No Cheers Greet Henderson Duty As Guard Called Up

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — The National Guard unit left here about 4:15 p.m. yesterday for strike-torn Henderson following a new outbreak of violence there Monday night.

The unit here, Company E, 119th Infantry Regiment, was ordered to Henderson at 11:05 a.m. yesterday. The unit went to Rocky Mount to form a convoy with the remainder of the Second Battle Group, composed of over 300 men from several towns in Eastern Carolina.

Commanding officer of the Guard unit, Capt. John McDavid Jr., stated that many of his men were worried about losing their jobs. The Captain said "We don't want to go, but we've got to go."

Spokesman said that many of the men were farmers and the sole worker on the farm.

A sergeant said, "They can't hold no job for you if you don't know when you will come back." A Private standing nearby added, "I'm not ready to go now and I won't be ready when I get there."

A mother with two sons in the unit said she did not feel "too good" about the unit going. She said she told her sons not to bother anybody unless they bothered them first.

Just before boarding their trucks, Capt. McDavid told the soldiers to "keep their mouths shut." McDavid told the troops he had talked to Highway Patrolmen who had been in Henderson and they said the strikers would "call them names and throw things at them." The worst thing they could do, he added, was to talk back to the strikers.

The officer also cautioned the men about going anywhere by themselves. The Captain said two men should be together at all times, wearing their steel helmets.

The officer told the group they were going to Henderson because of the trouble there and when they arrived, if they had to move to prevent violence they should move with "trouble on the mind."

A wife of one of the men said she thought it was all right for her husband to go just as long as he wasn't gone too long. Another wife stated she thought it was useless. She added "I think they ought to padlock the place," speaking of the mill.

The officers and men left

Farmville for Henderson with four two-and-one-half ton trucks, one three-quarter-ton truck and four jeeps. They took the office equipment, kitchen supplies, radios, machineguns, rifles and bayonets, and steel helmets.

All of the guards' equipment was loaded in about 90 minutes, with the exception of their ammunition which will be issued at Henderson.

The unit's executive officer 1st Lt. Allen Harvey said due to the fact that the members of the unit were from a five-county area, about 15 men had to be left behind because officials had been unable to contact them. He added the men would be contacted and instructed to report to Henderson as soon as possible.

Officers and men going to Henderson are as follows: Captain John McDavid; 1st Lt. Archie Harvey and Moody H. Ward; 1st Sgt. Glenn W. Ansley, MSgt. Håmer C. Spell, SFC. James L. Allen Jr., James H. Bell, and William C. Wooten; and Sgts. Joseph

NEW CITY COUNCIL IS SWORN IN . . . Mayor West, King, Harvey, Aldridge, Stafford, Judge Whedbee.

New City Council Sworn In Today By City Court Judge

Three freshmen city councilmen were sworn in this morning along with a veteran councilman and the first mayor to be elected by popular vote in six years.

The swearing in ceremonies were held in the council room of City Hall where the old council met for the last time and the new one for the first time.

Members of the new board elected ed Dr. M. W. Aldridge, a freshman member, to serve as mayor pro-tem for the coming two years. In that position Aldridge will preside over the council meetings in the absence of the mayor.

City Court Judge Charles H. Whedbee first swore in Mayor S. Eugene West who was elected mayor by popular vote in last week's election. He defeated another veteran council member, J. A. Collins, Sr.

West is an original member of the City Council being elected for his first term in 1953. He was re-elected in 1955 and 1957. Also in 1957 he was elevated to the mayor's position by his fellow councilmen who, until this year, chose the mayor from among their own group. A change in the city code made the election of the mayor by popular vote possible for this year's election.

After West had been sworn in, Judge Whedbee called on C. W. Harvey, Jr., W. S. Stafford, Dr. Aldridge and Charles M. King to raise their right hands and take the oath of office.

Harvey has also been a member of the council since 1953. Stafford served as mayor at one time during the board of aldermen days.

Both Aldridge and King are newcomers to local politics.

Dr. Aldridge was nominated for the mayor pro-tem position by Stafford. The nomination was seconded by Harvey, who has served as mayor pro-tem for the past two years.

The old board with West, Harvey and Lester E. Turnage present, met briefly for the swearing in ceremonies. However, there was no other business for the old board to transact.

West told the new group, "I would like to say it is a pleasure to have each of you serving with me for the coming two years."

He called on each of the council members and department heads for a few words.

Costs now are outrunning the income from highway-user taxes, and Eisenhower has requested that the federal gasoline levy be boosted from 3 to 4 1/2 cents. Congress has seemed little disposed to comply. Some legislators have indicated they would prefer to meet the costs for a time from general revenues.

Eisenhower, committed to a balanced budget in fiscal 1960, ignored the latter possibility in his news conference remarks, and emphatically renewed his appeal that the budget be brought into balance.

As for the wheat surplus problem, the President said it is worsening instead of improving. The government will have 3 1/2 billion dollars invested in surplus wheat by mid-year, he said, and action must be taken speedily to revise the program.

President Calls For Action On Gasoline Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower called today for quick congressional action boosting the gasoline tax, revising the costly wheat support and control program, and providing additional home loan insurance authority.

The President told his news conference a special message urging the three-way speedup would go to the capital today.

The country's rising prosperity will be damaged, Eisenhower said, if the Federal Housing Administration's program is allowed to lapse for lack of the six billion dollar additional insuring authority he asked in January.

More thousands of men will be jobless, the President went on, unless new revenues are provided to keep the massive highway building program going.

He noted that the existing highway bill permits no more construction in any year than the funds available will pay for in that year.

Relatively Quiet At Strike Area

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—First shift workers, guarded by long lines of National Guardsmen, quietly entered the struck Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills today.

There were only occasional jeers and catcalls from small clusters of pickets who turned out at the mills' two plants.

The scene contrasted sharply with Tuesday night's shift change when Guardsmen faced hundreds of shouting strikers with fixed bayonets. There was no violence, however.

Police said some rocks were thrown in an area not policed by the Guard. Five persons were arrested and one was charged with inciting to riot.

The Guardsmen, numbering about 300, were ordered here by Gov. Hodges as a result of a new outbreak of violence Monday night.

Workers leaving the plants were pelted with rocks, and their cars were fired upon. Local officials said the situation was beyond their control and asked for troops.

An official of the striking Textile Workers Union of America, Julius Frye of Greensboro, charged the Guardsmen were sent "to help the unreasonable management to operate his cotton mills, and provide strikebreakers free access to the plants."

Frye denied troops were needed.

The Guardsmen, drawn from the 2nd Battle Group of the 30th Infantry Division, are commanded by Lt. Col. B. A. Peterson.

Peterson would not say how many troops are here. Newsmen estimated the number at 300.

Before their arrival workers entering and leaving the firm's North Henderson plant were pelted with rocks.

The 1,200 employees of the mills struck last Nov. 17 when the company insisted on removal of the arbitration clause from the new contract.

Subsequently, other issues arose, including the job status of new workers hired when the plants reopened on a one-shift basis Feb. 16.

Violence has broken out repeatedly since the plants reopened. A detachment of highway patrolmen was on the scene for several weeks.

Gov. Hodges withdrew them last Friday. At that time, he warned that troops would be sent if necessary to prevent violence.

Police said the man charged with inciting to riot in the rock throwing, Elliott Caulder, was placed under $5,000 bond. Odell Tart and O. C. Clark were charged with interfering with a law enforcement officer, and Charlie Harris was accused of throwing a rock. Tart's wife, Inez, was charged with loud and boisterous conduct.

A rented car carrying a crew of cameramen from WSO-TV in Charlotte was pelted with rocks by people outside the area policed by the Guard. None of the men was hurt, but a window of the car was broken.

Frank Beatty, a United Press International photographer, was surrounded by a crowd of strikers and threatened. A union official broke up the crowd.

One Airliner Blows Up, Another Wrecks; 33 Die

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Capital Airlines Viscount turboprop airliner, flying non-stop from New York to Atlanta, blew apart in storm-swept skies over Maryland late Tuesday, spraying wreckage and the bodies of 27 passengers and four crewmen over a two-mile area.

Less than an hour before, another Capital airliner, a four-engine Constellation, plunged over a 200-foot embankment at the Charleston, W. Va., Airport and burst into flames, killing two persons and injuring at least six. This flight, from Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, also was bound for Atlanta.

One official at the Civil Aeronautics Board said it was the first time in his memory that a single airline had had two fatal crashes in one day.

The Constellation crashed at Charleston at 4:26 p.m. (EDT). The Viscount tore apart at 5:18 p.m. (EDT) while flying at about 14,000 feet over a patchwork of small farms about 15 miles east of Baltimore.

Weather may have been a factor in both cases.

A thunderstorm was sweeping across Maryland when the Viscount came through. Apparently the turbulence was causing rough riding.

No one saw the plane the instant it disintegrated with a fiery flash—the sky was covered with low-scudding rainclouds. But aviation engineers and other specialists thought that a sudden, violent down draft or updraft tore off part of a wing, rupturing a fuel line which spewed kerosene fuel into an engine. The gas apparently ignited with a roar, tearing the plane to pieces.

The Viscount is powered by four turbojet engines, which turn a propeller shaft and a conventional propeller.

At the controls was Capt. W. C. Paddock of Detroit, who had been flying with Capital since 1930 and had no accident on his record.

The freshly plowed fields were being combed by scores of CAB investigators and other officials for clues as to what actually happened.

A Capital official in Washington said that while there was no indication of a bomb explosion aboard, the possibility would be checked out.

The four engines were found within radius of a few hundred yards. One propeller was missing.

The largest piece of wreckage was a portion of the fuselage. Some fragments were charred. Others were not. Several of the bodies were charred.

It took more than three hours to collect the bodies. The last found was a stewardess, buried under one of the sections that fell.

A Catholic priest gave last rites toward a section of fuselage as the searchers worked, figuring there were bodies under it. There were.

Walter Bevans, 70, had just been driven from the yard to the porch of his home by the late afternoon thundershower.

"I started inside the house," he said, "and then I saw this terrible light and smoke. I saw this man lying in the field. I ran back into the house and told my daughter-in-law to call for ambulances."

"I saw one big piece of the plane burning in the air, and there was smoke coming from two other parts which sort of drifted off and away."

"It was a terrible thing."

Not far away, a group of youngsters were playing ball. Suddenly debris and bodies began falling all around them. They ran for home—and cover.

At Charleston, W. Va., rain still was falling slightly when the big Constellation came in for a landing. The plane seemed to turn before it slowed down, witnesses said, and it tumbled off the brink of the hill. Then it burst into flames.

A 21-year-old stewardess, Nancy Marshall, was credited for getting many passengers out of the flaming wreckage. She forced open a door after several passengers had been unable to push it open.

"It's not a door that swings out," she explained. "It's a sliding door. All I did was roll it back."

Ike Sees Red Propaganda Bid In Geneva Maneuvers

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the Soviet Union seems to be pushing a propaganda drive in seeking admittance of Red satellite nations to the Geneva foreign ministers conference.

Eisenhower told a news conference he is very hopeful the Russians will abandon any such propaganda tactics so the conference can get down to fruitful negotiations.

Eisenhower had been asked to evaluate the Soviet efforts thus far to win seats at Geneva for Communist East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Those efforts have kept the foreign ministers' conference from getting to discussion of real problems.

Eisenhower replied it is very difficult to find out what is going on behind someone else's forehead.

The U.S. government, he continued, has always been for fruitful negotiations, and against using such conferences as propaganda platforms.

But the situation in Geneva, Eisenhower said, seems to have some of that—propaganda—in it. During the news conference, the President discussed these other matters:

Khrushchev—No one has contacted him, Eisenhower said, regarding the possibility of a visit by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States.

A reporter noted that Vice President Nixon will visit Moscow this summer to open a U.S. trade fair. The newsman asked whether the President would be favorable to the idea of Khrushchev's coming to this country to open the Soviet fair to be held in New York later this year. And, the reporter went on, would that open the door to the possibility of Khrushchev's attending a summit conference in the United States?

After saying no one has talked to him about such a possibility, Eisenhower remarked that it is up to the Big Four foreign ministers to pick a site for any summit session.

As to whether he would welcome the Kremlin's No. 1 man to the United States if Khrushchev requested an invitation, Eisenhower replied with a smile that he had better just wait and see on that one.

Appointer. For the third week in a row, Eisenhower pictured himself as rather baffled as to why the Senate is delaying confirmation of some of his key nominees for federal posts.

He made that remark when asked whether he thought the opposition in the Senate, mainly among Democrats, is assuming some sort of pattern.

Eisenhower went on to say that the delaying tactics and what he called attacks on the integrity of his nominees must have more behind them than mere searching into their competence.

Spending—Eisenhower enthusiastically welcomed a question as to whether he has less concern now than earlier in the year about what he has termed reckless spending proposals in Congress.

With a smile, he said he had started to think reporters were avoiding that subject.

Making it clear he still wants the budget balanced, Eisenhower said the country is in the midst of a business upturn and yet some people are thinking of the idea of a balanced budget as something evil.

Actually, Eisenhower went on, the nation ought to be trying to build up surpluses and reduce the national debt. He labeled as unconscionable the fact that interest alone on that debt totals eight billion dollars annually.

Eisenhower said the federal government has a duty to preserve a stable economy. He said that if all Americans don't demand sensible, reasonable action from labor, business leaders and Congress, then each American is going to be hurt.

Missiles—As for complaints that money is being wasted in development of duplicate missiles, Eisenhower said need to avoid any waste in such areas is one of the most critical concerns of everyone in the administration. In his opinion, he said, progress toward cutting expense in that field is being made through the efforts of the new space agency and the Defense Department's program chiefs.

Three Jets Fall Off S.C. Coast

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP)—Three Air Force F100 Super Sabre jets hurtled into the Atlantic Ocean about 10 miles off the South Carolina coast early today, apparently killing the pilots.

Wreckage and oil slick were spotted by searchers but Myrtle Beach Air Force Base authorities had no immediate explanation for the crash. Observers said they saw no collision.

The pilots were Capt. Mack Bulger of Oklahoma City, Okla.; 1st Lt. Delano G. Lund of Baker, Montana; and 1st Lt. Morris L. Uden of Buffalo, Kan.

All three had families in the Myrtle Beach area.

Of the pilots, the base said only that their fate "has not been established."

The base information officer said the three planes were part of a night navigational and refueling training flight.

The planes had a rendezvous over the Atlantic with a tanker for refueling. Another pilot who was part of the training mission reported seeing the three planes "descending rapidly in a turn immediately prior to hitting the surface of the ocean."

The base declined to specify the number of planes involved in the training flight.

Amphibious planes and helicopters were combing the scene of the crash. A Coast Guard cutter was also dispatched.

Steel Parley In Recess Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Wage contract negotiations for the steel industry were in recess today, to give management and union representatives time to reassess their positions.

Negotiators met for about three hours Tuesday but there was no announcement by either side.

Asked to comment on the session, David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, said "We cannot negotiate in the press."

"We have been meeting all morning and are negotiating carefully," said R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of the U.S. Steel Corp. and top negotiator for the industry.

The present wage contract expires June 30.

Portrait Show To Close

The Portrait Show now on exhibit in the Community Art Center will close Friday afternoon.

Artists throughout Eastern North Carolina contributed one portrait each to be used in the show which was part of the 24th Annual Fine Arts Festival.

Included in the paintings are portraits of J. Herbert Waldrop, a local banker; Lindsay Warren, past U. S. Comptroller General and present senator for Beaufort County; and Mrs. Inglis Fletcher, novelist of Edenton.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, spokesman for the gallery, said today that the most unusual painting being exhibited from the composition standpoint of a portrait is of a young boy by Gerald P. Tempest.

