Speight, in making the county's proposal, pointed out that the present law allows the ABC board to set up a 20 per cent of net profits fund for law enforcement.

Brookgreen Entrance Is Topic

Brookgreen Garden Club members were served coffee, brownies and nuts during the social hour in the home of Mrs. J. T. Cheatham Jr. prior to the business session.

Mrs. Plato Evans, projects chairman, reported that progress was being made on the erection of gateposts for entrance of Brookgreen. Property owners have made contributions toward the building of the gateposts.

Program chairman, Mrs. Tom Rivers Jr., read a paper written by Mrs. Rivers Sr. on "Color In Your Garden Year Around April 8, 1959."

She stressed the importance of careful planning the yard according to colors needed; plants adaptation to sun or shade; and size of shrubs and flowers.

It was brought out that in the fall one should plan and plant for spring flowers, and in spring they should plan and plant for fall blooming plants.

Mrs. Rivers listed the shrubs that might be adapted to the neighborhood as being dogwood, crape myrtle, redbud, forsythia, flowering crab, conifers, hemlocks, junipers, etc. She stressed the importance of variety in yards, using as many native shrubs as possible, planting for year around color in the yard as well as shrubs that will be green the year around.

Cuttings were shown of flowers and shrubs that would add to the interest of the yard and would be used in the house in flower arrangements.

Quoted from Francis Bacon, "God Almighty first planted a garden, and, indeed, it is the purest of human pleasures."

Mrs. J. T. Cheatham was appointed chairman of the committee to investigate and promote the improvement of the mailboxes in Brookgreen.

Present Licensing Laws Are OK

There seems little real reason for the passage of either of two bills in the legislature which would require one group of fishermen to have licenses and exempt another group of sportsmen from requirement that they purchase hunting and fishing licenses.

In the broad scope, North Carolina has a fairly good system of requirements for licensing individuals who take fish and game in the state. Passage of either or both of the proposed new bills would, it seems to us, be detrimental rather than helpful to the state.

On the one hand there is a renewal of the proposal that the "worm bill" be passed. It is legislation which would require residents fishing in their home county with hook and line and natural bait to purchase fishing licenses. An unsuccessful effort was made to pass a similar proposal in the last session of the General Assembly.

On the other hand there is a bill which would issue free hunting and fishing licenses to any resident of the state 65 years old or older.

While the "worm bill" would bring in a good bit of revenue for the state, it would at the same time deprive a great many individuals of the simple past-time of sitting by a pond or stream with a cane pole, a hook and a worm. Worm fishermen for the most part are those who either by choice or economic necessity do not engage in the more elaborate forms of fishing, loaded down with modern—and often expensive—equipment.

There is no good reason to tax these fishermen for enjoying this simple recreation which causes no harm to the state's store of fish.

Neither does there seem to be any logical reason to exempt people over 65 years old from purchasing fishing and hunting licenses if they are going to enjoy the bounty of fish and game the state offers. Most folks over 65 who hunt and fish can afford the few dollars for a license just as well as their younger counterparts. Furthermore the cost of the license is an almost negligible part of the total cost of the equipment and supplies used during a year to pursue the sports.

If persons over 65 were exempt from purchasing hunting and fishing licenses, it would take a big bite out of revenues which operate the state's wildlife program. It would mean that higher fees would have to be required from those who purchase licenses if the overall program were not to suffer.

North Carolina's present license requirements for hunting and fishing are both adequate and equitable, all things considered.

The legislature would do well to forget both the worm bill and the proposal that elderly sportsmen be exempt from paying a fee for the privilege of shooting game or catching fish.

Great Day For Hawaii And 49 Other States

There is cause for celebration in the other 49 states of the union just as there is in Hawaii over congressional action which will add the 50th state to the United States of America.

The long, and often disheartening struggle of Hawaii for statehood has ended. It will now join the other states of the nation on an equal basis after almost 59 years as an incorporated territory of the United States.

The fact that Hawaii will now become a state should be a source of great satisfaction to the people of the other states just as it is sure to be to the 600,000 people of the mid-Pacific island area. Hawaii has long since earned the right to the full privileges of statehood. For too long it was denied admission to the nation on an equal basis with other states.

For all practical purposes, those matters are now a thing of the past. Hawaii will assume its position of statehood, the privileges and obligations which go with the position.

Certainly it is a great day for Hawaii, and in just as real a sense, it is a great day for the United States as the last barrier is overcome to add the 50th star to the nation's flag.

Both Sides Are On A See Saw

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans are on a delicate see-saw which may affect the 1960 elections as well as the national economy.

The trouble is that both sides are involved in economic theories and neither can predict with certainty the result of their actions.

President Eisenhower is dedicated to the idea of keeping down government spending in order to balance the budget, which can only be done if the government's revenue from various taxes equal or exceeds its expenses.

There's one way, of course, to be sure revenue is bigger than outgo and that is to raise taxes. No one is talking about that with any enthusiasm.

The Democrats argue there isn't anything necessarily sacred about balancing a budget at a time when 4,700,000 people are unemployed and, they say, the government must encourage sufficient growth.

A couple of examples show the split between Democrats and Republicans on what is needed.

The Democrats on the joint congressional Economic Committee this week issued a report with which the Republican members disagreed.

But some of the Democrats didn't see eye-to-eye on everything and neither did the Republicans.

"While a balance or even a surplus in the budget is desirable in times of maximum employment," the Democratic majority report said, "neither the soundness of our money nor our potential for economic growth and stability in 1959 and thereafter necessarily depends on balancing a 77-billion-dollar federal budget. Eisenhower proposed a 77-billion-dollar budget. He estimated that if spending could be held to that limit, and if there were some added revenue like increased gasoline taxes and postage rates, the government would wind up about 70 million dollars ahead.

The Republicans on the committee denied the Democrats had any monopoly on wanting to see the country grow and accused the Democrats of being "cloudy and unclear."

Eisenhower has repeatedly contended that inflation — or less purchasing power for the dollar — is one of the penalties of unbalanced budget spending.

So much for theory. Meanwhile, Democrats and Republicans are split on specifics.

In a surprise move last week Democratic leaders in Congress called for a one-year extension of the emergency unemployment compensation program voted by Congress last year. It is due to end April 1.

Tuesday House Republican leaders lined up with the President against what they called a lengthy extension of unemployment pay. They specifically hit at extending it a year, but indicated a shorter extension might be considered.

It isn't hard to see the political implications if unemployment continues at its present high level or goes higher.

Then there's the question of national defense. Eisenhower asked for what he considered enough money for this. Democrats are challenging his position on this and are talking of voting more money for defense.

Fixed up in all this are other problems — like the amount to be spent on foreign aid, and so on — but most of them are still in the talking stage.

No matter which side has its way, the economy will be affected. Since both sides are dealing in theories, each can only hope it knows what's best.

BAFFLING BUT ARRESTING QUESTION

Many questions arise in people's minds concerning the significance of life. There is probably no question which more often assails us than this: "What is life anyway?"

In other words, what is that something within us which causes us to function as living beings, and then a quick accident, a prolonged illness, and this "something" departs. What is it? No one, of course, can answer that question. If we could answer that we would know as much as God Himself. But this we do know, namely, that God has put life into our bodies in order that we may experience a season of testing. Any other interpretation of life is superficial and without purpose. Many people live as if life were simply an opportunity for them to have a good time. For others life is a matter of making money or acquiring power or living within the narrow confines of their own interests. They have some overwhelming desires which they blow up to such proportions that these desires become for them life itself.

Ponder the idea that life is God's provision for the testing of our souls. Life is a pilgrimage. We stumble and falter and perhaps fall if we try to make it anything else. It requires courage for us to live life successfully and to its limits. Don't let life get you down. God designs precisely the opposite—life is intended to get us up, and up, and up.

To Keep It From Boiling Over—

By DON SCHLIENZ

Just Sitting & Thinking

Just thinking . . .

What a loose construction we put to the word "security."

Here we have three cold war installations coming into Pitt and its environs . . . and . . . contrary to what other people might do, we conveniently pinpoint their precise locations for all the world to know about.

One can almost imagine a minor official in some unnamed embassy pulling out an atlas of North Carolina and marking three new (and neat) little circles in red ink where the VOA installations will be. He makes some marginal notes in the atlas and returns it to the shelf.

At his typewriter he bangs out a memorandum and seals the original and three carbons in an envelope for mailing; the other three carbons are filed in a nearby cabinet.

By telephone he arranges to have recent copies of newspapers published in the general locale of the new radio stations forwarded him so that pertinent articles may be clipped and saved for future reference.

One could pursue this fantasy into a host of surmises; but to no real purpose.

No, I've never met a "minor official in some unnamed embassy." He probably doesn't even exist. As a matter of fact, I've never met a minor official (anywhere) who identified himself as such.

Other Editors Saying . . . A Taxpayer Revolt?

(Wilson Times)

Is there a taxpayers revolt in the making? The Christian Science Monitor in an editorial headed "Second Thoughts on Spending" says it is "too early to report a general taxpayers' revolt, but some very interesting sounds are beginning to be heard."

This is true on the national, state and local level. In fact since the hospital bond issue was voted down we have learned of bond issues being voted down in other counties. Certainly the budget in Raleigh is not a spending budget, but on the conservative side.

The politicians are evidently putting their ear to the ground. For in general people are fed up with taxes. With the ever rising cost of living, with government taking the bite it does out of income, there is not enough left to make both ends meet.

Lydon Johnson, the Democratic Senate leader, is doing all in his power to convince the electorate that the Democrats are not profligate spenders. Senator Proxmire, who questions the one man authority he says Johnson is exercising, is asking for a balanced budget.

Republican House leader Charles Halleck says he is receiving great numbers of letters urging economy. Mr. Rockefeller, who went into office on a big outlay budget for New York state is now having his hand called on new taxes to provide the spending programs he advocated.

States are in difficulty finding the necessary funds on which to operate. Michigan can't pay its bills, California has a deficit to make up, so does South Carolina and Florida. Pennsylvania has to raise $200 million in new taxes.

Taxpayers are letting their officials hear from them. "The Governor of Washington says he is being swamped with mail protesting any tax increases. His constituents even go as far as to say they do not want more services from the state.

It is a good sign, although for the present it is only a sign. For there are too many who hold to the theory that anything you get from Uncle Sam is free. There are still too many pet projects.

But for the first time in years the public is beginning to realize the reason for the high taxes, government spending. We have seen the first bond issue in Wilson defeated, something we never expected to see.

Are our citizens beginning to realize that inflation is the greatest danger this nation faces? Are they beginning to see that if we cannot pay our way in good times we have no chance of surviving in an economic slump?

The questioning is healthy. And there is enough being done to be encouraging. We may be seeing the beginning of a taxpayers' revolt. A constructive reappraisal of what is necessary and what is not would do more to bring about stability than any other force. For if growth has to come with inflation the price is too high. If there is a change in attitude it is a healthy one.

OF DIRT AND NONSENSE

(The Beaumont Enterprise)

The American public has accepted labor unionism as something that is here to stay. However, occasionally something happens which spreads righteous indignation among the workingman's friends.

Take the case of the dirty widow, which held up departure of a New Haven Railroad train for 25 minutes, with nearly 1,000 commuters aboard.

The engineer reported that the window of his locomotive needed cleaning, but he refused to touch it because to have done so would have violated union rules.

So the hundreds of passengers who longed for home and loved ones nursed their mounting blood pressures until a man with the proper classification could be found to improve the engineer's vision.

What a wealth of power for good is exercised in the many communities of America by civic and fraternal organizations! Greenville and the communities of Pitt are no exception; there are dozens of such groups, big and small.

There is undeniably some degree of self-interest involved in some of them, but they all contribute to community needs. Sometimes money is involved, but more often it's a matter of doing. A little bit of work contributed by many hands really counts.

Something else you may have noticed:

So often, it seems, people who are active in one organization are active in other organizations. They seem to need outlets for an awful lot of energy.

Every year, one . . . two or maybe three new organizations are born here. Look at the names of the charter members and most of them will be recognized as active in other groups. The time and dedicated effort these clubs represent is incalculable; just as is their bettering of community life.

I can remember when being labeled a "joiner" was not quite a compliment.

Today it's different.

Last night, while sitting through one of my infrequent bridge lessons, I recalled how simple the game used to seem. Our parents started we boys on Auction (back in the days when Sims and Whitehead were authorities to whom bridge players paid homage). As a game, it wasn't so very complicated; or, maybe it was just that we weren't so very complicated.

