday.

Burke was guest speaker at a meeting of the Greater Charleston Chamber of Commerce.

"It is not saber-rattling to say the Soviets know the United States has the ability right now to destroy the Soviet Union," he said.

At a press conference earlier, Burke said the United States would not fire the first shot in the Berlin crisis. "If we shoot it will be after they shoot," he said.

Burke said the Berlin issue could lead to war. "If they (Russians) want to blackmail us into war it might as well be now as later," he declared.

He stressed the need for the United States to keep up its building program of defense.

But he emphasized the Soviet threat. "We must recognize at the outset that the Soviets have no intention of gaining their objectives solely by the use of military force."

Burke said the Russians may have more ships than the United States. "But we have the largest navy," he said, "because so many of their ships are small ones."

He said that about 100 of the ships now in use will be obsolete by the end of this year.

And by 1960, 500 of them will be obsolete," he added.

Burke spent today visiting various military installations in the Charleston area.

District Science Fair Scheduled For April 3

The Northeastern District Science Fair for junior and senior high school students will take place at East Carolina College Friday, April 3, according to an announcement by Dr. Grover W. Everett, professor of chemistry at the college here and director of the district event. Plans are now being made at East Carolina and in high schools in the area.

The fair at East Carolina College is one of eight similar events which will be staged in North Carolina colleges and universities during April. Sponsored by the North Carolina Academy of Science, the fairs have the purpose of discovering and encouraging boys and girls who are interested in the various fields of science.

Schools in 23 counties of the state from the Virginia border southward through Carteret County and from the coastal counties eastward through Wilson County are expected to hold preliminary local fairs and to send winners to East Carolina as competitors in the district fair.

Participating students will enter projects in the Junior Division of the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades or in the Senior Division of the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades. Work in both biological and the physical sciences will be judged. Winners in the Senior Division of the Northeastern District Science Fair will be eligible to compete in the State Science Fair at the University of North Carolina April 17-18.

Last year approximately 130 projects were on exhibition at East Carolina College, when the district fair was staged, Dr. Everett stated. This year, he said, it is anticipated that about 200 projects will be on display. Two students from the Northeastern District were award winners in last year's State Science Fair, he said, and a number of other winners were invited to display their projects at the annual State Agricultural Fair.

Preview Of Tomorrow's Soldier Hinted By Army

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — Profile of the soldier of the future: He wears headgear much like a football helmet. His special clothing protects him from any form of enemy attack. He casually climbs obstacles and crosses ditches with the aid of a rocket belt strapped on his back.

He moves almost effortlessly with the help of zero ground pressure "ereeping boots." And he carries a light, all-purpose super-gun with 150 rounds of ammunition.

This isn't the product of a science fiction writer. It comes from the Army's chief of combat development.

And these things will begin to take shape about 1970. Maj. Gen. Harry W. Johnson told a closed-door meeting of Army and civilian workers at the Army chemical center here Friday.

Most of what he said is classified, but the Army did disclose a few things.

The space-age soldier probably will travel in an airjeep, a saucer-like vehicle which can move in any direction or hover motionless in one place, Gen. Johnson said.

When he has time, he will eat a tasty meal of irradiated food which he will carry in a small flat pack similar to today's frozen food.

He will carry a tiny radio with an effective range of well over 1,000 yards. The radio will be contained in a helmet which will protect him against chemical, biological and radiological attack.

A small pencil-shaped detonator which can quickly blast foxholes will be stranded equipment.

VICE PRESIDENT

Dr. J. D. Messick, president of East Carolina College, has been elected vice president of the Southern Heritage Life Insurance Company. Annual meeting of directors and stockholders was held in Hendersonville early this week. Southern Heritage has headquarters in Charlotte and is a rapidly expanding insurance organization in the South. Among its directors are many leaders in North Carolina's commercial, industrial, and governmental affairs.

Warren Resigns From Bar Group

CHICAGO (AP) — The board of governors of the American Bar Assn. Friday night accepted the resignation of Chief Justice Earl Warren from the group.

Warren, 67, the 14th chief justice of the United States, had been a member of the ABA for 28 years.

In a brief statement, Ross L. Malone of Roswell, N.M., association president, said:

"The resignation of Chief Justice Earl Warren as a member of the American Bar Assn. was accepted today by the board of governors of the association."

