Wreck Of Leaf Program Benson's Goal, Says Cooley

AYDEN — Chairman Harold D. Cooley of the House Agricultural Committee charged here today it is the "intention, purpose and dream" of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to break down the nation's tobacco program "before he is retired from public office."

Representative Cooley at a noon assembly of visitors to the first annual Ayden Farmer's Festival. The festival opened yesterday and will be concluded tonight with a beauty pageant and dance.

"The tobacco farmer is a marked man in Sec. Benson's book," Cooley said. Every basic crop has been 'Benson-ized", with one exception—tobacco . . . The tobacco program is the one and only program among the basic crops that has withstood the Benson wrecking operation . . .

"I'm convinced that the success of the tobacco program, because we refuse to be Benson-ized, is a source of painful irritation to the secretary of agriculture. Therefore, the tobacco farmer is a marked man in Benson's book.

"I'm convinced that it is his intention and his purpose and his dream to break down and destroy this program before he is retried from public office by the voters of the nation."

Cooley claimed that 90 per cent of parity price supports which existed before Benson took office and subsequent "production adjustments" have saved the program thus far.

"Tobacco farmers have not been so vulnerable to Benson's purpose as have been producers of some other crops," the congressman said. "I believe tobacco farmers can survive the Benson storm . . . but we have a hard road ahead . . . Our destiny, the destiny of agriculture lies in unity."

Cooley expressed the confidence that "once we in agriculture are united, taxpayers and consumers will insist that farm families share fairly in the rewards of enterprise and . . . enjoy a full partnership", as a matter of "self-interest and simple American justice."

The veteran representative's address was the second major event of today's festival program. A special "Farmer's Day Parade", held at 11 a.m., began the day's activities which were continued with Cooley's speech at noon and a barbecue dinner at 1 p.m.

Other events scheduled for today include farmers' events and children's activities at 3 p.m. on the Ayden High School athletic field; the Miss Pitt County Beauty Pageant at 7:30 p.m. in the Ayden High School auditorium; and a 9 p.m. dance in the Ayden High School gym.

Yesterday's activities, which included a program by Smiley O'Brien and his band, a street concert by the Ayden-Winterville High School Band, a variety show and a square dance, were attended by large crowds. The variety show played to an overflow audience in the high school auditorium.

The beauty contest tonight includes 10 contestants. The winner will represent Pitt County in the official Miss North Carolina contest which will name the state's participant in the Miss America Pageant late this summer.

This morning's parade featured Representative Cooley and Rep. Herbert C. Bonner, who introduced him; Betty Lane Evans of Greenville, Miss North Carolina for 1958; candidates in the beauty pageant; bands; antique automobiles; and other features. It was the biggest parade in Ayden's history and unofficial crowd estimates placed the number of spectators as the largest ever to see a parade in Ayden.

CAB Examiner Visits Greenville To Investigate Air Service Appeals

James S. Keith, examiner for the Civil Aeronautics Board visited Greenville yesterday in line with his investigation of the Greenville-Wilson application for air line service.

Keith attended a barbecue luncheon at the local Elks Lodge along with Wilson and Greenville municipal and airport officials. A number of business and professional men from Greenville were also invited to the informal dinner.

Keith has been conducting hearings in the Piedmont Local Service Investigation at Charlotte this week.

At the hearings Greenville and Wilson presented 11 witnesses, including the presidents of Atlantic Christian College, East Carolina College, two bank presidents, a state senator and industrial leaders.

The Piedmont Area Service Investigation involves air line service in the Carolinas, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Ohio.

Airlines involved are Capitol, Delta, Eastern, Piedmont, Southern Lake Central and Alleghany.

In Greenville Keith said, while the Charlotte hearings have been concluded, the Piedmont Area Service hearings will be resumed in Washington on April 27. There are more communities to be heard from at that time and then the air lines will present their testimony.

He said approximately 95 witnesses were heard from in Charlotte and 50 to 60 more are to be heard in Washington. In all, 60 or 70 communities will be heard during all the hearings. There are 57 applications for air service in the area embraced by the investigation.

Keith said all evidence in the hearings should be in within four to five weeks, then the record will be closed. There is to be a 45 to 60 day period during which time the interested parties will file briefs.

After studying the evidence and briefs Keith will render an initial decision concerning air service in the investigation area.

Following the decision exceptions will be filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board, then further briefs. The cases will be argued before the board and a final decision rendered.

Among those at yesterday's luncheon were Greenville's Mayor S. Eugene West; Wilson's mayor, John D. Wilson; F. Shelby Cullom, chairman of the Wilson Airport Commission; C. W. Harvey Jr., chairman of the Pitt-Greenville Airport Commission, who organized the luncheon, and Al Quinn, airport manager for the City of Charlotte.

Also attending was James Verner, transportation attorney of Washington, D.C. who is representing Greenville-Wilson in the hearings. In addition to local Attorneys W. W. Speight and W. H. Watson are representing local interests in the matter.

Airport Commission Chairman Harvey this morning expressed his appreciation to citizens of Greenville and Wilson who took time to journey to Charlotte and testify in the hearings.

"I want to compliment the witnesses for the way they presented their testimony," he declared this morning. "We are grateful to them for giving of their time in this matter."

Two Airports In State Allotted Added Services

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Raleigh - Durham and Greensboro - High Point airports in North Carolina will be terminal points for flights to the Great Lakes area, under a Civil Aeronautics Board order Friday.

The CAB, reconsidering its decision of Sept. 30 in the Great Lakes - Southeast service case, made these rulings:

1. Authorized Eastern Air Lines service between Raleigh-Durham and Pittsburgh, Akron, Cleveland and Detroit.

2. Permitted Eastern to start and end flights serving Chicago or Cincinnati at Charlotte, Greensboro-High Point or Raleigh-Durham. Eastern's current certificate requires Chicago-Cincinnati flights to start or end at Charlotte or points south.

3. Allowed Eastern to carry local traffic between Charlotte and Raleigh-Durham.

The CAB decided against allowing Eastern to carry local traffic between Raleigh - Durham and Greensboro - High Point, and retained Piedmont Airlines' hold on that service.

The board also granted a Piedmont request barring Eastern from carrying local traffic between Raleigh-Durham and Winston - Salem, Roanoke, Va. and Charleston, W.Va., and between Cincinnati and Winston-Salem.

Home Prisoner For 16 Years

BOSTON (AP) — A widow and her daughter were held at separate hospitals today after a priest and police discovered them in a cluttered, foodless apartment.

The mother had threatened suicide. Her emaciated 33-year-old daughter had been held prisoner in her own home, police said, for 16 years.

Police Lt. Chester A. Henchey said the situation was discovered by the Rev. Kenneth Murphy, a Catholic priest, who operates Rescue Inc., a nonsectarian service for potential suicides.

Father Murphy accompanied by police went to the home of Catherine Stearns, 59, Friday night after neighbors said she had threatened suicide. After taking Mrs. Stearns in hand, police searched for half an hour before they found her daughter, Mary, 33, under a pile of debris and blankets.

Henchey said the daughter was in such a wild state she had to be tied. She was calmed and taken to City Hospital where doctors began the process of building her up. The mother was taken to State Hospital.

A doctor said the daughter's thighs were "no thicker than a man's wrist." She weighed less than 60 pounds.

TOMBSTONE VICTIM

BAD KISSINGEN, Germany (AP) — A 56-year-old German housewife was killed by a tombstone falling from her brother's grave. Police said Mrs. Charlotte Christoph was tending the grave when the large stone toppled over. They said the stone probably had been loosened by rain and thrown off its base by a gust of wind.

GOP Elects A Chairman; Chicago Convention City

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans, preparing for the 1960 campaigns, today elected Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky as national chairman and decided to hold their presidential nominating convention in Chicago.

The 51-year-old Morton, a supporter of President Eisenhower and friend of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, was chosen without opposition to succeed the retiring Meade Alcorn of Connecticut.

The GOP National Committee approval of Chicago for the 1960 convention, starting July 25, came almost immediately after a site selection committee visited the city over five others bidding for the big political meeting.

It will take the Republican party back to Chicago where 100 years ago in 1860 it nominated Abraham Lincoln for the presidency.

Neither the convention site selection nor the election of Morton to head the committee brought any debate at the GOP meeting called to build for the 1960 elections on the ruins of 1958 defeats.

Ray C. Bliss of Ohio, chairman of a nominating committee that consulted with President Eisenhower Friday in Augusta, Ga., offered Morton's name. He said Eisenhower gave his blessing to Morton and predicted the Kentuckian would do an excellent job.

Morton is serving his first term in the Senate after three terms in the House and several years as [illegible] secretary of state.

Morton will retain his Senate seat while serving in the chairmanship. He will head the national committee through the party's 1960 convention, when it will be up to the GOP Presidential nominee to announce his choice for the post.

No other names were submitted for the chairmanship and no voice was raised against Morton. His election came by voice vote after a long series of seconding nominations including those by Mrs. Charles W. Weis of New York, Mrs. Marjory Benedict of California, and John T. Diederich of Kentucky.

Bliss also was chairman of the committee which recommended Chicago for the GOP meeting.

The Democrats have picked Los Angeles for their national convention starting July 11.

Bliss said the Republican convention will meet in Chicago's International Amphitheater.

He said there was some sentiment in the selection committee for an August convention but the group finally concluded that Chicago's auditorium and hotel facilities offset the date factor.

Chicago had limited its bid of $400,000 cash plus a free hall and other benefits to a July 23 meeting date because the amphitheater was committed to another convention in August.

Chicago won over Philadelphia, New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Miami Beach.

Bliss said the site group picked Chicago for several reasons. One, he said, is that Chicago is a "neutral area" as far as Republican Presidential nomination possibilities are concerned.

He said the only other neutral areas among the bidders were Philadelphia and Miami Beach. Bliss said New York and the two California cities were not regarded as neutral areas because Vice President Richard M. Nixon of California and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller are prospective candidates for the nomination.

In addition to making the final decision on the convention site, the Republican National Committee later today will select a new chairman to succeed Meade Alcorn who resigned.

Sen. Thruston Morton of Kentucky, who has Presidential approval, was expected to be picked.

Woodlands Fire Near Controlled

SWAN QUARTER, N.C. (AP)—A forest fire that has blackened nearly 14,000 acres of swampy woodland in Hyde and Tyrrell counties was reported today as "just about under control—if not under control."

R. C. Winkworth of Raleigh, regional forester in charge of fighting the big eastern North Carolina blaze, reported that only one hot spot — northwest of Alligator Lake—"is still troubling us," and "if we can get that, we'll have it under control."

He said a torpedo bomber plane loaded by Georgia had dropped water on the hot spot. A crew on an amphibious tractor went to the almost inaccessible area with a pump to try to mop it up.

"We've got lines around the entire head of the fire, and it's all holding this morning," Winkworth added. These lines extend six to eight miles in an area east and northeast of Lake Phelps.

Winkworth also reported that weather conditions had improved. Gusty winds which pushed the fire Friday had calmed and rain was expected this afternoon.

The big blaze, which began near here Wednesday, has cut a black swath through about 14,000 acres of brush and woodland.

Lack of rain and brisk winds spurred the fire against the efforts of 50 firefighters and a water-dropping airplane.

Prospects for bringing it under control were dim Friday night with a poor outlook for rain in the area.

State Forester Fred Claridge said, "A general rain is needed to lessen the increasing danger to forests in many sections of the state."

He said the Hyde-Tyrrell fire was the worst of a host of woodland blazes which have struck the state during the week.

Another fire burned in Washington County about 20 miles west of the fire here. It appeared to be under control late Friday.

One front of Hyde-Tyrrell fire pushed northward into low-lying Tyrrell County. The overall fire area stretched from New Lake to a point east of Phelps Lake, about 10 miles southeast of Creswell.

Anti-Communist Chinese Aiding Tibetan Rebels; Red China Says Revolt Still 'Hot'

TOKYO (AP) — Red China disclosed today that anti-Communist Chinese were fighting beside Tibetan rebels and admitted the revolt was still seething in the Himalayan kingdom.

