Voice Of America Spokesman Confirms $26 Millions Allotted Pitt Facilities

Generally Cheerful Prospects

Folks along the New Bern Highway seem to think the coming of a giant Voice of America transmitter to Shelmerdine will boost their area economically. But the great number of acres of land required for the transmitter site cause property owners to view the project with reservations.

Voice of America broadcast facilities slated for Pitt County are expected to involve a total outlay of some $26 million dollars over a three-year period.

The higher figure was confirmed today by a spokesman for the public information office of the United States Information Agency in Washington which operates the Voice of America. Initial announcement of the new location for the facility made Saturday pegged the cost at "upwards of $5,000,000."

"It is going to be a tremendously powerful transmitter set-up," the spokesman in Washington told The Daily Reflector this morning. "It will have about 4,800,000 watt total transmitter power."

The present Voice of America transmitter facilities in New Jersey and New York have a total power of about 725,000 watts.

My way of comparison, federal regulations for commercial broadcasting stations limit power to 50,000 watts maximum.

"When they (the dual facilities in Pitt County) are completed, then we will give up the installation we have in New York and New Jersey," the spokesman said, "but we will still keep transmitting facilities we have at Bethany, Ohio and on the West Coast."

"Your installation down there will be part of this set-up we have in the United States. When it is completed, this facility will have to carry a good part of the load of this story of America which the Voice puts out."

The two transmitter sites will be located in the Pactolus and Shelmerdine areas and will require approximately 2,600 acres of land at each site. The receiving station site to be located about two miles west of Greenville will require approximately 300 acres of land, the spokesman said.

"Just exactly where these sites are going to be located, we can't tell at this time," the spokesman said. He added, however, that the sites would be in the immediate areas of the communities selected.

Asked when work on the project will begin and when it is expected to be completed, the spokesman said, "as soon as possible. They'll try to expedite it as much as possible, but this is a real engineering job."

Of the $26 million earmarked for the Pitt County projects, $10 million was appropriated by Congress during its last session, and the spokesman said the other $16 million would have to come from new appropriations.

"We don't anticipate any trouble getting the appropriations," he said. "I think everybody recognizes the tremendous importance of bringing our Voice of America facilities up."

When work on the two Pitt County sites are completed, they will become the only broadcasting sites for the Voice of America on the East Coast. The VOA, which bears American broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain and throughout the world, at present is making its transmissions in 37 foreign languages.

The VOA at present has some of the world's biggest transmitters of one million watts each. The spokesman added he could not say whether the Pitt County facilities would become the most powerful in the world when they are completed.

Congressman Herbert Bonner, who Saturday announced the location of the facilities in Pitt, told The Reflector from his Washington office this morning that he had received a number of calls from North Carolina since the initial announcement was made.

"There is nothing more I can say than I have already told you," Congressman Bonner said. "I knew these people were interested in a new location. I had talked with them and asked them to examine thoroughly the area of Eastern North Carolina, which they did. They searched the area and they did their work. These two locations met the criteria better than anything else they had, and that's the reason they were selected.

"They said the selection of these sites was final," Congressman Bonner added.

The Associated Press said Voice of America studios in Washington would continue to originate programs to be beamed overseas. Instead of being broadcast from the four VOA stations in New York and New Jersey, the programs would be sent by land to Pitt County for broadcast. It also said plans do not call for originating VOA news, commentary, music and similar programs from the Pitt County sites.

Initial announcements of the project said the installations would employ approximately 100 people and have an annual payroll of $800,000 a year.

The USIA spokesman this morning told The Reflector the area "could expect in a highly technical operation like this" people who are well trained for the operations would move into the area. "You'll be getting some new people down there for sure," he added.

In Raleigh, Gov. Hodges said the location of the new VOA facilities in Pitt County "should be a shot in the arm to that area."

"We are very happy over the announcement," the governor declared. "This is one of the high class industries that an area would like to get. We're happy that Eastern North Carolina was chosen entirely on its merit."

Greek Cypriots Wildly Celebrate

NICOSIA (AP) — Greek Cypriots celebrated wildly as the British turned loose more than 900 political prisoners Sunday. Only two incidents marred the jubilation.

The detainees had been held without trial under emergency regulations as suspected members of EOKA, the Greek Cypriot underground which has been waging a terrorist campaign against the British since 1945.

The government announced all detention camps on the island were being closed and emergency regulations lifted. The action had been assured by the agreement last Thursday in London to give Cyprus independence, but the release of the prisoners came quicker than expected.

Hundreds of other Cypriots imprisoned after conviction of violating the emergency regulations were not affected by the first amnesty. But many of them are expected to get reduced terms or release soon.

The barred wire gates of the Mammari and Kokkinotrimithia detention camps swung open shortly after 3 p.m. Sunday. A stream of buses, jammed with detainees and with some riding on the roofs, headed for Nicosia. Greek being closed and emergency regulations lifted.

The detainees banded on the sides of the buses shouting "Long live Makarios" and "Long live EOKA."

Macmillan, Soviet Premier In Talks

MOSCOW (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Khrushchev met for two and a half hours in the Kremlin today and apparently discussed the disarmament deadlock between the West and the Russians.

Only one adviser—disarmament expert Con O'Neill—accompanied Macmillan. Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Ambassador Sir Patrick Reilly to the first formal conference of the British delegation.

The official Soviet news agency in a brief dispatch after the meeting said that Macmillan and Khrushchev had "friendly conversations."

Macmillan and Khrushchev got down to formal Kremlin talks after a get-acquainted weekend in the country.

The British prime minister got second billing in the Moscow press however. The Communist party organ Pravda devoted top space to an editorial lauding the Red army—which marked its 41st anniversary Sunday—and gave only brief mention to the Khrushchev-Macmillan parley.

Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd returned to Moscow Sunday night after a weekend as guests of Premier and Mrs. Khrushchev at the rambling one-story villa 50 miles southeast of Moscow that Joseph Stalin used to use.

A spokesman for the two leaders said they discussed subjects of mutual interest in lengthy informal sessions before and after lunch. "The two great men got on very well together," a British source said.

It was assumed West Berlin's future and the issue of German unity were brought up. A British spokesman said the conversations were relaxed. One lasted 75 minutes, before lunch, the second two hours.

With Khrushchev were Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, a recent visitor to the United States, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Jacob Malik, Soviet ambassador to Britain. The British ambassador to Moscow, Sir Patrick Riley, completed the British party.

Macmillan and his party called first at the Kremlin to see the deputy premier of the Soviet Union, S. R. Rashidov, who also is president of the Uzbek Republic. President Klement Voroshilov has been ill.

After today's formal meeting of the two governments delegations, Macmillan was to lunch at the British Embassy, visit Moscow State University and be host at the embassy tonight at a dinner for the Soviet leaders.

Concerned Over Effect In Pactolus

Many Pactolus-area residents apparently have their doubts about potential advantages to the community from location of a Voice of America transmitting station in their section of Pitt County.

From information gathered from comments and statements expressed this morning in a telephone poll conducted by The Daily Reflector, it is evident that many community residents are concerned about losses of farm land and possible establishment of a primary enemy target site.

Two community leaders, Postmaster C. J. Satterthwaite and Mrs. J. Paul Davenport, Sr., suggested that residents of the area are concerned about both issues. Both said, however, they are reserving their own opinions until they "can find out more about it."

Satterthwaite told The Daily Reflector, "Some folks here are stirred up about it, but I don't see any need to get heated up until we can find out where it's going."

Mrs. Davenport said, "The general community reaction, I believe, is much like mine. They are sitting tight, waiting to see what is going to happen."

A long-time leader in county activities, especially those for women, Mrs. Davenport added, "I do think it is fine to bring industry into this section of the state, but I am reserving my final opinion until I can learn more about it."

Noel Lee, Jr., active in work of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, said this morning that it was his feeling that general reaction of the community is "favorable."

He added, "I'm very happy about it. That's the way I feel, but there are varied statements in the community. Some people are frankly opposed."

"As I see it, location of the transmitter will, of course, depend on whether or not any valuable farm land will be taken. A neighbor told me Saturday night that some federal men have been in the area recently, but none of us know where the exact site will be."

Announcement of location of the transmitting station in the Pactolus area said about ten property owners would be affected in negotiations for the site. An estimated 2,600 acres of land will be needed.

Persons who would not be quoted directly said they "understood" the station site would be in wooded areas of the general community territory. No confirmation of such reports has been made by VOA officials, however.

Establishment of a primary enemy target area is also apparently affecting some opinions of the decision to locate the transmitting station near Pactolus. At the present time, none of Pitt County is classified by Civil Defense officials as a potential target area although the county is near major targets such as Cherry Point, Camp Lejeune, Seymour Johnson Air Force Base and U.S. Navy facilities at Harvey Point and Hampton Roads.

PT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — The condition of Gen. George C. Marshall was reported today. His physician reported further complications in the general's battle with a stroke. His condition is serious.

In a medical report on the 78-year-old general, Col. George M. Powell, Army physician, said: "He shows an indication of an involvement of the pituitary gland as evidenced by a definite increase in water output by way of the kidneys. This involvement has complicated his treatment."

Dr. Powell explained that the complication of treatment concerned the feeding of Gen. Marshall, which heretofore has been through a plastic tube into his stomach. "The general's second stroke was accompanied by mild pneumonia, now under control."

Blue Chip Game

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has enough strength to resist force in Berlin if the nation is willing to mobilize in time, the Army chief of staff has told Congress.

