Approve Bill To Reduce Powers State's Higher Education Board

RALEIGH (AP) — The House Committee on Higher Education gave a favorable report Tuesday to a bill reducing powers of the State Board of Higher Education.

Rep. W. C. Harris of Wake said that members of the board and presidents of all state-supported colleges and universities approved the bill.

When the state board was created in 1955, Harris said, "it was not the idea that the state board should interfere with the policy or internal affairs of the institutions."

Harris said, "Later it appeared that the board under the act creating it had more authority—and was ready to exercise the authority—than the act intended."

The measure would lessen the board's policy making functions and reduce its budget making powers.

Maj. L. P. McClendon, state board member, said it would leave the board the power to make budget recommendations for the college.

A bill aimed at halting the advertisement of liquor and fortified wine in North Carolina newspapers and other publications was shunted off to a sub-committee by House Judiciary 1 Committee.

The bill, by a House dry leader, Rep. Sidney Britt of Bladen, would forbid county and city ABC boards from purchasing liquor or fortified wine from distillers or dealers which advertise their products in periodicals published in the local ABC board's county.

Bulletin

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A way has been discovered to produce electricity directly from atomic power, a University of Michigan scientist said today.

Robert W. Pidd, Michigan professor of physics, said the development already has been tested at Los Alamos, N. M.

Pidd predicted the development also would pave the way for interplanetary space travel and would power satellites.

The process does away with boilers, turbines, gas conditioners and generators now used in both conventional and atomic electric plants.

Electric power under the process is produced from a uranium carbide source surrounded by a plasma or electrified gas made from cesium, a metal.

Salvage Crew To Try Refloat Ship

AVON, N.C. (AP)—A salvage crew from New York will try to refloat the grounded Liberty ship Antonin Dvorak and take it to Baltimore for scrapping.

The ship broke loose from her tow in heavy seas several days ago and went aground in this "Graveyard of the Atlantic." She was being towed northward for scrapping at the time.

There was considerable conjecture about what would be done with the craft. But its owner, Patasco Scrap Corp. of Baltimore, said today the contract for salvage was given to the New York firm of Merritt, Chapman and Scott.

Unemployment Has Sharp Downturn In March; Employment For 63.8 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unemployment declined 367,000 in March to 4,362,000. Employment jumped by 1,106,000 to 63,828,000.

The government, in reporting this today, said the rise in employment and drop in unemployment were both about twice the amount seasonally expected for the month.

It was the biggest February-to-March drop in unemployment since 1950. The employment rise for the month was the biggest since 1951.

Seymour Wolfbein, head of the Labor Department Employment Statistics Bureau, told a news conference that while the improvement was partly seasonal the job picture definitely shows substantial signs of repair from depression damage.

The seasonally adjusted ratio of unemployment to the total work force declined from 6.1 per cent in February to 5.8 per cent in March.

Wolfbein's holding a news conference to release the report was an unprecedented thing.

Ordinarily, the regular monthly job reports of the Commerce and Labor Departments have simply been handed to newsmen in printed releases.

The unusual procedure pointed up the administration's gratification over the developments.

Administration officials from President Eisenhower on, down had forecast such gratifying improvements.

Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss said the changes reflected in the job report would be "actually the best improvement figures between February and March in years."

To top that off, Strauss said other government data, some of it still to be released, shows the national economy is whirling along at the end of 1958's first quarter at its greatest pace ever in history.

The commerce secretary said that with national income at a peak and prices remaining stable, purchasing power never was higher; the value of all goods and services, or gross national product, is also at a record.

In fact, said Strauss, "The signs indicate that the current spring vigor in the economy should increase in the coming months."

Strauss predicted the new job data would show a more than seasonal drop in unemployment and a substantial rise in employment.

A drop among the tide of 300,000 would be the best March improvement since 1952, and one of 325,000 the best since 1950.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell went to the White House Monday to fill in Eisenhower personally on the good news. Afterward press secretary James C. Hagerly said the President pronounced today's job report would be "gratifying and of great interest to all Americans."

The expected considerable springtime improvement in both employment and unemployment will take some of the starch out of an AFL-CIO jobless rally here Wednesday. The labor unions are berating in more than 5,000 delegates — union officials and idled workers—to beat the drums for job-making and jobless-aid measures.

Among the speakers are Secretary Mitchell, for the administration; Sen. Gordon Allott (R-Colo.), for Senate Republicans; Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), for the Joint Congressional Economic Committee; and Rep. Richard Bolling (D-Mo.), for House Democrats.

Pitt Tax Collections Run Ahead Of Period In 1958

Fiscal matters, highlighted by a report that tax collections are running $89,798.64 over collections during a similar period last year, occupied most of the afternoon session of yesterday's meeting of county commissioners.

Tax Supervisor and Collector Robert S. Moye told the board that March tax collections of $21,326.81 pushed collections for the fiscal year to $1,182,863.73 through March 25. Collections for the same period in the 1957-1958 fiscal year were $1,093,065.09.

Moye said the department's collections during March included $17,858.57 of 1958 assessments.

Four transfers-of-funds were approved by the board, including one of $4,900 from Child School District's surplus fund to an account for payment of construction costs of an agriculture teacher's home.

Other transfers approved were $50 from the psychologist's salary account to the medicine and drugs accounts in the Mental Health Service budget; $240 from the office equipment account to accounts for postage and office supplies in the Auditor's Office budget; and $575 from the Auditor's Office Equipment account to the Clerk of Superior Court account for books and bindings.

Receipt of $158.63 from sale of salvage by the ABC Board was reported by Auditor H. Reginald Gray. The money came from disposal of copper and other materials seized in raids on illicit whiskey stills by a committee composed of Commissioner J. Vance Perkins, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson and Chief ABC Officer J. M. Ward, who were reappointed as a Salvage Disposal Committee.

Approval was given by the board for purchase of a plaque dedicating the Health Department's new Mental Health Wing to the memory of the late Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Gray, Perkins and Commissioner Chairman R. L. Martin were named to a committee to complete purchase of the plaque and plan for its installation.

No action was taken on a request to install new lighting fixtures in offices of the Register of Deeds and Sheriff and in the vault of the office of Clerk of Superior Court. Other offices in the Court House have had new lighting fixtures installed in the past month.

A road petition calling for grading, draining and building-up of 2.4 miles of Lindell Drive was approved and ordered forwarded to

Hodges Believes Department Safe

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges says he is not worried about the possibility that the Legislature will pass a bill to abolish the State Department of Administration.

Sep. John McLaughlin of Iredell has introduced a measure to do away with the department, which was created by the 1957 Legislature at the urging of the governor.

"I'm not taking this bill seriously," Hodges told his news conference Monday, "because I don't think anybody is going to take it seriously."

He said the department saves the state money and provides more effective administration of state government.

In reply to another query, Hodges said he believes the Legislature can complete its work and adjourn around June 1. This is one of the busiest legislatures he has seen, he added.

He was optimistic that the lawmakers will enact, at least in part, minimum wage legislation and court reform, two of the major points in his legislative program.

He indicated he does not expect the Legislature to approve in their entirety the court changes proposed by the Bell committee. The General Assembly will come out with something in the way of court reform, he said, that is "somewhere between the ideal and a good start."

Pitt Escapees Are Recaptured

The two honor grade prisoners which escaped from a Prison road gang about two miles from Belvoir yesterday have been recaptured.

The two prisoners, Johnny Whitaker and Robert Goodwin, both trustees, ran from a road work gang into a wood area two miles from Belvoir yesterday about 10 o'clock.

Johnny Whitaker, according to L. F. Dail, Superintendent of the local camp, was re-captured about one hour later by H. L. Harris, Division Superintendent for the prison department, a short distance from where he escaped.

Dail said he recaptured Robert Goodwin this morning about 6:15 in the same patch of woods. Goodwin was being chased by bloodhounds and ran from the woods directly in front of the waiting Dail.

According to Dail, Goodwin lost his shoes late yesterday when he ran into a creek to escape the dogs and had been running in circles all night in the woods barefooted. His feet were cut and scalded this morning when captured.

Two prisoners John Webster and Leland Crawford, which escaped early Saturday morning have not been located.

New Revolt

LONDON (AP)—Cairo radio said today a new revolt had broken out in Iraq.

It quoted refugees from Baghdad, the Iraqi capital, as saying there had been fighting in the oil city of Kirkuk, in northern Iraq.

There have been repeated unconfirmed reports in the United Arab Republic, especially in Syria, of new fighting since the collapse of the revolt in Mosul in northern Iraq last month.

Cairo radio said the refugees claimed government troops in the region of Kirkuk had gone over to the rebels. The radio said the rebellion was being led by men of the Shaffar and Jubur tribes.

The broadcast—monitored in Britain—quoted the refugees as saying that planes of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's air force had destroyed a rebel village with rockets.

