Final House Decision On Minimum Wage Bill Put Off Until Next Tuesday

RALEIGH (AP)—The House today postponed until next Tuesday a final decision on a 75 cents hourly minimum wage bill.

Rep. John Kerr Jr. of Warren, made the successful motion for delaying action on the measure, which passed the House yesterday on a roll call vote of 62 to 48.

Some supporters joined with House members who opposed the bill yesterday in the voice vote to put off third reading until next week.

Alice Anne Horne Chosen Miss Greenville At Beauty Pageant

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor. Alice Anne Horne, one of East Carolina College's top actresses during her four years here, last night was named Miss Greenville of 1960.

Pretty Alice, who did a stirring dramatic reading from "Macbeth" as her talent, was crowned by last year's Miss Greenville, Betty Lane Evans, a gal who went on to do right well.

FINALISTS IN PAGEANT . . . Second runner-up Hannah England; Miss Greenville, Alice Horne; first runner-up, Jane Carter.

City Councilmen Vote Accept 10 Per Cent Of ABC Profits As Offered

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Staff Writer. Greenville's City Council, short a member and split in its voting, last night failed to approve proposed legislative action calling for Pitt County's municipalities to receive a larger share of net profits from legal sales of whiskey in the county.

The proposal, presented by Mayor S. Eugene West, would have asked the General Assembly to allocate 25 per cent of ABC systems profits to the county's cities and towns. It failed to pass, on a 2-2 vote, when councilmen J. A. Collins, Sr., and W. L. Whedbee voted against it and Mayor West and Councilman Lester Turnage voted for it.

Councilmen Wesley Harvey, fifth member of the group, was not present at the meeting. He has been in Charlotte this week, attending hearings of the Civil Service Commission and participating in presentation of a request for commercial air service in the Greenville area.

West told him, "They said eight cents. One cent in county taxes raises about $6,000." Whedbee then asked, "Could they pay us 10 per cent without raising the tax rate?" and was told by West, "They say they can."

Pitt Fat Stock Show And Sale Plans Mapped At Meet Here

At a meeting last night of the Pitt County Fat Stock Show and Sale, farmers were encouraged to exhibit their livestock in the show April 22-23.

The show and sale, according to Chairman J. H. Mobley of Winterville, is a good place to purchase high quality beef because the high dressing percentage makes prices lower.

Commerce, and the Pitt County Board of Commissioners. One of the prime reasons for having the show and sale is to encourage boys to raise cattle. Mobley said boys who grow livestock have more love for the farm and usually remain there.

Others on this committee are W. T. Kizer and W. C. Eagles. Selling the remainder of the stock will be left to a committee headed by W. C. Eagles, with James Smith and all Vocational Agriculture teachers as members.

Arthur Alford Guest Speaker

Arthur Alford, supervisor of Elementary Education in Pitt County, was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Sappho Book Club, which was held at the home of Mrs. Grady Nichols Tuesday.

Alford discussed the changing trends in Elementary Education. Until now all class rooms were geared to meet the needs of the average child and now the need of the gifted as well as the average and below average are being recognized.

A luncheon was served to the 18 members, and two visitors present by the hostess, Mrs. Dewey Page and Mrs. Grady Nichols.

Mrs. Beard Club Hostess

Mrs. N. E. Beard entertained the Chatham Book Club Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Beard served her guests and club members a salad plate with coffee. She was assisted by Mrs. E. R. Conway and Mrs. W. D. Tucker.

Mrs. M. P. Hoot gave a talk, using color slides, on "The Ware Collection." This collection of glass flower models is in the Harvard University Botanical Museum.

Mrs. Beard had as her special guests Mrs. M. P. Hoot, Miss Ruth Faison and Miss Janet Livingstone. After a short business session books were exchanged and the club was adjourned.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN

The dogwood is one tree that gives pleasure to the gardener spring, autumn and winter. Only in the summer when it takes on a tired appearance does it seem commonplace. With its white blossoms in the fall, and red berries and button-shaped buds in the winter, it comes close to being our number one ornamental. Its shelf-like limbs make it an interesting study in tree anatomy during winter and early spring.

They move fairly easy, although collected trees from the wild have a higher mortality rate than nursery grown trees. They grow naturally in a well drained acid soil. So whether you take them from the woods or buy them at a nursery, put them in this type of soil. They make fine specimens when planted in the lawn area. If planted as such, give them protection from mowing equipment and hand tools. They are at home in naturalistic plantings under taller growing trees. Grouped in a border of other shrubs and trees they make an impressive sight.

Like all other living things they have their troubles. Here are a few and some suggested controls. As most of their troubles seem to happen to newly-planted trees, steps should be taken to protect them against faulty planting and cuts and bruises during planting.

Wrap trunk with burlap or Kraft crepe paper. Leave this on until tree is well established or it rots and falls off. Then do the following to protect the tree against borers: spray trunk and large limbs with one of the following insecticides and at times specified.

Use either D.D.T. 25% E. C.—3 teaspoons to 1 gallon of water or Dieldrin 15% E. C.—3 teaspoons to 1 gallon of water.

Start about April 15th and continue until August 15th. Keep all dead twigs and diseased limbs pruned out and burn them. On established trees avoid cutting trunk during mowing operation.

Leaf and Flower Spot—Circular purple spots with gray centers that drop out leaving tiny holes in leaves, indicated this disease. Flower bracts show oval spot with yellowish spots and purple reddish margins. Berries show purple and reddish spots. Twigs have elongated, scabby areas with reddish purple margins.

Use one of the following at times indicated:

Orthoide (Captan JOW) — 3 teaspoons to 1 gallon of water; Maneb (Manzate)—2½ teaspoons to 1 gallon of water.

(1) Start spray in March when flower bud begins to open.

(2) When bracts (white parts around flower) fall.

(3) 4 weeks after second spray.

(4) Late summer when next year's flower buds are formed.

Treat all insecticides and fungicides with caution. Keep out of the reach of children. Follow printed instruction on containers.

Alumnae To Attend Meet

Pitt County Duke Alumnae will have a luncheon meeting Friday, April 17, at one o'clock.

Miss Anne Garrard, member of the Duke alumni affairs department, will speak to the group when it meets at the Greenville County Club.

Can You Save With A Freezer?

HOW TO REMEDY CARPET TRAFFIC PATHS

Constant neglect of your fine carpet is bound to give them an "unloved" look, beaten down paths and spots of soil.

This is so easily remedied by a gentle but thorough cleaning with Blue Lustre. With a bit of regular care the happy housewife may put her best foot forward on beautifully clean carpet and be ever ready for guests. Apply Blue Lustre with long handle brush or any make applicator.

RALEIGH—What can you save with a freezer?
 "Time, food, food quality, disposition, and money," answers Miss Rita Orr.

As frozen foods specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, Miss Orr says you will "eat better too."

The immediate savings with your freezer will not buy a fur coat; money-saving is a long-time program with a freezer.

You invest in good health when you buy a freezer. This saves money.

With a freezer, better meal planning is possible. Many people have been able to save by planning their food purchases instead of impulse and haphazard buying.

Think of your frozen food as the checking account—not a savings account. This idea will pay you both in terms of money and food quality, adds Miss Orr.

Battle Avoided, To Benefit Of All

One legislative battle which would have been detrimental to higher education in North Carolina has been successfully avoided by the agreed settlement of differences between the state's Board of Higher Education and the trustees of the University of North Carolina.

According to the agreement between these two groups, a bill reducing the powers of the Board of Higher Education has sailed to approval through the House Committee on Higher Education. It seems certain to clear the remainder of the legislative hurdles without so much as causing a ripple in the General Assembly.

The bill will lessen the policy making functions of the Board of Higher Education and will also reduce its budget-making power. It will leave the Board of Higher Education on the outside so far as the "internal affairs" of state-supported colleges and universities are concerned.

It is fortunate for North Carolina's institutions of higher learning that a full-scale legislative scrap over this matter was avoided. Had there not been agreement on the matter between representatives of the board and the trustees of the University some months ago, the present bill could have caused much confusion which probably would have retarded the progress of higher education in the state.

Although its powers will be reduced following the passage of the bill, the Board of Higher Education will still be able to perform an important function in coordinating the activities of the state's institutions of higher learning. It will not be rendered a rubber-stamp board for college trustees. Conversely trustees of state-supported colleges will not have to fear that their functions will be taken over by the Board of Higher Education.

