Eisenhower Asks Tightening Of Senate Labor Bill On Three Points

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower called on Congress today for tightening of the Senate labor control bill at three points. Eisenhower told his news conference that the measure passed by the Senate has very definite weaknesses. He said he is very disappointed with it. The President said he believes the House should write in amendments to (1) curb secondary boycott, (2) outlaw blackmail picketing and (3) clarify the no-man's land area where the authority of the National Labor Relations Board and that of the states is cloudy. Eisenhower was asked if he feels it necessary to have such amendments in light of the bill of rights for rank and file labor that was voted into the Senate measure. Eisenhower replied that as it first was offered by Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.), he thought the bill of rights proposal was a fine thing. But he said a compromise which finally was adopted was not a real substitute for the kind of thing that should have been done. The substitute was sponsored by Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California, the assistant Republican leader, and backed by a group of Republicans who have been regarded as friendly to organized labor. This was Eisenhower's first Washington news conference since March 25. He dealt with these other topics. Clarence Boothe Luce—He does not believe Mrs. Luce's usefulness as ambassador to Brazil has been impaired in any major way by the furor over her exchanges with Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore). The President said he had had a telephone survey made in Brazil on this point. Herter-Dulles—Eisenhower said that from the onset of John Foster Dulles' illness last February, both he and Dulles were in agreement that Christian A. Herter should be named secretary of state if it became necessary for Dulles to resign. When Dulles was forced to resign earlier this month because of cancer, Herter, who had been serving as acting secretary, was his immediate choice for the job, the President said, provided his health was up to the burden. Eisenhower reported his views on this matter when told there had been some speculation that Herter was his reluctant choice and that Herter's prestige had been damaged because the President waited four days to appoint him after Dulles stepped down. Eisenhower remarked there had been a lot of unnecessary and unprofitable speculation. He added that he wanted to announce the appointment of Herter a day earlier but that Herter was traveling and the announcement had to be put off 24 hours. As for the talk of delay, Eisenhower noted Dulles' grave illness. He said that when you are losing a public servant of Dulles' stature you don't try to hold a wedding until the other man—in this case Dulles—has left the house. Herter-Dulles—Eisenhower said that from the onset of John Foster Dulles' illness last February, both he and Dulles were in agreement that Christian A. Herter should be named secretary of state if it became necessary for Dulles to resign. When Dulles was forced to resign earlier this month because of cancer, Herter, who had been serving as acting secretary, was his immediate choice for the job, the President said, provided his health was up to the burden.

plains for that, he said. Monigomey—As for remarks by his old comrade in arms, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, that the American leadership under Eisenhower has become suspect, the President suggested to newsmen that they read today's British newspapers on that matter. He didn't say so but many of the papers were critical of Montgomery for saying what he did. All of the answers, Eisenhower said, can be found in those British comments. Germany—Eisenhower said anew that the United States never will desert the two million free people of West Berlin and leave them to Communist domination. Looking then to the forthcoming foreign ministers meeting with the Soviet Union on German questions, Eisenhower said there are a great many approaches to the problem which could ease the situation. He did not go into any detail. Nominations—He is puzzled, Eisenhower said, by the long delay in Senate consideration of his nomination of Lewis L. Strauss to be secretary of Commerce. The President said he never has heard a single word against Strauss' character, ability and judgment. Eisenhower said that at the moment there are 76 presidential nominations pending in the Senate, apart from thousands of postmaster nominations. He said that of the 76 there are 47 which can be regarded as major appointments—all important to the functioning of the government. And the nominees, he added, are all well qualified—in fact, probably even better qualified. Then he said he sees no reason why the Senate has held them in abeyance for so long.

Berlin And German Peace Treaty Made 'Package'

PARIS (AP)—The Western foreign ministers were understood to have agreed today that they would take up the questions of Berlin and a German peace treaty as a package in Geneva talks with the Soviet Union. This indication came after the first session of the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany. They are meeting to harmonize their positions before the East-West meeting opening in Geneva May 11. No delegation member would talk for the record. The ministers said by a communique that no information would be given to the press, at least for the time being, on progress. The reported Western determination to discuss the whole range of Berlin, Germany and European security questions is in clear opposition to the Communist position reiterated only today. Warsaw Pact foreign ministers, winding up a conference in Warsaw, Poland, opposed any attempt to link up the discussions. They said the "two most urgent and important questions" for Geneva were conclusion of a German peace treaty and liquidation of the military occupation of Berlin. Britain was waging a lone fight here against a package deal. U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd met for lunch then headed back to further consultations with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano. Each delegation was seven strong, making a total of 28 men. Herter met privately this morning with Couve de Murville and von Brentano. The Soviet bloc today backed the British position with a statement that anyone trying to tie the problems of West Berlin, German unification and European security into one knot obviously strives to hamper agreed decisions. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and representatives of the Soviet Union's seven European satellites and Red China, meeting in Warsaw repeated Soviet demands that (1) Berlin must be made a demilitarized "free city," (2) a German peace treaty must be written speedily, and (3) German reunification must be achieved by negotiations between the East and West German governments. The continuing differences between the Western Allies cast U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter in the key role of conciliator often played by his predecessor, John Foster Dulles. Herter's two-fold job is (1) to try and reconcile the British desire for "flexibility" with French-German insistence on "realism," and (2) to seek agreement for a policy that will regain the diplomatic initiative for the Allies in Europe. "Flexibility" to the British means give and take in negotiations with the Soviets and some new proposals instead of the standard all-German election plan that the Soviets have steadfastly rejected. The British are ready to write a new Berlin treaty spelling out and maybe extending Allied rights of access to the city, with the United Nations brought into the Berlin scene. They also favor a zone of reduced tension in central Europe where arms and armies on both sides of the Iron Curtain can be limited, inspected and controlled. "Realism" to the French and West Germans means offering no political or military concessions until the Soviets offer first. They don't believe allied rights need redefinition. They deride talks of arms reductions in local zones. They demand political concessions in return for military relaxations.

Weather Gadget Dropped In Field

What is apparently an Army Signal Corps weather instrument was recovered today from a cornfield about two miles north of Ormondsville. The device, a small white plastic box with battery-powered equipment inside, was found this morning by Robert Bowen of Rt. 1, Ayden, operator of the farm on which the device was found. Staff

Sentiment Still Strong For Hike In Teachers' Pay

RALEIGH (AP)—Notice has been served on the Legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee that sentiment is strong in the Senate for pay raises for teachers and state employees. The notice was in the form of a resolution sent up Tuesday by Sen. Edwin B. Lanier of Orange. It bore the signatures of 25 of the 50 senators. The resolution, which touched off the longest debate of the session in the Senate, requests pay raises of about 7 per cent for teachers and 3 1/2 to 4 per cent for other state employees. Sen. C. V. Henkel of Iredell said the pay boosts for teachers would require about 94 1/2 million dollars more than budget recommendations. Raises for other state employees would take five to seven million. Henkel explained that items affecting salary in the proposed budget, such as an extra week's pay for teachers, would be changed to salary increases under the proposal. Henkel expressed belief that the pay raises could be handled without any additional taxes. Supporters lost out in an attempt to have the rules suspended so the resolution could be considered immediately. It was sent to the Appropriations Committee. Sen. William Copeland of Hertford assailed the resolution, saying: "When committees are told what to do from the floor, I am afraid we are coming close to the end of our rope." In other legislative developments: The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill under which a primary tie for a state or district office would be settled by a second primary. If that also would up in a tie, the appropriate party executive committee would choose between the candidates. In local races, if a recount failed to break a tie a second primary would be held. Rep. H. P. Taylor Jr. of Anson introduced legislation to carry out recommendations of the Municipal Government Study Commission. The Senate quickly approved and sent to the House a bill to give National Guardsmen arrest powers. The measure, introduced Monday night, would make it easier for Guardsmen to help local officers if they should be called out in case of an emergency.

First Chance To Override A Veto

WASHINGTON (AP)—Confident House Democrats awaited with keen political anticipation today what they considered their first chance in six years to override an Eisenhower veto. Whether their exuberance is justified won't be known until Thursday. The House votes then for the second time this month on a bill stripping from Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson his power to veto loans made to cooperatives for rural electric and telephone service. President Eisenhower vetoed the bill Monday. The Senate overrode the veto Tuesday by a 64-29 vote in a rare display of party solidarity. This was a bare two votes more than the two-thirds necessary to upset a veto. Only one Democrat, Sen. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, deserted party ranks to vote with 28 Republicans to uphold the President. Six Republicans joined 58 Democrats to uphold the chief executive. Should the House follow the Senate pattern, the bill would become law despite the President's objection. He contended that it violated sound policy by giving independent power to an official subordinate to his Cabinet officer Boss. The head of the Rural Electrification Administration is subordinate to Benson. House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) predicted the veto would be overridden. On the basis of the April 15 House vote that sent the bill to the President, the House should override the veto. That vote was 234-131, three short of the two-thirds needed to override. But 40 Democrats missed the vote as did 10 Republicans. Five Democrats voted against the measure and 16 Republicans voted for it. Most of the absentees Democrats reported by favored the bill and will be on hand for Thursday's vote. Republicans in both the Senate and the House assailed the vetoed bill as "spite legislation" aimed at Benson by Democrats who long have criticized his farm programs.

Proposes Return To January Date

RALEIGH (AP)—A mountain legislator proposed today that the General Assembly return to its traditional time—January—of starting its biennial sessions. Rep. Oral L. Yates of Haywood introduced a bill calling for assemblies to convene in January as they had done prior to two sessions ago when the convening time was shifted to February. Yates said he feels the Legislature likely will approve the withholding plan for state income tax, as proposed by Gov. Hodges and the Advisory Budget Commission. He pointed out that this would make it unnecessary for lawmakers to wait around for the April 15 filing deadline to find out how income taxes were coming along. The February date was adopted after the deadline for filing income tax returns was moved back to March 15 to April 15. As a rule, lawmakers make few fiscal decisions until they have scanned income tax totals as a guide to revenue prospects. Another new bill, offered by Rep. Marcellus Buchanan of Jackson, would provide $10,000 death benefits to immediate survivors of state highway patrolmen killed violently in line of duty.

Period Of Calm At Mills Strike

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—A period of calm was settled over the strikebound Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills. Start of work at the mills this morning went off quietly, police said. And for the second night in a row there were no disorders reported Tuesday night. "Everything was quiet when the workers left the mill at 11 o'clock," police reported. "Not even a rifle was fired during the night." Things also were quiet on the picket lines at the mills' two plants Tuesday afternoon. Meanwhile, efforts were being made to get union and management leaders to resume negotiations to settle the 25-week-old strike. Gov. Hodges sent telegrams to Company President John D. Cooper Jr. and Boyd Payton, Carolina director of the Textile Workers Union of America, urging that they resume negotiations. Cooper commented, "I don't know what we could negotiate, but I'll meet with them in an effort to find out." Cooper said he would be unable to participate in negotiations today due to a death in the family but would be available Thursday. Cooper said the Union had turned down "everything I've offered." He added he had advised strikers whose jobs are still unfilled to come in and claim them by 3 p.m. Tuesday. He said only a few showed up. "So, I'm going to hire someone for those jobs," Cooper commented. An apparent settlement in the strike April 17 broke down three days later with the start of a second shift. Violence, punctuated by rifle fire, hit the mills that night and followed for the next several nights. Strikers felt that more jobs should have been available for them on the second shift.

Closing Down After Gun Fight

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP)—Mine guards exchanged about 200 rifle shots with hidden gunmen firing into a non-union coal operation near here before dawn today. No injuries were reported. Mine operator Jack Blair said "I am closing down the operation and leaving the country." "I can't stand it anymore," he said.

Damage By Hail, Rain And Wind

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Rain, hail and high winds did scattered property damage in northwest North Carolina Tuesday, concentrated in the Reidsville-Madison area. Elkin-Mount Airy reported also electrical disturbances. Boonville suffered some wind damage. Half an inch of rain fell on Reidsville in a half hour. Several trees were blown down at Madison. High winds and a thunderstorm hit Leaksville.

Gov't Settles 2 Crash Claims

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The government has settled claims of two Charlotte families for damages suffered when an Air Force jet crashed into their two-story home near the airport March 29, 1958. Grace A. Ledford, aircraft mechanic, said she has received $3,401 as settlement for belongings lost in the crash and fire which followed. Mrs. Velma White, whose family lived in another part of the same house, received "just under $5,000," Ledford said. The pilot of the T33, 1st Lt. Wendell Ritchie Miller of Salisbury, died in the crash. No one else was hurt.

Reject $300,000 In Budget Hikes

RALEIGH (AP)—Requests for more than $300,000 in budget increase above those recommended for 1959 - 61 were turned down Tuesday by the Legislature's Joint Appropriations Subcommittee. The subcommittee, tightening up on money items, approved only $16,992 above a month's recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission. This will enable the state library to hire an assistant librarian and will provide a $500 a year salary hike for the head librarian. Turned down were: $111,929 in increased requests by the State Art Society, $74,260 by the North Carolina Symphony Society; $53,360 by the State Library; and $63,064 by the state's four sanatoriums. The subcommittee approved budget recommendations for the Art Society, Symphony Society, Old Salem, community colleges, State Ports Authority, orthopedic hospital, cerebral palsy hospital, and the state's sanatorium system.

Terms Offered By Panama's Invaders

PANAMA (AP)—A band of Cuban invaders of Panama today said they would surrender only if assured they would be returned immediately to Cuba and would not be punished. President Ernesto de la Guardia's government showed no inclination to promise more than its earlier assurance that the members of revolutionary band would not be killed. Minister of Government Jose D. Bazan said authorities viewed the surrender mission as a failure so far. The government was counting on help and advice from five Latin-American ambassadors who arrived from Washington today as an inspection team for the Organization of American States. They went into conference after Foreign Minister Miguel Moreno Jr. met them at the airport. The invaders' surrender terms were relayed to the government by one of two bearded Cuban officers sent to Panama by Fidel Castro's regime to seek the surrender of the invasion force, which embarked from Cuba last week. Carrying a Cuban flag they met the hired invaders in the little town of Nombre de Dios, 50 miles north of the capital on Panama's Caribbean coast. They had halted there Monday after advancing 35 miles along the coast from the beach on which they landed early Saturday. One of Castro's mediators, Capt. Armando Torres, hurried back to the capital, bringing with him a member of the foreign invading force. They went directly to the Cuban Embassy. Keeping a line open with the 79 other invaders, Torres colleague, Lt. Fernando Ruiz, remained at their camp in Nombre de Dios. President de la Guardia said Tuesday night that two more invaders were being held in

Minimum Wage Bill Nears End Of Its Journey

RALEIGH (AP)—A minimum wage bill, nearing the end of its long legislative journey, was on the Senate calendar for action today. The measure, calling for a 75 cents hourly minimum wage, was approved Tuesday by the Senate Committee on Manufacturing, Labor and Commerce. It already had passed the House. With only one member dissenting, the committee gave its favorable report after listening an hour to arguments for and against the bill. If approved, the measure will go into effect next Jan. 1. State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane told the committee it would raise wages of approximately 55,000 retail and service-industry workers by an average of about 15 cents an hour.

Gov't Employee Total Increases

WASHINGTON (AP)—Civilian employees of the government's executive agencies in March numbered 2,337,495, an increase of 2,286 over February's total, it was reported today. The February total, which was 2,335,209, was the lowest since the beginning of the current fiscal year in July 1958.