Bandit-Slayer Is Killed, Companion Caught By Police

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A desperate escaped prisoner charged with slaying a bank teller was killed and his companion was captured last night when they attempted to shoot their way out of a police trap.

The two men in an automobile sent to them by police attempted to crash a road block. The withering fire of swarms of lawmen stopped them at their only access to freedom.

Officers said Charles Thomas Bradford, 29, who sat wounded and bleeding in the getaway car in the aftermath of the gun battle, may have committed suicide as Capt. C. R. Williams of the Highway Patrol grappled with him for his pistol.

The gun discharged during the struggle, the bullet striking Bradford in the neck. Already severely wounded, the fire wound apparently caused Bradford's death.

Reputedly at the road block was John William Odum, 18, of Fayetteville. Odum, charged with car theft, escaped with Bradford from the Cumberland County Jail early Saturday after tricking a jailer into opening their cell.

Bradford was charged with the slaying of a teller during a $13,000 bank robbery at Ft. Bragg Feb. 20.

Sheriff W. G. Clark said Woodrow Vinson, about 40, who was discharged as a jailer March 31, three days before the break, was being held without charge pending possible charges of harboring and aiding the fugitives. The sheriff said he did not think Vinson was implicated in the actual break.

Clark said Vinson admitted taking blankets and canned goods to the two who fled from the jail in a car belonging to Jailer E. B. Beatt.

McLaurin, whom they locked in their cell.

The men drove to the Big White Swamp near here and about six miles from Vinson's home. The sheriff quoted Vinson as saying the men threatened harm to his family if he did not help them.

Vinson admitted hiding McLaurin's car and furnishing supplies to the men, Clark said, and then agreed to get them another car in which they hoped to drive south, to the coast.

Sheriff Clark, who declined to say how officers happened to link Vinson with the case, furnished Vinson with the car which Vinson drove to the men in the swamp Monday morning.

Officers, using walkie talkie radios, were staked out at the mouth of the only access road from the swamp to the highway.

Roy K. Moore, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, said about 7:30 p.m. officers saw the headlights of the car approaching the roadblock.

Moore said Bradford managed to fire one shot as officers were removing him from the car. Moore could not say whether Bradford intended to take his own life, or was attempting to fire at an officer.

Bradford was charged with robbing the Ft. Bragg branch of the First Citizens Bank and Trust Co. of Smithfield of $13,373 Feb. 20, and with slaying teller J. Frank Johnson.

He and Odum, who was being held on an auto theft charge, escaped jail when one of them pretended his shirt was caught in the jail door. When the jailer opened the door, they pounced on him, beat him and left him bound and gagged.

Education Board Acts On Projects

Action on construction projects at two schools and personnel matters highlighted the Pitt County Board of Education's regular monthly meeting yesterday.

The board also announced appointments to district committees. They are carried elsewhere in today's edition of The Daily Reflector.

Acceptance of construction at Winterville School was voted by the board which also set 2 p.m. April 14, as time and date for opening bids for new construction at Stokes Elementary School.

Approval was granted for continuance of work at Winterville, which consists of a six-classroom addition, was recommended by architects.

The Stokes project, for which bids will be opened next Tuesday, includes construction of three classrooms and two toilets at the Negro elementary school. The board will open bids in county school offices on Wed. Third Street.

Approval was granted for continued employment of three persons who would otherwise be eligible for retirement at the end of the present school year. They are J. R. Cox, an employee at the county garage; Mrs. Katherine Adams, a first grade teacher at Stokes-Pactolus; and Elbert M. Wainwright, janitor at Ayden Elementary School.

A contract for the remainder of the 1958-1959 school year was approved for Miss Annie Earl Wilkes, who will teach in H. B. Sugg School in Farmville. Also approved was sick leave, through April 20, for Mrs. Annie Garris Chappell of Grifton School.

Contracts for auditing financial records of the Board of Education and county schools were awarded to John C. Proctor, certified public accountant of Greenville. The audit is to cover 1958-1959 records of operations.

Snark Missile Test Fired By Crew Of Airmen

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Airmen of the first strategic Snark missile squadron were at the controls Monday night when the first operational version of a Snark guided missile roared aloft on the start of a 5,000-mile intercontinental range flight.

The Snark, the first U.S. intercontinental weapon capable of spanning oceans, streaked off with a flash of power on a trip that wound up near Ascension Island eight hours later.

The firing was conducted by the 556th Strategic Missile Squadron, which will presume the unit operationally in Presque Isle, Maine, in the next two months.

He didn't explain why performers and winners were told to hurry up their parts during the performance.

Commented Bob Hope: "They timed this thing with a sun dial." The telecast finally went off the air with 15 minutes to spare and the extra time was handed back to the local NBC stations.

Susan Hayward, David Niven And 'Gigi' Garner Oscar Honors

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Susan Hayward, who once despaired of ever winning an Oscar, got one Monday night on her fifth try. David Niven, who has been pleasing movie audiences for 25 years now, was similarly honored.

The Brooklyn-born redhead and the debonair Scotsman won the top Academy awards for acting before an audience filled with most of the big names in the entertainment industry. They shared honors with the movie "Gigi," which won in every one of the nine categories for which it was nominated—including best picture.

For the money and the joy of doing a good part."

She admitted that Monday night's results have changed her views considerably.

"I thought I had a good chance but I was pleasantly surprised," she said. "And above all thrilled and honored."

Niven won the top actor award for playing a pathetic woman-molester in "Separate Tables." It was one of the few times in his career that he did not play what the trade calls "a David Niven type."

Niven said: "Dammit, I must say I wanted to win and I'm happy I did."

He said he couldn't relax either and had to take a swim in an ice-cold pool in order to clam down enough for the big show.

"Gigi" got Oscars for best picture, best screen play based on material from another medium, best directing for Vincente Minnelli, best art direction, best color photography, best song (the title number), film editing, costume design and best scoring of a musical picture. The music for "Gigi" was written by the "My Fair Lady" team of Frederick Loewe and Alan J. Lerner.

Lerner also got the award for the best screenplay for "Gigi." Burl Ives, the 300-pound folk singer, took a night off from his show at Las Vegas' Flamingo Hotel to pick up his Oscar. He played a sort of Western Big Daddy in "The Big Country."

Miss Hiller was not in town to receive her award. Earlier she told a reporter by long distance phone from London that she couldn't understand how she ever got nominated. She played the lovelorn hotel manager of "Separate Tables."

"All you could see of me in the picture," she said, "was the back of my head. Unless they give some award for acting with one's back to the camera, I don't stand a chance."

One of the most popular awards was a special one given to Maurice Chevalier, who was called to the stand after completing a musical number with a bevy of Hollywood beauties.

Warner, making one of his first public appearances since his near-fatal auto accident of last summer.

The fast pace of the proceedings, with the consequent time left over, caught everyone off guard. Emcee Jerry Lewis panicked and tried some stalling tactics which appeared inept.

Nobody seemed to know whose fault it was. Academy President George Stevens merely remarked: "We showed you so smoothly that we had time left over."

Caught Between Spending, Taxing

With the General Assembly in its tenth week, legislators apparently still have not made up their minds about a problem which has confronted them since early February.

The legislators apparently haven't made up their minds whether to stick largely to the budget recommendations of Gov. Hodges or to break over the traces with more appropriations, and probably higher taxes.

It is the same old problem they have faced not only in this session, but in previous sessions as well. Stated simply, it is the problem of whether to make appropriations fit into anticipated revenues, or fix appropriations to meet the needs of the state and then adjust taxes to provide the necessary revenues.

Hearings held so far on money requests from state agencies and institutions have emphasized the feeling of leaders in various fields that more funds will be needed for operations in the next biennium than was recommended in the budget. Particularly has this been pointed out in hearings concerning public schools and the state's institutions of higher learning. To a lesser degree other agencies have followed the same pattern.

To break over the budget recommendations in one area would leave the gate open for increasing appropriations in many areas of state government operations. Many millions might be added to the budget of the state for the next two years. Such action would also involve some revamping of tax structures, and probably new or at least higher taxes in order to pay the bills during the coming biennium.

In all probability it would mean extra weeks in Raleigh for the legislators to resolve money matters. And there seems to be a growing feeling—at least among observers—that the legislators already are becoming much concerned about an adjournment date.

From the point of legislative time, it would be much easier to stick pretty much to budget recommendations and resolve the state's money matters on that basis. From the standpoint of the general welfare of the state, however, legislators can ill afford the needs of North Carolina during the coming two years.

The only logical approach to the financial problem is to fix appropriations so they will meet the needs of the state during the coming biennium—whether it means breaking budget recommendations or not. Then anticipated revenues must be adjusted to balance appropriations.

