

Businessmen Told Little Can Be Done About Street Loiterers Waiting Jobs

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Businessmen from the Tenth St.-Grande and Dickinson Ave. area were told there is little that can be done legally concerning the problem of loitering on the sidewalks.

However, Mayor S. Eugene West appointed Councilmen Charles M. King and C. W. Harvey Jr. to a committee to work with W. C. Taylor Jr. on the problem.

Taylor had presented a petition signed by approximately 30 merchants and others representing the area asking that something be done about the problem.

It has been the practice for employers needing temporary laborers to hire them from the group who wait in the intersection area for employment.

The businessmen recommended in the petition that the city establish a labor pick-up station in a designated area where the temporary laborers could be hired by prospective employers.

However, City Attorney R. B. Lee told the delegation concerning the pick-up station, "I don't know if the city could expend funds for that purpose."

"It's a problem and if there is any way we can work it out I'd be glad to help."

So far as forcing the men to move from the present area, Lee said it is doubtful that could be done under the law.

"As long as they are on the sidewalk and not committing a crime, I don't know how we will prevent it."

"If they are drunk there are laws to handle it. If they are cursing there are laws that will handle it."

Lee said there are laws against loitering, but if the men were there looking for employment, it is doubtful that they could be applied.

Taylor replied that it is not the idea of the merchants of the section to get them all arrested, but to help them and help ourselves.

That was the reason for suggesting a labor pick-up station be established, he pointed out.

Taylor passed out photos showing the problem.

Malcolm Williams, another merchant from the area, told the councilmen, "I would like for any of you to come by my building on Saturday afternoon and see what it looks like. You would think we live on tobacco road instead of in the City of Greenville."

Senate Ready To Take Up Strauss

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate was ready today to start debate on the nomination of Lewis L. Strauss to be secretary of commerce.

Opposing sides drew their battle lines in majority and minority reports filed Thursday night by the Senate Commerce Committee.

The committee previously had divided 9-8 in recommending confirmation of Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. He has been serving since last November under a recess appointment.

Strauss' nomination, submitted to the Senate Jan. 17, has stirred up the hottest fight of any appointment made by President Eisenhower. The Senate is not expected to reach a vote on it before the week after next.

Senators generally have been predicting a close vote, with many agreeing a margin of one or two votes either way will decide the issue.

If all the 98 senators vote, Strauss would need 49 or 50 to win. Vice President Richard M. Nixon could break a deadlock in Strauss' favor if a 49-49 tie should develop.

Sen. William Langer (R-ND) has said he will not vote for Strauss. Langer is the only Senate Republican to announce such a stand. If all the other 33 Republican senators vote for Strauss, he still would have to get at least nine Democratic votes in addition to the seven already announced in his favor.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma Thursday became the seventh Democrat to announce support of the nominee. The other six are Sens. John O. Pastore (RI), Frank J. Lausche (OH), Dennis Chavez (NM), Strom Thurmond (SC), and Harry F. Byrd and A. Willis Robertson, both of Virginia.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told newsmen he probably will announce his stand at about the time the Senate reaches a vote. Asked if he thought Strauss will win, Johnson said, "I'll let the Senate decide on that."

The majority and minority reports largely echoed praise and criticism of Strauss voiced during lengthy hearings on the nomination.

Strauss' "honesty and integrity, competence, and his long record of cordial and willing cooperation with Congress" was established without doubt during the hearings, the majority report stated.

Strauss "is lacking in the degree of integrity and competence essential to proper performance of the duties of the office to which he has been nominated," the minority report said.

Safety Council Re-Elects Its Officers

SAFETY COUNCIL OFFICERS . . . Miss Cora Powell, Luther Moore, and Mrs. Polly Dail. Judge Charles Whedbee was not present at the time the picture was made.

Judge Charles Whedbee was re-elected President of the Pitt County Safety Council at their monthly meeting yesterday.

All other officers were re-elected also. They include: Luther Moore, Vice-president; Miss Cora Powell, Secretary and Mrs. Polly Dail, Treasurer.

Also at the meeting Luther Moore reported there were over 2,300 cars and trucks inspected at the council sponsored Vehicle Safety Check Lanes last week. This was over 1,000 more than have been inspected in Pitt County in any preceding voluntary safety checking program.

Three lanes were in operation in Greenville on Tuesday and Wednesday while one lane was in operation in Ayden, Farmville and Bethel on Thursday.

Carolyn Ginn and Lewis Henry Stocks III, both Greenville County high school graduates, were presented $100 Scholarships for taking first place in the boys and girls division of the district School Bus Rodeo which is sponsored annually by the Governors Committee on Traffic Safety. The scholarships for the district contest were given by Hackney Brothers Body Works of Wilson, and the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company of Winston-Salem.

The two winners will travel to Chapel Hill June 12-13 to compete in the state finals.

It was announced at the meeting that the National Carbon Plant on 14th St. has been presented the Award of Honor by the National Safety Council for 13 and one-half years of operation without a loss of time accident. This is the highest award presented by the National Council and less than six per cent of the organizations evaluated by the Council received the award.

The next meeting of the Pitt County Safety Council will be the first Thursday in September.

Herter Charges Soviet Goal Is To Clear Way For Berlin Grab

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter charged today that the Soviet Union's real purpose in the Big Four conference here is to strip West Berlin of the protecting presence of the Western powers and clear the way for its eventual annexation by Communist East Germany.

In a strongly worded speech to a conference session at the Palace of Nations, Herter told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko the Western powers will not abandon two million West Berliners or impose any new status upon them against their will.

The Big Four went into semi-public session after spending most of their fourth week here in secret talks at villas of the various ministers.

Information on Herter's speech became available while today's meeting was still in progress.

He said Gromyko stated some days ago that the preferred Soviet solution for the Berlin problem is annexation of the city to East Germany.

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko reportedly has hinted in secret talks that the Soviet Union may be willing to concede the rights of the Western allies to maintain their military garrisons in West Berlin indefinitely.

This is said to be one reason why U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other top Allied diplomats persist in thinking the Big Four conference may yet produce an East-West agreement on Berlin leading to a summit meeting.

The unguarded, underlying optimism apparently was not shaken by Gromyko's flat refusal Thursday to begin detailed negotiations to insure the free flow of Western traffic between West Berlin and West Germany.

The Western ministers asked for a guarantee of free access to West Berlin as a test of Soviet willingness to reach a compromise agreement in the Berlin crisis.

Gromyko said he would give the requested assurance if the West agreed to convert West Berlin into a demilitarized free city—a proposal the Western Allies have rejected because it would leave West Berlin defenseless.

The foreign ministers interrupted their informal private negotiations today for another of the formal, speechmaking sessions which have served mainly as propaganda forums.

Gromyko requested the formal meeting. Western diplomats speculated that he was marking time, waiting for instructions from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev on what any concessions to make to the West.

The development which seems to have impressed the Western ministers most during the week-long series of secret meetings has been that Gromyko talked at times as if the present Western position in Berlin might be maintained.

One highly placed informant said Gromyko showed some flexibility which did not appear in earlier public debates. He engaged in discussions, this informant said, which clearly implied that Moscow might agree on terms not yet indicated "to the maintenance of all Western rights in Berlin."

The Western ministers think one of Gromyko's main immediate objectives is to win prestige and the largest possible degree of recognition for the East German Communist regime. The Western powers recognize only West Germany, and informants said they do not intend to change the policy of non-recognition for East Germany.

But some authorities think Gromyko might achieve part of his purpose if the West agrees to the creation of one or more commissions to deal with all-German problems and accepts East German representatives on the commissions.

One current Western proposal would establish a Big Four body with East and West Berliners as members to deal with problems arising in the divided city after any stop-gap arrangement made here.

Compromise Court Reform Bill Due For Final Action

RALEIGH (AP)—The Senate was set today for final action on a compromise court reform bill and a proposed new constitution.

Both measures require three-fifths majorities in the Legislature before they can be presented to the state's citizens for their approval.

After the judicial bill was approved by a 40-7 vote on second reading Thursday, its chief promoter, Mecklenburg Sen. J. Spencer Bell told newsmen, "I'm as happy as a pig in a hog wallow. It's still a good, sound bill."

Sen. Lindsay C. Warren, major foe of the proposal, objected to a provision which gave the State Supreme Court administrative control over the court system.

His amendment, enabling the Legislature to veto Supreme Court regulations, erased most of the opposition to the proposal—a watered-down version of a court reform program recommended by a State Bar Assn. committee led by Bell.

The Senate defeated an amendment by New Hanover's Cicero Yow to enable the General Assembly to modify or amend Supreme Court rulings. Bell fought the Yow suggestion.

The Senate passed the revised constitution on second reading Thursday by a big 43-2 majority after an amendment was passed limiting big counties to one state senator.

The amendment passed 40-7 with big city senators lined up in solid opposition.

A similar amendment was approved by the Assembly several years ago, but the people rejected it in a statewide election.

The proposed constitution guarantees freedom of speech, increases legislative pay from $15 to $20 a day and outlines a plan of succession if the governor is incapacitated.

Adenauer Decides Stay Chancellor

BONN, Germany (AP)—Konrad Adenauer Thursday reversed his decision to step upstairs to West Germany's largely honorary presidency and decided to keep his iron grip on the country's policy by carrying on as chancellor.

Adenauer called an emergency meeting today of members of Parliament from his Christian Democratic Party to tell them of his surprise decision. A stormy session was indicated.

The 83-year-old government chief apparently changed his plans because he could not dictate his successor as chancellor. He favored quiet, unassuming Finance Minister Franz Eisel but a majority of the party supported the more aggressive Ludwig Erhard, who was vice chancellor and economic minister guided West Germany's amazing postwar recovery.

Erhard, now visiting the United States, was "most surprised" by Adenauer's change of plans and declined comment, a spokesman at the German embassy in Washington said.

"He just hasn't got enough information to make any comments," an aide explained. But Erhard reportedly had no intention of cutting short his visit to the United States and hurrying home.

The Christian Democrats' chief parliamentary whip, Will Rasner, said that Adenauer decided to stay as chancellor because he felt he could not be replaced as the government leader during the present international situation.

Some of Adenauer's followers openly grumbled that they could not figure out what new international factors had arisen to call for his abrupt about-face.

Only last week Adenauer had said he had no intention of reversing his decision to seek the presidency. He also said he hadn't decided on a successor but would pick one in full cooperation with his followers.

The opposition Socialists heaped scorn on the whole affair. They said it showed how mixed up the Christian Democrats were about the succession to Adenauer.

