Cynthia McLohon Chosen Miss Pitt In Ayden Event

AYDEN—Miss Cynthia Ann McLohon, a 1957 graduate of Ayden High School, was chosen Miss Pitt County of 1960 Saturday night. Miss McLohon, a pretty brunette, was crowned by Larry Alexander, president of the Ayden Jaycees, sponsors of the contest. Miss McLohon was presented with a bouquet of red roses and a gold trophy, in addition to her crown. The Jaycees will also give her a wardrobe, and a trip to Durham, in July, to compete for the Miss North Carolina title.

Miss Johnson did a dramatic reading based on "The Creation" by James Weldon Johnson, and Miss Crawford did a tap-dance to "Lady Be Good." The other contestants and their talents: Miss Emily Blanche Nelson danced to "The Lonely Trumpet"; Patsy Porter played "I'm in the Mood for Love" on the piano; Patsy McCay performed a "sit, "Horton Hatches an Egg"; Lois Jane Hardee played Clayton's Grand March on the piano; Patricia Allen did a pantomime to Debby Reynolds recording of "Tammy"; and Kay Frances Rogers pantomimed Mary Martin's number, "Honey Bun", from "South Pacific."

Each of the three finalists was handed a sealed envelope and required to answer the question inside. Miss McLohon was asked "Tell briefly your qualifications of an ideal wife." For her answer, Miss McLohon replied, "I think a wife should be loyal, kind, a good mother for her children and a good wife." The rain which started about noon didn't seem to dampen the spirits of either the contestants or the audience. The only part of the Farmer's Festival program that was seriously affected by the rain were the children's activities and Farmer's events Saturday afternoon.

President Visits Haggard Dulles; Early Retirement Decision Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower visited ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at Walter Reed Army Hospital today. An early decision appeared probable on how long Dulles will remain in the Cabinet. Eisenhower went directly to the hospital after arriving by plane from Augusta, Ga., where he has been on a golfing vacation. Allen W. Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency and brother of the secretary of state, arrived at Walter Reed five minutes after the President. Already with Dulles were his State Department aide, Joseph N. Green, and his secretary, Phyllis Herter. They had gone to the hospital earlier in the morning. Among other things, they brought with them an electric typewriter. Eisenhower grinned at newsmen and photographers as he stepped out of his limousine at the end of the 30-minute drive from the airport to the hospital.

Guard Governor

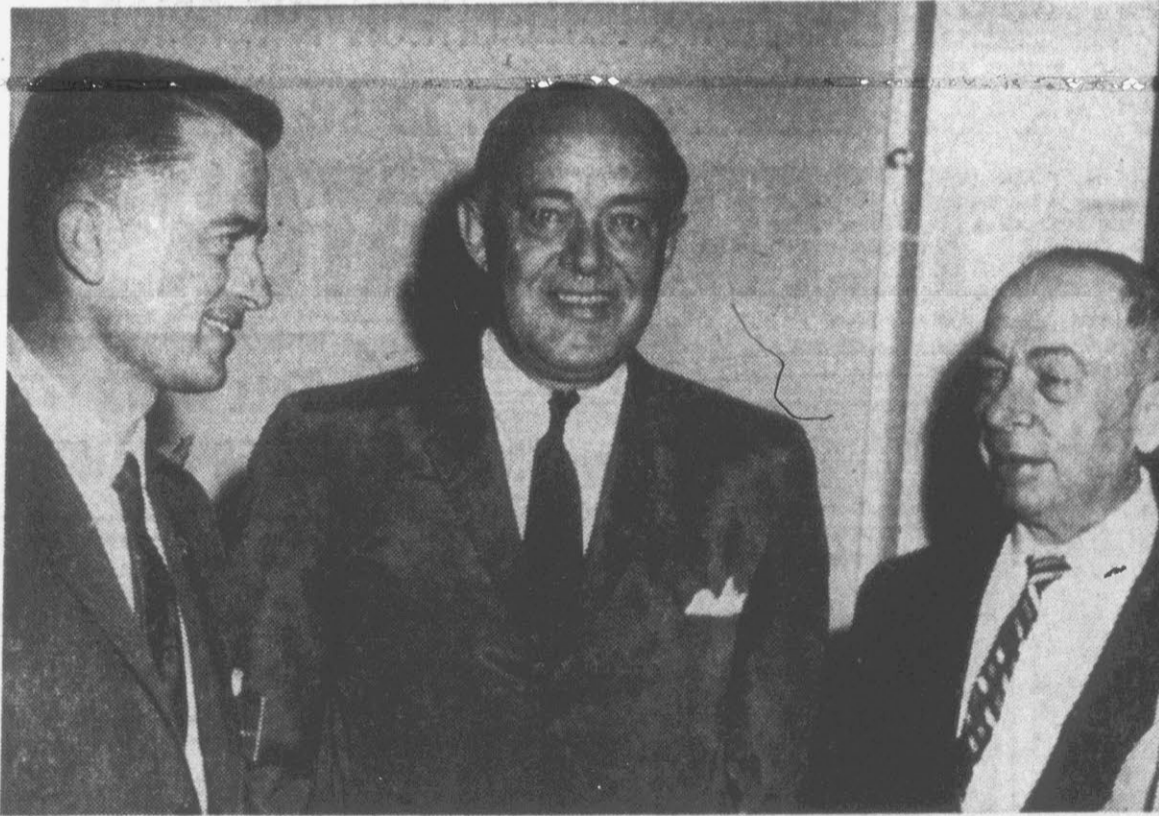

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Police today maintained an unprecedented security vigil about Virginia's governor after a reported attempt on his life. Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. was shot at Friday, officers said, as he walked near the executive mansion en route to the Capitol. Capitol police doubled their guard at the mansion. State and Richmond city police promised closer surveillance of the Capitol grounds. "I hate to see more security around here, but I guess I should take the advice of the police authorities," Almond said. The Virginia governor recently has been the target of abuse and threats from anonymous telephone callers and letter writers who accuse him of selling out in the school segregation issue. Almond, once an advocate of massive resistance to school integration, recently has taken a more moderate stand.

Rescue Squad's Building Is Dedicated To Gardner

Greenville Rescue Squad's new building was dedicated yesterday afternoon to the founder of the local squad—Fire Chief George Gardner. A plaque signifying that the building stands in the chief's honor was presented to City Manager Leonard Bloxam by Roy Hardee, commander of the State Association of Rescue Squads. Bloxam, in turn, presented it to Gardner, who was unaware that the dedication was to be made. "This is a surprise to me," the chief declared. "I'm accepting this with the reservation that it include the people of Pitt County and the people of Greenville who have donated from 10 cents on up. This is not one man's outfit. It belongs to all of us."

Later he headed efforts to form a volunteer rescue squad and has worked constantly since to have various pieces of equipment donated to the squad. Another highlight of yesterday's ceremonies was the presentation of the keys for a second ambulance to Mayor S. Eugene West. The keys were presented by Walter Harrington and Julian White of White Chevrolet Co. which is donating the ambulance to the squad. The vehicle will be taken in each year by the automobile firm and a new model put in its place. The mayor pointed out that in 1948 when the Greenville Rescue Unit was started only two calls were answered in the part of the year it was in operation. The calls have become more frequent through the years. In 1958, 229 calls were answered, and according to the present trend, in 1959 they will answer even more. "This volunteer Rescue Squad was formed to meet increasing needs for manpower three years ago. These men are working regularly on week-ends on standby duty at the Central Fire Station. They not only assist with rescue calls, but also with fire calls and any other types of emergencies. These volunteer members are non-paid and operate under the Fire Department." Mayor West also pointed out that "the majority of money for purchase of rescue equipment, valued at $22,000, has come from private donations and the pockets of individual citizens. "This is proof in itself that many of our citizens recognize the value of this organization." The mayor said funds were appropriated by the City Council last June for construction of the new building "even though it meant a tax increase for which we have been severely criticized by some of our citizens. "The Greenville Rescue Squad is recognized as the best in the State of North Carolina, unequaled by any east of the Mississippi. It is one of the oldest squads and has helped organize at least four units in other cities. "If there is any question in your minds as to the value of their services, I ask that you contact some of the parties they have helped. Your Rescue Squad and its new building is an asset to Greenville, and something that everyone of us should certainly be proud to have operating in our city and county. "I congratulate and thank this fine group of young men." A number of persons turned out for the dedication ceremonies, although an almost steady downpour of rain marred the squad building and fire station open house. Hardee said another open house will be held next Sunday after from 12:30 until 6 p.m. Both the fire and rescue equipment will be on display for those who were unable to attend yesterday to see. Volunteer squad members will also be on duty.

Hodges Predicts Legislature To Largely Write Its Own Court Reform Program

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges predicted today the Legislature will fashion its own program for court reform, accepting parts of two differing plans. The governor told his weekly news conference he feels confident the lawmakers will make a start on revamping courts, although they may not go as far as study groups have recommended. In reply to questions, Hodges said he found no indications as yet that a special legislation session will be necessary to handle court reform and constitutional revision bills. Court proposals have been prepared by a committee of the North Carolina Bar Assn. and by a constitutional study commission, which also drafted other proposed changes in the state constitution. Both plans involve amendments to the constitution. Hodges pointed out the legislature can either submit to the people a broad constitutional amendment for court reform, or a more detailed amendment, covering changes to be made in the court system. A broad amendment, to be implemented perhaps two or three years later, would be easier to handle, he added. A reporter said he had heard some legislators saying, in regard to court and constitutional measures, "Let's kill the whole thing and be done with it." Hodges called this "a dangerous attitude to take." Basically, he said, "let's make a start" on court reform, although the first steps may be small ones. The governor was asked if he feels the Legislature will pick on

The governor was asked if he feels the Legislature will pick on of the other of the court plans. "I think they will make their own, taking some of both," he replied. Hodges started his news conference to what he called "two significant events" of the past week. He said the opening of a big art exhibition at the State Art Museum in Raleigh, honoring its first director, and the opening of restored Tryon Palace in New Bern, both reflect credit on the state. On legislative matters, Hodges said he would have preferred final House action on a minimum wage bill last week, rather than a delay over the weekend. However, he expressed confidence the passage of the measure.

