Labor 'Bill Of Rights' Losing Some Backers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "bill of rights" amendment written into the Kennedy labor regulation bill appeared today to be losing some of its Southern support.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) told a newsman he was having second thoughts on the amendment and that he believed some of his Southern colleagues were, too.

The amendment, by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), was adopted 47-46 Wednesday, largely on the votes of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

A host of other amendment proposals awaited action as the senators moved into what most hoped would be the final day of debate on the hotly disputed measure.

Remaining to be settled are three major issues:

1. Whether to write in a provision strengthening the Taft-Hartley law sections aimed at secondary boycotts.

2. Whether to insert a provision sharply limiting organizational picketing.

3. Whether to try to modify or knock out the bill of rights amendment.

The Senate acted on 18 amendments in an 11-hour session Thursday.

One of those adopted would forbid a railroad, trucker or other interstate common carrier from agreeing with his employe not to haul products of another firm involved in a labor dispute. The Teamsters Union has insisted on such "hot cargo" clauses in chief of its contracts.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, chief sponsor of the bill, said he thought that amendment would reduce the demand for a ban on other kinds of boycott. But McClellan said he would seek one.

Stennis made his comments about the bill of rights amendment after a huddle of Southerners with Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.).

He said he believed some Southerners did not understand the full implications of the amendment.

He said some of its provisions—including one to give the secretary of labor broad authority to seek court injunctions—have been compared with those in the 1957 civil rights bill, which Southerners fought bitterly.

Pitt Farm Conditions 'In A Jam'

Unusually high precipitation during the month of April has created poor planting conditions for farmers of this area.

Our growers are in the worst jam now that they've even been in, so far as transplanting tobacco, fumigation and planting corn is concerned," S. C. Winchester, Pitt County Farm Agent said this morning.

Greenville Utilities weather records show that 6.42 inches of rain have fallen on Greenville from April 1 through today. It may be a record rainfall for the month.

The heavy rains are keeping farmers out of the fields and thus tobacco plants are getting too high in the beds, according to the farm agent.

"Several farmers are having to pull plants off their beds and either destroy them or give them to some grower who has sandy high land he can get in," Winchester pointed out. "Even with no more rain at the moment it will be Monday before many of our fields are dry enough for transplanting or tobacco."

The wet weather is also wreaking havoc with fumigation operations in Pitt tobacco fields. The fumigant, which destroys nematodes, is usually placed in the field two weeks before transplanting is begun. Thus farmers who haven't fumigated yet will have to skip fumigation because transplanting is already behind schedule, according to the farm agent.

Because of this, Winchester said he "would anticipate a greater nematode problem this year."

Only a small percentage of the tobacco crop has been transplanted in the county. However, the weather conditions probably haven't caused unusual damage to the plants already in the fields.

Heavy Rainfall Disrupts Transplanting And Fumigation Of Corn Crop

By ALVIN TAYLOR, Reflector City Editor

Unusually high precipitation during the month of April has created poor planting conditions for farmers of this area.

Only a small percentage of the tobacco crop has been transplanted in the county. However, the weather conditions probably haven't caused unusual damage to the plants already in the fields.

Despite bad weather conditions so far during this planting season, it is anticipated there will be enough tobacco plants.

"We think generally we have enough plants if the weather will allow us to get in the fields rather quickly now," Winchester stated. The heavy rains have also created problems so far as corn planting is concerned.

"Approximately 60 percent of the corn has been planted in Pitt County," the farm agent said. "A normal season we would complete corn planting by April 1, so we are almost 30 days late on the remainder of our crop."

The Raleigh Weather Bureau office said this morning that no rain is in sight for today or tomorrow. However, the Associated Press' five day weather forecast said there is a chance of showers Sunday night or Monday.

The two-day show and sale is directed by the Pitt County Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association and sponsored by the Pitt County Farm Bureau and the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, with financial aid from the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, chief sponsor of the bill, said he thought that amendment would reduce the demand for a ban on other kinds of boycott. But McClellan said he would seek one.

School Board Asked Not Retain Principal

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Education was asked last night not to renew the contract of Kelley Wallace, principal of Chicod School for the past two years.

The request was made, at a special board meeting, by a delegation of Chicod School patrons, accompanied by two attorneys, who represented a group of 381 persons who have signed petitions asking that Wallace be replaced. Wallace, who was also accompanied by an attorney, was present at the meeting.

Chandler Muse of Tarboro, one of the attorneys representing the group seeking to oust Wallace, said the group felt the school principal has been guilty of poor administration of the school, poor public relations, a lack of interest in his pupils and splitting community support of the school. Wallace and his attorney, L. E. Mercer of Washington, denied all of the general charges.

Final action on the request was delayed until May 4, date of the next regular meeting of the Board of Education. That meeting is expected to be the one at which appointments of principals for county schools are to be made, and Wallace has been recommended for reappointment by the Chicod District Committee.

The delegation of school patrons who met with the board last night included the Rev. Floyd B. Cherry, pastor of the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church; Mrs. Doris Manning, Mrs. Norman Porter; Mrs. Linwood E. Hardee; and Mrs. Jerome Hardee, all of whom said they signed the petitions asking that Wallace be replaced.

The Rev. Mr. Cherry, who has two children in Chicod school this year and another who graduated last Spring, told the board he felt . . . it is to the best interests of the community that a change be made.

He denied "being sore" at Wallace because his daughter failed to get a scholarship for which she was applying, but he said the length of time it took the child to get a transcript of her grades caused her to be disqualified from competing for the award.

Mrs. Manning, who, like the others, stated she had nothing personal against Wallace, complained that her son had been replaced, without explanation, as a bus driver.

"I like Mr. Wallace," Mrs. Manning said. "I think he's a fine man, but I don't think he's a good principal. There's something about him that he can't understand children or make them understand him."

Mrs. Porter, whose husband is a member of the district committee, charged that Wallace, who has also served as coach of the girls' basketball team . . . doesn't show enough concern for girls at ball games . . . for what he sees (in the way of damage to school property) . . . and for injuries to students. She cited incidents in which two students were injured and charged that Wallace "did not show enough concern" for the injured boys. One of the incidents involved a boy who cut his hand in a shop class and the other involved a boy who broke a bone in his hip in a fall from the school's auditorium stage.

Mrs. Jerome Hardee, who said her son had been expelled from the school by Wallace, charged "some misunderstanding" to Wallace.

"He can't reach the children or they can't reach him," she declared. She claimed she did not know why her son was expelled, but she said, "I'm glad he expelled my son. It might make a better man (the boy) . . . bought wisdom is better than that which is handed down."

Mrs. Hardee also commented on a charge by Mrs. Porter that Wallace had called one of his students "a murderer." Her comment differed from Mrs. Porter's, however, in that Mrs. Hardee quoted Wallace as saying the child in question was " . . . on the way to becoming a murderer." Mrs. Porter had quoted Wallace as saying the child " . . . is anything but a murderer."

According to statements made by both sides, the child in question was identified as the possessor of a switchblade knife found on the school grounds and turned in to Wallace. The woman said he commented on the child and the knife in their presence.

Believes Revenue Estimate 'Low'

RALEIGH (AP) — A legislative leader says he believes estimates of expected revenue for the next biennium can be upped and thus provide for more spending than is recommended in the proposed state budget.

Rep. Clyde Harris of Rowan, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said Thursday he is confident of more revenue because of the state's "driving economy."

State Revenue Commissioner James Currie said income tax collection figures won't be available until after May 1, but "things look good. Not spectacular, but good."

The budget recommended by Gov. Hodges and the Advisory Budget Commission calls for $1,200,000,000 during 1959-61.

Meanwhile, the Joint Appropriations subcommittee decided to postpone consideration of the entire education section of the budget.

Sen. William Copeland of Hertford, co-chairman, said the postponement will give the subcommittee a chance to take a close look at state revenue figures in hopes of possibly upping appropriations above those recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission.

"I think the committee wants to do what it can with such money as is available," he added. The education items represent more than 75 per cent of total general fund appropriations, Copeland noted. These include funds for public schools, state-supported colleges and universities and teacher and faculty pay.

Meanwhile, the subcommittee gave tentative approval to the budgets of six orphanages—Junior Order Orphanage, Oxford Orphanage, Oxford Colored Orphanage, Odd Fellows Home, Pythian Orphanage, and Alexander Schools Inc.

It also tentatively approved $18,000 more for Oxford Colored Orphanage than was recommended by the budget commission. The others had not asked to exceed commission proposals.

The $1,905,951 budget of the State Commission for the Blind was given tentative approval.

Third Night Of Shots In Mill Strike

Pattern Of Quiet Days And Violent Nights Shapes Up In Henderson

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — First shift workers entered the struck Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills without incident today after the third straight night of violence in this small industrial city.

Following a pattern established earlier in the week, only a few strikers showed up at the mills' heavily-guarded North and South Henderson plants to jeer and shout at the incoming workers.

Rifle shots peppered the plants again Thursday night until a second shift employees departed under police and highway patrol guard.

No serious injuries were reported among the workers or the large number of shouting strikers gathered outside the mill gates.

Operation of a second shift at the plants, struck Nov. 15, has brought criticism from Gov. Luther Hodges, who said he had warned the management it might mean bloodshed.

Shortly before the second shift left at 11 p.m., highway patrolmen fired two parachute flares over the South Henderson plant. Other patrolmen patrolled a back street across from the mill where most of the sniper fire had originated.

Under the brilliant light of the flares and the watchful eyes of the patrolmen, the workers left without incident.

In Raleigh, Gov. Hodges, himself a former textile official, disclosed he had warned mill president, John D. Cooper Jr. April 16 against opening the second shift.

Cooper, who started the second shift April 20, told Hodges that to close the shift would be "an absolute surrender to force and violence."

Gov. Hodges said he released details of his letter to Cooper "to remind Cooper of his personal responsibility for the present difficulty."

Cooper said previously he would close the mills permanently if he had to close down any of the shifts.

The strike began after the company insisted on elimination of an arbitration clause from a new contract with the Textile Workers Union of America. It apparently had been settled April 17.

Union strikers were to be rehired on the second shift—and a promised third shift. When they arrived Monday, they said, only 30 jobs were available.

Since then the mills have been targets of rifle fire. A force of 100 highway patrolmen has been recalled.

Mental Health Week Is Proclaimed By Mayor

MAYOR WEST PROCLAIMS MENTAL HEALTH WEEK . . . Dr. Frank G. Fuller, vice president of Pitt Mental Health Association looks on.

Mental Health Week has been proclaimed locally by Mayor S. Eugene West for the week of April 26 to May 2.

"Mental illness continues to be the nation's Number One health problem," the mayor said in his proclamation. "There still remain in the nation's mental hospitals more patients than there are in all other hospitals combined. These patients look to their relatives, neighbors, friends and fellow citizens for assurance of the best scientific treatment available."