Then Contract came on the scene, and the Cubertsons with

Kissing Horses Passe

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In the old Westerns the hero usually wound up being bussed by his faithful pony.

Because of a growing feminine interest in these horbeat sagas, however, horse kissing has died out as a major American art.

To please the ladies in the audience, the story now ends with the hero in a tender clinch with the faithful dance hall hostess — and the faithful horse can go eat grass, for all anybody cares.

Kissing pretty actresses seems an ideal job to the average man. But there are days when Gene Barry would just as soon turn this chore over to a stand-in.

For a temperamental actress, he implied, can be worse than a temperamental mustang.

"Some of them try to give you that old feminine flimflam," Gene said.

"Then it's pretty hard to make love to them. But a fellow can always manage. I always ask myself, 'If their own mother loved them, why can't I?'"

Barry, like that real-life Western character, Billy the Kid, was born in New York City. In his first stage role he played Bluebeard in the sixth grade in Public School 121 in Brooklyn.

He began his professional career at 16. He sold jewelry, shoes and ladies' wear before making the big time on Broadway.

Since then he has been in a dozen films, traveled the night club circuit, and appeared on more than 100 television shows before he hit the real pay dirt as Bat Masterson.

His derby hat, tight suit and gold-headed cane — often takes the place of a pistol — are now symbols of elegance to the teenagers and middle-aged ladies who idolize him.

He hopes to go on to directing and producing. But if the present mania for Westerns should fade and leave him stranded — unlikely, since he is a man of many talents — he's ready to take up a new career.

"I'd go in for contracting and building," he said. "I recently built my own house, and I like the field."

Barry recently said his goal was to have "a greater concern for the more simple and basic things" in life.

Then he added with a grin: "But first you gotta get rich. Then you don't have to worry about dough and can afford to squander your money on the simple, basic things."

It. All of a sudden bidding (which became a form of communications) and evaluation became a minor science. To be able to exchange necessary information — while staying in permissible limits (no knocking under the table) was all-important.

In time, a new system of evaluation and communication came to the fore. Its founder was a gent named Goren. This old dog is trying to learn new tricks found in the Goren System) though I fear my bridge-playing is going to be too infrequent to apply all this new knowledge.

Anyway, to get closer to the core of my ruminating, a recent magazine article outlined some facets of the world champion Italian tennis bidding which goes one step further in communicating between partners. But it's rather complicated.

Given time, it could be that bidding will be simply reduced to each partner showing the other his hand and by mutual agreement come to a contract. It would avoid an awful lot of beating around the bush and possible misinterpretation.

By throwing in a few simple knocks on the table and unmistakable throat-clearings to convey information during play of the cards, we have a brand new system.

We might as well call it the Schlienz System. Nobody else would claim it.

Reluctantly Turn To Sales Tax

By ELMER ROESSNER

Albeit reluctantly, more states and cities are turning toward sales taxes to meet rising government costs.

Reluctantly, because sales taxes slowly poison their sources. New York is recognizing this now. A rise in the city sales tax of from 3 to 4 per cent was proposed to meet the swelling city budget.

Opponents pointed out that the 3 per cent tax has driven huge totals of business outside the city. Enormous shopping centers have been put together just outside city limits, where there are no sales taxes. Most of these have been built on low-price, low-tax land.

The city has lost the tax on goods sold in these and other establishments across city lines; it has lost the right to tax the businesses in other ways; it is burdened with higher road and traffic costs because so many thousands of families drive out of the city for shopping.

CUSTOMS BARRIERS IMPRACTICAL

The city also imposes a "use" tax, which applies sales tax rates to goods purchased outside the city by residents, but to enforce full collection of this tax the city would have to set up hundreds of miles of customs barriers and the costs would far exceed all sales tax revenue.

The opponents further pointed out that raising the rate to 4 per cent would not only send more residents out of the city for shopping, but would also sharply increase the cost of living. And in many union contracts, increases in costs of living automatically increase wages. And since higher wages tend to increase prices of goods, sales taxes give prices a complete spin on the spiral of inflation.

When a sales tax does not bring a turn of inflation, its effects may be bad in another way. Since consumers' spending is sharply limited, a sales tax tends to depress sales by almost exactly the amount of the tax. A house-

1 per cent levy on net receipts, the equivalent of a sales tax.

OTHER SALES LEVIES

All states now levy gasoline taxes and almost all impose cigarette taxes, both of which are sales imposts. Eleven states are considering increases in gas taxes and the same number are devaluing increases in cigarette taxes.

One point often overlooked is that sales taxes tend to be inflationary. Since they automatically increase amounts paid for consumer goods, they automatically increase the cost of living. And in many union contracts, increases in costs of living automatically increase wages. And since higher wages tend to increase prices of goods, sales taxes give prices a complete spin on the spiral of inflation.

When a sales tax does not bring a turn of inflation, its effects may be bad in another way. Since consumers' spending is sharply limited, a sales tax tends to depress sales by almost exactly the amount of the tax. A housewife with $102 to spend in a 2 per cent sales tax area can buy only $100 of goods. The rest is claimed by taxes. This would cause retailers and the manufacturers to suffer a loss of almost 2 per cent in sales.

The American economy, the richest the world has ever known, is based on the volume manufacture and the rapid sales of consumer goods. It is strange indeed that one of our sharpest taxes should be imposed at the point of sale. That's like letting it rain into our priming pan.

CANNON? CITIES NOW WANT VINTAGE LOCOMOTIVES

Fifty years ago towns of America sought Civil or Spanish War cannons for decorating public parks.

Now they want old steam locomotives. Almost all railroads are beset with requests for castoffs for use as markers in city parks or village squares. Last year alone the Union Pacific gave eight old locomotives to as many communities and in doing it cost $50,000 worth of scrap.

Marine's Letter To Khrushchev Won $1,000

Editor's Note: The attached "Letter to Nikita Khrushchev" is a copy of the top awarded letter from the Armed Forces in the Valley Forge Patriots' Awards category.

For this letter the author, Marine Corps Lt. Col. T.N. Greene, Virginia, received the George Washington Honor Medal and $1,000 at the special George Washington Birthdays ceremonies at Freedom's Foundation's National Headquarters.

Nikita S. Khrushchev

The Kremlin Moscow, U.S.S.R. Dear Mr. Khrushchev: Don't look now. There's someone behind you. You say you will bury us. You say the peoples of the world yearn for change. You claim change will pull the rug out from under the world we know. And so, Mr. Khrushchev, your agents swarm like termites gnawing and boring in a thousand dark and rotting beams. You count too much on tearing down, on destruction, despair, and decay. Revolution truly is loose in the world today. Change does come. Rotten beams are tumbling. But Mr. Khrushchev, this is a revolution begun in 1776 and clearly stamped "Made in U.S.A."

Do you think Americans fear a changing world? Listen, Mr. Khrushchev: There was taxation without representation. We changed that. Soldiers quartered in private homes. We changed that. The old hand of tyranny choked life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. We changed that, too. And we changed slavery, and child labor, and the 80-hour work week, and poverty, and ignorance, and sickness. We changed them by building up, by building a better world. That job's just begun. Today our money and our skills work around the world, building economies with more jobs, more goods, more prosperity for all to share. Our technicians share their secrets — how to grow more food on this plot of ground, how to stamp out that plague, how to teach, to learn, to progress. And our arms, our might, and our sons help our friends patrol the beat, guarding the new world we build from wreckers, vandals, and firebugs. More than 160 million apostles of freedom are agents of revolution on your terms. We stand for those inalienable rights with which each man is endowed by his Creator. Each American abroad — the serviceman, the technician, the tourist — carries subversion to the den, the tools of tyranny: the sudden knock on the door, the rifle butt, the concentration camp, the knout, and the enforced work quota. We'll change them. And we'll change the invitations to tyranny on which you count: hunger, poverty, disease, and ignorance. Tremble, Mr. Khrushchev, but you can't turn back the clock. We bring change — light and free air to the dark places on which you and your kind feed. Let your dupes froth and scream, "Yankee Go Home." We won't go home. Not until the world is on the march toward a better life for all. You shall not herd the peoples of the world, dragging their chains, behind your bloody, red banners. Even now, nation to nation and man to man we join hands to our living revolution to change the world and build a better tomorrow. We march proudly, heads high as befits free men. Hear the life and drum, as they have since 1776, pipe the music that strikes fear to tyrants — the march of freedom. Yes, Mr. Khrushchev, there's someone behind you — and he's coming closer.

Offer Language Courses In Seventh, Eighth Grades

FT. BRAGG, N.C. — Ft. Bragg has launched an experiment in advanced and enriched elementary school programming when 111 seventh and eighth graders began taking courses in German, French and Spanish.

Foreign language training at the elementary school level, while considered quite normal in Europe, is unheard of in most of the United States.

Since study of a foreign language is not part of the basic curriculum of elementary schools, the classes are being given during after school hours and a tuition fee is being charged. The teaching is being done by volunteer military wives who are fluent in the three European tongues.

The initiation of the special classes constituted the second move within 24 hours at Ft. Bragg to expand the study of foreign languages. Last Wednesday, Bragg opened a language training facility at the Post designed to offer advanced and refresher training for military men with some proficiency in other languages.

At that time, Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, head of the U.S. Continental Army Command, stressed the importance of such training in the light of STRAC's role in American military thinking.

Maj. Gen. Robert F. Sink, XVIII Airborne Corps and St. Bragg commander, in an assembly meeting of students and teachers in the new program at the Riley School, expressed the conviction that every child should learn a foreign language. He noted that almost every one of the children present had already been overseas and that it was likely that they'd go again in the future.

The project, only a fond hope as recently as a month ago according to Lt. Col. Edna R. Miller, Dependent School officer here, rolled into higher gear during February at the desire of Gen. Sink. One of the biggest problems was the fact that Federal funds could not be employed in such an extra-curricular project. So it was decided to charge each student a tuition of one dollar a week.

The classes meet twice a week, Monday and Thursday—for an hour each day. They are limited to children in seventh and eighth grade, but Col. Miller said that the program proved a success, it was hoped that similar training could be offered lower graders.

Abandoned Movies Post For Novelist's Groans

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Dale Van Every is a crop-haired pipe smoker who might be a newsmen, movie producer or novelist. Actually, he has been all three, but novels are his great love. That's why he gave up the well-cushioned chair of producer for the novelist's bed of nails. Fifteen years later, his decision is being vindicated. His 10th book

"The Scarlet Feather" has been drawing excellent reviews and sharp interest from booksellers. The novel has been purchased by producer Howard Beck, who plans to give it the wide-screen epic treatment. To further the book's fortunes, author Van Every came to town from his Santa Barbara home to explain why he abandoned Hollywood.

"I grew up in Michigan around the turn of the century, when there were still some vestiges of the frontier. Some of the pioneers who settled the country were still alive. These pioneers made a profound impression on me. They could be ruthless and dirty and wild, but by heaven, they weren't afraid of anything. That seems a rare quality to us in these times, when there is so much fear in the world. "I became a newspaperman, covering the White House and such stories as Lindbergh's flight. That was exciting, and so was writing for movies, which I began in 1928, just as sound was coming in. "But after a dozen or more years at it, I realized that movies are not a writer's medium. Nor is the position of writer-producer the answer. I did that, too, but I found there are too many elements that stand between the writer and putting his own work on the screen. "The writer stuck to the field that intrigued him most — the pioneering days of the Midwest. Now he is being hailed as the successor to Kenneth Roberts.

An Extra Strain In Horn-Honkers

CHARLOTTE — The horn-happy motorist is the most irritating nuisance on the American road, R. T. Ellett, Jr., Safety Director of the Carolina Motor club said today. He called for a voluntary action by all area motorists to "keep hands-off-the horn" except in cases of emergency.

"Not only is the 'horn-honker' guilty of bad manners, but he adds needlessly to the stress and strain of modern-day traffic," the motor club official said. "Safety experts and psychiatrists are all agreed that irritability and emotional upset are a major cause of accidents, but even the calmest driver is hard put to remain unruffled when he is repeatedly jarred out of his wits by senseless blasts from the horn tooters."

He explained that the horn is put on automobiles as a safety device, not as a plaything or as a means of expressing impatience. "Horns should only be blown when another driver or pedestrian is in immediate danger of being struck," he claimed.

"The next time you're behind someone at a traffic light who fails to get away the minute the light changes, instead of honking your horn, try counting to five. Nine times out of ten he'll pull away without any assistance from you," Mr. Ellett said. "It'll give you a feeling of well-being, and you won't lose a half-minute a day for your courtesy."