The race for the West German presidency showed signs of turning into a real contest with Adenauer out of the field and his party divided. Christian Democrat candidate, Carlo Schmid, and the Free Democrat candidate, Max Becker, didn't look so bright.

Adenauer had been an overwhelming favorite to succeed 75-year-old Theodor Heuss, who is to retire in September after completing two five-year terms as president. The constitution bars a third term.

There was a possibility the Christian Democrats might seek a postponement of the election, scheduled for July 1, to give them more time to agree on a candidate.

Adenauer told Heinrich Krone, the parliamentary floor leader, that he is now backing Eisel for the presidency. Some months ago attempts were made to persuade Erhard to run, but he refused to be kicked upstairs and out of the running for chancellor some day.

Giant Eight-Jet Bombers Slated For Air Base

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—An intercontinental bomber that flies automatically to target, drops its bombs with pinpoint accuracy, and which carries missiles to blast defense installations out of the way before it gets to enemy territory.

That's the claim made by Boeing Airplane Co. of Wichita, Kan. for its B52G eight-jet bomber, 15 of which are due to arrive this summer at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base here.

The plane, a weapon of the Strategic Air Command, will be based here. They are equipped to carry the air-to-ground Hound Dog missiles.

Seymour Johnson released a description of the bomber of J. J. Clark, Boeing's chief engineer. It said the plane's complex computer system coordinates radar and astrocompass information to insure that the plane takes the shortest course to its objective. The bombing-dropping system also is electronically controlled.

Pitt CD Council To Be Asked Appoint A Treasurer

Pitt County's Civil-Defense Council will be asked, probably next week, to appoint a treasurer to handle receipts and disbursements for surplus federal property purchased for Civil Defense purposes.

The Civil Defense Director J. H. Rose said last night he will make that recommendation to the CD council. Rose spoke to members of the Grimesland-Simpson Ruritan Club and representatives of rural fire departments in Simpson, Eastern Pines and Grimesland communities.

Rose also said he will recommend that all bills for surplus property purchased for Civil Defense purposes be paid for, by check, by the council's treasurer.

A property officer from state Civil Defense headquarters will come to Pitt County in the near future, Rose said, to check surplus materials thus far and determine proper storage places for it until buildings for the three rural fire departments can be constructed.

Rose was asked to speak to representatives of the three fire departments as a result of a story in last Friday's edition of The Daily Reflector, in which was published results of the newspaper's inquiry into procedures for purchasing surplus property.

"I do want us to get a starting place (for completing organization of the rural fire departments)," Rose said. "We can get that if the property officer will come from Raleigh and tell us where to put the equipment."

J. C. Galloway of the Simpson fire department told Rose that equipment for the Simpson unit has been loaded on the truck purchased through the surplus property program and is ready to be checked.

"I would like to get it checked as soon as possible," he said. "I don't mind storing it, but I would like to get it checked."

Galloway claimed that the newspaper's story has hurt development of the department.

"People who might help don't want anything to do with it," he said.

He pointed out that farms in the area have been assessed to help finance the program. He added that while some of the assessments have been collected, he also said, "We'll have a devil of a time collecting some others."

Linwood Edwards, treasurer of the Simpson organization, said that approximately $150 has been collected thus far. That amount is in addition to what has been contributed by the Ruritan Club.

Robert G. Little, a member of the Board of County Commissioners and county surplus property purchasing officer who introduced Rose, said that Galloway is one member of the Simpson unit who has equipment purchased for the department stored on his farm.

"He has kept much of it under lock and key," Little said. "I would not put any of it anywhere it isn't safe."

Rose suggested that the problems regarding storage of the equipment could be cleared up by a visit from the state Civil Defense property control office.

"I don't think there is any problem the property officer couldn't settle," Rose said. "Let the federal representative work out where it can be stored. The important thing is what you will do in the future."

"I think what you are doing is important. . . I think we ought to have rural fire departments, but if you are going to do a thing, do it right. Don't wait for five years to get all the parts, there is a need now. . . $3,000 would get the two units (Simpson and Eastern Pines) going. I say don't wait for the rag-tag (surplus) from Raleigh. . ."

"You won't have a decent unit until you have a place to locate it," Rose, Grimesland Mayor W. Leslie Elks and others suggested that appropriations by the Board of County Commissioners would help the program.

Elks said, "I think if the county made a small donation, we would feel freer in running all over the county when we are called."

The Grimesland mayor said he did not feel his community would have any problem in organizing its fire department, in that it is an incorporated town. He said Grimesland could handle storage problems without a great deal of trouble.

Grimesland presently has an order in for a truck through the surplus property program. Eastern Pines and Simpson already have trucks.

Minges Appointed To Utilities Body

Dr. Ray D. Minges, Greenville, surgeon, last night was appointed to the Utilities Commission by the City Council.

Dr. Minges takes the place of J. T. Marston who notified Mayor S. Eugene West that he would be unable to accept appointment to the commission.

The mayor read a letter from Marston at last night's meeting in which he said he would be unable to serve because of other business commitments.

Marston had been appointed by the old City Council as a last act before the new Council was sworn in. He was to have the place of John Clark whose term expired during the spring.

The Utilities appointment was one of four made by the council at last night's meeting.

Tom Chapin was named to the Planning and Zoning Commission replacing Louis Gaylord who relinquished his position on that commission upon appointment to the Board of Education.

Mrs. L. W. Edwards and Ford McGowan were re-appointed to the Recreation Commission for three-year terms.

Dr. Minges, 39 years old, was born in Catawba County and moved to Greenville with his family when he was five years old.

Spenders Ready To Assail Budget

RALEIGH (AP)—Free spenders in the fields of welfare and education were set to open fire today on the state's 927 million dollar budget bill, scheduled for House action.

An identical measure was on the Senate calendar, but that body was not expected to take it up today.

The measure was placed on the top of the calendar after a brief floor argument Thursday. Several legislators said they wanted more time to study the bill which was worked over for four months by the Joint Appropriations subcommittee and full committee.

The finished product of the committee action called for spending slightly more than 1½ million dollars above expected revenues during the next biennium.

The biggest attack on the budget which represents spending requests about 30 million dollars higher than original administration recommendations, was expected for lawmakers wanting to give teachers a bigger pay increase and those wanting to stave off a curtailment in welfare assistance payments.

The budget provides for a teacher pay increase of about 5 per cent, with the possibility of another 5 per cent if state revenues permit.

Hail Damage In Parts Of County

There were reports of hail damage yesterday for several sections of Pitt County.

Hail was reported in the Penny Hill section on the Pitt-Edgecombe County line. The hail streak was said to be partially in Pitt County and it extended into Edgecombe County.

Hail was also said to have done crop damage in an area near television station WNCT's offices on Evans St. Ext.

Hail is reported to have struck in the Simpson area yesterday. There was also some hail around Hookerton in Greene County, according to information reaching the Reflector.

Pastry Expert

MRS. CLIFTON EVERETTE . . . Bethel mayor's wife, cooks many types of pastries and believes one should follow a recipe implicitly.

By ROSALIE MOORE
Reflector Staff Writer

Mrs. Clifton Everette, mother of three children, hopes to teach her 12-year-old daughter, Janet, the fundamentals of house work and the duties of a good homemaker this summer.

During her daughter's training period she will be taught how to cook steak and fried chicken, two of the favorite meats cooked at the Everette home.

Since Mrs. Everette likes to cook cakes and pies, such as pineapple, coconut and devil's food or apple and chocolate, pastries rate high on the list of items which Mrs. Everette enjoys fixing for her family. "Chicken tetrazzini is a dish which I enjoy preparing for a change in our weekly menu," she stated.

Adding, she said, "Cooking-out is the easiest way, to me, in which to entertain friends."

A native of Bethel, Mrs. Everette enjoys small town living in preference to city life.

Being a mother to Cliff, 16, Amy Lou, 4, and Janet is a full-time job for Mrs. Everette.

Secondary things in Mrs. Everette's life include being a member of a book and bridge club, reading and collecting recipes.

Her husband, mayor of Bethel, gives his priority to paving as many streets as the budget will allow in Bethel.

During informal conversation with her husband, Mrs. Everette also noted that he hopes to extend drainage and sewer lines for the town and improve park facilities for the enjoyment of the citizens.

S-t-r-e-t-c-h-i-n-g Dollars

Eggs continue to top the list of economical food buys for food shoppers. Small, medium and large eggs are all available in good supply. For protein food use eggs during the salad season when warm weather makes cool meals welcome.

Supplies of heavy hens are large and prices are extremely low. Broiler prices remain steady and supplies are plentiful. Turkeys are also large and prices very reasonable.

At the meat counters of local markets, homemakers will find that pork prices have shown a slight increase and are expected to continue on a gradual upward trend for the next few weeks. Beef prices remain about steady.

North Carolina dewberries are ripe and at their peak, with strawberries from this section about gone. Cantaloupes and watermelons are making their usual early appearance. Bananas are remaining a steady fruit buy at the produce counters, with citrus supplies dwindling as the fresh season closes.

Total supplies of vegetables are lighter than a week ago. Potatoes are in good supply. Sweet corn, snap beans, yellow squash, head lettuce and celery are good fresh vegetable choices this week. Tomato and cucumber quality and prices are improving each week.

Miss Briley Honored At Shower

Miss Carolyn Briley, who is to be married Sunday, was honored Monday night at a floating shower, given by Misses Ann Peaden, Jerry McDaniel and Cathryn Radcliffe, at the latter's home on Fourth St.

Guests were greeted by the hostesses and introduced to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Lyman Briley, and Mrs. R. C. Fields, mother of the bridegroom-elect. Miss Briley was presented a corsage and a gift of her chosen

Library To Have Reading Club

Registration for the summer reading club at the Sheppard Memorial Library began Monday, June 1. Over 150 children have already joined the club and more are expected to join before registration ends on June 13.

Each member of this reading program is required to read 15 books before July 31, in order to receive a certificate. If more books are read this will be acknowledged by a gold seal added to the certificate. Registration is limited to children who have completed the first six grades.

Since this club is designed for the purpose of reading improvement, only books approved by the librarians are accepted for credit. Although no written or oral reports are required, the members must have their parents' signature for each book read.

The theme for the reading club this summer is "Read Your Way to the Moon." A large chart showing the moon in the universe has been placed in the children's room of the library. After reading five acceptable books the individual's rocket bearing his name is "launched" on the chart and moves as his reading progresses.

Gardening Today

By JOHN G. DUNCAN
Azaleas and pyracanthas are victims of extensive damage caused by the lace bug and mites.

