Heavy Turn-Out Of Voters Expected In City Election

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

Greenville voters will be electing their mayor by direct ballot tomorrow for the first time since the last board of alderman election in 1951.

The change in the method of choosing a mayor is due to an amendment to the city code voted in during a special referendum held since the 1957 municipal election.

Voters will find two original members of the City Council listed on the ballot as seeking the mayor's position when they go to the polls tomorrow. S. Eugene West, the city's present mayor who was chosen by the Council following the 1957 election, is running for re-election to the position. J. A. Collins, Sr., a present member of the council is opposing West for the office.

Observers say they are expecting a heavy vote tomorrow in view of the large number who placed their names on the voter registration books during the three Saturdays they were open. Poll holders estimated approximately 700 persons registered as new voters and it was considered one of the heaviest registrations for a municipal election ever. Voters whose names were already on the books were not required to register.

In the race for the four seats now open on the City Council, citizens will find 11 candidates seeking office. Two of them, Lester E. Turnage, Jr. and G. W. Harvey, Jr., are presently members of the city's governing body seeking reelection to office. Another, W. S. Stafford, was mayor of the city prior to the inauguration of the City Council form of government and still another, Robert Lee Smith, was a member of the board of alderman at one time.

The other candidates are: Dr. M. W. Aldridge, J. Clarence Galloway, D. D. Garrett, A. C. Jackson, Charles M. King, D. B. Shackelford and Jack Wallace.

Citizens will also be voting on candidates for judge for recorders court and solicitor of recorders court. However, both Judge Charles H. Wheabee and Solicitor Eli Bloom are unopposed for re-election.

Tomorrow's will be the fourth municipal election held since the Council-City Manager form of government was approved by the people in 1953.

Under the original plan, five councilmen were elected by the voters and they met on the day following the election to choose a mayor from among their own number.

In 1953, West, Collins, Harvey, W. L. Wheabee and A. C. Ruffin were elected to the first Council and Wheabee was chosen to serve as mayor. In 1955 the five ran unopposed for re-election and Wheabee was again chosen mayor.

In 1957, however, Ruffin decided not to run for another term and Lester Turnage was elected in his place. When the council met to choose a mayor, they elevated West to the position.

As a result of that election a special referendum was called and the new system of choosing a mayor approved by the voters. This year Wheabee announced he would not be a candidate.

West, who is in the construction business, also served as mayor pro-tem his first four years in office.

Collins, who operates a furniture store locally, served on the board of aldermen in 1930-32 and from 1939 until 1945 in addition to being a member of the council since 1953.

Polling places, located at the court house and Central Fire Station will open in the morning at 6:30 and they will close at 6:30 p.m. Voters living south of Fifth Street will cast their ballots at the fire station while voters living north of Fifth Street are to vote at the court house.

Mrs. C. K. Beatty is registrar at the court house and Mrs. T. H. Henderson and Mrs. Mavis W. Dudley are judges for that polling place.

At the fire station E. R. Conway, Jr. is serving as registrar. James S. Jenkins and Mrs. Constance Hines are judges.

Hodges Says Revenue Estimates Of State Brightening Overall Picture

RALEIGH (AP)— Gov. Hodges today held out to Tar Heel lawmakers the prospect of an additional 16 million dollars to go into the budget for the next biennium. He said he hoped the amount "will be used for the most part for public schools, the university and other institutions of higher learning in the state."

Hodges said revised estimates indicate an additional 5 1/2 million dollars will be collected above previous estimates.

He noted that, under 1957 law, the first five million must go to retire bond anticipation notes. This will leave, he continued, approximately $426,386 towards a contingent 1.09 per cent pay increase for public school teachers. The 1957 Legislature authorized the contingent pay raise, up to a total of $1,219,495. Hodges said that while it appears only part of this will be available "it is my personal hope that the full sum will materialize."

The April report from Revenue Commissioner James S. Currie, released by the governor, showed hefty gains in income and sales tax collections.

The income tax brought in $33,005,991, a gain of around 14 per cent compared with April, 1958. Sales and use tax collections of $6,805,918 represented a gain of nearly 21 per cent over the same month last year.

The total general fund collections for the month amounted to $49,870,722, an increase of just over 6 million over April last year. Highway fund collections were $8,875,264, a gain of $397,424.

For the 1959-61 biennium, Hodges said estimates now are placed at $535,947,326—an increase of 16 million over the estimates used last fall when the governor and Advisory Budget Commission prepared the recommended budget for the biennium.

This means that lawmakers now can raise spending for the next two fiscal years 16 million above amounts in the recommended budget—without new taxes.

Hodges cautioned that a withholding plan for collecting state income taxes will be necessary if the revised estimates are used. The withholding plan, he noted, would bring in 27 1/2 million of the amount included in the budget.

"We realize, of course, that these revised estimates can be adversely affected by changes in monetary policies and other factors over which we have no control, but we are confident that our state will continue its present progress," Hodges said.

Kelly Wallace Is Retained Chicod School Principal

By JIMMY ELLIS

The Pitt County Board of Education this afternoon approved reappointment of Kelly Wallace as principal of Chicod School for the 1959-1960 school year.

Approval of Wallace came during a 30-minute executive session ordered by board Chairman Joseph S. Moyer to consider Wallace's application. The principal has been under fire from a group in the Chicod School District which has sought to have a new principal named.

None of the persons seeking Wallace's ouster was present at today's meeting of the board. Representatives of the group had met with the board on April 23, however, to formally present their protests to Wallace's reappointment which had been recommended by the Chicod School District Committee and Superintendent D. H. Conley.

Moyer, in announcing the board's action, did not make any direct reference to petitions bearing 381 signatures which were presented to the board at the April 23 meeting. He said, however, "The board, in reviewing the applications and re-elections of (school personnel), did consider everything that was presented."

The chairman also said no affidavits had been received from the group seeking Wallace's ouster, but that an affidavit from Wallace was placed before the board this morning. Affidavits from both sides had been invited by the board at the April 23 meeting.

Moyer's first announcement included Wallace in a general statement that the board "approved all personnel recommended by local committees." That group included principals, teachers, bus drivers, janitors and maids, and other personnel at all of the county schools.

He added, after questioning, that the group included Wallace. Wallace had been charged, by the group seeking his ouster, with poor administration of the school, poor public relations, a lack of interest in his pupils, and splitting community support of the school. Wallace denied all of the general charges at the April 23 meeting of the board.

Other white principals who were approved for the 1959-1960 term include Edward N. Warren, Belvoir; W. C. Latham, Bethel; W. J. Edwards, Stokes; Eugene Morris, Fictious; James E. Hudson, Grimesland; E. B. Bright, Grifton; E. F. Johnson, Ayden; Paul J. Clark, Winterville; Sam D. Bundy, Farmville; and David Calvin Stokes, Fountain.

Negro principals approved for the term include Miss Mattie King, Sallie Branch School; Gaston Monk, Bruce-Falkland; Elmond A. Elliott, Bethel Union; Matthew Lewis, Stokes Elementary; Stephen A. Bove, Cherry Lane; M. Q. Wyche, Pitt County Training School; Lafayette Williams, Simpson; Herman R. Reeves, Grifton Elementary; J. W. Ormond, South Ayden; J. W. Mays, Robinson Union; Charles M. Anderson, Hadlock; Farney Moore, Nichols; F. H. Hebane, H. B. Sugg School; and Charles M. Suggs, North Fountain.

Bove's appointment as principal of Cherry Lane School was subject to possible consolidation of the school. Mebane's appointment was approved as a replacement for H. B. Suggs, for whom the Farmville Negro school is named, who is retiring this year.

No action was taken on selection of a building principal for Falkland Elementary School, where T. Jarvis Tripp has submitted his resignation. No principal was named for Arthur School, which will be closed at the end of the present school year and consolidated with Winterville School.

Hotly Contested Race For Mayor In Farmville

FARMVILLE — The largest vote ever recorded in a municipal election in Farmville is expected to be returned here tomorrow.

Keyed by a hotly contested race for the mayor's job, the election is expected to attract between 1,150 and 1,175 voters, according to veteran observers of Farmville politics. The record vote, thus far, is 1,019, recorded in 1957 municipal balloting.

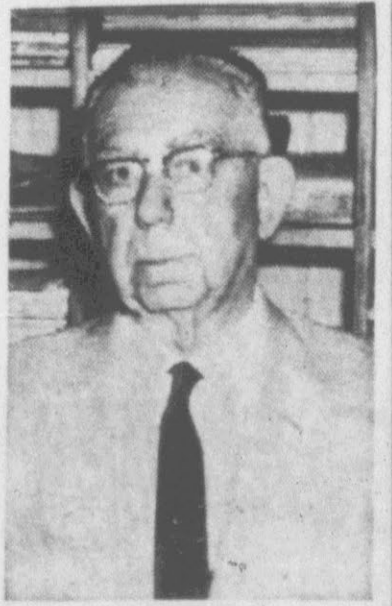

Much of the voting is expected to be accounted for by the race between incumbent Charles S. Edwards, mayor since 1955, and former mayor O. G. Spell. The two have squared off on the previous occasions with Edwards winning both times, but observers say interest is running higher this year than in 1955 and 1957.

Also expected to attract a large number of voters is the nine-way race for the five seats on the town Board of Commissioners. Involved in that race are Frank K. Allen, G. W. (Shorty) Ansley, Cedric Davis, John D. Dixon, Wilton R. Duke, W. E. (Bill) Joyner, Howard D. Moyer, Oliver Murphy and W. C. (Lum) Wooten. Allen, Dixon and Wooten are incumbent members of the board. Glenn Newton and B. B. Turnage are not in the race this year although they led all candidates in a nine-way race in 1957.

A total of 1,274 persons are eligible to participate in tomorrow's voting, according to Registrar Cecil Lilley. He said a new registration, ordered by the town board, was completed Saturday when 157 persons registered to raise the total to 1,274.

Polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. through 6:30 p.m.

60 MPH Gusts Clocked During Sunday's Storm

A wind and rain storm whipped up great clouds of dust from plowed fields across much of Pitt County late yesterday afternoon.

There were no reports of major damage. However, motorists, many of them returning from weekend trips to resort areas along the Pamlico Sound, reported they were caught in the dust clouds which cut visibility to nothing shortly before 6 o'clock.

There were also reports of trees being blown down and limbs broken from trees both in rural areas and in Greenville.

Superintendent Leonard Bloxam said the storm appeared general in Pitt County, according to reports of damage to Greenville Utilities distribution system. He said approximately 20 poles were broken off in rural areas. About six of them were in the Pactolus area.

He said the Utilities plant clocked wind speeds as high as 60 miles per hour during the height of the storm.

Bloxam said rationally all circuits in Greenville were knocked off momentarily due to blowing limbs. None of the local circuits remained off for long, however. Some rural circuits were out for a time until lines could be repaired by utilities crews.

Motorists headed toward Greenville on Pactolus Highway and a secondary road leading to Grimesland said the clouds of dust stirred up from open fields obscured vision along the highway so that cars had to pull to the side at times.

Later as rain began to fall the dust was settled enough to allow cars to continue.

While there were no reports of major damage, shingles were seen blown up on houses along the Pactolus Highway in Pitt County.

The violent storm came as warnings were being issued from the Raleigh Weather Bureau concerning wind storms in Eastern Carolina. The storms followed one of the hottest days on record for this time of the year.

Greenville Utilities weather observers reported a high of 96 degrees for Greenville yesterday. The low temperature at 4 a.m. was 67 degrees and at 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer stood at 70 degrees. The winds during the height of the storm averaged between 35 and 45 miles per hour. By 6 o'clock the winds had fallen to 20 to 25 miles per hour.

The rainfall at the plant in Greenville was not heavy. Utilities observers reported precipitation measured .07 inches.

Russian Diplomat Tried Flee

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — A Soviet military attaché who apparently had tried to escape by leaping from a hospital window was flown out of Rangoon on a Communist plane Sunday.

