Humber Points To Today's Challenge

"The fight for freedom — to maintain it on this globe — that is the challenge of today," Sen. Robert Lee Humber told a Memorial Day audience at Greenwood Cemetery yesterday afternoon.

He was speaking at Memorial Day services held at the site of veteran's graves in the cemetery area. The services were sponsored by the American Legion Post.

A Legionaire himself, Humber said of the men who have given their lives in service of the nation, "They had one thing common to them all. They gave the most precious thing which they possessed — life itself. They had a vision of something that was bigger than themselves, freedom."

"The great master, the great teacher once told us, No man could have a greater love for any man than to give his life for his fellow-man."

The senator told his audience there are still wars to be fought. "There is a war today against ignorance that is a war worth fighting," he said there is "a war against disease, an empire we have not yet conquered." Finally he pointed to a "war against poverty."

"There are two and a half billion human beings on this globe, for the most part disinherited. Scarcely 300,000,000 have standards approaching our own."

"These are the things which challenge us," he declared. "We cannot kill Communism with atomic bombs, but we can kill it with atomic energy."

"With it all may I again link the names of our comrades who today are sleeping," Ford McGowan, commander of the local American Legion Post introduced Sen. Humber and welcomed guests to the services.

Hymns were sung by the Choral group from the Eighth St. Christian Church.

The Rev. J. Hyland of St. Peter's Catholic Church offered the closing prayer.

National Guard Battery A, firing squad saluted the colors at the close of the ceremonies and Boy Scouts of Troop 3, lowered the flag from the pole set among the veteran's graves at the cemetery.

Taps and echo were sounded by two buglers to end the services.

George Evans, co-chairman of the ceremonies along with Dr. H. Glenn Haney, expressed the Legion's appreciation to "the general public for its support and attendance."

Legislature Beginning Big Week

Adjournment Late Next Week Hoped; Spending, Reform Bills On Tap

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's Legislature, hoping to adjourn late next week, will make important decisions this week on the state spending bill for the next biennium and court reform proposals.

House and Senate sessions tonight will mark the beginning of the crucial week.

The huge budget bill, calling for total state spending of $1,200,000,000 during the next two fiscal years, is expected to be sent to the floor off he House and Senate Tuesday.

Rep. Clyde Harris of Rowan, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said, "Chances are the bill will go to both houses at the same time."

Harris added he hoped the Legislature can approve the bill before the end of this week.

"There will be a lot of questions asked and some amendments sent up, but I don't anticipate any trouble in getting the bill approved," Harris declared.

The joint Appropriations Committee, which contains half the members of the Legislature, gave approval last week to the spending bill and a 50 million dollar capital improvements program. The latter would be largely financed by 43 million in bond issues.

Under the budget measure, general fund spending would total $81 million.

Rep. H. Clifton Blue of Moore, chairman of the House Finance Committee, said he hoped the joint Finance Committee can complete action on the revenue bill by Thursday. The measure includes a state income tax withholding plan.

Spending, revenue and court reform are the big issues to be cleared away between now and adjournment.

Court proposals are embodied in a new draft of the state constitution, which will require a three-fifths majority to get legislative approval. If the lawmakers approve the revised constitution, it must be submitted to a vote of the people.

Sen. J. Spencer Bell of Mecklenburg, who headed a North Carolina Bar Assn. committee which recommended court reform proposals, will attempt to steer the legislation through the Senate.

He faces a staunch foe in Sen. Lindsay Warren of Beaufort, who is strongly opposed to provisions for placing administrative supervision of state courts in the hands of the chief justice of the State Supreme Court.

Memorial Weekend Sees Over 300 Traffic Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic 310
Drownings 95
Miscellaneous 49
Total 454

More than 300 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents across the nation during the two-day Memorial weekend. The traffic toll of dead was a record for the holiday and far exceeded the estimate of 260.

The National Safety Council attributed the record number of traffic deaths largely to extremely heavy travel and to a rash of multiple accidents that swelled the toll rapidly.

"It offers a grim challenge to every one concerned with highway safety to step up the unending efforts to hold down accidents despite mounting travel," a NSC spokesman said. "We can only hope the shock of this awful death toll will be reflected in fewer accidents during the rest of the year."

Other violent deaths — drownings and in miscellaneous types of accidents — also took a heavy toll.

The over-all accident death toll for the 54-hour period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday also topped the toll of 385 for a two-day Memorial holiday period. That mark was set in 1953, when the traffic death toll was 241, the previous high.

Belated reports were expected to boost the totals.

The highway death total also was far ahead of the 262 counted by The Associated Press in a test period survey for a non-holiday weekend of 54 hours. The survey, covering the period from 6 p.m. Friday May 15, to midnight Sunday, May 17, also showed 32 drownings and 74 persons killed in miscellaneous types of accidents, for an over-all total of 368.

There were several multiple-death auto crashes. In one of the worst, a mother and four of her five children were killed Sunday when the family car was hit by a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train at a rural crossing near Crown Point, Ind. The fifth child was injured but the father, who was driving, escaped with serious injuries.

The National Safety Council had predicted a traffic death toll of 260. It termed the record toll for the two-day holiday "tragic."

The highways were jammed with cars — the council had estimated 40 million for the two-day period — in the first holiday week-end of the season.

Memorial Day in 1958 was on a Friday and in the three-day week-end holiday period auto accident deaths totaled 371. In other violent deaths, 132 persons drowned and 88 died in miscellaneous type accidents for an over-all toll of 591.

In a four-day Memorial Day weekend in 1957, the death toll in traffic was 413 and 660 in all types of accidents, both record marks.

Commissioners Make 2 Changes In Policies Governing Surplus-Buying

Pitt County Commissioners this morning made two changes in policies governing purchases from stocks of surplus federal property for use by either agencies or Civil Defense organizations working through the county.

The changes include discontinuance of the practice of paying for Civil Defense items through the county's Board of Education Revolving Fund, plus an order for department heads to sign all invoices for surplus property purchases charged to their departments.

Action by the board came as part of its inquiry into procedures used. Those procedures included paying for surplus property purchases with funds collected from individuals and deposited with the Board of Education Revolving Fund, and purchase of items for use by rural fire departments with the purchase certificate issued to the Pitt County Health Department.

The board's inquiry was prompted by a story in Friday's edition of The Daily Reflector in which findings of inquiries made by the newspaper were published.

Commissioner Robert G. Little, the county's surplus property purchasing officer, told the board this morning that no individual has profited from the surplus property purchases or used expendable items. He added that he and county Civil Defense Director J. H. Rose had tentatively planned to meet next Monday to inventory purchases made thus far.

Little, in his statement to the board, did not mention folding beds and sleeping bags purchased March 24. In the story published in Friday's edition of The Daily Reflector, Little was quoted as saying that the beds were to be used by migrant laborers, but that they would not be used for that purpose until he finds out if such use would be proper.

He did say, however, that items purchased for use by rural fire departments in Grimesland, Simpson and Eastern Pines communities were available for use by Civil Defense personnel and that they have not been used for private purposes.

"We plan to continue the program (of developing the rural fire departments) and to inventory equipment to each department," Little said. "We do not have storage facilities at the present time, and have let the chairman in each community be responsible for equipment in his area."

"We have gone according to law,"

Little also said that some equipment purchases have been made because "we have to secure the property when it is available". He cited specifically purchases of oil which he said the surplus property warehouse in Raleigh allotted on a basis of two barrels per truck.

In a report to the board on accounting procedures used in the surplus property transactions, County Auditor H. Reginald Gray said copies of every official receipt had been given to Civil Defense authorities in the county, and that the county had copies of all invoices.

Gray also said that payment for purchases paid through the Revolving Fund were not paid until money had been collected from the receiving organizations and deposited into the fund. He reported that the total amount of payments made through the Revolving Fund as of April 30 was $1,410.90, with collections standing at $1,412.40.

The auditor said the extra $1.50 resulted from an overpayment to the fund for registration of a vehicle. He explained that late registration cost $2, as opposed to a regular fee of 50 cents, and that the overpayment was made when a late registration appeared inevitable.

Gray's report also included itemized accounts dated April 4, 1959; November 6, 1958; March 4, 1959; April 11, 1958; April 11, 1959; April 11, 1956; April 8, 1958; April 7, 1959 and April 7, 1959.

The method of payment to replace the former method of going through the Revolving Fund is to be worked out by the board and Civil Defense officials, Commission Chairman R. L. Martin said.

Nikita Repeats Warnings West Facing Destruction

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has again coupled a threat of total destruction for the West in the event of war with a prediction of capitalism's inevitable defeat.

In a speech in the Albanian town of Vlore, Khrushchev warned Sunday night that any attack on the Soviet bloc would be "tantamount to suicide." He said the West's "reckless" policies were hastening "the time when mankind will be able to bury capitalism deeply."

"No matter how much aging capitalism is trying to prolong its existence, it is doomed because it will be replaced by the new victorious system — communism," Khrushchev declared.

He promised again that Soviet industrial might would eventually outstrip America's industry. Earlier announcement was made of a joint Soviet-Albanian communique on world policy, signed in Tirana by Khrushchev and Albania's Red leader Enver Hoxha.

The communique repeated standard communist calls for an end to colonialism, Red China's seating in the United Nations, reduction of foreign troops in Germany, and signing of a nonaggression pact between the North Atlantic Alliance and the Communist Warsaw Pact countries.

It also urged establishment of a central European zone free of nuclear and rocket weapons and said there were improved prospects for an end to world tensions. The latter was borne out, it said, "by the foreign ministers' conference now taking place in Geneva and by the agreement to hold summit talks to examine outstanding questions."

It added that both Albania and the Soviet Union found the most important questions now awaiting settlement "were the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany and the abolition of the occupation regime in West Berlin."

The communique contained one unusual feature, an expression of willingness to continue developing relations with Yugoslavia "on the basis of mutual respect, equality and noninterference in each other's internal affairs."

The Soviet bloc and Yugoslavia have been on the outs for months because of Yugoslav President Tito's insistence on a policy and brand of communism independent of the Kremlin's dictation.

The communique also repeated Khrushchev's frequent warnings against the establishment of U.S. rocket bases in Italy and Greece.

Retail Price On Foods Up, But Farmers Suffer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail food costs have risen 20 per cent in the last 10 years, the House Agriculture Committee reported today, but the prices received by farmers have fallen 8 per cent.

