West Acts To Mend Rift Over Talking Berlin Issue

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers offered today to discuss the Berlin crisis with the Soviet Union apart from other German issues. But they declared the Berlin issue cannot be "settled in isolation" from German reunification and European security problems.

The Western offer was made in a statement issued in an apparent effort to calm a stormy dispute within the Western camp over whether to seek a stopgap arrangement on Berlin.

The row ranged the United States and Britain against France and West Germany.

The U.S. and British delegations let it be known over the weekend that they felt the Soviet Union's adamant rejection of the Western package proposal for German reunification and a European security system necessitated negotiations on the immediately pressing question of Berlin.

French and West German officials insisted on continued firm support for the package program and a very tough line in negotiating with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The joint Western statement denied that the Allies had decided to break up the Western package plan.

It said the Western powers had already stated that "the various questions included in the plan can be discussed one by one. But as they are, in fact, all connected, they cannot be settled in isolation."

"As to Berlin," the statement said, "the Western foreign ministers expect to discuss this problem along the line of the proposals on Berlin contained in Phase I of the Western peace plan."

The plan proposes that West and East Berlin be united by free elections and the unified city be guaranteed by the Big Four. This would be the first step toward German reunification.

The statement was issued after Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other Western foreign ministers met at Herter's headquarters to line up their strategy for the second week of the conference.

Their immediate problem in advance of the afternoon session at the Palace of Nations was to close ranks on the issue of Berlin negotiations.

The joint statement indicated that for the time being, at least, they had overcome their difficulties.

The statement said the Western ministers "expect to explore in greater detail the significance of the Western peace plan and to demonstrate to the Soviet government that the Western proposals have gone far toward meeting its views."

What the statement did not say was what the Western position will be when—as expected—the Berlin proposal in the package plan is rejected by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The problem will remain of what to do about Berlin to avoid a possible military showdown with Russia. Some stopgap solution will have to be worked out, if possible.

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano said on going into the session at Herter's office "the whole affair is nothing serious."

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd went into the U.S.

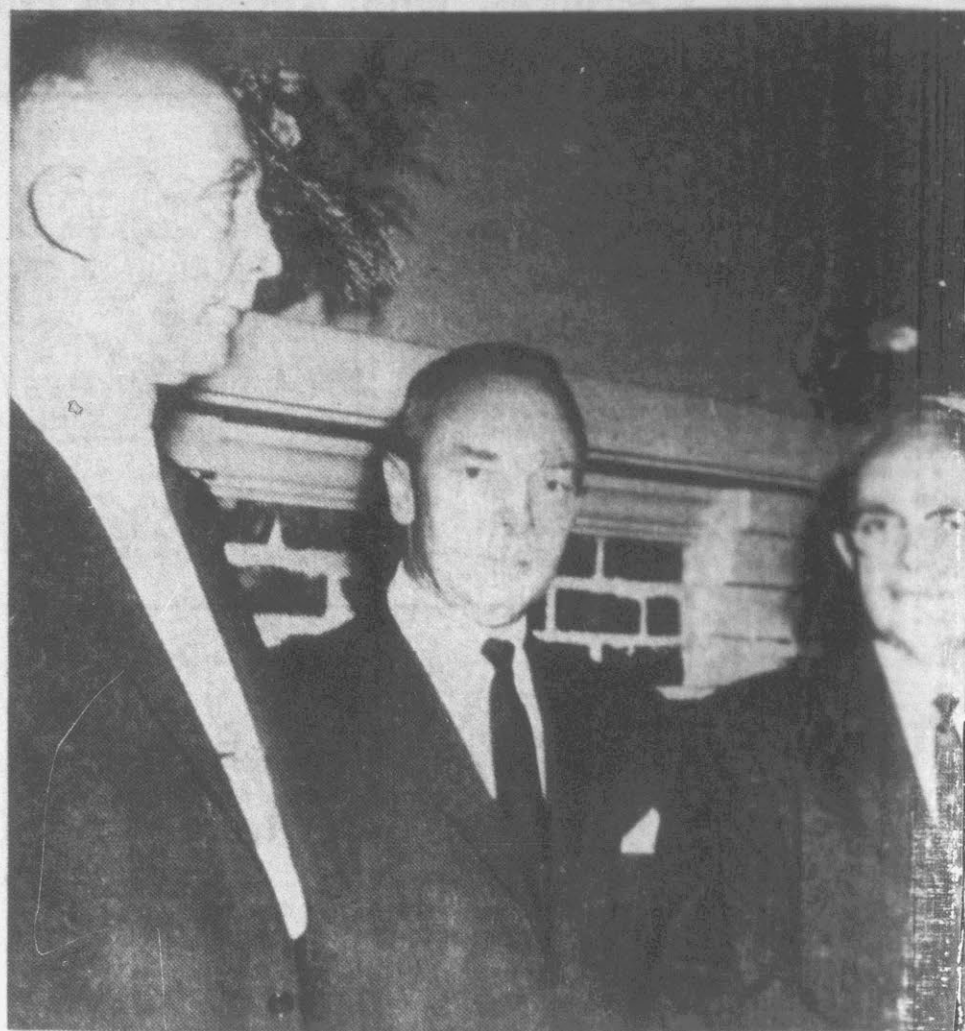

headquarters direct from an hour long talk with Gromyko on the work of the conference this week. Gromyko sought the discussion with Lloyd but declined to disclose whether he had made some new proposal.

Other points of difference between French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and the other Western ministers also are becoming apparent. French informants say their government is decidedly against holding a summit meeting in San Francisco because it should be in a neutral place like Geneva.

Lloyd has favored San Francisco — possibly because he thinks this would appeal to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and make a summit conference more certain. The United States is willing to agree on San Francisco if the others insist.

The Western camp also is divided on secret diplomacy. Herter and Lloyd want to go into small private meetings soon. Couve de Murville thinks the West should wait for the Russians to take the initiative for secret talks.

Town Irritated By FBI Probe Into Lynch Case

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Citizens in this south Mississippi sawmill town are showing open irritation today over the FBI's investigation of the Mack Charles Parker lynching.

Reports that the FBI was poised to arrest seven men over the weekend in connection with the lynching failed to materialize.

Tension was heightened Sunday when one man was hospitalized for a cerebral hemorrhage a few hours after FBI agents questioned him.

Another man, J. F. Lee Jr., said agents questioned him and his wife twice and followed him more than a week.

J. P. Walker, a reported candidate for sheriff, said he would not submit to more questioning "unless they issue a warrant for me."

Arthur E. Smith, 32, a stump hauler and tractor driver from nearby McNeill, was hospitalized in undetermined condition after the cerebral hemorrhage.

A physician said he ordered Smith to the hospital Saturday night and described the attack as "caused by high blood pressure brought on by extreme nervousness and tension."

The FBI declined to comment. Cecil Smith, one of the stricken man's brothers, said FBI agents took Arthur from his home May 10, questioned him in Bogalusa, La., where Parker's body was found in the Pearl River.

For the next five days, Cecil Smith said, agents maintained a continuous watch on his brother from a car parked near his home. They questioned him again later in the week and again Saturday afternoon. A few hours later Arthur suffered the attack.

The agents apparently interrogated Arthur Smith about his whereabouts at the time 8 or 10 hooded men dragged Parker from his Poplarville jail cell into a car. The April 25 mob action came two days before Parker's scheduled trial on charges of raping a pregnant white housewife.

Union Protests Sending Guard To Curb Violence

DETROIT (AP)—The Michigan state AFL-CIO says it has sent a protest to President Eisenhower against the use of National Guard troops in a strike of workers at the Harriet - Henderson Cotton Mills at Henderson, N.C.

August Scholle, president of the 750,000 - member labor group, reported he wrote Eisenhower that "the use of federally supported troops to deny the legitimate aims of workers to improve themselves is repugnant to our Democratic concept."

Scholle said he sent a similar protest to North Carolina Gov. Luther H. Hodges who ordered Guard units to the mills earlier this month after several outbursts of violence in the six-months-old strike.

Workers at the mills, members of the Textile Workers Union of America, went on strike last Nov. 17 over a disagreement concerning an arbitration clause.

TENTH GRANDCHILD

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's youngest daughter Mary — wife of War Minister Christopher Soames — gave birth to a son today. He is Sir Winston's 10th grandchild.