A screen of 40 heavy guards from the Soviet Embassy roughed up newsmen and prevented them from questioning him.

Hospital sources said the attaché was Col. Mikhail I. Stryguine, who apparently wanted to get political asylum in Burma. The embassy neither confirmed nor denied published reports of his identity.

The slightly built, haggard looking man was brought to the airport in a Soviet Embassy car minutes before a Chinese Communist transport plane took off for Kunming and Peiping. He was hustled aboard with such haste most of his personal baggage was left behind.

A weeping woman identified as his wife, a Soviet nurse and two guards accompanied him.

Hospital sources said Stryguine was brought to the hospital a week ago suffering from an overdose of sleeping pills. It was reported he had tried to commit suicide when told he must return to the Soviet Union. His wife and two Soviets sat with him all night, the woman weeping almost continuously.

The next day, upon recovering, Stryguine shouted invectives in English against the Soviet regime and his associates at the embassy. He asked that Burmese officials, particularly the director of military intelligence, Lt. Col. Win, be summoned. Apparently he wanted to ask their protection.

The two Soviets then demanded that he return to the embassy and tried to remove him when he refused. He broke away and threw himself through a first-floor window in what one witness said was "a leap for life."

He was brought back, given a sedative and bundled into a car by the Soviets, who drove off.

Newsmen learned Friday that the Soviet Embassy had taken out exit permits for Stryguine and his wife, and that they would leave Sunday for Moscow, via Peiping.

The newsmen waited at the airport all night. Three hours before the plane's departure, members of the Soviet Embassy staff began to arrive. By plane time 40 of them were on hand. They kept a close watch on the newsmen.

Ten minutes before takeoff time, a car carrying Soviet Ambassador Alexi D. Shiborn and Stryguine's wife, Mrs. Stryguine, stepped out, a newsmen called out.

"Colonel, have you anything to say to the press?"

Before he could say a word, a wedge of three Soviets rushed the reporter and threw him several feet. Guards shoved and pushed other newsmen aside and seized the cameras of two photographers. Looking bewildered, Stryguine was almost lifted from the ground by two Soviets, who rushed him inside the customs room and locked the door. Shortly after he was escorted to the plane, his wife trailing behind.

Belvoir Man Dies Of Shotgun Wounds In Leg

A Belvoir section man died in Pitt Memorial Hospital early Sunday morning shortly after being brought there with a shotgun wound in the left leg.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson identified the man as Jefferson McDuffy, 39-year-old Negro of Rt. 6 Greenville. Being held in connection with the shooting is McDuffy's step-son Jessie Ray Anderson, 18-year-old Negro.

The sheriff said McDuffy was shot with a 410 gauge shotgun around 11 o'clock Saturday night. He was brought to the Greenville hospital by the owner of the farm on which he was a tenant. McDuffy apparently bled to death from the wound in his thigh.

Sheriff Tyson said McDuffy's wife, Nellie B. McDuffy told officers her husband had been drinking. He returned home Saturday night and began arguing over two ten-dollar bills he had given Mrs. McDuffy earlier in the evening. She said she gave the bills back to him.

The wife said the argument continued and McDuffy picked up a fire poker and ran her into Jessie's room. In that room, the wife said, Jessie picked up the gun and shot McDuffy.

The injured man then jumped on Jessie, Mrs. McDuffy was quoted as saying, and struck him on the head with the fire poker. The boy and Mrs. McDuffy managed to wrestle the poker away from McDuffy. Jessie is being held in Pitt County Jail pending an inquest into the shooting.

The sheriff said the shotgun blast struck McDuffy in the left leg about six inches above the knee.

Author Says Writer Leads A Triple Life

LUNCHEON SPEAKERS . . . Mrs. Frances Gray Patton and Mrs. S. H. Mitchell, left to right, were among the main speakers at the 24th annual Fine Arts Festival luncheon.

"A writer leads a triple life," stated Mrs. Frances Gray Patton Saturday at the Fine Arts Festival Luncheon in the South Dining Hall on East Carolina College campus.

Explaining her statement, she said that writers had to live their own family life, their writing life and an imaginary life.

Author of the book "Good Morning, Miss Dove," which led to the movie of the same name, Mrs. Patton said she began the "Miss Dove idea" in short stories. As a child, the speaker said she always hated a teacher such as Miss Dove, but as she grew older she began to admire her for her principles.

Never being able to see her stories in book form and after several requests for such a book, she decided to visit the late James Street of Chapel Hill. The visit resulted in compiling the "Miss Dove" stories into book form.

Ovid Pierce, a noted writer, introduced Mrs. Patton by saying that she was a person who feared venturing in faraway counties. Some writers need to travel for material, but all she needs is her native soil, he concluded.

Mrs. Patton remarked that she had learned, when among friends, never be afraid.

Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr. presided during the luncheon and introduced Mrs. Sam Mitchell, overall chairman of the festival. Mrs. Mitchell recognized various outstanding guests present at the luncheon and invited everyone to attend the festivities planned for the coming week.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore welcomed the guests to the 24th annual Fine Arts Festival and introduced Senator Robert Humber who presented the invocation.

Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell was chairman of the luncheon.

Academy Of Friendship Session Held

ACADEMY OF FRIENDSHIP . . . Thirty-one candidates representing 12 chapters participated in a ceremony yesterday at the Moose Temple. Mrs. Bonnie Singleton, Mrs. Edna Conniffe, and Mrs. Louise Carrigan, shown in the foreground, were the outstanding leaders present. (Photo by Lee Rowland)

Women of the Moose, Greenville Chapter No. 1308, acted as hostesses to the North and South Carolina chapters at the annual Academy of Friendship session yesterday. Thirty-one candidates representing 12 chapters received the degree in a ceremony at the local Moose Temple yesterday afternoon.

Immediately preceding the ceremony all members and candidates were welcomed by the Secretary of the Lodge, Ed Baldree, and general chairman, Mrs. Louise Carrigan. Following the ritualistic work, Deputy Grand Regent Edna Conniffe instructed the guards to open the doors and invite all Lodge and Chapter members in for a response by Mrs. Maggie Lou George of Wilmington, who also gave a message in the form of a poem from Grand Regent Mrs. Lulu Wolf.

The Burlington Chapter No. 1330 presented a musical, "In His Hands," an adaptation of the story of Mooshearth and Moosheaven. Approximately 150 persons attended the Academy.

Other social activities held during the weekend included a social hour prior to the dance Saturday night and a breakfast Sunday morning. A buffet style lunch was served yesterday.

Senior Regent Mrs. Earline Coghill was chairman of refreshments and invited the guests to the appointed table during the various events. The Friendship colors, blue and gold, were used in the decorations. Mrs. Emily Johnston, chaplain, poured punch and was assisted by Mrs. Thelma Evans, recorder; Mrs. Mary Burt, treasurer; and Mrs. Carrie Oakley and Mrs. Elizabeth Moore.

The candidates participating in the ceremony yesterday were: Myrtle Brantley, Leona Newcomer, Becky Ingle, Kathleen Hinchshaw, Cacia Duan, and Mary Ann Waters.

Others present were Miss Mavis Brown, Mrs. L. H. Ellis, Mrs. Nelson Hunsucker, Mrs. Don Langston, Mrs. Haywood McLawhorn, Mrs. J. L. Rollins, Mrs. Robert Lee Sutton, Mrs. Glenn Smart, Mrs. Cecil Worthington, and Mrs. Harry Worthington.

Cookies and punch made by the home economics girls were served by Miss Alya Ray Taylor.

Miss Emily Frances Warren of Vanceboro, bride-elect of May, was honored Saturday evening with a dinner party by her bridesmaids at the Governor Tryon Hotel, New Bern.

The guests in attendance were greeted in the hotel lobby by the hostesses, Miss Betty Vic Gaskins, Miss Sylvia Jean Taylor, Miss Shelby Sheffield and Miss Ann Blanton, who invited them to the De Graffenreid Room for dinner.

The table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a crystal bowl of yellow and purple iris flanked by burning yellow tapers in crystal holders. Bridal place cards marked the places of the guests. Upon entering, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. James Warren, were presented corsages.

The guests were Miss Pat Perry, Mrs. James Charles Page Jr. and daughter Jayne of Greenville, Mrs. Hugh Sumerell of Simpson, Miss Betsy Cleve, Miss Thelma Carawan, Miss Elsie Cleve, Mrs. Anthony Caprala and daughter Lucy, Mrs. Victor Gaskins, and Mrs. Oscar Taylor of Vanceboro.

Following a three course dinner the honoree was presented a gift of crystal by the hostesses.

Approximately 400 members of the John Allen Mills family held their annual reunion in late April at the Simpson Community Building.

A picnic lunch was served. The family and friends gathered inside the building for a program and assembly following the dinner.

Special music was by Mrs. Shirley Rose Gladson and the Palmetta Choir.

Van Mills, president, introduced the speaker, Rev. Elbert Edwards.

Officers elected for the coming year were: Arthur Gaskins, president; Rufus C. Hardee, vice-president; Mrs. Dorothy Rae Gaskins, secretary; Winfred Gaskins, treasurer; Mrs. Gladys Edwards, family historian; and Mrs. Jane Hart, assistant family historian.

Committee members are Lonnie Mills, J. T. Morris, Queenie Clark and Elbert Mills.

A Day For All Voters To Be Heard

The individual citizen is more directly affected by the actions of local government in the community in which he lives than by any other level of government in our democratic society.

Realizing this, it is often surprising that local elections to name men to local government posts often bring fewer voters to the polls than elections in which state or national offices are at stake.

Tomorrow in Greenville and Farmville, voters will go to the polls to elect officials who will direct local government affairs in the two cities during the next two years. In Ayden, Grifton and Winterville, voters went to the polls today for that same purpose.

Upon the shoulders of these officials elected today and tomorrow in municipalities throughout Pitt County will rest the responsibility for directing local government affairs in the years immediately ahead. Upon the shoulders of the voters of the individual communities rests the responsibility of selecting the officials who will hold public office.

In Winterville, Ayden and Grifton where local elections were held today, it is now too late for those citizens who did not cast their ballots to voice their choice of candidates at the polls. It is our hope, however, that voters in these communities turn out in large numbers.

It is also the hope of The Reflector that voters of Greenville and Farmville will go to the polls in large numbers tomorrow to participate in the election of their respective officials.

In Greenville there are some 7,000 registered voters on the city's books. Two years ago less than 2,500 of these voters went to the polls to participate in the election of the five members of the City Council. Tomorrow Greenville voters will elect a mayor and four members of the City Council to direct the city's affairs for the next two years. These officials, however, will be elected only by those citizens who take the few minutes required to cast a ballot. They will not be elected by those citizens who stay away from the polls and fail to cast their ballots.

The Reflector urges every registered voter in Greenville and Farmville to make a sincere effort to go to the polls and cast his ballot for the candidates of his choice. In order for local government to be truly representative of the wishes of the people of any community, it is essential that a representative number of the people of the community participate in the election of local officials.

If only 25 per cent of the eligible voters go to the polls and cast their ballots, it means that slightly more than 12 1/2 per cent of the eligible voters may be able to determine which of the candidates are elected to office. If only 50 per cent of the eligible voters go to the polls, slightly more than 25 per cent of the registered voters of the community will be able to determine which candidates are elected to office.

Every citizen of every community has the responsibility of participating in local government affairs by participating in the election of local officials.

A Real Shocker Should Cuba Fall To The Reds

Valid or not, the assertions by veteran observers that Cuba is well on the way to becoming a communist nation is a matter of concern to the United States and other countries of the Western Hemisphere.

If Cuba does become communist controlled, what will the United States do with a communist territory at its very door step? If Cuba becomes a base for communist activities in the Western Hemisphere, what will other nations of the hemisphere do to counter the inroads of communism?