Peiping Radio claimed only that the uprising had been crushed in the area of Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, and said Red troops were "now proceeding successfully to put down the armed rebellion in other places."

The Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa said about 100,000 Tibetan nomads—sword-wielding Goloks—had joined the revolt in the north.

The Peiping broadcast said the large quantity of arms seized in fighting the Tibetan rebels proved that they were helped by anti-Communist Chinese still fighting in the old Sikang province of China.

Sikang borders Tibet in the southwest along the Yangtze River—a wild, mountainous region which ranges surging sharply up to 24,900 feet and separated by canyon-like gorges.

The disclosure that the Sikang rebels—possibly remnants of Chiang Kai-shek's army on the mainland—were taking part in the Tibetan rebellion came in a report to the Chinese Communist Central Committee.

Chang Kuo-hua, one of the top Red Chinese experts in trying to convert Tibet to Communism, was quoted as saying "the upper strata of reactionaries in Tibet are closely linked with the rebels in the former Sikang province (now part of Red Szechwan)."

Chang said the fugitive Dalai Lama's former government in Tibet "came out more and more blatantly to support, supply and arm the rebels when part of the remnant rebels from the former Sikang province fled to Tibet."

His report — as broadcast by Peiping Radio — did not say when the Sikang rebels fled.

A week ago Nationalist China's official Central Daily News of Taipei, Formosa, said 10,000 Chinese Communist troops revolted in Sikang province in March and joined the Khamba (Tibetan) rebels.

Red China has replaced the Dalai Lama's Tibetan government with a puppet regime under the Panchen Lama but the Communists have carefully refrained from making any personal attack on the fugitive god-king.

The flight to India of the 23-year-old Dalai Lama, revered by Buddhists as "the Living Buddha," has stirred strong religious feelings in Asia against Red China.

In New Delhi, Indian foreign ministry sources said the Dalai Lama is expected to reach Bomdila in northeast India on Monday.

The royal Tibetan party of refugees traveling on horseback through wild Indian mountain country will be met there by Prime Minister Nehru's special envoy P. N. Menon—and a jeep.

Counter-Offer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U. S. railroads have proposed a 15-cent hourly wage cut, effective Nov. 1.

The wage cut is contained in counter-proposals served on the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Switchman's Union, according to Guy L. Brown, president of the engineers union.

The unions said two months ago they would seek a 12 per cent increase in wage rates for the more than 50,000 locomotive engineers.

'Distressed' By Aerial-Shooting

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru today called the shooting down of an Indian air force bomber by a Pakistani jet fighter "most serious and distressing."

The Pakistan air force admitted shooting down the Indian twin-engine Canberra jet Friday. The two crewmen survived, but suffered broken legs.

Pakistan said the bomber was brought down about 40 miles south of Pakistan's army headquarters at Rawalpindi after failing to obey an order to land.

Record Crop Of Wheat, Good Peach Crop Due

RALEIGH (AP) — The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service predicted today that North Carolina farmers will produce a record wheat crop and stand a good chance of producing a better than average peach crop.

The crop reporters said Peach growers reported their crop was 87 per cent of normal on April 1 as compared with 89 per cent a year ago and the 10-year average of 68 per cent.

The reports indicate peach "prospects are good to excellent for above average production, barring a freeze or other casualty."

Dedicate Rescue Squad Building Here Sunday

(A feature story on the Greenville Rescue Squad appears on page seven of today's Reflector. It was prepared by Roy Hardee, commander of the N. C. Association of Rescue Squads.)

The Greenville Rescue Squad building, an annex to the Main Fire Station at Fifth and Greene Sts., will be dedicated in ceremonies tomorrow afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock.

There is also to be open house from 12:30 o'clock until 6 p.m., Fire Chief George Gardner said this morning.

The public is invited to visit the station and view the rescue equipment and the new building. Fire equipment will also be on display in the main station.

Roy Hardee, commander of the State Association of Rescue Squads, will preside over tomorrow's dedication ceremonies. Keys to an ambulance donated to the squad by White Chevrolet Co. will be accepted on behalf of the city by Mayor S. Eugene West.

The mayor will be called on for a few remarks. City Manager Leonard Bloxam will also be heard along with Fire Chief Gardner, who originated the Rescue Squad.

"We would like for as many citizens as possible to come down and see their equipment tomorrow," Chief Gardner said.

"We are grateful to the people who made this possible. If it were not for the generosity of the people of Greenville and Pitt County there would be no squad."

The individuals and organizations which have donated to the Greenville Rescue Squad are too numerous to mention, the chief said.

"All those who gave are a part of the squad, even though they don't answer the calls."

Missions Outpost Will Fold Its Tent

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

The oldest existing American Protestant missionary effort takes a big step toward folding its tent next week.

Ceremonies in Beirut, Lebanon, on Wednesday will mark the official beginning of a merger of Protestant missions in Syria and Lebanon into the independent National Evangelical Synod of Syria and Lebanon.

It is part of a long range Protestant program to hand over control of foreign missions to the native churches and disassociate Protestant Christianity from hated Western colonialism.

American Protestant missionaries began work in Syria and Lebanon in 1823, under the supervision of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, which then included both Congregationalists and Presbyterians.

The board now is an agency of the Congregational Christian Churches but most of the missionary work in Syria and Lebanon has been carried on by the Presbyterians.

When the merger finally is accomplished the National Evangelical Synod will inherit 57 millionaries as "fraternal workers" and about a million dollars worth of mission property.

Although the number of Arab Protestants is small — there are less than 250,000 in the whole Middle East—the Protestant influence has been considerable.

Among the properties slated to pass out of mission control is the Beirut College for Women, the first such institution established in the Turkish Ottoman Empire.

From less than a dozen girls in 1825, the college has expanded to last year's enrollment of 432, including 57 Protestants. There were 171 Moslems.

The mission properties also include Aleppo College for Men in Syria, the Near East School of Theology in Beirut, seven secondary schools, two hospitals and a tuberculosis sanatorium.

The Syrian and Lebanese mission projects receive about $400,000 a year from American churches.

Financial support will not be cut off completely after the merger but, instead of a fixed sum, the American churches will contribute funds only as they are needed.

Students Are High In Academic Achievement

By CATHERINE MOORE
Teenage Writer

"Academic achievement of French high school students is higher than that of Americans, but the American high school students get more community spirit than the French.

"In my opinion, there should be a happy medium between the two," stated Mrs. Ned Smith, a native Frenchwoman, as she spoke to the Future Teachers of America Monday night. Mrs. Smith teaches French to selected second and fifth graders at Wahl-Coates Labcratory and Elmhurst Elementary schools.

She told the club that the government runs the entire educational system in France and that it also monopolizes the granting of degrees.

Each graduate must pass the Bacculaureate, the final examination of two sections, to graduate. This makes the education received by a teen-ager attending a private school and one attending a government school equal in quality.

French high school pupils take more foreign languages and sciences than do most United States students. All high school subjects are compulsory.

However, Mrs. Smith emphasizes that Greenville will have the French beaten in the study of foreign languages if the schools get a system of foreign language study working with the younger elementary school children, such as the ones begun at Wahl-Coates and Elmhurst now.

The French begin their first foreign language in the sixth grade; Mrs. Smith believes this is too late. "I would not have an accent (referring to her fluent English) if I had started earlier," she stated.

After the program she fascinated some of the club members, at their insistence, by reeling off a list of French words and then mentioning, "That's one to 12."

Said several French students, realizing what an accent their French has, "Gosh! I never would have known it."

In answer to a question from Mrs. Kemp H. Baldwin, club adviser, Mrs. Smith further amazed the girls by stating that she thinks in English, and does not think in her native tongue and translate into English!

Band Leaves for D. C.

Leaving at 6:20 this morning, 76 band members, Director James E. Rodgers and five chaperones boarded two chartered buses for the nation's capital. There they will officially represent North Carolina tonight in the "Parade of Princesses" of the annual Cherry Blossom Festival.

For many high school bandsmen this is a repeat performance. Three years ago the band marched in the "Parade of Princesses," in which bands from all states march, and won for itself the title of the fourth place marching band in the nation.

Paper Staff Gives Dance

Last night GREEN LIGHTS staff sponsored a semi-formal dance for the entire school. During the three hours, the high school dance band played a variety of dance rhythms.

The class sold refreshments — cake, fudge, brownies, drinks, and sandwiches—during the dance.

At the local markets, Pitt County food shoppers will find that pork is expected to continue as the most economical red meat buy during April. Pork prices showed a slight decrease from last week as a result of a larger number of hogs reaching markets. In addition, many stores are featuring special prices on various pork cuts.

Egg prices have hit a low of the year with slight reductions expected during the remainder of the month. Broiler prices have shown some small fluctuations during past weeks, but they are expected to be relatively steady through April. Large supplies of heavy hens are now available at very reasonable prices.

Good quality fruits are continuing to be good buys, with apples, bananas, oranges and grapefruit appearing as the most attractive buys at the produce counter. More fresh fruits can be purchased as the spring season gets under way.

Vegetables in good supply at thrifty prices are cabbage, lettuce, radishes, carrots, greens, collards and Irish potatoes. Increasing supplies of sweet corn, cucumbers, asparagus, green beans, and eggplant are arriving at the local markets with lower prices soon expected.

OES OFFICERS . . . Farmville Chapter No. 146, Order of the Eastern Star, recently held an open installation ceremony in the Masonic Hall.

FARMVILLE—Chapter No. 146, Order of the Eastern Star, installed the 1959-60 officers at an open installation recently in the Masonic hall in Farmville. Mrs. Jaxie Kinsaul, W.M., and Mr. Claude Joyner, W.P., presided over the meeting. After the chapter was declared open the Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison.

Mrs. Rosella Edwards of Goldsboro Chapter 53, Grand Representative to the state of Nebraska, was welcomed as a distinguished guest for the occasion. Other guests from Greenville Chapter No. 149, Goldsboro Chapter No. 53 and Pikeville Chapter No. 300 and local members and friends were all extended a welcome.

The worthy matron gave her farewell address and thanked the members for their support during the year. She then sang as a special tribute to the officers-elect a solo, "Others."

Joyner, worthy patron, spoke briefly on the Eastern Star and its meaning to him. He thanked the members for their support.

C. H. Barnhill, past patron of Greenville No. 149, was then introduced as installing officer. He introduced his assistants who were Mrs. Blanche Jackson, past matron of Greenville as installing marshal; Mrs. Ethel Tucker of Greenville as installing organist; Mrs. Eula Williams, installing chaplain; and Mrs. Lillie Spell, installing secretary.

The following officers were then installed: Mrs. Mary Taylor, worthy matron; Joe Melton, worthy patron; Mrs. Irene Willoughby, associate matron; C. L. Ivey, associate patron; Mrs. Ruth Ivey, secretary; Mrs. Susie Melton, treasurer; Mrs. Bertha Shirley, associate conductress; Mrs. Kathleen Wooten, chaplain; Mrs. Nell Joyner, marshal; Mrs. Lola Holloman, Adah; Mrs. Kathleen Flake, Ruth; Mrs. Evelyn Grimsley, Esther; Mrs. Jean Allen, Martha; Mrs. Dorothy Brock, Electa; Mrs. Gail Joyner, warder; and Claude Joyner, sentinel.

Mrs. Taylor, newly installed worthy matron, accepted the gavel with words of appreciation for confidence bestowed upon her. Melton, worthy patron, accepted his station with gratitude and both pledged their talents and energies to the chapter. They then recognized members of their families who were present.

Mrs. Ruth Ivey presented Mrs. Kinsaul with her past matron's jewel and Mrs. Susie Melton presented Mr. Joyner with a gift from the chapter.

The 72 present assembled downstairs for refreshments. Mrs. Mary Taylor poured punch, and Mrs. Jaxie Kinsaul served individual cakes from an appointed table covered with a blue cloth and bearing a centerpiece of jonquils. Assorted cookies, salted nuts and cheese straws were served buffet style.