CHICAGO (AP) — At least 119 persons were injured, two seriously, today in a head-tail collision of two jammed rush-hour elevated trains carrying riders to downtown Chicago.

The impact telescoped a four-foot section of the Logan Square trains and threw standing passengers to the floor like tinpins.

Scores were treated at the scene. Others were taken to hospitals for treatment or examination.

The collision of the two six-coach trains of all steel construction occurred when the first train stopped after leaving a station and was rammed by the second.

A passenger, Jerry Rogus, was in the rear car of the train that was hit. He said he turned his head and saw the other train approaching.

"One girl who had been standing near me started screaming for her mother. 'God help me,' she cried. Her leg was cut off near the bottom. Then there was a Japanese man. His arm was cut and he was bleeding from the mouth."

Ronald Nowok, a passenger on the train that rammed the second said "Everything went black" upon impact. He said a side door in his car flew open, a woman beside him fell backward and he hit his head on a seat.

Witnesses said passengers in the rear car of the standing train ran forward to the other cars while those in the front car of the rear train tried to crowd into the rear cars.

Passengers in elevated trains can step from car to car through front-rear exits.

The crash occurred at 1800 Milwaukee Ave., at the highest point of the northwest elevated route and between the Damen and Western avenue stations. The El structure there is as high as a three-story building.

The motorman of the rear train, Dominick Paris, was trapped in his cab for more than a half hour. He complained of a leg injury but was able to walk unaided.

Passengers said the rear train had just pulled away from the Western avenue station and was traveling slowly when the collision occurred. The first coach of the second train telescoped about four feet.

Frank Thielmann, second deputy fire marshal in charge of rescue operations, estimated a total of 800 passengers were on the two trains.

Paris, freed from his cab by firemen using portable electric saws, told police and newsmen he had pulled away from the station about 8:18 or 8:20 a.m. when "a train stalled in front of me and I came up behind it." He said he couldn't estimate his speed because the straight stretch of tracks at the scene had no signals.

There was no immediate explanation of why the first train stopped.

A spokesman at St. Elizabeth said the number of injured brought there was "at least 92 and probably more."

St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital said 27 injured were brought there but none was believed in serious condition.

Troop Rotation

RALEIGH (AP) — National Guard troops will be rotated on duty at Henderson, where they have been given the job of preserving order in connection with a long and bitter textile strike.

"I would not leave one task force on duty over-long," Adj. Gen. Capus Waynick said today.

"It would not be fair to the men or to their employers."

Just how long each group of Guardsmen will serve has not been determined yet, Waynick said. He indicated the point would be taken up today at a conference with Col. B. A. Peterson of Ahsokie, in command of Guard forces at Henderson. Peterson was to come to Raleigh to talk with Waynick.

The cost to the state of keeping the Guard at Henderson has not yet been worked out to a definite daily figure, Waynick said. However, he added, "It looks like it won't be quite as big a figure as I had first given the governor."

Army, Air Force Exercise Slated

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — The Army and Air Force combine Saturday in a 16-day training exercise which is a thinly disguised tactical study of the problems of the Middle East. It will test the "brush fire war" capabilities of Strategic Army Corp troops.

Air Force Reservists and Air National Guardsmen from 27 states, the largest such contingent to participate in an exercise since the Korean War, will join the maneuvers.

The exercise, called "Dark Cloud-Pine Cone II," begins Saturday and ends June 6. It will involve troops from Ft. Bragg; Ft. Benning and Ft. Gordon in Georgia; and Ft. Eustis, Va.

An air striking force, made up of Air National Guard and Tactical Air Command fighters and reconnaissance aircraft, will deploy to airfields in North Saluda, with some Air National Guard units taking stations at Kanawha Air National Guard Base, Charleston, W.Va.

After ground action, parachute assaults and air strikes in the Strip, the United States orders a massive airborne assault aimed at destroying or repelling the enemy force and re-establishing North Saladian control.

MARTINS IN PILEUP

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Three cars piled up Sunday night on the Martindale-Hinkletown road near Martindale. The drivers were Lewis Martin, Paul Martin and Clayton Martin. None is related. All escaped injury.

Gates Picked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas S. Gates Jr., retiring secretary of the Navy, was picked today to be the new deputy secretary of defense.

He will succeed the late Donald A. Quarles, who died earlier this month.

Gates had planned to return to private business at the end of this month. Instead President Eisenhower picked him to be the No. 2 man in the Defense Department.

The choice promptly touched off speculation as to whether Gates later this year will be named to succeed Neil H. McElroy as secretary of defense. Prior to Quarles' death 10 days ago, McElroy had said several times that he would like to resign by the end of this year.

The White House announced that Gates' formal nomination will go to the Senate later this week.

Mrs. Truman Is Operated Upon

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Mrs. Harry S. Truman underwent major surgery for an undisclosed ailment at Research Hospital today.

Her husband, former President Truman, was at the hospital as she was taken to the operating room at 8:20 a.m. (CST). The operation started at 9 a.m. with Dr. Wallace Graham, the Trumans' long-time family doctor, and his associate, Dr. Philip D. Reister, a general surgeon in charge. There was no indication how long surgery would last.

Tom Faulkner, hospital information officer, said doctors declined to disclose the exact nature of the surgery but commented: "They had her in here (the hospital) for a series of diagnostic checks and decided as long as she was in the hospital they would perform this surgery today."

Truman declined to see either newsmen or photographers while he waited for the outcome of the operation.

Mrs. Truman's personal physician also declined to discuss the nature of the surgery.

Mrs. Truman, who was 74 last Feb. 13, entered the hospital Thursday. At that time, a member of the family said she would undergo a checkup to determine the cause of a series of colds she suffered during the winter.

She is in the same hospital where former President Truman underwent a gall bladder operation in 1954. He was a patient there 20 days.

Steel Parleys Resume Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Contract negotiations in the basic steel industry will be resumed here Tuesday after a recess since Friday.

Teams of negotiators for the 12 largest steel companies and the United Steelworkers Union are working against a deadline of June 30—expiration date of the current three-year contract.

The wage talks began May 5. If agreement on a new contract is not reached by June 30, there almost certainly would be a strike by 500,000 union members in the basic steel industry.

The union is seeking a wage increase, a cut in the 40-hour work week and other benefits. The basic wage is now $3.03 an hour.

ICEBERG MENACE

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — About 200 icebergs are adrift in the North Atlantic east of Newfoundland, scattered across the normal transatlantic route out of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Canada's ice forecasting center today warned shipping to use a route 150 miles south of the usual course.

Warehousemen To Outlaw C

By JIMMY ELLIS

Eastern North Carolina tobacco warehousemen this morning unanimously endorsed legislation which would outlaw the sale and use of maleic hydrazide (MH-30) in tobacco sucker control.

The endorsement came at the annual meeting of the Eastern Carolina Warehouse Association here. It was adopted by a standing vote of about 100 delegates to the meeting who also directed that copies of the resolution be sent to all members of the General Assembly where the bill is now in the hands of the Senate Committee on Agriculture.

Action on the resolution came after the delegates heard from Lloyd T. Weeks, managing director of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Cooperative Corporation, and Fred S. Royster, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association. Both Weeks and Royster predicted adverse effects on the 1959 tobacco marketing situation if the measure is not passed.

Weeks predicted that continued use of MH-30 would affect foreign and domestic tobacco markets "as much or more than undesirable varieties (of tobacco)" which were outlawed after the 1957 growing season. Royster described use of the chemical as "probably the most serious problem we have faced in 10, 15 or 20 years."

Henderson Mills Instituting Third

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—Announcement of a starting date for a third shift at the two struck textile mills here is expected sometime this week.

John D. Cooper Jr., president of Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills, said Sunday he has what he considers enough employees lined up to start a third shift. Third shift plans are all set, he added, except for the starting date.

A second shift was started April 21 at the two mills, which reopened on a one-shift basis Feb. 16. The strike began last Nov. 17 after a disagreement over an arbitration clause. The company insisted that it be removed from a new contract.

Meanwhile, the calm which arrived on the scene with National Guard troops continued this morn-

Red China's Gu Island With O

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Red China turned its guns on little Matsu Island for the first time in two years Sunday, heightening Nationalist fears the Communists may be preparing a new crisis in the Formosa Strait.