"Mobilize the entire nation?" Gen Maxwell D. Taylor was asked.

"Yes," replied Taylor. "You cannot play around in this business unless you have a lot of blue chips in your pocket. This is unlimited poker."

Taylor's testimony to the Senate Disarmament subcommittee at a hearing Feb. 2 was made public over the weekend.

Governor Opposes A Change

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Hodges said today the state should retain its constitutional provision for a "general and uniform system of public schools."

In another comment on a revised Constitution proposed by a special study commission, Hodges said he did not think it "sacred" that North Carolina should restrict its governor to one term and refuse him the veto power.

Hodges quickly added, however, "Under no condition would I be interested in succeeding myself as governor" if the Constitution was amended to permit a second successive term.

Hodges said at his weekly news conference he would reserve comment on the rest of the Constitutional Commission's recommendations until he addresses the General Assembly in about two weeks.

In a statement, the governor said, "In my opinion we should definitely retain the present constitutional provision for a 'general and uniform system of public schools' subject only to our present constitutional provision for local option."

The Constitutional Commission, in its report released last Monday, asked that the phrase "a general and uniform system of public schools" be deleted in view of recent federal court school integration decisions around the South.

Hodges said he agreed with Supt. of Public Instruction Dr. Charles F. Carroll who was apprehensive of the deletion lest it affect the public's attitude toward the school system.

Hodges said he expressed "strong reservation" about deleting the phrase when the commission brought it to his attention last month.

The governor said he had no criticism of the commission for suggesting the deletion. He said it had merit from a legal point of view "but I have to look at it from a policy point of view."

"We can always have it changed at another special session if it is necessary," he added.

Discussing the Constitution as it applies to the state's executive department setup, Hodges said, "I don't think it's sacred that North Carolina should restrict its governor to one term and keep him from having the veto power."

He said he thought it necessary that a man be allowed to spend six or eight years as governor. "He could do that much better job," Hodges explained.

He called the 22nd Amendment to the Federal Constitution a "fool amendment." It restricts the president from serving more than two terms.

"It was done by a bunch of bitter Republicans against Franklin Delano Roosevelt," said Hodges. On other matters the governor said he wanted a minimum wage bill to get through the General Assembly and felt that one calling for a 75 cent floor had the better change of two bills introduced in this session.

He indicated he would welcome budget suggestions if they were better than those proposed by him and the Advisory Budget Commission.

When Wells answered the call, he was told the ill youth was in desperate need of a drug called Kanamylin.

Wells placed a long distance telephone call to the Israel Embassy in Washington and told them of the request. Within an hour and a half, Wells said, the embassy called back to say the requested medicine had been placed on a flight to Israel. They asked Wells to contact 4X4FF Mickey again to tell him when the flight would arrive.

Wells was able to relay the message. The local "ham" said 20 capsules of 0.5 grams Kanamylin were requested. The youth's illness was identified as Hepcho-nonder.

Mercy Call Relayed

A local "ham" radio operator intercepted a mercy call from Israel yesterday afternoon and relayed the message to that nation's embassy in Washington.

Special drugs to treat a seriously ill 20-year-old Israeli were soon on the way to the Middle Eastern country by commercial airlines.

The call was heard by Charlie T. Wells, Jr., of Rt. 2, Box 149, Greenville. Wells, whose "ham" designation is K4SKI intercepted a call from 4X4FF Mickey, the Israeli "ham" was asking for any station on the United States east coast to receive emergency traffic.

Garden Club Hears Lecture On Roses

A great interest in rose growing in Greenville was evident on Tuesday when nearly sixty members and guests of the Greenville Garden Club listened to and asked questions of John H. Harris as he spoke on the "Culture of Roses" at the Women's Club. Harris was introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. Tige Gardner. Harris, a specialist in Horticulture of the Extension Service of North Carolina State College, expressed himself as speaking not as a specialist on roses but as one having gained much experience with a rose garden for many years.

In choosing a site for your rose garden, he stated two important things to remember are sun and drainage. Roses need full sunshine and good drainage. In working the soil, "work up the entire bed 6-8 inches deep," said Harris. Work in the organic matter and lime, if needed (soil can be tested beforehand, with a "road killer" if possible). Thorough spading is important because lime and phosphate do not penetrate the soil.

Speaking of mulching, he told the group to "mulch the entire bed" and "the coarser the mulch the better." Pine needles or pine straw are excellent, though other material must be used "fluff it up."

Fertilizing a rose bed should be done about the time roses start growing, using a "complete fertilizer," and should be continued every thirty days until September.

Mrs. Ruffin Is Hostess And Speaker

Mrs. A. C. Ruffin was hostess and afternoon speaker to the Chatham Book Club Tuesday at her home in Brookgreen. Members were invited into the dining room where they were served a sweet course, coffee and nuts from the table centered with spring flowers.

Mrs. Luther Bowling, president, held a short business session after which the hostess gave the program for the afternoon.

Mrs. Ruffin traced the history of New Bern from the time it was a stronghold of the Tuscarora Nation, through the Revolutionary War. She told of the founding of the town by a colony of German and Swiss settlers brought to the New World by three young adventurers headed by a Swiss nobleman, Christoph von Graffenried.

She gave a graphic description of the hardships they encountered in their efforts to gain a foothold in a strange land.

This colony, she noted, was the first to be brought to Carolina since the two ill-fated attempts by the English a hundred and fifty years before.

At the time of Governor Tryon's appearance on the scene, Mrs. Ruffin said that New Bern had gained in population and political importance and, because of its central location, was made the first capital of North Carolina. She gave an account of the building of the Governor's Palace and the subsequent displeasure of the people at being burdened with extra taxes to pay for this edifice.

With the flight of the last Royal Governor, she told how the Palace remained untenanted for a considerable number of years and gradually fell into a sad state of decay, the main building being consumed by flames just before the turn of the 19th century.

During her talk, Mrs. Ruffin read excerpts taken from old letters and colonial records which gave a clearer insight into the thinking and the customs of the times.

Mrs. John Clark was welcomed as a guest.

Club Members Honor Families

The Falkland Home Demonstration Club members honored their families recently at a dinner meeting in the Community Building.

Guest speakers for the evening were Mrs. Sue May, club agent, and Robert King, new agriculture agent for Pitt County. Their topic was "Teamwork in Marriage." It reminded the group of the requirements and duties of both husband and wife in making a more complete and happy home.

Entertainment for the evening consisted of singing and music by the Watson, Garris and Jenkins Trio with Mrs. Brown Mayo at the piano.

Mrs. David Morrill, club president, greeted the members and guests. Charlie Tyre gave the invocation.

It was stated that the dogwood tree, called the "United Nations Tree" in response to a letter from Mrs. Robert Lee Humber, has been planted on the Memorial Library grounds.

Announcement was also made that part of the Arts Festival would be a Flower Show on Tuesday May 5. A letter was read from Mrs. Sally McDowell, daughter of the late Mrs. Dewey Barnes, stating that all her mother's literature on roses will be given to the Greenville Garden Club.

Hostess Gives Club Program
On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. John Collins Jr. was hostess at her home to members of the Ladies Book Club.
A salad plate was served after which the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Hugh Winslow, president. Mrs. Burney Warren, chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented the slate of officers for the coming year: Mrs. Victor Wells, president; Mrs. John Collins, vice-president; Mrs. Holly Van Dyke, secretary; Mrs. Charles Managan, treasurer.
As the program for the afternoon, Mrs. Collins gave a brief summary of facts about Roger Williams, noted concert pianist and master of jazz pianists. A child prodigy from Iowa, Roger played 13 different instruments when he was eight years old. At 12, he was his church's organist. He received his Master's Degree in Music from Drake University, and has studied with Philip Triton in Los Angeles and the Juillard School of Music in New York City. He has been the featured soloist with the New Haven Symphony in the Yale Bowl and the Denver Symphony in the Red Rock Amphitheater.
How popular can a classical pianist be? The answer is "very—" especially if he plays popular music." Roger Williams had always considered himself to be a classical pianist. He had trained assiduously, with the concert stage as his ultimate goal, and he had been achieving more than a fair share of encouragement when he chanced to meet that famed jazz pianist, Teddy Wilson, at the Juillard School of Music. Wilson, who has inspired numerous topflight jazz pianists, inspired Williams, and the concert field had, for the time being at least, lost another embryonic star.

Roger Williams plays "Interpretive piano," and that phase is a summation of the why behind the rage for his music. "He doesn't just play a melody, he interprets it. . . he translates it. . . delves into it. . . explores all its possibilities, and what he says with his fingers is as sensitive a commentary on the song as is its lyric."
By hi-fidelity recordings, Williams' renditions were played. Included were "Autumn Leaves" by Prevert, Mercer and Kosma; "Hi Illi Hi Lo" by Deutsch and Kappeler; "Night Wind," an original by Williams; "Summertime" by Ger-shwin; "My Dream Sonata" by David and Van Heusen, and "Minute Waltz" by Chopin.

Rev. Barbee Guest Speaker

BETHEL—The Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. A. J. Crane recently with 11 members and six guests present. The invited guests were Rev. and Mrs. Carl Barbee, Mrs. W. C. Hollowell, Mrs. H. B. Boughton, Mrs. D. C. Carson and Mrs. L. L. Ward.