We are as anxious as most other people that state taxes not be increased during the coming biennium if that is possible. At the same time, we believe it is mandatory that the needs of the state's agencies and institutions for the next two years be met. Otherwise these institutions and agencies cannot do the job which is expected of them, and the state as a whole will suffer as a result.

For the legislature to agree on a budget not to exceed X number of dollars without regard to the overall needs of North Carolina would be a tragic mistake indeed.

Science Fair Reflects On Schools Of County

The showing of Pitt County students in the district science fair held Friday at East Carolina College should be a source of pride to all the people of the county and particularly to those closely associated with the county's schools.

Pitt County students won five of the top ten places in the district and will compete for state honors at the state-wide science fair.

Pitt students also won two of the top 10 places in the junior division of the fair which is not eligible for state-wide competition. Still further, science exhibits entered by Pitt County school students won 12 of the 24 honorable mentions awarded individual exhibits in the district fair.

When one considers that the district fair included some 150 entries from 22 North Carolina counties, the showing made by students in this county is even more impressive.

Credit for the ratings received on these exhibits of course must go to the students who prepared and entered them in competition. At the same time, however, it reflects to a great degree the emphasis which schools of Pitt County are placing on science and scientific study. Certainly a school system which did not encourage students to develop their abilities in the field of science would not have so many winners in a district science fair.

Johnson Again Critics' Target

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the start it looked like such a comfortable year for Sen. Lyndon Johnson. As leader of the Senate Democrats the tall Texan had everything he could wish for, including peace and quiet.

It was like being the skipper of a ship on a windless sea. Then suddenly out of nowhere the wind came up. It didn't capsize him but it rocked his boat.

Loyalty? He had it. Probably every Democratic senator would hold to him for some favor or other. He's a great one for doing favors, knowing the importance of having senators feel favorable to him when he wants something done.

Prestige? He had it in abundance. Wasn't everyone saying he was a positively brilliant maestro in a place which has more prima donnas than an opera house? He had a genius for getting them to say yes or no as he wanted.

And best of all for him: he had an overwhelming majority of Democrats to work with. Thanks to last November's elections, his party's majority was the greatest since early New Deal days.

What more could a Senate leader ask? If he were asked, he'd probably have said more of the same, as anyone would. He was even being prominently mentioned as a likely Democratic presidential candidate in 1960.

Then a comparative newcomer, Sen. William Proxmire, Wisconsin Democrat, strode up to the bridge and pulled the skipper's cap over his ears. This was a few weeks ago.

In brief, this was Proxmire's complaint: Senate Democrats were being treated to too much of the daddy-knows-best stuff, with Lyndon the Daddy. Proxmire wanted less of a one-man show and more say-so from everybody.

Last week Johnson encountered criticism of his leadership from another Democrat, Sen. McNamara of Michigan. He didn't like the way Johnson acted—failed to act as a likely Democratic presidential candidate in 1960.

This bill, as approved by Congress, was much less than McNamara wanted. He accused Johnson not only of failing to provide leadership but of failing to take a stand at all. Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) came up with still more criticism during the weekend. He didn't mention the 51-year-old Johnson by name, nor did he name Johnson's fellow Texan, 77-year-old Sam Rayburn, speaker of the House. The two Texans have been the undisputed Democratic bosses in the Capitol.

But Morse blasted the "Democratic leadership on Capitol Hill" which he said has been the "McCarthy-like political ventriloquist act" with President Eisenhower and his administration through the Edgar Bergen end of the act.

"Could it be," asked Morse, "that we are witnessing a tragic political spectacle of both of our political parties in the control of old, tired, sick, reactionary men?"

He said in effect: The Democratic leadership in Congress, instead of leading and pushing through Democratic programs, has been playing footsie with the Eisenhower administration.

On top of all this the 27-man Democratic party advisory council tried to light a fire under Johnson and Rayburn Sunday with an appeal to them to ignore Eisenhower's spending hold-down and to start a program to bolster the economy.

Johnson, a man highly sensitive to criticism, was out of town and there was no word from him.

Quote...

Eisenhower is spending $5,013,750 to operate the White House this fiscal year. More than double the $2,467,000 ex-President Truman spent during his last and most expensive year. This includes such upkeep as servants, gardening, office staff, etc. and does not include the upkeep of helicopters, airplanes, two yachts, and the total budget for the executive establishment. On top of this rather extensive budget for the past year, the President is asking for a $332,000 increase next year at the same time he is ordering everyone else to economize.—Park Region (Minn.) ## Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

TOO CLOSE TO PERCEIVE

Thomas Carlyle, son of a humble stone mason, rose to a place of literary eminence in his generation. He opposed the literary forms of his day and adopted a form utterly unique in English literature. He stormed against his generation, calling them fools and blockheads. Many of them struck back at him during his life, but when he died, he was honored throughout the English-speaking world.

Everywhere honored—that is, except in his own home town. There the people remembered that he was the son of a working man. Surely all this hubbub about "Tom" Carlyle was just nonsense. Hadn't they seen him grow up in the village? Who was he to hold his head so high and believe that he was somebody in the world? Once Carlyle went back to visit his birthplace, but no one paid any attention save one humble workman who came up to him and said that he wanted to shake hands with a truly great man. Finally Carlyle's body was taken to his home town for burial. With the newspapers of the entire world carrying headlines about this man's death, the people of Ecclefechan paid no attention whatsoever to the event. As one man said, "There's not an old woman in Ecclefechan who would have stuck her head out the window to see 'Tom' Carlyle when he was living; let alone when he was dead."

"A prophet is not without honor save in his own country and among his own people."

Here's The Pitch -- Catch!

The Bloodmobile will be here on the 14th and 15th, and by now everybody knows what that means.

They want your blood.

Just why it's necessary to dramatize the importance of a blood bank I can't understand. But every time it reaches into Pitt, the prevalent feeling is that the public forgets the degree of importance and the degree of simplicity in separating a little blood from donors.

Lets assume everybody knows a blood bank can't function without blood, that a blood bank saves lives... one of which could be yours or a member of your family. That research centers need blood, that a good big "savings account" in the blood bank is a form of wealth you can't measure with dollar signs.

We'll assume everybody knows all that and it leaves only the matter of convincing people what a nothing it is to have a vein tapped.

Would it convince anybody if I told my story?

You'd be surprised how many excuses I had when asked to give some blood. Too underweight. Too busy. Couldn't afford to spare it, I might collapse on the job. Too frail. Sorry, but just can't get away.

There was a matter of some conviction in all of the reasons; but behind it all was some uncertainty about how well I could take loss of a pint.

There came a day when either my excuses ran out or my courage went up. Anyhow, I was determined they'd be given a chance to spread some of that wild, wild Schlienz blood among the natives.

The Missus packed the children off to our favorite wild-children keepers, prepared an evening meal that would require only a minimum of effort to put on the table. She went out to the center before I did (to help, if need be). By the time I arrived she had already volunteered as a donor and been accepted, and turned to some kind of telephone duty. With that fait accompli, I could not back out, so proceeded through the processing. The more questions thrown at me, the healthier I realized I really was.

Once on the table and the needle in my vein I closed my eyes to rest (it had been a hard day at the office), and one of the young Angels in White patted my forehead in a motherly sort of way. That opened my eyes in a hurry, and she gave a tenderly solicitous smile. With my wife in the room it seemed best to keep my eyes open.

On leaving, we decided to go get the children and bring them home too. Neither of us felt like wrecks. Rather, a bit proud of ourselves; which was uncalled for, too.

We didn't find our routine way of doing things upset one bit. It was all a very routine aftermath.

Okay; that's my pitch. Did you catch it?

Other Editors Saying... Gimmicks Choke Action

(Greensboro Daily News)

Reapportionment met its anticipated fate in the House Thursday when a reapportionment bill was killed by a 61 to 50 vote.

Proponents of the measure, with Guilford's Rep. Thomas Turner making one of the major speeches, stressed the constitutional mandate for reapportionment, the oath which members had taken to support the constitution and the continuous undermining of the basic principle of representative government.

Opponents resorted to the usual circumlocutions. The constitution, they contended, called for reapportionment "at the first session of the Legislature" after the return of every enumeration by the ordinal Congress. Ergo, since apportionment was not voted during the 1951 session, the constitutional mandate did not apply to subsequent sessions.

That, of course, is an old gimmick which has been used session after session. Strong likelihood is that census totals will not be completed and verified by the time of any legislative session early in the year after the decennial enumeration. This hoary deviation from constitutional responsibility could go on forever so long as a majority of House members put subterfuge ahead of moral and legal obligation.

Somebody added a second gimmick this time. "Apportionment," opponents piously quoted the constitution, "shall be made by the General Assembly at the respective times and periods when districts for the Senate are hereinbefore directed to be laid off." By this twist a House which has been most conscientious of its prerogatives finds itself powerless before Senate inaction. Here again is a two-way gimmick which can be used to block reapportionment indefinitely or forever. In the constitutional debate which raged Thursday, nobody pointed out that reapportionment is not left to House or Senate separately; the mandate is upon "the General Assembly."

