

House Upholds Presidential Veto Of Rural Electrification Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today upheld President Eisenhower's veto of a rural electrification bill. The vote was 290-146 in favor of passing the bill over the President's veto. This was four short of the two-thirds necessary to override. It killed the bill. The President vetoed the bill last Monday and the Senate overrode the veto Tuesday by a vote of 64-29. The House decision kept intact Eisenhower's record of never having had a veto overridden. Eisenhower promptly issued this statement: "I am deeply gratified by the vote this morning in the House of Representatives sustaining the veto. This bill was the 138th vetoed by the President since he took office in 1953. The bill would have stripped from Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson his power to veto loans to cooperatives for rural electric and telephone service. Four Democrats joined 142 Republicans in upholding the President. Six Republicans and 274 Democrats voted to override. There was no debate before the roll-call vote. Both sides recognized before the House vote that it looked like a toss-up as to which would win. Only eight members — four Democrats and four Republicans — failed to vote. There are two House vacancies. The total vote of 425 was one of the heaviest ever cast in the House. When the House passed the bill originally on April 15, five Democrats opposed it and 16 Republicans supported it. The only Democrat who changed his position today was Frank M. Clark of Pennsylvania. The Republicans who shifted were William H. Avery of Kansas, William G. Bray of Indiana, John B. Bennett of Michigan, Ben F. Jensen of Iowa, Catherine May of Wash., Victor Knox of Mich., Edward H. Rees of Kan., Fred Schwengel of Iowa and Edna Simpson of Ill. Page Belcher of Okla., Republican, who voted for the bill on April 15, did not vote today. The four Democrats who voted to uphold the President were Joseph Barr of Ind., W. J. Bryan Dorn of S.C., and David S. King of Utah and Harold B. McSween of La. The six Republicans who voted against the President were H. Carl Anderson of Minn., E. Y. Berry of S.D., H. E. Gross of Iowa, Walt Horan of Wash., Odin Langen of Minn. and Alvin E. O'Konski of Wis. Secretary Benson said he was gratified by the action of the House. "The REA program always has had and shall continue to have my 100 per cent support," the secretary said in a statement. The Senate overrode the veto Tuesday 64-29, two more votes than the required two thirds. Republican leaders centered attention on 16 Republicans who voted for the bill when the House passed it originally April 15 by a vote of 254-131, three votes short of the two thirds needed to override. They claimed privately they had reason to expect that at least eight of their members who voted for the bill two weeks ago would change their position and vote to uphold the President. "We believe we have a couple of votes to spare," a top GOP leader said privately. "We'll override by a margin of two to four votes," countered a Democrat. The bill would leave the Rural Electrification Administration under Benson's general supervision, but would give the REA administrator final authority to approve or disapprove loans.

Senators Agree Luce Fuss To Affect Future Inquiries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said today the uproar over Clare Boothe Luce's nomination is likely to sharpen the Senate's investigation of other diplomatic appointments. Dirksen said Morse's inquiry amounted to an effort to get a doctor to violate the traditional section between a physician and his patient. Morse denied that, but said there are times when doctors have the duty to make information about their patients known to persons in positions of responsibility. The debate followed up a Tuesday exchange which included a statement from Mrs. Luce that her troubles with Morse started after the senator "was kicked in the head by a horse." Morse reported that "this is part of an old pattern of mental instability on her part." Wednesday's Senate debate ended after Sen. John A. Carroll (D-Colo.) said that "if we continue along with this debate, not only the whole country but also Latin America will think we are all nuts." But all the debate appeared unlikely to upset Mrs. Luce's return to ambassadorial status, despite her husband's suggestion that she resign. She formerly was ambassador to Italy. Brazil's Foreign Minister Francisco Negro de Lima said his government is pleased that the Senate has confirmed the appointment. Eisenhower earlier had dismissed her remark about Morse by saying that "even if ill-advised, it was human." He said he did not think her usefulness as ambassador had been damaged in any major way by the Senate row over her appointment.

Woman Is Wounded In Shooting

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — A woman employe of the struck Harriet-Henderson cotton mills was wounded slightly Wednesday night by one of nine rifle shots fired into the buildings. It was the latest eruption of violence in the long and bitter strike by the Textile Workers Union of America. Police said the woman, Mattie Lindsey was hit in the shoulder by a .22-caliber bullet while at work in the south Henderson mill. The mill is manned by nonunion workers. Police said the bullet had about spent itself before striking her, and that the wound was minor. The rear window of a cruising police car was shattered by a heavy object near the same mill. Relative quiet prevailed at the north Henderson mill. Police reported things were quiet at the opening of the two plants at 7 a.m. today. Meanwhile, Don Cilley, a State Department of Labor mediator, said he and Federal Mediator Yates Heafner had arranged to meet with union and management representatives Friday. The meeting resulted from a plea by Gov. Hodges Tuesday that negotiations be resumed. In view of the negotiations, mills President John D. Cooper Jr., announced that he had postponed indefinitely the opening of a third shift in the two plants. A third shift was to start last Tuesday night but Cooper delayed it at the request of Gov. Luther Hodges and Mayor Carroll Singleton, who feared an outbreak of violence might result. Cooper commented, "It looks like they (the union) would go ahead and take what jobs we have available." Strikers became disgruntled April 20 when only a few of them were given jobs on the second shift. The strike had appeared to be settled only three days earlier but the new contract was never signed. Picketing has continued at both company plants. Police said several strikers complained earlier Wednesday of being shot at from the direction of the South Henderson plant. In court action Wednesday, four strikers were convicted and two were acquitted of contempt charges by Judge William Bickett. They were accused of breaking a restraining order limiting picket line activity.

Western Big Four Report Complete Agreement On Package Plan For Geneva

PARIS (AP) — The Western Big Four foreign ministers announced complete agreement today on a package plan they will deliver to the Geneva conference next month. They then unexpectedly ended their session. A final communique gave no details of the plan. The foreign ministers opened their meeting only Wednesday to unify their positions for the East-West foreign ministers conference at Geneva May 11. The ministers said they stood four-square behind the West's pledge to hold firm in Berlin and to refuse to abandon the 2-1-4 million residents of that city. Though the communique did not say so, official sources reported the ministers had agreed to negotiate a separate Berlin settlement if the Soviet Union rejects the over-all package deal on Berlin, German unity, and European security they plan to propose at Geneva. This Allied agreement on a fall-back position was disclosed before the U.S., British, French and West German foreign ministers began their closing discussion of Britain's project for a zone of limited controlled arms and armies in central Europe. Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has advocated establishment of such a zone as the first step in a cold war settlement with the Soviet Union. There was a compromise on the British-proposed European security zone. Details were not disclosed. But officials said the proposal was watered down considerably to meet American, French and West German objections. The officials said the British proposal will be fitted into the allied program for unification of East and West Germany. In other words, its fulfillment would depend on progress toward a German political settlement. The British idea, as originally conceived, called for controls, inspection and limitation of armaments in a tension-ridden area of Europe roughly embracing the two Germanys, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Allied critics have expressed fear a pullback in that particular area would put the West at a military disadvantage. U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter is to take off for Washington Friday after calling on French Premier Michel Debre. Qualified sources gave this outline of the new Allied plan of negotiations: The Western package that will be laid before the Soviets at the Geneva conference of foreign ministers next month will cover the Berlin dispute, the reunification of Germany in four phases, and a pan-European security system. If, as expected, the Soviets reject this package, the Western Allies have agreed to fall back on a new position that would allow separate arrangements on threatened Berlin. The Allies are resolved, however, that they will not separate their linked program for German reunification and the development of a European security system. The Americans said the first day of the talks with the British, French and West Germans got off to a good start with everything going smoothly. But the British were still searching behind the scenes for something to offer the Soviets that Moscow might accept — possibly with regard to Berlin. The Western terms — tying together arrangements for Berlin, German reunification and European security — run directly counter to Soviet demands which were restated Wednesday without modification after a rival conference of Communist-bloc statesmen in Warsaw. In prospect was another head-on East-West collision at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference opening May 11. The Western powers are determined to stand firm against the Soviet demand that they end their occupation of Berlin and make that part of the city a demilitarized, international area. But British Prime Minister Macmillan's government fears that insistence on the whole Western plan or no change in the present setup may (1) force the Allies into an ignominious retreat from their tough bargaining stance, or (2) prod Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev into action around Berlin that will explode a nuclear war. In meetings outside the conference room, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd pleaded with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville for the divorce of Berlin proposals from plans for any over-all German or European settlement. Here's how the opposing Soviet and Western positions shape up: NEGOTIATIONS — The Soviet Union wants an East-West agreement now on Berlin and a German peace treaty, with a European security system to be negotiated separately in the future. The West wants to hold out for an over-all package settlement, providing for progress by slow stages toward new arrangements. BERLIN — The Soviet Union wants to make West Berlin a de-

OAS Votes For Panama Watch

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Organization of American States voted today to ask member states to provide ships for observation and identification of vessels in areas near invasion-conscious Panama. The action was taken by the OAS Council after it had received a telephone communication from its five-member investigating committee in Panama saying surface vessels were needed to supplement aerial observation already under way. The investigating committee earlier had suggested that the OAS ask Cuba to help prevent a further invasion. The suggestion came in the first report of the special committee set up to probe the invasion of Panama by a force of around 80 armed men. The report — made available here in advance of a special OAS Council meeting — said the committee had been told by the government of Panama that one or two additional boatloads of men left Cuba for Panama Monday. The committee chairman, Brazil's Ambassador Fernando Lobo, suggested that the OAS Council ask the Cuban government urgently to take all measures within its powers to prevent such expeditions. Lobo also reported that the commission this morning began observation flights along the Caribbean coast with planes put at its disposal by the United States. In reviewing the first two days of the committee's activities, Lobo said that at this point the group could not find anything that would permit it to say the invaders were acting in connection with any government. The report noted, however, that the invaders almost to a man were foreigners, not Panamanians. A screen of U.S. fighter planes was ordered up over Panama's north coast today to detect the approach of more invaders reported crossing the Caribbean from Cuba. The air patrol, was requested by the five-ambassador team sent by the Organization of American States to help end the vest-pocket attempt to overthrow Panamanian President Ernesto de la Guardia. An informed source who reported that the OAS Council of statesmen in the invaders said the National Guard had held off to protect the 1,000 inhabitants of Nombre de Dios, the coastal town taken over by the invaders who landed last Saturday from Cuba. Between 200 and 300 guard troops have been deployed around Nombre de Dios since Tuesday. The government said the invading force in Nombre de Dios now numbered 89, including 84 Cubans, 3 Panamanians, 1 American and 1 Puerto Rican. The identity of the American was not known. The government claims the foreigners were hired by Panamanians in Cuba plotting to overthrow De la Guardia. The U.S. Air patrol was ordered after Panamanian authorities reported one or two more invasion boats carrying up to 300 men left the Cuban port of Surgidero, on Batabano Bay, Tuesday.

East Germans To Assume Control

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany intends to take over control of Western lifelines to West Berlin regardless of the results of coming East-West negotiations, its Communist boss said in a speech published today. The party boss, Walter Ulbricht, told a workers rally at the Bitterfeld industrial center that East Germany will conclude a separate peace treaty with the Russians if the West fails to agree on an accord for all Germany. The Communist bloc is demanding that the foreign ministers conference opening May 11 in Geneva accept a peace treaty that would end the four-power occupation of Berlin and transform West Berlin into a so-called free city. Ulbricht declared that conclusion of a separate Communist peace treaty automatically would annul the occupation accords which stipulate that only the Russians can check on Allied rail and highway traffic to West Berlin. Take First Places In Cattle Judging GRIMESLAND FFA SWINE AND BEEF CATTLE JUDGING WINNERS . . . James Smith, Darrell Elks, Jonnie Wiggins, William Mills and Advisor John R. Lewis.

FARMVILLE FFA DAIRY JUDGING WINNERS . . . Douglas Gay; Owen Joyner; E. P. Bass, Coach; Elmer Flake, and Jerry Summerlin.

Farmville and Grimesland took first place awards in the Pitt Future Farmers of America livestock judging contest held in Stokes yesterday. The Dairy Judging contest saw the Farmville team place first with Stokes, second and Bethel, third. In the Swine and Beef Cattle Judging contest, the FFA team from Grimesland took first with Grifton and Stokes, second and third. The Farmville FFA team also took part in the judging. The teams were graded on how closely their rating of the livestock correlated with that of experienced judges. The winners of the contest will compete in the district contest to be held near Hertford, Saturday.

Senators Oppose Reducing Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators voted unanimously today to halt a reduction in the Marine Corps ordered by Pentagon leaders in defiance of Congress. They tacked on to a big catchall supplemental money bill a rider by Sen. Steve Wadsworth (D-Mont.) that would tie up Navy personnel funds unless the strength of the Marines is increased to 200,000. By a similar voice vote the Senate Wednesday added a rider by Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) that would require a minimum Army of 900,000 or tie up Army operating funds. "I think the politicians who are running the Army ought to sit up and take notice," Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) told the Senate. Congress provided more funds than asked by President Eisenhower last year and directed that the Army be maintained at 900,000 and the Marines at 200,000. Instead, civilian defense leaders have been reducing both forces, aiming at an Army of 870,000 and Marine Corps of 175,000 by the end of the current fiscal year next June 30.

Flim-Flammed Him Out Of $200

An old flim-flame game cost a local Negro $200 yesterday, according to police. Investigating officers said Willie Wooten Fleming of 1715 McLellan St. reported the incident about 11:30 a.m. Police quoted Fleming as saying two Negro men were talking to him about money and told him they would turn his $200 into $700 if he would let them have it. According to reports, Fleming then let one of the men have the money to go to the bank and have it changed. After waiting for a while, the second Negro who had stayed with Fleming left to look for the man with the money. That, said Fleming, was the last he saw of them. Detectives said investigation is still continuing in the case.

The Truth Is, He Wants The Job

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Vice Mayor H. Sanders Angles had this to say when he announced for reelection: "My many friends have not prevailed upon me to become a candidate for re-election, and I have not been told that the city needs my services. "The truth of the matter is, I want the job again."

SHORT FALL

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Construction worker Bill Bell, 36, lost his balance and fell from a fifth-floor girder — but dropped only a few feet. He grasped a rope used to haul up air refrigeration equipment and swung into a fourth-floor window.

Familiar Designation Assigned One Of Local Nat'l Guard Units

A National Guard designation long familiar to Greenville has been ordered assigned to one of the two National Guard units now here. The designation is Battery "A" of the 113th (Field) Artillery. The other local unit has been designated as Battery "B" of the same artillery regiment and both are assigned as units of the Fourth

Howitzer Battalion. Battery A was assigned to Greenville about 1920 and remained here until September 16, 1940, when North Carolina National Guardsmen were ordered into federal service. The unit served during World War II as a part of the 30th Division and participated in nearly all of the major campaigns in the European Theater of Operations. Former commanding officers of the unit include Lester Jones, Jasper Jones, J. Herbert Waldrop, J. Con Lanier, Shorty Brock, the Rev. Worth Wicker, J. H. Moyer and Ed Waldrop. J. Herbert Waldrop was captain of the unit at the time the Greenville Armory, on Evans Street, was constructed in 1936. The late First Lt. Preston C. Clark, for whom the U. S. Army Reserve Training Center is named, was also a member of the unit during World War II. The unit was demobilized after World War II, and then assigned to Zeblun in the late 1940's. It has remained there until the present time. Since World War II, Greenville's National Guard units have been members of either the 690th Field Artillery Battalion or the 295th Field Artillery Battalion. The 690th designation was in effect at the time Greenville Guardsmen were ordered into federal service during the Korean War, with the 295th designation assigned since then. First Lt. Charles E. Camp of Greenville is present commanding officer of Battery A, with Captain

Steelworkers' Union Meets On Contract Issues

NEW YORK (AP) — The 171-member Wage Policy Committee of the United Steelworkers of America met today to determine what contract proposals will be placed before the nation's major steel companies. David J. McDonald, USW president, told newsmen before the opening of the two-day session he was "fervently hopeful" the union and the industry could agree on terms before June 30. That is the termination date of the present contract, covering some half a million workers in basic steel. Talks between union and management leaders will start here Tuesday. McDonald declined to indicate what the union will seek in the contract. The committee is expected to give union negotiators a "mandate to bargain for a pay raise and fringe benefit improvements. The steel industry has proposed a one-year wage freeze.

