ACL President Calls For Help In Freeing Railroads

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor

"The South has a way of life that you don't appreciate until you leave and then come back," a native Virginian who has seen much of the world and returned to his section said last night.

W. Thomas Rice, president of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, was speaking at the annual Greenville Chamber of Commerce banquet in the college dining hall.

He called for the Chamber's help in solving the train lines' problems and he said, "We are not only expecting you to help us a little bit, we want to help you."

Scrap Fleet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Five once proud U. S. battleships and 38 other outmoded warships are going on the scrap heap.

The Navy announced Tuesday that 520,000 tons of combat vessels, built at a cost of $697,640,000, are to be sold for scrap steel.

Sees Russians As Unyielding

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the Soviet Union's attitude regarding Berlin is so illogical it offers little promise for establishment of a just peace.

With much emphasis, Eisenhower told a news conference the United States will not give one single inch in its determination to preserve the rights and responsibilities of the Western Allies with respect to Berlin.

Eisenhower called Khrushchev's attitude obviously and palpably intransigent, or unyielding.

Wooten Assigned Inventory Role

RALEIGH—Frank M. Wooten of Greenville has been named chairman of a Pitt County committee to inventory state-owned lands within the county.

Wooten's appointment was announced today by Dewey W. Wells, First District Chairman of the North Carolina Bar Association.

Henderson Tensions Ease; Strikers In Jovial Mood

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—Strikers were in a jovial mood today as violence at the Henderson-Harriet Cotton Mill abated.

At the North Henderson plant, women strikers grabbed Vance County Sheriff E. A. Cottrell and danced in the street with him.

While negotiations continued, State Bureau of Investigation agents checked into Monday night's beating of Carolinas TWU Director Boyd Payton.

As the situation is under better control than at any time in the past week, Henderson has received so much unfavorable publicity about the strike that I'd like to say we are a city of law-abiding people and the trouble has been caused by a few extremists.

Macmillan And Khrushchev Resume Talks, But Atmosphere Is Heated Up

MOSCOW (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev resumed their talks today in an atmosphere heated up by Khrushchev's latest public avowal that the Soviets will not make concessions on West Berlin or German unification.

Macmillan was obviously shaken by Khrushchev's fiery statement to a political meeting in the Kremlin Tuesday while his British guest was away from Moscow.

Over lunch and into the afternoon, the two delegations were to continue the discussions which they last held at the Kremlin Monday.

Macmillan, suffering from a heavy head cold and looking weary, excused himself from the party early while the Soviet premier bounced around the room joking and making offhand quips to diplomats and newsmen.

Macmillan was clearly placed in an embarrassing position. "It set us back on our heels after days of backslapping," one British official said.

Proposed Compulsory Polio Shots And New Assembly Building OK'd

RALEIGH (AP)—A proposed new building to provide a more adequate meeting place for North Carolina's General Assembly, and compulsory vaccination of children against polio won the approval of legislative committees today.

New legislation tossed in the hopper included a bill by Rep. Sam J. Burrow Jr. of Randolph to place North Carolina on daylight saving time and one to provide more clerical assistance in the public schools.

Burrow said his daylight saving time measure would benefit working people in the state. Under the bill, clocks in the state would be advanced one hour on the last Sunday in April each year and turned back to standard time on the last Sunday in October.

A busy round of committee activity included approval by the House Committee on State Government of a bill by Rep. Marcus Buchanan of Jackson calling for a study of the organization of the State Highway Committee.

Approval of the proposed new legislative building came after a public hearing at which legislators were urged to get the state out of the horse and buggy days in so far as a legislative meeting place is concerned.

The measure would create a commission which would be charged with seeing to the construction of the new Wayne, Gov. Hodges and The Advisory Budget Commission have recommended an appropriation of 4% million for the new building.

Seven House members, headed by Rep. Roy Coates of Harnett, sponsored the bill to provide moral clerical help in the schools. It calls for an appropriation of $1,177,505 for the 1959-60 fiscal year and $1,209,955 for 1960-61 to pay the clerical help. Schools would be allotted the money on the basis of $35 for each state-allotted teacher in the school.

The compulsory polio vaccine bill was approved by the senate health committee.

The committee unanimously gave a favorable report to a bill by Sen. D. J. Rose of Wayne, a retired surgeon. It would require that, with few exceptions, all children between two months and six years of age be vaccinated against polio.

The bill now goes to the Appropriations Committee to work out details of financing the vaccination program. The committee presumably will decide whether the cost will be borne by the state or by the counties. Indications are that the state will pick up the tab for purchase of the vaccine—estimated to cost about $108,000 a year.

Under the bill, parents who can afford to do so would have their children vaccinated by their family doctors. Those who cannot afford it, would get the vaccinations at the county health department.

Sen. B. W. Thomason of Transylvania said he thought the state should bear the cost. He told the committee that the "counties have practically all they can take care of."

Children would be exempted from vaccination in cases where doctors certify vaccination would be detrimental to their health—where they would be allergic to the shots—or in cases where vaccination is contrary to religious beliefs.

At a public hearing last week on the measure, Dr. Sam Ravenel of Greensboro told the Senate and House Health Committee that the measure presented North Carolina with an opportunity to virtually wipe out paralytic polio.

The House Insurance Committee, meanwhile, set up a five-member sub-committee, headed by Rep. Edward H. Wilson of Caswell, to study the problem of cancellation of insurance policies automobile liability insurance policies.

Turned over to the subcommittee was a bill by veteran Rep. George Uzzell of Rowan. It would forbid insurance companies from cancelling auto liability policies except for non-payment of premiums or in cases where the insurance was obtained through fraud or misrepresentation. Uzzell said in introducing the bill early in the session that the problem of policy cancellation has developed under the state's mandatory liability insurance program.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he knows more about defense needs than the individual military service leaders.

The President, at a news conference, struck back at what he called demagogic critics of his defense program.

Eisenhower referred in a sarcastic voice to talk about some missiles, submarines and radar.

He did not name specifically these critics of his defense program. But it was clear he was aiming this shaft at Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) and others who have contended the administration's defense program will permit the United States to fall behind Russia in the production of intercontinental missiles.

It is very natural, the President said, that there should be a conflict of views on any proposals that humans make. He said he doubted any three reporters in the conference room would agree on how to run a newspaper.

Eisenhower said the heads of the three military services naturally do not have identical views since each believes his service is the most important to national defense. Because of this, the President said somebody has to make the decisions.

Eisenhower said that for the first time he was violating his own rule to maintain a position of humility.

He thinks, the President said firmly, that he is more able than any individual military leader to judge the necessities of over-all defense.

Then he struck at those like Symington who have been calling for an increase in the $41,800,000 defense budget. Just spending money doesn't mean that you're going to make the nation strong, Eisenhower said.

He added spending may operate to weaken defense.

What is required, the President continued, is a nicety of judgment which will insure that the country has balanced defenses.

Rep. Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) complained about the workload at the Copenhagen Embassy. He said there was so little work one of the 100 staff members found time to write a long paper on the habits of the Baltic eel.

"I doubt this is what we should pay some expensive person to write about," Hays said.

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—The condition of Gen. George C. Marshall remained "essentially unchanged" early today.

Col. George M. Powell, Marshall's physician, reported late yesterday that the general was "conscious and comfortable," but still remained in serious condition.

Meany To Retain Leadership Role

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—George Meany has informed fellow AFL-CIO chiefs, it was learned today, that although he will soon become 65 he has no intention of retiring as federation president.

Meany let this drop at Tuesday's closing session of the AFL-CIO Executive Council's winter meeting. Meany will become 65 next August just before the federation's scheduled San Francisco convention in September when officers come up for election.

It is permissible but not mandatory for top AFL-CIO officers to retire at 65.

The biggest story of the council session came on closing day with the disclosure that Walter Reuther head of the United Auto Workers Union, prevailed to a major extent in a hot internal AFL-CIO fight over federation policies.

"The feud established on a stronger basis than ever that Reuther, who was head of the old CIO before it was merged with the AFL, is clearly No. 2 man to Meany in the 14,000,000-member federation.

The fight started when council sessions got under way last week. Meany blew up in remarks to Reuther and James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers.

The AFL-CIO president tried to banish Carey to the end of the council meeting table and bawled out Reuther for making economic policy decisions without consulting him.

Reuther threatened to resign as chairman of the AFL-CIO Economic Committee. Part of the argument concerned Reuther's plan for the AFL-CIO to sponsor a mass march of unemployed on Washington to spur job aid action by Congress and the administration.

Meany reportedly felt this was too drastic. One word led to another. There was a good deal of cursing. Reuther and Carey charged Meany was trying to dictate AFL-CIO policies.

The upshot is that Meany and other federation leaders agreed to beef up their forthcoming Washington unemployment demonstration.

Eisenhower called Khrushchev's attitude obviously and palpably intransigent, or unyielding.

The President went on to say the Kremlin leader's position has been well known all along, but that he now seems to be emphasizing it.

As for Khrushchev's blast at the West's proposal for a conference on the Berlin problem, Eisenhower described it as a development which certainly cannot be called a hopeful one.

Then he went on to say that the Soviet Premier's attitude is so illogical that it doesn't promise much for establishment of a just peace.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that John Foster Dulles himself will decide—following intensive cancer treatment over a period of weeks—whether he is physically able to carry on as secretary of state.

Judge Approves Putting Down School Rebellion With Paddle

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The abortive teen-age rebellion at Bartlett High will soon be history, put down by a polished maple paddle swung by Principal John Barnes.

Three more young pupils are on the waiting list for seven whacks. Fourteen have felt the sting thus far. Judge Willard Dixon heartily approves.

The judge, at a conference with seven angry parents in his office Tuesday, rejected demands for assault warrants against Barnes.

He ruled. He cited a State Supreme Court ruling that teachers have, to a reasonable degree, the disciplinary rights of parents while the child is in their care.

To a mother who said the Bartlett High paddling was too severe, even if warranted, Dixon said he figured he was a better man because of the paddlings he received.

To another who said Barnes furiously kicked his office desk out of the way to gain swinging room, the judge observed: "If he wants to take a running start, maybe he needs it."

Several of the boys, 15 to 17 and wearing injured expressions, stood in a corner during the conference. Barnes said it all started when he removed a soft drink machine from the school cafeteria because too many lead slugs were turning up in the coin box.

In retaliation, about 20 boys tried to organize a cafeteria boycott. Those caught had the choice of taking seven whacks from the paddle or taking the matter up with their parents.

All students would love to take over the school," said Dixon, who has three youngsters of school age.

"Without such punishment pupils will not have respect for their teachers. Boys who think they can get away with anything often wind up in prison."

He paused and addressed his next remark directly to the solemn young spectators.

"We are going to make sure you are impressed."

As In Other Foods. Tricks In Shellfish

Modern processing, refrigeration and transportation has made available to every homemaker a wide array of shellfish products for eating enjoyment the year round.

At one time most shellfish supplies were consumed primarily in coastal regions. Today many forms of shellfish are available across the nation regardless of season.

Even with increased availability many consumers today are not familiar with shellfish products including forms, preparation, nutritional value, and the overall importance of the goodness of seafood.

Built-in services have been added to many foods and the shellfish products are no exception. Frozen breaded shrimp, ready to heat and eat, is one example of the added convenience.

Market Forms

Shellfish are sold in many different forms. The frozen form has become very popular within recent years but some are sold alive.

Common market forms of fresh shellfish include in the shell, shucks, headless, and cooked meat. Hard and soft blue crabs, lobsters, clams, and oysters should be alive when bought fresh in the shell. Crabs and lobsters may also be cooked in the shell.

Clam, oyster and scallop meats are sold free of the shell—commonly known as shucks. In this form, the portion is 100 per cent edible.

Only the tail part of shrimp is commonly seen in retail stores. Spiny lobster tails are also a common market form. Shrimp sold in this form are about 85 per cent edible, with the shell making up the remaining portion.

The edible portion is picked from the cooked shellfish—crab, shrimp, lobster meat is marketed in this way. This meat, of course is 100 per cent edible.

Common Kinds

The most common kinds of shellfish available at grocery stores today include shrimp, clams, oysters and scallops.

Shrimp are commonly sold in the fresh or frozen form, headless but with the shells on. Fresh or frozen forms are often peeled and cleaned or breaded and frozen after being peeled and cleaned.

Fresh shrimp have a mild color and are firm in texture. The color of the shell may be grayish-green, pinkish-tan, or light pink.

Fresh shrimp have a mild When cooked the shell turns red and the meat takes on an attractive reddish tint. Shrimp are usually sold on the size basis with the larger sizes being sold at slightly higher prices.

Common trade usage has developed the term "green shrimp". It describes shrimp that have not been cooked. This terminology is used to designate that the shrimp have not been cooked rather than referring to the color or species.

Clams and oysters in the shell should be alive and the shells should be plump and should have a natural creamy color with clear meat.

If the original package or can has more than 10 per cent liquid, this would indicate that they have been improperly handled and they are not the best product.

Oysters are usually sold on the size basis and the price differential between various sizes does not reflect their quality.

Crabs, lobsters and spiny lobsters should show movement of legs when bought alive. The tail of the live lobster curls under the body and does not hang down when the lobster is picked up. Spiny lobsters or lobster tails should have meat of clearish white color when frozen.

There are several kinds on the market. As is true with other frozen fish and shellfish, frozen lobster tails should have no color. Crabs and lobsters sold in the cooked form should be bright red and have no disagreeable odor.

There are four varieties of crabs that makes up the major portion of all commercial crab meat sold.

The meat from blue crabs is packed as lump meat which consists of whole lumps of white meat from the large body muscles that operate the swimming legs; flake meat which is the small pieces of white meat from the body; flake and lump which is a combination of the lump and flake type meats; claw meat which is the brownish tinted meat from the claws.

Soft crabs are Atlantic coast blue crabs that have shed their old hard shell. They should be alive when bought fresh; however, they are obtainable in the frozen form.

When storing fresh shellfish the temperature should be maintained near 32 degrees. A few degrees higher can cause considerable loss in the quality in a few hours.

Frozen shellfish should be kept frozen until ready for use.

Needed: Full Staff Of Officers

Since when did it become headline-hunting for elected representatives of the people to demand that the Ship of State be staffed by a full complement of officers?

A White House staff member has charged that Democrats are doing nothing more than headline-hunting calling for the resignation of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles now undergoing treatment for cancer.

From the viewpoint of a member of the Republican White House staff, such demands from Democrats may be considered merely a way of seeking headlines. But from the standpoint of the people of this nation, it would hardly seem the case.

International affairs is one of the most important phases of government operations in the United States in this day and time. The Secretary of State, who is responsible for the foreign policy and international relations of the country, is probably second in importance only to the President so far as administrative officials are concerned.

It should not seem strange, therefore, for the people of this nation to want in that position a man who is physically able to discharge the exacting duties which the post demands. Neither is it headline-hunting for responsible officials—or private citizens—to voice such demands in the current crisis.

