Improvement Project Winners Receive Prizes

Grand Award In Pitt Progress Program Presented To Red Banks

By BILLY ARNOLD Red Banks Community was named winner of the Grand Award for outstanding work in overall improvements and relationships at the third annual Pitt County Progress Program Awards Night Banquet, held at East Carolina College, last night.

Red Oak Community topped second prize and Pactolus was third-prize winner in the Grand Awards division. Approximately 200 people attended the Banquet at the North Cafeteria of the college to witness the awards, join in an old-fashioned basket dinner, and hear an address by Dr. Dean W. Colvard, Dean of Agriculture at N. C. State College.

Twenty-one home demonstration clubs throughout the county participated in some or all of 10 major phases of farm and community life—on which the awards were based. The principal objective of the program, along with instilling improvements of all sorts in the town and county communities, is to further better relationships between rural and city centers.

Cash prizes were awarded to four winners in each of the 10 phases of work and further cash awards were presented as door prizes at the banquet. Clarke Stokes, President of the Greenville Farmers Day, Inc., which instigated the Pitt County Progress Program, presented the awards.

In the 10 divisions, the prizes were awarded as follows:

ACCIDENTS AND FIRE PREVENTION—(1) Red Oak, (2) Red Banks, (3) Langs, and (4) Pactolus. In the winning community 60 families destroyed old magazines and rags and cleaned out closets and 50 families cleaned out medicine cabinets.

COMMUNITY DRIVES AND CAMPAIGNS—(1) Red Banks, (2) Red Oak, (3) Langs, and (4) Sweet Gum Grove. All the members of the Red Banks club helped with a bake sale, grossing $69, which was turned over to community drives.

BEAUTIFICATION OF CHURCHES, COMMUNITY BUILDINGS AND ROADSIDE—(1) Pactolus, (2) Red Banks, (3) Red Oak, and (4) St. John's. At Pactolus, the following improvements were made at different community churches: three storm doors and an awning were bought; the walls of one church were painted; the floors of another were carpeted; the windows and doors of another were weatherstripped; a new pulpit chair and communion table were purchased for another.

HOME IMPROVEMENT—(1) Pactolus, (2) Red Banks, (3) Red Oak, and (4) Pierce. In the winning community, 36 families made some home improvement during the year, including building cabinets, enlarging rooms, adding windows, rewiring, storm windows, draperies, and painting rooms.

COOPERATION WITH BETTER HEALTH MEASURES—(1) Simpson, (2) Red Oak, (3) Red Banks, and (4) Pactolus. At Simpson, 22 families cooperated with better health measures. There were 7 new bathtubs installed, two bathrooms remodeled, 266 dental checkups during the year, and 56 immunization shots taken.

COMMUNITY ACTIVITIES AND RECREATION—(1) Red Oak, (2) Red Banks, (3) Sweet Gum Grove, and (4) Pactolus. The winning community reported 50 people attended county-wide United Nations Day observance, and 12 covered-dish suppers held during the year.

FAMILY FOOD SUPPLY—(1) Langs, (2) St. John's, (3) Cannons, and (4) Red Banks. Langs reported 15,450 pounds of vegetables and fruits preserved, 2,040 quarts of dairy products produced on the farm, 4,230 pounds of meat produced on the farm, 575 pounds of chickens produced, and 3,700 dozen eggs produced.

DEVELOPMENT OF ADDITIONAL SOURCES OF INCOME—(1) Simpson, (2) Red Banks, (3) Pactolus, and (4) Sweet Gum Grove. There were three new pig pens, 500 cedar trees added at Simpson, and 15 families started a poultry project.

BEAUTIFICATION OF HOMESTEADS—(1) Red Oak, (2) Red Banks, (3) Cannons, and (4) Sweet Gum Grove. At Red Oak, 34 families cleaned rubbish around buildings; 41 families repaired fences; 15 families repaired lots; 29 families repaired gates; 4,150 feet of ditches were dug; 2,800 feet of land were tiled; 15 families seeded lawns; and 19 families fertilized lawns.

IMPROVING OLD FARMING ENTERPRISES—(1) Red Banks, (2) Sweet Gum Grove, (3) Pactolus, and (4) Pierce. Red Banks topped the honors with 33 families participating in the project. It was reported that 39 families used resistant tobacco varieties, 25 families used sucker control, and four families increased their per-acre yield of tobacco an average of 400 pounds per acre.

Judges for the awards were Dr. E. L. Henderson, retired East Carolina College faculty member; Mrs. Ona Humphrey, Wilson County Home Economics Agent; and Miss Lorna Langley, Northeastern District Home Economics Agent.

Stokes, in pointing out that the Pitt Progress Program was indeed cementing better relations between rural and Greenville concerns, stated that 70 business firms from Greenville had contributed to the program during the year.

Dr. Colvard's address was based on the importance of better relations between rural and town people, and the growth of the agricultural industry.

"Farm people and business people are much alike," he said, "Of course, there are still some differences, but not many. The day has passed when the sharp lines can be set up between them."

Dr. Colvard pointed out that, economically, the farm and city business people are so closely related, so much involved together, that one could not exist without the other. "In this state," he said, "Our farm products start out at a cost of one billion dollars and by the time they are processed, finished, completed, there are three and a half billion dollars involved. It touches us all."

He said further that agriculture is growing bigger and bigger instead of smaller, as most people believe. It is important and it is growing in importance, he said. In North Carolina, agricultural products produced are valued at three hundred million dollars more than any other Southern state.

"Our people have been progressing, by and large," he said, "despite tobacco acreage curtailment. We are back up to a million-dollar income once again."

Expected To Fill Coroner's Post

Selection of a successor to the late Griffin H. Rouse as coroner of Pitt County is expected to be the major item of business for county commissioners at their regular monthly meeting Monday. The coroner's post has been vacant since the late Mr. Rouse's death earlier this month. Commissioners have been accepting applications for the position since that time.

Chairman R. L. Martin will preside at the meeting which is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m. in the Commissioners' Room of the Court House.

SPEAKER . . . Dr. Dean W. Colvard, of N. C. State College.

Democrats Pick Los Angeles Site

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic party's decision to hold its 1960 convention in Los Angeles appeared likely to move California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown into a kingmaker role in the presidential nominating contest.

The committee voted 71-35 Friday to hold its nominating convention in Los Angeles. Chicago and Philadelphia members fought this decision in an acrimonious five-hour session of the group but lost by votes ranging from 68-37 to 67-39.

Brown will get an early chance to display himself to the convention delegates in a welcoming speech. It was with just such a speech that Adlai E. Stevenson brought the house down in the 1952 Chicago convention that later nominated him for president.

Probably nobody in California thinks that Brown is a serious candidate. But as a favorite son he can control California's powerful convention vote on the first ballot. After that he can attempt to throw the state's important delegation behind another candidate.

With the convention site settled, the Democrats turn their attention to a $100-a-plate victory dinner here tonight. Two Texans, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, will be the main speakers.

News that Los Angeles had won the convention was greeted with enthusiasm by city officials. Council President John S. Gibson said, "Now we'll go after the Republicans."

Camille F. Gravel Jr. of Louisiana, who headed the site subcommittee, said the party would get about $750,000 in benefits from Los Angeles.

The convention will open July 11, 1960, in the Los Angeles Arena which is now 80 per cent complete. The air-conditioned arena will seat 22,400.

Soviet Trawler Said Quite Likely Broke Ocean Cables

ARGENTIA, Nfld. (AP)—The U.S. naval lieutenant who searched the Novorossisk says the Soviet trawler "probably" quite likely had something to do with breaking transatlantic cables. But, he emphasizes, "I don't know whether accidentally or intentionally."

Lt. Donald Sheely of Falls Church, Va., told a news conference here Friday night that the Soviet trawler "probably" quite likely had something to do with breaking transatlantic cables. But, he emphasizes, "I don't know whether accidentally or intentionally."

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda called the boarding illegal and the official Soviet news agency Tass described it as the "unlawful action of the American naval fleet in the open sea."

Neither gave any immediate indication whether the Soviets intend to make a formal diplomatic protest. If they do, they face a rebuff. U.S. State Department press officer Lincoln White said in Washington "I don't think any apology is involved in any way, shape or form. This was not a hostile action, but an investigation clearly provided for under terms of a treaty."

The Soviet accounts of the boarding in the Grand Banks fishing grounds off Newfoundland made no mention of the 1984 treaty which permits inspection of the documents of ships suspected of damaging oceanic cables, intentionally or accidentally.

Moscow Radio, in a newscast to the Soviet people, tended to treat the boarding as a routine story. It quoted Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, as saying "The skipper of the Soviet trawler showed a friendly attitude and acted in a cooperative spirit and that nothing was found to show any other object than fishing."

"indicated she had been operating in the area where the cable was broken." The U.S. Navy men led by Sheely inspected fishing equipment and anything aboard the Novorossisk which looked capable of cutting cable.

"She had been fishing on the bottom and there was a break in her trawling cable that could have been caused by snagging of the bottom," said Sheely. "The ship was about one-third full of fish."

Sheely said "I believe it is definitely possible and probably quite likely the trawler had something to do with breaking the cables—I don't know whether accidentally or intentionally."

Sheely disclosed that the day before his men went aboard a plane was sent out by the cable telephone companies warning the trawler away from the area. The plane's crew dropped a message written in English and Russian which, he said, advised the Soviets in effect "Stop fishing here. You have cut the cable four times. Stop fishing here and go south."

The Soviets got the message, Sheely said, and showed it to the boarding party on request but the trawler did not leave the area until directed to by the U.S. Navy the next day.

The Soviets, he said, showed no hostility but "they were not so socially inclined; they made us no offer of such things as cigarettes or coffee."

Sheely said the trawler "carried equipment you would expect to find aboard such a vessel." The only things that seemed unusual to him were a sounding cable 2,500 to 3,000 feet long and the amount of radio equipment. But authorities later discounted any significance to the sounding cable.

The Russians announced Nov. 27 that within six months they would drop their occupation duties in Berlin. They said they would give the East German Communist regime the power to control Allied military traffic into West Berlin, isolated 110 miles inside East Germany.

The other occupation powers in Berlin—France, Britain and the United States—retused sharply. The Leipzig Fair runs from Sunday through March 10.

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reported today that Soviet First Dep. Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan has declared a separate peace treaty for East Germany may be forthcoming.

East German Communist party leader Walter Ulbricht was putting propaganda fuel into the fire. He said West Germany must be freed of "militarism" before Germany can be unified. He also said West Germany must lift its 1956 ban on the Communist party.

Ulbricht laid down the reunification prerequisites in an interview with West Germany's Neue Ruhr Zeitung, published today by the official East German Communist party newspaper, Neues Deutschland.

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—Another dynamite blast shattered the uneasy stillness of the night in strike-troubled Henderson Friday night. Like a similar explosion Thursday night, it apparently caused no damage.

The Police Department reported the blast was not as heavy or as loud as one that awakened residents in the same section of South Henderson Thursday night.

As in the previous explosion, officers could not locate the exact spot where it went off—indicating it may have occurred in an open field.

Except for the explosion around 3 a. m., and a paint throwing incident, police reported a "very quiet night."

One worker living near Henderson reported red paint was thrown on his car, parked in front of his house, during the night.

Officers were relieved that the Harriet - Henderson Cotton Mills were closed today.

Prospects for settlement of the 15-week strike faded Friday—possibly as the result of an increasing back-to-work movement. Both management and union officials said there were more workers in the mills' two plants Friday than at any time since they were reopened two weeks ago by management in an effort to break the strike. The number of these who were strikers, returning to work and the number who were new employees could not be determined.

Army Moonshoot Appears Slated During Weekend

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States, flexing its missile muscles in a spectacular series of firings, is ready to try again to ram a satellite past the moon and into orbit around the sun.