Amicable settlement of the differences which existed between the Board of Higher Education and trustees of the state's colleges will enable the groups to work together more closely for the promotion of the state's institutions of higher learning. With the more clearly defined areas of authority for the Board of Higher Education and individual boards of trustees, each will be able to better carry out its function in behalf of higher education in North Carolina.

The Unregistered Can Not Cast Their Vote

If you aren't registered, you can't vote. That statement has been heard many times by many people. And always on election day, in spite of warnings, some people go to the polls only to find they are not properly registered and therefore are not eligible to cast a ballot.

Registration books for Greenville's forthcoming city election open Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the city's main fire station and at the courthouse. The books will be open for registration at each of the places on the next three Saturdays.

For Greenville residents who live in Wards 1 and 2 (north of Fifth Street) the proper place to register is at the courthouse. For residents of Wards 3, 4, and 5 (south of Fifth Street), the registration place is the main fire station.

Eligible voters who already are registered on the city's books need not register anew for the city election to be held May 5. But those who have not previously registered for a municipal election here will have to get their names on the books in order to vote in the election. Also those who have moved their place of residence from one ward to another in the city since the last municipal election should check to see that they are properly registered for the May 5 election.

Remember, if you aren't registered, you can't vote. And the registration books open Saturday.

Over Year Away, But The Game Intrigues

Although Democratic and Republican national conventions are still more than a year away, there is a growing tendency among rank and file citizens to speculate on the shifting political winds in both parties.

For instance, who was former president Truman talking about the other day when he said the Democrats would nominate a candidate who "will not divide the country by race, religion or foreign policy?"

Did he have a specific candidate in mind, or was he merely outlining the qualifications he would like to see in the party's next standard bearer?

Did the reference to religion suggest that young Sen. John Kennedy, a Catholic, might not fill the party's need in the opinion of the former chief executive?

Did the reference to race suggest that Mr. Truman doesn't think much of Senate Majority Leader Johnson whose home is Texas?

And what about the foreign policy... could that indicate that Mr. Truman leans toward two-time loser Adlai Stevenson who has spent a large part of the past eight years devoting his attention to foreign affairs of this nation?

Hardly a statement is made that political observers do not try to interpret in terms of specific potential candidates for the major party nominations. And there will be many such statements and many more different interpretations of them before the campaigns for the nomination really get underway next year.

In the meantime political breezes on the national scene continue to stir the interest in prospective Democratic and Republican nominees for 1960.

Time Is Forcing Out Old Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Time, like a cop handing out traffic tickets, taps each man in turn for over-parking. One by one the aging men who have led the world these past 14 postwar years are being forced to make way for others.

Because they move off the main street of activity only one at a time, the change may hardly be noticed.

Latest to go, under the burden of years and responsibility, is 83-year-old Konrad Adenauer, chancellor of West Germany. He decided this week to run for the less tiring and less important job of president.

As his influence diminishes — he tried to say Wednesday nothing will change — the attitude of West Germany toward East and West may undergo subtle shifts which the West, for sure, will watch carefully and with concern.

Only a few months ago John Foster Dulles at 71 was stricken a second time with cancer and may never return as secretary for, even though he was fairly rigid, he operated with determination.

President Eisenhower, 68, has less than two years left in the White House. Then he, too, must fade into the background. Even if he wanted it, and there is no sign he does, the Constitution forbids a third term.

It's about as certain as anything can be that the man who succeeds him in 1961 — Democrat or Republican — will be years younger and with ideas that cannot possibly be identical with Eisenhower's.

Sir Winston Churchill, now 84, for all practical purposes ended his career of leadership four years ago when, because of age and tiredness, he quit as British prime minister.

Joseph Stalin died six years ago at 73. Soviet communism took a new direction, a shrewd one, after his death. But that bubbling, bouncing ball of energy, Premier Nikita Khrushchev, was reported this week to have suffered a dizzy spell and to have been warned by his doctors to slow up. He is 65.

The world won't know whether to sigh with relief or shudder with misgivings if he steps aside, for no one can predict what violent turn Soviet communism may take then.

Then there's the remarkable president of the Republic of Korea, Syngman Rhee, who spent half a century fighting for Korean independence and is still fiery. But he is 84.

What happens in his republic, now linked to the United States, is under pressure from Red China and Red Korea, when Rhee has moved offshore?

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is 71, a firm ally of this country. For that matter, he had better be a firm ally. Alone against Red China he would lose his skin. But with his death the Red Chinese will increase the pressure to induce his Nationalists on Formosa to join them.

In India, which is trying to go its own way, Prime Minister Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru still runs the show at 69, seems in good health, still probably stands on his head in the morning to relax.

He has been the guiding force of India, a foe of communism at home where the Communists have made some progress despite him. What the attitude of Indians toward communism will be when he wears out seems unpredictable.

There are no new reported signs that Yugoslavia's strong man, Marshal Tito, is thinking of an easier life in retirement although he is almost 67. He has broken with the Soviet Union but he has enemies at home.

France's Charles de Gaulle is 68. No sign of fatigue in him, yet. He saved his country from chaos when he took over. There is no assurance there won't be chaos when he goes.

In That Far-Away Land

We got this story from his mother.

Over on the other side of the world, in the land of Cherry Blossoms... the land of the big Royal Wedding... the land of Fujiyama, the Giza, U.S. naval and air bases

There lives a nephew - we've never seen, attending his first year of school.

He came home on one occasion all excited about hearing the story of the Garden of Eden. It was something his parents should know about, so he proceeded therewith.

Working his way through the episode of the apple, he paused for the right words to rightly convey the shocking penalty at hand. He found them:

"And God said, 'Get those monsters out of there'."

Which fit the situation to a "T."

Over the many months my brother and his family have been in Japan the letters paint a picture of a people quite different from what can only be termed "popular conceptions."

Deep qualities of gentleness and love for beauty prevail. Their show of affection for children makes sister-in-law Joan wonder why they aren't all spoiled.

She writes that wherever they go, cameras are in constant use... the greatest camera fans in the world.

The family will spend one more year in Japan and then the Naval Member of the Family retires. Jim is three years younger than I, but he has his retirement plans already blocked out. They include a return to college and life on the West Coast.

The Armed Forces' biggest single asset in enlisting career men is to me underscored in the foregoing paragraph.

From somewhere, yesterday's breezes picked up a big piece of brown paper and blew it along a street in Greenville's business section.

A passerby saw it, walked over and picked it up. He rolled up the paper and tucked it under an arm. At the first trash receptacle he encountered the paper was deposited.

As stories go, this isn't especially remarkable; other than pointing to the obvious wish that everybody was as interested in keeping our city clean, it has no point.

My own pet horror is the sight of broken glass. It abounds.

Other than posing a hazard to bare feet and maybe automobile tires, there's something about broken glass I associate with an atmosphere of community deterioration and decay.

One of the skeletons in my closet is a childhood thrill in the sound of breaking bottles and jugs.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS FASCINATION

The word "fascination" comes from a Latin word which means "a spell." It smacks of what people in olden days called witchcraft. The fascinated person is so completely taken up and taken in by a certain appeal that he can be said to be under a spell.

There is a fascination about evil which the wise have always noted. If the first time we came upon evil we saw it in all its grossness, we should probably turn away in disgust. But what we see is something which fairly bewitches us. It seems that here is the most desirable thing in the world. Thus do the most devastating evils of life clothe themselves in vestments of beauty and appeal. Those who are weak in the flesh look on liquor and opportunities for sensual indulgence, and believe that they see in these life's most desirable gifts.

Those tempted by covetousness and dishonesty look on money and possessions and their minds are precipitated into turmoil as they think of the satisfaction they would have from possessing money and other worldly goods. Position fascinates other people. Some love power so much that they will sell their souls to get it and to be given a free hand to wield it.

When such temptations beckon us, let us beware of falling under powers greater than any which we ourselves possess. We are in danger of being fascinated — put under a spell, rendered helpless.

Fascination.

Other Editors Saying... One Duplin Family

(Goldboro News-Argus)

It isn't like the first reports said. But it is almost unbelievable. A picture in the Kenansville "Duplin Times" showed a Beulaville mother registering a child for school. The caption said that the child was one of 16 born to the parents. But here is what stopped us. The caption said that all the children had been delivered by the father.

The mother is 45. The father is 50. They have been married 27 years. All 16 of the children were single births, not a multiple birth in the lot. The oldest is 26. The youngest was born last Christmas Day. Ten of the children are living at home on the four acre farm near the Duplin town.

Small are on their own. One child died at 2 1/2-months. One child was fatally injured in an accident at the age of 15 months.