For the occasion, potted plants, yellow jonquils, and first breath of spring were used in the hall and living room. In the dining room the table was covered with an Irish linen lace cloth and centered with a cut glass bowl of mixed spring flowers.

The president, Mrs. Maude Harris, presided. After a short business session, a number of book reports were given.

The president introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Carl Barbee, pastor of the Bethel Methodist Church, who conducted a short devotional and gave a talk on "The Four Way Test." In checking your relations with others, he suggested that the following method be used: Is it the truth? Is it fair to all concerned? Will it build good will and better friendship? Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

At the social hour the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Harris and Mrs. J. S. Moore, served pimento cheese sandwiches, pickles, toasted nuts, pound cake and Russian tea.

Mrs. Wayne Rogerson and her daughter, Terry Lynn, joined the group for refreshments.

With Farm Women

By ROBERTA GARNER

(Items this week from Sampson, Currituck, Onslow, Alamance, Wilkes, and Mitchell Counties.)

Model New Styles

"Dress for wear" was the theme of a recent Sampson County fashion revue. Fifteen Home Demonstration Club women modeled latest outfits at their county council meeting, reported Mrs. Virginia Ewins, home economics agent.

Ms. Polly Pool, manager of a local dress shop, was "amazed" at the grace and poise of the women. "They are better models than any of the women I have been using for 15 years," said Mrs. Pool.

Still Eating Tomatoes

After a demonstration by Mrs. Elizabeth Sanderlin, Currituck home economics agent to revive interest in gardening, many homemakers reported astounding results with tomatoes. Mrs. Earl Cooper and Mrs. Ennis Bundy, members of the Virginia Edwards Home Demonstration Club, report they are still eating fresh tomatoes raised in their gardens last year.

They learned to keep tomatoes fresh for a long time by wrapping them in paper and storing them in a warm, dry place.

Another homemaker, Mrs. Hettie Gray of the Coinjock Club, said her family had just finished the last of their tomatoes.

With these result reports other families may be encouraged to revive the almost "lost art" of gardening.

Sewing Classes

Mrs. Doris Yates, assistant home economics agent in Onslow County, is quite enthusiastic about the special sewing workshops that are being held there.

Three homemakers from the Half Moon section asked for beginning sewing lessons. Mrs. Emory Greer, Mrs. Kadar Ramsey and Mrs. Marshburn found a growing ambition for better sewing as the lessons progressed. Their news of the project has spread across the county and many other homemakers are now learning correct construction techniques.

Home Improvements

For months, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Faulkner, Snow Camp, Rt. 2, have been working on home improvements. Their kitchen now is a convenient kitchen-dining room combination. Wrought iron railings have been added to the open stairway, making it safer and more decorative.

The Home Demonstration Club met recently at their home to see the improvements. Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner say they have thoroughly enjoyed doing the work and every change that has been made, reports Miss Katherine Millsaps, home economics agent in Alamance County.

A recent craft workshop in West Jefferson was attended by 12 women from Wilkes County, according to Mrs. Annie Greene, home economics agent. They learned new crafts to use in making products for sale at the trading post.

Mrs. Gwyn Hayes learned the corn shuck mat craft. Within a few weeks, she has made several of the mats. She, and other women, are using their new skill by producing objects of craft art during the winter so they will be ready for sale in the spring.

Record Keeping

"We cannot argue with figures; we know where our money has gone," says Mrs. Floyd Edwards of Mitchell County. The Edwards family had kept an account of the money they had spent last year. Then, they studied the record to find any changes that should be made in family spending.

The homemaker told Mrs. Mary Deyton, home economics agent, they were quite surprised over the amount spent for clothing. Mr. Edwards was convinced, however, that the money had been spent on necessities.

The family thinks its record keeping is a rewarding experience and plans to have a record for 1929.

Look At Your Home!

RALEIGH—Look at your home! Is it a pleasing picture? Does it look comfortable and lived-in? Do the furnishings reflect the personality and taste of your family?

"Accessories" make the difference," says Miss Pauline Gordon, home furnishings specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

"The accessories may be purely decorative objects—pictures, figurines or wood carvings—or they may serve a useful purpose such as lamps, clocks and ash trays."

A simply furnished house can become a charming home when the interests of the family are included in the accessories.

Your home should not resemble a gift shop, but each item used should become a part of the room as a whole. For best results, carefully select and plan number, location and arrangement of the accessories.

Color Makes Quite A Difference

RALEIGH—Color makes a difference in your home! Color is one of the most important factors in decorating an attractive room. Mrs. Josephine Bond, house furnishings specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, asks these questions to help you while planning pleasant color schemes:

Are the large areas of your room (walls, etc.) a soft color? Have you used bright accent color for a small area?

Do you have two or three colors other than white?

Does one color dominate the color scheme? Are the colors distributed around the room?

Would you enjoy living in a room with the colors you have chosen?

If you can answer "yes" to these questions, you have done a good job of planning your color scheme. If an answer is "no"—do something about it!

Southern Women Lead In Home Baking

RALEIGH—Not every homemaker uses mixes and Southern women lead the country in home baking!

When North Carolina kitchens have that appetizing aroma of something good baking, what's most likely to be in the oven? Biscuits, according to a survey made by the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Miss S. Virginia Wilson, Extension nutrition specialist, reports that 47 per cent of the women make biscuits daily. Cornbread is second, with one-fourth of the homemakers baking it at least once daily.

All homemakers do some baking. Pies are made more often than cakes; two out of three women make pies three or more times weekly.

The survey shows that 100 per cent of those contacted used some prepared or partially prepared breads or mixes for baked products. Bread, rolls, sweet buns, and doughnuts are the articles most often purchased. Of the commercial mixes, pancakes are most frequently used.

Major Addition To Pitt Economy

Pitt County is still adjusting itself to the surprise announcement Saturday that the powerful radio transmitters of the Voice of America will be located here.

Although complete details on the installations to be made in Pitt are not yet available, information so far made public is sufficient to indicate the units will be a distinct economic asset to the county.

They will replace the Voice of America transmitters now located in New York and New Jersey, and they will be several times more powerful than units now used to send the Voice of America to other parts of the world.

The fact they will employ approximately 100 people and have an annual payroll of $800,000 is indeed good news for the county. Most of the people associated with the operation of those VOA stations, we assume, will be specialists who will move here from other areas. In all probability it will mean not just 100 new people in Pitt, but probably near 100 new families to make their homes in this immediate area.

Initial information on the stations said they would involve more than five million dollars exclusive of land, towers and outside equipment. Subsequent information available on the project, however, indicates an expenditure of about $27 million is anticipated on the installations over a three-year period. In any case, it is apparent that a major federal expenditure will be made in Pitt County.

Saturday's big announcement, as might be expected, raised many questions in the minds of Pitt Countians, some of which may have to remain unanswered for a while. Certainly uppermost in the minds of people of the Shelmerdine and Pactolus areas is the question of what land will be involved in the 2,600 acres required at each location. How soon actual work will begin, when the project will be completed, and when people will begin moving to this area to take up their new jobs are questions which in time must be answered.

In spite of the fact that questions are unanswered, Pitt received the surprise announcement with happy enthusiasm. It will mean a significant boost to the county's economy, and it will also enhance the county's potential for further economic growth.

It behooves the county and all its people to lend every assistance possible to facilitate the establishment of the Voice of America transmitters here. The sooner the stations are constructed and placed in operation, the sooner Pitt will begin to feel the full impact of this important new facility in its midst.

Recognition For His Many Golden Deeds

Across four decades Junius H. Rose has provided important leadership in many facets of the community life of Greenville. The honor bestowed upon him Friday evening in being named recipient of the Book of Golden Deeds by the Greenville Exchange Club is indeed fitting.

In addition to guiding the progress of Greenville's public schools since 1920, June Rose has played an important role in the civic and religious life of Greenville. To list the work he has done in behalf of his community since he came to Greenville, or the many positions of responsibility he has filled would be almost impossible.

Yet, he has served well the people of Greenville, young and old. He has been a forceful leader for progress among the community's citizens. And he has always shown his willingness to accept new responsibilities for community good in spite of the heavy work-a-day load already on his shoulders.

It is certainly fitting that the Book of Golden Deeds has been awarded to this man who has performed so many golden deeds for his fellow citizens in Greenville.

Likely Factors Behind Recession

By RALPH ROBEY

In recent weeks the charge has been made with increased frequency that one of the major causes of the recession was a reduction of government spending in 1957.

For example, the Washington Post said in a recent editorial that retrenchment in the fall of 1957 contributed materially to the 1958 slump. "Since the Washington Post is 'liberal' and favors ever larger Federal outlays, such a point of view by it is not surprising.

But when the National Industrial Conference Board takes the same approach it is surprising. In the January 1959 issue of the Conference Board Business Record there is an article by Robert H. Persons on the "Pattern and Scope of Recovery" in which it is said: "During 1957, both defense and nondefense outlays of the Federal Government had been curtailed, acting as one of the initiating factors in the recession. This is a little startling because the Conference Board has never indicated support for larger and larger Federal spending."

What are the facts? In answering this question it first must be noted that it is essential to use the cash budget figures, rather than the administrative or regular budget. The difference between the two is that the cash budget includes everything in the administrative budget and also the trust funds. Only the cash budget, therefore, shows total outlays.