Charges that Cuba is leaning toward communist control have been vigorously denied by Fidel Castro and leaders in his government. Castro insists that his purpose is to give Cuba a democratic government and not let the people of Cuba come under communist control as they were under the control of the former dictatorship.

The views of these veteran observers may prove invalid, as we trust they will. But the very fact that the observations have been made should shake the United States from its position of taking for granted its closest neighbors. It should shock the United States into giving more attention to its neighbors in its own hemisphere to assure they will remain in the bloc of free world nations rather than becoming dominated by communist totalitarianism.

Washington Is Really Humming

By RALPH ROBEY

This is the time of year when Washington is really humming. Labor legislation, the budget, foreign policy, foreign aid, taxes, unemployment compensation, and a host of other problems are all in the limelight. In later columns one after another of these will be considered, but the issue of changing our unemployment compensation system has now advanced to a point legislatively where it deserves analysis.

As everyone knows unemployment compensation is a system in which the Federal Government collects, a 3 per cent tax upon the wages of employees and the tax is paid entirely by the employers. Of the sum collected all but a small fraction of one per cent is left with the States for their use in making unemployment compensation payments. The States determine both the amount and the duration of the payments. The States also set the requirements which must be met if one is to receive such payments. These requirements may be stated as so and so many weeks of work, or they may be in dollars earned. Among the States there is a fairly wide difference on all of these points, as the States have attempted over the years to fit the system to their local conditions.

Bills have been introduced in both House and Senate to change the present system. These bills would require each State to pay benefits to all eligible claimants for a uniform duration of 26 weeks, as contrasted with present State laws, most of which provide variable duration up to 26 weeks. The bills would also require each State to raise its maximum weekly benefit to 23 of the average weekly wage in the State. If these bills were to become law the result would be to federalize determination of unemployment benefit policies. The Administration has asked for an increase in the tax base from the present $3,000 to $4,200.

The Ways and Means Committee has completed rather extensive hearings on the House bills. Much of the testimony was carefully prepared and outstanding. Labor spokesmen were in favor of the proposals, but most of the other witnesses were opposed. There is no factual basis for saying that this particular line of argument was controlling in the decision of the Committee, but it is a fact that the Ways and Means Committee has tentatively concluded that it will not recommend a federalization of our unemployment compensation system. It may advise a slight increase in the tax rate, which is greatly to be preferred to lifting

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

Churches are crowded to overflowing today. Religious books sell in unprecedented numbers. Articles on religion are eagerly read by millions. Anyone who carefully examines the situation would say that we are surely experiencing a religious revival. There is a tremendous interest in religion, but interest in religion is one thing and a religious revival is something else again. Certainly there is a wide-spread interest in religion, but we are far from having a revival. There are many reasons why a religious revival is not taking place, but we can say with con-

Stocks In The Banks

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — I have recently been talking with a prominent General Motors official about small cars. He is rather skeptical as to whether small cars built by General Motors would sell after the first year or two. Reason: — "Most people buy cars — large and small — for prestige, not for transportation. This desire for prestige causes us to build larger and heavier cars."

The average buyer wants to keep up with or go ahead of his neighbor! In fact, this is the real reason he buys small imported cars. — to have a car to talk about, not to save gas. "In fact, I believe" — he continued — "that the present buying of Ramblers is largely a fad. Style and fashion now apply as much to automobiles as to the length of skirts, size of hats, or color of shoes worn by women."

CAREFUL SUPERVISION I have taken a long time to get to my point. This is the real reason you can make an expenditure of money which will give you such prestige as will owning a few shares of stock in your best local bank. But, be sure to get the stock of your most conservative and most highly regarded bank. Owning stock in "second stringers" will not give you prestige.

But there are other more important reasons for owning some shares in such a bank. Banks are the most carefully government-supervised form of investment. Once or twice each year the Federal Government Examiners call (unannounced in advance to make an audit of your local National Bank; this is in addition to certain State examinations. This means that the stock which you buy should be of a National Bank, or else you should get a letter from one of the bank officers stating that it has joined the Federal Reserve System, which includes certain qualified State Banks and Trust Companies.

DIVERSIFICATION AND "HIDDEN ASSETS"

The assets of National Banks and of many State Banks and Trust Companies are exceedingly well diversified. As owner of a National Bank stock, your money is loaned to hundreds of different companies or individuals, most of them the best risks in your city; but many are also made to large national companies. No Mutual Fund or Investment Trust has its assets as well diversified; furthermore, a condensed financial statement of the bank is published in your local paper once or twice a year. Whenever a bank examiner questions an investment or loan is questionable, he asks that the bank collect it, or sell it, or charge it off to one dollar! Usually, the hidden asset is charged off even though the directors believe it will turn out okay. These charged-off assets are known as "hidden assets." Many of them will someday become valuable. The older a bank is, the more such hidden assets it will have. Hence, this is one reason for buying stock in an old bank.

MARKET AND YIELD

With the exception of stocks of large banks in New York City and a few others, their marketability is not good. This means that local bank stocks are hard to buy or sell — that is, they are not "listed" nor are they officially traded "over the counter." So, when you wish to buy or sell ten shares, you should go to the President or to one of the other higher officers who will invite you in to sit by his desk and give your story. He will want to know whether you will be an asset to the bank's reputation or not. Secondly, such a stock is much like joining an exclusive club.

Bank stocks are issued at various par values from $10 up to $100. Most sell at a premium over their book values. Before talking with your banker about buying, you should call upon one of the directors whom you may know. Ask him to explain all this to you. Ask the approximate price and the annual dividend. The latter, divided by the price, gives you the yield. THAT is, if the stock sells at $25 and pays an annual dividend of $1.00, then the stock yields you 4 per cent.

Other Editors Saying Herter's Teamwork

(Greensboro Daily News)

When Christian Herter took over as secretary of state, he was heralded as a "team man" in contrast to his "diplomacy-under-the-hat" predecessor.

Now with the unexpectedly quick agreement reached among the Western foreign ministers in Paris, Mr. Herter demonstrates teamwork ability abroad as well as at home.

The ministers' "package plan" apparently contains nothing new. Given the adamant French and German stand, substantial changes in the Western approach to the Berlin or German unification issues were unlikely. All the foreign ministers are firm in keeping Berlin's status fixed until a final German accord. German unification, according to unofficial informants, would be achieved in a series of steps over a period of two to three years; meanwhile a sub-commission of West and East Germans would get together to set up the legal basis for reunification and free elections. This subcommission would be weighted on a population basis to favor West Germany.

The only slight break in the old stand-firm policy is the tentative British stab at disengagement in Central Europe — was reported as watered down by the foreign ministers. Prime Minister Macmillan is under considerable left-wing and pacifist pressure at home. Demonstrators against nuclear war were viewed this year with much greater sympathy by public and press as compared with their parades in London last year. None of the other Western governments feels the necessity for offering concessions, so Macmillan's representative, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, is outvoted. The West will hardly open up the summit conference by yielding on vital points. It's certain not to give unless there are equal concessions by the Russians and an unmistakable show of good faith.

Back at home the new secretary of state is putting his department in order. He helped good administration and top policy planning by upping C. Douglas Dillon to No. 2 spot. Mr. Dillon, a former investment banker who served as ambassador to Paris, has distinguished himself as under secretary for economic affairs. As much as anyone in Washington he perceives the challenge of the developing nations in the non-Western world and the answer this country should give. Under Secretary Robert Murphy and Assistant Secretary Livingston T. Merchant, career men who now move up a notch, are seasoned diplomats skilled in handling tough assignments. The whole higher hierarchy of the State Department has been strengthened by the promotion of more "team men."

Despite a bumbling presidential announcement of his appointment, Christian Herter has gotten off to a good start.

Another Passel Of Predictions

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here is another passel of predictions, based on analyses of developing business trends.

Higher retail sales. Sales have been rising steadily so far this year and there is nothing on the horizon to reverse the trend. A steady rise to a climatic December is to be expected.

Cheaper chicken. Chicken and egg prices will rise, but they will drop further before they do. The poultry industry is overproducing, and more chickens bet more eggs; more eggs result in more chicks. Prices will continue depressed until more marginal producers are forced out, or both.

Airless tires. Well, not quite, because the air is locked in tiny bubbles in foam rubber. Several companies are reported to be developing tires with tough, foamed insides. They'll require no inflation and can't be punctured. OIL REGULATIONS TO BE EASED

Softened import curbs. The Administration's limitations on imports of petroleum is irritating our immediate neighbors so much that changes are imminent. An easing of controls on Canadian and Mexican oil is in prospect, to be followed by some easing of restrictions on Venezuelan oil.

A social welfare push. Liberals in Congress feel they have been undone. Most were elected on promises of expanding the social welfare program but, for a complex of reasons, little has been enacted. Consequently, liberals are on the spot and the only way to move off it is by generating tremendous pressure for more governmental beneficences. That is what will happen in the next two months. Watch it.

Summer sales push. Merchants generally will stage more July and August sales this year than ever before. Experience over the last few years has shown that proportionately fewer people are away in any given week in summer than a decade ago and that vigorous merchandising through the hot months pays off. PRESSURE FOR STEEL PACE Government steel activity. Expect more quiet, though nonetheless strong, government pressures to avert a steel strike. Influences will be used on both labor and management.

The government will do all it can, legally, to prevent a strike, lockout or immediate pay rises, on the theory that higher wages will feed inflation, and that a strike will comfort the Communist nations.

More hacks in government. Congress' treatment of Clare Boothe Luce is certain to make it difficult for this, or the next Administration to recruit outstanding personalities to take government jobs at personal financial sacrifices. More and more the Federal government will be forced to turn to career men and politicians who have never taken independent positions on any issue. OLD PROMOTER TURNS A BLOODSHOT EYE

"Going away this summer" We asked the Old Promoter. He twirled his gold-headed cane and winked a bloodshot eye.

"I've been reading some of those books on how to see Europe on almost nothing," he said. "One offers a run-down on hundreds of out-of-the-way places. After reading the specifications, I think it's a catalogue of run-down places. If you want to go slumming, why cross the Atlantic to do it? I'm thinking of writing a book on 'Staying Home on a Shoestring.'"

He's one who could do it, of course; not write a book, but stay home on a shoestring. MAGAZINE PUBLISHING GETS SPLIT DECISION Magazine publishers' advertising revenue this year will be slightly higher than last, largely due to higher rates, predicts the Gallagher Report, a newsletter in the publishing field. The net after taxes, however, is expected to be lower because of increased mechanical, personnel and postage costs, it adds.

Leads HD Council

By MRS. ALBERT BELL
HD Council Vice-President

I am very humble and deeply grateful to have been chosen one of the 12 North Carolina Home Demonstration Club Women to receive the 1958 Leadership Achievement Award. Someone has said, "As a leader one serves," and I delighted in serving. There is a great feeling of satisfaction and accomplishment in a job well done, whether it be presiding at a club meeting, preparing and serving a meal which brings a glow to the faces in one's family, or planning and participating in a successful community drive for funds for a needy cause. These things I have learned through participation in Home Demonstration Club activities.

Leadership training has meant so many things to me. Behind the desire that a job be well done must be knowledge and ability. One must know why she is doing a particular thing, as well as how to do it. She must have confidence in her ability to attain a goal once she has set one.

Through such training, I have increased my education as I did research in connection with a project. I have learned how to approach a co-worker psychologically in order to obtain from her the greatest cooperation as we worked together. I have grown spiritually as I have attempted to lead my club in such a way that we may be a source of pride to our community.

Some things of immense value can never be counted as tangible. Such has been the value of my leadership training. An extreme interest in Home Demonstration activities has brought new life into our home—topics for discussion, things to do together as a family, renewed enthusiasm for almost forgotten interests, and new activities, the sharing of knowledge.

