Ship Aground On North Carolina Coast

Efforts to pull the S. S. Antonin Dvorak from the surf near Avon-On-Hatteras are expected to begin Tuesday, it was announced today. The 423-foot Liberty ship foundered a week ago after two lines broke during a Northeast Gale. During the time the vessel has been on the beach, it has become a top attraction for tourists and vacationists on Dare County beaches. Owners have contracted with a New York firm to refloat the ship. A crew of eight men will board the ship Tuesday to begin preparations for the efforts to remove the vessel from the beach. This photograph of the S. S. Dvorak was made for The Daily Reflector by Photographer Roy Hardee of television station WNCT.

Five City Council Candidates In Last Minute Filing Rush Today

Five persons announced as City Council candidates this morning to swell the field to 11 as the filing deadline passed at noon.

There were no additional candidates for mayor. Thus there is to be a two-way race for the city's top elective office with present Mayor S. Eugene West and Councilman J. A. Collins seeking the office.

The election is set for May 5 and all offices are two-year terms. The five new council candidates, who filed with City Clerk H. H. Duncan's office prior to the 12 o'clock closing time are: Jack Wallace, J. Clarence Galloway, D. D. Garrett, D. B. Shackelford and Bob Smith.

They join the following six men who had announced earlier they would be seeking the four seats open on the city's governing body. Charles M. King, Lester E. Turnage, Dr. M. W. Aldridge, A. C. Jackson, W. S. Stafford and C. W. Harvey, Jr. Both Turnage and Harvey are present Council members who will be seeking re-election.

Municipal Judge Charles H. Wheabee and Solicitor, Eli Bloom will both be running unopposed for re-election to their posts.

Jack Wallace, 42 years old, was born and raised in Virginia. He is a graduate of VPI and entered the United States army as a second Lieutenant upon graduation. He served for ten years and was discharged as a lieutenant colonel in 1948 after serving in the Caribbean and Pacific areas.

Wallace is married to the former Marie Smith of Greenville who operates a local dance school. He has one daughter, Linda Lou Wallace of Lima, Peru by his first wife who died in 1944. He has an adopted daughter 12 years old.

The candidate came to Greenville in 1948 to enter the life insurance business. In 1950 he entered the real estate business and he is currently engaged in both life insurance and real estate.

He is a past commander of the VFW post, past vice commander of the American Legion, past president of the Exchange Club, past president of Farmers Day, member of the board of officers of the Moose Lodge, president of the Pitt Board of Realtors for three years, past vice president of the N. C. Association of Real Estate Boards, member Eighth St. Christian Church and assistant teacher of the Adult Class. He has also served for the past three years as a member of the City Planning and Zoning Commission. Wallace will be seeking a local elective office for the first time.

at Galloway's Cross Roads. He attended Simpson and Grimesland schools. Then he attended Greenville High School where he graduated. He studied for one year at East Carolina College and then attended N. C. State College.

From 1941 through 1946 he was an aircraft armament engineer for Emerson Electric Co. In 1946 he returned to Greenville to open the City Laundrette in partnership. He sold his interest in 1950 to devote his full-time to farming. Galloway is presently operating his farms in Chisler township and he is a salesman for Speight Seed Farms. He has been living in Greenville since 1935 with the exception of the war and college years.

Galloway has no past political experience. He is a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, the Grimesland Masonic Lodge, Greenville chapter, Bethlehem Commandry No. 29 Knights Templar and the Simpson-Grimesland Ruritan Club.

He is married to the former Christine Nelson of Craven County and they have one son who is a student at VMI. The Galloways live at 802 River Dr.

"Greenville and Pitt County are so closely tied together, I feel that a farmer and resident of Greenville would make a good representative of the people. I wouldn't say I'm extremely progressive nor conservative. It would be my objective to represent the will of the people and vote as I saw fit after getting all the information and weighing the issues."

"I'm not connected with any faction in Greenville that could influence my decisions nor would my decisions result in any personal financial gain."

D. D. Garrett, 44, was raised in the Flemings Chapel of Pitt County and attended the Fleming Chapel School. He graduated from Epps High School in Greenville in 1938 and entered North Carolina College in Durham that year. He interrupted his college career to enter the U.S. Navy in 1940 and he took his basic training at Great Lakes Naval Station in Illinois. He was assigned to the U.S.S. Shasta in the South Pacific during the war years. He received an honorable discharge in 1943 as a storekeeper third class.

Garrett returned to North Carolina College upon discharge and he graduated in 1945 with a BS degree in commerce. Upon graduation he returned to Greenville to establish the insurance, real estate and accounting business which he now operates.

Garrett is president of the Fleming St. Parent-Teachers Association, is a Sunday School teacher and trustee of York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church, past president of the Greenville Civic League and past president of the N.C. Negro Students League. He is director of Christian Education for the Fifth Episcopal District of A.M.E. Zion Church. The district embraces the North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia.

Two Dynamite Explosions In Henderson Last Night

Arson Conviction In 'Torch' Death

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—A Teamsters Union member, Jack D. Thompson, was convicted of arson Friday in last summer's dry cleaning shop fire that figured in the Frank Kierdorf "human torch" death investigation.

A Genesee County Circuit Court of nine women and three men brought in its verdict against Thompson, 42, a Teamsters business agent, after four hours and 23 minutes of deliberation.

Thompson, a pal of Kierdorf, also, a Teamsters business agent, faces a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison. Judge Stephen J. Roth set May 15 for sentencing. The state's case against Thompson, built entirely on circumstantial evidence, was that he and Kierdorf had set the cleaner plant fire here Aug. 3.

Four days later Kierdorf died in a Pontiac hospital of head-to-foot burns which police said were suffered in the blaze. Kierdorf said two strangers had set fire to him.

Jury Foreman Coley B. Crump, a member of United Auto Workers Local 599 of Flint, announced the verdict to a tense court room. The verdict jarred Thompson. Beforehand, he had appeared at his case, cracking jokes with friends. But his jaw fell open at the word "guilty."

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—A dynamite blast Friday night, one of which blew a hole in the roof of a small mill building, marked the outbreak of new violence in Henderson's long, strife-marred textile strike.

The police department reported that the first dynamite blast went off around midnight and blew a "pretty good sized hole" in the roof of the first aid building at the Harriet-Henderson cotton mill.

An officer said indications were that someone hurled the explosive from Alexander Avenue—outside the mill fence—to the roof of the small brick structure which is located about 30 feet inside the fence.

The other explosion, described as a "right loud" blast, went off around 4 a.m. in the southern section of Henderson. Officers said the scene of this blast had not been located and it apparently did no damage.

The dynamitings followed the breakdown Thursday of negotiations conducted in Raleigh by Gov. Hodges in an effort to end the strike—now nearly five months old. The governor said in admitting failure that although agreement had been reached on many points, differences were still serious.

The breakdown in negotiations was accompanied by announcement that citizens of Henderson had organized night-watch patrols in an effort to curb night-time violence such as the dynamitings.

About 400 or 500 strikers listened attentively Friday as the union's Carolina director, Boyd Payton, riding goal: world domination.

agreement would agree to submit contract issues to a committee for study. But vocal opposition grew and finally Payton withdrew his suggestion.

Citizens planned to continue their "night watch" patrols begun Thursday in an effort to keep the peace. The citizens carry no weapons or identifications and serve only to give the alarm quickly to police in case of violence.

The strike originally involved 1,200 workers and the union claims that 95 per cent of those who first walked out still are out. Chief issue then was renewal of an arbitration clause, which has been in company-union contracts for 14 years. Since then the issues of union dues check-off and seniority rights for nonstrikers have been added.

Dupont Plant In S. C. Considered

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—Dupont has confirmed reports it is considering establishing a major plant in the Florence area.

It was stressed, however, that no final decision has been made. The company's Executive Committee, composed of nine top officials, will make the decision.

Crawford H. Greenewalt, company president and a member of the committee, said in Florence that chances for approval are "very, very good."

The plant would reportedly be located on a site of about 910 acres 10 miles north of Florence.

Service Award For Judge Sharp

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—A University of North Carolina sorority has given Superior Court Judge Suste Sharp its North Carolina Distinguished Service Award for Women for 1959.

Judge Sharp, from Reidsville, the state's only woman Superior Court jurist, got the award Friday night at a banquet of the Epsilon Beta chapter of Chi Omega sorority.

Judge Sharp, a UNC law graduate in 1929, was cited as scholar, lawyer, judge, administrator. The Sociology Award, given to the best woman student in that field, went to Joann Darlene Wallace, a senior from Durham.

Two Long-Term Convicts Escape

According to prison camp Superintendent L. F. Dail, two long-term prisoners escaped this morning from State camp near Greenville.

Dail said John Webster of Wilmington, a trusty and night cook at the camp was missed by guards about 4:00 a.m. this morning. He was in the kitchen when last seen and it is thought he escaped over the fence when guards were not looking.

Webster was serving a 43-year sentence for second degree murder. The second prisoner, Leland Crawford of Greenville, made his escape over the back fence after he was turned into the yard with other prisoners for breakfast, about 7:00 a.m. today.

Crawford was sentenced to from eight-to-ten years for breaking and entering and larceny.

Officers have not yet been able to locate the prisoners.

Eisenhower Says Appeasement On Berlin 'Most Dangerous'

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower cautioned today against any appeasement of the Soviet Union in the Berlin crisis. He said it would be a dishonorable course and "the most dangerous one we could pursue."

Appeasement, said Eisenhower, only would embolden the Reds to step up their world domination drive.

But the President re-emphasized anew that the Western powers want to avoid war over Berlin and negotiate a settlement. In keeping open the possibility of a summit conference with the Russians, Eisenhower said of the United States and its Allies: "They seek to substitute the rule of law for the rule of force, the conference table for the battlefield."

In a major address prepared for the Gettysburg College spring convocation, Eisenhower called the Soviet move to drive the Allies out of West Berlin "a part of the continuing effort of the Communist conspiracy to attain one over-country—or risk Red domination of "the free world stake in the Pacific."

As for critics who want to cut the foreign aid program, Eisenhower referred to them as "uninformed Americans" who believe the United States should turn its back on its friends.

Eisenhower dealt at some length with the Berlin crisis, calling it part of a Soviet plot to win world domination. "Against this background we understand that the mere handing over of a single city could not possibly satisfy the Communists, even though they would particularly like to eliminate what has been called the 'free world's show case behind the Iron Curtain,'" he added.

"Indeed, even if we should acquiesce in the unthinkable sacrifice of two million free Germans, such a confession of weakness would dismay our friends and embolden the Communists to step up their campaign of domination.

"The course of appeasement is not only dishonorable, it is the most dangerous one we could pursue."

Alluding then to the 1938 agreement from which Hitler went on to conquest, the President said: "The world paid a high price for the lesson of Munich—but it learned it well."

By the same token, Eisenhower said, the cost of deferring freedom around the world today is high. But he termed it "a proper charge to the national security of the United States," adding that mutual security—foreign aid—and American security are synonymous.

Eisenhower said that while weakness on the part of the Allies is dangerous, "this does not mean that firmness is mere rigidity, nothing but arrogant stubbornness."

He referred to Communist leaders.

"Naturally they always pick the most awkward situation, the hardest-to-defend position, as the place to test our strength and resolution," he said. "There will never be an easy place for us to make a stand, but there is a best one."

"The best one is where principle points. Deep in that principle is the truth that we cannot afford the loss of any free nation, for wherever freedom is destroyed anywhere, we are, by that much, ourselves weakened. Every gain of communism makes further defense against it harder and our security more uncertain."

Diplomatic officials reported that in Friday's closed-door meeting of the Council, several points were stressed by various speakers.

But everyone who spoke, one informant said, used the word "freedom" as a key word.

Another principle on which the Council members appeared to be solidly agreed was that the Big Three, with the backing of the Western allies, must not remove their troops from West Berlin. That, they stressed, would mean abandoning the 2½ million people there to Communist conquest—a result which could lead to the breakdown of the Atlantic Alliance.

A number of speakers also followed the lead of the Big Three and West Germany in specifically rejecting disengagement. The removal of Soviet and Western forces from divided Germany, it was argued, would eventually lead to the neutralization of Germany, a result which the Western powers reject.

NATO Ministers Determined Keep West Berlin Free

WASHINGTON (AP)—The NATO Foreign Ministers Council today "confirmed its unanimous determination to maintain the freedom of the people of West Berlin" and the West's position there despite "any Soviet demands."

At the same time the 15-nation group expressed in a final communique "its desire to see outstanding problems solved by negotiation."

The foreign ministers ended a three-day meeting held in Washington for the first time in 10 years to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the signing of the Atlantic Pact in Washington, April 4, 1949.

"The council expressed its confidence," the communique said, "that the alliance will continue to develop as the indispensable basis for the security of the Atlantic peoples and the defense of world peace."

The NATO conference was preceded by Berlin crisis talks among the foreign ministers of the United States, Great Britain, France and West Germany.

These officials are primarily responsible for shaping proposals to present to the Soviet government in a foreign ministers meeting beginning at Geneva, May 11.

"The council received a report from the four powers with special responsibilities for the German question. On the present state of their thought in regard to the problems which will be discussed during the forthcoming negotiations with the Soviet Union," the communique said.

