House Passes On Second Reading Its No-New-Tax Revenue Measure

RALEIGH (AP) — The House today passed on second reading by an 88 to 19 vote a revenue bill containing no new taxes.

There was no debate as the House gave its approval to the administration-backed measure. It was set for third House reading Monday night. It likely will come up on the Senate floor Tuesday.

In giving final approval to the budget measure, the Senate defeated by 32-17 an amendment to provide a 2 per cent pay raise for school teachers. The bill calls for total spending of 297 million dollars during the next biennium, including 581 million from the general fund.

Lt. Gov. Luther Barnhardt, who presides over the Senate, said "unless something unforeseen develops we can get away next Friday or Saturday."

Barnhardt pointed out the House has accumulated "a tremendous backlog of legislation" as a result of time consumed in handling the revenue and appropriations bills. The Senate, he said, is about one day behind in its work.

House Speaker Addison Hewlett said, "I think if we're lucky we can finish next week."

The budget bill contains funds to provide a 5 per cent pay raise for school teachers. It also contains a provision to pay teachers an additional 5 per cent during the next two fiscal years if state revenues permit.

The measure calls for state spending of some 70 million dollars more in 1959-61 than during the 1958-59 biennium.

Theorize Psychopath Set Bomb In Train Station

BOSTON (AP) — Investigators today inclined to the theory a psychopath planted an explosive device which shattered an elevated train station Thursday injuring 38 persons, three seriously.

They also sought a picture of a man who was accused of having threatened to bomb Cuban leader Fidel Castro when the latter visited this country recently. The man reportedly fled New York's Bellevue (City) Hospital.

The picture will be shown to victims and to others who were in the area when the device exploded about 2 p.m. Thursday.

Three agencies, Boston police, state detectives and the Boston Fire Department, are investigating.

The FBI, which had agents on the scene Thursday, indicated that at present it had no active interest. Normally the FBI would not be involved officially unless there was a suspicion of a subversive act.

Massachusetts General Hospital spokesmen reported improvement in the condition of the three most seriously injured. Although the names of all three were on the danger list none was reported in a dying condition.

Police probing through the ruins found six dry-cell batteries near some shattered fragments of the metal lockers.

They said the batteries were covered with a sulphide residue, indicating they were part of a bomb. Police said the bomb might have been activated by an oncoming train.

Two detectives said tests by police chemists of bits of the wreckage and parts of a smashed locker indicated a bag of powder weighing 20 to 25 pounds caused the explosion.

Investigators said the bomb went off with the explosive force of a 500-pound Air Force bomb of World War II.

The blast blew apart the big 58-year-old pagoda-type waiting room on the elevated station of the Metropolitan Rapid Transit Authority.

It caught several persons within the waiting room and on the outdoor station platform. Some of them were blown 30 feet to busy Canal and Causeway streets below.

Six were injured as they sat in a train approaching the station. The blast stopped the train 20 feet away. Only three seconds later the train would have been in direct line of the explosion.

Others were injured on the street below—by the terrific concussion and by flying debris.

Windows were broken in buildings as far as 150 feet away and as high as the 14th story.

Scene of the blast is directly across the street from the North Station railroad terminal which also houses the Boston Garden sports arena.

Eight hours after the 2 p.m. (EDT) explosion, the switchboard operator at North Station received an anonymous telephone call that a bomb had been placed in that 14-story structure.

The operator said the caller also said that the afternoon blast "was meant for McGinnis. Patrick B. McGinnis is president of the Boston & Maine railroad.

A graphic account of the explosion was given by Patrolman Michael Mullen, 48, who was driving near the scene.

"It was terrific," he said. "I saw a big puff of smoke and a shower of debris shoot into the air. I saw a man hurled six feet into the air."

Mullen stopped a bus in which five Marines were transporting nine prisoners from Boston to Portsmouth, N.H., and asked for help.

Two of the Marines—PFC. Theodore Laquercia, 21, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and PFC. James W. Scott, 20, of Bluefield, W.Va., joined Mullen in clambering over the debris-littered stairs to reach the injured.

Because of the debris on the stairs, a truck with a hydraulic lift platform for working on overhead wires was pressed into service to lower the injured from the wrecked station.

Others were brought down fire ladders.

Castro Replaces Five In Cabinet

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro replaced five cabinet ministers early today in the first government shakeup of his four months in office.

These changes were announced after a cabinet meeting which as usual last long after midnight:

Raul Roa, ambassador to the Organization of American States (OAS), replacing Roberto Agramonte as foreign minister.

Pedro Miret, replacing Umberto Sori Marin as minister of agriculture.

Miss Raquel Perez, minister of public welfare, replacing Miss Elena Mederos.

Serafin Ruiz, replacing Julio Martinez Paez as minister of public health.

Jose Naranjo, minister of interior, in place of Orlando Rodriguez.

Castro took an offhand attitude toward a U.S. government note expressing concern over his plans to expropriate American-owned sugar lands in Cuba.

The Prime Minister, asked for comment, replied:

"I've had no time to study the note but I hope to have time tomorrow. However, from what I read the American viewpoint is their opinion and the majority of Cuban people support agrarian reform."

The U.S. note expressed concern that Americans might not be adequately compensated for property taken from them under the land redistribution program.

Castro said that the cabinet changes were "due to the periodic changeover that governments must make regardless of the contribution made by those who serve them."

"It is also necessary," he added, "to give other people who desire to serve the government a chance to do so."

Gunfighter Gets Three Sentences

MARION, N.C. (AP)—Red Biggerstaff, 35, of Marion, who was involved in a courthouse gun battle with officers, received three concurrent prison sentences here Thursday.

Biggerstaff was awaiting an appeal hearing last April 13 on a fine and suspended sentence from a whisky charge when he approached Chief Deputy Sheriff Bill Gibbs, pulled a pistol and opened fire.

Gibbs and two other officers returned the fire, wounding Biggerstaff five times. Gibbs also was wounded.

Biggerstaff was sentenced to 5-7 years for the wounding of Gibbs, 24 months on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, and 12 months on the whisky charge.

The trouble started when Biggerstaff was charged with possession of 60 gallons of non-tax paid whisky.

Public's Views On Matter Unwanted

RALEIGH (AP)—The House today voted to kill a proposal that the people be given a chance to pass on the need for a new 4½ million dollar legislative building.

By an overwhelming voice vote, the House tabled an amendment by Reps. A. A. Zollicoffer Jr. of Vance and Thomas Dill of Edgecombe.

They wanted to remove the legislative building from a 4½ million dollar capital improvements bond bill which would not be submitted to the people and insert it in a 34 million dollar capital improvements bond bill that will be submitted to the people for approval.

During debate on the amendment, Rep. John Kerr of Warren declared that "the people of North Carolina have confidence in our integrity and judgment." He said every man in the General Assembly knows the present century-old State Capitol "is inadequate to the extreme."

Rep. Roger Kiser of Scotland declared that building proposals in the bill not be submitted to the people are the ones "it is thought the people may not approve.

The amendment was offered after the House had, in effect, approved a proposal to deny the state the power to use condemnation proceedings in acquiring land to add to the Mount Mitchell State Park.

By a 60-42 vote the House tabled an amendment to the 14½ million dollar capital improvements measure offered by Rep. Hugh Humphrey of Guilford. Humphrey's amendment would have deleted a provision in the bill saying the state cannot use its power of condemnation to acquire some 24 acres of land at Stepp's Gap, located between the Blue Ridge Parkway and Mount Mitchell. The bill included $150,000 for land acquisition by the state park system.

Has Measure To Meet Emergency

RALEIGH (AP)—The Senate received a bill Thursday which would authorize cities and counties to raise funds to hire additional law enforcement officers in event of emergency.

The measure, sent forward by Sen. Arthur Kirkman of Guilford, was prompted by the Henderson strike situation.

The bill would authorize municipalities and counties to levy special taxes or issue bonds and notes to raise revenues. The money would be used to meet the expense of additional officers and equipment which may be required "in surpressing riots or insurrections or in handling any extra breach of law and order. . ."

Reds Shift Guns To Fresh Target

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Communists today shifted their artillery bombardment to a point 150 miles north of the Quemoy Islands, lobbing 430 shells on tiny Kaoteng Island in the Matsu group.

The nationalist Chinese Defense Ministry said it was the heaviest bombardment Kaoteng had undergone. The Quemoy Islands, 150 miles to the south, are the usual target of Communist artillery.

Soviet Training Older Spacemen

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—The first Soviet astronauts-in-training — prospective pilots of manned satellites—are somewhat older than their American counterparts.

This information was picked up by American scientists and educators who attended a week-long meeting of the International Aeronautic Federation in Moscow, and then made a 10-day tour of widely scattered Soviet cities. The delegates made a 24-hour stop here Thursday on their homeward air journey.

Plan Increase In 30th Division

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—The 30th Infantry Division of the North Carolina National Guard will get an increase of 1,178 men authorized by the Department of the Army.

Brig. Gen. Edward Griffin, division commander, said here Thursday that the increase is part of an overall increase for Guard units in all states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

Gen. Griffin told Guardsmen here for their annual two weeks of active training that budget limitations have held back recruiting but that now recruiting in many units will open immediately.

Gromyko Tries End Summit Talk Link

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko opened a drive in the Big Four conference today to break the Western-made link between the present meeting of foreign ministers and a later summit conference.

Gromyko's attack could foreshadow a final refusal by the Soviet Union to yield on its West Berlin demands, even under heavy Western pressure.

He told foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France that their insistence on a link between the present conference and a summit parley is artificial and "altogether invalid."

In effect, Gromyko argued that even though there was a failure here to ease the Berlin tension and make progress toward East-West agreement, there should be a summit meeting anyway. President Eisenhower has said he would not attend a heads of government meeting under such conditions, and at the moment that is basic Western policy.

The Western powers demanded that Moscow stop threatening them with a separate East German peace treaty, and get back to negotiations for ending the West Berlin crisis.

At the outset, Gromyko displayed readiness to soften the bite but not to pull the teeth of the Soviet campaign to force U.S., British and French garrisons out of the divided city.

Gromyko assured the Western powers that he had not intended his proposal for the one-year deadline on the Western occupation of West Berlin as an ultimatum. He said he could not understand what all the excitement was about. He urged the Western ministers to stop using the terms dictate and ultimatum.

He spoke at a semipublic meeting in the Palace of Nations after U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter called on him to state for the record what he had told Herter in a secret session Thursday.

Herter and his Western colleagues, who have declared the conference to be on a day-to-day basis now, carried their onslaught against Soviet proposals for an interim Berlin settlement through the final three-hour session of the fifth week.

They have threatened to break off next week unless the Soviets pull a diplomatic retreat over the weekend.

Agreement was reached for a secret session Monday.

This indicated Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville hold hope—however slight—that Gromyko will get orders from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to back up.

At stake are the possibility of putting the Berlin crisis on ice and the prospects for holding a summit conference later this year.

Lloyd told today's session that Gromyko had wrecked two weeks of work Tuesday in his proposal of a one-year moratorium in the Berlin crisis. It would be backed by a Soviet threat to make a separate East German peace treaty if the year failed to produce agreement on an all-German peace settlement and West Berlin's future.

Pupil Assignment And Work Review Features Meeting

A review of activities for the past school year and pupil assignments for the 1959-1960 school year highlighted last night's meeting of the Greenville City Board of Education.

The review was presented by Mrs. Ellen Carroll, supervisor of instruction, and Superintendent J. H. Rose. Mrs. Carroll outlined the program of in-service training which was carried to all teachers in the city system, the citywide testing program and roles played by visiting experts in assisting teachers to adopt better teaching methods.

Mrs. Carroll told members of the board that the in-service training program included sponsorship of various facets by professional organizations within the schools. She also discussed student groupings, pointing out that the State Department of Public Instruction pattern for instruction of exceptional students was followed in the junior high school.

The supervisor also said the city uses a planned program of achievement testing for all students in the spring of each school year, with mental maturity tests administered to students in each year's second, fourth, seventh and tenth grades.

Mrs. Carroll also reported that considerable assistance had been given to indigent children during the past year by civic clubs, church groups and other organizations. She added that physicians have been of assistance in providing necessary medical examinations for students, and cited the program of personal hygiene instruction in Eppes High School by Dr. A. A. Best.

Rose reported that lunchrooms in the city system provided 20,892 free lunches during the school year. Costs of the free lunch program, estimated at $5,516 at a price of 30 cents per lunch, were absorbed by the lunchrooms, Rose added.

The superintendent was instructed by the board, in other actions, to begin procedures to acquire additional land at Fleming Street School and Eppes High School, to write letters of appreciation from the board to Dr. Best and to donors of new scholarships announced this year for Eppes High School, and to request permission of the Pitt County Board of Education to file a revised budget for the 1959-1960 fiscal year.

Preliminary procedures for acquisition of land at the two schools will include transmission of letters to owners of the property being sought for expansion of the two campuses. A sample form for the letters, prepared by board member Louis W. Gaylor Jr. was approved at the meeting.

The letters of appreciation will go to Dr. Best for his work with the personal hygiene instruction program at Eppes; and to developers of Greenville Terrace subdivision, to College View Cleaners and to the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. for scholarships made available to Eppes High School students.

The request for a revised budget will include asking for permission to allot up to $5,000 of the proposed appropriation for purchase of new science laboratory equipment at Junius H. Rose High School for the 1959-1960 school year.

New teachers who were elected for the coming year include Miss Louise M. Cheatham, Mrs. Lilliah Nelson Smith, Mrs. Lucy Haddock, Mrs. Charlene S. Bennett, Mrs. Mabel Surles, John A. Jones, Mrs. Louise B. Eller and Coleman Gentry. Joe Smith was reassigned as principal of the junior high school from his former position as assistant principal.

The pupil assignments which were made are in accordance with session laws of the 1955 North Carolina General Assembly.

Navy Discloses Guided Torpedo

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy has been working for more than two years on a "guided missile" torpedo called "Astor", it disclosed.

The Westinghouse Electric Corp. plant in Baltimore has the 7½-million-dollar development contract for Astor's guidance. This is accomplished through a thin strand of wire that follows the torpedo.

The Germans used this wire technique in World War II.