John Gordon, a member of East Carolina College art faculty and an old exhibitor at the gallery, is showing portraits for the first time. He usually exhibits abstractions.

Sculpture portraits by Thomas Flowers of the ECC art faculty are also on display.

Georgia Pearsall Hearne, a noted artist, has exhibited in each of the 24 festivals, stated Mrs. Moore. W. Frith Winslow of Plymouth has exhibited in 23 festivals.

Other artists exhibiting are William C. Fields, Isabelle Bowen Henderson, Nancy Monroe, Dan Morgan, Lois Outland, Mabel Pugh, Mildred Rumley, and Irene Price.

Of local interest is a painting of a baseball player done in one sitting by Lois Outland.

Robersonville News

Mrs. Hugh Roberson and Mrs. Martha Dell Gray left Friday to spend one week at the Retreat at Morehead City. Mrs. Maude James of Everett is visiting Mrs. Roberson's mother Mr. Ida Barnhill while they are away.

The Robersonville High School Biology class accompanied by the teacher, Thomas Adams, and two practice teachers, Mr. Upchurch, and Mr. Williams had field day and a winter roast in Greenville Wednesday.

Miss Susan Edmondson from Washington, D. C. spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Edmondson. Her brother Johnny Ray, and family of Griffon were their guests Sunday.

Chris Hurd, Patsy Perkins, Linda Roebuck, Brenda Winberry, Phyllis Roebuck, Cherry James, Aleda Tyler, Judy Fulcher, Linda Burgess, Cindy Coe, Eva Ann Pershing, Linda Winberry, Betsy Harrison, Joanne Cochran, and Ann Ward accompanied by their counselor, Mrs. Russell Roebuck, attended the South Roanoke Baptist G. A. Rally at the Arlington Street Baptist Church in Greenville, Saturday. Mrs. Paul Davenport of Pactolus was the director of the Rally.

SKILLET KIDNEYS
Ingredients: 2 veal kidneys (1 to 1 1/4 pounds), 2 tablespoons canola oil, 1 1/4 cup (1 large) thin onion strips, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, 4 tablespoons sauteur.
Method: Remove outer membranes from kidneys; split in half; with small sharp knife cut out white veins and fat. Wash in cold water and drain; slice into 1/2-inch pieces. Heat oil in 10-inch skillet; add onion and brown lightly. Add kidneys, salt and a dash of pepper; cook and stir over moderately low heat for a few minutes. Add 2 tablespoons sauteur; cover skillet tightly; cook over low heat until kidneys are cooked through. Add remaining 2 tablespoons sauteur; heat. Serve at once. Makes 4 small servings.

Twirp Dance

Culminating the Twirp Week activities, the Winterville Future Homemakers of America sponsored a dance Friday night at the Winterville Community Building.

The Winterville Dance Orchestra, "The Kool Cats from Bermuda," furnished music for the occasion. The band members were Bermuda shorts.

Refreshments were served by Regina Bullock and Bettie Pahl. Approximately 75 guests and FHA members attended the occasion which was chaperoned by Miss Alva Ray Taylor, adviser of the Winterville Chapter.

HOW TO CARE FOR CARPETING

All too soon after the new carpet is laid you may notice a beat down traffic path.

Don't let it floor you. The carpet will stay new looking for years if you remove spots and traffic paths as they appear with Blue Lustre Carpet and Upholstery Cleaner. Blue Lustre literally erases the beat down areas without the necessity of cleaning entire carpet. One half gallon of Blue Lustre concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

BELK-TYLER'S
3rd FLOOR

Mrs. Price of Blowing Rock was a great influence in the early years of the festival and its programs, Mrs. Moore added.

A portrait of a small prominent German woman in Cologne, Germany by Mabel Pugh has brought many expressions of appraisal from the viewers, according to the gallery hosts. The German woman's expression shows the horror and pathos of a concentration camp during Hitler's regime.

Sixteen miniatures of the Napoleon family painted in France are on display. They were lent by the North Carolina Museum of Art.

A group of old daguerreotypes have been collected from Greenville families and can be seen at the gallery located in Sheppard Memorial Library.

Included in the daguerreotypes are Captain C. A. White, father of Mrs. J. L. Fleming and Sam White, and Mrs. Elvira Moore and Mrs. Mollie Moore. ("Miss Puss" and Mollie Brown).

Hundreds of persons have attended the show representing 32 towns and several from out-of-state.

Local Boy Exhibits Paintings
Louis Jones, 16-year-old high school student, is currently showing in the Community Art Gallery eight of his paintings. Three are done in oil and five in tempera. Louis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Louis Jones of Elizabeth St., who have been living in Greenville only a short time. He has had little art instruction but is anxious to make painting his chief interest.

In spite of the fact no art instruction is offered in the local high school, Louis read about the National Scholastic Contest sponsored by TV Station WNCN in the early spring and was one of the finalists.

His paintings will be on exhibit through this week.

Scrapbook Aids Home Sewing

Do you have gremlins in your sewing basket?

These are the imps that unwind thread from spools and twist it into snarls, hide buttons, misplace bobbins and otherwise double the work of every sewing chore.

There is a way to foil the sewing gremlins, discovered by local sewing center experts. These professionals found that order can be restored to the sewing basket by two simple expedients—a roll of ordinary cellophane tape tucked in the basket, and an inexpensive sewing scrapbook.

Here's how to use the scrapbook: Whenever you buy fabric, tape a small swatch into the book, with notations on how much extra fabric you have and where you put it—also where you bought it. In case you need more. When you are looking for a bit of extra material for a scarf or a patch, you can flip through the book and see what is available.

To keep extra buttons neatly available, tape them to the pages of the scrapbook. Have separate files for shirt buttons, coat buttons and special buttons. You can use shirt cardboard, making a separate card for each button group and inserting in the scrapbook, if you prefer. Then when you need a button simply cut the tape, pull out one button and the rest will stay in place. This is quicker and easier than dumping the button box on the floor to find the right button.

Here are some more tape tricks for your sewing supplies:

1. Use a bit of cellophane tape to keep thread from unwinding from spool. This also works on rolls of ribbon, balls of twine or partly used packages of seam binding tape.
2. You can avoid much of the usual mess and litter in the sewing room if you tape a paper bag at the side of the sewing table and drop all threads and scraps into the bag.
3. Roll fabric remnants neatly and secure with tape.
4. To keep frequently used measurements handy, write or type them on a sheet of white paper and tape to the sewing table.
5. Packages of matching thread, buttons, binding, fabric and pattern purchased to make a garment may be taped together until ready for use.

You'll find sewing is easier and more fun if you organize your supplies as efficiently as you would keep files in an office.

FILE IT! Sewing scrapbook keeps trimmings handy.

24 Members Attend Session

Twenty-four members and two visitors attended the May meeting of Circle 1 of Red Oak Church Sunday evening.

A covered dish supper was served amid a setting of red and white roses symbolic of Mother's Day.

Mrs. Grace Pate presided and introduced the speaker of the evening, S. C. Winchester, who gave a resume of the church budget for the coming year. His talk was followed by a film and talk by the minister, Rev. Howard James.

Little Pat Morgan, who undergoes a critical operation in Rex Hospital on Thursday of this week, was remembered in the prayer that followed. Other sick members were remembered also.

Mrs. Leola J. Tyson gave a treasurer's report. A payment of $158 was made on the building fund and it was voted to increase this amount to $200 this year. It was noted that the Circle paid $163 on the choir robes.

The nominating committee presented the following slate of officers: Mrs. Edith Denton, chairman; Mrs. L. W. Edwards, vice-chairman; Mrs. Bruce Thigpen, secretary; and Mrs. Leola J. Tyson, treasurer.

The Circle will meet at the L. W. Edwards home on the second Sunday evening in June.

Low prices on heavy hens will offer menu economy for Pitt County food shoppers this week. Broiler prices have shown a slight decrease in price with egg prices remaining at low levels and good supplies.

Grapefruit supplies are heavy, with bananas and pineapple prices remaining about the same as last week at the produce counters of local markets. Apples from "atmospheric-controlled" storage are in good supply, but the number of oranges is limited. Strawberry supplies are slow in reaching the market due to weather conditions, but should increase soon.

Pork continues as the most economical red meat buy, with Pork loins and picnic reasonable in price.

Featured "specials" are the most thrifty beef buys. Attractive prices will probably appear on some steaks and chuck roasts during this week.

Spring vegetables are available in volume under a wide range of prices and quality. New potatoes, fresh green onions, sweet corn, lettuce and celery are on the market.

The quality of green peas, squash, peppers, tomatoes and cucumbers should be checked before buying. Look for specials on processed tomato supplies as retailers and canners are anxious to move them before fresh crops come to the markets.

Vegetable Hints

Add zest, taste and color to your meals with vegetables. There are many to choose from and a variety of ways to serve them. Meals need never be monotonous.

Use eye-catching red, green or yellow vegetables to give any plate that "come-hither" look. Learn to cook vegetables in different ways to add variety to the meal.

Five servings of fruits and vegetables daily will help furnish the minerals and vitamins you need for sparkling eyes, clear skin, shiny hair, strong teeth and bones and good health.

Don't depend on boiled vegetables for each meal. Add variety by using baked, steamed, pan-fried or fried vegetables.

For a flavor change, add seasoning and sauces to vegetables. Serve them buttered, creamed, scalloped, au gratin or glazed.

Just remember—vegetables taste good.

Mrs. B. B. Darden 'Mother Of Year'

Mrs. Beulah B. Darden of Fayetteville has been selected as the Fayetteville area's 1959 "Mother of the Year."

Mrs. Twila Mae Reaves and Mrs. Zouline Machado, two of her nine children, taught school in Pitt County and attended East Carolina College, respectively. Several friends of Mrs. Darden reside now in the Greenville area.

The 70-year-old mother of ten, nine of whom are living, Mrs. Darden was selected from a group of 23 entries by a panel of four judges, who said their task was most difficult because each candidate was worthy of honors.

Despite the long illness of her husband, B. A. Darden, who died in 1951, her determination paid off by five of her children graduating from college, two others taking some college work and the remaining two completing a business course.

Comparing discipline of children now and when she was rearing her youngsters, Mrs. Darden said many present teenage problems develop from "delinquent parents—the children are not disciplined."

She added that "today, mothers don't pay enough attention to their children—they are too busy with pleasure."

Although she had full-time duties in her home, Mrs. Darden found time to be active in St. Andrews Methodist Church, where she has been a member since 1911 and a Sunday school teacher 40 years.

Her outside activities have included eight years as manager of the Long Hill School lunchroom until she retired in 1955; and seven years prior to that in a position at Fort Bragg. She is a charter member of Long Leaf Pine Chapter 186, Order of Eastern Star; and a charter member of the Long Hill Home Demonstration Club.

She holds a life membership in the Woman's Society of Christian Service. She was chosen Home Demonstration representative at the United Nations Assembly last summer, but was unable to attend because of illness. Mrs. Darden still is engaged in part-time work for several merchant friends.

Three Members Honored

Three members of the Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma were honored on Thursday night at the regular dinner meeting held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church when Miss Frances Wahl, principal of Wahl-Coates School, paid tribute to Misses Louise Galphin, Emma L. Hooper and Elisabeth Hyman who are retiring soon. Misses Hooper and Hyman are charter members of the Greenville chapter. They as well as Miss Galphin have done outstanding work in the chapter as well as in the Greenville City Schools and East Carolina College, stated Miss Wahl as she presented a silver bread tray to each of them.

Plans for a memorial service for Miss Oma Bliss Lewis, a member who died during the year, were announced by Dr. Mary Lois Station and Dr. Ruth Modlin who are working together on this committee.

Mrs. Junius H. Rose was elected to honorary membership in Delta Chapter.

Miss Annie Mae Murray, program chairman, presented delegates who attended the State Delta Kappa Gamma meeting which was held recently in Winston-Salem at the Robert E. Lee Hotel with Mrs. Luther Herring, state president, presiding.

Mrs. Mabel Lacy Hall told of the business sessions, Mrs. Elsie Eagan summarized the luncheon meeting while Mrs. Howard Mims, outgoing state corresponding secretary, reviewed the banquet at which the International president, Ola B. Hiller, was speaker. Miss Murray mentioned the Memorial service which was held on Sunday morning and the tribute which Mrs. Sally Klingenschmitt, local president, read about the late Miss Oma Bliss Lewis.

Mrs. Herring thanked the local organization for its full support during the past two years while she was serving as state president. She urged the members to begin planning to attend the State Convention to be held in Raleigh in 1960.

Mrs. Klingenschmitt, president, presided during the business session. Mrs. Guylla Clark, corresponding secretary, read the minutes and Miss Ruby Edens gave the treasurer's report.

Eddie And Liz Wed, Fly On To Honeymoon Cruise

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Fisher and Elizabeth Taylor, winging their way to a European honeymoon, stopped off here between planes today and professed themselves very happy.

The couple literally had been in the clouds almost ever since their wedding late Tuesday in Las Vegas, Nev.

First they flew to Los Angeles, then they took a jet for New York. It arrived here at 7:08 a.m. Accompanying the newlyweds were a friend, Miss Pat Newcomb, and 112 other passengers. A crowd of about 200 persons gathered to watch them leave the plane at Idlewild Airport.

Reporters carried on a kind of running interview as the couple hurried through the throng to a limousine for the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

One asked the actress how she felt. "What do you think?" she asked in return. "It's my wedding day and I feel wonderful."

Fisher broke in: "We're a little weary but we're very happy."

When photographers asked them to embrace for pictures, Miss Taylor declined and said: "We're saying that for ourselves."

The couple was scheduled to leave by plane late today for Spain, but Fisher said he had to complete passport arrangements and their departure might be postponed.

He said he and his wife expect to be abroad three or four months. After they reach Madrid they will take a charter plane to Barcelona and board a honeymoon yacht which has a cabin styled after Christopher Columbus' quarters on the Santa Maria.

The cruise will be a leisurely 10-day trip up the northeast coast of Spain, with occasional stops at fishing villages—where the honeymooners probably won't be recognized.

"And that's all right by us," the couple said as they boarded a plane at Las Vegas, Nev., for Los Angeles Tuesday night.

Fisher said he was so nervous and happy that "I don't need a plane to get me there."

His schedule in Las Vegas was at jet age speed, but on the ground. At 1:30 p.m., he left his suite at the Tropicana Hotel and joined the Jewish War Veterans, Las Vegas branch, in a brief ceremony at the hotel's front door.

Then a limousine sped him to the county courthouse, where in 10 1/2 minutes he got a Nevada divorce from actress Debbie Reynolds, alleging mental cruelty.

A quick phone call brought Liz to join him in the marriage license bureau across the hall from

List Of 27 Nominees To UNC Trustee Board

RALEIGH (AP)—Two legislators were among 27 persons nominated Tuesday night by a legislative committee to the board of trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

The list must be approved by a joint Senate - House session, but nomination assures election. Sen. Ike Andrews of Chatham and Rep. Herbert Hardy of Greene were among 17 new members named to the board. Ten trustees were reelected by the Joint Committee on University Trustees, which voted by secret ballot from a list of 50 nominees.

Twenty-five of the seats are for eight-year terms, one for four years and one for two years. Reelected were Arch T. Allen of Raleigh, Mrs. Ed Anderson of West Jefferson, William Barfield of Wilmington, Mrs. Nancy Copeland of Murfreesboro, G. N. Noble of Trenton, Claude Franklin of Fayetteville, William P. Saunders of Southern Pines, Dr. Sherrill Taylor of Greensboro, Herman Well of Goldsboro (to four-year term), and Hill Yarborough of Franklin.

