Galveston Hit By Big Wind Blasts

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Wind blasts that exceeded hurricane force ripped parts of Galveston today. Two fishermen were missing.

The storm struck from a line that spread destruction from near the Mexican border east to this coastal city.

Two men who went to check their fishing lines near Galveston remained unreported late in the morning and were feared drowned.

The wind tore down an oversized sign, called a "spectacular" on Galveston's Pleasure Pier in the Gulf of Mexico. Pier authorities said engineers inspected the sign three months ago and declared it would withstand winds of from 175 to 200 m.p.h.

The winds blew a tanker aground, sank a fishing vessel, virtually destroyed three homes and caused widespread lesser destruction in Galveston and immediate vicinity.

Some residents said the storm descended in what they called a "big, black, rumbling cloud."

One resident on a Peninsula near Galveston declared "it definitely was a tornado."

"I heard it coming," said Mrs. Jerry Simpson of Port Bolivar. "It sounded like a jet plane. A house was picked up and a house near where I live was moved 40 feet."

Weather bureau men officially clocked winds at Galveston at 57 m.p.h., well over minimum hurricane force.

On Bolivar Peninsula nearby, winds were estimated at 100 m.p.h.

The wind blew railroad cars off the tracks at Galveston.

The Continental Grain Co. dock at Galveston was partially destroyed.

ECC's 4-Year School Of Nursing Has Appropriation Subcommittee's Okay

The Joint Appropriations Subcommittee last night approved the establishment of a four-year School of Nursing at East Carolina College and recommended to the full appropriations committee that funds be appropriated for the school to begin operation during the 1960-61 school year.

The appropriation will call for approximately $52,000 for the operation of the school during this first year.

Rep. Walter B. Jones of Farmville, who had spearheaded efforts for establishment of the school said action by the Joint Appropriations Subcommittee "virtually assured" approval by the full Joint Appropriations Committee of the four-year school and subsequent approval by the full House and Senate.

Rep. Jones said, "This is certainly the culmination of the efforts of a lot of people."

A bill calling for the establishment of a state-supported school of nursing at East Carolina College was first introduced by Jones during the 1957 session but the bill died in committee. This year the proposed four-year school of nursing was not recommended by the Budget Commission or the Board of Higher Education.

A bill calling for establishment of the school was introduced earlier in the 1959 session by Rep. Jones, Rep. Frank Wooten and others.

In its action last night, the Joint Appropriations Subcommittee, which consisted of ten senators and 15 members of the House, gave unanimous approval to the bill.

East Carolina College President Dr. John D. Messick said the fact the subcommittee had approved the $52,000 appropriation would "give credence to the belief that this present subcommittee is approving the idea of a four-year school."

"However, any question beyond the first year will depend upon the next General Assembly," he said. "The amount approved will be quite sufficient for the first year's operation."

"We feel we have been fortunate in having Rep. Walter Jones to lead the fight in the Appropriations Subcommittee for establishment of the school. The college appreciates his efforts, efforts of the paper and of all others who have been actively engaged in establishment of this department."

He said the college earlier had told the local hospital that it would be happy to give a program in nursing.

"Now the opportunity is even greater in that several hospitals will be in on the project," C. D. Ward, administrator of Pitt Memorial Hospital, said. "We are highly pleased and we feel we can speak for the administrators of all Eastern Carolina hospitals in saying that this school will tend to alleviate the shortage of nurses particularly in Eastern Carolina."

"We also feel that this school will supply much-needed instructors for the three-year schools now in existence and for the three-year schools planned by many of the hospitals."

The ECC Nursing School will have a number of hospitals co-operating in the training of its students.

"Within a radius of 50 to 60 miles of Greenville, over 1,000 hospital beds of approved hospitals are available for practical training of the nurse trainees from the college," Ward stated.

He said the academic work will be done at the college and the practical work is to be done in the hospitals under the direct supervision of personnel supplied by the college and the hospitals.

"A big majority of the hospital board of trustees and the medical societies of Eastern North Carolina have endorsed this school and in many instances will grant scholarships to young ladies from their areas to attend this school and to return to their home hospital areas for the practice of their professions," Ward stated.

The school was officially endorsed by the Board of Trustees of Pitt Memorial Hospital, the Pitt County Medical-Dental Society, Greenville Chamber of Commerce and various civic clubs and organizations in Pitt County.

Dr. Messick said a staff for the first year's operation of the School of Nursing will be organized during the coming year. The first students are expected to begin their work during the fall quarter of 1960.

Graduates of the school will receive a BS degree in Nursing from East Carolina College.

Speaker

Carl Hicks, president of the Blue-Cured Stabilization Corporation, will speak at a special meeting of the Pitt County Farm Bureau in the Pitt County Court House tomorrow at 8:00 p.m.

Hicks will discuss the use of MH-30 on tobacco and House Bill 311 at the special meeting.

W. W. Wooten, president of the Farm Bureau in Pitt County, urged all members to attend this meeting and express their opinion on these subjects.

One Final, Two Preliminary Plats Receive Approval

Two preliminary and one final plat of new residential subdivisions received the approval of the Planning-Zoning Commissioners yesterday afternoon.

An 80-acre subdivision, perhaps the largest residential section ever considered by the commission at one time, received preliminary approval.

To be known as the Mayo-King Subdivision, it will be located on U. S. 13 - N. C. 11 between Fairlane Drive and the South 11 Theatre.

In approving the preliminary plat, the commissioners stipulated that the subdividers must provide 60-foot rights-of-way on two streets which would lead into the Moore property located behind the subdivision.

The commissioners were told that quick approval of the preliminary plans was needed so that the installation of curb and gutter on the highway could proceed.

Developers of the property are Simon Moye and Charles King. A final plat of the area will have to be presented to the commission before it can go to the City Council for final approval.

Addition No. 1 to Harrington-Williams Subdivision, located behind Colonial Heights, was approved in final form by the Planning-Zoning Commission.

The commissioners had held up approval earlier because of a small lot at the Cedar Lane-Crockett Dr. intersection.

The subdividers made the lot a part of a larger lot located behind it. The commissioners established 30-foot set back lines on both sides of the small lot. They stipulated that the lot to which it was added could not be split and had to be used for the purpose of a single family dwelling. However, they did say that the small section could be split off and sold to the owner of a third lot adjacent to it for a single family dwelling if that ever proved feasible.

The plat was final and will now go to the Council for approval.

Finally the planners approved a six-lot subdivision to be located east of the U. S. 264 bypass between the Washington highway intersection and the Norfolk and Southern Crossing.

The developers plan to open to lots facing the bypass with a street running between them. The commission ordered that a 50-foot set back line be established for the lots which conforms with the average set back for other houses in the area.

Preliminary OK Given To Speedup Outlay For VOA

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The House Appropriations Committee today approved funds for a speed-up in construction of new Voice of America broadcasting stations near Greenville.

The committee approved the funds in a bill stated for House debate next week.

The United States Information Agency announced last Feb. 21 that VOA transmitters would be constructed on 2,600 acre plots of land in Pitt and Beaufort Counties.

One of the twin transmitters will be located in the Pictou area across the line in Beaufort County. The other is to be built in the Sheldermine section near the Beaufort County line but in Pitt County. A receiving station is slated to be built west of Greenville.

Extra funds for the war against hoodlums and racketeers were recommended by the Appropriations Committee in the $649,896,700 bill financing the State and Justice departments and related agencies, which includes the U. S. Information Service.

The new money, $32,490,900 less than the President requested, is for use during the fiscal year starting July 1.

It includes $200,000 for a special

When the stations are completed, they are expected to employ around 100 persons with an annual payroll of $800,000.

Property owners in the three areas selected for the sites have already been notified that their land will be taken. Government representatives will attempt to work out suitable prices with the land owners.

The appropriations approval was part of $113,057,300 approved for the U. S. Information Agency by the committee. That was a cut of $7,492,700 under the amount asked by the President.

$217,610,000 for the State Department, a cut of $10,975,000.

$264,100,000 for the Justice Department, a cut of $10,975,000.

$113,057,300 for the U. S. Information Agency, a cut of $7,492,700.

$6,145,500 for the President's special international program, a cut of $954,500.

$280,000 for the Civil Rights Commission, a cut of $8,000.

$48,703,900 for federal judiciary, a cut of $2,335,700.

Appropriations for the Justice Department and the judiciary are more than were provided for the present year. For the other agencies they are slightly less.

The committee approved creation of a new State Department unit of 16 positions to combat international Communist activities of an economic character.

Threaten Full Assault On Tax Plan

RALEIGH (AP) — Opponents have threatened an all-out assault on a proposed state income tax withholding plan following an administration victory Wednesday which junked a corporations amendment to the bill.

The Senate Finance Committee voted 13-10 Wednesday to throw out an amendment it had approved Tuesday which would put corporations on a pay-as-you-go plan under the tax withholding bill.

In staging their rally, administration supporters fought off strong protest by the opposition and withstood a filibuster attempt by Sen. James O. Simpkins of Craven.

Sen. Robert B. Morgan of Harnett, who offered the amendment to include corporations, predicted the amendment would be restored on the Senate floor.

Morgan denied he was an anti-administration man, saying, "I vote my conscience." He also denied he offered the amendment as a way to insure death for the withholding plan.

"If the state is going to have the use of the individuals' money without interest, why not the corporations' money too?" he asked.

After overturning Tuesday's action, the triumphant majority voted to table the amendment, and then applied the legislative clincher so the amendment may not be considered again by the committee.

Sens. Edwin S. Lanier of Orange and W. E. Garrison of Lenoir, who voted for the amendment, Tuesday changed their votes Wednesday. Sen. Willis Hancock of Granville, who also favored the amendment, was absent.

In a filibuster attempt, Sen. Simpkins sought to stall for time so Hancock could get to the meeting from Chapel Hill.

Opposition members contended Sen. Arthur Kirkman of Guilford, committee chairman, had not made it clear the issue would be taken up.

Sen. Stator P. Williams of Stanley promised, "I shall do everything I can to defeat the bill when it reaches the floor."

Sen. Simpkins asked to be excused, saying, "I would not vote for anything now that the administration is for." He said he believed Gov. Hodges masterminded the majority strategy.

Hodges has strongly advocated an income tax withholding plan for individuals.

Report Four Mice In Next Satellite

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Unofficial sources say the Air Force hopes to fire four mice into orbit around the earth today—and later recover them intact.

Western Aviation magazine stated: "Four mice will ride as passengers aboard a Discoverer III in a launch from Vandenberg Air Force Base with an attempt to be made for recovery of the payload capsule near Hawaii."

The Los Angeles Examiner said the launching would possibly be today.

Air Force officials released no information.

If the mice do go aloft, they will be the first animals the United States has tried to shoot into space and recover.

Discoverer II was launched April 13 from Vandenberg, 150 miles northwest of Los Angeles. Air Force planes from Hawaii were poised to recover the satellite's payload capsule, but a timing device failed and the payload wasn't dropped until the satellite was over the arctic on its 17th pass.

The nose cone was believed seen parachuting near Spitzbergen Island, north of Norway. A wide-spread search was made for it, but it was never reported found.

Western Aviation, a monthly trade publication, said that planes trailing trapeze-like nets — will have 10 minutes to snare the falling capsule from Discoverer III if it parachutes into the Pacific area as planned.

The Air Force announced earlier that specially bred mice, of a strain thought sturdy enough for a space career, were being flown to Vandenberg for satellite tests.

Missile's Cone Again Retrieved

CAPE CANAVERAL Fla. (AP) — The Air Force hurried a tiny nose cone of the future 6,000 miles down the Atlantic today and recovered it intact four hours later.

It was the second consecutive time the Air Force retrieved a nose cone.

The Air Force announced some eight hours after a powerful two-stage Thor-Able rocket blasted aloft that re-entry and impact of the cone was spotted by a plane cruising near the impact area northwest of Ascension Island.

The cone, which carries some of the secrets for protecting the warheads of ICBMs of tomorrow, was hoisted aboard a vessel, part of the search fleet that rendezvoused near the impact area. The launching rocket, a Thor missile topped by a Vanguard second stage, roared up at 1:40 a.m. and was in sight for more than two minutes.

A similar recovery attempt was successful on the last Thor-Able launching April 8. This followed six unsuccessful recovery tries with this 80-foot missile.

Report 3 Industries Giving Thought To Locating In Pitt

Pitt County Development Commission members were told last night that at least three industries are "seriously considering" locating in Pitt County and are actively investigating industrial possibilities of the area.

Economic Consultant L. A. Weston and Commission Chairman Leonard P. Bloxam made the announcement at the commission's regular monthly meeting. They said announcement of at least one of the prospect's decision could be expected shortly.

In an activity report for April and May, Weston said he had made contacts with more than 10 firms, presently located in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Michigan and the New England area. In addition, representatives of three firms have visited the county, he added.

Weston said three weekends in April were spent with representatives of a company interested in locating in Greenville. He noted that since the visits, to inspect available sites and buildings, Pitt County has become a top choice for potential location of the plant.

Development of the prospect, Weston pointed out, included assistance from the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade and other business interests in Greenville.

The work by local groups, he said, has been almost completed and an announcement is expected from the company in the near future.

Weston also announced that two representatives of a northern firm visited Pitt County on May 10 and inspected sites at Grimesland, Pictou and Greenville, as well as warehouses in the Greenville area.

The firm is interested, according to Weston, in sites along the Tar River.

"The firm was originally interested, Weston said, in another southern state, due to seaport facilities in that state being the port of entry for their raw materials. He added that assistance given by railroad companies and others has caused the prospect to give serious consideration to Pitt County.

Representatives of a firm visited by Weston on a trip May 4 and 5 to the New England area, Philadelphia and Camden, N. J., visited Pitt County May 14 and 15 and have scheduled another visit for August. Names of the interested organizations were not announced by Weston.

The commission was also told that a survey of industrial sites in the county was completed during the month of April. The survey was conducted by representatives of Atlantic Coast Line Railroad and Virginia Electric Power Co.

Missile Center Stoppage Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An attempt by striking carpenters to halt all union activity at the missile test center apparently failed today.

Other union workers refused to honor the carpenters' picket lines despite a show of strength by most of the 115 strikers.

A few hours later, business agents of other unions represented at the Cape failed to show up at a meeting called by the carpenters.

The carpenters summoned the business agents to ask them to keep their union members off the job at the missile launching area and nearby Patrick Air Force Base.

If completely successful, a sympathy strike could affect 5,300 men.

House Tribute To Ailing Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has paid affectionate tribute to cancer-stricken John Foster Dulles.

No change was reported in the condition of the former secretary of state, whose cancer illness has been complicated by pneumonia.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts said Wednesday, "We miss him very much. I wish him well and pray that God showers His abundance on him."

McCormack said he had no doubt that history will recognize Dulles as one of the greatest secretaries.

Representatives Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.) and Fred Schwegel (R-Iowa) said Dulles already ranks as America's greatest secretary of state.

Press Ass'n Voices Dissent To Liquor Ad Ban

RALEIGH (AP) — A proposed ban on alcoholic beverage advertising met with strenuous objections today from the North Carolina Press Assn.

Committee action on the bill was put off until next Thursday to give the North Carolina Assn. of Broadcasters and the Outdoor Advertising Assn. of North Carolina a chance to get in their words of opposition.

The press association appeared before House Judiciary 2 Committee to lodge its objections to the bill introduced by Reps. Sneed High of Cumberland and Harry Horton of Chatham.

High cited inconsistencies in current ABC laws dealing with alcohol advertising. He said, "We wrote the bill to equalize advertising of alcoholic beverages through all advertising media."

"I feel the commodity should be available," said High, a supporter of ABC control, "but I also feel we shouldn't encourage its use."

Raleigh attorney William C. Lassiter said the press association opposed the bill because "it seeks to prohibit all forms of advertising of a product which has been legalized by the state of North Carolina."

He also said the state cannot control interstate magazine, newspaper and network advertisements.

"Why attempt to put a finger in a small hole to stop a trickle of water," he asked the committee, "when it topples over the dam in great quantities?"

He exhibited gaudy liquor advertisements found in interstate publications and compared them to the plain North Carolina ads which can mention only the brand name and price of the beverage.

Another association objection, said Lassiter, was his belief that the bill would prohibit not only promotional ads, but also advertisements by either side in a local liquor election or with proposed ABC legislation in the General Assembly.

He said the bill also discriminates against newspapers in favor of broadcasting media in certain phraseology.

Several newspaper publishers and editors were introduced at the meeting as being opposed to the bill. They did not speak.

They were D. A. Whitchard of the Greenville Daily Reflector; E. J. Hamlin of the News of Orange County; Hillsboro; Al Dickerson and R. B. Page of the Wilmington Star-News; Paul Dickerman and Mrs. Elizabeth Swindell of the Wilson Daily Times; and Hal Tanner of the Goldsboro News Argus.