"The termination of membership was in no way related to dues. The chief justice has assured me that he will cooperate with the association as he has done in the past."

Malone did not elaborate.

The reference to dues in the statement apparently was in answer to earlier reports that the ABA had dropped Warren from its rolls for nonpayment of dues.

In Washington, an aide to Warren said there would be no comment from Warren.

Although Warren said he resigned from the bar group in 1957, an ABA spokesman said a letter of resignation was not received from the chief justice.

QUALIFIES

Correction

The text beneath a photograph carried in yesterday's Daily Reflector, concerning test borings made at Pitt Memorial Hospital, was incorrect. The corrected information is as follows:

Test borings which have been made at the Hospital during the past two days have been to determine the type and depth of foundation to be used in the construction of a million-and-a-half dollar addition. Construction, which is expected to begin in July, will be completed in 15 to 16 months.

Late Flurry For Reservations To C-of-C Dinner

Greenville Chamber of Commerce officials Saturday reported a flurry of last-minute reservations for the annual dinner to be held Tuesday evening in New South Cafeteria at East Carolina College.

W. Thomas Rice, president of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, Richmond, Va., principal speaker for this annual event, is expected to arrive in Greenville late Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by several members of his staff and railroad officials.

Immediate Past President John T. Barnhill of the Chamber of Commerce will preside at the dinner and, following Rice's address, will install his successor, J. H. Moye, and newly elected directors.

A few additional reservations will be accepted Monday Manager Willard T. Kyzer said Saturday noon.

Majorettes, Musical Groups Are In State Contest

TO PERFORM—These eight majorettes—Jane Blue, Ruth Jordan, Alice Mae Cannon, Judy Tucker, Lib Rogers (chief), Nancy Berryman, Jolinda Brewer, and Frances Cozart—traveled to the State Solo and Ensemble Contest today.

By CATHERINE MOORE
Teenage Writer

Eight majorettes and two musical groups are participating today in the State Solo and Ensemble Contest at Duke University, Durham. Each solo will receive from a panel of judges a grade of 1-5.

The entire majorette squad is vying for honors as a unit at the contest. Two duets and one soloist are also represented in the squad.

Lib Rogers, chief, Jane Blue, Judy Tucker, Alice Mae Cannon, Frances Cozart, Jolinda Brewer, Ruth Jordan, and Nancy Berryman are performing in the group number. Lib is twirling through a solo, while Jane and Frances, and Judy and Alice are performing duets.

Representing the band, Clark Brewer, Jan Crawford, Sara Smiley, and Jim Winstead will appear in a clarinet quartet. They are playing "Feugueses" (Carl Frankliser).

George Patrick and Steve Humbert, trumpeters; Jackson Williams and Marvin Buck, French Hornists; Billy Godwin, trombonist; Larry Barnes, baritone; and Hilton Benton, saxophonist, are performing in the brass ensemble.

James E. Rodgers, band director, is accompanying the participants.

Model Clothes

The Future Homemakers of America sponsored a fashion show Wednesday during homeroom. Their clothes were furnished by a Greenville firm.

Betsy Bryant, Jean Trahey, Carol Jean Barlowe, Lib Sutton, Lois Tunnell, Carol McGowan, and Donna Cain modeled girls' school clothes. Jack Barnhill, Reggie Johnson, J. B. Surles, Billy Goodwin, Scott Smiley, and Mike Norris wore boys' school attire.

Rhett Honeycutt, Charles Ross, and Julie Dodson, appeared in clothing suitable for summer school wear; Franklin Steinbeck and Linda Harris, in formal party wear; and Merrill Bynum and Hulda Johnson, in party clothes.

Completing the show, Jasper Jones and Joanne Smith wore beach attire. Bill Clapp and Sue Allen, sports fashions; Myrtle Moon Bilbro and Tommy Mallison, church clothes; and Gene Davenport and Steve Noble, dressy fashions.

Hup, Two, Three, Four!

Friday during homeroom surprised students and teachers looked up from their work to see eight majorettes marching past their doors in perfect time, with Lib Rogers, chief, calling commands. They stopped at various doors, not to perform, but to allow various ones to enter their homerooms as the chief gave the proper commands.

Were they crazy, giving free entertainment, showing off, or just plumb off their rockers? Nope — they were only returning from their practice for tomorrow's contest and utilizing every possible moment! After all, they didn't seem to be the only persons enjoying the exhibitions of their skills!