The Army moon-shoot appears likely this weekend, although the exact time still is a secret. Preliminaries in the big weekend show were: Launching of a powerful 80-foot Thor-Able rocket early today on a 5,000-mile ICBM nose cone recovery test.

Successful firing of a 28-foot Jupiter missile Friday over a 31,700-mile range to test its tactical ballistic shell, nose cone, engine, warhead and fusing system.

Launching of the Navy's Polaris nuclear submarine rocket Friday. The Navy later said the Polaris may have broken up soon after it disappeared into the clouds, although considerable test data was recorded. Three of four earlier Polaris firings were unsuccessful.

The Army moon rocket waiting to take the limelight was a four-stage Juno II—a Jupiter super-mounted with three successive stages of Sergeant rockets.

Its star role will be to hurl a 13-pound satellite loaded with radiation equipment past the moon to become an artificial planet whirling around the sun.

The first and second stages of the Juno II rocket will be in a spinning bucket to give stability in flight. There will be 11 of the solid fuel Sergeant rockets in the second stage, three in the third. The fourth stage will be one Sergeant rocket to which the little satellite will be attached.

The planes of the earth and moon are now in the best relation—with the moon about 220,000 miles from the earth. The first Army moon-shoot last Dec. 6 climbed 64,000 miles. The Pioneer II rocket fired by the Air Force last Nov. 8 reached 71,000 miles.

The Soviets have claimed they sent a space probe past the moon early this year. The Thor-Able fired early today shot through the clouds with a brilliant flash at the start of the nose cone recovery test—the fifth of a series. The first four failed.

A Kinston man is being held in Pitt County Jail in connection with the shooting of Larry Dennis of Rt. 1, Grifton. Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said L. W. Lilly of 106 W. Lenoir Ave., Kinston, was arrested following the early morning shooting. He is being held pending the outcome of Dennis' condition.

Lilly will be charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, the sheriff said. Investigation has shown the shooting took place on N. C. 102 near Venter's Cross Roads some time after midnight. Sheriff Tyson said officers learned that Lilly, Dennis and Dennis' wife had been to a party in the Black Jack area. An argument developed as they drove along N. C. 102, the sheriff said, and all three got out of the car along the highway.

It was then that Dennis is alleged to have been shot. Sheriff Tyson said Dennis was in poor condition this morning. He was shot in the left chest and the pistol bullet came out on the right near his waist line. An ambulance was called to transport Dennis to Pitt Memorial Hospital. The shooting was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Gerald Davis and ABC Officers H. B. Lilly and Lloyd Taylor.

Nikita Is Going To East Germany

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will come to East Germany to attend the Leipzig Trade Fair which opens Sunday. Presumably he will use the occasion to talk over the Berlin crisis with East German officials.

ADN, official East German news agency, announced the Khrushchev visit. It quoted a Tass agency dispatch today from Moscow. Tass did not give the exact day for the visit. Presumably it will come after British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan leaves Moscow Tuesday.

The announcement came amid speculation among Western diplomats in Berlin that the Soviet Union may be getting ready to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

Some of the diplomats were inclined to view the Leipzig Fair as only an excuse for Khrushchev to visit East Germany—and conduct on-the-spot talks with officials.

The official explanation of the visit, according to ADN, was that Khrushchev had been invited by the East German regime to visit the fair, the world's biggest East-West trading event.

Both the Soviet Union and East Germany have said they may sign a separate peace treaty if the West refuses to meet Soviet terms on a peace treaty for all of Germany.

The Soviet Union announced last month it wants a German peace treaty that would recognize Germany's present boundaries, including the boundary that divides the country into two states. The Russians also proposed that both states be neutralized.

The West has rejected the Soviet proposal, asserting it would perpetuate the division of Germany. Western diplomats in Berlin say one reason why the Soviet Union would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany would be to give a cloak of legality to its withdrawal from the four-power occupation of Berlin.

LEIPZIG, Germany (AP)—The Soviet Union has stolen a march on the other 48 countries exhibiting at Leipzig's big trade fair in East Germany, showing off its novelties two days before the opening.

News men were invited to tour the big Soviet pavilion, and get a briefing from the head of the Soviet show, Vadim Maslov. Maslov seemed proudest of a fully automatic railroad switching device. He said it enables one man to control 150 kilometers (over 90 miles) of track with 15 stations along it, he also claimed that it is more advanced than anything in the United States.

There was also heavy emphasis on reproductions of the Soviets' Sputniks, which Moscow now exhibits at every opportunity in the most prominent space.

Boating has gotten to be a right big industry in North Carolina," he said, "but there have never been any safety regulations except those enforced by the federal government through the Coast Guard except on a few state-owned lakes and in a few counties."

He feels that the bill will accomplish a great deal in the way of accident prevention but says no one will ever know just how much— "we have no accurate accounts to go by since boating accidents have never had to be reported."

While Sermons has heard some objections to the $5 license fee, he feels that the results will more than justify the price.

"But it would be difficult to measure in dollars and cents the value of saving even one life," he said.

Sermons' Motorboat Bill Is Almost Ready To Be Offered To House

By BUNNY HARRIS Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH—Rep. Wayland Sermons of Beaufort is "about ready" to throw his controversial motorboat bill into the hopper.

The only thing he is waiting for, he said, is "more opinions—especially from the boatmen themselves as to which state department they would rather have administer the act."

The bill has far-reaching application in that it would establish for the first time state regulation of boating on all the waters of the state—streams, lakes, rivers and coastal waterways throughout the length and breadth of North Carolina.

"What we are recommending," Sermons said, "is just about the same as in the Federal Motorboat Act of 1936. The question is whether we want to administer our own boating act or have the federal government do it."

Under provisions of the federal act, states may take over certain functions relating to boating safety if they elect to do so. Unless Sermons' bill is passed, however, the state would have to comply with federal regulations by April 1, 1960—the same date that the proposed state act would go into effect.

Sermons said his bill will have to remain pretty much as it is in order to comply with minimum safety regulations contained in the federal act. The only two departments in the proposed state bill have to do with fees and water skiing safety, he said.

Sermons' bill recommends that a $5 license fee be charged every operator of motor boats exceeding 10 horsepower. At the present time the federal fee has not been set. Sermons pointed out it could be more or less, but if his bill is enacted the state fee will apply. He feels that the $5 fee is essential to produce enough revenue to carry out the program. According to present estimates there are about 73,000 outboard motorboats in the state. This number is expected to increase to 150,000 by 1961.

"Unless we are able to enforce the program, it's no good," he said. "We are recommending that all fees be used for enforcement purposes or to expand existing boating facilities."

The other departure from the federal act Sermons himself is thinking of changing. Under proposed provisions, a third person—observer—would be required to sit in the boat with the operator who is towing someone on water skis or surfboard. Sermons admits that "three might sometimes be a crowd" and that safety could be served as well if the skier or surfboard rider wears a life preserver.

Aside from fees, the largest amount of criticism of the bill has to do with lights, Sermons said. Under provisions of the bill, every motorboat would be required to exhibit a light during the dusk to dawn hours ("from sundown to sunrise"). The bill specifies the type of light that should be used on each class of motorboat but the owner may comply with federal rather than state regulations if he prefers.

"The important thing here," Sermons said, "is that the motorboat operator must display a light after dark. If he takes his boat out only in the daytime then the matter rests with him."

The bill would also require that water accidents involving personal injury or property damage exceeding $100 be reported to the Motorboat Division. The motorboat operator would also be required to stop and give assistance to any persons injured in collision with his boat, and to offer written identification in the event of injury or property damage.

There are still no formal recommendations on which state department would administer the program. It could be done by one of the branches of Conservation and Development such as Commercial Fisheries or Water Resources or by the Wildlife Commission or even the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Sermons, himself an avid boater for over 20 years, has high hopes that his bill—"designed for safety but written so as not to hamper boating pleasure"—will

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH The church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Student Teachers Finish Course

By CATHERINE MOORE
Teenage Writer
Yesterday 25 seniors from East Carolina College finished their student teaching and left after working with Rose High students for approximately three months. Under the direction of Miss A. Estelle Greene and Mrs. Kemp H. Baldwin, Jerry S. Townsend, Fairmont; Otis J. Miller, Beulaville; Janis C. Hepler, Greensboro; and Mrs. Barbara J. O'Carroll, Greenville, taught mathematics. Alice A. Horn, Tabor City, and W. Hugh Aree, Petersburg, Va., instructed Miss Deane B. Haskett's English students. Mrs. Nellie W. Aree taught English classes of Mrs. Nell C. Everett. James E. Rodgers supervised music majors Ted Lee, Bishoptown, S. C., and Kenneth Killbrew, Rocky Mount. Under the direction of Mrs. Christine W. Tripp and James D. Nicholson, Margaret A. Glisson, Gates; Mrs. Kristina M. Swain, Seaford, Del.; David C. Smith, Greenville; and Paul Maszohniko, Pittsburgh, Pa., instructed science students. Eugene B. Lusk, Fayetteville, and John S. Byrd, Manners, taught physical education under the direction of Coach Roland B. Farley. Rita P. Mann, Newport, and Sylvia M. Beasley, Raleigh, taught Miss Carolyn C. Matthews' girls' physical education classes. Mrs. Mable O. Surles, Goldsboro; Lowell A. Speight, Greenville; and William Satterfield, Grifton, worked in the library. Mrs. Margaret B. Farley was their advisor. Robert L. Hall, Hope Mills, and Carlton G. Hall, Wilmington, instructed history students of Robert B. Starling. Miss Laura M. Bell guided commerce majors E. Marie Barnett, Pantego, and Barbara Griffin, Ayden. These 25 began their work shortly after Thanksgiving. Seniors to Complete Work Seniors will hand over their source themes Monday, completing over two months of work.

Wash-Wear Cottons Are Not Delicate Fabrics

RALEIGH—"There is no need to regard wash-wear cottons as 'delicate fabrics,'" says Miss Julia McIver, clothing specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service. Because resin-treated cottons are not sensitive to temperature, they need no special attention or settings on either the washer or dryer. Be certain to check labels on your garments. Old stock may still be available. Cotton shirts can be laundered and dried at high temperatures. The warm or cold water washing recommended for some wash-wear products does not remove the soil or odors from cotton garments. Most men's dress shirts on the market now can be subjected to repeated bleachings without harmful effects. Often wash-wear cottons have a better appearance after tumble drying than when handled by the drip-dry method; the tumbling action removes many of the wrinkles incurred in washing.

30 Years Ago Today

February 28, 1929
Greenville will have her first radio service in the Presbyterian Church next Sunday, when the congregation and their friends will listen to one of three speakers: Rev. B. R. Lacy, D. D., D. Clay Lilly, D. D., A. B. Gilmour, D. D., all of them some of the very best speakers of the church in North Carolina. One of the very best radios in the city will be installed and as far as possible will assure the audience a good, clear program.

