Jury Trials Are Granted 23 For Strike Violence

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Twenty-three people, most of them strikers, today were granted jury trials — to be held next month. They are charged with violence in the reopening of two struck cotton mills here.

Vance County Recorder's Court Judge Sterling G. Gilliam granted the motion by William Nicholson, Charlotte attorney representing the strikers, members of the Textile Workers Union of America.

Solicitor (prosecutor) Bennett Perry Jr. made the jury trial request for the three non-striker workers for the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills. Observers said this raised doubt whether Perry would prosecute the cases, expected to come up at a court term beginning March 30.

Two of the defendants are women. Thirty-six counts of violence are involved in cases against the 23, mostly assault and property damage. One striker has seven counts. The cases likely will be heard by six-man juries.

Violence reached a peak early this week. It has slackened since.

A thunderous dynamite blast was reported last night, and except for two minor incidents when the 7 a. m. shift reported for work, everything was quiet. Police said they were unable to locate the blast, which apparently did no damage.

Meanwhile, Gov. Luther Hodges had under study a request from a union negotiator that the governor personally intervene in the 15-week strike at the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills.

In a telegram to Hodges yesterday, Boyd E. Payton, Carolina director of the Textile Workers Union of America, said: "It is imperative that you act promptly in order to relieve the tension in this community which could erupt into greater violence and cause irreparable damage to the reputation of this community and our whole state."

Payton added, "We stand ready to meet at your call and would welcome the opportunity to present our case to the chief executive . . ."

Payton said before court convened the union would ask for jury trials for those charged with strike violence.

He admitted, "More workers entered the plants today than at any time since they reopened." He said, "It appeared to us that state police were escorting out-of-town cars into the plant."

About 1,200 union members struck when management refused to renew an arbitration clause in a new contract. The mills reopened Feb. 16 on a limited operation basis.

Police Chief C. C. Harris reported yesterday that a striker broke the window of a worker's car at the South Henderson plant. In an incident at the North Henderson plant, one worker's car was splashed with paint.

Union and company representatives met informally yesterday in what a union spokesman described as an exploratory session.

Payton, hit over the head Monday night with a bottle by an unidentified assailant, suggested in a radio appeal that there were two alternatives if Gov. Hodges should refuse to intervene. He said "we would be most willing to present the union's case to a committee of local ministers or to a skilled arbitrator elected by the union and management."

Payton declared the company's efforts are aimed at destroying the union.

John D. Cooper Jr., company president, said he would not comment on Payton's statement until he can study it further. However, he denied that he was seeking to wreck the union.

FHA Approval

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Home and Housing Finance Administration of the FHA announced today that Greenville had received from Housing Administration Norman F. Mason approval for a workable program whereby the city can eliminate its slum and blight areas and direct their orderly development.

Congressman Herbert Bonner advised the Reflector of the announcement today.

Formal approval is a prerequisite for federal assistance in the form of loans and grants for slum clearance, rehabilitation, public housing and liberal mortgage FHA insurance for private redevelopment projects in the areas and rehousing displaced persons.

Greenville at this time has no definite project for urban renewal but the approval was made for future projects now under contemplation.

Khrushchev Rebuff Felt By Britons

LONDON (AP) — British newspapers on both sides of the political fence united today in blaming Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev because prime Minister Harold Macmillan had obtained no concessions from the Soviet in his Moscow visit.

Even newspapers of the Labor opposition conceded Macmillan had done his best.

Macmillan himself had promised only to return with information. He had warned he was going on a reconnaissance mission, "to try to break the ice and get some feeling of the general situation."

British spokesmen in Moscow admitted Thursday, after their chief flew to Kiev for the sight-seeing portion of his trip, that Macmillan got what he wanted from both the Soviet and the West so far standing firm on the related issues of divided Germany and West Berlin.

Britons generally had hoped for more. As a result, Macmillan's trip was widely termed a failure.

The papers agreed that Khrushchev's speech Tuesday, pouring cold water on the Western proposals for foreign ministers' conference in G. E. R. many, had wrecked the British-Soviet meeting.

"It was Khrushchev's rough, rude speech — breaking confidences, abusing all and sundry, and belaying the fair words spoken to Mr. Macmillan's face — which cooled hopes raised by his visit to the Soviet Union," commented the conservative Daily Mail.

The final insult came with Khrushchev's toothache — a "diplomatic toothache" many called it — which prevented him from accompanying Macmillan to the Ukrainian capital of Kiev.

"This looks very like a calculated rebuff to Mr. Macmillan," the Daily Mail said.

The headlines reflected Britain's letdown. "Khrushchev wrecks talks" — The Laborite Daily Herald. "Moscow mission negative" — Conservative Daily Telegraph.

"Unless there is a diplomatic miracle between now and Tuesday, the final communique will consist of empty words and platitudes," said the right-wing Daily Sketch.

The Times of London, which frequently reflects official government thinking, suggested, however, that success or failure of the mission could be judged only in the light of how far it accomplished what Macmillan set out to do.

State Dept. Awaits Report By Navy On Search Of Soviet Ship

By ELTON C. FAY WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department awaited a report from the Navy today before communicating with Moscow on the boarding and high seas search of a Soviet trawler by a U.S. Navy team.

In a surprise action, U.S. sailors briefly boarded the trawler in fishing waters off Newfoundland Thursday.

They reported nothing to indicate the Russians had anything to do intentionally with recent breaks in transatlantic cables. What might have happened by accident was an open question.

A spokesman said the State Department would communicate with the Soviet Union through diplomatic channels as soon as a full report is received.

After searching the trawler, the Navy team reported: "No indications of intentions other than fishing."

The quick negative report, issued by the Navy here a few hours after the boarding was announced, lessened the potential impact of the incident on already touchy U.S.-Soviet relations.

There was no immediate indication how Moscow might react. Nations' jealous of their sovereignty often resent the boarding of their ships by men of another nation.

The Soviet vessel is the trawler Novorossisk, with a crew of 54 men and women. The Navy reported the captain was friendly and cooperative.

The United States acted under an international agreement which the Defense Department said "authorizes investigations by naval ships of suspected of damaging and interfering with cables under the high seas." Both the United States and the U.S.S.R. are signers of the agreement.

Five transatlantic cables have been damaged since last Saturday in the area off Newfoundland.

Fishing vessels of many nations operate in that area and accidental cable damage sometimes occurs in normal deep sea fishing operations.

But the Pentagon said that aerial reconnaissance by American planes "confirmed extended operations of Novorossisk in the area of the cable breaks at the time the breaks occurred."

Under orders from the commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet, Adm. Jerauld Wright, five men from the antisubmarine radar picket ship Roy O. Hale climbed aboard the Novorossisk at noon Thursday.

The trawler was about 120 miles off St. Johns, Newfoundland, in international waters. Wright ordered the boarding party to make the check under a provision of an 1888 treaty to protect cables. Although it was the czarist government of Russia which originally joined in the treaty, officials here said the Soviet government adhered to it in 1926.

In an initial report, Wright said that the skipper of the Hale, Lt. Cmdr. E. J. Korte, and his four men found that the Novorossisk was equipped for deep sea fishing and that all the ship's documents were in order.

"The master of the trawler was friendly and cooperative and there were no indications of intentions other than fishing," Wright said.

The log of the trawler, showed it had been operating in the vicinity of the cable interruptions.

The presence of a Soviet fishing vessel in the area of the Grand Banks was not unusual. Since 1956 fishing craft of the Soviet Union have been seen there frequently. The size of the Soviet fishing fleet usually runs about a dozen vessels, ranging in size from 600-ton trawlers to 2,600-ton factory ships which process or refrigerate the catch.