In addition to Andrews and Hardy, new trustees named were Frank H. Crowell of Lincoln, Percy Ferebee of Andrews, Bowman Gray of Winston-Salem, William B. Harrison of Rocky Mount, J. Frank Huskins of Statesville, Mack Jernigan of Dunn, Ernest E. Parker of Southport, Frank Parker of Asheville, T. Henry Redding of Asheville, Mrs. Elizabeth Reynolds of Surry County, Evander Simpson of Smithfield, Walter L. Smith of Charlotte, R. G. Stovall of Roxboro (for two-year term), Thomas Upchurch of Raleigh, and C. M. Vanstoy Jr. of Greensboro.

Scheidt Says Point System Could Help

RALEIGH (AP)—Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ed Scheidt said today a proposed point system for dealing with habitual violators of traffic laws "would contribute greatly to highway safety."

Under the point system, habitual violators could lose their licenses to drive.

"It has many good features of a positive nature," Scheidt said.

Legislation to carry out the point system was introduced in the House and Senate Tuesday.

Rep. Brantley Womble of Wake, House Roads chairman, and others sent up the bill in the House. Sen. Cutlar Moore of Robeson, Senate Roads Committee chairman, and others introduced it in the Senate.

The State Supreme Court recently declared unconstitutional a portion of a state law which authorized the Motor Vehicles Department to suspend licenses of habitual violators. The point system proposal would meet the court's objection that no standards were set to establish who was a habitual violator.

The driver's license of any person who accumulated 12 points in three years would be suspended. Eight points accumulated in three years after his or her license was restored would permit it to be suspended again.

In other legislative doings: Rep. Marcellus Buchanan of Jackson offered a bill to provide for state funds in buying voting machines.

The Senate Judiciary 2 Committee killed by postponing indefinitely a bill to require chemical tests for persons accused of drunken driving.

The Senate Committee on Courts and Judicial Districts approved a bill to give district Superior Court solicitors annual pay raises of around $3,000. The solicitors would be required to give up private law practice and devote full time to prosecuting court dockets.

Should Register If Desiring Driving Course

FARMVILLE—Parents who wish to have their children take driver education this summer at Farmville High School should have the children registered this week.

Principal Sam D. Bundy announced today.

The course, Bundy said, is intended for students who are or will be 16 years of age during the 1959-1960 school year. The course will not be offered during the regular term, but will be set up each year as a part of the summer education program at the school.

Included in the program are 30 hours of classroom, 12 hours of actual operation of an automobile and six hours of observation. A half-unit of non-academic credit will be awarded for completion of the course.

Hendrix Tapped Into Honor Group

RALEIGH—James William Hendrix, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Hendrix of Greenville, is one of 29 N. C. State College students tapped for membership in Gamma Sigma Delta, honor society for students in agriculture, forestry and education.

Hendrix is a student in the School of Agriculture at N. C. State. He qualified for membership in the honor society by ranking in the upper 25 per cent of his class and meeting requirements of outstanding achievement in agricultural pursuits.

Rose High Band To Give Concert Friday Evening

By CATHERINE MOORE

Friday night the sixty-nine piece Rose High School Band will play their annual spring concert. The program will begin at 8:00 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

The student musicians, conducted by bandmaster James E. Rodgers, will open the concert with "Gardes Du Corps" (Hall) and continue with the "Choccone" and "March" from "First Suite in E" (Holst).

Student teacher Herbert Joyner will conduct "Marriage of Figaro" (Mozart), after which the band will end the first half of the program with "Prelude to Faust" (Gounod).

After intermission, the group will open with "Springtime Festival" (Olivadotti) and then accompany clarinet soloist Sara Sonley as she plays "Lady of the Lake" (Jones).

Student teacher Don Griffith will conduct "Pastels" (McRae), and baritone horn soloist Mike Morris, accompanied by Mr. Joyner at the piano, will play "Rhapsody" (Marshall).

Mr. Rodgers will then direct the band in their concluding numbers, "Relax" (Yoder) and "Man of the Horn" (Fillmore).

Band members are now selling tickets for the concert. Admission prices are $5.00 for students and $1.00 for adults.

This year the band has received ratings of "Excellent" from the Eastern District Band Contest and from the North Carolina State Music Festival and Contest.

They also marched in the Parade of Princesses during the 1959 Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D. C., and in the Greenville Christmas Parade and the Miss Greenville Beauty Pageant Parade.

Thursday, May 21, the band, drill team, majorettes, and flag bearers will participate in the Rocky Mount Shrine Parade.

Tommy Mallison serves as band president, George Patrick, as vice president; Judy Ballance, as secretary and Franklin Steinbeck, as treasurer.

Boycott Parade On Anniversary

ALGIERS (AP)—The restive Europeans of Algiers today boycotted an army parade and demonstration commemorating last year's coup which brought President De Gaulle back to power.

Most of the city's European population stayed home to demonstrate their growing discontent with De Gaulle's Algerian policy. The army funneled thousands of Moslems into the vast forum square and by loudspeaker led them in cheers of "Algeria is French" but most of the Europeans to be seen were territorial guards, in civilian dress, who were mustered into active service for the affair.

Ruritan Club To Sponsor Dance

GRIMESLAND—The Grimesland-Simpson Ruritan Club will sponsor a square and round dance Friday beginning at 8:30 in the Grimesland High School Gymnasium, Everett Hudson, president of the club announced.

Proceeds from the dance will be used for the club's scholarship fund. Each year the Ruritan Club gives a $100 scholarship to one of the graduating seniors at Grimesland High School.

Built-In Safeguards For Ministers' Bill

By BUNNY HARRIS

Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — A bill which would exempt ministers from having to testify in court to information told them in confidence has certain "built-in safeguards," Rep. Fred W. Bynum Jr. said Tuesday.

He pointed out that the bill, revised since its introduction some weeks ago by Sen. Adam J. Whitely of Johnston, is designed to allow ministers to keep the confidences of those who seek their advice — particularly in domestic relations cases.

However, the following stipulations are written into the bill:

1. The minister must be an ordained clergyman, rabbi or priest of an established church.

2. The information which he withholds must have been transmitted to him in confidence.

3. It must have been told to him in his professional capacity.

4. To testify to the information would mean to disclose a secret or moral trust.

5. Even confidential information must be testified to unless the person involved requests the ministers not to do so.

A final "safeguard" provides that the judge can require the minister to testify to any information, even though it is "confidential," if he finds that justice would be hampered by the information being withheld.

The bill passed its second reading in the House Tuesday but was carried over when Rep. John P. Kennedy Jr. of Mecklenburg objected to the third reading.

Kennedy maintained the bill was "a very serious matter" which warranted additional thought.

Demonstration Flops; No Sale

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP)—St. Charles County Prosecutor Andrew McCulloch was his own judge and jury recently — and his kitchen was the courtroom.

A business firm asked the prosecutor for permission to sell its fire alarm thermostat in the county. McCulloch decided to personally test the device the company said would ring when the temperature reached 160 degrees.

McCulloch put the gadget in his electric stove, set for 160 and waited. No alarm.

While the firm representative squirmed, McCulloch raised the temperature.

Finally, at 220 degrees the alarm went off.

McCulloch ruled the firm couldn't sell the alarms in St. Charles County.

Do-It-Yourself Music Prevails

WESTFIELD, N.J. (AP)—Before the turn of the century, when he was vice president of a player piano company, Charles M. Tremaine used to spend an annual fortune advertising the virtues of his product.

"I spent $350,000 a year telling people it was a waste of time to learn to play the piano — the player piano could do it better," said the 88-year-old man. "I've been making amends ever since."

To prove it, he founded National Music Week (May 3-10 this year) in 1924 to promote the do-it-yourself kinds of music. But Tremaine himself can't play a note.

Our Leadership Has A Weak Side

When one contemplates the physical condition of some of the top leaders of the United States, there is every reason for a feeling of uneasiness.

President Eisenhower, while in recent months he has given every indication that he is a strong, healthy man, has during his years in office been sidetracked by three serious illnesses. Although he appears fully recovered from his heart attack, he is forced to leave certain of the responsibilities of his high office to others, and he is likewise forced to follow rigidly certain rest schedules.

Former Secretary of State Dulles early this year was stricken by cancer for the second time and was forced to give up his office at a moment in which the West faced one of its most critical crises of the post-war period.

Stepping in to fill Dulles' big shoes in foreign affairs was Secretary Christian Herter who for two years had been Dulles' under secretary in the State Department. But Herter himself suffers from arthritis which forces him to walk with a cane, and at times even forces him to bed.

Last week Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles died suddenly of a heart attack. Prior to his death he had been prominently mentioned as a successor to Defense Secretary McElroy who has indicated his desire to leave the Pentagon post late this year. Quarles, considered by some observers to be more familiar with the technical details of the defense program than any other member of the department, has played a key role in the nation's defense planning.

This week the Pentagon announced that Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will undergo an exploratory operation because of an ailment. What his physical condition in the future will be remains to be seen.

Regard Issue As A Local Problem

By LYNN NISBET

ILLEGITIMACY — The growing problem of children born out of wedlock and the burden upon welfare funds can best be solved by placing more responsibility upon local government, in opinion of several editors. Your reporter made a very casual and informal survey among newspaper folk attending the Eastern North Carolina Press Association at Williamston last Friday and Saturday and found sentiment almost unanimous for stricter control over welfare funds at local level.

Opinion was expressed by several that stricter laws and tighter enforcement requiring fathers to support their offspring, whether born in or out of wedlock, would accomplish more than regulation of welfare disbursements. Sterilization, except in cases of congenital mental deficiency or incurable transmissible disease, had few friends among the editors.

The problem of illegitimacy is not confined to any section, but because of the race ratio and the more frequent incidence among Negroes, it is more acute in the middle eastern area from which most of the convention attendants came. It is thought that because of this peculiar condition, national and state rules should not be applied without modification to fit local situations. County commissioners know these conditions and in many instances know the individuals as persons rather than as numbers on a statistical list.

One instance was cited of an unmarried Negroess with ten children, nine of whom are cash assets for ADC payments, and the eldest nearing the age when she may continue the vicious circle of adding more recipients to the welfare rolls.

LOCALIZED — The editors think that more authority vested in local officers to channel welfare funds, even at the expense of more responsibility for providing the money, would have the tendency to reduce payments to mothers without seriously jeopardizing decent treatment for the kids. "We don't see much hope for relief," said one veteran editor, "so long as all the rules are made in Washington and Raleigh."

PRINTING — The North Carolina Press Association in its statewide activity fully supports the school of journalism at Chapel Hill. The Eastern Association, an

The list of top officials might also include Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson who suffered a heart attack several years ago and was forced for a time to relinquish his duties in the Senate. The post he now holds is one of tremendous power and responsibility and one which projects him into almost every major decision reached in government.

It is through no fault of their own that the physical condition of this group of the nation's top leaders is what it is. Nevertheless, there exists a situation which could overnight change into one of severe crisis if suddenly the nation lost the services—temporarily or permanently—of these officials. Physical stamina may not honestly be classified as one of the top requirements for a top official, but without it, the other qualifications he has for his office may be rendered useless during important periods in the nation's affairs.

The physical condition of some of the nation's top leaders might well be a matter of concern not only for the people of this nation, but for those of other Western nations as well.

Guardsmen Should Act With Real Firmness

New violence in Henderson left Gov. Hodges no choice but to send in National Guardsmen to maintain law and order in that strike-torn community.

The guardsmen, using their recently acquired arrest powers, should take into custody every individual who participates in any violence which occurs in Henderson. They should rule the situation with a firm hand and let it be known from the outset that the kind of violence which has existed for weeks in Henderson will not be tolerated.

It is a sad day indeed that after more than 25 years, the Governor of North Carolina has been forced to call out the National Guard in order to maintain order in a community ravaged by a long and bitter strike. It is unfortunate that the actions of a relatively small number of persons who refuse to abide by the laws of their community and the state have brought about such a drastic step.

Even so, it is much better for North Carolina and its people that the National Guardsmen have been called to duty rather than allowing the violence to continue unabated in Henderson.

The presence of National Guardsmen in Henderson should bring an end to the violence . . . and with violence prevented, it may pave the way to the reopening of negotiations which will bring to an end the long strike.

It is the hope of The Reflector that the Guardsmen who have been called away from their homes and their jobs for this unpleasant but necessary task, will not have to be in Henderson for an extended period. It should be obvious to everyone, however, that the Guardsmen should be kept in Henderson as long as they are needed to protect the lives and property of the people of that community.

The Guardsmen who reported to Henderson yesterday have no ax to grind in connection with the dispute between the labor union and management. Their only purpose in being in Henderson is to maintain law and order, and they want to do the job and return to their homes as quickly as possible.

Unfortunately as it is that the Guard had to be called out, we should be thankful that we have a National Guard to fall back on when dire circumstances require their services.

Gromyko Yields To Gain An Inch

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets act like people who think eternity — all the time in the world — is on their side. It showed up again at the foreign ministers meeting in Geneva.

Since they believe that in the end communism will eventually own the earth, they can afford to take their time, moving forward an inch today, backward a foot tomorrow if they have to, waiting to jump 14 inches ahead the next time.

This has been their pattern since World War II: try this, try that. If it fails, try something else later. No hurry.

A good example of the let's-take-our-time philosophy was Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's performance over the weekend.

The United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union had agreed beforehand that the foreign ministers of West Germany and Communist East Germany could sit in on the Big Four conference, not as participants but as consultants.

It was natural enough to have the Germans in the same room. The meeting was called to find some solution to Premier Nikita Khrushchev's demand that the Big Three Western powers get their troops out of West Berlin. Khrushchev also wanted the Westerners to recognize the Red regime in East Germany as its lawful government.

This the West wouldn't do. It's the last thing its ally West Germany wanted. The West Germans hope that someday, through a unified Germany, the East Germans will be pulled out from under the Communist wing.

No doubt the West would have been glad to see West Germany to be a full participant in the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting. But, if it had called for that, the U.S.S.R. would have demanded full participation for East Germany.

So the meeting was ready to start Monday, with the two Germans on the sidelines and with no chance to speak unless spoken to.

The Western ministers, grim and not optimistic about the outcome anyway, wanted to get down to business and get it over with. Gromyko arrived with the announcement he, too, meant business.

But he wasn't in a hurry, as it turned out. On Sunday he upset the whole agreed-on program by suddenly demanding the two Germanys' sit in on the conference as full participants. It threw the Westerners upside down.

They let it be known they would break off the conference before they would agree to East Germany as a full participant, since this could be interpreted as recognition of East Germany.

Gromyko yielded a bit and the conference began Monday after it was agreed the two Germanys could sit in — still not as full participants — but with each permitted to ask to be heard when it wanted to say something.

This gave both Germanys more voice than the original plan which would have required them to stay quiet unless asked a question. Who won in this deal: Gromyko or the Western ministers?

It seems clear enough Gromyko won. He wound up with a bit more than he started out with and the West wound up with a little less. Besides, his move made good propaganda for the Soviet Union.

Gromyko created the image of the U.S.S.R. as a kind of champion of the two Germanys anxious for them to have an equal voice in the conference, while picturing the West as stifling both Germanys.

If it is argued Gromyko didn't get all he asked, there's an answer to that. He probably never expected to win 100 per cent. In these conferences its unrealistic for either side to expect complete victory.

An inch forward here, another inch there, is quite a victory.

Opinions In Brief

Another TV Operation

Within a short time there is to be another television operation working in Greenville.

It won't offer WNCN or WITN much competition and, as a matter of fact, you won't be able to pick it up on your set, whether you have VHF, UHF or both.

The audience for this particular TV station will be very select. In fact most of the time there will be only a couple of men watching the programs that it sends out to the one receiver on which it can be seen.

And what they will see would not be very entertaining to the average viewer, who is accustomed to seeing Steve Allen or Dinah Shore or Sgt. Bilko on his set.