Steelworkers' Union Meets On Contract Issues

Norman Harris serving as commanding officer of Battery B. Warrant Officer Mayo E. Allen, Battery A unit administrator, said today the change in designation carries an authorization for the unit to enlist six additional men. He said persons interested in joining the unit can obtain further information at the Evans Street armory.

Farmville's Registration Books To Close Saturday

FARMVILLE — Registration books for Farmville's May 5 municipal elections will close Saturday at 6 p.m. Registrar Cecil Lilley said today that 991 persons have registered thus far under provisions of a new registration order issued by the Farmville Board of Commissioners. He also estimated that total registrations will be about 1,150 by the time the books close Saturday. Lilley pointed out that all persons who expect to vote in Tuesday elections will be required to register, regardless of the number of times they have participated in previous municipal elections. He has the registration books at his office on East Wilson St. Filing books for persons seeking seats on the five-man Board of Commissioners will be closed this afternoon, according to Town

Brewer Captures SCA Presidency

By CATHERINE MOORE
Teen-age Writer

Clark Brewer captured the presidency of the Student Co-operative Association Monday in the annual school-wide elections. Clark unopposed in the elections, will replace Howard Garner, 1958-1959, president.

Reggie Johnson defeated two opponents to take the number two post. He won over vice-presidential candidates Charles Taft and Bill Clapp to win the position filled by Billy Cox this year.

Melinda Coleman defeated Betsy Bryant to replace Frances Cozart. Ernie Duff beat Craig Worthington as the treasurer.

Johnny Reynolds and Billy Neal James won the titles of roving representatives. Melinda Coleman and Larry Roberts claim these titles this year.

Johnny, who placed first in balloting, and Billy Neal defeated Gigi Guice, Janice Laughter, and Sara Oakley as well as write-in candidate Jimmy Eatmon.

Along with committee chairman appointed by Clark, this group will form the S.C.A. Executive Committee for 1959-1960.

BREWER, HAWES TO ATTEND
The Student Co-operative Association has chosen Clark Brewer and Mary French Hawes to represent Greenville at Civitan Youth Conference, W. Idacres, Little Switzerland, North Carolina.

Clark and Mary French will attend either June 7-13 or from June 14-20. The Civitan clubs of North Carolina sponsor the conference. Contribution toward good citizenship is the basis of selection.

Delegates will study democratic processes and attitudes, and the meaning of citizenship in a democracy.

They will attempt to develop understanding, mutual respect, and good will toward people whose religion, nationality, and race may or may not differ from their own.

30 Years Ago Today

April 30, 1929

"Colored schools are to be commended for the progress which they are making in the field of Home Economics," said a citizen today who went over to the school building and inspected some of the products which the young people are turning out. "The designs in dressmaking were especially good and show to what extent the students have progressed in this field of activity. Prof. C. M. Eppes is particularly interested in this department. He believes that working with the hands is just as essential as working with the brain and is teaching his pupils accordingly."

Masons Have Ladies Night

GRIFTON — "Ladies Night" at the Grifton Masonic Lodge No. 243 was observed on Friday night in the dining room of the Masonic building on Gordon Street. Spring flowers decorated the hall and tables were centered with candles in crystal holders with greenery.

Master of Ceremonies, L. B. Pittman, gave the welcome to the ladies and guests and the response was given by Mrs. W. I. Blasette, worthy matron of the local Eastern Star.

After dinner speaker, Rev. Clyde McCarver of Washington, was presented by R. L. Martin of Greenville. McCarver gave a message entitled "Real Meaning of Masonry." The invocation was said by the Rev. Bill Edge, Christian minister.

Out of town guests included Rev. and Mrs. McCarver, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Banks, Washington, R. L. Martin of Greenville, J. L. Phillips, Kingston and Luther Whitehurst of Beaufort.

Approximately 100 persons were present. The turkey dinner was served by the ladies of the Eastern Star. Committee of arrangements for the night were L. B. Pittman, Archie Rogers, Mark Phillips, Dewey Wall and W. I. Blasette.

MISS ELIZABETH ANN BOWMAN . . . will reign as May Queen during festivities this weekend. Miss Alice Ann Horne, will be maid of honor.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Bowman of Liberty will be crowned May Queen of East Carolina College Saturday in a ceremony in the Planagan Sylvan Theatre at 2 p.m. Miss Alice Ann Horne of Tabor City will be maid-of-honor.

The May exercises, sponsored by the Student Government Association and arranged by a committee headed by Jimmy E. Wall of Raleigh, will be a special attraction of Alumni Day at the college. The public is invited to attend.

Miss Bowman was chosen as May Queen in a campus election. She will be crowned by Dallas S. Wells of Williamston, president of the Student Government Association. A senior at East Carolina College, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Grady Bowman of Liberty.

Miss Horne, a senior recently chosen as "Miss Greenville of 1959," will be chief attendant in the Queen's Court, which include representatives from each of the four college courses.

They are Miss Peggy Kopley of High Point, Miss Mary Lou Dickens of Littleton, Miss Patricia B. Allman of Zebulon and Miss Rose Rich of Albemarle, seniors; Miss Dottie S. McEwen of Wilmington, Miss Dotty Walker of Albemarle, Miss Merle Council of Fayetteville, and Miss Jackie Byrd of Windsor, juniors; Miss Sue Lassiter of Four Oaks and Miss Rose Lindsay of Faison, sophomores; and Miss Judith Jolly of Greenville, and Miss Jackie Scott of Henderson, freshmen.

The May exercises will end Saturday night with a dance in the Wright building on the campus.

May Fellowship Services Set For Tomorrow

United Church Women of Greenville will gather tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church at 12:30 p.m. for a covered dish luncheon meeting to observe May Fellowship Day.

May Fellowship, one of three annual observances sponsored by this group of Christian women, is always held the first Friday in May.

The principal address will be made by Mrs. J. B. Spilman Sr., director of the N. C. Association for Mental Health, her topic being "How Much Is Enough?"

Plans for this occasion are under the direction of Mrs. Plato Evans, chairman of the Christian Social Relations Committee. Serving with Mrs. Evans are Mrs. L. C. Powell Jr. and Mrs. F. P. Brooks.

Mrs. Keith Holmes is president of United Church Women in Greenville.

Memorial Day To Be May 10

Mrs. R. P. Rogers, president of the Pitt County Unit of the American Cancer Society, announced today that May 10 has been declared "Memorial Day" by the North Carolina Division Inc.

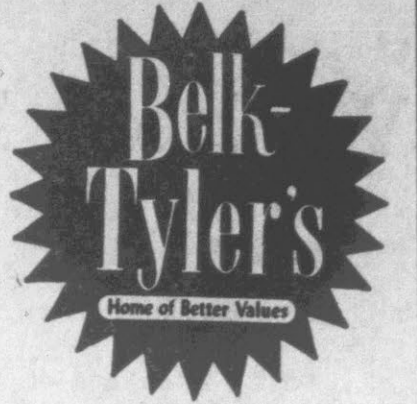

The purpose of memorial gifts to the American Cancer Society is to provide a dignified means by which individuals or groups can acknowledge a remembrance in honor of those who have died of cancer or other causes. These gifts expressing sympathy also serve as positive help for the living.

All interested persons are asked to send their memorial gift to John Zeh, county crusade chairman, or to Mrs. R. P. Rogers, unit president, on or before May 10.

We Don't Know, But Optimistic

Does the United States have missile bases overseas "ready to go" or doesn't it?

Is the United States capable of repelling an enemy attack and launching its own effective retaliatory attack or isn't it?

About all the American people can do to answer these questions is guess. And when it comes right down to it, the same apparently is true of members of Congress and other high officials.

Sen. Stuart Symington has declared he found no U.S. missile bases in Britain ready for operations in his recent inspection trip overseas. He has likewise asserted that 10 weeks before he made his trip Congress was told the United States had missile bases in Britain "ready to go."

This, of course, is not the first time such a thing has happened. Military leaders assert this or that and sooner or later their statements are contradicted either by other military leaders or high officials in the civilian realm of government. Conversely, one member of Congress may say one thing about our military capabilities, and another may say exactly the opposite.

The situation has existed over a period of years, but particularly has it been evident in the recent rush to build our missile strength. The American people, hearing such opposing views from high ranking officials have about come to the conclusion they don't know what to believe about our military strength and our degree of readiness.

For the most part, however, Americans are optimistic, they have confidence in the ability of our nation to adequately defend itself, so for the sake of their own peace of mind, they draw the conclusion that everything is being taken care of.

In such matters as military strength, however, it must be remembered that individual opinions may vary widely on what is "adequate" to meet a given situation. In evaluating conflicting individual opinions, one must also seek to understand the individual's viewpoint.

In any event disputes over the relative degree of readiness of America's defenses probably will continue as long as we have a democratic form of government.

The American people may not know for sure whether their nation is ready to meet this emergency or that, but they may find some satisfaction in the assurance that such disputes will keep both our civilian and military leaders on their toes to see that shortcomings in our military power are quickly corrected.

Little Advantage In That January Date

There is little reason for the General Assembly to again change its convening date to the traditional time of January instead of February.

This is the first year in which the legislature has departed from its traditional January date, and from our observations, it seems the February date for beginning the legislative session offers advantages over the old date.

When the legislature convened this year practically all the special study commissions appointed by the previous session had done their work, their reports had been made and their recommendations were waiting when the legislators got to Raleigh. In most cases, the reports and recommendations were made before the legislature convened, and the legislators had time to get an idea of how the folks back home felt about certain changes being proposed.

Another item to consider is the fact that cities and counties throughout the state had time to get essential local legislation prepared and ready for their representatives earlier in the session than usually had been the case.

It may be true that if the withholding tax measure passes it will not be necessary for the legislature to wait for income tax reports before evaluating the state's financial situation, but the later convening date will at least afford time for the legislators to evaluate the first quarter of a new year before finally setting budget figures. In many years, this could be as important as how much money the state really gets from last year's income tax payments.

All-in-all the February convening date for the legislature has offered a number of advantages over the old January beginning time. Certainly it has not provided any serious handicaps to the General Assembly in carrying out its business.

The General Assembly would be wise to stick to its present program of convening in February because of the advantages it offers over the traditional convening date followed prior to this year.

Woman's Story Of Legislature

By LYNN NISBET

THEN AND NOW — Mrs. C.W. Cover of Cherokee is serving her third term in the House of Representatives. The other times were 1943 and 1945. It was different then. Mrs. Cover was the only woman in the House each time. She had Mrs. E. L. McKee in the Senate for her first term. Now there are three women representatives.

Only twelve women have served in the General Assembly of North Carolina, most of them only one term. Mrs. E. L. McKee served three times — 1931, 1937 and 1943. Rotation agreements allowed her county to have the seat only once in six years. Mrs. R. B. (Sue Ramsey) Ferguson of Alexander came to the Senate in 1947. Both Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Ferguson later served on the State Board of Education.

First woman in the General Assembly was Miss Exum Clement of Buncombe in 1921. The woman suffrage amendment was not ratified until after the 1920 primary. Miss Clement was named by the executive committee to fill a vacancy before the general election. Next in order came Miss Julia Alexander of Mecklenburg in 1925 and Mrs. C. C. McLean of the same county in 1927. Mrs. Frank B. (Lilly M.) Mebane of Rockingham was here in 1931 and 1933. Mrs. Charles Hutchins of Yancey followed her husband as representative in 1935.

Then came Mrs. Cover for 1943 and 1945, and again in 1959. The 1949 session saw two women from Mecklenburg, Mrs. Walter G. Craven and Mrs. Joe Ervin. There were no women legislators in 1951, but in 1953 Mrs. Grace Taylor Rodenbough of Stokes began tenure which has continued until now. In her fourth term she holds the record among women and in her own county for continuous tenure. Finally this year came Dr. Rachel Davis of Lenoir, first woman ever to be elected from the eastern half of the State.

REMINISCENCES — Your reporter asked Mrs. Cover to contrast some of her experiences 16 years ago and now, with special attention to personal matters rather than politics or government finance. From here on let Mrs. Cover tell the story.

"May I say first of all, that I consider having had the privilege of serving in the General Assembly of North Carolina one of the fine experiences of my life. "I came to the House of Representatives first in 1943, next in 1945, and now in 1959. That, as you know, was war time. We were all serious, troubled, and only trying to do our very best.

"My! What a contrast, then and now. Everything was rationed in those days. I had a ration shoe ticket, but one of the children in the family wore their shoes out completely, so my ticket went for them. There I was, getting ready to come to Raleigh to the General Assembly with only one pair of shoes. I knew I would walk them out in a short time, as gasoline too was rationed, and not much riding, and I began to think maybe barefoot I might be. What a predicament.

"A friend from Knoxville came by to see me, generously gave me her ticket, to help keep up the reputation of the mountains. After getting the shoes, there was the question of how. We didn't have nylon then, rayon and silk. Rayon was so ugly, felt I just had to have some silk ones. Where to get them was the question. Went to Chattanooga where my friend, Col. Richard Moore, owned a department store. I appealed to him. He called his son, gave him a key, told him to go to the safe in the basement and bring me a box of hose. I prized them as much as if they were gold. Think how different it is now.

"If I attained any bit of popularity that Session, it was the interest in the nine months school bill or the North Carolina Symphony that I was so interested in. It was because the girls at home would mail me butter that I could divide with my friends. It was rationed and almost impossible to get. Food just did not taste good without seasoning. I remember so well, one day Mrs. B. M. Griffin, who was the beloved founder of the Sir Walter Cabinet, had a birthday. The chef baked her a birthday cake. For days we did not have sugar on our tables in the hotel, but not one word of complaint was ever heard.

"It is hard to believe, isn't it, when we think of the plenty, and to spare, that we have now. It is an entirely different picture. People do not change, though. With very few exceptions, just as they were then, everyone in the House is in earnest, working for what they think is best for North Carolina and their county. I may not agree with their thinking at times, but everlastingly respect their right to their own opinion.

"The friendships one forms here are a joy through life, and once you serve here, you want to come again.

Lost Tempers, Gained Nothing

By BAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two tart tongues tangled but still unsettled is who had the last word: Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat, or Republican Clare Boothe Luce?

When these two came up against each other their abandoned orderly argument and fell back on personal attacks that questioned each other's sanity.

The result: Morse, who lost a battle in trying to prevent Senate approval of Mrs. Luce as ambassador to Brazil, may have won the war because of her husband, Henry Luce, editor-in-chief of Time magazine, says he has asked her to resign.

The Oregonian fought in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee against President Eisenhower's appointment of the stylish Mrs. Luce, a one-time congresswoman from Connecticut and a former ambassador to Italy.

Morse lost there on a vote of 161. Then it was up to the full Senate to say yes or no. Morse, who once held the Senate's endurance-talking record, talked against Mrs. Luce for hours Monday.

Nothing like it has been heard in recent years. One Republican senator, Prescott Bush of Connecticut, said there had never been a more bitter attack on a presidential nominee.

Morse not only accused Mrs. Luce of being incompetent as a diplomat but said she was intellectually dishonest. He recalled that in 1944 she said President Roosevelt had "lied us into war."

The senator went further and attacked her husband and his magazines — Time, Life, Fortune — calling the Luce publications the "loose" publications which he said were the No. 1 spokesman for the Eisenhower administration.

To make Mrs. Luce ambassador to Brazil, Morse said, would be paying off a political hack. He said the Luce magazines had done a better "cover-up job for the Eisenhower administration than the Soviet newspaper Pravda had done for Khrushchev."

A handful of senators, all Democrats, joined Morse in disapproving Mrs. Luce but when roll-called came the vote was 79-11 in her favor.

But after she had won, Mrs. Luce drew something extraordinary for an ambassador whose performance in Brazil would be under Senate scrutiny.

