Labor Peace Is Important To All

Continued violence and strife accompanying the strike of textile workers in Henderson obviously will harm not only Henderson and Vance County, but the entire state if it isn't brought to a quick halt.

So far as the location of new industry is concerned, good relationships between workers and management has been one of the important assets North Carolina has had to offer. To be sure the state has a record of excellent relationships, and even the unfortunate incidents that have occurred in Henderson cannot wipe out that good record.

In the minds of some industrialists who may be looking at North Carolina as a possible plant site, the

Honored By Meeting Of Rotary District

Greenville has been honored yesterday and today in welcoming some 500 Rotarians and their wives from throughout this section of the state, here for the annual meeting of Rotary District 773.

The district, which embraces 43 Rotary Clubs, has as its hosts for this meeting the four Pitt County Rotary Clubs of Greenville, Farmville, Ayden and Bethel. Through the efforts of the members of these four clubs, under the leadership of District Governor W. Jesse Moye of Farmville, the assembly promises to be one of the most successful of Rotary District 773.

It is, we believe, a feather in the cap of Greenville and Pitt County to have these Rotarians and their wives be our guests for their two-day meeting. The Reflector joins with many others in extending to these visitors our warmest welcome.

Big Business In Insurance Firms

By LYNN NISBET

INSURANCE — In its overall aspect insurance is one of the biggest industries in the nation — and in North Carolina. Figures obtained from sources believed to be reliable indicate that North Carolinians pay out more money each year for insurance premiums than for any other item in the family budget with possible exception of food.

It might be possible, but would be very difficult, to obtain accurate figures on the total amount paid for insurance premiums, including retirement and other benefits paid in connection with certain lodge and union dues. The State has earmarked for this year about $17 million to match retirement deductions from payrolls of State employees. The employees will pay a like amount. The budgeted figure for next year is almost $20 million.

The State collected last year about $11 million dollars in taxes on insurance premiums. At 2 1/2 per cent that indicates some $440 million taxable premiums paid. Detailed breakdown would serve only to confuse. However, there are some interesting features.

At a recent rate hearing it was brought out that Tarheels pay approximately $30 million a year for fire and extended coverage insurance, plus an unmeasured amount paid through Farmer Mutual Companies.

There are about a million and a half automobiles registered in this state and every one of them must be covered by public liability. A very conservative estimate would be $40 average premium, totaling $60 million.

Then there are the big items of life insurance and the multiple individual and group programs for health and hospitalization which take a major bite out of the family income. Added must also be employment security and workmen's compensation, some of which is more like taxes than voluntary premiums but represents cost of insurance protection.

RATES — Premium rates are determined for the various classes of insurance coverage on basis of loss experience. Life insurance rates are based on actuarial statistics and their fixation is largely mathematical. The Commissioner of Insurance has no direct control over the fixing or application of these rates. A similar situation prevails in most of the employment security and retirement systems.

Rates for casualty, fire and health premiums also are based Henderson affair may overshadow the good reports which have come from the Tar Heel state.

There are few industries which want to locate new plants in areas where there has been labor strife and particularly violence. And there are plenty of locations for industries in which no such conditions exist.

It is important, therefore, not only for Henderson and Vance County, but to all of North Carolina, that the textile dispute be resolved as quickly as possible. It is also important to the state as a whole that no more violence occurs in connection with the Henderson strike.

North Carolina has moved along well with its industrial development, reaching a new record high for new investment and the creation of new jobs and payrolls during the past year. It has done an excellent job of selling new industries on the many advantages North Carolina offers.

It would indeed be tragic if unfortunate occurrences in one community should place a question mark over the entire state. But it could happen in the case of Henderson if the matter is not quickly settled.

County Is Benefitted By Local Achievements

Congratulations are in order for the Red Banks, Red Oak and Pactolus Communities for receiving top honors in the third annual Pitt County Progress Program.

Their achievements in community improvement as evidenced by the exhibits entered in the competition shows conclusively that significant progress was made in each of the communities.

So also do the exhibits of all the 21 Home Demonstration Clubs throughout Pitt which entered the progress competition. In each of the 21 communities there was progress which makes for better communities, better homes and better farms.

Collectively, the Home Demonstration Clubs have made during the past year another important contribution toward making Pitt County as a whole a better county. Though only three top winners were chosen in the overall competition, there can be no doubt that each community which participated in the program was a winner so far as community progress is concerned. Neither can there be any doubt that Pitt County as a whole was the big winner in terms of being a county of progressive and constantly improving communities.

The progress achieved by the 21 communities during the past year represents another important milestone for Pitt. The accomplishments which were realized will lead to even greater progress and improvement in the years to come. Those who participated in the progress program in each of the 21 communities are to be congratulated for their efforts.

Recovery Sees Solid Progress

By RALPH ROBEY

Business recovery continues to move forward and upward. The rate may not be as rapid as a few months ago, but there is no question as to the direction. Three board items make this clear:

First, industrial production, as measured by the Federal Reserve Board Index, advanced in January for the ninth consecutive month. The one point rise in the index, to 143, is now only two points below the pre-recession peak. Recovery in this field is over 98 per cent.

