Candidate

CHARLES M. KING for City Council

First To File For Council Race in May Elections

Charles M. King, retired naval officer, yesterday became the first candidate officially in the race for Greenville's City Council.

King paid the $1 filing fee at city hall yesterday afternoon to seek one of the four seats on Greenville's City Council in the May 5th city elections.

A native of Greenville, King returned to this city to make his home last year following his retirement after 21 years of active duty as a naval aviator.

King attended Greenville city school, East Carolina College and Duke University. He joined the U. S. Naval Air Corps as an aviation cadet in 1937 and was commissioned an Ensign in 1939.

During World War II he rose to the rank of Lt. Cmdr. and served as a dive bomber squadron commander in the European, Asiatic and Pacific theatres.

King is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. W. King of Greenville. His father, the late Mr. King, served as sheriff of Pitt County for 18 years.

King and his four children make their home at 521 Longmeadow Rd. Greenville voters this year will elect four members of the City Council and a Mayor. The filing period for candidates for the posts closes April 4.

People Like The Postal Ballpoints

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sign of postal progress: More and more people are stealing ballpoint pens from post offices.

Patrons like the new pens much better than the old scratchy kind that used to lie on counters in post offices.

As a matter of fact, nobody stole one of those other pens, the Post Office Department told the House Appropriations Committee.

At the most, it said, customers angrily would toss the old pens into the wastepaper basket.

Ship Meat To Epidemic Area

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Operation "Corned Beef" has been launched by the Kenya Meat Commission to help hundreds of Sudanese struck down by an epidemic of protein deficiency.

The epidemic has already put over 500 people into hospital.

M.P. Guido, of the U.S. Consulate in Khartoum, flew to Nairobi on behalf of the U.S. Operative Mission to Sudan to buy vitamin supplies.

He was told in Kenya the best product available was corned beef. He bought 34 tons of it and is arranging to send it to Sudan by every available plane.

No Surprises Anticipated In Ike's Report On Berlin

By ERNEST B. VACCARO WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's report to the nation Monday night on the Berlin situation will contain no surprises and set forth no new policies, informed sources predicted today.

The talk could be regarded mainly as an educational effort, the sources said, in a move to put the Berlin situation into perspective as the President sees it.

Eisenhower's decision to go on the air was reported to have been prompted in part by continuing contentions among Democrats in Congress that the nation's defenses are inadequate to meet the situation.

The White House announced late Friday the President will speak from his office for 30 minutes over all major television and radio networks starting at 9:30 p.m. EST Monday night.

Eisenhower is expected to stress again American determination to stand firmly with its allies in the face of Soviet pressures. But he also was reported ready to make clear his willingness to ease tensions by negotiations toward settling the entire German issue.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, asked whether any new development in the Berlin situation had prompted Eisenhower to speak, replied "No, sir."

The address will be the first such nationwide report on a foreign policy situation since last Sept. 9 when Eisenhower discussed Red China's campaign to force Chinese Nationalist troops off Quemoy Island.

News that the President had scheduled the address brought reaction today from some members of Congress.

Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) urged Eisenhower to tell the American people frankly and candidly "if there is a real danger of war" over Berlin.

President in his broadcast "should spell out very precisely what our position is" regarding Berlin, as well as that of Western Allies in negotiations ahead.

"And the President should say precisely why he thinks our defenses are adequate when the Russians greatly outnumber us in land forces and outnumber us in missiles as well."

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said: "I'm glad the President is going on the air. I think it is a fine thing. The American people can take it, and we should face up to the situation as it actually is."

Congressmen Talk Cutting Of Foreign Aid Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) said today President Eisenhower will be lucky if he gets three billion dollars from Congress out of the nearly four billions he wants for foreign aid.

Hays, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee who has voted for the overseas program in the past, spoke as congressmen eyed for economies the program sent them by the President Friday.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (Mont), the assistant Democratic leader, also suggested a three billion dollar figure—300 millions less than the administration got last year after a stiff fight.

Eisenhower said America's own existence depends, on not slackening its aid to others in a Communist-threatened world. If the United States does not use part of its wealth to help others, he said, it could become "the richest nation in the graveyard of history."

The Eisenhower message failed to make much of a case in the eyes of Rep. Otto E. Passman (D-La.), chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee which will handle aid funds.

Passman, who calls himself "a leading foreign aid budget-cutter," said U.S. money has if anything tended to push other countries toward the Communist camp and has been spent amid "fantastic, disgraceful waste and profiteering."

A more cordial reception came from Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), head of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Fulbright said he would support the main provisions of the bill. However, he said he may try to limit the arms assistance and perform "considerable surgery" on the legislative provisions.

Hearings start Monday with Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Signs Statehood Bill Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will sign the Hawaiian statehood bill early next week. Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made the announcement today after Gov. William F. Quinn of Hawaii had called on Eisenhower.

The Hawaiian governor visited the White House to thank the President on behalf of the people of the islands for the part the administration had played in pressing for admission of Hawaii as the 50th state.

Quinn, leaving at noon today for Honolulu to be there when notice of presidential approval arrives, said he had told the President Hawaii is very conscious of its mission in the middle Pacific.

Quinn said "Hawaii wishes to perform as a 'hub of the Pacific' in creating greater understanding between the East and West and the peoples of Asia 'whose friendship we are trying to... nourish.'"

Quinn will have 30 days after formal notice of Eisenhower's approval to issue an election proclamation. The primary could be held no less than 60 nor more than 90 days after the proclamation. A general election could be held no later than 40 days after the primary.

Quinn said he would put the machinery in motion to qualify Hawaii for formal admission as soon as possible. But he said he wants to talk with legislative and political leaders of both parties in Hawaii before issuing his primary proclamation.

Quinn, a Republican, who said last month he would run for the first elected governor of the new state, said today this is not the time to talk about that.

He told reporters there is a strong two-party system in Hawaii and perhaps it would vote something like a border state in the continental United States. He added that Hawaii could swing 51 or 52 per cent, either Republican or Democratic.

Quinn said that in the primary election the people of Hawaii will be asked to vote on this question: "Do the people want to become a state?"

He said he would be surprised if as much as 4 per cent voted "No."

Hail Macmillan Statesman-Hero

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan was hailed today as a statesman-hero.

In their morning newspapers Britons read of the great diplomatic victory he had won in his Bonn talks this week with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The aging German leader, reported to be a "difficult" man, had been won over to Macmillan's way of thinking.

In Bonn said the Daily Mail, Macmillan "notched up the greatest triumph" of his intercontinental peacemaker tour that began in Moscow last month, took him next to Paris and then to the West German capital this week.

"He completely won over Dr. Adenauer to a system of step-by-step disarmament in Central Europe," the Mail added.

"Superman! He does it again," declared the Daily Sketch.

Macmillan got back from Bonn Friday night, looking rather pale and tired.

Now he faces the vital fourth round of his globe-girdling talks aimed at presenting the Soviets with a unified Western view on the future of Germany and European security.

Girl Is Abducted At Parking Lot

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — A 16-year-old girl was seized from her car in a downtown parking lot late Friday night by a swarthy complexioned man, police reported.

She was released at the edge of the city 3 1/2 hours later and hysterically told officers she had been assaulted.

Police said the girl was examined at a hospital early today and physicians reported she had been attacked. She was later released from the hospital. Police continued a search for the man.

Mrs. Leroy Jackson, a neighbor of the girl, said the man, a stranger to them, drove into the parking lot, got out of his car and pulled the girl from her parked auto. He pushed her into his car and drove off. This was about 11 p.m.

Mrs. Jackson said the man had a swarthy complexion and was about 30 to 35 years old. She said that she and the girl had come to town late in the afternoon, shopped and attended a movie to celebrate the girl's 16th birthday.

Detective J. A. Merck said that the girl related that her captor covered her head with a coat so she couldn't tell where they were going. She asserted that the assault took place in woods.

When he put her out of the car on the highway on the edge of the city limits, she said, he told her to "Call a cab and go home." Instead she called the operator and was connected with police.

Airline Reports Its Biggest Year

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Piedmont Aviation, Inc., has reported to its stockholders that 1958 was the most successful year in its history.

"Total assets of the company have more than doubled without the sale of additional common stock," the report said.

Piedmont President T. H. Davis said 1958 earnings "reached an all-time high of $340,955." He said total assets amounted to $11,315,786 in 1958, compared to $4,384,996 the preceding year.

Among other things, Canham has been an alternate delegate to the United Nations General Assembly, former president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and former chairman and still a member of the U.S. Information Agency's Advisory Commission on Information.

Canham joined the Monitor in 1925 after graduating Phi Beta Kappa from Bates College in his home state of Maine.

A year later he took leave for three years as a Rhodes scholar in England. But between terms he was the Monitor's assistant correspondent at League of Nations assemblies in Geneva.

After serving as both a foreign and Washington correspondent for the Monitor, he went to Boston in 1939 as general news editor, became managing editor in 1941 and editor in 1945.

On the other hand, Canham said both business and labor groups can provide powerful impetus to progress, but only to the degree that they remain voluntary.

The labor movement, he said, would be stronger than it is today if it kept membership on a voluntary basis instead of campaigning for union shops—where workers must join the union to keep their jobs.

In contrast to the past half century when business took much criticism, he said, "currently it is the tycoons of labor who are getting the unfavorable headlines."

"This situation will continue," he said, "as long as both parties deserve it."

Setback For Optimism At Strike

Incidents Involving Fire, Explosion, Unruly Pickets At Henderson

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — Scattered incidents of fire, explosion and unruly pickets marred optimism for a quick strike settlement as work halted for the weekend at the Harriet - Henderson Cotton Mills.

An explosion Friday night tore a hole in the front porch and shattered a window at the home of a non-union Negro yardman who had returned to work at the mills.

Friday afternoon a mysterious fire destroyed $1,000 worth of waste cotton loaded in a large tractor-trailer truck.

Police also reported that crowds of strikers which gathered outside gates of the firm's two plants in North and South Henderson to haze workers were more active than in past days.

The National Labor Relations Board said it would begin Monday to investigate charges by the Textile Workers Union of America that the cotton mill firm had engaged in unfair labor practices.

Boyd Payton, Carolinas director of the TWUA, and John D. Cooper Jr., plant president, have scheduled another negotiation session for next Thursday. Payton said, "As far as we are concerned the strike can be wound up next week. It's just a matter of give and take."

Regarding next week's meeting, Cooper said, "I hope we can arrive at an agreement which will assure the company's being able to operate efficiently and competitively."

The company reportedly submitted new proposals for dealing with arbitration—the key issue in the long deadlock. The firm refused to renew an arbitration clause in a new contract with the TWUA.

The TWUA accused the firm of refusing to bargain "in good faith" and recently filed charges with the NLRB.

Arthur Murray, a yardman, said he fired four shots from a .22 caliber rifle at two men fleeing from the front of his house shortly after the explosion ripped through the uneasy quiet of his northwest Henderson Negro residential area.

He said he did not know whether the men were hit.

Murray said he had received two threatening telephone calls in past weeks.

The blast was the first at the home of Negro employees of the two mills.

Vance County sheriff's officers were investigating the truck fire to see if it were connected with the bitter four-month-old strike.

The cotton in the truck came from an independent mill, not organized and not involved in this strike.

It was estimated that $2,500 worth of damage was inflicted to the truck's trailer. The flames also ruined a small truck and auto parked nearby.

Report 'Record' Radioactivity Due Soviet Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last October's nuclear tests by the Soviets produced a record rise in the radioactive debris in the stratosphere, says Dr. Willard F. Libby.

Libby, scientist member of the Atomic Energy Commission, said the rise was tremendous—the greatest in all the history of weapons testing by the Soviets, Americans and British.

At the same time Libby made public the theory of another American scientist that Soviet nuclear tests in polar regions may present a greater fallout hazard to a large part of the world than the equatorial tests of the United States and Britain.

