NATIONAL GUARD ORDERED INTO HENDERSON

Farmville's Company E Is Ordered Move Out Today On Henderson Assignment

Farmville's National Guard unit was slated to roll out of its local quarters late this afternoon to join other units in patrolling strike-torn Henderson.

The Farmville unit, Company E, 119th Infantry Regiment, received its Red Alert orders at 11:05 this morning from Lt. Col. Peterson of Ahsokle.

Orders to Commanding Officer Capt. Jack McDavid, Jr. of the Farmville unit said the unit was to order its men to report immediately in uniform and for the unit to move out for Henderson as soon as its men are assembled.

Lt. Alan Horne, executive officer of the Farmville National Guard unit, told The Daily Reflector early this afternoon the local unit will take all its six officers and approximately 40 enlisted men to Henderson.

"We're getting our men together as rapidly as possible, he said. "We're pulling men off trans-planters, trying to locate traveling salesmen and everything else. It's a real job to get everybody."

He added, however, that approximately half the 60 members of the Farmville unit had been notified of the alert within an hour and a half after orders were received.

When the Farmville National Guardsmen board their trucks this afternoon, they will take all the equipment of the unit including rifles, machine guns, field kits, bedrolls and everything else.

Cots and ammunition will be furnished the guardsmen when they arrive in Henderson.

"We'll be on 100 per cent alert once we get there," Lt. Horne said. "We don't know how long we will be there."

He added that the Farmville unit will be quartered either at the armory in Oxford when they arrive.

Greenville National Guard units were not affected by the alert which was ordered this morning by Gov. Hodges. A spokesman for the local units explained the Greenville units are Battery A and B of the Fourth Howitzer battalion, and the only units called to Henderson are "strictly infantry."

Action Follows Fresh Violence

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Hodges ordered National Guard units into strike harrassed Henderson today after violence flared to a new peak of intensity around the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills Monday night.

Within minutes after the governor announced his decision, State Adj. Gen. Capus Waynick began flashing the word to various Guard units to move into the city.

Waynick who declined to specify which units would move estimated that the first group of guardsmen — a Greensboro military police unit — would be enroute to Henderson within two hours.

Hodges emphasized that sending the Guard does not mean martial law in Henderson. He said sufficient guardsmen would be sent "to enforce the law and assist local law enforcement officials who still have the basic responsibility to maintain law and order."

The governor's statement came after Henderson Mayor Carroll V. Singleton had issued an appeal for Guard units to assist hard-pressed local officers and after the governor had conferred with Singleton and other local and state officials.

The governor had served notice last week when he withdrew highway patrolmen from Henderson that fresh outbreaks of serious violence would result in the dispatch of guardsmen to Henderson.

He asserted that the Monday night outbreak and "this complete disregard on the part of strikers and others to our appeal for law and order leaves us no alternative but to send in the National Guard."

Waynick declined to reveal until later in the day the number of troops being sent to Henderson or to identify their commander. He explained plans might be changed.

"We are going in with enough to handle the situation," he declared grimly.

Waynick said the guardsmen will be billeted at the Henderson National Guard Armory and will bring in their own field kitchens.

Cap. Sol Hertzberg, commanding officer of the Rocky Mount 119th Infantry Guard unit, said his group had been alerted to leave for Henderson between 2 and 3 p.m.

Guardsmen from Nashville, Tarboro, Scotland Neck and Farmville were to converge at Rocky Mount and join that unit to move in convoy to Henderson.

Rifle shots were fired and rocks hurled at cars as workers were leaving the mills Monday night. Early this morning, a dynamite blast shattered an unoccupied nursery building at the North Henderson plant.

The governor had warned last week when he removed highway patrolmen from Henderson that further violence necessitating state intervention would result in the dispatch of Guardsmen.

After conferring with the officials, Hodges said in a statement, "This complete disregard on the part of strikers and others to our appeal leaves us with no alternative but to send in the National Guard."

It was the first time in 25 years that guardsmen have been called out to maintain order in an industrial dispute in North Carolina.

After Monday night's violence, Henderson Mayor Carroll V. Singleton appealed to the governor for guardsmen.

The text of Hodges' statement on the Guard call:

"We have had a full report from local and state officials this morning on the resumption of violence in connection with the Henderson strike."

"This complete disregard on the part of the strikers and others to our appeal for law and order leaves us no alternative but to send in the National Guard."

"Pursuant to the powers invested in me by the state constitution, Adj. Gen. Capus Waynick has been instructed this morning to send in immediately sufficient guardsmen to maintain law and order."

"The sending in of the guard does not mean martial law. The guard is being sent now in sufficient numbers to enforce the law and assist local law enforcement officials who still have the basic responsibility to maintain law and order. We have asked city and county officials to augment further their law enforcement personnel."

Recommend Man Be Held In Ayden Woman's Death

BEING HELD FOR GRAND JURY ACTION . . . Henry Staton Jr., is being held for Grand Jury action following a coroners inquest last night. Officer James Ross and Patrolman Bill Whitehurst look on while Staton talks with his mother who is seated in the foreground.

AYDEN—A coroner's jury last night recommended that Henry Staton, Jr., 37-year-old Ayden Negro be held for Grand Jury action in the death of Annie Lee Fleming here Thursday night.

The six-man jury, five white and one Negro, deliberated for 20-minutes before returning their verdict. A warrant was immediately served on Staton charging him with manslaughter.

According to testimony given last night, Staton and Miss Fleming had been arguing and Staton had struck the girl with his hands. Witnesses told the jury that the Fleming girl had "gotten after" Staton with a lug wrench and he took it from her. Then she got another one and started to break the window out of his car. Before she could reach the window, Staton took the second wrench from the girl.

Witnesses said Miss Fleming then walked off down the street saying she was going to call the Police. Later, according to testimony, the girl met Staton again and got into his car. She refused to get out of the car and Staton drove off with her, to their house.

According to a statement by Staton, he got out of the car and Miss Fleming tried to lock the doors. He opened a front door before she could lock it and jumped in the back seat with her.

Ayden Police Chief H. V. Chandler told the jury Staton had made a statement to him that he pushed Miss Fleming out of the car in front of their house and he fell out on top of her. He said he carried her into the house and placed her on the bed.

Officer James Ross said he was patrolling on a police car when Staton drove up behind him blowing his horn. He stopped and Staton requested he call a doctor for the "sick" girl. Ross said he went to the house at 1107 William St. and found the girl dead. He called a local doctor and the coroner.

A postmortem performed Friday showed Miss Fleming died of brain injuries resulting from a fractured skull.

Coroner E. W. Harvey set bond for Staton at $5,000. He is scheduled to be tried in the next session of Pitt Superior Court which starts next Monday.

Algerian Truce Rumor Spreading

PARIS (AP) — Rumors spread through political circles in Paris today that active negotiations are under way for a truce in Algeria. No one in an official position would comment.

If the rumors are true, it is probable that the negotiations are being directed personally by President De Gaulle, who said recently "the day is in sight when Algeria will be pacified." He gave no date or details.

According to the rumors, any settlement would start off with an admission by France that the Nationalists have not been defeated. This would be a face-saving concession to the rebels.

Annual Newcomers' Party To Be Held By C-of-C On May 27

The annual Newcomers Party will be held at the Moose Auditorium May 27 at 7:30 p.m. Jack Whitehead, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's Public Relations Committee, reported to the board of directors last night.

Whitehead said a meeting of the party steering committee, composed of representatives from various civic clubs and other organizations, had met recently to set the date.

Letters of invitation are being sent out from the Chamber office to persons who have moved to Greenville since April 23, 1958. Post cards are included on which those invited are asked to indicate whether or not they will attend. The cards should be returned by May 21.

Chamber Manager W. T. Kyzer said Greenville and Wilson have completed the second phase of their testimony before a CAB examiner concerning the joint application of the two towns for air service.

Now briefs will be prepared for presentation to the examiner and then local interests will await his decision. Kyzer, W. W. Speight and W. H. Watson made the trip to Washington D. C. for the second phase of the hearing. Earlier local witnesses had appeared in Charlotte for the first part of the hearing.

It was also reported that the Chamber's Education Committee is getting definite endorsements for a four-year nursing school at East Carolina College from other municipalities in the eastern section of the state.

A bill is now before the State Legislature which would appropriate money for such a school.

See Solid Progress In Recovery Of Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican congressional leaders and President Eisenhower reviewed today the latest employment figures and agreed that—

They reflect solid progress toward complete recovery from the business recession.

They heighten hopes that the administration's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 can be kept in balance.

They vindicate the administration's stand against big spending programs aimed to create employment.

The GOP leaders gave this report to newsmen after their regular weekly conference with Eisenhower.

They said the million-plus climb in employment to a total of 65 million while joblessness was declining 735,000 during the month ending April 15 was a source of considerable satisfaction to the President.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House GOP chief, remarked—in a job at the Democratic majority—that "we are mighty happy now that we didn't push the panic button when some people were wanting us to." That was a reference to proposal by some Democrats that spending programs be started to combat joblessness.

The Senate Republican leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, said the improving picture in the job market heightens hope that the administration's budget can be kept in balance.

Dirksen recalled a remark a few weeks ago by Secretary of Labor Mitchell that he would "eat my hat" if unemployment had not declined below three million by October. The latest figures listed joblessness at 3,627,000. Dirksen remarked with a grin that he now is confident that Mitchell "will not have to chop his chapeau."

At the White House conference the President and the leaders also discussed administration plans for turning the financing of certain programs back to the states in exchange for relinquishing some federal tax revenue to the states.

Those programs include federal grants for vocational education, for construction of waste treatment and pollution control systems, and for school areas with financial burdens stemming from the presence of federal installations.

In interviews before the meeting with Eisenhower, GOP congressional leaders had hailed the new employment figures as giving them a strong talking point in seeking to scale down Democratic proposals as to housing, depressed areas and airports legislation.

Dirksen said he thought doubt had been cast on the fate of a bill, already passed by the Senate, to set up a commission to investigate unemployment.

Suggestions Pour In For Spending Extra Revenues

RALEIGH (AP) — Suggestions for spending nearly all of a $6 million dollar increase in state revenue estimates for the next biennium were outlined Monday night.

Sen. J. William Copeland of Hertford and Rep. Clyde Harris of Rowan, chairman of the Senate and House Appropriations Committee, made the suggestions to the Joint Appropriations subcommittee.

Copeland told the group, "We concluded after the meetings last week (during which little was accomplished) that it would be wise to throw out some suggestions—not recommendations."