President Says Mrs. Luce's Usefulness As Ambassador Not Impaired By Feud

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce's usefulness as ambassador to Brazil has not been damaged in any major way by her feud with Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore). The President told a news conference that he had a telephone survey made Tuesday—after Mrs. Luce hit out verbally at Morse—and concluded that she will be welcome in Brazil. The Senate gave Mrs. Luce a thumping 79-11 vote of confirmation on Tuesday despite bitter opposition by Morse. Mrs. Luce then said her troubles began when Morse was "kicked in the head by a horse." To which Morse replied that her remark was "consistent with an old pattern of emotion instability" on Mrs. Luce's part. Some Democratic senators who had voted for confirmation of the nomination said that if they had to do it over again they would vote against her. And Mrs. Luce's husband, Henry R. Luce of the Time-Life-Fortune publishing empire, said in New York he had asked his wife to resign the ambassadorship because of the criticism. It was against this background that Eisenhower was asked whether he thought Mrs. Luce should take up her post in Rio De Janeiro or follow the advice of her husband and offer to resign. Eisenhower hesitated a moment and then joined in a round of laughter touched off by the way the question was put—whether he thought Mrs. Luce should obey her husband. Eisenhower then said that although Mrs. Luce's criticism of Morse may have been ill advised, it was human. She made the remark, the President said, in the heat of anger. But, he went on, so far as he is concerned the criticism of the Oregon senator was not meant as an disparagement of the Senate. Then Eisenhower said he feels there has been no major impairment of Mrs. Luce's usefulness. He also said that she had not so far offered to resign. Even as Eisenhower was holding his news conference, Morse was telling the Senate it was true that he had checked a report "as to the mental competency" of Mrs. Luce to serve as ambassador to Brazil. Morse said he understood there had been charges "of improper conduct" on his part in such checking on the nominee. The senator said a newspaperman had come to his office with certain information and that on this basis he made a telephone inquiry and then dropped the subject. There had been reports Tuesday that Morse had sought to learn whether Mrs. Luce had been under psychiatric care. The suggestion from Luce that his wife should resign as ambassador had been planned to what might be the attitude of the Brazilian people in view of the criticism of her in the Senate. Luce took the position that the Senate confirmation had vindicated Mrs. Luce. "But," he said, "there remains the question of Brazilian opinion and whether she can now hope to accomplish the delicate mission assigned to her by the President in a climate of uneasiness which the smears and suspicion aired on the Senate floor have naturally created in Brazil." The Senate confirmation seemed to be final, short of an unlikely vote to ask President Eisenhower to return the nomination. Morse himself said: "Mrs. Luce has been confirmed. I wish her well. And, each night in my prayers I will pray for God's guidance that she will be more stable in her duties than when she issued that press release." Mrs. Luce had no immediate comment on her husband's request that she resign. At the White House, press secretary James C. Hagerty said "there has been no resignation." Mrs. Luce, playwright, former Republican congressman from Connecticut and former ambassador to Italy, is celebrated for her abrasive tongue. A 1944 speech in which she said Franklin D. Roosevelt "led us into war" was one of the main things for which Morse criticized her. After word of her parting gibe at Morse sped to the Senate floor, Dirksen tried to smooth things over by complimenting Morse on his "durable sense of humor." Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.) joined in to kid Morse about his support of President Eisenhower for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination. Morse was then a Republican. "That was after I was kicked by the horse," Morse replied. His jaw was broken by a flying hoof at a horse show in Orkney Springs, Va., in 1951. But the levity ended abruptly when Sen. Frank Lausche (D-Ohio) arose, glowering, to say that Mrs. Luce's statement about Morse indicated "an absence of rationalism" and if he could do over again, he would vote against her. Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.), who also had supported confirmation, said he wanted to compliment those who voted "No." He said, he, too, would like to chance to change his vote. Sen. Gale McGee (D-Wyo.) said he was sorry he had voted for the nomination.

Home Ceremony Unites Couple

Miss Joyce Lane Stokes, daughter of Mrs. Mack Stokes Smith and the late Hugh Talmadge Stokes, and William Thomas Robinson, son of Mrs. Ruth Robinson Nichols and the late William Thomas Robinson of New Bern, were united in marriage Saturday evening at the home of the bride on East Fifth Street.

The home was decorated for the occasion. The altar was improvised in front of the mantel in the living room. Seven branched candelabra held pink candles covered with green huckleberry and bouquets of pink carnations. A Prie Dieu with silk cushions was in front of the fireplace and three branched candelabra were used on either side; these were tied with pink satin bows. Over the mantel was a long mirror and in front of this was a large arrangement of pink snaps and pink carnations. Two Arca palms completed the setting.

The Rev. William Earl Roberts, pastor of Timothy Christian Church, performed the double ring ceremony. The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Alta Gardner. Selections were "Because," "Walk Hand in Hand," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride came down the winding stairway which was entwined with satin ribbons and clusters of wedding bells and entered the living room and walked through an aisle of pink satin ribbons that led to the altar. She wore a ballerina gown of light blue lace over nylon net and tulle styled with a boat neckline, short sleeves, fitted bodice, circular full skirt, matching wide satin bow which fell from the bodice down the front of the skirt and a Paris blue nylon headdress. She carried a nosegay of valley lilies centered with a pure white orchid.

The bride chose for her honor attendant her sister, Mrs. Milton Jones Lloyd. She wore a ballerina gown of pink organzoid over pink taffeta styled with cowl neckline with the V shape in the back, fitted bodice and bubble bottom skirt with a trim of pink satin bows. She wore a pink nylon tulle headdress, and carried a nosegay of orchid mums and pink carnations. The bridegroom had for his best man Carl C. Jones of New Bern. Mrs. Smith chose for her daughter's wedding a light blue lace dress. Mrs. Nichols wore a navy dress with pink trim. Both wore pink rose corsages.

The bridegroom received his education in New Bern schools and Edwards Military Institute. He holds a position as an aircraft electrician at Cherry Point. The bride graduated from Greenville High School.

After a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will be at home in New Bern. For traveling, Mrs. Robinson chose a two-piece suit of imported navy silk with navy and white accessories and a corsage from her bouquet. Immediately following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Mack Smith entertained at a reception honoring the new Mr. and Mrs. Robinson. Mr. Smith and Mrs. L. A. Moreadith of Raleigh received the guests at the front door.

Mrs. J. J. Gersham of Raleigh presided over the guest book.

The bridal table was covered with an imported white handkerchief-cloth-embroidered applied cloth with an arrangement of pink snaps and pink mums in a pedestal silver bowl with threebranched silver candelabra holding pink candles entwined with pink nylon tulle. The corners of the table cloth had pink nylon tulle bows. The wedding cake was decorated in pink with a miniature bride and bridegroom at one end of the table. Miss Phyllis Moreadith of Raleigh, cousin of the bride, served the cake after the bride cut the first slice.

Mrs. Ruth Robinson Nichols served punch from a silver punch bowl at the opposite end of the table.

Assisting in serving bridal cakes, ham biscuits, chicken salad in pastry shells and assorted nuts was Miss Jerri Gresham of Raleigh, cousin of the bride, and Miss Barbara Jean Lane, also a cousin of the bride.

About 50 members of both families were present. The goodbyes were said by Mrs. R. L. Lane and Mrs. Christine Jackson, both of Ayden.

Music Club Officers Announced

The Greenville Music Club met Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Atkinson, 1905 East Third Street. Dr. Stanley M. Walter, president, presided.

Officers were elected for the next two years as follows: president, Mrs. Elizabeth Bodkin; vice-president, Mrs. Martha Bradner; treasurer, Mrs. Dink James; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ann De La Mater; and publicity, George Perry.

Plans for the State Convention for 1959 at Nags Head, May 13-16, were outlined. As many members as possible were urged to attend. It was decided that next year the meeting night would be on the first Tuesday of each month. The plans for the May meeting were discussed. This would be a picnic for family and friends on Wednesday, May 20, each bringing a covered dish. The picnic will begin at 5:30 p.m. at Elm Street Park.

The program for the evening was presented by Mrs. Inez Laube, on "Ballet." The history and study of the Ballet were outlined and recordings of Ballet music were played. Demonstration of Ballet was given by Miss Kathy Summer-ville of East Carolina College, a pupil of Mrs. Laube.

After the program a social hour was held at which time refreshments were served by the hosts and hostesses, Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson, Lewis Danfelt and Mrs. Estelle Striplin.

'Romeo And Juliet' To Be Given During Arts Festival

With Mrs. Lois Garren of Greenville and August Laube, director of music in the Greenville high school, in the title roles, Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" will be presented at East Carolina College Wednesday and Thursday, May 6 and 7 as a special event of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival.

Performances, scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Flanagan Sylvan Theater will be open to the public. Large audiences from Greenville and neighboring towns are expected to attend.

The tragedy of the "star-cross'd lovers" will be sponsored by the Student Government Association of the college and produced by the East Carolina Playhouse, campus dramatic club, and the Greenville Little Theatre. A cast of 35 people from the college and the city and a large technical staff representing the two theater groups have been at work on the play for several weeks. Dr. J. A. Withey, director, and Dr. Robert T. Rickett, technical director, both faculty members at East Carolina, head the production staff.

Scenery designed for the production is now being erected in the Sylvan Theater under Dr. Rickett's supervision. Mrs. Inez Laube of Greenville, as choreographer, has planned the dances for the picturesque ballroom scene. Mrs. Susie Webb of the college Alumni Office has made arrangements to secure authentic and colorful costumes from the Hooker-Howe Co. in Massachusetts.

The cast is made up of experienced actors and actresses from the city and college drama groups. Mrs. Garren has had important roles in the outdoor dramas "The Lost Colony," "The Common Glory," and "The Founders," has acted with the Carolina Playmakers, the North State Theatre, and the Greenville Little Theatre; and has appeared with the Goodyear Theatre on NBC-TV broadcasts.

Mrs. Laube played the part of Senator Hoe; in "East Carolina's Spade," pageant marking the Fiftieth Anniversary of East Carolina College. He has recently appeared in the Greenville Little Theatre productions of "The Mouse Trap" and "The Caine Mutiny."

Art Exhibits Will Be Shown During Festival

A series of art exhibits in five Greenville schools will highlight the school's participation in the Greenville Arts Festival next week.

The exhibits will be at Greenville Junior High School, Agnes Phillips School, Elmhurst School, Wahl-Coats School and Third Street School. Each will include drawings, paintings, lettering and craft work by students, and will be on display from 9 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Work to be exhibited was prepared under direction of Mrs. Wellington Gray, supervisor of art education for Greenville City Schools. She was assisted by Mrs. Mary Lou LeGette and Miss Sarah Matthews, student teachers in art from East Carolina College.

The exhibits are representative of work done by students through the art program which reaches more than 1,000 students in the city's elementary schools for white children, plus students at the junior high school.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ray Dall of Ayden announce the engagement of their daughter, Ellen Ray, to Richard Carlton Keel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Keel of Bethel. The wedding will take place May 3 in the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church at 3 o'clock. No invitations have been sent.

For ease in handling, choose a vacuum cleaner with a flexible hose.

Incoming Officers

The 1959-1960 officers were installed Monday evening by Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, in a service with "Friendship and Service—Our Best Investment" as the theme at the dinner meeting of the Pilot Club.

New officers are Mrs. Ann Phillips, president; Miss Annie Moore, first vice-president; Mrs. Robert Pennell, assistant first vice-president; Mrs. Lucy Bell, second vice-president; Miss Jane Hadley, recording secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Bing, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. N. M. Jorgensen, treasurer.

Mrs. W. W. Howell, Miss Hazel Clark and Mrs. Joan Warren were installed as club directors.

Following the installation service, the Pilot Code of Ethics was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Mallory, and Mrs. Jack Derrick was installed into the club as a new member.

30 Years Ago Today

April 29, 1929

Mrs. L. W. Gaylord was hostess at a delightful meeting of her bridge club Tuesday afternoon at her home on West Fourth Street. Mrs. T. A. Galbraith of Kinston was remembered with an attractive gift. Miss Estelle Greene was given a lovely sash for high score. A tempting salad course was served by the hostess and her daughters, Misses Mattie Moye, Julia and Harriet Gaylord.

Twirp Week Set May 3-10

The Winterville Future Homemakers of America met Thursday afternoon immediately after school in the Home Economics cottage. The official opening of the club was used with the President, Shirley Churchill leading.

Sue Ellen Hunsucker had charge of the devotional.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Elizabeth Carroll.

The treasurer's report was given and members were urged to sell more of their products.

The observing of "Twirp Week" was the most important item of business. It was agreed to observe "Twirp Week" May 3-10. A dance is to be held during this week at the Winterville Community building Friday night May 8. Committees were appointed to be in charge of this occasion.

Officers for the school year 1959-60 were nominated. They will be voted on in one week.

Sue Ellen Hunsucker, vice-president, was in charge of the program which was entitled "You in a Group." This program described different types of individuals as they participate in a club meeting. Those who assisted her were Elizabeth Carroll, Joe Ann Hathaway, and Brenda Wall.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Brown of Hampstead, Md., Dr. and Mrs. Joe Farquhar of Myerstown, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Patterson of Raleigh were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Edwards of Ayden recently.

Miss Kathleen Whichard is recuperating at her home from an appendectomy.

Roberson-Briley Speak Double-Ring Vows

WASHINGTON—The marriage of Miss Lois Ann Briley and George A. Roberson Jr. was solemnized in the First Christian Church Saturday, April 25, at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. Raymond L. Alexander, pastor of the church, heard the double ring vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Mizelle Briley of Greenville and the late Raymond Briley, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Roberson of Charlotte Street.

Prior to and during the wedding Goodwin Moore, organist, played selections of nuptial music, and accompanied Mrs. Dave Milligan, soloist, as she sang "O Promise Me" and "Because" and for a benediction "The Wedding Prayer." The Lorengin and Mendelssohn Wedding Marches were used as the processional and recessional.

The wedding scene was formed by banked palms interspersed with white wrought iron candelabra with lighted white tapers and matching floor standards filled with white gladioli and stock. To the front of the altar in the center was a white prayer bench holding white satin cushions. White satin bows marked family pews.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her brother, James Roy Briley of Greenville. She was lovely in a wedding gown of French lace over taffeta, styled with a fitted bodice and low round neckline marked by handclipped lace. The long fitted sleeves extended into calla points, and her extremely full lace skirt was accentuated by a wide cascade of white satin at the back which, together with the lace, formed an afternoon length train. Her tiered veil of French illusion was attached to a plateau lace hat with seed pearl trim, and she carried a white prayer book topped by a white showered orchid.

Mrs. James S. Hill Jr., the bridegroom's sister, was matron and bridesmaids were Miss Ann Angle, the bride's niece of Greenville, and her sister, Mrs. C. D. Bullock, also of Greenville. Miss Billie Angle of Greenville served her aunt as maid of honor. The bride's attendants wore identical dresses of white eyelet organdy made with short sleeves, fitted bodices and fully gathered bouffant skirts exaggerated by cummerbunds of light blue crystal. Their baudeaux were of blue crystal with blue net frills, and they carried cascaded bouquets of blue stock entwined and showered with matching blue satin.

In the procession as flower girls were pieces of the bride and bridegroom, little Misses Diane Briley of Ayden, Kathy Joe Briley and Deborah Bullock of Greenville and Inda Hill of Washington Park. Their white eyelet organdy dresses with blue cummerbunds were miniatures of the senior attendants', and they carried blue baskets filled with blue stock.

Petit Master Allen Mazingo of Richmond, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer, and was dressed in white coat and navy blue trousers. He carried the two rings on a white satin cushion.

Mr. Roberson was best man for his son, and usher-groomsman were James S. Hill Jr., Milton Brooks, Tommy Woolard and Lester Woolard.

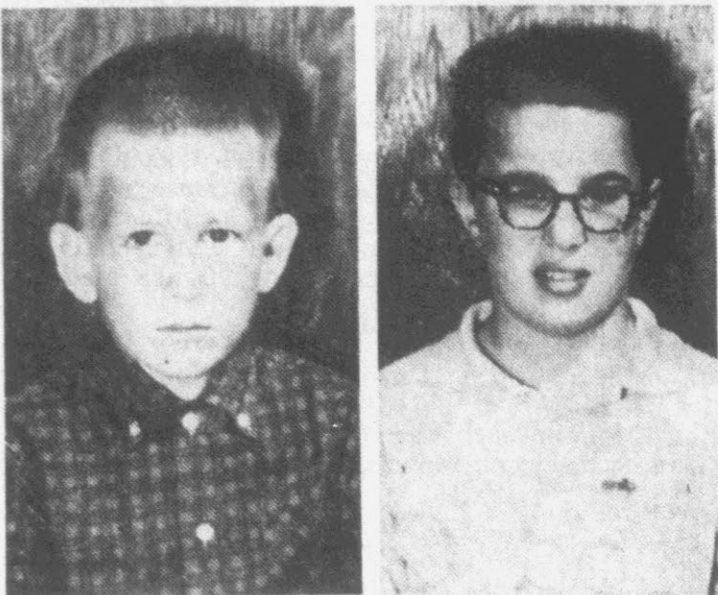

For the ceremony the bride's mother wore a navy blue outfit, using white accessories, and her corsage was of white cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Roberson, mother of the bridegroom, chose a pink lace dress, marked by pink accessories, and her corsage was also of white cymbidium orchids.

