The Soviet Embassy in East Berlin declared "complications would result if the United States persisted in flying transport aircraft into Berlin at altitudes above 10,000 feet."

Reapportionment Debate Held Off

RALEIGH (AP) — The House postponed again today a showdown debate on the touchy political issue of reapportionment... Meanwhile the House received a bill to levy a tax on cigarettes and other tobacco products.

Here's the proposed tax schedule: Cigarettes—3 cents a pack. Cigars weighing less than one pound per 3,000, one-half cent per cigar.

Rep. Clyde Harris of Rowan asked the House to postpone debate on the reapportionment measure until tomorrow... The reapportionment measure, which was postponed from Monday night until today, would reshuffle four House seats in accordance with 1950 census figures.

The bill resulted from the action last year of the Utilities Commission in ordering the Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Co. to discontinue free phone service... By a 9 to 4 vote, the committee killed a bill which would have taken from utilities firms the right to put rate increases into effect under bond without waiting for a hearing before the Utilities Commission.

National Guard units in Pitt County affected by a reorganization of the North Carolina National Guard switched to new designations today.

Greenville's two units, formerly "C" and Service batteries of the 295th Field Artillery Battalion, have been redesignated as batteries "A" and "B" of the Fifth Howitzer Battalion, which has headquarters and barracks in Washington.

Farmville's unit, formerly Company "H" of the 119th Infantry Regiment, has been redesignated as Company "G" of the Fourth Battle Group, which has headquarters in Rocky Mount.

First Lt. Charles Camp is commanding officer of Battery "A," Captain Norman Harris is commanding officer of Battery "B," and Captain Jack McDavid is commanding officer of Company "H."

A former Pitt County Sheriff moved to Washington, D. C. where he stayed for six years. Returning to Greenville approximately three years ago, he entered the mercantile business, trading as the Allen and Jackson Store on Dickinson Ave. He is currently engaged in that business.

He succeeded J. B. Kittrell Sr. of Greenville who served as president of the United Fund during the past year... Other officers named for the coming year are J. S. Ficklen Jr. of Greenville, first vice president; James B. Hockaday, Farmville; Dr. Robert Wilfong, Greenville; Sam Nelson, Grifton; Tom Willis, Farmville; Alton Johnston, Greenville; J. T. Marston Jr., Greenville; Dr. John Mewborn, Farmville; Dr. J. D. Messick, Greenville; Dr. Ray Minges, Greenville; and Woodrow W. Wooten, Falkland.

School Officials Hope Holidays Ended Flu Siege

City school officials, who will reopen schools tomorrow after an extended Easter holiday period, were hopeful today that the vacation helped to end a siege of flu-like disease which has cut sharply into attendance.

Superintendent J. H. Rose said today absence rates at Greenville Junior High School were at their peak when schools closed at noon last Friday. He added that teachers were reporting an average of 120 absences per day, out of an enrollment of 550 students.

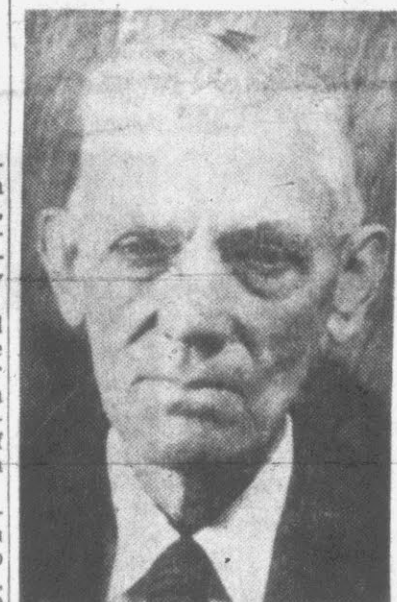

The superintendent also said absence rates at Junius H. Rose High School were beginning to return to normal when the vacation began, after reaching a high of from 110 to 115 per day about ten days ago. The senior high school has an enrollment of 615.

Elementary schools in the city unit have not been hit as hard by the epidemic, Rose said... County school officials said their programs have had only limited interruptions because of the disease.

Jones Introduces Two House Bills

RALEIGH — Requirements for pre-numbered warrants and receipts for justices of the peace would not apply to Pitt County if General Assembly approval is given to a bill introduced this week by Rep. Walter B. Jones of Farmville.

Jones' Bill, introduced Monday night, seeks to amend Section 5-1 of Chapter 1109 of Session Laws of 1957 by striking Pitt from the list of counties in which the requirement applies... Jones also introduced a bill yesterday which calls for terms of the mayor and members of the board of commissioners of Grifton to begin on the second Tuesday in July following their election.

Vandals Despoil Beach Cottages

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.C. (AP) — Officials today probed for clues to the identity of vandals who despoiled 13 summer cottages in this area during Easter weekend.

Police said 12 vacant waterfront cottages were invaded on a "door-to-door" basis. Although some damage was caused the lack of theft prompted police to say robbery was not the motive... Mayor A. E. Cooper said some of the damage arose indirectly from house parties staged at the beach by teenagers during the weekend. He said evidence indicated some ransacked cottages had been used for immoral purposes.

W. S. STAFFORD

Stafford was born in Pasquotank County and moved to Pitt County in 1918. He worked with the A. G. Cox Manufacturing Co. in Winterville and operated the Winterville Electric Light Co. Stafford was elected to Greenville's board of aldermen to serve a two-year term in 1947 and 1948. Subsequently he was elected mayor serving in 1949 and 1950.

He is married to the former Blanche Vincent and he is a member of Immanuel Baptist Church.

The other candidates presently in the council race are C. W. Hervey Jr., Lester E. Turnage, Dr. M. W. Aldridge and Charles M. King.

PITT UNITED FUND OFFICERS... Marston, Watson, Dr. Minges, president; Staton, Hockaday.

Dr. Minges, in accepting the presidency for the coming year, urged members of the board of directors to devote all the time necessary to carry on the work of the United Fund. He praised the work done during the past year by Kittrell, Dr. Messick and Dr. John Mewborn of Farmville who served as chairman of the Admissions and Budget Committee.

Directors elected for three year terms were Ed Davenport, Farmville; Dr. G. D. Garrenton, Bethel; W. H. Davenport, Greenville; James B. Hockaday, Farmville; Dr. Robert Wilfong, Greenville; Sam Nelson, Grifton; Tom Willis, Farmville; Alton Johnston, Greenville; J. T. Marston Jr., Greenville; Dr. John Mewborn, Farmville; Dr. J. D. Messick, Greenville; Dr. Ray Minges, Greenville; and Woodrow W. Wooten, Falkland.

During the business meeting Dr. Mewborn told the group, "The really unsolved problem we face is how best to tie in financing of local community projects with the overall United Fund program. The life or death of this organization hinges on finding a satisfactory answer to this problem."

Other officers named for the coming year are J. S. Ficklen Jr. of Greenville, first vice president; James B. Hockaday, Farmville; Dr. Robert Wilfong, Greenville; Sam Nelson, Grifton; Tom Willis, Farmville; Alton Johnston, Greenville; J. T. Marston Jr., Greenville; Dr. John Mewborn, Farmville; Dr. J. D. Kittrell praised the work done by the late E. E. Rawl Sr. in organizing the county's United Fund and serving as its first president until his death last year.

Sterilization Bill Is Hotly Argued

RALEIGH (AP) — Religion, sex and medicine mixed in arguments today on a bill to use sterilization as a means of curbing illegitimate births.

On his motion, the bill was sent to a joint committee of the House and Senate health committees for further study. Three senators and five House members will serve on the study group.

A racial overtones was added by Sen. Wilbur Jolly of Franklin, who joined with Rep. Rachel Darden Davis of Lenoir, a physician, in sponsoring the measure... Shaking a finger at a group of Negroes in the audience, Sen. Jolly declared, "One of every four of your race born in North Carolina is illegitimate. You ought to be concerned about it."