Color Coordination Demonstrated

"Color Coordination" was the topic of the demonstration given by Mrs. Sue May at the May meeting of the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club on Wednesday. Mrs. May exhibited two house plans and used samples of upholstery materials, drapes, tile, rugs and paints to show the value of planning your decorating as a unit. She stressed the importance of not using too many colors so as not to have a rainbow effect.

Mrs. J. T. Manning, Jr., president, presided and welcomed the 10 members and two visitors present. In her devotional, Mrs. Manning used the theme, "Except the Lord Build the House." She emphasized that money can build a house; add love and you have a home; add Christ and you have a temple.

Mrs. Carl Crawford called the roll and read the minutes and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Thurston Wynne.

Plans were made for visiting in the community to further acquaint people with the work of the Home Demonstration Club. Twelve families were visited immediately following the meeting.

After the group prayed the Club Collect, the hostesses, Mrs. G. A. Evans and Mrs. W. T. Page, served a salad course and lime ice punch.

Appropriate, spend and be popular . . . and let someone else have the headaches in 1961.

By and large that seems to be the attitude a good many legislators have taken toward the state's financial position in the coming biennium and the proposed withholding tax legislation now before the General Assembly.

It is high time more legislators share the concern of rank and file taxpayers about what's going to happen in 1961 if the state collects and spends $27 to $43 millions of non-recurring income during the next two years without making provisions for providing similar state income in the years thereafter.

The $27½ million dollar windfall is the most popular thing about the proposed withholding system for individual income taxes. This additional revenue collected in 1960 would mean the state would collect two years income taxes in one year. It would also spend the additional $27½ million for current operations during the biennium. And the current General Assembly could accomplish this without increasing tax rates.

Now the Senate finance committee has also given its approval to an amendment by which corporations would also pay their income taxes on a pay-as-you-go basis adding some $14 million more to the one-shot windfall. Apparently the legislature has in mind spending this too during the coming biennium. Altogether that would mean that during the next biennium the state would spend for operations $41 to $42 millions in non-recurring revenue. Without this windfall after the fiscal years 1960 and 1961, the state will have to find an additional $41 to $42 millions in revenues in order to maintain current operations appropriations even on a par with those now proposed.

Even taking into consideration a considerable growth in the state's economy during the next biennium, this would mean new taxes to provide $41 to $42 millions will have to be found by the legislature in 1961. That's an average increase of about $10 in tax revenues for every man, woman and child in North Carolina.

It would represent one of the steepest tax increases ever undertaken by a legislative session. And the 1961 legislature would have to decide whether to increase taxes that amount or cut appropriations below those being considered for the coming biennium.

It means, in short, that the 1959 legislature, if it follows through with the withholding system and accompanying appropriations to spend the windfall, will be passing the buck to the 1961 General Assembly. It will be leaving to the 1961 General Assembly the job of solving one of the biggest financial headaches in the state's history. And it will leave the taxpayers of the state holding the bag and facing a tremendous tax increase in 1961.

In considering withholding taxes and its windfall of non-recurring revenue, the 1959 legislature should also consider the dire consequences which these proposals could have on the state's financial situation come 1961.

Adjournment Is A Guessing Game

By LYNN NISBET

ADJOURNMENT — A popular pastime around legislative circles is speculating and predicting date of sine die adjournment of the 1959 General Assembly. The goal of June 1 originally set by administration leaders has been completely abandoned, but most of that group are plugging for mid-June or prior adjournment. When they talk about the middle of June they seem to be thinking about "sometime next summer" — forgetting that mid-June is less than four weeks away.

This reporter has for some time been predicting since the adjournment within three or four days of June 30. In view of the work still to be done for orderly consideration of important bills that date might be moved well into July except for the controlling factor that the appropriations made by the 1957 session for operation of the State government will expire by statutory limitation at midnight of June 30. If the regular biennial appropriation bill for 1959-61 is not ratified before that date it will be necessary to make temporary emergency appropriations so State agencies can function after midnight of June 30.

The statutes contemplate a balanced budget, so it is necessary under law for the General Assembly to enact a revenue bill designed to yield enough money to meet appropriations. However, another law says the revenue act is "continuing" and the same tax schedules will remain in effect if not changed. As has been stated many times, any Legislature has absolute requirement to pass only two resolutions and one act. It must adopt a resolution notifying the Governor that the General Assembly has been organized and it must adopt a joint resolution for sine die adjournment. Then it must enact an appropriation bill. None of the other acts, laws and resolutions are necessary, however desirable they may be.

TIME TABLE — The joint appropriations subcommittee has set the end of this week as time to finish their deliberations. Then two or three days, probably over the weekend, will be required to codify and type the report for the full committee maybe next Tuesday, May 26. Even the most optimistic members do not expect acceptance by the full committee with less than four to six days discussion. That takes the matter over into June.

Sometime around June 3 or 4 it is hoped to get the appropriations bill to the floor of the House or Senate, where the half of the membership which has served on the finance committees will want to consider its provisions. There are definite indications that heavy pressure will be put on the full legislative membership to "take this and go home, decline it and stay here till after Independence Day." There are friends of education, public school and university level, who are ready to accept the challenge and stay on the battlefield to fight for their objectives.

The budget folks and the money committee leaders have set the example and precedent for revision upward of appropriations and revenue estimates. Latest figures are generally accepted as more accurate on both ends, but because revisions have been made in committee there is sentiment for making further revisions on the floor of the open sessions. Many oldtimer observers suggest that two weeks is a minimum estimate on time required for these debates. That carries the date to around June 17 for final vote in one branch, and to at least June 19 for reconciliation of differences.

Meanwhile, the finance committee's revenue bill will be on the mat, subject to adjournment to meet appropriations. Older legislators allow four or five days minimum for these adjustments, carrying on to June 22-24. Mop up of incidentals will take another three to five days.

ALTERNATIVE — Admittedly sine die adjournment can be by June 10, but only if one side or the other on the educational money question surrenders absolutely and completely. The administration forces can agree to accept new taxes (whether entirely new tax sources or extension of sales tax coverage and increased rates on income) or the school folks can agree to accept what current levies provide and call it a day.

With division of sentiment as nearly equal as it has been proven to be, abject surrender of either group is highly improbable. All the signs indicate a last ditch fight.

CONSOLIDATION — A long forward step toward consolidation of city and county government is being taken under the bill sponsored by the Durham delegation for a two-year study of composite charter, which would abolish existing city and county governments and set up a new governmental unit for the entire county. Durham is a logical place to begin such a program, because there is only one incorporated municipality and it has approximately three-fourths of the county population.

Rep. Watts Hill said that so far as he could ascertain this is the first time in North Carolina or in the whole Southeast that such a program has been undertaken. Counties and cities have gotten together pretty well on public health and welfare administration, and in many instances on public schools. But there remain many points of conflict and controversy which the Durham study may help to alleviate, even in situations where organic union is impracticable.

Can You Put A Price Tag On Law And Order?

To some the daily cost of $6,000 will seem a high price for Tar Teel taxpayers to have to pay for maintaining law and order in Henderson as is now the case with the National Guard there.

Costly as it is to taxpayers, however, the state has little choice but to see that law and order is maintained by some means. Other alternatives failed in previous attempts, and the National Guard had to be called on to cope with the situation.

The state cannot afford to abandon Henderson or any of its other communities to the kind of lawlessness and violence which persisted before the National Guard arrived in Vance County. It cannot permit a relatively few people to take over a city by use of mob rule which disregards the rights, the lives and the property of other citizens.

Having exhausted their own resources in seeking to maintain law and order in their own community, the citizens of Henderson are well within their rights to expect the state to come to their aid in preventing violence. If the situation which has existed in Henderson were to develop in other communities of the state, certainly those citizens would ask for and expect to receive state assistance in maintaining law and order.

With the situation out of control of local law enforcement agencies, where could the people of a community turn except to the state?

It is quite possible that the public announcement that it is costing approximately $6,000 per day to maintain the National Guard troops in Henderson will be the signal to begin a pressure campaign to have the Guard pulled out of Henderson on grounds that the price is too high.

Can North Carolina afford to put a price tag on law and order? Can it afford to say the cost of protecting the lives and property of the citizens of any community is more than the lives and property are worth?

Dulles' Shadow Is Over Herter

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christian A. Herter's job as secretary of state is a position of high honor but it may become for him, before he's through, a lonely and colorless post.

There are several reasons for thinking so, now that the terminal illness of his predecessor, John Foster Dulles, fastens attention upon the task Herter has inherited.

1. He has very little time to develop new ideas. His job ends 20 months from now — when the Eisenhower administration goes out of office — unless the Republicans win in 1960 and want to retain him.

2. No one is really expecting from him any change in American foreign policy as it was laid down and pursued by Dulles, with President Eisenhower's blessing and more or less accepted by American public opinion.

3. The shadow of Dulles will lie across every move Herter makes. It will be a yardstick for comparison between the two men. It cannot help but make Herter self-conscious about his own performance, since Dulles was such a dominant figure.

4. He gives no sign of having any of Dulles' flamboyance — for instance, Dulles' startling phrase — "making which agitated both friends and foes" — and apparently has very little of Dulles' ego or forcefulness.

As an example: At the foreign ministers meeting, now being held in Geneva, Herter's performance has been correct but because he is a quiet kind of man he has by no means dominated the conference as Dulles would have done, inside and out.

His statements at Geneva — where so far the meeting has been simply a propaganda contest between the West and the Soviets — already have been criticized as too prosaic and legalistic and lacking in public appeal and understanding.

The Dulles-Eisenhower foreign policy has several basic elements:

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Martha For Tombstone

Remember Greenville's own Martha Jane Pierce was named North Carolina Betty Crocker Homemaker of the Year as a high school senior last year?

Martha Jane, who is now a freshman at Duke University, got a packet through the mail the other day.

Seems that the Arizona state winners had started a petition to restore Tombstone, Arizona. The petition was being sent to each of the state Homemakers of the Year winners, who all participated in national finals, for their signatures of approval.

The idea has met with rousing success among the Homemakers winners. As an added attraction, the Homemakers sign the petition and then write a personal letter which is included with the others and sent along to the next person on the list.

So far the petition has gone to 30 states, including Arizona, before coming to Martha Jane. Each of the girls has dutifully written her personal note and mailed it to the next person on the list.

The Arizona winner, who signs her letter, Karla said she got the idea for restoration from Williamsburg where the national finals were held.

She says Tombstone has many of the buildings and places of interest of the old west.

"Perhaps you've heard of the Bird Cage Theatre and Boothill, to mention two," she says in her letter. "As the town stands now, tourists miss the 'good' things they came to see since the town isn't kept up at all."

"Townpeople tried to raise funds to support these historic places, but their plan failed. When I saw what Rockefeller did for Williamsburg, I wondered if it wouldn't hurt to send him a petition asking for him to do the same for Tombstone."

She says that when the petition is returned to her she plans to send it with an explanation to Rockefeller. So the unique petition has been making its rounds about the nation by means of the U.S. mails. As it moves from state to state the packet grows steadily thicker with each additional letter.

So far the "round robin" has been underway a full year. Karla's letter was dated May 10, 1958.

The petition has gone to: Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Laurinburg and Raleigh. Presbyterian picked Laurinburg as the place for their new college to serve Eastern North Carolina.

Attorney General Malcolm Seawell, from Lumberton. John Larkins of Trenton, Jones County, way down in the tidal basin and in as rural county (it's about tops for swine production) as they come.

And once and a while you hear the name of Larry Eagles of Wilson mentioned in a suggestive sort of voice. There are certain influential men in the east who think Eagles would be North Carolina's answer to what is the matter with it.

To sum up. From the populous Piedmont one hears Barnhardt only mentioned. From the sparsely settled east one hears at least five good men mentioned. These five most assuredly would largely divide the section's vote.

Barnhardt profited from a similar division in his race, successful, for lieutenant governor, have been opposed by Lon Edwards of Greene and J.V. Whitfield of Fender, now of Duplin. . .

State Treasurer Edwin Gill of Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York and North Carolina.

It has yet to go to: North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming and Alabama.

Martha Jane hasn't yet added her letter to the packet but she expects to have it on the way shortly.

Incidentally, Martha Jane, served as the Daily Reflector's teen reporter last year and worked full-time on the news staff last summer. She plans to work with the Reflector again this summer and will begin her duties June 12.

Other Editors Saying . . .

Barnhardt In Best Position

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

Most of North Carolina's 4,000,000 people live in the great industrial Piedmont section. This naturally gives a distinct advantage to the state-wide candidate who resides in the Piedmont. For folks vote closer to those who live closer to them.

So the candidate of the piedmont section can pick up a big hunk of votes simply by living where the most votes are. He doesn't even have to do too much campaigning or hand shaking to get a big pool of support.

All the talk about candidates for governor of North Carolina in 1960 mentions only candidate from the Piedmont. He is Lieutenant Governor Luther Barnhardt of Concord. He lives not only in the Piedmont but in the center or almost of the most populous part of the Piedmont.

Population of the eastern part of the state falls well below that of the central Piedmont. And more than that. Just look at the number of men being mentioned or boosted for governor or actually hoping the lightning will strike them and trying to arrange that it does.

State Treasurer Edwin Gill of remain estimates, but they are large. Norman Jaspian, a management engineer, told Midwestern controllers that if dishonesty were removed from American business prices could be reduced 15 per cent.

Last year alone, he said, he had uncovered $60,000,000 in losses.

The pilferage problem has become so acute that the Small Business Administration has seen fit to issue a guide on "Reducing Stock Shrinkage in Small Firms." It is written by George C. Webster, a Washington, D.C., consultant.

"Even the most honest customer, the most trusted employee, may find temptation too much for him," it states.

HOW TO REDUCE SHRINKAGE

It proposes several means of reducing "shrinkage."

Investigate job applicants, it advises. Check references and if they are scattering, check with his wife's employer, his bank, former teachers, or with his doctor or clergyman.

Check on employees, it goes on. "If you suspect any one of your employees — even the most trusted one — of theft, check up on him on his day off or while he is taking a vacation."

So he "takes" vacations, too! "Tighten up records," it goes on. Pre-number all ticket sales, all checks and all purchase orders, it advises.

Watch the stock, and "Don't let enough be enough!" That's your government talking to you, bub! "Make constant spot checks throughout the year — and let them come as a surprise." How something can be "constant" and still come as a surprise is not explained by either Mr. Webster or your Uncle Sammy, but that's what it says.

Other advice: Watch out for overage; if there is an over supply of low-priced items, it may mean that higher-priced items are switched for them. Watch shipping and receiving procedures, where goods can become lost or stolen. Be alert to receiving trouble; shortage there may indicate a leakage of incoming goods. Keep valuable goods checked and under lock; watch for shoplifters.

SHORT AND SIGNIFICANT BUSINESS NEWS ITEMS

Cigarette sales dropped 3 per cent in the Netherlands last year. It was because of a 3 per cent price rise, not cancer fear. . .

Central air-conditioning installations will increase 50 per cent this year, industry spokesmen predict. . . A subsidiary of the King Ranch of Texas has acquired a 5,000 square-mile cattle ranch in the Barkley Tablelands of northern Australia. . . A severe drought has sharply cut the South African bean crop and dealers are asking for quotations on American white beans. . .

Floods in Uruguay have halved its expected crop of 102,000 tons of sunflower seeds.

Opinions In Brief

"What is this thing we've inherited which we'll find with our lives? If it's bricks and mortar, factories, cars and houses, gadgets and places of pleasure—if that's all we're defending, we'll lose them and all else. What are we defending against the Communists? We are defending the freedom and the dignity of the individual, the right to be masters of ourselves and of our government; and to be servants only of our God. Defend? We must not only defend. We must get on the offensive and take these ideas, these freedoms, and these blessings to the world. 'Containment' of communism is only a beginning, not an end." — Farm and Ranch Magazine.

"The fiscal situation deteriorated faster during the past year than in any comparable peace-time period to my knowledge." — Sen. H. F. Byrd (D.-Va.)

"Youth is inclined to be radical, impatient and skeptical. If this were not so, if each generation adopted the attitudes of its elders, there would be no progress." — The Miami Herald.

Water Addict Danger

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP) — At first the news seemed reassuring to some of us. We even felt a little smug.

But as we thought about it the whole thing became very disturbing.

The news came from London. Two doctors there reported that some people can get plastered, stoned, bombed, potted, crooked, embalmed, stiff, incinerated, drunk, and awful silly on just plain water.

There were nine case histories of people who began with some emotional distress and found themselves reacting to water the way the rest of us react to too much liquor. Tanked up with water, their speech slurred, eyelids drooped, minds became giddy. They got hangers the next day.

For us old-fashioned whiskey drinkers, the news was strangely pleasing at first. All along, we suspected water drinkers as being too self-righteous; behind all that rampant white virtue there had to lurk some dark vice. Now we know.