Training always makes for a more satisfactory, dedicated leader, thus making of her a credit to her home, her club, and her state. Someone has said that "a good leader is one who never permits her followers to discover that she is as dumb as they are." We are aware that the qualities of leadership are scarce, but they can be developed to a point. Leaders have responsibilities, and I would say to our Home Demonstration Club leaders, "Remember that to serve is one of the main purposes of Home Demonstration Club work." May I pass along to you the following lines by an unknown author? They constitute a creed which we would all do well to follow.

Beatitudes of Leadership
Blessed is the leader who has not sought the high places but who has been drafted into service because of his ability and willingness to serve.

Blessed is the leader who knows where he is going, why he is going, and how to get there.

Blessed is the leader who knows no discouragement, who presents no alibi.

Blessed is the leader who knows how to lead without being dictatorial; true leaders are humble.

Blessed is the leader who seeks the best for all he serves.

Blessed is the leader who leads for the good of the most concerned, not for the personal gratification of his own ideas.

Blessed is the leader who develops leaders while leading.

Blessed is the leader who has his head in the clouds and his feet on the ground.

Blessed is the leader who considers leadership an opportunity for service.

"From the 'Home Demonstration Club Member's Creed,' I quote: 'Because I believe that 'Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World,' I will strive to establish my home according to my beliefs; I believe every homemaker can contribute her share to the building and keeping of the American way of life. In making a home and rearing children in the democratic tradition, I can be an influence for loyalty, honor, and integrity in my community and in my country.'

I believe rural women can play a definite part in building among the nations of the world, understanding, right attitudes, and a spirit of cooperation in which "peace on earth, good will to men" can become a reality instead of a dream. And I believe that with God's help I can be worthy of the honor of being a homemaker.

Training always makes for a more satisfactory, dedicated leader, thus making of her a credit to her home, her club, and her state. Someone has said that "a good leader is one who never permits her followers to discover that she is as dumb as they are." We are

A NEW MYSTERY The COUNT by A. A. FAIR (Erle Stanley Gardner)

CHAPTER 23

Sylvia Hadley took a deep breath. "It was like this, Donald," she told me. "Dean Crockett told me that he wanted to arrange a theft on the night of his party. He said that he wanted to have the second of two jade Buddhas disappear."

"Why?" I asked.

"He wanted an excuse to hire detectives."

"That's something I don't know."

"Suppose you tell me just what Dean Crockett told you."

"He told me that he was very anxious to have it appear that some thief had stolen the second of the varved jade Buddhas from his collection. One of the jade Buddhas had been stolen about three weeks ago. He said he was going to hire a detective to protect his study. He had also put an X-ray arrangement in the elevator."

"Simply to keep people from stealing things?" I asked.

"She said, 'I gathered that had been put in for another purpose.'"

"So that people entering the apartment could be X-rayed to see if they were carrying any weapons. As soon as a person entered the elevator, the X-ray machine was turned on and a fluoroscope picked up the image. There was some kind of an arrangement by which the image on the fluoroscope was projected on a screen above. A person entering the elevator going either up or down could be studied all the way someone watching in a little hidden compartment back of the elevator shaft."

"You're sure of this?"

"Oh, yes," she said, and laughed.

"You've watched people go up and down in the elevator?"

"Yes. I've worked for Mr. Crockett. I've sat there on guard when he expected someone to call on him who might have a weapon. He'd have people monitor the persons using the elevator and sometimes I did that monitoring for him."

"You got to know him quite well?"

"Real well."

"So then he told you he wanted this jade Buddha stolen?"

"Yes."

"And he wanted that stolen so he could have an excuse to keep a detective on the job guarding the place?"

"Yes, that was part of it."

"What was the rest of it?"

"I don't know. That's what sort of worries me."

"And just what were you supposed to do?"

"Well, he was going to hire this woman partner of yours. You see, it had to be a woman because he wanted her to be able to search women guests if it became necessary."

"Then why did he want you to steal the jade Buddha?"

"I think, Donald, he was laying a foundation for something that was scheduled to happen the day after the party. I think that's why he wanted to be certain that something was missing."

"Anyway, he told me what to do. I was to wait until the coast was clear, then I was to smash the glass in the glass case which contained the jade Buddha. I was to wrap it in cotton and put it in the back of the camera Lionel Palmer used for the group shots—the one with the wide-angle lens. Mr. Crockett told me that that camera would be used only once during the evening. After that, he said Lionel wouldn't use it and it would be perfectly safe to put the jade Buddha in."

"You see, the X-ray was always turned off when Lionel Palmer went up and down because once they didn't do it and every picture Lionel took was all fogged. The X-ray simply ruined the film."

"All right," I said. "Dean Crockett told you to take the jade Buddha and put it in the camera. Then what?"

"Well, of course, Lionel would carry it out and then I was to drop in and see Lionel the next day and . . . well, Lionel had taken some publicity pictures of me and I was to come in for more pictures."

"Mr. Crockett said he would see that Lionel would be in the dark-room developing and printing pictures all day, making enlargements for publicity purposes. He said if I hung around a bit, I wouldn't have any difficulty getting to the shelf where the cameras were kept and taking the carved jade Buddha out. And then no one would ever know how it got out of his place."

"So what?"

"So you . . . little smart you, came along and figured out where the jade Buddha was and went and took it out of the back of Lionel's camera, and then you put somebody watching Lionel's studio so that when I showed up to try and get the Buddha out of the camera, you were able to put the finger on me."

"And you knew that?"

"I figured it out after a while."

"And why are you telling me all this now?"

"Because I'm frightened."

"Why?"

"Because Lionel is not going to back me up . . . I'll be accused of stealing the jade Buddha. Before I realized the whole situation, I talked too much to Lionel, and he knows that I'm the one who put the jade Buddha in his camera, and the one who came to get it. Of course, when it was gone and I accused Lionel of having found it and concealed it somewhere, and . . . I guess I've led with my chin."

"And?" I asked.

"And now," she said, "with Dean Crockett gone, there's no one to back up my story and . . . I could be in a horrible fix unless you decide to help me out."

"Perhaps," I said, "it hasn't occurred to you that I am working on the case . . . and for a client."

"Of course it has, You're working for Phyllis Crockett. And I can help you protect her."

"And how are you going to help me protect her?"

"Because," she said, "I could forget about Phyllis going into the washroom and closing the door and then hearing the window open,

Little Girl's Body Believed To Solve Family Mystery

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—The body of a little girl, found bobbing in a Columbia River slough, provided a probable solution today to the baffling mystery of the missing Ken Martin family of Portland.

The body, found Sunday and identified as that of 11-year-old Susan Martin, had been in the water for a considerable time, said Coroner Paul Mylan. It may have been submerged since the Dec. 7 disappearance of Ken Martin, 54, and . . . well, I got curious and I turned around and looked out of the window over my shoulder."

"Now," I said, "I presume that you want to tell me that you were able to see the washroom window by looking over your shoulder?"

"No, I couldn't see the washroom window. I was standing on the modeling platform and that's near the bank of frosted-glass windows. Some of those windows swivel in and out. I looked over my shoulder and I could see out of the window through the little crack that was open, and — Donald, is it a crime to suppress evidence?"

"Yes."

"And if I told you I saw something significant and we kept it from the police it would be a crime?"

"But we wouldn't keep it from the police."

"Not even if I told you I saw the tip of a blowgun out of the washroom window — saw it moving up and down like someone was taking aim?"

"Don't be silly," I said.

"I'm not being silly, Donald. I'm trying to be helpful."

"Why?"

"Because I want you to help me."

"Just what did you want me to do, Sylvia?"

"To get Phyllis to remember that Dean Crockett told her in strict confidence that the theft of the little jade idol was to be a put-on job and that he had arranged for me to do it and that I was acting under his orders."

"Suppose she doesn't remember?"

"Then that will be just too bad for her!"

Sylvia thinks she is putting Mrs. Crockett on the spot as the story reaches a climax here tomorrow.

young daughters — Barbara, 14, Virginia, 13, and Susan.

Police, who have run down scores of clues in the five-month-old case, believe the Martin car plunged off a highway into the Columbia River or one of its tributaries. The body of Susan apparently floated free of the wreckage in the spring current and was washed to a backwater slough near Camas, Wash., a few miles east of this lower Columbia River city.

Dr. E. A. Waterman, the Martin's dentist, examined the body and said he was certain it was his wife, 48 and their three pretty that of the missing girl. There were six fillings in four teeth, the same as the work Dr. Waterman had done for Susan.

The body was clad in red and white striped pedal pushers and a blue quilted coat. Friends and relatives of the Martins said Susan was wearing similar pedal pushers the day the family vanished and that the coat belonged to Virginia.

The family, after telling friends they were on their way to the woods to get Christmas greens, happily climbed into their red and white station wagon Sunday morning Dec. 7, and drove east up the Oregon side of the Columbia River to Cascade Locks where Martin purchased a small amount of gasoline. Then they disappeared.

After ground and aerial searches of the heavily wooded gorge areas failed to turn up clues, police speculated that the Martin car plunged into the river. In one of the most unusual search operations ever undertaken in this area the flow of the Columbia, was halted by an upstream dam while skin divers and a sonar device were used to probe the slack river's bottom. This too was fruitless.

Friends and neighbors of the Martins have given up hope that the happy, well-liked family ever would be found alive.

A sister, Miss Margaret Martin, a Seattle school teacher, said she was saddened but relieved to hear that Susan's body has been found. "Now, at least I have some idea as to what happened to the family," she said.

Dupont Plans Big S.C. Plant

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—A 20 million dollar plant that can be expanded to employ as many as 500 people is soon to rise 10 miles east of here.

E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co. announced last week that it will start construction of its new facility by the middle of June. Completion is expected early in 1961.

The plant will manufacture an industrial packaging film known as "mylar."

It will create about 250 jobs initially and will increase to about 500 as operations reach their peak.

The plant will be operated by the company's film department which also makes cellophane, acetate film, cellulose seals and other industrial packaging films.

Practice Signals Grounded Vessel

CHERBOURG, France (AP)—A Boy Scout practicing signals caused a small French trawler to go aground here Friday night.

The scout was making "stop" signals with flags atop a cliff. The trawler captain about to enter port, believed the Scout was in charge of controlling traffic following an accident and ordered "full speed astern."

The trawler hit a sand bank and was aground until high tide.

In 1958 France shipped to the United States 2,325 bottles of champagne.

ECC Alumni Urged Push College's Case

CONGRATULATIONS FOR A WINNER . . . Nell Wechter, Distinguished Alumni Award Recipient

East Carolina College alumni were urged Saturday to participate more actively in efforts to obtain larger appropriations from the North Carolina General Assembly.

Dr. John D. Messick, president of ECC and speaker at the annual Alumni Day luncheon, told the group, "We need more assistance than we are getting in presenting our needs to the General Assembly."

"We ask you to let the people know what the situation is at East Carolina, and how it is being discriminated against," Dr. Messick added.

Dr. Messick described appropriations in past years, and those recommended for the next two years, as " . . . very unfair and very discriminatory."

Dr. Messick illustrated his talk with a series of charts showing comparison between funds appropriated for East Carolina and funds appropriated for other state supported colleges.

The alumni luncheon also included presentation of alumni awards to Mrs. Nell Wechter and Miss Emma Hooper. Mrs. Wechter received the Distinguished Alumni Award, while Miss Hooper received the first Faculty Service Award. The presentations were made by James W. Butler, assistant director of public relations at ECC, and Robert B. Morgan, retiring president of the Alumni Association.

The luncheon was a highlight of Alumni Day activities which also included a general business session, reunions for ten classes, the college's May Festival, an Alumni Tea, and the annual May Festival Dance.

Z. W. Frazelle of Keansville was installed as president of the association during the general business session. He was elected for a two-year term.

Jeers, Cheers For Prince Juan

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Loud applause and some jeers greeted Prince Juan Carlos de Bourbon Sunday as he marched in the annual parade celebrating the Franco regime's 1939 civil war triumph.