Dirksen Advises Against Talk That Could Impair Russian Negotiations

By ERNEST B. VACCARO WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) underlined the potential gravity of the Berlin crisis today by pleading for less talk on Capitol Hill while President Eisenhower weighs "the hour-to-hour" developments.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader and chief administration spokesman, cautioned in an interview against headline-making speeches or any hasty action that might affect critical negotiations.

Renewed tension over the Berlin situation exploded in the Senate Thursday with Democratic demands for a stepped-up defense program and for alerting the people to any eventuality — including the possibility of a shooting war.

Adding to the apprehension were the uncompromising tone of recent speeches by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the apparent lack of any favorable results in Khrushchev's Moscow talks this week with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The talks ended Thursday with British reports that neither side was giving an inch.

A further possible strain on U.S.-Soviet relations developed Thursday when a U.S. Navy boarding party made a personal check of a Soviet trawler about 120 miles northwest of St. Johns, Newfoundland. The boarding party was trying to learn what caused breaks in five transatlantic cables in that area.

But the threat of serious trouble have made in regards to the Chief, Coley reportedly struck him.

Gower is quoted as saying he did not fight back because he was much older (66) than Coley (52).

Police Commissioner Wilbur Murphy told the council he expected to find a replacement for Coley by today to serve during the Chief's suspension or until his trial is held.

The suspension leaves Griffon without police protection. Night policeman Herb Adams, the only other member of the force, was suspended for 30 days earlier this week for "negligence."

Gower told the council Thursday night that he was asked by Coley to accompany him to the town hall to talk privately about some matter. Gower said that Coley accused him of making "some remarks" which the chief had heard and did not like.

The Mayor said he was hit by the face by the retired Marine Corps military policeman. He said his nose began to spurt blood.

Gower said when he reached for a handkerchief to cover his nose the Chief would not let him put his hands in his pockets and pushed him around.

Coley had been in Griffon 11 months.

"However, I'd like to say that on behalf of the boys, both Adams and Curry are great players and splendid young men. It's just unfortunate that the pressures and the discipline in regard to basketball often cause actions which would not normally follow."

The East Carolina president was quoted in today's Greensboro Daily News as indicating the administration may step into the situation. The story was written by Associate Sports Editor Moses Crutchfield, with whom Dr. Messick said he talked, via telephone, yesterday.

Crutchfield, in addition to his position as Associate Sports Editor of the Greensboro paper, is also official statistician of the North State Conference. He is presently in Lexington, site of the conference tournament.

Adams was dismissed from the East Carolina squad at halftime of Saturday night's ECC-Atlantic Christian College basketball game, which the Pirates lost, 65-59. Curry was dismissed from the squad Monday.

Coach Porter said both dismissals were for "insubordination."

With neither Adams nor Curry in the line-up, East Carolina lost, 74-70, to Catawba in Wednesday night's opening round of the conference tournament. The Pirates were seeded third in the eight-team tournament, while Catawba is seeded seventh.

Medal And Check Presented Hero

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Henry Skinner accepted the $500 check with scared hands. On his chest was the Carnegie Medal for Heroism.

His hands, badly burned when he shut off a burning oxygen tank in a utility room of the Wayne Memorial Hospital children's ward last year, still are stiff.

But, as Henry Belk said as he presented the award yesterday to Skinner, "For the rest of your days you will carry with you the comforting solace of knowing when you were bigger than any man is expected to be."

Skinner, a 55-year-old Negro maintenance man, was attempting to repair the leaking oxygen bank in the utility room last Feb. 6 when a spark from a wrench he was using ignited the oxygen.

Skinner, his clothing ablaze, was blown from the room adjacent to the children's ward, filled with small tots.

Skinner ripped off his flaming clothes and threw them to the ground from a fire escape. Then fearlessly he dashed back into the fire-filled utility room.

He seized the oxygen tank and with the wrench shut off the leaking valve.

The hospital said Skinner risked his life to prevent a major disaster.

Belk, who as editor of the Goldsboro News - Argus recommended Skinner for the medal, said it was only by a miracle that Skinner escaped with his life.

Skinner was working double shifts to pay off $900 remaining against his home. After his act, public donations all but erased the debt.

On the medal is this inscription: "Greater love has no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends."

"Henry L. Skinner who saved untold number of persons from burning, Goldsboro, N.C., Feb. 6, 1958."

Plan 'Miss Pitt County' Beauty Event April 11

AYDEN—Pattie McKay, pretty 18-year-old freshman at Meredith College and a resident of Ayden, has been named the first entry in the forthcoming "Miss Pitt County Contest" to be held here April 11.

The Ayden Lions Club is sponsoring her in the contest.

Plans for the beauty pageant, according to W. A. Phillips Jr., are almost completed. Phillips is chairman in charge of the project. The contest will be one of several events scheduled to coincide with the Ayden Jaycee Farmer's Festival.

Phillips said today that the girl selected Miss Pitt County will compete with girls throughout the state for the title of Miss North Carolina at the state pageant in Durham in July. All rules and regulations set forth by the Miss America pageant committee will be strictly adhered to, Phillips said, in order that the local winner will be eligible for the other contests.

Civic organizations in towns and communities throughout the county are being contacted and asked to sponsor someone for the contest. "It is our hope," Phillips commented, "that each town and community will be represented."

Judges from other sections of Eastern Carolina are being chosen for the pageant and will be named at a later date. Judging for the contest will be based upon poise, personality, intelligence, talent, and beauty of face and figure, Phillips pointed out.

Contestants will be introduced at the variety show Friday night, April 10, and will also be in the parade to be held Saturday night. They will appear in bathing suit, evening gown, and a three-minute talent skit, at which time one will be selected as the winner.

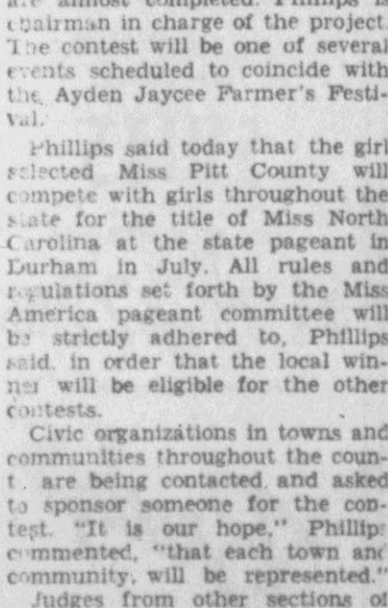

Payton, Carolina director of the Textile Workers Union of America, had told the governor in a message yesterday, "It is imperative that you act promptly in order to relieve the tension in this community which could erupt into greater violence and cause irreparable damage to the reputation of this community and our whole state."

Hodges answered: "Have your view requesting my intervention. I'm keeping in close touch with development through state and federal mediators."

Hodges recalled he sent messages to both union and management Tuesday asking that "they make every effort to end violence."

He said the "mill has answered and said it will co-operate in keeping law and order, but as yet no message from unions or any assurance you or your members will cooperate and help stop violence. Any more violence or law breaking will hurt both sides and will reflect on good name of state."

Introducing a resolution to this effect, Javits said "A serious controversy is brewing which may again endanger the traditional role of the U.S. Supreme Court as ultimate arbiter on the construction of the Constitution."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said today the Senate has little choice about extending the peacetime draft law for another four years.

As chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Russell ordered three days of public hearings, starting Tuesday. The extension bill was passed 381-20 by the House on Feb. 5. The present law expires July 1.

"There is a stark necessity for continuing the law if we are to assist in those tough with Soviet Russia," Russell said in an interview.

Col. G. M. Powell, Marshall's physician, said the complications have been cleared up.

Turnabout Is Fair Play For Spring

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

All women like to change their minds, says Arthur Jablow—and why not? Instead of complaining about this well-known feminine trait, the noted creator of tailored fashions makes it easy for women to indulge their whims this spring. Says he:

"Every woman is entitled to change her mood and her hairdo, to say nothing of her clothes and her furniture arrangement, as often as she likes. If she always looked and acted the same, she wouldn't be interesting."