Equally important, the rise was in both durable and non-durable goods. The latter is currently some four per cent above the pre-recession peak; durable goods production is about five per cent below the peak of August 1957. The relatively poor showing of durable production is partly accounted for by a glass strike curtailing production by Chrysler, and partly by a reduced level of output in the farm machinery field.

Mineral production — also covered by this index — was down one point because of declines in coal mining and oil and gas well drilling. Other mineral production was up, but not enough to offset these declines.

Secondly, personal income increased about $2.4 billion in January. In December there had been a slight decline because year-end dividends were off sharply. In January there was more than a full recovery in this item.

The larger portion of the increase in personal income, however, was in wage and salary disbursements, and the most notable rise here was in commodity-producing industries as contrasted with distributive and service industries.

The only broad category of personal income which did not show an increase in January was transfer payments, which consists primarily of veterans and social insurance benefits. On an annual basis these were $26 billion. Last September was the peak of these payments at just a billion dollars higher. The growth of these transfer payments has been fabulous. As late as 1952 they were only one half the present volume, and for all of 1956 they amounted to less than $19 billion. Personal contributions of employees and self-employed for social insurance have been advancing at about the same rate. In 1952 such contributions were $3.8 billion, in 1956 they were $5.7 billion, and in January, 1959, they were at an annual rate of $7.6 billion. This was an increase of $300 million over December and reflects higher social security taxes that went into effect January 1.

In spite of increased taxation the social security system is still running in the red, but this is supposed to be a temporary situation.

Finally, housing starts show this segment of the economy is still strong. The January figure, on a seasonally adjusted annual

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE NAVIGATOR

There is something within us which makes us always desirous of blaming our mistakes and failures on others. We seem to get some comfort out of the fact that we can compel others to share some of the blame for our mistakes. We love to try to convince ourselves that we were overwhelmed. Circumstances were too great for us or anyone else to handle. The storm blew too furiously for us to ride it out.

"One ship sails east and another west. By the selfsame winds that blow

'Tis the set of the sail And not the gale That determines the way they go. "Like the winds of the sea are the ways of fate As we journey along through life. "Tis the set of the soul That decides the goal. And not the calm or the life. "The same ship in both cases — the same storm. But different navigators. And there is such a vast difference in navigators that we must, if we are honest, put the blame where it belongs. It is the set of the sail which makes the difference. It is the navigator who sets the sails.

More Look-Aheads In Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are more look-aheads in business based not on things seen in crystal balls or television but on analysis of developing trends: No newspaper shortage. Present indications are that available newspapers will exceed demand by almost 2,000,000 tons this year. This will inhibit a further rise in prices.

Battle over depreciation. An energetic campaign for softening of regulations on charge-offs for depreciation will come to a head in Congress this spring. Industrialists say the limits of deductions for tax purposes are unrealistic. No newprint shortages. Enough replacement sales. Enough Congressmen agree to guarantee a lusty fight on the issue.

More bank mergers. Although the number of bank mergers is declining, it will rise again. The reason is that the Senate Banking Committee is studying legislation to make them more difficult, and some pending mergers will be speeded to beat any new

OIL VS. GAS

Oil to fight back. The gas industry's campaign to convince the public that gas heat is cleaner and cheaper will meet tough objections this year. The oil industry is working on campaigns to prove that fuel oil is cheaper. It may put as much as $3,000,000 into its program.

Higher furniture. Wage increases around 5 per cent are spreading through the furniture manufacturing industry. These will be reflected in higher prices. Bigger deficit. The White House is said to be reconciled to a budget deficit of $2 billion or $3 billion, which may be too small to be inflationary. However, it is now probable that the depression from labor and other groups to increase spending for distressed labor areas, housing, airport construction and other paternal measures.

FOREIGN COTTON DEMAND OFF Lesser cotton exports. Good cotton crops abroad and less demand for the fiber is reducing American sales abroad. Total exports for the fiscal year ending June 30 are likely to be 2,000,000 bales fewer than last fiscal year's 5,700,000 bales.

Crackdown on food distributors. The Federal Trade Commission is now working on one of the broadest investigations in its history. It is probing all phases of the food distribution industry, with special attention on illegal discounts, pressure deals and other unfair competition. The investigation will be thorough because the FTC knows that many Congressmen are following it closely. Some are opposed to chain stores; others are wroth because farmers seem to be getting constantly smaller shares of the consumer food dollar.

One reason for these smaller shares is that consumers are buying much more than food these days: peeling, slicing, cleaning, blending, cooking, packaging, etc. But Congressmen and the FTC would like to know whether these are the sole causes of the widening spread, or whether combinations and other trade practices are to blame.

OLD PROMOTER SPOTS AN AGRICULTURAL ERROR The Old Promoter had a clipping in his hand when he dropped it for his weekly visit. He read from an advertisement: "Selling is like picking apples. It is easy to stand on the ground and strip the low branches, and we say that business conditions are good. But when we have to climb the tree to get those apples on top, that's work and we think business conditions are beginning to get bad."

"Sound, homey philosophy," he remarked. "Nuts!" he said. "Anybody who climbs trees to pick apples is crazy. Farmers use ladders these days and their hands would break branches climbing trees. I used to think most advertising was written by farmhands, but I guess I'm wrong."

