Schachner-Crawford Vows Said PTA Prexy Re-Elected

CHARLOTTE—Miss Joanna Carol Crawford of 1111 Ragsdale Road, Greenville, and Edmund Douglas McKane Schachner of Charlotte were united in Marriage Saturday afternoon in the Saint Patrick's Catholic Church. Monsignor John P. Manley officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Rosser Lee Gwynn of Greenville and the late James Francis Crawford. Mr. Schachner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Anthony Schachner, Jr. of 900 East Boulevard, Charlotte.

Mrs. Edmund Douglas McKane Schachner

A setting of flowers and greenery in silver vases, palms and candelabra was used as a background for the wedding vows.

Mrs. John Wolfe, soloist, presented the nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by James Caldwell Little, the bride was dressed in an imported pure silk gown of magnolia white, featuring a bateau neckline which was outlined in lace appliques encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. The sleeves came to calla points at the wrist and the bouffant floor length skirt was enhanced by silk appliqued lace. The veil of illusion was fingertip length, caught to a pill-box cap of imported lace and trimmed with pearls. A bouquet of white flowers centered with a white orchid completed the bridal attire.

Mrs. James Caldwell Little acted as matron of honor with Mrs. Lee Atkinson and Ruth Lee Gwynn of Greenville as bridesmaid and junior bridesmaid, respectively.

The attendants wore dresses of aqua organza designed with satin cummerbunds and bows in the back. They wore bow hats of aqua taffeta and the two adult members carried a mixture of pink flowers designed in a crescent shape. Miss Gwynn carried a nosegay of pink flowers.

A reception was given by the bride's mother, Mrs. Gwynn, at the home of Mrs. J. A. Schachner, Jr. following the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Norfolk, Va. where the bridegroom will be serving as an Ensign in the United States Navy.

The bride was graduated from the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro. She made her debut at the Sixth Annual Southside Virginia Debutante Ball in Danville, Va. in December 1955.

Having been a graduate of the University of North Carolina in June 1958, the bridegroom was a member of Phi Kappa Sigma, social fraternity.

Mrs. H. H. Bryant was re-elected president of Rose High School Parent-Teachers Association on Thursday night in the high school gymnasium. Re-elected to serve with her for another year were D. C. Wade Jr., vice president, and Mrs. Kenneth Bing, treasurer. Mrs. Plato Evans was elected secretary, succeeding Mrs. A. Tyson Bilbro.

New officers were installed by Mrs. Wilson R. Guice, president of the Greenville Parent-Teacher Council.

Ercel Webb, reporting for the Service Committee of the high school P.T.A., stated that lights would soon be installed to illuminate the campus between the building and Elm Street.

More than 300 people were present for the business meeting and program, which was a "Parade of Progress," written and directed by Mrs. Neil Everett, of the high school faculty. Almost 300 students participated in the program which included every phase of school activity. There were a great number of interesting displays of work done by the Manual Arts Department, the Home Economics Department, English classes, Foreign Language classes, Radio Club and Science Department.

Know The 'Real' Cost Of Food

RALEIGH—Only 39 per cent of an average 4½ pound chuck roast ends up on somebody's fork, yet homemakers pay for the 61 per cent that is discarded.

"Does the homemaker know about the 'real' cost of the food she buys?" asks Miss S. Virginia Wilson nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

The chuck roast that cost 59 cents per pound, jumps to $1.51 for the cooked edible portion. Pork chops at 99 cents per pound end up on the table at a cost of $2.63 per pound of edible portion.

Proper meat cookery means less loss: low temperatures and slower cooking mean better flavor, more meat and not as much vitamin loss through high temperatures and drippings. The inedible bone and fat also help account for the higher cost per serving.

Meetings . . .

The Greenville Registered Private Duty Nurses will meet for their monthly meeting March 12 at the home of Mrs. John C. Coughlan, 803 Willow Street, beginning at 8 p.m.

Tomorrow night the N. C. State Nurses Association, District No. 20, will meet in Rocky Mount at the high school auditorium. All nurses are urged to be present.

Daughters of the Confederacy The Daughters of the Confederacy will meet with Mrs. J. H. Boyd Thursday at 3 p.m. Judge Charles Whedbee will be guest speaker.

With Farm Women Keep Home

By ROBERTA GARNER
Items this week from MacDowell, Edgecombe, Duplin, Davidson, and Wilson Counties.)

"Painless" Dishwashing
Dishwashing is not a "painful" task to Linda Ann Wilson, active 4-H'er of Bethlehem community, McDowell County. Her mother no longer pleads until the dishes are done, says Miss Julia Smith, assistant home economics agent. Linda has been working on her food preparation project. At times she assists with the meals or prepares them on her own. She does the "4-H Way" and clean-up after the meals is "practically" painless.

College Loan Fund
Edgecombe County Home Demonstration Clubs proudly announce the Eugenia J. VanLandingham Educational Loan Fund has reached over $1,000. This fund, named for their active home economics agent, will be used to assist a worthy girl entering college in 1959. Requirements and applications for the loan will be made publicly known so each girl in the county has an equal opportunity.

