Khrushchev Again Suggests Meeting For 28 Nations

By HAROLD K. MILKS MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev challenged the West today to come up with concrete ideas for a summit conference to blunt the threat of war over Berlin and Germany. The Soviet Union is ready, he asserted. Khrushchev said the Soviet Union is willing to meet with the West on May 11 to discuss problems of West Berlin and a German peace treaty. In Washington, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said there would be no comment on the Khrushchev statements. He did say however that President Eisenhower was aware of the Russian prime minister's remarks. He again advanced the Soviet idea that a conference include all the 28 nations that fought Hitler in World War II. This proposal has been rejected by the Western powers. Khrushchev issued a statement, evidently designed as his response to President Eisenhower's address last Monday. He stuck to his previous contention that the broad meeting he proposed consider a German peace treaty but added significantly that if the West has "any reasonable proposals we are willing to consider them along with our own." He said the meeting should aim to conclude a peace treaty with Germany and "settle pressing problems." He called attention to President Eisenhower's proposal Monday night that a summit conference might be held this summer if a foreign ministers meeting could start negotiations on the Berlin crisis. "We appeal to the governments of all nations which took part in the war against Hitlerite Germany to sit down at the negotiation table and settle pressing problems, to conclude a peace treaty with Germany," Khrushchev told a special news conference in the Kremlin. Khrushchev's tone seemed mild. Khrushchev made a similar proposal January in a note to 27 other countries which fought Nazi Germany. The West rejected this, and in turn asked the Soviet Union to take part in a foreign ministers conference in Geneva or Vienna with both East and West Germans in attendance, to prevent the German issues from touching off a new war. Khrushchev this time seemed to have seized upon President Eisenhower's Monday remark as a starting point for a new attempt to make a summit conference a reality. "We would like the Western governments having cast aside the mad threats of their generals and admirals against our country, to sit down at the conference table with us," Khrushchev said. "If they have sensible proposals to make, we are ready to examine them, together with our own proposals." He then added that if the West was "seriously ready" for talks, the Soviet Union would not hold up matters. "We have put forward our proposals for a peace treaty with Germany and for normalizing the situation in Berlin," Khrushchev said. "It is now up to the Western powers. If they are prepared to start talks in real earnest, we would not be found wanting. We shall do everything within our power to make the talks a success."

The Soviet Union's only purpose, he asserted, is "to see to it that the dark clouds of a new war should forever disappear from the international horizon." For two hours Khrushchev answered questions from more than 300 correspondents. He praised as reasonable President Eisenhower's Monday remarks on negotiations, jibed at West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's position — "He's old enough to know better" — and bitterly condemned what he called appeals by U.S. Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke and Gen. Maxwell Taylor for atomic war against the Soviet Union. After the two-hour session, Khrushchev had announced only one new point — his government's willingness to sit down with the West on May 11 at the foreign ministers level. Khrushchev said the Soviet Union had agreed to the foreign ministers meeting "and now we are awaiting a reply from the West." "We understand they are proposing a meeting May 11, and I am telling you a government secret when I say we accept," he said.

York said the phenomenon created above the earth's atmosphere by the September tests consisted of a sheet of electrons which was "an artificial version of the natural effect" from the Van Allen belt. The electronic sheet created by the bombs, York said, extended around the whole world except for breaks over both the North and South poles — a pattern similar to the depth of the artificial sheet or say how long the phenomenon lasted. The Explorer IV satellite sent back some data on the tests. This information is to be released later. Sources outside the Pentagon who had been informed of the tests said it was significant that about the time they were made there was a sudden reduction in the Nike-Zeus program to develop an antimissile missile. However, there was no clear indication as to whether this pointed to possible future development of a program aimed at producing a high altitude shield against missiles. Charles said results of the tests are being studied by many scientists. He termed the experiment "an exploration of the unknown in an area that may have considerable importance." While Defense Department officials did not say so, presumably the studies of the man-made radiation belt are designed in part to help find practical means of protecting future space travelers against adverse effects of the natural Van Allen belt.

Macmillan Arrives In U. S. For Four Days Of Strategy Talks On German Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan arrived here today for four days of strategy talks with President Eisenhower on the German situation. The jet airliner bringing the British leader from Ottawa sat down at 11:57 a.m. EST. Vice President Nixon and Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter led a delegation of American officials who greeted Macmillan at the Military Air Terminal. An Army security detachment and a color guard ringed the airport. Macmillan was accompanied by a 29-member delegation which included Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. Their British Overseas Airways Comet airliner, the first to land in Washington, arrived ahead of schedule. The plane circled the airport for about 30 minutes so that Macmillan's appearance would be at the scheduled time. Eisenhower and Macmillan will begin their talks Friday. If the weather is good, they will fly by helicopter to Camp David, arriving at lunch time. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, in reporting this today, said Eisenhower and Macmillan will ride together. Camp David is Eisenhower's retreat in the Calocott Mountains of Maryland. It is about 65 miles from here. Four officials from each side will accompany the two leaders. In the U.S. group will be Herter, John H. Whitney, ambassador to London; Livingston Merchant, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, and Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor, White House staff secretary. Accompanying Macmillan will be Lloyd, Sir Harold Caccia, British ambassador to Washington; Sir Norman Brook, secretary of the Cabinet, and Sir Frederick Hoyer Millar, permanent undersecretary of the foreign office. It is expected that Macmillan will urge Eisenhower to join him in working out more flexible Western policies for forthcoming negotiations with Russia. The two will go into their weekend of conferences firmly agreed on the need to resist Soviet threats and pressures aimed at forcing the Western powers out of Berlin. But they are clearly divided on a number of issues involved in preparing for negotiations with the Soviets. Before heading to Washington from Ottawa, Macmillan expressed confidence "will serve to consolidate and confirm the united will of the Western world." Eisenhower called Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter and other diplomatic advisers to the White House for discussion of the Berlin situation in preparation for Macmillan's arrival. The actual talks between the two men will get under way Friday at Camp David, Md., a secluded mountain retreat about 65 miles from Washington. Although a joint statement early next week may report generally on their talks, detailed practical results of their work may not be disclosed officially until the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union meet this spring. Such a meeting is now being worked out. One of the differences the two men face is in their attitude toward a summit conference. Macmillan is represented as feeling one is necessary, regardless of any results of the foreign ministers meeting, on the theory that only Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev can speak for his country. Eisenhower, by contrast, made clear in his broadcast speech Monday night that he feels advance development should "justify a summit meeting at the summit." Macmillan reportedly believes also that some legal basis other than the World War II right of conquest might be found for keeping U.S., British and French forces in Berlin. He has not spelled out what kind of new deal he thinks might be made, but there is some speculation that what he has in mind is getting the Soviets to underwrite the access of Western transport across East German territory to Berlin in return for some kind of Western acceptance of the Communist position in East Germany. Any proposal along that line would appear to conflict with basic U.S. policy. The United States is willing to work out a Berlin settlement only within the framework of German reunification.

To Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is sending a second Redstone missile unit to Germany to buttress North Atlantic Pact ground forces in Europe. It will leave next month. In announcing this Wednesday the Army said the move was planned some time ago. The Redstone, currently the Army's longest range surface-to-surface ballistic missile, has a range of 200 miles and can carry a nuclear warhead. The unit tapped for the transfer is the 46th Artillery Group, now stationed at Ft. Sill, Okla. The 46th has 650 officers and men and two Redstone firing batteries — each equipped with one launcher. The first Redstone unit was sent to Europe last year and is attached to the 7th Army in Germany. On Capitol Hill, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy was quoted Wednesday as saying the United States has the military power to back up a firm stand at Berlin. McElroy appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in support of President Eisenhower's foreign aid program.

'Electronic Sheet' Over Most Of World In High Altitude A-Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three nuclear bombs exploded by the United States beyond the earth's atmosphere formed an electronic sheet that circled most of the world. A responsible official outside the Defense Department said the tests at tremendous altitude were an effort to spread a shield through which missiles could not fly. Defense Department officials confirmed Wednesday night that the blasts had been set off secretly last September, for both military and scientific test purposes. But they declined to discuss the military angles. Other sources reported, however that the tests explored the possibility of generating at an altitude of about 300 miles a diffusion of neutrons which would offset the nuclear reaction in missile warheads. Two More File For Council Race

Two additional candidates have filed in the race for the City Council, bringing to three the number now running for the four seats. Lester E. Turnage, now completing his first term on the city's governing body, paid his filing fee around noon today. Dr. M. W. Aldridge, local dentist and a newcomer to politics, filed with the city clerk's office yesterday afternoon. Turnage is 36 years old. He was born and raised near Farmville and he attended Farmville Schools, Atlantic Christian College, and N. C. State College. He entered the U. S. Army Air Force in 1943 and served in the U. S. and the South Pacific as an aerial engineer. He was discharged in 1946. Turnage came to Greenville that year and entered the insurance and real estate business with his uncle.

Daylight Saving Time Bill Killed

RALEIGH (AP) — A House Judiciary Committee today killed a bill which would place North Carolina on daylight saving time. The Judiciary 1 Committee, headed by Rep. Tom Turner of Guilford, voted six to four to return the measure to the House with an unfavorable report. Two-thirds of the House membership now is required to bring the bill off the unfavorable calendar. The state's outdoor drama and agricultural representatives spoke against the proposal at a hearing Tuesday. Both said daylight saving time would be detrimental to their interests. In other business the House deferred action on a bill which would enable the Industrial Commission to pass upon the claim of a woman whose son died in a state prison unit as a result of negligence. Several committee members suggested that the General Assembly establish a policy on such special legislation. The bill would enable Mrs. Effie M. Cook, administratrix of the estate of Dallas F. Cook, to be heard by the Industrial Commission in her quest for $10,000. Cook, convicted of public drunkenness, died in the Durham County Prison Camp Aug. 25, 1956, as a result of an epileptic seizure. The bill said he was given no aid by prison officials and was allowed to remain unattended by a physician for one night. When medical help was called, Cook was taken to Central Prison Hospital in Raleigh where he died.

Marines To Hold Landing Exercise

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP)—More than 2,000 Marines will storm ashore from ships and helicopters Friday in a one-day amphibious assault landing exercise. Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, will be among the observers. Amphibious Squadron 10 will land 2,000 members of the 8th Provisional Marine Brigade. The squadron is headed by the amphibious assault ship Boxer. Helicopters from Marine Helicopter Squadron 262 of New River, N. C., also will ferry Leathernecks ashore. The exercise will be conducted by the Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force and the Atlantic Fleet Marine Force.

Consumer Is Big Target In Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The consumer is the chief target this year in campaigns to increase state taxes. This is shown in a survey which reports that state governments are shooting for more than 1 1/2 billion dollars more in new or increased taxes on their citizens. The survey findings were announced at the conclusion of a three-day meeting of the National Taxpayers Conference.

Report Conflict On Secrecy Need

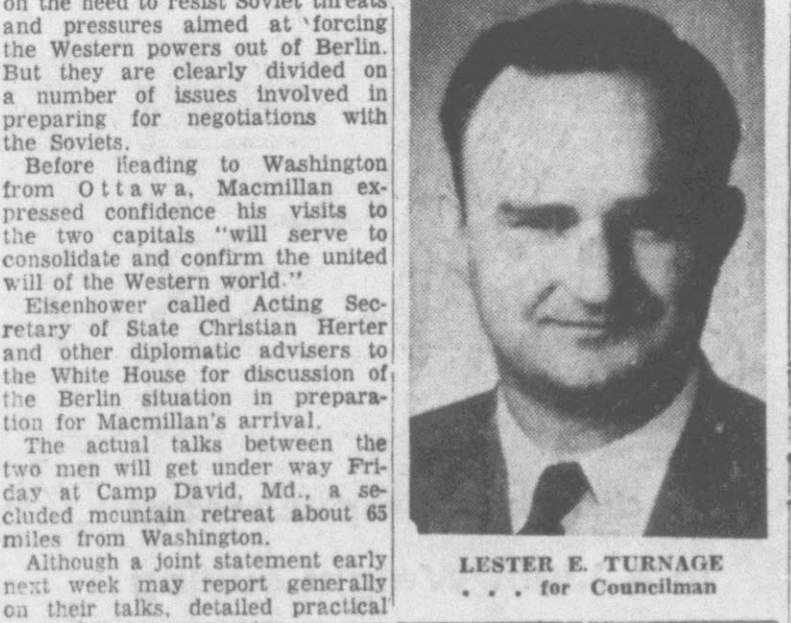

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times said today that the question of maintaining secrecy concerning the high-altitude nuclear blasts last September was hotly debated. The tendency was for the scientists to favor publication and for the military and political leaders to oppose it. "Recently, however, it was learned that some of those highly placed in the Pentagon favored limited publicity." The scientists argued, the Times said, that the feat was a magnificent experiment of which this country should be proud. They further contended that experiments of last September came under the rules of the International Geophysical Year, which called for sharing of data with world scientists. The argument against disclosure was largely political, the newspaper said. It added: "It was feared that the Russians would exploit the fact that the United States had secretly fired nuclear weapons in a region far from its shores and far from its known atomic proving grounds."

Edwards To Seek His Third Term

FARMVILLE — Mayor Charles S. Edwards today announced his candidacy for a third term as top elective official of the Town of Farmville. Edwards is the first candidate to file for election subject to the May 5 balloting. The mayor's office and five town commission seats will be at stake. In announcing his candidacy, Edwards declared, "The position of mayor has ceased to be . . . an honorary one. Much work and many hours are now involved, and it has become most important that the mayor be available at the Town Hall at all times. "It has been my pleasure as mayor to sponsor many, and to participate in all of the many aggressive endeavors activated on behalf of Farmville . . . There are still unfinished projects and much additional work to be done, if we are to maintain this accelerated rate of growth and progress." Edwards has been mayor since 1955 and went into his second term in 1957 with a nearly 2-1 majority over O. G. Spell, a former mayor. In addition to serving as mayor, Edwards is also secretary of the Farmville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association, and sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Co. of Trade. Other offices currently held by Edwards include membership on the Farmville Economic Council and Lieutenant Governor of the Seventh Division of Kiwanis International's Carolina District. None of the town's incumbent commissioners have announced for re-election and Glenn Newton, who led the ticket in 1957 voting, has said he will not seek office again. Incumbent commissioners, in addition to Newton, are B. B. Turnage, John D. Dixon, W. C. Wooten and Frank K. Allen.

Bank Gains 569 Places In List

State Bank and Trust Company of Greenville gained 569 places in its standing among the United States' 3,000 largest banks in 1958. It was reported today. The company reported deposits of $7,517,632 on December 31 to rank 3,255th in size, compared with a rank of 3,854 at the end of 1957. The ranking was disclosed by the American Banker, trade newspaper of the banking business. (Continued On Page 24)

Freight Train Hits Car; Ten Are Killed

XENIA Ohio (AP) — A freight train plowed into a car carrying 12 passengers in a tragic railroad crossing accident near here Wednesday, all 10 — including eight Girl Scouts — were killed. The car was dragged 50 feet along the tracks. The body of the driver, Mrs. Lucille White, 41, was found 75 feet beyond the car. The daughters of Mrs. White and the other adult in the car, Mrs. Jeannette Randall, 39, were among the eight Girl Scouts who perished. The girls were returning home from a library here where they had been studying for merit badges. They lived in Beaver-creek Twp., a rural, commuter-type suburb between Xenia and Dayton. The accident happened about 3 1/2 miles west of Xenia. Kenneth Ward, father of one Girl Scout, is an auxiliary fireman. He was helping gather up the bodies, when his daughter was a victim, when he recognized what was left of the car. Then he found the body of his daughter, Linda,

District Court Says Not All Avenues Exhausted In Negro School Suits

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A federal appeals court today reaffirmed earlier decisions that Negroes seeking admission to North Carolina public schools must exhaust state administrative remedies before asking for relief from federal courts. It did so in two cases. In one it upheld a U.S. district court judge at Raleigh who refused to order Joseph Hiram Holt Jr., a Negro, admitted to a white high school. In the other case, it upheld a U.S. District court judge at Rockingham who had dismissed a suit brought by parents of a number of Negro children in Montgomery County. The parents asked the court to order the county board of education and the superintendent of schools to present a plan of desegregation and to forbid the school officials to assign the Negroes to a particular school because of race. The court added that this does not mean there must be a separate suit for each child whose application for reassignment has been denied. It said there is no objection to joint suits by a number of applicants. However, it said the board of education "is entitled under the North Carolina statute to consider each application on its individual merits and if this is done without unnecessary delay and with scrupulous observance of individual constitutional rights, there will be no just cause for complaint." In upholding the district judge who had dismissed the petition of the Negro pupils seeking entrance to a white Raleigh school, the court said: "We are not to be understood as approving the deliberate segregation of the races in the public schools of the city or the questioning of applicants on irrelevant matters," said the appeals court. The opinion was written by Circuit Judge Morris A. Soper. The court added that regulations adopted by the local school board in 1957 pursuant to state law tion school was less than a mile distant; that the Broughton school offered a fuller academic and extracurricular program, and that the transfer would remove the stigma of racial segregation. The appeal court's opinion noted that the parents failed to appear in person at the board's hearing on the application but were represented by counsel who asked the board to rescind denial of the application. After restudy of the application by a board committee, the board approved the committee recommendation that the early action not be changed. The suit then was instituted. The appeals court noted the board with investigatory powers and functions and also with the authority and duty to conduct a final hearing on a quasi-judicial character in order to make the final determination of the plaintiffs application.

Club Members Hear Speakers

H. B. Weatherford, Donald McGmsey and Herbert Wilkerson were guests speakers at the Jr. Woman's Club dinner meeting last night.

Weatherford showed the group a film on interior decorating. It brought out the fact that a color scheme for a home should be built around a favorite painting, draperies, or a favorite wall color. This point was demonstrated in actual scenes of decorated homes. The film also stressed that a family should have what pleased them.

Following the film, Wilkerson gave a few points concerning floor care and the use of wax. He stated that there are two distinct types of wax—one with a water base and one with a turpentine base. Wilkerson pointed out that each had its specific floor to be used on.

The water base being used for vinyl and linoleum while the turpentine is for hardwood floors. He also stressed removing all wax periodically and especially if painting is to be done.

Mrs. Thomas Vicars made a report on the Watson Memorial Fund during the business session.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Vertie King, Mrs. Mary Saleed, Mrs. Belle Wadell, Mrs. Ann Hall and Mrs. Peggy Misenhammer.

"Profiles Of Courage" Topic Of Club Program

BETHEL—Senator Bob Kennedy's book, "Profiles of Courage," was reviewed by Mrs. W. C. Latham at the Round Table Book Club session Monday.

She told how Senator Kennedy highlighted several incidents in the lives of persons who have served as members of Congress. These incidents told of the courage exercised by many people in withstanding the pressures brought to bear to try to force them to vote or enact legislation contrary to what the individual members thought was right. As a result many were crucified politically.

Guests present for the afternoon were Mesdames D. T. House

Thursday Night Bridge
Mrs. Dennis Hardy was hostess to her bridge club Thursday night in her home on Main Street.