The News-Argus sent Mike Rouse to find the couple and get their story. They seem good people.

But the father did not deliver all the children. He says he doesn't remember how many he did deliver, at least 3 or 4.

As Mike talked to the parents, the youngest, age three months, cried in an adjoining room. The father picked up the little mite, sang to her and comforted her.

In the story of this Duplin family we have capsuled most of the problems the legislators are wrestling with now in Raleigh. Schools, welfare, taxes, budgets, per capita income needs, all are here in one family.

There will be many who, reading this account, will insist that such families should have the benefit of birth control information. When we were younger and more certain in what we knew and what we believed, we would have insisted with heated conviction that birth control was not only wise but obligatory for such families.

The years have changed us. We now question the wisdom of birth control unless for the protection of the life and health of the mother. We have watched over the years families where the wholesale quantity of children seemed to present an insurmountable problem as to enough food, clothing, education. And we have seen such families develop into stalwart, sturdy, honest, upright, worthy citizens, the children that is.

How the children turned out seems to depend more on the moral fiber of the parents, the foundation of principle and worth they give their children, than upon plenty in the way of this world's goods.

It's chilly comfort to tell a man out of a job that unemployment is many things. It just means one thing to him and you're likely to get a poke in the snout.

Nevertheless, it is many things. At peaks of unemployment, many jobs go begging. When unemployment sinks to lows, many people are unable to find work.

The totals of employment and unemployment are deeply significant.

The rise in the number of jobs in March, reported this week, does reflect an encouraging rise in the economy. Part of it is seasonal, of course. But part seems to be basic expansion of trade and industry. And both parts mean more spending for consumer goods.

FAMINE IN THE MIDST OF PLENTY

The factors in the totals are sometimes curious. In fact, the total of those unemployed may sometimes be misleading.

For example, there is heavy employment in many of the skilled trades at the moment. On the other hand, there is a painful shortage of secretaries and top-grade stenographers in many metropolitan areas. In some, even passable typists are hard to find.

But it's difficult to turn an unemployed boilermaker into a secretary.

The basic reason for this, of course, is the constant increase in specialization.

The recent annual convention of the Institute of Radio Engineers in New York turned into a body-snatching affair, with employing corporations grabbing off every electronic engineer who wasn't nailed down with a contract. Many corporations maintained suites at major hotels where they lured engineers with higher pay, California sunshine or company swimming pools.

New York newspapers carried

Yet at the same time professional societies reported a surplus of other kinds of engineers. PLENTY IN THE MIDST OF FAMINE

In unemployment, February was one of the worst months since the war. Yet the B. K. Davis & Brothers agency of Philadelphia reports newspaper help-wanted advertisements were 27 per cent more numerous than in February, 1958. In Los Angeles, they were 69 per cent above the previous year, and better than average gains were shown in San Francisco, Atlanta, Kansas City, Chicago, Baltimore and Washington.

In all those centers, unemployment was high.

Even in Detroit, one of the cities worst beset by unemployment, there was a gain of 17 per cent.

There's considerable unemployment in New York at present, but financial houses are having

Swing King Today

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "The country has grown up musically," said the King.

The King — "King of Swing" — is Benny Goodman, the first man in history to blow a million dollars out of a "licorice stick."

The great clarinetist, who will be 50 next month, is celebrating his silver jubilee as a band leader this year. He will kick it off tonight in a hour-long "Swing into Spring" program over the CBS-TV network.

Looking back over a crowded quarter of a century, Goodman mused during a rehearsal break.

"Musical taste hasn't changed so much as you might think," he said. "Classical music is bigger than it ever was. Jazz — or swing — is too. Mood music is bigger than ever."

"The variety and quality of music is simply unbelievable. And it is going to get even bigger."

Benny himself was one of the greatest factors in taking jazz out of the gin mill and into the concert hall and worldwide acceptance as a musical art form. He took a naked jungle rhythm and put it into a dress suit. He was the first to bring it to a classic precision. He civilized it.

He came up the old-fashioned way — the hard slow climb. Benny was eighth in a family of 11 children. His father was an immigrant tailor. At 9 he started playing with two brothers on instruments borrowed from a Chicago synagogue. His bigger brother got the tuba. Another older brother got the trumpet.

"The only thing left for me was the clarinet," he recalled. "If I had been 30 pounds heavier and two inches taller, perhaps I'd be playing a tuba or trumpet today."

At 10 Benny made his first public appearance, an imitation of Ted Lewis playing "When My Baby Smiles at Me."

For years he traveled the country playing with many bands maturing his own style. It was a footloose time. Meals were sometimes hard to come by. Benny remembers fleeing milk bottles from Manhattan doorsteps with the late Glenn Miller.

But somewhere along the way the boy with the promising talent turned into a man of authentic genius, a man with an almost terrifying dedication to his music.

He started his own band in 1934. The formidable look he turned on musicians who showed up late or blew a sour note led him to be known as "The Eye," or "The Ray."

In a year he and his band were on top. In 1938 his concert in Carnegie Hall became a landmark in the history of jazz.

Over the years his band grossed between 15 and 20 million dollars. There are between 1,500 and 2,000 Goodman recordings — "I don't have them all myself," he says — and some 50 million discs featuring him or bands or combos have been sold.

Behind his success is a single-minded drive to do something different and to do it perfectly.

"A man has to know what he wants to do and then try to become classic at it," said Benny.

"The public used to think of musicians as irresponsible and music as a precarious field.

"But music isn't so precarious. Look at some of the people who have lasted in it — Ella Fitzgerald, Peggy Lee, Lionel Hampton, Guy Lombardo, Harry James, Gene Krupa. And it's easy to name a lot more."

Of the thousands of musicians he has known, he thinks perhaps the greatest was the legendary trumpet player, Bix Beiderbecke, who died in 1931 at the age of 28.

"He gave me the greatest kick," said Benny. "I got more feeling from what he did than from any other player."

Like most pros, Goodman does not have a favorite tune. But here are his nominations for the five greatest jazz numbers:

"Honeysuckle Rose," "The One O'clock Jump," "Take the 'A' Train," "Stomping at the Savoy," and "King Porter's Stomp."

Possibility Of New Precedents

By LYNN NISBET

PRECEDENT — House Judiciary and Proprietary & Grievance committees considered two "little bills" the other day which on their faces seemed very important. The eagle-eyed lawyers caught implications which they feared might later be pleaded as precedent and give a lot of trouble.

One bill introduced by Rep. Sidney Britt of Bladen would not permit any county ABC board to purchase brands of liquor which had been advertised in a newspaper published in the county. When it was called to his attention that many newspapers published in "dry counties had wide circulation in ABC territory, he said he meant the ban to apply to all papers published in the state. It was admitted the Legislature has no control over newspapers and magazines published in other states.

Next question was how long the ban would be imposed after an advertisement appeared. Rep. Joe Byrd of Burke offered an amendment to make the statute apply for 6 months. There was admission on all sides that main purpose of the bill was to censor newspaper advertising. That's where fear of precedent came in. If this degree of censorship were imposed, why not extend the ban to any product which a particular legislator did not like, even if it was entirely legal. The lawyers were reluctant to go that far. Result was the bill and amendments went to a subcommittee for further study. Indications are if it gets out at all it will be materially amended.

The other measure was by Sen. Adam Whitley of Johnston, and has already passed the Senate, dealing with "confidential" relations between a clergyman, priest or rabbi and parishioners confiding information under cover of that relationship.

Questions arose about definitions of the designation "clergyman." Also to what extent such confidences should be regarded as sacred or confidential, when the information would be essential to obtaining the truth as basis for the judgment in court, both in civil and criminal actions.

Certain confidences between lawyers, physicians and priests are privileged under common law, except when the presiding judge is convinced that testimony is essential to finding of facts. Lawyers on the committee feared the Whitley bill might prohibit disclosure under any circumstances in civil cases, no matter how much property or personal rights were involved. None of the committee members wanted to destroy the confidential relationship; neither were they willing to afford extra protection to criminals or crooks who might plead that vital information they had given a preacher could not be used against them.

Rep. Tom Newman of Sampson said he knew some so-called preachers he wouldn't trust under any circumstances. (It wasn't brought out in public discussion but several members discussed on the side the fact that "Catfish" Cole, the South Carolina Ku Kluxer convicted of instigating the riot with Indians at Fernbrook last year, claims to be a minister.)

The water got too deep for the P&G fellows, and the bill was ordered sent to a judiciary committee for further action, since most of its impact was on testimony in court. Laymen seemed pretty sure of what was right and what was wrong, but they were bothered about what might be legal or construed as illegal.