Minimum Wage Bill Is Near Reality

After a long and bitter struggle North Carolina's House of Representatives is within one more favorable vote of passing a 75-cents-an-hour state minimum wage.

With realistic exemptions to the legislation restored in a bitter floor struggle in the House Thursday, the bill became a measure which apparently a majority of the members of the House will support. And if it passes the House in its present form, there is little doubt that the Senate will also give its approval as it did to minimum wage legislation two years ago.

Perhaps the most surprising of recent developments in the struggle for a minimum wage in North Carolina was the forceful floor action which brought certain exemptions back into the bill after a House committee had tied to it an amendment which would eliminate all exemptions. Most observers saw the amendment as a maneuver to kill the bill.

The no-exemptions amendment could have proved fatal to the bill if a large number of legislators had been apathetic toward a minimum wage for the state. It afforded them the perfect opportunity to vote down the bill with no-exemptions and be rid of the controversial issue at least for this session. The fact that exemptions were restored on the floor is indicative of the fact that a majority of the members of the House sincerely feel the state needs some sort of minimum wage legislation. They seem determined to write a practical, workable piece of legislation which will help North Carolina, and at the same time be a minimum wage law the people of the state can live with.

In its present form the 75-cents-an-hour minimum wage will exempt the following:

Farm and domestic workers, outside salesmen on commission, students doing part time work, workers whose pay consists mainly of tips, shoe shine boys, newsboys, caddies, baby sitters, theatre ushers, bowling alley pin boys, part-time and piece work employes in the seafood industry, employes in summer camps, all persons under 16 years of age, and employes of establishments which employ less than five workers.

Even with these exemptions, the bill is expected to boost the wages of some 60,000 to 90,000 people employed in North Carolina at less than 75 cents an hour. By eliminating these exemptions the number affected by the legislation would be considerably higher, but chances of the bill being written into law would be far less . . . probably almost nil.

When the bill comes up for its third reading in the House—now scheduled for Tuesday—we trust a majority of the representatives will give it their support.

An Unselfish Service To Greenville Citizens

Dedication Sunday afternoon of the recently completed Rescue Squad building adjacent to Greenville's Fire Department should call to mind the outstanding service members of the local Rescue Squad have rendered to Greenville and surrounding area in recent years.

When there is an accident, an automobile wreck, a drowning, an emergency of any kind, members of the Greenville Rescue Squad usually are among the first people on the scene to offer whatever assistance they can. The local volunteer unit, established four years ago under the auspices of the Greenville Fire Department, is well equipped to perform its duties. It has trucks, a boat, an iron lung, cutting tools and countless other items of equipment which might be needed in an emergency.

More important than its equipment, however, the greatest asset of the Rescue Squad is the well-trained and devoted group of members who stand ready and willing to give their services any hour of the day or night to those who need it.

During the month of March alone, members of the Rescue Squad put in 167 man hours in answering emergency calls, providing first aid and other training. Moreover, each Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights members of the squad accept duty assignments at the Fire Department to be on hand in case an emergency arises.

The alert, dedicated and well trained members who make up the Greenville Rescue Squad have in the past four years performed a tremendous service to the people of Greenville and Pitt County. They have saved many lives which otherwise might have been lost. They have contributed to public service countless hours of hard work which they otherwise might have been spent in leisure.

The Reflector salutes members of Greenville's Rescue Squad for the unselfish service they have rendered to their fellow citizens.

Signs Are Trying To Tell Us Something

The Park Has Attractions

The City Council was asked Thursday evening to lock, bolt and chain entrances to Greene Springs Park each day when the sun goes down.

A member of the council, close to his constituents, brought the matter up at the request of some of the folks who live in the area. They have told him, he said, that the park enjoys a sort of remarkable nocturnal popularity.

The report was not embellished with any bill of particulars about why the place is so popular after dark. One can assume, however, that the traffic problem is terrific.

That assumption is made with the idea in mind that the park's outstanding attraction at the present time is its automobile parking facilities. Long-range planning calls for the area to become a complex of physical and cultural delights — including vast flower gardens, a lake, picnic tables and fire places for outdoor cooking —but most of those things have not been highly developed.

The parking facilities, however, have been pressed into widespread use. Automobile riders can drive in, have a view of Greene Springs, enjoy the beauty of flowers planted thus far, watch the moon rise over the bluff topped by the Highway Patrol garage, and lose themselves in the opportunity to be away from the rush and hurry of other parts of town.

Some time ago, a couple of persons, with a maddening drive stimulated by academic interests, reviewed the history of Green Springs Park and took upon themselves to determine the basic reasons for the place's cool-of-the-evening attraction.

They waited for a reasonably comfortable moonlit night and sallied forth — all in the cause of intellectual achievement.

Their technique was simple: a quiet knock on car windows, an explanation of their research, and a request for an answer. Some of the answers are these:

"Well, we're students in a biology class and our study project this marking period is flowers and plants of Pitt County. We thought this was an excellent place to begin a study."

"I'm working on a research project in science, studying the effects of streams which have been cleared and streams which have not been cleared. Greene Springs, as you probably know, was recently cleared and is an excellent resource in my study. My companion is keeping notes on my findings."

"The four of us have found a new interest in the work of William Wordsworth, who was one of the outstanding poets of the Romantic Age. Since so much of his writing deals with nature, we felt that the atmosphere offered by this place of beauty would afford us an even greater appreciation of what he wrote."

"We are both teachers, working on similar grade levels. We like to work together in grading papers and preparing tests, and we find the quietness of this place perfect for the concentration demanded of our efforts."

These few samples were, as were most of the answers, from couples or two couples. Only once did the researchers find only one person in a parked car.

According to their notes, she was well past middle age- gray-haired, rather elegant in her appearance and wearing sun glasses.

Her answer to their inquiry was delivered with a heavy Nordic accent.

It was, "I vant to be alone."

Split Tortilla Weds

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Marriage is a simple thing in some of the more remote villages of tropical Oaxaca state.

At midnight, the bride and groom split a tortilla and each eat half. Then the town whoops it up until dawn.

Furthermore, says a reporter for the newspaper Excelsior just back from San Felipe Zihaultepec. polygamy is still common. A man can have as many wives as he can support. Some have eight.

But, although the marriage itself is a simple ceremony, preliminaries can be complicated. Here is an account of the wooing and wedding of Gregorio Bautista, 15, and his bride, Elvira Salvador Gregorio, 13:

Gregorio, hard-working young Zapotec farmhand, fell in love with Elvira.

Following custom, he consulted an elderly man in the village, asking him to become his "ambassador."

The ambassador — Don Agustin Santiago — first made several calls on the girl's father, each time bringing gifts.

Agreement on a marriage was reached and the night before the wedding Gregorio made a public announcement.

The following day — the day of the ceremony — he and friends took a gift of pork to the bride's home.

Meantime, Gregorio had stocked his own home with many items: 400 ears of neatly sacked corn, several wrapped packages of carefully cut firewood, bags of sugar and coffee, two turkeys, 20 chickens, several quarts of aguardiente (alcoholic) and matches and cigarettes.

After lunch on the day of the wedding, Gregorio and friends paraded through the center of the village taking his gifts to Elvira's home.

Don Agustin, who headed the parade, knocked on the door and was greeted by the girl's father. The father invited Don Agustin into the house.

After an exchange of pleasantries, the gifts were deposited inside and the ambassador then offered the father a drink of aguardiente.

The town band — a boy with a guitar and his brother with a home-made harp — played several Indian ballads.

Conversation continued for three hours. Then Gregorio left with his friends for a final bachelor supper.

At 6 o'clock, a committee of women dressed in their Sunday best escorted Elvira to her new home, Gregorio's adobe hut.

Much later the bride and groom met for an important part of the ceremony. Don Agustin gave them a long lecture on married life, its duties and privileges.

Everyone listened closely, although the discourse was long and tedious.

Promptly at midnight the torrilla rite took place.

Gregorio tore the tortilla in two. He ate half. His bride ate half. Presto! They were married.

The crowd broke into cheers and the two-man orchestra broke into music. The village then celebrated until dawn.

Such marriages, of course, are not common in the more civilized-parts of dominantely Roman Catholic Mexico.

But in remote areas, the Indians who lived there centuries before conquering Spaniards came, still retain certain ancient customs.

Background On New Bern Trip

By BUNNY HARRIS

RALEIGH — The transporting of 170 legislators and their wives, the Governor, Council of State, Supreme Court and members of the press, radio and TV to New Bern this week brings to mind the comment of Samuel Johnson on the subject of women preachers:

"Sir," he said to Boswell, "a woman preaching is like a dog walking on his hind legs. It is not done well; but you are surprised to find it done at all."

Only in this case it would be a good deal more accurate to say it is not done easily though it was done well. Surprisingly so. There were some minor, exceedingly minor, mishaps but these only added to the interest and excitement of the day.

Among them, en route down, one bus had a flat tire, another ran out of oil and a third got stuck in the sand.

Yet all arrived in time for the ribbon-cutting ceremony at the gate of Tryon Palace, (with Governor Hodges doing the honors) to go off approximately on schedule.

There followed a brief session of House and Senate in the Palace and then a cocktail party at Trent Pines Club which was, in the words of Mrs. A. Kellenberger (guiding spirit of the restoration after the death of her mother, Mrs. Maude Moore Latham): "An oasis in the desert of our weary legislature."

On arrival in New Bern all the women in the party were presented with orchids — 230 in all.

Food for thought on the "New South:" Although the statement runs somewhat contrary to Truman Capote s literary picture of the decadent South, one paused to think and found some truth in Governor Hodges observation (during the luncheon at the Scottish Rite Temple): "People who show pride in their past are uaually a good bet for the future."

The afternoon's agenda included a sightseeing tour of New Bern's historic sites (in addition to Tryon Palace), among them the John Wright Stanly home about which local residents proudly proclaim: "President George Washington slept there TWO nights in 1791."

For at least one bus load of passengers this extra sightseeing was handled in a leisurely fashion with the bus driver as king: "What do you want to do? There are a lot of historic sights to see — if I knew where to find them."

Sen. Spencer Bell of Mecklenburg came up with a fine suggestion: "Let's take a drive along the river."

It was done — and it was lovely.

Some of the ladies in the party, attracted by a couple of interesting little dress shops in downtown New Bern wrestled with their consciences and decided that a tour of the main street would constitute sightseeing. They had the bus swing by the main drag so that they could hop out.

But no sooner was the bus out of sight than they discovered, alas, it being Wednesday afternoon the stores were closed.

Mrs. Martha Medford, wife of the Senator from Waynesville, was the smartest woman in the party. She carried a pair of walking shoes in her bag to get her comfortably through the two-hour tour of fabulous (yes, it is) Tryon Palace.

Foot-weary and not quite so provident were Mrs. Lula Sätisky, Journal clerk of the House and Mrs. Inez Plank, the Speaker's secretary. These two exceptionally charming ladies worked out another scheme for saving wear and tear on shoe leather. They moved from window seat to window seat during the tour of the Palace resting as they observed the splendor before them.

This didn't last too long, however. When they reached the Council Chamber and made themselves comfortable the hostess told the group: "All the tapestry —including the cushions on the window seat — are three hundred years old."

It would be worth recording for posterity the look on the ladies faces as they rose simultaneously, airily as though called home by the angels.

Dr. Rachel Davis, Lenoir County representative, gave legislators a cocktail party on the lawn of her lovely home in Kinston en route back. But she, herself missed most of it. One of the most prominent physicians in the area, she was called out on an emergency case almost as soon as the first guests arrived.

Best comment of the day: Soft drink heir Bill Hines, a neighbor of Dr. Davis', offered the "facilities" of his palatial home to the men in the party.

Rep. J. Y. Jordan of Buncombe came back to report: "A white frocked servant let me in, another showed me up stairs and a third showed me the proper facilities. When I went in the crown tax was one cent — when I came out it was three."

What We May See In Future

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — What do you, the man in the street, have to look forward to on a question which may mean your life: This country's ability to handle itself in case of a Soviet attack or desire to attack?