"These patients also look to the people of their community for continued contact with the world outside."

Thus, the mayor said, he was proclaiming April 26-May 2 as Mental Health Week.

"I call upon the citizens of Greenville to observe this week with appropriate activities and to join in Operation Friendship by visiting a mental hospital during this week."

Tar River Due To Crest Sunday

The Tar River had reached the 1441-foot level this morning and is expected to crest between 15 and 16 feet at Greenville Sunday morning, the Weather Bureau office in Raleigh reported today.

The river's rise here is expected to be very slow now until the crest is reached. A Weather Bureau spokesman said no residential areas are expected to be affected at Greenville although some pasture land along the river's path may be in danger of flooding.

Fair weather is expected today and tomorrow so that even if additional rain comes later, the break will be sufficient to allow the flood waters to begin receding, the spokesman said.

Baby Saved By Four-Year-Old

FAYETTEVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Four-year-old Barbara Strong, her hair in flames, carried her 6-month-old brother to safety and led another brother outside when fire destroyed their four-room home Thursday.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Strong, Negro tenant farmers, were across a field when they saw the fire. Their only daughter had rescued the baby, Gary Lee, and Ray, 3, by the time they reached the burning house.

The father smothered the fire in Barbara's hair. She was hospitalized with burns on the hands, arms and head.

Coroner's Jury Recommends No Action In Traffic Fatality

By STUART SAVAGE, Reflector Staff Writer

A six-man coroner's jury, last night, recommended that no criminal action be taken against the driver of the car in which a 16-year-old Grimesland girl was killed late Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Eloise Roberson, sister-in-law of the victim and driver of the car, was cleared by the jury that heard the testimony of the witnesses.

The wreck, which occurred on East Fifth St. at Greenwood Cemetery, was a one-car accident.

saying a blue car turned off the road in front of him and entered the cemetery or Cemetery Road, then he heard tires squealing. He was quoted as saying he looked in his rear view mirror and saw the Roberson car skid, hit the shoulder of the road and turn over. Carr said skid marks measured 87 feet.

Carr next read a statement from Mrs. Roberson. According to her statement, an auto pulled out of the cemetery or Cemetery Road in front of her and she attempted to pass it. As she started by both Miss Roberson and Miss Sutton grabbed the wheel and Miss Sutton, seated in the middle, put her foot on the gas while Mrs. Roberson applied the brakes.

Mrs. Roberson also said in her statement, by the time the passengers released the wheel, the car had hit the shoulder of the road and was turning over.

As a result of Burrough's statement that he was driving and witnessed the accident, Officer Carr charged him with driving after his operator's license had been suspended.

Miss Jeanette Roberson, the victim, died a few minutes after the accident from head injuries.

Both Miss Roberson and Mrs. Roberson were from Route 1, Grimesland. The other occupant of the car, Miss Joanne Sutton of near Ayden, received slight cuts and bruises in the wreck.

Witnesses last night included Capt. S. H. Mitchell of the State Highway Patrol, Officer W. M. Carr, Joanne Sutton, T. C. Powers, Ervin Barber, and Jimmy Speight.

Job Keeps Women Young

By VIVIAN BROWN
Associated Press Beauty Editor

IF YOU'RE OVER 40 and in the doldrums, why not find a job? The older woman is in demand these days. Since 1940, there has been a 24 per cent increase in the number of women workers in the 45 to 54 age group with 48 percent of their number now employed. These are statistics from the U.S. Department of Labor, which also tells us that in the same period women workers increased 18 per cent to 36 per cent in the 55 to 64 age group.

One reason older women have found favor with employers is that they manage to look younger for their years. They have a willingness to work, and are not as indifferent as the younger generation toward their pay checks, bidding time until the right man comes along. The majority of older workers has a grown family, and time on their hands.

But what of the woman who has been tied to her home, who has not had professional makeup advice or a new hairstyle in years, and wants to find a job? How can she go about achieving the attractive appearance necessary to compete in business?

Makeup Advice
One famed Hollywood beauty authority, Max Factor, says the same makeup advice that applies to the older woman on the movie lot also applies to those selling candy at store counters: Don't overdo it.

Makeup should be smooth and flattering. It should be applied with finesse, evenly and thinly, but enough to last a whole day.

If you must get up 10 minutes earlier to apply your makeup carefully, it is worth it. He suggests using cream rouge for fresh color before you apply your makeup, but if you prefer dry rouge, it should be used after your foundation. A bright lipstick makes a better effect for the older face, he says.

Clothes Counsel
Youthful dodges are necessary to spruce up the appearance of the older woman, Factor says. Use color, instead of the usual black. Wear jewelry to add sparkle, rather than the usual pearls. Choose accessories for their unmistakable dash. Clothes should fit well. "The sloppy silhouette is not for the older woman, and is likely to detract from the rest of her appearance."

Hairdos are another keynote of age. Hair should be smartly styled. The right coiffure can lift years from your face, Factor says, and, "if the hair is youthfully styled it may not even be necessary to dye, or mask any sprinklings of gray hair."

Eyeglasses
Eyeglasses are another way to add or subtract years from your face.

Gardening Today

By JOHN DUNCAN

Since time began man, for either economic or aesthetic reasons, has been gardening.

It is the number one hobby of this present age. Man comes of this naturally for his distant kinsman, Adam, was the first gardener. Adam, until his first crop failure (himself) had things easy.

Now the gardener is in constant battle with insects, diseases and the elements.

A diet of sunshine, exercise and sweat gives the gardener an outlet in these days of tension and the attending psychosomatic ills.

Fruit from your own trees, vegetables from your garden, flowers in the vase, these products of your time and patience (plus fertilizer, sunshine and rain) taste better and look better than any purchase of same.

It is a great satisfaction to the gardener to paint a pleasing picture with spade, trowel, seed and plants. If you aren't gardening at present, try it.

After awhile it gets a good hold on you. You will find yourself leaning to one plant or combination of plants.

Many of the authorities on garden methods and various plants started as hobbyists. Their questings into the realm of nature have brought forth new ways of doing things, and introduced many new varieties of plants.

Try adventuring with plants, you may be the proud discoverer of a new plant.

Do not hesitate because you think your thumb isn't green.

You will find that the "green thumb" is only a name for work, some know-how, plus sunshine, rain, and luck.

The Problem Of Allowances

"It's embarrassing to find that your best friend gets a much bigger allowance from her family. My friend Doris gets $5 a week and I get only $2. This means there are many things we cannot do together as I cannot afford to keep up her pace. Don't you think that parents should get together and try to adjust matters like that in their community?" writes a 17-year-old girl.

The question of allowance to offspring is a bothersome one to parents, especially when they cannot afford to always keep up with other parents. There have been instances of parents joining in adjusting curfew and allowance. However, most times it does not work out to the satisfaction of the young people because the parents usually decide on an early curfew and minimum allowance.

Banking Is Club Topic

The Sweet Gum Grove Home Demonstration Club held its monthly meeting in the Community Building with the president, Mrs. Eric Whichard, presiding. The hostesses, Mrs. W. C. Hollowell and Mrs. C. Howard Brier, served the guests as they arrived.

Following the opening song, led by Mrs. C. Heber Brier, the guest speaker, Ralph Tucker, was introduced by Mrs. Helen Mohan, assistant home demonstration agent. Tucker spoke to the club members on "How To Do Your Banking."

Several of the topics were "How to Make a Deposit," "How to Make a Withdrawal," "Savings Accounts," "Check Endorsements," "Different Types of Checks," "Joint Accounts," "Borrowing Money," and "Service Charges." A question-and-answer period followed Tucker's talk during which much information was gained on banking in general.

The business session was begun with the devotional by Mrs. J. C. Meeks after which the members repeated the Club Collect. A report was given by Mrs. Margaret Tetterton, Family Life Leader, and Mrs. W. C. Hollowell gave the Clothing Leader report, which included spring fashion tips.

Mrs. Mohan explained the organization in North Carolina of a State 4-H Development Council consisting of 4-H Club members, former 4-H Club members, leaders and friends of 4-H Clubs in this state. The president asked the members for their cooperation in making this organization get started. A short business session followed.

Plans were made to hold the next meeting May 6 and for each member to bring a magazine to exchange.

For devotion each member present was asked by the president to express something of beauty they had observed during the day which in turn showed the presence of God.

Mrs. Barbara Grimsley and Mrs. Dora Pridden served chocolate cake and coffee following the meetings.

No Final Solution In Withholding

The withholding tax crutch favored by an increasing number of legislators for holding up the state's spending plans for the next biennium may well become two years from now a stick used to severely whack Tar Heel taxpayers.

Growing popularity for the withholding tax among legislators apparently stems more from the desire to increase state spending during the coming biennium without increasing taxes, than it does from the merits of the withholding system itself. After all, the tax will provide a $26 million windfall which Gov. Hodges proposes be spent for current expenses during the biennium.

Were it not for this substantial one-shot financial consideration, we seriously doubt the proposed withholding system for collecting state income taxes would be nearly as popular among legislators.

Many legislators and private citizens as well apparently are inclined to overlook the fact that this $26 million windfall will come only once. After it is spent in the next biennium, the legislature is going to have to dig and dig hard to find new sources of tax revenue to keep up the state's standard of living that will be provided by the $26 million bonus in one biennium.

Some legislators appear determined to follow the easier road to solving the state's immediate money problems, and let the people of the state and the next legislature suffer the consequences two years from now. That the withholding tax scheme is an artificial way to balance an otherwise unbalanced budget cannot be denied. Neither can it be denied that expenditure of an extra $26 million tax windfall in the coming biennium will make pressure for increased taxes much greater upon the next legislature. Not only will they have to find sufficient new revenue to meet the growing needs of the state, they will also have to find sufficient new revenue to make up for the $26 million windfall that will have been collected and spent.

It is high time the people of North Carolina take a realistic view of this proposed withholding tax plan with all its implications. The plan itself—aside from the multi-million windfall of revenues in one year—has as many drawbacks as it does merits. Officials estimate it may bring in an extra million in revenues over and above what the state is now getting under its income tax collection program. But properly administered, the plan may well cost the state that much for additional paper work and enforcement. On top of that the new program will probably cost employers of the state at least an equal amount to change bookkeeping systems, absorb the additional bookkeeping load required by the plan and act as income tax collection agents for the state.

From the standpoint of year-to-year revenues under the withholding tax plan—after the windfall year—the state probably would be just as well off without the program as with it.

From the standpoint of the tax windfall to balance the budget, the state would merely be postponing the time when realistic rather than artificial means are going to have to be employed by the legislature to bring state revenues in line with state spending.

The situation, in our opinion, boils down to a simple question of whether the legislature is going to pass the withholding tax proposal, stick its head in the sand and make believe the state's financial problems are solved; or whether the legislature is going to take a hard-headed, realistic view of the situation, and tackle the money problem head-on in the current session.