"You will not hurt our feelings by taking exceptions," he added. The appropriation increases suggested by the two chairmen totaled $15,780,000. Of this, $5,818,

000 would be for school teachers, $3,256,000 for state employees, $3,200,000 for the Consolidated University of North Carolina, $1,144,000 for institutions of higher education outside the university, 14 million for the State Department of Welfare, $175,000 for the Health Department, $285,000 for mental institutions, and $396,000 in miscellaneous items.

Gov. Hodges announced last week that the state's tax-collection picture had brightened to the point that revenue estimates for 1959-61 could be boosted by 16 million dollars.

The suggested increases by Copeland and Harris would be above the amounts recommended in the proposed state budget by Hodges and the Advisory Budget Commission.

Herter Stands And Looks, Gromyko Wipes Brow

This unposed scene took place Monday at a pre-conference luncheon for foreign ministers meeting in Geneva, Switzerland. U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Soviet Renews Effort To Seat Satellites At Geneva

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union today proposed immediate admission of Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia at the foreign ministers conference. The West refused and the formal session ended with the dispute still unsettled.

The argument over the two East European countries might tie up the conference in a long procedural wrangle which could delay work on Berlin and German problems. But one Western delegate said he did not believe the Soviets would insist too long on expanding the conference.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko spoke for the two Soviet satellites, saying they should be brought in to work on the German problems because they had suffered more than other countries in World War II. U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain and Foreign Secretary Maurice Couve de Murville of France spoke out in succession against adding other nations at this time.

They urged Gromyko to shelve the proposal for the time being, an American spokesman said, and to let the Big Four get on with a discussion of German problems. U.S. Asst. Secretary of State Andrew Berding said "the meeting ended with the matter still up in the air."

Gromyko first proposed the admittance of Poland and Czechoslovakia before the opening of the conference's session.

A Soviet spokesman said Gromyko had suggested informally to the Western minister that the Communist side be enlarged but they "did not display a positive attitude."

The spokesman said Gromyko therefore would submit his demand formally. Gromyko was the conference chairman for the day.

By united resistance Monday, the Western three beat down Gromyko's bid to give Communist East Germany full membership in the parley instead of a limited advisory role. However, the Soviet diplomat won the right for the East and West German delegations to address the conference directly.

In demanding seats for Poland and Czechoslovakia, Gromyko wants to establish the principle of numerical parity between the West and the Communists in international meetings. The West has always rejected this.

The Western ministers were ready to block this maneuver, but they were prepared to tell Gromyko that at a later stage of discussions on their German question, Poland and Czechoslovakia could be brought in along with other nations.

The West's argument is that the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France are primarily responsible for settling the problems of Germany, but other countries may be included when the talks get to issues of direct interest to them. In exchange for bringing in Poland and Czechoslovakia, the Western three would insist on adding Italy and perhaps one or two other allies.

(Items this week from: Ashe, Macon, Northampton, Jones, Montgomery, and Polk Counties)

Ideal Fruit Jelly
Producing good jelly for home and commercial use was emphasized at all the Home Demonstration club meetings in Ashe County recently.

According to Mrs. Jane Davidson, home economics agent, club members learned all the processes in jelly making, including extracting the stock, straining it, testing for pectin, cooking, sealing, and storage. Thirty-five members ordered a Jelmeter which measures the pectin content of fruit juice. Members were interested in selling jellies and were encouraged to experiment with unusual recipes.

Citizenship Awards
Macon County 4-H'ers have been offered the opportunity to prove they are good citizens.

Mrs. Jessie Cade, assistant home economics agent, says Home Demonstration citizenship leaders have explained the program to 4-H'ers, teachers, and principals in all Macon schools.

Objectives of the citizenship contest are wholesome, friendly, and cooperative personal attitudes; developing personal character traits which include genuine respect for classmates and teachers and the habit of being courteous; participation in religious activities and community clubs, and writing essays on a subject concerning good citizenship. Awards will be presented.

Meter Reading
Forty-nine 4-H'ers learned how to read electric meters at an Electric Workshop in Northampton County recently, says Miss Carol Winston, assistant home economics agent.

Four-H'ers were asked to read their meters at home and record it. The girls had trouble distinguishing the water meter from the electric meter; but this type of training proved beneficial to the boys and girls. James Robert Pruden of Jackson reported that he had recently repaired the cords on seven lamps.

Corn Meal Activity
Muffins which were over-mixed, under-mixed, and mixed just right were shown to a group of 4-H adult leaders at a training session in Jones County recently, conducted by Mrs. Fayette Gray, home economics agent.

Mrs. Gray prepared muffins, placing emphasis on proper measuring and mixing techniques. The leaders will work with the 4-H girls in polishing up techniques for the state corn meal muffin contest.

Busy Day Meals
With busy summer days approaching, Montgomery County Home Demonstration Club women are learning how to cook quick, nutritious meals which are easy to prepare.

According to Mrs. Martha Harris, home economics agent, each menu was planned to save time, simplify cooking, dish washing processes, to satisfy, have appetite appeal, and be nutritionally good.

The quick-and-easy meals were designed to get more milk into diets and to help the high percentage of women who work in industry serve more nutritious meals.

Buying Clothes
Be a wise shopper—take time, think, and have patient in selecting clothes that will be right for you. That was the information given 4-H Club girls in Polk County recently.

They were told that regardless of how much they spent on clothing, it takes careful planning and skillful buying to have an efficient and becoming wardrobe.

Miss Laura Jean Martin, assistant home economics agent, encouraged the girls to get a good buy by shopping around before investing their money.

Make generous allowances for shrinkage if you plan to wash draperies.

4-Way Appeal In Strawberries

RALEIGH—Yum! Yum! Luscious, ripe, red strawberries! What could be better? Strawberries stimulate the appetite, have eye appeal, taste good and are a good source of vitamin C.

And strawberries grow well in North Carolina, are delicious raw, can be easily preserved or frozen. Eat them the year 'round.

"Get your vitamin C the strawberry way," says Mrs. Rachel Ferguson, nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service. Vitamin C (or ascorbic acid, as it is called) is one of the most important vitamins. It is needed for building and maintaining hard teeth and bones, firm muscles, healthy gums and strong blood vessels. Scurvy develops when this vitamin is lacking for long periods.

Because vitamin C is not stored in the body some food rich in this vitamin should be eaten each day.

Strawberries furnish a good supply of vitamin C. One cup full of raw berries will furnish an adult more than the day's need of this vitamin. And who couldn't eat a cup of strawberries? Three ounces of frozen berries supplies about one-half the day's needs.

Grow your vitamin C, and enjoy those delicious, fresh strawberries from your own home garden. Fresh strawberries are low in calories. Keep them that way by serving them with little sugar.

Preserve or conserve vitamin C by freezing or making jam from the fresh strawberries. Supply your family with this delicious fruit during the winter.

Strawberries are good. Grow them, serve them in many ways, freeze and preserve them—but use strawberries as a delicious food full of health-giving vitamin C.

BETHEL—The Woman's Missionary Society of the Bethel Baptist Church met recently in the Church Sanctuary with 44 members and visitors present.

After Mrs. C. E. Brown, president, presided at a short business session, Miss T. N. Cooper and Miss Betty Cooper gave a program on the topic "Praise From Musical Hawaii." The rendition of traditional Hawaiian music set the mood for the occasion.

Miss Cooper told how the people of the island used flowers and music to express love; as she told this she placed a garland of flowers around Mrs. Brown's neck expressing love of the W. M. S. for her and her work.

She told how in Hawaii, soon to be the 50th state, the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention has foreseen the fact that it will be impossible to operate a foreign mission program in a state of the union; therefore, action has been taken to turn the mission work in Hawaii over to the Hawaiian Baptist Convention as rapidly as possible. She concluded by saying, "The Missionary Challenge of the Island, which is comprised of 30 denominations, is very great."

After the benediction, all new members of the circles and new members of the church, who joined during a recent revival, were asked to stand in line while being introduced to the old members present. After the introduction, everyone was invited into the recreation room for refreshments and a social hour.

We Vote 'Right' But Not Enough

Most counties in Eastern North Carolina take a great deal of pride in the fact they are almost solidly Democratic when it comes to partisan elections. Furthermore time and again leaders speak with pride about the number of votes his particular county cast in a particular election.

When a particular county or community votes a large percentage of its registered voters in an election it is indeed something to be proud of because it reflects the interest of the people in government.

When it comes to getting out a heavy vote in a general election, however, the counties of the East have to take a back seat generally to counties in the Piedmont and Western sections of the state.

In the presidential election of 1956, for example, a total of 14,388 votes were cast in Pitt, a county which had 63,789 people according to the 1950 census. In that same presidential election Cabarrus County, which had six less people than Pitt according to the last census, cast a total of 21,635 votes. Davidson County, which had 1,500 people less than Pitt when the census was taken cast a total of 26,165 votes in the 1956 presidential election.

While those counties may have more registered voters for their population than Pitt has, it is also evident that they get more people to the polls on election day than we do. The same picture, generally, is true for most counties in North Carolina of comparable size. Usually the county in the Piedmont or Western section of the state gets out more votes than a county of comparable population in the Eastern section.

To some extent this may be due to the fact that more of a two-party system exists elsewhere in North Carolina than is the case in the East. It may also be that residents of those counties take their voting in general elections more seriously than is the case down here where the big battle is in the primary and the general election is sort of taken for granted.

Whatever the reason, the difference in the number of votes cast in comparable counties should make the people of the Eastern counties sit up and take stock of the situation.

The counties of the East generally still have a long way to go in getting their voters to the polls on election day before they catch up with counties of their own size in other parts of North Carolina. We think we do a pretty good job, but we might take some lessons from counties in other areas which the statistics show are doing a better job.

Shouldn't Hesitate On American Bank

Congress should not shy away from President Eisenhower's proposal that the United States participate in establishment of an inter-American development bank.

The United States has pumped billions upon billions of dollars into the economies of other countries throughout the world in recent years. Certainly it should not appear reluctant to be of economic aid to its closest neighbors.

Proposed by representatives of the 21 American republics, the billion dollar bank would be financed with $450 million from the United States and the remainder from Latin-American countries. It would provide a ready source from which Latin-American nations could borrow in order to cope with some of their most pressing social and economic problems.

There can be no doubt that U. S. participation in the venture would bolster the relations between this country in its Latin American nations. Neither can there be any doubt that if the United States does not participate other major nations of the world will quickly offer to join the venture and thus get their foot in the door of Pan American affairs.

For years it has been evident that the United States needed to take a more positive attitude toward helping its neighbors in the Western Hemisphere. Only recently, however, has the United States showed the degree of aggressiveness in cultivating Latin-American relations that we would like to see. Establishment of the proposed inter-American development bank is a positive step in the right direction.