Attending the wedding as honorary bridesmaids were Miss Betty Sue Woolard, Mrs. Lester Woolard, Mrs. B. E. Singleton Jr., Mrs. Milton S. Brown Jr., Miss Barbara Ann Stokes of Greenville and Mrs. James Stewart of Norfolk. They wore afternoon dresses and corsages of white carnations.

Mrs. J. Reynolds Toler assisted the wedding party at the church. Following the reception in the church social hall, the new Mr. and Mrs. Roberson left for a wedding trip, the bride traveling in a dress-suit of aquamarine floral print on beige background. She used black patent accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of the Stokes-Pactolus High School and attended the Parkview School of Nursing in Rocky Mount. She is presently employed in the commercial department at Beaufort County Hospital. Mr. Roberson is a 1956 graduate of Washington High School and is working with his father in construction. Mr. and Mrs. Roberson will make their home in Washington.

One Gets Nowhere 'Holding A Line'

If there is one major fault to be found with the approach made by the current legislature to the state's financial needs, it is that legislators have been too prone to consider available funds first, and the needs of the state second.

By available funds, we mean funds which apparently will be forthcoming to the state during the next biennium without any increase in taxes but with a $27 million windfall from the withholding tax proposal.

It may well be, as Gov. Hodges predicted, that the Joint Appropriations Committee will go along generally with the budget he submitted at the beginning of the current legislative session. That is not to say, of course, the committee will not make exceptions here and there; but for the most part that their recommendations to the full Appropriations Committee will not vary widely from the recommendations.

As the joint committee goes about its all-important work, however, it should not have the mistaken idea that holding-the-line on the budget is more sacred than meeting the needs of the people of North Carolina during the two years ahead.

It would be fine if the budget recommendations met all the needs of the people of North Carolina for the next two years. But to be realistic, they do not.

It would be fine if there were more money in sight for expenditures during the next two years without increasing taxes here and there, but such is not the case unless some upward revisions are made in revenue estimates.

It is the responsibility of the governor to recommend to the state legislature every two years a budget which he thinks will meet the needs of North Carolina during the two years ahead. While the legislature is expected to use such recommendations as a basic point from which to work, the legislature itself has a responsibility far beyond merely adopting the governor's fiscal recommendations. It has the responsibility to make its own evaluation of the state's needs for the two years ahead and to adjust appropriations and, if necessary anticipated revenues, to meet those needs.

The fact that something is needed in order that the state may maintain its pace of progress and provide its people with essential services should carry considerably more weight among legislators than the "hold-the-line" slogan that is rapidly becoming a byword in appropriations deliberations.

North Carolina did not get where it is today by its legislators declaring we must deny our people this and we must deny our people that in order that we can "hold-the-line" on budget recommendations.

North Carolina has come a long way up the ladder of success because its legislators have had the vision and the courage to see that the progressive needs of a progressive state were met from biennium to biennium... even if it meant breaking the line on budget recommendations.

Minimum Wage Bill Now Assured Of Vote

Quick approval of the state's minimum wage proposal by the Senate Labor Committee removes the last shadow of a doubt that the measure will sail into law when the matter comes to the floor of the Senate.

The lone opposing vote in the committee may give some indication of how members of the Senate feel toward the minimum wage proposal which had a hectic time in the House both in committee and on the floor of the House.

Swift approval of the measure by the Senate Labor Committee, suggests also that the bill will be passed as it came from the House with no further amendments which would water down its coverage.

In its present form the measure is estimated to increase buying power in North Carolina by some 16 1/2 million annually as it increases the wages of some 55,000 retail and service-industry employes by an average of approximately 15 cents per hour.

While the increase in purchasing power is important to the state from the standpoint of economics, of far greater importance is the fact it will afford some 55,000 of the lowest paid workers in North Carolina a better standard of living. It will provide a boost where it is needed most... at the very bottom of the economic ladder.

Certainly North Carolina should have no qualms about being the first state south of Pennsylvania to enact a minimum wage. North Carolina long has been recognized for its position of leadership as one of the more progressive states in the nation, and certainly the most progressive in the Southeast.

Passage of the minimum wage legislation will further attest to North Carolina's recognition of a vital need which exists within its borders, and its determination to enact legislation which will help meet a crying need of its people.

Future Holds No Soothing Syrup

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's no soothing syrup in the events ahead. The thing to look for is whether Nikita Khrushchev can do the Western Allies any more damage than he's already done.

With no more expense than the wind it took for some speeches and statements he split the Allies a bit on how to handle his demands for a "free West Berlin, a peace treaty with the two Germanys, and a few other things.

The Allied reaction ranged from don't-budge-an-inch stand of France and Germany and the stern American hold-the-fort attitude to the flexibility advocated by Britain.

Today the four Allies' foreign ministers — including Secretary of State Christian A. Herter — are in Paris to decide how they will answer the Soviets when they meet with them May 11 in Geneva.

The Geneva session is supposed to be preliminary to a summit meeting. No doubt the Allies in Paris this week will iron out their differences — so far as is visible, anyway — if for no other reason than because they have to.

They can't afford to be obviously divided when they sit down with the Soviets in May. It would not only mean a Khrushchev victory but might cause an irreparable split among the Allies.

It's quite likely the Allies will come out of their Geneva talks in good shape — in the sense of being lined up together on whatever answers they have for the Soviets.

The real test of their solidarity will come at the summit. The unpredictable Khrushchev may have already conjured up summit proposals intended not to get solutions but to split the Allies wide open.

A great many explanations have been offered as to why Khrushchev last November first made his demands.

For instance, it has been suggested that he wanted to distract the West while communists were taking over Iraq in the Middle East; that he somehow hoped to neutralize West Germany and thus clinch his grip, without worry, on the satellites.

All these things may have been in his thinking but it's possible he also thought something like this:

"I can't lose by making demands. If I don't get any place, I won't be worse off than I am now. But maybe I can find some weak spots in the Western alliance — create differences, weaken it a bit."

One of the weak spots, of course, is a natural, human desire among West Europeans to avoid a crisis which might lead to war with the Soviet Union which seems at the moment capable of blasting Western Europe off the map with missiles.

It is also natural that the various groups of West Europeans would vary — as they seem to be doing — in their reaction to Soviet demands and pressure.

No wonder, then, that the West, including the United States, has been on the defensive in this situation with Khrushchev. It has not once sought to take the initiative away from him.

It has sought, instead, how to answer him. He may be able to do damage at the summit if — in order to split the Allies — he makes concessions to one of the Allies that seem repulsive to another.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WITHOUT THIS — FAILURE The Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria was buried in a church in Vienna where the bodies of the other members of the Hapsburg household rested. As the body of the Emperor reached the church door, a voice cried from within, "Who is there?" The reply was, "His serene majesty, Emperor of Austria."

Through the door came back these words, "I know him not." A second attempt was made. To the query as to who wished entrance to the vault, the answer came that the Emperor of Austria and the Apostolic King of Hungary was seeking admission. Again there was a denial of the keeper of the gate of his knowledge of any such person.

Finally the words spoken by the leader of the funeral procession were these: "A sinful man, poor, humble, even brother Francis Joseph wishes to come here and abide." Only then did the portals open and the body of the King went to its last resting place.

This, of course, is a piece of imagery designed to fill the hearts of those who behold it with a proper sense of their own sinful state and their humility. Jesus' declaration about himself was: "I am meek and lowly of heart." He said nothing about the crown, nothing about the messiahship, nothing about the lordship of the universe. His pride was in the fact that he could be humble.

Only the humble attain greatness. Others may appear to, but they are failures in God's sight — and eventually in their own.

The Stories They Tell

The story is going around about a second grade student who called his father's secretary during working hours.

"Come and get me, and take me home," the child told the secretary.

"I don't know that I can leave the office now," the girl replied. "Why can't you walk home?"

"I got an 'excellent' on my work in school today and I'm so excited, I'm right weak," the child told her.

"I don't know that you're so weak you can't walk home," the secretary said. "You start walking and if I get a chance to leave I'll pick you up and ride you the rest of the way."

"Oh, I can't do that."

"Why?"

"This is the first excellent I've ever had, and I'm so proud I think I'll just bust right out of my pants if I try to walk all the way home," the youngster declared.

There is no report on how he actually got home, or on the condition he was in when he got there.

Another story making the rounds concerns a small child in a neighboring area.

This one was helping himself to an orange during lunch period or recess or a similar free period. When he finished, he wiped his mouth and shouted in horror,

"I've lost my teeth!"

Indeed, he had. The teacher confirmed it by opening his mouth and looking at bare gums.

"What happened?" the teacher wanted to know.

"I lost my teeth. They're gone," was all the child would say.

The teacher finally pieced together the story that the child has a number of false teeth, apparently close to a full set. The child had either dropped them, said them aside and forgotten where they were, or (less likely) chewed them up and swallowed them with the orange.

At last report, the search for the missing teeth was still going on. They represent, according to the child's parents, an investment of $93.

One East Carolina College faculty member who heard the story shook his head and commented that he knew how the child felt. He had, he said, once lost an upper plate during an evening of undergraduate revelry. He never recovered them.

The stories prove only one thing, of course, and that is that just about anything can happen to a school child. Most teachers know equally well that their children can, and will, say most anything.

There is one in particular who was stopped cold one day by a child in her class who interrupted a lesson to tell her, "You know, you look just like my grandmother."

It was a high compliment so far as the child was concerned.

Other Editors Saying... Jennings Bill Should Pass

(Henderson Dispatch)

Some time this week the House of Representatives is expected to vote on the Jennings bill fixing tobacco price supports. It has been endorsed by the tobacco industry and ought to pass, especially since it will cost the government nothing.

This measure would substitute the so-called "old parity" system for the "modern parity" device in computing the level of price supports for tobacco sold by farmers. It would hold the price, at least for 1959, to the same level as last season.

Purpose of the bill is to prevent a further ruinous increase under the scale whereby benefits are paid to growers for tobacco taken off the warehouse floor and delivered to the Stabilization Corporation. Further increases would drive more foreign buyers out of the market and lose much of the overseas export trade for flue-cured leaf.

About one-third of the crop each year is sold abroad. Growers, warehousemen and other alike realize the genuine threat to the export trade which has arisen from competition by other countries that are growing flue-cured tobacco and bidding for the world market. Canada is one of these competitors. Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland in South Africa are others and the chief threat to the tobacco crop in our section of the country.

Republicans in Congress take the position that if a new formula of price supports is not to be adopted for other crops it ought not to be for tobacco. Much of this attitude, one may surmise, stems from administration opposition to ninety per cent of parity for tobacco. Secretary Benson has favored a flexible support formula which would give him the right to fix the level of government assistance. Tobacco-State congressmen are convinced such would be so law as to be ruinous to growers.

Well informed opinion among representatives from the tobacco States is that the House will approve the Jennings bill. If it does, then the measure will be sent to the Senate for consideration and passage. Belief is that the upper house will give its assent.

It is recognized generally that the tobacco program is in trouble, both because of world competition and because of continually advancing prices, which are driving foreign buyers away. Added to that is the complaint of foreign buyers who are willing to pay the high prices, but who hesitate because of poorer quality of leaf grown from undesirable strains and improper grading as to quality.

If Congress will do its part in putting a prop under the crop, growers will do theirs. They are already aware of the problem they face and most of them are cooperating to the end that their overseas outlets may be saved. Southern flue-cured is the finest tobacco of its type in the world and is most desired at home and abroad. But there is such a thing as being priced out of the market, and that is what is happening, and that is the reason for the Jennings bill, which would stabilize 1959 support at the same level as last year. It ought to pass without serious opposition. But there will be opposition, out of politics if nothing else, through many feel not of sufficient force to defeat the measure.

Consumers' Debts Will Grow

By ELMER ROESSNER

The total amount owed by American consumers is heading toward another new high. It reached a peak with Christmas shopping last December. Americans woke up New Year's Day to find themselves owing $45,065,000,000. They reduced that by more than half a billion dollars in January and brought down almost another half billion in February.

But it was still $44,071,000,000 high, still higher than in any February in history, and $1,054,000,000 higher than a year ago. The Federal Reserve will pop its figures for March in a few days and they are expected to show a slight rise.

The rise is expected to continue through the year with another new high mark in December.

WHY THE RISE

There are several reasons for the expected increase. They are: 1. Auto sales are perking up, and there is nothing like auto sales to swell consumer credit. Paying cash is not only out of style — it's impossible for most families. 2. The upsurge in credit cards, making credit easier and more tempting, will boost the total. The big argument used by credit card companies in signing up restaurants and other business members is that card holders tend to spend more than people doing out cash.

3. The entire price level is rising, largely due to inflation. Goods cost more but people are making more, hence charge accounts and installment commitments tend to increase.

HOW IT'S DIVIDED

Of the $44 billion owed on March 1, $33.8 billion was on installment purchases. Of this $14.2 billion — almost a third of the grand total — was for autos. Other consumer installment purchases, such as appliances, accounted for $8.7 billion. Repair and modernization loans were $2.1 billion and personal loans (tax time was approaching) were $8.6 billion.

Of the noninstallment credit,

$3.6 billion was for single payment loans, $4 billion for charge accounts, and $2.8 billion for service credit.

The Federal Reserve figures are far from precise, as FRB statisticians will admit. They cannot, except by estimate, include the on-the-cuff credit granted by corner grocery stores and friendly barkeeps. Yet that is consumer credit not less than that granted by an auto finance company. They cannot include the loans made among friends and relatives, not the millions of salary advances — which are as much consumer loans as those of a personal finance company. Nor can Fed figures include the $5 for $6 loans by knife-peeking loan sharks.

OTHER FAULTS APPARENT

Furthermore, there is considerable doubt that the Fed figures include all the totals of the credit card companies. And if they do, these figures may not be accurate because of the "float" — the large amount not reported until month ends and both debits and credits floating around

Afraid To Give Views?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are Americans today afraid to speak out their mind?

Many British visitors in the past have complained that Americans, if anything, are too vocal about things they know little about.

Braine, after a two-week tour ranging from Boston to Chicago, said: "This seems to be a country where I don't hear people giving their opinions out loud about any issues."

"It might be fear. It might be something else. I haven't been here long enough to tell," he said.

Braine, classified as one of England's "angry young men" a label that he detests, is author of a best seller, the story of a working class lad on the make — financially and socially.

Here are a few other quick U.S. impressions by the 37-year-old author:

"No one here seems to wear his hair longer than two inches — which is a frightening thing. It is rather like being in an army camp."

"And all the little boys have their hair shaved — as if for ringworm. There is nothing wrong with it. But why do they all have to do it? It is so uniform."

"Too much conformity of any kind seems sterile to Braine, a self-educated writer who had to quit school at 16. In 1951 he gave up a "good safe job" as a $28 a week librarian to try his luck as a writer.

There, he recalled, he sometimes had to pawn his best pair of trousers to raise the price for a meal, but at least "I had ceased to remain a prisoner of my own timidity."

"Once you've been on your beam ends in a strange city, you're not so frightened of anything after that. You may not get to be a very mature person, but you are your own master," he said.

Braine is quite proud of his working class origin. But as to being one of Britain's "angry young men," he said: "It's nonsense. There is no such group of like-minded young writers at all."

He hopes, he said, to build a whole fictional world around the life of his time.

"I don't know how many books it will take. Because I don't know how long I'll live," he said. "I write slowly — in longhand, and I write three drafts of each book."

"To me the only reliable pleasure is work. You are born to do your job. If you don't do it, you might as well be dead."

"We can thank the religious beliefs of our founding fathers for dedicating their labor and their lives to the creation of this land of freedom. The foundations of this nation were laid by men and women who believed in God and His influence in human affairs. From the earliest days, spiritual aspirations have been a vital force in American life." — Cleveland (Ohio) National News.

States' Wartime Surpluses Are Spent

EDITOR'S NOTE: Various factors contribute to the fiscal anemia of many state treasuries. This second of three articles examines some of the principal causes.