She issued a statement which said: "We must now wait until the dirt settles. My difficulties, of course, go some years back and began when Sen. Wayne Morse was kicked in the head by a horse." He was kicked in the face at a horse show in 1951.

Morse replied by suggesting Mrs. Luce draw a mental case. He said: "This is part of an old pattern of mental instability on her part."

As might have been expected — at least by anyone as experienced in Congress and diplomacy as Mrs. Luce — her statement had a sour effect in the Senate.

Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio), who had voted for Mrs. Luce, expressed regret that he had and said her statement demonstrated an "absence of rationalism." Several other senators also said they were sorry they had voted for her.

Not long afterwards her husband had in New York issued a statement saying he had asked her to resign because Senate criticism had compromised her usefulness in the new position.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS SIGNIFICANCE OF EVANGELISM

Someone has recently made the statement that the church is a field for evangelism rather than a force for evangelism. It seems sometimes as if the church is more interested in social reform than it is in evangelism — that is, in the proclamation of the gospel or good news. Evangelism often manifests certain weaknesses and these weaknesses loom so large in the eyes of some people that they are against evangelism per se. The question is often asked, "Do the converts made at evangelistic meetings really stick?" Most of the time they do, although sometimes of course they do not. What we should face, however, is the realization that the church has grown only when it has been vigorously evangelistic.

Never in the history of the church has evangelism been carried on so intensely as it was during the first few centuries. In those days, everybody was an evangelist. Housewives converted other housewives. Merchants talked to their customers. For almost 300 years after the founding of the Church at Pentecost, little groups of enthusiastic people kept testifying to the reality and power of Christ, until the rotten old Roman Empire completely collapsed.

Only in periods of revival has the Church gone forward by leaps and bounds. More and more evangelism!

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Back From The 'Front'

Things are rough at Henderson to hear some of the people who have been to that strife-torn North Carolina industrial town tell it.

The bitterness brought on by the Harriet - Henderson strike, which has been underway since last November grows deeper by the day, so it is said.

It has turned friend against friend and many people not directly connected with the strike walk a narrow line as they find their acquaintances on both sides.

A highway patrolman was talking a local drug store the other day. He had spent considerable time in Henderson as a part of the patrol force sent in to help police the town.

He told of a man who operated a store near Henderson. The store operator was a former patrolman himself and he had gone to work at the mills as a non-unionman.

Some of the patrolmen traded at the worker's store, the local trooper stated.

"His wife who ran the store wore a pistol strapped to her side just like mine," the patrolman said. "And behind the counter was a sawed-off shotgun."

However, eventually they dynamited the building the patrolman added.

There is the problem of finding a place to eat in Henderson for the highway patrolmen on duty there. Wherever the state troopers decide to buy their meals, there is a sudden drop in local trade. So the patrolmen find the prices charged them for food outlandish.

Another listener who had dropped in for a cup of coffee pointed out that he had been to Henderson the weekend before to visit his mother.

She told of a man who had a picture glass window blown out when night riders tossed sticks of dynamite in his front yard.

The next day he moved out of the house and in with relatives away from town. That night the dynamites came even closer. They tossed dynamite through the open window destroying the furniture within.

The Henderson strike will go down in history as one of the saddest chapters in North Carolina industrial-labor relations.

Other Editors Saying . . . T.V.A. As A Business

(New York Times)

Over the more than twenty-five years of its existence the Tennessee Valley Authority has been criticized by its natural enemies as batten on the taxpayer's money and competing unfairly with private utilities. As far as the taxpayer's money is concerned, T.V.A. has had the use of about $1.2 billion, of which about $300 million has been paid back into the Treasury. T.V.A. has also benefited by cheap credit and its payments, in lieu of taxes, have been somewhat lower than the prevailing rate in the southeastern part of the United States.

At the moment, however, T.V.A. is not asking to borrow money from the Federal Government. It is proposing, as it has done before, to issue revenue bonds expanding its power facilities — and mainly its steam-power facilities, since the water power of the Tennessee Valley has been pretty well developed.

At present the situation is that a bill has been introduced into the House, and approved by the House Public Works Committee, to permit T.V.A. to raise $750 million and spend the proceeds on new steam-generating equipment. There is not much change that the demand for power in the Tennessee Valley will fall off. T.V.A.'s spokesmen have pointed out that this demand is increasing by 10 to 12 per cent a year, and that new construction, costing about $180 million a year, is necessary to keep up with the demand.

In this great power market there are farms and homes that have benefited immeasurably by new sources of energy, but more than half of all the kilowatt-hours sold goes to Federal agencies, among them the Atomic Energy Commission. T.V.A. helped save the nation during a second World War by producing airplane materials and by its help in developing the atomic weapon and atomic energy. The wars, we hope, are over, but T.V.A. still works for defense and still works for the improvement of living conditions everywhere.

The way in which T.V.A. shall do this useful work is a practical issue, not an ethical one. This newspaper believes that the authority should continue to function like any other going concern within the area it now serves — that is to say, the familiar butterfly pattern that comes around in a great sweep from the Kentucky Dam on the west to the dams on the tributaries of the Tennessee, coming down out of the northeastern mountains. We do not believe this service area should be explained, or needs to be. There should be ample space outside this pattern for private enterprise to profit by what T.V.A. can teach and to teach lessons from which T.V.A. may gain. This ought not to be a war between public and private power. It should be a friendly competition with cooperation wherever cooperation will be mutually beneficial.

We therefore hope that the revenue bond proposal will pass both houses of this present Congress and become a law. New Yorkers, who are accustomed to the way in which our own Port Authority and Triborough Bridge Authority operate, will see nothing revolutionary in this practical policy.

"There's one thing about cold wars. They outlast the shooting kind." — Greensboro (Ga.) Herald-Journal.

"Polish writers have been forbidden to sign contracts for publication of their books abroad, in line with a 'cultural offensive.' It sounds more like a defensive offensive." — Laurel (Miss.) Leader-Call.

"So what it comes down to is that things are pretty good and they look better. But nobody is saying how far ahead they'll go on getting better or when we'll get a genuine boom that will suck up our big pockets of unemployment. There's still a little mist on the crystal ball." — Wellston (Ohio) Sentinel.

Fresh Tax Ideas

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The big problem in America today is how can the government live off everybody when everybody is trying to live off the government?

Practically every government, federal, state or local—is running short of money. They also seem to be running out of ideas for new taxes.

The City Council here, for example, has just voted a five per cent tax on restaurant checks over a dollar. The tax was voted in an atmosphere of apology to "the little man," a tacit admission that only a cigar store Indian could find a decent meal here for less than a buck.

This abject attitude of polite concern over the plight of the taxpayer, however, isn't going to enable any government to live in the style to which it wants to become accustomed.

What governments need is the courage to reach firmly into new and unplumbed areas of the public purse and pluck boldly therefrom the money it wants. Here are a few tentative suggestions:

Why not tax pedestrians? If drivers have to fork up money to get a license to use the city streets, why shouldn't pedestrians be made to pay for the privilege of wearing out the city sidewalks?

The issuance of $10 annual pedestrian licenses would not only add millions of dollars in revenue to most big municipalities. It would enable them to weed out reckless walkers unable to pass periodic inspection tests.

Why not also sell baby buggy licenses? Why should an infant, at the very start of its existence, get the idea there are any free rides in life?

It might even be a good idea to put a $15 tax—split equally between local, state and federal governments—on birth itself, payable at the hospital by the parents before they would be allowed to take their child home.

A few other ideas: Taxes on girl watching. Taxes on park bench sitting. Philosophers such as Bernard Baruch might object to these, but those who use public services ought to pay at least part of the costs.

Taxes on umbrella carrying. The government might also consider compulsory liability insurance here for the victims of this vicious practice. Taxes on the public wearing of Phi Beta Kappa keys and Rotary Club lapel buttons. Taxes on flower pots. The only danger here is that city dwellers might choose to let their pots lie fallow, an insult on being cut in for benefits under the federal soil bank program.

Special tax stamps to be affixed to letters written to Congress complaining about taxes. When you get right down to it, the field of taxation is practically limitless. Anyone who thinks he's seen the end of new taxes just doesn't know what lies ahead.

Such as maybe a burial tax stamp. If you tax a guy for the privilege of going underground, isn't that really an inducement to make him want to keep on living?

paying one's own way. It simply means that we foot the whole bill for whatever we want—and get—and don't expect other people to pay a part for us." — Industrial News Review.

Notes In The Reporter's Pocket

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are some notes scribbled on scraps of paper found in a reporter's pocket, together with what he may have been thinking about when he wrote them. Charles Dooley, New York City is plastered with signs showing a man named Charlie Dooley dropping waste paper into a trash basket and saying, "The way I look at it, if me and you don't keep the city clean, who is—right?" Somewhere there must be a professor named Unduly who roams the city writing "Speak decent English" on scraps of paper and throwing them on the sidewalk.

Unemployment. Labor leaders are demanding the government do something about unemployment. The concept that the government is responsible for providing work is not new. The pharaohs of Egypt and the rulers of the Middle Ages accepted it. Hence the pyramids; hence the great cathedrals.

HIRING, TRUST-BUSTING. Jobs. The Congress of the United States showed the back of its hand to free enterprise when it fostered a system of state employment agencies to compete with private agencies. But these state agencies must be only for the boobie. When a Congressman needs help he does not seem to go to a public agency. He turns to his relatives.

Auto repairs. It looks as if consumers are about to be socked again. Since the government used antitrust laws to break up the Rockefeller oil trust, prices of oil have been going up. More recently, after it broke Eastman's grip on color film development, prices rose. Now it is using the Robinson-Patman Act to force Thompson Products, Inc., to charge the same prices it charges smaller firms. Expect to pay more for your auto repairs.

Gyps. This is the time of the year that Better Business Bureau work themselves into frenzies warning against pyramid exterminators, tree surgeons, humus peddlers, furnace inspectors and home repairmen. EBB blood pressure could be reduced and millions of dollars saved if schools had a fifth-grade course in common sense, with blackboards chalked by chalked by Charlie Dooley: "You don't never get nothing for nothing now."

ARE WE SUCKERS? Copper. There is talk in Washington of releasing stockpiled copper to avert a shortage that may result from a copper strike. The stockpiling program was sold to the public as a safeguard in event of war. To use the stockpiles to rig markets or bust strikes would make suckers out of the taxpayers. Well, they're used to it.

Inflation. The French have knocked two zeros off their currency. Now a 100-franc note has become a 1 heavy-franc note. We are told by many economists that we won't have this galloping inflation here. Perhaps we can do the reverse then, adding a zero every time inflationary pressure gets worse. If we did it now, workers would get a ninefold increase. At the same time, prices would go up 900 per cent. Unlike current inflation, this wouldn't rob pensioners, those on fixed incomes and those with savings.

And while it would seem like inflation, it actually would not be. Figure it out.

NOTE TO TAXPAYERS: YOU CAN'T LOSE 'EM ALL! Taxpayers were favored in five of nine recent rulings by the Internal Revenue Service. IRS held that a device used to unload pipe from a truck, a spinning knob for auto steering wheels and a plastic cover that can be used on autos are all taxable auto accessories. It also held that an oil additive used on food machinery was subject to the oil excise.

On the other hand, the IRS held that a violin bow is not a taxed musical instrument; a fishing rod blank is not a taxable sporting goods item; a manually operated card-punching device is not a taxable business machine, and that badminton stakes are not taxable as sporting goods when sold separately. These are Rev. Rul. 59-131 through 138.

CHAPTER 20

I walked into the Cool & Lam offices, and Lionel Palmer jumped up from a seat back of the filing case where he had evidently been talking with Eva Ennis.

Her face was slightly flushed and she was smiling in that peculiarly self-conscious but tolerant way a girl has when somebody has been handing her a pretty good line.

Palmer came striding across the office toward me. "Hello, Palmer," I said. "Lam," he stormed at me. "What was the idea of putting me on the spot with Dean Crockett?" "Did I put you on a spot?" I asked softly.

"You know damn well you did! As soon as Crockett hired you to see these stolen articles back, you made a beeline for my shop. That makes it look as if you felt I'd been mixed up in the theft. Crockett thinks so, and Olney thinks so. You know, I should smack you right in the kisser and teach you a lesson!"

I took out my cigarette case, opened it, extended it to him. "Cigarette?" I asked. "Not from you!" he said. "I took a cigarette, put it in my mouth and lit it."

I saw that Eva Ennis had been edging up, looking at Lionel Palmer with the admiration which a girl sometimes shows for a man who is talking big.

"You pumped me for all the dope on my friends," he said. "You've caused me so much trouble I think I'll just take it out of your hide in installments, and—"

I said, "You don't even know what trouble is — yet."

He said sneeringly, "I don't suppose you're going to make trouble for me?"

"Not me," I told him, "somebody else."

"Who?" he asked, noticing Eva Ennis out of the corner of his eye and getting his chin up and his chest stuck way out.

"The police," I told him. "It took a minute for that to dawn on him. Then his chest began to go down like a tire with a slow leak. 'What have the police got to do with it?' I said. 'Quite a few things,' I said. 'They're looking for you now.'"

"For what?" "They want to interrogate you." "What would they want to interrogate me about?"

I said, "Did you know that a blowgun and a small jade idol had been stolen from Crockett's house the night of the shindig?"

"Of course I knew it."

"It doesn't mean anything to you?"

"Why should it?" "You knew a blowgun was missing?"

"Of course I did. I tell you. There's no secret about that. Crockett was yelling his head off about it. Yesterday afternoon he told me that he'd hired you and your partner to get the stuff back, and wanted to know why you were hanging around my place, and did I know—"

"I got the stuff back," I interrupted.

"So what? Why tell me about it?"

"I thought you might be interested."

"I'm not. I'm not interested in anything about you, or what you do, just so you don't ever stick your nose in my place again."

"The police are going to ask you some questions."

"Let them. I'll answer them."

"And the police are going to want to know what you were doing in Phyllis Crockett's studio apartment?"

"He was still talking big, but his chest was getting smaller by the minute. 'What do you mean, Phyllis Crockett's studio apartment?' 'You have a key to it, I believe.'"

He didn't say anything to that. "And you were in there sometime yesterday?"

"I don't have to account to you for what I do."

"That's entirely correct," I told him. "You don't and I'm not asking. I'm simply telling you that the police are going to be asking, and you will have to account to them."

"I had business in that apartment."

"Sure, sure," I said, "and you had a key to it and it was from that apartment that Dean Crockett was murdered."

He stepped back a couple of paces and his eyes became big. "Was what?"

"Murdered."

"What in blue blazes are you talking about?"

"And," I said, "shortly before his murder, you had an interview with him in which you took hold of the lapel of his coat and he put his palm against your chest and pushed you halfway across the office. The police are going to be very much interested in what you did after that time, because it was shortly after that that Crockett was murdered. Now, if you'll excuse me, I have some work to do."

I left him standing there and walked over to my private office. As I opened the door, I glanced back at him and saw that he was looking at me with an expression of worried concern stamped all over his face.

Eva Ennis was watching him but there was no longer the rapt admiration in her eyes that a doe gives to a buck who is winning a battle.

I stood with my hand on the doorknob, the door half open, watching to see what would happen.

Eva turned away from Palmer and walked directly back to the filing case and began working on the files.

I went in, said hello to Elsie Brand, walked on back to my desk and seated myself.

Elsie said, "Bertha Cool has been screaming her head off."

"Let her scream. The phone will ring pretty quick. The receptionist will tell you a Lionel Palmer wants to see me. Have her tell him to sit down and wait."

"The psychological approach?" "That's right. I want him to cool his heels for a while."

I settled back in the swivel chair, put my feet on the desk and blew smoke at the ceiling. Within about five seconds the door burst open as though it was being taken off its hinges, and Bertha Cool came barging in.

interested in the blowgun the last I saw of it."

"Frank Sellers? He's with Homicide. What's he doing?"

"Investigating a homicide."

"What homicide?"

"Your client, Dean Crockett," I said.

"You mean that he's been ... that he's dead?"