Congress should give quick approval to U. S. participation in the venture.

Not Much Cheer Among Big Four

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers in Geneva can hardly be described as cheerful. No wonder. Before he left for Switzerland Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said he wasn't very optimistic.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd cautioned against too much optimism right after his arrival.

At a Western luncheon Sunday, reports said, Herter looked tired. French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville seemed serious, and only Lloyd looked happy.

One of the greatest deadpans in the business, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, said when he got there he expected serious work.

But his boss, Premier Nikita Khrushchev, has already said he doesn't want to be a nuisance and a delay in getting to the summit with President Eisenhower.

This was the mood before anyone really said anything. Then it got worse fast.

The West German foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano, and his opposite number, Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz, of Communist East Germany, are also in Geneva.

The West was willing for them to be at the conference, but only for consultation, if needed, and not as participants.

The West doesn't want Bolz sitting in directly because that might be interpreted as meaning the West recognizes East Germany, which it doesn't.

Maybe the best that can be expected is that the foreign ministers will somehow stumble through a lot of words, and some days, without agreeing on much or anything, but still not so unpleasantly as to make a later summit meeting impossible.

Curiously, Bolz was accused of implying falsely in advertisements earlier this year that customers will "save $90" from regular prices by buying certain pieces of furniture at the store.

Well, said the company in its answer, the word "regular" as used in the trade does not mean the price usually charged. It means the price the furniture could have been sold for if the regular markup had been applied and, it adds, any shopper inquiring would have been so told.

Because all competitors make similar claims, Curtis said, this is "analogous to tying a boxer's hands behind his back and pushing him into a ring."

With All Those In His Corner—

By JIMMY ELLIS

Misrepresentation Here

Alvin Taylor — he of the red hat in The Reflector's legends — was rambling pleasantly the other day about the season.

The time of year is nice, he allowed, and a person can find one of the little pleasures of life in going home in the cool of the evening, slipping into a pair of Bermuda shorts and letting the rest of the world go by. His musings were akin to something idyllic.

He had all of us dreaming with him, and one of the group claimed first-hand knowledge of the wild joy that comes in taking leisure in a lawn chair. I murmured a second to the expression of delight, and conjured up an image of my own.

What could be finer, I asked, than changing into Bermuda shorts, sprawling across a lawn chair and dispatching a bowl of home-made ice cream for which someone else had turned the freezer crank.

The verbal dreaming wound on and on in the waning hours of the afternoon. The expressions would have warmed the heart of a Byron or a Keats, those for whom the fineness of living had found a literary outlet.

All of it was, as you might well suppose, too good to be true.

Alvin, a veritable leige lord in The Reflector's newsroom but a slave to the outside world, like the rest of us, detached himself from the group and started out.

Wither goest thou someone asked, swept up completely in the lyrical atmosphere.

My chariot — uh, my car, that is — has an ailment and I have to take it to the garage, he replied in a completely earthly tone.

We let him go, reluctant but helpless victim to the demands of every-day life.

A second member of the group raised himself from his chair, where he had been lounging in a complete surrender to the mesmerizing conversation.

A moment, sir, if you please, he called to Alvin. I'll go with you. I have things to do, also.

Pressed for an explanation, the second man said, The grass grows green and tall on my suburban estate (he has about 5,000 square feet of yard). The hand mower is waiting my pleasure.

For reasons various and sundry, but all similar in their bases of non-idyllic urgency, members of the group left until there were but two of us remaining. We sat silently.

Finally, he stirred.

Well, my lawn chair, my Bermudas and my ice cream are waiting, he said. I'll see you on the morrow.

I watched him walk jauntily away, whistling at the world and bouncing with the energy of his departed youth.

On my way home I passed his house. He was in his yard.

On the morrow, I thought, after seeing him, I'll have a word with him about the fine points of building sand boxes for restless offspring, if I can get my own children's sand box finished before the sun goes down.

Johnson would make a good candidate for the Democrats.

He would make a formidable opponent for Richard Nixon. He is well versed in the ways of politics and in the operation of the federal government. He is old enough to possess great experience in public office and he is young enough so that he could carry on the burdens of the presidency. The Democrats could do much worse than to nominate Johnson.

Wants To Be 'Free'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Rod Steiger has joined the public chorus of those praising the benefits of psychoanalysis.

The actor has spent between $5,000 and $7,000 over the last five years on visits to the understanding coach—and feels it is the best investment of his life, he says.

"I took my college education lying down," joked Steiger, who left high school at 16 to join the Navy.

"Some people seem to feel that undergoing analysis will hurt their creativity. But I feel it enhanced my creativity a hundred-folds."

"It also gave me the freedom to look out at other people instead of being involved only with myself."

Rod has reached a new peak in a career of self-expression that began when, as a lonely boy of 11, he tried to write poetry.

He is starring on Broadway. His latest film is breaking boxoffice records. Since he owns 10 per cent of the picture, he may wind up comfortably well off.

Freedom is a key word in Steiger's life.

"I want to be free to do nothing if I want to—and everything if I choose," he said. "I want the freedom to make my own mistakes, to be hurt and to hurt—freedom to apologize, freedom to love."

Rod has been pretty much on his own since the age of 12. He worked as a leather cutter, an ice truck driver, a pin boy in a bowling alley, and a New Jersey boardwalk barker before joining the Navy.

"I had to lie about my age to get in," he recalled. "I went into the Navy because I was looking for some place to be."

After the war, while working with the Veterans Administration in Newark, he joined a theater group.

"At that time I had no real thought of becoming an actor," he said. "It was just a good way to meet girls."

"One of the worst mistakes an actor can make is to stay completely within a theatrical environment. An actor who lives more completely in his roles on stage than in the role nature meant him to play is a frightened and unhappy person," he said.

"You can't make your job your whole life. It has to be only a part of it. This holds true for a man in Wall Street as well as for an actor."

He is a complicated man of considerable reserve who still tends to resent the brash familiarity of what he calls "the four-minute friends who try to move in on your life and rob you of your time, the one thing you can't get back."

His philosophy today? "Happiness has to be helped," he said. "But if a man creates more beauty than he destroys, you must classify him as good."

"If he destroys more beauty than he creates, he is evil."

"What I want most is a happy home of my own—and the maturity to sustain it. I think I'm getting closer."

Attack Much Of FTC Philosophy

By ELMER ROESSNER

A Washington, D.C., furniture store, in defending itself against a Federal Trade Commission complaint, has challenged almost the entire philosophy of that body.

Curtis Bros., Inc. was accused of implying falsely in advertisements earlier this year that customers will "save $90" from regular prices by buying certain pieces of furniture at the store.

Well, said the company in its answer, the word "regular" as used in the trade does not mean the price usually charged. It means the price the furniture could have been sold for if the regular markup had been applied and, it adds, any shopper inquiring would have been so told.

Because all competitors make similar claims, Curtis said, this is "analogous to tying a boxer's hands behind his back and pushing him into a ring."

DEEP IMPUTATIONS

That all competitors make similar claims is an amazing follow up, nor did the FTC answer. If the FTC is picking on Curtis and no other company, it smells as if the cheese has rotted in Copenhagen. It looks like something Congress ought to investigate.

Instead, Curtis pursues its theme that the FTC has given no significance to "existing meaning of words and practices in competitive business."

It continues: "Both business and the public have over the years taken into consideration the fact that advertising claims are advertising claims and not scripture, and purchasers investigate and shop subsequent to exposure to such claims and when an individual buys he knows what he buys and what he pays and the purchasing public is not the dumb animal characterized by the policy of the FTC in its compulsory regulations."

"Guides Against Deceptive Pricing" (When! For an organization setting itself up as an expert on semantics, Curtis surely runs to long sentences!)

that without the assistance of the FTC they will be unable to make the usual purchases of furniture and other equipment without suffering injury or prejudice.

The overprotective, over-regulatory, arbitrary and capricious approach made by the FTC in the field of advertising by highly competitive retail business will ultimately result in producing a race of idiot consumers or purchasers who will be at the mercy of merchants.

"It would be much better to educate the consumer than to destroy the established practices that have developed through the years in the various trades and businesses especially since the public, businessmen and everyone concerned knows the 'practices' and accepts the same as part of the American way of life."

This is of coincidental interest because this column has frequently suggested that the cure for susceptibility to fast-buck promotions lies in teaching children, instead of relying on the FTC and Better Business Bureau. Stormy Operations Arise In Utilizing New Seaway

CHICAGO (AP) — Large ocean ships, venturing into the Great Lakes for the first time with opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, have run into some stormy operating and financial weather.

By far the most agonizing thing for shippers has been the traffic jams caused by late lingering ice in the St. Lawrence River. Lost operating days cost money.

One line's operations chief was asked to estimate losses represented by the pileup of ships in southwestern Lake Ontario at the Welland Canal.

"I've been biting my nails for three weeks," he said. "I'd be tearing my hair if I dared face it. Millions and millions of dollars; that's as close as I can come."

There have been other troubles, especially in finding berths for ships, and in handling of cargo. But nobody is throwing up his hands in despair—yet.

Many of the kinks can be ironed out in time—some problems are being attacked with determination. As for the jam which has had as many as 50 ships backed up at the Welland Canal, many shippers are hopeful that it won't happen again. The jam of 50 ships Sunday was the greatest recorded at the canal.

"If the river channel had been opened 10 days earlier, it wouldn't have happened," one shipper said. "One thing should be said right now: the lock operators have been doing an admirable job."

The Great Lakes ports have presented a variety of situations for seaway ships. At Cleveland which has plenty of deep water berthage, there have been few complaints. Chicago, which prides itself on its new Lake Calumet port, has been handling its arrivals with fair dispatch. But there have been snags.

A number of Great Lakes ports are closed to deep draft ships for lack of facilities. Some ports aren't equipped for the traffic.

At Detroit, the harbor terminal couldn't accommodate the rush of ships. Four were at berths Monday and four others lay in the Detroit River awaiting space.

At Buffalo, problems include shallow harbor, inadequate dock facilities and inexperienced dock crews. One ship captain who had allotted four days for unloading steel had to revise his schedule to 10 days.

There have been mishaps. Ships have scraped dock walls and missed channels.

Authorities are moving to correct defects. Canada has taken firm steps to ban ships lacking canal handling gear from the Welland Canal.

Meanwhile, it isn't all smooth sailing in the Great Lakes.

Hebrew University in Jerusalem now occupies what was once a rocky wilderness.

