

Ike Emphasizes Geneva Progress In Gromyko Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko "A measure of progress" must be made at the present Geneva East-West talks if Russia wants a summit meeting.

Eisenhower expressed himself during a 30-minute White House meeting with Gromyko and the American, British and French foreign ministers.

Gromyko, without commenting on Eisenhower's call for progress, described the session as "a very pleasant and useful conversation."

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, described Gromyko's comment as "a tripartite declaration, thus saying in light humor that this was also their comment."

In a formal statement read to newsmen by his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower expressed hope that the Geneva meeting "would lead to a better approach to the solution of the problems that confront us in Europe."

Hagerty said Eisenhower stressed the need for peaceful solutions to the problems of Germany's future and other issues now being debated. He added:

"The President likewise expressed the hope that on their return to Geneva the foreign ministers would be able to achieve that measure of progress which would make a subsequent meeting of heads of government desirable and useful."

Although he talked to all four foreign ministers, Eisenhower clearly was beaming his remarks at Gromyko. He was in effect reaffirming his determination to reject a meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev unless the Soviets demonstrate good faith at Geneva by offering reasonable concessions to match the West's proposals.

Two Monkeys Return Alive From Ride Into Space In Army's Jupiter Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Two monkeys returned alive today from a space ride in the nose cone of an Army missile.

The Army announced that both monkeys were recovered alive from compartments in the nose cone of a Jupiter missile fired from Cape Canaveral. The rocket had climbed to an altitude of 300 miles and flown at speeds up to 10,000 m.p.h.

The little female monkeys named Able and Baker are the first living creatures the United States has hurled into the farther reaches and brought back alive.

The Russians claim to have brought back two dogs by parachute last August from a ride 281 miles out. And the U.S. Air Force in 1953 recovered two monkeys after firing them some 40 miles high over New Mexico.

The feat represents a major break-through in the U.S. effort to put a man into orbital flight.

Scientists said instruments attached to the monkeys showed they suffered little ill effect from the stresses of blast-off and the weird experience of weightlessness.

Only the bare announcement that the monkeys survived was contained in the initial report received by the Army from a Navy ship which recovered the nose cone. This was near the island of Antigua 92 minutes after the Jupiter was fired.

Technicians explained that the delay was the result of the need to undo a mechanical maze in opening the passenger compartment.

It had been known previously, through radio signals from the nose cone, that the monkeys were alive and well one minute before their landing in the water.

But for the last minute signals failed, an occurrence not at all unusual as a space rocket drops below the horizon.

"Both animals are alive and perfect with no injuries," the Army announced 6½ hours after the launching.

One important scientific check failed because of telemetry difficulties.

Able had been trained in response tests to push a telegraph key at the flash of a red light in her capsule.

The light was set to blink once each second during the flight. Medical scientists said Able be-

Liquor Ad Ban 'Buried'

RALEIGH (AP) — A proposed ban on beer, wine and liquor advertising passed quietly into the legislative graveyard today after a short but potent funeral oration by Rep. J. Y. Jordan of Buncombe.

"From a practical standpoint—and I emphasize the word practical—I think this is one of the most inept and silliest bills I have ever seen in my four terms on this Legislature," said Jordan.

The House Judiciary 2 Committee then voted 13-3 to give the measure an unfavorable report.

It was introduced by Reps. Sneed, High of Cumberland and Harry Horton of Chatham who said they wanted to equalize all the laws dealing with alcoholic beverage advertisement. This they proposed to do by banning such promotion entirely.

Jordan and others on the committee objected to the measure because while the state could control intrastate ads, it could do nothing about the host of publications and radio and television broadcasts coming in from out of state.

Jordan repeated a phrase sounded during a public hearing last week:

"We would be sticking our finger in a small hole in the dam while the water is cascading over the top."

Rep. Carroll Holmes of Perquimans, committee co-chairman, said he was in favor of banning liquor ads, but opposed to the bill because it would not control interstate publications.

"I would love to see Congress pass a bill eliminating it all over the country," he told the group.

The North Carolina Press Assn. and broadcasting and billboard interests protested the bill at last week's hearing.

Henderson's Mayor Invites Union Leaders Leave Town; Raps Payton

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP)—Mayor Carroll V. Singleton has issued to union leaders in a six-month textile strike here a strongly-worded invitation to leave Henderson.

In a radio address Wednesday night, the mayor called on striking union members to determine whether they are to remain out of work "because of irresponsible leadership."

He added, "Then join with me in asking these people (the union officials) to leave this community and never return."

The mayor singled out Boyd Payton, Carolina director, of the Textile Workers Union of America, for special mention.

Singleton said he is convinced most of the strikers at the Harrier-Henderson Cotton Mills "are good Christian, law-abiding citizens."

"I do not believe that more than a small minority condone the violence which has been rampant in our city since Mr. Payton arrived," he asserted.

After some controversy developed over the speech, Singleton read to newsmen portions of the prepared text which he delivered over radio station WHNC.

Singleton told his audience he refused to shake hands with Payton last week and personally delivered an invitation for the union

Senate Declines Outlaw MH-30

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's flue-cured tobacco farmers are free to use maleic Hydrazide, a chemical, to control tobacco suckers.

The State Senate Wednesday killed a bill which would have prohibited use of the chemical, sold under the name of MH-30. The action followed the longest debate of the session.

More than 300 farmers had appeared at a legislative hearing here recently to oppose the bill. Tobacco manufacturers, buyers and warehousemen favored the proposed ban on the chemical. They contended it lowers leaf quality.

Sen. D. J. Rose of Wayne, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and introducer of the bill, told the Senate MH-30 damages tobacco leaf, is difficult to detect after use, makes tobacco hard to bind and adversely affects the export trade.

Opponents argued that farmers could be educated to stop using MH-30 if it is proved to be as harmful as some contend.

Sen. Wilbur Jolly of Franklin said the bill offers "the wrong solution. There has not been sufficient scientific research. The bill makes a criminal out of a farmer for using something on his own product."

Expects Budget Wrap-Up Today Or By Tonight

RALEIGH (AP) — A legislative leader says he hopes the Joint Appropriations Committee can wind up work today or tonight on the state budget for the next biennium.

Rep. Clyde Harris of Rowan, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said the committee will meet tonight if it doesn't finish its work in the afternoon session.

He expressed hope the budget bill can be printed in time for it to be introduced Monday night in the House or Senate, likely the House.

Sen. Wilbur Currie of Moore may send in an amendment today in an attempt to restore $400,000 to the budget of the State Welfare Dept.

A study group working for the Joint Appropriations subcommittee recommended the additional $400,000 but the subcommittee knocked it out two weeks ago.

Cannon Elected Board President

W. T. Cannon was elected president of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade in its annual meeting held yesterday.

He succeeds J. S. Picklen, Jr. who has been president of the organization for the past two years.

B. B. Suggs, Sr. was re-elected vice president and W. L. Whebedee was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

W. T. CANNON

Plans were discussed for the operation of the Greenville market for the coming season.

R. H. Evans, former president of the Tobacco Board of Trade pointed out that Greenville sales for 1958 gained more than 11 million pounds over the preceding year. This was the largest poundage gain shown by any Eastern Belt market.

Traffic Deaths Jump In April

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic deaths on the nation's highways jumped in April for the fourth straight month. This reverses the downward trend in traffic fatalities recorded in 1957 and 1958.

The National Safety Council said today the toll for the first four months this year was 10,680—a gain of 4 per cent from the 10,270 deaths in the same 1958 period.

The increase in April deaths was 1 per cent—2,610 fatalities this year against 2,580 in 1958.

The council estimated that highway accidents also brought disabling injuries to 400,000 persons in the four-month period.

Rescue Crew Of Burning Vessel

PTAR DEL RIO, Cuba (AP)—A Cuban navy launch rescued the captain and 28 crewmen of a Greek freighter on fire and grounded Wednesday night off the northwest coast of Cuba.

The ship's carpenter was the only fatality reported. He was killed by a boiler explosion which started the fire.

Appropriations Group Blasts Defense Rivalries

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a blast at Pentagon rivalries, "confusion and duplication," the House Appropriations Committee today recommended $38,848,339,000 in new funds for the Defense Department.

In cutting $399,861,000 from the amount requested by President Eisenhower for the year starting July 1, the committee told the Army and the Air Force to cease bickering over who has the best missiles, called for a general tightening up on defense operations, and spoke of a growing Soviet military threat.

On the face of its action, it sided with the Army in its missile war with the Air Force by boosting Army funds and cutting Air Force money for missiles.

It approved funds to strengthen the Strategic Air Command, to shore up the Navy's antisubmarine warfare program, and to expedite work on atomic airplanes.

It disapproved the President's plans to reduce the strength of the National Guard and the reserve forces, but went along with his figures for active military manpower.

It refused the Navy's request for 260 million dollars to build a new aircraft carrier.

It voted to authorize the President to keep bombers in the air around the clock if necessary to prevent their destruction on the ground by a sneak attack.

These and other actions were included in a bill the committee sent to the House floor for debate next week.

"The nation must always be prepared for the worst," the committee said in a report written by Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex.). "The threat is expected to worsen. As long as we are well prepared for general nuclear war, such a war is much less likely. The nation is prepared today to meet the military threat it faces."

Testimony taken during months of hearings behind closed doors, the committee said, "clearly indicates that there is something wrong in our present military planning, there is so much confusion and duplication" and too much bickering over "who gets what."

The committee allotted the $38,848,339,000 this way:

Army, $9,206,905,000, an increase of $221,905,000 over the President's bid and $155,203,800 over current year appropriations.

Navy, $11,255,103,000, a cut of $82,672,000 for the request and $455,207,400 less than this year's fund.

Air Force, $17,228,506,000, a cut of $538,694,000 from the request and a cut of $753,770,800 from this year's allotment.

Office of defense secretary, $1,387,825,000, a $400,000 cut in the request but a boost of $13,906,300 over current year money.

City's Newcomers Feted At Party

The eighth annual Newcomers party was held last night at the Greenville Moose Lodge with over 45 families represented.

The program, which started at 7:30 p.m., included games, music and dancing. The games and dances were designed to mix the guests with the "oldtimers" or hosts so they could become better acquainted.

The party, sponsored by the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, the Greenville Merchants Association and various civic clubs, was opened with a welcome by Jack Whitchard, Chairman of the Public Relations Committee of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Pro-tem Dr. M. W. Altride.

A bag of gifts was given to each family attending the party and other gifts were given out in a drawing. Refreshments were also served at the party.

W. T. Kyzer, Manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said the party was designed to welcome the newcomers and make them feel at home in Greenville.

El Bloom acted as master of ceremonies for the gathering last night while Bill Norwood's Combo furnished the music for the occasion.

In addition to the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants Association, clubs sponsoring the party included: the Business and Professional Women's Club, the Credit Women's Breakfast Club, the Civitan Club, the Exchange Club, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis Club, the Lions Club, the Rotary Club, the Moose Lodge, and the Greenville Recreation Commission.

For Teachers

RALEIGH (AP) — The state's fine fiscal condition carries good news for public school teachers.

The happy report was given Wednesday to the Legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee—school teachers will get a 1.99 per cent salary bonus this year.

Rep. Clyde Harris of Rowan, House Appropriations chairman, made the optimistic forecast.

The 1957 Legislature made provision for the 1.99 per cent contingent boost, to be paid if the money became available. Harris said the $1,219.55 in surplus funds is expected to be on hand to pay the teachers. The average will be about $35 per teacher.

A few weeks ago, Gov. Hodges said prospects at that time were for around half a million dollars to be available for the teachers. The governor said he was optimistic that the full amount would come in.

Wife Of Russian Attache Hides Out

LONDON (AP) — The British government today pondered the plea of a Soviet naval attache's wife for asylum for herself and small daughter to escape Soviet security men who rushed her husband back to Moscow under guard.

Mrs. Nina Dmitriev, 35, and her 5-year-old daughter Lena hid out with White Russian friends in London under the protection of Scotland Yard until her request is decided.

British officials said the plea was being considered on its merits.

Mrs. Dmitriev showed up at the Foreign Office Wednesday and agreed to meet with Soviet embassy agents who had been trying to track her down for four days.

Tar Heel Named New Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today nominated John Howard Morrow, North Carolina Negro educator, to be the first U.S. Ambassador to the new African republic of Guinea.

Morrow, 49, has been chairman of the Department of Modern Foreign Languages at North Carolina College at Durham, N.C., since 1954.

Revolt Looms Against Rising Subsidy Outlays

WASHINGTON (AP)—A revolt among potent House Democrats against mounting farm subsidy costs threatened today to delay indefinitely House action on pending new agricultural legislation.

The uprising developed in the House Rules Committee, which has the power—frequently exercised—to block House consideration of virtually any piece of important legislation.

Caught in the threatened blockade were two major farm bills approved by the House Agriculture Committee and ready for House action.

One would increase the government price support level for small livestock feed grains such as oats, rye, barley and grain sorghums. The other, regarded as a key farm measure, would attempt to stem the costly and mounting wheat surplus by raising price supports in return for reduced plantings.

The Rules Committee's attitude appeared to make certain continuation of a wheat program under the present law for another year. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson is required to announce

Both the cup and the tray have been engraved with the names of the recipients and will be kept by the award winners for the coming year.

At the annual business meeting held yesterday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, three incoming officers were installed by Mrs. George Lautares, president. They are Mrs. Charles Wilkerson, treasurer; Mrs. Leonard Bloxam, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Norwin Pierce, recording secretary. Mrs. Lautares presided at the meeting which opened with members saying the Service League Prayer of Christian Service in unison.

Various committee chairmen in making their reports thanked members for their cooperation during the year.

Mrs. James T. Little presented a citation of appreciation on behalf of the Pitt County Chapter of Red Cross for the work done by League members for the bloodmobile.

President's Report

"Indeed, each heart here today must be a thing of beauty for within each of you I am sure is a sincere sense of Christian duty and love for your fellowman. Without that feeling of love and responsibility in fulfilling the work of the Service League, this report of service given the past year could not be given."

This statement was made by Mrs. Lautares when the business session was opened with the annual president's report.

She noted, "The 73 members of the League have given 6,841 hours of service to our community this past year. Of these, 2,955½ hours were given by the 18 board members. Then ten provisional members accepted into active membership in February have a total of 981½ hours. The other members reported a total of 2,851 1-4 hours of volunteer service."

Highlights of the year reviewed by Mrs. Lautares included various projects, TB Seal Sales, Blind People's Sale, United Fund Drive and Bloodmobile.

"The Hospital Coffee Shop was open for seven hours a day, six days a week and 3½ hours on Sunday. A total of 2,017 hours of volunteer service were given this year for the Coffee Shop," stated Mrs. Lautares.

Perfect Attendance Recognized
Members who have perfect attendance records for one year are Mrs. S. E. Coffman, Mrs. George Lautares, Mrs. Knott Proctor Jr., Mrs. Milo Smith, Mrs. C. B. Tugwell, and Mrs. E. H. Willford.

Recognition was given to 29 League members who had volunteered their services and worked for 100 hours or more.

Mrs. Jesse Moye, a sustaining member, was acknowledged for her outstanding work this year.

Following the luncheon, contests and a satire on fashions was given by active members. Climaxing the show was the perfect costume to be worn at the Coffee Shop.

Mrs. W. S. Corbitt, program chairman, conducted the fashion parade. Serving on the committee with Mrs. Corbitt were Mrs. Knott Proctor, Mrs. Clarence Tugwell, Mrs. Morris Brody, Mrs. Pace Fuller and Mrs. R. M. Garrett Jr.