Graham Crusade Is Gaining Pace

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Billy Graham's Australian crusade is gaining pace.

The American evangelist is preaching only 35 minutes a night instead of his usual hour-long sermons, under doctor's instructions, but the crowds are so large hundreds are turned away nightly.

Some 70,000 persons have attended his meetings. Hundreds of thousands of others have heard and watched him on radio and television.

The theme of his sermons here is that there won't be peace in the world until man obeys the laws of God.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS . . . for candy from the Scales' kitchen.

TENT FOR SAIEED TWINS . . . just one of their inventions for indoor amusement

When The Weather Keeps 'em In

By ROSALIE MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Rainy days and bad weather can be a problem for mothers—especially those who have small children.

When their children are left to entertain themselves, quarrels and fights can break out. On the other hand, there are times when mothers are swamped with demands for company and requests for something to do.

There are many varied activities which will keep small ones busy while mothers go about their other duties as homemakers. Most children can amuse themselves by watching television, playing with dolls, having tea parties, coloring, cutting pictures out of magazines, and dancing.

Every mother has her own special way of keeping her children happy when they are forced indoors. Some read to the children, others help cut out paper dolls, and still others join in games such as hide-and-seek.

There are other ways, too.

Mrs. Badger Clark, mother of three, lets her children eat. "My children like to eat all day when it rains," she says. "They prefer dry cereals and fruits."

Another mother, Mrs. Craven Hughes, prepares for rainy days with fair-weather hikes during which the children collect leaves and plants.

"After collecting the leaves and plants, they place them under a rug to be pressed. On rainy days, we make dried arrangements for the house."

Mrs. Hughes doesn't shoo her small fry out of the kitchen when they offer to help, although they sometimes slow down procedures. She believes that if their first efforts in making dough strips are encouraged, they will gradually become skillful enough to save her time and effort.

Mrs. Clarke Stokes amuses her young daughter by cutting out paper dolls, which the child makes a part of her games.

"Clay enjoys putting the dolls under the edge of the rug, where she says she can keep them warm," Mrs. Stokes says.

Children who are near the same age can find enjoyment playing together. Lynn and Sandy Bullock, ages three and four, spend much of their rainy weather time at their blackboard or piano.

Tea parties and playing with forgotten toys help Sylvia and Stephen Saleed pass the time on rainy days.

"The twins are always inventing new games by seeing some of their old toys," according to their mother, Mrs. Dan Saleed. She added that the new games keep the three-year-olds happy for considerable lengths of time before replacement games are invented.