What they are hunting is not headlines, but some indication that the President realizes the crisis this nation faces with its Secretary of State unable to carry out his important duties. And certainly such demands do not reflect on the ability of Secretary Dulles.

The plain truth is—as the administration has said forthrightly—that Secretary Dulles cannot now perform the duties of his post and there is no way of knowing when or if he will ever be able to resume the heavy load he has carried.

By no means should the President be expected to assume the burdens of Secretary of State in addition to the heavy responsibilities of the Presidency.

Not only would it be disastrous for the nation, it would prove disastrous for the President himself.

If the American Ship of State is not to founder in the rough seas of international problems, it must have an active, capable Secretary of State as its executive officer as well as a President to perform the duties of Captain. Without both, the Ship of State is in imminent peril.

If calling these facts to the attention of the administration and the people is "headline-hunting", then the veteran newsmen in the White House have suddenly placed a new interpretation on the meaning of this aged journalistic term.

Hodges Can Count On Budget Suggestions

Gov. Hodges indicated in a news conference earlier this week he would welcome budget suggestions if they were better than those proposed by him and the Advisory Budget Commission.

We don't know that the governor will welcome some of the budget suggestions which will be forthcoming from the legislature, and we seriously doubt that he will think many of them are better than the ones proposed by himself and the Advisory Budget Commission.

Be that as it may, we are confident there will be plenty of suggestions concerning the proposed state budget before the General Assembly writes its budget bills for the next biennium. The suggestions will include not only spending state money, but also ways of getting sufficient state revenue to meet the expenditures.

Already there have been a number of informal suggestions concerning the balancing of the budget which Gov. Hodges accomplished by proposing spending windfall withholding tax funds for operating expenses. Likewise there have been numerous statements concerning proposed appropriations from teachers, state employees, state agencies, institutions and others who would alter the recommendations of the governor and the budget commission.

The suggestions will become more numerous as budget hearings get underway and the legislature gets farther along the road of finalizing appropriations and revenue measures. And unless there is an abrupt departure from past legislative sessions, the final budget will include many alterations of the recommendations made by the governor and the Advisory Budget Commission.

Proxmire And A Heavyweight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, Wisconsin Democrat who reportedly does 50 pushups a day to keep in condition and who once won a boxing championship at Yale, has taken on a political heavyweight: Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

In the Senate, some take the attitude that everybody loves Lyndon and Lyndon loves everybody. The tall Texan, as the leader of the Senate Democrats, and tries to shepherd them around like a big, happy family.

So when Proxmire, 43, laced into Johnson, 51, Monday it was like hearing a lieutenant tell the general he was getting too big for his britches.

His complaint in effect was that Johnson handles the Senate Democrats' undemocratically. Proxmire said Johnson runs the party's program in the Senate without consulting the other Democrats.

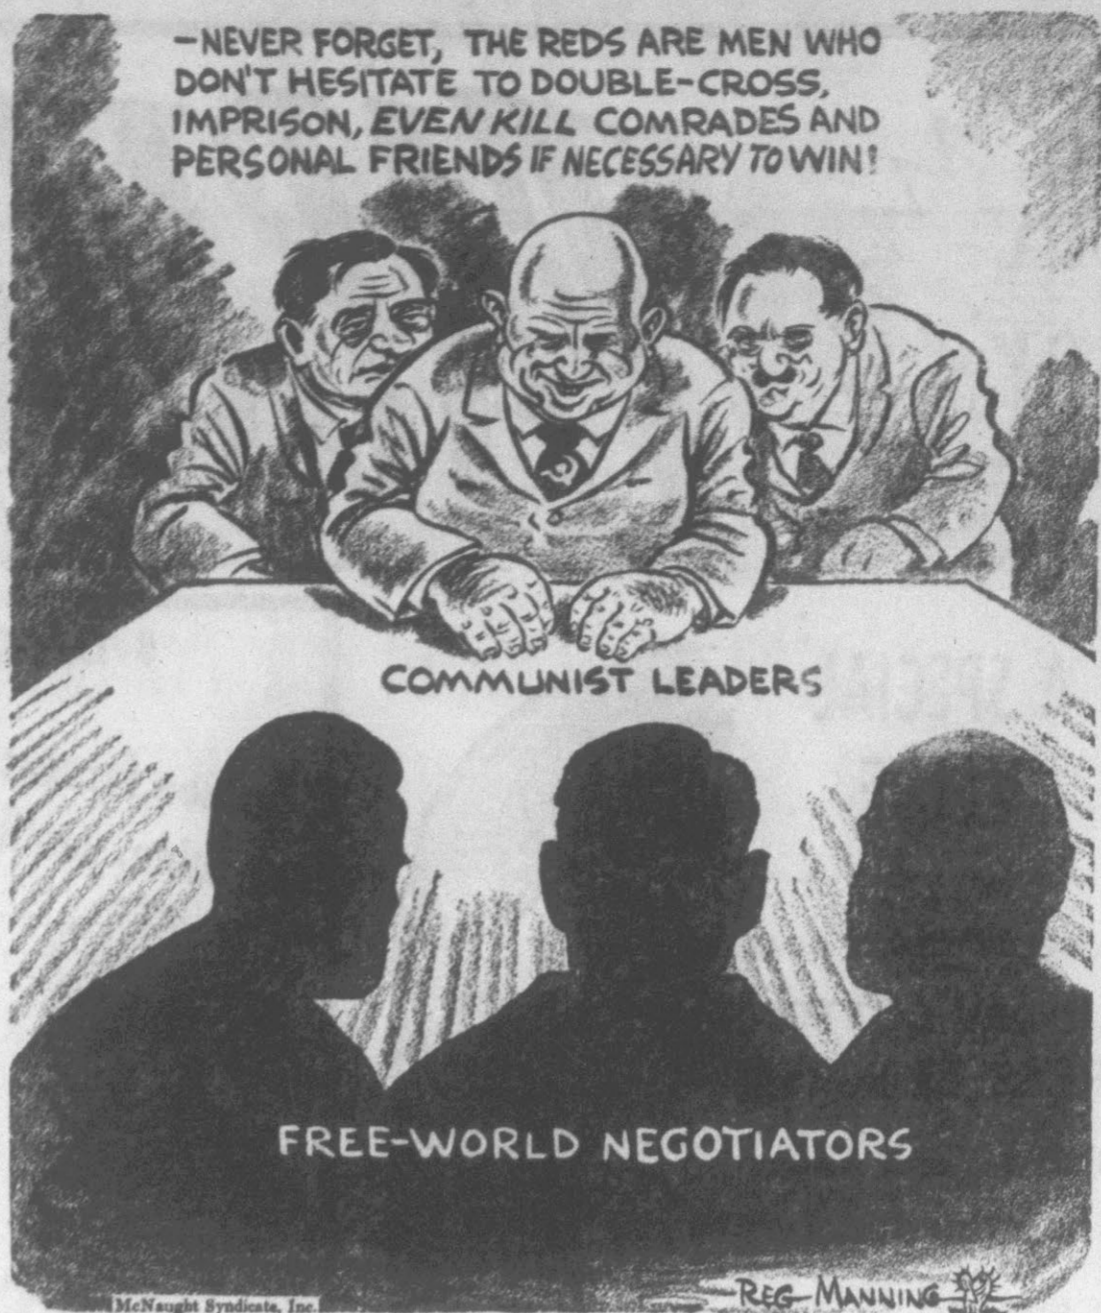

"The typical Democratic senator has literally nothing to do with determining the legislative program and policies of this party in the Senate," he said.

Proxmire, who won the Senate seat of the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy in 1957 and then won reelection to a full six-year term last year, demanded that the 84 Democratic senators be called together for a conference or caucus before major party decisions.

He said he thought that if Johnson had regular meetings with his fellow-Democrats it would improve the leadership.

None of this is likely to improve the popularity of Proxmire

When You Sit Down With Them

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Crossed Up By A Habit

Practically everybody is familiar with that grand old way of saying an evening farewell in America: "Won't you stay for supper?"

And, of course, practically everybody upon hearing it, realizing that the host or hostess is not prepared for a supper guest, replies, "No, thank you."

It's custom and although, when you think about it, it might seem silly to ask someone to stay for supper when you don't really mean it, that's just the way things are done.

There's at least one man in Greenville who can ask visitors to stay for supper and be sincere. In fact he could ask them to stay for any meal and be sure there would be plenty on hand to feed them if they accepted.

That would be Paul Julian who is director of dietary service at East Carolina College. His crews are busy preparing 4,400 to 4,500 meals per day. And they serve the food cafeteria style until all the students and faculty members who wish, have eaten at each of the three meals every day.

Three cafeterias are served from the giant kitchen in the center of the dining hall and another, recently completed, will be opened at the beginning of the spring quarter.

The great kitchen is a self-contained thing, complete with its own bakery and a couple of men who do nothing more than prepare salads for the hungry hordes.

Staple supplies are in huge quantities in the big basement of the building. Numbers of cooks are busy all day at the array of steam and electric cooking devices in the center of the kitchen.

So there is no reason why, if Paul Julian wanted to ask someone to stay for supper, he couldn't do so.

The point of all this is, your columnist paid a visit to the college cafeteria the other day to do an article on the recent addition to the building.

Julian showed me over the entire building pointing out the extensive changes which have been made during the 12 years he has been on the job.

When the tour ended and I was preparing to leave, it was 5 o'clock which is about serving time.

"Won't you stay and have some supper," Julian asked politely. Behind him push carts loaded down with food for the evening meal were being moved into the cafeterias. The salad men were busy mixing their specialties.

Golden fried chicken was sizzling in the electric fryers. Mouth watering pies were being moved out of the bakery.

What did your slow thinking columnist reply?

"No, thank you."

Newcomers to Greenville swear there are more civic clubs per square inch here than in any other municipality.

But no one will deny that these clubs do more to build up community pride and enthusiasm than any other thing. So there are no real gripes when another one forms.

Two more are in the process of organizing and both have meetings tonight for discussion of plans.

Forming of a Toastmasters Club is underway and a meeting will be in Room 123 of Austin Building beginning at 7:30.

The club will offer background training in public speaking and allow members to develop ability to think and talk on their feet.

Across town at the Silo Restaurant a number of persons interested in forming an Optimist Club will meet at 7 o'clock to work on plans for organizing.

The Optimist Club has boys work as its projects.

Its motto is "Friend of the Boy."

Both of the clubs would be welcome additions to the community. They should have much to offer.

Hecht Hates Ideas

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "I hate people who wake up in the morning and know what they'll think and say all day," said Ben Hecht, who will be 65 this Saturday, has spent a prodigiously creative lifetime lighting firecrackers under the hypocrites and fobles of his time.

Ben looks like an aging Kewpie doll, or a raffish Buddha. His blue eyes twinkle as he verbally skewers mankind's eternal follies. He still has the air of a small boy playing a secret prank on everybody.

"I never achieved a real goal in life," he said cheerfully, "not even a haircut."

"My chief goal was to remain 18, never to grow up or grow old. I missed that goal."

But this onetime Chicago newspaper reporter has managed to turn out 65 movies, 25 books, 20 plays, 250 short stories and at least 300 magazine articles.

A one-man fiction factory, Ben has two books on the press now.

Ben, using a pencil and a lap board, writes every day and turns out about 5,000 words a week, as he has nearly every week for more than 40 years.

Here is Hecht in his own words:

"I hate idleness — it gives me suicidal moods — and I hate ideas. Ideas turn men into monsters and cause them to turn into scoundrels. If you siphon ideas out of their heads, people are more human."

"I'd like to see politics abolished. Politics is as bad for the spirit as war is for the body."

"I like spirited people who dislike bosses. I've always figured that whoever hired me was my immediate enemy. That made me a fortune in Hollywood. The harder you hated a boss out there the more he paid you."

"Everybody's a kibitzer. There is too much conformity. People are afraid to be individuals."

"The future of the human race, if it has one, should be good. Some tremendous leader will have to appear, but I don't see him anywhere."

"He may have to be a religious leader. It takes religion to relate a human being to himself, to God, and to life."

"But the only religion I'll join is one which asks me to love myself and love my neighbor. That religion has gone sour, but it is the only one that can save the world."

"Who is God? God is a human being, as far as I can see. We have forgotten that man has divinity in him."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT REALLY COUNTS?

At a committee meeting which I attended some time ago, a member suggested a new project for us. It was a good one. Most of those present expressed their approval.

Then we discussed putting this plan into operation. Like most new schemes, it needed a good deal of time and effort and a little money to get started. Who was going to supply the time, effort, and money? Who, indeed?

The members who had supported the project so eagerly in theory were silent now about the practice. And that was the end of the new plan.

Generally speaking, people do what they believe in. Or to put it another way, those things which are really important to people are the things to which they devote their time, strength, and means. They may say that other things are important; but what they do is more revealing than what they say.

The man who claims, "I don't really care about gold," but plays eagerly and often is not quite truthful. The woman who says, "I don't really care about clothes," but spends a great deal of money on them does, whether she knows it or not, care about clothes.

What about yourself? What is really important to you? Where do you invest most of your time, energy, and money? For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

Other Editors Saying ... No Need To Accept Risk

(Henderson Dispatch)

Of course the State budget will be a risk, as the four men who rule the General Assembly's powerful money committees unanimously agree. Budgets are always in a measure a guess. But there is a reasonably sure means of avoiding the serious challenge of spending schedules, namely, to appropriate no more than there is every reasonable certainty that revenues will provide for. It's as simple as that.

It is something of a mystery that governments think they must have what they want instead of holding their spending in line with what they have. That's what individuals have to do. They support government, and have every right to expect public affairs shall not be conducted on any basis different from their own private economy.

No budget should be approved without some semblance of a margin above authorized appropriations, which would act as a cushion for contingencies not anticipated.

There is no justification for deficit financing, however, except possibly for essential capital improvements, and even those could be curtailed from figures that have been submitted.

So much for the Legislature. Now as to Congress and the Federal budget. The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which originates all tax measures on Capitol Hill, has turned thumbs down on President Eisenhower's request for higher taxes on gasoline and aviation fuel. He will please what may be a vast majority of citizens if he sticks to that resolve. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, of the committee, says he sees no chance for a tax increase, nor for tax reductions either.

It is just as important that the proposed gasoline increase of a cent and a half a gallon be denied, with whatever slackening may be necessary in the interstate highway program, as it is for that program to be carried forward with such an increase. No emergency exists that would justify the recommended higher levy on consumers. The highway program ought to be kept on a pay-as-you-go basis, but that should be accomplished by spending within the revenue in prospect.

Even if the cent and a half increase were granted now, what assurance is there that the President will not be back a year hence asking for still more to keep abreast of what some of the bureaucrats want to do?

The State budget is predicted upon the theory that good times will continue in the next biennium. But one thing certain is that if they do not the people will be less able to pay higher taxes than they are now. And the burden is already heavy enough. There is no need to accept a risk in either the State or the Federal budgets, and that will not happen if a realistic view is taken by lawmakers of the ability and willingness of the public to underwrite, by law and compulsion, whatever government officials may wish to have.