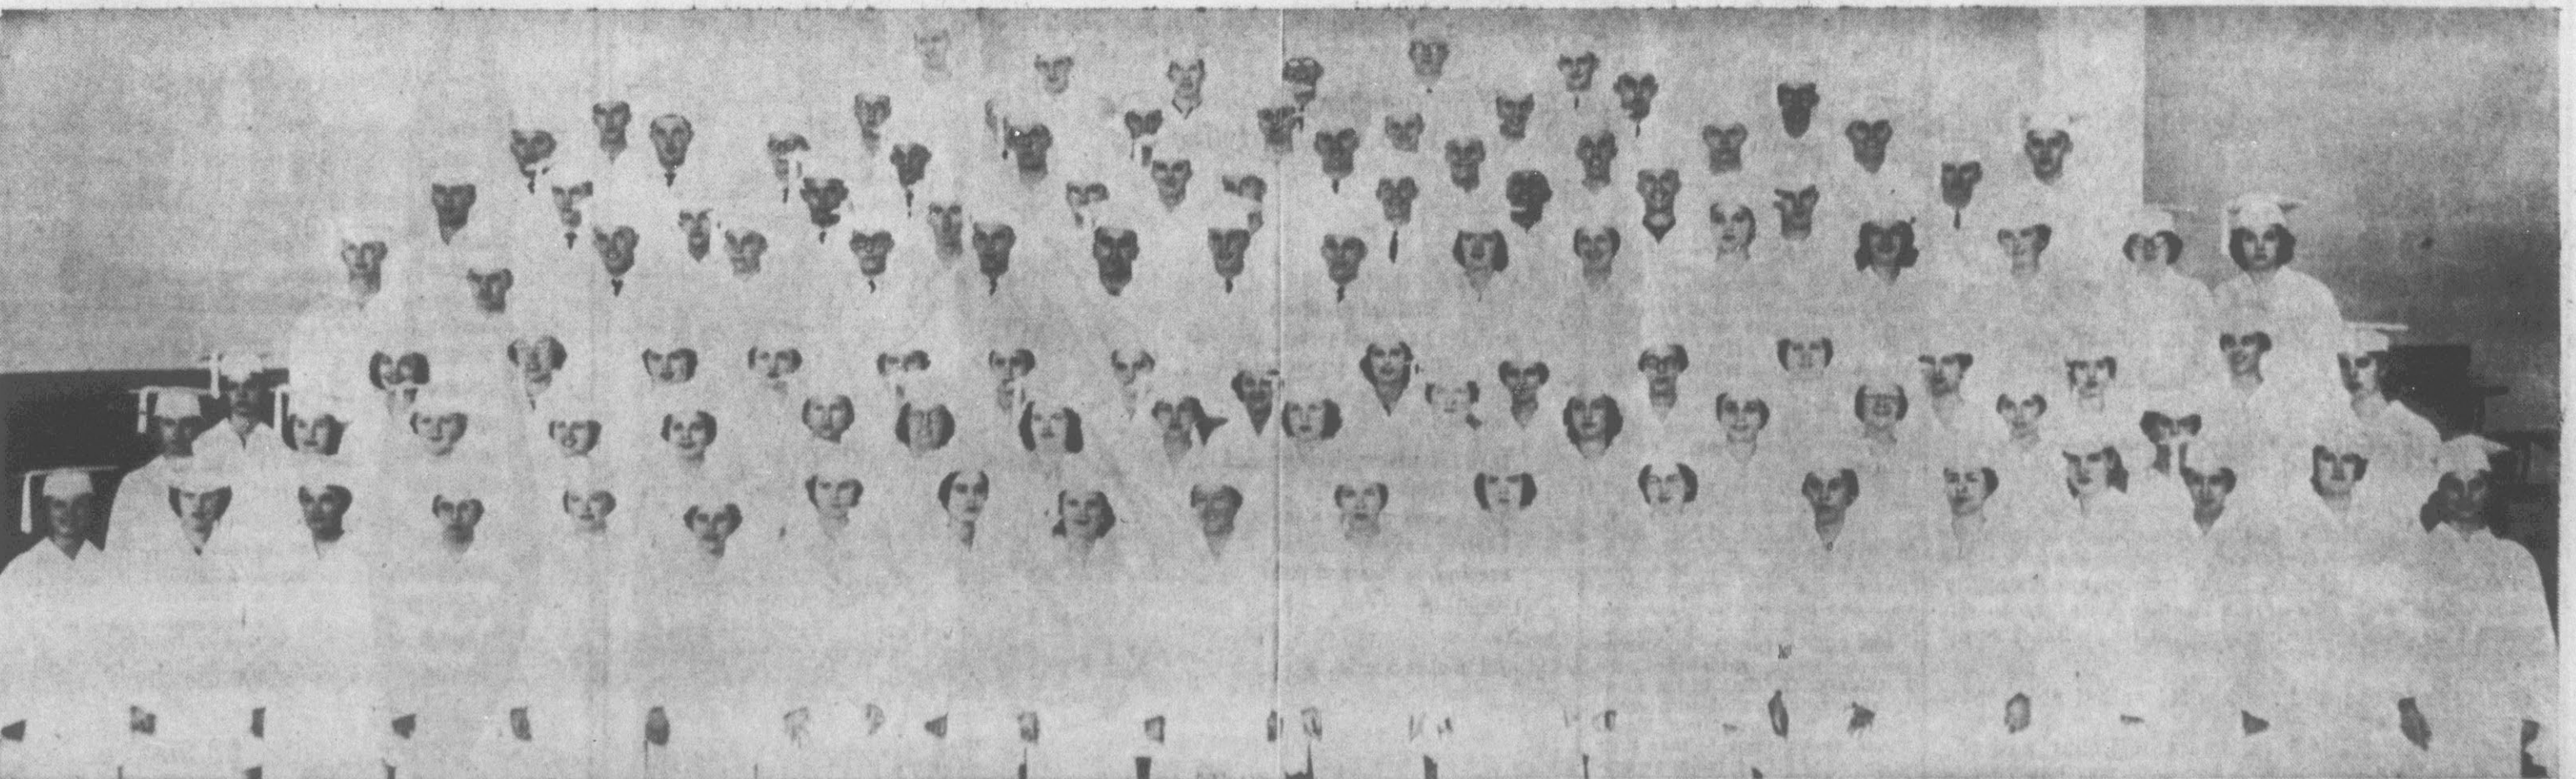

The committee made public a report on food cost trends underscoring this widening spread between the prices farmers receive and what the housewife pays.

The committee said that food as an item of living continues to be cheaper in relation to earnings than at any time in history.

The committee compilation put last year's retail store cost of farm-produced food at $53,700,000 — up nearly 16 billions, or 42 per cent, from the total dollar cost in 1947-49.

About 13 1/2 billions of the increase, or 84 per cent, was absorbed by processors, marketing agencies, haulers and other middlemen.

Kue-Morrill Vows Sunday

Mrs. Joe H. L. Kue

The marriage of Miss Olive Venetia Morrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lawrence Morrill of Falkland, North Carolina, to Joe H. L. Kue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kue of Norfolk, Virginia, was solemnized Sunday afternoon in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Greenville, North Carolina.

The vows were spoken before the Rev. John Drake. The traditional wedding music was furnished by Herbert Joyner, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal wedding gown of hand-clipped chantilly lace, fashioned with basque bodice, portrait neckline accented by iridescent sequins, abbreviated sleeves and matching gauntlets. The bouffant skirt featured bands of lace inserted vertically over a tulle skirt of cascading ruffles. Her three tiered fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a scalloped half hat outlined with simulated pearls and iridescent sequins. The bride carried the handkerchief that her mother carried in her wedding. The bride's bouquet was fashioned of gypsophila, interspersed with satin love knots, centered with a white purple-throated orchid.

The bride's sister, Miss Edith Morrill, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of maize silk organza with cowl neckline and a bouffant skirt sashed with maize taffeta. Her matching hat was of silk flower and circular veil. She carried an old fashioned nosegay of yellow oriental full mums, circled with imported French nylon tulle.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sylvia Bonner, Greenville; Miss Sylvia Satterthwaite, Atlantic Beach; Miss Mary Kue, sister of the groom, Norfolk, Virginia; Miss Joy Morrill, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Their dresses were of romance blue organza, similar to the maid of honor. They carried nosegays of oriental full and imported French nylon tulle.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Sally Beard, Miss Sarah Ewell, Miss Margaret Moye, Miss Susie Pope, Miss Terry Tripp, all of Greenville, and Miss Evelyn Willford of Angier.

Roy Garrett of Bluefield, West Virginia, was best man. Ushers were Don Grizzard of Norfolk, Virginia; Milton Brown Jr., cousin of the bride, Washington, North Carolina; and Fred Wright of Norfolk, Virginia, Yang Kue, brother of the groom, was junior usher. The mother of the bride wore a lace and chiffon gown of willow green with beige and green hat of silk petals and tulle veil. Her shoulder corsage was symposium beige orchids.

The bridegroom's mother chose a gown of orchid lace with matching accessories. Her shoulder corsage was cymbidium beige orchids.

The grandmother of the bride wore navy with white accessories. Her flowers were cymbidiums.

The bride attended Greenville High School and is a student at Medical College of Virginia, Richmond, Virginia, where she is a member of Kappa Epsilon Pharmaceutical Fraternity for Women.

The groom attended Maury High School, Norfolk, Virginia. William and Mary, Georgia Institute of Technology, and Medical College of Virginia, where he will receive his degree in Pharmacy June 7, 1959. He is a member of Phi Delta Chi Pharmaceutical Fraternity and Rho Chi Honorary Society.

The couple will make their home in Norfolk, Virginia, where both are employed by People's Drug Stores.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late George Howard Mixon and Mrs. Charles S. Paul of Core Point, N. C., and the late Dr. and Mrs. Jenness Morrill of Falkland, N. C.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the Church Parish House. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Brown Sr. introduced the guests to the receiving line which was composed of the bridal party and the parents of the couple.

The honorary bridesmaids directed the guests to a table covered with a white net cloth over green satin. White satin bows were attached at each corner. The center piece was an arrangement of white bridal flowers in a silver wire cooler, flanked by three-branched candelabra. At one end of the table punch was served by the aunt and uncle of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Jowdy of Washington, N. C. The guests served themselves bridal cakes, nuts and mints.

The bride's table was covered with a white imported cut-work cloth. Magnolia leaves and flowers were used as a background for the tiered wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. Jenness Morrill served the wedding cake after the bride and groom cut the first slice. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Brown Mayo.

Piver - Hendrix Betrothed

The marriage of Miss Josephine Gorham Hendrix and James Arthur Piver Jr. was solemnized in the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Sunday afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle A. Hendrix of Greenville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Piver, also of Greenville.

The Reverend William M. Howard Jr. officiated at the double ring ceremony. Traditional wedding music was presented by Mrs. Paul A. Toll, organist, and Mrs. J. Herbert Waldrop Jr., soloist, of Clinton. Waldrop sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee" from "Ruth," "Beloved, It Is Morn," and "O Perfect Love."

The church was decorated with arrangements of Easter lilies on the altar. Archa palms and seven branched candelabra covered in rich green huckleberry with tall cathedral candles were in the back of the church. On either side of the steps leading to the altar were single candleholders with tall cathedral candles and spray of Easter lilies tied with white satin bows. Pews were marked with white satin bows and huckleberry fastened to tall wrought iron standards.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of white nylon tulle and imported hand-clipped Chantilly lace over tulle designed with high neckline featuring lace paillettes, studded with imported iridescent sequins and pearls. The dress was fashioned with princess lace bodice fastened in the back with tiny covered buttons and featured long tapered sleeves. The full bouffant skirt accented by scalloped lace panels joined with tulle and extended into a wide train of lace. Her three tiered fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a Swedish crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried an arm bouquet of valley lilies centered with a white orchid lightly showered with valley lilies and tied with bridal satin.

Miss Mary Lynn Gorham of Battleboro, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of petal pink silk organza with lace scalloped neckline and short sleeves. The dress featured an empire bodice of lace and a bouffant skirt of silk with a back panel caught at the hem line with bubble bottom. She wore a matching picture hat of silk braid banded with tulle. Mrs. J. Curtis Hendrix, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and dressed identical to the maid of honor. They carried arm bouquets of summer flowers consisting of shaded pinks and better-times asters, painted daisies and blue delphinium tied with better-times satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Lee Lawrence of Leggett, Miss Louise Winstead of Elm City, cousins of the bride, Miss Elizabeth Ann Karsnak of Greenville, and Miss Martha Ann Bowers of Norlina. Their gowns were identical in style and color to the honor attendant's. They wore matching picture hats and carried arm bouquets of rainbow shades of asters and painted daisies tied with perverche blue satin ribbon.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Laura Winstead of Elm City, Miss Cynthia Davis of Jamestown, Mrs. Joseph Lee Dupree of Leggett, cousins of the bride, and Misses Betty Sugg, Gayle Clapp, and Sara Ewell of Greenville. They wore pastel cocktail dresses and wristlets of better-times asters.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were J. Curtis Hendrix, brother of the bride, Karl Turner, cousin of the bridegroom, Stuart Savage, Don Cherry, all of Greenville, and Dennis Price and Jack Mercer of Newton Grove.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Hendrix chose a lace gown of coquette blue with sweetheart neckline and fitted bodice, embroidered with blue pearls. It featured a sweep skirt with bustle back. She wore matching hat and accessories and a corsage of delicate pink cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Piver wore a street length dress of mauve chiffon and lace over taffeta with shirred bodice. Her matching hat and accessories were complimented with a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. C. H. Gorham of Battleboro, wore a beige dress and matching accessories, and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. D. L. Hendrix of Salisbury, was attired in navy. Both wore purple orchid corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church parlour. The refreshment table was covered with a white satin cloth overlaid with net. A large silver epergne filled with shades of pink larkspur, roses, baby's breath, and carnations, with a soft glow of pink tapers, centered the table. Flanking the epergne were two crystal chandeliers with a garland of smilax and orange blossoms as at one end of the table and pettifours in spring shades at the other end. Summer flowers were used throughout the parlour and an old-fashioned nosegay was at the registry table.

Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Howard Jr. greeted the guests who were introduced to the receiving line by Mrs. Helen T. Sermons. Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Oppelt directed the guests to the refreshment table where Mrs. J. T. Hale and Mrs. H. Lyman Ormond poured punch. Presiding at the bride's book were Mrs. F. A. Bendall and Miss Jane Hadley. Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Karsnak and Mrs. M. H. Fambrough. Throughout the reception soft organ music was rendered by Mrs. T. B. Winstead of Elm City, aunt of the bride.

For their wedding trip to the North Carolina mountains, the bride wore a Paris original costume suit of empress blue silk linen, with white cut lace bodice and matching hat and accessories and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Greenville High School and East Carolina College where she received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Home Economics.

The bridegroom also graduated from Greenville High School and East Carolina College with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Music. He is a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national honorary music fraternity, and has been band director for the Hobbs District Schools, Newton Grove, for the past year. Following their wedding trip the couple will make their home in Greenville and Newton Grove.

Out-of-Town Guests
Out-of-town guests were present from the following towns: Rocky Mount, Elm City, Battleboro, Wrightsville Beach, Leggett, Jamestown, Greensboro, Raleigh, Scotland Neck, Norlina, Newton Grove, Lucama, New Bern, Williamston, Falkland, Salisbury, Rockingham, Southern Pines, Plymouth, Clinton, Kinston, Vanceboro, Washington, Kelford, Enfield, Faison, Goldsboro, Ayden, Tarboro, Beaufort, Bethel, Stokes, Winterville, Richmond, Va., and Canal Winchester, Ohio.

Wedding Breakfast
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Piver, parents of the bridegroom-elect, entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a wedding breakfast Sunday morning at the Silo Restaurant.

An arrangement of pink roses and white carnations formed the centerpiece for the table. Covers were laid for 30 guests at the three-course meal.

Cake Cutting

Following the wedding rehearsal Saturday evening, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Oppelt, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Karsnak, and Miss Elizabeth Ann Karsnak entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a cake cutting in the parlour of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cutwork cloth and featured a center arrangement of white mixed flowers, flanked on either side by silver candelabra holding white burning tapers.