A Nationalist officer and two of the soldiers were reported killed as the Reds lobbed over 444 shells at the offshore island group at the northern end of the Formosa Strait. The Nationalists said 32 Red shells hit Matsu, 112 landed on near Peikantang Island and 170 dropped into the sea.

The barrage reportedly destroyed six civilian homes on the island. The nationalist Defense Min-

In 1787 Josiah Collins, prosperous Edenton merchant, founded "Somerset Place" on the shore of Lake Phelps. Two years later "Bonarva" was established by the first Bishop Elect of the Episcopal Church (in N. C.), Charles Pettigrew. Parts of those old plantations comprise the Pettigrew State Park.

The Mansion House built by Josiah Collins III in the 1830's stands at junction of the Canal and Lake. Still standing are the outbuildings (kitchen, dairy, smoke house, etc.) Other sites are designated by markers. The carriage drive along the lake shore is lined with sycamore and bald cypress. Across the canal was the race track—the trees that sheltered its pavilion still stand. The water road (canal) to Edenton and the outside is lined with cypress.

"Bonarva" is gone. It was destroyed by fire some time back. Four huge hickories mark the site.

This area is rich in history. Looking out of the study or office window in Mansion House you see what was once the garden area. What really grew there is a matter of conjecture. Mr. Tom Hamilton, State Park Ranger, has furnished a list of plants from which this garden might be rebuilt. The sketch shows a rectangular garden fenced in by a split picket fence. Blue grapes, suppersong grapes and honeysuckle are growing through the pickets. Inside the fence a brick walk leads to the Mansion House. This walk divides the garden into two areas (the Sun Dial area and the Dove Cote area). Along the brick wall grew an assortment of roses. Old World roses rich in legend, lending their beauty and usefulness to a new land. Names of distant places and climes (Scotch, Austrian, Persian, York and Lancaster, English Dog.)

In the Sun Dial area were beds of Sweet Lavender edged with Thyme. Beds splashed with violets, cowslip, columbine, oriental poppies, jonquils bordered with sage and hyssop.

Here were beds of plants useful in cookery and medicine (Anise, Wormwood, Caraway, Garden Bur-net, Horehound, Rosemary, Sweet Majoram.)

To the Ante Bellum planter a garden had to consist of plants for many uses. Flavor for his table, medicine for his sick, touch-up for his liquor and beauty for his eyes. In the days before air wick a pottipuri of roses to sweeten up a room must have been a blessing.

In the Dove Cote area were neat borders of box wood. Over against the fence were groupings of Acornite, Poets Narcissus, Snowdrops, Feverfew, Larkspur, Sweet William and many others. Plants whose names have a tinge of nostalgia and memories (Lavender, Cotton, Sweet Basil, Honesty, Jupiter's Beard, Wall Flowers, Mock Orange.)

Mingling with this profusion of color were the shrubs (Sweet Bay, Russian Olive, Quince, Barberry, Lilac, Winter Jasmine growing in the borders, and outside the fence are flowering trees (Cherry, Peach, Hawthorne, Mimosa, Golden Chain, Mulberry, Smoke Tree, Crape Myrtle.)

The Job Someone Had To Perform

Restoring law and order in Henderson, bringing an end to the violence in connection with the strike, was a job someone had to do.

After the Highway Patrol was pulled out the job fell the lot of National Guardsmen from a number of communities in Eastern North Carolina.

These National Guardsmen who have restored law and order to the strike-torn community of Henderson deserve the commendation of all the citizens of North Carolina.

The guardsmen are not in Henderson because of any choice of their own. They are there because they were ordered there to do a job. They are there because they are men who stand ready to render assistance in case of emergency anywhere in the state when they are directed to do so.

Of the 300 to 400 Guardsmen in Henderson, there is probably not a one to whom the tour of duty in Henderson does not represent appreciable personal sacrifice. They are being paid their regularly prescribed Guard pay according to their rank, and to most of them this represents a sacrifice in income. Many of them are doubtlessly worried about returning to their jobs when they get back home, simply because they do not know how long they will be in Henderson.

Some of them know their employers cannot hold open indefinitely for them the jobs they left behind when they were ordered to Henderson. Others of them, called from their farms when the crops are being planted and need close attention, know full well that because they are gone things on the farm are not being taken care of as well as they should be.

For most of the men, the tour of duty in Henderson means being away from their families for an indefinite period. They miss their wives, their children, their homes, and probably worst of all they do not know how long they will be gone.

To say the very least, the calling of the National Guard to Henderson in order to restore and maintain law and order, has worked severe hardships on these civilian soldiers. And yet, in their dedication to duty, they have taken the hardships in stride and they have gone about their assigned task with efficiency and determination.

Individually and collectively, these National Guardsmen are to be commended for their willingness to make personal sacrifices in order to protect the lives and property of the people of a community of their state. They may be the object of scorn and criticism from some sources, but by and large they have the respect, the admiration and the appreciation of the people of North Carolina for shouldering the responsibilities which have been thrust upon them.

For The Time Being, The Plan Not Wanted

Gov. Hodges may be entirely correct in his prediction that sooner or later his proposal of an incentive system for raising local support of county schools must be adopted by North Carolina.

For the time being, however, legislators have indicated their feeling that the proposed incentive plan would work to widen difference of public education standards in the rich and poor counties, and at the same time put a greater financial responsibility for schools on the counties rather than the state.

Most North Carolinians know full well that an increasing amount of money will have to go into our public school programs . . . both from local governments and from the state government. At the same time the majority of the people of the state seem to feel that the primary burden for public education should not be shifted from the state government to local governments.

If the state is to improve its public school system overall, it must improve the standards in its poorest public schools as well as the standards in its best public schools. The incentive program proposed by Gov. Hodges, in our opinion, would serve to improve the better systems where local governments are supporting their schools and can still do more, while the poorer systems of poorer counties would be denied additional state aid which they so desperately need.

Though Gov. Hodges' incentive plan has been rejected—and rightly so—it may pave the way for a more logical program in the not too distant future which will better meet the needs of North Carolina for improving schools in its poorest as well as its richest counties.

Budget Battle In Public Eye

By RALPH ROBEY

After the election last November it was generally assumed that the present Congress would be relatively free of the laws it proposed and passed. The fear was based largely upon the number of so-called liberals elected, and the part labor unions played in these elections. It still is much too early to draw final conclusions on the record of this Congress, but with the session about half over it must be recognized that up to this time much less questionable legislation has been passed than had been anticipated. It also is worth speculating on the reasons for this better than expected history.

Perhaps the most important single influence in the behavior of the Congress has been the decision of the Administration to make a fight for a balanced budget. This was not an idle threat. It has been an active and persistent fight, with few holds barred, and with many members of the Executive branch, as well as many Congressmen, openly participating.

Budget Becoming Budget Conscious

This battle of the budget has caught on from one end of the nation to the other. Tens of thousands of letters have been received by Members of the Congress from the public at large, and both Senators and Representatives have become conscious that the charge of financial irresponsibility would be a serious political handicap.

The threat of presidential vetoes on bills appreciably above the budget request for funds also has played a part. To date there has been only one veto: that of the Rural Electrification Administration bill, and the question of funds was not involved in that measure. The bill was regarded as a direct slap at Secretary of Agriculture Benson, and the veto was sustained in the House. This was a major victory for the President and has led to the feeling that it will not be possible to over-ride a veto on major spending bills.

A second important factor in keeping the Congress reasonable has been the leadership. Both Representative Rayburn and Senator Johnson appear determined to prevent a general showdown fight with the White House. Several bills which go far beyond budget requests have been passed by one or the other of the two legislative branches, but none has yet been completed. It is the gossip around Washington that the delay is caused by a desire to reduce the proposed spending to an amount so little above the budget request that it will be difficult and embarrassing for the President to veto. Presumably if this strategy worked on the first bill, one after another of the other bills could then follow, each one perhaps exceeding the budget request by a bit more, and the battle of the budget would be lost by the Administration.

A third factor is a growing sensitivity on the part of many Members of the Congress to the charge that they are controlled by labor. This does not mean that labor has no influence. There are more members of this Congress who were helped in their campaigns by labor unions than ever before in our history. But more and more Representatives and Senators rebel at the idea that they are told what to do by labor. Presumably this is a result of their growing conviction that being known as a labor stooge is a political liability in many localities.