Weekend Menus

- SATURDAY SUPPER
A thrifty version of an old-time sweet dressing for slaw.
Smoked Tongue Mashed Potatoes
Snap Beans with Mushrooms
Cole Slaw with Creamy Sweet Dressing
Bread Tray
Browned Grapefruit Beverage
CREAMY SWEET DRESSING
Ingredients: 1-3 cup undiluted evaporated milk, 1-3 cup cider vinegar, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, white pepper, 1 1/2 teaspoons prepared Dijon-type mustard, 1/4 teaspoon celery seed, 1/4 teaspoon paprika.
Method: Stir vinegar slowly into evaporated milk. Add sugar, salt, pepper to taste, mustard, celery seed and paprika. Whip with a fork or shake thoroughly in a covered jar. Refrigerate for several hours or overnight so flavors will mellow and blend. Makes almost 1 cup. Use as a dressing on shredded green cabbage. The mustard used should be the brown non-sweet variety.
- SUNDAY DINNER
Texture and flavor interest add up to give vegetables allure.
Broiled Sirloin Steak
French Fried Potatoes Rolls
Skillet Celery and Carrots
Lemon Pie Beverage
SKILLET CELERY AND CARROTS
Ingredients: 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 cups thin green celery cressets, 1 cup thin carrot rounds, 1-3 cup thin strips green pepper, 1 teaspoon instant onion, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup water, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 2 teaspoon soy sauce.
Method: Melt butter in 10-inch skillet over low heat; add celery, carrots, green pepper, onion, salt and 1/4 cup water. Cover and simmer until just tender-crisp—about 8 minutes. Meanwhile mix together the cornstarch, 2 tablespoons cold water and soy sauce until smooth; pour over cooked vegetables and any small amount of liquid in pan; stir constantly until the small amount of sauce thickens and covers vegetables with a film. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.
Note: Pack vegetables down when measuring.

Missionary Talks To Women

Miss Venetia Cox, who for approximately 40 years has been an Episcopal Missionary to China, spoke to the Women of Greenville First Presbyterian Church on Friday in the home of Mrs. M. P. Bailey. This was the last in a series of World Missions programs held during the 1936 World Missions Season.

the large part missionaries are playing in helping the tens of thousands of hungry and desperate people (natives and refugees) become better adjusted. She spoke of Miss Helen Wilson (a Presbyterian missionary from Scotland) and the excellent job she is doing for the refugees—helping them buy or build homes, counselling with them, caring for their physical illnesses. She talked of the fine work being done by Miss Muriel Boone, another Presbyterian missionary in Hong Kong, and of other missionaries of other denominations. Money for this work is derived from the British Government and from churches around the world; the Church World Service contributes clothing, milk and vitamin pills, and money.

as yet been accepted as citizens of other countries; therefore, there are many persons without a country. Miss Cox, in closing, stated that missionaries the world over are striving hard to win souls for Christ by means of education, better living conditions, better health, but that they are limited in their efforts because sufficient funds are not available for all that needs to be done.

No 'Third Chance' To Kill, Maim

The first frontal assault on North Carolina's highway safety program apparently has been rebuffed effectively by action of House Judiciary Committee II.

It is in the best interest of highway safety and the safety of the people of North Carolina that the proposed legislation not be written into law.

A bill introduced by Rep. Leonard Lloyd of Graham County proposed that three convictions for excessive speeding, rather than two as under the present law, go on a driver's record in one year before his operator's license can be suspended.

Such legislation, of course, would decrease the effectiveness of the law which has done a great deal to reduce speeding on North Carolina's highways. It would give speeders sufficient leeway to take the "third chance" after having been caught and convicted twice in one year.

While the present law no doubt works hardship on some people, it likewise offers considerable protection for the lives of a great many Tar Heels who use our highways. To relax the penalties for speeding would punch a big hole in the highway safety program North Carolina has so laboriously constructed in recent years.

Rep. Lloyd has been quoted as saying he fears his bill will be killed by the committee because of the lack of support that has been evidenced for his proposal.

Like other bills presented, Rep. Lloyd's should receive due consideration on its merits. Nevertheless, it should be obvious that the proposal to relax the laws pertaining to highway speeding would not be in the best interest of the people of North Carolina.

In the interest of saving lives and property, the legislature should seek to strengthen rather than weaken the highway safety program of the state.

Americans Can Count On 90 Days Of Peace

Unless "something gives" before May 27, there is in all likelihood going to be a major clash between the United States and Soviet Russia.

That's the picture we get from diplomatic and non-diplomatic words flying around. It largely hinges on whether or not one of the two major powers is going to retreat from the firmest kind of policy commitments already made.

The possibility of retreat by either side is largely felt today as negligible. Certainly the United States cannot, and Khrushchev is in much the same position. So it follows that America and Americans must be prepared for whatever is to come. There is no room for complacency in the 90 days that lie ahead.

In that light, two senators have urged some kind of action to prepare the people for the possibility of war.

Even the idea of mobilization has been raised. Earlier this week it was disclosed the Army's chief of staff had said the United States could resist force in Berlin if the nation was willing to mobilize in time.

"You cannot play around in this business unless you have a lot of blue chips in your pocket," said General Maxwell D. Taylor. "This is unlimited poker."

Certainly it appears some degree of national mobilization is called for. At least it would display a measure of determination; and at most it would help insure not getting our teeth kicked in "by surprise".

As for any "surprise" involved, the unfolding chain of developments forbids the excuse of a second "Pearl Harbor".

To date, administration sources outwardly display faith in Soviet reluctance to fight. There are good reasons, perhaps, for that conviction. On the other hand, Russia is geared to war and has been since the close of World War II.

The only "out" we can conceive at the moment is that when East Germany is given full sovereignty by the Kremlin it may refuse to exercise the power to blockade Allied forces in Free Berlin . . . either through fear of immediate consequences, or under secret orders by Nikita Khrushchev.

Otherwise, Bang!

The Mountain Of Nat'l Debt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many a man has looked at the national debt—big as a mountain—dollar bills—and asked himself: "How can we cut it down to pebble size?"

The latest to look and be appalled is Rep. James C. Wright Jr., 36, a Texas Democrat. He has an idea which might take 100 years to work out. But he thinks it's better than just sitting and looking.

Although Wright stuck a needle in the national conscience, and one House member after another arose to applaud him, nothing is likely to come of the idea except that it may be enshrined in a place set aside for noble thoughts.

The national debt now is 285 billion dollars. This year the government will have to pay $8,100,000,000 in interest on it, without knocking of a dime on the principal.

Wright, like others, hates to think of that going on indefinitely. He told the House that with interest rates going up, the government soon will probably be paying $9,800,000,000 a year in interest. If we just assume the total debt remains unchanged and does not get even higher than it is now.

So Wright said: "This means that if things go along exactly as they have been going, without any more increases in the national debt and without still another jump in the interest rates, in 29 years we shall have paid the total amount of the debt and still owe every penny of it."

Wright suggests Congress tell the Treasury Department to set aside each year one per cent of the present national debt of 285 billion—or $2,850,000,000 a year—to pay off the principal.

This, Wright figures, would be cutting down not only on the size of the debt each year but on the interest, too.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS MISSING THE MARK Modern Christians shy away from the word "sin." It has a fanatical ring to it. It casts a depressing shadow over many of life's pleasures. It is a headache, a heartache, general distributor of one's peace of mind. Why not forget about it? Maybe, it's not real after all.

The trouble is, however, that it is very real. "Sin" is a Biblical word. In the Hebrew of the Old Testament it means "failure, error, transgression." In the New Testament Greek the word means "to miss the mark." It is the figure of an archer aiming at a target and bending his bow. The arrow travels through the air with great speed and force but

Big Crop Of Rookies

Farewell, Pete Fountain

Well, I've always sorta hated to say anything distasteful about the Lawrence Welk show — because I like to watch it. No matter how corny and amateurish, and how — well, sickening — the show has been, I couldn't help but watch it and enjoy it.

But that's all over now. Pete Fountain is leaving.

Fountain is, of course, the rather odd-looking young man with the crew-cut, mustache, and goatee, who blows about the great jazz clarinet I've ever heard. (Actually, though, when you get a gander at the other members of the Welk aggregation, Pete isn't so odd-looking. In fact, he's about the most normal-looking one of the bunch.)

I have found out a few things about the man which aren't generally known. To begin with, he's bald as a billiard ball and wears a toupee. Another thing, he's not

I used to actually turn the show on and suffer through it just to listen and watch Fountain do his stuff. Then, I'd turn the blasted thing off, of course. No more of that though. I'd rather watch Roy Rogers or Hoot Gibson or even Skipper Jack or somebody.

Oh — as long as I'm about it, I'd just like to say something that I've been dying to say ever since the Welk Champagne thing has been on the air. You know that announcer — that tall, gawky, grumpy one who has that distinctive groaning, crawling quality in his voice? I can't stand him. I bet he's done more to discourage the sale of autos than even Welk has.

I really don't like to be so critical, but this guy — his name is Lou Crosby — just really gets on my nerves. His manner of delivery is so really annoying. I mean, I can understand that he's probably trying to be unique and different and probably trying to fit his personality with the show and all. But have you ever noticed the way he sort of sneaks up on you, quietly, grinningly, and sort of groans out his lines as if he's making love to you or something?

Anyway, I don't have to watch it any more.

Other Editors Saying... Stronger Voice For U.S.

(Greensboro Daily News) Those powerful Voice of America radio transmitting stations to be built in Eastern North Carolina certainly are, as Governor Hodges described them, the kind of high-class industry any area would be proud to get.

When erected, the superpower installations will be operated by an organization of 100 persons with an annual payroll of $800,000. This is a real shot in the arm for any economy, but as American citizens Tar Heels should also be happy about the international implications of this project.

The sad truth is that the United States, for lack of strong transmitters, has been unable to make its voice heard in the world — even in this hemisphere.

Dr. Milton Eisenhower, who toured Latin America last Summer on a special mission for the President, was shocked. Right here under our very noses, he discovered, Radio Moscow and the Communist bloc stations can completely drown out our broadcast.

Last August when President Eisenhower addressed the United Nations, the Voice of America and Armed Forces Radio, made elaborate plans to carry his message to Latin America. But the Communists used 11 wave lengths and jammed out the President entirely.

Presumably the new stations to be built in Pitt County will remedy this lamentable failure in Latin America as well as elsewhere in the world where the U.S. overseas radio voice is feeble.

So ends a sorry chapter opened by the late Sen. Joe McCarthy in 1953 when he stopped work on similar transmitters planned for Eastern Carolina. Land had been bought, sites selected and over $1,000,000 spent in buildings, drainage, water supply, etc. But as Senator McCarthy's objection work was stopped completely and the property sold at more than a million-dollar loss to the taxpayers. In addition equipment purchased at a cost of $2,500,000 was sold for half its value. Congress will appropriate another $10,000,000 to build transmitters on another site.

What was the reason for stopping this work and losing some six years in the international propaganda war? Senator McCarthy professed to see a Communist plot in the selection of Eastern Carolina as site for superpower radio transmitters.

There was no such thing, of course. The site had been selected by such "radical" organizations as Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the Radio Corporation of America and the Army Signal Corps. But such was the authority of "Jumping Joe" in those days. Now tardily and expensively the United States is going to make up for its errors.

Opinions In Brief

"Governments are no different than individuals in money matters. If the individual fails to practice thrift, if he continually spends more than he earns, he's headed for trouble. So with a government. It may get by longer than the individual but there's always a day of reckoning. So we can no longer afford more talk about economy. We must insist that our lawmakers really practice it. 'Sound as a dollar' once meant something. We must see that it means something again." — Elsinore, (Call) Leader-Press.

Story Behind The Sales Data

By ELMER ROESSNER Total retail sales in 1958 were $30,333,000,000, compared with $29,092,000,000 in 1957, according to revised Commerce Department figures. The $351,000,000 gain is less than half of 1 per cent.

Since the purchasing power of the dollar declined more than 1.5 per cent during the year, the Commerce figures show that as far as consumer goods are concerned, the standard of living declined.

They indicate that, because of higher prices, people paid slightly more money for somewhat fewer goods.

There are other elements in the standard of living, such as services, transportation and housing. Definitive data on this sector of the standard of living are not yet available.

The durables sales were goods that last, such as were 7 per cent over 1957; non-durables, 4 per cent above. Durables are goods that last, such as autos, appliances, furniture and furnishings. That is, they are supposed to last. Non-durables include apparel, food and drink.

