Jackson Is Guest Panelist At PTA

"By encouraging good work and ignoring, if possible, poor work, parents can accomplish much in the training of children with speech or hearing defects." This wholesome attitude is effective in other phases of child training also, said Bernard Jackson, Special Education Department at East Carolina College, when he spoke as guest panelist at the Wahi-Coates Laboratory School Parent Teacher Association meeting, in McGinnis Auditorium.

Serving on the panel with Jackson were Lubie Stocks and Carl Ramsaur, parents.

In answering their questions, Jackson discussed ways of detecting hearing defects in children by school screening, hearing loss versus "not listening," the effect of defective hearing on speech, stuttering and methods now in use for correcting speech defects.

He urged parents who suspect a defect in their child's hearing or speech to consult with a competent therapist and work as closely as possible with the therapist. Children see their parents as one who is always right, always good and knows everything. Therefore, by being attentive and giving every consideration to the child, we as parents can play an important role in hearing and speech therapy, he concluded.

During the business meeting, presided over by Dr. O. R. Pearce, president, parents were asked to contact their representatives relative to Senate Bill 34 and House Bill 73.

Mrs. W. R. Guice, president of the Greenville P.T.A. Council, gave a report on the Family Workshop held in Kinston.

Members were invited to attend the talk on school curriculum in North Carolina to be given by Dr. L. E. Ready, Director of the State Curriculum Study, on April 9th at Elmhurst School.

The first grade of Mrs. Sally Klingenschmidt and the second grade of Miss Christine Johnson tied for the attendance trophy.

Legislature Can Ease Its Burdens

If the legislature acts favorably on a series of eight bills introduced by Rep. Frank Wooten of Pitt, the legislature can rid itself of a huge volume of local legislation every two years and at the same time put local governments in a position to act with much greater autonomy in certain fields.

The series of proposals has long been needed in North Carolina. They are the result of the work of a special study commission authorized by the 1957 legislature to look into problems of municipal financing. The bills introduced by Rep. Wooten, however, deal with various problems of municipal and county government.

They define and place under general law authority through which local governments can act without having to go through the process of having special local acts passed by the legislature. They deal with such matters as zoning and subdivision regulations for areas outside corporate limits, appointment of building inspectors and long range municipal and county planning in cooperation with other local governments and agencies of the state and federal government.

In the past, special legislative acts have been required for these and many other things a local government might want to do. Each one individually had to seek legislative approval before it could act.

Through the series of bills introduced by Rep. Wooten a good bit of the legislative red tape which heretofore has existed will be removed. Local governments will be able to act on more matters without sending local bills to Raleigh every two years. It will place local governments in a position to better administer at least a part of their local affairs, and it will reduce the local legislative burden of the General Assembly.

This series of bills pertaining to local government should be passed by the General Assembly. Although they do not provide everything which is needed to give local governments of the state the degree of autonomy in local affairs they should have, the bills represent appreciable progress in that direction.

The passage of this series of bills will pave the way for better local government planning and operation and at the same time relieve the legislature of part of the local legislation burden.

Plug For Farmville, Though Name Omitted

The town of Farmville got a nice plug in an international magazine the other day for its work in industrial development.

The only possible draw-back to the plug was that it didn't mention Farmville by name.

In the most recent issue of The Rotarian, English language publication of Rotary International, Gov. Luther Hodges wrote an article about industrial development, outlining the approach North Carolina has used to raise its per capita income. The article emphasized the fact that it is up to the individual community, in the final analysis, to sell an industry on its new location.

He cited as an example of what can be done the work of a small town of about 3,000 which recently secured a flakeboard plant of a nationally known concern. Without calling Farmville by name, Gov. Hodges went on to outline the work Farmville has done to place itself in a position to develop industrially, and was high in his praise of the efforts of its people.

The resume was in sufficient detail to leave no doubt about the identity of the town to folks hereabout. And while it didn't call Farmville by name, it is significant, we believe, that Gov. Hodges thinks enough of what has been done by Farmville to use it in an article for international circulation as the sole example of what a small town can do to boost its economy.

In writing such an article for a magazine, certainly Gov. Hodges used the best example he could find in North Carolina to illustrate what can be done by a small community. Furthermore he would not have used the example if it had not compared favorably with what cities of much greater size are doing to attract industry.

The fact that Farmville was used as the example should give an indication of the esteem in which Gov. Hodges holds the development program being carried out by the people of Farmville. That in itself should be a source of considerable pride and satisfaction to the citizens of that Pitt community who have put many dollars and countless hours of devoted effort into their industrial development program.

This tribute Gov. Hodges has paid to Farmville and its citizens is one that is justly deserved and one which should be valued highly by the citizens of that community.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers can get double vision looking at the Washington juggling act.

President Eisenhower proposed a budget which he said could be balanced. He offered to show how. But his figures were so thin and iffy only magic could make them out right.

The Democrats, stinging under his charge that they're the big spenders, are trying some magic of their own, plus defiance. They are complaining his budget is much too low for what the country needs.

Eisenhower, calling on the Democratic-run Congress to keep fiscal year starting July 1, offered a budget of 77 billion dollars and estimated revenue at $77,100,000,000. That is cutting it pretty thin.

Eisenhower figured the government would wind up 100 million dollars in the good if Congress agreed to raise 600 million more in revenue by boosting the gasoline tax and postal rates.

It is a pretty good bet Congress won't.

So the idea of a balanced budget already looks academic, particularly in view of what Congress already has done to some of Eisenhower's thoughts on spending.

But what Eisenhower proposed and what the Democrats are doing will give politicians of both parties plenty of ground for argument right up to election day in 1960.

Remember: In this present 1959 fiscal year which ends June 30, the budget is already unbalanced with a deficit of perhaps 13 billion dollars. It's the 1960 budget, starting July 1, that Eisenhower has talked of balancing.

He asked $1,375,000,000 for this country's subscription to the International Monetary Fund. He wanted the expense charged to the 1959 fiscal year, with its already well-known deficit.

The Democratic-run Senate voted ed the money but charged it to fiscal 1960 expenses. If the House goes along, the Democrats can argue Eisenhower himself threw his own 1960 budget out of balance by asking this money. Chances are in this case the House won't go along.

It would be a rare taxpayer who could figure out the difference between charging an expense to the 1959 budget or the 1960 budget.

Then there's the Development Loan Fund, a government agency which makes long-term loans to underdeveloped countries to get them moving. Last year Congress voted — for fiscal 1959 — 225 million dollars less than Eisenhower asked for this fund.

But fiscal 1959 doesn't end till June 30 and the fund is already running dry. Eisenhower asked that the 225 million, dropped last year, be voted now and charged to 1959.

The House Appropriations Committee voted to give him not a dime. Later this year, of course, it could vote to give him the 225 million along with what he asked for next year, but charge it all to fiscal 1960, thus throwing his budget further out of balance.

This, too, the Democrats could point to as an example how the economy — preaching Eisenhower was piling up expense. But Tuesday the full House overruled its committee and voted Eisenhower 100 million to be charged to 1959 expenses.

Here's a good example of Congress voting more than Eisenhower asked. He wanted for fiscal 1960 about $3 million dollars for loans and grants to communities in distress because of continuing unemployment.

The Senate voted 389 million. The House has yet to act, but will probably vote more than Eisenhower asked. The argument, of course, is that Eisenhower didn't ask enough.

There'll be plenty more of this until only a taxpayer who is an auditor and has the time could unjuggle the figures.

government should pay high interest rates to borrow money so it can lend the same money to the REA co-operatives at low rates and thus enable them to compete unfairly with privately owned utilities. It is nothing less than government-financed socialism. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

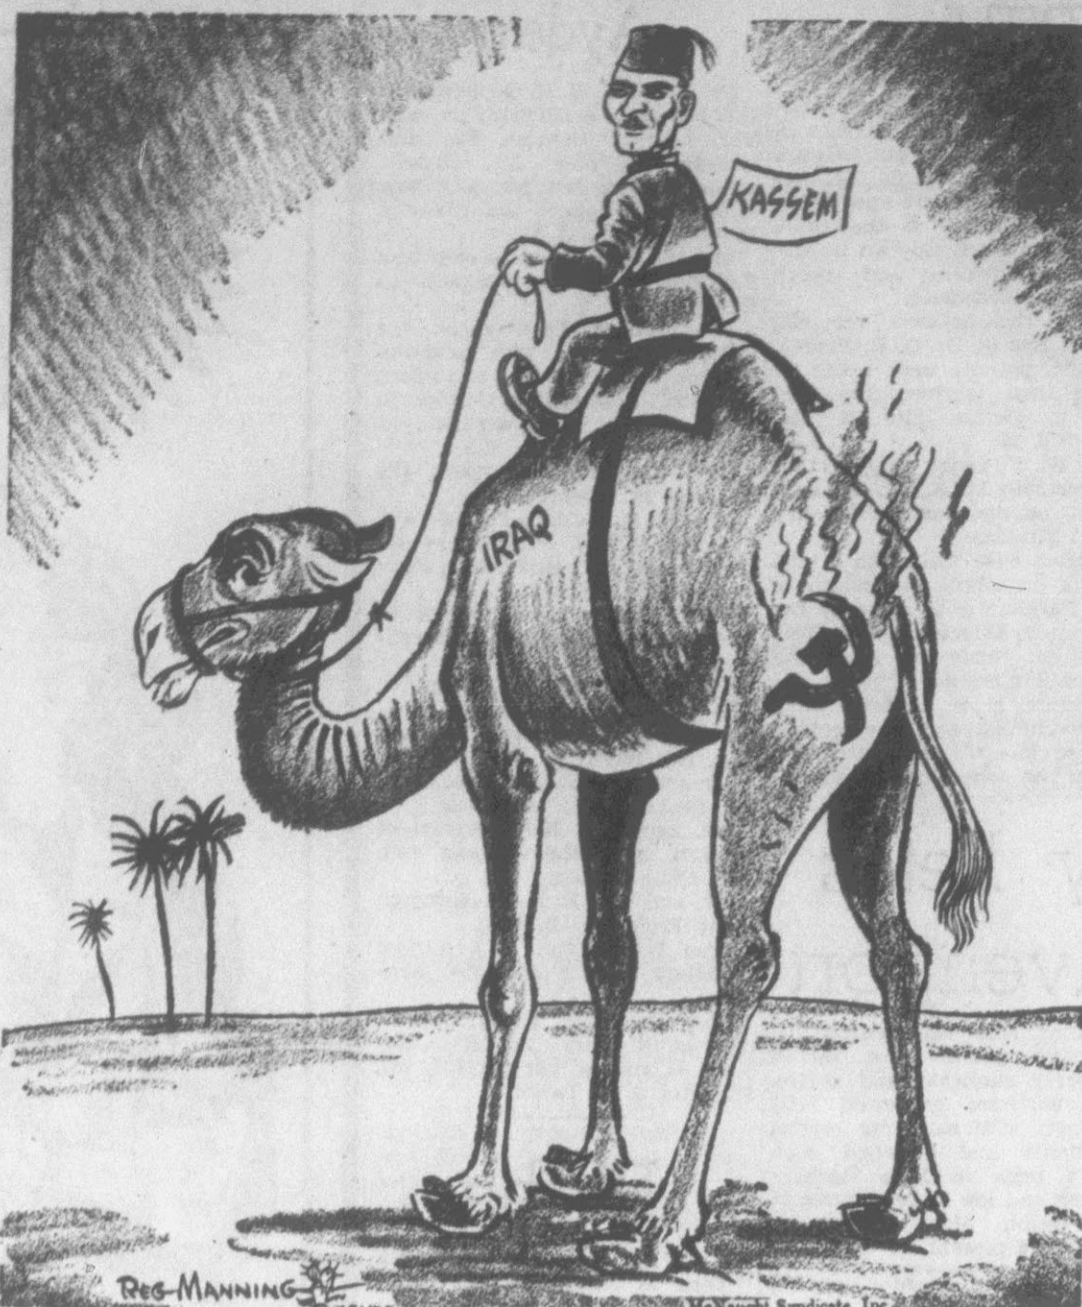

"Discourage litigation. The nominal winner is often a real loser—in fees, expenses, and waste of time. As a peace-maker the lawyer has a superior opportunity of being a good man." — Abraham Lincoln.

