Three Known Dead As Flames Sweep Old Hotel

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Screaming in terror, guests shinned down cables or climbed or were borne down fire ladders early today as flames raged up an elevator shaft of the five-story Gary Hotel.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Fire roared through a locked dormitory at the State Training School for Delinquent Negro Boys at nearby Wrightsville early today.

At least 21 youths died, and fire officials said they feared others might have perished.

The blaze broke out before dawn and destroyed the brick and frame structure which housed 68 inmates.

Survivors escaped by kicking out windows which were covered with heavy-gauge, double screens designed to prevent escapes.

Doors to the big one-story building were locked.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who went to the scene as soon as he heard of the fire, said the doors should not have been barred and there should have been an adult in the building.

Faubus said an investigation would be made.

Origin of the blaze that destroyed the dormitory within an hour could not be determined immediately, Faubus said he had been told there was an electrical storm at the time.

The dazed survivors, ranging in age from 14 to 17, wandered about as firemen, sheriff's officers, and prisoners from a nearby penal farm tried to quench the smoldering ruins of the dormitory.

Fire Capt. Bill Deaton said he saw eight bodies in a pile and nine other bodies had been taken from the charred remains of the 29-year-old building.

A vocational teacher who normally slept in the building was in the hospital at the time the fire broke out.

George Williamson, 16, a survivor, said: "I heard screaming and hollering. There was smoke all over. I couldn't see anything. I found a window and got out."

Faubus appeared grim as he surveyed the glowing rubble.

"I inspected this school a year ago and found it safe," the governor said. "It's the first time anything like this has happened at such an institution in Arkansas."

First reports said 21 boys were missing but the figure was revised after a roll call was taken.

Khrushchev Says He May Postpone Berlin Deadline

KEIPZIG, East Germany (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today he is prepared to postpone the May 27 deadline on Berlin—provided fruitful East-West negotiations are underway.

Khrushchev said the May 27 date might be postponed until June 27 "or maybe July 27. We are in no hurry."

He cited an old Russian saying: "Never count your chickens until autumn."

The Soviet Premier made his remarks in an impromptu speech at a luncheon given by the mayor of Leipzig.

The question was brought up by Ian Mikardo, member of the British House of Commons and a deputy chairman of the British Labor party.

Mikardo asked Khrushchev whether he meant to do about the May 27 deadline.

Khrushchev noted that the West has been calling the May 27 deadline an ultimatum.

"That is not true," Khrushchev said. Then came his remarks about a postponement.

He warned again that the Soviet Union will sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany if the West refuses to sign a peace treaty with all of Germany.

Khrushchev also warned the West against using force on the Communist world.

"Whoever bumps us with his elbow will break it," he said.

He said the Soviet demand for a peace treaty was made urgent by the fact that nearly 14 years have elapsed since the end of World War II.

Tensions Fail Materialize On Henderson Picket Lines

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Tension failed to materialize today along picket lines of a cotton mill strike. Some trouble had been anticipated after union delegates walked out of a mediation meeting yesterday.

Only about 25 strikers appeared at the South Henderson plant of the Harriet-Henderson Textile Mills. There was a crowd of about 100 at the company's North Hen-

Sharp Sales Tax Rise In February

RALEIGH (AP) — Sales tax collections during February jumped more than 15 per cent above the same month last year, Revenue Commissioner James S. Currie reported today.

The increase helped figure out a net gain of $470,559 for the state's general fund, which took in a total of $17,725,311, Currie said in his monthly report to Gov. Hodges.

Currie pointed out that the booming sales tax take reflected "a substantially higher level of retail sales" for the state.

Business was good in February, too, for the highway fund. Collections of $21,368,019 represented an increase of $2,537,771 over the same month in 1958.

Net gasoline tax receipts going into the highway fund were up nearly 18 per cent over February of last year, Currie noted. Other receipts into the fund were up about 11 per cent.

For the fiscal year to date, the general fund has taken in $119,369,577, a gain of $4,313,665.

The highway fund has registered a gain of $4,870,682 for the same period.

NEWSMEN SHOT

ALGIERS (AP) — A French military headquarters spokesman said today two newsmen—one American and the other German—were slain by nationalist rebel machine-gun fire Wednesday night. Another American newsmen was wounded.

derson plant.

Both crowds were orderly in the face of a special force of 140 highway patrolmen deployed to the two plants.

In remarks to the Associated Press today, both Boyd Payton, Carolinas director of the Textile Workers Union of America, and company President John D. Cooper Jr., indicated willingness to resume negotiations and forget what happened at Wednesday's talks.

Vance County Sheriff E. H. Coltrane said about "one-third" more workers reported to work at the North Henderson plant. He said they appeared to be out of town workers and not strikers returning to work. Between 200 and 300 workers out of a force of 1,200 are now on the job.

Payton sent a telegram to Gov. Hodges today protesting what he called "the use of state police to escort strike breakers through the streets of Henderson to the gates" of the mill.

The telegram said in part: "We strongly protest this misuse and abuse of state police power. We feel citizens throughout this state will question this use of state funds for the personal benefit of a mill owner."

"We charge that your action in making this overwhelming show of power has overwhelmed the strike and strife and has sown the seeds of discontent and hatred."

"We urge that you reaffirm in unmistakable language the purpose for which you dispatched state police here, to wit, to protect workers who wish to return to their jobs and halt the practice of escorting outsiders to the mill to take the jobs of long-time employees."

CHICAGO (AP) — Recovery of more than one million dollars in $100 bogus bills and the seizure of 25 members of a nationwide counterfeiting ring were announced today by the U. S. Secret Service.

Paul J. Paterni, head of the Chicago Secret Service office, said the counterfeit notes were recovered in 22 states.

He said that 25 persons have been arrested since November as agents worked quietly to stamp out the counterfeiting network.

Paterni said the operation was finished off Wednesday night with the arrest of two Chicago men he termed the ringleaders.

Paterni said the gang passed about $25,000 of spurious bills successfully, but added, "We have recovered all of the money passed through department stores and other merchants."

Much of the bogus money was purchased by undercover agents in an effort to stem the flood without thwarting efforts to round up the counterfeit gang.

Paterni said three agents purchased some $700,000 in counterfeit bills at a cost of $9 for $100 bogus. In the windup of the investigation, $726,000 in fake currency was seized by raiding agents.

Kayo Non-Par Banking Bill

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation to outlaw non-par banking in North Carolina was given a knock-out blow today by the Senate Banking Committee.

Only four dissenting voices were heard when the committee voted on a motion by Sen. Lunsford Crew of Halifax to give the bill an unfavorable report.

A well-matched parade of witnesses opposed the bill at a packed hearing in the State Highway Department Auditorium.

Those favoring it spoke only briefly after complaining strenuously that adequate public notice of the hearing had not been given.

FOR POSTMASTER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today sent to the Senate the following postmaster nominations: William R. Stanley, New Bern, N.C.

an adjoining 1 1/2 story building. Her husband followed by the same route. Both suffered lacerations of the hands.

The scantily clad Mrs. Klem, shaking with fright and holding aloft her wrist slashed hands, told of their escape.

"We tried to make the fire escape but we couldn't. It was too hot and smoky. I tried wrapping a wet towel around my face but it didn't help. I decided to grab onto the wire and take a chance.

"I slid down. The crowd holed for me to let go but I wasn't letting go for anyone. It was awful. I can't believe we got out."

The flames snapped electric wires which fell to the ground cracking and sparking. Huge balls of flame and smoke shot upwards illuminating this eastern Pennsylvania anthracite community for miles. Hazleton is located about 120 miles northeast of Philadelphia.

Clarence Krapf, 63, the room clerk, said the fire started at the bottom of the elevator shaft and mushroomed through the building.

The elevator plunged to the pit, crashed to the street at the height of the blaze. Miraculously, firemen fighting the blaze and the large crowd of spectators watching the spectacular fire, were not hurt.

The hotel, owned by Samuel Mednitsky, reportedly catered to elderly residents.

The dead were identified as Miss Mary Moore, about 60, and Mrs. Howard Deitch, in her late 40s, both permanent residents of the hotel. Mrs. Deitch's husband and another guest, John Dougherty, were reported in critical condition.

Delegates Attend State 4-H Club Week

By LIL DILDA

As everyone knows, all work and no play will make Jack a dull boy. The same holds true of 4-H members, and it is for this reason that 4-H'ers who have worked hard on their projects venture to Raleigh the third week in July of each year.

Last year the delegates from Pitt County left home on a bright Monday morning with their destination Raleigh and the State College campus. After arriving, they registered, received their room numbers, ate lunch, and then began to unpack.

Monday night, the 1200 delegates from all over North Carolina, dressed in their green and white uniforms, gathered in the Coliseum for an assembly and recreation.

Starting Tuesday morning at 6:30, the week's routine began. First on the program for the day was breakfast in the college cafeteria and then an assembly. The assembly broke up into four groups, each group going to a different class each day for the rest of the week. After lunch each day, contests were attended in which district winners in various fields were competing for state honors.

From four to six each afternoon, swimming classes were held in the college pool, or the delegates could engage in softball, basketball or other forms of group recreation.

Each night, there was a program in the Coliseum during which winners in the afternoon contests were announced. The different evening programs consisted of tapping new members into State 4-H Honor Club, State Health pageant, and Dress Revue. There was also a State 4-H Talent Parade which was televised on Friday night, the new State 4-H Council officers were installed in a very inspiring outdoor ceremony.

Each county met Friday afternoon as a group and decided on some particular place in or near Raleigh that they wished to visit and then started on their outing. Throughout the week candidates for State offices passed out their material and speeches with the trace of politicians in preparation for the election on Thursday and Friday. Friday was the final election in which officers were selected to serve as the State 4-H Council for the coming year.

Wins First Place In Deanery

MISS EILEEN STELL

Miss Eileen Stell, eighth grade student at St. Raphael School, was announced winner of the first place in the junior division of the Deanery Section of the annual state-wide Oratorical Contest held in Rocky Mount last Sunday.

The contest, sponsored by the North Carolina Catholic Laymen's Association, is held on three levels—local, deanery, and diocesan. The subject announced for this year's competition by His Excellency, Vincent S. Waters, Bishop of Raleigh, is "The Helps and Hindrances of Youth in Responding to the Call of Their Vocation."

Miss Stell entered the Deanery event as first place winner from the local contest at St. Raphael's School last Thursday night. Other winners in the local competition were Carol Maloney, second place, and Jimmy Maloney, third place. Cash prizes were awarded the winners by the Laymen's Association.

As first prize winner in the Deanery event, Miss Stell received a $10 award, and the opportunity to compete in the Diocesan contest next Sunday at Pinetops.

Should Limit Those Trips Home

In the interest of the taxpayers of North Carolina and in the interest of upholding the esteem in which the legislature is held, the Senate should spike the travel-pay bill for members of the General Assembly recently passed by the House.

The House measure—which went through with eye-opening swiftness—is both unrealistic and uncalled for. Members of the House in effect voted themselves a pay increase at a time when the state is facing difficult financial problems and almost certain tax increases. Moreover, they took this action in an arbitrary manner on a premise so shallow as to be ridiculous.

If the Senate gives its approval to this new legislative portal-to-portal pay bill, members of the legislature will receive round-trip travel allowance from Raleigh to their homes each week during the legislative session. At the going rate of seven cents a mile, it will cost the taxpayers of North Carolina an extra $65,000 or so per session.

Most legislators, quite naturally, are going to make trips home during almost every week-end of the legislative session. To declare that these trips are solely for the purpose of finding out how people back home feel about legislative matters is absurd.

Most legislators, are business and professional men who are giving their time in the interest of the state to serve in the General Assembly. When they go home on week-ends, they do discuss legislative matters with home folks. At the same time, most legislators of necessity devote a large portion of their week-end time to private matters they cannot handle while in Raleigh. They make their weekly trek from Raleigh home as much for their personal benefit as for the benefit of the state.

Why then should the taxpayers of North Carolina foot the bill for every member of the General Assembly to travel from Raleigh home and back every week-end?

North Carolina's legislators are by no means over-paid. Yet, each man who serves in the General Assembly knew full well at the time he sought his office that he would not make a handsome salary in the legislature. He knew he probably would have to dig into his own pocket to defray some of the expenses he might incur. He also knew that only one round-trip from his home to Raleigh would be paid for under the existing law during the session.

In this day and time the one round-trip per session is unrealistic. But it is no more unrealistic than the House-passed measure to pay for weekly trips home by legislators.

Perhaps a half dozen state paid round trips home each session for each legislator could be justified. But a round trip every week-end, never!

This costly special consideration House members have approved for their own benefit is out of step with the fiscal policies that previously have been adhered to in North Carolina. And if it is an indication that the flood gates are to be opened for more costly special considerations in state fiscal matters during the remainder of the session, it is certainly out of step with the thinking of the people of North Carolina.

VOA Can't Answer All The Queries Now

Quite often the wheels of progress of necessity turn slowly. In such a case it is also necessary for persons interested in that progress to exercise patience in obtaining the answers to many questions they have.

Such is the situation concerning the location of multi-million dollar Voice of America facilities in Pitt County. There have been many questions asked about the facilities in Pitt since the initial announcement was made some 10 days ago. And Monday's announcement that one of the transmitter sites probably would be in Beaufort County rather than in Pitt near Pactolus brought new unanswered questions.

It would have been nice if officials in charge of this tremendous project could have answered all the questions immediately after it was announced that the VOA facilities would be constructed in this immediate area. Since the initial announcement was made they have answered as many questions as they could reasonably answer. Other answers will have to come later after the huge volume of surveying, mapping and other work in connection with the specific site locations is completed.

Certainly it is not the fault of officials in charge of the project that they cannot answer all the questions now. They want to be sure they give the right answers when they speak, and they cannot give specific answers until certain phases of the preliminary work on the project are completed.

For the people of Shelmerdine, Pactolus, Greenville and other areas of Pitt County, the next few weeks must be a period of patient waiting for answers to many questions which are being asked.

Dim View In What They Said

WASHINGTON (AP) — Take everything British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said and everything Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said, put them together, mix thoroughly, and what have you got? A pretty dim, unenthusiastic view of things.

After days of talking together in Moscow Macmillan and Khrushchev publicly agreed they hadn't agreed on much. Macmillan said the Berlin situation has "dangerous implications" which must be settled by negotiation and not by force.

No sooner had Macmillan returned home to London than reports from there said he is convinced troubled times lie ahead in Europe. He began preparing for urgent meetings in Washington, Paris and Bonn.

Meanwhile, the Soviets cut another caper Tuesday, just as ominous as everything else they have pulled recently. Once again they switched from sweet talk of peace to the threat of world war if the Western powers should use force to maintain their status in West Berlin.

Right after the Western Big Three in February proposed to the Soviet Union that their four foreign ministers discuss Berlin and the two Germans, Macmillan flew to Moscow to talk it over with Khrushchev.

Khrushchev had created a bad situation for the West by making a couple of threats as long ago as last November.

He had demanded that the three big Western Allies get their troops out of Berlin by May 27 and threatened to let the East German Communists block any supplies the Big Three tried to send their Berlin garrison after that.

Macmillan was greeted cordially when he first met with Khrushchev.

But while Macmillan was still in the U.S.S.R., Khrushchev hit him in the back of the head by publicly ridiculing the idea of a foreign ministers meeting and announcing that only a summit meeting could solve anything.

Macmillan withstood this affront, talked some more with Khrushchev. On Monday, the day before the Briton left Moscow, the Soviets said they'd agree to the ministers get-together but still thought a summit meeting was the answer. This may have seemed a little concession by the Soviets, a little step back.

But Tuesday, right after Macmillan got home, the Soviets released a note they had sent their satellites. This was another bang on the head for Macmillan.

Enough To Drive Him Sober

Colorful Menu Awaits

Over in Farmville tonight, Kiwanians from the Seventh Division of the Carolinas Kiwanis District will sit down to break bread.

According to a copy of the menu, their meal is going to be an unusual one, at least in the way it is described. Not a single item on the menu is going to be ordinary.