Apparently No Limit To Taxes

By ELMER ROESSNER

Is there a limit to tax rates? American families surrender one-third of their incomes in taxes. British families lose more: from one-half to two-thirds. Is there a point at which free men quit, at which they refuse to survive?

Probably not. An interesting bit of evidence has been developed by Prof. George F. Break, of the University of California. As recounted by Walter W. Heller in a recent issue of "Challenge," published by New York University, Professor Break selected "the most tax-sensitive group in the chilliest tax climate he could find: solicitors and accountants in Great Britain, whose practices bring them in continuous contact with tax problems and whose marginal tax rates are far above those in the United States." These British load-bearers carry about twice the tax rates Americans pay, often up to 60 per cent of income.

NONBALKING TAX DONKEYS

Professor Break was concerned with "disincentives," those being the taxes that discourage extra effort because the government spoons up most of the growth.

The progressive income tax system has been criticized because it progressively reduces the net award per unit for any given amount of work and the amount of tax the individual pays has no direct effect on the amount of service he gets from the government.

It is curious to note the late Franklin D. Roosevelt was largely responsible for locking the "time-and-a-half for overtime" concept and the higher "progressive" income tax rates into the American economy.

The first embodies the idea that the more a person produces, the higher his rate of return should be. The second provides that the more one produces, the less his return can be.

BACK TO BREAK

Professor Break, on a basis of 306 interviews, found that 20 per cent reported "an impairment of incentives" due to taxation. In other words, that many were working less, or turning down new business, because the government would take so much of the added income.

However, he found that more than 80 per cent evidenced the opposite effect. They kept working harder and harder to get a little bit ahead of the government's levy.

The net effect, he reported, as "not large enough to be of great economic or sociological significance."

He concluded: "From the present evidence, we must conclude that contrary to the frequently repeated injunctions of so many financial commentators, solicitude for the state of work incentives does not under current conditions justify significant reductions in the role of progressive income taxation.

"Indeed, it would appear that, in the United States at least, income tax rates could be raised considerably, especially in the middle and upper-middle income ranges, without lowering unduly the aggregate supply of labor."

There will be more evidence and comment on this situation here tomorrow.

WOMAN WANTS BACUM CLEANER FOR BUGS

Mrs. I. J. Cummings, a resident of Bogota, Colombia, has written to the Levy Corp., in New York asking it to make an insect attachment for bacum cleaners.

It would consist of a small butterfly net, with a light, to be attached to the end of the hose. This could whisk insects to eternity without spotting the walls. There are almost no window screens in Bogota. Lewyt declined her idea.

Ayden, with its wide streets, miles and miles of paving, a new sewage disposal plant, and a modern sewage system nearing completion, is beginning to take on a forward look, and is one of the most beautiful small towns in eastern North Carolina. The New Year will bring about many changes, and lots of progress. The organization of the Ayden Golf and Country Club is an overdue conclusion. With a golfer's dream coming true, the Edwards Pharmacy has already begun remodeling their big new modern drug store. The work on this project is progressing rapidly and when completed will be one of the finest in the County. The First National Bank has had growing pains for sometime and is now planning to enlarge and modernize its building and facilities to better serve its ever increasing number of customers for their complete banking needs.

L.W. Purser, owner and operator of the Purser store, opened here about two years ago in the remodeled Sauls building, is now modernizing his facilities and will have a modern drug store, with a complete prescription department, and a registered druggist to better serve his many customers their medical needs.

Through the years, I have noted with much interest and concern the many projects sponsored by the various Civic Clubs and service organizations in our town.

They should be commended for the fine work they had done in the past, and should strive to do even more in the future. The surface has hardly been scratched of the things that should be, and can be done. We have most every kind of club already, so why not a voluntary plant-a-tree club, with every interested person a charter member with no payment of dues? Plant a dogwood, azalea, maple or oak, from little acorns big trees grow. It will be interesting to plant a tree, and watch it grow, just as you watch your children grow. To you, it takes determination, co-operation, and action. With a united effort you will soon see the natural beauty in this plant-a-tree project. Planning together in progress, working together is success.

The Jaycees should be highly commended for the fine work they have done in the past, and are now doing in bring to Ayden, April 10-11, its first Farmers Day Festival. From all indications it will be a big success.

As an older citizen, I have an ever-increasing pride in the growth and nurture of our town and community. With young blood adding strength to our population, I appeal to my fellow-townsmen for a 100 per cent co-operative effort in a continued forward look, as herein suggested, for an ever-better Ayden.

FHA Members Fete Mothers

SPEAKERS AND GUESTS . . . Last night the Belvoir-Falkland FHA members entertained their mothers at a banquet in the Home Economics Cottage. Among those present were, left to right, Mrs. Hazel Tripp, advisor; Miss Alice Strawn, speaker; Miss Catherine Windham, club president; and her mother, Mrs. David Windham. (Photo by Peggy Smith)

Last night the Belvoir-Falkland Future Homemakers of America held their Mother-Daughter Banquet, in the Home Economics Cottage at Belvoir-Falkland High School. There were 75 present for the occasion.

The theme, "Mother Is A Jewel," was effectively carried out with a bulletin board, drawn with a red glittered rose and words, expressing it. The program booklets carried the same idea.

The tables were decorated with an arrangement of three dozen red roses, the club's flower, on the main tables. The other tables had a jewelry box with jewelry in it, in the center of the tables surrounded by candles. The meal was served in the midst of candle light.

The menu prepared by the girls consisted of barbecued chicken, potato salad, green beans, relishes, rolls, butter, iced tea and cherry tarts a la mode.

The FHA President, Catherine Windham, welcomed the mothers and guests. She then introduced the student teachers, Caroline Carter and Beverly Stewart, who gave the devotion entitled "The Strong Woman." Barbara Ann Bullock (casted the mothers with a poem "Mama Can Do It" with the response by her mother, Mrs. Minnie Bullock.

The FHA Creed was explained by the girls. Dora Ann Brown narrated the skit with Nadine Garris, Carol Norville, Linda Phillips, Betty Coggins, Jean Bland, Linda Clark, and Shirley Spain participating.

Achievement Degrees were awarded by Gail Garris to Phyllis Nichols, Edna Colville, Betty Harrell, Doris Moore, Pearlina Harris, Brooks Eastwood, Patricia Meeks, Joan Harris, Frances Edwards, Carolyn Harris, Carol Corbett, Jean Bland, Carol Norville, Catherine Windham, Nellie Gwaltney, Betty Coggins, and Linda Phillips. Nellie Ruth Gwaltney gave the FHA's activities.

Mrs. Leota Tyson played the accordion and led the girls in group singing.

The speaker, Miss Alice Strawn, college supervisor in home economics spoke to the group on "Jewels In Your Future."

A ceremony of presenting a rose by each girl to her mother was held. The group sang M-O-T-H-

Bride-To-Be Given Nuptial Tea

Mrs. Alex Evans honored Miss Betsy Castelloe, bride-elect, at a pre-nuptial tea Saturday at her home in Winterville.

Upon arrival the guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. D. T. McLawhorn and introduced to the receiving line composed of Mrs. Evans, Miss Castelloe, Mrs. Obed Castelloe, the bride-to-be's mother; Miss Maggie Castelloe, sister of the honoree; and Mrs. John O. Reynolds, aunt of the groom-elect.

Mrs. Irving Lee Smith, Jr. of Robersonville directed the guests into the dining room. A color scheme of pink and red was used throughout the rooms. Of focal interest on the appointed table was an arrangement of snapdragons, carnations and fern flanked by pink tapers tied with tulle in silver candelabra.

The mantel was banked with magnolia and pink clusters of grapes. Pink candles in brass candle holders were placed on each side.

Mrs. C. D. Langston poured tea while Mrs. R. W. Tyson served the cake which was formed into twin hearts. Assisting in the serving and throughout the house was Mrs. Ralph Worthington, Miss Jane Reynolds and Miss Jennie Kathryn Forbes.

Other party refreshments served were assorted open-face sandwiches, nuts and cheese straws. Guests were registered by Mrs. Charles V. Wilkerson.

Miss Virginia Belle Cooper of Ayden said the good-byes.

PTA Members To Present Play

REHEARSING . . . Elmhurst PTA members have been rehearsing for the past month for their presentation of "Gold In The Hills." (Photo by Peggy Smith)

The play, "Gold In The Hills," will be presented by the Elmhurst PTA members Friday night at 8 o'clock. The melodrama contains all the absurdities of plot, situation, and language of the 19th century "thrillers."

Interior of a farmhouse and Bowery beer garden and dance hall will be the settings of the two-act play. Players in the cast will be Mrs. Joyce Constner, Jack Morgan, Mrs. Violet Jones, Norman Pierce, Dr. M. W. Aldridge, Charles Ross, Frank Stehbeck, "Boomer" Scales, Dr. Steve Bartlett, Bill Taylor, Helen Kleinert, Teresa Kleinert, Marie Wallace's Bowery Girls (dancers), Charles Home, Mrs. Polly Coffman, and Jim Mallory. E. W. Hirschberg is acting director with Mrs. Polly Coffman, producer. Mrs. Bonnie Stultz, stage manager; Mrs. Louise Carter, symphonic effects; Mrs. Marilyn Forsy, make-up; Bill Norwood, business manager; and Mrs. Virginia Scales, hospitality chairman, are among the backstage crew.

Nominating Committee To Secure Officers

Mrs. R. H. Hunsucker and Mrs. J. E. Winslow were appointed as a nominating committee to secure officers for the 1959-60 club year when the Round Table Book Club met Tuesday. Mrs. W. Howell was hostess to the club at her home on West Rock Spring Road. The president, Mrs. D. L. Moore, presided during the business session. Mrs. Howard McGinnis, program leader, chose as her topic, "Islands and Island Peoples of the World." She selected three groups, the Orkneys and Shetlands, which are British Islands; Madagascan, a French possession in the Indian Ocean and the fourth largest island of the world; and the Aleutians, in the North Pacific Ocean.

"The people by virtue of being surrounded by water, are isolated and necessarily, different; self sufficient and independent," she stated. Hunting, fishing, cattle raising and farming on a small scale are the chief means of support. "In recent years foreign trade and air travel has rapidly changed the islander's modes of living." Mrs. Robert Fountain Jr., the pronunciation referee for the afternoon, spoke to the group on "twelve rules for happiness." Special guests were Mrs. Robert Holt, Mrs. Ralph Brimley, Mrs. T. M. Davis and Miss Eunice McGee.

HD Club Members Honor Families With Supper

The Sweet Gum Grove Home Demonstration Club members entertained their husbands and families at a "Family Night Covered Dish Supper" at the Community Building. Mrs. Eric Whichard, president, welcomed the guests and Howard Briley responded for the husbands and families. Mrs. Johnny Meeks, vice-president, gave the devotional. After J. L. Barnhill had returned thanks, the group was served a covered dish supper prepared by the members.

Oratorical Contest Set At St. Raphael's School

Sister Mary Barbara, principal of St. Raphael's School, has announced that the school's third annual oratorical contest will be held in the auditorium Thursday night, Feb. 26, at 8 o'clock. The local event is being scheduled in conjunction with the Diocesan-wide competition under the sponsorship of the North Carolina Catholic Laymen's Association. The subject for the Junior division, as announced by His Excellency, Vincent S. Walters, Bishop of Raleigh, is "The Helps and Hindrances of Youth in Responding to the Call of Their Vocation." Students from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades are eligible to participate in the Junior Division. The Senior Division is open to students in Catholic High Schools only. Winners in the local contest will receive cash awards of $10, $5, and $2.50 each. The first place winner will be eligible to compete in the Deaneary Oratorical Contest which will be held Sunday afternoon, March 1, in Rocky Mount. The student taking first prize in the Deaneary event will go to High Point for the Diocesan contest the middle of March. Top winners at St. Raphael's for the past two years have taken honors in the Deaneary competition. Peggy Vetter scored third place in the Deaneary event in 1957, and David Gordon placed third in 1958. The speeches, which have a time limit of three to five minutes, will be judged by a board of local professional people. Contestants will be scored on content, originality, and delivery. Preparation for the contest has been under the supervision of Sister Mary Barbara.

SAVORY CHEESE SAUCE

Ingredients: 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, pepper, 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1-4 teaspoon curry powder, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1 can (10 ounces) tomatoes, 4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, 1-3 cup light cream.
Method: Melt butter over low heat in 1-quart saucepan; stir in flour, salt, a dash of pepper, mustard, curry powder and sugar. Add tomatoes and cook and stir constantly until bubbly and thickened. Add grated Parmesan and light cream; stir constantly over very low heat (do not allow to boil; until cheese is melted and mixture is hot. Serve at once. Or cook (off heat); at serving time reheat over very low heat stirring constantly. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.
Note: About 1-4 cup, or more, of the sauce may be spooned over 1 or 2 poached eggs. The eggs should be poached until they are firm enough to have only slightly runny centers. If a 10-ounce can of tomatoes is not available, use 1/2 cup tomato juice and 1/2 cup lightly drained canned tomatoes.

49th State Is Society Topic

FOUNTAIN — The Women's Missionary Society of the Fountain Baptist Church met in the social room of the church Monday with 16 members and one visitor present. "The Woman's Hymn" was sung followed by the Watchword and The Lord's Prayer in unison.
Mrs. R. F. Speight, presiding, called for reports from the various committees. Dates to remember during March were called to the attention of the members.
At the conclusion of the business session, Mrs. H. L. Smith, gave the program on "Alaska, Fabulous 49th State." The program was in the form of an interview with four missionaries who told of their work in Alaska.
Those taking part on the program with Mrs. Smith were: Mrs. Floyd Turnage, Mrs. Hugh Eagles, Mrs. Bennie Tugwell, and Mrs. R. F. Speight, Mrs. Turnage closed the meeting with prayer.

Co-Hostesses Give Party

Mrs. Brooks Mills and Mrs. Bobby Stokes were co-hostesses at a social hour recently at the home of Mrs. Mills honoring Miss June Emith, bride-elect of February 28. Upon arrival the honoree was presented a corsage of red carnations.
A red and white color scheme was carried out in the living room and dining room. On the living room mantel were bud vases containing red carnations. Ivy interspersed with red hearts was effectively used on the mantel and bookcase. The dining room table covered with a white lace cloth over red damask was centered with the traditional bride and groom flanked by burning red tapers in silver candleholders. Surrounding the punch bowl, ivy and red hearts were arranged.
Mrs. Dalton Smith, mother of the bride elect poured punch and the guests helped themselves to refreshments of nuts, leed bridal cakes and party sandwiches.
Miss Smith was remembered with a silver covered vegetable dish by the hostesses.

Evidence Of Strife Builds Up For Republic Of Haiti

Editor's note: Thomas P. Whitney, Associated Press foreign news analyst, has just returned from one of his frequent visits in Haiti.

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The Negro republic of Haiti may become the next major trouble spot in the Caribbean.