Two Plans For Court Reforms

By LYNN NISBET

COMPROMISE? — Suggestion was made this week that there might be a compromise or composite bill prepared embracing some of the features of both the Bell Committee plan and the Bryant Commission recommendations on court reform. This possibility was intimated when Victor Bryant, speaking in behalf of the constitutional commission proposals for courts, said that the need for action is urgent. "The house is on fire — don't let it burn down while deciding which method to use in putting out the blaze." He added that either the Bar Association plan, the Constitutional Commission plan or a combination of both should be submitted to the people.

There are fundamental differences in the Bell and Bryant versions, but they can be pretty well summarized in a few words: Both retain the present constitutional provisions for a court for the trial of impeachments. The Bell plan calls for just one other unified court, including all levels from the Supreme Court down to a local trial court which would replace the present justice of peace method, all under direct control of the Chief Justice. The Bryant plan calls for a system of uniform courts with many courts remaining in the General Assembly. The Chief Justice or the General Assembly would be authorized to delegate administrative supervision.

In all the previous committee meetings when court reform was discussed emphasis was on the Bell plan, and its advocates did not recognize any alternative. Bryant presented the case for his group by comparing the two reports and stating the reasons which the commission reached the conclusions it did.

FAVORED — Since the Bryant plan would leave primary authority in the General Assembly, it is easy to understand why most of the legislators favor that plan. It has been learned that Senator Bell is considering amendments to the bill which he sponsored, based on the studies of the Bar Association committee, which would soften some of its provisions and perhaps incorporate features of the other plan.

Opinion seems to be general throughout the legislative membership that any material court changes will have rough going, but such parts as are accepted will conform more nearly to the Constitutional Commission bill than to Bar Association recommendations.

One argument which appeared to have influence with several legislators, was that the Supreme Court should be kept aloof from politics, and the Bell plan would put it right in the middle of personal and political controversies, while the General Assembly of necessity is, and should be, "in politics." As frequently elected representatives of the people the members of the General Assembly are closer to the people in whom other sections of the constitution vest ultimate authority.

Bryant said the Legislature ought to delegate a lot of its powers, without surrendering responsibility, but the delegation should be by statute — subject to revision every two years — rather than by constitutional mandate, which could be changed or revoked only through the process of amendment, that is neither quick nor particularly simple.

ONE VOTE — The folks who contend that one vote won't make much difference have their philosophy further negated by the record in the current Legislature. Several important bills have been approved or killed by narrow margins. The minimum wage bill got a favorable report in the House committee by one vote, first time such a bill ever got to the floor of the House where it was passed and sent to the Senate. The legislative reapportionment bill, implementing constitutional requirements, also got out of committee by one vote, and was killed on the floor. That, too, was the first time such a bill ever got out of the committee room.

This week the bill by Rep. Walter Jones of Pitt providing for 14 highway commissioners instead of the present seven, was given a favorable report by the House roads committee on a 15-14 roll call count. Again a one vote margin. What would have happened if the other 23 members of the committee had been present and voting is anybody's guess.

ON RECORD — There are presently 38 counties in North Carolina with special local acts requiring that any paper writing offered for recordation in the court house must bear the name of the person who prepared it. Rep. Marvin Leatherman of Lincoln thinks all counties ought to have that law. He polled his judiciary committee the other day for an "advisory opinion" and got a green light to prepare and introduce such a bill. (And several of the members who voted for that idea at the same time object to having their votes on appropriations and other matters made a public record.)

Saturday Is Last Day For The Unregistered

For Greenville residents who haven't gotten around to getting their names on the city's voter registration books, tomorrow will be their last chance before the May 5 city elections.

And those whose names are not on the books when the registration period closes Saturday afternoon will not be eligible to cast a ballot in the coming city election.

The obligation to cast a ballot in an election is incumbent upon every citizen of a community. After all, the purpose in having a governmental system under which officials are elected by the people is to afford the citizens to make their free choice by the secret ballot. The responsibility of a citizen to participate in government by voting on election day carries with it the responsibility for the citizen to see that he is properly registered in order that he will be eligible to cast a ballot on the designated day.

The Reflector urges every citizen of Greenville who is not now a registered voter for the city election to register Saturday. Greenville residents who live north of Fifth Street should register at the county courthouse. Those living south of Fifth Street should register at the main fire station.

After the registration period closes Saturday afternoon, it will be too late for additional names to be added to the list of registered voters.

Khrushchev Is Getting Buildup

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Soviet propaganda has begun a sudden new massive buildup of Nikita Khrushchev. The plaudits are nearly — but quite — as extravagant as those showered upon Stalin in his later years.

It seems to indicate Khrushchev has taken a grip on the top rung of his ladder — the pinnacle of power. That pinnacle will not be achieved until he is universally recognized as the only true prophet of Communist theory. If he nails this down, he will become an even more formidable antagonist for the West in the dangerous political wars to come.

Still, there are intriguing, precedent-shattering twists to the buildup. Is Khrushchev, even now, wholly secure? He could have had to order the campaign — and even push it on the Communist party — for reasons connected both with internal politics and external policy.

The excuse for the adulation was Khrushchev's 65th birthday. The anniversary was last Friday, when no attention was paid to it in the Soviet press. Two days later a great shower of greeting bursts in the papers, signed by party notables. On the third day, as if in response to a prod, there was yet another burst of hosannas, this time from the satellite countries. It all looked like the result of an afterthought in the Kremlin.

Not even Stalin got special treatment on add-year birthdays. Communist practice has been to limit such outbursts to decade anniversaries, 30, 40 or 70. This week Moscow broadcasts provided intimate biographical notes on Khrushchev's family life.

This was extraordinary for Soviet propaganda, which up to now has consistently avoided mentioning the family lives of Communist leaders. Moscow's foreign language broadcasts to non-Communist countries seemed to be trying to humanize Khrushchev, to make him appear a wholesome, family type.

The buildup continued with the annual Lenin Day address in Moscow, always an important event for the Communist world. The speech invariably is given by a high priest of Red Theory, and this year he speaker was Leonid Brezhnev, a high-ranking party leader.

Brezhnev heaped more florid praise on Khrushchev as "loyal disciple of Lenin, gifted organizer, outstanding leader of the Communist party, the Soviet state and the entire international Communist and labor movement." He needed only to add "genius, leader and teacher" to make this a carbon copy of a Stalin-era address.

Brezhnev's speech provided some hints on the why of all this. Khrushchev may be getting himself built up for some new and significant honor which at last will tend to rank him as Stalin's equal. The buildup comes at a time when Red China's Mao Tse-tung is retiring more and more in the background, while Khrushchev is emerging more and more as the only true exponent of Communist theory.

At home, Khrushchev may be preparing a final payoff for his political foes, Brezhnev referred to the Soviet party as "ruthlessly fighting against all who are dragging it backward, who try to divert it from Lenin's path." Then Brezhnev heaped abuse on the so-called anti-party group headed by former Premier Malenkov, all of whom Khrushchev managed to toss out of the party leadership.

The buildup cannot be separated from world events. With a summit meeting in the offing, Khrushchev may need all the home support he can muster.

Opinions In Brief

"What we need is a reasonable approach to labor law reform. What we need to do is to make sure that no labor leader, good or bad, and no employer, good or bad, can violate the principles of honesty and fair play or the rights of individuals in the conduct of labor management relations." — Middlebury (Vermont) Addison County Independent.

"That some should be rich, shows that others may become rich, and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise." — Abraham Lincoln.

"Some people seem to think that sleeping all day Sunday makes up for staying awake most weekday night." — Laurel (Miss) Leader-Caller.

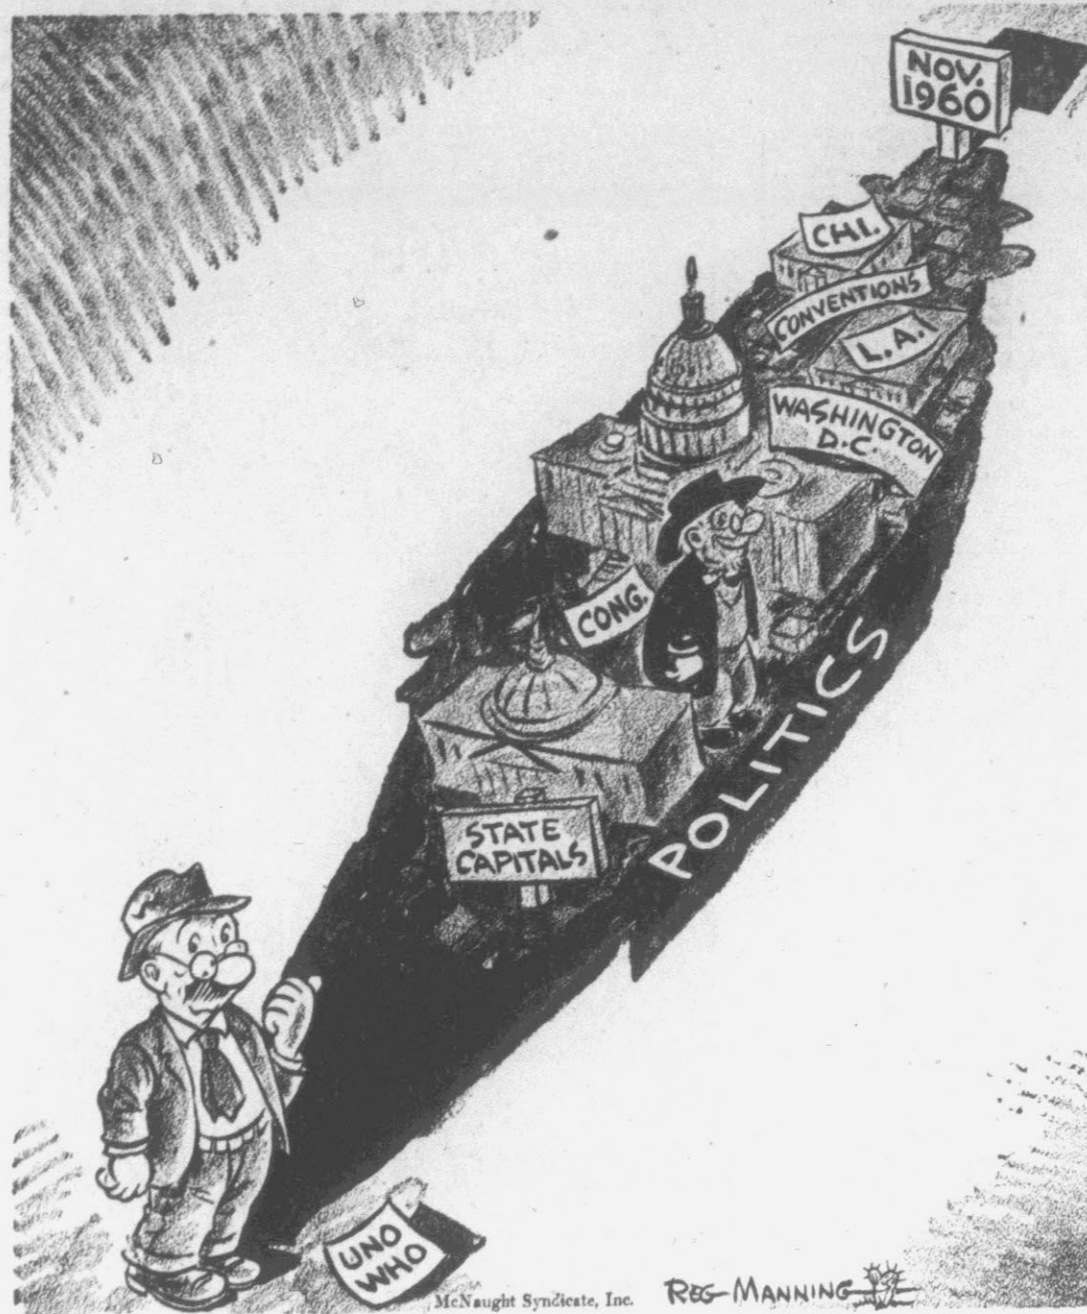

"Next to the telephone message relayed by the 6-year-old child, the biggest failure in communication lies in the field of international affairs." — Jacksonville (Fla.) Times-Union.