Upset Conviction Of Seed Grower

RALEIGH (AP) — Decisions in Hyde County school consolidation fuss and a tobacco seed controversy were handed down today by the State Supreme Court.

Condemnation of some 12 acres of land by the Hyde board as the sile for a consolidated high school was approved by the high court, which found no error in lower court proceedings.

The decision clears the way, barring further legal actions, for the Hyde board to obtain title to the land and move ahead with construction of a school to consolidate present high schools at Swan Quarter and Engelhard.

The court threw out the conviction of Z. R. Bissette, Elm City seed grower, on a charge of selling seed which was labeled as one variety but actually was another variety.

The opinion written by Associate Justice William B. Rodman Jr. said Bissette was prosecuted on an invalid indictment. Rodman wrote that the indictment in Rockingham Superior Court failed to name a purchaser and did not allege fraudulent intent.

In a dissenting opinion, Associate Justice R. Hunt Parker said he felt the conviction should stand. He argued that the law covering the case does not require that fraudulent intent be alleged. He also pointed out that the indictment covered the offer to sell, as well as actual sale.

Expecting Over 400 New Pupils

City School Enrollment For Next Term Believed To Reach 5,232

Enrollment in Greenville City Schools for the 1959-1960 school year is expected to be at least 428 students more than the 1958-1959 term's total of 4,804, the city Board of Education was told last night.

Superintendent J. H. Rose said the city's six white schools expect to pick up 271 students and that the four Negro schools expect to increase by 157 students. The anticipated increases will give the city schools an estimated enrollment of 5,232 during the coming school year, Rose said.

All but two of the schools are expected to be larger next year. The exception are Third Street School, where enrollment is expected to drop from 386 to 381, and Wahl-Coates School, where enrollment is expected to drop from 513 to 490. Rose High School is expected to climb from 610 to 706, the junior high school from 471 to 569, Agnes Fullilove School from 404 to 415 and Elmhurst School from 458 to 552.

Enrollment figures at both Wahl-Coates and Elmhurst will be affected, Rose said, by transfer of two sixth grades from Wahl-Coates to Elmhurst, and transfer of two special education classes from the junior High School to Wahl-Coates.

Among the Negro schools, Eppes High School is expected to pick up 75 students, in going from an enrollment of 361 to an enrollment of 436. Other increases are expected in the elementary division of Eppes, from 510 to 515; Fleming Street School, from 522 to 561; and South Greenville School, from 569 to 607.

Fiery Collision Kills 5 In Family And Two Others

TUSCOLA, Ill. (AP)—A family group of four women and a man nearing home after vacationing in New York and two young women were killed in a fiery collision of two autos on a two-lane highway Thursday night.

The vacationists, within 20 miles of their homes, were a husband and wife and their teen-age daughter and two sisters of the dead woman. Their car burst into flames after the collision.

The two young women in the second car apparently were on their way home to nearby Atwood when the crash occurred about 9:30 p.m. about three miles east of this central Illinois town.

Sheriff Eugene Miller said a car driven by Miss Rosalee Bragg, 21, slid off the highway — U.S. 36 — and then backed into the path of a car driven by Joseph Harmon, 58, a farmer.

Anxious To Cut Into Foreign Aid Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee wants a start made next year on a cutting down and eventually wiping out all gifts of foreign economic assistance. It contends loans are better.

The committee wrote its demand Thursday into President Eisenhower's $3,930,000,000 foreign aid bill. Both the Senate and the House must agree if it is to become effective. No deadline was fixed.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), pushing for more emphasis on loans, had been urging that all gifts of aid be ended by June 30, 1963.

Mansfield's proposal would have applied to grants and gifts of special economic assistance, for which Eisenhower is asking 250 million dollars next year, and defense economic supports, for which he seeks 835 million.

Fixing no time limit, the committee adopted an amendment asking Eisenhower to submit a specific plan next year under which such grant assistance "shall be progressively reduced and eliminated."

The plan it asked for would apply different standards to different countries receiving aid. Critics of Mansfield's proposal had contended that some countries would need grants rather than loans for a long time.

In other actions, the committee voted to curb secrecy on foreign aid spending and to restrict government guarantees on private investment abroad.

Secrecy on the amount of aid to any country would be limited to that necessary to U.S. security. The administration would be required to make public all other information on both military and economic aid.

Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho), who sponsored the secrecy ban, cited an example involving Brazil.

He said it has long been known that this country has a missile tracking station on a Brazilian island, but secrecy hides "how much rent," as he put it, this country is paying Brazil.

Under an amendment by Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt), investment guarantees would be limited to those made in underdeveloped countries.

They are now available generally to guarantee American investors abroad against losses from war, confiscation or inability to convert foreign currencies into dollars.

June Bride Given Shower

Miss Janet Cox and Miss Cathryn Ratcliffe honored Miss Betty Lou Merritt, June bride-elect, Monday night at a miscellaneous shower at Miss Ratcliffe's home on West Fourth Street.

Guests were greeted by the hostess and introduced to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. V. A Merritt Jr., and the bridegroom-elect's mother, Mrs. J. H. McLawhorn.

The home was decorated throughout with arrangements of candles and summer flowers. The guests were directed to the dining room where the table was covered with an imported hand-cut and embroidered handkerchief linen cloth. An all-white arrangement of mixed flowers centered the table. It was flanked by single candleholders with epergnes and ribboned candles.

Mrs. Corky Allen, sister of the bride-elect, served punch and the guests served themselves to other party refreshments.

The hostesses presented Miss Merritt a white mum corsage and a gift of her chosen crystal.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Western North Carolina. For traveling, Mrs. Buck wore a pink dress and matching accessories. She wore the orchid lifted from her prayer book. The couple received in the church vestibule.

For the market basket this week, food shopers will find that eggs again top the list of economical food buys. All sizes of eggs are available at low prices. During the summer months they can be used alone or in salads, casseroles and in desserts.

All poultry products now provide excellent high-protein food budget stretchers. Supplies of fryers, heavy hens and turkeys continue relatively large, with heavy hens and turkeys being "featured" in many locations.

Recent warm weather and rain have resulted in increased supplies of fresh vegetables. Harvest of snaps, corn, squash, potatoes, beets and cabbage is heavy, both in Florida and local areas. Big shipments of California and Florida celery continue to offer high quality at low price. Quality of tomatoes and cukes will improve soon.

North Carolina-grown dewberries and blueberries are at their seasonal peak—now is the time to enjoy them. Early yellow cling variety peaches are arriving on the market. Quality is excellent and the price reasonable. Look for increased supplies of Tar Heel peaches in the next two weeks. Florida shipments of watermelons continue with the peak expected later in June.

Retail price of meat remains about the same as last week at the local markets. Watch "specials" for best value in beef and pork. Most beef prices remain about steady; most pork is up and will continue to rise. Economical pork buys include hams, picnics, bacon and sausage. Luncheon meats and fish offer variety and economy.

Gardening Today

By JOHN DUNCAN

There are many myths and legends concerning some of the trees, shrubs, fruits, flowers and vegetables that are grown in a present day garden. They have been handed down through the years. They were born in the ancient times (those dark times of superstition). Now all of the superstition is worn off (we hope) and we know them for their beauty and usefulness.

Plants and flowers that have some past (according to legend) can make a garden more interesting. From the commonplace they change to an enigma—hiding their true selves behind a mask of color and fragrance.

When you eat a fig from your tree do you recall that the first pair of pants (or at least the first recorded bit of tailoring) were fashioned from its leaves?

And the tempting apple on its tree by the garden gate, spawn of sin to the Hebrew, fruit of immortality to the Perisan, and good eating to everyone. Your dogwood and redbud—beauties of spring. Were they co-actors in the drama of Easter? God's scaffold and Judas hanging place?

Did Hecate, queen of Hell, plant the cowled aconite (monk hood) in her garden? Keep it away from your vegetable garden, its roots and flowers contain violent poison.

Someone's grandfather (to the nth degree) said you could rub jupiter's beard on your hand and handle a hot iron one time (after that you were on your own).

If you believe in fairy tales don't pick a peony when a woodpecker is looking. It is said he (or she) will peck your eyes out. Wait until it flies away—who knows?

If your ears were keen enough, what stories the roses could tell you. Of the strawberry Swift is supposed to have said, "God could have made a better berry, but he didn't."

The Iris, Jasmine, Lockspur, Lily, Lilac, and many more are as rich in legend as the very earth they grow in.

Growing things came before man in the Creation Story, and may be here after he has gone. One thing, however, is certain—if they go first, man has no choice but to follow.

Dessert-Bridge Parties Honor Miss Worthington

AYDEN—On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Wayland Harrington and Mrs. Bonnie McCormick entertained at dessert-bridge in honor of Miss Barbara Worthington, bride-elect.

Miss Janet Edwards greeted the guests on arrival and Miss Ann Tripp passed the bridal tallies to the guests.

In the living room arrangements of summer flowers were used. On the auxiliary tables miniature bridal bouquets centered the table.

The hostesses presented Miss Worthington with a white glamellia corsage and also remembered her with gits of china in her chosen pattern. Miss Worthington chose for the occasion a pink sheath cotton dress with a lace cummerbund and matching hat.

At the end of play, Mrs. Marvin Baldree received earrings for high while Miss Susan Ross was remembered with a milk glass vase as low. A like prize was won by Mrs. R. H. Worthington for Bingo.

The hostess served a sweet course with bridal cake to the following: Misses Worthington, Ross, Connie Dunn, Sandra Basden, Shirley Moseley, Bonnie Rutledge, Mary Ellen Everett, Brenda Davis, Lila Hemby, Laura Worthington, Mesdames R. H. Worthington, Joe Tripp, Marvin Baldree, Larry Davis, Robert Harris and Howard T. Walker of Plymouth.

Mrs. Abernathy Hostess

Mrs. Jim Abernathy entertained her bridge club and also honored Miss Barbara Worthington, bride-elect, at her home on Snow Hill Street at dessert-bridge.

Summer flowers decorated the home. The hostess presented Miss Worthington with a white mum corsage and also a silver tray. Miss Worthington chose a white and blue sheath dress with matching accessories for the occasion.

A sweet course with bridal cake was served. During play pink lemonade and mints were served. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. T. G. Worthington.

At the end of play, club high and second high was won by Mrs. Joe Whitaker and Mrs. Bill Stroud. Guest high and second high was won by Mrs. C. T. Babington and Mrs. Hugh Allen. Low, was won by Miss Brenda Davis.

Guests included Mesdames Joe Whitaker, Bill Stroud, Reece Twilly, C. O. Pratt, Earl Eichorn, John Burns, Bob Denton, Hugh Allen, C. T. Babington, R. H. Worthington, Ralph Worthington, Emerson Worthington, Misses Barbara Worthington, Shirley Moseley, Brenda Davis, Bonnie Rutledge, Sandra Basden and Mrs. Ivan Armstrong.

Houseguest Given Party

GRIFTON—On Saturday morning Mrs. Eleanor Gower and Miss Louise Mewborn entertained at the home of Mrs. Gower on Queen Street at an informal hour to honor Mrs. W. C. Ripley of Maplewood, N. J., a guest of her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Gravely.

Guests were greeted by the hostesses and presented to Mrs. Ripley. They were invited into the dining room where the table was covered with a linen cutwork cloth and held a low bouquet of white feverfew and gladiola flowerlets. Open-faced sandwiches, potato chips, nuts, cookies with iced drinks were served.

Throughout the home roses and garden flowers were noted in the decorations.

LEAVE THE FELL

Many good cooks remove the fell—the thin outer covering of lamb—before roasting because they believe it is detrimental to flavor; but recent research indicates that the fell does not affect the flavor of roast lamb.

MAKE IT SEPARATE

Like to serve salad with your main course? Then provide a separate salad plate or bowl and place it to the left of the luncheon or dinner plate. Cold salad should never be served on plates that have been warmed for a hot main course.

The plastic bags in which carrots come are fine to use for covering grapefruit halves that are being refrigerated.

FOUNTAIN—Mrs. J. M. Horton, wife of Fountain's mayor, enjoys reading in her spare time.

Inglis Fletcher's "Men of Albemarle" heads the list of books which Mrs. Horton most enjoyed. She also liked "Dr. Zhivago" by Pasternak.

Among Mrs. Horton's civic activities, she is the chairman of the art department of the Woman's Club.

Due to health reasons, Mrs. Horton retired from teaching primary grades in the Fountain School and consequently gave up teaching Sunday school which she had done for 35 years.

Tropical fish and birds are another interest of Mr. and Mrs. Horton.

Both Hortons were raised in the Piedmont section of North Carolina. Each year they like to visit that area.

A favorite meal at the Horton home is steak, baked potatoes and green salad.

Getting another deep water well for Fountain is one of the many things that Mayor Horton hopes to accomplish during his term.

The Extra Outlay Is Justifiable

Pitt County Commissioners chose the right course in approving the expenditure of $673,000 from county hospital bonds for the addition to Pitt Memorial Hospital in spite of the fact that this is some $173,000 more than was estimated to be necessary at the time the bond issue was approved last year.

Bids on the 70-bed hospital addition which were opened yesterday totaled $1,673,403. That amounted to some $173,000 more than the estimated cost of the proposed addition. Had the County Commissioners delayed in approving the bids, the county would have run the risk of losing the million dollars in federal aid funds which already have been earmarked by the State Medical Care Commission for the Pitt County project.

After the bids were taken yesterday, William F. Henderson of the State Medical Care Commission explained to Pitt officials that federal matching funds for such projects are available for a limited period of time only. If the funds earmarked for Pitt were not officially obligated by July 1 they would revert to Washington. Further he explained that the 66 2-3 per cent state-federal participation rate now in effect for the Pitt hospital project might also be changed during the coming fiscal year.

Pitt Countians will recall that when the cost of the hospital addition was estimated almost two years ago, the figure was set at $1,500,000. At that time it was designated that the county would provide 50 per cent of the necessary funds, and thus the bond issue was set at $750,000. During the current fiscal year the county's portion of the cost was reduced to one-third the total cost and local voters were told before they approved the bond issue that the county anticipated issuing only $500,000 of the $750,000 worth of bonds called for in the referendum.