"A full discussion took place on the basis of this report. The points of view expressed will be taken into account during the consultations which will follow during the week to come."

"The council expressed its full agreement on the broad lines of the policy to be pursued.

"Whilst stating its desire to see outstanding problems solved by negotiation, the council confirmed its unanimous determination to maintain the freedom of the people of West Berlin and the rights and obligations of the Allied powers as expressed in the council's declaration on Berlin of 16th December 1958."

Among the principles which the council endorsed with its assertion of "full agreement" on broad policy lines are those which hold:

1. Any Western concession must bring a corresponding Soviet concession.

2. The Western powers must not barter away their right to be in Berlin as conquerors in order to obtain an agreement with Russia to remain there.

3. There can be no new military arrangement or freeze which would upset the present power balance in Europe.

With respect to other parts of the world, the communique said the council considered that Communist pressures at many points constitute "a threat not only to member nations but also to many other free countries, including some whose independence has only recently been established."

Diplomatic officials reported

that in Friday's closed-door meeting of the Council, several points were stressed by various speakers.

But everyone who spoke, one informant said, used the word "freedom" as a key word.

Another principle on which the Council members appeared to be solidly agreed was that the Big Three, with the backing of the Western allies, must not remove their troops from West Berlin. That, they stressed, would mean abandoning the 2½ million people there to Communist conquest—a result which could lead to the breakdown of the Atlantic Alliance.

A number of speakers also followed the lead of the Big Three and West Germany in specifically rejecting disengagement. The removal of Soviet and Western forces from divided Germany, it was argued, would eventually lead to the neutralization of Germany, a result which the Western powers reject.

But considerable interest was expressed in the possibility of creating a zone of limited forces in Central Europe, backed up by some form of inspection. Informants said various foreign ministers declared, however, that such a zone should not be negotiated in isolation but should be linked to the settlement of German political issues.

Support also was expressed for the ultimate reunification of East and West Germany on the basis of free elections. One of the problems on which the Western powers have been working for weeks is the development of a plan to propose to the Soviet Union for achieving unification by stages.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

Grid for crossword puzzle with numbers 1-57 and letters A-Z.

DESTINATION: Church. Illustration of a family in a car. Text: Mother's wearing her smart new hat, Susan's curls are brushed till they shine, and Dad's looking pretty sharp, himself, in that pale gray suit. The Browns look like a family starting out on a pleasure ride — well, that's exactly what they're about to do. They're going to church. The Browns are regular churchgoers. But this is their secret. They go to church not only because they feel they should, but because they want to. Church, for them, is one of the most joyous occasions of the week. No one ever said that going to church had to be a glum, long-faced affair. Going to church isn't a duty. It's a privilege. Make church your destination this Sunday. And go joyfully.

Redmen, Pocahontas Meet

Members of the Degree of Pocahontas and Redmen of the 4th District held its semi-annual joint meeting Thursday in Grimesland. The Pocahontas met in the Methodist Church and Redmen met in Redmen Hall.

Mrs. Ethel Lee Williams of the Winterville Council was the presiding Pocahontas. The meeting was carried out in ritualistic form. The American flag was presented and allegiance was pledged and the Opening Ode sung.

Great Prophetess Martha Crumby, Great Wenonah Gladys Crisp and Berthaleen McRoy of Washington were recognized and welcomed as visitors. Each spoke briefly on the order of the organization.

A moment of silent prayer was held for incoming District Pocahontas Geneva Webb, who had lost her father. Also sympathy cards were sent to her and to Mrs. Carrie Mathew who had recently lost her mother.

Each Council's representative gave a report on their activities and progress made since the last District meeting.

A discussion was held on consolidating the five districts into one district in the East, and to hold meetings three times a year. An amendment will be brought up at Great Council when it convenes May 17 at Virginia Dare Hotel in Elizabeth City.

Great Wenonah Gladys Crisp, assisted by Past Great Pocahontas Marion Vincent, raised the following chiefs: Mrs. Ethel Lee Williams, prophetess; Mrs. Nina Joyner, pro-tem, Pocahontas; Mrs. Elizabeth O'Neal, Wenonah; Mrs. Leatha Bradshaw, Powhatan; Mrs. Kathleen Woolard, keeper of records; Mrs. Elizabeth Barfield, keeper of wampum; Mrs. Maycie Culbreth, 1st scout; Mrs. Grace Buck, 2nd scout; Mrs. Mattie Hardee, 1st warrior; Mrs. Gertrude Wheelless, 2nd warrior; Mrs. Shirley Brown, 3rd warrior; Mrs. Anna Woolard, 4th warrior; Mrs. Lillian Catlett, 1st runner; Mrs. Lillie Haddock, 2nd runner; Mrs. Bettie Pearl Shewee, 1st counselor; Mrs. Margaret Williams, 2nd counselor; Mrs. Ruby Hodges, guard of forest; and Mrs. Agnes Landing, guard of tepee.

Mrs. Joyner thanked the Great Chiefs for raising the chiefs.

Bankers Tell Club Women How To 'Do Business At The Bank'

"Doing Business At The Bank" was the topic discussed by Joe Moyer and Ralph Tucker, afternoon guests, who were introduced by Mrs. Helen Mohan, assistant Pitt County HD Agent, at the Belvoir Home Demonstration Club meeting Thursday.

Knowing the correct way in which to write a check, how to begin a savings account, and how to borrow money was stressed.

During the business session under the direction of Mrs. Clarence Barnhill, president, the club voted to give $10 to the Auxiliary of the Gum Swamp Church to be used for the Pastoral Residential Fund.

Swiggard-Cannon Marry

AYDEN — The First Baptist Church was the scene of a pastel wedding Sunday afternoon when Miss Sheila Moyer Cannon of Hyattsville, Md., and Ayden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Otis Cannon, became the bride and groom.

Donald Everett Swiggard, son of Mrs. Ruth B. Swiggard and the late Mr. Swiggard of Hyattsville, Maryland.

The church chancel, decorated with floor baskets of pastel flowers interspersed with greenery and candelabra with white candles, formed the background for the double ring ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Bennie E. Piedger.

Prior to the pledging of the vows a program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Barbara Griffin, organist of Ayden, and Bobby Wilson of Greenville, soloist, who sang "Because," "I Love Thee," and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a wedding gown of deep lustrous white satin. The fitted bodice had a scalloped neckline embroidered with seed pearls in floral pattern and long sleeves ending in a point on the hands. The bouffant skirt had a front satin panel with a Chantilly lace overskirt. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stock.

Miss Francine Cannon was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a light blue net and taffeta floor length dress, fashioned with a fitted bodice and full skirt. Her head dress was made of matching satin and tulle and she carried a bouquet of mixed flowers.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. James Jenkins, Mrs. David Harold Smith, Jr. and Miss Dorothy Salmon, all of Ayden and Miss Bobby Wall of Washington, D. C. They wore pastel blue and pink dresses fashioned with fitted bodices and bouffant taffeta skirts with chiffon overdresses. Their head pieces and flowers were similar to the honor attendant.

Misses Jackie Cannon of Ayden and Jean Lee of Norfolk, Va., cousins of the bride, were flower girls. They were dressed in pink and blue styled as the bridesmaids, and the ring bearer was another cousin of the bride, Sammy Lane of Dover.

The bride groom had for his best man a brother, Thomas Swiggard of Hyattsville, Maryland. Ushers were Edward Swiggard, a brother of Arlington, Va., Richard Darrel Worthington, cousin of the bride, and Jimmy Otis Cannon, brother of the bride, all of Ayden.

Mrs. Swiggard is a graduate of Ayden High School and attended East Carolina College in Greenville, D. C., and is now connected with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employers in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Swiggard is a graduate of Bell High School in Washington, D. C., and is a printer with the Robert Francis Printing Company in Hyattsville, Md.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Cannon chose a sky blue lace dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a roomy white outfit with light blue accessories and a pink rose corsage.

Following the ceremony the couple received in the vestibule of the church.

For the wedding trip to unannounced points the bride changed to a going-away outfit of white jersey sheath dress with a lace waist and matching coat. Her accessories were black patent and a

Couple Wed In Baptist Church

WASHINGTON—The Riverview Baptist Church was the setting on Easter Sunday for the wedding of Miss Patricia Ann Morgan and Jesse Ray Wilson. The Rev. Walter S. Jones officiated, using the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Hobart Morgan of Route 3, Washington, and the late Mr. Morgan and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Wilson of Grimesland.

The candlelight ceremony was performed before a background of Easter lilies, white gladioli, palms and greenery. The aisle posters featured candles with Easter lilies.

Appropriate wedding music was presented by Miss Ann Marie Barlington, pianist. Mrs. Robert Lewis Wilson, vocalist, sang "Oh Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Robert Morgan, wore a wedding gown of white satin which featured a scalloped neckline, a lace overskirt with a satin front panel that extended to the hem. Her fingertip veil was attached to a satin headband. She carried an old fashioned nosegay of white bridal roses, showered with lily-of-the-valley and topped with a white orchid.

The bride's sister, Miss Faye Morgan, served as maid of honor. Her ballerina length dress was of blue taffeta with tiny cap sleeves and rounded neckline that extended to a deep v in the back. Her cummerbund was of blue chiffon and she wore mits and headband of blue taffeta. She carried a nosegay of pink roses.

Miss Sue Morgan and Miss Betty Lou Morgan, also sisters of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Their pink taffeta dresses were made identical to the maid of honor's and they carried nosegays of blue carnations.

Little Miss Gail Dawson, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl. She was dressed in a white taffeta dress with matching headband.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Robert Lewis Wilson, brother of the bridegroom, Billy Dawson, uncle of the bride, Lendy Edwards and James Earl Heath.

Mrs. Walker Jones assisted the wedding party at the church.

The bride's mother chose a blue brocaded crepe dress for the wedding with matching accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

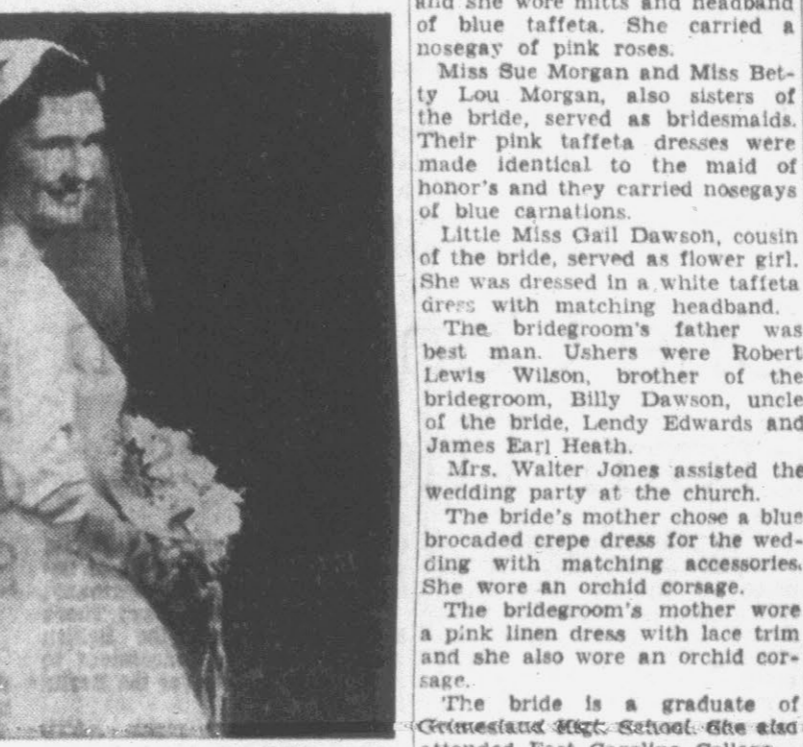

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink linen dress with lace trim and she also wore an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Greenville High School and attended East Carolina College.

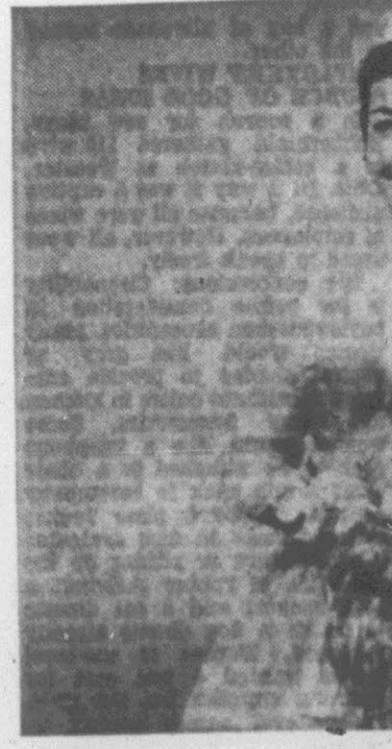

The bridegroom is also a graduate of Grimesland High School and Nashville Auto Diesel College, Nashville, Tenn.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the parsonage. Bridal squares, mints, nuts and punch were served by Miss Joy Ferguson and Miss Jo Ann Smith, cousins of the bride.

For traveling the new Mrs. Wilson changed into a pink spring suit with matching accessories. After a wedding trip South, the couple will be at home in Washington.