A good part of that answer has come in pieces and bits over these past few weeks from American military leaders and key men in the Eisenhower administration, either in testimony before Congress or in speeches.

The latest view of present and future has come from a man whose own knowledge of American and Soviet strength is a basic element in shaping the thinking of the government: Allen W. Dulles.

Dulles, brother of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, is director of the Central Intelligence Agency, which is this country's super-spy agency overseas. He gave some of his thinking in a speech in New Orleans this week.

Since it coincides with testimony given Congress by the military leaders in large part, it can be summarized here as the attitude of the Eisenhower administration toward the Soviet Union, present and future.

The Soviets do not now have military superiority over the United States and are not likely to provoke war "at this time."

The reason is they know this country has the power, through long-range bombers and nuclear bombs, to retaliate with such terrible devastation that it would not be sensible to start a war which would cause the U.S.S.R. such damage.

In short, Dulles said: "I consider that our military posture is stronger and our ability to inflict damage is today greater than that of the Soviet Union."

Dulles was thus reflecting what seems to be a great self-confidence—about the present, that is—which seems to permeate the top military leaders of the country.

But this doesn't necessarily mean that even if the United States should stay ahead of the Soviets militarily — and that's questionable — that the Soviet Union will not be able to move step by step to gobble up the world. Why?

Because they are putting their greatest emphasis on long-range missiles which could reach not only any part of Europe or Asia but the United States, too.

Just assume that in 10 years both the United States and the Soviet Union have all the long-range missiles they need. Does that mean the two sides just glare at each other, with both afraid to move?

Actually — and this is interpreting what has been said — such a stalemate in terror weapons may work to Soviet advantage. Without starting war, the Soviets may try conquest by subversion, infiltration, economic help and other means.

If they so move — without provoking war — would the United States start a war over nonmilitary Soviet aggression?

It hardly seems likely, if only because once the United States tried shooting missiles the Soviets with the same kind of long-range weapons could make us sorry we started, just as we could make them sorry now.

So there may be years of so-called peace which is not peace. Dulles himself doesn't think Premier Nikita Khrushchev wants war.

He said: Khrushchev "is convinced that the final victory of communism can be achieved mainly by nonmilitary means. Here the Soviet economic offensive looms large."

To sum up: The leaders don't look for war now or anytime soon. Yet no one is predicting the Soviets won't inch their way around the world by other means.

Wet After 52 Years

(Kinston Free Press)

The people of Oklahoma have gone to the polls and by a substantial vote authorized the legal sale of alcoholic beverages.

This marks the first time that the state of Oklahoma has been in the wet column since its admission to statehood and adoption of its constitution in 1907. It was Indian Territory prior to that time.

The usual arguments were made in favor of permitting the liquor barons to have a legal status rather than to operate blind tigers.

The state of Mississippi is the lone legally dry state now.

In the Oklahoma election the usual arguments were made. The liquor tycoons were making millions of dollars and neither State nor Uncle Sam were getting any taxes. The only revenue accruing was from fines.

The same argument was made that by legalizing the sale of alcoholic beverages the consumption would be reduced and a spirit of temperance would prevail.

North Carolina after the repeal of the 18th Amendment (the only amendment to the Constitution of the United States ever to be repealed) adopted the present ABC system. This spells "Alcoholic Beverage Control." There never was a greater misnomer than beverage control. There has been control of the legal sale which has increased markedly. Many drinkers, particularly in the late teens, have been cultivated and developed under the so-called control system. The illegal dealers haven't been put out of business by any means.

The police dockets in Kinston and throughout the State where ABC laws prevail are filled with the names of those charged with bootlegging and having non-tax paid stuff on hand.

Of course some of the counties in North Carolina haven't gone into the ABC business. They are still by virtue of local option "legally dry."

The Free Press said at the time the 18th Amendment to the Federal Constitution which made the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages illegal all over the United States, was repealed, that the failure of the righteous enactment of 1918 was due to the dereliction of temperance people. Up to the resulting in the enactment of the 18th Amemdnent, right thinking temperance folks in this country conducted a consistent and effective educational campaign against the evils of alcoholic beverages. Good progress was being made as evidenced by the ratification of the amemdnent.

Unfortunately upon the adoption of the amendment the drys felt that they had accomplished a supreme victory and forgot to continue their educational campaign. The 18th Amendment went the course of all laws where public interest more or less dies down and enforcement thereof is left exclusively to the officers of the law.

The Free Press believes that it would be better for temperance forces of this country to resume a vigorous educational campaign, setting forth the evils of the liquor business and undertaking to develop the growing generations in an atmosphere of sobriety.

Quote . . .

"The civilian control over the military which is so essential in a democracy is weakened by short tenures in the top offices of the Department of Defense. The short-term Secretary of Defense is more or less at the mercy of his military advisers for much of his incombency."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

Some students of a large eastern university gave a party recently to a fraternity brother who was going into military service. A lot of liquor was consumed, and before morning the police had to step in and take over.

They found the fraternity house a shambles. These men had broken up the furniture — their own furniture. They had torn the bannisters off the stairs, smashed windows, and wrecked walls which could be repaired only at vast cost. The dean of the university decided to call in the dean of another university as he questioned the students, for he realized that there was something more involved than the mere destruction of property. One by one the students were brought in and questioned. To the amazement of both deans, they found, amid a multitude of answers to their questions, this one statement recurring over and over again: "What difference does it make anyway?We may be dead in a year or two. Why not break up everything if we want to?"

In spite of the shadow of A-bombs and H-bombs falling across us all, these days are nevertheless the most promising ever confronted. If any considerable number of our young people are asking the question, "What does it matter, anyway?" We as a nation are in a state of great jeopardy.

The answer to the question, "What does it matter, anyway?" is, "There never was a time when life could mean so much to everybody as it does right now."

FTC May Loose New Complaints

By ELMER ROESSNER

The Federal Trade Commission, which has filed antitrust complaints against two supermarket chains, may be ready to uncork more complaints.

The FTC has cited the National Tea Co. for violating the Clayton Antitrust Act by acquiring 13 corporations with 440 stores, and the Kroger Co. for acquiring more than 40 corporations with 1,900 stores.

These corporate marriages, the FTC says, tended to restrict competition. The complaints resulted from a broad study of the food industry.

Pouring material into this study has been the National Association of Retail Grocers of United States, largely independents.

After a four-year study, the association has issued a report in which it alleges that competition has been diminished by many others in addition to National Tea and Kroger.

LIST OF MERGERS

The association's study goes back only through 1955, so its figures do not coincide with those of the FTC. It estimates the number of food stores acquired by major firms through mergers as:

George Weston, Ltd., 740; Winn Dixie, 250; National Tea, 178; ACF Wrigley, 158; Kroger, 131; Grand Union, 120; American Stores, 97; Colonial 91; Food Fair, 71; Lucky, 63; Safeway, 48; Jewel Tea, 43.

If the association's figures are correct — and they have not been publicly disputed — then the FTC has its work cut out for it. It must investigate the complaint and, if found valid, act against those suspected of violating the law.

However, two questions remain:

1. Do these mergers help or harm the consumer?

2. Is expansion by starting new stores more menacing than expansion by merger? There is also the question: Is expansion by merger less desirable than expansion by starting new stores?

A FEW ANSWERS

For the most part, these mergers seem to help the public, but not suppliers. The larger the chain, the greater its buying power. Thus, the more stores a chain has, the further it can force down suppliers' prices and the cheaper it can sell to the public.

That's true only in general, of course. But assuming its validity, should public policy be to keep prices down, even at the bankruptcy of small enterprisers; or to keep prices up and provide everybody with profits?

The second question is a little more difficult to answer because complete figures on new outlets are not available. But some chains have been opening as many as four new markets a week, and this expansion appears to be at a greater rate than that of many on the NARGUS list.

That leads to a curious result of Federal law.

Chain A, by buying 100 stores from Chain B, may be violating antitrust laws by lessening competition.

On the other hand, Chain X can start 500 new stores, thereby outnumbering Chain A, without violating any Federal law.

If Federal law permits growth by starting new stores, shouldn't it also permit growth by merger? Furthermore, isn't growth by merger more painless than growth by expansion?

If Independent Y sells out to Chain A, at least gets something; if Independent Y is bankrupt by a new Chain X store across the street, he becomes another Dun & Bradstreet statistic.

East Carolina And Greenville Take Easy Victories

Ellen Pitches Two Hitter At Tribe

SALISBURY — Freshman righthander Johnny Ellen pitched two-hit ball here yesterday as East Carolina College blasted out a 7-0 shutout win over Catawba in the Pirates' North State Conference baseball opener.

Ellen was backed up by a 10-hit attack put on by his teammates. Bob Hart and Gary Pierce each had two-run homers in the slugging show.

Although Pierce's fifth-inning home run was one of the game's big blows, his first-inning single gave Ellen the working margin he needed in the game. Pierce's single, through the box, scored Jerry Carpenter who had gotten a two-base hit as the second man up in the game.

Carpenter, Pierce, Hart, Ellen and Glenn Bass each had two hits for the Pirates. Ellen, in addition, struck out 10 and walked only four in the nine-inning game.

East Carolina's next game on the road trip will be Monday at Western Carolina, with possibilities of a doubleheader being arranged against the Cats. The Pirates were to have met Lenoir Rhyne in a twin-bill this afternoon but the games were washed out by heavy early-morning rains in Hickory.

If a doubleheader can be arranged by ECC Coach Jim Mallory against Western Carolina, the Pirates will return to Hickory Tuesday for a single game against Lenoir Rhyne. If the doubleheader cannot be arranged, East Carolina will play in Cullowhee on Monday and Tuesday.

Larry Crayton, freshman lefthander, is expected to start for the Pirates Monday. If the Bucs play twice, veteran Ben Baker will pitch the second game, with Ellen scheduled to return to action Tuesday.

Score by innings:

East Car.	112	030	000—7 10 1
Catawba	000	000	000—0 2 1

First Place At Stake In ACC Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A week ago Clemson was looking well nigh unbeatable in the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball race. She had a 4-0 conference mark and had won nine games overall without a loss. She had the pitching and the hitting and her early lead seemed likely to stand up.

Since then the Tigers have taken their lumps twice in conference play—once from North Carolina, once from North Carolina State—and lagged into a three-way tie for first place in the ACC with N.C. State and Wake Forest. Clemson's record is 4-2 and State and Wake were 2-1.

Chances looked good today that Clemson would be replaced in the lead by one of the teams she was tied with. N.C. State was at Duke and Wake Forest was at North Carolina, and a victory by either of the visiting teams would mean dropping Clemson into second place.

Virginia, 0-2 in the conference and 4-2 overall, was at Richmond in today's other game.

No games were played in the ACC Friday.

Rosi Wins TV Bout With KO

By JAMES KOCH

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Paoli Rosi's camp lost no time today clamoring for a lightweight title shot following the New Yorker's quick victory over Frankie Ryff in a televised fight.

"I demand a championship fight" with titleholder Joe Brown in May or June, screamed Manager Cy Crisci after Rosi had stopped Ryff at 2:48 of the third round last night.

"They keep saying one more good win and you're ready for Brown. Well, we're ready. My boy won't get in the ring again until he's fighting for the title", Crisci declared.

Rosi, cut badly about the right eye, was behind in the fight until he caught the fast-stepping Ryff flush on the jaw with a sharp right in the third. Ryff went down, was up before the compulsory eight-count ended and then took a jarring left hook. He stiffened and pitched head first to the canvas.

Ryff got up and was staggering back toward Rosi when Referee Joe Palmer stopped it. In the books, it went as a technical knockout.

After an even opening round, Ryff took the play away from the favorite Rosi with sharp lefts and rights. Rosi's right eye was bleeding badly.

Later, Rosi said he was cut when Ryff's head unintentionally rammed into his.

"That cut made me mad," Rosi said. "Then I went after him pretty good."

Rosi said he staggered Ryff with a left hook in the second round. "Ryff held on and I knew I had hurt him", Rosi said. "From then on I knew I could take him."