"The department placed this ad in a local newspaper."

Quality In Stock Show

The ninth annual Pitt County Fat Stock Show and Sale, concluded yesterday afternoon, was the best ever, according to long-time observers of the show.

Judges of both beef cattle and swine diplomas made no bones about how they stood on the quality of animals entered in the show.

One of two judges for the beef cattle division was commenting on the tough job he had in deciding winners. "There were eight calves (out of 44)," he said, "which would have won first place in any other show I've seen this Spring. So far as the top four calves are concerned, you couldn't turn around for the difference in them."

The Grand Champion steer was entered by Don Lee under colors of the Stokes-Pactolus 4-H Club. He also entered the Reserve Champion steer, but as a member of the Stokes-Pactolus Future Farmers of America.

The division of top awards in the beef cattle division was a pattern for awarding throughout the show and sale, with 4-H'ers taking first place and FFA members picking up second awards in all but one category. Johnny Ruel Hinson of the Fountain 4-H Club won first honors in fitting and showmanship of steers, with Kinsey Worthington of Winterville FFA taking second place.

In the swine division, Bennett Dilda of Fountain 4-H Club won the Grand Champion award for his pen of three Yorkshire hogs. Alvin Peaden of the Belvoir-Falkland FFA took the Reserve Championship ribbon in the division with a pen of three Hampshire hogs.

Ed Hemingway's Hampshire gilt was tagged as best individual hog of the show, with a Yorkshire gilt entered by Rural Dilda named Reserve Champion individual. Neither Hemingway nor Dilda was entered as 4-H or FFA, since they are adult farmers.

Actually, the splitting of awards carried a little more significance for 4-H'ers. They had only nine of the 44 steers in the show, but they won two of the four major awards for the division.

Regardless of the club connection of the entrants, the show is pointed to by almost everyone as a fine thing. It is growing, in size and quality, every year, and support is growing with it.

The show itself is a fine training ground for the boys who will be Pitt County's leading farmers in the years to come. They learn the basic fundamentals of livestock management, including feeding, financing and marketing, which will mean sounder farming operations for them in future years.

REALITY
The great Gandhi, whose compassion touched the heart and mind of the whole world, was in the habit of calling the outcasts of India by a name which meant "children of God."

In other words, he called these despised and degraded people by the gentlest and loveliest name he could think of. There may be much in Gandhi's philosophy to criticize and certainly he had, during his lifetime, as many enemies as friends. He died under the heavy bludgeoning of hatred. Historians for centuries will differ as to his influence on society, but certainly he was a man of great heart. This was

Quote ...

"It has been chronicled during these early spring days that in the neighborhood of thirty-two students have managed to squeeze into a phone booth, and that about the same number crowded into a bathtub. From the size of the standard phone booth, or bathtub, one can only conclude that these students must have rather small bodies. And heads to match." — Columbia (S.C.) State.

There is nothing this whole world of ours needs so much as love. We read in the Bible that God is love. In other words, the very essence and substance of the divine nature is love. Usually we think of love as an emotion. Considered in its broad, universal aspect, love is something vastly more than this. Love is something which is of the very nature of God Himself, the original Creator. If we knew what love is, we would know what life is. If we knew what love is, we would know what God is.

To seek love is to seek God. To find love is to find Reality in all its amazing aspects.

Psychology In Writing Of Ads

By ELMER ROESSNER

There's psychology in the writing of a classified advertisement, the Department of Psychology of the University of Texas has provided.

At the busiest period, the department lost its secretary. It needed immediately a person who could work with twenty assorted eggheads, to assume responsibility for a wide variety of routines, to supervise other secretaries and to organize the chairman—all with a flair and an air of ease.

The department placed this ad in a local newspaper:

WANTED: Senior secretary who can make good coffee, laugh, and run the lives of 20 crazy college professors. Low pay, high responsibility and a good deal of fun for anyone who can stand it.

"There was more than a modicum of calculated intuition, if there is any such thing, in the ad," wrote Fillmore H. Sanford, reporting the incident in the "American Psychologist," the journal of the American Psychological Association.

REASONS FOR CHOICE OF WORDS

Here is Prof. Sanford's explanation of why the ad was worded as it was:

"Senior was intended to eliminate the young and inexperienced."

"Make good coffee was intended to discourage those hard and masculine women who think degrading to nurture men a bit."

"Laugh, and run the lives of 20 crazy college professors were ingredients meant to discourage the rigid and the frightened."

"Low pay represents a touch of reality. At all levels, universities still seek people who work for nonnegotiable rewards; we have no place for anyone whose motivations are mainly economic."

"High responsibility was some more reality, and attempt to ward off the young and scatter-headed."

"Fun for those who can stand it was a reiteration of nonnegotiable rewards and was intended as a discouragement to those without tolerance for confusion and ambiguity."

THE RESPONSE

The professors hoped they could find one competent female.

The ad was run on a Sunday and Monday and then frantically withdrawn. On Sunday, there were 24 telephone responses; on Monday there were 37 more; there were 11 more after the ad had been withdrawn.

Only six of the applicants had little education and scant experience; eight were fairly desperate for jobs. Most of the rest had good jobs, half of them that paid more than the university could. Of these, only one or two seemed to back off when they heard the pay. Four were being lured out of retirement.

One woman asked if the job could be held open for a few days until she got back from a trip to Fort Worth to sell 300 head of cattle.

Which was hired? Prof. Sanford did not name her. But he said she was the only one who really made the interviewer laugh.

And she can type 99 words a minute.

MARCH SALES SOAR
OVER YEAR-AGO FIGURES

March retail sales were 10 per cent fatter than a year earlier, according to a preliminary Commerce Department estimate. The total was almost $17 billion—more than they were in Christmas December in lush 1953.

Every major classification made gains except the food group, including grocery stores, which showed a drop of less than 1 per cent. Maybe food prices are dropping after all. Eating and drinking places not included in the food group, showed a slight increase.

The Rise of David

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—I Samuel 16:1-18:16.

The Lord told Samuel that He would choose a man to rule over Israel. Samuel sanctified a man named Jesse and seven of his sons who passed before him, but the Lord chose none of them.—I Samuel 16:4-10.

Samuel asked Jesse if these were all his sons and Jesse said he had one more who was tending sheep. Samuel sent for the boy, David, and the Lord told Samuel to anoint him.—I Samuel 16:11-12.

Saul was troubled by an evil spirit and sent for David. The lad took a harp, and played with his hand; so Saul was refreshed, and was well, and the evil spirit departed from him.—I Samuel 16:14-23.

Saul's son, Jonathan, loved David. He gave David his robe and sword and the two made a covenant of friendship, as Jonathan loved David "as his own soul."—I Samuel 18:3-4. MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 27:14.

The Rise of David

THE LORD CHOSE HIM TO BE ISRAEL'S FUTURE KING

Scripture—I Samuel 16:1-18:16.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. OUR LAST lesson told of King Saul's tragic death after his failure because he turned from God's laws. Today's lesson—about the shepherd boy, David, and his rise to power—takes place while Saul was still king. The prophet Samuel was mourning for Saul's ways but the Lord told him to go to Bethlehem; that He had rejected Saul. Samuel was afraid to go because, he said, Saul would kill him. But the Lord told him: "Take an heifer with thee, and say, I am come to sacrifice to the Lord. And call Jesse to the sacrifice, and I will show thee what thou shalt do; and thou shalt anoint unto Me him whom I name unto thee."—I Samuel 16:1-3.

Samuel asked Jesse if these seven men were all of his sons. He answered that there was one more, the youngest, who was tending the sheep. This was an important job in those days in Israel, requiring a trustworthy and courageous man. Samuel asked Jesse to call him. When he came, Samuel saw that he was "ruddy, and withal of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look to. And the Lord said, Arise, anoint him; for this is he." So Samuel anointed David, "and the Spirit of the Lord came upon David from that day forward."—I Samuel 16:11-13.

King Saul had moods of depression, described as "an evil spirit." In one such mood, his servants suggested that he send for David, who played the harp, and let his music cheer him. Saul did so, and as David played, the thou peaceably?" Samuel answered that as the Lord told him "and he sanctified Jesse and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice."—I Samuel 16:4-5.

Now Jesse had eight sons. Seven of them passed before Samuel, but none were chosen, for "the Lord said unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature; because I have refused him: for the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart."—I Samuel 16:7. We are all impressed with a handsome person of pleasing personality, but we can only decide his character by his words and deeds. Some of the finest characters in history were not handsome, but their words and deeds brought good to mankind.

Cincinnati Finds Pitcher With Gap-Filling Promise

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

For the past few seasons, Cincinnati's main weakness has been pitching. The same problem haunted the Reds again this spring, although new manager Mayo Smith admitted "it might be we have the pitching, but just can't find it."

Smith found one of his long-lost pitchers last night as Brooks Lawrence, once the big man of the staff, beat Pittsburgh 5-2 with a five-hitter. It was Lawrence's first complete game since the middle of last July, and his first victory as a starter in 10 tries since he blanked Milwaukee 1-0 last July 2.

It was the fourth complete game by the Reds' staff since the victory over the Don Newcombe other and the third full-game victory. This one lifted the Reds into an even split for 10 games. They're tied for fifth, two games behind National League leading Milwaukee.

The Braves, who more or less live on homers, were beaten 4-3 by three Philadelphia home runs as the Phils cut Milwaukee's lead over the Los Angeles to a half game. The Chicago Cubs whipped St. Louis 6-1.

In the American League, Cleveland walloped Detroit again, 10-4. Washington defeated the New York Yankees 3-2, and Baltimore beat Boston 8-7. The Chicago White Sox were idle, but gained a share of second place with New York, three games behind the Indians.