Loan Sharks Are Castro's Target

HAVANA (AP) — A crackdown on loan sharks has been announced by Prime Minister Fidel Castro as one of the steps in his campaign to make Cuba over.

Calling the loan sharks "buzzards," Castro told Cubans: "I propose that you refuse to pay them."

The bearded leader said he had been assured by Cuban banks that they propose to develop a personal loan business at moderate interest rates.

The loan shark racket has flourished in Havana for years, with interest rates running 10 per cent a month and in some cases up to 20 per cent. Laws against usury have largely been overlooked in the past but strict enforcement is expected now.

The DEADLY LADY of MADAGASCAR

BY C. V. TERRY

CHAPTER 14

Once we had spread-eagled Mozo to the carpet, it was a simple matter to cut away his clothing and determine the extent of the wound.

The gash, as I had expected, was an ugly one in the upper thigh. To make matters worse, it was plugged with a six-inch splinter. My makeshift tourniquet had bled him cruelly into the flesh. Even so, there was a thin ooze of blood at the lips of the wound.

I had sent a seaman to fetch Tom Hoyt from his bunk, and looked up impatiently when a shadow fell between me and the light. But it was Bonita Damao who stood beside me — a disheveled, wide-eyed Bonita who had obviously roused from slumber and paused only to fling a robe about her.

"Will he live, Richard?" she asked me.

"I think so — if Dr. Hoyt can reach the artery."

I could hear Tom Hoyt stirring across the way — and cursed his fuddled state beneath my breath.

"Trust us, Bonita," I said. "He's my best helmsman — we'll save him if we can."

"Take him to my cabin," she said. "The light is better there."

She had already tossed one arm over her shoulder; when I had performed a similar office, it took but a moment to transfer the Negro from wardrobe to cabin.

The preparations for surgery where we stretched him, full length on the wide bunk. Mozo had begun to come drowsily awake now; he smiled when he realized he was in Bonita's presence. Ma Junga came forward at her nod, with a mound of white powder on a spoon. Bending closer, the Negro in a language I did not understand, the faint grin broadened as the man's lips parted to receive the contents of the spoon.

Tom had come in during this interchange; when I looked up, he was arranging his instruments on a towel. "I thought this was a one-man job," he said. "Do I have assistants?"

"Ma Junga gave him a drug to ease the pain," said Bonita. "It should make your task easier, Dr. Hoyt."

"Be that as it may," said Tom, "I'll need four pairs of arms to anchor him." He turned to give the order. "May I ask the name of the posset?"

"It comes from India," said the girl. "Ma Junga's father taught him to grind the roots from which it's made. They say it is chewed by the monsoons before he attacks the cobra."

"Mandragera, most likely," said Hoyt, with a yawn. Yet he seemed entirely alert, for all those drooping eyelids; he was studying the patient narrowly as he stepped back to allow four brawny sailors to anchor the legs and arms. He yawned again. "What did the blood look like, Dick — before you tied it off?"

"Bright red, and pulsing," I asked.

"It's an artery then. Probably the arteria femoris, or a branch thereof." It was Tom's custom to speak in this ornate fashion when he operated.

"Does that mean amputation?" asked Bonita.

The surgeon seemed not to have heard. He was examining Mozo's foot, running long fingers down its length, like a musician testing some stringed instrument.

"Release the tourniquet, please," he said.

When I loosened the belt, the blood welled noticeably around the cruel obstruction of the splinter; even to an untrained eye its pulsing character was obvious. Hoyt, with a glance at the wound, continued to tap Mozo's foot.

"Tighten, if you please," he said crisply. With the words, he shed his air of fuddled repose like an outworn garment. He was all surgeon now, dedicated to the task ahead. I had witnessed the miracle before — and never ceased to marvel at it.

"Can you save the leg?" I asked.

"Most doctors would not be so daring, Mr. Douglas," he told me. "But I'll try. I'll need at least a quart of wine or rum. Will you fetch it, senhorita?" He smiled at Bonita's involuntary look at alarm.

"Not for me this time. Wine was recommended by Hippocrates for washing wounds."

The preparations for surgery were soon made. Hoyt, tearing napkins into strips, nodded his approval as Bonita returned with a jug of wine.

"We're ready, senhorita," he said. "I suggest you leave us. This will be rather sorry, I'm afraid."

"Mozo has served me well, Doctor. I'm not squeamish about blood."

When Tom Hoyt had strapped a bandage over his finished work, he stepped back from the bunk and washed his blood-stained hands.

"Those stitches are neat, though I say it as shouldn't," he remarked. "Milady's maid could not have done better."

"As always, I found myself regarding Tom Hoyt with new respect. He looked ten years younger, at peace with himself and the world. Each man to his trade, I thought. Yours is a ship in a gale; his, the healing knife."

"Will he recover?" I asked.

"He'll be good as new in a week's time," said Tom. He dried his hands on a towel. Ma Junga offered, his eyes shining with that special pride. "As bleeders go, that one wasn't too difficult. By the way, what was the drug the senhorita gave him?"

I turned to question Bonita — and found she had quitted the cabin while I was helping with the bandaging. Judging by the way she had stood by during the surgery, I could not believe she was queasy now. The dwarf only shrugged when I asked her whereabouts.

"Perhaps she's gone topside,"

Dick," said Hoyt. "I'd send her back if I were you."

Bemused with the scalpel's work, I had half forgotten my duties as captain. Once again I noted that the wind was keeping its song in our rigging, that the Pilgrim Venture was running before the blast like a wary bird. Evidently we had spun out of the storm's eye while Tom was finishing.

Waiting between waves, in the shelter of a lashed-down tarpaulin, I gained the quarter-deck stair in a bound, determined to relieve Quill at the wheel.

To my amazement, I heard the mate's voice at once, booming any order amidstships. Hans (the only sailor I would have trusted as a helmsman in such weather) was helping to secure a new sail. The mystery explained itself when I heard Bonita's voice above me.

"Steady as she goes, Captain Douglas!"

I was beside her in a dozen strides — yet some power I could not define held me rooted to the deck, unable to snatch the wheel from her hands. I needed only a glance at the vessel's quivering length to see she was handling perfectly, that Bonita was close enough to the wind to hold our course.

Had we changed places, I would have done no differently; while my trance lasted, I could not stir — charmed as I was by her wild, proud silhouette against the stars. For that moment, she was a figurehead come alive. The thin alien robe, molded to her body by wind and spray, suggested the perfect formation of a Greek goddess' figure.

"Forgive me, Captain," she said, with her eyes on the plunging bowprit. "As you see, Quill was needed forward. Don't blame him for yielding the wheel. He's sailed with my father — and knows what I can do."

Hands, high in the rigging, had just finished testing the new sheet — and shouted to her in Dutch that the canvas would hold. Bonita ordered him to the deck in the same language. I shook off the last of my moony wonder and stepped forward to possess myself of the wheel. The eerie illusion that she — and not I — commanded the Pilgrim Venture was too much to endure.

"Don't send me away," Bonita pleaded with Dick, as the narrative continues tomorrow with a man being punished for yielding his place to Bonita.

U.S. Might Use Australian Base

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The United States may launch its first manned space satellite from the Woomera guided weapons range in Australia, official sources said today.

The officials said a party of U.S. space experts who visited Australia last month will submit a report to the U.S. government covering this and other proposals for outer space research at Woomera.

The officials said the U.S. experts had been greatly impressed with the special advantages offered by Woomera, including its isolation, security, and exceptionally high proportion of clear weather.

Rain Holds Up Farm Activity

RALEIGH (AP)—Rainy March weather has slowed down work on North Carolina farms, with soils too wet for seasonal chores.

The State Crop Reporting Service in Raleigh said today that soils were reported too wet last week in about all sections of the state. Seasonal farm work has been particularly delayed in coastal sections, the agency said.

Small grain crops were reported in mostly fair to good condition. There was a slight decline in condition of oats and barley in some mountain and central Piedmont counties.

Pastures showed some improvement, but continued to be reported as fair by most of the contributors to the Crop Reporting Service.

Vermont, like Texas, was once an independent republic. It came into the United States in 1791.

They Uncovered Worthless Find

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Two plumbers thought they had made a lucky discovery when they uncovered a rusty tin box containing about $4,000 in 1864 Confederate money.

But 14-year-old Peck Jackson burst the bubble when he told them he put the bills in a fishing tackle box and buried it in 1953.

"I just buried it to be burying something," said Peck. The money was worthless.

Speaker Reviews Nationalism, Communism In China

If, when, and how Dr. T. Z. Koo wore his pigtail became in an address at East Carolina College Wednesday a symbol of political developments in China in the early 1900's. Dr. Koo, world traveler, professor emeritus of Oriental Studies at the State University of Iowa, and former secretary of the World Affairs Institute at the college.

At the conclusion of his discussion of "The Rise of Nationalism and Communism in the Far East: Background", Dr. Koo received an ovation from approximately 1,800 students, faculty members, and guests. The Danforth Project at the college sponsored his appearance.

When as a college student in 1905 Dr. Koo joined a secret underground movement to overthrow the monarchy in China and to establish a government more representative of the people, he cut off the traditionally worn pigtail which, he said, had become "a sign of submission and therefore distasteful."

Later in 1908 as a business man in the interior of China, Dr.

Koo sewed his pigtail to his hat in order to avoid detection as a revolutionary. "I wore my hat with its pigtail," he said, "to keep my head on my shoulders."

Tracing the rise of Nationalism from 1900 onward, Dr. Koo told his audience that he spoke "not of things which I have read about or learned through observation, but which I know through participation."

During his high school and college years, Dr. Koo said, and later as a young business man, he was a part of the movement leading to the establishment of the Republic of China in 1912.

Three programs characterizing the Nationalist Movement in China, he stated, are now being repeated in the Middle East. A knowledge of these, he explained, will tend to clarify what is now going on there. Democracy, Nationalism, and Livelihood are the key words, he stated.

Democracy did not mean in the China of those days what it means in this country, he said. "We were out to put an end to a system of hereditary monarchy."

Nationalism in the early 1900's presented a "challenge to leave behind a 'lesser loyalty' to the family or clan, a basic unit in Chinese life, and to embrace a larger loyalty to the nation."

Livelihood, he said, sums up the economic aims of the Chinese Nationalists. Efforts to help the masses find a better life, he explained, were twofold: to develop industry and to establish an effective welfare program.

Turning to Communism in China, Dr. Koo gave a brief account of its beginnings as an idealistic movement at the University of Peking about 1914, when students as a privileged group felt the appeal to become "spokesmen for the silent masses."

"It was," he said, "the great challenge to the youth of that generation."

In 1917, he continued, Chinese students in Paris formed their first Marxist study group, and a second was organized in Shanghai shortly afterward. In 1921, under Russian influence, he stated, the first Chinese Party organization came into being.

In these early years, Dr. Koo said, the movement attracted many idealistic and unselfish Chinese who were interested in the welfare of the people, among them the pastor of the Episcopal Church to which he belonged.

After a long absence from his country, Dr. Koo returned for a visit in Hong Kong in 1953. Meeting there a wealthy Communist whom he had known in his student days as a "poor student, very left in his thinking," Dr. Koo learned through conversations with him to "cast a little bit into the future."

In an answer to the question "Is there any chance of conflict between Russia and Red China?" Dr. Koo was told that the relationship between these countries is a "partnership." A glance at the map, Dr. Koo said, shows the immensity of the region where industrial projects in Siberia and China are being undertaken. He was told in Hong Kong in 1953 that the "pin pricks" of this development would be felt in world affairs within ten years.

When the great Communist countries begin to force Japan and India behind the Iron Curtain, the Communist leader informed Dr. Koo, the world may know that the Red governments are "ready to march" and to extend their power drastically.

President John D. Messick of East Carolina gave a brief talk on the World Affairs Institute at Wednesday's meeting. Director George A. Douglas of the Danforth Foundation Project introduced Dr. Koo.

Plan Chemistry Teacher Award

KINSTON — Dr. J. M. Griffing, Chairman of the Eastern North Carolina Section of the American Chemical Society, today announced plans for the presentation of an award to the outstanding high school chemistry teacher in the 13-county area served by the Section.

The award will be in the form of a check or U. S. Savings Bonds and will be presented at a special meeting of the Section in May. In addition to the main award, several honorable mentions will also be presented.

Selection of the recipient will be based upon: the chemistry teaching program, efforts of the teacher in keeping abreast of scientific developments, extra-curricular scientific activities of the teacher in the school and community and success of the teacher in stimulating scientific curiosity among his or her students. This information will be provided by school principals in support of their nomination for the award.