All the oratory and gyrations were obviously so much wasted words and time. Members knew how they were going to vote. And when the vote came, it was strictly along geographical lines, with the eastern and small western counties lining up against the more populous Piedmont.

Although the bill was defeated, there is some consolation that it got out of committee with a favorable report and that it received more votes of approval than ever before. It could be that gradual industrialization is changing attitudes in North Carolina and that the public conscience is slowly making itself felt.

What happened Thursday would be ridiculous if so much were not involved and such grave principles of government were not wantonly disregarded. North Carolinians are fair-minded and one of these days majority public sentiment is going to explode under a system which habitually refuses to recognize it as a principle deeply imbedded in our constitution.

It is such displays as occurred Thursday which make the Legislature look mighty little.

"I don't believe in fear. What is the use of being afraid? That isn't change anything. 'Everybody gets at least one big chance, and usually two or three. You can always look back and say, 'That was the moment!'"

"Success that is thrown in your lap is one of the greatest of dangers."

"My greatest pleasures are reading and looking at beautiful paintings. I started at a time when one could afford to. In collecting, as in anything else, you should aim only at the best. You're never in trouble if you go only for top quality."

Homolka is in no trouble at all. One Renoir for which he paid $15,000 now is valued at $200,000. And it has been a long, long time since he had to sleep on a cafe table.

"A pen company reports that studies indicate writing time can be cut in half by starting from the bottom of a sheet of paper and working up. Try it. But not with a typewriter." — Asheville Citizen.

"When it comes to stealthily planting a dynamite blast, shooting from cover, hoisting rocks

"Violence, is, after all, the trump card of the crooked labor leader." — Sec. of Labor Mitchell.

Oscar Has No Oscar

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Oscar Homolka, who once slept on cafe table tops, now has an art collection he values at $500,000.

One of the greatest living character actors, a veteran of more than 200 plays and 80 films, his long career lacks one final crown—the Academy Award.

In the past Homolka has been nominated for the award. But Oscar is still Oscarless. It doesn't worry him.

"Sometimes perhaps the right year and the right picture will come along," he said cheerfully. "An Oscar is a fine thing to get. Let's face it—it's very good for business."

A crowded lifetime on two continents has left Homolka philosophic about fortune, good or bad. Now starring in the Broadway drama, "Rashomon," he started acting at 18 in his native Vienna for about $9 a month.

"After I was paid for my first engagement," he recalled, "I had to decide whether I would eat or rent a room for the night. 'I decided on eating, and I slept in the coffee house on a table. I lived like that for three months.'"

Today he thinks a measure of hardship is good for beginners in show business.

"Those who are sensible give up," he said. "It is too tough for them. But if there were nothing but glamour, too many would stay in the business who ought to get out."

"There's nothing worse than an unsuccessful actor. He has a miserable life." The beetle-browed actor, noted for his skill in Russian roles, has portrayed Soviet leaders ranging from Leon Trotsky to Premier Nikita Khrushchev. But although he is fluent in English, German and French, he has never learned to speak Russian.

In his youth he spent 2½ years with Austrian ski troops in Italy during World War I.

Oscar loves good living, and one of the sorrows of his life is that he has to diet to keep his chunky frame mobile.

"But you have to make the best of what is possible," he remarked, growling pleasantly as he put on his monocle and inspected his entire lunch—a chunk of ground meat and nothing else.

Here is Homolka: "Two things I hate most deeply: sloppiness of mind and intolerance. People won't take the trouble to think even to the extent of their limitations."

"Stupid people bore me. I prefer a crook to a stupid person. You can deal with a crook, but with a stupid person you are up against a double wall."

"I don't believe in fear. What is the use of being afraid? That isn't change anything. 'Everybody gets at least one big chance, and usually two or three. You can always look back and say, 'That was the moment!'"

"Success that is thrown in your lap is one of the greatest of dangers."

"My greatest pleasures are reading and looking at beautiful paintings. I started at a time when one could afford to. In collecting, as in anything else, you should aim only at the best. You're never in trouble if you go only for top quality."

Opinions In Brief

"The trouble is not that we are Republicans but that we are not Republican enough. . . . A party cannot long endure which would rather win a local skirmish with clever tactics than to preserve and build an integrity based on sound principle, even at the cost of some local losses." — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.)

"A pen company reports that studies indicate writing time can be cut in half by starting from the bottom of a sheet of paper and working up. Try it. But not with a typewriter." — Asheville Citizen.

"When it comes to stealthily planting a dynamite blast, shooting from cover, hoisting rocks at a passing truck or intimidating workers with a burly picket line, they are pretty tough. But if somebody shoots back or they find themselves under oath on a witness stand, they lose all that bravado. . . . They are, after all, not labor leaders in the least—but common thugs." — Memphis Press-Scimitar.

"Folks, it seems we've irritated the Alaskans. One of 'em said the other day, 'If you Texans don't hush, we'll divide Alaska into halves—then you'll be the third largest state in the Union.'" — Amarillo Globe-Times.

"For the generation of state and local bonds that produce tax-free interest for the wealthy—

"For the support of relief cheats—

"For the payment of unemployment benefits to girls who quit to marry—

"For the sending of Congressmen and government employees on junkets all over the world—and on, and on, and on."

By this, Dr. Tauber should know we are contrite.

However, we do not agree with Times' figures that $1 of every $7 goes for taxes. Total personal income is now running around $385 billion a year. Federal tax collections this year will exceed $81 billion and state and local taxes will be around $30 billion more. That looks as if $1 out of every $3.50 will go for taxes.

And by taxes, Dean Tauber, we mean "for education, protection of the home—and junkets all over the world."

'Secret Weapon' In Ballerina--Aged Ten

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A 10-year-old ballerina from Palm Beach could be an American secret weapon.

She is Claudia Cravey, baby prima ballerina of the first full-length American ballet, "The Princess," produced here by philanthropist Frank J. Hale and Paul Crabtree, and scheduled to open on Broadway in the fall. Next in impact could be her sister, Clara Beth, 8.

"If we could present these wonderful American kids in this all-American ballet at the Moscow World's Fair, we'd steal all the thunder of the vaunted Russian Ballet," says Hale. He's the founder of the Academy Royale, a non-profit institution dedicated to giving American boys and girls a chance to develop their talents in the ballet, the theater and music.

Critics who have seen the fresh and charming ballet in its initial presentations here seem to agree with him. So does the girl who wrote the libretto and trained the young dancers, Jo Anna, a ballerina from Durban, South Africa, wife of the stage manager, Ted Kneeland.

"We've all been taken in by a lot of intellectually snobbish hocus-pocus about the ballet," says Jo Anna. "Our intention here is to present a form of ballet which the general public can understand, and which gives an opportunity to the wonderful, fresh talent of American youngsters."

Jo Anna taught ballet in Durban and was a top ballet star of South Africa before she came to America, met and married TV producer Ted Kneeland.

er Ted Kneeland and drifted down to Palm Beach to open a dancing school. There she met Frank Hale, who had just built the million-dollar Royal Poinciana Playhouse, and who also had ideas about opening the doors of opportunity to American kids.

"I know about these kids," says Hale, son of Irish immigrants. He started as a song-and-dance man in San Francisco, made a fortune in Wall Street, heads several corporations and spends his money on such things as cancer research, the American Society for the Aged and underwriting the talents of American boys and girls. "I was one of them, a long time ago. I fought my way up, the hard way, and now I'd like to give some of these other kids a hand."

In furthering his project, Hale plans a gala benefit to end all benefits next January in Palm Beach — a Venetian Mardi Gras, with barges to bring the audience across Lake Worth to his playhouse, and tickets selling at $1,000 each.

"We're in on the ground floor of a great new national awakening of art in America," says Hale. "Kids all over the country, in small towns and on farms from Maine to Arizona are feeling the urge to express themselves. If they've got what it takes, they'll have a chance to show it here."

Police Car Pins Bull On The Loose

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A bull fleeing the packing house rampaged through south San Antonio Monday, injuring a 4-year-old boy and generally stirring up the citizenry.

Policeman Ben Johnson finally pinned the bull with his squad car against a wall and fired six times through the window, dropping the animal with the final round.

The big animal after breaking loose pounded by a playground filled with children and ran over Jesse Giles, 4. The youngster suffered only minor injuries.

With Thomas Miller of the music faculty as director, the Varsity Band was organized this year with the purpose of providing recreation for members and audiences. The group is composed primarily of students who are not majoring in music. With the East Carolina Marching and Concert bands, it makes the third band at the college.

Sold In Error At Rummage Sale

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Trade was brisk Monday at the First Congregational church rummage sale in a building belonging to the Silver Dollar restaurant. In all the bustle an idle six-burned gas range which belonged to the restaurant was sold, no one knows to whom.