Lace bug injury is a graying of the upper surface of the leaf. Upon examination you will find numerous specks of shiny black excrement on lower surface. This pest hatches about the middle of spring. You may have seen a pyracantha that seemed healthy become a dusty, dry, gray plant. Upon examination you will find this insect at work.

Mites cause the foliage to look similar to that of the lace bug's work. If the mites are numerous the leaves may turn red or bronze.

You should start to examine the azalea leaves early. A sure method of finding this pest (even before leaves have any noticeable discoloration) is to hold a clean piece of white paper under leaves and tap the foliage with your hand. If mites are present you should see a scurrying of small dots across the paper. The sooner the spraying starts, the better chance of cutting down on the next infestation. These pests can cause trouble all during the season unless checked.

To Control Lace Bug
Spray underside of leaf with Malathion (57 per cent emulsifiable liquid), one teaspoon to one gallon of water or 4 tablespoons of Malathion (25 per cent wettable powder) to one gallon of water. Spray again in 10 days and when needed.

To Control Mites
Spray underside of leaf. Use 1 and one-half teaspoons of Malathion (57 per cent emulsifiable liquid) to one gallon of water or two and one-half tablespoons of (25 per cent wettable powder) Malathion to one gallon of water. Check once a week and spray if infestation has not been cleared up.

In using this material always read and follow directions and printed precautions on containers. Treat all insecticides with caution.

CONGRATULATIONS FOR SAFETY AWARD . . . Frank P. Preissle, Plant Manager congratulates Keith Kerr, Chairman of the Plant Safety Committee, for its achievement while members of the Safety Committee look on.

The Award of Honor has been presented to the National Carbon Company by the National Safety Council for its outstanding safety program.

The Award of Honor is the highest recognition given by the National Safety Council an outstanding record of safety. It was presented to the local company for operating for 13 and one-half years without a loss-time injury, a total of 3,812,999 man-hours.

In 1958 the award was given to only six percent of the organizations evaluated by the council.

The Greenville plant has also received a bronze bar from the of Labor in recognition of their North Carolina State Department safety program.

Honor Student Admits Strangling 3-Year-Old

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A high school honor student confessed Thursday night that he strangled the 3-year-old daughter of a University professor when she resisted his advances.

"I did it," Edward Cooney Jr., 15, quietly told a detective who was participating in a house-to-house search for the missing child. He then led the detective to the basement of his home where they found the body of Beck Holt, 3, stuffed in a closet. She was fully clothed.

Cooney met the detective on the sidewalk as he returned from church. He said he confessed to a priest and the priest told him it was the boy's obligation to tell authorities.

For hours police and volunteers had been looking for Beck, who hadn't been seen since early afternoon. As news of the tragedy spread through the residential area, neighbors converged on the Cooney home, only six doors from the Holt house.

Says Delinquents Enjoy Their Role

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Juvenile delinquents enjoy being juvenile delinquents, says the nation's top man in scouting.

"It's very difficult to get them to give up juvenile delinquency once they've got started," Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, told a news conference.

"But if you have a constructive program, as we feel we have, you can keep the numbers down."

Schuck said too much emphasis has been placed on juvenile delinquents because "people get the wrong impression when this 2 per cent is played up. The future depends on the 98 per cent who stay out of trouble."

Jeering Note Nailed To Vance Courthouse Door

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—A jeering note to the end of a five-week term of court for strike violence cases was found nailed to the Vance County Courthouse door here today.

Secured to a withered wreath of purple and white flowers was a pencilled note on a fragment of ruled note paper.

The paper, with its original spelling, read: "With a hand pick mayor and judge to run a kangaroo court to enforce unjust laws against enoson people to carry out Coopers dick-laship, we think the justest of Vance County is 'dead'."

John D. Cooper is the president of the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills, where the Textile Workers Union of America has been on strike for more than 6½ months. Mayor Carroll V. Singleton has been embroiled in controversy with union leaders. The mayor issued a strongly worded invita-

Ex-POW Must Leave Country

Franz Rossmel, escaped prisoner of war who hid from U.S. officials for 14 years, must leave this country or be deported. A U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service examiner ruled Thursday he is in this country illegally because he has no visa.

He now knows his wartime wife and daughter are still alive and well. But his Dutch wife, Anna, has remarried again and their daughter, Brunhilde, now 17, says she might like to see her real father—but just once.

The World War II German army officer said he walked nonchalantly out the front gate of Camp Butner, N.C., in August, 1945, determined to stay in this country. Rossmel, now 53, balding and afflicted by arthritis, agreed to voluntarily leave the United States, but vowed he would not go far away.

Rossmel, once a trained linguist with Rommel's Afrika Korps, said he lived quietly, anonymously, in Chicago as "Frank Ellis" for 14 years after his escape. He surrendered to agents of the FBI here last May 10, after coming to Cincinnati to seek work.

Hospital Strike Spreads Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The strike of nonprofessional employees against hospitals here spread today to a seventh, the Flower & Fifth Avenue Hospitals.

Local 1199 of the Retail Drug Employees Union posted pickets outside the hospital in upper Manhattan.

The union said that Flower & Fifth Avenue hospitals went back on a contract agreement. It said the agreement had provided for union recognition, arbitration and grievances, wage increases and a no-strike pledge.

The strike against the first six hospitals started for weeks ago in a move to win union recognition, which the hospitals refused.

The struck hospitals have continued operating with volunteer and substitute workers.

Plastic Sheet Suffocates Two

NEW YORK (AP)—Two babies—one in the Bronx and one in Staten Island—were suffocated Thursday by plastic sheeting.

They were Nancy Lynn Walton, 2 months old, and Migdalia Perez, 4 months old.

A warning has been issued by the plastic industry that plastic bags should be kept away from children.

The National Safety Council recorded 20 child deaths in the first three months of this year from plastic bags.

Daughter Spent $215 In Her Hour

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Richard O. Haynes viewed his daughter's new possessions with mixed emotions today.

Daughter Charlotte, 12, was ecstatically happy. That was good. The $215.37 drubbing Haynes' bank balance took was another thing.

A month ago Charlotte expressed the wish that on her birthday she could go into one of Seattle's largest department stores with her mother's charge-a-plate and buy anything she wanted for a full hour.

Good idea decided Haynes, an insurance company executive, and his wife, figuring the tab would come to $50 at the outside.

They had their little girl, the youngest of two daughters, misjudged.

When the appointed hour came around Wednesday, Charlotte ran into the store with the charge-a-plate and started buying. The store clerks had been alerted.

A busy hour later Charlotte had $215.37 worth of new toys, clothes and stuffed animals. Mrs. Haynes had fun watching the proceedings. Haynes was figuring out his new bank balance, with mixed emotions.

Scholarship For Lawmaker's Son

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles Raper Jonas Jr., 18-year-old son of the lone Republican member of the North Carolina congressional delegation today receives a four-year scholarship to the University of North Carolina.

The award was granted by the Morehead Foundation, established by John Motley Morehead, Rye, N.Y., an alumnus of the university. Morehead, 88, will make the scholarship presentation.

Similar scholarships will also be received by Jim Reston, son of James Reston, chief of the Washington bureau of the New York Times, and Fred Dashiell, whose father, Dick, was a football star at Carolina in the 1930's.

Jonas, an outstanding athlete at St. Albans School here, will be third generation of his family to attend Carolina. His father and both grandfathers were graduated from the university.

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Aggressor forces, aided by rain and fog, were victorious as the largest Army - Air Force maneuvers since the Korean War ended today.

An unexpected heavy ground fog cut short the final phase of the 16-day Exercise Dark Cloud-Pine Cone II, involving 17,000 men. This called for an airdrop of about nine million pounds of equipment and more than 5,000 U.S. paratroopers.

Charge Hotel Refused Rooms

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Two Negro ministers have charged the Statler-Hilton Hotel here with refusing them rooms after first taking their reservations.

The Rev. J. Lowell Ware of Birmingham, Ala., and the Rev. C. H. Williams of Detroit, Mich., asked $15,000 damages each in a suit filed here.

They say the hotel accepted their reservations for the June, 1957, National Baptist Convention here, then refused the rooms when the men appeared.

The ministers charge the hotel with breach of contract and assert they were inconvenienced by having to take rooms at Negro hotels eight miles from the convention site.

The hotel has not filed an answer.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—I Kings 21:1-22:40

Naboth, the Jezreelite, owned a vineyard which was near the palace of King Ahab of Samaria. Ahab asked Naboth to sell him his vineyard, but Naboth would not part with the land of his ancestors.—I Kings 21:1-4.

King Ahab was so disappointed not to obtain possession of the vineyard that he went into his house, threw himself upon his bed, turned his face to the wall, and refused to eat.—I Kings 21:4.

When Ahab told his wife, Jezebel, that Naboth would not sell the land to him, she told him to be cheerful and eat, for she would manage to get the vineyard for him by some means.—I Kings 21:7

By trickery Jezebel caused the death of Naboth. The prophet Elijah told Ahab that because of her evil deed, Jezebel would die a violent death.—I Kings 21:8-23.

ELIJAH REBUKES KING AHAH FOR HIS COVETOUSNESS

Scripture—I Kings 21

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE SIN of covetousness is the subject of today's lesson. We may all, young and old, have these feelings of wanting something very much which is owned by another. If we cannot afford to purchase it for ourselves, we may decide to forget about it, or plan to obtain it by saving our money until we can buy it.

In our lesson, however, the man who wanted something he could not get legally, was weak. He listened to a plan which his wicked wife suggested to him, and got what he wanted by trickery.

The covetous man was Ahab, king of Samaria. It seems that a man by the name of Naboth owned a vineyard which adjoined the palace of the king, and Ahab wanted to obtain it and make it a garden of herbs. He asked Naboth to sell it to him, but Naboth refused, saying, "The Lord forbid it me, that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee."—I Kings 21:1-3.

The king was so disappointed with Naboth's answer that he went home, lay down on his bed, turned his face to the wall and refused to eat, just like a spoiled

Then "the word of the Lord came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying, Arise, go down to meet Ahab king of Israel: behold, he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone down to possess it. And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, . . . Hast thou killed, and wilt thou possess?"—I Kings 21:17-19.

And the Lord told Elijah to tell Ahab that he would die a dreadful death, as would his wicked wife, Jezebel. Elijah obeyed the Lord's command and when he met Ahab the king said: "Hast thou found me, O mine enemy? And he answered, I have found thee: because thou hast sold thyself to work evil in the sight of the Lord."—I Kings 21:20.