"Dead as a doornail."

"Who killed him?"

"They don't know."

"What was he killed with?"

"There," I said, "is where we were a little too efficient, Bertha. Someone killed him with the blowgun that we recovered. At least, that's the way things look at the moment and that's what Frank Sellers thinks."

FAMILIAR SIGHT AT THE CIRCUS—BUT IN AN OPEN FIELD? . . . Travelers on U.S. 13 passing the fair grounds early yesterday might have wondered what two elephants and a camel were doing peacefully eating the tall green grass on the lot. ## Midwest City Of Chicago Becomes Deep-Water Port

CHICAGO (AP)—This big city on the edge of the inland prairie joined the ranks of the world's deep-sea ports today.

The Prins Johan Willem Friso, a trim Dutch freighter, arrived off Chicago at 6:45 a.m. She was the first ocean vessel to make the run through the new St. Lawrence Seaway to Chicago.

The 353-foot Friso, winner of the race to Chicago by a wide margin, rode at anchor in Lake Michigan until a midmorning welcome at Navy Pier.

Capt. Sander Klein, a stocky, ruddy man, was asked by a newsman how his trim, gray, diesel-driven craft managed to be first to reach the western end of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes water route.

"We got a motor," he replied with a laugh.

The Friso cut a watery trail along the entire distance from the deepened St. Lawrence route and proclaimed to the world that Great Lakes ports now are open to deep-draft sea vessels.

The Friso made the trip from the entrance of the locks, near Montreal, to Chicago in a little more than 4½ days.

As part of the welcome, a party of Indians set out in tugs to greet the Friso.

The first American flagship to make the run through the new Seaway to Chicago, the Santa Regina, approached Chicago with the expectation of docking late in the day.

The 4,000-ton Friso was one of the first through the locks when the seaway opened Saturday.

The Friso led her nearest competitor in the westward race from Montreal—the 459½-foot American flagship Santa Regina—by some 200 miles. The Santa Regina was scheduled to arrive at Lake Calumet Harbor on the far South Side late today.

A roaring welcome by some 15,000 persons greeted Capt. Sander Klein and his crew when the Friso docked at Milwaukee 90 miles north to become the first foreign flagship to tie up at a Lake Michigan port after sailing through the new canal.

Sirens screamed, jets whooshed overhead and a helicopter dropped roses.

Mayor Carl Zeidler welcomed the captain and crew, saying: "This is a glorious beginning of a tremendous era of expansion in shipping. I hope it leads not only to mutual economic advantage but also to greater understanding of the people with whom we trade."

A silver cup was presented to the owners, Fjell-Orange Lines. The Friso carries a cargo of wines, artificial flowers, glassed mushrooms, toys, twine, window glass, farm implements and dies.

Navarre theorized that the fish were brought in, probably by some jester, "just to get us all balled up."

Two Top Choices Of Summit Site

PARIS (AP)—Today's best guess for the site of an East-West summit conference is San Francisco, or Quebec.

Allied diplomats also reported that the target date favored by the Western powers for the conference is about Aug. 1.

Decisions on both points would have to be taken by East-West foreign ministers who meet in Geneva May 11.

As of now, the big powers have not definitely decided that a summit meeting will be held.

Both San Francisco and Quebec have been formally offered to the Big Four as summit sites. In the case of San Francisco, this has been done by the civic authorities. In the case of Quebec, Canada has sent notes to the powers concerned.

Britain has indicated to the Allies a preference for Vienna. The French also favor a European city, but reportedly would not object to a North American meeting place.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is believed ready to meet the Allies almost anywhere—perhaps most of all in the United States which he has never visited.

Ballet Tops Rock 'n' Roll

COLUMBUS, Miss. (AP)—The mamba, the cha-cha and rock'n' roll may be sweeping the country, but girls at Mississippi State College for Women prefer the classical ballet.

This is one reason for the high glamor quotient at the college, says Dance Director Mary Elizabeth Delaney, who explains: "There's nothing better for keeping the figure in trim. The dance is the only art which uses the body as an instrument of expression. The artist has his palette and brush, the musician his piano or violin, but the dancer has only his body."

Dance classes are so popular at MSCW that many of the girls join a special dance group for extra instruction after hours. This group recently presented a dance recital at the college, followed by a tour of the mid-South.

Miss Delaney, petite, black-eyed and Irish, teaches students the basic steps first, then goes on to

Argue Jury Could Not Follow All The Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court was told Wednesday that the jury which convicted former Communist party leader Julius Irving Scales could not have kept straight the "unchecked avalanche of evidence" presented at his trial.

The argument came from Telford Taylor of New York as he pleaded for the high court to overturn Scales' second conviction under the membership clause of the Smith Act, aimed at Communist party activities.

The clause makes it a crime to become a member of an organization which advocates violent overthrow of the government, when knowing the purpose of the organization to be illegal.

Taylor argued the membership clause was unconstitutional on its face, or as applied in the Scales case.

He charged that evidence was presented at the trial which had no bearing on the defendant.

Court Again Has Ruled Against Roadblocks

CHARLOTTE — Highway roadblocks at which all motorists are stopped for investigation and examination by police, have again been ruled unconstitutional, the Carolina Motor Club has been advised by AAA National Headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The latest case involved roadblocks set up in Miami, Florida and was decided by the Dade County Circuit Court.

In handing down his decision, Judge George E. Holt said that the roadblocks had a "commendable" purpose of checking on the validity of driver's licenses held by motorists. But he ruled that the indiscriminate stopping of all cars while seeking information about driving licenses or other violations of the law "is repugnant and contrary to the Fourth Amendment, the Fifth Amendment, the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America, and repugnant and contrary to Section 22 of the Declaration of Rights of the Constitution of the State of Florida."

The judge's decision quoted a number of cases in which it was held that a policeman cannot stop and arrest a driver unless he has reason to believe that some law has been violated.

The American Automobile Association took part in the case as "Friend of the Court" filing an extensive brief upholding the right of motorists to travel the roads and streets free from police molestation so long as no law is being broken.

"This decision is a distinct victory for the motorists," T. E. Pickard, Jr., Executive Vice President said. "It is to be hoped that this decision will dissuade other jurisdictions from engaging in the illegal and unconstitutional practice of indiscriminate roadblocking. Certainly, we can enforce our motor vehicle laws without depriving the motorists of their basic constitutional rights."

The Miami roadblock case was Abe Aronovitz v. the City of Miami, et al.

U.S. Temporarily Halting Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has tentatively decided to send no more high-altitude planes to West Berlin — for the next few weeks.

Some officials were urging today a review of this decision in the light of a new Soviet challenge. The Soviet Union disputed again Wednesday the American view that such flights are perfectly legal.

Most authorities appeared ready however, to stand by the temporary ban to avoid further controversy in advance of meetings with the Soviet Union.

The temporary halt was decided upon last week jointly by the State and Defense departments in a confidential review.

They took the decision mainly because of Britain's misgivings that further flights above the 10,000-foot level might look as if the West were deliberately trying to provoke an incident which might torpedo east-west talks on the future of Berlin and Germany.

High-flying C130 turboprop jets flew to West Berlin at altitudes of about 25,000 feet March 27 and

Sure Enough, 2 Aspirins In Mail

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service office here said it received the following letter from a taxpayer:

"I am extremely sorry but I just realize that I forgot to attach form W-2 to the rest of the papers mailed to you a few days ago. I realize that this will cause extra headaches and am herewith enclosing a couple of aspirins, and believe me, I am not doing this to be facetious either."

Sure enough, there were two aspirins enclosed.

Valedictorian And Salutatorian Named For Farmville Class

FARMVILLE — Richard Lee Dunn and Garry Bergeron, Jr., were announced today as valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, of Farmville High School's Class of 1959.

Announcement of the Senior scholastic leaders was made by Principal Sam D. Bundy, who also announced marshals for 1959 commencement exercises. Roderick Williams, Jr., and Caroline Lewis, members of the Junior Class, are co-chiefs of the marshals who are selected on the basis of grades.

Other marshals include (Sophomore Class) Allen Westley, Nassif Cannon, Jr., Donnie Lee Carraway, Jane Hobgood, Noel Lang, Eva Mae Lewis, Johnny Mewborn, J. Y. Monk, III, Ben Moore, Monty Pickett, Sandra Smith, Sarah Smith, Eddie Thomas and Billy Walker; and (Freshmen) Jean Allen, Melba Dixon, Sally Donat, Jimmie Everett, Margie Nichols and Faye Smith.

There are 76 lakes within a 50-mile radius of Spokane, Wash.

Their Machines Made Versatile

EATONTOWN, N.J. (AP)—Electronic data processing machines at the Signal Corps' research and development laboratories here have been given nicknames.

One is called "the dealer" and is a whiz at dealing, playing and winning blackjack.

Another computer is dubbed "the wise guy." Technicians have fixed it up so that if it slows in working its keyboard, it sends this message: "If you don't press my button soon, I'll start swearing."

RELIGIOUS GRADUATES

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — A survey shows that nearly 70 per cent of the alumni of Hillsdale College here are active church members of leaders, belonging to 25 different denominations.

Warning Draws Surprise Result

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — When it was learned a club was hidden in a cell block of the county jail, prisoners were advised that unless the weapon was turned in, there would be no evening television permitted.

Five wooden clubs and three hacksaw blades were turned in.

Be Careful Of Words' Meaning

HONOLULU (AP)—Dr. Kenneth Warner advises girls to watch their language in coping with ardent swains.

Warner says the warning should not be, "Sir, you have gone too far."

It should be, "Sir, you have come too close."

The University of Maryland semantics expert gave this example to show how people fail to say what they mean.

License Offices Closing Monday

Greenville offices of the State Driver's License Examining Bureau will be closed Monday to permit personnel to attend a regional meeting.

The meeting will be held in the State Highway Patrol building in Greenville, beginning at 9 a.m. An estimated 35 persons from 27 counties are expected to be present.

FBI Recovers All But Small Part Of Sum Taken In S.C. Bank Robbery

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The FBI today recovered all but a fraction of the $6,376 taken in Tuesday's holdup of the First National Bank of Sharon, S.C.

Roy K. Moore, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, said two Clover, S.C., men charged in the robbery led officers to $2,271 buried near the old Clover city dump.

The money, soggy from rain Wednesday night, was wrapped in two paper bags.

Recovery of the loot came less than two days after the nighttime robbery of the bank near Clover and the arrest in Charlotte of James Hiram Fields, 31, and Edward Campbell Walker, 44.

Both men, who have been questioned frequently, are being held at the county jail in York, S.C., under $25,000 bonds. Authorities aren't saying exactly what led to the quick arrest of the two suspects.

But this much is known: Authorities received a tip—the source was not disclosed—that Fields might be one of the robbers, and that he had a girlfriend who worked at a restaurant here.

She owns a light green, 1958 Ford with Florida license plates. The description matched that of the getaway car. The license plates on the car driven by the bandits was turned down, but they were white like Florida plates.

A quick check at the restaurant disclosed the girl's car missing, and a 1954 Ford with South Carolina plates in the parking lot.

A policeman was stationed at the restaurant.

The girl's car apparently was abandoned because it had a bullet hole in the gas tank. Three persons fired at the fleeing bandits. The car was found in a wooded area near Clover.

Police believe the suspects went into Clover and got some friends to drive them to Charlotte.

When they arrived at the restaurant, they were immediately taken into custody. The girl was questioned by authorities and released.

The men were taken to South Carolina and put in a police lineup. Bank officials identified them. That was less than 12 hours after the holdup.

Both men have denied any part in the robbery. A preliminary hearing is scheduled at York May 6. The loot has not been recovered.

Cooking With Sunshine Is Given Test On Reservation

By TURK SMITH
PARKER, Ariz. (AP)—A University of Wisconsin research team is selling the Indians of sun-baked Arizona on the usefulness of sunshine.

"It's not exactly selling," Dr. Milton Barnett says. "We prefer to call it good anthropology."

Dr. Barnett is head of a team which has been instructing Indians on the Colorado River Indian reservation on the use of solar cookers developed at Wisconsin. The university wants to know if people in areas where only sunlight and poverty are plentiful will use them.

The solar cooker consists of a saucer-shaped reflector and a grill on which a pot, pan or skillet may be placed. The reflector is about four feet in diameter and made of cheap plastic coated with aluminum foil. When the reflector is pointed toward the sun, rays are focused on the grill.

Living on the sun-drenched reservation have been two members of the Wisconsin team, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Blake. Blake is a graduate student.

"The people here are just too courteous," Blak says. "They all say they like the cookers, whether they use them or not."

The scientists had a hard time distributing the stoves at first. The neat, shiny reflectors looked like commercial merchandise to the four tribes of the reservation, who are never far from poverty.

"We had to sell them on the idea of taking something for nothing," Dr. Barnett said. Once the Indians accepted the idea, they became almost eager to help.

Thirty-seven families accepted cookers, and all of the owners said they used them constantly. A little applied research and the scientists discovered perhaps half the families were actually using them.

Other solar cookers have been distributed to various parts of the world, but Barnett says the Wisconsin project is the first attempt at gauging the device's efficiency and acceptability in daily food preparation.

The findings? Indians have no trouble understanding, or using, the cookers.

Possible defects? Size, Dr. Barnett says. President cookers will heat only one pot at a time. New ones being developed will hold two pots.

One complaint, though, he could not answer. "It's too hot," a Mohave housewife said. "How do you cool it off?"

Top Gymnasts Among Victims

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Five of Spain's top gymnasts were among 28 persons killed in the crash of a Spanish airliner on a hill near Madrid Wednesday.

The twin-engine DC3 of the government-owned Iberia Airline was en route from Barcelona to Madrid. Officials blamed bad weather for the crash.

The gymnasts, bound for a meet in the Canary Islands, were Joaquin Blume, European champion; Oira Sole; Pablo Muller; and Jose and Ruy Aguilar. Blume's wife also was killed.

Boy Bridegroom Cleared In Death

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Robert Hale, slender boy bridegroom from Texas, was cleared of guilt Wednesday night in the fatal shooting of his 16-year-old pregnant wife.

A coroner's jury found that Kathleen Hale died Tuesday after she was struck by the accidental discharge of a .20-gauge shotgun.

Hale, who was 18 April 7, is the son of I. B. Hale, former FBI man and a football star at the Texas Christian University in the 1930s.

Kathleen—nicknamed K. K.—was the daughter of John Connolly, once an aide to Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.). Both families live in Fort Worth.

The youngsters eloped to Ardmore, Okla., and married March 15. The boy has been working for a boat company here.

At times young Hale was almost incoherent as he told the jury of a stormy honeymoon and then finding his bride of 44 days seated on a couch in their small apartment with a shotgun in her hands.

He knelt at her feet, he said, and pleaded with her to put it down. She wouldn't.

"She was telling me she was going to kill herself," he said. "She said, 'Bobby, I'm sick in my mind and I need help. I know now that no one can help me.'"

She brought the gun up to her head, Hale said. Then —

"At the last desperate moment, I lunged at the gun and hit it. I hit it as hard as I could. It hit the wall and she was still . . ."

A HOUSE DID IT

DANVILLE, Va. (AP)—A house knocked down a stop sign at an intersection here this week. Police charged Lawrence Burton with moving a house on a flat bed truck over city streets Tuesday without a permit.

The United States has the largest corn production and China the largest rice production in the world.

Plan Parties

A series of parties, for children who will enter first grades in Greenville elementary schools in September, will begin next week.

The "get-acquainted" parties will be held in first grade classrooms of the schools in which the children have been registered for the 1959-1960 school year. School officials have requested the presence of all children and their parents at the meetings.

Special information will be conveyed to parents while the children are familiarizing themselves with the schools and classrooms.

The schedule of parties includes Elmhurst School, May 4, 1:30 p.m.; Wahl-Coates School, May 6, 2 p.m.; Fleming Street School, May 7, 1:30 p.m.; Third Street School, May 8, 1:30 p.m.; South Greenville School, May 8, 1:30 p.m.; and Agnes Fullilove School, May 15, 1:30 p.m.