Important Crop
Wille Outlaw of the Oak Ridge Community in Duplin County, considers the family garden as important as any crop he grows. Assistant Home Economics Agent Jean Hule reports that he and Outlaw are planning a demonstration garden for their community club.

Program Starts Check
On a dreary Monday the Coy Mitchells of Davidson County, were startled into investigating their records by a radio program given by Miss Sallie Whitaker, assistant home economics agent. They gave their business papers, insurance and other papers a thorough study. Results—a complete reorganization of family business matters.

Recognize Best Citizens
"Best Curb Market Citizens" is important recognition in Wilson County. Each year three Home Demonstration Club market sellers are selected for this honor. Mrs. Dixie Boykin, Wilson, Rt. 2; Mrs. Hubert Joyner, Statesburg, Rt. 2; and Mrs. Thurman Mercer, Black Creek, recently were announced as the outstanding citizens for the past year.

According to Mrs. Ona Humphrey, home economics agent, the selection is based on attendance, cooperation, consideration, attitude, and abiding by the rules of the organization. In addition to the outstanding citizens, high sellers were recognized. Mrs. Boykin also was high seller; Mrs. S. H. Aycock, second; Mrs. Nellie Langley, third; Mrs. Roy Hayes, fourth.

Organized In Business Way

RALEIGH—How well is your home business organized? Do you spend valuable time hunting for "scattered" receipts or a valuable bill that you "stuck" somewhere? "Efficiency in homemaking is now absolutely necessary," says Miss Mamie Whisnant, home management specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service. Family records are a "must" for wise planning in order to make best use of money and other resources.

Last receipts, bills or important papers will not be your problem if you have a well-planned home business center that fits your family needs.

Club Officers Are Announced

When officers for the new year were announced, Miss Leila Higgs was hostess to the Round Table on Tuesday afternoon at the Episcopal parish house. A luncheon was served to members and guests. Those elected were: president, Mrs. D. L. Moore; first vice president, Mrs. Robert Fountain; second vice president, Mrs. Daniel Taylor; recording secretary, Mrs. W. W. Howell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. B. Lee; and treasurer, Mrs. E. E. Rawl Sr. Mrs. Charles Horne gave the program and chose historic Annapolis as her topic. She stated Maryland's historic capital, Annapolis, is more than merely the home of the U. S. Naval Academy. It is a living museum of colonial times. It has no need of restoration for it has never decayed. Mrs. Horne stated that Annapolis, today, is like a great actress who has retired, doesn't try to hide her age, and is content to turn the pages of her yellowing scrapbooks. Yet they are not hers alone, for much of her history belongs to all of America. Mrs. H. H. Duncan, pronunciation referee for the afternoon, read a clipping from the newspaper. Special guests were Mrs. Irby Jackson, Miss Jessie Moye and Dr. Pattie Dowhl.

Knowing Shrubs Is Stressed
The importance of knowing the various kinds of shrubs was stressed by Mrs. C. D. Clark when she spoke to the Home Demonstration Club of Belvoir Thursday afternoon. The group met at the home of Mrs. R. M. Manning. The speaker's topic, "General Landscaping," told the members what kind of shrub to use and where and how to set them in the yard. A variety of 18 kinds of shrubs was shown. Each club member tried to name correctly each shrub. Mrs. J. T. Dupree was the winner. Mrs. D. M. Hollowell, vice-president, presided during the business session. Reports were given by Mrs. Dupree and Mrs. W. K. Clark. Homemade cake, ice cream and coffee were served. Ever add a little minced parsley or watercress to creamy mashed potatoes?

S-t-r-e-t-c-h-i-n-g Dollars

By ROSALIE MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

For the market basket this week, Pitt County food shoppers will find that pork is still their most economical red meat buy. Poultry products will continue to be in good supply. Consumers will find favorable supplies and prices on all sizes of eggs. Best vegetable buys continue to be Irish potatoes, greens, carrots and celery. A slight increase will be noted on green peppers, cucumbers, asparagus and corn. Good quality fruits are continuing to be good buys, with apples and citrus fruits appearing as the most attractive buys at the produce counter. In moderate supply and higher price, pears, grapes and fresh pineapples are available. Beef prices at the local markets have declined in price because of competition from other meats. Fish and shellfish are available for good eating during Lenten meals. Don't allow Lenten meals to become "dull" at your home. Try taste-tempting tuna casseroles such as this one:

Cook until tender 1-4 cup finely chopped onion and 1-4 cup chopped celery in 3 tablespoons butter. Blend in 3 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon curry powder. Stir whole adding 2 cups milk. Cook, continuing to stir until sauce thickens. Add 1 can drained and flaked tuna, 1/2 cup cooked peas and 3 tablespoons chopped pickles. Pour into a baking dish. Top with 1-3 cup grated cheese and 1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs which have been mixed together. Bake in a 400 degree oven until brown.
Serve this casserole with buttered peas, a green salad, corn muffins and lemon pudding.