Still, it's unsettling to think about the water addict — the Aquaholic, the potential member of Aquaholics Anonymous. The bad water drinker could become more of a social problem than the alcoholic. There's so much of the stuff around.

How would you get a guy off this cheap sauce? Where would you hide him?

Every swimming pool would be suspect. So would every bath and shower and no Aquaholic could be allowed to take either alone. The worst possible way to begin a marriage with one would be a honeymoon to Niagara Falls.

The office water cooler would take on pathological overtones. The phrase, "Ice water in his veins," would take on a dark meaning and TVA, Grand Coulee Dam and every irrigation project from Arizona to the Negro would suddenly acquire new fanatical supporters.

The problems don't end there. Which wagon would the Aquaholic go on after he makes his New Year's resolution? Certainly not the water wagon.

How would you bring him back to life on the morning after? Black coffee would be verboten; it has water in it. Likewise tomato juice. Even 100-proof whiskey would be out because it has 50 per cent water. Liquid mercury would be safe except it would kill him.

Oil and water, you say, don't mix. Right? Give him cod liver oil, castor oil, or just crankcase oil. That would sober him up but in the process you'd be getting the water addict well-oiled.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS THE OLD ROAD

Irene Carlisle, a contemporary poet, has written: Somehow an old road never quite goes back.

To wilderness or woods or meadow grass.

When once men have made a highway through a forest or wilderness, that highway will forever after be discernible. It was a mystery for generations how the Druids had erected their temple of huge stones called Stonehenge. But when airplanes came into existence, the tracks over which these ancient worshippers had dragged the huge rocks were clearly visible from the air. As long as the world lasts these "tracks" will probably remain.

You and I were put into the world to blaze new highways. They may not be wide, four-lane roads, maybe only narrow little paths. But they will be ours. The faithful woman in a Kentucky cabin who taught her step-son, Abraham Lincoln, how to read was a trail blazer. "Four-score and seven years ago . . . These are her words as well as his.

The most important roads we make are the ones through our nervous system by our decisions — good or bad. First a little pathway, then a well marked road — then a habit.

"Somehow an old road never quite goes back."

Stock-Shrinkage And Its Cause

By ELMER ROESSNER

"Stock shrinkage." There's a nice and all-too-common business term for you.

What does it mean? Did water get into the warehouse and did all 36 sweaters become 32's? Did a case of salami shrivel in the heat?

No. It might mean that some stock was damaged and thrown out; it might mean there were some errors in records.

But most of the time a stock shrinkage means that somebody put cotton-picking hands on some of the stock. Sometimes shipments are stripped on the way to the warehouse; sometimes burglars or shoplifters get in.

But most of the time stock shrinkage is caused by employee weakness. That is, an employee was strong enough to take a bit of stock home but too weak to bring it back the next day.

Marries In Methodist Church

CONWAY — Miss Betty Celestine Willoughby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Robert Willoughby, Sr., became the bride of Frank Owen Freuler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Freuler of Tarboro on the first Sunday in May in the Conway Methodist Church.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Carl W. Wright, pastor of the church. The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. J. A. Fleetwood, Sr.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white ball-length dress of Chantilly lace and white tulle with a taut bodice, Sabrina neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her veil of imported illusion fell from a crown of nylon tulle accented with a rope of pearls. She carried a white satin covered Bible centered with a white orchid.

Her maid of honor and only attendant was her cousin, Miss Kaye Overby of Courtland, Va. Olson McBride of Tarboro was best man. The ushers were Carl Ainsley of Tarboro and the bride's brother, W. R. Willoughby Jr.

Mrs. Willoughby, mother of the bride, wore a sheath dress of blue-bird lace and linen with matching accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Freuler, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony, the couple received in the church vestibule. Later, the couple left for a wedding trip to Florida, and later after their return, they will reside in Rocky Mount. James Edwards of Greenville were Mrs. Richard Nichols and Mrs. among the out-of-town guests.

Committees

Are Announced

Committees for the forthcoming club year were announced at the Druidian Garden Club Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Aaron Baxter.

Those chosen were: Yearbook, Mrs. W. Z. Morton and Mrs. Aaron Baxter; Ways and Means, Mrs. J. D. Wilson; Publicity and Scrapbook, Mrs. Joe Miller.

During the months of June and July, Flower Arranging Workshops will be held and the members will entertain their husbands with a "cookout" during July.

Mrs. Baxter presented a program on Roses, stressing when and how to fertilize. She suggested that members send samples of their soil to the Soil Conservation Service to be analyzed. Mrs. Baxter demonstrated how to make an arrangement of "lacing roses."

Mrs. Graham Quinn was accepted as a member and guest for the afternoon was Mrs. Paul O'Haran.

The hostess served sandwiches, cookies and iced tea. Throughout the home roses were used to decorate.

Mrs. Moye Entertains At Last Meeting

Mrs. James Moye of Wright Road entertained the members of the Clio Book Club at their last meeting of this club year.

Members were welcomed by Mrs. W. S. Bost.

During the business session the club selected the dates for the meetings of the next club year.

Mrs. Clara M. Shackell spoke to the group on her European trip to 11 countries and showed slides of historical scenes including palaces, government building interiors, cathedrals, cities, villages, rustic scenes and formal gardens.

After the members drew for books, the hostess served a salad plate and iced tea.

Bridge Clubs

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Bissette were hosts at supper and bridge for their couple club members recently. Throughout the home mixed garden flowers in shades of pink were noted in the decorations.

The buffet table was covered with a lace cloth and held a bowl of red roses and red spirea flanked by tall candles in crystal holders. After the fried chicken supper, individual strawberry shortcakes were served as dessert.

During the progressions the highest scores compiled among the club members were by Mrs. M. B. Hodges and L. L. Mewborn. Mrs. Tom Gower was high for visitors. Other players were Mr. Hodges, Mrs. Mewborn, Mr. Gower, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Jackson, Mrs. Thurman Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cobb.

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hart were hosts to members of their couple club last Thursday night at a party. Three tables were in play and the rooms were decorated with red rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Phillips received the prize for highest score. Others playing were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. David Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wheeler, Mrs. Becky Worthington and John Glenn Jr.

As cards were laid aside the hostess served an assortment of party dainties with iced beverage.

Miss Hendrix Bride-To-Be Honored

Mrs. H. L. Ormond and Mrs. Paul Reinartz Jr. entertained Saturday honoring Miss Josephine Hendrix, bride-elect of this month.

The honoree was presented a corsage of pink roses and a gift of silver by her hostesses.

Arrangements of summer flowers were used in decorating throughout the home. Roses adorned the dining table where the honoree, her mother, the mother of the prospective bridegroom and 12 of her close friends were served a luncheon.

Miss Sara Ewell was declared most adept in a contest and was presented a gift.

Miss Hendrix will marry James Piver Jr. on May 31.

Women Voters League Disbands

The decline in membership and the seeming lack of general interest in the community has necessitated the disbandment of the League of Women Voters in this city.

The formal notice of disbandment is being made with the full approval of the local president, Mrs. Robert C. Forney, and Mrs. Neal F. Austin, president of the League of Women Voters of North Carolina.

House Guests Are Honored

GRIFTON—Mrs. Don Casey was hostess Wednesday afternoon at her home on Queen Street when she entertained at an informal party to honor her house guest, Mrs. Clint Jones of Montague, Michigan, and her mother, Mrs. C. E. McLamb of Clinton. Arrangements of spring flowers decorated the home for the occasion.

Mrs. W. E. Rasberry greeted the callers and presented them to the guests of honor. From a tea table ham biscuits, brownies and iced drinks were served.

Those attending were Mesdames Rasberry, Bill Daws, Edwin Reeves, George C. Sugg, Walter Murphy, Becky Worthington, Mark Phillips, Charles Kline, Ed Casey, L. A. Butler, B. C. Troutman, G. L. Tucker, Joe Price, Sam Nelson, Cecil Cobb and Mrs. H. L. Butler of Clinton.

A romantic suspense novel by MARTHA ALBRAND

A SPY at MONTE CARLO

(P) Copyright, 1958, by The Curtis Publishing Company; (C) Copyright, 1959, by Martha Albrand. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

WHAT WAS HAPPENED

The adventure that led a young American artist in Paris, Mark Travers, to the most challenging and desirable woman he had ever encountered began when his best friend, Philippe Langle, was murdered.

Philippe, a French diplomat working to effect peace in Algeria, was assassinated while he was endeavoring to meet Timgad, an underground leader of Algerian rebels. Philippe's dying words were "Find Timgad, Mark. Promise."

Mark got nowhere in his search for Timgad until Corinne Javal, one of the women in Philippe's life, said that Timgad had been seen in Monte Carlo. Mark flew to Monte Carlo, and immediately received a threatening note: "Unless you stop interfering in matters which are none of your concern, you will not survive."

Now go on with the story—

CHAPTER 2

All at once Mark Travers grew aware again of his surroundings—the room he had taken late last night, his half-unpacked airplane luggage, the fruit basket and the flowers (courtesy of the hotel), the breakfast tray on a table between the windows. He must have stopped eating when he had opened the envelope.

He reached for the note in his pocket and read it again. But who had known that he had come to Monte Carlo? Only two people—Inspector Perrier and Corinne Javal. And of Corinne Javal, Perrier had warned him. She was unreliable, he had said, because she drank.

Mark threw himself on the bed and crossed his arms behind his head, looking up at the ceiling. But instead of being able to concentrate by the tired method of staring at a blank spot, he found himself looking into his own face. For the ceiling, like the wall outside his bed, was decorated with panels of mirrors.

Not only could he see the room again, but himself, a tall, lanky young man with a mane of uncombed, brownish hair and a thin, narrow face in which the eyes—large gray eyes—were the only outstanding feature. Irritated, he got up and started to pace the room again.

Of course, it was possible that he had been watched ever since he had accompanied Philippe on his way to meet Timgad three months ago. Or maybe he had made himself conspicuous trying to find Philippe's murderer. Certainly he had left no stone unturned, questioning all sorts of people wandering through the Arab quarters of Paris, Lyons, Marseilles. Under the pretext of sketching and reporting, he had even gone to Algeria.

What if Perrier was right? What if Corinne Javal had drunk too much and, without realizing it, had given away the reason why Mark had come to Monte Carlo? He wouldn't know until he saw her. He had no way of contacting her. He would have to wait until ten o'clock.

Again he looked at the note. His face set. Another attempt to terrorize. It would not stop him. On the contrary, but he had assumed that nobody knew of his presence here. The note made a difference. Now he would have to use the utmost caution. For the first time in his search for Timgad, the odds were against him.

Mark shrugged and opened the door to the loggia. The beauty of the landscape struck him as if he had never seen it before. In front of him stretched the Mediterranean, as calm and blue as in a picture post card—when his mind was distracted suddenly by the appearance of a girl.

She seemed to come floating out of the air like a cloud, cut loose from the sky to settle for a second on earth. For, hardly had he seen her than she was gone, only to reappear the next moment and be gone again. It took him several minutes to realize that she was dancing. But it didn't give her any more reality.

She moved with such weightless speed, such perfect grace and control, as Mark had hardly believed possible. He watched her, bewitched; then, moving carefully, as if afraid that she might vanish at the slightest sound, he turned into his room to fetch pad and pencil. She was performing some brilliantly executed movements when he came back, and he recognized what he was watching—Tschalkovsky's Swan Lake.

Now he could almost hear the music, see Markova dancing the parts of Odette and Odile, and himself, excited and ambitious to make good at his first job for a newspaper. Yes, sketching the mastery of motion had started his career. Grimly he thought that he would not let it end the same way.

With sudden impatience he tore the sheet in two, crumpled it between his hands and, without looking back, he left the loggia. A glance at his watch showed a quarter to eight. His appointment with Cronce on the golf links, just below the Monte Agel, was not to take place for two hours. Had she personally met the man who called himself Timgad or only someone who knew where to find him?

How slowly time passed. But then, this was no day on which it was easy to kill time. He pulled a pair of trunks from his luggage, threw off his dressing gown and took a towel from the rack in the bathroom.

To have the pool all to himself seemed inviting and for a moment he hesitated, but it was only a few steps down to the beach, and to swim out into the soft blue sea offered an illusion of boundlessness. He turned toward it, ran down the steps, stumbled, almost fell, and heard a voice say indignantly, "You must be an American. They never pay attention to where they are going."

"I'm terribly sorry. Did I hurt you?"

"Yes, you did."

The girl lifted a long slender leg. "You stepped on my ankle." She sat up, began rubbing her left foot vigorously.

She was wearing a long, white bathrobe with a hood tied under her chin. Large blue glasses covered most of her face. All Mark could see was the point of a small, straight nose and a heart-shaped chin. Then, as he knelt down, he noticed a pair of badly worn ballet slippers sticking out of her beach bag.

He decided to say nothing about having watched her dance, nor to mention his admiration of her performance or his efforts to sketch her, but to pretend that she was just a girl he was seeing for the first time.

"What can I do to make up for it?"

To his surprise, she blushed. Her slips parted for a second, then closed tightly. She shook her head, lowered it, and said in a small voice, "I was joking. It doesn't really hurt, but you startled me. Usually there is nobody around. I mean, at this hour. That's why I come here. I was dozing, I guess."

Her embarrassment delighted him because it was obviously real, without any attempt at flirtation. "Now you make me feel dreadful for waking you."

"Don't," she said seriously. "I was taught to fall asleep whenever I wanted to and to wake up without feeling groggy or cranky. I can do it at will; just close your eyes for a minute or two and feel completely rested. Like Napoleon."

Her voice was low and soft, with a little lilt at the end of each sentence. He wished she would go on talking. "A very useful habit. Who taught you?"

"My brother, Guy. He thinks life is too short to waste half of it sleeping."

Too short, thought Mark Travers. Much too short for all the things one wanted to accomplish. "Indeed, he is right."

"Oh, yes. He is always right." A little line appeared in the smooth curves of her cheek, pulled at the corners of her full, wide mouth and made her look older all of a sudden. How old was she anyhow? When he had watched her dance, he had taken for granted that such virtuosity had to be the result of years of training, that she must be in her early twenties.

Now he was no longer sure. There was about her the seriousness of a child. That was it. She was as natural as a child who didn't know its own power. But the line of resignation around her mouth disturbed him.

'Typical' Americans On Display In Soviet

By DOROTHY ROE Associated Press Women's Editor

When a "typical" Soviet family meets a "typical" American family, what's going to happen? Nobody will know for sure until July 25, when the American National Exhibition opens in Moscow, complete with three "typical" American families, all wearing "typical" American clothes and living in a "typical" American home. But here's my guess:

When Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Ivanovich and all the little Ivanoviches take a look at Mr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Davis, of Short Hills, N. J., and their three children, Jeff, Jane and Chuck, they may not believe it. They may not accept the fact that average American families live in a modern ranch house with television and push-button appliances. They may not believe that the ordinary American family is as handsome and well-dressed as this one. They may say it's all capitalist propaganda.

The Davises are one of the three "typical" families chosen from hundreds of applicants to represent their country at the Moscow exhibition. Pop is a good-looking, clean-cut advertising salesman, mom is a pretty, efficient housewife, active in church, school and community affairs. And the three young Davises, ranging in age from 10 to 13, are all-American kids—healthy, happy, interested in everything from baseball to dancing and thrilled at the chance to see how the Soviets live.

The "typical working family" at our exhibit will be Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hochman, of Brooklyn, and their three children—Stephanie, 13, Ann, 11, and Seth, 7. Hochman is a presser for a dress manufacturer and an officer of Local 60, ILGWU.

His wife is interested in sewing, gardening and the PTA. Stephanie likes rock 'n' roll and is a high school cheer leader. Ann is a Girl Scout and Seth is just a regular boy.

Then there's the family of a working mother, Mrs. Michele Conlon Burke, a professional singer and dancer, who lives in Teaneck, N.J., and has twin 4-year-old daughters, Patricia and Stephanie.

District Meet Slated May 25

The Pitt District Committee of the Boy Scouts of America will hold its monthly meeting May 25 at 7:45 at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville.

Dr. Robert E. Wilfong, district chairman, said this will be the last meeting before the fall and all members are urged to attend.

Annual School Bus Rodeo To Be Held May 28

The annual School Bus Rodeo for boy and girl drivers in the Pitt, Greene, and Lenoir County area will be held in Winterville at the County School Garage on May 28, with $100 scholarships going to the winners.

According to R. T. Rogerson, Driver Education Representative of the State Department of Motor Vehicles, the local contest will eliminate all but a pair of drivers, a boy and a girl, who will then be eligible for the state finals in Chapel Hill, June 12-13.

Rogerson said the state champions will each receive $500 scholarships and the runners-up will get $200 scholarships.

The district prizes are being provided by Hackney Brothers Body Company of Wilson in the boys' division and the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company of Winston Salem in the girls' contest. On the state level, the North Carolina State Motor Club and the North Carolina Motor Carriers Association supply the scholarships. It was noted that the Governor's Traffic Safety Council has jurisdiction over the awards, and is responsible for presenting them.