Lawrence, 34, a big-right-hander who won 19 in 1956, 16 in '57 and then fell off to an 8-13 record last season, walked but three and allowed only three hits until the ninth. The Bucs scored on a walk and Dick Groat's two-out single in the second inning, then counted in the ninth on two hits and a sacrifice fly.

The Reds, who were 0-2 against George Witt when he won seven straight as a rookie last year, beat the young right-hander for the second time this season. A walk

Gus Bell's double and a single by ex-Buc Frank Thomas junked Witt's shutout in a two-run sixth inning. The Reds then added three in the seventh, with Johnny Temple's double driving in the winner.

All of the runs came on homers at Philadelphia, with the Phils coming from behind on three runs in the ninth. Gene Freese's second pinch-hit home run—the other was a grand-slam last weekend—followed one of six walks given up by loser Juan Pizarro. Then Gran Hamner put it away with his first home run of the year. Bob Bowman hit the other Phillie homer in the sixth off Pizarro (0-1), who gave up six hits and struck out 11, but walked six.

Eddie Mathews hit his fourth home run for Milwaukee, with a man on in the third inning, and Hank Aaron belted his third in the ninth as Ray Semproch gained his second victory with an eight-hitter.

Walt Moryn and Dale Long homered for the Cubs in a three-run sixth inning against loser Lindy McDaniel (1-2). Moe Drabowsky (1-1) was the winner, banking the Cards on three hits until Bill White hit his first home run lead-off of the ninth. Drabowsky finished with a five-hitter and needed Don Elston's relief.

Costly Pension Plan Is Won By Pro-Gridders

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The pro football players' association won a pension plan from the National Football League, but the price came high to veteran players.

Actually, as NFL Commissioner Bert Bell put it, the pension, hospitalization, medical and life insurance plan granted Thursday by league owners "won't cost owners or players a nickel." Bell, of course, was talking about cold cash.

The association, in its desire to stick its foot in the fringe benefit door, had to sacrifice most of the present crop of players. Bill Hewton, president of the association, intimated this when he commented: "Heck, I doubt that I can play five more years to qualify for a pension. I probably won't become eligible."

A check of NFL rosters discloses that some 200 of the league's 400 plus active players probably won't qualify for the retirement benefits. The plan calls for playing tenure of four years plus one game in a fifth year with everybody starting from scratch in 1959. Thus, no player will be eligible for retirement benefits until 1963.

The average career of a pro football player has been calculated at 3.7 years.

The new benefit plan as explained by Bell gives the players hospitalization, medical care, life insurance from $5,000 to $20,000 depending on length of service, and the right of any player who is sick and in financial distress to borrow $1,000. At age 65, a player eligible for retirement benefits will get a percentage per year of service of what is in the accrued fund. The first pension to a pro football player won't be paid for at least 30 years.

Bell worked out the pension plan with the help of a Baltimore pension consultant.

Bell listed these sources of revenue: Increase championship game receipts, video tape, pro film highlights, a probable post-season game between the runners-up in each division, and proceeds from a new program to be sold throughout the country to television viewers.

Confidence Aids Senator Rookie

WASHINGTON (AP)—Confidence is the reason rookie outfielder Bob Allison seems to be stamping himself a major leaguer with the Washington Senators.

The Senators have owned the 24-year-old strong boy since 1955 and have known all along he was a competent fielder with a strong throwing arm. Now he has identified himself as a batsman of considerable promise.

What elevated this 6-3 former Kansas fullback from a 246 hitter in the Southern Assn. two seasons ago to a job in the majors? "Confidence," Allison explained today. "Learning to relax at the plate, swing naturally and wait out the pitcher."

Allison, acquired these at ease habits in his second year with Chattanooga last year. He batted .307 and drove across 93 runs.

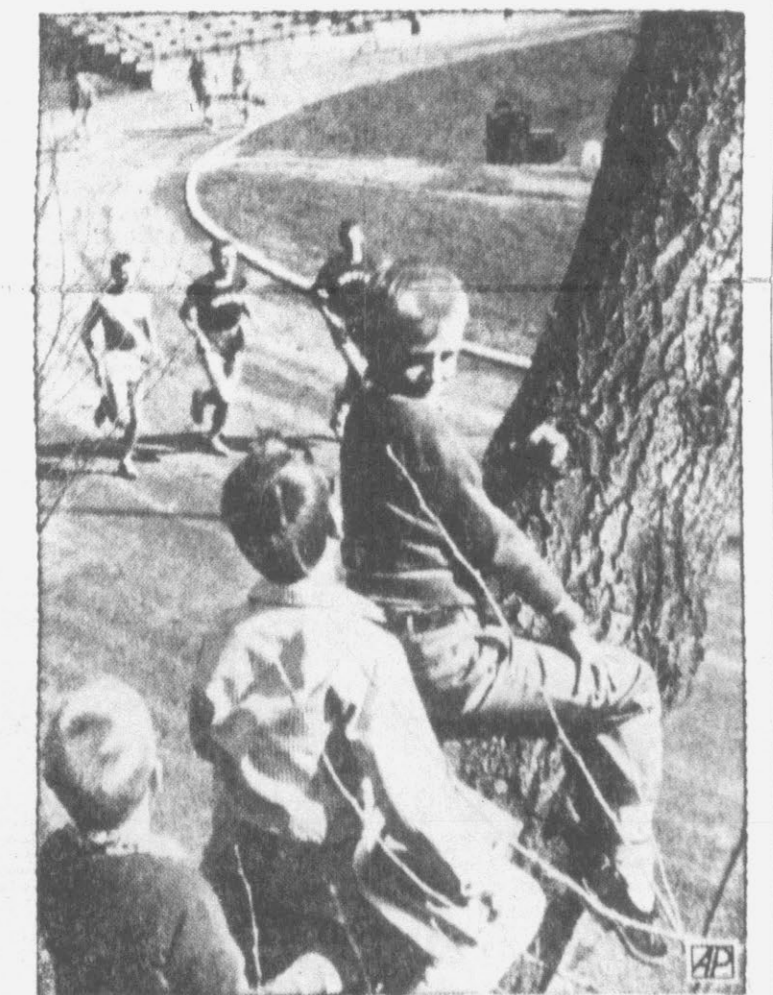

Jim Lemon and Roy Sievers, veteran Washington outfielders, have alternately been laid up by injuries, but it wasn't their absence that brought Allison into the lineup. This was all his own doing.

He already has learned to try to meet the ball and let the homers—two so far—come when they may.

"Against Don Larsen of the Yankees the other night, I just tried to flip the bat out quickly and away she went," he said.

Beavers Provide A 'Good Turn'

WANAQUE, N.J. (AP)—Beavers, whose dam building sometimes is a nuisance, have done a good turn for the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission.

A band of them walled off a three-acre marsh, thus reducing the chances silt might wash into Wanauque reservoir during periods of high run-off. The commission voted not to chase them away.

"They are doing a good engineering job," said Forester Albert Huber.

Sport Slants by Pap'

Manager Casey Stengel made certain that Bill (Moose) Skowron was within hearing distance when he went into his little routine of praising the fine job Mary Thronberry was doing around first base.

"That fellow (Thronberry) has been doing a great job around first base," said Stengel, in a loud, clear voice. "He's finally become a big leaguer. I can afford to give Bill Skowron plenty of time to rest his ailing back."

Those remarks, plus the sight of Thronberry cavorting around Skowron's old post at first base, was enough to start Skowron thinking. His thinking was that had back or no bad back, he was not going to sit by and let a rookie steal his job. Moose recalled the case of Wally Pipp. A headache forced Pipp out of the Yankee lineup one day and a young fellow named Lou Gehrig took over. Lou held the first base job for the next 2,129 games.

"I'm not afraid of competition," said Moose. "I've always had competition and thrived on it. Look at the way I had to battle Joe Judge for the first base job. I just don't want the lightning to strike me while I'm sitting on the bench."

Red Hot Terps Make Their Bid

Red hot Maryland makes its bid for unduped leadership in the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball race today in a double-header with North Carolina State.

The Terps, who beat Navy 8-1 Wednesday for their sixth straight victory, are tied for the ACC lead with Wake Forest, both with 3-1 records.

A sweep of the College Park twin bill would push Maryland in front of the race, tight from last place Duke (1-2) to the top.

A full slate of conference games was scheduled. Wake Forest was host to South Carolina, fifth at 4-5; Duke was at Virginia, sixth with a 2-3 record; and Clemson, third at 4-4, was at sixth place North Carolina, 2-3.

There were no games scheduled yesterday.

Losing One In Three To U.S.

TORONTO (AP)—For every three immigrants who arrived in Canada last year, at least one Canadian moved to the United States.

Immigration minister Ellen Fairclough said in a speech Thursday night 124,581 immigrants were received in Canada in 1958 and 45,000 Canadians took up residence in the United States. There were 10,846 migrants from the United States to Canada.

19-Year-Old Nicklaus In Pinehurst Semi-Final Play

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, a 19-year-old, and three men in their 40s comprised the semifinal field today in the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament.

Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, who also is a Walker Cup player, edged Bob Cochran of St. Louis 45-year-old paper company salesman.

Two insurance men, Gene Andrews, 45, of Pacific Palisades, Calif., and Jack Penrose, 44, of Miami, Fla., met in the other 18-hole match.

Survivors play over 36 holes Saturday for the title.

Nicklaus had the closest call in Thursday's quarter-finals. He lost the last four holes, but outlasted Dog Essig of Indianapolis and LSU, the 1957 public links champion, 1 up.

Despite their age the three oldersters are by no means doddering stumpy guys.

Tireless Andrews approximately four under par against Guenther, was looking for someone to play 18 holes with him in the afternoon. He's playing here for the first time because the tournament dates tied in with an insurance convention at Nassau which he recently attended.

An amateur magician, he has shown a magic touch around the greens. Ater Guenther won 11 and 12 to square the match, Andrews, 1954 Publinox champion, birdied the next two holes from 25 and 12 feet to regain the lead for good.

Penrose came here right after winning the annual Dogwood Invitation, a 72-hole medal play tournament for amateurs at Atlanta, Ga. He won the first two holes from Campbell, who then fought back three times through the 12th hole to square the match.

Penrose won 13 and 15 with pars and 16 with a 60-foot putt for a birdie four to wrap it up.

Nicklaus, with a bit of trouble controlling some errant tee shots, led Essig by three holes after winning the 14th. Essig rolled in a 25-footer or a birdie two to take 15, was held to a hal when Nicklaus parred the long 16th from 12 feet after putting his second in a trap.

A par on 17 put Essig only one down, but Nicklaus matched his par four on 18 to win.

Cochran parred the 15th and 16th holes to go 2 up after Galet-ta's 10-foot birdie three putt on 14 had squared it. Each parred the short 17th to give the rangy former St. Louis University basketball player the match.