The bill would give the State Eugenics Board authority to classify as "grossly sexually delinquent" a woman who gave birth twice out of wedlock, and order her sterilized. The woman would have the right to appeal to Superior Court for a jury trial. The measure would set up steps to attempt to rehabilitate the mother of one or more illegitimate children.

Doctors and county officials gave support to the proposal, pointing to the burden of illegitimate children on public welfare rolls... A long parade of opponents, most of them speaking as private citizens, attacked the bill as contrary to religious teaching, as likely costly and unwieldy, and as cruel and unusual punishment for immoral behavior.

Walter M. Kulash of Raleigh, picked to handle the case for opponents, led off by asking the lawmakers "if the state intends to play God?" He called procreation "a God-given right," and argued the measure would "mutilate bodies for doubtful economic gain."

Henderson Negotiators Meet Again Today With Governor; Some Progress

RALEIGH (AP) — With both sides "anxious to agree upon a contract," negotiators meet again today with Gov. Hodges in hopes of settling the long Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mill strike.

Charles Pittman, a weaving room foreman, was injured Tuesday afternoon when a rock thrown from a group of persons crashed through the window of the car in which he was riding from the North Henderson plant. Three stitches were required to close the wound on Pittman's head.

After meeting here Tuesday with union and management leaders, Hodges reported progress in efforts to break the deadlock in the strike which began Nov. 17. "Certain sections of the contract, which were under study over the weekend by both parties, were agreed upon," Hodges said. He did not elaborate.

Superior Court Judge William Y. Bickett was scheduled to hear 29 cases today involving contempt of court charges growing out of the alleged violation of a restraining order prohibiting violence at the mills.

Robert Pegram, a foreman at Harriet-Henderson's North Henderson plant, reported to officers he was peppered with buckshot near his home Tuesday night. He reported he was uninjured by the shots which struck the jacket he was wearing.

Bickett convicted 19 persons March 7 on contempt of court charges. The sentences, ranging from a $100 fine up to 30 days in jail or a fine of $250. Notices of appeal were given.

Testimony also was to begin in Vance County Recorder's Court in the trial of Carl (Red) Neal, charged with assault growing out of strike disorders at the mill. A six-member jury was chosen to hear the case. Neal is accused in seven charges, but only three are being tried at this time and these were consolidated.

You men who are always harping about the women automobile drivers being a nuisance and a menace, get this fixed firmly in your dome: "Recent statistics show that out of every 100 accidents, five of the drivers are women and 95 are men." In view of these facts it appears that in the case of auto driving the male of the species is more deadly than the female.

Arrangement Of Trees, Shrubs Discussed At HD Club Meeting

Mrs. Loyd Wiggins, Home Beautification leader of the Timothy Home Demonstration Club, presented a program on "Arrangement of Trees and Shrubs" at their recent meeting. She began her program by having those present play a game to see how well they could recognize and identify some of the trees and shrubs commonly found around homes.

After the game, Mrs. Wiggins discussed why home owners want shrubs around their houses. She pointed out that they provide a screen to hide unattractive areas in the yard such as clothesline or outbuildings. They also provide a background or setting for the home.

It is important to select shrubs which do not shed too badly or get too scraggly looking, she noted. Continuing, she said, be careful that shrubs are not planted too close to the house, that plants around doors are small, and that ample work room is left between lawn line and shrubs. Do not plant tall growing shrubs underneath windows, Mrs. Wiggins concluded.

During her talk she displayed mimeographed sheets of different style houses on which she arranged miniature cut-outs of shrubs and showed how to properly place them to achieve a pleasing balance.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. Wiggins in the absence of the president. The club reported $38.35 turned in for the heart fund drive with Mrs. Otis Stokes receiving special thanks for her efforts in home canvassing. Plans were made to attend the district meeting on April 2 in the Saratoga School.

Hostess for the evening was Mrs. W. R. Wall with Mrs. Glenn Wall, club recreation leader, providing games during the refreshment hour.

The University Choir of the university of Florida in Gainesville, an ensemble of 60 voices, will sing in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, Sunday at 8 p.m.

Study The Year-Round School Bill

From a long range standpoint there seems to be merit in the proposal that North Carolina map a program whereby it can operate its public schools on a year-round basis rather than on a nine-month basis as is currently the case.

For the legislature to jump headlong into providing for year-round public school operations, however, may well jeopardize the well organized public school system North Carolina now has.

The bill introduced by Rep. John Kerr of Warren County to provide 12-month operation of schools deserves legislative consideration. More than that, the proposal deserves a great deal more study and consideration than the legislature will be able to give it before adjournment in June.

The General Assembly would be wise to appoint a special study group to delve into the question of year-round operation of public schools of the state and prepare a detailed report and recommendations for consideration of the 1961 legislature.

Certainly the public schools of the state deserve as careful consideration as the courts, municipal financial problems, water conservation measures and any number of other things for which special legislative study commission have been appointed. It is quite possible that a feasible plan for year-round school operations can be worked out after careful study of the many problems which would be involved. It is also possible the state could afford its youngsters better education if it were able to make greater use of its facilities and thus divert to other educational uses funds which might be saved by not having to construct so many schools to be used only nine months out of the year.

It should be obvious to the legislature as well as the general public of the state, however, that this is not a matter which should be decided hastily. It is now one which should be decided on the basis of what can be brought out in a few hours of hearings before a legislative committee.

The 12-month school proposal may be, in the long run, an avenue by which North Carolina can better utilize the money it puts into education to provide its young people with better public school training. On the other hand, it may cause so many school problems as to make the plan impractical.

As an alternative to Rep Kerr's bill calling for year-round schools, the legislature might well appoint a special commission to study the proposal in all its aspects during the next two years. At the end of that time the committee could make a report and recommendations to the legislature for consideration.

Such a study would place the legislature in a much better position to judge the merits of the present nine-month school program of the state as opposed to the proposed 12-month schedule for public schools.

Haphazard Statehood Moves Are Not Logical

If New York City ever succeeds in becoming a sovereign state independent of the present state of New York, the composition of the states of the Union as we have known them will be a thing of the past.

The dispute between the nation's largest city and the state in which it is located is primarily political and financial. Some Democrats in the city declare the metropolis is supporting the state financially, and yet has to take a back seat to up-state Republicans when it comes to spending state funds. They want that changed.

But making a state out of New York City would have far-reaching ramifications.

As a new state, New York City would be entitled to two Senators and a number of members of the House of Representatives. Old New York State would also retain its two Senators, but would have to give up its representatives who came from the metropolis.

And if New York as we now know it ever got four members of the Senate by dividing itself into two states, other states would immediately divide themselves to retain a balance of power in Congress.

For years there has been talk of dividing sprawling Texas into two or more states. Recently it has been suggested that the southern portion of California be separated from the northern section and made into a new state.

If the division ever begins there would be nothing to prevent North Carolina, Virginia, Georgia or any other state from dividing itself into as many sections as it desired, have them declared sovereign states and place representatives in Congress.

Such a situation is of course unthinkable. But if New York City can get itself made into a state, there is nothing to prevent others from following suit. The entire structure of the nation would be weakened at the national level, and the smaller individual states would be weakened considerably from their present status.

New York City is big, rich and politically powerful on the national scene. But when it comes down to basic principles it has no more right to become a sovereign state than does Greenville or Pitt County.

War Prospects Have Receded

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—War with the Soviet Union looks a long way off.

That seems the sensible interpretation to put on hitherto secret testimony of American military leaders before a committee of Congress.

For months there has been deep concern here and abroad as to whether the Berlin crisis might lead to conflict with the Soviet Union.

But the Joint Chiefs of Staff painted for the House Appropriations Committee in secret a picture of such overwhelming American power that the U.S.S.R. would look crazy doing anything to cause a war if it could.

There are a couple of big "ifs."

The Soviets would be crazy to start a war if they are as convinced of America's military power as are the joint chiefs and if no one in the Soviet Union loses his head in a way that would cause war.

The chiefs' testimony, after security censoring, was released in part Monday. It can be summed up this way: The U.S.S.R. would be flattened by America's nuclear bombs if war started.