Find Man Dead In His Backyard

A 46-year-old Negro construction worker, Willie D. Harris, was found dead this morning in the backyard of his home at 1214 Pitt St. No cause of death had been determined at noon today, although Detective R. T. Rogerson of the Greenville Police Department said there were no signs of foul play uncovered by preliminary examinations. Rogerson said, however, investigation is continuing by city police and county health authorities. According to Rogerson, Harris left his home yesterday morning about 10 a.m. to visit his father at 260-B West Fifth St. He was last seen about 9 o'clock last night, at 400 West 12th St. by persons who were quoted by Rogerson as saying Harris was drinking at the time. Discovery of the body, by Harris' wife, was reported to the Police Department at 9:35 this morning. The body was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for examination by Dr. Georgia V. Mills, county Health Director. Rogerson said Dr. Mills' preliminary examinations disclosed no broken bones or visible scars. He added, however, that when the body was found, Harris' head was against a laundry heater. Rogerson said Harris' family included his wife and four children who range in age from about four to about 15. Fire Destroys House Yesterday

Over 3 Inches Of Rain For Area During Weekend

Rainfall in the Greenville area Saturday, Sunday and Monday, totaled 3.10 inches, the Greenville Utilities, reported today. Tar River at Greenville is steadily rising and muddy and at noon Monday the stream was at the 8.95 level. The temperature here last Friday and Saturday was 90—summer level—and last night it had dropped to 42—and that's 10 degrees above freezing. Highest temperature here Sunday afternoon was 80. Lowest last night, 45, and at 8 a.m., the mercury stood at the 42-degree mark. During the weekend, the wind velocity ranged from 18 to 20 mph, and it was from the north.

Bullet Wounds Pitt Countian

A Red Oak section man was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon with a bullet wound in the chest. Doctors reported today that Shelby Allen, 42, Rt. 3, Greenville is in good condition. He was shot with a .32 caliber pistol. Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said investigation showed the bullet wound was apparently self-inflicted.

Cite Big Cost In Adding A Benefit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Addition of old-age hospitalization protection to federal social security benefits would cost at least a billion dollars a year to start, the government estimated today. The added costs would require at least a one-half per cent increase in the social security payroll tax. It is now 2 1/2 per cent of the first $4,800 of earnings for both workers and employers, and will rise automatically to 4 1/2 per cent by 1969. The estimates were contained in a lengthy report by the Social Security Administration filed with the House Ways and Means Committee by Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming. The report contained no recommendations or conclusions. It was requested by the committee last year after Congress voted a 7 per cent increase in social security benefits and an increase in the tax rate. Proposals to add federal hospital, nursing home and surgical care to old-age retirement benefits are now pending before the committee, but House leaders have ruled out any action on them before next year. The 117-page study of old age health benefits was limited to factual information, with these highlights: 1. There are about 15 million persons in the United States 65 or over, and their number is increasing because of medical advances. 2. About 43 per cent, or two-out-of-three, of persons on social security retired rolls now have voluntary health protection. 3. Most social security pensioners have a low or limited income, increasing the problem of financing adequate medical care. 4. Hospital and medical costs are rising. Of social security pensioners hospitalized in 1957, the largest group—about 85 per cent—had medical bills of $1,000 or more. 5. Numerous alternatives to social security health insurance are available—subsidies to private health insurance carriers, government insurance of private carriers, direct federal assistance to persons unable to finance their own medical costs, and stimulation of voluntary insurance plans. Rep. Aime J. Forand (D-RI), chief sponsor of legislative proposals for social security health benefits, said the report confirms the need for federal action. The Flemming report's estimates of first-year health costs varied according to types of benefits. In round figures, however, a 1960 initial cost of a billion dollars was indicated as a probable minimum. Cost estimates by others than the Social Security Administration were higher. The Health Insurance Assn. of America estimated costs of hospital benefits for social security pensioners at $1,319,000,000 based on 1959 costs, requiring an increase in the social security tax 2. About 43 per cent, or two-out-of-three, of persons on social

Fire Destroys House Yesterday

Fire destroyed a house belonging to Hugh Hardee about four miles east of Greenville yesterday before firemen arrived at the scene. Firemen were called at 2:30 a.m. to the Hardee residence but the house was reported down when they arrived. The fire was believed to have originated in the front part of the house. Firefighters also answered a call to 903 Evans St. yesterday afternoon when soot in a fireplace caught fire. No damage was done, however.

Superior Court Term Is Opened

Fine Arts Festival Set For May 2-7

Frances Gray Patten, author of "Good Morning, Miss Dove," will be guest speaker at a luncheon May 2 which will begin the activities of the 24th annual Fine Arts Festival, announced Mrs. Sam H. Mitchell, overall chairman, today.

Mrs. Clara M. Shackell will act as chairman of the Author's Luncheon to be held at East Carolina College.

The Fine Arts Festival is sponsored by the Greenville Woman's Club and Eastern Carolina Art Society.

Those making up the steering committee are Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Shackell, Mrs. J. C. Gallowsay Jr., Mrs. R. V. Keel, and Mrs. J. H. B. Moore.

On Monday, May 4, an evening of interpretative Negro Spirituals will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Madge Allen at Eppes High School.

At the Woman's Club on May 5 beginning at 2 p. m. a Flower Show is scheduled, sponsored by the Greenville Garden Club. Exhibits and an informal program on Interior Decorating will be given by Mrs. John Clark Jr.

The Sidewalk Art Show, one of the big events of the festival, will be held at the Elm St. Park on May 6 and May 7. Artists from many areas of the country will exhibit paintings and other types of art work. Some exhibits will be for sale.

The show will begin Wednesday at 1 o'clock and close at 6 p. m. For the last day the exhibits will be on display beginning at 10:30 a. m. and continue until 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. R. V. Keel, Mrs. Donna Tabar, Mrs. J. H. Behr, and Mrs. Hicks Corey are on the Sidewalk Art Show committee.

The Community Art Center located in the Sheppard Memorial Library will feature an exhibit on portraits. The Junior High School and Greenville Elementary Schools plan to exhibit art done by students in their individual schools.

East Carolina Playhouse will present the Shakespearean play "Romeo and Juliet," directed by Dr. J. A. Withey, at the Sylvan Outdoor Theatre on East Carolina College campus May 6-7. The play will start at 8 o'clock each evening.

The final day of the festival, May 7, the band and choral groups of Eppes High School, Fleming St. and South Greenville Schools will present an evening of musical entertain-

Fellowship Has Steak Dinner

The Men's Fellowship Club of the Eastern Pines community entertained their wives and other guests at a steak dinner Thursday evening.

Approximately 50 persons were present.

The Rev. Alton Lancaster, pastor of Salem Methodist Church, gave the invocation.

Final plans were made for Miss Lois Jane Hardee to compete in the Pitt County beauty contest. The club has chosen to sponsor Miss Hardee.

Back Seat Drivers
"But daddy always backs onto the highway," said one Caswell County 4-H'er after a highway safety program at one of their club meetings.

Each 4-H member was quizzed on the safety of motorists and pedestrians. Miss Lillie Wise, assistant home economics agent, says the 4-Hers are more aware of how they can help with safety of the highways.

In fact, she expects many of the club members will become loud back-seat drivers!

Membership Doubled
The recently organized Flat Rock Home Demonstration Club in Surry County has already doubled its membership, reports Mrs. Evelyn Nifong, home economics agent.

Now with 52 members, the club has been active in many community and fund raising projects.

Mrs. Jeffrey Blackmon, Mount Airy, Rt. 2, serves as club president. Her enthusiasm and interest will lead the club to high achievements, says Mrs. Nifong.

Color Demonstration
"I wouldn't take $50 for the demonstration on coordinating color throughout the home," says Mrs. M. G. Barber, Jacksonville, Rt. 3.

With the information she received attending the Southwest Home Demonstration Club meeting, Mrs. Barber plans to apply the basic principles of color in her new seven-room home.

Twenty Jackets Made
Henderson County Home Demonstration Club women have made 20 lounging jackets for the Oteen VA Hospital, according to Mrs. Kathleen Hodges, home economics agent.

The jackets were cut and prepared for stitching by Mrs. Hugh Morrison, a former county clothing chairman; then other members completed them.

Beautiful Railroad Tracks
Bare, unkept railroad tracks passing through the center of town have caused Pinetops residents concern. The local newspaper, the Edgecombe Journal, offered a $25 savings bond to any organization sponsoring the beautification of this spot.

The Pinetops Home Demonstration Club tackled the job, reports Mrs. Eugenia VanLandingham, Edgecombe County home economics agent.

Shrubs were solicited and donated by the club members. Town officials cooperated in providing labor and tools to carry out the project. Soon the area will be attractive to visitors and residents alike.

Miss Trulove, Mr. Lanier Speak Vows

WILMINGTON—Miss Mary Eugenia Trulove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Simon Trulove, became the bride of James Conrad Lanier Jr., son of James Conrad Lanier of Greenville, N. C. and the late Mrs. Lanier, Saturday afternoon at the St. Andrews-Covenant Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Edward G. Connette performed the double-ring ceremony before a background of Kew-Delta Palms, native greenery, and arrangements of white flowers, flanked by seven-branched candelabra holding lighted tapers. White satin ribbon marked the family pews.

Nuptial music was presented by Ralph Karl Sydow, organist, and Mrs. J. R. Benson Jr., soloist. Mrs. Benson sang "O Perfect Love" by Barnby, "I Love Thee" by Grieg and "The Lord's Prayer" by Matlotte. Mr. Sydow's organ selections were "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," by Bach, "Andante from Sonata VI," by Mendelssohn, "Prayer," by Read, and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional gown of imported Italian silk and rosepoint lace. The silk bodice with an elongated neckline and long tapered sleeves featured a lace panel embroidered in iridescent star-like crystals that formed the crescent neckline and extended to the hem of the tremendous full silk skirt which flowed into an aisle wide chapel train. Her triple-tiered veil of imported silk illusion fell from a jeweled lace shell which was scalloped across the forehead. She carried a cascade show bouquet of white feathered carnations and lilies-of-the-valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. E. Benson Slossman, wore a tea length dress of silk mist taffeta in daffodil yellow, fashioned with a tucked off-the-shoulder neckline, highlighted at the back with a matching bow. With long streamers falling to the hemline of the circular skirt. She wore a halo of miniature Shasta daisies entwined with yellow velvet ribbon with a bow at the back. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations, snapdragons and daisies, tied with moss green.

Bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Starnes of Raleigh and Chapel Hill, Miss Pat Ann Baker of Greenville, and Miss Susan Deltchman of New Bern and Greenville. They wore dresses identical to the honor attendant's and carried similar bouquets.

Miss Alice Page Shamburser of Southern Pines, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and also wore a dress identical to the other attendants' and carried similar flowers.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were John S. Whichard, David J. Whichard, Dixie E. Green of Greenville, Henry Archer Trulove Jr. of Raleigh, and William P. Mayo of Washington, N. C.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Trulove wore an afternoon sheath dress of silk Peau de Soie in venetian blue with matching accessories and her corsage was a yellow throated white orchid.

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a flounced cloth of embroidered cutwork organza bordered with crushed yellow net, caught at intervals with bows of yellow satin ribbon. Five branched silver candelabra with cpergnettes holding yellow flowers and candles flanked each side of the triple-tiered wedding cake.