The annual School Bus Rodeo was organized four years ago under the auspices of the Governor's Traffic Safety Council to provide, as Gov. Luther Hodges said, "a stimulus for greater safety and skill on the part of the more than 7,500 young people who drive the buses."

COLLECTED A KISS

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—June Lemon, a petite, red-haired waitress, lost her wallet containing $308 in 45 feet of water during a boat drill aboard the liner Matsonia at its dock. Salvage diver Berger Norvik and two helpers recovered it. The job normally would have cost $4000, but Norvik gallantly waved aside money and collected a kiss instead.

Unprepared Hordes Of Africans To Be 'Free'

By LYNN HEINZERLING

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Forty million Africans will join the free peoples of the world next year. The flame of nationalism, ignited in World War II, is creeping down the African continent. Bound up with its steady advance are new perils and immense challenges for the statesmen of Africa and the world.

The most recently emancipated states, Ghana and French Guinea, will be joined by four new and independent nations in 1960—the French Cameroons, French Togoland, Nigeria, and Somalia.

Togoland, the French Cameroons and Somalia, a former Italian colony, now are United Nations trust territories. Their total population is about six million. Nigeria is a rich British colony with 34 million.

Nationalistic ferment has spread far ahead of the advancing tide of freedom. Impoverished and uneducated Africans in their mud huts and cheerless shacks have found new hope and encouragement in the advancement of their brothers.

In the Belgian Congo, where rioting took dozens of lives in January, African political leaders are demanding an African government by Jan. 1, 1961. The Belgian government, which has invested millions in this colony, has promised independence at an unstated time in the future.

Even ardent friends of the Africans in the Congo say they are totally unprepared to take over the administration of this huge area, more than four times as large as France, by 1961.

Illiteracy among Africans south of the Sahara runs 60-90 per cent and sometimes higher throughout the colonial regions.

This is one of the blocks between subjection and freedom. Even in such carefully prepared colonies as Ghana and Nigeria, outside technical and administrative experts will be required for years.

Ghana, Guinea, the Belgian Congo, Angola, Nigeria and some of the autonomous republics in the French community in Africa are studying hydroelectric projects to provide power for industry. Millions of dollars in foreign capital will be needed to bring the living standards in these areas up to a reasonable level.

But economic considerations will not deter the surge toward independence. Most of the new political leaders in Africa know that the white man's talents and capital will be needed for a long time to bring Africa to its real potential.

This situation of dire poverty and urgent need of outside assistance is attractive to Moscow. The Soviet Union has sought a foothold in Ghana and each new independent state is certain to be exposed to Moscow's blandishments.

Install Officers Of Bethel PTA

BETHEL—Officers for 1959-1960 activities of the Bethel Parent-Teacher Association were installed recently at the final 1958-1959 meeting of the group.

The new officers are Mrs. Robert Davis, president; Mrs. Ralph Carson, vice-president; Mrs. William C. Whitehurst, secretary; and Mrs. Hilda Alexander, treasurer. They were elected unanimously after being selected by a nominating committee headed by D. O. Speer.

Speakers at the meeting were Mrs. Edna Earle Baker and Arthur Alford, supervisors for the Pitt County Board of Education. Mrs. Baker discussed promotion policies of the county schools and Alford pointed out parental obligations in regard to promotion and grades.

The Rev. Wiley Clark presented the devotional for the meeting, which also included comments by Principal W. C. Latham on attendance at PTA meetings.

Kitchen Is Focal Point In Home

RALEIGH — The kitchen is often termed the "focal point" of activity in the modern home. And a well planned kitchen can eliminate continuous bending, stooping, and stretching.

Mrs. Pauline Gordon, house furnishings specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says that members of a household spend a large portion of their time in the kitchen. Those who work there want it to be cheerful, light, convenient, well ventilated, attractive in appearance, and easily kept in spotless order.

Efficiency in kitchen activities can save minutes for other household duties. Careful planning should be made for caring for supplies, preparing and cooking food, serving meals, washing dishes, and storing food. Miss Gordon encourages anyone who is planning to remodel to plan for all the activities which will make housekeeping an easier task.

Mrs. Manning Hostess

BETHEL—Mrs. X. E. Manning entertained the Tuesday afternoon Bridge Club. Two tables were arranged for play.

Immediately after the guests arrived they took their places and at the conclusion of three progressions, Mrs. J. C. Wynne, Jr. was awarded high score prize. Mrs. Clayton Carson was consolation prize winner.

Between progressions, the hostess served a dessert course.

New Glass Has Heirloom Look

One of the great joys to people who love glassware is the enormous step that has been taken in hand-crafted glass as shown in a recent glass and china show. Designs cover all decor periods, and the product may be confused with old glass. It is so authentic in appearance. Persian blue, fire red, emerald green, a charcoal black shade as well as hard-to-find amethyst are available in stemware, tumblers and decorative items.

There are many innovations. There is the button-type treatment in vases, fleur de lis decoration

HD Agent Speaks On 'Coordination Of Color'

Mrs. Sue May, Home Economics agent, presented a demonstration on "Coordination of Color" at the May meeting of the Timothy Home Demonstration Club. For her demonstration, Mrs. May emphasized the coordination of colors throughout the home.

In order to do this there are three points to be considered, she told the women. First, know the basic principles of color and remember that light colors make areas look larger and dark colors make areas look smaller. Secondly, select colors that you like and, in the third place, make a master plan. Most homemakers cannot afford to redecorate the whole house at one time. However, with a large drawing of the house floor plan and the use of samples and swatches of materials, we can decide what we'd like the whole house to look like when we are able to get around.

Mrs. May demonstrated making master plans for a small five room house and a larger nine room house. She made each into a "brown house" and then a "green house" by using varying shades of brown and green with an added accent color for interest.

Mrs. Loyd Wiggins led the devotion and Mrs. Alton Gardner, president, presided over the business session. Several announcements were made: Farm and Home Week June 9-12, Federation Day on Friday, June 12, and a Crafts Workshop at East Carolina College June 16-18. Home Beautification leader, Mrs. Loyd Wiggins, gave a report on "How to Make Plants Bloom" in which she stated that adequate light and fertilizer bring about the best results.

During the social hour, a sweet course of strawberry shortcake was served by the hostess, Mrs. Fred Wall, assisted by Mrs. Ellis Peterson.

VEAL CORDON BLEU

Ingredients: 12 very thin slices even-size boneless veal (about 1½ pounds), salt, pepper, 6 slices Switzerland Swiss cheese (about 1-8 inch thick), 6 thin slices baked or boiled ham, 1-4 cup flour, 2 large or 3 small eggs (slightly beaten), 3-4 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1-4 pound (½ cup) butter.

Method: Have veal prepared as for scallopine; sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Have cheese and ham cut a little smaller in length and width than the pieces of veal. Place a slice of cheese and one of ham on each of 6 slices of veal; cover with remaining 6 slices of veal. Seal meat by pressing together. Dip in flour, then in egg, and finally in bread crumbs. Heat half the butter in a large skillet and add as many pieces of the meat that will go in one layer without crowding; brown quickly on both sides. Add butter as needed and cook remaining veal the same way. As a rule it takes only 3 to 5 minutes to cook each side of the veal. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

FOR COOK BOOK COLLECTORS There's a delightful introduction to the cookery of Switzerland in the recently published "European Cookery" (Rand McNally, $3.95). The cook book was prepared and printed in Sweden "with the close cooperation of food experts from the various countries represented," and it boasts some stunning color photographs. Directions for dishes from 24 nations are given clearly enough for an American cook to have a good chance of duplicating them deliciously in this country.

'Witnessing For Christ' Subject Used By Circle

FOUNTAIN—The Louise Beasley Circle met in the Fountain Baptist Church Monday with Mrs. Peggy Joyner as hostess. There were ten members present, also the W.M.U. president, Mrs. Jack Speight.

Mrs. I. J. Edwards, program chairman, assisted by Mrs. Alan Parker and Mrs. Albert Bell, presented a program on "Witnessing For Christ." She carried out the theme of the program by using a newspaper. Portions of scripture from James, John and Prov- erbs were read. Prayers were led by Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Edwards during the program. "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee" was used as a prayer to conclude the program. After a brief business session was held Mrs. Albert Bell presented two chapters of the Mission study book, "A Practical Primer On Prayer," by Dorothy Haskins.

Cadillac

World's Finest Miles between Start and Stop!

Name any starting point you prefer—select your favorite destination—and imagine yourself bridging the distance in a new 1959 Cadillac.

What's it like? Well, in a word, it's—wonderful! To begin with, it's wonderful just to sit there—cradled in the comfort of its cushions... surrounded by its Fleetwood luxury... and soothed by its marvelous quiet and steadiness of ride.

And how wonderful it is to command the "car of cars". A hill in the offing? A nudge of your foot carries you up and over with amazing alacrity.

A curve in the road ahead? The weight of your hand on the slender wheel makes you its master.

A traffic light gleaming red? The touch of your toe on that big, wide pedal brings you to a smooth, sure stop.

And through it all, of course, there is the indefinable magic of knowing that this is a Cadillac—admired and respected by all who behold it.

In fact, when your appointed destination comes into view, you will probably regard it with reluctance. For when the miles past have been so pleasant, the miles ahead are always tempting.

But no matter where journey's end might find you, the proof will be abundant—from first start to final stop, a journey in a Cadillac is the finest distance between any two points.

If you haven't discovered this for yourself, we urge you to visit your Cadillac dealer soon.

He'll be happy to lend you the keys at any time—and to give you the surprising facts about Cadillac's practicality.

House Legislation Is Aimed To Resolve High-Speed Chases

RALEIGH — A bill which puts some teeth in the law dealing with high-speed chases on the highway is being received by legislators as the "best" to the "most vicious" piece of legislation introduced this session.

Introduced by Rep. Hugh Humphrey of Guilford, the bill would allow patrolmen to stop chasing a speeder after he passes 80 miles per hour and simply take his license number.

The most controversial section of the bill provides that ownership of the car shall be "prima facie" evidence that the car was being operated by the owner.

This means that once a man is cited to court, the burden of proof falls upon him rather than the court.

Humphrey maintains that this proposed law is actually no different from the one directed toward "hot-rodgers" several sessions ago.

"Only the manufacturers are now souping the cars up," he maintains. "Every day Detroit is turning out and we are putting on our highways in North Carolina instruments of death. These cars have speeds up to 120 miles an hour."

"It appeared that every legislator present was concerned about the high speed chases but opponents leaned toward the view of Rep. Jim Bowman of Brunswick who maintained, 'There is a point beyond which we cannot go. We have always held that a man is innocent until proven guilty—he walks into court with a white cloak of innocence around him.'"

This bill, he said, would place around the defendant "a black cloak of guilt until he could prove otherwise."

That isn't all that worries some of the legislators. There is the possibility of error. The patrolman could jot down the wrong license number ("that's what those crackers are on the end of their pencils for, they can make mistakes," Bowman said).

Should this happen, the Brunswick legislator said an innocent party would have to hire himself a lawyer and go to expense, trouble and time involved to appear in court and prove he couldn't have been operating the car which the patrolman spotted. If he happened to be in the vicinity of the chase, he might have a hard time proving his innocence—it would be his word against the patrolman's.

Many others are inclined to feel that the problem is serious enough to run the risk. Among them is Carroll Holmes of Perquimans who maintains that 85 per cent of the entire driving public never get into any type of trouble with the law.

"I feel that those 85 per cent are entitled to some protection from the 15 per cent," he said. "If I were erroneously cited to court I would be willing to go out of interest in the safety of my neighbors."

The bill passed its second reading by a vote of 56-41 but was carried over on objections to the third reading.

Bootleggers Try 'The Hard Sell'

CENTREVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Bibb County Sheriff Harold Dalley says it looks like bootleggers are going in for the "hard sell" these days.

He was driving on a county road when a man flagged him down and offered to sell him some whisky. Dalley bought the whisky, then arrested the salesman on a bootlegging charge.

Tragedy During An Initiation

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP)—The initiation ceremony for a Yakima High School club, being carried out in the water of a small pond east of town, turned into tragedy Tuesday when one of the 16 initiates died.

Henry Sherwood, a 16-year-old sophomore, and 15 other youths dressed in garments made from burlap sacks were being paddled by members of the club, a letterman's organization, in the water when Sherwood sank beneath the surface.

His absence went unnoticed for several minutes. When his companions realized he was missing, they searched and found his body. Attempts to revive the boy failed.

Names Class Salutatorian And Valedictorian Of '59

By SHIRLEY WHITEHURST
Stokes-Pactolus Reporter

Top scholastic honors for the year at Stokes-Pactolus High School were announced this week by Principal W. J. Edwards.

Valedictorian of the Senior Class is Shirley Whitehurst and salutatorian is Coy Buck. Chief Marshal for commencement exercises will be Rosalee Tripp. Other marshals are Carrie Lee Whitehurst, Janice Crandall and J. R. Lee of the eleventh grade. Joel Jenkins and Gene Peelle of the tenth grade and Angeline Haddock of the ninth grade.

Parents of Seniors were guests at a tea recently.

The program included readings of the Pactolus Class History and the Stokes Grammar Grade History, by Lillie Turner and Shirley Whitehurst, with Shirley reading the high school history of the combined groups.

Faye Page recounted highlights of the Washington trip by members of the class, but the big moment in the program came when Billie Angle read the class prophecy. Linda Barnhill and Billie prepared the prophecy, predicting what each member of the class would be doing ten years from now.

Gail Bullock, class gifter, read what gift each Senior would receive on Class Day.

Parties have highlighted social activities of Stokes-Pactolus students and teachers recently. Seniors had an ice cream party at the home of their advisor, Mrs. Elsie Lewis, a week ago, and Future Homemakers of America had a picnic lunch in the gym on Wednesday. Ninth, tenth and eleventh graders were guests at individual parties at Whichard's Beach Friday afternoon and evening, while school committee members and the faculty were entertained at a fish fry last Wednesday.

Eighth grade students from Pactolus Elementary School were guests of the Stokes eighth grade Friday, on a get-acquainted trip through the Stokes-Pactolus high school department. The Pactolus students visited classrooms and were guests at a social hour in the gym.

Series Of Trials Face Bank Robber

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A 25-year prison sentence stretches ahead for Frank L. Spreng, 29-year-old "flying bank robber."

He pleaded guilty Wednesday to $25,955 robbery of the First National Bank at Hamilton, Ohio, last March 2.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge John H. Druffel imposed the 25-year term.

Then, in a surprise move, Spreng signed waivers to allow transfer here from Vermont, Pennsylvania and Maryland of federal charges of automobile and airplane thefts. He will be arraigned on those charges later.

Then comes a trial in Butler County, Ohio, for bank robbery in the Hamilton holdup. Still later, he'll stand trial in Summit County, Ohio, where he is wanted for armed robbery and jail breaking.

When all of those other charges are disposed of Spreng will start serving the 25-year term imposed Wednesday. Any sentences given him in the state courts will have to be served after the federal terms are completed.

During the long flight since his escape from the Summit County jail in Akron 13 months ago, Spreng has flitted from Toronto, through a score of states, and finally into Mexico where he was caught several weeks ago. He is known to have stolen at least three planes during that time.

Spreng divorced wife, Alberta Mae, 26, has described him as brilliant. Certainly he's been clever. He has posed, at various times, as a college student, professional football player, a garage mechanic. He often used a toupee to hide his receding hairline.

He first ran against the police when he threw rocks at another boy. He was 11 then. Later he was sent to a reformatory, but walked away from the institution's honor camp. He served two Army hitchhikes, but even then, he couldn't stay away from trouble. He stole an automobile to drive to the recruiting station and he was continually in hot water for stealing or being AWOL.

Between 1952 and 1957, Spreng drifted from one legitimate job to another, but then apparently turned to full-time crime.

Airliners' Pact Given Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board has approved formally a pact of six airlines to help each other financially when hit by strikes.

The pact, in effect since last October, was given tentative approval by the CAB last Jan. 26. Wednesday's formal 4-1 decision ordered one change in the agreement between American, Capital, Eastern, Pan American, TWA and United Airlines.

The board objected to a provision in the agreement requiring a struck airline to route traffic to the other airlines in the pact. The CAB said this provision was not essential to the basic plan, did not serve the interest of the traveling public and must be deleted as a condition to approval.

Assistance in the pact is through payments based on the amount of additional business to an operating line as a result of the shutdown of another line.

The CAB disagreed with union protests that the agreement would inject the board into the labor relations field.

to his head and threatened: "If you don't drive carefully, I'm going to kill you."