Menus

SAVORY BACON AND EGG SANDWICHES
 Ingredients: For each serving — 2 to 4 slices bacon; 1 1/2 tablespoons butter; 1 small onion (finely diced); 2 to 3 tablespoons green pepper; 2 eggs; 1 tablespoon water; 1 teaspoon salt; pepper; 2 slices buttered wholewheat toast; chili sauce.
 Method: Cook bacon until crisp; drain and keep warm. Melt 1 tablespoon butter in a hot 6-8-inch skillet; add onion and green pepper; cook gently for a few minutes. Beat eggs with water, salt and a dash of pepper just until yolks and whites are combined; pour over vegetables in skillet. As egg sets, draw edges toward center and lift pan so liquid will run toward edges or stir with a fork holding tines flat. Lift omelet from pan, adding the remaining 1/2 tablespoon butter in small pieces as you do so and flip over; or cut in half in 8-inch pan before flipping. Brown slightly; with wide spatula, place on toast; pour a little chili sauce in the center; arrange bacon over sides of omelet.

Miss Cox Missionary Talks To Club

"A Missionary" was the subject of the afternoon program given by Miss Venetia Cox, when she spoke to the Lector Book Club Tuesday.

Colored slides were shown by this former missionary of the areas covered during her mission in China.

"There is a great need for our help to these people," she said after discussing the life of a missionary in a foreign country.

Mrs. V. E. Wells Jr., president, welcomed the guests during the first part of the meeting. They were Mrs. Brantley Speight, Mrs. Oscar Speight and Mrs. Leon Tyson of the Winterville area, Mrs. Troy Rouse and Miss Venetia Cox of Greenville, Mrs. Clifton Davenport, Mrs. Harvy Owen and Mrs. Joe Tripp of Ayden and Mrs. C. B. Roe of Sioux City, Iowa, the former Daily King Mayo of Greenville.

Minimum Wage Bill Dealt A Blow

In most cases a favorable committee report for a bill is viewed as a pretty good indication the legislation may be passed by General Assembly.

In the case of the proposed 75-cent minimum wage bill passed 17-16 by the House Committee on Manufacturing and Labor, committee approval of the bill—and the accompanying amendment to the bill—may well be sending the bill to its death on the floor of the House.

The amendment removed all exemptions which were contained in the original bill to provide a 75-cent per hour minimum wage in North Carolina. There was plenty of opposition to the bill with exemptions provided for farm workers, domestic servants, salesmen and various other workers in North Carolina. With all the exemptions removed from the proposed minimum wage, it is only natural to expect greater opposition to the bill on the House floor.

As originally written, the bill would have affected some 80,000 to 90,000 workers in North Carolina now earning less than the 75-cent an hour minimum. Without the exemptions, the minimum wage will affect many more workers and at the same time many more employers.

North Carolina needs the minimum wage bill. Without any exemptions, it will be of benefit to more people of the state than would be the case otherwise. It will provide more personal income in North Carolina at the lowest level of the economic ladder.

From a practical standpoint, however, a minimum wage bill without exemptions has much less chance of getting by the House than a bill which provides certain sound exemptions.

By eliminating the exemptions, the committee has provided a bill which will do a more effective job of providing a real minimum wage in North Carolina. At the same time the committee has, by its no-exemption amendment, increased the possibility that no 75-cent minimum wage will become mandatory under state law.

Exemptions or no exemptions, there is a crying need in North Carolina for the state 75-cent-an-hour minimum wage. The full House, when the matter comes to the floor, should give its approval to a statewide minimum wage of 75 cents per hour.

By no means should the elimination of exemptions to the minimum wage deter proponents of the measure from throwing their full support behind it on the floor of the House.

Looking Ahead To New United Fund Programs

Pitt County's United Fund is wrapping up the loose ends of its first year of operations now and beginning to look forward to its second budget-making and fund-raising programs.

During the months since last summer when Pitt United began its official organization, it has been transformed from a groping, loosely-connected body into a rather stable and substantial organization. Many times during this first year it was shaken to its very foundations by major problems which could not possibly have been foreseen . . . problems for which there was no fixed answer, no precedent.

Almost through sheer determination alone on the part of citizens of the county dedicated to the idea of a county-wide United giving program, the organization was held together and pushed forward. The problems which beset it at every hand also served to hold Pitt County's United-Fund together. Overcoming the problems forged it into a solid organization.

It has under its belt a year of experience, a year of problems and scores of dedicated supporters throughout the county who helped to resolve the most serious of those problems.

The difficult job of effecting the organization is completed.

Citizens of Pitt County owe a debt of gratitude to their neighbors who provided leadership for the new United Fund during its infancy—among them the late E. E. Rawls, Sr., the forceful figure behind its organization and its initial president; J. B. Kittrell, Sr., who took up the reins as president after Mr. Rawls' death and guided Pitt United through its first year; Dr. John Mewborn who filled the key role as chairman of the admissions and budget committee; and Dr. John Messick who directed the first fund-raising campaign that brought in some $88,000.

Pitt County's United Fund is still young. It still faces many knotty problems and it has much work before it. Yet, it has survived its toughest year . . . the first. It has taken its place as a major asset to this county and its people. With continued support it can increase its service to Pitt year after year by filling a void that long existed in this country.

One Concession From The West

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—It has taken the Western allies about four months just to reach a point where they seem agreed on standing firm on the Berlin crisis.

They have been agreed for some weeks on willingness to negotiate with the Soviet Union to settle the crisis peacefully. But if they know—much less being agreed on—what they want to negotiate, it's still locked up in their heads.

Chances are they don't know yet, and won't until they've done some more weeks of talking. All of which is pretty good evidence of two things:

1. How thoroughly Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev shook them up with his demand last November that the United States, Britain and France get their troops out of West Berlin which is 119 miles inside Communist East Germany.

2. How thoroughly allied policy in Europe has been frozen for years and how thoroughly it was unprepared to meet a sudden twist in events like the one pulled by Khrushchev.

The Allies haven't lacked time for plenty of discussion since last November.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, after conferring with Khrushchev, visited President Eisenhower, President Charles de Gaulle of France and West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

His visits seemed something less than fully satisfactory from the standpoint of allied unity. Reports of disagreement between him and Eisenhower—or, perhaps it would be better to say their failure to see eye-to-eye—leaked out.

Then this week the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany met for two days before the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's 15-member nations opened their session here.

As late as Thursday afternoon it was reported the Western allies were split, with Britain off on one side suggesting they concentrate on solving the Berlin situation even at the cost of delaying unification of Germany.

To put it another way: There have been reports the British were for making concessions to the Soviets to get over the Berlin hump.

Then Thursday night NATO spokesmen sought to paint a picture of unity at last among the Big Three and West Germany with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd represented as taking a stand for Germany reunification, too.

In short: the NATO spokesmen attempted to show allied unity in determination to withstand Soviet pressure for concessions. But if the West isn't ready to make concessions—there doesn't seem much reason for negotiations.

As for concessions: It seems to this writer the West has already made a big one. For years the West—particularly the United States—had insisted on the reunification of East and West Germany through free elections.

Now talk of reunification through free elections seems to have disappeared from the speech of Western spokesmen. Actually, the idea of uniting the two Germans through free elections has been unrealistic from the beginning.

The reason: The Soviet Union is against it and this year Khrushchev again brushed aside any such idea. And no wonder. East Germany is a Russian satellite. Moscow isn't going to chance losing anything it has its hands on.

It would lose East Germany in any free election set up to choose a single German government which would decide whether it wanted to be pro-West or pro-Communist.

There's pretty good reason to believe the 18 million East Germans would vote against any connection with communism which was rammed down their throats. But even if they were pro-Communist they are outnumbered by the 50 million West and pro-West Germans.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
ONE LITTLE STEP

Recently I sat talking with an old friend about baseball heroes who had tumbled off their thrones like Humpty Dumpty falling off the wall.

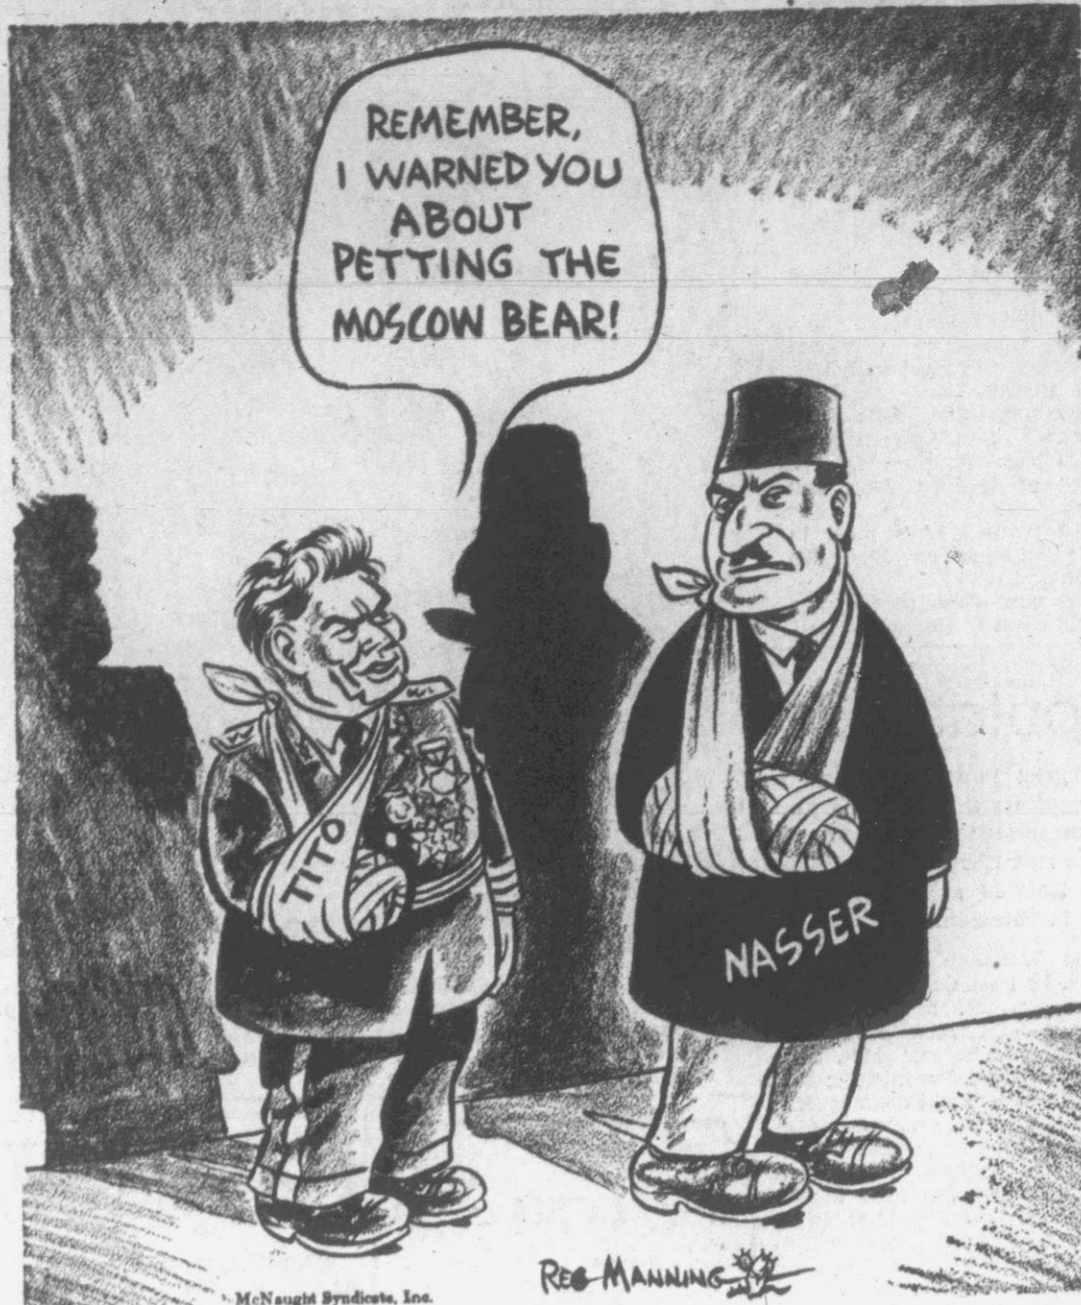

There was the pitcher who won a same pitchink only 72 balls across the plate, but he muffed a easy fly and lost a world series. Another famous player lost a world series because he failed to touch second base in what appeared to be a glorious penant-winning home run. Just recently a player lost a very important series of games because he thought the game was over, when someone galloped across the home plate; whereas it would have been if he had put out the batter at first.

All these men were superlatives in the baseball world, but they are remembered today more for their mistakes than for their achievements. Mark Athony, in his oration over the dead body of Caesar said, "The evil men do lives after them, the good is interred with their bones."

It all adds up to the fact that a little mistake is like a drop of poison in a glass of water, or like the little slip which causes a workman to plunge from a great altitude to his death. So little, yet of such great consequence.

A Little Of This, That

The Junior Chamber of Commerce board of directors was meeting in a local restaurant recently. Beyond the thin partition in another dining room, a second group was meeting.

Obviously from the peels of laughter heard from the second room there was a party going on.

Then there was a loud report from that room. A cap pistol? A firecracker? "That's the tightest girdle I ever heard," muttered one of the Jaycee board members.

Who knows whether the little economy foreign cars or the big gas hogs of Detroit will finally win the fancy of the American motoring public?