On a calendar year basis the Federal Government's cash payments to the public were as follows:

1954	$69.7 billion
1955	$72.2 billion
1956	$74.8 billion
1957	$83.3 billion

On a quarterly basis, but not adjusted for seasonal variation, the following is the record:

1st quarter	$19.8 billion
2nd quarter	$21.6 billion

On a quarterly basis, but not adjusted for seasonal variation, the following is the record:

3rd quarter	$21.1 billion
4th quarter	$20.8 billion

When one looks at the quarterly totals a case can be made, although it is extremely weak. There was a reduction of $500 million in outlays between the second and third quarters of 1957, but there had been an increase of $1.8 billion between the first and second quarters. Thus the third quarter was still $1.3 billion above the first quarter.

It really is stretching the facts to say that the half-billion dollar decline between the second and third quarters caused, or even materially contributed to, the recession. And bear in mind that the total value of goods and services being produced — gross national product — was about $440 billion during the period in question.

Another factor to bear in mind is that state and local spending was constantly going up during this period. Specifically, such state and local spending increased $2.5 billion between 1956 and 1957.

On the basis of official facts, therefore, the contention that it was a decline in government spending in 1957 which caused the 1958 business downturn must be regarded as nothing more nor less than a political charge. This does not mean that individual companies which had their government contracts eliminated, or stretched out, were not hurt, at least temporarily, but there was not enough of that to swing the whole economy.

What did cause the recession? There was no single factor. It was the result of a combination of developments, as almost all recessions are, and probably no two business analysts would even make identical lists.

"We like to keep you informed on the progress U. S. Schools are making in meeting the post-Sputnik educational challenge from Soviet Russia. Here's a hot little item just in from Michigan: Students at Harbor Springs High School take an eight-day course in deer hunting. Those who 'pass' get two days off for hunting." — Charlotte News.

"The average man wants a mild kind of religion he can follow without having to handle snakes." — Greensboro (Ga.) Herald-Journal.

"In Alaska taxes may be doubled during the first year of statehood, according to a news dispatch. And redoubled many times thereafter. If the experience of the other states is a criterion." — Gastonia Gazette.

"... of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports." — George Washington.

"The new mortality table compiled for insurance companies and comparisons with the previous one issued 18 years ago and with statistics on life expectancy for 1868 show the tremendous progress which has been made in stamping out death-causing childhood diseases. Ninety years ago an infant at birth could expect to live 41.5 years. By 1941, this expectancy had been stretched to 62.3 years and since then another six years has been added. The average life span of a newborn child thus has been increased by 27 years in less than a century." — Portland Oregonian.

"A bill has been introduced in the Massachusetts Legislature which would require that an automobile which had not been insured by the owner carry a windshield sticker reading: 'This automobile has not been insured.'"

"We fall to see what earthly good such a requirement would accomplish and would doubt seriously its passage. But we do know that if a motorist ever gets close enough to another car to read the fine print about insurance there is going to be an awful collision." — Huntington Herald-Dispatch.

"Hardest part of early summer is walking past those displays of high-price store tomatoes while waiting for the garden variety to ripen." — Laurel (Miss.)

Talent Needs Training

NEW YORK (AP) — If the faces you see on television seem terribly familiar, there's a reason.

"Television is badly in need of fresh faces," said Merv Griffin. "But everybody's afraid to gamble on new talent."

Griffin, singing emcee, feels his industry needs to develop a system by which it can uncover and help mature outstanding young entertainers.

"There is no sure way today for promising performers to be discovered," he said. "It's harder than ever for great instrumentalists, for example, to get started. There must be some Artie Shaws and Benny Goodmans of tomorrow around, but they're unrecognized."

"The colleges in particular are being overlooked. They produce concert artists, but why don't they turn out more entertainers in the field of popular music?"

Merv himself quit college in 1945 at the age of 18 to take a $1150-a-week job singing on a San Francisco radio station.

"I figured that with that kind of money I could buy the university in a couple of years, and issue myself any diploma I needed," he recalled, smiling.

Three years later he quit to tour with Freddie Martin's band at only $150 a week.

"Everybody thought I was crazy to take a $1,000 weekly pay cut," he said. "But I wanted to see the country, and I didn't want to spend my life as a one-ton performer."

Griffin spent four years on the road, made a top-hit record, three pictures in Hollywood, and his own radio variety show and did a night club stint with Tallulah Bankhead.

"A touring dance band is the greatest training school in the world for a singer," he said. "One night you're singing in a Pennsylvania night club; the next night you're opening at the Waldorf."

"You learn how to please any kind of audience. You learn what music has universal appeal."

"Where can you get that kind of training now? The bands don't play around so much today."

Griffin thinks the discovery of fresh talent today is largely a hit-or-miss matter.

"A kid runs out and makes a record, rolls it to the nearest company. They usually toss it into the wastebasket," he said.

"But suppose they do put it out and it becomes an overnight hit. The kid usually dies overnight, too. Very few last. They don't get the training."

Other Editors Saying...

Battle Resumes

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

With agitation to revive or strengthen statutes governing censorship of motion pictures mounting in at least four states, a once almost dead issue is rapidly being revived. A trade source suggests that the biggest fight in film history may be in the making.

Only four states now have censorship boards—Maryland, Virginia, New York and Kansas. In the latter, the legislature killed the censorship several years and then changed its mind. A bill to abolish the three-man Board of Review was introduced only recently.

Twenty cities censor films. They include such major populi as Chicago, Atlanta, and Memphis. And of course, in addition to censorship by prior review or licensing, there is the self-censorship imposed by the Motion Picture Association of America through its Production Code Association.

What had appeared to be the beginning of the end for film censorship was the Supreme Court decision in 1952, upsetting a 1914 concept that motion pictures were outside the First and Fourteenth Amendments. The court ruled specifically that New York State could not ban an Italian film, "The Miracle," on the ground that it was objectionable to Roman Catholics. The court in 1954 held that the standards by which films had been suppressed in New York and Ohio were too vague.

But a bill now before the Ohio legislature would re-establish a censor board. In Maryland the proposal is to classify films, banning offensive ones to "persons under 18 years of age." In New York the move is to have the state censor license "suitable" films in three categories: for general patronage; for adults and adolescents; and for adults only.

The immediate cause for the revival of the urge to censor is obviously the tendency of producers, locked in battle with television, to treat adult themes that would have been shunned automatically a decade ago. Censorship is prior restraint by law to control what people may see or hear or read. It is done when the government sets up reviewing and licensing boards to determine whether people may see certain movies, or books, or magazines, or TV programs.

Censorship should not be confused with post restraint. This is the process by which a democracy properly protects itself against the lewd, the indecent, the obscene. Post restraint means that a person is answerable to the law for his acts after the public appearance of a book or magazine or movie. That is democracy's way. Every state in the nation has laws concerning obscenity.

Censorship, therefore, in any form, is undesirable. It can reach dangerous proportions when a board or agency or individual can be set up as the power to determine what we can or cannot see or hear or read.

Every state in the nation has laws concerning obscenity.

Censorship, therefore, in any form, is undesirable. It can reach dangerous proportions when a board or agency or individual can be set up as the power to determine what we can or cannot see or hear or read.

Ohio legislature would re-establish a censor board. In Maryland the proposal is to classify films, banning offensive ones to "persons under 18 years of age." In New York the move is to have the state censor license "suitable" films in three categories: for general patronage; for adults and adolescents; and for adults only.

The immediate cause for the revival of the urge to censor is obviously the tendency of producers, locked in battle with television, to treat adult themes that would have been shunned automatically a decade ago. Censorship is prior restraint by law to control what people may see or hear or read. It is done when the government sets up reviewing and licensing boards to determine whether people may see certain movies, or books, or magazines, or TV programs.

Censorship should not be confused with post restraint. This is the process by which a democracy properly protects itself against the lewd, the indecent, the obscene. Post restraint means that a person is answerable to the law for his acts after the public appearance of a book or magazine or movie. That is democracy's way. Every state in the nation has laws concerning obscenity.

Future Rocket Views

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — The newspapers carry much news regarding missiles and rockets. This news is of interest to the many industrial plants which make parts for such missiles. A list of the leading companies in this field whose stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange will be sent free of charge to a reader on request. However, not understanding the Washington releases on missile contracts, the corporations which have the government contracts derive very little profit from such business. I am not now recommending investment in any of these.

Of course, we should all be interested in missile experiments and in space studies. It is too bad the Russians get a head start on us. It is utterly foolish, however, to state that "it will take two to three years" for us to catch up with Russia. Such reports are being put out by manufacturers as propaganda to get greater appropriations. President Eisenhower knows this and will not be fooled by them.

IMPORTANCE OF ANTI-MISSILE MISSILES

It is well for us to have "surface-to-surface," "underwater-to-surface," and "air-to-surface" missiles which can hit a given target 500 to 2500 miles away. These are as important as guns, cannons, submarines, and airplanes; but they are for offensive warfare. It seems generally understood that the United States is in no mood now to start a war with Russia. This also probably applies to Great Britain and France. Whether or not Germany will wait for Russia to strike first is another question.

The above means that the important weapon, from a defense standpoint, is an anti-missile missile. This is a missile which can be fired to head off and destroy any approaching missile being fired at our cities by an enemy. Even though we would not start a war with Russia, we would immediately go to the help of any free nation — including Germany — which Russia might attack. We then would be subject to bombing. Hence, a defense against such missiles is an absolute necessity. But today we hear or read very little about such protection as anti-missile missiles.