Stood Off Police With Shotgun

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP)—A widow with a shotgun barricaded herself in her apartment for three hours Wednesday and tossed back the tear gas grenades fired by police.

Mrs. Catherine Ranonis, about 60, held 30 policemen at bay by threatening to shoot at them if they stormed her third-floor apartment.

Two policemen tried to sneak up the back stairs and found out she wasn't bluffing. She fired at them, but the pellets lodged in the wall and the two backed off unhurt.

Finally, however, the tear gas got the better of Mrs. Ranonis and officers wearing gas masks entered the apartment and disarmed her.

Mrs. Ranonis had a long feud with a neighborhood funeral home over parking of funeral cars in front of the apartment building where she lives. The dispute erupted again Wednesday, and police were called.

Mrs. Ranonis barricaded herself in the apartment and threatened to fire. Thirty tear gas grenades were hurled. She picked them up as they landed and threw them back.

Then police, wearing gas masks mounted the stairs, broke in and disarmed her.

She was taken to Philadelphia General Hospital for psychiatric examination.

Reconciliation Meeting Staged

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Swedish actress Anita Ekberg has conferred with her husband Anthony Steel on the possibility of a reconciliation.

Her lawyer, Simon Taub, said he arranged the discussion Wednesday.

Miss Ekberg arrived from Europe last Monday amid rumors that she would seek a divorce. She is 27, Steel is 41. They were married in 1956.

Yankus Decides To Leave U.S.A.

CHICAGO (AP)—Stanley Yankus, Michigan farmer who rebelled against federal regulations on planting wheat, said today he will move to Australia.

His decision was made public in a copyrighted story in the Chicago Daily News which sponsored a preview trip to Australia by the Dowagiac, Mich., man.

Yankus' reason for the move, he said, is that he thinks freedom has a greater future in Australia than in the United States.

He says he believes this country has only one last chance to save itself against socialism. It can be saved, he said, only by the public writing Congress urging repeal of the 1938 Agricultural Adjustment Act.

Yankus was fined $5,072 for planting 35 acres of wheat on his farm whereas he had been ordered to plant only 15.

His defense was that he raised the wheat to feed his chickens.

"The issue isn't whether I go or stay," Yankus declared. "That's a private matter."

"The issue is this: It's wrong to prevent a man from earning his own living so long as he isn't harming another man.

"I haven't harmed any farmer or city dweller. I have earned my living for myself and my family. I have paid my taxes."

"I believe I have been fined unjustly and in violation of the Constitution of the United States."

Yankus said he and his wife, Mildred, have been ready to move since they sold their Dowagiac farm April 4 for $30,000. They have two sons and a daughter, Russell, 13; Dennis, 11, and Karen, 3.

Bridges' Aide Is Denied Entry

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese Foreign Office today refused to explain its refusal of a visa for Harry Bridges' right-hand man to attend an Asian dock workers conference in Tokyo.

Louis Goldblatt, secretary-treasurer of Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, said in San Francisco that he had been denied a visa.

The left-wing All-Japan Dockworkers Union charged that Soviet and Indonesian delegates as well as Goldblatt are being barred from the conference opening in Tokyo May 11. They demanded an explanation from the government.

Toast To Peace By President Liu

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China's new president, Liu Shao-chi, toasted world peace, the happiness of the people of every country, and "the development of friendship between the peoples of all countries" today.

Liu presided at his first diplomatic reception since being named president Monday.

Peiping radio said he shook hands with the heads of diplomatic missions from countries recognizing Red China.

Help Is Given To Damaged Tanker

PERTH, Australia (AP)—The Italian liner Australia reached the fire-swept Norwegian tanker Farmand in the Indian Ocean today and put aboard a doctor to treat eight injured crewmen.

Eight other sailors were killed in the engineering explosion Wednesday aboard the 11,000-ton tanker 780 miles northwest of Fremantle.

The Farmand, after sending out an SOS, reported the fire out and said she no longer needed assistance.

Michigan Faces Host Of Worries Without Money

By TOM SHAWVER
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — What happens when a state runs out of money to pay its employees and pay its bills?
Will guards desert state prisons, and attendants quit their jobs at mental institutions?
Will suppliers cut off food and fuel deliveries to state tuberculosis sanatoriums?
Will hospitals refuse to accept state-supported crippled children and turn others out?
How long will telephone and power companies carry the state on the cuff?

These and other questions burst upon state officials and employees alike today as implications of Michigan's financial picture began to unfold.
Payment was halted on salaries of 28,000 employees and bills for fuel, food, telephones and travel in what Gov. G. Mennen Williams said was an "artificial bankruptcy" brought on by stalling in the Republican - controlled Legislature.
The curbs were ordered Wednesday by the State Administrative Board in the face of a $116,900,000 deficit expected by May 15.

They followed a refusal by GOP lawmakers to cash veterans trust fund securities which would tide the state over another three months. Republicans insisted on attaching a rider which would have raised the state sales tax to four per cent from three.
The state's financial difficulties have been blamed by Republicans on what they say are excessive spending policies of the Williams' administration. The governor, however, has contended that GOP-controlled Legislatures failed to recognize the need for higher budgetary appropriations over the past 10 years.

Nat'l C-of-C In Partial Retreat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Chamber of Commerce was in partial retreat today from its policy of advocating a lowering of international trade barriers.
At the windup of the Chamber's 47th annual meeting Wednesday delegates eliminated long-standing policy declarations calling for repeal of the "Buy American" laws and urging business and government to encourage increased imports into the United States.
The deletions did not alter the Chamber's positions in support of the trade agreements program. The businessmen affirmed anew the policy of "selective adjustment of tariffs and the orderly and gradual reduction of other barriers to world trade."
Some local Chambers and affiliated trade associations had protested that many domestic industries need more protection from the competition of low-wage foreign producers.
Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, Boston, took office as the Chamber's new president at the closing dinner of the convention Wednesday night. He succeeds William A. McDonnell, board chairman of the First National Bank, St. Louis.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures
There recently has been a virtual revolution for home movie and slide showings. New apparatus and accessories make pictures brighter and more visible from a wider viewing area while presenting them automatically with a minimum of fuss and bother.

Now, the only thing needed to make showings wonderful home entertainment is another revolution — one to do with the preliminary editing job on pictures. The hobbyist must have the determination to throw out, or at least eliminate from a public showing, the bad, the mediocre and the duplicate shots. Then, after arranging only his best pictures in a story-telling sequence, any comfortably-seated audience will be convinced he's not only a good host but a good photographer.

Most of us have become aware of the drastic changes that have taken place in slide projectors. New fully automatic, streamlined models have push-button or remote controls which enable us to attend to the duties of being a host while showing our pictures.

Projection screens also have undergone a change lately; not as spectacular as that shown by projectors, perhaps, but none-the-less drastic. They've become lenticular.

Present-day screens are one with surface made up of thousands of tiny "lenses" permanently fixed on it. From a few feet away, the screen appears as a smooth silvery surface but when examined closely, you discover the tiny vertical and horizontal lines which break it up into individual reflecting lenses.

Lenticular screens claim two advantages: It will reflect the best possible picture to the widest viewing area and permit projection in a normally lit room.

When wide-screen movies came into vogue some years ago, it spurred the development of better methods of reflecting screen surfaces. In 1953, Radiant introduced a lenticular screen to the professional theatre field.

When this was adopted to home-viewing, people could sit at the sides in a living room or den and see a brighter picture image at viewing angles up to 100 degrees.
However, pictures on the old type of beaded screen will look brighter when viewed from positions close to the projector. In a test made on the two screens side-by-side, the projected image looked brighter on the lenticular screen as the distance from the projector (and the viewing angle) increased. The second advantage of a lenticular screen eliminates the need for a completely darkened room for projecting pictures. Just as we

Delaware Assembly Favors Using Whip

DOVER, Del. (AP)—Delaware's Legislature, concerned by an increase in the crime rate, has passed a bill making whipping mandatory for people convicted of robbery.
The bill says: 20 to 40 lashes for the first offense and not less than 30 for each subsequent conviction.
The House passed the Senate version Wednesday 22-3. Gov. J. Caleb Boggs, however, declined comment when asked what he thought of the bill.

He said he would decide early next week about signing it.
If he does sign, it will be the first time in the history of the state that whipping has been mandatory punishment for a crime.
In the old days whipping was used to punish wife beating, theft and a variety of other crimes, but it was always imposed at the discretion of the judge. The present sentence for robbery for example, is a fine of not less than $500 and imprisonment for 3 to 25 years, plus not more than 40 lashes if the judge wishes.
For seven years there have been no official whippings in Delaware.
The most vocal opponent of the bill was Rep. Paul F. Livingston (D-Wilmington), the only Negro member of the House.
"Lashes take the manhood from the man," he said. "When you whip his back, then you got him. He can never lift his head up any more."
But Rep. R. Allen Cannon (D-Nanticoke Acres) argued that the bill would serve as a deterrent to robberies. He cited a number of them recently in the southern part of the state.

WE CANNOT TELL A LIE!!

We couldn't sell these at regular price—So we are giving them away . . .

If you can use any of these items, you will be buying many of them cheaper than we did. We hope they will all be gone by Saturday night. ## Chips Are Down For Clemson In ACC Baseball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They meet Duke in the first of three important games this week. Clemson edges with the tallend Blue Devils again Friday, and meets N.C. State Saturday.

They meet Duke in the first of three important games this week. Clemson collides with the tallend Blue Devils again Friday, and meets N.C. State Saturday.

That will just about wrap up Clemson's 14-game conference schedule. Then they'll have to sit back and hope the leaders will knock off each other.

After this week, the Tigers have one ACC game remaining. That's with South Carolina May 8.

Clemson, now in fourth place in the ACC standings, has a 6-4 conference record.

One thing in Clemson's favor is that the leaders have farther to go before winding up their conference schedules.

Wake Forest and Maryland are tied for first place with 5-2 records. That leaves seven games for each.

Virginia is next at 5-3, with six games left.

Wake Forest gets a crack at both Maryland and Virginia this week. The Deacons meet Virginia Friday and the Terps Saturday.

Maryland was the only conference team scheduled to play Wednesday, and that game with Georgetown was rained out.

The Clemson-Duke contest is the only game scheduled today. The Friday schedule also has South Carolina at N.C. State and North Carolina at Maryland.

Suspicious Over Cashing Coupons

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Investigators said supermarket operators became curious when Mrs. Elwood E. Kist demanded cash up on redeeming large groups of coupons. They said she cashed as high as $30 worth of coupons at a time. She had 400 altogether.

Her postman husband was jailed on a charge of stealing merchandise coupons mailed to residents on his route. He denies guilt.

What is it about the Chicago White Sox that peps up the New York Yankees?

There was, for instance, that dreary, final-two-month slump the Yankees had last season before clinching the American League pennant. At one stage they had lost four of six games before playing Chicago, then took two of four from the White Sox.

Later, they lost four of five, but then took two of three from the Sox. And just before locking up the flag they swept two from Chicago, after again losing four of six games.

The Yankees had their first run-in of the season with the White Sox Wednesday. They went into Comiskey Park below .500 after losing four in a row. Bob Turley, the Yanks' right-handed ace, had lost two straight. And the club hadn't been able to score twice in any of its last 51 innings.

So the Yankees rapped three home runs, scored twice in the first inning and beat the White Sox 5-2. Turley evened his record at 2-2, although giving up nine hits.

That helped the Yankees to fifth with a .500 record and helped to hand the Cleveland Indians, whose game with Boston was rained out, a 1½-game lead. The Baltimore Orioles remained tied with Chicago for second despite a 7-1 loss at Detroit in a game held to five innings by rain.

Kansas City defeated Washington 7-6. In the National League, Milwaukee regained first place with a 9-3 victory over St. Louis while Philadelphia knocked off Los Angeles 5-4. Cincinnati clobbered the Chicago Cubs 18-3, Pittsburgh beat San Francisco 3-2.

Mickey Mantle, Hank Bayer and Bill Skowron homered for the Yankees, who had eight hits. Mantle's came with a man on in the first off loser Ray Moore (0-2).

Only Nellie Fox, who was 4-for-5, gave Turley any real trouble. Frank Lary (1-2) became the first complete-game pitcher this season for the Tigers. Larry Osborne and Al Kaline homered for Detroit in a three-run first inning against loser Arnie Portocarrero (0-3).

Hector Lopez drove in four runs for the A's, singling home the winner in the ninth. He also hit a two-run homer. Tom Gorman (1-0) won it in relief after the nats chased Ralph Terry in a three-run ninth that tied it 6-all. Vito Valentineti (0-2) was the loser in relief.

Among the scheduled attractions of the formal opening are comparison jumps between teams representing the United States, Russia, Yugoslavia and Hungary.

The center, located on a tract of land on the Orange Municipal Airport, includes a 52-acre drop zone, designed to eliminate any possible landing hazards.

There's more to this business of competition parachuting than just jumping out of an airplane and pulling the string.

First there's the matter of accuracy. Here, the object is to guide the chute so that the landing is made as close as possible to a predetermined target spot.

Then there's maneuvers. These are made from so-called free falls. The jumper leaves the plane at heights ranging from 9,000 to 15,000 feet altitude, and the parachute is not opened until reaching 2,000 feet. That time in between is the free fall.

In competition, the jumpers—during this free fall period—are required to execute certain maneuvers. These include 360 degree turns, spins and rolls. Points are scored both from the ground judges and an official who sometimes follows the contestant from the plane.

At New Bern

Greenville trying to shake off a two game losing streak, journey to New Bern today with hopes of their seventh loop victory of the season.

Coach Bo Farley's club has been in the midst of a hitting slump and have lost their last two games to Jacksonville and Tarboro to drop into second place in the Northeastern loop behind Elizabeth City.

Southpaw Ronnie Finch will get a chance to revive the local's hopes as he will be Farley's choice for mound duties. Merrill Bynum will be available for relief duty.

A victory by Rose High would set the stage for a showdown meeting between Greenville and Elizabeth City next Tuesday.

Sky Divers Will Open 'Center'

ORANGE, Mass. (AP)—The first sports center for some of the United States' more vigorous athletes—sky divers—opens Saturday in Orange, Mass.

It's the sport parachuting center, for members of a new and growing sport—competition parachuting.

Among the scheduled attractions of the formal opening are comparison jumps between teams representing the United States, Russia, Yugoslavia and Hungary.

The center, located on a tract of land on the Orange Municipal Airport, includes a 52-acre drop zone, designed to eliminate any possible landing hazards.

Calumet Offers Surprise Entry For Kentucky Derby

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) On-And-On, Calumet Farm's hope for a third straight Kentucky Derby victory, was a surprise entry today as 18 of the finest 3-year-old horses in the land were named for the 85th running of America's glamor race.

As late as Wednesday, trainer Jimmy Jones had announced that the famous red and blue silks of Mrs. Gene Markey's Calumet Farm would not be in the starting lineup because On-And-On had failed to perform to expectations in prep races. On-And-On showed great speed in races at Keeneland but was a badly beaten fourth at Churchill Downs in a 7-furlong race won by Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer Saturday. If all face the barrier at 4:30 p.m. EST Saturday, the 1¼-mile classic will carry a gross value of $165,000 with a net of $120,900 and a garland of red roses going to the winner.

C. T. Chesery's First Landing, apparently back in the form that carried him to the 2-year-old title in 1958, is the lukewarm choice to measure 15 other colts, one gelding (Easy Spur); and Silver Spoon, a speedy filly who'll seek to emulate Regret's performance of 44 years ago. Regret is the only filly ever victorious in the derby.

The names of 17 had been dropped into the entry box before First Landing was made eligible. It cost $250 to enter a horse and another $1,250 is due 45 minutes before post time.

Eddie Arcaro, who rode First Landing to the 2-year-old title last year and then back into the derby picture with an easy triumph in one division of the Derby Trial Tuesday after several disappointing races, will be aboard the Chenery colt in quest of his sixth Kentucky Derby triumph. No other jockey can match his derby record.