To encourage this love of change, Jablow shows a spring collection of ray coats and suits which are designed to be worn right or wrong side out.

The coats are done in two ways. One group is navy-and-white checked worsted on one side, navy Italian silk on the other. The other group is black silk on one side, turquoise silk on the other. When she wishes to appear tailored and businesslike, a woman wears the dark side out. When she feels gay, she turns the other side.

The suits have slim skirts and reversible jackets, brief and unfitted. There is, for instance, a three-piece suit in black Italian silk, the jacket lined in fuchsia, to match the blouse, and just as effective worn with the fuchsia side out. Another suit is made of brown textured silk, the jacket lined in gold-color silk, with matching blouse.

Both coats and jackets are finished perfectly on both sides, down to the details of buttons and buttonholes, and are made to lead a double life.

DOUBLE LIFE . . . This suit in imported black Italian silk has jacket lined in fuchsia silk, to match blouse, may be worn on either side.

SPLIT PERSONALITY . . . Suit and blouse of brown Italian silk has reversible jacket, shown with gold side out, for two-way wear.

GAY TURNCOAT . . . This coat, designed for travel, is textured turquoise silk on one side, black on the other. It is shown with turquoise side out. All by Arthur Jablow.

The new board of directors of the Merchants Association met last night and discussed matters dealing with activities of the present year. The entire board will appear before the Board of Aldermen at their meeting Thursday to urge the enforcement of laws already in effect relative to traffic and parking. The merchants will insist upon complete enforcement of the one hour parking law. They will ask, however, that this shall not apply to hundreds of people who visit the city from other communities. L. A. Stroud was appointed a member of a committee sponsoring the extension of the city white way out Dickinson Avenue. The extension would cover that part of Dickinson Avenue between Washington Street and the Coast Line depot.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG
Paul Woodring, authority on education and advisor to the Ford Foundation on educational affairs, asks a very provocative question in his comments on two recent books by Howard Mumford Jones, Harvard Humanities professor. The books are "One Great Society" and "Reflections on Learning," and they concern the present and potential role of the Humanities in our society. Here's what intrigued us among Dr. Woodring's remarks about Jones' books, quoted from last week's Saturday Review:

This is the year when man's dream of reaching the moon approaches reality. Whether when he gets there he will know how to make the most of himself as a human being is a question not answered because it has not been asked. Technologists, space enthusiasts and military men probably would consider the question rather silly."

HIRSHBERG

And how about that? Once we get a man up to the moon—how is he going to act? What is he going to do? The engineers who are trying to get him up there don't seem to care. But it's a question some of us, at least, ought to be wondering about. . . . And the answer, say both Professors Woodring and Jones, might lie in the Humanities—a better understanding than most of us have of the human aspects of man, of the subjects "devoted to the study of man as a being other than a biological product. . . . that have a special capacity to mature the intellectual and moral powers and to quicken the sensibilities of the individual. . . ."

Post Book
Many of you have been following the Saturday Evening Post's "Adventures of the Mind" series, which to date has included over twenty articles by outstanding thinkers on subjects of serious interest ranging from evolution to sex. The Post informs us that in spite of their intellectualism these articles have been a success—which we think is a good thing. Several publishers have been wanting to put them in the form of a book, and Knopf will be issuing the first one next Fall. Ben Hibbs, Post editor, says that the Adventures articles will continue to appear indefinitely every other week, and that he hopes there will be a whole row of anthologies from this material, as time goes on. . . .

New and Future Arrivals
From Chapel Hill's UNC Press we've just received A SOUTHERN MODERATE SPEAKS, by Brooks Hays. A Congressman from Arkansas from 1942 until his recent defeat because of his moderate stand on the integration issue in Little Rock, Hays now makes public the complete story of the events leading up to the crisis and his part in them. He's also President of the Southern Baptist Convention—so he's a statesman and a man of religion, which is quite a combination these days. . . . Also just arrived is E.C.C.'s Winter edition of the college literary magazine, THE REBEL, edited by Brian Harrison. Local author Rachel Steinbeck has an interesting short story in it, and there are stories, poems and articles in the thin but vital periodical which we can recommend very highly indeed. . . . In line with the end of Lent, the Literary Guild announces that its April selection will be a novel with a religious theme—THE UNANNOUNCED, by Laurence Chinn, a recreation of the story of Jacob, the Old Testament's greatest military leader. . . .

Today's Review
The wife of one of E.C.C.'s geography professors, and quite a recent book about travel. . . . BEACHCOMBERS OF THE AFRICAN JUNGLE, by Jack Sholomir. New York: Doubleday & Company, 1958.

Who of us has not fancied leaving care and responsibility behind, and wandering forth into a wild unknown? One may enjoy such a journey vicariously by spending a few fascinating hours reading "Beachcombers of the African Jungle."

Jack Sholomir, journalist, and beautiful blond Joy Kock, disgusted with life in Johannesburg and nurse training respectively, set off to walk the entire length of Africa. Their equipment was limited to the load on their backs, and their income only from jobs along the way. They learned to live off the land, and to accept whatever came their way. In this way they encountered friendly cannibals, primitive pygmies, European hobos, man-eating crocodiles, safari ants, hunger, thirst, equatorial downpours, days of being lost in the jungle, treacherous Egyptians, and contentious officials. The readers will feel, as did the travelers, a sadness and reluctance to say goodbye when finally their destination is reached.

Of this amoral relationship one can only speculate as to the outcome. The love affair might have been treated sensationally, but instead it falls into the background of the story, and is discussed only as their respect and concern for each other.

This is a story to be read for fun, but the studies in anthropology, folklore, and geography will appeal to a wide variety of readers.

Recalls Stories Of West Point

NEW YORK (AP)—Edgar Allan Poe never borrowed a book from the West Point library while he was at the U. S. Military Academy.

Robert E. Lee borrowed more from the library as a cadet than any other before or since.

Lt. Gen. Gar Davidson, superintendent of the Academy, recalled these bits of West Point lore Wednesday night at an Overseas Press Club dinner.

Davidson said it has never been clear whether the poet Poe was dismissed because he wore his uniform improperly at a parade or because he failed to pay debts he incurred at the Academy.

Jayne's New House Is No Longer Bare

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—You will be happy to know that Jayne Mansfield's house is no longer as bare as she was in Brazil.

Remember all that jazz about Jayne and Mickey Hargitay sleeping on the floor in their barren Beverly Hills mansion? No more. They've got their own bed now. "Texas-size—that's bigger than king-size," explains Dallas-reared Jayne.

"There will be a heart-shaped red canopy over the bed," she said, pointing. "On the wall above the bed will be cupid's and arrows in marble. And all around the bottom of the bed will be pink fluorescent lighting."

Jayne was giving me a personal tour of the remarkable house. She was wearing a remarkably filled blue sweater and black tights decorated with pink pussy cat and pink tassels. Pink is a dominant theme here.

The house, built by Rudy Vallee in his "Vagabond Lover" days, is now pink with a special glitter added to the paint—"It shines just heavenly at night." Around the Sunset Blvd. property is a new pink stone wall.

"Come see my bathroom—it's divine," she urged. I did, and it was a gold-mosaic tub has a shower is studded with jeweled tile.

"Mickey tore out the tile in all 11 bathrooms," she reported. "They were just too dreary. We'll put pink fur on the floor."

Jayne wandered on to the bedrooms of her daughter, Jayne Marie, 8, which was filled with dolls collected from Jayne's travels, and of her son, Miklos Jr., 2 months, who slumbered in his heart-shaped bed. The baby's room was painted with a fairy-tale mural which depicted Jayne as a witch. She pointed out that the rabbits in the design even had heart-shaped noses and navels.

Sole adornment of the ballroom-size living room so far is a fountain of white marble "from Hungary, just like Mickey." She said it would some day squirt champagne.