The biggest gain last year was registered by family clothing stores, up 10 per cent over 1957. Shoe stores were up 6 per cent and women's ready-to-wear stores up 4 per cent. But the total of all apparel sales was up only 2 per cent and men's and boys' clothing and furnishings stores were down 6 per cent.

The food group made a substantial gain of 5 per cent over 1957, with gains of 7 per cent by bakeries, 6 per cent by meat markets and 5 per cent by grocery stores. Other categories made lesser gains.

The general merchandise group of stores made a modest gain of 2 per cent. Among these, department and dry goods stores and other general merchandise outlets increased sales 3 per cent, variety stores were up 3 per cent, and mail order houses selling department store merchandise increased sales 5 per cent.

MORE DRINKING AT HOME The figures also indicate that drinking is becoming more of a private vice. Total sales by drinking places were down 4 per cent, while sales by liquor stores were rising 5 per cent. Eating places, however, sold 2 per cent more, some of which was probably accounted for by higher prices.

Drugs store sales were 5 per cent higher, and lumber and building materials increased sales by 3 per cent.

Now for the dark side of the economic moon. Sales by passenger car dealers were 14 lousy percentage points below 1957 marks, although service stations increased gross by 3 per cent. Sales by household appliance

Trains Student Guests

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Mrs. Robert Boylan, a striking brunette who has lived a busy and zestful life in the United States and much of Asia, has embarked on a new adventure in human relations.

Born Margaret Kerr in Ada, Okla., she early decided that being a woman didn't mean sitting on the sidelines while the rest of the world went by.

She underscored that point by becoming a civilian airplane pilot in 1940 and spending most of World War II as a ferry pilot helping release Air Force pilots for fighting assignments.

After the war she took a job in public relations with North-east Airlines. She met her husband, who was a public relations man for Parks Air College in East St. Louis, Ill., at an aviation writers' conference. And eventually, that's how she got to Japan.

Robert Boylan had dreamed of Japan since the time, 12 years earlier, he edited a book on the Japanese people in the military government field.

He went to Singapore for the United States Information Agency and then to Australia as manager of the Fulbright Commission in his long trek toward Tokyo. His efforts finally were rewarded last year when he came to the American Embassy here as chairman of the Fulbright Commission and director of the exchange of persons branch of the embassy.

Robert was delighted with Japan. The reality was as good as the promise.

While her husband threw himself into his program, Mrs. Boylan decided that she, too, wanted to know and understand Japan through its people. She has done so as head of the embassy's program for coaching Japanese students in English. American women in Tokyo have volunteered their services as part of the plan which includes all of the Japanese who obtain Fulbright grants for study in the United States.

"I'm so enthusiastic about it, I hesitate to start talking for fear of being a bore," he said with a smile.

The students come to her lovely and spacious home, stocked with Asian art objects, for two hours each week. As the Fulbright students approach their departure time, this is stepped up to two or three meetings a week.

"They know more grammar than I will ever know," she said. "All are college or university graduates. But many times they have been taught by Japanese and need pronunciation help. I try to give them working English for use in the United States."

"I am constantly impressed by their kindness and generosity," said Mrs. Boylan who rounds out her time with Japanese brush painting, ceramics and raising two children.

"It has given me a wonderful opportunity to know Japan through their eyes. They always show a deep appreciation for any small thing one does. But I get more than they do out of the experience."

No Big Test Of Prestige As Yet

PRESTIGE — It became apparent early last fall that one of the issues in the current General Assembly, especially on the Senate side, would be the influence and prestige of Governor Luther Hodges. With or without justification that issue got involved in the contest for Senate President pro tem. That race did not afford a true test, because the issue was not drawn clearly enough to preclude votes on basis of personal friendship — and both Robert Morgan, who won, and C. V. Henkel, who lost, enjoyed the confidence and friendship of every member of the Senate.

It was true, however, that Morgan was regarded as pro-Hodges administration and Henkel was classed as opposed to the administration. Morgan won by a vote of 26 to 21, and some observers decided that meant the administration was "in the saddle" in the Senate. Astute analysts since that first test vote have evaluated Senate sentiment as about 40 per cent, or 20 members, as willing to go along with the administration without question; about an equal number willing to be classified as anti-administration, with some 20 per cent or 10 members holding the balance of power.

Actually these percentage ratios are not accurate, because there are perhaps no more than half a dozen members who will blindly follow the Governor on all issues, and no more than that who will oppose measures just because they bear the administration label. Some of the staunchest administration men will oppose specific items in the Governor's program, and some of his bitterest opponents will support specific recommendations.

TEST VOTE — The first test vote after the election of a president pro tem came this week on a relatively insignificant issue. And the anti-administration folks won it. The basic issue, although it became involved in parliamentary procedure, was whether the rules should be suspended to permit immediate passage of a local bill affecting only Columbus county.

Sen. Arthur Williamson of Columbus wanted the bill to allow his county commissioners to defer reevaluation of property recalled from a committee and put to a vote. He was supported by Sens. C. V. Henkel of Iredell, who had been defeated for President pro tem, and John R. Jordan of Wayne, who was two years ago by Governor Hodges for secretary of the State Democratic committee because he did not approve the 1957 tax program sponsored by the Governor.

Rule suspension was opposed by Sens. Pat Cooke of Gaston and Cutlar Moore of Rowson, both rated staunch administrationists. Net result of the affair was the rules were suspended, the bill was voted upon and passed. In this first test vote the anti-administration folks won.

The matter at issue was relatively insignificant and many outside observers have wondered why the administration forces accepted a challenge on that kind of question. It is true they did not use the heavy artillery. It has been suggested the big batteries were being reserved for major issues. It cannot be denied, however, that the victory scored by opposition, however unimportant the item involved, has put the administration more on the defensive than it was ten days ago.

CANCER — The report of the commission to study the cause and control of cancer in North Carolina contains statistical information that undoubtedly surprised many people. It was found that 450,000 new cases are discovered each year in the United States, and that 250,000 persons die of cancer. The national hospital bill occasioned by cancer is estimated at $300 million a year. There are 13,000 cases in North Carolina. In 1957 there were 4,119 deaths and at present trend it is estimated there will be nearly 6,000 deaths in 1970.

More men than women died of cancer last year, and more school children die of cancer than any other disease. In 1900 cancer was in 8th place as a cause of death. By 1950 it moved to second place, exceeded only by cardio-vascular ailments. The brighter side of the picture is that more people are being cured through education, early detection, prompt treatment and the marvelous advances of research.

The commission recommends expansion of a Cytology program with a $50,000 scholarship fund to aid young students; establishment of a cancer research center at Chapel Hill; enlargement of activities of the State Boards of Health and Public Welfare, and more liberal aid be accorded the Cancer Institute at Lumberton.

Watch for pedestrians when passing buses stopped at the curb. Disembarking passengers, hurrying to make connections, often disregard street traffic.

The Chicago Motor Club reminds drivers that the blind spot in front of a bus or other vehicle is a favorite crossing point for careless pedestrians. They might step into the flow of traffic without thinking, so a motorist should be on the lookout for them.

Washington Edges Greenville: Roanoke Rapids Wins

JUMP SHOT—Steve Noble tries to get away a jump for Rose High. No. 14 is Russ Knowles of Washington and No. 35 is Greenville's Garner.

By JOHNNY HUDSON

Washington and Roanoke Rapids, a couple of teams tied for third place in regular season play, won semifinals last night in the East Carolina gymnasium to advance into the finals of the Northeastern AA Tournament tonight.

Roanoke Rapids had little trouble in romping past Elizabeth City, 62-47, in the opening game, but the Pam Pack had a rugged night before slipping past Greenville, 31-29, in a low-scoring overtime thriller.

Greenville and Washington, a couple of arch-rivals, gave the packed house its money's worth as they hooked up in an overtime in last night's nightcap.

The game was close all the way and at no time did either team get more than a five point margin, and that occurred only once. Greenville opened fast and led 4-0 after the first couple of minutes and then pushed the score to 9-4 late in the period. This was the biggest lead of the game.

Greenville led all the way in the opening quarter but saw their five point lead dwindle to two, 9-7, at the end of the period. Both teams battled up and down the court in the second period as the first point wasn't scored until four minutes had elapsed. A total of 12 points was scored in the second period.

Russ Knowles bagged a field goal to tie it at 9-9 and then the Pam Pack added another to push Washington out front for the first time, 11-9. Steve Noble got the first points for the Greenville with only two minutes remaining to slice the lead to 13-11. Both teams added another field goal to leave at half-time with Washington out front, 15-13.

Billy Pittman pushed the Pam Pack ahead 17-13 in the opening minutes of the second half but the action once again slowed down and Greenville battled back out front midway the period at 18-17.

Greenville got one more shot but it was in vain as Noble's hurried shot missed the mark by several feet, thus sending Washington into the finals.

Both teams used tight defense and the scoring was held down but the crowd loved it. Zoph Potts and Billy Pittman paced the winners with eight points each. Moye had 11 for the losers.

Roanoke Rapids had little trouble in making the finals as they shook off a 2-2 tie and then led

The lead exchanged hands the rest of the third period and Kent Denton hit a jump shot to tie the tilt at 23-all going into the final quarter.

Zoph Potts and James Ward swapped a couple of baskets and Billy Pittman added a free toss to give the Pam Pack a 26-25 margin with 5:23 left to play. Coach Bill Sweet ordered his club to freeze the ball and the Pack was able to control the ball for a little over three minutes. Steve Noble fouled Pittman at 1:53 and the Pack guard made good on one of his shots.

The last minute and a half saw the tempo pick up as Joe Moye, senior guard, popped a jump shot to tie it at 27-27. Both Potts came right back with a field goal and it was Moye again for Greenville to tie it at 29-29.

Larry Finley took the final shot for Washington as he missed with 53 seconds left on the scoreboard. Howard Gardner came down with the rebound and the Greenville called time out.

Greenville held the ball until the final seconds and a shot by Billy Cox with three seconds remaining fell short to send the game into overtime. The same Cox had made a final second shot earlier this season to defeat Washington by one point.

Washington elected to return to control tactics in the three minute overtime and held the ball for almost two minutes before Windley lost the ball out of bounds.

Greenville had a chance to go out front with 45 seconds left as James Ward went to the free throw line with one and one. The lanky center missed but Howard Gardner, a terror on the boards all night, came out with the ball. Greenville tried to work for one shot but Adrian Waters stole the ball and was fouled at the same time. The Washington junior, who collected only five points all night, made good on both free throws with only seven seconds remaining.

Greenville got one more shot but it was in vain as Noble's hurried shot missed the mark by several feet, thus sending Washington into the finals.

Both teams used tight defense and the scoring was held down but the crowd loved it. Zoph Potts and Billy Pittman paced the winners with eight points each. Moye had 11 for the losers.

Roanoke Rapids had little trouble in making the finals as they shook off a 2-2 tie and then led all the way to bury Elizabeth City, 62-47.

EC fell behind 12-8 in the opening period and by halftime the spread was by 16, 28-15. Elizabeth City, upset winners over Kinston in first round, were never able to control the boards and this proved to be the deciding factor as Roanoke usually made good on their second or third shot.

Arthur Davis, a husky sophomore, was the big gun for the winners, both on the boards and in the scoring column. Davis held EC's Pat McDowell in check for most of the game and at the same time hit 18 points to lead the rout. Tommy Kink and Steve Taylor also hit in the double figures with 12 and 10 points, respectively.

McDowell, All-Conference and big scorer for EC, was once again tops for the losers with 18 points but the former football star had to work hard for every one of his points as he was bottled up most of the night.

Roanoke Rapids split during regular season and their tilt rate as a toss-up. Both clubs have young clubs with only one senior in each starting lineup. The Yellow Jackets advanced to the finals with a 57-55 squeaker over Jacksonville and last night's win from Elizabeth City.