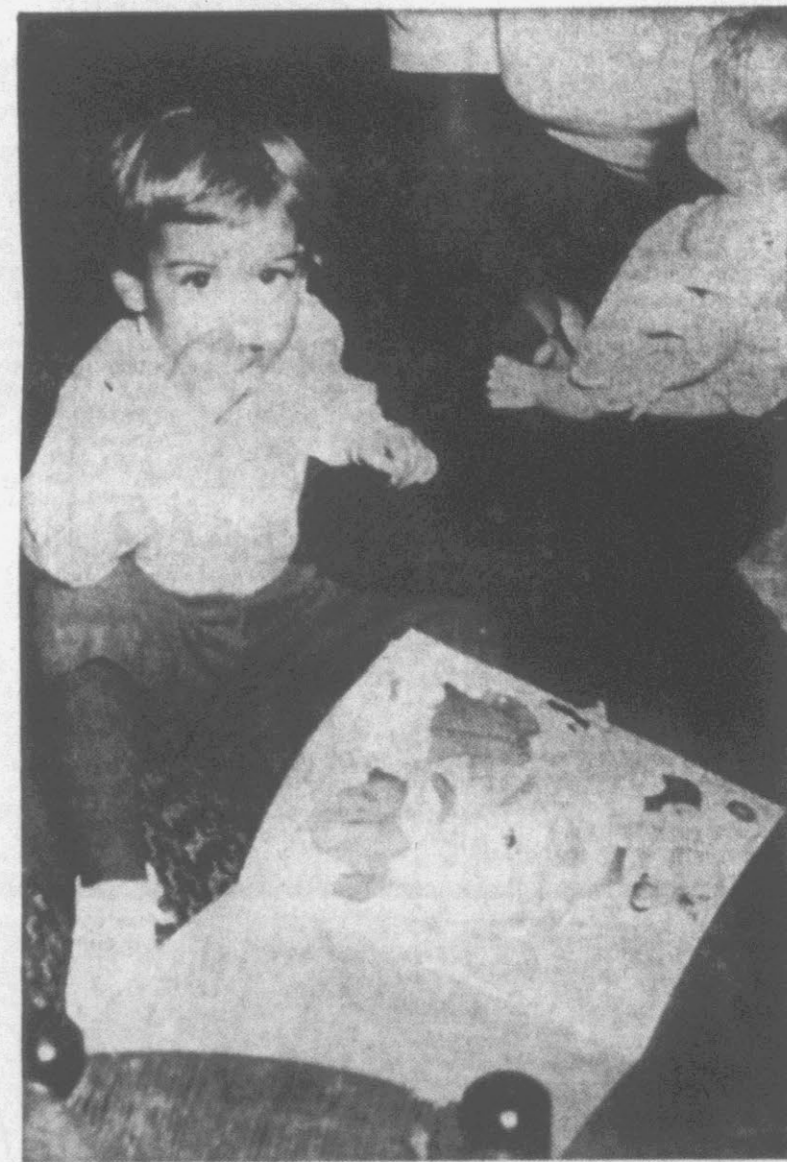

Children in the W. M. Scales Jr. family help themselves on rainy days by proving that every member of the group can be a cook.

"They occasionally have command of the kitchen for an afternoon, to make their favorite sweets, brownies, candy and butter-scotch cookies.