Daniel Pinole, radical leader of the impoverished masses of the Haitian capital Port au Prince, has ordered his followers in a broadcast from Cuba to get ready for a general strike aimed at overthrowing the government of President Francois Duvalier.

Another exiled opposition leader, Louis Dejeio, who has strong influence in the upper class and among women and shopkeepers, has been broadcasting the same message in recent weeks.

Haitians listen to these broadcasts and there is an air of anxiety and expectancy.

Haiti is the ham in the Caribbean sandwich — stuck between two blood enemies, Fidel Castro's new Cuba and Rafael Trujillo's tough dictatorship in the Dominican Republic.

This uncomfortable position combines with a desperate economic crisis, with continuing hatreds among Haitian political factions and with the absence of an efficient government based on popular support, to add up to an unstable situation which could explode at any time.

President Duvalier was voted in office in an army-run election in September 1957 after 10 months of political turmoil following the ouster of strongman President

Paul Magloire. Duvalier has virtual dictatorial powers. He gives the impression now of a man of arbitrary temperament with literary nerves.

In January Duvalier, under the shock of Castro's success in Cuba, attempted to remove the stigma of dictatorship from his regime by freeing all political opponents whom he had jailed, including some sentenced to death. A liberalization of his rule was proclaimed.

But now, in fear of an invasion by his Haitian opponents from Cuba, Duvalier is clamping down hard and uttering dire threats. He has banned all exit visas for Haitians — presumably to hold within the country any who would like to join anti-Duvalier forces.

Duvalier fears an invasion by Haitian exiles on the pattern of Castro's invasion of Cuba in late 1956.

Haiti's army, which also serves as the police force, has 5,000 men and about 500 officers, but the efficiency and loyalty of this force might be doubtful if a political invasion of Haitian rebels took place.

One of the reasons discontent is rising is the serious economic situation in this little Negro republic of some 3,800,000 people, most of them illiterate and living in extreme poverty.

"There is no money. There is just no money at all," said a Haitian businessman. For many other Haitians it is much, much worse; there is nothing to eat.

It is hard to see any ray of light in the Haitian situation at all.

Duvalier now has the active backing of the Dominican dictator, Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, another Latin American ruler marked by Fidel Castro for overthrow. Haiti and the Dominican Republic divide the island of Hispaniola. To the west of Haiti, only 50 miles across the Windward Passage, is the easternmost point of Cuba.

Duvalier and Trujillo met in December on their border and issued a joint declaration against "communism". Each government promised not to permit subversive activity against the other on its territory.

Frigates of the Dominican navy now apparently are patrolling the entire Haitian coastline and frequently put in at Haitian ports.

Far East Issues To Be Stressed By Authorities

"The Rise of Nationalism and Communism in the Far East and Its Challenge to the West" will be discussed in a series of lectures and forums by two authorities on international affairs at the Sixth Annual World Affairs Institute at East Carolina College Thursday and Friday, March 11 and 12. Dr. George Pasti of the social studies department, chairman, has announced the program for the two-day event.

Dr. T. Z. Koo, secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation from 1933 to 1948 and for many years a leading figure in the spiritual life of the world, and Dr. Richard L. Walker, chairman of the Department of International Studies at the University of South Carolina, will be principal speakers at the World Affairs Institute.

Dr. Koo, opening the Institute March 11 at 10 a. m., will analyze the background of present-day problems in the Far East. Dr. Walker will discuss "China Under Communism" at 11 a. m. March 12. Both meetings will be held in the Wright auditorium and will be general assemblies of students and staff members at the college.

Dr. Walker and Dr. Koo will appear March 12 in two joint discussions of Far Eastern affairs. They will talk on "Problems of the Far East" at 3 p. m. in the Y Hut and on "The United States and the New World of Asia" at 7:30 p. m. in the Austin auditorium.

The much discussed and highly praised movie "Father Panchall" will be presented as an event of the World Affairs Institute March 11 at 7:30 p. m. in the Austin auditorium. Sponsors are the college Entertainment Committee and the student Art Club. The film tells the tragedy of family life in an Indian village.

School Boom Is Good News To Makers Of School Furnishings

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — School boards—and taxpayers—may be struggling today to provide classrooms for the rapidly increasing number of pupils. Debates may be raging over how much new schools should cost and how fancy they should be.

But for the makers of seats, desks, blackboards, laboratory equipment and the like every prospect pleases.

For them the baby boom of the forties is now paying off in booming sales. They are doing their best to convince school boards—and taxpayers—that the equipment that was good enough for grandfather isn't good enough for sonny.

Even the Soviets are getting into the act, seeking to develop a market here for school laboratory equipment. Thanks to their own peculiar accounting methods, they are offering it at cut rate prices, which domestic manufacturers

Recommend N.C. Provide Cancer Research Center
RALEIGH (AP)—A study commission has recommended to the Legislature that immediate action be taken to provide additional cancer research in North Carolina.

The commission said facilities should be expanded at the University of North Carolina for cancer research and educational programs. It added, "This program is urgent and should be acted upon and implemented immediately."

The commission reported that cancer caused 4,119 deaths in North Carolina in 1957 and predicted there will be 5,932 in 1970 if present trends continue.

The group recommended that the cancer control program of the State Board of Health be expanded, including its request for an appropriation of $235,000 a year for its treatment program and $75,000 a year for a program of three-day hospitalization for diagnosis.

Offer Superior Version Of Hamlet On TV Show

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — The Old Vic Company presented a superior television version of "Hamlet" on CBS-TV Tuesday night.

An excellent adaptation by producer-director Ralph Nelson and Michael Bentham, director of the Old Vic, offered the main elements of William Shakespeare's four-hour tragedy in 75 minutes. They chose to make "Hamlet" a swiftly paced action drama in 19th century court style.

The "Dupont Show of the Month" production did not linger over rhetoric. It suggested the meanings of character that have beguiled readers and theater-goers for centuries. Limited in its playing time, it necessarily sacrificed depth of meaning to intensity of action.

One result, in the opinion of one viewer who saw the company's Broadway production, was that John Neville as Hamlet came off better on television than on the stage. Neville in the role of Hamlet lacks the emotional depth of a John Gielgud. But in the decision to play the tragedy on TV as a fast drama of sinister intrigue, there was little time for profundity.

Barbara Jefford was too mature for the role of Ophelia. Oliver Neville as Claudius, Margaret Courtenay as Gertrude, John Humphry as Laertes and Joseph O'Connor as Polonius, were capable but not distinguished.

However, as a result of brilliant direction and a beautiful production in all-white sets, the players proved to be less important than the play itself.

It's a grand play and it was grand to see it offered to the widest possible audience.

New Opposition To Elimination

RALEIGH (AP)—More opposition has built up against a proposal to eliminate a requirement from the State Constitution for a "general and uniform" public school system.

Mrs. Ethel Perkins Edwards, secretary of the United Forces for Education, reported Tuesday that her organization had voted unanimously against the proposal.

Mrs. Edwards said, "We believe the proposed change would confuse and divide, for if the state does not retain this minimum guarantee then there can be no guarantee for the education of future generations."

The Constitutional Study Commission, headed by Victor S. Bryant Jr. of Durham, proposes deletion of the requirement.

However, Bryant said Tuesday he is confident a majority of his commission would be glad to see the provision for a uniform system remain in the Constitution.

Couldn't Write And Be In Love

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Here's one for the divorce book: Night club singer Joan Dixon, 25, testified her husband, William L. Driskill, 29, informed her he couldn't write his novel and be in love. So he moved out of their Hollywood home last September after less than a year of marriage. She obtained the home under a property settlement.

She didn't say whether the novel was finished.

Third Barn Fire In Three Years

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP) — John Smith is about convinced he has been building his barn in the wrong place. Fire destroyed his newest barn Tuesday with 4,000 bales of hay, 40 pigs and 7 brood sows.

It was the third time in three years flames have leveled Smith's barn on the same spot. The first two fires were caused by lightning. Tuesday's was blamed on a wiring defect.

Elizabeth Buys Bonds For Israel

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor purchased $100,000 in bonds for Israel at a testimonial banquet Tuesday night.

The gathering was a testimonial for comedian George Jessel. Much of the evening was given over to the sale of the bonds, a pet charity project of Jessel, who has been in show business 50 years. More than $1,250,000 in bonds were sold.

The funds will be used for the establishment, in Jessel's honor, of a village of 416 homes in Israel for new immigrant families, many of them from Iron Curtain countries.

Think Fishermen Salvaged Gold

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Enterprising fishermen apparently made off with more than $60,000 worth of gold which went down when an Argentine plane crashed last June off Grande Island, 50 miles south of this Brazilian capital.

The plane was carrying 60 bars of gold worth about $78,000 from England to Buenos Aires. Only 11 bars were found in the wreckage. Police believe fishermen salvaged the remainder and sold it to jewelers.

Campanella's Son Convicted On New Charges

NEW YORK (AP)—The 15-year-old son of Roy Campanella, former baseball great, has admitted breaking into a Queens drug store. David Campanella was arrested a little more than an hour after he was found guilty Tuesday of another juvenile delinquency charge.

The father, partially paralyzed in an auto accident a year ago, was shocked by the arrest. "The boy's my boy, he said. 'I got to try to help him when he gets messed up. I tried to help as much as I could with juvenile delinquency and here's my boy that jumped off the track.'"

As David's mother, Mrs. Ruth Campanella, took the boy home following the second arrest she said: "This is going to break his father's heart."

David, a 10th grader in a private school in Queens, told police he and a friend, George Delmos, 16, broke into the drug store 11 days ago.

Campanella, a Negro, and Delmos, who is white, are accused of looting the store and taking cigarettes and cosmetics.

The store's proprietor, Daniel Statesman, said $500 was taken. David told police he took $9 and some cigarettes.

"We were acting a little crazy," David said. "I just got mixed up with some crazy kids."

David was booked for juvenile delinquency — specification burglary.

Young Campanella faces arraignment before Domestic Relations Judge Wilfred A. Waltemade who already has found him guilty of juvenile delinquency.

Waltemade convicted the boy following police charges that David and Delmos took part with others in a street fight Monday.

The judge paroled David to his mother.

"If you get in further trouble and are returned to Children's Court, you have my word, boy, you will be dealt with very severely," he said.

British Face Up To Unrest In Nyasaland

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (AP)—Britain is facing up to a new nationalist threat in Africa—mounting racial unrest in black Nyasaland.

With angry native demonstrations continuing since last Friday, Royal Air Force planes sprayed rock-throwing crowds with tear gas in Lilongwe Tuesday. Members of the King's African Rifles fired on the rioters in the market place and two casualties were reported.

A spokesman for the British colonial government said the demonstrators were scattered by late afternoon, but sporadic shooting continued. The crowd turned ugly after officials prohibited the holding of a nationalist meeting.

It was the first trouble in Lilongwe, capital of Nyasaland's central province. Previous disturbances had been mostly in Blantyre, capital of the southern province.

Mainspring of the unrest is Dr. Hastings Banda, president of the Nyasaland African National party. His organization wants to take the protectorate of Nyasaland out of the Central African Federation, a member of the British Commonwealth which also includes self-governing Southern Rhodesia and the protectorate of Northern Rhodesia.

To cope with the swelling movement, Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Rhodesia-Nyasaland Federation, summoned thousands of young white reservists for intensive training. They will be stationed in principal cities to bolster the army and police.

Welensky said his aim was to "maintain peace and essential respect for law and order throughout the federation."

There are only 6,000 whites in Nyasaland — tea and tobacco growing region of three million Africans. The two Rhodesias have 250,000 whites and 4½ million blacks, and the whites of Southern Rhodesia dominate the federation government.

Banda wants Nyasaland to join Kenya and Tanganyika, neighboring territories under British control. He apparently thinks the militant nationalist leadership in Kenya will hasten a break from British control.

Kenya is a British colony. Tanganyika a U.N. Trust territory administered by Britain.

ECC Editor Chosen To Attend Journalism Session In New York

Kathryn Johnson of Greenville, editor of the "East Carolinian," student newspaper at East Carolina College, has just received notification that she has been chosen as a scholarship participant in a conference to be held in New York City for student editors in the Eastern States.

The meeting will have as co-sponsors the Overseas Press Club and the U. S. National Student Association. Meetings will take place March 13-15 at the Press Club, 35 East 39th Street, in New York City.

"The Expanding Role of Communication in a Contracting World," topic of the conference, will be discussed by outstanding journalists and editors. Among speakers will be President Thomas Whitney of the Overseas Press Club; President Robert R. Kiley of the U.S. National Student Association; Dean Edward Barrett of the Columbia University School of Journalism; and a large number of such outstanding journalists as Bob Considine, Walter Cronkite, and Larry LeSueur.

Miss Johnson was selected to attend the conference on the basis of a group of editorials on college problems which have appeared in the "East Carolinian." After serving as editor of the campus newspaper for three quarters, she was reelected last week by the college Publications Board to head the editorial staff until the spring quarter of 1960.

Teacher Shot In Classroom

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—A high school teacher here narrowly escaped death in a shooting as he sat at his desk Tuesday. Police arrested a sophomore boy called a troublemaker.

Porfirio (Porky) Leyva, 27, former University of New Mexico star quarterback and now a biology teacher and assistant football and baseball coach, suffered a scalp wound from a bullet from a .22 caliber pistol.

Taken in handcuffs to city jail was Larry David Romero, 16 who briefly held school authorities and police at bay before surrendering the pistol. He told newsmen he was mad at Leyva, who had "tried to push me around because I didn't want to do my work."

Leyva's wound was closed with eight stitches. Then he returned to his biology classroom.

Begin Protests Against Strauss In Cabinet Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several Democrats are building a protest bonfire under President Eisenhower's nomination of Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce.

Strauss, one of Washington's more controversial figures, appears likely to get eventual confirmation if only because the Senate seldom in modern times has rejected a cabinet appointment.

But Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), Olin D. Johnston (D-SC), and some other Democrats are expected to direct a hot fire against the former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission before the appointment is acted upon by the Senate Commerce Committee.

The committee postponed consideration of the nomination, scheduled today, after Kefauver asked for a delay pending a Justice Department report on Strauss' role in the Dixon-Yates controversy.

Atty. Gen. Rogers meanwhile made public a letter to Kefauver saying there is no such investigation pending.

"There have been no findings in the Department of Justice which reflect adversely on Mr. Strauss," Rogers said.

He added it would be inappropriate for him to comment further because the government is still being sued for nearly two million dollars by Dixon-Yates interests over cancellation of the power contract.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said the Commerce Committee may call public hearings in about two weeks.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.), a committee member, said "There will be more than cursory hearings," with a number of people to be heard.

Told by a reporter of Kefauver's reference to Dixon-Yates, Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, exclaimed:

"Oh, my, are they going to bring that up again? Well, I'll be on hand to help defend Adm. Strauss."