Libby said this theory, however, is still considered tentative, even by its originator, Dr. E. A. Marshall of the Air Force's Cambridge (Mass.) Research Center.

The AEC fallout specialist, in a speech delivered for him at the University of Washington in Seattle by an AEC associate, devoted his remarks mainly to efforts to learn more precisely how fallout becomes distributed in the stratosphere; how it descends—and at what rate.

He said "care and caution must be taken about the matter of additional radioactive contamination."

In other highlights of his talk, Libby:

1. Disclosed that in last summer's tests at Eniwetok, the Americans detonated some of their shots on barges loaded with tons of silica sand—with the objective of encasing the dangerous radioactive strontium in glass-type "beads." The hope is that this will make the strontium less likely to be assimilated by plants, animals and humans.

2. Revealed that the United States also had spiked some of the Eniwetok test devices with two special isotopes — to be used as "tracers" in the quest to get new information on what happens to fallout in the stratosphere.

3. Said there is a possibility — still unproved—that the long-run concentrations of fallout materials in the human body from food may be considerably lower than has been calculated in the past.

She Talked And Talked; Divorce

LONDON (AP) — Frederick Hearn got a divorce because he wasn't getting enough sleep.

It seems his German-born wife Hildegard liked to talk in bed.

Night after night, sometimes for weeks on end, Hildegard kept Fred awake nights by talking, a divorce court judge said.

Sometimes, Fred would fall asleep, but Hildegard only thought he was kidding to annoy her.

Sometimes he snored.

In the end, said the judge, Hildegard got so annoyed she struck him, clawed him, tore his hair out—and once pushed him out of bed.

The court granted Fred a decree on grounds of cruelty, ruling Hildegard had deprived him of "the peace of mind which would enable him to sleep soundly."

Some Revisions In Hail Insurance

RALEIGH (AP) — Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold has reduced hail insurance rates on tobacco in 22 counties because of few losses last year.

In an order released Friday, Gold went along with North Carolina Fire Insurance Rating Bureau recommendations that costs for 19 counties be lowered. He added three others to the list.

Increases of $6.50 to $7 were ordered for Alexander and Lenoir counties and $3 to $3.25 in Onslow.

Gold ordered decreases in Johnston, Person and Rockingham.

One Man Show

RALEIGH (AP) — Sen. Frank Forsyth of Cherokee had to be a versatile man today.

He was the only one of the 50 senators who showed up for the token Saturday session. So, Sen. Forsyth presided over a sea of empty desks.

He made a motion that the journal of Friday stand approved without being read. He voted for the motion and ruled that it had carried. He ordered the ratification of several measures which completed their legislative journal in the week. Then he moved that the Senate adjourn. Naturally, the motion carried unanimously.

Over on the House side, meanwhile, seven of 120 members showed up for the routine Saturday session.

Go All The Way!

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union can be deterred from "a final showdown at this time," predicts Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, if the United States is determined "to go to war if necessary for Berlin."

"We must be willing to go all the way down the road," says the Army chief of staff. "We can't turn back at any point."

Taylor advocated this stand Wednesday in top secret testimony before the Senate Watchdog Preparedness subcommittee. A heavily censored transcript of his remarks was released Friday night by subcommittee Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.).

Asked if this country has "clearcut plans to meet the Berlin crisis in any eventuality that may confront us," Taylor said: "The Joint Chiefs of Staff do."

Taylor, himself a member of the Joint Chiefs, expressed conviction the United States and its European allies have the strength to carry out those plans.

Recalling the Soviet's blockade of Berlin in 1948, Taylor testified that many top military leaders now regard the U. S.-Berlin airlift as a mistake. Force should have been tried, Taylor said, when the Soviets blocked ground routes into Berlin.

"Instead we yielded to a challenge which may well have been a bluff," Taylor said. "We will never know to what extent the U.S.S.R. would have gone to maintain the ground blockade by force."

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — "It sounded like a dynamite explosion," said William Crane. "Then the freight cars hit!"

Crane had been sitting in a restaurant in the path of a speeding string of 15 runaway freight cars which hurtled through downtown Olympia Friday night, killing one person, injuring 15 others and demolishing a quarter of a city block.

He and his wife were in the cafe wrecked by the cars after the freight thundered off the end of the track and crashed through a brick depot. Two of the cars rumbled 350 feet and came to rest inside a building across this capital city's main street.

"I ducked under the table and hollered for my wife," Crane said. "When it was over, we crawled out and went out through the rear of the restaurant."

Crane and others reentered the cafe to release five women trapped in a front booth.

Railroad telegrapher Kenneth A. Dilly, 36, was killed when the juggernaut plowed through the middle of the Union Pacific station.

Only six of the injured required hospitalization. The others, including Crane, were treated and released.

The freight cars, 12 of which were loaded with plywood and plaster-board, tore out a dead-end railway bumper guard and ripped into the depot. The two lead cars smashed on, through and across the street. Four others piled up inside a building directly behind the depot, wrecking a cafe, tavern food shop and auto parts store. Two cars came to a stop inside the depot, while the others remained upright on the tracks.

Police estimated the damage as in excess of a million dollars. It would be several days before a close accounting of damage could be made, they said.

Gas mains were shattered and police roped off the area. The jumble of railroad cars, parked automobiles and rubble blocked the main thoroughfare.

Thurston County Coroner Hollis Fultz said the freight cars were cut loose from a locomotive during switching operations at Tumwater, about two miles south. They started rolling down the grade toward the state capital, with the locomotive crew in vain pursuit, he said.

Parade, Pageant In Ayden Festival

AYDEN — A parade and beauty pageant will highlight the Farmers Festival to be held in Ayden, April 10-11.

Miss Carol Lynn Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Johnson of Ayden, is one of the early entries in the "Miss Pitt County" contest. Miss Johnson is 26 years old and is now a junior at the University of North Carolina. She is being sponsored in the pageant by the Ayden Rotary Club.

Guests at the festival will include Representatives Harold Cooley and Herbert Bonner, and Betty Lane Evans, Miss North Carolina of 1958.

The Farmer's Festival parade will climax the celebration with numerous bands, antique autos, children and pets, and a genuine steam Calliope participating. A U. S. Marine Corps Color Guard will lead the parade.

Any person or business firm interested in participating in the Jaycee-sponsored festival is asked to contact Tom V. Wheelock of Ayden for information and assistance. There will be no entrance fee.

Would Toughen Tar Heel Youth

RALEIGH (AP) — Nine persons were named Friday to a group which will study the field of physical education with an eye toward toughening up Tar Heel youth.

A commission member, Adj. Gen. Capus Wayne, said it was "alarming" that more than half the young men called up for the draft were rejected.

Gov. Hodges named the unofficial commission.

The Richardson Foundation has granted funds to the commission to establish local youth fitness committees and enlist school and community cooperation.

The group will meet March 27 to adopt a constitution and bylaws, prepare a charter of incorporation and elect officers.

Hawaiians Celebrate Vote For Statehood

Boys and girls do the hula dance in Honolulu streets in celebration of the congressional vote for statehood by overwhelming majorities. The Senate voted 78-15 to make the Pacific island territory the 50th state in the Union, and the House followed with a vote of 323-89. (AP Wirephotos)

Family Teamwork Is Necessary

By SUE B. MAY
Pitt Co. Home Agent

"Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World," the motto of Home Demonstrator Clubs, is a reminder that family members, especially parents, have some responsibility in molding the destiny of the future.

The restlessness and insecurity that exists in the world today makes family teamwork more important, perhaps, than ever before.

Husband-wife partnership is the first step needed toward attaining family teamwork.

Marriage is where teamwork begins. It is then that a couple starts saying "we" and "our" instead of "I" and "my." All couples go through a period of learning to live together; for they soon find out that they have differences of opinion and that not everything can be done to please both.

They have to learn how to share money; how to share responsibility; how to share fun and friends. When this is accomplished, marriage becomes the happiest of all human relationships.

Some specialists in the field of family life have expressed the opinion that the following items are responsibilities of the wife if she is to be experienced.

Good housekeeping is just one of the skills necessary to being a good wife. A man could hire a housekeeper, but he married his wife because he loved her.

"He wanted a companion to share his interests and lead him to new ones. He wanted a cheering section to applaud him when he did well and to encourage him when he failed."

"He wanted the security of knowing that at least one person in the world approved of him just as he was and would continue to love him for better or for worse."

"He wanted a home that was not only neat but interesting, a place for hobbies and learning, for friends and lazy hours."

"A woman has to look far beyond her housekeeping before she dare assume that she is a good wife."

A member of the American Family Life Institute gives the following information concerning what a woman expects in marriage.

"A woman expects romance to continue in marriage. Romance to the modern woman includes all of the old-time qualities: strength, gallantry, dependability, respect, kindness, and politeness. To a wife, her husband is her highest achievement. She wants to be proud of him, to show him off to her family and friends, to have them approve of her choice and perhaps be a bit envious of her good fortune in capturing such a "dream boat." The trouble is, as one unhappy wife put it, "My dream boat turned out to be nothing but an old tug. His company manners are terrible. He is rude and thoughtless. I'd faint if he held my chair in a restaurant. I thought I married a gentleman, but no gentleman would ever tell our friends that his wife proposed to him."

"What is it that makes a woman willing to exchange the attentions of many men for the inattentions of one? It is love. A wife wants her husband to share her home interests. It is his home, too. She wants to express their joint personalities. A wife expects her husband to cooperate. She expects him to keep up with the modern trends in marriage and family living. Time was when a woman accepted her role as 'just a housewife.' Now she expects to be a partner in the joint venture of home-making."

"A wife expects cooperation in the responsibilities of child-rearing. She expects her husband to help guide and discipline the children, to do his part in P.T.A., in civic organizations and in church work. A wife expects to come first with her husband. A wife expects her husband to have hobbies and business responsibilities, but we don't want these to become obsessions."

"Indeed, a wife expects much of her husband. She expects him to love her, comfort her, honor her and keep her, in sickness and in health, and forsaking all others, keep her only unto him so long as they both shall live."

The family life authority also listed certain things that men expect in marriage.

"A man has the right to expect his wife to be a good cook. The way to a man's heart hasn't changed in a thousand years and yet in this day of modern living it is astounding how many women know more about the typewriter and adding machine than they do about the refrigerator and kitchen stove. As one husband said, 'I know my wife worships me because she places a burnt offering before me every day.'

"Cause for more serious concern, however, are the things that have happened to the American dinner table. Time was when meal times were the happiest hours of the day. Let us each examine carefully this phase of our own family living. What about breakfast? How do you send your husband and children off in the morning? In calm and peaceful joy, or in haste and confusion? The way we begin our day is of vital importance. If you don't have time for your morning devotions and your breakfast, which do you do without?"

"A man has a right to expect good meals, served with pleasant conversation. If he gets these consistently, chances are he won't have ulcers and high tension."

"A man expects his wife to keep the family well dressed, a credit to him wherever they go. His family is his best advertisement. They show the world that he is a success."

"A man expects his wife to be a good housekeeper, but not too good. A man expects his wife to be a good manager. Wives spend a large percent of the money a man makes, directly or indirectly. A man expects his wife to be a good mother to his children. A man expects his wife to be modern and intelligent, yet remain feminine. When she married him, he thought she was intelligent—because she was smart enough to pick him. A man wants his wife to look up to him, to respect his opinion."

"A man expects his wife to be a pal, not a competitor; a helpmate, not a ball and chain; a woman, not a child. He expects his wife to wear his name with pride—for better, for worse; for richer, for poorer; in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish till death do them part."

Many families include more than just a husband and wife. Often times, three generations live together. We may not live in the same house, but we all must live together in the same world. The younger and older generations both play important roles in family teamwork.