Those eligible for this award are chemistry teachers in the high schools of the following 13 counties: Beaufort, Cartaret, Craven, Duplin, Greene, Jones, Lenoir, New Hanover, Onslow, Pender, Pitt, Wayne and Wilson.

Arrangements for this program have been made through the School Committee of the local ASC Section.

Lawyer Welch Is Turning Actor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Boston lawyer Joseph N. Welch, who represented the Army in its stormy controversy with the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) in 1954, is turning actor.

He is in Hollywood to play the role of a judge in the film version of "Anatomy of a Murder." His wife will play a juror in the film.

Dr. Richard L. Walker, director of the department of International Studies at the University of South Carolina in Columbia, was featured speaker this morning at the Sixth Annual World Affairs Institute at East Carolina College. He discussed this morning "China Under Communism." Dr. Walker and Dr. T. Z. Koo will appear tonight at 7:30 in the Austin auditorium in a joint discussion of "The United States and the New World of Asia."

Dr. T. Z. Koo, professor emeritus of Oriental Studies at Iowa State University (center), is a guest at East Carolina College this week and is making a series of lectures for the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the YMCA and for the World Affairs Institute. Dr. George A. Douglas, left, is director of the Danforth Foundation Project at East Carolina, sponsor of Dr. Koo's visit, and Dr. George Pasti is chairman of the Institute.

Open Battle Over Basic Economics

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — The battle over basic economics — the outcome of which could affect almost every one's family budget — is out in the open today in Congress.

The fight is over this: should we have a government planned increase in economic growth — with the promise of more jobs and more goodies to buy? Or should we first scotch the threat of new inflation — a long word meaning that it costs more to live now than it did once — and let economic growth come naturally.

The Senate-House Economic Committee has split wide open over the issue. Its first serious split in several years.

The United States has a long record of economic growth, interrupted now and then by recessions, some with little impact on the over-all economy and its subsequent growth.

It has had also its scattered spurts of inflation. Since World War II the intervals in between have been short. The whittling away at the purchasing power of the dollar has been large.

The two sides to the dispute: 1. at the present time stubborn unemployment totals show that economic growth is not fast enough to keep up with the times; 2. economic growth is the way of the land and is best when it comes naturally; forced growth programs have too many risks, chief among them being inflation; if the price of goods and services goes up as a result of the scheme, it blacks out the benefits of the souped-up growth.

The case for greater economic growth is strong. We do have a lot of unemployment. If the government did some quick pump priming by more spending and ran up a Treasury deficit that could further increase the supply of money, it might easily mean more jobs, more consumer spending for more factory products.

The value of a normal economic growth is put this way by Guaranty Trust Co. of New York economists: "It takes place as a result of the desire of individuals to better the material condition of themselves and their families. In this endeavor, people save, invest, devise new and better tools, invent new products and new processes, and employ other people in order to operate more efficiently and on a larger scale."

The bank economists, however, warn of the dangers of setting an arbitrary rate of economic growth — like the 5 per cent year proposed instead of the average 2 per cent.

The 5 percenters hold that to increase federal spending to trigger such a growth would require appropriate tax, monetary, price, wage and profit policies. And these, they argue, would hold inflation in check.

The bank economists hold that this wouldn't work. They say that economic growth "is the net result of a complex set of powerful forces," and cannot be predetermined.

For one thing, in a free economy like ours, one of the freedoms is to make mistakes. The bankers say "only in a society where mistakes are never made can output continuously match full capacity."

For this reason, and others,

DEATH SENTENCE BRINGS COLLAPSE—Erich Koch, 64, who held cabinet rank during Hitler's regime in Nazi Germany, is supported by policemen from collapsing at hearing his death sentence pronounced at Warsaw, Poland. # School Bus Transportation Is Up For Discussion In Assembly

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — School and highway safety experts hope to put across legislation this session which will make school bus transportation safer and more convenient for both children and the motoring public.

Legislation introduced by Max L. Childers of Gaston would take school buses within a mile of the children's homes and pick up those youngsters living farther than one mile from the school. At the present time buses stop within a mile of the home and pick up children living at least a mile and one-half from the school.

It was also revealed before the House Education Committee, which studied and reported favorably on Childers' bill Wednesday, that additional legislation relating to school buses will be introduced to: (1) regulate the frequency and location of school bus stops on major highways; and (2) permit cars traveling on divided lane highways in the opposite direction from a stopped school bus to continue rather than come to a halt.

number of stops.

Rep. B. I. Satterfield of Person expressed concern over the dangers of loading and unloading and asked whether the hazard would not be increased by adding to the number of stops in picking up children a half-mile closer to the school. He thought perhaps it would be better to have buses pull off the road to load and unload.

The question was answered by C. C. Brown, state director of school transportation, who maintained it is far safer to have the bus stop on the highway and thereby serve as a traffic warning.

"The difficulty is getting back on the highway," he pointed out, "children would be left to their own devices in getting across the highway."

In addition, Brown said it would be necessary to construct turn-offs on some roads and highways at tremendous expense. Furthermore, virtually all of the 49 states have adopted the uniform system of having buses stop on the highway to assure greater safety, he said.

But Brown admitted that loading and unloading produces a hazard to be reckoned with and agreed with Rep. Ed Williamson of Columbus that there should be a uniform system of bus stops.

"There ought to be a maximum of four stops per mile and all of them designated to inform motorists," he said. "The thing is out of hand; I have seen 65 cars pile up behind school buses stopping every 100 yards. They stop just over the crest of hills and on blind curves."

Brown said legislation will be introduced this session to give the State Board of Education authority to "write some rules and regulations" pertaining to school bus stops. Under present law, the matter is left to the discretion of local school officials.

Convict Six In Conspiracy Case

DENVER (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury Wednesday night convicted six persons of conspiracy to advocate the violent overthrow of the U.S. government.

The verdict reached by a jury of eight women and four men after six hours of deliberation ended a six-week trial. The defendants filed notice of intention to appeal.

The six, all of whom were convicted on similar charges of violating the Smith Act in 1955—a verdict that was later overturned—are Arthur Bary, 47, San Jose, Calif.; his former wife Anna, 34, of Denver; Joseph Scherrer, 39, and his wife Maria, 40, both of New York City; Harold Zepelin, 33, of Denver; and Mrs. Patricia J. Biau, 47, of El Paso, Tex.

They were released on bond ranging from $5,000 to $20,000. Dist. Judge Lee Knous fixed the largest bond for Bary.

The maximum sentence possible is five years' imprisonment and $5,000 fine.

A seventh defendant convicted in the 1955 trial, Lewis M. Johnson, 38, of Boston, was freed at the start of the second trial. The charge was dismissed at the request of government lawyers. No explanation was given.

In arguing for his bill, Childers pointed out that the oldtimer's argument that children used to walk three and four miles to school is no longer valid since increased highway traffic has created a hazard that did not formerly exist.

It was estimated that the additional service will cost approximately $90,000 a year — "but when you consider that we spent eight million a year on school bus transportation this is not a great increase percentage-wise," Childers said. Children living farthest from school would have to leave home about 10 minutes earlier and would get home 10 minutes later each day because of the increased

Alley Cat Raided His Pigeon Loft

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Homing pigeon-breeder C. H. Lyne blames a marauding cat for loss of nearly a third of his fine racing birds.

Lyne said a big alley cat raided his fourth-story loft and killed 11 of his 36 pigeons. He valued them at $4,000.

"I spent 15 years breeding my pigeons to their present state of perfection — then along comes this cat," complained Lyne.

"When economic growth becomes a slogan for proposals aimed at uninterrupted business boom, it becomes a menace to economic stability and economic freedom as well."

DANGEROUS QUESTION ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — A reporter interviewed several persons picked at random on the streets as to their views about life in outer space. Police recognized a picture of one wanted for passing bad checks. He will spend some time in inner space.

NOW YOU SEE THEM—and with the help of a bleaching solution—soon you won't. This dramatic action shot of water skiers has the right tones for type of darkroom magic discussed in the accompanying column. Shot by William Leonard, 17, of Rochester, N. Y. at 1-1000th of a second, it won first prize in the teen-age division of the 1956 Graflex photo contest.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Many years ago, I saw a photographer demonstrate darkroom magic in bright light. He removed a sheet of photographic paper from its box, put it in an enlarger easel and exposed a picture from a negative on its white surface. The paper—still in bright light—then went into a tray of developer and, contrary to the rules of normal photographic procedure, the picture gradually appeared until it formed a perfect photographic print. The audience applauded the demonstration but remained mystified as to how it was done, because any dufer knows that a sheet of photo paper exposed to light would turn black in developer.

Now I know how it's done and you can do it too, if you wish to puzzle some of your friends. I came across the explanation in an instruction booklet for camera fans who wish to revitalize their camera clubs. Called "How to Run a Live Camera Club," it can be obtained free of charge from Kodak's Audio Visual Service in Rochester, N. Y.

They feel that a stunt like this is a dramatic way to teach darkroom techniques to newcomers... and they are right.

You've probably guessed that the secret is in making certain preparations beforehand. And that is right, too.

Actually, it's necessary to make a perfect enlargement in advance, then bleach it out entirely. Then, at any time later, the picture can be re-developed with a simple solution. Here's the step-by-step procedure:

1. Select subject matter which does not have large, dark areas.

2. Make the original print, following the instructions that come with the paper used. Some types work better than others. Opal or Ektalure paper are recommended. Develop, fix and wash print care-

Pupils' Talent Show Had Large Audience

By BARBARA PARKER
Belvoir-Falkland Reporter

The Talent Show presented Friday night by the Junior Class turned out to be a big success. Approximately 400 people came out to be entertained by some twenty acts. Students ranging from the first grade through the twelfth participated in the program.

Four sixth grade students, pantomiming "The Chipmunk Song", walked off with first place. Debbie Turner, Patsy Lewis, and Janice Whitaker were the "chipmunks", who were directed by Tommy Harris.

Second prize was awarded to Tommy Tripp. Dressed in a pink satin tuxedo with sequins and a top hat, he sang "Pretty Baby" to Deborah Warren. Both are first graders.

Four sophomore girls, Carolyn Harris, Nadine Garris, Joan Harris and Shirley Spain, won third place with their close harmony in singing, "Who's Sorry Now?" Judges were Mrs. Earl Lewis, Elbert Bennett, and Gene Featherstone.

The program was begun by the presentation of corsages by Joyce Bullock to Mrs. Elizabeth Morris, Junior Class Advisor, and Mrs. Glenn Scott, pianist, for their help in making the program a success.

Ernest Lewis, a junior, was the narrator. The first number on the program was "Jalhouse Rock" with Al O. Pollard doing an imitation of Elvis Presley. Judy Scott, a second grader, sang "Sugar Time" to E. G. Clark, and Yvonne Pollard displayed her skill in turning the hula hoop.

David Mayo left the crowd roaring as he sang "Tom Doolley". As he sang "Hang down your head and cry", Jimmy Peaden, posing as Tom Doolley, hung his head and squeezed a wet sponge he held to his eyes, and the tears trickled to the floor.

Others on the program were Juanita Smith, who did a tap dance; Eddie Everette who sang "Hound Dog"; Carolyn Hathaway who sang "I'm Going to Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter"; and Charles Coburn pantomiming "One Hit".

Curtis Teel, dressed as a Negro preacher, sang his version of "Whole Wide World", and Joyce Everette sang "Mama's Baby Girl".

Nadine Garris made her plea for "Bill Bailey" to please come home. Larew Nelson and Peggy Wallace pantomimed "Gingerbread" and Roy Smith and Joe Jenkins harmonized on "Only the Beginning". Mitchell Wooten sang "To Know Her is to Love Her."

"Charlie Brown" was pantomimed by four juniors. The audience was left almost hysterical with laughter as the record jumped track three times. Cobby Deans, acting as Charlie Brown, was put on the spot when the record got hung on "Why's everybody always picking on me-me-me". Cobby was accompanied by Linda Smith, Brenda Windham, and Jerry Little.

Three students from Falkland Elementary School participated in the program, including Judy Windham and Dorothy Everette who hopped to "Pickaminy Bop" and Ellen Baker, dressed as Uncle Sam, who sang "God Bless America".

The program was concluded by Bob Jenkins and his band who played several numbers, including an original song which they plan to record soon.

Got 30 Days On Roll Of His Dice

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A city judge's roll of the dice sent Tommy Jackson to jail for 30 days. Jackson appeared before Judge Mitchell Goldman on a charge of gambling. Goldman convicted the 27-year-old Negro and found out he had three previous dicing convictions. Jackson also had a pair of dice.