For a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico, Mexico City and New Orleans the bride wore a bone beige suit with a flower hat in beige and bronze tones and bone color accessories. Her corsage was of cymbidium orchids.

The bride is a graduate of New Hanover High School and East Carolina College where she received a B. S. in Education and while there was a member of Delta Chi Delta Social Sorority.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and University Law School, where he was a member of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. He is an Attorney at Law, practicing in Greenville.

Following the wedding rehearsal Friday evening, Mr. J. C. Lanier, father of the bridegroom, was host at a dinner party at the Pine Valley Country Club in Wilmington for members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Trulove of Wilmington and Mr. and Mrs. Junius Page Shamburser of Southern Pines were hosts for a wedding luncheon at the Cape Fear Club in Wilmington.

Others entertaining at pre-nuptial parties were Mr. and Mrs. David J. Whichard, Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. J. Bryan Brown, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Parkinson, Mr. Dixie E. Green, Mrs. R. O. Williams, Miss Pat Baker, Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, all of Greenville; Mrs. Leslie Bass, Miss Frances Bass, Mrs. Jack Ulmer, Miss Eunice Henry, Mrs. H. M. Kyle, Mrs. R. B. Holton, and Mrs. J. R. Benson Jr.

Little Sister Sees Stars, Too

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WHAT'S IT like to have a successful older sister? Do you give up your own ambitions or accept sister's success as a challenge?

Barbara Lewis, 17, faced up to the older sister dilemma because her sister Shari is a well-known television performer as a ventriloquist and singer. Barbara decided that there could be two stars in a family, providing neither girl became jealous.

"I'm going right ahead in my desire to be a modern dance and ballet performer, ambitions I've had since I was a small child. After all, Shari prefers television and I have no interest in it, so there is no danger of a sisterly clash."

Bobby, as she is known to her friends, attends Performing Arts High School in New York, studies dance, earns some money modeling. She would like to go to a California college because she possibly could combine her dance studies with a movie career.

Age Makes Difference
"I have no intention of trading in Shari's success. I've got to get ahead on my own and I think most girls who have this family situation should do the same thing for their inner satisfaction. Shari is wonderful to me, and it is difficult to have such a talented, beautiful sister, but it hasn't made any difference in our relationship. Maybe that's because Shari is 10 years older."

Shari, says Bobby, has almost a maternal interest toward her because of the difference in their ages. But even if our ages were closer together, it would be absolutely ridiculous to treat her as competition.

Dainty, brown-haired and green-eyed, Bobby wears her hair in a charming long curl around her right shoulder. "It's considered very chic for dancers to wear their hair long, that's why I'm not going to cut my hair," she says.

Marriage Can Wait
Bobby is popular with boys, but she's not going to let that stand in the way of her career. "I can't consider marriage until I've had my day in the theater" she says. "I'll have to offer emotional-ly, once I've given my talent the best of time. Then, too, I find I rave more ties with the young people I meet in the theater. They have more understanding than other people I know."

Her father, a college professor, is an amateur magician, and her mother teaches music in a New York public school. Shari and Bobby play the piano, but "neither of us show any sign of giving in to another competition," she says.

Bobby would like to try her luck in summer stock this year. She loves to swim, but doesn't skate or ski because those sports "develop the wrong leg muscles."

CANADIAN HAMBURGERS
Ingredients: 1 pound ground beef, 3 whole drained pimentos, walnuts, salt, pepper.

Method: Make 6 large patties of the ground beef. Place a whole pimento on 3 of the patties. Tuck several walnut pieces in each pimento. Place remaining 3 meat patties over the filling; seal edges thoroughly by working together with fingers. Brown rapidly on both sides in heavy greased skillet, then reduce heat to cook to desired doneness. Makes 3 servings.

TEA ICE CREAM
Ingredients: 1-3 cup loose tea, 1-3 cup boiling water, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup heavy cream, 1 can ice cream mix.

Method: Measure tea in heatproof measuring cup. Four boiling water over tea leaves; brew 3 minutes. Turn wet tea leaves into top of double boiler; stir in milk and cream; cover. Cook over boiling water 7 minutes. Remove and strain through a very fine sieve or cheese cloth so you have tea extract. Cover extract and cool. Turn ice-cream mixture into mixing bowl; gradually add tea extract beating with rotary beater. Pour into freezing tray and freeze rapidly. When frozen, break up and spoon into mixing bowl. Beat until consistency of mashed potatoes. Return to freezing tray and reduce temperature control to maintain desired firmness.

HD Women Learn How To Place Shrubbery

By MRS. R. B. EDMONDSON
Bethel HD Club

Home Demonstration women learned at a series of meetings throughout the county that placing shrubbery around the foundation of a house is only one use of plants. Low, slow growing shrubs should be used around low houses. These should not be placed too near the house as they need room in which to grow. Home Beautification leaders, passing on information gained from John Harris, Extension Specialist in Horticulture, suggested starting with one or more plants at the corner of the dwelling and on either side of the entrance.

The tallest plants at the corners of buildings should usually be about half the height of the eaves of the house. Sometimes three plants are grouped at the corners.

Adult Homemaking Classes
The first of a series of Adult Homemaking Classes will be held Tuesday night beginning at 8:00 o'clock in the Home Economics Department at Junius H. Rose High School.

The classes will include subjects which will interest new and experienced homemakers.

The following plants are suggested for low houses: Japanese Holly, Dwarf Chinese Holly, Boxwood (in shade), Japanese Yew, Dwarf Camellia Japonica. With larger buildings small or spreading plants may be placed in front to "face down" the tall plants behind. Examples: Helleri, Japanese Holly, Spreading Juniper.

Drawings of homes and shrubbery cut-outs were used to show the location and use of plants. Evergreen trees might be used near the house for emphasis, but generally they are placed in the background or along the borders. Example of good trees to plant on lawns are Sycamore, Willow Oak, Tulip Tree, White Oak, Pecan, Sugar Maple and Ash.

For screen planting Harris recommended Glossy Privet (Ligustrum), Chinese Holly, Magnolia, Yaupon, Wax Myrtle, Native Cedars, and Hollies.

Harris emphasized that a simple landscape is more beautiful and easier to care for than any other kind. An open lawn gives an air of spaciousness in addition to being easier to mow.

Do You Count Calories?

RALEIGH—So you count your calories—at least you say you do! Do you skip breakfast to "save" calories then eat two doughnuts and a soda during the morning—a total of 375 calories? Or maybe you have two doughnuts and a cup of coffee with two creams and one sugar for a total of 348 calories. Then, later you eat that two-ounce candy bar and a soda which yields 405 calories.

If you are guilty of this maybe you'll be interested in seeing the number of calories in a nutritious breakfast as figured by Mrs. Rachel Ferguson, nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

For only 305 calories, you can have 1/2 cup orange juice, 1 egg, 2 slices toast with 1/2 tablespoon butter.

Or maybe this 293-calorie breakfast appeals to you: 1/2 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup oatmeal, 1-3 cup milk, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 slice toast and 1 teaspoon butter.

Just try to be wise when you "save" on calories. It can be expensive—if you don't.

More Than A Salute To The Past

How does one measure the value of a historic landmark such as Tryon Palace which has risen anew after its destruction more than 160 years ago?

It cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents—by the $300,000 in state funds and more than three millions total which went into the restoration project.

Neither can it be measured alone in the number of visitors it will attract to New Bern, nor in the dollars they will leave in motels, restaurants and shopping centers along the way.

For decades North Carolinians have been proud of the great heritage of their state. They recount with more than the usual amount of pride the glorious history of their state. Visitors are constantly reminded by word of mouth that North Carolina was first in colonization in the new world, the birthplace of the first white child, and indeed the birthplace of the nation. They have been told repeatedly North Carolina was at Bethel, farthest at Gettysburg and last at Appomattox.

But for the most part over the years, Tar Heels have been content to tell about their great heritage and the prominent role the state has played in the nation's history. They have built few shrines to commemorate events.

The reconstruction of Tryon Palace, one the show place of the colonies, may mark a new approach by North Carolina to its priceless heritage. It offers a more tangible evidence of the genuine pride Tar Heels take in the past achievements of their state. It com-

Facilities That Are Overlooked

By LYNN NISBET

POLITENESS — One of the copy-book maxims which school kids of half a century ago were asked to write when the schools still gave some attention to spelling, writing and teaching character as well as science) went like this: "Politeness is to do and say the kindest thing in the kindest way." Despite that maxim the smugness that prevailed then decreed that it was not polite to mention some matters pertaining to the comfort of guests. At risk of violating the properties, but in the spirit of the copy-book maxim, herewith is a news report of observation and experience on two recent excursions by the North Carolina General Assembly.

When the Legislature went to Charlotte on March 4 the members were profuse in commendation of the perfect planning down to the last detail of the day's program of activities — with one exception. When the Legislature went to New Bern last Wednesday similar commendation and appreciation was voiced — with the same exception.

On both occasions there were definitely inadequate "rest room" facilities at the major concentration points. Routine flow of visitors to country clubs, hotels and attractions like Tryon Palace can be accommodated with standard equipment. When 300 to 500 people converge at one time there is a problem. Such incidents are rare and a little temporary convenience can be tolerated. That doesn't explain why colleges, universities and state organizations will spend millions of dollars providing stadium room for 30,000 to 60,000 people — and rest room facility for a thousand or less. "It ain't fair," complained an elderly man on the New Bern trip. "When you get tired you need to rest — and when you gotta go, you gotta go." That may be why Governor Tryon called the pentagon shaped building in the backyard of the palace a "necessary house."

PROBATION — Since the probation system was inaugurated in North Carolina in 1937, there have been 36,940 persons placed on probation by the courts. Of this total number 14,678 were placed by recorder courts below the superior court level — almost 40 per cent. These figures, given to a legislative committee by Probation Director Basil Sherrill, obviously surprised some of the committee members who had regarded probation as primarily related to the superior courts.

Truth of the matter is, as explained by Sherrill in a subsequent interview, probation is perhaps most effective in cases which come within the jurisdiction of inferior courts, involving petty crimes by first offenders. It has been apparent, too, in discussion of pending bills that many members of the Legislature do not quite understand the distinction between probation and parole.

Probation is purely a judicial function. The judge decides whether a defendant should go to prison or should be allowed freedom, under supervision of probation and welfare agencies in order to determine whether or not he should be incarcerated. Parole is an administrative function of the prison department, where judgment is exercised after incarceration as to whether a prisoner should be kept in confinement or released under supervision of proper authority.

The probationer and the parolee have the common status of being under supervision. Both are required to report periodically to designated authorities. The distinction, which amounts to real difference, is that the probationer is still "in court" while the parolee is still "in prison."