Opinions In Brief

"Today the REA co-operatives are in a position to compete with private power companies and are doing so. In any such competition the co-operatives have a taxpayer-financed advantage because they are given the privilege of borrowing money from the government at 2% interest, while the private companies must pay the going rate. So where does the government get this money which it lends at such a low rate? Why, it borrows it from private lenders, paying as high as 4% for it. . . . It seems strange that the and in a measure, petroleum products are still a third. We are quite willing to suffer so long as other people are satisfied. This has been policy generally in the past decade or more. And to that extent, other governments are permitted to shape American policy. We send technicians abroad to teach other people how to grow tobacco or other products, or to make goods, and even furnish modern machinery, and then admit these commodities from cheap labor to compete against home enterprise at the expense of our own farms and factories. If that isn't altruism in the extreme, then another name should be found for it. With all the substance and knowhow furnished other countries to the extent of multiplied billions of dollars, it would seem that our neighbors abroad should be able by now to stand on their own feet. Or if they cannot, certainly we have discharged our obligations to them — if indeed there were such to begin with. These gratuities have been furnished to friend and foe alike in some instances. We resort to negotiations to determine how much competition from abroad will be permitted. Then we wonder why the domestic economy is sagging at various points in the industrial structure! When this competition from cheap merchandise from abroad weakens our own economy, who will provide the support necessary to prevent failure or collapse on our own front?"

The Door-Kicker's Case

Outside, the air was warm and sweet with the breath of Spring. The wind stirred gently, the buds on the azalea bushes bulged against their tiny green covers, and the flowers in the sheltered corners were already bright spots of new life.

Inside, the air was warm, but it was tempered with a sort of electric stillness. There was a certain tension in the air and everybody looked expectantly toward one man.

"Well, answer the question," one of the group demanded. "What do you mean 'Answer the question'?" There's no answer to it, and you ought to know that," the man replied.

"Look, this innocent child," and the speaker hooked a thumb toward a small boy sitting on the sofa, looking at a book, "this innocent child comes over here and tells the whole world, 'Daddy gets angry and kicks and fuses and fuses at Mama'. What I want to know is, is it true?"

"Do you get angry, kick the house and fuss at Mama?" The man squirmed uncomfortably.

"Of course not. Well, at least I don't kick the house." "He said you did."

"Well, I don't. He's imagining things — you said yourself he was a bright and alert child, with a keen imagination."

"He wouldn't imagine such a thing as that and you know it. I know he's imaginative, but not that imaginative."

"Awww, what he's talking about, probably is when I judge that little door that goes under the house. You know, the door where we put the hose and lawn mower and all those empty jars.

"It has a spring on it, and sometime it won't close all the way, so I nudge it with my foot. I certainly don't kick it, not in the sense of hauling off and really putting a foot if something."

"Well, buster, you've hauled off and put your foot in something this time: Your big fat mouth. I've told you to be careful about what you say and do around the children."

That comment came from the younger woman in the crowd. She sat on one side of the room, frowning at her husband.

"Now wait just a minute. Is this a third-degree or something? Have I seriously impaired the mental health of one of my young 'uns? Have I violated all the laws of God and man just because a stinking spring won't pull with enough tension to close a stinking little door?"

"Watch your language. The children will hear you."

"Well, I don't care. Let 'em hear me all they want to. They might learn a few things, and they might know what's coming when I get 'em home. Especially that one," and the man hooked his thumb to the cherub-faced reader.

The discussion finally tailed off and good-byes, friendly and warm, were said. The ride home was uneventful.

When the car turned into the yard, the man spoke first. "I'll put the hose back under the house, where I should have put it before we left. Come on, son."

The little boy put aside his book and tagged after his father.

He spoke. "Daddy, when we put the hose up can I do it?"

"Do what, son?"

"Kick the house to make the door close?"

"The prudent, penniless beginner labors for wages awhile, saves a surplus with which to buy tools or land for himself, then labors on his own account another while and at length hires another beginner to help him. This is the just and generous and prosperous system which opens the way to all, gives hope to all and consequently energy and progress and improvement of conditions to all." — Abraham Lincoln.

Keep Wives Away

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Should a wife be encouraged to visit her husband's office frequently? Prof. James A. Peterson, a marriage counselor at the University of Southern California, says this is a good idea. He says it would help give wives an appreciation of their husband's problems and pressures on the job.

"We don't agree at all. We have another idea. We think every office should hire a 230-pound ex-football tackle as a receptionist. His duty would be simple. Every time a wife stuck her nose in the door, the receptionist would throw a hammerlock on her, rattle her into the nearest elevator, and push the button marked "Down."

"We are somewhat old-fashioned in this matter. We don't say a woman's only place is in the kitchen of her home. But we do say her place definitely is not in her husband's office. And, except for one or two born cowards, every man we know feels pretty much the same way.

The average man likes to dramatize the horrors and hardships he undergoes in his task of bringing home the bacon.

So what happens when his wife, during a pause in shopping, drops into the office unexpectedly?

Everybody in the office is busy working but her husband. He is sitting there, laughing, with his feet on the desk and seemingly staring at the derriere of a passing stenographer.

The wife's visit is brief and frigid. Here is a sample of the conversation at home that night. Wife: "You were the only one loafing."

Husband: "As God is my judge, I'd just put my feet on that desk one second before you came in—just to rest them."

Wife: "But you were laughing." Husband: "The boss had just told me a joke and gone into his office. When the boss tells a joke, you have to laugh, it's a form of unemployment insurance."

Wife: "Why were you staring at that pretty stenographer?" Husband: "What stenographer? I never even saw her. I was just trying to figure out the point to the boss's joke."

Wife, unconvinced: "Well, I wish someone would pay me money just to sit around and laugh with both feet on the desk. Don't give me any more guff about what a hard life you have at the office. If you ask me, I don't think you'll be there much longer—from the look of things."

Husband: "The boss had just told me a joke and gone into his office. When the boss tells a joke, you have to laugh, it's a form of unemployment insurance."

OUTDOOR GARAGING HELD REASON FOR LAG IN NEW CAR SALES
A factor largely overlooked so far may be holding back sales of new cars. That's the lack of residential garage space.

In one apartment house neighborhood, there is indoor garage space for only 10 per cent of the residents' cars. In a suburban area, there is a garage for every house, but almost all of them are filled with baby carriages, lawnmowers and other household accessories.

When families face the necessity of keeping their cars in streets or driveways in all kinds of weather, they may be inclined to buy a used car instead of a new one.

Bonnet Sets Party Table Theme

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

AN UNUSUAL, dramatic table centerpiece gets the party off to gala start. If you are serving an after-church brunch on Easter Sunday, let the Easter bonnet set the theme for your table.

Local sewing center experts suggest you make a centerpiece hat of felt in springtime violet. Set the crown over a low bowl and cut tiny holes in it to hold fresh flowers, so their stems are in water. Scalloping shears used around the edge of the hat and on its ribbon give a decorative scalloped edge.

To make the hat, cut a circle of felt about 18 inches in diameter. Cut a four-inch circle out of the center. Cut a strip three inches wide and as long as necessary to form the crown of the hat. Stitch to the four-inch circle of felt and to the brim. Add a slender roll of tissue paper to under-section of crown, to keep it in shape. Use scalloping shears along sides of a piece of ribbon and tie around crown of hat.

Now set the hat over a low bowl.

With sharp, pointed scissors, make holes in the crown and stick fresh flowers in the hat, with stems reaching the water. Scatter a few flowers along the brim. (To keep these flowers fresh, wrap stems in wet tissue paper and cover in foil.)

After Easter is over, store the bonnet for use next year.

EASTER BRUNCH . . . Flower-decked Easter bonnet makes gala centerpiece, is easy to make of violet felt.

BLACK-AND-WHITE . . . Black-and-white checked suits are important this spring, and their perfect companions are these mid-heel pumps in a combination of white calf and black patent leather with minute T-strap, designed by Degas.

WILLOW GREEN . . . A shoe to match or contrast with an Easter outfit is this opera pump with stiletto heel and pointed toe, in two tones and textures of leather. Body is willow green suede, tip and heel are darker luster leather.

SUIT SHOE . . . Chocolate brown aniline-dyed calf is trimmed with binding and heel of black matte calf in new pumps designed by David Evins on modified "Halo" last.

RED SHOES . . . Glove-soft leather in brilliant scarlet is used for this comfortable shoe, unlined and elasticized, with elongated pointed toe and smart baby Louis heel.

Women will step brightly this spring in the most brilliant array of colored leather shoes ever to season fashion.

As spring suits and hats take on rainbow hues this year, shoes follow suit in all colors of the spectrum—greens, reds, blues, pinks, even orange tones.

Shoes that will step out with new suits, afternoon dresses or evening gowns continue to have the elongated look of the pointed toe, although there are some modifications in a slightly flattened vamp, with the extreme point slightly clipped or squared. The laced squared toe also is a new treatment for tailored and leisure shoes.

Heels also take on new variety. The high needle heel is still with us, but also available are other shapes—the flat squash heel, the stacked leather heel, the baby Louis heel and the deeply curved French heel, almost spool shape. It is in leather colors and textures that shoes make news this spring, however. Two-tone combinations are newly important for both street and dress wear. Tailored pumps often have toe and heel in contrasting color and texture, such as a white calf shoe with black patent leather trim, or one of colored suede with toe and heel of slightly deeper toned polished leather.

For cocktail and evening wear color insets or contrasting bands are often used.

The new colored leather shoes may exactly match the costume, or may provide a note of contrast. For instance, a suit of muted green might be worn with shoes of lemon yellow or geranium pink, as well as with such neutrals as bone or cottonwood.

The city suits of black or navy are perfect foils for brilliant color accents, such as bright red shoes and handbags.

With shoe silhouettes simple and clean of line, the new colors and leather textures take on more importance. This spring women may choose almost any hue of shoe in a variety of leathers—calf, kid, suede, patent or reptile.

KITCHEN BRIGHTENER

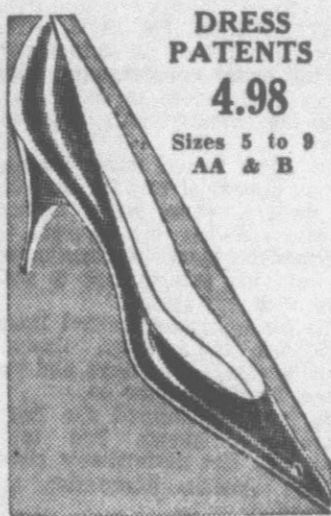

Would you like your kitchen to be different? A solid color oil cloth that harmonizes well with the things in your kitchen may be made into scalloped window valances. They must be hemmed across the top where the curtain rods go through. Shades of a contrasting hue are very interesting.

Say you have a pink, gray and white kitchen, make the valances of the pink oil cloth and the shades of gray or vice-versa. If your kitchen is a red and white one, make black valances and red shades, being sure that the red is the exact shade that you already have in your room.

The best part of all about these kitchen accessories is that they are so easily cleaned with a damp cloth.

Eggs, properly cooked, are easily digested and completely absorbed by the body.

Busy Season For League Of Women Voters

By ROBERT MARKTS
High Point Enterprise Staff Writer
HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — A neat one-room office on a second floor landing in a building in downtown High Point is headquarters for the League of Women Voters of North Carolina this year.

In this office, furnished with a desk, several tables and chairs, a typewriter, a telephone, and a filing cabinet, are prepared the memos, the calendars, and the letters dealing with the state organization and program of the 1-100 members in 12 chapters of the North Carolina League.

The league also is studying the tax structure of North Carolina and sources of revenue for the state government. A non-partisan organization, the league concerns itself with public issues rather than with personalities. It studies an issue and reaches a unanimous opinion among its members before it takes a public stand on a question.

League officers are elected to two year terms. Mrs. C. G. Packard of Asheville is first vice president; Mrs. Donald Costello of Chapel Hill, second vice president; Mrs. Jacob Kaplan of Durham, secretary; and Mrs. Truman Safford of Charlotte, treasurer.