When Ahab heard the Lord's condemnation, "he rent his clothes, and put sackcloth upon his flesh, and fasted, and lay in sackcloth, and went softly. And the word of the Lord came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying, Seest thou how Ahab humbleth himself before Me? because he humbleth himself before Me, I will not bring evil in his days: but in his son's days will I bring the evil upon his house."—I Kings 21:27-29.

So the Lord relented in part child might do. His wife, Jezebel, came to him asking, "Why is thy spirit so sad, that thou eatest no bread?"—I Kings 21:4-5.

When he told her that he could not buy the land he wanted, she said: "Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel? arise, and eat bread, and let thine heart be merry: I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite."—I Kings 21:7.

Then this conscienceless woman wrote letters in Ahab's name to the elders and nobles of the city, saying, "Proclaim a fast, and set Naboth on high among the people."—I Kings 21:8-9.

Then she got two wicked men to accuse Naboth of blaspheming God and king, and to order him to die. It was done as she planned, and after the two men testified against Naboth, he was stoned to death.

When Jezebel was told that Naboth was dead, she said to Ahab, "Arise, take possession of the vineyard of Naboth . . . for Naboth is not alive, but dead."—I Kings 21:15.

Nine Enlisting With Air Force

Nine Greenville-area residents have completed local processing for enrollment in the Air Force, Staff Sgt. Norman G. Dean announced today.

The group includes three persons who re-enlisted. They are H. H. Justice Jr., 209 Millbrook St., Greenville; Cuthbert M. Cuthrell, Washington; and Daniel W. Gray Jr., Windsor. In addition, one prior-service veteran was enlisted for Air Force duty. He is Joseph E. Pale of Rt. 3, Williamson.

Mack Wyatt Churchill, 2519 South Dickinson Ave., Greenville, has qualified for training as an Air Force navigator and is expected to leave August 1 for preliminary training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

Dorothy White, a 1959 graduate of East Carolina College who lives on Rt. 1, Scotland Neck, has passed all examinations for direct commission as a second lieutenant in the WAF.

Three persons were enlisted by Sergeant Dean for training in electronics. They are Jesse Jacob Joyner Jr., Farmville; Jesse Aaron Davenport, Williamston; and Russell Earl Johnson, Roxobel.

Auto Workers warned the audience that America, for its own survival, must:

End racial discrimination, improve the quality of education, expand foreign aid, utilize its economic potential and revitalize its intellectual climate.

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, told the national convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs Thursday night: "Most of the people of the world are dark skinned, and they include 90 per cent of the uncommitted people who in the ultimate struggle between the forces of freedom and tyranny will hold the balance."

"They will either tip in our way, in favor of freedom; or they will tip the other way, in favor of the forces of tyranny which destroy these basic values," he said.

"As we face these people in the world, we need to get our credentials in order. You ought to sit down with peasants in India and try to explain Little Rock."

Half an hour earlier, the 3,000 delegates heard Charles R. Sligh Jr., executive vice president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers. Sligh said labor leaders are invoking the power of unions — which he described as the strongest political force in the country — to promote personal political aims.

Reuther did not refer to Sligh's assertion in his speech.

Plant Claiming A Safety Record

GREENSBORO (AP) — The Western Electric Co. plant here has claimed a safety record of 19,410,000 consecutive man-hours — about seven years — without a disabling injury.

The company said the old record was set by a Westinghouse plant in Sunbury, Pa. It's mark was 19,408,656.

Probe Mystery Of Old Bomber

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — A special team of investigators has been charged with looking into the wartime crash of an American Liberator bomber in the Libyan desert 16 years ago, the U.S. Air Force reported today.

It said the discovery of the big bomber in the trackless wastes has presented one of the greatest air mysteries of modern times.

The World War II craft was discovered recently lying fully visible on hard-packed sand 380 miles south of Benghazi by a geological research team of a prospecting oil company.

According to the Air Force announcement today, the question facing investigators is whether any of the crew survived. If so, where are they? If not, where are the remains?

Capt. Myron D. Fuller and Mrs. Wesley A. Neep of the U.S. Army Mortuary Service plan to go to the scene to find an answer.

Flight gear and fatigue clothing still hang from their original places inside the plane. Water jugs are still full. Guns and ammunition are untouched and so are papers and logbooks.

The Liberator was part of a large U.S. bomber fleet operating from North African bases in World War II. The Air Force said it probably was turning from a high-altitude mission against Naples when it crashed under undetermined circumstances.

Russian College Grads Rapped

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet colleges and universities are sending 340,000 graduates out into the world this year and some of them don't want to go too far from the old alma mater.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, protested today that some of the graduates are grumbling about taking jobs in the provinces, where life is tougher. Students get salaries while attending Soviet institutions of higher learning, and are expected to work for several years wherever the government assigns them after graduation.

Long Time On Municipal Board

By DON METCALF Staff Writer

Written For The Associated Press
MEBANE, N.C. (AP) — The fact that he may hold a record for service on a municipal governing board has little significance for Ben F. Warren, Sr., who could well hold the title of "Mr. Mebane."

It is thought that his 42 years of continuous service on the Mebane Town Board of Commissioners may be a state record.

However, Warren attaches little importance to this fact, emphasizing that, to him, the important thing is that he has been able to serve his community during that time.

Coincident with his service on the town board is Warren's progress in the business field. He began his career in 1904 as the operator of a spring coiling machine with the Mebane Co., and today he holds the titles of president and treasurer of this mattress and spring manufacturing firm which distributes its products in seven southeastern states.

Now 75 years of age, Warren shows no sign of decreasing activity in the business or municipal fields. He still follows an active schedule at the Mebane Co. and recently was re-elected to another two-year term on the town board of commissioners.

In regard to his long service on the board, he says that he has continued to seek re-election at the end of each term at the request of friends.

"I'll just let the future take care of itself," he said in regard to a question concerning any possible plans for retirement. "I guess I'll stay on the board until they throw me off."

In looking back over his period of service on the board, Warren points out that the commissioners have had to face few major issues since he began his service in 1917, and that there has been "a peaceful bunch" on the board throughout the years.

He also recalls that there have been few close elections in Mebane. Bearing this out in recent years is the fact that the mayor and commissioners have been unopposed in seeking re-election in the last two elections.

Warren has never had a desire to serve as mayor and has never sought this position, stating that serving on the board "is as high as I want to go."

He regards as his most satisfying achievement on the board the part he played in refinancing the big bond issue on which the town defaulted in 1929. This was done without a loss to investors, he proudly points out.

This bond issue, totalling more than $600,000 was floated about 10 years earlier to pave streets and construct a water system after Durham Hosiery Co. planned to expand and build a million dollar plant in Mebane.

The company had to abandon its expansion plans in the business recession of 1920, but the town went ahead with its street and water programs and found itself in difficult financial straits for the next 10 years.

The construction of Lake Michael as the town's water supply several years ago also is a source of satisfaction for Warren. This facility has a capacity of more than 300,000,000 gallons and is expected to take care of the town's water needs for many years in the future.

Warren proudly declares that Mebane now is in good financial shape, with its only expenses consisting of bond payments and funds for current operating expenditures.

He points out that the board now has no major issues to consider, since the town has an adequate water supply, most of its streets are paved, it has no parking problem and is not faced with expansion problems or other issues which are a constant source of concern to governing boards of most larger cities. He recalls that Mebane has not extended its limits since around 1908 or 1910.

Warren attributes the smoothness of the town's operations in great part to the work of Arthur M. Michael, who serves in the capacity of town manager, and Mayor Marvin Walker, who is now in his third term. Michael has held his position for more than 30 years, and the new town lake was named for him in recognition of his service.

Warren is a native of the Corbett community in Caswell County and moved to Mebane and joined the staff of the Mebane Co. in January of 1905, about four months after the company began operations.

He worked in the shop for about six months, and then joined the office staff to do general office work and bookkeeping. He became secretary and treasurer in 1907 and assumed the presidency in 1948.

He is married to the former Lula Holmes of Orange County, and they have one son, Ben Jr., who is employed by the Mebane Company.

Red Label Gone, But His Neighbors Remain Cool

CHICAGO (AP) — For 16 years Joseph Poskonka — branded as a Communist — endured the beatings, insults, sneers and scoffs of his neighbors.

Suddenly, less than a month ago before a House subcommittee he told the world, and more especially his friends, that the Red label was a disguise. He really was an FBI informer, supplying them information on Communist activities in labor unions.

He hoped then the hate would disappear, that he could walk down the street and find a friendly hello instead of a vacant stare. He says he didn't. Now he is bitter.

"I guess I was foolish to believe that. Out of the whole block, just one guy, only one, has come up to shake hands," Poskonka told a newsmen Wednesday.

His wife, Antoinette, 55, agreed. "It's ignorance, that's all it is"

she said with a slight Polish accent. "These people have hated us so long they don't know how to change."

But some of Poskonka's stockyards district neighbors had different things to say.

"This is an old Polish neighborhood," said one. "They'll never admit they're wrong. No one has a good word to say about anyone else."

Another declared he never did shun the 57-year-old Poskonka. "I don't have anything to do with my neighbors. I just mind my own business."

A third said the Communist guise had nothing to do with Poskonka's complaint at all. "It's his personality," she said. "He never did have a lot of friends. He's not too friendly himself."

Poskonka, who was unable to hold a job before, works now as an $80 a week employee in the county clerk's office.

He says he's thought of moving out of the stockyards neighborhood, "but it isn't easy."

Diamond Brooch Merely A Gift

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Debbie Reynolds says she can't understand the fuss over a diamond brooch given her by a wealthy Texan.

"All this excitement is completely unnecessary," the actress told newsmen Thursday. "I'm not engaged or in love with anyone."

The actress returned Thursday from a 10-day trip to New York, where she plugged three movies and a new record album. She said Bob Neal, heir to a coffee fortune and a family friend for eight years, escorted her to plays while she was in New York.

In New York, Neal confirmed that the brooch was just a friendship token. He said he and Debbie never discussed an engagement or marriage.

Have Had Enough Of Flower Calls

MAYWOOD, N.J. (AP) — Roses are red, violets are blue. But police here have had enough of flower calls.

A week ago the local weekly newspaper advertised for persons with garden troubles to call the county agriculture extension service. But the ad carried the police phone number by mistake. About 150 persons called headquarters with horticultural complaints.

The police hope a correction in the paper will get them off the hook.

Chisox Battled
Over 4.5 Hours

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox held the top rung in the American League today and nobody ever worked harder — in a single game — to gain it.