We cannot begin too early to teach children their part in the teamwork of the family. All members of the family want genuine appreciation of the fact that they are carrying their full responsibility of building family harmony.

In summary, we should remember that if teamwork is to be employed in a home there must be partnership. If there is understanding, security, companionship, and love in a home, there is bound to be happiness in that home too. And last, but far from least, remember that faith should be a family affair.

Mr., Miss Courtesy Are Crowned

By CATHERINE MOORE
Teenage Writer

Last night Principal Orren E. Dowd crowned Reggie Johnson and Lois Tunnell, Mr. and Miss Courtesy, during the Twirl Dance—the climax of the school's annual Twirl Week, which began Monday morning and closes tomorrow night.

Various homerooms had nominated Reggie's and Lois' names, among others, for the most courteous boy and girl in the school. Monday morning the Student Cooperative Association, sponsors of Twirl Week, voted for their choices from a slate of six boys' names and six girls'.

Tuesday, they voted again, because of a tie for Miss Courtesy. This time they voted for one of the top four nominees, as ranked as a result of Monday's voting.

The student body heard the names of the winners for the first time last night. Both are members of the junior class.

During the floorshow, the "Flaming Four"—Howard Garner, Robert Taft, Billy Brown, and Joe Moye—sang five songs.

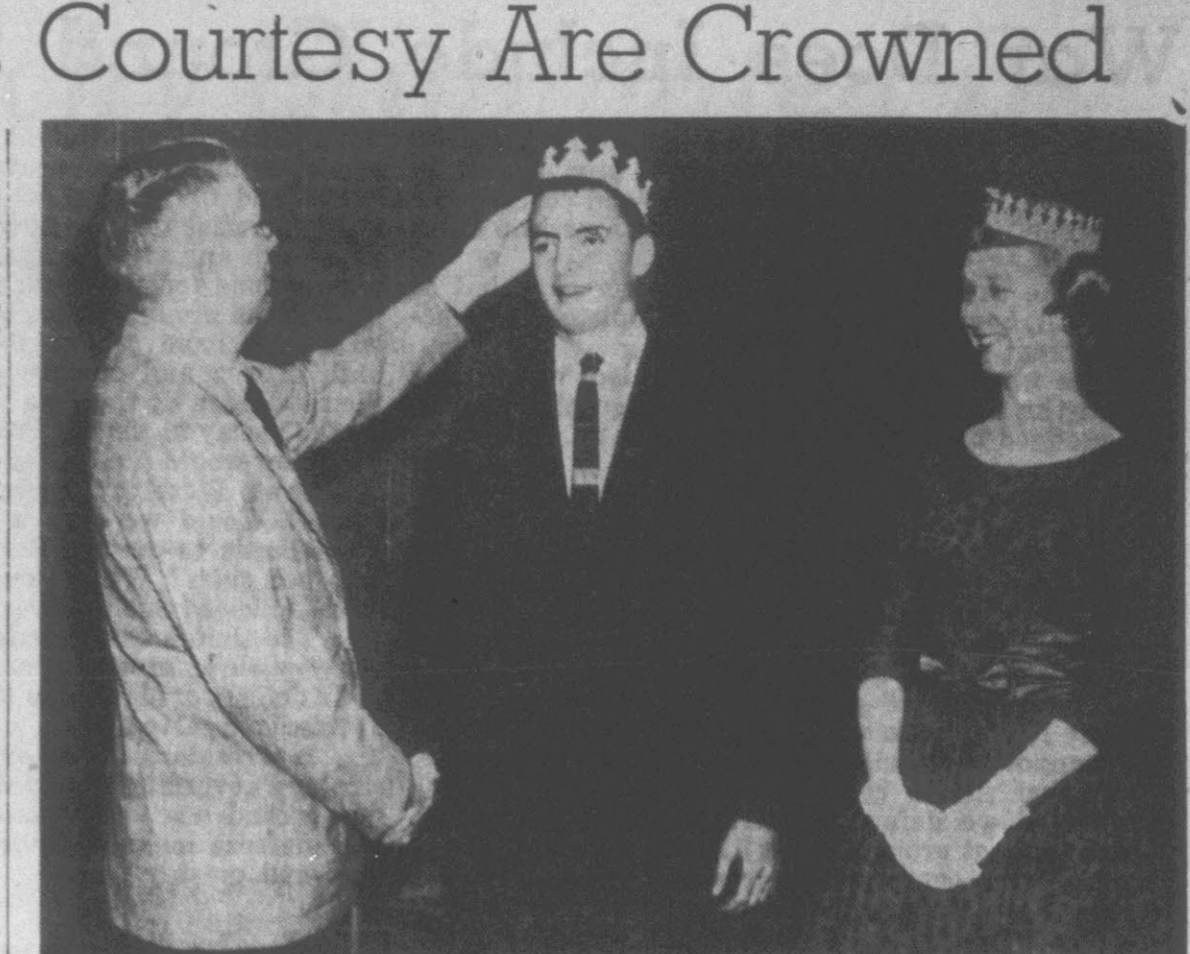

Introducing their first number, Billy told the crowd that they had a song about a "Pactolus Girl." He continued by saying, "You know, they just have running water out there, so our song is 'Clean Gene.'" Actually, they sang "Plain Jane."

Next they sang the song which, according to this quartet, is sweeping the nation, "Don't Take Your Guns to Town," and followed it by the one which is "sweeping Rose High," "Don't Drive Your Truck to Town, James."

"First Anniversary" and "When the Saints Go Marching In" concluded their numbers.

which normally the boys should show them. Boys could not demand them. The purpose of this week is to give the girls an opportunity to show the boys how they would like to be treated throughout the remainder of the year.

This explains some of the surprising sights which a visitor to Rose High could have seen this week, such as girls carrying boys' books, holding doors open for boys, helping them with their coats, asking for dates, and furnishing the transportation for those dates.

The Twirl Season Committee included Dot Davis and Gene Davy, co-chairmen, and Sally Rose Simpson, Bill Clapp (decoration chairman), Billy Cox, Reggie Johnson, and Janice Bentley.

During the dance, members of the Student Co-operative Association, working at the concession stand, served food which various members had made.

Two Attend Symposium
Frances Cozart, junior, and Ben White, sophomore, attended the Second Annual Junior Science Symposium in the "Research Triangle" Area of North Carolina Wednesday-Friday of this week. Only sophomores and juniors may attend this symposium as delegates.

The North Carolina Academy of Science, Raleigh, and the office of Ordnance, United States Army, Duke University.

The North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh, assists in the science programming.

During the three days, delegates attend, at State, Carolina, and Duke, lectures and panels on topics relative to the theme "Science in the Making—Research in Progress." They also tour the science department of these colleges.

Thursday afternoon James D. Nicholson took five chemistry and physics students to Duke to hear that night's symposium lecture. Joe Upchurch, George Hazleton, George Patrick, Catherine Moore, and Beverly Stator heard Dr. Ralph E. Gibson speak on "The Growth of Sciences."

An Englishman by birth, Dr. Gibson now serves as Director of the Applied Physics Laboratory at Johns Hopkins University, Silver Springs, Maryland. He told of the explosive growth of science.

As one of the central points of his lecture, the physical chemist told of the impossibility of separating science and religion. He ended with a quotation from the Bible.

Coach Honors Senior Champs
Wrestling coach Odell Welborn gave a supper Thursday night at his home for the senior wrestlers and the conference champions. Conference champions Louis Arthur, Pete Taylor, Charles Roberts, and Dalton Owens and seniors Wilbur Owens and Ralph Sullivan attended as the honorees.

Others who attended included Superintendent Junius H. Rose, Principal Orren E. Dowd, Coach Boley Farley, Coach Bud Phillips, J. Picklen Arthur, and Reynolds May.

Seniors Hear About Alcoholism
Yesterday morning each senior heard the facts of alcoholism from a guest speaker, Rev. H. G. Haney spoke to James D. Nicholson's homeroom, while a member of Alcoholics Anonymous talked to each of the other three rooms.

Dr. Haney pointed out that alcoholism, a disease, is not hereditary and that an emotionally unstable or a thin person has more difficulty in handling alcohol than a stable or a fat person.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The choice of plants that fit different situations is of prime importance in planting around the house. Watch the corners under the windows and at the entrance. A plant that looks ideal at the nursery or in the catalogue may be only a sleeping giant.

Before you spend money, time and effort, find out about the plants you would like to use. A plant that has to be kept in bounds by severe pruning is costly and never contributes its real worth to a planting. As far as possible use plants that trim up neatly. These will be found among the small leaf evergreens.

If you must plant under windows, use plants with a spreading habit. Keep away from evergreens with large leaves and upright growth. If your windows are close to the ground, a good ground cover answers the purpose very well.

At the entrance avoid such trees as pines, spruces, firs or hemlocks. Use boxwood or one of the Japanese hollies. Among the needed evergreens, Mugho pines and some of the junipers or yews fit well in such places. A slow growing plant that can be kept in bounds with a minimum of pruning is always best in foundation plantings.

At the corners of the house use broad leaf evergreens such as hollies, cleyera or some of the needed evergreens such as yews and some of the junipers. The height of the corner plant should be a little less than half the distance from the eyes to the final grade. As most plants will exceed this if left alone, careful pruning and training while young is necessary.

Most of the modern homes with the overhanging roof should be planted carefully to insure proper retention of moisture in the soil. Do not wait to apply water to plants after the soil has become so dry that it has packed or powdered. A regular watering schedule is necessary.

Do not jam plants back against the house. Plant them where they can develop without having a flat side. You should be able to

Dancers' Costumes Are Not What Meets The Eye

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—The Rockettes, one of New York's venerable tourist attractions, usually appear scantily clad as they swing into their famed precision kicking. Actually, it's mostly a trick. The 36 young dancers cavort on stage in costumes as impervious to disaster as that of a hockey goalie.

Costuming the Rockettes, as well as the Radio City Music Hall ballet corps and others in the stage show cast, is the responsibility of 30-year-old Leanne Mitchell, a Centerville, Iowa, girl who is in charge of a specially trained staff of theatrical dress-makers.

Most New York theatrical enterprises rent or order costumes from one of three large costume companies. The Music Hall is one of the very few—outside of the Hollywood studios—which whips up its own on order. Miss Mitchell estimates that she and her staff make around 100 costumes each time the bill changes.

Costumes Must Wear
Contrary to popular conception, theatrical costumes are not constructed of cheesecloth and library paste. Miss Mitchell buys cloth by the thousands of yards—velvets, silk crepes, lame, cloth of gold, strong, long fibred cotton—and all of good quality.

"They must stand up to hard use," she explained. "The girls must wear them for every show for from four to 10 weeks. And after that they are stored and we may use them again—remodeled, of course—in three or five years."

Miss Mitchell goes to work on the costumes as soon as she receives sketches from the theatre's costume designer. First she makes a pilot costume, which is checked for effectiveness by the producer and the choreographer. If she gets an okay, she goes into mass production with the aid of 20 full-time seamstresses and hand-finishers. There are 48 Rockettes—36 in the line, and 12 who fill in as the girls take their weekly days off. There are 28 in the ballet corps—36 in all—and each girl is fitted to her costume several times before it is finished.

Height a Problem
One of Miss Mitchell's problems is to make the girls look as much alike, in size and conformation, as possible. Although there is really as much as five inches difference in height between the tallest and shortest girls, Miss Mitchell uses a theatrical trick to make them appear uniform.

"Mostly, it's making the hems even," she confided. "You make the hem lines higher for the short girls and longer for the tall ones. But of course, when they are in skin-tight leotards, it's harder. After all, legs are legs, and you can't do much about that."

Shoes Important
Another of costumer Mitchell's jobs is keeping the dancers properly shod. Each Rockette has a basic shoe wardrobe of four pairs of tap shoes—black, red, gold and silver. A pair of shoes usually stand up through about two changes of the theatre's bill and then must be replaced. A pair of satin ballet slippers is worn out in a week, although the "flats"—canvases—which the ballet corps uses in numbers when they don't dance on their toes are much more durable.