By CHARLES STAFFORD
Associated Press Writer

"I feel sorry for the next governor" said a veteran Iowa legislator as he considered his state's finances recently. "He'll be like Mother Hubbard when he takes a look in the cupboard, because it's really going to be bare."

Like 23 other states, Iowa has fiscal troubles. Its treasury is solvent. But a 100-million-dollar "rainy day fund" built up during World War II is down to 20 million.

An Associated Press survey of state financial problems indicates 16 states deeply in debt or in imminent danger going into the red. And 16 states, Iowa among them, have some measure of financial difficulties that could become awkward.

Many got into a bind by spending more money than they received, making up the difference by dipping into surplus monies and by borrowing. Others are recession victims; last year's business decline cut their income below their outlays. In some cases, political infighting has added complications.

Twins' Mothers Stand United

WHARTON, N.J. (AP) — Twin youngsters no longer have the upper hand on mom in Morris County.

Heading the old adage, "In unity there is strength," Morris County mothers of twins have formed a club to discuss their mutual problems, and to trade clothing, furniture and other items.

The club also will prepare expectant mothers for their "double blessing."

Pat surpluses accumulated during the war years when construction was curtailed have proved a mixed blessing. Some states have used them to bridge the gap between revenues and expenditures, avoiding tax increases, and found themselves with a hole to plug as the extra money runs out.

Michigan, among the most troubled states, was brought to its current crisis by multiple factors. Generally, over-spending and the recession, complicated by political bucking, has been held responsible.

For three years Michigan spent more than it took in. When a modest, 25-million-dollar surplus evaporated, deficit financing followed. The deficit could reach 110 million dollars by June 30. The state also has nearly 213 million dollars in general obligation bonds outstanding.

The economic decline, which brought a high rate of unemployment to major industrial centers like Detroit, cut into state revenue at a time when it was already insufficient.

The Republican-dominated Legislature blames Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams for the fiscal impasse. "The governor always comes in with a budget increasing services everywhere," complains State Sen. Charles Prescott. "If he's signed a tax bill, I don't recall it."

Williams accuses the lawmakers of dawdling about levying taxes to pay the bills. He also cites population growth as a cause of treasury strains. It rose 21 per cent from 1950 to 1957, with the number of persons under 20 — "tax users rather than tax payers," the governor calls them — increasing 42 per cent.

Williams and the Legislature were deadlocked on a tax program. He wants a personal income tax and an income tax on business. The Republicans insist on an increase in the sales tax.

Meanwhile, the governor used money appropriated for colleges and universities to meet the state payroll, directing these institutions to borrow money. Then the banks cut off credit to the universities. The governor next appealed to business and industry, which paid May and June taxes ahead of time.

Demands for new services, coupled with escalator clauses that automatically increase the expense of other services, has Ohio in a financial hole. In the last 12 years, the state has run through a 213-million-dollar surplus while giving a billion dollars into debt.

The reasons: two veterans' bonuses, a 500-million-dollar highway bond issue, and 150 million dollars worth of construction for education, mental hospitals and state office space.

Over-spending income, while balancing the budget from reserve funds, has created financial difficulties in California, New York, Washington, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The recession had a marked effect on the income of many states. In Pennsylvania, tax income declined 113 million dollars. In Connecticut the decline was $6,700,000.

Unemployment brought on by the recession affected the normal growth of government services in some states. Gov. Clinton A. Clauson of Maine says he will hold services at their present level rather than raise taxes when one of every 10 members of the State's work force is jobless.

Georgia has a problem common to most states, the ever increasing cost of education. In Georgia, it has been jumping about 9 million dollars a year. "We have to run that fast just to stand still," says State Supt. Claude Purcell. Some states have special problems. In the coal mines of West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky, machines permit six men to mine twice the coal 60 men produced a decade ago. Accompanied by a declining demand for coal, this mechanization has caused widespread unemployment.

In Texas, a sharp decline in oil production caused a drop in state revenue. Legislators blame foreign oil imports.

In Florida, a freeze in the citrus fruit country last year was transferred to the state treasury in the form of lower revenue.

But today's storm can bring tomorrow's sunshine.

Louisiana, hurt by the recession and the decline in oil production, was facing the necessity of finding new revenue. Then it began known President Eisenhower would restrict oil imports.

Gov. Earl Long, who had withheld state lands from oil leases because of poor bids, put them up for grabs. In a single day's leasing, the state treasury scooped up $9 million dollars and the budgetary problems were solved.

Tomorrow: The answer: Taxes.

More Rice For India's Hungry

NEW DELHI (AP) — The production of rice, a mainstay in the diet of many Indians, has bounced back from a poor year to set a record in latest 12-month period.

The yield per acre rose about 7 per cent above the average for the last five years to 29,700,000 long tons. The previous high had been 28,300,000 tons in the 1956-57 crop year.

The record crop would provide enough rice for every Indian to eat 168 pounds a year, or less than half a pound a day.

Expensive Trip To Cash A Check

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Police Chief Charles F. Thomas tells this story of a 70-year-old arrested drunk.

Each time he is jailed, the old-timer gets the trusty job of sweeping the jail bus. Recently, the trusty left the bus parked outside police headquarters and went to pick up his pension check.

When he returned, the bus had left for the jail annex. The trusty arrived at the annex a few minutes later — by taxicab. The trip cost him $4.

TOOTHBRUSHES As Peace Tokens

RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Dr. Joseph Martriss, a dentist in East Rutherford, started "operation toothbrush" two years ago and since then has sent more than 10,000 toothbrushes overseas.

Medical missionaries in the Belgian Congo have written to him that toothbrushes proved an immediate success as peace tokens with the natives.

Canada's main air terminal for transatlantic flights to Europe.

More than 11,000 oceanic flights were serviced here last year, and it looks as if even more will be handled this year.

To meet the crush, a new $3-500,000 air terminal is slated for opening June 19. Last January, a new radar traffic control system made Gander Canada's only airport equipped with precision approach and airport surveillance radar.

But prophets of despair continue to predict the airport will lose its position because of advances in aviation technology, especially in jet flying.

Mayor Jack Robertson insists the "same old story" accompanied every forward step in aircraft development. He believes the commercial airlines will always find it more profitable to carry extra passengers and stop here to refuel, then to scrimp on the passenger load and carry enough fuel to fly nonstop between North America and Europe.

Gander's strategic position was first recognized by the British Air Ministry, which cooperated with the Newfoundland government to build the airport in 1937. The facilities were rarely used until World War II, when they were among the world's busiest. The community's population shot up from 300 to 15,000.

Immediately after the war, the population dropped down to 3,500, but eventually reached the present 5,500 with the increase in commercial flying. Mayor Robertson predicts the population will rise to 10,000 by 1970.

Even Michigan Legislators Going Without A Pay Day

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state of Michigan, unable to solve its ready cash problems, is passing up this week's pay days.

Among the 325 state-salaried workers to go without pay checks will be the 144 state legislators who in four months have failed to solve Michigan's fiscal emergency.

Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams, at loggerheads with the Republican-controlled Legislature, announced Tuesday that funds were lacking and this week's $10,000 payroll would not be met.

Also to be out of pocket temporarily are the state's eight Supreme Court justices and all its Circuit Court judges, as well as legislative staff members.

Williams indicated that a five-million-dollar payroll for 28,000 state employees—including prison guards, mental hospital aides and state college teachers—due May 7 also may not be met.

The governor's move followed a new deadlock in the Legislature. At a caucus, majority Republicans of the state Senate refused to go along with a Democratic plan to liquidate the 50-million-dollar veterans trust fund unless a one-cent increase in the three per cent state sales tax was tacked on to the bill.

Space Travel Dangers In High-Energy Blast

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man responsible for last year's U.S. nuclear explosions in outer space said today a high-energy blast there would kill a space traveler by radiation.

Prof. Nicholas C. Christofilos of the University of California joined with Air Force scientists in the first scientific symposium dealing with "Project Argus."

In that project, last August and September, three small nuclear bombs were exploded at "tremendous altitudes." The blasts created a 100-mile-thick shell of electrons that temporarily encircled the world.

In a report prepared for the symposium—jointly sponsored by the National Academy of Sciences and the American Physical Society—Christofilos said:

"The explosion of small bombs in outer space is completely harmless from the aspect of radiation hazard in outer space travel. However, explosions of megaton bombs in outer space can create a radiation hazard for the outer space traveler."

Megaton bombs are those having the explosive equivalent of at least a million tons of TNT.

"For example," said Christofilos, "even one megaton bomb exploded in proper location in outer space will deliver to a man in a satellite a lethal dose—400 roentgens—in less than three bickering each side has accused the other of following harmful practices for the state's business and industry.

A falling off in tax income from the 1958 recession year and heavy drains on welfare funds for unemployment-burdened Michigan cities have contributed to the financial dilemma.

With its general fund dwindling, Michigan faces millions of dollars in obligations for which no provision has been made.

The veterans fund has been held in trust since its creation after World War II to aid needy veterans. The liquidation plan would require the fund's ultimate restoration through new tax sources.

The Panchen Lama stood by the claim of the Chinese overlords that his holy colleague had been kidnaped.

European Stocks Winning Attention Swiss Bankers

Editors' Note:

What's the role of the Swiss banker in international finance? AP Business News Analyst Sam Dawson reports today from Geneva that Swiss financiers are losing interest in the U.S. stock market and buying European stocks. Dawson is touring Europe.

By SAM DAWSON
GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — In the fabulous world of high finance Swiss bankers today have an almost legendary aura akin to that of the Rothschilds in the Napoleonic era and the Medicis in the postrenaissance centuries. Their activities in the U.S. stock markets are watched as closely as the Swiss bank secrecy law permits. But today, Swiss bankers say, they are turning their attention from New York to the buying of European corporate shares. And Americans here also see a flow of U.S. private investment money into Europe, a flow they think will pick up speed.

Part of this is because prices of top U.S. stocks have soared so high. But the Swiss fear further inflation caused by the U.S. Treasury deficit and the continuing rise in wage scales (even during the recession). In this case, Swiss bankers say they'll buy U.S. stocks again as a hedge against the possible further weakening of the purchasing power of the dollar.

But as of now they think European stocks the better buy. They hold that a short time back these shares were underpriced and a bargain.

Two years ago they began buying West German stocks, liking the great industrial strides there and the marked financial stability.

A few months ago they began buying French and Italian shares. Both nations have been putting their finances in order. Both have been making notable industrial progress. And the De Gaulle regime has inspired confidence in French government stability.

A leading Swiss banker estimates that the French people have around one billion dollars worth of deposits in Swiss banks, invested in many forms. Much of this is now going into French stocks. And some of the French holdings here are now flowing back to France because of the French investors growing faith in his own government.

Along with the Swiss banks, Swiss investment companies (like our mutual funds) are getting a play here of late. They set up funds to buy shares in particular countries.

How did the Swiss get all this foreign money to invest? The Swiss have been international bankers for a long time. But it was in the 20's they got their big push. In the politically and financially turbulent days after World War I, investors regarded Switzerland as one of the few safe places for money.

The worldwide recession of the 30's and the trends toward fascism or socialism strengthened this feeling. Traditional Swiss neutrality made the land a haven for fugitive money during World War II.

The great inflationary surge after the war that undermined many currencies, and the shaky governments of some countries, sent still more money into Switzerland, where the currency was strong and stable. Switzerland became a world center for the exchange of currencies, and still is.

For a time it was rivaled only by the big U.S. banking system. Now the English financial market is coming back strong.

Another reason for banking and investment here is the law that gives depositors anonymity. For many Europeans this is a convenient and tempting cloak to hide them from their own tax collectors, either for income or inheritance levies. Tax evasion is a science in some nearby countries. The Swiss say they see no reason for giving up a good thing and don't intend to change their banking laws or investment ways despite American frowns. End ADV Mon April 27

Connie Nicholas Reports Looting

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Connie Nicholas, 45, free on appeal bond after being convicted of manslaughter, went back to police headquarters Tuesday with a complaint her apartment was looted while she was in jail.

The divorcee valued the missing clothing, liquor, glassware and furnishings at $1,500. She said the loot included 22 of her 25 pair of shoes.

Mrs. Nicholas also reclaimed a diamond ring, a billfold containing $5.85, her driver's license and credit cards. They had been held while she was in jail and in general hospital.

She was convicted April 16 in the death of her wealthy, married lover, Forrest Teel, last July 31.

Launches Filibuster To Trim Illinois Budget

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An Illinois lawmaker—Abraham Lincoln Stanfield—wants to cut the state budget. He is waving a double-bladed ax before members of the House of Representatives in a filibuster to emphasize his demands.

Stanfield, 47, a slender former farmer serving his second term, surprised House members Tuesday during routine business.

Holding aloft the big ax and demanding that all bills be read in full—a time-consuming procedure—the Republican representative told the legislators: "I want to cut the budget. And I've got the ax to do it."

Stanfield's maneuver was in protest against Gov. William G. Stratton's two-year budget, which has not been introduced in detailed form. It calls for increased spending of 296 million dollars in state and federal funds, Stratton, a Republican, asked for a half-cent sales tax hike for school aid and higher cigarette and liquor taxes. Stanfield's demand to have bills read in full was based on a constitutional clause that all measures be read "at large." By agreement, this provision usually is dispensed with.

Democratic House Speaker Paul Powell supported Stanfield's right to engage in the delaying tactics. However, he said he would keep the House in session for long hours, even at night, because of the full calendar of bills awaiting action. The House, with 91 Democrats and 86 Republicans, adjourned Tuesday without passing any bills.

Powell said Stanfield "will have to stay here and listen to the bills read at large." Stratton declined to comment on the filibuster by the representative from the small town of Kansas. Stanfield said he might keep up the filibuster another "week or two," adding: "The people deserve a tax cut and now is the time to get it."

"I expect the powers that be to come around to my way of thinking," he said. He added he hoped for popular support in letters to officials.

"The best economy bloc we can have is people at home writing letters," said Stanfield.

Holding up his ax, which he said he uses to chop wood on Sundays to keep it, he remarked: "I think it's time to chop down inflation."

Hawaii Expects Have A Surplus

HONOLULU (AP) — Gov. William F. Quinn says Hawaii's government will have a surplus of about nine million dollars more than expected for the current two-year period and the next.

He told a news conference Tuesday he hopes the Legislature will use the surplus for capital improvements and pay raises for government employees.

Fellowship Won By Miss Cole

Miss Doris Cole, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Edward G. Cole of Winterville, has been selected as winner of one of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation awards and will enter the graduate school of English at Duke University in September.

The award, announced by Furman University where Miss Cole is a Senior, provides $1,500 plus fees and tuition costs. Miss Cole is one of three Furman students selected for the awards, all of whom are among the top 12 in the Class of 1959 and who have been on the Furman Dean's List. A graduate of Winterville High School and Mars Hill Junior College, Miss Cole is attending Furman as a recipient of a merit scholarship from the Mary Mildred Sullivan Foundation. At Furman, she is a member of the mixed chorus, the choir of the First Baptist Church of Greenville, S. C., and the Hand and Torch, Furman's highest honor society. She is one of 19 Seniors who were accepted into Hand and Torch and honored by the university at a special convocation March 19.

Two South Carolinians Caught In N.C., Charged With Bank Robbery

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Two South Carolinians were arrested here Tuesday night by the FBI and charged with robbing the First National Bank of Sharon, S.C. of $6,376 earlier in the day. The men are James Hiram Fields Jr., 31, and Edward Campbell Walker, 44, both of Clover. Roy Moore, a special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, said none of the loot was recovered. The pair was nabbed at a drive-in restaurant.

The men withheld pleas in an appearance before U.S. Commissioner William C. Spencer at York, S.C. and a further hearing was scheduled for May 6. They were jailed at York in lieu of $25,000 bond. Fields is married and the father of three children. Until recently, he operated a grill in Clover, Moore said. Walker is married but separated.

Moore said the getaway car used in the robbery was not located. He described it as a light green, two-door, six-cylinder Ford bearing Florida license 43486. Two bandits apparently thought the bank in the little town of 365 would be an easy mark.