PROPAGANDA IS USUALLY FALSE

This is especially true of the attempt to scare the American people into spending more money by saying it will take us 3 or 4 years to catch up with the Russian scientists. But let me comment on this 3 to 4 year propaganda. All research men know that TIME is an impossible factor to judge with regard to discovering the solution to any scientific problem. It may have taken the Russians four years to reach their present efficiency with missiles; but the physicists and engineers of some other nation may make a discovery in 30 days which will put them ahead of Russia. Most great inventions have come from a sudden idea.

Furthermore, Russia may not now be ahead of us in anti-missile missiles. No nation yet has the protection desired from such missile attacks. Yet this is the important discovery which the world is awaiting. Some Washington friends may tell you, "We have such an anti-missile missile; but the data are 'classified or secret'." Don't believe them. The experiments by most nations with anti-missile missiles are known throughout the world. They cannot be kept secret, except possibly by Russia in Siberia. I wish to drive home to readers of this column that no country including Russia and Germany will start World War III until it has discovered a means of preventing destruction by enemy missiles. Our Defense Department should give priority to such work rather than to shooting around the moon.

ELECTRICITY FROM THE AIR

Notwithstanding the above, I am greatly interested in learning more about space. My studies that if two wires are carried up through space a certain distance, we could so utilize the atomic heat from the sun as to produce or collect electricity directly without the need of

Opinions In Brief

"We like to keep you informed on the progress U. S. Schools are making in meeting the post-Sputnik educational challenge from Soviet Russia. Here's a hot little item just in from Michigan: Students at Harbor Springs High School take an eight-day course in deer hunting. Those who 'pass' get two days off for hunting." — Charlotte News.

"The average man wants a mild kind of religion he can follow without having to handle snakes." — Greensboro (Ga.) Herald-Journal.

"In Alaska taxes may be doubled during the first year of statehood, according to a news dispatch. And redoubled many times thereafter. If the experience of the other states is a criterion." — Gastonia Gazette.

"... of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports." — George Washington.

"The new mortality table compiled for insurance companies and comparisons with the previous one issued 18 years ago and with statistics on life expectancy for 1868 show the tremendous progress which has been made in stamping out death-causing childhood diseases. Ninety years ago an infant at birth could expect to live 41.5 years. By 1941, this expectancy had been stretched to 62.3 years and since then another six years has been added. The average life span of a newborn child thus has been increased by 27 years in less than a century." — Portland Oregonian.

"A bill has been introduced in the Massachusetts Legislature which would require that an automobile which had not been insured by the owner carry a windshield sticker reading: 'This automobile has not been insured.'"

"We fall to see what earthly good such a requirement would accomplish and would doubt seriously its passage. But we do know that if a motorist ever gets close enough to another car to read the fine print about insurance there is going to be an awful collision." — Huntington Herald-Dispatch.

"Hardest part of early summer is walking past those displays of high-price store tomatoes while waiting for the garden variety to ripen." — Laurel (Miss.)

Biggest Sale Day Of The Decade

By ELMER ROESSNER

If the weather is fair, sales today may set new records for a single day in February. Here's why.

Washington's Birthday has become a bigger sale day every year for the last decade. This year, falling on Sunday and being observed generally on Monday, it will have the added push of weekend advertising; it comes right after the weekend during which time families have time to study bargains and to assess their needs.

Note that Washington-Birthday figures will seem even larger than they really are; they will be compared with 1958 figures. February last year was close to the low point of the recession. And here are more look-aheads in business, based on analyses of developing trends and special situations:

TEXTILES, CARPETING TO RISE

Costlier textiles. Wage increases in southern textile mills are pushing up prices of many fabrics. Quotations on cotton apparel fabrics, some synthetics, ducks and toweling have already gone up; soon almost all clothing prices will be affected.

More expensive carpeting. One of the largest carpet mills has pushed prices up more than 3 per cent; other mills are likely to take similar action. However, the increases will be slow in coming in some companies because they have heavy, unsold inventories.

Cotton threatened. Three new synthetic fibers have recently been announced but what hasn't been stressed is that they may be more competitive with cotton than earlier synthetics. They are American Viscose's Fiber 40, Enka's Fiber 500, and Courtaulds' SM27. Most previous synthetics have been competitive with silk and wool.

Cotton glut. The position of cotton is further weakened by the fact that for the first time in three years, world cotton production will exceed demand. Prices have dipped, demand is shrinking and the carryover will increase.

OTHER CROP DEMAND OFF

Agricultural exports to shrink. Demand for American produce is dwindling and totals for the current fiscal year will be down considerably. Reasons: good crops abroad; overproduction at home.

U.S. wheat production will be up 50 per cent in 1958, just when other nations had bumper crops and have little reason to buy.

Squirt boom: A new device prevents squirt bottles from leaking while in handbags, promising to generate greater demand for lotions, colognes, and other cosmetics in such bottles. The new bottles are off drawing boards but not yet in commercial production.

Now That Batista Is Gone, Story Of Dictatorship's Cruelties Is Unveiled

Editor's Note — For almost two months the guns of firing squads have been echoing along the length of Cuba. Dispatches tell of new executions almost daily, with perhaps a terse and superficial explanation. What is the underlying story? An Associated Press correspondent has dug into it, looking at the records and interviewing scores of Cubans. Robert Berrellez comes from Arizona and speaks Spanish fluently. This is the first of three stories he will write this week on the atrocities of the Batista regime and their aftermath.

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
HAVANA (AP)— Hundreds tortured or killed. . . scores executed in retribution . . .

They are figures, good round figures, and with repetition they come to have a little meaning. . . But behind them, they point down to individual cases, they have a shocking meaning. They are the fruit of a dictatorship and of a revolution which conquered it. . . The full scope of the atrocities charged to Fulgencio Batista's police state may never be known. Fidel Castro's revolutionary government estimates 20,000 Cubans— thousands of them in no way connected with the rebellion—were tortured and killed by Batista's national police and army. . . Batista fled this country Jan. 1, and his government fell apart. The Castro forces took over. So far Castro's military tribunals have executed more than 300 men—former policemen and soldiers—for taking part in the Batista killings. Many more will face firing squads before the book is closed.

These executions have drawn criticism in the United States. The Castro explanation is that his military tribunals had to move fast to keep vengeful Cubans from turning to lynch rule in routing out men known to be Batista henchmen. . . Whatever the verdict of history, there are piles of evidence to show the way things went under the fallen Batista's regime. His men were out to stamp out opposition and end a revolution. Civil rights meant nothing in Cuba for months.

One man alone, Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, was accused of responsibility for 108 victims. He died before a firing squad last Wednesday. Five of his soldiers were executed for the massacre of 19 persons at one village.

The revolutionary government made no attempt to prove its entire case against Sosa Blanco. The prosecution rested after calling 82 of its 92 witnesses. The testimony, circumstantial and direct, concerned 29 assassinations and homicides.

Nine of the victims were members of one family suspected of being rebel sympathizers, near Bayamo in Oriente province. This was the family of farm worker Martin Argote who was machine-gunned by soldiers as Sosa Blanco stood by, witnesses testified.

Miguel Lorente, the 10th person in the Argote family lineup, survived through a freakish incident—he fainted and fell a split second before the soldiers fired. Questioned on his qualifications as an eyewitness, Lorente told the court:

"No, I didn't see the shooting. All I know is I was alive in front of the guns, expecting to be dead in minutes. Then I woke up with all the others dead around me."

The defense, seeking to show the Argotes were victims of a battle between rebels and troops, noted that the body of a soldier was found near Argote's.

But Lorente testified the soldier was executed under Sosa Blanco's orders when he balked at firing on the family.

Ex-Lt. Valeriano Dupeyron Silva and three soldiers were condemned to death on conviction of torturing and hanging four Havana University students Dec. 28 just four days before Batista fled. The Rev. Amado Lorente of the Assn. of Catholic University students, to which the youths belonged, was a trial witness. He had led a group in search for the bodies of the students, all 20 to 22. He said the group went unarmored Dec. 26 to find members of the civic resistance to the Batista regime. They sought to offer help in supplying medicine, clothing and food from Havana—"a patriotic and humanitarian gesture."

A search was organized when the students did not return. A drunken soldier at Pinar del Rio told of some youths being tortured and killed. Havana relatives heard of this.

Witnesses testified soldiers picked up the youths Dec. 26, questioned and tortured them and hanged them Dec. 28.

Father Lorente and friends found the bodies heaped in a mound and covered by about four inches of dirt.

During the search, he said, they discovered other mounds "containing groups of 30, 50 and 80, all victims apparently of the inhuman repression at Pinar del Rio by unscrupulous agents without the least feeling of charity."

Havana Bar Assn. and Supreme Court officials say brutality spilled over the generally wide boundaries of political repression. Police, with their authority unquestioned, had a free hand.

How were these atrocities kept from the public outside Cuba? Havana conveyed to the outsider a scene of timeless gaiety. Elements that might have shown the true picture were trapped by censorship, lack of evidence and fear.

The local press was muzzled. Responsible foreign news correspondents could not get beyond the thin top layer of scrubbed truth and scuttlebutt. The judicial arm of government was impotent. Disbelief and disinterest, ruled quarters that might have helped. Thus, say Cubans now outraged by present criticism of their military tribunals, the world was unprepared to accept as fact the scene exposed by the collapse of the Batista dictatorship.