The chiefs said American military power — Built around long-range bombers, missiles and missile-launching submarines — is growing at a pace to deter any Soviet military adventure in the future.

The joint chiefs didn't discount the Soviet Union's ability to have wide-ranging missiles in the future but right now they said any Soviet nuclear attack would have to be done almost entirely with manned bombers.

Defense Secretary Neil McElroy backed up the chiefs, said this country's power is enough to destroy the Soviet Union if it attacked.

Then he predicted: "We believe that our planned military programs will keep us, as we are now, ahead of the Soviet Union in overall strength at any projected point in the future."

Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of the subcommittee which heard the military leaders' added: "I think it is important for everybody to know that we have a terrific capability for launching an unstoppable counter-offensive if attacked."

McElroy's predictions — plus the statements by the chiefs and by Mahon — did more than just reassure those who might have been worrying about war with the Soviet Union any time soon.

They also freed some other fish for the Eisenhower administration by taking some of the steam out of Senate Democrats' arguments that President Eisenhower, in his search for economy, is putting too little money into defense and that in a short time he will be at a missile disadvantage with the U.S.S.R.

Still, all these self-confident statements may make new difficulties for the administration in the future.

Strength For Today Baby Rate Keyed To Prosperity

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
KEEP ON WEeping

"Keep on Smiling" has become the slogan of many extroverted people today. It comes to us, therefore, as a shock to read the Biblical statement, "Blessed are ye that weep now for ye shall laugh."

What good is there in weeping? Plenty. In fact, the people who cannot shed tears are on a level with the animals, which, by the way, never shed tears. Only humans can weep. And the reason for this is that only humans have the sense of values which causes them to be sorry for something other than their own misfortune.

All through his teachings, Jesus was saying a kind word about the weepers. If he were here today, he would probably make some caustic remarks about the backslappers, and the cheer-uppers who are always telling us to keep a stiff upper lip and not to let life get us down.

Jesus said, "Blessed are they that mourn; for they shall be comforted." What he meant was, "Blessed are the people who have the capacity to be sorry—sorry for their sins, sorry for the sins of the world, sorry for the misfortune in which human life is constantly steeped. Weep over your sins. Look out over a beautiful world in which men are starving, and see if you can smile about that. If you have any heart, you will weep over the sufferings of mankind. And if you do weep, then the day is coming when you will laugh. You will laugh with gladness when in this world good triumphs over evil, when the sin of this world is supplanted by the perfection of another world."

After that (concluding with the fall upsurge) the number of marriages continued to rise, tying 1957 marks in October and rising since then.

Incidentally, figures gathered by the Health, Education and Welfare Department show that while merchandisers correctly think that June is the month of marriages, August is not far behind. Last year: 179,000 June marriages; 153,000 in August. That's a lot of love to be sold.

Now consider births.

Births continued their high monthly rate through most of 1957 until November, when they showed a sharp drop of 378,000 to 345,000 in that month.

Use For Extra Orchids

A local store which was selling orchid corsages for Easter had a few left at the close of business last Saturday.

The store owner was trying to decide what to do with them when a friend suggested that they might be distributed to the old ladies at the County Home.

That sounded like a good idea to the store owner so he turned over the number needed to some local ladies who are accustomed to doing things occasionally for the folks at the County Home.

Many a wrinkled old face broke into a happy smile as the Easter corsages were given to the aged women. It was reported:

"I didn't even know it was Easter!" one old lady told those who delivered the orchids.

So, one of the most glorious days of the Christian world could have been just another drab day for the people of the County Home.

All it took to make the day notable for them was the cooperation of a few big-hearted folks in Greenville.

Clarence Tugwell, chairman of the Jaycee sponsored Miss Greenville pageant, reports that this year's will be the most elaborate ever.

Eight lovely contestants are entered in the pageant. They will perform on Wright Auditorium stage in front of settings designed by an interior decorator.

There is also to be a ramp leading from the big stage into the audience on which the girls will walk for their evening dress and swim suit appearances.

It is well-known around Pitt County that Betty Lane Evans, last year's Miss Greenville, went on to become Miss North Carolina and then a finalist in the Miss America pageant.

She will be on hand for this year's local pageant to serve as one of the judges. Lovely Betty Lane, who has been judged in the top beauty pageant of the nation, should know what to look for among the Miss Greenville hopefuls.

Jaycees are now selling tickets for the pageant which is to be held April 9. Miss America programs which feature scenes from last year's Miss America pageant, as well as a section on the local contestants, will be on sale the night of the pageant.

As a finalist in last year's national pageant, Betty Lane's picture appears several times in the elaborate program.

serve the careful consideration of local officials and citizens. Valuation of property for taxation is the most sensitive nerve of local government. Upon equality and uniformity of valuation of property, real and personal, is dependent whether taxes are levied fairly or unjustly. Rates of taxation may be uniform, but this is meaningless if the valuations are not uniform and equally assessed. If the proposed new laws can establish and enforce equality and uniformity of assessments throughout the one hundred counties and within the counties themselves, they should most certainly be adopted. It is a known and accepted fact that under the present system many inequalities exist, placing an unfair burden of taxes on some classes of taxable property and permitting unrealistic valuations on others.

Regulation of the use of property within towns is also a sensitive subject. The proposed laws on this subject would extend zoning powers to county governments, taking care of the mushrooming growth of nonurban residential and industrial areas. Zoning regulations have found favor in many towns and most all cities. They should also be useful for regulating non-urban residential and industrial communities. The idea of town and county cooperation in this field is certainly good.

These are subjects of concern to all our local officials and citizens alike. It would be good to have these proposals publicly discussed.

Carney Keeps It Simple

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"Life can get awful complicated if you let it," said Art Carney. "But why let it?"

Carney now is riding a one-man success wave in television. But it has stirred a minimum of echoes in his home life.

When the studio lights die down after a performance, Carney heads for his 55-by-100-foot plot in suburban Yonkers, where he and his wife, Jean, and their three children live quietly.

"We have a nice family life, and we want to keep it that way," said Art. "My wife and I live in the same kind of neighborhood we both were born in, and most of our close friends live in the neighborhood. Our life isn't all show business."

Carney is a friendly, easy-talking man off camera. But he had always shown a stubborn insistence in working toward his own goals. During a break in rehearsals for his show, he talked of his start in the business.

"I always was a loner," he said. "In high school I would have been frightened at the idea of joining a dramatic society. But I enjoyed working out my own act—tap dancing and impressions—which I did at school affairs."

Art spent some years as a novelty band singer and club entertainer before going into radio, determined to become an actor.

The war slowed him for a time. He went into the Army a private, and came out a "corporal."

A few days after entering European combat his leg was riddled by enemy shrapnel. The war also left him slightly deaf in his right ear.

"I still get $55 a month from the government for my bum leg," he said. "And I can still use it."

Carney has never had a real television show of his own, and says he isn't in any hurry for one. He has been signed to do eight special shows next season, ranging from revues to straight drama and children's programs.

"I prefer it that way, rather than doing a straight comedy series," Art said. "I like to do a little bit of everything."

Asked his personal philosophy, Art said: "Once, while walking a country churchyard, I came across a gravestone that said: 'She lived not for herself but for others.'"

"It has stuck in my mind ever since. It is so true. I don't know anyone who is unselfish, who is always thinking of others, who is personally unhappy. It is impossible."