But before they left he bank police had been notified. And three persons fired at them as they fled. F. H. Youngblood, who operates a grocery store across from the bank, saw the robbery in progress. He notified police and then fired at the men with a shotgun as they fled.

He said he thought he hit one of them. Neither of the suspects arrested here was wounded. The bandits wore silk stockings over their heads and while one scooped money into a sack, the other taped the hands of bank President L. C. Bankhead and Mrs. Theola S. Smith, vice president and cashier. Exactly what information led to the arrest of the men was not disclosed. Moore said only that the arrests were due to the "splendid cooperation on the part of the York County sheriff's office, the Clover and York police departments, the highway patrols of North and South Carolina, and the Gaston and Mecklenburg County police departments." He also praised the alertness of Sharon citizens and said information supplied by them was of material benefit. The bank robbery was the fourth in South Carolina this year. No arrests have been made in the $7,000 hold up of a suburban branch of the First National Bank of South Carolina at Charleston in January. The robbery was staged by one man. Three young men were arrested soon after the $16,000 robbery of a small bank at Kershaw and all but about $700 of the loot was recovered. Five Negroes are being held in connection with the $7,000 robbery of a downtown Charleston bank in March.

Lollobrigida Shows No Inhibitions In Interview

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Viva Gina! The Lollobrigida doll has finally made it to Hollywood for a movie — "Never So Few" with Frank Sinatra and Peter Lawford. She has proved a delightful interview subject, speaking without inhibition about such matters as—

Brigitte Bardot: "I like her very much. I think she is very sexy. But I could not do what she does—appear in the nude. I have never done it and never will."

Italian taxes: "I pay. Oh, how I pay! I pay more than anyone else in the entertainment field. No, I do not pay happily. I would do so if I knew that everyone else paid what they should. But the industrialists—they pay only a fraction of what they really owe. No one criticizes them because they control the newspapers. One big publisher declared as tax the same amount he paid me to appear in a movie for him. How could that be?"

Sophia Loren: "I know the journalists have tried to work up a feud between us. It is not true. There is no feud."

Howard Hughes: "Howard Hughes!" The mention of that magic name is apt to evoke a spate of Italian invective, plus some American cuss words she claims she learned from Hughes himself.

The reason for Gina's ire is a contract which she signed with Hughes when she was virtually unknown in 1950.

"Not a contract, but an option," she explained. "It was enough to keep me from working in Hollywood. All the big studios were afraid to combat such a powerful man as Hughes. They wouldn't hire me. Even today, people here say to me, 'Gina, how can you work for MGM when you belong to Howard Hughes?' The option expired two years ago.

"He even tried to prevent producers in Europe from hiring me. But he could not scare THEM."

British Newspapers Attack Criticisms By Montgomery

LONDON (AP)—Britain's press filed a concerted blast at Field Marshal Montgomery today, declaring the blunt old soldier chose the worst possible moment to launch a TV attack on the quality of U.S. leadership.

The papers expressed fear Montgomery's derogatory remarks on the eve of the East-West foreign ministers' talks might have dealt a damaging blow to British-American unity.

In an hour-long film televised Tuesday night in America by the Columbia Broadcasting System, Montgomery said that American leadership of the free world is suspect and declared that Britain had come forward to supply the consistency needed by the Western Alliance.

The interview was shown on U.S. screens not long after Montgomery arrived in Moscow for a private visit which some British papers have condemned.

Montgomery, who filmed the interview before making his self-appointed mission to Moscow to examine what ails East-West relations, also fired a scatter shot at President Eisenhower, John Foster Dulles and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

These American leaders, the wartime hero asserted, are "people who are not very good," and added that this is "not good."

Commented the Tabloid Daily Sketch: "Monty is dead right when he says that soldiers should stay out of politics. If only he would take his own good advice."

The liberal News Chronicle said the references to the health of America's leaders were "couched in the worst possible way," and to add the taunt about Western leadership passing to Britain is like a small boy putting his thumb in his nose.

GLACIER STUDY

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—A German-Austrian glacier expedition headed by Munich geologist Hans Joachim Schneider is en route to the Himalayan Karakoram range in Pakistan on a research project. The range includes K2, the world's second highest peak, 27,500-ft.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, on the Missouri River was named that because for the bluff on which the town is located was once the site of Indian pow-wows.

Ekberg, Steel Divorce Hinted

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Often rumored on the rocks, the marriage of Anita Ekberg and Tony Steel may be heading for divorce court.

"The trouble, I think, is that these two simply have drifted apart," Simon Taub, Miss Ekberg's attorney, said Tuesday. He said nothing definite will be decided until the Swedish actress talks with her husband.

Steel did not go to the airport Tuesday to greet his wife, who just returned from a year's absence in Europe. The British actor said business had kept him from meeting the plane. They married in 1956 in Italy.

MORE LITERACY

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea reports it has taught more than 7 million how to read and write Korean in the past 13 years and the illiteracy rate now is down to 4 per cent. It was put at 78 per cent in 1945.

The Federation of Malaya's new ambassador to the United States, Datu Nik Ahmed Kamil, told President Eisenhower on presenting his credentials that "I am encouraged by... the human freedom and democracy in this country."

Canadian Rail Strike Cancelled

OTTAWA (AP)—A strike set for May 1 on the Canadian National Railways was called off Tuesday night after union leaders abandoned their key demand to retain firemen on modern, oil-fired diesels pulling freight and yard trains.

Under the new agreement, the firemen will not be dropped summarily. They will be removed gradually by promotion, retirement or death and replacements will not be hired. The process will take an estimated 15 years. The CNR also agreed to an eventual 9 1/2 per cent pay boost recommended by a conciliation board.

BIG DIFFERENCE

SO MUCH THE SAME IN PRICE... SO DIFFERENT ON THE ROAD... THAT'S PLYMOUTH!

BIG DIFFERENCE IN RIDE AND PERFORMANCE

Only Plymouth of the top-selling low-price cars offers you Torsion-Aire Ride... at no extra cost! And the 1959 Plymouth offers you the low-extra-cost New Golden Commando 395 engine... biggest V-8 in the low-price field.

BIG DIFFERENCE IN FEATURES

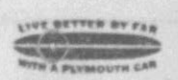

Here are listed just a few of the many values you find when you compare the Plymouth with the other 2 top-selling low-price cars.

East Carolina Wallops Guilford With Big 25-7 Win
Wrap Up Highly Successful Tour
Tarboro Defeats Phantoms By 5-0 Score

GUILFORD — East Carolina put the finishing touch on their first and most successful road trip of the season yesterday as they tore a highly-regarded Guilford nine to threads by a 25-7 score.
The Pirates scored seven runs in the second inning and went on to rout five Quaker pitchers for their largest victory in conference competition and an over-all mark of 10-3.

Spencer Gwyler got the big blow with a two-run triple.
The Pirates slammed out a total of 20 hits in the three hour affair which was threatened by rain all afternoon.
Gary Pierce fattened his already high batting average with four hits and Wally Cockerell, Jerry Carpenter, Jimmy Martin, and Hubert Castelow had three hits each. Glenn Bass broke out of a mild slump with three hits.

Ralph Terry was the busiest worker on the Kansas City Athletics' mound staff, working a total of 217 innings in 1958. His efforts reaped him a season's record of 11-13, and a 4.23 earned-run average. Not bad for a 23-year-old in his second full season in the majors. But not good enough to satisfy Ralph Terry.

Carolinas Open Tees Off Today

SHELBY, N.C. (AP)—Defending champion Furman Hayes, Gastonia pro, and a host of challengers were on hand today for the start of the 36th annual Carolinas Open Golf Tournament.
The 54-hole event, which runs through Friday, will be played over the 6,700-yard, par 72, Cleveland Country Club course. The pros will be trying for a share of $2,500 plus entry fees.

Added Stature For Don Jordan After Defense

NEW YORK (AP)—Gaining stature through his convincing 15-round title defense against Virgil Akins, welterweight champion Don Jordan is named "fighter of the month" by Ring magazine, whose monthly ratings were announced today.
The Los Angeles fighter's performance had been something less than impressive when he won the title from Akins, but in defending the crown he fought a stout uphill battle to convince the skeptical he deserved the championship.

No Big Favorite For Derby Sighted

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—It seems sure now that the 85th running of the Kentucky Derby Saturday isn't going to produce a heavy favorite among the bettors.
Three prime reasons show up today:
1. The eye-catching filly Silver Spoon definitely will run in the mile-and-a-quarter classic at Churchill Downs barring injury.

Fangless Tigers Inspiring Talk

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers are producing imaginative headlines and provoking lots of public comment, even if they are not winning any baseball games.
The Detroit Free Press, for example, bannered "Our Puddycats Lose No. 122, unless the Tigers dropped Sunday's contest to the Kansas City Athletics."
The Tigers, who have won only once in 13 starts were rained out Tuesday night against Baltimore.

Tarboro struck for five big runs in the sixth inning yesterday and went on to defeat Greenville 5-0 behind the three-hit pitching of James Owens.
It was the second straight loss by the Rose High club after opening the season with six consecutive wins in the conference.
Marvin Freuler sparked the Tarboro win with two hits, including a bases-loaded homer in the sixth frame. The visitors had loaded the sacks on a couple of walks and an infield single.

Table with columns: Major League Leaders, National League. Rows list batting leaders like Aaron, Milwaukee, 300; Bruto, Milwaukee, 385.

Aurey Harrison, a couple of consistent hitters, collected a pair of singles in the fourth inning but died on base.
Bynum tried to aid his own cause in the seventh with a double with one man on, but once again Owens was able to put out the fire and preserve the win over the Jay-leaders.
Owens went the distance for Tarboro, striking out ten. Bynum added six strikeouts to his total. Greenville moves over to New Bern tomorrow for another North-eastern tilt. They will be trying to snap their losing streak of two. Ronnie Finch is expected to toe the rubber for the Phantoms.

Chicod Wallops Bethel By 17-1

CHICOD — Coach Leroy Pittman's Chicod Hornets closed their regular season here yesterday by pouncing out a 17-1 victory over Bethel.
The Hornets cracked out 12 hits and got nine walks from three Bethel pitchers. Philip Smith led the attack with four hits in five trips to the plate and Clinton Vinters had two for four, but the big blows were struck by Raymond Pomes and Terry Dixon. Pomes had a triple with the bases loaded in the first inning, and Dixon had a double with the bases loaded in the third inning.
John Bailey was the winning pitcher, but he gave way in the fifth to Clinton Vinters who finished the game. Bethel got only three hits on them.
Chicod's record for the season is now 8-1, with a 6-1 record in Pitt County Conference play.

Brian Can Hit, And He Is Fast

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Does Britain's Brian London have any kind of a chance to take away Floyd Patterson's heavyweight title Friday night?

The odds makers (10 to 1) say no. The experts from Britain and the United States say no. But London's right hand booms out a yes.

We had our first look at the six-foot, 205-pound British husky in action Tuesday. We were surprised by his style and the speed of his punching, especially with right uppercuts and straight rights.

The former British champion is supposed to be a brawling, American-type brawler with little finesse. That's not what we saw, although you can't go by a two-round boxing workout.

London fights mostly from a stand-up, flat-footed stance. He does very little crouching. He doesn't bore in but he moves in swinging. He has a fair jab but unloads his rights to the jaw with more than average ability for a big man.

He is fully aware that Pete Rademacher and Roy Harris dumped the champion with rights to the head and hopes to do the same.

"I'm a good finisher," said Brian, "and if I get him down I think I can keep him there. But of course I'll have to nail him first."

The 24-year-old Blackpool native finished up his hard training in the two-round drill with Dusty Rhodes of New York. Rhodes, a one-time sparring partner for Patterson, did very little but offer a target.

London's punching impressed Al Weill, who guided Rocky Marciano to the world championships. "London is better than Don Cockell was when he fought Marciano (Marciano stopped Cockell in nine in 1955) and he's got a real good chance," said Weill.

"He must be a pretty good puncher to score 19 knockouts in 25 fights and I don't care what kind of guys he fought."

Patterson looked real sharp in his final three-round boxing practice, especially in the first round with Ike Thomas, another slow-moving human punching bag. The 6-foot, 182-pound champ stung Ike with left jab, jarred his head with two three's, and four punch combinations, and then dropped him with a left hook to the jaw.

Sees No Rivals To U.S. Cuppers

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Talbert, former U.S. Davis Cup captain, today said he believes Australia will not even reach the final round this year in its quest to regain the prize of world amateur tennis.

"I don't see anyone who'll beat an American team of Alex Olmedo and Butch Buchholz — not the Australians," Talbert said in the occasion of an exhibition of the Davis Cup here.

The U.S. regained the cup from the Aussies last December. "In fact," Talbert added, "I don't believe the Australians will even reach the final round against the United States. I think they'll reach the end of the line in mid-July when they meet Mexico in Mexico City."

Jimmy Foxx Again Broke, Out Of Job

By BOB WOOD

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Jimmy Foxx leaned back in a frayed chair and said, "I'm broke and guess I always will be. When you get 51 years old nobody wants you."

"There's nothing tougher than doing nothing. I've had a lot of experience recently at doing nothing."

It hasn't always been this way for famed "Double X." Once he drew a fat paycheck as one of baseball's greatest hitters — second only to Babe Ruth in total home runs.

He was the American League's most valuable player three times — in 1932 and 1933 with the Philadelphia Athletics and 1938 with the Boston Red Sox. He was named to the baseball Hall of Fame. He earned more than a quarter of a million dollars before stepping down in 1943.

The money and the headlines are gone. He lives in a modest rented home in northeast Phoenix. He is out of a job and out of money.

"If my brother Sam wasn't working, we wouldn't be eating," Foxx said.

Foxx's financial plight was discovered a year ago when he was found destitute and in debt in Miami.

He got a job with the Red Sox and spent the summer as a coach with Minneapolis of the American Assn. "Those pay days at least pulled me out of debt," he said.

Baseball Club's Value Is Soaring

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco Giants baseball club stock has soared to five times its value at the time the team moved here from New York 1½ years ago.

Phillip B. Cross, an official in a Los Angeles brokerage firm, reported that eight shares of Giants' stock sold Tuesday for $900 each. The stock was priced at $175 when the Giants moved here.

Only about 500 shares of a reported 11,751 total are available for public sale.

When Boston decided to train in Scottsdale, Ariz., Foxx headed for nearby Phoenix.

"One month after I arrived they gave me my release," he said. "That left me sitting on a limb. I knew only a few people here. I worked at a job or so. I've had a lot of promises but nothing has turned up."

"I call around almost every day for a job. Sure, I'd like to get in the scouting end of baseball or maybe radio work, but I'll work almost anywhere I'm able."

Foxx said doctors had warned him to bypass hard labor. "I've high blood pressure," he explained.

He spends his days around the house. Occasionally he hits a few fungos for the kids in the neighborhood and pushes a rusty power mower around the yard. With him are his wife, two of his three children — Nancy, 17, and Jim, 14 — and his brother Sam.

"I heard a man down at the service station say he might need a helper," he said. "I could pump some gas. A few dollars are better than nothing."

Clemson To Get 'One Man Gang'

ELKTON, Va. (AP) — Elmer Lam, the "one-man gang" who led Elkton High School's 13-man football squad to a 7-1 record last fall, has signed a letter of intent to attend Clemson College.

Lam, an 18-year-old senior, was directly involved in 24 of the 27 touchdowns Elkton scored. He scored 15 himself and passed for nine more. He also kicked 22 extra points.

When he graduates in June, he will have earned 16 varsity athletic letters at Elkton—four each in football, basketball, baseball and track. He averaged 15 points a game in basketball, is an all-around track ace and plays shortstop on the baseball team.

Lam is 18 and weighs 165. He earned all-state honors in football.

Standings Statistics Stress Unusual Year

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer If today's pennant race standings aren't enough to convince you that this is most unusual year in the American League, take a stab at naming the three pitchers in the league who have won as many as three games so far.

The AL has more aces than a pinocle deck—Billy Pierce, Dick Donovan, Herb Score, Cal McLish, Bob Turley, Whitey Ford, Frank Lary, Jim Bunning and Jack Harshman, to name a few. But the three who have won three are Washington's Pete Ramos and Russ Kemmerer and Kansas City's Bob Grim. Each is 3-1.