His Final Move Against Nudists

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—State Rep. James Turman planned a final attempt today to make nudists put on clothes. His "figleaf bill" would fine nudist campers $500 or jail them for a year.

The bare facts are these: The House gave tentative approval Monday but balked at final passage. The Senate has passed the bill. Today is the last day of the regular legislative session.

Turman's bill has provoked humor and arguments ever since he introduced it after a nudist camp was discovered in his home county. Nudists got dressed and testified at public hearings that they didn't bother anybody and their camps were well-guarded.

Offer Quick Job On Nuclear Craft

WASHINGTON (AP) — A huge atomic-powered airship three times as big as the blimps now in use could be put into operation by 1963, the Navy has been informed.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. and Goodyear Aircraft Corp. said the 4½-million-cubic-foot nonrigid airship could be launched before a nuclear-powered airplane is flown, thus becoming America's first aircraft to harness the energy of the atom.

Goodyear officials said the ship could operate at speeds of 80 to 92 miles an hour and with virtually unlimited range.

Scholars Dig In Truman Papers

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Scholars are digging into the personal papers of former President Harry S. Truman for the first time.

Made available at the Truman Library for qualified and approved researchers Monday were 1½ million pages of material covering Truman's early career.

Papers on his White House years will become available later.

Gene F. Schmidlein of Springfield, Mo., a graduate student in History at the University of Missouri, was the first to begin studying the papers. He is writing a thesis on Truman's Senatorial career for a doctor's degree.

Unlike almost all operas, Verdi composed no overture for his "Otello." The curtain goes up and Shakespeare's tragedy, "Othello" begins. Later Verdi's music begins.

Hints Big Boom In Retail Sales

DURHAM (AP)—A retail sales boom—perhaps the biggest ever—may be in the making.

J. Gordon Dakins, executive vice president of the National Retail Merchants Assn., told the North Carolina Merchants Assn. Monday that a "free - spending mood has begun to grip the public again." He predicted an increase in retail sales this year of 5 per cent over 1958.

And Fred Bresce, an Oneonta, N.Y. department store executive, said retailers could be headed for the biggest boom ever.

Dakins predicted that department store sales this year would be six million dollars more than last year's total. And he estimated total retail sales this year at a healthy 210 billion dollars.

He also took note of what he termed the strangulation of the downtown shopping center, because of traffic and parking problems, among other things, and called on business and civic leaders to head a concerted effort to set up sound urban renewal programs.

Included on today's program was an address by John F. Meagher, vice president for radio of the National Assn. of Radio and Television Broadcasters.

Miss Mildred Richardson of Greensboro was elected president Monday of the N.C. Assn. of Credit Women, which is meeting jointly with the merchants association.

Senator Ervin To Speak At East Carolina Commencement

The Hon. Sam J. Ervin Jr., North Carolina's senior U. S. Senator, will speak at Commencement Exercises at East Carolina College Sunday, May 24. President John D. Messick of the college has announced.

This year for the first time at East Carolina, graduation exercises will be out of doors and will take place at 6 p.m. in the college stadium on the East Campus. Because of the large number of graduates and an expected large attendance at the commencement program, the stadium was selected as adequate to provide seating accommodations for those attending the exercises. No tickets will be needed or admission.

Both the college administration and members of the graduating class approved the change in time from morning, as in previous years, to afternoon and from an indoor program in the Wright auditorium to open air exercises in the stadium.

Senator Ervin is scheduled to address 879 members of the Class of 1959, members of the college staff and the Board of Trustees, parents and friends of students, and others.

This year's candidates for degrees at East Carolina include 141 for the bachelor of arts; two for the bachelor of music; 130 for the master of arts; and 606 for the bachelor of science, which at East Carolina is conferred upon those completing work in teacher training.

Herbert L. Carter of the Department of Music and James L.

White of the Department of Business are co-chairmen of the commencement committee.

The commencement program will begin with an academic procession of graduates, faculty members, administrative officers, and special guests of the college. A program of music will be provided by the East Carolina Concert Band and the East Carolina College Choir. Dr. Cleveland J. Bradner Jr., director of religious activities at East Carolina, will give the invocation. President Messick will introduce Senator Ervin and confer degrees on graduates.

New Geography Course Planned

The Geography Department at East Carolina College will offer during the first term of the 1959 summer session, June 8-July 14, a new course on Techniques and Methods of Teaching Geography in the Public Schools, Geography 325 G. Students completing the course will earn three hours of senior-graduate credit.

This is the first course offered by the local geography department in the field of educational geography. As a practical course, it will place emphasis on actual subject matter, rather than on theory of teaching. The course is designed for prospective teachers, and in-service teachers who recognize in their training a lack of knowledge concerning modern geography, basic geography concepts, and effective methods and techniques for teaching geography.

Dr. Robert E. Cramer, who will teach the course, pointed out that geography as understood today is not easy to comprehend, nor easy to teach. "The teacher who has only a hazy acquaintance with geography," he said, "commonly drills on the dull, old-fashioned capes, bays, towns, and chief products' type of geography."

The new course will emphasize source materials useful in teaching geography, various visual aids and their use, how to bring current events into geographic education, and techniques for teaching the more difficult units in geography.

Missile Center Is Threatened With Walkout

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The missile test center geared today for a threatened midnight strike that could affect 5,000 workers and delay construction of new rocket launching sites.

With less than 24 hours to the deadline, the Carpenters Union held firm in its plans to set up picket lines tonight.

The 115 carpenters employed at the Cape voted Saturday to call the strike. So far, no progress has been reported in efforts to renew negotiations between the union and the Patrick Air Force Base Contractors Assn.

The carpenters, who staged a two-day wildcat strike last week, turned down the construction companies' offer of a 35 cents package in a two-year contract. The old pact expired April 1.

The carpenters, who now average $2.15 an hour, asked that their initial pay increase be retroactive to April 1. The Contractors Assn. declined.

Presumed Many Law Violations Will Be Avoided

WASHINGTON, (AP)—If you smoke cigarettes, you're probably a law breaker without even knowing it.

The law you break is one that is never enforced. However, if you're worried, it will become null and void on June 24—the day the government scraps liquor and tobacco tax stamps.

Examine a cigarette pack and you'll probably find it says something like this: "Law forbids the re-use of the federal stamps hereon and requires the person who empties this package to destroy such stamps when the package is emptied."

Clearly, you violate the law if you toss away an empty pack without carefully destroying the blue stamp.

Internal Revenue Service officials reported today that no smoker ever was prosecuted for failing to destroy a stamp. They said it is the kind of law that can not be enforced.

Starting June 24, the service announced Monday tax stamps no longer will be pasted on cigarette packs and barrels of distilled spirits. Instead, the Treasury will collect excise taxes by requiring tobacco manufacturers and distillers to file semi-monthly tax returns.

Stamps still will appear on whisky bottles, but they aren't tax stamps. They only give assurance the tax on the whisky has been paid.

Congress authorized an end to liquor and tobacco tax stamps five years ago. It gave the Treasury plenty of time to make the change.

The tax stamps first were issued in 1964, with Thomas Jefferson pictured on the first tobacco stamp. Jefferson was supplanted in 1879 by DeWitt Clinton, a governor of New York and a one-time presidential candidate.

Nearly 500 billion of the Clinton stamps have been printed in 80 years.

Incidentally, the change in the tax system will, for the first time, legalize the collection of tobacco tax stamps as a hobby. It is now illegal to collect them because of the law's requirement that they be destroyed after use.

One Treasury source said the government may take advantage of this situation and sell its stock of unused stamps to collectors after June 24.

Freedom Of Information Law

HONOLULU (AP)—Republican Gov. William P. Quinn of Hawaii Monday signed a freedom-of-information bill passed April 30 by the Democratic-controlled Legislature.

The law requires that records and measures of government agencies be open wherever possible to keep the public informed.

The measure was sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

Approximately 600,000 answers a minute on flight performance are possible with airborne and ground instruments used in a plane which is designed for research in high speed and space flight.

Going Over Scores For Band Concert

Talented students of music at East Carolina College who will be featured tonight in the spring concert of the college concert band are pictured going over scores during rehearsal. The concert is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium and is open to the public.

Performing tonight with the Concert Band are (left to right, above) John Lowery, Kingston senior, who will be guest conductor for the overture to Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro"; Luther W. Gilson of Kannapolis, who will play C. M. Von Weber's "Concertino for Clarinet", op. 26; and James

C. Burns of Sumter, S.C., Thomas Spry of Winston-Salem, and Gayle Eaker of Drexel, who will appear in Gilbert Vinter's "The Dover Coach", a composition for three solo trumpets and military band.

Herbert L. Carter of the music faculty will conduct the East Carolina College Concert Band in tonight's performance. Selections will include Ralph Herman's modern composition "Ballet for Young Americans", Vincent Persichetti's "Pageant", Tchaikovsky's "Marche Slave", and several popular marches by John Philip Sousa and other composers.

Wide Variations In Europe's Economics

By SAM DAWSON

BONN, (AP)—Americans shopping for a plant site in the European Common Market will find the six nations differ widely in many respects—taxes, labor costs, material costs, restrictions in importation of raw materials, and in the consumer market they offer.

The six also have many squabbles among themselves yet to be solved.

"Americans should take into account all the factors," says West German Finance Minister Franz Eitel. "Low wages alone do not justify a factory site."

He refers to the often heard charge that Germany is a high wage country compared, say, with Italy. Other members of the Common Market are France, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg.

"There are wage differentials in Germany, too," Eitel notes. "Bavaria has a lower scale than does the Ruhr."

Germany has higher direct taxes than some of the others, but lower indirect taxes—the partially hidden taxes that add to the cost of living in the long run but not necessarily to the initial production of goods.

This has been giving German steel producers a headache.

"French steel is a problem," Eitel admits, "since it can be sold here cheaper than German steel can be produced. The reasons are many. French steel mills may be more modern. Devaluation of the franc gave them an advantage."

"But tax differences are the chief stumbling block. German direct taxes are high and French low. The French try to balance their federal budget by high indirect taxes, while ours are low.

"Because of the low direct tax on steel production in France compared with the high one here, the European Coal and Steel Community has put a 6 per cent tax on French steel exported here, or some 30 to 40 marks per ton. We think the tax should be 10 per cent."

"But this is another of the Common Market's growing pains that will be eased in time."

Still another problem is the differing currencies of the six. Common money is the ultimate goal.

"But this is a final objective," Eitel says, "and shouldn't come first. Germany didn't have it either when the Reich was formed in 1870. It came in time."

"In the Common Market the first step has been making the currencies freely convertible among the six nations. German marks are also freely convertible with the currency of all nations."