The little autos seem to be on the upswing at present, but then, one never knows. The owner of one of the little jobs was seen parked in front of a local automobile show window the other night. The driver was gazing wistfully at the medium priced, chrome splashed giant in the show room.

And when it comes to mistaken identity, Errel Webb of Greenville figures this story takes the cake.

Webb made a trip to Chicago and returned to the Raleigh-Durham Airport one day last week. As he stepped off the plane he spotted John Larkins, National Democratic committeeman. Webb recognized Larkins from college days and Larkins seemed to recognize him.

With big smile and outstretched hand the committeeman rushed over to Webb and exclaimed, "Senator, I want to welcome you to North Carolina!"

As soon as Larkins said it, he realized his mistake. He quickly turned to another distinguished looking person who stepped off the same plane and shook his hand.

It turned out to be Sen. Edmond Muskie (D-Maine) who was to be speaker at the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner held in Raleigh last Saturday night.

Any way Greenville's Errel Webb was a senator for a few seconds!

Just a friendly reminder that April 15 is rapidly approaching. No, that's not my birthday, it's the grand old date which the federal government has set—and the state government has concurred—for filing of income tax.

Your columnist has neglected to send his in as yet, but it's almost a sure thing that the return will be in the mail before the deadline.

So, dear reader, let's not forget this most important thing. Uncle Sam has ways of dealing with tax procrastinators!

"There's nothing like a whirling of a storm to put the size of this country back in perspective. A reading of any one day's roundup on the nation's weather—the knowledge that some are basking in the sun while others are bailing out the cellar or burrowing through snowdrifts—expands one's appreciation of the vastness of this land of ours. It puts distances back in proper perspective in a jet-shrunken age."—Gastonia Gazette.

"The United States will be priced out of the world market if we do not recognize the Soviet use of world trade as a cold war weapon and meet the threat by dealing with the problem of rising costs and inflation here in America."—Vice President Nixon.

"A football game is one place where it pays to kick when things aren't going well."—Cleveland (Ga.) Courier.

Other Editors Saying . . . Sterilization No Solution

(Greensboro Daily News)
Guilford's welfare superintendent, L. M. Thompson, hit the mark with his criticism of the proposed bill to sterilize unwed mothers.

Desertion and low wages are far more damaging and costly problems than illegitimacy, he recently wrote Dr. Rachel R. Davis, author of the current measure to punish mothers of children born out of wedlock. Dr. Davis is soliciting support from county welfare superintendents.

Citing statistics to show that illegitimacy is not a "major problem" in Guilford County, Mr. Thompson informed Dr. Davis that of the total births in the county during 1957 there were 384 born out of wedlock. This is between 6 and 7 per cent.

Even smaller is the percentage of Guilford families with illegitimate children getting financial assistance from the welfare department. Of the 1,650 families receiving aid to dependent children grants, there were 228 last January with one or more children born out of wedlock. More than a third of these had only one child.

Figures for the other families are as follows: Two children born out of wedlock, 55; three children, 43; and four or more, 40. In a county with a total population of 225,000 this seems a very small number of unmarried women who are producing large families for the purpose of controlling welfare checks. Perhaps there are counties where it is profitable to raise illegitimate children on ADC grants but Guilford doesn't seem to be one of them.

The truth is that the legislators who seem bent on punishing unwed mothers—without bothering to be concerned about unmarried fathers—are really opposed to the public welfare program. This is their way of getting at it in the 1959 Legislature.

Last session they proposed to cut off help to unwed mothers after the birth of one illegitimate child—as if the state had no responsibility for fatherless children or that these children couldn't get hungry or need to be clothed.

This session that same group of legislators—still of a punitive mind, still forgetting the fathers involved and still ignoring fundamental social and economic causes of illegitimacy—is concentrating on the sterilization of unwed mothers.

It does seem at times that the desolate, as the Scriptures say, hath many more children than she which hath a husband. But the legislative solutions proposed so far do little or nothing to solve the problem.

And Dr. Davis' role, we add regretfully, is disappointing. Her fight for compulsory police shots was admirable; her association with this questionable sterilization bill is neither intelligent nor enlightening.

'Momism' Might Be In Business

By ELMER ROESSNER
Many psychologists say American youth is afflicted with "momism."

By that they mean an over-dependence on mother, or on the mother image. They explain that in modern life the father is so busy earning a living that he has little time to spend with his son and therefore does not impart to him self-reliance and many qualities. This tends to make youths totally dependent upon their mothers. In some cases this reaches a point at which mothers are almost deified.

During the war breakdowns in morale and abnormal conduct was frequently ascribed to momism. Without mother there is no hero—sergeant lieutenants made a blasted poor substitute for mama—some of our men cracked up.

IN BUSINESS, TOO? It may be that momism is responsible for that amazing phenomenon of the last 30 years: the growing tendency of business, agriculture and other elements of the economy to turn to the government in every difficulty. The government seems to be regarded as a kindly mother who will wipe away tears or provide cookies as needed.

Currently we have the spectacle of merchants and manufacturers appealing to the Federal government to set up a system whereby manufacturers may fix the price at which their goods may be sold at retail. They talk about ruinous competition. Some boys used to complain to their mothers that the boy next door always won their marbles.

Currently, too, many farmers are asking the mother government to continue government price supports. With the current surplus of broilers, some growers salibet a minority want the government to support the price. This momism among farmers is strange indeed, since in farm families sons are usually in close association with fathers.

IN MANY OTHER AREAS Many communities are asking the Federal government to provide money for new schools, ignoring the fact that it was the parents in the community, not the government in Washington, that produced the children that now need education. In effect, these communities are asking grandmothers to take care of the youngsters. They want to spend their money on other things instead of paying it in school taxes.

We see cities and states asking for Federal money for their unemployed, either in doles or for public improvements or defense contracts to create jobs. Manufacturers want higher tariffs to protect them from bad boys in other countries; the oil and mineral industries get cookies in the form of tax concessions; small businesses ask for a slice of low-interest pie; almost everybody else wants some beneficial ice cream.

It has been suggested seriously that Uncle Sam is no longer a fitting symbol of the United States. If he is to be replaced, perhaps a better personality to represent us would be a large and buxom mother, wearing an apron with a thousand strings, with a cookie jar under one arm

Swedes Have Dug In

By HANS DAHLBERGH
STOCKHOLM (AP)— Watch your step when you go out for a walk in Sweden.

The whole country is undermined, honeycombed with caves and tunnels filled with military bases, garages, factories and oil stores.

For thousands of years the Swedes never realized the enormous advantages hidden in their country's big solid granite mountains. They went on looking upon merely as a hindrance to agriculture and communication.

But when air warfare was developed in World War II it was suddenly understood that mountains could satisfy the demand for air shelters. Now the big Swedish towns have shelters which can house all their inhabitants.

The large public shelters, blasted out in the dry and silent depths of the primary rocks, have shelters which can house all their inhabitants.

The large public shelters, blasted out in the dry and silent depths of the primary rocks, have peacetime uses, too.

In Stockholm you won't find a single parking garage. But when you stroll through the quiet churchyard on the top of the Johannes mountain you would never guess that some 10 yards beneath you there is a large garage with parking spaces and a service station.

Stockholm's biggest establishment of that kind is a three-decked car park in the Katarina mountain which has room for 800 automobiles or, in case of war, houses 20,000 people. The roof of granite is 60 feet thick. Sharp angles in the tunnels leading into the shelter are designed to stop pressure waves. The airconditioning can clean the establishment of radioactivity.

But the Swedes not only want to be sheltered in their mountain caves if the war breaks out. They also would like to keep the enemy from the borders of their country.

So, in order to protect the east coast navy from air raids, one of Europe's major naval bases is hidden in the heart of one of Baltic Sea islands. A solid granite roof, sometimes more than 50 yards thick, and giant shock-absorbing doors make the base A-bomb proof.

Included in this under-ground base is one of the country's biggest naval repair yards.

Bases of that kind are defended against an attacking enemy by medium range guided missiles, launched from the depths of the rocks.

The elaborate coast defense system consists of a network of fortifications, submarine pens and under ground harbors into which destroyers can sail. Many of the top secret air bases all around Sweden are hidden inside rocks, too.

About 150 miles south of Stockholm the Saab airplane factory is buried some 100 feet below the land surface with workshops and accommodations for several hundred workers, including dining rooms. Air conditioning, a very essential thing due to the heat from machines, gives the air constant temperature and humidity.

At Saab, the planes are put together inside the mountain and taken out through a long slightly sloping tunnel. Several other big Swedish enterprises have blasted themselves into the mountains. They all report good results.

Swedes nowadays prefer to heat their houses with oil instead of coal or domestic wood, so there is a large and constant need for oilstoves. The Suez crisis two and a half years ago also showed that a sudden break in the supplying of oil immediately causes rationing if the stores are not big enough.

And where could the inflammable stuff be safer than in the mountains? Using closed-down mines the oil companies sometimes have spared themselves the trouble even to cave the mountains.

Walking in Swedish countryside you never can be quite sure there isn't a lake of oil from the Middle East or South America somewhere below your feet.

Sport Slants by Pap

Solly Hemus was giving a quick run-down of the tentative St. Louis line-up with Joe Cunningham at first; Alex Grammas, shortstop; Ken Boyer, third; Stan Musial, left field; Gino Cimoli, center; and right field, a toss up between Curt Flood, Bill White, and Chuck Essegian. The freshman manager of the Cardinals had neglected to mention second base. Why? Hemus explained that he had made up his mind to start the season at second base. He confessed that he isn't ball player enough to make his own infield but added, "I can be a pest, you know." For almost a decade Hemus has been cast in the role of utility infielder. His talents may have been limited but there was no ceiling on his determination, resourcefulness and hustle. He has been a real "pest" to opposing pitchers. Twice he led the National League in getting hit by pitched balls.

He wheedled walks out of hurlers he couldn't hit. He wasn't fast, but he stole bases. His arm was just average, yet he made great plays when they had to be made. It was his hustle and determination that sold Solly to Gusie Busch, owner of the Cardinals. Hemus did get a pre-view of the Cardinals last fall when he managed them on a 23-game tour of Japan. It gave him an idea of a few of the problems he would face this spring. The team had finished in a disappointing tie for fifth place, and there were several spots sorely in need of bolstering. Cimoli, White and Grammas, plus Hemus himself, are the only likely changes in the daily line-up. Ernie Broglio, a young hurler from the Giants by way of Toronto, could help. But the hit, if any, would have to come from Vinegar Bend Mizell, a potential 20-game winner who hasn't lived up to his early promises. All in all it's quite a challenge—even for Solly!

Some Point To Detroit As Club To Beat Yanks

By ED CORRIGAN Associated Press Sports Writer If anything in this big, wide world can make Bill Norman livid, it is the sight of some fellow major league manager pointing toward his Detroit Tigers and expounding: "There's the team that might beat the Yanks for the American League pennant." Norman is quick to point out that in his six years in the Tiger organization, the club has been in the first division only once. And, he adds with Plato-like logic, you've got to get in the first division before you can think of overtaking the Yanks. Why, only last year, the managers' union decided that the Tigers would make a battle of it with the Yanks. They even had Jack Tighe believing it. Tighe was relieved in midstream and Norman installed as Bengal field leader, but they wound up fifth. Now there are whispers going around the league again that the Tigers might do it and Norman would like them to stop, but quick. He will admit that on paper he has a pretty good ball club but that he lacks one mighty important element — the long ball. Friday, for instance, the Tigers crumbled the Cincinnati Reds, 10-5, in Tampa. The Tigers bashed out 17 hits, but only one of them was a home run. Rocky Bridges, acquired from Washington during the winter, connected. Cincinnati, on the other hand, had two homers. Gerry Lynch had one and Frank Thomas another. In other games, the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Kansas City A's, 6-1, in West Palm Beach; the New York Yankees shut out the Los Angeles Dodgers, 1-0, in Sarasota; the San Francisco Giants edged the Cleveland Indians, 6-4, in St. Louis; Milwaukee nipped Washington 4-3 in 13 innings in Orlando, and the Philadelphia Phillies vanquished the Baltimore Orioles, 7-2, under the Miami lights. The brash, young Pirates got rid of George Brunet in two innings and rolled up a 13 hits in whipping the A's. Rookie John Gabler and Zack Monroe combined to whitewash the Dodgers for the Yanks. Gil McDougald accounted for the only run of the game when he homered in the second. Jack Sanford became the first Giant pitcher to go nine innings. The Indians gave him a rough time at the start, but once past the second inning, he breezed in. The Cards' victory over the White Sox enabled them to break a six-game losing streak. Wes Covington ended the long deadlock in the Milwaukee-Washington game when he hit a homer in the 13th. Jim Owens and Jack Meyer had an easy time in the Miami nighter. The Phillies provided them with 12 hits, including homers by Harry Anderson and Carl Sawatski.

Boy Scouts Will Carry Flame To Pan-Am Games

CHICAGO (AP) — The Friendship Fire Torch to burn at the Pan American Games Aug. 27-Sept. 7 will be carried 1,464 miles by 3,000 Boy Scouts. Pan Am officials said the torch-carrying ceremony sets a high in sports history for the longest relay team participating. The route is measured from Laredo, Tex., to Soldier Field in Chicago, scene of track competition in which 26 nations of North, Central and South America, plus the Caribbean Islands, will be represented. Mexican Boy Scouts will deliver the torch from Mexico City, site of the 1955 games, to the border at Laredo Aug. 4. U.S. Boy Scouts then will take over. Using the scout pace — run 50 steps, walk 50 steps—the boys in relays will cover approximately 60 miles a day, reaching Chicago Aug. 25.