The Pale House, now leading Cleveland by one half game, struggled 4 hours and 37 minutes against Baltimore Thursday before Earl Torgeson's solo homer with two out in the 17th inning provided a 6-5 triumph.

It was the season's longest game in the majors.

"It will be a miracle if I sleep tonight," said weary Manager Al Lopez when the White Sox staggered to victory after wasting opportunity after opportunity in the marathon contest.

Three times, in the 8th, 10th and 13th innings, the Sox had the bases loaded with one out but frittered away their chances to sew up the game. Twice a potential winning run was thrown out at the plate.

Was this overtime decision perhaps a turning point in Chicago's erstwhile spasmic pennant bid? The White Sox Friday night open a four-game set against the struggling Boston Red Sox.

Lopez commented: "It's hard to say that any one game this early in the season could be a turning point. But it's nice to be on top no matter how you get there."

Around the Winged Foot Golf Club there is an air of intense preparation for the coming U.S. Open golf championship. The famous West Course, where the championship will be played, is being carefully groomed by greens superintendent Sherwood Moore and his staff to give what promises to be one of the greatest of all Opens a fitting setting. In the clubhouse and around the locker room, the veteran members recall the famous 12-foot, curling putt Bobby Jones sank on the 72nd hole to tie Al Espinosa in the 1929 Open. Perhaps it wasn't the greatest putt in the Open's long history, but it must rate as one of the most dramatic. A hushed crowd of 10,000 had the good fortune to be on hand when the ball dropped into the cup.

Jones went on to beat Espinosa by 23 strokes in the 36-hole play-off, but that was an anti-climax. The dramatic moments were packed into the seconds Jones took to

New Grid Coach
For Rocky Mount

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — Chris Carpenter, former University of North Carolina football player and assistant coach here for two years, was named head football coach today at Rocky Mount Senior High School.

He replaces Don Hipps, who resigned recently to coach at the new Garinger High School in Charlotte.

The 29-year-old Carpenter was a starting lineman on the 1930 UNC Cotton Bowl team. He was in the Marine Corps from 1950 to 1953 and was graduated from UNC in 1955.

A Scranton, Pa. native, he grew up in Holly Hill, S.C. He is married to the former Martha Black of Sanford. They have one child, Jim Horn was promoted to head baseball coach to replace Carpenter in that job.

Busy Role
For Hal
As A ScoutBy CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — The big business of baseball scouting is typified by Hal Newhouse, former Detroit Tigers pitching great.

Hal has driven more than 1,000 miles in the last several days as a supervisor scout of the Baltimore Orioles, looking over high school talent in state tournaments in Akron, Nashville, Lexington, Ky., and the Illinois meet at Bradley University.

"I think the best time to watch a boy is in pre-game practices," said Newhouse, who combs a 10-state Midwest area. "During a game you might never get a chance to see an outfielder throw, or maybe not even do much running. You can get a pretty good line on them in pre-game drills."

"The two most important things in my book when I watch a youngster is his running and throwing ability. If he hasn't got much in these departments, then he has to be awfully powerful at the plate to get consideration."

"As for a pitcher, I rate his poise No. 1. If he has no awkwardness on the mound and if he keeps his head under pressure, I'll keep looking. The next thing he has to show me is speed, and if he has any stuff on his fast ball."

"The curve is the last thing I consider. You can teach a boy to throw a curve or a slider, but you can't teach him speed."

"As for bonuses, the Orioles leave that up to my judgment. After I study a boy and rate him in my book I establish the amount of a bonus I think he is worth. With me there is no hagglng. I approach a boy and tell him honestly what the Orioles can and cannot do with him."

"I tell him how much I think he is worth. That's the price and I don't change it."

Another League
Needs Support

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — The formation of the Class B baseball league could be in the works if enough support is found.

Representatives of five of 13 cities to which feelers were sent showed up here Thursday. They took no action but agreed to meet again in July, possibly in Shelby.

The meeting was called by John Henry Moss of Kings Mountain. Representatives from Gastonia, Newton and Marion in North Carolina and Spartanburg and Rock Hill in South Carolina attended.

The others invited were Shelby, Hickory, Lincolnton, Statesville, Mooresville, Lenoir, Forest City and Morganton.

Two Class D leagues, the North State and the Western Carolina, have folded in recent years.

Unique Golf Clinic For Young
Players Winds Up Tomorrow

By JOHNNY HUDSON
"Let's learn to play golf" was the plea offered by Simon Moye, owner of the Greenville Golf Range, about a month ago and tomorrow the first golf clinic at the local driving range will be completed and at least 25 Greenville youngsters will have a better idea of the rapidly growing sport.

Simon Moye, a big promoter of golf in Greenville, decided to open the door for youngsters to the sport with a clinic. He talked it over with other golfers, composed a letter to be sent out and then had to sit back and wait for the response.

The acknowledgements he received were surprising to even Moye and plans are already underway for another clinic later in June.

Clinic For Kids
The clinic has been conducted for kids between the ages of 9-16. Lessons have been given on each Saturday for the past four weeks and tomorrow morning will wind things up.

A nominal fee was charged the students, but was used only to defray the expenses and was not used for instruction. The driving range was the site of instructions and Moye called on Harold Thomas, local pro, Don Harris, former ECC basketball star, Charlie Moye, coach at Belvoir-Falkland, and Bob Lewis, a rising young star, to assist in the lessons.

Basic Fundamentals
"We certainly do not claim to make a finished golfer out of anyone in four lessons, but I do know we can give them the basic fundamentals to work with and practice will do the rest," says Moye.

In discussing his project, Moye stated that he did not believe that people had the right to complain about children cluttering up the golf course when no special effort, as far as rules and etiquette, has been given in the way of instruction.

The lessons thus far have dwelt with basic fundamentals of golf through the grip, stance, swing, and golf course rules and etiquette. "Each pupil should be able to play a respectable and enjoyable round of golf without inconvenience to anyone," pointed out the instigator.

Books were ordered from the National Golf Foundation in Chicago and individual instruction has been given. The instructors

White Sox Take A Needed
Spurt, Now Lead LeagueUrge Abolishing
Of Boxing Sport

LONDON (AP) — An influential British medical magazine has called for the total abolition of boxing and urged headmasters and parents to combine in a campaign to outlaw the sport.

The independent magazine Lancet, founded in 1823 and boasting a world-wide circulation, said individual doctors could help by warning boxers, headmasters, parents and sports enthusiasts who run boys' clubs about the danger of delayed brain injury.

Lancet reaches most of Britain's 45,000 doctors and is read by many more doctors in foreign countries.

"Sixty four deaths, including 25 amateurs, in four years is a prohibitive price to pay for a sport which makes the brain, and its exquisitely sensitive extensions such as the eye, legitimate — in fact main — targets," said Lancet's editorial. Those figures, it said, were based on a world-wide tally.

"If boxing causes fatal cerebral damage in a few contestants," the magazine said, "the natural conclusion is that it causes material brain damage in many more."

Lancet argued that "not only is nothing done to end this evil but official bodies like the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) extend the spectacle to ever-widening audiences, including young children."

The magazine said that in 1954 the Belgian Royal Academy of Medicine passed a resolution condemning boxing that persuaded the Belgian government to pass stringent legislation against the sport.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Casey Stengel is pleased at the way things have been going lately for his New York Yankees, but he isn't making any rash predictions.

"We've won a few and we've looked better, but how long it's gonna last I don't know," Stengel observed cautiously as the Yankees arrived here from Detroit, where they bombed the Tigers 14-3 Thursday.

The Yankees now are 4 1/2 games back and are in a three-way tie for fifth.

Moye showed a sincere love for the outdoor sport as he discussed the sport in general.

"Golf is probably the greatest character builder of all the sports. A person with a knowledge of golf

"I personally think enough of the game of golf and the future welfare of my country club to see that its chances of progress depend on the youngsters getting started right," concluded Moye.

"What we need," said Manager Al Lopez the other day in appraising his Chicago White Sox, "is a spurt. And we could get it with some big hits at the right time."

Al should have spoken up sooner. The White Sox have taken him at his word. They jumped past idle Cleveland into the American League lead by winning their second in a row Thursday, defeating Baltimore 6-5 in the majors' longest game of the season with the big hit at the right time—Earl Torgeson's two-out homer in the 17th inning.

It was their sixth victory in seven extra-inning games this season, and their 10th success in 13 one-run decisions. Both marks are tops in the AL.

While taking a half-game (.007 percentage points) lead over the Indians, the White Sox also shoved third place Baltimore 1 1/2 games back. Fourth place Kansas City fell 2 1/2 games behind when Boston ended the A's winning streak at five, 5-2. The New York Yankees slipped Detroit to sixth by bombing the Tigers 14-3.

In the National League, San Francisco routed Milwaukee 11-5 with Orlando Cepeda driving in seven runs and hitting two homers. Pittsburgh whipped St. Louis 9-3. In night games, Cincinnati defeated Los Angeles 5-3 and the Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia 3-2 in 10 innings.

The White Sox did things the hard way, blowing a 2-0 lead, battling back for a 4-all tie on Larry Doby's single in the eighth, and then matching a 13th-inning Oriole run with Torgy's single and one of five Oriole errors.

The Birds, helped along by three Sox boots, chased starter Dick Donovan with four hits and four runs in the third. But relievers Barry Latman, Gerry Staley, Rudolfo Arias and Turk Lown then blanked the Birds on the two hits for the next nine innings.

"Lumpie is fitting in real well at second base," Craft said. "The infield is beginning to jell for the first time as a defensive unit."

Bob Shaw (5-2) finally won it. Jerry Walker (4-2) was the loser.

Gary Geiger drove in three runs for the Red Sox, one with his third homer. Jerry Casale (3-4) went all the way for Boston, giving up seven hits. Rip Coleman (1-4) lost it.

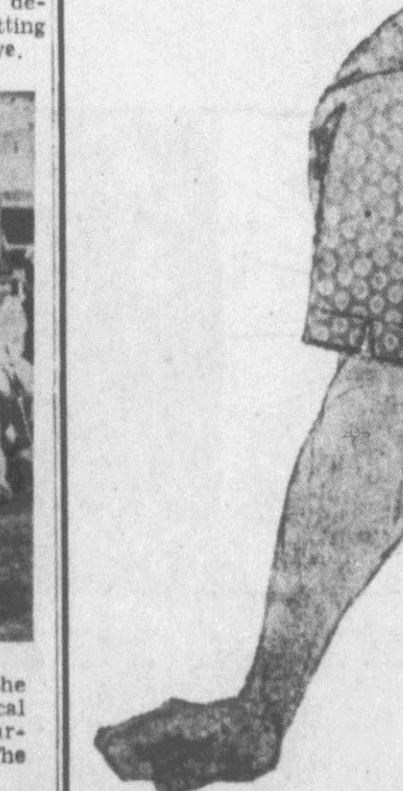

The Yankees, who have won six of their last seven, made it two in a row over the Tigers. The Yankees smacked 15 hits, 10 for extra bases — seven doubles and home runs by Hector Lopez, Elston Howard and winning pitcher Whitey Ford. Jim Bunning (5-4) was a quick loser, trailing 7-1 when he left after three innings.