"This is very stimulating work," she said. "Sometimes you have interesting problems thrown into your lap—like how to work things out so that the girls can light up like Christmas trees—bulbs, wires and a little battery attachment in the rear—or using invisible paint so that you can change the colors out of the costumes by changing the lighting."

LAST CHECK—Leanne Mitchell makes final measurement on Rockette costumes. She heads a staff of 20 seamstresses and handfinishers who whip up about 100 costumes every time the bill changes at the Radio City Music Hall in New York.

MISS PAT WHITEHURST . . . of Greenville is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Whitehurst, who announce her engagement to John Gary Pierce Jr., son of Mrs. Reta Pierce of Wilmington Manor, New Castle, Del. and the late Mr. J. G. Pierce Sr. The wedding will take place in Wilmington Manor Methodist Church, New Castle, Del., on May 24.

Education Trends Discussed By PTA

Trends in Education was the topic of the program discussed by Jerry Incoe when he spoke to the Griffon PTA Tuesday night. He also spoke briefly on "How Good Is Our PTA."

Another speaker, Mrs. Margaret Hudson, chose "Foreign Language in Elementary Schools." A report from a committee who had studied the possibility of this type of program in the local school was heard.

Principal Ed Bright outlined "Graduation Requirements" with comments on the course of study or curriculum that students have available to them in the high school. The program of study as offered will call for a well developed guidance program administered so that it will meet the individual needs and differences of most students in high school, and that they will find it valuable and desirable in completing the high school education.

As a follow-up on the possibility of foreign language in the elementary school, it was voted that a committee be appointed to report to the next session of the PTA a study of the standards in the elementary school that they be improved if possible.

Walter Murphy reported for the nominating committee and submitted the slate of officers as follows: President Jerry Incoe, 1st vice president J. A. Rogers; Second Vice President Ed Hasely; Secretary, Mrs. Jane Lambert; and Treasurer, Mrs. Robert Miller. These were accepted by the PTA body.

Audience awards were won by Mrs. Brown's first and Mr. Burkes' eight grades.

Student teachers in the commerce department Bobby Wilson and Jerry Ballance of ECO were recognized by Principal Bright.

War Does Include Ground Fighting

President Eisenhower's flat statement that the United States is not planning for a ground war in Europe has caused surprised reaction and concern not only in this country, but in the ranks of American allies elsewhere.

If the United States is planning for any kind of war at all, how can those plans be complete and effective without ground fighting?

Are we relying completely on nuclear weapons to defend this country and the broad geographic regions it is pledged to defend from aggression?

If we are so completely committed to a one-weapon system of defense, we can hardly expect to survive.

For years now the United States and her allies have worked diligently and desperately to build up a 30-division defense force among the NATO nations of Western Europe. The NATO force has slowly risen to 21 1-3 divisions, and unless the President clarifies his "no ground war" statement, it cannot be expected that the NATO nations will continue expending money and manpower to build up ground forces in Europe.

If war should come—nuclear or conventional—how would we defend the areas we are pledged to defend without ground forces? How could we possibly liberate areas overrun by aggressors without ground forces? Have we reached the point where the beginning of a brush-fire war anywhere in the world will immediately trigger an all-out effort with nuclear weapons?

Are we to relinquish geographical areas in the face of aggressor ground forces until such time as we deem the situation serious enough to warrant a nuclear war?

To be sure the United States and its allies do not expect to match the sprawling communist nations of Russia and China man-for-man in ground forces. Yet it is imperative that we have adequate ground forces to cope with any situation which might arise. We must have ground forces properly equipped to defend areas against the ground forces of any enemy. And we likewise must have ground forces of sufficient strength both in men and modern equipment to move in and liberate areas of the free world which might overrun by the enemy in time of conflict.

How would the United States, for example, defend or liberate Western Europe without the use of ground forces? Would we drop a nuclear bomb on Paris or West Berlin to destroy Red forces attacking or holding such cities? What would there be left to liberate if we followed such a course?

The United States today can no more justify the elimination of ground forces as an important weapon in its defense arsenal than it can justify the elimination of missile development.

If President Eisenhower indicated the military strategy governing America's defense system with his "no ground war" statement, our whole realm of military defense must be reviewed and revised radically . . . and quickly.

Development Program Will Need Auxiliaries

Pitt County's Development Commission is just beginning its important work in behalf of the people of the county, but already it is becoming evident that something is needed if the economic potential of the county is to be realized.

The county-wide organization must have local level support of individual community organizations throughout the county dedicated to promoting the general economic growth in Pitt.

Most citizens of the county realize that the 17-man commission and the full time economic engineer employed by the commission cannot do everything which needs to be done if Pitt is to compete effectively for industrial plants which are being relocated. There must be auxiliary groups throughout the county working hand-in-hand with the overall effort to develop local industry as well as to deal with industrial prospects from other areas.

These auxiliary groups may be in the form of committees or representatives from each community of the county; but regardless of what they are called, they have a definite and important function in the overall development picture. Collectively they can make the county-wide economic development effort much more forceful than it otherwise could be.

The sooner Pitt County can become well organized at the community level as well as on a county level to push its own economic development, the sooner it can begin to feel the tangible results of what can be done through such a development program.

Constitutional Change Disliked

By LYNN NISBET

UNPOPULAR—The proposed "new constitution" is just about as unpopular among legislators as a sales tax on table foods and baby medicine. Your reporter has not encountered a single person who does not admit the need for constitutional revision in some areas, particularly with respect to courts; has he found more than half a dozen willing to go along with details of recommended provisions by either of the commissions which have studied the problem.

Practically all of the comment about Governor Hodges' special message has been commendatory for the way he handled the subject. It is apparent that he had an impossible "selling job" to obtain support for the package deal being submitted. Both Ben Spencer Bell, chairman of the Bar Association committee on judicial study, and Victor Bryant, chairman of the legislative constitutional study commission, voiced pleasure at the way the Governor explained the proposals.

Whether the Legislature or the Supreme Court should have authority to establish rules of court procedure has been a controversial point for many years. The Bell commission would place that power in the court; the Bryant commission would leave it in the General Assembly. The Governor took a middle course, and suggested vesting it in the county "where it belongs," but hedged with proposal that the General Assembly might recoup the authority by a three-fifths vote of the entire membership of each branch without vote of the people. Several legislators thought that condition weakened the argument, and think that the authority ought to be vested in one place or the other and remain there until the people themselves change it.

ENLARGEMENT—Except for his conciliatory gesture to the Legislature on the point of recapturing power to regulate courts, the Governor approved most other recommendations. The only other places he went farther than the commission was in suggesting further study of veto authority and elimination of the ban against a Governor succeeding himself in office.

COMMITTEES—The importance of constitutional revision at this time has occasioned discussion of the committee set-up in the General Assembly. Traditionally every member is named to one of the big money committees—half on appropriations, the rest on finance. The law requires joint meetings of House and Senate committees when considering the budget biennial approriation bill. By custom the finance committees of House and Senate also meet jointly on the budget revenue bill, although that is not required by statute. There is recognized inter-relationship between the work of the money committees, and by grapevine telegraph when formal communication is not maintained each group knows what the other is doing. All members of the 1959 General Assembly are equally interested in constitutional revision.

The House committee has 33 members, slightly more than one-fourth of the membership; the Senate committee has 23 members, just two less than half the total membership. The money committees share the morning hours. It is almost impossible to find a meeting time for the committee on the constitution which does not conflict with committees on judiciary, agriculture, health local government, etc. cetera.

TRADITION—Suggestion has been made that all committees should be smaller, with less conflict in meeting time and place, which is the policy in the Congress. Tradition is hard to buck. Rep. George Uzzell of Rowan, who perhaps has more legislative service to his credit than any member of the 1959 assembly, said he could do more effective work if assigned to four or five committees than to the dozen or more on which he is serving.

"But I would resent it," he said, "if I were left off one of the money groups, or a judiciary or other important committee."

The idea has been advanced to switch committee hours, by having the money groups meet at nine o'clock in the morning and run two and a half hours, and let the smaller committees utilize the afternoon time. Chief objection against it challenges tradition.

Tradition or not, most members of the Legislature are not willing to let a relatively small committee pass upon the constitution and be bound by the rules to support the committee report in regular session. Several members have suggested that if the leaders insist upon handling the constitution at this session, instead of having a later extra special session for that purpose, that consideration should be by "committee of the whole" in which every member could participate with somewhat more freedom of expression than is possible in a formal session.

As of now it looks like if the leadership insists on handling the package deal on the constitution in the same way casual amendments have been handled in the past, the whole package will wind up in the trash can.

Believes Soviet Can Be Crushed

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's tough stand against the Soviet Union on Berlin apparently is based on the belief that the United States could smash the Soviets in an all-out war — if it comes any time soon.

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy has expressed such a view repeatedly in recent weeks. So have others. They are basing their faith on American bombers, not on ground troops.

Eisenhower himself this week ruled out land war by conceding the United States and its allies are far outmatched by the Soviets on the ground. He did not rule out nuclear war.

Nuclear war would have to be carried out by the American Strategic Air Command, which could strike from bases around the U.S.S.R. American reliance on bombers will change as both this country and the Soviet Union develop missiles.

Democrats in Congress have protested that the administration is letting the Soviets gain an even widening lead in missiles. Eisenhower replies that he knows exactly what he's doing.

On Jan. 20 McElroy said the United States has forces ready "to destroy any nation attacking our country." Again on March 2 he said this country has "definite offensive superiority over the Soviets at this time."

Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga.), skeptical about American superiority as late as Jan. 20, began sounding optimistic.

On Jan. 28 Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said: "From the many bases that surround the Soviet Union we could devastate them. Only a madman would start a war now." He stressed the superiority of the Strategic Air Command. So did Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

But when it comes to missiles—the ultimate weapons of the future—Russell said: "No question that Soviet Russia is ahead of us."

Even if this country has destructive superiority now and if the Soviets gain it in the not-too-distant future, both situations raise painful questions.

The Western alliance is holding together against Premier Nikita Khrushchev's demand that the Allies get their troops out of Berlin. No one knows for sure why he chose to precipitate a crisis over Berlin now.

There could be several reasons: to gain Western recognition for the Communist East German regime; to weaken the West's will to resist just a little bit by trying to force the West into concessions to avoid a showdown that might mean war; or, through Western fear of war, weaken the whole Western alliance.

By not ruling out the possibility of nuclear war, Eisenhower actually raised the possibility of it. In a nuclear war the Soviets even though being smashed at home, would seek to retaliate in kind, the nearest target is Western Europe.

What looks like a solid Western alliance now might fall apart if this country's European allies came up to the brink of their own devastation over the question of refusing to budge on Berlin.

If the Soviets in a few years have missile superiority — missiles that could crush Western Europe and missiles that could cross the ocean to hit this country — what will this do to American toughness and will to resist?

These are all questions simmering in the Berlin kettle and the arguments between the administration and the Democrats over future defense plans.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

DOUBT CAN BE HEALTHY—Some people claim that the source of genuine religion is unquestioning faith. This is not true. A man who has never questioned his faith has never pondered it. The most seasoned Christian sometimes has periods of doubt. And every believer, no matter how complete his faith may be, feels occasionally the stab of doubt regarding the basic truth of religion.

But doubt becomes a sin only if a man cherishes his doubt. If he loves doubt more than affirmation, then he is committing evil. If he peddles his doubts around and tries to unsettle the faith of others, he is a spiritual menace. Someone was written, "Though thou be scholarly, beware the bigotry of doubt."

Some people take a strange delight in blowing candles out.

Yes, some people would rather blow out a candle than light one. They get a real delight in unsettling the religious faith of others.