After the couple had cut the traditional first slice of the tiered wedding cake, Mrs. H. A. Hendrix, mother of the bride-elect, served the cake to the guests. Mrs. J. A. Piver, mother of the bridegroom-elect, presided at the crystal punch bowl.

Dinner Party

Prior to the wedding rehearsal Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Gorham, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Gorham of Battleboro, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Gorham of Greensboro, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Davis of Jamestown, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Winstead of Elm City, and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lawrence Jr. of Leggett entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a dinner party at the Silo Restaurant.

The hosts and hostesses presented the bride-elect with a corsage which complimented her melon chiffon and white lace dress. An arrangement of summer flowers formed the centerpiece for the table.

During the evening Miss Hendrix and Mr. Piver presented gifts to their attendants.

Miss Grace Owens Marries

FOUNTAIN—Miss Wilma Grace Owens, daughter of Mrs. Benjamin Harrison Owens of Fountain, was married yesterday to Donald Joseph Zipf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Zipf of Wilmette, Ill.

The Rev. Philip M. Cory officiated at the ceremony which took place at the Fountain Presbyterian Church. Wedding music was presented by Wiley Yelverton, organist.

Given in marriage by her uncle, John Daniel Mangum of Roxboro, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta. Scallop of lace embroidered with sequins outlined the wide portrait neckline. The bouffant skirt featured alternating flounces of lace and tulle. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a headpiece of lace trimmed with pearls and sequins and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. Garfield L. Linker of Durham attended her niece as matron of honor. She wore a gown of pale blue lace over taffeta with a matching headpiece and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow spring flowers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Ann Bell of Hampton, Va., and Miss Lois Dobson of Havre de Grace, Md. Their dresses were like that of the honor attendant and they carried similar bouquets.

Miss Sandra Page Mangum, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed in pale blue net over taffeta and carried a miniature bouquet.

Honorary bridesmaids were Libby Mangum of Smithfield, Peggy Mangum of Walstonburg, Mrs. James Briley of Greenville and Martha Hardy Johnson, Sarah

Smith and Sandra Smith, of Fountain.

Ushers were Housan G. Harrill of Hampton, Va., Maynard Owens of Beaufort, Arthur G. Mangum of Walstonburg, and D. L. Stott of Greenville.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs.

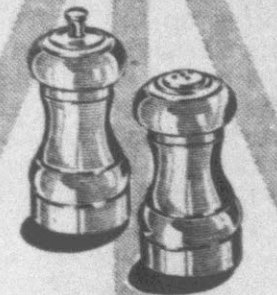

Owens chose a French lace dress of Dior blue with matching accessories. Mrs. Zipf wore a pale orchid dress with white accessories. Both wore white orchid corsages.

The bride is an honor graduate of Meredith College, and until her marriage was employed as a mathematician by the National Aeronautical and Space Administration. The bridegroom attended St. Louis University and is employed by ACF Industries.

State, Local Govm'ts Growing

Compared with the sprawling federal government with millions of employees on its payrolls, most taxpayers consider state and local governments as a mere drop in the bucket of this big business of government which seems to get bigger each year.

Truth of the matter is that government does get bigger every year; but all the blame for government getting bigger cannot be placed at the door of Uncle Sam.

The rate of growth of local and state governments in recent years has outpaced that of the federal government, at least in terms of employees.

As recently as 1952 there were some 4.2 million workers on the payrolls of state and local governments throughout the United States. By 1957, statistics show, employment of state and local governments averaged 5.4 millions and by early 1959 had reached 5.7 million. The same report says total number of state and local government employees now is approaching the six million mark.

While this rise in local and state government has been moving upward at a rapid rate, Uncle Sam apparently has not been adding employees at nearly so fast a pace. The number of federal employees has remained fairly stable in the past five years.

These figures would indicate that local and state governments are being forced, either by growth or by the demand for greater services, to expand their operations which require more jobs and more people. And as every taxpayer knows, it also takes more money to operate state and local governments in such a period of expansion.

As communities, counties and states grow in population and as they must provide greater services for a greater number of people, it is only reasonable that a greater number of employees are required at such levels of government. Even in view of this, however, an increase of 40 to 50 per cent in local and state government employees across the nation in the past seven years poses an important situation for citizens to consider.

Will the number of local and state government employees continue to move upward at the same rapid rate for another seven or ten years?

If so, where will local and state governments look to find sufficient revenues to support such rapidly expanding operations?

These, of course, are problems which must be solved individually by state and local governments according to their needs for services and needs for revenues. At the same time, it may well be a problem—particularly on the revenue side—which state and local governments may decide collectively with the federal government in order to continue to support expanding operations.

Because of its size in a single unit, federal operations and federal needs have far over shadowed the growth and needs of individual state and local governments. But the day is at hand when more consideration must be given state and local governments.

Plenty On His Mind, Now Add The Bridge

Someone stole a bridge in Indiana's Pike County the other night.

According to the sheriff of the county, the 30-foot bridge was converted into three tons of high grade steel with a cutting torch, and then hauled away. The theft was discovered by a coal miner, just in time to keep from driving into the unbridged stream.

At first glance, the whole thing seems ridiculously funny. We can see, in our mind's eye, a midnight session with a cutting torch to dismantle a bridge located on a public road, and then the early morning scene of a man driving to work and slamming on brakes to avoid plunging into the emptiness.

On second thought, however, it isn't funny at all, especially the part about the coal miner discovering the theft.

In our mind's eye, on second thought, we can see the poor guy rolling down the road to work. No doubt, he has his worries about inflation, labor troubles in other coal fields, lessening demands for coal in this modern world, family problems and how long his car is going to keep running.

Then, on top of all those things, he suddenly discovers that the bridge which he crosses to get to work has disappeared under the cover of darkness, and he has no way to get across the stream without detouring.

A man has enough to worry about without somebody taking his bridge away from him.

Why U.S. Gold Is Going Abroad

By RALPH ROBEY

Last year the United States shipped about $2.3 billion of gold to foreign nations. At the start of 1959 the export was at a much power rate, but recently the outflow has increased substantially. For the year to date the total export has been just below $350 million. Among the questions being raised are what is causing the export and is there any real danger to our monetary position as a result of this loss?

As to reasons for the loss of gold, the first thing that should be noted is our changing international balance of payments. This is the total of all goods and services entering into international trade, including personal remittances, traveling, and everything else. Five and ten years ago this balance was strongly in our favor, and there was considerable discussion about the so-called dollar gap—meaning that foreign nations were buying, or at least receiving more, in terms of dollars, than they were able to sell this nation.

This is no longer true. Our exports have declined sharply. Foreign nations have recovered from the war devastation. Today they are producing more and are successfully reaching for sales in this and other nations. Not only is there no longer a dollar gap, but in the case of many nations there is a surplus of payments due them from the United States. It is natural to take this in the form of gold, which improves the backing of their currency and gives them a better standing in the international field.

A second factor of importance is that we have succeeded in getting international money and capital markets largely re-established. There is not yet completely free convertibility of local currencies into foreign exchange, but enough progress has been made in this direction to make large foreign credit operations a reality, both long and short term loans. Such operations are not routine, and never can be because of national differences, but there is no longer any worry over whether or not funds can be received from many of the important foreign nations.

Third, in recent months, there has been a sharp increase in foreign investments. Both institutional investors and individuals have turned more and more to the securities of other nations. An important consideration in this case has been that good foreign stocks appear relatively cheap as compared with American securities. The total volume of such investment is a small item in our balance of payments, but it is one that can influence gold exports.

On the question of whether or not the loss of gold poses a danger to our monetary system, several points need emphasis.

First, we still hold stock worth $20 billion of gold, and that is one-half of the known monetary gold stock in the entire world outside of Russia. (No one knows how much Russia either holds or produces.) This is far in excess of the amount necessary to meet present reserve requirements against our currency and bank deposits.

Second, it has long been contended that a better distribution of the existing gold stock was desirable for the purpose of enhancing world economic stability and improving international trade. The trouble has been that no one could devise a system for bringing about such better distribution. Now that it is taking place it would be unthinkable anything should be done to stop it. Incidentally, it could be stopped at any time by the United States Treasury under existing law, but there is no chance that it will

Strength For Today

RETIREMENT IS NOT DEATH

Have you retired voluntarily or been retired by your company? If so, life now presents a whole new set of circumstances.

One of the most amazing things about retirement is that almost everybody finds himself almost as busy in retirement as he was in the height of his career. Of course, his type of activity has now changed. There are some things which old men are so incapable of doing that young men have to take over.

But it is also true—and never let us forget this—that there are some ways in which people in the later years of their lives can be more useful than they were at middle age. Certainly most people know more with the passing of time. Millions upon millions of good experiences have crowded into their minds. And with these experiences there should have come new insights—and usually these insights are really valuable. The ancients believed that the elderly men in their social order were the wisest. And they had something there, did they not? If the elders were not wise, they had lived in vain. For they had had more time to get wisdom than had the young and middle aged men.

One of the great discoveries in the coming decades will be the utilization of the capacities of retired men and women. Don't think for a moment that you can throw people on the scrap heap because they have passed sixty-five. Some of the world's best ability may be right there in those who manage human affairs. Have the sense to investigate.

He Always Wants A Head Start

By RELMAN MORIN

Too Much Peace, Quiet

NEW YORK (AP) — A current trend in the book-writing trade, as you may have noticed, concerns the decade often described as the era of wonderful nonsense, the 1920s.

Books about P. Scott Fitzgerald and Albee Semple McPherson, the great stock market crash, millions praying for Charles Lindbergh on the night he flew to Paris.

Prohibition, the gangster empires, the St. Valentine's Day massacre in Chicago, the Charleston, the Black Bottom, flappers with knee-length skirts and a fringe of beads around the equator, raccoon coats and hip flasks. Joke: "I always show up late at a party so that the girl'll have time to age."

The circus-horse beauties of the Seigfield Follies, Hollywood on its ear over an invention known as "the talkies," "The Green Hat," "Desire Under the Elms," "Peaches" Brown, and Great reporters writing about murder trials, and the Tennessee "monkey trial" involving schoolmaster Scopes.

The Golden Age of sports, million-dollar gates, the "long count" at Chicago, Brick Muller's 60 yard forward pass (or was it 75 yards?) in the Rose Bowl, the unparalleled athletes, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, Bill Tilden and Walter Hagen, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Walter Johnson. The "four horsemen" in the Notre Dame backfield and "murderer's row" in the Yankee batting lineup. Oh sure, the Yankees used to be right up there in the first division in those days.

Well, when you put it all together in one chunk, it does sound like a pretty heady time. But the 1920s, it seems to me, were unique for a wholly different reason.

There were years of security. The sense of security, of course, was more shadow than substance, as events were soon to show. At the time, however, Americans found no reason for fear or anxiety. The future seemed to stretch ahead, serene terrifying efforts toward destruction by a lawless element. Moreover, there is a stigma attached to the community in general by reason of the fact that this enormous sum of money is earmarked to restrain some groups among a peace-loving and law-abiding people. The vast majority of citizens are not responsible for nor have they knowingly contributed to nor condoned violence. They deplore and detest it. But it is in their town that huge sums are being sent to maintain the peace.

This $800,000 to $1,000,000 could account for new schools and countless other improvements in Henderson and Vance county if it were available for such uses. It would not be, of course, even if not applied in preserving the peace, since it is not ours to spend. But it is a staggering, sobering thought that this amount of cash has to be used, or made available for use if required, to provide security for life and limb, and property in our midst.

Contemplation of this necessity reminds of the billions of dollars the nation as a whole is compelled to spend to protect itself against aggression from foreign enemies. Who would ever have thought the Henderson and Vance county area would have to be included in a classification of this character? To say that it is a tragedy is stated the case mildly.

More wash 'n' wear. A sharp rise in wash-and-wear clothing in women's apparel is slowing down; many women are turning to clothes that reflect the freshness of hot irons.

Gas tax resistance. Despite White House urgings of higher gas taxes, the Democratic majority is likely to balk. Many leaders prefer transferring money from the general fund to keep the highway program going and many Republicans will go along.

Cooler-than-ever salmon. Abolition of fish traps in Alaskan waters, ordered by Alaskan and Federal authorities, is likely to cut the salmon catch heavily this year. Some authorities say it may be reduced by half. That will make salmon scarcer—and costlier—than ever.

NEW PROBLEM: DELIVERIES. Slower deliveries. Industrial users are complaining about slower deliveries and their problems will multiply. Rising number of orders is the reason. And if a steel strike happens, deliveries of other commodities, as well as steel, will be slower than ever.

Three-buttoners a hit. Men wearing two-button sports coats this fall will be out of the running. Retailers advance orders are about 90 per cent in favor of three-buttoners.

Pan-American Highway pressure. Despite United States encouragement and help, the Pan-American Highway beyond Mexico City is a mess. Construction difficulties and graft have wasted most of the local appropriations, which is a tragedy for many areas because the highway might be bringing tourist dollars to them. However, because the highway is important to hemispherical defense, the U.S. Gov't for men is expected through summer and fall. Men like the convenience. However, demand

By ELMER ROESSNER

If Congress enacts a generous housing bill — which was predicted here a week ago — and then passes it over a threatening veto, it will have multiple impacts on the economy.

For one thing, it will make much more money available for public and government-assisted housing.

For a second, it tends to stiffen prices for building materials. Most of these have been rising, but, in recent weeks, many have shown signs of leveling off.