It was further pointed out Wednesday to local officials that in the past 12 years the Medical Care Commission has earmarked practically all of the state-federal matching funds for hospitals for projects in rural areas of the state. Pressure is now mounting for a portion of these funds to be diverted to more "metropolitan" areas of the state. The result probably is that less funds will be available under the federal Hill-Burton Act for future use in Pitt and similar counties.

As Mr. Henderson plainly put it to Pitt officials: "If you don't get the money now, I don't think we (the Medical Care Commission) will be able to come back to Pitt County for a long, long time, if ever."

Under those circumstances, it is certainly in the best interest of Pitt County that the Commissioners approved the expenditure of $173,000 more than initially estimated to assure the firm commitment of the one million in state-federal aid for the local hospital.

The need for the hospital addition is recognized by Pitt County citizens as indicated by their approved bond issue for the project last fall.

The County Commissioners, in our opinion, carried out the will of the people by approving the expenditure of the extra $173,000 required for the project.

S.C. Also Uses Study Practice

By LYNN NISBET

STUDIES — The South Carolina Legislature goes along with the idea of study commissions to gather and codify information upon which legislation might be based. In fact, South Carolina seems to think more of the study commission idea than does North Carolina. The recent Palmetto State Legislature authorized no less than 39 such study groups, according to a story in The State, the newspaper published at Columbia and comparable to the News and Observer at Raleigh with respect to capitol legislative news reporting and influence in their respective states.

The objective goal and basic purpose of these study commissions is the same as that of the comparable North Carolina study groups. The approach, the method of obtaining personnel for the commissions and presentation of reports and recommendations is very different.

Common practice in North Carolina study groups. The approach, the method of obtaining personnel for the commissions and presentation of reports and recommendations is very different.

Common practive in North Carolina is for the General Assembly to authorize the Governor to appoint a commission to study a specific problem, and recommend legislation to alleviate or cure it. Sometimes the appointive authority is restricted as to class of personnel — so many Representatives, so many Senators, a specified number of public members, often with restrictive qualifications but seldom if ever by name of individuals.

In South Carolina the Legislature which authorizes the study also appoints the folks who are to do the job, and they are in every instance members of the Legislature which named them, and in most instances in the Legislature to which they make recommendations.

SUBCOMMITTEES — Net effect of that policy is to constitute the study groups as subcommittees of the Legislature, primarily responsible to the parent body of the General Assembly, rather than independent commissions primarily responsible to the appointing executive. Arguments can be advanced for and against both plans. So far as the fact-finding phase goes there would seem to be little difference. Distinction comes in the recommendations, and the degree of credence or prestige to be given them.

The South Carolina system retains complete control in the General Assembly. The study committees are named by the General Assembly and they are required to report directly to the next session of that body. In North Carolina the General Assembly authorizes, but does not name the commissions. The Governor makes the appointments and in most cases the reports are required to be made to the Governor for transmittal to the Legislature, more or less at his discretion. As a matter of courtesy and practice, the North Carolina commissions, named by the Governor, consult frequently with him during their study process. Inevitably the recommendations are colored by executive influence.

Scouts for this reporter find that in South Carolina the Governor has great difficulty in obtaining access to reports or recommendations before they are presented to the Legislature, and no voice at all in the formulation of the reports. The Governor of South Carolina has veto power over legislation, whereas the Governor of North Carolina does not. Our Governor does not need it, in light of the power he can exercise over legislation before it is introduced or enacted.

HECTIC — Although adjournment is not expected by the optimists earlier than next Saturday, and most opinion is for several days later, activity in legislative circles the past few days has been reminiscent of closing hours of previous sessions.

One old timer looking on the scene quipped "there's a-weavin' and a-workin' like ants when you kick over the hill." When the House displaced the major bills on the printed calendar to take up the biennial budget revenue bill, Speaker Hewlett had to pound the gavel many times to obtain reasonable order. He called for the sergeant at arms to quiet those in the hall and to round up absent members from outside.

The confusion was occasioned by two main reasons. Members were diligently seeking support for their pet bills — or against measures they did not like, and at the same time trying to ascertain the status of certain bills they had introduced earlier. And collection hats were much in evidence. Every member is on two or three major committees with full time clerks and each was solicited for a contribution, usually a buck apiece, for a gift to the clerk. Also a number of the fellows in goth houses had not kicked in their part of the cost of the love feasts in amounts ranging from $10 to $25.

One representative good humoredly complained that he wasn't getting any pay for that day's work, but had already given away for these various "causes" almost as much as he had earned in a week during the pay period. Most of them were very cheerful about it, because they had just received "windfall" checks for travel expenses to and from home every trip since the Legislature convened early in February.

What The Lawmakers Won't Tell Homefolks

Last-round battles in the legislature this week have removed all doubt about two things we Tar Heels have to look forward to:

1. Come January, we'll begin paying our state income taxes on a withholding basis. (and we'll also have to pay our 1959 income taxes by April 15.)

2. Come 1961 we can all look forward to some of the biggest increases in state taxes we have seen in many years.

Happy prospects?

Well, it just depends on which way you look at it.

This session of the legislature, along with Gov. Hodges' administration, has been determined its members could go back home and tell the folks, "Well, we did what was necessary and we didn't raise your taxes." There can be no question now that the goal has been achieved. All that remains is the formality of making the laws.

What they are not going to tell the people when they get back home is that they have taken 27 or so million dollars the withholding windfall will provide and earmarked it for current operating expenses during the biennium which begins July 1. Neither are they going to tell the people that come 1961 the General Assembly is not going to merely have to look for enough additional revenue to take care of necessary expansion in services, but it will also have to find enough new revenue to make up for the $27 million windfall which will have been collected and spent by that time.

Technically, the 1959 General Assembly has not raised state taxes. But for that they are more to be condemned than commended. What they have done is hide behind the coattails of non-recurring tax windfall by designating the additional revenue for current expenses. They have lacked the courage to levy sufficient additional taxes to provide enough new state revenue to meet their increased appropriations.

They have created a situation which will compell the 1961 General Assembly either to cut appropriations, or shoulder the responsibility for imposing a double load of taxation on the peojle of the state.

Doctors Given Needle By Ike

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, making a 1959 crusade against inflation, this week stuck a needle in the nation's doctors.

He told them in effect medical services should be kept within reason.

The government's figures show that living costs in general have gone up 108.6 per cent since 1939. Which means: What you could buy for $1 in 1939 would cost you $2.08 today.

In that same 20-year period the rise in hospital costs eclipsed almost everything else in the various categories which make up the government's total picture of living costs. They went up around 300 per cent.

In those 20 years doctors' fees have climbed 84 per cent. Some of the items in other categories were much higher — in their rise — than doctors' fees, some were lower.

Eisenhower, using his speech to the American Medical Assn. convention in Atlantic City Tuesday night to support the practice of private medicine as against a government medical care program, told the doctors:

"The medical profession, as much as any other, has a vital interest in preventing inflation. Certainly it wants to provide its services for a fee within range of what people can reasonably pay.

"If the time ever comes when large numbers of our citizens turn primarily to the government for assistance in what ought to remain a private arrangement between doctor and patient, then we shall all have suffered a great loss."

Although in the 20 years since 1939 the government's broad category of "medical care" rose just a little less than the general cost of living — 106.1 per cent as compared with 108.6 per cent — there is a big variation in the cost of the items which go into that category.

Here are some other examples of how living costs have risen in the 20 years since 1939:

In that period food costs — as a whole — have zoomed up 149.7 per cent, the bigest single jump in all the major categories which make up the government's living cost index.

The cost of housing has gone up 69.1 per cent, and this figure includes house purchase, interest, taxes, insurance and upkeep; rent, up 60.9 per cent; gas and electricity, 12.7 per cent; solid fuels and oil, 145.9 per cent; house furnishings, 94.4 per cent.

Here are some other 20-year increases in various things people pay for under the head of living costs.

New cars went up around 125 per cent; men's haircuts, 206 per cent; gasoline, 69 per cent; household appliances, 33 per cent, newspapers, 124 per cent; and movie admissions, 120 per cent.

Opinions In Brief

"The instant the present administration of the State of North Carolina fails to protect the persons and the properties of the people against violence, then that administration should resign from office because it would have allied itself on the side of anarchy." — Fayetteville Observer.

"I like to pay postillions and waiters rather more liberally than perhaps is right. I hate krumbling and sour faces; and the whole saving will not exceed a guinea or two from being cursed and damned from Dan to Bersheba." — Sir Walter Scott.

Was That Adm. Rickover Who Just Passed?

By DON SCHLIENZ

Their Energy Abounds

The darnedest thoughts come to the fore at unusual places. . . such, for instance, as when taking my two caged offspring to Elm Street Park to wear off some of their excess energy.

While conserving my own (energy, that is), there's a certain amount of satisfaction in watching others playing on the tennis courts.

Most of those I've watched don't play tennis, they play at it. And here's where that odd chain of thought arises again and again.

It's pretty well accepted these days that the physical condition of Young America isn't all that it might be.

The real authorities on the subject shake their heads with a degree of dismay when checking off a list of failings that have been uncovered in instances of comparative data at hand.

I wouldn't say there was a groundless basis for seeking some sort of remedial action, but neither do I feel any sense of alarm. Of course my observations have a limited scope; but the young people I see crowding the local scene represent a high degree of good health and fitness.

En masse, they look wiry and strong on the beaches and at the pools; in smaller groups you see them by the scores in a hustling and skilled performance playing baseball on hot summer afternoons (when a relaxed sort of wilting seems more in order).

Watch them on the streets. You rarely see the traditionally narrow-chested and listless looking characters associated with poor health and lack of exercise.

But back to the tennis courts (they're still out there—trying!). Of the maybe eight or ten players, you may spot two who are playing tennis as you would like to be able to play. The rest are working at it, but inept for the most glaring reason of all: they're holding the racquet incorrectly.

Despite all the energy they're expending, the tennis courts and the game is surely going to lose them in a matter of brief weeks or months unless someone nips this all-important fault in the bud. They simply won't keep up with the pasttime when their progress fails to overcome that one basic obstacle.

The impulse to walk out on the court and set the player straight (but not risk a serve—it's been overlong since that last game) is nearly overwhelming. Reluctance to poke a rather long nose into somebody else's private business has thus far prevailed; but how long this noble restraint can prevail is anybody's guess.

Anyway, all this strikes me as indicative of a couple of points:

An amount of avoidable ineptitude does exist in athletic activity, said ineptitude conceivably inviting a lesser degree of athletic pasttimes than might otherwise be enjoyed;

And while a moderately good degree of physical conditioning is desireable, the young people you see from day to day outwardly enjoy good health—the foundation on which a "toning-up" project is easy to build. Some small degree of guidance seems to me the only thing that keeps a horde of young folk from becoming physical culture faddists. They have the energy.

Surprising, the things that cross one's mind while riding herd on two small bundles of energy at the park!

Other Editors Saying . . . Worldwide Application

(Wilson Times)

The public concept of the "foreign aid" program is broadening and becoming more widely recognized for the objectives that must be obtained. This is imperative if the free world is to survive.

Let us go back a little. The West is now being challenged to do for the undeveloped areas of the world what was once accomplished through idealism and practical Christianity.

You can recall the day when the minister visited the sick, saw that their needs were cared for. He counseled the family and looked after the spiritual and physical well being of the community.

Then we developed into large areas, thicky populated, and the task became too much for anything but an organized effort. Let me say in passing here is where the churches have lost their influence. They are no longer necessary to the every day well being of the members.

But we learned from the industrial revolution. First we amassed great wealth, centered in the few with poverty stalking the land.

But the Western nations embarked on their program and drew on the humane and Christian traditions and the democracy that has guided them through grave and serious situations.

From this period evolved the general welfare stage where the industrialization benefits were shared more widely. The rich, the talented, and the fortunate shared with the less fortunate and health and welfare programs were set up, education was offered the masses and a higher standard of living resulted.

This brings us to the point, which is that the Western world realizes that this program must spread over the face of the globe if the free world is to survive.

Some call the movement the voice of authentic American idealism. To the more cynical it is just a lot of American money being wasted on those foreigners who do not care a whit about us.

But it is for our survival, that is what we should realize. Today we face the challenged as to whether the Western way of life and institutions can stand the test of worldwide application.

Dr. Henry W. Wriston, president of the American Assembly and former president of Brown University, calls it the second 100 years' war.

He says the second 100 years war began in 1918 and has gained momentum. He offers strong support to the President and Congress for an adequate and long range mutual security program.

It is not something for today, but for years ahead; to raise the average per capita wealth of the people of India above the present $60 a head and to bring it more in line with Europe which is $800 a head. It is recognized that the $2,000 per capita income of the United States and Canada is the dream of the future.

But if the future lies with freedom, then free men must grow in the wider responsibilities of world wide applications of the Western ideals.

Customers May Learn Questions

By ELMER ROESSNER

Soon merchants may find more of their moderate-income customers reading contracts before signing, and asking pretty sophisticated questions about values and guarantees.

Both the AFL-CIO and the Credit Union National Association recently announced separate programs to counsel their millions of members on how to manage money. Previously these organizations generally had limited their activities, in the case of the labor unions, to getting more money for their members, and among the credit unions to making it available for family needs and personal emergencies.

The labor and credit unions say they aren't sure they know all the reasons why some of their millions of members get into financial jams. But they feel they know enough to help their members learn how to buy a better standard of living for their incomes, or at least discontinue their sometimes close acquaintance with the local bailiff. For one thing, both groups have learned, it's often the same people who get garnished or who periodically show up for a new loan.

So don't be startled if one day you see a business agent for a local union sit down with a worker and figure out a budget for him or explain to a family how to calculate interest rates and the comparative food values of eggs and meat.

Actually, family financial counseling will benefit employers, too, points out John Biggers, educational director of the Credit Union National Association. Not that the credit unions expect to work out a budget for the company president, although some business executives might welcome one. But "people more secure in their family life and more successful in managing their money make more effective workers for industry," says Biggers. That's hard to quarrel with.

Sidney Blitz, educational director of the New York State League, considers credit unions especially qualified to do such counseling. "We're service organizations run by our own members have nothing to sell and can be completely impartial," he points out.

Already the AFL-CIO Community Services Committee has pilot counseling programs under way in six cities. The union committee first plans to put its local representatives through money-management courses with the help of local colleges. The local representatives in turn will arrange courses of six to ten classes for union families, plus one-day institutes on specific consumer problems.