Two Russian Attaches Are Expelled By Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico has ordered two Soviet Embassy attaches expelled from the country, charging they had a hand in the Easter weekend rail strike. Two other Red attaches were reported marked to go. An official source said the second secretary of the Soviet Embassy, Nicolai M. Remisov, and a military-naval attache, Nicolai V. Asenov, were given until Friday to get out of the country. They reportedly plan to take a Canadian airliner Friday morning to Toronto. Two members of a diplomatic mission from an unidentified Soviet satellite also were reported to have been declared no longer welcome in Mexico. There was speculation they were Czechoslovak or Polish. The strike fizzled Monday after the government had rounded up an estimated 3,000 leftist union leaders and followers. The government said it had evidence the strike was a Communist plot. Workers flocked to their jobs Tuesday and officials said 140 trains were back on the run. Many of the workers said they had been coerced into striking by threats of torture or reprisals against their families. The two Soviets were said to have had regular contact with Demetrio Vallejo, leftist rail union leader who organized the last three national rail strikes. He was arrested Sunday and reportedly talked to authorities about the Soviets' role in the walkout. Official sources said the activity of the two Soviet officials was "not consistent with the democratic regime which Mexico observes." After Vallejo's arrest, the government appointed a four-man group to direct the railway union. An election of new officers was ordered in an effort to root out Vallejo's influence. The strike began a week ago on two regional rail lines—Mexicano, which links Mexico City and Veracruz, and Pacifico, on the west coast between Guadalajara and Nogales, on the U.S. border. The strikers called for a 16 per cent wage boost granted earlier to workers on the National Railways, which carry the bulk of Mexico's passenger and freight traffic. The government branded the walkout illegal and ordered the men back to their posts. A wave of sympathy strikes began on the National Railways and the government, anticipating a nationwide stoppage and sympathy walkouts by other leftist-led unions, ordered the widespread arrests.

Soft Drink Tax Foes Point To Discriminatory Aspect

RALEIGH (AP)—The Legislature's Joint Finance Committee was told Tuesday that two bills to place a tax on soft drinks are "disastrous, discriminatory, unfair, inequitable and onerous." Fred O. Bowman of Chapel Hill, spokesman for North Carolina's soft drink industry, led opponents in assailing the tax proposals at a committee hearing. Bowman, maintaining soft drinks are food, said the tax proposals represent a "penalty tax" that would result in reduced employment, business volume and state tax revenue. One bill before the committee would put a one cent tax on each bottle of soft drink. Fountain syrup used for soft drinks would be taxed at 75 cents per gallon. This measure, introduced by Reps. Frank Sneed of Mecklenburg and Ed Kemp of Guilford, would bring in an estimated 18-20 million dollars a year. Another bill, introduced by Sen. John R. Jordan of Wake, would tax soft drinks at 1 1/2 cents per bottle, but syrup would be exempted. This proposal would bring in an estimated 27 million dollars annually. Bob Roper, glass manufacturing executive of Laurens, S.C., told the committee his company would not have considered a plant near Henderson if it had thought a crown tax likely in this state. The plant, now under construction, will employ 200 workers at first and 750 at full capacity. Roper said a 25 per cent decline in soft drink consumption would result in a 75 per cent drop in bottle purchases. Other legislative highlights included: Rep. John Kerr Jr. of Warren introduced a bill which would provide maximum use of present school facilities in the state on a 12-month basis. Under the measure, local school boards could operate the schools four quarters a year, with a year of school work consisting of three consecutive quarters totaling 180 school days. The Senate enacted into law a bill appropriating $75,000 to convert a portion of the McCain Tuberculosis Sanatorium into a reform school for Negro boys. House Judiciary 2 Committee held a hearing but postponed a vote on legislation which would give superior court solicitors a pay raise and prohibit them from engaging in private law practice. The proposals are part of the Bell Committee court reform plans. Superior Court solicitors gave general support to the bills at the hearing.

Large Egg From A Plymouth Rock

An egg which measures nearly three-and-a-half inches long was displayed today by Leroy Worthington of 1219 South Clark St. Worthington said the egg, about an inch longer than normal eggs, was laid by a nine-and-a-half pound black Plymouth Rock hen. It is the largest egg he has ever gotten, he said, from his flock of about 65 hens.

(Continued from Page 4) its efforts to seek a peaceful solution with the Soviet Union over the Berlin crisis which the Soviets created. There is already a lot of talk in the air about making concessions to the Soviets to pacify them in their demands that the Western Allies get their troops out of West Berlin. There are plenty of opponents of concessions to the Soviets and they may well ask now if American military power is so overwhelming, how can the administration justify any concessions to the Soviets, if concessions are made? The testimony, perhaps only by coincidence, was made public just as the representatives of America's 14 allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization were coming here to discuss the Berlin situation. The smaller West European nations understandably may have been jittery about the possibility of war with the Soviet Union. The testimony of the chiefs must have had some reassuring effect on them. Pecan trees produce a good crop one year and a poor crop the next. On the second year they do not have sufficient plant food.

Air Force Band To Play Two Concerts At College

The United States Air Force Band will play matinee and evening concerts at East Carolina College Tuesday, April 14, in the Wright Auditorium. Programs sponsored by the college Entertainment Committee, are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. The Band is a musical organization with an unsurpassed record of accomplishment. Organized in June, 1942, it has, in a brief sixteen years, achieved a position unique in musical circles and has captured the fancy and the imagination of music lovers of four continents. This position is due chiefly to the Band's versatility. It is so flexible that it can resolve itself into a 100-piece marching band; a 90-piece symphony orchestra; an 85-piece symphonic band; a 25-voice a cappella choir; the "Singing Sergeants"; 5 dance bands, including the "Airmen of Note" and the "Jumping Jacks"; and numerous chamber and instrumental groups including "Strolling Strings". A further contribution to the USAF Band's phenomenal success is the fact that it does not subscribe to the theory that a musical organization has to be either "long hair" or "jazz". It performs any given type of music with the highest professional standard and presents programs that are designed to satisfy every appetite from "opera" to "be-bop", from "symphony" to "swing". Its members has been hand-picked as the result of auditioning more than 1,400 professional musicians. These men were selected from a wide variety of musical organizations, ranging from the Philadelphia Orchestra to the Honolulu Symphony and from the Tommy Dorsey dance band to the Arthur Pryor concert band. Collectively, there are former members of 20 different symphony orchestras and 16 "name" dance bands. HE SLIDES TO SAFETY TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)— Seeing an automobile skidding toward him on icy pavement, 9-year-old Robert Butler flung himself down, grabbed the front bumper and slid 100 feet beneath the car until it stopped in a shallow ditch. He suffered only bruises.

Not Easy To Rear Hollywood Children

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bing Crosby has admitted what other famous fathers have discovered: it's not easy to rear children in Hollywood. Speaking of his four elder sons, the crooner commented in an interview: "I think I've failed them by giving them too much work and discipline too much money and too little time and attention." Symptoms of Crosby's "failure" as a father: two sons have been arrested for drunk driving; all four have haunted the gay world of Las Vegas (Phillip and Dennis married showgirls); the parties of Gary and Lindsay have brought complaints from neighbors. Bing is not the only star to be troubled by his children. His brother Bob's son, Chris, 15, was once arrested when police said he tried to steal a car. Edward G. Robinson Jr., has been in the news repeatedly with drunk arrests. John Barrymore Jr. made the papers recently with a felony hit and run, drunk driving charge. His half-sister, Diana, wrote a teary book about her long battle with alcoholism. Charles Chaplin Jr. has a police record for drunkenness. Barbara Ann Burns, daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns, was sentenced to 90 days for drug addiction. Chris Crawford, adopted son of Joan Crawford, was arrested on a delinquency charge in Greenvale, N.Y., after a shooting spree with an air rifle. Cheryl Crane, daughter of Lana Turner, killed her mother's lover, but was later absolved of blame. Of course, these headlined scenes of the famous don't tell the whole story. There are far more sons and daughters of stars who, over the years, have never made scandalous news. Examples: actress Maria Manton (Marlene Dietrich); budding performers Pay Wayne (John); Jody McCrea (Joel); Ronnie Burns (George and Gracie); Ricky and David Nelson (Ozzie and Harriet); James MacArthur (Helen Hayes); writer Arthur Marks (Groucho); director Andy McLaglen (Victory) and baseball executive Joe Brown (Joe E.). But there are enough troubled stars to point a trend. Why? There appear to be two big reasons: 1. The position of a movie star can be an overpowering one, but leaves little time for family matters. 2. It can be hard for anyone to bear a noted name. Bob Crosby has observed, "It's a natural urge for all kids to compete with their fathers. When the father is famous, the urge to compete comes in the form of publicity."