Read the labels when buying macaroni and spaghetti—quality depends most on the type of wheat used. That made from durum wheat keeps good shape during cooking.

Refinishing Furniture Requirements Listed

RALEIGH—Time, patience and persistence are the requirements for a good job of refinishing furniture. Not much money is needed, says Mrs. Lillie B. Little, house furnishings specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service. With the new products on the market and "know-how" anyone can put a better finish on some furniture than it often had when it was new. Finishing and refinishing furniture is an absorbing hobby for many families, an answer to economic problems, or improving an object owned and cherished. You will have a good finish if the wood is smooth, the color is what you desire and it is protected by a durable coat of wax with just the amount of luster that pleases you.

Bernard Shaw Is Program Topic

Mrs. Eleanor Coleman was hostess to the Aries Book Club on Tuesday evening at the Parish House. Mrs. Kenneth Hite, president, presided over a short business meeting and welcomed the 14 guests. Mrs. Coleman then presented Mrs. James Poindexter who spoke on Bernard Shaw. Mrs. Poindexter gave a brief summary of Shaw's childhood. Because his father was an obnoxious alcoholic he had a wonderful sense of anti-climax. His philosophy was: "If you cannot get rid of a family skeleton, you might as well make it dance." His home life would have been unbearable had he not been able to laugh it off, she said. In spite of Bernard Shaw's intense desire to write and his interest in the financial world, he was most successful in business. He gladly forsook his business career in Ireland and went to London. Once in London, Shaw doggedly wrote some each day. His early writings were not well received. Being Irish, he was misunderstood in London. Shaw had to make London think as he did. His purpose was not to please the people but to stir them up—make them think. Mrs. Poindexter vividly presented the letters of Ellen Terry to Shaw, and Shaw's letters to her. She pointed out how this correspondence inspired Shaw and influenced his writings. Shaw did not think of himself as a complete success. He said, "To succeed is to have finished one's business on earth. . . I want my goal in front of me, not behind me." At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Coleman served a sweet course with coffee. Add a little ginger to the salt and pepper mixture that is to be rubbed into a lamb roast.

Gospel Of Radical Change Unheard

For several years now, leaders in agriculture and the tobacco industry have preached the gospel of radical change that is needed in production of American flue-cured tobacco if that important industry is to survive the changed conditions under which it is now forced to operate.

In spite of efforts put forth by some leaders to bring about changes needed to meet altered circumstances, there seems to have been little accomplished in the way of concrete departures from what has been done in the industry for many years.

Is the flue-cured tobacco industry undergoing a gradual transition at the production level to meet the changed demands of purchasers? Or is it traveling down the same old road that proved adequate before the radical changes in market demands came into being several years ago?

These questions should be matters of major concern not only to those directly engaged in producing and selling tobacco but also to those who live in this Eastern Carolina area which is so heavily dependent upon tobacco for its livelihood.

While we have made some headway in the last couple of years toward producing the kind of tobacco in greatest demand in domestic and world markets, it is apparent that the progress has not been sufficient to stem the decline in our share of the world market. Because of price or quality or both, we have seen world market sales that formerly came to American flue-cured producers going to new tobacco producing areas in the world.

Officials of the Stabilization Corporation, one of the pillars of the tobacco program, have asserted that organization is getting into critical circumstances, and some changes must be brought about if it is to survive.

There has been talk of altering the tobacco program to more effectively control production and place greater emphasis upon the quality of tobacco which is in most demand: There have been gestures made toward framing a tobacco program which will be more in keeping with times and conditions which have been brought about by changes in the market demands.

For the most part, however, leaders in agriculture and the tobacco industry are forced to content themselves with efforts to convince government officials as well as growers that some rather radical departures from past methods of operations are necessary. They have no really effective power to implement their convictions. They have to rely almost altogether upon their persuasive powers which under most circumstances are slow in bringing desired results.

While these efforts have gone on in recent years, there seems to have been a steady deterioration in the situation faced by the producers of American flue-cured tobacco. The progress made in the right direction has not been sufficient to keep up with the changed times.

Will the tobacco industry which has been the life-bread of much of North Carolina's agriculture continue its gradual downhill glide until it becomes almost insignificant? Or will we check the decline in time with a program to effectively meet the needs the industry faces.

The longer the delay in effecting such a program, the more radical departure it will make from the existing program. And if we wait too long, no program, regardless of how radical it might be, will be able to salvage the gigantic tobacco industry that has undergirded the economy of Eastern North Carolina and other agricultural regions of the South.

The Essential Type Of Local Leadership

The leadership which W. H. Woolard provided in the business and civic affairs of Greenville and Pitt County for the better part of four decades will be sorely missed.

As chairman of the Pitt County Board of Education from 1924 until 1949, Mr. Woolard was a major force in solving the multitude of problems which arose for the county's public schools during the depression years and during the period of recovery and war years which followed. He also rendered invaluable service as a member of the Greenville Utilities Commission for a number of years and played a key role in the North Carolina Farm Bureau as chairman of its associate membership committee for many years.