But why? If you have religious doubts, keep them to yourself until you have had time to reflect upon them a bit more. Be careful about the enthusiasm with which you express your doubt. It makes much more sense to light a candle than to blow one out.

Doubt involves considerable responsibility for the doubter. He has a responsibility to himself, to others, and to God. Handle your doubts carefully and respectfully. They can be dynamic—or they can be dynamos.

The Story Spread Fast

Remember that mercy call from Israel which was intercepted by a local "ham" operator on Feb. 22?

Charlie T. Wells, Jr. of Rt. 2, Greenville, who heard the original message, reports that he contacted the Israeli "ham" again last Sunday. He learned that a youth who was desperately in need of a new drug has since improved and left the hospital for his home.

Wells picked up the call from Israel one Sunday. The far off "ham" operator told Wells that a drug called "Kanamycin" was needed for a seriously ill 20-year-old youth.

He asked Wells to call the Israeli embassy in Washington with the request. The local man did so and within a few hours the embassy called back to say that the drug had been placed on a commercial airliner and was on the way.

Wells said he had set up a time for contacting the short wave operator in Israel again next Sunday afternoon.

The story of the mercy call relayed to the Associated Press by the Reflector. It was then distributed throughout the nation and the world by that news-gathering organization.

Wells said he had been informed that the article appeared in newspapers at far off locations, including California and even Germany.

Will a building taller than the Empire State Building be constructed in the near future?

T'aint likely, says Engineering News Record.

Chances are slim that anyone would be willing to finance construction of such a building. In fact 40 stories high is apt to be the limit.

High construction costs make it impractical to build skyscrapers any higher than 40 stories, and most investors are interested in the all-purpose building that will give the greatest return under current market conditions.

Advances in construction methods, in structural and mechanical technique and in materials, may make it feasible to build taller skyscrapers in the future, one prominent New York architect believes, but if so, it will require an equally outsize plot and a prestige tenant.

Height is determined by a balance of three things: size of lot, economics, and esthetics, states another New York architect. "The current trend is toward buildings between 20 to 40 stories high. Above these heights, the structure often becomes a financial risk."

The minimum height of a building should be such that net income will at least amortize initial construction costs, according to a New York contractor. Whether the building should be higher than the minimum depends on how much the investor wants to spend.

A really and construction man stresses the value of a more costly 20-story building over two ten-story buildings that could be built on the same lot. He says: "There is prestige in a higher building, and more people will clamor to rent space in it. What's more, it gives you more rentable space."

"But height invokes a costly penalty," he adds. "To build the 38th floor of a building costs twice as much as the second floor."

By centralizing power in the Federal Government, we have descended to a level of state socialism which is obvious, if not admitted. Social democracy is a subterfuge for sound government and constructive enterprise. Its evils are historically documented wherever nations have stooped to it.—Sen. Harry F. Byrd.

Other Editors Saying . . . Governmental Relations

(Wilson Times)

L.H. Fountain, our representative in the House in Washington, has some well defined areas of government responsibilities within their competence."

This is all true and the general belief of everyone. But it has been too long the other way. This is brought about because the federal government has assumed great taxing powers. This taxing power strips the states of the income needed to carry out the very responsibility Mr. Fountain speaks of.

Then the local city and county governments can only assume but so much of the responsibility that is rightfully theirs. They are the third to get the tax bite, and by this time it is pretty small. The local governing units must support the local organizations and services, schools, and agencies too numerous to mention. If something big is needed in improvements, bond issues must be floated, the debt considered and the interest rate. This brings additional burdens on the people.

So in desperation the cities and counties run first to the state and then the federal governments. Mr. Fountain would do democracy a great service if he would try to bring back to the local state, city and county governments not only lost authority but some of the income necessary to carry out the functions that are rightfully theirs.

He questions whether the cities are "doing all that they might to solve their problems." He says that both cities and states neglect their responsibilities expecting the federal government to come to their rescue.

Mr. Fountain believes in decentralization of government. He thinks the states should assume

Toy Business Enjoying A Boom

By ELMER ROESSNER

It's a lusty toy industry that is showing its wares to dealers in a series of shows in New York this week. There is the American Toy Fair, a British Toy Fair, and a series of smaller shows by groups or individual manufacturers.

It shows what free enterprise PLUS an explosive birth-rate can do in the economy.

These two factors have the industry heading toward a new sales record. Retail sales, according to estimates of stores' buyers at the show, bid fare to top the 1957 record of $1.5 billion. They were down to $1.4 billion last year. Recession or something.

The basic cause of the toy boom is, of course, the high rate of births. More than 4,000,000 babies come toddling into the American world every year, and they can use up toys fast. When they reach the age of five or six, they can demolish toys at a rate of something like $1's worth an hour. Their grandfathers never made as much!

UNLIMITED COMPETITION

But the boom is helped along by the competitive nature of the business. There are only a few big toy manufacturing companies. A vast share of production is by small companies. Sometimes a man and his wife can make a profitable fling in the field. However, the very small ones usually hang on, after one successful hit, and lose their winnings.

It's competitive in that big operators as well as little fellows can jump in. This year two peccol companies — Eberhard Faber and Venus — toss impressive lines of toys into the market. In the past, auto manufacturers, food processors and producers of basic materials have brought along toys.

The toy boom nourishes itself in this way: the fact that sales keep rising lures more and more designers, engineers and inventors into the field, and toys become increasingly interesting.

SCIENCE VS. WESTERNS

Judging from buyers' interest, science and the horse operas are leading in children's wants. Rocket launching sites are deduplicated in many showrooms; corridors vibrate as rockets blast off.

Almost every Western TV celebrity has a line of toys paying him royalties. Pistols are noisier; one manufacturer (Hubley, Lancaster, Pa.) has added a ricochet twang to its cap-firing revolver.

Toy designers appear to have decided that the quickest way to a parent's pocketbook is a promise to educate the children. There are endless numbers of educational games, devices, gadgets and instruments. There are dominoes with colors to match instead of numbers (by Miss Barbara Co., Somersworth, N. H.); toys and games to teach counting, music and reading, and kits with which youngsters may construct models of ships, modern power plants, models of atomic submarines, models of missiles, models of radar stations to track them, and on and on.

One of the most unusual kits provides materials for a foot-high model of the Crucifixion, with the Corpus in an ivory finish. (Precision Plastics, 4647 Sten-

Sarli Is New 'Queen'

By VERONICA GIRALDEZ

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—"Sa. Sa. Sarli. Sa. Sa. Sarli."

The chant erupted as Argentina's sexiest film queen, Isabel Sarli, slid out of a car at the premiere of the second motion picture, "Sabaleros." Young film fans broke through a police cordon and in an avalanche mobbed the buxom star, ripping her blue low-cut gown.

As the chant grew louder, the mob pressed tighter. The surging fans shattered glass posters, police whistles blared and Isabel fainted. Husky bodyguards had to lift her on their shoulders and slug their way through to safety behind the glass walls of the ticket booth.

Buenos Aires movie-goers could not remember a more surprising and delirious reception for an Argentine movie actress.

Local propaganda boasts that Isabel was more audacious than France's Brigitte, Italy's Gina and Sofia Loren or Marilyn Monroe or Jayne Mansfield had done the trick. The premiere was a sellout. Buenos Aires moviegoers could not remember a more surprising and delirious reception for an Argentine movie actress.

Argentina's movie critics roundly rapped "Sabaleros," a tale of fishing folk. But the frenzied multitude of fans loved every minute of it, particularly when Isabel shed her scanty fishing costume and plunged into a lazy lagoon.

The crowd rushed Isabel again as she left the premiere. Crushed and bruised, but always smiling, she finally escaped to safety in a convertible.

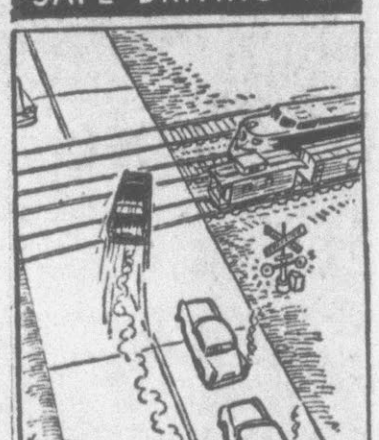

The film and the premiere have nailed down Isabel's fame as Argentina's most talked-about actress. Only a few months ago, she emerged from virtual obscurity with her first nude swim in her film debut, a Paraguayan tale called "Thunder among the Leaves."

The film critics said Isabel's acting was better in her second movie — but only because she spoke fewer lines than in the first outing.

But the critics did concede her one orchid — "We don't need to see any more Brigittes, we've got our own."

Isabel, soft-spoken off the screen, takes it all in stride. Nursing the bruises on her arms and legs suffered at the premiere, she murmured: "I was a bit frightened there for a moment. But when I caught my breath, I thought it was all wonderful."

SAFE DRIVING TIP

Grade crossings are a particularly dangerous kind of highway intersection.

Many grade crossing accidents are the result of carelessness, inattention, and excessive speed. In the illustration the motorist has started across a multiple track crossing only seconds after a train has passed. He has forgotten about the other track completely, and a collision is unavoidable.

The Chicago Motor Club advises that in the interest of saving their own lives, drivers should: Watch for and obey all grade crossing signs and other warnings; approach crossings at reduced speeds; look both ways before crossing; and, under adverse driving conditions, stop completely to make sure the crossing is clear.

Martinez Cites Depth As Factor

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Writer

Coach Ray Martinez cited the need of depth as EOC finished up preparations yesterday for its trip to the NAAIA Swim Meet at Ball State Teachers College in Muncie, Indiana.

The EOC coach is carrying only eleven swimmers and two divers. "We will definitely be at a disadvantage because of our lack of depth," stated Martinez.

Martinez singled out North Central of Ohio as the "team to beat." Several articles proclaiming the Ohio club as one of the top teams in the nation and NAAIA favorites were available and Martinez said they were as good as the build-ups pointed out.

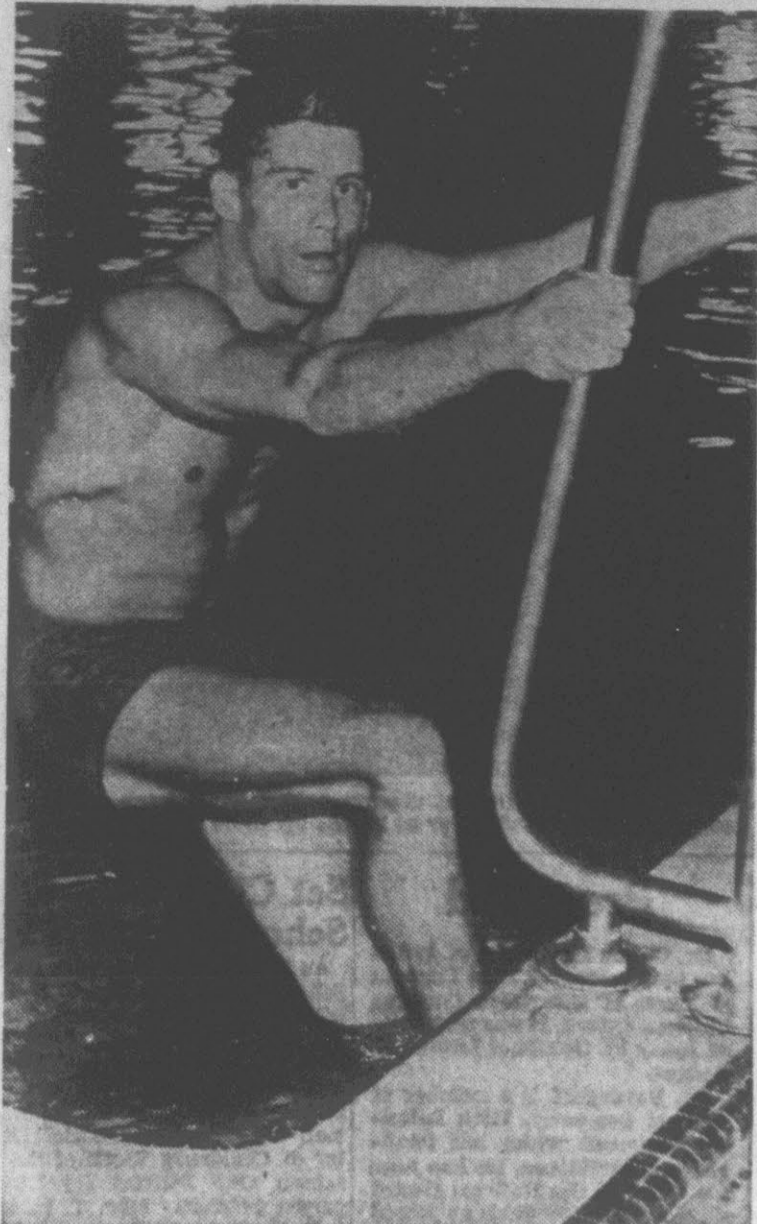

"I think we could give North Central a good dual meet but depth will hurt us in the championship meet. Where we have only one of two boys that we can enter in an event, they have three or four," states Martinez.