Entered along with First Landing were such other highly regarded performers as Sword Dancer, Neil S. McCarthy's Finnesan, Fred Turner Jr.'s Tomy Lee, and Open View and his front running stablemate, Atoll, from the Elkcam Stable.

Rounding out the field were Festival King, Royal Orbit, John Bruce, Die Hard, Dunce, Rico Tesio, Our Dad, Trollus, and the Chosen one.

In the draw for post positions, Our Dad, who likes to come from behind, drew the No. 1 spot. First Landing, a speed performer, drew a favorable position in No. 3; with Rico Tesio No. 2. Silver Spoon drew No. 4, another favored spot for horses with early speed.

Some of the other favorites were not so fortunate. Finnesan drew No. 8, Tomy Lee No. 9, Open View No. 14, and Sword Dancer No. 15.

Stroud, Main Lead First Round Carolinas Open

SHELBY, N.C. (AP)—Young Marilyn Stroud, a professional golfer looking for a job, and Mac Main of Danville, Va., member of a golfing family, go into today's second round of the Carolinas Open golf tournament deadlocked for the lead at 69.

The two paced the field of 75 in Wednesday's first round and finished a stroke better than Dick Tiddy, Charlotte's touring pro, and Orville White of Aiken, S.C., who tied at 70.

The tournament jackpot is $2,500 plus entry fees.

Many players had trouble with the back nine on the Cleveland Country Club course's back nine. Only six of the field were below par 72. The other two were Wayne Haley of Martinsville, Va., and Aubrey Apple of Greensboro. They had 71. Defending champion Furman Hayes of Gastonia had a first round 75.

Knotted at 72 were Clarence Owens of Hickory, Joe Cheves of Morgantown, Charlie Prentice of Columbia, and amateurs P. J. Boatwright Jr. of Pinehurst and Bobby Ford of Georgetown, S.C.

Stroud, a 25-year-old long hitting Greenville, S.C., pro, is fairly new to Carolina golf circles. He formerly served as club pro in Florida and recently was an instructor at a nine-hole layout in Greenville. He presently is unaffiliated.

Main also is unattached, but a brother, Fred, is pro at the Glen Oak Club in Danville. Mac once served as an assistant to veteran Al Smith at Danville Country Club for several years, and learned his golf from his father, who was head pro at Danville CC for many years.

Geneva, Switzerland, was once annexed by France.

Trainer Asserts 'Real' Patterson In Ring Friday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The "real" Floyd Patterson will be on display against British challenger Brian Hayes in their heavyweight title fight Friday night.

That was almost the final word from the champion's camp today as Patterson went through his last light workouts for his fourth title defense.

"This is going to be the Patterson you saw knock out Archie Moore," said trainer Dan Florio. "You're going to see the real Patterson against London."

Patterson flattened Moore in the fifth round Nov. 30, 1956, in a flawless performance.

The 24-year-old champion agreed he was in top shape but, as usual, declined to make any predictions.

London didn't appear to be ruffled.

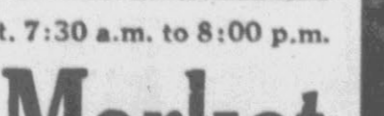

"I've never been better," he said. "All I hope is that I have the perfect edge, when I step into the ring tomorrow night. Then it will be a good show."

The 15-rounder is scheduled for 9 p.m. (EST). It will be broadcast and telecast nationally (NBC).

May 1 Designated Law Day, U.S.A. Potential Loopholes Noted

Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles in conjunction with Law Day U.S.A. prepared for The Daily Reflector by members of the Pitt County Bar Association. Today's article was written by Harry M. Brown, president of the Pitt County Bar Association.

It seems to have been common to all European people to celebrate the arrival of Spring since even before the Christian Era. This festival or holiday was held on the first day of May and called May Day. It was marked by festivities, ceremonies around the maypole, pageants, singing, and merry-making on the green. So it has come down to us and is still practiced in some parts of this country.

More recently May Day has been seized upon by the Communist Party, for reasons known best to the devious minds of its members, as an occasion for parading and demonstrating their solidarity. In communist Russia for years the men who happened to be in power at the time have reviewed day-long parades from the top of Lenin's tomb in Red Square demonstrating the military might of the Russian colossus and have delivered important speeches to their subservient audience. Indeed some of their most violent diatribes against the western world have been let loose on this day.

America's answer to this shameful appropriation of an old and innocent holiday by communist elements is LAW DAY U.S.A. instituted by presidential proclamation in 1958. It is again to be observed on May 1 of this year. It is endorsed by the American Bar Association and the North Carolina Bar Association and supported by a call from Governor Luther H. Hodges on the citizens of the State to take part in the observance. Throughout the county more than 1,400 state and local bar associations and countless civil, religious, and school organizations will participate.

The purpose of Law Day U.S.A. is to call attention of the free people of the world, and especially of the United States, to the importance to our way of life of the rule of law, as enforced by free and independent courts and backed by free, unintimidated people, as opposed to government by dictators, groups, commissariats, or bureaus — by whatever designation they are called — representing force, coercion, or duress based on fear, under a foreign ideology. It is a time to rededicate and reaffirm our belief in the principles upon which this nation was founded and also to remember that only a people willing to battle for their liberties and freedoms, no matter from which direction they are attacked, will long retain them.

Carefree College Youth Is A Myth

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — Despite the phony raids and telephone booth shenanigans, the idea of a happy, carefree college student is just a myth, a psychiatrist said today.

College students are just as confused — as prone to emotional and mental ills — as anyone else, reported Dr. Melvin L. Selzer of the University of Michigan. In fact, freshmen carry with them the very emotional problems they had at home, he told the American Psychiatric Assn. annual meeting.

The stresses of college life are liable to bring these problems to a head, if anything. The case load at the mental hygiene clinic on the university campus regularly show two peaks — one at mid-semester examinations and one at final examination time.

What about party raids and the like? This is just a way of blowing off some of the stresses and anxieties college students build up during the school year, Dr. Selzer said. It is neither alarming nor abnormal behavior.

More organized ways are pep rallies and intramural athletics. Each year nearly 8 per cent of the nearly 20,000 students at Michigan come for counseling at the mental hygiene clinic. Some 40 per cent of these come on their own. The others are referred by faculty, doctors and academic counselors.

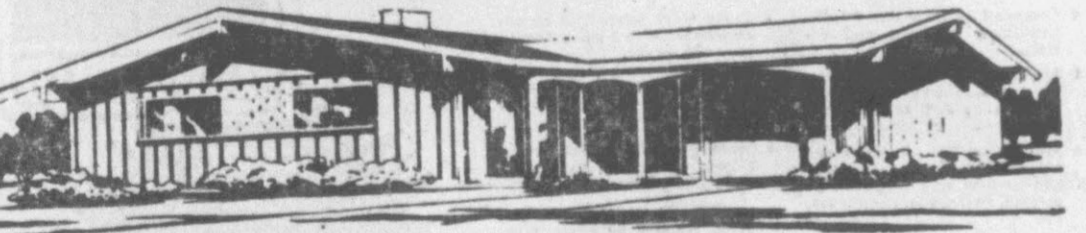

The patients seen by a college health service psychiatrist are comparable with patients found in almost any public mental psychiatric clinic, he said.

Police said Thomas E. Stafford, 72, and his daughter Ruth, 40, apparently died last Monday. Both had histories of heart trouble. Police theorized Miss Stafford collapsed and her father was stricken while trying to help her. The bodies were discovered by a son, Frederick E. Stafford of Holyoke.

Potential Loopholes Noted In Soviet Nuclear Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. authorities see many potential loopholes in the Soviet offer of limited inspection to back up a nuclear test ban.

With only a general outline of the Soviet idea presented thus far, officials here have found enough weak spots to make the plan unacceptable to the West.

They are awaiting clarification before deciding whether the proposal shows promise of breaking the long deadlock in the Geneva talks on banning nuclear tests.

While Western powers had called for an inspection system to police any agreement to halt atomic explosions, Moscow had pushing for veto power.

In a switch Tuesday night, the Soviets announced in Geneva they would cooperate in a veto-free system of spot checking the sites of suspected nuclear explosions — provided the Big Three atomic powers fix in advance the number of such checks to be allowed each year.

President Eisenhower pointed up some of the loopholes Wednesday. He said there is no sense in talking about the number of inspection visits to be allowed as long as the Soviets insist on veto rights on who is to serve on control committees and inspection teams and what can be inspected. Washington officials also said that if the Reds still reserve veto rights on the planned seven-nation control commission they could cripple inspections by chopping appropriations, barring the hiring of experts and other devices.

The Soviets have demanded, too, that the inspection teams be headed by nationals of the country being inspected and that the majority on the teams be nationals. Americans contend this amounts to self-inspection.

In the U.S. view, the number of inspections to be allowed would be of great importance.

According to one set of scientific calculations, there may be from 200 to 1,000 natural events a year — such as earthquakes — which would have to be checked to assure they were not atomic blasts.

Thus if the Communists propose only a half-dozen inspections a year, for instance, this would clearly fall short of an adequate inspection system in the West's view.

Values Of Other Peoples Must Be Understood

If we are going to live in a world where communications are shrinking distance and language study is helping people cross barriers never crossed before, we must realize that the ways of life and the value systems of other peoples must be understood, a world-famous anthropologist told an audience at East Carolina College last night.

Dr. Melville J. Herskovits, speaking under the auspices of the Danforth Foundation Project at the college, discussed "A Cross-Cultural View of Bias and Values." Dr. Herskovits is Director of African Studies at Northwestern University and the author of a number of books on anthropology.

His talk emphasized the importance of cultural anthropology in furthering an understanding of world problems and of building better relationships among peoples.

The cross-cultural approach to the study of man, he said, is one of the principal contributions anthropology has made. Broadly humanistic in point of view and scientific in method, it includes, he explained, the total range of human relations as found in the cultures of different peoples, recognizing the unities underlying cultural diversities, and takes into account the validity of the ideas held by people of different cultures.

Ethnocentrism, he explained, implies that one approves the society in which he lives and accepts its scheme of values. Bias, he said, is of many types and can be a very good thing. In its best sense, it works toward satisfactory social and personal adjustments. "It is inherent in all human society," he added.

When, however, a people claims cultural superiority and aims at forcing its culture on others, dangerous tensions are created, he continued.

If you know people as individual human beings, he said, you will find that a heritage of bitterness exists in many parts of the world because Europeans and Americans have adopted and made clear to others the attitude that their culture is best.

"Colonialism is a major charge against us," he stated. Defined as "something a white man does to a black man," colonialism in this sense is a major reason for conflict in Africa. Dr. Herskovits observed. The assumption by the West of cultural superiority, he described as "more insidious and devastating" than their exertion of political power.

Values, he continued, make life meaningful, give sanction to human behavior, and are the basis of moral and religious beliefs.

Values, he explained, are learned through an educational process. The young, for example, he said, are taught proper behavior and the convention accepted by their society. Underneath conventions, he continued, are basic attitudes which lie below the level of consciousness. These values, he explained, are the most important thing that people have.

People under the domination of others, he stated, have not given up the values which lie beneath their behavior. Forced into acquiescence or submission, they will often seize the opportunity to return to their old accustomed ways and reasserting their system of values. This is what has happened, he said, in some of the Eastern countries when they have regained their political independence.

Mother Swam To Bring Help

HYNDMAN, Pa. (AP) — "It was a horrible experience, but thank God my husband and children are all right."

So exclaimed Mrs. Nellie Bridges of Corringanville, Md., Wednesday after she dived into a rain-swollen stream to summon aid for her husband and three children, trapped in their partially submerged auto.

Mrs. Bridges, 41, who was driving, said she missed a curve on a country road near the Pennsylvania-Maryland line about 20 miles southwest of Bedford, Pa., and the car plunged into the creek.

Mrs. Bridges said: "We were in about five feet of water in mid-stream. The water was very cold but I kept on going. I hadn't swam for more than 23 years, long before I was married. But I knew I had to reach shore."

She ran about half a mile to a farmhouse and phoned for help. Two volunteer firemen swam to the car and brought the father and children to shore.

Bridges, 51, a four-legged Baltimore & Ohio railroad trackman, told his rescuers he and the children spent a harrowing hour. He said the swift current carried the auto about 100 feet downstream before it wedged against a rock.

While Ellender's opponents claimed the vote to turn back his reduction effort, they were less hopeful of getting the House to accept more than a compromise 150 million dollars.

Later they expect an even harder fight on a proposal by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) to embark July 1 on a five-year program to provide 1 1/2 billion dollars a year in Treasury financing for the economic development fund, which makes loans to underdeveloped nations.

President Eisenhower told a news conference he agrees with Fulbright that the loan fund should be put on a long-range basis and not tied down to yearly appropriations.

But he did not commit himself to Fulbright's figure. The President is asking 700 millions for the fund for the fiscal year starting July 1.

POSSE OF POLICE

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Carl Doyle, 43, probably never saw so many law enforcement men in his life as when he broke into a suburban Walbridge restaurant and rifled a juke box. While he was in the act, in burst two state highway patrolmen, a village marshal, a township constable and a railroad detective. Doyle pleaded guilty.

London Good Samaritans Are As Near As Telephone

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — "I've called you," said the flat, tired voice on the telephone, "because I think I'm going to kill myself."

"You must do nothing of the kind," said the voice that answered the call. "Just give me your name, address and telephone number—and do nothing until we get there. We'll come in a hurry."

answered over 1,800 desperate rate sigh. And then, the caller identified himself.

"It's true then," he asked, almost with the pathos of a child, "that you care whether or not I kill myself?"

"Of course we care." In less than 10 minutes a Samaritan arrived at the address, listened patiently to a story of loneliness and despair and talked the man out of committing suicide.

The initial visit was followed up by others, and the man who thought he had nothing to live for found a new interest in life and friends.

In Business Five Years This remarkable organization, the Samaritans, was started five years ago by the Rev. Chad Varah, rector of St. Stephen Walbrook.

In this city of eight million — where a human being can become more lonely than in the heart of a jungle—he felt there was a great need for such a service.

The Samaritans offer a 24-hour service seven days a week for those "tempted to suicide or despair."

In the five years they have been visiting clients, do telephone duty calls.

Of these, about 4 per cent were from people on the brink of suicide. All of them were persuaded from self-destruction.

Apart from a small full time staff of workers, whose salaries are paid from a grant by the Gulbenkian Foundation, the Samaritans rely on voluntary help.

Presently there are about 125 volunteers. They devote their spare time to visiting clients, do telephone duty during the evening and on weekends.

They sleep in the "bunk room" in the church tower so they can answer calls that come in the night. These people, men and women, have had no previous training in such work. But once a Samaritan they attend special classes.

They offer their assistance with religious problems, arrange for the treatment of seriously disturbed clients and give readily of their friendship to the lonely.

Overcome Shyness The Samaritans are unable to help people with financial or housing problems. They don't have money enough for this.

Their investigations have found that shyness is behind a lot of the troubles; a shyness that prevents people from joining clubs and organizations where they can meet others.

Their job is to overcome this shyness. Christmas day is the peak time for suicides and would-be suicides in London.

The Samaritans say the explanation is obvious. On days meant for family reunions and general good companionship, the very lonely are driven to desperate acts.

British Visitor Enjoys The Little He's Seen

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Dirk Bogarde, Britain's top leading man, finally succumbed to the lure of Hollywood to seek some sunshine. So what happens?

He has been spending 10 hours a day in a stuffy rehearsal hall learning to play the piano.

The reason is that he is portraying Franz Liszt in Columbia's "The Magic Flame." Since Liszt was a whiz at the keyboard, Dirk has been forced into long practice so he can look convincing.

During a rare moment of relaxation at the Bel-Air Hotel, Bogarde explained why he held out so long against the Hollywood offers.

"I was doing well in British films, so there didn't seem much reason to come over here, where I was little known. In England, I had approval of director and co-stars and story veto, which I probably couldn't get here.

"Then I fell ill with double pneumonia and pleurisy and was holding on — not very anxiously — to my life. I finally decided I had better get out of the English climate and find some sunshine."

He has managed to steal some time from the piano to make some observations on his first trip to California.