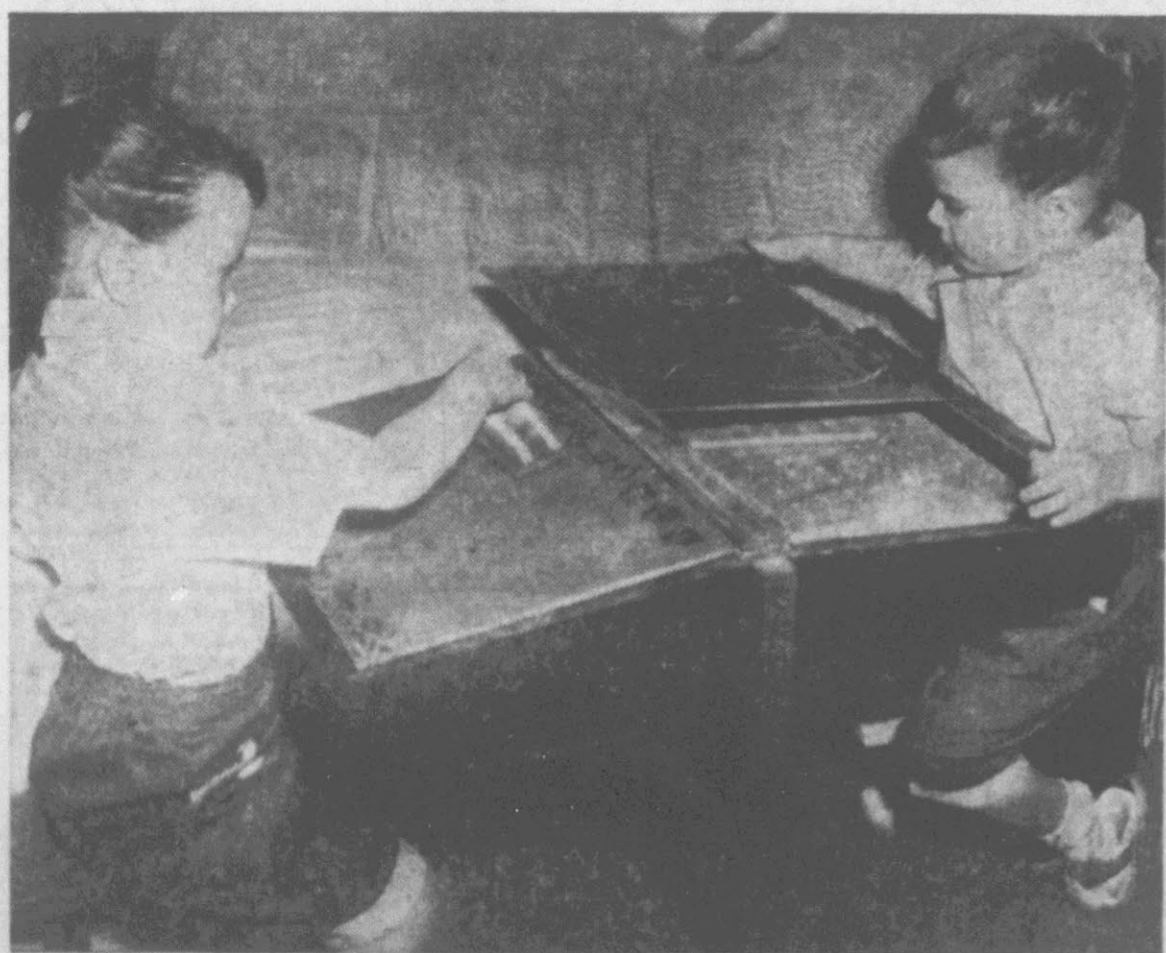

With assistance from mother, Margaret combines the mixture while Ginger oversees. Wadie, three-year-old and youngest member of the family, helps by licking spoons.

ROCK AND ROLL DANCING . . . a favorite of the Clark youngsters.

PAPER DOLLS . . . are among the many things that Clay Stokes enjoys on a rainy day.

BLACKBOARD DRAWING . . . amusement for Sandy and Lynn Bullock.

James B. Conant's report on conditions in our high schools is finally out. Called "The American High School Today," a First Report to Interested Citizens, it's a brief, preliminary listing of Conant's recommendations based on a two year study of high schools in 26 states. His survey was financed by the Carnegie Corporation and is still going on. Highlights of this first report:

"The major conclusion from this whole study can be summed up in the following words: in all but a few of the schools I have visited the majority of bright boys and girls were not working hard enough." Harvey's ex-president also concludes that high schools with graduating classes of less than 100 students are inefficient. Only 4,000 out of 21,000 schools are "big enough" — the rest of them, which are attended by almost a third of all high school students — including a lot right here in N. C. — cannot offer adequate education because they lack the variety of courses, the facilities, and the faculties. . . . The answer? One word, and a bad one in some areas: Consolidation. . . . Mr. Conant also recommends a basic "solid" curriculum for all students, no matter what they intend to do after graduation and regardless of their abilities. The top 15 to 20% should have a carefully selected schedule of courses to prepare them for college — 4 years of math, 4 of one foreign language, 3 of science, plus the basic "solid" courses in English and social studies. . . .

Danforth Lecturer
E.C.C.'s Danforth Committee, headed up by Dr. George Douglas, has brought a group of unusually stimulating people to the campus this year. . . . Peter Viereck, Pulitzer Prize winning poet, certainly was unusual and stimulating, striding around this week with his shawl flying and his slippers scuffing. We knew him back in college, and he hasn't changed much except for his somewhat scruffy beard. His night lectures and class appearances were bright and peppy, and he gave students and faculty alike a lot to think about. We think the Danforth Committee deserves a strong vote of thanks for bringing him here. . . .

American Heritage
Last Monday the February issue of "American Heritage" came out, and it was full, as always, with well written articles about current and past history and illustrated in its usual laudable style. . . . A few we liked best: "The Marine Tradition," by Bruce Catton, who traces the history of the Corps from its beginning in the Revolution down through the War of 1812, the Mexican War, and through to the present — written with Mr. Catton's customary style and verve. . . . "The Stanleys and Their Steamer," about the fabulous Stanley Steamer — that some of you might remember — a car that came out in the early 20's propelled by steam. It could speed along at 200 m.p.h. and used no gas — can you beat it today? . . . "The Honest Man," by Peter Lyon, is about one of America's most amazing men, Peter Cooper, who was rich, famous and also generous — he made glue, manufactured the first successful locomotive, earned millions, but stayed honest and founded Cooper Union, a school for the education of the "worthy poor" that is still flourishing after 100 years. . . . "Pioneers in Petticoats," by Helena Smith, is about the life women led in the early days of the American frontier — where, according to this article, they didn't have things so bad after all. . . . We could tell you more, but there isn't space. But's a good issue. . . .