For instance, the delegates to the meeting will start with "Essence of Tomatoes." When that's gone, they can look for a generous serving of "Southern Fowl, Roasted Over Coals From A Confederate Oak."

To go with the Southern Fowl, the eaters can anticipate "Virgin White Potatoes, Garnished With RFD Butter and Decorated with East Carolina Parsley." There will also be some "Pitt County Yams, Cooked in a Wood Range and Flavored with Wild Honey."

"Old Timey County Style Slaw."

If that isn't enough, the menu also calls for buttermilk biscuits, homemade pickles, olives and celery.

For dessert, the tables will be spread with "Homemade Lemon Pie — Better'n Mama's."

All that fancy talk means, I suppose, that the dinner will consist of barbecued chicken with the trimmings. It sounds good, either way.

And that brings to mind a parody by a second-rate poet who said, "Oh, to be a Kiwanian, now that the table's set . . ."

All this playing with words calls to mind one of the favorite stories of W. Burkett Raper, president of Mount Olive Junior College and one of the state's outstanding young men.

According to the story, a candidate for the General Assembly promised his constituents in a Western North Carolina county he'd deliver a college if they would vote for him. The voters were much impressed by the promise and sent the man to Raleigh.

Once in the State Capitol, the newly elected representative forgot about the promise, although he was assigned to a committee dealing with education. He did nothing about getting a new college started.

Some weeks after the assembly had been in session, one of the voters visited in Raleigh to ask about the college.

The representative looked him squarely in the eye and told him, "John, I've investigated this thing and I don't think you want a college."

"What do you mean we don't want a college?" was the reply.

"Well, in the first place, you folks would have to have two semesters to really get any where. One semester wouldn't do. Then, all the students would have to use the same curriculum."

The voter stood pop-eyed at the information, shifting from one foot to another. He began to hedge a little on his demands.

The representative noticed his discomfort and saw the way clear to get out from under the campaign promise. He solemnly intoned, "Then, of course, you know that if we put a college up there, the boys and girls will have to matriculate together."

"That does it, that does it," the mountaineer announced as he started for the door. "You folks just put that college somewhere else. We're decent people and we'll have none of those things."

"The Democrats are going to Los Angeles for the 1960 convention. The big question, though, is where the man nominated in Los Angeles will be going in 1961." — Raleigh (N.C.) Times.

"We ought to understand by now that every device to have public education and total segregation at the same time will be found unconstitutional. What has happened in Virginia demonstrates again the utter futility of head-on resistance to Federal force." — Lee County (Ala.) Bulletin.

Lethal Cup For Whom?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Socrates, reputed the wisest man of antiquity, was given a hemlock cup for corrupting the youth of Athens.

Yet all he did was ask them questions designed to help them think for themselves.

In every period of history someone is accused of leading the young folks astray by giving them false ideas. Who today should be handed the lethal cup of hemlock?

Who is spoiling the present younger generation? That is, if we go along with the always popular generalization that the current crop of youngsters is the brattiest, the most irresponsible bunch of smart alecs ever to sorrow and sully a hopeful time.

If anything is spoiling the younger generation today it is the generation that preceded it—our own. If anything is setting them a bad example, it is us. If they are lax, it is because we have been lax with them.

The biggest culprits are probably middle-class parents, by far the largest class in America. The poor don't have the money to spoil their young; the rich, by and large, can afford to—but usually don't. Children born to wealth generally learn its value young.

It's the self-made man who started from nothing and struggled his way up to a $10,000-to-$15,000 a year salary who sometimes seems most adept at spoiling his own children.

Recently we dined at the home of such a man. During the meal he reminisced about how much tougher life was when he was a boy.

"Yeah, popsy," jeered his 18-year-old son. "Tell us again how you used to have to swim three miles each way to school every day."

Later, when we were alone, the father remarked rather wryly on his son's lack of appreciation.

"I had to quit college after two years to help out my family," he said. "But my son has never had to work a day in his life. I give him a good allowance, he has his own car. I couldn't afford to join a fraternity. He belongs to the best one on his campus."

"But with all his advantages, he isn't paying any attention to his studies. I'm afraid he's going to flunk out. And that'll break his mother's heart."

Asked why he didn't make his son earn at least part of his way, he said: "Well, I want life for him to be easier than it was for me. I think I missed a lot by having to work too hard, too young."

Isn't the biggest sin most middle-class parents are visiting on their children today the sin of trying to make life too easy for them?

Bill Teed Off Rights Debate

By LYNN NISBET

RIGHTS — The debate at the public hearing on Rep. Frank Snepp's bill to prohibit public employees from joining any association or union for the purpose of collective bargaining developed into a diversified discussion of constitutional rights, with a good deal of emphasis on basic common law rights.

Proponents argued that citizens have a right to expect undivided loyalty of policemen, firemen and other public servants and that these people have no right to take orders from agencies outside the government. Opponents contended that the ban violated the guarantees of the first amendment to the Federal constitution, and insisted there is no question or primary loyalty to the obligations of office or employment.

The bill admittedly is designed to prevent strikes or desertions from duty of law enforcement officers and firemen. There was tacit admission it was inspired by announced purposes of Jimmy Hoffa's union to organize municipal employees, especially police departments.

Opponents pointed out that as written the bill is so broad and comprehensive as to include lawn mowers on college campuses and all employees of municipal golf courses or housing authorities. They also argued that there is nothing in the text to prevent concerted action for work stoppage the high broad designation of "public employees" but only a ban against collective bargaining about wages or working conditions. It was pretty well established that if more than two people are involved in negotiations it is "collective bargaining," in the legal sense.

PROSPECTS — Questions asked by members of the committee at the hearing and consensus gathered by your reporter in later interviews with legislators, indicate that the bill as written does not have much chance of passage. An amended or substitute bill limiting the scope of coverage to law enforcement officers will have a lot more support.

The proposed measure has developed an interesting cross-fire attitude on the right-to-work law, which permits union membership but prohibits it as a requisite for getting or holding a job. Labor has fought this idea, contending for the closed shop idea, that a worker must join a union to get and keep a job.

The Snepp bill would make the right-to-work non-effective with respect to governmental employees. The opposition to the Snepp bill comes almost entirely from organized labor. Support of this bill was voiced by chamber of commerce spokesmen, in face of the fact that main advocacy of right-to-work laws have come from that source.

From this paradoxical situation might come the conclusion that "rights" are interpreted in view of the special interests of the people contending for them.

There is recognized difference between employees of private business and public officials at the top levels. It is more difficult for legislators to make the distinction between menial workers whether employed to mow a private lawn or a municipal golf course, or to clean windows in a State office building or an insurance company's headquarters.

"GOBERCRATS" — Rep. C. W. Spruill of Bertie, "Cousin Wagon" to nearly everybody who knows him, brought up two or three bushels of unshelled raw peanuts to distribute among his House colleagues — and he generously sent some over to the Senate chamber. On the same day a Rocky Mount peanut processing firm distributed a lot of little packages of shelled roasted and salted peanuts among the legislators.

The occasion presented irresistible temptations to Sen. Henry Grady Shelton of Edgecombe to send up a resolution about peanuts — and peanut politicians. After a preamble criticizing the irresponsible use of the term "peanut politician" for some public officials, which practice was declared to be unfair to the peanut, Shelton's resolution provided that hereafter such people should be designated as "gobercrat statesmen."

President pro tem Robert Morgan was presiding at the time and he ordered the resolution entered in the journal, with the comment that it might promote a number of "gubernatorial" candidates.

Even before all that happened a reporter cornered an out-of-the-ordinary Senator-in-the-lobby and inquired of him what is the basic moral difference between distributing peanuts and liquor to legislators. "There's a lot of difference," he said, "but it depends entirely upon the attitude and tastes of the people giving and receiving the merchandise."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

DIVINE USE OF THE INSIGNIFICANT

The word "remnant" has a bad name today. Usually it means something that is sold in the basement of a cheap department store. It is something left over. It is something that the merchant wants to get off his hands. But in history, the word "remnant" has been an honorable word. It has designated the group that had stood for the hard right against the easy wrong. The martyrs were members of remnant groups. The Pilgrims were a little remnant group, extreme in their Puritanical beliefs, who could find no peace save by leaving their homes in one part of the world and going to another. There are remnant groups in our social structure today, and, although some of them are evil, most of them are brave and gallant and a great blessing to the nation.

The word "remnant" in the Bible is extremely important. It was always the remnant which put the will of God really into operation. A remnant came back from the Babylonian Exile and started a new nation. A remnant followed Jesus of Nazareth, believing in Him even when He hung off the cross. Later this group stuck together and God, under the power of the Holy Spirit, formed out of this group His church.

God is amazingly interested in little things in babies, in obscure persons, in hated little minorities who do His will while the great majority sweep on gaily to evil. God loves remnants and uses them; God and one make a majority—always, now and forever.

By ELMER ROESSNER

The phenomenon of a rising stock market, with only a little bubble now and then, puzzles many people.

All reasons for the rise, or the relative weight of each reason, cannot be determined until some one invents a machine to read a million investors' minds.

Here are a few of the forces affecting the market:

Fear of inflation. This may be small, or it may be the largest factor. There is no doubt that fear is abroad in the land and there are good reasons for it. Wages are being bargained up again this year. Most prices will therefore rise. Despite the valiant fight by President Eisenhower, Congress will spend more money than taxes bring in.

WHENCE INVESTORS' MONEY? If all that doesn't add up to inflation, it will have the same effects until something worse comes along. So people could be expected to transfer savings to stocks, which tend to rise in price along with inflation.

But there is only a little evidence of such switching. Life insurance, savings bank deposits and building and loan association accumulations — all highly vulnerable to inflation — keep rising. True, some bonds have weakened and the total of government savings bonds held by investors has been declining since 1955, but at a moderate rate.

At the same time, there have been only mild booms in real estate, which is a favored hedge against inflation. In fact, real estate prices are depressed in some areas.

These facts add up to this: While there is some fear buying, it looks as if most of public investment money is coming from fresh savings, rather than from savings.

HUGE FUND BUYING
Mutual fund pressures. Competition for good stocks by mutual funds exerts an upward push. Current sales by fund salesmen, plus payments on installment subscriptions, provide constantly fresh funds for additional stock purchases. Mutuals now own about 4 per cent of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Insurance funds. The great growth of life insurance is giving insurers more funds to invest, some of which bids up stock prices.

Less equity financing. Money available from insurance companies and other sources is causing many corporations to borrow instead of issuing new stock for expansion. The fact that interest payments are deductible is causing taxes to accelerate, this trend. With less new stock, there is more demand for existing shares.

Welfare and similar funds. There has been a tremendous rise in pension, unemployment, health, hospitalization and other welfare funds controlled by companies, unions or both. Union funds from dues are also rising. Much of this money is bidding up stock prices.

People next door. This may be the one most important reason for the upward trend. Families hear a neighbor has made money on stocks, so they gather some money and buy stocks themselves. This increases demand, hence prices. The "people next door" pressure was a principal reason for the 1929 boom and bust.

Once pushed higher by these pressures, stocks tend to stay up. When the market weakens, mutual funds, insurance companies, welfare funds and do-good foundations (which hold about $2 billion in securities) don't panic. Little investors might. They don't dump their holdings. By sitting tight they stabilize the market.

Nothing in the foregoing is intended as assurance that the stock market will continue to

The Cosmos Book Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Julian White, Jr. Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Dave Spier, Mrs. Leighton Blount Jr., Mrs. Tom Andrews, Jr., Mrs. Frances Rowlett, and Mrs. J. V. Taylor, Jr., all of Bethel; and Mrs. James Harvey Ward, Jr. and Mrs. Milton Williamson of Greenville.

Mrs. White introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Jack Thomas, who gave a talk on interior decorating. Thomas stated that the first step in decorating a room is to decide on the degree of formality desired. The most important part of a room is the carpet, because that is the foundation on which the room is built. Thomas also discussed window treatment, wall decor, and answered questions asked by the members and guests.

Is Paying Children For Working In Home Right?

RALEIGH—Should children be paid for working at home? "No," says Miss Mamie Whisnant, home management specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Being good, studying hard or doing their share of the work are their responsibilities as members of the family. It is only natural for youth to want to earn money, and working for money is valuable training. But a child may reach the point of not doing any chores unless paid for it.

Only those jobs that would require outside help should be paid for if the children do them in addition to their normal share of household duties.

Shadowed Eyes Star In Modern Makeup

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures Beauty Editor

EYESHADOW is one of the "accepted" cosmetics in this day. Time was when it was considered a blight on the pretty face, unless one was a model, show girl or actress, using it for effect before studio and footlights.

The teen-age girl is likely to find the use of eyeshadow a bit of a problem. It may enhance her eyes, but if she swears it on, the effect will be disastrous. It is the difference between achieving a bright young-eyed look and one that looks like it was decorated for a masquerade party.

How should it be applied?

The girl who has never used eyeshadow may find it easier to experiment. She could start with a dab and work up from there. The idea is to put a small amount of the eyeshadow on the lid just above the pupil of the eye, and then blend it out toward the temple. Newer eyeshadow sticks make the technique easier than formerly. The sticks are thin, resembling sticks, and the consistency is smooth. You make a thin line along the upper lid with the stick and if you want it to appear lighter, smooth it out with your finger. Iridescent sticks that may give a girl evening eyes contain small flecks of sparkling material. Blue-eyed types may wear blue, teal or green.

A girl with hazel or light brown eyes may take her pick of eyeshadows. She may look especially striking with blue eyeshadow if she has blonde hair, although green eyeshadow seems to have been made for the brown-eyed girl. Green eyes may choose the green shadow also, and the silver smoke shades may appeal to the girl who wants to emphasize her eyes for special occasions.

The all-American girl look today is a pale look all the way from chin to hairline, with the eyes defined with an eyeliner and eyeshadow. The eyebrows are natural, emphasized with eyebrow pencil. It is the "no-lipstick" look that has put so much emphasis on the eyes, one of the most important features of a woman.

One Paragraph In Magazine Article Touched Off Violence In Bolivia

By THOMAS J. STONE

LA PAZ, Bolivia. (AP) — How could a magazine article touch off violent anti-American demonstrations in Bolivia, traditionally friendly to the United States?

Bolivians violently objected to one paragraph of a two-column article in the Latin-American edition of Time magazine on the country's acutely serious economic situation.

The paragraph, not carried in the U.S. edition of the magazine, quoted a U.S. Embassy official as saying that "the only solution to Bolivia's problems is to abolish Bolivia. Let her neighbors divide up the country and the problem."

The article made it clear the official was wisecracking.

But it was not funny in a country which over the centuries has lost territory to its five neighbors—Chile, Peru, Brazil, Paraguay and Argentina.

Bolivia, with a population of four million, is beset by one of the worst cases of inflation in South America and is up to its ears in critical economic troubles. As Time pointed out, U.S. aid has saved Bolivia from economic catastrophe.

Police, trying to control the mob, used tear gas and fired riot guns. In the melee student Isidro Condori Mendoza, 15, was killed.

In another riot the next day dentist Juan Maldonado Barrios, 32, was hit by a stray bullet. Almost 40 policemen were hurt. All government and business offices closed and thousands marched through the streets to protest the article.

No Americans were injured. They remained in their homes, protected by police. The embassy was closed. The embassy staff and some U.S. families moved in with friends in the suburbs. Some American businessmen carried on as usual.

The U.S. Embassy denied that any of its officials had made the remark that offended.

One embassy official told a reporter, "I am positive no one would have said a thing like that for quotation even if joking." Time's editor in chief, Henry R. Luce, expressed regret at the results but didn't mention the quotation.

The Bolivian government was first informed Friday by its embassy in Lima that Time was carrying an article unfavorable to the country. When a shipment of several hundred copies of the magazine reached La Paz, it was seized and taken to the Presidential Palace.

President Hernan Siles Zuazo met with Congress and his cabinet for seven hours.

After the session the government issued a communique which said in part: "The Cabinet met in Time of that which hurts our feelings and which we cannot accept."

Not until the Saturday morning papers came out did the general public hear of the article.

Presencia, an independent Catholic paper with a circulation of 6,000, and El Diario, also independent and with a circulation of 8,000, carried a translation of the article in full.