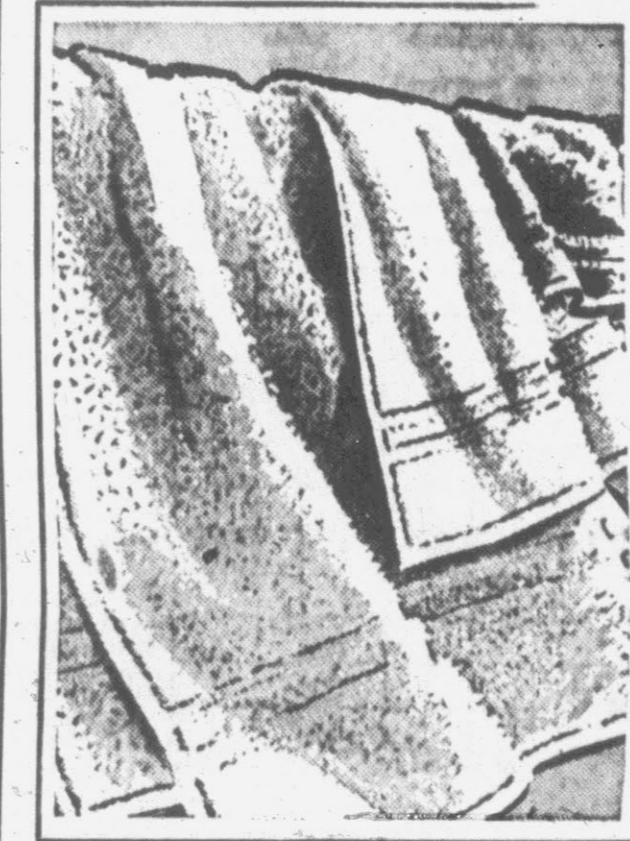

Favor Wildlife Expert For Post

RALEIGH—A House committee on wildlife resources has unofficially gone on record favoring the idea of a wildlife specialist in the State College extension service whose service would be directed toward promoting the conservation and development of the state's wildlife resources. Approval was expressed in a "straw vote" taken on a resolution presented to the committee by the N. C. Travel Council which adopted a program calling for a state wildlife specialist at its annual meeting in February. So far no bill has been drawn to this effect but is expected to be introduced during this session. Also expressing approval of such a specialist have been the N. C. Hotel Association, the N. C. Wildlife Federation and the Wildlife Resources Commission. The Travel Council resolution calls for the establishment of the position of Wildlife Extension Specialist at N. C. State College. An estimated $10,000-$12,000 would be required to set up the new post and would presumably come from the general fund. Rep. Wayland Bermons expressed the view that "no better move could be made for the propagation of game in North Carolina." Three types of billiards are played in the United States—balkline, three-cushion and pocket.

The DEADLY LADY of MADAGASCAR

BY C. V. TERRY

CHAPTER 31

It is not my intention to log the Pilgrim Venture's voyage of piracy in detail after we cheered the prize crew of the Aureng Zeb on their way to Ringo Bay.

The following afternoon we sighted a heavily laden dhow, gave chase, and brought her to heel with a single warning shot across her bows.

Again a prize crew was put aboard and the enemy sailors sent packing in their own longboats — save for their captain, who was held aboard as a hostage lest the others give warning of our presence in these waters.

From this grinning fellow we learned that good hunting awaited us to the north since a whole string of these vessels had set out recently from Mocha, en route to Suez. A storm had broken up the formation, driving some of the craft aground on the African coast; our newest prize had been blown off course and fallen into our hands by luck.

Twice in the next fortnight we made captures — once in a running gun duel that forced the infidels to drop their colors, twice in outright grapplings and boardings for harder won victories.

As first officer it was my duty to direct this all-important maneuver while Bonnie Carter gave orders for the actual boarding from her stand on the quarterdeck. Once our first wave of steel had surged overside, I led the second wave, with the captain herself accepting the surrender.

Our total plunder on these prizes equaled nearly two hundred thousand pounds — which meant that each of us would reap a splendid award for the venture. Best of all, we had lost no more than eight men in all five actions — though the necessity of shipping so many prize crews south had seriously depleted our complement.

What unnerved me, however, was the sure knowledge that as a buccaneer I had acquitted myself well, that my testing was over.

My marriage to Bonnie would take place on our return to Ringo Bay. Bonnie left me in no doubt of that when she called me to her cabin and pointed to her last entry in the log:

Mr. Douglas has proved an admirable first officer in every way. His strategy, his behavior under fire and in boarding actions showed both courage and initiative as long entries above will demonstrate beyond cavil.

It is the captain's opinion that Mr. Douglas is well suited to any duties he may be assigned in future, afloat or ashore.

When we dropped anchor in Ringo Bay, Red Carter's stevedores had come out to help unload our booty. The sight of the Aureng Zeb, moored to a repair dock at the far end of the harbor, did little to raise my spirits — nor did the three captured dhows.

True, our hunting trip had been a success; my reward awaited me on the morrow. But my sense of sleep-walking persisted — when I took over the harbor watch — and stood at attention with the crew while Bonnie (as befitted a corsair captain) went ashore in the gig to make her report.

Awaiting my own summons, I slept aboard that night. There was no word from Carter's fortress castle the next morning, nor the morning that followed. So far, I had been given no shore billet; it seemed wiser to remain aboard ship rather than approach the pirate king, hat in hand, to ask for orders.

On the third day (just as my impatience was about to choke me) the gig put out from the castle dock. Bonnie, still in her buccaneer garb and looking serene as the brand-new day, was in the stern sheets.

There was a shore watch on duty, and I ordered her piped aboard. I saluted smartly — and, at her gesture, followed her into the captain's cabin. When I closed the door, I realized that her jaunty air had been but skin-deep.

"I'd have sent word earlier, Richard," she said, "but it was only today that my father endorsed my plans."

"I trust I'm still part of them."

"How could you not be?"

"Has something gone amiss then?"

"Of course not. He's accepted you as my consort. It's just that I'd made a decision on our wedding — or, rather, our wedding journey. He had other thoughts. I've had the devil's own time changing 'em."

Bonnie, I learned, had demanded that we enjoy a month-long honeymoon, at a hunting lodge Red Carter maintained on the African coast.

The argument between father and daughter had been long and furious. In the end the daughter had prevailed. She had agreed to reduce our absence from four to three weeks, in view of Metcalf's threatened attack, she had also agreed to take me to the Eagle's Nest (a retreat in the hills above Ringo Bay) rather than to the mainland.

"He wanted to send a dozen guards," she said. "Now she had won her point, she seemed more amused than angered. 'I told him I needed no army to manage a husband. After three days of sulks he consented.'

"Apparently your father still doesn't trust me."

"He trusts you completely, Richard. And he approves of you — as much as he approves of any man. But he can't bear to surrender me."

"Most fathers find it hard to lose a daughter to a husband," I said cautiously. "Why should yours be an exception?"

"He doesn't intend to lose me, Richard."

"Why did he let me take the Venture into action?"

"To prove you were a shipmaster, of course. No daughter of his could wed a man who wasn't a born sailor. But that voyage is in the logs: it's past history."

"I'll say this, here and now," I told her. "Your choice of the Eagle's Nest as our honeymoon house seems a perfect compromise. I'll look forward to our twenty-one days there."

"And so will I, Richard."

"When do we set out?"

"My father is waiting now to read the marriage service," she said calmly. "If we can hurry him a bit, we'll be there by nightfall."

The wedding was short, simple and dignified. There were two of them in all. The first was a private affair in the pirate king's own quarters. Here Red Carter officiated as a sea captain, reading the service from an English Book of Common Prayer. The second ceremony took place in the seamen's chapel on the dock, with the captured priest in charge. Carter's captains, many of whom were of the faith, had insisted on a church marriage as well.

Carter had accompanied us to the church, since protocol demanded it — but there had been no other witnesses. The dock was deserted when we three marched down its length side by side. Indeed, I am certain he ordered it cleared.