None of these nor any other favorite TV characters will appear on this screen. All the two viewers will see is smoke. Or, as they hope, lack of smoke.

Other Editors Saying . . . Forest Fire Losses Heavy

(Henderson Dispatch)

Recent rains and the spring return of green leaves and plants have checked, at least for the time being, Vance County's worst scourge of forest fires in several years. But already the property losses amount to uncouped thousands of dollars in timber and farm buildings.

These fires have offered a severe test for the county, district and state forestry organizations, and without the fire-fighting help of such agencies, losses would have undoubtedly been much greater. Cooperation has been the key to success, and the result is an example of what can be done when various units work together without stopping to haggle over details or red tape.

Center of focus when danger is at its worst is the observation tower a short distance north of Henderson. Manned throughout day-light hours during critical periods, the tower affords a view that includes all of Vance and parts of neighboring counties. Using field glasses and plotting instruments, a spotter can detect and locate a fire almost as soon as the first wisps of smoke spiral skyward.

The trouble with fire, however, is that it usually gets out of control before anyone realizes help is needed. By that time the next few minutes, hours or days of destruction depend largely on the size of threatened areas, weather, and how fast an adequate fire-fighting force can reach the scene.

Quick response is vital. Whether a fire is spotted from the tower or reported by phone, the spotter can relay the information in seconds by short wave radio to forestry service trucks in the area, to the district office at Chapel Hill, and to the state-owned airplane if the latter happens to be nearby. From that point it is a matter of getting to the scene and planning the battle.

Powering equipment is available from a point near Durham, and it has been used here on occasions; in addition, the plane has been here a number of times to give ground crews the benefit of aerial observation. But generally speaking, forest fire fighters are always handicapped by lack of really effective equipment and the wide areas they must cover.

Because even their best efforts are somewhat primitive and often too late, forestry officials continue to base the success of their work on prevention of fires. All they ask is observation of fire safety laws and use of sound reasoning by persons who must set fires to clear land or for other lawful purposes.

Forest fires around the county start in many different ways, but most of those in Vance county this year have come from brush blazes that were not properly attended, according to official reports. The brush burning season is largely over now, but the fire danger may return even in midsummer in case of extremely dry weather, so care should never be tossed aside.

With timber growing scarcer every year, a blaze that sweeps through a stand of young pine trees can do more monetary damage than one which destroys a barn or even a dwelling in many cases. Thus it is up to every land owner to protect not only his own property, but that of his neighbors too.

The forest service will go on doing its best to control fires, but it will never be possible to reach the peak of efficiency necessary to overcome the carelessness of all those persons who don't stop to consider how easily and how fast a blaze can spread.

For this television camera will be mounted on a tilting, revolving platform high above the Greenville Utilities plant. Its sole purpose will be to remain trained on the tops of the smoke stacks leading from the plant's huge boilers in the building below.

What the camera sees will be transmitted by a closed circuit to a monitor in the boiler operating room below. There the two operators on duty will watch the screen closely to determine just how much of their fuel is going up the chimney in needless smoke.

The installation will help to eliminate the problem of soot and smoke leaving the plant's stacks and blowing across houses and lawns of the neighboring areas, according to Superintendent Leonard Bloxam.

What's more the savings in lost fuel, which now goes up the stacks will quickly pay the $2,800 initial installation cost of the closed circuit system, he says.

The closed circuit system will solve a knotty problem for the boiler operators at the plant. Bloxam told the Utilities Commission last night that some plants had set up a system of mirrors to allow the operator a view of the smoke stacks. Such a system would be impossible at the local plant due to the location of the operating room. So one of the operators goes outside to take a look at the stacks. He signals to the second operator inside whether to give more or less draft to the boiler and for other adjustments. By the time he gets inside the adjustment is apt to be off again.

So Utilities officials are hoping to solve a problem which constantly dogs steam-operated generating plants. That of smoke.

Incidentally, are you wondering how the camera will operate at night? A little spot light will be attached to it which will shine on the top of the stack at which the camera is aimed.

And during a rain storm? The camera is to be enclosed in a box with a glass front. A windshield wiper, same as on the family buggy, will clear the glass when rain begins.

Science solves every problem sooner or later.

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks a newspaper columnist gets tired of hearing—or overhearing:

"Be careful of what you say—or ole 'Big Ears' will have it in the newspapers, the next thing you know."

"You mean that's all you do is write just one piece a day? How in the world do you spend your spare time?"

"I've got a young nephew that doesn't know what to do with himself. How can he go about getting a job like yours?"

"Personally, I don't find much time for reading—just the really important things. But my husband says he gets a laugh out of your column. What's it about?"

"If you can't help me get a parking ticket fixed, just what does the power of the press really amount to?"

"Where do you get all your ideas—steal 'em?"

"What's life like on a free pass? Do you guys ever pay your way in to see anything?"

"Well, how's the ole press agents' lifesaver today?"

"It's a really cute idea. We're holding a canary singing contest to introduce a new bird food, and if you'll just agree to serve as a judge you'll find plenty of really cute material."

"What if it is made up? Do you think a thing has to be true to be interesting?"

"I been reading that Khrushchev is sick. How sick is he actually?"

"Don't tell me a guy in your position doesn't get a really good Wall Street tip now and then. How about passing one on, old palmy wally?"

"Dear sir: You cur. Why are you always picking on women in your column? Are you mad at your mother? (signed) 'Angry Wife.'"

"Dear sir: You jerk! Why do you always give wives the best of it in your column? Are you a man or a mouse in your own house? (signed) 'Old-fashioned Husband.'"

"Sure I know it's a tough job and you could use a raise. But look at it this way: There are at least six guys on the copy desk who are tired of writing headlines—and would love to have your problems — and your working hours."

Strength For Today

ONLY THUS DO WE TRIUMPH

Patience is the capacity to endure trials. The word "patience" has a long history going clear back to the Sanskrit and then coming through Greek and Latin into French, and then into the English language. In every language the word and its forerunners have about them the connotation of discomfort and trial. There is no such thing as being patient joyfully. It always takes effort. It means enduring something to a great end.

We read in Scripture that in our patience we will possess our souls. Many of us who find it hard to be patient feel that Biblical statement glaring down upon us and making us quite uncomfortable. It appears to indicate that the very salvation of our souls is in some way tied up with patience. It is a fine thing to believe, the creed, to set a high standard of righteousness for oneself and others, but the Christian life primarily consists in going along day by day and doing the best one can do in a patient spirit.

Ponder the Biblical statement: In patience do we possess our souls. We possess them. That is important. There are many people over whom the soul seems to have no possession whatsoever. They are possessed by their love of comfort, their passions, their avarice, their bad tempers, their melancholy.

Listen and listen carefully to the word of God: "In your patience possess ye your souls."

Divert That Tide Of Population?

By ELMER ROESSNER

The population of the United States reached 176,421,998 today, and while we were reading this, twins were born in Fort Wayne, Ind., bringing the total to an even 176,422,000.

Regardless of late results from Fort Wayne, these figures are rough estimates, based on the Census Bureau's rough estimates, which in turn is based on statistical data drawn from city, county and state rough estimates.

Nevertheless, the U.S.A. population is expanding mightily. One estimate says more than 40,000,000 persons will be added to the population by 1970, bringing the total above 215,000,000. Another forecast puts the population at above 300,000,000 by the turn of the century.

POTATOES ONCE, BABIES NOW

Every day more potato acreage is taken over for space for homes for newlyweds, highways and turnpikes take over tremendous footages to serve the expanding population. The farmer who now has to choose between crops and government payments will soon have to choose between farming and subdivision profits.

Verily, we are a fertile people. That terse comment brings us up to the point: Since we are reproducing at such a rate, should we continue to bring in so many immigrants in addition? Won't the birth rate, plus immigration, chase us into the sea like lemmings?

All of us steeped in the ideas of democracy will agree that the politically oppressed, the refugees from communism and the freedom-loving peoples of the world should always find a haven here.

NEW WORLD MIGRATION ROUTES

But what about the migrants for economic advantage. If living space is growing short, shouldn't they be directed to areas where it is more abundant? For our good, of course. And perhaps for theirs.

South America? There's a continent that is vastly unsettled, a continent of great riches and few exploiters. A continent that can support millions more, a continent that can use the sinews and brains of millions more.

Shouldn't the United States be spending a billion a year to divert migrants to South America and, to a limited extent, to Central America?

DIVIDENDS ON A BILLION These could be the gains: Economically: In addition to slowing down the explosive growth of population in the U.S., this would add manpower, talent and capital to the Latin-American economies. This would make them both better suppliers and better customers for the U.S. economy.

Politically: Since the new migrants would come from Western European countries, they would bring with them strong commitments to democracy. This would serve two purposes. It would strengthen democratic opposition to flare-ups of totalitarianism in South America, and it would tend to give us stronger allies in event of clash with Communist powers.

Diplomatically: Handled correctly, it could improve our diplomatic relations with South America, which often seem to have been left to chance—or loose politics.

In addition, there are humanitarian aspects. Migrants to the open spaces of South America, with a bit of U.S. grubstake, might have greater opportunities than in the U.S. slums and ghettos in which immigrants now often find themselves.

I don't know the answers, I've just asked the questions.

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER

IN WRITING ADVERTISEMENTS Buyers may not be rational, but they still need a reason for making a purchase. Edward C. Bursk, editor of the Harvard Business Review, told a marketing conference. No matter how much a shopper may want an item, he must have some reason that satisfies "his conscious mind," he said.

Some Of Best In Students' Art Is Now Being Exhibited

The Third Annual Student Art Show now on exhibition at East Carolina College constitutes one of the most important contributions made by the college Department of Art to the Greenville Fine Arts Festival. Included are the best examples of student art work done in all areas during the present school year.

The public is invited to attend the show. It may be seen daily this month in the Joyner Memorial Library at the following times: Monday through Friday 8 a.m. — 10 p.m.; Saturday 8 a.m. — 5 p.m.; and Sunday 2 p.m. — 10 p.m.

Work which has gone into the permanent collection of the college Department of Art has come from the two previous annual student art shows. To date, the collection numbers about ten pieces of painting, sculpture, and ceramics. Choices this year have not yet been made.

The current exhibition covers all areas in the college art program. Included are examples of work done in art education classes, which are devoted to teaching prospective teachers, especially elementary-school majors, how to teach art.

Each faculty member in the Department of Art is responsible for one of the major studio areas. Work done under this supervision makes up the current student exhibition. Dr. Wellington B. Gray, director of the department, is in charge of the programs in advertising and interior design.

Other faculty members and the types of work which they direct are: Dr. Bruce Carter — graphics, including wood cuts, etching, lithography, and serigraphy; Thomas Flowers — sculpture in clay, plaster, wood, stone, and metal, and welded rod sculpture, a major innovation in the department this year; John Gordon — painting in all media and styles; Paul R. Minis — ceramics, jewelry, and fashion illustration; and Francis Lee Neal — textile design and weaving.

Speaking of the Third Annual Student Art Show, Dr. Gray stated, "The high degree of proficiency of the work shown is exceptional. I would say that this work ranks with the best of student work in the entire South. A good share of the reason for the quality of the work is due to the revised programs in art and art education which are relatively new at the college." Looking forward to accommodations which East Carolina's new classroom building will provide, Dr. Gray added: "Just wait until we move into the Rawl"

Building this summer and see the difference in the quality of work when we have first-rate facilities!"

The East Carolina Department of Art currently has programs leading to three degrees in eight separate programs: Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Arts, both of which offer major, minor, and double major programs; and Master of Arts, which includes a program in art education and one in fine arts.

Market Speculation Is Rising Among Germans

By SAM DAWSON
FRANKFURT (AP)—The quick comeback of West German industry after a crippling war has lured many American investors into the German stock market. Until recently, the much larger yields on common stocks here than in the United States have boosted the trend.

Today both Americans and Germans are taking a second look. German stock prices have risen because of the buying spree both here and overseas. German authorities, wary of past booms and busts, aren't sure they welcome a possibly purely speculative interest.

Conservative German financiers are trying to adjust to some new ideas, well rooted in America—mutual investments funds, stock buying by insurance and pension funds. And, belatedly, there is an interest in the stock market by the average German citizen.

The rush of United States investors to buy German and other European stocks came after the prices of American stocks were pushed up to record highs, which left their yields relatively low, often lower than on bonds.

German stocks, meanwhile, were yielding 5 per cent on average. At their market price they seemed a bargain, and investors moved in. Their buying has forced stock prices here up, and the yield is now down nearer that to be had in New York.

Current prices of German stocks, for example, on the basis of last year's dividends now average out at a yield of 3.2 per cent. Germans stress this is due to the rise in stock prices, not to any drop in dividends. On the contrary, the average dividend paid by German companies on the stock exchanges has risen from 8.5 per cent of par value in 1957 to 10 per cent today.

Ernest Matthiessen, vice chairman of the Board of Governors of the Frankfurt Stock Exchange and general manager of the Dresdner Bank here, one of Germany's big three, notes another difference between German and United States market trends.

In the United States as stock yields dropped, bond yields rose. "In 1958," he said, "the development of the rates of interest as well as that of the volume of securities sold was singular in the history of the German capital market."

"The rate of interest for bonds, which in the fall of 1957 had been 8 per cent, dropped to 5 per cent by March of this year."

But in that period sales of fixed interest bearing securities rose from one billion dollars to two billion dollars, while sales of other securities rose from 1½ billion dollars to 4½ billion dollars. Offerings of new issues of common stock, however, came to one billion dollars, with Matthiessen saying doesn't satisfy the demands of the mutual funds which came into prominence largely since 1956.

The German public's interest, long dormant, is also being inspired now by the so called people's shares, a device by which the government is partially transferring its industrial enterprises to private ownership. This may include an issue of shares in Volkswagen Werk, to let the average German share in the profits from Americans' yen for the German small auto.

Three-Year-Old Brought Rescue

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP)—Three boys, between 5 and 6 locked themselves in an automobile trunk near a swimming pool party.

Debbie Wilson, 3, heard their muffled weeping and went to Mrs. Harry Hemstall, owner of the car and the pool. Debbie had trouble making her understand what was wrong. But her earnestness finally impressed the woman, who rushed to the car and released her son, Kip, Stephen, Fredericka and Robert Perona.

The parents then decided on a reward. That's why Debbie was eating ice cream and cake at intervals all day Tuesday.

Handle-Bar Grip May Go On Cars

NEW YORK (AP)—The car steering wheel may soon be replaced by "handle-bar grips" or a half wheel similar to that on aircraft, automotive engineers say. Bendix Aviation Corp. engineers report a new steering system called "variable ratio" will lead to new wheel designs, and improvement of the driver's view of the road and the instruments.

The new steering system would combine power steering with a mechanical device that automatically changes the ratio when the wheels are turned, thus permitting better control of the car.

Large Turn-Out For ECC Band Concert

An audience of approximately 350 people from the campus and the city turned out last night to hear one of the most popular music programs offered during the school year at East Carolina College, the annual concert of the East Carolina College Concert Band.

Conducted by Herbert L. Carter, director of bands at the college, the fifty-piece ensemble gave an enjoyable performance of selections ranging from a Mozart overture to contemporary compositions.

Band members not only won an enthusiastic response from the audience but also pleased those who attended by their attractive appearance on the stage of the McGinnis auditorium. Women instrumentalists wore evening gowns in pastel shades and men were attired in semi-formal dress.

Student musicians who were featured in the concert provided some of the high spots in last night's program. John Lowery, senior from Kinston, appeared with the band as student conductor, and directed the group ably in the overture to Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" and Sousa's popular march "Semper Fidelis."