Southern California and Michigan State will meet for the first time in football on a home-and-home basis in 1963 and 1964.

Spahn Has New Pitches

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Southpaw Warren Spahn, who at 37 has reached the age when most baseball players have either retired or are thinking of retiring, may have come up with something that will keep him in the game a few more years—a couple of new pitches.

The crafty Milwaukee Braves pitcher spoiled the Pittsburgh Pirates' home opener Friday by scattering seven hits in twirling the 44th shutout of his major league career.

Spahn, shooting for his 10th season as a 20-game winner, revealed in the dressing room he has developed a couple of new pitches, including a curve. He said it worked especially good against southpaw hitters. Among his six strikeout victims were lefthanders Bill Virdon and Bob Skinner, each of whom struck out twice and failed to get a hit.

Spahn, who will be 38 on April 23, got pats on the back from all hands as the Braves whooped it up in their dressing room.

Spahn himself said:

"All I'm looking forward to is to win my next game. But what I have lost in age I have gained in the pitches I have developed. I believe I might be around for awhile at that."

JV's Win

Rose High's junior varsity took their second win of the season yesterday with a 11-5 win over Wilson.

Ed Smoot had a grandslam hommer in the fourth frame to pace the victory. Smoot had three hits in three trips to the plate and Anderson had two.

White Sox Win In Fourteenth; Spahn Hurls Shutout Over Bucs

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

You can excuse Manager Joe Gordon if he wasn't overly enthusiastic after his Cleveland Indians won their American League opener at Kansas City Friday. The score, 6-4, was pleasant enough, but The Score was a wild worry.

The Score in question is Herb Score, the young pitcher who broke in so sensationally, but who hasn't had anything except trouble since he took a line drive in the eye two years ago.

What hopes the Injuns have of going any place but down from last year's fourth-place finish in the pennant race are based on a comeback by the 25-year-old lefty. Since winning 20 games as a sophomore in 1956, Score has a 4-4 record, missing most of '57 after that line drive accident, and out most of last season because of arm trouble.

Friday, after a slow pace in spring training, Score was waved in from the bull pen when the A's got to starter Gary Bell for their third run in the ninth. With Score pitching, the A's scored again without swinging a bat. He walked the first man he faced on four pitches, wild pitched a run home and walked the second batter. He was 2-0 against the third man before Dick Brodowski replaced him and put it away.

A topcoat crowd of 22,630 showed up at Kansas City with 38,332 sitting in at Detroit as the Chicago White Sox got past the Tigers 9-7 in 14 innings on Nellie Fox's first home run since 1957. The Boston at New York game was rained out. Baltimore and Washington weren't scheduled.

In the National League, Milwaukee's defending champs handed hopeful Pittsburgh an 8-0 trouncing on the seven-hit pitching of Warren Spahn. Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 2-1, and San Francisco defeated St. Louis 6-65 in a pair of night games.

With the Los Angeles at Chicago game postponed by snow in the NL, the majors' five openers drew 137,456 fans, most of whom sat through chilly, damp weather. Detroit had the day's top crowd as the AL collected 60,692 fans to the 76,494 counted at the three NL contests.

Bell, was backed by an 11-hit attack against loser Bob Grim and relievers Ray Herbert and Russ Meyer. George Strickland, out of baseball for a year, had three hits and drove in two runs for the Indians.

Fox tore into Detroit pitching for five hits in seven at-bats. The two-run, two-out homer that ended the four-hour, 25-minute struggle was his first in 761 trips since Sept. 19, 1957.

Metz Shares Golf Lead

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Sooner or later, youth will be served, and you couldn't find a better example today than in the $5,000 Lake Charles Invitational Golf Tournament where veteran Dick Metz had his hands full with two young rivals.

As the third round of the 72-hole tournament opened today, the 50-year-old Metz shared first place with 22-year-old Hugh Royer at 137. Only one stroke behind was Mason Rudolph, 24-year-old former Walker Cup team star from Clarksville, Tenn.

Royer, a Columbus, Ga., native making his first start as a pro, fired a 3-under-par 69 Friday over the soggy 6,506-yard Lake Charles Golf and Country Club course.

Metz, runnerup in the 1938 National Open, slipped to a 70 Friday after his opening-round 67. The Fort Worth, Tex., campaigner's putter lacked the punch it had in the opening session.

Rudolph also carded a second-round 70 as a follow-up to his opening 68.

A Whopper

M. E. (Baltimore) Jones, Greenville's best-known fisherman, landed another whopper this morning.

Jones' catch was six-and-three quarters pounds of largemouth bass. The fish was attached by a a combination artificial minnow-spinner lure and pulled in on a 12-pound test line attached to a spinning rod.

The Negro expert on habits of fish would not specify the location of the pond where the fish was caught. He did say, however, it was a private fishing pond located north of Greenville.

According to Baltimore, the catch was not quite as big as a second bass which got away. That fish hit the line and broke it.

Forty-Two Yale Men In Court

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Forty-two Yale students, charged by police with participating in a riot that shook town-gown relations, appear in City Court today, charged with breach of peace.

The riots, which involved students, policemen and lots of snowballs, took place March 12 and 14.

Police said the students threw snowballs and shouted such terms as "gestapo" at them. Students said the police were brutal in their use of billy-sticks in putting down the riots.

REMEDY WAS WORSE

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn. (AP)—When Ann Snavely sought help to evict a skunk living beneath her home, Policeman Oran C. Campbell hurled a tear gas bomb at it. The skunk stayed on. Mrs. Snavely moved her children out. They couldn't stand the tear gas.

Veeck Has Old Feeling Back

By JERRY GREEN

DETROIT (AP) — The near-freezing cold didn't bother Bill Veeck.

The thrill of owning a major league club again was enough to warm the buoyant man who grew up in baseball.

Veeck rejected all overtures by wellwishers who wanted to loan him a topcoat in Briggs Stadium's 37-degree weather Friday. It was his active re-entry into baseball's official family as majority stockholder of the Chicago White Sox.

"No, I'm not cold," said Veeck, the only person of 38,332 in the stands without some protection against the numbing chill. "I'm nervous. I'm always nervous at a game."

Veeck, attired in a blue summer suit and his customary open-throated sportshirt, sat through 4 hours and 25 minutes of baseball. His Sox finally won a 14-inning marathon 9-7 over the Detroit Tigers.

In his box seat behind the Chicago dugout, Veeck clapped his hands, bantered with fans around him, cheered the Sox.

Fox doubled in the first inning. Jim Landis followed with a smash that looked like a hit. Frank Bolling, Detroit's second baseman, snared it and converted it into a double play.

Kuharich Holds Spring Drills

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's new head football coach, Joe Kuharich, is looking over the players he's got in spring drills and wondering about the players he hopes to get as freshmen when school starts next fall.

"We will give out only about 28 scholarships at most," Kuharich said in an interview. "I think that will be enough. It means, however, that the 28 kids who get them must be exceptional academicly as well as athleticly.

"My assistant coaches have looked at films of at least 100 high school prospects in the last several months. When an alumni tells us there is a good prospect at such and such a high school, we write the coach about him and ask for movies of games he played. If we like what we see, and academically he is sound, we mark him down as a probability."

Kuharich greeted some 120 hopefuls, largest turnout since the war. Although the enthusiasm is there, Kuharich may have to dig to find enough talent to field two teams of near equal ability, only 13 lettermen from last year are back, and that's the smallest group of returnees in 15 years.

There are 50 freshmen who will be sophomores in the fall and they are considered at this time to be only so-so. There are no outstanding prospects among the rookies.

"My main problem is finding two tackles and a fullback," said Kuharich. "In about a week we are going to do some special work with our quarterbacks, who include lettermen George Izo and Don White. Eddie LeBaron (Kuharich's quarterback when he coached the Washington Redskins) is coming in for a few days to work with them."

Greenies Score In Five Innings

Greenville scored in every inning except the first yesterday afternoon to have little trouble in posting their fifth consecutive win with a 11-1 decision over Elizabeth City.

EC scratched in the initial inning for their lone score of the game.

John Tatum worked the offerings of Merrill Bynum for a walk and was secrificed to second. Benny Riddick then collected one of the two hits surrendered by Bynum by driving a double to deep rightfield, scoring Tatum.

EC baffled the Phantom batters in the first inning with three up and three down but the gates came tumbling down in the second frame.

Bynum opened the inning with a single, Joe Moye beat out a bunt for a single and then Bynum came home on Joe Boyce's muff of Steve Noble's grounder.

Greenville sewed their fourth conference win up in the third inning when they exploded for three hits and two more runs.

Alan McArthur opened with a single and came home on Billy Cox's triple. Cox later tallied on Bynum's infield grounder.

A walk and singles by Harrison, Riley, and McArthur produced three more runs in the fourth inning and the EC defense fell apart in the fifth to allow three more runs to score without a hit.

Greenville climaxed the scoring in the sixth frame with two more runs. A double by Bynum was the big blow of the inning.

Bynum, the fire-balling righthander, got off to a shaky start yesterday afternoon but settled down to record his third victory of the season. He struck out ten in the seven inning affair.

McArthur, stocky third baseman, led the winner's hitting attack with three singles in four trips to the plate.

Fetchick Continues To Pace GG Golfers

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Mike Fetchick slipped a stroke off his opening round with a second day 67 but it was good enough to add two strokes to his lead going into today's third round of the $15,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf tournament.

The 36-year-old Yonkers, N.Y., pro, who says the battle heat of the pro tournament life is for fellows younger than he, had a 133 at the halfway mark, nine under par.

But a tight finish was shaping up, leaving little breathing room for Fetchick.

Sharing second place at 136, were three very dangerous challengers.

The group includes Art Wall, Pocono Manor, Pa., new Masters champion and the top money winner of the year; Stan Leonard of Vancouver, British Columbia, who tied for fourth in the Masters and won here two years ago, and Dow Finisterwald, Tequesta, Fla., the reigning PGA titleholder.

They were only one stroke ahead of three of the hottest shooters in the second round, who tied for seventh place at 139. The trio was made up of Dick Knight of San Diego, Calif.; Thorne Wood of nearby Asheboro and Dave Thomas, strapping youngster from London.

Knight and Wood, each shot 66, the day's best score. Thomas closed with a five-under-par 31 for a 70.

Fetchick, who fell back into obscurity after enjoying a banner 1956 campaign when he won three tournaments, birdied three of the last five holes. He turned in a 33-34 card compared with the 35-36 of the 6,600-yard Starmount Forest Country Club course.

Finsterwald has won just under $4,000 in eight tournaments. His recent efforts show a return to his form of last year. He was third at Wilmington two weeks ago and made the Masters top 20.

Leonard, in only six winter tour tournaments, picked up more than $3,300. He led the first round of the Masters and was tied for the 54-hole lead.

Finsterwald and Leonard shot 68s in yesterday's round and Wall had a 67.

They were among 23 under par rounds as the field was cut to the low 60 pros and 10 amateurs. The cutoff point was 149.

Almost lost in the shuffle at 142 after a second day 69 was Sam Snead, the White Sulphur Springs financier, who has won here six times.

The amateur lead went to Larry Beck of Kinston. The 1957 USGA national junior champion shot a 68 for 141.

Public Execution Awaits Circus Elephant Sunday

HUGO, Okla. (AP) — Dorothy the doomed circus elephant will give her last performance Sunday. She is to be executed before scores of curious onlookers.

Officials of the Carson and Barnes Circus say Dorothy is too dangerous to let live. She has killed one trainer and injured another by crushing them under her head.

Last November near Port Arthur, Tex., she killed James Lloyd, 28, of New York, a trainer with Hagen Bros. Circus. Then two weeks ago she flipped over on Richard Shipley, elephant superintendent for Carson and Barnes.

Dorothy's speciality is a headstand on a barrel. She has performed before countless thousands in circus tents across the nation.

This talent was turned on Lloyd and Shipley.

After Dorothy did the headstand on Lloyd in Texas, she was sold to Carson and Barnes for $5,000.

Joe Sullivan, circus spokesman, said his firm hoped to rehabilitate Dorothy and put her back in the ring. For three months the big 25-year-old beast behaved, he said.