The course will cover such topics as budgeting, buying insurance, various sources of credit and comparative costs, shopping for merchandise, planning family meals and buying homes and home improvements.

WON'T PREACH

Significantly, both the AFL-CIO committee and the credit unions disavow any intention of telling members how to spend their money or what to buy. The trade-union group says it will limit its efforts to helping people buy more efficiently what they plan to buy anyway.

Blitz says a major object of financial counseling will be to make people more conscious of their own values and the need to make choices in terms of what their families really want most, as, a new car this year or a better home next year.

Similarly, Walter N. May merchandising consultant specializing in bridal shops, reports that adult education people are showing increased interest in making available money-management and buymanship courses. May's experience is that 70 per cent of the just-married couples buy their furniture in stores they never before set foot in. Consumer education is a big blind spot in the education of young people, he says.

Already several state credit union leagues are moving to set up counseling programs. In Utah, credit union officials have met with other agencies and university people to work out plans. Nebraska credit unions have a course in counseling arranged for this fall at a junior college there. The Michigan State Credit Union League has been operating a counseling course in co-operation with colleges there for several years.

Doctor Travels By Air

By DANIEL J. MARSTON

FRIDAY HARBOR, Wash. (AP) — Dr. Malcolm G. Heath is the kind of doctor who, when his patients call, goes to treat them.

Sometimes this takes some doing, since Dr. Heath's possible patients are scattered over more than 100 islands in wild and watery northern Puget Sound.

Dr. Heath, now 46, is an ex-paratrooper. So far he hasn't parachuted to a bedside, but he does spend considerable time in the air.

"It's a flying job mostly," he says. "Usually 10 to 40-minute hops. Honestly I couldn't figure my mileage but I logged about 250 flights this past year. Most were to the dozen or so bigger islands."

Dr. Heath disclaims anything heroic or unusual about his San Juan Island flying practice. He and a partner are the only regular physicians in all San Juan County.

"You could call me a country doctor, yes," he said. "Only my partner and I think we're quite modern and up-to-date.

"Things are modernized a lot now. We're not as isolated as we used to be. Transportation, everything else, is improved."

Ten Years of Practice

Dr. Heath and his wife, daughter of a Cornwall, England, physician he met overseas in World War II, came to this area in the winter of 1950.

Up to then, retired physicians occasionally saw patients on the San Juans. Vacationing or a few full-time doctors would stay a few months and make calls, usually only on their own islands. There was no hospital.

This past year and through the winter Dr. Heath and his partner, Dr. John M. Bell, were usually always able to fly to answer calls for medical help when needed, because of favorable weather. But it's not infrequent that winter gales, or blinding fog, stop flying.

Dr. Heath flies his own light plane. For night calls or tough assignments, he has flying service friends who take him in a larger plane.

He also makes trips on the Coast Guard's 83-foot patrol boat or smaller craft, or in his own outboard cruiser. Mrs. Heath on occasion pilots their small boat to land him in an isolated spot.

The practice runs the whole list of a Northwest physician's work: logginv or fishing injurwork: logging or fishing injurcidents, childrens' hurts.

Dr. Heath has been summoned from Vancouver, B.C., symphony concerts and from medical meetings as far away as Los Angeles. A vacation? The word is hardly in his vocabulary.

The San Juans have a year-round population of about 3,400. Their beauties as a vacation area and such nationally-popular books as "Till Fish Us Do Part" have helped bring summer visitors in great numbers.

Popular Citizen

Dr. Heath, who was born in North Carolina, is a member of the National Flying Physicians Assn. He and Mrs. Heath have two children, Paula, 11, and Andrew, 8. The family's popularity and well-earned admiration is undoubted.

As one evidence, two modest medical centers have been built, one here at Friday Harbor, and the other at Eastsound on Orcas Island, in large part a tribute to Dr. Heath.

An acquaintance, Dr. Robert F. Kaiser of Bellingham, puts it this way:

"The people of the islands almost worship Dr. Heath. He is a most intelligent man. He would be a success in any large city, yet he chooses to live in this out-of-the-way area because he has the missionary spirit of serving others.

Elisha and Naaman — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—II Kings 5.

Naaman, captain of the host of Syria, was afflicted with "leprosy," now known as Hansen's disease. A slave girl from Israel said that Elisha could heal him.—II Kings 5:1-3.

Someone told the king what the maid had said and he sent a messenger to the king of Israel, asking him to heal Naaman. That king said he couldn't perform miracles.—II Kings 5:5-7.

When Elisha heard what the king had said, he said to send Naaman to him for healing. Naaman went to Elisha, who told him to wash in the Jordan river seven times.—II Kings 8-10.

Naaman was angry at this advice. He was finally persuaded to do as the prophet said, however, and was healed.—II Kings 5:11-14.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 33:5.

Elisha and Naaman

THE PROPHET HEALS A PROMINENT MAN OF HIS DISEASE

Scripture—II Kings 5.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

"NOW NAAMAN, captain of the host of the king of Syria, was a great man with his master, and honorable, because by him the Lord had given deliverance unto Syria; he was a mighty man of valour, but he was a leper."—II Kings 5:1.

This terrible disease was prevalent in certain countries and dreadfully crippling, usually ending in complete helplessness and death. In the Standard Encyclopedia, published in 1931, it was estimated that "there were 3,000,000" lepers then in the world. This is now called Hansen's Disease, and a great deal of money has been raised by the Leonard Wood Memorial for the eradication of this dread disease.

We hope the number of persons who suffer from it is much less at the present time than these figures quoted and that it may indeed be completely eradicated.

A little maid who had been brought captive out of Israel and waited on Naaman's wife, said to her mistress, "Would God, my Lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria! for he would recover him of his leprosy."—II Kings 5:2-3.

Someone told the king of Syria what she had said, and he exclaimed: "Go, and I will send a letter unto the king of Israel." So, laden with gifts the messenger did as he was bid, and the letter said: "Behold, I have therewith sent Naaman my servant to thee, that thou mayest recover him of his leprosy."—II Kings 5:2-6.

On receiving the letter, the king "rent his clothes, and said: Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosy? wherefore consider, I pray you, and see how he seeketh a quarrel against me."—II Kings 5:7.

When Elisha heard of the king's trouble and disquietude, he sent to the king, saying, "Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel.

"So Naaman came with his horses and with his chariot, and stood at the door of the house of Elisha.

"And Elisha sent a messenger unto him, saying, Go and wash in Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again to thee, and thou shalt be clean."—II Kings 5:8-10.

Naaman was angry when he received this message because he thought the prophet would come to him and heal him at once, "So he turned and went away in a rage."—II Kings 5:10-12.

Naaman's servants, however, said to him, "My father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldst thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash, and be clean?"—II Kings 14.

So Naaman went down to the river and dipped seven times, "and his flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean."—II Kings 5: 13-14.

Then Naaman returned to Elisha with his company, and he said to the prophet, "Behold, now I know that there is no God in all the earth, but in Israel; now therefore, I pray thee, take a blessing of thy servant."—II Kings 5:15.

The Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith suggests that the younger classes be introduced to this lesson by reminding them "that many great things are begun by forces that are comparatively small, and that some amazing achievements are recorded in history accomplished by people who were obscure. A tiny seed lodged in a crevice of a rock can grow until its force splits the rock. In the lesson, a little Jewish girl slave is used by God to bring the diseased lord of the house into contact with a prophet of God who will be able, by divine help, to bring about a complete cure."

"The older classes might be reminded of the many things we cannot do for ourselves in our civilization. Naaman could not cure himself, but God gave power to another to bring this about."

While we cannot cure ailing friends (only their physicians or surgeons can do that), even the smallest of the children can send jolly cards to members of their classes who are ill to cheer them, and the older ones can send them messages of sympathy and cheer them by letting them know that they have friends who care. A "round robin" card, with the names of all the class members written on it, would be nice.

Now 43, Harvey was driving near Stewartsville the other day when he saw a turtle on the road. Still visible on the turtle's back were "P.H." and "1933."

Harvey turned it loose once more.

Rockefeller Displays Charm In Meeting Top Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the role of a man who says he isn't running for president, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller pumped a five-hour flow of high octane charm at top Republicans here Thursday.

The verdict among the politically-minded: The New York governor will be a tough, fast-paced contender if he goes after the party's 1960 presidential nomination—and he may.

In San Francisco, Vice President Richard M. Nixon faced the question "Is anything to be gained by conferences with the Russians?"

Nixon, attending a Commonwealth Club banquet Thursday night, replied:

"There is a great deal of justification for the question. Developments in Geneva don't offer too much encouragement, but the conferences are most useful.

"And the main point is, the alternative to talking is unacceptable. The United States and the Soviet Union would draw apart and quite conceivably could end up by fighting. Neither the United States or any other nation can afford to risk settlements by force.

"But the frightening thing is, war can come when all parties concerned do not want it."

Nixon said, however, there has been absolutely no change in the U.S. policy that any summit conference would have to be preceded by signs of progress at the current conference of foreign ministers.

The vice president, his wife, Pat, and daughters, Patricia, 13, and Julie, 10, flew to San Francisco from New York where he participated in ceremonies marking the 350th anniversary of the discovery of the Hudson River.

They go to Virginia City today where Nixon will speak informally at Nevada's silver centennial celebration.

Rockefeller flew to Washington on his second visit to the capital since his election last November. The announced purpose: business and pleasure. Publicly, the business was New York's. But newsmen thought they detected the aroma of higher ambitions in his smiling, handshanking progress about town.

The pleasure was centered at the Capitol Hill Club, a Republican organization which he had helped to found.

In between, reporters put to him in varying forms the big question of whether he will be available for the 1960 Republican nomination.

A score of smiling replies melted down to the standard formula—"I'm not a candidate for anything. All I want is to be a good governor of New York."

About as far as he would go beyond that was to say that he would wait to see if his name were entered in next year's New Hampshire presidential primary and then would decide what he would do.

That primary would provide an early test against Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the nomination.

At the Capitol Hill Club Rockefeller donned a bib to eat Maine lobsters and roasting ears.

When he came out of the club after shaking hands with everybody, including the waiters, a group of youngsters, driving an over-age car bearing signs reading "Nixon in '60" and "Stick with Dick Nixon," went tooting by. Stooping down under the trees to read the signs, Rockefeller clapped his hands in brief applause.

Nixon spoke on a wide range of subjects at the dinner sponsored by the civic club.

He predicted that labor reform will be a "major issue in the 1960 presidential campaign and should be." He expressed doubt that the current session of Congress would enact labor reform legislation.

"The Kennedy-Ives bill, as passed by the Senate, still is too weak to deal with labor excesses," he added. "The legislation should make all unions follow the good practices already being observed by most unions in the country."

Jazz Breaks Out In Soviet Ballet

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviets officially frown on Western hazz and abstract art but a smattering of both appears in a new ballet at the Bolshoi Theater.

It's the Negro girls' dance from the new ballet "Path of Thunder," based on Peter Abrahams' novel about race conflict in South Africa.

Strikingly beautiful girls of the Azerbaijan Art Theater did the dance.

The choreography for the number smacked of New Orleans — though perhaps slightly up the river. The music could have been St. Louis jazz.

But the torso twisting and the sinuous swaying as the ballet worked out its pattern—weaving about with mock guitars—could have come out of any smoking Kansas City or Chicago night club.

ernment officials and high-ranking workers were somewhat bewildered during the 10-day Mos-

The selected audience of govcow run. There was only polite handclapping in contrast with the enthusiastic outbursts of applause from Westerners in the audience.

The Communist Party newspaper Pravda in a review of the show dismissed the dance number with the comment that it "was received with interest."

The reviewer for the government newspaper Izvestia wrote that the music revealed strains of Negro folk music but actually retained its Azerbaijan flavor.

The ballet is expected to have its premiere abroad late this summer when the Bolshoi company goes to Peiping.

ERIKA THIMEY (above), director of the Dance Theatre, the Chamber Dance Group, and the Children's Dance Theatre of Washington, D. C., will participate in the program of the Music Education Workshop at East Carolina College on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Miss Thimey will act as instructor and consultant, working with groups of children at different age levels.

Nixon Regards Geneva Conferences As Useful

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Is anything to be gained by conferences with the Russians?"

That question was put to Vice President Richard M. Nixon at a Commonwealth Club banquet Thursday night and he replied:

"There is a great deal of justification for the question. Developments in Geneva don't offer too much encouragement, but the conferences are most useful.

"And the main point is, the alternative to talking is unacceptable. The United States and the Soviet Union would raw apart and quite conceivably could end up by fighting. Neither the United States or any other nation can afford to risk settlements by force.

"But the frightening thing is, war can come when all parties concerned do not want it."

Nixon said, however, there has been absolutely no change in the U.S. policy that any summit conference would have to be preceded by signs of progress at the current conference of foreign ministers.

The vice president, his wife, Pat, and daughters, Patricia, 13, and Julie, 10, flew here from New York where he participated in ceremonies marking the 350th anniversary of the discovery of the Hudson River.

They go to Virginia City today where Nixon will speak informally at Nevada's silver centennial celebration.

Nixon spoke on a wide range of subjects at the dinner sponsored by the civic club.

He predicted that labor reform will be a "major issue in the 1960 presidential campaign and should be." He expressed doubt that the current session of Congress would enact labor reform legislation.

"The Kennedy-Ives bill, as passed by the Senate, still is too weak to deal with labor excesses," he added. "The legislation should make all unions follow the good practices already being observed by most unions in the country."

He hopes his July trip to Moscow to open the U.S. exhibit at the International Trade Fair "will help reduce the lack of understanding of our country."

"It is in the national interest to extend our exchanges of all types with the Soviet Union," he added. "Over the long haul it is the only way to reduce tensions."

First Presbyterian Announcements

Last Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church the Rev. Richard R. Gammon began a series of sermons on the Church. The topic of the message for Sunday is "The Church — The Bride of Christ".

There will be a meeting of the Session Sunday night at 8:00 o'clock. Senior High Fellowship will meet Thursday night, June 18, at 7:30 in Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. H. H. Bryant and Mrs. Richard R. Gammon attended the Synodical Training School at Queens College, Charlotte this week.

The Anthem for Sunday will be "I Will Lift Mine Eyes" by Edwards.