'Incorrigible' Complaint Filed On Three Sons
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Richard Paulsich, 41, a jeweler and the father of six, filed a complaint of "incorrigibles" against three of his sons in Juvenile Court Thursday.

He charged they ignored him, threatened him and threw stones at him. The boys are 13, 15 and 16.

"In the last couple of years," said Paulsich, "they've been getting worse and worse. I don't know why. They could be good boys. I want them to get straightened out before they get into serious trouble."

Paulsich accused his sons of having drinking and gambling parties in his home. He said they threatened him when he objected.

He and his wife Wilma, 46, have three other children, two girls, 12 and 14, and another boy, 6.

Police said the three older boys were surly and bitter when taken to Juvenile Hall pending a hearing. One muttered: "We'll get even."

On April 5-12, the Arlington Street Baptist Church will observe Youth Week for the first time. This program is sponsored by the Training Union Department of the Southern Baptist Convention. Youth Week is a plan for a church to use its young people in all the official positions of church life for one full week.

Jay Lloyd will serve as Sunday school superintendent, and Larry Stox Jr. as Training Union director. Betty Carawan will serve as pianist with Iona Jones as choir director. Judy Garner will serve as church clerk. Merrilee Morin as financial secretary, and Ben Gibbs, treasurer. Doug Stott will serve as chairman of the deacons and Ben Gibbs, Jay Lloyd, Larry Stox, and Tommy Sullivan will be members of the Deacon Board.

Jesus Faces the Cross

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 14:12-18

On the first day of the Passover, the disciples asked Jesus where they would eat. Christ sent out two disciples, telling them to follow a man bearing a pitcher of water; he would show them the place.—Mark 14:12-15.

The two went into the city and found that man, who showed them a large upper room where they would eat the Passover. They made it ready and in the evening Christ came with the 12.—Mark 14:16-17.

As they ate the Passover, Jesus said to them, "Verily, I say unto you, one of you which eateth with Me shall betray Me." Sadly each disciple asked Him, "Is it I?" Jesus said, "It is one of the 12."—Mark 14:18-20.

Jesus took bread, broke and blessed it, saying, "Take, eat; this is My body." And He took wine and gave it to them, saying, "This is My blood."—Mark 14:22-24.

MEMORY VERSE—Mark 14:36.

Jesus Faces the Cross

CHRIST TELLS HIS DISCIPLES THAT ONE OF THEM WILL BETRAY HIM

Scripture—Mark 14:12-18.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. OUR LESSON today tells the sad story of Christ's knowledge that one of His own apostles would betray Him to His enemies and cause His death on the cross.

Then Christ took a piece of bread, blessed it and gave it to His companions to eat, saying, "Take, eat; this is My body." And He took wine and gave it to them to drink, saying, "This is my blood . . . which is shed for many."—Mark 14:22-24.

Possibly some who read of it may have had the same experience of having a supposed close friend begin a "whispering" campaign to discredit him. Even a little child may have had the experience, and many older people too.

After the Passover was eaten they sang a hymn, then went to the Mount of Olives. Jesus told them there that they would be offended because of Him that night. Peter said that even if the others were offended he would not be. Christ replied, "This day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny Me thrice."—Mark 14:26-30. Peter vehemently denied the Lord's words, saying he gladly would die with His Master.

Why would this sinless Man, who had taught the good way of life and repentance of sin, who had become beloved of the common people, be betrayed for a paltry sum to His enemies by one who had been so close to Him, one who had heard His teachings and seen how He lived? That is a mystery we cannot solve.

At a place called Gethsemane Jesus went aside to pray, telling the apostles to stay where they were. He took only Peter, James and John with Him, asking them to watch. In great sorrow Christ fell on the ground and prayed, saying: "Abba, Father, all things are possible unto Thee; take away this cup from Me; nevertheless not what I will, but what Thou wilt."—Mark 14:34-36.

It was the first day of the observance of the Passover, which was "first observed 3,300 years ago," according to Dr. Wilbur M.

When all was ready, Christ and all the 12 came. "And as they sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, one of you which eateth with Me shall betray Me."—Mark 14:17-18.

Let us search our own souls. Would we, either young or old, be true to Him who died to save us? Do we, in our daily lives, remain true to His teachings and speak out for Him when we are faced with temptation or denial of our faith? When our friends are slandered do we defend them? And can we pray as Christ did, resigning our wills to the Almighty will?

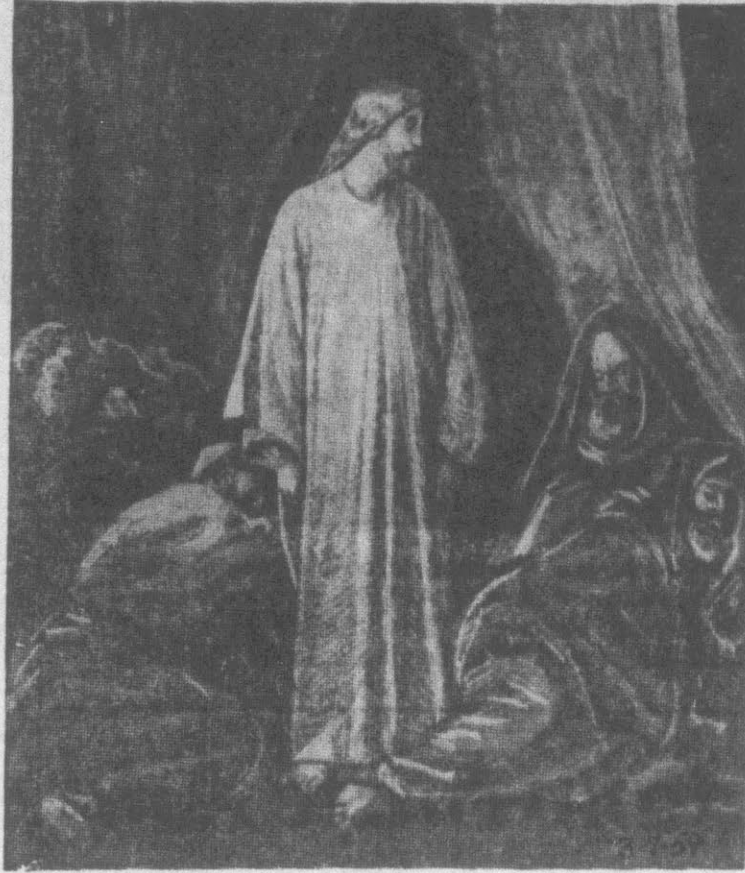

Imagine the dismay of the 12 when the Lord said this! Each one asked Him, in great sorrow, "Is it I?" Jesus said: "It is one of the 12 that dipeth with Me in the dish."—Mark 14:20.

Smith in Peloubet's Select Notes. We have studied the dramatic episode when God released the Jewish nation from their Egyptian bondage by passing over their blood-marked houses and letting them cross the Jordan river to escape the pursuing Egyptians, so we need not retell it here. The Passover is still celebrated today.

The disciples asked Jesus where they would eat the Passover. He sent out two of them, telling them to go into the city and follow a man bearing a pitcher of water. He would lead them to the place. They did so, and were led to a "large upper room in a house," where they made ready for the feast.

When all was ready, Christ and all the 12 came. "And as they sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, one of you which eateth with Me shall betray Me."—Mark 14:17-18.

When all was ready, Christ and all the 12 came. "And as they sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, one of you which eateth with Me shall betray Me."—Mark 14:17-18.

Imagine the dismay of the 12 when the Lord said this! Each one asked Him, in great sorrow, "Is it I?" Jesus said: "It is one of the 12 that dipeth with Me in the dish."—Mark 14:20.