Third, the bill may slow down private home purchases which, so far this year, have shown considerable stability. The higher prices inherent in government underwriting will cause many marginal prospects to back off.

Hedge In Land Stocks

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — The best hedge against inflation should be good "land stocks", that is stocks of companies with large land holdings. The Federal Government can print all the money it wishes. Any corporation can print more stock certificates when it so desires. But (and I say this reverently) God can make more land. (This may be increased a total of perhaps 1-1000 per cent by realtors who do so by pumping up sand from the adjoining water but this is not real land.)

But, why do I advise buying stock of a land company instead of buying acreage in fee? The answer is very simple. If you yourself buy the acreage, you must pay the taxes and watch the property personally. If, however, you buy the stock of a good company, the taxes are paid by the company and you have no details to watch. Furthermore, such listed land stock is easy to sell; while considerable red tape and looking up of titles are necessary if the property is in your own name. Hence, I prefer certain land stocks to acreage.

RELATION TO POPULATION. Readers hear much about the business boom which is supposed to come in the 1960's due to the increased marriageable population. Although the birth rate is falling slightly, (it is now 24.5 per thousand), and the marriage rate dropped last year to 8.3 per thousand, and deaths in 1958 were only 1,674,000, yet those who are approaching marriageable age are constantly increasing due to the baby boom of 20 years ago. The investor is most interested in those who are reaching marriageable age.

The experts expect 5 million babies in 1960 and 6 million in 1965. The great majority of stocks are not directly affected by marriages; but the demand for houses and furnishings definitely increases as the marriage rate rises.

As more people retire on pensions, more attention is being given to the most healthful states — the Southeast including Florida, the Southwest including New Mexico, Colorado, and Arizona, together with parts of the Pacific Coast. Such states offer the climate for which older people are hungering. A dry climate, with normal variations of temperatures, is now recognized as giving the most relief to those suffering from arthritis, rheumatism, and various forms of rheumatism. Therefore, a first requirement is that the land be in a state which can "guarantee" a low and healthful life. Personally, I like New Mexico or Arizona as health resorts, but all states are different and each has some advantages over the others. What climate is best for me, may be freedom to you.

FREEDOM FROM LABOR TROUBLES. Of all the stocks listed on the New York exchanges, the "land company" stocks are freest from labor troubles. Such companies employ very few people. In only a few cases, such as the American Stock Exchange, which is said to have only three employees. Even those railroads like the Canadian Pacific, the Union Pacific, and the Northern Pacific, which have great land holdings, are practically free from strikes. Even during a strike on one of the railroads its land holdings are increasing in value.

Although much of western land is now good only for grazing, yet the income from such land should expand with the national increase in babies. This grazing should pay taxes and other expenses. But the great gamble about any acreage is that at any time minerals such as uranium may be found, or fuels such as oil or gases, or other underground products. This especially applies to timber land, which is constantly becoming more valuable. Land companies which have not yet discovered their underground resources are not investments for income. But at any time discoveries may be made which could double the market prices of the stocks. The day a house is completed, it usually begins to deteriorate and the house becomes worth less, but the land should become worth more each year. Therefore, put more money into land and less into the house when

No war threatened. Barring minor disturbances in some parts of the world, no bullets were flying. Moreover, in the Kellogg-Briand Pact and a whole tissue of treaties — too-trail, alas — the great powers pledged themselves never to use war as an instrument of policy. Can you picture a warless world?

Airpower did not exist. The two oceans were still mighty barriers protecting America. No one dreamed of the A-bomb or the H-bomb, much less intercontinental missiles. "Fallout" would have been dismissed as the wildest science fiction.

That was the political and military scene in that decade.

On the economic side, the skies seemed equally cloudless. A college senior looked forward to selling stocks and bonds, getting into the market in a few years, becoming a millionaire at 35. Why not? It was happening often.

What's more, you could keep your money then. The income tax was negligible. Everybody had jobs. Everybody had money. Everybody had prospects. A chicken in every pot. Two cars in every garage.

It was a fine, mellow champagne era.

At the very end of the decade, beginning with the stock market crash in the fall of 1929, all this ended. Security vanished overnight.

The 1930s brought the depression, economic disaster, then the dictators and militarists.

The 1940s were war and "cold war" years.

The 1950s? Well, you could characterize this period as the "learning to live on the brink" decade.

Yes, there was a lot of nonsense in the 1920s. It probably was the natural by-product of too much peace and quiet.

"Nothing in life is so exhilarating as to be shot at without result." — Winston Churchill.

"Inflation is a state of affairs when you never had it so good or parted with it so fast." — Industrial News Review.

Young Eddie Hodges Still Talking Life In Ministry

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—All the so-called glamor of television, the Broadway theater and Hollywood movies have left slight, red-haired, 12-year-old Eddie Hodges with the notion that he might just happen to become a Baptist preacher when he grows up.

Not that he's tired of acting, he added hastily the other day. It was during a rehearsal break from "Holiday, U.S.A.," a special musical and variety program in which he co-stars with Burl Ives and Gisele MacKenzie on CBS-TV next Wednesday.

"Sometimes I think I want to go and be an actor when I grow up," Eddie said. "And sometimes I think I want to be a Baptist minister like my grandfather."

There's no question but what Eddie, who hails originally from Hattiesburg, Miss., is a virtuoso.

In a little more than two years he has won $44,320 on two TV quiz shows, became a Broadway star as a singing delight of the hit "The Music Man," become a movie star playing Frank Sinatra's son in "A Hole in the Head," and next season is expected to launch his own TV series, "The Wonderful World of Little Julius."

Neither is there any question but what Eddie is a level-headed, happy, normal boy. After talking with him you can only second the motion of Sinatra, who told AP reporter Bob Thomas last December:

"The kid is simply great. Most child actors are insufferable; Eddie is a wonderful, well-behaved boy. And what a great performer!"

Would he give up acting to attend college and seminary in order to become a clergyman?

"See this?" he proudly fingered a button in the lapel of his jacket. "This certifies that I'm a graduate of Boston University. They gave it to me."

Now what do you know about that?

He grinned. "I'm only kidding. I know that I'll have to go through college if I become a minister."

His 32-year-old father, John, and mother, Sue, are leaving it entirely up to Eddie to become whatever he wishes. But his father, who has given up his own career in hotel work to spend his time with Eddie has this to say:

"My wife and I were brought up in church and we've been determined that Eddie and our daughter (Diane, 13) have the same experience. There's no question in our minds but what they're happier, better children for it. Neither is there any question but what Eddie is a level-headed, happy, normal boy. After talking

Moderates Win Algerian Vote

ALGIERS (AP)—Liberals and extreme rightwingers suffered defeat in Sunday's election of 32 members to the French Senate from Algeria.

The outcome, decided by about 6,000 appointed voters from conservative circles, was considered favorable for President De Gaulle's attempts to find a representative Algerian group with which to discuss an end to the 4½-year-old nationalist rebellion.

It was the first time Algerian Moslems outweighed Frenchmen in the group.

Valentino, Garbo Are Still Packing Them In

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

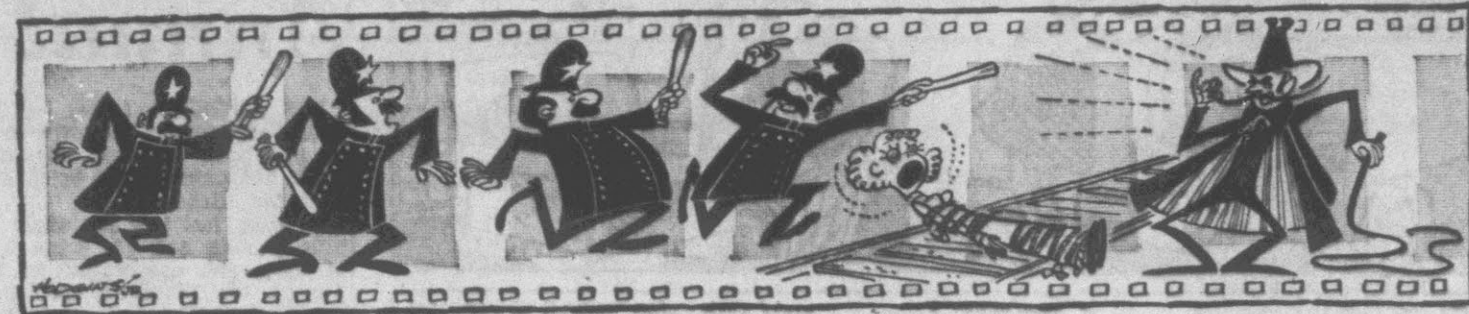

NEW YORK (AP)—Every time a film starring Greta Garbo, Rudolph Valentino or Douglas Fairbanks Sr. is shown at one theater here, the "standing room only" sign goes up.

And this is in spite of the fact that Valentino died in 1926; Fairbanks in 1939, and Garbo has not made a picture in almost 20 years.

Their old films constitute, however, only a fraction of those shown by the Museum of Modern Art in its 485-seat auditorium.

The serious student of the cinema—and they increase in number yearly—may, by attending weekly showings over a two-year period, view all the industry's milestones from the first "Execution of Mary Queen of Scots" made in 1893 by the Edison Co., to something choice and comparatively recent, like "The Snake Pit" now only 11 years old.

Big attraction for the 250,000 theatre-goers who attend Museum showings each year is the superb collection of old movie classics like D. W. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation," Edwin S. Porter's "The Great Train Robbery" and pre-World War I Mack Sennett and Charlie Chaplin comedies. Some, middle-aged and nostalgic, turn up regularly to review long-remembered and well-loved favorites—

"Beau Geste" (1926) with Ronald Colman and Mary Brian; "What Price Glory?" (1926) with Victor McLaglen, Louis Wolheim and Dolores Del Rio; "Safety Last!" (1923) with Harold Lloyd, for example.

There are two new and growing groups of old-movie fans which mystify the entire museum staff. One consists of boys and girls in their teens and twenties who are rabid Valentino fans. They turn out in force, like bobby-soxers for a singing idol, to see over and over their hero in "Blood and Sand" and "Monsieur Beaucaire."

"It seems a little morbid," confessed Richard Griffith, curator of films. "They do everything they can to get us to show Valentino films more often—write letters, plead in person. And it is none of this woman-in-black publicity nonsense. They even contributed the money for a new print of 'Blood and Sand.'"

The other is a cult of young men and women who find it crass to look at a movie made later than 1930.

"They aren't beat generation exactly," said Griffith. "Maybe they think things were nicer in the 1920s and wish they had lived then instead of now. Anyway, all they are interested in is D. W. Griffith, films directed by Erich von Stroheim, Josef von Sternberg and F. W. Murnau, who made 'Sunrise' and 'The Last Laugh.'"

The museum library now consists of about 14 million feet of film—14,000 reels. The library was started in the early 1930s by Iris Barry, a London film critic and devout fan who joined the staff of the newly organized Museum of Modern Art. Miss Barry, then a librarian, sold the Rockefeller's on the idea motion pictures were an art. Then she undertook to persuade Hollywood the same thing. The moguls of the film capital were reluctant and suspicious.

"First they thought we wanted free prints of valuable commercial properties," said Griffith. "And then a lot of them had the idea that being in a museum was like being dead."

The doors opened a crack, however, after Mary Pickford gave a dinner for industry bigwigs at Pickfair, followed by a screening of choice and almost forgotten film excerpts.

Arrangements were made so the museum could make a print of available and desired films. Donations of old film started coming in from attics, cellars and other unlikely storage spots all over the country. "The Execution of Mary Queen of Scots," was rescued from a garbage can, spotted with tobacco juice.

Today, the library has a collection of important American and European film, much of it available for circulation to educational groups.

Occasionally, a professional will request that a special film be run off.

The Gish Sisters, Dorothy and Lillian, are supporters of the library, but Lillian will never come near a rerun of "Broken Blossoms" which she made in 1919 with Richard Barthelmess. The audience is invariably gripped with compulsive laughter although the film was definitely not a comedy.

Except for some very early picture, and "The Taming of the Shrew" made with Fairbanks in 1929, the museum has been unable to get hold of any of Mary Pickford's films.

"Some of her full-length pictures are very important," says Griffith, "but she is very sensitive. She doesn't want the audience to laugh. She owns her own pictures, so that is that."

The range of the collection is broad. It includes pioneering acting by such old favorites as Wallace Reid, Fatty Arbuckle, Flora Finch and John Bunny. There is the first Walt Disney cartoon—never shown publicly, in which Mickey Mouse made his debut. There are the early westerns of William S. Hart and Tom Mix; "Underworld," a British film which was the prototype of all those public enemy films which flowed from Hollywood in the 1920s. There are also old reels in which can be seen the acting of such famed performers as Sarah Bernhardt, Minnie Madden Fiske, Eleanor Duse and Gabrielle Rejane.

Griffith says that interest in many middle-aged films drops off sharply when they are widely exposed on television, but that the usual cutting of full-length movies for TV is so casual that the true-blue movie aficionado spurns them.

Billy Graham On Way To Europe

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Billy Graham was flying to Europe today, his three-month revival campaign in Australia and New Zealand a huge success.

About 5,000 people stood in a heavy rain at the airport to say goodbye to the American evangelist.

Graham planned to spend a few days in Zurich, then join his wife for a holiday in Britain.

Organizers said the total attendance at Graham's three months of meetings totaled 3,217,500. Decisions for Christ totaled more than 140,000.