Does Martinez think his club is as strong as the one which won the NAAIA championship in 1957? "I think our club is just as strong and probably stronger but the competition is so much greater than it was our first year. They (NAAIA officials) have done a tremendous job of promoting the meet and there are many teams that will be strong this year," says Martinez.

A couple of new events have been added to the NAAIA meet. The Three Meter Diving and 200 Yard Individual Medley have been added to give the NAAIA almost every event that the NCAA has. Martinez feels that the new events are good and should aid his team instead of hindering it. The EOC mentor also stated that he felt that his squad would do good in the relay events.

Martinez gave high praise to his club and pointed out Tommy Carroll, Tommy Tucker, Jake Smith, and Jimmy Meads as a couple of the "unsung heroes" on the team. "All four boys have performed well for us and have meant the difference in many of the meets," Bob Sawyer, Ken Midyette, and Jack McCann have gained most of the glory this season. Sawyer and Midyette, a couple of seniors, will close out a brilliant career. Both have copped national championship in the past and will be seeking their second title. McCann, a junior, has become an outstanding star in the breaststroke, having set many pool records this winter. EOC will carry a 4-5 record into the meet. They placed first in 1957 and were fourth last season.

Free-Styler . . . Jimmy Meads, 50 and 100 yard dash star, will be one of Coach Ray Martinez's top threats in the coming NAAIA Meet.

Runner-Up . . . Tommy Tucker has finished second in the breaststroke in almost all of ECC's meets. Tucker has been a constant point-getter in the event which features Jack McCann.

S. Conference Club Remains In Contention

By KEN ALTA
CHARLOTTE (AP)—West Virginia, breathing hard after an all-out comeback victory over St. Joseph's, and surprising Boston University, overtime conqueror of highly regarded Navy, meet tonight for the NCAA Eastern regional basketball championship.

The winner of their 9 p.m. game joins three other regional champions in the national semifinals next Friday night at Louisville.

West Virginia, trailing by 18 points with 13 minutes left, got a tremendous lift from the dynamic stretch performance of All-American Jerry West to bring down the St. Joseph's Hawks from Philadelphia 95-92. West crammed 21 of his 36 points into the last nine minutes. He also snared 15 rebounds.

B.U. relegated Navy to a spot opposite St. Joseph's in tonight's 7 o'clock battle for third place by beating Navy at its own game 62-55.

The West Virginia-St. Joseph's game, played at a terrific pace, will stand as one of the most memorable battles in NCAA annals.

St. Joseph's, hitting 21 of 40 first half shots, led at the intermission 48-42. At one time in the first half the Hawks winged their way to 16 successive points in four minutes for a 39-22 lead. Most of their points came on relatively easy shots from close in as they worked the ball well and fired with deadly accuracy.

Soph reserve Lee Petrone ignited the Mountaineer spark in the second half and then West took over. He threw in the basket that put his team ahead 91-90 with 26 seconds left and the Southern Conference champions never let go of the lead.

Four of St. Joseph's starters fouled out as the Hawks lost their first game in 13 starts. Joe Gallo was their top scorer with 22 points. Joe Spratt had 17 and did a job of containing West before he fouled out with 7:35 left.

Boston University led all the way in the first half against Navy, 32-30 at the finish. The Terriers, starting two soph, two seniors and a junior, played it carefully all the way against a Navy club that had been rated too clever and versatile for the New Englanders.

Thanks to some scoring punch supplied by Jay Metzler and Gary Bagnard, Navy forged to a 50-46 lead with 6:30 to go. But B.U. didn't fold. A foul by 6-7 Ed Washington with 2:30 left made it 52-41 and neither team could score in the rest of regulation.

Two foul shots and a basket by Jack Leanan gave B.U. a four-point edge with 1:20 to go and Navy was through.

Washington's 19 rebounds and 14 points and 14 by Bob Cummings were the important ingredients in the Terrier success. Metzler was high man for Navy with 16.

Against common opponents this year West Virginia has had great success. The Mountaineers beat George Washington twice while B.U. lost to the Colonials by nine points. NYU beat Boston twice, once by 24 points, while the New Yorkers edged West Virginia 72-70 in their only meeting. Holy Cross was a 96-93 victim of West Virginia and lost to Boston 74-57.

Don Erickson, Philadelphia pitcher, won the Illinois State horsehoe pitching champion for three straight years, 1946-48.

Bahama Wants Crack At Title

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—With a decisive victory over Canadian champion Wilkie Greaves to his credit, Yama Bahama became real ambitious today.

The classy boxer from the Bahamas now wants shots at Dick Tiger, the British Empire middleweight champion from Nigeria, and former world middleweight ruler Carmen Basilio and Gene Fullmer.

He may get the crack at the Tiger, either in London or here.

"We're ready to go over whenever they say," said Yama's manager, Bobby Melnick. "I understand the London promoters want Greaves. After this big win, they'll have to deal with us. We're ready. And if Basilio and Fullmer are looking for action, Yama is ready to oblige."

Bahama looked like he belonged with the top ten middleweights in winning the unanimous ten-round decision at the Garden Friday night. The bout was broadcast and televised nationally.

Greaves was a perfect foil for the sharpshooters, fisherman-fighter from Bimini, kept wading in and Yama, 153, kept popping him with stinging lefthook. Those jabs kept Greaves off balance and set him up for Yama's flashing left-right combinations to the head and body.

Referee Art Mercantini had Bahama in front, 6-4 in rounds. The two judges made Yama's margin larger. Artie Aidelio made it 7-3 and Leo Birnbaum, 8-2. The AP card had Yama ahead, 7-3. Greaves was penalized the sixth round for low blows.

Yanks Topple Detroit In Slugfest; Mantle Homers

Coastal Club In AAA Finals

By HOWARD CRISWELL
GREENSBORO (AP)—Desire could be the key to the North Carolina Class AAA high school basketball tournament finals here tonight between defending champion Wilmington and Greensboro.

The big, rugged Wilmington team will be seeking its fourth straight tournament title. Greensboro never has won this tournament.

Who wants it most? "We would like it bad," said Greensboro Coach Bob Jamison after his team's 50-43 victory over Rocky Mount in Friday night's semifinals.

Wilmington beat us in the one game we played this year, 53-51 in a double overtime," said Jamison. "The question is, have we improved two points' worth since that game before Christmas?"

Wilmington stretched its season record to 19-1 with a well-played 52-43 win over Durham, in the first of the two semifinals games. It was the 11th straight tournament victory for the Eastern team.

Tonight's game could develop into a scoring duel between Wilmington's Terry Ronner and Larry Edens and Jamison's son, Bob, a powerfully built 6-5 center.

Young Jamison scored 19 points against Rocky Mount, his second high output for the season. He also played a fine game under the boards.

Edens, a 6-1 sharpshooting forward, connected on seven field goals for 14 points. Ronner, a defensive whiz, topped Wilmington with 16 points.

Both winning teams used only five men each.

Greensboro now is 18-4 for the season.

Tall Ted Mann carried a major portion of the Durham load. He excelled under the boards and led his team's scoring with 11 points.

Rocky Mount and Durham will play a consolation game at 7:30.

Ernie Banks, an MVP with an HR bat, could become the first National League player to win the award in consecutive seasons.

The Chicago Cubs shortstop was the '58 most valuable player on the strength of 47 home runs, 129 RBI and 379 total bases which brought him the NL slugging crown.

Mickey Mantle (1956-57) is one of two New York Yankees to win the AL MVP award two straight years. Catcher Yogi Berra did it in 1954-55. Other AL repeaters were slugger Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics (1932-33) and the great left-hander of the Detroit Tigers, Hal Newhouser (1944-45).

Never much of a spring hitter until last year, Ernie signaled what could be another big year when he belted a pair of three-run homers Friday as the Cubs outslugged the Giants 16-12 in an exhibition game at Mesa, Ariz.

Mantle and four other Yanks—Norm Siebern, Bobby Richardson, Bill Skowron and Elston Howard—homered as New York defeated Detroit 14-8 at Lakeland.

A three-run inside-the-park shot by Pirate Bill Virdon was wasted as Kansas City turned back Pittsburgh 8-3 at Fort Myers.

Baltimore beat Cincinnati 6-2 at Tampa with Gene Woodling homering for the Orioles and Ed Baller for the Reds.

Pitching was the key at Bradenton where Early Wynn and two Chicago rookies, Rudolph Arias and Claude Raymond, combined to two-hit the Milwaukee Braves 7-1 for the White Sox.

Don Blasingame delivered a two-run double with two out in the eighth inning to bring in the decisive runs in a 5-3 St. Louis victory over Philadelphia at St. Petersburg.

NC Golfers Rate Edge

CAMDEN, S.C. (AP)—A pair of veteran North Carolina linksmen seemed established as favorites as the 8th annual Carolina Golf Assn. lowball tournament got under way here today.

Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N.C., and Art Ruffin of Wilson, N.C., won medal honors in Friday's qualifying round with a 5-under-par 65.

Two strokes behind were Ben Goodes and Pat Brady, both of Reidsville, N.C.

Before regular play began, the nine teams that tied with 72s for the championship flight's last position competed in sudden-death playoffs.

Defending champions Granger Korngay and Austin Brown of Camden were not required to qualify.

The tournament winds up Sunday after two days of elimination rounds.

Ernie Banks, an MVP with an HR bat, could become the first National League player to win the award in consecutive seasons.

The Chicago Cubs shortstop was the '58 most valuable player on the strength of 47 home runs, 129 RBI and 379 total bases which brought him the NL slugging crown.

Mickey Mantle (1956-57) is one of two New York Yankees to win the AL MVP award two straight years. Catcher Yogi Berra did it in 1954-55. Other AL repeaters were slugger Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics (1932-33) and the great left-hander of the Detroit Tigers, Hal Newhouser (1944-45).

Never much of a spring hitter until last year, Ernie signaled what could be another big year when he belted a pair of three-run homers Friday as the Cubs outslugged the Giants 16-12 in an exhibition game at Mesa, Ariz.

Mantle and four other Yanks—Norm Siebern, Bobby Richardson, Bill Skowron and Elston Howard—homered as New York defeated Detroit 14-8 at Lakeland.

A three-run inside-the-park shot by Pirate Bill Virdon was wasted as Kansas City turned back Pittsburgh 8-3 at Fort Myers.

Baltimore beat Cincinnati 6-2 at Tampa with Gene Woodling homering for the Orioles and Ed Baller for the Reds.