Elizabeth City Upsets Kinston, New Bern Defeated

Greenville Quint Plays Washington In Tourney Tonite

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Elizabeth City's Yellow Jackets staged a rally midway the second half that carried them to a 51-50 upset victory over defending champion and regular season co-champion, Kinston in the Northeastern tourney last night. Washington also moved into the semi-finals with an expected 47-36 win over New Bern.

Tonight's action in Memorial Gymnasium will see Elizabeth City and Roanoke Rapids tangle in the opener and Greenville and Washington battle in the second tilt.

Elizabeth City trailed throughout the opening half but at the end of the third quarter had closed the gap from seven points to one, 34-33.

A lay-up by Pat McDowell gave EC a 35-34 lead, their first of the night. The next few minutes saw the lead see-saw but EC was finally able to wrestle it away for good with 4:37 left. John Tatum hit a "snowbird" and forged ahead by 39-38.

Baskets by Tatum and McDowell gave the Yellow Jackets their largest margin of the evening 47-40 with 2:23 showing on the clock.

The Red Devils hung in contention to the final minutes, however, Donnie Kintz and McDowell swapped baskets and then Hearne

It was East Carolina's third defeat of the season.

Finals Slated Saturday Night

WINTERVILLE — Semi-Finals play here last night in the Pitt County Inter-scholastic Basketball tournament saw victories by the H. B. Sugg girls, the Robinson-Union boys, and the South Ayden boys.

The finals of the tourney will take place tomorrow night here, at the Robinson-Union gymnasium. The games are scheduled as follows:

7:30 p.m.—Bethel Union (girls) vs. H. B. Sugg.

8:45 p.m.—Robinson Union (boys) vs. South Ayden.

Last night's games saw H. B. Sugg girls topple Pitt County Training School, 23-21. Dupree was high scorer for the winners with 14 points and R. Daniels was high for the losers with 11; Robinson Union boys defeated Bethel Union, 58-44. J. Worthington was high scorer with 19 points.

The third game of the evening was a major upset. South Ayden's boys clinched a 58-47 victory over H. B. Sugg. The Sugg school quintet was top-seeded. Austin contributed 20 points to his club's victory. Nobles was high for the losers with 14.

hit a follow-up to cut the lead at 51-48. The Devils got the ball once again and called time out with five seconds left. Pete Watkins got the ball back in play and drove in for a lay-up but the buzzer went off following the shot and EC has upset the tournament favorites.

Kinston, a strong tournament club, finished up the regular season with a 11-3 mark to the Greenville for the championship. The Devils have been around for every State tourney with the exception of one since the competition was started in 1948. But last night it was an inspired EC which knocked the defending champs off and also copped their first victory over Kinston in eight years.

Pat McDowell, an All-Conference selection, paced the win with 21 points and also controlled the backboards. Pete Watkins, All-Conference sophomore, collected 19 for the losers.

New Bern hit only three field goals in the second half and Washington had little trouble posting a 46-37 victory in last night's opener.

The Pam Pack jumped into an early 11-6 lead and were never headed as the Bears had a terrible night from the floor. Paced by the rebounding of Russ Knowles and Zoph Potts, Washington had a comfortable 31-17 halftime lead and Coach Bill Sweet was able to empty the bench in the final quarter.

Knowles was tops for the winners with 11 points. Cliff Rowe, a sophomore with a big future, scored 21 points to account for more than half of New Bern's total production.

Tonight will mark the third meeting of the season for Washington and Greenville. The Pam Pack won at Greenville and then the Phantoms took a recent decision on the Washington court.

Coach Bo Farley's all-senior club advanced into the semi-finals by defeating Tarboro. Greenville was 11-3 in the conference and Washington was 10-4.

The opening tilt will pit a couple of clubs that barely made the tournament. Both Elizabeth City and Roanoke Rapids captured one point victories and their meeting tonight is expected to be another tight tilt.

Armstrong And Italian To Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—Business is picking up for Gene (Ace) Armstrong, the undefeated middleweight.

The 27-year-old contender from Elizabeth, N.J., takes on Italo Scorticchini, the Italian middleweight king, in a television 10-rounder (NBC 10 p.m. EST) at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Armstrong is the 2-1 favorite. This marks Armstrong's second fight of the year. That matches his activity for all of 1958. Some times it doesn't pay to be too good.

The Ace, who has a 16-0 record for 3 1/2 years of pro fighting, has been finding it difficult to get the other members of the top 10 elite to mingle with him. Armstrong is ranked fifth by the NBA and 10th by Ring.

Scorticchini, unranked, is willing to fight anyone. On his two previous invasions of the U.S. and through 1953-1956, he fought 22 times with so-so results in the ring. Financially, the curly-haired Italian did far better.

Fighting against the top welter and middleweights, Scorty just managed a 9-11-2 record. But he made enough dough to buy up several houses and land in Italy and has a good bank account to go with it. He thinks he'll do better both in the ring and in the finance department this time.

A pro 11 years, Italo's record is 41-22-7, including 15 knockouts. He is unbeaten in his last five fights, including a decision over Gino Rosset in Milan for the Italian title.

Portland, Idaho State And DePaul In NCAA Tourney

NEW YORK (AP)—DePaul of Chicago, Idaho State and Portland (Ore.) today were named at-large entries in the NCAA Basketball Tournament, bringing to 10 the number of teams in the field for the collegiate championships.

The selections, made by R. S. (Spec) Keene of Oregon State—the chairman of the NCAA's Western Selection Committee, were announced by the NCAA Service Bureau here.

Idaho State, the leader in the Rocky Mountain Conference, will be making a record seventh successive appearance in the tournament. Only four-time champion Kentucky has made more overall appearances, 10.

It's the fourth time in the NCAA for DePaul and the first for Portland.

DePaul and Portland will meet in a first round game at Portland, Ore., at a date to be chosen, probably March 9, 10 or 11. The winner will advance to the Midwest regional at Lawrence, Kan., to play Kansas State of the Big Eight Conference as part of a doubleheader March 13. The doubleheader also matches Southwest Conference champion Texas Christian with the Missouri Valley Conference champion, probably Cincinnati.

Idaho State will play the Border Conference champion (Texas Western, New Mexico State and Arizona State U. are in the running) at a site and date to be announced. The winner will advance to the Far West regional at San Francisco against St. Mary's (Calif.), the West Coast Athletic Conference champ on March 13. The Pacific Coast Conference champion (California leads) and the Skyline winner (Utah holds first place) meet in the other game of the San Francisco doubleheader.

Only three more at-large teams remain to be chosen—all for the Eastern regional preliminaries at New York's Madison Square Garden on March 10. The Ivy League champion customarily gets one of these three berths. Navy, Boston University and Manhattan are among the possibilities for the other two spots.

A&T Moves Into Semi-Final Play

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Defending champion North Carolina A&T College has taken the first step toward another Central Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. basketball title.

A&T trounced Hampton (Va.) Institute 84-79 Thursday night to enter tonight's semifinal round. The opponent will be Virginia State, 86-79 winner over Elizabeth City (N.C.) Teachers.

Other first round games saw second-seeded Virginia Union whip Delaware State 99-87 and North Carolina College nip Winston-Salem (N.C.) Teachers 77-72 despite a record breaking 43-point performance by Winston-Salem's Cleo Hill.

Hill's 43 points broke the individual tournament scoring mark of 41 set in 1941 by Ernie Garrett of Morgan.

In other games today, Winston-Salem faces Hampton at 2 p.m.; North Carolina College goes against Virginia Union at 4 p.m.; Elizabeth City meets Delaware State at 8 p.m., and the Virginia State-A&T clash completes the activity.

British Heavyweight In Rank Of Top Contenders

NEW YORK (AP)—Throw away those old saes about horizontal British heavyweights. For the first time since Ring Magazine started its world boxing ratings 33 years ago, three of the big boys from the British Isles occupied berths among the heavyweight division's top 10 contenders.