The 22-year-old son of the pretender to the Spanish throne was the center of attention as he marched for the first time in the military review. He was applauded loudly as he marched with the flag guard of the San Javier Air Academy, where he is a cadet. But there were scattered boos, and some Falangists who oppose the monarchy sang their hymn as the prince passed.

"Franco, yes; monarchy, no," they yelled.

No disorders were reported. Carloads of armed police ringed the district.

Franco announced in 1947 that Spain once more was a monarchy with a regency council and himself as the head of state, but as yet he has made no move to fill the throne vacated when the late King Alfonso III was forced out in 1941. Alfonso's son, Don Juan, is the heir to the throne, but Franco is known to favor Juan Carlos Don Juan's eldest son.

Generalissimo Franco reviewed the two-hour parade which stressed Spain's growing military strength.

Thunderstorms Hit Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Severe thunderstorms raked sections of the plains and rain drenched many other parts of the country today in the wake of damaging storms over the weekend.

Tornado winds and funnel clouds were reported in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas during the night and early morning. No injuries were reported.

Hail and heavy rain swept across areas in the storm belt from southeast Nebraska southward into western Oklahoma and across the Texas Panhandle into east central New Mexico. Hail stones reported as big as golf balls, pelted Leedey, Okla., as tornado winds lashed the area.

Sections of east Texas were drenched with heavy rain Sunday, causing much flooding. Property damage was estimated unofficially at more than a half million dollars. Heaviest rainfall, nearly a foot, was in the Kilgore-Henderson-Overton area. Wind gusts reached 70 m.p.h. in the Henderson district.

The flood waters washed out dams, blocked some roads and stranded scores of motorists.

Earlier Sunday, hail rain and strong winds hit northern Illinois. Showers were reported this morning in the extreme Northwest, the central Rockies and parts of the northern plains, upper Great Lakes region and the Carolinas. Snow fell in the higher elevations of the Rockies. One inch of snow was on the ground at Big Piney, Wyo.

ALUMNI FACULTY AWARD RECEIVED BY MISS EMMA HOOPER . . . Presented By Robert B. Morgan

No Evidence Of Discrimination

DURHAM (AP)—A North Carolina civil rights committee says thus far it has found no racial discrimination in voting in the state.

But the advisory committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights was split in accepting the report here Saturday. The reason was only 57 of the state's 100 counties have submitted reports showing no voting discrimination by race.

C. O. Pearson of Durham, chairman of a subcommittee investigating voting registration, said most of the counties who replied "are from the Western and Piedmont sections where there has never been a problem, while nothing has been heard from the so-called 'Black Belt' counties where the problem is acute."

Committee members opposing the report said it is premature. The report will be given to the federal commission before the state committee meets again June 17 at New Bern.

D. N. Moore, a Negro bondsman of High Point, had written the committee his bonds were refused because he is a Negro. The commission overruled Moore's claim after U.S. Commissioner Lonidas Herbin Jr. told the committee he found Moore and his brother, Walter, were financially insolvent and refused the bonds for this reason.

Wants Some Curb On Congressional Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you have ever wondered why poems, recipes, sermons and high school essays are printed as part of the Congressional Record, you have company in Congress.

Rep. Paul C. Jones (D-Mo) also wonders. In fact, he has put out feelers for support of some relatively modest curbs on the amount of non-legislative material included in the official record of Congress' doings.

Jones made a one-minute speech inviting colleagues to think about the problem. He said he might propose rule changes later.

Jones is up against time-hallowed custom that unanimous consent is always given a member who wants to "revise and extend" my remarks, and include extraneous matter.

True, the rules say the material must have a connection with legislative business. But, as Jones noted in an interview, each member is his own judge on that.

There is, in theory, another limitation. Each insertion is limited to two pages, except by special permission. In practice, a member with more expansive ideas to commit to print gets an estimate at $81 a page—from the public printer. The member then asks for unanimous consent to revise and extend "notwithstanding cost estimated at—".

"I've never heard anybody to object," Jones said.

His idea is simply to prescribe a quota for each member, a number of pages per session that would not hamper the average member, but would require heavy or habitual revisers and extenders to be more selective.

"In one recent Congress," Jones said, carefully avoiding names, "some 40 members inserted nothing at all. One member inserted 200 items."

Why do members fill up the appendix of the Record?

Found Grounds For One In Seven

NEW YORK (AP)—One of every seven men in the United States was rejected or discharged from the armed forces during World War II for mental or emotional reasons, it was reported today.

That was the finding of an eight year study by Columbia University into the reasons for the "failure" of 2 1/2-million men between 18 and 37 years of age. The study concentrated on 72,000 cases.

Looks For Help In Preventing S.C. Klan Rally

ELLOREE, S.C. (AP) — The mayor of Elloree is looking to the Orangeburg County sheriff for help in stopping a Ku Klux Klan rally announced for near Elloree next Saturday night.

But Sheriff George L. Reed is out of the city and the appeal for help from Mayor J. V. Funchess will have to await his return.

Funchess said placards have appeared at Elloree announcing the Klan rally for the old Elloree race track about two miles outside the city.

"The town of Elloree wants no part in a rally of that type," Funchess said. "We are having too good race relations in Elloree and this area to have anything upset them."

The mayor added, "We have a nice town and we intend to keep it that way. We want no trouble-making organization meeting here or near here."

The mayor said he has looked into the situation to find out if the state law requiring owner's permission for use of a property has been obtained for the rally. But that situation seems clouded—the land is owned by one man, rented by another and managed by a third. The man renting the property is out-of-state.

The mayor said the manager, John Henry Ulmer, said no one had approached him about use of the track.

The renter is L. C. Haymaker, a horse trainer and dealer now in Pawtucket, R.I. The owner is Shuford Pelkel of near Elloree.

The mayor did not say whether he had talked to Pelkel, or whether he had been able to contact Haymaker.

The placards for the meeting were announced as coming from Robert E. Hodges, general deliverer, Columbia.

Efforts to reach Hodges were unavailing.

The notice said the rally would be under the sponsorship of the Association of South Carolina Klans.

Supervision Bill Gaining Support

RALEIGH — The N. C. Association of County Commissioners announced its support Monday of a bill which allows supervision of welfare funds paid to children.

The bill, introduced by Representatives Hubert Humphrey of Guilford and John Kerr of Warren, is designed to insure that grants made to support children will actually be used for their support.

Alex McMahon, general counsel of the Association of County Commissioners, pointed out that under the present law there is no authority to supervise grand expenditures.

When a payment is now made to recipients, the county welfare department can suggest that it be used for certain purposes, McMahon said, but the department cannot require that it be used for food, shelter, clothing and other necessities.

He also pointed out that as a result money is sometimes spent without benefiting the children that the grant is designed to help.

"County commissioners and welfare board members throughout the state have long been aware of the weakness in the present law," he said. "By allowing county welfare boards to require supervision when grants are being mispent, the bill will insure better use of public money spent in support of children."

Legislators Awaiting April's Tax Collection

RALEIGH (AP)— The General Assembly, nearing the time for decision on major budget items, will learn today or Tuesday how much the state collected in taxes during April.

From the eagerly-awaited report, legislators will be able to get an estimate of how much the state can expect to collect in revenue during the next biennium.

State Revenue Commissioner James S. Currie has said the tax figures for April are "good but not spectacular."

Rep. Clyde Harris of Rowan, House appropriations chairman, has predicted the tax picture is such that it will be possible to raise the estimates of tax collections for 1959-61. This would enable the lawmakers to increase appropriations above the amount recommended by Gov. Hodges and the Advisory Budget Commission.

When the new tax estimates are available, the joint appropriations subcommittee can buckle down to the work of reporting its budget recommendations to the full committee.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)— For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.*

East Carolina Defeats Catawba By 1-0

Cuba has a population of about 4,800,000. Iran, in southwest Asia, was called Persia until 1935.

Field Day

Greenville's Junior High School and the Junior High PTA will sponsor a Field Day Wednesday afternoon at 12:30 at the East Carolina College track field.

A trophy will be presented to the home room accumulating the most points. Events scheduled for Wednesday include the following: tug of war, broad jump, standing and running relays, high jump, softball throwing for accuracy and distance, dashes, sack race, chariot race, and other relays.

The field day will consist of the seventh and eighth grades and each individual will be allowed to enter only one event.

Parents and others interested are cordially invited to come and spend the afternoon and watch the students—boys and girls—compete. Refreshments will be sold by members of the PTA.

night by coming up with one run in the ninth inning to edge past Catawba, 1-0, for their tenth straight win.

Wally Cockrell led off the final frame with a hard hit ball to the Indians' shortstop, Buddy Whisenhuit, who bobbed, allowing Cockrell to reach base.

Jerry Carpenter hit a long fly to centerfield and then Schneider, the Catawba hurler, gave intentional walks to Jimmy Martin and Gary Pierce.

Freshman Hubert Castellow executed a perfect squeeze play to send Cockrell across the plate with the winning run. The other runners advanced one base but the final out was unnecessary as the Pirates had wrapped up their twelfth win of the season and their tenth consecutive North State victory.

Ben Baker hurled his fourth straight win and scattered five hits while striking out twelve. The veteran southpaw got stronger as the game progressed and struck out the side in the ninth.

The Indians got runners to third base three times but each scoring opportunity failed to materialize. The final scoring bid by the visitors came in the eighth when Whisenhuit got his second hit of the evening. He stole second and then advanced to third on a fielder's choice. Baker sent McRee down swinging to put the flame out for the visitors.

East Carolina got only three hits for one of their lowest productions this season. Jerry Carpenter, Al Vaughn and Castellow got the safe knocks for the Bucs.

ECC had a scoring opportunity in the second inning. Castellow led off with a single and reached second before being forced out at third.

Al Vaughn was the only other Pirate to reach second base before the ninth inning. The Aboskie star drilled a double to right field in the fifth inning but died on second.

Schneider kept the ECC batters off balance all night as he struck out six and walked only two—both intentional.

East Carolina will get a week to rest before laying their mark on the stake against defending champion, Elon, Saturday night. The Christians are the only team left in the race and will be out to revenge an earlier defeat by East Carolina.

Aaron May Establish Himself This Year Among 'Greatest'

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

This may be the year in which Henry Aaron establishes himself as one of baseball's greatest right-handed hitters, alongside such famous sluggers as Rogers Hornsby, Harry Heilmann, Ed Delahanty, Sam Crawford, Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg and Al Simmons.

All the Milwaukee mauler did Sunday against the San Francisco Giants was hit a single and two home runs. He scored three runs and drove in another with a sacrifice fly as the Braves won 9-4 to regain first place from the Giants by half a game.

Aaron is batting an even .500 with 36 hits in 72 times at bat.

He is tied with teammate Eddie Mathews for the league's home run leadership with 8; he leads in hits, is third in runs scored with 18, tied for third with 8 doubles, and tied for fifth with 20 runs batted in. His slugging percentage is an incredible .972.

If he continues even near his pace, Aaron is a good bet to capture the triple crown—home runs, runs batted in and batting percentage. He has won all three titles but never in one year.

Cincinnati and Los Angeles were in a virtual tie with the Giants for second place following the split of their doubleheader. The Reds won the first game 6-3 and the Dodgers took the second, 7-1.

Chicago maintained its .500 level, dividing a pair with Philadelphia. The Cubs won the opener 4-3 and the Phillies triumphed in the nightcap 5-4. Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 4-3 in the first game of their twin bill. The Cards were leading 2-1 after 6½ innings of the second game, halted by Pennsylvania's 7 p.m. curfew law. The game will be resumed June 2.

Cleveland increased its first place lead to 2½ games in the American League, splitting a pair with Washington. The Indians won the first game 5-0 and the Senators copped the second 3-1.

Six home runs featured Milwaukee's triumph over San Francisco. Lew Burdette allowed six hits in winning his fifth game for the Braves but three of those were home runs. Willie Mays, Daryl Spencer and Andre Rodgers got them for the Giants.