Interior Minister Walker Guevara meanwhile released the confiscated copies of the magazine. Immediately after the distributor picked them up, they were seized from him by members of the youth organization of the government party, the Nationalist Revolutionary Movement.

Foreign Minister Victor Andrade told a news conference Saturday night he had instructed the Bolivian Embassy in Washington to demand an explanation from the State Department.

Sunday's editions of the government paper La Nacion carried a strong anti-American front-page editorial saying, "Bolivia is not a football field for Time and we are not going to let the United States sell us out." The demonstrations began the next day.

Stress Courtesy As N.C. Project

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH—It is exomotic that the courteous act or statement by a bellhop, a policeman or any citizen can give a community a black eye in the matter of attracting visitors.

For that reason the Travel Council of North Carolina last year instituted, in cooperation with the State Departments of Education and Health, a program of "host schools" at which instruction was given in how to treat customers. The Travel Council voted at its recent annual meeting to continue and expand this project. Joe Edwards of Charlotte succeeds Dick Degenhardt of Asheville as director of the Council's part of the program, with Mrs. Lou Harshaw of Asheville as vice chairman of the committee.

Attention last year was centered on management personnel. It is proposed to bring in employees who directly serve the public—waitresses, filling station attendants, merchandise salesmen, ticket sellers, ushers, traffic officers, etc.

Popularity and proven value of the first year's activities necessitated some changes in policy, with a larger share of the total burden being borne by the communities in which the schools are held. It developed also that continuance of the program depends upon participation of the division of distributive education in the Department of Public Instruction.

The Travel Council adopted a resolution asking for this participation as justified by the $350 million tourist industry in North Carolina.

County senator would like to see more funds allocated for special education for mentally handicapped children. He points out that the Department of Education, in its budget requests, asked for 30 additional teachers during 1959-60 and 45 additional teachers during 1960-61 to handle Special Education. A request that was not included in the budget bill.

"I'd like to see this appropriation restored," he said. "Special classes for these children are a necessity—first, because the mentally handicapped child has a hard time getting into regular classrooms and when he does he holds back the other children."

Senator Whitley also favors the state's building a new institution for trainable mentally deficient children and enlarging present facilities. "I give this a higher priority than the need for a new legislative building," he said.

Other matters which he plans to work for: an appropriation for funds to restore Aycock's home in Wayne County and Bentville Battleground in Johnson County; and an appropriation to continue and enlarge agriculture research at the State College Experimental Station.

In private life, Senator Whitley is a farmer dealing in tobacco, cotton and livestock who loves direct contact with his farm and "rubbing shoulders with my tenants."

Now serving his sixth consecutive term in the Senate, he lays claim to no real hobbies—"I'm afraid I don't relax enough"—but finds deep satisfaction in working for the church. For 19 years he served as moderator of the Johnson County Baptist Association.

He and his wife, the former Florence Elizabeth Lassiter, have three children, two of whom are now married.

Disgruntled At Reading Of Will

By MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—

A disgruntled heir cooled off in jail today after damaging three houses which his grandmother willed to other members of the family.

Police Capt. Lewis Miller said Nayef Kasen of Montgomery was being held for a hearing in City Court Friday on charges of disorderly conduct and destruction of property.

About 50 smashed windows, kicked-out screens, two broken beds and shredded curtains lay in the wake of the rampage Wednesday after Kasen learned he had inherited only $500, Miller said.

Senator Whitley Decides Go To Bat For Ministers

By BUNNY HARRIS

Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH—Sen. Adam J. Whitley of Johnson says he will step from his customary role of working behind the scenes to introduce a bill of his own designed to protect ministers.

A strong Southern Baptist who enjoys church work "more than anything in the world," Senator Whitley says the bill will give ministers the right to withhold information told them in confidence in matters having to do with domestic relations.

While he maintains he "is not generally an introducer of bills," Senator Whitley says he may also co-sponsor a bill giving school teachers and state employees pay raises. The bill will contain definite means of obtaining the necessary revenue, he said, by taxing "certain non-essential items."

In other matters of legislative interest to him, the 63-year-old senator is working in his more usual fashion as "the man behind the bill," informing his colleagues on the need for certain proposed legislation and drumming up support.

Included in this category is a bill which may again be introduced this session establishing the use of the blood test in cases where drunken driving is suspected. A similar bill, introduced by Senator Whitley four or six years ago, failed to get out of committee but this session he is more hopeful of the outcome.

In addition to obtaining pay raises for teachers, the Johnson

County senator would like to see more funds allocated for special education for mentally handicapped children. He points out that the Department of Education, in its budget requests, asked for 30 additional teachers during 1959-60 and 45 additional teachers during 1960-61 to handle Special Education. A request that was not included in the budget bill.

"I'd like to see this appropriation restored," he said. "Special classes for these children are a necessity—first, because the mentally handicapped child has a hard time getting into regular classrooms and when he does he holds back the other children."

'Bus Stop' Next Stage Offering

The William Inge comedy, "Bus Stop" has been chosen as the next production of the Greenville Little Theatre, under the direction of Claude Garren.

It is scheduled for presentation April 15, 16, and 17 in Austin Auditorium on the E.C.C. campus. Garren has announced that casting auditions will be held today and Friday, at 8 p.m. in room 208 of the Austin Building.

The cast of the play numbers eight characters, five men and three women. "All roles are good and important ones. There are no minor parts," according to Garren. Participation in the play is not limited to active members of the Greenville Little Theatre. "Our plays are community affairs," pointed out Garren "and any person in the community who is interested in theater is urged to come and try out."

The roles include an attractive grass widow in her late thirties or early forties who operates a small town diner; a pretty and intelligent high school girl, who works part-time as a waitress in the diner; a pretty twenty year old "chanteuse", more than a little show-

Fifth-grade pupils in a Kansas City school were asked to write their comments on a daily 30-minute educational television program.

The kids loved the TV, but they had this complaint: "Thirty minutes is too long to sit still!"

A school official said the program may be cut to 15 minutes next year.

Church Used As Dormitory For The 'Down And Out'

LONDON (AP)—"I've had it rough myself. I know how hard it is to get back on your feet without a bed to sleep in or a bite in your belly."

More Dissenters Desert Socialized Medicine Plan

By HAL R. COOPER LONDON (AP)—Our doctor is one of only 700 general practitioners in Britain—out of 23,000-odd—who have stayed out of the so-called free national health scheme.

Among the population in general, only two million out of 50 million have declined to use the scheme and insisted on private treatment. These patients still have to pony up a weekly national health contribution, so they pay for their medical treatment twice.

The biggest of the nation's private health insurance groups, which now cover only fees for hospitalization and specialist treatment, has branched out. Now it covers G.P. fees as well. It expects membership, now three quarters of a million, to mushroom. That will mean a demand for more doctors who are free of the state scheme.

Hates Paper Work Our own doctor's main reason for staying out of the state scheme, he said, are that he can make more money in private practice, has a better class of patient, and hates paper work.

He is certainly doing a lot better than the health scheme doctors, who have traded private practice for the security represented by an average annual income of $5,600.

"Before the war I ran with a pretty tough gang of young 'uns," he told an interviewer. "We thought there for a while we were going to be the Scarface Capone mob of London. Well, the police finally persuaded us otherwise."

"Quite a few of the boys wound up inside for one sin or another. Eventually I myself turned to religion and was ordained."

"How and when did you get the idea of making the church into a rouse's dormitory?"

"Well, brother, it goes back about 16 years. In addition to delivering sermons in the church I preach at Speakers' Corner in Hyde Park. A lot of the down and outs used to hit me for the price of a bed—which was never refused if I had the money."

"One day two or three of the boys from the old gang asked me to help them find a place to sleep. I was broke, but there was this big church standing empty every night. I put them up, and I have been putting men like them up ever since."

Valuable Gift Of Books To College

Judge Romulus A. Nunn of New Bern has presented to the East Carolina College Library a 150-volume set of the "War of the Rebellion: Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies."

Judge Nunn is engaged in the practice of law in New Bern and is former Superior Court judge.

"The gift," according to Wendell W. Smiley, East Carolina librarian, "is a valuable addition to the historical and documentary collection at the college."

The books are now available for use by students and others who use the materials in the college library.

Arrangements for placing the "War of the Rebellion" in the college library were made with Judge Nunn by H. Fitzhugh Dade, assistant librarian at East Carolina.

Kidnaped Infant Is Found Safe With Babysitter

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)—A kidnaped infant was found safe Wednesday night in the arms of a chunky, 37-year-old woman who admitted taking him from his crib while she was babysitting five days ago.

Betty Jean Yocom retreated to the bathroom of her darkened home 10 miles from Ontario when she heard FBI agents kicking in the door. Hugged to her bosom was 9-week-old Eric Leon Flores.

In a bedroom the agents found a brand new bassinet and bottle sterilizer and other indications that Mrs. Yocom had lavished a frustrated maternal love on another woman's child.

The baby, ill with a cold when he was taken from beside his sleeping twin brother last Friday, appeared to have been well cared for, the FBI said.

The baby was reunited with his mother, Ruth Flores, 35, widowed mother of six, at the Ontario police station.

Mrs. Flores and the friendly woman she had allowed to sit with her children, faced each other tearfully.

They had first met last Feb. 17 when Mrs. Yocom, calling herself Ann Williams and identifying herself as a social worker from a local church, called on Mrs. Flores to offer any help that might be needed. Mrs. Flores' husband, Joseph, was killed in a gas explosion last summer and the community of Ontario has contributed food, clothing and needed services to the family ever since.

Mrs. Yocom, who is 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighs about 180 pounds, offered to take care of the Flores children. She telephoned the next day and repeated the offer. Last Friday she called at the house again and this time Mrs. Flores agreed to go out with a friend for a few hours, leaving Mrs. Yocom with the children, who range in age from 8 to the infant twins.

When Mrs. Flores returned, one of the twins was gone.

A widespread search was carried out for the baby and his kidnaper. Newspapers published the baby's formula and made front page appeals to the kidnaper to return him. Prayers were offered in churches. Mrs. Flores alternately prayed and wept.

In the end it was the baby himself who led to the capture of Mrs. Yocom. His loud wails made a neighbor suspicious. The FBI was notified.

Mrs. Yocom said she is separated from her third husband, a Los Angeles truck driver, Stephen Yocom. She said she is the mother of a 19-year-old son.

Asked why she took Eric, she said: "He looked so much like my own son when he was a baby."

She was booked for investigation of kidnaping.

Toastmasters Elect Temporary Officers Here

Thomas Finch was named temporary president of the Toastmasters Club which met in Austin building last night.

James Griffin was elected temporary educational vice president; Herbert Corey, secretary-treasurer; M.H. Bynum, sergeant at arms and Jim Lee, publicity chairman. Members of the Goldsboro club were present to conduct last night's second organizational meeting.

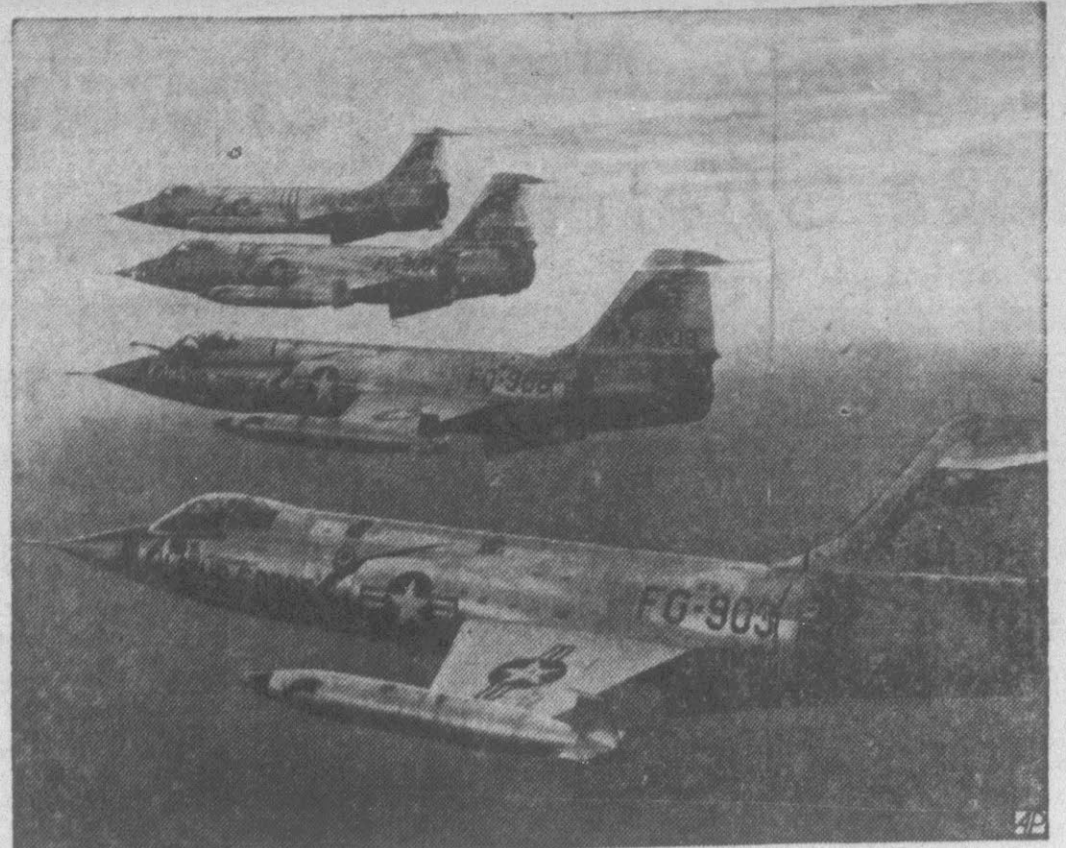

The local Toastmasters now have 11 active members. Nine more are needed to obtain a charter. President Finch asked those interested in joining the club to attend the next meeting.

It will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 123 of Austin building.

New Kind Of Lingo For Teen-Age Set

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The chick in skins took the long and airy and got buzzed by germsville."

Translation: "The girl in a fur coat went on an airplane ride and caught a cold."

This is a rough example of a new kind of talk that is buzzing the teen-age set. Some parents aren't immune, either. Much of it stems from a lad who calls himself Edd Byrnes—"Edward is too formal, Edd too short and I don't like Eddie." He's the guy who plays Kookie on ABC's Friday night exercise in criminalities, "77 Sunset Strip."

Edd was a New York actor who had been doing bits at Warner Brothers. He was cast as a killer in the first "77er," made such a hit that he reformed and became a steady character in the series. And do the teen-agers dig him. His fan mail on the lot ranks with James Garner, right there on top.

Besides being a handsome, wholesome 25-year-old, Edd's appeal dialogue, strictly from hepville. It dates back to swing talk of the '30s with some modern touches.

The adjective "kookie" is the most noted of this new lingo: I find it used almost universally by show folk. Possibly stemming from cuckoo, it describes something wild, weird or wonderful. Synonyms: ways out, cool.

Among Edd's etymology: Don't blow your jets—Don't get angry.

Antsville—A place full of people.

A Washington—Dollar bill.

Pile up the z's—Sleep.

You're getting the beat—You're beginning to understand.

Just about the only sorrow of Edd's newfound fame is that people now expect him to talk like a kook in real life. He's not from squaresville, but he isn't kookie, either. He leads a normal bachelor life in a home just above, oddly enough, the Sunset Strip.

He is so busy that he doesn't have time to join the mushroom people who pack into the Sunset Strip coffee houses. And he wouldn't if he could. "All those kooks do is sit around and stare at each other," he said.

(Mushroom people: Those who come out at night to get their kicks).

Dipped Deeply Into Treasury Of Foundation

NEW YORK (AP) — The W. C. Handy Foundation for the Blind, Inc., and a fund raiser, David A. Ulrey, "seemingly dipped very deeply into a golden barrel for their own selfish purposes," the New York state attorney general's office charged today.

The foundation was established by W. C. Handy, Negro composer of "St. Louis Blues" and scores of other melodies, who died last March 23 at 84. He had been blind for years, and confined to a wheelchair by a stroke toward the end.