Influence of Unemployment on Congress

Finally, among the broad factors tending to keep the Congress on a reasonable course, is the continued business recovery. Unemployment serves as a good example. The peak for this year was 4,700,000. That was in both

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE COMMAND TO WITNESS

It is amazing as we read the Bible to discover that Jesus left the world without providing much of an organization to continue His work and teachings. To be sure, He left twelve apostles. They were the nucleus about whom all future effort was to be carried off. The church that He left was not the highly organized body we know today. It was just a group of consecrated, set-aside people.

One of the most amazing statements our Lord ever made was what the Book of Acts tells us was His last statement, "Ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." (Acts 1:8). Not a word about ways and means or organization. Just a group to go out and witness.

And it was while this witnessing went on during the first three Christian centuries that the church had a vigor and a rich faith greater even than it has ever had since. Neighbors witnessed to neighbors, merchants to fellow merchants, travelers to other travelers. The word grew and multiplied through witnessing. The church is highly organized today, but it is not the witnessing body it should be. We serve the Lord best by being witnessing followers of His wherever we happen to be.

Today's Oddity Almanac

NEW YORK (AP) — The Oddity Almanac:

What do people lie about most — their age, their weight or their height? My opinion is, based on my experience as a reporter, that people actually lie most about their height. The majority would rather not discuss their real age or weight.

Is this true about you? Most people have heard about a lynx but they have never seen one. According to "Outdoor California" the average lynx weighs between 12 and 25 pounds.

What was your father's favorite song? "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen," sung so sweetly and so clearly and so memorably by that voice across the waters, Ireland's tenor — John McCormack, played on the old one-sided record, had the power to stir my father to tears. He liked to hear it all alone in a room without other noise, a problem in a crowded house.

What was your mother's favorite song? I never knew. It is my opinion that mothers hum an individual and nameless tune of their own, and make it up and change it as their life goes along. It is usually a croon of acceptance of life.

There is now available for more than $50,000 a 66-foot, 32-wheel vehicle that can carry up to 300 tons and requires a driver force and aft.

The drivers are connected by phone.

It is a commercial vehicle, basically, but it has family possibilities. A back-seat-driving wife, for example, might have to dial her husband to predict a corner. And if he saw a curve ahead and forgot to dial her — well,

Opinions In Brief

(Memphis Commercial Appeal)

Among the facts, figures and cartoons of the annual highway accident booklet of The Travelers Insurance Companies is a little comparison of unusual interest. It shows that turning left is about twice as dangerous as turning right.

Neither turn is of high importance. The overwhelming number of accidents involves cars going straight ahead. But last year an automobile turning right was involved in 840 deaths. There were 1,540 deaths involving a car turning left. In 1957 the figures were even stronger on the dangers of turning left. That year right-turning cars were involved in 1,080 deaths, and the deaths in which left turns had a part were 2,630.

In both years the non-fatal injuries were about three times as many in left-turn cases as in right turns. In other words, the life you save may be your own if you will think ahead to go the right-turn way.

"One of the more enduring and damaging illusions of the times is that federal aid to states and cities and other local governments is somehow 'free'—that it really provides us with something for nothing. Economists Fred G. Clark and Richard Stanton Rimanoczy of the American Economic Foundation clearly and simply show the hole in that kind of reasoning by citing two prime principles of economics. First: 'nothing in our economic life comes from nowhere or goes nowhere; there is always a source and a destination.' Second: 'Government cannot give the people anything that it does not take from them.'"

Rocket Center Views

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — My last few days in Florida were spent at Cape Canaveral, which is located on the East Coast of Florida some 150 miles south of Jacksonville. From here the tests are being made of the various intercontinental missiles, by which World War III, if it ever comes, will be fought. I understand there are three other "proving grounds,"—in Alabama, in Arizona, and on the Pacific Coast.

LEADING CORPORATIONS PRODUCING MISSILES

These missiles are contracted for by the Department of Defense with various important corporations such as the Douglas Aircraft Company which builds the "Thor," the Northrop Aircraft Company which makes the "Snark," the Martin Company which builds the "Titan" and "Vanguard," General Dynamics' Convair division which constructs the "Atlas," Boeing Aircraft which is building the "Bomarc," and the Chrysler Corporation which makes the "Jupiter." These companies compete for the best engineers, metallurgists, and other scientists. Such specialists are not under the bureaucratic restrictions of government workers, hence can be paid higher salaries. The work is under the able direction of General Donald N. Yates.

I was much impressed with what I saw, including the launching of three of these missiles. They vary in length from twenty-five to sixty-five feet, each divided into three stages, and cost from $1 million to $1.5 million each. Of the three launched while I was there a section of one failed to ignite and only the first section went into the air. A second missile blew up into a thousand pieces. But the third was successfully launched and traveled 1500 miles, striking the ocean very close to its target.

TRACKING THESE GREAT MISSILES

While at Cape Canaveral, I was briefed, together with the Honorable Paul H. Spaak, Secretary General of NATO, by some of the more important officers on how these missiles are trained. (I was warned not to ask any questions.) The proving course was between Cape Canaveral and Ascension Island off the West Coast of Africa, which I saw on my trip last year. The course covers several islands in the Atlantic, between which are stationed U.S. ships. Thus, the missile is constantly in sight, so that not only can its speed be observed, but the nose cone can be located when it comes to the end of its mission. Within these comes are important data and the intricate machines which process such data and log the results. I am sure we will be able to build and put into production intercontinental missiles that will go over 1500 miles and hit a target with an accuracy of within one mile. They will be shipped to launching stations in Italy, France, England, Norway, and other nations, with the purpose of annihilating enemy cities within thirty minutes after the first nuclear missile or bomb fired at the U.S.

If Russia should decide to attack us, she would first attempt to destroy our launching bases in these friendly countries, after which she would perhaps destroy our ten largest cities. Even if twenty-million American citizens were killed within the first few hours of such an attack we would still have 150 million people left, with an underground system of communications and much of our transportation continuing to operate.

WHAT ABOUT THE ANTI-MISSILE MISSILES?

My great disappointment at Cape Canaveral was to learn that no anti-missile missiles have been perfected. Hence, though Russia, or the United States, or certain other countries, will soon be in a position to destroy, none of them now have the necessary means of defense against an enemy missile. Once in a while the engineers feel they are on the right track; but the targets which they use move very slowly compared with the speed of an enemy missile. My days at Cape Canaveral convince me of what I have said before,—that there will be no World War III until some country discovers and has in production a dependable anti-missile missile. Our Defense Department feels that our

Tax Cut Talk Isn't Very Serious

By ELMER ROESSNER

You'll hear a lot of income-tax cut talk after Congress adjourns. Don't take it seriously. This is why:

Taxes are the hottest political subject in the nation today and promises of a cut can be the most attractive lure possible. So every Congressman with the slightest hope of becoming the Presidential candidate of either party will be strongly tempted to come up with a tax plan. Not now, because it would be knocked in the head in the present Congress. But a little bit later, so it can be kept alive during the conventions.

ABANDON HOPE

Nothing much will come of these proposals. It is possible some minor trims will be made, but these will probably be offset by other minor rises.

as voters demand ever-increasing big brotherism by the Federal government.

The only way to cut rates would be to accept further inflation and inflation is a tax on savers, the pensioned and others least able to bear the burden.

MORE LOOK-AHEADS

Here are more estimates of the business future, based on bits and pieces of current developments, plus a little advance information:

Higher personal income. The total has been rising; the increase for the first half of this year will be in the neighborhood of $17 billion at annual rates. The rise in the second half may be slightly less, but it will still be sizable.

Higher textile prices. The textile industry, after its recent slump, is recovering fast. Good demand, plus higher wages, plus reduced inventories will mean prices about 7 per cent higher later this year.

Higher building costs. The upward push is underway. Lumber is $11 a thousand feet over last year; green two-by-fours are $80 thousand feet, which is $8 more than a month ago and $21 higher than a year ago; building materials generally are 2 per cent higher than last year; hourly wages are up 4 per cent and further rises are due later this year under existing contracts.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

Smaller motors. The development of ferrites, certain magnetic materials, will result in smaller electric motors. One, called Ferramic S-6 is said to enable the manufacture of motors half present sizes and weights. The material can also be used to inverters to convert 60-cycle house current into frequencies of from 400 to 10,000 cycles.

Plastic toothpaste tubes. So far the consistency of toothpaste has had to be altered for use in plastic. Now a method of lining plastic tubes has been developed. Several dentifrice companies are interested and paste in plastic tubes may appear later this year.