The monthly ring ratings, released today, had British and British Empire champion Henry Cooper fourth and two former British and B. E. rulers, Brian London and Joe Erskine, ninth and tenth, respectively.

Erskine, a 25-year-old Welshman, rejoined the select group on the strength of his upset, 10-round decision over American Willie Pastrano in London Monday.

Pastrano, of Miami Beach, Fla., was dropped from fifth place to seventh for his narrow defeat. In all, half of the list was filled by foreigners. Sweden's undefeated European heavyweight champion, Ingemar Johansson, and Cuba's Nino Valdes maintained their one-two positions.

Mantle To Talk Salary Wants

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankee's No. 1 power man, arrived here Thursday night and said he planned to call General Manager George Weiss for a salary conference today.

The 26-year-old centerfielder said he did not say whether he would sign his contract, but indicated that he and the Yankees were not far apart.

Mantle, who earned $72,000 last year, reportedly is holding out for a $83,000 raise.

Weiss, after sending Mickey a contract calling for $65,000, has agreed to boost the figure but apparently wants Mantle to agree to certain conditions before yielding to the slugger's demands for $75,000.

Mickey wants no part of any conditional contract.

"I am just not going to talk about it," Weiss replied when asked to specify what the conditions were. "In the past the misconduct thing has been misunderstood."

Weiss was referring to the Ford case in which it was reported that Whitey balked at signing a conditional contract agreeing to observe curfew regulations and other training rules.

"There absolutely was no behavior clause attached to Ford's contract," Weiss said. "We merely wanted him to adhere to a prescribed diet which he failed to do last year."

The United States buys more from Latin America than from any other section of the world. About one-third of United States imports are from Latin America.

Rigney Due At Training Camp

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Manager Bill Rigney is scheduled to arrive at the San Francisco Giants spring training camp in Phoenix today.

Rigney has been recovering from injuries suffered in a recent auto accident. During his absence Coach Frank (Sully) Parker has been in charge of the workouts.

Giants officials said Rigney probably would wait until next week to suit up and join the club on the field. Until then, he'll direct the team from a seat in the bleachers.

North Staters In Semi-Final Play

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The seedings have held up unusually well in the often topsy-turvy North State Conference basketball tournament.

Tonight's semifinals feature three of the original top four still around chasing the championship.

Defending champion Lenoir Rhyne, seeded No. 2, meets Catawba in the 7:30 opener. Western Carolina, No. 1, has a 9:15 appointment with High Point, the fourth-ranked club.

The only break in the ranks of the four seeded teams came when East Carolina, No. 3 over the season, lost to Catawba in a first round game Wednesday.

Without detracting from Catawba's achievement, it is worth noting that two ECC regulars were dropped from the team for insubordination after the regular season ended last Saturday.

Western Carolina, thirsting for its first conference crown, and High Point, winner of three titles, the last in 1953, passed their first tests Thursday night to catch up with Catawba and Lenoir Rhyne.

WCC ran away from Atlantic Christian in the second half 77-51 and High Point eased by Elon 67-49.

Lenoir Rhyne swept a pair of earlier games from Catawba this season by 11 and 25 points. Western Carolina humbled High Point 86-62 in their only meeting.

Dave Jones, a 6-5 junior from Elwood, Ind., threw in 28 points, top individual effort of the first round, to spark the WCC victory over Atlantic Christian. He hit 8 of 15 field goal tries and 12 of 13 from the foul line.

Atlantic Christian, spotting the rangy Catamount starters better than three inches a man, had batted back from a 15-3 disadvantage to tie the score at 26-all late in the first half. But the effort took its toll.

After outlasting and out-rebounding the Cats to stir the crowd of 1,500, the Bulldogs lost their bite. Dave Elmore, a comparative shortie at 6-3, hit six points in a row and WCC closed the half on top 34-28.

When Jim Gudger's team scored the first seven points of the last half it was only a question of how big the winning margin would be.

Jack Frauson, 6-7 senior, contributed 18 points and 16 rebounds to the Cat cause. Bob Whaley was the busiest Bulldog with 15 points and 19 rebounds.

High Point, No. 1 scoring team in the league, got 18-point production from the No. 1 scorer, Danny Sewell, Kokomo, Ind., junior.

Elon's eighth-placers trailed by 35-31 at the half, but faded in the stretch as High Point scored the last 10 points of the game. Tony Carcaterra's 12 points and 17 rebounds were high for Elon.

Gamecocks Face Dismal Outlook In Final Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
South Carolina can't escape from the Atlantic Coast Conference cellar but the Gamecock basketball team will be out to improve its record in its last two games—both against ACC foes.

South Carolina goes against Maryland at College Park tonight, and invades Virginia Saturday. The game tonight is the only one involving an ACC team.

Few would envy the lowly Gamecocks their task. It just happens that Maryland and Virginia are the only two ACC teams which have beaten highly rated North Carolina this season.

Maryland did it last Saturday, and Virginia did it Wednesday night. The loss to Maryland dropped the Tar Heels from the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press basketball poll to No. 3.

So unless the Maryland and Virginia players are too sore from the backslapping to play ball, South Carolina may have a tough time improving their ACC record from 2-10.

Maryland is 6-7 in the conference and Virginia is 5-8 in ACC play.

Tonight's game will be the last for Maryland before the ACC tournament March 5-7. Clemson already is through, and the other teams finish Saturday.

Other Saturday games, besides South Carolina and Virginia are Duke at North Carolina; Eastern Kentucky at North Carolina State and Dayton at Wake Forest.

The DEADLY LADY of MADAGASCAR BY C.V. TERRY

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Richard Douglas, a young Scotch mariner, is relating a story that begins in 1701, when the ship RESOLUTE is arriving in New York. Dick's first stop on a secret mission to Madagascar. He has plunged into the adventure blindly, expecting to earn good with which to marry his sweetheart in Scotland and settle down. Dick is to receive further orders from Sir Luke Metcalf, the East India Company agent in New York.

While the RESOLUTE lies outside the harbor becalmed, awaiting a breeze to fill sails, a merchant ship, STAR OF BENGAL, is piloted dangerously close. Dick's attention is arrested by a beautiful girl on the STAR OF BENGAL's deck who is staring at him. As a result arises the STAR steers the way and sails past the RESOLUTE, with the girl directing a taunt at Dick . . .

Raising his jug, he drained it and tossed it outside. He had not troubled to study the scene taking shape under our bows: Tom had visited this compact, steeped town when it had scarce forgot it was once Dutch New Amsterdam.

The mooring that awaited us (it was more slip than dock) lay on a flank of Manhattan Island, creek by creek with McLane's own warehouse empire. This was a side of the island washed by a tidal estuary known as the East River — and its Front Street was famous to sailors the world over . . . Bow-sprits and martingales of a hundred ships loomed like monstrous insect antennae above it. Its brick store fronts, at first glance, seemed an endless tavern, echoing with song and shaken at frequent intervals by explosions of blows and cursing.

Here and there befuddled mariners had come to rest in the gutter, careless of the thundering drays that fought for space on the cobble. Other roisterers, weaved drunkenly among the wheels. I saw lascars, black-browed Spaniards with earrings and flaring sideburns, tattooed, near-naked when-agers from Oceania, tar-headed silversmen who could only be British, even without their varnished boots and flaring pantaloons. Here and there, local merchants walked proudly, resplendent in broadcloth and flowered waistcoats, always with a footman in attendance.

By daylight the scene was more ribald than dangerous. Even the drabs who hunted at the edge of the crowd were part of its gaiety. It would be a different story when darkness fell and knives were out. McLane's shuttered warehouses — and their counterparts at other landing slips — were the true reason for Manhattan's aura of gold. Some years ago that kind of buccaneer, Sir Henry Morgan, had turned respectable with his title and had driven his former companions from the West Indies. To-day these same gentlemen of fortune hunted in the Orient rather than in the Caribbean. Man's eternal lust for plunder had merely found a wider hunting ground — and the plunder had grown infinitely more varied.