Approximately 80 women attended the meeting which is the highlight of the Service League club year.

30 Years Ago Today

May 28, 1929

A delegation of Pitt County officials and business men went to Raleigh Tuesday to ask the Equalization Board to increase its annual appropriation to Pitt County schools. The county last year received $11,000 upon a valuation of $19,000,000, worth of property. Since that time, however, property has been revalued and the figures to be presented to the board will be around the $45,000,000 mark. This figure should put the county in line for an appropriation considerably larger than last year. Several counties with smaller valuations last year received several times the amount Pitt County, and the action brought revaluation of property in numbers of counties that suffered from high values.

Couple Marries In Morning

GRIFTON—In a morning ceremony Wednesday in the Grifton Methodist Church, Mrs. Rebecca H. Worthington, daughter of Mrs. Jessie Thompson of Grifton and George W. Thompson of Fairhope, Ala., became the bride of John Louis Glenn Jr. of Grifton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Glenn of Charlotte. Rev. Ralph Epps, pastor of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony.
Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Milton Hart, organist, who played "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," "Sweetest Story Ever Told," and other nuptial selections.
The vows were spoken before an altar decorated with a background of palms, interspersed with two graduated candelabra, holding blue burning tapers. A tall basket of blue pom poms completed the setting.
The bride wore a blue linen sheath dress featuring a short jacket embroidered in white, watching blue linen shoes and white accessories. Her hat was of white silk linen flower petals. She wore a white orchid corsage at her shoulder.
The bride is a native of Alabama where she attended grade schools and is a graduate of The Misses Young's private school at Selma. The bridegroom is from Charlotte where he attended schools and is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Following graduation he served in the army during World War II where he attained the rank of Captain. He is now employed with E. I. du Pont Company of Kingston in the production control section.
After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will be at home at 610 Queen Street, Grifton.
Cake Cutting
Following the rehearsal of the Glenn-Worthington wedding on Tuesday night, the wedding party, families and close friends were entertained informally at a cake cutting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McCotter. Hostesses were Mesdames McCotter, Howard "Buddy" Holcomb Jr. and Craven Hughes of Greenville.
Mrs. McCotter greeted the guests and they were received in rooms decorated in pink and white garden flowers. The bride-elect wore for the evening a beige sheer dress and a corsage of pink carnations.
The bride's table was covered with a pink satin cloth overlaid with pink net. A silver bowl of pink roses and white phlox flanked by tall white candles in silver holders was the centerpiece. The silver punch bowl was at one end of the table and the decorated two-tiered cake at the opposite. After the cutting of the first slice by the bride couple, the serving was completed by Mrs. Hughes. Coffee and ice cream punch were poured by Mrs. Holcomb. Miss Carolyn McCotter assisted in the serving of nuts and bridal mints.
Wedding Luncheon
On Wednesday at noon a luncheon for the Glenn-Worthington wedding party, families and out-of-town guests was given by Mesdames R. B. McCotter and Howard Holcomb Jr. at the home of Mrs. McCotter.
Decorations throughout the home were of white and blue. The bride's table was centered with nosegays of daisies and other garden flowers.
A baked ham luncheon followed by strawberry shortcake was served.

Farmer Free, Must Also Be Wise

Defeat by the Senate of the controversial bill to outlaw use of MH-30 for sucker control of tobacco leaves Tar Heel farmers free of legislative encumbrances in determining what cultural practices they will follow in producing their crop.

That is as it should be. The Senate chose the wise and right course in defeating the measure which would have made it a misdemeanor for a farmer to use the MH-30 chemical on his tobacco crop.

The matter of cultural practices followed in producing tobacco or any other crop should be left entirely with the individual farmer. There should be no law requiring him to do or not to do certain things in producing his crop so long as what he does has no harmful effect upon the health of those who consume what he produces.

If a farmer wants to ignore the advice of qualified agricultural experts and produce a poor crop of tobacco or anything else, he should be free under the law to exercise his own judgment.

While defeat of the MH-30 bill leaves North Carolina farmers free to decide whether they will use chemical sucker control on their 1959 tobacco crop, they would be short sighted indeed to ignore the desires of tobacco purchasers to whom they will look to buy their crop after it is harvested. The purchasers, both foreign and domestic, have insisted that use of the chemical sucker control reduces the quality of tobacco and makes it undesirable. The purchasers have said emphatically they do not want to purchase tobacco on which the chemical has been used.

Though the farmer has a government guarantee which places a floor under the price he can receive for his tobacco, he would be foolish indeed to ignore the demands of the companies which will purchase what he produces. If the 1959 crop has a high percentage of tobacco which does not meet specifications of purchasing companies, the net adverse effect on the farmer and the general economy of the farming areas of the state will be two-fold:

1. Reduced quality of tobacco will mean lower prices on the warehouse floors and a large percentage of the tobacco going into Stabilization hands. Reduced income for the farmers and the area as a whole will be the immediate result.

2. If Stabilization is required to take in under support prices large quantities of tobacco for which there is no market, it could well mean the breaking of the Stabilization Corporation and lead to the collapse of the entire tobacco program which has been the economic salvation of tobacco farmers during the past two decades.

By defeating the MH-30 bill yesterday the Senate upheld the right of the individual farmer to determine how he shall produce his own crop. It left the farmer free to decide whether to follow proven cultural practices and produce a quality crop or ignore them and produce an inferior crop that buyers say they do not want and will not purchase.

The welfare of the individual farmer and the entire tobacco program now rests where it should . . . in the hands of the farmer.

If he produces the kind of crop his customers have declared they do not want, he has no one but himself to blame if his 1959 crop brings a low price. Neither does he have anyone but himself to blame if he produces the kind of crop which once again floods Stabilization with unsellable tobacco and causes the collapse of the tobacco support program which has put millions of dollars into farmers pockets over a period of years.

The Senate took the right course in defeating the bill which would have outlawed the use of a particular practice in producing tobacco.

We trust the farmers of North Carolina will be equally wise this year in seeking to produce the kind of crop which their purchasers have demanded. We trust the tobacco growers of this state will decline to use chemical sucker control on this year's crop in keeping with the expressed desires of the people who will be expected to buy the crop.

If farmers do otherwise and find their crop rejected by purchasers and their tobacco support program collapsing, they will have no one but themselves to blame.

Carolina Isn't Going To The Dogs In 1959

North Carolina will not go to the dogs or to the racketeers thanks to the action of the House Finance Committee which defeated the proposal that race tracks and pari mutuel betting be permitted on a local option basis.

The state's brief experience with legalized racing and gambling several years ago should be sufficient to prevent the state from returning to such activities for a good many years — and we hope forever.

Tax takes from such activities — while they always appeal to some officials — represent small compensation indeed for the state and local governments to offer racketeers and gambling syndicates a foothold in North Carolina. And as surely as North Carolina again legalized racing and gambling, it will be inviting the racketeering and gambling bosses of the nation to come in and take over.

North Carolina would make a grave mistake to issue such an invitation either by legislative act or by local vote.

The state and local governments have gotten along well without token tax payments from organized, legalized gambling. It has seen the ill which legalized gambling and racing can bring in its midst.

For another two years at least, the matter of racing legalized gambling is a closed issue in North Carolina. But we can rest assured that the interests behind such ventures will continue their efforts to gain a foothold in this state. We must remain alert to prevent their being successful.

Geneva 'Break' A Break For All

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Big Four foreign ministers are taking a two-day break in their Geneva conference. It's a break for everyone else, too.

There have been a number of foreign ministers meetings since the war but none more boring than this one has been so far. Three weeks of talks and the result is nothing. It's been diplomacy in a goldfish bowl — with amplifiers.

More than 100 aides surrounded the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union at their meetings in the Palace of Nations.

Then the press officers of the Big Four reported on what was said. Even when the ministers entertained one another at night their conversations were reported.

This would have been fine if they had had something new to say. But after each had stated his position, they spent the rest of the time repeating themselves. Nobody moved an inch. Nothing was gained. Nothing was lost, except time.

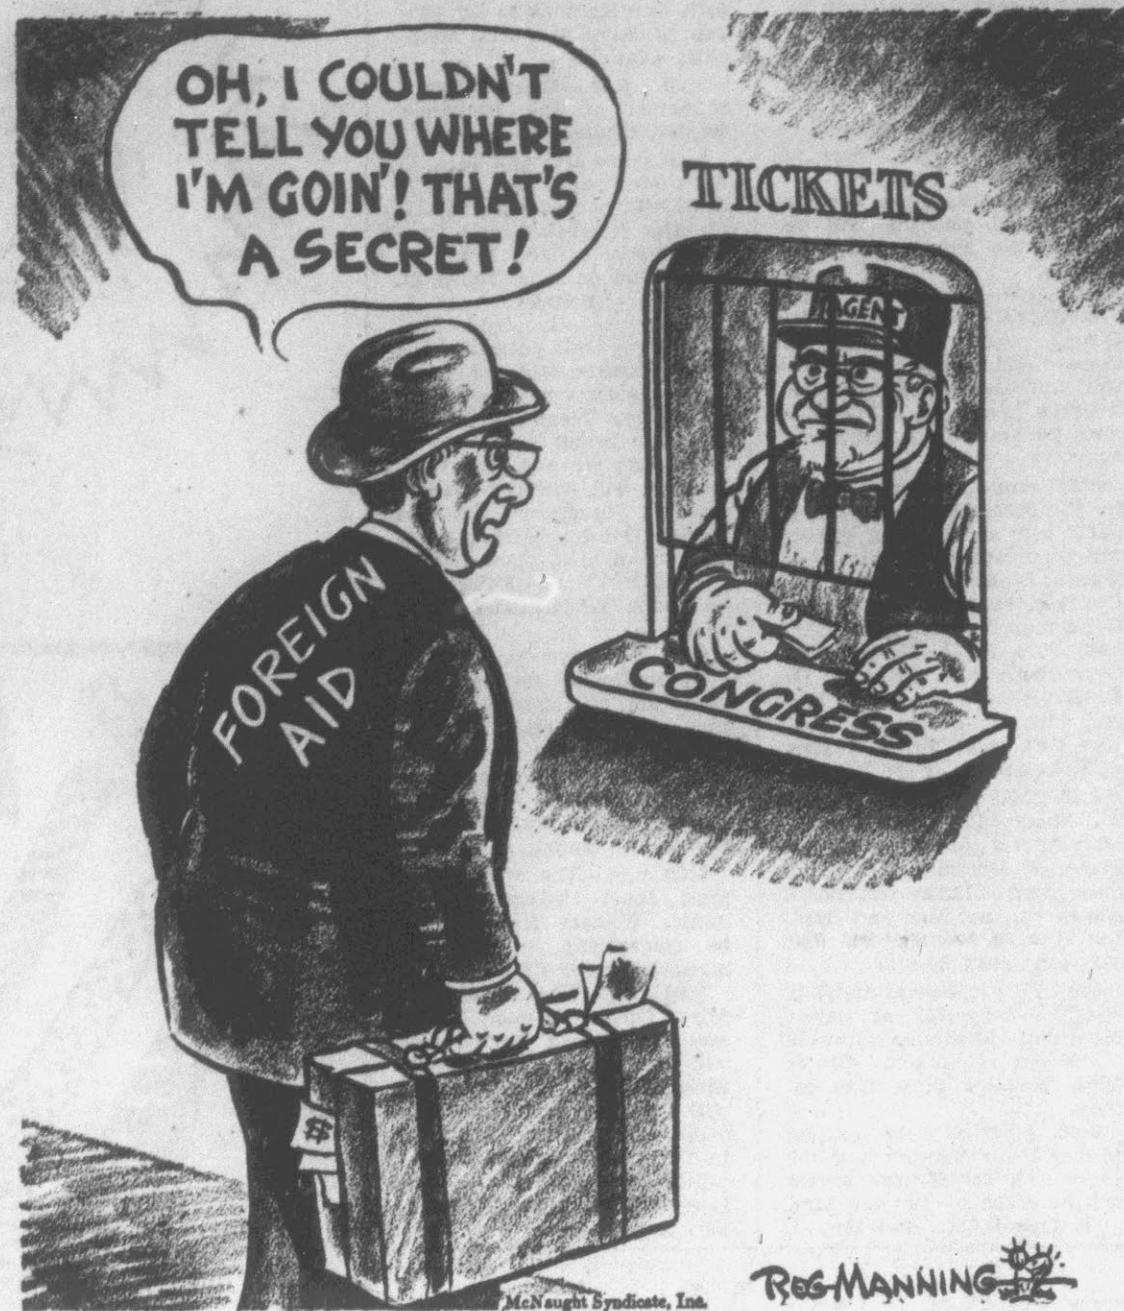

All four ministers played the unbending iron man role — a pose that seemed clearly intended for propaganda but not for serious negotiating — with public avowals of where they stood and how they couldn't be moved.

It was the kind of performance that was a lead pipe cinch to lose respect for diplomacy or the serious intentions of the four governments to work out anything by peaceful negotiating. There have been explanations

Graduation Work Piled Up

Last week, pictures of graduation classes at each of Pitt County's 14 high schools were printed in editions of The Daily Reflector.

With each of the pictures were identifying cutlines. In addition, there was a series of stories outlining significant details in each of the commencement ceremonies and activities.

Most of the pictures and other material had rather prominent places in last week's editions. Even so, they appeared as rather routine items in the general make up of the papers in which they were printed.

The process of taking the pictures and assembling the information was anything but routine, however. The process involved a vast amount of cooperative effort between county school officials, personnel from each of the schools and Reflector personnel.

Conservative estimates compiled by the news staff's jack-leg statistician show that photographers travelled more than 250 miles to get pictures of 13 of the 14 classes, and writers spent in the neighborhood of 40 hours assembling information and composing stories before and after the series of exercises.

The mileage estimate is possibly much less than the actual figure, and certainly less than what it would have been if Griffith's Principal Ed Bright hadn't made prior arrangements to have the picture of his school's graduates taken by a private photographer.

Estimates of time spent in assembling information and writing stories includes visits to each of the schools where pictures were made, and countless telephone calls to confirm points of information or to request additional facts.

In any event, the time estimate indicates that the job was almost a full-time project for one person, although the actual amount varied from day to day. The days on which the writing assignments were particularly heavy were Thursday, Friday Tuesday, with time taken out from the county graduations on Monday to report the East Carolina College graduation exercises.

The point of all this, if there is a point, is that there's much more to a picture and a story, or a series of pictures and stories, than sometimes meets the eye. Occasionally, it will surprise and frighten the people who have been in the midst of all the work.

Some of us — in the light of our jack-leg mathematician's report about how much time, effort and travelling is involved — have pledged to be somewhere else when the next county graduation time rolls around.

The way we figure it, finding out there's so much work involved takes the edge off discovering that high school graduating classes still have a high proportion of photogenic members.

LIFE'S GREAT INTEREST

Two men who were in a position to talk about world affairs with some authority sat recently and when flashing eyes and gesticulation and occasional laughs were — quite evidently — engaged in a spirited conversation and exchange of ideas.

Certainly they must have been talking about great world problems. Their whole demeanor denoted this. As a matter of fact, however, they were talking about their children and grandchildren. Each had something to tell the other about what his son or daughter had done. Each had a funny story to exchange about the grandchildren. When it was all over, they laughingly agreed that, after forty, people live for very little else than the advancement of their children and, after sixty, the welfare of their grandchildren.