OLD PROMOTER WANTS ONE COIN FOR ALL SLOTS

The following note has been received from the Old Promoter:

"Fare boxes, phone boxes, parking meters and vending machines are requiring increasing complicated coin deposits. Some take tokens, some take nickels, some take dimes, some take quarters. Some require certain combinations; some give change; some don't. People are being ticketed every day because while they have coins, none of them will fit in a parking meter. Let's solve this by making all slots the same size to fit a new coin. In view of the inflationary trend, this new coin could be worth 25 cents and be called the 'dollar.'"

With Farm Women

By MAIDRED MORRIS
(Items this week from: Burke, Wake, Randolph, Pamlico, Pender, and Watauga Counties)

Modern Money Manners

"No family budget is ever really successful unless everybody in the family agrees that it is a good budget," said Mrs. Evelyn Watson, home economics agent in Burke County at recent Home Demonstration Club meetings.

Mrs. J. P. Hatley said that she thought she was a good money manager until she heard the discussion where she received information that would make her job as "money manager" easier.

Sewing Techniques

Mrs. Dallas Sears of Wake County recently made a suit which cost only $15; it would have compared favorably with a $65 suit she might have purchased.

According to Mrs. Myrtle Swicegood, home economics agent, many county Home Demonstration Club women have exhibited improvements in hand-made garments. Improved belts, belt carriers, zippers, interfacing, and sleeves have been noticed. Good sewing techniques give garments the hand-made look, not the home-made look.

Glamorized Beans

One groceryman in Randolph County wondered why there was a sudden rush on dried beans. He later found that there had been a demonstration in the county on "Cooking Dried Beans and Peas."

Miss Rose Badgett, home economics agent, says that the Home Demonstration Club women were delighted with the dishes prepared using dried beans and were calling for additional recipe leaflets. Mrs. Hal Luther said she never knew dried beans tasted so good. Economy in using dried beans in the menu was emphasized.

Fabric Finishes

"More than just fiber goes into making cloth," said Mrs. Thelma McCotter, home economics agent in Pamlico County. New finishes are important to consider when buying material.

Such fabric finishes as "wash and wear," "minimum care," "moth-," and "water-repellent," "wrinkle resistant," and "hygienic" were discussed.

The club women were urged to study the various finishes and labels when buying material. All ways study the label because it tells about the "fabric's hidden service."

Buying Meats

"What do you know about buying meat?" According to Mrs. Emily Johnson, home economics agent, the Home Demonstration Club women in Pender County now realize the variety of meat that is available.

There was a study of the various animal types, grades, cuts and prices.

Preparation of meats was emphasized. Dry heat, moist heat, and fat cooking were discussed as methods of preparation. It was pointed out that cheaper cuts are nutritious and good if prepared correctly.

Garden Month

Garden Month has recently been observed in Watauga County, according to Miss Jean Childers, home economics agent.

Home Demonstration Club member, Mrs. R. H. Harmon, was chairman of the event. Booklets were mimeographed in quantity for distribution in stores that sell seed and garden supplies, as well as at meetings throughout the county.

People throughout Watauga County were urged to plant varieties recommended for conserving—thus supplementing the grocery budget.

It's Easy To Live Alone

RALEIGH—Wanting to be liked is right and natural. It not only makes life happier for you, but for your family, your friends, and even the unknown persons you meet casually during the day.

Mrs. Corrine J. Grimsley, family relations specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says that the way "to be liked is to learn thoughtfulness of others."

"A graciousness and true courtesy is acquired by thinking of others and trying to understand why he feels and acts as he does."

The person who gets along with others, who wins their liking and respect, is sensitive to the feelings of other people," declares Mrs. Grimsley.

"Anyone can live alone! But it takes unselfishness, tolerance, helpfulness, kindness, and a sense of humor to live happily with others."

New David And Goliath Struggle As Iran Combats Red War Of Nerves

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

January and February, and of course it is a high figure. But 5 million is the trigger figure on unemployment and fortunately we did not reach that number. Had unemployment hit that level there is little doubt that the Congress would have gone pretty wild in passing spending bills. Now recovery is so general and is continuing so strongly that obviously there is no reason for increased government spending to aid employment or business or economic growth.
As stated earlier it still is too early to draw conclusions on the record of this Congress. The legislative hoppers are full of proposals that are not in the public interest, and extensive hearings have been held or are planned on many of these.
But to date few of these have been passed by even one branch of the Congress, and if the public keeps letting the Congress know what it thinks about such measures it should be possible to prevent any of these proposals from becoming law.

Iran seems to have a better than even chance of keeping its giant Soviet neighbor at bay.
Backed by massive United States economic and military support, Iran is stronger now than at any time since the cold war began.

A tour of the Kurdish area in the northwest tends to ease fears that the Soviets might try to use it as a corridor to Communist-influenced Iraq. The Kurds in the area are bitterly anti-Communist. Inside the country the Communist Tudeh Party, although one of the strongest organized political forces, seems to have been crippled. Many of its members have fled the country. Others have been disillusioned with Moscow. The party now seems to have little real hold on any substantial segment of the population.

Neighboring Iraq's drift toward Communism is considered by many in Iran to be a greater problem than that of Moscow pressure itself.

With the Iraqi revolution last July, Moscow apparently decided the decisive moment had arrived to break the Baghdad Pact and the West's northern tier linking Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan in a defense chain.
The Soviets made important concessions to Iran. But when the prospect arose of Iran's signing a bilateral defense agreement with the United States, the Soviets rolled out their big propaganda guns for a heavy attack on Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Both honey and threats failed. Iran signed the treaty, and Moscow's predictions of dire consequences failed to materialize. Moscow suffered a loss of prestige.

There's a strong feeling here that the Soviet Union will not move with force against Iran and risk World War III. Instead the Soviets seem to be pinning their hopes on propaganda, spreading rumors of internal Iranian trouble and hoping to stir any sort of political upheaval which could be exploited or pave the way for an attempt at a Tudeh comeback.

But if neighboring Iraq comes under total domination, by the Communists, in fact if not in name, there are a number of dangerous possibilities.

Iraq obviously could be a training ground and transmission belt for subversive elements and ex-engineers will be successful in producing such and we are now erecting stations around our large cities for firing such anti-missile missiles when they are perfected and in production.

There could be interference with the Shatt Al Arab Waterway, which leads from Abadan — site of Iran's huge oil refinery — to the Persian Gulf. At present it's the chief means of shipping Abadan's output and Iranian crude oil to the outside world. Oil is the backbone of Iran's economy.

Iraq administers the waterway. Years of effort failed to get agreement to internationalize the control, even when Iran was a partner of Iraq in the Baghdad Pact.

Alert to the danger, Iran is seeking to make herself independent of the Shatt Al Arab. The government is talking about a pipeline from Abadan to the gulf and dock and harbor facilities.

Apart from external dangers, there are real internal ones. The Shah has emerged as a strong ruler. His determination and drive are behind a vast network of hopeful programs under way in Iran. But if anything should happen to the ruler his program might be crippled and there also would be a strong possibility of internal political chaos. However, the Shah seems confi-

Patrons Mobbed Gunman During Hold-Up Effort

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bar patrons mobbed an armed bandit and beat him senseless after he killed one man and critically wounded another man who tried to stop him.

James A. Cathey, 27, was battered with bottles, fists and his own gun Sunday. Police said most of the 30 persons in the bar were pounding Cathey when they arrived.

The gunman's left ear was partly ripped off, his head was cut in several places and his eyes were swollen shut.

Police said Jose Lara, 21, was shot to death and Paul Merchain, 30, was wounded when they jumped Cathey after he took $150 from the bar's cash register.

A third bullet struck Ceferino Rodriguez, 30, in the back during the melee. The wound was not serious.

Police said Cathey was released from a California mental hospital three weeks ago and that he had killed a fellow prisoner while serving a prison sentence in Arizona.

Cantor Sobs As Daughter Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Eddie Cantor joked about his five daughters, because he wanted a son.

But when his first-born, Marjorie, died Sunday the little comedian broke down and sobbed so hard a physician had to put him to sleep.

Cantor, 67, has heart trouble. The news was not exactly a shock to Eddie. He had known, ever since she entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital March 25 — her second visit there in a year — that Marjorie was dying of cancer.