Self-Reliance Of Yesterday Fading

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—What ever became of self-reliance? It used to be the mark of most Americans. They took care of themselves, their families—young and old—and their own futures. They went to work with the idea of getting ahead, maybe dreaming of being their own boss, risky as that might be.

Now the emphasis seems to have swung to something called security.

Many employers complain that when they interview a job applicant today the talk switches at once to what kind of a pension plan the company has. The job seeker mentally figures how that will supplement the social security he'll collect from the government.

The would-be employe also asks about the company's policies on severance pay and unemployment benefits, health insurance, sick pay and many other fringe benefits.

But business itself is just as busy chasing security. Government subsidies aimed at insuring the security of various groups or industries take many forms.

There is the familiar cry of the railroads that the airlines benefit from postal subsidies and from use of airport facilities built at taxpayers' expense; and that trucks use highways also provided by tax money.

Security on the farm is a political issue. The farmer can't be made secure from the weather's onslaughts — droughts, floods, dust storms. But in many cases he can be sure that the price of what he does raise will be supported by the government, and that in some cases he'll be paid by the soil bank for NOT raising anything.

Industry turns to government for many kinds of security against the perils of foreign, or even domestic, competition. Government stockpiling has been used

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

to furnish markets for, and support prices of, various metals and other materials.

Pump priming in recessions is expected by many businessmen. The government hands out orders for their products, launches big construction projects, buys military supplies with a lavish hand. It makes credit easy for them if they want to expand, or gives them tax allowances.

Small business looks to government to make credit available on favorable terms and to watch constantly lest big business get too big—and to remember them particularly when government orders are handed out.

Critics of fair trade laws contend they tend to make manufacturing profits secure at the expense of the consumer. Charges of security at the expense of competition also have been made in such controversial things as laws aimed against chain stores or branch banking.

Security extends right into the home, also. Opponents of public housing contend that at the expense of the taxpayer some citizens are guaranteed cheap rent—something that other citizens can't find.

Government guarantees of home mortgages and attempts to fix the interest charges on them have made it possible for many Americans to buy their own homes "just like paying rent". A very good thing, NO doubt — but also part of the modern cult of security.

Machine-Busters Face Rejuvenated Coalition

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The Citizens Assn. which broke up the old Pendergast Democratic machine in 1940 and has controlled Kansas City's municipal government ever since, puts its record on the line against a rejuvenated machine coalition Tuesday.

For the first time in 19 years, some political observers say the machine, claiming "it's time for a change," has a chance.

The Citizens group, citing its record under L. P. Cookingham as city manager, lists as achievements slum clearance, an extensive trafficway system under construction with federal and state aid, and the city's good credit rating, among other things.

It also asserts Kansas City has the lowest property tax rate of any city in its population class except Toledo and Columbus, Ohio, both of which have an earnings tax. Kansas City has no earnings tax, and Mayor H. Roe Bartle, a candidate for re-election, has said the administration will not propose one.

The Citizens campaigners also have based part of their campaign on the premise the machine would return the city to the same spoils system in force when boss Tom Pendergast called all the shots.

At stake in the primary Tuesday and the regular election, March 31, are the mayor's office and eight council seats.

Under Kansas City's manager form of government the mayor actually is a ninth councilman with a vote on all matters.

Actual executive power lies with the city manager, who is elected by a majority vote of the council.

In order to take over the administration the Democratic organization group would have to win five seats on the council. Its strategy has been to endorse four of the Citizens' candidates, including Bartle, considered unbeatable, anyway, and to concentrate on five contested seats.

Campaigners for the Citizens group, while bearing down on the achievements of Cookingham's 19 years, have also been recalling conditions when the old Pendergast machine finally was routed. But they realize this isn't the talking point it was in the past.

The 20-year-old story of a bankrupt city, stolen elections, city officials being prosecuted for fraudulent acts in office, wide open vice and gambling, and the machinations of boss Pendergast seem to leave a new generation cold.

Municipal elections are non-partisan. No political designation appears on the ballots, although the various Democratic factions usually enter candidates.

Married men enter hospitals more frequently than bachelors, but husbands recover more quickly, according to a report of the U. S. Department of Health. Married men, the department says, get better medical attention before hospitalization.

Former NAACP Official In Race

MONROE, N.C. (AP)—Robert F. Williams, former president of the Union County chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, has become Monroe's first Negro candidate for mayor.

Williams paid his filing fee Saturday, shortly after Mayor Fred M. Wilson, a white dentist, filed for reelection.

The filing deadline is April 13, five days before the primary election.

Williams announced his resignation from the NAACP recently to devote full time to his chairmanship of the Committee to Combat Racial Injustice. He helped organize the committee, which has conducted several fundraising campaigns in Northern cities.

Negroes make up about 25 percent of Monroe's population.

Basketball season has ended for the varsity teams at Stokes-Pactolus, and for five seniors it is the end of their basketball careers. Players graduating are Billie Angle, Lillie Turner, Linda Johnson, Graham Gray and Kenneth Bullock.

The girls team, coached by Principal Jack Edwards, had a very successful year. They won two trophies, one for their 13-0 record and another for the tournament championship. Co-captains and forwards Billie Angle and Lillie Turner, and guard Linda Johnson were on the All-County Team.