King George V of England lay tossing on a bed of pain some forty years ago. It was believed that he was fatally ill. Was he

High Grade Grads

By RELMAN MORIN
NEW YORK (AP) — The white card, embossed with a gold coat-of-arms, announced the date of graduation exercises for a high school in Virginia.

Inside, a smaller card bore the name, James D. Ream Jr. Well, June is at hand. June is the month when, all over America, the high school band plays "Pomp and Circumstance," or some other march, and the seniors step up for diplomas.

These cards, however, the big one and the smaller one, represent something unusual, something special.

On a chilly night last December, I crossed the bridge into South Norfolk, Va., and found the Oscar F. Smith High School. Lights burned in the classrooms, the study halls, the auditorium, the library. The grounds outside were quiet and the halls deserted.

It was a little after 8 p.m. Isn't that the hour when teenagers are supposed to be munching popcorn in the movies, or hot-rodding around town looking for a traffic accident to get hurt in?

There was an air of purpose about this school.

It was a night high school. The pupils all came from nearby Norfolk, where the regular schools had been closed in the dispute over federal court orders to integrate. In South Norfolk, authorities offered their facilities — at night — for all who wanted to use them.

Nearly 800 boys and girls did. They had started at 4 in the afternoon, taken a half-hour break at 5:45, and gone back to work. The final bell would ring at 9 o'clock.

No truant officer compelled them to be in school. They were there because they were determined to get a diploma.

E. E. Brickell, the principal — whose own hours at that time were from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. — said attendance was running better than 85 per cent. Disciplinary problems? Practically none. And grades? Above average.

I asked if I could talk with some of the pupils.

He called in a pretty, serious-faced girl, Adelia Watson; and a tall, lean, clean-cut boy, Jim Ream. Both were seniors, both 17. Both hoped to go to college. Adelia Watson said she wanted to study interior decorating. Jim Ream, grinning, said he expected to be an engineer, and would like to study engineering at the U.S. Naval Academy, if he could get the appointment.

Was it much of an adjustment to go to school at night? In effect, turning the days inside-out?

"Not too bad," said Jim Ream. "It's better in some ways. You can do your homework in the morning this way, while you're fresh."

Adelia Watson said she found it easier to study in the daytime, too.

Yes, they missed the sports, the social life, the extra-curricular activities that go to making the high school years some of the best in an American kid's life.

But I guess nothing is too much to pay for an education," said Jim Ream. "It's worth it."

"What about your social life? Doesn't this cut in on your dating?"

Adelia Watson shook her head. "My parents don't let me do any dating on school nights anyway," she said. Jim Ream said he had been too busy, what with one thing and another.

When Jim Ream's card came the other day announcing graduation day, I thought of him and Adelia Watson and hundreds of bright-looking, intent boys and girls in the classrooms that night.

So here's a salute to you, Jim Ream, and to you, Adelia Watson, and all your friends in the class of 1959. You're getting a special diploma in a few weeks.

And all of you are mighty special too, in my book.

thinking and talking about the empire? Not at all. "Where are the boys?" he kept asking. The royal sons were scattered to the ends of the earth. He wanted them brought home. He wanted to see them. A king? Yes, but a father first.

So whether it is throne or workman's bench, castle or hovel, the human interest is the same the world over. And we can thank God that it is.

Business Broadened By Airplane

The total must be large, or the farmers would miss the 8:10 show at the Bijou theater in town.

IN REAL ESTATE

One need not generally known in real estate. Few new plant sites are finally accepted, or few new housing projects signed until all principals have flown over the site and obtained a visual perspective far more satisfying than studying a map.

This phase has expanded so much that a National Real Estate Fliers Association has been formed by realtors using aircraft in their business. This trend is causing many communities, eager for new plants, to primp up local airports, where real estate salesmen can land prospects.

There is another important business factor: A good fleet of company planes, piloted by crack ex-Air Force men, can be a great inducement in luring executive talent. A $50,000-a-year raise might mean little after taxes, to an upswinging executive. But a few company planes, including one that would take him to Paris or Guatemala for a vacation, and a helicopter that would take him from home to office, might cause a rising star to quit General Hellicter and sign up with a small, imaginative corporation.

HOW TO STARTLE SNOOPING BUS RIDERS
If you see someone reading a book in a jacket that proclaims it to be "How to Dispose of Your Mother-in-Law's Body," remain calm. Don't scream copper.

A new gimmick is fake book jackets. You can wrap a copy of Moll Flanders in a jacket reading "Blood Letting for Teenagers," or a book on isotopes in a jacket for "Appendectomy Self-Taught." You may find these jackets in your favorite greeting card shop.

Farm Home Week Set

By HELEN MOHAN
Assistant RD Agent
It's almost time for Farm Home Week. June 9-12 are the dates at North Carolina State College in Raleigh. It promises to be a wonderful week, full of fellowship, entertainment and information. Registration will begin at 9:00 a.m. June 9, in the William Neal Reynolds Coliseum, and the formal opening will be that night at 7:30. After group singing, welcomes, and greetings, there will be a reception honoring Dr. and Mrs. Carey H. Bostian.

Wednesday morning, June 10, will be begun by a devotion program led by a minister in Raleigh. The first class will be from 8:30 to 10:00 and those present can choose from the following:

"The New American Look in Living," taught by a home economist from the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co. in Wilmington, Del.; "New Furniture From Old," presented by Extension Specialists in Housing and House Furnishings, N. C. State College; "The Space Age Affects the Freezer," taught by H. N. Hearl, Continental Can Company, New York City; "Planning and Planting Our Gardens for Beauty," John H. Harris, Extension Horticulturist, N. C. State College; "Your Total Health," Dr. Rachel Davis, Winston, Mrs. Donald Stone, American Cancer Society, Raleigh, Mrs. C. F. McIntyre, Red Oak.

From 10:30 to 12:00 noon there will be another class. The choices then will be from the following: "Retire to Life," Mrs. Corinne J. Grimsley, Extension Specialist in Family Relations, N. C. State College; "Are You Alive to Beauty?," teacher unknown at present; "Learning to Appreciate Art," taught by Dr. Robert L. Humber, President, N. C. State Art Society, Greenville, and Charles Stanford, N. C. State Museum of Art, Raleigh; "Inheritance—Your Farm and Your Family," James C. Little Jr., Raleigh Attorney; "Money Makers from the Kitchen," taught by Extension Nutritionists, N. C. State College; "Your Total Health," same as morning class.

The Wednesday afternoon session will be a joint one with a program featuring "The Way to Charm and Beauty" and "Hats We Made, On Parade."

After supper on that night there will be group singing, led by Dr. Arnold E. Hoffmann; and entertainment provided by the Hillandale Songsters, a choral group from Durham County. Leadership awards will also be presented on Wednesday night.

Thursday morning will be much like the preceding day, with a different minister leading the devotions, but the same classes being offered so that the ones missed on Wednesday may be attended.

One of the highlights of the week will be Thursday afternoon. A tour will be conducted to Chapel Hill and Duke University, ending with a tea at the home of President and Mrs. William Friday at Chapel Hill.

Thursday night will include a talk entitled "The Un-Used You," by Maxeda von Hesse, from the Von Hesse Studios of Effective Speech and Human Relations, New York City, and a "Hymn Festival," Miss Nell Kennett, State Home Economics Leader, will say goodbye to the group.

The 33rd meeting of the North Carolina Home Demonstration Clubs will be held on Friday morning beginning at 10 o'clock with Mrs. V. I. Hockaday, president, presiding.

The benefits from such a week cannot be measured. Any woman with a desire to better herself should make every effort to attend. Further information may be obtained from the Home Economics Office in Greenville.

Lydia Wooten Class Has Final Meeting

A romantic suspense novel by MARTHA ALBRAND
A SPY at MONTE CARLO

CHAPTER 8

"Luckily," Inspector Perrier said to Mark, "you have behaved until now as if the threat had had the desired effect. Number one" — he began to count on his fingers — "you went for a swim with a girl in whom you obviously became interested enough to be twenty minutes late for your appointment with Corinne Javal. And when you realized that the dead woman in the car was Corinne, you acted as though it didn't concern you and came up here to play golf."

Mark's eyes narrowed. "Was it by any chance you who searched my room?"

Perrier shrugged. "A matter of routine. I wanted to see if you'd left any notes about names, mine for instance, or telephone numbers. You didn't."

"I'm not a fool," said Mark. "Well, then don't be one now."

"Are you suggesting that I take the next train or plane and forget about Timgad, just because of a threatening note?" Anger made Mark laugh.

"You saw what happened to Corinne."

"One reason more to stay," Perrier said. "But it is futile," Perrier sighed. "Utterly futile, to die like Philippe Langle, shot down like a dog, or like Corinne, in so cleverly arranged an accident that nobody will suspect it was a murder. And that is what will happen to you."

"I might outwit them."

"I doubt it," Perrier's voice was sharp now. "But even if you did, even if by some lucky chance you were to discover who hides behind the name of Timgad, who has the power, the brains and the means to influence the Algerian rebels, what would it help in the end? There will be others to take his place. You cannot fight them all."

"I'll be satisfied to find Timgad."

"But don't you realize, Travers, that with Corinne's death you've lost the only link to Timgad?"

"Not if I find the murderer."

"I am sorry," said Perrier, "but to find the man who killed Corinne is a matter which you will have to leave strictly to me and to the police here. You must agree," he added soothingly, when he saw Mark's face, "that we are better equipped to handle a case like this than an amateur. Any interference on your part could only spoil our chances. We cannot afford to have you, an American, running around making inquiries on your own. It would only tip off people who might otherwise not become suspicious."

Mark did not answer. During the past weeks he had tried too often to explain to Perrier what made it imperative for him to find Timgad, for him to repeat it now when Perrier seemed more determined than ever to prevent his taking an active part in the affair.

Of course, what Perrier said made sense. He could not deny it. And without Perrier's approval he would not even have a chance to interview the personnel at the hotel where Corinne had stayed, to search her room. Plain-clothes men would be swarming all over. He would be treated as a foreigner who was making a nuisance of himself by interfering in matters which, in the eyes of the French police, were none of his concern.

Perrier was getting up, whistling a little tune Mark had heard him whistle before, always when something bothered him. Then, picking up his dog, he turned to Mark. "If I were you," he said, "I would play a few more holes, then go back to my hotel, pack my things and leave Monte Carlo. The sooner, the better."

"No," Mark said. "That's precisely what I won't do. You'd better resign yourself to my presence here. I shall stay at least long enough to hear the results of your inquiries. If Timgad has been seen on the Riviera, Corinne cannot be the only one who saw him or knew who he was. And if you can't find out anything, I will."

Perrier shook his head. "Well, if you won't listen, then at least take this number," he tore a page from a small notebook, unscrewed his old-fashioned fountain pen and wrote something on it. "Just in case you should find yourself in a spot and need help, or," he smiled dryly — "if you should bump into something that might be important for me to know. But remember that anyone you contact will immediately be suspicious to Timgad or his men. And I don't want any more murders."

It was only a short distance to the Hotel Paris, where Corinne had stayed for the last ten days, and Perrier entered it through the service entrance. The house detective was waiting for him.

Th detective didn't speak while they went up in the service elevator nor did he say anything before he opened the door to Corinne's room with a passkey. Then, with an apologetic gesture, he turned to face Perrier.

"I'm sorry, but I have nothing to add to what I have already told the police. She spent very little time at the hotel, just slept here. I'd say, and just as often as not she didn't even have breakfast here. I have no idea how she spent her days."

"For the time being," said Perrier, "I want to stay in this room and do a little thinking. To absorb a person's atmosphere always helps me to form a picture of what could have happened."

"She was not an obvious beauty," said the detective. "More the kind you take a look at and pass by, only to kick yourself a minute later for not having taken a better look." He grinned.

"Really?" said Perrier.

"When the detective had left, the inspector walked around the room, which betrayed nothing of Corinne's personality. No personal items. Anybody might have lived here. All it told was that she could afford a suite at the height of the summer season in one of the world's best hotels."

He opened the door to the bedroom. Systematically he began opening the closets. When he had finished with them, he searched the drawers. Then he collected every handbag he could find and put them on the bed. They were surprisingly neat. Each contained a lipstick, a compact, a comb, a clean handkerchief, matches and a card giving her name and address. Nothing more, nothing less. She had learned, working for the resistance, never to leave anything lying about that could give a clue, thought Perrier.

He decided to talk to the maid. But neither she nor the floor waiter had anything to add to what they had already told the police.

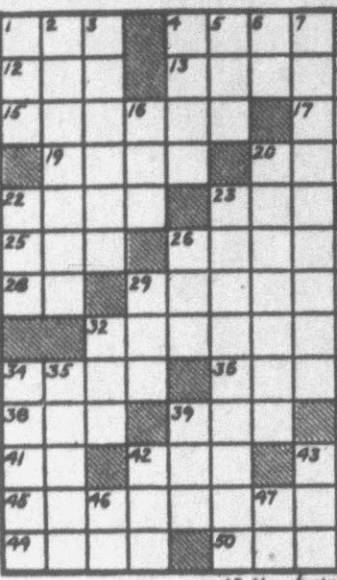

When Perrier went back to Corinne's room, he carried with him the contents of the safe she had taken in the hotel. He opened her passport. A slip of paper fell out of it, fluttered to the ground. He picked it up and read, "In case of death notify no one." It came as a surprise to him that she had been so lonely.

There were always things one found out about people only after they were dead. But the things he wanted to know, those Corinne had hidden.

Jury Duty Didn't Prevent Voting

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Arthur J. Ringer hadn't missed voting in a city election for 18 years, and he wasn't going to let a little thing like jury duty spoil his record.

A busload of jurors drove up Tuesday to Ringer's home, a precinct polling place.

He cast his ballot without talking to anyone. Then the jurors drove off to eat dinner and resume deliberations in a drug theft case which already had lasted five days.

A forlorn spectator was Ringer's wife, Lee. She could only stand and watch.

Herbert Hoover, Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower are the only U.S. Presidents born west of the Mississippi River.

Industry Booming, But Nervous About A Strike

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Further quickening of the business pace is reported today. At the same time industry is getting more nervous as the economy heads toward a showdown on a steel strike.

The construction picture gets brighter by the day. But buildings, highways and bridges need lots of steel.

Auto sales figures are climbing well above those of last spring. Car makers use lots of steel. They've been stocking up as much as they can as a hedge against a possible strike in the steel mills.

Retail trade is running well ahead of last year. But merchants depend on their customers having spending money. A big strike would cut off not only the pay of steel workers but could cause a slowdown in such allied industries as coal and the railroads. A long strike could idle workers in many factories where steel is an indispensable material.

The stalemate in the steel wage talks, therefore, isn't taken lightly by the workers in many other fields. Beyond its economic consequences, many in both management and labor look upon the steel talks as a trend setter in the fight to stave off further general price inflation.

But outside of that the general picture is in happy focus.

F. W. Dodge Corp., construction industry analysts, report that in April contracts for future building rose to a record for any month, after seasonal adjustment.

Economists in the Labor and Commerce Departments say the preliminary May figures show a further rise.

Confident residential builders are enlarging their plans for construction in coming months, according to the National Assn. of Home Builders.

The Commerce Department notes that the business recovery has spread far beyond the construction field. National output of goods and services set a record in the first three months of the year. The department predicts it's bettering that mark in the current quarter.