Washington had an easy time with New Bern on Thursday but had to go all out for their big win last night.

Greenville and Elizabeth City meet in the consolation tilt tonight at 7:00. The championship game will follow at 9:00.

Buc Basketball Team Practices — Just In Case

East Carolina College's basketball team did not go home during the exam period but have been continuing to practice with a good possibility of playing in the NAIA District play-offs, which begin next Tuesday at Hickory.

The Pirates placed third in the District standings with a 12-5 record and if either Lenoir Rhyne or Western Carolina wins the North State Tournament, ECC will get a bid. Lenoir Rhyne lost last night and Catawba and Western Carolina will meet in the finals at Lexington tonight.

Lenoir Rhyne and Western Carolina have already been assured of a berth with their season record and the winner of the Little Four Conference in South Carolina will gain third spot.

ECC held a short practice session yesterday afternoon and if Western Carolina wins tonight will workout again Monday in Hickory. The Pirates would meet Lenoir Rhyne, a club they split with during regular season.

Coach Howard Porter stated this morning that his club was in "good spirits." He related that Don Smith had been sick and Benny Bowes and Charlie Lewis, a couple of freshmen, would get the vacated starting roles left by Charlie Adams and Jessel Curry.

McGuire Can Say 'Go'—They Will

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The North Carolina basketball coach Frank McGuire probably won't do much talking to fire up his team for today's game with Duke.

About all he'll have to say is "go get 'em."

His Tar Heels are smarting from defeats in their last two games against Maryland and Virginia. Those are the only two Atlantic Coast Conference clubs to beat North Carolina this year.

The Tar Heels, now 11-2 in ACC play, will be trying to tie the North Carolina State for first place in the ACC standings. State finished with a 12-2 conference mark.

Meanwhile, Maryland continued its late surge in the ACC with a convincing 75-45 victory over hapless South Carolina Friday night. Charlie McNeil led Maryland with 25 points, 21 of them in the first half. He hit on his seven field goal tries in the first half, and added seven free throws.

Then he tallied four more points from the free throw line in the second half.

Ray Fericola led South Carolina scorers with 14 points. Maryland ended its regular season play with a 10-12 mark in all games, the first time in nine seasons that Coach Bud Millikan has had a losing team. The North Carolina-Duke game will be regionally televised today. Duke is third in the ACC standings with a 7-6 league mark, and the Blue Devils would like to stay in undisputed possession of third place.

A loss would throw Duke into a tie for third with Maryland, 7-7 in the league after the victory over South Carolina.

Duke Coach Harold Bradley is concerned that the two losses North Carolina has suffered will make the Tar Heels harder than ever to handle.

In their game earlier this season Duke led by nine points at the half, only to have the Tar Heels come back and win by 89-80.

South Carolina, now with a 2-11 record in ACC play and firmly entrenched in the ACC cellar, is at Virginia tonight.

North Carolina State and Wake Forest also will see action tonight against non-league foes. State will be host to Eastern Kentucky and Dayton plays at Wake Forest. Clemson has ended its regular schedule.

The games today and tonight wind up the regular season schedule in the ACC.

Wake Forest Backs Up McKinney In Brawl Case

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP)—Officials at Wake Forest College say their basketball coach—Horace (Bones) McKinney—should be commended rather than censured in connection with a brawl during a recent game with the University of North Carolina.

University officials said the same thing earlier of their coach, Frank McGuire.

The Wake Forest statement Friday was on the action taken by ACC Commissioner Jim Weaver. Among other things, he censured both coaches for what he called lack of bench discipline.

Wake Forest officials said McKinney and McGuire should have been commended for their attempts to maintain order. The statement also said they regretted the incident "and will take steps to see that a similar incident does not occur."

North Carolina officials commented Wednesday that McGuire should have been commended for his efforts to quell the disturbance, which involved players and spectators.

Wake Forest officials said further that they plan to appeal three of Weaver's conclusions to the ACC Executive Committee.

In addition to censuring the coaches, Weaver called for reprimands for Lee Shaffer of the North Carolina team, and Charlie Forte of Wake Forest, whom he accused of starting the fight; and for Dave Budd, Winston Wiggins and Dickie Odum of Wake Forest; and Lou Brown of the Tar Heels.

Weaver said that Wake Forest's Budd should be reprimanded and advised "that any future unprofessional act" will cost him his eligibility.

Wake Forest said it plans to appeal the ruling concerning Budd; Weaver's ruling that Wake Forest and North Carolina not play in Winston-Salem next season; and his ruling that no student tickets be honored at the Wake Forest game with North Carolina next season.

The Wake Forest statement was issued over the name of Prof. Forrest Clonts, faculty chairman of athletics, after a meeting of college officials and the faculty members of the athletic council.

The fight broke out in the last 30 seconds of the game after a scramble for a loose ball. No one was hurt.

Western Carolina Meets Catawba In Tourney Finals

By KEN ALVTA
LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Two schools striving for their first North State Conference basketball championship, top-seeded Western Carolina, and Catawba's surprising seventh-placers, meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the tournament finals.

Catawba nudged Lenoir Rhyne, champion the two previous years, to the sidelines in a 58-53 upset that had the 2,500 fans in a lather all the way in last night's semifinals opener.

Western Carolina seemed in for the same rude treatment as High Point led at the half, but the Catamounts finally asserted themselves and won convincingly 76-55.

Although the incentive is there for each team tonight, Catawba has even more at stake. The Indians of coach Earl Ruth can clinch a spot in next week's District 26 NAIA tournament play by beating WCC.

WCC and Lenoir Rhyne have won two of the four available berths by virtue of their 1-2 regular season finishes in the North

State Conference. A third goes to the winner of South Carolina's Little Four tournament.

The fourth will go to Catawba if it beats WCC. If the Indians fall, East Carolina, a first round Catawba victim in the tournament, will get the nod because of its third place finish over the season.

Western Carolina opened its conference season in mid-December by beating Catawba in its first two games, 66-52 at Salisbury and 71-46 at Cullowhee.

The 39-point WCC margin doesn't mean Catawba hasn't a chance. The Tribesmen have been laughing at the past performance sheet all week. They'd dropped two games by a total spread of 41 points to East Carolina, then beat the Pirates 74-70 Wednesday night. Lenoir Rhyne was 36 points better than Catawba in two earlier meetings, but faltered Friday.

Catawba's first victory over the Bears in seven years came after a rousing struggle that saw the score tied 13 times and the lead change hands 20 times.

Ten consecutive foul goals in the last four minutes by junior Doug Chalk and some late key baskets by Capt. Woody Helrich carried Catawba through. For Coach Jim Gudger of top-seeded Western Carolina was sweating out a five-point lead and five minutes to play situation against High Point in Friday night's semifinals.

Suddenly, from out of the crowd of 2,500 darted a youngster about 10 years old. He made his way to the WCC bench as a Catawba player was preparing to shoot a foul and handed Gudger an autograph book and pencil.

Ace Armstrong Ready For Rank

NEW YORK (AP)—"He's ready to fight the best and we're going to try and match him with either Gene Fullmer or Spider Webb."

So said Harry Markson, general manager of boxing at Madison Square Garden, after undefeated Gene (Ace) Armstrong scored a near-shutout over Italian middleweight champion Italo Scorticini in the big arena Friday night. It made Armstrong's record 17-0.

The rangy, 27-year-old middleweight contender from Elizabeth, N.J., was judged a 9-1 winner in rounds by all three of the officials. That unanimity of opinion is a rare occurrence. It was even more unique in that all three gave the 29-year-old Italian the second round. The AP card agreed.

Markson said that Webb, the No. 3 contender from Chicago, was a more likely opponent for a May fight in the Garden since Fullmer, the No. 2 challenger, injured his right hand a week ago. The NBA rates Armstrong fourth while Ring has him 10th.

"Either one is OK with me," said Armstrong. "My job is fighting. And if I can fight the top-ranking guys, all the better. It will mean more money. The main thing is that I want to keep busy. "I only had two fights last year and I was rusty each time I fought. Now this was my second fight this year and I felt real good. The more I fight the better I fight."

Armstrong took one look at Scorticini's low left hand guard and kept popping right hands leads to the head all night.

"It was such an inviting target," said Armstrong. "They tell you not to switch styles when your winning. But that left hand was so low I couldn't resist leading with my right instead of the left."

He staggered the stock Italian in the third, sixth and 10th rounds with right hand smashes. Italo bled from the nose and his face was battered but he wasn't floored by a punch. Once he slipped to the canvas.

This was Scorty's first fight on his third invasion of the U.S. Dejected the wallowing, he plans more fights here. "I just couldn't get going," he said. "My arms and feet were dead."

Armstrong was the 4-1 favorite at ring time. He weighed 161, Scorticini 157½.

Weather Satellite Working Perfectly

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vanguard II—America's weather eye satellite—is working like a charm, space experts reported today.

Indications are the newest satellite soon will provide an interesting and important report on cloud coverings around the world.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said that as of Thursday night Vanguard II had completed 108 orbits around the earth since it was hurled into orbit Feb. 17. On 96 of the orbits, it clicked off its "weather" reports in perfect order, NASA added.

The orbit count was the latest available.

NASA said that in almost every instance the 12 orbit reports that were lost were due to human—not satellite—errors such as a receiving station missing its assignment for the Vanguard broadcast.

Vanguard takes about 126 minutes to whirl around the earth.

For more than 50 minutes of that time it is in sunlight, its two photocells busily scanning the earth.

Cloud areas reflect about 90 per cent of the sun's light, land 15 to 20 per cent, and sea only 5 per cent. These are the intensities that Vanguard carefully stores in its tape recorder.

In order to conserve battery power, tiny solar cells operate a switch that halts the tape when the satellite is in the shadow of the earth and turns it on when sunlight comes again.

Once on each orbit a tracking station on the ground interrogates the satellite. The only stations equipped to do this are at Fort Stewart, Ga., San Diego, Calif., Lima, Peru, Antofagasta and Santiago, Chile, and Woomera, Australia.

Vanguard II responds with a burst of electrical signals, sent on a 106.03 megacycle transmitter operating at one watt. In 60 seconds Vanguard transmits its 50 minutes of accumulated data. Then its 75-foot loop of magnetic tape is erased, and a trigger resets the system to start recording again.

The cloud cover instruments are expected to last only a few days longer, perhaps until the middle of next week.

Vanguard II has another voice, however—a 106.03 megacycle transmitter which gives temperature information, and by which the satellite is tracked. This transmitter is expected to last until mid-March.

It will take still another week or two before the Army can produce the cloud maps that convert into useful intelligence the technical gibberish that comes down from Vanguard.

Vanguard II, like Vanguard I, is a 21 1/2-pound sphere 20 inches in diameter. Its orbit ranges between 335 and 2,050 miles from the earth. It is expected to keep on swinging around for hundreds of years.

Arlington St. Church Announcements

A special enrollment emphasis throughout the departments of the Sunday School will begin Sunday. Each department superintendent and class teacher will be setting goals for reaching the unenrolled for Sunday School at the various age levels. This emphasis is a part of the preparation for the April 13-19 Seventy-five thousand or more Baptist Churches are participating in this campaign.

Christian Science Announcements

The value for today's world of the words and words of Christ Jesus will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon is entitled "Christ Jesus." Scriptural selections will include Jesus' reply to the messengers of John the Baptist (Luke 7:22): "Go your way, and tell John what things you have seen and heard; how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached."

Correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (131: 26-30): "The mission of Jesus confirmed prophecy, and explained the so-called miracles of olden time as natural demonstrations of the divine power, demonstrations which were not understood, Jesus' works established his claims to the Messiahship."

The Golden Text is from John (1:17): "The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ."