Leo Stoll, the passenger, was fined $100 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Senator Ervin Will Address ECC Graduates On Sunday

The Hon. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., U.S. Senator from North Carolina, will address graduates of 1959

SEN. SAM J. ERVIN, JR. at East Carolina College at Commencement Exercises held in the college stadium Sunday, May 24, at 6 p.m. His topic will be "Making a Stepping-stone of Life."

Senator Ervin will address 908 students upon whom degrees will be conferred during the exercises. Candidates include 150 for the master of arts; 141 for the bachelor of arts; two for the bachelor of music; and 606 for the bachelor of science, at East Carolina the degree granted to those completing work in teacher-training.

A native of Morganton, N.C., and a practicing attorney there since 1922, Mr. Ervin has had a distinguished career as lawyer, jurist, member of the N.C. General Assembly, and Congressman before his appointment by Gov. Umstead in 1954 to the U.S. Senate as successor to the late Clyde R. Hoey. Mr. Ervin has twice been reelected to the position.

In the senate, he is a member of the following committees: Armed Services, Judiciary, Government Operations (Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations), and Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor or Management Field.

Senator Ervin is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and the Harvard Law School. Honorary degrees recognizing his achievements include the doctorate in laws from the University of North Carolina and Western Carolina College and the doctorate in political science from Suffolk University, Boston, Mass.

His interest in the educational life of the state is evidenced by his membership on the boards of trustees of the Morganton Graded Schools 1927-1930, the University of North Carolina 1932-1935, and 1945-1946, and Davidson College 1948-1957.

A veteran of the First World War, Senator Ervin belongs to the American Legion, the Army and Navy Legion of Valor, the Society of the First Division, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He also holds membership in a large number of civic, fraternal, and cultural organizations. In 1955 he was chosen as Morganton's Man of the Year.

Hundreds Attend Jaycee Picnic

ROBERSONVILLE — Hundreds of people from Robersonville and the surrounding area attended the Jaycee-sponsored community picnic held here Sunday at Wynland Park.

The picnic lunch was followed by an afternoon of entertainment, including sack and three-legged races, volleyball and horse shoes. The Robersonville High School Band also gave a half-hour concert in the park.

To end the afternoon's activities, at 6:30, ministers of the churches conducted vesper services in the park.

Spokesmen stated the Jaycees were considering making this an annual affair.

Links Dizziness To Income Group

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—A specialist on problems of the aged says there may be a link between dizziness and income.

Dr. Juan A. Fons told a seminar on old age here Tuesday that 54 per cent of a test group of 200 volunteer subjects, all 60 or over, complained of frequent dizziness. He found that sex, race and age had little or no relationship to the ailment. But he did note that more people in low income brackets suffered from dizzy spells than those who had earned more money.

Dr. Fons, former secretary of health for Puerto Rico and now a senior fellow in geriatric psychiatry at Duke University, said many people in the low income group were plagued by insecurity feelings and financial problems throughout their lives.

He also said those who complained of dizziness tended to be worriers about their health, and were sick more often than those free from dizziness.

New Amendments Given Davis-Jolly Measure

By BUNNY HARRIS
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — Problems of the unwed mother and her offspring remain a major issue in the 1959 General Assembly.

A House Health Committee has wrestled with the problem anew and come up with additional amendments to the Davis-Jolly bill which provides for the reporting of illegitimate births and prosecution of the mother who, in the words of Dr. Rachel Davis of Lenoir: "Just sits and breathes and makes no physical effort to support her child."

The bill, as originally drafted, provided that all illegitimate births be reported to the Bureau of Vital Statistics together with the names and addresses of the parents and that this information be turned over to the solicitor of the judicial district in which the child was born.

The protests of adoptive agencies and homes for unwed mothers lead to amendment of the bill Wednesday. Under its new provisions reports would be made to the Welfare Department rather than the Bureau of Vital Statistics. Only those cases involving Aid to Dependent Children funds would be reported to superior court solicitors.

Even then the solicitor, or anyone working for or with him and having access to the information, would be required to keep the information confidential unless its disclosure were required for purposes of prosecution.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor for a mother to wilfully neglect or refuse to support her child. If the mother is found to be a mental defective or suffering from a mental disorder or illness she would be referred to one of the state mental institutions for rehabilitation.

The committee postponed action on the bill until all persons who previously appeared in opposition to it have an opportunity to study the amendments.

The committee, however, did take favorable action on the bill of Sen. Lunsford Crew of Halifax which makes giving birth to two or more illegitimate children a misdemeanor. This bill has already passed the Senate.

Other bills directed at the problem of illegitimacy and misuse of ADC funds include:

1. Warren Rep. John Kerr's bill which provides that the court may appoint a guardian in cases where a mother has demonstrated inability to use wisely funds for the support of her children
2. A reciprocal payment act between counties in which the acknowledged father may make payments for the support of his child or children to the Welfare Department which will in turn give the money to the mother.
3. Martin Sen. Elbert Peel's bill which gives the Welfare Board legal assistance to enforce its rules and regulations. This bill has already passed the Senate and is currently in a House Judiciary Committee.

Lindsay Crosby Has An Air Of Mystery

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Here comes the Phantom."

That's the way the older Crosbys greet their baby brother, Lindsay. He has earned the handle by his air of mystery. While the comings and goings of the other three are fairly predictable, Lindsay is always hard to locate. Here's how the brothers describe him:

Gary: "He's like the old man (Bing). He's more quiet than the rest of us, more sly with his humor."

Phillip: "He's the coolest one of us. He has a great disposition."

Dennis: "Lindsay just exists."

Lindsay differs in looks, too. He is the darkest of the four, with curly brown hair and heavy eyebrows, a slim, handsome face with cleft chin. At 21, he seems amazingly mature.

Gary and the twins were only a year apart. Lindsay came three and a half years later, and he recalls being an unwelcome tag-along during his boyhood. After Dixie died, Bing dropped his career to spend most of a year with Lindsay. They toured Europe, where Lindsay pursued his interest in art.

The lad attended a semester at Williams College in Massachusetts; then dropped out to serve his Army duty. "I liked Williams, but I didn't think I was getting anything out of it," he says.

Most of his Army service was at Ft. Ord, 300 miles north of Hollywood. It was during this time that he decided on a show business career. He emceed an Army show on a Los Angeles TV station and sang for teenagers at roller rinks and dance halls.

"One night I looked down at all those kids watching me and I discovered I was enjoying myself," he says.

Recently out of the Army, Lindsay shares a two-bedroom hillside home with singer Jimmy Boyd. He has made some records with fair success — "But they wanted me to sing rock 'n' roll and my voice is too low for that." Jerry Wall feels he has great promise as an actor and wants to cast him in "Hound Dog Man." But Lindsay insists that nothing will interfere with the brother act the Crosbys are preparing for a nationwide tour.

Only about 30 tons of platinum are mined each year. About 1,200 tons of gold and 7,000 tons of silver are mined.

Would Question Hoffa On Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Labor-Management Committee says it wants to hear first-hand James R. Hoffa's views on any retaliatory strike threat.

Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, denied Wednesday he had threatened a nationwide labor walkout if restrictive labor laws are passed by Congress. He was quoted as making such a threat in a speech Tuesday at Brownsville, Tex.

The committee said it wanted to question Hoffa in mid-June about corruption and will ask him then under oath about plans for any such strike.

Hoffa told newsmen there never would be a nationwide strike of the Teamsters Union. However, a story in the current issue of Life magazine quotes him as saying, "We may eventually have to do what labor unions do in Europe and call general strikes."

While Hoffa was making his denial, the AFL-CIO, from which the Teamsters have been ousted, opened a major attack on the Senate labor bill.

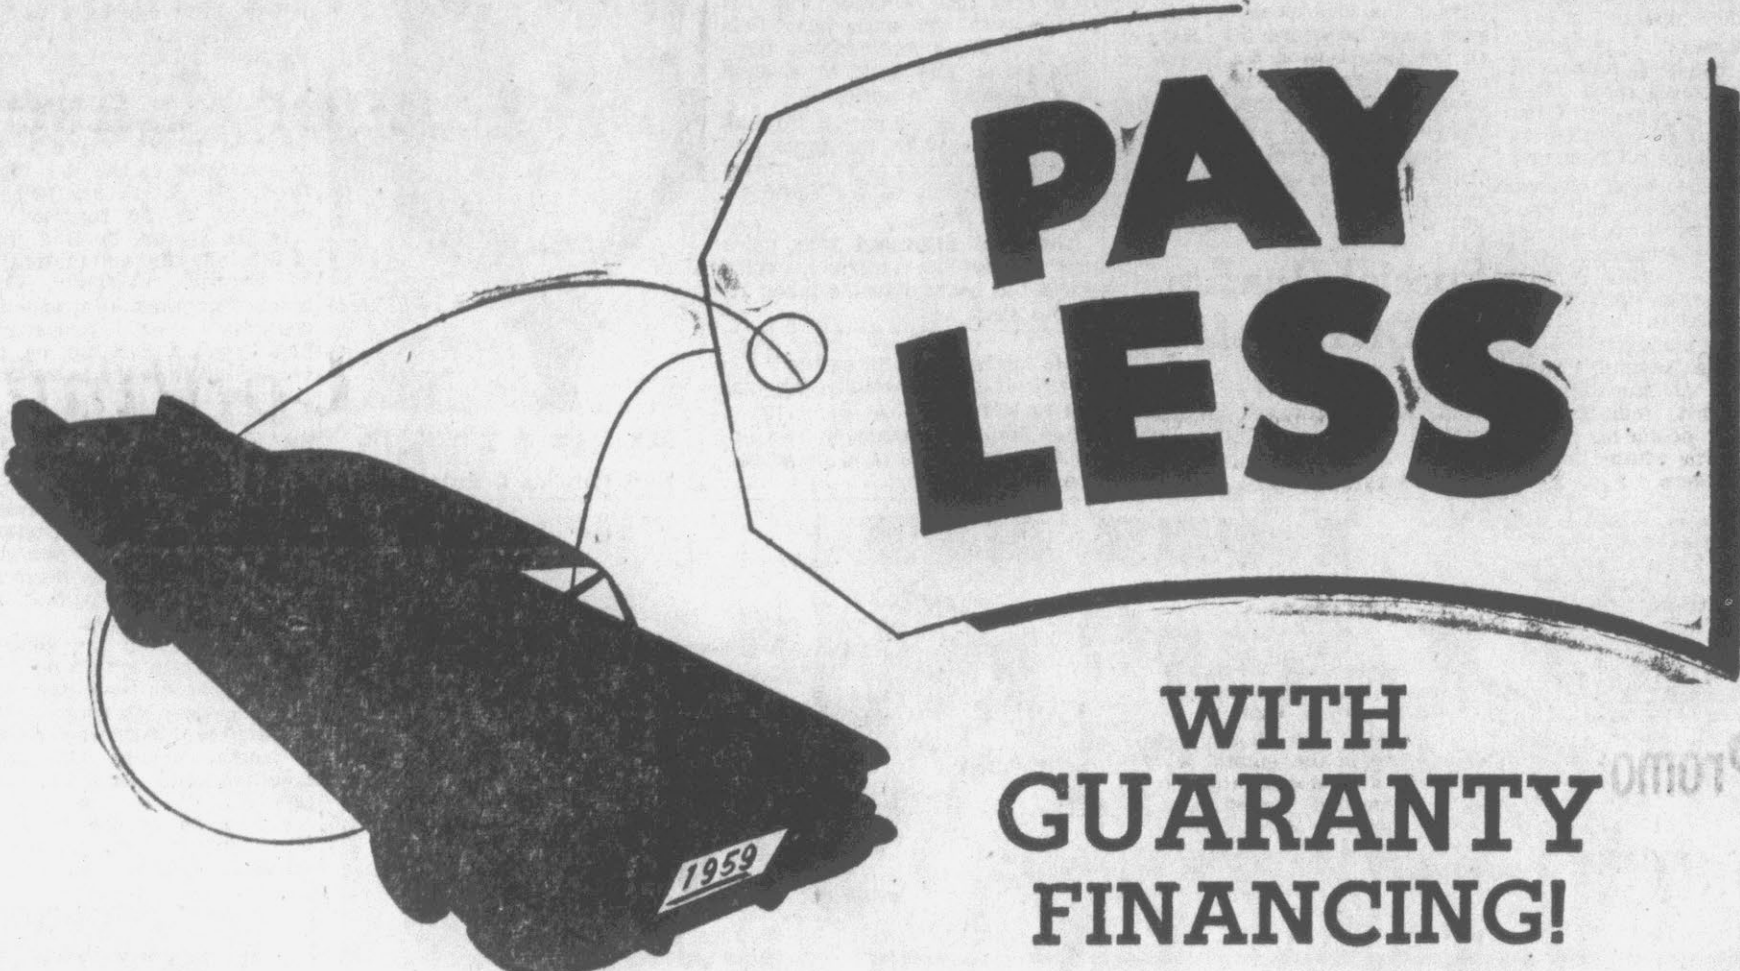

The top policy group of the AFL-CIO said it wants federal legislation to help unions curb corruption but will fight any move to hamstring unions. It said the Senate bill which it once supported now is unacceptable because of its amendments.

The federation's opposition apparently focuses on a "bill of rights" for union members and picketing and hot cargo boycott bans added in amendments.

Volunteers Own Endorsement

DENVER (AP) — Edward Hirschfeld, a director of the Jewish National Home for Asthmatic Children here, caught a taxi during a New York trip. When the cab driver learned he was from Denver, he said "my kid raves about it. They practically saved his life in Denver."

Then he handed a folder of matches to Hirschfeld. It bore the name of the Jewish National Home.

St. Louis Cards Win 4th In Row

By ED WILKS
AP Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals finally have made a move to see how the other half lives in that National League pennant chase.

They're still seventh, just five days free of the cellar and eight games shy of first place, but the Cardinals are on their first real winning streak of the season after whipping Pittsburgh and winless Bob Friend 11-1 Wednesday night.

It was the Cards' fourth straight success and they did it on the six-hit pitching of Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell and the second successive three-RBI game by Bill White, who has six hits in eight trips for two nights.

That put St. Louis within four games of the first division after Los Angeles slipped to fourth by splitting a two-night double-header with Cincinnati. The fifth-place Reds beat the Dodgers 7-5 after an opening 4-4 defeat.

The San Francisco Giants retained second, ending Milwaukee's winning streak at six games, 6-3. Chicago's persistent Cubs remained in third with a 7-5 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Boxing Promoter Says 'Warned'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A boxing promoter claims he backed out of a deal to muscle in on welterweight champion Don Jordan's contract and got this warning:

"We are going to meet at the crossroads and somebody's going to get hurt. We'll make an example of you."

Jackie Leonard told the California Athletic Commission Wednesday that the warning came in a telephone call from a man who identified himself as Frankie Carbo.

"He was raving so much I hung up," Leonard added.

Carbo is being sought by a New York grand jury investigating alleged mobster influence in prize-fighting.

Leonard promoter at Hollywood Legion Stadium, testified he was a reluctant go-between for Frank (Blinky) Palermo, who demanded a 15 per cent cut of Jordan's earnings.

Palermo is a Philadelphia fight manager and associate of Carbo. Leonard said he first was approached by Palermo last November while negotiations were in progress for a title fight between Jordan and Virgil Akins, then welterweight champion.

Elroy Sidelined By Cut Fingers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pittsburgh's ace relief pitcher, Elroy Face, cut two fingers on his pitching hand in an accident Wednesday.

Face dropped a glass of water in his hotel room. He started to pick up the broken glass and cut himself on the top of the last two fingers on his right hand.

The Pirates said Face should be able to pitch in four days or so.

Fullerton To Be Tatum's Aide

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Ed Fullerton, 28, a member of the University of Maryland football staff since 1956, today was named an assistant football coach at North Carolina.

Fullerton, an all-time Maryland backfield great, replaces Pat Preston, who resigned to become an assistant coach of the Montreal club of the Canadian Professional League.

Fullerton will work under his old college coach at Maryland, Jim Tatum. He was co-captain of Tatum's 1952 team when he was named his school's "athlete of the year."

He had played alternately at fullback and halfback the three previous seasons and was a key man on the 1951 team, which won 10 games without a defeat. Following graduation in 1953 from the School of Business and Public Administration, Fullerton played one season with the Pittsburgh Steelers. After two years in the Air Force, Fullerton went back to Maryland in 1956 as an assistant coach to Tommy Mont, who had succeeded Tatum when the latter became head coach at North Carolina.

Fullerton will report here this summer.

Tatum, highly pleased, said: "He gives our staff fine balance as now we have three assistants who were backs, who are equally well acquainted with current end play, and four who were linemen."

Fullerton, a native of West View, Pa., is married to the former Joan Walton. They have two sons.

Air Differences Between School Board, Carroll

By BUNNY HARRIS
RALEIGH—Rep. B. I. Satterfield of Person has requested that differences between Dr. Charles R. Carroll, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the State Board of Education be made public.