"You want to roll for the time?" asked the judge. "No, sir," said Jackson.

"I'll roll for you," said Goldman, rattling the dice. "H'm—an ace and a deuce. Three. Thirty days."

Standing By His Accused Wife

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Ernest Gurley has hired counsel for his wife, Beatrice, charged with seeking his murder.

"I love my wife," said Gurley, 45. "And I'm going to stick by her—even if it takes everything I've got."

Detective Jack Metcalf said Mrs. Gurley gave him $100 Monday as the first payment in a $1,000 deal to kill her husband. Metcalf said he posed as a professional killer.

The United States uses about 170 billion gallons of fresh water daily—four times as much as was used 50 years ago.

PAULS VALLEY, Okla. (AP)—Back in 1913 six girls attending Central State College at Edmond started a circulating letter and have kept it going regularly since that time. Four now live in Oklahoma, one in Oregon, one in Arizona.

Fast-Moving Developments Today In Darkest Africa

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

Things are moving swiftly in darkest Africa. Map makers are having a hard time keeping abreast of changes south of the Sahara as former colonies gain independence and others fight for it.

Outbreaks of violence and spreading discontent in widely separated African dependencies of European powers foreshadow acceleration in the struggle for self-rule by African peoples.

Since Jan. 1 there has been news of trouble and strife, much of it serious and some of it aimed against colonial regimes, in such areas as the Belgian Congo, Rhodesia, Somalia, Nyasaland, the French Congo and the Union of South Africa. There is little doubt that more trouble impends. Africa is in ferment.

In the last three years three African countries have acquired independence south of the Sahara and joined the U.N. In 1960, according to present schedules, four more countries in this area will become independent.

The last few months have seen cataclysmic changes in the French empire in Africa. Almost all French territories south of the Sahara have become semi-autonomous republics and acquired a broad degree of control over their internal affairs.

Africa today is in part the product of less than a century of colonial rule. The portion of the continent south of the Sahara was a late comer to world affairs.

In the 1880's European colonial powers—including Britain, France, Germany, Belgium, Portugal and Italy—carved up the continent. Italy and Germany were subsequently ousted after defeats.

Here is the status currently of the most important countries, colonies and areas of Africa south of the Sahara:

1. Countries with complete independence include Ethiopia, Ghana, Guinea, Liberia, Sudan and the Union of South Africa.

ETHIOPIA—Ruled by Emperor Haile Selassie I. It lost its independence to Italy in the mid-thirties, but regained it after World War II.

GHANA—Came into existence March 6, 1957 when that former British colony of the Gold Coast and the former territory of British Togoland under U.N. trusteeship was granted dominion status in the British Commonwealth. Ghana's prime minister is Dr. Kwame Nkrumah.

GUINEA—Came into existence as an independent republic when the territory of French Guinea voted against the new French constitution in September 1958. The premier is Sekou Toure. A project is now on foot to establish a West African Federation which would include Ghana and Guinea, and perhaps other nations.

LIBERIA—A republic, independent since 1847. Its president is William V. S. Tubman.

SUDAN—Proclaimed an independent republic Jan. 1, 1956, ending the former British-Egyptian Condominium which was run by the British. The prime minister is Gen. Ibrahim Abboud who took power in a coup in November 1958. He fought off an apparent challenge to his rule last week.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA—Established in 1909-10, is a member of the British commonwealth with a parliamentary form of government. Whites make up about 3 million of 14 million population and concentrate ruling power in their own hands under the concept of apartheid—segregation—which is a source of bitter controversy inside and outside the union. The prime minister is Hendrik F. Verwoerd.

it to remain in Nigeria.

FEDERATION OF RHODESIA AND NYASALAND—A self-governing unit under British rule including Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia, and Nyasaland. Europeans number about 300,000 out of about 8 million but hold 29 seats in the federal assembly. Nyasaland factions led by Dr. Hastings Banda want to get out of the federation. Banda, now held in a detention camp by the British, demands that Africans be given a majority in the Nyasaland Legislative Council commensurate with their numerical predominance in the population. The first act of an assembly so constituted, he has said, would be to take Nyasaland out of the federation.

EAST AFRICA—A purely administrative unit comprising Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda. Of these three, Tanganyika is administered by the British under U.N. trusteeship while Kenya and Uganda are British colonies with limited self-government. Kenya was the center of the Mau-Mau rebellion and there have been some rumblings that another such anti-white drive may be in the making.

3. Portugal has two important territories and one small one:

ANGOLA—on the west coast, was first settled by the Portuguese in 1481. It is run by a governor-general sent from Portugal.

MOZAMBIQUE—Colonized in 1505 and like Angola run by a governor-general sent from Portugal. Portuguese Guinea is located on the west coast next to Guinea.

4. France has big and rich territories which are undergoing rapid changes:

THE CAMEROONS—Held under U.N. trusteeship as former German colony, will get independence in 1960.

TOGO—Another U.N. trusteeship territory, is an autonomous republic which will become independent in 1960.

Other French territories include the 12 now semi-autonomous republics: Dahomey, Ivory Coast, Niger, Senegal, (French) Sudan, the Chad, Gabon, Congo, Central and the Voltaic Republic. One other small French territory is French Somaliland.

5. Belgium has one rich and important colony—the Belgian Congo, scene of riots in January which quieted when the Belgian government promised future independence to the territory, without setting any date, and voting rights in 1959. One small corner of the Congo territory, Ruanda-

Urundi, is held under a U.N. trusteeship by Belgium.

Three other African territories deserve mention:

SOMALIA—a U.N. trusteeship under Italian administration which is scheduled to receive independence in 1960. It is a former Italian colony.

SOUTHWEST AFRICA—A former German colony, handed over to the Union of South Africa under League of Nations mandate after World War I. A source of conflict between the U.N. and South Africa because the union refuses to admit U.N. trusteeship over the territory and runs it directly as a part of South Africa.

One of the few relics of the ancient great Spanish empire left in Africa is Spanish Guinea (Rio Muni) located between Gabon and the Cameroons.

A FIRE BURNS IN BROOKLYN—A towering column of heavy dark smoke rises from a burning vacant building in Brooklyn, N. Y. The three-alarm fire broke out across the street from a heavily populated housing development (right center). Firemen battled the flames in the five-story brick building for two hours before bringing them under control. The cause of the fire was not determined. (AP Wirephoto)

Editor Also Has Outside Duties

CRANBURY, N.J. (AP)—Editor-Publisher Peter Nagury of the Weekly Cranbury Press is really in a position to get local news. Nagury is also chief of police, violations clerk, director of welfare, fireman, pressman, typesetter reporter, husband and father of three children.

APPROVE PACT
TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Iranian Senate today unanimously approved the defense pact signed with the United States March 5. The shah's signature will complete the ratification process.

Veteran Caller Of Square Dance

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Carrie (Ma) Heater, 88, has been calling square dances since the 1880s when she was just a child. She's noticed some changes in the dancers. Says Mrs. Heater: "The women around here have got to wearing britches, like a man's, no stockings, and old house slippers. The slippers fall off their feet but they keep dancing just the same."

It was journalist Mark Twain who said "It is easier to stay out than get out."

ECC Swimmers Ready For Second Bid At NAIA Title

The NAI Swimming Championship meet at Muncie, Indiana, begins next week and Coach Ray Martinez and his East Carolina College swimmers will make the long trip, holding to add to their water laurels.

Representing not only the North State Conference, ECC will be representing the South in the small college meet. The Pirates have become a respected water power in the five years Martinez has been here and took on NAIA crown in 1957.

This will be the third such meet sponsored by the NAIA and a large field is expected. East Carolina captured the first in '57 and then North Central Illinois won the 1958 meet.

North Central once again is "loaded" and is tabbed as favorite. Detroit Tech, Western Michigan and East Carolina will probably be rated in that order behind the favorite. The Pirates finished fourth in a field of 15 teams last year.

North Central has won in their conference 10 consecutive years and rate as one of the strongest swimming clubs in the nation. They are undefeated this season.

The defending champions lost six men by graduation, but had 12 newcomers which includes Richard Blick, a California swimmer, and a couple of Cuban freestylers, Ruben and Rodolfo Roco.

Detroit Tech recently defeated Notre Dame with ease and rates the top choice to upset the champs. A couple of dark horses will be Southern Illinois and Central Michigan.

East Carolina, boasting a 4-5 season record against some of the best clubs in this section, will carry a couple of national champions to the meet. Bob Sawyer captured the backstroke in 1957 and Ken Midyette placed first in diving last season. Both boys are seniors.

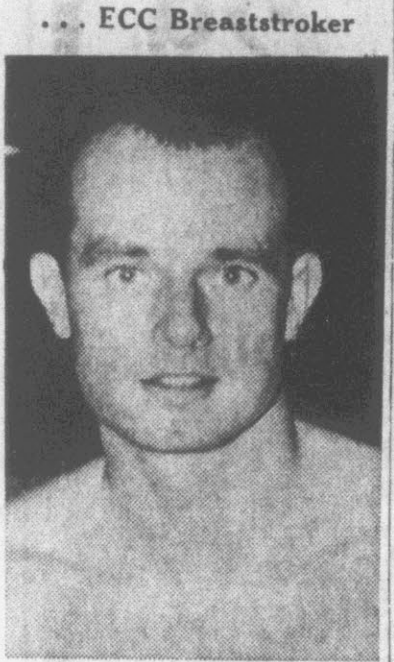

Jack McCann has been the most improved swimmer for the Bucs this season and has set a breaststroke record in almost every pool in which the Pirates have competed.

This will be Coach Martinez's second crack at the crown. The Pirates tutor was away working on his Doctor's degree last year when the Pirates finished fourth. The water coach plans to carry eleven swimmers and two divers, departing from Greenville early Monday morning and returning the following weekend.

The meet takes place on the campus of Ball State Teachers College during their spring holidays. Although no official word has been East Carolina will carry wins over the Universities of Georgia, Miami of Florida, Emory University, and Virginia Military Institute. The Pirates have lost to the Universities of Miami (of Florida), Florida State, Florida, and twice to North Carolina.

ACC Top Award Goes To Pucillo

RALEIGH (AP) - Little Lou Pucillo of North Carolina State is the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Player of the Year.

Pucillo, 5-9 senior from Philadelphia, was selected by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn. in a poll of 74 press, radio and TV representatives. He was picked on 43 ballots and his teammate, John Richter, was runner-up with 25.

Five other players received votes in the poll. York Larese of North Carolina had two, with one each going to Lee Shaffer of North Carolina, Ray Pericola of South Carolina, George Stepanovich and Bob MacGillivray of N.C. State.

Pucillo, a clever play-making jump - shooting star, has been called by Coach Everett Case "the best little man in college basketball." He led the Wolfpack to a 24 record this season, averaging 14.7 points per game.

Baker Injured In ECC Camp

East Carolina baseballers continued to get in plenty of practice yesterday afternoon as an intra-squad game highlighted the workout.

Coach Jim Mallory was well pleased with the hitting shown yesterday and stated last night that the Bucs should be "a better hitting club" this spring.

The A squad blasted seven runs in the opening inning yesterday to back Mallory's statement. Bob Watkins and Hubert Costelow, a couple of newcomers, aided the opening rally with a couple of homers.

Mallory had the two teams mixed up and stated that there were plenty of positions still wide open. Thirty-five boys are still on the club although the ECC coach plans to cut the number to 30 by next Monday. Mallory admitted that it was really a chore in cutting the squad as 25 of the boys are freshmen.

Ben Baker, only veteran pitcher returning, has been on the sidelines most of this week with a bad leg. The veteran southpaw injured his left leg last quarter while student teaching at Farmville High School.

A couple of other injured boys who may work into Mallory's plans are Don Warren and Bobby Hurt, both third basemen. Warren has been out due to an appendicitis operation and Hart has a bruised left hand.

Mallory worked his pitchers three innings each yesterday and was impressed with the work of freshmen Larry Crayton, Johnny Allen, and Nathum Green. Sophomore Mitchell Moon also turned in an impressive three innings and drew praise from Mallory. "His control is looking much better this spring and we feel that he is just about ready to help us."

ECC opens their rugged schedule at Greenville on March 23, and the 24. Several night games are featured on this year's slate.

Post Has Two Homers In Exhibition Tilt

By JACK CLARY Associated Press Sports Writer

Wally Post may supply the right answer to the Philadelphia Phillies' question: "Who will share the outfield with Richie Ashburn and Harry Anderson?"