Church and restaurant officials couldn't immediately find the buyer, who happily removed it promptly after the purchase. He paid two dollars.

Khrushchev Tale U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Traced To Party Rushing To Aid Of Russian

BERLIN (AP) — Published reports that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is not in the best of health may stem from a midnight spell of dizziness reportedly suffered by him in East Berlin last month.

The Hamburg tabloid Bildzeitung Saturday quoted unidentified East bloc diplomats in Helsinki, Finland, as saying Khrushchev was under doctor's orders to take it easy after suffering a fainting spell.

It may go back to a gala reception for Khrushchev in East Berlin's Soviet Embassy March 10. Khrushchev was at his party best, knocking back cognac toasts with gusto and quipping with the ladies.

But once in a while he showed exhaustion. His eyelids grew heavy, and he seemed to shrink within himself. For four days he had charged around the Leipzig Trade Fair making speeches, and when he arrived in East Berlin March 7 his face was grey with exhaustion. Still, he kept up the killing pace.

But on the night of March 10, according to Hans Ulrich Kempinski, veteran correspondent of Munich's respected Sueddeutsche Zeitung, Khrushchev was leaving the embassy with his entourage.

"I was just about to go when Khrushchev suddenly turned back. He was supported by two men. He was pale and walking unsteadily. He sat down. Bodyguards closed the doors. Lights were turned off. . . . There was nothing really serious, only a bit of dizziness."

KODIAK, Alaska (AP) — A United States Coast Guard cutter slashed through the wind-whipped waves of the Bering Sea early today, rushing to the aid of a critically injured Soviet seaman.

The cutter Storis left Akun Bay on the Aleutian Island chain on an international mission of mercy to the Soviet trawler Pischavaya Industriya, located about 100 miles to the north in the general direction of the Pribilof Islands.

The waves crested 10 to 15 feet high and winds of 30 to 48 miles an hour lashed the area, the Coast Guard said.

Object of the emergency trip was an unidentified Soviet seaman who fractured both arms and legs in a tumble into the hold of his ship.

A roundabout request for aid came from the Soviet Embassy in Washington to the State Department. That brought a coordinated effort by the Navy and Treasury Department, which has jurisdiction over the Coast Guard.

The plan was for the cutter to meet the Soviet vessel, administer first aid and then remove the seaman for transportation to a hospital at Anchorage. An amphibious plane was to meet the cutter at Dutch Harbor in the Aleutians to take the injured man on the last leg of the mercy trip.

Coast Guard officers said the seaman probably could be transferred from trawler to cutter by small boat in spite of the heavy seas—if the storm didn't get much worse.

The 230-foot Storis is used to heavy going. It was one of three Coast Guard boats that followed the Arctic Ocean. They became the first U.S. vessels to complete a trip around the continent when they returned to the West Coast by way of the Panama Canal.

Pirates Hopes Are Dampened By Injury

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer Want a new line on Pittsburgh's long-lamented chances for the National League pennant? Then forget those exhibition game line-scores and cock an ear for the medical report on George Witt's troublesome arm.

The young right-hander, a pitching sensation as a rookie last season when he shrugged off arm trouble and won seven straight for the longest string of the year in the NL, was sent on to Pittsburgh Monday night for an examination by the club physician.

The trouble centers in a painful elbow, which the freckle-faced redhead thinks was strained when he tried to develop a slider two years ago in the minors. The trouble popped up again Monday and Witt was forced from the mound after one inning as the Pirates finished their stay in Florida with a 2-1 victory over Kansas City at Fort Myers.

In other games, the San Francisco Giants, figured to join the Bucs in the National League pennant pursuit, went 11 innings before beating Cleveland 8-6 on Don Tassia's home run. The Boston Red Sox belted the Chicago Cubs 11-3, the Detroit Tigers defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-2, the Chicago White Sox beat Washington 9-5, Spokane defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 and Cincinnati smacked Savannah 12-2.

Harvey Haddix, Ron Blackburn and Fred Green took charge of the pitching after Witt's quick exit and kept the A's blanked until the ninth as the Pirates won their fourth in a row for a 15-12 spring record. Blackburn, working in his first game since returning from service, was the winner as Roman Malias squeezed in the winning run in the seventh inning. George Brunet was the loser for the A's, who scored in the ninth on Harry Simpson's home run.

Tassia's two-run shot off Joser Hal Woodensick was one of five home runs by the Giants at Topeka. Ed Bressoud hit his sixth and seventh of the spring while Danny O'Connell and Felipe Alou each counted once. Curt Barclay won it, after Minnie Mino's 10th-inning homer, his fourth hit, tied it for the Tribe.

The Red Sox socked four Cub pitchers for 15 hits, handing Joe Scheffernoth the loss in a five-run fifth. Ike Delock won it, finally coming around with a two-hit, one-run job in his six innings at Corpus Christi.

Detroit picked on Card ace Larry Jackson for five runs in three innings at Lakeland, Fla. Frank Lary won it, giving up one run in his five innings. Chuck Essegian of the Cards and Gail Harris of the Tigers swapped solo homers.

Rookie Norm Cash hit a two-run homer in the fifth that brought the White Sox from behind, then counted two runs with a triple in the ninth at Charlotte. The Sox swung for 13 hits off loser Camillo Pascual and three other Washington pitchers while Turk Lown won in relief of Early Wynn, who went seven.

Bonus kid Jim Maloney gave up three hits, three walks and struck out five in four innings for the Reds, who rapped their Sally farm club behind Vada Pinson's two homers at Palatka, Fla. Three pitchers for the Dodgers recently cut—Bob Gialombardo, Chet Nicolosi and Phil Paine—held Los Angeles to one hit and beat Johnny Klippstein with a two-run third at Vero Beach, Fla.

Tar Heels won Over Clemson For ACC Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Clemson Tigers, defending Atlantic Coast Conference baseball champions, saw their unbeaten string cut off yesterday at nine straight.

The Villians were the North Carolina Tar Heels and Tar Heel pitcher Ben Hemmett particularly. The Tar Heels defeated the Tigers 6-3.

Hemmett came on in the second inning to relieve Wayne Young, who had more than a touch of wildness. With two runs in and a runner on base, Hemmett retired the side. In fact, he retired the next seven men to face him.

He gave up two hits and one run in the 6-2-3 innings he worked, and got credit for the victory. Harold Stowe worked 6-2-3 innings for Clemson and was charged with the loss. He gave up five hits and four runs.

It was North Carolina's debut in Atlantic Coast Conference play and a crowd of 3,000 saw the game. Of Clemson's nine victories this season, four have been in conference games.

In other ACC action yesterday, North Carolina State and South Carolina split a twin bill. Gamecock pitcher Melvin Quick tossed a three-hit shutout in the second game to beat State 8-0. He was helped by five State errors.

State took the opener 3-2 with an unearned run in the eighth inning to break a tie. Both games were scheduled for seven innings.

South Carolina meets North Carolina today, and State moves to Clemson.

Another ACC team, Virginia, is host today to William and Mary of the Southern Conference.

West And ECC Netters Defeat ACC

Diamond Club Opens Conference Play

By JOHNNY HUDSON Reflector Sports Editor East Carolina's tennis team continued their torrid pace against North State opposition yesterday afternoon as they took an 8-1 decision over arch-rival, Atlantic Christian, on the ECC courts.

For the ECC netters, it was their seventh win of the season against one defeat and also their 21st consecutive conference victory over the last three years.

Fiery John West failed to slow down his attack toward the North State singles championship, won by teammate Maurice Everett last season, as he disposed of ACC's top man, Bobby Dunn, in two sets, 6-3, 6-2.

Bill Hollowell also continued his steady play at the number two spot by defeating Darwin Williams, 6-1, 6-1.

The Pirate strength was once again shown down the line as John Savage, Jim Daughtridge, and Joe Holloway came through with victories. The Bucs also took all the doubles.

Head For Virginia Coaches Ray Martinez and Maurice Everett take their club to Virginia this weekend for matches with William and Mary and Fort Huestus.

ECC knocked off what was expected to be their biggest challenge last week when they blasted Western Carolina, 7-0 and 6-1, in two matches held at Cullowhee.

The Cats boast Nick McCabe as their top ace. McCabe ranks along with West as the most likely successor to the singles crown. In their bitter matches at WCC this past weekend, West won the first in two sets, 6-2 and 6-2. McCabe came back the second day to win 5-7, 6-4, and 6-1.

The WCC ace defeated Everett in past years and his only defeat at the mountain college has been to Everett and West.

Rough Road Ahead The East Carolina baseball club, plagued with a case of early-season jitters, open their conference play this weekend with a trip to the western part of the state.