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — Harry Johnson will spend up to three years in prison and Marlin Milton, former revenue officer, has gone into the insurance business.

Here's why: Johnson, 59, was convicted in federal court Monday of biting Milton on the nose while the revenue man was trying to arrest him for liquor law violations. It took 15 stitches to close the wound. Milton decided there were less hazardous ways to earn a living.

Fidel Castro's Brother Unhurt In Plane Crash

HAVANA (AP) — Raul Castro, prime minister Fidel Castro's flamboyant younger brother, was found safe today after walking away from a plane crash in the swamps of south central Cuba.

Raul and his crew of three airmen were reported in good spirits. They crashed Tuesday during an aerial search mission.

The leftward-leaning Raul, commander-in-chief of Cuba's armed forces and heir-designate to succeed Fidel, plunked down in a swampy marsh in the Ensenada de la broa area south of Cienega Zapata.

The four abandoned their plane and headed for the coast along the bank of the Hatiguanico River. Peasants helped guide them out of the swamps.

A helicopter spotted Raul and his companions this morning. It radioed for help and the men were picked up by four Navy launches at the mouth of the river.

Mexico has 28 states.

Aggressors Take Southern Pines

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP) — This resort community was captured by aggressor troops today with the full cooperation of town officials.

It wasn't a sinister plot, but merely a sidelight of Exercise Dark Cloud-Pine Cone II, Joint Army-Air Force war games now under way in the Ft. Bragg area. The enemy took over the city government, clamped down on communications, closed the school and libraries, and imposed a curfew.

The enemy forces were to withdraw late today, setting the stage for the town's liberation Friday by U. S. troops.

Then, Civil Affairs Military Government personnel from Ft. Bragg will take over to get field training in operating a municipal government.

The maneuvers, involving some 20,000 men, are designed to test the capabilities of the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC) and Tactical Air Command forces.

The games began last Saturday and will end June 6. The action now is centered in the BRAMAC strip, (Ft. Bragg-Camp Mackall).

No License, And Doubtful Ability

DENVER (AP) — A 17-year-old girl charged with driving without an operator's license appeared before Municipal Court Judge Gerald McAuliffe Tuesday.

Asked for an explanation, Carol Cooper replied:

"I didn't think I could drive well enough to get one."

The judge suspended $15 of the girl's $40 fine and suggested she "see if she could get one."

By BUNNY HARRIS

RALEIGH — The voice of Rep. Leonard Lloyd trembled with indignation as he read from a public school textbook on "tour in the Smokies."

It made the North Carolina mountains sound like a prehistoric backwoods — a picture more than erroneous and filled with grievous error.

What's more, it was surely written by some Damn Yankee (four, in fact) — who "come down here and make the tour," Lloyd said.

The passage which he read to the House Education Committee during a discussion on textbooks comes from "Exploring Our Country" put out for elementary grade consumption.

It goes like this, with the visitor leading off conversation with a Smoky Mountain resident:

"It must be difficult to make a living in this mountain country," he says to the farmer's wife.

Then the visitor delivers the crowning observation:

When we hear the sound of running water, Mr. Wilson asks for a drink.

"Come this way," says the farmer's wife. Behind the house a stream of clear water bubbles from a pipe. "My husband has just finished piping the water to our kitchen from a spring on the hillside. Before we had to carry water from the spring, John says that a power line will be built along this road next spring. Then we will have a radio and a refrigerator and electric lights."

Then the visitor observes:

"We are glad that living conditions are improving for the mountain people. We thank the lady for her kindness, board our bus and soon leave the mountains."

Having finished reading this excerpt, the offended representative from Graham asked in anguish: "Can't something be done about it?"

Both he and Mrs. Lillian Cover of Cherokee were quick to point out obvious errors.

The nearest cotton mill to the section of the country which the book intended to describe is Gastonia.

Hauling water from streams is not passe — but virtually. Witness all the washing machines on the front porches of mountain cottages.

The making of bedsprings, rugs and brooms continues — mainly through the John C. Campbell Folk School at Brasstown where the beautiful mountain craft is being perpetuated.

As a teacher, Kiser aided with Lloyd in deploring the situation but asked if a bill revising the Textbook Commission would correct the problem.

After all, he pointed out, the Textbook Commission doesn't write the textbooks and they can only make recommendations from the books available to them.

"If we want to endow someone to write a textbook on the South,"

Kiser said, "that's a different matter. But that's not what this bill does."

The bill, discussed heatedly for the past two days, was introduced by Dr. Rachel Davis of Lenoir. It would allow some lay members to serve on the Commission which is now composed only of professional educators.

Dr. Davis is of the opinion that lay members might help to improve the quality of textbooks being put out.

"I've never in my life known of a situation in which if a product is rejected as being inferior a better product isn't produced," she said.

But the committee was inclined to feel that the bill which Dr. Davis proposed was as much in error as the textbooks it sought to better.

They give the bill an unfavorable report and Representative Lloyd condolences.

SUMMER FUN AHEAD

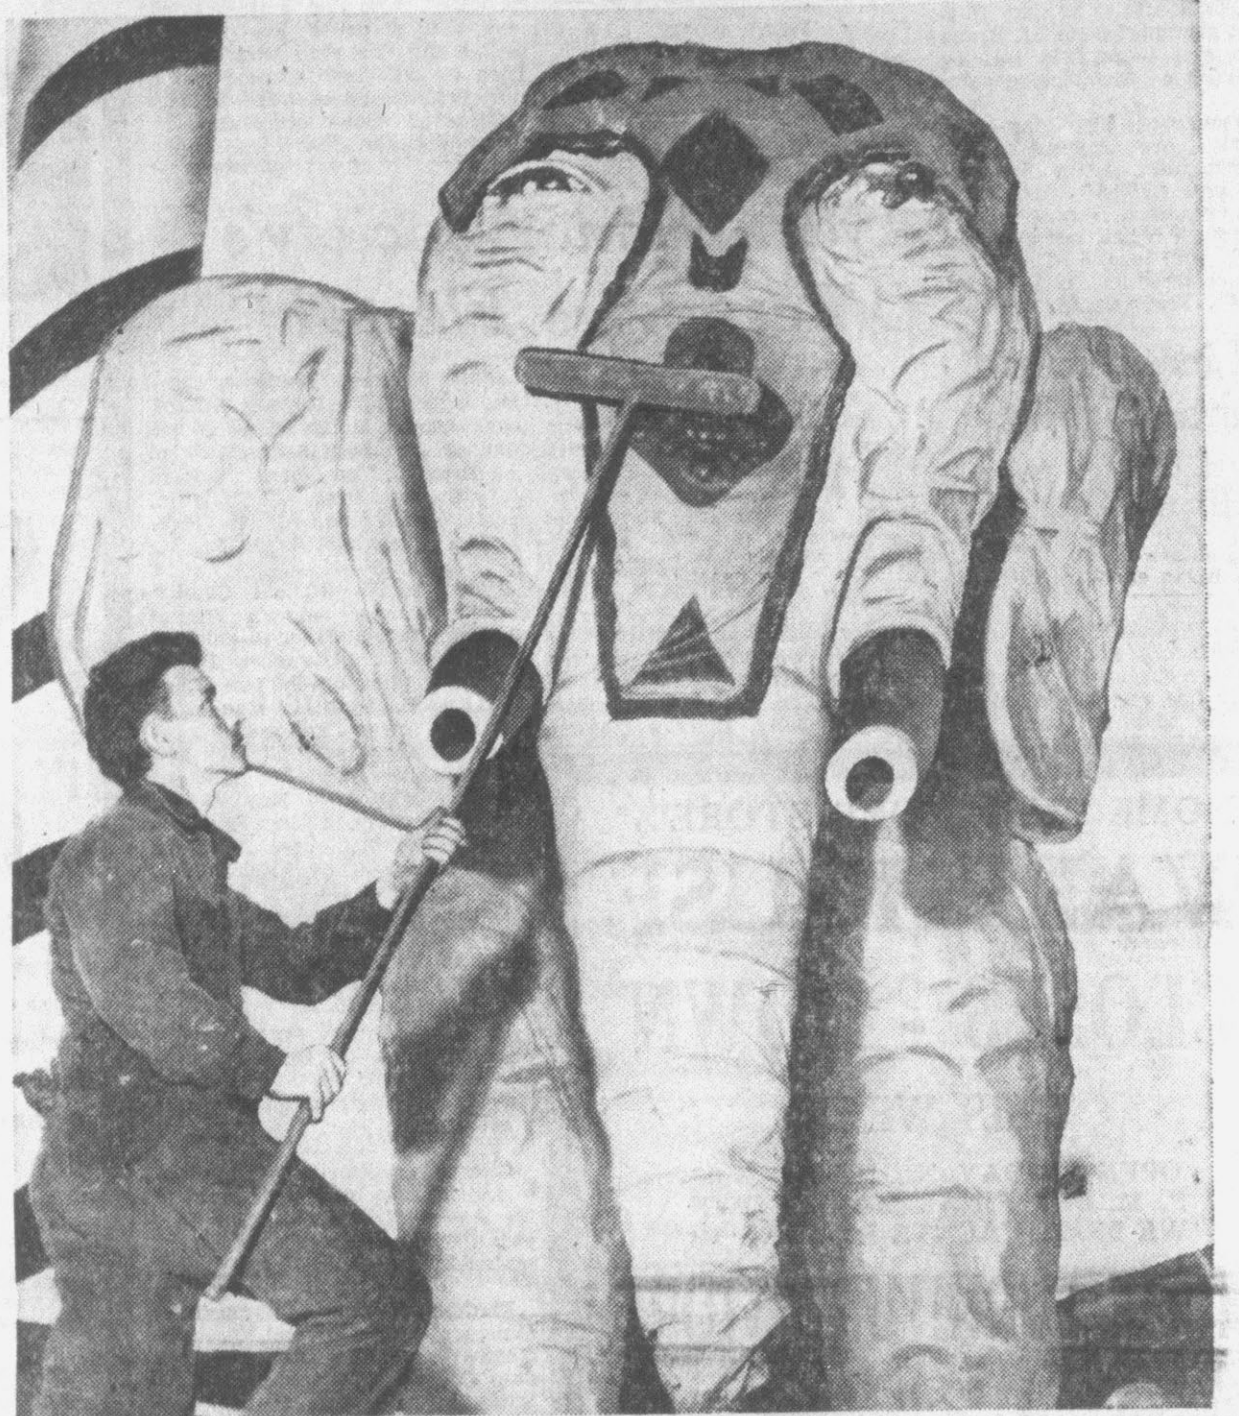

Perched high up like a pair of circus performers, painters Thomas Campagna, top, and Anthony de Polo, bottom, wield their brushes to give the parachute jump a bright new look for the summer ahead.

With pails and paint brushes, crews are feverishly getting the nation's amusement areas in readiness for the season of sun and fun ahead. The kids who hang around and watch them can hardly wait for opening day.

At Coney Island's Steeplechase Park, New York's famed amusement center, the annual ritual of refurbishing and rebuilding takes longer each year than the actual period the amusement park is open to the public.

From late September each year, until mid-May, a crew of 45 to 60 men completely disassembles Steeplechase and puts it together again. Every ride is dismantled, every piece of machinery taken apart and the work of re-decking floors, replacing machinery, replacing damaged limbs of merry-go-round horses, repainting the bungalows of ferris wheels, airship cars, whips and the plethora of rides and other attractions, goes on from day to day through the long months.

Pictured here is the polishing and painting, the scrubbing and decorating as opening day nears.

With long brush and sure arm, Robert O'Connor dusts off the trunk of the pink elephant that straddles the stage exit of the "Fun House."

John Cavanaugh daubs chanticleer chickens with coat of fresh paint.

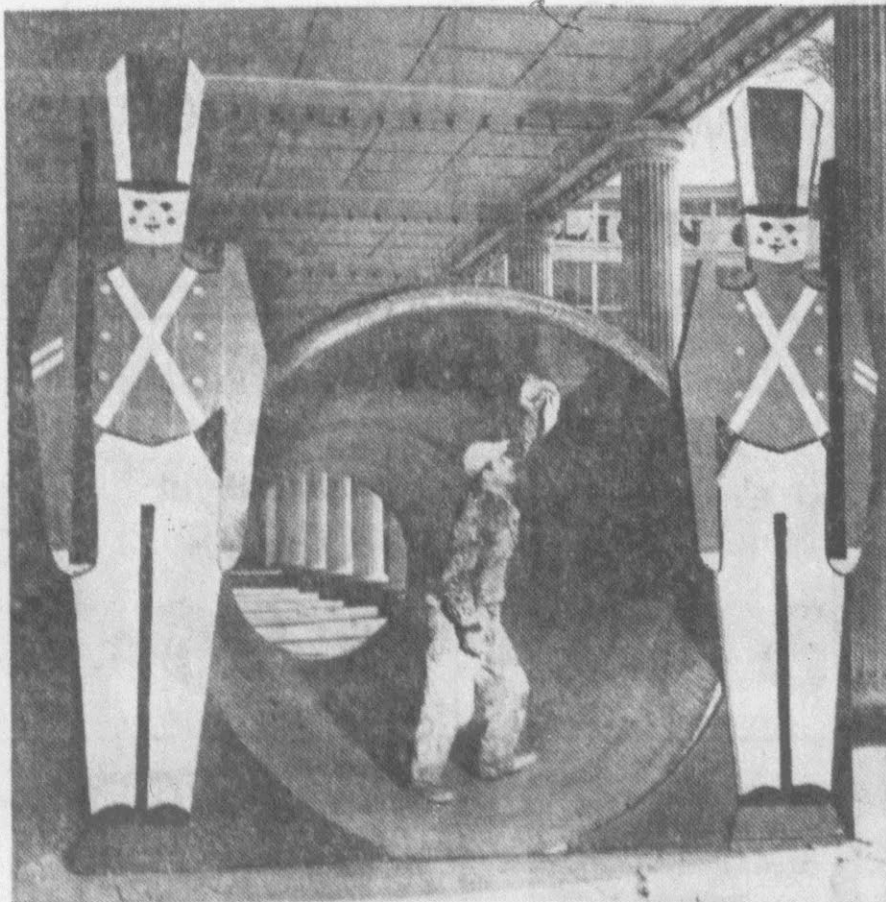

Racing derby horse gets fresh coat of paint from Greg Twohig as youngsters sit by and watch.

Thomas Campagna tries out the wax job he did on giant slide and finds that pleasure can be combined with work.

John Cavanaugh sees that no part of the carousel pig goes unpainted.

Two wooden soldiers stand guard as James Luisi polishes off the huge barrel of fun at the Coney Island amusement park.

Fred Ronca faces distorted reflection of himself as he dusts a fun mirror.

Rochester Plans Operate On Its Ailing Midsection

By RICHARD F. WHALEN
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A shopping center, symbol of the suburb, is going up in the heart of downtown Rochester.

Midtown Shopping Plaza, an architect's dream and a shopper's delight, will replace 10 acres of parking lots, dilapidated buildings and dingy alleys.

This is "urban redevelopment," but not the kind that needs a government subsidy. The owners of two of Rochester's largest retail stores, although competitors, have joined forces to wage 20 million dollars of their own money that Midtown will help stop the flight of business to the suburbs.

Underground Parking
Besides sprucing up the downtown area, Midtown will provide the city of 340,000 with free space underground for a garage to help solve the city's parking problems.

Here's what the plans call for: Underground parking on three ramps for almost 2,000 cars.