To recount the many services Mr. Woolard rendered to his community and his state during his lifetime would be almost impossible. Over a long period of years he was active in every phase of community life, and was willing to devote his time and energies to bettering his community.

His leadership in business affairs is attested to by the growth and development of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company which under his direction and leadership grew from a local banking institution in Greenville to one of the major banking concerns of the state serving 13 communities with 17 offices at the time of his retirement as its president a little more than a year ago.

The kind of leadership Mr. Woolard rendered to Greenville and Pitt County is the kind which is essential to the progress and growth of any community.

Demands Made By AFL-CIO

By RALPH ROBEY

News is always made at a conference of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The recent meeting in San Juan, Puerto Rico, did not live up to this record, but did rather better. All kinds of resolutions were adopted, and each of them, if it were carried out, would affect every person in the United States. Among the high spots were the following:

1. There was criticism of the Administration for its insistence on a balanced budget. Instead of being worried about inflation, the AFL-CIO insisted the Administration should give top priority to more jobs and economic growth. Of course the Administration is giving constant study to those problems, but it believes, and properly so, that neither more jobs nor more economic growth will come from inflation.

2. The AFL-CIO asked that a law be passed reducing the present statutory 40-hour week to a 35-hour week. The reasoning offered was that this would spread the work and thereby help solve the unemployment problem. Actually the result of such a change would be that overtime pay would start after 35 hours instead of 40 hours. This would increase the cost of production and would mean either higher prices or lower business profits.

3. It was resolved that there should be direct union representation on the Federal Reserve Board of Governors and on the Boards of Directors of each of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks. This is truly an amazing request. The boards of the individual Reserve banks consist of three classes of directors—one representing the banks, one representing business, and one presenting the public. Each class consists of three members. The Board of Governors consist of seven members, all of whom are appointed by the President with the consent of the Senate, and they are supposed to represent the entire nation.

There has been substantial criticism of the policies of the Federal Reserve Board in recent years, based upon the thesis that the Board was too restrictive—that it was not permitting the volume of money and credit to expand as rapidly as it should. That is the ground upon which the AFL-CIO asks for representation. In other words, the AFL-CIO wants lower interest rates and more rapid increase in the money supply; and, presumably, one of the major reasons for wanting this is that it thinks this would make getting higher wages easier.

Actually, the Reserve Board has done a superb job of managing our money and banking system over the past several years. Nothing could be worse from the viewpoint of the welfare of the general public than to have its authority undermined, and requiring that either labor or any other particular group must be represented on the membership of the Board would completely destroy its independence.

4. A resolution was adopted calling for an investigation of the causes of rising prices by the Congressional Joint Economic Committee. The underlying purpose of this is to free labor unions of the charge that they have been responsible for higher prices through having forced wages up more rapidly than output per manhour increased. Senator Paul Douglas, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, is going to make such a study. It also should be noted that the Administration has appointed two committees to analyze the causes of inflation—one consisting of sub-Cabinet members, with Raymond Saurin the chairman, and the other of the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

All told it was quite a ten days the AFL-CIO Executive Council had in this meeting. For the moment at least, little results will come from its resolutions. But there is no time for complacency; sooner or later a real drive will be made to accomplish these objectives, and to the extent this drive is successful, we shall pay for it in higher and higher prices.

Uncovered In The Mails

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

We are not quite sure whether this marks a victory of culture over cleanliness, but a survey shows more American homes now have TV sets — 42,400,000 — than have bathtubs — 41,500,000. Rattlesnake meat is gaining favor as a cocktail tidbit. Connoisseurs say that if you just close your eyes, you can't tell the difference between it and chicken or frog legs.

Rural superstition: many old-time farmers would never set a hen on an even number of eggs for fear of bringing bad luck. Does your husband shine his own shoes: Three out of four American men now do.

West's German Front

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK Mass. — In my column last week on Berlin and the stock market I concluded that the entire Russian-German situation depends upon whether either nation is prepared to defend itself against hydrogen or atom bombs. If Russia backs down on her Berlin ultimatum, it means that her Siberian experiments with antimissiles have not been a success. Surely no nation, including the United States, has a defense against them.

GERMANY HANDS OUT NO NEWS RELEASES

Russia is encouraging our newspapers, radio broadcasters, and magazines to tell of her "wonderful" scientists and laboratories. You do not hear anything of what Germany is doing. Yet the so-called Russian scientists were stolen from Germany; in fact, I believe it was a German and not a Russian who built the famous "Sputnik."

Although they are saying nothing, the Germans are far ahead of either Russia or the U.S. in scientific achievement. Russia talks as if the U.S. were her great enemy; while she knows it is Germany and China she must fear. It is the present talk of protection from enemy missiles by all nations which causes the "cold war" to continue.

EISENHOWER, deGAULLE, and MACMILLAN WORKING CLOSELY WITH DR. ADENAUER

The Democrats blame Eisenhower for everything, and talk about "the elephant sleeping in the White House." Our President may be a child at politics; but he knows Europe better than anyone in public office. He knows what Germany is doing, but he keeps it to himself as Dr. Adenauer wants him to do. The same also applies to the scientific developments of France under Charles deGaulle and of Great Britain under Harold Macmillan. President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan, and President deGaulle know that Germany is the protector of Western Europe. They are prepared to work closely with Dr. Adenauer. Great events are in the making — Germany has the world's best scientists, best laboratories, and best fighting spirit.