Del Crandall joined Aaron in the Braves' homer spree. A double by Frank Torre, however, was the key blow. It came with the bases full to highlight a five-run fifth against loser Johnny Antonelli and two relievers.

Jerry Lynch slammed a three-run homer in the ninth to snap a 3-3 tie and give the Reds their first game victory over the Dodgers. Bob Mabe won it in relief. Danny McDevitt got the Dodgers even, spacing 10 hits in the nightcap. Gil Hodges cracked a two-run single in the sixth to spark a three-run rally against loser Joe Nuxhall.

Championship Is Probable Stake For Rose High Nine

The "do or die" time is here for the Rose High baseball club as they prepare to journey to Elizabeth City tomorrow afternoon with the winner becoming the probable new champion in the Northeastern AAA loop.

Both teams enter the tilt with almost identical records, having lost two games each. Greenville saw their undefeated mark vanish during the recent weeks as Jacksonville, becoming a giant-killer, crushed the locals 10-3 and then Tarboro followed with a 5-0 verdict.

Elizabeth City, gaining strength as the season progressed, lost to Greenville earlier this season and then got knocked off by Jacksonville last week.

Ronnie Finch, stylish southpaw, put Greenville back in business last week with a no-hit win over New Bern. The victory broke a two game losing streak and coupled with Elizabeth City's loss, gave the locals a new life in the race.

Coach Bo Farley will be able to go with either of his aces, Finch or Merrill Bynum. The latter opened the season as the workhorse on the staff but has cooled down in recent weeks, being charged with both losses. Finch has been the most impressive lately and Farley may choose to go again with his southpaw.

Bynum also gives the club a large part of its offensive strength and is in better condition to hit while playing the outfield instead of pitching. Farley will also call on the booming bats of Joe Moye, Alan McArthur, and Aubrey Harrison to help carry the Greenville club to a much-needed victory.

Billy James is on a recent hitting spree and sparked Thursday's win at New Bern.

Greenville will have only three games remaining following tomorrow's tilt. They meet Washington in Washington on Friday and then journey to Kinston next Tuesday. They close their season here May 15th against Roanoke Rapids.

Tomy Lee Wins Derby By Nose

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Willie Shoemaker made the right choice when he selected Tomy Lee over Sword Dancer as his Kentucky Derby mount. The English-bred Tomy Lee beat Sword Dancer by a nose.

But had the four-time national riding champion selected Sword Dancer, he still would have been right. That was the opinion of trainers today after one of the most thrilling of the 85 Derbies at Churchill Downs.

Tomy Lee's 71-year-old trainer, Frank Childs, said, "That eight inches (the margin of victory) makes a great horse out of Tomy Lee. However, I think that if we had switched jockeys (with Shoemaker on Sword Dancer) the other horse might have won. I'd have to give it to him."

"If you don't get Shoemaker it looks as if you might as well not run," said Moody Jolley, trainer of Duncie, who finished seventh in the 17-horse field. "Bohand had the race won but Shoemaker just outrode him."

Elliott Burch, trainer of Sword Dancer, refused to answer when asked if his horse would have won had Shoemaker been in the saddle in place of Bill Boland. Burch learned only last Monday that Shoemaker had decided on Tomy Lee instead of Sword Dancer.

Shoe also could have ridden Royal Orbit. "I know our horse runs much better for Shoemaker," said Dr. Jock Jacoy, west coast veterinarian who attends Royal Orbit.

Prize Player

Lawrence (Cotton) Clayton, one of the most sought-after high school basketball players ever produced in North Carolina, will enroll at East Carolina College, it was announced this weekend.

ECC Basketball Coach Earl Smith said Clayton's decision to enter East Carolina was announced by Clayton himself. The announcement did not say whether Clayton will enroll in June, when ECC opens its 1959 summer session, or in September.

Clayton is presently a Senior at Zeb Vance High School near Henderson. He will graduate later this month.

As a basketball player, Clayton averaged nearly 30 points per game for his past two years in high school and was a unanimous all-state choice. He is six feet, three inches tall and has been called the best high school basketball player ever developed in North Carolina.

Clayton is also a highly regarded baseball player.

Helms Upsets Andrews To Cop Tennis Tournery

Richard Helms of Goldsboro upset top-seeded Bobby Andrews of Burlington Saturday afternoon to cop the first East Carolina College Invitational Tennis Tournament.

The duo of Helms and Bill Crow was also crowned as champions in the doubles bracket.

Helms, tabbed as the number two man but given no chance of defeating Andrews, swept through three easy matches before edging past Andrews in the minimum two sets.

Helms defeated Rhett Honeycutt of Greenville, 6-1, 6-0, in the opening match Saturday morning. He then brushed off a couple of teammates en route to the top spot. Buddy Johnson bowed 6-2, 6-2, and Bill Crow was edged out 7-5, and 6-3.

Andrews, the only representative of Burlington, saw Goldsboro all day as he was forced to meet three Goldsboro natives before his championship debut with Helms. Regarded as one of the top net prospects in North Carolina, Andrews polished off Chuck Pate 6-0, 6-0, Allen Weil, 6-1, 6-4, and Pete Mitchell 6-0 and 6-0.

Andrews looked strong going into the finals, following his whitewash of Mitchell. Helms had had trouble with teammate Bill Crow before making his final bid for the title.

Helms surprised his opponent in the first set with a strong serving game and went on to capture the set 6-3. In the second set, Helms was forced into overtime before taking a 7-5 decision and also the crown.

In the doubles division, Helms and Crow had little trouble in reaching the finals. They disposed of Buddy Jordan and Lindsay Pratt 6-0 and 6-3 in the semi-finals and were then awarded the title by a forfeit. Bobby Andrews and Walter Brown were winners in the second bracket but were unable to meet the eventual champions.

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

It's too early to call Jimmy Dykes a miracle manager but the 62-year-old, cigar-smoking Sir James must have a Midas touch.

Look what the likeable little round man did just 24 hours after he had been appointed the Detroit manager.

He took a sadly disorganized Detroit team, brought an outfielder—Charlie Maxwell—out of the managerial doghouse and a pitcher—Don Mossi—out of the over-worked bullpen and proceeded to lead the cellar-dwelling Tigers to a stunning doubleheader sweep over the New York Yankees. The scores of Dykes' auspicious debut were 4-2 and 8-2.

Thus, in one day, Dykes won as many games as his predecessor, Bill Norman, had won in the previous 17.

Giving reeling ball clubs a shot in the arm is nothing new for Dr. Dykes. Last August 14, he succeeded Birdie Tebbets as manager of the last place Cincinnati Reds and directed them to a fourth place finish.

Dykes, of course, didn't pitch and didn't hit. The pitching was taken care of by Frank (Yankee Killer) Lary and Mossi; the hitting by Maxwell, Lary and Mossi allowed only eight hits apiece. The first game triumph was Lary's 17th in 22 lifetime decisions with the Yankees. He whipped them seven times last year.

Maxwell wallpopped four consecutive home runs to equal a major league record. Three of them came in the second game, during which he drove in six runs. Before Sunday, the lefthanded Maxwell had hit only one homer, in a pinch hit role. He had lost his left field job to Larry Doby because of a batting slump.

The Yankees, who now have lost five in succession and nine of their last ten, now rest in seventh place, 6 1/2 games behind the American League leading Cleveland, which split a doubleheader with Washington. After Jim Grant had pitched the Indians to a 5-0 triumph in the opener, Hal Griggs of Washington outpitched veteran Mike Garcia 3-1 in the nightcap.

Baltimore moved into a triple tie for second place with Chicago and Kansas City, defeating the White Sox 4-2 in 10 innings. The Athletics trounced Boston 7-3.

Billy Martin was the batting star of Cleveland's first game triumph. He drove in two runs with a single and homer and scored twice. The shutout was the first by Cleveland in the 107 games the Indians have played under Joe Gordon since he succeeded Bobby Bragan last season.

The second game runs were scored in the ninth inning. Washington tallied three unearned runs on an error, a single by Bob Allison, a two-run double by Harmon Killebrew and Ed Fitzgerald's single. Rocky Colavito ruined Griggs' shutout bid with a home run for the Indians in the last of the ninth.

Billy Gardner and Chico Carrasquel hit home runs in the tenth off relief pitcher Turk Lown to give Baltimore's Billy Loes his second triumph against one defeat. Loes replaced starter Billy O'Dell in the ninth.

$64,000-Winner Didn't Stay To Collect Money

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (AP)

An unidentified man from California's Imperial Valley won $64,000 at the races—but didn't stick around to collect it.

The man placed a wager in the 5-10 handicap contest at the Caliente track Sunday, but had to leave before the program was over to catch a bus back to El Centro.

The track announced after the 10th race that only one bettor had picked six straight winners, in the 5th through 10th races. That bettor was entitled to the entire gross award of $62,837, plus two consolation shares of $616 each.

A few minutes later, a middle-aged man turned up at the cashier's window and showed a copy of the winning ticket. He said his cousin who had left early, held the official ticket. He said he was going to call the cousin to advise him he had won. But he wouldn't give his cousin's name.

Talented Husband-Wife Team Working In Romeo And Juliet

The forthcoming production of "Romeo and Juliet," scheduled for presentation May 6 and 7 as part of the Greenville Arts Festival, provides a showcase for the talents of a brilliant local husband and wife team. Gus Laube, well known in local music and drama circles, stars as Romeo; while his talented wife, Inez, dancer, ballet teacher, and choreographer, has created and directed the sixteenth century dances for the great Shakespearean love story.

Both of the Laubes have a professional background. Gus sang with the Cleveland Light Opera, the Cleveland Civic Opera, and the Ohio State Theater Light Opera, and later toured with the NBC Viennese Quartet. For two years he appeared with the Daly

Gilmore Theater in New York City. In 1940 the war put a temporary halt to his musical and dramatic career and he joined the Marines, where he became Band Master for the Fifth Marine Division. While in the service he worked with Bob Crosby's orchestra as vocal soloist, and also played straight and comedy parts in radio and TV shows.

Inez Laube, who made a name for herself as a professional dancer, and ballet teacher in eastern North Carolina, was chosen two years ago by the Rocky Mount Art Center to head its newly formed ballet school. She made her start in ballet with Lisa Gardiner, one of the members of the great Pavlova's troupe, and director of the Washington Ballet. Inez studied with Miss Gardiner for two years, and became a member of her advanced dance group, which has become the widely praised Washington Ballet. Then, against the advice of Miss Gardiner, she decided to retire from professional dancing in favor of marriage and family life. But that sort of interest is not forgotten so easily. Several years later, when her daughter was ready for dancing lessons, Inez felt the lure of ballet all over again—so, she did what any true dancer would do—went to New York and started in again—this time with Ballet Arts and the Metropolitan Opera School. She has studied with Vera Nemchona, Kayna Nijinska, Vladimir Doboudovsky, and Lisan Kay. She has also had the good fortune to work under the world's greatest authorities on the Spanish dance—Aida Alvarez and Murquitta Flores, as well as the renowned character dancer Yurek Lanowski, who has taught the famed Sadlers Wells troupe. Since she began teaching ballet in eastern North Carolina twelve years ago, Inez has spent her summers under Thalia Mara of the National Academy, the only teacher in the United States of the Preojinska method, handed down from Russia's Imperial Theatre. She is one of the few teachers in this area to qualify for the National Academy Certificate.

Suzy Parker Back For Film; Drops 'Talking'

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—A lovely paradox is Suzy Parker, back in Hollywood after a year that was marked by tragedy and sensation.

On June 7 last year, she was pitched through the windshield of a car in a collision with a train in Florida. Her father was killed in the crash. A Frenchman named Pierre la Salle rushed to her side. After much backing and filling, it was admitted that they were married.