Action against the foundation and Ulrey was taken in State Supreme Court by the office of Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz.

An affidavit said "there is no doubt but that a substantial sum" has been "muled from the channels of charity" through actions by Ulrey and the foundation, which was set up to raise money to aid the blind.

The foundation's letterhead lists actress Tallulah Bankhead as a director, and author Pearl S. Buck and Negro musician Nat (King) Cole as members of the advisory board.

The affidavit lists Chauncey Northern, a New York City music teacher, as president of the foundation.

No comment on the attorney general's action was immediately available from Ulrey or any of those connected with the foundation.

The affidavit was attached to an order signed by Justice Edgar J. Nathan which directs Ulrey and the foundation to show cause next Thursday why they should not be restrained from soliciting funds pending further legal action.

'Answering Service' Is Helping The Troubled

By DORMAN CORDELL

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — "Troubled?" the classified advertisement asked. "Maybe the Bible will help. Dial 3-6271 now."

Harry B. read the ad. After 10 years of marriage and two children, Harry and his wife, Betty, were having difficulties.

In desperation he called the number.

"I believe that marriage was saved because of that telephone call," said Carlton Watkins, a Paducah contractor who answered the telephoned plea.

Watkins is a member of "God's Answering Service," a group of Paducahans who are ready at any time of day or night to help persons with spiritual problems.

"Our purpose is primarily evangelistic," Watkins said. "We are interested mostly in winning persons to Christ because we believe that can solve most spiritual problems."

What happened in the case of Harry and Betty B. is typical.

"Two of us went over to see Harry," Watkins said. "We told him we were not marriage counselors. We told him we did know, however, that the basic problem in his marriage was sin. He became a Christian that night. His wife was converted a few nights later."

"Today they have a happy home and they go to church and read the Bible and pray together with their children."

"God's Answering Service" is sponsored by the "Acts 4:20 Club" of Margaret Hank Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Members of other churches also belong.

The only membership requirement is a belief in acting upon the biblical verse (Acts 4:20) which says:

"For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard."

Watkins is president of the Acts 4:20 Club.

"We want to be on call 24 hours a day," he says, "because we

Faces 22-Year Prison Sentence In Bank Holdups

RALEIGH (AP)—A young Baltimore man, described by his attorney as being misguided, faces a 22-year sentence in federal prison for the robbery of two North Carolina banks.

Charles Moran Askew, 22, was sentenced Wednesday by Federal Judge Edwin M. Stanley following guilty pleas. Askew was accused of holding up the Ahoskie Bank last Aug. 29 and taking $7,993 and of robbing the Tar Heel Bank at Winton of approximately the same amount Sept. 26.

George Bason, Askew's court-appointed attorney, told the judge "I have never been connected with a defendant so young and so involved. . . I felt compassion for a young man who could be so misguided."

Askew also is wanted in Maryland on a rape charge.

Mechanization Brings Idleness

BECKLEY, W. Va. (AP)—Mechanization and shrinking markets are throwing more and more West Virginia coal miners out of work, but the unemployed are staying put and living off surplus commodities.

That's what a Senate subcommittee was told Wednesday in Charleston as it opened the first of three hearings in the nation's biggest coal producing state to gather data for bills to provide federal aid to depressed areas.

The subcommittee on production and stabilization is expected to hear similar information here today.

Raymond Lewis, president of United Mine Workers' District 17, spelled out the plight of his miners.

Mechanization and shrinking coal markets slashed the ranks of West Virginia miners from 125,700 in 1948 to 66,800 in 1957, Lewis said.

The brother of UMW President John L. Lewis estimated only 40,000 to 50,000 miners now are working in West Virginia.

He predicted that increasing mechanization could eliminate even more mining jobs.

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope, told his eye trouble would clear up without surgery, was expected to leave for the West Coast today to prepare for a Sunday television show.

In a bulletin Wednesday night from Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center Dr. Algernon B. Reese said: "There is no indication whatever that an operation will be required. Further diagnostic studies are being made in an effort to determine the exact cause."

The Bulletin added: "He may return here next week if further examinations seem advisable."

The hospital said five fans—not identified—have offered to donate an eye to Hope. A hospital spokesman said: "Such a contingency is not being considered."

Hope has a blood clot in a vein behind his left eye which has affected his sight and stability. He suffered an eye hemorrhage soon after returning from a Christmas tour of overseas military bases.

Cite Necessity For Free Press

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—If we're going to have a free world, we must have a free press.

That was the theme of the World Press Congress as it ended Wednesday night with pleas for more and better coverage of world news. No formal action was taken. The congress met for the first time in 33 years to help the world's first school of journalism at the University of Missouri celebrate its golden anniversary.

The motto was "A strong free press for a better free world." To achieve that, the delegates set these chief goals in their three days of discussion:

1. Seek greater press freedom in all nations through elimination of governmental restrictions and outside influence.
2. Improve public understanding of world problems by better reporting of foreign news.
3. Strengthen public confidence in newspapers, radio and television through strict accuracy and objectivity.
4. Seek ways to restore the privileges of a free press to journalists caught behind the Iron Curtain.

Pitt School Children To See Annual Plays For Young People

More than 3,000 pupils in Pitt County are looking forward to seeing the annual children's play for young people presented by the East Carolina College Playhouse in cooperation with the Greenville Branch of the AAUW.

"Hansel and Gretel," in a dramatization by Madge Miller, has been announced as this year's play. Performances are scheduled for March 20 and 23 in the McGinnis auditorium on the campus and March 24 at the Eppes School in Greenville.

Daniel A. Yanchisin, senior from Kinston, will direct the play. For the past four years he has participated in activities of the Playhouse as actor, technician, and stage manager. Dr. Robert T. Rickert, assistant director of the dramatic club, will act as consultant to the cast and the production staff.

"Hansel and Gretel," a beloved folk tale, will be presented in a two-hour production. Three colorful and picturesque settings and a musical score will contribute to the attractiveness of the Miller dramatization.

Edward E. Lancaster of Vanceboro as Hansel and Connie Erwin of Roanoke Rapids as Gretel will play the leading roles of the children who, lost in the forest, became captives of a witch, played by Barbara Wilson of Greenville. Sue Lassited of Four Oaks has the part of Trudi the cat, and Georgia Parrott of New Bern that of the Forest Fairy. Others in the cast include James E. Trice of Blades, Del.; Elizabeth Smith of Fountain; Martha Ann Davis of Hobgood; Faye Hill of Kinston; and Betsy Thompson of Raleigh. The series of annual children's plays presented by the East Carolina Playhouse and the local AAUW was begun in 1941 and has become increasingly popular through the years. Last year's production of "The Sleeping Beauty" attracted audiences of approximately 3,500 young people from Greenville and other Pitt County schools.

LONG HAUL. U. S. enlisted men, members of Army's survival team, haul equipment on toboggan during long trek over snow-covered tundra of Canadian northland.

American army men are getting survival training at one of the coldest and most desolate spots on the North American continent—the trackless, snow-covered tundra of the Canadian north country.

Each year, a number of officers and enlisted men are assigned for such training to the Army's arctic test center at Fort Churchill, Manitoba, a frigid post on the shore of Hudson Bay.

The training program consists of eight hours of indoctrination and 48 hours in the field.

During the indoctrination, the troops are briefed on first aid measures to be used in the Arctic, and the fitting and use of proper clothing. They're taught also to use the tools contained in the arctic survival kits, the use of various types of stoves, lamps, cooking utensils and how to pack and lash gear.

For the field training, the men march snowshoed toward a camp site, miles away. Each man carries his own equipment, weighing about 40 pounds. The heavier stuff is lashed to toboggans. At camp, the men live in tents or snow caves and igloos which they learn how to build themselves. Faced by the worst Arctic conditions, they learn how to overcome it all.

Major Winter Storm Pounding Central States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A major winter storm pounded the nation's midlands today with snow, cold and strong winds.

The snow storm, moving rapidly after lashing wide areas in Colorado and Wyoming, showed no letup as it spread east and southward.

The snow belt stretched from north Kansas through eastern South Dakota, across Iowa and extreme northern Missouri and headed into northern sections of Illinois and Indiana. Heaviest falls from 6 to 8 inches, were from eastern Nebraska through north-west Iowa.

Winds of 20 to 30 m.p.h. blew the fresh snow into huge drifts in many areas and created hazardous driving conditions.

South of the snow belt, rain and some hail pelted wide areas through southeast Kansas, most Missouri into eastern Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi. Violent storms were indicated in some southern sections. Rainfall measured from one to two inches.

Damaging thunderstorms struck the Dallas-Fort Worth area Wednesday night. Wind gusts up to 60 m.p.h. smashed dozens of plate glass windows in Fort Worth. Ten airplanes were damaged when a hangar at a private air field was blown down.

Temperatures were near zero in the extreme northern Great Lakes region. But they rose rapidly to the 20s in the southern Great Lakes and westward across the Dakotas and Nebraska into the Rockies. In the higher elevations of the Rockies readings were below zero. It was -12 at Fraser, Colo.

Temperatures east of the cold air were mostly in the 40s and 50s except for the 30s in the northern sections of the Ohio Valley and the north Atlantic coast states.

Retired Old Salt Finds His Memories Are Sweet

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Fifty-odd years ago, Captain Bayard Foulke's father said hell wasn't hot enough yet for his seafaring son.

"And I guess it's still a little cool for me," the salty old captain grins as he relives his days before the mast with paint and brush.

An ancient but lively mariner at 80, Cap'n Foulke took up painting when he quit the sea. Now, in a studio crowded with mementos of a busy and rambunctious past, he turns out paintings of the ships he once sailed.

"Never had a lesson in my life," he snorted over a whisky-and-water at a recent interview. "But there's no one can catch me up on how a ship is rigged. I may not be a great painter, but I know how a ship's sails should be."

Bayard Fish Foulke, to give him his full name, was originally a New Yorker and is connected to a number of top social register families. He was born on his family's Oyster Bay, Long Island, estate, adjoining that of Theodore Roosevelt. His father, Theodore Brion Foulke, was once president of the New York Cotton Exchange.

As a youngster, Foulke spent his time painting boats and handling them on the waters of Long Island Sound. At 15, he was taking excursion parties out in his own 40-foot craft. He borrowed the money to buy it from his mother, and had almost enough to pay her back when the rest of the family found out what he was up to.

Officially impressed once he was caught in a heavy fog on an excursion. His seamanship in bringing the boat back to the dock impressed one of the passengers, an official of an Atlantic passenger line, and young Foulke was offered a job. His father got wind of it and called him on the carpet.

"He sat there, twirling those long mustaches he wore, and asked me if I was determined to go to sea. I said yes, and the next day he got me a job on the Caraco, which some relatives of ours owned."

He bunked in the forecabin of the Caraco with 40 men and a full complement of roaches and bedbugs, and two weeks later found out that instead of a two-week cruise to South America, the ship was headed around Cape Horn to Australia.

That was the beginning of a three-year journey and a 50-year career at sea. He came back to Oyster Bay with a model of the Caraco whittled out of driftwood and his second mate's papers.

When the elder Foulke realized that his son was set on the sea, he delivered himself of the remark about the eternal fires.

After World War I, he settled into a routine of merchant commands and finally decided to call it quits, since he was financially independent. His interest turned to painting. He started slowly and gradually mastered his new craft. Now he can turn out a major canvas in a couple of weeks, and smaller ones in a matter of days. "I've had a long life and a hap-

The Reason Why British Dramas Featured On TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Somebody asked why so many British actors and actresses are appearing on television. The answer is that so many British dramas are appearing on television.

The present TV drama season, with the exception of "Playhouse 90" offerings, almost makes us seem to be still a cultural colony of the dear old Empire.

Look at the playbill: "Berkeley Square," "What Every Woman Knows," "The Winslow Boy," "Ten Little Indians," "Hamlet," etc., etc. "Du Pont Show of the Month" has presented only one contemporary American play, "Harvey" with the exception of its well-done "The Lonely Heart," which was as British in its values and feeling as Buckingham Palace.

A typical example of a well-made, sturdy British play is "The Winslow Boy," which made some solid dramatic statements on matters of faith and loyalty and justice. Fredric March said he was happy to appear in it. TV version for just those reasons and because — unlike so many teleplays — it had a third act.

But those characteristics are not the hallmarks only of British plays. Equally fine craftsmanship and dramatic statements were to be found in such an excellent original teleplay as J. P. Miller's "The Years of Wine and Roses" on "Playhouse 90."

A basic difference between British and American drama is that ours tends to be more controversial. In dramatic terms, how can you tell a good story if you don't have a good controversy? In television terms, how can you have a good contemporary controversy if you have a sponsor?

"Playhouse 90" has managed it frequently, but others shy away from it. And that is why we're seeing so much British drama on the home screen.

When the controversy is removed to another country, and generally another time, no one is offended. Britain, one of our dominant influences from the old world in language, culture and customs, offers Americans easily identifiable types of characters and situations.

The people who advertise products on television are altogether too frightened of offending some potential buyers.

From the sponsor's viewpoint the western drama is even safer than the British drama. It transports an audience to a never-never land in another century where there's plenty of dramatic controversy with a bang-bang, where good is good and bad is bad and never the twain shall meet. No one ever is offended either — except a few of us Indians and badmen.

Impala Sport Coupe—like every Chevy—has Safety Plate Glass all around.

Chevy stops quickest... goes farthest on a gallon!

Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in a test of repeated stops at highway speeds conducted and certified by NASCAR*. Chevy also won over the other two in a NASCAR economy run—with the highest gas mileage for 6's and V8's at cruising speeds of just over 55 miles an hour.

Here's a car that knows how to get the most out of a gallon. And it's the only car in its field to bring you hydraulic valve lifters in all popular engines—6 and V8. This means smoother, quieter performance for you.

There are many other advances just as fundamental as the efficiency of Chevrolet's engines and the dependability of its new brakes (with more lining area than any other low-priced car). But why not stop by your dealer's and let Chevy do its own sweet talking!

Twenty-four prospective members of the third Optimist Club organizational meeting were present last night for organizational meeting.

FASCINATION — Glass-blower Ernest Jones has rapt audience in William Chaplin Jr. as he shows his art with glass bird at research center in Nutley, N. J.

A temporary organization was established and the following men were named to serve as temporary officers: Carl T. Knott, chairman; Aubrey Taylor, Mac Nicholson, Eugene Carawan, Dr. C. F. McAndrews, vice chairman; Walter R. Whitehurst, secretary-treasurer.

Knott stated that the three organizational meetings held to date have been "very successful".

"There are now 23 applicants for charter membership plus many others who have indicated their desire to become charter members," he stated.

Parker Helms, president of the Rocky Mount Optimist Club and Charles Davenport, vice president of the Wilson Club, led a team of six organizers to Greenville to assist local Optimists for the third time.

Knott said there is to be one more meeting prior to the official chartering meeting. The next meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the Silo Restaurant next Wednesday.

The chairman stated that several occupational classifications for club membership remain open. Persons interested in joining should contact one of the temporary officers.

The three major objectives of an Optimist Club are:

- (1) To internationally develop optimism as a philosophy of life.
- (2) To promote an active interest in good government and civic affairs; to inspire respect for law, to promote patriotism and work for international accord and friendship among people.

(3) To aid and encourage the development of youth throughout the world.

The slogan of Optimist International is "Friend of the Boy". There are now 1,007 Optimist Clubs with more than 63,400 members.

House Explosion Kills 2 People

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—An explosion lifted and ripped apart a two-story frame house early today, killing two persons.

The victims were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ruohonen, both believed to be in their 70s.

Two others in the house were found alive.

Martha Ruohonen, about 40, suffered from burns and shock. She was unconscious in the wreckage when firefighters arrived.

Her son, Gary, 10, was found in a dazed condition on the street nearby. He suffered only minor burns and bruises.

The explosion was witnessed by the engineer of a passing freight train.

He leaned on the engine's horn until he roused the residents of the entire neighborhood.

Allied Defense Moves Expected

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—An increase in U.S. and Allied defense measures is foreseen by officials who predict tensions will mount over the next few months between the Soviet Union and the western powers.