Pitching was the key at Bradenton where Early Wynn and two Chicago rookies, Rudolph Arias and Claude Raymond, combined to two-hit the Milwaukee Braves 7-1 for the White Sox.

Don Blasingame delivered a two-run double with two out in the eighth inning to bring in the decisive runs in a 5-3 St. Louis victory over Philadelphia at St. Petersburg.

Harney Sets Aim At Masters Match

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—The half-year leader in the $15,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament, Paul Harney, has a double incentive for a good showing here.

One is the money. The other is the chance of playing in his first Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga.

The lean distance-hitter from Worcester, Mass., blazed a 7-under par 65 Friday over the 6,500-yard course for a 36-hole total of 134.

Two strokes behind was Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., with 69-67-136.

Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., and Arnold Palmer of Li-gonier, Pa., had 137s. Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., had a 138.

Seven amateurs and 64 pros qualified for the final two round. The cutoff point was 68. Among those still in is defending champion Doug Ford with 78-68-146.

Victims of the cutoff included George Bayer and Tommy Jacobs at 149; Gardner Dickinson, John McMullin, Bob Watson, Ed Oliver and Dick Mayer at 150; Gene Little 151; Al Besselink, Julius Boros, Al Ferree and Dick Knight 152.

Harney, one of the top players in golf for two years, still is aiming for his first Masters. The Masters, on the basis of a point system during the winter tour of PGA tournaments, invites two players who are not otherwise eligible for or invited to the Augusta event.

Going into the Pensacola Open, McMullin was leading in this point system with 105 and Harney was second with 82½.

NC Golfers Rate Edge

CAMDEN, S.C. (AP)—A pair of veteran North Carolina linksmen seemed established as favorites as the 8th annual Carolina Golf Assn. lowball tournament got under way here today.

Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N.C., and Art Ruffin of Wilson, N.C., won medal honors in Friday's qualifying round with a 5-under-par 65.

Two strokes behind were Ben Goodes and Pat Brady, both of Reidsville, N.C.

Before regular play began, the nine teams that tied with 72s for the championship flight's last position competed in sudden-death playoffs.

Defending champions Granger Korngay and Austin Brown of Camden were not required to qualify.

The tournament winds up Sunday after two days of elimination rounds.

Pairings and qualifying scores: Korngay-Brown vs. Jack Crist-Heath Alexander from Charlotte (70); Harold Hall-Bobby Howard of Columbia (69) vs. Gene Ochsenreiter - Bill Winkenwerder of Asheville, N.C. (70); Goodes-Brady vs. Thad Vincent-Belton McCarty of Camden (70).

Terps Favored As Indoor Meet Gets Underway

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Maryland, minus only one star from its 1958 championship team, is favored to win this year's Atlantic Coast Conference indoor games beginning this morning with the qualification round.

Only distance ace Burr Grimm, who graduated, is missing from the Maryland outfit which ran away with last year's meet and which has won four of five previous indoor track shows.

The qualifying events continue this afternoon with the finals on tap tonight at 7:30.

The program also includes competition in freshman and non-conference divisions. The Citadel, Virginia Military, Richmond and Davidson battle for non-loop honors.

Seven distance aces were scheduled to line up for the Well Mile. Pacing the field are Maryland aces Frank Colavito and John Claggett, North Carolina's Wayne Bishop and Cowles Liptert, Duke's Cary Weisger and Jerry Nourse and South Carolina's Billy Latham.

One of the ACC's best known track aces, Dave Scurlock, will compete in tonight's 600 and 880 yard runs.

Far Heel Coach Dale Ranson said the field should threaten as many as eight indoor game records.

NAIA Champ To Be Determined At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—It will be defending champion Tennessee A & I versus Pacific Lutheran tonight in the finals of the National Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament.

The battle for the 21st championship is bound to be a thriller if it fits the pattern of Friday night's struggle in which Tennessee A & I emerged the victor, 61-62, over Southwest Texas State.

Tennessee pulled that one out in the final 14 seconds, and will face Pacific Lutheran tonight after a consolation game for third place between Southwest Texas and Fort Hays (Kan.) State, Lutheran's semifinal victim 80-71.

The Tigers from Nashville were two minutes away from defeat when their comeback against the Texas Bobcats began to tell. The screaming, standing crowd of 7,500 sensed an upset.

The clock read 2:02 to go when John Barnhill hit an outside lay-up for a 62-61 lead, the Tennessee's first of the game. Rudy Davalos of Southwest drew a foul and tied the count at 62-61.

With 1:26 left, A. & I. started passing the ball around for one telling shot. Dick Barnett got it on a rebound.

Lutheran and Fort Hays traded leads three times and tied the game up in five more instances before the Tacoma, Wash., club went out in front to stay shortly before intermission.

Chuck Curtis, Jim Van Beek and Roger Iverson, all playing their fourth tournament here, were too much for the hot and cold Kansas. Curtis was high scorer with 31 points.

Record Holder Cites Maximum

LOS ANGELES (AP)—World record holder Parry O'Brien says 67 feet is the maximum possible distance in the shot put.

The two-time Olympic champion and world record holder at 63 feet 2 inches explains it this way: "Within the confines of a 7-foot circle nobody, no matter how big, can put the shot more than 67 feet. The circle limits the operating area, and no matter how huge a man may be or how strong, as he gets bigger his operating space becomes smaller."

He says he's aiming at 67.

Aggies Capture NCAA 3rd Place

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—This Southern Indiana basketball hotbed still was hopping today.

The Evansville College Aces are the newly crowned NCAA college basketball champions and a hometown product of the team is the tourney's outstanding player.

The Aces thrilled 8,651 fans Friday night by trimming Southwest Missouri of Springfield 83-67 for the title. The winners' ball-hawking guard, senior Al Ahlberg, was acclaimed the meet's most valuable player.

The North Carolina Aggies took third place, whipping Los Angeles 101-84 with Joe Cotton topping six double-figure shooters with 17 points. Bill Heynen, with 22 points led Los Angeles.

Evansville sped to a 44-38 half-time margin and Southwest's Bears never could whittle it down. Ed Smallwood of Evansville headed the scoring with 24 points.

Southwest's Jack Israel was the Bears' big gun with 23 points.

Beauty Entry Is Guest Of Club

Last night's meeting of the Greenville Exchange Club featured the first appearance before the club of Miss Hannah England, who is being sponsored by Exchange in the coming "Miss Greenville Contest".

Miss England is a senior at East Carolina College. She was introduced by Exchangeite Herb Lee and welcomed by President John Hassell.

After the welcoming of Miss England, Exchangeite Jake Hadley introduced Charles Rosen, member of the Greenville Utilities Commission, who spoke to the club on a recent survey he had made on how Greenville's electric power rates compare with other cities in Eastern North Carolina. By the use of charts and graphs of rates in other towns, Rosen showed that the rates for Greenville, though not the very lowest, are certainly in the lower scale of rates.

President Hassell read the members a letter from J. H. Rose, recipient of the club's Book of Golden Deeds, thanking the club for the honor bestowed on him and giving credit for the accomplishments which had resulted in that award—to the people of Greenville—not himself.

Guests last night were Lee Rowland, Randt Tripp, Loring Franklyn, John Conway and Bruce Koontz.

Walter Harper Speaks To Local Kiwanis Club

By CHESTER WALSH

North Carolina has set another record in industrial development during recent months in spite of the national recession last year," declared Walter W. Harper, industrial development administrator for the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, at the Kiwanis Club's supper meeting last night.

"For this state to successfully 'buck this trend' of a declining national economy and a drastic curtailment in proposed new industrial projects, some very powerful counter-forces had to be at work," he pointed out.

Continuing, the administrator said: "One of the most important trends is the increasing effectiveness of local programs. A few short years ago, there were only a very few chambers of commerce and local programs in this state which were making a maximum effort toward industrial development. There were only a hand full of people who were devoting all or a major portion of their time to industrial development. Today, we have some of the best 'know-how' among our local programs to be found anywhere. I would pit our local developers against any group to be found in the nation!

"Now, what are some of the new programs and techniques which have been developed and utilized through these improved attitudes? Some examples follow: New York, Chicago and Philadelphia trips; research triangle; the Business Development Corporation of North Carolina; marketing surveys; expansion of small industries program; expansion of territory; scientific projects and tax revisions," the speaker declared, introducing the speaker.

D. A. Blue won the attendance prize. Secretary Tommy Snowden Jr. gave a report of the recent officers and directors meeting, with Director Kenneth Elts as host at the Elks Club.

Guests of the club were Pat Corey, grandson of Kiwanian J. Hicks Corey, J. B. Jackson and Joseph Tucker.

Chairman Charles M. King announced that the Kiwanis Choo-Choo Train will begin operations at Kiwanis Park Easter Sunday—March 29.

The Kiwanis Club welcomed Miss Janet Arnold, attractive brunette of Raleigh, as its candidate for the title of 1959 "Miss Greenville." Bill Corbit, who presented her, said her specialty is dancing. President John A. Collins Jr. presided.

Miss Arnold has appeared in Ell Bloom's annual Kiwanis Minstrel Show and has participated in other entertainments in Greenville. She will appear in the near future on a Kiwanis Club program in a demonstration of her talents, Corbit announced.

Legislative Mill Grinding Faster

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH—The legislative hopper is very little fuller but the mill grinds faster this session than last. Both House and Senate have re-sounded with the shout of "Ayes."

Moving along in a fairly expeditious manner and with only occasional floor debate, legislators through last Friday—the 33rd legislative day of the 1959 session—had ratified 76 acts and resolutions. To comparable date in 1957, the number was 40 acts and 8 resolutions.

But the hopper is being fed at approximately the same rate of speed. Again through Friday, a total of 433 bills and resolutions had been introduced—145 in the Senate and 288 in the House.

For the same period in 1957, the total was 430. Of these, 129 came to the Senate and 301 to the House.

Of the total 433 bills and resolutions entered this year, 171 have been of a purely local nature, applying only to counties and municipalities. On the surface this seems to represent a little over one-third of the total but because of the duplication of general bills introduced in the House and Senate the percentage of local bills is actually somewhat higher.

Cars Collide At Intersection Here Friday

A failure to yield right-of-way charge resulted from a collision at Albemarle Ave. and Bonners Lane yesterday morning.

Drivers of vehicles involved in the wreck were identified by police as Charles Max Elks of 901 B W. Fourth St. and Linda Forbes Stokes of 905 W Third St.

The failure to yield right-of-way charge was brought against Stokes. Damage to his car was set at $50 while damage to the Elks car was estimated at $100.

A pedestrian received minor injuries in a collision with an auto at Third and Evans Sts. yesterday morning.

The pedestrian was identified as Thomas I. Moore of 205 Paris Ave., who received a bruise on the leg.

William Rankin Fox of 300 Cornwallis Rd., Durham was identified by officers as driver of the vehicle involved.

No charges were placed.

Pitt ABC Men Raid Large Still

BETHEL—A 100 gallon submarine type still fell victim of Pitt County ABC Officers late yesterday near Bethel.

The still was located on a swamp-surrounded knoll in the Eay woods two miles west of Bethel on U. S. 64.

Six hundred gallons of mash and "three gallons of freshly run-off spirits" were also destroyed in the raid, according to Pitt County ABC Chief, J. M. Ward.

The still was in operation at the time it was found but no arrests were made. It is thought the operators heard of officers coming through the marsh and fled.

Officers participating in the raid were Ward, H. B. Lilley, Walter Taylor and James Ross, all of the Pitt County ABC office.

Women Do Well In Business World

ARTISTIC DESIGN . . . In dried arrangements one must have a knowledge of color harmony, shapes and proportion.

GLADIOLI TIME . . . Mrs. Leona Tyson makes many arrangements during this time of year featuring gladioli.

By PEGGY SMITH
Reflector Woman's Editor

"A woman's place is in the home." That is an old statement frequently used when the conversation turns to the career woman.