Expected 500 To Attend District Rotary Meet Here

Annual conference of the 43 clubs of District 773 of Rotary International begins here Sunday with a Fellowship Dinner and continues through Monday. The 2-day meet set for March 1 and 2 is expected to draw an attendance of upwards of 500 persons.

J. Cleve Allen, past director of Rotary International, of Coral Gables, Fla., headlines a list of speakers on the conference program arranged by Dr. Howard McGinnis of Greenville, chairman of the program committee.

Conference luminaries include Dr. Robert Lee Humber, speaker at Sunday evening's Fellowship dinner in the New South Cafeteria of East Carolina College; Dr. J.D. Messick, ECC president, a guest at the Governor's Banquet Monday evening in Wright Building; Thomas R. Hood, of Dunn, a past director of Rotary International; and Miss Betty Lane Evans, Miss North Carolina, of Greenville, District Governor W. Jesse Moye of Farmville will preside over most of the conference sessions on Monday, including the banquet. He anticipates attendance at a high mark.

Headquarters for the conference will be in the Greenville Rotary Building, where registration opens Sunday at 3:00 p.m. Plenary sessions will be held there and other meetings luncheons and dinners at East Carolina College.

Headed by Dr. James W. Butler, ECC assistant director of public relations, as conference general chairman, 11 district and 17 host clubs' committees have organized the conference with the four Rotary clubs of Pitt county — Greenville, Ayden, Bethel, and Farmville — jointly hosting the Rotary gathering.

Past District Governor Irvin Morgan, Jr., of Farmville, will preside at the Fellowship Dinner Sunday evening. Preceding Dr. Humber's address, singing will be by Bancroft Moseley, Greenville, the invocation spoken by the Rev. John L. Goff, Ayden; greetings extended by Dr. Elmer R. Browning, Greenville; and music presented by George E. Perry, pianist, of the ECC Music Department, and Miss Jane Fuller, vocalist, and ECC student, under direction of Entertainment Committee Chairman Jack Edwards, Greenville.

A Brief Report on Rotary International by Past RI Director Allen, personal representative of RI President Cliff Randall, Milwaukee, Wis., is a feature of the first plenary session Monday morning, with Conference Chairman Jim Butler convening the conference.

Greetings from Mayor S. Eugene West of Greenville, presentation of Conference Program by PDG McGinnis, and the annual report of District Governor Moye are opening features.

A skit by wives of four Greenville Rotarians, Mrs. F.D. Duncan, Mrs. Reid Perkins, Mrs. Ollie Van Nortwick, and Mrs. Bancroft Moseley, will present Rotary from the feminine viewpoint, to highlight the morning meeting.

Speakers on this program include Thomas Fosse, Maryville, candidate for district governor for 1959-60; Donald Witherington, Vanceboro; Judge Robert H. Butler, Fayetteville; Mayor Corey Stokes, Ayden; Fernie Laughinghouse, Belhaven; and PDG Charles McCullers, Kinston.

First-year Rotarians will be honored during this morning meeting.

A luncheon honoring Rotary-Annex will be held in East Cafeteria at 12:30 p.m. Monday, with Mrs. Hugh Winslow of Greenville presiding as chairman. Following the luncheon, the visitors will be conducted on a tour of the campus and an art exhibit.

Following the Rotarians luncheon, at which there will be no speeches, the plenary sessions continue with Goldsboro Superintendent of Schools Ray Armstrong, Dr. Maynard Fletcher and Frank Ruble, both past district governors of Washington, PDG H. A. Marks of Wilmington, Everett Peterson of Clinton, as speakers. PDG H. A. Marks will report for the Elections Committee, memorial tributes will be read by PDG Ozmer L. Henry of Lumberton, resolutions will be offered by PDG Jean P. Booth of Kinston, and the Rotary International Convention of 1959 will be previewed by PDG Jim Butler.

On the program of the Governor's Banquet will be Dr. Messick, RI Representative Allen, and a musical feature by Miss Evans (Miss North Carolina), Paul A. Hickfang, bass-baritone soloist, of the ECC Music Department faculty. Willis Marshall of New Bern, chairman of prizes and awards, will make presentation of gifts at the banquet and other sessions, and Governor Moye will preside. The Governor's Banquet will be held in Wright Building.

Kiwanians Review Aid To Underprivileged Children

Last night was "Underprivileged Child Night" at the Greenville Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting, with Dr. Allen Taylor in charge of the program. President John A. Collins presided.

Taylor explained the workings of the Underprivileged Child Committee and said its funds are obtained through the annual Kiwanis Minstrel Show. He enumerated some cases whereby boys and girls had been given better chances in the world through the generosity of civic clubs and other agencies. He introduced three guest speakers, who spoke briefly on their work.

The first speaker was Dr. Maline Diron, pediatrician, gave an outline of the many children receiving treatment and thanked the Kiwanians and others for generous assistance.

Mrs. Susan T. Collins, director of Special Education for the Greenville city schools, recited some cases in the schools whereby handicapped children were benefited by special treatment.

Dr. Georgia Mills, director of the Pitt County Health Department, reviewed the work being done for handicapped children and said the civic clubs had assisted in a substantial way.

Taylor said the Pitt County Speech and Hearing Clinic, established here recently, is sponsored by the Pitt County Department of Health, N.C. State Department of Health and the Pitt County Association for Crapped Children.

President Collins announced that a large contingent of Greenville Kiwanians will attend the annual meeting of Carolina Kiwanis Division 7 at the Country Club in Farmville March 5 at 6 p.m. Mayor Charles Edwards of Farmville, lieutenant-governor of the Seventh Kiwanis Division will preside.

Guests of the club last night were Billy James Preston Corey, Superior Court Judge W.J. Bundy and Robin Roberts.

Science Education Panel Discusses N.C. Outlook

Prospects of Science Education in Eastern North Carolina were reviewed in a conference of educators and industrial scientists on the East Carolina College campus Saturday.

Directed by Dr. Charles W. Reynolds, chairman of the ECC Science Department, the conference drew an attendance of more than 100 high school principals and science teachers to the sessions which featured a panel discussion in the forenoon and a review of the Federal government scholarship assistance for science instruction.

With Dr. A. D. Bond as moderator, the panelists discussed the projected science education program for high schools of Eastern North Carolina. Participating in this program were Principal John W. Walker of Plymouth high school, Principal Homer Vann Parker, Jr. of Bear Grass high school in Martin county, and Dr. Robert E. Wilfong, director of research at the Kinston plant of the DuPont Company, a Greenville resident.

Minister Speaks To Exchangites

At last night's meeting of the Greenville Exchange Club, the Rev. John W. Dake, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, was guest speaker.

He spoke on "The Vocation of Being a Minister," pointing out the extremely small number of ministers there are today in this country to administer the religious needs of the people, the crying need for new ministers, the qualifications and expectations from ministers, and the sources from which new converts to the calling of God come.

J. B. Surles was welcomed as a new member and will be initiated at a later date. John Conway was guest.

President John Hassell presided, and heard reports from various committees.

FCX Purchases Facilities Site

FARMVILLE — Farmers Cooperative Exchange this week exercised an option to purchase property adjacent to the Farmville town limits for construction of a feed mill and grain storage facilities.

The property was purchased from Mrs. Ione Moye Hooker.

Final plans for construction of the feed mill and grain storage facilities have not been announced by FCX.

Prison And Fine For Dave Beck

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Former Teamster Union President Dave Beck received a five year sentence and $60,000 fine Friday for income tax evasion, plus a double-barreled denunciation from the judge.

"The exposure of Mr. Beck's insatiable greed, resulting in his fall from high place, is a sad and shocking story," said U.S. District Judge George Boldt, in a scathing, 20-minute lecture before passing sentence.

Beck quickly posted $70,961 to cover the fine and court costs and was released. After his conviction Feb. 19, Beck spent a night behind bars for the first time in his life before appeal bond was set.

A motion for a new trial was denied.

The government could claim more than half a million dollars from Beck.

He was charged with evading $240,607 for the years 1950-53, but the government raised its estimate of the amount actually owed to $258,636. In addition to the fine and court costs, a 50 per cent fraud penalty of $129,318 and $96,996 in interest at 6 per cent brings the total to $555,911.

Beck, 64, stood calm and quiet, one hand clenched behind his back and the other in a trouser pocket, as the judge began his denunciation.

He refused two invitations to address the court. But later he told reporters, "I am not the first innocent person to be sentenced nor will I be the last."

He said he had authorized his attorneys to push the appeal, filed last week.

Boldt said Beck's rise from a laundry truck driver to millionaire labor leader was a better rags-to-riches story than any of Horatio Alger's plots. But he said "Beck must take first place among the more than 50 tax evaders I have sentenced."

"Mr. Beck plundered his union, his intimate associates and in some instances his personal friends, most of whom quite readily would have given him anything he asked," the judge said.

Other excerpts from the judge's speech:

"Mr. Beck's willful evasion of taxes and his stealthy and circuitous appropriation to his own use of funds were in large amounts and continued over a period of years."

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall's condition was unchanged today, doctors reported. Marshall, 78, suffered a stroke Jan. 15 and another Feb. 17.

He was brought to Womack Army Hospital here after suffering the first stroke at his winter home at nearby Pinehurst, N.C.

Crosses Broken In Churchyard

NORTH CRAY, England (AP)—Police today were investigating the mystery of the 10 shattered churchyard crosses — smashed, villagers say, by devil-worshippers.

The crosses were smashed a few days before this week's full moon in the Churchyard of St. James in this Kent village.

Only the crosses were desecrated—other headstones were not touched.

Police are also probing reports of unearthly screams and howls late at night in the nearby woods.

"The possibility of witchcraft or devil worship cannot be ruled out," declared the rector, the Rev. R. J. Shaw-Hamilton.

Preventive Medicine Every Day

IMPORTANT PHASE OF TUBERCULOSIS CONTROL . . . X-Rays, Offered Every Wednesday At Pitt County Health Department

INSPECTION OF MILK-PRODUCTION EQUIPMENT AND BULK STORAGE TANK . . . Conducted By Sanitarians At One Of Pitt County's 13 Producing Dairies

By JIMMY ELLIS
Reflector Staff Writer

A nationally recognized program of preventive medicine, said to be matched by only a few other public health departments in the United States, is conducted every day of the year in Pitt County.

The program is that of the Pitt County Health Department. Its development in recent years has placed it in a standing among public health officials throughout the nation as a model for other health departments.

Influences of Pitt County's program have already shown themselves in other public health operations in North Carolina.

Its mental health service has been copied, or is being copied, by several other departments. Its speech and hearing clinics have prompted numerous inquiries, on both state and national levels. Its other clinics and services have also been subjects of inquiry, study and discussion. Local public health personnel are recognized by their colleagues as leaders in their work.

The program is built around a base of 19 clinics, conducted in Health Department headquarters in Greenville and four branch offices in the county, and services for municipal and rural sanitation, vital statistics, animal control and health education. All are directed and carried out by a departmental staff of 29 full-time members, plus other professional personnel who perform tasks in specialized areas.

Eleven of the clinics are conducted in Health Department headquarters. Weekly clinics are held for four areas: immunizations, X-rays, food handlers' certificates and venereal diseases. Bi-weekly clinics include those for rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart, and speech and hearing. Monthly clinics are those for prenatal care, well-baby, post-partum and planned parenthood, and orthopedic procedures.

Mental health clinics are held daily, on an appointment basis, in a recently opened wing of the health department building.

Branch offices of the department are in Farmville, Bethel, Ayden and Grifton. Farmville is the largest of the four, with weekly clinics for immunizations, serologies and venereal disease, plus a monthly prenatal and well-baby clinic.

Bethel has monthly well-baby, prenatal and immunizations clinics. The Ayden branch offers a joint prenatal, well-baby and immunizations clinic once a month, while Grifton has a well-baby and immunizations clinic each month.