Women Wanted, Get Dated Milk

BALTIMORE (AP)—Some ingenious women thought dairies in this city should continue to be required to date the containers of milk they sell.

The Women's Civic League passed out undated milk containers to City Council on which they had pasted this warning:

"This milk is undated. Will you take a chance and drink it?" The council voted unanimously to uphold the women.

Dog Track Bill In House Hopper

RALEIGH (AP)—Legislation aimed at reopening the dog race track at Moyock in Currituck County was introduced in the House Monday night.

Rep. Norwood M. Ansell of Currituck sent up the bill, which would permit elections in any county in the state on the question of legalizing racing and betting.

The tracks at Moyock and Morehead City were closed several years ago after the State Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional the local law which legalized the tracks.

Since then legislative attempts have been made to reopen the tracks, but the bills were defeated in committee.

Under Ansell's measure, a county election would be permitted upon a petition by 15 per cent of the voters.

His bill also would create a three-member state racing commission to regulate any racing legalized under the act. The governor would appoint the members. Persons who have not lived in the state for five years and those connected with racing would not be eligible to serve on the commission.

Predicts Union To Purge Hoffa

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell predicts Teamsters Union members themselves ultimately will get rid of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa.

"If new laws are passed to force disclosure of union finances," Mitchell told the Dade County American Red Cross chapter Monday night, "the Teamsters themselves with help from the AFL-CIO will succeed in getting rid of Hoffa and his immediate obnoxious associates."

Sports
Scope

by Johnny Hudson

Coach Jim Mallory, head baseball coach at East Carolina College, is sitting on top of the world this spring. The veteran tutor has come up with one of his strongest clubs in many years and the season has presented him with a hat full of surprises.

Mallory cited at the first of the season that it should be an interesting year as more than three-fourths of the club would be made up of newcomers. The schedule was a rough one but one that would offer the club some tough competition prior to opening the conference campaign.

Against some of the top clubs, ECC gained an even split but then cut loose with an eleven game winning streak against their loop foes and thus are on the verge of capturing their first conference crown since 1956.

In pre-season predictions, Mallory emphasized the importance of the strong competition in early games. "These games could determine whether we will have a mediocre season or be a championship contender", stated the former pro star. His strategy has paid off and once again Mallory's club seems a sure bet to return to the winner's circle. They close out their season this week with three home games. All will be played under the lights at Guy Smith Stadium.

Night Ball Is Back

Night baseball at Greenville is a thing of the past but Mallory, with the aid of some local merchants, has been trying to revive it during the past several years. Their attempt was partially realized this past Saturday night as a capacity crowd turned out for the Elon-ECC game.

Roy Tripp, owner of College View Cleaners, was one of the men who pushed the game. The local cleaners, bought up the game from East Carolina College and then gave the tickets away free of charge. It was a big contribution to the ECC athletic program by Tripp and the baseball team at the college has made him their honorary captain.

Summer Camp Is Planned

Children of this area will be privileged to get some first-hand baseball information this summer as Coach Mallory is conducting a summer camp at the college.

Coach Mallory will be aided by some other East Carolina staff members, including Coach Earl Smith, head basketball coach, and Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, Athletic Director. Miss Mavis Mitchell will serve as head of the girls' activities.

The camp will be open to boys and girls from the ages of 13-18 and the camp will be for two weeks. The first week will open Sunday, June 14th and close on Saturday June 20th. The second week will begin on June 21st and close June 27th.

Fundamentals Will Be Stressed

Baseball will not be the only sport taught as the objectives of the camp will be to teach the fundamental skills of a variety of activities. Other activities to be offered will be basketball, track and field, swimming, tennis and co-recreational activities.

The girls will have an opportunity to get some expert instructions in dancing, swimming, team sports, archery, golf, and co-recreational activities.

One of the big faults in athletics coming to colleges is the lack of work on fundamentals in the various sports. Mallory and the camp staff realize this and can offer some valuable tips to the youngsters.

This is a rich opportunity for the kids of this area and one that should be taken advantage of. Not only will the camp provide recreation but it will also give the children an opportunity to experience democratic living on a college campus. This alone could ignite college interest in the youngsters.

Odds And Ends

Larry Crayton and Ben Baker, a couple of aces on the ECC pitching staff, have signed contracts to pitch semi-pro ball in South Dakota this summer. Crayton is a freshman while Baker graduates this year. . . . Henry Kwiatkowski, veteran tackle on the ECC football team, recently returned to the campus following a shoulder operation. The husky tackle missed spring drills but was instrumental in East Carolina posting a winning record this past fall. . . . East Carolina's minor sports are having a rough go of it in the North State tournaments. The Pirates track club finished an unexpected second last Saturday and the golf team—tied for first in regular season play—was only seventh in team score yesterday afternoon. John West kept ECC's chances for another single champion in tennis alive as he advanced to the finals. . . . Merle Bynum, diamond star at Rose High, may be headed for ECC next fall. His hitting ability should give him a good future in baseball.

Play Kinston

Greenville returns to action in the Northeastern AA loop today as they visit arch-rival Kinston for an afternoon baseball engagement.

The Phantoms are still kicking in the loop with an 8-3 record but need victories in their final games to keep their hopes alive. They trail Elizabeth City, which has lost only two games.

Coach Bo Farley was expected to go with righthander Merrill Bynum in today's game. Tommy Riley will move into the starting lineup to take Bynum's outfield position.

Greenville won handily over Kinston in an earlier meeting but have hit a batting slump and have played little better than .500 ball since that time.

ECC Trackmen
In NAIA Meet

East Carolina's track team will be on the cinders at High Point College once again tomorrow afternoon as they compete in the District NAIA meet.

Outstanding winners in the district meet will be invited to participate in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Track and Field Championships to be held at Sioux Falls, South Dakota, June 5-6.

East Carolina finished second in the recent North State meet but Coach Bill McDonald stated last night that his club would be weaker tomorrow due to several class commitments by key members of the club.

The Pirates will still boast some outstanding individual stars in Jessel Curry, James Speight, Lee Atkinson, Randall Holmes, and Dennis O'Brien.

Zalazar Wins By Decision Route

NEW YORK (AP)—Victor Zalazar, the slugging Argentine, has followed a pattern in his young boxing career. He either gets them over with quickly or loses.

Monday night he had a new experience. He won a fight on decision — his first by that means — when he took a unanimous verdict from Canada's middle-weight champion, Willie Greaves, at St. Nicholas Arena. He weighed 160½, Greaves 163.

Zalazar floored Greaves in the 10th but couldn't make it a knock-out as in 15 previous fights.

ECC Seeks Its Twelfth
Straight Win Tomorrow

East Carolina will be seeking its twelfth straight win tomorrow night when they go against Guilford at Guy Smith Stadium.

The Pirates need only a single win to clinch a tie for the North State championship and two victories will wrap up the crown for the sizzling Bucs.

East Carolina rolled to its biggest win of the season against the Quakers at Guilford as the team that could do no wrong in posting a 25-7 win earlier this season.

Gary Pierce paced the batting assault with four hits and Glenn Bass had three.

Brodie Baker is the ace of the Guilford pitching staff, having pitched two victories in one day earlier in the season. Baker started against ECC in the first meeting but failed to complete the second inning.

Coach Jim Mallory plans to go with righthander Johnny Ellen on the mound against the visitors. Ellen, a freshman, has three victories in five starts this season and received credit for the first victory over Guilford.

Only three games remain on the Pirates' regular season schedule but two losses could force the Bucs to re-schedule a couple of games which were rained out with Lenoir Rhyne. The present standing shows the Pirates with a comfortable first place lead. They are 11-0 while their nearest challenger, Elon, is 11-4.

Tomorrow's game will once again be played under the lights at Guy Smith Stadium. Game time is slated for 8:00. Attendance has continued to pick up at the local stadium and reached its climax last Saturday when a packed house witnessed the East Carolina-Elon battle. More capacity crowds are expected for East Carolina's final three games.

West Gains Finals In North State Net Play

GREENSBORO — John West, East Carolina's No. 1 tennis player, breezed to the single finals yesterday along with top-seeded Nick McCabe of Western Carolina as the North State Conference Tennis Championships got underway on the Sedgfield Courts.

West fought his way to the finals by eliminating Fred Hewitt of Western Carolina 6-0, 6-0, and then Norris Whitson of Appalachian, 6-3, 6-0.

The fiery Durham competitor was seeded number two prior to the start of the championship matches. This is West's first year in the finals but the junior blond has tasted only one defeat in his three years of conference play.

McCabe edged him out in an earlier match this season. West also holds a defeat over the Western Carolina ace.

McCabe started his trip to the finals by ousting Harold Wright of High Point, 6-1, 6-3, but ran into trouble against ECC's Bill Hollowell. The latter carried McCabe to three sets before losing. Hollowell, a spunky competitor, battled back after losing the first set to take six straight games in the second set. The final set went past the minimum games before McCabe took a 7-5 win.

East Carolina's doubles duo of Jim Daughtridge and Red Brown got past the first round with a victory over Tony Adams and John Loftis of High Point.

Second round action saw the locals drop out of contention by losing to the top-seeded duo of Hordorn Washburn and Brooks Haworth of Guilford.

Memo to baseball fans in Los Angeles: your Dodgers are now back to normal — coming from behind, booting the other club ahead, then scrambling from behind again only to lose the lead before winning an 11-10 ball game on a squeeze bunt in the ninth.

That's exactly the way they beat Philadelphia in Los Angeles Monday night, staying within a half-game of Milwaukee's National League leading Braves with that 11-10 decision. It wasn't neat, but it was the Dodgers' third straight win by one run.

The Braves retained their lead the easy way, belting the Chicago Cubs 8-1 in an afternoon game. San Francisco's fourth place Giants also breezed, walloping Pittsburgh 14-4 in the only other game scheduled in the NL.

Baltimore defeated Washington 7-3 in the only American League game scheduled.

Norm Larker laid down the bunt that brought in the winner for the Dodgers. Don Demeter opened the ninth with a double against losing reliever Jim Hearn (0-1). A couple of walks, sandwiching a sacrifice, loaded the bases. Larker then bunted perfectly on the first pitch by Ray Semproch, the Phils' fifth pitcher.

The Phils had run up a 3-0 lead in three innings against Dodger starter Stan Williams, but Los Angeles tied it in the fourth on an RBI single by Duke Snider, the first hit off Jim Owens, and a two-run single by John Roseboro. Then the Phils scored six in the fifth — two on Ed Bouchee's two-out homer and the rest unearned on errors by Charlie Neal, who had handled 182 chances perfectly since last Sept. 10, and Don Zimmerman.