Ramos had a 14-18 record last season for the 14 place Senators. Kemmerer was 6-15. Grim had a 7-7 record split between the New York Yankees and seventh place A's.

Kemmerer, who at 28 became a full-time starting pitcher for the first time last season, put away his third in a row Tuesday night at Kansas City, beating the A's 3-3 with an eight-hitter while the Senators skipped past Boston and New York into fifth place.

It was the only game played in the majors. Rain and cold idled New York at Chicago, Boston at Cleveland and Baltimore at Detroit in the American and Chicago at Milwaukee, San Francisco at Philadelphia and St. Louis at Cincinnati in the National. Los Angeles and Pittsburgh weren't scheduled.

Kemmerer, a 200-pound, 6-3 right-hander, continued to get the support he missed last year from his mates, who collected 14 hits.

Last season, his second with Washington, Kemmerer was the victim in five shutouts, lost three others by one run and another three by two runs.

The Senators, now a half-game behind the fourth place A's, gave him a quick push to his second complete game performance, scoring three runs in the first. The first four men hit safely against Ray Herbert (1-1), with Roy Sievers singling home one run and Jim Lemon's double counting two.

They added three more in the sixth, two on Ron Samford's first major league homer, and chased Herbert. It was also only the fifth extra base hit in the majors for shortstop Samford, who had been at bat 113 times over four seasons.

Kemmerer, who doubled in Washington's last two runs in the eighth, didn't walk a man and struck out three.

Wake Forest, Maryland Appear Facing Showdown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wake Forest and Maryland appear to be headed for a showdown baseball clash Saturday for first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Deacons rode the six-hit pitching of Bob Plemmons to victory Tuesday, 8-2 over N.C. State, and a tie with Maryland for first place in the ACC. Each has won five conference games and dropped two.

Maryland, however, has the edge in all games played, with a 9-3 record compared with Wake Forest's 8-4.

Each has a conference game before Saturday's important contest, and Maryland also meets non-conference Georgetown today.

The conference games pit the Terps against North Carolina and Wake Forest against Virginia. Both games are scheduled Friday.

Victories by Wake Forest and Maryland, of course, would leave them deadlocked and set the stage for a first-place struggle.

In other games Tuesday, the pitchers were the story.

Jim Roller pitched a four-hitter as Clemson beat Georgia 2-1 in a non-conference game, and lefty Ben Hammett allowed only three hits as North Carolina edged Duke 2-1.

After Georgia's Curtis Wiggins doubled in the third inning, went to third on a ground out and scored on a wild pitch, Roller settled down and retired the next

Hopes To Move Up In Rankings

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Once-beaten Phil Moyer seeks to vault into the center of midweight title chase through his scheduled 10-round bout with Yama Bahama here tonight.

Moyer, 21, is the older brother of sixth-ranked welterweight Danny Moyer.

The fight will be televised nationally at 6 p.m. (ST) from the Portland Armory.

The veteran Bahama is favored

16 men to face him. The victory gave Roller a 2-1 record, and Clemson a 12-4 over all record.

Hammett won his fourth game against one loss in pitching the Tar Heels to victory. He faced only 30 batters, three over the minimum. He fanned eight and walked only one.

The Tar Heels now stand at 4-4 in the ACC and are 10-5 over all. Duke is 2-5 in the conference and 6-10 in all games.

For Wake Forest's Plemmons, the victory was his fifth against one loss. He struck out six and walked two. State scored twice in the first inning. From then on, Plemmons was in command, retiring 15 in order.

State now is 3-7 in the ACC and 6-8 in all games.

The Maryland-Georgetown game today is the only one involving an ACC team.

Three Harvard football players are on the Crimson baseball team. They are quarterback Charles Ravenel and halfbacks Chet Bourlis and Charles Leamy.

Impulse Won't Sway The First Space Pilot

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—America's first man into space is probably a cautious driver on the ground. He likely spans his children when they misbehave. He gets mad from time to time and may show it, but he can control his anger. That's part of the picture of the seven top U.S. space candidates reported today by the chief psychiatrist who examined them. Capt. George Ruff of the U.S. Air Force Wright Air Development Center.

Strike At NBC Continues Today

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike of 1,500 technicians against the National Broadcasting Co. continued today with no agreement in sight. The company Tuesday filed two suits totaling more than a million dollars against the National Assn. of Broadcast Employees and Technicians Union, charging that the union violated a no-strike clause in the contract. A $500,000 breach of contract suit was filed in U.S. District court here. A second suit against the union was filed by NBC in Los Angeles, asking $200,000 punitive damages and $100,000-a-day actual damages. The Los Angeles suit contended the contract was violated when 420 employees struck at Hollywood and Burbank, Calif., studios Monday. A court hearing was set for Monday on the network's petition for a court order banning picketing there. The union has called the stoppage a "lockout." It maintains the company ordered NABET members off the premises in New York after they refused to handle a video tape of a two-hour program made in Paris. The union claims the company used some French technicians in basic jobs in making the tape, thus violating a union agreement. NBC's radio and television networks were off the air from 7 to 9 a.m. Monday. Supervisory personnel then took over.

Fleming Assails Research Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming has labeled "clearly misleading" a House committee report that the administration is slashing important medical research in the interest of budget-balancing. The Democratic-controlled House Appropriations committee report Tuesday accused the administration of having gone so far as to attempt to present, on paper, a search program "in a desperate balanced budget." The committee recommended that the National Institutes of Health be given $344,279,000, or 50 million more than President Eisenhower asked for it. The committee said it was grossly foolish to cut back the institute's research particularly on cancer. Flemming said Eisenhower's request for 294 millions for this purpose is the same amount voted by Congress for the current fiscal year. Actually, he said, the House committee last year recommended 71 million dollars less. "It is hard to see how a 294 million-dollar proposal of this kind can be regarded as a backward step," Flemming's statement said.

Letha Irene Pride, a 12-year-old cow near Princeton, N.J., set a world's record by producing 1,733 pounds of butterfat as well as 3,810 pounds of milk in 365 days. That is about four times the average of the usual cow.

Dental Program Held In Schools

Programs of dental health education, tooth examinations and corrections of dental defects are being conducted in county and city schools by a dentist from the Oral Hygiene Division of the State Board of Health.

Dr. J.H. Barnhill is conducting the programs. He completed a week at Fleming Street School yesterday and will be at Bethel Union School until May 22. On May 25 he will begin a week of examinations at C.M. Eppes School, in Greenville, and will follow the examination period with three weeks of work on correction of dental defects.

The program of correction of dental defects, at Eppes School, will be by appointment for children previously examined in city schools.

At Fleming Street School last week, Dr. Barnhill reported that 553 children attended 12 lectures on oral hygiene. He also inspected 458 children's teeth, with 70 of them receiving treatment and cleaning. Dental operations included 20 treatments; 24 fillings, including 21 six-year molars (permanent teeth); and 136 extractions, including seven six-year molars.

Funds to finance Dr. Barnhill's visit are included in the budget of the Pitt County Health Department, as approved by the Board of Health and appropriated by the Board of County Commissioners and the Greenville City Council.

Extended Visit, But To No Avail

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Kaiser of St. Charles, Ill., extended their Denver visit an extra day for one reason: They hoped to get a glimpse of Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower while the nation's first lady was here visiting her mother, Mrs. Elvira Doud.

They were unsuccessful. However, Secret Service agents allowed Kaiser to photograph his wife on the steps in front of Mrs. Doud's home.

Baby-Sitter Had Extended Stay

WAUBEKA, Wis. (AP)—Franz Schubert's evening stint as a baby-sitter turned into a 36-hour job.

Franz, a high school student, was called by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Klas to care for their two small children on a Saturday night. During the evening, one of Wisconsin's big snowstorms struck and the home was isolated for 36 hours. Commented Franz later: "I've had it for diaper changes."

To the citizens of Greenville:

During the past six years it has been my privilege to serve you as a member of your city council, a privilege for which I am deeply grateful.

For the past two years I have had the opportunity to serve as Mayor of our city. During these years I have sought diligently and conscientiously to see that the affairs of the government of Greenville have been conducted in the best interest of all of our citizens.

I have sought to view objectively every matter which has come before the City Council. After careful study and considering well the best interest of all our citizens, I have taken a firm stand on each issue.

I have endeavored to see that our city government has operated efficiently and that the vital needs of our growing city and its citizens have been met with the least possible burden to its taxpayers.

If you elect me to the office of Mayor on May 5, it will continue to be my purpose to initiate and support those measures which will assure continued and orderly progress of our city.

Your vote and support will be appreciated.

Young Sculptor's Work Exhibited

ERNEST DUDLEY and woodcarving.

Ernest Dudley, son of Mrs. Mavis Dudley, 1806 East Fourth St., is one of the five artists who are exhibiting examples of their sculpture in the window of the local Eberwin-Williams paint store. The sculpture display was prepared by the East Carolina College "Sculpture Survey Class" taught by Professor Thomas E. Flowers. Dudley, a sophomore at ECC, has on Exhibit "Figurehead," a carving of a woman's head carved out of a solid piece of elm. It is the first wood carving the young man has ever done and represents over 30 hours of labor. "For this exhibit," Dudley said, "I first tried to do a marble bust, but I knocked the nose off twice and had to give up because I ran out of marble." Upon being asked about his proficiency as an artist, he smiled and said, "If you had noticed the back of the head you wouldn't bother to ask that question. There is a great big crack there. And that crack was caused by me using green wood instead of dry seasoned wood as I should have. The worst part of it is — I had already finished the head before the crack appeared!" The other exhibits include "Woman In the Air" carved out of cypress by Frosty Smith from Garland, "Rhythm" moulded out of plaster by Ann Wall, Madison, "Form" carved out of white marble by E. T. Rogers, Jamestown, and "Reclining Figure" moulded out of plaster and tinted with shoe polish by Sherrill Norman, Morehead City.

Okay Shrimping On Saturdays

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Board of Conservation has approved a compromise proposal to allow shrimping on Saturday's during season. The action came Tuesday as the board wound up its spring meeting. The board also: Endorsed legislation to appropriate $600,000 for the start of a program to preserve and stabilize the Outer Banks as a barrier against storms. Called for a study of the feasibility of renting or acquiring water-dropping airplanes for use in fighting forest fires. Decided to meet in Charlotte in October.

Titan Launching Effort Halted

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Trouble at the last second stopped the latest attempt to launch a powerful Titan ICBM. The big war rocket sputtered out on the launching pad Tuesday and ended an attempt to separate the two stages of the missile in flight. The missile appeared undamaged after a bright ball of orange flame shot from the base shortly after the countdown reached zero. It was the third time that the Titan's sequencer system had saved the 110-ton missile from destruction. The sequencer automatically signals engine cutoff when a malfunction develops.

Kay Starr Sheds Fourth Husband

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Kay Starr says that when she asked her husband where he had been, he would reply: "It was business — and none of your business." Miss Starr, 36, was granted a divorce Tuesday from George A. Mellen, 42, wealthy real estate operator and oil man from Mobile, Ala. She testified Mellen often had stayed away from home three or four nights without explanation.

Adopted a resolution in memory of the late Robert M. Hanes of Winston-Salem, a former board member. Voted against extending a lease granted in 1956 to Graham D. To Receive National Charter On Saturday

MISS HARRIET ICARD . . . to be crowned Crescent Girl.

The East Carolina College Colony of Lambda Chi Alpha will receive its charter as Iota-Upsilon Zeta this Saturday. The presentation of the charter will climax a year's work by the former Delta Sigma Rho Fraternity towards meeting the qualification of Lambda Chi Alpha.

The eventful weekend will begin when the delegates from chapters throughout the nation start registering Friday at 6:00 p.m. An informal smoker will follow in the Alumni Building.

Saturday morning initiation of new members will take place at Jarvis Memorial Church at 9:00. At 12:00 a luncheon will be held in the new cafeteria of the school and installation of the colony will follow. At 6:30 a formal banquet will be held in the new cafeteria and the official presentation of the charter will take place. Following the banquet a formal dance will be held. The weekend activities will end with the fraternity brothers attending church in a body Sunday morning.

The Lambda Chi's will be host to several distinguished guests at the installation. Ernest F. Tucker, attorney-at-law, from Atlanta, Ga., will be officer-in-charge. He is a graduate of Georgia Tech and past Grand High Epsilon. He will present the charter to the present colony. Tucker is president of Atlanta Alumni Association and has served as president of the Dixie-Peninsular Conclave. While an undergraduate at Georgia Tech, he was captain of the varsity band and served in all offices of the De Molay.

Dr. Lee F. Tuttle will be the banquet speaker. Dr. Tuttle is the present Grand High Gamma and a graduate of Duke University. As an undergraduate at Duke, Dr. Tuttle starred for three years as a varsity fullback. At the present Dr. Tuttle is superintendent of the Winston-Salem District of the Methodist Church with supervision over 168 churches and headquarters at Winston-Salem. George W. Spasyk is the Grand Charter's service secretary and will be the other national officer present. Spasyk will serve as administrative officer for the installation.

Lambda Chi Alpha was founded at Boston University, Boston, Mass. in 1909. Lambda Chi Alpha is represented by 152 chapters throughout the United States and Canada with an active membership of over 55,000. Other chapters in North Carolina are the University of N.C., N. C. State, Wake Forest College, Duke University and High Point College.

At the formal Banquet Saturday night Miss Harriet Icard of Evergreen, North Carolina and a graduate of East Carolina College will be crowned as the East Carolina Colonies Crescent girl. The Crescent Girl represents the fraternity throughout the coming year and will be eligible for the honor of International Crescent Girl.

Trapped Hound Is Finally Fed

OWASSO, Okla. (AP) — Human contact was made for the first time in six days early today with Little Richard, the coon-chasing hound wedged in a stone crevice six miles from here.

Don Dillard, a tiny Owasso High School senior, fed the nearly starved dog hamburger meat, canned dog food and a tranquilizer provided by a veterinarian.

"He seemed real happy that somebody finally got to him," said the excited 4-foot, 7-inch, 87-pound boy. "I could pet him and he just guiped at the food."

Dr. James H. Collins, Tulsa veterinarian, said he believed the dog now can be kept alive indefinitely.

Little Richard became trapped when he chased a coon into the sandstone bluff. He remained six days in an upright position in the base of the narrow crevice. Some six feet above is a wider opening through which the rescuers hope to lift him.

Scores of volunteers used air hammers, rotary drills, and dynamite to provide an opening wide enough to reach the 60-pound dog.

Larry Wilson, part owner of an Owasso funeral home and owner of Little Richard, had an ambulance standing ready to whisk his pet to an animal hospital in Tulsa, 20 miles southeast.

Monty Starting Kremlin Talks

MOSCOW (AP) — Field Marshal Montgomery today began his round of talks with Soviet leaders, meeting Premier Khrushchev first.

"I have nothing to say," the British World War II hero told newsmen as he set out to keep his appointment with Khrushchev.

Montgomery seems bound to get a warm reception here but his arrival Tuesday night did not create much excitement. Moscow's two leading newspapers — Pravda and Izvestia — devoted only two inches to the story.

Bob Jones University's film production unit is housed in wing of Rodeheaver Auditorium, which in addition to its 3,000-capacity theater-type hall, contains radio and TV studios, offices and classrooms.

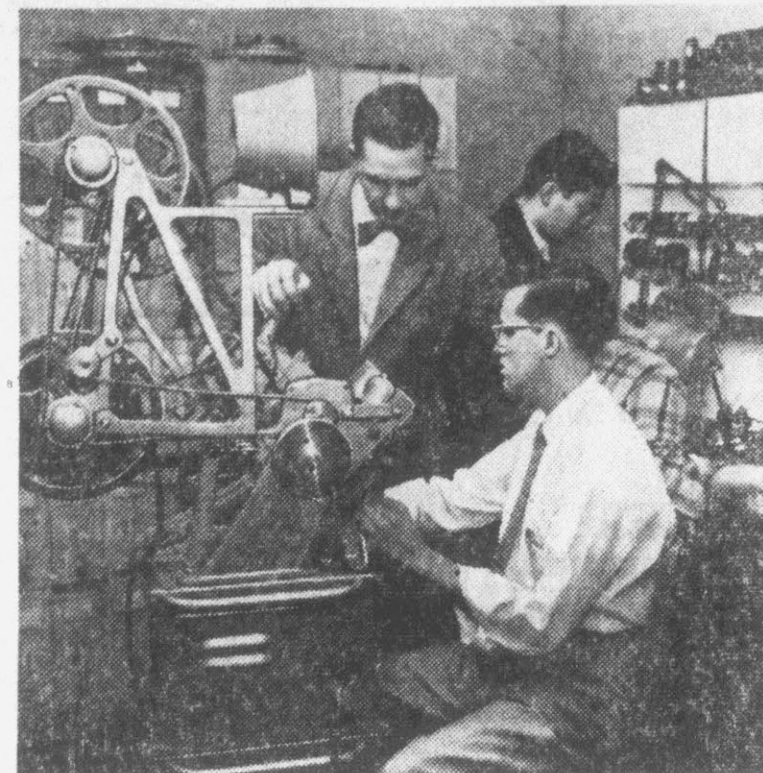

A thriving motion picture industry has gone collegiate—on the campus of Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C.