Escalators to the surface. About 30 stores on an enclosed mall, as big as a football field, heated in winter and cooled in summer.

An office building at least 10 stories high.

A bus terminal for city and suburban lines.

And, of course, entrances to the two stores that are building Midtown — McCurdy's department store, the second-largest in the city, and Forman's specialty store for women, the fourth-largest retailer.

The city expects to spend about 1 million dollars to build the underground garage and to extend a multi-lane expressway across the middle of downtown and along one edge of Midtown.

Work began early in April. Part of the garage will be open next year and the plaza is expected to be completed in five years.

The idea for Midtown was born three years ago when McCurdy's and Forman's — worried about the flight of shoppers to the suburbs — called in architects Victor Gruen Associates to design a parking garage. The architect suggested Midtown instead.

McCurdy and Forman met privately with the city manager, drew up plans, started buying property quietly and then unveiled the project before the City Council last fall.

Robert P. Aex, city manager, is convinced that private enterprise projects like Midtown are the answer to big-city decay.

"For the city," he says, "the key is the triple use of land."

"Parking is one of our biggest problems downtown. When the city builds a ramp garage, it has to buy the land, take it off the tax rolls and then build a garage that produces no profit."

"But look what happens when the city and private enterprise cooperate."

Cooperation Pays
"First, the city gets the underground rights free of charge. The stores are as happy to get the parking as we are to get the space."

"Second, the surface land stays on the tax rolls."

"Third, private enterprise improves the property, which increases in value and returns more taxes to the city."

Aex says Midtown could be the spark for a face-lifting of the whole downtown area — a new hotel, apartment housing, more store remodeling.

"Once you have something like Midtown as a starter," he says, "spreading his hands, 'it just grows and grows.'"

Real name of Andy Razab, composer of "Ain't Misbehavin'" and other Broadway song hits, is Andreamentania Paul Razafinkerrito.

CONGESTED ARTERIES like this are killing trade in downtown Rochester. A new plan will put a suburban-type shopping center in the heart of town.

Work began early in April. Part

His Specialty Is Spending Money

By HUBBARD KEAVY
MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Clem Beauchamp is a round, ruddy, good humored man in his 50s. His job is to spend other people's money by the millions.

One hundred million, or maybe two hundred million—he doesn't know the total for sure—has gone through his hands in 30 years.

Clem's base is Hollywood and his title is production manager of motion pictures. That makes him the business head of a producing unit.

At least 75 times during his career he has packed his bags, fresh account books and a trunk full of blank checks and taken off with movie companies for far places.

Handles the Details
He rents studios, or barns that will do, buys trucks and cars, sees that sets are built, hires lesser actors and extras and laborers, arranges for hotels, makes deals with caterers for the noon feeding—and tries to spend his employers' money with prudence.

But, equally importantly, he has to keep actors happy. If actors get temperamental—over poor food, or a lack of liquor or not-so-good-as-home beds—they don't work well and that causes delays. And the costs go up.

If Clem goes over his budget by too many hundreds of thousands, he could catch heck from the bankers who put up the money. Clem today wouldn't be one of Hollywood's half dozen most-sought production men if he tolerated expensive monkey business, especially by expensive actors.

How does he overcome temperamental?

"If they get difficult—and, boy, some of them can—you take them aside and have a nice little talk. You lay it on the line. They usually respond. Now you take Gary Cooper, there's a man who never gave any one a bit of trouble. I vote him the world's most co-operative actor."

"Now the most co-operative actress I've ever seen is Olivia de Havilland. She's great."

Clem was in Australia happily spending 2½ million dollars for the Stanley Kramer company filming "On the Beach." Nevil Shute's story of the end of the world.

Why come all this way (and if you think Melbourne isn't an outrageous distance from Hollywood, fly it sometime) to make a movie? Movie Artisans, with their know-how, are supposed to be able to duplicate any locale on the back lot.

Flight from Overhead
"Not any more," says Clem. "Because moviegoers demand, and get, more authenticity these days. We came here to film the actual locales of the story and to save money."

That's right. "On the Beach" cost 2½ million here, but it would have cost 3½ million in Hollywood. I'll tell you why in a paragraph:

"The scale for extras in Hollywood is $23 a day. Here $7. We use 2,500. A Hollywood studio carpenter gets $180 a week. Here, $45. The minimum for an experienced lighting cameraman at home is $350, but the scale here is $175."

THIEVES HIT POLICE
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Thieves left two Birmingham policemen calling for the law. Detective C. L. Limbaugh said a bicycle worth $65 was stolen from his porch and Officer H. C. Osborne reported that four hubcaps valued at $26 were taken from his private car while he walked his beat.

The trouble is Rupert and Columbia do not intersect, nor do Columbia and Sixth St.

QUICK STARTER
HOMINY, Okla. (AP) — Thirty minutes after parking meters were installed, Wes Rose's car was ticketed and he paid a 50 cent fine for overparking.

Reopening Of Dog Tracks Dies In Assembly

RALEIGH (AP) — A proposal aimed at reopening dog tracks at Moyock and Morehead City "is a dead issue at this session of the Legislature," says the bill's sponsor, Rep. Norwood Answeil of Currituck.

The House Finance Committee voted against giving his bill a favorable report Wednesday. "I accept their verdict in good faith," Answeil said.

His bill would allow any county in North Carolina to vote on the question of legalizing horse or dog racing and pari-mutuel betting.

Rep. C. Wayland Spruill of Bertie offered a motion to give the measure a favorable report, but it lost out on a 28-17 roll call vote. The committee then adjourned without voting on a motion by Rep. Radford Powell of Rockingham to give it an unfavorable report. Technically, the bill is still before the committee.

Signs of frayed tempers marked debate on the bill, which had been given a favorable report by the House Committee on Propositions and Grievances.

The Rev. Kelly Ingram of First Methodist Church in Elizabeth City led a group of ministers who appeared to oppose the measure.

Former House Speaker Larry I. Moore of Wilson, representing Carteret County and Currituck County citizens committees, headed the bill's proponents.

At one point in the heated debate a verbal exchange developed between Moore and the Rev. Mr. Ingram. It came after Moore said ministers are "talking about something they are not familiar with" when they talk about gambling at dog tracks.

Ministers are not familiar with conditions at the tracks," the Rev. Mr. Ingram replied, but "we know much more than Mr. Moore about picking up the pieces of human life."

The bill's supporters sought to get the Finance Committee to consider it solely from the revenue it would bring the state and counties. Moore told the committee that if the tracks at Moyock and Morehead City were reopened under the bill, the state could expect to receive $150,000 a year as its share of the profits. He said the counties of Currituck and Carteret could expect to divide an equal amount and each of the remaining counties in the state would receive about $1,500.

Takes Own Life After Brief Exchange With Two Deputies

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A man took his own life here Wednesday night, police said, after taking several shots at two deputies and wounding a 17-year-old boy.

Officers said Thomas Setliff Reeves shot himself with a Japanese rifle with which he had been holding off police.

Tommy Earl Cook, 17, was wounded in the right arm as he crossed the street in front of Reeves' house during the shooting.

Forsyth County Deputy Sheriff D. O. Southern told this story: He and Deputy E. G. Baker went to Reeves' home to serve commitment papers which would have placed Reeves in the hospital section of the county jail for observation by psychiatrists.

Southern said the man's mother, Mrs. Thomas Reeves, told them her son had gone for a walk. The officers began a search of the neighborhood, and James Brooks told them Reeves was at home and armed.

Southern called the city police for help, and officers Larry Ivester and C. S. Pinson answered the call.

The four went to the Reeves' house. Southern and Baker went to the front door and the city policemen covered the back.

Southern said that just as he reached the front door, he heard what sounded like the breach of a gun slam shut. Then a blind on the door was raised and the officers saw a rifle pointed at them.

Southern said he jumped back just as Reeves fired. The bullet passed inches from him, he said. Both men jumped off the porch. Reeves continued to blaze away at random, they said, and both police cars in front of the house were riddled.

The Cook youth started across the street, and was hit in the arm. Ivester ran to a telephone to call for more officers.

Then the firing stopped and the officers learned that Reeves had shot himself.

Every Home Has Hazards To Be Met By Children

AP Newsfeatures

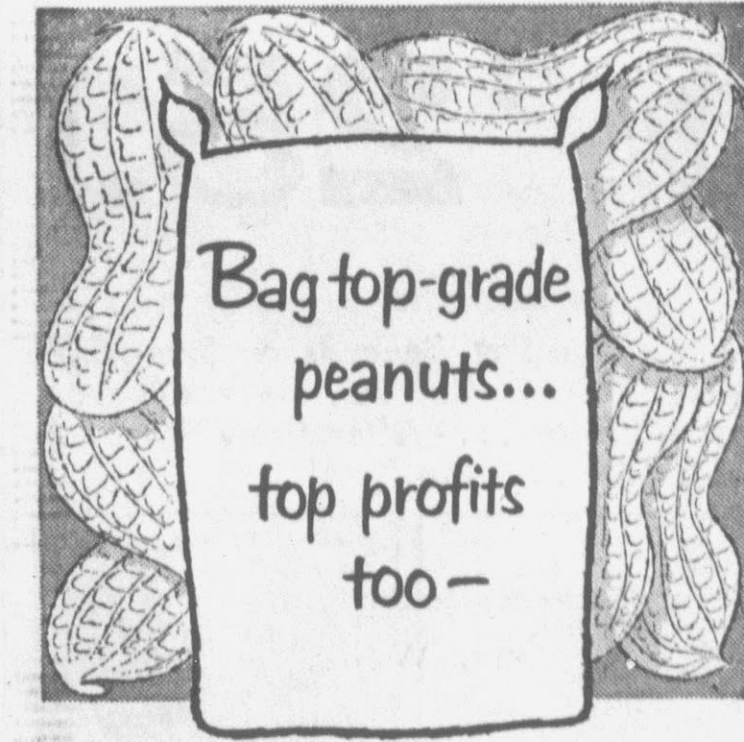

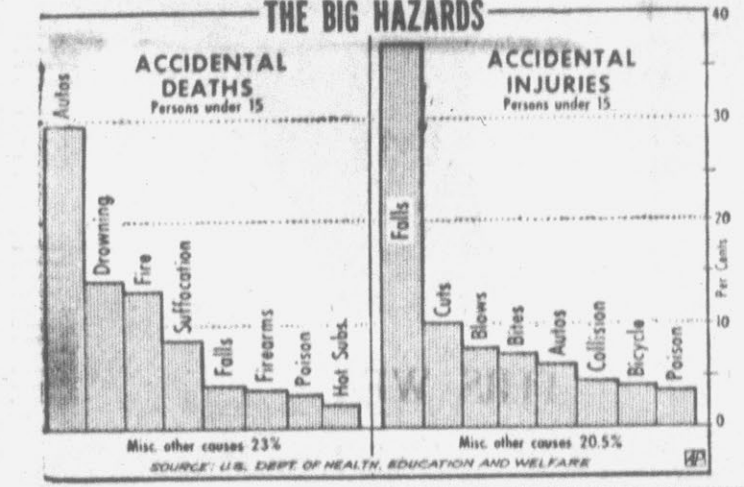

For a young child, home is not only the most pleasant place in the world — it also is the most dangerous.

According to the Children's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, nearly 5,500 children under 15 die each year as the result of accidents in the home. A majority of mishaps that result in injuries occur at home.

The biggest cause of accidental death among persons under 15 is the automobile, which accounts for nearly 30 per cent of the total. Drowning is next in line, accounting for 14 per cent of childhood accidental deaths. But more than half the total are due to a broad class of accidents, including fire, suffocation, falls, firearms and poison, which occur most frequently in the home.

The hazard of the home is even more apparent when non-fatal accidents are considered. Falls are the biggest factor here, contributing 37 per cent of the injuries. Cuts or punctures account for 10 per cent, blows for 7.5 per cent, and animal or insect bites for 7 per cent. Motor vehicles are involved in only 6 per cent of children's non-fatal accidents.

As most mothers know, boys are involved in a disproportionate number of injuries — almost twice as many as girls. According to estimates based on the first year of the National Health Survey, 4 out of 10 males under 15 years of age suffer some sort of accidental injury each year. Among girls, the casualty incidence is 2 out of 10.

Advise Extra $1 For Air Fare

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Civil Aeronautics Board examiner has recommended that trunk-line plane passengers pay an extra $1 for their tickets.

If the recommendation is approved by the full board, the fare increases would be used to help the nation's 12 long-haul airlines pay for new jet age equipment.

CAB Examiner Ralph L. Wiser made his recommendation Wednesday after one of the longest hearings in the board's history, starting in May 1956.

The proposed increase was described as temporary, but Wiser's long decision gave no prospective date for ending it.

Wiser said the boost, along with some small but unspecified rate increases, would allow the airlines to realize fair earnings.

The surcharge would represent an over-all 12 per cent average increase the level of domestic fares before Feb. 10, 1958, when the airlines got temporary increases. Wiser recommended these temporary increases be continued past their July 31 expiration date, along with an earlier $1 surcharge permitted before 1958.

Airlines affected are America, United, Eastern, Trans World, Braniff, Capital, Continental, Delta, National, Northeast, Northwest and Western.

Father Watches Three-Ton Wall Crush Daughter

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A horrified father watched a three-ton ornamental brick wall crush his 13-year-old daughter to death Wednesday scant seconds after he had driven her to school.

Three stunned teen-age boys told police they had braced against the opposite side of the wall in attempt to rock or push a school bus parked within three feet of it. The collapse buried Gloria Rivera as a schoolmate talking to her scrambled to safety.

Gloria's father, Joe Rivera, was powerless to help as the wall fell with deadly suddenness.

Names of the three scared boys were not released but Principal Charles E. Poe of the J. L. Reynolds Junior High School said the tragedy should not be blamed "solely on any of the students."

"Our buildings are supposed to be constructed well enough to take a little horseplay that's bound to be going on in any school," Poe told newsmen.

Zeb Vance High School was out for the summer but the boy that put the small school in North Carolina's sports circles was still around and answered the phone with a modest but low "Hello".

The speaker at the other end was Lawrence "Cotton" Clayton, the most sought after basketball prep star in North Carolina. A 190-pounder, Clayton had recently announced to the public that his next home would be East Carolina College.

His announcement shocked the Big Four schools and others that had made their bid for the "Cotton-headed" youngster. It immediately brought reactions from some of the larger schools in the state but his decision had been reached and according to "Cotton" a future change on a college site wasn't in his planning.

Has Outstanding Prep Career

The Zeb Vance star has a brilliant high school background behind him. During his four years as a regular, he guided his club to 109 victories while losing only 10 games. During his final two years of competition, his club had a total of 58 victories with only three defeats. It was a phenomenal accomplishment.

Turning to his individual record, "Cotton" scored over 2,500 points as a regular and averaged over 30 points per game his final two seasons. His single night high was 41 in his junior year but he tallied 39 last year and his performances in the thirties have been numerous.

He was one of the biggest drawing cards in the state and continuously packed the house wherever he played. His efforts were not in vain as he was an All-State selection his junior and senior years.

ECC Has Personal Attraction

East Carolina is the largest growing school in the state and the athletic program has made steady strides but Clayton's decision to come here came from a personal contact.

"We came down one weekend and I liked the school but the big influence was Coach Smith. He is a great guy. I was in a summer basketball camp where he was an instructor and I knew him very well," cited Clayton.

Thus Coach Earl Smith had added a feather to his hat in his first quarter as head basketball coach at East Carolina College.