Kefauver contended in a statement Tuesday that Strauss arranged for a presidential directive requiring the AEC to contract with the Dixon-Yates utilities combine to build a power plant at West Memphis, Ark., to supply supplemental power to the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The contract was canceled by presidential order after testimony before congressional committees showed Adolphe Wenzell, New York financier, served as an adviser both to the Budget Bureau and to the utilities interests.

The city of Memphis, Tenn., then served by TVA, had decided in the meantime to build its own power plant.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

Judge Charles H. Whedbee disposed of a comparatively light docket in Municipal Recorder's Court Monday. Ten of the cases tried involved violations of motor vehicle and traffic laws. The other eight cases ranged from non-support to assault with a deadly weapon.

Assault with a deadly weapon: Clem Jones Jr., Negro, 401 Deck St., 60 days, suspended on condition that he pay $7 medical bill, pay $25, costs deducted, be of good behavior six months and not harm the prosecuting witness, Joseph Jr. Jefferson Negro, 1209 E. S. Green St., 60 days, suspended on condition that he pay $20 medical bill, pay $25, costs deducted, be of good behavior six months and not harm the prosecuting witness.

The case charging John D. Payton, Negro, rural route, with non-support, was dismissed.

Helen Dupree, Negro 1110 S. Clark St., charged with fornication and adultery, failed to appear and an instant capias was issued for her.

Possession of non-tax-paid whiskey: Joseph W. Spellman, Negro, 1717 S. Pitt St., 30 days, suspended on payment of $20, costs deducted, Ethel L. Kennedy Negro, 606-B Tyson St., 12 months in Woman's Division, State Prison, suspended on condition that she not possess any intoxicating beverage for two years. The court placed her on probation for four years (and she is not to possess any intoxicants of any kind, and pay court costs).

Ernest H. Davis, Negro, 907 Cherry Street, paid costs for not stopping at a traffic light. The court found him not guilty of possessing lottery tickets.

Gladys T. Bland, Negro, 818-B Hudson St., paid $8 for not having a state auto license.

Willie D. Cox, Negro, R-1 Ayden, failure to stop at a red light, costs.

Floyd A. Garris, R-2 city, no operator's license, costs and he is not to drive without a license.

Fred W. Godwin, 1109 Fairfax St., paid costs for not stopping at a stop sign and costs for speeding.

Edward L. Barrett, Negro, 1811-B Fleming St., paid costs for failure to yield right of way.

First Baptist Church In Ayden To Conclude Study Sessions Tonight

Soul-Winning Studies will conclude tonight at First Baptist Church, in Ayden.

The topic will be discussed by three Greenville men, Dr. Robert Folt, Registrar, ECC, Rev. Mark Owens, Pastor Arlington St. Baptist Church, and Larry Stox, R. A. Leader in South Roanoke Baptist Association.

A reception is planned at the close of tonight's study for the more than 120 enrolled in the studies.

Mrs. Floyd Smith, Mrs. Brantley Jolly, and Mrs. Allen Sutton have led the children's programs each evening for all under 9 yrs.

The pastor of the First Baptist Church, Rev. Bennie E. Pledger says:

"This has been a great time of awareness to the power of one Christian for Christ. This series will have an impact upon our Community as we will find more neighbors seeking to win neighbors to Christ and the Church. Mothers will become more concerned for the children. We will see divided homes in harmony because of uniting spirit together. This may well be the awakening that will fill our Church to overflowing attendance in Sunday School and fill the hearts of lost people with joy of salvation as decisions are made. This may be the one cause for bringing many indifferent, unhealthy Church Members to get into these churches and become Christians in attitude and service. I congratulate our people and the fine leadership for this great four day study."

LOOKS ALIKE

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—Claude T. Smallwood, a route man for the Northern Virginia Sun, was eating breakfast in a restaurant when he saw his car being driven away by a stranger. He ran out and stopped it, but the stranger insisted it was his own. Smallwood called attention to his newspapers in the back seat. Then they laughed — the cars were exact duplicates except for the license plate.

Dropping Munich Beer Festival

MUNICH (AP)—Parliament members of the Christian Democratic party are giving up this year's traditional Munich beer festival for Lent.

Political and church dignitaries usually participate in the annual two-week rumpus, which opens Friday when Munich's Socialist Mayor taps the first barrel.

This year Lent is early, and both Catholic and Lutheran newspapers have called for "quiet weeks" until Easter.

Two 'Long Hairs' Visit Barber Shop

Reflector Staffer Jimmy Ellis is the proud father of twins born 11 months ago. The inevitable happened the other day. Time for that first haircut. So, Jimmy packed his twin boys and his wife, Gwen into their auto and headed to the barber shop. It was a painless operation, to be sure. But the proud parents winced as each lock of their babies' hair fell victim to the barber's shears. Marshall and Clyde seemed not to mind it at all however, and they had only happy smiles throughout the entire operation. The saddened father, a true photographer, recorded the scenes for posterity. While Jimmy wasn't looking, others in the Reflector newsroom sneaked some quick prints of the twins' streamlining job. Before you could say "Marshall and Clyde", engravings were made and the pictures safely locked up in the Reflector's pages.

Gets Five Years In Extortion Try

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A former M-G-M Studio commissary worker must serve five years in prison for trying to extort $100,000 from Sol Siegel, studio vice president. Herbert Strauch, 34, pleaded guilty. He was arrested while talking to Siegel Jan. 16 from a telephone booth near the studio. "It's just a joke; I wouldn't harm anybody," Strauch said at his arraignment. FBI agents said Strauch threatened Siegel's life in a letter.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Warner Brothers Studio has lifted its year-long suspension of onetime child star Natalie Wood, now 20. She was suspended following a dispute over her $750 weekly salary, shortly after her 1957 marriage to actor Robert Wagner, 29. Studio spokesmen said the agreement was "amicable" but gave no details.

Suggests Jungle Snakes Fine For Survival Meal

By ELTON C. FAY AP Military Affairs Writer PANAMA (AP)—The snakes in the jungle around here are always in danger of being bitten by a man. They make nourishing eating for any hungry traveler who has parachuted down a crippled plane and is trying to claw his way out of the tangle of vines, giant trees and treacherous mangrove swamps.

The above opinion is that of Morgan Smith, chief of the United States Air Force Jungle Survival School. He may be almost alone in that opinion.

Smith recommends broiling meat before eating. Even then, the meat can be a little tough and chewy, especially the large size boar constrictors of the 12-foot-long class. He suggests that if they are brought home for serving to the family, a tenderizer be used.

Boas seem to be popular on the jungle survival menu — probably because they are in good supply and easy to locate. Smaller snakes are harder to see and some of them are not recommended even for hungry paratroopers. The fer de lance is one. He bites first and he bites bitterly. Death from poison and paralysis follows fast.

Smith explains that snake meat is only one of the many foods which the jungle provides for those trained in the art of survival. Small animals, birds, fish and the tender tips of small palms (which taste like cabbage) are available.

Much of the time the Central American jungle is steaming. In other areas the dry season complicates the finding of drinking water. Smith's school shows you how to cut off the end of a vine and drink from the clear water stored up in the vine. Twice a month, the survival school takes 10 students and deposits them by helicopter in the midst of jungle. With them is Smith or another instructor. For five days the students learn, the hard way, what they should do if accident put them down into the Iguana is on the menu, too. The meat from this large lizard resembles chicken.

PONTIAC NAMED CAR OF THE YEAR

"Pontiac with wide-track wheels is the best combination of ride... handling... performance and styling of any '59 car" —The Editors of Motor Trend Magazine

In making its annual automotive award, the staff of Motor Trend Magazine, leading automotive publication, tests and evaluates all new cars. Here are quotations from the April 1959 issue: "The stability of the 1959 Pontiac is the outstanding automotive advance of the year. Everyone considering a new car should experience it." "It's the best balanced passenger car in America. We firmly believe that in moving the wheels farther apart, to develop the widest stance of any American car, Pontiac has created an entirely new sense of balance and handling security."

over-all integrated styling. Any comparison with narrower track cars readily shows the difference. "For the economy-minded, an efficient new engine. The new 420E Tempest economy engine offers remarkable performance along with exceptionally high mileage while operating on regular grade gasoline." "Pontiac is again tops in performance, based on our extensive road testing. Acceleration is outstanding, yet the engine is unusually quiet and smooth." Your nearest Pontiac dealer will be glad to let you road-test this award-winning automobile on your own. You'll see why it's the year's most talked-about car!

THE ONLY CAR WITH WIDE-TRACK WHEELS

Wheels are five inches farther apart. This widens only the stance, not the car. Pontiac takes a better grip on the road, bugs tighter on curves and corners. Sway and lean disappear, ride is smoother, balanced, steadier. Handling is easier. You drive with a new confidence, a comforting security. Pontiac gives you roadability so "narrow gauge" cars can offer.

Mr. Louis Collie

Greenville's Louis Collie, one of New York Life's leading agents, has qualified for the second consecutive year as a member of the Million-Dollar Round Table. Having placed $1,172,000.00 of life insurance in 1958 is a tribute, not only to him, but to this City's overwhelming acceptance of New York Life's modern protection.

The honor of being one of New York Life's leading agents for 1958 is one Louis Collie worked hard to earn and richly deserves. We extend not only heartiest congratulations to him, but sincere thanks to the many, many Greenville citizens whose acceptance of New York Life Insurance protection made his record possible.

Since joining New York Life in 1956, Louis Collie has achieved an enviable reputation . . . not only as one of his Company's foremost representatives but also as a leading public-spirited citizen.

We believe that Louis Collie's outstanding record of service to the families and businesses in his community is typical of the quality of service rendered by New York Life agents everywhere. The Sport Scope

by Johnny Hudson

Coach Jack Boone and his able assistants will wind up their winter football drills next week and the climax will be the second annual Varsity-Alumni game which is sponsored by the East Carolina Varsity Club.

Boone states that the results of the winter drills have been good. The spirit in the Pirate camp has been good and the squad has worked hard.

Several key men have been lost from the ECC squad but as usual Boone is looking to the future with a gleam in his eye. Probably the biggest blow to the squad was the loss of starting tackle Charlie Cook, a sophomore. The Wilmington native was a starter his first two seasons and had a bright future ahead. He dropped out due to financial reasons.

The toll of graduation was not heavy as only five departed. Included in this list were All-Conference halfback Bobby Perry and another trio of halfbacks—Lee Atkinson, Charlie Bishop, and Tommy Nash. Randall Holmes, an end and the club's top punter was also lost. All are expected to be around next Saturday to aid the Alumni in their bid for victory number one against the Varsity.

In looking over his prospects for the coming season, Boone cited the grades as an important factor. "During the past three and four years our future has been dampened and our football club hurt tremendously by the loss of boys due to scholastic troubles. It is just wasted time when we spend a couple of years on a boy and then he flunks out."

"This past season, we feel we got some good boys, both on the field and in the class. As of yet, this year we have not been hurt by loss of boys by grades. It's a happy turn-over", the Pirate tutor concluded.

Turning back to the Alumni-Varsity game, a host of former ECC stars will be back in action. Included in the list of returning stars will be George Tucker, Lou Hallow, Ray Pennington, Gary Mattocks, Ken Burgess, Dick Monds, and Harold O'Kelly.

Back to booster the East Carolina attack will be All-Conference guard Ed Emory. He will be backed by Wayne Davis, Earl Sweet, Henry Kwiatkowski, Charles Gordon, Lynn Barnett, and Henry Vansant.

James Speight and Ralph Zehring, a couple of starting backs, have missed winter practice but return to the gridiron next week and may see some action. Boone will be able to go back with Jerry Carpenter and Stuart Holland at the quarterback and some new names—Glenn Bass, Tommy Matthews, and Mac Thacker—at the other backfield spots. Bass and Matthews saw limited service last year while Thacker is a transfer student.

A host of ends are back which include Howard Beale, David Thomas, Bill Cain, Jones Lockerman, and Joe Loflin.

The annual football banquet will precede the football tilt on Friday night. According to Boone, this will be one of the biggest banquets ever held. Tickets are now on sale and will continue to be sold until next week.

A local businessman, will be the guest speaker. Trophies will be given at the banquet along with letters to those winning a letter this past season. Co-Captains will also be named for the 1959 season.

East Carolina returned to a high-ranking spot in the North State Conference last season with a 6-4 over-all mark and a 4-2 mark in conference. The Bucs led the loop until the final weeks of the season when they bowed to Appalachian and Lenoir Rhyne.

Tickets are also on sale for the Varsity-Alumni game which will be Saturday afternoon, March 7th. The game will offer a preview of next year's ECC eleven and will also be a reunion for Pirate old-timers.

Tar Heels, Deacs Put On Probation

GREENSBORO (AP)—Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner James H. Weaver has laid it on the line for the North Carolina and Wake Forest varsity basketball squads.

Any more fights and their ACC playing days are over. Weaver placed both teams on "strict probation" as a result of their brawl at Winston-Salem two weeks ago.

No suspensions were handed out, leaving all players eligible to compete in the conference tournament at Raleigh starting March 5.

In a five-page report—the result of a lengthy investigation—Weaver did not specify the length of the probation period. But he warned the players that "any unsportsmanlike act in any future contest will endanger their eligibility."

If there's another fight between the two teams, Weaver added, "all participants will have their eligibility forfeited."

The Feb. 12 free-for-all brought reprimands for several players and Coaches Frank McGuire of North Carolina and Horace (Bones) McKinney of Wake Forest were cited for lack of bench discipline.

Weaver also ruled that "under no circumstances" shall the Deacons and Tar Heels meet in Winston-Salem next year. He recommended in addition that North Carolina choose another site for their 1960 home game against Wake Forest, rather than Chapel Hill's Woolen Gymnasium.

Top-Seeded Are Seldom Winners In Past Series

By KEN ALYTA LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The cards are well stacked against Western Carolina's Catamounts, top-seeded in the 16th North State Conference basketball tournament opening here tonight.

Only four times in 15 years has the top-seeded team, the regular season leader, gone on to take the championship tournament.

WCC never has won the tournament. Three times it reached the finals, only to lose.

Western Carolina plays the last of four first round games, spread over two nights.

Action starts Wednesday night with East Carolina's revamped team meeting Catawba at 7:30 and Lenoir Rhyne's defending champs engaging Appalachian at 9:15.

Thursday's program has High Point playing Elon at 7:30 and Western Carolina shooting it out with Atlantic Christian at 9:15.

Western Carolina, 13-2 for conference play and 20-3 overall, lost to East Carolina and Lenoir Rhyne. The rangy Catamounts have all five starters in double figures in the scoring column and they average 6-5 in height. The team already has received one of the places in the NAIA District 26 tournament opening March 3 at Cullowhee.

Lenoir Rhyne, winner of the two previous tournaments, finished second over the season at 13-3, followed by East Carolina, 11-5, and High Point, 9-6.

East Carolina, which won from both WCC and Lenoir Rhyne, will have freshmen in at least two key starting roles against Catawba's seventh placers. Coach Howard Porter has designated yearlings Denny Bowles and Charlie Lewis as replacements for Charlie Adams and Jessel Curry, dropped for insubordination.