The Sunday School hour is 9:45 a.m. and the morning worship hour is 10:00 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend Sunday School and worship service at this Church.

Governor Long Will Ask Hearing By Jury

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long's attorneys announced Thursday the governor is going to fight to void his wife's commital action at his sanity hearing here Tuesday.

Long plans to appear in person and will ask for a jury hearing, Adrian S. Levy Sr., one of three court-appointed attorneys, said.

Levy made the announcement after a closed conference with the 63-year-old Long at John Sealy Hospital where the governor has been under psychiatric care since May 30.

The disclosure gave rise to speculation of verbal fireworks and a possible family squabble. But probate Judge Hugh Gibson said the hearing would be closed to the public and press.

Meanwhile, in New Orleans, a prominent surgeon Thursday night made public three letters he wrote protesting the governor's flight to Texas.

Dr. Emmett L. Irwin, New Orleans Citizens Council president, said it appeared Long was "abducted and incarcerated against his will and without proper legal process in this state (Louisiana)."

The letters went to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion and Fred A. Blanche, Louisiana Bar Assn. president.

Irwin asked the FBI to investigate and suggested the state agencies send representatives to the sanity hearing as observers.

In talking to newsmen, Levy said the governor may base part of his case on the jurisdiction question — whether Long as the sovereign head of Louisiana can be tried in a Texas court.

In Washington, Sen. Russell Long (D-La) watched proceedings closely. Long, a nephew of the governor, said he was thinking "very seriously" of entering the gubernatorial race in Louisiana this fall.

Gov. Long was flown here May 30 in a National Guard plane after he violently and profanely stormed at the Louisiana Legislature. Mrs. Long signed commital papers asking Judge Gibson to order her husband into protective custody.

She returned to Galveston this week reportedly to persuade Long to submit to treatment and forego the sanity hearing.

Accused Slayer Is Ruled Insane

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A judge has ruled that Ralph Steele, an accused wife-slayer, is insane.

Steele, 62, a stationary engineer, was ordered committed to the California Mental Authority Thursday.

Police found the body of Steele's wife under their home in suburban Sierre Madre in April after he attacked Robert H. Aarons, an attorney who represented her in a divorce action, with a hammer.

Pottery is Rumania's oldest craft, and some elements of its design can be traced back to Greco-Roman times. Some pottery is made for decorative ceramics, some for useful utensils.

Views Geothermal Steam As Cheap Future Power

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Steam from the depths of the earth is seen as a cheap source of untapped energy, a reserve to which man might turn when all other sources are spent.

Prospects for such power sources were outlined by Earl F. English before the Southern Research Institute's "Undiscovered Earth" conference.

"The volume of the geothermal heat is millions of times greater than all the known resources of fossil fuels and will endure for millions of years," said English, vice president of the Thermal Power Co.

English sees the use of geothermal steam as a heat source for many industries, providing the location of the steam supply is suitable for installation of such an industry.

He says, however, that it is not practicable to transfer steam over long distance.

English says the natural market for geothermal steam is the production of electric energy. But he emphasized that the uncertainty of sources of continued steam power from the earth is a handicap.

Steam drilling operations have been conducted in Italy, New Zealand and in Sonoma County, Calif.

"There can be no guarantee as to the total amount which can be developed at a particular location nor as to its duration," English said.

English said the cost of operating a geothermal steam plant would be relatively cheap in relation to other power plants.

"This is not a pipe dream," he said. He added that a substantial part of Italy's electricity supply has come from this source for many years.

Six Will Attend Board Meeting

Six representatives of the Pitt County Mental Health Association will attend a Board of Directors meeting for the North Carolina Association for Mental Health tomorrow in Southern Pines.

The Pitt County representatives, all members of the state board, are Dr. G. Earl Trevathan, Jr., Dr. Ray D. Minges, Charles D. Cobb, Dr. Frank Fuller, Mrs. M. P. Bailey and E. O. Parkinson, president of the Pitt County Association.

Plan To Attend FBLA Session

Forty-two delegates from North Carolina schools and colleges will attend the National Convention of the Future Business Leaders of America in Washington, D. C., June 14-16, State FBLA Advisor James L. White of the East Carolina College department of business has announced. The North Carolina delegation will go to the capital city by chartered bus.

Joseph Collier, Jr., of the Pamlico County High School, Bayboro, will preside at general sessions of the national convention. Collier is both national president of the FBLA and president of the state chapter of the organization.

Sylvia Uzzell of Rt. 1, Scotland Neck, will represent the 100-member chapter of the FBLA at East Carolina College at the Washington meeting. Mrs. Paul Clark, sponsor of the Ayden FBLA, made arrangements for the bus trip. More than a thousand delegates from chapters in all parts of the United States will attend the FBLA convention in Washington. Headquarters for activities will be the Mayflower Hotel. The program will develop the theme "Good Public Relations Open Windows on the World."

Billy Pierce Racks Up His 4th One-Hitter Of Career

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Billy Pierce missed that elusive no-hitter he's come so close to nailing again Thursday night, coming off with the fourth one-hitter of his career — tops among active pitchers in the majors.

This one hoisted the Chicago White Sox into a 1½-game lead in the American League with a 3-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

Pierce, whose last one-hitter was a 3-0 decision over the Senators June 27 last year, gave up a third inning double by Ron Samford Thursday night, then pushed the run across with three consecutive walks.

The win added a half-game to Chicago's lead as Cleveland replaced Baltimore in second place by beating the Orioles 2-1. Rocky Colavito, who tied a major league record with four home runs Wednesday night, doubled home the deciding run in the eighth as the Indians won two in a row for the first time in three weeks.

Detroit regained fourth place by belting Boston 8-1 as Kansas City skidded New York to fifth 9-5.

The White Sox nicked Camilo Pascual (4-7) for a third-inning run on Jim Landis' single and a double by Nellie Fox. But they couldn't do it again until Landis delivered a two-run, two-out double in the ninth.

Colavito's double, following a walk to Woody Held, broke up a 1-1 duel between southpaw Don Ferrarese of the Indians and Milt Pappas of the Orioles. Both finished with seven-hitters and 5-3 records.

Al Kaline drove in three runs with three hits for the Tigers. He singled home the clincher in a three-run seventh inning against rookie Ted Wills (2-1) and hit his 12th homer in the ninth. Reliever Ray Narleski made his second start and went all the way for a 3-6 record with a five-hitter, giving up Ted Williams' 484th career homer, second this year, in the sixth.

Right-hander Ned Garver (5-4) needed relief in the ninth, but beat the Yankees for the first time since 1955. The A's chased Bob Turley (5-7) in a five-run fifth inning triggered by Kent Hadley's two-run homer.

Garver gave up 11 hits, including home runs by Norm Siebern, Marv Throneberry and Mickey Mantle, while beating the Yankees for the fifth time against 19 defeats.

TOP SEEDED . . . Maurice Everette, ECC graduate and former star, has been named as favorite of the first Washington Invitational Tennis Tournament which begins today.

Everette, West Play In Tennis Invitational

By JOHNNY HUNSON

A couple of East Carolina College tennis stars have been seeded first and second in the first Washington Invitational Tennis Tournament which begins today at the Washington courts.

Maurice Everette, the top tennis star in East Carolina College history and North State singles champion for three years, has been picked as the tourney favorite.

The Robersonville native is in summer school, working on his Masters Degree. His last year as a member of the ECC squad was in 1958. He served as an assistant coach this past spring and has been active in tournaments throughout the state.

Seeded number two is John West, a Durham native. West was number one man for the Pirate netters this past spring and was runner-up for the North State crown. He is in summer school also and will be a rising senior next fall at the college.

John Savage, a member of the ECC club last season, is also entered in the tournament. Savage was graduated this past spring and calls Goldsboro home.

Seeded number three and given the best chance of keeping the ECC stars from dominating the three day tournament is Clint Parson of Camp Lejeune. He is the singles service champion.

The duo of Everette and West also ranked Bill Carrigan of Greensboro as a pre-tournament favorite. "Carrigan hasn't been heard of too much in this section and has been overlooked in the seedings but he will be one of the best in the tournament," cited Everette.

The competition opened at 1:00 today and will continue through Sunday. Finals in the singles and doubles are slated to begin at 1:30 Sunday afternoon.

Ten first-day men's singles matches were scheduled for today.

Extra Inning For Church Leaguers

The 8th Street Christian Church scored three runs in the eighth inning last night to defeat St. James Methodist Church, 7-4, in the Church Softball League.

Leggett led off the extra inning of play with a triple and after that it was all over for St. James as the Christian's scored three runs before finishing up.

St. James blew a three run lead in the fourth when 8th Street scored three runs to tie the score at 4-all. This was how the game ended and was forced into the extra inning of play.

Leggett was the winning pitcher and also led his club at bat with two hits, including his big blast in the extra inning. Tyndall was the loser.

Begin Push To Pan-Am Games

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The big cinderpath push towards the year's climactic Pan American Games starts today with the opening of the 38th NCAA Track and Field Championships, which could produce as many as nine new meet records.

With well-manned Kansas cast in the team favorite's role, the NCAA meet begins with some five hours of preliminary competition in 18 events for the field of 440 athletes from 105 schools. From the two-day carnival at the University of Nebraska's Memorial Stadium will emerge Uncle Sam's best collegiate colorbearers for the Pan Am trials in Boulder, Colo., the following weekend.

Had No-Hitter, Now Triple Play

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Ralph Lumenti and baseball rarities seem to go hand in hand.

The Charlotte left-hander, who pitched a no-hitter his last time out, made a brilliant grab of a line drive Thursday night and started a triple play.

Lumenti was the loser as the Hornets bowed 4-1 to Savannah in the second game of a South Atlantic League doubleheader, but he made two defensive gems. One started the triple play and a stab of another line drive was turned into a double play.

Ben Hogan has won Colonial's Invitation golf tournament four times.

Has Pepsi Cola, defending Little League champions, been playing dead like the New York Yankees? That was the question asked yesterday afternoon as the champions finished strong to upset league-leading Elks, 4-2, and move out of the Tar Heel cellar.

The winners spotted the loop-leaders two runs before making their move. They tallied one run in the fourth inning and then pounded out five hits in the fifth inning to score three big runs.

Flanagan and Boyd led off the fifth with back-to-back doubles and Heller and Combs followed with singles. Prewett collected the fifth and final hit with another run-scoring double.

Davenport was working on a one-hitter when he ran into trouble in the fifth. He was charged with the defeat, the second for the Elks this season.

Cannon went the distance for the winners and was touched for six hits. He retired five by the strikeout route and gave up only three bases of balls.

The defeat left the Elks one-half game in first place. They will also be in action today when they tackle third-place Exchange. Kiwanis will meet loop-leading Jaycees in the North State League.

Podres Has 2nd Two-Hit Victory

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It took Johnny Podres five years and a little more than a month to pitch his first two-hitter in the majors. Now the stocky southpaw has put away two in less than three weeks.

He got the second Thursday night, giving up only a leadoff single by Richie Ashburn and a fourth-inning single by Wally Post while pitching Los Angeles to an 11-0 victory over the Phillies at Philadelphia. That gave the Dodgers full command of third place in the National League.

Podres' 15th shutout in the majors left the Dodgers within two games of second place San Francisco, beaten 12-9 at Pittsburgh. That plunked the Giants two games back of Milwaukee's first place Braves, who won 8-0 at St. Louis behind Bob Buhl's five-hitter.

Don Newcombe also collected a shutout, giving up nine hits while winning his fifth in a row in an 8-0 Cincinnati victory at Chicago. The loss dropped the Cubs into a fourth place tie with Pittsburgh.

The Dodgers made it a breeze for Podres by rapping five Phil pitchers for 19 hits. Robin Roberts (4-5) was the loser.

Podres, who has pitched seven three-hitters in his career, struck out six and gave up three walks.

Buhl (6-3), coming back after last year's arm trouble, won his fourth in a row with his second shutout. He walked four, struck out eight. The Braves, who had lost two straight, collected five runs on homers by Casey Wise and Del Crandall. Wilmer Mizell (7-3) was the loser.

Things were sloppy at Pittsburgh. The Pirates and Giants combined for a dozen errors and 11 unearned runs. Two errors set up a five-run eighth for the Bucs against losing reliever Stu Miller (3-2). That saved it for unbeaten Roy Face, who won his 14th in a row in relief of Bob Friend after giving up Willie Mays' three-run pinch homer in the eighth.

Dick Stuart hit his 10th homer for the Bucs and Willie Kirland hit his ninth and 10th for the Giants, giving him four in four days.

Newk (6-4) gained his 23rd shutout, but first since Aug. 21, 1957, with his fifth straight complete game. Roy McMillan's three-run homer, his ninth, wrapped it up against loser Moe Drabowsky (4-5) in the second inning.

Raleigh's Streak Is Put To Test

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Second-place Raleigh's 14-game victory streak in the Carolina League will be put to the test tonight when the Caps open a series in Raleigh with Wilson, the loop leaders.

The Caps, hottest team now in the league, defeated Greensboro 8-6 Thursday night to claim the second longest winning streak in the league history. Winston-Salem holds the record with 16 in 1950

Raleigh built up an 8-0 lead before Greensboro rallied for four runs in the seventh and two more in the ninth. Greensboro had the bases loaded in the ninth when lefty Bob Doig came on to strike out Buddy Nidiffer to end the game.

Winston-Salem and Burlington split a doubleheader at Winston-Salem, with the Indians taking the opener 6-3 and Winston-Salem the nightcap 2-1 in 10 innings. Burlington shoved across four runs in the second inning of the opener and went on to win behind the seven-hit pitching of lefty Garry Holmes. In the second game, Hank Kuhlmann reached across the plate and hit a 3-0 pitchout for a two-bagger to score Gil Gilchrist with the winning run in the 10th.

Wilson managed only six hits but defeated Durham 6-1 behind the six - hit pitching of Aaron Flores. It was his eighth win of the season. The Tobs scored five runs in the third.

Tonight's games: Winston-Salem at Greensboro, Wilson at Raleigh and Burlington at Durham.

The National League has 25 Sunday playing dates this season, one more than in previous years.

Hitting — Don Demeter, Dodgers, had four hits, two of them homers, and batted in five runs in 11-0 victory over the Phillies.