Clayton plans to work on his farm this summer and will then enter East Carolina next fall quarter. He stated that other schools including the Big Four, had continued to talk with him but he was still sold on East Carolina.

Smith High on Clayton

The North State Conference allows freshmen to play varsity ball thus "Cotton" will be eligible next year. He has already been figured high in Coach Earl Smith's plans.

"He is a fine college prospect and I feel that he will be a great deal of help to us on next year's team. I think he will help us quick," stated Coach Earl Smith.

"He is a fine boy and an all-round athlete. He shoots good, can dribble, rebound, and play defense. We are just happy that he is coming to East Carolina," continued Smith.

Clayton has already passed the college board entrance exam and plans to major in either Business or Physical Education this fall.

Graniteers Win
Third Straight

Graniteers came from behind last night to register their third straight victory in the young Industrial Softball season.

Trailing 6-0, the defending city champions scored seven runs in their half of the second inning to break the game wide open.

Bobby Perry, Ike Riddick, and Dixie Hobgood led the big uprising. Riddick collected three doubles in the tilt. Foll, and Roebuck also had three hits each.

Don Umstead started on the mound for the Graniteers but ran into trouble in the sixth and was relieved by Don Gordon.

Hobgood and Perry had two hits each for the winners with the latter getting a couple of doubles. The win left the Graniteers as the only undefeated club in the loop. Carolina Dairy remains in second place.

Severe Storms
In Mid-Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More severe thunderstorms with tornado winds in some areas, hit the middle part of the country during the night, following the weather pattern during most of the month of May.

Today's weather map indicated showers across wide areas of the country. Out of the predicted wet belt were the far northeast and the southern half of the country from the Rockies westward to the Pacific coast.

Wednesday night tornado winds hit and rain were reported in areas in northern, western and central Texas.

Heavy rains in northeast Kansas and northern Missouri caused flooding in some areas. A tornado alert was sounded in southeast Missouri. Strong winds also whipped areas in South Dakota and Nebraska.

Earlier Wednesday tornadoes struck the area of Gillette, Wyo., smashing farm buildings, a hangar and four airplanes. No injuries were reported. A farmer was killed when struck by lightning during a severe thunderstorm in the Cadiz, Ohio, area.

Warm and humid air covered most of the eastern half of the country but it was cool in the northern areas from the Great Lakes region westward into the Pacific coast.

Minor Accident Here Yesterday

A minor accident was reported late yesterday by police at the intersection of First and Library Sts.

Investigating officers listed the drivers of the cars as Mrs. Dorothy Taylor Gillikin of 112 North Jarvis St. and Mrs. Emily Jackson Harvey of 2407 East Fourth St.

Police said Mrs. Harvey was headed South on Library and Mrs. Gillikin was traveling West on First St. at the time of the accident.

Damage to the Gillikin vehicle was listed by officers at $25 while damage to the Harvey car was set at $50.

Mrs. Harvey was charged with failure to stop for a stop sign as a result of the collision.

Chisox Pose Major Obstacle To Cleveland

By ED WILKS
If the way Cleveland has managed to hold the American League lead is a surprise, imagine where the Indians might be if they could shake loose from Chicago's White Sox, the club they have a tough time beating, and Early Wynn, the guy they can't beat at all.

Half of Cleveland's 14 defeats through the first quarter of the schedule have been from the second place White Sox. And three of those have been nailed by Wynn, who has won seven in a row from the Indians since they traded him away a year and a half ago.

Cleveland's just a game in front after Wynn (5-3) and the White Sox went to work again Wednesday for a 5-1 victory over the Indians.

Baltimore, the only other club with an edge (3-2) over Cleveland this year, missed a chance to close in when Washington's Camilo Pascual beat the third place Orioles 6-0 Wednesday night with a two-hitter.

Last place New York squeezed past Boston 3-2 in the other AL game. Detroit was rained out at Kansas City.

In the National League, first place Milwaukee defeated Pittsburgh 4-3. San Francisco held on to second by whipping St. Louis 9-4. Los Angeles took third with a 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati ripped Philadelphia 10-4.

Wynn, a 39-year-old right-hander, closed in on the top-20 group of all-time winners with his 256th victory, but needed Gerry Staley's relief help for the last two outs. Wynn is 21st on the all-time list of winners, four shy of Ted Lyons' 260. Wynn is tops among active pitchers, with Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, who won his 252nd Wednesday night, no. 25 in the all-time rankings.

The White Sox, who had lost three in a row, put it away with eight hits against Gary Bell (4-3). Two were homers, one a solo smash by Sherm Lollar and the other a one-on shot by Earl Torgeson in a clinching three-run sixth inning.

Pascual gained his first two-hitters after holding the Orioles hitless until Gene Woodling and Albie Pearson, a Senator until Wednesday, singled in the seventh. Harman Killebrew upped his major league-leading home run total to 16 with a three-run blast in the first inning against loser Ernie Portocarrero (0-4).

The Yankees were hitless until the fifth, when Andy Carey socked a home run against loser Ike De- lock (5-2). Bill Skowron hit a two-run homer in the seventh for the winning margin as Boston broke through Duke Maas's two-hit shut-out bid on Pete Runnel's two-run homer in the ninth. Reliever Ryno Duren saved it for Maas (3-2) and the Yanks, who were out-hit 5-4.

Miss Janssen, the Virginia state champion, shares the spotlight with another of the nation's better women amateurs, Marje Burns of Greensboro, N.C. Both are veterans on the women's amateur circuit.

The Virginia captain is Miss Elliott, who like Miss Janssen and Mrs. Pollard is from Charlottesville. Mrs. Covington has a co-captain — Mrs. Annette Roddey of Sumter, S.C.

A team champion is determined by the total score of today's meeting and a second encounter in September at Myrtle Beach, S.C. The two teams split even in the first series in 1957 with the Carolinas squad winning on total points. The Carolinas team won both matches in 1958.

The 32 women tee off in four-somes with two from each team making up the quartet. There are three points at stake in each four-some — one each for each nine holes and one for the entire 18-hole round.

Today's game will pit Greenville Tobacco Company against Exchange. A doubleheader will be held tomorrow with Elks meeting with Greenville Tobacco Co. and Kiwanis vs Texaco.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sneaky with curves and a change of pace, the whistling winds at Seals Stadium seem to benefit the San Francisco Giants.

How can the wind be partisan? First, the San Francisco fielders have become more accustomed to the capricious breezes which blow predominantly toward the left-field fence.

Second, the winds aid right-handed batters and these predominate in the Giants' batting order.

Right-handers slammed four home runs Wednesday as the second place Giants beat St. Louis 9-4. Three of them might not have gone if it hadn't been for the wind. The fourth, by Orlando Cepeda, traveled so fast it was over the left field wall before the wind caught up with it.

Although the Weather Bureau said the highest recorded velocity was 30 m.p.h., it conceded the winds may have been stronger at Seals Stadium.

Robin Roberts' Comeback Start Didn't Get Started

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

After the opening game this looked like it might be the year Robin Roberts' comeback, but now it's already a long, long season for Philadelphia's right-handed veteran.

Roberts was the Associated Press comeback-of-the-year choice in the National League last season when he won 17 games for the last place Phillies. When he beat Cincinnati's Don Newcombe 2-1 opening day after a five-inning no-hit duel, there were thoughts of the old Roberts, who had been a 20-game winner for six consecutive seasons before becoming the NL's biggest loser in 1956 and 1957.

Now he's 24, clobbered once more by the home run ball as he lost his third in a row Wednesday night at Cincinnati 10-4. The club he had held hitless for five innings on opening day chased him within four innings with eight hits, three of them homers, and six runs.

That victory hoisted the Reds into a fifth place tie with the Chicago Cubs, beaten 4-1 at Los Angeles. First place Milwaukee retained a three-game lead by beating Pittsburgh 4-3 after San Francisco's second place Giants peppered St. Louis 9-4 in an afternoon game.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox closed within one game of first place Cleveland again as Early Wynn gained his 25th victory with a 5-1 decision over the Indians. Washington beat Baltimore 6-0 behind Camilo Pascual's two-hitter, and New York defeated Boston 3-2. The Detroit at Kansas City game was rained out.

Vada Pinson, Frank Robinson and Ed Bailey hit the homers off

Cus D'Amato Is 'Missing' Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Where is Cus D'Amato?

The man who holds the answer whether Floyd Patterson will defend his heavyweight boxing title against Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in New York June 25 as scheduled has done another one of his disappearing acts.

Bill Rosenzohn, Cus' hand-picked promoter, says the fight will be held as advertised or there will be law suits.

But Rosenzohn received a telephone call from D'Amato Wednesday and quoted Patterson's manager as saying he was thinking of moving the fight from New York. D'Amato's mysterious view of the fight started after the New York State Athletic Commission denied the application of Harry Davidow, his long-time pal, to become the 10 per cent American manager of Johansson. Cus had recommended Davidow to the unbeaten Swedish fighter.

Roberts. Robinson added another, his 11th, off reliever Fernando Rodriguez.

Bob Purkey, who had lost three straight, was the winner for a 5-5 record.

The Pirates finally ended their shutout slump at 21 innings with three unearned runs off winner Warren Spahn (6-5) with two out in the ninth.

Reliever Don McMahon came on for the final out, fanning Dick Schofield, in Spahn's 252nd victory. Ed Mathews 15th homer gave the Braves a 3-0 lead in the fifth against loser Vern Law (4-2).

A pinch single by Duke Snider, the Dodgers' one-time power guy who is 5-for-10 as a pinch-hitter this season, scored the winner for Los Angeles in a two-run fourth against loser Glen Hobbie (5-4). Don Drysdale (5-4) won it with an 11-strikeout five-hitter, losing a shutout when Ernie Banks hit his 11th home run in the sixth.

Orlando Cepeda, Willie Mays and Andre Rodgers homered for the Giants as Johnny Antonelli won his sixth, shutout relief over the last four innings. Stan Musial and Lee Tate homered for the Cards. Gary Blaylock (2-2) lost it.

Five Americans in Final Round Of British Play

SANDWICH, England (AP) — Five Americans went into the fifth round of the British Amateur Golf Championship today with the expectation of making the final.

Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, captain of the American Walker Cup team, made the flat prediction:

"I am sure one of our boys will be shooting for the title Saturday."

Coe, one of the favorites for the title, lost to Murray Lawrence of England by one hole Wednesday in the big upset of the tournament.

But three of his fellow Walker Cuppers were still in the last 16. Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, defeated Noel Fogarty, of Ireland, at the 19th in the fourth round; Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia, defeated Graham Dudley of England 8 and 6; and Dean Belman of Silver Springs, Maryland, defeated Sean McDermott of Ireland, 2 up.

Other American through to the fifth round are Harold Ridgley of Roanoke, Va., and Lt. Bob McGee, of Newton, Mass.

Bowdry Wins In One-Sided Brawl

CHICAGO (AP) — A 22-year-old slasher from St. Louis, Jesse Bowdry, has vaulted into top contention for venerable Archie Moore's world light heavyweight title.

Bowdry took apart the erstwhile No. 1 light heavyweight contender, Tony Anthony, for a unanimous decision in a nationally televised 10-round bout in Chicago Stadium July 22.

Johnson is rated No. 2 by the NBA, but No. 1 contender by Ring magazine which ranked Anthony No. 2 before the fight Wednesday night.

Whether or not it was reflected in the television cameras, this was one of the most vicious fights in the Chicago Stadium in a long while. Both battlers tore after each other with brutal intent to the delight of the 1,008 fans.

Bowdry proved to have far more guts than Anthony, whose reputed boxing skill and punching power had to be shelved in defensive maneuvering.

This was the seventh defeat for Anthony, of New York, in 46 matches. For Bowdry it was his 27th victory against three defeats, all by Chicago's Sonny Ray.

Bowdry got a 48-38 vote from Referee Frank Sikora; a 50-41 call from Judge Bill Doty and a 48-41 ballot from Judge Howard Walsh. The AP had Bowdry winning, 50-40.

Bowdry weighed 175 pounds against Anthony's 177. The net gate was $807.21.

'Whole Rabbit' For Ralph Terry

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Terry, right-hander acquired from Kansas City, will have something more than a rabbit's foot going for him when he pitches tonight for the New York Yankees. He'll have a whole rabbit.

"The way we're going — you know you're with a tail-end club now — you'll need some luck," Manager Casey Stengel said when he told Terry he would pitch against Baltimore tonight.

Stengel stepped over to his locker, pulled out a stuffed white rabbit and handed it to Terry.

Casey said, "Somebody sent it to me. Thought it might do some good."

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The contenders in Saturday's 500-mile auto race figure it will be such a close contest that it may be won or lost in the pits.

To save a few seconds in the stops for fuel and tires, mechanics have installed pneumatic jacks on five of the cars. One crewman will attach a tank of compressed air to a fitting and the car will hop up on three or four legs.

Manual jacks will be eliminated from cars driven by Jim Rathmann, Miami; his brother, Dick, San Gabriel, Calif.; last year's winner Jimmy Bryan, Phoenix, Ariz.; Eddie Sachs, Center Valley, Pa., and Rodger Ward, Los Angeles.

Sachs and Jim Rathmann will start in the first three-car row along with pole winner Johnny Thomson, Boyertown, Pa.

Bryan has gone all the way four times in the Memorial Day classic, Jim Rathmann and Don Freedland have finished three times, and Paul Russo, Jimmy Daywalt, 1956 winner Pat Flaherty, Johnny Boyd and Bob Veith have done it twice.

Other noted speedsters in the field include Duane Carter, Thomson, Al Herman, Dick Rathmann, Rodger Ward, Gene Hartley, Jack Turner, Tony Bettenhausen, Jud Larson, Eddie Johnson, Bill Cheesbourg, Al Keller and Johnnie Tolan.

SANDWICH, England (AP) — The good things in golf have come late in athletic life to William Hyndman III.

At 43, he's a symbol for three million American duffers of what can happen if you don't give up hope and keep on hitting the ball.

With a little luck, some nerve, practice and money, maybe they can match the Hyndman story and in four years spring from obscurity and mediocrity into an international star.

"Until 1955 I never left Philadelphia," said Hyndman. "Now look at me — Sandwich, England, and the British Amateur Championship and two weeks ago Muirfield, Scotland, and the Walker Cup Matches."

"It took me 43 years to do it while it takes some of the kids only 19 or 20. But the wait has been worth it."

"Before I got here, I had to correct my golfing swing, change my grip, practice for thousands of hours, take beatings from kids a lot younger than I am and branch out from Philadelphia."

"Until 1955 I was too busy and I had to work too hard to leave Philadelphia. About that time my insurance agency began going good. That provided me with enough money to move about." Hyndman got his first scent of fame in 1955 when he was a finalist in the U. S. National Amateur. The next year he was finalist in the 'North and South. In 1957 he was on the Walker Cup team and 12th in the National Open.

Last October he was on the U. S. team, at the World Championships at St. Andrews and his final round of 71 put the Americans into a playoff with the Australians which the Australians finally won.

This year he was 18th in the Masters.

"But you know what? I still never won a single title outside of Philadelphia — not yet. But I am still trying."

No Hand-Picked Foe This Time For The Heavyweight Champion

By FRANK ECK

Ingemar Johansson, Sweden's gift to pugilism, has two hands, a pretty fiancée, money in excavating machinery, a fishing boat and a mother who makes good Swedish meatballs.