Thus far the trade has made us a definitely stronger club," Craft said Thursday after the A's lost their first game in the last six — to Boston, 5-2.

The Athletics and Yankees appear to have gotten new spark from the deal of little more than a week ago. Kansas City gained infielder Jerry Lumpe, pitchers Johnny Kucks and Tom Sturdivant, (plus another player to be named later) for Hector Lopez, long ball hitting infielder, and then matching a 13th-inning Oriole run with Torgy's single and one of five Oriole errors.

The Athletics are only 2 1/2 games out of first place. The Yankees, in last place at the time of the trade, are just 4 1/2 from the top.

"Lumpie is fitting in real well at second base," Craft said. "The infield is beginning to jell for the first time as a defensive unit."

Booze And Milk Featured In A Legislative Sideshow

RALEIGH (AP) — Booze and milk got most of the attention Thursday at an entertaining legislative sideshow conducted outside the main tent where the Senate was considering court reform.

Some 400 dairyman cheered House Agriculture Committee approval of a bill giving the State Milk Commission power to fix retail prices to curb threatened price wars. The vote was 29-2 to place it on the House calendar.

Later, during the House session, only a few spectators were on hand to see an intricate sequence of parliamentary shenanigans which resulted in passage of a local liquor vote bill after it was all but killed.

The milk bill won the endorsement of the State Grange and Farm Bureau after a reported announcement that a giant Southern grocery chain (Winn-Dixie) was going to establish a milk processing plant.

Grange Master Harry B. Caldwell, who warned that such a plant could destroy the state's milk industry, told the committee the bill may act as a deterrent and the commission never have to use its emergency powers.

Frank McDowell of the Milk Producers Assn. opposed the bill, saying its sole purpose was to maintain current price margins regardless of how inefficient the production method.

He said price fixing would be harmful to the consumer. Caldwell said the bill was a "hoax."

Brooks says he doesn't want it because he is opposed to any increase for himself until a systematic and orderly wage scale is adopted for all employees of the state of Nebraska.

Doesn't Want A Raise In Salary

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Gov. Ralph Brooks of Nebraska wants the Legislature to take back a pay raise it gave him.

It's for $3,000.

Brooks says he doesn't want it because he is opposed to any increase for himself until a systematic and orderly wage scale is adopted for all employees of the state of Nebraska.

The Democratic governor and the non-partisan Legislature, most of whose members are Republicans, have been skirmishing over salaries for several weeks.

The argument began when the Legislature passed a salary increase bill for some state employees serving under various elective boards and offices.

The governor vetoed that bill and said he was doing it because he thought the people of Nebraska had taken a stand on state pay increases when they defeated in the 1958 election a constitutional amendment providing for legislative pay increases.

But the Legislature passed the bill over the veto.

Shortly afterwards Brooks notified the Legislature he had taken a new view on some salary increases and would sign a bill increasing judicial pay, but hoped the Legislature would strike out a provision raising his pay.

The Legislature left the session and passed the bill sending the governor's salary from $11,000 to $14,000, and raising supreme court judges from $12,000 to $13,000 and district court judges from $10,000 to $11,000.

Brooks signed the bill. Late Thursday he sent the Legislature a new bill.

It takes away his $3,000 hike.

1. Sen. Grady Mercer of Duplin told a Judiciary committee he would water down his proposed ban on plastic laundry bags to provide that laundry companies merely label them as dangerous.

His original proposal would have done away with certain of the containers which have resulted in several infant deaths by suffocation recently.

2. Sen. Robert Lee Humber of Pitt introduced a bill proposing $1,000 awards be given Tar Heels who produce outstanding accomplishments in literature, science, art and public leadership.

3. The House passed a bill regulating motorboats on Tar Heel waters.

Failed To Escape In Fire Truck

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Two convicts were killed in their plot to escape from San Quentin Prison in the tank of a Napa State Hospital fire truck which was repaired here.

Associate Warden Louis Nelson said the plot was discovered Wednesday, just as the truck was to return to Napa. Tank cover bolts had been filed smooth, then replaced but held only by tape.

Inside the tank, 6 feet long, 4 wide and 2 deep, were clothing, a knife and two oranges. Nelson said Robert Logan, 26, Los Angeles robber, and Stan Kearney, 22, Riverside forger, admitted the plot.

D-Day Was 'Kill Or Be Killed' For Rangers

Editor's Note—Ranger units hit the beach in Normandy at H-Hour on D-Day, 15 years ago Saturday. With them was G. K. Hodenfield, a combat correspondent for Stars and Stripes, now the AP's education writer. Hodenfield recalls the incredible feats of four Ranger companies in this last of four articles on D-Day.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
Associated Press Staff Writer

The story of four companies of the U. S. 2nd Ranger Battalion, and their assault on a heavily fortified position in Normandy on June 6, 7 and 8, 1944, is not the big picture of D-Day. That's for generals and historians.

It's not even the little picture of an isolated action.

Maybe it's not even a story at all—just the things that one man who was with them remembers best from the greatest experience of his life.

The story of D-Day has to be a story of courage. Maybe that's why. Whenever I think of D-Day, I remember Sgt. Bob Youso and Pvt. Alvin White.

The Ranger assignment on D-Day was to land precisely at H-Hour (6:30 a. m.) on a rocky shelf of beach barely 15 feet wide, scramble up sheer cliffs more than 100 feet high, and destroy six 155mm guns protected by crack German troops and tons of concrete.

But somebody goofed. The guide boat sent along by the Royal Navy headed for the wrong beach. By the time we reached our landing area: (1) we were 38 minutes late, (2) the naval barrage that was supposed to drive the enemy to cover had long since lifted, and (3) German soldiers lined the cliffs, peppering us with rifle fire and hand grenades.

As the assault craft crunched to a stop, the Rangers fired a series of rockets that went up and over the cliffs with a loud "whoosh." Attached to the rockets were six pronged grapnel hooks. Attached to the hooks were long rope ladders. The Rangers pulled on the ropes until the grapnel hooks bit into the dirt, then scrambled up the ladders.

The rockets drove the Germans back, but only momentarily. They had returned by the time Youso and White were clambering to the cliff top. How those two men made it, I'll never know. But they did, and when they got there they chased the Germans back and made it possible for other Rangers to follow them.

The big guns were spiked with thermite grenades, then the Rangers dug in for the fight of their lives. There were Germans in front of them, the cliffs and the English channel behind them, no supplies or reinforcements available. We were going to hang on, or get killed trying. It appeared pretty obvious we were all going to get killed.

Which brings me back to Youso and White. They were out on the left flank, anchoring one end of a very thin line. About 200 yards away was a German machinegun nest which was cutting our men down every time they showed their heads.

Youso and White, armed only with rifles and grenades, went after the machinegunner. To get him they had to snake along in the weeds through a German minefield. One false move and they'd be shot dead or blown to kingdom come.

Maybe 30 minutes later they were back. Youso had been shot through the elbow, White through the knee. But the machinegun nest had been wiped out.

Going up the cliffs, Youso and White had shown one kind of courage—the kind born of desperation and excitement. Here they had shown another kind—the cool, calculated courage that overcomes fear of overwhelming odds.

But there's still another kind of courage. I remember Capt. Walter Block, our medic. Doc set up a sort of base hospital in a concrete dugout. There was room for about 15 or 16 patients, and that wasn't nearly enough. At times there were so many wounded men that most had to be left outside until somebody inside died or was patched up enough to return to battle.

In the afternoon on the first day, Doc was called outside to look at a badly wounded officer. The officer was unconscious, barely breathing.

Doc took a quick look. "You'll have to leave him out here. There's nothing I can do for him." He walked back into the dugout. The man he left to die untended and alone was a man who for years had been Doc's closest and dearest friend.

I think it took courage, too, for Ranger Robin to do what he did. Ranger Robin was a platoon leader, and the last I heard he was still in the Army. I hope so; he's a good guy to have on our side. Anyway, on the second day of the invasion Ranger Robin led a patrol behind the German lines to get prisoners for questioning.

He was on his way back with about a dozen of them when the Germans counterattacked and threatened to chase the Rangers right off the cliffs.

Ranger Robin and five or six of his men, plus the prisoners, were crouched in a huge shell hole, with German troops all around them. Ranger Robin told his men to take off, one at a time, and get back to our lines as best they could. His sergeant, the last to leave, asked Robin what he was going to do about the prisoners.

"Don't you worry about that, I'll handle it," he replied.

When he was alone with the prisoners, Ranger Robin turned his Tommy gun on them and killed them all. Then he made his way back to our command post.

You could say his act was that of a coward, more than of a hero.

But I'll argue with you on that. Ranger Robin was tough, but he was no murderer. He shot down 12 defenseless men in cold blood because he was a Ranger, and the Rangers were fighting for their lives. I got to know him well enough to know that those 12 German prisoners will haunt him as long as he lives.

If you were there on D-Day you know a dozen stories like this. If you weren't, you've heard about them.

D-Day was a terribly personal thing to the men who were there. You fought with a group, but the excitement that was like intoxication, and the fear that was like a clammy chill—those were yours alone. You couldn't share them. You couldn't talk about them, you couldn't even acknowledge them.

And what you remember best are not people, and places, and things.

You remember how you felt: The amazement, on D-Day, when you suddenly realized that, although you had always considered yourself a coward, at this particular time and place you weren't a coward. Scared stiff, yes, but not a coward.

The resignation on D plus one, to death at any moment; and pride that you could accept it without panic.

The anger, outraged and insane, on D plus two, at the men of the U.S. 29th Division who broke through on the left flank and fired first and looked later. They killed two Rangers, wounded 13.

Most of all, when it was all over, the terrible, unshakable loneliness—the sense of deep and personal loss. Of the landing force of 230 Rangers, only 52 were able to walk away.

These things you'll never forget.

Bird Built Nest Aboard Airliner

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A robin which built its nest inside the engine cowling of an American Airlines Convair almost got a free ride to Houston, Tex., and delayed the flight 33 minutes.