Marjorie, 44, and unmarried, had never sought to share her father's limelight. But she was famous, she and her four sisters, because Eddie made them real to the millions in his radio and TV audiences.

There was a time when, publicly, Eddie was going to fire his wife Ida. Then he was going to see what kind of a trade he could make with Bing Crosby for one or more of his four boys.

But those were only public jokes, to draw him closer to his fans. His daughters understood and took the joking with good nature.

The jibes were never repeated in family talk because Eddie didn't mean them. He loved his daughters deeply.

Marjorie's four sisters, Natalie, Edna, Marilyn and Janet, were at her bedside when she died.

She had been ill two years but the sisters kept the gravity of the disease from their ailing parents until Marjorie was hospitalized for the last time.

Modern KOHLER Plumbing Fixtures Add Utility & Beauty To Your Home

BEFORE AND AFTER: Before remodeling, the bathroom looked old, without comfort or convenience. The old-style tub little difficult to get into, difficult to clean under and around. Little storage room was available.

WHEN REMODELED—the same bathroom takes on an entirely new look. A new vanity, countertop lavatory, bathtub-shower combination, new tile, etc.—all stress comfort, convenience and ease-of-up-keep.

To make a small bathroom seem larger, color can help. Replace white fixtures with new color fixtures that blend with the rest of the room. Pastel colors will make the room look larger and brighter. An over-sized wall mirror above the lavatory seems to double the room size while providing extra convenience for grooming.

Bucs Wrap It Up; Crumple Apps 14-2

Sports Scope

by Johnny Hudson

East Carolina College's baseball team completed their most successful season in the school's history this past Saturday night as they bowed out like champs in ousting Appalachian 14-2.

Coach Jim Mallory can now join the select few who have guided a team to an undefeated season in the North State Conference. Mallory has had some great teams since entering the coaching field but his 15-1 record at Elon in 1952 was the closest he came to an undefeated mark. He has had a couple of championships at ECC but as far as the records go, this is his best.

Texas Bound

The next stop for the Pirates will be Alpine, Texas and the NAIA. This is the third year of the NAIA tournament and for ECC it will be their first in the finals. Elon represented this district last year. East Carolina has not been assured of a bid as of yet but have the best mark in the district. Coach Mallory was expected to receive some word from district officials this week.

The trip to Texas will be an expensive one and the ECC budget does not call for such a journey. Mallory has been tinkering around with the idea of playing a benefit game this weekend in order to raise the money. The Pirate head tutor stated that he hates to have to beg for the money.

The club has been rated as the best in the school's history and should give a good account of themselves in the NAIA Tournament. The tournament will be made up of eight teams and it will be a double-elimination affair.

Scouts Offer Problem

An interesting note about this year's club is the fact that it has only three seniors—Al Vaughn, Ben Baker and Doug Watts.

The club should be just as strong or stronger next season and for several years to come. Pro scouts have been on hand for most of the home games this spring and Alpine is expected to be full of them.

Coach Mallory has lost some outstanding performers in the past to the pro ranks. In most cases, the scouts have been too anxious and signed the boys too early. Four years of college ball is good for the athlete and then he still has plenty of time for pro ball.

The East Carolina club is one with plenty of balance and if the players continue to improve their limit is wide open. There are several boys on the club with real good pro potential. Although a pro contract is usually very attractive, a boy can't go wrong in finishing his education and playing in a college league.

Crowd Is Slim

Considering the fact that East Carolina was the North State Champion, it was surprising that another capacity crowd didn't show up this weekend for the Pirate's series with Appalachian.

With free tickets available, a large crowd saw the Elon-ECC game and went away satisfied with the evening of baseball.

Although interest in baseball is still high, it seems that the diamond sport has definitely declined on the local level. Five or six years back even a loser would draw a good crowd at Guy Smith Stadium but with TV, new cars, and many other new things active in our community, baseball has had to take a back seat as far as attendance is concerned.

This week it will be necessary for the community and this area to support the Pirates if they make the trip to Texas.

Mallory hopes to bring Carolina into town for the benefit game. It will be a real "natural" as a drawing card. UNC edged out the Bucs 4-2 this season and have gone on to gain a tie for the ACC crown. Both teams finished the season strong.

New Softball League

W. C. James has the Little Leagues, Church Softball, and Industrial Softball underway now and is working toward a new league in Greenville. It is the possibility of a Women's Softball League.

James points out that one game was played last year and drew plenty of attention. Interest has been shown this year and a new league may be in the embryonic stage.

Women's softball has been very successful in other towns the size of Greenville and there is no reason that it won't receive a big acceptance here.

East Carolina College finished up their finest season of baseball, here, Saturday night by downing a game but outmanned Appalachian club, 14-2.

Coach Jim Mallory emptied the bench as the Pirates became the first club in the school's history to win the North State title with an undefeated mark and also one of the few teams to win the title by an unblemished mark.

Johnny Ellen, a young right-hander, got credit for East Carolina's final win and their fourteenth in succession. The Garner freshman opened the game in repetitious form to Larry Crayton's record-breaking performance the previous night. The slender right-hander struck out the side in the first two innings and had a no-hitter going until the top half of the fifth.

Ellen finished the night with eleven strikeouts and allowed only five hits. It was his fourth victory of the season against two defeats.

The game was a slow one and lasted over three hours as the Apps sent a parade of pitchers to the mound in an attempt to stop the ECC offensive show.

The attempt was in vain as the Bucs banged out sixteen hits and scored three runs in the initial inning to put the game on ice. Leading 5-0, ECC came up with seven runs in the fifth inning to send most of the partial fans home in time to watch their favorite TV westerns.

The final three frames saw the ECC reserves add two more runs to the already comfortable lead.

Vaughn Hits Safely

Al Vaughn, All-Conference second baseman, hit safely in his eleventh straight game in the first inning to drive in two runs and push the Pirates out front. Jerry Carpenter drew a walk and Jimmy Martin singled to open the inning. Gary Pierce hit a double play ball which was error by Dave Pearce, allowing Carpenter to score the first run. Glenn Bass was hit by a pitched ball to load the bases and set the stage for Vaughn's two run single.

Vaughn opened the third inning with his second hit by slamming a single through the pitcher's box. Johnny Ellen proved that pitchers can hit by driving a long fly to right-center field for a triple. The ball reached the softball area on the fly and was claimed as one of the longest balls hit in Guy Smith Stadium.

Wally Cockrell followed Ellen with a long fly. Glenwood Wilson made a running catch of it but Ellen scooted across the plate from third.

ECC hit the third and fourth Appalachian hurlers as if they owned them in the fifth inning which saw eleven Pirates come to the plate.

Carpenter Homers

Gary Pierce, ECC's leading batter, got his lone hit of the night by leading off the inning with a triple. Wilbert Castellone walked and then Vaughn, Doug Watts, Ellen, and Cockrell collected back-to-back singles.

With two runners aboard, Jerry Carpenter became the first hitter to knock one out of the park this season as he sent the ball sailing high over the left field fence.

Carpenter's blast was the last of the inning as Jerry Green, the fourth hurler, finally retired the side.

Donnie Warren and Benny Parker, a couple of reserves, collected a couple of RBI's in the seventh inning as they climaxed the scoring. Parker scored Bob Meniffee on an infield grounder and Warren got a single to score Charles Johnson.

Appalachian took advantage of two ECC miscues in the fifth inning and a single by Glenwood Wilson to pick up their first run.

Another error and singles by Wilson and Dick Coster got them their final run in the seventh inning.

Bobby Dellinger was charged with the defeat which left the visitors winless on their eastern tour. Appalachian finished the season with a 3-13 mark in conference competition.

Women's League

All women interested in playing this summer should contact the Recreation Department for further information.

Some interest has already been shown by local women and work has been started toward the organization of such a league.

'Revenge' After 100-Years Wait

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — It took 100 years but Williams has wiped out a black spot on its athletic record.

Williams lost the first intercollegiate baseball game ever played, 73-32 in 26 innings, to Amherst in 1859.

They replayed it Saturday—using the same rules, equipment, and uniforms—with Williams claiming a 11-5 decision after six innings.

In 1859, players did not use gloves. The bat was about the size of a broom handle and the ball was a tiny, two-ounce affair.

The diamond was square, with the bases 60 feet apart. There were 13 men to a side. There was only one out to an inning. But there was no foul lines, so hits could be recorded back over the catchers head.