But can he fight That's the question everyone seems to be asking. Johansson is an unmarked 202-pounder who says he fights best at 198 pounds. He is a stocky six-footer. His features resemble Terry Brennan, the unmarked Notre Dame football coach, even to the dimple on his chin.

He seems modest but on occasion talks big. Last fall he said "nobody can take my right." And when he arrived here the last Monday in April for his June 25 Yankee Stadium title fight against heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson he said:

"I think I will beat him. I wouldn't be here if I didn't think so."

This is not the same Johansson who in the 1952 Olympics put up such a big showing against Ed Sanders that he was disqualified in the heavyweight final. He got no second place medal. He had a hard time living down his Helsinki showing.

Johansson is 26 now and wizened in the ways of the ring. His professional record shows 21 bouts, 13 of which ended in knockouts, and he is unbeaten. Last year he knocked out Joe Erskine, Heinz Neuhaus and Eddie Machen.

His one-round kayo of Machen in Botenborg last September showed he packs a sharp overhand right. Ingo used his left cautiously. It seemed, in the movies, he feared getting hit, for in jabbing he held his left out and stepped backward, but in close his overhand right sent a message. It put Machen down the first time it connected. Ingo floored the Californian again and when Machen refused to go down a third time, Johansson showed a killer instinct reminiscent of a Jack Dempsey. However, Machen is no Patterson.

Johansson seems to have a few things in his favor. One is his weight advantage. At 198 to Patterson's 183 those 16 pounds could be telling if Ingo can last more than a few rounds. The Swede has gained two pounds in the last six years. He skips the rich food.

Ingo has also been hardened by miles and miles of roadwork and many rounds of sparring sessions. Edwin Ahlquist, his manager, says:

"His training is like 22 rounds a day. I never saw a fighter who trained so hard."

Nat Fleischer, The Ring magazine editor who has seen more heavyweight fights than anyone around, says "Johansson is all right. He can fight."

Fleischer saw the Swedish hope twice, and after the Machen bout named him "fighter of the year."

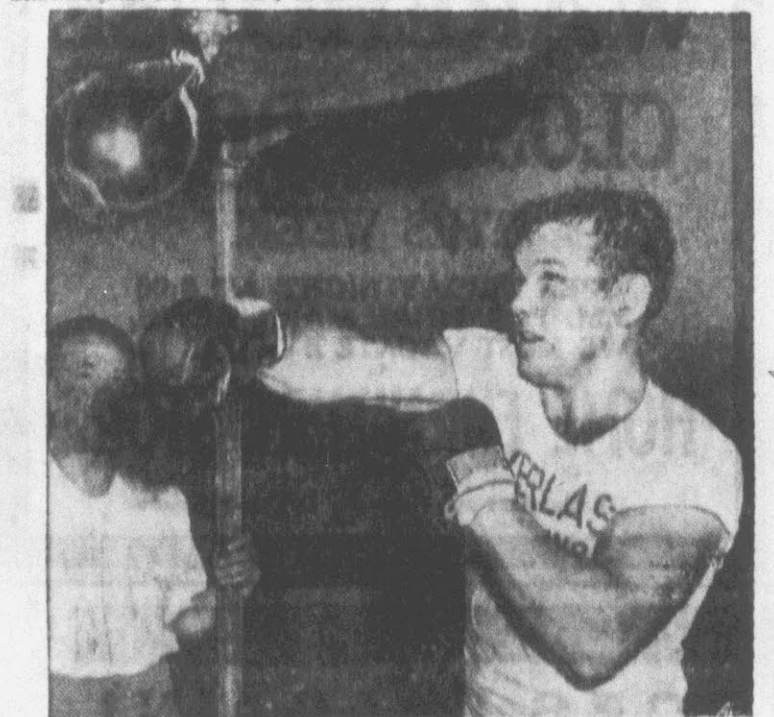

This, probably more than anything, forced Patterson to say he wanted Johansson. In January of 1958, Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, refused to accept Ingemar's challenge.

Maybe Cus knew what he was doing. Ever since Patterson won the crown by knocking out unpredictable Archie Moore in five rounds in Chicago in 1956, the manager who helped put Jim Norris and his International Boxing Club out of business, has come up with only hand-picked opponents for his fighter.

In three years, Patterson has stopped Tommy Jackson, who couldn't fight; Pete Rademacher, who never fought professionally; and Roy Harris, who showed only in Texas.

Then recently, in Indianapolis, it was Brian London, a Britisher who fought only a string of unknowns in England.

None of Patterson's four title aspirants has ever been regarded as "a worthy opponent." Maybe Johansson is. At least he has the record, and a good overhand right.

OVERHAND RIGHT which Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, 26, hopes to use on heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, 24, shows a good follow through in this light bag workout.

Body Of John Foster Dulles Laid To Rest In Ritual

WASHINGTON (AP)—The body of John Foster Dulles was laid to rest in a massive official ceremony seldom matched in the history of this country.

Hundreds of U.S. officials and many from abroad watched as Dulles' casket was committed to a simple grave on a hillside in quiet Arlington National Cemetery.

A 2½-hour ritual was climaxed by a 19-gun salute, three rifle volleys, and the sounding of taps by a lone bugler. Dry-eyed and composed, Mrs. Dulles received the flag which had covered the casket during the funeral.

Then President and Mrs. Eisenhower once again expressed condolences to Mrs. Dulles, whose husband died of cancer Sunday after six years as secretary of state.

Today the galaxy of foreign leaders—including some who fought Dulles during his long diplomatic career—prepared to go their separate ways.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Britain's Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, scheduled a meeting with Eisenhower before returning to their Geneva conference temporarily recessed for the funeral.

Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, diplomatic representatives from 86 countries, and Washington's elite from the administration, Congress and the Supreme Court joined in the elaborate proceedings which started in the National Cathedral and moved to the cemetery in a 100-limousine cortege.

The cathedral—a huge, Gothic church atop a Washington high point—was filled with nearly 3,000 mourners for the Presbyterian funeral service led by the Rev. Dr. Russell P. Barnes, Secretary of the World Council of Churches. Dulles had been a Presbyterian lay leader.

At Mrs. Dulles' request there was no sermon and no eulogy.

At the cemetery gate there was another solemn service. While the procession waited, an Army band played "God of Our Fathers" and six servicemen moved the casket from the motor hearse to a black caisson drawn by six gray horses.

Led now by companies of servicemen on foot, the cortege moved at slow pace through the cemetery's winding roads.

At the grave site—on a hillside partly shaded by a yellow poplar tree—hundreds more gathered to witness the final military rites. Dulles was a major in World War I.

Members of Dulles' family and a few others, including President and Mrs. Eisenhower and Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon sat under a canopy by the grave. Others remained standing to the rear, sweltering under an 80-degree May sun.

Eisenhower sat stiffly and solemnly through the reading of passages from the Bible. Mrs. Dulles remained calm.

Then came the firing of arms, the bugled taps, the folding of the casket flag and its handing by the clergy to the widow. The tribute to Dulles has come to an end.

Society Acquires Lincoln Letter

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP)—A gift of $300 from the Waukesha Daily Freeman made possible the purchase of an important Abraham Lincoln manuscript by the State Historical Society of Wisconsin.

The letter was written to Lincoln by Vice President Hannibal Hamlin on April 23, 1861, when Hamlin was in New York working on defense plans. He suggested that the Chikapee munitions works be put in full operation.

Again Going To Supreme Court

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—Four trustees of Flora Macdonald College, who are challenging the merger of the school with two others, have indicated they'll take their case to the State Supreme Court again.

Their latest attempt to block the merger of Flora Macdonald, Peace College and Presbyterian Junior College, was non-suited by Superior Court Judge C. W. Hall Wednesday.

The plaintiffs indicated they plan to carry the case to the State Supreme Court for the third time. The three schools are to be consolidated into a single four-year Presbyterian College at Laurinburg.

But four of the 38 Flora Macdonald trustees say the majority action of the trustees in agreeing to the merger was illegal.

They also argued that reservations Peace College put on the merger, invalidate the agreement. Peace College reserved the right to continue operating as a separate school.

The consolidated Presbyterian College replied that the action of the Flora Macdonald trustees not only was legal according to church law, but was ordered by the three presbyteries which own Flora Macdonald.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The high hedge around William C. Hooper's home in Tucson prevented passersby from seeing his three new pieces of pink wrought iron lawn furniture.

So, Hooper trimmed the hedge. The next night thieves stole the lawn furniture.

The Three Stooges Return To 'Bigtime'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Here's evidence of how fantastic show business can be: the Three Stooges are starring in a feature movie.

A year and a half ago, the Stooges were finished, washed up. They had come to the end of a record stand of 24 years at Columbia Pictures making shorts. Their knockabout comedy was considered passe, the market for short subjects had vanished.

Then it happened. The Columbia subsidiary, Screen Gems, released the first batch of old Stogie comedies to TV. Wham! The Stooges, a show business team for a third of a century, found themselves at the height of their fame.

When they were making shorts, they earned $70,000 from the film and picked up an equal amount on personal appearances. This year they are already guaranteed a $275,000 gross, and the figure may go much higher.

The boys have returned to Columbia, but not to make shorts. They are filming "Have Rocket, Will Travel," their first feature as a starring team. Back in the '30s, they appeared with their old boss Ted Healy in some MGM movies. And more recently they have done some quickie musicals.

"But this is the first time we've been starred in a feature," said Moe Howard proudly. "And we're getting 25 per cent of the take." Moe is the leader of the Stooges. He's the one with the black bangs. Larry Fine has the operatic hairdo, and Joe DeRita is the fat one who takes most of the knocks. He was preceded in his post by Moe's brothers, Curly and Shemp, both now deceased, and comic Joe Besser.

"It's fantastic, what has happened to us," Moe raved. "We've got more offers than we can handle. Now we're doing all kinds of merchandizing—hats and other things with our faces on them. We've got an advance from a bubble gum outfit that is bigger than they gave the entire National League."

The graduating class this year will be the fifth in the history of Mount Olive Junior College which began operation here in 1954.

Candidates for the Associate in Arts degree are: Gary F. Barefoot, Dunn; Nelda Faye Boswell, Fremont; James Alton Cowan, Bear Grass; Sandra Lou Ginn, Snow Hill; George W. Stevenson, Jr., Kingston; Martha Anne Thomas, Snow Hill; Leonard B. Woodall, Princeton.

There are four candidates for the one-year certificate in business education: Ada Mae Bass, Godwin; Nancy Carol Jackson, Turkey; Eleese Keen Reed, Grant; Margaret Marie Turner, Pink Hill.

Prior to the commencement exercises, there will be an awards program at 2:30 p.m. in the College auditorium. Two scholarships in the amount of $50 each will be presented: one sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Mount Olive to the student who has shown the greatest improvement during his first year in College, and the other by the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution to the student who made the highest academic average during his freshman year.

Judge Reminds Save The Money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three teen-age rock'n' roll singers got court approval of their contracts with Walt Disney Productions Tuesday after the judge noted: "Rock 'n' roll is selling, and there's no law against making money."

But, Judge John Gee Clark warned, "Save your money because you may need it some day."

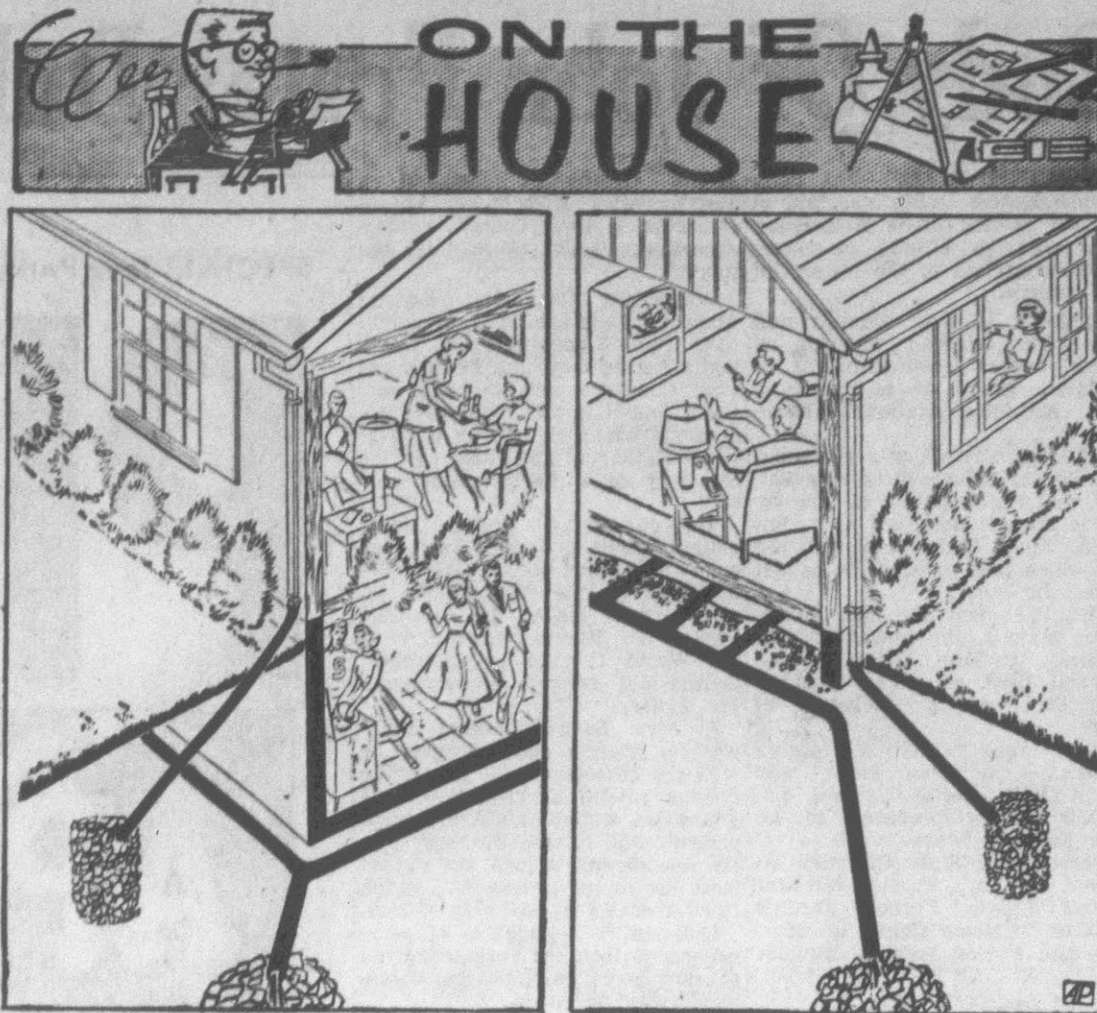

The three singers are Annette Funicello, 16, Tommy Kirk, 17, and Robert Shore, 16.

Rocketeer's Life Basis For Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A movie about Werner von Braun will feature Curt Jurgens as the famed German rocket scientist.

Columbia Pictures announced signing of the German actor Tuesday.

Shooting starts in October. Title of the film: "I Aim At the Stars."

FOUNDATION DRAINAGE—Perforated pipe around foundation walls or under slabs relieves water pressure and drains water into dry wells. Downspouts also should empty into drywells.

By ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures

The wet season is here again. Whether your house is built on a slab or with a basement, rains seeping into the ground can cause popping tiles, damp floors and wet cellars.

Inside waterproofing may help to an extent, depending on the severity of the condition. But the real and permanent solution revolves around the concept known as "foundation drainage." Everyone who buys a home, either with a cellar or built on a slab, should know something about foundation drainage.