Day Off For Brian London; Just Roadwork

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Hard-training heavyweight challenger Brian London practically took the day of today, giving his sparring partners a break and limiting himself to eight miles of road work.

Champion Floyd Patterson, who will put his title on the line in a 15-round bout with the Englishman at the State Fairground Coliseum one week from tonight, kept up his regular training routine. He took a day off earlier in the week.

The two fighters signed fight contracts at the Statehouse Thursday.

The Indiana Athletic Commission ruled that the fight will be scored on the "five-point must" system. The winner of a round will get five points and the loser any lesser number, with an even round being scored 5-5.

Souchak Firmly In Front Of Las Vegas Entries

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A select array of 26 golf professionals swing away in the second round of the $46,820 Tournament of Champions today, with Mike Souchak firmly in front.

The big fellow from Grossinger, N. Y., clipped six strokes off par 26-36-72 as he toured the Desert Inn Country Club course in 34-32-66.

Two strokes back was unheralded John McMullin of Alameda, Calif., with a pair of 34s for 68.

Two other dark-horses are Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex., and veteran Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., were tied at 69, while such pretournament hotshots as Gene Litter and Art Wall Jr., were down the line—though hardly out of contention.

Litter, landed in a five-way tie at 71, while Wall was even par 72.

Deadlocked at 70 were Arnold Palmer, whose round was improved by a hole-in-one on the 163-yard 16th hole, and Julius Boros.

Hysterical Woman Grabbed Queen

ROME (AP)—An Italian woman grabbed British Queen Mother Elizabeth today, shouting "bread and work!" bread and work!"

Four policemen pulled the hysterical woman away and hauled her off for investigation.

The queen mother, who was on a sightseeing tour of Rome, did not appear ruffled.

She waved to the stunned crowd of about 400, stepped into her car and rode off.

Princess Margaret was sightseeing elsewhere today. She and the queen mother arrived Monday for a holiday visit. They return home Saturday.

Turned On Siren, Passed The Hat

BERLIN, Wis. (AP)—The local volunteer fire department, wise in the ways of fire buffs, conducted its annual fund drive with a minimum of effort this year. Instead of beating a path from door to door in the community, the fire ladders just turned on the siren and let it wail.

When a substantial proportion of the 5,000 population converged on the station to find out where the fire was, firemen passed the hat. Collected: $600.

British TV Bans Wedding Dress On 'Rock' Show

LONDON (AP)—British television producers today told American teen-age evangelist Renee Martz she can't appear on the "Oh Boy" rock 'n' roll show in her wedding dress.

Explained an official of the commercial TV network: "We do not think it is the right sort of dress for a big rock 'n' roll show. And we do not regard it as very tasteful even for a minister."

Renee's husband Bill Huie, 26, disagreed.

"She looks real sweet in her wedding dress," he said.

Renee, 18, married Huie, a former Hollywood, Calif., radio announcer, in Reading, Pa., in February.

The hot gossip, came with her husband last month to stage revivals in what she describes as the "most pagan country in the world."

Businessmen Find The Italian Lira Perking Up

Editors' Note: San Dawson, AP business news analyst, is touring Europe. Today he tells how the American dollar is faring in Italy.

By SAM DAWSON
ROME (AP) — The American visitor or doing business in Italy today finds to his surprise that the Italian lira brings a premium over the American dollar. He ends up with less than the official rate. The surprise is akin to that of recent years when the American dollar would buy only 96 to 98 cents of Canadian money. Is the American dollar—once the most sought after of the world's currencies—slipping? or is it just that the Italian lira, after a post-war period of weakness, is perking up?

The Italian, treasury official or private banker, proudly points to the increasing strength of the lira. Italy's reserves in gold and dollars climbed by 836 million dollars last year to a high of 2 1/2 billion dollars. So far this year there have been further gains. January in particular, bankers say, brought an unusual flood of American dollars. British pounds and Swiss francs into Italy in the form of investments.

This foreign currency increases the demand for lira. And its value rises. The official rate is 625 lire to the dollar. Banks now quote around 620 for the dollar. After exchange charges, the American tourists get even less.

Much the same thing has happened in Canada. Both the Italian and Canadian imports from the United States still outrun their exports to it. Normally this would keep the American dollar at its one-time premium.

But each country is getting American dollars in other forms—in investments in stocks and plants and from tourists. In each case this outweighs the trade deficit. In each case the need to change dollars for the local currency to put it to work has led the lira and the Canadian dollar to a premium over the American dollar under the law of supply and demand.

Does the Italian think the American dollar isn't as good a thing to acquire and to save as he once did? Does he fear that the U.S. Treasury deficit forebodes a new erosion of the dollar's purchasing power, perhaps at a greater rate than the continuing rise of the cost of living here erodes the lira? Opinions differ.

An executive of a leading Italian bank doubts it. He says there is little sign that the Italian with dollars squirreled away is switching to Swiss francs or English pounds as the safer currency. The top executive of an American-owned firm here, an Italian, believes such a feeling is developing. He thinks investors are beginning to put their holdings into other than American dollars.

New President Of DAR Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was a long wait for the Daughters of the American Revolution to learn today that Mrs. Ashmead White of Lubec, Maine, was their new president general.

The announcement was made about 2:30 a.m. in Constitution Hall after hours of tallying the results.

Mrs. White and her slate of 11 other candidates won the close contest for the DAR national officers. Their term is three years. "I'm thrilled," said Mrs. White, a slim, gray-haired widow who is an investment broker. She's been a member of the DAR since 1937.

She won by 170 votes over Mrs. Ralph Williams Newland of St. Joseph, Mich., who had been surrogate general.

The official tally was: Mrs. White, 1,246; Mrs. Newland, 1,076. About 2,300 ballots were cast by the delegates to the 68th Continental Congress in Thursday's voting.

About 1,800 delegates waited patiently to hear the results. Tellers worked more than 11 hours to count the ballots.

Mrs. Harold E. Erb, Garden City, N.Y., who was elected first vice president general, polled the most number of votes—1,306. Outgoing President General Mrs. Frederic A. Groves of Cape Girardeau, Mo., extended her good wishes to the new officers and shook hands with each one as they lined up on the stage for a bow.

Tightening Up Prison Security Measures

NEW YORK (AP)—Security is a full-time problem in state penitentiaries across the nation. So recent prison outbreaks in Montana and Massachusetts haven't caused too much of a furor elsewhere.

Most wardens are loath to admit laxities exist. They insist they take full safety precautions. A few admit tightening up their routines because of the outbreaks.

At Deer Lodge, Mont., where a rebellion last week resulted in three deaths, a cell-by-cell shake-down is being carried out. The search is being made by National Guardsmen still on duty at the penitentiary. Said Warden Floyd E. Powell: "We haven't found too much contraband."

A new maximum security section is now being built at Walpole State Prison in Massachusetts, where rioting occurred March 7. Wednesday's Massachusetts riot took place at Concord State Reformatory and was quelled in about four hours.

"We're naturally more alert for possible riots at a time like this," said the Alabama deputy prison commissioner, Frank Lee. But he added that all that has been done there is to alert guard chiefs individually at Kilby Prison in Montgomery.

Special guard alerts also were reported at the Ohio State Penitentiary. But Warden Ralph W. Alvis said the effort to tighten security within the walls is a continuing battle.

Utah State Prison has been undergoing a general security tightening since a riot there two years ago. The recent murder of an inmate increased the vigilance. A crackdown is under way against narcotics flowing into the prison, prostitutes sneaking into the honor camp, and trustees visiting nearby taverns.

Missouri Corrections Director James D. Carter and Warden E. V. Nash have kept closer touch with inmate informers since the recent prison outbreaks. Special security precautions were set up there after a 1954 riot.

Increased vigilance has been ordered in Florida prisons but the acting prisons director, Robert Gramling, said no specific new security steps have been undertaken.

A riot at the Arizona State Prison last Dec. 4 led to increased precautions such as more frequent searches of cells and inmates. But Warden Frank Eymann added: "My security has always been tight."

Advertise Boy For Adoption

TORONTO (AP) — "Child for adoption," said the advertisement in the classified section of the Toronto Globe and Mail.

"Roger," it continued, is an attractive, healthy 7-year-old boy with fine features, blue eyes, blond curly hair, small in stature. He is of French-Canadian parentage, is Roman Catholic, and speaks only English. School work somewhat below average.

"Roger was born with a slight palsy in his left arm which is gradually responding to treatment. He is not hindered in normal activities.

"This young lad needs adopting parents who are warm-hearted, affectionate and who will accept him as their own."

Interested couples were told to write the Ontario Minister of Public Welfare.

During the next two months, dozens of similar ads will appear in Ontario newspapers as part of a project to find foster parents for 11,000 homeless children in Ontario. Most of them are between 4 and 16, and many have physical disabilities. There are long waiting lists for younger children.

The deputy welfare minister, James Band, has said his department is not trying to sell children, it is "trying to merchandise a child's happiness."

Cancer Report To Be Discussed

"Implications of the Governor's Cancer Commission Report" will be discussed Sunday, April 26, on Station WNCN-TV, Channel 9, by Dr. Rachel Davis of Kinston, vice chairman of the Commission and Lenoir County Representative in the General Assembly, and a group of four legislators from Pitt and Greene counties.

Through the courtesy of East Carolina College, the program will be presented from 7:00 to 1:15 p.m., the time at which the weekly broadcast "Let's Go To College" is usually broadcast.

Princess Plans Break Precedent

TOKYO (AP) — Commoner Princess Michiko, who broke a 2,600-year-old imperial tradition in marrying Crown Prince Akihito, will set another precedent late this month.

She's going home to mother briefly. It will be the first time that the consort of a Japanese crown prince or emperor has visited her old home after marriage. Imperial household officials said they are arranging for the former Michiko Shoda to visit her family April 27 or 28 for a respite from the heavy round of official ceremonies following the wedding.

Cross-Filing In California Gets Legislative Axe

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Californians can kiss cross-filing goodbye.

The Senate Thursday joined with the Assembly in voting to abolish the unique system which allows candidates to run on both party tickets in state primary elections.

Senate approval, 22-15, sent the legislation to Gov. Edmund G. Brown for his certain signature. The Democratic chief executive advocated repeal of cross-filing in his inaugural message.

The Assembly passed the bill by a wide margin. A reform Legislature installed cross-filing 46 years ago. It long had helped incumbents win reelection in the primary. Until recently, most offices were held by Republicans.

Repeal of the law has been a fixture in the state Democratic platform. This is the first Democratic Legislature since 1898. Democrats snatched up all but one state office last fall.

The overturn of cross-filing will mean the end of widespread double nominations in state primaries. Republicans will be able to vote only for Republican candidates and Democrats for Democrats.

Final debate touched off wariness, and denials, that removal of cross-filing would lead to party bossism. It also deepened an unusual political situation.