LOCAL ROADS — Sen. Willis Hancock of Granville put into the legislature hopper Friday his "little bill" to give to county commissioners, rather than to the State Highway Commission, authority and responsibility for selecting secondary roads to be added to the State system or to be given priority for improvement. The bill does not take from the State agency any of its present authority to establish standards and criteria, nor does it relieve the State of obligation to hear the full cost of highway construction and maintenance.

The Hancock bill makes no mention of primary State or Federal highways. It deals only with the unnumbered county or secondary roads. It has nothing to do with the organization structure of the State Highway Commission. It would require closer contact between State and county governments, with provision for exchange of information at least quarterly, and for carry over from one fiscal year into the next of specific allocations for uncompleted projects.

Under terms of the bill the State would be bound to comply with county recommendations on priority for roads meeting minimum standards, unless the total highway budget had to be reduced. In that event the State would give notice to the county of the necessary curtailment allowing reasonable time for local adjustment in the schedule.

Reduced to lowest common denominator, the Hancock proposal would leave in the State full control over primary highways, without interference by any local influence. It would give to county commissioners more responsibility with respect to local roads, such responsibility to be shared with (instead of exercised entirely by) the State Highway Commission.

mends in more tangible terms to future generations the principles which have brought about the progress of the state through the years.

It suggests a growing awareness on the part of North Carolinians of the necessity to do more than talk about history if the message they seek to convey is not lost to the future.

Reconstructed Tryon Palace is a show place, a historic landmark, a tribute to the past. It is all that and more . . . a great deal more so far as North Carolina is concerned.

No Tax Cut For Us, But The British Can

There are few American taxpayers who would trade places with their counterparts in Great Britain because of the considerably higher tax rates of the British nation.

There are, however, a good many Americans who are looking with considerable envy upon the Britisher who's getting a reduction in his income taxes beginning on the first pay day after June 7. The British are also going to get a 10 per cent reduction in purchase (sales) tax, and tax cut on beer amounting to about two cents a pint.

Who can blame us for envying our distant cousins across the Atlantic?

Maybe its about time we do a little lend-lease in reverse and bring over to this country some of the British economists who have brought Great Britain a budget surplus of about a billion dollars for the past year and anticipate an even larger government surplus for the current year. If they could create conditions under which British income taxes can be cut four points — from 42 per cent to 38 per cent — perhaps they could give our own Washington Wizards a few pointers on how American income taxes might be reduced while changing our deficit spending into budget surpluses.

A couple of days before the British announced the reduction in income and other taxes, the Democratic Advisory Council made its report urging Congress to ignore the President's economy drive and get busy spending federal funds to boost this nation's economy. At the same time the release of a private study on the nation's budget prospects indicated it may be at least another five years before any significant federal tax cut can be considered by Congress.

The report said the cost of operating the government will continue to climb from 1960 through 1968, although by 1962 federal tax revenues may begin to exceed federal spending.

Five years is a long time for Americans to wait for a tax cut while they watch the reduction of taxes in Great Britain.

Major War On Federal Budget

By RALPH ROBEY

We are in the midst of a real political war on the federal budget. On one side are most of the Southern conservative Democrats and a majority of the Republicans. On the other side are New Deal Democrats and the remaining Republicans.

The most recent important development is the report of the staff of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation. Significant because this staff, of which Mr. Colin Stam is chief, has an extraordinarily good record for estimating revenue receipts. Further, this staff does not play party politics, and insofar as its reports are concerned, does not have an ideological snafu. When it says that a deficit is pending, therefore, its voice carries real weight, and in the current report that is exactly what it says.

The staff arrived at this conclusion by differing with the budget estimates submitted by the President in January. These differences, with all amounts in millions, are as follows:

Individual income taxes: down $1,300.
Corporation income taxes: up $177.
Excises: down $841.
Estate and gift taxes: down $30.
Employment taxes: up $190.
Customs: up $32.
Miscellaneous receipts: down $104.

Net difference: down $1,876. The staff also assumes that transfers to old-age and survivors insurance and disability trust funds will be $184 million more than the budget estimate; that transfers to the highway trust fund will be $681 million less than estimated in the budget; and, that refunds of receipts will be $29 million less than listed in the budget.

Putting all of these items together, the net result is that the Federal Government will have $1,350 million less than anticipated in January.

Back of these differences are certain assumptions. First, that present corporate tax rates will be continued, which also was assumed in the budget estimates.

Second, that recommended increase in gasoline taxes from 3 to 4 1/2 cents a gallon will not be made and that no changes will be made in the present treatment for transfers to the highway trust fund. Third, that corporate income will be higher than figured in the budget estimate, and that personal income will be lower.

On the expenditure side there also is a difference between the staff and the budget estimates. The one of greatest importance is the assumption that the increased contribution to the International Monetary Fund will be made in the 1960 fiscal year rather than in the current year as recommended by the Administration. This would lift estimated 1960 fiscal year expenditures to 180 billion, and would mean a deficit, on the basis of the staff revenue estimates, of $4.2 billion. But even without this particular shift, and it is still an open question, there would be a deficit of $1.2 billion.

Does this mean that there's no chance of having a balanced budget next year? It certainly does not mean this. The budget submitted in January by the President was not austere in terms of expenditures. It called for a reduction of about $4 billion, and there was at least that much more which might have been eliminated, and would have had to be eliminated if one was to be justified in terming it an austere budget.

On the revenue side the January budget estimates were well within the realm of possibility, and it still is possible that they will prove to have been too low. At the moment it does not appear probable that postage rates will be increased again, and neither does it appear likely that gasoline taxes will be raised. But these can be offset by economy in other directions, providing there is the will for such economy.

But there will not be this will for economy unless the public at large starts asking for more spending for all types of non-essential things, and unless the public at large starts asking for more spending for all types of non-essential things, and unless the public at large starts asking for more spending for all types of non-essential things.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
START FROM WHERE YOU ARE
Immanuel Kant lived and died without ever having traveled any further than you and I, once across the countryside on a Saturday afternoon. Jesus of Nazareth was never more than a hundred miles or so away from the place where He was born. Not one person in a thousand in the olden days ever got hardly out of sight of the homestead.

When people living on the eastern seaboard of the United States leave their daughters married and leave with their husbands to take up farms a hundred or two hundred miles away, they realized that they would never see their daughter again.

Yet think of the achievements which occurred in the lives of those who scarcely moved away from their own doorsteps. Today we can settle down in a jet plane at a reasonable time in the evening and look out the window the next morning as we circle about Rome.

Everything tells us that with the wonderful privileges we have today we ought to be producing great men. Yet the men who were really great, who caused generations to think their thoughts after them, who wrote great poems, thrilling plays, stirring novels, and music which entrained the soul — many of these people lived and died without ever straying far beyond their village or their city limits.

All the life we can live is at hand where we are. We can shake the world from where we stand. If we have it in us, we can turn the world upside down without leaving our study, farm, workshop, or office.

Grandma Younger Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The American grandma seems to be getting younger. The average woman in this country now has her last child at the age of 26, becomes a grandmother at 44.

In the Soviet Union 80 per cent of the college students are paid by the government to go to school. Soviet professors get up to $80,000 a year plus, in some cases, a summer home and a chauffeured car. But their freedom isn't even academic!

What do you pay for medicine? The average prescription now costs $2.90. And more and more women are getting notions of a career amid the lotions. Some 12.1 per cent of students in pharmacy schools are women.

A milk cow really enjoys being on the wagon. She drinks between 12 and 15 gallons of water every day.

There is a lot of blue-sky speculation about space today. We actually may have worldwide television in another decade but it is highly unlikely you or your neighbor will make a tourist trip to the moon.

There is no greater assurance of success than superb self-assurance. Andrew Maurois once wrote, "Bernard Shaw thinks himself greater than Shakespeare," to which Shaw modestly replied, "I don't just think it — I am!" Well, he did leave a larger estate than Shakespeare.

Even veteran New Yorkers are amazed at the speed with which skyscrapers are rising in mid-Manhattan today. But the Empire State Building, which required 7 million man hours to build, remains the champ. It was put up in 1 year and 45 days.

The United States spends 160 million dollars a year on toothbrushes and dentifrices, yet dental disease remains the nation's most chronic and expensive health problem.

If you want to breathe clean air, go to a desert. Desert air has half the impurities than the air over forest or farmland. City air is usually at least five times as dirty as the air over country areas.

The U. S. Navy builds more than atomic submarines and aircraft carriers. It also has developed an artificial leg that can be worn while swimming.

Speaking of swimming, drowning is now second only to the motor car as a cause of accidental death to Americans between the ages of 5 and 44. The 1958 toll: 6,000 lives.

Is there a doctor in the house? Well, there have been a lot of them — in the Senate as well as the House. Since its beginning, some 362 physicians have served in the U. S. Congress.

Four out of every 10 American mothers with children of school age now hold jobs outside the home. Could this be a big reason for the increase in juvenile delinquency?

What can a man believe? Now they tell us there are more than 1,700 islands in "The Thousand Islands."

It was Alexander Dumas, the elder, who observed, "all human wisdom is summed up in two words — wait and hope."

Other Editors Saying . . . Young Man's World? Opinions

(The Marietta (Ga.) Journal)

"Youth will be served," they say. Or used to say. These days, world affairs are almost entirely in the hands of men who'd be old enough, at least, to qualify for retirement annuities under the U. S. social security system.

Eisenhower is 68, Dulles 71, yet both are overshadowed in years by Adenauer, who's all of 83. Another who'll never be a sexagenarian again is Chiang Kai-shek, who is either 71 or 73. Yet he's a young 'un compared with his fellow Asian, Syngman Rhee, who is approaching 84. Nehru is 69, Ben-Gurion, 72, Tito, 66.

Still to stick to our side, there's de Gaulle, born in the same year as Eisenhower. And Macmillan may not look it but he has already cut his 65th birthday cake. For that matter, Churchill didn't resign as prime minister until 65 next April (Stalin was 73 when he died of whatever he died of). Mao Tse-tung is 65 or 66, and Chou En-lai has turned 69.

Well, if you think that's the great trouble with the world today, that it's being run by the elderly instead of by the young, you might cast your eye in the direction of Egypt. Nasser is only 41 and you can have him.

HOW TO JOIN THE JOBLESS (The Anniston (Ala.) Star)

If a plant that was closed down in Bloomfield, N.J., last week had been turning out products for which the demand was dwindling, the event probably would have gone unnoticed outside the affected community. As it was, the progressive General Electric Company decided to go out of the business of manufacturing industrial air conditioning equipment in the New Jersey community.

The closing had been scheduled for April 1, but was moved up two weeks when 15 union officials and employees chained themselves together in the plant in a gesture of protest, and according to a G. E. official, made it "impossible to continue factory operations."

It takes little imagination to picture previous differences between management and the union leaders who represented the plant's 400 workers.