The Germans are not dishonest like the Russians; nor are they soft like us. They realize that in case of World War III Russia would first try to destroy West Germany. Hence, the West Germans are making plans to prevent this.

Germany has tremendous sins for which she must ultimately repent or repay. These primarily were the unforgivable persecutions of the Jews under orders from Hitler and his cohorts. Perhaps one way Germany could atone for these crimes would be by inventing a way to make the free world safe from Russian attacks or even threats.

GERMANY WILL BE THE BULWARK News releases from Russia and the U.S. are mostly about ground-to-air missiles and space stunts. The real invention the United States, Great Britain, Britain France, and especially Germany, are seeking is a ground-to-air defense missile, — and Germany will secure it. When this is found, it could secure the peace for some years to come.

The primary work of defense against all missiles is being done by Germany. The world's best physicists, metallurgists, and engineers are working on this problem in Germany with the help of Great Britain, France, and the U.S.A. Russia is more interested in conquering space. Remember that no country releases its most important inventions to the public. Such work is highly "classified." I believe a safe defense against missiles will be found. This will make Germany all-powerful in her strategic position as the bulwark of the free nations. Russia is truly afraid — not of the U.S.A. or Great Britain or France — but of Germany. Russia is handicapped and greatly embarrassed by having West Berlin and Western Germany advanced so in everything while East Berlin and East Germany are stagnant.

The only way Khrushchev now sees to stop this is by absorbing Berlin. Of course the Germans will not agree to this, nor will Great Britain, France, or

Recognition Of Relative Values

By LYNN NISBET

COMPARATIVE — The visit of the Legislature to Charlotte the other day served to emphasize the fact that things are important or not only in relation to each other. One of the biggest problems confronting the assembly is proper recognition of relative values.

The time element is a factor. The 1959 General Assembly went to Charlotte 20 years ago and held formal sessions in the relatively new Mecklenburg county courthouse. This time the meetings were held in a modern gymnasium in a recreation park. Much was made of the fact that 20 years ago the trip was made by train and took three hours travel time, while this year it was made by plane and required half an hour in the air. But the number of people, the type of people and the character of legislation handled was almost exactly the same both times.

One of the main impressions had to do with the importance of little things. That showed up in details of the local planning—even to the fine point of having seats on the gym floor arranged and numbered just like they are in the capitol. (That little courtesy was appreciated as much as the big airplanes.) It was strikingly illustrated in the two industries visited—the Douglas missile plant and Lance packing company.

Douglas employs 1900 people at a weekly payroll of $175,000. Of the $2.5 million spent every month for component parts of the missiles 75 per cent is paid to North Carolina firms. And the items manufactured have a delivery price to the Government of about $105,000 each.

LITTLE? — Your reporter did not get payroll and purchase figures from Lance, except that the plant uses 30 tons of North Carolina grown peanuts every day. (When Sen. Henry Grady Shelton of Edgecombe and Rep. Raynor Woodard of Northampton heard that they confessed less resentment about the Piedmont "hogging" state industry.)

Most of the packages delivered from Lance in its own fleet of trucks and by common carrier have an item price of five cents instead of $105,000. Yet there isn't a great deal of difference in the average daily tonnage of products shipped by Douglas and Lance.

Legislators are familiar with the way a lot of little items can add up to whopping total. They are faced every session with the fact that salaries of all administrative and executive officials in the $10,000 class can be doubled at a total cost to taxpayers of about one million dollars. But a one per cent raise in school teacher salaries, less than $5 a month for each teacher, will cost a million and a half.

FIRST HAND — Another value obtained from the Charlotte Jaunt was that many legislators got their first view of the biggest city in the Carolinas—and many who had often visited the downtown business section had never seen the industrial development around the edges.

Most frequently voiced regret was that one day just did not have enough time to see the place. "Don't feel badly about that," said one long time Charlotte resident. "I've seen more of my home town today than I ever saw before. We'll both have to come back for a longer visit."

RESPONSIBILITY — National publicity, almost all of it unfavorable, about the episode at a recent basketball game between Carolina and Wake Forest furnished the springboard for an expression of faith and confidence in the good sense of college students by a top university man.

W.D. Carmichael Jr., vice president and comptroller of the Consolidated University, but better known throughout the state just as "Billy," was talking to the Raleigh Kiwanis. He deplored the incident at Winston-Salem and others of like nature but less publicized, and admitted that responsibility for preventing recurrences rests upon the public, the administration and faculty of the colleges—but mostly on the student bodies. He paid high tribute to the success of student government at all the major institutions and said he is certain that under their own fine leadership the student bodies will within the next two or three years make such occurrences impossible.

He said he thought the suggestion that certain institutions should quit playing each other was an insult to the good sense of all involved.