Qualifying Play Now Underway For Golf Crown

Qualifying rounds for the 1959 Championship of the Greenville Golf and Country Club are now underway and will continue through April 12. First-round matches in the tournament will begin April 19. All players who expect to participate in the tournament will be required to qualify with 18-hole preliminary rounds which will determine places in championship and other flights. Defending champion Erel Webb is automatically qualified for one of the 32 slots in the championship flight. Other places will go to golfers with the lowest qualifying scores. Places in other flights will be determined on scores, also. Golfers who expect to participate must notify either professional Harold Thomas or a member of the tournament committee before beginning their qualifying rounds. In the qualifying rounds, all shots must be played. BOWLS PERFECT GAME MONTREAL (AP) — Leo M. Murray became Montreal's first bowler to roll a perfect 300 score in duckpins in more than 25 years. ST. LOUIS (AP)—What a difference three years make. George Wade won the 1956 American Bowling Congress singles championship at Rochester, N.Y., with a whopping 744 series, the 14th highest in the history of the tournament. Friday, the Steubenville, Ohio southpaw eked out a feeble 171-162-164-497 series in the ABC singles. Wade's other ABC outings were slightly more respectable—566 in the team event and 538 in the Doubles. Weekend scoring began on a low note, without a single change in the top ten of any category.

Three-Hit Shutout By Bynum

By BILL BOYD Husky Merrill Bynum proved to be the man of the hour for Greenville's hustling Phantom baseball team yesterday as he tossed a neat three hit 2-0 shutout at Tarboro High School. The win gives Coach 'Bo Farley's club an impressive 3-1 overall mark and his team is now 2-0 in conference play. In the seventh inning affair at Tarboro Merrill struck out eight players, gave up two singles, a double and walked one in going the full route. The Tarboro High team could do no more than garner their three hits in separate innings.

East Carolina Baseballers Lose To UNC By 4-2; Five Buc Errors Hurt

CHAPEL HILL — North Carolina's baseball Tar Heels ran their home winning streak to 18 games here yesterday with a 4-2 win over East Carolina College. Lethander Ben Harding pitched the victory for Carolina, giving up six hits, striking out 10 and walking three. He weakened considerably in the late innings, but five East Carolina errors and an early cushion of runs pulled him out of trouble when the Pirates threatened to move ahead in the game. An unearned run in the fourth inning provided the Tar Heels with their winning margin. Harold Workman started the rally with a single, which was followed by a wild pitch, a passed ball, a walk and a short fly before East Carolina second baseman Al Vaughn made a throwing error on what appeared to be a double-play ground ball. Carolina grabbed a 2-0 first inning lead off freshman Johnny Elen of the Pirates, putting together two errors, a single and a wind-blown double by Tar Heel catcher Carroll Bolick. East Carolina struck back for a run in the third when Jerry Carpenter scored on an error pick-off attempt at third base. They picked up their other run in the eighth when they loaded the bases with two outs and got one man across with an infield hit. The game was almost a reverse of last year's East Carolina - UNC game in Greenville when the Tar Heels romped to a 12-2 victory.

UNC Coach Jim Mallory said this morning, "With any luck at all, we could have won. I'm proud that they could battle one of the top teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference on an equal level." Mallory also said the game was probably the best East Carolina has had this year, so far as hitting was concerned. "We hit the ball well and hard," he said, "but it was one of those days when everything we hit went right at somebody." The ECC coach also praised the pitching of Johnny Elen and Larry Crayton, both freshmen. "The pitching jobs by both boys was tremendous, and much better than last year's game with Carolina. Elen, who hasn't been bothered by wildness in previous games, appeared to be troubled by the high pitcher's mound. The sudden plunge from the mound gave his fast balls a tendency to "scar." Elen pitched the first six innings of the game and gave up five hits, four walks, three runs (none earned) and struck out two. Crayton, the freshman left-hander from Greensboro, finished the game by striking out four men in the two innings he pitched. Crayton, however, gave up the only run of the game, in the seventh inning. East Carolina's six hits were divided among six batters. Carolina's Bolick got two doubles for the Tar Heels.

The Pirates today began a break in their schedule which will end with a five-game road trip next weekend. They play at Catawba next Friday, meet Lenoir Rhyne in a doubleheader on April 11 and travel to Western Carolina for games April 13 and 14.

Greenville Scorers

The first run, which was actually the winning one of course, came on the hitting combination of Bynum and Harrison. Bynum rifled a fast ball to left field for a single, was balked to second base by the Tarboro hurler and romped home on a long double by catcher Aubrey Harrison. This took place in the first inning. In the third frame the Phantoms notched the insurance marker when shortstop Billy Cox sliced out a single to drive in teammate Alan McCarter. Third baseman McCarter had previously obtained a single and took second on a fielder's choice.

Logart Whipped By Charlie Scott In Third Round

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within less than three weeks, Charley Scott has proved himself an audacious young fellow with a total lack of respect for his boxing elders. If there was any question before, Scott erased it Friday night by punching Isaac Logart groggy and whipping the veteran from Cuba on a third-round technical knockout. Scott, 22, a Philadelphia, won a disputed split decision over Logart in New York on March 16. But Friday night's TV fight audience saw Scott end the controversy at 1:14 in the third in what was scheduled to be a 10-rounder at Capitol Arena. Charley caught Logart against the ropes with a jarring right and then a sweeping left hook to the jaw that floored Logart, 25. Isaac pulled himself up at the count of six, waited the mandatory toll of eight and then tried to recoup. Scott rushed in, however, and reeled Isaac through the ropes with a two-fisted bombardment. Logart was practically helpless when Referee Marty Gallagher stopped the fight. Logart, scoring with his left hook, was ahead on two of the three official cards at the time. One judge had it even. "This Scott knows few except friends and kinfolk a month ago, is now assured of more and better paydays. Manager Norman Henry hopes to match Charley soon with a welter in the class of Gaspar Ortega and to get him into title contention next year.

Arnold Palmer Confident Tradition Can Be Beaten

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer is a young man who has no fear of black cats or the superstition that "Masters golf champions never repeat." "Of course, I'm conscious of this tradition — they don't let me forget it," says the Ligonier, Pa., pro. "But I don't let it concern me. I'm just concentrating on winning the tournament." The defending titleholder was halfway there today with a 36-hole score of 141, one of two cards under Augusta National's par. The first day pace-setter, Stan Leonard of Canada, fell back to second place with 143 and the rest of the field looked like a New York subway rush. Fifteen players were bunched at 144 and 145. Par is 72. Three players, including British Open champion Peter Thomson, were at 146. The 147 bracket looked like a U.S. Ryder Cup team with National Open champion Tommy Bolt, PGA titleholder Dow Finsterwald, Art Wall, Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Gene Littler and Ted Kroll. The qualifying point for the final 36 holes was 149, and there were some distinguished misses. Ken Venturi, pretourney favorite, had 151. Three-time winner Jimmy Demaret had 162. Lloyd Mangrum (151) and ex-champion Claude Harmon (151) were other casualties.

Palmer who looks like a lightweight fighter, shot to the front by adding a two-under-par 70 to a previous 71. Palmer, son of a Latrobe, Pa., pro, was 1954 amateur champion. He has won a dozen tournaments. Last year his official earnings amounted to $42,607. Behind Leonard at 144 were Thomas, the big Welshman, and Angel Miguel, the surprising Spaniard. Others were Ed (Porky) Oliver, Julius Boros, Mike Souchak, Paul Harney and Billy Maxwell. Former National Open champion Cary Middlecoff and Jack Fleck headed the list at 145. Included were Chandler Harper, Bob Wininger, Jay Hebert, Walt Burkemo and two Walker Cup amateur stars, Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., and Bill Hyndman of Arlington, Va.

Australia's Thomson, four-time British Open winner, shared 146 with ex-PGA winner Chick Harbert and Frank Stranahan. Oldsters say there's never been a traffic jam quite like this. Duke, all of whose games so far have been in the Florida State tournament at Tallahassee, made his record 3-4 by downing Michigan State 13-8. The Blue Devils got three runs in each of the first two innings, including home runs by Pete Maynard and Bill Dunley. Ron Kalish was the winner, although he gave up 14 hits in going the route. Virginia downed Pitt 7-4 on a bases-loaded triple by relief pitcher Herb Busch in the last of the eighth inning. Busch also held Pitt scoreless in his 2-3 innings on the mound and gained the victory. Reece Whitley had two hits for Virginia and drove in three runs. In today's games, Clemson was at Furman, Virginia Tech at Wake Forest, South Carolina at Newberry, and Duke met Michigan State in a windup game of the Florida State tourney.

Morrow Margin Was By Inches

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — When there's a close race, it seems Bobby Morrow and Ira Murchison will be running. At least that's the record of the two great sprinters — Morrow, champion of the Olympic Games, and Murchison, co-holder of the world's 100-meter record at 10.1. Friday night, Morrow beat Murchison by inches in the 100-meter feature race of the Texas Relays. On the same track two years ago, Morrow edged Murchison by such a close margin in the 100-yard dash of the NCAA that both were given a 9.3 time. This tied the world's record. The time of the 100 meters was 10.2 and it was run with a wind of only three miles an hour at the backs of the former stars of Abilene Christian and Western Michigan, respectively. Murchison, who finished fourth to Morrow in the 100 meters of the 1956 Olympic Games, was running his first time outdoors this season. A whirlwind-finishing Morrow lunged at the tape to make the difference. Observers said Bobby won by less than six inches. No champion is declared in the Texas Relays but unofficially Kansas had 30 points, Abilene Christian 25 and Oklahoma 23. One of the best performances of the night was that of Miles Eisenman of Oklahoma State, who won a new event—the 3-mile race—in 18:50.9.

Johnny Saxton Held On Second Hold-Up Charge

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Johnny Saxton, twice the welterweight champion of the world, was accused of trying to rob a store today. Police captured him at gunpoint on the roof of the building. It was the second recent burglary arrest for Saxton, 28. He is free on $1,000 bail in New York, accused of the theft of $6 worth of costume jewelry several weeks ago. Police said Saxton, a Negro, entered Ronnie's 5 & 10 cent store at 5 p.m. Friday and hid until it closed. Someone phoned headquarters about midnight to report a light inside the store. Police then surrounded the building. The officers said Saxton broke through the tin roof of the store, climbed out and was captured. "This will mean 10 years for me in New York," he told officers. He was booked on charges of breaking and entry and attempted larceny.

Tigers Look Like 'Yankees' Of ACC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS With every game, the Clemson Tigers are looking more like the New York Yankees of the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Tigers sailed away their eighth victory against no defeat Friday, drubbing South Carolina 11-0. It was Clemson's fourth ACC victory. Not all of the conference teams have begun league play, but except perhaps for North Carolina, none other has looked as if it can stop the defending champions. Tyrone Cline, sophomore left-hander for Clemson, pitched six innings, giving up two hits. Bailey Hendley finished up. The Tigers got only eight hits, but Gamecock pitchers gave up 10 walks. Fred DeBerry and Jay Bryant homered.

Wake Forest Is Mum On Appeal

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Wake Forest officials kept mum today on what results they got in appealing a ruling in connection with the basketball brawl last February during a game with the University of North Carolina. Dr. Harold W. Tribble, college president, was expected to return today or Sunday from an out-of-town trip. College officials declined comment in his absence. Dr. Mortimer Caplan of the University of Virginia, president of the Atlantic Coast Conference, confirmed Friday that the ACC executive committee had reached a decision in Wake Forest's appeal. He said Dr. Tribble had been informed and that the committee plans to make no statement about the decision. Wake Forest appealed these three points in the ruling of ACC Commissioner Jim Weaver: That next season's home game with North Carolina be played away from Winston-Salem, and that student tickets not be valid for the contest; and that Deacon player Dave Budd be warned he would lose his eligibility if he is involved in "any future sportsmanlike act."

Cornell Honors Snavely Tonight

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Cornell University's famed "Fifth Down" football game against Dartmouth in 1940 will be the theme of a dinner tonight honoring Carl Snavely, former Big Red coach. Snavely, 66, recently retired as head coach of Washington University at St. Louis. He coached at Cornell from 1936 to 1944.

Univ. Of Florida Choir To Present Program Sunday

The University of Florida Choir from Gainesville, now on its annual tour, will present a varied program of great choral compositions when the ensemble of sixty men and women students appears in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Sunday, at 8 p.m.

Directed by Dr. Elwood Keister of the Department of Music faculty, the choir will sing sacred music, folk songs, contemporary compositions, spirituals and novelties. Ranging from the reverent to the rollicking, the compositions to be sung by the group represent some of the greatest choral music in existence today.

Opening the concert the choir will sing "Cry Out and Shout" by Nystedt, followed by the quietly beautiful "O Vox Omnia" of Victoria and the exultant motet, "O Sacrorum Throni The Heavens Wide," of Brahms. The difficult and rewarding "Ye Are Not of the Flesh" by Bach will complete the group.