Young 'Troops' In Little Cold War

By ROY ESSOYAN
MACAO (AP)—Children barely old enough to read—but not too young to shout and sing—are the soldiers in a psychological war between communism and democracy in this tiny Portuguese colony in the shadow of Red China.

A former colonel in the Chinese Nationalist army says democracy, after a slow start, is winning the noisy little war hands down.

Ignatius Wong is principal of the Santa Teresa kindergarten and primary school run by a Roman Catholic mission here.

Across the fence from Santa Teresa is the Communist-run lie school gained steadily. The score today: 1,053 students at Santa Teresa, about 400 at the Communist school.

Miners Rescued After 41 Hours

BEAVER DAM, Ky. (AP)—The main thing when you're trapped underground is to "keep together, keep level-headed and wait."

This is the way Jake Lewis, 39, of Harlan put it after he and two other exhausted miners crawled to safety Sunday after 41 hours of imprisonment in a western Kentucky coal shaft.

"I'm thankful we got out, we felt real good," said Lewis. "We're just thankful to the Lord and to the men that done it."

A machine that cuts and loads coal in the same operation dug rescuers a path to reach Lewis, Earl Bennett, 50, of Taylorville, Ill., and Don McClernon, 53, of Pana, Ill.

A roof cave-in Friday caught the three miners 90 feet underground and 500 feet from the shaft entrance at the Ken Coal Co. mine in Ohio County, 100 miles southwest of Louisville.

"We slept 30 or 40 minutes at a time, then we'd get cold. We'd have to move around to get warmed back up," said Lewis.

The entombed men had a watch to tell time, small lights, and plenty of fresh air. They drank water and milk piped through a tube used as a sprinkler system.

A telephone cable kept them in touch with the outside.

Bennett survived a 1927 explosion at West Frankfort, Ill., that killed 22 miners.

Women's Clubs In Annual Session

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The ladies are coming to town today to pooh-pooh all that malarkey about a woman's place being solely in the kitchen.

To show just how far afield the little woman can go, some 3,000 of them are converging on Los Angeles for Tuesday's opening of the General Federation of Women's Clubs annual convention.

When President Chloe Gifford, a Lexington, Ky. attorney, brings the women to order, delegates representing 11½ million members in 60 countries are expected to be on hand.

They'll discuss everything from the quality of television to the effects of smog, from cheesecake to better citizenship, and the use of plastic bags which have recently caused a number of children's deaths across the United States.

One motion to be offered before the convention will be aimed at banning the bags or enforcing a more stringent law on their use.

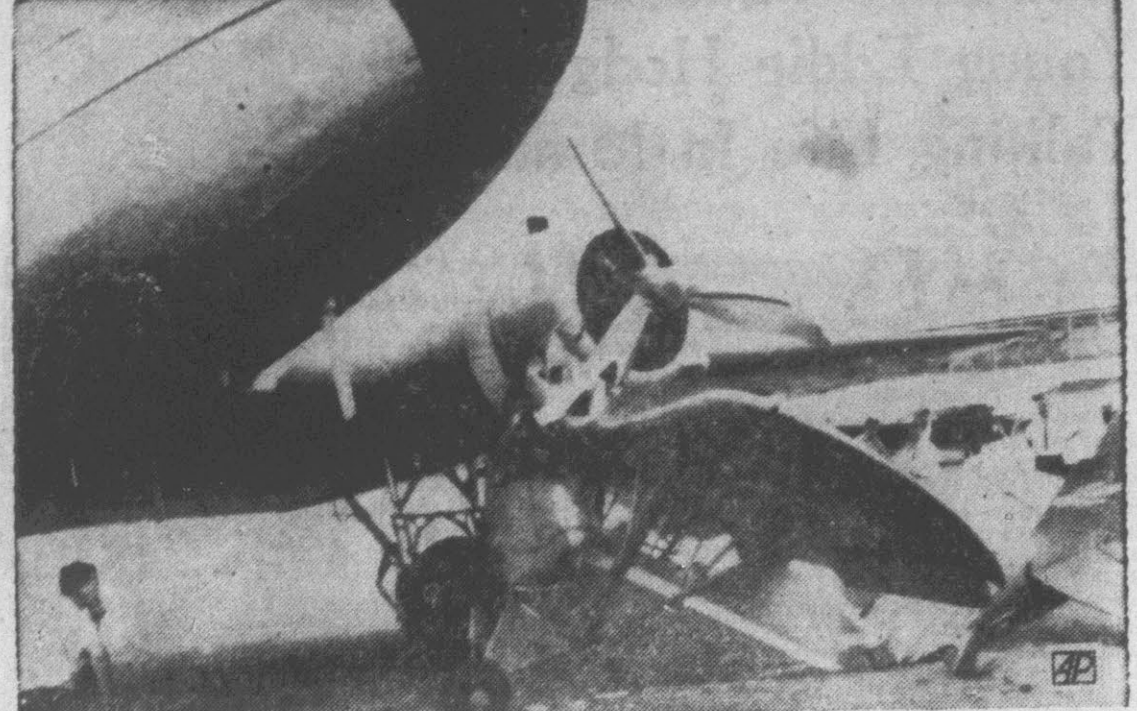

Another motion will call for amendment of U.S. copyright laws so that composers can earn more royalties from the juke box operators who distribute their music.

Contrary to what some men might think, the women are going to do more than talk. They'll listen, too.

One of the speakers, who has caused some consternation to a few California delegates, is Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers. Reuther is to appear Thursday night on a labor-management symposium with Charles Slish, executive vice-president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

Last month, the San Gabriel, Calif., division of the women's federation wired national headquarters, asking that someone other than Reuther be invited to appear as the voice of organized labor.

Other convention speakers will include Gen. C. V. R. Schuyler, U.S. chief of staff at SHAPE headquarters; author-lecturer Col. Serge Obelensky, and Dr. Lyman Ginger, past president of the National Education Assn.

BIT OFF MORE THAN COULD CHEW—This little Piper Cub plane bit off more than it could chew when it ran out of control and tangled with the prop of this big DC3 at the Atlanta, Ga., Airport. It seems the owner of the Cub asked a youth to sit at the controls while he hand-cranked the plane because of a dead battery. When the motor started the youth lost control as the plane shot forward and into the prop of the taxiing DC3. The little plane was demolished but the youth escaped injury by lying on the floor of the plane. (AP Wirephoto)

State-Level CD Test Set Thursday, Friday

OPERATION ALERT, clarified
RALEIGH — State level Civil Defense forces are set for Phase III of Operation Alert 1959, the annual nation-wide Civil Defense test, exercise scheduled for Thursday and Friday of this week, General Edward F. Griffin, State Director said today.

The staff at State headquarters here will be augmented by personnel from state and federal agencies and certain state-wide organizations responsible for emergency services under the North Carolina Operational Survival Plan. The Survival Plan will be followed throughout the two day period of intensive training.

The major problem will be to determine the State's capability to sustain itself for thirty days following a simulated attack in which four target areas received "strikes" by enemy bombs of varying destructive force, and much of the state is theoretically blanketed by radioactive fallout.

While emphasis will be placed on requirements, resources and manpower, there will be problems and play during the exercise for all services involved except Alert Warning and Communications which were tested during the initial phase of the exercise on April 17-18 with extensive local and public participation throughout the State.

Couple Slain By Crowbar Blows

HOBBART, Okla. (AP)—A prominent Oklahoma mental health worker and her dairy farmer husband were bludgeoned to death with a crowbar at their home near here Sunday night.

Officers are searching the state for their son who came home Friday on convalescent leave from a state mental hospital.

The victims were Elmer Brillhart, about 46, and his wife Florence, 45. State Crime Bureau agents and highway patrolmen sealed off the area around Hobart in the search for their son, Clark, 24.

Sheriff E. O. (Pete) Peters said young Brillhart told a neighbor, Rolfe Duggan, that he had killed his parents. Then he drove off in their 1956 two-tone blue auto.

Dr. Wayne Boyd, superintendent of the Western State Mental Hospital at Ft. Supply, Okla., said young Brillhart was admitted to the hospital last Jan. 26 and had been released in the custody of his parents on convalescent leave.

Mrs. Brillhart was recognized in Oklahoma as one of the state's outstanding lay workers in mental health. She also authored non-denominational religious books.

The end apparently came quickly for the couple in the modernistic home on their prosperous 500-acre dairy farm in southwest Oklahoma.

Officers found Mrs. Brillhart's body slumped in her rocking chair, a needle, thread and sewing materials in her lap.

Brillhart was found in the hallway. Nearby was a small bloody crowbar.

Young Brillhart was a senior at Oklahoma State University, studying business administration, when he entered Western State Hospital.

Find Bridegroom Shot To Death

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—A 17-year-old bridegroom was found shot to death at his home here today, a few hours after he had eloped with his young sweetheart.

Police Capt. Bob Sult said John Louis Maddox and Peggy Stroud, 16, a high school sophomore, eloped and were married Saturday. Then they returned to tell his parents.

Maddox took his bride to her home, then returned to his home.

The boy's parents said they were awakened about 1 a.m. Sunday by a loud noise. They found the youth on the floor of his bedroom, wounded in the chest. A 12-gauge shotgun was nearby.

Policeman Slain By Angry Driver

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—A cab driver angered because he received a ticket for speeding from a Negro policeman shot and killed him Sunday.

Police quoted Joseph D. Herring, 31, a Negro cabbie, as saying, "I'm glad he's dead and now it won't take me long to die in the gas chamber."

Police Cpl. Joe D. Massey, 44, one of the first Negro policemen hired here 12 years ago, was slain as he sat at a desk in a service station writing out a police report shortly after giving Herring the ticket. He was shot six times.

Police who said Herring admitted the shooting, called it "one of the most cold-blooded" murder cases in Greensboro's history.

She said she tired of criticism of the way she dressed, so she left teaching in favor of acting and turned to peeling in public when acting jobs got scarce. She says she is not going to make a career of the burlesque. "I hate stripping," Patricia says. "I'm an actress." She's a native of Minneapolis. (AP Wirephoto)

Ward Wins Richest Auto Race

By DALE BURGESS

Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Rodger Ward, loaded down with loot from the richest auto race ever run, will go right on competing in the world's most dangerous sport.

Ward and his car owner, Leader Cards, Inc., of Milwaukee, won $106,850 in the 43rd 500-mile race Saturday. The World War II fighter pilot's take under the customary contract would be 40 per cent, $42,740.

That means Ward will be risking his neck largely for the U.S. Treasury the rest of this season—but his pretty brunette wife, Jo, says he probably would race for nothing.

"I'm going to make the rest of the USAC championship races and possibly some sports car events if I can get a good car," Ward said.

His next race will be the 100-mile at Milwaukee next Sunday. The last two Indianapolis winners, Sam Hanks and Jimmy Bryan, passed up the rest of the circuit after their big winnings at the Speedway.

It took Ward nine attempts before he won the big pot. Only a dedicated race driver would have continued after his experience in the 1955 Memorial Day classic. His front axle broke, triggering the four-car crash that killed two-time winner Bill Vukovich. He entered the 500 again the next year and finished eighth—his best until last Saturday.

Ward escaped injury in another sensational crash April 4 at Daytona Beach, in a 50-mile event that followed the world's record 100-mile in which he finished second to Jim Rathmann of Miami.

Ward set a new Speedway record of 135.857 miles an hour, beating Jim Rathmann by 23.27 seconds or about a mile. Rathmann's 135.619 also topped Hanks' 1957 record of 135.601.

It turned out to be a four-car race and Ward got a big assist from his smooth pit crew and air jacks which were installed in his A.J. Watson-built car. He made three stops for fuel and tires in grand total of one minute and 13 seconds.

Johnny Thomson of Boyertown, Pa., the fastest qualified, had to make four pit stops, broke a torsion bar spring and finished third.

Ward let Rathmann, Thomson and Pat Flaherty of Chicago, the 1956 winner, do most of the fighting for the lead in the first half of the race while he conserved his tires to save a pit stop.

Flaherty crashed into the main stretch wall on his 163rd lap but escaped injury. Ward let the last 115 laps.

There were six mishaps, injuring two drivers and a crewman, but no fatalities.

Tony Bettenhausen finished fourth for the second straight year. Paul Goldsmith of St. Clair Shores, Mich., eliminated in the 15-car smashup last year in his first start, took fifth.

Baltimore dropped Boston into last place, five percentage points behind Washington, when Hal (Skinny) Brown beat the Red Sox 2-1. Brown staggered through the first two innings and settled down to pitch a four-hitter. He felled Ted Williams' bid for his 2,500th big league hit. Williams went hitless in three official trips.

San Francisco cut Milwaukee's National League lead to 2½ games by topping Chicago 6-3 while the Braves were dividing two with Philadelphia. After Roberto's first complete game since April 22 by throwing a four-hit shutout in the 6-0 opener, Warren Spahn won his 253rd major league game, 2-1 with a four-hitter in the second game.

Los Angeles got 14 strikeouts by Sandy Koufax and Danny McDevitt in downing St. Louis 5-3. The Card pitchers fanned nine, making a two-team total of 23, tying the National League record.

Pittsburgh took two from Cincinnati 6-2 and 14-11 as Don Hoak and Smoky Burgess each hit three homers.

Camilo Pascual did his very best to keep the Yanks in last place, matching Turley's two-hit shutout for the first eight innings.