Adams led the team in scoring with a 16.9 average and Curry's mark was over 10 points. In addition, Nick Nichols, suffered a nose injury in the final game against Atlantic Christian Saturday night and his effectiveness may be limited.

Wednesday winners meet in the first semifinal Friday night, with the Thursday survivors clashing in the second. The title will be decided at 8 p.m. Saturday.

player was aimed at Dave Budd, 6-6, 210-pound Wake Forest junior from Woodbury, N.J. Weaver served notice that "any future unsportsmanlike act or intervention in any way with an opponent" will cost Budd his eligibility.

Reprimands were ordered for Charlie Forte, Winston Wiggins and Dickie Odom of Wake Forest and Lee Shaffer and Lou Brown of North Carolina, as well as for all other players who took to the court without authorization after the brawl began.

Weaver said that any unsportsmanlike act in any future game will endanger the eligibility of all present squad members of the two schools. If they figure in a similar future disturbance between the two schools they will forfeit their eligibility.

The scramble started with a loose ball situation. Weaver said in his judgment the fight was started by Shaffer and Forte. However, he said the incident "would have been of little consequence had not the Wake Forest bench rushed onto the floor, joined within seconds by the Carolina substitutes, thereby depriving the officials of any opportunity to keep the situation under control." He added that when many of the 3,200 spectators joined the milling "bedlam was inevitable."

Weaver cited "lack of discipline on both benches" as "the major factor in the deteriorating relationships" between the two schools.

Phants, Tarboro Clash Tonight

Four teams battle tonight in the opening round of the Northeastern Conference tournament at East Carolina's Memorial Gymnasium. A capacity crowd is expected to attend.

Top-seeded Greenville will clash with Tarboro in the night's most highly-touted ball game, at 9:00. A 7:00 contest will feature Roanoke Rapids vs. Jacksonville.

Action tomorrow night at the gym will feature two more ball games between Washington and New Bern at 7:00 and Kinston and Elizabeth City at 9:00.

Greenville, which finished the regular season in a two-way tie with Kinston for top place in the loop, drew the no. 1 seeding in the tournament. Kinston is second-seeded.

Washington and Roanoke Rapids were tied for third place in the loop and had to draw for that position in the tourney, Washington won.

On Friday night at 7:00 the Kinston-Elizabeth City winner will battle the Roanoke Rapids-Jacksonville winner and the Greenville-Tarboro winner will clash with the Washington-New Bern winner at 9:00.

A consolation tilt between Friday's losers will be played at 7:00 Saturday and the championship game will be played at 9:00.

Winner of the Northeastern Conference tourney, of course, will represent the league in the State AA playoffs.

Wednesday night's games are listed below:

Wednesday 7:00 p.m. Roanoke Rapids vs. Jacksonville. 9:00 p.m. Greenville vs. Tarboro.

ECC Swimmers Meet Miami U. Team Here

East Carolina swimmers will get a chance for their fifth consecutive victory Thursday afternoon when they meet the University of Miami in Memorial Pool. The meet is scheduled for 4:00.

Coach Ray Martinez stated last night that he expected a much tougher meet than the one which ECC won at Miami two weeks ago. Martinez stated that, not only would Miami be seeking revenge, but the Pirate club would not be at full strength.

Two of the Pirate stars will be out of action, Ken Midgette, national NAIA diving champion, and freshman Dave Garrison have been in the college infirmary during the past week with flu. Midgette was released but will not be able to return to the water for some time.

With two men gone from the shallow squad, Martinez and his club may be tabbed as underdogs against the visitors. The East Carolina swim tutor stated that Miami was a strong club and the meet should be a good one.

Also going against East Carolina will be exams. This week ends the winter quarter at the college and exams have been underway most of the week. The meet will catch the ECC mermen right in the middle and it could cause a lapse.

After two losses to Carolina, the Pirates have collected victories over U. of Georgia, U. of Emory, U. of Miami, and V.M.I. With the exception of one, all the meets were away.

Jack McCann set a pool record in the breaststroke against V.M.I. and remains undefeated. Tommy Tucker has been a close second each time.

Bob Sawyer, national backstroke champion, is also unbeaten against his competition. The Greensboro senior has made a tremendous comeback since breaking his leg early this fall.

Jake Smith and Jimmy Meads continue to give ECC plenty of strength in the free-style events. Glenn Dyer has also been looking good on the diving board and was top man against Miami in their last meeting.

East Carolina will get little rest as they leave Friday for another trip into the everglades of Florida. They will continue their bid against big-time swim power but their next two meets will probably be their strongest of the season.

The Bucs meet Florida State Saturday and then take on Florida the following Monday. Florida recently defeated Carolina so the road ahead is a tough one.

A capacity crowd is expected for Thursday's meet with the Hurricane. ECC has been getting a full house for all their home meets. There is no admission charge.

Coach Calls Team Off The Floor

DOVER, Del. (AP)—A college basketball coach ordered his team off the floor in protest Tuesday night following two foul calls against his son.

Delaware State College was ahead 66-55 with 6:59 remaining in the game when the coach, Don Kennedy, of St. Peter's College, Jersey City, N. J., called his team from the floor.

A personal foul had been called against Don Jr., the captain of the St. Peter's squad, and the younger Kennedy hotly contested the call in strong language.

Then the referee, Percy Van Pelt, called a technical foul against the player and at that point his father called it quits.

Studying Latin On His Birthday

MELBOURNE (AP)—World champion miller Herb Elliott was 21 years old today and said he planned to spend tonight studying Latin.

It's a compulsory subject at Cambridge University, England, which he hopes to attend after the 1960 Rome Olympics.

Elliott plans to marry Anne Dudley, Perth beautician.

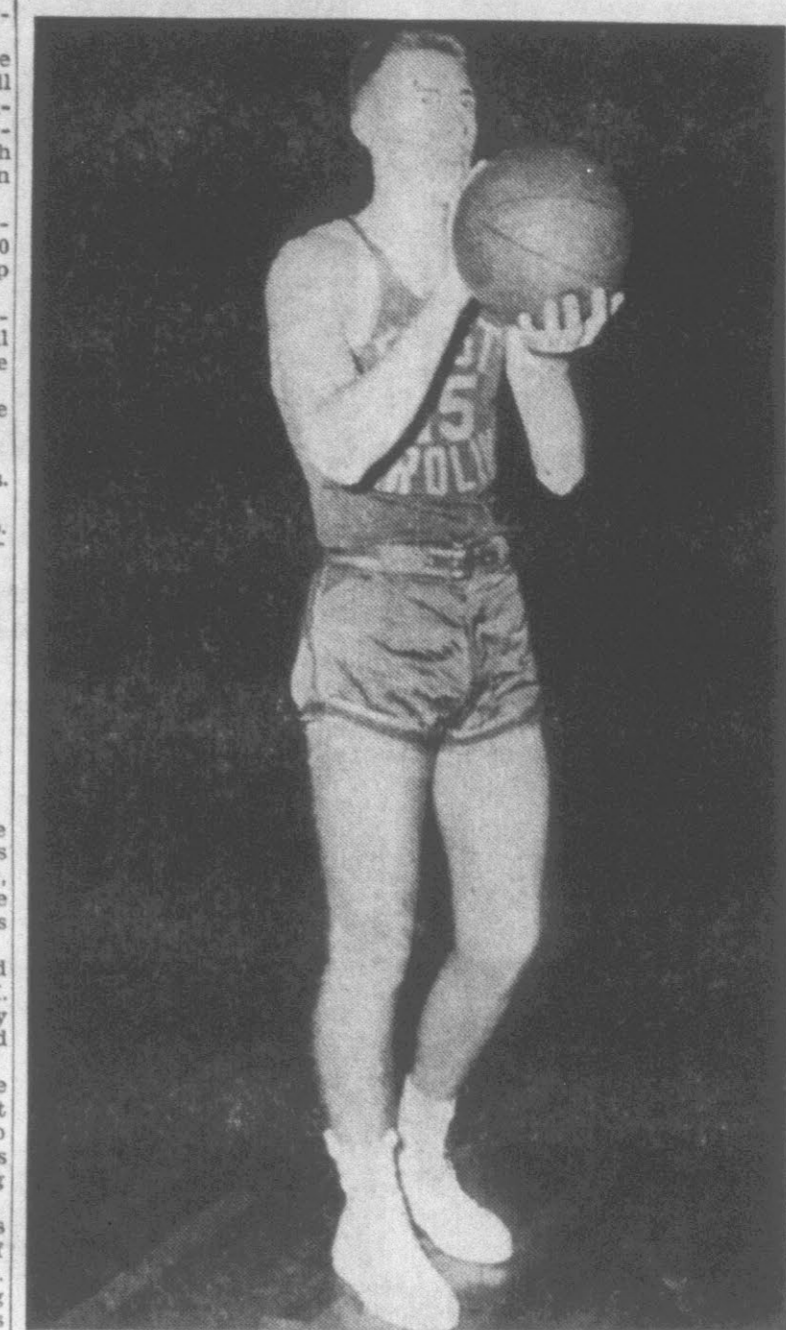

Otto Graham To Coach Academy

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—Former pro football great Otto Graham today was named head football coach at the Coast Guard Academy.

Graham also was appointed director of athletics.

Rear Adm. Frank A. Leamy, superintendent of the academy, said the former Cleveland Browns quarterback will become a commander in the Coast Guard Reserve with his acceptance of the positions.

Graham will arrive in New London Sunday and begin spring practice sessions on Monday. He replaces Nelson W. Nitchman, who was relieved of the position in November after 12 years at the academy.

EAST CAROLINA FORWARD NICK NICHOLS... Named To 1958 All-North State Conference Team

Nichols Named To All-Conference Team

Senior forward Nick Nichols of East Carolina College has been named to the All-North State Conference basketball team, it was announced today.

Two other East Carolina players, guard Ike Riddick and center Joe Plaster, received honorable mention in balloting for the ten-member team. The honor squad was selected by basketball coaches at the conference's nine schools.

Other members of the all-conference team are Jack Frauson and Harris Pryor of Western Carolina, Tommy Sellari and Dick Whitis of Lenoir Rhyne, Rick Howe and Don King of Appalachian, Woody Heilrich of Catawba, Danny Sewell of High Point and Bob Whaley of Atlantic Christian.

Nichols returned to the East Carolina line-up this year after missing the 1957-1958 season because of a shoulder injury. He started slowly, but his play in the latter stages of the 1958-1959 season pushed his scoring average for the year to 10.3 points per game against collegiate opposition.

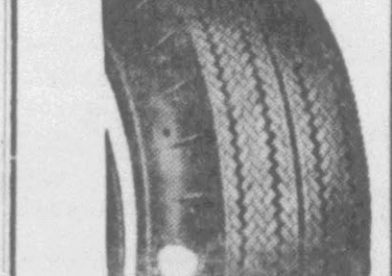

Neither Charlie Adams nor Jessel Curry, dropped from the East Carolina squad over the weekend, received mention in the coaches' balloting which was conducted Sunday at a North State Conference basketball meeting in Greensboro. Adams led the team scoring with a 16.4 points per game average prior to being dismissed, while Curry averaged 10.4 points per game.

The coaches' balloting is regarded as the official all-conference team since it is conducted through the conference office and compiled by Moses Crutchfield, Associate Sports Editor of the Greensboro Daily News and conference statistician.

Curry was a member of the 1958 all-conference team selected by the coaches. Nichols has not been on the all-conference team previously, although he was selected as a member of the 1957 all-tournament team.

Ellis Burton, St. Louis Cardinal rookie outfielder, celebrated his 20th birthday on Aug. 12, 1956, by hitting three homers in one game with Billings, Mont., of the Pioneer League.

Yankee pitchers, Ryne Duren and Jim Bronstad are Texans.

One Upset Seen Last Night In Pitt Tournament

WINTERVILLE — A capacity crowd of some 750 fans turned out to witness the opening round of play of the Pitt County Interscholastic Annual Basketball Tournament here last night.

The tourney is being played in the Robinson Union High School's newly-erected gymnasium.

Results of the opening night of action saw three teams—one of them an upset victor—emerge to take position in the semi-final play Thursday night. The winners were Pitt County Training School girls, Bethel Union girls, and the South Ayden boys.

In the first game of the night, Pitt County Training School's girls clinched a close 36-31 victory over South Ayden. High scorer for the winners was J. Hawkins, with 20 points. Sally Faye Wilson led the losers with 17.

The upset of the night was furnished by Bethel Union's girls, who downed a favored Robinson Union sextet, 24-18, behind the 12-point shooting of Louise Carney. Sadie Monk led the Robinson Union scorers with 10 points.

In the boys' tilt of the evening, Pitt County Training School's quintet suffered a 53-51 setback at the hands of South Ayden. Leading the scoring for the contest was C. Hawkins of the Training School with 24 points. Pacing the winners was Harold Newkirk, with 17.

Thursday night's pairings will be as follows: 6:15 — Pitt County Training School (girls) vs. H. B. Sugg 7:30—Bethel Union (boys) vs. Robinson Union 8:45—South Ayden (boys) vs. H. B. Sugg

The tournament will move into the finals on Saturday night with championship and consolation contests.

PRESIDENT
J. Herman Leder of Whiteville, N. C.
Co-Founder of Leder Bros. Inc.

"We Have Come To Be One Of You"

"We Have Come To Be One Of You." Such was the first message that Leder Brothers carried to the public. The statement appeared over 35 years ago in "The News Reporter" of Whiteville, N. C., where Leder Brothers opened their first store. Mr. J. Herman Leder and Mr. Morris Leder, the co-founders of Leder Brothers, Inc., indicated a desire to serve as others served, to live with the people into whose midst they had come, to share with them their sorrows and their joys, in a word, to become one of the people.

The Leder organization has kept that as an objective. With the opening of this new store in Greenville, once again Leder Brothers expresses a desire to take on the responsibilities of a progressive business contributing to the economy and growth of a fine community.

VICE-PRESIDENT
Morris Leder of Goldsboro, N. C.
Co-Founder of Leder Bros., Inc.

Officers Have 139 Years Of Business "Know How"

Seven Directors Are Veterans In Business Field!

One hundred and thirty-nine years of business experience is represented in the officer personnel of the Leder Brothers Corporation.

Mr. J. Herman Leder and Mr. Morris Leder, co-founders of Leder Brothers, established the first Leder Brothers store in Whiteville, N. C. in 1925. The firm has since grown to 16 stores with another Leder Brothers Store now in the planning stages in Rocky Mount, N. C.

Mr. J. Herman Leder, president of the Corporation, is a resident of Whiteville, N. C., the home office of Leder Brothers, Inc.

Mr. Morris Leder, the co-founder of Leder Brothers, is a resident of Goldsboro, N. C. in Goldsboro, Mr. Morris Leder has established a buying office and sample rooms and there he supervises the merchandising and sales promotion programs of the firm.