DISTRICTS — The most commonly used term in connection with distributing representation in the General Assembly is "re-apportionment." Of course what bothers most of the folks is the re-districting for the Senate. Even if the constitutional mandate were complied with after each census it is very unlikely that ever more than six or eight of the larger counties could be possibly involved in shuffling membership in the House of Representatives. Even when the case a more accurate word would be "allocation," because the distribution of the 20 extra seats is purely mathematical.

When it comes to the Senate the situation is different. The present constitution says there shall be 50 Senators so distributed by law as to give approximately equal representation to all the people. As the districts are now laid out this objective is not even approached. There are districts with two senators having less population than districts with one senator.

Allocation of House members does not change any boundaries. Re-districting for the Senate might well change the areas represented by at least 40 or the judgment in court, both in civil and criminal actions.

Opinion is general that because North Carolina has not grown as fast in population as some other states, we will lose a Congressman in the automatic 1961 apportionment. That will necessitate revamping boundary lines of every congressional district before the 1962 election. It makes sense to let the State senatorial district changes wait until that time and perform both operations while the patient is under influence of the anesthetic.

Israel's First King

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—I Samuel: 8-11.

Samuel made his sons judges. As they were not good men like their father, the elders of Israel came to Samuel and told him that they wanted a king to rule over them.—I Samuel 8:1-6.

Samuel was displeased but he prayed and the Lord said to listen to the people and give them a king. "For they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected Me, that I should not reign over them."—I Samuel 8:6-7.

Samuel told the people the Lord warned that a king would take their possessions and when they cried for help He would not hear them because they had forsaken Him.—I Samuel 8:9-18.

The people still clamored for a king, however, and the Lord told Samuel to choose Saul of the tribe of Benjamin. So Samuel anointed him king.—I Samuel 9:17; 10:1.

Israel's First King

THE PEOPLE DEMANDED SUCH A RULER, AND THE LORD GAVE HIS CONSENT

Scripture—I Samuel 8-11.

by NEWMAN CAMPBELL THE SCRIPTURE assigned to today's lesson contains so many episodes that it will be wise to confine them to the printed text suggested in Peloubet's Select Notes by Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, its editor and commentator.

The aging Samuel, judge of Israel for many years, appointed his sons to succeed him. Unfortunately these sons, Joel and Abiah, were not good men like their father, and "walked not in his ways, but turned aside after lucre, and took bribes, and perverted judgment."—I Samuel 8:1-3.

The elders of Israel, realizing this, said to Samuel: "Behold thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways: now make us a king to judge us like all the nations."—I Samuel 8:4-5.

This displeased Samuel, but as we all should do when we are disheartened and uncertain, he took his problem to God. The Lord said: "Hearken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee: for they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected Me, that I should not reign over them."—I Samuel 8:6-7.

Samuel warned his people of what a king ruling over them would mean, as he would have the city where the man of God was."—I Samuel 9:6-10.

Samuel was evidently impressed by this fine young man. After telling him the asses had been found, he invited Saul to have dinner and to sacrifice with him, saying: "And on whom is all the desire of Israel? Is it not on thee, and on all thy father's house?"—I Samuel 9:20.

The Lord had told Samuel: "Tomorrow about this time I will send thee a man out of the land of Benjamin, and thou shalt anoint him to be captain over My people Israel, that he may save My people out of the hand of the Philistines: for I have looked upon My people, because they cry is come to Me."—I Samuel 9:16.

When Samuel saw Saul the Lord said to him: "Behold the man of whom I spake unto thee of! This same shall reign over My people."—I Samuel 9:17.

Saul was a modest man, and at Samuel's words, he said: "Am not I a Benjaminite, of the smallest of the tribes of Israel? . . . wherefore then speakest thou so to me?"—I Samuel 9:21.

Next morning Samuel called Saul and they went abroad. "And as they were going down to the end of the city, Samuel said to absolute power over them and their possessions. It was no use; the people wanted a king and would not consider the consequences.

As most of the students in the classes know, a king or queen is not usually elected by the people, but usually comes to the throne by inheritance. In our modern world there are fewer such rulers. Many heads of states are now elected by the people, as are our Presidents, and do not rule for a lifetime.

"Now there was a man of Benjamin, whose name was Kish . . . a mighty man of power. And he had a son, whose name was Saul, a choice young man, and he was goodly: and there was not among the children of Israel a goodlier person than he: from his shoulders and upward he was higher than any of the people."—I Samuel 9:1-2.

This striking young man was sent by his father to find the latter's lost asses. While he and his servant were searching for them without success, the servant suggested that they seek an "honorable man" (Samuel), as he might help them. "So they went into Saul, bid the servant pass on before us, (and he passed on), but stand thou still a while, that I may show thee the word of God. Then Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head, and kissed him, and said, 'Is it not because the Lord hath anointed thee to be captain over His inheritance?'—I Samuel 9:27, 30:1.

So Samuel made Saul the king of the Israelites, the first to reign over that people. All the people approved Samuel's choice, shouting, "God save the king."—I Samuel 10:24.

Of the battle against the Ammonites the teachers should tell briefly, as we have no space to relate it in detail here. Suffice it to say that the Israelites under Saul were triumphant, "And all the people went to Gilgal; and there they made Saul king before the Lord in Gilgal; and there they sacrificed . . . before the Lord; and there Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced greatly."—I Samuel 11:15.

New Approach Provided To Illegitimate Babies

RALEIGH (AP)—Public welfare departments would be given a new approach to deal with the problem of illegitimate children on welfare rolls under a bill introduced Thursday.

The measure by Sen. Elbert S. Peel Jr. of Martin would allow appointment of a person other than the mother to receive funds for dependent children if the mother is found "mentally or physically unable to manage assistance payments."

Three other bills dealing with public welfare were introduced by Peel. The measures were co-sponsored by Sens. Claude Currie of Durham, Wilbur Currie of Moore and Dallas Alford Jr. of Nash.

One measure is aimed at strengthening enforcement of laws requiring fathers to support their children. It would amend the state's part of the nationwide Enforcement of Support Act and allow courts to bring charges under the act against fathers who have gone to other states. At present, only clerks of court can bring such charges.

Peel's bill to permit welfare payments to be made to a representative of the person for whom the aid is granted carries out a suggestion of the State Public Welfare Department.

His measure actually would cover all the welfare programs of old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and aid to the permanently and totally disabled. Courts would be permitted to name a personal representative to handle the funds if it found the recipient were mentally or physically unable to manage the money. In the case of aid to dependent children, it would apply if the money were not being used for the children.

The Senate passed a bill to reduce the fine for net fishing on Sunday. Present law imposes fines of $200 to $500 or up to a year in jail. It would be cut to $50 or less. The House has already passed the bill but will be asked to concur in a minor technical Senate amendment.

Superintendent Of Prison Camp Resigns In Inquiry

RALEIGH (AP)—An investigation of the Catawba County Prison Camp continued today following the resignation Thursday of the camp superintendent. The probe, which has been underway about two weeks, grew out of a prisoner's claim that he had been mistreated.

Prisons Director W. F. Bailey, who announced the resignation of Camp Supt. R. L. Huss, also reported that Art Talley, acting sergeant of the guards, and guard Johnny Roberts had been suspended from their jobs without

Edwards Chosen Clemson Prexy

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Robert Cook Edwards, unanimous choice of the school's board of trustees and a heavy favorite among students, was in full charge of Clemson College today.

The 45-year-old former textile executive was named to the $12,000 a year presidency Thursday.

He had been acting president since the death last June of Robert Franklin Poole.

Edwards, a 1933 Clemson graduate, was chosen at Columbia by the Clemson Board of Trustees to serve as the school's eighth president.

In making the announcement, R. M. Cooper, president of the Clemson board, recalled that Edwards had been named acting president 10 months ago "with the mutual understanding" he would not be considered a candidate for the permanent job.

But he said the position was led to review that original position because of the "industry, efficiency and effectiveness" shown by Edwards while acting head of the institution.

"We now believe," Cooper added, "that all things considered, he is the best qualified person for this important assignment."

Edwards, a native of Fountain Inn, returned to Clemson in 1956 as vice president of development. He had previously put in 19 years as a textile executive, serving since 1946 as treasurer and general manager of the Deering-Miliken Mills at Abbeville.

Denies Notion Faith A Factor

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The president of Wake Forest College denied a suggestion Thursday that faith in the Baptist denomination prompted the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation gift to the college a few years ago.