Seven members and one invited guest, Mrs. Hilton Tetterton, were present to take their places at the two tables.

Between the second and third progressions Mrs. Hardy served a hostess plate.

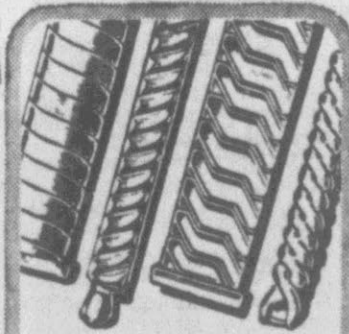

At the conclusion of play, Mrs. William Andrews was awarded high score prize and Mrs. F. F. Follard was winner of consolation prize.

Mrs. Dennis Hostess
Last week when Mrs. E. E. Dennis entertained at bridge, her home was decorated with arrangements of spring flowers.

Between progressions a desert course with hot coffee was served. At the end of progressions, Mrs. Samuel G. Keel was awarded high score prize.

News And Notes From Grafton

Little Miss Shirley Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murphy, is recuperating at her home on Queen Street following a tonsillectomy at Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Israel for the weekend were Mrs. Israel's mother, Mrs. Lula Wright, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown of Asheville.

Mrs. J. L. Quinley, Miss Hazel Patrick and Miss Mary Jo Quinley spent Saturday in Raleigh. They were accompanied by Mrs. Josh Worthington and Miss Suzanne Worthington of Kinston.

Miss Carol Layton has returned from a weekend in Aurora with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brantley.

Mrs. John Coward is spending this week in Atlantic with her mother, Mrs. Julia Hill.

Mrs. Wilson Tate and infant daughter, Patricia Faye, have returned to their home from Lenoir Memorial Hospital in Kinston.

VENTILATED BEDDING

A new system of cushion ventilation controlling the circulation of air through an air-flow mattress was shown at a recent bedding display in New York. It will air condition or heat the mattress area.

The unit consists of a rubber mat incorporating a series of small disk-like objects that resemble collar buttons, a pad of acetate filled fiber beneath it, and a cotton cover over all. It had bed size controls similar to an electric blanket, but wires are not in direct contact with the mattress area. An air circulator attached to the air flow pad supplies air to the mattress. The inventor, O. A. Kottermann of Louisville, Ky., says that its safety makes it advantageous for hospital and children's beds. He hopes to produce the pad of plastic within a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Tucker and sons, Glenn and Vann, spent the weekend in Star with Mrs. Tucker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stout.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Price and Mrs. Sallie Johnson are in Florida for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. George Layno of Kinston visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murphy on Sunday.

Mrs. W. T. Smith has returned to Kenly after spending Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. David Parker.

John Condon is recuperating at his home here after being a patient at Lenoir Memorial Hospital in Kinston.

Charles Wethington, a student at State College, spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. H. L. Wethington.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Cox and son Gerald are spending sometime in Florida.

Dinner Party

BETHEL—Mr. and Mrs. Grover Whitehurst entertained some of their friends Tuesday night at a dinner party. Those present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Swan Ives, and Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst.

Turkey, dressing, congealed salad, asparagus, butterbeans, corn, pickles, sweet potato casserole, hot biscuits, hot coffee and strawberry shortcake were served family style.

Big Role For Committee Of 100

Plans for the organization of a Committee of 100 in Greenville as an auxiliary to the economic development effort in Pitt County is another step toward realizing the economic potential of this area.

Such a committee representing the business, industrial, professional and civic interest of the community will be an important asset in dealing with prospects who may be interested in moving businesses or industries into Pitt County. It will afford Greenville an organization on the community level to work hand-in-hand with the county-wide development program.

In other communities in North Carolina and elsewhere, such community organizations have proven an important part of the overall organization to boost the economy of a particular community, county or region. In many places the work of such organizations has been the difference between successful economic growth for the community and a deteriorating economic situation.

While Pitt County has its county-wide development program in operation now, it is evident that other organizations on the community level throughout the county will greatly enhance the effort to improve the county's economy. The proposal that Greenville form a Committee of 100 deserves the active support of every element of the business, industrial, professional and civic life of the city.

Similar organizations in other communities throughout Pitt County would likewise prove a valuable asset to the overall county economic development program.

The better Pitt County can organize itself to attract industrial prospects and to deal with them after they become interested in this area, the more likely the county is to succeed in boosting its economy.

Organization of community committees to work closely with the Pitt County Development Commission is essential if Pitt is to successfully compete with other areas in this highly competitive business of economic and industrial development.

First Set The Needs, Then The Revenues

As the General Assembly approaches basic decisions on appropriations and revenues for the coming biennium, it seems torn between fitting appropriations to anticipated revenues or making revenues fit needed appropriations.

From the standpoint of the welfare of the state as a whole the legislature has but one choice. It must first determine the needs of the state during the next two years, and then see that sufficient revenues are assured to meet these appropriations.

To do otherwise would be putting the cart before the horse.

It would be folly indeed for the legislature to set a figure and say "this is the total amount we will appropriate for all state services during the next biennium" without first determining the needs of the state. Under such a plan, North Carolina certainly would be without services which are vital to its progress and the general welfare of its people.

The only sound approach the legislature can make is to consider first the needs. When these have been determined, it will be fine if anticipated revenues will match appropriations without any tax increase. If more revenue is needed to meet these needs, however, the legislature has no choice but to find new sources of state revenue.

Certainly we are not advocating more or higher state taxes. On the other hand, the people of North Carolina must make a realistic approach to state government. If vital services are to be had, they must be paid for by citizens of the state. We can ill afford to neglect during the coming two years things North Carolina will need simply for the sake of avoiding new or higher taxes.

We would be making serious financial troubles for the state in years to come. At the same time we would be placing a handicap upon the progress of the state and the welfare of its people.

It is to be hoped that the needs of the state during the next two years can be met without a tax increase. To put a ceiling on expenditures without regard to the needs of the state, however, would be a serious if not disastrous mistake.

What Will The Allies Offer?

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the best kept secrets of 1959 — and one of the real keys to the Berlin crisis — is the answer to a question which from now on will be crucial in the news about the Soviet Union, Germany and the West.

Do the Western Allies, despite their public show of solidarity about not budging on Berlin, have anything to offer in the way of ideas that might avoid a military showdown with the Soviets?

It has been disclosed that the United States has drawn up the outlines of a peace treaty with Germany. Apparently, it is still in very sketchy form.

President Eisenhower hinted Monday night in his nationwide broadcast that the Allies do have new ideas and expect some from the U.S.S.R. He said no more. By his silence he drew a curtain across whatever ideas he has in mind.

This was natural enough, since before the United States unveils any plan it would need approval by France, Britain and West Germany. Lack of such approval would indicate the Allies had split wide open.

Some proposals to the Soviet Union — to avoid war over Berlin and seek instead a peaceful solution — will be at the heart of the discussions here this week between Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

From the beginning there have actually been three keys to the Berlin crisis:

1. How determined were the Soviets to back up their demand that the Allies get their troops out of Berlin? That question still is unanswered.

2. Would the Allies yield to this Soviet demand and withdraw? They already have said they would not.

3. If the U.S.S.R. insists the Allies get out but the Allies won't budget, then the only answer is a military showdown unless the two sides negotiate a settlement. But negotiate on what? What can either side propose that the other will accept?

Nobody in the West has yet been able to say positively why Premier Nikita Khrushchev precipitated the crisis in the first place with his demands against the Allies in Berlin.

So no one has been able to say positively how far he is willing to go to back up his demand. (Continued on page six)

Special Adviser

By ALVIN TAYLOR

They Walked Out On Him

Charles O'Horne, recently appointed member of the Greenville Utilities Commission, has been doing a bang-up job of explaining the local Utilities' rate structure to various civic clubs and organizations.

Horne, using a system of charts which he compiled, is showing the organizations that Greenville compares very favorably with the electrical rates of surrounding towns and with private utilities.

The other night Charlie was asked to present his talk to the local Lions Club. Since he is a member of the Lions, that night Charlie would be speaking to folks he knew.

So, on the appointed evening, he journeyed to the Womens Club where the Lions hold their weekly supper meetings.

Everything went along fine through the supper. Then after the meal, President John Biggs announced as he customarily does, that all who could not stay for the program portion of the meeting were free to leave at that time.

Without a word every member of the club got up and headed for the door leaving an open-mouthed Charles staring at the disappearing backs of their heads.

It was all a joke, of course and Charles broke into a relieved smile when the club members began returning to their seats.

He went on to give the performance of his life!

This good looking girl with a figure like . . . well, you know, walked into a local drug store the other day.

"What do you have that would help a person gain weight?" she asked the druggist sweetly.

The druggist gave her that with - a-figure-like-that-you-need-to-gain-weight? look, but replied in his best professional manner.

"Well, vitamins are the best thing I know."

The girl agreed that that might be good and ordered a supply. Whoever she is, with a dazzling figure like that, I personally hope she doesn't gain an ounce.

Other Editors Saying . . . Local Autonomy Needed

(Henderson Dispatch)

Steps are under way in the Legislature toward granting greater autonomy to counties. Legislative approval could apply the brakes under such circumstances.

In the main, however, there is entirely too much strictly local activity at every session of State lawmakers, and which tends to clutter calendars, delays consideration of statewide measures and keeps the session going longer than otherwise would be the case.

The flood of local bills each biennium assumes the proportions of folly so far as State authority is concerned.

It might not be wise for the Legislature to pull back completely in this field of legal assent, but it would be helpful if some system could be devised that would give counties, cities and towns at least a greater measure of autonomy in management of their own local affairs.

To what extent this can be done with propriety is the problem of those more familiar with conditions. It is a challenge that deserves serious and thoughtful consideration in the interest alike of the Legislature and local governments throughout the State.

For a municipality or a county to be required to obtain permission from the General Assembly for every petty change in its governmental set-up is foolish, complicated and sometimes detrimental to the best interests of sound government.

Just a little reminder to folks who plan ahead. Spring is but two days off, regardless of what the weather might be like.

In case you ladies are wondering exactly what hour you should don your spring hats, the season officially begins at 3:55 a.m. Saturday morning.

Personally I plan to be sleeping at that hour. As far as I am concerned Spring will just have to wait until morning!

When our mind goes back fifteen to twenty centuries and we behold what our forebears did to get the Christian faith established, then we are humbled indeed. We, with our well-cushioned pews, with few religious duties which in any way interfere with our comfort — what are we compared with those people who faced the rack and the arena with unwavering courage.

Everything of real value in life costs something. The political liberty we enjoy today costs something. The fact that we have a faith, churches in which to worship, and spiritual leaders who can guide us — all this was purchased by the grim sacrifice of brave men and women.

Courageous pioneers! The term should ring a song of sweetness to our hearts.

Words Worn Thin

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks single girls get tired of hearing — or overhearing:

"How come a pretty girl like you never got married?"

"Seriously, dear, don't you think you're being too choosy?"

"Now, Harry, you can't tell that joke. Remember, not all of us here are married."

"Sorry, miss, we don't serve unescorted ladies at the bar."

"If that loud-mouthed sister of hers could land a man, I don't see why—"

"He's a little older than you, but—"

"He's a little younger than you, but—"

"I just love your premature gray hair. It is premature, isn't it?"

"Stop grumbling, Harry, and pick up her check."

"Cheer up, honey, he's not the only pebble on the beach."

"Why do you waste your time on him? Can't you see he's not the marrying kind?"

"Why don't you try the Virgin Islands this year, Cecily? You've been everywhere else."

"I'd like to give you a raise, Cecily, but I've got to take care of the married men first."

"Isn't it ironic? In high school we all thought she'd be the first to get married."

"She's such a comfort to her mother."

"I envy you unmarried women. Your apartments are always so neat and clean."

"It's this way, Cecily. My wife just doesn't understand me. Have another martini."

"If you just had a husband, Cecily, you wouldn't be so nervous."

"Oh, it's no trouble, Miss Jones. I'll be glad to see you home. You do — uh, uh — live alone, don't you?"

"She's at the awkward age—too young for old men, too old for young men."

"It says here in the paper there are 1,564,328 more women than men in America. Isn't that funny?"

"The right to unionize, to bargain collectively, to strike locally should not be impaired (so long as public welfare and national security are not endangered). But unless the threat of nationwide strikes in key industries is removed, the inflationary trend cannot be checked." — Richmond Times-Dispatch.

"It is of no use to train the young in one very special process which will probably be superseded before they are middle-aged. Give them alert minds exercised in observation and in reasoning, with some knowledge of the world about them, and with feeling for beauty." — Philosopher Alfred North Whitehead.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THEY PAID THE COST

Sometimes we may well wonder whether or not we give enough attention and credit to courageous pioneers to whom we owe most of the benefits we now enjoy.

Eighteenth century America — both in the United States and Canada — must have been a rough period of hardship. The thirteen colonies were trying to gain their freedom. Canada, in some parts, was a flaming battleground. Brother fought brother. Sincere men of good will rose against other men of good will. It would be easy to evaluate that whole period if we could put the evil people on one side and all the good people on the other. But that is impossible. As in all great struggles, there were good people and bad people on both sides.

When our mind goes back fifteen to twenty centuries and we behold what our forebears did to get the Christian faith established, then we are humbled indeed. We, with our well-cushioned pews, with few religious duties which in any way interfere with our comfort — what are we compared with those people who faced the rack and the arena with unwavering courage.

Everything of real value in life costs something. The political liberty we enjoy today costs something. The fact that we have a faith, churches in which to worship, and spiritual leaders who can guide us — all this was purchased by the grim sacrifice of brave men and women.

Courageous pioneers! The term should ring a song of sweetness to our hearts.

Developments In Foreign Trade

By ELMER ROESSNER

There are a number of interlocking developments in American foreign trade that may have implications for all businesses and the public generally.

They are:

1. The flow of gold out of the United States. In the last year, about $2 billion was withdrawn by foreign countries. The flight has slowed down in recent months. Foreign nations can get gold in exchange for our money, which they obtain by selling us more than we buy from them.

2. The decline in American exports. They fell 18 per cent last year. However, the U.S. maintained a balance of trade in that imports were 20 per cent less than exports.

3. The establishment of more American plants abroad. EXPORTING JOBS, TOO? Some observers find frightening possibilities in these phenomena. American labor, they say, is pricing American goods out of the world markets; wages are so high that our products cost too much to compete with those of Germany, Japan, France, Italy, Holland, Belgium and other industrialized Western nations, or with the products produced by slave labor behind the Iron Curtain.

This, they argue, is encouraging the export of American plants. Instead of building a plant for the production of export goods in this city, for instance, a big corporation may be tempted to erect a plant in Shannon, Manchester or Tokyo, where wages are lower.

Then, it would seem, we have exported two kinds of jobs: instead of Americans building the plants and American labor hired to man it, both categories are hired from foreign ranks.

The American Tariff League lists these recent expansions of foreign operations: Elgin National Watch is planning to assemble watches in Switzerland; Bendix Aviation has joined Zenity Radio and Pye, Ltd., to manufacture automotive equipment in Australia; International Electric, a GE subsidiary, has set up a $5,900,000 subsidiary in Switzerland; Monsanto Chemical has arranged a partnership with an Italian firm for construction of petrochemical plants abroad; Smith, Kline & French is building a $2,000,000 pharmaceutical laboratory in Great Britain, and Timken Roller Bearing is said to have constructed a $10,000,000 plant in France.

EXPERTS NOT ALARMED

Those ventures alone represent a lot of American capital sent abroad and a lot of jobs Americans might have had.

However, many authorities do not regard these developments as alarming.

European nations are taking more of their gold and are buying less of American products because they are recovering from war damage, they say. Their factories have been rebuilt and they are in a position to serve the United States and other markets as they were before the war.

Furthermore, the experts say, in exporting factories, we are not regard these developments as alarming. European nations are taking more of their gold and are buying less of American products because they are recovering from war damage, they say. Their factories have been rebuilt and they are in a position to serve the United States and other markets as they were before the war.

At least one study indicates that the wage advantage in foreign countries is far less than popularly supposed. It showed that many U.S. plants with branch factories abroad find that production costs, even at low wages, are as high as they are in the U.S. Raw materials cost more, job performance is low, and taxes, regulations and customs add to costs.

On the other hand, there are savings in shipping and duties. A plant in Marseilles, for instance, could supply products throughout the European Customs Union at lower prices than they could be manufactured in the U.S., shipped across the Atlantic, and subjected to duty in the country of destination. Service, replacements and repairs could also be offered more cheaply from an European base.

There appears to be little concern in Washington. A bill in Congress by Rep. Hale Boggs (D., La.) would increase the export of factories by allowing U.S. corporations tax concessions on their foreign operations. Despite the fact that the Treasury is not cheering the bill on, there seems to be a fair chance that it will pass.

The entire situation will bear close watching by American business, labor and the government. It is obvious that if these three trends are carried too far, the entire economy will be jeopardized.

The Bible Teaches Truths That Set Men Free

When Does Child Begin To Speak?

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

When should a child be talking and at what age should you begin to be alarmed if he isn't talking? The normal range is wide. A few children will say their first real words as early as eight months but other equally normal children may be well over two years old before they have picked up the idea that sounds can mean things.

A child who is approaching his third birthday and hasn't begun to talk should most certainly be thoroughly examined. One of the first things we think about in delayed speech is that the child doesn't hear. Children talk a jargon before they master intelligible speech. Listen to your child. When he babbles does it sound like conversation? Does he say some words more rapidly, sometimes more slowly, sometimes more vibrantly, high-pitched at times and low at others?

Voice Infections
If there are all these subtle infections in his jargon, you can rest easy that he is not deaf. These sounds he learned from listening to you; he didn't think them up himself. And he couldn't have done it if he were deaf. On the other hand, if a child jabbars always in a monotone, if his voice is uninteresting and dull and he doesn't pay much attention to it himself, probably he cannot hear. You had better have his hearing examined right away.

But delayed speech can be due to the simple fact that you don't talk to your child. If you go about your care for him silently, he hasn't anything to copy, so he doesn't talk.

Talking is a means of getting what you want from the world. If you anticipate every wish of your child, he doesn't have the need to ask or demand what he wants with words. Talk to your baby, but by your actions let him discover that talking gets him what he wants.

Sometimes parents worry that a child is mentally retarded if he is delayed in talking. Of course there is this possibility, but don't jump to the conclusion. A child whose speech is delayed because he is retarded will show his slowness in all phases of his development. He will be late in sitting up, in walking, in toilet training and in all the other multitude of things a child does. If he is only slow in talking, this slowness is probably not due to retardation.

Some Walk First
A child who walks before he talks may just put off talking for a while. He becomes so absorbed in going places he doesn't have time or interest for a different skill. Let him alone. When he becomes so proficient at walking he can do it without thinking about it, then he will turn his attention to his vocabulary.

If your child is slow in talking, talk to him and talk plenty. Love him, keep him happy and content as much as you can. If you are worried about him, by all means take him to your doctor and have him thoroughly gone over and have hearing tests and intelligence tests included in the examination. Maybe there is nothing at all wrong; he is just naturally a slow talker.