Today's Review

A perceptive and knowing newcomer in E.C.C.'s English Dept. comments on a new book about prep school life. . . . IF THE CAP FITS. By Humphrey Fry, New York: John Day Company, 1959.
A light, episodic novel by the headmaster of a private preparatory school in New York about a private preparatory school in New York, IF THE CAP FITS gets its comic effects by a mixture of slapstick and wit. Its purpose, if any, is to plead the legitimacy and even the special worth of the non-conformist on the faculty of an educational institution. It concludes, on a level of seriousness somewhat above that of the rest of the book, with a cogent, eloquent, and moving attack on "officialdom" and an equally persuasive defense of nonconformity. The novel provides a pleasant couple of hours of reading, not the least of which pleasure, for some, will come from being reminded that in certain circles a command of Latin and French is still among the hallmarks of an educated man.

Attlee Foresees Wait Of Several Years Victory In Peace For Nuclear Engine Use

By EDWIN A. HAANKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nuclear powered engines apparently will not replace chemical thrust for missiles for several years, a space expert says.
Dr. Hugh Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told Congress Friday the Atomic Energy Commission believes it will be 5 to 10 years before nuclear rockets in the first stages because of the present dangers of radiation.
Future nuclear thrust, he said, probably will be needed chiefly for very large payloads and "most distant goals."
His predictions came after some senators questioned the wisdom of spending hundreds of millions or billions of dollars developing and expanding chemical fuel space engines if nuclear power may be available within a few years.
D. D. Wyatt, assistant to the director of NASA's Office of Space Flight Development, stressed in his testimony the importance of space guidance.
He said that without perfect guidance, the future spaceman may get lost in outer space and just float around.
Wyatt said NASA now has plans for a permanent space laboratory and flights to the moon and other planets and back. These will follow the first man in space flight for which definite designs and contracts have been let, he said.
His conception of a permanent space laboratory resembled a huge submarine or sausage-shaped vehicle carrying a crew of several persons and much equipment.
NASA officials concluded two days of public testimony before a Senate subcommittee with a secret session. They seek approval for spending an additional $48,354,000 on civilian space efforts before July 1 and $485,300,000 in the following 12 months.

Even Dogs Have 'Traffic Sense'

VIENNA (AP) — Most of Vienna's dogs are "traffic-minded" and know their way when crossing a street, a local investigation revealed.
The survey, conducted by Dr. Ferdinand Brunner of Vienna's Veterinary College, showed that only 14 per cent of the dogs walking the streets unleashed proved to have poor traffic sense.
The rest were able to cross the busier intersections by careful listening to a noisy approaching noise, the expert says.

Even Dogs Have 'Traffic Sense'

VIENNA (AP) — Most of Vienna's dogs are "traffic-minded" and know their way when crossing a street, a local investigation revealed.
The survey, conducted by Dr. Ferdinand Brunner of Vienna's Veterinary College, showed that only 14 per cent of the dogs walking the streets unleashed proved to have poor traffic sense.
The rest were able to cross the busier intersections by careful listening to a noisy approaching noise, the expert says.

Attempting 232 Sleepless Hours

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Disc jockey Ray Bridges, 24, held court in a downtown store window here today in the waning stages of his effort to spin records 232 hours without sleep.
He said he passed his 214th hour without even a catnap at midnight Friday and hopes to keep going until 4 p.m. today.
Bridges is conducting the wakeathon for radio station KID and the Heart Fund.

Drop Interracial Marriage Bars

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The Legislature has repealed the state's ban on interracial marriages. The measure has gone to Gov. Robert E. Smylie for his signature.
An old law which prohibited marriages of whites with mongolians, Negroes or mulattoes.

St. Raphael Menu

NOTHING WILL HAPPEN TO HIM.

YOU OWE US A MILLION, GARR. I WANT IT IN A MONTH. "BORROW" FROM THE ESTATE - OR WE'LL SEE TO IT THAT YOU INHERIT IT!

I BORROWED MONEY FROM CONLEY'S ESTATE TO GAMBLE - INTENDING TO MAKE IT UP. I CAN'T ADMIT THAT.

I CAN'T ASK FOR POLICE PROTECTION OR THEY'LL EXPOSE ME -

CONLEY - ARE YOU ALL RIGHT?
YES, COUSIN-GEE - IT'S FUNNY CALLING YOU COUSIN. YOU'RE SO OLD

I WAS YOUR GRANDFATHER'S COUSIN. PACK HIS THINGS - WE'RE GOING ON A TRIP.
WHERE?