The Senate majority leader, Hugh M. Burns (D-Fresno), led opposition to the bill which the Assembly majority leader, William A. Munnell (D-Montebello), introduced for the governor.

Burns declared repeal of cross-filing would restore party bosses. He argued it would deny voters freedom of choice in selecting party candidates.

Under the present system, he told the Senate, "California has been singularly free of party machinations that go on in other states."

Sen. James A. Cobe (D-Merced), guiding the bill through the Senate, said it would get rid of a "completely illogical and hypocritical process."

Primaries, he said, are party affairs, and it doesn't make sense to let members of the opposite party run on your ticket.

Munnell hailed final passage of his bill as a long stride toward more responsible government in California.

Set $5 Million College Budget

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) — Wake Forest College, which celebrated its 125th anniversary Thursday with a call for greater service, has adopted a $5,300,000 budget for the next fiscal year.

The budget is some $300,000 larger than the current one and reflects expected higher operating costs on the three-year-old 20 million dollar campus.

The board of trustees, which adopted the budget, held a brief meeting in connection with the anniversary program. In other action the trustees appointed 13 new faculty members and promoted 14 others. All are on the staff of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

John C. Whitaker, chairman of the board of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., presided at the anniversary ceremonies at a luncheon. A highlight of the luncheon program was the unveiling of a bust of Richard J. Reynolds, president of the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation, which helped make possible the removal of the college here; and a portrait of Dr. Harold Tribble, president of the college.

The luncheon speaker was Dr. Frank Hugh Sparks, former Wake Forest College president and now director of the Council for Financial Aid to Education. His remarks were in support of the college's current drive for $1,225,000 for expansion purposes.

Drop Proposed Bootleggers' Tax

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Texas House of Representatives, wrestling with the biggest tax problem in state history, talked Thursday about a tax on bootleggers.

The proposal by a south Texas legislator died when too many members protested it would hurt their constituents. Two-thirds of Texas' 254 counties are officially dry.

Surprise! Kirk Was In A Cake

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—It was a happy birthday party for Mrs. Kirk Douglas, even before the giant cake was wheeled in.

Five feet high and four feet across. Embellished in big letters across it were the words, "Happy Birthday, Anne."

The band played, the 16 guests chattered and all was delightful, except for one thing. Kirk wasn't there.

But wait. My goodness, there he was. Climbed right out of the top of the cake, he did.

Douglas was supposed to be in Hollywood filming "Spartacus." The plaster of paris cake, used as a stage prop, looked real enough to give his wife quite a start when the actor suddenly emerged from it.

College Varsity Band To Present Public Concert

East Carolina College's Varsity Band, directed by Thomas W. Miller of the department of music, will present its first public concert Sunday, April 26, at 4 p.m. on the lawn next to Music Hall on the campus. The public is invited to be present.

A 55-piece ensemble, the Varsity Band was organized at the college during the winter quarter of the 1959-1959 term. The group, made up of talented students who play for pleasure, has the purpose of providing recreation and instruction for members and of presenting programs appealing to the public.

Sunday's program will be an "old-fashioned concert in the park" and will include selections chosen for their musical worth and their popularity.

"Amplaria Roca," a Spanish march presented as opening number on the program, will be followed by such spirited marches as "Americans We," "On the Mall," and "Burst of Flame."

Leroy Anderson's "The Bugler's Holiday," will be performed as a special attraction of the afternoon by a trumpet trio made up of Myron M. Teel of Bethel, John Carr of Goldsboro, and Roger Averette of Greenville.

Other selections scheduled for performance include Gossec's "Military Symphony in F," Handel's "An Occasional Suite," Offenbach's "Holiday in Paris," and Bennett's "Broadcast from Brazil."

Prayed Heart Would Hold Up

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A 68-year-old baby sitter suffering from a heart ailment braved flames to rescue three children from their burning bedroom Thursday.

"I prayed to God, please, no heart attack, please let me save these children," said Florence Paradis, a grandmother.

She roped through smoke and flames to rescue Timmy Braswell, 7; his sister, Marsha Anne, 15 and a brother, Johnny, 10.

Firemen said the fire probably was caused by a defective cord on an electric clock. Damage was estimated at $2,900.

Thief Captured By Numbered Bills

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Who'd ever think of writing down the serial numbers of all their dollar bills?

Pearl Richards did. Now she's seven bucks richer — that is, she's seven bucks poorer.

Her wallet was stolen last week from a cafe she operates. A transient cook was arrested Thursday for a burglary. In his pocket, police found seven dollar bills.

They turned out to be Mrs. Richards' bills.

She knew the numbers because she was saving the bills in hopes of winning a television station's "lucky buck" contest.

Jet Drones Will Offer Missile Defense Test

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — The time is late summer, 1952. In a surprise "attack," a big jet-engine bomber speeds high in upon a sleeping American city — perhaps your own.

For they will be equipped to aim some ground radar and electronic firing systems, or spread metallic chaff to confuse radar sightings and trackings.

Defending rocket-missiles roar up to knock it down—if their aim is quick enough, and good enough. It's a drone, automatically controlled, the biggest plane yet designed this way to give realistic combat-type training for America's air defense system.

But actual knockdowns could be in the cards. And the drones will be rigged for blowup on command if they get dangerously out of control over cities.

For Some People, Daylight Savings Switch Is Nothing

Occasionally a town will vote itself into another time zone. Fort St. Joe and Apalachicola, Fla., did it recently, going from Central to Eastern Time and causing the time line to split Gulf County.

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Writer
For most of us the annual ritual of converting the clock to Daylight Saving Time occasions a brief interlude of confusion while man readjusts his life to his timing machine.

But, for people living in places like Blountstown, Fla., or Lakin, Kan., or Huntington, Ore., such confusion is normal the year round and has been for so long that it's pretty generally ignored.

Life on the edge of time can have its inconveniences — like trains that leave before they arrive—but it has its advantages, too, especially to people like Bart Knight.

Thanks to the Eastern-Central time line, Knight, who is prosecuting attorney for both Calhoun and Liberty counties in Florida, can do the impossible. He can be in two places at the same time.

Whatever They Do, School Buses Are A Vexing Issue

By FAGALY and SHORTEN

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — There seems to be only one way to solve the modern-day problems arising from school bus transportation.

Go back to the one-room school houses and let the kids walk.

This may sound facetious but legislators are finding out that in virtually every measure designed to improve school transportation they're "damned if they do and damned if they don't".

It's a "secret" that Charles Brown, head of the State Education Department's school transportation division, has known for 20 years.

He stands squarely in the middle of a running controversy on the safest and most convenient way to transport 520,000 students to school daily — without hampering the motoring public.

He has come to the conclusion: "It's manifestly impossible."

A couple of tries are being made this legislative session, however.

One of the bills, introduced by Rep. Max Childers of Gaston, will take the buses within a half-mile of the children's homes (it's now a mile) and pick up children living one mile or farther from school (rather than a mile and a half).

This bill has passed the House and is in a Senate committee which is probably destined to hear some of the same complaints that the House education committee wrestled with.

The major one: A time element involved in that the buses, by going closer to the homes and picking up more children daily, would naturally require a longer time to travel the route. The children at the end of the line will have to leave home earlier and some parents object.

This bill which will cost the state an additional $90,000 a year, is more a measure of concenience. It is designed to cut down on walking distance along busy roads and thoroughfares.

A second bill, introduced by Rep. Thomas H. Woodard of Wilson, would permit cars traveling on a dual lane highway in the opposite direction of a stopped school bus to keep on going.

This one presented so many problems that it was placed in a subcommittee for additional study.

Among the problems in an amendment which says the bus must stop on the side of the highway that the child lives on. This means the bus would have to go up first one side of the dual lane and then down the other. Again, the same objection to the time element arises.

Many also feel that the amendment is too binding in that in some locations, where a traffic light halts traffic in both directions, the children could safely cross the highway with the aid of mini-trucks.

The question was also raised about liberalizing the present law which requires all traffic to halt when a school bus stops.

"There is safety in consistency," one legislator argued. "People are creatures of habit — they also tend to read only headlines. They see in the paper where they don't have to stop in some cases on dual lanes and they think they don't have to stop at all."

To date these are the only two bills dealing with school bus safety before the General Assembly. But this doesn't nearly touch all the problems.

Rep. Watts Hill Jr. of Durham posed some of them when he suggested that the distance between stops should be regulated and signs erected to warn motorists: "School Bus Stop Ahead."

He thought this would be safer, in that it would help eliminate some of the usual pile-up of traffic behind buses.

The objections again rise mainly from parents who admittedly want "taxi service" for their children. They argue that if stops are spaced farther apart the children will have to walk along congested highways and that this creates an even greater risk than frequent stopping.

Others point out that the system which Hill suggests might work if all states adopted it. Since much highway traffic is composed of out-of-staters, nation-wide efforts are constantly underway to adopt uniform school bus laws.

The over-all problem is magnified by the fact that more and more congested "fringe areas" are springing up throughout North Carolina. The children of these areas live in neighborhoods not unlike their city cousins yet are served by rural school transportation. Traffic jams occur when the buses attempt to get the children out of the country at the same hour adult residents are trying to get in town to work.

Two of the 48 states have attempted to solve their problem by creating pull-offs which permit the buses to stop without holding up traffic.

Brown says nearly all experts agree this system is the most dangerous of all since the bus runs the probability of getting hit in trying to get back on the highway.

Then, too, the stopped school bus with its warning system creates a temporary traffic light. Under this protection children can get across in relative safety; without it they are left to work their way across a busy highway as best they can.

Natives Discount Effects From Radioactive Rocks

By CONRAD OLIVEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

GRANVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — "If there's anything to this thing of radioactive rocks and malformed babies, there's nothing we can do about it."

That's the reaction of mountain folk to a report that the radioactive rock that surrounds them may account for a higher-than-average rate of deformities in babies.

The New York State Health Department announced last week a researcher had found that in areas of the state having surface radioactive rock, the malformation rate among infants was higher than elsewhere.

In this northern New York area near the Vermont line, Hebron and Argyle are on the list with a high rate.

"What's got to be has got to be — nothing we can do about it," Martin Warner, 21-year-old farmer who has had a bad hip since childhood, commented to this reporter. He farms 400 acres in North Hebron, where heavy slate and shale deposits bother his tractor more than they do him, although the rock is naturally radioactive.

The police notified Emilie E. King her dog Jackal had been picked up, having violated the city ordinance against dogs running loose.

Would she care to come down to the station and retrieve Jackal and accept a notice of violation? Mrs. King said she couldn't make it, but she was anxious to get the dog back. So Jackal was put in a taxicab by officer Wayne Bramstedt and rode home in style. The notice of violation rode with him.