In a letter to Dallas H. Herring, chairman of the State Board, Satterfield Wednesday expressed the belief: "I think the people of North Carolina have been kept in the dark about this matter which so vitally affects the schools of our state."

Satterfield's letter came on the heels of a public hearing on a bill which transfers to the Board some of the powers currently held by the superintendent. While the bill implied that some dissension exists, committee members were unable to determine the nature of the controversy.

Satterfield has requested both Dr. Carroll and Herring to put their versions "of the differences that now exist" in writing before the bill comes back up for committee vote next Wednesday.

"I am terribly concerned about the provisions of (the bill) which provides for the lessening of the power of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction which is the duly elected constitutional officer of this State and transferring this power to a non-elected group which is not responsible to the will of the people," Satterfield said.

"It appears there are differences between the State Board and the Superintendent with reference to educational policies affecting the public schools of North Carolina," he said. "H. B. 837 has been introduced and is now before the House Education Committee to resolve the differences of opinion."

Satterfield also said: "It seems to me that there has been an attitude on the part of some to keep these differences that exist from becoming a matter of public information. I think this is wrong because the people of North Carolina ought to know what the policies of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction are and the policies of the State Board of Education are in order that the General Assembly of North Carolina may determine what is best for the schools of the State."

DIE IN REFRIGERATOR

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Two brothers were found dead Wednesday night in an unused refrigerator in the basement of their home. Paul Kelly, 11, and Edward Kelly, 4, were discovered by a sister, Pauline, during a family hunt for the missing boys. It was her 16th birthday.

'Half-Acre House' Kept On Growing

By JAY HENSLEY
Asheville Times Staff Writer
(Written for The Associated Press)

ASHEVILLE (AP)—It just sort of grew up out of the earth. Every stone in the structure was taken from the land on which it stands.

And it's mostly all stone, inside and out. The walls never need painting nor papering. Their rounded rock surfaces were finished during the Ice Age.

The sprawling home on Lytle Cove road east of Swannanoa began as a one-room rock building on what was then known as Rangood road.

It kept growing, a section or two at a time, and spread out like crab grass in a fertile mountain field.

And now, after 35 years or so, the house and its accessories cover close to half an acre of land. It's still growing, too.

The house, named Rangood Lodge while it was still a single room of stone occupied only occasionally on weekends, is not a fortress — although some of the deep-set windows are laced with bars of iron.

And firearms, mostly muzzle loader rifles of days gone by, decorate doorways and overflow to the sloping ceiling of the "first room" of the huge house.

Protective stone partitions stand between the rooms. Solid stone shelves emerge from the walls and massive beams of poplar reach out of the rocks to support the many-gabled roof.

The walls of the house average two feet in thickness, ranging anywhere from 18 inches at some points to three feet at other places.

The house was built almost single-handedly by J. Serop Styles, Asheville attorney, who bought the land at the close of World War I with the intention of turning it into a beef cattle ranch.

The first room constructed is now used as a living room and contains more conversation pieces than a poke-full of polly parrots.

A 90-gallon copper still — complete with a copper coil "worm" — is suspended from the center of the high cathedral ceiling opposite a graping stone fireplace. It is a boiler-type moonshine still with a built-in furnace. It hangs from the ceiling by iron chains.

An elk head, mounted over the northwest entrance, stares balefully out over the room. Styles says it is the largest elk head in America. With perhaps the exception of one or two still possessed by their original owners — the elk.

The 12-point buck was bagged on the Olympic Peninsula in the State of Washington.

Of the dozen full-size rooms, this one, the first built, eventually becomes the final home for oddities collected by the Styles family.

But other parts of the house contain fascinating innovations, also.

A new kitchen constructed by a son and a daughter-in-law, Bill and Harriet Styles, is lighted during the long summer days by fiberglass filtered sunshine.

Harriet did the rock masonry on the new addition to the home. Bill, also an Asheville attorney, did the cabinet work and devised the skylight.

The tub in a bathroom adjoining Styles' bedroom is built into the floor. The rim of the oversize tub is floor level, like a roman bath.

The new kitchen and adjoining laundry room utilize part of the space once occupied by Styles' library. A bath has been installed in the rest of that area, which is connected to a hallway by a cavelike arched stone entrance.

A 20-by-22 foot playroom, which was once a garage, occupies the east corner of the structure. Decorated door panels drop out of the walls to form a roadbed for an electric train when the grandchildren congregate in the room. There is a fireplace in nearly every room of the house — and there's one on the front porch.

The porch itself is an awesome creation. Like a mountaintop tower, the world spreads out below it.

The fireplace, actually an outdoor barbecue pit, is built into the broad barrier across the side of the porch. In the distance is Allen's Knob and beyond lies lofty Clingman's Peak.

Within the confines of the 65 acres that remain of Styles' farm are two giant oaks. They measure five and six feet in circumference.

The house is supplied by its own water system.

A large rock-walled swimming pool stretches out from the front porch. Few of these stones are mortared at all, but some 2,800 bags of cement have been used in the construction of the house.

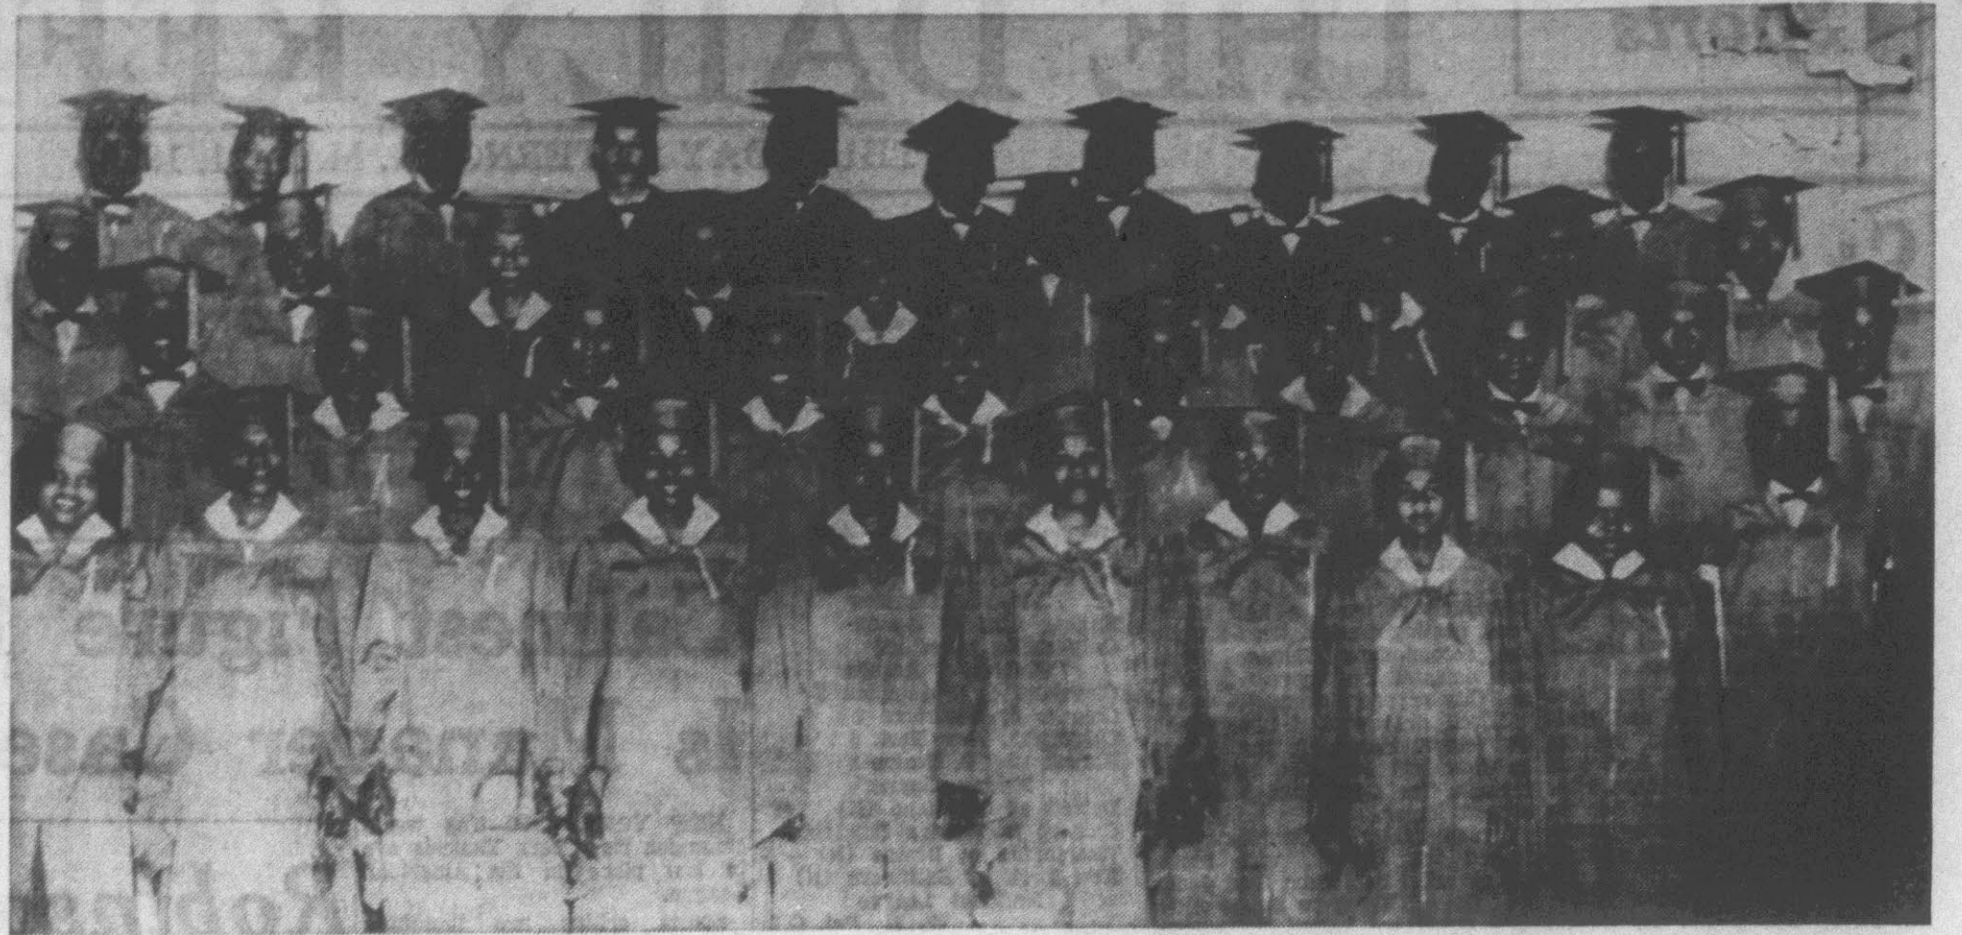

One tour through this stony structure is not sufficient. Going inside for a second survey, there's an American bald eagle at the other end of the living room facing the elk head, wings spread as if ready to take flight.

Between the two and on either side of the suspended distillery hang oxen yokes. One of the yokes was worn by an ox that plodded in front of Henry Clay when he was a ploughboy in Kentucky, Styles said.

NOT CHICKEN FEED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—When Roy Wilmuth opened his new chicken feeder he found $1,000 in it. He had bought the feeder at the hardware store of Ralph Stanley over the weekend. He returned the money to Stanley, who explained he had hidden it to keep burglars from finding it.

Tourists spend 77 million dollars annually in Hawaii.

Hendersonville Woman 'Teacher Of The Year'

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Clara C. Babb of Hendersonville was named North Carolina's Teacher of the Year Wednesday by the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs.

Her name will be placed in competition with teachers across the nation for the national award, to be presented by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Babb is principal and eighth grade teacher at Valley High School in Hendersonville. She has taught for 35 years and was a pioneer in audio-visual aids.

The state federation is here for its 57th annual convention. Josephine Swain Newborn, 17, a senior at Tarboro High School, won the federation's college scholarship.

The federation also presented awards to individual clubs judged best in the various contests. Speakers Wednesday included Mrs. Constance V. Baloon, wife of the cultural attaché of the Philippine Embassy, and Marion Hill Freminger, former international socialite, who told of the work of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, famed medical missionary.

Among the club awards, the New Bern Junior Woman's Club was recognized for its work in behalf of Caswell State Hospital, and the Greensboro Junior Woman's Club received an award for its work in behalf of Butner State Hospital.

WIN A BEAUTIFUL MAHOGANY FINISH AND SILVERPLATE SALAD BOWL 1000 PRIZES!

EASY! Just make and name your favorite of these salads. Win the beautiful salad bowl shown. Bowl is 11 1/2 inches wide, 4 inches deep; dark mahogany finish; tulip wood with beautiful silverplate base. 1000 bowls given away. See easy rules below.

NAME THESE SUPER SALADS

1 Sealtest COTTAGE CHEESE AND VEGETABLE SALAD

Wash and chill all vegetables. Stem and seed 1 medium green pepper; trim 3 scallions and 3 radishes; scrape 2 medium carrots and 2 stalks of celery. Coarsely chop all these and 1 medium cucumber. Sprinkle in 1/4 tsp. ground basil and 3 tsp. Italian dressing. Mix thoroughly. Fold 2 tsp. finely chopped onion, 1/4 tsp. onion salt into 2 cups Sealtest Cottage Cheese. Mound seasoned cheese over salad bowl. Ring the mound with marinated vegetables and liquid. Spoon 1/4 cup mayonnaise around vegetables to form outer ring. Garnish with peeled tomato wedges, parsley sprigs. Sprinkle chopped parsley over cheese.

4 to 6 servings

2 Sealtest COTTAGE CHEESE AND FRUIT SALAD

Fold 1 tsp. grated orange rind, 1/4 cup drained crushed pineapple, and 1/4 cup orange pieces into 2 cups Sealtest Cottage Cheese.

In a salad bowl, toss 4 cups bite-size pieces crisp lettuce and 2 cups small pieces of watercress with 2 tsp. French dressing. Mound cheese mixture over greens. Surround cheese sections, sliced strawberries and small white grapes. Garnish with sprigs of mint. Top cheese with 1 whole strawberry, halved.

4 to 6 servings

3 Sealtest COTTAGE CHEESE AND MEAT SALAD

Fold 2 frankfurters (thinly sliced), 1/4 cup thin sliced radishes, 1/4 cup thin sliced small green stuffed olives, 2 tsp. finely diced celery, 1 tsp. mayonnaise and 1 tsp. prepared mustard into 2 cups Sealtest Cottage Cheese. Chill.

In salad bowl toss 4 cups bite-size pieces crisp lettuce, 2 cups bite-size pieces crisp chicory, 1/4 cup diced green pepper and 1 small onion sliced crosswise with 2 tsp. Italian dressing. Mound cheese mixture over chilled greens. Garnish with slices of frankfurter, olives, radishes and chopped parsley.

4 to 6 servings

FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE RULES...USE ENTRY BLANK BELOW

1. Simply name any of the salads shown. Enter as often as you wish, but each entry must be on a separate entry blank, or plain piece of paper and accompanied by a separate "Sealtest" trademark from any Cottage Cheese carton. Print your name and address and the name and address of your dealer. Mail entries to "Name the Salad Contest," P.O. Box 331, New York 46, N. Y.

2. Winners to be chosen by Advertising Distributors of America, Inc., an independent judging organization, on the basis of originality and aptness of thought. All winners to be notified by mail. One prize to a family. All entries become the property of National Dairy Products Corp. None will be returned. Contest open to all residents of the United States except employees of the National Dairy Products Corp., its subsidiaries, advertising agencies and their families. Decision of judges is final. Entries must be postmarked on or before midnight, August 2, 1959.

List of winners will be supplied upon application with self-addressed stamped envelope. Contest subject to all federal, state and local regulations. Duplicate prizes in case of ties.