In the boys' division, Donald Hardison, a junior, placed on the All-County Team. The boys team, coached by Al Hardison, lost in the first round of the tournament but has shown sportsmanship throughout the year.

The eighth grade has now taken over the basketball spotlight. They played Bethel Tuesday night. The girls, coached by Mrs. Marion Nobles, lost by one point in a thrilling game that ended in overtime. The boys, coached by Al Hardison, won a one-sided victory over Bethel. The eighth grade has several more games scheduled.

Rental Payment Paid Off Today 123 Years Late

WASHINGTON, Tex. (AP)—A rental payment 123 years overdue gets paid off today as Texans pause to celebrate the anniversary of the signing of their Declaration of Independence.

Fifth-nine citizens of Mexico gathered in a small blacksmith's shop in this tiny village on the banks of the Brazos River in Washington County on March 2, 1836.

They proclaimed their independence from Mexico and set up administrative machinery for the Republic of Texas. But historians say the group forgot to pay rent of $55 for use of the blacksmith's shop to one Noah T. Byars.

Quads Were Once A Rarity

By MIKE SOFFIN

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Richard Shaia and Mrs. Edward Englehart both live here in Richmond, both are 34, and both have mothered quadruplets.

Three years ago when Mrs. Shaia gave birth to four girls, statisticians said quads were not expected in metropolitan Richmond again for another 65 years.

But Mrs. Englehart last October demolished the odds. She presented her husband with two boys and two girls.

As they approach their third birthday, the Shaia quads "are very healthy," says their mother, wife of a local restaurant owner.

Mary Louise, Mary Loreta, Mary Celeste and Mary Virginia get no special attention.

On the other hand, Mrs. Englehart — whose husband is a city sanitation worker — looked for twins. Just before delivery the possibility of triplets was mentioned. That proved to be an understatement.

Laura Englehart wept when she learned she finally had two boys among her 10 children, three by a previous marriage. The oldest is 10 years.

For the Englehart, quadruplets proved to be a hardship. The father found a multitude of demands being made on his $60-a-week salary as a sweeper operator. What's more, the home of Englehart's father, where the family lived, was without an indoor toilet or running water.

Assorted gifts helped. They included furniture, layettes, free diaper service for a month when the quads left the hospital, two cases of baby food a month for a year, and the starting formula for the babies provided free.

A four-bedroom duplex apartment at a modest rental was found for the Englehart in a development on Richmond's south side.

Neighbors Help Out

A civic club in suburban Sandston, where the family used to live, has collected $3,500 toward the purchase of a plot of land and construction of a home for the Englehart.

In between afternoon feedings, Mrs. Englehart told a reporter all this help was greatly appreciated. "We're not destitute," she said, "but we have a tough struggle from payday to payday."

The quads consume formula enough for six babies. Edward Jr., "just a little red knot" at birth with his 2 pounds, 11 ounces, tipped the scales at more than 9 pounds by mid-January. No lodger was he the smallest of the four. The others are Edwin, Edna and Evelyn.

A city nurse looks in on the quads once a week, and the physician who delivered them, says Mrs. Englehart, "couldn't be any more interested than if they were his own children."

Setting Record

RALEIGH—If members of the current Legislature were being paid on piecemeal basis they would be entitled to a raise over last session.

Through last Friday, end of the third full week of the term, there had been introduced a total of 263 bills and resolutions. To comparable date two years ago the number was 208.

Both House and Senate are running ahead, the Senate figures being 86, ten more than last time, and in the House 177, compared with the previous record of 132.

As always there are number of duplicate introductions, identical bills going into both branches at the same time. The advantage in that procedure is to enable committees to sit together for consideration of controversial items.

Kathy Grant Wants More Than Acting

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why would a girl like Kathryn Grant be studying to become a registered nurse?

Her movie acting career is building all the time. She is married to Bing Crosby, so she doesn't need the security.

"But there are different kinds of security," she comments. Kathy has long puzzled her fellow workers in the movie mills. She has all the attributes of a film star, as anyone can testify who has seen her in the scanty aerialist costume for "The Big Circus." Yet she refuses to play merely the role of screen actress — or the wife of a millionaire celebrity.

When she isn't working at a studio or at one of the Crosby vacation homes, she reports at 6:35 a.m. to a local hospital. She serves as a scrub technician in surgery until 2:30 in the afternoon, sometimes transfers to the maternity section to help out there.

As part of her long-range program to become a R.N., she is also taking a correspondence course from the University of California in physiology. "Oh, it's tough for me," she said. "All through school I avoided science courses. I got my degree (from U. of Texas) in fine arts, which is good for an actress but useless to a nurse. Now I have to learn a whole new vocabulary."

The reason for this drive?

"I'm lucky to be in a line of work that is more like play. Bing always says when he makes a movie, he feels as if he's stealing money. I feel the same way. I can't imagine anything that can be more fun.

"It's also a part of life to have fun. It's also a part of life to serve." Kathy said she is constantly impressed by the selfless service of the nurses with whom she works. Aside from the matter of being of use to her fellow man, she finds the nursing training of real value at home.

"I feel much more at ease with the baby," she remarked. "And Bing's mother, who just had a cataract operation, has confidence in me."