Immunizations clinics are by far the largest of the Health Department's clinics, so far as numbers of persons are concerned. Vaccines which are available include polio, for persons up to 20 years of age and expectant mothers; triple shots (diphtheria tetanus and whooping cough) for children up to 14 years of age; tetanus and diphtheria toxoid; smallpox; and typhoid.

Municipal and rural sanitation activities include inspection of restaurants and meat markets, hospitals and clinics, abattoirs, freezer lockers, lodging places such as hotels and motels, schools, school lunchrooms, boarding homes for the Department of Public Welfare, public swimming pools and a sanitarium.

In addition, sanitation personnel conduct insect and rodent control programs, inspect all farm ponds one-quarter acre and larger in size, inspect rural water supplies, and approve residential sewage disposal systems.

Sanitation personnel also conduct milk inspections for 13 producing dairies in Pitt County, and an education program dealing with sanitation and safety on the farm and in the home.

The program for vital statistics includes compiling birth and death records, plus issuance of burial certificates.

Animal control includes rabies control clinics, confining and destruction of unclaimed stray animals, and similar activities conducted by two full-time dog wardens.

The education phase of the Health Department program includes not only work at the clinics themselves, but talks and demonstrations at public and private meetings; radio, television and newspaper programs and releases; and appearances before school groups.

According to Dr. Georgia V. Mills, Health Director, the program is a broad and comprehensive one aimed at supplementing services of private physicians. It differs sharply from the work of private physicians, however, in that the Health Department work is considered to be preventive medicine. Cases requiring treatment are usually referred to private physicians.

Cooperative efforts between private and public health organizations and individuals have been the foundation stones of Pitt County's reputation as a center of good health programs. They are cited by visitors who have studied the county's public health program and its concern for better health.

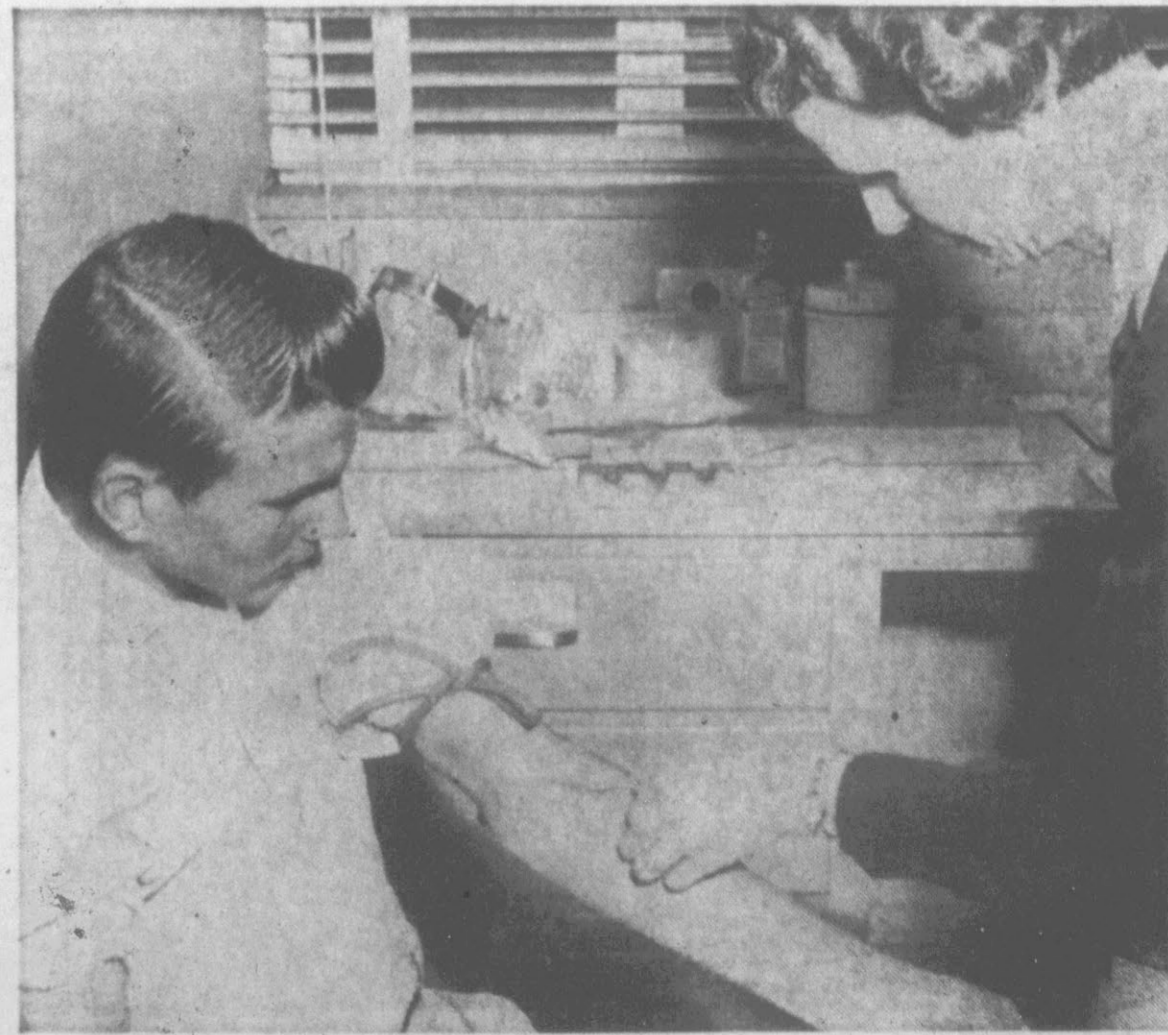

The cooperative efforts and results are cited because they have meant a stronger foundation of health, upon which all the happiness and powers of the county depend.

Student Art Award Winners Announced

Members of the committee which planned and staged the first regional competition in Northern North Carolina of the National Scholastic Art Awards are shown at the exhibition of work by public school students. Pictured above (left to right) are: front row: Dr. Wellington B. Gray, director of the art department, East Carolina College; Laura Boice, art supervisor, Rocky Mount; Mrs. Norma Gray, art supervisor, Greenville; Mrs. Madge Allen, art supervisor, Greenville; Russell Arnold, chairman of the art department, Atlantic Christian College; second row: Donald Hatch, director, art department, WNCCT, Greenville; Dr. Bruce Carter, assistant professor of art, East Carolina College; and David W. Mosier, promotion manager, WNCCT, Greenville.

Talented students who received honors in the first Eastern North Carolina Regional competition of the National Scholastic Art Awards have been announced, and an exhibition of the work of approximately 150 participants is now on display in the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School at East Carolina College.

The regional competition here, open to junior and senior students in schools of 36 eastern counties, was sponsored by television station WNCCT of Greenville with the cooperation of the department of art at East Carolina College.

Dr. Wellington B. Gray, director of the college art department, and David Mosier, WNCCT promotion manager, stated here this week that they were pleased with the response and with the quality of art work submitted.

Entries by student participants in the competition indicate an encouraging variety in school art activities. Drawings and paintings make up a large percentage of the exhibition. Other entries are in sculpture, jewelry, photography, and commercial art.

With art students from East Carolina College as hosts and hostesses, the exhibition will be open to the public Monday through Saturday from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. for the next two weeks.

Three types of awards will be presented on a WNCCT telecast Monday at 6 p. m. to students whose work was judged as outstanding. Five students will receive regional Hallmark Awards entitling them as competitors for Hallmark honor prizes of $100 to enter their work for national judging in New York.

Blue ribbon finalist stickers will be presented to students whose work is considered worthy of entry in the National High School Art Exhibition in New York. These and other participants submitting their work will receive gold, silver and bronze medals.

Winners of Hallmark Awards in the regional competition here are James Harrington of the Eppes School, Greenville; Billy Brown, Joanne Crawford, and Judy Roebuck of the Greenville Junior High School; and Elouise Spencer, Belhaven.

Blue Ribbon finalists are Cornelius Williams, Roosevelt German, James Barratt, Eppes School, Greenville; Mary Margaret Vetter and Frank Harper, Greenville Junior High School; Louis Jones, Rose Senior High School, Greenville; Janice Dawson, Ellen Stovall, Philip Stevens, and Laura Hammond, Rocky Mount Senior High School; Earl Beards, Clinton; Donald O'Neal, Belhaven; Helen Tarkenton, Roper; Betty Linton, Bath; Sylvia Walker, Wilson; and Elouise Hunter, Enfield.

In addition to these award winners the following students are winners of keys: James Adams, Jerry Taft, Jackie Sparkman, Barbara Brockett and James Greene, Eppes School, Greenville; Faye Jones and Lela Ann Williams, Greenville Junior High School; Marsha Jacobson and James Barnhill, Wilmington; Benjamin Jones, Washington; Jerry Whitehead and Larry Mathew, Benvenue School near Rocky Mount; Deloris Weston, Belhaven; and Heinz Staude, Mount Olive.

Members of the Regional Honorary Committee sponsoring the competition are Congressman Herbert C. Bonner of the First North Carolina District, President John D. Messick of East Carolina College, Chairman Robert Lee Humber of the North Carolina Art Commission, and Superintendent

J.H. Rose of Greenville Schools. The Regional Active Committee responsible for judging and hanging the exhibition is headed by Dr. Gray as chairman and Mr. Mosier as coordinator. Other members are Chairman Russell Arnold of the Atlantic Christian College Art Department; Vice President Marvin Blount of the East Carolina Art Society; Mrs. Shirley Morton Smith, Wilmington art teacher; Laura Boice, art supervisor in the Rocky Mount public schools; Dr. Bruce Carter of East Carolina College; Mrs. Norma W. Gray and Mrs. Madge Allen, art supervisors in Greenville school; Donald Hatch, director, and Nora Willis, member, of the WNCCT art department.

Christian Church Announcements

The guest minister at the Eighth Street Church Sunday morning will be Dr. Robert L. Holt, registrar at East Carolina College. Robert E. Moyer, chairman of the board, will preside and the choir will sing an anthem entitled, "God Is A Spirit" by Kappeler. The youth organizations meet at 5:00 and 6:00 Sunday evening and the Sunday School convenes at 9:45.

The board of officers of the church will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 and at this time of change-over in pastors there are several matters that need the council of a full board.

The young people of the Hooker-District will have their World Fellowship Youth Meet at the Eighth Street Church March 13 and 14. The counselors will be Rev. D. L. Warren of Kinston and Mr. Bernard C. Meece, state director of youth in North Carolina. Registrations must be made by March 9.

The Circles of the Christian Women's Fellowship will meet Monday as follows:

- No. 1, with Mrs. Luella Standell, 10:00 a.m.
- No. 2, with Mrs. C. H. Edwards, Sr., 3:30 p.m.
- No. 3, with Mrs. T. B. Lupton, Mrs. Milton White, assisting hostess, 3:30 p.m.

- No. 9, with Mrs. E. M. Woodard, Mrs. Vick Forrest, assisting hostess, 8:00 p.m.
- No. 10, with Mrs. Earl Kittrell, 8:00 p.m.

On Sunday morning, March 8, an installation service will be held for the newly chosen minister and wife and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hadden, Jr., who comes from Clarksville, Tennessee. Dr. Ross J. Allen, state secretary of Christian Churches in North Carolina, will preach the sermon and give the charge to the minister and the congregation. Robert S. Moyer, chairman of the board, will preside and receive the minister and his family into the fellowship of the church. The membership of the church and Sunday School are urgently requested to be present for that service. Friends of the congregation are most cordially invited.

Business Statisticians Can Tell You Anything

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Business statisticians can tell you almost anything today. They know — or say they do — how many baths you take a week and how much soap you use.