In spite of moves on both sides toward negotiation, Washington authorities are confident that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev intends to put on much more pressure to get the Western powers out of Berlin.

They expect a period of extreme tension and war threats in the late spring or early summer and say privately the Western Allies must be in position to handle that kind of situation.

One possible move reported under consideration at high levels of the government is a calling up of some military reserve units. The range of measures which may be taken here and in Europe in preparation for a showdown is one of the subjects likely to be discussed this month by President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. A variety of other subjects bearing on negotiations with the U.S.S.R. also will come up when Macmillan comes here in mid-March.

Indications of advance planning to meet the predicted emergency came from President Eisenhower at his news conference Wednesday.

At one point he said that there probably will be a need for a stepped up air alert "if this situation develops along the lines that it appears to be going." This was a reference to the operation of the Strategic Air Command.

But Eisenhower said he considers satisfactory "for the present moment" the ground alert system now in effect. Under this system, planes and crews are kept in a state of readiness to take off in 15 minutes.

At another point Eisenhower spoke out strongly against any effort to keep the nation in a state of general mobilization. Such an effort would convert a democracy into a garrison state and divert resources from the normal operation of a free economy, he said.

"This is, to my mind, not only futile. This would be the most disastrous thing we could do," he added.

The President did not, however, rule out steps short of general mobilization should the situation grow progressively more serious.

Reports from London said Macmillan is planning to discuss a number of problems looking toward negotiations between the Western powers and the Soviet government. Among these problems is the possibility of thinning out Western and Soviet forces stationed in central Europe.

Eisenhower made it clear that he is not interested in disengagement unless there can be a general agreement "in which we have confidence."

Health Dept. To Step Up Program

A stepped-up program of restaurant inspection and enforcement of food-handling regulations was announced today by the Pitt County Health Department's Sanitation Section.

The new program calls for greater self-inspection by restaurant owners, according to Chief Sanitarian E.L. Kilpatrick who said, "Restaurant operators should accept greater responsibility for sanitary conditions of their establishments if they expect to receive their share of the profitable tourist trade."

Kilpatrick added, "It is the duty of the manager of each public eating place to assure the public of clean, wholesome food which is stored, handled and served in such a manner as to prevent contamination which might lead to food poisoning or other disease. Many travelers have learned from unhappy experience that it is well to pick their eating places with care, and to turn thumbs down on any doubtful looking restaurants."

Food poisoning outbreaks have been rare in Pitt County, Kilpatrick said. He warned, however, "The danger is ever present and can be avoided only by constant vigilance and strictest observance of safe food-handling methods.

"Therefore," he added, "managers are urged to be their own inspectors and check every point of their operations. The Health Department suggests complete inspections at least twice a day or immediate correction of any unclean conditions."

Kilpatrick cited need for particular attention to unsanitary practices on the part of employees and sanitation of utensils.

The chief sanitarian expressed satisfaction with cooperation the program has been receiving from the majority of restaurant operators. He also said the Health Department is prepared to give all possible assistance involving sanitation problems of individual restaurants.

Lenoir Rhyne To NAAIA Tourney

SPINDALE, N.C. (AP)—Thanks to a real good night at the free throw line, the Lenoir Rhyne Bears have earned their second berth in a row in the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament at Kansas City.

The foul-shooting proficiency carried the Bears to a 48-42 victory over Western Carolina, North State Conference champion, in the District 26 NAAIA finals here Wednesday night.

The Bears cashed in on 24 of 32 chances they had at the charity stripe. Western Carolina, which outshot the Bears 18-12 in field goals, got only 13 free throw opportunities and could cash only six of them.

Grid Banquet Friday Night

The annual ECC Football Banquet will be held tomorrow night in the new cafeteria at East Carolina College. Time for the event is 7:00.

Highlighting the banquet will be the Senior awards which will be given to the five seniors on the club—Tommy Nash, Lee Atkinson, Bobby Perry, Charlie Bishop, and Randell Holmes.

Pettit Bids For Record-Setter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Pettit goes after his greatest single season conquest of the National Basketball Assn. record book tonight in Philadelphia.

When the St. Louis Hawks' star faces the Philadelphia Warriors in the second game of a doubleheader he will need only 18 points to break George Yardley's record of 2,001 points in a single season.

Yardley, playing with Detroit, set his record last year.

Pettit scored 32 Wednesday night as the Hawks were dumped 127-97 by the Detroit Pistons. But in warming up for tonight's job, the former Louisiana State All America set two NBA records. His 10 field goals gives him 680, one more than Clyde Lovellette's 1957-58 total at Cincinnati. He has scored 8382 foul throws this year, getting 15 against Minneapolis to top Yardley's mark of 808.

Detroit opened a 40-point lead in the third quarter to hand the Western division leaders their worst defeat of the year. Rookie Shellie McMillon paced Detroit with 23 points.

The Boston Celtics take a stab at the record book tonight against Syracuse. Their 120-114 victory over the Nats Wednesday night gave them 51 for the year, tying the record set in 1951 by Syracuse, Minneapolis and Rochester.

Chicod Cagers Gain Tourney Semi-Finals

AHOSKIE—Chicod, regular season Pitt County champions, kept alive in district play last night by downing a lofty Griggs High five, 60-55.

The win advanced Chicod into the semi-finals which will be held Friday night in the Ahoskie gym.

Phillip Smith, a senior forward, led the winners with 34 points and Ray Fornes, a sophomore, aided his efforts with 13.

Chicod was behind 24-23 at halftime but came back with a big third quarter and held on for their final eight minutes to record their 60-55 upset.

Coach Leroy Pittman was well pleased with his club's performance. "We shot well and were hitting but I think we were pretty lucky too. All my boys played an excellent ball game. They have an excellent team and one of the tallest high school clubs that I have ever seen. I think the turning point was the fact that we just outshouted them," states the Chicod coach.

McLain, a 6-3 forward, was high for the losers with 26 points. Cartwright, 6-4 center, was held to 10 points.

Chicod will play the winner of tonight's Winsor-Gatesville contest. The game will head Friday's slate and will begin at 7:00. The finals of the tournament will be held Saturday night and the winner will advance on to the State finals.

Rain Washed Out Golf Tournament

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—An early morning downpour following all night rains, washed out today's starting round of the $20,000 New Orleans Open golf tournament.

By 6 a. m. today a total of 2.20 inches of rain fell on the city.

Tournament officials were undecided on future rounds, but apparently 18-hole sessions would be held Friday and Saturday, weather permitting, and 36 holes Sunday.

Defending champion Billy Casper, despite a recent illness, was in the big field.

Casper, of Chula Vista, Calif., won the 1958 tournament by upsetting Ken Venturi in a sudden death playoff.

Their Promotion Stunt Backfired

Lemon Decides Can't Keep Up

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—"I just couldn't keep up with the young fellows any more."

That was Bob Lemon's explanation Wednesday when it was announced that he had decided to retire as a pitcher and accept an offer to serve the Cleveland Indians as a scout and trouble shooter.

Manager Joe Gordon made the announcement just before an intrasquad game in which the 39-year-old veteran was scheduled to test his ailing right arm.

Hoping to make a comeback this spring, Lemon came to the Cleveland camp to "help out any way I can, even if it's relief pitching."

He was the last survivor of the staff that pitched the Tribe to an American League pennant and a World Series championship in 1948. He won two series games.

Lemon won 20 or more games in seven seasons in compiling a string of 207 major league victories against 123 defeats. His best season was in 1954, another pennant year for the Indians, when he appeared in 36 games and had a 23-7 record for a .767 average.

Gordon said Lemon would be listed as one of the Tribe's regular coaches and also would do some scouting for the club and some coaching in the minor leagues.

Collapses, Still Talks Like Champ

NEW YORK (AP)—Abe Attell, former world featherweight champion and a member of Boxing's Hall of Fame, collapsed in a restaurant Wednesday night, but he still talked like a champ from a hospital bed.

"I'm all right," he said. "I've got a touch of the flu, but I'll be out of here by tomorrow. Why son, I expect to live to be 100."

Attell, a native of San Francisco who held the featherweight crown from 1904 to 1912, is 75.

Dr. Sidney Rubenstein said Attell suffered a "circulatory condition not considered serious."

First non-stop Paris to New York flight was made by French Capt. D. Coste and Maurice Bellonte in 1930.

Nino Valdes' Championship Dream Shattered By KO At Hands Of An Underdog

By WHITNEY MARTIN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The heavyweight championship dreams and claims of Nino Valdes and his slightly articulate manager, Bobby Gleason, are in the nightmare class today.

The massive Cuban was thoroughly beaten and eventually knocked out at the Miami Beach Auditorium Wednesday night by a 4-1 underdog, Charley Powell of San Diego, Calif.

Gleason had claimed Valdes was the real champion. He belittled Floyd Patterson's title.

The end of the bloody, bruising, mauling affair came at 2:03 of the eighth round when referee Cy Gotfried stopped the contest as the exhausted Valdes, seemingly flabby at 224 pounds, sat on his haunches. Powell weighed 213 1/2.

Valdes had gone down twice before in the round, once following a left and a right to the jaw and a right to the back, and once when the ex-pro football player draped him over the middle strand of the ring ropes.

Gotfried said those were the only two knockdowns of the round and that Valdes went down the third time on a stumble. The referee ruled he was too exhausted to continue.

Valdes made violent protest in the ring, and later in his dressing room was semi-hysterical. He thought Gotfried had stopped the fight because he was down three times. There is no Florida rule that says a fight must be stopped when a man has been down three times.

It was a confident Valdes who answered the first bell, and he went through the first round almost casually. In the second round, however, Powell staggered him with a left hook, splitting his lip. From that point on the weighty Cuban was fighting for survival.

He suffered a gash over his right eye in the third and thereafter presented a gory picture as he tried to ward off the aggress-sive Californian, who crowded in and refused to give his bigger opponent room to unlimber his heavy guns.

In the seventh one of Powell's robust left hooks sent Valdes tumbling through the ropes.

Powell was ahead on the cards of all three officials when the end came. The nationally televised bout drew 2,323 fans who paid $6.04.

West Is Tabbed 'Player Of Year'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Jerry West, West Virginia's candidate for All-America, today was named Southern Conference basketball player of the year by the Southern Conference Sports Writers Assn.

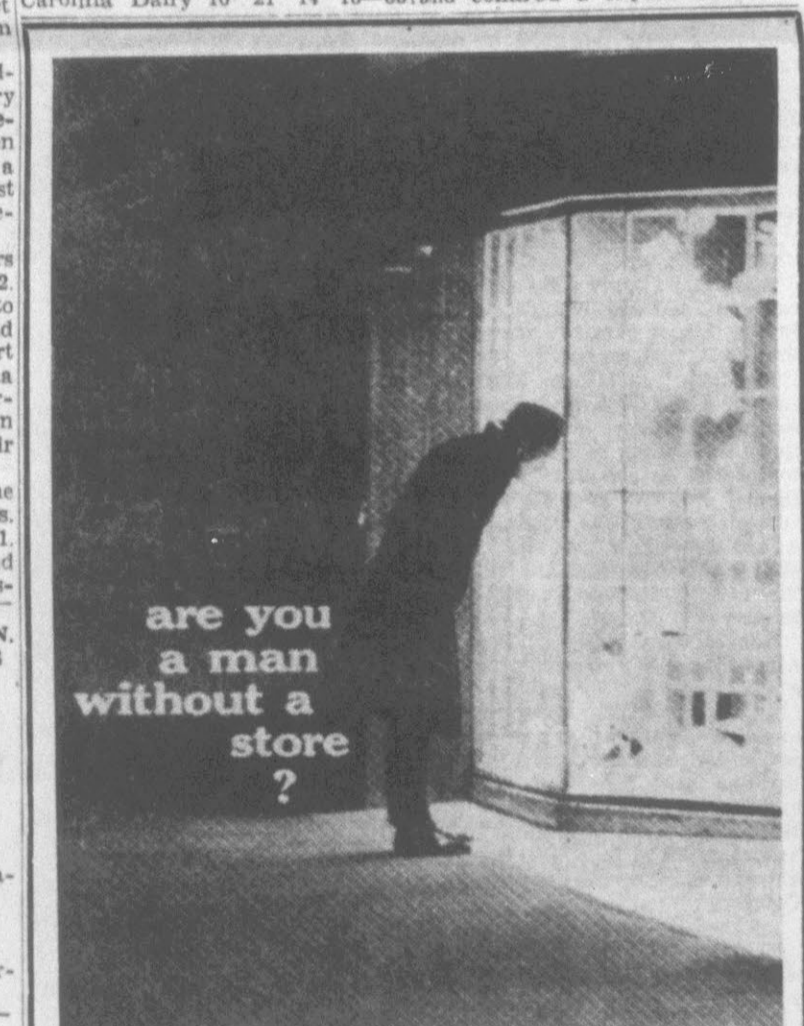

West got the nod from 30 of the 31 persons participating in the group's poll. The other vote went to Bobby Ayersman, high scoring sophomore from Virginia Tech.

West, who'll receive the Malcolm U. Pitt Award at the league's spring meeting in May, is the second West Virginia player to win it. Rod Hundley was named tops in the league in 1957. Last year the winner was Dom Flora of Washington and Lee.

A 6-3 junior from Cabin Creek, W.Va., West scored 660 points for the Mountaineers in 26 games this year, plus 83 in the conference tournament last week. He was the ringleader of the team that stretched West Virginia's unbeaten skein in conference play to 50 straight games.

Arming Forces To Defend Haiti

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo's government says it is arming a "foreign legion" to defend neighboring Haiti, a traditional blood enemy, against the threat of invasion.

Both Haiti's President Francois Duvalier and Trujillo's dictatorship are reported marked for overthrow by forces plotting under the benevolent eye of revolutionary regimes in Cuba and Venezuela. Haiti and the Dominican Republic share the island of Hispaniola, in the Caribbean.

Africans Resort To Spear And Ax

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (AP)—Africans took up spear and war ax Wednesday night in the conflict between government forces and nationalists in this British protectorate.

Security forces shot and killed a native in a clash with a hostile crowd of spear-bearing Africans at a roadblock near Chateop, in Nyasaland's central province.

The clash came after a day of comparative quiet. But native resentment still ran high at the British government's proclamation of a state of emergency, the outlawing of the African National party and the deportation of the leading nationalist, Dr. Hastings Banda.

Johnny Saxton Nabbed In Apartment Burglary

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Saxton, who earned a quarter of a million dollars as world's welterweight champion, has been arrested in a burglary which netted $5,200 in cash.

Spotted Wednesday night on a fire escape of a Jamaica, Queens, apartment house, the one-time Negro ring ace was captured by police, but not before he put up a battle.

He was charged with burglary and held for a hearing. Saxton, 28, lost his title in 1956. He told police all the money he made in his 10-year professional career was gone, and that he owes $10,000 in back taxes. "I'm not working. I need money. I'm spending most of my

Grandpa Right; It Was Colder

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A University of Wisconsin meteorologist says Grandpa is right about those winters when he was young. They were colder, especially in the eastern part of the country.

Reid Bryson, head of the meteorology department, said winter temperatures in the North Atlantic states are up an average of 10 degrees since 1885. On the other hand, the Pacific Coast area is getting cooler. He added that meteorologists don't know why.

HIDDEN TALENT

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Police found out that one of 30 prisoners being taken to the city prison farm had a hidden talent.

He picked the lock on the paddy wagon Wednesday and 10 prisoners hopped out before guards corrected the situation. Three were recaptured.

Demoted For His Slow Reaction

RALEIGH (AP) — Handling of a telephone call reporting a bank robbery has brought a reduction in rank for a veteran Raleigh police officer.

Police Chief Tom Davis announced that G. E. Lasater, 62, has been demoted from lieutenant to sergeant and transferred from duties with the police desk and radio room.

The manager of a branch bank which was robbed of $17,000 Tuesday said the phone rang several times but was unanswered when he called police headquarters. Then he called the main bank office, and an official there contacted police.

Lasater took the call, but referred it to the detective division instead of immediately dispatching patrol cars to the bank scene, Chief Davis said. As a result, the detective bureau had to call back to the desk and order cars out, he added.