Dr. Harold W. Tribble, Wake Forest president, made his denial during a discussion of an old and thorny issue—who should control the state's Baptist colleges, the Baptist State Convention or the college trustees.

The Rev. Woodrow Robbins of High Point, backing convention control, suggested that the Reynolds Foundation gift—which enabled the college to move to Winston-Salem—was prompted in part by faith in the Baptist denomination.

Dr. Tribble said he has found "nothing to support that belief," and that in fact the foundation has been "displeased" with actions of Tar Heel Baptists in recent years. He declared the gift was prompted by the college's good management and democratic principles in the college and Baptist program.

The meeting—presided over by four members of the convention's Committee of 25—also touched on proposals of the committee that will be considered at a special convention meeting next month.

Criticized were proposals that the convention's general board have a new representation system which opponents charged would concentrate board membership in large cities—and that the Biblical Recorder, official convention journal, be moved from Raleigh to the Baptist Children's Home at Thomasville.

Old Indian Scout Claims Capture Chief Geronimo

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—An Indian scout who says he is 121 years old will probably leave Phoenix Indian Hospital next week.

Sam Etchesaw, a Yavapai, claims to have captured Geronimo personally. Etchesaw, whose name means bird, is believed the last of the Army's Indian scouts.

Dr. Leland Hanchett, hospital director, said Etchesaw's main trouble is old age and some malnutrition. Otherwise, he says, he carries his years well.

He served as a scout in four campaigns. Geronimo, the Apache chief, surrendered on the last.

Records also show Etchesaw got lost at least once. That was in downtown Phoenix in 1953, when he wandered from a store to which he had gone with a granddaughter.

Peiping's Scrap In Taiwan Mills

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Communist China has supplied scrap metal to a steel plant in Nationalist China.

The Tang Eng Iron Works, at the south Formosa port of Kaohsiung, has bought a stock of shell fragments from the Quemoy Islands.

Quemoy civilians collect the fragments after each Communist bombardment of the Nationalist Islands just off the mainland coast. Scrap dealers pay about two cents a pound, but business hasn't been so good lately. Since Oct. 20, the Reds have fired only on odd-numbered days of the month, and then only a comparatively few rounds.

Sisters Thought The Other Dead, Are Reunited

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Two sisters, each thinking the other dead for 44 years, found both were wrong.

Ida O'Daniel of Corning, Ark., believed her sister, Martha Liles, was killed in a 1915 tornado. Letters written to Mrs. Liles at Honey Island were returned after the tornado.

Mrs. Liles thought her sister was dead because her letters were returned after a flood at Corning the same year.

C. A. O'Daniel, son of Mrs. O'Daniel, located his aunt by writing the postmistress at Kountze, near Honey Island, on a hunch.

The sisters were reunited this week at the home of Mrs. Liles' daughter, Mrs. J. L. Johnson.

"They grabbed each other, but they couldn't say anything," Mrs. Johnson said.

Better Sales If Milk 'Sinful'

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Hubert Garrecht, president of the Milk Industry Foundation, says dairymen might sell more milk if a way could be found "to make it a little more sinful."

"The trouble with milk is that it is too much taken for granted," Garrecht said Thursday night at a meeting of the Greater Pittsburgh Dairy Industry Assn.

New Miss Greenville Plays 'Bus Stop' Role Next Week

Local citizens will have an opportunity next week to spend a full evening enjoying the charm and dramatic talent of the newly elected "Miss Greenville," when the curtain goes up on the Greenville Little Theatre production of "Bus Stop".

Alice Anne Horne, who won the coveted crown last night at the pageant in Wright Auditorium, will turn her glamour and ability on full force in the leading role of Cherie in the William Inge comedy hit, scheduled for presentation next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, April 16, 17, and 18, on the stage of Austin Auditorium.

A senior at ECC, Miss Horne has been outstanding in theatrical productions throughout her college years. As a freshman she scored a personal triumph as Lady Macbeth in the ECC-Greenville Little Theatre production of "Macbeth". She later appeared as that glamorous bit of ectoplasm, Elvira, in "Blithe Spirit"; as LuLubelle in "State of the Union"; she scored in the coveted role of Eliza Doolittle in "Pygmalion"; as Mrs. Connelly in "The House of Connelly"; she danced in "A Connecticut Yankee"; her role of Mrs. Mullen in "Carousel" was a musical one; she played Fisher in "The Admirable Crichton"; and was the bitter, defeated wife in Tennessee Williams' "Moonlight and Me"; "Mooney's Kid"; "Dant's Cry." In her role of Cherie in "Bus Stop" Miss Horne portrays a third rate "chanteuse" in a Kansas City nightclub—the role that starred Marilyn Monroe in the movie version of the play.

The forthcoming production is the final play of the season for the Greenville Little Theatre. Earlier offerings this year were "Man Alive" and "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial". "Bus Stop" is under the direction of Claude Garren. Tickets for the play are on sale at Brody's service desk, or they may be obtained from members of the Greenville Little Theatre.

Quietly Moving To Guard Castro

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department is quietly mobilizing a big section of its security force to guard Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro during an unofficial 11-day visit starting Wednesday.

Anti-Castro demonstrations are expected to boil up in the path of his good will tour of Washington, New York, Princeton, N.J. and Cambridge, Mass. Some telephone threats and warnings already have been received by the department and the Cuban Embassy.

The elaborate step-by-step security guard will be fully as intensive as that given Soviet Dep. Premier Anastas Mikoyan during his stormy coast to coast travels last January.

Some of Castro's bearded personal bodyguards will accompany him. But the State Department has the main responsibility for shielding him from demonstrators, crackpots, potential assassins, as well as enthusiastic well wishers.

In advance of Castro's arrival, an outfit calling itself the "Anti-communist Movement of the Americas" set up shop in a downtown hotel. A Cuban, Rafael del Pino, who identifies himself as a former associate of Castro, began turning out publicity releases as local representative. These have called Castro "Traitor of the Americas," "bully" and "assassin," and claimed he was following a pro-Soviet policy.

Speculate McClellan To Influence Labor Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The role of Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) in the Senate debate on labor legislation aroused increasing interest today as the time for start of the floor wrangle neared.

A labor bill sponsored by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) will be before the Senate as the debate starts, probably later this month.

However, numerous floor amendments are sure to be offered to it just as they were a year ago when the measure's counterpart, the Kennedy-Ives bill was before the Senate.

Republican senators seeking a more restrictive bill say McClellan, by giving all-out support, can make it certain major floor amendments can be written into the Kennedy bill.

So far, however, McClellan has kept mum on what he intends to do, other than to say he is preparing some amendments which he plans to offer.

McClellan has introduced a series of five labor bills this session, and presumably it is from these that his 1959 amendments will be drafted. None of these got favorable consideration in the Labor Committee. Instead, that group approved the Kennedy bill by a 13-2 vote.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell has advanced an administration labor bill as what he calls a middle-of-the-road measure. He calls the Kennedy bill ineffective but says McClellan's measure goes too far in putting unions into a strait jacket.

The Senate seems certain to act on the legislation considerably ahead of the House, where prolonged hearings are under way in the Labor Committee.

That group is considering two proposals by its chairman, Graham A. Barden (D-NC), which are similar to McClellan's bills. The Kennedy and administration bills also are before the committee.

These are major provisions of the various bills:

Enforces these provisions by criminal penalties and power given to the secretary of labor.

Requires detailed public financial reporting by all labor unions, by prescribing secret ballot elections and limiting terms of officers, by limiting the duration of trusteeships over local unions by international, and by banning convicted felons from serving as union officials for fixed periods.

Enforces these provisions by criminal penalties and power given to the secretary of labor.

Also makes some changes in the Taft-Hartley law sought by labor including: a guarantee of the right of replaced strikers to vote in a bargaining election, legalization of pre-hire agreements in the construction industry, and a directive that the National Labor Relations Board handle all labor disputes cases until the states set up special agencies to act on them under federal standards. The NLRB has declined to handle certain types of cases which the federal courts have ruled the states are powerless to take.

Administration bill—Contains provisions on financial reporting, elections, trusteeships and convicted persons similar to those in the Kennedy bill. But it enforces these by sanctions against the offending union, through denial of tax exemption and the right to use the NLRB. Makes two Taft-Hartley changes sought by management but not included in the Kennedy bill. These would ban all secondary boycotts aimed at neutral third parties and outlaw organizational picketing.

Gives states the right to act in no man's land cases where NLRB declines to act.

Contains construction industry and replaced striker provisions similar to those in the Kennedy bill.