FAR AWAY - OVER THE OCEAN - I'VE GOT TO GET HIM FAR AWAY FROM THOSE THUGS UNTIL I FIGURE THIS OUT.

TRYING TO RUN OUT ON US! IS HE KIDDING?

OUR WIVES ARE GOING TO BE ROARING MAD AT US

I DIDN'T REALIZE WE WERE GETTING HOME SO LATE

DAGWOOD... CORA'S NOT HOME - SHE'S LEFT ME

BLONDIE'S GONE, TOO

OUR DEAR WIVES HAVE LEFT US - WE'RE JUST DERELICTS

OUR HAPPY HOMES ARE NO MORE! LIFE IS MEANINGLESS NOW

WAIT! I THINK IF WE PROMISE THEM TO MEND OUR WAYS, WE CAN GET THEM TO RETURN

GOOD IDEA - WE'LL MAKE THEM A LIST OF PROMISES AND PUT IT IN WRITING

WE'LL PROMISE NEVER TO STAY OUT LATE AGAIN AND TO ALWAYS OBEY

AND WRITE DOWN THAT WE'LL PROMISE TO HANG UP OUR CLOTHES AND HELP WITH THE DISHES

WE'LL PROMISE TO SHAVE EVERY MORNING AND BUY THEM NEW WRIST WATCHES

AND WE'LL BUY THEM NEW HATS AND COATS AND GLOVES AND SHOES

I THINK WE OVERDID IT - WE'LL NEVER BE ABLE TO LIVE UP TO ALL THESE PROMISES

YEH, IT WOULD PRACTICALLY MAKE SLAVES OF US FOR THE REST OF OUR LIVES

WE'D BETTER THROW THIS LIST AWAY AND TRY SOMETHING NEW

THERE'S SOMEONE COMING IN - IT'S OUR WIVES!

WE'RE AWFULLY SORRY, BUT WE DIDN'T KNOW THE MOVIE WOULD LAST SO LATE

THEY DIDN'T LEAVE US FOR GOOD - THEY JUST WENT TO THE MOVIES

SHAME ON YOU - STAYING OUT SO LATE!

WE'RE SORRY

WHAT'S THIS LIST?

IT'S A BIG LIST OF PROMISES THEY MADE TO US

LOOK - THEY PROMISE US NEW COATS AND WATCHES AND EVERYTHING

WE'RE DEAD

HAVEN'T WE GOT WONDERFUL HUSBANDS, CORA?

THEY'RE PERFECT JEWELS

WAIT! I'LL GET YOU OUTSIDE BUMSTEAD

Wreck Caused By Infant Son

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Mark Busch, only 19 months old, playfully threw a blanket over his mother's head as she was driving on the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge approach.

Temporarily blinded, Mrs. Poulaine Busch swerved the car to the right — and tore loose eight large fence posts. She, Mark and Lorie, just 6 months, all escaped without injury.

THE 8TH CIRCLE A MASTER MYSTERY BY STANLEY ELLIN

CHAPTER 24 "First," said Ralph Harlingen, addressing the assembled group. "I'd like to establish the identity of one Charles Pirozy, whose name is in these records I hold here. But because the records are confidential, I will waive showing them publicly and ask Mr. Wykoff to identify the party in question. Would you do that, Mr. Wykoff?"

First Presbyterian Announcements

Sunday, February 22, marks the beginning of the Week of Prayer and Self-Denial for World Missions at the First Presbyterian Church.

THE CLEAN SWEPT wing design of the supersonic Air National Guard jet fighters in the lower picture is a sharp contrast to the "high performance" airplanes of the 1930's. Propeller driven observation planes like the New York National Guard O-38s above were used by Guard units until shortly before World War II.

"I'm afraid it's in the bottom of this bag," he said blandly, "but I'm sure we'll find it when we get everything else cleared up."

Wykoff looked at the tape recorder. There was a faint humming, and then Eddie Schrade's voice emerged loud and panicky.

"George," he said, "you got to be reasonable. You hear me, George? This is Eddie Schrade, and you got to listen. It was Pirozy and Ira worked that swindle on you. I swear it was. I didn't want any part of it. I even said to Ira—"

"Shut that off!" It was Ira Miller, now without the aplomb. He was on his feet shouting, his face twisted with fury. "Where do you come off to try a trick like this? Who do you think you are?"