Included in the contemporary sacred group will be the "Twenty-Third Psalm" of George Schuman, "Love In Grief" by Christiansen, "Alleluia" by Randall Thompson and "Vinea Mea Electa" by the modern French composer, Francis Poulenc.

In the secular portion of the program will be heard the "Six Folk Songs" of Brahms, "Little Bird" by Kubik, "Go Down Death" by Scott and two spirituals, "Deep River" and "Anyhow." The well known "There Is Nothing Like A Dame" from "South Pacific" will be performed in "G.L." style by the men of the choir.

The University Choir's busy schedule will include 25 appearances in Florida, North Carolina and Virginia. During the Christmas season they were heard on the Mutual Broadcasting System in a special holiday program. Highlighting the latter part of the season will be an appearance at the Music Educators Convention in Roanoke, Va. and two performances of the Brahms "Requiem" with the University of Florida Symphony Orchestra in Gainesville.

Arrest Man For Bethel Break-Ins

BETHEL—Sterling Willis, 24-year-old Negro who lives on Church St. here has been arrested on five charges of breaking and entering and larceny. Chief of Police Walter Gray said today.

Willis was arrested on three counts in Bethel and two counts in Beaufort County, Gray said. He is being held in Bethel Jail and he will be tried on the local charges in Pitt Superior Court during the term to begin April 20.

Gray said Willis was arrested in connection with the theft of a television set from the grammar school last February and the theft of a gas stove and other items from the home of W. B. Honiecutt in Bethel. The chief said approximately $500 in merchandise was reported missing from the Honiecutt home over a period of a year.

Willis was employed by Honiecutt, Gray said.

One Beaufort County charge resulted from the entering of Dr. Dan Jordan's cottage at Broad Creek around Jan. 31. A radio and bed linens were reported missing from the Bethel physician's cottage. The second Beaufort County charge resulted from the theft of a 12-foot refrigerator from Honiecutt's cottage on Broad Creek.

Gray was assisted in his investigation by Pitt Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson, Deputy Arthur Andrews and Beaufort County Deputy Jack Harris.

Three Wrecks In City Yesterday

Police reported three wrecks in the city yesterday; however, no one was injured and damage was light.

According to police, a truck, driven by Robert Lee Mitchell, Negro, of 308 Boyd Ave., was involved in a collision with a car operated by Mrs. Jean Hilton Messner of 100 N. Elm St., at the intersection of 10th and Washington Sts.

Police estimated damage to the truck at $5 and damage to the car at $250.

The corner of Washington and 4th Sts. was the scene of an accident between two cars, one driven by John Hardy Boyd Jr., 70, of 122 W. 7th St. and the second operated by Joyce Y. Rasberry, 17 of Route 1, Greenville.

Officers reported no damage was done to the Boyd car, however, they placed damage to the Rasberry car at $50.

Watson Tucker, Negro, of 1511 S. Railroad St. and Oscar Daniels Stoneham of 1104 W. 3rd St. were two vehicles involved in a wreck at the corner of 9th and Washington Sts.

Investigators reported only $50 damage was done to the Tucker vehicle and no damage was done to the truck being operated by Stoneham.

Police made no charges in either of these mishaps.

marie and Virginia Conferences. The candidate is married to the former Clotea Williams of Richmond, Va. and they have two boys, Denison D. Jr. and Michael. The Garretts live at 1204 W. Fifth St.

Garrett was an unsuccessful candidate for the old board of aldermen in 1949.

In announcing his candidacy, Garrett said, "I would like an opportunity to serve the people."

D. B. Shackelford

Shackelford was born in the Chocod section of Pitt County and he is now 29 years old. He attended Chocod School, he entered the U. S. Air Force in 1947 serving for 35 months as an instrument flying instructor. He attained the rank of sergeant while in the Air Force and he was stationed at Chanute AF Base in Illinois.

Upon discharge in December, 1949 he returned to Greenville to join the Evans St. Grocery with which he is presently associated.

Shackelford is a member of the board of deacons of Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church. He is also treasurer of the church Sunday School and a Sunday School teacher.

"The candidate is married to the former Mavis Evans of Greenville and they have two children, Steven Curtis, nine and Ronald Earl, seven. The Shackelfords reside at 300 Church St.

"If elected I will continue to give the people of Greenville fair, impartial and intelligent city government to the best of my ability," Shackelford declared this morning. "My intentions are to represent all the people and not any particular segment of the people." He is a newcomer to local politics.

Bob Smith

Smith is 33-years-old and served on the last Board of Aldermen the city had before adopting the present council-manager form of government.

He is a native and life-long resident of Greenville, except for three years during World War II when he served as a Gunner's Mate, Second Class in the U. S. Navy. His military duty includes two years in the North Atlantic area of operations.

Smith attended Greenville schools and graduated from Greenville High School in 1943. After his discharge from the Navy, he became associated with his father in farming and livestock operations in which he is still active.

At the present time, Smith operates Smith's Motel where he makes his home with his wife, the former Sue Worthington of the Ballard's Cross Roads community and their five-year-old daughter, Bonnie Sue. He is a member of the Greenville Moose Lodge and Eighth Street Christian Church where he is a member of the official board and the Sunday School. His candidacy for the city council is his second venture in politics. His two year term as an alderman expired in 1953.

Smith said this morning, "If elected, I will try to conduct affairs of the city to the best of my ability. I will try to see that everybody gets fair and equal treatment."

State Church Meeting In Charlotte April 28

CHARLOTTE—The leaders of the Christian Churches of North Carolina will come to Charlotte on April 28, to take part in the 11th Annual Convention of the North Carolina Christian Churches.

Plans for the three-day convention were announced today by Rev. Jo M. Riley of Wilson, Program Committee Chairman.

The convention will be a historical session. It will mark the first time the Christian Churches have held a state convention in the spring. Traditionally the convention has been held in the fall. However, delegates at the 11th annual convention held in Wilmington, in November of 1957, approved a resolution to change the annual convention date to the month of April.

Headquarters for the convention will be the First Christian Church of Charlotte. The host minister is Rev. Robert L. Jones.

About 1,500 delegates are expected to attend the convention. Several churches in Charlotte will be used for various sessions of the gathering.

Dr. H. Glenn Haney, retired minister of the Eighth Street Christian Church in Greenville, is the convention President. Other convention officers are Mrs. Dan McConnell of Charlotte, First Vice-President; John L. Goff, Jr., Gastonia, Second Vice-President; Rev. Ross J. Allen of Wilson, Secretary; and Exum Ward of Williamston, Treasurer.

Rev. Douglas Bell, Minister of the Gordon Street Christian Church of Kinston, will serve as chairman of the important, convention Resolutions Committee.

The convention president, Dr. Haney, opened convention business today by announcing that he would ask the delegates to name a permanent secretary for the annual convention. He said he would recommend that the state secretary of the North Carolina Christian Missionary Society be named the permanent secretary. At present Mr. Allen, the state secretary, is serving appointment of Dr. Haney. The appointment was made when a vacancy was created by resignation of the elected secretary.

Having the state secretary serve as permanent secretary of the convention would improve our annual operations," Dr. Haney explained. "For the purpose of record keeping the state secretary's office is an ideal spot."

Local Future Homemakers Attend Raleigh Gathering

By CATHERINE MOORE Teenage Writer

Along with nearly 4,000 other girls, 15 members of the local Future Homemakers of America chapter met in Memorial Auditorium, Raleigh, today for their state convention. Nine girls represented the senior division and six, the junior division.

Mrs. E. R. Carraway, adviser of the junior club, Mrs. Jack O. Derrick, and Mrs. S. J. Vincent Jr. drove cars to the meeting. The group left at 7:15 a.m.

Taking as his subject "We Are Home Builders," Col. Loren T. Jenks, post chaplain of the U. S. Army Infantry Training Center, Fort Jackson, S. C., spoke this morning.

During the day the state president, Becky Nifong of North Davidson, moderated a panel on "School Youth Organizations Work Co-operatively for Community Progress." Members of the following participated: Honor Society Beta Club, Student Council, Future Farmers of America, Distributive Education, and Future Homemakers of America.

After lunch the Harnett County Federation will give a pageant.

"Wide, Wide Heart." Delegates will attend business sessions during both the morning and the afternoon, and will elect from a slate of 11 girls one candidate for national treasurer.

The two local high school clubs will kick off National F. H. A. Week Sunday, as will approximately 24,000 other members of the 469 other North Carolina clubs; they will attend church, but not as clubs, and many pastors will recognize them and inform the congregations of the week.

Special activities of the week include these: Monday, club members present each teacher with a red rose, the F. H. A. flower; Tuesday, each member wears something red; Wednesday, clubs serve refreshments at the faculty meeting; Thursday, senior club leaves its gift to the school; and Friday, home economics department will display, probably in the department, the home projects of the students.

Briley's "Hydrocarbons" came out second in the Senior Physical Sciences Division.

Joe Upchurch and George Hadden took a fifth place in the latter division with their "Electrical Discharge Tube."

REGGIE JOHNSON (above) will be installed as pastor of the Youth Week Program of Arlington Street Baptist Church Sunday. Keys of the church will be turned over to him and his staff of Youth Week officers at morning worship service. Johnson will speak at the Sunday evening worship service and direct activities related to the program during the ensuing week. The program will conclude at 10:30 morning worship Sunday, April 12, at which time he will deliver the morning message. Reggie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Johnson.

Honored

President John D. Messick of East Carolina College has been invited by the International Institute of Arts and Letters to become a life fellow.

Regular membership is limited to 760 fellows and corresponding members "qualified by notable achievements in arts and letters or in sciences and other fields of culture." It numbers as associates many prominent authors and artists throughout the world.

School

Making up one of the days lost during the snow, the high school is running on a short schedule today. After attending a five minute homeroom, students began classes of approximately 33-34 minutes, and attended all six periods. Sixth period ended at 12:30 p.m.

The school will make up the remaining two lost days on Saturday, April 18, and Saturday, May 9.

Last night the library club sponsored a dance.

Three Exhibits Won

In the District Science Fair at East Carolina yesterday, Rose High exhibits took two second places and one fifth.

Andrew Kilpatrick's "Photomicrography" placed second in the Senior Biological Division. Anne

Proudly Announces To Our Senior Citizens

65 YEARS OR OLDER

A New and Liberal Hospitalization Plan

For the first time a plan is available giving you all the following advantages:

HOSPITAL BILLS

$10 daily allowance for room—plus special amounts for miscellaneous extras, depending upon length of stay.

Example: 10 day stay.

total allowance $220

OUT PATIENT

We know that all injuries do not require hospital confinement. We allow liberal benefits for emergency accident treatment in your home or at the doctor's office. (Doctor's fee, X-ray, casts, splints, drugs, anti-toxin, etc.)

LOCAL ACCEPTANCE

The company cooperates fully with local doctors and hospitals everywhere. Benefits are payable to you or may be assigned to the hospital or doctor as you desire.

YOUR PLAN

This is your own plan. The company cannot cancel your Senior Citizen Policy, or raise premiums, or make any changes, unless it does so on all similar policies in the entire area.

SURGICAL FEES

Depending upon operation performed, fee allowance is from $10 to $200. You need not go to the hospital. Surgical procedures at home or in your doctor's office are covered.

Examples:

Broken hip	$100
Ankle sprain	$ 45

LONG STAYS

Unlike other plans, this plan does not limit benefits for your illness to 30 or 60 days in the hospital. You are covered for over 100 days—for 125 days if required. You see, we know, and your doctor knows, that older folks may need to stay longer for serious things.

LOCAL SERVICE

A local business firm serves you through your local agent. . . . No red tape. No long distance business correspondence or phone calls. . . . You are served through local records, local certification of benefits to doctors and hospitals, local payments.

LOW BUDGET COST

Pay monthly if you wish.

Individual: $6.70

Husband and wife: $10.55

(Lower rates available for $8.00 room plan if requested). Discounts for quarterly or annual premium payment plans. DON'T WAIT UNTIL TOO LATE TO ENROLL!

TAKING NOTES IN CLASS

Twenty-year-old Dottie McEwen of Wrightsville Beach is the Reflector Staff's idea of a typical college girl.

Dottie, a junior at ECC, is a home economics major and according to her East Carolina has one of the best departments in the state.

Her day starts about 6:30 a.m., when she gets up and dresses for an early breakfast in the college cafeteria. When asked about the food, she commented, "It's good but it's not like home".

After breakfast, her classes begin at eight and end at eleven, with a four-hour break before her three-to-five foods lab.

After classes she can be found in her room or in the library studying for the following day's classes.

Her social activities include the usual movie dates and the dormitory hen party.

Her campus life includes being a cheerleader, marshal, and a member of the Pi-Kappa Sorority. Dottie is also on the YWCA Cabinet and has been chosen to represent the Junior Class at the annual May Court.

Dottie's favorite past-time is listening to popular music; however, when the weather permits, she enjoys playing tennis, swimming and likes water skiing. Dancing also ranks high on her list of favorites.

Dottie, like most of the girls at East Carolina, likes Greenville and thinks the people are friendly and helpful to college students, but her one complaint is typical. "It rains too much!"