The minutes of a Havana Bar Assn. meeting June 12, 1958 reveal that delegates Dr. Eduardo Augusto Garcia of Argentina and David Stern of Miami, Fla., failed in an effort to get the Inter-American Bar Assn. to express solidarity and moral support to Havana Bar Assn. efforts to "restore constitutional principles as they apply to human rights, to the independence of the judicial authority and free professional enterprise."

The motion was turned down by the Inter-American group's executive committee and the Havana group quit Nov. 25.

"They said they did not want to get involved in the internal affairs of Cuba," Silvio Sanabria, president of the Havana group, recalls.

Date With An All-American Is Valued At $2.50

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)— date with All-america football star Billy Austin is worth only $2.50.

The handsome Rutgers tailback was knocked down for that price Friday night in a fund-raising auction at Douglass College, the girls undergraduate division of Rutgers University.

And the high bidder wasn't even a Douglass student. She was Miss Marion Moore, popular director of the Douglass Student Center.

"I thought I would help bid up the price," said Miss Moore, a thirtyish brunette. "I never thought I'd win."

The auction was held to raise funds for the senior class gift to Douglass.

Also up for sale was an evening with Dean Mary I. Bunting, raccoon coats, baked goods, record holders and bicycles.

Yankus, 39, one of Cass County's largest poultry farm operators, says he is "tired of beating my head against a stone wall" in a long fight against government wheat controls and is heading for Australia and a new start.

Since 1953, Yankus, married and the father of three children has been fighting the government wheat acreage allotment program. He estimates he still owes about $2,600 in fines and penalties for growing more than the allotted wheat quota on his 100-acre farm near this southwestern Michigan community.

The government claimed about $1,700 of Yankus' bank account a year ago to settle part of the penalties. The farmer said he paid the government to bill him as soon as possible for the rest.

"I'm infuriated by these actions and I'm going to leave the country because of them," Yankus said as he set the "for sale" sign in his front yard. Yankus has contended that wheat grown on his farm was used for feeding his poultry not commercially. He sold about 50,000 dozen eggs a year.

Yankus said he had been accepted by the Australian government as an immigrant and will leave the U. S. with his family as soon as his farm is sold and the rest of his fines are paid from the proceeds.

Yankus said he had decided to move to Australia because of his youngsters. "All I foresee here are more and more restrictions and no opportunities for my boys," he said. "They tell me they encourage expansion and initiative in Australia."

Quitting Fight; To Quit America

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (AP)— A "for sale" sign has gone up on the farm of wheat rebel Stanley Yankus. The poultry farmer who decided to give up farming a month ago decided Friday to give up the United States.

Family Survives 3 Days Marooned On Gulf Beacon

By CONARD CASLER
Reporter, The Corpus Christi Caller-Times

Written for The Associated Press CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)— Leslie Schmidt and his young family, marooned three days last week on a tiny beacon in the Gulf of Mexico, lived to tell about it.

But Leslie, 23, wrote a pathetic little diary to let relatives know what happened to them. He "knew" he and his wife and three children would die there within sight of the shore, he said Sunday.

"We wrote the diary so that when they found our bones they'd know what happened," Schmidt said at the hospital where he, his wife, Sarah, 22, and the children—Leslie Jr., 3, Linda Lee, 2, and Cheryl, 10 months—are recovering.

Crewmen of a passing shrimp boat, the Carroll Ann, snatched the hungry, cold and sick family from the tiny navigation light Saturday afternoon.

The Schmidts scrambled onto the light, just 7 miles from downtown Corpus Christi, Wednesday after their 26-foot cabin cruiser broke up in heavy seas that lashed Corpus Christi Bay, Schmidt was returning to Port Aransas from Port Mansfield after going there on an abortive commercial fishing venture.

Mrs. Schmidt tied a line to the sinking boat as her husband fastened it to the beacon. They traded place and she took Linda Lee up 15 feet to the small platform atop the beacon.

"I tied her there and went down for Cheryl Lynn," related Mrs. Schmidt. "By the time we got Leslie Jr. up top, the boat was gone and everything we owned, except a half can of milk and that can of baby food."

"I said a prayer up every rung of that ladder," she recalled. Schmidt stepped clear of the cruiser with Leslie Jr., just as the boat went under.

Then the long vigil, the prayers, and the frustration began. Every morning an oil crew boat passed with 100 yards, the couple said. "They never saw us although we yelled at them," Schmidt said.

"I prayed all the time," Mrs. Schmidt added, "and God must have been with us. He saved us."

She fashioned a spoon from a splinter broken from the beacon platform and doled the baby food, spoonful by spoonful, to the older children. Cheryl had sole rights to the can of evaporated milk. The parents took only water. By late Thursday or early Friday—neither remembered exactly—the food generators on the earth. I am certain the time is coming when our great public utility stations, instead of burning oil or coal, will have great "wires like lightning rods" extending up into the air.

This is what Benjamin Franklin visualized over 200 years ago in 1752. The space experiments now in process will surely find the answer. Neither Russia nor Germany is talking about them; but some nation—possibly France—will find the answer.

Sir Isaac Newton (whose library we have at Babson Institute, Babson Park, Mass.) learned that gravity could bend a line or keep it upright. Space experiments are finding out what gravity will do after a missile pierces the gravity barrier. If then is pulled to the moon or sun automatically without power, Dr. Albert Einstein had all this in mind when he insisted that Electricity, Gravity, Magnetism (and in his last days he added Love) all come from some outside force and are interrelated. I wish that Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Edison, and Dr. Einstein were here today to talk this over. Surely this would result in an "atoms for peace" program, which was Dr. Einstein's daily prayer. This was based upon the sun as the universal source of energy.

Stokes-Pactolus And Farmville Win County Tourney

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Writer

A capacity crowd of some 2,500 jammed into Memorial Gymnasium last Saturday to witness the finals of the week-long Pitt County Tournament. The crowd got its money's worth as both games battled down to the final wire before the Stokes-Pactolus girls and Farmville boys copped the championship trophy.

Stokes, defending girls' champions, defeated third-ranked Grimesland 56-53 and Farmville came from behind to nip Winterville 48-47.

The second tilt of the evening provided most of the fireworks as Coach Elbert Moye's boys finished strong to wrap up their second title in the last five years.

The Red Devils captured the crown the hard way as they ousted defending champion Ayden in the opening round, regular season champion and pre-tournament favorite Chicod in the second round, and then third ranking Winterville last night.

For the third straight time, the Devils had a big fourth quarter to win. Farmville had advanced to the finals with a come-from-behind fourth quarter victory over Chicod but their task Saturday night was a much difficult one but the Devils were once again able to come through.

Neither team could find the range in the opening quarter with a total of only ten points being made. Winterville had gotten the early jump and led 5-4. The Wolves got their scoring attack rolling midway the second period.

After Gene Gray tied the score at 10-10, Tommy Braxton hit a jump with 4:11 remaining in the half and Winterville steadily built up a 20-12 halftime lead.

Moye Waters hit two straight baskets at the beginning of the third quarter to make the score 24-12. Winterville continued to control the game as they kept a 9-13 point spread during the third period.

Guard Johnny Worthington forced his teammates to come alive at the end of third period as he hit a couple of shots after stealing the ball. Worthington continued to pace the Devils as they started their final surge but midway the period it was Gene Gray and J. Y. Monk who took over.

Monk sank a field goal with 3:59 left to cut the margin to 40-36. With Farmville in a full court press, Monk once hit the mark with two more field goals to pull the Devils within one point, 41-40.

After J. C. Little hit a free toss, Monk once again hit a jump to tie the score at 42-42. Worthington pushed Farmville out front for the first time with a free throw and 2:10 on the clock.

Moye Waters hit a jump and then J. S. Flake tied it at 44-44 with a free throw. Braxton hit on a free toss for Wilmington but then Monk came back with two more field goals to make the score 48-45. Mack Worthington cut it to 46-47 with five seconds remaining but it was the last time the Wolves got their hands on the ball.

Monk, Farmville's big boy under pressure, made the outstanding performance of the tournament with his final period play. A sophomore, Monk hit 12 points in the final quarter and most of these came in the last four minutes. He finished the night with 15.

Gene Gray was top man for the winners as he hit 21. Moye Waters was the whole show for Winterville as he copped scoring honors for the night with 27 points.

Stokes took advantage of the rebounding of Billie Angle and Lillie Turner plus a strong defense to capture their second consecutive county championship in the girls division.

Grimesland, making a strong bid for an upset, opened fast and jumped into a seven point lead, mainly on the shooting of Sybil Howell. The Blue Jays battled back to go ahead 19-18 in the high scoring first quarter.

The scoring pace slowed down in the second period as Stokes moved out front by as many as six points at one time. The underdogs were able to cut the lead to 30-27 at halftime. The third quarter was nip and tuck with Stokes holding the lead. Howell sent Grimesland ahead just as the quarter came to an end, 44-43.

Turner sent Stokes back out front with a second attempt. Mabel Singleton pushed her club out front 48-47 with 4:09 remaining but it was the final time as Turner added a couple of quick goals. The Blue Jays were out front 56-50 with less than two minutes to go when Howell hit a couple to cut the lead to 56-54. Grimesland got one more chance with 22 seconds remaining but muffed it with a bad pass.

Singleton, a junior, and Howell paced the losers with 21 points each. Carrie Whitehurst, a left-hander, and Turner were high for the winners with 23 and 22 points, respectively.