The chief said Lasater "has been warned before for similar violations" in handling calls. There was no reduction in pay ordered for Lasater, who has been on the police force since 1934. The bank robber escaped.

Strong Faith In Early Statehood

HONOLULU (AP) — Federal Judge J. Frank McLaughlin is so confident of statehood for Hawaii soon that he has shaved off his beard.

Back in August, 1957 McLaughlin grew a beard and vowed to keep it until the territory is granted statehood.

But he showed up in court cleaned-shaven recently and announced: "I have every confidence that this Congress will provide statehood for Hawaii."

Chain Observing Its Anniversary

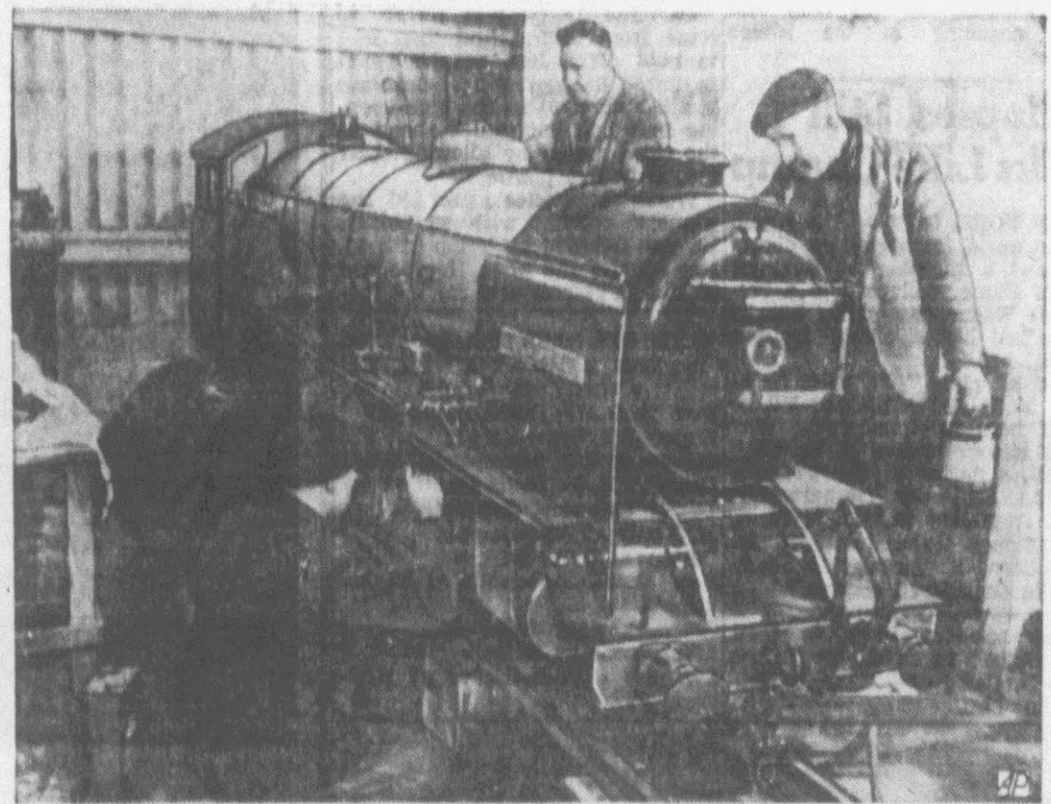

The Winn-Dixie food store chain is celebrating its 40th anniversary this week in its stores throughout the country.

From its beginning the chain has grown to its present size of 607 stores operating in 11 southeastern states.

The food chain has set up warehouses in centrally located areas to service its stores. The Greenville store receives its merchandise from the mammoth warehouse facilities in Raleigh.

The departments maintained in these stores include: Health and Beauty Aids, Candies, Soft Drinks, Meats, Produce, Magazines and Periodicals, Housewares, Frozen Foods, Bread and Cakes, Dairy and Poultry Items.

In planning and building the Winn-Dixie stores the executives of the organization have endeavored to give its customers a wide variety of quality merchandise displayed in attractive stores, and through the use of spacious parking areas, it has provided the utmost in shopping convenience.

Former DI Now Hunting For Job

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Matthew C. McKeon, the former drill instructor who led the famous Parris Island, S.C., "Death March," is job-hunting after 13 years as a Marine.

He joined his wife and three children here after receiving a medical discharge at Cherry Point, N. C., because of two ruptured discs in his back.

McKeon, who was 20 when he joined the Corps, isn't too sure about his civilian future.

He added, however, that "I'm seeking no favors. All I want is a job to support my family."

McKeon was convicted by a general court martial of negligent homicide and drinking on duty when six members of his recruit platoon drowned during a disciplinary night march at Parris Island three years ago.

His sentence included a bad conduct discharge and nine months in prison. The Secretary of the Navy reduced the sentence to three months in the brig and reduction in rank from sergeant to private.

After serving his term in the brig, McKeon vowed to become "the best private in the Corps."

He was transferred to Cherry Point and assigned to clerical duties. He was promoted to corporal last summer.

A medical board last month found him unfit for further duty because of his back.

Now is the time to prepare your vacation cabin for a shooting summer.

After the family and the guests take over, there will be little time for needed upkeep and repair. Simple steps taken now can save time and money — and reserve the summer for relaxation.

Nature carries on constant warfare against the buildings of man, and is especially militant against dwellings not occupied the year around.

Dividends Paid For New Church

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn. (AP) — The First Presbyterian Church's new $200,000 sanctuary has just about everything the 56-member congregation could want. And it's all paid for.

How could such a small group pay cash?

In 1949, the church received a gift of stock from the late Richard S. Reynolds, Sr., president of the Reynolds Metals Co.

By last year the stock had increased in value enough to pay the costs of the new building.

that connections and mountings are tight. Sealed units require virtually no care. Lubricate others according to manufacturer's instructions.

WATER — Now the water can be turned on. There may be some discoloration, so let water run until clear. Broken pipes will make themselves all too evident with a spray of water. There may be slow leaks at connections with gaskets or packing, so allow time for swelling that will probably stop the drip. See that water traps on sewer and drains are filled so odors and gasses can't enter cabin.

STRUCTURAL — Don't panic if the windows and doors stick and DO NOT start whittling away. They are probably swollen by moisture and should be allowed plenty of time to dry.

GENERAL INSPECTION — After the specific checks are made, inspect the entire cabin, inside and out, to spot damage or things that MIGHT give trouble later on. List what you find.

REPAIRS — While the list is fresh, make needed repairs and do the necessary fixing up. Things left until vacation are likely never to get done.

Treacherous Footing In Managing The National Debt

Editor's Note: There is increasing talk in Washington that the Treasury's current borrowing problems may be the prelude to more serious trouble. The possibilities are canvassed in this, the third of four articles on financing the national debt.

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Managing a record national debt is like walking a high wire without the consolation of a safety net.

The footing is treacherous because lenders have lost much of their enthusiasm for Treasury securities — Uncle Sam's I.O.U.'s. Fearing rising interest rates and the possibility of inflation, they're reluctant to make loans on anything but a short term basis. Unfortunately, Uncle Sam now has to borrow more money than ever before—just when lenders are balky. The national debt already has reached about 286 billion dollars and is headed higher, if only temporarily. Real trouble could develop out of the fact that the Treasury has had to do most of its recent borrowing on a short term basis. This is the type of borrowing which holds the greatest inflation potential because bank credit is the biggest single source of short-term loans.

Perhaps more important, short-term loans have to be refinanced (that is, the money has to be borrowed again) almost before Uncle Sam can draw a breath.

Since last July, the Treasury has raised new cash and renewed old loans amounting to 53½ billion dollars. Except for about 2½ billion dollars, all of this was obtained on a short term basis. More than 33 billion dollars of the loans obtained or renewed since last July will come due between now and Dec. 31.

Adding to the problem, about two billion dollars of loans obtained before last July also will come due. And the government will have to raise about 10 billion dollars in new cash—more if the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 is in the red.

What if the Treasury has to do all this 1959 borrowing on a short term basis?

At the end of 1958, the Treasury figured that 7½ billion dollars of the national debt would come due within one year. That includes regular weekly issues of Treasury securities not counted in the figures given earlier.

If, during the rest of 1959, the government could obtain no loans for a period longer than one year, this figure would mount to 82½ billion dollars by next Dec. 31. If such a situation persisted through 1962, with more of the present longer term bonds becoming due, the debt due in one year would soar to 129½ billion dollars. And that is assuming balanced budgets from now on.

Under present conditions, the government couldn't hope to borrow 129 billion dollars in a single year without inviting disaster. In fact, it would be in deep trouble before that point was reached.

History offers some encouragement. Conditions change. A year ago there was recession and ample chance for long-term borrowing. Who can say what the next 12 months will bring?

One well known mutual fund specializing in investment in growth stocks recently commented publicly:

"We are confident that as time goes on, institutional investors will place greater emphasis on the purchase of top-grade bonds yielding 4 per cent to 5 per cent and less emphasis on growth stocks yielding ½ of 1 per cent to 3 per cent."

If that sort of thinking spreads, the Treasury's problems may ease sooner than most people expect.

Some observers, however, see yet another source of trouble ahead. They believe the government will strain the supply of money available for short-term loans in 1959. Here is their argument:

In 1958, the recession helped the Treasury borrow huge sums on a short term basis. Businessmen had reduced their inventories sharply and, with most firms operating below capacity, didn't spend money expanding their plants on a vast scale.

Corporations had idle cash which went into short-term Treasury securities. In effect, businessmen rescued the government from having to do most of its borrowing through inflationary bank loans.

This year, the argument goes, inventories will be rebuilt because of economic recovery and businessmen will spend more on their businesses. They won't be able to help out as they did last year.

The Treasury challenges this argument. Officials say that, for

Breaking Up Sidewheeler

By A. F. MAHAN JR.
TAWAS CITY, Mich. (AP) — The last of the once-famous D. & C. fleet of swift, luxurious Great Lakes passenger ships soon will be no more.

She is the Western States, a 350-foot side wheeler with 263 staterooms in tiered decks.

Acetylene torches and a derrick are tearing her to pieces now at the Tawas City Municipal Dock. The steel hull, with its innards of engines and boilers, will be towed to Bay City in April and cut into scrap.

Then the six-ship fleet of the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co.

will be dead and gone, and with it an era that stretched back to gaslights. D. & C. began operating on the Great Lakes 108 years ago.

The only passenger ships left that cruise the lakes extensively are the Georgian Bay Line's North American and South American, and they fall far short of the criss-crossing wakes which the D. & C. queens once cut through America's inland seas.

Sisters Died Sooner
The Western States evaded the wrecker's axe longer than her five sisters, but ended up ignobly and alone, tied up and frozen stiff in Saginaw Bay ice in 1950, when the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co. ceased operations.

With the others gone or going to the scrap heap, a bid was made in 1955 to keep the Western States afloat in all her by-gone elegance.

She was refurbished to the tune of $150,000 and towed here from Detroit to become what may have been the world's first "Flotel."

But the idea of making her a floating hotel and tourist attraction didn't pan out.

Robert L. Rosen, president of Lake Shore Steel, Inc., of Detroit, poured in most of the refurbishing money. He thought sentimentalists who mourned the lines' passing would rejoice and flock to the Western States.

Response Fell Short

Some did, but not enough. Rosen recalled later:

"The letters I've had, I think everyone who ever spent a honeymoon on a D. & C. boat has written. But when his operating losses mounted to an estimated $100,000 plus by September, 1957, Rosen closed down the flotel."

He offered to sell for $75,000, a mere fraction of its replacement cost and far below the estimated two million dollars it cost to build at Wyandotte shipyards in 1902.

Marine Salvage Corp. of Detroit finally acquired the Western States, then sold it to Abraham Mono's Bay City Scrap Co.

What was the final price? "Just over $30,000," was Mono's answer as he signaled a derrick to reach for some more of the 1,000 tons of super-structure he plans to haul down by April.

Below him, standing on ice, men with acetylene torches cut at the vessel's two giant paddle wheels.

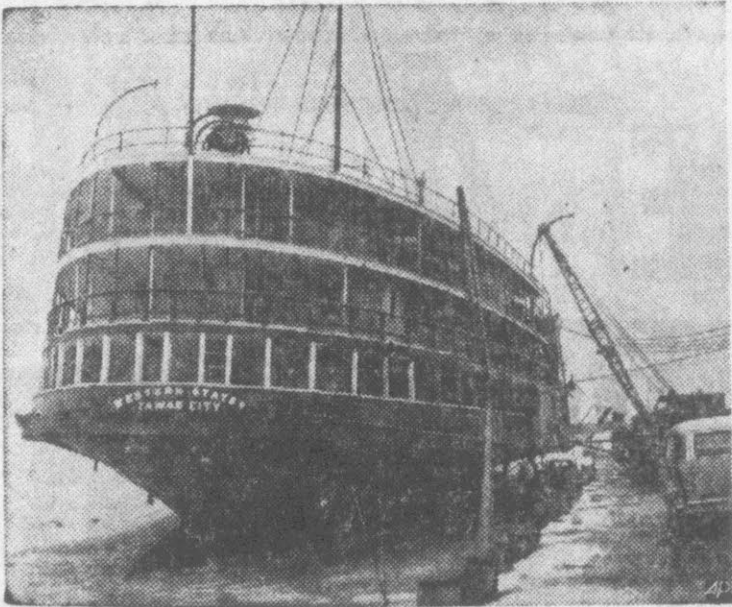

They were the last paddle wheel left on a Great Lakes passenger boat.

Boy Has Small Sugar Factory

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Bernard Hynes, a 17-year-old Denver high school student, figures he has the world's smallest beet sugar factory. It is mounted on a 6 by 4 plywood panel.

Hynes cuts up his sugar beets by hand and starts them through the digester for boiling, carbonation, filtration, sulfonation and finally to be evaporated and crystallized.

He's never seen the inside of a real beet sugar factory. He got the idea for his small factory in a chemistry book.

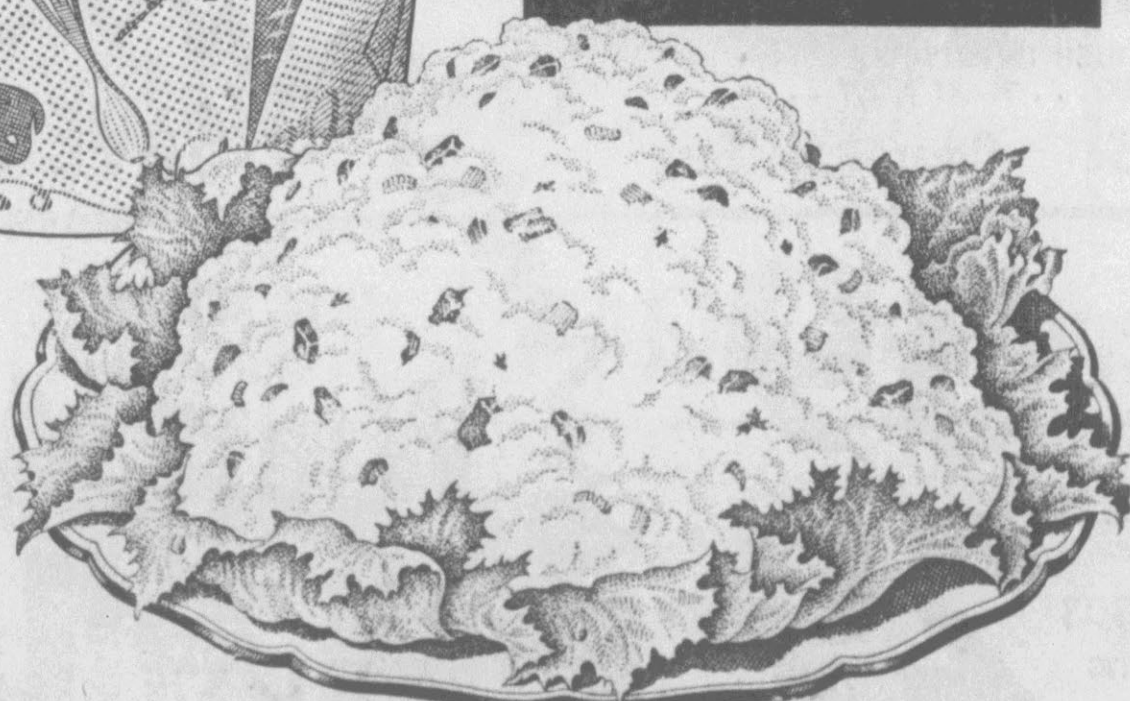

END OF THE LINE—The Western States, built for a reported two million dollars in 1902 and last of the sidewheel passenger ships on the Great Lakes, is being carved up for scrap at Tawas City, Mich.