All But Three States Have Broad Income Tax Or Retail Sales Tax

RALEIGH—A recent survey of state tax sources made by the Federation of Tax Administration and reported in the current Public Administration Bulletin, shows that only three states levy neither a retail sales tax nor a broad-based income tax. They are Nebraska, New Hampshire and Texas.

Eighteen states tax both income (corporate and individual) and sales. Four more tax corporate income and sales.

Corporation income taxes are levied by 35 states, plus South Dakota which taxes income of banks. Individual incomes are taxed by 30 states. Five more tax individual income from intangibles, three in lieu of personal property tax on the intangibles.

Sales are taxed in 33 states, including Indiana where sales are taxed as part of a gross income tax.

All states have motor fuel (gasoline) taxes and motor vehicle taxes and 44 have tobacco taxes—all but Virginia, Oregon, North Carolina, Colorado and California. Each of the 47 states which allow the sales of liquor receive from it, either through sales by public monopoly stores or distilled spirit taxes.

Jackets Fight Off Second Half Rally, Go On To Win

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Roanoke Rapids fought off a second half rally and then went on to trip Washington, 50-48, Saturday night in an overtime at East Carolina College. The victory wrapped up the Northeastern AA title for Roanoke Rapids and sent them to the State play-offs at Durham.

Greenville, regular season co-champion with Kingston, pulled away in the last minutes of play to defeat Elizabeth City in the consolation bracket, 63-58. Washington opened the championship game with their slow and deliberate play and moved out front 7-1. The Yellow Jackets, a young club, came back to knot the score at 10-all at the end of the period.

Johnny Matkins, the Jackets' floor general, sent his club out front with four straight points and in a matter of minutes Roanoke Rapids had built up a 21-12 lead. The Jackets continued their hot hitting streak and by halftime were out front by 13 points, 31-18. Washington, 31-29 victors over Greenville Friday night in an overtime, showed the strain and hit only three field goals in the second period.

Steve Taylor gave the Jackets their biggest lead and also last comfortable moment as he hit a lay-up to give the winners a 36-21 advantage. The Washington rooters came alive midway the third period as Zoph Potts, Billy Pittman, and Russ Knowles caught fire.

The game was a rough one with five players leaving the game by the foul route. Billy Pittman and Adrian Waters fouled out of the Washington lineup and Tommy King, Bill Doyle, and Steve Taylor of Roanoke Rapids missed the final buzzer.

Greenville almost saw their consolation title fly out the window in the opening game as Elizabeth City, the surprise club in the tournament, made a desperate fourth quarter attempt to knock off the Phantoms.

Western Carolina Ekes Out North State Tourney Title

By KEN ALYTA
LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Catawba's Indians, who wallowed in seventh place over the regular North State Conference basketball season, came within a hair of recording a sweep of the top three seeded teams in the tournament finals here Saturday night.

Western Carolina's long, lean Calamouns were not to be deterred, however, and they pulled out with a 39-36 victory after the hardest sort of a scrap with a team they had mangled by 14 and 25 points in two December meetings.

Catawba, with victories over third-seeded East Carolina and second-seeded Lenoir Rhyne in the first two rounds, played a smart control game that had the Cats in trouble most of the way.

Week Of Reckoning For ACC Basketball Powers

RALEIGH (AP) — This is the week of reckoning for Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams. The conference throws the season's records out the window and puts the title up for grabs in a tournament opening here Thursday.

North Carolina State, which lost twice to North Carolina this season but wound up tied 12-2 with the Tar Heels for first in the standings, won the draw Sunday.

The tournament victory — unless it's N.C. State, will represent the ACC in the NCAA playoffs. State is serving NCAA probation for recruiting violations. The runnerup will represent the ACC if the Wolf-pack wins.

East Carolina's basketball club left for Hickory this morning where it will compete in the NAIA District finals against Lenoir Rhyne Tuesday night.

With Western Carolina winning the North State Tournament, the Bucs received a bid on their 12-5 season record. Other teams already named were WCC, Lenoir Rhyne, and the winner of the Little Four tournament in South Carolina.

Lane Exhorts Other Clubs To Unite In War On Yanks

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Frank Lane, blunt-spoken general manager of the Cleveland Indians, has made a frank exhortation to the other American League clubs to join him in all-out warfare against the New York Yankees.

"We should all have one common objective," declared the fiery Lane. "That is to do everything in our power — on the field, of course — to prevent the Yankees from winning again."

College basketball goes into the final week of the regular season today with 42 teams needed to fill the brackets in the four major post season tournaments.

There are 12 spots left for the big boys—eight in the NCAA 23-team university division and four in the 12-team National Invitation Tournament starting March 12 at New York's Madison Square Garden.

The NCAA also has four unfilled brackets for its 32-team small college championship, winding up with the eight regional winners meeting at Evansville, Ind., March 11-13. Games Monday and Tuesday will complete the field.

The NAIA, which brings together 32 small college teams in a week-long tourney starting in Kansas City March 16, still has 26 spots open. They will be filled in playoffs this week.

Bloom, a sophomore of Baltimore, Md., was the only triple crown winner, capturing the 100-yard freestyle, the 200-yard individual medley and the 220 freestyle.

Maryland's Bob Kohl won the low board and high board diving titles.