Capt. N. E. Lundeen, the pilot, spotted the robin flying from the heat door of an engine cowling while preparing to take off from Greater Pittsburgh Airport Thursday.

A ground crew removed the cowling from the engine and pulled out the nest, built of straw and twigs.

CHAPTER 15

Mark discovered Fleur Constant the moment he entered his hotel. She was half hidden by a pillar, pretending to read a magazine. Though she didn't look up, Mark knew she was aware of his presence.

"Fleur, what are you doing here?"

She lifted her face. "I have been waiting for you. Mark, I would very much like to talk to you."

He made a move to sit down beside her, but she shook her head. "Not here, please. In your room, if you don't mind."

He went to the desk, got his key, then walked back to her.

Without another word they crossed the lobby and walked up the staircase to the second floor. But when they stood in front of the door, he waved her aside. "Let me enter first."

She seemed to see nothing strange in the way he inserted the key and opened the door cautiously. She was, perhaps, too intent on what she had to say to notice anything.

As soon as they were in his room, Fleur said, "I want to ask you a simple question before you leave, Mark. Was I crazy this morning to take you seriously just because it meant so much to me?"

"You cut me short, Fleur."

"I was hurt—and I was furious. Not furious at you so much as at myself. But my anger never lasts long. After you dropped me at the Mulot, I went up to my dressmaker and cried. And when I was tired of crying, I told myself that if I had any pride at all, I wouldn't feel hurt. I'd just laugh the whole thing off."

"Well, I tried but somehow I couldn't. And then I started abusing you. But right in the middle it sounded all wrong, and I began to think. And then I knew that, no matter how you behaved after you came back from that errand in Nice, it wasn't you."

"Don't be so sure."

"I can't help it. I am sure. This morning you were a different person. And then, when we stopped at the photographer's stand and you saw that picture of the woman, you changed. Mark, what I mind is that you weren't honest, that, instead of telling me that someone else mattered."

Her voice broke a little. "I saw you use the telephone in the shop. You saw her. Maybe . . ."

Mark swung around. "No. My word of honor. You must not believe that."

Suddenly she looked like a child, startled, lost. "Fleur, darling," he said. "You are too young to remember the war. But a soldier, even if he wants to stay at home, knows he has to go. And goes."

She looked at him wide-eyed. "Mark, what are you trying to tell me?"

"I've said too much, thought Mark. On the other hand, how can I leave her like this, insecure, doubting her instincts which are so right?"

"Let me put it this way. I have a job to do which rules out any personal affairs at this moment."

"What kind of a job? A job that entails danger? Did you know about it this morning? Or only in Nice?"

"This morning," he said. "That's why I came by your house. But then I thought it was just a question of a few days. Now I know that I may not be free to love you, to marry you, for a long time. It wouldn't be fair to tell you to wait for me. I cannot involve you in this."

Fleur sat up very straight. "Mark," she said, "what kind of a job?"

If she read the papers, she would read, tonight or tomorrow, about Corinne's death and that he believed she had been murdered. Now he could tell her why Philippe had been killed, about his search for Timagad and Corinne's part in it.

While he was talking, her eyes never left his face and once or twice her lips parted as though she were going to interrupt him, but the instant he was finished, she turned around and cried softly.

"You understand, don't you, that I have to go through with it?"

He sat down next to her to comfort her. "Fleur, darling."

"How odd life is," she said, in a very small voice. "How we respect and admire people who are ready to sacrifice themselves, who live up to their standards, who, in a conflict between desire and duty, choose duty, as long as they don't mean anything to us. But the moment they are dear to us . . . Oh, Mark, isn't there anything I can say that would make you give up?"

"Nothing."

"Hold me. Hold me tight."

He took her in his arms, gently stroking her head. "Don't cry, sweet. Please don't cry."

A knock at the door made them fly apart and they looked at each other before Mark got up to open it. One of the bellboys stood there, holding a tray with a letter on it.

"This was delivered by hand, sir, with the request to give it to you at once. It is marked urgent."

Mark took the letter and carried it over to the window, turning his back on Fleur. It was an oblong envelope of fine, thin white paper.

er. "Mark Travers" had been written across it in a monkish handwriting he had never seen before. Abruptly he tore it open.

It contained a single sheet. "I remembered," he said, "after you had gone, an item which might be of interest to you. There is a man whom Corinne Javal befriended. He lives in Eze. His name is Boudon. Colonel Boudon. I think you will have no difficulty in finding him. Cesare di Raffaelli. P.S. I think it would be unwise to reveal from whom you got this information. R."

"What is it?"

Mark hardly heard the question. He tore the letter to pieces, then went over to the telephone and gave the operator Perrier's number.

"The inspector has gone back to Nice to check certain things there," he told. "I can't contact him right away. Any message if he calls in?"

"Never mind. Thanks," Mark shrugged.

"What is it?" Fleur repeated.

"Maybe I didn't tell you that the photograph I was so interested in showed, next to Corinne Javal, a certain Cesare di Raffaelli. After we parted, I went to see him."

"I've heard of him, of course," said Fleur. "Guy knows him, I think. Nobody trusts him."

"Fleur," said Mark. "I have to leave you now. And I want you to stay here. I am going to Eze. I am going to see a man called Colonel Boudon. Can you remember that? Eze. Colonel Boudon."

"If I am not back in four hours, you must call the number I am going to give you. Ask for Inspector Perrier. If you can't get hold of him, leave this message—that I went to Eze to see a man called Colonel Boudon and that I have not returned."

Fleur bent and picked up the tiny scraps of paper from the floor. "I shall tell them also that you went because Raffaelli sent you the message."

Mark hesitated for a second, then he nodded. "Yes. But only if I do not return. Only in the event that . . . we do not see each other again."

She grew very pale. "I didn't know what love could make one feel," she said. But he was already at the door. "Mark."

"So long."

"It may be a trap."

"Yes," he said. "I know."

The colonel appears and . . . "Maybe it didn't matter what Doudon said or did not say, because he knew that, in the end, Mark could not escape" . . . the story continues tomorrow.

Major Suit To Kill Segregation Opens In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The first major court suit seeking to knock out segregation in the Atlanta public schools, Georgia's largest school system, opens today in U.S. District Court.

The case will be heard without a jury by Judges Frank A. Hooper and Boyd Sison. Both have ruled against segregation in recent cases.

The suit originally was filed Jan. 11, 1958, by 10 Negro parents on behalf of their 27 children, but legal action and counter-action delayed the case.

The 10 parents are asking an injunction to prevent the Atlanta board of education from operating schools on a racially segregated basis. They do not seek entrance for any child in any particular white school.

If the injunction is granted it then will be up to the Negroes to ask admission to specific schools, indicating the possibility of further legislation.

The British have come up with a 700-pound motor vehicle that can be folded into a 9-foot-long box, parachuted from a plane and assembled for action within five minutes after it leaves the plane.

Gained A Wife, Lost His Home

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—O. Lee Drake Jr. gained a wife and lost a home within two hours Thursday night.

Shortly after Drake, a bank cashier, and Mrs. Elene G. Hale were married, his 6-room frame house was destroyed by fire.

Friends were attempting to find the traveling honeymooners to tell them of the fire.

Gov. William Francis Quinn of Hawaii wanted to become an actor. He chose law, instead.

Governor Critical Of Vance Board's Refusal

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Hodges and Vance County commissioners were engaged today in the latest controversy to arise from this city's bitter cotton mill strike.

The governor mailed a strongly worded letter Thursday to Commissioners Chairman J. Furman Satterwhite criticizing the group for refusing to put on extra law enforcement personnel to patrol the strike scene.

In urging the commissioners to reconsider their refusal, the governor said:

"It does not reflect well on your county government or its law enforcement division for it to have to continually call for help from the state."

Hodges asked both the county and the city to put on extra personnel, even if it necessitated new taxes, to help relieve the state of part of its peace-enforcing burden.

The State Highway Patrol and National Guard have been on the scene since violence flared Feb. 11 when the Harriet L. Henderson Cotton Mills were reopened in the face of a Textile Workers Union of America strike. The Guard relieved the patrol May 12.

Meanwhile, the city, through Mayor Carroll V. Singleton, replied it has placed the governor's request in the hands of two council committees and would report shortly.

Hodges commended Singleton for cooperating and said, "this is in direct contrast to the county's attitude."

Earlier Thursday, Vance Superior Court ended a special five-week term of court considering strike-connected violence cases by declaring a mistrial during a case involving a man charged with attempting to dynamite a cotton mill worker's home.

A technicality caused the mistrial of James Merrill Manning, a strike sympathizer, charged with attempting to blast the home of worker Garland B. Cash, a worker.

Cash fired a shotgun at Manning who spent several days in a hospital recovering from the wounds last March.

The mistrial was ordered when it was discovered that the word "maliciously" had been omitted from the indictment.

May Never Learn Satellite's Fate

VANDERBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Scientists may never learn what caused Discoverer III's failure to orbit.

But the rocket-satellite apparently was burned up when it re-entered the atmosphere and the four mice aboard were cremated, the Air Force said Thursday.

The mice, carried in a capsule, were to have been the first creatures retrieved alive from orbit. The 78-foot projectile was launched Wednesday.

The Air Force said the missile, because of an unknown malfunction, re-entered the atmosphere several thousand miles from this West Coast missile base.

The experiment was aimed at developing techniques man will use in space flight.

Lawyer And Ex-Con Are Wed By Judge

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—The first time lawyer Marjorie Sue King visited client Emory N. Brown in federal prison, an assistant warden told her:

"There is no need for you to go see Emory Brown; there's nothing you can do for him now."

"He was so wrong," said Miss King Wednesday.

That was after the 35-year-old Atlanta attorney had married ex-convict Brown, 38, at the home of a judge here.

The romance began six years ago in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta. Brown was sentenced March 24, 1947 at Tampa, Fla., to 20 years in prison for bank robbery, five years for taking a stolen car across a state line and six months for contempt of court. All three charges grew out of the $9,000 holdup of a bank at Lake Alfred, Fla., in 1945.

After pleading unsuccessfully to have the sentence set aside, Brown hired Miss King, a member of an Atlanta law firm. Miss King frequently visited Brown in the prison and they fell in love.

In 1955, Brown was transferred to the federal prison here. He enrolled in a law course taught by Dist. Judge Joseph J. Dawes of Leavenworth.

Once he told the judge: "When I get out I'm going to get married. I would like you to perform the ceremony."

Dawes agreed but he had forgotten about it until Wednesday when Brown and Miss King showed up at the courthouse a few hours after Brown's release from prison. The judge waived Kansas' three-day waiting period and performed the wedding ceremony.