Each year, students there turn out a number of documentary films and shorts, religious in character, since Bob Jones U. stresses religious education along with the arts and sciences. Many of the films are distributed throughout the world. Some have won top awards.

The films are made in a modern studio centering in a huge sound stage, complete with professional cranes and multi-directional dollies, cameras, arc and incandescent lights and microphone perambulators. Near the sound stage are elaborate studios for make-up and hair styling, wardrobe, film editing and cutting, set and costume design, scene drafting and construction.

When extras are needed for one of their huge productions, other students are called in. Some 800 of them took part in the school's award-winning "Wine of Morning," a Bible play, which involved 35 sound stage sets, and called for a cast of 75 speaking parts.

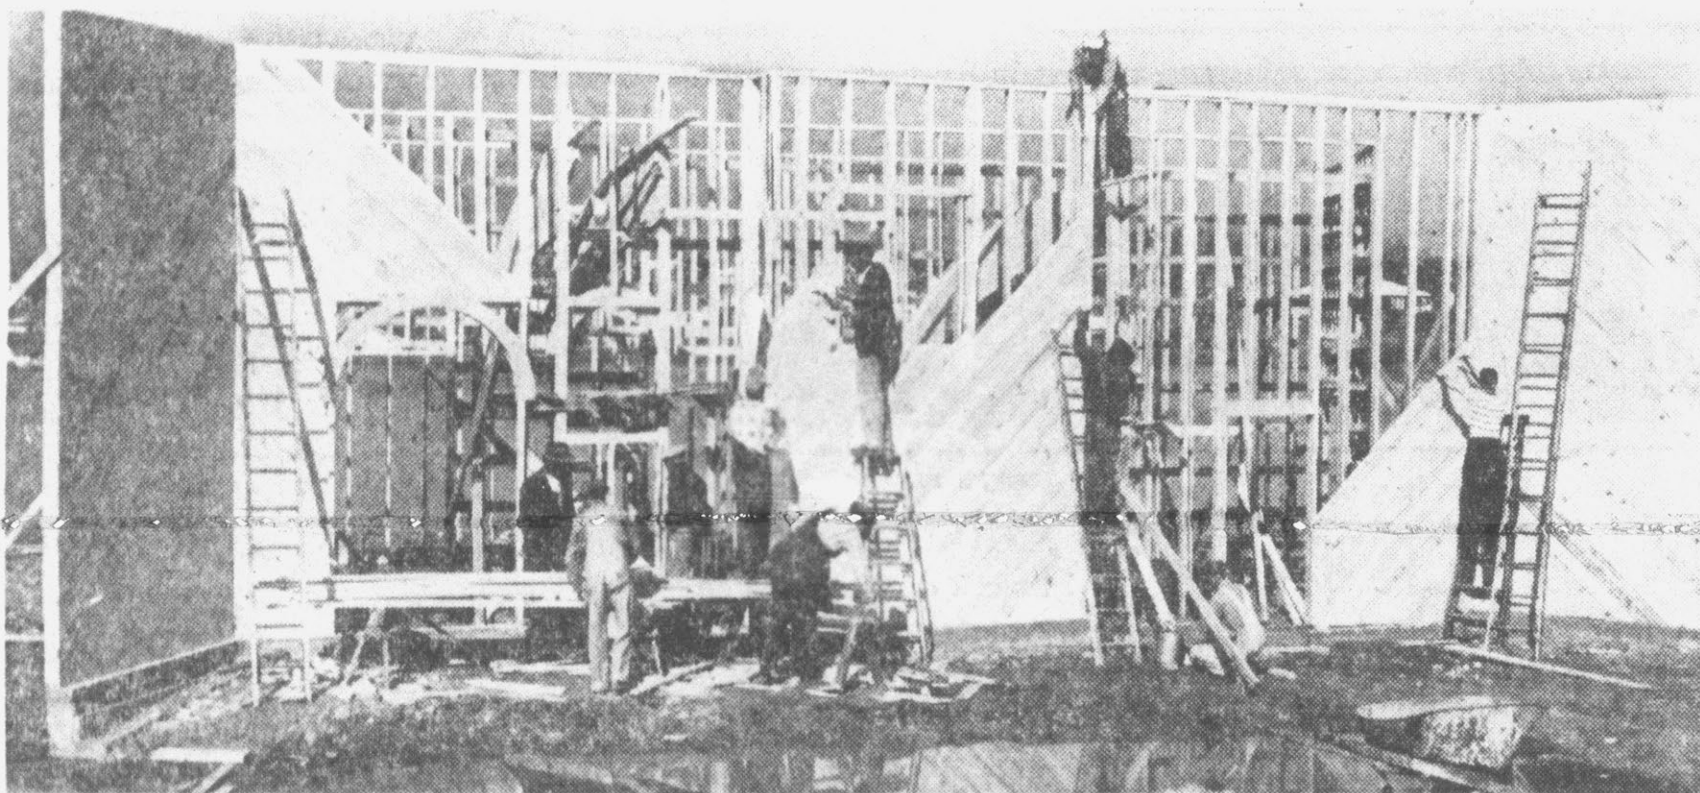

The movie-making activities at Bob Jones University are pictured here.

Classes in make-up for motion pictures are supervised by Miss Alice Cromley, right. Students practice "straight" and "character" make-up on each other.

Staff members and students work with crew of carpenters in building huge location set on campus for "Wine of Morning."

Most costumes are made by the students. They're used in film plays as well as stage plays and operas put on by the school.

REV. OLSON HODGES (above), missionary to Japan, will be guest speaker during a weekend Missionary Revival beginning Thursday night at 8:00 o'clock at Calvary Baptist Church. Rev. Hodges has served eight years in the mission field and will soon return for another four-year term. Rev. Jack W. Finch, pastor of the Greenville church, extends an invitation to the public to attend these services.

Camporee Plans Near Completion

Arrangements for the 1959 Council Camporee to be held on the campus of North Carolina Wesleyan College just north of Rocky Mount, are nearing completion, according to Boy Scout officials.

Patrol sites have been stalked out, poles for lighting set, water systems installed, and bridges across drainage ditches completed.

K.D. Kennedy of Wilson, Camporee Chief, stated approximately 3,500 scouts and leaders are expected to attend.

The camporee will be held from Friday Noon to Sunday morning, after Church services.

In addition to Kennedy, other top camporee officials are as follows: LaVern Strickland, Battleboro, Chairman of the Arrangements Committee; Bill Draper, of Rock Mount, Chief Judge; Joe Hanchrow of Wilson, Chief Score; James Mallory of Greenville, Events Director; Erskine Duff of Greenville, Walter Cox of Kinston, Tom Fitzgerald of Wilson, and Randolph Griffin of Rocky Mount, Area Chiefs.

Unexpected Support Is Voiced For N. C. Minimum Wage Bill

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — A variety store merchant and a laundry operator have risen to champion the 75-cent minimum wage in North Carolina — despite the strong opposition expressed by their two groups.

These two men — J. B. Long of Burlington and Bruce Dalton of Lenoir County — voiced their defense Tuesday of the underpaid before a Senate committee on manufacturing and labor. The committee gave the bill a favorable report with only one dissenting vote.

Significant in their comments was the exception these men took to at least two basic arguments used by opponents of minimum wage. The arguments: (1) that a 75-cent minimum wage will discourage new business and industry from locating in the state, and (2) that it will drive some enterprises out of business and lead to unemployment.

Long, Alamance County Commissioner and merchant, attacked the first argument which he termed "deceptive, misleading and false propaganda."

"Those people aren't coming in here to pay low wages, they are coming because we have good and willing workers," he maintained.

He pointed out further that virtually any out-of-state industry that locates here ships its products out of the state, "and as soon as it does that it has to pay the federal minimum wage of $1 and possibly $1.25 an hour."

80-cent minimum).
"Quality increased so much that our laundry and dry cleaning has doubled," he said. "And our insurance rate paid out for unemployment has dropped to seven-tenths of one per cent."

Frank Crane, N.C. Commissioner of Labor, estimates that the minimum-wage legislation would effect at least 55,000 retail and service industry workers by an average of 15 cents an hour — amounting to about $6 a week or $300 a year for each.

Figures reveal that 79,100 workers are making less than 75 cents an hour; 4,000 less than 70 cents; 11,000 less than 65 cents; 37,800 less than 60 cents and 25,300 less than 55 cents.

The great bulk of these low-paid workers are found in general merchandise department, variety, grocery and drug stores and in laundries and dry cleaning plants, restaurants, beauty parlors, hotels, theaters and filling stations.

He estimates that the additional income for at least 55,000 workers at the bottom of the economic ladder would produce in a year an added purchasing power of $16,500,000.

Recognition Service Is Held By Baptist Church

The Winterville Baptist Church held its first Recognition Service for Royal Ambassadors Sunday night. Heretofore, the recognition of the boys had been combined with Coronation Services for members of Girls' Auxiliary.

The program was opened with Flag Ceremony. The flags used were the United States, Christian, and Royal Ambassador. Smaller flags of different nations were displayed throughout the service.

The members, who had advanced in rank during the past year, were recognized throughout the service.

The members, who had advanced in rank during the past year, were recognized according to the rank they had attained and were presented pins denoting the rank.

The boys receiving special recognition were Eddie Worthington, Page; Joe Carroll, Edward Dall, David Mobley, Abbott Hunsucker, Charles Worthington, Squires; Ted Cox was dubbed as a Knight and was presented the sword which can only be received by a boy who has met certain requirements.

The service was conducted entirely by former Royal Ambassadors.

Members included Ronnie Cox, Lee Worthington who had charge of the devotion; Richard Hunsucker, John Weathering, J. Alton Hill, Flag Bearers; Mack Worthington, Moya Waters who questioned, charged, and presented awards; Bobby Hobgood, Alfred Gold, James Forrest, ushers; Michael MacLawnorn, Steve Worthington, presided at the door; Thomas MacLawnorn served as pianist, and Boyce Cox presided during the entire service.

Larry Stox, Royal Ambassador Counselor of the South Roanoke Association, led in the prayer of dedication.

Following the special service, E. G. Cole, pastor, spoke of the importance of Royal Ambassadors for the boy and for the church.

The meeting was closed by a prayer by John Moore, Associational Missionary.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hill are Counselors for the Royal Ambassador Chapter. The organization is sponsored by the Brotherhood of the church.

SUNDAY A WORKDAY

Tar Heels Begin European Tour

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Forty-eight members of the Charlotte, N.C., Chamber of Commerce arrived today on a 16-day goodwill tour through six European countries.

It was the third stop for the group, which has visited Paris and Zurich, Switzerland.

Albert G. DeLoach, Chamber of Commerce man, said he carried a personal letter of introduction from North Carolina Gov. Luther H. Hodges to Frankfurt Mayor Fritz Bockelmann.

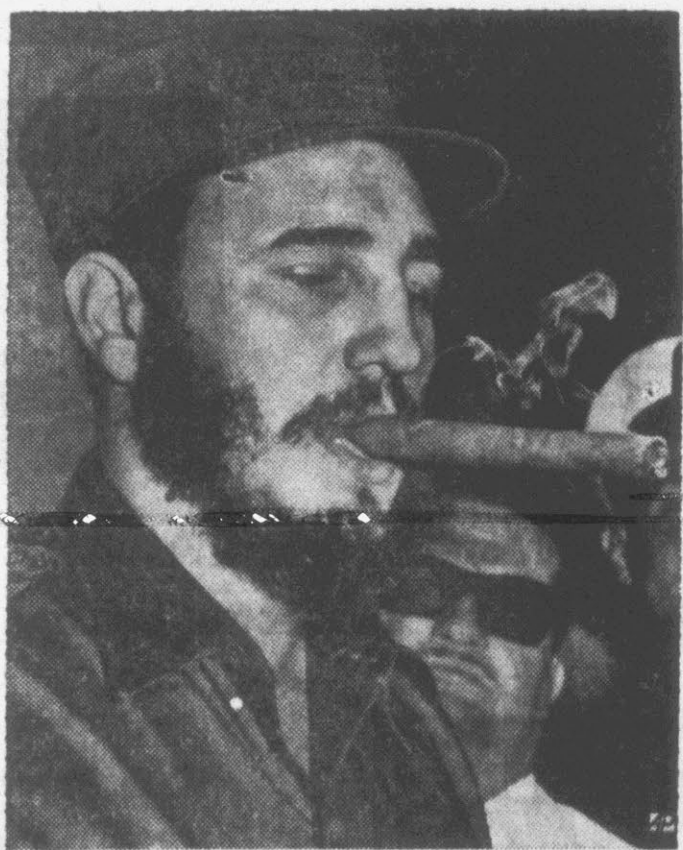

Bechtold said the tour was one of many goodwill trips members of the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce undertake annually. "Previously we only visited other cities in the United States," he said.

"Then, when we came back from our last trip, I said, 'Let's go to Europe next.' The idea caught on and we began developing interest in it."

After a brief tour of Frankfurt, including a visit to the Hoechst Farben chemical plant nearby and a reception by the local Chamber of Commerce, the visitors dined at the ancient city hall's Kaisersaal—the Hall where German emperors held receptions centuries ago.

Thursday the group will fly to Allied-occupied West Berlin and also will tour the Communist-run part of the city.

From Berlin they fly to Dusseldorf, in the heart of the Ruhr industrial area, pay a visit to Bonn, the West German capital, and then fly on to Brussels, Amsterdam and London. They return home May 10.

Relief Rolls Are Generally Holding Steady Over Nation

By CONRAD FINK
Associated Press Writer

State and county relief rolls, long a barometer for general economic conditions, are generally holding steady throughout the nation.

An Associated Press survey indicates that with a few exceptions there have been no large increases or decreases in recent months in the number of persons depending upon welfare agencies for existence.

Kentucky, with its chronic coal field unemployment, is an exception. Louisville alone dropped 3,600 families from relief rolls in April because funds ran out.

Michigan, a state with big financial as well as unemployment problems, shows signs of having difficulty meeting welfare obligations.

Detroit, with 16,000 families on relief and an annual welfare budget of eight million dollars, is paying out about $250,000 a month in relief and debating new taxation to make an additional $1,200,000 available annually. Helen Smith, welfare director of rural Antrim County, 200 miles northwest of Detroit, characterizes the effort to reduce welfare rolls.

She advised relief recipients: All able bodied persons will be dropped; drinkers are barred. Every family is expected to grow a vegetable garden to supplement relief.

Relief applications in the District of Columbia increased more than predicted this year—23,856 individuals applied. The estimate was 20,504.

Welfare officials cut payments 15 per cent and requested additional funds to add to the relief appropriation of $5,698,902. The 1958 appropriation was $4,357,902.

Texas with 191,500 unemployed in February reported no large change in relief rolls. However, more persons are receiving surplus commodities this year than last—143,283 in March 1959, as compared to 111,283 in March 1958.

Colleges Share $306,350 Melon

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—A $306,350 melon was shared here Tuesday by the North Carolina Foundation of Church Related Colleges.

Twenty-six colleges shared in the money, collected last year by the foundation. The money was contributed by about 200 business firms in the state. Sixty per cent of the money is divided equally and 40 per cent on the basis of enrollment. The foundation has collected $835,605 in the six years it has existed.

The foundation also re-elected Richard G. Stockton of Winston-Salem to his third term as president.