The Bucs take on the top contenders for the crown and Mallory terms the trip as "the one to make or break our team." Lenor Rhyme is expected to offer the Bucs some strong competition at Hickory. ECC meets the Bears in two games.

ECC, a club lacking experience, has made their share of errors in the first few games and consequently, have three defeats pinned on their record.

The Bucs have had several bright spots and the biggest has been the pitching. Larry Crayton and Johnny Ellen have been little less than sensational in their mound work. Ben Baker has been recovering from a leg injury and is expected to take his turn on the mound during the trip.

Another spot which has improved has been the hitting. The Bucs have made steady improvement in this department against some Grade A pitching. They should continue to hit their stride this weekend.

East Carolina battled UNC, the ACC leader, down to the line before losing 4-2 last week and earlier in the week had battled Delaware University to a 1-1 deadlock in 13 innings. Both games were marred by ECC errors and prevented the Bucs from wins in each tilt.

Mallory, a hard worker on fundamentals, was expected to iron out some of the clinks this week and ECC will make their trip with the eyes on some early victories in the North State loop.

Cinderella Lane Coach Bill McDonald and the ECC track team left for the U. of Richmond this morning where they will compete against the Spiders in a meet this afternoon.

The cindermen are also on the road this weekend as they meet Newport News Saturday.

Jessel Curry collected 19 points last weekend as East Carolina opened their track season by placing third in a triangular meet with Davidson and Wake Forest.

Don Conley continued to pace the golf team as the ECC linksters defeated Babson 16 1/2 - 1 1/2. Conley shot a 71 to become medalist for ECC. Buzz Helms shot a 79 for Babson.

Haney To Take Field In Crisis JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Manager Fred Haney said today he'll take over for Milwaukee Braves second baseman Red Schoendienst himself — but he'll do it from the bench.

"There isn't anyone in the game who could take over out there like Red," Haney said, "and we don't have anyone even approaching his abilities, so I am going to do what I can from the dugout."

Schoendienst, under treatment for tuberculosis, won't be able to play baseball this year, doctors say.

Haney has been using Felix Mantilla and Chuck Cotter to plug the gap and Milwaukee recently acquired infielder Johnny O'Brien from the Philadelphia Phillies for added bench strength.

"The way it looks right now you're going to see a lot of me out on the mound this summer," Haney said. "When a pitcher is in trouble or needs help I am going out there and leave instructions."

"I don't want any of my present infielders making decisions and I have elected myself to call the shots."

At present, Mantilla is Milwaukee's most logical choice to start at second base because Mel Roach will be sidelined until June or July with a bad left knee.

Patterson Bout To Be Held In Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A young New Jersey steel executive, making his debut as a fight promoter, returns here today to complete plans for a world's heavyweight championship fight May 1 between champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Brian London of England.

The first title bout ever held in Indiana will be staged in the State Fairgrounds Coliseum, which will have a seating capacity of about 13,500.

Cecil Rhodes Jr., Cranford, N.J., industrialist-promoter, announced Monday the fight had been switched from Las Vegas to Indianapolis to escape rumors of gamblers' backing.

Rhodes, a 34-year-old Harvard Law graduate, said there weren't any gamblers backing the Las Vegas, Nev., fight but added: "I don't want that kind of implication."

In Las Vegas, civic leaders said the real reason was because "resort operators refused to give the financial support requested by the fight promoter."

There was some question about a television contract for the fight, but Al Far of Indianapolis, co-promoter, said he believed Rhodes would have it worked out.

Rhodes said earlier he believed the National Broadcasting Co. and the Gillette Co., the sponsors, would agree to switch the telecast to Indianapolis. The telecast would be blacked out in a 75-mile radius from the fight scene.

However, Tom Gallery, sports director of NBC, said in New York that he had a signed contract for a Patterson-London title fight in Las Vegas and had not agreed to any change to Indianapolis.

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, minimized the television angle. "Regardless of what happens the fight will be held in Indianapolis," D'Amato said.

Patterson is scheduled to arrive here late next week and train in the Coliseum. London also is expected to arrive next week.

Jack Holliday Jr. and Harrison Eiteljork, Indianapolis businessmen, will underwrite a $75,000 guarantee to Rhodes.

Rhodes is guaranteeing Patterson $125,000 and London $75,000. He said his television contract with NBC calls for $225,000.

Giants Picked To Win Senior Loop

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—A devastating attack, a vastly improved pitching staff and a combination of speed and youth should enable the San Francisco Giants to dethrone the Milwaukee Braves as National League champions in 1959.

Milwaukee's chances of gaining a third straight pennant are endangered by the lack of a solid second baseman to replace the convalescing Red Schoendienst, a lingering doubt whether the ailing knees of Wes Covington and Billy Burton are completely mended, and an underlying feeling of complacency on the part of the two-time champions.

Pittsburgh's brash young Pirates, with their solid hitting, stronger pitching and tighter defense, should make it a three-way race right down to the barrier. A two-team struggle between Los Angeles and Cincinnati for the last remaining spot in the first division should further enliven what promises to be a most interesting National League campaign. St. Louis, Chicago and Philadelphia should battle it out for sixth place.

The expected finish: 1. San Francisco 2. Milwaukee 3. Pittsburgh 4. Los Angeles 5. Cincinnati 6. St. Louis 7. Chicago 8. Philadelphia

The acquisition of Sam Jones, the National League's strikeout king and second stingiest run-tyler last year, from St. Louis, and Jack Sanford, another strong-armed right-hander, from Philadelphia, figures to solve the Giants' pitching problem. These two, together with lefties Johnny Antonelli and Mike McCormick, plus second liners Stu Miller and Curt Barclay and relievers Al Worthington, Billy Muffett and Paul Giel, give promise of a 50 per cent stronger staff than last year.

The antelope outfield of Willie Mays, Jackie Brandt and Felipe Alou may be the best in the National League. Orlando Cepeda, the rookie-of-the-year of 1958, is back at first base and Jimmy Davenport, another of last year's outstanding rookies, should be even better at third base. Catching seems to be adequate in the hands of Bob Schmidt and Mobie Landrith. The lone question mark is around second base where the inexperienced Andre Rodgers should be a tough time emerging from the basement despite Robin Roberts, Richie Ashburn, Harry Anderson and Ed Bouchee. They need right-handed hitting and left-handed pitching.

The Braves' powerful pitching plus the home run bats of Henry Aaron, Eddie Mathews, Del Crandall, Joe Adcock and Covington, make them extremely dangerous. Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette, Bob Rush, Carl Willey, Joey Jay and Juan Pizarro give Milwaukee the best pitching in the league.

Pittsburgh has just about everything but explosive power. The trade that sent Frank Thomas to Cincinnati left the club with only one proven home run hitter—Dick Stuart. Bob Skinner, Bill Mazeroski, Dick Groat, Bill Virdon and Roberto Clement are fine hitters but the Pirates must have a rebounder who can hit around 30 home runs in order to finish on top. Bob Friend, Ronnie Kline, Vern Law and George (Red) Witt should give the Pirates the best

James Joyner, the big man for B-F, slashed a triple, scoring three runs and ending the game. Joyner's blow came with one man out and the bases loaded.

Joyner led off the bottom half of the seventh for the Eagles and got a single. Jerry Little was hit by a pitched ball and Calvin Britt got on by an error to load the bases. Joe Jenkins then slapped an infield line to score Dean with the rying run.

Belvoir Falkland Takes Ninth Win

FALKLAND — Belvoir - Falkland took win number none over a two year span by defeating Ayden, 9-6, here in their second game of the season.

The Eagles, unbeaten in seven games last year, were forced to rally in the seventh inning to preserve their win streak.

Cobby Dean went the distance for the winners and scattered three hits although wildness and eight errors kept him in trouble most of the game.

Ayden took a quick lead in the first inning when they scored a single tally but Belvoir-Falkland came back strong and a three-run uprising in the fifth inning pushed them out front, 5-4.

Ayden took advantage of two errors in the seventh and final frame to score two more runs after two men were out. This gave the victors a 5-4 lead.

Dean led off the bottom half of the seventh for the Eagles and got a single. Jerry Little was hit by a pitched ball and Calvin Britt got on by an error to load the bases. Joe Jenkins then slapped an infield line to score Dean with the rying run.

James Joyner, the big man for B-F, slashed a triple, scoring three runs and ending the game. Joyner's blow came with one man out and the bases loaded.

Red Sox Lack Pitching To Overtake Yanks

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — The Boston Red Sox last season had the American League's leading hitter, its second leading hitter and its RBI champion, who also turned out to be the most valuable player.

Trouble is, in the final standings, the Red Sox were listed as only the third best team.

The Sox this year have what could be a slightly more formidable organization. Manager Mike Higgins sees improvement.

"The pitching should be a little improved," Mike said. "For one thing, Tom Brewer had a slow start last year. Came to training with the mumps. He's coming along real good now. He's worth more than 12 games." (Brewer was 12-12 in 1958).