McClellan bills—

Require all unions to include in their constitutions and by-laws provisions guaranteeing equal rights of members, freedom of speech and assembly, safeguards against arbitrary disciplinary actions, the right to inspect membership lists, secret ballots and limits on terms of officers, bonding of all officers handling funds, and meetings at regular intervals.

Provide for public financial reporting and limitations on trusteeships similar to the requirements in the Kennedy and administration bills.

Enforce these provisions by denial of tax exemption or use of NLRB to a union which does not comply, as well as by power delegated to the secretary of labor and by criminal penalties.

Amend the Taft-Hartley law to ban secondary boycotts and organizational picketing, to make illegal the hot cargo clause under which an employer agrees in advance he will not require his workers to handle goods and provide services for an employer involved in a labor dispute, and to handle the no man's land problem by allowing a state to act where the NLRB declines to do so.

Barden bills—

Contain provisions on requirements for union constitutions and by-laws similar to those in the McClellan bill. An added provision would bar any strike unless a majority voted for it by secret ballot.

Enforce these "bill of rights" provisions by denial of tax exemption or use of NLRB to any union which fails to comply.

Amend Taft-Hartley to ban secondary boycotts and organizational picketing, and to give states the right to handle cases not taken by the NLRB.

Personal Debt Totals Are Rising, Savings Are Too.

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Personal debt totals are climbing — up 13 billion dollars last year alone. But don't worry too much. Personal savings are climbing even faster — up 18 billion dollars in 1958.

How some people—obviously a lot of them—can meet their bills and sock away part of their take home pay may puzzle you if you're among the harried many who say you can't.

The answer probably will have to be left up to the individual. It isn't confined to certain income brackets. Many in high brackets run into debt and many in low brackets manage to add a bit to their nest eggs in good times on bad.

General prosperity isn't the answer. Actually it's in the recession years that the savings rate rises.

For example: in 1955 when business was booming Americans on average added $1.63 to their personal debt for every $1 they added to long term savings. But in 1958, when the first half was down in the books as a recession period, they added $1.33 to their nest eggs for every $1 increase in debt.

Their best showing since the immediate postwar period.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reports that the 18-billion-dollar increase in savings last year—at the rate of six cents of each take home dollar—brings the total to nearly 277 billion dollars. It counts as long term individual savings your bank savings accounts, home savings and loan association deposits, U.S. savings bonds and postal savings, credit union funds, and built up cash equities in life insurance policies.

Personal debt includes mortgages, installment and other consumer credit including personal bank loans, and life insurance policy loans. The total is now around 190 billion dollars.

That 87 billion dollar excess of savings over debt, makes Americans as a whole look pretty solvent, no matter how worried you may be as an individual.

But the Institute of Life Insurance notes that since the war only in 1958, 1957 and 1954 (all years tainted by recessions) did Americans increase their savings faster than they did their debts.

Business is always pleased when people buy freely, even if it means taking on a little more of a debt load, because increased sales call for increased output, and usually add up to increased profits.

But business also is pleased when people increase their savings. First, it makes consumers more confident and thus better prospective customers. Second, it builds up the capital and investment funds which business must tap when it wants to expand.

The Life Insurance Assn. of America says that such funds flowing into the capital market from the people's thrift institutions and corporate pension funds have more than tripled in the last 10 years—from 7½ billion dollars in 1948 to 24½ billion dollars last year.

Estimates of how Americans save put the biggest share, 95 billion dollars, in time deposits in banks and postal savings, with some 77 million different accounts. Next comes life insurance savings (distinct from the face amount of protection in force) around 86½ billion dollars, with about 100 million individuals involved.

Most of the remaining 95½ billion dollars is about equally divided between savings and loan associations, with some 22 million members, and U.S. savings bonds, with some 40 million owners. Credit unions, coming up fast, serve more than 10 million.

Other forms of saving, not included above, are such things as increasing equities in homes, ownership of securities, and holdings of currency in or out of mat-

CIA Chief Says Communists Are Determined

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Allen Dulles, chief of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, says "those who feel we can buy peace by compromise with Khrushchev are sadly deluded."

Dulles told the 25th annual convention of the Edison Electric Institute Wednesday that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is convinced however, that "the final victory of communism can be achieved mainly by nonmilitary means."

Dulles warned there is no evidence the Soviets or their Chinese allies have any plans to give up their idea of destroying free societies and replacing them with communism.

Dulles, brother of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, added he does not believe the Soviet authorities desire deliberately to provoke hostilities with the United States or the Western world at this time.

Christian Science Announcements

God's goodness and all-power will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon.

Scriptural readings will include these verses from Psalms (103: 2,3) "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases."

Also emphasizing the harmonious nature of God's creation are selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including (472:25-30): "That which He creates is good, and He makes all that is made. Therefore the only reality of sin, sickness, or death is the awful fact that unrealities seem real to human, erring belief, until God strips off their disguise. They are not true, because they are not of God."

More Grain, But More Consumers

ROME (AP) — World grain production has increased impressively in the past 20 years, but the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization says the production per person has stayed the same.

A NEW MYSTERY The COUNT of 9 by A. A. FAIR (Erle Stanley Gardner)

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

The preparations of Dean Crockett II, millionaire explorer, for a party in his penthouse included hiring the Cool & Lam Detective Agency to keep out would-be gate crashers and sneak thieves. He wanted big Bertha Cool as one of the guardians of his door because he believes the gate crasher who got away from a previous party with one of his valuable relics was a woman. Bertha could more readily search suspicious female guests than could a male operative. Crockett's press agent, Melvin Otis Olney, insured that the newspapers would have a story of the precautions against gate crashers.

CHAPTER 3

"I don't know how much experience you folks have had in this sort of work," said Dean Crockett. "But evidently they've pulled the oldest racket in the business. Somebody showed his invitation to the elevator operator, got upstairs then sent the invitation back down to a gate crasher. The gate crasher used the invitation for the second time and walked right past Bertha Cool."

standing right there by the doorway inspecting all the invitations. And it turns out she didn't even take the routine precaution of checking off the invitations presented against the name list of the guests."

"When I saw your signature on the invitations that was enough for me," Bertha Cool said.

"Sure, you saw the signature," he said, "but how many times do you suppose you admitted Joe Doakes? It was easy enough for some guy to come up, check in and send his invitation down to a gate crasher who then came back in as Joe Doakes."

"You mean he took the invitation down himself?" I asked.

"Of course not, Mr. Lam," Crockett said, looking at me witheringly. "He sent it down by one of the caterer's assistants. That sort of thing happens all the time. Someone slips a waiter ten dollars, and the waiter, going back and forth with food and dishes, manages to slip the invitation to the person who is waiting outside with some signal that can't be missed, such as an unlighted cigar in his mouth or something of that sort."

I glanced at Bertha.

Her face was red, her eyes angry. "They may have slipped a ringer in on me if they doubled up on invitations," she said, "but nobody walked past me with any blowgun, I'll tell you that!"

"I feel certain you'll find the blowgun somewhere, Dean, dear," the blonde said. "You must have misplaced it somewhere. It would be impossible for anyone to walk out with that."

"My wife," Crockett said shortly, by way of introduction. The blonde beauty smiled at me. She really had what it takes, and she seemed to be a good kid, too.

"How about that jade Buddha?" Crockett asked. "I suppose you think that was misplaced, too. Somebody smashed that glass case and—"

"I'll agree with you there, Dean," she said, putting a conciliatory hand on his arm. "But, after all, you can't hold Mrs. Cool responsible for that. She was hired only to see that gate crashers didn't get in. If you had wanted her to guard the curios, you should have made it plain that you wanted her to take that responsibility. And then, of course, she'd have had someone up here to keep an eye on things." She flashed me a sultry smile and said, "Her partner, Mr. Lam, perhaps."

Crockett snorted contemptuously, turned on his heel and strode away.

"You mustn't mind him, really," Mrs. Crockett said. "He's upset, of course, but he'll cool off and forget it. He takes things awfully hard—at first."

"What's the value of the jade Buddha?" I asked.

"Several thousand dollars."

"And the other thing—the blowgun?"

She shrugged her shoulders. "It isn't worth one plugged nickel," she said slowly, and with the emphasis of feeling. "Confidentially, Mr. Lam, I've been waiting for a good opportunity to pitch that thing out of the window. It's a great long contraption that catches dust. And those darts are downright dangerous. They're tipped with poison and I understand that if a person gets even a scratch from one of those darts it could well prove fatal. I don't dare to let any of the housekeepers do the dusting in his curio room. I have to do it myself."