This was the actress who had told interviewers: "I will never marry. I admire men too much."

She has returned here to make "The Best of Everything" for Jerry Wald, her stunningly beautiful face unmarked by the accident. Some explanations were in order. "I'm going to keep my mouth shut," she said at first. Then in the next breath, she admitted, "I talk too much. It's a family affliction. When we have a family reunion, it is pure chaos."

Yet she did not talking about her marriage during her previous visits here. Why did she keep it secret?

"When we got married, I was not news," she explained. "When I got into the movies, I felt that our marriage was something between my husband and myself. It was nobody else's business."

"I realize that in America it is the custom to tell all about the private life of a celebrity. But my husband is not an American. In Europe, that is not the custom, and it doesn't particularly help him in his profession (as staffer for Paris Watch magazine) to have a lot of Hollywood publicity."

"Also, I don't feel that I want to share my marriage with the world. So I lie about it."

Phone Service In Six Months

HARLAN, Ky. (AP)—The Harlan County town of Smith has 19 residents and no telephones. But in about six months all 19 should be able to make calls without having to go nine miles, to Crummers, to do it.

Smith residents have been asking for phones for 14 years. Southern Bell Telephone Co. promised to install them after the Public Service Commission requested some action.

Principal imports of Ethiopia are manufactured cotton goods and gasoline.

is ELECTRIC, too!

Electricity does a fast job of handling your two messiest clean-up jobs in your kitchen—washing dishes, and disposing of garbage.

- An electric dishwasher cleans dishes, silverware, pots, pans—with just a twist of a dial.

- And your electric garbage disposer makes kitchen clean-up a snap, getting rid of food scraps in a jiffy.

Your all-electric kitchen needs an electric dishwasher and an electric waste disposer, so you can live better every day, the all-electric way!

French Cardinal Dies Of Illness

LE MANS, France (AP)—Georges Cardinal Grene died today—eve of his 67th birthday—after being ill a month from influenza. His death reduced the membership of the Roman Catholic College of Cardinals to 73. Pope John XXIII increased the college from the traditional 70 members to 74 November.

Cardinal Grene was an active supporter of the French resistance movement during the German occupation in World War II.

"I will have nothing to do with these gentlemen," he told his secretary once when a group of Nazi soldiers called on him.

He was born Georges Francois Xavier Grene in a small village near the English Channel coast. After taking master's and doctor's degrees in law, he finally won his father over and began his studies for the priesthood.

Educator Lauds School Integration For D.C.

ATLANTA (AP)—The superintendent of the Washington, D.C. public schools says integration of the school system has proved to be a sound educational move.

Carl F. Hansen said Sunday that academic standards had risen and delinquency declined since desegregation in 1954.

The superintendent discussed the effects of integration during a television program sponsored by the Georgia Council on Human Relations.

In reply to questions Hansen said that tests given in 1954 and 1955 and again in 1958 indicated there was a "phenomenal increase in the rate of learning."

Delinquency among non-white school pupils dropped from 37.1 per 1,000 in 1954 to 21.2 in 1958, he said. He did not cite figures for white pupils.

The school official explained that Washington's schools grouped pupils by ability into four divisions, honor pupils, college preparatory, general and basic.

This grouping, he said, was a major factor in keeping the superior pupils from suffering the bad academic effects that many predicted would accompany integration.

Asked if any racial differences were noted in the four divisions, Hansen said the larger proportion of honor pupils were white and that the larger proportion of the basic pupils were Negroes.

"But this was to be expected," he said. "A great number of the Negro pupils had not been given the kind of educational opportunities they needed."

Another factor, he said, was that a great many of the Negro pupils came from culturally and economically deprived families and backgrounds.

The superintendent said Washington's public school population of 114,000 is 75 per cent Negro and that 62 per cent of the teachers are Negro. Since 1954, he said, teachers have been employed and assigned on merit only.

Asked if assigning Negro teachers to white pupils prompted any protests, Hansen replied: "Given proper teaching, parents soon forget whether the teacher is white or Negro."

Americans Earn Pleasant Penny With Licensing

By SAM DAWSON

PARIS (AP)—Many American companies who don't want to build plants here but still want to get the competitive advantages of being inside the market are turning to licensing French companies to produce their products. Both methods have advantages.

Americans make a nice penny out of licensing. Official French figures show that last year American firms collected 37 million dollars from the French in royalties on these licenses.

The U.S. firms say foreign countries like the licensing idea because it encourages the investment of local capital, increases jobs, new worker skills, and sets an example of efficient American production techniques.

One American company trying both licenses and overseas production in its own plants is Kelvinator International, a division of American Motors.

It has a wholly owned plant in England—which sometimes competes with its American-based plants in world markets, especially in Africa. And the company has 15 licensees abroad who make its products. The oldest is Kelvinator, Australia, licensed in 1931.

But today France is its biggest corner in the license field. Kelvinator expects French sales to surpass the Canadian market next year for the first time to become its No. 1 market outside the United States.

The license system works so well for the company that last year the total sales of household refrigerators abroad topped its sales in the United States.

The American firm says its biggest competition now comes from Germany because of labor productivity and aggressive merchandising.

Its hopes for an expanding French market are based on growing personal incomes here, rising standards of living, plus these figures:

At present, refrigerator saturation in France is estimated at 17 per cent. Electrified homes in France without refrigerators, the company says, represent a market potential of six to eight million units.

This is how the typical licensee system is set up:

The American firm supplies the licensee with production plans and specifications and with tooling information. It assist in plant layout for maximum efficiency and in the selection and purchase of necessary equipment.

Like most American companies, Kelvinator says it has a system of rigid quality controls policed by frequent inspections. It makes some deviations of the standard product for local market requirements, such as heavy duty tropical mechanism for African, Indian and Singapore markets.

Florida Today Charging Four With Assaulting Of Negro College Girl

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Four white men will be formally charged today with raping a Negro college girl, State Atty. W. D. Hopkins said.

The prosecutor said he would ask that they be held without bail pending referral of the case to the grand jury, which convenes June 1.

Demands mounted from Negro groups for vigorous, fair prosecution of the quartet, quoted by Sheriff Bill Joyce as admitting the crime.

Placards reading "double standards of justice must be eliminated," and "it could have been your sister, wife or mother" bobbed Sunday night over a rally of several hundred hymn-singing praying Florida A&M University fellow-students of the rape victim. A spokesman announced they would stay out of class today.

A deputy sheriff said he found the 19-year-old girl, bound and gagged, still in her armed assailants' car when he arrested four Tallahasseeans at gunpoint early Saturday.

Those arrested were identified as Patrick G. Scarborough, 20, on leave from the Air Force at Ft. Fisher, Wilmington, N.C.; William Collinsworth, 24, a telephone lineman; David Ervin Bagles, 18, a high school student, and Ollie Stoutamire, 16.

Florida's maximum penalty for a rape conviction is death, but no white man has ever gone to the state's electric chair for raping a Negro.

Caldwell Taylor, president of A&M's student body, told the campus meeting it was essential that the students control their emotions.

"But at the same time we must show by peaceful demonstration our determination to get justice," Taylor said.

Burford Gibson, another student, spoke in a lengthy prayer of "brotherly love," but said "we will not sit idly by and see our sisters, wives and mothers desecrated."

Florida A&M Dean H. M. Efferson said the college staff shared the students' feelings about the case.

In Atlanta a spokesman for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said evidence is so strong in the alleged rape that "not even an all-white Florida jury could fail to convict."

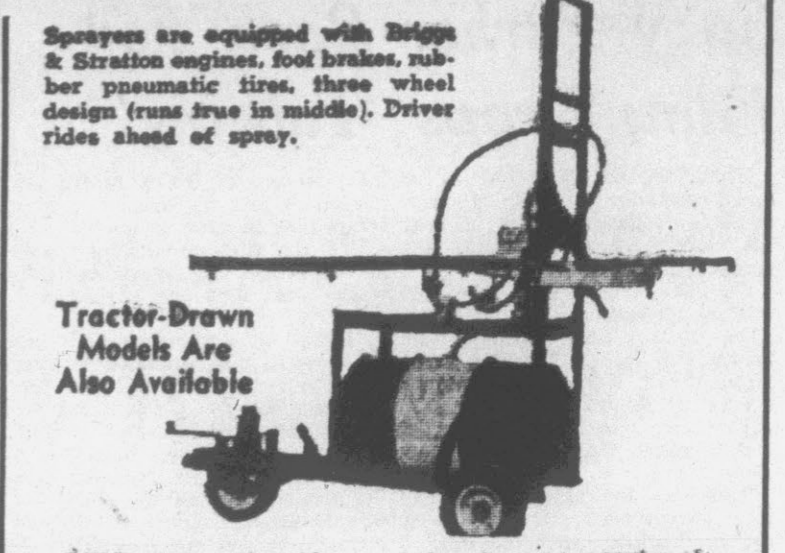

Miss Ella J. Baker, SCLC director, said Negroes all over the South would watch developments closely. The SCLC, headed by Rev. Martin Luther King, who led the Montgomery, Ala., bus boycott, emphasizes non-violent resistance in its campaign of betterment for Negroes.

A Leon Lowry of Tampa, president of the Florida branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, also called for vigorous prosecution.

Florida law prohibits publication of rape victims' names. The co-ed, hysterical when taken to a hospital, was reported improved.

Sheriff Joyce said the girl and another, 17 years old, were taken from two male student escorts after attending a college dance. The younger girl wrenched free and fled.

If you plant beans after grain, you need...

COKER'S YELNANDA SOYBEANS

YELNANDA is a new and improved late-maturing yellow soybean developed by Coker plant breeders for late planting in the southeastern Coastal Plains. It's especially well-suited for planting after small grain or for planting in early June. Under these conditions, Yelnanda reaches ideal height for combining, sets a good seed crop and still matures before frost in normal seasons.

A High Yields . . . Resists Shattering!

YELNANDA has averaged 30 bushels per acre for three years in 22 U.S.D.A. Tests, and made 30 or more bushels per acre for many of our customers in field-scale plantings. It is easy to combine, and has more resistance to shattering than any other adapted soybean in its maturity! So make your next crop your best crop. PLANT COKER'S YELNANDA in '59.

DESCRIPTION
PLANT	Tall, erect
MATURITY	From medium late to late
COLOR	Yellow, with light "eyes"
SHATTER RESISTANCE	Outstanding; not equalled by any other bean in its maturity group
ADAPTABILITY	Especially suited for planting after small grain or for planting in early June in the Coastal Plains
OIL CONTENT	Usually 18% to 20%
YIELD	Equals or exceeds that of any other bean of comparable maturity
SEED SIZE	Large and uniform

Invasion Of Panama Ineffective, But There Is Discontent With Regime

PANAMA (AP) — The Panama panic involving a wealthy aristocrat, a famous ballerina, a night club owner and a boatload of Cubans desperately trying to make like Fidel Castro seems to have simmered down.

The Cuban invaders surrendered last weekend, ending the immediate threat to President Ernesto de la Guardia's government. The peace team from the Organization of American States announced Sunday night that the threat to Panama was over.

De la Guardia, elected for a four-year term in 1956, is still fairly popular with the people. But some members of his administration are not, and there is discontent and talk of a change.

Talk turned to action several weeks ago when some dissident students visited Cuba and asked for help from some of Castro's veterans.

There were reports that wealthy Roberto Arias, who comes from a family of presidents, was financing some sort of uprising.

Arias' wife is British Dame Margot Fonteyn, one of the most famous ballet dancers west of Moscow. The government raked up a witness who said she took pictures while Arias and some men raised some arms cached in a rowboat at the bottom of the Gulf of Panama.

Arias eluded government forces, and finally took refuge in the Brazilian Embassy. The frustrated government meanwhile arrested Dame Margot and shipped her out of the country.