Dummy Space Capsules In Test Drops From Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dummy space capsules the size of those that someday may carry American spacemen into orbit have been dropped into the ocean from high-flying planes and recovered intact, scientists reported today.

The tapered, cone-like capsules weighed more than a ton. After they dropped in free fall for set distances, parachutes opened to slow the capsules' descent as they plummeted toward the ocean.

Next step in the space research program: development of materials to absorb the shock of landings on ground.

'Catfish' Plans Appeal Verdict

RALEIGH (AP) — James W. (Catfish) Cole, whose Ku Klux Klan rally near Maxton, N.C., 14 months ago was put to flight by "whopping" Indians, said today he plans to carry to federal courts his appeal of a conviction of inciting to riot.

The State Supreme Court Wednesday upheld Cole's conviction in connection with the melee that broke up the Klan rally, and sustained his 18-24 month prison sentence.

Cole, of Marion, S.C., said he will meet soon with his lawyer to work out details of his appeal to the Fourth Circuit Appeals Court. "I have felt all along I am a victim of public opinion," he asserted.

Former Mental Patient Caught In Big Search

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A barefooted former mental patient was captured today with a 12-year-old girl he carried away from her home here Wednesday. He was booked for investigation of kidnaping.

However, both the man, William Edward Beckworth, 26, and thin, freckle-faced Lois Marbut, denied to officers that she was kidnaped.

Sheriff's deputies Jesse Hale and Les Skiles spotted Beckworth's car stalled in a country lane 10 miles east of Marysville at 2 a.m. The husky Beckworth unkempt and shoeless, offered no resistance.

He and the girl had been the object of a massive police search across northern California since Wednesday afternoon, when he took Lois and two playmates out of town, dropping off the other two children about 20 miles north of here.

A service station attendant at Nicolaus, 25 miles north of here, said Beckworth stopped to buy gasoline and the girl did not appear disturbed.

At the sheriff's office in Marysville about 35 miles north of Sacramento, Beckworth said that he had merely taken Lois for an afternoon drive. He said he intended "to telephone her mother at daylight," that he had put diesel fuel into the gas tank and the car stalled. He and Lois just went to sleep on the front seat, officers quoted him.

Lois, who was wearing a pair of men's work pants several sizes too large, did not appear harmed. Lois is a twin daughter of Mrs. Thomas Bryant of suburban Gardendale and J. D. Marbut of nearby Rio Linda. Deputies said Mrs. Bryant is divorced from Lois' father and separated from her present husband.

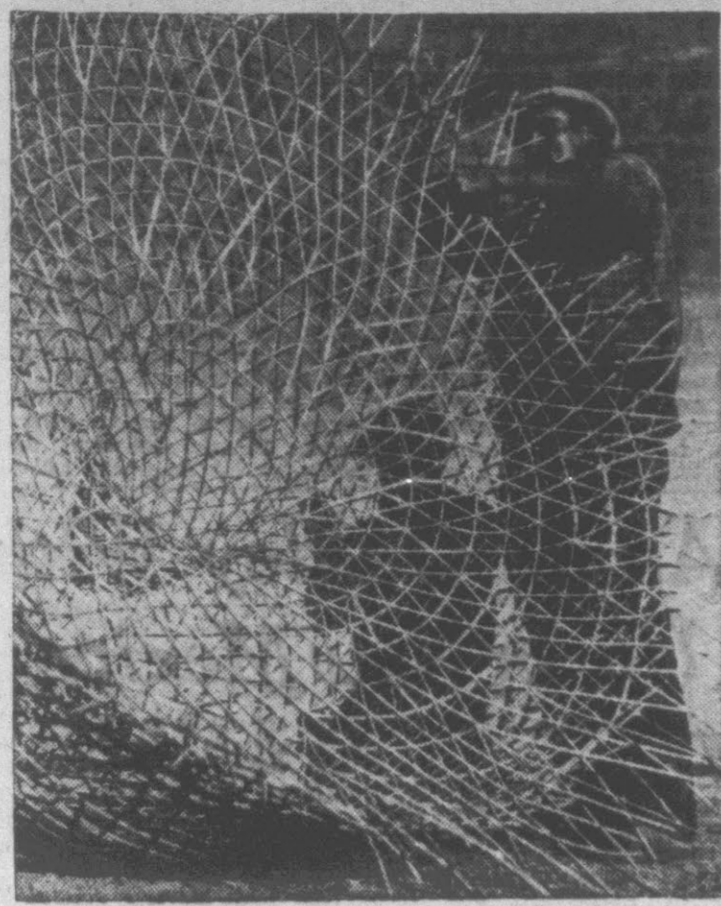

Beckworth had been living in his car on a Sacramento River levee near Mrs. Bryant's home for 10 days.

Deputies said he had been "an habitual escapee" from Stockton State Hospital until he received an indefinite leave last June 4. Several times when he escaped, he was recaptured carrying either a shotgun or .22-caliber rifle, officers said. No weapon was found today.

Beckworth has a record of arrest for petty offenses.

Lois and her twin, Jois, live with their mother.

WEAVING A TRAP for fish is an effective photo design caught by Gustavo Thorlichen in Mar del Plata, Argentina. Using an Ikonflex camera, the exposure was 1-100th at f8 with a light green filter.

By IRVING DESFOR AP Newsfeatures

If governments ever were to realign their cabinets in recognition of changing times, they might well add a Minister of Photography. And if any country were a possibility for initiating such a change, it might be Argentina. If anyone could be credited for a step in this direction, it would be Gustavo Thorlichen of Buenos Aires.

Thorlichen was part of the diplomatic mission which accompanied President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina on his recent visit to the United States. In Washington, D.C., the Argentine president officially opened a photographic exhibition which displayed 58 impressive views of his country, all taken by Thorlichen. Its fine reception convinced many of the South American diplomats of the value of this photographic link as an aid to friendly foreign relations.

I met the photographer in New York before his return to Buenos Aires. He was pleased because he had just been assured official blessing for an old idea: to organize a photographic research job for Argentina. He and assistant photo teams would travel around the country picturing its people and resources for the national archives. He would thus help to establish a central photo for the government.

These plans show another upturn in Thorlichen's hectic photo career. Like the revolutions commonly associated with Latin American countries, there had been several upheavals in his life. He recalls the times he tried to give up photography by selling his studios and equipment. And each time he literally went around the corner and bought a new camera. It started in his native Germany when he was an art director and free-lance photographer in the early 1930s. When he could no longer take the restrictions and censorship that came with Hitler's rise to power, he left Germany and headed for Argentina.

He was doing well again as a photographer with government connections until Juan Peron came to power. His outspoken belief that Argentina's future would best be served by the personal cult of Evita and Juan led to difficulties again. He fled to Bolivia. Here, through photography, his friends ranged from the Indians in the rural areas up to Bolivia's president at the time, Victor Paz Estensoro. To the former he was "El Gringo" whereas the latter was the official means whereby he could procure the necessary photo supplies ordered from the United States.

Several times he was called to the president's office to find a shipment opened and Estensoro studying the items. With the curiosity of a camera fan he would ask, "What are these for?" or "How does this work?" Then Thorlichen would launch into a lesson on filters, perhaps, or demonstrate a new enlarger. His Bolivian photographs, taken with an Ikonflex camera on American film, were the basis for two government-sponsored picture books — on the Indians and on the tin industry. With the books printed and turned to Buenos Aires, again with Ikonflex in hand, he collected a set of pictures as the idea of an Argentine exhibition took root. However, some influential officials objected to some Argentine Indian pictures. "It makes the country look primitive and poor," they argued. On the other hand, pictures of cities and industries might give the impression that the country was wealthy... "and that could cost us a loan or extension of foreign aid," one official jested. What finally appeared in Washington was a balanced representation of many phases of Argentine life and her people. Thorlichen is starting another career as a photographic diplomat.

Municipal Bills Display Awareness Of Growth Following Industrialization

By BUNNY HARRIS
 Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — One can argue with some justification, these days, whether a man has a right to build a pig sty at his neighbor's property line — even though he lives in the country.

This is true because it grows increasingly difficult to define exactly what is "country." The wide expanse of fields are dwindling.

the open spaces are closing in and it is not unusual to find an industrial plant sitting in solitary splendor in the middle of an otherwise pastoral scene. North Carolina, though still predominantly rural, is in a stage of transition.

An awareness of this industrialization that is taking place, and the problems of community (of "urban") growth that it brings, is behind a series of bills introduced in the House this week.

The bills are based on a study, authorized by the 1957 General Assembly, which concerned itself with how this growth can be accomplished in an orderly fashion both in the realm of planning and finance. Many of the recommendations are contained in the eight bills, a major one of which gives to counties authority to zone and regulate subdivision of land.

In most cases, one need look no farther than home to see the reasoning behind this proposal. North Carolina for the most part is composed of a network of small to medium size towns linked together by a network of excellent highways. Municipalities have the right to establish zoning ordinances one mile beyond their city limits and subdivision regulations somewhat farther. Very often the jurisdiction of two towns almost merge — but not quite. There is an area in between over which no one has zoning or subdivision control and a hodge-podge of growth can and sometimes does take place.

C-of-C Stresses School Progress

WASHINGTON — State and local governments have built the finest public school system in the world — but they aren't getting credit for it, according to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Instead, the debate over federal intervention in education has churned up a welter of charges that our schools are understaffed, underfinanced and underhoused, and that State and local governments cannot afford to meet these shortcomings.

In a companion bill, counties are empowered to appoint a county building inspector in order to enforce such regulations as are established.

Under the bills, the jurisdiction of municipalities is broadened. Towns of 2,500 or more may zone one mile beyond the city limits, and towns of 10,000 or more may regulate subdivision of land up to five miles beyond the city limits.

With proper planning, the report maintains that North Carolina "can have good development, can increase its income, provide new jobs and new homes, and still maintain our cities and towns — old and new — as good places to live."

By G. MILTON KELLY
 WASHINGTON (AP)—Two senators demanded today that the Justice Department and Civil Rights Commission investigate an alleged labor union plot to use racial tensions as a weapon in labor disputes.

The story of the scheme came out Wednesday in the Senate Labor-Management Committee's hearings on racketeering in the Miami area.

The committee placed in evidence a letter from a Miami Teamsters official, David Frechette, to Teamsters President James R. Hoffa asking for $15,000 to finance the plan.

Teen-Aged Annie Oakley With A Gun Pops Up In New Mexico

By NETTIE SURLS
 ROY, N.M. (AP) — Beverly Mackey is about as frilly and fancy a teen-ager as can be imagined.

except the people who know Beverly.

Beverly Mackey is a demure 15-year-old student at Roy High School. She's had more than her share of honors. She's the 1958-1959 Future Farmers of America sweetheart. She goes steady with a guard on the high school basketball team. She was this year elected most beautiful girl in the sophomore class. She is now — and always has been — a straight A student.

And she packs a mean rifle. She's been hunting since the age of 9. That year she went with her father strictly as an observer. The next year she went out with her 30-30 Winchester but got so excited she couldn't shoot.

At the age of 12, she bagged her first deer — a nine-point buck weighing 155 pounds.

Last year, Beverly entered the annual Harding County Lions Club turkey shoot. She hit the bulleye every time. For the rest of the day, the other women declined to compete against her and she went against the men — winning four out of five times.

Starting the Barbary sheep hunt season this year, she went alone the first day and saw nothing. The next day, accompanied by Curtis Mackey, her father, and Alfonso Lujan, she bagged her record maker at 150 yards from a kneeling position, in the roughest possible country. And with only one shot.

Next year, just to make things interesting, she plans to hunt with bow and arrow.

needed use of the racial scheme against any contractors engaged on housing projects in which FHA or VA mortgage financing would be a factor. Federal law forbids racial discrimination in housing constructed with government financial aid.

The letter asked Hoffa for $15,000 to help the Teamsters apply the purported Rubin scheme against Acme Concrete, a Miami firm then working on a home construction project.

Frechette wrote Hoffa: "On a Sunday, when the developer has his model homes on display to the public and when he makes his sales, he (Rubin) floods the models with a few hundred colored laborers and their families who parade through the models and express an interest in purchasing a home in the project, with a few actually making application.