Although it is true that one automatically thinks of a woman running a home, there are many women who play the role of executives in a business.

Greenville has quite a number of female business leaders. Their establishments range from furniture stores to a plumbing concern.

Among the local women who have excelled in heading private enterprises are Mrs. Ruby Brown, Miss Evelyn Latham, Miss Eloise Ellington, Mrs. Leona Tyson, and Mrs. Lela B. Howell.

The reasons for these women entering the business world are as varied as their fields.

Mrs. Brown, a furniture dealer, made her hobby into a well-known furniture and interior decorating firm. Besides enjoying the art of furnishing a home, she feels that "it is self-satisfying to be able to give to the public the latest in design and styling."

"One of the pleasures in my work is to help a client select furniture, which is like painting a picture in three dimension."

Convincing the public that a woman knows her product is one of the biggest obstacles to overcome by a woman proprietor, Mrs. Brown said.

Cosmetic-Jewelry Shop
After trying secretarial work, Miss Latham decided to enter a career which would involve being in contact more with the public.

Therefore, she opened a cosmetic-jewelry shop. According to Miss Latham, the shop's purpose is to help beautify women. Of course, in business, the main purpose is to make a profit; but, "not only do we sell cosmetics, we also advise the correct application of make-up and shadowing," she said.

"Since I like my work, there aren't many problems which come up. One which seems more outstanding is presenting merchandise in beneficial to the customer the correct way, so that they will buy."

The right, personnel, location, merchandise, and prices are the best assurance for good business advised Miss Ellington, owner of a local book store.

In running one of the oldest firms in Greenville she considers annual tax reports her biggest problem.

She worked as a bookkeeper for the late W. A. Bowen prior to entering the firm with her father who died in 1941.

Knows Her Flowers
Every woman has some type of knowledge of beauty, especially in flowers. Mrs. Tyson, a florist, commented that in order for a florist to have good business she must know more about flowers, than just loving them. "One must use his head in this type of work," she added. Flowers should be judged by the type of person who plans to wear them.

Mrs. Tyson admits, "It is hard work, but I wouldn't give it up for all the tea in China."

Hospital bouquets or flowers are her favorites. "I try to put a little extra to each arrangement I know will be given to a sick person, hoping that in some way it will give a little lift to that person."

Besides doing her own floral work and delivering, she does landscaping throughout the area.

Mrs. Hoell, a resident of Grimsland, began working as a secretary in 1934 for the plumbing and heating firm of which she is presently part-owner.

Following the firm owner's death, Mrs. Hoell and the foreman entered the business as partners.

She supervises the inside work, such as buying and selling plumbing supplies.

Although Mrs. Hoell has been in this type of work a long time, she still says that "it is hard to convince a male customer that I have a knowledge of pipe and pipe fittings."

"In this business the old saying 'the customer is always right' sometimes proves wrong if the customer's measurements aren't correct. Because there is but one way a pipe will fit," she concluded.

He said he couldn't "read any racial issue or anything like that into" the trouble. Mathews said that after Principal James Nichols of the Harper High School reported the activities he investigated and found that the seniors "got the idea they didn't have to participate in class exercises at all, take orders from anyone and that they would disrupt functions of the school in every way they could.

"That left but one course of action—that was to suspend the entire class," Nichols said.

Nichols said members of the "big bopper" club sat in classrooms with arms folded and refused to answer questions. They also refused to eat in the school cafeteria, he said.

The principal, a Negro, quoted letters taken from club members as follows: "I hereby solemnly swear by my ability and power to erump (sic) the entire student body of the school. I intend to overthrow the function of the school—as my power is unlimited. And I defy anyone who interferes with my plans."

The letters were signed "Big Bopper."

Nasser Proves Consistent In Assailing Communism

By TOM MASTERSON
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The United Arab Republic's President Nasser has set off one of the most slashing attacks on Communism ever witnessed in the Middle East.

It was launched only a few weeks after Nasser appeared to do. Some might look upon him as a turncoat.

In truth, Nasser has been entirely consistent. He never was a Communist. He never tolerated Reds in Egypt. Once he became head of the United Arab Republic, he cleaned them out of Syria too. Privately, Nasser has often voiced distaste for Communism as a way of life.

But the Arab leader hated more what he calls the "imperialism" of the West—the policies of Britain, the United States and France toward the Middle East. He accused them of interfering in the internal affairs of Arab countries and exploiting the Arabs for their own gain. Until now at least, he considered the policies of the Western Powers more dangerous to him than the threat of Communism.

From the Soviet Union, moreover, Nasser got promises of non-interference in Arab affairs. Just as important, the Soviet Union sided with the Arabs against Israel, unlike the Western Powers. Nasser still would like to remain

Anastasia Case Reaches U.S.

CASSVILLE, N.J. (AP) — The mystery of Anastasia, youngest daughter of the last Czar, has reached into this little community in the South Jersey pine barrens.

A German lawyer for a woman claiming to be Anastasia came here Friday to take testimony for a German court from the son of the personal physician to the late Czar Nicholas II of Russia.

The physician's son is Gleb Botkin, 56, a free lance writer and sometime art editor who now lives in a one room cottage in a Russian colony here.

The lawyer is Dr. Kurt Vermeiren of Hamburg who represents Mrs. Anna Anderson of Bad Liebenzell, West Germany. She claims she is Princess Anastasia and seeks a fortune in money and properties left to the daughters of the Czar.

Vermeiren and Joseph Hoffman, West German consul in New York, drove the 90 miles to Botkin's home, accompanied by a chauffeur and a West German court stenographer. The testimony they took was not revealed.

The court of the West German state of Hesse contends Communists killed Anastasia along with other members of the Czar's family in 1918. It believes Mrs. Anderson is a former Polish farm laborer.

Botkin last saw the Princess in Russia in 1918. She was smuggled into Japan in 1919 and came to the United States in 1921.

In the 1920s, he confronted the Anderson woman in Germany and said at the time there was no question in his mind that she was the Anastasia. He later wrote a book called "The Woman Who Rose Again."

Following the services last Sunday morning the congregation voted to begin its drive for funds to erect buildings on the church lot.

Next Sunday, March 22, on the church lot at 1:00 p.m., a covered dish picnic will be held. At that time the full program will be presented and questions answered.

Tuesday evening, March 24, is kick-off night for the actual raising of money.

The church school will begin at 9:45 a.m. and will be followed by morning worship at 11:00 a.m. The youth groups will meet at the parsonage at 5:00 p.m.

Patricia Finch, one of the leading players in the Broadway hit, "Tall Story," was graduated as a teacher from Michigan State University. Instead of teaching, she took a role singing in the musical "South Pacific."

IT LOOKED THAT WAY MILWAUKEE (AP) — A police captain testified in a drunken driving trial here that the defendant's eyes were bloodshot when he was questioned after he had been stopped for erratic driving. It later came out that the defendant couldn't have two bloodshot eyes. One of them was glass.

Among three short stories in "The Rebel" two are "first" for their student authors. Rachel Steinbock, a winter quarter graduate from Greenville, contributed "The Journal," and Mary Margaret Kelly, senior from Salisbury, "Black Man's Requiem" by Robert L. Harper of Rt. 2, Tarboro, junior at the college, is his first published short story.

A group of poems signed EPS are by Evelyn Patricia Smith of Washington, N. C. Other poems are by John Hudgins of Charlotte, and Dorothy Flynn of Richmond, Va. Two full-page sketches by Mary Ellen Marshbourne of Wendell, student artist; the "rebel yell," editorial comments by Harrison; and ten book reviews complete the current issue.

The book review staff for the winter issue, headed by W. Hugh Agee of Rt. 5, Petersburg, Va., includes Harrison, Norman Kilpatrick of Greenville, Charles A. Jenkins of Raleigh, Sandra Porter Mills of Greenville, Samuel A. Davis of Martinsville, Va., and Nancy Lilly of Miami, Fla.

Headhunting Is 'Too Expensive' Hawaiians To Barely Feel The Difference

By GENE KRAMER
BAWANG ASSAM, Sarawak (AP) — Yes, it's just as well headhunting was abolished. It cost too much to hold a feast every time a head was brought in," said the tattooed old chief.

He was wrinkled, 73-year-old Penghulu Nanta Anak Iar, chief of this district of Sea Dyaks, or Ibans, better known at the turn of the century as the head hunters of Borneo. They are now a peaceful farming people, except for a brief fling of headhunting against Japanese soldiers at the end of World War II.

"Most of us are christians now, Methodists," the chief said.

"I'll give you four reasons we used to take heads—first, to show bravery in war; second, because whenever anybody took a head there was a special feast and much merriment; third, to get the best seat at feasts, which went to the men with the most heads; fourth, to impress the girls."

The chief said two dozen smoke-browned human skulls dangling in baskets from the rafters of his longhouse had been taken by his ancestors more than a century ago and were kept to show visitors.

When the chief was asked about his own exploits, an interpreter replied, "He is ashamed to talk about his own heads, they were so few."

Engkammat, leader of 36 families, spoke up: "My father was considered one of the bravest men. He took about 15 heads in many fights. I haven't taken even one because it is against the law now."

The Ibans work in rubber plantations and rice paddies.

Alaska's new senators and congressmen will be able to write their letters to voters.

He'll pay the same federal taxes he's paying now.

His first-class postage stamp will still cost four cents.

He'll still have to go when his number comes up in the draft.

But if he doesn't like it—he'll have a vote.

He will be able to write his senators and congressmen and tell them how to vote.

And then in 1960—to cap things off—he'll walk into the voting booth and cast his first vote for president and vice president of his country.

Hawaii, as a territory, and Alaska too, had to obey all the federal laws applicable to the rest of the country.

Alaska's new senators and congressmen have three votes in the Congress on taxes—how they're levied, and how they're spent. Hawaii, still a territory, with one voteless delegate in Congress, can ask for lower taxes—but can't do a thing about it when it comes to a vote. That will be changed with statehood.

It might cost the Hawaii man on the street a little more in state tax than he had to dig up for the territory.

The federal government now pays the Hawaii governor—a federal appointee—his salary and expenses. It pays the territorial legislators, on the theory that anything they do can be vetoed, irrevocably, by the federally appointed governor, or by Congress.

It pays the territorial judges, also presidentially appointed.

When Hawaiians get to elect their own governor for the first time under statehood, they'll have to pay his salary. They'll also have to pay their state legislators and their judges.

They figure it might cost an average of 75 to 80 cents a person each year.

They think it's worth it.

There'll be one other change. Hawaiians will get to vote at age 20. They have to be 21 now to vote even in their limited way for delegate to Congress and for territorial Legislature. They wrote the change into their proposed state constitution in 1950. Congress, in the statehood bill, said it was OK.

Alaskans now vote at 19.

Hawaiians To Barely Feel The Difference

Bandit Ends Up 50 Cents Short

BALTIMORE (AP) — A young gunman came out 50 cents short in a grocery store robbery.

David Silberman, 79, the grocer, said the teen-age bandit spent about 30 minutes waiting for customers to leave. While biding his time, he bought two soft drinks, a pretzel and a pack of cigarettes.

When the place was clear, he pulled a gun. Mrs. Silberman screamed. The bewildered youth fled without taking anything.

All Witnesses To Game Fined

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — One by one, five of the six men accused of shooting dice proclaimed their innocence Thursday before City Court Judge Beverly Boushe. When it came George Drake's turn he hesitated and mumbled: "Well, I guess I'm the only one who was shooting."

Said the judge: "Drake, you can go. I'm fining everybody else $11 for witnessing the first one-man dice game in history."

Decline To Hike Marriage Costs

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan House Thursday killed a bill to raise the cost of a marriage license from $2 to $3.

"It's a silly scheme to soak the single," a Republican bachelor said.

"I'm against inflation in marriage," chimed in a Democrat.