Mr. J. Paul Hatley, the secretary-treasurer of the firm, joined Leder Brothers in 1943 after many years as an insurance company executive. Mr. Hatley supervises the controller operation for the entire chain from the home office in Whiteville, N. C.

Mr. Joe Leder, member of the Board of Directors and manager of Leder Bros., Clinton, N. C., has 25 years with the firm.

Mr. Sam Leder, member of the Board of Directors and manager of Leder Bros., Jacksonville, N. C., has 22 years with the firm.

Mr. Leon Leder, member of the Board of Directors and manager of Leder Bros., Wilson, N. C., has 22 years with the firm.

New Greenville Store Is "Kick-Off" For 1959

With the opening of the new Greenville store, the Leder Brothers organization "kick-off" an energetic program of progress for 1959.

Plans are already underway for opening a completely new "Leder Brothers" in Rocky Mount, N. C. on or about May 15. The old Efrids store in Rocky Mount has been leased and extensive remodeling is now underway.

In addition to this project, Leder Brothers in Jacksonville, N. C., is now being expanded considerably by the addition of adjacent property.

Plans are also set for a remodeling of the front of Leder Bros. in Goldsboro, N. C., immediately after Easter.

Scott Forbis To Manage New Leder Bros. Store

Scott Forbis of Rockingham, N. C. has been named manager of the new Leder Brothers store in Greenville.

A native of Oklahoma, Forbis has more than 20 years experience in the department store business. He moved to North Carolina in 1954, and prior to coming to Greenville he was manager of the Leder Brothers Store in Rockingham.

He is a member of the Lions Club and the First Presbyterian Church of Rockingham and has served as a director of the Chamber of Commerce and Chairman of the Merchants Association in that city.

Concerning the opening of the Leder Brothers Store in Greenville, Mr. Forbis stated, "Leder Brothers, Inc. is thrilled at the opportunity of opening this new store in Greenville. All of the local citizens and Merchants have been most cooperative in helping us to become established as a part of this community. Leder Brothers store looks forward to serving the people of this area with a wide selection of popular-priced, quality merchandise for any family's needs."

Secretary-Treasurer
PAUL HATLEY
Whiteville, N. C.

MRS. EDITH M. TRIPP
Children's Department

Mrs. Tripp is well qualified to help you in fitting your children. She has more than six years of selling experience in apparel for children.

"Our formula for building a successful business is not a new one and it certainly is no secret."

So says Mr. Morris Leder, Vice-President of Leder Brothers, Inc., and supervisor of merchandising and sales promotion.

"We constantly search the vast markets of the United States for the items we sincerely believe represent the best buy for our customers' money."

"We have recently established a buying office and several sample rooms in Goldsboro, N. C. There we invite the manufacturers to provide us with samples of the type goods we sell. We inspect and judge each sample and cull out those we feel are not up to our standards. Those that remain represent 'best values' for the money, and these are the ones we advise our managers to buy for their respective stores."

"All of our stores have access to the tremendous resources of the New York mercantile market through our resident buying office in New York City. There, over 90 buyers are ready to search the market for whatever our particular stores' requirements might be."

As an example, if we plan a cotton dress sale in May, our New York dress buyers will visit the showrooms of many, many dress manufacturers until they come up with the best of the lot. We take their recommendation, visit the manufacturers and select the styles we know are best for our stores. In many cases our own dress buyers have Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Smith or some other local customer in mind as they place their orders."

"With regard to customer satisfaction we want everyone to understand that they must be satisfied with whatever they buy from us, or an immediate adjustment will be made. We have built a reputation over the years of a fair and dependable store, we will certainly do all in our power to maintain that reputation here in Greenville."

MRS. LENA PRINGLE
Ready-To-Wear Department

Mrs. Pringle is well known in this area for her knowledge of women's clothing. Her 25 years experience in this field is at your disposal in making your selections.

MISS ELLEN MASK
Cashier

We are proud to have chosen Miss Mask as our Cashier and Book-keeper. Her 25 years of work in this line will be of great value to our operation.

Six Words -- Sixteen Stores -- The Story Of Leder Brothers' Progress

Dr. James W. Butler, Assistant Director,
Public Relations and Foundations
East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C.

Six words—"Shop With Confidence; Wear With Pride"—Sixteen stores—Beginning with Whiteville, and Clinton, and Goldsboro, and Jacksonville, then Wilson, Rockingham, Dunn, Smithfield, Plymouth, Concord, Williamston, all in North Carolina, and Marion and Loris, in South Carolina. Now Greenville, North Carolina. There are two stores in Whiteville and two in Jacksonville, all related to the meaning behind these six words: "Shop With Confidence; Wear With Pride."

Confidence suggests trust, assurance, something or someone to be trusted.

Pride conveys a sense of one's own dignity or self-respect, delight in one's achievements or possessions, the best of a class or group.

Take these two together and relate them to the personalities, the personnel, the merchandise represented in the Leder Brothers merchandising organization, and it becomes apparent that the 35-year history of the business firm becomes more meaningful to the founders of the firm and recognizes fully their responsibility to the shopping public.

"Shop With Confidence" is a slogan which challenged Herman and Morris Leder when they opened their first store in Whiteville 35 years ago. And as their business grew and their clientele expanded, they felt assured that their customers, buying in stores where sales people were courteous and efficient and the highest quality in merchandise was obtainable, could then say: "We Wear With Pride."

These young men of 35 years ago, J. Herman Leder and Morris Leder, began in humble manner to develop their merchandising efforts in a small southeastern North Carolina community. Early their responsibilities to customers and to community relations were recognized. Their sense of obligation to the customers was based on high ideals, and yet the spirit of humility endeared them to the people of the area from which they drew their trade.

Active participation in community affairs brought these two enterprising merchants into closer contacts with urban and rural people in the community in which the first store was established. It has become true, also, in the second community, and the third, and on into the Eastern and Central North Carolina towns and cities where a Leder Brothers store has been founded. The growth has been marked by steady progress, with faith in the area served by the firm, and the stores take their places as leading business institutions in the communities of which they become a part.

This success in merchandising has been merited through the adoption of fine services and the selling of reputable goods, merchandise, items which are known by nationally-advertised brand names. This makes the slogan "Shop With Confidence; Wear With Pride" more meaningful.

Where the Leder Brothers have established their stores, they have become a part of the community life.

To lapse from the editorial position and give a personal observation, let this writer note his personal acquaintance with Morris Leder for a period extending back 29 years. It has been this writer's observation that Morris Leder has been a good merchant, an active citizen in community betterment in both Clinton and Goldsboro, and willing to volunteer his services where needed. This is a fine measure of a man devoted to joining in the development of a good place for his employees to reside, and the betterment of the economic life of the community.

"Shop With Confidence" is an addition to the mottoes which Greenville frequently cites as evidence of its importance as another community of fine assets for banking, education, commerce, industry, agriculture. The confidence of the Leder Brothers firm in Greenville enables us to "Wear With Pride" our civic badge of appreciation of our fine community assets.

Personal acquaintance with J. Herman Leder, president of the firm, has been one of the pleasant recollections over the past 20 years. In his home community and in North Carolina merchandising circles, Herman, as well as Morris, stands among the leaders of good business. For the community service in behalf of education, recreation, philanthropy, Herman and Morris have shown themselves to be good examples of service beyond the call of duty. Their brothers have grown into the same pattern, all of them—Joe in Clinton, Leon in Wilson, Sam in Jacksonville—in many endeavors emulating the good works of Herman in Whiteville and Morris in Goldsboro. Collectively and co-operatively, they exhibit the type of citizenship which builds personal confidence.

A brother-in-law, Julius Segerman, in Jacksonville, N. C., seems to have caught the fire and enthusiasm of the Leders, for in his present location the Segerman name is another trademark for community betterment.

To use the words of a favorite news commentator in saying that Leder Brothers and Greenville will be growing with favor in this Eastern North Carolina town and county, "It's good we could get together."

Launch Drive Against Obscene Literature

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A group of citizens from various parts of the nation, feeling that obscene literature is endangering the morality of America's youth, has launched a program to do something about it.

The group gathered here to form a national "Citizens for Decent Literature" organization. The session followed one in Cleveland, where a steering committee was appointed.

"The menace of obscene literature is being recognized in community after community," Dr. Bernard E. Donovan, assistant superintendent of schools in New York City, declared at a meeting of the steering committee.

"If we do not stem this tide of filth we shall be guilty of permitting a condition to exist which endangers the morality of our youth and thereby weakens the very fibre of our nation," said Donovan, who is chairman of the committee.

Cincinnati, a pioneer in the drive against dirty words in books and magazines, has brought about convictions of eight dealers in recent months.

The local group has been asked for information on its program from more than 500 communities. Cincinnati Police Chief Stanley Schrotel told the committee public support is vital in the fight against obscenity in publications.

"But citizens should leave to police and prosecutors the job of determining what literature is legally objectionable," he said.

In Cincinnati many magazine dealers have asked the police department to establish a forbidden list of publications, officials said.

"We will not be truly successful until we have persuaded newsstand dealers to be their own censors," Schrotel declared.

Charles H. Kating Jr., Cincinnati attorney and chairman of the Cincinnati group believes that 75 per cent of the readers of indecent literature are from 8 years old to college age.

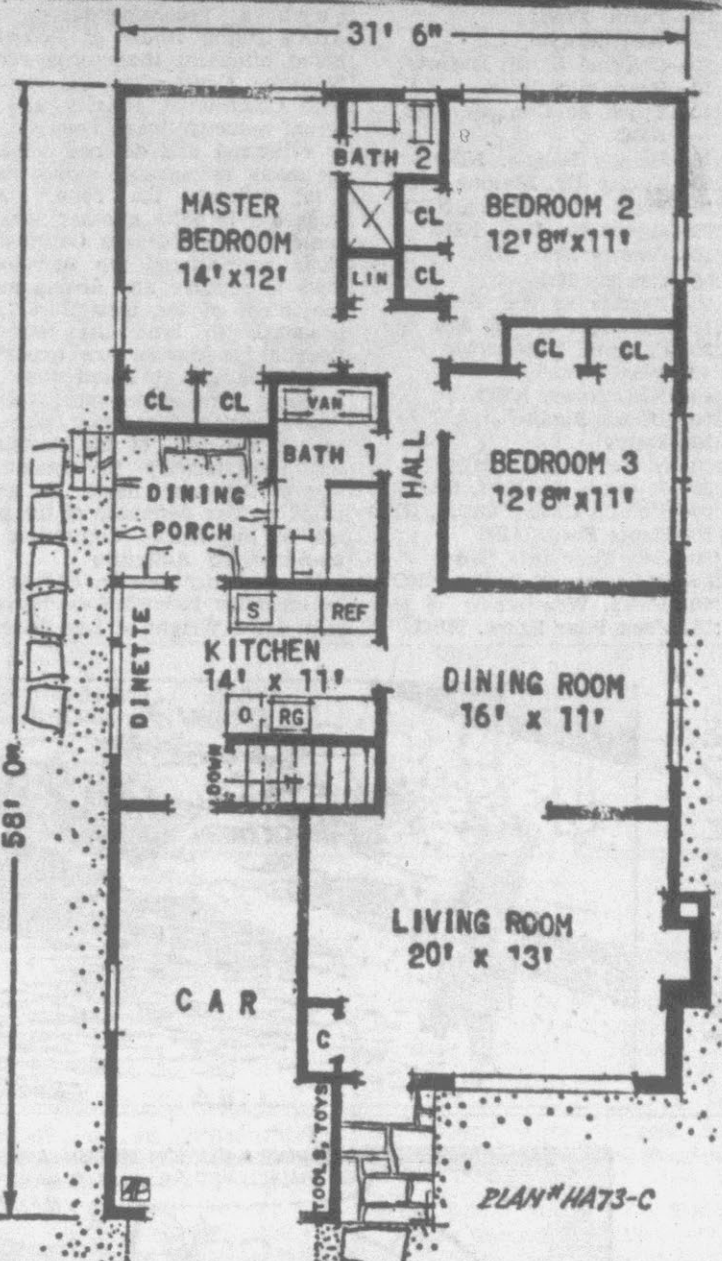

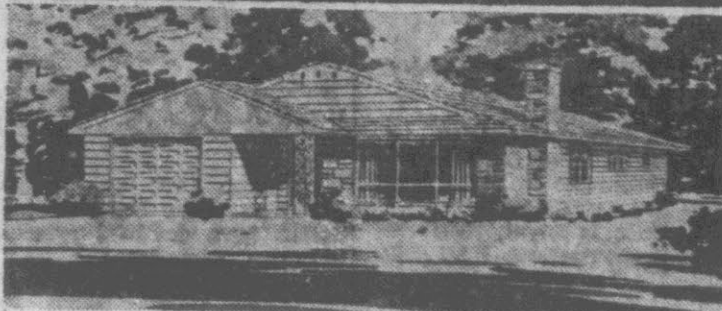

"The material contains a course of instruction in perversion which could prevent an entire generation," he told the Campbell County, Ky., Bar Assn.

Keating said "indecent literature is a billion dollar a year industry."

The steering committee, which is continuing its study of local situations includes:

Mrs. C. R. Addington, Coral Gables, Fla.; Robert Bowers, Memphis; Mrs. Walter A. Craig, Philadelphia; James M. Flanagan, St. Louis; Mrs. John B. Hoffman, St. Paul; Leo C. Renaud, Boston; Paul S. Rose, Salt Lake City, Utah; Sherman Titens, Cleveland; and Robert Foy and Keating of Cincinnati.

Batista's Army Destroyed Itself In Abetting Cruelties Against Citizens

Editor's Note — This is the last of three articles telling of the way the Batista regime in Cuba handled opposition elements or those suspected of opposition activity.

By ROBERT BERRELEZ
HAVANA (AP)—People get hurt in revolutions.

The Batista regime, as the constituted authority threatened by Fidel Castro's rebels, fought back. Then Batista's army, his last hope for survival, began to destroy itself. One of the factors that brought about its destruction was its officers' efforts to apply the horror chamber techniques that Batista's national police had been using even before Castro landed in Oriente province in 1956.

Stories of atrocities committed against defenseless guerrillas—the poor agricultural laborers of eastern Cuba—shattered army morale and led to defections and subversion.

Unable to cope with the guerrilla strategists in the Sierra Maestra, the army's leaders tortured and killed guerrillas in efforts to extract information on the rebel army's movements.

One of these army leaders was Capt. Pedro Morejon, executed early this month. A Castro military tribunal convicted him on separate counts of assassination, homicide, theft, arson and damage.

He and two other officers, now dead, Firmin Cowley and Jesus Sosa Blanco, were the most dreaded operatives of repression in Oriente province. Maj. Sosa Blanco—executed last week—was accused of 108 assassinations. Morejon of 33.

Col. Cowley, their superior, has been accused of personally machinegunning the 15-man rebel crew of the yacht Corintia that made an ill-fated landing on Cuba's north shore near Holguin Nov. 7, 1957. Eyewitness accounts say Cowley was furious at seeing the captured rebels, one of them wounded, being brought in alive. He took a tommygun from a guard and shot the rebels.