March Should Be Boom Time

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — If America's basic industries are a criterion, March should be a boom month. Steel production is at a record high. Auto production is running well ahead of last year and is expected to go even higher this month.

If the American consumer is a criterion this should be a boom month, too. His income after taxes is higher than ever. And he is spending most of it — largely because he has to.

If an early Easter gives the expected boost March should be a booming month for the nation's stores. There always is the weather to contend with, but if it doesn't dampen or chill the usual spring urge to come out in fine feathers, store sales are expected to set a peak.

If various legislators live up to advance billing, March could be a record, too, in government spending and taxation. Congress is talking about spending plans this month (taxation comes later). But various states and cities are talking about boosting both spending and taxation now.

But after March may come some second thinking most of these booming items.

Steel mills are set to turn out a record week's tonnage this week. But even the most optimistic of steelmen agree that much of their orders springs from customers' fears of a shortage this summer if the mills are struck, and anticipation of a price rise following settlement of wage talks with the union, with or without a strike.

There is widespread belief that the steel industry will have a slow third quarter in either case.

Auto production is running 22 per cent ahead of last year—when it was nothing to brag about. The auto men are expected to keep up a fast output pace this month. Then, come April, they are likely to tie production directly to sales.

In the auto industry the big test isn't in the rate of output when dealers' stocks are being built up, but the rate of sales when spring calls motorists to the highways.

Consumer spending has some testing ahead, too. Even during the recession, consumers didn't tighten up much on the purse strings. They bought the necessities and the things they considered necessities. Some of them did think twice about taking on much new debt for things that could be put off for awhile.

A few months ago they started buying new homes in quantity again. They showed up more frequently at the appliance stores. They showed a bit more interest in new cars. But there has been nothing like a big rush, such as in 1935. And that cautious attitude about spending is what merchants are watching this month, and what auto makers will be watching even more next month.

Some think that one reason for consumer caution now is the growing evidence that taxes are going higher at various government levels. That means less money to spend and more restudying of family budgets to try to make ends meet.

This uncertainty probably isn't helping salesmen of big ticket items a bit.

'Pioneer' Mere Speck In Space

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tiny Pioneer IV, soaring toward a rendezvous with the sun, is a big shot to America — but only a speck in the vastness of space.

Moreover, the distances the gold-plated 13-pound space probe has already traveled — tremendous by earthly standards — are but baby steps on the highways of the universe.

Pioneer IV is due to become an orbiting object in the solar system, measuring some seven billion miles in diameter, but still like a small bubble in the ocean of space.

The sun, around which the earth and the eight other major planets wheel, is only a minor leaguer in the heavens. It is only one of some 200 billion stars in the Milky Way galaxy.

The Milky Way itself, though having a diameter of 800 quadrillions miles, is only one of millions of other similarly vast systems in the universe.

The tremendous distances of space are measured in terms of light-years. A light-year is the distance that light, moving at 186,000 miles a second, would travel in a year's time, in mileage, it's six trillion miles.

By such standards our sun, with its planets and such earthly interlopers as the Soviet Mecha and the American Pioneer IV, is just a lonely soul tucked away in the suburb of the Milky Way. It is 30 quadrillion miles from the sun to the center of the Milky Way.

Officially, Not Much Happened

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Officially, there's not much new in Maryland — except for a bridge dedication and construction of a harbor tunnel — since the Battle of Monocacy July 9, 1864.

The state's latest official information pamphlet, though bearing a portrait of a new governor elected only last November, lists the bridge and tunnel as noteworthy events of the 20th Century.

The Hall of Records list says seven important events occurred in Maryland in the 16th Century, 12 in the 18th Century and nine in the 19th Century.

Footwork Is Key To Lomi-Lomi

HONOLULU (AP) — Are you bothered by an aching back? You might try a lomi-lomi, for that soothing effect.

A lomi-lomi is an ancient Hawaiian version of a massage. And its main feature is that the masseur walks on the patient's back. While he walks, he kneads the flesh while regulating his weight by holding on a bar above the massage table.

That may sound a bit rugged for a sensitive sore back.

But on the word of Jack Kaaua, a professional masseur and one of the few remaining practitioners of the lomi-lomi, it is really a pain-reliever.

"I've been practicing lomi-lomi for 20 years," says Kaaua, "and BACK TREATMENT—Masseur Jack Kaaua administers a lomi-lomi treatment to a customer. Hawaiians have been using the unusual method of massage for 800 years.

I've never had a complaint. In fact, nearly all my customers compliment me on its soothing effect."

Kaaua, 46, is a graduate physical therapist. He can give a Japanese or Swedish massage if the customer wants.

"The Swedish massage just touches the surface of the body," he said. "The Japanese treatment is a little drastic and often leaves the patient with more aches after the massage than before."

"Lomi-lomi give a deep stimulation, but never makes the patient sore. All my customers notice the difference."

Although back-walking has almost died out, Kaaua says it once was widely used in Hawaii.

"I didn't learn lomi-lomi in any school," he says. "I learned it from my parents. It's an old Hawaiian practice that dates back more than 800 years."

Mystified Over Blushing Paint

HARSTAD, Norway (AP) — Even the houses are blushing at the fishing village of Bleik near this northern Norwegian town.

Not that the village has anything more to be ashamed of than any other place. Chemical engineers are, in fact, puzzled as to why white houses there should suddenly start turning pink.

The village sheriff said the transformation started before Christmas and has continued ever since.

Most houses are frame buildings with oil paints on wooden walls. The red color appears evenly over whole sides of the houses, but not necessarily on all sides of a house.

A scientist suggested that a coat of bad red paint under the white might be the cause. But several of the houses have never had any red paint on them.

A high concentration of calcium bromide in the sea air might also turn white paint red, but to do that, the concentration must be so great, that it would have killed off the population a long time ago.

Samples of the blushing paint have been sent to laboratories and scientists are working on the problem.

Sure Enough, It Was For Birds

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — A package about the size of a shoe box and addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. Hungry Bird, Green Bay, Wis." arrived at the post office from Atlanta, Ga.

As the directory listed no Hungry Birds, the postmaster peeked inside and, sure enough, the box was filled with bird seed. He turned it over to a bird club.

Cite Ministers' Eating Problem

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A Memphis physician says his records show two thirds of the ministers are 20 per cent overweight—but places the blame on the congregation.

"Too many (ministers) eat a lot to please the people who invite them into their homes," Dr. Otis Warr said.

On Mars, The Duffer Would Look Real Good

By JAY HOLMES
AP Newsfeatures
 If you plan to visit Mars on your vacation in 2003, be sure to bring plenty of color film for your camera and your golf clubs, tennis racquet or skis.
 The Martian sky is deep purple. Blue, white and yellow clouds hang high over the red desert landscape. Stars shine even by day.
 Sports will be a major attraction for tourists because Mars' gravity is about two-fifths that on earth.
 Since your muscles will be just as strong, you will be able to jump more than twice as high or as far.
 The average tennis player's game will be much better. In golf, earthly duffers may drive the ball 500 yards or more. Ski jumping — twice as far as on earth — will draw the more adventurous to the martian polar hills.

 You'll need specially insulated clothes, even if you plan to stay near the equator. The temperature there may climb to 80 Fahrenheit during the day but it can fall 100 below at night. On the average, those temperatures are 80 or 90 degrees below those on earth.
 Bring a space helmet too. Martian air is as thin as that 11 miles above the earth. And it has no oxygen.
 You won't need a raincoat. It never rains, hails or snows on Mars. The frost and ice in the polar regions condense directly from the air when the weather turns cold. There are no oceans, rivers or lakes.
 The brightest objects in the night sky are Mars' two little moons, Phobos and Deimos.
 Phobos, the larger, is only 10 miles in diameter. But it is so close to Mars that it looks about a third as large as our moon does from earth.
 Deimos will be harder to find. It is only five miles in diameter, and much higher. It looks from Mars like a bright star and takes from two to three days to cross the sky.
 Around sunrise and sunset, a greenish star will be one of the brightest in the purple sky. If you look at it through binoculars or a small telescope, you may be able to pick out the oceans and continents of the garden planet earth.
 Mars will be an ideal place to spend a honeymoon — as soon as we overcome its one main drawback.
 You can't kiss your bride through a space helmet.

While Engineers Are At Work, So Is Eager Beaver

PAGE Ariz. (AP)—Just 100 feet down the Colorado River from where workmen are noisily building the $21-million Glen Canyon Dam another dam is rising, more quietly and at less cost.
 An eager beaver, given tools and a contract by mother nature, is busily at work undisturbed by the racket around him.
 Nor is he disturbed by the fact he's at least 100 miles from the nearest known habitat of his kind or that there isn't a tree or a decently sturdy shrub nearby. He's using driftwood and an occasional twig for the job.
 Unable to explain his presence, workmen at the dam have adopted him as mascot. They bring him food and call him "an engineer's engineer."
 But his efforts will be in vain. When Glen Canyon is finished, the river will be returned to its natural channel and the beaver dam will disappear in the flood.

Model Railway For Planetarium

CHAPEL HILL—The Morehead Southern "HO" Model Railway will be unveiled to the public at the Morehead Planetarium here March 15, Manager A. F. Jenzano announced today.
 Although the exhibit in the North Science gallery will be incomplete, Jenzano said it is being opened at the early date so that the public may be able to observe periodic development and progress in construction. "This will be a continuing project," he said, "and we hope it will never be completed."
 Special viewing provisions will be made for small children, and later on the railroad will be operated at regular hours.
 The model railroad — called HO scale to differentiate the exhibit from "toy" trains — will occupy more than half the large exhibit room. Freight and passenger trains will travel over more than 600 feet of narrow gauge track, laid against a scenic background.
 All the equipment and materials as well as the labor to install the permanent exhibit have been contributed by manufacturers, local suppliers and model railroad enthusiasts. Already the project has been under construction about a year.

Showgirl Says Evil In Las Vegas Is Before, And Not Behind Footlights

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The only thing wrong with Las Vegas' bare bosomed showgirls is the way Americans, especially the men, behave while watching them, one of the imported beauties declared today.
 "In Europe," declared 19-year-old Lilo Eichberg of Munich, "I was considered an artist and got the respect due an artist. I never once felt embarrassed or that there was anything wrong in what I did."
 "Europeans think the body of a young woman is something beautiful, not something that you whistle at or chew gum by. My mother would never allow me to do anything wrong. And she is proud of my work."
 Lilo, a combination of Zsa Zsa Gabor, Kim Novak and a little of Jayne Mansfield, is appearing in "La Nouvelle Eve," the Paris show that was recently imported intact to Las Vegas' El Rancho Vegas. The show revived the gambling resort's long-simmering battle of the nudes and even touched off a legislative bill which would ban bare bosoms in Nevada.

 "I think the Nevada parliament should make a law that would make the audiences behave," said Lilo. "All of us in the show were shocked opening night. The men stamped their feet, whistled, screamed, winked at us, sometimes with their wives at the same table. And all the time chewing gum. Americans must chew lots of gum, no?"

As she talked, she puffed her cheeks into a hilarious caricature of gum chewers.
 "If we were strip teasers or did anything suggestive," commented Lilo, "then our reception would be deserved. What we do is art, not what you call burlesque."
 Lilo's blast is one of the first from the bosom brigade in the months-old battle of nudity. Surprisingly, she came to Hollywood to make the remarks in an interview.
 Besides civic and church groups, the battle has pitted hotel owner against hotel owner. Jack Entratter of the Sands and Ben Goffstein of the Riviera are leaders of the anti-nudity faction while Bel-don Katieman of El Rancho and owners of the Stardust and Dunes are pro-nude.

 The Stardust imported Paris' Lido show to touch off the controversy while the Dunes imported pure Minsky. Entratter and Goffstein believe that nudity and gambling don't mix and that the undressed girls will make the wives of high-rolling businessmen confine their gambling to Saturday night poker parties.
Used To Be Paid For Sleeping
LIMA, Ohio (AP)—There was a time when he was paid more to sleep than to work, recalls 75-year-old Charles D. O'Connell:
 "When I was 21, we didn't have the fancy locks to protect election ballots, and when they were printed up someone had to sleep with them to make sure there was no tampering."
 "That was my job. I got $3 for working as a clerk on election day and $5 a night for sleeping with the ballots."

LOVELY IMPORT—Lilo Eichberg of Munich, a member of the "La Nouvelle Eve" show which has rekindled the "bare bosom" controversy in Las Vegas, demonstrates her talent as a dancer.

Flustered, But Gave Citation

WAGONER, Okla. (AP)—U.S. Rep. Ed Edmondson borrowed the car of his brother, newly-elected Gov. J. Howard Edmondson, and was arrested for speeding. The congressman commended the flustered highway patrolman who stopped him, discovered his identity and still gave him a citation. Rep. Edmondson paid a $21 fine.

Theaters Will Be Bowling Alleys

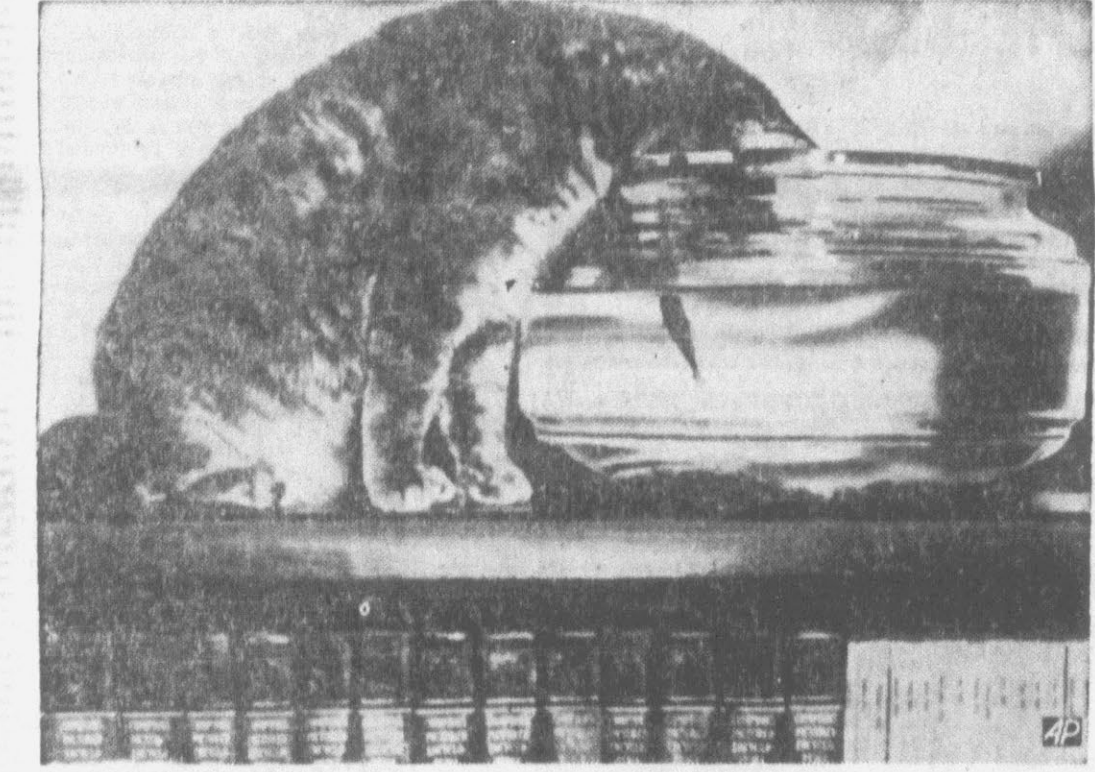

LONDON (AP)—Lord Rank's shuttered movie theaters will be turned into Britain's first American-style bowling alleys.
 The movie magnate's organization announced it has signed a deal with New York businessmen Stewart and Herbert Scheftel to introduce the game into Britain.