I offered him my hand when I joined my bride in the captain's gig, ten minutes later. It was a chancy thing, for he had not spoken a word beyond the recital from the prayer book. Our eyes had met just once in chapel, when the priest had ordered me to place the ring on my wife's finger

Now I was the son-in-law of Red Carter's own choosing — and yet, even as his busy brain admitted my usefulness, I could feel his hatred break through.

The look he flung at me as he towered above us on the dock was murderous — though he did accept my hand. For an instant his fingers crushed mine in a vise-like grip, as though he had half a mind to drag me from the gig and declare the whole business null and void.

"You're to return at once if Metcalf attacks," he growled. "Remember, daughter, that's a promise."

"We'll be back posthaste if his sails show in the Channel," said Bonnie. "Don't forget we've a bird's-eye view from the Nest."

"Make sure you signal me with the semaphore," he said in the same mastiff growl. "You might also signal your safe arrival."

Bonnie had made herself comfortable in the gig. She laughed up at her sire — and the mirth was like a sword between them.

What kind of man reneges on a blood oath? Richard Douglas? C. V. Terry's story of passion and piracy continues here tomorrow.

Pirates Tie U. Of Delaware In Thirteen Inning Affair

Crayton Matches Neiger In Duel

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Reflector Sports Editor
East Carolina and the University of Delaware, a couple of defense-minded clubs, butted heads for thirteen long innings yesterday afternoon but it was all in vain as their game was called due to darkness with the score knotted at one-all.

Larry Crayton and Al Neiger hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel for eleven innings and then Johnny Ellen took over for Crayton to match the Delaware junior the remaining two frames.

Delaware, a strong eastern club which posted a 19-3 mark last season, opened the game with a tally in the first inning but it was the last for Coach Howard Raymond's smooth-fielding outfit.

Karl Frantz got Crayton's number in the first inning and kept it as he lashed three of the five hits off the Greensboro southpaw. The Hen's shortstop got the only extra base blow as he drove a double to centerfield in the first inning.

Sonny Reihm hit an infield grounder which eventually resulted in an unearned run for the Hens. Third baseman Bob Hart hobbled the grounder but recovered in time to throw Reihm out. Frantz cut loose for third and came in to score when Martin's return toss was low and bounced into the ECC bench.

Glenn Bass broke Neiger's hitless trance in the third inning when he hit a grounder between first and second for a single. Bass died on base as Neiger struck out Crayton and then Vaughn bounced out in the fourth when Bob Hart worked Neiger for a walk and reached second on a sacrifice by Tommy Nance. Hart moved over to third on an infield grounder by Gary Pierce but was caught coming home when the Delaware catcher, Pape Lukk, lost the ball but recovered in time to catch Hart at the plate.

The Pirates finally pushed across the tying run in the bottom of the seventh after two were out. Jerry Carpenter kept the Bucs alive by dropping a blooper over the pitcher's head. Neiger fielded the ball but overthrew first to allow Carpenter to advance to second. Jimmy Martin got his first clean hit of the season by lashing a fast ball to left-centerfield. Carpenter scored easily on the bingle. Martin had a blooper single at Camp Lejeune but this one was a clean base blow and saved the Bucs from their third consecutive defeat.

An error and a sacrifice put Crayton in hot water in the ninth inning with only one out. The crafty southpaw gave an intentional walk to Sonny Reihm and then proceeded to strike out Richard Duerr and Curtis Combs. Errors in the tenth and eleventh kept the pressure on Crayton but each time he was able to survive without allowing a run. An error sacrifice, and another intentional walk gave Delaware a scoring opportunity in the tenth but Neiger popped up to Bass and then Jack Turner went down swinging. The Hens stayed alive in the eleventh as Karl Frantz got his third hit off Crayton. The shortstop got caught going to second but Bass fumbled the throw from Johnson and Frantz slid in safe. Crayton issued his third intentional walk and then settled down to force a couple of infield out and then retired the side by striking out Dumbanski.

Johnny Ellen finished the game and faced only six men in his two inning stint, striking out three.

The Bucs didn't exactly roll over and play dead after the seventh as they collected a hit in the ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth inning. Each time Neiger was able to escape without any more trouble, leaving the runner stranded. Neiger, the hard-throwing Delaware junior, defeated ECC last season 4-1 and was impressive yesterday in striking out 15 ECC batters.

Crayton also had a spell over the Delaware batters and got three strikes past eleven of the touring hitters. He now has 25 strikeouts in 24 innings and has yet to yield his first earned run. Tommy Nance shifted over to rightfield for the game and came through with two hits. Glenn Bass and Charles Johnson also had two safeties as the Bucs outdid their strong rivals.

The tie ended a jinx that Delaware has held over East Carolina for several years. The Hens have always added luster to their southern tour with wins at ECC but Coach Raymond and his strong club had all they could handle yesterday and were happy to escape with a tie and their still unblemished record.

Braves Obtain O'Brien In Big Player Exchange

By ED WILKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves, seeking a second baseman to hold together their pennant winner, today looked to Johnny O'Brien to fill the gap left by ailing Red Schoendienst.

O'Brien was acquired by the Braves last night in a 3-for-3 swap with the Philadelphia Phillies, who apparently feel that their own second base problem is solved.

The Braves got O'Brien, hard-hitting catcher Stan Lopata and utility infielder Ted Kazanski for pitcher Gene Conley, infielder-outfielder Joe Koppe.

O'Brien could figure prominently in the nationally televised series, the West Virginia slugger drew top advance billing over Ken Venturi of San Francisco, 6-1, and a trio of past winners, defender Arnold Palmer, Cary Middlecoff and Ben Hogan, bracketed at 8-1.

Although open betting in this Dixie fairway extravaganza is strictly verboten, a bookmaker grandly distributed in the hotel lobbies and around the course. The 72-hole tournament—the 23rd edition of Bobby Jones' brainchild—opens Thursday on the lush Augusta National course where President Eisenhower's quick hook is no stranger. There's a round a day through Sunday.

The advance odds may undergo some quick revision overnight in view of the redhot practice performances of 1956 champion Jack Burke Jr. of Houston, Tex., who has had successive rounds of 66 and 64.

Although it's strictly shadow boxing, as Burke admits, these were two of the finest back-to-back rounds ever played over the monstrous 6,980-yard, par 72 course—for keeps or for fun.

In two days Jackie, who is listed as a 12-1 shot, has had 14 birdies, 22 pars and not a single bogey. Snead, winner here in 1949, 1952 and 1954, is still riding the crest of his lightning wings, which have amounted to $28,000.

Playing on tough courses, he met the game's top players and beat them all over a period of several months, ending last November. He averaged 67.2 strokes for 13 rounds, never went over 70 and had one 63—a record at Sea Island, Ga.

Snead is playing better golf than he did 15 years ago," said Ray O'Brien, former PGA tournament director and now technical director for the TV series.

Snead's odds are 51 to win, 2-1 to place and even money to finish third. Venturi, the pick of the newsmen, is 6-1, 3-1 and 3-2.

Ninety golfers, including an array of past champions, are expected to tee off. In the list is a formidable foreign contingent including British Open champion Peter Thomson of Australia, Gary Player of South Africa, David Thomas of Wales and Angel Miguel of Spain.

Snead Made Betting Choice In Masters

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Sam Snead, budding star of television, was made the 5-1 betting favorite today to snare his fourth Masters golf championship.

Mainly on the strength of his phenomenal 13-match unbeaten streak in the nationally televised series, the West Virginia slugger drew top advance billing over Ken Venturi of San Francisco, 6-1, and a trio of past winners, defender Arnold Palmer, Cary Middlecoff and Ben Hogan, bracketed at 8-1.

Although it's strictly shadow boxing, as Burke admits, these were two of the finest back-to-back rounds ever played over the monstrous 6,980-yard, par 72 course—for keeps or for fun.