Other Editors Saying... Strict Finance Controls

(Henderson Dispatch)

One of the strongest arguments in favor of establishing a State comptroller is that the idea comes from Senator Lindsay Warren. The senator is qualified to speak by reason of the fact that he served for years as comptroller general of the United States. He retired from that office not long ago because of ill health and hence is not a candidate for the job. That also adds weight to his sponsorship of the proposal.

There is no reason why the office of comptroller should not be worth as much to the State of North Carolina as it is to the Federal government, though in more limited manner. This would not be an act of suspicion of any department or official. It's just plain good business.

It stands to reason that when the Legislature votes a billion dollars to be spent within the biennium — any biennium, that is, and as it will likely be from here on — and lacks adequate checks and controls on what becomes of that money, there may at some point be laxness in spending, both as to amounts and purpose. Fine points of interpretation could admit of outlays scarcely intended by the lawmakers in the first place. This could happen without it is criminal liability whatever. It is just poor procedure.

What concerns us, however, is as to whether this is to be just another State agency or bureau which of itself would call for considerable expenditure. North Carolina now has a State auditor, who is a constitutional officer and elected by the people. What would become of that office? Would it be abolished in favor of a comptroller, with similar duties and functions only under another name? Or could the auditor be clothed with the power that normally would be delegated to a comptroller and the same results be obtained?

Definitely there should be a close check upon State funds, in whatever name or designation, the service should be provided. Constant check in all directions should be kept. Savings would probably be many times the amount required to maintain the office.

We admit to considerable ignorance as to just what the State auditor does — and the reference is to be the office, not the man occupying it. If that official could be given the necessary authority — assuming he does not now have it, hence the proposal for a comptroller — that might achieve the objectives Senator Warren has in mind. If it be necessary to abolish the present department and replace it with a comptroller in order to have adequate controls over State spending, by all means let's have the latter.

We would readily go along with the proposal if it does not add to the already mushrooming bureaucracy in State government. If just another job, that is something else again.

No man is better equipped and no one can speak with more authority or experience on the value of a comptroller than Senator Warren. With our own high evaluation of the Beaufort senator, his integrity and his long and unselfish public service, we are willing to rely heavily upon his recommendations.

Nikita Will Affect Your Future

By ELMER ROESSNER

Nikita S. Khrushchev, who has the rare ability of making up his mind two different ways at once, will have a lot of effect on your economic future for a long time to come.

Your unemployed brother-in-law may get a job, your wife may complain about still higher prices, and you may find yourself reading news from Europe a little more carefully.

Khrushchev's frequent changes in stance when addressing the Berlin and German unification problems have convinced many, including some Congressmen, that he is playing a diplomatic game too devious for understanding, or that he has the kind of mentality that some day may cause him to remark, "I didn't know it was loaded!"

A group of Congressmen have been demanding that the government speed up work on intercontinental ballistic missiles; that it strengthen defenses against enemy missiles, planes and submarines, and that the nation be put on a defense footing, if not a war basis.

Congressmen who have opposed a huge step-up of defense spending at this time have little argument left. True, the Soviets have agreed to attend a Foreign Ministers conference, and that action may postpone a showdown on the Berlin issue.

But Khrushchev demonstrated the ability to decide in two directions at once in his dealings with England's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Therefore, Congressmen urging moderation in defense programs cannot rely on the current conference proposals. Most of them will have to go along on plans for stepping up defense spending. These proposals may soon have enough support to make a veto as unlikely as it would be unwise.

SO, MORE INFLATION However, the public has not yet been "conditioned" to the present danger. It is not yet ready to accept a rise in taxes. It is still of the opinion that taxes should be reduced.

That makes it almost impossible for Congress to raise taxes enough to cover increased defense spending. And it has shown a distinct unwillingness to cut other spending — such as for welfare, housing, farm supports, etc., sufficiently to pay for added weapons.

So, in the end, an unbalanced budget will be voted. Increased defense appropriations will provide many more jobs. And the unbalanced budget will increase inflation, boosting prices, creating demands for higher pay, and further impoverishing those who live on fixed income.

FULL YANKUS INQUIRY

"Have you wired your Congressman about Yankus?" The Old Promoter demanded today when he walked in, unannounced as usual.

"Stanley Yankus, the farmer who is going to migrate to Australia because the government fined him $4,562 for growing more wheat than acreage restrictions permitted."

"Our memory revived. 'Yankus fed the excess wheat to his chickens.' The Old Promoter went on. 'He had bought the feed from a farm supply house, he would not have been fined. Before he leaves the country, we ought to find out how this strange man who voted for this strange law have an interest in farm supply stores, and whether any government officials who urged passage of the law had any such interest. I'm not suspicious of anyone, but I'd sure like to know.'"

So would I.

Tightened Credit Has Broad Impact

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Tightening credit when demand for it is fairly slack would seem at first glance to pack a faint punch. But the act could be a sleeper, affecting almost everyone in time.

The financial fraternity is busy today trying to assess the long-range effects of making interest rates higher and credit scarcer at this stage of the business recovery.