AWARD WINNING ENTRY IN DISTRICT SCIENCE FAIR . . . Photomicrography Exhibit By Andrew Kilpatrick Of Rose High School

TOP SENIOR BIOLOGICAL EXHIBIT AND EXHIBITOR . . . Clarence E. Styron, Jr., of Morehead City With Study Of Pollution Of Oysters And Water

Will Participate In Conference At Chapel Hill

Dr. George A. Douglas of the department of social studies at East Carolina College and Mrs. Douglas will participate April 6-8 in the twenty-fifth Annual Groves Conference on Marriage and the Family at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. The theme of the conference, "Evaluating the Functional Approach," will be discussed by professional workers from all parts of his country.

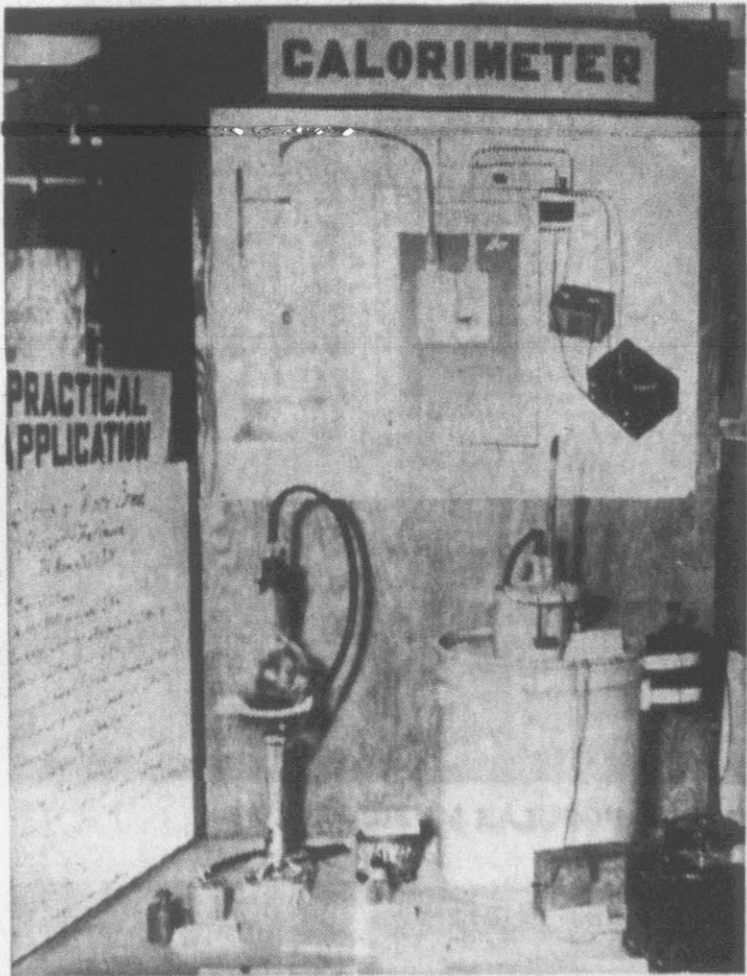

Dr. Douglas has been invited to comment during the conference on work now being done at East Carolina College in functional courses on marriage and the family and on research which he is doing on Sex Norms of Behavior.

On Sunday, April 5, Dr. and Mrs. Douglas will attend meetings of the American Association of Marriage Counselors, at which new techniques in counseling will be discussed and evaluated.

Dr. and Mrs. Douglas are among 150 authorities on marriage and the family invited to attend the Groves conference.

MORE MURDERS

LONDON (AP) — Twelve murders were committed in metropolitan London in the first three months of this year — the most ever recorded in such a period.

CALORIMETER EXHIBIT IN SCIENCE FAIR . . . By Jackie Nolen of Farmville.

Students from Greenville and Pitt County high school won seven top awards and 12 honorable mentions in the Northeastern District Science Fair held yesterday at East Carolina College.

Five of the local winners, those who took awards in senior divisions also won places in the State Science Fair, to be held in Chapel Hill April 17 and 18. Yesterday's District fair was one of seven such events to determine participants in the state fair.

First place awards in each of four sections in the district fair went to Tony Day of Winterville, John Lawrence of Tarboro, Clarence E. Styron, Jr., of Morehead City and James K. Morrow of Washington. Day won in Junior Biological Science, Lawrence in Junior Physical Science, Styron in Senior Biological Science, and Morrow in Senior Physical Science.

Other winners in senior sections included Andrew Kilpatrick of Julius H. Rose High School and George Jackson of Winterville, in Senior Biological Science, and Anne Briley and Joe Upchurch of Rose High School and Jackie Nolen of Farmville in Senior Physical Science. They will be invited to participate in the State Science Fair with Styron, Morrow, and Charles Perry, Paul Fletcher and Julia Ann Doolittle, all of Kingston.

Other winners in the Junior sections, which are not eligible for participation in the state fair, include Diane Wilhaff and Jon Wiggs of Rocky Mount, Bill Herring, Jr., of Kingston and Brenda Fairless of Colerain, winners with Day in the Junior Biological section, and John Triplet of Grifton, Guy Winfield of Washington, John Seymour of Southwood and Jean Tuit of Tarboro, winners with Lawrence in the Junior Physical section.

Honorable mentions awarded in each category included: Junior Biological: Elizabeth Gloria Grady of Kingston, Hilda Wagner of Grimesland, Kathy Jackson and Suzanne Ford of Rocky Mount, and Bob Newton and Andy Martin of Farmville.

Junior Physical: Ernest Larkin and William Edward McCarter of Washington, Lanny Smith and Stuart Ficklen of Rose High School, and Brooke Williams of New Bern.

Senior Biological: Jimmie Sutton of Kingston, Linda Mills of Choccolate, Faye Elks of Grimesland, Nell Davis of Rose High School, Billy Weatherly of Washington, Sue Worthington of Winterville, Ben Moore of Farmville and Alvin Peaden of Belvoir-Falkland.

Senior Physical: Charles Lewis and Ed Holloway of New Bern, Henry Blount of Kingston, Jerry Causey of Grifton, Jim Long and Julia Thigpen of Tarboro, and Jerry Bowers of Morehead City. Medals were awarded to holders of the first three places in each of the junior sections, with additional awards of a microscope to Day and a cash prize to Lawrence. No rankings, other than to name Styron and Morrow as first place finishers and other winners as being among the top five, were announced for the senior sections. That procedure is in accordance with rules of the State Science Fair which require district winners to enter the state fair without local rankings other than being named in the top five.

Styron and Morrow won individual awards, Styron's being a cash award and Morrow's being a slide rule.

All awards, medals and certificates were presented at ceremonies in ECC's McGinnis Auditorium yesterday afternoon. Dr. Grover Everett of the East Carolina College Department of Science, director of the fair, presided and made the presentations.

Some of the winning exhibits will be included in a special college program to be telecast tomorrow at 1 p.m. by WNCT, Channel 9. They were selected for the show from the more than 150 projects entered in the district fair.

Officers Are Elected By College TV Guild

J. Wayne Johnson, Greensboro, N.C., has been elected by unanimous vote as president of the Television Guild, a new professional organization on the campus this year. Johnson is a student-producer in charge of two of the closed-circuit television classroom broadcasts at the college.

Other officers chosen for the 1959-1960 term at the college are E.T. Rogers, sophomore from Jamestown, vice president; John Edward Whitehurst, freshman from Bethel, secretary; and William Faulkner, sophomore from Rocky Mount, treasurer.

W.W. Smiley, East Carolina College librarian, who has made major contributions to the closed-circuit television project on the campus, has been appointed an honorary member of the Television Guild.

Marvin Hill, Eli Harrison, and LeRoy Boatwright, all of Greenville, engineers at Station WNCT of Greenville, have been made associate members in recognition of their help to Guild members in staging closed-circuit programs at East Carolina.

President Johnson, summarizing this year's activities, stated that the Guild has made a most successful beginning. It has, in addition to other activities, presented several demonstration and special broadcasts on the campus and has undertaken an extensive extra-curricular training program in television skills.

Among plans for the remainder of the year, Johnson said, are sponsoring a television booth at the Spring Carnival presented by the College Union and staging a gala dinner in May, at which awards will be presented for the best production team, the best producer, and the best studio crew of the year.

SAC Requests Reserve Call-Up

WASHINGTON, D.C. — An expansion program to recall officers to active duty in the Strategic Air Command has been requested by the Strategic Air Command.

Presently the Strategic Air Command is the only command that is recalling officers and the program has been limited to combat crew members.

All of those being recalled to duty have volunteered. Now the Strategic Air Command is asking that the program be expanded to include selected officers in other specialties as well. These specialties include armament and electronics, installations, and maintenance officer.

The Strategic Air Command points out the recall program will result in considerable savings in training costs. For example, it costs nearly 500 thousand dollars to train a pilot for the B-52 Stratofortress and half the amount for a B-47 pilot, bringing back into active service already trained personnel in all specialty fields will bring large savings to the United States.

Local Woman Is Injured In Auto Wreck Thursday

Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth of Greenville was injured in an automobile accident near Rockmart, Ga., Thursday in which her sister, Mrs. George Crane of Athens, Ga., was killed.

Mrs. Hollingsworth and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Crane, were en route from Athens to Jasper, Ala. when their automobile crashed into a bulldozer near Rockmart.

Mrs. Crane was killed instantly in the accident, and Mrs. Hollingsworth and Mr. Crane were hospitalized in Rockmart for injuries received in the accident. Reports reaching Greenville said Mrs. Hollingsworth sustained a broken arm and fractured vertebrae in the accident.

Reports received here said neither Mrs. Hollingsworth nor Mr. Crane are in critical condition, and will be moved to Athens as soon as their condition permits. Funeral services were held for Mrs. Crane today in Athens.

Seeking Clues To Convicts On Run

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Federal and state police dug today for clues to the whereabouts of two escaped prisoners, one an accused killer.

Officers were uncertain whether the pair split up after duping a jailer here Friday morning and fleeing in his automobile. In all, four prisoners got out, but two returned to Cumberland County Jail to free the jailer.

At large were Charles Thomas Bradford, 29, a native of Plant City, Fla., charged with killing a teller during a bank robbery here Feb. 20; and 18-year-old John William Odum of Fayetteville, charged with auto larceny.

The FBI said both men were armed and considered dangerous. Assistant Jailer E. B. McLaurin, 47, said they tricked him into opening the cell by pretending one had his shift caught in the door. Then they beat him severely and took a .32 caliber pistol from his person. They made their way outside and fled in his car, in which there was another .32 pistol.

The two other prisoners who fled at the same time came back after McLaurin had got out of his bonds. They are Jeno Ronasi and Zoltan Scabu, Hungarian refugees charged with rape. McLaurin told them how to get to the roof, where the escapees had flung the keys to the cell, and they quickly freed him.

Bradford, a member of the Third Army band on leave, allegedly robbed the Ft. Bragg branch of the First Citizens Bank & Trust Co. of $13,373 and shot the teller, J. Frank Johnson.

Odum had served one term for auto larceny.

Another Delay By Anna Maria

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"After careful deliberation," said Anna Maria Alberghetti, "I have decided that marriage at this time would be premature. For that reason, I have—on my own—decided against the wedding."

The 22-year-old singer issued that statement Friday, just nine days before she was to have married composer-arranger Buddy Bregman, 28. She would not elaborate on the statement, and Bregman added nothing.

This is not the first time their romance has hit a snag short of the altar. Miss Alberghetti called off the engagement last November, but later called it back on. Her mother, Vittoria Alberghetti, said at first she opposed the marriage because Bregman had been divorced, but later gave approval. Anna Maria is a Catholic, Bregman Jewish.

The DEADLY LADY of MADAGASCAR

BY C. V. TERRY

CHAPTER 34

During most of the long, hot afternoon I continued to sit in the crow's-nest atop Red Carter's castle — brooding over our chances on the morrow if the attack by Sir Luke Metcalf's armada should come then. Now and again my giddiness returned — and I felt sure I would soon be in for a bout of aue.

I must have dozed, for I was awakened by an angry exchange of voices, and realized it was Bonnie and her father, disputing on the captain's veranda.

In the end Carter stormed from his sanctum, to board the rig that awaited him on the beach. His arms were burdened with muskets, so I judged he had returned here to collect the last of his ordnance. The explosion I had overheard must have been the finale of the quarrel that had simmered through the afternoon.

The thundercloud on my wife's brow, when she sought me out, confirmed that opinion.

"Are you confined to quarters too?" I asked.

"Yes, Richard. I refused to fight for him tomorrow unless he'd give you equal rank. This is his answer."

I felt my heart leap, though I was careful to conceal my joy. At least she would have no baptism of blood when Metcalf struck. "I think my father hates you — because I love you," she said. "Can you tell me any other reason?"

I held my tongue; the reason for Carter's refusal to number me among his captains was obvious, but I could hardly state it openly. He did not trust me.

"Let us not go into his motives," I said carefully. "He's our commander, and we're in a state of siege. Until the siege is lifted, we must do his bidding."

That night I slept but fitfully because of my fast-rising fever. With the dawn (when the boom of cannon roused us both), my head was swimming.

Bonnie regarded me anxiously while I stumbled from bed to the floor — but I put her questions aside, insisting it was a touch of ague and that I was already on the mend. I would have given much to summon Tom Hoyt, but Tom had already set up his field hospital across the bay. Today my doctor friend would have no leisure to cure the ills of a non-combatant.