North Carolina's Tar Heels, winners of the ACC crown on the basis of regular season dual meets, bagged a total of eight events to reaffirm their leadership.

DURHAM (AP)—The tall Aggies of North Carolina A&T College are the new champions of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Assn.

and Cincinnati (11-0) can clinch a tie by beating North Texas State tonight, with contenders Bradley (10-2) and St. Louis (9-3) still to be played. Other brackets filled by Texas Christian, Southwest Conference winner; Kansas State, Big Eight titlist with a 22-1 overall mark, and two at-large selections—Portland (Ore.) and DePaul.

FAR WEST—Only Idaho State and St. Marys (Calif.) are definite. Border Conference is tied with Texas Western and New Mexico State each 7-2. They wind up the season tonight. California (13-2) clinched at least a tie in the Pacific Coast Conference by beating Washington State 65-45 Saturday. Utah (11-1) has a one-game edge over Denver (10-2) in the Skyline. Each has two games remaining—Friday and Saturday.

In the NIT fold are four New York teams—New York University, Manhattan, St. John's and Fordham—St. Bonaventure, Villanova, Oklahoma City and Providence. Three of the remaining spots are expected to be filled by the second and third teams in the Missouri Valley and the runner-up in the Skyline. No. 12 still is up for grabs.

Five teams were added to the NCAA small college field over the week end. They were Buffalo, Williams, American University, Lincoln (Mo.) and Los Angeles State. Two more will be added tonight from the winner of the Adelphi-Fairleigh Dickinson game at South Orange, N.J. and an at-large selection. Tuesday Drexel and Hofstra meet on the latter's court for a spot and another will go to the winner of the Ohio Athletic Conference, which will be either Akron or Wittenburg. In event of a tie they will draw lots.

The DEADLY LADY of MADAGASCAR BY C.V. TERRY

WHAT HAS HAPPENED Richard Douglas, a young Scotch mariner, is relating a story that begins in 1701, when the ship RESOLUTE is arriving in New York. Dick's first stop on a secret mission to Madagascar. He has plunged into the adventure blindly, expecting to earn good with which to marry his sweetheart in Scotland and settle down. Dick is to receive further orders from Sir Luke Metcalf, the East India Company agent in New York.

CHAPTER 3 "May I see Sir Luke before morning?" I asked Bob McLane. "At the moment," said McLane, "he rests on a farm he owns in Harlem—a village to the north of us. I'll loan you a trap if you wish to call there."

"My friend is ordering rooms in town," I said. "Unless we're to sail with the tide, I see no reason for a journey to the backlands." "Nor do I," said McLane. "On to Mrs. Pettigill's, by all means. With Luck, you may join Senhorita Damoa at table."

"I'm proud of my reputation there," said McLane. "Follow me, Mr. Douglas. The light's a bit dim, but I'll show you what I can." For the next half hour we roamed through the storerooms of his vast establishment, where he proved the most knowledgeable of guides. Yet, try as I might, I could not pierce his armor as he displayed the prodigious abundance of his wares.

"You say these goods are from wrecked ships," I ventured. "Why are they undamaged?" "My agents buy only the pick of the salvage, Mr. Douglas." "How can you be sure these things weren't pirated?" The factor's smile was bland as Devon cream. "I can't be sure in every case. Still, if the bill of sale is stamped and in order, the seller's record is clean. That's all I'm concerned about."

"Which means you're willing to buy from privateers—not from outright pirates?" "Privateer is a word that covers many sins," said McLane. "Naturally, in the unsettled state of world trade, cargoes may change hands often before they reach the market. Or—to put the matter in other terms—goods can be resold indefinitely, if the spirit of our Admiralty law is observed."

goes outright; naturally, the practice was flagrantly abused in waters beyond the control of the so-called civilized powers. Most of the loot on display here, I was positive, had been pirated outright and resold under forged bills of lading.

"Will you look further, Mr. Douglas? Or may I shut up shop?" I slanted about me. Emgrosed in my cataloguing of McLane's booty, I had not realized his staff had withdrawn.

"Do you lock up yourself, sir?" "Always. It's a chore I'll trust to no one else."

I followed him in silence while he tested the bars on each window and made sure his iron shutters were bolted on the inside. This done, he escorted me through a kind of postern gate that gave to an alley bordering the harbor.

"You'll excuse me if I hurry, Mr. Douglas? I've a meeting at the Governor's house—and it can't wait."

"Go by all means," I said. "I can find my way to Culpepper Lane."

Rhodesian Unrest Blunted By Troops, Special Police

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (AP)—Troops rushed into Nyasaland from Southern Rhodesia appear to have blunted the African National party campaign against the British rulers of the Central African Federation.

Police broke up party meetings at outlying Mzuzu and Fort Manning Saturday, arrested a total of 13 Africans, but otherwise the weekend was peaceful.

White families living in isolated areas began moving into town. Special security measures remained in force, with squads of riot police patrolling Blantyre.

While the rebellious spirit may have been dampened, there was no disposition in Blantyre to minimize the ominous possibilities of the situation. Dr. Hastings Banda, president of the African National party, has not retreated an inch from his demand that Nyasaland must become an independent state outside the federation.