Prospects of either Curry, Nichols or Smith playing in the conference tournament which begins Wednesday in Lexington. Curry was removed from action early in the first half and suspended for the remainder of the game. Nichols was hit in the face in a scramble under the ACC basket late in the first half and left the game with a severe nose injury.

Smith, who fouled out with 50 seconds to play, injured his left hip and required assistance in changing to street clothes after the game.

East Carolina started the second half with a patched up team which included only Riddick and Plaster from the starting five. Freshmen Charlie Lewis and Deney Bowes replaced Adams and Curry, while Smith, who had replaced Curry in the first half, filled the other slot.

Atlantic Christian worked its lead to 12 points before the scrambled ECC line-up began making its move. Riddick, Smith and Bowes pushed the East Carolina offense which pecked steadily at the Bulldogs' margin but which never quite caught up.

The Pirates missed perhaps their best chance with slightly more than two minutes remaining. Riddick stole the ball and drove in for a lay-up which made the score 57-55 with 2:15 to go. On Atlantic Christian's subsequent offense play, the Pirates stole the ball again but Riddick missed a lay-up when he was crowded by ACC's defense.

After that play, the Bulldogs regained control of the game and cashed in on six free throws and a field goal to wrap up the victory.

Forwards Jim Holland and Bob Whaley, who pulled the Bulldogs out of every hole they got in, led the scoring with 22 and 21 points, respectively. Riddick was high man for the Pirates with 21 points, 17 of them in the last half.

The loss left East Carolina with a season's mark of 11-5 in conference play while ACC moved its loop record to 6-10.

Bucs Fall To ACC; Team Troubles Grow

WILSON — East Carolina College, one of the North State Conference's front-running teams for the past six weeks, was knocked sprawling here Saturday night by a combination of Atlantic Christian College's winning basketball and internal team troubles.

The Bulldogs ran to a 65-59 win over the Pirates in a game which saw two ECC players sidelined for disciplinary reasons and two others crippled by injuries. The players are Charlie Adams, Jessell Curry, Nick Nichols and Don Smith.

Adams was dismissed from the squad at halftime by Coach Howard Porter and will not be permitted to rejoin the team for the conference tournament which begins Wednesday in Lexington.

Curry was removed from action early in the first half and suspended for the remainder of the game. Nichols was hit in the face in a scramble under the ACC basket late in the first half and left the game with a severe nose injury.

Smith, who fouled out with 50 seconds to play, injured his left hip and required assistance in changing to street clothes after the game.

REBOUND... ECC's Don Smith picks a rebound out of the air in the ACC contest at Wilson Saturday night. ACC won, 65-59.

Indoor Mile Record Set By Ron Delaney

NEW YORK (AP) — The four-minute mile indoors was closer to a reality today than ever and the fellow who is on the hot spot is Ron Delaney.

After his record-breaking 4:02.5 in the National AAU championships Saturday night in Madison Square Garden, the only question that remains is: When will Delaney choose to do it?

If he follows his normal modus operandi it will depend on his opposition.

If Istvan Rozsavolgyi, Brian Ewson and Co. can push him, he'll hit the tape in four minutes. But he won't fight the clock. That's certain.

Rozsavolgyi pushed him to his record-breaker in the AAU meet. Ron's listed mark is 4:03.4, set in Chicago last year. Rozsavolgyi, a confident and talented Hungarian, aimed for 4:03 Saturday. He started to sprint with over two laps to go—almost a quarter of a mile—and Delaney had to keep up with him. That, in a nutshell, is how the record was broken.

Besides the four-minute indoor mile, there likely will be a 7-2 high jump and a 65-foot shot put before the summer sets in.

John Thomas, Boston University's 17-year-old freshman went 7-1.4 in the high jump, beating every world record, indoors and outdoors, then predicted that he'd do 7-2 before long. The recognized world high jump record is 7-1, set outdoors by the Soviets Yuri (Elevator Shoe) Sepanov.

Bg Parry O'Brien, the Los Angeles banker who holds every world shot put record in the book, bettered his own indoor mark for the 16-pound ball with a 62-1 heave. He casually commented that his next goal would be 65 feet.

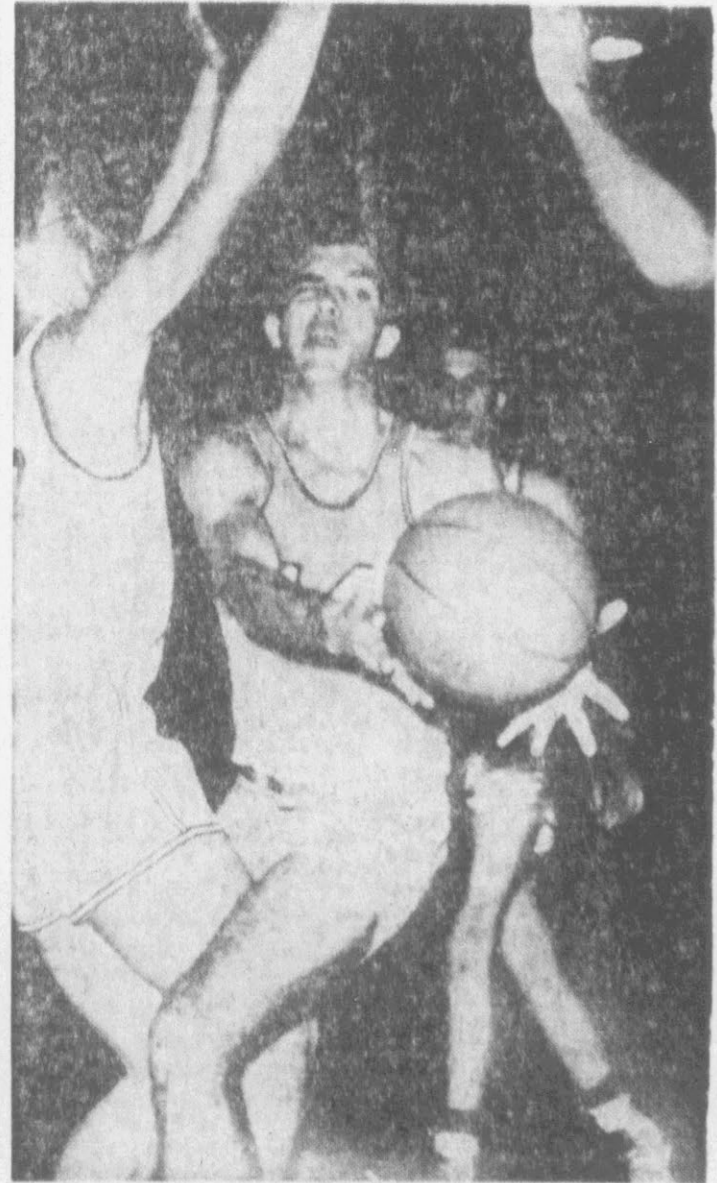

All told five world records were broken in the AAU meet. In addition to Delaney, Thomas and O'Brien, Lt. Bill Dellinger of the U.S. Air Force, cut almost seven seconds off the 3-mile standard with a 13:37 clocking and Bob Backus shattered his own 35-pound weight throw mark with a heave of 66-2 3/4.

THE 8TH CIRCLE A MASTER MYSTERY BY STANLEY ELLIN

Copyright, 1956, by Stanley Ellin; reprinted by permission of the novel's publisher, Random House; distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 35

Felix LoScalzo was evidently someone who not only hated loopholes, but also the people who clumsily left them open. He glared angrily at Ralph Harlingen, but Harlingen shook his head regretfully.
"Did not charge that Ira Miller drove the car that killed Charles Pirozy," he said. "He did not. But there was someone else — someone whose every interest was bound up with his, who knew every facet of his life, who knew all about the hold Pirozy had on him, and most tragically, who decided out of absolute and unquestioning love that the one way to ever break that hold was to run down and kill Charles Pirozy."

Cites Challenge Of Unfinished Projects

Unfinished tasks present problems not mastered, but which challenge community leaders on the local levels, Greenville Kiwanians were told at their weekly supper meeting Friday night.
The speaker was Dr. James W. Butler, assistant director of public relations of East Carolina College, who was presented by J. G. Proctor, President John A. Collins, Jr., president.

Skilled Performance Of Sonatas By Musicians

By GEORGE E. PERRY
Of all the sonatas for violin and piano, there are no finer examples of this form of composition than the Beethoven "Spring," the Brahms "Rain," and the Prokofiev, all of which received outstandingly authentic and sensitive readings at yesterday afternoon's recital by Edgar Alden and William Newman, faculty members of the Department of Music at the University of North Carolina. There is no higher form of musical art and no form more difficult to perform well than the sonata for violin and piano, but the recital under comment was notable for the superior work on the part of each artist, and for their finely spun collaboration which, after all, is the real essence of this kind of music.

Graham Crusade Program Hailed

MELBOURNE (AP)—Protestant church leaders today hailed Billy Graham's week-old crusade as a big boost to Melbourne's religious life.
Anglican Archbishop Frank Woods said the American evangelist had made a good impression on the clergy, and the public have responded in "the most remarkable way."
Since Friday night more than 125,000 people have heard Graham preach at three meetings in Melbourne's open air Music Bowl. Seventy thousand turned out Sunday. Nearly 400 required first aid for effects of the 93-degree heat.