The Dodgers then got three more in the fifth and a tying three in the sixth capped by Demeter's run-scoring single. A walk, sacrifice and Junior Gilliam's single gave the Dodgers the lead for the first time, 10-9, in the seventh against Dick Farrell, but winning reliever Art Fowler (2-2) gave up a tying home run by pinch-hitter Gene Freese in the eighth. It was Freese's third hit of the season — all pinch homers.

The game took 3 hours, 38 minutes, just 5 minutes shy of the NL record for nine innings set by St. Louis and Chicago in 1954.

The Giants, rolling up their highest run total of the season without benefit of a home run, were off and running with four unearned runs in the fourth against loser Bennie Daniels (0-1). They got six in the sixth, with Bob Schmidt socking his second two-run double of the game. Jack Sanford (5-2) was the winner, blanking the Bucs on four hits until the seventh, when Ted Kuszewski doubled and Bob Skinner homered. Klu's second double counted another in the eighth, and Dick Stuart hit a pinch homer in the ninth.

Bob Buhl gained his first victory for the Braves, but gave way to a pinch-hitter in a five-run eighth. Buhl (1-1) had a three-hit shutout until the seventh, when Bobby Thomson doubled and pinch-hitter Dale Long singled with two out. Johnny Logan and Ed Matthews hit solo homers off loser Moe Drabowsky (1-3). It was Matthews' 12th, tops in the majors. Hank Aaron was 2-for-4 for the Braves, lining a triple and double while extending his hit streak to 17 games and adding a point to his league leading average — .486.

Sent His Plea Direct To 'Top'

FRANKFORT, Ky., (AP)—Bob by Lee Jasper of Russell Springs sent his penciled plea right to the top—but it didn't work. The youngster asked Gov. A. B. Chandler to reduce school terms to three months a year. "If you think this could be done," he said, "write me a letter."

Chandler replied that when he was Bobby's age he "had the same idea," but later realized "the more education I could get, the better off I would be."

Panel Opines Adults Exploiting Youth Delinquency

Editors Note — Juvenile delinquency is perhaps the most talked about, but least understood social problem in the United States today. Six experts from six different fields have just spent nine months sorting through fact and fantasy to get at the heart of the matter.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—American adults are exploiting the juvenile delinquent.

Some are cashing in financially on youth's natural rebellion, all the while bemoaning its behavior.

They are giving the adolescent new standards of toughness, then crying, "I told you so," when he tires to live up to them.

They are neither ready, willing nor able to understand the problem; many of their complaints reflect more adult irritability than juvenile delinquency.

These are the considered opinions of six experts who spent nine months seeking the hard kernel of truth in the mountains of chaff that have been written about America's teenagers. Their report, "Delinquent Behavior: Culture and the Individual," was published today by the National Education Assn.

The experts don't say—as did the late Father Flanagan of Boys Town—that "there is no such thing as a bad boy." But they do contend that today's youth is largely a product of his environment, and must be judged according to the culture of which he is a part.

The authors of the report, and their special fields, are: William C. Kvaraceus (director of the project), psychology; Milton L. Baran, sociology; Edward M. Daniels, psychiatry; Preston A. McClenon, pediatrics; Walter B. Miller, cultural anthropology; and Benjamin Thompson, criminology.

The picture of juvenile delinquency in this country is complicated, they say, by the pressures of modern life. The public needs a scapegoat, and has found one in "the irritating adolescent and the annoying delinquent."

"The public, suddenly awakened to its second place in the race to the moon, has pounced on the school and the adolescent learner as the arch villains responsible for its plight."

"The popular writers of stage, screen, radio television and press have been quick to exploit this situation."

In the popular image: "The delinquent is black jacketed and long haired. He runs around on a bright and noisy motorcycle or in a souped-up hot rod. He is brutal. He is cruel. He is restless. He is dangerously free and uninhibited sexually. He is aggressive. He travels with the pack. He is heartless."

"Movie producers, publishers, authors and comic-book artists are hardly insensitive to the great sales value of such an image on the consumer market. Therefore titles and cover illustrations are lurid and titillating, and the image of the juvenile delinquent as the epitome of evil is being sold for all it is worth."

The popular image is inaccurate and exaggerated, says the report. But it becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy because the youngsters begin to act out what they have seen. And when this happens, many people say, "ah! see, we told you so! The author has written a real-life story!"

It's an ancient complaint, say the experts, that the younger generation is flighty, irresponsible, and rebellious.

Today, however, conflict between youth and adults is sharper and much more in evidence. In the past there may have been more tolerance for the sowing of wild oats, but today the machines and methods of rebellion are increasingly dangerous.

The problem is serious, says the report, and calls for much more research than ever has been done. It also calls for adults to detach themselves emotionally from the problem, and consider adolescents as participating members of a highly volatile society.

It adds this word of hope:

"Before teachers and parents despair altogether of the future of these youngsters, they should remember that the 'flaming youth' and the 'Lost Generation' of the 1920s turned out to be good, substantial citizens who, in turn, became incensed at their own youngsters as they danced to the wild Benny Goodman swing music of the 30s."

"Just so will (many of the) youngsters now addicted to rock 'n' roll become substantial, although complaining, parents of the next generation."

Homesick Legislators Want Work Speed Up

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH—The boys and girls came back to Raleigh after a Confederate Memorial and Mother's Day weekend more homesick than when they left last Friday and more determined to speed up committee work looking toward adjournment.

Rumors going around hotel lobbies Monday night, which could not be verified or pinned down for authority as to source, had it that the joint appropriations subcommittee had gotten together on tentative agreement for a report to the full committee the middle of the week. Heart of this rumored agreement was that the University would get about three and a half million dollars more, other higher educational institutions upwards of a million out of the newly discovered (?) $16 million extra money; that $10 million would go to make up the incentive fund for public schools, leaving about two million for distribution among other service agencies. That leaves out State employees other than school teachers, and leaves out school teachers for raised pay except as funds are matched by local money.

The rumor factory also has it that the joint finance committee will report the revenue bill out late this week, including the withholding plan and $27.5 million windfall for balancing the budget. And that these committee reports will be accompanied by warning that if accepted the General Assembly can adjourn in early June. If not accepted adjournment date may be anywhere from June 20 to July 10.

There is some resentment against this kind of ultimatum from the committees, but opinion prevails that it may be effective in view of the prevalence of the homesickness disease.

Food Surpluses For Relievers

CLEVELAND (AP)—With poor relief rolls near their recession peak here, Cuyahoga County today starts handing out federal food surpluses to persons on relief.

It is the first time since the depression of the 1930s that surplus foods have been used here. County Welfare Director John J. Schaffer said some 30,000 persons will be eligible to receive food. This represents 10,000 cases on poor and soldiers relief and aid to the blind, dependent children and disabled.

Poor relief rolls reached a peak of 6,600 cases April 6.

One Mountain Vote Seen For A Currituck Bridge

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — Mountain Rep. Marcellus Buchanan got lost on a visit to the home of coastal Rep. Norwood M. Ansell last weekend—but who's to blame him?

In order to reach the Currituck County residence of Ansell on Knotts Island, Buchanan followed the obscure route that everyone must—out of North Carolina, through two counties in Virginia and back into North Carolina.

Ansell, "sworn not to tell," but finding the story too good to keep, relates that Buchanan circled around a network of Virginia secondary roads for four hours—and asked the same man three times the way to Knotts Island—before finally getting on the right track.

Suffice to say, Ansell would find support from the Jackson representative in any efforts to get a bridge across a narrow section of Currituck Sound at Gibbs, linking the island with the mainland. Transportation problems in this isolated north-eastern corner of the state have always been severe. School transportation problems are and have been monumental.

For some years high school students on Knotts Island had attended school in Creed's Va. until Princess Ann County schools were consolidated at Thalia.

Then Knott's Island kids started traveling 32 miles a day, through Virginia and back down into Currituck to attend school at Moyock. That's 32 miles each way.

Now another consolidation is planned at Currituck which means that Knotts Island high school students beginning next fall will have to travel 45 miles each way—a total of 90 miles a day. Some of them will leave before sunrise and get home after sunset. The frustrating part, says Ansell, is that you can stand on the banks of Knotts Island and see the courthouse in Currituck at a distance of eight miles across the sound.

The only "hold-up" The Lone Ranger ever made—twin sisters Patty and Peggy Gallagher. Both were enrolled in the U. S. Treasury's lay-away Savings Bonds plan for college education by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Gallagher, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The month of May marks the 18th anniversary of the Savings Bonds program. It also marks the first anniversary of Patty and Peggy, who were born a year ago on May 16.

Judy Accorded Ovation At 'Met'

NEW YORK (AP)—All Judy Garland could say was, "My goodness gracious sakes! alive!" It was her answer to a long ovation Monday night at the Metropolitan Opera House, at the opening of a one-week run with her own show in that hallowed hall of culture.

It was the first time that a star from the world of night clubs and Broadway had taken the Met stage for a full program since Sir Harry Lauder did it years ago. The show displayed Judy in golden voice, sleeker, surer and lustier than ever.

Miss Garland holds the spotlight in a mélange of nostalgia and virtuosity that has been expertly packaged and lavishly mounted by her producer-husband Sidney Luft.

Spelling her in the bill are Alan King, an impetuously aggressive comic, dancer John W. Bubbles and a lively young ensemble of singers and sleepers.

Judy starts quietly, in proper dowager gown of garnet taffeta, gains momentum in her famous black tights—her legs are still elegant—and then winds up in tramp's garb for a rousing medley. Cries for "more" interrupted the show.

Her engagement here is a benefit for the Asthma Research Institute.

Illness Ends Tour For Doris Day

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress-singer Doris Day has cancelled an East Coast personal appearance tour because of illness, her studio says.

A Columbia Pictures spokesman said Miss Day became ill Saturday in Cincinnati, her home town. She is suffering from mononucleosis, a blood condition characterized by a feeling of weakness.

Cincinnati was the first stop on a tour to promote her latest movie "It Happened to Jane."

CHAPTER 30

"We're going to call on your friend, Mortimer Jasper," Sergeant Frank Sellers told Sylvia Hadley. "We want to check into that thousand dollars he gave you."

Sylvia said something under her breath.

Sellers said, "I didn't hear that so well, Sylvia, but I hope it wasn't what I thought. I heard that's a naughty word."

Sylvia sat in tight-lipped silence. The officers drove the squad car for another five minutes, then eased it to a stop in front of Mortimer Jasper's house.

"What's the plan? We all go in?" Inspector Thad Giddings asked.

"We all go in," Sellers said.