Ashburn, the National League's batting king in 1958 with a .350 average, and Anderson, the sops who hit .301 with 97 runs batted in and had 23 homers, need help to get the Phils out of the NL cellar.

Post was supposed to supplant the power the Phils missed in 1957 when Del Etnis went to St. Louis after the 1956 season. Philadelphia gave the Cincinnati Reds' pitcher Harvey Haddix in exchange for Post.

Things didn't work out as planned last year. Post wound up being platooned with Rip Repulisti and Anderson, and doing a lot of pinchhitting. He finished with a respectable .282 batting average, but had only 12 homers (four as pinchhitter) and 82 RBI.

Post went about nailing down the outfield job Wednesday with a pair of home runs in a 17-hit Philadelphia attack that demolished the Milwaukee Braves 13-7. Gene Freese also homered for the Phils and rookies Jim Pisoni and Chuck Cottler did likewise for the Braves.

The Braves' Carlton Willey, Bob Rush, Bob Buhl and Dale Hendrickson were the victims of the Phils' attack.

Hank Sauer's grand slam homer highlighted a six-run eighth inning to give the San Francisco Giants a 10-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Cal Neeman and Tony Taylor hit home runs for Chicago.

Don Demeter's long single gave Los Angeles a 7-6 victory over Cincinnati. Johnny Temple, with four hits, and Roy McMillan with three and three RBI, paced the Cincinnati attack.

Chuck Essengian's triple and Lee Tate's single in the 10th inning helped St. Louis to its first Grapefruit League victory, over Pittsburgh, 5-4. Stan Musial, in his initial training appearance, went hitless.

Boston capitalized on two errors each by first baseman Larry Doby and pitcher Hal Woodeshick to edge Cleveland 4-3 and remain the only unbeaten team in exhibition play.

A two-run homer by rookie Bob Callison in the eighth inning handed the New York Yankees their third straight loss, as Washington won a 13-12 slugfest.

Tenn. Appears As NAIA Choice

KANSAS CITY (AP) - If there's a question concerning the 21st National Interscholastic Basketball Tournament it is:

How deep is the Tennessee A&I bench?

Coach Johnny McLendon's Tigers, tournament champions the last two years, used only six players in eliminating a strong Youngstown (Ohio) University team 89-80 in the second round Wednesday night. And only five Tigers scored in their first-round victory over Nebraska Wesleyan.

Tennessee A&I appear a solid favorite, however, over Illinois Normal University, its quarterfinal foe tonight.

Illinois Normal eliminated Fairleigh-Dickinson of New Jersey 68-64 Wednesday night.

West Virginia Wesleyan defeated Duluth Branch of Minnesota University 90-75. Wesleyan plays Fort Hays (Kan.) State today.

In the other quarter - final games, third seeded Pacific Lutheran will meet Georgia Teachers, and Southwest Texas State will play Lenoir-Rhyne of North Carolina.

Pacific Lutheran defeated Central Oklahoma State 68-57 in the second round. Georgia Teachers eliminated Indiana State 73-70. Fort Hays defeated Arkansas State Teachers 59-48. Lenoir-Rhyne handed Grambling (La.) College its first defeat after 28 victories 88-78, and Southwest Texas State beat Westminster (Pa.) 61-58.

NC Aggies May Be Team To Beat In NCAA Tourney

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) - North Carolina's Aggies of Greensboro are proving the surprise of the NCAA college division basketball championships.

With balanced height and exceptional bench strength, they have demonstrated they are the team to beat for the title.

A big test comes tonight in the semifinals when they meet Evansville College.

The opening semifinal sends Southwest Missouri of Springfield against Los Angeles State.

The Aggies, led by Henry Marshall of Newark, N. J., knocked over American University of Washington, D.C. 87-70 in Wednesday's opening round. Marshall scored 30 points.

Evansville's Aces advanced, 82-63, over St. Michael's of Vermont, last year's runner-up.

The Aces were topped by Ed Smallwoods' 22-point production.

The only close game of the quarter-finals came with Southwest's 74 decision over Hope College of Holland, Mich. The score was tied nine times and the lead changed 13 times in the last half.

Los Angeles' Diablos humbled South Dakota State, 92-67.

Earl Averill, son of the former major league outfielder by the same name, played the outfield and every infield position for the San Diego Padres in 1958.

Zeb Vance Loses In Opening Play

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) - Kernerville and St. Pauls marched into the semifinals of the State Class A basketball tournament with first round wins Wednesday night.

Their opposition in the semifinals Friday night will be determined tonight when Beaufort plays Jonesville and Jamesville meets Nantahal to complete first round action.

Kernersville advanced mainly on the sharpshooting of Bill Brown and Jackie Meadows as the Forsyth County crew whipped previously unbeaten Zeb Vance of Henderson 75-55. St. Paul's used a fast break in subduing Rock Springs 81-54 in last night's second game.

Beaufort enters tonight's first game with a 24-0 record against Jonesville's 23-2 for the season. Jamesville and Nantahal stack up almost even on the basis of season records—29-3 and 27-2 respectively.

Glovers Win On Skill Not Power

CHICAGO (AP) - Chicago's Golden Glovers, the best amateur scrappers in the West, will take boxing skill rather than punching power against New York in the March 25 intercity bouts here.

This was demonstrated clearly Wednesday night before 11,243 in Chicago Stadium and a national television audience in Chicago's journey of champions finals.

Four of the amateur stars, including one of the two defending champions, won their titles before the TV camera.

Wilbur Mc Clure, Toledo, Ohio, retained his 160-pound championship with a decision over Cincinnati's Herbert Willis.

The others who won titles "on camera" included heavyweight Jimmy Jones, 18, an unemployed Chicago representative; welterweight Don Sargent, a truck driver from Minneapolis; and Cassius Clay, 17, a high school light heavy from Louisville, Ky.

The only other returning champion, little Gil Yanez of Toledo, retained his flyweight crown with a decision over Oscar German, Grand Rapids, Mich.

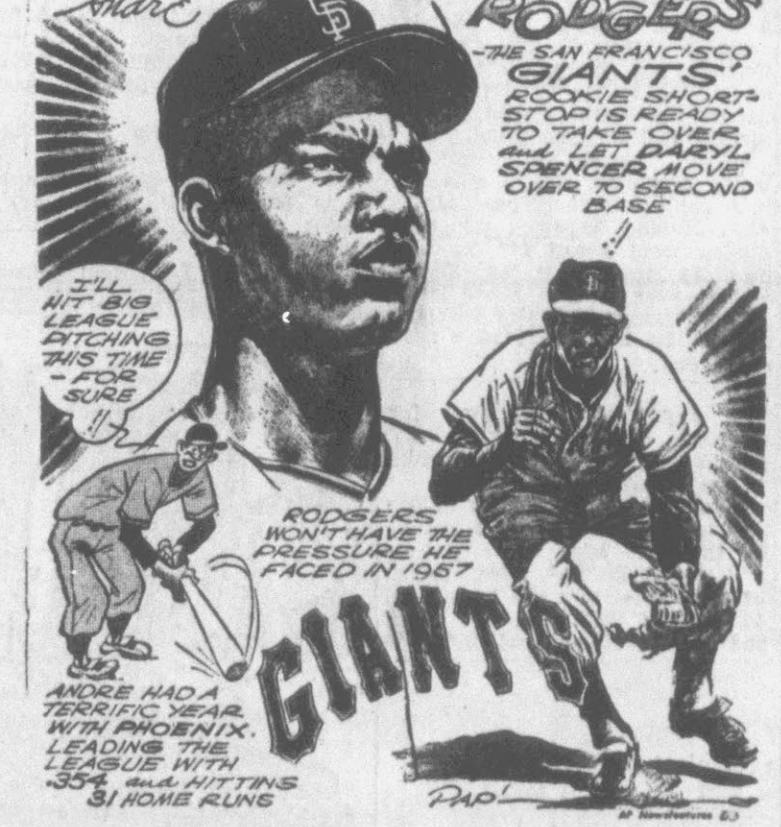

Four teens - Chicago, Nashville, Cincinnati and Toledo - shared the team crown with 14 points each, a point for each bout Petersburg

Set At Short..... by Pap'

Manager Bill Rigney feels certain that Andre Rodgers is ready to move into the shortstop job for the San Francisco Giants and let Daryl Spencer move over to second base. Rigney was looking ahead to this spring when he shifted Spencer over to second for the first month of the 1958 season after he was satisfied that Rodgers had showed enough with Phoenix to indicate that he was ready for the big show.

Rodgers enjoyed a tremendous season in 1958 when he led the Pacific Coast League in batting with a .354 average, hit 31 home runs and drove in 88 runs. The 6-foot-3 infielder who built his baseball career on the cricket fields of his native Bahamas is a polished fielder since he learned to improve the move to his left under the coaching of Lou Boudreau last spring. His exceptional height and long arms enable him to cover much more ground than the ordinary shortstop. In addition, his strong, accurate throwing arm enable him to play deeper than most infielders and still get his man.

Back in the spring of 1957, Rodgers came to camp hailed as a new sensation and was promptly installed at shortstop. The rookie infielder was under terrific pressure and ran into a series of injuries. He simply tried too hard, pressing in the field and at bat. He was sent to Minneapolis for additional seasoning. He still lacked the finesse of a big league shortstop last spring, so off to Phoenix, where the Giants could keep close tab on his progress. This time the pressure is off because the job is his until he proves Manager Rigney wrong and shows he doesn't deserve it.

Sewell Hits 32 For All-Stars

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) - The North Carolina State All-Stars, led by George Stepanovich and Whitney Bell, take on the Duke-Wake Forest All-Stars here tonight for the Carolinas AAU basketball title.

The winner will compete in the National AAU tournament in Denver. Stepanovich bucketed 34 points and Bell scored 32 to pace their team to a 119-98 win over the High Point All-Stars Wednesday night.

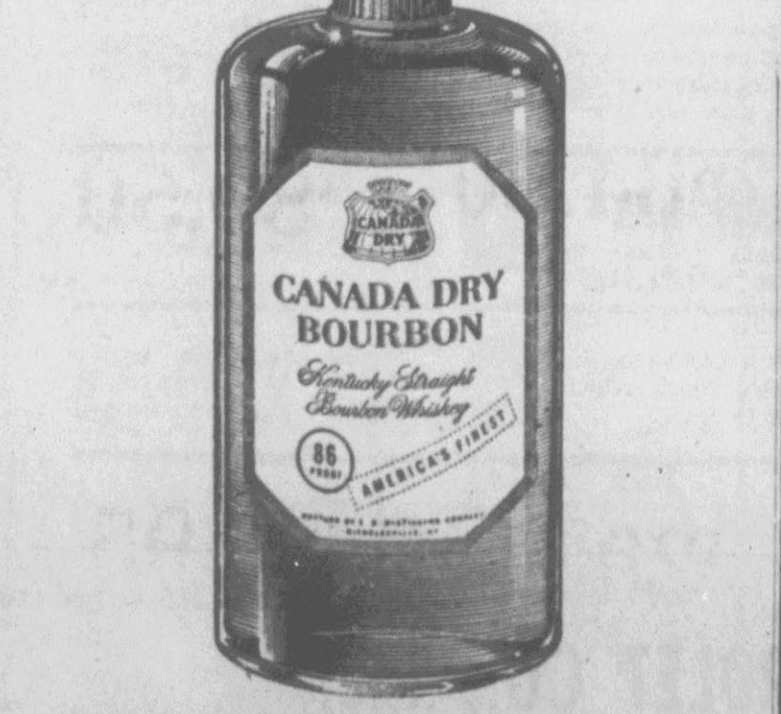

The State All-Stars broke out in front just before the half and added to their margin in the final period.

Danny Sewell was top man for High Point with 32 points. The Duke-Wake Forest All-Stars romped to an 88-63 win over the Southern Conference All-Stars. Olin Broadway got 24 and former Duke star Bob Vernon picked up 21 points for the winners.

Hitting 16 each for Southern were Lefty Davis and Bill Adkins.

Whirlies Defeat Caps In Opening AAA Round

By HOWARD CRISWELL
GREENSBORO (AP)—Classy Wilmington goes on the trail tonight for an unprecedented fourth straight North Carolina Class Triple-A high school basketball title. But there are plenty of pitfalls.

The first is Salisbury, the Wildcats' opponent in tonight's 9 p.m. game. Wilmington entered the tournament a heavy favorite on the basis of an impressive 17-1 overall record and a perfect 12-0 showing in conference play.