There were two out in the ninth when Mickey Mantle, doubled to right center. After Yogi Berra was walked intentionally, Skowron lined Pascual's second pitch into the leftfield bleachers for his eighth home run.

Turley, still far behind his 1958 pace, recovered from his recent wildness and walked only one. It was his fourth victory (he's lost six) and Pascual's fifth defeat.

Maxwell's homer in Detroit broke a 4-4 tie. Davie had opened the ninth with a single off Mike Garcia, and was sacrificed to second. Perry walked Harvey Kuenn intentionally before Maxwell hit his ninth homer.

Whitey Herzog's single with the bases loaded and Dick Williams' double each drove in two runs for the A's in the big second inning.

Ward's grand slammer came off Barry Latman who replaced Wynn in the second. Ned Garver, who hasn't lost to Chicago since July 4, 1957, won his fourth with a four-hitter.

Baltimore left 15 on base in beating Boston. Al Pilarcik's double followed by Willie Tasby's single broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth. Ike Delock was the loser.

Walker Cup team with Beman and Hyndman; PGA champion Dow Finsterwald, and Claude Harmon, head pro at the host club.

Qualifying sites besides Atlanta, Springfield, Cincinnati and Washington, are Los Angeles, Denver, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City, Buffalo, Portland, Ore., Memphis, and Fort Worth.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee ace Warren Spahn guardedly is nursing a burning desire. He wants to join the exclusive 300-victory club before hanging up his glove.

"It's a long way off, but it's a challenge and I'm shooting for 300," the 39-year-old southpaw admitted Sunday after stopping the Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 for victory No. 253 in the National League.

"My immediate goal is winning at least 20 games this season," Spahn said. "But, naturally, I can't help thinking of reaching 300 in the long run."

In securing his seventh victory in 12 decisions this year, Spahn matched the career total of Carl Hubbell, the only National League left-handed pitcher to gain a spot in the Hall of Fame. The biggest southpaw winner in league history was Eppa Rixey, who posted 266 triumphs in 21 years with Philadelphia and Cincinnati.

"Every win counts and is a step in the direction of 300," Spahn said. "I feel as good as ever and I have to admit that 300 is a definite challenge now. But first I have to hit 20 for the season. To my way of thinking, I have to win 20 a year to keep my job."

Only two southpaws have 300 victories. Eddie Plank won 305 and Lefty Grove just made it, both in the American League.

Also escaping the rigid double qualifying which has trimmed the field from an original cast of 2,402 are U.S. Amateur champion Charlie Coe, who competed on the

Yanks Sweep 3rd Victory In Row; Out Of The Cellar

By JACK HANCOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
Yankee haters arise! The battle has not been won. The enemy is not dead. He has escaped from the American League cellar.

The Washington chapter is to blame. They forgot to lock the basement door over the long weekend. Casey Stengel's men swept three in a row and charged into sixth place, blinking in daylight after 11 days in the dungeon.

This is blue Monday for the club members. New York shows definite signs of snapping out of it. They clobbered Washington twice on Saturday, scoring 22 runs, and won Sunday's single game 3-0 on Bill Skowron's three-run homer in the ninth and Bob Turley's two-hit pitching.

The Yanks still are four games under .500 but the league is beginning to come back to them. Cleveland, still in first place, is only six games away. The Yanks still have 112 games to play.

Charlie Maxwell did the Indians in with a three-run homer on Jim Perry's first pitch in the ninth for Detroit's 7-4 victory. Jerry Davie came through with his first complete game in the majors, a four-hitter after a wobbly start.

Cleveland held its one-game lead over Chicago because the White Sox were thumped early and late by Kansas City. The A's knocked out Early Wynn while scoring five runs in the second and added four more in the sixth on Preston Ward's grand slam homer for a 9-1 decision.

Baltimore dropped Boston into last place, five percentage points behind Washington, when Hal (Skinny) Brown beat the Red Sox 2-1. Brown staggered through the first two innings and settled down to pitch a four-hitter. He felled Ted Williams' bid for his 2,500th big league hit. Williams went hitless in three official trips.

San Francisco cut Milwaukee's National League lead to 2½ games by topping Chicago 6-3 while the Braves were dividing two with Philadelphia. After Roberto's first complete game since April 22 by throwing a four-hit shutout in the 6-0 opener, Warren Spahn won his 253rd major league game, 2-1 with a four-hitter in the second game.

Los Angeles got 14 strikeouts by Sandy Koufax and Danny McDevitt in downing St. Louis 5-3. The Card pitchers fanned nine, making a two-team total of 23, tying the National League record.

Pittsburgh took two from Cincinnati 6-2 and 14-11 as Don Hoak and Smoky Burgess each hit three homers.

Camilo Pascual did his very best to keep the Yanks in last place, matching Turley's two-hit shutout for the first eight innings.

There were two out in the ninth when Mickey Mantle, doubled to right center. After Yogi Berra was walked intentionally, Skowron lined Pascual's second pitch into the leftfield bleachers for his eighth home run.

Turley, still far behind his 1958 pace, recovered from his recent wildness and walked only one. It was his fourth victory (he's lost six) and Pascual's fifth defeat.

Maxwell's homer in Detroit broke a 4-4 tie. Davie had opened the ninth with a single off Mike Garcia, and was sacrificed to second. Perry walked Harvey Kuenn intentionally before Maxwell hit his ninth homer.

Whitey Herzog's single with the bases loaded and Dick Williams' double each drove in two runs for the A's in the big second inning.

Ward's grand slammer came off Barry Latman who replaced Wynn in the second. Ned Garver, who hasn't lost to Chicago since July 4, 1957, won his fourth with a four-hitter.

Baltimore left 15 on base in beating Boston. Al Pilarcik's double followed by Willie Tasby's single broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth. Ike Delock was the loser.

Walker Cup team with Beman and Hyndman; PGA champion Dow Finsterwald, and Claude Harmon, head pro at the host club.

Qualifying sites besides Atlanta, Springfield, Cincinnati and Washington, are Los Angeles, Denver, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City, Buffalo, Portland, Ore., Memphis, and Fort Worth.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee ace Warren Spahn guardedly is nursing a burning desire. He wants to join the exclusive 300-victory club before hanging up his glove.

"It's a long way off, but it's a challenge and I'm shooting for 300," the 39-year-old southpaw admitted Sunday after stopping the Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 for victory No. 253 in the National League.

"My immediate goal is winning at least 20 games this season," Spahn said. "But, naturally, I can't help thinking of reaching 300 in the long run."

In securing his seventh victory in 12 decisions this year, Spahn matched the career total of Carl Hubbell, the only National League left-handed pitcher to gain a spot in the Hall of Fame. The biggest southpaw winner in league history was Eppa Rixey, who posted 266 triumphs in 21 years with Philadelphia and Cincinnati.

"Every win counts and is a step in the direction of 300," Spahn said. "I feel as good as ever and I have to admit that 300 is a definite challenge now. But first I have to hit 20 for the season. To my way of thinking, I have to win 20 a year to keep my job."

Only two southpaws have 300 victories. Eddie Plank won 305 and Lefty Grove just made it, both in the American League.

Snead Seeks Quality For U. S. Open Play

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
Golfing maestro Sam Snead still seeking to add the U.S. Open championship to his numerous golfing laurels—faces the rigors of final sectional qualifying today along with 476 other hopefuls.

Snead joins such other luminaries as newly crowned British Amateur champion Deane Beman; Masters champion Art Wall Jr.; Bill Hyndman, who lost to Beman in the British Amateur final, and the leading performers along the pro circuit, in the battle to get into the tournament proper.

This is the second round of eliminations for the main event at the Winged Foot Club, Mamaroneck, N.Y., June 11-13. Only 131 spots remain open for the nearly 500 golfers who will be competing at 13 locations across the country.

Twelve will be held today. The 13th—at Atlanta—was put off until Tuesday because of rain.

The two largest groups will be at Springfield, N.J., where Hyndman will be vying for a spot, and at Cincinnati, where the touring pros will shoot over the 36-hole route. The class of the field, however, appears to be at Washington, D.C., where Snead, Beman, Wall and Palmer are entered.

Seven former Open winners are among the 19 on the exemption list and already have their places in the Open's championship flight.

Heading the exempt pack are the last five champions—Tommy Bolt, Dick Mayer, Cary Middlecoff, Jack Fleck and Ed Furgol—along with Ben Hogan and Julius Boros.

Hogan and Boros earned their positions by being among the low 10 scorers and ties in last year's Open. Also included in that group are Gary Player, Gene Littler, Walt Burkemo, Bob Rosburg, Jay Hebert, Dick Metz, Don January, Frank Stranahan and Tommy Jacobs.

Also escaping the rigid double qualifying which has trimmed the field from an original cast of 2,402 are U.S. Amateur champion Charlie Coe, who competed on the

Britishers Hail Youthful Beman

SANDWICH, England (AP)—Deane Beman, youngest American to win the British Amateur golf title, gained a reputation in Britain as an ice-cool character who played the course and paid no attention to his opponents.

The 21-year-old University of Maryland student from Silver Spring, Md., defeated Bill Hyndman, 43-year-old Abington, Pa., insurance broker 3 and 2 in the final Saturday. Then both headed qualifying action in the U.S. Open.

British sportswriters described Beman as "lightlipped," "ruthless" and even as a "demon golfer."

Sydney Spicer, writing in the London Sunday Express, said: "Beman, small and wiry and almost expressionless whatever the situation, gave a magnificent exhibition of the short game—even by the American standards."

"He hit the ball firmly and with a penetrating flight. In every respect he is the type of ruthless competitor who makes out job or catches up with American golf so difficult."

Beman's success in the British Amateur followed a 9-3 U.S. victory over Britain in the Walker Cup at Muirfield, May 15-16.

The young Marylander, a member of the Walker Cup squad, won a singles match in that competition.

Beman was the 11th American to win the British title, first completed for in 1865.

As home pro, Claude Harmon is automatically qualified to play in the U.S. Open championship at the Winged Foot Golf Club. Harmon has no intention of neglecting his duties as host pro, but he does entertain definite notions about making a strong bid for the championship on his home course which he must know better than any other golfer. And don't count the 42-year-old pro out; Claude has shown his ability in competition, highlighted by his 1948 triumph in the Masters when he posted a 279 to lead the field by five strokes. He is recognized as one of the game's finest teachers as well as a gifted shotmaker.

Since Harmon succeeded Craig Wood as pro at Winged Foot in 1945, he has helped develop a succession of fine young golfers who have gone on to fame and fortune after serving as his assistants. Golfers like Jackie Burke, Mike Souchak, Al Mengert, Dave Marr, Shelley Mayfield, Otto Greiner—to name a few. Harmon calls them his "chickens".

"The winner of the Open could come from one of that group," said Harmon. "They know the course, having worked here. That is a big advantage. Besides, they'll be playing in a friendly atmosphere with the feeling that the members are rooting for them. But the detailed knowledge of the course—the roll and texture of the greens, the prevailing winds and all the special conditions peculiar to each golf course—that should give them great confidence. And confidence is all important to winning big golf tournaments."

Harmon was reluctant to talk about his own chances in the Open. He only smiled when it was pointed out that he usually managed to beat his "chickens" whenever they returned for a friendly round over the famed West Course. Let's just say—Harmon is hopeful.

Harmon was the 11th American to win the British title, first completed for in 1865.

Commencement Programs Today, Tonight For University And Colleges

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The University of North Carolina and Wake Forest head a long list of Tar Heel colleges handing out diplomas at commencement exercises today.

An extra tinge of sentiment will be present at Wake Forest's program in Winston-Salem. The more than 400 seniors will be the last undergraduate class to have its roots attached to the school's former campus at Wake Forest, which was vacated in 1955.

Vermont C. Royster, editor of the Wall Street Journal and a Raleigh native, will address 2,000 graduates at North Carolina. It will be the 165th class to graduate from the Chapel Hill institution.

Pay-TV Group Films Bolshoi Ballet Shows

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Those who look for entertainment history might make a significant find today.

On a sound stage at Paramount Sunset studios, the Skatiron firm is beginning to tape the first of four one-hour programs by the Bolshoi Ballet. What's so significant about this, you ask?

Well, it's not merely that the Communists have hooked up with a decidedly capitalistic concern. The real significance is what will happen to the tape recording of the ballet programs. So far, Skatiron's boss, astute showman Matty Fox, hasn't tipped his hand. But his firm is one of the leaders in the fight for pay-TV. The films may well be shown on television when—and if—it becomes a reality.

I dropped by to see how this history of a sort was progressing. My guide informed me that the entire production—being done by Paramount Television because of its superior tape equipment

Joan Crawford Says Also Broke

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movie star Joan Crawford says she is broke, the Los Angeles Examiner said today.

Miss Crawford is here to play a small part in a film. She is the widow of Alfred Steele, chairman of the board of Pepsi-Cola Co., who died of a heart attack several weeks ago. The Examiner quoted Miss Crawford: "I haven't a sou to my name. Uncle Sam has every penny. Alfred, before his sudden death, thought he was leaving me with plenty, but it wasn't that way. It all went for income taxes and debts."

"The company (Pepsi-Cola) has been wonderful to me, and I have agreed to go out on personal appearance tours 'whenever and wherever they need me.' 'I'll take any good (film) part no matter how small. I am hoping to make pictures, to work for Al's company, and to keep going.'"