The performance of Gilbert Vinter's "The Dover Coach" by three trumpet soloists and the band proved popular with the audience, who gave the student musicians several rounds of hearty applause. Appearing in this number were James Burns of Sumter, S. C., Thomas Spry of Winston-Salem, and Gayle Baker of Drexel.

Luther Gillon of Kannapolis, soloist in the "Concertino for Clarinet," op. 26, by C. M. Von Weber, gave one of the outstanding numbers of the program.

Ralph Herman's "Ballet for Young Americans," with its modern theme and contemporary rhythms, was a highlight of the evening's entertainment. Depicting the moods and activities of the teenager, the selection was made especially attractive by descriptive comments by Mr. Carter. Charles F. Myers of Thomasville was trumpet soloist in "Day Dreams", one of the five parts of the composition.

Tobacco Growers... YOUR FREE RIGHT OF DETERMINATION IS ON TRIAL

A bill to amend Act G.S. 106-65, which would outlaw the sale of a chemical called maleic hydrazide (MH-30) in the state of North Carolina and prohibit its use on growing tobacco, is now before the North Carolina State Legislature.

A hearing on this bill is scheduled to take place in the State Capitol at 10 a.m. on Thursday, May 14, 1959. The bill should be opposed strongly by the people of North Carolina for the following three principal reasons:

1. It is a law that discriminates directly against the tobacco growers of North Carolina and will, if passed, be a distinct hardship for them.
2. It is a law which discriminates against a product when the alleged objections to that product are not backed by scientific evidence.
3. It is a law that is contrary to the democratic system because it legislates against the tobacco grower without allowing him his inherent democratic right of choice.

POINT ONE:

It is a law that discriminates directly against the tobacco growers of North Carolina and will, if passed, be a distinct hardship for them.

Maleic hydrazide, more commonly known as MH-30, has been called the greatest tool for the tobacco grower developed since the invention of the motorized tractor.

Properly applied by spray, maleic hydrazide eliminates the long and tedious job of hand suckering growing tobacco plants.

Who Wants To Hand Pick One Quarter Million Sucker Leaves An Acre?

Tobacco suckers are unwanted growths which sap the strength of the plant and its desirable leaves. An acre of tobacco will produce as many as a quarter of a million suckers in a growing season. Until MH-30 maleic hydrazide was developed, these suckers were removed laboriously by hand in the field. Tobacco plants sprayed with hydrazide do not grow suckers.

The chemical, therefore, solves a major labor problem for the grower giving him more time for productive enterprise. Results in a net labor saving of $25 to $30 per acre and virtually does away with extensive leaf and stalk damage that occurs frequently when inexperienced hand labor is used for suckering.

When properly applied it also gives quality and yield benefits that are comparable to the results from tobacco that has been well hand suckered.

The direct and indirect benefits of MH-30 by reducing labor costs and increasing plant yields can mean a gain of from $150 per acre to as much as $250 per acre for the tobacco grower.

MH Delivers Real Benefits

The chemical has demonstrated this ability to cut growing costs, increase yield and help produce quality tobacco in 10 years of field trials, plus four years of commercial use on flue cured tobacco and two years of commercial use on burley tobacco. Tobacco treated with MH-30 has brought high prices consistently on the auction floor—the ultimate test for all tobacco growers.

If growers are denied the right to use maleic hydrazide they will be forced to go back to the antiquated, tedious methods of hand suckering which will increase labor costs, deny them the benefits of increased yields and correspondingly reduce their profits.

Additionally, labor for hand suckering of tobacco is high priced and, in many cases, impossible to obtain. Many growers have said that without this much needed chemical aid they will be unable to continue growing tobacco.

Furthermore, any attempt to prohibit the use of MH-30 on a state-wide basis would place the North Carolina grower in a distinctly unfavorable competitive position with respect to growers in surrounding states.

POINT TWO:

It is a law which discriminates against a product when the alleged objections to that product are not backed by scientific evidence.

There is no scientific proof that MH-30, properly applied, affects the smoking, taste or aroma of tobacco. On the other hand, there is strong evidence available supporting the claim that maleic hydrazide has no adverse effect on smoking, taste or aroma.

No less than three leading scientists of major cigarette manufacturers have stated both publicly and privately that no off-flavor or aroma was observed in smoking preference tests of cigarettes with tobacco treated with maleic hydrazide.

Furthermore, this fact has been supported by statements of tobacco workers in state exportment stations.

It has been shown that improper use of MH-30 can produce tobacco with off-quality characteristics such as thick, pale slick, heavy or toady leaves which is easily detected by the tobacco buyer.

However, this same off-quality tobacco occurs just as readily with the improper use of fertilizers, too much irrigation, too heavy or too little rainfall, the use of poorly adapted varieties, premature harvesting and other improper cultural practices.

The use of maleic hydrazide may under some conditions also bring about modifications of the chemical composition of tobacco such as lower nicotine content and an increase in sugar content. However, there is ample experimental evidence showing that these modifications are relatively minor and much less than the modifications brought about by such factors as field locations, soil fertility, tobacco variety, rainfall and irrigation.

The use of MH-30, therefore, cannot be blamed for all of the quality problems of the tobacco industry any more than fertilizer, rainfall or irrigation or other cultural practices can be blamed for these quality problems.

Cigarette manufacturers have voiced their objections to maleic hydrazide treated tobacco on the grounds that the tobacco has approximately 4 to 5 per cent less filling capacity in cigarette production; hence, they obtain 4 to 5 per cent fewer cigarettes for each pound of tobacco processed.

Once again, however, maleic hydrazide cannot be blamed entirely for this effect. It has been generally recognized by tobacco scientists throughout the flue-cured tobacco belt that a number of cultural practices influence filling capacity. For example, work at the Georgia Experiment Station showed that tobacco following a millet and crotalaria crop rotation had 4 to 5 per cent less filling capacity than tobacco grown following an oat and crotalaria crop rotation.

POINT THREE:

It is a law that is contrary to our democratic system because it legislates against the tobacco grower without allowing him the inherent democratic right of choice.

The bill to amend Act G.S. 106-65 carries to the ultimate extreme the idea that the State must think and act for the people within that State... they are not capable of thinking and acting for themselves.

The tobacco grower now has the right to vote to determine how much tobacco he can grow during the growing season. Under this proposed bill he will be denied the right to determine just how he will grow that tobacco. He will not have the right to determine for himself whether MH-30 is a good product or a bad product. He will be told that it is a bad product and that if he uses it, he will be a criminal.

But what is his crime? Only that he has used a chemical on his crop that saves him time and expense. Only that he has used a chemical that can help him earn a better living by producing more and better tobacco.

If that is criminal, then the entire democratic system of free competitive enterprise is criminal because it is founded on the principle of producing more and better products at a lower cost for more people.

Juvenile Delinquency Is Primarily A 'Sport' Avers Research Report

Editors note — Many Americans believe that juvenile delinquents are just emotionally disturbed children. They're wrong, says a panel of experts who took a long, hard look at the problem. This is the second of three stories of their findings.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Juvenile delinquency—sickness or sport? Primarily it's sport, says a research report published this week — sport, adventure and a way of life.

The big majority of delinquents, according to six experts in the field, are essentially normal youngsters. They're just running with the gang and doing what comes naturally.

The study commissioned by the National Education Assn. disclosed that only 25 per cent of the nation's juvenile delinquents demonstrate any degree of emotional disturbance. And only a few of these could be helped by psychiatric treatment — the rest are either immune or allergic to it. The six authors of the report include a pediatrician, a criminologist, a psychologist, a psychiatrist, a sociologist and an authority on cultural anthropology.

According to these experts, 85 per cent of all delinquents come from lower class families. They acknowledge that terms like lower class middle class and upper class are difficult to define in universally acceptable terms. But, they said, the class distinctions are there, and are especially important in a study of juvenile delinquency.

As the experts drew their line, class status is largely a matter of family aspirations rather than personal possessions. The report set forth no hard and fast rules by which a family might be classified, but it did offer some guidelines.

In the case of the lower class youngster, for instance: It is unlikely that his parents will belong to service or fraternal organizations.

His family probably spends its income on present pleasures, rather than saving for the future.

He may quit school, or intend to quit, as soon as it's legally possible.

He may use poor English. He probably will tend to regard property — whether his own or the school's — as something to be used hard and worn out, rather than conserved.

Oratory Medal For John Brooks

CHAPEL HILL — The Magnum Medal in Oratory, given annually at the University of North Carolina since 1878, has been won by John C. Brooks of Greenville, following competition open to all seniors.

Brooks has been active in public speaking and debate throughout his undergraduate years. He has been president of the Phi Kappa Phi Literary Society this year and a top-ranking member of the Debate Squad, which participates in intercollegiate tournaments.

His winning oration was entitled "Remember" and dealt with the Hungarian revolution of 1956 and its "Freedom Fighters." Competing for the high honor with Brooks was Curtis Gans of Waynesville, editor of the Daily Tar Heel during the past year.

The Magnum Medal is given in memory of Willie P. Mangum, a member of the University class of 1816. The gold medal award was established 81 years ago by his daughters, the late Misses Martha Person Mangum and Mary Sutherland Mangum of Orange County. It has been continued by one of his descendants, Willie P. Mangum Turner of Winston-Salem, class of 1900.

Comedian Found In Apparent Daze

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Comedian Jonathan Winters is in San Francisco General Hospital for observation.

He was found wandering on the waterfront Tuesday, apparently dazed, and consented when harbor police suggested they take him to the hospital.

ANCIENT FIND

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio reports two Chinese settlements of the neolithic age have been found in Chekiang province. Pottery, tools, bone ornaments and teeth were unearthed.

His attitude toward money probably will be "catch as catch can" and his way of life will reflect a great reliance on fate or luck.

In the case of the middle class youngster:

His parents probably belong to service and fraternal groups. His older male relatives will generally wear suits and neckties on the job.

His family will probably save its money for future use. The youngsters will do average or better work in school, or, if he doesn't, he will worry about it.

He will regard property as something to be maintained or improved. His primary source of money will be a regular weekly or monthly allowance.

His way of life will reflect a strong concern for the future, and planning for the future. The survey team said there is considerable mixing and overlapping of the lower and middle classes. It didn't go into the problem of delinquency in the upper classes because, it said, the incidence is so low and so well hidden by protective parents. In fact, the experts didn't even define an upper class.

In the matter of mental health, the report found a big difference between lower class and middle class delinquents. Although the middle class produces only 15 per cent of all delinquents, two of every three of their number are emotionally disturbed. In the lower class, the figure is about one out of five.

The big reason for this, said the report, is the strong middle class drive to "get ahead." Parents may demand too much of the youngster, or he may demand too much of himself. If the home and school make impossible demands, the youngster may withdraw into himself and become "the sickest of the sick." Delinquency acts may follow automatically.

The major pressures on a lower class youngster, on the other hand, come from his gang. There the emphasis is on toughness, smartness, excitement and "conning the sucker." The school and the cop on the beat may not approve of his actions but his gang does, and that is what's important.

The youth most likely to strike out against school and society, the report said, is the lower class youngster who wants to raise his status, but can't.

Such a youth may want to finish high school and go on to college.

But his older brother says, "You are old enough to drop out, what do you want to go to school for?" His father says, "Look at me, I never went to college. Go on and get a job."

To top it off, the neighborhood gang pours it on: "Hey, you still going to school? What are you, a sissy?"

Says the report: "This youngster must be tough indeed to move out and up."

The report breaks down the nation's juvenile delinquents this way: Seventy per cent are normal, lower class youngsters and five per cent are normal middle class youngsters. Fifteen per cent are lower class youth with some degree of emotional disturbance, and ten per cent are middle class youngsters with emotional problems.

It is the lower class youngsters with emotional disturbances who are the hardest to treat, the experts said, because their parents refuse to recognize virtue or promise in clinical treatment.

"Even where clinical facilities are available," the report says, "they are likely to be rejected by parent and youngster alike."

Real Fight In Senate Held Off, But Feeling Is Tense

By LYNN NISBET

Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — The big tug-of-war between the hold the line faction, generally classed as the administration forces, and those insisting upon more money for education than the budget bills include has been further postponed. Meanwhile, resentments are building up and tempers grow shorter every day.

Strategists in both camps are alert to every opportunity for advantage and while only one or two incidents have occurred in public there is more than usual background activity.

Briefly summarized the story to date is about like this:

On April 28 Sen. Ed Lanier of Orange sent up a joint resolution (S.R. 291) signed by 24 other Senators urging the joint appropriations committee to bring out a bill allotting substantially more for education mainly public school teacher salaries, and State employees than the budget bill proposed.

The resolution was referred by President Barnhardt to the Senate appropriations committee, the body which was being asked to go beyond the budget. When that committee did not report out the resolution within 10 days Sen. C. V. Henkel of Iredell, recognized leader of the Senate anti-administration group, gave notice under the rules that he might move to recall it from the committee for action on the floor. Some of the other signers complained that Henkel had not consulted them prior to making his motion. On Tuesday of this week Sen. Lanier, who had sent up the resolution, rose to a point of personal privilege and said he wanted no part of any such recall move, and he had talked with a number of co-signers who felt the same way. He felt the objective sought had been attained when the resolution was offered.

There was a lot of talk around the edges of the Senate that Lanier and other friends of the University and higher education generally felt the text of the resolution gave too much emphasis to public schools to the exclusion of State supported colleges. Meanwhile, the upping of budget revenue estimates in the amount of about $16 million, and administration suggestions for distribution of that new found money giving substantial part to the universities and colleges cooled enthusiasm of some resolution signers.

In the background of nearly all the discussion is the $27.5 million "windfall" to be derived from adoption of the withholding plan for individual income taxes. That plan has more support than it did a few weeks ago, but the "windfall" idea—use of the double tax payments for balancing the 1959-61 budget—has a lot of opposition. So does the $10 million "incentive fund" proposed by Governor Hodges, but not included in the budget bill.

Strategy of the anti's seems to be to oppose the windfall feature of withholding and the incentive fund, thus making it necessary to open up the budget revenue bill. The administration will vigorously resist any break in the budget recommendations. That will precipitate the big fight. Whether the battleground will be the joint finance committee or the floor of the Senate will depend upon developments during the next few days.

Church Delegates To Take Up Home-For-Aged Plea

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Delegates to the convention of the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina were to consider today a request that the diocese raise $250,000 for a home for the aged.

Bishop Richard Henry Baker has made the request, and suggested the home be named for the late Bishop Edwin Penick.

Also to be considered today is whether work now under way on the Thompson Orphanage here should be continued. The State of the Church Committee has recommended stopping work on the relocated orphanage until further study is made of future possibilities for the institution. The report said the need for orphanages is rapidly decreasing.

At Tuesday's session, delegates approved a record budget of $377,272.60 and authorized a new $150,000 diocesan headquarters in Raleigh.

There was a brief debate over an $89,000 item in the budget for a full-time youth worker, but the record budget was passed.

In other business Tuesday, the delegates approved Bishop Baker's request for election of a bishop coadjutor. The delegates had a choice between a bishop coadjutor or a bishop suffragan. The difference is that the coadjutor automatically succeeds a bishop who dies or retires, while the suffragan must be elected bishop.

Bishop Baker was coadjutor for eight years and assumed his present duties after the recent death of Bishop Edwin Penick.

Bishop Baker is to appoint a nominating committee before the convention ends Wednesday, and a special convention Oct. 7 in Raleigh will elect the coadjutor.

The delegates also adopted a resolution to the memory of Bishop Penick, who served the diocese 27 years.

Three bishops took part in a worship service Tuesday night. They were Bishop Baker, Bishop Matthew Henry of the Diocese of Western North Carolina, and Bishop Thomas Wright of the Diocese of Eastern Carolina.