Dearer money hits anyone who must borrow or might want to borrow. It tends to weaken the price of existing corporate and government bonds that pay lower interest than the new going rate.

But the long term effect on business in general is debatable.

Reactions to the raising of interest rates by some Federal Reserve banks run all the way from a shrug—the rates were merely being brought into line with other rates that already had risen higher than the fed's—to fear that this new warning against stock market exuberance and the gathering forces of inflation might squelch the business recovery born of new confidence and prepare the way for another recession.

The truth may be somewhere in the middle.

Federal Reserve Board officials have made no secret of their fear that creeping inflation might get onto its feet and start running. President Eisenhower is trying to arouse Congress to the same danger.

So raising to 3 per cent the interest the Federal Reserve charges member banks for borrowing can be interpreted as a move to discourage any borrowing to finance speculation or a runaway business boom.

But it is also true that the interest the U.S. Treasury must pay the banks for short-term loans has been higher than the interest the banks must pay the fed to get lendable funds. And thus the fed can say it was just accepting the facts of financial life at the moment—that it was following, not leading.

And business borrowing has been notably slack, so that the immediate effect of the interest rise could be slight.

Business hasn't been borrowing as much from the banks during the recovery as before the recession for two reasons:

1. It has more cash of its own. This has come from stringent measures taken during the recession to pare costs to the bone and to postpone all kinds of spending, from depreciation allowances in writing off the many plants and quantities of new equipment put into place in recent years, and from living off inventories instead of buying more materials.
2. Business has completed or cut back many of its expansion programs. It thus doesn't need to borrow as much as when the programs were growing.

It isn't business but government (and to some extent home construction) that built up the demand for lendable funds in recent months and sent interest rates rising. The federal government has had to borrow because the Treasury is running 13 billion dollars into the red. State and local governments have had to borrow because they are building all manner of facilities and financing all manner of services.

The fed's dread of inflation may be more fear of what government deficits can do to the money and credit supply than that business may want to borrow wisely.

And its warning it will try what means it can to curb inflation may be aimed more at the continuing wage-price spiral and stock speculation than at fear that business may get loans too cheaply.

The East Carolina Varsity came alive in the second half Saturday afternoon to swamp a game but outmanned Alumni outfit, 32-12, at College Stadium.

All-Conference Ed Emory, Earl Sweet, Wayne Davis, and Chuck Gordon led the line play of the winners. Fullback Mac Thacker was the big ground-gainer for the Eucs but had plenty of help from Matthews, Bass, Speight, Hanford, and David Rogers.

The game, an annual affair sponsored by the Varsity Club, closed out winter football drills for Coach Jack Boone and his squad. The Eucs started their off-season actively early in January.

Coach Jack Boone substituted freely in the action-packed tilt. The club looked a little rugged in the first half but smoothed things out at intermission and had little trouble rolling to their big victory margin.

No serious injuries were reported from the game which was witnessed by approximately 1,000 spectators who braved the chilly weather.

Their Best Lines Often Are Lost In Shuffle

By EDMOND LEBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — "There are no commercial buyers for our products," the witness told the congressional committee.

He was Maj. Gen. J. B. Medaris, head of the Army ordnance team that produces missiles to carry nuclear warheads and propel satellites into space.

Medaris' wry complaint, like many another pithy phrase, was lost among the millions of words uttered on Capitol Hill since the 86th Congress took office in January.

Some deserved a better fate. For example, there was Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey's one-sentence argument for the draft. "It has been my observation that most people who favor a purely volunteer force do not volunteer."

And the adage quoted by Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.) to underline the need for avoiding conflicts between public and private interests—something connected with the beginnings of his public life in Texas.

"There's only me," the speaker said, settling down behind his desk. "shoot."

Dying Boy Met His Three Heroes

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Gilbert Schooling, 15, dying of muscular dystrophy and pneumonia, met his heroes in person Sunday.

He looked out of his oxygen tent and a smile split his face when he saw movie star Pat O'Brien, auto racer Jimmy Bryan and television actor Tris Coffin.

They were old friends to Gilbert. He had watched them often on TV. He told his best friend, Sheriff's Dep. Jerry Centner, he'd like to have them come to see him.

Centner said that turned out to be no problem.

Pat O'Brien handed the youth a baseball autographed by all the Boston Red Sox, training at nearby Scottsdale.

Gilbert thought it was great but he said a little wistfully. "I wish it had come from my own San Francisco Giants."

The veteran actor choked off tears later when he said, "I came to give the kid a lift and instead he gave me one. I have four of my own but I felt he was one of them."

Bryan left a model of the racer in which he won the 1958 Indianapolis 500-mile.

Gilbert asked about it, and talked a lot about racing.

"I was amazed," said Bryan afterward. "The kid keeps up with everything and he knows as much about racing as I do."

Coffin, star of TV's "26 Men," the story of the Arizona Rangers, left a marshal's star and autographed pictures.

"His favorite," said Coffin, "seemed to be the one of my horse."

No Third Party For Gov. Coleman

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Gov. J. P. Coleman of Mississippi said Sunday he would not join a third party if one should arise in the South over racial issues.