Of the other seven journey teams, Salisbury has the best overall record, 17-3. The Salisbury-Wilmington affair and the 7 p.m. game between Durham and Asheville should provide plenty of action.

The winners will meet at 7:30 Friday night in a semifinals game. The other semifinals contest pits Rocky Mount against Greensboro. Both won in opening games Wednesday night.

Rocky Mount staged a terrific rally to drop Gastonia 56-55 and Greensboro took advantage of a prolonged Raleigh cold streak to eliminate the Cats 43-45.

Greensboro Coach Bob Jamieson took a long look at the Blackbirds and predicted his team will "have to play real well to win" Friday night.

A foul shot by Gastonia's Johnnie White, who was high for the night with 23 points and buckets and free throws by Larry Wright and Bill Jarman failed to dim the Blackbirds' hopes with the score 53-48 against them and two minutes remaining.

A basket by 6-3 center Roland Parker of Rocky Mount set the stage for a clutch play by 15-year-old sophomore Ronnie Jackson of Rocky Mount. The Blackbirds were using a full court press and the 5-7 Jackson intercepted Gastonia's in-bounds play, turned and scored all in one motion to pull the Birds within one point at 53-52.

Haywood Evans hit two free throws and Bill Harrison scored for Rocky Mount to make it 56-53. The game ended at 59-53 after a basket by Ken Rhodes of Gastonia with seconds left.

Parker with 19, Evans with 15 and Ed Dunn with 14 led Rocky Mount. White was the only Gastonia player to score in the double figures.

The Greensboro-Raleigh game was nip and tuck through the first period and part of the next. But the Caps suddenly went stale. Greensboro was never in trouble and when Raleigh pulled within 33-30 midway of the third period, Greensboro turned on the steam.

Excellent floor play and shooting by Greensboro Guard Randy Blackwell and Tommy Edwards and the defensive work of center Bob Jamieson proved the major difference. The two guards got 15 points each and Jamieson, whose father is the coach, bagged 13.

Raleigh's best scoring effort was from Smedley York, who got two field goals and eight free throws for 12 points.

Banks Ready For Good '59 Season

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—Ernie Banks, a fellow who could probably relax falling down an elevator shaft, is not at all worried about what to do for an encore after his great 1958 season.

"I'll feel very fortunate if I can just play 154 games this year," the soft-spoken Chicago shortstop said during a dugout chat at the Cuba's spring training base.

"I'm not bothered at all about whether I'll have another season like the last one.

"Nothing I do out here gives me any indication of what kind of season I'm going to have anyway. So I just work on the things I'm weak at."

Like gin rummy? "Just figure there's always room for improvement in sports. I don't ever get to the point where I think I know everything and can be everything well."

Banks was named Most Valuable Player in the National League last year after he hit 47 homers, drove in 129 runs and batted .313. This naturally made him one of the stars of the winter banquet circuit.

But after putting away all that food, he was still trim, so he didn't have to run through any special exercises.

Ernie was asked how a fellow of his lean construction manages to hit the ball so far so often.

"Well, the wind always helps," he said. "But seriously, I don't

Bears Take Second Victory In NAIA

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Butler plays Fordham and Villanova challenges St. John's (NY) in a first round doubleheader as the National Invitation Tournament steps into the spotlight to start.

The doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden tips off the 22nd annual edition of the NIT. The NCAA small college tourney reaches the semifinals stage at Evansville, Ind. The NAIA scrambling goes into the quarter-finals at Kansas City, and the National Collegiate (NCAA) tournament takes its last breather before plunging into four big regional tournaments.

Fordham (16-7), one of four teams from the New York area in the 12-team tournament that winds up March 21, is a four-point favorite over Butler. The Indiana team shows an 18-3 record but has mangled 18 victories in its last 21 starts after dropping its first five.

Included in Butler's list of victims is Navy, the precision bunch that shocked the NCAA tournament with an easy victory over North Carolina in New York Tuesday night.

St. John's (16-6), apparently out of the slump that struck after the Redmen had won 12 of their first 13, is an eight-point choice over Villanova (18-6).

The doubleheader is the first of six on the NIT program. The first round will be completed with another doubleheader Saturday afternoon, quarter-finals Saturday night and Tuesday night, semifinals Thursday night, March 19, and finals Saturday afternoon, March 21.

Bradley, runnerup to Cincinnati in the rugged Missouri Valley Conference, is top seeded and draws a first round bye along with MVC for St. Louis, St. Bonaventure and Oklahoma City. Also in the field are Providence, Manhattan, Denver and New York U., who play their first round games Saturday afternoon.

The NCAA tournament moves back into prominence Friday night with regional doubleheaders at Charlotte, N.C., Evanston, Ill., Lawrence, Kan., and San Francisco.

The field of 16 was completed Wednesday night when Idaho State's Rocky Mountain perennials nipped Border Conference champion New Mexico State 62-61. Idaho State, playing in the NCAA for the seventh straight year, will meet St. Mary's (Calif.) in the Far Western regional at San Francisco Friday night.

The Friday lineup reads like this:

Far Western at San Francisco: Idaho State (20-6) vs St. Mary's (18-5); California (21-4) vs Utah (21-5).

Mid-West at Lawrence: Texas

Sarnoff Wants Pulitzer Awards To Include TV

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Sarnoff, board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co., proposes that the scope of Pulitzer Prizes be expanded to include television.

Sarnoff said in part: "I believe television's ability to attract the finest creative talent would be increased if it were possible for a TV drama to win America's most universally respected mark of creative excellence, a Pulitzer Prize.

"I further believe Pulitzer recognition could do much to stimulate electronic journalism—a form of journalism which is now within the province of Mr. Pulitzer's heirs and of many other distinguished American publishers."

It strikes me, personally, that Sarnoff views the Pulitzers from a slightly different angle than what I take to be the view of the board that awards them.

Trying to read anyone's mind is risky, but I gather: Sarnoff views the prizes as a stimulus to creative talent. The board, on the other hand, views its prizes as awards for specific pieces of work accomplished by a single or group talent—and if they stimulate others to excellence, so much the better.

Personally, I don't believe that anyone ever tried to accomplish anything because he hoped to win a Pulitzer Prize. Surely the expectation of a Pulitzer never inspired anyone to write two lines of poetry (to name one category of awards) or to undergo the grinding labor of writing a novel (to name another). Why, then, should it lead anyone to write a television drama?

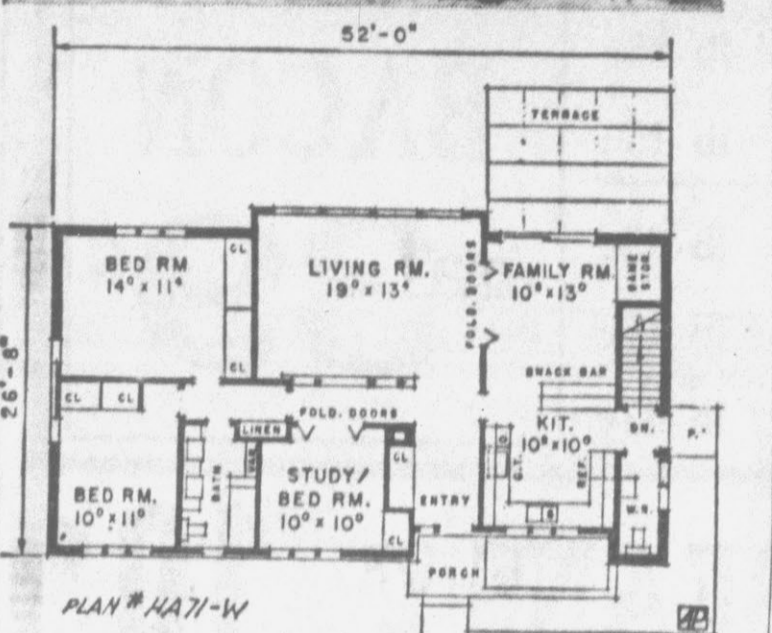

Sarnoff's argument is weakened, in my opinion, because he fails to list a dozen or more original television dramas which he considers prize material. I believe he did not because he could not. They simply didn't exist in 1958.

And I can't believe that a dozen or so outstanding originals would suddenly be produced in 1959 simply because the possibility of a Pulitzer Prize came into being.

Most of the best television dramas of the 1958 calendar year were adaptations of plays or novels or short stories.

Long before Sarnoff made his proposal the motion pictures and radio knocked loudly on the Pulitzer door for admission — to no avail. I recall reading a long time ago that the media were rejected because their offerings were derivative of other forms rather than being original.

Personally, I think it would be grand if television's best works were eligible for Pulitzer Prizes. But I doubt that it will come to pass until the industry can proudly offer 15 or 20 outstanding original dramas as proof of its maturity and vitality.

Group To Study Possible Test Of Teacher's Value

By BUNNY HARRIS
 Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — A study group, appointed Wednesday, will look into possible methods for "determining the true value and true certification of teachers" on an individual basis.

The group was named by Rep. John M. Hargett of Jones, chairman of the House Education Committee and a former teacher and school principal for 22 years.

Representative Hargett advised the group to study other factors that could be found in determining a teacher's effectiveness in addition to present standard requirements and "report back during this session." The methods could include giving achievement tests to children at the beginning and end of each school year and even statewide examinations to teachers — "but the committee will do the solving," Hargett said.

He told the Education Committee he had selected the group carefully to give a wide cross-section both as to profession and geographical location.

Serving on the study group will be Representatives Grace Rodenbough, farmer and teacher of Stokes; Dan L. Drummond of Forsythe, public accountant; S. Glenn Hawfield of Union, retired school principal; Watts Hill Jr. of Durham, banker; Hugh S. Johnson Jr. of Caswell, farmer and teacher.

It was suggested by some legislative members that the study group was appointed in answer to growing protests that "the people don't mind paying the school teachers more money if they are certain they are getting their money worth."

Coyote May Be Classified 'Dog'

SUDBURY, Mass. (AP) — A coyote aspiring to a dog's life will receive the consideration of the board of selectmen tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Marilyn Hall, owners of the little alien beast, want for it the same legal status enjoyed by canines.

It is, said Mrs. Hall, "a constant companion for our five small children. He likes children very much and even looks after them. He is very, very tame."

Hall killed the coyote's mother during a hunting trip in Colorado five years ago. The Halls want their pet authorized to carry a dog license and enjoy the same freedom given dogs.

ent Atlee says there is no insurance against a war that will wreck civilization unless nations sacrifice some of their sovereignty for a world government.

The 76-year-old Laborite told the Foreign Policy Assn. Wednesday night that "We live so closely packed together in the world that we cannot afford to have states without any authority over them but their own."

Atlee said the U.N. has failed because member nations have fused to yield any of their individual rights.

Revivalist

The Rev. Bennett Collins will be the evangelist in the Spring revival at the Grace Free Will Baptist Church in Greenville. Rev. Collins was music director for Evangelist Oliver B. Greene in his tent meetings for several years. He led the singing in the Greene revival in the Grace church two years ago.

The revival begins March 16 at 7:30 p.m. and runs through Sunday night, March 22.

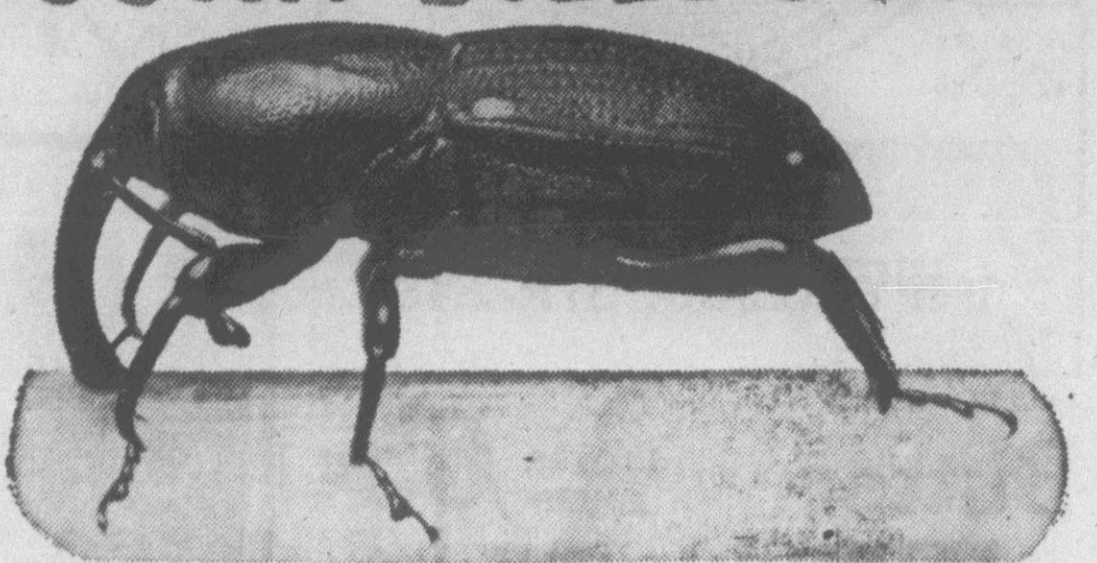

Rev. Collins will be with the pastor on morning devotions on WGTC Monday through Saturday at 9:35 a.m.