Revival Begins Tonite At Church

Rev. Lewis Williams will begin a weekend revival at the Meadowbrook Pentecostal Holiness Church tonight and continuing through Sunday night, March 22. There will be special singing each night and on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A singing inspiration at the church will be conducted by the Rev. Ola Porter.

The Sunday school meets every Sunday at 9:45 a.m. Garland Jones, superintendent, requests that each member be present.

The Life Liners meet at 6:30 p.m. every Sunday under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Brock. Mrs. T. R. Bradshaw has the program. Young people and adults are invited to attend these meetings.

Following Life Liners, the Gospel Hour at 7:30 is held with the pastor, Rev. T. R. Bradshaw, bringing the evening message.

Bridge Clubs

GRIFTON—Mrs. J. L. Quinley was hostess Friday night at bridge and supper when the members of her bridge club and invited guests were entertained at the home of her sister, Miss Hazel Patrick, on Queen Street.

Spring flowers were used throughout the home for the occasion. Guests were served a chicken supper on arrival and later lemon chiffon pie as dessert. The buffet

Landscaping Is Speaker's Topic

BETHEL — "Landscaping" was the program topic for the March meeting of the Bethel Home Demonstration Club last Friday when Mrs. F. C. James entertained in her home on Bethel-Tarboro Highway.

A demonstration on landscaping was given by Mrs. James and Mrs. R. B. Edmondson. They displayed five sketches prepared by John Harris, the noted landscapist who is an extension specialist in horticulture. The sketches showed the proper places for trees and shrubbery around homes. A prize was given to the person knowing the names of the different types of shrubbery shown.

Mrs. A. J. Crane gave the devotionals. Her scripture was taken from St. John 11:21-26. She stated, "It has been said that there is a close relationship between poetry and religious experiences and that the use of poetry will help one to cultivate the spiritual life also poetry is capable of catching and expressing the deeper emotions and conceptions of the human heart or a mind."

She read two poems by Ralph Spaulding Cushman "Eternal Spring" and "On Every Hand is Resurrection Promise".

Reports were heard from Z. T. Harris, the education leader. At this time, she announced the Home Demonstration Book Club would meet Tuesday with Mrs. W. J. Taylor, Sr.

Mrs. F. C. James, home beautification leader, advised using 24D to destroy weeds.

Mrs. R. R. Whitehurst, president, presided over the meeting. She announced that the club had turned in $264 to the Heart Fund from the Bethel Community.

Mrs. R. R. James, recreational leader, led the group in games. During the social hour, refreshments were served to 20 members and guests, Mrs. F. S. Powell and Mrs. Jo Ann Crisp Tetterton.

Leaders Are Named

BETHEL—New officers were announced by the nominating committee of the Woman's Society of Christian Service when the group met Monday.

Those elected were Mrs. J. L. Gurganus, president; Mrs. J. C. Wynne Jr., vice-president; Mrs. R. A. Stator, secretary; Mrs. D. T. House, treasurer. Other secretaries are Mrs. D. O. Speir, secretary of promotion; Mrs. R. L. Goodall, secretary of missionary education; Mrs. Walter C. Whitehurst, secretary of social relations; Mrs. Robert Davis, secretary of student work; Mrs. Samuel Keel, secretary of youth work; Mrs. E. E. Dennis, secretary of children's work; Mrs. S. C. Whitehurst, secretary of Spiritual Life; Mrs. M. T. Whitehurst, secretary of literature and publication; Mrs. R. E. Riddick, secretary of supply work; Mrs. Winifred Thigpen, secretary of status of women; and Mrs. W. J. Smith, chairman of local church activities.

Mrs. J. L. Gurganus announced the following dates to be remembered by the group. The district meeting April 17 at Lillington. Annual Conference April 7-9 at Sanford, and Sub-District meeting April 28.

Mrs. R. J. Whitehurst, a district officer, said she had received reports from all churches in the district which enables her to give a 100 per cent report.

Mrs. Gurganus announced that Mrs. E. E. Dennis, secretary of children's work, is planning an Easter party at which time she will add films to the entertainment.

Installation Service Planned

The newly-elected officers of Greenville Chapter No. 149, Order of the Eastern Star, will be installed at an open installation ceremony at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Masonic Hall in Greenville.

Visiting members of the Order, friends and relatives of officers and members are cordially invited to attend.

Officers to be installed are: Mrs. Edna Whichard, Worthy Matron; Kenneth Whichard, Worthy Patron; Mrs. Louise Small, Associate Matron; Joseph Palmer, Associate Patron; Miss Alya Ray Taylor, Secretary; Mrs. Ruth Harris, Treasurer; Mrs. Eula Mae Cannon, Conduress; Mrs. Lillie McLawhorn, Associate Conduress; Mrs. Ethel Allen, Chaplain;

Mrs. Hazel Baker Marshall, Mrs. Jean Whiteley, Organist; Mrs. Julia Harris, Adah; Mrs. Sallie Mann, Ruth; Mrs. Jennie Stokes, Esther; Mrs. Gwendolyn Stancil, Martha; Mrs. Virginia Spencer, Electa; Mrs. Grace Hill, Warder; and Alfred Kennedy, Sentinel.

Following the installation ceremony, a reception honoring the newly installed officers will be held in the Fred Stokes dining room.

Try TV dips with horseradish. Mix 1/2 cup commercial sour cream, 1 tablespoon ground horseradish, 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice and a few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Mrs. Taylor Speaks To Round Table

Mrs. Charles O'H. Horne, Sr. entertained the Round Table Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Daniel R. Taylor as afternoon speaker.

Mrs. D. L. Moore, president, presided during the business meeting. Mrs. E. E. Rawl, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Taking as her subject, Macy's Department Store, Mrs. Taylor traced the history of this mercantile establishment in New York City. Basing her remarks, in part, on the book, "THE PRICE IS RIGHT," by Margaret Case Hariman, Mrs. Taylor reminded the group that Macy's has become the largest department store in the world, recently observed its one hundredth anniversary, and was started by H. H. Macy as a modest general store in 1858 in the gas-light, cash-sales-only era.

Through the industry, ingenuity and ingenuity of its owners, this store has become one of the best known and most highly respected establishments of its kind in the world. Its operators have always adapted readily to changing conditions, sold at a modest profit, and make it a practice to see that customers are treated courteously and are satisfied with their purchases.

As times changed, department after department was added until now almost anything wanted by a customer can be secured at a reasonable price in this immense establishment.

young men at the Methodist Student Center in Greenville from which they went by automobiles to Winston-Salem to attend the State Methodist Student Movement Conference which was held during the weekend. The Wake Forest Wesley Foundation was host at this conference.

The Crusade Rally of the South Roanoke Baptist Association held in the McGinnis Auditorium at East Carolina College Friday night was attended by the following from Bethel: Rev. and Mrs. T. N. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Coburn, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Briley, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Willie G. Barnhill, Billie Barnhill, Miss Janie Bullock, B. C. Chesson, Mrs. J. P. Harris, Mrs. C. D. Rollins, Mrs. R. I. Taylor Jr., Mrs. J. I. Taylor and Miss Betty Cooper.

Rev. W. F. Marks of High Point spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brown.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl Barber have returned after a two weeks visit with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. Jole and children, Lisa and Ricky.

Jack Wynne and Vance Taylor plan to spend this weekend in Winston-Salem where they will visit Misses Mary Jo Wynne and Shirley Ann Hardy in Salem College.

H. L. Rives Jr., who has recently returned from Japan, is now spending some time with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Rives Sr. Mr. and Mrs. Casey Baldwin and Murry W. spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. R. L. Barnhill. Mrs. Van Taylor Jr. was hostess to her bridge club at a luncheon Friday.

WCTU Hears Mrs. Whitehurst

BETHEL — The Woman's Temperance Union met in the home of Mrs. F. C. Martin Monday afternoon. Mrs. M. T. Whitehurst was the main speaker during the program.

The spiritual life secretary, Mrs. Whitehurst, gave the devotionals using Matthew 12:13-37 for her scripture reading. Her topic was, "When Silence is Sin."

She pointed out there is a time to speak and there is a time to be silent, but it is a sin not to speak when we have opportunity to help a human being or to promote God's cause.

table was covered with a floral cloth and held lighted candles and yellow spring flowers.

During the progression the top scores for bridge club members were held by Mrs. Jack Chapman and Mrs. Dewey Wall and for guests, Mrs. C. R. Cobb. Others making up the tables were Mesdames L. M. Mewborn, J. W. Short, Robert Mewborn, Alton Chapman, H. P. Quinley, Eleanor Gower, Richard Nelson, Thurman Williams, J. L. Tucker, Herbert C. Gravelly, Misses Marie Chapman, Louise Mewborn and Bert Johnson.

Mrs. Smith Hostess
Mrs. Woodrow Smith entertained her bridge club on Thursday night at her home on Queen Street. Yellow daffodils and baby's breath decorated the living room in which the tables were placed for the games.

Mesdames W. E. Rasberry, Mark Phillips and David Parker received the high score prizes for the evening.

The hostess served a congealed salad, sandwiches cookies and coffee at the refreshment hour.

Guests included Mesdames Rasberry, Phillips, Parker, Sam Nelson, Glendel Tucker, Kenneth Talton, Ben G. Tucker, Wilbur Murphy, Roy Jackson, Robert Wheeler, Roger Johnson, Clay Burney.

Dessert Bridge
Mrs. John H. Coward had as guests for a dessert bridge Friday night her bridge club members. Daffodils and other spring flowers decorated the living room for the occasion.

Pecan pie with coffee was served at the dessert hour.

Mrs. Clifton Jackson was high scorer and second high Miss Ruth E. Smith, for club members. The guest prize went to Mrs. David Parker and the consolation to Mrs. Wilbur Murphy.

Others playing were Mesdames Albert Tyson, Bryan Davis, Conrad Hart, Frank Davis.

SEAFOOD TRAY

Ingredients: 3 cans (4 1/2 ounces each) small wet-pack cleaned shrimp, 3 tablespoons olive oil, 3 tablespoons white wine vinegar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, white pepper, 1/2 teaspoon dried crushed savory, 2 small onions (sliced thin and separated into rings), 1 can (3 2-3 ounces) smoked cocktail oysters, parsley, 1 small jar English cookies in brine or some other seafood.

Method: Drain shrimp; rinse in cold water; drain again. Mix oil, vinegar, salt, a dash of pepper and savory; mix gently with shrimp (so as not to break up) and onion rings. Cover shrimp and refrigerate for several hours or longer to blend flavors. At serving time, arrange shrimp and onion rings in small serving dish; open oysters but leave in can and wrasthe container with parsley; drain cookies and place in small serving dish. Place seafood on tray and serve to 12 party-goers. This hors d'oeuvre looks particularly attractive arranged in a 3-compartment server.

Even experienced cooks will be delighted with the idea of making hollandaise sauce ahead and holding it in a wide-mouthed vacuum jar until serving time.

Begin Relocating Highway And Bridge Construction

State highway personnel have begun work on a highway relocation and bridge construction project on Mumford Road extension. The project will eliminate a hazardous curve and replace an existing bridge on the road, according to highway officials, who also said about 1,000 feet of the roadway will be relocated. The project is expected to be completed by July.

Work thus far has included preliminary phases of fill construction at the new bridge site, utilizing materials from the old roadway. Actual construction of the bridge will begin as soon as fill construction is completed. Cost estimates for the roadway total $5,000. No estimated cost was announced for the bridge, which will include concrete decking and hand rails.

Vehicle Inspection Law Is 'Inevitable', Says Scheidt

RALEIGH (AP) — State Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt said today, "It is inevitable that we will have mechanical inspection of motor vehicles. It's a necessary part of highway safety."

Scheidt made the statement in commenting on a bill introduced Wednesday in the House calling for annual mechanical inspection of motor vehicles.

"We consider it a common-sense proposal one that will afford protection with a minimum of inconvenience," Scheidt said.

Unless legislative thinking has changed since 1957, the measure faces a tough fight.

The present bill, introduced by Rep. Carroll Holmes of Perquimans, is substantially the same proposal that was defeated in the 1957 session. Holmes also introduced that measure.

Holmes' bill would require inspection at state-licensed garages of brakes, lights, tires, horn, steering mechanism and windshield wipers to assure safe operation.

"At the present time we have virtually the same program for out-of-state cars," Scheidt said. "Cars bought out of North Carolina and brought into this state must be inspected before they can be registered. About 35,000 vehicles were inspected last year by the Highway Patrol or at state-licensed garages. We have received no complaints from that program."

Meanwhile, the Senate decided to sidetrack a bill calling for travel allowances for legislators. It voted 23-22 to postpone a decision on the bill until the appropriations bill comes up for Senate consideration.

Other legislative highlights included: Beverly Moore of Greensboro, president of the North Carolina Bar Assn., urged a joint meeting of Senate and House Constitutional Amendments committee to approve the Bell committee's recommendations for court reforms. But the executive committee of the North Carolina Sheriff's Assn. said it feels "the courts of North Carolina today are generally in good condition, and that the General Assembly has ample power to make any needed changes in the court system."

The Senate State Government Committee discussed but took no action on a bill to create a commission to plan and supervise the building of a new legislative building. The House passed the bill Tuesday.

The House approved a bill by Rep. Marcellus Buchanan of Jackson to set up a study commission to gauge sentiment on changing highway commission membership. Rep. Ed Kemp of Guilford argued strongly for a bill to require licensing of all North Carolina boarding homes for aged persons.

Splint Trick Is For The Birds

Cites 'Calamitous' Possibilities In Present Rules Affecting Utilities

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — Col. William T. Joyner, well-known corporation lawyer, maintained Wednesday that a bill which would prohibit public utilities from putting in rate increases under bond could, in some cases, produce a "calamitous situation."

The bill, introduced by Rep. John T. Henley of Cumberland, came up for public hearing before the House public utilities committee.

Under its provisions, no public utility would be allowed to raise its rate until the increase had been approved by the Public Utilities Commission. At the present time, utilities can put up bond and raise their rates accordingly while obtaining a ruling from the Utilities Commission. If a lower rate is approved, the company is required to refund the difference.

Henley maintained the system is unfair in that the utilities are not required to pay interest on the money refunded. He further maintained: "If rates go up they are just like taxes — it is hard to get them down."

Col. Joyner, who has handled a number of large litigations for various utilities, said that the problem of putting in rate increases under bond is "an emergency measure that is seldom used."

There have been only "five instances of this in the last 30 years."

The attorney said there were good reasons why utilities are reluctant to use the emergency measure. Among them: (1) There is the chance that the Utilities Commission will establish a lower rate and the company will have to refund the difference; (2) putting in an increase before a ruling is obtained destroys good will; and (3) there is the chance that the company could have gotten a higher rate increase if the amount had not already been set. Col. Joyner said that while many cases can be cleared before the Utilities Commission within six months, some cases such as that of Southern Bell have required two years.

Southern Bell, in this case, did not put in a rate increase until the matter was settled but Joyner pointed out: "If they had not been able to hold out that long, and had no authority to put in a rate increase under bond, the situation would have been calamitous."

Col. Joyner said that the problem confronting utilities is a multiple one. The company must assure a fair return to its investors while at the same time charging fair rates to its users. It must also meet its obligations in expanding and providing for new and better service to its customers. But unless its investors are getting a reasonable return of around 6 percent on their investment, new investors cannot be attracted to provide for expansion.

With these demands, he said, it is necessary for the utilities to have an emergency measure such as the one currently in force to fall back on.

Physics Student Receives Award

Dennis Earl Williams of Rt. 1, Kinston, sophomore at East Carolina College, was awarded Tuesday night at a convocation of the department of science at the college, the Physics Award for 1958-1959 presented by the Chemical Rubber Co. He received a handbook of chemistry and physics published by the donor.

Selection of the recipient of the award was competitive. From four outstanding students of physics who were invited to take an examination administered by Dr. R. M. Helms of the college science department, Mr. Williams was chosen as winner.

Runners-up were James W. Laughinghouse of Columbia, Iona Manning of Rt. 2 Robersonville, and Barbara Ann Moser of Rt. 1, Julian.

Mr. Dennis is a graduate of the Contentnea High School in Lenoir County. At East Carolina College he is majoring in mathematics and minoring in physics. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Williams of Rt. 1, Kinston.

mands. He himself has suggested negotiations — including a summit conference — to talk things out.

Eisenhower Monday night indicated a willingness to have a summit meeting next summer, but only if developments justify it.

At this moment — when neither the West, nor the Soviet Union has yet produced ideas that would seem acceptable to the other — the situation remains frozen on the Soviet demand for the Allies to vacate Berlin and their public refusal to do so.

Unless they start talking, there will have to be a showdown of some kind. Such a showdown, if it comes, will probably be months away, for it is almost certain the two sides first will do some talking.

This is where the basic question comes in again: Talk or what?

Ballentine Raps 'Crippling' Cuts

RALEIGH (AP) — State Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine says that cuts made by the Advisory Budget Commission in requested agriculture funds are "crippling" to the state's farm program.

Ballentine voiced strong disapproval Wednesday of the budget recommended for his department during the next biennium by the budget commission.

He made his remarks at a gathering of some 100 members of state farm groups. Ballentine noted that while budget commission cuts of his department's requests were not so severe, slightly under 2 per cent. "They cut a little here and a little there. . . and the budget has been seriously crippled," he said.

Boy's Profitable Pencil Is Lost

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mrs. Roy Klein was excited about her son's grades — for two weeks.

She had told him he would get a nickel for every 100 paper he brought home. For two weeks there were quite a few perfect papers.

But, one day a depressed James had to admit: "I can't get any more 100s. I lost the red pencil grandma gave me."

OH, BROTHER!

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Five-year-old Patrick and Dennis McBride, who have become accustomed to being called "the twins," made a startling discovery at kindergarten recently. Rushing home excitedly, they shouted: "Hey, Mom! Do you know what we found out today? We're brothers."

New Materials, New Ideas For Experimental House

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A range, oven, dishwasher, laundry and air conditioning and allow mass production for about $13,500 has been built here to test the ability of a wide variety of plastics to cut corners on costs.

If all the new ideas work out as expected, the $13,500 price tag would include built-in refrigerator, of the conventional house. "We threw the building code out the window," said Bruce Fast, assistant general manager of Palace & Co., the builder. If some of the revolutionary new ideas work out, the builders hope to convince cities that their building codes should be revised.

The plastic cores, faced with plywood or other materials, are made of materials about the consistency of popcorn — light in weight, with insulating benefits and resilient enough to bounce off minor impacts.

Fast said it took only 8 hours 20 minutes for six men to put all exterior and interior walls and the roof in place, cutting construction time to 50 man-hours, compared with the 250-man hours for a conventional house. Panels were made to fit into a design using four-foot modules.