"In the light of this segregation thing here, this ruins the sales for the day."

Any refusal to sell to a Negro applicant, he continued, brings immediate complaint of racial discrimination to the FHA and VA.

"This usually ends it," Frechette said, "as the builder gets shook up about having his mortgage financing fouled up."

The letter emphasized that the purchase is phony, in that any Negro buyer actually was acting only as an agent for the union, which would hold title to the house.

The committee described this as a method to get at contractors by embarrassing the actual owners of the development.

100 SAVED DAILY

Every day in the year, more than 100 men, women and children are saved from cancers that would have killed them ten years ago. But thousands are still dying needlessly, according to the American Cancer Society. A yearly checkup is the best protection.

On these charges, says the Chamber, rests the case for federal intervention.

But there is a brighter side of the picture.

Since World War II:

—The number of teachers has increased more than 50 per cent, from 831,026 to 1,291,929. In the same period, the average number of students per teacher has been cut from 28 to 26, despite enrollment increases from 23,299,941 to 33,936,000.

—Total expenditures for public schools, including construction, are up from $2.9 billion in 1945-46 to $14.4 billion in the current school year, an increase of more than 400 per cent.

—More than 600,000 classrooms have been built.

The fact is, says the Chamber, that these figures represent "a remarkable achievement" by the States and local governments, and they deserve a lot more credit than pleaders for federal intervention have given them.

Mount Misery Is Heaven To This Lover Of Animals

ANIMAL FRIEND—Because he prefers animals to people, Freeman Taylor, shown petting one of his 35 dogs and feeding a pet deer, moved to the center of a large New Jersey forest preserve.

MOUNT MISERY, N.J. (AP) — Bachelor Freeman Taylor has moved to this woodland area where there aren't any people because Upton Station got too crowded.

Upton Station, which is in the woods about 16 miles east of Mount Holly, N.J., has a population of four.

But, figured Taylor, there's a housing development about 10 miles away from Upton Station, and who knows when somebody might build closer.

Then, too, the railroad track through Upton Station was getting busy. Sometimes three trains a week go through.

Taylor just had to move; he likes animals more than people.

Two years ago he was able to buy four acres of privately owned land which stand in the middle of the 20,000-acre Lebanon State Forest.

And in his spare time, he built a two-bedroom ranch house on Mount Misery. Ideal for a real New Jersey woodsman who needs acres of pine around him.

Taylor's new home has more deer, more trees and more room for his 35 pet dogs to run. It also has more rattlesnakes, which Taylor plans to catch and sell for $5 apiece.

But more than anything, Mount Misery has only one resident. For Freeman Taylor that's not misery at all.

The DEADLY LADY of MADAGASCAR

BY C.V. TERRY

CHAPTER 26

Red Carter dismissed Tom Hoyt and motioned me to bring my chair nearer his table. The surface, I saw, was covered with Admiralty charts studded with pins of different colors.

I would find this was his seaman's way of keeping track of his ships — each of which was logged precisely, and its destination noted. Today, however, he ignored the maps. Instead, he took out a plot of the Monsoon Sea, with both the African and Arabian coasts sketched in detail.

"You've sailed these waters, Mr. Douglas," said the pirate king, as calmly as though we were discussing a routine shipment in the North Sea. "Allowing for the fact that the winds are variable to the north, where would you head for the best hunting?"

The question was a trap — but I knew I must walk in boldly. "It's hardly the season to prey on the East India Company," I said. "They'll be waiting for the next monsoon to send their convoys south.

Where does that leave us, then? I've a dozen vessels away at this moment, dogging the sea lanes to the east — but my daughter's burning to take out her first command. Naturally, I'm eager to see how the Pilgrim Venture handles under fire. Can you suggest another hunting ground?"

"There's always the Grand Mogul's fleet, Captain Carter."

"True. It's been some time since I've hunted the Arabian Sea. Are the pickings still fair?"

I saw that he was still battling me to test my knowledge, and spoke without a pause. "Better than fair, sir. His dhows are often old and hard to maneuver. Besides, they're seldom too heavily armed; they'll expect no attack in the western waters of the Arabian Sea."

"It's a long voyage, Mr. Douglas. What of their cargoes?"

"Sometimes they're rich beyond belief. A fortune in spices. Or jewels and precious metals. Things that take but little space in one's hold — and can be sold anywhere."

"How would you secure such a prize — if you were master?"

"As I told you, the Mogul's dhows are only prepared to fight off coastal pirates," I said boldly. "They'll be fair prey for a vessel that handles as well as the Venture. My guess is we could grapple after a single broadside, gut, and be away before they could manage a counterblow."

"With fair winds, we could take several prizes in this fashion — striking twenty leagues apart, where they'd expect no visitors. Once we'd combed the Arabian Gulf, we might even tap the Red Sea trade — though I'll grant you it's trickier to navigate."

I had spoken as forcefully as I could, and the picture I drew was a fair one. The infidels have always been legal game for our privateers. If I must turn pirate, I felt I could fight them with a clear conscience, as natural enemies of England.

"My daughter can navigate any waters that are charted," said Carter. "The point is still well taken." He was jabbing pins into the new map now, his nostrils flaring like a hound to the scent. "She'll victual for the Arabian Sea, then — and take what she finds there. You'll ship as her second mate."

I accepted the ruling without demur. "The lady won't regret her offer," I said. Naturally, I had hoped for a first berth — but that post belonged by right to Mozo.

"My feeling is you'll do, Mr. Douglas," said Carter. "The next few weeks will test that belief. Don't be confused if I add there's another inducement to succeed. Or has Bonnie explained you're being groomed as a possible consort?"

He had taken me by surprise, and I knew I was gaping. Despite the implication behind his words, there was nothing friendly in his tone; the eyes were hot coals now, burning my hide.

"I'm afraid I don't understand, sir," I said — and cursed my stammering tongue.

"Don't pretend to be stupid. My daughter and I have no secrets. She said she wants you. I've promised she could have you — if you pass muster on this voyage. I'll endorse no man for marriage to my daughter until he's shown his mettle at sea."

I was at a loss for words now — and prudent enough to hold my tongue. Fortunately, Carter gave me no change for speech.

"The girl's turned twenty," he said — and I had the odd feeling he was thinking aloud rather than addressing me directly. "If she means to give this kingdom an heir, it's high time she were wed. Not that I'll part with her willingly. You understand that much, I trust?"

"Perfectly, sir," I murmured.

"Since she was fifteen, she's had her choice of husbands, but none of my lad's struck her fancy. Now you've arrived on my doorstep — and she's chosen you. It's as simple as that, Mr. Douglas. What else can I do but put you on trial?"

"I won't deny I'm honored beyond my deserts. But I never dared hope —"

"There's no need to play-act," he said. "You're a man of parts. Are you pretending you didn't see how the wind was setting?"

"I give you my word, sir —"

"The devil with your word, man! You've taken the blood oath. That means you take orders, too. First, you'll ship out as a gentleman of fortune and prove yourself. Then, if the girl still wants it so, you'll wed her. Is that clear? Or must I keel-haul you and look elsewhere?"

The words were fairly thundered. Now, for the first time, I could measure for enormity of his self-esteem. How could it be otherwise when his power here was absolute? In the same breath I sensed that he took no pleasure in the agreement he had offered me. Finally, and most important, I saw that my life hung in the balance — depending, quite literally, on the answer I made to his question.

"Consider your problems solved, sir," I said. "I'll do my utmost to serve you both."

For a moment more he continued to stare across the table, and his eyes still smoldered with wordless resentments. Then he expelled his breath in a long sigh before he held out his hand. To my surprise, his fingers were icy-cold.

"Spoken like a man, Mr. Douglas," he said. "I trust you meant every word."

"Try me on either count," I said. "You'll see how well I mean them."

His whiskers still danced like the quills of an angry porcupine, but his eyes had gone back to lazy blue. I settled in my chair. It had been a narrow squeak — but I felt I was safe as he went booming on to other matters.

"We'll discuss one more subject that's close to my heart," he said. "Then I'll give you shore leave. What d'you know of a man called Sir Luke Metcalf?"

I had braced for the query — and found I could answer without quaking. "Only that he's a nabob of the East India Company. He sailed with us under a pseudonym."

"Your paths have never crossed before?"

"Never, sir," I murmured. Aware that my life had balanced again on a proper answer, I was ashamed to the depths that this answer must be a lie.

Carter dismissed my avowal with a flick of his massive hand. "No matter — though I wish you'd known his true name and warned Bonnie in time."

"I can see that, sir. Naturally, you meant to capture him along with the Pilgrim Venture."

"It was my hope, ever since her keel was laid," he said. "I paid Bob McLane a fortune to set the trap in New York. When Metcalf walked into it, I felt I'd not lived in vain." He rested both elbows on his worktable and stared into space, obsessed by some evil vision he could never share.

"Why should you tame me? Why should any man?" is Bonnie's challenge to Dick Douglas as the story of "The Deadly Lady of Madagascar" reaches a climax tomorrow.

William McIntire Elkins, an extremely wealthy Philadelphia man who died in 1947, almost always rented his evening clothes. If they were a good fit, he would buy them the next day.

Bel Air 4-Door Sport Sedan

It's easy to see why the '59 Chevrolet is going over so big. It's priced right down where the lowest car prices begin. Yet it's got all the important advances the top-priced cars are proud of.

Things like Fisher Body roominess, which includes more luggage space as well as wider, more comfortable seating. More visibility area—all Safety Plate Glass, too—with the windshield alone up to 61% bigger. A gleaming new finish that keeps its gleam for years without wax or polish.

There's Full Coil suspension for a smooth, steady ride. Bigger, better cooled brakes that add an extra measure of safety. And in the power department Chevrolet offers spirited V8's plus a new Hi-Thrift 6 that saves as much as 10% on your gas costs.

No wonder, is it, Chevy's the most wanted one of all? Here's everything you're most likely to want in a car wrapped up in one sweet-looking, low-priced package. Your Chevrolet dealer will be happy to arrange a demonstration.

Death Sentence For Women Is Rarely Imposed

NEW YORK (AP)—Forty-one states and the District of Columbia sanction the death penalty for convicted criminals. But only nine states have executed a woman in recent years.

California is one of the nine, and its last experience with a woman in its gas chamber was so distasteful that a legislative effort now is underway to abolish capital punishment.

But, ironically, it was the state of California that Tuesday became the latest to doom a woman to death. She is Elizabeth Duncan, whose jealous love of her 30-year-old son drove her to promise two men $6,000 to kill her daughter-in-law.

It was the 1955 execution of Barbara Graham, 32, in the San Quentin prison gas chamber that sickened many Californians on capital punishment.

A prostitute turned robber, she died with two professional robbers for the murder of a 63-year-old Burbank, Calif., widow in a robbery attempt. The case formed the basis for a current movie, "I Want to Live," starring Susan Hayward.

After Miss Graham's death, Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, now governor of California, was moved to declare: "This business today has been like some dark memory out of the Roman Coliseum."

"I hope Barbara Graham will be the last woman to be executed in the state of California."

New York, probably, has executed more women than any other state—eight by state decree and a ninth by mandate of the federal government. The latter was a participant with her husband in one of the most infamous cases in American history—the Rosenberg atomic spy case.

Ethel Rosenberg went with her husband Julius to Sing Sing's electric chair June 19, 1953. She died with no display of emotion.

In recent years, Ohio has put three women to death in the electric chair, and South Carolina and Alabama have electrocuted two each. Illinois has electrocuted one. So has Virginia, but not since 1911.

Two women have gone to the gas chamber in South Carolina, and one in Missouri. In the latter state, years ago, a murderess was hanged.

TV Program Using A Spring Background

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—If you pause to think about it, the most important news these days is that spring is here—or coming, in case you're still shoveling snow.

For 10 weeks now an energetic fellow named Barry Wood and a staff of thinkers and tinkers have been rushing the season by planning a program which will come to the home screen next Monday.

"America Pauses for Springtime," an hour salute to the season featuring a large cast of performers in live, taped and filmed television, will be presented on CBS-TV.