"It's much more beautiful than I had been led to expect by expatriates and other maelstroms who have returned to England."

Nor was he distressed by our smog — "It's hardly noticeable, compared to the air we have in England."

State Library's Boost Rejected

RALEIGH (AP) — A request by the State Library for $553,000 during 1959-60 to increase its aid to the counties was rejected Wednesday by the Legislature's Joint Appropriations subcommittee.

However, the subcommittee approved $912,122 for the biennium to continue State Library aid at its present level.

In other actions, the group: Approved Advisory Budget Commission recommendations totaling more than six million dollars for library aid, the Department of Conservation and Development's Commercial Fisheries Division and the Kerr Reservoir Development Commission.

Referred to a three-man subcommittee requests for a $421,600 Negro training school project proposed for McCain in Hoke County by the Board of Correction and Training.

Approved $15,000 more than the Budget Commission recommended for the Nutbush Conservation Area of the Kerr Reservoir project.

Work Now Begun To Develop Eleven-County Area

By BILL EAST
Twin City Sentinel Staff Writer
Written for The Associated Press
WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP)—
Fifty years ago this spring, Bishop Edward Rondthaler of the Moravian Church spoke of northwest North Carolina.

"The large back country of Winston-Salem—all northwestern Carolina—explains the vast growth of the jobbing interests of the city and gives part of the reason why the railroad yards are covering an ever-widening area. In wonderful contrast to the single siding or two at our little railroad station only a generation ago."

Twenty years ago this summer, a prominent Winston-Salem businessman spoke of northwest North

Carolina:

"It's like a sleeping bear with an unlimited potential but awaiting the touch of genius to awaken it and put its full power to work."

That "touch of genius" is now at work and if the "touch" has its way, the section soon will bloom into one of the busiest areas of the state.

It all began five years ago when the Northwest North Carolina Development Assn. was organized to develop the full resources of the 11 northwest counties.

In the years that preceded the organization, there was little or no coordination between people in Winston-Salem seeking development and those in the rest of the northwest.

And, if someone had said that an organization for the counties might develop from leadership supplied in part, at least, from Winston-Salem, there would have been considerable difference of opinion.

In some counties there was an air of suspicion and resentment about "big city" folks trying to tell the rural and small town people how to run their business.

But when the northwest people began to see Winston-Salem's top executives take time out to travel dozens of miles to sit in school auditoriums or Grange halls and talk over their troubles, opposition quickly melted.

On hand were men like Wacha-via Bank Chairman Archie K. Davis, now a state senator who was first president of the organization;
Fred Linton, executive vice president of the Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce; textile executive Frank Willingham; writer-researcher Chester S. Davis; farm expert Neil Bolton, to mention only a few.

Once the organization was formally under way, it spread out in a dozen different directions:

Communities were encouraged to improve themselves. There were problems of farm production and distribution to be solved. Sites had to be made available for new industry. Schools and educational facilities had to be improved. Capital had to be provided for buildings.

Last December, more than 700 persons gathered at the YMCA in Elkin for the annual meeting.

The association's 33 directors, three from each of the 11 counties, joined with hundreds of other members in listening to the record of progress.

Retiring President Atwell Alexander of Stony Point said it was a time for resolution for the future. "These five years will be just a mile post on the way up," he said.

This weekend the association is undertaking one of its most ambitious projects. It is bringing some 150 industrialists from all over the United States to Winston-Salem and northwest North Carolina for a two-day look at what they have to offer in the way of plant sites, raw materials or production facilities.

On Friday, the industrialists will have a look at Winston-Salem, then on Saturday, they will be divided into three groups to be taken on tours of northwest North Carolina.

Practically every moment of the two days will be taken up with letting the men know what the section has that will benefit them and their industries.

Gov. Hodges will be on hand Friday night for a talk.

Wayne Corpening, now president of the association, said the most valuable commodity which the northwest has to "sell" is the "wonderful spirit of the people—that's why we want to let these executives get out in the area and meet them and talk with them."

Programs Arranged For Music Week

A concert by the East Carolina College Orchestra, featuring six soloists, and recitals by four pianists, all students in the department of music at the college, will be presented on the campus May 3-7 Week. All events will be held in the McGinnis auditorium and will be open to the public.

Geraldine Matthews of Erwin, senior, will open the series of music events Sunday, May 3, at 4 p.m. with a recital of works for the piano. Miss Matthews was recognized at Awards Day at the college earlier this month as the outstanding senior music student at East Carolina. Other student pianists, all pupils of Dr. Robert Carter of the music faculty, who will be presented in recitals during Music Week are Larry Griffin of Burlington, junior, Monday, May 4; Carolyn Hinton of Zebulon, sophomore, Tuesday, May 5; and Richard Tomlinson of Franklinton, senior, Thursday, May 7. These recitals will begin at 8 p.m.

Playing under the direction of Donald Hayes of the department of music, The East Carolina College Orchestra will appear in concert Wednesday, May 6, at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium. Soloists with the orchestra will be five pianists and a vocalist, all chosen because of their excellence as performers.

Soloists and the compositions which they will present are Connie Dunn of Ayden, Von Weber's Concertstück; Dorothy McCleary of Portsmouth, Va., Schumann's Concerto in A minor; Jane Murray of Greenville, contralto, Fantes-lui mes aveux; arias from Gounod's Faust; Mr. Tomlinson, Beethoven's Concerto in C Major, op.
15. Allegro con brio; Tasker Polk of Warrenton, Chopin's "Concerto in F minor, op. 21, second and third movements; and Miss Hinton, Grieg's Concerto in A minor.

Messick Invited Become Member AIM Council

President John D. Messick of East Carolina College has accepted an invitation to become a member of the Presidents Council of the American Institute of Management. The invitation was extended by Jackson Martindell, Chairman of the Board.

The American Institute of Management is an incorporated non-profit research and educational organization dedicated to the advancement of management. Its studies are concerned with overall management functions and corporate policy. Headquarters are at 38th Street and Lexington Ave.,
New York City.

The Presidents Council is a limited group composed of leaders of large and small companies withing the United States and Canada.
One of the main purposes of this group is to help the Institute in shaping its policies and research directives. The experience and know ledge of these business leaders is called upon to aid the Institute in its many undertakings and programs.

Strike Vote By Air Hostesses Now Underway

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)— Trans World Airlines hostesses are taking a strike vote to support their demands for more pay and shorter hours.

Aianna Schenkosky of Los Angeles, master chairman of the TWA Hostesses and Pursers Union, said Wednesday negotiations between the hostesses and TWA on a new contract have been broken off. The current contract expires May 1.

She said the union's demands are based on "increased productivity" caused by TWA's change from conventional to faster jet airliners. The union wants flight time cut to 83 hours per month plus a wage increase. Amount of the union's wage demands were not revealed.

Union officials said the company has declined to lower the present 85 hours-per-month maximum flight time, and had offered a pay increase of $15 monthly. Top pay for hostesses with eight years experience is $375 a month.

TWA sources had no comment on the dispute.

Woman Points To Boy In Line Up As Attacker

QUITMAN, Ga. (AP)—"It was him."

With those words, a 25-year-old married white woman singled out a teen-age Negro boy as the person who raped her on the bank of a fishing pond near her home.

Sheriff R. W. Jones of Brooks County said the victim identified the 16-year-old Negro immediately after facing him Wednesday.

Jones said the boy was being held in an undisclosed jail outside of Brooks County and that rape charges were being prepared.

Names of rape victims and juveniles charged with crimes are withheld by state law.

Earlier Wednesday, the woman exonerated Jesse G. Graham Jr., 21-year-old Negro who had been held in connection with the case.
She had told officers her attacker said his name was Jesse G.
Graham Jr.

Graham surrendered to Jones Tuesday night after learning he was being sought by a posse.

Jones spirited him to the Thomas-ville jail, 29 miles west of Quitman, to avoid possible violence.

The woman viewed Graham in a lineup with three other Negroes and said her attacker was not among them.

Graham gave the sheriff names of five Negroes he had been associating with and who had been in the area where the attack occurred Tuesday. The 16-year-old was among those named.

Jones reported the youth said he was at home at the time of the incident.

The sheriff said the boy told him he received scratches on his face and teeth marks on his chest from another girl last week.

A revelation was possibly avoided in Venezuela in 1912 when an earthquake destroyed all ammunition of the rebels.

Expressway To Spare Old Tree

CHICAGO (AP)— An expressway will make an extra curve to spare a pine, the last survivor of 60 trees planted in 1880 to mark the Indian boundary lines which extended southwestward from Lake Michigan.

The surviving tree, south of Chicago, was in the path of a projected leg of a metropolitan expressway. Before bulldozers approached, amateur historians and garden club members persuaded the highway planners to curve the road and save the tree.

The two lines of trees once showed boundaries of a 20-mile wide strip which was ceded to the United States in 1816 by the Chippewa, Ottawa, Pottawatomie tribes.

Short Of Funds, States Generally Applying New Taxes

Editor's Note — Beset by various fiscal ailments, state governments generally have resorted to more and higher taxes. This is the last article of a three-part series.

By CHARLES STAFFORD
Associated Press Writer

"Maybe" an eastern Kentucky civic leader said, "we should secede from the United States and apply for foreign aid."

He was discussing remedies for the ailing economy of his area, where mechanization and depression in the coal industry have caused widespread unemployment.

The secession proposal was delivered tongue-in-cheek, but many a state official would get the point. A check of state capitals by The Associated Press indicates that 29 states are encountering some measure of financial difficulty today.

Higher taxes are the common remedy.

Cigarettes are a favorite target of the revenue hunters of 1959. Sales and income tax increases also are common.

Withholding plans for state income taxes, which increase revenue by cornering tax dodgers, have been adopted by Utah, Massachusetts, South Carolina, and New York. Five more states are seriously considering them.

Some tax programs have been whoppers.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle of Ohio has presented the Legislature with plans to increase cigarette, beer, corporation franchise, gasoline and diesel fuel taxes. Sales taxes are to be upped to produce some 119 million dollars in the next two years.

Adopted without change, DiSalle's program would produce 360 million dollars in new revenue in the next two years.

New York raised its tax revenue 239 million dollars. The Pennsylvania Legislature is studying Gov. David L. Lawrence's proposal for an additional 237 million in taxes to balance the record-breaking biennial budget of $1,907,000,000. The lawmakers have already raised the 3 per cent sales tax to 3½ per cent, making it second only to Washington state's 4 per cent.

Getting a new tax program approved isn't an easy matter. The Minnesota Legislature adjourned April 24 after 3½ months of work without finding the 84 million dollars needed to balance Gov. Orville L. Freeman's proposed 470-million-dollar budget.

The governor, who has recommended increases in liquor, cigarette, tobacco, iron ore, gifts, inheritance and income taxes, called the lawmakers back into special session the very next day to finish the job.

In Massachusetts, Gov. Foster Furcolo's efforts to balance his 456-million-dollar budget have touched off a fight within his Democratic party. He proposed that the Democratic-controlled

Another Device Recently Found

A second Army Signal Corps instrument, thought to be a weather-reporting device, was reported today to have been found recently in Eastern North Carolina.

One of the parachute-equipped instruments was recovered yesterday from the farm of Robert Bowen of Rt. 1, Ayden. The other was found by an East Carolina College student, Wade Ward.

Lt. Col. P. F. O'Haran of the Greenville Area Command of the U.S. Army Reserve said Ward gave the instrument to Dr. Joseph N. LeConte of the East Carolina College Department of Science. Dr. LeConte, in turn, notified military authorities that the instrument had been found.

Colonel O'Haran said the instruments are numbered devices which should be returned to military personnel.

Ayden Seniors On Annual Trip

By FRANCES BOOTH
Ayden School Reporter

Ayden High's juniors are really feeling big this week. The senior class is taking the annual trip to New York and Washington, D.C. The juniors are getting a taste of what it will be like next year.

National Merit Scholarship Tests were taken this week by thirteen members of the junior class at Ayden High School. Several of the eleventh graders were heard to say that these tests were the hardest they had ever taken.

Hard at work on their campaigns are the students running for student council offices. Running for president are Gloria Crawley and Buddy Ross. Running for vice-president are Richard Moberg and Mickey Stocks. Barbara Gagnon has served as the president during this school year and Buddy Ross had served as vice-president.

Legislature enact a sales tax. However, the No. 1 plank in the Democrats' campaign platform was a stand against the sales tax.

At a party harmony dinner Feb. 14, Lt. Gov. Robert F. Murphy said that if the Democrats approve a sales tax "We deserve what will surely befall us — defeat for our perfidy; defeat for our deception; defeat for our hypocrisy, and finally the inevitable loss of the confidence of the voters."

Furcolo, the next speaker, promptly took issue with Murphy. Murphy, he said, was "either trying to kid the public or he doesn't have the solution to our problem." The governor said the platform plank applied to a general sales tax, while he has suggested a limited tax which would exempt food, fuel, children's clothing, medicines and similar necessities.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, a Democrat, has asked a politically friendly Legislature to tax cigarettes, oil and gas and increase taxes on horse racing, beer and income to provide 256 million dollars in new revenue. His headache: a rapidly expanding deficit.

"Up to now it has been possible to avoid facing up to the fiscal realities because surpluses built up during and after the war have been used to meet the deficits," he says. "By using the fund surpluses to meet annual deficits we have succeeded only in postponing the day of reckoning."

But, says GOP Assemblyman

Joseph C. Shell of Los Angeles — and he has supporters in both parties — "I can see no point in increasing taxes or levying new ones when we have surpluses available to us."

In Georgia, economy is the word. Gov. Ernest Vandiver, who ran on a platform of no new taxes unless absolutely necessary, ordered state departments to reduce their operating expenses by 10 per cent during the final quarter of the fiscal year, which ends June 30. The Legislature economized by elimination and consolidation of several agencies.

The governor is holding a tight rein on budget requests. He has a committee studying government reorganization and economy. And he has ordered a crackdown on loose practices in the purchasing and tax departments where there have been irregularities in recent years.

Tightly trimmed austerity budgets have been offered as the cure for problems in recession-troubled Connecticut, Maine and Vermont. Oklahoma, where Gov. J. Howard Edmondson is trimming the fat from the state payroll and cutting other state expenses, solved part of its revenue problem in an old-fashioned way. Its citizens voted the repeal of prohibition.

Sometimes the answer to a state's financial worries is heaven-sent. North Dakota is entering the new biennium with a 10-million-dollar surplus, thanks to last year's fine crop harvest.

Geneva Is New Home Of The Junior Executive

EDITORS' NOTE— Geneva in the Swiss Alps is beginning to look like Manhattan, there are so many U.S. business executives there. Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, describes the scene in a dispatch from Geneva today. Dawson is touring Europe.

By SAM DAWSON
GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The junior executive, American style, is becoming almost as much a part of the Geneva scene today as of mid-Manhattan's. In the past few months American firms have rushed to set up headquarters here to run either their European or entire overseas operations. More than 75 are here now, taxing Geneva's office and residential facilities and competing—often by higher wages—for the best office help.

The influx has been spurred about equally by the coming of the jet age, by the birth of the European common market and by a steady decline in U.S. exports due to rising prices of American-made goods which is overcome by operating abroad.

But their choice of Geneva for central offices has many other guiding factors. One is its transport facilities and location, easy of access to their plants all over Europe and to their markets there and in Africa and the Mideast. Another is its worldwide banking facilities—cloaked in secrecy by law—and the ease with which currency from any part of the world can be exchanged, either for Switzerland's hard money or for American dollars that can be sent home without hindrance.

Swiss neutrality is an advantage. An American businessman here steps on no toes—as he might in some other European country whose relations with other parts of the world may be strained.

Tests of the barrier will be conducted by the FAA's Bureau of Research and Development at the National Aviation Facilities Evaluation Center (NAFEC) at Atlantic City, New Jersey, using a full-scale mockup of a jet transport under-carriage, complete with stub wings and engine pods.

More than 65 per cent of our white potato starch comes from Maine for use in textile and paper mills.