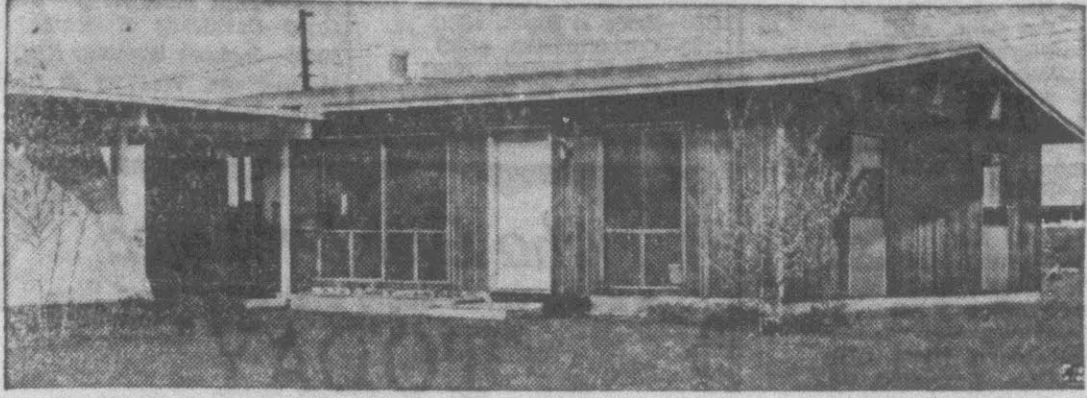

The aluminum-covered roof panels were built around cores of plastic four inches thick. The outside walls have a core three inches thick, the inside partitions two inches.

Spaces between panels were provided to leave room for windows of various sizes or the floor-to-ceiling doors, hinged in time-saving style to wall surfaces to avoid costly labor in door-hanging.

A REAL FREEZE
YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP) — It got too cold to go ice skating here the other day.

The ground was so hard stakes could not be driven to hold a plastic pool which was to be filled for ice skating.

George Washington recorded in his diary the agricultural and other inventions for which he is credited. But he admitted once the plow he invented didn't work so well on ground where there were "stumps and stones."

HOUSE OF PLASTIC—This experimental three-bedroom ranch was built in South Bend, Ind., with radically new materials and methods. Backers hope it may eventually be mass produced.

Pres. O'Kelly Is Concluding Visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Sean T. O'Kelly of Ireland winds up his Washington visit today with the accent on art and education.

The 78-year-old visitor and his party then go to New York City. He arranged a luncheon in honor of the President and Mrs. Eisenhower to follow a busy morning schedule taking the O'Kelly party to the National Art Gallery and to Georgetown University for dedication of a new medical research building.

The design was by Herman York, a Jamaica, N.Y., architect.

The DEADLY LADY of MADAGASCAR BY C. V. TERRY

CHAPTER 20 "Don't you move, sir," Matt Quill said, holding the short-nosed gun against my chest. "Not till I give the word. And don't let out a peep. You're dead on either count."

"What's this mean?" I asked incredulously. "You might call it mutiny," he said. "Only there's little left to mutiny against."

He glanced down the deck, nodded at the motionless men on watch, then moved behind me, pressing the gun into the small of my back. "March, if you please," he said. "You won't be hurt if you'll follow orders."

We crossed the wardrobe with another word. At my cabin door I lifted the hasp on his nod. Tom Hoyt lay on his bunk, trussed up like a fowl ready for the oven, his jaws locked on a prodigious gag. He gave me a wink as I entered, and seemed unhurt.

"You may untie him at your leisure, Mr. Douglas," said Quill. "How all you like: I'm about to rouse the cabin, so noise will no longer matter." He took up my cutlass, whipped out the steel, and tossed the scabbard at my feet.

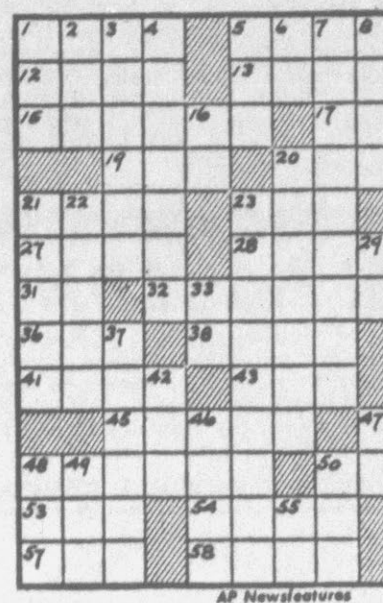

"How much did Quill tell you?" I asked. "Enough to convince me that the take-over was planned long ago."

"I listened with boiling impatience while he told me what little he knew of the mutiny. Quill had entered our cabin almost an hour ago, and supervised his binding at pistol point."

While this was proceeding, the first mate had revealed just enough to whet Tom's imagination, without spelling out the plot in toto. Quill's plan, I gathered, was to seize absolute command — first by dispatching the seamen our new captain had brought aboard, then by cutting down the captain himself.

Locate Two Big Water Sources In Dare County

RALEIGH — Two new untapped areas capable of furnishing more than one and one-half million gallons per day of ground water have been located in Dare County in a section of the Outer Banks that includes Nags Head, Kill Devil Hills, and Kitty Hawk.

Dr. J. L. Stuckey, State geologist and head of the Department of Conservation and Development's mineral resources division, revealed the discovery of the ground water supply following investigations involving the drilling of 110 test holes approximately 100 feet deep in a 17-mile long area.

The drillings were carried out on a cooperative basis by the ground water branch of the U.S. Geological Survey, the Department of Conservation and Development, and the Dare Beaches Sanitary District.

They were made because current sources of water in the Dare Beaches Sanitary District in quantity as well as quality are not sufficient to meet daily and seasonal needs, Dr. Stuckey said.

When developed the two hitherto untapped areas are capable of furnishing more than one and one-half million gallons of ground water on a sustained safe yield basis, Dr. Stuckey said.

The Dare Beaches Sanitary District in which the investigations were carried out extends from Whalebone on the Outer Banks North 17 miles to a point where U.S. Highway 158 turns west towards Point Harbor and includes the widely known resort areas of Nags Head, Kill Devil Hills and Kitty Hawk.

The purpose of the survey was to locate and define previously untapped resources of ground water and determine the amount and quality of water that can be pumped from them on a sustained yield basis without causing salt water encroachments, Dr. Stuckey explained.

While Tom was bound and gagged, I learned later, a guard had been placed on Sir Luke's door, which was locked from the inside. The lock had been sprung at Quill's orders and the buccaneers had stormed in, only to find that their quarry had flown. The frantic search of the ship was still proceeding, if I could judge by an occasional door-slam.

'Mouseketeer' Star Afraid Of Teenagers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's this Annette afraid of teenagers? The idol of millions of youngsters says it's true. Though she is the picture of self-assurance in movies and TV, she's really shy.

"It's not easy for me to meet other teenagers," she said. "And when I'm in a crowd and they start staring at me, I really get scared." "I'm much more at ease with grown-ups, because I've been with them most of my life. I seldom see teenagers. I'm the only one of the Mouseketeers left at the Disney Studios, so I go to school there alone. It's almost like having a private tutor."

"Naturally, I miss the proms and other school activities that school kids have. I can't have many dates when I'm working, and I don't get to meet many boys, anyway. When I have to go to a social affair for the studio, I have to ask a boy myself."

So you see the life of a teenage star is not all velvet. But lest you shed a tear for Annette, let me add that the velvet part is nice indeed. What other 16-year-old girl has her own white Thunderbird?

There is satisfaction plenty for Annette in her work, too. Right now her third record, "Tall Paul," is on the best-seller list. She is being seen in her first feature movie, "The Shaggy Dog," and scored a hit with four guest appearances on Danny Thomas' TV show. Her fan mail tops anybody at the Disney Studio, including Zorro and Mickey Mouse.

Her success may be due in large part to her naturalness. No show biz child, she happened on a career by accident. She was taking dancing lessons when Walt Disney organized the Mouseketeers. Her dancing teacher took her along with other students to try out for the youthful troupe. Annette was one of 24 chosen out of thousands.

Commuter Lives 700 Miles Away

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dale K. Russell spends $1,500 a year traveling to work. He lives 700 miles from his job.

Fussell, 40, is a first officer for Pan American Airways, with headquarters in New York. Since 1957, Russell and his family have lived in his hometown of Maryville.

Russell, who has been with Pan American 15 years, plans to continue his present schedule as long as is feasible. He points out that despite the distance, he spends only 14 flight hours a month commuting. Which is less time than many who live much closer to their jobs spend in their cars.

No Regret, But Congratulations

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — At a city commission meeting a letter of resignation from Mrs. A. F. Gerken, a member of the safety council, was read. It was suggested it be accepted with regret. "Oh, no, not with regret," said Commissioner June Benson. "She is leaving to have a baby." The resignation was accepted with congratulations.

All The Old Cliches Hold True In Harold Macmillan

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—Just what kind of man is this British prime minister who has seemingly seized the initiative in an attempt to break the cold war stalemate? Nikita Khrushchev found out last month that all the old cliches about the British certainly fit Harold Macmillan. He is polished and soft-spoken, never gets ruffled and perhaps leaves one with the slightly uneasy feeling that he may not really be as friendly as he seems. And he won't be bullied. The way British officials tell it, Khrushchev angrily rapped the Kremlin table. If the West gets in the way of the Soviet plan for Berlin, he exploded, it could mean "war!" Macmillan's silver mustache hardly quivered. Then he broke the hush to reply with equal force that the Allies never will surrender their rights in the menaced city. Khrushchev apparently was impressed by Macmillan's quiet force. Most British politicians have known for years that "Macmillan never flaps; he does not run; he keeps trying." The British leader will keep trying in his talks with President Eisenhower this week — as he tried with Khrushchev—to insure that Washington and Moscow don't get into positions from which they might find it impossible to retreat. That is because Macmillan seemingly took Khrushchev's talk of war seriously. And that is why he has been emphasizing the need for flexibility. He is convinced first that Khrushchev personally wants to do the talking for the Soviet Union—and primarily to the President—at a whole series of summit conferences beginning in July. He is satisfied that a little success at first can lead to bigger ones—that the road to disarmament may well pass through Berlin.

He has a hunch that the Berlin powder barrel might become irrelevant if the city is demilitarized or controlled within a much wider, bigger zone across Europe where East-West forces could be frozen at agreed levels. And finally he feels the Allies could come up with more imaginative—not necessarily gimmicky—proposals for things like a German peace settlement and an East-West accord to quit test-firing nuclear weapons. Macmillan's new ambition to be a peacemaker may stem from his incurable optimism—an optimism that rarely has failed him in his rise to political leadership. There have been suggestions at home and abroad that he also is being moved by vote-catching considerations at the time when his party almost certainly faces a general election within six months. And another likely explanation is that with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles ill, somebody else has got to get the Allies together. Macmillan actually is relatively inexperienced in dealing with the hard-bargaining Soviets. He accompanied then Prime Minister Anthony Eden to the 1955 summit conference in Geneva as foreign minister, sat in at a foreign ministers conference on Germany a few months later, and in 1956 met with the Soviet leaders again in London. But that was about the limit of his first-hand experience in negotiating. Since becoming prime minister he has made a point of arranging

Tahitian Dance Is Far Faster Than The Hula

HONOLULU (AP)—The difference between a Tahitian dance and the Hawaiian hula is, anatomically speaking: "Oh, my achin' back." At least, backaches are the most common complaint among professional Tahitian dancers here. In the hula, the hips swing slowly and casually from side to side. The Tahitian dance is a quadruple-quick, super-shimmy—with variations. In the words of Leimomi Chung, a grass-skirted dancer at a Waikiki hotel: "The Tahitian dance really shakes you up." Leimomi, a mother and housewife when not shimmying in public, says there is a special kind of music control needed for Tahitian dancing. Whatever it is, Leimomi appears to have it. She once was clocked at seven hip rolls in one second, reputedly equalling the world's indoor and outdoor shimmy record. Leimomi used to be a hula dancer. She switched to the vigorous vibrations of Tahiti four years ago because there were too many hula dancers around. She contends that all Tahitian dancers (whether they come from Tahiti or Hawaii) have occasional back and leg trouble. She keeps her petite frame 5-foot-2 and 102 pounds in condition with an occasional professional massage and lots of surf swimming. The Hawaiian Sugar Planters Assn. explained that the strike resulted in lowering the purity of cane juices. Because the juices contained less sucrose, more of the non-sucrose content was available for processing into molasses. The water surface of the Indian Ocean is 28,356,000 square miles.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDREW C. LANG AP Newsfeatures

Did you sell your home in 1958? Uncle Sam wants to know about it — by April 15 at the latest. That is, unless you sold the house at a loss, in which case you can forget about it. Such a loss is not recognized by the tax law and therefore can not be deducted. But if you sold the house at a gain, a much more likely circumstance these days, you may have some income tax figuring to do. If you bought another house at a higher price than the selling price of the old one (or equal to it), you need pay no capital-gains tax on the transactions. To be in this no-tax category, you must purchase the new residence and occupy it within one year before or after the sale of the old one. You get 18 months to occupy the new house if construction of it was started within the one-year period. If you bought another home at a lower price than the selling price of the old one, you must pay a tax. This tax is computed by deducting the cost of the new house from the adjusted sales price of the old one. The balance is the taxable amount. The adjusted sales prices, by the way, is the contract price minus the selling expenses, minus whatever you spent on permanent improvements and minus any repairs made to facilitate the deal. Such repairs (painting is included) must have been made within 90 days prior to the date of the sale and paid for within 30 days after the sale. Since it is the type of buy-and-sell transaction discussed in the foregoing paragraph which causes the most trouble at income tax time, let's look at an example of how it works. John Smith sells a house for $16,000 for which he paid $12,000. The selling expenses come to $800. He spent $600 on permanent improvements and $400 to put the house in shape to attract a buyer. Deduct $1,800 from $16,000 and you have the adjusted sales price of $14,200. If he did not buy another house within one year, John Smith would have to pay a tax on his gain of $2,200. But he did buy another house — for $13,500. Therefore, he pays a tax on only $700 — the difference between the adjusted sales price and the cost of the new house. There is one important exception to the above. If the difference between the adjusted sales price

Find Immunity In Hardy Divers HONOLULU (AP) — Boys who dive for coins tossed from arriving ocean liners by tourists apparently have built up an immunity to disease from polluted water. The territory's sanitation board says Honolulu's harbor is so polluted that it doesn't even bother to take readings. PRELIMINARIES TOKYO (AP) — Tokyo newspapers today reported that Japan has started preliminary negotiations to restore diplomatic relations with Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria. and the cost of the new house is more than the profit made on the old house, then the tax is paid on the profit alone. This would have happened, for instance, if John Smith paid less than $12,000 for his second house. The taxable amount then would be $2,200, the profit made on the sale.

For Many, Top Tax Savings Are In Exemptions

Editor's Note
For many taxpayers, exemptions represent the heaviest savings they can make in filing their federal returns. This article, third of a series on the income tax, tells you about the various exemptions you may claim.

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every exemption you can justify claim— in filing your 1958 income tax return—means $500 knocked off your income before the remainder can be taxed.

You may also save money by knowing the different rules covering not only husbands and wives but certain widows and widowers and persons who can qualify as "head of household."

Start with husbands and wives: Each person filing a return gets a $600 exemption for himself if he is under 65, $1,200 if he's over 61, and another $600 if he's blind. He gets the same exemptions for his wife if she fits certain rules.

You can claim her exemptions, in addition to your own, if she had no income and you alone file a return or if she files jointly with you, whether or not she had income.

Your wife must file a return—either separately or jointly with you—if she was under 65 and had $600 income, or $1,200 if she was over 65.

If she files separately, she claims her own exemption on her return and you can't claim any exemption for her on your return.

Hereafter, to avoid repetition about age, we'll talk about people under 65. No one, of course, who had under $600 income has to file a return at all. The same goes for a wife with less than $600 income.

But there's a special rule on wives. If your wife had income, no matter how small, but doesn't file jointly with you, you can't claim the $600 exemption for her. Ordinarily a husband and wife save by filing jointly because of the split method of figuring tax on a joint return.

If you got married any time in 1958—even as late as Dec. 31—you can claim the exemption for your wife, provided she meets the requirements listed above.

If your wife died anytime in 1958 and had no income—and if you didn't remarry during the year—you can still claim an exemption for her on your return.

If she died during 1958 and did have income—and if you didn't remarry during the year—you can file a joint return, reporting her income and yours and claiming exemptions for her and yourself.

If you were divorced or legally separated from your wife at the end of the year you may not claim her as an exemption even though you provided more than half her support in 1958.

Certain widows and widowers: If your wife (or husband) died in 1958 or 1957 you get a tax break—by being allowed to figure your tax in Schedule Two, page 15 of the Form 1040 instruction sheet, which is the same method used by couples filing jointly—provided you fit these rules:

Your wife must have died in 1956 or 1957; you must have been entitled to file a joint return with her for the year in which she died; you have not remarried; you furnish over half the maintenance of your home which, except for temporary absences, is the principal abode of your child or stepchild for whom you claim an exemption.

If you meet these requirements, figure your tax by including only your income, exemptions, or deductions—no exemption for your deceased spouse. Use tax Schedule Two on page 15 of the Form 1040 instruction sheet or the tax table on page 16 to find your tax rate.

Head of household: If you qualify as "head of household" you get a lower tax rate than if you filed as a single person. You use Schedule 3, page 15, of the instruction sheet, or the tax table, page 16.

You must have been unmarried (or legally separated) as of Dec. 31, 1958; and you must have provided more than half the cost of maintaining a household for the entire year for at least one other person who is related to you. The test varies with the relationship to the other person.

If that person was your mother (or father) she must qualify as your dependent. And you must have maintained a home for her, either in your house or some- where else, note: Paying for a parent in a home for the aged is not maintaining a household for her.

If the relative for whom you maintained a household is your unmarried child, grandchild, or stepchild, that child must have lived under the same roof with you, although your child doesn't have to qualify as your dependent. All other relatives must live with you and qualify as dependents.

(Tomorrow: Claiming exemptions for dependents)

Agree Some Textile Quota Plan Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department agrees in general with a proposal that a quota system be established for textile imports.

Commerce Secretary Lewis L. Strauss also has endorsed some other recommendations of a special Senate subcommittee which investigated the textile industry.

Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.), chairman of the subcommittee, has released a letter from Strauss in which the secretary approves the general objectives of the group's proposals.

Strauss goes along with recommendations for establishment of a management-labor advisory committee, and of a government-industry committee for textile research.

The secretary wrote that the proposed elimination of different domestic and foreign pricing systems for raw cotton would have to be done under the lead of the Agriculture Department.

"We are favorably disposed toward the establishment of a textile interagency committee and asking the various departments and agencies that may be interested to nominate representatives to serve on this group," Strauss said.

There also is a definite need, he said, for revision of the scope and character of statistics collected by his department covering the textile industry.

"With regard to the recommendation of a series of quotas be established to regulate imports of textile products," Strauss wrote,

"I am sure that the committee is aware that the President cannot establish quotas except on the basis of findings in accordance with procedures set forth in the Trade Agreements Act."

Strauss said he is chairman of the Trade Policy Committee, comprised of heads of departments and agencies concerned with foreign trade, and that this group naturally would look to the proposed textile interagency committee for views and recommendations whenever foreign trade matters relating to textiles come up.