Now, the promotion of industry has been made far more difficult in Bloomfield. Moreover, the loss of a substantial payroll, which shared by Bloomfield residents in all walks of life, is being felt most keenly by the workers whose jobs have disappeared. This is something for workers everywhere to ponder.

More Look-Aheads In Business

Here are more look-aheads in business, based as usual on studies of developing trends and brightened by a few sparklers of advance information:

Costlier salmon. Bristol Bay, whence comes half of Alaska's salmon, has been closed to red salmon fishing by the government. Meanwhile, Congress is considering a bill to restrict imports of Japanese salmon. If the fish has been priced out of your budget already, it will be even further away by summer.

Big pool year. A year ago it was predicted here that sales of home and resort swimming pools would set a new record in 1958. They did. This is to predict that another new record will be set this year. Interest is growing, especially among motel and resort owners.

HIGHER LIQUOR TAXES AHEAD

Boosts in state alkies taxes. There were no great rises in state levies on alcoholic beverages so far this year, but there will be increases on the next legislative go-round. Liquor taxes rise in cycles. Another is due: drys are stepping up political pressure, and enhanced profits by distillers will influence many state legislators.

More sofa sleepers. Newly designed mechanism makes sofas more easily converted into beds. Many manufacturers are adopting it and a vigorous merchandising push is likely to increase sofa-bed sales.

No secession. Ignore the talk about New York City seceding from New York State and becoming the 51st state. Even if residents really wanted it—which they don't—it would take a lifetime to complete the legal formalities.

Higher chemical prices. Automation and other production economies are keeping chemical prices from skyrocketing. Nevertheless, rising pay scales will force manufacturers to break the line and raise prices later this year.

FARM SALES BOOM
Big farm equipment year. No upsurge of farm prices is on the horizon, and that every fact will increase the sale of farm implements and machinery this year. More fertilization and more mechanization is becoming the best way to overcome price lags—and if prices don't lag, farmers will be even further ahead by buying machinery.

Higher retail totals. The second half of this year is likely to see the highest retail sales peaks yet. The rise in employment and general business improvement is not only giving people the confidence to spend but the wherewithal to buy.

Biggest ad spurge. A single 36-page advertisement costing more than three-quarters of a million dollars is about to jolt the nation. A pop-price mag and a pop-price car are involved and the ad may show exactly how effective saturation tactics can be.

Cut in depletion. Bills in Congress would cut the 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance on income taxes, given gas and oil well owners. Once brushed off, these

Grads Should Hurry

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Most graduates from high school or college wait too long before seeking jobs. The same applies to most employers who are seeking new workers. Now is the time for both prospective graduates and employers to get busy.

WATCH SCIENCE FAIRS
Most states are now holding Science Fairs exhibiting models and inventions by high school students of certain cities or counties. The original idea was suggested by William Guild of St. Petersburg, Fla.; but with the help of J.C. Council of the Tampa, Fla. Tribune these "Fairs" have been promoted by the leading newspapers in their vicinity. Of course, they are not "Fairs" — as they have nothing to sell — but are rather exhibits of ambitious high school students who may have worked months on their projects. This is the place for corporations and others to find students with extraordinary initiative and inventive capacity. These young people have no trouble securing good jobs or scholarships, whichever they desire.

As I read my daily newspapers I am discouraged by the crimes in which "teen-agers" are involved. It truly makes me feel that our country is "going to the devil," so to speak. But when attending one of these Science Fairs I become very optimistic about American youth. I believe that 95 per cent of the young people are boys and girls of character and ambition. Furthermore, those who get into trouble do so largely because of neglect by their parents, some of whom are too poor and others too rich to bother about their children.

"As the twig is bent, so grows the tree" applies to young people as well as to forests. The churches and schools cannot do much without the help of the parents. Furthermore, we must not think only of our own children — but for their own good we must think of the children of others who may not be as fortunate as we are. I wish every father reading this column would send fifteen cents (to cover printing and postage) to The J.W. Burke Company of Macon, Ga., for a copy of the "Tenth Generation," by the late Harry Stillwell Edwards.

GETTING JOBS OF ALL KINDS

The great majority of students who expect to graduate from high school or college in June are not mechanical-minded or scientific-minded. They will start as teachers or secretaries or sales clerks or in other clerical work and ultimately become fathers or housewives. Most of these, however, want jobs first; it is most important that they get jobs for which they are naturally suited and in which they will be both efficient and happy. In fact, I believe that with every diploma there should be attached a report showing what, in the opinion of the personal department of the school or college, the student seems best fitted for. Certainly, it can usually be foretold whether or not a graduate has the qualities of leadership, is capable of becoming an executive or being in business for him or herself; also, whether the student has a mechanical bent or is sales-minded or suited to teaching with a love for people or the arts.

Now let me give some rules which I have learned after fifty years in the "College of Hard Knocks" — (1) Ascertain in which of the following five groups you would be happiest: (a) The Professional Group, which includes law, medicine, teaching, and the ministry; (b) The Engineering Group, which includes chemistry, physics, architecture, building, and all phases of engineering; (c) The Manufacturing Group, which embraces economics, accounting, and the handling of employees; (d) The Merchandising Group, which has to do with selling, advertising, analyzing, investing, and all forms of merchandising and finance; and (e) The Agricultural Group, which embraces farming, dairying, horticulture, forestry, etc.

(2) After deciding for which of these five groups you are best suited, take the Yellow Pages of your telephone directory and select a dozen or more colleges or corporations which would give

Bolshoi Ballet In Debut Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — The famed Bolshoi Ballet makes its long-awaited American debut Thursday night in the Metropolitan Opera House.

The Soviet company will open a 10-week stay in America with "Romeo and Juliet," starring its Prima ballerina, the legendary Galina Ulanova.

Brought here by impresario Sol Hurok, the troupe will include a second ballerina of first rank, Maya Plisetskaya, creator of the company's "Stone Flower." She has not danced outside the Soviet Union before.

Tickets for opening night have a $50 top, for other nights, $15. Advance sales were phenomenally high. When the box office opened, after mail applications had been handled, there were 1,000 potential patrons in line with hardly enough seats left to take care even of them.

The company will play in Toronto and Montreal, and Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Besides "Romeo and Juliet" and "Stone Flower," the repertory includes "Giselle" and "Swan Lake" and two highlights programs, one of them featuring a section from "Spartacus." The second of these special programs is for newly scheduled Madison Square Garden appearances in May for the benefit of ballet lovers who couldn't get into the Met.

Then systematically call — properly dressed — upon the colleges or corporations which you have selected and tell them your story and your desire to learn to serve them. Forget yourself during such an interview. Talk only of how you wish to be of service to them or to others. If you have already had a summer position, speak well of former employers. Never complain about anything or anybody when seeking a job. Remember that the party interviewing you may have many more troubles than you have. LEARN TO SELL YOURSELF

(3) If you fail to interest the party called upon, be sure to get from him or her the name of some corporation or college which might be interested in you. This is very essential. Get the name of the person upon whom you should call and permission to use the name of the one who gives you this lead. Not only is it of great help to you to know whom to ask for when calling next, but your earnest request therefore makes a real impression on the party of whom you ask it.

call between 11:00 or 12:00 a.m. or directly after lunch. Be very courteous to the telephone switchboard operator or the hostess or appointment secretary whom first meet. It is very helpful if you can get from her the name of the person who can be of the most to you. Mondays and Fridays you can use learning in advance about the college or corporation upon which you are to call and getting the names of the persons who can best help you learn about the college or corporation so you can "talk their language."

I think that if you follow the above suggestions closely you will be successful, certainly by following up this program until it does succeed, you will win. One more thought: Employers are looking for men who do not drink at any time and who don't want to smoke while at work. Character, good health, and a belief in the church and prayer are the fundamentals of a successful and happy life.

Four On Raft Count On Ocean Currents, Wind

CALLAO, Peru, (AP) — Four men from three nations headed West into the Pacific today in hopes the wind and ocean currents will carry their raft to the South Sea isles.

The sail-equipped raft Cantuta II is skippered by Edward Ingris, 45, of Czechoslovakia. He is accompanied by Jose Matause, 37, another Czech; Joaquin Guerrero, 37, of Argentina; and Jaime Toledo, 34, of Peru.

Ingris and Guerrero failed in a previous attempt to make the voyage aboard the Cantuta I.

Several adventurers have made the crossing since Thor Heyerdahl, a determined Norwegian, rode the raft Kon-Tiki with his companions from Peru to the South Pacific. To prove it was possible for early inhabitants of the South American coast to have gone with the wind and the ocean currents to the islands of Polynesia.

May Retire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles R. Jonas (R-NC) says he is "seriously considering the advisability of getting out of public life."

Jonas emphasized, however, that he has not made any definite decision to retire from Congress at the end of his present fourth term.

"I am not disgruntled, or disappointed," Jonas told a reporter Saturday. "It's just a natural desire to get out from under pressures and problems and back to my profession."

Jonas, an attorney, is a former president of the North Carolina Bar Assn.

"I have a hard fight getting reelected every two years in a normally Democratic state," Jonas said. "I'm not getting any younger. I have a family to think about. I have a profession that needs attention."

Jonas, 54, has a wife and two children, aged 17 and 15.

Several hours later, the second truck left the highway at a hairpin curve and plunged into Rocky Devis Canyon.

Hamilton was killed.

Doomed Circus Elephant Spared

HUGO, Okla. (AP) — Zoo officials will bring Dorothy, the once-doomed circus elephant, back alive to Tulsa this month.

Director Hugh Davis of Tulsa's Mohawk Zoo said the man-killing elephant will be taken from here to her new home April 22.

Davis said Dorothy will be used strictly for exhibition, "although she is an expert performer."

It was two faulty performances which caused her present owner, circus owner Jack Moore, to order her execution.

Moore purchased Dorothy from another circus after she performed a headstand on her trainer, crushing him to death.

He thought he could rehabilitate the elephant, but two weeks ago she repeated her stunt on another trainer. He was injured.

Moore set the execution date for Sunday. A storm of protest followed. So did Davis, who came to Hugo to find out if he could have Dorothy for the zoo. Moore agreed.

Davis said his elephant trainer "says she might straighten up and become a perfect lady."

But they'll take no chances.

Her first days in Tulsa, Davis said, the elephant would be shackled inside the elephant building. With the completion of a moat around the building, she'll be unchained.

Can your child afford not to have a college education?

ADVANCED EDUCATION does not miraculously confer health, wealth and wisdom. But it helps—as millions have learned. Thus, every year, more and more high school graduates enroll in the particular college program best designed to develop their abilities.

U. S. Census statistics show that the cost of college is returned many times over in extra earnings in later years.

In an average lifetime, college graduates earn $100,000 more than those with a high school education only. And this takes no account of the extra satisfactions a college education can give.

One way to help make sure your children will have the education they need is through Metropolitan's Education-

Estate Builder Plan.