"We're not doing a documentary on spring," says Wood, who pioneered a new concept in TV programming as the producer of the deceased "Wide, Wide World."

"We've often showed the outdoors on television, but never before as the stage for an all-star music and comedy production. Now we're using nature itself as the backdrop for entertainment stars."

Here, specifically, is what he means:

Marge and Gower Champion dancing in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park.

Genevieve singing in a Louisiana bayou accompanied by Luc Forst's guitar.

The Air Force Academy Chorus singing in Colorado's Garden of the Gods while the West Point Choir reaches viewers from Soldiers' Monument above the Hudson.

Another accomplishment of the program is to show Herb Shriner, the Hoosier humorist, in Indiana for a change. The setting for Shriner is Coesse (Pop. 151), its main street and general store.

Among other revelations of the roaming cameras are folk singer Jean Ritchie singing beside Looking Glass Falls in North Carolina's Great Smokies, and Robert Merrill singing on a Staten Island ferryboat in New York Harbor.

"America Pauses for Springtime" is the first in a projected series of special programs using a similar technique.

"American life is so fertile and interesting that there is an inexhaustible source of fascinating backgrounds," said Wood.

Six directors and crews of technicians traveled more than 30,000 miles in preparing "America Pauses for Springtime."

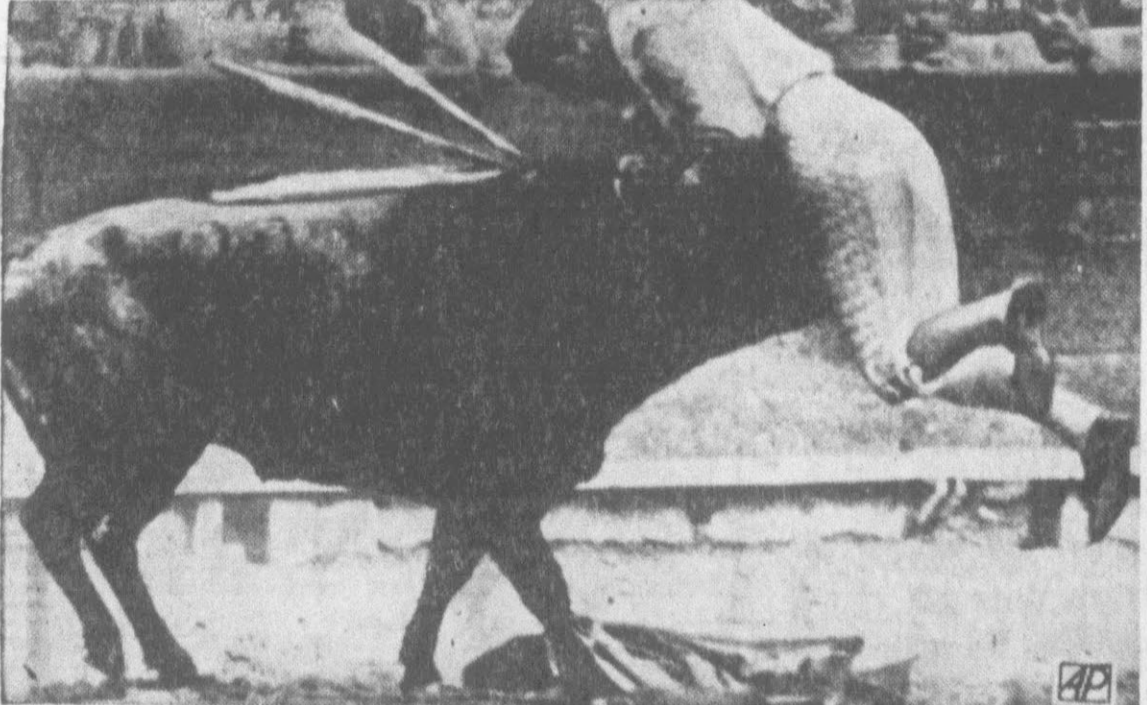

Old Battleship Is Sunk For Good

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The old battleship San Marcos, once the battleship Texas, has at last lost her title as a menace to navigation in Chesapeake Bay.

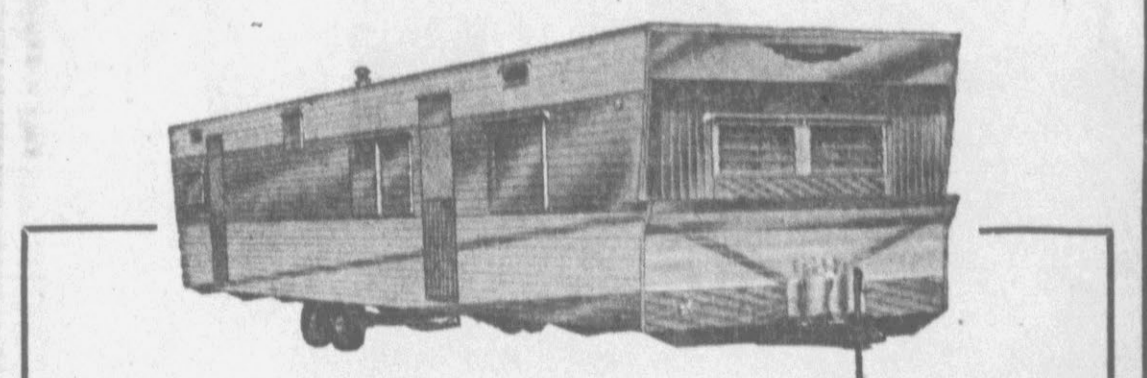

The USS Salvaer reported her at least 20 feet below the surface after exploding 1,500 tons of explosive on her rusted hull. The San Marcos was sunk by guns of the Battleship New Hampshire in 1920. Before that she was used as a target in other firepower demonstrations, including a bombing by Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell. The Navy has made numerous efforts and exploded many tons of explosives in an effort to destroy the wreck.

Congratulations And A 'Kicker'

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Mayor Harold Frankel received a call from an acquaintance offering congratulations on Huntington's selection as an All-America city in a national contest. But as the mayor was saying thanks for the kind thoughts, the caller added: "Now get your All-America garbage truck over to my house and pick up the garbage."

London Wants To Go Ahead With Title Bout

BLACKPOOL, England (AP)—Britain's biggest boxing row in years flared today with a British heavyweight hurling defiance at officials who forbade him to fight America's world heavyweight king Floyd Patterson.

The country's boxing bosses—the British Board of Boxing Control—banned Brian London from meeting Patterson for the world title in Las Vegas, Nev., April 21. They claimed the bout would not be in the best interests of British boxing.

London promptly announced he would go ahead with the bout anyway.

"I've got a big pay day coming ($75,000) and a chance to win the world title," the pugacious, 24-year-old Briton said. "I'll risk suspension at home for that."

The BBBC said London probably will lose his license to fight in Britain if he defies them.

"It is now up to American authorities to decide whether they will permit an unauthorized British boxer to fight Patterson," said BBBC President J. Onslow Fane. U.S. boxing bigwigs appeared ready to go along with London, although their statements were cautious.

Dr. Ward Wylie, president of the National Boxing Assn., said: "The NBA will recognize any logical contender."

Observed national boxing commissioner Abe Greene: "We have a very friendly arrangement and understanding with the BBBC but we would want to know more about the circumstances which would prompt such a preemptory stand before we would concur."

Two members of the Nevada Boxing Commission also said they would permit the fight "unless we

ECC Netters Defeat Visiting Elon Christians

East Carolina's tennis team opened defense on their North State Conference crown yesterday afternoon with a decisive 7-0 win over Elon.

The Pirate netters copped five victories in the singles and two doubles for their first conference win of the season. They have a 3-0 over-all mark.

The win gave East Carolina their 18th consecutive win. They were 10-0 in the loop last season and produced an over-all mark of 17-2.

John West, number one man for ECC, had little trouble in defeating Jimmy Bennett, 6-1, 6-0. Bill Hollowell, John Savage, Red Brown, and Joe Holloway also recorded wins in the singles.

The North State double champions, Savage and Hollowell, had little trouble in the doubles as did West and Hollowell.

The East Carolina netters will take on William and Mary here Friday afternoon and then Cornell here Monday.

Results: West (EC) defeated Bennett 6-1, 6-0. Hollowell (EC) defeated Lowther 6-0, 6-0.

get a request from the BBBC giving a good reason for the ban and a transcript of the hearing at which he was banned."

The controversy stems from London's last fight, against Henry Cooper.

Cooper used a jabbing left to take away London's british title. London was made to look like a novice as he plodded smack into the nagging left of Cooper.

"Experts argue Cooper should be the man tackling Patterson but Cooper lost his chance by asking for too much money—$140,000.

Pitching Is Key To Reds' Bid For NL Championship

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds are being tabbed as the dark horse of the National League but that is bringing little solace to Manager Mayo Smith and General Manager Gabe Paul. They realize that if something isn't done soon about the plight of their pitching staff, the Reds will be fortunate to finish in the first division.

Ask Smith to evaluate his club and he gives you several stock replies. He leaves it up to you to interpret them.

"It's hard to say whether the club is good, mediocre or bad at this point because we don't know about the pitching. . . .

"Our pitching is the key. How far we go depends upon that. . . . The truth of the matter is that Mayo is worried about his pitching, or lack of it. He has four veteran starters in Bob Purkey (17-11), Don Newcombe (7-13), Brooks Lawrence (8-13) and south-paw Joe Nuxhall (12-11). He has a couple of good looking youngsters in lefty Jimmy O'Toole and righty Orlando Pena.

O'Toole, a 20-game winner at Nashville, is the big hope. But Smith is afraid of the pressure.

The way the staff shapes up, Pena and Hal Jeffcoat will be the end relief men, Tom Acker and Willard Schmidt will be the middle men and Bob Mabe may win the No. 5 starting role.

Cincinnati has a balance of power, achieved mainly by the acquisition of right-handed hitting slugger Frank Thomas from Pittsburgh. The Reds' batting order lists left-handers Gus Bell, Vada Pinson, Jerry Lynch in the outfield and Ed Bailey behind the plate; with righthanders Frank Robinson at first, Johnny Temple at second, Roy McMillan at short and Thomas at third.

The suspicion is that Thomas, a mediocre third baseman but a good outfielder, will be switched to left field with Bell either peddled to another club or cast in a utility role. In that event, Eddie Kasko, an infield handyman, would take over at third base.

"We should score some runs," said Smith, "but sometimes it can be a case of feast or famine. What we're striving for is steady pitching and good balance. So far, it's not good, not bad, just in between."

Moore Wants Robinson Bout

MONTREAL (AP)—Ol' Archie Moore still wants to fight Sugar Ray Robinson but he's signed for a rematch of his exciting light heavyweight title bout with Yvon Durelle because "a bird in the hand is worth 20 in the bush."

"My ultimate aim is to fight Robinson," said Moore after his agreement to the Durelle rematch was announced by promoter Eddie Quinn. "The only thing is Robinson (the middleweight champion) did all the negotiating. I didn't do any and I didn't authorize anyone to negotiate for me. A bird in the hand is worth 20 in the bush."

Quinn, who promoted the thrilling first Moore-Durelle tussle last Dec. 10 in the Montreal Forum, said the rematch would be held July 15 in the Montreal Royals' baseball park, which seats about 25,000 for boxing. The bout will be televised nationally in the United States by ABC as part of its Wednesday night series.

Moore reportedly has been guaranteed $175,000 or 40 per cent of the gate estimated at $200,000 plus an expected additional $100,000 from television and radio fees. Durelle has been guaranteed $15,000 or 20 per cent.

Moore was floored four times before rallying to stop Durelle, of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., in the 11th round of the first bout. His sensational victory won Archie the Edward J. Neil award as fighter of the year and the National Boxing Assn.'s boxer of the year honor. Ring Magazine named it the top fight of the year.

"If Archie wins this one," his manager, Doc Kearns, said, "He may fight Robinson in September."

Claude King In Azalea Tourney

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Buddy Baker of Florence, S.C., national junior champion, and Claude King, amateur winner here in 1956, are among top amateur contenders in the 11th annual Azalea Open golf tournament starting a four-day run here Friday.