Pitching — Billy Pierce, White Sox, gave up only one hit and struck out six for 3-1 victory over the Senators, losing a shutout in the third when three of his five walks followed Ron Samford's double.

Murray Wins His 2nd CGA Match

SALISBURY, N.C.—Buddy Murray shot himself into the spotlight among the Greenville trio yesterday as he carded a 76 to win his second match in the fourth flight of the Junior CGA tournament now being held at the 6,500-yard Country Club at Salisbury.

Bobby Thomas continued to have his putting problems and dropped out of the competition for the championship trophy. Thomas shot a two over-par 73 yesterday but lost his match to hard-hitting Ken Folks, a husky Concord native.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for Thomas who had led the field in qualifying Tuesday along with Tommy Harraway. Both had shot a 71. For the veteran Greenville golfer, it was the second consecutive year that he had tied for medalist honors but went on to lose the title.

"I just couldn't putt," stated Bobby as he prepared to regain his form for consolation honors. "I missed five seven-foot putts and I don't usually do this. Putting has been my strongest point," continued Thomas.

Bobby had gotten off to a good start yesterday and had Folks one down after the sixth hole. He had his trouble on the seventh and eighth hole and finished one down on the front nine.

Folks continued his steady pace on the back nine and won 3-2 with a score of 71, his best of the tournament.

Murray, the youngster who has continuously proved that size isn't what counts in golf, had one of his better days on the course and defeated his foe, 4-3. With the win, the Greenville youth moved into a good position to take top honors in the fourth flight.

Murray will take on Tommy Arnold today and Thomas will battle Tommy Harmon.

Chappy Bradner continued to be "the hard-luck kid" of the Greenville entries as he shot a respectable 78 and lost his second match in the seventh flight. Chappy's opponent shot only a 79 but won the match play, 3-2.

Baker and Don Hedrick of Lexington, spotted in opposite halves of the draw, are moving steadily toward a second successive finals meeting in the Carolina Golf Assn. Junior tournament.

Each faced the prospect of two matches today as quarterfinals and semifinals were scheduled to clear the way for the 18-hole championship match Saturday.

A year ago Hedrick, just turned 16, surprised with a rousing 5 and 3 victory over favored Baker, two months before the South Carolinian won the national title.

Hedrick, a rising high school junior, was the sharpest shooter of Thursday's second round, but had the longest match before putting down Leroy Mull of Morganton 2 and 1. Hedrick was three under par for his trip around the 6,500-yard Country Club of Salisbury course, a par 71 layout.

Hedrick met Bobby West of Durham and Larry Brown of Fort Mill, S.C., played Bill Moser of Salisbury in upper bracket quarterfinals.

Baker, two down after six holes, won the next four and went on to a 3 and 2 victory over Reid Bull of Salisbury. All lower bracket matches were decided by the same score. Baker's first foe today was Jimmy Thompson of Raleigh.

Ken Folkes of Concord, a long-hitter, and Randy Glover of Cheraw, S.C., made up the other pairing.

The Peewee group's medalist and defending champion were beaten by two Winston - Salem players.

Bill Doss edged Gary Bennett of Florence in two extra holes of a match schedule for nine holes. Bennett won last year.

Medalist Chip Lewis of Raleigh bowed to Jimmy Loftis 2 and 1.

Doss met Wally Howard of Salisbury and Loftis took on Ralph Miller of Florence in semifinals today.

Hogan Sharing Lead In U. S. Open Play

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — Ben Hogan, a little fellow who carries a lot of weight, took a share of the lead into the second round of the 59th U.S. Open Golf championship today.

But two younger pros who carry little weight—physically or competitively—found themselves in a very enviable position although the 46-year-old Texas precisionist shot a 69 Thursday in his bid for an unprecedented fifth open title.

Dick Knight, 29-year-old, 5-foot-10, 160-pound former driving range operator who plays out of San Diego, Calif., was tied for first with Hogan and two others of golf's best-known stars, Gene Littler and Dow Finsterwald.

Hillman Robbins, a 27-year-old, 5-10, 137-pound freshman pro who was National Amateur champion two years ago, was only a stroke behind.

But so many good players were grouped within a few strokes of these pace-setters that it still could be anybody's tournament.

Here's how it shaped up after the first round:

Tied for first with 69s, one under par for the trap-strewn, 6,873-yard Winged Foot west course: Hogan, the grim little man who is playing superb golf; Littler, the former amateur titleholder who recovered his playing form this year and has won three tournaments; always-steady Finsterwald the PGA champion; and Knight, who never has won anything more important than the California Open.

Alone at 70: Robbins, who turned professional less than a year ago, hasn't won anything important and is acutely conscious of his shortcomings.

At 71: two-time Open champion Cary Middlecoff, South Africa's Gary Player, runner-up to Tommy Bolt last year; former PGA champion Lionel Hebert, Billy Casper, Don January, Ted Kroll, Arnold Palmer, Don Fairfield, Bo Wininger and big Mike Souchak.

At 72: Al Balding of Canada, Bruce Crampton of Australia, Bill Collins, Gene Bone, Doug Ford, Ernie Vossler, home pro Claude Harmon, Henry Ransom, Ewing Pomeroy and National Aamteur champion Charlie Coe.

These are the ones who must be considered as the contenders at this stage.

The trailers at 73 include such illustrious players as Sammy Snead and always-dangerous Jay Hebert.

Tommy Bolt, the defending champion, appeared virtually out of it with an opening round of 75. A trio of former champions were worse off — Julius Boros with a 76, Dick Mayer with 77 and Ed Furgol with 83.

1909 VINTAGE CREW

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — Princeton's varsity crew is stroking on Lake Carnegie today but no records are expected to be broken. The varsity crew is 1909 vintage and the oarsmen average 72 years in age. They are here for 50th reunion activities during alumni weekend.

Four players who were with Austin in the Texas League in 1958 are on the spring roster of the National League champion Milwaukee Braves.

Teacher Reveals Spelling Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—So Billy or Betsy has trouble spelling? Well, parents, listen a moment to Ted Glim.

Glim, 42, a teacher at Byers Junior High in Denver, Colo., has positive and detailed ideas on how to make words an easily turned key to junior's education.

He teaches a special class in word study for seventh and eighth graders. It's produced champions.

Joel Montgomery is the latest. Joel, 12, from Denver, won the National Spelling Bee Thursday. He coasted through such stumpers as verdigris, pastiche and susurrus as deftly as most kids run from cleaning up the room.

Two years ago another product of Glim's class, Dana Bennett, was national cochampion.

"Pronunciation is emphasized first," Glim explained after watching Joel outspell 69 other boys and girls.

"We go thoroughly into roots, prefixes and suffixes," he said. "We learn the story behind words, their meaning and their use today. We also examine the sequence of letters."

Glim took over the class several years ago and based his instruction on the theory that there's no sense in learning a bunch of letters without learning words as a whole.

Glim's pupils have gone into most of the words tossed about in the National Bee, like ptarmigan, tenebrous, cachinnatory, sorbefacient.

Whew! which stems from the whistling sound you make when you're astonished.

Ruled Ineligible For Jobless Pay

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Employment Security Commission has ruled ineligible for jobless pay three men who said they quit work at a Henderson cotton mill from fear of strike violence.

The decision on the appeals of Marcus E. Davis of Henderson, Roger Funderburk and Jimmie G. Jones, both of Siler City, was announced today by ESC Chairman Henry E. Kendall.

The three took jobs at the Harriet Cotton Mills in Henderson after the plant resumed operations last February following a three-month shutdown in a strike by the Textile Workers Union of America Evidence at hearings showed that Davis and Jones quit jobs elsewhere to accept employment in the Henderson mill.

The commission said it rejected the application for unemployment pay under a law which forbids payment of benefits for a work stoppage due to a labor dispute.

It ruled that the three by accepting work in a plant which had a work stoppage due to a labor dispute had themselves become a part of the labor dispute.

At the hearing on their claim, the three said they refused to continue crossing picket lines last March because of threats of violence, rock throwing, name calling, and other incidents at the plant gate. All three said they would want to return to work if the strike were settled.

Baseball Hall Of Fame For Japan

TOKYO (AP) — U. S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II showed up today to open Japan's first baseball Hall of Fame with a slight limp—from playing baseball. The American envoy explained:

"If I appear to be limping a bit today, it's because of baseball. Last Saturday the embassy had its annual baseball game with the Gaimusho (foreign office), and I played shortstop. I discovered even before the game was over that I am not as young as I used to be. It was a grand game, however, even though the Gaimusho beat us 15 to 8."

Safeguards In Business Recovery 'Catching Up'

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Two laggards in the business recovery are starting to catch up with the parade.

Employment may hit a new peak next month after a temporary increase in the number of the unemployed this month while June graduates find work.

And business spending for new or updated plants is perking up at last, even if mainly at the planning and contract letting levels.

The total of the unemployed has been the most distressing and persistent hangover from the recession. Some industries and some localities still suffer.

But re-employment of workers has been picking up of late at better than seasonal rates. This can't comfort the 3½ million who were still looking for work last month. And that number of competitors for jobs may dismay the flock of students in search of summer jobs or permanent ones.

Still, the nation can take pleasure in the word that two million of those who were out of work in June 1958 when unemployment hit its recession peak of 5½ million are now back on the payrolls. They help swell the total employed to 66 million. The record was set in July 1957 when 67¼ million were working.

The troublesome spots of unemployment are still to be tackled, however—whether it be hard-hit communities or lagging industries.

For many of these the best hope still lies in the American consumer. And as he steadily increases his total spending, more and more business firms find they can produce more and hire more. This, in turn, increases consumer confidence—and spending.

The second laggard, business spending, feeds on that same confidence. When the consumer spends, in time business increases its spending, too.

During the recession much was made of idle production facilities. For the time being industry seemed to have expanded its capacity beyond the demands of its customers.

But now that business can sniff a new boom on the way, more and more firms are dusting off expansion plans they had put on the shelf during their days of caution.

Many of them are carrying over some of their recession-born thinking—that the best spending would be for new equipment that would help them cut costs.

Those who already had modern equipment in those days were able to pare operating expenses significantly. Their output per man hour of labor rose steadily. In part this kept many of them from rehiring workers.

But now there's evidence that this is changing. Costs are reported rising again with new wage contracts. And more firms as a result are coming into the market for labor saving machinery.

New orders of the machinery and tool industries bear this out. It may be months before these orders are turned into shipments and cash, but the spending plans are firming up.

Expansion through new plants is also being announced by an increasing number of companies. This is based on the belief that their sales will increase in the next few years.

Many consider such plans a better barometer of coming business weather than the stock market.

DIED IN POOL

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Geraldine Ferguson, 11, died in the swimming pool at Glens Falls Junior High School Thursday minutes after winning a speed test. An autopsy was ordered to determine cause of death.

Disagreement Stalls Big Steel Parleys

NEW YORK (AP)—A disagreement over procedure stalled contract negotiations in the basic steel industry today with the expiration date for present contracts less than three weeks away.

The 171-member Wage Policy Committee of the United Steelworkers of America meets here today. It was expected to proclaim its support of David J. McDonald, president of the union and its chief negotiator, in his demand for higher wages and other benefits.

No progress was reported after Thursday's negotiating session. The current three-year contract expires June 30. If no new contract is reached by then, there almost certainly will be a strike by 500,000 union members in plants that produce 90 per cent of the nation's steel.

The new dispute over procedure concerns whether the negotiations should be conducted on an industry or a company basis, or a combination.

McDonald proposed in a letter that company bargaining begin next Tuesday. Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel of the union, said: "We expect them to comply with the law, and if necessary we will insist on our rights under the law."

This raised the possibility of a union charge of unfair labor practices should the companies, which want to continue industrywide bargaining, refuse to agree to individual talks. The union contends that the National Labor Relations Act gives it a right to bargain with the companies individually.

The industry's chief negotiator, R. Conrad Cooper, said he feels that the only way to reach a new contract is by continuing the top-level negotiations between four-man teams representing the union and the 12 largest steel companies.

The union has been demanding a substantial but unspecified wage increase, reduction of the 40-hour work week and other benefits. Current basic wages now average $3.03 an hour.

An estimated 300 Jaycees and 200 Jaycee wives from North Carolina's Junior Chamber of Commerce will leave Greensboro early Sunday morning for the June 13 Jaycee National Convention in Buffalo, New York.

Events for the four-day annual meeting include a Key Man luncheon Monday, an awards luncheon and a business session Tuesday, and a parade on Wednesday. Thursday a National President will be chosen to succeed North Carolina's Bob Cox, of Chapel Hill, who has served as National Jaycee President since the National Convention last June.

Representatives from this area will be William Stroud, Ayden; Red Gurganus, Williamston; and Ned P. Everett, Robersonville.

A Very Big Day For Only Grad

CEDAR SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) —Patricia Gitt was the only graduate Thursday of the Cedar Springs elementary school.

It was a big day for Patricia. She wore a dress.

"We almost never do up here in the mountains, you know," she explained. "We wear jeans in the summer and ski clothes in the winter."

Cedar Springs is high in the mountains northeast of Los Angeles. It has the last one-room schoolhouse in Los Angeles county, with 15 pupils.

TV Viewing For Week Ahead Is Promising

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—While it may not be a happy harbinger of coming events, next week's television viewing shapes up pretty well.

Included among other items of interest are the premiere of a summertime variety show, an anniversary special and even some fireworks.

One sad note will be struck, however, a week hence, when the last of the well-loved Sgt. Bilko series will be given an original broadcast.

Summer season repeats are gradually taking over a lion's share of television time. But baseball fans at least will be able to catch some big league ball on Saturday and Sunday when NBC broadcasts a pair of Los Angeles Dodgers-Pittsburgh Pirate games.

Saturday night Tony Bennett, Teresa Brewer and the Four Lads will step into the spot vacated by Perry Como in the premiere of a hot weather series called Perry Presents.

James Thurber's scheduled appearance on CBS's The Last Word gives the regular Sunday network show more than its usual interest. And daytime viewers may also see the first of a two-part series on ABC showing military war games filmed in North Carolina.