Then two weeks ago she turned on Shipley at the circus' winter quarters here.

Shipley, who was employed only recently, knelt to adjust a leg band while on an inspection tour of the elephant barn.

Dorothy went into a nosedive, pinning the trainer. Freddie Logan, a handler, tried vainly to drive her away. Then he gave the signal for the end of her act and she rolled clear.

Shipley was hospitalized with a broken collar bone and broken ribs.

Sullivan said the latest attack convinced the circus that Dorothy cannot be rehabilitated.

State highway patrolman Ed Vandergriff agreed to kill Dorothy star with a deer rifle. Circus officials said the execution will be open to the public.

Exchange Club Inducts Two At Meet Last Night

At the regular weekly meeting of the Greenville Exchange Club last night, two new members were inducted. Exchangite Sweeney Moye welcomed into membership John Conway and Loring Franklin.

Connor Eagles of the Soil Conservavtion Service spoke to the club on the meaning and effects of public Law No. 566, a Federal Law governing a Federal Assistance for flood and drainage control in rural and urban areas. He told the members how a project is now under way to widen and deepen Grindle's Creek, on the north side of the Tar River. It is estimated that the project will cost a total of $360,000.00—with the property owners paying a little less than one third of this amount and the federal government paying the balance. In addition the property owners must agree to maintain the newly created canal, and must furnish the rekuired right of way. This project comes to a vote by the farmers concerned on next Tuesday.

At the conclusion of the meeting the members sang "Happy Birthday" to Exchangite Rodney Purser, Ralph Sullivan, and George Smith. President John Hassell presided.

Agree Subsidize 'Candy Train'

MILLSTON, Wis. (AP)—A Milwaukee confectionery firm has decided to "subsidize" what has become known as the "candy train" in east central Wisconsin.

For years, crewmen on North Western Railway freight trains have been tossing candy to children in Millston and nearby Wyeville. Now the Howard B. Stark Co. of Mikwaukee has advised the railway that as long as the train runs between Millston and Wyewille, free candy will be supplied the crews.

"We feel that any group of men kind enough to dip into their own pockets daily for the reason they have, deserve some subsidizing," the company said.

It May Be Spring But Cold And Snow Persist In Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is spring?

That question probably was asked many times, in incredulous tones, in a wide area in the interior of the nation today.

Temperatures touched lows of 3 above in Big Piney, Wyo., 13 in Dickison, N.D., and the freezing 20s in dozens of cities, including Dubuque, Iowa, Columbia, Mo., Casper, Wyo., Denver, Duluth, Minn., Milwaukee, South Bend, Ind., and Grand Rapids, Mich.

Chicago's 27 was only two degrees above the record low for the date, 25 set in 1882.

Salt Lake City had a chill 31.

Occasional snow fell in South Dakota, Minnesota, the Texas Panhandle and the mountains of Colorado and Wyoming.

An irritating cold enveloped the midcontinent and rain harassed the East as the third week of spring ended.

Fresh snow on the heels of a midweek storm that smacked the Rockies, cast a thin blanket over parts of the Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley.

Only the Far West enjoyed fair climes.

Rain and drizzle prevailed from the Great Lakes into the Northeast and middle Atlantic region. It also dipped to the Gulf Coast.

Most notable rain was .42 inches during a 6-hour period at Washington, D.C. and Pensacola, Fla.

More snow fell in Wyoming and Colorado and as far south as Dalhart, Texas. Denver recorded an inch early today as did Lemmon, S D.

Heaviest snow was at least 4 inches at Redwood Falls, Minn. Duluth, Minn., measured 2 inches Friday.

A mercury plunge into the teens at many points, marked the early morning in the country's midsection.

Biting cold weather fastened a hold from Montana to the upper Great Lakes and into the central Rockies, Plains and mid-Mississippi Valley.

A 12-degree reading was recorded at Laramie, Wyo., while Dickinson, N.D. reported 21.

Mildest weather dominated the Southeast and along part of the Gulf Coast upward to Virginia. Nighttime readings in the 60s were consistent in that area.

Kiwanians Hear Cotton Expert

Fritz Hiedelberg, executive vice-president of the N. C. Cotton Promotion Committee, guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club last night, declared that "there'll be no funeral for cotton."

The cotton specialist, in his review of the cotton situation, reminded that the farmers of the South have got to produce cotton in order to keep the allotments. He pointed out that "cotton is one of he state's agricultural products that is processed where it is grown."

Pitt Farm Agent Sam C. Winchester, who accompanied Hiedelberg, spoke briefly in favor of taking more interest in the boys and girls of the county in 4-H work. Kiwanis Agriculture Chairman Robert S. Messner had charge of the program and introduced the speakers. President John A. Collins Jr. presided and won the attendance prize.

Kiwanis Secretary Tommy Snowden announced that the first of the Kiwanis Club's picnics will be held at Kiwanis Park Wednesday, May 6. Kiwanian Bill Moore, ticket chairman, announced that the picnic will begin at 5:30. Tickets are now on sale by club members, and the "fried chicken packages" may be eaten on the grounds or taken home. Proceeds of the picnic will be for the benefit of the Kiwanis Underprivileged Child Fund.

The club is sponsoring the Beers-Barnes Circus which is to show in Greenville at the Fair Grounds at 3 and 8 p.m. on Friday, May 29. Proceeds of the circus will be for the benefit of the Kiwanis Underprivileged Child Fund.

Committee Of 100 Has Reached Membership Goal

Greenville's industry-seeking Committee of 100 reached a membership of 100 today, it was announced by A. B. Stallworth, membership drive chairman and W. W. Speight, Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee chairman.

The two said a tabulation this evening showed exactly 100 pledges have been sighed and turned in.

The early response to the membership drive assured the committee's organization.

It was emphasized by the two officials that membership in the committee is not limited to 100. The drive will continue for additional pledges.

Stallworth urged persons planning to pledge to turn in their cards either to him or to the Chamber of Commerce office in the Rivers Building.

Breast Cancer Cases Increasing

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Breast cancer is becoming more common partly because of modern day tensions, says Dr. Frank E. Adair, executive officer for cancer for Memorial hospital, New York.

He told the Idaho Cancer Conference that there were 60,000 cases of breast cancer in the United States last year, twice as many cases as any other type of cancer in women.

"The reason for this great increase in breast cancer has as its basis the tensions and stress of living in this modern day," Adair said.

Senate Supports Johnson's Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has swung behind Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson's proposal to establish an 11-man commission to investigate unemployment. The vote was unanimous.

Johnson made his proposal Wednesday at a mass AFL-CIO rally here aimed at focusing attention on unemployment. The jobless total still tops four million in spite of improvements during March.

Johnson's close liaison with fellow-Texan Sam Rayburn, Democratic speaker of the House, indicates similar House approval. And it probably would be embarrassing for President Eisenhower to veto such a bill.

Johnson told the Senate his measure "seeks to bring before the Congress and public at the earliest possible moment the facts of unemployment. And since we must act upon those facts, there should be as little delay as possible in bringing them forth."

Johnson's resolution calls for three of the commission's 11 members to be named by the House speaker, three by the president of the Senate (Vice President Richard M. Nixon) and five by President Eisenhower.

It directs the commission to go to centers of high unemployment, study conditions, and report back to Congress within two months.

"I look upon it as a prelude to action," Johnson said, rather than as "merely another 'study group.'"

Nixon Wants To Talk To Castro

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard [illegible] talk with Fidel Castro, and they may get together during the Cuban leader's visit here next week.

Castro's only scheduled visit with a U.S. government official so far is a luncheon in his honor arranged by Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter.

But reports are circulating here that a meeting betyeen Castro and Nixon is certain. In Florida on vacation recently, Nixon told newsmen he is "looking forward to the opportunity to meet and talk with Fidel Castro."

Mental Care For Hero War Pilot

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Claude R. Eatherly, 40, atom bomb raid pilot, was given a 90-day mental commitment to the Veterans Hospital at Waco Friday.

The former Air Force major who flew reconnaissance B29s in atom bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, was accused of trying to rob a drive-in grocery store here.

County Judge Lew Sterrett committed Eatherly to the hospital. The man previously had been accused of burglarizing two small West Texas post offices.

Sergeant Moore succeeds Master Sergeant Aubrey E. Kidd who has been reassigned to Fort Bragg. The new recruiter began his duties this week.

A native of Blacksburg, Va., Sergeant Moore entered the Army in 1946 and has seen overseas duty in Germany and Korea. He served his first tour of duty in Germany from 1946 through 1951 and was in Korea for 13 months in 1952 and 1953. He returned to Germany in 1955 and served three years there before returning to the United States last year.

In addition to Greenville and Pitt County, Sergeant Moore will serve as Army Recruiter for Beaufort, Martin and Hyde counties. He is in Greenville, on the second floor of the Post Office, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 8 a.m. through 5 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. through noon.

For Emergencies--A Trained Team

(Editor's Note: Roy Hardee of Greenville, commander of the North Carolina State Association of Rescue Squads and captain of the local squad, prepared the following article in connection with the dedication of the Greenville Rescue Squad's new building adjacent to the Main Fire Station. The dedication will be held tomorrow afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock.)

By ROY HARDEE
Commander N.C. Rescue Squads Ass'n.

A great community need, inability to cope with complex emergency situations with existing equipment and manpower brought about the formation of rescue service in Pitt County.

Necessity has often been the founder of many worthwhile things, and so it was true when the Greenville Rescue Squad was organized ten years ago.

The idea of a man very familiar with emergency work for a number of years, the Greenville Rescue Squad was the direct result of the efforts of Greenville's Fire Chief George Gardner.

At that time, Pitt County Agencies, including the fire department, police department, highway patrol, and sheriff's department, were being faced daily with various types of emergency cases, which could not possibly be handled by the then existing emergency set-up.

The need for specialized equipment and trained men was realized and this need, together with public support, established the Greenville Rescue Squad.

Since that early beginning when the operation of the Squad depended on very scanty equipment and manpower, vast stride have been made in the promotion of rescue work in Pitt County. Now, the once infant organization is respected as a leader in the rescue field. From Pitt has spread a helping hand, which has resulted in a ring of similar rescue organizations being set up in Eastern North Carolina.

The amazing part of the ten year growth of the Greenville Rescue Squad is the fact that not one tax dollar has gone into the acquiring of the more than $22,000 worth of equipment now in operation.

Public donations, gifts by private business firms, and other support which made the success of the squad possible is clear evidence of the esteem in which the men of the Greenville Rescue Squad are held by the public.

Under the guiding hand of Chief George W. Gardner, a public drive was carried out in 1948-1949 to pay for the $4,500 worth of equipment, including a 1948 panel truck, which was the first mobile rescue emergency unit to be placed in operation in the County. All except a few hundred dollars of that first money paid for equipment, which included an iron lung, hospital type oxygen tent, and small tools, came from the pockets of the citizens of Pitt County and Greenville.

That early start in 1948 saw only two rescue calls, but one of these was for a small child who had fallen into a well. Equipment was transported to the scene on the Fire Chief's car because the emergency unit had not been received. As a result, the child was revived and is alive today, a healthy growing youngster!

During the year 1958 the Squad answered a total of 229 calls, evidence of the steady growth made by the unit over the past ten years. The present trend points to the fact that 1959 will see the largest number of calls ever answered.

While bearing the name, Greenville Rescue Squad, the unit serves where and when it is called to an emergency anywhere in the entire Pitt County area. Several calls have even been answered outside the area on a mutual aid assistance program to assist in emergency cases involving Pitt County residents.

Since that first piece of equipment was purchased in 1948 by donations from the pockets of individuals and citizens the services performed by the squad has vastly expanded.

The City of Greenville and Pitt County have less than $5,000 invested in various equipment purchased together, none of which was tax money. An additional $5,500 came from matching Federal funds and the balance by private donations.