This policy may be taken out shortly after a child's birth. Of course, the younger the child, the lower the premium. Then, on maturity of the policy, the amount is available for the child's education. For a slight additional cost, the policy can even provide for the waiver of future premiums to maturity date in the event of the father's death.

And still another advantage to this Metropolitan Education-Estate Builder Plan is the privilege of conversion:

When the policy matures, if the money is not then needed for education, each $1,000 of the plan can be converted into $5,000 of Limited Payment Life insurance. The premium remains unchanged and no medical examination is required.

Thus, this converted insurance becomes a ready-made insurance estate for your child's start in family life.

Planning for your children's education is not a thing that you should put off. It is never too soon to prepare for the costs of a college education.

That is why it is a good idea to talk to your Metropolitan Representative as soon as possible. He will be happy to explain how a Metropolitan Education-Estate Builder Plan can help you give your children the advanced education they will need.

Pirates Seek Assistant

Coach Earl Smith, newly appointed basketball coach, and other officials at East Carolina College have been in the process of hiring an assistant for the coming school year.

Four or five different men have been talked to but no definite commitment has been made by either source. Included in the list that may be offered the job include Mel Thompson, Windell Carr and Bob Vernon.

Thompson is a former star for N. C. State and is now employed in the insurance business in Indiana. Carr is a former guard at Wake Forest and has been successful as a prep coach at Northwest High in Winston-Salem.

Vernon, the third big name, was a star on Duke's ACC championship club in 1958. He is finishing up at Duke this semester.

Aide Will Work On Masters

The aide will not be paid as a full-time college instructor but will be given an assistantship in the PE department. He will be given the opportunity to work on his Masters Degree and also work with basketball.

Don Harris, former Pirate star and All-Conference for two years, is working on his Masters at the present and may be back to help next winter. Harris had rapid success in his short coaching stint at East Mecklenburg in Charlotte before returning to do graduate work.

Big Leagues Underway

The major leagues got underway this past week with everybody expecting the Yanks to make the World Series again. Casey Stengel has won nine of the past ten pennants in the junior circuit and everybody favors his club for their tenth.

Detroit and Chicago are expected to give the defending champs the most trouble. This corner is going out on a limb and predict the Yankee reign to end with a shaky vote going to the Tigers.

The national loop shapes up to be another mad scramble with no less than six teams expected to make a battle of it. Pittsburgh could be the darkhorse after their rapid finish last season. Milwaukee will miss Red Schoendienst but are still the champs and team to beat. The Dodgers and Giants are expecting better years in their second season on the West Coast. St. Louis and Cincinnati are also expected to be in the battle. Our vote goes to another strong finish by the Pirates.

Brennan Causes Debate

The use of calisthenics by the Cincinnati Reds as a part of the conditioning program presented by Terry Brennan, former Notre Dame football coach, has touched off a long-time debate: Are such exercises harmful in the training of baseball players?

Casey Stengel is one of the main objectors of the plan. "We are getting ready for a baseball season, and have to concentrate on fitting ourselves for the techniques of the diamond. There are so many things you want to do in a baseball way that you can't afford to give to calisthenics," states the Yank boss.

Gabe Paul of Cincinnati defends his strategy. "Baseball is a game of running, stretching and back-bending. These are the exercises Brennan is accending. For many baseball players are soft and out of condition. Brennan was hired to make them hard. A well-conditioned athlete is a good athlete, whether it's baseball, football, basketball or marbles," says the Red General Manager.

Mallory Differs On Debate

Coach Jim Mallory, head baseball coach at ECC could see both sides of the debate. Mallory has had experience as a coach of both sports and was a college star in football and baseball. He later played pro baseball.

"It's strange," says Mallory, because the type of exercises are entirely different. However, pros could use some conditioning. Most players are not in the best of shape."

Mallory cited that some colleges were now turning to weights in building up their boys. The program is to make the boys stronger and therefore provide better hitters. Mallory stated that he may experiment with the plan in the future.

Whether Brennan is good for the Reds will probably not be known for some time. Brennan recently said that he felt that something had been accomplished but it may be awhile before others are convinced.

White Sox Whip Detroit For Third Win

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer Three days don't make a week, let alone a season but it sure looks today as if the Chicago White Sox have the two ingredients they lacked the most last season. That would be home run punch and strong relief pitching.

It was this combination that helped them win their third straight Sunday, a 5-3 decision over Detroit. The home run punch was provided by rookie Norm Cash. The relief pitching was furnished by rookie Rudolfo Arias and sophomore Bob Shaw. Each came in a Tiger threat with the bases loaded.

Chicago's three in a row has the club alone at the top of the American League heap. Three other teams still are undefeated. Cleveland has won two and Washington and New York one each. The defending champion Yankees finally were able to open their season at Yankee Stadium. They just did get the game in. It began to snow almost immediately after they had nipped the Boston Red Sox 3-2.

None of the other teams was as fortunate. Rain forced the postponement of the scheduled doubleheader between Baltimore and the Senators at Washington and the single contest at Kansas City between Cleveland and the Athletics. Weather cut the national league schedule in half, too. In the only games played, San Francisco made it three in a row over St. Louis, 4-3, and Los Angeles downed the Chicago Cubs 5-3. It rained in Philadelphia where the Cincinnati Reds and Phillies were to have played two games, and it snowed in Pittsburgh, postponing the Milwaukee-Pirates single contest. Veteran catcher Sherm Lollar shared the hitting honors with first baseman Cash for the White Sox. Each drove in two runs. Cash's homer gave the White Sox six in three games. The 1958 Chicago team hit only 101 all year.

It took fine relief pitching by Arias and Shaw to keep the White Sox undefeated. Detroit loaded the bases with only one out in the seventh against starter Dick Donovan. Arias, a Cuban left-hander, came in to get cleanup batter Gall Harris on a called third strike and pinch hitter Gus Zernial on a fly to right field.

Detroit loaded the bases again in the eighth with only one out. This time Shaw took over and got Eddie Yost to ground into a double play.

Bob Turley didn't need any help from the bull pen as he spun a two-hitter to get the Yankees away winging. Pete Runnels' double in the seventh and Vic Wertz' ninth inning single were the only hits Boston was able to get as Tom Brewer lost on an eight-hit-ter. Norm Siebern, sporting glasses for the first time, led the Yankee attack with three hits. His home run in the eighth snapped a 2-2 tie.

Giants Rely On Old Tricks For Victory

By JOE REICHLER The ninth inning wonders are back in business.

It was a year ago that the San Francisco Giants began an intriguing habit pulling out games in the final inning. Nearly a third of their victories were achieved thus. The 1959 season is only in its infancy and already the Giants have won two of their three games in the closing frame.

They did it for the second time Sunday, scoring three in the ninth to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals for the third consecutive day. The score was 6-3.

Sunday's triumph moved the Giants into first place, a half game in front of the Milwaukee Braves, who won the only two games they have played. Snow prevented the Braves from playing their scheduled game in Pittsburgh.

In the only other league action, Los Angeles defeated Chicago 5-3. The scheduled doubleheader between the Cincinnati Reds and Phillies in Philadelphia was postponed because of rain.

Weather permitted only two games to be played in the American League. Chicago's White Sox made it three in a row over Detroit with a 5-3 triumph. New York's Yankees, after two postponements, finally got under way and edged the Boston Red Sox 3-2. Rain washed out the scheduled twin bill at Washington between Baltimore and the Senators, and the single game at Kansas City between Cleveland and the Athletics.

For one inning it looked like the Cardinals might finally win their first game of the season. They scored three runs in the first against left-hander Mike McCormick on hits by Don Blasingame, Gino Cimoli and Ken Boyer plus three Giant errors.

The Giants tied the score with two in the fifth after scoring one in the third. Then, in the ninth with two out, Orlando Cepeda's triple drove in Jim Davenport, who had beat out a bunt to Cardinal pitcher Vinegar Bend Mizell. Felipe Alou tied the game with a home run.

At (Red) Worthington, with two hitless relief innings, was credited with the victory. The Giants now have made 13 extra base hits in three games.

The Dodgers, like the Giants, also overcame a 3-0 deficit. The Cubs got to starter Sandy Koufax for four of their eight hits in the third to score all their runs.

Los Angeles got two runs back in the fourth on rookie catcher Norm Sherry's two-run single. In the seventh, outfielder Don Demeter slammed a home run with two outs to tie the game.

Johnny Klippstein, who permitted only one hit in three relief innings, was the winner although Clem Labine helped him with three scoreless innings.

The American League attracted 108,459 and the National 132,191 for a combined total of 240,650 for Friday through Sunday. This was far off the 535,476 combined total for the first 1958 weekend.

Los Angeles' baseball opening beefed the 1958 total. The Dodgers, playing in the mammoth coliseum, drew 167,209 fans for a three game series with San Francisco.

There were 12 games postponed over the weekend by rain, snow or cold including doubleheaders in Baltimore and Philadelphia. Only two single games were washed out in 1958.

Matthews has had only 18 professional bouts but scored 13 knockouts in his 16-1-1 record. The lone loss was to Paulie Armstead, the only ranking (fifth) lightweight he's met. That, was a split decision.

Calhoun Returns To N. Carolina Track Scene

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — It's safe now to return Lee Calhoun's name to your list of the world's top hurdlers. The 1956 Olympic champion, after a year's enforced absence, has gone back to the track wars and in the opinion of a fellow who ought to know, will be greater than ever.

"Lee's doing a number of things better than he did when he won in the Olympics," says North Carolina College Coach Leroy T. Walker, who's been Calhoun's principal tutor for more than six years.

"His leg reflexes, his movements between hurdles are a little better than they were. Of course, I don't mean he was ever bad, but when you're as good as Calhoun, that 'little extra' can mean a lot."

Calhoun, now a graduate student at North Carolina College in Durham, sat out the 1958 track season under AAU suspension for getting married on a television program and accepting numerous gifts from the sponsor.

Earlier this year he competed in several indoor events, running short dashes to improve what Walker calls his "basic condition."

His first outdoor action since 1957 came here Friday and Saturday in the Quantico Relays, and his showing indicated that a year of comparative inaction took none of the spring from his legs.

Friday, he won his heat in the 120-yard high hurdles in 0:14.1. Saturday, in the finals, he licked an old nemesis, Elias Gilbert, with the same clocking in a driving rain, with water puddles and mud on the track.

"It was just tremendous in view of the weather conditions," said Walker. "He'll run better, too, when his basic condition improves — and it will."

Aside from his defeat at the hands of Calhoun, Saturday was very much Gilbert's day in the relays. He ran on Winston-Salem Teachers' teams that captured three events—the quarter-mile relay (42.7), the half-mile relay (1:28.1) and the shuttle hurdles relay (1:01.4).