In two days Jackie, who is listed as a 12-1 shot, has had 14 birdies, 22 pars and not a single bogey. Snead, winner here in 1949, 1952 and 1954, is still riding the crest of his lightning wings, which have amounted to $28,000.

Playing on tough courses, he met the game's top players and beat them all over a period of several months, ending last November. He averaged 67.2 strokes for 13 rounds, never went over 70 and had one 63—a record at Sea Island, Ga.

Snead is playing better golf than he did 15 years ago," said Ray O'Brien, former PGA tournament director and now technical director for the TV series.

Snead's odds are 51 to win, 2-1 to place and even money to finish third. Venturi, the pick of the newsmen, is 6-1, 3-1 and 3-2.

Ninety golfers, including an array of past champions, are expected to tee off. In the list is a formidable foreign contingent including British Open champion Peter Thomson of Australia, Gary Player of South Africa, David Thomas of Wales and Angel Miguel of Spain.

Underdog Wake Forest gets a chance to play dragon-killer today as it takes on powerful Clemson, loop defending champion, in an Atlantic Coast Conference baseball game.

Wake Forest's Deacons made their ACC debut Tuesday with a 3-1 win over South Carolina and joined Clemson in first place.

Meanwhile, the bat-booming Tiggers pounded out a 16-8 victory over Adelphi of New York on 18 hits for their sixth win against no losses. Clemson has beaten Maryland and Virginia in the ACC by scores of 9-2 and 13-1, respectively.

In other action, Duke defeated Michigan 8-2 in the Florida State University tournament at Tallahassee and Maryland trounced Dartmouth of the Ivy League 7-0.

Besides Wake Forest at Clemson today, Duke plays Illinois in the FSU tournament and Ithaca is at North Carolina.

Wake Forest scored two runs in the third inning against South Carolina right-hander Roger Groves, who took the loss. The Deacs scored an insurance run in the seventh as left-hander Jimmy Harrell got credit for the win.

Clemson started with a single tally in the first inning against Adelphi and then produced multiple tallies, the seventh inning producing seven runs, four on catcher Bob Dempsey's grand slam home run. Adelphi scored six in the eighth and two more in the final frame. Jim Roller, who started or Clemson, got the win.

West Loses ...
Cornell Snaps ECC Win Streak
A strong Cornell tennis team spent another day at East Carolina after their match had been rained out Monday and by doing so got the opportunity to knock the Pirates from the unbeaten ranks yesterday afternoon.

Only John Savage, number three man, could gain a victory from the touring northern club as the visitors took a 7-1 decision on the ECC courts.

John West went down to his first defeat in five starts as Don Rubbell took the match in two sets, 6-1 and 6-2.

Extra Cash Goes To Mike Souchak

GREENSBORO (AP)—Mike Souchak's popularity with the Carolinas Golf Writers Assn. will gain him an extra $200 for appearing in the Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament April 9-12.

Souchak was the overwhelming choice of 25 writers in the voting, and beat out Jim Ferree and Ken Venturi, among nine other nominees.

The tourney sponsors, the Greensboro Jaycees, are furnishing the money. Souchak, one-time Duke University football star, finished in a seventh-place tie in last year's tourney, won by Bob Goalby. He was second in 1957 to Stan Leonard.

Souchak, playing out of Greensinger, N.Y., was second to Art Wall in this week's Azalea Open at Wilmington.

Khrushchev Proved He Has Bounce

Editor's note—This article, third of a series of five, tells more of the kind of antagonist Khrushchev can be.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
Stuffy Nikita Khrushchev planted himself in the middle of a field, surrounded by awed farmers and Communist functionaries. A brisk breeze fanned the tiny wisps of white hair on his nearly naked round dome.
"Here!" exclaimed Khrushchev, pointing dramatically to the corn "is the complete sausage on the handle! Here is beefsteak; here is bacon! How will these plants look in a month and a half, when harvest comes? The cobs will be half yard long. Now you understand why I am so enthusiastic about corn!"

This was the new Khrushchev of recent vintage, Khrushchev the boss. He spoke about the pressing need for animal fodder. Who would dare remind him that his own experimenting in the past had gravely endangered the U.S.S.R.'s livestock population?

Khrushchev owed much of his career to his interest in agriculture and his knowledge of the farmer. Boss at last, he could talk confidently about his big ideas. It hadn't been so in the past. His first big idea about farming, in fact, almost cost him his head.

As a member of Stalin's inner Politburo and chief of the Ukraine, Khrushchev conceived the idea of revolutionizing collective farming. In general charge of Soviet agriculture was Andrei Andreyevich Andreyev, old "Triple A" weak, inefficient, always tottering on the edge of disaster. For the aggressive Khrushchev, Andreyev was a pushover.

Farms, said Khrushchev, would be transformed into agricultural factories. Farmers would become farm industry workers. Small collectives would be merged on a vast scale into huge farm factories.

Khrushchev's real goal, inspired by Stalin, was to abolish all private plots, the kitchen gardens by which the peasants get great store. He would build instead communal agropods—farm cities.

He reckoned without the peasants. There was grumbling, resentment, even resistance. He pushed through thousands of amalgamations, but suddenly Stalin slapped him down and halted the program.

The coal miner from Kursk listened in brooding silence at the 20th Communist Congress in October 1952. Georgi Malenkov, Stalin's dour right hand, referred to Khrushchev as one of "our individual executive workers" who erred in trying to force farm consolidation.

"They tried," thundered Malenkov, "to bring about at a forced tempo the mass resettlement of villages in large collective settlements, to demolish old collective farm installations and homes of collective farmers to create instead agropods."

But Khrushchev had bounce. Despite this awesome blast, he emerged from the 1952 congress a member of the expanded Presidium which supplanted the Politburo, and a member of an expanded party secretariat. He lost no time in nailing down his influence.

Malenkov would live to rue his words. Long after Stalin's death, Khrushchev would revert to 1952 and blame Malenkov for the sorry state of Soviet agriculture then. He would succeed in having Malenkov thrown out of the hierarchy.

To hear Khrushchev tell it, he had nothing to do with the whole business until he stepped in with the cure.

Shortly after the 1952 congress, the lives of all Politburo members were in grave danger. Stalin, to quote a diplomat of the day, had "reached for the bottle again." A new blood purge was in the making. Stalin's assistants fabricated a fantastic story about a plot of doctors, most of them Jewish, to poison Stalin and other leading figures.

Luckily for the Politburo—some say it was more than coincidence—Stalin died in March 1953.

At that moment, Khrushchev seemed only an also-ran in the power sweepstakes, scarcely noticed. But Stalin's body was not cold before the plotting began.

Malenkov took both Stalin jobs: premier and first party secretary, in control of both party and government. Within two weeks, Khrushchev nudged Malenkov from the party job.

At the 1956 congress, Khrushchev sobbed out the terrifying story. Not a man on the Politburo had been safe, he recalled, after the obscure Dr. Timashuk unfolded her fantastic tale of the plot.

"Let us recall the affair of the doctor plotters," said Khrushchev. "Actually there was no affair outside the declaration of the woman Doctor Timashuk who was influenced or ordered by someone—after all she was an unofficial collaborator of the organs of state security—to write Stalin a letter in which she declared that doctors were applying supposedly improper methods of medical treatment."

"Such a letter was enough for Stalin to reach the immediate conclusion that there were doctor-plotters in the Soviet Union, said Khrushchev. Stalin personally called the investigating judge, and gave him instructions, advising him which investigative methods should be used. These methods were simple: beat, beat and once again beat."

So much for the man who was, for so many years, Nikita Khrushchev's "great genius leader and teacher." Khrushchev's own methods were to seem more refined by comparison.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, Hindu political and religious leader, was assassinated in 1948.