Then a band of Cubans landed at an unlikely place called the San Blas Peninsula of Panama's tropical Caribbean coast. Inspired by the idea of liberating yet another country after winning their own civil war, these young Cubans took over the headlines and hardly anything else.

Dogged by misfortune, the invaders landed at the wrong place. Three members of the party were drowned in the landing, among them the Panamanians who were supposed to lead them. Cesar Vega, a Cuban night club owner with a record of unsuccessful revolutionary activity, was left in charge of 89 invaders, almost all Cubans.

Vega, who is in his late 30s, said the invaders expected the people of Panama would stage strikes and demonstrations and rush to volunteer for the revolution. None of these things happened.

But the government of Panama was alarmed. The National Guard of 3,000 men could have dealt with the 89 invaders holed up in the village of Nombre de Dios. But the government was frightened by rumors of more landing parties on the way. It feared some Panamanians might rally to the rebel cause. It dared not concentrate its small armed force on the isolated invasion coast. So it called on the OAS for help.

OAS ambassadors arrived. Two of Castro's own officers put in an appearance to reason with their compatriots.

Whether there was any off-the-record inducement to the invaders to surrender is not yet known. But they were cheerful and almost cocky when they turned in their arms last Friday and, singing revolutionary Castro songs, rode off to Panama City's jail.

Some Panamanians demonstrated against Arias, demanding that he be refused safe conduct to Brazil. But the government is almost certain to let him go under the traditional Latin American right of asylum.

What does the average Panamanian think?

"I have sores on my feet, no money to buy medicine and no hospital here," said a Nombre de Dios resident. "That's no way to run a government."

"The president is okay, but the government is not run right," said a taxi driver in Panama City.

"We need a change but no one is in sight to take over," commented a store owner.

"Most people want a change but no one helped the Cuban invaders," said a bartender.

Radio, TV Seldom Using New Editorializing Right

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP)—The hard-won right of radio and television stations to editorialize is being utilized by only a small fraction of the nation's broadcasting facilities.

The majority of even the few that do editorialize, says Harold E. Fellows, president of the National Assn. of Broadcasters, take up matters virtually free of controversy.

What he meant was that many stations tend to devote their public service time to such uncontroversial controversies as the fact that sin is sinful, disease is debilitating and the perfect parent joins the PTA.

An exception worthy of the attention of both broadcasters and public is radio station WMCA in New York, which not only offers listeners a wide-ranging, comprehensive service in public affairs. Once a week it also presents the voice of owner-President Nathan Straus in editorials with which not everyone can possibly agree.

Straus is doing exactly what your newspaper does on its editorial page: expressing an opinion on matters local, national and international.

In recent months WMCA — via the voice of Straus — has editorially backed a losing candidate for governor of New York (Averell Harriman), blasted the McCarran-Walters Immigration Act, and plugged fluoridation — a poisonous subject to some.

It's "editorial page" has criticized the State Department's policy toward Germany in a city of numerous listeners of German descent; defended a railroad's position in discussing a commuter problem in an area abounding with irate commuters; slapped at racial attitudes in a city with as many attitudes on the subject as there are ethnic strains.

After Peter Straus, vice president in charge of WMCA programming and the son of the station president, had finished describing the editorial plan the other day, I asked him:

"Has an editorial opinion expressed on the air ever resulted in the cancellation of advertising or caused a potential advertiser to refuse to buy time?"

"No," he replied, "never once to my knowledge. An advertiser's basic interest is in the size of the audience he reaches. And people—meaning the audience—do like controversy. We feel that when a station editorializes it must encompass it with a wider range of public service programming a little better than other competing stations."

"We try to do that, with a great variety of public affairs features as well as 48 five-minute news spots every 24 hours. Against that background listeners understandably feel that we have a sounder basis for editorializing."

Straus believes in this formula: informed editorializing equals a larger audience, which in turn equals increased advertising. He emphasizes, however, that his father under no circumstances undertook editorializing in the expectation of increased advertising.

Big Mistake, He Wasn't Retiring

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—"We hate to give you up. You will retire in a blaze of glory," said Mayor Adiel F. Stewart in a surprise ceremony staged for Fire Chief J. K. Piercy.

There was a moment of embarrassed silence. Then the puzzled Piercy said:

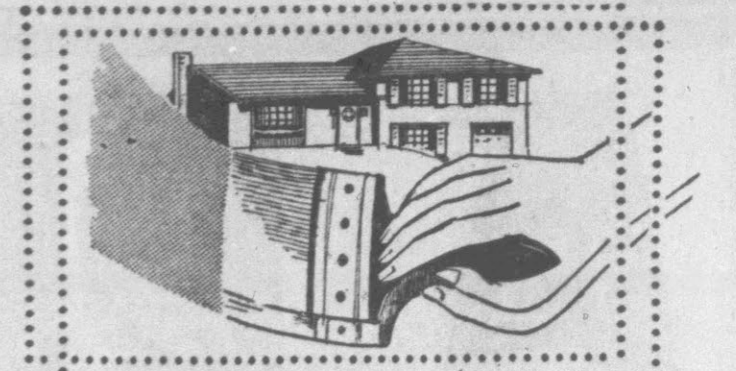

"There must be some mistake. I hadn't planned on retiring."

An aide explained that Stewart planned the ceremony after reading about Piercy's long career in a newspaper story.

Despite the mixup, Piercy got the plaque Stewart had made for the occasion. It cites the chief for his 40 years of service.

British To Enter Satellite Field

LONDON (AP) — Britain is planning to send a British-American earth satellite into space, London newspapers reported today. The decision to proceed with the space program was taken Friday at a meeting of Prime Minister Macmillan and his top ministers, the reports said. The Daily Telegraph said the program would cost between 28 and 56 million dollars. The newspaper said indications were that the satellite would be propelled by Britain's 2,500-mile range Blue Streak missile and that the satellite itself would be American and its instruments inside British.

The best selling book in 1776 was "Common Sense" by Tom Paine, selling 100,000 copies in three months.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market had a narrow edge to the upside in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of most leading stocks were narrow. A point either way was about the limit. Just a few stocks made wider moves.

A pile-up of sell orders delayed the opening of Hertz following news of an antitrust suit filed against the company.

Kaiser Aluminum bounced back from recent losses, posting a gain of well over a point.

American Telephone slid more than a point.

Hoffman Electronics, American Cyanamid and Martin Co. were about a point higher. Du Pont added around 3.

Radio Corp. and Raytheon lost fractions.

Studebaker-Packard, off fractionally, was the only loser in the automotive section. General Motors was about unchanged. The other auto stocks rose fractionally.

Douglas Aircraft, rising about 2, was about the best in a spotty aircraft group. United Aircraft was off a fraction.

U.S. government bonds were steady.

Hundred-Gallon Still Destroyed By ABC Raiders

A 100-gallon steam distillery was destroyed early Saturday afternoon by Pitt and Beaufort County ABC officers in the Frog Ranch section of Beaufort County.

The still, located about four miles west of Washington, was destroyed about 2 p. m. According to Pitt ABC Chief J. M. Ward, it was not in operation at the time and no arrests were made.

Found at the scene were 44 50-gallon mash barrels containing 2,200 gallons of mash, a 120-gallon boiler, two 50-gallon coolers with copper coils, 27 cases of half-gallon jars, a gas pump and a set of gas burners.

Ward stated 60 sticks of dynamite were used to blow up the still, the mash barrels and coolers.

Pitt officers assisting Luther Ward and Lester Hawkins of Beaufort County included J. M. Ward, H. B. Lilley and Walter Taylor.

Man Charged In Shooting Incident

A Statons Mill area man has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the shooting of another resident of that area yesterday afternoon.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said Flody Grimes, Negro, has been released under bond after he was arrested on the charge.

He is accused of shooting Jesse Williams, 30-year-old Negro in the left foot with a shot gun. Williams was brought to Pitt Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

The sheriff said the shooting took place in a house near Statons Mill.

TO ALL Greenville Citizens

Who should know better than anyone a man's qualities and abilities than his wife. That is why I think my husband, Robert Lee Smith, would make the city of Greenville one of the finest councilmen you could have. He takes great interest in his church, and much thought goes into every real decision he has to make.

When he was alderman in 1951-53 he always thought of how certain problems up before the board would affect other people and if it would help or hinder the growth and development of Greenville.

So this is why I would appreciate your vote on May 5th for my husband for City Councilman, and I know he would appreciate it too.

May Relieve Patrol With Nat'l Guard

RALEIGH (AP) — Dispatch of National Guard troops to the Henderson textile strike scene as replacements for state highway patrolmen is "entirely possible," Gov. Hodges said today.

He made the comment in reporting to his news conference that a compromise may be in the offing to end a wrangle over a bill to give National Guardsmen arrest powers when they are called out to help preserve law and order.

Hodges said an amendment will be offered to the bill which touched off long debate in the House last Friday, after it had sped to the brink of enactment in less than a week. The governor declined to give details of the amendment, but added, "We will work it out."

The measure will be on the House calendar for action tonight. State troopers have been on duty in Henderson on the request of local officials to help curb violence which has broken out sporadically in connection with a bitter textile strike.

Hodges said the bill for arrest powers for guardsmen was prepared after consultations with advisors, particularly the attorney general. It was drawn, he said, to make clear that guardsmen would have the power to make arrests if they were sent to Henderson.

"This governor, at least, does not want any additional power over the guard," Hodges said crisply in answer to questions.

He also replied sharply when asked if the bill was designed to give legislative approval to calling out the guard.

"I am perfectly willing to shoulder my responsibility under the constitution," he said. "It is not passing the buck to the legislature."

While calling out the guard would be an action taken "with the greatest reluctance," Hodges said, a request from local officials would get prompt attention.

The governor said he was inclined to agree that the patrol's full force is needed on the highways.

Accept Bids On 2 Sheriff's Cars

Pitt County Commissioners accepted low bids for the two new Sheriff's Department cars at their regular meeting today.

The low bid, including trade-in allowances for the old vehicles, totaled $3,990. The bid was submitted by Davenport Motor Company of Farmville.

The only other company submitting a bid was White Chevrolet Company of Greenville. Its bid was $3,232.

The board also approved renovations in offices of the Pitt County Welfare Department, and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, in the County Office Building on Johnston St.

Commissioners heard reports from S. C. Winchester, County Agent, Mrs. Sue May, Home Demonstration Commission, and Mrs. Amelia Capehart, Negro Home Demonstration Agent, J. S. Grimes, III, County Welfare Superintendent, also gave a brief report.

Jurors were drawn for the June term of court during the meeting this morning, too.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Jas. J. Howard

Mrs. Mary Cox Howard, 75, widow of James J. Howard, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital at one o'clock Saturday afternoon after having been critically ill for several hours.

Funeral services were held at the Wilkerson Chapel at four o'clock Monday afternoon by the Rev. William H. Hadden Jr., pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church. Burial was in Pine-wood Memorial Park.

Mrs. Howard, a native of Baltimore, Maryland, was married to Frank Slade of Baltimore in 1900, and he died in 1910. She was later married to James J. Howard of Poughkeepsie, New York, and he died in 1930. She had lived with her daughter in Greenville for the past twenty-eight years and was a member of Brantley Baptist Church in Baltimore.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. John C. Proctor of Greenville; a son, Robert Slade of Massapequa, Long Island, New York; two grandchildren, Mrs. William K. Turner of Columbia, S.C., and Dr. John Howard Proctor of Covington, Va.; and two great grandchildren.

Five-Way Race Set Tomorrow

FOUNTAIN—A five-way race for three seats on the Fountain Board of Commissioners highlights political activities which will be climaxed with municipal voting here tomorrow.

Seeking seats on the three-man board are W. C. Redick, P. D. Turnage, C. G. Smith, E. E. Ellis and J. L. Peele. Redick, Turnage and Smith are members of the present board, while Ellis and Peele are newcomers to politics.

Mayor J. M. Horton, the town's top official for the past six years, is unopposed for a fourth two-year term.