Bill Womack of Florence, runner-up to Baker for the national junior title last year, qualified with a 78. Thirty-three amateurs competed.

The other qualifiers and scores included Don Adderton, Wilmington, 75; Bobby Harrell, Wilmington, 76; Frank Mullins, Jacksonville and Bill Hatvey, Greensboro all 76; X. Brown, Wilmington, R. C. Powell, Wilmington, Fred Brown, Ft. Bragg, and Knox Thompson, Laurinburg, all 77.

Golfers Head For Tourneys

PAIM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The touring golf pros headed north today, some to Wilmington, N.C., for a tournament there and others to Augusta, Ga., to prepare for the Masters.

They closed out their Florida tour Wednesday in the 36-hole Seminole pro-amateur. Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., was the big winner at $2,150.

Palmer had a 70 to go with his first-round 71 and split $1,900 with Mike Souchak of Grossingers, N.Y., who had 72 - 69-141. But Souchak finished out of the money in the best-ball competition while Palmer picked up $1,250.

Palmer's amateur partners were Arthur O. Willman of Boston and Kenneth Rich of Dallas, Tex. The Palmer-Willman duo had a best ball score of 66 - 61 - 127. Palmer's score with Rich was 64-65-129.

Ben Hogan, the veteran from Fort Worth, Tex., staged a brilliant comeback with a five under par 67 on closing day and picked up $550.

Sam Snead, now club pro at Boca Raton, Fla., wound up with 70-73-143, good for only $300.

Palmer, Snead, Hogan and Cary Middlecoff of Hollywood, Fla., went directly to Augusta to get ready for the Masters opening April 2 but most of the others headed for Wilmington.

Duke Job Is Wide Open

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Counting telephone calls, says Duke Athletic Director Eddie Cameron, there have been 35 to 40 applicants for the basketball coaching job vacated by Hal Bradley. "I've asked callers to apply in writing as a matter of record," said Cameron Wednesday, "and I expect many more applications."

"We have no interviews scheduled this week. We aren't going to make any rush selection."

Bradley ended a nine-year coaching career with Duke Monday when he accepted a three-year contract as head coach at the University of Texas.

Clay Spotlights Golden Gloves

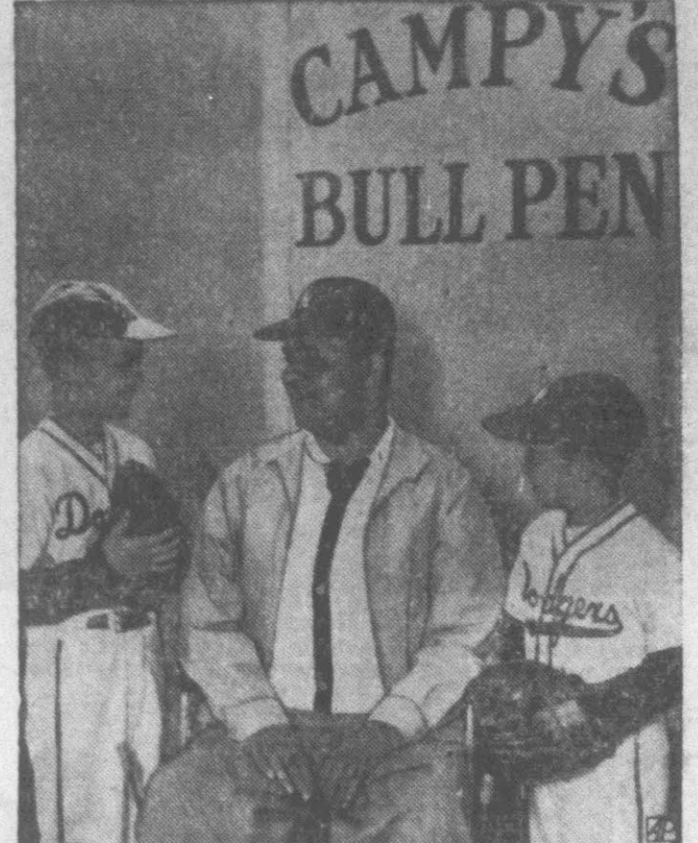

CHICAGO (AP)—New York won an unprecedented second straight Intercity Golden Gloves team title over Chicago Wednesday night, but the individual spotlight was turned on the Windy City's Cassius Clay.

Clay, a 17-year-old high school student from Louisville, Ky., proved he was quite advanced for his age as a sharp counter puncher in taking a three-round decision over New York's lightweight Tony Madigan.

Madigan, at 29 is a rough, mauling type of fighter who hails from Sydney, Australia. He is the Aussie amateur champ as well as the British Empire's and had lost only 5 of 99 bouts before running into Clay.

Madigan, who now lives in Rye, N.Y., pressed the fight all the way, but Clay's pointed combinations kept rocking him.

The Chicago Stadium crowd of 7,261 gave the battle a fine ovation. It was one of three televised nationally.

Greenville has their next match scheduled next Wednesday, April 1, when they meet Rocky Mount at the local club.

Gambling Raid Bags Big Party On Hudson River

PIERMONT, N.Y. (AP)—State and local officers broke down guarded doors and seized 45 well-heeled men in a raid on a plush gambling parlor Wednesday night. Some of the men were playing cards. Others were lolling in easy chairs as the raiders burst in. A catering firm with portable stoves was serving steaks, chops, salads and other food. Wads of more than $2,000 were found on a number of the men. There was no sign of liquor around the layout. There was a guard outside the place, and a buzzer system was used to gain admittance. Several expensive cars — including a Rolls Royce — were parked outside. An agent of the State Investigation Commission, which was in on the raid, called it "very important."

Commission Chairman Jacob Grumet, said at his New York City home. "We cooperated with the Rockland County district attorney because we believe this (gambling) organization extends beyond Rockland County. This raid was part of our fight against organized crime."

Sheriff J. Henry Moch said: "This was nothing like the Apalachin convention. Sixty-odd underworld figures and associates were picked up by state troopers who raided a mansion at Apalachin, a tiny upstate New York community, Nov. 14, 1957. All were released after questioning because, state police said, there were no grounds to arrest them. The State Investigation Commission and several other agencies are still trying to learn the purpose of that convention."

Wednesday night's raid was on an abandoned building on this Hudson River commuter community 20 miles north of Times Square, across from populous northern New Jersey. Moch said most of those seized were from New York City and New Jersey.

All the men were taken to the office of Dist. Atty. John A. Skahan at New City, the county seat.

In addition to three investigators and three lawyers of the State Investigation Commission, the raiding party included the sheriff, the district attorney, state troopers and Rockland County officers.

Moch said the raid followed weeks of surveillance of the gamblers.

Pre-Easter Snow Storm For Eastern Rockies, Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A pre-Easter snow storm whipped across the eastern Rockies into the Midwest today after kicking up a rash of violent weather in sections of the plains and Mississippi Valley.

The year's worst snow storm which hammered the eastern slopes of the Rockies left drifts waist-high in parts of Colorado, Wyoming and western Nebraska. Snow depths were more than a foot in many places. Denver sloshed through a foot of fresh snow. It was not spring time in the Rockies.

The early spring storm, abating in the Rockies, didn't lose much of its fury as it swept eastward, powered by strong northerly winds.

Heavy snow warnings were issued for Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota. Lighter amounts were in prospect in northern sections of Wisconsin and Michigan and parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. Texas staggered from an outbreak of wild weather. Tornadoes, snow, hail, rain and strong winds lashed the Lone Star state Wednesday. Freezing weather followed the snow in the Panhandle region. The tornadoes caused some property damage and injured one person.

In the western sections of the snow belt, many roads were impassable. One death was attributed to the storm in Colorado. Hundreds of autos were abandoned as motorists found shelter in motels. Bus travel was halted at Denver and Cheyenne, Wyo. Schools closed in many areas of both Colorado and Wyoming.

At Ogallala, Neb., students from rural areas spent the night in the city's school when buses were halted by the huge drifts. Further west, in Kimball County, schools remained closed. The tornadoic winds which hit Texas also struck in nearby Oklahoma. One twister swept the area of Alva, in northern Oklahoma, damaging some homes. No injuries were reported. Heaviest damages from the violent winds in Texas was in Denison, a community of about 1,000 in the north central section. One woman was injured. Tornado-force winds also lashed areas southwest and south of Denison.

Hail, rain and snow pelted Amarillo in north Texas. Two inches of snow covered the ground at Texline and snow continued at Dalhart. Hailstones a half-inch in diameter, nearly an inch of rain and winds up to 70 m.p.h. rocked Bridgeport.

The storm, moving southeast across north central Texas, hit parts of Fort Worth and Dallas with rain, hail and strong winds. Tornadoic winds pounded Parsons, in southeast Kansas. More than an inch of rain fell in Kansas

Janitor Devises Reach For Safety

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mutual Burton, a junior high school janitor, has devised a machine by which a school safety patrol boy can extend his crosswalk safety flag four feet into the street without leaving the curb. Burton explained that he had a special reason for his invention. Five of his sons have been school patrol members and "I didn't like the idea of my boys having to stand in the street," he explains.

Patrolman Also In Door Trouble

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—Ray Starke received a telephone call at his home that the store manager by him had been found with an unlocked door. Starke thanked the caller. Patrolman Bruce Andrews, hurried to the store, found everything in order, locked the door and returned home. Came another phone call. It was Patrolman Andrews again. "Would you mind coming back down?" Andrews asked. "You locked me in the store."

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDREW C. LANG

AP Newsfeatures
From time to time during the last few years, we've all read or heard about the use of solar energy to heat houses.

Some of us may have received the impression that solar houses are just around the corner. This is hardly the case. Even under the selected conditions under which some experimental solar houses have been built, only a moderate degree of efficiency has been attained. Better heat storage systems remain to be developed before enough heat can be stored for a long enough period of time to take care of a succession of cloudy days.

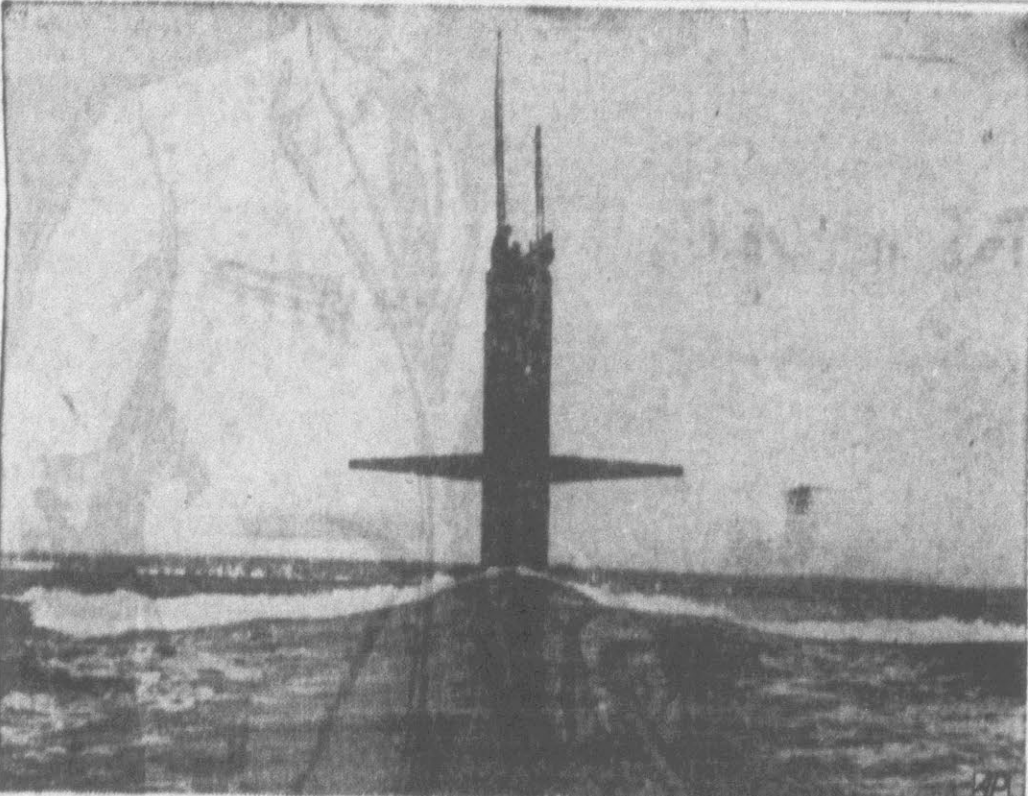

In a solar house recently built in usually sunny Phoenix, Ariz., an auxiliary heater is needed to operate for short periods a few times during the year. In a solar house built in Lexington, Mass., under the direction of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the auxiliary heater must do its work more often. The Lexington house is the first of its kind built to meet the needs of an average family in a Northern area.