From the crow's-nest we had a complete view of the battleground, and could form a rough surmise of our chances. Even as we trained our telescopes on the headlands, there was no mistaking the gravity of the situation.

We would discover later that the East India Company fleet (a round two dozen men-of-war) had made their first pass at the harbor mouth before sunrise, raking their stationary targets at close range. Red Carter had not risked a reply in that uncertain light.

On their second pass the men-of-war had sailed a tight course — too far offshore to offer us an easy target, yet keeping us within range of their murderous thirty-pounders. They continued to follow this course as we observed them.

Many of our carronades were already smashed, the gun crews blasted at their posts. Still others were silenced as we watched — but worse was to come.

A few moments after our arrival at our observation post the stern gun on Sir Luke's flagship, arching a hot shot above the southern headland, exploded a powder magazine at the cliff's base. The detonation that followed rocked the castle walls, and sheared away a huge segment of the headland itself.

The opening the explosion had blasted gave the enemy a clear view of the harbor; our warehouses were already in their sights, and the castle would be a fair target, once the shore-batteries were silenced.

Our gunners fought back with double fury after that lucky hit. A reserve line of cannon were trundled into place and serviced by fresh teams. But it was now grimly evident that the battle could have but one ending unless help arrived.

For the next two hours our fortunes hung in the balance. They rose briefly when three of the men-of-war, risking a closer run, sank under our fire. They fell when Sir Luke (enraged at the loss) ran into the very shadow of the headlands to deliver a point-blank salvo. It silenced an entire battery, though he limped from the scene with a broken mainmast and his deck a welter of splintered iron.

The enemy strength was reduced to nineteen ships when our deliverance came. As though favoring us at last, the wind strengthened, lifting the smoke into air and showing a horizon white with our sail.

Ship for ship, the two fleets seemed evenly matched — with the advantage on our side since we had the wind. Trapped between the land and the converging enemy, the Company vessels seemed to hang irresolute against the fire laid down by our sea-borne cannon — and the still deadly salvo from the shore.

I continued to hold my breath when a second magazine exploded, sending another huge segment of headland tumbling into Ringo Bay and leaving us virtually defenseless. But it was the last landward shot before the battle ended. Thereafter it was Metcalf's turn to defend himself.

Had he elected to fly for open water and fight a classic naval battle there, he might have won the day. He was out-gunned as things stood, boxed in enflaming fire — and forced to grapple. Here, as he found too late, he was no match for the screaming devils who swept over his gunwales.

In a matter of minutes no less than fourteen Company ships were wrecked or burnt. The other five, spreading what sail their damaged rigging allowed, ran up Channel for their lives.

Our counterblow had been so stunning, I was still breathless with wonder when the battle smoke settled; even my raging fever was forgotten for the nonce. At my dispute Bonnie stared across the disputed harbor mouth, as though she, too, could not credit her senses. While we gaped, the Company's flagship (her colors shot away and her masts in ruins) wallowed into her death throes and sank in a rush of flames.

Her assailant, I noted, had cast off her hooks just in time. It was appropriate that she should be the Pilgrim Venture.

My glass, sweeping the vessel I had once commanded, told me that several prisoners had come aboard. Some of them were still fighting back, after a fashion — and were cut down before my eyes. Others were pistolled without mercy when they threw down their arms. In the end only one figure towered among the dead and dying — and there was no mistaking his identity.

I had not thought that Sir Luke would let himself be taken alive — but there he stood in silent defiance, as though already resigned to his fate. When I remembered the ancient pirate custom of trial by combat, I half guessed why he had yielded. The surmise became a certainty when Red Carter scrambled from the ruins of his battery and lifted a cutlass in salute. As the Venture neared the harbor mouth, Metcalf raised a fist in answer.

"The madness will leave my father when he cuts Sir Luke down," said Bonnie. "Suppose he's the one to fall?"

"Then I'll fight Metcalf in turn," said Bonnie calmly. "That's buccaneer law."

"I won't let you."

"You can't prevent it, Richard. I'm second-in-command at Ringo Bay. These men would never obey me again if I failed to prove my courage."

"Couldn't I fight in your stead?"

"They wouldn't permit it," said Bonnie. "Nor would I."

I argued the point no further, realizing I was faced with an impasse that transcended logic. The gods of fortune had brooded over our voyage of piracy — giving my command, but leaving the killing to others. I closed my eyes and breathed a prayer to those same fickle deities. If Bonnie shed no blood today, I might find ways of saving her tomorrow. Or so I told myself as I sat atop Red Carter's castle waiting for the last act of his tragic drama.

Americans Hunting Protection From New Living Cost Hikes

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Shields against a future rise in the cost of living are being increasingly sought and tried today by hard-pressed Americans.

Fear that inflation will be on the prowl again after the current lull is widespread.

Rising prices hit first in today's bills. One guard against that is an escalator clause in wage contracts.

Then the erosion of the purchasing power of the dollar robs the investor who has put money into insurance, U.S. savings bonds, pensions, bank accounts or other forms of fixed income. To guard against that, investors are turning to common stocks, variable annuities, gold, gems, art treasures, real estate and sometimes commodities.

How sure a shield against inflation's onslaught on the family budget and investment plans are these various safeguards? The Labor Department says four million workers are now covered by cost of living escalator clauses in their wage contracts. Only half as many were covered just four years ago.

Some countries are trying escalator clauses for their bonds — that is, tying interest payments to the cost of living. Social Security checks similarly tied have been suggested for this nation by a few. The variable annuity plans propose a like escalator — payments varying with the results of investing the funds in common stocks.

Critics of escalator clauses — especially in wage contracts — contend they inspire a circle. The cost of living goes up, wages go up, production costs go up, prices go up, the cost of living is up again, etc.

Another criticism is leveled today by the First National City Bank of New York in its April bank letter:

"Wage escalation weakens the resistance of workers to inflation, even giving them a sense of profiting from the process. Thus, they fail to support efforts to get at basic causes, including excessive government spending and deficits financed by 'cheap' money. Inflation becomes built in."

Gold as an inflation hedge is widely used abroad. Americans can't buy gold from their treasury but they can buy it in Switzerland or Canada, say, and store it there. But there are storage charges and no return on the investment until — and a big if — the price of gold goes up.

Precious stones are often good inflation hedges. But there are costs of safe storage, insurance and reselling. And markets are uncertain.

Of late there's been a rush to art treasures and antiques. There have been astounding rises in the prices of some of these. But there have been big price drops, too, on other paintings fashionable in another era. You have to be an expert to pick out the right art objects. Even then you can't predict future changes in tastes and fashions.

Advancing real estate prices have helped many offset the fall in the purchasing power of the dollar since the war. But you had to have the right real estate in the right places — and find a buyer.

The same goes for common stocks. If you picked winners you're sitting pretty. But there are many stocks selling for less now than in 1946 — about a third of those listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The bank has a final warning: "In eluding inflation, as in fleeing from a burning theater, the greater the number of people who try to crowd through the same exit the smaller the chance for successful escape."

The best way to beat inflation is to prevent it, the bank adds, and "have money people can trust."

Ask NLRB To Dismiss Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Textile Workers Union of America has asked the National Labor Relations Board to reject textile executive Roger Milliken's motion to dismiss an unfair labor practices complaint against him.

The TWUA made the charge against Milliken because of the 1956 closing of the Darlington, S. C., Manufacturing Co. Milliken was president of the firm.

The union Friday accused Milliken with leading the company's anti-union campaign. It further charged him with making the decision to close the plant because its 500 employees had chosen TWUA as its bargaining agent.

Various accounts in the case are slated for April 9 in New York City before a board trial examiner, Lloyd Buchanan.

Another hearing is likely to be held in Charlotte, N. C., May 12.

In a brief filed with the board, the union's general counsel, Nate Jones of New York, asserted that Milliken "was liable to be held to account for his unfair labor practices in depriving some 500 workers of their jobs for the reason that a majority of them had presumed to exercise their right to organize as guaranteed in the National Labor Relations Act."

Brazilians Liked Old Ambassador

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — From that Brazilian point of view, Clare Boothe Luce will have to fill a big pair of shoes when she becomes U.S. ambassador to Brazil.

The shoes are those of Ellis Ormsbee Briggs, who has spent 2½ years as U.S. representative here. After long service in Latin America, he is moving on to Greece.

You are apt to find him chatting in Portuguese with a coffee farmer, or perhaps to a bulldozer driver — deep in Brazil's jungled interior.

He is one of the few foreign diplomats in Brazil who is eager to leave his office chair for a seat in a bouncing jeep and a look at the growing interior of South America's largest nation.

Briggs has traveled in every one of this nation's 25 states and territories.

"I have had the good fortune personally to observe the accomplishments of a fruitful collaboration between our two countries and to witness Brazil's phenomenal progress," Briggs says.

The newspaper Jornal do Brasil has expressed hope "the dynamic Mrs. Luce will continue the traditions of tact, understanding and discreet efficiency implanted in the American embassy by her predecessor, Ambassador Briggs."

The newspapers Tribuna da Imprensa and Ultima Hora had similar praise.

Briggs became a U.S. diplomat 33 years ago. Most of his time has been spent in the republics below the U.S. border. His first assignment was as vice consul in Peru in 1926.

He is 60, a native of Watertown, Mass., and a graduate of Dartmouth College.

Will Sell Poems At Penny Apiece

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Poems will cost a penny apiece here Monday. If you buy one, you can be assured of having a limited edition.

Three Yale students are promoting the poetry sale this way: Fellow students all over the country — unpublished poets all — have been sending their efforts to William Byler, Alan Shayzin and Lewis Lipsitz. The Yale trio has been duplicating each poem 200 times.

Come next week, the 200 copies of each poem will be exhibited, face down, in a local bookstore. Purchasers may plunk down a penny and take home a poem. They may not read before buying.

There's no profit motive, say the Yale students. They just want to help fellow poets become published — and read.

Males Dominate Smoking Habit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smoking still is a far more popular habit among men than it is among women, the world over.

A study by a special House Tobacco subcommittee shows that 7 out of 10 U.S. males smoke. Only a little over 3 out of 10 American women do.

The situation is similar the study says. In Britain, Canada, Sweden and Denmark — except that some Danish women favor cigars and cigarrillos to cigarettes.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. John C. Watts (D-Ky.), made the study to determine what can be done to boost declining U.S. tobacco sales abroad.

It discovered that people are puffing away at a record rate. But the smoking patterns vary.

Another finding is likely to be among the world's most loyal smokers. Their consumption continues to rise despite heavy taxes and a cigarette price averaging 50 cents a pack.

Why do people smoke, anyway? "A surprising number of reasons are psychological," the study says, "associated with the stress, tensions and social demands of the modern world."

"Most smokers admit that there is more involved in smoking than what is obtained from tobacco itself, but that the tobacco does offer, with its nicotine, a real psychological feeling of tranquility and a variety of tastes."

Special Greeting Sent To Dulles

JUPITER ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Atlantic Council conferees in Washington have sent special greetings to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, convalescing here from cancer.

Council Secretary-General Paul Henri Spaak telegraphed Dulles that "our heartfelt thoughts go out to you and we send you our sincerest good wishes for a peaceful convalescence and full recovery to good health."

Ingrid Bergman Back In Filmland

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ingrid Bergman, 43, is back in Hollywood after a 10-year absence.

A double Oscar winner, she will present the Academy Award statuette Monday night to the producer of the best motion picture of 1958. She arrived at International Airport Friday with her third husband, Lars Schmidt, a theater impresario.

Visitors Stream To Wilmington

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of visitors to this port city turned out today to see the big, colorful parade climaxing the 12th annual Wilmington Azalea Festival.

The parade included more than 60 bands, 100 floats and a host of pretty girls, headed by Queen Azalea XII, movie actress Debra Peet.

Miss Peet was crowned Friday night by Gov. Luther Hodges, and movie actor John Sutton became festival king. The Queen's Ball followed.

The queen was entertained Friday at a party at Orton Plantation, where the motif was antebellum. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sprunt.

Ronald Reagan, movie and TV actor, is master of ceremonies for the festival, which ends Sunday.

Other personalities taking part include TV comedian Howard Morris and TV actor Dean Fredericks, who plays Steve Canyon. Nancy Stryker was crowned teen-age princess at the Teen-Age Ball Friday night.

Whooping Cranes Are On Way

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — At least 11 giant whooping cranes flew north today toward their summer nesting grounds in Northwest Territory, Canada.

An aerial check Friday showed 11 of the 32 rare whoopers, which wintered at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge north of here had departed.

The big birds, the last flock in existence, normally start north about April 4, refuge manager Claude Lard said.

He said the 21 birds still at the refuge could be expected to leave anytime from now until mid-May.

Then she flunked a courtroom exam.

"What will my ruling be?" Judge Martin Katz asked her.

"My mind is a complete blank," said the 32.

"A fine of $25," said the judge.

There are only two ways of saving lives from cancer: by surgery and radiation. No drug has yet been found that cures the disease, says the American Cancer Society.

Flunked Tests, Out Of Business

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — A self-styled "Hindu reader" flunked her two most important mind-reading tests. Now she's out of business.

First, Eve Taylor, 31, Glendale, slipped a fortune-telling advertisement under the wrong door — that of police Sgt. Don Wingeat. Such ads are against the law here.