Regardless of the source, middlemen like Bob McLane would always take their profits — even as they continued to play both sides in the endless, ravenous war between the East India Company and the pirates who now worked from the Gold Coast of West Africa to the bayous of Mozambique and Madagascar. It was no accident that he had been asked to report first at McLane's own warehouse office. This same factor was outfitting the Pilgrim Venture, for her impending voyage to India. McLane would also sign her crew and guarantee her safe passage.

As the New World factotum for the Company, Sir Luke Metcalf had been wise enough to make this peace with the devil. This much was common gossip in both London and Glasgow. With the Atlantic between, I had shrugged off that implication of surrender. This afternoon, watching the Resolute ease into her berth, it seemed an insult to sailing to accept tamely.

It was a worse affront to my own pride when I reflected that one could be both a Scot and a scoundrel if the price was right . . . I came out of my musings when Tom Hoyt glared down at Front Street — and shook a fist at Bob McLane's roof tree, where an English standard whipped bravely in the breeze.

"Should he fly the black flag?" I asked. "Is that what you're thinking?"

"Tom shrugged off the query. 'Don't let a Calvinist viewpoint feaze you,' he said. 'Sir Luke's a canny hunter, I'm told. Certainly he's learned to fun with the wolves.'"

"What does that mean?"

"Just this, my young innocent. Metcalf's paid a fortune in bribes to McLane — but I doubt he's been sold short weight so far. And Greene is quite right. Ask that damned factor what you like about the Star of Bengal — and the lady passenger who's charmed your eyes from their sockets. You'll get a reasonable answer."

I glanced amidships, happy to observe that our sharp-tongued skipper had gone forward to give orders to the wharfingers who had begun to swarm aboard. "A reasonable answer, Tom — or a true one?"

"Truth's a big word, lad. But I'll warrant that whatever he tells you will provide food for thought."

"Do you suppose that girl owns the Indiaman?"

"Since when have women owned property, Dick?"

"She ordered the helmsman to blanket our sails today. I'd take an oath on that."

"Women rule us in many ways," said my doctor friend. "They've yet to give orders from a poop deck."

"Why was the deck empty then? Why did she hide below the rail — and laugh at us when she took our wind?"

"Ask her yourself," said Tom. "She's near enough to hall."

I looked down again at Front Street, prepared though I was, I felt that same odd stab of pain in my heart when I saw her — a feeling sharper than hunger and deeper than mere desire. The girl, and a three-man retinue, had just emerged from the shadow of the moored Indiaman and turned into the cobbles with regal unconcern.

She was in black silk now, with a great, belted skirt and elbow-length gloves of mesh. A tipped parasol shaded her proud profile without concealing it. I saw at once that she was utterly at home in that motley crowd.

Indeed, the look she bestowed upon New York could not have been more natural had she been a native.

CHAPTER 3

"Take an even strain on your cables, Mr. Douglas," said Captain Greene. "She warped into McLane's wharf — and she won't sway. We'll know her name before the sun is down — and why she's here."

Our skipper had been more amused than angered by the theft of our wind, now the danger of collision was past. Following the Indiaman down the Narrows, he had dismissed my speculations (and my curses) with a philosopher's shrug.

The girl, he said, had had every right to laugh at us: in her place he would have hoisted as lustily when our bows just missed scraping the Star of Bengal in his view, had had a harmless joke at our expense. In the end there had been ample searoom for both vessels and no damage done . . . Now bowling down the Upper Bay with the rain squall lifting, he dismissed our brush with disaster as he pointed out each new landmark.

"Look well at New York," he said. "A city on an island, thrust like a fat finger into the finest harbor in the colonies. Give Manhattan another century; we'll make it the rival of London."

I will confess I but half heard this prediction: my eyes were fastened on the Star of Bengal, swinging easily with the tide while her mooring line snaked home in the slip ahead. My mind was still whirling with half-formed resentments. I could not escape the conviction that I — and I alone — had inspired the dark-eyed charmer's mirth.

"Who can she be?" The words had escaped without my wish: I felt myself blush as I uttered them.

"The ship — or the lady?" asked Greene. "The former is unloading at McLane's — so that rogue will have answers to both. There's little on earth or sea that Bob McLane can't explain, with chapter and verse."

"Amen to that," said Tom Hoyt.

McLane's paid a fortune in bribes to McLane — but I doubt he's been sold short weight so far. And Greene is quite right. Ask that damned factor what you like about the Star of Bengal — and the lady passenger who's charmed your eyes from their sockets. You'll get a reasonable answer."

I glanced amidships, happy to observe that our sharp-tongued skipper had gone forward to give orders to the wharfingers who had begun to swarm aboard. "A reasonable answer, Tom — or a true one?"

"Truth's a big word, lad. But I'll warrant that whatever he tells you will provide food for thought."

"Do you suppose that girl owns the Indiaman?"

"Since when have women owned property, Dick?"

"She ordered the helmsman to blanket our sails today. I'd take an oath on that."

"Women rule us in many ways," said my doctor friend. "They've yet to give orders from a poop deck."

"Why was the deck empty then? Why did she hide below the rail — and laugh at us when she took our wind?"

"Ask her yourself," said Tom. "She's near enough to hall."

I looked down again at Front Street, prepared though I was, I felt that same odd stab of pain in my heart when I saw her — a feeling sharper than hunger and deeper than mere desire. The girl, and a three-man retinue, had just emerged from the shadow of the moored Indiaman and turned into the cobbles with regal unconcern.

She was in black silk now, with a great, belted skirt and elbow-length gloves of mesh. A tipped parasol shaded her proud profile without concealing it. I saw at once that she was utterly at home in that motley crowd.

Indeed, the look she bestowed upon New York could not have been more natural had she been a native.

Want To Revise Marriage Vows

BIELFIELD, Germany (AP) — Communist East Germany wants to replace the "love, honor and obey" in the marriage ceremony. Evangelische Welt, official organ of the German Protestant Church, said the Red regime is suggesting newlyweds exchange this vow: "We pledge to maintain Socialist achievements and increase the state power of workers and peasants. We promise we will respect each other, will help care for and help each other, will help each other's professional and cultural development, will take our decisions jointly and will be indissolubly true to each other."

Explore River Fishing 'Hazard'

RALEIGH — Members of the House Judiciary I Committee were sympathetic Thursday toward a bill that would reduce one of the "hazards" of fishing on the Catawba River.

The hazard: possibility of arrest by South Carolina wildlife protectors should the Tar Heels drift across state boundary lines. The bill, introduced by Rep. Irwin Belk of Mecklenburg, would extend fishing privileges to residents of adjoining states in inland waters constituting boundary lines on reciprocal agreement Belk said North Carolina has such an agreement with Virginia but none with South Carolina at this time.

While the subject was under debate, Rep. Fred W. Bynum of Richmond suggested similar legislation was needed on inland waters constituting county dividing lines. Richmond County residents fishing on the Pee Dee River run the risk of being arrested by Anson County officers, he said. Corrective legislation at the county level would require a separate bill, the committee decided.

Belk's bill, meanwhile, was given a favorable report.

Nearly $55,000 In Bonds Bought

January sales of U. S. Savings Bonds in Pitt County were $54,632.5, which is 84 per cent of the county's quota for 1959.

County Chairman J. H. Waldrop said today the county figures are included in a report of sales of $4,707,847 in North Carolina for the first month of the year. On a statewide basis, January, 1959, sales showed little change from January, 1958, sales.

Not Happy Over Utopia's Taxes

CHICAGO (AP) — Everything, it appears, was not so hunky-dory in Utopia, a small community west of Chicago.

A group of Utopia residents and property owners appeared in Du Page County Court at Wheaton Wednesday and told Judge William L. Guild they were unhappy over the tax situation and wanted to secede.