The schools which shared in the money and the amount they received:

Atlantic Christian, $15,731; Belmont Abbey, $11,160; Brevard, $9,697; Campbell, $13,603; Catawba, $13,358; Chowan, $10,290; Flora Macdonald, $9,784; Gardner-Webb, $10,756; Greensboro, $10,788; Guilford, $16,775; High Point, $15,027; Lees-McRae, $9,705; Lenoir Rhyne, $14,639; Louisburg, $10,227; Mars Hill, $14,576; Meredith, $12,362; Montreat, $8,511; Peace, $8,993; Pfeiffer, $12,140; Presbyterian, $8,645; Salem, $10,495; St. Marys, $9,009; Warren Wilson, $8,938; Winkate, $12,994.

Dr. Herskovits To Finish ECC Danforth Series

With the noted anthropologist Dr. Melville J. Herskovits as speaker, the final program of the 1958-1959 Danforth Lecture Series at East Carolina College will be presented tonight at 8 p.m. in the Joyner Memorial Library. The public is invited to attend.

Through arrangements made by Dr. George A. Douglas of the social studies department, director of the Danforth Foundation Project at East Carolina, six lectures by noted authorities in their fields have been presented during the present school year at the college. The general theme is "Creativity and Productivity in an Age of Tensions and Stereotypes."

Dr. Herskovits will discuss the topic "A Cross-Cultural View of Bias and Stereotypes." For a number of years he has been connected with Northwestern University, where he now holds the position of Director of African Studies. As an anthropologist, he is considered an authority on Sub-Saharan Africa. Extensive research has included field trips made by him to Dutch Guinea, West Africa, Haiti, Trinidad, Brazil, and other places.

His published works include "The Myth of the Negro Past," "The American Negro, A Study of Racial Crossings," "Rebel Destiny Among the Bush Negroes of Dutch Guinea," "The Economic Life of Primitive People" and studies of economic and cultural anthropology.

Americans Die In Crash Abroad

CHATEAUROUX, France (AP)—Six Americans were killed today in the collision of a truck and automobile near here.

The Americans were from the U.S. air station at Chateauroux. They included a man and wife, two daughters and a son, and a woman from another family.

Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of kin.

The civil defense forces in Sweden will soon have nearly 200,000 fully trained men.

Locust Brood Is Due In South During Spring

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today one of the more important broods of locusts is due to appear in some Southern states this spring.

It is a brood that appears every 13 years. There are 30 known broods, and they overlap somewhat.

In the past insects of this brood have appeared in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Western Kentucky, northern Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and southeastern Virginia.

The department said fruit growers and home owners where the insects are expected to emerge in abundance may need to protect their young trees by covering them with cloth or by applying an insecticide at the time egg-laying begins.

British Plane's Wreckage Seen

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A wrecked plane spotted today on a bleak mountaintop in southeast Turkey was identified tentatively as a British air freighter missing with secret parts for Britain's rocket range in Australia.

It had been feared that the plane had come down in the southern Soviet Union.

There was no immediate word of any survivors. Twelve men were aboard the aircraft, which disappeared last Thursday.

RAF headquarters in Nicosia said the evidence was fairly conclusive that the wreckage was from the missing Avro Tudor. A ground party was to be dispatched to the site.

Islanders Enjoy Tourists' Boom

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Tourists have been pouring money into the Bahamas, Bermuda and the Virgin Islands.

In their latest periodic reports to the U.N. on their possessions, say that:

In the British Bahamas, the number of visitors jumped from 30,688 to 195,000 a year between 1947 and 1957. The building of hotels, apartment houses and homes boomed.

Visitors to Bermuda increased from 94,000 to 120,000 a year, and the annual income from tourists, not counting rents, ran to $22,400,000.

In the American Virgin Islands, 120,000 tourists spent 13 million dollars in 1957 on St. Thomas alone, where only 36,000 had spent only 2 million in 1949. During the 1956-57 season, 48 cruise ships called at St. Thomas, as compared with 20 in 1953.

The Bahamas, Bermuda and the Virgin Islands all make more money from their tourist business than from anything else.

New Statistics Back Up Men's Driving Claims

CHARLOTTE — Men, you won't have to hide your head the next time a woman smugly quotes statistics proving females are superior drivers. The Commerce Department has just issued a set of statistics for you.

Released today by the Carolina Motor Club, the figures show that men are safer behind the wheel after all. The startling news was contained in a special Bureau of Public Roads study covering 290,000 drivers and 10,000 accidents in 11 states.

The AAA club quoted the survey as showing women with an 18 percent higher day time rate of involvement in traffic mishaps than that for men. At night, the club said, the women's record was even poorer — 38 percent higher than for males.

"This disclosure puts the Commerce Department in the position of exploding a fallacy on top of a fallacy," said the AAA club. "One of the commonplaces of contemporary motoring opinion has been that, despite the fact that most men claim to be better drivers than women, actually statistics put the ladies on top. The latest figures compiled after months of study by the Commerce Department's Bureau of Public Roads clearly shows that the men have been correct in their somewhat smug claims from the beginning."

"What does all this prove?" asks the motor club. "First, the ladies had better brush up on their driving. And second, they had better not quote the usual statistics, the next time a man mutters under his breath about 'one of those women drivers.' They're out of date."

'Backbone' Of The Jury System

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Middle-aged women are becoming the backbone of the jury system in Peoria.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Addy, chief clerk of the Peoria County Jury Commission, says women whose children are grown make the most "stable" selections.

"Men seldom can afford to make the financial sacrifice at $7.50 a day. Younger women with children cannot give the time, she says."

Embarrassed By The Reverse Side

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Miss Corinne Geetersloh, Gov. Abraham Ribicoff's receptionist, was attracting special smiles and chuckles one morning recently.

A little checking disclosed the reason — her desk nameplate had been reversed. The back of it carried the phrase: "Give them what they want."

Baygel, the insurance agent, got the biggest shock of his life when the prospect finally came through!

But he even got a bigger one when the insurance doctor got into the act!

I GOT IT! I GOT IT! A POLICY FOR $200,000 ON J.P. BULGEBOTTOM! TWO YEARS I WORKED ON THIS GUY!

CONGRATS, BANG! THE COMMISSIONER PUT YOU ON EASY STREET FOR LIFE!

OKAY HIM?! ARE YOU NUTS?! HE'S PRACTICALLY A WALKING CORPSE! YOU CAN FORGET ABOUT INSURING HIM! HE'S THE WORST RISK I EVER EXAMINED!

Thanks to FRANK ARNOLD, WINTER HILL, MASS.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market settled back into its second straight day of moderate decline early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

While most losses of key stocks were fractional, some stretched to 2 points or so.

W.S. Steel was down about 2 points despite Tuesday's report that first quarter earnings were 70 per cent above the like quarter a year ago. Lukens dropped more than a point. Wheeling spurted ahead about a point on news of higher earnings.

Zenith temporarily erased Tuesday's 6 1/2 point loss then settled back to a net decline of about 4.

International Business Machines was off about a point.

Texas Instruments dropped about 6 points and U.S. Gypsum about 3.

Sperry Rand was up about a point. Apparently on favorable Wall Street comment.

General Tire dropped more than a point following Tuesday's gain of 7 1/2. Merck was up more than a point.

U.S. government bonds were unchanged to slightly lower.

Warns Public Fed Up With Soaring Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—An industrialist said today that American consumers are fed up with rising prices and more and more are buying cheaper foreign products.

"Unless labor and management curb the wage-price spiral, the consumer will do the job in a manner painful to both employers and working men," Herman W. Steinkraus cautioned in an address prepared for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

"If we are to meet the challenge of foreign competition we will need domestic prices which make such foreign competition less attractive," said Steinkraus, board chairman of Bridgeport (Conn.) Brass Co. and a former president of the U.S. Chamber.

"To make these lower prices we will certainly have to stop not only this upward spiral of wage increases and greater fringe benefits but will have to get greater productivity from all of our people on our payrolls."

"Otherwise we will lose the business and there will be a new spiral. It will be a spiral of statistics of growing unemployment."

Steinkraus told the businessmen the impact of foreign competition has only begun to be felt. "We are in for serious trouble," he said.

The opposite view was voiced at another chamber session by Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.) who noted it has "become fashionable to talk about the United States pricing itself out of world markets."

"To be sure, we are facing increased competition in world markets," he said. "But this is a welcome sign of renewed economic vigor in Western Europe and elsewhere which we worked so hard to promote."

Boggs cautioned the chamber against being stampeded by the hotter competition into a protectionist policy.

Bank Official Sentenced; Judge Adds His Apologies

COLUMBIA (AP)— Former bank official John Wesley Streater was sentenced to six years in prison today for embezzling more than half a million dollars.

Streater was a vice president of the South Carolina National Bank in charge of its Cheraw branch.

The bank submitted a long prepared statement protesting comments by Federal District Judge Ashton H. Williams, Monday, when Streater pleaded guilty, that he was not surprised at embezzlement if banks "pay so little" as Streater was paid.

The judge said then if Streater had embezzled only a small amount he would be inclined to go easy. He delayed sentencing until today.

The judge, after the bank statement was read, apologized to the bank and the prosecutors for not taking into consideration both sides of the situation before making his statement.

The bank's prepared statement said the bank was "shocked" at Williams' statement.

"We were amazed that you felt we were responsible" because of pay levels.

"The things which I said in court Monday," Williams said, "I feel I was wrong and I want to apologize."

"We feel we were done a very grave injustice," the bank stated.

In sentencing Streater, Williams said, "Regardless of the amount of money you were paid, it gave you no right to steal. You averaged about $25,000 a year in thefts and this was wrong."

"I am sorry this matter has come up. However, what you did was wrong."

Probation Officer Roy Graham got up in court and said that in discussions with the judge on a sentence, at no time had a probationary sentence been considered, but only a jail sentence, within the limits of three to 10 years.

Williams, noting newspaper criticism of his Monday remarks, said the papers were well within their rights in making such criticisms.

"Do all banks pay so little?" Judge Williams asked when he learned the size of Streater's pay in his Cheraw post.

Testimony was that Streater received $100 monthly when he joined the bank, that his pay has averaged $4,700 a year and that he was paid $7,200 annually the past two years.

Paying a low salary to a ranking bank official is "only inviting theft," said Judge Williams after accepting Streater's guilty plea Monday.

Streater was convicted of embezzling $531,000 over 25 years of his employment with the bank.

Witnesses' Gathering Told Time Near For Setting Up Paradise

"Righteous mankind can look forward to endless life in a paradise earth," Lyle E. Reusch, Watchtower representative, told 150 delegates attending their three-day convention in Wilson, N.C., today.

A feature of the assembly was a baptism of the new ministers Saturday afternoon when 38 were baptized. Those from Greenville were Larry Harris, Deldra Harris, and Marvin Wynne.

Williams Manning, presiding minister of the local congregation, reported that the more than 50 who were in attendance from here were told by the speaker that this "paradise" system will be the "advent of God's Kingdom, which will break in pieces and consume all the kingdoms of the world."

Delegates were encouraged to put into practice things learned from the convention to assist them in their local ministry.

A feature of the assembly was a baptism of the new ministers Saturday afternoon when 38 were baptized. Those from Greenville were Larry Harris, Deldra Harris, and Marvin Wynne.

New Gymtorium, Annex Are Dedicated At School

WINTERVILLE (AP)—Dedicated to Our Youth, the Hope of Our Country, was the theme of the dedication service conducted at Robinson Union School in Winterville. The occasion marked the presentation of the new gymtorium and annex by Vernon Cox to the Pitt County School Superintendent D. H. Conley.

In accepting the building Conley reviewed the inadequate facilities from the time of W. H. Robinson to the present. He expressed the edifice as being built to build better and higher standards, and urged that pride be taken in the building. He bade God speed in every effort.

Dr. Nelson H. Harris, director of Division of Education at Shaw University in Raleigh, delivered the dedication address. He emphasized that the occasion was not a dedication to the community, but to the whole country.

Present Case For Air Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cesar Cone, Greensboro, N.C., textile manufacturer, told the Civil Aeronautics Board here Tuesday that the Greensboro - High Point and Raleigh - Durham, N.C., airports need expanded air service.

He declared that the two airports have not received additional directional air service, or service in new directions, since 1946.

However, he said four other cities in the route pattern of Piedmont Aviation, Inc. have benefited from the hearing for scheduled air service: Wilson - Greenville said the nearest airport is Raleigh-Durham, 60 miles away, and that this causes hardship to business firms and handicaps area development.

The CAB is conducting hearings looking to improved local air service in the Piedmont area. Cone declared that Piedmont's requests for additional service do not do justice to Greensboro-High Point. "A much better schedule pattern is proposed for Winston-Salem," he said.

Russian Bloc Gives Terms For Geneva

WARSAW (AP)—The Soviet Union and her Communist allies today announced their expected full agreement on the Soviet platform for the Geneva conference.

They rejected in advance expected Western proposals of a package settlement embracing West Berlin, German reunification and a European security system.

Foreign ministers of the Warsaw Pact powers and the deputy minister of Communist China ended a two-day parley on the East-West foreign ministers' meeting next month with a communique declaring:

1. Reunification of Germany must be "solved by Germans themselves with no interference from outside."
2. A peace treaty with Germany or settlement of West Berlin's future must not be made dependent on solution of the European security problem.
3. Poland and Czechoslovakia must be accepted as full participants in the Geneva conference and the summit meeting expected to follow next summer.
4. West Berlin should be made a demilitarized "free city" guaranteed by the big powers and the United Nations; the peace treaty proposed by the Soviets for Germany should be approved at once.

The Warsaw conference, dominated by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, claimed it was contributed toward a tranquil road to the summit. It appealed to the West.

Discover Two Break-Ins Here

Patrolling officers discovered two breaking and enterings at 14th and Charles Sts. about 2:55 this morning.

Several cartons of cigarettes and some small change were taken, investigators said.

The stations were operated by Hillard Woolard and J. D. Squires. The Squires station was entered about three weeks ago in the same manner, and a small quantity of cigarettes and change were taken. Detectives said investigation is continuing.

FLORENCE-MAYO NUWAY COMPANY
MANUFACTURERS OF

Oil and Gas Tobacco Curers
FARMVILLE, N. C.
TELEPHONE 3165

Dear Tobacco Farmer:

We are pleased to furnish you the following information on Florence-Mayo Tobacco Curers.

First we want to say that we do not own an interest in any Fuel Company or Supplier of fuel for tobacco curers. Our business is manufacturing Oil, L.P. (Propane) and Natural Gas Tobacco Curers. Our oil and gas curers are used from Florida to Virginia and in Canada our L.P. (Propane) and Natural Gas Curers are used.

Below we give the fuel consumption for each fuel supplied to us from users of our curers in the United States and Canada. The Canadian 22'x24' barn (equivalent to 2—16x16 barns) with 6 rooms that holds 1250 sticks of tobacco the fuel cost per curing is as follows:

L. P. Propane Gas @ 17c (U.S. Gal.)	$58.00 per barn
Natural Gas	$34.00 per barn
Jet Type Oil Curer Using No. 2 Oil	32.00 per barn

At this time we do not have curing cost with Natural Gas in the United States. We find that the average 16'x16' barn in the Carolinas using L.P. Gas @ 17c per gallon will cost $30.00 per barn, and we are of the opinion the Natural gas will cost $18.00 per 16x16 barn and the Florence-Mayo Jet Type Oil Curer will cost $12 to $15 per 16x16 barn. The amount of fuel used will vary according to the conditions of the barn, weather conditions, size of barn, amount of tobacco being cured per barn and an automatic roof ventilator and a thrifty operator can save some fuel.

Select the fuel you want to use that is available and the Florence-Mayo curer that you like best.

All of our Open Flame Oil and Gas Curers will kill out 12 to 24 hours quicker at a lower temperature and you will get more weight than with a stack or flue type curer.

We want to take this opportunity to invite you to visit our factory in Farmville or your nearest Florence-Mayo Dealer.

The writer is a tobacco farmer and desires to be of the most service possible to his many tobacco farmer friends.

Very truly yours,

President

P.S. Florence-Mayo Gas Curers will operate on L.P. Propane or Natural Gas if installed according to Florence-Mayo instructions.