On Sunday night, however, the Steve Allen Show will be missing from its regular NBC spot and in its place the first of a series of repeats of the Suspicion series, last seen on the network two seasons back. Ed Sullivan, on CBS, however, carries valiantly on — this week with Wayne and Shuster in some comedy, Robert Merrill with some singing — and a fireworks display honoring the 350th anniversary of the discovery of the Hudson River. The Chevy Show, on NBC starring Janet Blair and John Raitt, will have an assist from pianist Joey Bushkin.

ABC opens the summer season of specials on Monday night with a 90 minute program concerning the fourth anniversary of Disneyland Park in California, with Walt Disney receiving some hosting help from Art Linkletter.

Dave King will be on view Wednesday night on NBC, and on CBS, Maurice Evans will star-live, in "No Leave for the Captain" on the U.S. Steel Hour.

Playhouse 90's Thursday show on CBS — will be "Dark as the Night," filmed in London with Michael Wilding and Laraine Day.

And Friday Phil Silvers does his last Bilko episode on CBS.

First Presbyterian Church Winds Up Week Of Vacation Church School

The first week of Vacation Church School at the First Presbyterian Church ended today with many things being accomplished and a very good attendance record. The average attendance for the week was 131.

There were no major accidents, and only two were treated with first aid for minor injuries. Ruth Trevathan received treatment for a bite from a pet Hampster, and one of the helpers scratched her hand with a pin.

Some of the projects include making toys for the Negro Presbyterian Sunday school, weaving baskets, making waste baskets, drawing a mural of each day's activities, growing plants, making shadow boxes, learning Bible verses and songs, and numerous other activities.

The entire school met in the Sanctuary at 11 o'clock on Tuesday and Friday mornings for a short worship service. The Rev. T. M. Davis gave the devotional message.

Misses Dot Davis, Carol Briley, Esther Johnson of the Senior High Department and the following from the Pioneer Department helped with the school: Joanne Crawford, Steve Bailey, Joe Le Conte, Joan Briley, Nancy Pittman, Jane Brown, Doris Phillips, and Eileen Garris.

The closing exercise will be held next Friday morning, June 19, at 10:45. A cordial invitation is extended to the parents and friends of the church to attend the closing exercise.

IT'S HOT!

Yes, it's hot and it's going to get hotter in the days ahead. There's nothing more relaxing than to come home to a cool house; and nothing more refreshing than sleep in an air-conditioned room.

But all this costs money. Maybe more money than you feel like spending in a lump sum. But if you pay cash for air conditioning, you usually can get it cheaper.

Here's a suggestion. Find out what the job will cost you. Then come down to State Bank. Probably we can arrange either a regular or a time payment loan which will make life easier for you this summer and, at the same time, lessen the strain on your pocketbook.

CHAPTER 21

The man Fleur Constant had pointed out before they had gone in to dinner, and whom Mark Travers had recognized as one of the spectators that had surrounded Corinne Javal in her wrecked car, was still there when they came out of the restaurant.

He was standing on the same spot where he had stood an hour before, in exactly the same position — head, shoulders and back leading against the wall but his legs well away, both hands dug into the pockets of his dinner jacket, a cigarette dangling from a corner of his mouth as if it were glued to his lower lip. He kept his eyes nearly closed, like a cat trying to sleep, once in a while blinking his heavy lids.

While Fleur went to powder her nose, Mark stepped casually over to lean beside him. Again he could smell the sweet, sickening scent of the man's hair lotion, as he had that morning, when he had pushed his way through the onlookers to get a clear view of Corinne slumped over the side of her car.

The man's presence here was no coincidence.

He had indeed chosen a strategic spot from which to watch what was going on. Most of the elaborate dining room could be observed in one of the huge mirrors along the wall.

Mark could see the stage, on which a small orchestra was playing, the greater part of the dance floor, the tables around it and the second row of tables on a tier, among them the one they had just left. A waiter was clearing it, looking at the bottle of champagne they had ordered but left half full.

Straight ahead lay the terrace and, beyond it, the platform anchored in the sea, on which a highly imaginative and colorful water show was taking place. The management seemed to have found the most beautiful girls in the world to entertain their guests. Dressed as nereids, in gold and silver sequins, they swam, dived, danced, sang.

To the right Mark could see the doors that led to the gambling rooms of the Casino and the staircase swinging down into the entrance hall.

He shook a cigarette out of his pack, groped in his pockets, then turned to the man. "May I ask you for a light?"

Without saying anything, without an acknowledging smile or nod, the man pulled a lighter from his pocket, snapped it open, held it for Mark, then put it back. Bad hands, thought Mark. The hands of a thief.

"Thanks a lot."

Again the man said nothing. When Mark saw Fleur coming, he moved toward her.

"I asked one of the employees if they knew who he was," she told Mark, "but he said he had never seen him before." She took her compact from her bag. "Don't turn around now, but he is following us."

"I wouldn't have suspected you of knowing tricks like that."

"If you had a grandmother like mine, watching every step you took, you would."

Occupied with their own thoughts, they had hardly talked during dinner. He had wanted to dance with her after they had dutifully clinked glasses, but Fleur had refused. "I don't feel like it." And, rather surprised that he had asked her in the first place, Mark had not pursued the matter.

Again they had to wait for an occasion which allowed them to enter the gambling rooms without being stopped to show their cards, and when they found themselves inside, the man was behind them.

"I can't stand this much longer," Fleur whispered. "In a moment, I'll turn around and ask him if he wants to have a drink with us."

"I wonder if he is trailing us," said Mark. "He's much too obvious. He may just have taken a fancy to you." But he said it to calm her.

There was no doubt in Mark's mind that the man who had been present at Corinne's death had something to do with the threat to his life. The man was following him. I must not let him out of my sight, he thought.

"Let's forget him," he told Fleur, "and see if your brother is back."

They went from table to table but Guy Constant was nowhere to be seen. "I know he will come," said Fleur. "Please, Mark, be patient."

From one of the baccarat tables, on which stakes were highest, Cesare di Raffaeli waved to them. "Come and bring me luck, Mademoiselle."

They leaned against the rope that kept spectators from crowding the players. "I've lost a fortune," Raffaeli told them, chewing on an enormous cigar. He took an old-fashioned watch from his pocket and laid it before him on the table. "In exactly half an hour, I shall stop. It will then be eleven o'clock, which gives me time to get home and to bed without having to hurry. I believe in sleep before midnight."

"It's ten-thirty already?"

Raffaeli nodded. "Time flies, doesn't it, Monsieur Travers? Banco!"

Time flies. What did he mean? Was he referring to the note? "Unless you stop interfering . . . you will not survive." But Raffaeli, seeing him here with Fleur, had seemed satisfied that Mark had stopped searching for Timgad. Yet Raffaeli knew Constant. Was there a connection between the two?

"I must return Inspector Perrier's call," Mark said to Fleur; then his eyes happened to fall on a neighboring table where roulette was being played.

Directly opposite, an array of open notebooks and little papers in front of him, sat Colonel Baudon. He was busily writing down the numbers on the stiff, oblong cards the Casino furnished for the convenience of gamblers.

Apparently he was down to his last few chips, for his left hand nervously fingered a pile small enough to fit into the palm of his hand.

In the bright light from the lamps over the table, the shabbiness of his jacket showed pitifully. Mark could see the greenish spots on the black sleeves. The tie, set askew, revealed a safety pin, and the shirt showed marks of perspiration.

Mark pulled a hundred-dollar note from his wallet, went over to exchange it for chips, then tried to force his way through the crowd beleaguering the table. But it took too long, so he went back to the other side, which was emptier, and asked the croupier to shove the chips over.

At first the colonel didn't even look up. He simply shook his head when the chips reached him. "Not mine." Then, when the rake moved away without taking the chips along, he lifted his head.

The surprise on his face changed, as he recognized Mark, into a smile of such gratitude that Mark felt more embarrassed than glad about what he had done.

Directly behind the colonel's chair stood the man who had been following them until a little while ago — until, thought Mark, the moment Raffaeli had stopped them. Only a moment ago he had not been there.

What was he doing behind Baudon's chair? Was he, after all, not watching him, but Baudon?

Instead of moving away to make his call to Perrier, Mark decided to stay.

He moved his chair, tried to get up, and felt something in his back, something small and hard, and a voice whispered in his ear . . . " Death strikes at the gambling tables as "A Spy at Monte Carlo" continues here tomorrow.

Stassen Offers Aid To Jobless

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Harold Stassen, running for mayor of Philadelphia on the Republican ticket, made a campaign promise Thursday aimed at easing this city's unemployment problem.

Some cities with high unemployment, he said, are footing the transportation bill for their jobless citizens who go to other cities in search of work.

If elected, he said, he will send those coming to Philadelphia back where they came from.

"It's not humanitarian," the President's former disarmament adviser declared, "to permit people without jobs to come into an area where there is already heavy unemployment."

When City Council President James H. J. Tate, a Democrat, heard about the campaign promise of the former Governor of Minnesota, he said:

"Stassen is a migratory worker himself."

Long's Absence Endangers His Old Political Machine

Editors Note — While Louisiana Gov. Earl K. Long awaits a sanity hearing in Galveston, Tex., his powerful political machine is without an heir with a governor's race on tap in December. The Long influence has been a dominant factor in Louisiana politics since the late Huey P. Long became governor in 1928, and Earl K. Long is—or was—undisputed master of the political legacy Huey left. In this last of a three-part series, AP writer Hugh Mulligan deals with Earl Long and the political repercussions in Louisiana while Long is confined in a Galveston psychiatric clinic.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—With fiery Gov. Earl K. Long in a Texas mental clinic awaiting a sanity hearing, the powerful Long faction that his brother Huey founded faces a governor's race in December with no heir apparent in sight.

"There is no heir apparent," says State Sen. Charles Deichmann, a Long leader from New Orleans. "Earl doesn't believe in grooming successors. He always busts up his organization and rebuilds after losing an election. When he's out, he wants the whole bunch out with him. That way everyone stays dependent on him and nobody gets big ideas."

For nearly 30 years the sulphur-tongued "last of the red hot poppas," as Earl once called himself, has been in and out of office, running for governor or lieutenant governor in every election since the hey-day of Huey, with the exception of 1952 when he tried to handpick a successor and lost overwhelmingly.

Huey Long, with his dynamic personality, his emotional appeal to the common man, his ruthless, power-grabbing tactics, founded the dynasty and bequeathed it a spiritual figurehead, the image of the "martyred Kingfish."

But to younger brother Earl, now 63 and in his third term as governor, must go the credit for rescuing the dynasty from the wreckage of the Louisiana scandals and building it into a lasting political machine by sheer force of politicking.

There are and have been other Longs on the Louisiana political scene. Huey's son is the state's junior U.S. senator. Another brother, George, died in office as a congressman. Huey's widow, Rose, filled out the remainder of the Kingfish's Senate term when an assassin's bullet cut him down. A third cousin, Speedy Long, 30, is now in the State Senate and regarded as a comer, even though elected as an anti-Long from Earl's home district.

But only Earl, of all the Long kin, has been able to don Huey's mantle and lay claim to his devoted personal following. This he has had to do for himself. Huey didn't believe in grooming successors either, even from inside the family.

Earl, who got his first political job from Huey and stumped faithfully in his behalf, found that out when he sought the lieutenant governor slot on the ticket that was to carry on the work while the Kingfish went on to the U.S. Senate and, so the dream went, to the presidency. Thinking the kid brother might be getting too big for his britches, Huey gave the nomination to a lesser member of the heirarchy. Earl in retaliation broke with his brother to run and lose on a rival ticket.

Claiming deathbed forgiveness, Earl managed to get back in the fold in time for the Louisiana scandals, the half-billion dollar plundering of the state treasury that followed in the wake of Huey's assassination. He moved up to the governorship when Dick Leche resigned to go to the penitentiary.

A tax and spend politician, Earl has made up for his lack of personal magnetism by appealing to the masses with liberal welfare benefits (highest in the nation), free school lunches, charity hospitals, rural roads, high teacher salaries, and by rigidly adhering to a spoils system of rewarding the faithful with jobs in return for obedience and contributions at campaign time.

Straw hat perched on the back of his head, stomach protruding over low slung trousers, Earl plays his champion of the poor role to the hilt, whether blistering "them lying newspapers" in a profanity-strewn stump speech or patrolling the aisles of the Legislature to browbeat passage of his bills.

Public office has been a way of life—more than that—an obsession, with him. In Louisiana, the governor can't succeed himself. But "Ole Uncle Earl" has tried every trick in and out of the book to keep himself in power. Defeated for governor in 1940, he tried to have himself named secretary of state when the nominee died without taking office. At the end of his 1948 term, he attempted to call a constitutional convention to extend his term without a vote of the people.

And next week's sanity hearing will determine whether he can carry out his latest scheme to resign in favor of Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar and then run to succeed him. The sound trucks are painted and waiting.

Without Earl doing the hoeing, the harvest this year could go to the anti-Long camp where several popular figures, like young Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans and former Gov. Jimmy Davis are eyeing the race. At the moment the big house on the hill that Huey built stands empty, and his followers seem reluctant to try the door. At least until they find out whether the big boss is coming back.

Has To Decide On Short Shorts

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—How short are short shorts?

The city commission didn't say when it banned them, and the issue is still unresolved.

So when police arrested Lise Fournier, 21, of Montreal Thursday, they had her husband measure her shorts on the spot.

Now it's up to Judge Irving Goldman to decide whether 12½ inches is too short. While he pondered the matter, he released Mrs. Fournier on $5 bail.

City Decides 6 Oil Wells Enough

PHARR, Tex. (AP)—This Rio Grande Valley city of 10,000 has decided six oil wells are all it needs.

The City Commission has passed an ordinance banning issuance of drilling permits for wells within the city limits.

Pharr has two wells pumping oil and a third is being drilled. Permits for three more wells were issued prior to passage of the ordinance.

'Love Feast' Is Happy Interlude

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH—The program at the House love feast contained a mixture of serious and humorous, the giving of gifts valuable and ridiculous. All in all, it was a delightful interlude between two days of heated, sometimes bitter, debate over the revenue bill.

Speaker and Mrs. Hewlett were presented a handsome silver set. The clerks and other officers were remembered by their assistants, Governor and Mrs. Hodges also received gifts, along with words of high tribute by veteran Rep. John Kerr.