One of the world's leading experts on solar energy, engineer John Yellott, has designed for one of the how-to-do-it publications a ranch-style solar residence which makes use of materials which are now commercially available. The idea is to show that a solar house is now a practical reality. In this design, thermostatic controls are proposed to turn the auxiliary heating system on and off automatically.

One thing must be remembered in any discussion of solar houses. The installation cost of the equipment must be made so low that the annual cost of owning it — and whatever auxiliary unit is needed — is less than the cost of heating by conventional methods.

Aside from playing host to vacationists, Florida is also an important manufacturing state. Chemicals, paper, lumber products are principal items.

THESE CHECK ROWS TELL THE STORY!
Protect peanut acreage with nematode-killing Nemagon[®] SOIL FUMIGANT

The check rows above show the actual damage root-attacking nematodes can inflict on a peanut crop. Spotty stands, sparse growth, wilted foliage . . . typical signs of nematode damage. That's why it pays to knock out nematodes with powerful Nemagon Soil Fumigant. Nemagon Soil Fumigant is easy to apply. As a liquid, inject it directly into the soil with pressure-feed or gravity-flow tractor attachment. Or, apply it as granules or use a fertilizer mix and save the bother and expense of separate applications. Economical, too, one nematode-killing application protects from planting to harvest and the initial cost is returned many times over in bigger yields of better quality peanuts. This season, knock out nematodes with powerful Nemagon Soil Fumigant. It is available from your pesticide dealer. For further information, see him today or write to:

Tempers Flared At Hearing On 'Drunkometer' Bill

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — A public hearing on the Drunkometer bill erupted into a heat of tempers Wednesday with incriminations and demands for apology.

The sparks were ignited by the Rev. Fred Still of Red Springs, the last of a long procession of persons speaking in favor of the bill, who declared: "I feel that anyone who votes against this bill and is not responsible and is not fit to serve the people of North Carolina."

Sen. S. Bunn Frink of Brunswick

wick leaped to his feet in red-faced indignation. "I plan to vote against this bill in its present form and I think I am responsible and fit," he said. "I demand an apology."

Simultaneously, Rep. John B. Regan of Robeson hurriedly rose to his feet and moved that the hearing be dissolved.

Immediately afterwards Sen. Cutlar Moore of Robeson called the Senate Roads Committee together in an effort to get immediate action on the bill. But Sen. James G. Sikeleather's move for a favorable report was challenged by Senator Frink who had actually never stopped voicing his indignation.

"This bill is not going out of this committee until I have had my say," he said.

Senator Sikeleather withdrew his motion and another was passed calling for a committee meeting on the bill with the chairman fixing the date and notifying members.

Meanwhile, the Rev. Mr. Still had retired to the opposite side of the Highway Auditorium, where the hearing was held, to accept a few handshakes and to declare: "I have nothing to apologize for; I'll stand on my statement."

Senator Frink, surrounded by reporters, was equally adamant. "I'm not against this bill in principle but it's not right to use this method," he said, pointing to some of the more controversial aspects of the bill. "And those remarks that the preacher made — who I have never heard a more outlandish statement in my life."

The major objections to the bill which Frink voiced were innumerable: (1) no provision is made for the purchase of the equipment; (2) no provision is made for payment of the doctor or other trained persons required to administer the tests; (3) no provisions are made for having the tests administered at the jails by some responsible person — and most people are arrested at night and taken to jail; and (4) no provision is made in the case of persons who are injured and unable to give consent to taking a test for intoxication.

"Other than those things, I think I might be for it," Frink said.

But before the final eruption at the end of the hearing it was evident that tempers were reaching the breaking point. For nearly three hours some 14 or more persons had testified in favor of the bill — the vast majority of them doctors. There were no opponents aside from the legislators themselves.

The legislators were concerned about several provisions of the bill, particularly one clause which says that if a person arrested for drunk driving refuses to submit to the test, the Department of Motor Vehicles may revoke his license for one year — even though the suspect is later acquitted in court.

The question of self-incrimination was raised in that the test, while not mandatory "adds up to the same thing" since refusal can be mentioned in the court.

Senator Moore had assured the legislators they would have their say later in a committee session but opposition, too strong to be suppressed, cropped up in the form of questions to witnesses which at moments bordered on verbal attack.

Senator Pat Crooke of Gaston, pointing to pending legislation which protects ministers from having to give testimony, asked the Rev. John Link of Warrenton: "Did Maj. (Charles A.) Speed ask you to come here?"

The minister said the Highway Patrol major had invited him but added: "If I didn't do everything in my power to protect the rights of the people then I would feel guilty. I come as an individual on my own accord."

Senator Cicero Yow asked him: "Do you know if Major Speed invited anyone who might be opposed to this bill?"

Opposition was also evident during questions addressed to Dr. David Monroe, an attorney and professor of political science at UNC. Dr. Monroe, having studied 709 Supreme Court cases on such tests, expressed the view that the bill was constitutional. He favored the refusal clause which he said would not be a punitive measure but a "security measure."

Senator Cooke, pointing out the practical effects of refusal if admitted as evidence, asked the professor: "I don't want to embarrass you — but have you ever had any courtroom experience?"

The two men later got in a wrangle on the proper pronunciation of "prima facie."

One of the most effective speakers was Dr. William A. Wolff, assistant professor of biochemistry year tests for intoxication program in Forsyth, has handled more than 2,000 court cases. He has also carried out a research program giving volunteers a measured amount of alcohol. "Apparently in Winston-Salem it's easy to get a large number of volunteers," he said.

Auditions Slated For Lost Colony

Manteo — Auditions and tryouts for scores of Lost Colony roles will be conducted here Monday afternoon, March 30 for local and area actors and again on Saturday, April 4, at the University of North Carolina's Playmakers Theatre in Chapel Hill.

The local tryouts under the supervision of the drama's director Clifton Britton and the choreographer Walter Stroud. The tryouts here will be held at Waterside Theatre beginning at 3:30 p.m. to 5:30. Last year 83 residents of Roanoke Island had roles in the show or were members of The Lost Colony Company. This compared to 61 off islanders, many of whom were college drama students, professional actors or voice students of Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N.J.

During the Chapel Hill auditions and tryouts in addition to Director Britton and Choreographer Stroud being present, George Trautwein, the drama's musical director for the forthcoming season will be present to audition singers.

There are a variety of roles that go to local actors each year, many of which are non-speaking parts, but roles which are important to the production of the show. Local actors are cast as Indian braves and maidens, colonists men and women, pages, heralds, soldiers and colonist children. Several have minor speaking roles. One island native is a member of the Lost Colony Chorus today. She is Mary Helene Thomas who started in the show when quite young playing the part of a flower girl.

Scout-Minded Family Produces Four Eagles

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — as far as he can ascertain, the family is the only one in the council with four Eagle Scouts.

To most fathers, having one son attain the rank of Eagle Scout is an occasion for justifiable pride. "And it's one of the very few in the nation," he adds.

But Harold A. Erickson has four sons who claim that distinction. What does the father, who is manager of the wholesale department for a local florist, have to say?

In addition, one other son is a Life Scout, another is a First Class, and one daughter is a member of a Brownie troop. "Naturally, we're very proud. We're pleased that they have enough ambition to want to go to the top, to finish what they start." Erickson has five more boys, all of whom he says plan to be Scouts when they reach the required age.

The eagle scouts in the Erickson family are Harold, 18; Frank, 17; Allen, 16, and John, 15. The four boys have a total of 85 merit badges.

Paradoxically, Erickson was never a Scout himself. "But I'm sorry now I wasn't," he says.

Fourteen-year-old David is the Life Scout, and the First Class rank is held by Philip, 12. Little Eileen, 8, is the Brownie.

Charles B. Cook, Scout executive for the Gherokee area council, says

HOUSEFUL OF EAGLES—These four sons of Harold A. Erickson of Chattanooga all have the rank of Eagle Scout, with 85 merit badges among them. The boys are (top to bottom) Harold, 18; Allen, 16; Frank, 17; and John, 15. Erickson has two other sons who are Scouts, a daughter who is a Girl Scout, and five more sons who plan to be active in Scouting.

Unique Features In Preparing 'Statement Of Faith'

NEW YORK (AP)—Some unusual procedures—in an unusual atmosphere—went into the making of a new statement of Christian faith for the recently merged United Church of Christ.

The new statement was born in a document-stacked room at the Airport Hotel in Pittsburgh, Pa. "It was a rather unorthodox setting," said the Rev. Dr. James E. Wagner, of Philadelphia, co-president of the denomination.

First step in formulating it was a research assignment. Each commission member read a three-volume study covering the background of all the creeds drawn up in 2,000 years of Christianity.

Then came another novel twist. Each commission member drafted a statement and submitted it anonymously.

Widespread protestant interest has focused on the statement, since the merger has brought together the noncreedal, noncentralized Congregational Christian churches, and the Evangelical and Reformed Church which has used the historic creeds.

Most of the classical Christian creeds—such as the Nicene Creed, the Augsburg Confession, the Westminster Confession—were produced at councils and ecclesiastical assemblies, called by emperors or parliaments.

Aviation Agency Plans Medical Research Work

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The newly created post of Civil Air Surgeon in the Federal Aviation Agency calls attention to the importance of aviation medicine and aeromedical research.

The determination of physical competency is a complex task requiring the balancing of many factors: the skill, experience and judgment of the pilot on one hand, against his probable response to strain, stress and excitement on the other.

The FAA hopes eventually to furnish its examining physicians with instruments and techniques which will enable them to predict the reactions and behavior of individual pilots under a given set of conditions far more accurately than can now be done.

After 75 Years, Fire Still Burns

NEW STRATTSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Some 75 years after it was first ignited, a mine fire here still plagues residents. A section of Ohio Route 261 disappeared recently when the fire ate too close to the surface.

Several stories are given of the fire's origin. Some say it's the result of an 1884 strike; others that it's from coal refuse.

Maxie Silenced By Veterinarian

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—A ventriculorctomy settled a law suit. It was performed by Dr. J. E. Spoon, veterinary surgeon, to correct the noisy barking of Maxie, a dachshund—reducing it to something like a gentle cough.

Brotherly Love Builds A Church

SOUTH PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—How does a congregation of 29 build a $51,000 church? "It's simple—brotherly love as exemplified by brethren in two distant states—Oklahoma and Texas.

Nearing completion in South Portland is a Church of Christ that will seat 200. Blocked by a bank's refusal of a $25,000 construction loan because the congregation was so small, Shirley L. Morgan, minister, appealed for help to the Church of Christ in his hometown, Snyder, Texas, and the church in Del City, Okla.

The Oklahoma congregation raised $23,000 by selling bonds. The church at Snyder borrowed $12,000 from a Texas bank and gave it to the struggling South Portland brethren.

Sweet Potato Growers Warned Of 'Georgia Reds'

There is some interest on the part of North Carolina sweet potato growers to produce the Georgia Red variety. This variety was released for commercial production only two or three years ago by the Georgia Experiment Station, and has proven popular with sweet potato growers in Georgia and other states.

The known infected areas. In addition, North Carolina growers who bed Georgia Red potatoes should notify their county agents and request that the new crop of plants be examined for symptoms of this disease. Infected plants can then be removed from the bed and destroyed.

Prior to its introduction, a new virus disease of sweet potatoes was discovered in Georgia. This virus causes a drastic atuning of the plant; the plant is yellowish in appearance, and produces very few marketable roots. This disease is spread by an insect called the white fly, and the disease has spread over most of the sweet potato producing counties in central and southern Georgia and into Mississippi. The virus is present in many plantings of the Georgia Red variety.