We got out of the car, moved slowly in a compact group up the cement walk.

Sellers rang the bell.

After a minute Mortimer Jasper opened the door.

"Officers," Sellers said. "We want to talk with you, and—"

Jasper looked past him to me and said, "How long is this going to keep up? This is the second time this guy has been out here with officers. I've never seen him before in my life!"

"Never?" Sellers asked.

"Never in my life."

"Not even when the officers brought me out the first time?" I asked.

"You smart-aleck shyster, you crook, you bloodsucker, you—"

Jasper caught himself.

"You seem to know a lot about him for a guy you've never seen before," Sellers said. "Take a look at this young lady. Do you know her?"

Giddings pushed Sylvia Hadley forward. She had been hanging back in the background.

"I tell you," Sylvia said, "I only—"

Giddings put his arm around her neck, clapped his hand over her mouth, said, "Shut up. This is Jasper's party. Let him do the talking."

"I . . . I think it's a Miss Hadley."

ley," Jasper said, blinking his eyes. "I can't see so good out here."

"That's fine," Sellers said. "We'll come in, where the light's better."

Sellers pushed his way in. Inspector Giddings was keeping a tight hold on Sylvia Hadley.

I started to go in the door, then stumbled, fell to one knee, tried to catch myself, sprawled flat on the cement and lay there groaning.

"Come on, come on," Sellers said over his shoulder. "Get going, Donald."

I got to one knee, crawled to the edge of the porch and started retching.

Jasper said, "I demened to know the meaning of this."

"Come on, Donald," Sellers shouted angrily. "Every minute you give this guy he's thinking."

"I can't help it, I'm sick," I said.

"It's a stall," Giddings said. "He's trying to give the guy time to think."

"And why should I be needing time to think, please?" Jasper asked.

Sellers pushed Jasper on into the house said, "Come on, Giddings. Bring Sylvia in, then you can go back and drag Lam in."

As they went through the door, I groped for and found the jade idol I had concealed in the vine, slipped it in my pocket and started crawling on hands and knees toward the door.

Giddings came out, grabbed me under the arm and jerked me erect.

"Get going, you little crumb," he said. "This is a crucial time and you have to pull a stunt like this."

"I can't help it," I moaned.

Jasper was trying to spar for time. Sellers didn't intend to give him any time.

"All right, Jasper," Sellers said. "What's the pitch with you and Sylvia Hadley here?"

Sylvia said, "I told them, Mortimer, that—"

Again Giddings lunged toward her and clapped his hand over her mouth.

"We're doing the talking," Sellers said to Sylvia. "Now Jasper, tell us the truth and start now."

Jasper said, "I know this young lady, but that is all. I've met her, and—"

"And why did you give her a thousand bucks if you scarcely knew her?" Sellers asked.

Jasper blinked his eyes. "Who said I gave her a thousand bucks?" he asked belligerently.

Sellers said, "I say you gave her a thousand dollars!"

Jasper tried to glance at Sylvia for a signal, but Sellers kept his face in the way. "Come on," he said, "start talking, start talking."

"She had a friend who wanted the thousand dollars," Jasper said. "This friend wanted to sell me an article of jewelry which I thought I could sell for a profit—I knew I couldn't go wrong at the thousand-dollar price. Sylvia was the intermediary. She said she was representing this friend, and I advanced her the thousand dollars but told her not to pay over a dime of the money until she had the merchandise in her hand."

"Did she get it?"

"I don't think so. I haven't heard. She is the one to tell you that."

"What was it?" Sellers asked.

"A jade idol, carved jade. As she described it, it was very exquisite and . . . beautiful piece of Chinese workmanship. She said she could get it for a thousand dollars. Her friend was willing to sell it because she had to have some cash money."

"Did she say who her friend was?"

"No."

"Say it was Phyllis Crockett?"

"She didn't say, and I didn't ask."

"Are you familiar with the two jade Buddha pieces Dean Crockett had?"

"No."

"Do you think this could have been one of them?"

"I'm sure I couldn't say, because I haven't seen anything yet. It could have been. She told me her friend said that it had been in the family for a long time. The friend wanted to dispose of it. She said this friend needed some money very badly; that she had to have a thousand dollars, and Sylvia thought she could get it for a thousand dollars."

"You're going over and over the same story," Sellers said angrily. "Get your needle out of the same groove and go on to the rest of it. Did Sylvia turn over the money to this friend?"

"Not unless she got the merchandise. Unless, of course, she violated instructions or unless I was mistaken. After all, I know very little about Miss Sylvia Hadley."

"How long ago did you give her this thousand bucks? Remember now, we're going to take a look at your books and trace the payment."

"It must have been . . . three or four weeks ago."

They were studying Jasper's face with the hard, skeptical eyes of law enforcement officers. No one was paying any attention to anything other than his face, his voice, his watery meek eyes.

I slipped around behind the desk. There was an embossed leather wastebasket half full of papers. I

Now A Sponsor Is Going Into TV Production Field

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Custom-tailored television, with the entertainment designed to enhance subtly and blend with the sponsor's products, is scheduled to flash upon the nation's screens this fall.

A major cosmetics company, which for years has spent money lavishly to buy shows of top popularity, has now gone into the business of making its own TV shows in much the same manner in which it now turns out its lipsticks, nail polishes and gentlemen's grooming aids.

This is really something new in TV, because until the company (Revlon) started organizing its entertainment-making division, the usual procedure was for a manufacturer to shop the networks and the show-packaging firms for a show they liked. Then they'd buy it and slip in the commercial.

cials.

A short time back, however, President Charles Revson set up a TV and Radio Division, hired top-TV writer Goodman Ace and his entire organization away from the Perry Como Show, and installed Mort Green—a key writer on the Como show—as division director. In October, the product will be first unveiled with a 90 minute variety show on CBS where for the rest of the season it will alternate weekly with Playhouse 90. In addition to expensively staffing its division, the cosmetics company has already invested some 3½ million dollars in CBS TV time. When talent and production costs are added to this, the total tab for the season's operation could easily run twice or even three times this amount.

This marks the first time a sponsor has concerned himself with the raw materials of which entertainment is made. Major sums of money, in a radical departure from TV practice, is being invested in writers. Although TV does a lot of talking about creativity, in practice the emphasis has been on star names on following trends—imitating successful quiz shows, piling one western on top of another, massive production of "family comedies."

"Our idea is to buy the best writing talent there is," says director Mort Green, "and then to give it a free hand and plenty of time—TV time and time to produce a quality produce—to work in."

Find Nose Cone Of Big Jupiter

ANTIGUA, British West Indies (AP) — U.S. military personnel Sunday found the nose cone of a Jupiter rocket fired May 6 from Cape Canaveral 1,500 miles away. The 60-foot missile was lobbed over the Atlantic at a water target near Antigua Island in what was described as a highly successful flight.

Sylvia's temper is ready to burst. "You double-crosser!" she shrieks. "You told me—" the story continues here tomorrow.

You get solid footing...

...in a road-hugging Wide-Track Pontiac!

You control this car with a vivid sense of security, a new sense of balance. It has a steadier stance because it has a wider track. Its wheels are five inches farther apart. You cling to curves and corners with much less lean and sway. You drive with a feeling of confidence, security, complete control. This is without a doubt the easiest handling automobile you could possibly choose. Wide-Track design does not widen the car—only the stance. It's the big reason Pontiac is now first in sales in its price class.

Some Oppose Filming Of 'The Ugly American'

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Should Hollywood show the face of "The Ugly American" to the world?
There have been indications that some government officials do not want the Eugene Burdick-William Lederer best seller to be filmed. They argue that the novel, which attacks handling of American policy in southeast Asia, would put this country in a bad light overseas.
But Universal-International has purchased rights to "The Ugly American" and assigned George Englund to produce. A handsome, articulate young man, Englund feels strongly about the story.
He speaks from experience. He was associated with Marion Brand when the actor proposed making a film about United Nations activities around the world. Englund and writer Stewart Stern took a lengthy trip to research the project.
"I spent three months in southeast Asia," the producer remarked. "I was absolutely appalled at bungling by our officials

Fuel On Island Ship Blew Up

LAE, New Guinea (AP) — The 2,000-ton island ship Busama blew up off Lae today, killing its Finnish first officer and Swedish engineer. Several native crewmen also were believed to have perished.
The cause of the explosion was not known, but the vessel was carrying 17,600 gallons of aviation fuel and a similar quantity of regular gasoline.

Communists In Sudan Try Anti-Nasser Coup

CAIRO (AP) — Communists in Sudan are trying to line up support for a coup to put in power an anti-Nasser strongman on the order of Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem.
So far the Reds have met with little success in their efforts to build up a popular front which would join in the opposition to President Gamal Abdel Nasser's brand of Arab nationalism.
But Sudan is so wobbly politically and economically that Communist activities are not taken lightly by observers.
The man the Reds are grooming to be their Sudanese Kassem is Brig. Abdel Rahim Shanan, who looks like the strongest man in the military junta now governing the country.
Shanan himself is no Communist. Like other senior Sudanese officers, he got his military training under the British. Basically he is a conservative and a genuine Sudanese nationalist. But he is ambitious enough to be vulnerable to leftist wooing and he is anti-Egyptian.
Shanan was not a member of the original junta headed by army commander Ibrahim Abboud which took over the Sudanese government last November. Shanan forced his way into the junta by marching his regiment into Khartoum last March.
The compromise junta that resulted disappointed a powerful clique of junior officers who had backed Shanan in the hope he would set up a completely new regime.
There is a wide gap between generals and captains in Sudan's 12,000-man army.
The Communists in the Sudan are not strong numerically but they dominate the trade unions and the Anti-Imperialist Front.
Abboud cracked down on the Communists on taking power last November, suspended trade unions and jailed many leftist leaders. Since the ouster of Gen. Ahmed Abdel Wahab as minister of interior, however, there is noticeable easing of pressure on the Reds.

It All Tied In With A Killing In '29; Indicted

GREENSBORO (AP)—A newspaper story... a death certificate... and a report that a Florida convict had admitted shooting a man here 30 years ago.
That's what Detectives H. M. Evans and E. R. Medbury used to build the case they presented to the Guilford County grand jury Monday.
And the grand jury returned a murder indictment against William Henry Fields, 59, of Lake Harbor, Fla., in the shooting of George Burney Sept. 18, 1929.
Fields, a Negro, is serving a prison sentence in Florida for a liquor law violation.
He allegedly told a Florida officer he killed Burney. The report was relayed here, but there were no files on the case.
The detectives dug up a newspaper in the library with a story about the shooting. They found the death certificate.
They learned that a woman known only as Flossie was keeping house for Fields and saw the shooting. A 9-year-old girl, now a school teacher, also saw it.
The detectives learned that at the time of the slaying, police had been unable to find the witnesses. Their job was to find, after 30 years, a woman police were unable to find in 1929.
Evans went to Florida to talk to Fields. Evans figured that if Fields realized police did not know who or where Flossie was, he might cover up her identity.
So he repeatedly mentioned Flossie during the conversation, as if he knew her well. Finally, Fields blurted out the name Flossie Powell.
Within three days, Evans and Medbury had found the woman. She was in the county home, where she had been for 25 years. She clearly remembered the shooting.
The officers also found the school teacher.