Sprinkled in with serious matters were numerous funny skits and songs. Attorney General Malcolm Seawell chased out of the hall a pack of racing hounds (half a dozen representatives carried stuffed dogs.)

Rep. Walter Jones of Pitt, who made unsuccesful attempt to tear up the highway organization was given a commission as a member of that body. Rep. John McLaughlin of Iredell was granted a full parole, in recognition of his many attacks on the paroles commission. Reps. Joe Hunt, Cloyd Philpott and Clyde Harriss, avowed candidates for Speaker of the 1961 House, were each given assurance that he had at least 61 definite commitments of support.

The session closed with everybody singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" just after a quartet composed of Billy Arthur, Ned Delamar, Frank Snepp and Raynor Woodard had feelingly rendered an opus entitled "We've Been Around This Place Too Long."

Arresting Officer Testifies As To Early Confession In Florida Trial

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A sheriff's deputy testified today that within hours after the rape of a Negro coed he had a confession implicating four white youths.

The officer, W. W. Slappey, told a male white jury trying the youths for rape that he talked with the youngest, Ollie Stoutamire, 16, shortly after his arrest.

Slappey testified:

"I asked him did he have intercourse with the girl. At first he said no the other three did and he didn't I asked him again if he were sure and he said: 'Yes sir, we all did.'"

The defense fought bitterly but vainly to prevent introduction of statements taken from the quartet after their arrests. Circuit Judge W. May Walker allowed the state to proceed in offering the statements.

Of a second defendant, Patrick G. Scarborough, 20, Slappey testified:

"He said he didn't know exactly what happened, that he was asleep in the back seat."

Slappey then quoted the eldest of the defendants, Willion T. Collinsworth, 23, as saying:

"He said two of the boys had intercourse with the girl but he didn't know which two it was, but he wasn't one of them."

The defense already has admitted to the jury that Collinsworth did have relations with the coed.

Slappey did not testify as to admissions by the fourth defendant, David E. Beagles, 18, because the deputy was not present when this youth made a statement.

Slappey estimated the statements he took were made between 4 and 5 a.m. May 2, three to four hours after the girl was raped.

The witness said that after he arrested the four defendants and was taking them in his car to the jail that "they were laughing and joking and I told them that that was no time to be joking, that they could be facing the electric chair."

State Atty. William D. Hopkins scored a major point in introduction of the admissions of guilt at the trial.

Defense attorneys protested in vain that reading of the statements to the jury would deprive their clients of their constitutional rights.

Stoutamire's attorney, John Rudd, protested that Stoutamire was sleepy and drunk at the time and that Hopkins and Deputy Sheriff W. W. Slappey extracted the statement from him under a threat he might get the electric chair.

Rape is a capital offense in Florida but no white man ever has been electrocuted for raping a Negro.

Slappey who was on the stand at the time, testified that Stoutamire was sober and alert and that Hopkins warned him fully of his constitutional rights to refuse to give the statement.

The statement first was offered at the end of testimony Thursday in which the victim testified she wept and begged vainly while the four raped her repeatedly.

"There wasn't anything I could do with four men with a knife and gun but do what they said to do I was begging them to let me go," she said in a soft voice that barely carried to the jury.

Earlier Slappey said he had taken Willion T. Collinsworth, 23, oldest of the defendants, to a wooded area west of Tallahassee and had Collinsworth point to a plot of wiregrass where the alleged attack took place.

The state offered in evidence scraps of wiregrass and pine needles which another deputy, Joe Cooke Jr., 21, said he scraped off the girl's torn dress after she was taken to Florida A&M University Hospital.

Cooke, a criminology student who has been on the sheriff's payroll as a part-time deputy only four months, told the jury his story of single-handedly making the arrests and freeing the girl.

He said he gave chase when he saw the girl, a bandage across her eyes, raise up from the floor of the back seat.

"I got out of my car and ordered them to get out with their hands up," he said.

Cooke said that when he ordered the four to empty their pockets, Collinsworth emptied nine shotgun shells onto the ground. He said he later found a shotgun and a switchblade knife inside the car.

Of the girl, he said "she was trembling and pretty nervous. She looked like she had been crying."

On cross-examination, Cooke denied a charge by Defense Attorney Howard Williams that he had telephoned the press from the hospital with an exaggerated account of the arrests.

The defense made its second effort for a mistrial during the afternoon on the basis of testimony by Richard Allen Brown, who was on a double date with the girl and her companion when the white youths allegedly seized her May 2.

During his cross-examination, he testified he lunched with the two coeds at the home of the victim after she had finished her testimony.

This brought a defense demand for a mistrial on the grounds that Brown had disregarded court instructions not to talk to anyone about the case.

After Brown said the trial itself was not discussed at the luncheon, the motion for a mistrial was overruled and the testimony resumed.

Defense attorneys said they would cite the alleged error as a ground for appeal in the event of convictions.

During more than two hours on the witness stand, the coed told an all-white jury that she submitted to the four because of fears for her life. She said that all except Collinsworth had sexual relations with her twice. She testified she was on the ground with them for two or three hours.

"Did you cooperate with them?" asked Williams.

"No, I had to," she replied.

"Did you derive any pleasure out of that?"

"No, I did not."

S. Gunter Toney, attorney for Collinsworth, asked if she had told Collinsworth, "You can have it if you want it if you take me back to the school."

"No," she replied.

Florida law prohibits publication of the name of a rape victim.

During cross-examination, defense attorneys tried unsuccessfully to question her about Negro organizations they said had been helping her since the alleged attack. These organizations were not identified.

"Have you personally received any financial contributions from anyone," she was asked.

"No, I have not," was the reply.

Other defendants are Patrick J. Scarborough, 20, and David E. Beagles, 18.

Florida records list no case of a white man's being electrocuted for raping a Negro. Records of the state division of corrections show that since Oct. 7, 1924, a total of 37 Negroes have been executed for rape.

One white man was executed in 1926 for rape of a white woman.

Good Judgment Urged On Grads

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The man of balanced judgment, not the fool of popular acclaim, remains the essential ingredient in a liberal society.

That was the thought left Thursday with the graduating class of the University of Southern California. The speaker was Dr. Gaylord P. Harnwell, president of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Harnwell, an atomic physicist, advised the 3,562 graduates to try to talk sense while being moderate and to "avoid being misled by the nonsense so frequently talked by others."

Guessed Wrong Repairs Costly

TARZANA, Calif. (AP) — Flagmen guessed an unloaded truck trailer would clear a 13-foot-6-inch Freeway underpass being built in this Los Angeles suburb. They waved it on.

They were wrong — by one inch.

The big rig tore down four 20-foot steel girders Thursday. Engineers estimated the mishap would delay construction a month.

The truck, too, was damaged extensively, but driver Tony Esparza escaped unhurt.

Ask Reassigning Of Negro Pupils

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Reassignment requests for four Negro children from Negro schools to white schools were before the Charlotte School Board today.

The petitions from Kelly M. Alexander, state president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roberts were disclosed Thursday.

Alexander seeks to have his two sons, Kelly Jr., 10, and Alfred, 6, assigned from Negro to white schools. A similar request on behalf of Kelly Jr. was rejected last year.

The Roberts seek to have a daughter, Girvaud, reassigned from the 10th grade at Second Ward to the white Garinger High, and a son, Lavalle George Roberts, reassigned from a Negro school to the white Piedmont school.

Girvaud attended the white Piedmont Junior High for two years but was assigned to a Negro school at the end of the last school term. The Roberts' son, Gus, was graduated from the white Central High this year.

Previously, two Negro children were assigned to white schools for the next school year, the third year of limited integration in Charlotte.

Legislature Kept In Long Session

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma Legislature is setting a new record every day it meets. And it's still sailing along loudly under a brisk wind.

Never before has the Legislature stayed at the non-air conditioned capitol so late in the spring.

The 23rd week of the 27th session ends Saturday and it may go three more weeks.

Legislators have been so busy sniffing at legal liquor they haven't got around to providing money to run the state the next two fiscal years.

Four months ago the Legislature, prodded by young Gov. J. Howard Edmondson, called an election on ending Oklahoma's 51 years of prohibition.

Repeal was adopted April 7. Since that time the House and Senate have been trying to decide how big a liquor tax should be. Whether liquor ads are really bad and if it's all right to drink in public.

So tight were proposed restrictions on drinking, one rural lawmaker complained he'd have to go to a privy to get drunk. The restrictions have been eased, but the bill still is hanging fire.

There have been other problems.

The Senate argued for days over legislation to curb county commissioners. Opponents branded it the Tasmanian wolf bill and described the monster so horribly the bill was killed.

Many a day starts with an hour or so of lawmakers' comments on Edmondson's youth, his "crew cut" aides, and his proposed reforms.

Edmondson, 33 and red-haired, fought legislative fire with fire, by firing several senators' patronage employes. They screamed, then dug a quick grave for his proposed merit system for state employes.

Aside from repeal the only administration bill to make it through both houses is one setting up a withholding system for state income taxes.

Bud Abbott Eyes A New Partner

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bud Abbott hopes to ease his tax troubles by forming a comedy team with vaudeville veteran Eddie Foy Jr.

Abbott, longtime straightman for the late Lou Costello, said Thursday "despite my tax problems, I think Eddie and I can come up with some jolly stuff."

No Worry! Good Stands Good Yields, Good Quality! Plenty Profits! Money in the Bank!

Here is What a Few of the Users of HENDRIX-BARNHILL IRRIGATION SYSTEMS SAY . . .

H. R. and Carl Crawford — Greenville

We used a Hendrix-Barnhill System this year. We believe it made us from two to three hundred dollars per acre on 27 acres. We liked the service we received at Hendrix-Barnhill Company.

Lester Branch & Bernice Branch
Winterville

We purchased an irrigation system from Hendrix-Barnhill in July just before we topped our tobacco out. We irrigated our crop twice. It added more than $200 per acre on our 22 acres that we irrigated. Therefore, we know it overpaid for itself during the 1958 season.

H. G. Stocks — Greenville

I bought my irrigation system from Hendrix-Barnhill in 1956. I think it paid over one-half cost of system the first year in increased yield and quality. I have had it three years and my yield and quality of tobacco has been good. I would hate to farm without an irrigation system. The service at Hendrix-Barnhill is excellent.

J. H. Tucker — Simpson

My four acre irrigation system was purchased from Hendrix-Barnhill Company during 1958. In my opinion, it is the finest system bought anywhere. It, no doubt, added two hundred fifty ($250.00) dollars per acre to my tobacco sales this year. I hope the time will never come when I will have to be without it, because I can fertilize as heavy as I like knowing that my system is available to provide ample water. All in all, this fine system causes worry and doubt to decrease while the profit dollars increases.

When shopping in confidence, always remember Hendrix-Barnhill Company in Greenville, North Carolina.

Claim Underground Testing Is Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today handed Russia a White House scientific report saying would-be atomic test ban violators probably could muffle underground nuclear blasts.

The presidential advisory scientists figured that it would take three years to develop underground atomic blast detectors as good as those that Geneva test ban negotiators had believed were available before new information came in from underground shots.

The U.S. officials said, however, that the findings by the scientists under Dr. Lloyd Berkner do not change the American position in favor of halting atomic tests if a control system is set up to enforce the ban.

They said the control system being negotiated with the Soviets on the basis of earlier scientific information is basically sound.

The new scientific data sheds more light on what is needed for enforceable controls, they said.

The Berkner study was given to the Soviets at Geneva, where test ban talks have been going on since Oct. 31. It was hoped to serve as a prod to the communists to reverse previous refusals to discuss the later scientific information available from U.S. test blasts conducted in Nevada last fall.

The Berkner group figured that at the current state of knowledge, and with use of 180 detection stations set up around the world there still would be a need for further inspection to make sure an estimated 300 earthquakes annually were not sneak nuclear tests.

This compares with 20 to 100 unidentified events that Geneva experts last year figured would occur annually. It compares also with the 1,500 unidentified natural events with power equal to five kilotons — small atomic — shots, that U.S. scientists after reviewing Nevada test data, estimated would require further investigation each year.

Roman Students Staged Skirmish

ROME (AP) — Students skirmished outside Rome's city hall Thursday night and inside Communist and Fascist city councilmen almost came to blows. The reason was the mayor's refusal to celebrate the 15th anniversary on June 4 of Rome's liberation from the Nazis.

The fireworks started when 26 Communist and Socialist councilmen filed a motion of no confidence against Mayor Urbano Cioccetti, a member of Italy's ruling Christian Democratic party.

Cioccetti has said such a celebration would open old wounds.

The council will take up the no confidence motion at a secret session later in the week.

Nobody Can Read Navajo Sentence

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — Flagstaff Daily Sun wanted a translation for one sentence written in the native Navajo language.

The newspaper sent the sentence to its Washington reporter. He took the sentence to the Bureau of Indian Affairs. There were no Navajos employed there.

Nor were there any Navajos working in any of the eight offices of the New Mexico and Arizona Congressional delegations. Finally, the reporter found a Navajo in the U.S. Health Service. He couldn't speak Navajo.

Offer Changes In Vehicle Laws

RALEIGH (AP)—A bill which makes a number of changes in the state motor vehicle laws was passed by the House Thursday and sent to the Senate.

The measure would make it illegal to drive under the influence of intoxicants on the premises or grounds of filling stations, drive-in theatres, stores, restaurants, office buildings or parking lots.

The bill also would:

—Make it unlawful for habitual users of narcotics drugs to drive motor vehicles on the highways;

—Require windshield wipers in front of the drivers to be in good working order;

—Place a 45-mile-per-hour speed limit on all vehicles towing or pushing another vehicle;

—Provide that the penalty for a second offense of drunken driving applies when it comes within three years of the first offense and the penalty for a third offense applies when it comes within five years of a prior conviction.

In debate on the bill, House members, mostly lawyers, voted against a proposal to plug a little loophole in the motor vehicle laws.

The existing law authorizes the State Motor Vehicles Department to suspend licenses of persons "convicted" twice in a 12-month period of speeding over 55 and less than 75.

Rep. Tim Valentine of Nash said the loophole developed because the law doesn't say a word about "when" the offenses were committed. A smart lawyer can get his client off, Valentine explained, by having trial of a second offense continued until after the year following a conviction is up.

The house was reportedly occupied by the Russell McMillian family.