Finsterwald Wins GGO; Wall And Snead Finish Strong

By KEN ALYTA GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Golf's gypsies were on the 1,200-mile hike to Houston, Tex., today hoping to find some sunshine after a water-logged finish to the $15,000 Greensboro open tournament Sunday.

Dow Finsterwald battled through the biting cold wind and rain with a finishing six-over-par 77 but good enough to clinch first money with a 278 total, six under par.

Finsterwald, 29-year-old PGA champion from Tequesta, Fla., had a four-stroke cushion starting the final round, thanks to earlier rounds of 68-68-65.

Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., riding the year's hottest streak, closed with a 74 to finish second at 280.

Finsterwald won $2,000 and Wall, who won the Wilmington, N.C., Azalea Open and the masters at Augusta, Ga., the two pre-

Eagles Win

FALKLAND — Coach Charlie Bill Moye's Eagles fought from behind to gain a 7-7 tie with Grimesland here Friday afternoon.

Jerry Little had two hits for Belvoir-Falkland while Gene Cannon got two safeties for Grimesland.

James Joyner went all the way on the mound for B-F while Bobby Cayton worked the distance for Grimesland.

A playoff of the game may be held later if necessary in the final conference standings.

ECC Has Three North State Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS ELON says four North State Conference baseball games this week, and a clean sweep would put the Christians in undisputed first place.

The league's standing should start to take some form after this week's 11-game card. The critical battle for Elon, the defending champion, will come Thursday in a game with Lenoir Rhyne. Also facing the Christians are two games with Western Carolina and one with Catawba.

Atlantic Christian, which shares first with Elon, each 2-0, has only one conference game on tap — East Carolina.

Lenoir Rhyne and East Carolina have won their only conference starts.

Foul weather Saturday washed away a heavy North State card on what would have been the first full week of action.

This week's schedule: Today—East Carolina at Western Carolina.

Tuesday — Guilford at High Point, Elon at Catawba, East Carolina at Western Carolina, Pfeiffer at Atlantic Christian.

Wednesday — Lenoir Rhyne at Guilford.

Thursday — Lenoir Rhyne at Elon.

Friday—Lenoir Rhyne at High Point, Western Carolina at Elon, Atlantic Christian at East Carolina.

Saturday—Appalachian at Catawba, Western Carolina at Elon, William and Mary at Guilford.

GREENSBORO (AP) — Mac Main, Danville, Va., pro, picked up an extra $450 in the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament as he topped the Carolinas PGA-sponsored Curtis Cup competition with a 288.

In addition, Main—who finished in a tie for 18th Sunday—also won $220 from the $15,000 major purse.

The Carolinas PGA section puts up $1,500 side money for non-touring member pros.

Left-handed Thorne Wood of Asheboro and Charlie Farlow of the Starmount Club, where the tournament was played, had 290s not in for second. They pocketed $235 each in extra money and $150 each from the regular purse.

Tom Case of Greensboro, with a 293, won $130 in the Curtis play. Mack Briggs of Rock Hill, S.C., and Wayne Haley of Martinsville, Va., tied for fifth at 295 and won $95 each. Avery Beck, Kinston; Al Smith, Danville; and Purman Hayes, Gastonia, had 297s for $70 each. Charles (Red) Jessup, Greensboro, won 10th place money—$50—with a 300.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

The preparations of Dean Crockett II, millionaire explorer, for a party in his penthouse included hiring the Cool & Lam Detective Agency to keep out gate crashers and sneak thieves. He wanted big Bertha Cool as one of the guardians of his door because he believed a woman was the gate crasher who got away from a previous party with one of his valuable relics.

Crockett's press agent, Melvin Otis Olney, tipped off newspapers about the precautions against gate crashers and then had reason to regret it. For somehow an intruder got past Bertha and an X-ray protective device with a jade Buddha and a pygmy blowgun treasured by Crockett.

Bertha, furious over her apparent lapse, has sought the aid of her brainy but bananaweight partner, stolen curios recovered, but not with police involvement. Donald is telling the story . . .

CHAPTER 5

"Until you joined this agency, Donald Lam, I had a respectable run-of-the-mill business," Bertha told me.

"And making run-of-the-mill money," I reminded her.

Then you started in working for me, weaseled your way into the business, and we've been playing tag with the state penitentiary ever since."

I looked at her big diamond rings.

Bertha followed my eyes, suddenly grinned. "All right, Donald. I'm out of my depth. How do you deal with something like this without letting the police in on it?"

She pushed her creaking swivel chair back from her desk, got up and started walking back and forth across the office with that peculiar walk of hers which was half-waddle, half-stride. "Crockett had sixty-two guests up there," she said. "Sixty-two. Count them. Sixty-two. All of them with invitations. I checked every one of them. All of them, he says, are pillars of respectability . . . and one of his pillars of respectability stole a jade Buddha and a blowgun. Now he wants them back.

"What do you do if you can't call the police? You can't cover pawnshops without calling the police, and that stuff isn't going to show up in a pawnshop, anyway. It's in the private collection of one of those guests . . ."

"Unless that blowgun is still up there, hidden someplace under a bed or in a closet somewhere," I said.

"Well, it isn't," she told me. "I suggested one of the guests might have hidden it, and they put that whole penthouse through a wringer this morning. They searched every corner of it."

"Try putting an ad in the paper," I said. "Will the person who inadvertently walked out with the curios at a certain party given by a well-known social figure please communicate with Box 420. Reward."

Bertha glared at me. "Don't be facetious," I said.

"I'm not being facetious," I said.

Bertha snorted.

"It's a good, logical suggestion," I told her, "but if you don't want to follow it, you don't have to."

"If I don't want to follow it!" she screamed. "You're in this thing! You're the one that's going to have to get that stuff back. I've done my share. I'm not going to carry all the load of the partnership business."

I raised my eyebrows.

"I went there and stood on my two aching feet in front of that elevator, being nice to people as they walked in, smiling at them, asking to check their invitations."

"Don't hand me that line of monkey," Donald Lam. "You're going to take charge of getting these things returned, and I'm going to be busy from now on. When that press agent, Melvin Otis Olney, calls, I'm going to tell him you're in charge of that branch of the business."

"How nice," I said, settling down in the chair and lighting a cigarette. "How do you get along with Olney?"

"I hate his guts," Bertha said. "He's a supersmooth, suave, penny-ante, slave-driving louse!"

"And the photographer?"

"The photographer," she said, "was nice."

"He was there last night?"

"Oh, sure, he was taking pictures all over the place."

"A private photographer?"

"It depends on what you mean by private. Crockett wants pictures. Every time Crockett does anything he wants to be photographed."

"What was the occasion for the shindig?" I asked.

"He's just back from exploring the wilds of Whosis, with a lot of pictures of women carrying baskets on their heads, women naked from the waist up, dead animals with Crockett standing with one foot on the chest of the carcass, his gun resting on his arm and a fatuous smile on his face."

"You didn't see it?"

"I didn't see all of it. I was waiting at the elevator until the guests arrived, then I went up and stood by the entrance to the elevator in the upper hall so I could check anybody that came in late."

"Was there anyone?"

"A couple."

"Where was this trip?"

"Someplace down in Africa or Borneo or someplace. I never did give a care about geography."

"There's a wide distance between Africa and Borneo," I told her.

"And a wide distance between your yakkity-yak and getting that stuff back," Bertha said.

"Any flag planted?" I asked.

"The flag of an adventurer's club or something of the sort?"

"Oh, sure," Bertha said. "They all do that. They had motion pictures of the guy sticking the flagpole in the ground, and then they had the flag there, and it was presented to somebody or other with a lot of ceremony."

"And that somebody took it out?"

"Who was that somebody — do you know?"

"No. He was some nitwit who was following Dean Crockett all over the joint. The manager of some club."

I got up, stretched, yawned, said to Bertha, "Okay, I'll give it a whirl. You don't like my idea of an ad, eh?"

"Get out of here," she said, "before I start throwing things."

I went down for a coffee break and bought a morning paper.

Melvin Otis Olney, a public relations expert, had done a good job. The shindig was written up in style and there were pictures of Dean Crockett the Second, standing with his foot on the chest of some rare animal, pictures of Dean Crockett the Second planting a flag of the International Goodwill Club.

The International Goodwill Club, it seemed, was organized for the purpose of promoting international friendship through dispensing international knowledge of customs, civilization and various cultures of different peoples and races.

I went back up to the office, said to Elsie Brand, my secretary, "What do you know about our file clerk?"

"Eva Ennis? Not too much."

"How long has she been with us?"

"About six weeks."

"What's her reaction to Bertha?"

"Terrified."

"What's her reaction to me?"

"Wouldn't you rather find out for yourself? After all," she said, "I'm a secretary, not a mind reader."

"Get her in here," I told Elsie. "You can sit in on the interview."

She looked at me curiously.

"What's it all about?"

"Get her in here and you'll find out."

ECC Historical Society Elects New Officers

Sandra P. Mills, sophomore at East Carolina College, will serve as president of the East Carolina Historical Society during the 1959-1960 term. Along with other officers of the organization, she was chosen in a recent election to direct activities of the organization.

The East Carolina College Historical Society, a new organization on the campus, was formed during the present school year by a group of students interested in study and research. Dr. Herbert R. Paschal of the Department of Social Studies acts as faculty advisor of the group. Fred D. Ragan of Varina, East Carolina senior, was first president of the society.

Elected to serve as officers with Miss Mills are Robert B. Edmondson, Jr., Rt. 1, Bethel, vice president; Sybil C. Swindell, Rt. 1, Swan Quarter, secretary; Delano R. Wilson, Rt. 1, Winterville, treasurer; and Lafayette Westbrook, Four Oaks, reporter.

Money Now Top French Worry

PARIS (AP) — Money has replaced the Algerian rebellion as the average Frenchman's number one worry.

In a recent poll taken by the French Institute of Public Opinion, 616 per cent of those questioned said money problems were their biggest worry. Algeria was second with 14 per cent.

In a similar poll conducted last August, Algeria was the most critical problem in the minds of 40 per cent of those polled while financial problems ran second with 26 per cent.

Vienna, home for one-quarter of Austria's population, is now planning to build a subway system to relieve transportation difficulties.

Air Force Band Making Two ECC Appearances

Two appearances at East Carolina College Tuesday by the United States Air Force Band promise to be among the most popular and widely attended music events of the current season on the campus. Performances, sponsored by the college Entertainment Committee, are set for 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. in the Wright auditorium.

The "Singing Sergeants," a 25-voice glee club, will be presented with the Band as an attraction of the concerts.

The United States Air Force Band, in its brief history of 16 years, has achieved a position unique in musical circles and has captured the fancy and the imagination of music lovers on four continents.