Seek Closing Of Tax 'Loopholes'

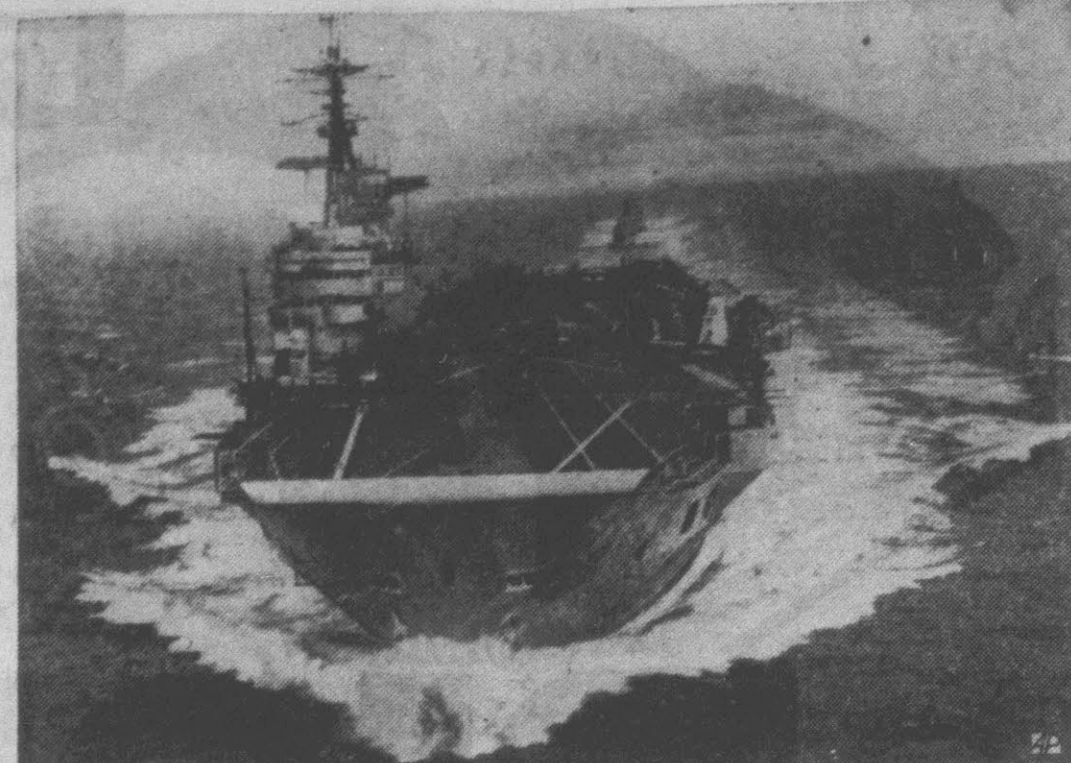

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Democratic senators called today for legislation they said would close tax loopholes and bring in additional revenues estimated at 2½ billion dollars.

Such legislation was prepared for introduction by Senators Joseph S. Clark (Pa.), William Proxmire (Wis.), Eugene J. McCarthy (Minn.) and Paul H. Douglas (Ill.). A joint announcement said:

Clark's bill would eliminate numerous luxury items now taken as ordinary business expense deductions for tax purposes. These would include entertainment at night clubs, theaters and sporting events, as well as maintenance of yachts, hunting lodges, gifts between businessmen, country club dues, and travel to conventions outside the United States.

Proxmire's bill would withhold the tax at the source on certain dividend and interest payments, as is now done in the case of wages and salaries.

McCarthy's bill would repeal the 1954 special credit and exclusion from taxation of income from dividends.

Douglas' bill would reduce the oil and gas depletion allowance on a sliding scale basis by reducing the existing 27½ per cent depletion allowance to 15 per cent for those who receive income from oil and gas properties in excess of five million dollars per year, and to 21 per cent for those with oil and gas income between one and five million dollars a year. There would be no reduction in the depletion allowance for those with oil and gas income below one million a year.

Demand Leeches For Black Eyes

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pharmacist M. L. Cooper is stocking leeches on his shelves these days. The public demands it, he says.

The retail price is $1.50 per worm. Most of his sales are to people with shiners, who contend one leech usually will drain the coagulant from one black eye.

"They don't cause infection," says Cooper, "and they're cheaper than beefsteak."

Music Education Workshop Ahead

East Carolina College, with the cooperation of the Follett Publishing Company, will present June 8-19 a Music Education Workshop at which all phases of the elementary school music program will be studied and demonstrated. Beatrice Chauncey, faculty member of the department of music at the college, is in charge of arrangements.

The workshop will be open to classroom teachers, music specialists, and curriculum supervisors. Those enrolled may earn three quarter hours on the senior-graduate level. Registration will take place from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. June 8 and the first class session will be held immediately at the close of the enrollment period.

Activities of the workshop will focus attention on singing, music reading, listening experiences, and creative rhythms and dance. Emphasis will be placed on teaching techniques and materials for a balanced and enriched music program, grades one through eight. Groups of primary and upper-grade children will participate in demonstrations throughout the workshop.

Erika Thimey, director of the Dance Theater, Washington, D.C., an graduate of the Mary Wigman School of Dance in Dresden, Germany, will give instruction and demonstration in creative dance.

Mixed-Up Robin Now A Mother

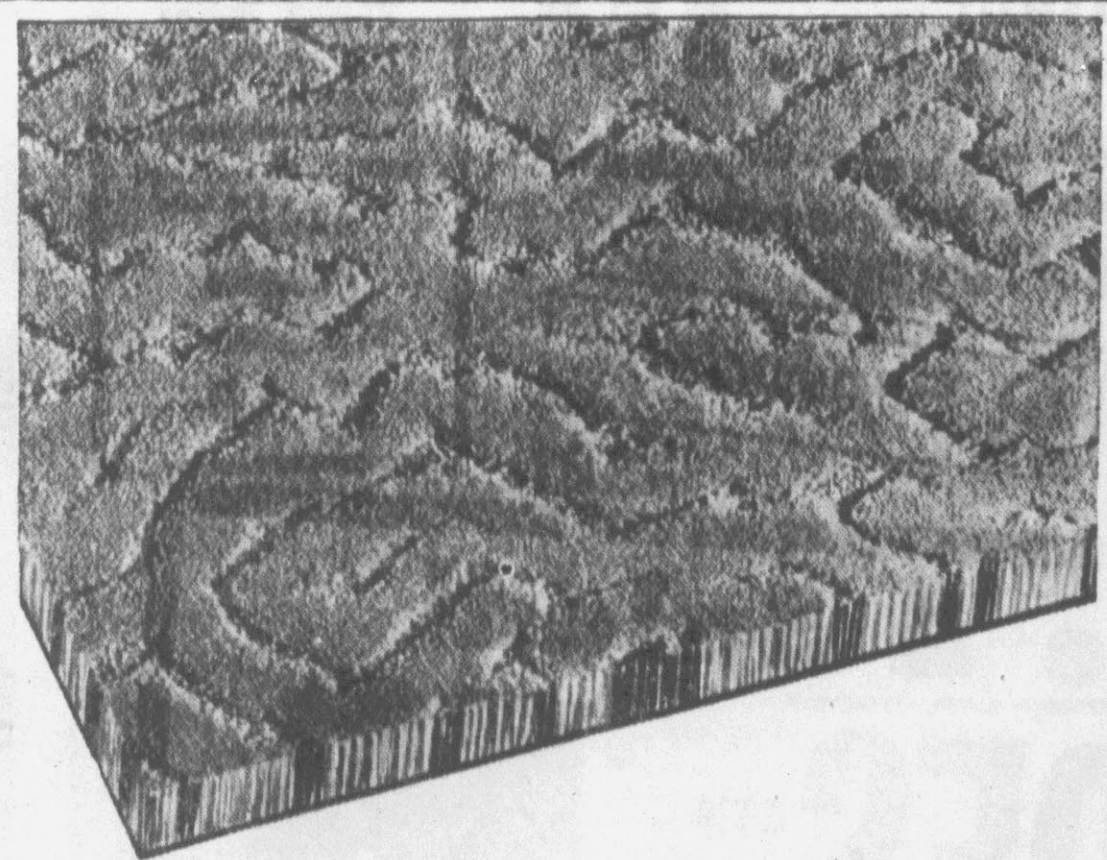

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bronx Zoo's mixed-up robin, who started to build nine nests, has quit her construction work to take on the duties of a mother and housewife.

Tuesday she hatched two of the three eggs she laid in one of the nine nests on a fire escape outside the office of the zoo's curator of birds.

She had completed four of the nine nests. If she hatches the third egg, there will be a nest for each member of the family—except the father, who hasn't been seen around.

Second Lieutenant Elbert L. Alligood, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie W. Alligood of Davis, N. C., receives his designation as a Naval Aviator from Rear Admiral J. M. Carson, USN, upon completing advanced flight training at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla. Lt. Alligood's wife, the former Miss Lorraine Styron of Davis, was present for the ceremony. Before entering the service in September 1957, Lt. Alligood was a graduate of East Carolina College.

Aloof Baudouin Lets His Royal Hair Down In Visit

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Baudouin, the 28-year-old bachelor King of the Belgians, has let his royal hair down on his current visit to the United States.

Seldom has a visiting monarch so charmed the people he met.

Aides said the slender King began to loosen up a bit in Texas ("I'm sorry I didn't get here when it was still the biggest state," he said). Still, his visit to the movie capital Tuesday started off stiff and formal.

But the royal aloofness cracked by the time he met Frank Sinatra and Gina Lollobrigida.

He and Miss Lollobrigida conversed in French and when a reporter asked him what he thought of the sexy Italian star, he made a noise with his teeth that could only be interpreted as a Belgian refinement of the wolf whistle.

At a luncheon, Baudouin's partner was actress Debbie Reynolds, who kept up a running conversation with him. She was later astonished to hear that he sometimes is called Baudouin the Silent by Belgians.

"I never met a more charming man," said Debbie. The King interrupted his split-second schedule to return with Debbie and Glenn Ford to the set where they were working.

High Enlistment In Flying Boxcar

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — When Marine S. Sgt. James R. Davis Jr., 28, reenlisted in the Marine Corps he did it on the fly.

He was on a Marine R40 "Flying Boxcar" trip from Cherry Point, N.C. when the time came, so he repeated the enlistment oath 3,000 feet above Camp Pendleton. He first enlisted in 1948.

A parade of 14 limousines plus a squadron of motorcycle officers preceded the royal limousine. On the trip over, he confided to Miss Reynolds and Ford: "I wish we could take off, just the three of us; we could have a lot of fun."

Later the same night, he attended a party at the home of a Hollywood director, where he danced until 1:40 a.m. with Miss Reynolds, Maria Cooper, daughter of Gary, and Cyd Charisse.

At Disneyland the following day, the King really had a ball. He rode in the engineer's cab of the Santa Fe and Disneyland Railroad that traverses a diorama of the Grand Canyon, and took the helm of the Mississippi River stern-wheeler — and even sounded the steam whistle.

As he left Disneyland, he asked that all of the police and chauffeurs who had escorted him through southern California be lined up. Then he walked down the line thanking each one with a hearty handshake. He did the same with the press.

"I want to come back again," he said, "and spend more time."

Grave Situation In Print Shop

BOSWELL, Pa. (AP) — Publisher Charles Long of the weekly Boswell News found stones in his printshop were something special.

The stones are large flat table-tops on which pages are assembled before they are sent to the press for printing. Long decided to clean them, found it was too big a job and decided to turn them over to use the other side.

He found lettering on the underside of one identifying it as a grave marker nearly a century old. He said he had no idea how the grave-stones became part of the equipment in his print shop.

Two Accidents In City Tuesday

Two accidents were reported in the city Tuesday; however, only moderate damage was done and no one was injured.

Police reported a collision at the intersection of Fourth and Jarvis Sts. in which a total of $600 damage was reported to the two cars.

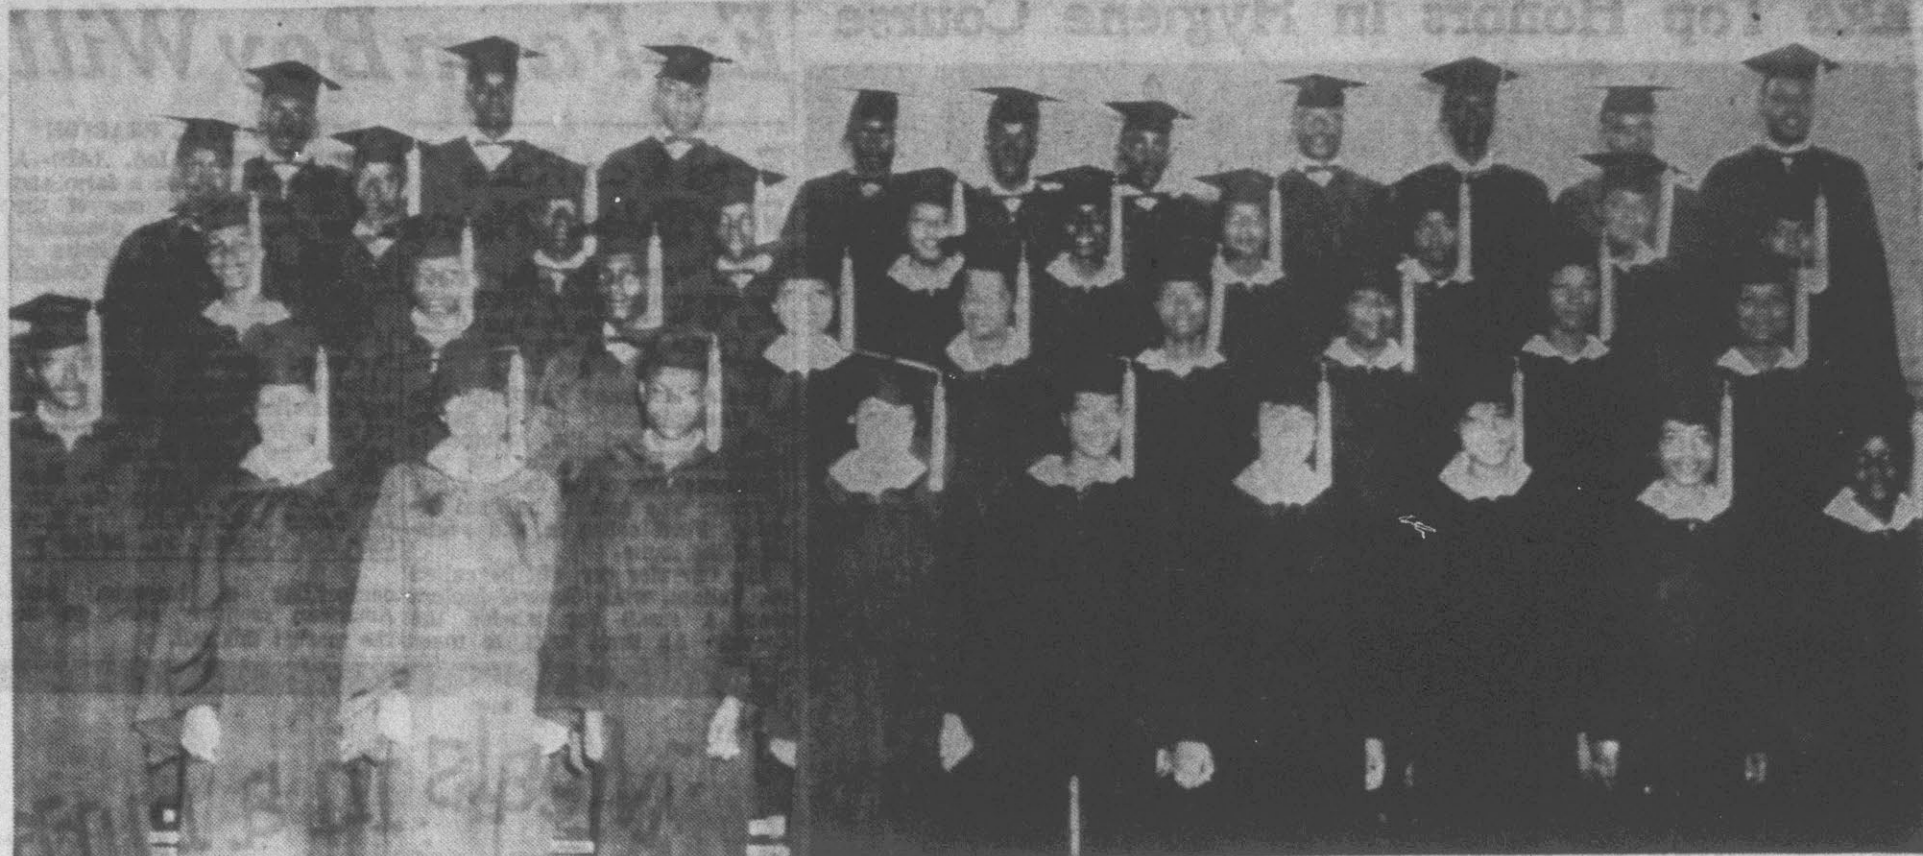

Officers listed the drivers as being Frederick M. Cutler, 23, of Route 1, Pantego, and Mrs. Rena Pollard Cobb of 2605 Crockett Drive.

Investigators charged Cutler with failure to yield the right of way as a result of the accident.

No charges were made by officers when two vehicles collided at the intersection of Evans and 10th Sts.

Drivers of the autos were listed as William Griffin Winn of Route 1, Kittrell, and Frances Mildred Jones of 208 Cotanche St.

Damage to the Jones car was placed at $10, while officers set damage to the Winn vehicle at $60.

Humber To Be Speaker For Memorial Day Services

State Senator Robert Humber (above) will be the principal speaker at the annual Memorial Day Services sponsored by American Legion Post No. 39.