Harris Bill Gets 'Steam-Roller' House Action

By BUNNY HARRIS
 Reflector Raleigh Bureau
 RALEIGH — Wake Rep. Bucky Harris' bill to liberalize taxation of property used for public libraries and educational purposes got the steam-roller treatment Tuesday.
 Under the Harris bill all lands, buildings and facilities reasonably necessary and useful in the "functional operation of public libraries and educational institutions" would have been exempted from taxation. Under present law only lands and buildings adjacent to the institution are exempt.
 The old sections dealing with the types of institutions that can claim exemptions remained unchanged in Harris' bill, but its introduction gave Buncombe representatives a chance to settle an old grievance.
 Rep. J.Y. Joyner explained their problem. A business college acquired a large amount of property in downtown Asheville and over the years has built apartment houses throughout the city to house its students.
 "We have never been able to collect taxes on this property," Joyner said. "If I should give up the practice of law and open up a business college for profit I think I should have to pay taxes on it."
 The Buncombe delegation through Rep. I.C. Crawford introduced an amendment making such tax-exemptions applicable only to institutions that operate entirely on a non-profit basis.
 "My intention was to liberalize the present law," Harris said. "I would rather see this bill killed than see this amendment go in."
 But the bill, as amended, was passed by an overwhelming majority.

New Pages And Pagettes On Job

RALEIGH — A new crop of pages and pagettes have been marshalled to serve the House during the second half of the 1959 session.
 This group of youngsters, who assumed their duties Monday night, will very likely have a longer period to serve than their predecessors since the General Assembly (which enters its 50th legislative day today) is expected to run into June.
 Giving stability to the new ranks are four reappointees: Martin Lancaster of Goldsboro, chief page; Ed Wilson Jr. of Blanche, Randolph Riley of Raleigh and Bobby Dalton of Franklin.
 The new pages and pagettes are Norman Leaf of Statesville, Bobby Hunter of Marion, Melvin Williams of Duplin County, Paul Costaloe of Winterville, Monroe Cope of Asheville, Kay Turner of Raleigh, Johnny Gunter of Cary, Julian Taylor of Raleigh, Perry McCotter of Alliance, Burke Davis III of Greensboro, Edward Covert of Moncure and George Wynne of Durham.

Advise Treating For Blue Mold

Farmers today were urged to begin treating tobacco plants for Blue Mold and Anthracnose by Assistant County Agent Sam Weeks.
 He said no Blue Mold has yet been reported in Pitt County, although it has been spotted in Roberson County.
 "With the present temperature and moisture conditions favorable for the spread of Blue Mold we are suggesting that all farmers who have not done so, begin treating at once.
 The same fungicides that are recommended for Blue Mold will control Anthracnose also.
 Weeks said Zineb, Ferbam and Maneb can be used as either spray or dust for control of the diseases. They should be applied to tobacco plant beds twice each week. If rain washes the fungicide away it should be applied again as soon as the beds are dry enough to allow the fungicide to stick to the plants.

Had Enough Of Diaper-Changing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 12-year-old boy told police he was driven into a three-week crime spree by a desire to change addresses instead of diapers.
 The youngster, picked up after running away from his home in nearby Altadena, admitted committing some 20 residential burglaries in which more than $200 was taken.
 He told juvenile officers he wanted to go to Pennsylvania to look for his father, whom he hadn't seen in five years. There are four younger children in his family, he said, and his mother is expecting again.
 Faced with this situation, he decided: "I didn't want to change any more diapers."

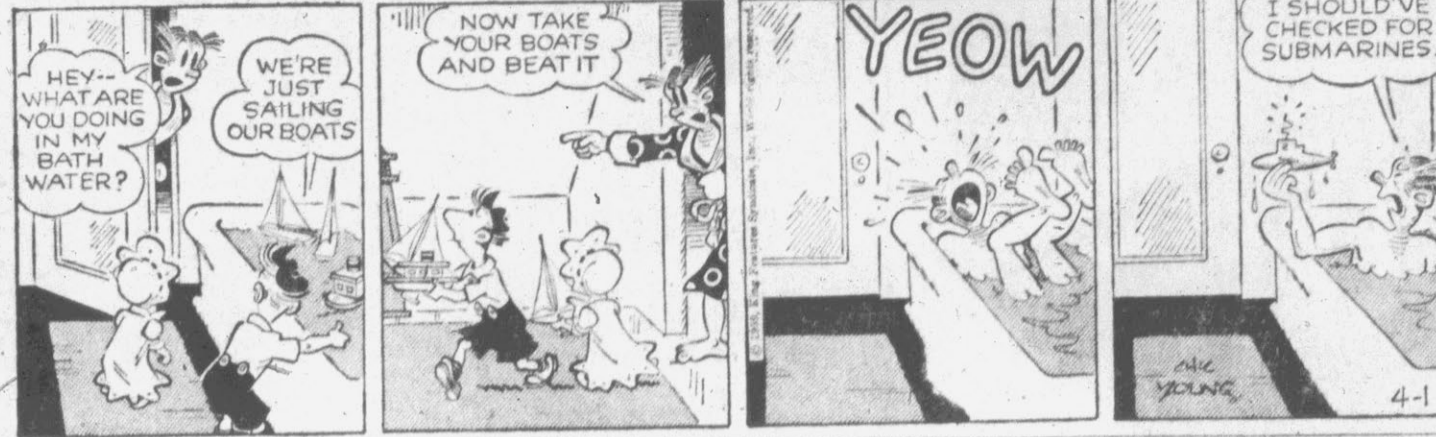

Six Children Ate Rat Poison Pellets

COALINGA, Calif. (AP) — Six children, aged 2 to 5, are home today after a hectic night at Coalinga Hospital where doctors rid them of nearly a pound of rat poison pellets they had eaten.
 Mrs. G. R. Nankivier spied her own Billy, 5, and five other mopets eating the pellets which they had found in some garbage. At the hospital doctors pumped out their stomachs and gave them medicine.

12 Years' Work Is Stranded

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—A dozen years they've worked on it — off and on. Now it's finished. But alas, the blooming thing's too big for the door.

Not a boat. Not a plane. Not the work of home craftsmen—but of experts, it stands, six feet tall, as fine a dwarf elephant as anybody ever saw.

It was pieced together at the Museum of Natural History from hundreds of delicate bones out of 15 fossilized elephants.

East it through the door to an exhibit hall? Impossible, says Dr. P. C. Orr, curator. It won't fit. The slightest pressure and it would shatter into fragments.

Now what? That's right, Orr says — now what?

TOLL MAY BE 3,000

PARIS (AP)—The death toll in floods ravaging Madagascar might rise to 3,000, dispatches to Paris newspapers reported today.

Tens of thousands are homeless and hungry. The sun finally came out Monday after days of torrential rains.

Cancer Expert Suggests 'Seeds' Planted Long Ago

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (AP)—The seeds of cancer may lurk in your body—an unwanted gift planted perhaps as long as 100,000 years ago in the cells of an ancestor.

Only a few such seeds among the trillions of cells of your body could start deadly, uncontrolled cancer.

As these seeds—perhaps sleeping viruses—were passed on generation to generation they may have awakened from time to time, bringing a sudden and unexpected cancer attack.

This is a theory expressed at this week's American Cancer Society seminar on cancer research and progress by Dr. Ludwik Gross, cancer unit chief of the Veterans Administration Hospital, Bronx, N. Y.

These sleeping viruses somehow hitchhike a ride through the centuries with the genes of the cell—getting passed along with inherited factors from one generation to the next, Dr. Gross suggested.

What awakens the deadly virus?

Radiation—the chance hit of an atomic ray — might provide the trigger. Or some chemical poison unrecognized as dangerous might do the trick.

Dr. Gross has succeeded in following inherited leukemia through only a few generations of mice.

But he feels the theory explains why cancer seems to strike so often within certain families.

Describing his work on mouse leukemia, Dr. Gross told of a mystery gland and the strange role it plays in cancer of the blood and blood producing areas of the body.

The mystery gland is the thymus. In humans this little gland in the chest seems to have no function after birth.

But in mice stricken with leukemia, removal of the thymus means survival. Some mice were intentionally infected with leukemia and then operated on for removal of the thymus. They never developed the disease.

It is possible that the thymus is the target of the leukemia-causing virus, Dr. Gross said. The thymus may be the nest where the virus multiplies.