They can say how much the average homemaker — whoever that may be — spends on keeping the house clean. They can give the cost of keeping a skyscraper's insides spic and span. They have figures on aerosol bombs and on the task of tidying up airport runways after the jet planes.

Statisticians may just be in love with figures. But businessmen want their reports for other reasons. They need to know the demand so they can plan production. They want the potential so they can lay out sales drives. They use these figures in deciding whether a new product could beat out a rival, or a new commercial drum up bigger consumer response.

The comforting statistical news today is that Americans are getting cleaner every year, both personally and in their surroundings.

Statisticians say that in 1946 Americans used 23 pounds of soap a year per capita, and now 29 pounds. The total comes to more than five billion pounds of soap a year. From this the experts deduce that Americans take 26 billion baths a year, or some 500 million a week. On a per capita basis this is about 150 a year or three a week.

The nation's 30,000 tailor shops and cleaners now do a record 1 1/2 billion dollar a year business keeping clothes fresh. The total of dry cleaning bills goes up an average of 3 per cent a year.

This year Americans are expected to spend nearly 600 million dollars, or $12 a family, on household cleaners, polishers, deodorants and disinfectants. Howard S. Cohoon, president of Dumas Milner Corp., Jackson, says industry sales have risen 25 per cent in five years.

Last year the total was $530 million dollars: some 350 million for cleaners and polishers, 100 million for waxes and polishes, 50 million for disinfectants, and 50 million for deodorants, a fairly latecomer to the household scene.

To this could be added millions more spent on home painting, and for vacuum cleaners, polishers and other appliances. Cohoon says sales of his own pine-based line went up 25 per cent in 1958 and that now 40 per cent of its products are made from synthetic pine oil—the American joy for cleanliness having helped eat up much of the pine stumps that started the business.

Good Breakfast May Aid Pupils

PEARL RIVER, N.Y. (AP) — Pupils at the Pearl River Junior-Senior High School seem to agree that a hearty breakfast may aid learning.

As the climax of a two-week nutrition drive, the school held a mass breakfast Friday. Of 640 students, about 400 showed up and consumed an "ideal" morning meal of juice, cereal, milk, toast, jelly, and an egg. Cost: 15 cents. Most of the food was contributed by local concerns.

Principal Walter Reiner said teachers have complained that pupils showed restlessness and lack of attention during late morning class sessions.

Reiner, hoping good breakfasts would eliminate that fidgety feeling, said: "Now it is up to the parents and students to carry the ball."

Commented 7th grader Barbara Alper, 12 years old: "I sure ate more than I usually do and it tasted good."

"It's a very good idea," declared Junior Patricia Martin, 16. "I made us all realize what we should do before we dash off to school."

Commune System Meets Opposition

HONG KONG (AP) — The Chinese Communists are running into opposition in their effort to wipe out China's traditional family system through the newly created people's communes.

Peiping's press has carried reports recently about officially sponsored debates in various parts of China on the subject of family life. The reports normally wind up with claims that the participants, "after thorough discussion, unanimously agreed" with the wisdom of the party line.

Peiping's official People's Daily recently reported, however, that after one such debate the participants were not unanimous on the question of whether collective life is better or more heartwarming than family life.

Other articles carry equally surprising remarks. They quote peasants as saying:

"In the small family of the past, members of the household ate whatever they liked and drank whatever beverage they wished. All day long members of the family, old and young, gathered together chatting and laughing. Was this not heart-warming?"

People's Daily sadly reports many commune members "appear to have a pleasant and nostalgic feeling whenever they mention the small family."

Denouncing such "nonsensical ideas," the paper says party officials have been trying to convince commune dwellers that family life still exists, bigger and better than ever, because everyone is now a member of "Chairman Mao Tse-tung's big family."

Children now belong to the public as well as to their parents, People's Daily says, and "parents should not look on children as their private property any more."

The commune system is a radical Communist plan under which peasants and other workers are required to abandon traditional home and family life for a regimented communal existence so the state can get more work out of them. The communes have been in existence in China nearly 10 months.

Briens Pamper Scarce Stenos

LONDON (AP)—Stenographers are among the most pampered of the world's secretaries. They aren't enough girls to fill all the jobs.

Said the manager of a London secretarial placement agency: "We've got 1,000 jobs for every 100 applicants. It's frantic."

Said the director of Britain's biggest secretarial college: "We have 8,000 girls through our colleges every year. But that's not nearly enough."

"There's no sign of the boom stopping. The number of secretarial jobs has quadrupled since the war... and still more girls are needed."

Employers are prepared to go to almost any lengths to attract Britain's half a million secretaries.

"The wages they command," said the college director, "are among the best in the country for women. A capable secretary can earn about $34 (equivalent) weekly at age 23, and an experienced private secretary can get nearly $3,000 a year. (The average wage in Britain is under $1,750 a year.)"

"And on top of that, employers are offering some fantastic inducements."

He told of firms which offer new stenographers a new typewriter of their choice. Many give their stenographers luncheon vouchers worth 40 cents a day in neighborhood restaurants.

One firm even supplies a dress allowance and free train tickets for girls commuting from the suburbs.

It's common to find firms giving young married women a couple of hours off for shopping one day a week. Some even allow time off for visits to the hairdresser: firms supply autos to take their stenographers to the station at the end of the day so they can avoid crowded buses and subways.

John Payne's Daughter To Make Acting Debut

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next month television viewers will see the acting debut of a girl who may look familiar to movie fans.

There's a good reason. She is Julie Payne, 18, who looks like a younger sister of her mother, Anne Shirley. Her father is TV star John Payne.

Julie has been pestering her father for months to give her a role on his TV Western series but she got nowhere until producer Collier Young signed her for a role in an upcoming "Alcoa Presents" show March 10 over ABC-TV.

Now her father wants her for his series.

Miss Shirley and Payne have long since divorced and remarried but both are interested in their daughter's desire to be an actress.

Anne hasn't acted since 1944. "If that is what she wants, then she should do it," she comments. "Just so that she makes the choice herself — that's the important thing."

Anne started her second career when she was three years old as baby star Dawn O'Day in a silent movie starring William Farnum and Lois Wilson. From then until 1944, she doesn't remember much except the cranking of cameras. "It was a happy life, I suppose,"

TOURING FIRMS

CHAPEL HILL — Marvin Russell Cowan of Robersonville is one of 82 University of North Carolina pharmacy students who are making a week-long tour of pharmaceutical firms.

The students, all members of the Senior Class in UNC's School of Pharmacy, will visit Indianapolis, Ind., and Kalamazoo, Mich.

One firm even supplies a dress allowance and free train tickets for girls commuting from the suburbs.

It's common to find firms giving young married women a couple of hours off for shopping one day a week. Some even allow time off for visits to the hairdresser: firms supply autos to take their stenographers to the station at the end of the day so they can avoid crowded buses and subways.

Bow And Arrow Restores Service

TOWNSEND, Mont. (AP)—Telephone service was restored across the Missouri River today—by bow and arrow.

A light plane, flying along the river, snapped the Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph Co. rural line. The plane apparently was not damaged.

Repairman Ken O'Dell, using a 50-pound bow and an arrow tied to a nylon fishing line, spanned the river with one shot. It is 300 feet wide at that point. Heavy twine was tied to the line and pulled across. Then a hemp rope, and finally the heavy wire.

New Jersey has state laws which require that eggs be shipped in new containers. Old cases are forbidden.

JIMMY AND THE GIRLS — Entertainer Jimmy Durante has plenty of beautiful company as he prepares to cut cake marking his 66th birthday in Philadelphia.

AS A MATTER OF FACT I FEEL SO SICK I MIGHT NOT GO TO WORK FOR A WEEK. OH, YOU POOR DARLING.

WE'LL TURN THIS BEDROOM INTO A HOSPITAL ROOM, BUT FIRST YOU'LL HAVE TO MOVE THE BED OUT OF THE DRAFT.

NOW GO OVER TO THE WOODLEYS AND BORROW THEIR VAPORIZER AND ELECTRIC BLANKET AND HEATING PAD AND SICK-BED TRAY.

OH, DAGWOOD, YOU LOOK TERRIBLE! THANK YOU, MRS. WOODLEY-I FEEL TERRIBLE.

NOW YOU'LL HAVE TO RUN OVER TO THE DRUGSTORE AND GET THIS LIST OF THINGS. OH, BOY... I MIGHT GET TWO WEEKS OUT OF THIS.

EVERYBODY IS SO KIND AND SYMPATHETIC I GONNA GET THESE THINGS FOR HIM-HE'LL NEED ALL HIS STRENGTH TO PULL THRU THIS.

I PHONED YOUR BOSS ABOUT YOUR ILLNESS, AND HE TOLD ME THAT HE'S SICK IN BED, HIMSELF.

OH, BOY, NOTHING TO DO BUT LIE IN BED AND BE WAITED ON.

WE CAN'T LET A LITTLE SICKNESS HOLD UP COMPANY BUSINESS. MOVE OVER, DAGWOOD--WE HAVE TO GET TO WORK.

NOW, FIRST WE'LL GO OVER ALL THESE NEW CONTRACTS. HE TAKES ALL THE FUN OUT OF BEING SICK.

I'M GOING BACK TO THE OFFICE.

The DEADLY LADY of MADAGASCAR

BY C. V. TERRY

WHAT HAS HAPPENED Richard Douglas, a young Scotch mariner, is relating a story that began in 1701, when the ship RESOLUTE is arriving in New York, Dick's first stop on a secret mission to Madagascar. He has plunged into the adventure blindly, expecting to earn gold with which to marry his sweetheart in Scotland and settle down. Dick is to receive further orders from Sir Luke Metcalf, the East India Company agent in New York.

While the RESOLUTE lies outside the harbor becalmed, awaiting a breeze to fill sails, a merchant ship, STAR OF BENGAL, is piloted dangerously close. Dick's attention is attracted by a beautiful girl on the STAR OF BENGAL's deck who is staring at him. As a rain squall arises the STAR steals the wind and sails past the RESOLUTE with the girl directing a taunt at Dick. When the RESOLUTE is finally moored near the McLane docks Dick, on deck with his friend, Dr. Tom Hoyt, sees the girl a third time.

CHAPTER 4 Now that the girl was in full view, her dark skin proved only that she had been exposed long and carelessly to the sun. She was a woman of my own race — albeit with a dash of foreign blood. With no orders from my brain, I felt my body incline in a for-

Checking Up On Americans In Foreign Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House group is going to check the roster of U.S. officials in a selected foreign post to see what kind of Americans this country is sending abroad.

Rep. Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) said today his Foreign Affairs subcommittee will go overseas in its study. He suggested the Philippines as a possibility, because the United States has diplomatic, propaganda, military and aid missions there.

Hays spoke after the State Department ran into a round of criticism at hearings Friday on its request for 100 million dollars for more buildings abroad during the next five years.

The congressmen didn't like the architecture of some buildings the department has already put up. They also questioned whether U.S. officials in them lived too luxuriously and didn't mix enough with the local populace.

Loy Henderson, deputy undersecretary of state, denied ostentation. "We're not, as so many people think, living in an extravagant way," the career diplomat said.

Henderson said basic State Department policy is to have U.S. officials in a foreign city spread around town rather than living in an American compound. Their residences ought to be respectable enough to allow the entertaining that is part of their job, he said.

He bristled at a suggestion that public funds should not be spent for tennis courts and swimming pools for the striped pants corps.

He said comparable foreign officials have such facilities, so does the Pentagon and — "if you'll forgive me for mentioning it"—congressional buildings do, too. "Yet if we even raise the subject it is ridiculed on the floor of Congress," he said.

Henderson said career foreign service officers expect some hardships when they are sent abroad. But short-term personnel, he said, need more inducements before accepting an overseas job. He said they want items like canned food and ready-mix pie crust available for their families.