Road Hearing Is Set In Edenton

RALEIGH — A public hearing on road matters in Eastern North Carolina will highlight the State Highway Commission meeting in Edenton on Thursday, May 28. The hearing will be held in the Chowan County Courthouse beginning at 2:00 p.m.

The State Highway Commission announced today that 15-minute appointments will be made for any group or individual wishing to present a road request to the full seven-member Commission. Requests for appointment should be addressed to Sam Beard, Public Relations Officer for the Commission in Raleigh. These appointments are made to avoid long waiting periods for those wishing to be heard and as a means of expediting hearings.

The Edenton public hearing is the twenty-ninth such meeting held by the State Highway Commission in recent months.

The business session of the Commission will be held in the courtroom of the Chowan County Courthouse on Friday morning following the Thursday meeting. Bids from the May 23 letting will be reviewed by the Commission and routine business will be brought before the group.

SMALL CRAFT BANNED
OTTAWA (AP) — Officials are emphasizing that pleasure boats under 20 feet long and less than two tons deadweight are banned from the St. Lawrence Seaway. Regulations made into law recently note that the seaway is for moving cargo, and small craft may use other available channels.

Phants Rally To Defeat Kinston Red Devils By 11-7

Team Titlists

GREENSBORO (AP) — Nick McCabe of Western Carolina proved Tuesday he deserved top seeding in the singles division of the North State Conference tennis tournament.

McCabe turned back second-seeded John West of East Carolina 15-13, 6-2, 6-2 in clinching the singles championship. The first set apparently tired West more than it did McCabe. West didn't show the same offensive prowess in the last two sets that he displayed in the first.

Jordan Washburn and Brooks Haworth of Guilford won the doubles title, defeating John Noles and Larry Nance of Appalachian, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0.

East Carolina won the team title with six points in tournament play. Guilford, Appalachian and Western Carolina tied for second with five each.

This is the first time the team champion has been crowned in tournament play. East Carolina won last year on the basis of its 70-0 regular season record.

Johnny Ellen Tapped For Tonight's Pitching Chores

Johnny Ellen, freshman right-hander, has been named as Coach Jim Mallory's pitching choice when East Carolina and Guilford clash tonight at Guy Smith Stadium.

Ellen (3-2) got credit for an earlier victory over the same Quakers on East Carolina's last road trip.

East Carolina leads the North State loop with a 11-0 mark and the wins have come in succession after a couple of losses to outside foes. A win by the Pirates will assure Mallory of a tie for the crown, his first since 1956.

Hitting continues to be on the rise for the Pirates as they slugged 16 base knocks last week against Elon, Gary Pierce, Al

Vaughn and Glenn Bass had three hits each to fatten their batting averages.

Pierce, sophomore outfielder, leads the club in hitting with a .431 average. Bass, Jerry Carpenter, Wilbert Castellone, and Wally Cockrell have marks above the .300 mark.

Vaughn, the All-Conference second baseman in 1958, has been ECC's top hitter in recent weeks. The Ahoskie senior got off to a slow start at the plate and was batting below the .100 mark by mid-season. A recent spurt has carried him above .300 and the Pirate co-captain may still finish with a respectable average.

No changes are expected in the ECC lineup although Mallory may alternate his catching slot and also at third base. Charles Johnson and Doug Watts have shared the receiving chores this season.

The game, originally scheduled at 8:00, has been moved up to 7:00 to allow Guilford to return earlier. Mallory stated this morning that exams were being held at the Greensboro college and they had requested to have the game moved up.

Tonight's game will be played at Guy Smith Stadium and a capacity crowd is again expected. East Carolina will close out their regular season this weekend with games with Appalachian on Friday and Saturday nights.

Pitched Second No-Walk Game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Danny McDevitt, a fellow never before in danger of being nicknamed "Deadeye," is conducting promising experiments on a guidance system for an old-fashioned missile — the baseball.

For the second time this season, the little Los Angeles left-hander Tuesday night pitched a full nine — inning game without walking a man. And the Dodgers, exploiting his five-hit pitching, whipped Philadelphia 3-1 and pulled into a first-place tie with the Milwaukee Braves.

"It's a matter of concentration," McDevitt said after the 3-1 victory. "I've slowed up my delivery so I can get a better picture of the target. I used to be looking at the hitter and then at the target. Now I go through the motion (of the windup) more slowly, and I don't take my eyes off the spot I'm aiming at."

McDevitt's improvement has been astonishing. In a brief turn with the Dodgers last year, he pitched 48 innings, gave up 31 walks and struck out only 26. He was shipped off to St. Paul with a 2-6 record.

This year, in 30 1-3 innings, he has walked only 6 — and fanned 16. His record is 2-1.

Ted Not Unhappy Over No Hits

BOSTON (AP) — "I'll be all right, the hits will come."

Ted Williams was not disappointed Tuesday night after going 0-for-5 in his first appearance of the 1959 season for the Boston Red Sox.

The 40-year-old defending American League batting champion, coming off a neck and shoulder ailment which had forced him out of action since March, said:

"I'm satisfied with my efforts for my first game back. I'm not tired. In fact I feel real good," he said after playing in the home team's 4-3, 12-inning loss to Chicago which lasted 4 hours, 23 minutes.

"My problem was that I was hitting bad pitches," Ted added. He struck out twice, popped up to the infield, drew an intentional walk and twice grounded out.

Thomas Decides To 'Withdraw'

BOSTON (AP) — John Thomas, the sensational 18-year-old high jumper who is recovering satisfactorily from a skin graft on his left foot, has withdrawn from Boston University until next fall when he also plans to resume competition.

Thomas said Tuesday, he definitely is out of the National AAU meet June 19.

He caught his foot in an elevator door March 24.

Thomas is walking on crutches in Massachusetts Memorial Hospital.

KINSTON — Rose High blew a four run lead last night but came back in the top half of the seventh inning with five runs to defeat Kinston, 11-7.

The win kept Coach Bo Farley's club in the running for the North-eastern AA title but pace-setter Elizabeth City continued to hold their lead as they collected only two hits but defeated Tarboro, 3-2.

Jacksonville got upset by Roanoke Rapids yesterday to drop down in second place with Greenville.

Greenville and Jacksonville will make up a rained-out game tomorrow afternoon with the loser dropping completely out of the championship picture. Elizabeth City has one game remaining with New Bern, the weakest club in the loop.

In last night's game, Greenville took advantage of southpaw Larry Clark's wildness to tally four runs in the second inning.

Clark gave up a couple of hits to Merrill Bynum and Joe Moyer and then loaded the bases when he hit Steve Noble with a pitched ball. The southpaw then lost all his control as he gave up three consecutive walks to force home three runs. Alan McArthur beat out an infield hit to drive in the fourth run.

Kinston fought back and by the sixth inning had moved out front 7-6. The Red Devils had their big rally in the sixth when they scored three runs.

Merrill Bynum, going the distance for Greenville, got in trouble when an infield error put a runner on base. With two outs, Bynum gave up a hit and walk to load the bases and Kilpatrick drove a couple to centerfield, scoring three runs.

The Phantoms came to life in the seventh as Moyer led off with a walk and reached second on Noble's sacrifice. Aubrey Harrison drove a single to centerfield, scoring Moyer and tying the score.

Ronnie Bass kept things going with a single and McArthur unloaded with his second hit of the evening, scoring two runs. Pinch-hitter Larry Roberts reached base on an error which scored another run and then Billy Cox climaxed the big inning with a triple. Bynum received credit for the win but was in frequent trouble, walking 11 men. The strong right-hander was put on the spot several times by errors on the part of his teammates. He struck out seven and allowed but five hits.

Tommy Hamilton got the only earned run for Kinston as he slapped a four-bagger out of the park.

Coach Bo Farley stated that he plans to work southpaw Ronnie Finch against Jacksonville tomorrow but didn't know who would pitch Friday. "I might even pitch Friday," stated the Greenville tutor with a laugh, but also with a tone of concern.

Crown For Deacs If Can Beat State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wake Forest got a foothold on the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball title Tuesday by beating North Carolina, and the Deacons can wrap up the championship with a victory today over North Carolina State.

The Tar Heels could have won the title by beating Wake Forest, but Robert Plemmons pitched a neat six-hitter — all singles — to give the Deacons a 3-1 victory and a shot at the ACC crown.

Should State beat Wake Forest today, the Deacons, North Carolina and Clemson would finish regular season play tied for first place with 9-5 records. A playoff would then be necessary to decide the champion. State, incidentally, is in the conference cellar with a 4-9 record.

Clemson, the defending champion, beat North Carolina in a title playoff last year.

In non-conference games Tuesday, Clemson trounced Furman 10-1 and Navy beat Duke 5-0.

Plemmons, a sophomore right-hander, was often in trouble with four bases on balls, a hit batter, and two wild pitches, but he went all the way to pick up his seventh victory. He has lost two.

North Carolina's only run was scored in the fourth on two singles and an error. The Tar Heels left 11 runners stranded.

Wake Forest went ahead with two in the fifth on singles by Byron Bullard, Plemmons, Frank Skinner and Bobby Brown. Three singles produced the Deacons' first run in the sixth, and drove starter and loser Wayne Young from the mound.

Clemson pitcher Harold Stowe fanned 16 Furman batters in pitching the Tigers to victory. Shelly Sutton led off with a homer for Furman. Stowe then gave up a single to Hickey Horton. But he retired the next 20 batters. Stowe gave up only four hits, and accounted for three of Clemson's 14 hits.

Duke got only two singles of Navy's Chuck Davis, a left-hander who picked up his sixth victory and fourth shutout of the season. He fanned 11 Duke batters, and walked only one.

John Jenkins held Navy until the seventh when the Middles picked up all five runs. It was Jenkins third loss and he has yet to win this season.

Besides the Wake Forest-State tilt today, Virginia will be at Washington & Lee in a non-conference encounter.

Speedway Plans Try Smooth Out May 30 Start

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — After losing nine cars in the last two 500-mile races before they had completed a single lap, the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will try to smooth out the May 30 start with a two-way radio system.

Speedway President Tony Hulman announced today that a radio transmitter and receiver in his pace car will keep him in touch with chief steward Harlan Fengler at the starting line.

Fengler, in turn, will be in telephone communication with eight observers around the 2½-mile track. It is impossible to see the entire track from any one spot. Last year the first three cars in the lineup pulled out of the pits ahead of the pace car. Two extra laps were necessary before the lineup could be straightened out for the official start. Then driver Pat O'Connor was fatally injured in a 15-car pileup on the first lap.

Church Softball Play Underway

The church softball league got underway yesterday with St. James Methodist Church and Immanuel Baptist winning their opening games.

St. James scored eight runs in the fourth inning to rout Eighth Street Christian, 17-5.

In the other game, Immanuel staged off a final inning rally by Greenville Free Will Baptist to register a 6-5 victory.

Adams collected three hits for the Free Will club and Leggett had two hits for the winners.

St. James collected a total of 18 hits in their win with Hudson and Taylor leading the way. Hill had two hits for the losers.

Elon Wins North State Golf Title

GREENSBORO (AP) — Fred Lloyd of Elon had trouble on the front nine but recovered his poise on the back nine and shot a 2-over-par 74 Tuesday and the golf championship of the North State Conference.

The Durham senior had a 73 Monday to give him a total of 147, three strokes better than Don Conley of East Carolina, who was second. Conley had a 77 Monday and a 73 Tuesday.

Milton Traylor of Catawba and Adam Maples of Lenoir Rhine tied for third at 152. Three players, Franklin Rutledge, High Point, Sid Benny, Atlantic Christian, and Jim Fogleman of Elon were deadlocked at 154.

Rounding out the top ten were Bob Bloh of Lenoir Rhine, 155, and Buddy Briggs, Elon, and Paul Goodwin, East Carolina, 157.

The four-man Elon team won the team championship with a total of 621. Lenoir Rhine was second at 635, followed by East Carolina, 639; Catawba and High Point, 650; Guilford, 666; Atlantic Christian, 673; and Appalachian at 697.

Hertford Trims Winterville 5-0

WINTERVILLE — Pete Hunter continued to hurl effective ball as Hertford took the first of a three game series over Winterville, 5-0.

Hunter, owner of perfect pitched no-hitter last week, fanned 11 Winterville batters while walking only one. The fast-baller was touched for only four hits in recording the victory.

Paul Castello collected two of the hits off Hunter.

Hunter got two hits, scored a run and drove in another to lead his club in offense. Jimmy Winslow had two hits for the winners.

Hertford wrapped up the game with a single run in the first inning and then added three insurance tallies in the third frame. Their final score came in the sixth inning.

Tommy Braxton started on the mound for Winterville but was relieved in the third by freshman James Allen Braxton. The latter gave up only one hit in finishing the game.

In losing the first game of the series, Winterville was able to get a man on third base only once and failed to capitalize on this scoring opportunity.

The two teams square off at 8:00 tonight at Hertford in the second game of the two-out-of-three series for the Class A District 1 championship.

Four-Game Streak Isn't So Much, But Spells Top Rung

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

A four-game winning streak isn't much, but in the National League it means first place.

The Los Angeles Dodgers won their fourth in a row Tuesday night, beating Philadelphia 3-1 behind the five-hit pitching of young Danny McDevitt. That gave the Dodgers a half-game lead over Milwaukee although the two clubs are tied percentage-wise (.600). The Braves lost 7-3 to the Chicago Cubs.

St. Louis kept Cincinnati from making it virtual three-way tie by beating the Reds 7-4. Pittsburgh defeated San Francisco 6-5 in 12 innings.

In the American League, first place Cleveland beat New York 7-6, the Chicago White Sox won 4-3 in 12 innings at Boston and Washington defeated Detroit 7-4 as Harmon Killebrew drove in five runs with his 11th and 12th homers, tops in the AL. The Kansas City at Baltimore game was rained out.

No one has been able to put together more than a four-game string in the National League since Fact is, only the Braves and Dodgers have won that many in a row. The Braves won their first four and took first place early in April. The Dodgers won four straight and came within 133 percentage points of first place three weeks ago.

It's a repeat of last year's pennant scrap in the NL, when the longest winning streak was seven games. The Dodgers, who finished seventh, never won more than four straight last year.

The Dodgers now have won seven of their last 10, and McDevitt has two of the three complete games the pitching staff has produced in that span.

The 26-year-old lefty (2-1) had a two-hit shutout until the eighth inning when Willie Jones hit his seventh home run. McDevitt walked none, fanned six.

McDevitt singled home the Dodgers' first run in the fifth after loser Gene Conley (1-1) had purposely passed Don Zimmer, The Dodgers scored twice in that frame, getting the other on an error. Duke Snider singled home the final run in the eighth off reliever Jack Meyer.

The Cubs handed five-game winner Lew Burdette his second loss in a row, scoring five in the ninth at Chicago on a home run by Walt Moryn and pinch-hitter Earl Averill's first grand-slam. Tony Taylor also homered off Burdette. Don Elston (1-1) won it with one inning of scoreless relief. Starter Bob Anderson was tagged for homers by Del Crandall, Johnny Logan and Ed Mathews, who leads the majors with 13.

Rookie right-hander Gary Blaylock hit a two-run homer and won his first for the Cards, although needing Bill Smith's relief after Vada Pinson's two-run double finished the Reds' scoring in the seventh. Brooks Lawrence (3-2) Pirates.

was the loser after winning three in a row.

The Pirates, shut out on three hits for six innings by Johnny Antonelli, put it away with three runs in the 12th. Gordon Jones (1-2), fourth of six Giant pitchers, was the loser. Bennie Daniels, who lost his first decision as a starter Monday night, won this one in relief, although roughed up for two runs in the 12th on two singles and three errors. Two of the boots were by Bob Clemente, whose sinker proved the clincher for the Pirates.