Higgins also hopes to get some help from at least one of the youngsters on his staff. He's had his eye on a couple of lefthanders, Frank Baumann and Ed Rogyski, and he wants a good look at Bill Monbouquette, a righthander who has been under six-month contract to the Army.

Older hands on the staff include Ike Delock (14-8), Frank Sullivan (13-9), Mike Fornieles (4-6) and Willard Nixon (1-7). Dave Sisler (6-9) and Herb Moford (4-9 with Detroit) and 6-0 with Charleston) may be used in relief with Leo Kiely (5-2) and Murray Wall (6-9).

The Red Sox were fifth in team hitting last year with a .256 average, but somehow they look stronger than that. First, of course there's Ted Williams, a 40-year-old outfielder who won the sixth batting title last year, hitting .323.

Williams, of course, is doubtful for the early weeks because of a neck ailment — for which he is under treatment in Boston.

Behind him Pete Runnels, a second baseman who hit .322. Then there's Jack Jensen, who hit .296, drove in 122 runs and won the most valuable player award.

At third base is Frank Malzone, who hit a solid .292 year before last and nudged it up to .295 last season.

Vic Wertz, a first baseman acquired from Cleveland, may well be the most important newcomer on the roster. Wertz missed most of the 1958 season because of a broken ankle. But in 11 previous years in the majors he drove in 928 runs, about 84 a year, which is not a bad average. The Sox have picked up another swift fellow named Jim Busby who hit .237 for Baltimore. They also have Marty Keough (.220) and Gene Stephens (.219). Bill Renna (.268) can pinch hit.

The shortstop probably will be Don Buddin (.237) or Pumpette Green (.253 with Minneapolis). Big Raywood Sullivan, disabled last season, joins Sammy White (.259) on the catching staff.

Child-Stealing Charge Dropped

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Child stealing charges have been dismissed against two men who claim they were offered $5,000 by the ex-wife of a steel executive to abduct the couple's three children and take them to Florida. Richard Moulton, San Jose, Calif., private detective, and Charles Lewis, Warm Springs, Calif., railroad conductor, were captured at a police roadblock March 30 with two sons of Richard Raese. A third youngster jumped into a swimming pool and avoided being taken from the home that Raese had rented at this desert resort. The district attorney Monday asked that the charges be dismissed because Raese has left the state with the children. Presumably he returned to Morgantown, W. Va., where he is executive vice president of Greer Steel Co. Without the father in court the state has no case, the district attorney said. Police said Raese's wife, Jane Kelly, is living in Florida.

Talmadge Bill Would Forbid Federal Judges Touching Any State Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal judges would be forbidden to touch any case involving a state-supported school under a bill introduced today by Sen. Herman Talmadge (D-Ga.). The junior Georgia senator, in a speech prepared for delivery on the floor of the Senate, accompanied the introduction of the bill with a scorching attack on the U. S. Supreme Court's 1954 decision that racial segregation in the public schools was unconstitutional. Talmadge criticized the court for citing "so-called modern authorities on sociology and psychology" in the decision and said two of the six principal authorities listed had Communist ties. He said, "I wish to point out and to emphasize as vigorously as I know how, that so long as that decision is allowed to stand this nation will never be free from the threat of judicial dictatorship and the Constitution and the rights of American people will forever be subject to the whims of the men who transiently occupy the Supreme Court bench." The Talmadge bill would add a new section to the United States code, as follows: "No justice, judge, or court of United States shall have jurisdiction to hear, determine, or review, or to issue any writ, process, order, rule, decree, or command with respect to, any case, controversy, or matter relating to the administration, by any state or any political or other subdivision of any state, of any public school, public educational institution, or public educational system operated by such state or subdivision." Talmadge said the 1954 decision "ignored 105 years of judicial precedent, and overruled at least 18 federal district and circuit court decisions and at least 80 state and territorial decisions." The desegregation ruling "cited as its only authority books and treatises on sociology and psychology written by men of questionable background and doubtful loyalty," Talmadge declared. He said two of the authorities, Theodore Brameld and E. Franklin Frazier, "have between them been members of or identified with 28 organizations declared to be Communist, Communist fronts or Communist-dominated by the attorney general of the United States or the Committee on Un-American Activities." A third authority cited by the Supreme Court, Talmadge said, "was at the time of the arguments before the court, on the payroll of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People as a so-called 'social-science expert,' a highly irregular procedure in view of the fact that the NAACP was the principal plaintiff." He identified this authority as K. B. Clark. Talmadge said 16 of the contributors to the book, "An American Dilemma," have lengthy records of pro-Communist activity in the files of the Un-American Activities Committee. He said the book by Swedish socialist Dr. Kar Gunnar Myrdal, was cited in its entirety by the Supreme Court as an authority. On page 13 of the book Myrdal declared that the U. S. Constitution is "impractical and ill-suited for modern conditions," Talmadge said. And Talmadge quoted Myrdal as openly avowing that "liberty must be forsaken for what he called 'social equality.'" Talmadge said, "since the behavioral sciences are very young, imprecise and changeable, their findings have an uncertain life expectancy and today's observations very likely will be cancelled by tomorrow's new theories." "I ask, therefore, Mr. President, is it right that our fundamental constitutional rights should be conditioned upon the latest psychological literature or scientific theory?"

Japan In Grip Of Wedding Fever

TOKYO (AP)—Wedding fever gripped the Japanese capital today. At 10 a. m. a young man wearing bathing trunks, lensless horn-rimmed glasses, a placard, and Chinese characters covering his chest and back stepped from a taxi in front of the Imperial Palace and calmly dived into the most round it. Samurai features stern and dignified, and Miss Shoda, a wistful half-smile on her lips. Thousands from outlying districts already are swarming into teeming Tokyo to celebrate with song and drink. Hotel space is practically nonexistent. Television sets are unobtainable at any price. Wedding presents for the imperial couple are piling up in custom sheds, embassy storerooms and imperial household cellars. Thousands of young girls and their boy friends are preparing to tie the knot in Shinto shrines and wedding halls at approximately the same moment on April 10 that Michiko and Akihito become man and wife. Train reservations for honeymoon trips to scenic country spots have been sold out. Householders living along the five-mile wedding procession are selling space to viewers. Refreshment vendors anticipate a landslide business at exorbitant prices. Department stores are cashing in on the Michiko boom. Models of a young couple wearing tennis outfits—the pair met on the tennis court—or in bridal costumes fill display windows and counters. White-red and blue bunting in strings across the roads. Gay lanterns have been placed over the street light. Cherry blossoms—around the great Imperial Palace grounds, in shrines, in backyard gardens, all along the streets—bring spring glory to the dingy city. Countless windows display photographs of the crown prince, his

Mountain Road Challenge Today

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP)—Mountain highways which wind through passes more than 11,000 feet above sea level challenged the 47 autos in the 1959 Mobilgas economy run today. The new cars and their drivers left here this morning, bound for Denver, 250 miles away. Today's run easily is the most difficult of the 1,898.4-mile journey from Los Angeles to Kansas City. The itinerary is arranged to provide a variety of driving conditions. Winners will be designated in each of six classes on a mile-per-gallon formula. Each was required to make starts from a dead stop, attain a speed of 60 m. p. h., and stop again four times before resuming the assigned run.

It All Depended On Who Saw It

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A glowing, soundless bright object trailing a green tail streaked eastward over central California Monday night. Most reports agreed it probably was a meteor which broke up toward the end of its flight. All observers reported it at 8:45 p. m., but from there the variations began, depending on who saw it, and where. Some points, such as Eureka, Calif., and Reno, Nev., said it was traveling southeast. Most, however, ranging from Redmond, Ore. to Modesto, Calif., described an eastward course. Both Mather Air Force Base near Sacramento and Moffett Naval Air Station near Sunnyvale more than 100 miles to the southwest reported it burst directly overhead.