"Understand," she said, giving me the benefit of a dazzling smile. "I wouldn't want to be quoted on this, but I'll be very, very glad if that pygmy blowgun with the darts never shows up again. I'd like to put an ad in the paper offering a reward—not for its return but to give the person who stole it a bonus."

"Was it jointed or in one piece?" I asked.

"No, it's in one piece. My husband thinks it's a masterpiece of engineering."

"Does he have any poisoned darts?" I asked.

"He keeps those in a special container," she said. "But he has made up some darts out of a very light wood—balsa wood, I think it is, and then tipped them with metal and put feathers on the end. It's surprising how far he can shoot them."

"And were those darts stolen?" I asked.

"Those exhibition darts?" she asked. "Heavens, I don't know. Where are they?"

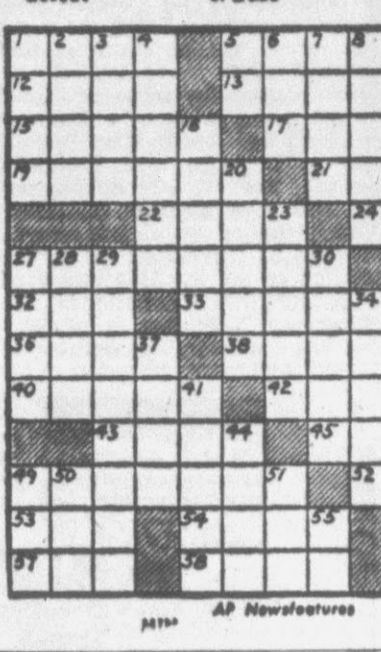

"In a drawer in a table in his den. Please don't feel upset about this, Mr. Lam, and please don't pay any attention to what Dean says. He's excitable and he gets all worked up when something like this happens. But I can assure you, by tomorrow he'll be looking at it in an entirely different way after all, he's had things stolen before."

She smiled at Bertha, then impulsively gave me her hand. "You won't feel bad, will you, Mr. Lam?"

"I won't feel bad," I said. "I'll let you in on a secret," she said. "The real reason my husband is so angry is that he hates to lose. He deliberately bait-

Look For More Sonic Booms In Future Years

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Franciscans, exasperated by sonic booms for three consecutive days, got this word today from aviation experts: Learn to live with the problem—it will get worse. That applies to any place where aircraft fly faster than the speed of sound. "No one has the secret for dispersing the pressures that cause such vibrations," said Dr. Max Heaslet, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's theoretical aeronautics branch. "I'm quite sure in saying that."

"We've known for a long time that a plane traveling horizontally at supersonic speed—in excess of 610 miles an hour at 35,000 feet—will induce a sharp pressure disturbance on the ground," he said.

ed a trap tonight. That's why he's so terribly angry. It also explains why he wanted all that publicity. He was just during the thief to try and get away with something tonight.

"You see, he's been losing valuable pieces for some time now, and he decided to catch the thief. All this ballyhoo about the detective checking guest invitations was to cover up the fact that he had put in an X-ray elevator."

"An X-ray elevator?" I asked. "Yes. He had it installed two weeks ago. Perhaps you've been in classified defense plants where they put you in a cage and turn on X-rays. A concealed watcher can see right through you, see everything in your pockets."

"I've seen them in prisons," I said. "Well, every guest who left here tonight was X-rayed. The articles simply couldn't have been taken away . . . and yet they're missing."

3rd STRAIGHT YEAR! PLYMOUTH V-8 WINS ITS CLASS IN MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN!

OTHERS TALK ECONOMY—PLYMOUTH DELIVERS IT!

Other cars have talked economy this year. But a Plymouth V-8 has just proved it can give better gas mileage than Ford or Chevrolet V-8s. Plymouth did it by winning its class for the 3rd straight year in America's recognized competitive test for economy. Plymouth's score: 21.15 miles per gallon.

- HERE ARE MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN FACTS:
- A Plymouth V-8 has just won its class in the Mobilgas Economy Run for the third year in a row. Ford and Chevrolet both finished behind Plymouth.
  - Plymouth scored 21.15 miles per gallon.
  - Winning Plymouth was a Belvedere 2-door hardtop, equipped with standard Fury V-800 engine and automatic transmission.
  - Run was sanctioned by United States Auto Club.
- HERE ARE WHAT THESE FACTS MEAN TO YOU:
- As a Plymouth owner, you can expect economical operation in everyday driving.
  - As a Plymouth owner, you're driving the car that gave better gas mileage than Ford or Chevrolet in the 1959 Mobilgas Economy Run.
  - As a Plymouth owner, you can also expect top performance (Plymouth's winning V-8 is the biggest standard engine in its class).

Plymouth's low prices, low upkeep, high resale value and proven gas economy make it the year's best economy buy in its class. And Plymouth delivers the Big Difference in style, ride, performance, features and comfort, too! A "Two-Mile Try-Out" will prove it, so take yours today!

ECC Alumni Day Plans In Making For May 2nd

Alumni Day at East Carolina College, traditionally observed during commencement exercises, has been moved forward to Saturday, May 2, this year. Plans for the day's events, directed by Robert B. Morgan of Lillington, president of the Alumni Association, and the Alumni Council, are now being made.

Reunions beginning at 9:30 a.m. will bring together members of the nine classes of 1914, 1919, 1924, 1929, 1934, 1939, 1944, 1949, and 1954.

The annual alumni meeting, with President Morgan presiding, will follow the class reunions and will be devoted to business matters of the Alumni Association. Announcement of new officers of the organization and of seven new district directors, elected for two-year terms, will be made at the meeting.

Nominations for these positions are now being made by a committee composed of Baxter Ridenhour of Durham, Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart Bennett of Burlington, and Jack P. Kimbrell of Charlotte.

Recipients of two alumni awards will also be announced during the day. These are the 1959 award to a distinguished graduate of the college and a citation of recognition to an outstanding member of the college faculty.

The Coronation of Elizabeth Bowman of Rt. 1, Liberty, as Queen of the 1959 May Day celebration at East Carolina, will be event of chief interest during the afternoon. Jimmie E. Wall of Garner, senior at the college, is in charge of arrangements for the May Day exercises. A ball honoring the queen and her court will take place at 8:30 p.m. in the Wright building.

Social events of the day will include a luncheon at 12:15 p.m. and a tea at 4:30 p.m.

Red Oak Christian Announcements

Five new members were baptized last Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in a special service. Mrs. Dallas Evans, Mrs. Jesse Jom, Miss Joyce Jackson, Donald Jackson and Malcolm Jackson. Transferring to Red Oak Christian from other churches were: Jessie Jom from Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manning from Nashville, Tenn.; and Mrs. Zeno Vaughn from Winston-Salem.

The Rev. Howard James has announced that he will preach Sunday morning on "The Healing Scars of Jesus." The Sanctuary Choir anthem will be "The Wondrous Cross" by Watts-Peterson. Flowers will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Page and family.

There will be a rose on the pulpit Sunday honoring the birth of Jerome Willis Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jenkins Allen, at Pitt Memorial Hospital on March 29, 1959.

Circle meetings next week will be as follows:

- No. 1, April 12—Covered Dish Supper at S. C. Winchester home.
- No. 2, April 13, 8:00 p.m., with Mrs. H. L. Roberts. Program by Mrs. Hobart Barnes.
- No. 3, April 17, 8:00 p.m.
- On April 22 at 4:00 p.m. the Hookerton District Missionary Union will meet at Winterville Christian Church. The State Convention of Christian Churches will be held at Charlotte on April 28-30. Dr. H. Glenn Haney is president.

Noted Pianist To Judge National Guild Auditions

Madame Luisa Stojowska will act as adjudicator in the National Piano Guild Tournament to be held at East Carolina College April 27-May 1. Dr. Robert Carter of the college music department, chairman of the event, has announced. She is a faculty member at the Julliard School of Music and is internationally known as a teacher and a concert pianist.

Teachers of piano who wish to enter their students in the tournament at East Carolina College are asked to inform Dr. Carter. Pianists of all ages may take part, from elementary pupils to professional artists, he stated.

The National Piano Guild Tournaments, started thirty years ago by Ira Allison of Austin, Texas, are now held in 650 centers in this country. Some 53,000 players are heard by 200 adjudicators.

The purpose of the tournaments are to raise the standard of playing and to encourage the amateur as well as the career-minded. Van Cliburn was entered by his mother, who was his teacher, for many years in National Guild auditions. Local, district, state and national certificates, high school, college, and artists diplomas; the Paderewski Medal; and scholarships are among awards presented each year to participants in the auditions.