He noted the secretary of agriculture recently had presented the administration's agricultural program to congress and said:

"Our only comment on the recommendation to eliminate the two-price system on cotton is that we hope this objective can be achieved through an agricultural program that will eliminate a domestic price-support program so that cotton grown in the United States can compete on a fair basis in the world market."

Urban Renewal Grant Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Urban Renewal Administration approved today a grant of $21,130 for a comprehensive plan for growth and development of Asheville, N.C.

The federal funds will be matched by local funds to finance planning involving aerial photography and mapping and to prepare a land-use plan for the area within the next 18 months.

The metropolitan planning board of the city and Buncombe County will prepare the plan under direction of John R. Hampton.

Four Children In Fiery House Die

GRANGER, Wash. (AP) — Flames raced through a frame house occupied by a Texas farm worker's family of 14 Wednesday night, killing four children.

Officers identified the victims as Maria Sandavol, 9, her sisters, Enedlis, 6, and Eva, 3, and a brother, Aleja, 4.

The father, Pedro Sandavol, 42, was hospitalized at nearby Sunnyside with burns but was reported in fair condition. He escaped with his nightclothes after rescuing some of his children.

Samona Sandavol, 38, the mother, and the other children escaped unharmed and were taken to a relative's home.

Teeners Given Driving Advice By The Experts

By EDWARD S. KITCH

CHICAGO (AP) — Is it possible to make a safe driver out of a teen?

Probably. Studies show that teen-agers who have had driver education have fewer than half the accidents of those who haven't had it.

The National Safety Council has launched a safety sermon to save the 14 to 20 crowd from young drivers who are victims of their own enthusiasm and recklessness. Its booklet lectures them on traffic behavior.

The safe driving tips in the booklet come from professional drivers like the state patrolman, test track drivers and truckers.

Here's some of the advice the pros offer:

1. Don't show off or clown behind the wheel.

2. Have cuts enough behind the wheel to chicken out when common sense tells you it's time to give in. Never mind who's right. Be smart — stay alive!

3. The public highway is for sharing, not competing.

4. The squeal of tires and roar of the exhaust may sound like hot stuff to a driver who needs it to build up his ego. But it tags him as strictly an amateur.

5. The pro gives in to bad weather, bad roads and traffic jams by slowing down.

6. Would your coach send in a player who had been drinking? Well, it goes double for driving. Remember — a half-loaded driver is more dangerous than a loaded gun.

7. Set a personal example behind the wheel that will influence others — especially those who are younger than you — to regard courteous, skillful, mature driving as smart instead of sissy and show-off driving as dopey instead of daring.

8. Help bring about — and accept — rigid enforcement of traffic laws on the school campus by your own student traffic court, or by your student council.

Run Over By His Own Car, Killed

SHELBY, N. C. (AP) — Thomas L. Cilley Jr., a Hickory High School senior, was run over and killed by his own convertible following a collision near here Wednesday night.

Officers said Cilley drove through a stop sign at the intersection of State Routes 180 and 150, struck another auto and was hurled in front of his convertible. The vehicle rolled over the 18-year-old youth before veering off the highway and down a shallow embankment.

A Hickory girl who was riding with Cilley, Miss Martha Jean Ruff, 19, suffered bruises and lacerations.

The driver of the other car, David H. McCrackan, 38, of Ruthersfordton, told officers: "He came right on through there and I didn't have time to stop." No charges were filed against McCrackan, who escaped injury.

March Is Writing The Close To Many Recession Statistics

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — March is writing the last of the recession of many official statistics — such as industrial output—and pointing toward new records.

It undoubtedly is setting new highs in others such as personal income totals.

And with each lengthening day comes more hope that soon there will be easing in the worst bugaboo, the total of the jobless. For outdoor jobs will be opening up now—if the still laid-off factory worker has the skill and the knowledge to find them.

The prospect is bright. Only an occasional sourpuss wonders if some of the activity isn't more like a fever chart than plain healthy growth.

That March is wiping out the recession's last mark in total industrial output can be assumed from these things:

1. In February the Federal Reserve Board's index was up to 144 per cent of the 1947-49 average, only one point under the pre-recession figure of August 1957, and two points below the record high set just two years before.

2. This month increased activity along many lines all but assures a further advance. Steel mills are setting new tonnage records week by week. Demand for copper exceeds the supply. Aluminum companies report an encouraging jump in demand in recent weeks. Rubber consumption by factories is in a sharp rise. Some railroads are reporting increased freight traffic.

3. Spurred by fears of summer strikes, company after company is laying in inventories. The only way the Federal Reserve industrial output index can go in March is up.

That the total of personal income will set a new record this month—despite the number of unemployed—seems just as sure.

The Commerce Department reports that in February the annual rate hit a peak of 364½ billion dollars. This topped the year ago figure by 17 billion dollars. At that time it was the low for the recession.

Increased industrial activity this month—and the slow but steady climb in wage scales—means that the total of wages and salaries will continue to rise.

Why then should some consider all this pleasant news as not entirely as glittering as it seems?

Part of the rise in incomes will be siphoned away by rising taxes at many local and state levels.

And while it is hoped that retail prices will stay fairly steady for a while yet, the slow but sure rise in the cost of services—medical, personal, public transportation and the like—is set to continue. That will whittle away some more of the income gain and leave many persons right where they were.

Also it can't be ignored that much of the industrial activity is more in fear than in hope. The fear is of major strikes this summer in the various metal industries. They could bring on shortages and later on higher material costs. That's why businessmen are building up stocks.

When they're built high enough, orders may dwindle. The summer lull could be a bit more pronounced than usual.

Wants Congress To Back Court On School Rulings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) said yesterday called the Douglas bill a "viciously anti-Southern" measure rooted in conquered province philosophy.

Douglas said the bill would, first "declare and accept federal legal and moral responsibility for implementing the constitutional requirement of desegregation."

Secondly, the bill would provide federal technical and financial assistance to states and local communities integrating their schools.

If efforts at persuasion fail, the bill provides machinery under which federal integration plans could be drawn up and enforced through court orders.

The other key section of the bill would permit the attorney general to file injunction suits on behalf of individuals to protect civil rights generally and to enforce school integration.

Traveling the highways of the world are many Cadillac cars that have covered a million miles or more! Most motorists, of course, relinquish ownership before one tenth of that distance has accumulated. However, it is a constant source of satisfaction to know that a Cadillac could—if you demanded it—carry you so far as easily. Why not visit your dealer and let the 1959 Cadillac speak for itself—it's a wonderful story told in silence!

Five State Beauties To Take Part In Azalea Festival

Space Display To Be Featured In Engineers Show

DURHAM. — A space display, including a full-size model of the Vanguard satellite, will be among major attractions at Duke University's annual Engineering Show Friday and Saturday, March 20-21.

The display also will contain models of 31 missiles now in use by the United States Government.

There will be models of satellite vehicles, pilotless bombers and anti-aircraft, inter-continental ballistic and underwater missiles, according to John W. Edwards of Burlington, general chairman for the show and a senior in electrical engineering.

In addition, the display will have one space suit borrowed from the U.S. Navy. It will illustrate how man will be clothed for future travel in outer space.

A number of other exhibits also have been prepared for the show which is expected to attract thousands of spectators, as has been the case in past years. Visitors habitually include many school pupils from Piedmont North Carolina and adjacent states.

Among the other exhibits will be a complete television studio where visitors can get an intimate, behind-the-scenes look at how programs are telecast. The studio will use cameras, monitors, receivers, microphones, a director, actual performers and other equipment and personnel. Spectators can observe studio operations and, simultaneously, see what is being telecast.

Another exhibit will be electronic surveying instruments which can measure accurately at distances up to 30 miles away with a maximum error of two inches. This equipment will be demonstrated and explained.

The automotive minded among spectators probably will be particularly interested in a demonstration of the operation of an air glide car, a new development. The vehicles operate in this manner: jets of air, forced down under the cars, cause them to glide along the highway or ground without touching these surfaces.

Visitors desiring a break in viewing exhibits may watch free color television in the College of Engineering Library, obtain food and soft drinks at a snack bar or watch movies on engineering subjects in the Engineering Auditorium.

WILMINGTON, N.C. — Five state beauties will take part in the 1959 Azalea Festival.

Beauty queens from neighboring states will join Miss North Carolina in the court of Queen Azalea XII.

Betty Lane Evans, Miss N.C., will be the maid of honor.

BETTY LANE EVANS
... Miss N. C.

Plantation princesses will be: Jeannette Ardel, Miss Georgia; Patricia Eaves, Miss Tennessee; Barbara Guthrie, Miss Virginia; and Gene Wilson, Miss South Carolina.

The state representatives will participate in the coronation pageants, parade and many other events on the four-day festival program on April 2-5. They will be escorted by U.S. Navy Academy midshipmen from their home states.

Miss N.C. is 19 and lives in Greenville. She is a 1958 graduate of Greenville high school, where she was a member of the glee club, a majorette and a member of the student council. She sings and plays the piano and organ. Her hobbies are swimming, riding, dancing, water skiing and collecting stuffed animals. She is the daughter of Mr. and Amos J. Evans.

Miss Georgia, 19, is a sophomore at the University of Georgia, Athens. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ardel of Marietta. She attended high school in Marietta, where she was a class officer, essay winner, cheerleader, 4-H leader and national talent winner, and a member of the annual staff. Miss Georgia was named the best dressed contestant at the Atlantic City pageant and was runner-up in the boardwalk parade there. At college, where she is majoring in art, she is secretary of the Independent Women and was elected as the fifth most popular girl at the university. Her hobbies are archery (she was national girls champion) swimming and sewing.

Miss Tennessee, also 19, is a sophomore at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Eaves of Cookeville, Tenn. In high school she was a majorette, class officer, a member of the basketball team and annual editor. In college she is a member of Sigma Kappa Sorority, a majorette and honorary captain of the USAF ROTC Drum and Bugle Corps. She is majoring in bacteriology. Her hobbies are dancing, riding, skiing, swimming, golf, bowling, cooking, needlework, bridge, hunting and fishing, and music.

Virginia's beauty queen is 20 and is attending the University of Florida, Gainesville. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Guthrie of Martinsville, Va. In high school she was on the staff of the school paper and annual and held office in a number of clubs. At U. of Fla. she is a member of Kappa Delta Sorority, the sorority tennis and swimming teams, a reporter for the campus paper and a cheerleader. Her hobbies are riding, swimming, tennis, modeling, cooking, collecting jazz records and dancing. She is a church counselor for girls, was official hostess at the Daytona Beach speed week in 1958 and queen of the Engineering Ball at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Miss South Carolina is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Wilson of Charleston. She is a freshman at Converse College in Spartanburg and is majoring in voice performance. Her hobbies are her Miss S.C. scrapbook and a collection of souvenirs from her travels as state beauty queen. She received a Miss American scholarship for the most talented classical or semi-classical singer at the Atlantic City pageant.

Ribbons Presented To Science Fair Winners

By BARBARA PARKER
Belvoir-Falkland Reporter

Nine blue ribbons and six red ribbons were presented to Belvoir-Falkland High School students who had winning entries in the school's recent annual Science Fair.

More than 90 students participated in the Fair with entries in chemistry, general science and biology divisions. The entries were judged by Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, supervisor for the Pitt County Board of Education; Dr. Lyle Plymale of the East Carolina College Science Department; and BFHS Principal Ed Warren.

Blue ribbon winners in the chemistry division were Marie Harrell, J. R. Waters and Bobby Garris, with Annie Mae Everette receiving a red ribbon.

General science students who won awards included Butch Baker, who received a blue ribbon, and Milton Elks, who was presented a red ribbon.

Top-ranking students in the Biology division who took blue ribbons were Alvin Peaden, Jake Garris, Betty Harrell, Betty Bullock and John David Stalls. Red ribbon winners in the division were Mac Jones, Wayne Nelson, Carolyn Harris and Joan Harris.

Five of the winners will enter their projects in the District Science Fair, scheduled for April 3 at East Carolina College. The entrants and their projects are John David Stalls, an ant colony; Jake Garris, a greenhouse; Butch Baker, a display depicting "Principal Parts of the Electric Motor"; Carolyn Harris, miniature Bonsai trees; and Alvin Peaden, insects in plastic.

Mrs. Mary Featherston, BFHS science teacher, was advisor for each of the projects.

Two blue ribbons and two red ribbons were awarded for each grade in Falkland Elementary School's Science Fair, held last Thursday.

Winners and their projects included:

Fourth grade: (blue ribbons) Troy Langston, hot dog cooker, and John Price, prehistoric animals; (red ribbons) Ellen Baker, display of cloud types, and Charles Harris, chart on products of North Carolina.

Fifth grade: (blue ribbons) Carolyn Beaman, cross section of a tooth, and Julian Little, stuffed flicker; (red ribbons) Charles Mayo, weather vane, and Eric Little, collection of garden seeds.

Sixth grade: (blue ribbons) Johnny Baker, the planets and their orbits, and Ruel Tye, model of a cave, showing stalactites and stalagmites; (red ribbons) Maxine Allen, ant colony, and Gene Westbrook, birds of Pitt County.

Seventh grade: (blue ribbons) Roger Phillips, respiration in a plant, and Linda McLawhorn, jagoon; (red ribbons) Billy Cobb, lamp and hot plate.

Eighth grade: (blue ribbons) Paul Bright, homemade car, Mary Pollard, soap-making, and Ann Proctor, a dinosaur; (red ribbons) Larry Cobb, lamp, and Sue Pierce, products of coal.

The blue ribbon winners will enter their projects in the Pitt County Science Fair, to be held March 24 through April 3. Paul Bright, in addition, will represent Falkland Elementary School in the district Science Fair at East Carolina College.

Judging of the Falkland Elementary School Science Fair entries was by Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Featherston.

The 'Old Corps' Not Like This

Air conditioned classrooms have been installed in three battalions at this Marine recruit depot, which is well known for its torrid, sticky summer days.

It's part of the depot's so-called new look program, a far cry from the days of the "old corps."

THESE CHECK ROWS TELL THE STORY!

Protect peanut acreage with nematode-killing Nemagon SOIL FUMIGANT

The check rows above show the actual damage root-attacking nematodes can inflict on a peanut crop. Spotty stands, sparse growth, wilted foliage... typical signs of nematode damage. That's why it pays to knock out nematodes with powerful Nemagon Soil Fumigant.

Nemagon Soil Fumigant is easy to apply. As a liquid, inject it directly into the soil with pressure-feed or gravity-flow tractor attachment. Or, apply it as granules or use a fertilizer mix and save the bother and expense of separate applications. Economical, too, one nematode-killing application protects from planting to harvest and the initial cost is returned many times over in bigger yields of better quality peanuts.

This season, knock out nematodes with powerful Nemagon Soil Fumigant. It is available from your pesticide dealer. For further information, see him today or write to:

Mallory Predicts Interesting Year Ahead

Bucs Have Depth Lack Experience

By JOHNNY HUDSON Coach Jim Mallory started practice for his sixth season of baseball at East Carolina College about a month ago and with the opening game less than a week away, the head coach still doesn't know what to expect from his 1959 club. East Carolina lost no less than eight veterans from the 1958 club which posted a 10-3 conference mark and lost the title in the final game of the season. Many new faces will appear in this year's lineup and Mallory is reluctant to comment too much.

second base and Mallory has high praise for his "little leader." "He (Vaughn) is the best glove man that I have ever coached. His hitting has been much better this spring and when Vaughn is in there it is like having a coach on the field. He plays heads up ball at all times and has plenty of ability," praises the ECC coach. Spencer Gaylord is behind Vaughn at second base. Gaylord is a freshman with a pair of quick hands and should be ready to step in next season. The starting job at third base has been a scramble but Bob Hart and Donnie Warren have emerged with the inside track. Warren, a Leaksville native, recently had an appendix operation and has been out of action for several weeks. He may not be ready for duty until the Carolina game. Hart is also a freshman but has a couple years of service ball behind him so should not suffer from lack of experience. Several other freshmen are still in contention for the vacated spot but may be a couple of years away. Shortstop is another spot with plenty of competition. Glenn Bass, football halfback, saw a little action last year and has been the top man thus far. "Bass has plenty of speed and is a good fielder," according to Mallory. Bob Watkins and Hubert Castelow are also in the running. Watkins is labeled as "a much improved player" while Castelow, a lanky 6-3 freshman, has been tearing the ECC camp up with his hitting. The latter may be a sleeper at this spot. Tommy Nance and Bill Altman return to man two of the outfield spots and Bob McElise has been looking good at the other spot. Nance has been the club's leader in runs batted in and homers for the past two seasons. A converted catcher, Nance batted 260 last spring. Altman was erratic with the bat last season, batting only .111, but was an outstanding defensive centerfielder and has the ability to hit the long ball. McElise is a freshman and hails from Washington, D.C. His speed and throwing arm may give him an opportunity in the starting lineup, but Bob Gilden, Wally Cockrell, and Gary Pierce have been breathing down his back. Cockrell was a member of the 1958 club but did not play last season. Doug Watts is expected to replace All-Conference catcher Marion Talton. Watts has been on the club for four years and is a top defensive man. He has shown ability in handling the pitchers

DANNY PARKERSON

... Former Greemie

Danny Parkerson, former student at the Greenville schools, has accepted a football scholarship to the University of Richmond. Parkerson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Parkerson of Bartow, Fla. He is a student at the Summerlin Institute. Charlie Heath, University of Richmond scout, made the announcement of his accepting the scholarship with the Spiders recently. This football center weighs 218 lbs., stands 6' 3 1/2" tall. He is 17 years old and played basketball on the All State Team last season. Mrs. Mattie E. Parkerson of 1511 Dickinson Ave. is his grandmother.

Young Team To Open For Rose High Friday

Coach Bo Farley and his 1959 baseball club will open a 16 game schedule tomorrow afternoon when they journey to Wilson for a tilt with the AAA Club. Farley directed the Phantoms to a 11-3 mark last season and a second place finish in the North-eastern loop, but the veteran coach is faced with troubles this season with only five lettermen back and one of these will be a doubtful starter. Joe Moya, a converted outfielder, has moved to first base to strengthen the infield this season. Bill Cox, chunky shortstop, is back for his final year and the other two lettermen belong to the pitching staff which should be the club's strong point. Merrill Bynum and Ronnie Finch are back to give Farley a couple of reliable starters. Farley, well satisfied with his ace pitchers, is also hoping to find help from the JV squad. A third starter is needed or at least a relief pitcher. The other letterman, Randy Bass, is a doubtful starter this season. Bass, a second-baseman, received a knee injury early this spring and Farley stated yesterday morning that it was uncertain whether Bass would play at all this season.

New faces will don in the lineup tomorrow afternoon when the Greemies make their debut. Farley plans to start Larry Roberts, Reggie Johnson, and Steve Noble in the outfield. Noble is a senior but this is his first season on the baseball diamond as he has completed in track in previous years. Alan McArthur, a freshman, will get the call at third base and Billy Jones will start at second. Aubrey Harrison will open at the catching slot. Rose High will meet Wilson again next week before opening their conference play. Farley feels that the two games will be an opportunity for his young club to gain some experience. Kinston is the defending champions in the conference but lost some valuable men by graduation and this year's race could turn into a wild scramble. Farley rates Elizabeth City as a "sleeper". They have some real good pitchers," says Farley. Local fans will get their first glimpse of the Greenville club Monday afternoon when they meet Wilson here. They open their conference slate March 26th at Washington.