Summerfield Urged Seek GOP Nat'l Chairmanship

WASHINGTON (AP)—Conservative Republicans were reported urging Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield today to seek the GOP national chairmanship. The party's National Committee, meeting here Friday and Saturday, will name a successor to Meade Aicorn, who is resigning to return to his private law practice. The committee also may vote to hold the GOP presidential nominating convention in Chicago in the week beginning July 25, 1960. A site subcommittee, headed by State Chairman Ray Bliss of Ohio meets here Wednesday. It is understood to have such a recommendation in mind. Summerfield's name was injected into speculation over the chairmanship after it had appeared that Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky might have no active opposition for the post. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania, chairmen of the GOP campaign committees of the two houses of Congress, have objected publicly that Morton could devote only part time to the committee chairmanship because of his senatorial duties. They were understood, however, to be among those who would find Summerfield acceptable for the post, despite his Cabinet chores. The postmaster general was not immediately available for comment on whether he would agree to accept. He held the job for six months in 1952 and quit when he entered the Cabinet. Summerfield has maintained close relations with the party's conservatives although he left the staff wing to throw vital support to President Eisenhower in 1952. Eisenhower has been described as opposed in the past to a dual political and official role for a Cabinet member, although the Democrats made something of a custom of this procedure when they were in power. Aicorn is scheduled to name a committee—possibly later today—to confer with Eisenhower in Augusta, Ga., about the chairmanship. The National Committee is not likely to go against presidential wishes in filling the post. There were reports that if a part-time chairman is named, Bliss may be asked to head the party's executive committee. In this job he would be expected to take an active part in rebuilding the national organization for the 1960 campaign. The national chairman ordinarily holds both jobs, but the responsibility might be split to meet the objection of Goldwater and Simpson. Simpson said Monday he himself could not accept the national chairmanship if it were offered because he would not resign his seat in Congress. There has been no suggestion that Morton would quit the Senate to take the party chairmanship. There is, however, a precedent for the division of responsibilities. It was set in 1946 when Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee was national chairman and Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio was chairman of the executive committee.

Takes Steps To Insure Her Find

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Trudy Wesson had the extraordinary luck of finding a crisp $1,000 bill, and she is taking extraordinary pains to make it legal. Mrs. Wesson, a domestic worker, told an attorney she used to work for, that she found the bill in a rubbish box. Law enforcement agencies were checked. None had any reports of a lost $1,000 bill. The lawyer consulted his law books and found an 1872 statute that seemed to fit the case. Under that law, he filed an affidavit, subsequently signed by a municipal court judge. The law says Mrs. Wesson's claim to the money will carry more validity than the actual owner's unless the owner claims the bill within a year.

Wally Cox, A Western Expert On Wagon Train

By CHARLES MERCER NEW YORK (AP)—Wally Cox, who appears altogether too infrequently on television these days, was talking about the role he plays in a "Wagon Train" episode April 15. "No matter what you expect," he said, "I don't play a greenhorn. True, I'm a college graduate who plans to teach in San Francisco when the wagon train gets there some day. But I know a lot of Indian languages, I'm very savvy about Indians. The DEADLY LADY of MADAGASCAR BY G.V. TERRY

CHAPTER 36

"You haven't changed, Richard," Bonnie said to me. "Your real home is Scotland, and it's half a world away. I've yet to discover mine."

member, she ran but small risk. Once you were well again, she knew you'd follow her."

"If you like, Mozo will sail you up the Clyde and stand by until you've made yourself a laird. Or he'll set a course for Paradise. With a head start, Bonnie will soon be established there."

"What are you trying to say, Tom?"

"Only this, my price of numbskulls. When your girl set out for Oceania, she was only testing you. You passed your other tests with high marks. Why are you falling this one?"

"I had gone to the veranda rail to look across the water at the dhow, already beginning to tug at her anchor as the afternoon breeze freshened. As complete understanding of Bonnie — and Bonnie's last stratagem — burst like a rocket in my brain, I turned to Tom Hoyt with a great shout of happiness."

"Are we already expecting an heir?"

"Beyond a doubt, Dick. I told your wife as much before she departed."

"Why not tell me too?"

"Because she swore me to secrecy. She wanted no weapon to hold over you. Unless you followed her freely, she'd planned to raise your son alone."

I have told my story — and I trust, my reasons for leaving what one calls civilization, for want of a better word, to venture into the unknown."

Red Carter's sanctum is in order. I leave this stack of manuscript in plain view — together with a letter to the representative of the East India Company who calls here. The letter (written in the Company code) tells him of the hiding place of the treasure in the castle: it repeats the reasons why I am surrendering it."

I fear my story has no moral — save the obvious one that love conquers all, since it is stronger than hate. Someday Bonnie and I may pay civilization a visit, to see how it has fared in our absence. Meanwhile, I trust, we will both do well enough."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The American Printing House for the Blind announced Monday it will publish the first Braille encyclopedia.

Publication of 250 seats of 156 volumes each will be made with a $115,500 gift from the Field Foundation of New York and Field-Enterprise Educational Corp., Chicago.

Unionists Working For The Unions Hurt By Recession

By A. F. MAHAN JR.

DETROIT (AP)—Unionists who work for unions get hurt in recessions, just as unionists who work for industry do — in the pocket-book.

Take the huge United Auto Workers Union, for example. It has had two of what industry terms economic cutbacks in the last year.

The UAW has laid off 175 staff workers paid by international headquarters and its officers and executive board members were asked voluntarily to take a five per cent salary cut. They had given up 10 per cent for 18 weeks last year, but that was restored.

The staff cutback among 89,000 and-down employees amounts to roughly 20 per cent of the international's work force. Officer salaries are scaled downward from President Walter P. Reuther's $22,000 to $12,500 for executive board members.

The UAW had an average monthly dues-paying membership of 1,026,050 in 1958, down 289,411 from the 1957 average of 1,315,461. Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey reported the UAW operated $2,373,298 in the red in 1958.

The dues-paying drop amounts to $434,116 a month at the international level. The international gets $1.50 of the union's basic minimum dues of $3 a month. However, 40 cents is earmarked for specific uses such as strike benefits.

Using the 1958 dues-paying membership average, the international's income was $1,539,073 a month or $18,468,876 for the year, including earmarked funds.

Staffers laid off by the UAW could collect severance pay amount depending upon length of service. Employees contribute 5 per cent and the union 11 per cent to a pension-severance fund. If laid off, employees can draw down their own, plus the union's contribution, or leave it for a pension to be claimed at 65.

The UAW doesn't represent just auto workers. Its full title is: International Union, United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers of America.

And 1958 was a rough year for all but the agricultural implement industry. There were strikes and heavy layoffs in autos and airplanes, and some strikes in farm equipment. These cut two ways into UAW receipts. Strikers pay no dues and siphon strike-support funds. Those laid off pay no dues. A rule is you must work 40 hours a month to be liable for dues.

U.S. auto sales had peaked at 22 million dollars in 1958 to

Rotarians Vote Funds For Camp

Greenville Rotarians last night voted to forego their annual ladies night party this year and contribute funds normally spent for the party to Camp Hardee, local Girl Scout Camp, for capital improvements.

Action by the Rotary Club came after Rotarians heard the needs for capital improvements at the summer camp site. The club will contribute $475 to the camp.

Members of the East Carolina College championship swimming team and their coach, Ray Martinez, were guests of the club and presented the program at last night's meeting.

The team recently returned from Indiana where they won the NAAIA championship meet. Commenting on the national championship meet, Coach Martinez said, "We were quite lucky to win it, but it was not all luck." He praised the performance of members of the team during the meet and their willingness to sacrifice personal victories to enable East Carolina to win the team championship.

Coach Martinez showed his audience a series of pictures made during the team's trip to Florida during the past season where they met the swimming teams of the University of Florida and Florida State.

Introduces Measure To Regulate Explosives

RALEIGH (AP) — Recent dynamite inspections in connection with Henderson's textile strike pointed out the need for a legislative bill to regulate the possession of explosives.

This was asserted by Rep. A. A. Zollcoffer Jr. of Vance Monday night after he introduced such a measure. It would require persons to apply to the clerk of Superior Court of their county for permits to possess explosives.

Zollcoffer said he understood that under the present law the possession of dynamite is not a crime.

A person who applied for a permit would have to explain why he wanted it. Violation of the law would be a misdemeanor punishable by up to two years in prison.

Zollcoffer's bill was the highlight of a 30-minute session following which the legislators attended a preview of an art exhibition at the State Art Museum. The memorial exhibition of paintings and sculpture is being held as a tribute to the late Dr. William R. Valentiner, first director of the museum.

Gov. and Mrs. Hodges, state officials and figures of the art world also attended the exhibition. Sen. James G. Sikeleather Jr. of Buncombe introduced legislation to make a number of changes in fire safety inspection laws for North Carolina's schools.

SBI Checking Possibility Stolen Dynamite In Use

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — The State Bureau of Investigation is checking the possibility that stolen dynamite has been the source of explosions in this strike-torn industrial city.

SBI Director Walter Anderson said Monday 4 1/2 cases of dynamite—720 sticks—were stolen in February from a highway construction project near here.

A bill to regulate the possession of explosives was introduced in the House Monday night by Rep. A. A. Zollcoffer Jr. of Vance. Police reported calm this morning as workers returned to the two plants of the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills, where the strike has been in progress since mid-November.

Service Station Entered, Robbed

A cruising police discovered a break-in early this morning at the Ena Service Station on the corner of Charles and 14th St.

Investigation shows that the robbers gained entrance to the building by breaking the glass in the front door.

The operator of the station said $5 in change and a $1 bill was missing. Also missing were cigarettes and chewing gum.