Miss Crawford's statement came on the heels of a disclosure by Bud Abbott, of the former comedy team of Abbott and Costello, that his fortune had been wiped out by back taxes, penalties and interest.

The Rev. James I. McCord, president-elect of Princeton Theological Seminary, was to speak to 175 Davidson College seniors.

Meanwhile, at Catawba College in Salisbury, honorary degrees will go to veteran actor Sidney Blackmer, a Salisbury native, and the Rev. A. Wilson Cheek, who is executive secretary for adult work of the United Christian Youth Movement of the National Council of Churches. Afterwards, the college will award degrees to its seniors.

Other commencement programs today and tonight include these: Elon College, Lenoir Rhyne, Guilford, Queens in Charlotte, Salem College and Academy seniors in Winston-Salem heard a sermon by Dr. J. Glenn Blackburn, pastor of Wake Forest Baptist Church. He told listeners, "If you are looking for peace, you've got the wrong century."

In Greensboro, Bennett College seniors heard Dr. R. O'Hara Lamer of New York, an executive of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, describe present-day life as a "race between education and catastrophe."

North Carolina A & T seniors heard the Rev. Archibald J. Carey Jr., who said four factors are contributing to the Negro's rise toward first class citizenship: Impact of a shrinking world, impact of influences of good will, account given by minorities when given opportunities, and leadership minorities have received from the White House.

Guilford College's baccalaureate was delivered by C. Sylvester Green, vice president of William Jewell College. He told graduates to develop a "reign of religion and righteousness that begins in the heart of the individual Christian."

Bishop Nolan B. Harmon of Charlotte told Greensboro College graduates to "build on what is lacking" in life and to make those things a reality.

Beneath scores of overhead lights, seven young Russian men were rehearsing a dramatic dance involving a flag and a ballet. Dressed in casual street clothes, they performed with little exertion to a piano while five cameras followed their movements. It seemed like a rehearsal for a network spectacular except for one difference: the shouted directions in Russian.

Couldn't Beat Train To Child

WRENSHALL, Minn. (AP)—A mother racing to save her 2-year-old daughter from a train got within 15 feet of the child Sunday night before the engine hit the little girl and killed her.

Jan Newsom, playing with her sand pail by the tracks near her home, heard her mother scream, "Jan, Jan!" Jan was starting to get to her feet when the passenger train, traveling at about 60 miles per hour, struck her.

The accident occurred seconds after Mrs. Julius Newsom got into a friend's auto to drive to a neighbor's home. Newsom, cutting the lawn, remained home with Jan and a year-old child.

From the auto window, Mrs. Newsom saw Jan sitting along the tracks 125 feet from the house. She leaped from the car and ran toward the girl. She fell once, got up and resumed running. She kept calling to her daughter.

The engineer, Carl Ostlund, Duluth, Minn., said he had seen something on the ties ahead of the Northern Pacific train. He applied the brakes, but the train, which doesn't stop in Wrenshall, was going too fast.

Woman's College held its exercises Sunday at Greensboro in sweltering Aycock Auditorium. Rains forced the program inside. In the only formal address, Dr. Waldo Beach of Duke University delivered a baccalaureate sermon to 540 graduates.

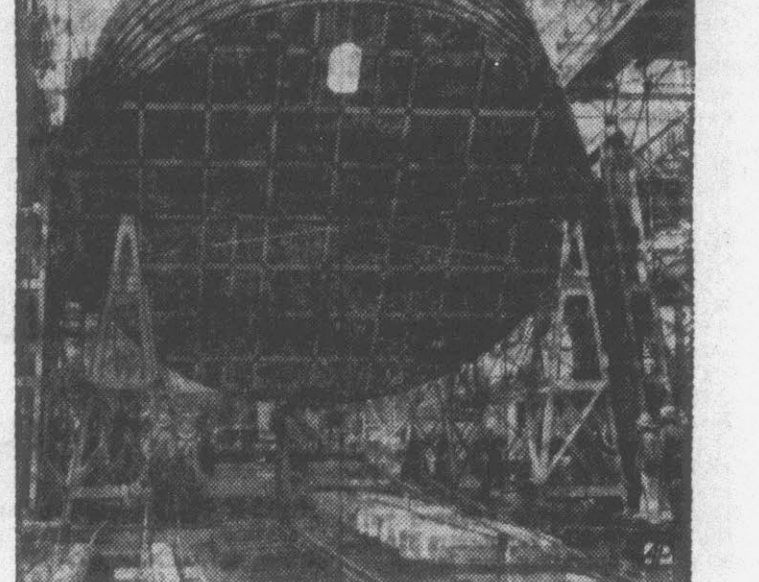

Dr. Beach told graduates to avoid the center of existence in the crowd and turn, instead, to the center represented by Christian faith. Several state officials attended, including Gov. Luther Hodges.

Hood College in Greensboro passed out degrees to 67 graduates of its Liberal Arts School and six from its seminary. Many colleges got graduation festivities underway Sunday with baccalaureate sermons. At Chapel Hill, theologian H. Richard Niebuhr told University of North Carolina graduates that "man is an insignificant being" and that "man is a little less than God."

He made the remarks in answer to his question: "What is man?" Dr. Herbert Gezork, president of Andover Newton Theological School, warned Wake Forest seniors to be suspicious of the "easy things a reality."

Guilford College's baccalaureate was delivered by C. Sylvester Green, vice president of William Jewell College. He told graduates to develop a "reign of religion and righteousness that begins in the heart of the individual Christian."

Bishop Nolan B. Harmon of Charlotte told Greensboro College graduates to "build on what is lacking" in life and to make those things a reality.

A romantic suspense novel by MARTHA ALBRAND

A SPY at MONTE CARLO

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

The adventure that led a young American artist in Paris, Mark Travers, to the most challenging and desirable woman he had ever met began when his friend, Philippe Langie, was murdered.

Philippe, a French diplomat working to effect peace in Algeria, was assassinated while endeavoring to meet Tingmad, an agitator of Algerian rebellion. Philippe's dying words were "Find Tingmad, Mark. Promise."

Mark got nowhere in his search for Tingmad until Corinne Javal, one of the women in Philippe's life, gave him a clue: Tingmad had been seen in Monte Carlo. Mark flew there, and immediately received a note that warned he would die if he didn't mind his own business. Yet only two persons had advanced knowledge of his trip to Monte Carlo — Inspector Perrier of the Surete and Corinne Javal.

While pondering that and awaiting a planned rendezvous with Corinne at 10 a.m., he encountered a beautiful ballerina, Fleur Constant. Forgetful of his date with Corinne and his danger, he got Fleur to promise to have lunch with him.

Upon hurrying belatedly to keep his rendezvous with Corinne, he found Corinne dead in her car — strangled by her scarf.

Inspector Perrier advised Mark to leave Monte Carlo and forget about Tingmad. Mark kept his date with Fleur anyway, and found her attended by a chamberlain — her ballet master, Bransky. Annoyed, Mark whisked Fleur out of the inn and drove her to Nice. His attention was distracted from her there by the sight of a snapshot displayed at a photographer's stand — a picture of Corinne with a man in his car . . .

CHAPTER 11

"I'm proud of that snapshot," said the photographer to Mark. "It's not easy to catch Mr. Rafalelli. But I'm afraid he's a little blurred. You see, the car was going quite fast when I took it. It's surprising the lady came out so well."

Rafalelli? Mark couldn't place the name. But Inspector Perrier would know.

"Ties?" said a voice next to him. "Or a chain of pearls for the young lady?"

An Arab vendor, holding out his wares, Mark turned his back on the man. "May I use your phone?" he asked.

Before the photographer had nodded his consent, Mark had already picked up the receiver. A moment later he heard the inspector's voice.

"I just bumped into something which will interest you," said Mark. "I'm calling from Nice."

"Nice?" said Perrier. "Well, don't bother to come back here. I have to be there presently myself. Meet me in the entrance of the Casino, on the Place Massena. I'll be there in half an hour, latest."

Fleur was standing outside the shop when Mark came out.

"I hope you will be patient," he said. "I have an errand to do which may take only a little while, but it may take longer."

"I shall try to be patient," she said, and agreed to wait for him in the car.

It was only a short walk to the Place Massena, the big square named after one of Napoleon's most trusted generals.

Before Mark had crossed it, he saw Perrier turning into a side street. Following him, Mark slowed his steps, and, while watching Perrier out of the corner of his eye, he stopped at a newsstand to buy a paper, then strolled casually past the bus terminal. A few houses further on, he saw the inspector enter a cafe.

Mark waited a few minutes before following him inside. Perrier was sitting in the furthest corner, as always with his back to a wall, his dachshund on his knees. Most of the tables were taken. Mark wound his way unobtrusively through the large, crowded restaurant until he reached the inspector.

Perrier bowed politely, as if to a stranger. "Yes, this chair is free," he said loudly. Then, as Mark sat down, he added in a lower voice: "I'm glad you caught on. We have to be cautious. Why did you want to see me?"

Mark could not help feeling satisfaction. Of course, he had been lucky.

He slid the snapshot under the newspaper and gave his order to the waiter. When he picked up the paper a moment later, the photo was gone, and Perrier said under his breath, "This is important. Cesare di Rafalelli. Did Corinne ever mention his name to you?"

Mark shook his head. "Who is Rafalelli?"

But the inspector did not answer. The round brown eyes had narrowed and, following their glance, Mark saw that Perrier was staring at a man, standing in the open entrance doorway, who wore on his head a dark red fez.

Over his left arm hung several small silk rugs and a great many chains of imitation pearls. An Arab vendor, as there were hundreds on the Riviera, reminding Mark of the one who had offered his wares in the photographer's shop.

The man seemed to be scanning the place for a possible customer until, suddenly, he made a step forward, in their direction. Only then did Mark notice a second Arab, following him. The next moment he saw Perrier's hand shoot up as if warding off a blow. Then all life seemed to come to an end with the thunderous noise of a bomb exploding.

doctor was working on the emergency cases.

There was nothing seriously wrong with Mark, just a flesh wound caused by a piece of marble which had embedded itself in his chest. It could be treated on the spot.

They went out into the street and it seemed somehow incredible that the sun should still be shining from the same cloudless blue sky and that it was not yet three o'clock. "I'd like a drink," said Mark, after he had bought a shirt in a store close by, and they went across the street into a small, dark bar.

The inspector put down the little dachshund in front of him on the shiny wood, stroking the dog gently. The animal was still trembling.

"What do you think, Perrier? Was I trailed?"

"You or I. Who knows? They may have been after me. Another terror act. There have been so many throughout France since the trouble started." He sighed. "Retaliation. We hang them, they kill us. The old law of pressure creating counterpressure."

"My guess is that it had nothing to do with either of us. I think they were after the man who was killed, the Arab who made for our table. Maybe he was an informer, maybe he had something to tell us. Everything is possible."

Possible, too, thought Mark, that the dead Arab had been the same man who had accosted him in the photographer's shop at the hotel, possible that he had followed Mark to the cafe to tell him something.

Boy Will Face Murder Charge

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Police said murder charges would be filed today against a Negro boy who admitted fatally stabbing a white youth during a fight.

Ernest Smith, 16, surrendered to police Saturday night shortly after Tommy Donnell, 17, died of a stab wound near the heart.

Police said the two got into an argument and began fighting when Smith and a Negro companion met Donnell and two other white youths in front of a drive-in restaurant.

The two fought with their fists for about five minutes police said, until Donnell fell and Smith and his companion fled.

No reason was given for the fight. Smith had two superficial cuts on his back when he surrendered, police said.

Noted composer Cole Porter studied law in his first year at Harvard. He quickly switched to Harvard School of Music.

Louisiana's Governor In Clinic For Psychiatric Care; Being Examined

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Louisiana's Gov. Earl K. Long, 63, his health broken under the strain of office, was in a psychiatric clinic here today.

Indications from his family were that he would be away from his office for considerable time. He was flown here after some tantrum-like outbursts before his Legislature.

Reports of his condition at John Sealy Hospital were conflicting. Dr. John B. Truslow, the hospital's administrator, said the governor was taking no medication or curative treatment as yet, but was merely under nursing care while doctors continued examinations.

The Galveston Daily News quoted an unnamed "reliable source" as saying Long had "a couple of violent spells" Sunday and was under care of two male nurses in a private room.

In Baton Rouge, Lt. Gov. Lethor Frasier took over as acting governor, amid a swirl of statewide repercussions to Long's dramatic exit.

His nephew, Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) appeared before a stormy legislative session Sunday night to explain that the governor's health had broken down under the strain of office.

The senator, son of the late Louisiana political leader Huey P. Long, said his uncle may be away "for a considerable period of time."

The duties and burdens of his office have been more than he could stand," the senator said.

The senator's talk touched off turbulent reactions in the Legislature. Six representatives had opposed hearing him, and because of the friction, the senator three times started to walk out.

The governor slipped out of the state Saturday, aboard a National Guard plane, to enter the Texas hospital.

In the week before, he had twice rocked legislative chambers with emotional diatribes against his political foes, name-calling and shouted boasts.

After his departure, his wife said he had suffered complete physical exhaustion.

Mrs. Long later flew to Galveston. She and other relatives are staying at the hospital's faculty house, about a block from the clinic.

Opponents of Long, lord of the bayou country like his brother Huey before him, have pointed out that the Louisiana constitution permits removal of a governor if he is incapacitated by illness.