Jack Wallace Candidate For City Council Says: Whether or not a candidate for public office claims he will make a good public official is not nearly so important as what YOU the people think of that candidate's ability. It is more important that the Greenville City Council be made up of men who both believe in themselves and who have the support and confidence of the people of the city of Greenville. If YOU believe that I possess the qualities and abilities that YOU think are required for that office I shall appreciate your vote. If you would keep the reins of government in YOUR hands you must vote—for me if you please—but in any event VOTE FOR THE MAN OF YOUR CHOICE. VOTE MAY 5, 1959 24 & May 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—Under Secretary of State C. Douglas Dillon reportedly will be named chief assistant to Secretary of State Christian T. Herter. He may have much broader duties than anyone who filled such a position in the past.

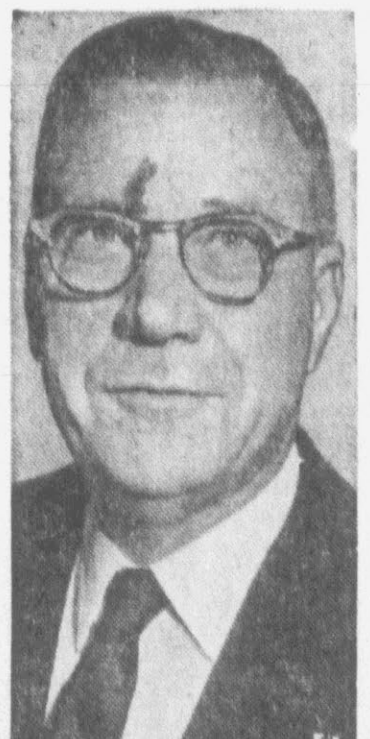

Dillon, 49, is now in charge of foreign economic affairs. In his new position he may be allowed to continue direct supervision of the government's multibillion dollar foreign aid program as well as taking over political problems which Herter formerly handled as chief assistant to John Foster Dulles.

The added duties for Dillon are being considered by Herter as part of a reshuffle of top officials. Officials said one shift already decided upon will return career diplomat Raymond Hare from Cairo, where he is ambassador, to Egypt, to become assistant secretary of state for the Middle East and South Asia.

Robert Murphy, now deputy under secretary in charge of political affairs, may be promoted to full under secretary to take over Dillon's old job.

The assistant secretary for Europe, Livingston Merchant, would be promoted to Murphy's old spot. Douglas MacArthur, II, now ambassador to Japan, is being mentioned as a replacement for Merchant.

Officials said most of the shifts probably will be delayed until after the May 11 Western Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

CHURCH HEAD—Bishop Marvin Franklin of Mississippi now heads world Council of Bishops of Methodist Church. He succeeded Bishop Bromley Oxnam.

Legislative Changes May Spell Harmony In Govm'ts

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — Major and minor legislation introduced during the 1959 session is expected to produce subtle and significant changes in virtually every hamlet and municipality in the state.

Some of the changes, while making for smoother local government, will scarcely be realized by the average citizen but running through the mass of legislation is a thread of continuity.

One category is composed of changes suggested by the N.C. Association of County Commissioners and designed to solve many minor problems normally handled through purely local legislation. Among these:

1. A bill giving the boards of county commissioners authority to fix hours (in the past special acts have been required to close court-houses on Saturday).
2. A bill allowing counties and municipalities to enter into continuing contracts (such as a lease on a building).
3. A bill giving county commissioners authority to appoint a county fire marshal to carry out the job created through the school inspection law enacted by the 1957 General Assembly.
4. A bill extending workman's compensation coverage to all county appointive officials and, in the discretion of county commissioners, elected officials as well.
5. A bill reducing the number of school inspections from 12 to three a year (in the belief that the three inspections would tend to be more thorough).

The second category is composed of legislation proposed by the various study commissions on tax, municipal government, public school finance, constitution, uniform map laws and boarding homes.

Legislation rising from the tax study includes bills to: (1) provide for a new evaluation system on an eight-year basis and authorize county commissioners to fix property tax assessment rates to levy a special tax to cover the cost of the revolution; and (2) eliminate any legislation classifying and exempting property from taxation at the local level.

The committee on public school finance came up with the conclusion that schools need more support from all levels of government. Their recommendations included the controversial "incentive fund" for teachers.

It should be noted that county commissioners have not favored the incentive fund plan in the belief that it could be used by the state (through matching state funds with county funds) to transfer an ever increasing portion of the cost of public schools to property tax.

The study group on a uniform map law observed the problems arising from the old method of establishing boundary lines by natural landmarks and has suggested that small concrete markers, appropriately spaced, be used instead. It was originally planned that this program be financed by charging a recording fee of 50 cents but on the opposition of the registers of deed the bill has been amended to provide for state financing.

Of the study groups, one of the most important is that dealing with municipal government. In keeping with its recommendations bills have been introduced giving counties permissive authority to enact zoning ordinances, establish subdivision regulations and appoint building inspectors to enforce the state building code. Zoning and subdivision regulations for municipalities have also been liberalized.

School Board . . .

war sent to get them and it was not 15 minutes before the boy's father arrived.

"I stayed with the boy the whole time."

Mrs. Porter had said Wallace saw the boy fall, remained in his seat until he was sent for by Agriculture teacher John Radford) only a short time in the dressing room, came back out and resumed his conversation.

She claimed examination of the boy while he was still on the auditorium floor was a "slow, drawn-out thing" and that Wallace, after he went to the dressing room, "did not spend enough time with the boy."

W. L. Guilford and Dr. John Bonner, both of Aurora where Wallace was principal prior to becoming principal at Chiswood, spoke briefly in Wallace's behalf.

Guilford termed him " . . . an exceptional school man."

"When he came," Guilford said, "we were considered to have the poorest school in the county. When he left . . . we had the best."

Guilford was questioned by Muse about circumstances leading to Wallace's departure from Aurora. Muse charged that Wallace was fired from his job, but Guilford said he believed 90 per cent of the people in Aurora " . . . were for him."

Dr. Bonner agreed with Guilford and added that Wallace's difficulties in Aurora were caused by objections to his program.

"Some teachers were against him," Dr. Bonner said. "He wanted them to go to work and they objected. He wanted the students to go to work, and their parents objected."

Some efforts were made to show that petitions calling for Wallace's dismissal are not the first to be circulated in the community calling for ouster of a school official. Members of the delegation denied, however, that they are commonplace or that the community is a habitually disgruntled one.

The Rev. Mr. Cherry said, "An effort has been made to show we are a disgruntled group in the habit of being disgruntled."

"This is the first time I have ever participated in anything like this. I was accused of splitting my church and I resigned, but my board unanimously refused to accept the resignation."

"I am not a party to this trouble, but we do have a situation that needs remedying."

The Rev. Mr. Cherry admitted that efforts were made a year ago to enlist his aid in circulating petitions, but that he had refused. Other members of the delegation who spoke before the board admitted to being approached, but refused on grounds that "one year is not enough for any man to prove himself."

Mrs. Porter stated, "Two years is enough time . . . I think the students are deserving of proper attention. . . . Our community is not divided, it's strictly against him—I live in Portertown—and everybody feels of one accord; there should be a change."

Judge Mercer, in a summary statement, told the board, "It is no discredit to a man if opposition arises. The man who sits . . . is the man not doing his duty." Kelly Wallace has done the best he can."

Fleet Lines Up For Big Opening

MONTREAL (AP)—More than 50 ships anchored along 30 miles of river are ready to pass through the 475-million-dollar funnel called the St. Lawrence Seaway on its opening Saturday and sail on into the Great Lakes.

The ships represent almost every maritime nation. They include many large ocean-going vessels, the first of their kind to reach the Great Lakes.

Elaborate ceremonies are being prepared to greet the vessels as they enter various harbors.

Official opening ceremonies will be held June 26 with President Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth II attending.

Offer Bills For Pension Fund

RALEIGH (AP)—A new pension fund for North Carolina firemen would be created under bills introduced in the House today by Rep. J. Y. Jordan Jr. of Buncome.

He sent forward two bills to set up a pension plan to be financed with a 1 per cent tax on fire insurance companies, as a replacement for 1957 pension fund act knocked out by the State Supreme Court.

Jordan said the proposed law would apply the 1 per cent tax across the board, with no exemptions. It was an exemption to the tax which caused the State Supreme Court to declare the old pension fund unconstitutional.

As under the former plan, Tar Heel firemen coming under the pension fund would pay $5 monthly contributions. Both paid and volunteer firemen could be covered, if they met certain requirements.

Capt. B. C. Gibson of the Charlotte fire department said that approximately $200,000 in voluntary contributions paid in under the old act is still being held by the state treasurer.

Jordan's measure would set up a board of trustees to handle the pension fund. Members would be the state insurance commissioner, who would be chairman; the state auditor; and three members named by the governor for terms of four years. The governor's appointees would include one paid fireman, one volunteer fireman, and one representative of the public-at-large.

The act would provide a fund secretary, to be paid $8,000 a year.

Firemen covered by the proposed fund would be eligible to retire at age 55 with a $36 month pension. The scale would rise to pensions of about $50 monthly on retirement at age 60.

Nehru Makes Bid For Chinese, Tibetan Peace

MUSSOORIE, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru today invited Chinese Communist representatives and their puppet ruler of Tibet, the Panchen Lama, to visit the Dalai Lama at his refuge here in north India.

Nehru said he hoped the Dalai Lama, Tibet's 23-year-old spiritual and temporal ruler, would return to Lhasa, the Tibetan capital. It was an obvious bid to reconcile the Red Chinese government and the Tibetan god-king, who fled from Communist domination of his homeland.

The Indian Prime Minister made his peace overture in an impromptu news conference two hours before meeting with the Dalai Lama. Nehru arrived from New Delhi earlier today.

"I will welcome the Panchen Lama to come and meet the Dalai Lama and whomever he likes," said Nehru.

The Prime Minister said "the door is open" for the Chinese ambassador to India or any high representative of the Peiping government to see the Tibetan executive, who has set up headquarters in exile in a large mansion in this Himalayan hill station.

As to Red Chinese charges that the Dalai Lama had been kidnapped and brought here under duress, Nehru said it was not so. "There is security, and we are making certain arrangements for the protection of the Dalai Lama, but that's a different matter from being under duress," he said.

Commenting on statements in Peking attributed to the Panchen Lama that "expansionist elements" in India were stirring up the Tibetan revolt, Nehru said "what the Panchen Lama had said, as reported, does not do justice to India, China, Tibet or the Panchen Lama."

Nehru has refused to condemn the Chinese Communists for the repression of the Tibetan rebellion. But he has said India's sympathies are with the Tibetans and that autonomy, or local self-government, is the only ultimate solution for the situation in Tibet.

Nehru also made clear to the newsmen that he hopes the Dalai Lama would say nothing to upset further relations between India and the Red Chinese, already strained by the widespread Indian sympathy for the Tibetan rebels and the Indian government's publication of the Dalai Lama's statement denying Chinese Communist charges that the rebels forced him to leave Lhasa.