Dr. James K. Stack, associate professor of orthopedic surgery at Northwestern University Medical School says hooking your foot on the rail when you stand at a bar straightens your back and reduces strain, making you more comfortable.

Rose High School Musical Groups Rate High In Test

SUPERIOR . . . Rose High's Girls' Glee Club received a rating of "superior" in the District Contest Tuesday.

By CATHERINE MOORE

Tuesday, Rose High musical groups received one "superior" (a "1") and two "excellent" ("2's") ratings at the Eastern District North Carolina Music and Band Contest at East Carolina College. Judges gave the Girls' Glee Club a "1," and the Mixed Chorus and band, a "2" each.

Performing under the direction of August H. Laube, music instructor, the Girls' Glee Club sang "How Merrily We Live" (Michael Este), an old madrigal folk song.

The following North Carolina judges awarded the girls' group a "1" and two "2's": Mrs. Peggy Banksdale, Wilmington; E. K. Williams, Greensboro; and Harvey L. Woodruff, Charlotte.

Laube also directed the Mixed Chorus through "Christ, Our Blessed Savior" (Heinrich Schutz) and "The Face of Moses Shone" (Q. Charles Lee).

The same judges gave this group a "1," a "2-plus," and a "2," giving them a final grade of a "2."

The Senior Band played as its warm-up march "Gardes Du Corps" (R. B. Hall), and then rendered "Prelude to Faust" (Charles Gounod) and "First Suite in E Flat for Military Band" (Gustav Holst).

Judges Frank Starbuck, Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, Greensboro; Paul Brown, Portsmouth High School, Portsmouth, Va., and Clyde Duval, high school band director, Norfolk, Va., rated the group, awarding them a "1" and two "2's."

As a result of receiving an "excellent" rating Tuesday, the band has qualified to play in the North Carolina State Music Festival Friday, April 17. They will leave Thursday, April 16, and return April 17.

Sheriff Outwits Roadblock Plans

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Sheriff Myron Gilbert of Ada County decided to test the local roadblock system for trapping wanted criminals.

Twenty-seven officers were assigned to roadblocks in the area to watch for Gilbert, who theoretically had held up a grocery store and stolen a getaway car in Boise.

Gilbert eluded the dragnet and made it to Mountain Home, Idaho — 43 miles away — without once being challenged.

British Phone Operators Told Be More 'Human'

By RAYMOND E. PALMER
LONDON (AP)—Britain's telephone operators were told to be more human today. They are being encouraged to greet the customers and even address them by name if they know it.
The new approach, ordered by Postmaster General Ernest Marples to make the service more helpful, was only a couple of hours old when we rang our local operator to see how things were going.
They went like this:
"Fleet Street operator, can I help you?"
The voice was distinctly masculine.
"How's this good morning business going?" we asked.
"Oh, you mean the friendly telephone service?"
"That's it," we said. "How's it going?"
"Well, we're supposed to try to make your lives happier—and ours, of course."
"How?"
"By being less formal. We don't have to use standard phrases any more, like 'number please'."
"Anything else?"
"Yes, we can give our names

Made A Home Of Telephone Booth

CAROLINA BEACH, N.C. (AP)—Police in this resort town figured the elderly vacationer was overdoing it in making himself at home. They found him cooking his meals in a telephone booth.
Inside the booth on Fisherman's Pier were a small oil stove, a frying pan, cheese, some eggs and cooking oil. An old broom was propped outside.
"We found out," said City Manager William Gary, "that he couldn't cook inside the room he had taken in a rooming house. So he went to the beach but the wind blew into his food out there and he moved into the booth."
Officers found him a room with cooking privileges.

Ford Co. Confirms It Will Build Small Cars

DETROIT (AP)— Ford Motor Co. has become the first of the Big Three auto makers to confirm it will build a smaller car.

The company said in a letter to stockholders Wednesday that barring changes in the small car market, Ford will introduce an economy model sometime this fall.

Neither General Motors nor Chrysler, the other two members of the Big Three, had any comment on the Ford announcement. Both have outlined company positions in previous statements.

The latest of these was Tuesday when L. L. (Tex) Colbert, Chrysler president told a news conference in New York that Chrysler had a small car in the testing stage but had not yet decided whether to put it on the market.

Chrysler, Ford and GM currently offer imported small cars through their U.S. dealers. General Motors imports the Opel from Germany and the Vauxhall from its British plants; Chrysler imports the Simca from France; and Ford offers several models imported from Germany and England.

The GM stand was incorporated in the company's 1958 annual report by Frederic G. Donner, board chairman, and John F. Gordon, president. The executives told shareholders the corporation was continuing studies to be prepared to produce smaller cars in the event demand warranted them.

The Ford announcement was made by Henry Ford II, president, and Ernest R. Breech, board chairman. Their letter said that the company had been studying the small car situation for several years.

"Barring changes in the market or other circumstances," the letter said, "the company plans to introduce such a car during the 1960 model year."

Ford and Breech said the car will be in competition with other economy cars, "including cars expected to be produced in this country by other American manufacturers."

The predictions generally are that newer models planned by the Big Three will be of from 108 to 110 inch wheelbase. This is about 10 inches shorter than regular Chevrolet and Ford models.

Distribute 1,600 Quality Chicks To 4-H Clubbers

Sixteen hundred quality chicks of the Parmenter Red strain have been distributed to 17 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H Club work in Pitt County, Pitt County Negro Agricultural Agent James M. Goode and Assistant Agent W. G. Barnes reported.

This is the fourth year the 4-H Poultry Chain has operated in Pitt County for Negro club members.

It is the responsibility of each 4-H'er participating in the chain to use recommended practices in growing out their chicks to pullets in five and a half months.

Each of the club members receiving 100 chicks will return 12 of the pullets to the county agent's office in September. The pullets returned will be entered in a Pitt County Poultry Show and Sale. Money received from the auction sale will be used to purchase chicks for other 4-H'ers in 1960.

Club members who have received chicks from the chain are: Mark Oids, Edward Lee Moore, Leroy Epell, Belva Ruth Monk and Forney Moore, Bell Arthur community; Donald Gorham and James Clarence Bemby, Bruce-Falkland community; Henry Mills, Vivian Hawkins, and Susie Atkinson, Grimesland community; Judy Gardner, Grifton community; James Crandall Jr., Jimmy Jones and Calvin Diggins, Greenville community; Marie Williams and John Dixon, Ayden community; and Barbara Locke, Winterville community.

The Poultry Chain is being sponsored by the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and the Pitt County Farm Bureau.

Missionary Film To Be Shown Local Churches

"A Cry in the Night," hour-long missionary documentary film, will be shown at Winterville Free Will Baptist Church Saturday, March 14, 7:30 p.m.; Greenville Free Will Baptist Church, Saturday, March 14, 7:30 p.m., on the corner of Eleventh and Forbes Streets; First Pentecostal Holiness Church, Sunday, March 15, 6:30 p.m., on Coachee Street; Grace Free Will Baptist Church, Sunday, March 15, 7:30 p.m., on Watuga Street; and Maranatha Free Will Baptist Church, Sunday, March 15, 7:30 p.m., on 14th St. Ext.

"Produced by World Vision, Inc., of Los Angeles, and filmed in color throughout Asia, 'A Cry in the Night' features such scenes as reputed actual demon possession on the island of Bali. . . . A savage cockfight in a temple courtyard. . . . A new Tokyo, one of the world's most beautiful and modern cities, rising out of the ashes of defeat and the age-old customs of the past. . . . Brutal Communist riots. . . . A saintly missionary nurse binding up the wounds of the leprous.

The film, the tenth released by World Vision, recently won first place in the documentary division of the Winona Lake Film Festival, an international competition for religious films. It is being premiered in churches across the country in what is described as a unique distribution plan. Churches using it, rather than paying rental fees or taking an offering for the World Vision organization, are required to take an offering for their own foreign missionary program.

"World Vision is a service organization," explains its president, Dr. Bob Pierce, "and we want 'A Cry in the Night' to serve the churches themselves, and to help them in their own missionary interests." He points to over 40 denominational and interdenominational missionary organizations receiving "emergency aid" from World Vision, along with over 12,000 children being cared for by the organization in 147 orphanages throughout the Orient.

Carter, Parnell In Judging Roles

HIGH POINT — The annual High Point District Music Contest will be held tomorrow and Saturday at High Point Senior High School and High Point College. Chairman of the event are Dr. Lew J. Lewis, band and orchestra professor at the college; Miss Nancy Anne Staley, choral music teacher at the high school; and Mr. David Carter, band teacher for the city schools.

High school choral groups, bands and orchestras, and piano soloists are to be judged. "None of the groups are competing against each other," Dr. Lewis stated, "but against a standard."

Tomorrow morning at 9:00 the band and orchestra portion of the contest will be held in Memorial Auditorium on the college campus. It will continue until about 2:30 p.m. Twelve schools are scheduled to perform in this group. Judges are Nicholas Erneston of Appalachian State Teachers College, and Herbert Carter, and James Parnell of East Carolina College.

The college student center will be used for warm-up sessions. At the same time piano soloists will be performing in senior high auditorium. Fletcher Moore of Elon College is the judge for this contest of a scheduled twenty-one pianists.

Choral groups from nine area high schools are to be judged on Saturday morning in senior high auditorium beginning at 9:00. Judges are John Hanks of Duke University, Robert Morris of Woman's College, and R. Glenn Starnes of Durham City schools.

Sign 51 Farms For 'B' Plan

Fifty-one of the county's 1,641 cotton growing farms have been signed up for the "B" allotment plan authorized by law, ASC Manager Walter Hasty said today.

The 51 farms represent a total of 384.9 cotton acres. All told, there are 8,296.5 allotted cotton acres in Pitt County.

Farmers have through Monday indicated their "A" or "B" choice to the ASC office. Those who do not indicate a choice by the deadline will automatically be placed in the "A" group.

Farmers who remain in the "A" group will receive their standard cotton allotment this year and it will be supported at 80 percent of parity.

For those who operate under Choice "B" there will be a 40 percent increase in acreage for the year but cotton grown on "B" farms will be supported at only 65 percent of parity.

The support prices have been announced as 30 1/2 cents per pound for Choice "A" cotton and 24 1/2 cents per pound for Choice "B" cotton, Hasty said. The support prices are based on middling 7-8 cotton. Pitt County's average grades generally run somewhat higher than that average.

On a national level, 17,067 farm operators had elected Choice "B" through Feb. 20, Hasty said. In North Carolina, 2,157 operators had chosen the "B" plan through Feb. 20. There are 83,309 cotton allotment farms in the state with a total of 470,315 acres.

Pitt Mayors . . .

no ABC stores but receives three per cent of Greenville's share. He said he took it up with his board and "we want to get all the money we can, but we don't want a tax raise."

Ayden Mayor Corey Stokes said in discussing it with his board he had found such "extreme thinking" he had told them he would bring them more information on the situation.

Mayor J. M. Horton said his town was like the others in that it "needed all the money we can get." He said that under the proposal of last night it looked as if the towns would get more than they had been receiving.

W. Leslie Elks, mayor of Grimesland told the group his board "would like to get all the money we can from the ABC board. But if it would increase taxes we are opposed."

Carson Jones of Falkland said he would have to go along with the thinking of the other mayors. He wouldn't want to take any step which would raise taxes.

Charles S. Edwards, mayor of Farmville, said that while he favored an increase in town turnover, "if it would bother the tax rate I personally think it would be a disadvantage to Farmville."

County Auditor Reginald Gray told the group that for every $6,700 drop in revenue from ABC sources the county tax rate would have to be raised one cent to make up the amount.

Also appearing before the group was County Commissioners Chairman Bob Martin, Greenville City Attorney R. B. Lee, and Greenville City Manager Leonard Bloxam.