Cards Have New Coach And Spirit

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Solly Hemus doesn't underestimate the task confronting him in his first season as a big league manager but he firmly believes he can lift the St. Louis Cardinals out of the second division. The major's youngest and newest pilot, is an optimist at heart. He thinks his club can go all the way if it can come up with a hard-hitting right fielder, and if two or three of the young pitchers carry their impressive exhibition work into the regular season. "It's a pretty good ball club," he said, "better than most people realize." The scrappy little pilot singled out several youngsters who he believes will make a contender out of the Redbirds. "Barring a complete reversal of form," he said, "three of our young pitchers — Ernie Broglio, Gary Blaylock and Bob Ginson — have earned a place on the staff. Broglio will be a starter along with Sam Jones, Larry Jackson and Vinegar Bend Mizell. "Chuck Essigian, whom we acquired from Philadelphia, is in line for a shot at the regular right field job although Bobby Gene Smith, Curt Flood, Gene Liver and Ellis Burton are still in the running." The biggest surprise in camp, however, is Julio Gotay, a 19-year-old Puerto Rican, who had had only two years of professional experience and last year played with Winnipeg of the Class C Northern League. The unheralded youngster has made such a fine impression at shortstop that Hemus has tabbed him as the one to beat for the regular job. "So far he's made all the plays," said Solly. "He has good power, a strong arm and he can run." With the exception of right field and shortstop, Hemus has his opening lineup all set. He listed it as follows: Don Blasingame, 2b; Gino Cimoli, cf; Stan Musial, lf; Ken Boyer, 3b; Joe Cunningham, 1b; Gene Green, c; and possible Jones, p. Next — Detroit Tigers

NUMBER TWO... Bill Hollowell will be one of ECC's returning stars when they open the season tomorrow afternoon.

West Leads Bucs As Tennis Season Gets Underway

East Carolina College's tennis team will make their debut tomorrow when they journey to Lynchburg, Va. for a match with Lynchburg College. The defending North State champions have a veteran club with only North State singles champion Maurice Everette missing. Everette capped the singles championship for two consecutive years and was ECC's number one man for four years. Everette, a Robersonville native, has been serving as coach of the club in place of Ray Martinez who is at the NAIA Swim Meet. Martinez is expected to return to the courts next week as the Bucs prepare to defend their crown. John West, fiery Durham junior, will open as the club's number one man this season. West has been second only to Everette in the past two years and was able to beat the conference champ several times in the latter part of last spring. Bill Hollowell and John Savage are also a couple of returning stars who helped ECC boast their finest season in 1958.

Cardinals Have New Playing Site

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cardinals have a new home base — huge Soldier Field. They will be leaving Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox, for the first time since 1940. A five-year lease on Soldier Field was signed Wednesday by Walter Wolfner, managing director of the National Football League club, and James Gately, president of the Chicago Park District. Rental will be 10 per cent of the gross revenue. The Cards also eventually will pay $120,000 it will cost to revamp the arena, including portable bleachers, for a snug seating capacity of 52,000.

Local Golfers Present Slate

On Friday, March 20th, a dinner to celebrate the Thirty-Sixth Anniversary of the Greenville Golf and Country Club and to honor the Past President, Secretaries, Golf Champions and current Board of Governors will be held at the Club. Golf Professional Harold Thomas and Greenskeeper Clem Stewart will also be guests. Organized in March 1923 with 106 members and starting with a one hole course, a second nine has been built, a spacious clubhouse, Pro-Shop and Locker Room Building, a wading pool for children and an official size swimming pool and has grown in membership to over 350. A new brick house was recently completed for the Club Professional and the house formerly occupied by him is now the home for the Greenskeeper. David W. Mosier of Television Station WNCN has been the President of the Club since 1955. Mr. Howard Waldrop is the Vice-President and James E. Phelps is Secretary-Treasurer. The Board of Governors is comprised of David W. Mosier, Dr. Dan Wright, Wm. J. Davenport, Floyd F. Hendrix, Henry E. Coleman, W. S. Mobe Jr., Chas. Gaskins, Erel Webb, John T. Marston and S. Reynolds May. The Eastern Carolina Golf Matches are as follows: March 25th Fayetteville at Greenville; April 1 Rocky Mount at Greenville; April 8th Greenville at Rocky Mount; April 15th Kinston at Greenville; April 22nd Greenville at Kinston; April 29th Wilson at Greenville; May 6th Greenville at Wilson; May 13th Greenville at Raleigh; May 20th Raleigh at Greenville; May 27th is set aside to make up postponed games and on June 3rd The E.C.G.A. One Day Tournament will be held in Fayetteville at the Highland Country Club. Tee-Off time for matches played in Greenville is at 1 p.m. A buffet will be served for local and visiting members at 12:00 noon prior to the matches and there will be a Social Hour following the matches at 5 p.m.

Azalea Crown

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Golfers set their sights on the Azalea Invitation crown as qualifying began today in the 14th annual tournament. A second qualifying round follows tomorrow over the Country Club of Charleston course in the 72-hole medal play competition. A North Carolinian, Charlie Smith of Gastonia, is defending champion. Willie Marshall of Hershey, Pa., with 11 three-goal games in his American Hockey League career, has the most "hat tricks" of any active player. He is only one away from the all-time record of 12, set long ago by the retired Phil Hergesheimer.

Louisville May Be Good Host For NCAA

By DON WEISS Associated Press Sports Writer LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Take a hot team like Louisville, blend in a heaping portion of home court advantage and you have the probable favorite in the NCAA basketball championships at Freedom Hall here Friday and Saturday. Or do you? Coach Pete Newell of California's Pacific Coast Conference champions—for one— isn't buying the Louisville advantage. "In a tournament like this," Newell said today, "a home team doesn't have nearly the advantage it has for a regular season game. "For one thing, the men officiating the games all are from different sections of the country. The rules sometimes are interpreted differently and whatever advantage a team might have would tend to be minimized." "For another," Newell added, "with a tournament like this, the folks are here to see the championship decided—not to root solely for the home team."

need a day to get back to normal," Newell said. The next question was inevitable and Newell was ready. "What about Robertson?" "We've been very good on defense all season (the Bears ranked No. 1 nationally) and I don't think this is any time to concoct anything strange or novel. We know we aren't going to shut him out—but we have an idea we can minimize him." The first winner of Pimlico's Preakness, Surefoot in 1873, received a purse of $1,800. The colt which wins the 83rd running of the Preakness at the Baltimore track next May 16 is expected to get $127,500 from a gross pot of about $180,000. Syracuse University's Athlete of the Year for 1959 is Chuck Zimmerman, home-grown quarterback of the Orange football team.

Bradley Meets NYU In Tourney

DURHAM (AP) — The University of Texas has "a real good situation" for a basketball coach, says Duke University's Hal Bradley. But the Blue Devil coach isn't commenting on whether he would take the job. "It may be sometime before I have anything at all to say," Bradley told newsmen Wednesday night. He had just returned from a vacation. Bradley did say, however that "Texas is down now and so there is a great chance for improvement."

North Staters Receive Honorable Mention

By TED MEIER
AP Basketball Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Barnett, of Tennessee A&I State, and Hugh Ahlring, of Evansville, who led their teams to the NAIA and Small College NCAA championships were named on the 1959 Little All-America college basketball team today by the Associated Press.

Picked on the first team, along with the two most valuable players in their respective tournaments, were Paul Wilcox of Davis-Elkins (W.Va.), Chuck Curtis of Pacific Lutheran and Charles Sharp of Southwest Texas.

Barnett, making the Little All-America for the second straight year, is a senior. So are Ahlring and Curtis. Wilcox and Sharp are juniors.

The team was picked on the basis of recommendations from sportswriters and radio-TV broadcasters from every section of the country.

Mel Peterson of Wheaton, a 1958 Little All-America, Little 5-9 Tony Nicodemus of St. Michaels (VI); Jack Israel of Southwest Missouri; Barnett's teammate, John Barnhill, and Vern Bagenstoss of St. Cloud (Minn.), who made the first team as a soph in 1957, were chosen as a second team.

Completing the squad of 15, all of whom will receive certificates from The Associated Press, were Jim McDonald of West Virginia; Wesley A. Ed Kazakovich of Scranton; Kelly Coleman of Kentucky Wesleyan; Marv Bachmeier of North Dakota Aggies and Paul Benes of Hope. They were classified as the third team.

The honorable mention list was topped by Herb Lake of Youngstown; Joe Cotton of North Carolina A&T; Leo Hill of Los Angeles State; Jackie Moreland of Louisiana Tech and Ed Smallwood of Evansville.

Barnett, a 6-3 sharpshooter from Gary, Ind., has scored more than 3,000 points in his career and sparked Tennessee State to an unprecedented third straight NAIA title.

Ahlring led Evansville to the Small College NCAA crown.

Wilcox, a native of Pittsburgh, won the individual regular season scoring titles in both the NCAA and NAIA. Curtin, the highest scorer ever at Pacific Lutheran, led the Lutes to their fifth straight Evergreen Conference title and to the final in the NAIA tourney where they lost to Tenn. State.

Sharp, a hook-shot specialist, led Southwest Texas to the Lone Star Conference championship and to the semifinals in the NAIA.

In addition to Cotton, other honorable mentions from the Carolinas were Danny Seawell of High Point, Swede Frauson of Western Carolina and Tommy Selari of Lenoir Rhyne.

Celtics Ready
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Boston Celtics have their eyes on the St. Louis Hawks and Minneapolis Lakers. One of these most likely will be their opposition for the National Basketball Assn. championship.

The Celtics served notice Wednesday night that they fully intend to defend their Eastern crown as they swamped the Syracuse Nats, 131-109 in the first game of the Eastern division final playoff.

And the Lakers eliminated Detroit in the Western division best-of-three semifinals with a 129-102 lacing. They will meet St. Louis in the first game for the division title Saturday night. Both division finals are best-of-seven affairs.

Bob Cousy's playmaking and the rebounding of Bill Russell, spearheaded the Boston offense, but Syracuse's George Yardley led all scorers with 30 points. Tommy Heinsohn led Boston scorers with 28 points.

Late in the third period at Minneapolis, Bob Leonard sparked a Laker rally which broke a 77-77 deadlock and put the club ahead. High man for the night was Gene Shue of Detroit with 31. Elgin Baylor got 30 for the Lakers.

Lou Rossini of New York University has been named Coach-of-the-Year by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers Assn. of New York. This is the first time in eight years the writers have selected a local coach.

Red Sox Like Change In Training Sites

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's beginning to look as if the Boston Red Sox were right as rain when they forsok Florida for Arizona this spring.

The Red Sox ran their exhibition game record to 9-1 Wednesday with a 14-7 victory over Cleveland, while rain washed out the Florida training games for the third consecutive day.

True, the tendency is to discount baseball records compiled before opening day, but it is also the tendency for the sun to shine in Florida during late March.

If nothing else, the Red Sox must be giving American League managers in Florida something to think about between cancellations.

With only four teams training in Arizona, their records naturally are not as representative as those of the 12 Florida clubs who meet a wider variety of opponents.

The Red Sox victory breakdown shows 4 over the Indians, 3 over the San Francisco Giants and two over the Chicago Cubs. Only Cleveland has beaten the Sox, and the Tribe did it with the benefit of a ninth inning error.

Wednesday it was a case of too much Sox power. Rookie Pumpseed Green hit two homers and Dick Gernert and Billy Conso one apiece among 21 hits off four Indians' pitchers, including loser Cal McLish.

Rocky Colavito, the major league slugging leader in 1958, belted his fifth spring homer for the Indians.

At Phoenix, in the day's only other game, it also rained hits as San Francisco outgassed the Cubs 11-8. The Giants had 14 safeties, Chicago 13, including a homer by veteran Al Dark. The Giants trailed by five runs going into the seventh, but scored four times that inning and five times in the eighth.

Davey Moore Is Now Champion; Bassey Crushed

By PATRICK MCNULTY
LOS ANGELES (AP)—New world featherweight champion Davey Moore said today his next encounter will not be the promised rematch with ex-champ Hogan (Kid) Bassey, but with a set of inflamed tonsils.

"Those doggone tonsils almost cost me the chance at the title," said Moore who Wednesday night lifted the crown from the bloody but unbowed head of the well-muscled ex-champ from British Nigeria.

"Davey had a sore throat and a 101-degree temperature last Sunday," said his manager, Willie Ketchum. "I almost called off the fight."

But the sharpshooting Moore showed no signs of illness as he slashed Bassey's face into a grotesque, bloody mask before 10,129 wildly shouting fans in Olympic Auditorium.

After the 13th round Bassey's manager, George Biddies, shouted to referee Tommy Hart: "Stop the fight. My fighter has had it."

"I couldn't see. I couldn't see," Bassey yelled above the din. "The blood was running in my eyes."

Moore hopped gleefully across the ring, threw his arm about Bassey and shouted: "Well, it's like this, Hoag—you had that title and I wanted it, man."

"Yes, yes," said Bassey in his clipped British West African accent. "I could not continue. I could not do an impossibility."

It was the third time Bassey had been stopped on cut eyes. A rematch is slated within 90 days in Los Angeles. However, Moore's tonsil operation probably will delay the rematch. Then, too, Bassey's eye cuts may take longer than three months to heal.

Moore admitted he was a bit tense in the opening rounds. He looked it, too, as the strong and hard-socking Bassey blazed away with his murderous left hook.

In the third round Moore jabbed away at a cut over the champion's right eye.

"Get the eye. Get the eye," counseled manager Ketchum between rounds. And Moore did exactly that. By the seventh, the champion's face was a puddle of blood.

But kings die proudly and Bassey did not give up the title he won two years ago from Cherif Hamia without a battle. Boxing desperately, the African bombed away at the smooth moving Negro from Springfield, Ohio.

"He didn't shake me, but man can he hit," said Moore, who suffered a cut cheek.

Bassey picked up a guaranteed $45,000 plus television rights. Moore was guaranteed 20 per cent of the gate of $65,602.

Bradley Shows Slight Interest

NEW YORK (AP)—Top-seeded Bradley faces New York University in the first game of the National Invitation Tournament semifinals tonight. But look for the Providence Friars to hog the spotlight from these two giants when they meet St. John's (NY) in the windup.

The Bradley-NYU fracas appears to be the most evenly matched game so far. The experts around Madison Square Garden are picking NYU by four points.

St. John's is a four-point choice over the Rhode Island team that Tuesday knocked off second-seeded St. Louis in two overtimes and has captured the fancy of the New York fans.

"We know St. John's is tough—they beat us by 18 points in the second game of the season (73-55) down here," Providence Coach Joe Mullane said today. "But this time we're going to be ready for 'em."

NYU Coach Lou Rossini is making no bones about the fact that his club will have to be mentally ready for Bradley.

"We'll be coming out there with fire in our eyes," he promised. "We'll have to."

Bradley Coach Chuck Orsborn, who calls NYU "the best all-around team in the tourney" is banking on Bobby Joe Mason and Billy Joe McDade to offset the Violets big twosome of Cal Ramsey and Tom Sanders. This quartet is all over 6 feet four.

Tar Heel May Repeat As Champ

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—No clear favorite has emerged as 150 golfers begin play today in the first round of the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open championship.

They tee off on a course made soggy by four straight days of heavy rain. Most of the touring pros didn't even get in their accustomed practice rounds because of the weather.

Some observers pick Arnold Palmer, the defending champion from Latrobe, Pa., to repeat. Others picked Paul Harney's sizzling 19 under par in last week's Pensacola (Fla.) Open. Others like three of the hottest golfers on the tour this winter — Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa.; Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif.; and John McMullin of Fair Oaks, Calif.

Her Numbers Work In Rocket Design

By RALPH DIGHTON

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — To talk with Olga Taussky Todd about the thing she knows best you need at least four years of advanced study in an exotic language — the hieroglyphics of higher mathematics.

Dr. Todd, 52, is widely regarded as the outstanding woman mathematician in the United States. For 19 years a math consultant for the National Bureau of Standards in Washington, she came to the California Institute of Technology a year ago for special research in numbers.

That's right, just plain numbers, like 2 or 10 or 4,579,321. But she uses them in a special way — to help design airplanes and spacecrafts. Much of her work is classified as top secret.

You can talk to her husband, Prof. John Todd, on a more earthly level. He's a mathematician, too, but he teaches, and understands the limitations of average mortals.

Olga Todd also finds some time for teaching, but she starts with Ph.D.'s.

"I'm working with two youngsters now," she says, "who may turn out to be quite brilliant. I'm very fond of them."

You get the impression her fondness is that of an electronic computer for the baby computers at her feet. One mistake, the blip! Back they go to the laboratory to learn how to become good little computers.

She's Slender

The comparison isn't exactly fair. Olga Todd is human. She's slender and dark haired, and you wouldn't be able to tell her from the other women at the corner market — until she got to the cash register. She'd have the exact change laid out on the counter before the checker punched his first key.

Numbers have been Olga's life since the day she first succumbed to what she calls the "music of mathematics" as a schoolgirl in her home town, Olomouc, Czechoslovakia. She was 15 then.

Nine years later she won her Ph. D. at the University of Vienna.

Her father had died in the meantime and she spent her last year in school doing odd jobs to pay her way.

"I hated it then," she recalls, "but I'm very proud now that I had to do so some practical work. One job" — and here her nose wrinkles as she says it — "was testing for acidity at the local vinegar plant."

Olga met John Todd in 1937 while both were on the faculty of the University of London. A year later they married.

Then came World War II and the long grind of making certain — as scientists for the Ministry of Aircraft Production — that British planes would stand up against the Luftwaffe. Math is a basic part of airplane design.

Bombed Out

Olga and John moved 18 times during the war, from bombed out flat to bombed out flat. Finally even their furniture, which had been stored for safekeeping, was destroyed by a German V2 missile. The Todds, themselves unscathed, came to this country in 1948.

John Todd is Irish. He likes the feel of a tennis racket in his muscular hand and even now, at 48, plays often.

Olga has no form of recreation, except perhaps a little music now and then.

Separate Rooms

Most evenings the childless Todds can be found in separate rooms at their home, studying, grading papers, scribbling the symbols of algebra on page after page of thick tablets.

"I started out to be an engineer," Todd says, "and found math so tough I had to make a special effort to master it. Having done so, I stayed with it to teach others."

"My wife, however, has always had a genius for math," he says proudly. "She has had more than 60 papers published in scientific journals and contributed to the defense of two countries. She is doing something with her life, which is more than one can say of many of her sex."

Doggie With A Built-In Window

CHICAGO (AP) — Medical equipment engineers have built a model of a dog with a transparent plastic window that enables veterinarians to study the operation of a dog's lungs during artificial respiration with a small-animal resuscitator.

How much is the doggie with the window? It cost $100 to build, say engineers of Chemetron Corporation's National Cylinder Gas Division.