This led to a wave of terrorism Holguin residents call "Black Christmas." It was about the time

Fidel Castro's rebel incursions into the lowlands from the Sierra Maestra had been growing bolder and more frequent.

Army activity against civilians lightened. At dawn of Dec. 24 the bodies of 12 brutally beaten civilians were found in the streets of Holguin. A few days later Cowley was shot dead in a hardware store by a rebel band.

The arrest and grilling of some 200 citizens followed. Civic and fraternal organizations protested to Capt. Rafael Lavastida, who had been named to replace Cowley. All but seven of those arrested were released. A few days later the tortured bodies of six of those were found on a highway. Authorities said they had been killed in a rebel ambush.

Cowley's name figured in the trial of Sosa Blanco recently when a confidential field report was introduced as evidence by the prosecution. Cowley labeled Sosa Blanco an "unscrupulous assassin. A coward." Asked to comment, Sosa Blanco said:

"He was just angry because he wanted me to kill lots of rebels so his reports would look good—but I couldn't find them."

Fourteen witnesses said Morejon and an army patrol came to a village near Bayamo and rounded up 600 farmers suspected of packing cartridges for the rebels. Morejon himself testified paraffin tests proved positive in 13 cases. The 13 were found shot to death shortly after being led away by Morejon's patrol.

A general officer of the army, who gained asylum in one of the Latin American embassies here, may yet face criminal charges.

In this case a deposition is on file in the legal department of the revolutionary army's national police headquarters from Lt. Jesus Castiel Jimenez, 29. He was a former sergeant in the regular army who turned into a rebel spy. His deposition accuses the general of personally torturing his brother, Eude, a private in the army suspected of rebel sympathies.

"I was one of many who turned against the army," said Lt. Castiel. "The orders we received were inhuman. The will to fight was gone. Everyone of us was sickened by the needless brutalities against defenseless people."

None of the testimony at the military tribunals has linked Batista personally to an act of brutality. He has said in his Dominican exile that he knew nothing of them. Castro leaders scorn this idea. In requesting his extradition from the Dominican Republic, as "refugee from justice," Castro's Foreign Ministry said the deposed dictator was the "maximum author and instigator of numerous cases of assassination, theft and maltreatment of public funds."

Bohemia, a widely circulated pictorial news magazine, says Batista was present when flying squads of national police left the Presidential Palace in quest of suspects in the attempt on Batista's life March 13, 1957.

More than 300 former Batista regime officials—police and army officers—have been executed for "major war crimes." A large number have been absolved or given prison sentences.

Fidel Castro once said that out of nearly 2,000 detained no more than 400 would pay the supreme penalty.

It could have been more, some national police roundup. Among them was former Sen. Pelayo Cuervo Navarro, an opponent of the administration. Bohemia says he had no connection with the assassination plot.

House Members Debate Presence Of 'Nit-Wit'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Are there nit-wits in the House of Representatives?

House members debated that question, then left it unanswered after a brief but spirited discussion Tuesday on the House floor.

The debate was broken up after at least one member insisted that more of his colleagues be on hand if such a controversial matter were to be discussed.

"I think the folks ought to hear it," commented Rep. Clare Hoffman (R-Mich.).

Hoffman objected to such a weighty debate without the presence of a quorum—218 members. Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) counted only about 20 and then rammed through a motion to adjourn rather than summon the absentees. There was no other business anyway.

The adjournment ended a three-way debate among Reps. Henry Reuss (D-Wis.), Gardner Withrow (R-Wis.) and Wayne Hays (D-Ohio).

It involved a speech Withrow made recently to the Congress of the Dominican Republic. Withrow was quoted as having told the Dominican legislators "we sometimes elect" nit-wits to the United States Congress.

Reuss didn't like any of the speech. Hays took umbrage at the reference to nit-wits in Congress. He told the House he had first considered objecting to reprinting the Withrow speech in the Congressional Record. However, the sharp-tongued Ohioan added, after reading the entire speech he was inclined to believe that Withrow had proved his point.

Withrow denied having referred to colleagues as nit-wits. Confronted with what Hays said was an official transcript, Withrow retorted that there was no official transcript made.

In his own time, Withrow said, he would make his own defense of his speech to the Dominicans. Hays said he hoped Withrow would. Reuss said he, too, hoped the debate would be resumed.

Such a debate, Reuss said, might include exhibits on both sides of the argument.

And, Hoffman said as he ended or at least deferred the whole thing, there ought to be more participants.

PARIS (AP)—The French army today threatened reprisal against anyone publishing news of military operations in Algeria that does not come from the government.

A literal interpretation of the army letter would restrict newsmen completely to official handouts or statements.

See Good Year In Strawberries

RALEIGH — This could be a good year for planting strawberries, according to Melvin Kolbe, horticulture specialist for the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service.

These producers set registered plants in 1958. They have been grown 3,000 feet away from non-certified plants in soil that was double fumigated for nematodes. During the past season, the plantings were inspected regularly by the N.C. Crop Improvement Association.

Certified strawberry plants deserve the same consideration as other certified seeds and plants, Kolbe said. When planted and cared for under recommended practices, yields from certified plants should greatly exceed the present state average.

For commercial growers or gardeners, who wish to set strawberries in 1959 there are certified plants available from three North Carolina producers. The producers are: Red Reynolds, Ellerbe, Rt. 1; Everett Lewis, Rocky Point; and Harold Parker, Varina.

Donald Cook, one of Broadway's most humorous comedy stars, began his career as a solemn bank clerk.

CHAPTER I The strange tale I have to relate could open at several points...

In the order myself when the book was dropped. America was a strange bourn to me...

snatch what rest I could before my interview with Mr. Luke Metcalf. Certainly this was no moment to yield to pique...

That June morning - how well I remember! It was hot beyond belief. India itself had never boiled with a deeper, more sinister heat...

The crews of these blunderbuss argosies of the East India Company are adept at routine maneuvers. This particular Indian, however, was no longer the property of the vast mercantile empire...

"I must've given satisfaction, Captain." Laughter rumbled in the mariner's massive chest. "My report is signed and sealed. It goes to Metcalf the moment we dock. If you'd compose it yourself, it could hardly be better."

OH, MY ACHING BACK Now You can get the fast relief you need from nagging backache, headache...

Thanks to the uncertain lights and the hair that wrapped her in a sable cloud, I could not discern her features. But I observed that she was studying both me and my ship intently.

Road-Numbers Plans Complete

RALEIGH — Plans for numbering roads on North Carolina's 58,000 mile system of Secondary facilities have been completed and will be submitted to the State Highway Commission at its Thursday morning meeting in Raleigh.

The Secondary Roads and several other Departments of the State Highway Commission have worked jointly in setting up the numbering system for every road in the State. Maps showing the road designations have been prepared and reviewed by each of the Commission's 14 Highway Division Engineers. If approved by the Commission, the next step will be the preparation and posting of route numbers along the roads with an arrow pointing to the road facility itself.

In announcing completions of the work, Secondary Roads Officer Harold Makepeace said the numbering system will be of tremendous value to the motoring public, as well as to the Highway Department.

Heretofore, local residents have assigned road names to Secondary facilities and some roads have as many as four or five different local names. In the absence of a uniform marking system, it is difficult for the public to find a particular road or to follow it across an intersection once it has been located. With the numbers actually displayed on the road, motorists can follow a Secondary Road in exactly the same manner as they travel an NC or US numbered route, without becoming hopelessly lost at the first intersection.

Makepeace also pointed out that the numbering system will expedite the handling of road requests both in the field and in the Raleigh office.

Report Progress On Gas Pipeline

FAYETTEVILLE — Steady progress was reported today along the 630-mile route of the state's newest utility pipeline project which will introduce natural gas into a large area of south-central and eastern North Carolina by this summer.

About 100-miles of North Carolina's Natural Gas Corporation's main transmission system has already been installed, according to Volney H. Kyle, Jr., executive vice-president of the Fayetteville firm. This represents almost 15 per cent of scheduled construction from a point near Mooresville, where the company will be fed from Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Company's interstate artery, to terminals across state to Wilmington, New Bern, Greenville and Washington.

With less than two full months of work and some of the winter's worst weather behind them, Kyle expects the construction contractors will move at a more rapid pace from now on. Meanwhile, he reported that pipe-laying activities had already started in several communities around the 22-city network where N. C. Natural will have distribution systems, and will commence soon in the remaining localities.

JEWISH HIT FILIBUSTER NEW YORK (AP)—The union action commission of the American Hebrew Congregation has urged Congress to abolish the filibuster as an "un-democratic device" preventing action on urgent matters regarding racial and civil rights.

Defeated In Effort To Ban Secret Committee Meets

RALEIGH (AP)—A Person County legislator has been thwarted in his efforts to ban secret sessions of House committees. Rep. B. I. Satterfield offered an amendment Tuesday to require that all House committee sessions be open to the press and the public, but it was soundly defeated after brief debate. Satterfield declared the rules which permit secret sessions are "contrary to the basic principles of democratic government." The House also beat down a proposal by Rep. John W. Umstead Jr. of Orange designed to make it easier to get a bill back to the floor of the House if a committee failed to act on it. Umstead's amendment would have allowed a majority of the House to recall a bill from committee instead of a two-thirds vote. The action came as the House adopted rules which will govern it this session.

TV Tape Could Be Starting Revolution

Video tape records picture and sound on strips that can be played back immediately. Similar to home tape recorders, it is much faster and cheaper than film. The method permits KTLA to attempt ambitious shows because they can be syndicated to other areas. "Sponsors like local shows," Schulke added. "They find a certain excitement about putting their names on programs that are new and fresh, rather than merely buying into a canned show." A glimmer of hope is offered by Los Angeles' KTLA. The independent Channel 5 is presenting more live dramatic shows than the networks—six half-hours. It has five musical variety shows and a collection of panels, discussions and early morning shows. This is one channel the cowpokes haven't roped. It must be admitted that KTLA possesses certain advantages. The parent is the munificent Paramount Pictures—yet KTLA pays its own way. And it is situated in the heart of the entertainment capital and can draw from the vast reservoir of talent. Aggressive young KTLA chief Jim Schulke explained that video tape helped his revolt against canned programming. He feels it can help others. "Most stations can only afford one eight-hour shift of a camera crew," he explained. "That limits your chance for local shows to a certain time span. But with tape, those crews can record shows for use at a later time."

Advise Jumpers Drop Praying

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists advised their future paratroopers today not to pray before jumping. The official magazine of the Communist sports organizations told young jumpers to rely on skill and equipment rather than what it called an "unknown god."

Last Rites Set For Mrs. W. M. Jones

MACCLESFIELD—Mrs. W. M. Jones, 79, of the St. Louis community, died at her home Tuesday.

Will Blow Up Hitler's Tribune

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP)—The huge colonnaded tribune from which Hitler reviewed his followers at Nazi party celebrations is being blown up. Five hundred explosive charges are making rubble of the grandiose structure the fuhrer called a "stone guarantee of the thousand-year Reich." The space will be used for a big meeting hall.

Israeli Step Up Refugee Flights

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Israeli airline today began a two-plane a day airlift to speed emigration of Romanian Jews to Israel. About 500 Jews have been arriving from Romania each week since the Communists raised the emigration bars in a sudden reversal of policy.

Rep. Hall Ready For Work Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. David Hall (D-NC) called for his dictaphone to be brought to his room in Bethesda Naval Hospital today, saying he is ready for some work. Hall underwent a kidney operation late Monday night. His wife said "he is doing fine."

Traffic Toll

RALEIGH (AP)—The Motor Vehicles Department's tally of highway deaths and injuries for the 24-hours ending at 10 a. m. today: Killed (total) 0, Injured (total) 15, Killed (rural) 170, Killed to date last year 116, Injured to Nov. 1, 1958 17,232, Injured to Nov. 1, 1957 15,489.

Calls For Extra Welfare Funds

RALEIGH (AP)—A call for a 3 1/2 million dollar increase in state funds for public welfare programs was raised today by Sen. Wilbur H. Currie of Moore, chairman of the Senate Welfare Committee. Currie told a joint meeting of the Senate and House Welfare Committees that the boost would bring an additional 1 1/2 million dollars in federal funds to the state. "If it was a factory of a highway or something of that kind, it wouldn't take long to find the matching funds," Currie asserted. "If the problems facing welfare had been felt in another field, we would have had a special session."

Turn Over Bank Holdup Suspect

RALEIGH (AP)—Charles M. Askew, a 24-year-old Maryland man charged with bank holdups at Ahoskie and Winton, has been turned over to federal authorities here for trial in Eastern District Court.

Seven Die When Grandstand Falls

SAN LUIS, Mexico (AP)—Seven children died and scores of adults and children were injured when a packed grandstand collapsed Tuesday night during a festival celebration at a school. Twenty-three of the injured, including some school teachers, were in serious condition. All the casualties were Mexicans.

TV Commercial Is British Issue

LONDON (AP)—The TV commercial has become an issue before Britain's Parliament. Laborite Christopher Mayhew, pushing a bill to ban interruption of programs for sales talk, told the House of Commons the pitchmen are even breaking in on Westerns at crucial moments.

Hodges Warns Against New Strike Violence

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Luther Hodges has warned union and management officials they bear "direct and personal responsibility" to prevent further violence in the bitter Henderson-Harriet Cotton Mill strike. Negotiators received strongly-worded telegrams from the Governor as they prepared to meet again today in an effort to end the 15-week dispute.

Approve Burley Quota Extension

RALEIGH (AP)—A three-year extension of marketing quotas for burley tobacco has won the overwhelming approval of North Carolina growers. Returns from Tuesday's voting in 19 of the state's 35 burley producing counties gave a margin of 13,735 in favor of quotas and only 102 against. The State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office said the vote in the remaining counties would be too small to influence the total vote. North Carolina burley growers voted along with those of other states in the referendum to decide whether marketing quotas, acreage allotments and price supports at 90 per cent of parity will be in effect on the 1959 crop.

Negro's Home Is Closely Guarded

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—State police kept an all night vigil outside the home of a Negro family in the white suburb of Collins Park after twice dispersing crowds from the vicinity. The second gathering—about 300 people—was broken up by 12 troopers Tuesday night with the aid of four leashed dogs. Two women suffered minor injuries. A dozen youths were arrested. Mr. and Mrs. George Rayfield moved into the two-story brick single home early in the day. By noon a crowd surrounded the dwelling. Mrs. Rayfield summoned help, complaining that deliveries were unable to reach the house. The troopers dispersed the first group with little trouble. But the neighbors and curious who milled about the home after dark were unruly and the officers were hard pressed to break them up. Stones and firecrackers were hurled through several windows of the Rayfield dwelling. The troopers then barricaded the area for four blocks in each direction. Rayfield, 40, a laborer, said he was a native of Parkersley, Va., and had lived in Wilmington for 25 years with his wife and two daughters.