Killebrew Surpsising Himself With Records

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Two months ago Harmon Killebrew figured he'd have a successful year if he stayed with the Washington Senators all season.

At the moment he leads the American League in home runs, with a dozen; in runs batted in, with 28, and in runs scored, with 26.

In five previous tries with the Senators, since he became their first bonus baby in 1954, his total home run output was only 11, his RBI total was 30 and he had scored just 29 runs.

The 22-year-old third baseman, known as a poor-fielding jolter who never had a chance to play behind Eddie Yost, junked Washington's losing skien at three games Tuesday night, driving in five runs with a pair of homers for a 7-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

That left the surprising Senators fourth, three games behind Cleveland's first place Indians, who defeated the New York Yankees 7-6. Chicago's White Sox retained second place, 1½ games back, with a 4-3, 12-inning victory at Boston. Kansas City's game at Baltimore was rained out.

Killebrew, getting his big chance when the Senators traded Yost to the Tigers last winter, now has belted two home runs in four of his last 12 games. This was his third "double" against the last place Tigers, who are 0-4 against the Nats.

Frank Lary had the Senators blanked on three hits until the sixth inning, when rookie Bob Allison, who drove in the other two Washington runs, doubled. Killebrew followed with a two-run, 420-foot sock. Allison's sacrifice fly and Killebrew's second homer put it away in the seventh against Ray Narleski, after losing reliever Dave Sisler (0-1) had loaded the bases with a pair of walks.

Bill Fischer, still unbeaten, won his third with Tex Clevenger's hitless, two-inning relief mop up.

Unbeaten Cal McLish won his fifth for the Indians, who made it with the help of four unearned runs. Rocky Colavito, who had four hits, and Woody Held homered for the Indians against loser Art Ditmar (1-2). Mickey Vernon, Elston Howard and Yogi Berra homered for the Yanks before McLish, 33, gave way to the heat and humidity at New York.

Rookie Jim Perry saved it, blanking the champs on one hit while striking out four over the last two frames.

Cleveland's winning run was set up in the fifth on an error by Berra — who had set a major league record for catchers in his last game with a string of 148 errorless games since July 28, 1957.

All the White Sox runs came on homers. Starting right-hander Dick Donovan hit a two-run shot in the second inning and Al Smith put an end to nine scoreless frames for Chicago with a two-run homer in the 12th off losing reliever Murray Wall (1-1). Rookie Rodolfo Arias (2-0) was the winner, although giving up Jackie Jensen's eighth homer in the Boston 12th.

A DAY WITH SECRETARY HERTER

1. Herter walks off his private elevator in the State Department as he arrives for work at 8:45 a.m. This is his normal starting time.

Interest in international affairs came naturally to Christian Archibald Herter. He was born 64 years ago in Paris where his parents were studying art; he learned to speak French and German along with English. They brought him to the United States when he was nine. A year after his 1915 graduation cum laude from Harvard at the age of 20, Herter obtained his appointment as attache to the American Embassy in Berlin. He served with Herbert Hoover's relief administration in Europe after World War I. When Hoover became Secretary of Commerce in 1921, he appointed Herter as his personal assistant, a position he held until 1924. He lectured for a year at Harvard on international affairs.

Subsequently he served in the Massachusetts legislature, spent 10 years in Congress, was Governor of Massachusetts for two terms, and in 1957 became Undersecretary of State. At State, he made few headlines but he won Secretary Dulles' increasing confidence. In the last year he has helped much in the day-to-day direction of U.S. policy at the Geneva disarmament and nuclear-test conferences, and in the critical Middle East. When Dulles was stricken with abdominal cancer, Herter was made acting Secretary, then Secretary.

A man of patrician bearing and pleasing manner, Herter has won the firm respect of men around him. Associates say he considers many points of views, but "when the time comes to make the decision, he makes it." His 6-foot-5 frame is slightly bent from years of arthritis. He gets around with the aid of half-crutches. Despite that, he's a tireless worker. He arrives at the office before 9, remains often until after 8 in the evening.

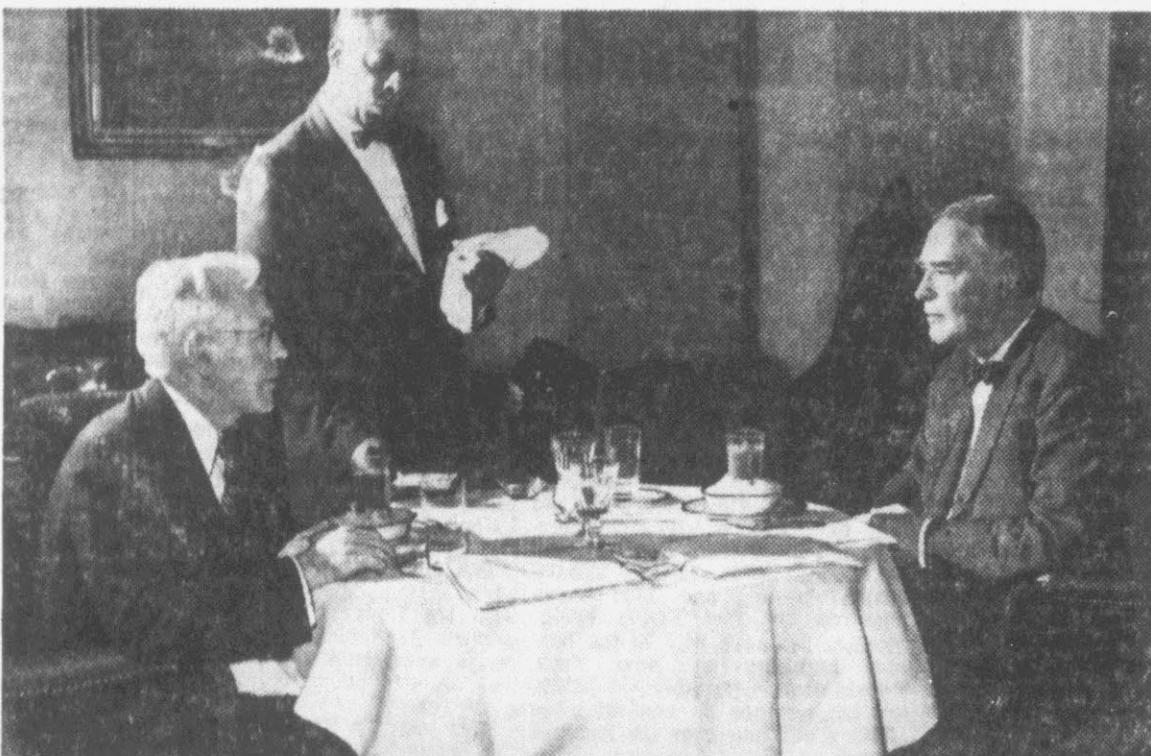

He and his wife, the former Mary Caroline Pratt, have been married 42 years. They have four children—three sons and a daughter.

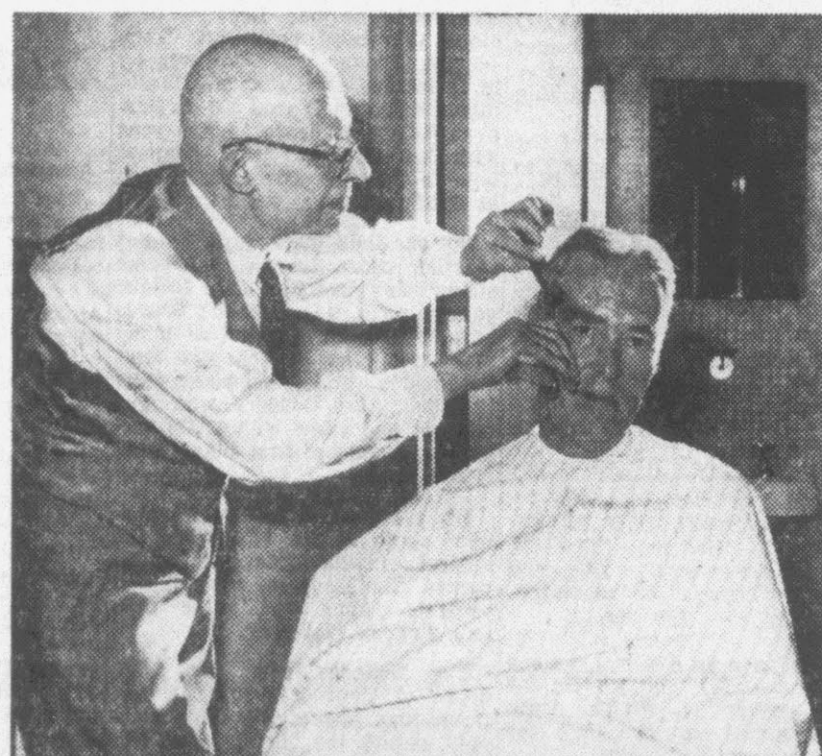

2. First order of business is to check schedules for the day, read reports and correspondence. This is one of few quiet moments of day when he can be alone.

3. Staff assistants Max V. Krebs, center, and Harry F. Stimpson, Jr., confer with the boss on new reports and correspondence.

4. He lunches with John A. McCone, chairman of Atomic Energy Commission. Lunch is served in Herter's office by Percy Thomas, who has been serving top executives in State for 23 years.

5. Herter keeps an appointment with barber Charles Laudano in the private dressing room in his suite of offices.

6. He attends swearing-in of Carl W. Strom, left, as new ambassador to Bolivia. Chief of Protocol Wiley Buchanan, right, administers oath.

7. A 7 p.m. conference with deputy undersecretary of State for Political Affairs Robert Murphy. The two confer frequently during day.

8. The return home, Herter's car has telephone in back of rear seat. By two-way radio he can keep in touch with office while on the road.

9. Relaxing at home, he joins Mrs. Herter in a bit of fun with the dogs—a pair of Cairn terriers who have the run of the house.

CHAPTER 31

"You just gave Sylvia Hadley a thousand bucks on the strength of her say-so?" Sergeant Frank Sellers asked Mortimer Jasper.

"That's right," replied on her honesty," Jasper.

"How long had you know her before you gave her this thousand bucks?"

"Not very long. I tell you I really know very little about her."

"How did she happen to come to you with this story?"

"I met her."

"Where did you meet her?"

"Jasper tried to look to Sylvia a signal. Sellers grabbed him by the shoulders and spun him around."

"She came to me," Jasper said.

"She had heard I was interested in certain objects of art. She wanted to know if it would be worth a thousand dollars to me to get a very old, very beautiful piece of jade."

"You lying dog!" Sylvia screamed at him. "You commissioned me to get those jade idols from the Crockett collection and promised me a thousand bucks apiece! You didn't give me the thousand dollars until I gave you the first idol. I'd have got both of them at the one time, but Dean Crockett had one of them locked up when I grabbed the first one."

"Now, that's better," Inspector Thad Giddings said, seating himself. "Sit down, folks, let's be comfortable."

"What do you know?" Sellers said, grinning.

"That is a complete fabrication," Jasper said with dignity. "In view of the accusation, I am going to insist that I be permitted to get in touch with my lawyer."

"Any objection to our looking around?" Sellers asked.

"For what?"

"To see if you've got a jade idol of that sort kicking around here."

"I can assure you I don't have anything of the sort."

"How about that safe?"

"There's a time lock on it. It can't be opened until nine o'clock tomorrow morning. That is for my protection in case of burglars. That is all."

"Any objection to our coming back in the morning to see what's inside?"

"I . . . I can assure you there is no such jade idol in there."

"How about the rest of the place?" Sellers asked.

"I have no objection to you looking around," Jasper said. "I can assure you, however, that this charge is entirely without foundation and any search would be completely fruitless."

Sellers moved over toward the desk.

"I have nothing to conceal," Jasper said, "but I feel that this is unwarranted — this entire procedure."

"We're a little somewhere," Sellers said to Giddings. "Open up the desk. Let's take a look."

"If that desk is opened, you're going to open it," Jasper said. "And I don't think you have a search warrant."

"I'll soon get one," Sellers told him. "On the strength of what you've said I can get it."

"No, you can't," Jasper said. Sellers looked at Giddings and frowned.

Giddings looked at Sylvia. "Now, wait a minute," Sellers said. "Let's do some thinking."

Donald Lam was here earlier in the evening, and he got beaten up. . . . He was looking for something. . . . he was on the wrong track. He had the cart before the horse. He thought Sylvia was the horse. Now, wait a minute. Did he? He's not that dumb. He's been bird-dogging something."

"And he got beaten up," Giddings said.

"No doubt about that," Sellers told him. "The evidence is there all right."

"I know nothing about it. I had nothing to do with it. I have never seen this man before," Jasper said.

"But the officers came here with Lam?" Sellers asked.

"That's right."

"And you told them you'd never seen him before?"

"Right."

"So," Sellers said to Giddings, "he knew that he was getting involved in things. He's had an hour or two to clean things up. We probably aren't going to find anything incriminating in the whole joint."

"I can assure you, you won't," Jasper said. "But not because I have cleaned things up, as you term it."

Sellers walked over the office looking around.

Jasper, now sure of his ground, said, "Not without a search warrant, Officer."

"I can phone up and get a search warrant and we can wait right here and see you don't touch anything," Sellers said.

Jasper grinned. "Do that. On the information that you have so far, try getting a search warrant."

Sellers kicked the wastebasket into the open.

"Looks as though you'd been cleaning out a lot of files after you knew that you were in trouble," he said.

He looked down at the torn envelopes, the crumpled letters, and then suddenly something caught his eye. He shot his hand down into the wastebasket, felt around for a minute, then came up with the jade idol. "Well, well, well," he said. "What do you know! What do you know!"

Jasper stared at the jade idol as though he had been seeing things. "Framed!" he screamed. "Framed! You planted that. That's a plant! That's a frame! That's a frame!"

His voice trailed away into silence.

Border Reports Say Rebellion In Tibet Dwindling

NEW DELHI (AP)—The rebellion in Tibet appears to be dying. It may already be dead.

Reports reaching the border towns of Kalimpong and Gangtok indicate the uprising of Khampa tribesmen, which flared fiercely late in March and early April, has been snuffed out by the superior guns of Red Chinese occupation forces.

The provisional government with the resistance forces proclaimed a month ago has not been heard from.

Refugees straggling out of the Himalayan land of the lamas picture it as held firmly under the heel of Chinese overlords determined to prove they can rule with, or without, public approval — and without the Dalai Lama if need be.

Refugees say the main reason the revolt failed was lack of weapons. The handmade rifles and clubs of the Khampas proved no match for Chinese artillery and machine guns.

Reports published in New Delhi say that nearly half the 10,000 refugees who have flocked into India and the border states of Sikkim and Bhutan are Khampas.

Many are believed to have been wounded as they fled.

Gyangtse, where the rebels were strung out six weeks ago to march away the Chinese commissar at gunpoint, now lies quiet and subdued under Chinese guns.

Arrival from there said the huge monastery was under Red guard and that pilgrims had to get clearance from Red troops.

Many high Gyangtse merchants were reported in prison. On May Day local youths were forced to shout Red Chinese slogans and chant "we want reforms," the witness said.

Indian observers, who emphasize there is no way of checking the refugee reports, believe the Chinese are making an all-out attempt to put down the rebellion as proof they can do without the Dalai Lama, god-king of the Tibetans who has taken refuge in India.

The Chinese apparently feel such a demonstration might make the Dalai Lama more willing to return under Red terms. As long as the young titular ruler remains in India, he is a potential rallying point.

Donald is sticking out his neck again: "I hurried over to the sedan in the driveway. I put on gloves and tried the door. It was unlocked. . . . The story continues tomorrow."