Flock Of Geese Wary Of Water

CHARLESTON, Mo. (AP)—Farmer Armont Oliver's geese are wary of water.

They waddled into a farm pond recently and sank.

Oliver waded in and rescued the befuddled flock. Then he tried to figure out what happened.

Farmers in southern Missouri use domesticated geese to clear their cotton fields. The geese range down the rows, eating weeds and grass.

But while the flock was doing its stuff, a pilot hired by Oliver passed over, spraying the field and the geese with insecticide.

When the geese entered the shallow pond, they sank to the muddy bottom, right up to their long necks.

The spray contained an agent that dried out oil sacs in their skin.

Says Fool-Proof Checks Needed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Until a foolproof mutual inspection pact is reached with the Soviet Union, any thinning of NATO forces in Europe would be highly dangerous, says Gen. C. V. R. Schuyler.

The chief of staff of Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe, told the Los Angeles World Affairs Council Thursday that to agree to a new defensive arrangement of NATO forces before "We have assured means of checking the arrangement of Soviet forces, could pave the way to disaster."

He said the West must be better trained and better equipped with rockets, missiles and nuclear weapons to withstand the overwhelming numerical superiority of the Soviets.

Reid Approved As Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's nomination of Ogden R. Reid as ambassador to Israel and George M. Johnson as a member of the Civil Rights Commission have been confirmed by the Senate.

Both won approval Thursday on voice votes, with little of the opposition that had been forecast.

The nomination of Thomas S. Gates Jr. to be deputy secretary of defense also was approved. There had been no controversy over the naming of Gates, former secretary of the Navy, to succeed the late Donald A. Quarles.

Reid, 33, formerly was president and editor of the New York Herald Tribune. He had been recommended for confirmation by a 10-4 vote of the Foreign Relations Committee over the opposition of the committee chairman, Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.).

Fulbright told the Senate Thursday the nomination was "improvident and irresponsible" and said he didn't know "why the President should have selected Mr. Reid for this extremely challenging, highly sensitive job."

Among those supporting Reid was Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), who fought the nomination of Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce to be ambassador to Brazil. Morse said Reid "meets the test and is entitled to confirmation."

Johnson, 58, is a Negro lawyer and educator. He succeeds the late J. Ernest Wilkins, also a Negro. Johnson, whose home is at Berkeley, Calif., was dean of the Howard University Law School here until last year.

A few Southerners voted against him but none of them asked for a roll call.

NEW YORK (AP)—A mild rally by rails and gains by drugs and selected issues featured an irregularly lower stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Gains and losses of pivotal stocks were mainly within a one-point range.

The main sections of the market reflected indecision and caution. Wall Streeters said the failure of the market to rebound from two steep setbacks this week was one factor.

Johnson & Johnson which spurred 4 points Thursday on news the firm has developed a drug claimed to be able to dissolve blood clots, was delayed in opening due to a rush of buyers. Eaton Manufacturing jumped more than a point on a published official prediction of much greater earnings. Lorillard was up a fraction on reports it is planning to come out with a new cigarette.

Saw No One

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Imogene Kleppin, even though she had given birth to a third child only six days ago, couldn't resist rushing out to the street when sirens wailed to a stop near her home. She peered over the shoulder of a fireman. Then she screamed and collapsed.

Her daughter Linda, 2, lay on the pavement beside a truck, still clasped in the arms of her 14-year-old aunt, Mary Ann Chalkin. Both children were dead.

Mrs. Kleppin's other child, 3-year-old Danny, sprawled over his crushed tricycle for an awful moment, finally wailed in pain. He is in critical condition today.

The three children had been struck by a delivery truck, turning a corner as they started across the street. The driver, Jack H. Brockway, 22, said he was going only 10 miles an hour and saw no one in front of him, but stopped when something bumped under the rear wheels.

Says Nicaraguan Crisis Is Easing

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Luis Somoza claimed Thursday night that the threat to his regime from invading rebels and a general strike is "about over."

The 37-year-old dictator said again that his 2,000-man army has the situation under control.

He told a news conference for foreign correspondents that the decision of the Organization of American States (OAS) to investigate the situation in Nicaragua guarantees peace.

Somoza had appealed to the OAS for hemispheric aid, but the organization's council voted 17-2 in Washington Thursday to empower a committee only to collect information. Council members stressed that they did not want to intervene in a purely internal affair, as Cuba's representative claimed.

"Crazy adventures" was Somoza's term for the two panelists of Nicaraguan exiles and others who landed from Costa Rica last weekend in an attempt to launch an uprising against his regime. He said the rebels "are running so fast we cannot catch them."

(In San Jose, Costa Rica, the Nicaraguan rebels issued a communique claiming that the rebel forces were being joined by volunteers. It said the two groups of rebels were planning to link up and then to march on Managua.)

Research Expert Is Nominated As Ass't Navy Sec.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated James Henry Wakelin Jr., Lawrenceville, N. J., scientist and research expert, to become an assistant secretary of the Navy.

Wakelin, 46, a Republican, would succeed Fred A. Bantz whose elevation to the post of under secretary of the Navy was confirmed by the Senate Thursday.

Since 1954, Wakelin has headed his own research consultants firm at Princeton, N. J. He previously was director of the Textile Research Institute at Princeton.

A native of Holyoke, Mass., Wakelin served as a lieutenant commander in the Navy in World War II. Prior to the war, he had been director of a research group on synthetic rubber for the B. F. Goodrich Co., Akron, Ohio.

After the war, he joined the staff of Engineering Research Associates, Arlington, Va., and became its director of research.

Measles Vaccine Found Effective

BOSTON (AP) — A Children's Hospital team of doctors today reported a newly discovered measles vaccine has proven effective in the first group of children to whom it was given.

Dr. John F. Enders, a Nobel Prize winner, and Dr. Samuel Katz, said the long-sought vaccine has been used on 20 children with good results.

The vaccine produces temporary, spots and protective antibodies against the disease without making the youngsters sick, it was reported.

Steel Union Says Policy 'Flexible'

NEW YORK (AP)—The executive board of the United Steelworkers of America says the policy of the union is to be "flexible and reasonable" in contract negotiations in the basic steel industry.

The union's goal is a "fair, equitable and honorable settlement" before the industry contract expires June 30, the 33-member board declares.

The union's position was stated in a resolution adopted unanimously at a special meeting of the board Thursday.

"There is still time to negotiate a fair settlement," a union statement said.

Negotiations are continuing here. Failure to agree on a new contract by the June 30 deadline would almost certainly bring a strike by 500,000 union members.

Industry leaders said privately that the union's emphasis on reasonableness was at odds with its demands, which they called "Astronomic."

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator and executive vice president of the United States Steel Corp., issued a statement denying that the companies might make a last-minute pay increase offer to prevent a strike.

The industry has been calling for a one-year freeze on wages and employee benefits as a step toward preventing an inflationary spiral.

The union has been demanding a substantial pay increase, which has not been specified, publicly at least. It also seeks a cut in the 40-hour work week and other benefits. Basic pay now averages $3.03 an hour.

Cooley Says Bill Will Bar Hike In Price Supports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Harold Cooley (D-N.C.) says a bill aimed at stabilizing tobacco prices calls "for legislation that will prevent an increase in price supports."

The House Rules Committee Thursday cleared the bill for floor action. The bill, already passed by the Senate, will be open for amendment when it is brought up for consideration by the House, probably next week.

The bill is aimed at preventing the present parity formula from further increasing tobacco prices and forcing foreign markets.

The bill, according to its backers, would prevent any further increase in tobacco prices until a need is indicated by a substantial further increase in the parity index, the measure of prices paid by farmers including wages, interest and taxes.

Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, told the committee the bill should be brought to the floor under a procedure that would have barred amendments.

Sanity Hearing Is Set For Long

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Probate Judge Hugh Gibson today set a sanity hearing for Louisiana's Gov. Earl K. Long for June 16.

Judge Gibson's formal order said the hearing is "for the best interests and protection of Earl K. Long as a mentally ill person."

The governor's wife earlier signed documents asking that Gibson hold a hearing aimed at committing Long for mental treatment.

Her action came after the governor showed signs of wanting to leave John Sealy Hospital here, where he started mental treatment Saturday following a hush-hush trip from Louisiana.

The hearing is set for 10 a.m. (CST) in the Galveston County Courthouse annex.

Mrs. Long's petition asked that the governor be committed for 90 days or less, Gibson earlier committed the 63-year-old governor to the protective custody of the hospital.

The hearing June 16 will follow

Texas law in that Long can be present and be represented by attorneys.

Judge Gibson appointed three Galveston attorneys to represent the Louisiana governor, but he said Long still may name his own attorneys to represent him at the hearing.

Just what the governor's course of action will be at the hearing and whether the session will be open is still not known.

Meanwhile, indications are that Governor Long has accepted his confinement and continues to improve.

Sen. Russell Long (D-La.) told newsmen in Baton Rouge, La., that his uncle "might be back at the capitol" within a month.

Long had just returned from Galveston, where he conferred with attending physicians.

Long has announced he'll resign as governor and try for a fourth term. To do it, he would have to quit before his term ends, qualify by the Sept. 15 deadline, and run in the December primary.

Ecuador's Unrest Began With A Personal Grudge

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP)—Ecuador's biggest disturbance in years grew out of a personal grudge between a raw army recruit and his spit-and-polish captain.

Within a week at least 25 persons were dead, including the soldier and officer, and 150 were injured.

The entire country is under martial law.

President Camilo Ponce in decreeing martial law declared he was acting "to save the republic from anarchy and aggression."

His press officer charged that Communists exploited last week's initial outbreak at Porto Viejo, brought on by a squabble between recruit Pablo Antonio Garcia and Capt. Gale Quevedo.

The trouble between the soldier and his captain broke out May 28 in Porto Viejo.

A witness said the recruit thought the captain was assigning him all the dirty details, and taking away some of his privileges.

When the recruits started out on a training exercise, the soldier lagged behind. At the first chance, he opened fire on the captain.

The officer fell to the ground and the soldier turned the gun on himself and committed suicide.

The captain was unhurt.

When the captain showed up the next day at the soldier's funeral, the youth's mother threw rocks at him. Others began pushing him around and in seconds the mourners were ready to lynch him. The captain fled.

Recruits, soldiers and even youngsters marched to the officers' club and set fire to the building and fired shot after shot into it. The captain's uniform and hair aflame—staggered out.

The rioters pumped bullets into the captain.

They threw a rope around his neck and dragged him through the streets, then dumped his body in a cemetery.