The governor told a youth panel on a local television show. "I've always been opposed to third parties. They can't win and therefore don't do much good. But they're always a possibility."

As to his own political allegiance:

"Some Northern agitators in the Democratic party want to make one question determine all questions. But I'll try my best to stay honorably within the party, and I won't leave the party unless they kick me out."

The nine-acts of Eugene O'Neill's play "Strange Interlude" (including a dinner intermission) ran for 426 nights on Broadway.

Tough-built Chevy truck bulls its way deep into the woods for mammoth loads

This big Series 60 Chevy bulls its way as far as 8 miles into the Louisiana woods, rights over ruts and jagged stumps . . . then grinds back out with towering loads of logs! The Sabine Lumber Company attests to the truck's ability to take it: "Chevrolet makes the best truck for our type of operation."

Out where a truck is known for the beating it can take, Chevy's making friends fast. Truckers like the way these toughies hold up; the way they wedge right in, take their lumps, yet stay in shape.

Today, it's grit that Chevy's showing the trucking industry. Real toughness that pays off in job-after-job dependability . . . in ability to get work done at least expense. You can match Chevy muscle against any tough light-, medium- or heavy-duty job and know you've got it beat!

Your Chevrolet dealer's ready right now to meet your special work requirements. Stop by and see him soon.

No job's too tough for a Chevrolet truck!

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

(See York, N. Y. Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In a case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in proprietary ointment form under the name Preparation 21. At your drugstore. Money back guarantee.

Barn Destroyed In Sunday Fire

A barn burned on the Van C. Fleming Jr. farm about three miles from Greenville on the Bethel Highway around 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

Greenville Firemen said the barn was completely in flames when they arrived at the scene. Destroyed along with the barn was some corn and hay stored inside.

Early this morning firemen were called to the home of Joe Saad at 1714 S. Elm St. when some tobacco stems piled by a garage began smoking.

There was no damage.

CBS Radio Show Tapped For Possible VOA Use

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Experts of the U. S. Information Agency's global radio network, "Voice of America," are studying tape recordings of CBS radio's "Galen Drake Show," believing it has possibilities for its vast English speaking audience around the world.

Because few Americans hear the Voice they are forever forgetting its functions in the battle for men's minds on the world's radio frequencies.

Many have the vague notion it's mainly engaged in exchanges of political accusation. They fail to realize that the Voice seeks to improve our relations with other peoples by telling listeners what we're like and how we live. In pursuing this aim, the Voice has developed a wide variety of programs ranging from rock 'n' roll to lectures on agricultural pest control.

Knowing this, anyone who listens to Galen Drake (weekdays, 10:30 a. m. EST) realizes that he often conveys the unique quality of American folkways which would be readily understandable to people of other cultures.

For instance, the basic idea of "the war between men and women" is as familiar—and amusing—to people in Africa and the Middle East as to Americans. A Galen Drake story on this theme: "There was a man who complained that his wife kept asking him for money, a dollar one day, five the next day, three the day after that. She never STOPPED wanting money. When he was asked what his wife did with all that money, he replied: 'I don't know. So far I haven't given her any.'

Almost any anecdote dealing with the soil and man's efforts to wrest a living from it has universality of appeal — and Drake seems to have thousands of them.

Drake's suitability for overseas broadcasts has undergone a considerable endurance test during the past decade as an attraction on the Armed Forces Radio Network. It recently offered his 181st rebroadcast.

"Voice of America" experts feel that the substance and style of Drake's anecdotes are especially suited to the Middle East and Far East where the parable is a basic form in literature.

TARBORO, N. C. (AP) — A 50-year-old housepainter who has spent many years in prison on assorted charges, including assaulting his wife, is scheduled to die May 15 for murdering her.

He is Otis Manning, who was convicted here Saturday by a jury that pondered a mercy recommendation for about three hours.

A member of the jury told a newsman there was no question of his conviction, only a question of whether to recommend mercy. This would have made life imprisonment mandatory.

Mrs. Manning, 47, was shot at their home last Nov. 7. A few days before, she had obtained a warrant charging her husband with assault, but then withdrew it.

Manning testified he remembered nothing from the Monday before the shooting on Friday until the following Thursday.

Manning was indifferent when he heard the verdict. After he was sentenced by Judge Reid Thompson, he placed his folded hands over his eyes, and bowed his head for a full minute.

Then he straightened, and chucked his gum vigorously. The sentence is subject to automatic review by the State Supreme Court.

Vows She Will Fly Once Again

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Joan Zeller, 21, American Airlines stewardess injured in a plane crash which killed 65 persons, made good her word that she'd fly again.

She was discharged Sunday from Flushing Hospital, New York and flew with her mother to Providence to continue her convalescence at home.

Miss Zeller's Chicago to New York flight, carrying 73 persons, crashed into the East River Feb. 4.

"Still walking with two canes, she vowed she'll go back to work as a stewardess."

Rossini's comic opera, "The Barber of Seville," was first performed in Rome in 1816.