This virus disease is not present in North Carolina so far as is known and it is very desirable that the state endeavor to prevent its entry into its sweet potato crop as it may greatly reduce the yield of sweet potatoes. Growers bedding Georgia Red potatoes, or who know of anyone who is doing so, are asked to call the Pitt County Agricultural Agent's Office, telephone PL 2-6111.

Tourists Favor Travel In Russia

Charlotte—American foreign travelers are overwhelmingly in favor of increasing tourist contact between the United States and Russia, according to a national survey by the American Automobile Association reported by the Carolina Motor Club.

Questionnaires mailed to 600 residents of 19 states who patronize the international travel services of affiliated AAA clubs. Of the 41 per cent who responded, 91.3 per cent voted to increase tourist contact with Russia.

Sixty-four per cent expressed interest in visiting the USSR. A few clarified their replies by saying that they would not consider going to Russia at the present time, or under the USSR's current regime. Considering the fact that 77.5 per cent of the participants in the survey were abroad in 1958, it is interesting to note that 29 per cent planned to go abroad again this year, and 22 per cent have plans for foreign travel in 1960.

Thirty-two per cent of the AAA travelers spent 10 weeks or more abroad and 69.3 were abroad five weeks or longer. Nearly 50 per cent reported that their trip changed preconceived attitudes about the countries or people visited. In answer to a request for the true meaning of tourism and its benefits to the people of the world, all were agreed that travel abroad brings about mutual respect and understanding and that tourism is the world's most potent weapon for world peace.

More Scientists Than Any Other

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's missile and aircraft industry employs more scientists and engineers in research and development than any other industry, says the National Science Foundation.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Assn., reported 85,000 scientists and engineers work in the aircraft and missile industry, of which 52,000 are directly connected with research and development.

Many Farmers Have Not Filed 1958 Tax Return

GREENSBORO — The District Director of Internal Revenue said today that a check of returns filed through February 15 indicated that a large number of farmers had not yet filed income tax returns for the year 1958.

February 15 was the deadline for farmers to file their income and self-employment tax returns, unless they filed an estimated return by January 15. If they filed an estimated return and paid the tax due by January 15, they have until April 15 to file their final return for the year 1958. Penalties are imposed for failure to file a return.

In urging farmers who have not already done so to file returns immediately, the District Director pointed out that improved farm incomes realized in 1958 will add many farmers to the list of those required to file returns. Any farmer having a gross income of $600 ($1,200 if age 65 or over) must file a Federal income tax return, even though no tax may be due. This also applies to minor children with a gross income of $600 or more.

Persons having net earnings from self-employment of $400 or more in any year must pay self-employment tax for that year. In order to do so, they must file an income tax return and pay the self-employment tax, even though they would not otherwise be required to file an income tax return. A schedule for computing the self-employment tax for Social Security purposes is included in the income tax return. If not already received, forms may be obtained from any local Internal Revenue

Retirement Plans Of Interest To Everybody

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — What are you going to live on when you're old?
Even some of the rock 'n' roll generation may think about that once in a while. And the U.S. Supreme Court's decision on variable annuities brings up today all the many and competing forms of retirement income that are available to Americans.
A rock 'n' roller is likely to dismiss the question of cash in old age by saying the government will take care of it. He means old age pensions, and all the other benefits that federal and state governments hand out these days.
Workers also either have or hope for some form of retirement pension—a matter for negotiation between themselves and their bosses—and also dependent in some cases on the continuing existence of the company for which they work. Many civil servants have similar pension plans. Some unions have funds for aiding their retired members.
Then you come to the list of income which an individual provides for himself entirely on his own. These forms compete with each other for the individual's savings. This is one reason the variable annuity was brought before the U.S. Supreme Court.
In a 5-4 ruling Monday the court held that the Securities and Exchange Commission should have jurisdiction over variable annuity contracts. In the past they were subject to regulation only by state insurance authorities.
The usual type of annuity as sold by insurance companies provides for a fixed return in dollars, starting at a time and continuing over a period set forth in the contract.
The variable annuity offers payment in dollar amounts that go up and down in line with market value of the corporate stocks into which the insurance company has put the reserve funds involved. The argument is that stock prices will go up when the cost of living rises and that thus the annuity holder will have a fairly stable standard of living.
Many insurance officials who don't like the variable kind—challenge this argument. They say the stock market is no reliable barometer of inflation, nor is continuing inflation as inevitable as

Incentive Plan Plea By Hodges

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Hodges put in a strong plea Wednesday night for a 10 million dollar a year "incentive plan" to boost local support for public schools.
Hodges told the North Carolina Citizens Assn. that unless some such plan is adopted the differential between average teacher pay in North Carolina and in the nation will continue to grow.
"I would like to see the state continue its statewide support of a nine months, 12-grade system," Hodges asserted, "plus adding a modest amount each biennium more or less in keeping with the cost of living rise, and in addition put up a 10 million dollar yearly matching fund to challenge the counties."
The association also heard an address by Crawford H. Greenewalt, president of DuPont Co., and elected Holt McPherson, editor of the High Point Enterprise, as its president to succeed Edwin Pate of Laurinburg.
The association's annual distinguished citizenship certificate was presented to Nirman A. Cocke of Charlotte, president of Duke Power Co.

Service Office or at Post Offices. The Director stated that plans are already prepared for Revenue Officers to conduct a drive for delinquent returns throughout the State immediately following the April 15 filing date.

Birthplace Will Be A Memorial

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The frame house in nearby Lamar where former President Harry Truman was born will be dedicated as a public memorial April 19.
It was purchased several years ago by the United Auto Workers, which will turn it over to the Missouri Park Board.
Walter Reuther, president of the UAW, will make the presentation, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) will be the principal speaker.
Truman will attend the ceremony, set for 4 p.m., the approximate hour of his birth. He will be 75 years old May 8.

To Be Sentenced In Wife-Beating

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Helen O'Connell's estranged husband, novelist Thomas Chamales, will be sentenced June 16 for beating her.
He pleaded guilty Wednesday to two counts of battery.
The court ordered Chamales, 45, to remain in a sanitarium and refrain from drinking. He was on probation from a previous conviction for threatening his 38-year-old wife with a knife.
Christianity was introduced by Chinese converts into Korea in 1777.

CHANGING TIMES
STERLING, Colo. (AP) — City Hall records reveal just how much times have changed. In October, 1908, the Sterling sugar factory used 19,500 gallons of water and paid $7.32 for it. A half century later, the factory used 10,986,000 gallons of water in one month and paid $732 for it.

Two Accidents At Same Place

Police reported two accidents yesterday, both occurring at the same place, only two hours apart.

A call at 8:56 a.m. sent police to Cotanche and Fifth Sts. when a car making a right turn into an alley beside 513 S. Cotanche St. was struck by a pick-up truck.

Police estimated $40 damage was done to the car being driven by William G. Allen of Route 1, Greenville, and placed damage to the pick-up at $50.

Police charged Wilton Henry Tripp of Winterville, operator of the truck, with failure to yield right of way as a result of the collision.

Officers answered a call at 11:18 a.m. to the same location when a car operated by William S. Corbett Jr. coming out of the alley, collided with an auto operated by James Russell Ross of 900 1/2 Forbes St.

Police estimated damage to the Ross car at $60 and damage to the Corbett car at $25.

No charges were made by police officers as a result of the mishap.

Holiday Time

East Carolina College students begin their Easter holidays today to get a short jump on other students in Greenville and Pitt County.

City schools will close tomorrow at noon and county schools will close at the end of tomorrow's regular school day. College and county students will remain out of classes until Tuesday morning, but city students will not return until next Thursday morning.

Although city students have the longer holiday period, they will be required to meet classes next Saturday. The weekend classes will be the first in a series of three Saturday school days to make up time lost in December when schools were closed by snow.

Forest Fires Erupting All Over North Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A total of 149 forest fires broke out in North Carolina yesterday and burned 3,700 acres in the state's tinder-dry woodlands, the state forester's office reported today.

P. W. Tillman said, "We're having fires all over the state. The woods are very dry and it's windy and a lot of people are burning over land. We urged everyone to use the utmost caution."

The forester's office reported that permits to burn brush in or near woodlands had been canceled in eight counties — Alamance, Durham, Orange, Granville, Wake, Vance, Warren and Franklin counties.

Tillman reported that all the fires reported had been controlled but those still considered dangerous were being carefully patrolled.

Tillman gave this rundown on yesterday's fires in the state by districts:

Chapel Hill district — 12 fires, burned 1,000 acres, including one at Lowe's Grove, between Durham and Chapel Hill covering 350 acres, one near Alston Avenue at Durham, 150 acres.

Lexington and Belmont district, 15 fires, 190 acres, including a 100-acre fire in Randolph County.

Rocky Mount district—15 fires, 150 acres.

Fayetteville District — 10 fires, 175 acres.

Rocky Mount district — 10 fires, 200 acres.

Whiteville district—25 fires, 800 acres, including one in the Holly Shelter Bay game refuge in Pender County.

New Bern district—12 fires, 400 acres.

Elizabeth City district—10 fires, 300 acres.

Ashville district—14 fires, 400 acres, including 7 in Buncombe of which one covered 250 acres.

Sylva district — 15 fires, 500 acres, including a 300-acre fire in Cherokee County.

Lenoir district — 12 fires, 100 acres, including 5 in Wilkes County.

Clerk Of Court Applications Being Accepted

Job applications for clerk of court applications are being accepted at the city manager's office, Leonard P. Bloxam said this morning.

The position was recently made vacant by the death of E. Johnson Dees who had served as court clerk since 1944.

Applications for the position will be considered in the next 30 to 60 days, Bloxam said. While the court clerk is technically hired by the city manager, Bloxam said he would want the concurrence of the municipal court judge, police department officials and the City Council before a final choice is made.

Salary for the job ranges from $300 to $375 monthly depending on qualifications and experience.

Ask Permission To Install Submarine Gas Pipelines

North Carolina Natural Gas Corporation of Fayetteville has applied to U. S. Army Engineer District headquarters at Wilmington for permission to install submarine pipeline crossings at two points in Pitt County.

According to plans filed with Col. H. C. Rowland, Jr., in Wilmington, the crossings will be on Tar River, approximately five miles of Greenville, and on Contentnea Creek, approximately five miles northeast of Snow Hill. Plans showing the proposed work are posted in the Wilmington Engineer District headquarters and in Post Offices in Greenville and Snow Hill.

The proposals called for the Tar River crossing to be 23 feet below normal water level with a horizontal distance of approximately 150 feet. The Contentnea Creek crossing will be 14 feet below normal water level with a horizontal distance of approximately 92 feet.

According to Colonel Rowland, Department of the Army permits for which the corporation has asked express assent of the Corps of Engineers so far as public rights of navigation are concerned. The permits are issued in cases where there are no valid objections from the standpoint of navigation, he said.

He added, however, that as a matter of policy permits are not usually issued in cases where state or local authorities disapprove the proposed work in the public interest.

Objections to the proposed work will be received at Engineer District Headquarters in Wilmington until April 8.

Reenacting 'Last Supper' Tonight At St. James Methodist Church

Seated around a long banquet table spread within the Chancel rail, worshippers at St. James Methodist Church will reenact Christ's last supper tonight at 8 o'clock. Assuming that Jesus was crucified on Friday, the famous last meal actually took place on Thursday night. "Of all times during the entire year this is the most appropriate to receive Communion," the Rev. J. Malloy Owen explained in announcing the special observance.

Scripture will be read describing the scene and the historic events which followed it so closely.

Specially prepared bread is being cooked by local bakers for use in tonight's service. The minister will break the bread and pass it to communicants. The Church will be decorated and candlelight will be used for portions of the service.

In addition to the Maundy Thursday Service of Holy Communion, St. James Church will cooperate in tomorrow's Good Friday three-hour service commemorating the Crucifixion at the St. Paul's Episcopal Church, from noon to 3 p.m. Mr. Owen will speak at 1:35 on the text "My God, why?" The fourth annual St. James Easter Sunrise Communion service will begin Sunday morning at 6 o'clock on the lawn of the Church. The public is cordially invited to all services.