And it was George Wykoff who restored order with a small gesture. He snapped his fingers as one would bring a dog to attention. "Shut up, you," he said.

"But, George, do you mean you'd listen to that? It's not even Eddie! I know Eddie's voice, and I tell you—"

"I said to shut up. It's Eddie, and he's talking to me. Me personally, y'understand? Shut up so I can hear what he says."

"It worked like this, George," said Eddie Schrade's voice out of the silence that followed: "Pirozy said Ira stood in good with you, so they could make it look like a losing book and get away with a lot of dough. Especially if Pirozy covered up for Ira. So they did it. They made it look like a lot of bets had to be paid off all the time, and they also fixed it so it looked like the cops were getting a lot of ice they weren't really getting. Then Pirozy really got his hooks in Ira, because Ira dropped such a pile on an investment in a Broadway show—"

Harlingen switched the recorder off. "The show referred to," he said to LoScalzo, "was a play called 'Time Out of Hand, which had a run of four performances three years ago. Here is a copy of the Wall Street Journal showing the incorporation of the play company, and the amount invested by Ira Miller, the largest shareholder. It amounted to $25,000 all of which he lost. He was then in serious financial difficulties."

He turned on the machine again. "He would do anything to make it back. So they took you for more and more, George, but I never got a dime from it. I swear, not a dime. Not even chicken feed. You got to believe that, George. You know I'm a small-timer. What would I have to do with such big money?"

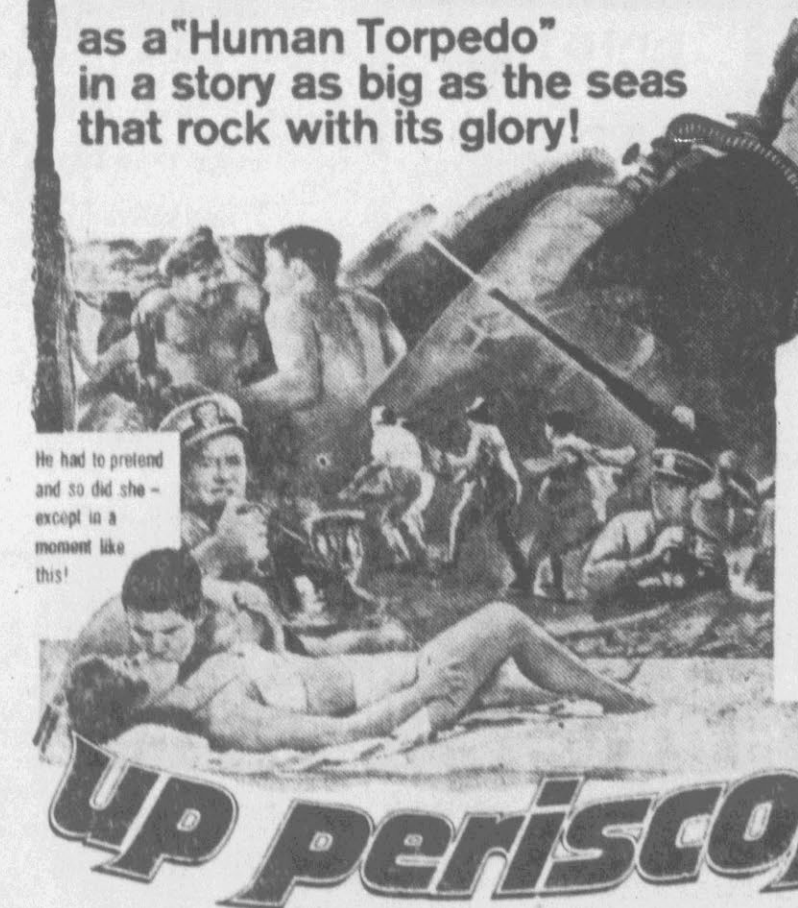

"And then when Ira got scared and wanted to back out, Pirozy wouldn't let him. He said he would tell you about it, and you would kill Ira, but that he would get off because he knew how to get around you. He would say to Ira, 'I need a hundred' or 'I need a couple of hundred,' it didn't matter how much, and Ira always had to shell out, and then make it look like a pay-off to the cops."

Murray Kirk's voice cut in. "How about Lundeen?" his voice asked. "What happened to him that day, Eddie?"