The discomforts of damp cellars and floors are well known. Less understood is the insidious long-term damage caused by dampness. Paint blisters, windows and doors bind, sills rot, tiles pop up, plaster cracks — things that in a few years decrease the value and comfort of a home.

Foundation drainage is simply an underground pipeline. The pipes are perforated to permit water to enter and are gently sloped to carry water away. These pipes are run around the outside of the foundation slightly below cellar floor level. For slab construction, the pipes run under the floor at intervals of several feet. Crushed stone surrounds the pipe to allow free water flow. The collected water is run into a dry well — a hole filled with rock to allow harmless seepage.

Foundation drainage works because it acts as a pressure relief valve. Underground water pushes its way up into foundations and particularly under slabs. Engineers call this "hydrostatic pressure." By giving the water an escape route it flows away.

Thousands of homes are wasting valuable space because water seeps into the cellar or basement. Even if this happens only once a year, the cellar is lost as a dependable storage or recreation area. If you want to banish moisture from your home to use this space, foundation drainage is the answer in most cases. While many builders take care of this when erecting their houses, many do not. It can be done later if a serious problem persists, but the cost naturally is higher than it would be during original construction.

The two kinds of pipe most commonly used for drainage systems are bituminized-fibre pipe and drainage tile, which actually is a pipe-like product. The fibre pipe comes in perforated eight-foot lengths joined with snap couplings. Drainage tile comes in short lengths laid with open joints to allow water to enter. These joints are covered with strips of tar paper to prevent soil from falling in and blocking the system.

That Blonde Date Is Unloading A Shocker

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — Any men who recently had a date in New York with an attractive blonde calling herself Connie E. Longshore, a wealthy Chicago widow, are in for a shock if they'll sit close to their TV sets next Thursday.

Tune, gentlemen, to NBC-TV at 7:30 p.m. EDT and you'll learn the widow Longshore actually is an NBC reporter named Eve Sandeffer who was assigned to help investigate the cheats and suckers who profit and pay among the marriage hucksters.

The program, "I Take Thee," examines the fact that sometimes boy meets girl only after both have paid a fee to a marriage broker or dating agency.
Producer Chet Hagan also has turned cameras and reporters on "marriage mill towns"—Las Vegas, Hernando, Miss., Elkton, Md., Durant, Okla.—in a study of "the general proposition of love and marriage as the motivating force of our society."

Miss Sandeffer was prepared elaborately for her role as the not too bereaved widow of well-to-do realtor, Longshore, killed in an auto accident.

The first agency at which she registered charged her a $75 fee "for the summer." It sent around only one man — "a professional gigolo type for whom I bought a drink and who docily went away and hasn't been seen since."

The second agency charged her $150 as "a lifetime fee," meaning presumably that it would send men for the rest of her life until she found the right one to marry her — and her money.

She had dates with five men the agency put in touch with her—a European physician, a chemist, architect (unemployed), radar technician and schoolteacher.

On all dates Miss Sandeffer was at all times under surveillance of two private detectives. She did not need them.

"The common characteristic of all was that they had some emotional problem," she says. "They were extremely shy and self-centered. All they wanted was a listening post."

On the program next Thursday Miss Sandeffer will re-enact her experiences with professional actors. The names and identities of all the men and agencies have been disguised.

The full-hour NBC News special

DOUBLE SIGHT — Undulating reflection of building under construction on shore of Lake Merritt at Oakland, Calif., was caused by high humidity over area.

will be narrated by Frank McGee and directed by Robert Priaulx.

This department was misinformed the other day in reporting uncertainty over the future of "Small World" on CBS TV next season. Actually, 33 shows now are scheduled with Edward R. Murrow conducting 17 of them.

Pigeon Pal Has A Baby To Feed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Stanley Burgi, 13, stayed awake all night to hatch a pigeon.

He kept the egg, from which sounds of the baby's pecking were coming, warm in his hands.

Stanley said the mother pigeon flew away and didn't come back to her nest. After the hatching, he took over the job of feeding with an eyedropper.

United Presbyterians Join Churches Giving Sanction To Birth Control

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — United Presbyterians have joined a succession of other Protestant churches in giving official sanction to birth control.

"The proper use of medically approved contraceptives may contribute to the spiritual, emotional and economic welfare of the family," says a resolution of the denomination's 171st general assembly.

The subject has long been a source of keen friction between Protestants and Roman Catholics, who strongly oppose any artificial means of birth control.

In recent years several Protestant bodies, including the Methodist, Congregational Christian, United Lutheran, Augustana Lutheran and Unitarian Churches, have endorsed it.

Flaws Found By Sound Waves

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Engineers can pick out invisible flaws in the heart of metal with a cousin of the high-pitched dog whistle that is inaudible to human ears.

Employees of the Tube Turns Division of Chemetron Corp. use high-frequency sound to locate defects in fittings the firm manufactures for coolant systems for atomic-powered ships. Defects cause the sound to be reflected, like a radar or sonar beam.

The 3-million-member Presbyterian church, in the closing session Wednesday of its eight-day assembly, adopted a statement saying Christian marriage involves "both companionship and parenthood." It added:

"The sexual life within this relationship is given by God for the benefit of his children" and is not "an evil which needs to be justified by something else, as for example, by the procreation of children."

The church urged repeal of laws banning distribution of birth control information, such as those in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

In other actions on its final day, the assembly:

Urged abolition of capital punishment.

Hit at laws restricting groups promoting racial integration.

Protested federal grants to activities maintaining segregation.

Condemned laws either banning or requiring union shop agreements, under which workers must join a union. Eighteen states bar such contracts by so-called "right-to-work" statutes.

Urged steps, including legislation, to prevent segregated housing.

Launched a program to curb alcoholism, and recommended "voluntary abstinence" from liquor.

Commended the National Council of Churches for its courage in facing issues by calling the world order study conference in Cleveland last fall, which advocated governmental recognition of Red China.

Described the Red China issue itself as having arguments on both sides, but expressed hope that the day soon will come when normal relations with China may be honorably established.

Tense conflict arose over confirmation of the Rev. Theodore A. Gill as president of San Francisco Theological Seminary. Despite charges that he questioned Christ's virgin birth, he was overwhelmingly approved.

The 975 delegates decided to meet in Cleveland next year.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market jogged hesitantly into the second high ground early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active. Gains of fractions to about a point were the general rule for most key stocks.

Some chemicals, electronics and selected issues made bigger gains. Sizable gains by some stocks represented in the market averages accounted for a boost in these barometers. Selective strength in the steels, rails, chemicals, electrical equipment and aircrafts moved the average higher.

Motors, oils, utilities, tobacco and coppers were mixed while farm implements eased after recent gains. The stock averages were shoved ahead by gains of more than 2 points by Du Pont, more than a point by Southern Railway, around a point by Westinghouse Electric and fractions by American Telephone and General Electric.

Flashes of strength were shown by electronics and other issues not represented in the averages. International Business Machines added another 6 points or so to its recent steady rise.

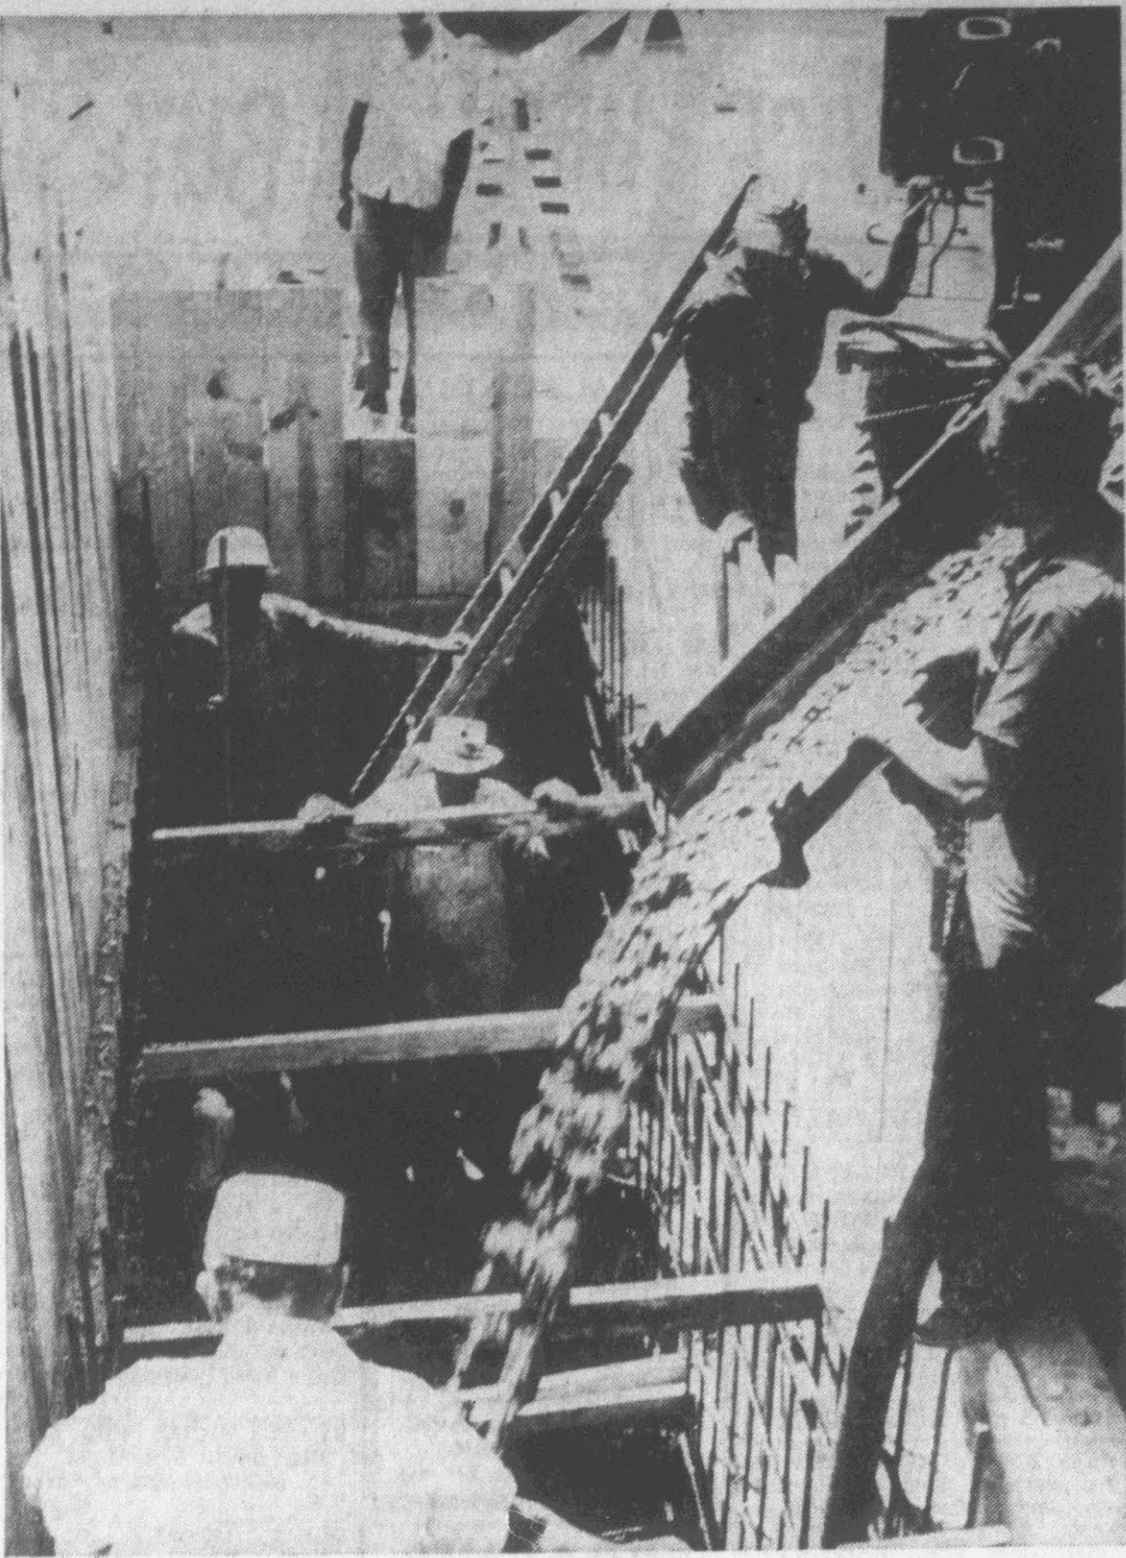

U. S. government bonds were steady to fractionally higher.

Nursing Supervisor At Health Dept. Resigning

Miss Julia Fisher, nursing supervisor at the Pitt County Health Department since November, 1950, will become Executive Secretary of the Virginia State Nurses' Association on July 1, it was announced today.

Miss Fisher's resignation from the Health Department staff, to become effective the day she begins her new assignment, was announced by Dr. George V. Mills, health director. Miss Fisher will move to Richmond, headquarters of the Virginia nurses' organization.

During her tenure as nursing supervisor, Miss Fisher has served as first vice-president and second vice-president of the North Carolina State Nurses' Association. In addition, she is a past president of the eight-county district nurses' group, of which Pitt County is a member, and has held several district committee chairmanships.

Dr. Mills said no replacement has been named to succeed Miss Fisher. She did announce, however, that Miss Hazel Corey has been appointed as Health Department stenographer, replacing Mrs. Betty Tyson who resigned April 15.

Miss Fisher's resignation is the second this month in the Health Department's nursing ranks. Mrs. Lucille Tucker, a senior nurse, is presently on terminal leave prior to accepting a position with the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Durham.

Drainage Work Near Finished

Work is nearing completion on a drainage project in the Blittmore section, City Manager Leonard Bloxam said today.

The drainage is being installed on West Sixth, Ford and Fleming Sts.

Bloxam said only a couple more catch basins and lateral lines need to be installed to complete the project.

It is one of several drainage projects for which funds were approved in a bond issue election.

The next drainage project which will be done by city crews is to be on Clark St. from 13th to 10th. Bloxam said. Following that bond issue drainage work will be done in the Cherry View section.

A catch basin is also being installed by city crews between the new State Bank drive-in branch and business houses at West End Circle. The project will drain a public alley between the properties.

The project involves the installation of one catch basin and 95 feet of pipe leading to drainage lines on S. Dickinson Ave. Money for the work comes from regular Department of Public Works maintenance funds.

Bethel's Rotary Hears Minister

BETHEL — Bethel Rotarians were reminded that May 30 is Memorial Day by the Rev. W. D. Sabiston, III, Methodist pastor of Stokes who spoke to the club Tuesday night.

The Rev. Sabiston told the club members that Memorial Day is symbolic of love to the highest degree. He paid high tribute to those who have given their lives in the service of their country.

The speaker called attention to the need today for a higher type of living in order that the future may be assured of peace.

He informed his audience that, while great progress is being made in the economic world, the need is great for more progress in the moral world. He said humanity's greatest resource is the family and home.

"We must learn to put first things first," he declared, "and there is a great need today for leaders such as our founding fathers were."

The Rev. Sabiston was presented by program chairman, the Rev. Carl Barbee, who also gave the invocation. Dr. Dan Jordan presided and informed the club that the meeting next week will be held at Broad Creek on Wednesday. Rotary Ann's will attend this special meeting.

London's subway system now covers a network of some 250 miles.