Four years ago, the squad was called to a truck accident on the Farmville highway, in which a driver was pinned in his truck. Only slightly injured, the man's plight was made very dangerous by spilled gasoline. Firemen had to work for several hours to free the driver by using hand tools. The word soon spread that, had the proper tools been available, the man could have been cut out safely in minutes.

Thereafter a Jaycee sponsored drive resulted in a large, completely equipped disaster squad truck's being purchased under the Federal matching fund program. This truck, carrying hundreds of items of heavy duty tools, has complete equipment for an eight man crew. Portable power tools, cutting torches, heavy duty jacks, ladders, first aid supplies, masks, generators, and all types of hand wood and metal tools are found in this unit.

Because of the increasing number of calls into the rural areas involving the use of boats, motors and related equipment, The County Commissioners of Pitt County were approached and asked to donate a suitable boat, trailer, and motor for use. The Commissioners unanimously voted to give this equipment for the people of Pitt.

With the ever increasing number of rescue and search calls, it became apparent that volunteer rescue workers would be needed in the same manner as volunteer firemen have provided fire protection for the City for many years.

Again, sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees, a volunteer rescue squad was organized, composed largely of Jaycees and volunteer firemen. That group has grown and is now meeting weekly for training programs.

In addition to being trained for all types of emergency rescue work, all rescue men are given basic fire training and respond to any second alarm fires to render service where needed.

A 1959 Chevrolet station wagon converted into an ambulance has just been given to the Rescue Squad to better the safety facilitiees of the People of Pitt County by White Chevrolet Company. This unit is being given on a yearly basis, as are other types of mobile equipment used by schools and driving training programs over the County.

A 14 foot aluminum boat and 10 horse power motor, a gift of Carolina Sales of Greenville, is the latest addition to the list of equipment given for the use of the squad in recent years.

Other donations have included a $1,500 iron lung given by the Greenville Moose Lodge to replace an older model not adequate for proper service. This iron lung is the only one east of Greensboro and already the unit has been used to transport two polio patients to Duke Hospital under emergency conditions.

Uniforms, donated by Belk-Tyler Company of Greenville, made it possible for the Squad to have dress uniforms. Donations from Greenville's two banks, Guaranty and State, together with the donation of power tools from the Pitt County Insurance Underwriters round out the larger items. Many individuals and private business firms too numerous to mention have contributed smaller items, parts, and labor to Squad projects over the years.

A capital outlay of around $8,000 for the modern brick rescue annex to the Central Fire Station, just completed, marks the first time that tax funds have been used for anything connected with Rescue Squad operations, other than the maintenance of the equipment by the Fire Department.

Two regular firemen are assigned to rescue work in addition to their regular fire duties. These men answer the bulk of the rescue calls, which require only one unit for transportation or related cases. In the event of a major disaster such as a drowning, search mission, etc, then the volunteer squad members are called for work.

These types of missions involve many man hours of work on the part of the volunteers, who are all non paid.

Just last month a weekend stand-by duty was started by the Squad whereby at least one rescue man sleeps at the Central Fire Station to assist with calls on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

On special events and holidays, at least two men are placed on duty to assist with the anticipated heavy flow of calls.

Last month, volunteers contributed 167 man hours of Volunteer duty in calls and stand-by duty. It is hoped that this system will be expanded in the future to include one volunteer on stand-by duty at the station each night.

Preventive safety instruction is one of the principal aims of the Squad in addition to its annual emergency functions. First Aid Classes are conducted regularly, with five classes being taught last month.

During the recent boy scout camporee, rescue personnel remained on duty around the clock from Friday afternoon until noon Sunday.

Training is of the utmost importance to the Squad and regular training programs under the direction of trained instructors are being carried out weekly. Special training sessions are held when needed. The Squad strives to keep abreast of all the latest types of rescue technique being used over the nation.

A medical adviser is consulted on methods of transportation for injured patients under various conditions and a close relationship is maintained with all local and State law enforcement agencies.

While rescue work involves considerable transportation of injured persons, particularly in auto accidents, the Squad attempts to confine its activities to emergency accident situations. Otherwise, the equipment and men could become tied up on a non-emergency call when a full scale emergency could occur, resulting in loss of valuable time in answering the call.

Dedication of the new building on Sunday will climax many years of hard work, with an outlook for more of the same. For ten years the Squad has existed without a fixed budget from the City and County. The time has now arrived when a regular budget needs to be appropriated in order to further the work of the organization in Pitt County.

One man, namely, Chief George Gardner, deserves the credit and praise for the reputation and progress which the Squad has made in becoming one of the best known and respected Squads on the Eastern Seaboard. His efforts and guidance in the fight for better emergency services has resulted in the improved facilities which the people of Greenville and Pitt County may now use when the need arises.

The Rescue Squad is still young but growing, with its field of service to the people of Pitt County unlimited.

Hermit Enjoys Independence

GRAND TOWER, Ill. (AP) — A visit with Dewey Walker is like stepping into the last century.

Walker is a bearded hermit who has built his own house, makes his own shoes and grinds his own corn with a homemade mill fashioned from two pieces of limestone.

He is 61 and has lived alone 15 years in a wooded area near the Mississippi River in southwestern Illinois. There is no road to the clearing where he has constructed a one-room log house.

The bearded woodsman has few complaints, but suffers a shortage of flax thread, which he uses to make his shoes from discarded tire casings. Cotton thread doesn't wear well, he said.

Walker built his heavy grindstone mill for corn he grows in the clearing. He grows most of his food. Anything else he needs—thread, tobacco or lard — he gets by bartering with neighbors.

"I don't remember the last time I went to town," he said.

He receives no pension or relief money, but once in a while he trades a few hours work for a distant neighbor for a few things from Grand Tower, a town of less than 1,000.

Walker's house is the work of a learned woodworking as a boy and was employed in a sawmill until 1910 not far from where he now 19th Century craftsman. He lives.

Until clearing his portion of the woods he worked as a hired hand around the area.

He never married. and says he is quite happy.

"I like the feeling of independence," says the hermit.

Bobcats Stylish, Cougar Is Passe

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) —Bobcat fur will be stylish on the continent next season, but cougar fur is passe.

The fashion note comes not from a couturier, but from Owen W. Morris, an agent of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

His office auctioned more than a thousand bobcat pelts Friday at $10.72 apiece. A lone cougar (mountain lion) skin brought $5.30.

The Other Day

we were talking about slogans, and how they are such an ingrained part of our American way. You know, when you analyze most of them, you find they deliver an awful lot of truth in just a few words.

One that is going to be shouted from the housetops for awhile during April can mean a great deal to you, too. In this one precisely, there is much more truth than poetry, even if it does rhyme nicely . . . "You're better off by far, to buy a NEW car!"

When you sit down to weigh the advantages to YOU in a NEW car, you'll have to agree wholeheartedly with this slogan. The prestige alone in a new car will be worth many times its cost. Then take the matter of costs. No repair costs for ages, no new tires, no new batteries to buy . . . no time lost in tie-ups for repair. . . . Oh, you can go on for a long list of reasons. . . . So, if you can afford your present car, you truly can afford a NEW car on the special basis we now offer.

See us without delay, and you'll thank us for the wonderful change we'll make for you and your family in a spanking new FORD.

Sees No Textile Policy Changes

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The president of the Southern Textile Assn. declared today that no change seems in the offing in government policies which he said hamper the U.S. textile industry.

Walter D. Vincent of Dan River Mills, Danville, Va., spoke at the tion's Northern North Carolina - Virginia Division.

He said that although some government leaders have a more sympathetic understanding now of textile problems, chances are slim for putting into effect recent recommendations of a Senate textile subcommittee.

"In the matter of foreign trade," he asserted, "the Senate subcommittee recommended that import quotas on textile products be established in specific categories so that foreign manufanirers nay sell in the U.S. market without endangering existing textile capacity.

"The administration has ignored this proposal because it is directly contrary to a government policy which has used the Trade Agreements Act to lower tariffs so that nations friendly to us can find markets for their products."

Vincent also disagreed with what he said was a State Department contention that applying import quotas would invite retaliation in the same manner by foreign countries. He declared that U.S. tariffs are low by comparison with those of other countries and that U.S. exports are hampered by a multiplicity of devices in other countries.

REALISTIC MOVIE

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP)—A movie theater audience thought they could almost smell the smoke while watching a scene in which Indians were burning a white man at the stake. They could, but the smoke turned out to be drifting in from a nearby burning building, and the audience had to leave the theater.

A NEW MYSTERY

The COUNT of 9 by A. A. FAIR [Erle Stanley Gardner]

Copyright © 1958 by Erle Stanley Gardner; distributed by King Features Syndicate.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

The preparations of Dean Crockett II, millionaire explorer, for a party in his penthouse included hiring the Cool & Lam Detective Agency to keep out would-be gate crashers and sneak thieves. He wanted big Bertha Cool as one of the guardians of his door because he believes the gate crasher who got away from a previous party with one of his valuable relics was a woman. Bertha could more readily search suspicious female guests than could a male operative. Crockett's press agent, Melvin Otis Olney, insured that the newspapers would have a story of the precautions against gate crashers.

But someone walked right past Bertha with a jade Buddha and a pygmy blowgun treasured by Crockett. Bertha, furious over her apparent lapse, has summoned to the Crockett penthouse her brainy but bantam-weight partner, Donald Lam, who is telling the story. He and Bertha have just learned from Mrs. Crockett that every person who used the elevator was supposed to have been X-rayed secretly. . .

CHAPTER 4

"You were standing down by the elevator door, checking invitations?" I asked Bertha.

"Yes!" she snapped. "And don't ask me why I didn't check them off the guest list, Donald, or I'll take a swing at you right here in front of all these people."

"That wasn't what I was thinking of," I said. ' what about the caterers? How did they come up? Is there a back elevator?"

"No," she said. "There's only the one elevator."

"Then," I said, "will you kindly tell me how anyone smuggled out an unjointed five- or six-foot blowgun made of one piece of wood?"

"Bertha looked at me and her glittering eyes blinked rapidly.

"You might have slipped up in letting a gate crasher get in," I said, "but I certainly don't tnink you're dumb enough to stand there and let somebody walk out with a blowgun like that without at least seeing it."

Bertha thought things over, then a slow grin came over her face. "Then it's been hidden," she said, "It still has to be in the penthouse someplace."

"Unless someone heaved it out over the roof."

Bertha said, "He's sent for his insurance agent. I'm supposed to make a statement to him."

"What about the police?"

"Not a word," Bertha said. "He doesn't want anyone to breathe a word to the police. He wants to keep this quiet."

"You want me around for moral support?"

"Yes, Donald. I want you to talk with the insurance man when he comes. I — this must be the guy now."

The elevator door opened. Melvin Otis Olney escorted a man dressed in a gray business suit. The man looked as though he'd been aroused from the middle of a sound sleep.

Crockett called us over to the group and introduced us. The insurance man's name was William Andrews. He made notes and asked questions. "How much of a valuation did you place on the jade Buddha?" he asked Crockett.

"Nine thousand," he said, without batting an eye.

"Carved jade?"

"A very high quality of jade," Crockett said. "There's a ruby in the forehead."

"You had a similar jade Buddha stolen a short time ago?" the insurance man asked.

"Yes. This was the mate to that."

"You put a valuation of seventy-five on the other one," the insurance man said.

Crockett blinked his eyes for a minute, said quickly, "When I said nine thousand dollars, that was a round figure including both the blowgun and the jade Buddha."

"I see," the insurance man said. "Nine thousand dollars for both. That means fifteen hundred for the blowgun."

"And the darts," Crockett said. "Oh, yes. How many darts?"

"Six."

"Could you estimate how much for the blowgun and how much for the darts?"

"No," Crockett said curtly. "I couldn't. Actually, both articles are priceless. Those darts have a poison that can't be imported into this country — in fact, that whole blowgun outfit is unique. You can't replace it. It's —"

"I know, I know," the insurance man interrupted. "I was just trying to get a basis of appraisal for the home office, but it's all right. Fifteen hundred for the blowgun and darts; seventy-five for the jade Buddha."

He picked up his brief case, whipped out a printed form, used the brief case as a writing desk and started scribbling.