In Salisbury, capital of Southern Rhodesia and the federation, where a state of emergency was proclaimed three days ago, 400 party leaders have been arrested and an even more serious view is taken of the situation.

The drastic action in Southern Rhodesia obviously was taken with the expectation that Sir Robert Armitage, governor of Nyasaland, would follow through with similar measures.

Sir Robert, however, has made no move to declare a state of emergency or arrest party leaders.

Sir Robert was governor in Cyprus in 1955 when the EOKA campaign started there. He has been criticized sharply by papers in Southern Rhodesia for not taking more drastic action in Nyasaland. But he also is under pressure from African leaders to get Rhodesian troops out of Nyasaland. Wellington Chirwa, African member of the Nyasaland Parliament, in a letter to the governor, said: "There is no liking in this country for Rhodesian troops, and their presence makes the position worse."

In a letter to British Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd, Chirwa asked that Nyasaland be allowed to secede peacefully from the federation. He asked also for self-government and higher posts for Africans in civil, educational and economic development in Nyasaland, whose 3½ million Negroes are dominated by the 7,000 white settlers.

The government in Southern Rhodesia meanwhile ordered the expulsion of John Stonehouse, a Laborite member of the British Parliament whose speeches on human rights to meetings of the African party aroused white settlers. The South Rhodesian government also arrested a British agricultural adviser, Arthur Guy Clutton-Brock, who is a leading advocate of interracial cooperation.

Superior Court Judge Roger A. Pfaff was ticketed this weekend by two police officers, who said he went by their patrol car at 45 m.p.h. while they were cruising at the legal 25 m.p.h.

Before he was elevated to Superior Court in 1955, Judge Pfaff was a traffic judge who instituted jail sentences as part of a crackdown on speeders.

House Literally Blown To Pieces

CHICAGO (AP)—An explosion literally blew a house to pieces Sunday.

First there was a jarring blast. Then, as a neighbor related, "bricks and glass and cement were flying all over." Finally, there was an oblong hole in the ground—the basement—filled with debris.

The 1½ story brick house on the Northwest Side was the home of the Gaimari family, Doris Gaimari, 34, estranged from her husband, Alfred, 36, was at work in a candy shop.

Her two children, John, 13, and Therese, 11, were at movies. Her husband was restrained from going to the home.

A search of the rubble yielded no bodies or any clues to the cause of the blast.

College Age Youth Topic Of Special TV Program

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Everyone of middle age or older should take a look at "Generation Without a Cause."

The first part of this interesting examination of contemporary college age youth was presented on "20th Century" (CBS-TV) Sunday. The second part will be seen next Sunday evening. I saw both filmed portions last week.

"Generation Without a Cause" does not solve the mystery of "What's with the kids these days?" But it sets you to thinking and it's almost impossible to look at it without becoming subjective.

It is, therefore, worthwhile TV programming. Producer Stephen Fleischman, after long research, chose Rutgers as a pretty typical American college on which to concentrate his cameras. In the first part of the program youths themselves agreed with the findings of all the polls, surveys and the like made of the younger generation in our presently poll-pore nation. As summarized by narrator Walter Cronkite:

"Even the most alert and outspoken students admit to being cautious, waiting—and concerned mainly with themselves and their own individual fulfillment. No where have we found any indication of this generation having a new movement or cause of its own. What does this mean to our nation?"

Next Sunday the program finds that there are exceptions to the big generalization. It examines one exception in the case of a Rutgers student named Peter Knauss who says that in the conformism of modern youth it takes a lot of courage to want something besides a comfortable house with two-car garage in suburbia.

People like myself, nearing the age of nostalgia, are inclined to remember it as a better age simply because we had a lot of causes.

I remember writing impassioned editorials for the college daily against fortifying Guam. With a certain stunning swiftness I found myself on Guam after violent moves by Japan—because we failed to fortify it adequately.

Everybody my age remembers all the causes lost and won. When I was the age of the Rutgers students on "Generation Without a Cause" it never occurred to me to want a comfortable suburban house with two-car garage. A shack would suit me fine, I thought, in which to pursue such noble causes as becoming a writer and making the world better for everyone. Many of my friends felt the same; we reflected our times.

Now I find myself living in a comfortable suburban house with

Public Petitions Promised 'Ear', And Pledge Kept

WASHINGTON (AP)—Have any grievances? Petition Congress.

The Constitution says the people have that right, and it's amazing how many do just that.

Just last week a fellow came personally to the House clerk's office with his petition for permission "to address either or both houses of Congress and do hereby petition Congress for redress and hear and act on my grievances."

His grievances were eight in number, including what he said was false arrest several times. The eighth was: "I have been and am being discriminated against because I am white, Christian and gentle." His petition went to the House Judiciary Committee.

Already in this session of Congress the House has received some 100 petitions from individual citizens and groups and some 50 resolutions or memorials from state Legislatures.

The most repeated subject so far is statehood for Hawaii. Petitions favoring Hawaiian statehood have come from such diverse sources as the Brockton, Mass., City Council and Wayne Kanekiyo of Kaunakani, Kauai, T.H.

The Legislatures of Nebraska, New Mexico, California and Montana have sent memorials asking statehood for Hawaii.