They viewed his flight as a maneuver to block his removal, since with Frasier already acting as

Space Monkeys Being Observed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Able and Baker, the little monkeys rocketed into space aboard an American missile, will be kept under observation for some time to see if they develop any follow-up effects from their trip.

Scientists say the two weren't hurt a bit by their 1,500-mile flight. But they want to keep the monkeys under long-term observation to make sure the radiation or weightlessness of space travel didn't cause harm that might show up later.

Future checks on Able will be made at the Walter Reed Army Research Institute here, and on Baker at the Navy's aviation medicine installation at Pensacola, Fla.

Doctors said at a news conference here Saturday that physiological changes recorded in the monkeys' conditions during the flight were extraordinarily small.

Heartbeats of the monkeys accelerated as their Jupiter missile took off early Thursday from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and swiftly increased its rate of speed. The heart beats and respiration returned to near normal during the flight, then speeded up again as the missile dropped back from its top altitude of about 300 miles and plunged into the Atlantic Ocean.

Elvis Gets An Army Promotion

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Elvis Presley has had a promotion and a raise.

The 3rd Armored Division announced today the singer was promoted from private first class to specialist fourth class, a rank equal to corporal.

Elvis, who drives a jeep in Scout Platoon of the 32nd Armored Battalion, received a shining golden eagle arm patch and a considerable raise. For Pfc. Presley it was $99.37 a month. Now is $122.30.

First Services In New Church

STOKES — The congregation of Stokes Christian Church worshipped for the first time Sunday in the recently completed church building. Rev. Vere Rogers, pastor, preached. A special program of music was presented. Mrs. Sam Gray is organist.

The pastor announced that a revival will be held in the new building this week, beginning Monday night at 8 o'clock and continuing through Friday.

Dr. Cleveland J. Bradner, Jr., of East Carolina College, will be the evangelist. Special music under direction of Miss Claudia Barnhill and Miss Gail Phillips of Oak Grove Christian Church will be presented. Mrs. Sam Gray will be pianist.

A song service for young people will be held each evening at 7:30 led by Miss Carol Fleming of the church. The public is invited to all services.

ALL BECAUSE OF A BIRD DEL MAR, Calif. (AP)—When a Del Mar woman goes out, she entrusts her parakeet to only one person, a teen-age girl she hires to stay home with the bird. But the girl's mother won't allow her daughter to be out alone. And that's why a baby-sitter is hired to sit with the bird-sitter while she sits with the bird.

Arthur Schwartz, noted composer of such Broadway song hits as "I Love Louisa" and "Alone Together" also is a lawyer.

Better Chance To Sell U.S. Goods In Britain

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Britain is giving American businessmen more of a chance to sell their goods there.

But it comes at a time when Americans are increasingly worried about their chances to sell their goods abroad — or even at home.

King Baudouin Is On Way Home

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Belgium's King Baudouin, impressed by the great heart and friendliness of the American people, flew home today, his three-week tour of the United States behind him.

The slender, bespectacled King, 49, still a bachelor, said he was sorry to go. He wrung the hand of everyone within reach, thanking all for "the great visit."

During the trip he dined with President Eisenhower, addressed Congress and danced with movie actress Debbie Reynolds.

He said in a prepared departure statement: "I shall always remember my visit to your country with warmth and affection."

Informally, sometimes in French but mostly in English, he told his well-wishers he had a wonderful time and wished he could stay even longer. "But I have a job to do in my own country," he said.

His last weekend was marred by death. Saturday night, aboard the aircraft carrier Randolph off the Virginia coast, he saw a Navy plane crash into the sea. Three airmen were killed.

Upset and saddened, Baudouin was taken by helicopter from the Randolph's deck and brought Sunday morning to the colonial capital of Williamsburg, Va.

From Williamsburg, the young King flew to Wilmington. He toured sites of the original Du Pont powder and chemical mills along historic Brandywine Creek.

At the airport, reluctant to leave, he murmured "goodbye" and "au revoir." Finally he read his formal departure statement.

home when in competition with cheaper foreign made products.

Many hold that rising prices of American made goods have been more effective than import curbs of other lands in cutting down the volume of American export trade.

The British are freeing more American products from import curbs and raising the quotas on others, such as autos, on which restrictions are still maintained.

But Americans haven't sold the full quota of autos and some other products even under the old rules. It may take hard selling to increase the volume despite the invitation implied by the relaxing of restrictions.

Many American products face stiff tariffs abroad, with or without quotas.

Some of these competing plants are American owned. U.S. corporations have invested billions since the war in building factories in England and West Europe. Most of these can sell products more cheaply than can the plants here of their parent companies.

It is for these reasons that many American businessmen doubt the British relaxation will bring any sudden increase of U.S. exports to the United Kingdom.

Last year England took about one billion dollars of American products and sold us $21 million dollars of theirs.

The British are now expected to push their demands that the United States lower some of its barriers against them.

Mentioned are U.S. import curbs on zinc, lead and oil, the high tariff on wool imports after a certain amount of it has come in each year, and the rejection of some low British bids for large electrical equipment to be installed here.

Move To Clear Up That Congressional Confusion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress, as some of its members and others have suspected, may not always know what it's doing.

What amounts to at least a partial confession of congressional fallibility on this score has come from the House Judiciary Committee.

It is a bill to make other bills say what they mean, or anyway to let congressmen know what they are reading.

"I'm surprised someone hasn't done something about this before now," observed Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.).

Bills are the raw material of the nation's laws.

Sometimes, however, they can be pretty cryptic.

For instance, H.R. 4345 says in its entirety:

"An act to repeal clause (9) of subdivision A of section 39 of the Bankruptcy Act (11 U.S.C. 76A (9)), respecting the transmission of papers by the referee to the clerk of the court.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that clause (9) of subdivision A of section 39 of the Bankruptcy Act (11 U.S.C. 76A (9)), as amended, is hereby repealed and clause (10) of such subdivision is renumbered (9)."

This means referees in bankruptcy would not have to transmit "forthwith" to court clerks various bonds and documents in their possession.

What Celler and his committee want to do is to change House rules to require that bills revising existing law also carry the wording of existing law, and by italics or other typographical devices show what the amendments actually would do.

Celler confesses he doesn't know what is in most bills that come to his committee by the thousands each session.

"I have to have somebody dig out the code (U.S. Codification of Laws) to find out what they refer to, and then tell me," he said.

The House years ago adopted what is known as the Ramseyer rule. This requires that existing changes in law be spelled out in committee reports on bills.

But no one until now has thought to apply the rule to bills.

Starting On New Refugee Village

WUPPERTAL, Germany (AP)—A Nobel Prize-winning Belgian priest presided Sunday over ground-breaking ceremonies for a refugee village named for Anna Frank, the young Jewish girl whose diary became a World War II classic.

Father Dominique Pire, who won the international peace prize last year, called on the audience to remember the words of the 15-year-old girl's diary:

"I believe in the inborn kindness of all mankind."

Anne wrote her diary during the two years she spent hiding from the Nazis with her family in an Amsterdam attic. She died in Bergen-Belsen concentration camp in 1945.

The new village for displaced persons is to house 20 families from eastern Europe who have been living in camps in Germany.

NO GAS, NO GO
PRYOR, Okla. (AP)—Someone was stealing gasoline from drums on the farm of Elmer Southern. So he filled the drums with water. A few nights later when he saw three boys pushing their car near his home, he telephoned the sheriff to pick them up. Officers found partially-empty drums in the car.

Plays Drums On His Birthday

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP)—Prince Rainier III played the drums far into Sunday night to celebrate his 36th birthday. His wife, Princess Grace, looked on indulgently.

Accompanying him at the guitar was Aristotle Onassis, the shipowner who owns part of Rainier's tiny principality.

The session was held in the select cabaret under the casino. The doors were closed to all but Rainier's party of 40.

Hollywood Palace, where Mary Queen of Scots, lived and ruled during the 16th Century, still stands in Edinburgh.

Deputy Premier To Open Exhibits

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov said Sunday night he would fly to New York June 28 to open the Russian Trade Exposition.

Kozlov said he would remain in America two weeks, visiting Washington, Detroit and San Francisco. Asked if he would make speeches in Washington or elsewhere, Kozlov said he probably would accept certain invitations.

Russell Asserts Atomic Plane Can Be Quickly Built

WASHINGTON (AP)—With high priority, the United States could be test-flying a atomic-powered bomber planes within 18 months, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said today.

"I know they can do it," the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee said in an interview. "It would cost a large sum, but not excessive when compared with some weapons systems now under way. They could get enough prototypes to have a real test."

Russell said the cost of such a program is a military secret.

He added that he doubts the Pentagon will yield to pressures from Capitol Hill to expedite the program on such a basis.

There has been a long-standing argument over whether this country should rush an atomic-powered plane to completion just to be ahead of the Soviets, or whether it should hold out for one with basic military usefulness.

Sunday Brawl Ends With Two Arrests

PACTOLUS—The boys were whooping it up at the Pactolus Inn yesterday afternoon and the peace officers called to investigate found several peppers with shot-gun pellets, including a member of the church congregation across the street.

The peace officers, Deputies Ralph Tyson and Gerald Davis, said they found an assortment of weapons including a shotgun, pistol, rifle, brick bat and knife among the crowd after the smoke cleared from the Sunday afternoon scene.

It all seemed to have developed from an argument between members of the Williams and Ward families, according to sheriff's department officials, but when it was all over, a Williams had shot a Williams and a member of each family was jailed on assault charges.

As near as the deputies could figure out after talking to dozens of persons at the scene, the brawl began when cars driven by Jessie Williams and Duke Ward collided in the Pactolus Inn parking area.

The two began arguing and A. J. Williams got hold of a shotgun which he fired into the air. Seeing this, John Ward grabbed a pistol out of a car and started shooting.

Then real bedlam broke loose. Shot from the gun being manned by A. J. Williams allegedly struck his brother, Jimmy Williams.

Columbus Sherrod, who was coming out of the church across the street, was also struck by pellets from a shotgun blast, according to the officers investigating.

Some of the churchgoers got in on the fight. Several persons received wounds but officers were unable to account for them all.

When the deputies completed their investigation they placed John Ward and A. J. Williams in jail on charges of assault.

Jimmy Williams and Sherrod were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital where they were treated. Deputies said the two are still in the hospital today but their injuries are not believed to be serious.

Damage in the auto collision which started the whole thing was minor, the sheriff's department said. All the participants were Negroes.

Four other persons were treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released.

Driver of the second auto, according to investigating Patrolman Howard Winslow, was Wilton Russell Williams, 49, of Nashville, N.C. Winslow estimated damage to Williams' car at $600 while he said the Evans vehicle was a total loss.

Winslow charged Evans with disregarding a stop sign and failure to yield the right of way. According to the patrolman, Evans was headed west on the rural paved road and pulled into the intersection in front of Williams who was headed north on N. C. 43.

Treated at the hospital in addition to Miss Buck were Kippie Williams and Betty Lou Cash, passengers in the Williams car. Williams and Betty Lou Campbell, a passenger in the Evans vehicle.

Three Firemen Attended Course

Three Greenville Firemen have just returned from a weeks intensive training at the North Carolina State Firemen's Association 31st Annual Fire College at the Charlotte Fire Department Training School held their last week.

Chief George W. Gardner and Lieut. Jennis Allen and Claude Christopher, training officers for the local department, attended the week-long school which ran from Monday to Friday.

The three officers attended many classes, some of which included dry powder extinguisher demonstrations, structural fire fighting procedure, aircraft fires, responsibilities that face the fire service, training under fire conditions, public relations, pre-planning, and lectures and demonstrations on fog and hose streams.

Chief Gardner pointed out that each year, the local department sends several men to this school and much valuable information is gained.

He also added the Greenville Department's training program, under the director of Christopher and Allen, is one of the best in the state and one of the few in Eastern Carolina which is not "just on paper."

AYDEN — Insurance adjusters 6:25 p.m., for one and one-half hours before it was stopped.

According to reports, the fire started in the attic and spread to the rear of the building, damaging several Sunday School rooms. The sanctuary received both smoke and water damage.

Firemen from Grifton and Winterville helped Ayden firemen battle the blaze, which started about 6:25 p.m., for one and one-half hours before it was stopped.

According to reports, the fire started in the attic and spread to the rear of the building, damaging several Sunday School rooms. The sanctuary received both smoke and water damage.

Insurance men theorized that an overloaded circuit caused the blaze. Large heaters, heating water for the baptistry, were in operation at the time of the fire and it is believed that these caused the overload.

Extensive remodeling was done to the building a short time ago.

AYDEN — Insurance adjusters 6:25 p.m., for one and one-half hours before it was stopped.

According to reports, the fire started in the attic and spread to the rear of the building, damaging several Sunday School rooms. The sanctuary received both smoke and water damage.

Firemen from Grifton and Winterville helped Ayden firemen battle the blaze, which started about 6:25 p.m., for one and one-half hours before it was stopped.

According to reports, the fire started in the attic and spread to the rear of the building, damaging several Sunday School rooms. The sanctuary received both smoke and water damage.

Insurance men theorized that an overloaded circuit caused the blaze. Large heaters, heating water for the baptistry, were in operation at the time of the fire and it is believed that these caused the overload.

Extensive remodeling was done to the building a short time ago.