AN AGELESS ANSWER

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Women are women even in politics. Ten of the 100 members of the Colorado Legislature are women. Four of the 10 refused to fill in every blank on their biographical sketch sheets. The four omitted one blank, the same one . . . that asking their age.

Hunting Ground For Rich States

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina has become "a happy hunting ground for rich universities" seeking to hire distinguished teachers and researchers.

This was asserted Wednesday by W. D. Carmichael Jr., finance officer for the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Appealing for additional funds for salary increases, Carmichael told the Legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee "scarcely a week goes by that we aren't visited by a safari of carpetbaggers on a manhunt — from the North, the West, even from the South. This is when we begin to worry — when Southern universities raid our campuses."

The committee was asked to approve the addition of about 10 million dollars to the Consolidated University's proposed operating budget for the next two years. Of this, nearly four million would be for salary hikes at State College at Raleigh, the University at Chapel Hill, and Woman's College at Greensboro.

The committee was asked to add $7,297,740 to the Consolidated University's capital improvements program.

The Advisory Budget Commission cut about 17 million dollars from the consolidated University's original budget requests.

"The university administration," Friday said, "has taken the position that increased appropriation for the improvement of faculty salaries is the most urgent item in our (operating) budget."

Higher paying institutions hired 127 of the university's faculty members during the last biennium, said Carmichael. He added, "There are 43 more who have in their pockets attractive offers from other institutions."

Not Only Tilted, But It Exploded

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A pinball machine not only tilted but exploded when Earl Williams dropped his nickel in. Fifteen stitches were needed to close his wounds.

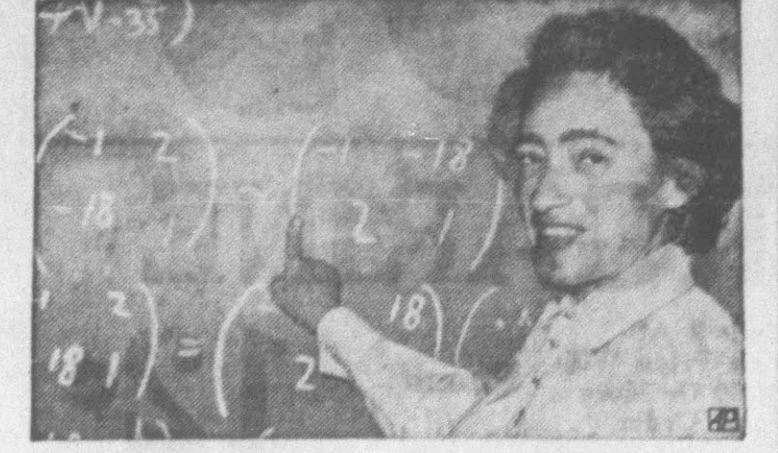

A car battery being recharged near the pinball machine filled it with hydrogen and sulphur fumes, officers explained. When Williams dropped in his coin and set off the machine's electrical current, a minor explosion resulted.

Winner, Loser At Slot Machine

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mrs. Harriet Hewitt was a winner and a loser simultaneously.

As she bent over to scoop up some nickels she had just won from a slot machine, someone stole her purse from atop the machine.

There was $100 in her handbag. She didn't say how much her pay-off was.

Music Festival Proved Good Music Available

By GEORGE E. PERRY

On all counts the American Music Festival presented last evening in Wright Auditorium was a real success. Furthermore, it served to demonstrate a premise of Phi Mu Alpha, the sponsoring fraternity, that there is good American music being written and performed to-day. As yet it hasn't had the chance to stand the test of time as has the music of Beethoven, Brahms, Wagner, and the rest of the "greats". But if the quality of American music, as evidenced last evening continues, it will last, as all of the best music of the past has done.

This was the first American Music Festival which has been held on the East Carolina Campus, and so all was not perfect. (Phi Mu did an all-American Christmas concert last year on Thursday, March 26, 1953 they sponsored an evening of American Music, but last evening's event was the first Festival.) These flaws will be mentioned later, but first look at the other side of it. There was much interesting music presented, which may be the chief compliment of the concert. James Parnell's "Chorale, Variations and Finale" received its world premier, masterfully performed by Jack Pindell, trombonist, with LaMarr Hadley handling the difficult piano score. While written in the modern idiom, this work was not void of consonance and repose. Form-wise it was well constructed, technically it displayed the combination of the two instruments to fine advantage, and in toto it seemed to rank well with many contemporary works which have had the good fortune of publication.

The East Carolina Concert Band performed three selections, playing each with the customary high calibre which has consistently marked its former Campus concerts. They began with a pre-concert bonus, a rousing rendition of "National Emblem March" by the American March King, John Philip Sousa, and later in the program played Clifton Williams' "Give "Pastorale" and Ralph Hermann's "Ballet for Young Americans." The first of these was in the vein of a tone-poem, and while I have heard the band play better, they certainly captured the crux of the climax in an admirable fashion. The "Ballet for Young Americans", an interesting work in five movements depicting in sound the hi-lights of a teen-ager, came off with flying colors. Whether it be the misty second movement, the picturesque third, the romantic fourth, the nostalgic fifth, or the sprightly opening, this opus was certainly convincingly performed.

Burrill Phillips "Prelude" for Brass Quartet was one of the more interesting selections on the program, as well as one of the best performed. This group, comprised of four college students, should be commended for their intelligent rendition of this difficult opus. Ann Darden, a sophomore gifted with a voice of great possibilities, sang Hovhaness' "Out of the Depths", sensitively accompanied by Geraldine Matthews. The Sigma Alpha Iota Women's chorus, also under Geraldine Matthews' direction, sang two selections, and I don't believe I have ever heard this group sing better. Both selections were notable for the interpretative nuances which were demonstrated, as well as for the blend and the diction. They further evidenced Miss Matthews' ability as a fine potential choral conductor.

Phi Mu Alpha, the sponsoring organization, sang eight selections under the inspired leadership of August Laube, and in each of these I feel the main point rested in the virility of tone which this group achieved. Whether it be "Think No More My Lad", which demonstrated the chorus' diction to fine advantage, or the "Ole Arks" a best blend they achieved, or the rustic humor in "All Day on the Prairie", this group seemed to sing with an inspiration unquestionably due to the presence of August Laube. Uncertainties were obvious in "This is My Country"; "Give

No Problems If Principles Ruled

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Former Congressman Brooks Hays says there would be no school integration problem in the South if "poverty, prejudice and intolerance" could be replaced by justice and belief in Christian principles.

Such principles, he said must underlie acceptance of integration. Hays declared, however, that Negroes will not yield on the integration issue "and we must begin doing things with them instead of for them."

Hays, addressing the North Carolina Education Assn's annual convention here Wednesday night, expressed strong opposition to public grants for private schools. "Private schools," he said, "should be supported privately. Education is not limited to the elite, but is a part of the Democratic ideal that all people are entitled to a complete and generous education... regardless of color."

Hays, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, added that "the governor of my state (Orval Faubus) would find millions throughout the South who disagree with his position that public education is expendable."

Hays' address featured the opening session of the three-day meeting for about 2,000 teachers. Another highlight was the naming of the late Dr. J. Y. Joyner to the North Carolina Educational Hall of Fame. Joyner, a native of Davidson County, was state superintendent of public instruction for 17 years.

He established the first state-wide system of teacher certification and also was responsible for the 1913 compulsory school attendance law.

Me Your Tired, Your Poor" lacked the intensity which had been present in rehearsals, and for some reason "On the Trail" didn't get across with the necessary spontaneity. "Listen to the Lambs", while not the best performed, seemed to grip the audience with its message to the point that they seemed reluctant to applaud after it was finished.

But the main point in question remains that the value of American Music was certainly furthered by last evening's performance. I do not suggest the exclusion of the accepted masterpieces, but rather that we continue to realize that even here, in a relatively new land, composers are turning our works which speak directly of America, in an idiom which is distinctly ours, and for whom and with whom we may share justifiable pride.

Faculty Member Discusses IGY

Purposes and achievements of the International Geophysical Year which closed last December 31, were reviewed in Robersonville Tuesday night by Floyd M. Read, Jr., faculty member of the department of science at East Carolina College. He was guest speaker at a meeting of the Ex Libris Book Club.

Mr. Read described the International Geophysical Year as an "all-out cooperative effort among nations to try to analyze the earth." The magnitude to the enterprise is shown, he said, by the fact that, though initial plans called for participation by 5,000 scientists throughout the world, eventually more than 30,000 were involved.

A concerted study of the Antarctic during the year, he stated, presented the possibility that two continents, instead of one, make up this area of the earth.

Mr. Read discussed various important discoveries in meteorology, oceanography, glaciology, and other fields of science.

A graduate of the University of Florida, Mr. Read holds the bachelor's and the master's degrees from the institution. He joined the East Carolina faculty as assistant professor of science in 1957. He teaches physical science and mineralogy.

Oilseeds are mostly used in manufacture of shortening and cooking oils, but also in soap, paints and printing inks.

CAN YOU BELIEVE IT?—Mrs. Elizabeth O'Neill (above), 56, looks like somebody's nice chimney corner grandmother, but police say she has confessed hundreds of petty thefts from Miami office buildings. She said foreigners get billions in aid from the United States, and so "this country owes me a bare living." (AP Wirephoto)

CHURCH BURNS, NURSING HOME THREATENED—Flame and smoke burst from windows, doors, roof and steeple at the peak of a fire that destroyed the main auditorium of South Broad Street Baptist Church in Rome, Ga. For awhile the fire threatened a convalescent home beside the church and 25 elderly patients were evacuated. But none was injured. One fireman was hurt by a falling wall of the church. Dean Of Rubber Industry Is Dead

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Paul Weeks Litchfield, dean of the American rubber industry and honorary chairman of the board of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., died in a Phoenix hospital Wednesday night.

The 83-year-old industrialist had undergone surgery at the hospital a week ago. After a career spanning 61 years in the industry, Litchfield retired last October as board chairman and chief executive officer of Goodyear.

He had joined the firm in its infancy in Akron, Ohio, at a salary of $2,500 and played a leading role in its growth to one of the largest in the world with plants throughout the United States, at Sydney, Australia; New Toronto, Canada and Wolverhampton, England.

During World War II, he played a major part in the American program of synthetic rubber production.

Litchfield was born in Boston July 26, 1875. He graduated with a bachelor of science degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1896. His first job was as a $9-a-week engineer in a tire factory at Reading, Mass.

Two years later he became involved in experimental work with rubber tires and in 1900 joined the infant Goodyear concern in Akron.

He became factory manager in 1911, a vice president four years later and president in 1926. In 1930, he became chairman of the board.

Litchfield is survived by his wife, Florence Brinton Litchfield, and two daughters, Mrs. Howard (Katherine) Hyde of Akron and Mrs. A. Wallace (Edith) Denny of New Toronto.

Epidemic Blamed On Dust Storms

MEXICO CITY (AP) — More than 5,000 of the Mexican capital's 25,000 schoolteachers are stricken with respiratory ailments in an epidemic blamed on dust storms.

The absentee list in government offices and factories also is high. Strong winds have been blowing clouds of choking dust in from the dry lake beds of Texcoco for three days.

Coconut oil is used both in the manufacture of soap and margarine.

Surfboard Rider Says It's A Weight-Reducer

By PATRICK MCNULTY
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Marge Calhoun is a honey blonde with four loves: her husband, two daughters and a 10-foot surfboard. Here is Marge's usual day after daddy's off to work and the kids to school:
Marge loads her balsa surfboard into the family station wagon and — winter or summer — drives to nearby Malibu Cove. There, if the waves are right, she spends the day riding the Pacific combers with other surfing enthusiasts.
Is she any good? Marge is the world champ.
In Hawaii last November, Marge won the International Surfing Championship for women. And she did it on a day when the waves at Makaha beach were luring large enough to scare husky men shoreward.
Marge spent a month in the Islands while husband Tom stayed home with his contracting business and their two daughters.
On a thrifty budget, Marge and a surfing girl friend, Eva Fletcher of Burbank, Calif., rented an old pickup truck for $80. The truck was their hotel and transportation. Each day Marge and Eva would drive around the island of Oahu looking for the best waves. They would bed down in the truck wherever sunset found them — Makaha, Haleiwa or perhaps even Waikiki.

Marge won the international when the waves at Makaha were 12-foot high. A few days later, she tackled 18-footers. No place for a woman, but Marge rode the giant combers that gave many of Hawaii's best a good excuse to watch from the beach.
A false step on a wave that size can topple rider and board into a Niagara-like maelstrom. One surfer said it's like a mouse tumbling in an automatic washing machine.
Marge had a good scare. A collision with another board sent her rolling down the face of a booming breaker. Her board slammed into coral 30 feet under. Marge, too, hit bottom and the churning wave held her there a good minute. She admitted seeing stars before eventually floating to the surface. A few moments later, she was riding an equally scary breaker.
An expert spring board diver and skier when she took up surfing four years ago, Marge improved quickly.
She has this tip for women: surfing is great for reducing. Statuesque well-tanned Marge lost 15 pounds and 2 inches from her waist after a few months. Today 5-foot-8 marge has no problem keeping her weight at 135 pounds.
Marge's daughters, Candy 15, and Robin, 12, love the water, too. So does husband Tom, but he likes skin diving better than surfing.
The Calhouns live in a modernistic house built by Tom a few hundred yards from the ocean. So there's no problem getting to the beach.
March would like all the Calhouns on hand when she defends her championship next year in Hawaii. But Tom's business and the girls' schooling makes it difficult for them to get away.
"But it would be nice to have a rooting section," says Marge.

Buy Collection Of Magazines

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin has purchased the Sukov collection of 10,617 "little magazines."
Recently the collector, Dr. Martin Sukov of Minneapolis, donated one-half interest in the collection to the university and the school agreed to buy the remaining half for $30,000.
"Little magazines" are periodicals possessing a small number of subscribers and usually few advertisers but containing a high grade of intellectual content.

IN MOVIE BUSINESS

HAVANA (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro's Cabinet today took the first step to launch a movie industry in Cuba.
The Cabinet decreed a law setting up a "Cuban Institute of Arts of the Cinema Industry." It will put out films with government aid.

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who wanted to be "Mr. President" but had to settle for "Mr. Republican," is now being honored as few men have.

An imposing new capital monument—a slim 100-foot pink marble tower—will be dedicated April 14 in his memory.

Taft's tower, with its 27-bell French carillon and a 10-foot bronze statue of the late senator, was built at a cost of about one million dollars donated by his friends and admirers.

Selections from his speeches are being cut into the marble.

By order of his Congress colleagues, the tower stands on Capitol grounds. In all the 131 acres that comprise Capitol Hill, there is but one other outdoor statue.

That is the seated figure of John Marshall, who served longer than any man as chief justice of the United States.

Not even Franklin D. Roosevelt, who served longer than any other president, has such a Capitol marker.

Marshall's statue was erected by fellow members of the bar and Congress in 1884—49 years after his death.

Taft's memorial was constructed within six years of his death from cancer, July 31, 1953 at the age of 63.

In all of the District of Columbia, where there are 94 outdoor statues, only five honor senators—and two of them became presidents, a National Capitol Parks spokesman reported.

MASS PROGRAM
TOKYO (AP) — Communist China today said 40 million new trees and flowering shrubs have been planted in Shanghai, its largest city.

President Eisenhower and former President Herbert Hoover are among those scheduled to participate in the tower's dedication next month.

The tall, slender fluted shaft—13 feet wide, 32 feet long and 99.6 feet high—is faced with 8,000 cubic feet of Tennessee pink marble. It has a stainless steel roof, and an intricate lightning arrester system.

Forming a hedge around it are old English boxwoods collected by nurserymen from some historic Delaware, Virginia and North Carolina plantations.

Besides the tower itself and the two-ton bronze statue of Taft, a major feature of the memorial is a carillon, hung in an 18-foot chamber with seven openings front and back.

The carefully tuned bells, costing about $70,000, were imported from the famous Paccard foundry in the Alpine Valley village of Annecy, France.

The 27 bells, ranging from the six-ton "G" note to the 200-pound smallest size, will be ready to sound the hour, told in memoriam or pour out a golden symphony of music. The carillon can be played electronically with pre-set bronze tapes like a player piano, or at the touch of a 30-inch piano keyboard.

The tower, surrounded by boxwood and a fountain-filled moat, is to be floodlighted at night.

But even before its official dedication, Taft's tower was being eyed critically. Some say it detracts a bit from the grandeur of the 287-foot Capitol itself. And there were congressmen who said it might set a bad precedent, and lead to cluttering of Capitol Hill, of friends of other distinguished senators seek similar monuments in the future.

The Taft Tower is just one of a three-part memorial project planned by the Taft Memorial Foundation, headed by Rep. B. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn.). The others are a fund for educational scholarships and an institute for government supply lecturers, publish books and conduct research in bipartisan fashion.

Chevy makes one for you...

and you'll want it for all its worth

The plain fact is Chevrolet builds so many different kinds of cars there's one to please just about everyone.

Say you want a stylish, spacious car that combines low initial cost with rock-bottom operating expense. You'll find what you want in the Biscayne 2-Door Sedan—one of the lowest priced of all Chevy models. And you can have Chevrolet's new Hi-Thrift 6 under the hood to stretch and stretch the distance between gas stops.

If, on the other hand, you're looking for a car of utmost elegance, you could hardly make a happier choice than the Chevrolet Impala 4-Door Sport Sedan. And, to go with it, Chevy's velvety V8 power teamed with triple-turbine Turbo-glide—one of the finest, smoothest automatic drives offered on any car.

These are just two examples of the dozens of different kinds of Chevrolets you can choose from.

It's almost certain—with models ranging from five beautiful, dutiful station wagons to the unique Corvette—that Chevrolet builds your kind of car. Your dealer's waiting to help you pick it out.

The smart switch is to the '59 Chevy!

Your Chevrolet choice includes the Corvette, the Impala Sport Coupe, the Nomad Station Wagon, the Bel Air 4-Door Sedan, El Camino, and the Impala Convertible—all shown above.

Chose 'Green Pastures' Over Playing 'Othello'

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—To attempt to portray God as a human being in the theater is difficult and controversial. An intellectualized characterization of God currently is portrayed on Broadway in Archibald MacLish's "J. B." Quite a different concept of God will be seen on the television Monday March 23, when "Hallmark Hall of Fame" offers a repeat performance of Marc Connelly's "The Green Pastures" on NBC-TV.

Warfield, the noted baritone, played the same role in the 1956 "Hall of Fame" production of "The Green Pastures." Everyone in last year's all-Negro cast will appear again, except some of the Sunday School children who — as Warfield puts it, "just grew too big in one year."
To appear on the TV program Warfield turned down an opportunity to play the lead in "Othello" at the Shakespeare Theater, Stratford-on-Avon, England.
"But there's always a chance of playing 'Othello' again," he said, "and there's not always the chance to play 'The Green Pastures.' It's a wonderful play. Those who have qualms about it just don't understand it."
He recalled that before last year's presentation the Negro press "took pot shots at the idea of doing 'The Green Pastures.' But after it received such universal critical and popular acclaim, nothing more was said. The criticism just died away."
I asked him if he believed television would have produced the play if it had been written as an original.
"I don't know," Warfield replied. "That's a pretty generalized question and it's always hard to say what might happen to something under other circumstances. But I imagine that television might have been worried about the reaction of the Negro intelligentsia. There might have been fears that it presented the Negro as ignorant."
"But to me it doesn't do that at all. It's child-like, but that's its charm. It's imaginative and beautiful."