Those who make creditable ratings in the spring may enter the Guild's Biennial Piano Recording Festival, which offers aggregate cash awards of $20,000. A competition test held each spring offers prizes and encourages creative work.

Mount Etna, off the coast of Italy, is the highest volcano in Europe. Among its 200 cones is one that is 10,750 feet high.

Russian's Life In U. S. Hands

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The life of a young Soviet fisherman, injured in a fall aboard a Soviet boat six days ago, was in the hands of a team of skilled Air Force doctors today.

Evgeniy Ivanovich Gneushev, 23, partially paralyzed and still unconscious, was listed in critical condition by Maj. Homer E. Woosley Jr., chief of surgery at the Elmendorf Air Force Base Hospital here.

Woosley said Gneushev suffered brain damage in a fall aboard the Soviet ship Pischavaya Industria. The seaman's right arm and both legs were paralyzed. Woosley gave Gneushev a 50-50 chance to live.

The Pischavaya Industria is a large factory ship operating with a fleet of 50 Soviet fishing vessels in the Bering Sea and Bristol Bay.

The U. S. Coast Guard cutter Storis, acting quickly after a plea for help issued by the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D. C., took Gneushev from the Soviet boat at an Aleutian island bay Wednesday.

The Storis steamed to Cold Bay, at the tip of the Alaska Peninsula, where Gneushev was transferred early Thursday to a Coast Guard plane for a 650-mile flight to Anchorage.

JUPITER ISLAND, Fla. (AP)—John Foster Dulles continued his rest and recuperation program at this resort today. Aides said he has made no decision on whether to resume his duties as secretary of state.

Press officer Lincoln White said in Washington that he does not know how long Dulles will stay in Florida nor when he will decide whether he feels well enough to resume his duties.

James C. Hazerty, White House press secretary, said in Augusta, Ga., there has been no change in Dulles' plans to finish his stay in Florida before deciding about the future.

Dulles is recuperating from a hernia operation and treatment for cancer.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—John Boykin's neck wear attracted some attention in a department store Thursday.

Boykin, of Tucson, strolled in the store wearing a bright checked shirt with a four-foot bull snake wrapped around his neck.

Boykin said he caught the snake on a picnic and thought it looked "real sporty" with his shirt.

WHO WILL YOUR EXECUTOR BE?

He is the person with whom your wife, children, and loved ones will be associated most often during the year or more period needed for administration of your estate.

The task you entrust to him of carrying out your wishes for your property and your family begins at a time of stress and strain for them. The choice of an executor is a personal matter and a serious one, for he is the individual who will stand in your place in matters affecting your beneficiaries, your property, creditors, your business, and your relations with governing authorities.

State Bank and Trust Company is authorized to act as executor of your will or trustee under your trust agreement. We invite you to discuss this important matter in our Trust Department with Mr. B. B. Sugg, Jr., Vice President and Trust Officer, and with your attorney.

Council Okays Tractor Rental For City Dump

Approval was granted last night by the Greenville City Council for rental of a tractor to be used in operation of a sanitary landfill at the city's present garbage dump.

The tractor, to be obtained under a rental-purchase plan, will be used in daily operations to push, pack and cover garbage dump in the disposal area. Previously, such operations have been conducted on an irregular basis, using another tractor owned by the city.

City Manager Leonard P. Bloxam, who requested approval of the rental proposal, told the council, "With warm weather now at hand and flies becoming a great problem, along with rodents, daily operations at the garbage area are necessary."

Bloxam also pointed out that daily work at the garbage dump could complete extinguishing of fires in the area. He said work thus far had met with success, but that daily attention was necessary.

The council turned down a request from Mrs. Annie V. Robertson to sell half of her Greenwood Cemetery lot to Mrs. Mildred Gibson. City Attorney R. B. Lee pointed out that approval of the sale would be in violation of the city's cemetery ordinance, but he said the council could authorize city officials to purchase the lot from Mrs. Robertson and then re-sell it.

Authorization was granted for City Clerk H. H. Duncan to advertise property of persons owing back taxes.

City Asked To Replace Chains At Park Entrance

Relief may be in sight for residents of the Greene Springs Park neighborhood who have objections to the area becoming a nocturnal parking lot for young people.

City Manager Leonard P. Bloxam was instructed last night by the City Council "to look into" possibilities of replacing chains across entrances to the Fifth Street park. The action came after Councilman J. A. Collins, Sr., said he had been approached by "several residents" of the park area who want the chains put back in place and locked at night.

"They seem to think," Collins said, "the place could be closed at night."

Bloxam said chains were stretched across entrance drives some months ago, but were removed at the request of persons who, he said, live near the park.

Collins also reported an objection raised to him by the American Legion which said that an American flag at Greenwood Cemetery is not being raised and lowered each day. No formal action was taken by the board, although Public Works Superintendent C. K. Beatty said city workers try to have the flag displayed on holidays and other special occasions.

Elks Lodge Install New Officers, Mortgage Burned

At a banquet last night, Greenville Elks Lodge No. 1645 installed J. G. (Jack) Nobles as exalted ruler for 1959, and burned the $30,000 mortgages on the Elks Home. Nobles succeeded J. G. Proctor as exalted ruler.

Judge Albion Dunn, a charter member of the lodge, acted as national grandmaster, and officiated at the installation ceremony.

Trustees Charles E. Blair, Jesse R. Moye, Roger M. Collins Jr. and Stuart Page officiated at the burning of the mortgage which was paid off during the last five years.

Officers installed, in addition to the exalted ruler, are: W. H. Watson, leading knight; John A. Collins Jr., loyal knight; and Fred P. Sauve, lecturing knight. Trustees are: Stuart Page, J. R. Meye Jr. and Roger M. Collins Jr. David Proctor is treasurer and Billy Norman is secretary.

Appointive officers are: Arthur Smith, tier; C. A. Boyd, inner guard; and W. B. (Blue) Dunn, chaplain.

The banquet and an hour of fellowship preceded the opening of the lodge by retiring Exalted Ruler J. G. (Scrappy) Proctor, who, in turn, presented the gavel of authority to Exalted Ruler Nobles.

Hear Discussion Of Antibiotics

FARMVILLE—Choice and use of antibiotic drugs in infections was discussed last night by Dr. Robert J. Senior at the monthly meeting of the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society.

Dr. Senior, a member of the Pediatric Department of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine, outlined common sites of infection, most likely bacterial causes and the most effective drug in each case. He was critical of what he termed the practice of some drug manufacturing firms of placing on the market and promoting sale of costly combinations of antibiotic drugs at the expense of cheaper and often more effective drugs.

He said, "In most cases, a single antibiotic is adequate, once the identification of the causative bacterium is made."

In conjunction with Dr. Senior's discussion, Charles E. Fitzgerald Jr., a medical student at the University of North Carolina, demonstrated a practical method of culturing and identifying disease-producing bacteria, suitable for use in a doctor's office. Fitzgerald is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Fitzgerald of Farmville.

Following the program, Dr. S. R. Bartlett, president of the society, presided at a business session in which delegates were instructed for the annual meeting of the Medical Society of North Carolina. The meeting is to be held in Asheville May 3 through May 5. Dr. K. B. Pace of Greenville and Dr. A. M. Mumford of Winterville are Pitt County delegates to the meeting.

Agonizing Pleas

SAN CARLOS, Calif. (AP)—For 17 agonizing minutes after her husband had suffered a heart attack Thursday, Mrs. Emma Dobert pleaded for a party line before a caller would relinquish it, she told police.

Firemen reached William Dobert, 66, just four minutes after Mrs. Dobert's call got through but he was dead.

Police are investigating Mrs. Dobert's complaint of party line hogging in the emergency, a misdemeanor under California law.

Rites Set Saturday For Shade M. Harris

Shade Mathias Harris, 73, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital Thursday night at 10:50 following a short illness.

Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Saturday afternoon at four o'clock by the Rev. D. W. Alexander. Free Will Baptist minister of Bethel. Burial will be in the Harris family cemetery near Belvoir.

Mr. Harris, son of the late Richard and Louisa Coggins Harris, was born and spent all his life in the Belvoir community and was a farmer. He was a member of Gum Swamp Free Will Baptist Church. He was married to Miss Addie Elizabeth Clark of Tarboro, who died December 22, 1926. He was later married to Mrs. Maggie Meeks Denton of Edgecombe Co. who died in 1957.