The new Alaskan Legislature hasn't said anything about Hawaii to Congress, but it has sent its first memorial. It asked compensation for Bristol Bay fishery production cuts made in the national interest.

Other memorials from the states cover much of the gamut of statesmen's worries—help for small business, a program to provide work for the unemployed, water power potentials, and tariff rates. Several asked for removal of the federal tax on telephone service.

The citizens' petitions are more personal. They include claims against the government and request for such things as increases in retired railroad workers' pensions and restorations of citizenship.

The most unusual petition was one filed several weeks ago by a group seeking impeachment of members of the Supreme Court. The petition was about 1,500 feet long and contained thousands of names its sponsors said were secured all over the country.

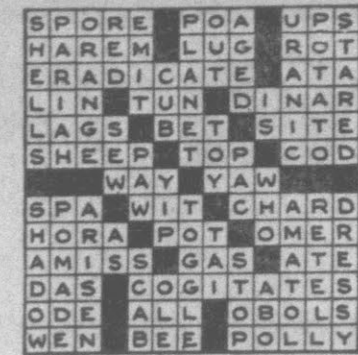

Two-car garage, concerned, in Cronkite's words about today's youth, "mainly with my own individual fulfillment."

I think there are a lot of people like myself who served in World War II and the Korean War, who joined innumerable good causes and organizations—and who today have no particular cause except to act decently. It may seem deplorable to some, but it's the general temper of the times.

Whatever one says about today's youth, can we expect it to find causes where its elders do not? Whenever a good and urgent cause rises, I'll bet they embrace it as passionately as we did.

Two Hearings, Charlotte Trip For Legislators

RALEIGH (AP)—At least two hearings and a trip to Charlotte are on tap for North Carolina's legislators this week.

The House and Senate are to meet at 8 o'clock tonight. The Joint Appropriations Committee will resume hearings Tuesday afternoon on pending requests for the next biennium.

Heads of four state-supported colleges are due to request appropriations above the amount recommended for them during the next biennium.

The colleges are East Carolina, Western Carolina, Appalachian State Teachers and the Pembroke State College.

Since many of the appropriations committee members plan to attend the opening games of the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament Thursday afternoon, it was decided not to hold any budget hearings that day.

The House Committee on Manufacturing and Labor will hold a hearing at 11 a.m., Tuesday on a bill to forbid state and local government employees from joining labor unions which bargain collectively. The measure, introduced by Mecklenburg's Rep. Frank Snapp, resulted from the attempt of the Teamster's Union to organize Charlotte's police force.

Most of the legislators will fly to Charlotte Wednesday for a business and pleasure jaunt. A fleet of airplanes has been chartered by the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce. A bus will be provided for those who do not like to fly.

At the time the Legislature received its invitation to visit Charlotte, it was told that the major purpose was to show the lawmakers some of the problems of a metropolitan area.

Giving Up Land After 259 Years

With none of his five children inclined to take up farming, Luce, a potato grower, leased his 60 acres and put his machinery on the auction block during the weekend.

Broken Atlantic Cable Repaired

NEW YORK (AP)—The transatlantic telephone system of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. was back in normal operation today, after the repair of a cable break that created an international incident.

The company announced completion of the repair Sunday. The cable system links the telephone networks of the United States and Canada with those of Britain and eight European countries.

The break was broken Feb. 21. A boarding party from the United States Navy radar picket ship Roy O. Hale searched the Soviet trawler Novorossiysk for 70 minutes Thursday in an effort to find the ship had cut the cable.

Lt. Donald Sheely said he found no firm evidence of any intention to cut the cable, and believed the most probable explanation is that the trawler cut it accidentally.

The Soviet Union called the boarding "premeditated provocation."

Bob Hope Vows He Will Follow Doctors' Orders

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"From now on," says Bob Hope, "I'm doing whatever the doctor tells me. I've got too many places to see."

Eye trouble threatens to come between Hope and the places he wants to see. He will fly to New York by jet liner today to see a Columbia University specialist about the ailment.

The comedian suffered a blood clot in his left eye during a Christmas holiday trip to Europe to entertain U.S. servicemen. He says vision in the eye is now going fuzzy.

Hope said physicians have told his wife he may lose full vision in the eye unless he gets help.

In New York Hope will see Dr. Algernon Reese, an internationally known specialist on the ailment. He may also visit a Boston eye clinic.

Runway Lights Weren't Needed

Local pilots turned on runway lights at the Pitt-Greenville Airport around 11 o'clock last night when a circling plane was thought to be in trouble.

However, it was learned this morning that the pilot was on a night practice flight. He landed at Washington, N. C. airport as he had planned.

The Washington Daily News reported this morning that the plane was piloted by Waverly Chesson, a National Guard pilot and a former EOC football star.

Chesson was said to have taken off from the Greenville airport and landed at Washington by light of several cars lined up along the runway.

Washington was his original destination.

Local pilots, hearing the plane circling over Greenville during the cloudy night, assumed it was in trouble. Several pilots drove to the airport and switched on the runway lights.

By that time the plane was headed toward Washington. A city police car which also went to the airport radioed Washington to obtain assistance for the plane if it were needed.

The local pilots stood by at the airport until it was learned by police radio that the National Guard plane had landed safely in Washington.