Clemson, UNC Clash On Neutral Field For Crown

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Left-handers Ty Cline of Clemson and Ben Harding of North Carolina will be the pitchers here tonight on a neutral field in the game for the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball championship.

It will be the second straight year the clubs have met in a playoff. Clemson won last year 4-1, and was successful also in the sectional, and went to the college World Series.

Cline has a 4-0 record and beat North Carolina 2-1 at Chapel Hill on April 24. North Carolina whipped Clemson 6-3 on April 6.

Harding has a 2-2 record and a 3.3 earned run average. He is a 6 foot 3 senior from Yadkinville, N.C.

Cline's ERA is 2.62, and he is a 6 foot sophomore from Charlottesville, S.C.

North Carolina's Tar Heels won the toss and will be the home club. They also drew a bye into the championship playoff after finishing in a three-way regular season tie with the Clemson Tigers and Wake Forest. The three clubs had 9-5 league records.

Clemson whipped Wake Forest 4-2 at Thomasville, N.C., Saturday night in the first playoff game.

The winner tonight will come back to participate in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) four-team sectional tournament here June 4-6. Other teams will be the Southern and Southeastern conference champions, and an at-large entry.

The sectional winner will be eligible for the NCAA College World Series beginning June 12 at Omaha, Neb. Clemson won its first game in the national tournament last year, and then lost the next two in double-elimination play.

Clemson Coach Bill Wilhelm, former assistant to Walter Rabb at North Carolina, has compiled a fine record in his two years at Clemson—22-8 last year and 19-6 this year.

The ACC season winds up today with the championship game, and an afternoon meeting between Virginia and Richmond of the Southern Conference at Charlottesville, Va.

The standings, conference games and all games:

Clemson 10-5, 19-6; North Carolina 9-5, 17-6; Wake Forest 9-6, 13-8; Maryland 7-6, 11-7; Virginia 6-9, 10-9; South Carolina 5-8, 10-11; North Carolina State 5-9, 9-11; Duke 5-9, 9-16.

Exchange, JCs Win In Little League Games

Little Leaguers got in their first doubleheader Saturday afternoon and the action at the Elm Street Park saw Exchange and the JC's emerge with big wins.

Kenneth Brown hurled Exchange to their opening win of the season as he pitched a two-hitter in spilling Moose, 5-1.

Exchange was able to collect only two hits but were able to bunch three walks and two errors for four runs in the first inning. Larry Taylor, the catcher, got both hits for the winners.

The JC's jumped off to a quick lead in the North State loop as they registered their second straight win with a narrow 3-2 victory over Texaco.

Charles Vincent hurled the distance for the JC's and aided his own cause with a double in the second inning. Mitchell Jones also had a two-bagger in the same inning as the winners pushed across two big runs.

Texaco had a rally going in the final inning but Vincent got out of the fire by allowing only one run.

League action continues this week with the following games scheduled:

'Spoiler' Benton Gets His Chance

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Unranked George Benton, a spoiler looking for a break to move him into boxing's big money class, gets his chance tonight against Bobby Boyd for whom defeat means smaller purses.

Boyd, 25, was knocked down to the 10th ranking position in the middleweight division after being stopped by Spider Webb in his last fight. Boyd's record is 51-1-3 against the best in the division.

Benton's slight favorite for the scheduled 10-round bout at the arena. Benton, a Philadelphian who celebrated his 26th birthday last week, has compiled a 37-4-1 record.

Just A Dot On Magnetic Tape

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next year you're going to be just a magnetic dot on a piece of tape somewhere in the Census Bureau. In the 1950 census you were a hole in a punched card. But that horse-and-buggy times compared to the gleaming new electronic brains the Census Bureau proudly showed off today.

On one of those the entire population of the United States can pass in review at the rate of about 2,000 persons per minute and come out tabulated by sex, race and age.

Punched cards still are used on small, special projects at the bureau in Suitland, Md., near Washington. But for the 1960 census it will be magnetic tape. The cards simply are too slow for the new computers.

The bureau has about 5 million dollars invested in computers and their auxiliary equipment and runs them just about 24 hours a day seven days a week.

The machines are just as perfect as perfect can be with human around, Morris Hansen, assistant census director, told a group of touring congressmen.

What about the woman who's always 29 years old? asked Rep. John Lesinski (D-Mich.).

"If this is a plausible answer for the woman that's the way she'll get tabulated," Hansen replied.

But a word of warning to the perennial 29er—if it isn't plausible, it's not.

the computer can figure that one out and reject it. In that case, you get assigned a plausible age, Hansen said.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

A NEW MYSTERY COUNT by A. A. FAIR [Erle Stanley Gardner]

CHAPTER 35

It was two-thirty when the police cars slid up on the place at 9611 Sixty-first Street.

One detail went around to the back of the house, and Frank Sellers and Thad Giddings went to the front.

After they'd been ringing the doorbell for a couple of minutes, a light came on inside the house and somebody inside the door said, "Who is it?"

"Police," Sellers said. "We have a search warrant. Open up."

"You've got nothing on us," the voice said.

"Open the door or we'll break it down," Sellers said.

The door opened.

The tall man was standing there in athletic underwear and he was big. He even loomed half a head above Sellers.

Giddings pushed me forward. "Ever see this guy before?" Sellers asked, directing a flashlight on the top of the porch so that both of our features were illuminated in a bounce light.

"I never saw the guy before in my life," the big man said, "and I don't intend to be rousted out at this hour of the night to answer questions. You guys can go roll your hoops. I'm clean, and—"

"Who says you're clean?" Sellers interrupted. "Is this the guy, Donald?"

"That's the guy," I said, with conviction.

"I never saw that little squirt in my life," the big man protested.

"Okay, Ferguson," Sellers told him. "We're coming in. We've got a warrant. Who else is in here with you?"

"No one."

About that time there was a commotion at the back and one of the men who had been detailed to watch the back door came in with a shorter individual who was wearing pants, shoes, coat and undershirt. He hadn't even stopped to put on a shirt.

"We caught this guy trying to sneak out the back," the officer said. "Look what he had in his coat pocket."

He held out a green jade Buddha with a flaming red ruby in the forehead.

The big man in the underwear cursed and tried to turn and run.

Sellers clipped him and the guy went down hard.

"Come on," Sellers said, "move in, we're taking the joint to pieces."

My wrist watch said it was a little after four.

I called a taxi and went to a Turkish bath, managed to get my clothes off, wrap up in a sheet and then limped down to the hotel.

It was a heavenly sensation to relax in the warm air and feel my muscles slowly soaking up the warmth and giving up the pain.

The attendant, who had been putting cold wet towels around the top of my head, came in with a glass of water and said, "There's a cop outside wants to see you; says his name is Sellers."

"Tell him to come in."

"He can't come in. He's dressed. He'd be sweating buckets inside of five minutes."

"Tell him I can't go out. I'd catch cold."

The attendant went away.

Within about five minutes, Frank Sellers came in, mad all the way through.

He took off his coat and necktie and threw them on a chair.

"Now look, Pint Size," Sellers said, "you've pulled a couple of mighty fast ones. I don't know how you did it, and I'm not going to try to find out because we're sitting pretty. We got the safe open and we've got confessions out of Ferguson and Jimmy Leonox. Mortimer Jasper has been one of the biggest fences in the country, operating with a choice clientele, picking up only the stuff for which he had a customer in advance, and operating right under our noses without our even suspecting what was going on."

"I'll forgive you a lot for that. But I have an idea you may be a paragraph ahead of us on the Crockett murder."

"Now, that's in my department. I can't afford to come a cropper on that. I want to know what you know, and then I'm going away and leave you alone."

I said, "You're too opinionated to have an open mind on that murder."

"No, I'm not," he said. "But I'll tell you one thing. The only place from which that dart could have been fired was Phyllis Crockett's studio. The only time it could have been fired was while Phyllis Crockett and Sylvia Hadley were in there together — and Sylvia Hadley saw the tip of that blowgun as Phyllis Crockett was aiming it from the washroom . . . You can get a first-degree murder conviction on that kind of evidence."

"Your premises are cockeyed," I said. "The dart couldn't have been fired from the studio."

"You're nuts, Donald," Sellers said angrily. "We took that blowgun and stood it up there in that closet, and there isn't a single place where you can stand and shoot a dart from that blowgun that would have landed in Crockett's chest — that's a five-foot, four-inch blowgun and—"

"What kind of rifling marks does it have?" I asked.