The services will be held Sunday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. at the veterans' graves in Greenwood Cemetery on East Fifth Street. Dr. H.G. Haney and George W. Evans, co-chairmen of the Post's Memorial Day Committee, announced the program at the Ladies' Night meeting Tuesday night. The program will be opened by Legion Commander Ford McGowan, who will welcome invited guests and Gold Star Mothers. Choral music will be furnished by a group from Eighth Street Christian Church under the direction of Mrs. Herbert L. Carter. A Memorial Day address will be delivered by Senator Humber, followed by a hymn and a closing prayer by the Rev. John Hyland of St. Peter's Catholic Church.

A salute to the Colors will be executed by a firing squad from the local National Guard, made up of members of Battery A and Battery B, 4th Howitzer Battalion, 113th Artillery, Taps, and an echo will be sounded by buglers from J.H. Rose High School.

The ceremony will close at 5:00 p.m. with the lowering of the colors by Boy Scouts under direction of Dr. C.F. McAndrew and Elmer L. Bland.

Parking and traffic will be directed by the Greenville Police Department. The public is invited. In the event of rain, the services will be held in the National Guard Armory and announcement will be made over local radio and TV stations.

Members of the Legion Post serving with the co-chairmen on this committee, include: S.A. Whitehurst, J.H. Rose, P. McGowan, W.C. Eagles, E.E. Harris, M.E. Cavendish, E.L. Bland, Dr. C.F. McAndrew and D.J. Whichard. This is a permanent committee, and it is hoped to make Memorial Day graveside services an annual event.

Ayden Student Council Leaders Are Announced

By FRANCES BOOTH
Ayden School Reporter
Buddy Ross and Mickey Stocks have been elected top officers of the Ayden High School Student Council for the 1958-1959 school year.

Buddy was named president and Mickey was elected vice-president in school-wide voting Friday after all council candidates completed their campaigns.

Tri-Hi-Y officers for the next school year have been chosen. They are President Carol Lou Braxton, Vice-President Linda Smith, Secretary Carolyn Turnage, Treasurer Sue Fort, Chaplain Linda Worthington, Reporter Kay Curry and Assistant Reporter Camilla Sumrell.

Ayden High School's annual athletic banquet was held Friday night in the elementary school cafeteria.

Persons who attended the banquet included members of the girls' and boys' basketball teams, members of the football and baseball teams, and members of the cheering squad.

Barbara May, a member of the Junior Class, has been elected president of the Ayden chapter of Future Business Leaders of America. Other chapter officers will be elected in the fall.

Elaine Nobles was guest of honor at a surprise birthday party at the home of Mrs. W. A. Rouse. Those who attended the party included Kay Curry, Dawne Rouse, Ava Franks, Gloria Crawley, Jackie Harrington and Elaine.

REFUGEE DEATHS

CALCUTTA, India (AP)—Three deaths were reported today among Tibetan refugees in the Missamari camp in Assam state, the report said one refugee died of exhaustion and the other two of sleeping sickness, or encephalitis. Refugees fleeing from Communist-occupied Tibet are arriving in Missamari at the rate of 250 a day.

Picnic Marks An Anniversary

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Residents of one block in suburban Ruskin Heights got together for a front-yard picnic Wednesday night, the second anniversary of a terrifying night.

Exactly two years ago a tornado smashed every house in that block. The storm killed 41 persons.

Sixty-eight residents of the rebuilt homes attended the picnic. They were looking at pictures of the storm damage and telling newcomers what it was like when a tornado warning siren sent the party scurrying to basements.

It was a false alarm this time. The thunderstorm was a mild one. They resumed the picnic after the rain passed.

Comb River For Missing Boater

MOAB, Utah (AP)—A six-man crew walked the rocky banks of the Colorado River southwest of here today in the hunt for a missing boater.

They were looking for Frank A. Rich, 65, of Lakewood Village, Calif. Rich, his wife, son and daughter-in-law were thrown into rapids of Cataract Canyon Sunday when their pleasure boat capsized.

Rich was last seen clinging to the overturned 15-foot boat as it hurtled down the boiling rapids about 40 air miles southwest of here. The other members of his family were rescued. Wreckage of the boat was spotted in the canyon later.

Institutes Of Barbering Have Near Eliminated Ambitious Amateurs

By WILSON MORGAN
 Durham Staff Writer
 Written for The Associated Press

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—There is in Durham a training school which is part of a little-known national education system—a system which is under both federal and state government jurisdiction. The Durham Institute of Barbering is one of five such schools—two white and three Negro—situated in North Carolina.

Since the beginning of this state system of barbering schools in 1929, the days of the lay barber, who often had little or no qualification for his work, are almost gone. Until then, however, it seems that almost anyone could call himself a barber who felt he had a knack, or a nick, for cutting hair.

Almost anybody can cut off hair. But how many could give a haircut that anyone would want to be caught with? Haircutting may look simple, but it isn't. And that's where the role of schools enter.

Here is this school some 60 students go through an 8-month course of instruction, including book work as well as practice in barbering. This they do, according to state requirements, in order to become eligible to take the state board examination for an apprentice barber.

head, circulation of the blood, cosmetics, the growth of hair and diseases of the scalp. These study areas are covered in addition to the better known topics of shaving, haircutting, and shampooing. Close supervision is given to each student by one of the school's three instructors. All students are taught to cut hair in the same pattern of movements, according to S. E. Randall and A. R. Richardson, who own and operate the school. By failing into the habit of using an acceptable approach, the two school heads explained, there is greater assurance that each student will remain consistent in his technique throughout his career.

Once a student completes the 8-months course and qualifies as an apprentice barber, he is required to work for an additional 18 months in a private shop under the supervision of a master barber, who is a registered barber and owner of the shop. After that he is eligible to take another state board examination, this time to become a registered barber—a professional.

J. M. Cheek, chairman of the North Carolina State Board of Barber Examiners, says barbering did not always have the high standards that it enjoys in most states today. Barbering is one of the world's oldest vocations, he said, dating back to biblical times. It was through this early trade that the science of medicine got its start, beginning with the ancient barber-surgeons.

After medicine came more into its own, Cheek continued, barbering lost much of its dignity, falling into the hands of anyone who wished to practice it. The first real attempt to improve the standards of barbers was made with the opening of the first barbering school in this country in Chicago in 1873.

Many "fly-by-night" schools followed in the wake of this first school, Cheek said, until finally in 1931 it was ruled that a standard course of training was to be set up which all such schools were to follow. This was the big turning point for the barbering trade, for from that time on requirements were raised and became more standardized.

There are four other barbering schools in North Carolina besides the one in Durham. One other school for white students is in Winston-Salem, and there are three Negro schools—one each in Durham, Winston-Salem, and Raleigh. Together, the five schools have 220 students in training—a healthy supply, but, Cheek said, not enough to meet the demand.

Periodic checks are made of the state's 2,500 barber shops by the three-man board of examiners, (which is appointed by the governor) along with two other inspectors. Each establishment receives at least four inspections a year, said Cheek.

RATTLER GETS HOOKED
 McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—Mickey Davenport and a young companion, while walking in a game refuge with a rod and reel, saw something move in the grass. Mickey made a cast and hooked a four-foot rattlesnake.

Greenville Man Area Governor Of Motel Ass'n
 Paul M. Hill of Kenland Motel in Greenville has been elected governor of the North Carolina Motel Association's Area Six. The area takes in the counties of Pitt, Greene, Lenoir, Jones, Wayne and Duplin.

The association met in Greensboro last week. District governors for the 20 districts across the state were elected at the final business session. The governors make up the association's board of directors.

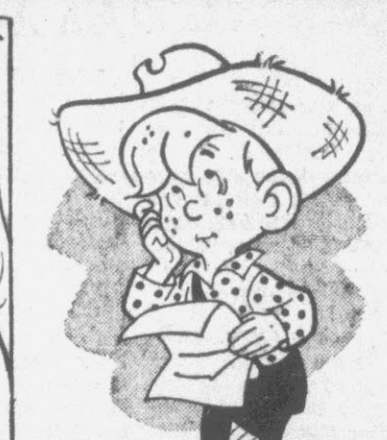

Mr. and Mrs. Hill were in attendance at the two-day convention. Hill has served as a governor during the past year.

Robert Lee Smith of Greenville was elected to serve as alternate governor.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market settled back into irregularity early this afternoon with the averages off a bit. Trading slowed.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were narrow. A few wider moves were made. Space age stocks rallied moderately at the start from Wednesday's sharp losses. They failed to hold their gains, however, and some of them showed new losses.

Raytheon, which triggered the drop of space age stocks, recouped more than a point then wiped out the gain and showed a net loss of about 2. Texas Instruments canceled an early 2-point rise and traded at a net loss of about a point. Thokol was about unchanged, Sperry Rand eased.

Northern Pacific spurted about 3, later shaving a fraction from the gain. Losses of about 2 points apiece were taken by Du Pont and Allied Chemical.

Motors were steady to a shade higher, Chrysler clipping away most of an early gain of about a point.

International Nickel, Eastman Kodak and Union Carbide dropped about a point each.

U.S. government bonds made small gains.

Rescue Squad Rehearse Wreck Rescues

REALISTIC PRACTICE . . . Members of the Greenville Rescue Squad forcing their way into a wrecked car with the aid of portable body jacks.

Greenville Rescue Squad members "rescued" several "victims" from junked cars in a realistic drill session last night.

Squad members used hand tools, electric hack saws and portable body jacks to great advantage in performing the "rescues".

Problems were set up by the training officer, Claude Christopher and squadsmen performed the "rescue" of the imaginary victim by cutting their way into the auto.

Rescue men also practiced cutting metal by using acetylene torches.

The junked cars and scrap metal were supplied by Greenville Parts and Metal Company.

Long Terms Given 3 Break-In Artists

Three Negro residents of Kinston who engineered 13 break-ins in five Eastern North Carolina counties, including three in Pitt County, were ordered to prison for long terms yesterday.

The Negroes, Thomas Curtis Jones, 32, Elmer Louis Sheppard, 34, and Ernest C. Battle, 22, drew the sentences from Judge Henry L. Stevens Jr., presiding at a one-week mixed term of Pitt County Superior Court. Jones drew a total of 15 years, Sheppard got 19 years and Battle was given five years on the three charges against each of them.

In passing the sentences, Judge Stevens, according to court records, took into consideration breaking, entering and larceny charges facing each of the three defendants in Craven, Beaufort, Jones and Pamlico counties. Under such procedures, the sentences imposed in Pitt County will serve as punishment for all the charges and the defendants will not have to stand trial in the other counties.

Jones' sentences included three five-year terms. Sheppard drew two seven-year sentences and five-year sentence, while Battle was given two two-year terms and one one-year term. Each of the defendants is to serve the terms consecutively.

Other judgments handed down by the court yesterday included: Johnnie Gardner, Negro, 903 Taylor St., Greenville, arson (car) and fraud, jury verdict of not guilty.

James Arthur Sparkman, Negro, Ayden, driving under the influence, hit-and-run, carrying a concealed weapon, plea of guilty to

Group Held Its Annual Outing

The Royal Ambassador Organization of South Roanoke Association held its annual "R.A." Camporee in tents on Pung Shores, near Belhaven, last weekend under direction of Larry Stox Sr.

The Ambassadors returned home Saturday evening in order to attend Sunday school next day. Attendance was better than last year and the overall program was excellent, the camp director stated. Ministers from other denominations in Belhaven served as judges and Julian Goff of Belhaven directed contests. Glenn Caravan had charge of supplies. Rev. John Moore of Greenville had charge of the movies. Three life guards were on the beach. Dr. Sutton of Belhaven was camp physician. Rev. Mark Owens of Greenville and Rev. John Davis of Fountain were chaplains. Associational Missionary John Moore was leader of the Bible Sword Drill.

Associational Leader Stox made the awards and announced that this is the first year for R. A. Organization to have a team in the Little League.

Safety-Check Lanes Set For Operation May 26-28

Vehicle Safety Check Lanes, sponsored by the Pitt County Safety Council and backed by the highway patrol and local police departments, will be in operation in Pitt County May 26-28 for a free safety inspection of cars.

Principal Sugg, Of Farmville, To Be Honored

FARMVILLE — The faculty, students, local Board of Education and citizens of the Farmville community will honor Mr. H.B. Sugg, retiring principal of the school named in his honor, through the initiation of an H.B. Sugg Day, May 25, 1959.

Activities will include a parade in the morning at 10:30 a.m., a band concert and testimonials to his progressiveness, his achievements, and his civic-mindedness.

The parade will form at the school and proceed through a portion of the business district of the town and return to the campus where the program will be given. An invitation has been extended to all interested citizens to attend the activities.

Minor Damage In 2 City Wrecks

Only minor damage resulted from two wrecks in the city yesterday, police reported this morning.

William Glenn Bellflower of Robersonville was charged by police with failure to give the proper hand signal as a result of a collision at Fourth and Evans Sts. yesterday.

Driver of the other auto involved was listed by officers as Joseph Daniels Carawan of 307 Watauga Ave.

Total damage to the two cars was listed as $60.

Pickup trucks driven by Hennis Amos Shware of Route 2, Winterville, and Leroy Sasser of 1202 Glen Arthur Ave., collided on Dickinson Ave. yesterday, causing about $25 damage.

No charges were made by officers after their investigation.

Broom Sale Set For Friday Night

AYDEN — Members of the Ayden Lions Club will kick off their broom sale Friday night at 7:30 with a house-to-house canvass.

The proceeds from the sale will go to their sight conservation project for aid to the blind.

Harry Cleation, broom sale chairman, said every member of the organization is expected to take part in the sale.

According to Luther Moore, chairman of the project, three lanes will be in operation Tuesday and Wednesday in Greenville and one lane each will be maintained in Ayden, Farmville and Bethel on Thursday. The lanes will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1:30 p.m. until 6:30 p.m.

Moore stated the local garages are furnishing one mechanic for each lane and the city and state highway patrol are furnishing one officer for each lane. Local civic clubs are furnishing funds to pay two full-time attendants for each lane in Greenville. Moore added, in addition to the mechanic.

Of the three lanes in Greenville, one will be located on North Greene St., one on Dickinson Ave., and the third on East 10th St. in front of the ECC gymnasium.

The "check list" for the lanes includes: brakes, lights, steering, tires, exhaust, glass, windshield wipers, rear view mirrors and horn. All drivers passing the Safety Check will be given membership cards to the "Circle of Safety."

Moore said the cooperation of the civic clubs has been most encouraging, and it is hoped that a greater number of cars will be inspected than in previous years.

Moore added, with lanes in operation in Greenville two days and lanes running at the three other points in the county for one day.

Spurns Idea Of Meeting Caril

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Charles Starkweather, scheduled to die in Nebraska's electric chair Friday, has spurned the idea of a final face-to-face meeting with his ex-wife, Caril Ann Fugate.

"I asked him if he wanted to see her and he said no," the acting warden, John Greenholz, reported. "In fact, he made it very emphatic that he didn't want to see her."

Starkweather, 20, an ex-garbage hauler, is scheduled to pay with his life shortly after 6 a.m. for one of 11 killings covered in his confessions.

Caril, 15, is serving a life term for aiding and abetting her boy friend during the murder rampage.

Starkweather, who has spent recent days reading the Bible and finishing a Western scene drawing, was convicted of slaying a Bennet, Neb. schoolboy.

Caril has contended she was a hostage of Charles in January of 1958 when three members of her family and seven other persons were killed.

But Starkweather testified at her trial that she was a willing accomplice.

Goodrich built the first rubber tire factory in Akron, Ohio, in 1870.

It should be very convenient for a person to have his auto checked if he so desires.

Serving on the committee with Moore are Charles Whedbee, Judge of the Greenville Recorder's Court, and Cpl. Titus Martin of the Highway Patrol.

Blount-Harvey Manager Resigns

E.E. Featherston has resigned as manager of Blount-Harvey's effective June 1.

Featherston came with the firm August 1, 1957. He has served during an extensive remodeling program assisting with the layout of the new store. He has continued as manager until the present.

Featherston said he plans to enter a new business in partnership with W.C. Jennette in Elizabeth City.

The business will consist of a new Marina for the purpose of selling, servicing and docking boats, motors and accessories. They will also deal in marine and automobile gas and oil.

Also to be included will be a new drive-in restaurant with seating capacity for 40 inside and more outside.

The new business will be known as the Sportsman's Marina.

Escape Charged To 2 Prisoners

Two long-term prisoners have been charged with escape after they ran from a road gang near Winterville Tuesday afternoon.

According to L. F. Dail, superintendent of the prison camp near Greenville, Duke C. Hanbury, a New York state native, and George Staples of North Carolina were re-captured about 8:50 p.m. Tuesday as they walked out of the wooded area into which they had run some seven hours earlier.

According to prison officials, Staples was serving a life sentence for second degree murder while Hanbury was serving a five to eight year sentence for robbery.

Dail said the two escapees will be tried in the next term of criminal court here.