Responsible for the adaptability of the band and the eminence it has achieved is the Commanding Officer and Conductor, Col. George Sallade Howard, Chief of Bands and Music for the United States Air Force. He will conduct the group in Tuesday's concerts at East Carolina College.

Under his direction, the band has made eight international tours. It has appeared extensively in this country and has concertized in more than thirty capitals on four continents. It has established attendance records at Chicago's Soldier Field, New York's Idlewild Airport, Berlin's Olympic Stadium, Cairo's Republic Square, the Soesterburg Airport in the Netherlands, and other places around the world.

The precision, versatility, interpretation, and genuinely human appeal of the United States Air Force Band have made it a sensation wherever it has appeared.

Capt. Robert L. Landers, one of the ablest young conductors in this country, will direct the colorful and impressive vocal group the "Singing Sergeants" at concerts at the college Tuesday.

Thoroughly versed in all matters pertaining to voice and its potentialities, Capt. Landers is an authority on the music that has been written for it. His knowledge and experience are reflected in the repertoire of the "Singing Sergeants," which includes in excess of 200 selections ranging from operatic to jazz and from spirituals to be-bop. In addition, novelties, folk songs, chants, ballads, and current popular hits are presented in programs by the group.

Education Program For Prisoners Stirs Debate

By BUNNY HARRIS
Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — A Brunswick County representative maintains the prisoners are in danger of being so "mollycoddled by TV sets and academic education" that they may start wanting to return.

The remark was made by Rep. James Bowman in opposition to a bill introduced by Rep. Marcellus Buchanan of Jackson calling for expansion of the prison's educational offerings.

The bill was drafted over the past few weeks in cooperation with the N.C. Prison Department and N.C. Department of Instruction to institute academic and vocational programs for the inmates of the state's prisons, Buchanan said.

He termed it a purely "per-

Furniture Prices Due To See Rise

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—You probably will pay more for furniture soon. Prices at the Spring Southern Furniture Market which opened here today are expected to be 3 to 5 per cent higher than at the January market.

The display by some 300 manufacturers is for storekeepers only. It will be a while yet before what they buy is available to you in the stores. They are expected to buy several million dollars worth of goods at the week-long market.

Furniture of all periods is on display. In case goods—bedroom and dining room furniture of wood—the trend is toward modern.

North Carolina is first in the nation and Virginia second in production of case goods. They produce 52 per cent of the nation's wooden bedroom furniture and 41.9 per cent of its wooden dining room furniture.

There are six principal furniture markets in the United States. Chicago is the largest. Second is High Point, with its 14-story Southern Furniture Exposition building and two 10-story additions. The market here has 15 acres of display space.

Other markets housed in permanent buildings are in New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Dallas.

For the first time there is a separate showing here of house furnishing accessories, such as lamps, pictures and wall decorations.

Co-Authors New Science Texts

Dr. Austin D. Bond, faculty member of the Department of Science at East Carolina College, is co-author of a series of textbooks in elementary science "The Developmental Science Series," the fifth volume of which has just been published by Lyons and Carnahan.

The new volume, entitled "Experimenting in Science," is designed for use in the fourth grade. A text of 265 pages, it is illustrated with colored drawings and plates.

Four other volumes, including a primer and texts for the first, second and the third grades, were published last fall.

For Two, First Little Theatre Roles Coming Up

Ruth Coplan and Bob Whiting are among the members of the "Bus Stop" cast making their first appearance with the Greenville Little Theatre. For both, their roles in the William Inge hit marks their first acting ventures before a theater audience.

Miss Coplan, a member of the English faculty at E.C.C., plays the role of Elma, a naive high school girl who holds down a part time job as waitress in the bus stop and coffee shop. Although this is her first acting experience, she studied drama at the University of Arizona, and tried her hand at directing at the drama workshop there.

Before settling on a teaching career, Miss Coplan worked on the staff of Newsweek Magazine in New York as editorial correspondent, and also as publicist for radio-TV station WBRE in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Whiting, a senior at E.C.C., has had the luck to grab a real acting part for his first role. He plays Bo, the lovelick cowboy with the rough and ready manners. Bob, whose chief hobby is writing, is a member of the news staff of the East Carolinian.

Other members of the cast include Alice Anne Horne as Cherie, Faye Leggett as Grace, Del Drive as the sheriff, H. D. Rowe as Dr. Lyman, Mahlon Coles as the bus driver, and Jay Robbins as Virgil, "Bus Stop" is under the direction of Claude Garman.

The comedy hit is scheduled for three performances in Austin Auditorium next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 16, 17, and 18, at eight o'clock. Tickets are now on sale and may be obtained from members of the Greenville Little Theatre, or from Brody's.

Royalty Named For Jamboree

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (AP)—Royalty has been chosen for the annual Pirates Jamboree which ushers in the vacation season on the Dare County Coast.

Mrs. Wenona Gray of Hatteras, the mother of two young daughters, and Julian Oneto, a Nags Head hotel operator, will be crowned here Saturday night as king and queen of the jamboree.

They were selected last Saturday night as several hundred "pirates" and their ladies attended a Jolly Roger Ball here. The Pirates Jamboree will follow the coronation ball.

After 44 Years, Has Had Enough

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — He stood the corny jokes about nuts for 44 years.

Then Gilbert Brazil, Ceres, Calif., petitioned Stanislaus Superior Court for permission to change his name.

He wants to be called Gilbert Brazil.

Poodle Saved By Plain Alley Cat

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Nobody knows how Buttons knew about it, but Buttons—just a plain alley cat—saved Renee's life.

Renee is a poodle, six months old.

Buttons made enough noise Saturday night to awaken Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bradford and lead them to Renee, recuperating in a back room from a tonsillotomy.

Renee, who had bitten into a live electrical extension cord, was unconscious. Bradford gave artificial respiration. Mrs. Bradford called the Harris County Emergency Corps.

By the time corpemen arrived, Renee was doing fine.

'Lash' Clobbered By Phone, Mop

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP)—When actor Lash LaRue hit his wife during a domestic argument she picked up the telephone, police report.

But she didn't call anyone. She socked him with it.

Then, officers said, LaRue's sister-in-law, Mrs. J. M. Osborn, clobbered him with a mop.

After five stitches were taken in his scalp, LaRue was booked on suspicion of assault, battery and disturbing the peace Sunday. The complaint was signed by his wife, Paddie, and Mrs. Osborn.

What started the argument at the home of friends was not disclosed.

Ambassadors To Visit Palace

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—Ambassadors from Britain and Switzerland will be taken on a tour of the restored Tryon Palace Tuesday.

The program will include a dinner at the Hotel Gov. Tryon and a candlelight reception in the restored palace.

Ambassador Henry de Torrenie will be accompanied by Madame de Torrenie, the embassy first secretary, Ludwig Meier, and Mrs. Meier.

The British party will include Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia, Lady Caccia, their son, David, and Paul Scott Rankine, a secretary at the British Embassy in Washington.

Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Luther Barnhardt and House Speaker Addison Hewlett and Mrs. Hewlett will represent the State of North Carolina.

EXECUTOR'S NOTICE TO CREDITORS

Having qualified as Executor of the Estate of Bessie Buck, deceased, late of Pitt County, North Carolina, this is to notify all persons having claims against the estate of said deceased to exhibit them to the undersigned or his Attorneys named below, on or before March 3, 1969, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will please make immediate payment.

This 3rd day of March, 1969.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.* At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Busy Agenda For This Week Will Face Legislature

RALEIGH (AP)—A final House vote on minimum wage legislation, a hearing on a proposed tobacco tax and Senate action on a drunkometer bill head the agenda for the legislature this week.

The House and Senate will get the week under way with their customary Monday night sessions.

A flock of farm groups and tobacco industry leaders are expected here Tuesday to protest a bill to impose a state tax on tobacco, North Carolina's No. 1 crop.

The hearing will be before the Joint Finance Committee in the auditorium of the Highway Commission Building. A bill by Rep. Thurston Arledge would put a tax of 3 cents per pack on cigarettes, 1 to 1½ cents on cigars and 1½ cents on each 10 cents of the retail price of smoking tobacco.

The proposal would bring in an estimated 16 million dollars annually in revenue.

The House is scheduled to give third and final reading Tuesday to a 75 cents hourly minimum wage bill. Following lengthy debate, the House gave the measure second reading approval Thursday. Several amendments were adopted to limit its application.

If the bill passes the House, it must still win Senate approval.

The Senate is expected to debate early in the week a controversial bill calling for drunkometer tests for motorists suspected of driving under the influence. The Senate Roads Committee watered down the measure some what with amendments before giving it a favorable report Friday.

The Joint Appropriations Committee is set to resume budget discussions Tuesday. However, the group may continue to talk things easy until after figures are available on the April 15 income tax collections. These figures will give the committee an inkling of what the state can expect to collect during the next biennium.

Woodland Blaze Is Quenched By Saturday's Rain

SWAN QUARTER, N. C. (AP)—Between 14,000 and 15,000 acres of blackened woodland lie in the wake of a huge forest fire that was drenched by steady rains Saturday night.

The big fire, which broke out Wednesday, covered areas of Hyde, Tyrrell and Washington counties.

A tired crew of some 50 firefighters, working under the direction of Regional Forester R. C. Winkworth, brought the fire under control late Saturday. Rains that night and early Sunday doused the remaining flames.

Winkworth said the firefighters broke camp and left for home early Sunday after making a close check of the area.

Pre-Venus Trip Launching Next

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States plans to launch a 50-pound satellite next month as a preliminary step toward exploring the planet Venus.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said Sunday night the launching will be attempted from Cape Canaveral, Fla., under NASA supervision. He said a follow-up attempt probably will be made in June to send a satellite into the vicinity of Venus.

Next month's satellite, equipped with four rectangular fins, will have a solar battery much more powerful than the one contained in Vanguard I. The first Vanguard, launched almost 13 months ago, still is orbiting and its solar-powered transmitter is still sending signals. The fins on the planned satellite will provide more area for gathering solar energy.

NASA hopes the new satellite will orbit at a peak altitude of 20,000 to 30,000 miles, dipping to a low altitude of 200 miles. It will contain devices to measure cosmic rays and check magnetic fields.

Rivers Expected To Flood Banks In Some Areas

RALEIGH (AP)—The Neuse, Tar and Cape Fear rivers are expected to flood their banks in some areas in the wake of steady rains this past weekend.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at the Raleigh-Durham Airport said farmers would be wise to move their cattle from lowlands along the rivers.

Rainfall amounts over the state ranged from three-quarters of an inch to more than 3½ inches.

"There may be enough rain," the weather bureau said, "to cause bankful stages on the Dan River and the Roanoke above Kerr Dam."

An advisory issued by the bureau Sunday said: "Rains which have already fallen are sufficient to cause minor flooding early this week in the lowest ground along the Neuse River in the vicinity of Smithfield and downstream, and