Judge Guild granted the request. He disconnected an area of 492 acres, roughly half the area of Utopia and containing 27 homes and 99 residents, which now reverts to unincorporated territory. Still left in Utopia are 266 homes with 1,071 residents.

Ralph Waldo Emerson once said: "A good scholar will find Aristophanes and Hafis and Rabelias full of American history."

Town Amends Its Curfew Law

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP) — Now anyone may stay out as late as 11 o'clock on Friday and Saturday nights in Chillicothe (Pop. 8,964) without explaining to the police.

The rest of the week, however, everyone still must be off the streets at 10 p.m. except persons of good repute and those who can explain their presence.

If 16 years old, or younger, the 10 and 11 p.m. deadlines are relaxed only if parents are along or if on an errand for parents.

The City Council amended a 30-year-old curfew ordinance to provide the 11 p.m. deadline to allow people to get home from movies and athletic events without violating the law.

THE "VOICES OF PITT"

It is good news that the U. S. Information Service will locate two "Voice of America" transmitters and one receiving station in Pitt County. Millions of dollars in investment plus an $800,000 annual payroll are welcomed anywhere; and the experts who come with the installation will be an additional asset to our community.

All of which brings to mind that Pitt County is fast becoming one of the great air communications centers of the South. Soon we will have two television transmitters, a full-time commercial radio station and three of the Federal Government's most important international radio installations. The "Voice of Pitt" will combine to make a most impressive chorus.

Church Has Entered Achievement Program

The Arlington Street Baptist Church, 300 Arlington Street, Greenville, has entered the 1959 North Carolina Baptist Achievement Program, Pastor Mark Owens said this week.

Sponsored by the Church Development Department of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, the program is designed to stimulate growth and development in Church work. Outstanding achievement by pastors and churches, organizations of the church, community and world improvement are recognized.

Many churches recorded phenomenal growth and development in all areas of their work while participating in the program.

Each church in the program sets up goals for advancement in five areas. An inventory questionnaire furnishes suggestions for projects such as: (1) toward a better church; church worship, preaching and music, evangelism, christian education, stewardship and missions, pastoral ministry, church building, grounds and equipment; (2) toward a better community; (3) toward a better world; (4) toward better plans for future growth and development and (5) an illustrated booklet of progress.

The outstanding church and pastor reporting progress is selected by a State Committee on Judgment. This church receives a metal plaque which may be displayed in a prominent position within the church.

Records and scrapbooks with an illustrated account of progress are made under the direction of the local church committee. The committee from the local church consists of John Conway, Mrs. R. A. Morin, H. H. Justice, Mrs. John Moore, Ralph Crawford, and L. R. Stox. The inventory questionnaire and scrapbook of the illustrated progress are the basis for judging the program.

Ernest C. Upchurch, secretary of the church development department of the Baptist State Convention is in charge of the program. He said, "The enlistment of a church's total membership in active service and development is the program's primary aim and value."

Dolley Seeking 'Fairer Trials'

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH—A bill providing for the segregation of witnesses in civil and criminal court proceedings was championed by its youthful author, Rep. Steve Dolley Jr. of Gaston, Thursday.

Speaking before the House's Judiciary I Committee, Representative Dolley said the bill would "assure the defendant a fairer trial by reducing the amount of perjury and exaggeration by witnesses."

Essentially, the bill would make it possible for witnesses to be excluded from the courtroom so that they could not hear the testimony of each other. This could be done at the defendant's request, upon motion made before any testimony was given.

The bill clearly states, however, that the principal in a civil action or special proceedings, or the defendant and prosecuting witness in a criminal action, would retain the right to remain in the courtroom and hear all the testimony.

The bill further provides that failure of the trial judge or presiding officer to grant and enforce such a motion would constitute reversible error. At the present time, the entire matter is discretionary with the judge.

Several members of the committee raised questions. One of them: "Would this tax too greatly the facilities of some courthouses?"

Dolley felt the essential point was not that the witnesses be absolutely segregated from each other but that, in cases where it seemed advisable, they be excluded from the courtroom during testimony. This way they would be less subjected to "the power of suggestion."

Rep. Hubert Humphrey of Guilford generally favored the bill but felt it should be enlarged to include adverse judgements. He also felt the judge should retain the authority to deny the motion when he found the cause of justice could best be served by not excluding the witnesses. The bill went before a subcommittee composed of Rep. Tom Dill of Edgecombe, Dolley and Humphrey.

Will Ask Right To Bar Highway Advertising

RALEIGH (AP)—The General Assembly will be asked to enact legislation to give the State Highway Commission power to ban advertising signs along the interstate highway system.

The commission voted 4-1 Thursday to request such legislation. Under federal regulations, advertising signs could not be within 660 feet of the interstate highway right-of-way. Existing state laws forbid advertising signs only on the right-of-way itself.

Fletcher Gregory of Weidon was the only commissioner who opposed the request. He said he did not think it was up to the commission to make such recommendations.

Gregory told newsmen he felt it would be impractical to try to comply with what he said were complicated federal formulas in connection with regulating advertising on the interstate system. He termed the regulations as "three pages of high-flown gobble-dyook."

States which regulate advertising along the new interstate highways in accordance with federal standards can receive additional money. North Carolina would get an estimated $800,000 under this provision.

Highway Director W. F. Babcock told the commission, however, this extra money was "not an important consideration."

Highway Commissioner Robert Bunnelle of Asheville said, "We recognize that the outdoor advertising industry is an important sector of our economy, but the Highway Commission also recognizes the necessity of protecting the safety and the scenic beauty of the interstate system."

James W. Mason of Laurinburg, who offered the motion for regulatory authority, said, "I feel we can't afford not to regulate it." He noted that the nation is spending billions of dollars on the interstate system.

'Not Surprised' By Findings Of Audit

RALEIGH (AP)—The head of the county offices in Robeson and Sampson. Godfrey said the audit referred to was made in 1956 and 1957.

Godfrey, contacted by telephone at Roanoke, Va., for comment, denied that the shortcomings in program administration constituted a wholesale indictment of the way the program was being handled.

It was at his suggestion, he said, that auditors went to Sampson and Robeson. He added, "I promised them if anything was wrong, I could guarantee that it would be corrected. We took action on everything they mentioned."

L. T. Weeks, general manager of the Flue - Cured Stabilization Corp., said at Florence, S.C., that criticism made of his organization involved "a very minor matter which was corrected as soon as it was called to our attention."

Begins Second Week Of X-Rays

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today begins his second week of X-ray treatments for cancer.

His doctors said the treatments will continue for at least another two weeks. There is no word yet whether he will be able eventually to return to his desk at the State Department.

The doctors reported he was making satisfactory progress after the hernia operation he underwent two weeks ago today.

Meanwhile Dulles is keeping up with world events, particularly the Berlin crisis, through news reports and talks with State Department associates.

KEEP THE CHANGE

HOPE, Ark. (AP)—"Mister, I sure would like to contribute to the offering but all I have is this $18 check," said a stranger pliantly to a Hope Church usher. The usher obligingly accepted the check and handed the stranger $15 in change from the collection plate. The check bounced.

Want No Special Memorial Rite

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP)—Parents of the 25 children who died in the nation's worst school bus disaster have rejected a suggestion for a special memorial service.

The children and their driver drowned last Feb. 28 when the bus plunged into a fork of the Big Sandy River.

At the request of School Supt. V. O. Turner, James Goble, father of three of the victims, polled other parents and said they all rejected the idea.

"What's the use of opening old wounds that are just beginning to heal?" he said.

FORGET SOMETHING?

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Police are wondering if the burglars who invaded a Knoxville grocery got their values mixed. After scattering $5 in pennies on the floor and stacking $16 in cash on a counter, the thieves walked away with a dozen bottles of catsup.