Says Taxpayers Hiring Servants

WASHINGTON (AP) — A colonel turned congressman said today the taxpayers are being charged 30 to 40 million dollars a year to provide servants in uniform for high-ranking officers.
Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Conn.), retired colonel, made the estimate. His statement was prepared for the opening of hearings on use of manpower by the armed services.
"Practically every general and admiral who occupies public quarters on a post or base has two, three, four and sometimes five enlisted men working as full-time servants, available not only to cut the grass, trim the shrubbery, polish the floors, wash the windows and serve canapés," Kowalski said, "but employed also to cook and serve the family meals, wash and polish the officer's private automobile, do general house cleaning, including laundry, and take care of the dog."
Kowalski offered to show "with-in a few minutes' automobile ride of where we sit," officers' messes "where one can buy a hamburger which will be either cooked by a sergeant or served by a sergeant or both."
"Why should the Army draft or enlist 50 soldiers to serve as chauffeurs in the White House motor pool?" Kowalski asked.

Eddie Fisher, Liz Taylor To Wed Today

By JIM BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — In three 10-minute takes today, singer Eddie Fisher will get a divorce, a marriage license and beautiful Elizabeth Taylor for his bride.
Eddie will go before Judge David Zenoff at approximately 2 p.m. PDT. He will charge his wife, actress Debbie Reynolds, with mental cruelty—the traditional Hollywood grounds for divorce. Debbie herself used it to get a California interlocutory decree last February from Fisher.
At that time, Miss Reynolds said tersely, "my husband has become interested in another woman," a classic of understatement in view of the headlines that preceded the breakup of what was once considered an idyllic marriage.
Liz Taylor will not be present for the divorce hearing, which is expected to take 10 minutes or less, barring last-minute hitches.
If the divorce is granted, the raven-haired actress will join Fisher across the hall of the courthouse where they will take out a marriage license.
A small army of reporters and photographers will record the events for posterity.
For the ceremony, Fisher will get into his blue suit and Liz into her new moss-green chiffon dress which movie stylist Jean Louis whipped up specially for the wedding.
The wedding is tentatively scheduled for sometime after 3 p.m. PDT at Temple Beth Shalom. Rabbi Max Nussbaum, the Los Angeles rabbi who recently converted Miss Taylor to Judaism, will perform the double-ring ceremony.
He will be assisted by Rabbi Benard Cohen of Las Vegas. Nevada law requires that all wedding rites must be performed by a clergyman with a local congregation.
After the ceremony, which is expected to take 10 minutes, the couple will hold a news conference and pose for pictures. They will go to Miss Taylor's $500-a-week ranch for a small reception.
They take off for Los Angeles at 7 p.m. to catch a jet for New York City — and then, after a short stop there, another jet to London.
The couple will honeymoon in Europe until Miss Taylor starts a movie in London May 25. Fisher will make personal appearances throughout the United Kingdom while she is busy in front of the cameras.
Michael Todd Jr., son of Miss Taylor's third husband, will be best man for Fisher. He flew in from a movie location in Spain especially for the chore. Mrs. Howard Taylor, wife of Liz' brother, will stand up for the bride.
Only a handful of close friends and business associates will attend the private rites. Both Eddie's and Liz' parents will be there, along with Benjamin Thau, boss at MGM, Liz' home studio. Eddie Cantor, who discovered Fisher, also has been invited.
There has been much public reaction locally against the quick divorce and marriage plans, since it has focused international attention on Nevada's quickie divorce law.
Fisher, who closed Monday night at the Tropicana Hotel here, fulfilled his six-week legal residence while singing at the hotel.
One local newspaper ran an editorial two days running, suggesting it might be a good thing for Nevada if the divorce were denied.
Fisher bought a $68,000 home from the Desert Inn Country Club as a wedding present for Miss Taylor. He said a New York decorator will work on the house while they are gone.

Show-Shopping Again Possible

NEW YORK (AP) — Theatergoers can once again go show shopping.
A new ticket agency, the Ticket Corner opened Monday offering tickets for certain shows at reduced prices. The agency buys blocks of tickets wholesale for shows that are not selling out. It retails them cut-rate.
Charles Bloomfield, operator of the agency, says he would like to restore the show shopping habit that prevailed on Broadway years ago.

Holdup Gunfight Kills Policeman

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A policeman was killed, one of two gunmen critically wounded and a bystander shot in a gunfight during the holdup of a Minneapolis supermarket Monday night.

Felled in front of the store was Sgt. William Herkal, 35. He died with three bullet wounds in his chest.

Seconds later, Jerry Gowdy, 22, of Greybull, Wyo., identified as one of the bandits, crumpled under the blast of a riot gun fired by Patrolman Jake Lindgren.

Taken into custody inside the market was a man identified as John Brewer, also 22 and from Greybull.

A silent alarm had summoned police as Gowdy and Brewer demanded that Ralph Scheffer, the store manager, open the safe. Detective Wayne Leonard and Patrolman Durwood Witt were waiting when the pair rushed out of the office, Gowdy's fist crammed with currency.

Witt subdued Brewer, but Gowdy drew a .38 pistol and fired at Leonard. As the detective returned fire, Gowdy ran for the front door. Gowdy fled wounded but quickly regained his feet.

Charles Wetherill, detective inspector, said about $500 was recovered from the two men.

Wounded in the side as Gowdy came out was Walter Zabel, 66, who was waiting for his wife and daughter. He was in fair condition.

The phrase "according to Hoyle" stems from Edmond Hoyle (1672-1769), who was an authority on card games.

Profit taking was evidenced as the market seemed to be completing a recovery move which has put it higher in the past two sessions.

Zenith added more than 2. Avco and Sperry Rand were fractional gainers.

Young Bicyclist Struck By Auto

A 13-year-old boy, riding a bicycle, was the victim of a hit and run driver yesterday on Cotanche St. However the child received only slight injuries.

According to witnesses Erney Finch of 513 E. Eighth St. was riding his bicycle when a car struck the bike throwing the boy off. The car did not stop but kept going.

Investigating officers said Herman Evans of Bells Fork saw the collision, chased the alleged hit and run car and obtained the license number of the auto.

As a result of obtaining the license number, police have arrested John McCoy Smith, 66, of 308 Library St. and charged him with hit and run.

Young Finch received a small cut on his right leg. He was admitted to the hospital for observation.

Della Ellis Fornes, a 10-year-old, of Route 3, Greenville, was struck by a car operated by Ann Davis Pollard of 1212 North Greene St. on 10th St. Extension, when she ran into the street in front of the oncoming vehicle, officers reported.

Investigating officers quoted the girl as saying she "didn't look before crossing the street."

The young girl received only a few bruises from the accident.

Two local merchants won second place awards for their advertising in the "Best Retail Advertising" contest, sponsored by the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association of the Carolinas, at the N. C. Merchants Assn. Convention held yesterday in Durham.

Worley's Fine Shoes and Brody's won second place in the shoe store and women's clothing store divisions for ads which appeared in The Daily Reflector.

Mrs. Lee Schmidt, manager of Worley's Fine Shoes, received the award for that firm while Morris C. Brody, manager of Brody's Inc., accepted the award for his store.

'Drunkometer' Bill Is Quietly Laid To Rest

RALEIGH (AP)—The drunkometer bill was killed today for all practical purposes.

Senate Judiciary II committee voted for indefinite postponement of the bill and a feeble substitute worked up by a sub-committee on the motion of Sen. Garland Garfield of Montgomery.

Sen. Arthur Kirkman of Guilford said, "If there is a case for this bill, it hasn't been presented properly."

The measure would have provided chemical tests for drivers suspected of intoxication. Tests results could have been used as evidence in court of drunk driving.

Meanwhile, a House Judiciary committee heard proposals to throw the book at speeders convicted of driving over 80 miles per hour.

Mixed reaction greeted two bills permitting fines of up to $500 or two years in jail and in effect putting upon car owners the burden of proof that they were not operating vehicles cited for speeding over 80.

Rep. Hubert Humphrey of Guilford, who introduced the bills, said they would eliminate high speed chases by permitting issuance of arrest warrants against owners of cars where only the license number was reported.

"This is not a Motor Vehicles Department bill," he said.

Present law provides maximum penalties for speeding over 80 of $100 or 60 days in jail.

Percy Wall, solicitor of Greensboro Municipal Court, said that in 14 months up to last March, 117 such cases passed through the court.

"There were lots of others the patrolmen could not catch," he said. "This is happening all over the state."

Rep. Frank Patterson of Stanley, former county court judge, opposed the bill making it prima facie evidence that car owners were driving in high speed cases.

"I have seen enough patrolmen make wild guesses at license plate numbers," he stated.

Rep. John Y. Jordan Jr. of Buncombe disagreed. "The equities should be weighed in favor of lives and property," he said.

Discussion was continued until Thursday.

Endorse McGowan And Mrs. Edwards To Serve New Terms

Ford McGowan and Mrs. L. W. Edwards were recommended by the nominating committee last night to serve additional three-year terms on the Greenville Recreation Commission.

The committee's recommendation now has to be approved by the City Council to become effective.

The commission, meeting at the Recreation Building at Elm Street Park last night gave the Little League permission to construct a new playing field at Guy Smith Stadium. The commission also gave them authority to make any improvements necessary and the right to use the park "as long as the Little League exists in the city."

The Coastal Boy's League, a baseball league for Negro boys 17 and older made a request to use the Teener-league park at Guy Smith Stadium each Sunday for a ball game. The Commission granted the request on the condition that ground rules could be set up for the field and the park would be cleaned up after the games.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, Chairman of the Commission appointed Leonard P. Bloxam and Charles Ross as a committee to nominate a slate of commission officers for the next fiscal year.

The commission also approved a $47,448 budget to be submitted to the City Council for approval for the next year.

Gordon Goodman, Recreation Director, stated plans are being made to start a Senior Citizens program in the near future. He said there is a great need for this program. It is based on activities for people 65 years old and over.