"Oh, never mind that tonight," Crockett said, his manner suddenly mollified. "I guess I just got excited. There was really no need for me to have called you, but—"

"No, no," the insurance man said. "That's what I'm here for; that's the kind of service we try to give . . . Here you are, Mr. Crockett. Sign here and we'll have your check in the mail without any further trouble."

Crockett read the claim and signed it. The insurance man opened his brief case and dropped the claim in.

"Well," I said to Crockett, "I guess there's nothing further we can do."

"The devil there isn't," Crockett said. "I want my stuff back."

I smiled over at Bertha and said, "She's the business manager of the firm."

"What do you mean?" Crockett said.

"I mean," I told him, "that you hired our agency to keep the gate crashers out, not to recover stolen property. If you want to make an arrangement with us to get stolen property back, that's a separate job."

His face flushed and he took a quick step toward me, then paused. His eyes locked with mine and abruptly he laughed.

"You're right," he said. "I guess I owe you an apology, Lam. I had you figured wrong when I met you — I guess I made a mistake."

"Think nothing of it," I told him.

Bertha said proudly, "Lots of people made a mistake about Donald. "He's little, but he's brainy."

"Well, I didn't make any mistake about him," Phyllis Crockett said, giving me her hand. "I recognized ability when I see it. Good night, Mr. Lam, it was a real pleasure to meet you, and I'm sure my husband will be in tomorrow to discuss business matters with Mrs. Cool."

She turned to Bertha and said, "Good night, Mrs. Cool."

We said good night and went down the elevator with the insurance man.

We got out at the twentieth floor and transferred to an elevator going down to the lobby.

"Do you have much of this?" I asked William Andrews.

"All the time," he said. "Take some fellow like Dean Crockett. He gets a place packed with curios he's picked up in different parts of the world. By the time he gets back and gets to looking the stuff over, he thinks it's worth a million dollars. We don't even try to talk him into cutting down on his valuation. It's good business. Nobody's going to steal all of that junk, but every so often someone picks up a piece that appeals to him, and we pay off at an exaggerated evaluation. But out total valuation is so high and the premiums are so high it averages out all right.

"The only place we could get stuck would be in the event of fire. But he's in a fireproof building. We're willing to put a million-dollar valuation on that stuff, but if the guy died tomorrow and his estate sold it at auction, you know what they get?"

I said nothing, so Andrews continued: "They'd get about ten thousand dollars for the whole shooting works," he said. "That blowgun they'd have to haul off to the junk pile and dump. They'd have to pay hauling charges."

Drunkometer Bill Given Favorable Nod By Group

RALEIGH (AP)—Legislation to provide "drunkometer" tests for persons accused of drunken driving was given a favorable nod by the Senate Roads Committee today after the measure was toned down by amendments.

The bill provides for blood tests to be administered to persons accused of drunken driving. As originally written, it provided that if the tests showed a person's blood contained as much as 15 per cent alcohol, this would be "prima facie evidence" of drunken driving. An amendment knocked out the word "prima facie" so that the tests would be accepted as "evidence" of drunken driving.

Another amendment dealt with a section of the bill which provides for the suspension of driving licenses of persons refusing to take the blood tests. The amendment would require the restoration of driving rights to a person if he refused to take the test and later was acquitted on the drunk driving charge.

President's Talk No Hit With Him

LONDON (AP) — President Eisenhower's Gettysburg address was no hit with Nikita Khrushchev.

The Soviet Premier today accused the President of trying "to play on peoples' nerves, to raise tension" in the speech at Gettysburg College April 4.

In the speech Eisenhower warned particularly against any appeasement of the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Premier's criticism came in answers to questions put to him by the editors of the Soviet Communist party organ Pravda.

Salvaged Bomb Blew; 34 Killed

MANILA (AP) — A 500-pound salvaged bomb exploded in a central Luzon fishing village today, and the Philippine News Service said at least 34 persons had been killed and many others injured.

The report said most of the dead were children between 3 and 12 years old.

The news service said fishermen had taken the bomb from a sunken ship in Lingayen Bay and were taking it apart to use the explosive in fishing. Many of those killed were standing around, watching the operation.

The explosion occurred near Dagupan, in Pangasinin Province. The report said that of 34 verified dead, only 12 were recognizable.

Pakistani Down Twin-Engine Jet

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — An unidentified twin-engine jet plane was shot down today by a plane of the Pakistani air force near Rawalpindi after the jet had refused to land, air force sources said here today.

The informants said the jet had been sighted flying over the city of Gujrat in West Pakistan, heading for Rawalpindi. The Pakistani air force plane intercepted and ordered the jet pilot to land at Gujrat. He refused to do so and was shot down.

"Investigations are still in progress," official sources said when pressed to identify the plane.

Elephants Are Coming; Circus Here April 29

The elephants are coming to Greenville!

Circus Day in Greenville will be Wednesday April 29, with the arrival of the Beers-Barnes Circus, oldest tent circus in America today, and one of the surviving big top trained animal shows on the road.

The circus is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Greenville and will locate at the Pitt County fair grounds for a one-day engagement with performances at 3 and 8 p.m.

The Big Top Show from Florida offers a program of 25 trained animal and circus acts, including two acts formerly with the late Ringling Bros. Circus Big Top performance and the Tom Packs Shrine Circus. They are, "Harold", world's Finest backward somersaulting wire artist, and Don Maurico and Julie the famous Chilian Jugglers. The largest of the Beers-Barnes Circus Elephants is four-ton congo Alice, the biggest performing elephant in America. Capt. Walt Davis is also featured with his liberty horse act, Capt. Willis with his bicycle-riding chimps, and the Diane Allen seal act. Members of the Kiwanis Club are now conducting an advance sale of general admission tickets and will receive a substantial portion of all sales made before Circus day, President John A Collins, Jr. of the club said.

The Beers-Barnes Circus has no side shows, kiver shows, skill or chance game concessions, or annoying midway hawkers appear with the show. "It is all Circus," promised the advance agent, "and our reserve seat deal is the fairest offered by any circus on the road —it is not necessary to buy a reserve seat in order to find a seat in our circus big top as we have a very limited number of reserve chair seats at only 30 cents each, and a general admission seat for every general admission ticket that is sold, both in advance or at the grounds."

Too Much Work, Not Enough Pay

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) —Too much work and not enough money is why Lucille Hicks, Bedford Township treasurer re-elected in Monday's election, says she won't accept the post.

She said in a letter to the Township Board that a recently granted annual salary increase of $31 would not compensate for work added to the treasurer's office.

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG

The Greenville Little Theatre production of BUS STOP opens next Thursday night, the 16th, at Austin Auditorium, E.C.C. for a three-night stand, and we're giving you the green light—don't stop, but go see BUS STOP . . . In addition to its stellar cast—including Miss Greenville, no less, in case you didn't know—it also has a real community flavor, which helps a lot and makes it a community project in every sense —something a little theatre group should be . . . Here are some of the many community folks who are helping to put the show over and make it a successful affair:

HIRSHBERG

Mrs. J. Knott Proctor saw to it that the players got the use of the Rotary Club for rehearsals . . . Grifton Builders gave a lot of free lumber, the Appliance Mart was generous enough to loan out some expensive electrical equipment, and the Varsity Restaurant got in on the act with the loan of furniture . . . Brody's and Bissette's stores will be selling tickets, and if you see a sink behind the bar up on the stage it will be from Williams Plumbing Company . . . Our DAILY REFLECTOR has been printing publicity stories with rare abandon, the Pitt Theatre is giving billboard space, Radio station WGTC has BUS STOP in its news broadcasts and the TV stations both in Washington and Greenville have given valuable time . . . This community spirit we like to see—and you can show yours by coming to see the show and giving the players a great big hand. Don't forget—opening night is Thursday, April 16. Curtain at 8. Tickets at Brody's and Bissette's and the boxoffice—while they last . . .

The Week

National Library Week begins this Sunday, as we've told you before. It'll be the second annual, and the theme is the same as last year's—"Wake Up and Read", which we suppose is as good a theme as any—certainly we wouldn't want it to be "Go to Sleep and Read." For lots of literature on The Week, look in the latest—April 11—Saturday Review, where you'll find articles on the Library of Congress, America's biggest and best pile of bookstacks; on Libraries in Russia, by Irving Levine, author of "Main Street, USSR," a recent book on life among the Soviets; a piece about librarians and their problems by Lawrence Powell, chief of the University of California library; and a wonderful defense of the Oz books, which many librarians have banned from their shelves but which children have continued to love to read. We checked our own Sheppard Memorial, and found that "The Wizard of Oz" is available for circulation in Milwaukee, our article says, children have worn out 135 copies in eight years. You can also buy a copy practically anywhere—seven editions are now in print. So we'll go along with the kids—"The Wizard" is great stuff, no matter what anybody says . . .

Up and Coming

Books are pouring off the presses at a fast rate these days—Spring seems to be the season for writers. Coming along as Literary Guild choice for May is THIS FIERY NIGHT, by Joan Vatsek, a first novel about love, excitement and intrigue in strife-torn Egypt, where the authoress—quite a luscious looking lump of woman herself, if you can judge from her pictures—lived for awhile in the midst of it all . . . Doubleday informs us that they're putting out a special book for tall girls only, THE TALL GIRL'S HANDBOOK, by Gwen Davenport, who is 5'10" tall herself. It's an outsize book—quite tall—and when you consider that some three million American girls are as tall as she is or taller, the book ought to have a sale . . . Van Cliburn, the young pianist who won the coveted Tchaikovsky piano award in Russia just a year ago, and lately in the news again because his finger is infected and he can't play, is the subject of THE VAN CLIBURN LEGEND, by Abram Chasins and Villa Stiles, also just published . . .

Local Scene

In addition to BUS STOP, next week will be marked by the Lakewood Pines Garden Club's annual Spring Garden Fair, out at The Pines next Friday, April 17 — there'll be plants, trees, lunch, a merry-go-round for the kiddies and fun for all . . . On the same day, at the local cinema, the movie version of William Faulkner's famous novel, THE SOUND AND THE FURY, starts its Greenville engagement. Stars are Joanne Woodward and Yul Brynner . . . Culture Week will be knocking at our doors early in May, with the big kickoff on Saturday, the 2nd, when Frances Gray Pattin will be the featured speaker at the annual Fine Arts luncheon in the E.C.C. Cafeteria. The Women's Club, as usual, are the sponsors, and better get your tickets early . . .

Today's Review

Our reviewer, one of our brighter E.C.C. students, handed us her comments with the remark "Short book—short review . . ."

The Long Rope, a western, is the story of a young, dedicated law officer, Matt Trinity, sheriff of High City, Montana, and of his fight against both the political machine and crime of High City.

Mr. Turners endeavor seems to be lost in that his characters never touch reality, but stand on the borderline. In a sense, the author has written a plot that a collegiate journalist could have written without the aid of his instructor.

Bill Forgotten By Lt. Governor

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—The face of Lt. Gov. Ed Mead of New Mexico was slightly red recently after he attended a press convention in Alamogordo.

He drove off without paying his motel bill.

He explained later in a letter to the motel that he had driven his car up to the front office when he met a friend and got into a political discussion. When it was over, he said, he got into his car and drove home.

He asked for a bill and apologized.

NEAT THIEVES

ALVA, Okla. (AP) — Police reported burglars broke into a building on the Herb Osehl farm near here, by smashing a glass window, then neatly swept up the splinters.

Dog Missed Out On Big Bone Find

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — If Jimmy Steckley's dog Perk likes bones as well as most dogs do, he should have stuck closer to his young master.

Jimmy, 13, an eighth-grader, was looking for Perk Thursday when he stumbled on what appeared to be the bones of a mammoth, a prehistoric ancestor of the elephant.

Jimmy summoned his science teacher, Carl G. Zwerk, and some friends. They started digging.

By nightfall, they had uncovered a leg bone, a pelvis, a skull, some teeth and some vertebrae.

Zwerk estimated the fossil's age at between 20,000 and 30,000 years.

Jimmy never did find Perk.