Offers Phobia As His Alibi

WESTFIELD, Mass. (AP)—A Springfield man offered a phobia about being hospitalized as an alibi in a District Court automobile case Tuesday.

Lloyd Casey, 48, told the court: "I was dazed and I heard someone say they were going to put me in a hospital. I just left."

Judge Andrew Anderson fined Casey $35 for operating to endanger and gave him a three-month suspended sentence for leaving the scene of an accident.

Thefts Admitted By Beauty Queen

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP)—A 20-year-old girl was in a jail cell today, only five months after she was crowned a state beauty queen.

Dixie Ann Gottfried has signed statements admitting two armed robberies last Monday, according to sheriff's investigator William Maragos. No charges have been filed.

"All I wanted was $50 for a room and some new clothes and a few dollars to get a new start," said the 5-foot-11, 150-pound beauty.

"I was flat broke."

Mrs. Gottfried won the Miss Colorado Jaycee title last July, as blonde Dixie Ann Dicks of Pueblo, Colo.

When two patrolmen arrested her late Monday night at nearby Aurora, her hair was long, unkempt and dyed black. She was dressed in slacks and a rough shirt.

Records at her home town of Pueblo show she was fined $125 last November for fighting and pouring beer on two policemen.

APPROVES BILL TO ASSIST JOHNSON

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel signed into law Tuesday a bill to help Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) win the Democratic presidential nomination.

The measure shifts party primaries from July and August to May and June. It allows Johnson to run for re-election before trying for the nomination at the July 1960 Democratic National Convention.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved forward to a sizable gain early this afternoon after some initial hesitation. Trading was moderately active, but slower than other sessions this week. Key stocks rose from fractions to a point or so.

Chrysler gained more than a point. Ford and General Motors were about a point higher. American Motors rose a fraction. Studebaker-Packard eased.

Some makers of rocket fuels continued to lose ground in early trading as they responded further to prospects of competition from the newly announced liquid hydrogen rocket fuel. Later, however, Thiokol halted in initial 2-point loss and General Tire reduced to a fraction its early drop of about 2.

Union Carbide, whose Linde Division is one of the firms supplying the government with the fuel, added another 2 points.

Lukens Steel picked up about 2 while gains of a point or better were scored by Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin.

Du Pont rose about 7 and Allied Chemical 5.

U.S. government bonds were steady to a bit lower.

Plan Approved For Increasing Utilities' Capacity

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Greenville Utilities commissioners last night approved a plan for increasing its capacity for receiving electrical current from Virginia Electric and Power Co.

The commission voted to accept the first of three proposals offered by the private power company. It provides that Greenville Utilities would pay an estimated monthly facility charge of $1,402.70 for a transformer to step down the 110,000 volts from VEPCO's cross country lines. In addition, the local utility would have to purchase $21,000 worth of switching gear equipment for the installation.

There were two other proposals offered by the power company. One provided that it would furnish all of the equipment at a higher facility charge and the second would carry a lesser facility charge but would utilize some of the equipment in the present installation.

Superintendent Leonard Bloxam had pointed out at last month's meeting that the third proposal would give less flexibility of operation for the local utilities.

When the new installation is completed, the amount of power which VEPCO can deliver to Greenville Utilities will be doubled, Bloxam said.

He said Greenville Utilities is rapidly nearing its capacity for delivering power to the customer. That is the reason the new installation is needed.

Bloxam emphasized that the $1,402.70 facility charge for the transformer is an estimated amount. It will be adjusted when the actual cost of the equipment is determined.

The present transformer installation by which Greenville Utilities receives power from VEPCO carries a facility charge of $875.51 monthly. The charge for the new installation would be in addition to the present charge.

The commissioners held their monthly meeting after taking an annual tour of the Utilities plant and viewing construction projects yesterday afternoon.

On a motion by Commissioner Charles Horne the superintendent and department heads were commended for the "excellent condition of the plant."

Horne asked that the commendation be passed on from the "top to the bottom."

It was reported that air conditioning has been installed on the third floor of City Hall. The work is being done by the Utilities Commission and additional rent charged for offices on that floor will go to the commission until the investment is paid off.

Commissioner Horne was appointed to work along with Superintendent Bloxam, on the problem of transformer capacity for the new section of Pitt Memorial Hospital. They will report back at the next meeting.

Business Manager Larry Brown told the group that Greenville Utilities had won a third place award for its safety record. The award was given by the National Safety Council.

A resolution of respect for W. A. Darden Jr. was approved by the commissioners. A letter of appreciation for the services of John Clark was also authorized.

An employee for many years, Darden recently died.

Clark, who had served as a member of the Utilities Commission for 10 years, was recently replaced by the City Council at the expiration of his term.

Bloxam reported that the gas leak survey has been completed and the lines were found in "excellent" as good shape as last year.

Only one major leak was found and that was not considered dangerous.

The commissioners also discussed changes in the charge for cutting off and on current for delinquent accounts. Bloxam said he would have a report on the matter at a later meeting.

Castro Advised To Guard Tongue

PANAMA (AP) — Panama's government has told Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro to watch his tongue if he has hopes of getting back 86 Cubans who invaded Panama in an abortive attempt to a revolution.

Foreign Minister Miguel Moreno Jr. Tuesday rejected a request for repatriation of the Cubans made by Cuba's Under Secretary of State Eric Aguero.

Moreno told Aguero that the possibilities of repatriation were not helped by Castro's criticisms of President Ernesto de la Guardia's government for getting the help of the Organization of American States against the invaders.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Chinese Communists shelled Peikantang Island in the Matsu group Tuesday night for the first time this year.

The Reds fired 23 shells at the 2 1/2 square miles of island only 7 miles off the mainland.

The 14-minute attack came on an even-numbered day, when the Communist guns on the mainland facing the Quemoy and other Nationalist offshore islands normally are silent.

$1,849 Awarded Disabled Santa

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Clarence Fiske was awarded $1,849 for injuries suffered while on duty as a department store Santa Claus last December.

Fiske told the court he was totally disabled from Dec. 25 to April 1 as the result of injuries received when a girl jumped into his lap.

Missile Carried Camera In Nose

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Thor intermediate range ballistic missile, reportedly carrying a tiny camera in its nose, has streaked 1,500 miles over the Atlantic on what the Air Force called a highly successful flight test.

Thirty-nine minutes after the blastoff Tuesday a small data capsule that popped out of the nose cone near the end of the trip was recovered from the ocean.

The camera, equipped with high speed film because of the 10,000 m.p.h. velocities encountered on the flight, reportedly was aboard as a secondary experiment to record the nose cone's fiery re-entry through the earth's atmosphere.

Car Damaged As Brakes Fail

Two hundred dollars damage was done to a car yesterday when the brakes on the vehicle failed and the auto struck a tree and utilities pole.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Bettie Paulkner Russell, address unknown, told officers she was headed north on Greene St. at Fourth when she applied her brakes and they did not work. She said when the brakes did not work she jumped from the car as it headed toward the left side of the street and hit a tree.

Investigating officers said Mrs. Russell was not injured but damage to her car was estimated at $200.

No charges were made by officers who investigated the case.

Postpone Meet Of Shrine Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Pitt County Shrine Club will be postponed until Tuesday, May 26, President J. W. H. Roberts announced today.

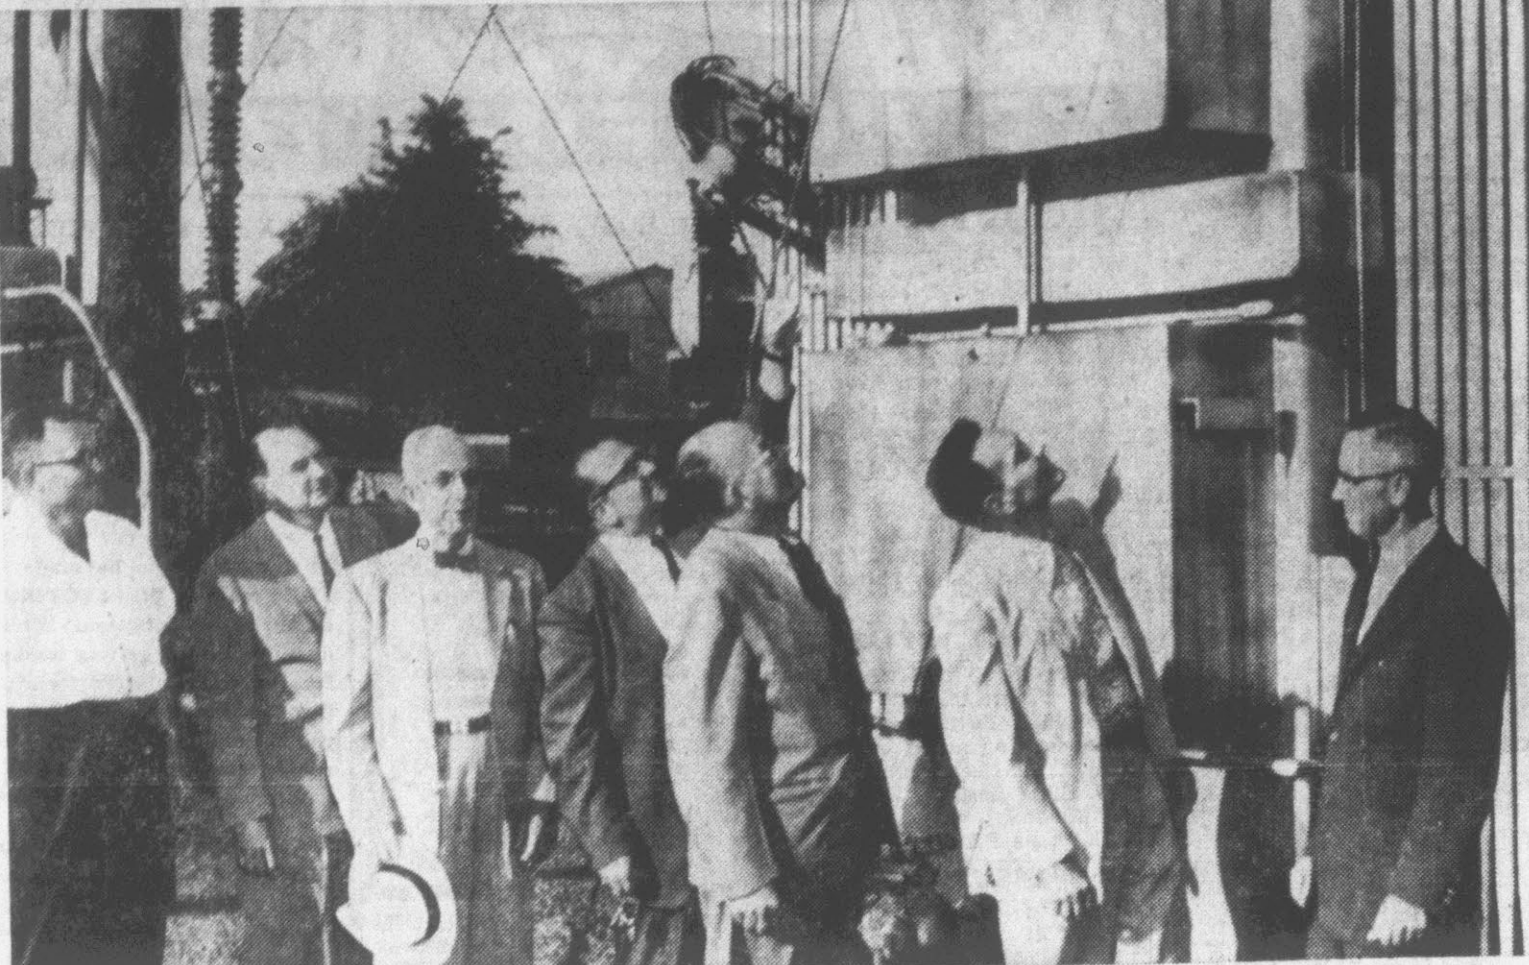

The meeting will be held then in Avden where club members will be guests of the Ayden Shriners.

A supper meeting will be held beginning at 7 o'clock. Jessie Laughinghouse, chairman and Roland Stock and Royce Hunsucker will be in charge of the program.

The postponement was made necessary because of the Sudan Shrine ceremonial which is being held in Rocky Mount May 20 and 21.

The Pitt County Shrine Committee is in charge of arrangements for the ceremonial. Working on the plans are W. L. Hunsucker and Johnny Brown of Bethel and John King of Greenville.

All of the 3,245 miles of railroad in Switzerland are stateowned.

Charge Speed Over 100 MPH

Greenville police officers arrested a 20-year-old Greenville youth and charged him with speeding in excess of 100-miles-per-hour last night after they chased him through the western part of town.

Police Lt. J. W. Piver and Officer C. E. Warren also charged the boy, Kenneth Ray Wells of 307 Pitt St., with speeding 55 in a 35-mile-an-hour zone and failure to stop for a stop sign.

Officers said they first saw the boy's car on Myrtle Ave. and saw it "take-off." They followed the car down Myrtle to Paris Ave. where he made a right turn and went to Farmville Blvd. where he turned left.

Wells, headed west on Farmville Blvd., according to officers, failed to stop for the stop sign at the intersection of Memorial Drive and proceeded through the intersection at a speed of over 55-miles-an-hour. Officers followed him out on the Stanton-burg Road where, according to Lt. Piver, they clocked Wells' auto at over 100-miles-per-hour.

Lt. Piver reported that the car was finally stopped three or four miles from Greenville on the Stanton-burg road.

Wells was released under $200 bond for appearance in court here next Monday.

N.C. Merchants Elect Officers

DURHAM (AP) — Frank L. McCabe of Raleigh was elected president Tuesday of the North Carolina Merchants Assn. He succeeds Charles B. Zeigler of Gastonia.

Other new officers are A. Finley Atkinson of Burlington, first vice president, and Paul A. Johnston of Littleton, second vice president.

The association's annual convention ended Tuesday.

Interruption

A power failure around 1:30 today was due to an interruption of Virginia Electric and Power Co. service, Greenville Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam said.

The superintendent said he had learned Greenville, Washington and Williamston were knocked off for short periods.

He said about three circuits were pulled in Greenville for a short period until local generators could pick up the load.

Greenville Utilities generates a portion of its power and purchases a portion from VEPCO.

Bloxam said he had not learned the exact cause of the trouble on VEPCO lines.

All service was back to normal a short time after the power failure occurred.

Astaire Wants To Return Award

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fred Astaire, whose 1958 TV spectacular danced off with nine Emmys, wants to return his "best actor" award.

But a spokesman for the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences says the award was won fairly by Astaire—and it is his.

Astaire said through a spokesman he wanted to return the award because of confusion over the "best actor" category. Some critics, including Ed Sullivan, contend the Emmy should have gone for a dramatic instead of a dance performance.

"I don't think anyone will disagree that Mr. Astaire is an actor and that he gave a great performance," replied Thomas Freeman-Smith, Academy executive secretary. He indicated the matter was closed.

Optometric Body Chooses Officers

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Dr. John W. Hearn of Monroe was named president-elect Tuesday of the North Carolina Optometric Society. As such, he is in line for the presidency next year.

Dr. J. Hugh Sowder of North Wilkesboro ascended to the presidency Monday, succeeding Dr. Richard C. Whitfield of Franklinton.

Other officers elected at the conclusion of the organization's 52nd annual convention included Dr. Sam White of Greenville, public information vice president; Dr. J. D. Robinson of Wallace, legislative vice president; Dr. William E. Beel of Durham, education vice president; and Dr. John D. Constable of Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

Anti-Nudist Bill 'Dies' In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas nudists don't have to put on their clothes today.

A much-discussed antinudist bill died in the Texas House Tuesday after it had Senate approval.

The bill would have fined nudists up to $500 and assessed them up to a year in jail.