TIME-OUT

MAYSVILLE, Okla. (AP)—Although only 6 years old, Kent Melton knows football. He goes to games and can discuss the plays intelligently. Recently in church with his mother he turned to her and said: "I'm tired, let's go home at the half."

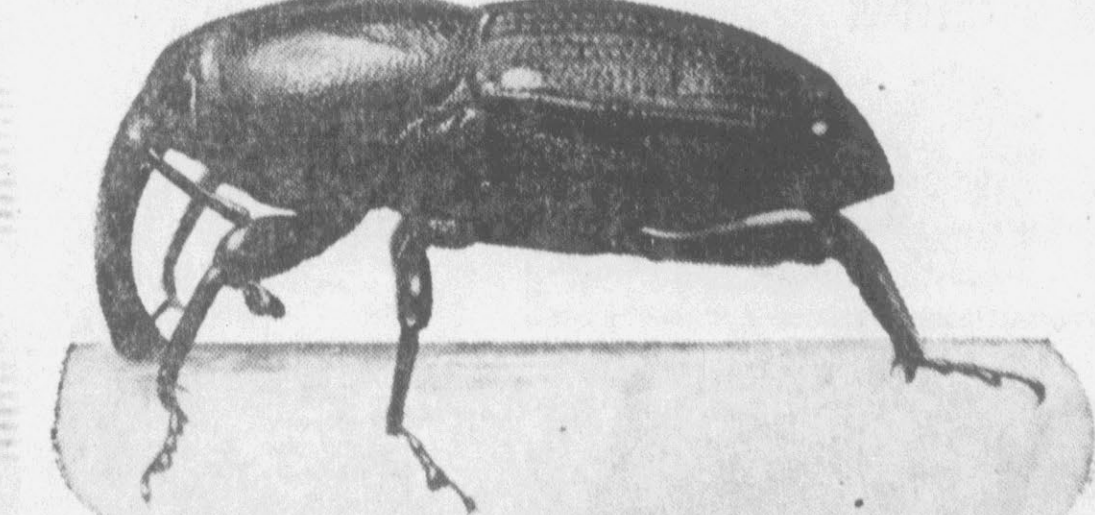

Fine Suspended For A New Bride

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—This letter was received at police court along with a $1 payment for an overtime parking fine:
 "Dear Cops:
 "I was only four minutes late, besides that it was my wedding day and I was in the store purchasing a nightgown to wear. I think you were most unfair and uncooperative. This is my first violation."
 Judge John E. Brown said the fine was suspended and the $1 returned to the bride — for a wedding present.

FISH AND FRIEND—Here's one cat that doesn't appear to be angling for a tid-bit as it plays with a goldfish in Joplin, Mo. Friendship has lasted for several weeks.

CORN BILLBUGS?

GET 'EM FOR SURE with aldrin

When billbugs attack—corn stands are so reduced that there are no profits left. You can avoid serious billbug damage by knocking them out before they get started—with powerful aldrin.
 Before planting, simply broadcast aldrin on the soil, then disk it in. Or, you can combine aldrin with fertilizer and apply both in a time- and labor-saving application. Aldrin is economical, too.
 This season, beat billbugs to the punch. Use powerful aldrin just before planting. Be prepared... get your supply today.

GREEN STAMPS

TAKE 1 MINUTE TO READ THIS!

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN SAVING 3% ON ALL YOUR FOOD NEEDS? . . . IF SO READ ON —

The trading stamp is one of the most widespread forms of saving ever developed. It is completely painless because it requires no disciplined setting aside of money from pay checks. It is impartial because it is open to everyone, share and share alike, regardless of income.

For all these reasons, the trading stamp is particularly meaningful to the family getting along on a small wage. For them it is a second "savings account."

In some cases, the trading stamp may be the one and only form of savings a family can "afford." Even though a family may never be a regular depositor in a savings bank, it can make regular deposits in a trading stamp collector's book whenever it buys food, gasoline, drugs, clothing, the things it must have just to live.

With their stamps a family looks forward to getting appliances and home furnishings that will improve its standard of living. And, perhaps best of all, the family attains an extra measure of happiness without going into debt a single penny.

Nor can we overlook the direct contribution of the trading stamp industry to employment. Each year half a billion dollars' worth of merchandise must be created from the raw materials of ranches, mines, farms and forests. The creation of this merchandise and its distribution to redemption stores requires the full-time employment of about 90,000 workers.

Thus the trading stamp is not only a part of a way of life for America's working families but a livelihood, too, for many. For its encouragement of thrift, for its outright help toward a better standard of living for all, the trading stamp industry is a basic ingredient of America's business structure.

"WHERE CUSTOMERS SEND THEIR FRIENDS"

The DEADLY LADY of MADAGASCAR

BY C. V. TERRY

CHAPTER 8

"Our first task," Sir Luke Metcalf said to me, "is to pin down the thief who took the Speedwell. Once we've tracked him, we'll discover the Speedy Return in the same anchorage. The recovery of those two vessels will do much to restore our prestige in London, Mr. Douglas."

"You tell me we're to touch at Fort Dauphin," I said. "Does that mean we're luring the thief into battle?"

"Far from it. When you've taken the Pilgrim Venture on her trial run, you'll find there's no finer ship in our service. She's gunned like a man-of-war, though she's listed as a merchantman. She'll show her heels to any corsair afloat — or outfight any who come within range. And she'll sail past Madagascar unmolested, for the best of reasons. The enemy knows she's coming — and he'll hold his fire."

"How can you be sure?"

"It's common knowledge in Cape Town that she's about to make her maiden voyage. Red Carter isn't the sort of buccaneer who fights — when the odds are against him." Metcalf fixed me with a piercing glance. "You've heard of Red Carter, of course?"

"Who hasn't, sir? To be frank, I never believed he was human."

"You'll find he's real enough. Twenty years ago I drove him from the Company — after he'd robbed us of a million pounds, as our chief factor in Madras. Since then, as you know, he's turned freebooter and robbed us openly."

I was careful not to interrupt. The story of Jonathan Carter (called Red Carter by every seaman in the Orient from the beard that was part of his legend) was a classic in the annals of the Company. As the account ran, the discovery of Carter's monstrous embezzlements had been Luke Metcalf's first coup when he was but a minor official in his own right. When Carter had been hounded into exile, Metcalf had assumed his post — and his perquisites. It was said that Carter had fled Madras with only hours to spare, that he had doubled on his tracks to elude the Company bailiffs and vanished into the darkness of Africa.

Over the years I had heard fearful tales of a flame-bearded pirate king who had set up his domain among the aborigines — first in East Africa, then in Madagascar.

Bit by bit he had consolidated that domain — and had offered asylum to all seamen who would obey his orders. Later the depredations against Company shipping began in earnest; losses rose sharply when Morgan's former henchmen descended in force on the island.

Some said the two camps had fought for supremacy, with Red Carter the victor. Others insisted that the Morgan men had merely joined Carter, adding their skills to his own.

Searching Sir Luke's face as I considered these facts, I found small comfort in his scowl. Yet I forced myself to speak boldly, convinced that now was the time to spread our cards.

"Can you prove Carter still lives?" I demanded.

"That's why you're in my employ," he said. "I'm sending you to Madagascar to find him."

I had always prided myself on my sang-froid — but that soft-voiced challenge sent me rolling on my beam ends. Metcalf's wolf grin only chilled me further.

"Don't look so unstrung, Mr. Douglas," he told me. "I've already said that you and Dr. Hoyt will jump ship at Fort Dauphin. Surely you half-guessed the reason."

"You've also said I'm to captain the Pilgrim Venture. How can a master desert his own vessel?"

"When you desert, you'll no longer be master. Company orders will be waiting at the Cape, putting another captain in charge and reducing you to mate. You'll have the best of reasons for taking your leave." His heavy-lidded eyes were now wavering; don't tell me you're afraid?"

"Just bewildered, sir. Pray go on."

"When we're off Cape Sainte Marie, you and Hoyt will purloin a longboat and go ashore. At Fort Dauphin you'll make discreet inquiries about Carter's whereabouts: I've an agent there who'll help you all he can. If need be, you can hire native guides and scout the coast. Once you've made contact with the buccaneers, the rest should be simple. You'll enter Carter's kingdom damning the East India Company and thirsting for revenge. His force is made up of renegades. If you tell him a straight story, he'll enlist two more."

"Suppose he refuses the bait?"

"Then you and Hoyt must beat up to Madras as best you can. All I ask of you is a map of his roadstead — and some idea of the strength he can muster. Later we'll try to lure him into open battle. If not, I'll storm his stronghold."

"In the Pilgrim Venture?"

"She'll be the flagship of an armada. It's assembling in Madras now — ready to sail south, once I've named its destination." With that announcement he settled in his chair and waited for me to speak. If I hesitated, it was only to search for a bargaining point. Both of us knew how firmly his mad scheme had trapped me.

PREP FOR BIG GAMES — Laborers set up concrete reinforcements for arena under construction at Rome's exposition grounds for the 1960 Olympic Games. Arena will be air-conditioned and is to provide facilities for a record entry of athletes.

Arboretum Plan Being Promoted

An "Every Child plant a Shade Tree" supplementary arboretum education program is being broadly advertised in the schools throughout the South and the idea will be promoted extensively in Pitt and other Eastern Carolina counties. It was stated in Greenville yesterday by W.L. Shaddix, a former teacher of Alabama, who represents the free film distribution center maintained by the Southern States Forestry Commission, Inc., Birmingham 5, Ala.

All boys are asked to find a little poplar, pine, maple, or other tree and set it out in a local yard or church grounds. Shaddix stated, "Little girls from six years on up are being asked to set a rose cutting or a camellia, or azalea in damp soil in the yard or in a box to propagate a shrub and later to help beautify the home yard. The plan is known as the "Jr. Arboretum" campaign of education. The Commission has held numerous meetings in the state, and more are being set up by leaders of various wood industries and timber growing interests of the state," Shaddix stated.

Emotional Child May Need Help

CHICAGO (AP) — Psychiatry is shedding new light on the emotional difficulties of children, and the idea will be promoted extensively in Pitt and other Eastern Carolina counties. It was stated in Greenville yesterday by W.L. Shaddix, a former teacher of Alabama, who represents the free film distribution center maintained by the Southern States Forestry Commission, Inc., Birmingham 5, Ala.

How can a parent tell when a child needs help with an emotional problem?

Prolonged unhappiness, frequent crying over trifles, signs of withdrawal, unreasonable fears, more-than-normal aggressiveness, severe truancy, and signs of tensions are some of the most common symptoms.

Dr. Balaban suggests if you don't know anyone to consult if there's something about your child that worries you, ask your local medical society or mental health group.

American (but not British) visitors can buy a special pass for $3.50 which allows them unlimited travel on all subways, buses and trolley-buses in London and suburbs.

Vacuum Cleaner Is Sight-Saver

MILWAUKEE (AP) — During a heavy snow William Schuessler lost the vacuum cleaner and went to work.

He explained he had been using a shovel, but knocked off his glasses. After a hour's search with the vacuum cleaner he found it but one lens.

Then he reversed the hoses on the cleaner and blew away the snow. Out came the missing lens.

Seventh-Day Adventist Launch 2-Week Crusade

Uniting with hundreds of Seventh-day Adventist churches in eight southeastern states, the Greenville Adventist church has launched a two-week "Operation Dixie" evangelistic crusade.

The campaign was planned by officials of the denomination's Southern Union to help in bringing Christ to those who do not attend church, as well as in making Him more real to those who are already members. Every Adventist church in North and South Carolina is scheduled to take part in the program during the first quarter of 1959.

Guest speaker for the local meetings, said Pastor H. V. Bolling, will be Henry Wilmont, pastor of the Kinston church. His sermons are centered about the great chains of prophecy in Revelation, with particular reference to their application to our own day.

Meetings will continue through the first two weeks of March at 7:30 on Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. The church is located on East Tenth Street, Colonial Heights. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Rites On Friday For Mrs. J. E. Gaskins

Mrs. Bernice Caroon Gaskins, 69, died Wednesday afternoon at a heart attack suffered a few minutes earlier.

Funeral services will be held at Macedonia Free Will Baptist Church near Vanceboro Friday afternoon at 2:30 by the pastor, the Rev. Sam Kennedy. Burial will be in the family cemetery.

Mrs. Gaskins was born in Pamlico County but spent nearly all her life in the Vanceboro community of Craven County. She was a member of Macedonia Free Will Baptist Church at Erma. Her husband, James Ernest Gaskins, died in 1951.

Surviving are three sons, William K. Gaskins, Woodrow and James R. Gaskins, all of the Vanceboro community; a daughter, Mrs. Everett J. Oliver of New Bern; 11 grandchildren; seven great grandchildren; a brother, W. H. Caroon of Kinston; and two sisters, Miss Mary Caroon of Wilson, and Mrs. Enos Gaskins of Vanceboro.

Legislators Return From 'Fastest Trip In History'

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's General Assembly today was back from its fastest trip in history and what one legislator called "the greatest reception we've ever had."

The reference, of course, was to Wednesday's whirlwind visit to Charlotte.

From the time the lawmakers and their wives arrived by plane and bus in the morning until their departure late at night, the Queen City kept them busy, and apparently happy.

The schedule was loaded with receptions, tours, speeches, a legislative session on a basketball court and, to top it off, a look at the 1959 edition of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus at the Coliseum.

Charlotte Chamber of Commerce President Buell Duncan had reassuring words for any suspicious legislators. "We have asked you to come," he said, "because we wanted you to visit us and to see our city and county. You are not going to hear today any sort of request for a legislative program tailored to Charlotte's particular need."

"We don't want anything, really," he added, "so just relax and enjoy it."

Gov. Hodges, who made the trip with Mrs. Hodges, commented later to Duncan and city officials: "We're happy to hear and appreciate your saying that you want nothing but understanding."

While the wives went shopping, the legislators held separate House and Senate sessions in the Park Center Auditorium. They handled only local measures, showing hundreds of school children in the audience how the legislative process works.

There was a brief difference of opinion in the House over when it should meet today. Rep. Brantley Womble of Wake said many members wanted to wind up business early so they could catch the opening of the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament here. He moved that the House meet at 11 a.m. but Rep. Ed Kemp objected on grounds that was an important committee meeting scheduled to consider ways of reducing the heavy flow of local legislation the assembly must handle.

The meeting was set at the regular noon hour after Kemp declared. "I don't think a basketball game is more important than carrying out the business of this House in an orderly manner."

Most of the 300 visitors made the 290-mile round trip by seven chartered planes.

It was estimated that the overall bill for the General Assembly visit would amount to about $17,000. The Chamber of Commerce had set aside $10,000 to pay for the tab. The rest will be raised by private subscription.

The legislature last came to Charlotte as a body in 1939. Duncan said he hoped the legislators wouldn't wait another 20 years to return.

Nominated For Atomic Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today nominated Paul F. Foster, now deputy general manager of the Atomic Energy Commission, to be U.S. representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The President also sent to the Senate the nomination of George H. King Jr., of Canton, Miss., to be a member of the Federal Reserve System's board of governors. King, 38, a Republican, would succeed James K. Vardaman Jr., who resigned last December.

Since early 1958 King has been serving as chairman of the New Orleans branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, Ga.

Eisenhower also nominated Thomas C. Mann, who is assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, to be U.S. representative to the United Nations Commission on International Commodity Trade. The commission is a unit of the U.N. Economic and Social Council.

In announcing selection of Foster for the International Atomic Energy Agency, White House press secretary James C. Hagerly said Eisenhower regards the assignment as an extremely important one.

Foster, who will be 70 March 25, was named to succeed Robert M. McKinney, New Mexico newspaper publisher who resigned last October.