Tour Date Set For ECC Choir

The East Carolina College Choir, an ensemble of fifty student singers, will make its sixth annual tour March 1-4. Twelve concerts will be presented in churches and high schools in North and South Carolina. After returning to the campus, the Choir will present its annual home concert Tuesday, March 10, at 8 p.m. in the Wright Auditorium.
Both men and women students are members of the choir. All were chosen early in the school year through auditions. At concerts they wear maroon robes with embroidered stoles of gold and present an attractive appearance on the stage.
Dr. Carl T. Hjortsvang of the college department of music is director of the choir. After extensive study and wide experience in the field of music, he joined the teaching staff at East Carolina College in 1957. In addition to his activities as teacher and choir director, Dr. Hjortsvang has appeared as tenor soloist in a number of programs on the campus and in college sponsored televised broadcasts.
The itinerary for the tour includes performances in Wilmington, Whiteville, Lumberton, Fairmont, Hamlet, Raeford, Aberdeen, Dunn, and Goldsboro in North Carolina, and in Bishopville, S.C.
Among selections to be presented are sacred music, a group of spirituals, folk songs, compositions by modern composers, and novelty numbers.

Mechanical Teacher For Students Of The Future

By RALPH DIGHTON
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hey, kids—meet your new teacher. She's streamlined and slick as a chrome-plated hotrod. She never scolds or tells you to wash your hands. She won't make you pay attention—she traps you into it. You can even punch her and she won't get sore. Your new schoolmarm, destined to pop into your schoolroom any year now, resembles nothing human—because she isn't. She looks more like a pinball gadget with flashing lights and rows of buttons. Tomorrow's teacher, as constructed by Dr. Evan R. Keislar of University of California at Los Angeles, is an electronic viewbox with built-in patience. If you goof, she waits quietly until you correct yourself before going on with the rest of the lesson. Dr. Keislar, an educational psychologist, invented the teaching machine primarily to help teachers do a better job. But he admits, a little sadly, that "it may be used to relieve the teacher shortage in some hard-pressed school districts." "At the college level," he said in an interview Friday, "it could replace the teacher completely. I hope, however, that there will always be human warmth and understanding available for the tots in the lower grades."

Pershing Staff Car For Academy

JANESVILLE, Wis. (AP) — The 42-year-old staff car used by Gen. John J. Pershing in France in World War I has been donated to the U.S. Military Academy by Daniel Parker of Janesville. Parker said he has received a letter of acceptance from West Point authorities and that the car will be on permanent exhibit in the academy's museum. The prairies in the pioneer West got their name from the French word meaning "extensive meadow."

ANOTHER RECORD YEAR OF PROGRESS FOR WESTERN AND SOUTHERN LIFE

Nineteen hundred and fifty-eight was an outstanding year of growth and service for Western and Southern. Assets in excess of $906 million reached an all-time high. This amount represents an increase during the year of more than $85 million. Total insurance in force surpassed $4.5 billion. This was an increase for the year of more than $508 million. Now with offices on both coasts your Company is proud to report a further extension of its operations. A new modern Home Office building was opened. Over 7,600 Western and Southern men and women pledged to a common goal co-ordinate their efforts at the Home Office in Cincinnati and in our Regional Offices in Philadelphia, Asheville, St. Louis, Galveston and Los Angeles and in 300 Sales and Service offices throughout the country. The record achieved in 1958 is a tribute to the loyalty and efficiency of the officers, employees and agents of the Company. The results attained reflect the confidence in the service and management of Western and Southern by our more than 5,900,000 policyholders. We dedicate our purpose to the high ideals and principles which have guided Western and Southern through the past 71 years.

Foresees Trip To Planet Mars

WINTER PARK, Fla. (AP) — The first U.S. manned space expedition will land on the planet Mars in 10 to 15 years, scientists predict. "In the not too distant future such a trip can be made and has to be made," the Army's top space experts said Sunday. Dr. Werner von Braun, technical director of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, and three of his colleagues outlined the journey in a lecture at Rollins College. Von Braun described the expedition as "the crowning achievement of the man-in-space program now in progress." The scientists said the round trip, using two giant spaceships would be completed in 32 months. The best opportunity will come next on Aug. 6, 1971 when the two planets are in closest relationship—34.6 million miles.

Volunteers Hunt Missing Doctors

BERLIN, N.H. (AP)—Scores of volunteers today ploughed through deep snow on the White Mountains while spotters flew overhead in a search for two doctors missing since last Saturday on a 70-mile mercy flight. Authorities expressed fear for the safety of Dr. Ralph E. Miller, 60, an experienced pilot, and Dr. Robert E. Quinn, 32, both members of the Dartmouth Medical School faculty. They disappeared at 3:30 p.m. Saturday while flying in a single engine plane from Berlin to Lebanon. They had gone to Berlin to treat a heart patient. The temperature Saturday and Sunday nights was about 15 degrees below zero and the wind velocity was more than 30 miles an hour in the snow-covered area where the search was concentrated. Guards posted on Sunday night said they saw no sign of any outdoor fires in the mountainous region. Authorities said it would be difficult to survive outdoors for more than 24 hours. Some 20 air National Guard and Civil Air Patrol planes and two helicopters scanned the area. An estimated 40 Civil Air Patrol groups and numerous volunteers ploughed through the deep snow for sign of the men or the plane. The missing Piper Comanche is equipped with the latest-type radio equipment but no distress signals were picked up. The plane had enough gasoline for two hours of flying when it took off Saturday and ran into snow squalls. Dr. Miller is chief pathologist at the Mary Hitchcock Hospital in Hanover and a professor of pathology at Dartmouth Medical School. He is the father of two children, one of whom, Ralph Jr., was an Olympic ski champion. Dr. Quinn is an instructor of medicine at Dartmouth Medical School. He also is the father of two children. A pathologist, Dr. Miller testified at the so-called "mercy killing" trial of Dr. Hermann N. Sander in 1950. Dr. Sander was acquitted in connection with the death of a woman cancer patient. A pilot since 1940, Dr. Miller traveled to the arctic for geological and excavation studies in the summers of 1955 and 1956.

Budget Hearings Open This Week

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's legislators will give much attention to money matters this week as the Joint Appropriations Committee. The House and Senate will begin the week by holding sessions tonight. Heads of state departments, agencies and institutions will begin appearing before the appropriations committee Tuesday to plug for more money than was recommended for them in the proposed budget for 1959-61. In the budget recommended by Gov. Hodges and the Advisory Budget Commission, most agencies would receive much less than they requested. Tuesday's hearing calls for the following agencies to appear before the Appropriations Committee if they desire to request changes in the recommended budget items: State Supreme Court, State Auditor, Attorney General, Bureau of Investigation, Adjutant General, and Council of Civil Defense.

Stall Was Only The Beginnings

DETROIT (AP)—Early Bradford's troubles only started when his car stalled. Bradford, 38, reached into the motor Sunday. His hand became trapped. The car roared into life and, dragging Bradford along, it crashed through a wire fence, hit a parked car, went through a garage and another fence and finally stopped when it hit a tree. Bradford was hospitalized in serious condition.

Friday Urges More University Money

RALEIGH (AP)—President William C. Friday of the Consolidated University of North Carolina declared today that unless UNC appropriations are increased above what Gov. Hodges and the Advisory Budget Commission recommended "we shall not be able to maintain the level of excellence and quality" the university possesses. Friday urged the University Board of Trustees to back him and university officials in carrying a fight for more money to the Legislature. "To lower our standards of excellence and quality now...would, in our judgment, be a costly decision for North Carolina to make," Friday asserted. One by one, the chancellors of the three units of the consolidated university, and Vice President W. D. Carmichael Jr., joined Friday in urging that appropriations be raised above the budget recommendations. Gov. Hodges, as chairman of the board, presided as the trustees held their winter meeting and heard the complaints at the budget. He and the Budget Commission proposed. However, Friday said Gov. Hodges encouraged the university officials "to state our case on these recommendations."

Cuban Soldiers Abandon 'March'

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten bearded members of the Cuban army might have marched into Manhattan—but it was too long a hike. More than 1,000 well-wishers greeted the visiting Cubans Sunday when their plane landed at Idlewild Airport. They formed in rough marching order in front of a bus carrying the soldiers. Maj. Camilo de Cienfuegos, chief of the Cuban army staff, climbed down from the bus to join them, but was told that the airport was 18 miles from Manhattan. He weighed the matter a moment, then climbed back. The bus left for Manhattan without any marchers.

First Parachute Jump Killed Him

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A Marine's first parachute jump has killed him. The drop was unauthorized. Sgt. Ronald D. Hess, 21, of Camp Lejeune and Johnston, Pa., died Saturday when his chute didn't open after he leaped from a rented private plane near here. He had some parachute training, but had not jumped before. Hess and three other Marines had rented the plane, and he was the third of the four to leap. It was not determined whether his chute failed to open, or whether he didn't pull the ripcord. One of the group said they brought the parachutes from Camp Lejeune without permission. Headquarters of the 6th Naval District at Charleston, S.C., will investigate. The other jumpers were ordered back to their units with Fleet Marine Force troops at Camp Lejeune.

He will be there for a year and his wife, Ann, and two children will accompany him. This will be the Greenville scientist's third journey to Afghanistan. Some of what Dupree has learned is contained in a 350-page monograph published recently by the American Museum of Natural History, in which many facets of Afghanistan's history are revealed for the first time. Prof. Dupree was recently honored by being named research associate in anthropology of the American Museum of Natural History, in New York, a co-sponsor of the coming expedition to Afghanistan.