Taxes are big item, too. They are less than in the United States, and often less than elsewhere in Europe—both for the corporation and the individual employee. For example, a firm making $50,000 profit on its Swiss operations (it pays no income tax on outside operations) would pay $4,000 in federal tax and $8,000 in canton and communal taxes (these are higher in some other Swiss cities). In the United States the corporation income tax runs to 52 per cent.

Some of the big firms here are: Chrysler, California Standard Oil, Daystrom, Dow Chemical, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, General Dynamics, I.B.M., Monsanto Chemical, Procter and Gamble, R.C.A., Royal Mc Bee, Singer, Underwood, Union Carbide, and Westinghouse.

How do American firms fare here? They can find office help that speak two or three languages and a city with one of the highest standards of living in Europe. But it also has among the highest rents, a housing shortage, and high food costs.

You can't have everything.

Giant Bombers Showed Stress

WASHINGTON (AP)— The B47 jet bomber, the present chief weapon of the Strategic Air Command, has developed structural weaknesses that are giving the Air Force a headache.

This has been disclosed by Air Force officers before the House Appropriations Committee in discussions of the feasibility of possible enemy air attacks. The hearing record was released earlier this week.

Maj. Gen. M. A. Preston, deputy chief of staff for the Air Force, told the committee that structural fatigue has shown up in some parts of the airframe. Air Force officials likened the situation to that in which a paper clip can be bent repeatedly but finally breaks at the bending point.

Lt. Gen. Francis H. Griswold, chief of SAC, said a modification program designed to eliminate the B47 bombers' structural failures has been completed. He called the B47 "a very fine airplane."

He described the information on the structural failures as "old stuff." SAC, he said, announced the start of the modification program last May 2.

Joey Bishop Prefers To Talk About Jack Benny

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Joey Bishop, who will sit in for vacationing Jack Paar next week, said he'd like to get his two brothers on the show. One is a head waiter in Miami Beach and the other "runs a pocketbook factory in California."

A fellow asked if they were unrecognized comic geniuses. "No," replied Bishop. "They're horrible — as comedians. But they could use the 320 bucks you get for appearing on the show."

One yardstick of comedians, he implied, lies in the neighborhood of $320 — those who need it and those who don't want it. "I'd like to get Jack Benny and Bob Hope. But neither of them wants $320."

Bishop is a smallish, youngish looking chap with features as immobile as a Grecian mask and an upper lip as stiff as Jack Benny's.

As a matter of fact, Bishop would rather talk about Benny than about himself. Benny, he says, is a "genuine comic. A genuine comic is a guy who's told by the audience that he's funny. The other kind tells the audience he's funny." Since Benny wasn't around to put in a good word for Bishop, we'll have to do it ourselves.

Success hasn't spoiled him either. Like Jack Paar over a number of years, he has been developing his own style and pace of comedy. He shuns "stuck" and insular vulgar jokes.

Bishop was born 3-pound Joey Gottlieb in the Bronx. His father was a bicycle salesman.

Gottlieb teamed with two other guys named Reisman and Spector to form the Bishop Brothers Trio working small clubs and burlesque. Eventually he became a single comedian after burying his comedy in army khaki for four years during World War II.

Bishop was a highly successful nightclub comedian when he was offered a spot on the CBS-TV show "Keep Talking." Guest spots on the Paar Show over NBC-TV followed.

The Paar Show, he feels, is an example of "the type of television program that's right for me. I can be myself on it."

He's not in the least nervous about filling in for Paar, whom he admires. "As long as you're honest," he says, "how can you get in trouble?"

Widespread Efforts In Romeo And Juliet

As an outstanding cast from the East Carolina College campus and the city of Greenville moves into the final week of rehearsals for performances of "Romeo and Juliet," workers backstage are making a valuable contribution toward an authentic and artistic production.

Shakespeare's immortal love story will be presented Wednesday and Thursday, May 6 and 7, at 8 p.m. in the Flanagan Sylvan Theater at East Carolina College. Sponsored by the Student Government Association of the college and produced by the East Carolina Playhouse and the Greenville Little Theater, the play will be a special event of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival.

Dr. Robert T. Rickert of the English department of the college directs the technical staff which is working on the production.

Scenery for the play is now being directed in the Flanagan Sylvan Theater. An arrangement of platforms on different levels will provide an unusual and attractive setting and make possible rapid movement from scene to scene. Special attention is being given to the staging of the famous Balcony Scene.

Assisting Dr. Rickert as members of the Scenery Committee are Daniel Yanchisin of Kingston, Elizabeth Smith of Fountain, Kenneth Kilpatrick of Hendersonville, and George Ray of Durham, college students; Janice Hardison of the college faculty; and Mrs. Bonnie Stultz of the Greenville Little Theater. Mrs. Inez Laube of Greenville is choreographer for the production. She has designed both a general and a special dance for the picturesque ballroom scene, when Romeo and Juliet first meet. William R. Faulkner of Rocky Mount, newly elected president of the East Carolina Playhouse, is in charge of lighting effects. Mrs. Dorothy Pierce—wife of actor Norman Pierce of Greenville, who plays the apothecary—heads the properties committee.

Costumes of the Tudor period have been ordered by Mrs. Susie Webb of the college Alumni Office, who has extracted a promise of "the best in the house" from Jooker-Howe in Massachusetts. Sylvia Ruston of Laurel, Del., veteran Playhouse trouper, heads the Make-up Committee, including college students Leigh Dobson of Edenton, Alice Ann Horne of Taborsville, Patricia Roberts of Farmville, Charles Jenkins of Raleigh, and others.

The all-important fencing instruction necessary to a realistic acting of the light scenes comes from Merle Kelly of Raleigh, college student. Kelly studied fencing under professional instructors while with the U.S. Army in Germany. Special music for the production will be provided by Herbert Joyner of Henderson, organist and student of music at East Carolina.

Arresting Gear For Jet Aircraft Being Sought

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Federal Aviation Agency has contracted with the All American Engineering Company of Wilmington, Delaware for the development of equipment which will prevent high speed transport planes from running off paved areas at airports.

While the military services use such a device to decelerate certain types of aircraft, it has never before been applied to anything as large as a commercial transport.

The problem is to find an effective way to get the arresting cable onto the airplane without having to add a hook to its undercarriage. The problem is compounded by the low-slung engine pods on jets and the propellers on other aircraft.

Under investigation is All American's "pop-up" barrier, designed to throw a cable over the landing gear and slow the plane's progress when it comes within 1,500 to 1,000 feet of the runway's end. If such an installation is found to be feasible, according to FAA engineers, it will have the added attraction of permitting jet transports to operate from shorter runways than are now considered safe.

Two methods of decelerating transports at normal speeds are under consideration. The first consists of a trigger cable engaged by the nose wheel and catching the main landing gear. The second accomplishes this by activating the arresting cable with pneumatic stations. Each, in the opinion of FAA engineers, offers considerable promise and if successful could be applied to military as well as commercial operations.

Tests of the barrier will be conducted by the FAA's Bureau of Research and Development at the National Aviation Facilities Evaluation Center (NAFEC) at Atlantic City, New Jersey, using a full-scale mockup of a jet transport under-carriage, complete with stub wings and engine pods.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers, farm price 16 to 17, mostly 16.
 Eggs—Prices paid for graded, sized, minimum 90 per cent quality: Raleigh and Charlotte, steady, large 29; prices paid on graded out basis: Asheville, about steady, A large 26 to 27, mostly 26.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices were narrowly uneven early this afternoon in moderately active trading. The market was developing a firmer tendency.

Gains and losses of pivotal issues ranged from fractions to about a point.
 The list was mixed from the opening in active dealings accompanied by a late ticker tape. Prices remained trendless as trading slowed.

Sperry Rand rose about a point. Radio Corp. rose fractionally while Philco and Raytheon were firm. Zenith dropped about 3/4 in further profit taking. Thiokol and Texas Instruments fell fractionally.

Du Pont was up about 2 and Pitzer around 3. American Motors slipped a bit. Chrysler reports on quarterly earnings and dividends today.

Bethlehem eased. U.S. Steel was about unchanged. Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin were up a bit. Lukens was off a fraction.

U.S. Gypsum clipped about from recent gains. Goodyear advanced well over a point.
 Magma copper advanced more than 2 in the wake of substantial first quarter earnings. It lost a point of this after news came of a price cut at the custom smelter level. Anaconda also backed away from a 2-point rise. Kennecott rose around a point.

U.S. government bonds declined slightly.

Strauss Says Trial By Innuendo Is Under Way

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lewis L. Strauss said today that Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) has engaged in "the technique of trial by innuendo" in opposing Strauss' nomination for secretary of commerce.

Strauss, already serving in the Cabinet post under a recess appointment, said Kefauver has raised questions that were answered over three years ago in a Senate investigation of the Dixon-Yates power contract.

He told the Senate Commerce Committee, conducting hearings on his nomination, that Kefauver has worked over the whole field of that controversy "without producing any new facts."

And Strauss, who was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission when the contract was signed November 1954, testified that he still regards it as advantageous to the government.

Although President Eisenhower subsequently ordered the contract canceled, Strauss said he would approve it again if the circumstances were the same.

Under the contract the Dixon-Yates utility group was to supply private power to the Tennessee Valley Authority in the Memphis, Tenn., area to replace TVA power furnished to AEC installations.

The cancellation was ordered on the ground that a conflict of interest was created by the dual role of Adolphe H. Wenzel, who acted as a Budget Bureau adviser on the contract and whose New York investment firm subsequently became financial agent for Dixon-Yates.

Plan Expansion Of Wofford Enrollment

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Louis B. Wright, director of Folger Shakespeare Library, Washington, and a 1920 Wofford graduate.

Dr. Alvin Duke Chandler, president of the William and Mary, brought greetings on behalf of official delegates. Dr. R. Wright Spears, president of Columbia College, greeted Dr. Marsh on behalf of South Carolina colleges and universities. Rembert B. Burgess, president of Spartanburg Junior College gave the benediction.

Representatives of about 165 colleges and universities were on hand for the event.

Mobile School For Mechanics

Auto mechanics for nine Eastern North Carolina American Motors Dealers are receiving special training in a traveling service training center stationed in Greenville yesterday and today.

The mobile school operates under a policy set up by American Motors to bring the schools to the mechanics rather than having the mechanics travel to Milwaukee where training schools formerly were held.

The training courses are held in a specially designed 35-foot trailer which carries four tons of tools and equipment for use during the training sessions. During the two-day course mechanics receive 12 hours of instruction in maintenance of automatic transmissions and air conditioning for Ramblers.

Child Struck By Car Yesterday

A two-year-old Negro boy was struck by a car about 5:30 p.m. yesterday on Boyd Ave. near the intersection of Boyd Ave. and Brad St.

According to investigating officers, James Turner, 1802 S. Pitt St. ran into the street in front of a car operated by Leon L. Guntler of Lucama.

The child received only slight injuries to his head. He was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital and released.

No charges were made by police.

Dynamiters Busy In UMW Strike

WHITEBURG, Ky. (AP) — Dynamiters attempted to blow up a nonunion coal truck today, several hours after unidentified men, hanging to the side of a freight train, tossed two bombs into a coal loading ramp.

A second bomb failed to explode when the fuse sputtered out.

The truck was headed for a ramp at Chavies when the dynamite went off under the wheels.

One of the guards on duty at the Ulvah Coal Co. ramp was injured slightly by the midnight explosion.

"If the dud had exploded," his companion said, "neither of us would be here now." He declined use of his name.

The United Mine Workers Union is on strike for a new contract in eastern Kentucky's coal fields. The UMW wants a $2 daily wage increase for a $24.25 daily basic wage.

Paul Taylor, one of the co-owners, said the explosion damaged his scales but "we will be operating today even if we have to estimate the weight of the trucks."

A volley of gunshots, fired from a truck mine on a hillside about three miles away, as the State Police cruisers away to investigate.

"The other was at the ramp when the bomb exploded."

Remove Cancer Growth In Arthur Godfrey's Chest

NEW YORK (AP)—An operation disclosed today that Arthur Godfrey's chest tumor is cancerous. Physicians are removing it.

One of the radio-TV star's doctors said at 10:30 a.m. that the operation would take until 11:30 a.m. Godfrey was taken to the operating room at 7:25 a.m.

His condition was said to be excellent.

In a statement issued during the operation, the doctor said: "The lesion of Mr. Godfrey's left lung has been identified as being a malignant tumor. The section of the lung containing the tumor is being removed. His condition is excellent."

Three physicians, three nurses and an anesthetist attended Godfrey in the operating room of the Columbia - Presbyterian Medical Center.

The doctors' names were not immediately made public.

It was understood unofficially that chances were favorable for successful removal of the tumor.

Prior to the operation, Godfrey said that contemplation of the "thing" in his lung gave him a "cold, clammy feeling" and made him mentally "a mess," although he felt fine physically.

Considering the possibility that the tumor might prove to be cancerous and that all or part of the lung might have to be removed, Godfrey said:

"I won't mind one bit just so long as it doesn't cripple me up so that I can't ride or swim or fly."

Godfrey, 55 and a broadcasting personality for almost 30 years, thanked his audience in his final television program this week for their prayers and good wishes, and promised to "see you again soon."

Good View From Upside Down

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP)—If you want to know what it's like to look at the world upside down, ask Pfc. Frederick M. Kamradt, an 18-year-old paratrooper.

He dangled head down from an airplane for almost 10 minutes Wednesday after he became fouled up in parachute paraphernalia at an altitude of 1,450 feet.

He said he tripped over a 100-pound bag of equipment he was carrying as he made ready to leap through the door of the C123 aircraft.

The next he knew he was suspended at the end of the 15-foot static line attached to a cable inside the plane to open the chute. The static line caught through his legs and left him dangling.

S. Sgt. Richard W. Collins of Memphis, Tenn., came to his aid after the plane had climbed to 2,500 feet. Kamradt, of East Jordan Mich., resumed his descent earward, this time using a reserve chute.

Then, about 10 miles from here, he landed in a tree—upside down again. He dangled 10 feet above ground until persons living nearby freed him.

Kamradt's next jump will be his 13th.

militarized, international area supervised by the United States, the Soviet Union, France, Britain and the U.N., and with control of the Allied supply lines into the city turned over to the East Germans.

The Western Allies want to keep West Berlin a Western enclave, protected by themselves alone.

Soviet reunification of the German Union still wants this effected by West and East German negotiators themselves through some sort of confederation. The West wants a phased program leading up to all-German elections.

GERMAN PEACE TREATY — The Soviet Union is prepared to discuss this — but not German reunification at Geneva. The West is ready to discuss German reunification but insists a peace treaty must await formation of an all-German government.

GENEVA CONFERENCE—The Soviet Union wants delegates from Poland, Czechoslovakia and East and West Germany to attend as full participants. The West plans to offer the Germans, Poles and Czechs seats as observers only.

Auto Accident Toll Is Higher

CHICAGO (AP)—Automobile accidents killed more than 8,000 persons in the nation in the first three months this year, an increase of 5 per cent over the first quarter of 1958. The fatalities in March were 9 per cent higher than in 1958.

The National Safety Council also said disabling injuries during the three months were 10.4 per cent higher than in 1958.

The council said March was the third straight month the death toll on the highways was higher after two years of almost unbroken decreases. Fatalities for the first three months totaled 8,090 compared with 7,690 in the corresponding period last year. The March death toll was 2,790, compared with 2,560 in March 1958.

The council attributed the upward trend to complacency.

Dancer Pickets Hawaii Capitol

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — A professional dancer, carrying a sign reading, "Dear Public, This Can Happen to You Too," picketed the seat of Hawaii's government Wednesday trying to get her five children back from welfare officials.

Mrs. Lillian H. Price, in a street length mummy and a large straw hat, played a ukelele while a little white dog ran by her side. Known professionally as Ma Ma Loa, she paraded for hours in front of the Iiwa Palace while the Territorial Legislature met.

Welfare officials took her five children last week and put them in a home. They said she and the children were living in a station wagon without bath or toilet facilities and she wouldn't be allowed to have the children until she provides them with a home. Two of the children suffer from cerebral palsy.