She's Smiled For 100 Years

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) — "I've smiled 100 years," said Mrs. Alice Wilcox, who claims to be the oldest living native Kansan, when she saw her huge birthday cake Wednesday.
The huge cake, sparkling with 100 candles, was presented by her Sunday School class at a party.
In poor health but alert, Mrs. Wilcox lives with a daughter, Mrs. Herbert Olsen, near Garden City.

Forgiveness For Gambling Raid

OMAHA (AP) — When Police Capt. Ted Janing led a gambling raid recently, he took off his overshoes before entering the suspected dwelling. When he left after the raid, he forgot the overshoes.
A few nights later, he reported a man rang his doorbell, handed him his overshoes and left.

So-Called 'Gospel Of St. Thomas' Discovered

NEW YORK (AP)—A document known as the "Gospel of St. Thomas," discovered in Egypt, contains 114 sayings attributed to Jesus—many of them previously unknown — a French scholar reports.
Existence of the document was disclosed Wednesday night by Dr. Oscar Cullman, professor of early Christianity at the Sorbonne in Paris, in a lecture at Union Theological Seminary.
The document, Cullman said, is "comparable in importance to the Dead Sea scrolls and of even greater significance to students of the New Testament."

He said the document was one of 44 treatises found in 1946 by Egyptian peasants in an old tomb cut in limestone cliffs about 60 miles from Luxor. Written in the Coptic language, the treatises were divided among 13 leather-bound, papyrus books.
Cullman, a visiting professor at the seminary this year, said many of the sayings found in the treatises could be traced word for word to the same as in the canonical Gospels.
One hitherto unknown saying quoted by Cullman was:
"Jesus said: If those who lead you say to you: behold, the kingdom is in heaven, then the birds of heaven will precede you; if they say to you that it is in the sea, then the fish will precede you. But the kingdom is within you and it is outside of you."
Contents of the document, Cullman said, were disclosed by Dr. Henry Charles Puech, professor of early Christianity at the College of France in Paris, who will publish them sometime this year.
Discovery of the treatises has been known, Cullman continued, but the contents of the document dealing with Jesus have not been previously disclosed.
Unlike the canonical Gospels, he said, the "Gospel of Thomas" does not give any personalized information about Jesus.
Cullman said he noted four

1. Those which are word for word in the four Gospels of the New Testament—Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John.
2. Those which provide independent variants to the sayings in the canonical Gospels.
3. Those not found in the canonical Gospels in any form, but which were known from citations of the church fathers.
4. Those which were formerly completely unknown.
Cullman said the Jung Institute in Zurich purchased one manuscript, and the others are now in the Coptic Museum in Cairo.
"The Coptic manuscripts were written in the third or fourth century, but go back to Greek originals which are much older," Cullman said.

Special Interest In Oil Well Fire

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — M. M. Kinley, world-famous oil well firefighter, has a special interest in an oil well fire near here. He owns part of the well.
The well in the Torch Field, named for Kinley's firefighting exploits, exploded Tuesday as drill pipe was being pulled from the hole. Driller Joe Whitaker was burned as flames shot 150 feet.

Actor's Son Has One Last Chance

"This is it," Superior Court Judge Allen T. Lynch told him Wednesday. "There aren't going to be any more excuses."
Robinson, 26, appeared for a probation hearing as a result of a disturbing the peace arrest last November. He has been on probation since serving 60 days on a drunk driving conviction in 1957.

Has Dim View Of Lobbying Action

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — State Sen. Elmer Kinnaman took a dim view of some lobbying during the Wyoming Legislature.
He received a telegram, signed by about 35 Rawlins residents, urging him to support a bill being considered.
Among the signers was his own name. He hadn't signed the petition.

GRIM REMINDER

HERBRIGGEN, Switzerland (AP) — Several stones fell down the mile-high precipice above Herbrigen today.
It was a grim reminder that the million-ton rock slide threatening this Alpine village has not completely stabilized. The rocks fell harmlessly on the village outskirts.

CORN BILLBUGS?

GET 'EM FOR SURE with aldrin

When billbugs attack—corn stands are so reduced that there are no profits left. You can avoid serious billbug damage by knocking them out before they get started—with powerful aldrin.

Before planting, simply broadcast aldrin on the soil, then disk it in. Or, you can combine aldrin with fertilizer and apply both in a time- and labor-saving application. Aldrin is economical, too.

This season, beat billbugs to the punch. Use powerful aldrin just before planting. Be prepared... get your supply today.

U. S. Leads Russia In Planetaria, They Say

CHAPEL HILL — A newspaperman eavesdropped on 76 milling, lively, curious and conversational sixth and seventh grade children from Spring Hope and Greensboro's Summer St. school as they waited to enter the Morehead Planetarium chamber to see "Easter, the Awakening" here last week.

"Lookit that thing in there!" exclaimed a lad, pointing to the dumb-bell-shaped instrument. "What's that?"

"That's the planetarium," replied the guide.

"How many of them in the world?"

"About 20."

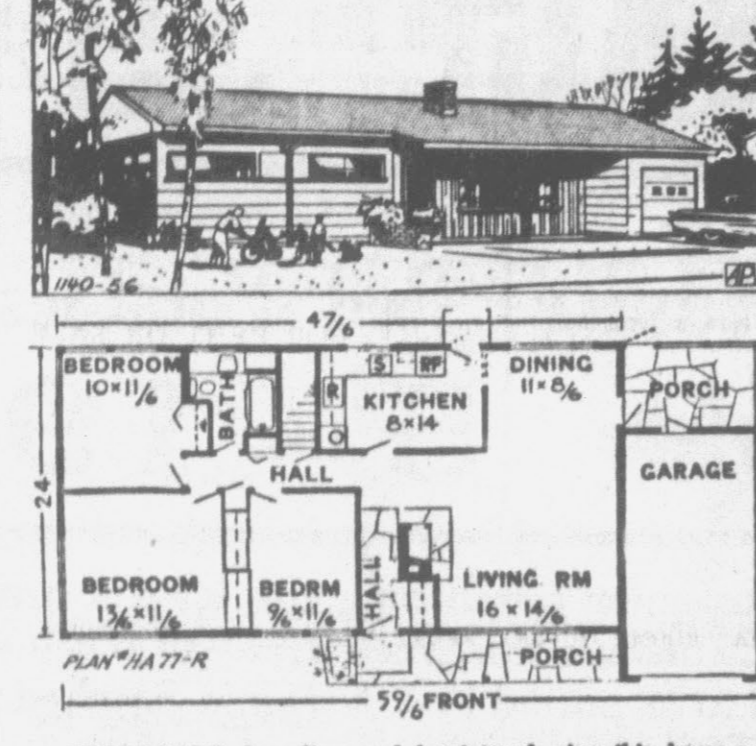

"How many we got?" The questioner was persistent.

"There are six in the U.S.," the guide replied.

"How many's Russia got?"

"Three or four."

French-Born Student Assistant Is Teaching Language In City School

Mrs. Jacqueline Smith of Greenville, a Frenchwoman who has been in this country since May, 1957, is now serving as a student assistant in the Foreign Languages Department at East Carolina College. A major part of her work is devoted to teaching French to fourth and fifth grade pupils in the Elmhurst School in Greenville, a project carried on under the direction of the college's Foreign Languages Department.

Mrs. Smith is the wife of Ned Smith, a student at East Carolina, and is the mother of two children. She was born and reared in Paris. She and her husband became acquainted while they were working at the U. S. Embassy in Paris. When Mr. Smith decided to enter college after leaving military service four months ago, they enrolled at East Carolina College.

Mrs. Smith is taking courses in English and history. As a student assistant, she is working with students of French conversation at the college and is also instructing children at the Elmhurst school.

She replaces Michele Caple of Nice, France, who was a student assistant in foreign languages during the fall and winter quarters.

Ayden Chorus Received Rating Of 'Excellent'

By FRANCES BOOTH
Ayden School Reporter

Ayden High School's chorus, "The Top Sixty", received an "excellent" rating at the Music Festival last week at East Carolina College.

The chorus is directed by Mrs. Rosa Little.

Ella Mae Ormond and Tommy Manning were first-place winners of a "pop Contest" at the Ayden Canteen Saturday night. Second place went to Bonnie Rutledge and Carl Nobles.

Barbara Gagnon, a Senior at AHS, has been awarded a scholarship to Duke University. Barbara was a finalist in recent competition for the Angier B. Duke Scholarships.

Three graduates of Ayden High School have been entered in the "Miss Pitt County" beauty contest, to be held in conjunction with the Ayden Farmers' Festival April 10 and 11.

Pattie McCay is sponsored by the Lions Club, Carol Lynn Johnson is sponsored by the Rotary Club and Ann McGlothin is sponsored by the Woman's Club.

Faye Highsmith was elected vice-president of Pitt County Future Homemakers of America at the county rally last week in Grifton. Faye, Elaine Nobles and Ella Mae Ormond represented Ayden at the rally.

Walters and waitresses have been selected for the Junior-Senior Banquet, to be held April 17. Names of members of the group, all sophomores, will not be announced until shortly before the banquet.

Confesses Many Office Thefts

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Police say it may be impossible to determine the total loss in hundreds of office building thefts to which a white-haired matron has confessed.

The woman, who identified herself as Elizabeth O'Neill, 56, had more than 100 office keys in her possession when arrested Saturday. She said she had cancer and stole because she couldn't work and never took more than $5 to $10 at a time.

Church Omitted Plush Carpeting

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Members of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church considered the use of carpeting in their new contemporary church, but the architect, William P. Wenzler, objected.

"The church places great demands and responsibility on its members," Wenzler said. "This fact is likely to be forgotten in a plush carpet atmosphere."

His view prevailed. The floors will remain bare.

Wants To Avert Soviet Maneuver

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under the National Defense Act, the federal government gives schools money to buy scientific equipment. Rep. Harold C. Ostertag (R-N.Y.) wants to make sure none of the equipment from the Soviets. He said the Soviets plan to undersell American equipment by as much as 80 per cent. "This is an obvious propaganda maneuver to flood our schools and colleges with Soviet scientific equipment," he says.

The American Newspaper Publishers Assn. resolved in 1956 that Benjamin Franklin should be honored for his "ideals of freedom of expression."

What's in store for stocks?

That's never easy to answer, we admit. But with the help of our Research Department in New York, we've just put together a two-hour answer that should make a lot of sense to any seasoned investor.

If you'd like to hear it—a thorough-going discussion of basic trends in our economy, a series of specific suggestions to meet various situations and objectives during the months ahead—then don't miss our Stock Market Forum.

We're holding it on Thursday evening, March 26th, in the City Court Room, City Hall, starting at 8:00 sharp.

Bullish or bearish, we think you'll find these two hours well spent, think they should prove extremely helpful to even the most experienced investor.

There's no charge connected with the Forum, of course, but admission will be by ticket only.

If you'd like to come, simply call and tell us you'll be there, or just mail us the coupon below.

Directed Verdict Of 'Not Guilty' In Trial For Rape

A court-directed verdict of not guilty was returned yesterday in Pitt County Superior Court to close trial of a rape charge against 23-year-old Theodore Walton of Greenville.

Walton had been charged with raping seven-year-old Cynthia Anne Fleming, also of Greenville, on January 4. Both Walton and the Fleming child are Negroes.

Judge Henry L. Stevens, Jr., of Warsaw, presiding at a one-week mixed term of court, ordered the not guilty verdict after all evidence in the case had been presented. He had earlier allowed a motion for non-suit on the capital charge of rape, taking the action after completion of presentation of state's evidence.

Walton had entered a plea of not guilty to the charge at formal arraignment proceedings on January 27, the same date a true bill of indictment was returned by the Pitt County Grand Jury. The plea was entered through his court-appointed attorney, M. E. Cavendish.

In directing the verdict of not guilty, Judge Stevens ruled that evidence presented in the case was not sufficient to warrant having the case go to a jury.

Other judgments returned by the court yesterday included: Jake Louis Rosenblom, Rocky Mount, speeding, plea of nolo contendere, $25 and costs.

Ralph Dean Fouts, Gritton, speeding, $25 and costs.

Outlines Health Agencies' Work

Functions of health agencies in Pitt County were outlined yesterday for members of Girl Scout Troop 6 who are working on community service phases of their First Class ranks.

Guest speaker at the troop meeting Third Street School was Mrs. Milton V. Clarke, executive director of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association. Mrs. Clarke explained the association's program of 12-months' service, financial operations and four-phase program of health education, case-finding, rehabilitation, and research.

During the meeting, the troop was presented an American flag by Mrs. Kenneth Brown of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary.

Mrs. Ada Proctor was a guest of the troop at the meeting. Mrs. Oscar Cohorn is troop leader.

Teacher-Student Relations Talked

WINTERVILLE — Robinson Union School's Professional Committee presented Mrs. J. J. Brown of the South Ayden School faculty who recently discussed "Pupil Teacher Relationship," developing four points: Today's World is Different; importance of Creative Teaching; the Task, and the Challenge.

She stated that only by use of scientific methods of instruction can one find the solution to emerging problems. She stressed the importance of accepting the pupils, living with the pupils, and being a medium through which the pupils are led to better living.

"If the teacher is a source of personality that challenges growth and development, integrates guidance in everyday teaching, a projector of security, then that teacher is developing good pupil-teacher relationship," she declared.

Reports from the Guidance Clinic at N.C. College, Durham, and the Parent-Teacher Congress were given by Mrs. C. U. Bess and S.E. Hemby, Jr.

"Hospitality Night" was observed at the school Tuesday evening with a large group of parents and teachers present. The hour was spent with selections by the Male Chorus of Good Hope Church and readings by Mrs. Mable Hooks and Mrs. Rhuma Knox and Mrs. Viola Daniels. John Ward, Jr. made announcements.

The social hour was supervised by Mrs. P. M. Anderson, Mrs. G. C. Bush and members of the Hospitality Committee. Mrs.

Cancer Crusade Has $6,000 Goal

"Protect the Family" is the 1959 Cancer Crusade objective, according to Mrs. R. P. Rogers, President of the Pitt County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

"A $6,000 goal has been set for 1959 campaign in Pitt County, which will get under way the second week in April," Mrs. Rogers stated.

A large part of the funds allocated to the Pitt County unit from the 1958 drive were used to assist indigent cancer patients to obtain X-ray and radium treatments, and dressings, according to the report of Mrs. John Biggs, Executive Secretary of the Pitt unit.

Also, films and educational literature were distributed throughout the county during the entire year. "The educational program is an expanding year-round activity, which has met with wide acceptance by the public," Mrs. Biggs said.

Opens Convention Teachers Ass'n

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Teachers Assn. opened its 78th annual convention here today.

Dr. John Lester Buford, superintendent of schools at Mt. Vernon, Ill., will speak to the Negro teachers and school leaders at an evening program.

TOASTMASTERS CLUB—Temporary officers for the Toastmasters Club have been chosen by prospective members. The club, which meets each Wednesday night, is planned to teach its members to speak in public. Each member will participate in some way at each meeting. Officers from left to right above are: M. H. Bynum, sergeant-at-arms; Herbert Corey, secretary-treasurer; Tommy Finch, president; James A. Police Desparately Hunt Crazed Man, Prisoners

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Police threw desperation resources into the search today for a crazed ex-convict who kidnaped a frantic mother and three children. He threatened to torture and kill them unless the governor released a personal enemy from the state penitentiary so he could kill him.

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood flew to Washington today, as previously planned, to meet with federal highway officials. He declined comment, saying the case was in good hands with the State Police in charge and that they had full authority to act.

"Only you have the power to save them from certain death, by granting my demands," read the note penned by the ex-convict. "I don't want money I want vengeance."

Helicopters dived over creeks and valleys of southern West Virginia while 75 state troopers pressed a ground search for Richard Arlan Payne, 23, who forcibly took the four at gunpoint Wednesday night.

State Police called Payne an extremely dangerous mental case. In the rambling, five-page tirade addressed to Underwood, he named a convict, Burton Junior Post, better known as Junior Starcher, whom Payne knew when Payne was serving time for armed robbery.

"My purpose is to kill and to take the head of my worst enemy, who is now out of reach. He is in the W.Va. Penitentiary at Moundsville."

Payne proposed to use his captives as a wedge to force Starcher's release.

"To save the children," the FBI read, "I demand only the FBI

Watershed District Bills Are Introduced

RALEIGH (AP) — Identical bills enabling formation of local watershed improvement districts entitled to federal assistance were introduced Thursday in both Houses of the General Assembly.

Immediately at stake is $3,890,162, representing the federal share of eight watershed conservation prospects already approved. They cover nearly 400,000 acres in a dozen counties.

Seven other projects are in the planning stage. The measure was introduced by Sen. D. J. Rose of Wayne and Rep. Ashley Murphy of Fender, chairman of the Legislative Agriculture Committees.

The local improvement districts would have assessment powers to raise funds to pay the local share of costs.

Approved watershed projects are: Abbotts Creek, 115,300 acres in Davidson, Forsyth, Guilford and Randolph counties; federal share, $1,025,290.

Deep Creek, 75,300 acres in Yadkin; federal share, $823,349. Bear Creek, 38,650 acres in Wayne, Greene and Lenoir; federal share, $389,527.

Mud Creek, 71,750 acres in Henderson; federal share, $791,001. Folley Ditch, 3,170 acres in Gates; federal share, $26,049.

Horse Swamp-Flat Swamp, 9,330 acres in Hertford; federal share $73,787.

Deep Creek, 18,246 acres in Washington; federal share, $146,068.

Muddy Creek, 64,000 acres in McDowell and Burke; federal share, $897,091.

Speed Clock Results In Four Charges

OFFICERS OPERATE SPEED CLOCK . . . Four charged with speeding yesterday afternoon.

Four drivers were charged with speeding yesterday as police operated the city's speed clock on E. 10th St.

According to officers, drivers charged with speeding, included Cecil T. Harris, 21, of 1204 N. Overlook Dr., Mrs. Barbara M. Madigan, 27, of 1604 E. Wright Rd., J. T. Evans 25, of 1008 Ward St. and Homer Sutton 36, of Rt. 5, Kinston.

The clock was in operation from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Police also reported an accident at the corner of 10th and Anderson Sts. late yesterday, involving a car and bicycle.

According to investigating officers the bicycle was coming out of a driveway at 813 E. 10th St. and struck the car.

Raymond L. Edwards nine, of 1011 Anderson St., operator of the bicycle, was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital where he was treated for bruises and released.

Officers listed the driver of the car as James Clifton Faircloth 26, of 1302 Charles St.

There was no damage to the car; however police set the damage to the bicycle at approximately $25. No charges were made as a result of the accident.