"What do you mean, rifling marks?" Sellers asked.

"So you can call in your ballistics department," I said. "You know, the way you do with a bullet."

"You're nuts," Sellers said. "There aren't any grooves in a blowgun."

I said, "Do you mean to stand there and tell me that you can't tell from the marks on a dart that it was fired from a particular blowgun?"

"Of course not."

"Then," I said, "how do you know the darts were fired from Crockett's blowgun?"

Sellers grabbed his handkerchief mopped his forehead, ran the handkerchief around the collar of his shirt and looked at me.

"Now, wait a minute, Donald," he said. "It stands to reason they had to come through that blowgun."

"Why does it stand to reason?"

"Well, blowguns aren't manufactured in mass production. Each one is an individual job in itself. Darts are made to fit a particular blowgun."

"Therefore you feel they had to be fired from that blowgun?"

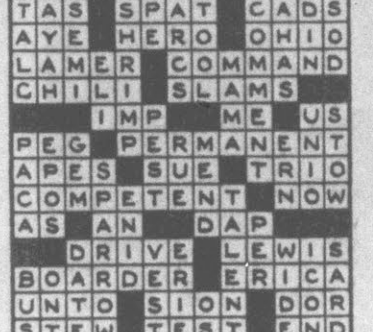

"Sure."

"Why?"

"Because they were made to fit the blowgun."

The Police Department reported 98.2% of their 122 cases for the month of April were cleared by arrests.

In March 1955 of their cases were cleared by arrests.

Police Chief S. G. Gibbs, in his monthly report of activity reported that police vehicles traveled a total of 12,933 miles patrolling the City of Greenville in April as compared to 14,063 miles in March. One hundred and ninety-one cases were investigated by officers, Gibbs added.

Gibbs said 40 traffic violations were recorded while 33 cases of drunkenness were reported.

The Chief also reported that nine arrests were made for other authorities, during April.

"Then," I said, "if darts were made to fit a blowgun, it should be possible to make a blowgun to fit the darts. The dart that was imbedded in the wood in that closet went in pretty deep."

"You think Mrs. Crockett blew it from across the light well in that apartment house?"

"She had to. It was the only place it could have come from. You take the angle of that and it points right back to the washroom window. There was no other place it could possibly have come from."

"Well," I said, "before you rule out the impossibilities, you should consider the possibilities. Now, have you taken one of these darts and tried blowing it through that blowgun and see how deep you can penetrate the wood with the dart?"

The mystery comes to an end here tomorrow. Don't miss the last chapter.

THEY GASPED AT JAYNE'S GOWN—Actress Jayne Mansfield brought gasps from first nighters at the Tropicana Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev., with her appearance in this gown. It is made of sheer nylon with a few strategically-placed spangles and a swatch of peticotea dangling from her knees. Jayne said she designed it herself. (AP Wirephoto)

Photographed If Ask A Question

By EDDY GILMORE
GENEVA (AP) — As all the world perhaps knows, reporters are not sitting in on the Foreign Ministers Conference. Newsmen get their information secondhand, from spokesmen for the four powers known as briefing officers.

The Western briefings are pretty much routine. The Soviet briefings are something like a film test. Reporters get shot from every angle.

For some reason, Soviet and east European photographers take far more pictures of correspondents than they do of the Soviet delegation's official spokesman, Mikhail Karlamov.

Even when the Soviets produced such a diplomatic star as Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin at a press briefing their cameras switched from correspondent to correspondent.

The Soviet briefings take place on the second floor of the press center. The room is huge, high ceilinged and well lighted. Flood lights play over the big audience of journalists from all over the world.

Ask Karlamov a question and you're nearly always shot. Or, just sit there and take notes and you'll find a movie cameraman training his lens on you.

One Western reporter asked one of the Soviets why they seem so preoccupied with taking pictures of newsmen.

"Just part of the job," was the laconic reply.

Physicists Say Ventures Into Future Sure To Be Expensive

WASHINGTON (AP)—New ventures behind the curtain of the future can be counted on to be surprising — fantastic — and expensive.

That's the word today from a team of physicists who have been putting together some notes on the mysteries of the universe.

They are keenly interested, in particular, in what might come from a Proposed Federal Program in Support of High Energy Accelerator Physics.

Don't let that imposing title throw you. These scientists, in 8,000 words of material issued by the White House during the week-end, use language that every once in a while verges on simple eloquence.

For example, in a discussion of how man's mind has been able to comprehend more and more, step by step in patient research:

"We are peeling an onion layer by layer, each layer uncovering in a sense another universe, unexpected, complicated, and — as we understand more — strangely beautiful."

Basically, these men are seeking more federal money for particle accelerators, or atom smashers.

Over the next four years, by 1963, they want the government to raise from 59 million dollars to 135 millions the amount it spends each year on atom smashers.

Even before their report was made public, President Eisenhower backed one of the detailed projects they suggested. In a New York speech last week, he said he would ask Congress to finance a 100 million dollar project proposed by Stanford University. It is a linear accelerator two miles long, and would be the most powerful of its kind in the world.

The proposal came from two groups of scientists, one a special panel from Eisenhower's Science Advisory Committee, and the other the General Advisory Committee to the Atomic Energy Commission.

They made a tantalizing sales pitch:

"The practical results that must derive from continued exploration with larger accelerators cannot be guessed.

"If the past is a guide they will be numerous and fantastic.

"The one thing that we have learned to expect from nature is to be surprised."

They made no promises of specific discoveries for the future, but commented "examples from the past are countless."

Almost diffidently, they brought up the matter of cost:

"Experimentation in high energy physics requires expensive devices to accelerate particles to the desired energy, expensive instruments to measure and control particles traveling at speeds approaching the velocity of light, and large numbers of scientific and technical personnel.

"Thus, not only the construction of these high energy accelerators, but also their utilization require the expenditures of large sums of money."

Aussie Beauty Wants See Koala

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joy Lightly, Perth beauty queen arriving from Australia aboard the liner Orca Sunday, told reporters she never had seen a koala.

"The first thing I want to do here is visit your koalas at your zoo."

The koalas, recently arrived from their native Australia, have been a top attraction at the zoo in Golden Gate Park.

On Sunday, Boys Did No Wrong

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Nine boys, four of them brothers, have been accused of vandalizing four schools in five days. They said they took Sunday off "because we don't do anything wrong on Sunday."

The damage was done, at the rate of one school a day, between Thursday, May 7, and last Monday. The havoc at one school was so bad classes were cancelled the following day.

The boys were arrested at their homes Sunday and charged with burglary, larceny and receiving stolen goods. Police said they emptied fire extinguishers, ransacked desks, and stole equipment. They are 10 to 15 years old.

Most of the stolen equipment, police said, was found at their homes.

How Crosby's Sons Appear Individually

Editor's Note — The four sons of Bing and Dixie Lee Crosby will continue until the June 15 CBS but at Hesperia, Calif. The boys they were born. Sheltered in their youth and recipients of bad publicity as adults, their real identities have been clouded. What are they like? How do they feel about their father, their mother? Why do they sometimes get in trouble? What pressures do they face as bearers of a famous name? Associated Press columnist Bob Thomas answers these and other questions in a four-part series starting today, drawing from closeup views of the quartet.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Phillip Crosby was the first to arrive at his brother Gary's house, high above the Sunset Strip.

A husky athlete with a stubble of white hair, he had just come from visiting his wife and their new-born daughter, first after a long line of Crosby males. Phillip reported a wire from father Bing, expecting his sixth child: "Congratulations. Hope it's a trend. Love, dad."

Dennis came in next. Balding, pale and soft-spoken, he chided his twin for naming the new-born Dixie Lee; Dennis had also hoped to name a future daughter after his mother.

Next, the master of the house stomped in. Chunky in a one-piece zipper suit, Gary had just finished a day's work at 20th Century-Fox. The big living room started ringing with his jokes and caustic comments.

Lindsay, the youngest, strolled in almost unnoticed. A tanned, handsome lad, he listened to the banter of his brothers.

They gathered around a piano with vocal coach Bill Thompson and started singing "Blues in the Night," a number for the brother act with which they plan to tour the country. It was an intricate arrangement that required many rehearsals. Finally, they mastered it.

These sessions have been going on almost daily.
